RORY KELLY (left) has never been a hero before but says it feels "good." To earn that status, he found his neighbor Cody Weverstad's lost dog Cricket in a storm sewer Apparently, the cocker spaniel had been exploring in this culvert at Rory's house and had fallen into the sewer. The children attend Clarkston Elementary School.

Dog spends night in storm sewer

When Rory Kelly, 8, went searching for worms Friday, March 16, he had no idea he would end up fishing for a dog.

The Clarkston Elementary School second-grader was digging in a leaf-filled culvert two weeks ago when he heard a whining sound accompanied by splashing.

The sound came from underground, he later told his grandmother, Claribel Brumagin of New York, who was taking care of Rory's family while Rory's mother, Joy, recuperated from a leg injury.

Rory told his grandmother he thought it was a dog, but she said the sound could be coming from a different animal. There was nothing he could do, she told him.

Rory, however, was persistent. As soon as his father, Kevin, arrived home from work, Rory told him about the sound.

So the two went to investigate. Kevin, though, didn't hear anything.

Rory patiently explained that he had to scratch the concrete culvert to get a sound.

"So he scratched the concrete and heard the whines," Rory said later.

"Then he changed clothes, and I brought a flashlight out and pointed it toward the storm sewer," he said.

They found no animal, but they did see that the culvert made a sharp drop into the ground at one point.

Just at that time, some friends passed by on an evening walk and mentioned that they had seen signs all over town about a lost dog in the neighborhood.

They quickly found the phone number on the signs, which belonged to Cody Weverstad, 6, a first-grade friend of Rory's from school.

Crash kills area man

A 20-year-old Independence Township man died of injuries sustained in a two-car accident in Pontiac Sunday, March 25, about 2 p.m.

James Turner of Whipple Lake Road suffered multiple trauma injuries, according to physician Robert Aranosian, head of the emergency room at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

"He was in grave condition when he arrived here," Aranosian said, adding that Wilson was pronounced dead shortly after he arrived at the hospital.

James Wilson, 21, of Minne-wanna, Independence Township, driver of the 1988 GMC pick-up carrying himself and Turner, was in good condition at Pontiac General Hospital (PGH) Tuesday.

Darrell Hart, 20, of Pontiac, who was driving a 1989 Chevy pick-up, was treated and released from PGH.

According to James Webb, accident investigator for the Pontiac Police Department, Hart was driving northbound on Baldwin Road and was hit broadside by Wilson,

Woman flees rape attempt

BY RENEE GLOVINSKY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A 30-year-old Independence Township woman fled from a possible rape-attack Thursday, March 20, at 3 a.m., said Detective Steven Parker of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

According to Parker, the woman had been at a Big Boy Restaurant on Baldwin and I-75, Orion Township, and had needed a ride home.

Witnesses said that she had been crying on the phone, when a white, balding, five-foot, seven-inch male around age 30 or 35 asked her if he could give her a ride home. She agreed.

Witnesses also said that the same man had previously approached various women in the restaurant soliciting sex.

Parker stated that the man drove the woman in a burgundy mini-van to Pine Knob Elementary School on Sashabaw Road, Independence Township, where he tried to attack her.

The victim escaped and ran to a home near the school.

"Investigations are underway," said Parker. "Composites will come shortly."

The alleged attacker weighs about 150 pounds, had light brown hair and beard and was last seen wearing blue jeans, Parker said.

Anyone with information should call the sheriff's department at 858-4950.

Dog Cricket spends 28 hours in storm sewer

Her cocker spaniel Cricket, 2 1/2, had been missing for 28 hours. The blond dog had escaped the day before while Cody was trying to chain her up in the backyard of her Valley Park, Independence Township, home.

Cody's family quickly rushed to the scene, where they found Rory's dad and neighbors Fred Hehl Jr. and Don Oshnock digging up the grass in an attempt to find a cover to the storm sewer.

The first sewer cover they pulled up revealed nothing but water.

When they pulled the second cover up, however, the flashlight revealed a shivering dog, up to her belly in water — about 10 feet into the ground.

Kevin made the rescue, much to the relief of all involved.

