Clarkston cityhood decision Jan. 16

Voters still have final say if boundary commission gives OK to cityhood

BY RENEE GLOVINSKY Clarkston News Staff Writer

After a two-year wait, Clarkston Village Council members will soon hear word of whether or not the village will enter into "cityhood."

During the village council meeting Jan. 8, officials announced that a decision will be made by the Michigan Boundary Commission in Lansing Tuesday, Jan. 16, at

After the meeting, Trustee William Basinger said the boundary commission's decision does not mean that Clarkston will automatically become a city.

"The council has approved to hold an election," said Basinger. "What this means is that even if the boundary commission votes in favor of cityhood, the final decision will be determined by Clarkston voters.'

According to Basinger, if cityhood is approved by the state, the village still has 45 days to request an election within the community. If there is no request within those 45 days, the village would automatically become a city. 'It's a very important issue," said Basinger. "Even though we are highly in favor of cityhood, we feel that the community should have the final say."

Since council members plan to call for an election if state approval occurs, certain criteria must be met:

■ First, at least 35 signatures from community voters must be obtained in this election.

■ Second, another election would then be held to determine a charter commissioner (one who would draft up a charter for the new city touching on all aspects of

Finally, a third election would be held to vote on the charter itself.

■ After this whole process is completed, the village would then be named a city.

Three Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD) deputies have been added to the police force covering Independence Township.

The addition of the three officers, effective Jan. 1, brings the number of police patrolling the township to 15.

Independence Township contracts with Oakland County for use of the deputies, and the police operation runs from the Independence Township substation, located next to township hall. The Village of Clarkston contracts with the township for police coverage from the county.

The additions were necessary due to the growing population and higher number of calls, said (OCSD) Sgt. Joe Quisenberry, who now works as substation supervi-

The three additional officers include a substation supervisor, an investigator and a patrolman.

The primary function of officers in Independence is to handle complaints and investigations, respond to traffic accidents and to patrol traffic within township boundaries. Ouisenberry said.

as we get the minimum amount of signatures," said Basinger

Assuming that the proposal is approved, the entire process would take no less than 12-14 months.

If the boundary commission denies the proposal for various reasons, then the village would have the chance to file for an appeal -- but the chance of becoming a city at that point would be slim, said Basinger

If the village becomes a city, changes would be few said Basinger. Some of these changes include:

■ City would perform own assessment of property

- City would hold all elections including state.
- City would no longer pay township property taxes ■ City would no longer vote for township officials

"It's not that we want to be separate from the (Independence) township, we just want to maintain and preserve our individuality and uniqueness," said Sharron Catallo, village council president.

Celebrating religious freedom

Religious freedom is something Americans often take for granted. However, on Jan. 16, Religious Freedom Day, people across the country are encouraged to stop and consider that they are able to practice whatever religion they choose.

Religious Freedom Day originates from a statute adopted by the Virginia legislature on Jan. 16, 1786. That statue protected Virginians against any requirement to attend or support a particular church and protected them against discrimination.

Drafted by Thomas Jefferson and introduced by James Madison, the statute was later the model for the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

A CANDLELIGHT ceremony marked the 150th birthday of the Clarkston United Methodist Church. The procession began at the old church on Buffalo Street, Clarkston, and ended up at the "new" church on Waldon Road. Chili was served before the ceremony, and coffee and hot chocolate were served afterward.

United Methodist celebrates sesquicentennial

BY JULIE CAMPE Clarkston News Editor

The bell tolled 150 times at the Catallo residence in Clarkston Jan. 7, while about 60 people held candles outside the historical building.

The sesquicentennial of the Clarkston United Methodist Church was the occasion for the glowing ceremony.

The celebration began with a chili dinner at the present church on Waldon Road — church members brought their own concoctions from home and mixed them together for the group serving. The meal also included cake, Jello and rolls.

Then, the group met at the Catallo residence at the corner of Church and Buffalo streets — the site of the original church, established in 1840 and built in 1840 or 1841.

There, the Rev. Douglas Trebilcock, minister of the church for five years, read a proclamation, while Stan White and Ralph "Doc" Thayer held a church banner. Also in the ceremony were Tina Sutherland, who held the cross, and Brent Thompson, who held the candle lighter.

With lit candles, the procession moved down Church Street to the present church, built about 30 years ago. An outdoor ceremony with the choir was held there, followed by a burning of the Christmas greens.

Then, just as if it had been planned, the moon appeared over the steeple.

Finally, coffee and hot chocolate topped off the evening, along with good fellowship.

"It was wonderful, very moving," said Trebilcock, after the ceremony. "It's nice to be together celebrating 150 years."

Trebilcock now leads about 1,200 church members in worship — the largest Methodist church in the Flint district and one of the largest in the state.

But 150 years ago, the Rev. Silas Smith inspired six couples to build the very first church, according to Vir(See CANDLELIGHT, next page)

But with the Rev. Smith is strong, dynamic personality, the group decided to build a church in 1840. However, money was in short supply, and for seven years there were no windows.

"That shows their faith," said Walter.
As for Smith, "what came of him I don't know," said
Walter

Eventually, the wooden church was moved away, and the brick church was built in its place in 1873—now the home of Clarence and Sharron Catallo.

"The Catallos have been very gracious," said Walter, adding that the couple lit candles and hurricane holders in their driveway for the occasion.

The old brick church carries special meaning for many of the church members, Walter said.

Doc Thayer remembers chasing pigeons from the belfry of the 1873 church, she said, adding that he climbed a rickety old ladder that still had bark on the wood.

The ladder still exists within the Catallo residence.

"It was wonderful, very moving. It's nice to be together celebrating 150 years."

The Rev. Douglas Trebilcock

The sesquicentennial program was just the start of a year-long celebration, said Walter, adding that monthly activities are planned, as well as the publication of church history in 1991.

"It was a very meaningful ceremony," she said.

Help pick Woman of the Year

Know any outstanding women? Now's your chance to recognize their hard work.

The Waterford-Clarkston Business and Professional Women's Club is seeking nominations for Woman of the Year.

This annual award is designed to honor women who have distinguished themselves in their careers and/or communities.

Any woman living or working in the Waterford-Clarkston area is eligible; she need not be a professional or affiliated with an organization.

Selection will be made on the basis of leadership and service to the community.

Nomination forms are available from Margaret Priebe at Oakland Office Machines, Inc., Suite 112 Clarkston Commons, 6751 Dixie Highway, at M-15 from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday.

You may also submit an information sheet naming the candidate and stating her address, employment, education, achievements and organizational affiliations. Nominations will be accepted by Margaret until Feb. 15, 1990

The winner of the Woman of the Year award will be honored at BPW's dinner meeting at Deer Lake Racquet Club on March 8, 1990.

$1.23 million summer school improvements OK'd

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN Clarkston News Staff Writer

Over $1.23 million in building improvements within Clarkston schools was unanimously approved by the school board Jan. 8.

Money to pay for the construction comes from a $5.2 million bond issue approved by voters in June 1988. Work is to begin in summer.

By approving the projects in January, bids may be back by March — possibly with lower costs since the construction business starts to pick up in spring, said Judy Miller of Greiner, Inc., the Farmington Hills-based architect for the school district.

Following is the list of improvements and estimated

Andersonville Elementary: $206,300 — adding ventilators for fresh air and heat purposes; replacing heating system and recirculation pumps; renovating of restrooms, including making two barrier free for handicapped users and repairing damages in two.

Bailey Lake Elementary: $257,600 — repaving of the parking lot; upgrading existing ventilators and adding three ventilators; making two toilet rooms barrier free for handicapped users and repairing damaged partitions and fixtures in two restrooms; adding a new public announcement system; fire alarm; and emergency lighting.

Clarkston Elementary: $223,000 — upgrading existing unit ventilators and seven new ventilators; making two restrooms barrier free and repairing damages in two restrooms; and replacing existing boiler.

North Sashabaw Elementary: $19,000 - upgrading ventilators throughout the school and in the media

Pine Knob Elementary: $34,500 - repairing damages in restrooms.

Clarkston Junior High: $1,725 — replacing a rusted metal door in the auditorium.

Sashabaw Junior High: $128,800 - installing washable ceiling pads to replace the existing kitchen ceiling, required to meet health department standards; adding air conditioning to kitchen; replacing rusted hollow metal windows and doors with aluminum thermalbreak frames and glass.

Clarkston High School: $17,300—renovating two restrooms to make them barrier free to handicapped users; installing a new fire alarm system and emergency light-

Clarkston Community Learning Center: $212,000 - renovating two restrooms so they're barrier free to handicapped users; adding ventilators to nine rooms; replacing existing boiler and associated piping; replacing overhead power lines with underground lines.

Special Services: $2,300 — adding night set-back controls for heating and air conditioning.

Clarkston Board of Education: $23,100 -- adding an air conditioning unit to the data processing room and upgrading the air distribution system.

Clarkston Bus Maintenance Facility: $109,200 installing an overhead carbon monoxide exhaust vent; replacing existing fuel storage tanks with new tanks.

Financial aid night

Parents of college-bound seniors may want to attend the upcoming Financial Aid Night at the Clarkston High School Auditorium 7 p.m. Thursday, Jan.

Carla Bender of Oakland University's Financial Aid Office is to discuss commonly used financial aid forms, such as the Financial Aid Form and the Family Financial Statement.

The program is free and is especially useful for parents who are going through this for the first time, says CHS counselor Victor Hart.

Sometimes the forms are as difficult to fill out as a tax return statement, Hart says.

What's with the shoes?

On my way to work this morning, I saw a large brown workboot in the middle of the M-15 bridge over I-75.

I can only imagine the poor construction worker hobbling along with one boot on today. How could that have happened? Did he run across the street so fast that it fell off without him knowing about it?

Why didn't he return to get it?

This very same morning, I saw a blue slipper or boot in the middle of M-15 in downtown Clarkston. This was a bit smaller than the workboot — a child's, perhaps, or a female's.