Cody's mother, Michele, had searched the neighborhood until 1 a.m. the night before and, with the help of Cody's grandmother, Darlene Belisle of Oxford, had called or visited all the animal shelters in the area.

"I really thought someone picked her up, or she got hit by a car," said Michele. "Cody had made herself sick (over the loss of the dog); she had a 102 temperature."

"It was getting really cold, and I'm not sure she could have lasted the night."

Michele Weverstad

But everything was OK as soon as Cricket was released, said Michele.

"She went right to me; she was just so happy," Michele said. "She was shaking. It was getting really cold, and I'm not sure she could have lasted the night."

They immediately took Cricket home and put her in the warm laundry room, where they served her dog food covered in broth and where they gave her a warm bath.

Cricket then fell soundly asleep.

"She slept for 24 hours," said Michele, adding that the dog probably didn't sleep at all the preceding 28 hours because if she had lain in the sewer, the water would have been over her head.

As for Rory, he was glad to have been of help, he said. He has a 2-year-old golden retriever himself, and he knows what a dog means to a kid.

Besides, he was rewarded for his efforts. Cody gave him a Piranha — a two-handled kite — for saving her dog. And she considers him a hero — which makes Rory smile bashfully.

Hart was wearing his seat belt at the time of the accident; Turner and Wilson were not.

"We believe that alcohol was a factor," Webb said. "When we finish the investigation we will go to the prosecutor's office to determine what charges will be rendered."

Turner, who was attending Oakland Community College, was a 1987 graduate of Lake Orion High School and had been working for Tescon Co.

He was survived by his parents, James and Bonnie Turner; brothers, Timothy and Thomas; and sister Jaime Ann. Visitation hours were set for 3-5 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. Wednesday at the Lake Orion Chapel Sparks Griffin Funeral Home. The funeral is noon Thursday at noon, with the Rev. Ernest Brown officiating.

Seniors caught in bankrupt travel agency lawsuit

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Eighteen Independence Township senior citizens have been ordered to pay up to $899 to a bankrupt travel agency that had planned a cruise for them.

A settlement reached out of court ruled that the seniors owe Meredith Travel 50 percent of the cost of the cruise because cruise deposits were transferred to another agency less than 90 days before Meredith went bankrupt.

The seniors, who paid up to $1,800 to take the Caribbean cruise two years ago, will each pay an extra $699 to $899 to refund the deposit to Meredith Travel.

"This is a sad, unfortunate, unfair thing," said Tom McKenney, an attorney for Independence Township. "It's even sadder that it's senior citizens that have to pay."

The seniors learned of the cruise through the Independence Township Senior Citizen Center, where, according to McKenney, Meredith Travel made a presentation.

All parties agree that, as a matter of law, transferring money from Meredith two weeks before the agency went bankrupt was a mistake. Bankruptcy code states that withdrawals made 90 days before a company goes bankrupt is considered a preferential transfer, which is illegal.

The seniors argue that the township transferred the money from Meredith without their knowledge and, therefore, should be liable for the deposit amounts owed to Meredith.

"Somehow with all the legal knowledge in hand... Independence Township got out of (the lawsuit) and dumped the whole lawsuit onto the individual senior citizens," stated Mari Ann Staley, a senior citizen living on Flemings Lake Road, Independence Township, in a letter to The Clarkston News.

In October of 1989, Independence Township was

"This is a sad, unfortunate, unfair thing. It's even sadder that it's senior citizens that have to pay."

Attorney Tom McKenney sued in U.S. District Bankruptcy Court in Detroit by Stuart A. Gould, trustee for the bankruptcy estate of Joyce Meredith.

According to McKenney, the suit was dismissed because the township was not accountable for the deposit or its transfer.

"The township was never deemed the transferee," McKenney said. "The money was transferred by the Clarkston parks and rec. group, an unincorporated association. The Independence Township senior citizens wrote the (new, transferred deposit) check to Prime Time Travel.

"The township never had the money," he added. "The account to which the money was deposited was not a township account."

Meredith tried a second time to sue Independence Township, saying that the township was an intermediary transferee because a township employee had stamped the check to put the money into the senior's account.