Did some kid forget to change into boots before leaving school and have to carry boots home in his backpack? Maybe one fell out on his way home.

Or maybe it was a woman's slipper. Perhaps she had to chase her cat in the middle of the night, and her slipper fell off in the middle of the road. Or maybe her cat took it from her bedroom and dropped it in the middle of the road during a midnight ramble.

Maybe there's some sort of shoe terrorist in town who steals just one shoe and derives secret pleasure from imagining how crazy it must drive shoe owners — rushing around, trying to find that missing shoe before work or school.

Or perhaps some people were kidnaped and stuffed into the back of a pickup truck. They probably didn't have breadcrumbs, so maybe they just threw shoes one at a time out the back of the truck to mark their trail.

If I would have driven further down the road, maybe I could have followed the trail and found the poor kidnaping victims.

All day, images of single-shoed people keep coming to mind. It reminds me of the movie "Chinatown" with Jack Nicholsen.

In it, a character named Mullroy loses a shoe when he apparently drowns.

Then Nicholsen's character loses a shoe when a powerful stream of water crashes down on him suddenly from a pipe above.

Nicholsen then walks around soaking wet, hobbling on one foot and mumbling about his Florsheim shoes.

Before the water, his shoes were shiny and freshly polished.

I wonder what you could tell about a person just from seeing his or her shoes. Maybe someday it will be like handwriting, and certain people will examine photographs of shoes (or the shoes themselves) to deduce important facets of the owner's personality.

Deanna Johnson, an advertising salesperson for The Clarkston News, has a pair of shoes for every outfit—all colors, even red and purple (does she have black, I wonder?).

With some, you never notice their shoes. Maybe they're not blindingly shiny, so you're never enticed to look down. Or maybe they're constructed to blend carefully with an outfit so as not to attract ariy undo attention.

If there is such a thing as a shoe analyst, would he consider the smell when making his determination?

Or would he only consider color, which part of the sole is worn down, which part of the shoe is scuffed, whether it's polished or waterproofed?

Appreciation for a great husband

Being a mother of two children: Taylor (girl), 4, and Travis (boy), 2, isn't easy by far. In fact, I think it's been one of my most challenging roles yet.

So many times in our society you hear the negative side of motherhood from women who aren't appreciated enough and who carry the full load of parenting upon their shoulders.

I would like to take a minute to say thank you to a special friend of mine: my husband, Mark Thompson.

He works 56 hours a week for Troy Design Services. His job title is senior designer (auto body design).

He landscapes and gardens and is an amateur photographer. He also plays baseball in the spring and summer.

I'm a stay-at-home mom attending Oakland Community College-Highland Lakes Campus by evening, pursuing a career in elementary teaching.

What makes Mark stand out from the rest is his remarkable skills at being father, friend, husband.

He not only participates in changing diapers and story time, but he does laundry, dishes and also makes an incredible lasagna!

He comes home from a long day at work and hasn't even removed his coat before our children are crawling all over him to wrestle.

He walks to me with a kiss and hug and tells me how beautiful I look — me, wearing my jogging suit that's hanging to the floor by this time, and my hair and face don't look much better.

After our dinner, he does the dishes and pours me a hot cup of tea he's just brewed and helps to bathe and ready the children for bed.

When they are dressed and all snug in their beds with "nite-nite" water on their bedside tables, Mark goes into one room and I into the other. We tell stories and sing songs, kiss the kids good night and meet each other downstairs when the ritual is done. We sit and drink our tea together and talk about our day together.

Sometimes, not always, I feel like pulling my hair out of my head because of stages the kids are going through or disorganization or whatever, but Mark is always there, saying how great I am — to be exact: "I could never walk one day in your shoes, Tam."

Or saying, "You sure do a great job at running this show, Honey."

So in a nutshell, I wrote this piece to say thank-you back. To my husband, my friend, Mark Thompson.

We, as senior citizens, let us not forget to thank our youth of today.

I would like to give a special thank you to Joshua Zian, my neighbor and a fifth-grade student at Sashabaw Elementary School.

The next day, he came to visit me at the Goodrich hospital.

Thanks again, Josh.

Mixed thoughts from my mixed 1990 mind. TODAY'S MOVIE (TV) lawmen stand with their feet apart and both hands on the gun they aim at the bad guys. Can you imagine a lawman of the Old West doing such a thing? Of course, the lawmen of the Old West didn't wear an earning either.

CHRISTMAS 1989 Norrine Valentine gave me a roll of wrapping paper printed with newspaper classifieds. I just got around to reading one. "Help Wanted: Call Santa Sweep for complete chimney cleaning. 'When you've got Claus to be alarmed.' Call HO-HO-HO." And, "Tutors needed to teach elfabet at Elf Training School."

WE BOUGHT a used 16-mm movie camera in about 1954 because we were told, "You will love it later". We have several hundred feet of film that we took prior to 1965. In the last 25 years we have watched it maybe twice. I suppose we'll "love it later."

LIKE MOST lads in the depression I had my hair cut by my dad with hand clippers. I can still feel individual hairs being pulled rather than cut.

OFTEN WHEN looking into our refrigerator I wish I'd gone to work for Westinghouse. If I had I would have invented some kind of device with a shocking system or warning signal that wouldn't allow short items to be stored in the tall item space. Cheeses, jams, cans and left-overs should be forbidden in milk bottle, juice jar and quart-plus container space.

UNDER MY government, elected officials would have to show they earned a raise rather than getting one because they lived one year longer.

LOVE THE NAMES and addresses "Dick E. Bird News" gives people in their Man-On-The-Street interviews. Like... Will B. Teaparty, Boston, MA., I. M. Horrified, Stomptha, Flor., Mora D. Mooney, Low, Cal. and Ben Taken, Once, Mo.

WHY DON'T judges sentence criminals right after they have been found guilty? Even when the sentence is mandated, judges set a sentencing date weeks ahead. Sometimes it ought to be like former Oxford attorney Bob Parenti used to say when his profession was chided by a friend: "We ought to shoot 'em, then try 'em."

LAST WEEK a man was rescued on Saginaw Bay after being stranded 50 hours. He said he survived the cold by tunneling into the snow. He must have read that's what pheasants, quail and rabbits do. Their bodies retain more heat when bedded down in deep snow. Seems the snowflakes trap dead air, which is good insulation.

THE UNNECESSARY Zilwaukee bridge, which isn't done yet, has taken over nine years to construct. five years after its projected completion date. It cost $59 million more than the cost estimate of $76.8 million. When you drive over it in a car the rails are so high you can't see anything except your tax dollars at work. When I drive over it all I see is red. Now I read where part of one camp was built over contaminants and may have to be tomout. What happened to the people who voted to build that mistake? They were probably re-elected and vacationing in Hawaii.

Life's comedy is in the cards

Jim Fitzgerald

Professional critics described the husband vs. wife movie "War of the Roses" as black comedy. My wife asked for a definition, and I said black comedy is not really funny, but you can't help laughing. Black comedy is satire, often exaggerated to the point of maining or death. For the sake of comparison, I said our 35-year-old marriage could be called white comedy, as I hardly ever wanted to murder her.

For instance:

I was awakened by a soft, erotic "slap, slap, slap" sound coming from the other side of the bed. I opened an eye to see what she was doing. She was putting the reds on the blacks, and vice versa."Why are you playing solitaire in bed?" I asked. "Is it something we should talk about?"

I read Dr. Joyce Brothers and the other pop psychologists, so I know the principal reason for domestic discord is a lack of communication between partners, especially in the bedroom. As Ann Landers once put it: "Tell him what you want, Honey; otherwise how is he going to know?"

"Why didn't you tell me you wanted to play cards in bed?" I asked.

"I didn't think it was any use. You never play cards with me anywhere," she said. persuaded me to go to bridge school and then form a bridge club with several classmates. Up until then; I had played nothing except poker and euchre. I had always thought card games were social events calling for a steady flow of witty conversation and cool refreshment. I was dismayed to learn that bridge players are silent frowners, crazed by fear of losing, who worry too much about getting the cards wet.

I refused to attend the second bridge club meeting and all meetings thereafter.

Ever since, my wife has punished me by exaggerating my crime. Without actually saying it, she has continually accused me of refusing to ever-play any type of card game with her while often "playing poker with the boys." She has a sneaky talent for making this type of charge without using precise language I can refute. For instance, she announced the birth of our third child by telling everyone she finally had a fourth at home.

But playing solitaire in bed was something she had never done before. I feared a double-edged complaint. In her silent manner, was she not only saying she had to play cards alone, but also that she might as well do it in bed?

"We have to talk," I said. "What is it you're trying to tell me?"

"I can't sleep," she said.

There has to be more to it than that, If I told Dr. Brothers I woke up to find my wife playing solitaire in bed, she would say we should make love on a bridge table.

"She would say we should open communications concerning your real feelings toward me. She would say that, deep down, beneath your placid exterior, you have suppressed feelings. Any brilliant psychologist could tell you that you're missing a fulfilled life because you refuse to recognize that your husband is a handsome, exciting man. He is not boring."

She was beginning to nod off.

I sensed our marriage had reached crossroads. In fact, I thought I heard traffic. She was snoring.

That's when I made my move. I rolled to her side of the bed, took her in both arms, and shook her. Her eyes opened.

"I have to talk to you," I said.

"Say it quick: I'm tired."

If it were black comedy. I would have socked her

But this was white comedy, so I said:
"You put a red six on a red seven."

Frustrated over taxes, assessments

Attention all you happy homeowners who just received your new tax assessment on your homes.

We want you to hurry right down in February and vote yes to pass the millage, so your taxes can go even higher, so in 1991 the assessor can raise your evaluation again, and then the schools can say, as they have done before a year after the millage passed: "Oh, dear, we have no money. Sorry, we'll have to cut the school day — no bus service, no sports, no extracurricular activities."

We have been reading articles in this paper urging people to organize to help pass the millage. Where is the organization you can join to help not pass it?

Even without the millage being passed, with the new evaluations, look how much extra they will get.