When the bankruptcy judge threw out that lawsuit as well, Meredith then filed suit against the individual senior citizens.

The amount transferred from Meredith Travel was $70,785, which included money from the Independence seniors, as well as money from a group of Chrysler employees and a group from Novi.

In the case of the Novi group, the money had been placed in a township account, which forced the township to cover the cost of the deposit refund to Meredith Travel.

Independence Township did pay the cost of an attorney for the senior citizens, but Staley says it wasn't enough.

"In order to continue through the court proceedings it would cost the seniors at least an additional $2,000," she said.

"There is no doubt about the way the law reads," Staley said. "We just know that (the township) got out of it."

Plans unveiled for 805-acre golf community

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Plans for an 805-acre golf course, 400-member country club, condominium and single-family residential development were unveiled at the Orion Township Planning Commission meeting March 22.

The proposed site, bordered by Clintonville and Waldon roads at the west and south, straddles the Independence-Orion township line.

At the meeting, about five people voiced concern with road conditions, traffic, wildlife and the environment, but the planning commission took no action.

Orion planners to review plans April 4

The plans for Country Club of the North are to appear before the Orion planning commission again April 4, when the developers are to request preliminary approval for a planned unit development (PUD) in Orion Township.

In Orion Township, a planned unit development is similar to a site plan and is used to develop property that will be used for more than one purpose. It uses existing zoning and requires preliminary approval from the planning commission and final approval on each portion of the project.

No date has been scheduled for the Independence Township Planning Commission yet, but developers plan to request PUD approval there, too. In Independence Township, a PUD is a rezoning tied to a specific site plan and requires planning commission and township board approval.

Before the Orion public hearing began, attorney John Carlin of Plunkett and Cooney, Detroit, and planner Steve Hanson of David Jensen Associates, Inc., of Denver, Colo., presented the conceptual plan for the development, which has been in the works for nine months, according to Carlin.

Proposal calls for upscale housing

Of the 805 acres, 160 are in Orion Township, including Miller Lake, said Carlin.

The entire site is to be developed with 90.9 acres becoming single family detached housing with 3,500-7,500-square-foot houses, and 93.8 acres as single family attached or detached housing of 2,500-square-foot dwellings — with a maximum 600 dwellings, said Hanson.

The lots are to be marketed at a selling price of $200,000 to $250,000, said Carlin.

No residential sites are to exist within Orion Township, Hanson said, adding that most of the Orion Township portion of the property is wetlands, which will remain untouched.

In Orion, the first phase calls for four complete golf course holes and portions of four others. In a future phase, a maintenance building may be erected.

Natural features to be preserved

The overall plans also call for 18.5 acres near a knoll of pines — the highest elevation on the site — to become clubhouse property. All pines will be preserved, Hanson said.

About 25.5 acres will be used for winding, "natural" roads — they are to be lined with existing trees and natural meadows, Hanson said.

Two 18-hole golf courses and open spaces are to take up the remaining 576.7 acres, including a "championship" course that will exist mainly in Orion Township. Holes on that course will be connected by boardwalks through wetlands, Hanson said.

"The property that's in Orion, there's not much more we can do with it," said Carlin. "The wetlands of the property blend well — they make nice (golf) hazards."

In Independence Township, the property is zoned rural residential, which requires three-acre minimum lot sizes. In Orion Township, the property is zoned single family residential.

Michigan's golfing greens up economy

Between now and winter, Michigan golfers will "chip in" an estimated $500 million to the state's tourism economy, AAA Michigan reports.

"Michigan leads the nation with courses open to the public," said Peter Erickson, AAA Michigan Club Services director.

"In five years, we've seen a 15 percent increase in the number of Michigan courses, and all projections indicate more growth," he said.

Michigan has close to 1.3 million golfers. The typical participant plays 18 rounds a season and spends $390 annually on fees, equipment and related costs.

To attract additional spending and ensure that Michigan remains the nation's summer golf capital, developers are investing at least $1 million for each new regulation 18-hole course. And that figure doesn't include the cost of buying 130 to 180 acres of land or building clubhouses and other facilities.