Mine went up $17,300 since last year on our 16year-old, two-story, painted wood home with no family room or furnished basement.

In the past four years, our evaluation has gone up over $35,000, and we have done nothing except pain the exterior. That's more than just a few dollars extra for our so-called in-trouble schools.

And that's just me. Can you guess what is on the fancy homes being built here in subdivisions in Clarkston? Open your eyes, Public, and look around at these houses. Someone is getting rich, and all parts of government say it's not us.

We want to know how people can afford this. We don't know about anyone else, but we are frustrated as we watch the government take over our so-called home.

It seems the only way you can hold it down at all with any say is to vote no on school millages. Do some of these organizers really believe we are stupid enough to actually go out and vote yes to raise our taxes even higher?

Education tops governor's list

In view of some recent inaccurate statements that have been made regarding Michigan's investment in higher education, I want to make sure that you have the facts about what has been accomplished in the area of higher education policy and funding under the Blanchard administration.

Since 1983, annual state funding for our state universities has increased by $557 million, or 82 percent.

During that same period, inflation, measured by the Detroit Consumer Price Index, increased by only 28 percent.

Included in this funding has been the establishment of the Research Excellence Fund, which has channeled $129 million to projects that have put Michigan at the cutting edge of "job creating," economic development-related research; the Martin Luther King-Caesar Chavez-Rosa Parks programs, which are aimed at increasing the number of minorities on the faculties of our universities; the Teaching Excellence Fund, to improve the quality of instruction at our universities by rewarding outstanding faculty members; and the Michigan Education Opportunity Grant, Michigan Work STudy and part-time independent student programs, which target additional financial aid to selected groups of students.

In addition to these newly established programs, we have invested or are planing to invest over $1 billion in the expansion and maintenance of universities' facilities, which represents the largest capital investment that the state has committed in any area, including corrections.

We have also undertaken steps to keep college education accessible and affordable.

Since 1983, funding for financial aid programs has been doubled, and an ongoing policy of tuition freezes and restraints has been established.

Furthermore, our highly successful and innovative Michigan Education Trust (MET), the first of its kind in the nation, enables parents to make a down payment that will guarantee there child's tuition at one of Michigan's state universities.

As of today, almost 50,000 children have been enrolled in the MET program.

Investments in education, from preschool through higher education, represent Gov. Blanchard's highest priority, as demonstrated by the fact that 36 percent of the state budget goes to education.

As we look ahead, we will continue to pursue policies and make investments that further enhance the quality, accessibility and affordability of Michigan's excellent system of higher education.

Department of Management and Budget

Keys can help cars in winter

AAA Michigan answers more emergency road service calls for cars unable to start than any other reason.

But many of these problems are preventable, said Robert Tellier, AAA Michigan Emergency Road Service

The best way to avoid starting problems is to make sure your battery is OK," Tellier said. "At zero degrees, your battery has 35 percent less starting power than it does during the summer."

Check the battery's fluid level. If the fluid does not come to the indicated level, fill with distilled or clean tap water. On sealed or maintenance-free batteries, check the owner's manual for inspection instructions.

Loose battery cables should be tightened and frayed ones replaced. Corrosion on battery cables and posts also affects performance. Clean these areas with a baking soda and water mixture. Be careful not to splash the powdered acid on the car's paint or yourself.

Cold weather also calls for different steps when starting your car.

Drivers with fuel-injected cars may follow these general guidelines but consult your owner's manual for specific starting information: *Do not pump the gas pedal. Simply turn the key and release when engine catches.

* If engine fails to start; slightly depress and hold the gas pedal while turning the key.

*If engine does not start after 10 seconds, wait 10 to 15 seconds before another attempt.

For cars without fuel injection:

* Press the gas pedal to the floor once. Release the pedal and turn the ignition key.

* Don't grind the starter more than 10 seconds and don't pump the accelerator.

* Wait 30 seconds between tries.

* If you smell gas, the engine is probably flooded. Turn off the ignition and push the pedal to the floor for one minute. Keep the pedal depressed while you turn the key.

Once the car starts, warm it up briefly before driving

Nan's Beauty Talk

If you are like most Americans you made a number of New Year's resolutions. You want to improve your life, accumulate wealth and attain financial freedom.

I am pleased to invite you to learn about a business that is the most lucrative opportunity I have seen. How lucrative? A business associate of mine is making over $20,000 per month less than a year after incorporating this opportunity into her company. Part-time individuals have the potential to net $50,000 a year! A 36 year old man earned $18,000 in one month working less than 30 hours! I call that pretty lucrative.

This is a business opportunity that anyone can take advantage of. I urge you to contact me this week and set your appointment. Spend one hour in my office and you too could be living the American dream. NANCY OVERFIELD (313) 623-6654.

New service offered to Independence, Springfield residents

Recycling: who and when

Independence Township:

Engineering plans are being drawn up for a new recycling facility to be located at the township department of public works building.

The facility will provide a central sorting area for recyclable materials collected by haulers; no processing will take place. The facility should be in operation by late summer, 1990.

In the meantime, the township may utilize a temporary sorting bin for drop-off materials, which will be provided by Clarkston Disposal.

Springfield Township:
Springfield Township officials are considering plans for a similar recycling facility proposed by Clarkston Disposal's Rick Detkowski.

The plans were recently tabled by the township's planning commission and board of appeals; Detkowski says he is encouraged by the township's reaction to date and hopes to gain necessary approvals for the facility within the next few months to begin construction in April, 1990.

The facility will be used to sort recyclable material for transport to a processing facility.

Al's Disposal Service:

Beginning Feb. 1, Al's will pick up recyclable materials from residents throughout Springfield Township. Recycling pails will be distributed for newspapers and glass; the pails will be picked up by a separate truck on the customers regular garbage day.

Clarkston Disposal Service, Inc.:

Along with the proposed Springfield Township recycling center and the proposed drop-off bin for Independence Township, Clarkston Disposal will expand its existing curbside recycling service in April.

Along with the newspapers picked up now, residents can dispose of their bottles and cans for recycling by leaving them at the curb in special containers on their designated pick-up day.

Moore's Disposal, Inc.:

Recycling service is planned by the Clarkston area hauler; however details were not available for this printing

Smith's Disposal & Recycling, Inc.:

Some Smith's customers may begin disposing of materials for recycling by Jan. 22. The company plans to begin service to customers in and around the immediate Village of Clarkston limits at that time and may expand later.

Customers with Monday and Thursday garbage service will be covered. The company will accept newspaper, glass and aluminum materials; special bins will be provided.

able to residents.

The four: Al's Disposal Service; Clarkston Disposal Service, Inc.; Moore's Disposal, Inc.; and Smith's Disposal & Recycling, Inc., will each pick up recyclable materials on their regular residential routes, sort it and transport it to a recycling facility.

Two of the four are expanding the limited recycling services they offer now: Clarkston Disposal will soon pick up more than just newspapers, and Smith's Disposal will now serve its residential customers.

"We're doing it because area landfills are running out of room," says Darleen Cox of Smith's Disposal.

39 S. MAIN CLARKSTON planned soon

"We can't continue to put stuff into the ground and pollute our groundwater," adds Rick Detkowski, owner of Clarkston Disposal.

Recycling may be important, but it is hardly profitable for haulers.

Few local recycling facilities will accept waste from other communities, forcing haulers to transport the materials to Detroit.

"Oakland County is really promoting this, but we're having a difficult time finding a place to take (the materials)," Cox says.

The recycling facilities that are available do pay for materials they receive, but the money doesn't even cover gas for the drive to the facility, Cox explains.

The Clarkston (Mich.) News Wed., Jan. 10, 1990 11

"We've got $30,000 wrapped into it already," says Leonard Smith of Smith Disposal. "We'll never get that money back. But something has got to be done.

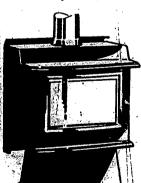

Township and Oakland County officials have encouraged garbage haulers to adopt recycling services; some haulers have responded by polling their customers about whether they would use the service.

"Response has been good, very good," says Smith, adding that about 1,500 of 2,000 customers responded positively.

About 25 percent of Al's Disposal customers responded to a similar poll.

Most haulers plan to start recycling service with the customers that have responded. The customers will receive special containers for recyclable material and will

Attorney begins home-buying service

A new home-buying service to even the odds for the buyer has been started in northern Oakland County by Clarkston area resident Gerald I Krafsur, an attorney.

Called Home Buyer First, it focuses the attention of its clients on the "Offer to Purchase" rather than the

The Offer to Purchase is the contract, Krafsur said. The closing is simply the signing of the paperwork.

In Michigan, whether the Offer to Purchase is drafted by the seller's realtor or the buyer's realtor, both realtors are legally bound to represent the seller because the sales commission is paid by the seller.

The standard pre-printed form realtors use is proseller, Krafsur said. The Offer to Purchase drafted by Home Buyer First is the opposite.

It is in the "Offer" that the buyer must strike the bargain. If the buyer wants the drapery to be there at move in, or the right to inspect for termites, or a working furnace, it must be stated in the offer.

A one-sided offer is usually the basis for an unhappy transaction and ongoing legal expense.

Ordinance may affect fines, car sales, scooters

BY TRACY KING Clarkston News Staff Writer

Three changes approved in Independence Township ordinances could affect how residents pay for parking violations, sell cars and use safety paths

Board members approved a first reading for the changes. The amendments must be published in area newspapers and be given a second reading before the

Reducing 'junk' mail

Tired of receiving all that junk mail in your mail box? There is a way to cut down on the flow of this advertising mail into the home.

Just write the Direct Marketing Association's Mail Preference Service and ask to be added to the DMA's name-removal file, a database of people who want to receive less advertising mail.

The file is made available on a quarterly basis to all DMA members, most of which honor the requests, according to DMA Media Relations Manager Chet Dalzell.

About 600,000 people have taken advantage of the Mail Preference Service since it was started.

DMA, which represents nearly 3,000 direct-marketing companies, also offers a Telephone Preference Service for people who want to receive fewer telephone solicitations.