In 1984, Michigan golfers could play a round at 632 regulation courses. Another 19 opened last year, raising the total to 727. Twenty-three facilities are now being developed, with 27 more in planning stages.

The greatest expansion since 1984 occurred in municipal courses, increasing from 73 to 87. Total courses open to the public jumped from 419 to 493, while private facilities rose from 140 to 147.

But this rapid pace still leaves some players marking time at the tees. Nationally, 290 facilities opened in 1989,

The site is ideal for a golf course-residential development, said Hanson. It contains beautiful wetlands, a lake, a few lines of trees that once separated cropland, a few groups of trees, good views, nearby utilities, natural roads, and a naturally sloping landscape.

"We have stayed out of the wetlands almost entirely," he said, adding that they plan about one-half acre of fill to build roads.

The main access is to be off Clintonville at the north end of the development, with no access from Waldon Road. Carlin said the developers plan to pave the portions of Clintonville and Waldon roads that border the development.

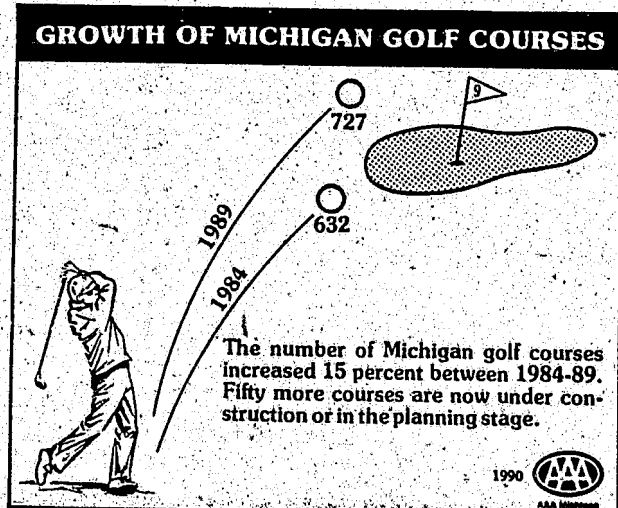

"It's going to be a beautiful course, a very beautiful project. ... It's going to be something you're going to be proud of," Carlin said.

After the meeting, Carlin said he was pleased with the site.

"It's one of the largest contiguous pieces we could find," he said. "We're very very happy to be here. We think it's a beautiful community."

but the National Golf Foundation estimates 400 new courses must open annually by the year 2000 to satisfy rapidly mounting demands.

Golf's popularity in Michigan may exceed other states, with 14 percent of its population playing the game, compared to 10.4 percent nationally. Women form 27 percent of Michigan's participants but 22 percent nationwide.

Full orchestra brings music to Independence

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Music lovers have a chance at an up-close look at the Pontiac-Oakland Symphony (POS) 8 p.m. Thursday, April 5, when the 65-piece orchestra makes a trip to Sashabaw Junior High School.

Area residents can also get an inside-look at the symphony when conductor David Daniels speaks at a Tea and Symphony 2:30 p.m. Friday, March 30, at the home of Jeff and Kathy Lynn, Main St., Clarkston.

At the tea, for which a $10 donation is requested, Daniels is to discuss the background of the POS and the Park hearing set for April

The development of a master park plan for the Shiawassee Basin Preserve is the topic of a public hearing 7 p.m. Thursday, April 5.

Set for the Springfield Oaks Youth Activities Center, 12451 Andersonville Rd., the meeting will include a presentation of three conceptual design plans and development ideas for the 400-acre park on Davisburg Road.

"We are at an exciting stage of the park plan development and are anxious to share these ideas with the public," said township Supervisor Collin Walls.

music to be performed. For Tea and Symphony ticket information, call 625-4120 or 625-7099.

Daniels, who also serves as music director of POS, is former chairman of the Department of Music, Theatre and Dance at Oakland University, Rochester. He also serves as conductor of the Warren Symphony.

He received his training at the Eastman School of Music, Oberlin College, Boston University and the University of Iowa. He holds advanced degrees in musicology and organ and a Ph.D. in orchestral literature and conducting.