Letters requesting the free service should give your name, address including ZIP code, and telephone number including area code. DMA is at 6 East 43rd St., New York, NY 10007.

Reporter's Notebook

Looking young is supposed to be a blessing, but it can also have its problems. In her first week on the job, a new Clarkston News reporter was assigned to get pictures of some students at Clarkston High School.

However, a teacher mistook her for a student and sent her to her "classroom." Luckily, she talked her way out of a detention.

Reporters at The Clarkston News have made a new friend, though they've never talked to her.

Sounder, a Labrador-shepherd mix, occasionally looks out from her second story apartment above Coach's Corner on Main Street, Clarkston, and nods to the reporters on the second floor of The Clarkston News office, across the street from her.

She belongs to Steve Nicholsen, who runs the winter basketball league for Independence Township Parks and Recreation.

Marilyn Allyn, director of Clarkston Community Education, had a good excuse to leave the Clarkston Board of Education meeting early Jan. 8.

She had to get an opossum out of her garage, she said.

The hog and pig inventory on Michigan farms on Dec. 1 showed a marginal increase over a year ago, according to Michigan Agricultural Statistics Service which regularly sends press releases to The Clarkston News, but we don't usually use their information.

This month, we thought we'd share their latest statistics with you:

Total inventory of hogs and pigs, estimated at 1.26 million head, was up 10,000 head from last December. (Nationally, there's an estimated 53.9 million liead of hogs and pigs, 3 percent below last December.)

Average litter rate of 7.8 pigs was unchanged from last December. (National average litter rate was 7.74 pigs. a 2 percent improvement from the previous year.)

board before they become law.

A change in the parking violations bureau specifies that when a resident is fined $10 for a parking violation, the fine will be reduced to $5 if it is paid within five calendar days. The amendment further states that if a violation is issued for parking illegally in a handicapped space, the fine will be $45.

The Uniform Traffic Code was amended to create two changes.

The first change prohibits the use of motorized vehicles, including mopeds and scooters, on township safety paths.

Although at one time the vehicles were allowed on the paths, the practice has been found to be unsafe, said township Treasurer John Lutz.

"I know some people have concerns that it might be safer to have the (motorized vehicles) on the paths; it just seems to be abused," Lutz said.

"The Safety Path Committee didn't feel they were safe with bicyclists and pedestrians on the safety paths.

"A scooter hit an individual on Maybee Road," Lutz added.

The second change affects where residents might park vehicles that are for sale.

Vehicles displaying advertising or merchandise may not be parked on non-residential property within 100 feet of a street right-of-way, unless the property is established as an automobile dealership.

"The Safety Path Committee didn't feel they were safe with bicyclists and pedestrians on the safety paths."

Treasurer John Lutz

Nonresidential property pertains to all land not zoned specifically for single family detached residences.

The ordinance does not apply to motor vehicles parked for less than three hours within a given period while the owner is involved with an activity on the premises.

Wolves leave Huskies howling, 68-61

BY RENEE GLOVINSKY Clarkston News Staff Writer

"What a game!" was echoed throughout the bleachers Friday night as the still undefeated Clarkston Wolves reached yet another victory over the Pontiac Northern Huskies, bringing them to a 6-0 record.

With the 68-61 final score, Clarkston fans were very happy with the surprise ending. The game was a struggle from the moment it began, when the Huskies took a three-point lead in the first quarter, making the score 16-19.

The score was tied up 24-24 in the second quarter with 3:26 on the clock. The Huskies took the lead again and ended period with a five-point lead, 25-30.

"We're conditioned for free throws and didn't have any problem making them."

Coach Dan Fife

The third quarter didn't look any more promising for Clarkston as they suffered from Pontiac's biggest lead of the evening, 25-32. Although the Wolves struggled for control, Pontiac maintained the lead throughout the third quarter.

And then it happened. Clarkston got serious.

With 6:09 left in the fourth, the score had become a standstill 47-47. Clarkston showed no mercy to its opponents. Many calls were against Northern, letting the Wolves do what they intended on doing all along—score. The final quarter remained neck-and-neck until Clarkston gained momentum, ending the game with a seven-point lead.

"This was a rough game," said coach Dan Fife, after the game.

"I was pretty concerned at halftime but pleased for the fourth. We're conditioned for free throws and didn't have any problem making them."

Sophomore Dugan Fife scored 16 total points, receiving three personal fouls; senior Reggie Reed scored 18 points with one personal foul; senior Bill Knight scored six points with three personal fouls; senior Jason Brown scored 12 points with three personal fouls; junior Gary Kaul scored five points, bringing in four personal fouls; and senior Scott Treckman scored 11 points.

The team as a whole played well, said Fife. "This was the hardest game Dugan has played yet," added the coach, who also happens to be Dugan's father.

"Dugan is still young and not physically strong enough and found it tough to get open. All the kids contributed this game, which is what we need to keep striving for."

Clarkston's next home game will be against Waterford Kettering, Friday, Jan. 19.

UNDEFEATED Wolves pick up momentum against the Pontiac Northern Huskies as they enter the fourth quarter on the way to triumph.

FINANCIAL ADVICE

James R. Filak, C.P.A. TAX UPDATE

In eleventh hour legislation just prior to adjournment for 1989, Congress passed the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1989. President Bush signed the bill into law on December 19. Included in this law is the Revenue Reconciliation Act of 1989, composed mainly of somewhat obscure tax provisions. I'll have more details on these tax provisions in future articles.

The 1989 legislation made no changes in the capital gains tax nor in the deductibility rules for IRAs. Both issues are expected to come up again in Congress also passed the Medicare Catastrophic Coverage Repeal Act of 1989 on November 22. This bill repeals the Medicare surtax. Tax forms for 1989 were printed before Congress repealed the surtax, so the forms will have instructions for calculating and a line for entering the surtax. Taxpayers should ignor both.

Section 89, the controversial 1986 Tax Act sion dsigned to eliminate discrimination in employee benefits plans, has been repealed. The nondiscrimination rules that were in effect prior to the 1986 Tax Reform Act have been reinstated.

The IRS has issued the depreciation limits for business cars first placed in service in 1989. Firstyear depreciation is limited to $2,660, second-year to $4,200, third-year to $2,550, and each succeeding year is limited to $1,475. These limits keep taxpayers from using a five-year write-off on "luxury" automobiles used in business.

The IRS announced a change in the mileage rate for business use of a vehicle. Retroactive to January 1, 1989, the rate is 25.5 cents for the first 15,000 business miles; thereafter the rate drops to 11 cents. Mileage for charitable activities remains at 12 cents a mile, and mileage for medical and moving costs remains at 9 cents a mile. For 1990, the mileage rate for ALL business miles will be 26 cents a mile.

McKoin and Jamie Law say the year ahead looks promising.

Season lookin' good

BY RENEE GLOVINSKY Clarkston News Staff Writer

The volleyball season is underway for the Clarkston Wolves. With a current standing of 2-2, the team sees room to grow, room to gain strength and a chance to beat

Senior tri-captains Jami Lerner, Susan McKoin and Jamie Law hold a positive team outlook and said they owe most of that to Coach Gordon Richardson.

"He cares, and he's very dedicated," said Law. 'Gordon gives us 150 percent.''

According to the captains, the Wolves were Greater Oakland Activities League champs in 1989 and are expected to be champs again.

"We're going to end up being really good," said Richardson, "because the team wants to be good."

Having 10 seniors on the 13-member team is a real advantage said Richardson. "If we do face a problem, we have 10 seniors who all want to play.'

Saturday was a disappointment for the team as they faced a difficult loss during the Walled Lake Central Invitational. This tournament consisted of 12 teams, and the winner was determined by who won the best two out of three games.

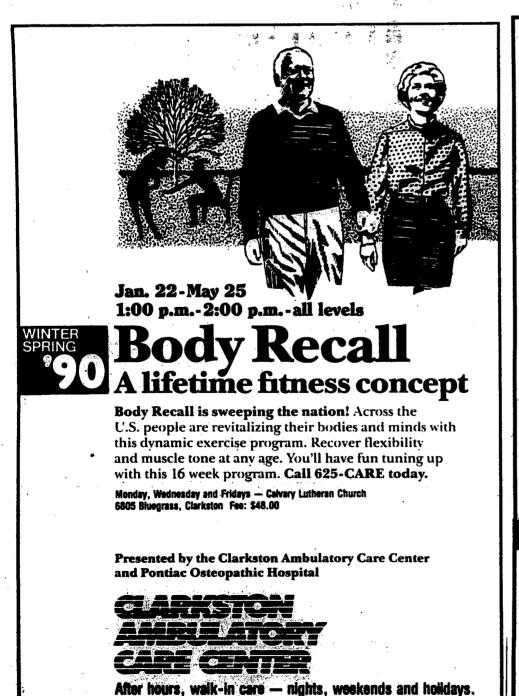

Some of the top hitters were Lerner, McKoin, Law, Ingrid Larson and Michelle Folwell. Some of the leading servers throughout the tournament were Michele Sikes, McKoin, Amy Blome and Jody Lopucki.

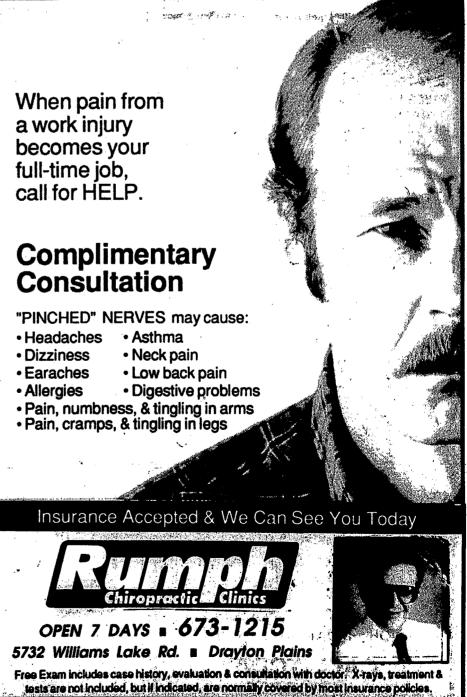

"We weren't too great in defense," said Richardson.
"We suffered from a transitional problem offense to defense."

The Wolves ended up losing the tournament in the third match to Birmingham-Seaholm, the eventual topplace finisher.

"We had a real good chance of winning the tournament," said Richardson. "We didn't get beat by slouches."

The girls are not only dedicated to volleyball by practicing two to three hours a day, but grades are important as well. According to Richardson, the team's accumulative grade point average is 3.2 of 4.0.

"My job is very involved," said Richardson: "If I can be their friend, it is great. My job is to train them not only in the sport they play but in life, showing them that losses aren't everything. If I can help get them recruited in college and get their education paid for, that would also

In winter sports, but safety first

Winter sports enthusiasts who enjoy tobogganing of sledding at the Metroparks in southeast Michigan - or elsewhere throughout the state — should observe several rules of safety, according to Howard F. Chanter, chief park ranger at Kensington Metropark near Milford.

The safety tips are: 1. Inspect the area before use. Check for hidden hazards. Snow may hide logs; stumps and stones. Do not go down any hill when you cannot see the entire length of

2. Inspect your equipment. Check your toboggan or sled for broken or cracked boards and rudders after

3. Put safety first: Protect your face and hands with ear muffs, gloves and a scarf. Do not overload toboggans or sleds. Overloading makes steering difficult: In heavy use areas, allow the group ahead of you sufficient time to get out of the way before starting downhill. Use marked returns when provided. Do not walk up a hill when others are sledding. Read and obey posted sign rules.

In the Clarkston area, Indian Springs Metropark offers facilities for tobogganing and sledding, plus trails for winter nature hikes. The park is on White Lake Road in Springfield and White Lake townships. For more information, call 1-800-24-PARKS.

Chiens for Orderly Growth

Growth and taxes

By Jerome Wilford

From time to time, The Clarkston News quotes Independence Township officials as favoring "controlled growth,""managed growth" or "growth with care."

And COG, as noted at the head of this column, calls for "orderly growth." Whatever the words, residents generally agree with the good intentions.

Overriding, of course, is the hope that the character and integrity of the township will be maintained, that open space and a rural environment will be preserved.

Unfortunately, as matters stand, this is not likely. There is nothing, in fact, to prevent the eventual building and paving over of every acre in the township, except for present park lands, properties vested in the Independence Land Conservancy and the few gestures to greenbelt amenities conceded by the occasional developer.

The only control at present is on the time it takes to complete the process.

Homeowners' protests are a factor in slowing the process, but these are usually limited to a single group's concerns for a specific development, land use or zoning

Focus may be on pollution of a particular lake, the threat of a strip mall abutting residential properties or traffic congestion.

Except for such protests, township officials get little direction or proposals for preserving open space and a rural environment. There is no mandate not to build and pave over the township.

There is, however, a consequence of residential growth, which can unify and stir homeowners to common action — and that is steadily increasing taxes.

Voters have twice turned down a bond proposal for a new central fire station. And there is persistent opposition to increasing school millages - even to the point of not restoring funds taken away by the Headlee Amend-

But these actions by voters have not been directly linked to growth. They are simply anti-tax actions, mixed with the occasional argument that schools and fire station were "good enough in my time."

Fact is neither meets the needs of residential growth that has taken place in Independence Township.

Growth does call for more schools and roads, more police and fire services. And the question must now be asked to what degree does this growth add to the tax burden of present homeowners. And what can be done about it?

What have other communities done? Let's start with a classic case, one that resulted in spending money to save money, and preserve the character of an area.

Some years ago, residents of Palo Alto, Calif., lamented that the grassy foothills surrounding the town would in time be paved over with streets and houses. Add the build-up of shopping and commercial services, and consequent traffic congestion, and open space would be history.

Growth also meant more schools, highways, police and fire services. Faced with this prospect, a group of citizens asked, "What happens to taxes?"

Would the added costs be covered by added tax revenue at present rates? Projections said "No." But it didn't end there. It was also shown that if the land were purchased with public funds and not developed, the savings in tax increases would pay for the land in 20 years. The land was bought. Open space was saved for area residents.

Is the concept still valid? A newsletter published by the supervisor of the Town of Pittsford, outside Rochester. N.Y., cites a Cornell Cooperative Extension study.

It shows that in one New York county, for every dollar in tax revenue, an additional 36 cents was required to meet the costs of increased capital outlays and services.

Similar results were shown in Connecticut. On the basis of its own studies, Pittsford Township is proposing to buy land to add to its present publicly owned space.

One of the results of maintaining the character of an area by preserving open space is that remaining property values increase. Taxes are not increased, however, because service requirements tend to be stabilized.

The Village of Clarkston did this in 1989 when the Headlee Amendment called for an automatic increase. Because there was no increase in service requirements, Village officials reduced the millage rates, and taxes remained the same.

This year, COG plans to study the effects of growth and non-growth—on taxes in nearby townships. If you are interested or have other ideas for limiting growth and preserving open space, watch for this column for meeting notices.

Doug Carlson, COG's chairman and regular author of this column, is wintering in warmer climes. During his absence, individual members of COG will be expressing their personal views on orderly growth.

Taxpayer guide here

Need help with complicated tax forms? The free 1989 Michigan Taxpayer's Guide is available at the Independence, Oxford and Orion township libraries and from state Rep. Mat Dunaskiss.

Dunaskiss' office is in Room 108 1/2, Capitol Bldg., Lansing, MI 48913.

The guide contains information from the Michigan Department of Treasury on property taxes, homestead property tax credits, farmland and open space tax relief, home heating credit programs, state income tax, energy tax credits, the single business tax and other related subjects

The booklet provides the latest information on many of Michigan's tax laws in easy-to-understand language though it doesn't provide line-by-line instructions for completing forms. That information is included with the tax forms.

QUESTION: What is meant by a restriction?

ANSWER: It is a clause in a deed restricting the use of the property. It might be looked on as zoning on a very personal basis.

For example, a house in a commercially-zoned area may have a restriction against use for any commercial purpose. This could create future financing problems because banks may refuse to loan money for other than commercial use. From the point of view of the buyer, it is preferable that the agreement enumerate any and all restrictions. Bring them out in the open and get professional advice before going any further. It's for your own protection.

DEEDS SHOULD BE CHECKED carefully for restrictions.

Planning for college? Apply now for financial aid

If you plan to apply for federal financial aid to pay for next year's college costs, the time to file is now. The federal government started accepting applications last week, and procrastination can be costly.

According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, the federal government frequently runs out of program money well before the fiscal year expires at the end of September. Remember, too, that many colleges have submission deadlines as early as Jan. 31.

Don't underestimate the importance of federal financial aid. Last year, the federal government provided 75 percent of all available student aid. States and institutions supplied the remaining 25 percent.

To obtain a federal financial aid form, contact your high school or college financial aid office. The three most common forms are the College Scholarship Service's Financial Aid Form (FAF), the American College Testing Program's Family Financial Statement (FFS) and the Application for Federal Student Aid (AFSA).

Ask your high school or college advisor to help you decide on which form to submit. Be warned: tackling one of these applications can be as trying as filling out a 1040

In fact, all three applications ask you to supply specific information related to your 1988 income tax return. If you choose to estimate your income and tax information, your application may very well be delayed due to inquiries regarding your figures - especially if any estimate is off by more than $200. For this reason, you may want to prepare your returns prior to filling out the financial aid application.

One other important note about filling out the financial aid form: all male students must register for the draft in order to be considered for any federal loan program. If you do not register, you must check one of the several reasons offered on the financial aid application.

The Needs Test Once completed, the application is sent to a needs analysis service, which then examines your application and determines your ability to contribute to college costs.

In fact, one of the most critical factors established by a needs analysis is the estimated family contribution, also referred to as the Student Aid Index.

While you may judge this amount to be beyond your current means, the federal government will nevertheless sue this figure to assess your eligibility for a loan as well as to establish the amount of the loan.

Of the six federal financial aid programs, five require a needs test for eligibility. Don't let the word "needs" scare you off.

Several factors, including the number of children in your family, can enable a middle-income family to qualify for aid. In addition to the needs test, each of the six federal financial aid programs has its own requirements and purposes.

Stafford Loan

A Stafford Loan (formerly called the Guaranteed Student Loan or GSL) allows you to borrow money from a bank at relatively low interest rates.

You won't have to begin repaying the loan until six months after you graduate or leave school, and you'll have up to 10 years from that time to complete the repayment. Because of their long terms, Stafford Loans make inflation work to the advantage of the borrower.

In 1989, the Stafford Program permitted first- and second-year undergraduate students to borrow up to $2,625 per year, while third-, fourth- and fifth-year students could borrow up to $4,000 per year.

The actual loan amount, however, is reduced by loan origination fees paid to the lender. Eligibility for a Stafford is based on remaining need, which is - in plain English — the amount remaining when you subtract the sum of your estimated family contribution and any other aid (such as a scholarship or VA benefits) from the cost of attending your particular school.

PLUS and SLS

Parent Loans to Undergraduate Students (PLUS) and Supplemental Loans to Students (SLS) provide two other ways to reduce or eliminate remaining need.

Last year, both programs allowed undergraduate students to borrow up to $4,000 per academic year to a

To determine the maximum loan amount for which you are eligible, simply subtract the amount of aid received from all sources from the cost of attendance.

Unlike Stafford Loans, the repayment of interest and principal on PLUS and SLS loans begins 60 days after the loan is taken out.

Interest rates are adjusted annually and are usually calculated on the basis of the 91-day Treasury Bill rate plus several percentage points. The repayment period ranges from five to 10 years.

Pell Grants Pell Grants are designed specifically for students who demonstrate financial need. Last year, the grants ranged from $200 to $2,300. Unlike a loan, Pell Grants do not have to be repaid.

Eligibility for a Pell Grant is based on the Student Aid Index. If you doubt your eligibility, apply anyway. If you don't you may jeopardize your eligibility for other federal financial aid programs.