The orchestra is comprised of about one-third Oakland University students, one-third community players and one-third professional musicians, many who are also members of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

The program April 5 features harpist Kerstin Allvin, who will be playing the music of Rodrigo and will be playing "The Chairman Dances," a selection from "Nixon in China."

Tickets are $8.50 for adults or $5 for students and seniors. They're available at the door or in advance by calling 334-6024. Tickets may also be ordered by mail by sending a check and a self-addressed stamped envelope to: POS, P.O. Box 1174, Pontiac, MI 48056.

After the performance at the junior high school on Maybee Road, Independence Township, an afterglow will be held at Sadows Auction Gallery in Clarkston Mills, Washington Street, Clarkston. Tickets, at $5, may be purchased during intermission.

To bring the orchestra to the Clarkston area, community members had to raise about $3,500, said Dorothy

"It's a community effort in Clarkston to bring a full symphony orchestra to the community."

Sheila Ashcraft

Neff, an Independence Township resident who serves on the POS Board of Directors.

"I just thought it would be nice if the community were exposed to the symphony," said Neff. "The symphony is a wonderful happening for the money.... They do an outstanding job. They're an excellent symphony."

As an extra bonus, said Neff, who is a school teacher, a student art exhibit will be on display at Sashabaw during the performance.

Sheila Ashcraft of POS said the orchestra members, too, enjoyed bringing their performances to other parts of Oakland County.

"It's a community effort in Clarkston to bring a full symphony orchestra to the community," she said.

Elder
Status

Julie Campe

Though I am the fifth of six children, I still maintain Elder Status, which gives me license to tell my younger brother what to do. He doesn't often listen, but I tell him anyway.

For instance, when he was little, I used to tell him to stay out of my room. But he would ignore me and barge right in. So I'd have to get tough and maybe call him names or something.

"Nosey" was (and still is) an appropriate name for him. If I was on my guard, I'd watch every move he made once he was in my room. But sometimes (call it poor judgment), I'd voluntarily let him in. Maybe I was feeling sorry for him that day, or perhaps he was nice.

Whatever the reason, he'd come in and pretend to be a normal person, and I'd fall for it. We'd talk — a seemingly normal conversation — and all the while, he'd be waiting for the right opportunity. Sometimes I wouldn't find out for days that he had read a personal note or taken a dollar or a book or a photograph.

At times, I would never have noticed, but Andy would always let something slip — he couldn't stand to pull a trick without anyone knowing he did it.

He might wait until the whole family was seated around the dinner table and then casually ask, "How's Number Seven?"

I would immediately fume (Number Seven was a code name for a prospective boyfriend in teen-age notes).

He would only laugh, safe on the other side of the table, too far away for a well-placed kick.

I would always swear to get him back, but he'd keep his distance until, eventually, I'd forget about it (I'm not a vengeful person).

A few days later, he'd somehow worm his way into my room again, and the whole process would start afresh.

So I think it's only my duty to warn his fiancée, Michele, about his nature.

At my dad's birthday dinner Sunday, Andy used the opportunity to upstage the event of the day and announce his engagement (another trick I have to remember to tell Michele — he can't stand for someone to have more attention than he does).

He probably wooed her through trickery. Michele ought to know that Andy is nosey and sneaky and a scene-stealer. Plus, his humor is weird. And every one of his siblings owes him a pay-back of some sort, and it could get ugly. Michele may want to keep her distance.

On the other hand, what if she's just like him? She most likely knows all of the above but likes him anyway. In that case, the poor girl will need all the support she can get.

At any rate, I will tell her what I know. Or maybe I'll just give her this column. I'll give it to Andy, too. Maybe it will make us even.

'Farmer Middleton' is in race

Oxford has a candidate for state representative. He is currently serving on Oxford Schools' Board of Trustees.

Brandon Township can make the same claim to the same man. He lives and farms in their township.

Orion Township has a similar claim to this man. His name has been associated with farming in that area for a couple of generations.

The man is Tom Middleton. He and his wife, Kathy, live on Hurd Road. Their three children attended Oxford schools. He was first elected to the board of education in 1982 and was re-elected in 1986.

They have been major dairy farmers in Brandon Township; however, a few years ago he sold the cows and went into growing cash crops.

Middletons' Farm in Orion is known far and wide for its strawberries and pumpkins. The farm has become a special attraction with the addition of several animals to feed and pet.

Too, you may have heard the Middleton name from the county commission race two years ago. Kathy ran a strong race but lost to Ruth Johnson.

Middleton will be seeking the Republican nomination for the post being vacated by Mat Dunaskiss, who has announced he will run for the state senate. That post is open with Rudy Nichols' intent to seek a circuit court seat.

We can expect a strong campaign from Middleton. He's worked hard all his life and won't be slacking off now. He has experience on state and county agriculture and dairy committees, in school board offices (he's past president) and as an advisor to MSU's animal science department.

He worked alongside his wife in the county race, and though losing to Johnson, a friendship developed that has kept him close to county board activities.

When you hear the word "farmer" you think of honesty and hard work. When you hear "farmer Tom Middleton" and know him, you feel good about his decision to want to represent you in Lansing. JAS

"LOOK, HOOPER, I DON'T WANT YOU RUNNING IN HERE EVERY FIVE YEARS ASKING FOR A RAISE?"

Jim's Jottings

Gary Armstrong has had some major excitement in his young life. He won the Oxford Cup when he was graduated from Oxford High School in 1984. President Ronald Reagan personally handed him his diploma when he was graduated from Coast Guard Academy in 1988.

And, in February he found 705 pounds of cocaine aboard a sailboat in the Caribbean.

The drug seizure was videotaped by the Coast Guard, as are all its actions like this. Gary sent a copy of the tape to his folks, the Gary Armstrongs of Oxford. They showed it to me.

Gary was aboard the Evergreen, which normally is on fisheries patrol in the North Atlantic. They stop vessels ostensibly to check for life jackets, proper equipment and licensing.

On February 20 they were 400 miles southwest of Miami when they stopped a 38-foot sailboat. Six Coast Guard, wearing bulletproof life jackets, boarded the boat. Gary went below to check things out. He first spotted a water tap that seemed out of place.

When he turned it on, nothing came out. He searched further and found some new fiberglass work in the bottom of the boat over what would be water storage.

The men aboard the boat said there had been no new fiberglass work on the boat. Gary asked if he could drill a hole through it. They agreed, and the drill bit came out with pieces of plastic on it. A probe proved cocaine smuggling.

After more drilling and sawing - the fiberglass was 2 inches thick - the packages were revealed. There were about 280, two-and-a-half-pound packages of cocaine.

The estimated street value is $70 million.

One of the sailors had no prior record, the other was on lifetime probation. They were both from Texas.

Gary's ship, the 180-foot Evergreen, gets decommissioned in June and the Coast Guardsman will be stationed in Puerto Rico for two years.

Gary's dad has been an Oakland County Deputy for 27 years. I said to him, "Your son is sort of taking after you." He said, "Yeah, I'm real proud of him."

And, well he should be.

Incidentally, the videotape was jazzed up with the theme from the television show "Miami Vice." It added to the excitement of watching it, but it was exciting anyway.

The senior Armstrong pointed out how the Coast Guard go right by the book in frisking... no hands-on until the person is in the right position, an observer present in case something drops and the frisker stands quite a way back when cuffing.

One other side note, before the Coast Guard board a boat they circle it to check it out and to see if anything has been thrown overboard. Very careful and efficient.

First, the ballot

I just read the article in your paper from Mrs. Lapinski. She says the state spends $35,000 a year to house a maximum security prisoner.

Yet when asked to support the Patterson Anderson tax cut, the local principal stated he did not know where the money would come from.

I know this is not just one place to look at, but it is a start. All four Springfield Township trustees have been actively working hard for this proposal, which would give more money to education and cut property tax.

I would like you taxpayers to ask your school board why they can't publicly support this proposal at least to get it on the ballot.

Trustee Charles Oaks,
Springfield Township

'If it Fitz ...'