Other Programs

Three other financial aid programs based on need are available through individual colleges, but be warned: much of this money may have already been allocated to students who applied for aid last year.

Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants range from $100 to $4,000 and are usually given to students receiving Pell Grants. Work-study programs provide parttime jobs to students demonstrating need.

Finally, the Carl D. Perkins Loan Program allows students to borrow up to approximately $4,500 at extremely low rates. In addition, the grace period following graduation is nine months.

Remember, federal financial aid programs are just one of the resources available to help you pay for a college education.

Investigate all options, including employer-funded scholarships. Since many financial aid programs have debt ceilings, CPAs advise you to combine federal state, college and private aid in order to obtain the most aid at the lowest interest rate.

Book details how zeros can add up

William A. Myers is a retired Lapeer County editor and investments manager from Boca Raton, Fla.

BOOK REVIEW: The New Dow Jones-Irwin Guide to Zero-Coupon Investments. By Donald R. Nichols. (Dow Jones-Irwin, Homewood, Ill. 60430. 148 pages.)

This is the first book I've seen devoted entirely to my favorite investment for both the young and those nearing retirement.

Nichols does a pretty good job of covering the subject. In fact, if you are only mildly interested in zero coupons, it may tell you more than you ever wanted to know. But better that than be on the scanty side.

While "zero coupon" is a new term, the principle is as old as interest itself. All a zero-coupon bond or "zero" obligation is is that interest isn't paid until maturity.

AU.S. Treasury bill is a zero coupon. You buy one to mature in a year and you pay, say, 92 for it. After 12 months (acutally 360 days), the government pays you 100 for it. The $8 is interest. You buy a U.S. Savings Bond for $50. Around 10 or 11 years later (depending on interest rates), you get $100. The difference of $50 is interest, and you must report it as taxable income.

Even banks and S&Ls issue certificates of deposit pay no interest until maturity.

Some 30 years ago at the old First National in Lapeer, Mich., we offered a Double Your Money deal, whereby a deposit made then would grow to twice its size in 20 years. That was a compounded rate of just 3.5 percent, about standard in that period. It was my idea and it laid an egg. Nobody was interested. There was just one sold, which my father bought to save me from complete humiliation.

Nichols makes a mistake in his introduction, saying, "Accreted interested from most zeros is taxable each year," U.S. Savings Bond "accreted interest" is not taxed each year, unless you choose it that way. The interest on U.S. Treasury bills, probably the world's biggest single investment, is not taxable until maturity, which may be in another tax year than when they were bought.

And of course, interest on zero-coupon municipal bonds is not taxed at all - not while it's accreting and not when the bonds mature.

Nichols spends too muich of the reader's time telling how to figure this accreted interest on taxable zeros, such as CATS, TIGERS, STRIPS, etc. - all U.S. government zeros. I could do it on my bond machine, but it's simpler just to tell the tax accountant to do it. If you're at the financial level of owning taxable zeros, then you aren't doing your own return.

The author covers the subject of the hybrid zero, generally called GAINS in the trade. The bond is a zero coupon the first 10 years, say, and then it is converted into a straight coupon for the next 10-year or so period. A very handy thing if you're 10 years from retirement and you don't need the income now but will-later.

(If you get into this type, deal with a bond man with savvy and rectitude. Figuring a yield to maturity is not easy, and you'll be taking his word for it. Ol' John Grant, who has sold more bonds than Carter has pills, has told me a dozen times how to do it on my bond calculator, and I've always forgotten how by the next time the subject comes

The book recounts in orderly fashion how nicely zeros do the job for college expenses later on for your youngsters; retirement for yourself; in an IRA, where the investment is automatic and the yearly returns not big enough for conventional bonds or for stocks; in a company pension fund, where, of course, you'd use taxable corporate zeros or U.S. government ones (popularly called CATS, STRIPS, etc.); to pay off certain lump sums in years ahead.

Example: At our golf club, when a mortgage was due in three annual installments 10 years out, we simply bought par values of those amounts in zeros maturing in the payoff years. Result: The funds were sterilized, in effect: beyond the temptation of club directors who usually like to spend club cash when it's around. And we'll pay off the mortgage at half-price.

Nichols makes a careless statement in saying that "corporate zeros are backed only (by) the profitability of the issuer, so prices will fluctuate with the fortunes of the issuing corporation.'

Not so. Show me a corporation that doesn't have an off year over the term of a 20-year obligation. Unless the company is going sour for a long time, its bonds rise and fall only with interest rates. Bond interest, Mr. Nichols, is not the same as dividends, which are seldom paid in a loss year. Bond interest must be paid out of whatever cash is Heaven knows prices go up and down enough because of rate changes. Let's not introduce another factor into the roller-coaster we have to tolerate.

The book tells of zero bonds issued by banks with Third World Ioans as collateral. Nichols says, ". . . the burden of default might be passed on to the U.S. government because the banks are FDIC insured."

FDIC stands for Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. Since when is a bond issued by a bank a deposit? C'mon now, Brother Nichols. You did a pretty thorough job on your book, but here and there a little more homework was needed

Withal, the book is worth buying.

Writers reap rewards from celebration of process

BY JULIE CAMPE Clarkston News Editor

Nervous giggles and confident voices mixed freely in the Clarkston High School library Jan. 8 during the Celebration of Process Writing.

The library was rearranged to accommodate samples of students' unfinished work on each table, with enough room for blank sheets of paper — which quickly filled with comments from students.

A podium surrounded by 40-some chairs filled up another area, while the check-out counter was transformed into a table holding refreshments.

It looked like a real writing conference, though this one was just for fun.

The goal was to give students a chance to share their unfinished work. 'In a community of writers, you want to hear the reactions," said English teacher Linda Denstaedt, adding that it gives writers a chance to make changes based on other writers' suggestions.

Teachers Kris Nemesi, Pat MacArthur and Mike Kaul also participated with their pupils.

Most of the students enjoyed reading each other's work, though some did not expect what they got.

CONCENTRATING on his comments to fellow writers is Joe Yates, a senior at Clarkston High School. Students of four CHS English teachers participated Jan. 8.

Sometimes it's better to be lucky than good. Just ask Independence Township resident Carl Beridon.

He stumbled upon the Montague BiFrame bicycle while working a trade show in Osh Kosh, Wis., when he was selling a hand-held computer product.

Somebody needed space to show off the bike, and Beridon obliged, although he didn't know much of or think much of the folding all-terrain bike. Customers at the trade show quickly changed his mind, however.

"We sold a ton of those things in Osh Kosh," beamed Beridon from his Waldon Road, Independence Township, home recently. Actually, it would have been difficult to sell a ton of the bicycles; they weigh 29 pounds apiece. But he did manage to sell nearly 30 bikes in a couple of days.

What's New in Business

"That's the neatest thing (about the bike)," he said. "It fills a need they cannot find anywhere else."

While a folding bicycle isn't a new idea, Beridon and his father-in-law Frank Owen of Stevensville came up with a different marketing strategy — taking the product to the customers that would have a use for it instead of waiting for the customers to find it in a store.

Owen is in charge of sales and marketing of the product; Beridon has a supporting role as president of Sources International, a company they founded in August to market this bike as well as other unrelated products.

Beridon, along with his wife Lori, travel to recreational vehicle shows, boat shows and air shows to display the bike. Both of their children, Katie and Ben, are sold on it and have surprised a few area residents with it.

The Montague BiFrame is a full-sized 18-speed mountain bike that folds into a 36-inch by 30-inch by 14inch package in minutes.

"An 11-year-old can do it," said Lori.

Its cost is comparable to a Schwinn Sierra, Beridon

Unlike other folding bikes, the Montague BiFrame uses full size parts and is solidly constructed with 4130 Chromoly and is equipped with top of the line SunTour components.

Currently, the bike is available in a men's model only. A ladies and children's version should be out in the near future, Beridon said.

Eventually, he'd like to get the BiFrame into stores where customers who have a need for this bike can see it. Such places like boat showrooms, RV showrooms would be perfect, he said.

NEWLYWEDS: Mr. and Mrs. Marcetti.

Kozlowski and Marcetti-united

Karen Kozlowski and Michael Marcetti were united in marriage July 22, 1989, at St. Daniel Catholic Church. Clarkston. The Rev. Charles Cushing performed the 2 p.m. double-ring ceremony before 250 guests.

The parents of the bride are Robert and Janet Kozlowski of Stickney Road, Clarkston. The parents of the bridegroom are Charles and Beverly Marcetti of King Road, Davisburg.

The couple graduated from Clarkston High School in 1984, and the bride graduated from Grand Valley State University, Allendale, in 1989.

The bride was given away by her father in the church decorated with white roses.

For her wedding, the bride chose a dress of organza over satin, with a lace and pearl bodice and a train. She carried white roses, white gardenias, lilies of the valley, peach roses and ivy.

Maid of honor was Debbie Sosinsk of Washington, D.C. Other attendants were Stacy Brown of Hazel Park and Michelle Mistalski of Westfield, Mass., both cousins of the bride; Tracie Schutte of Adrian and Toni Curtiss of Lapeer. They wore peach organza dresses with baskets of

The bridegroom chose David Patritto of Madison Heights as best man. Other attendants were Bob and Mike Kozlowski of Clarkston, the bride's brothers, and Jon on Mike Brown and Robert List, cousin of the groom.

The couple were chauffeured in a 1964 Silver Cloud Rolls Royce to the reception at Roma's of Bloomfield.

They honeymooned with a cruise to Cozumel and Cancun and now reside in Orion Township.

New arrival

Anita and Donald Fischer of Joy Road, Independ ence Township, are the proud parents of a new baby boy.

Donald Gordon Fischer was born at 11:28 a.m. Dec. 14 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac. He weighed 7 pounds, 15 ounces, and measured 20 1/2 inches long.

Grandparents are Gordon and Lois Grice of North Hampshire, Holly, and Barbara and Edward Fischer of Pine Knob Lane, Independence Township. Great-grandparents are Raymond and Zilla Peters of Evart. Cleo Harris of Redford and Mary Hall of Pontiac.

Huls and Fenton wed in Indiana

The Rev. Bill Wargel witnessed the marriage vows of Kristine A. Huls and Christopher A. Fenton at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 25, 1989.

The sanctuary at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Jasper, Ind., was arranged with ferns and candelabra with rubrum lilies for the double-ring ceremony. Evergreen wreaths were on the door.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Huls of Jasper, Ind., and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fenton of Clarkston are the parents of the Musical selections for the ceremony were "In My Life," "All I Ask of You," "Let the Bright Seraphim,"

"Perhaps Love," "Ich Liebe Dich," "Ave Maria" and "I Have Loved You With an Everlasting Love."

Linda Bachman was organist, and Mark Messmer played the trumpet. Soloists were Susan Filipowich, sister of the bride; Robert Filipowich, brother-in-law of the bride; and Jennifer Fenton, sister of the bridegroom.

The offertory gifts were taken up by Monty and Lisa Woolsey, friends of the bride, and Jim and Vicki Kurkowski, uncle and aunt of the bridegroom. Lectors were Brad Huls, brother of the bride, and Steve Fenton, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of flowing antique satin enhanced with re-embroidered French alencon and schiffle lace.

The fitted bodice and wedding band neckline were dramatized by modified bishop sleeves. A full-length, cathedral train defined by lace appliques completed the traditional look.

She wore her mother's crown headpiece with single pearls attached throughout the finger-tip-length netting. The bride carried a bouquet with white casa blanca lilies interspersed with bridal white roses accented with holly

Susan Filipowich of Fairfield, Conn., sister of the bride was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Sarah Connolly of Geneva, Ill., Sue Humes of Farmington Hills, and Sally Bowles of Atlanta, Ga., friend of the bride. Flower girl was Kristen Huls of Indianapolis, niece of the bride.

The bridesmaids and flower girl wore black velvet bodices with minestone buttons on the cuffs and backs with deep periwinkle moire taffeta ballet-length skirts. They carried rubrum lilies with holly and ivy. The flower girl carried a heart-shaped wreath accented with French ribbons and small florets.

Mr. Fenton chose his friend, Mike Marcum of Birmingham, as best man. Groomsmen were Bob Fenton of Clarkston, brother of the bridegroom, and John Humes of Farmington Hills and Tom Hall of Lansing, friends of the bridegroom.

Ushers were Nick Huls of Richmond, Ky., and Luke Huls of Indianapolis, Ind., brothers of the bride, and Dan Fenton of Auburn Hills and Ken Fenton of Clarkston, brothers of the bridegroom.

The mother of the bride wore a raspberry color gown made of cloque fabric. The surplice style wrap front drape caught at the waist with a rhinestone pin. Short petal sleeves completed the ensemble. The bridegroom's mother wore a crystal pleated, teal blue street-length dress.

Amy Ernst and Adrienne Ernst of Jasper, Ind., cousins of the bride, distributed programs and were guest registrars. The reception was held at the Jasper Country

The couple will be residing at Wolfschlugener Str. 10A, 7000 Stuttgart 70, West Germany, for one year. They will be living in Anderson, S.C., when they return.

The bride received a bachelor of science degree in business finance from Indiana University in 1983. She was a sales representative for Adaptable Systems Corp. of Atlanta, Ga.

The bridegroom received a bachelor of science degree from Oakland University, Rochester. He is a manufacturing engineer for Bosch Corp. of Anderson, S.C., and is currently on assignment in Stuttgart, West Germany.

NEWLYWEDS: Mr. and Mrs. Fenton.

ERIC ROMEIN prepared for his Christmas trip to Brussels, Belgium by choosing to study the country as a fourth-grade project.

He displays a doil he made using colored paper, which is similar to those found in the country.

A Belgian Christmas

Christmas had an international flavor for nine-yearold Eric Romein this year.

The fourth grader spent most of the holidays in Brussels Belgium visiting his uncle.

sels, Belgium, visiting his uncle.

"My grandparents were going, and it was my Christmas break; so we decided it was a good idea for me to go,"

The Romein family celebrated Christmas early in their Independence Township home. A grateful Eric had a visit from Santa before he left.

"We left him a note and told him I was leaving," Eric says, earnestly.

The Christmas tradition exists in Brussels, Eric adds, although there are differences.

Families celebrate the holiday on Christmas Eve Day, highlighted by a huge lunch followed by cheese and a yogurt pudding.

"They drink a lot of wine," Eric recalls, adding that he didn't think much of the oysters served as the main

Thankfully, Eric recalls, certain procedures are followed in Brussels like they are here in the United States. When he lost a tooth and put it under his pillow, he was faithfully rewarded; not by the tooth fairy, but by the tooth mouse, who obviously keeps things covered in that part of the world.

The tooth mouse pays more than the tooth fairy, Eric notes, adding that it must have to do with the Franc system there.

The eager young traveller accurately describes several historic tours he made while abroad. And when asked about his favorite aspect of the entire, unique journey, Eric takes a moment to think.

"Opening Christmas presents," he answers, frankly.

CHS Celebration of Process Writing is a success

(WRITING, from Page 29)

"Everybody writes how they feel," said senior Dave Coin. "Everybody gets deep — people who you don't think they are. A lot of surprising people."

A few brave students even volunteered to read their work aloud -- kind of risky among joking teen-agers.

"I felt kind of stupid," said senior Becky Kar, after reading her poem aloud.

"I felt like people weren't really interested in what I was saying. ... I don't know if I'd do it again," she said, adding, though, that it was still a good experience overall.

Junior Nicki Jones, a creative writing student, also read aloud her unfinished poem and agreed to share it with The Clarkston News:

SENIOR Becky Kar writes comments about the creative work of another student.

Tough Exterior By Nicki Jones

I looked into your eyes
Eyes like the desert
But there were things
To cling to
That hate that you spoke
To everyone
But me

I saw it in there
That hate
I had been warned against
Love is deaf
I was blind
Until
That day

I looked into your hollow eyes
Eyes like a vast sea
There was raging pain
To cling to
No sharp distinctions
A few tears and frowns
Blood dripped from your fingernails
It came from your heart

On the exterior Crossed arms Not a proud position A protective pose To hide your bleeding heart

Cold stares
Not a prestige act
A guard put up to
Not let anyone see the nothingness

Steel-toed boots
Not used as weapons
As they should be
Simply to speak for
All you are not

Through the tough exterior
There is nothing
Behind your eyes
Eyes like space
Space; absence; your soul

You have been stolen
Blindfolded as well
By those who have taken
What you've allowed them to snatch

Fireplace safety makes good sense

With the cold temperatures of winter, it's important for homeowners to practice fireplace safety throughout the winter months.

While fireplaces are a very attractive home feature, homeowners should also keep in mind that they may also pose a threat if not properly maintained and used, says Sharon Mayworm, broker, of MainStreet USA Real Estate in Independence Township.

Homeowners should be sure to inspect the chimney area to make sure it is clear of obstructions, Mayworm advises. If you're unsure about the condition of your fireplace and chimney, be sure to consult a qualified builder.

Often times homeowners are talked into thinking that their fireplace or chimney has some type of structural damage by people unqualified to make these judgments, Mayworm says. Seeking a second opinion may ultimately save the homeowners unnecessary expense.

Fireplace safety should also be extended to education of family members.

Family members should be instructed on how to build a fire properly and how to use the fireplace tools, including the screen, Mayworm says.

She also notes that younger members of the family should be taught not to play with or near the fireplace. Children often think of fireplaces as something fun and wish to be helpful, Mayworm explains. However, they need to know that it can also be dangerous if improperly

Parents need to keep in mind that smaller children should not be left near a fireplace unattended. As with any potential household danger, parents should be minuful of their children's whereabouts, Mayworm says, MainStreet USA is a member of RELO/ The International Relocation Network. Mayworm has one office and 41 sales associates and has served the Clarkston area for 11 years.

Anti-Diet Weight Loss

The New Alternative

SUFFERING IS OPTIONAL

If you have tried dieting in the past and failed, you are not alone. For many, diet is part of the problem, not its solution.

Thin people don't want to eat more than they should. So how come you do? When you learn to think about food the way thin people do, then you will eat casually and controllably, just

Based on successful work with overeaters in therapy, this unique, ten-week program was developed to help healthy people to finally control their eating without the need for discipline and the constant struggle against temptation.

WHY WAIT?

This small-class experience is not another diet or food supplement program, but a new opportunity for a permanent change in your relationship with food and your body. You can be happy with both, NOW.

PREVIEW: January 18, 1990 7 p.m.

To give you a full description of this effective solution to over-eating, we offer a full, two-hour preview at our offices. Admission is $10. Call early to reserve your place, as seating is extremely limited.

Dry cleaners are old hats in the shirt business

BY TRACY KING Clarkston News Associate Editor

The growing Troy Cleaners dry cleaning chain has moved into the Clarkston area.

The company opened its ninth store in mid-November at 6647 Dixie Highway, Independence Township, in the new Damman Hardware Plaza.

There is a need for more dry cleaners in the area, according to Manager Debbie Dortch.

"There is potential here," says Dortch, who also happens to be the owner's daughter.

"We know that there are others (dry cleaning operations) around, and that we've got a bit of competition, but people tell us they're really glad to see us here," Dortch adds

Troy Cleaners is a true family business. Along with Debbie Dortch as manager of the new store, and her father

What's New in Business

Lou as owner, Debbie's brother Lou Jr. works as general-manager of the growing business.

The family has been in the dry cleaning business for 51 years, ever since Debbie's grandfather Troy opened the first store in Flint.

"He started his first store on Lewis Street (in Flint)," Debbie explains. "Then my dad came in and expanded it."

The business is now based in Grand Blanc, where all of the clothing is transferred for laundering, dry cleaning and pressing.

and pressing.

Despite the distance to Grand Blanc, Troy Cleaners offers same day service to its customers: The company also does minor repairs and alterations along with regular dry cleaning and laundering.

Running a dry cleaning operation isn't easy, according to Dortch.

"It's labor intensive," she says. "You have people waiting on customers behind the counter, and everything in the dry cleaning operation is done by hand."

Troy Cleaners' success is the industry is owed to the quality of their finished garments and the service offered to customers, Dortch says.

"There are special ways to treat cloth, especially cloth today," she explains.

One fabric making a big entrance in the garment industry recently is rayon. The new material is used in about half of all garments the company receives.

"We also pay more attention to silks and angoras," she says. "We point out to the customer that (a garment has certain fabrics), and they'll say 'Oh I never knew it had silk in it."

The same-day service offered by the company isn't difficult to accomplish. Dortch says. Company drivers have different routes, which allows customers to drop off clothes as late as 10 a.m. for same day service.

If the dry cleaning plant gets an abundance of clothes to clean within a given time, someone else is called in to help.

"You just work harder and faster," Debbie says,

DEBBIE DORTCH is manager of a new family-owned dry cleaning business that opened on Dixie Highway in the Damman Hardware

Plaza. Troy Cleaners was started by her grandfather 51 years ago in Flint and is now based in Grand Blanc.

Easy and flavorful

King

Whether your New Year's resolution is to shed some unwanted pounds; or you would just like to enjoy some simple, traditional entrees after feasting on the rich fare of the holidays, here are some ideas from Better Homes and Gardens Calorie Trimmed Recipes.

These two recipes are easy to prepare and have enough flavor to satisfy the most discriminating palate.

CALORIE REDUCED BEEF STROGANOFF

308 calories per serving

3/4 pound beef round steak, cut 1/2 inch thick

1 tablespoon cooking oil

2 cups sliced fresh mushrooms

1/2 cup dry sherry

1/2 teaspoon instant beef bouillon granules

1 8-ounce carton plain yogurt

1 tablespoon all-purpose flour

1 teaspoon sugar

2 cups hot cooked rice

Trim fat from round steak. Partially freeze steak. Thinly slice across grain into bite-size strips. In skillet brown meat, half at a time, in hot oil for two to four minutes. Remove meat from skillet.

Add sliced mushrooms to skillet, cook for two to three minutes or until tender. Remove mushrooms.

Add sherry, bouillon granules and 1/2 cup water to skillet; bring to boiling. Cook, uncovered, over high heat about three minutes or until liquid is reduced to 1/3 cup.

Combine yogurt, flour, sugar, 3/4 teaspoon salt and dash pepper, mix well. Stir yogurt mixture into liquid in skillet; stir in meat and mushrooms.

Cook and stir over low heat until thickened and

Serve over hot cooked rice. Sprinkle with snipped parsley, if desired. Makes 4 servings. SLIM OVEN BEEF STEW

184 Calories

3/4 pound lean boneless beef, cut into 3/4-inch cubes

2 medium carrots, cut into 3/4-inch pieces

1 potato, peeled and quartered

1 stalk celery, sliced

1 8-ounce can tomato sauce

1 tablespoon regular dry onion soup mix

1 tablespoon quick-cooking tapioca

1 teaspoon instant beef bouillon granules

1/2 teaspoon dried thyme, crushed

19-ounce package frozen cut green beans, thawed

In 2-quart casserole, combine beef cubes, carrots, potato and celery. In a mixing bowl combine tomato sauce, dry soup mix, tapioca, bouillon granules, thyme and 1/4 cup water; stir into meat mixture.

Cover and bake in 325 degree oven for 1 hour. Stir in beans, cover and bake about 45 minutes more or until meat and vegetables are tender.

Makes 4 servings.

Motor oil can contaminate drinking water

A valuable opportunity to recycle used motor oil is available to residents of Oakland County. A network of used oil collection stations has been established to accept used motor oil from do-it-yourself oil changers.

With support from the Cooperative Extension Service of Oakland County, the East Michigan Environmental Action Council (EMEAC) and a team of volunteers have engaged the cooperation of local businesses to establish the used motor oil collection network.

A list of these collection stations at municipal centers, gas stations, car dealerships and automobile service centers is available from EMEAC.

The station owners have agreed to accept and store the used oil until it goes to a refinery for re-refining and Participation is simple. Do-it-yourself oil changers drain oil from their automobiles into containers that can be sealed, such as milk containers, jerry cans or oil cans. Collection stations provide instructions for pouring the oil into containers or underground tanks.

Recycling used motor oil is important to preserving water quality and conserving a valuable natural resource. In Michigan, an estimated 11 million gallons per year of used motor oil are dumped — down sewers, in empty lots, in holes in the ground and in landfills — by people who change their own oil.

Used motor oil contains toxic substances such as lead, produced during engine use and from additive packages.

Dumping used oil releases oil and its contaminants into ground and surface waters, where it can contaminate drinking water supplies and kill aquatic life.

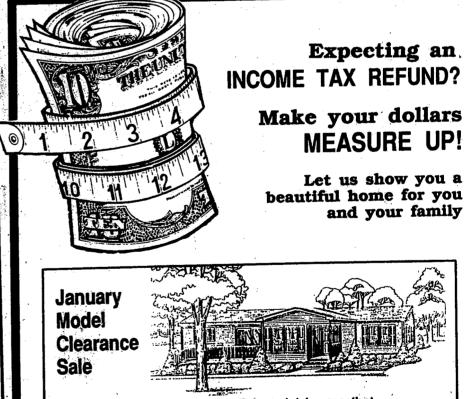

Used oil can be collected and re-refined. Re-refined oil is as good as, or better than, lubricants made from new

Winterizing your heating system can save money

Now that winter's here, it's time to check your home's heating system.

Learning everything you can about your home's heating system will help maximize its efficiency and minimize your heating costs.

Here are some helpful hints to make your winter

Thermostats Helps keep your entire house at a comfortable temperature; usually around 68 degrees. Individual room temperatures may be regulated by adjusting the registers in the various rooms or the dampers in the ducts from the furnace to the registers:

You can significantly reduce your heating bill by lowering the thermostat during sleeping hours and when your home will be unoccupied for a long period of time.

During winter vacations, leave the thermostat at its lowest setting (usually 55 degrees). Do not shut off the heat; you may come home to a frozen or burst pipe.

Because of the special characteristics of heat pumps, a constant thermostat setting is recommended.

The controls on any type of heating system may occasionally malfunction. Such a problem does not necessarily mean that anything is fundamentally wrong. An annual inspection and cleaning of your heating system could reveal if minor adjustments should be made.

Filters - Some types of warm-air furnaces have filters, usually found near the air return vents. These filters remove dirt and dust from the air.

For efficient heating, they should be replaced at least every three months during the heating season. If you cannot see through a filter held up to a light, it needs to be changed.

Replacement may require removing one or two screws, pulling out the dirty filter and inserting a new one. Some heating systems require two filters stacked vertically—change both filters at the same time. Radiant-type heating systems do not have filters.

Humidifiers - If your furnace has a humidifying attachment, it will be one of two types: power or evaporative. Both types will need occasional cleaning to remove accumulated mineral deposits that can interfere with proper functioning.

Oiling - Forced warm-air heating systems contain an electric motor and fan with the furnace enclosure. Some of these systems require oiling at the beginning of and during the heating season. Front or side panels generally can be removed so that you can reach the fan and electric motor, as well as the oil cups (see the instruction booklet for specific directions).

Pilot lights - Keep the pilot light of a gas furnace burning during the summer; the extremely small amount of heat it generates will keep the furnace dry and prevent corrosion. The furnace will also be ready for the first cold front in autumn. However, you need not keep it lit if you have a combined heating and cooling system. Some models now have pilotless ignitions, which save energy and require

Hot water heating system - Water is heated to about 180 degrees by the water heater and forced through pipes by a small pump called a circulator.

Hot water heat is either radiant and radiant-convection, in the radiant type, the hot water pipes may be in the ceiling, walls or floors, but they most commonly run through baseboard panels on the outside walls of the

The baseboard heats the wall to about five feet above the floor, and the wall itself serves as a radiation

In the radiant-convection type, the hot water runs through finned copper pipes behind baseboard panels with openings in the top and bottom to allow the cold air. to enter, pass over the fins and rise as it is warmed. Some manufactures make the heating panes so they can be used Electric heating systems - An electric cable provides the source of radiation. AS with hot water pipes, the cable may be installed in walls, ceilings and floors, but it is generally in a decorative baseboard panel.

Your household's lifestyle is the largest single variable that affects your utility bills. Identical homes on the same street may have utility bills that vary by 100 percent.

By living "smarter" in your home, you can maximize the benefits from insulation and other energy-saving features your builder has installed.

Even on cold days, the sun can take part of the load off the furnace and warm the inside of the house if you open the drapes on the sunny side of the house.

A GOOD WOMAN Understands the value of a colsed relation-ship with her man. To be whole together. To cultivate a positive energy exchange, to speak of their relationship with others on anything but a superficial level weakens it. Gossip is an energy leak that robs the relationship of it's love. As a man and woman cleave unto themselves, the greater become their bond. I am looking to make home with a woman that understands this. woman mat uncerstands this. TWISTS OF PLOT make "Sherlock's Last Case" an interesting comedy-mystery by the Clarkston Village Players. From left in this scene, Dr. Watson (Vern Vackaro) is found tied up by Inspector Lestrade (Larry McGee) and Sherlock Holmes (Al Bartlett). The production begins this weekend and runs through Jan. 27, at the Depot Theater, 1681 White Lake Road, Independence Township.

Gearing up

DIRECTOR Jack McCaffrey finds a comfortable position from which to offer guidance to the cast of "Sherlock's Last Case," a mystery-comedy. The Clarkston Village Players rehearsed their parts Jan. 10. The play runs through Jan. 27 at the Depot Theater, 1681 White Lake Road, Independence Township. McCaffrey's wife, Holly, produces the play.

SOME OF THE PLOT twists center around the Liza Moriarty character played by Karen Gruttwald.