A circuit circus

Jim
Fitzgerald

The actual count is 48. On Jan. 14, for the umpteenth time, I wrote about ghost cars - cars ticketed for illegal parking in Detroit although they were never parked in Detroit. Since then, by mail and phone, I've heard from 48 more victims of the ghost-car scam.

These people don't live in Detroit and seldom, if ever, come here. Months - sometimes even years - after the date of the alleged violations, they received in the mail overdue notices for parking tickets they'd never heard of. They were ordered to pay $25 or $30 or "a citation will be filed in court" and "your license to drive may be withheld."

Intimidated owners of ghost cars sometimes go to a lot of trouble to prove their innocence. Cynthia Selden of Portland sent the Parking Violations Bureau gas station receipts and photographs proving her vehicle was in Wyoming when it was supposedly ticketed in a no-standing zone at 7 Mile and Meyers in Detroit. Betty Kowalski of Grand Blanc sent a signed statement from the owner of a bump shop saying her car was being repaired in Flint when it was supposedly cited for parking overtime at a meter at Brush and Fort in Detroit.

Some owners of ghost cars react with splendid vituperation. Michael Updike, a Union Lake lawyer, wrote to the violations bureau: "The ticket is a complete fraud. I was on vacation on Jan. 2, 1990. I am the only person that drives the car. It is a new car, and the chances I would park it on the street anywhere in Detroit are roughly the same as the odds I will be elected the next Pope. I am not going to pay the ticket. If the City of Detroit files a citation against me in court, it is my intention to sue the City of Detroit and the individuals involved in this fraud in the United States District Court of the Eastern District of Michigan for violations of various Federal laws."

The Municipal Parking Department's response to mailed or phone pleadings of innocence is almost always the same: Pay up by mail or fight the ticket in person in court.

Department Director Helen Irving wants us to believe hundreds of ghost-car tickets result from officers making a simple mistake in writing down a license plate number. Nuts. The truth is some officers, to pad their work record, get license numbers from computer files and write tickets against out-of-town cars, knowing most victims will pay the $25 to avoid a court hassle.

But if you do give up a day's pay and drive downtown to 36th District Court, how are you treated? Tom Parsons, pulled over by Detroit cops for a minor traffic violation, was surprised to be told that, according to the computer, he was driving on a suspended license. He was handcuffed and jailed before coming up with $100 bond. After his arraignment, Parsons went to a Secretary of State's office, where he received an apology and written proof that a mistake had been made and his license was never suspended.

End of case? Not in Detroit. In his second traffic court hearing, in which he pleaded not guilty, Parsons couldn't get anyone to consider the state's dismissal of the suspension. He was curtly ordered to come back again April 19 for trial. That means Parsons must lose three days' wages from his Inkster job to defend himself against an admitted mistake. And the lousy system still has his $100.

Or how about lawyer John Knappmann, who does work for the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office? Knappmann received two undeserved (he claims) parking tickets at the same Detroit location on the same day. He requested a hearing and was ordered to appear in traffic court on two different days. When Knappmann suggested it would make sense to deal with both tickets at the same appearance, he was told no way because "the computer won't allow it."

Onward and upward. If you want to risk being treated with bureaucratic arrogance and stupidity, drive into Detroit. You may learn your car's already been there, without you.

From This Perspective

The visit

Tracy
King

Suddenly last week, I realized I had less than 24 hours to prepare for my mother and step-father who were visiting for the weekend.

This was a bigger occasion than it sounds. The last time my mother got a close-up view of my lifestyle, I was in college and things were expected to be a bit helter-skelter.

I had never been visited as a married person, and I wasn't too sure how I would stack up.

Did I need new lamps?

My mother can usually be counted on for her reassuring approval of everything, whether it's my decision to move halfway across the country to get married or whether I choose to wear the red socks that day.

There are, however, three areas in which she is unyieldingly critical. She demands good manners, careful grooming and absolute cleanliness.

This is a woman who has painted her entire house bright white. Before she leaves the house in the morning, every last fork is washed and put away, and the sink is dried of water spots.

I looked around at my apartment and decided that though it could be described as functional and comfortable, I was in trouble.

I cleaned the best I could, bought some bright white candles and waited.

They were almost two hours late, during which time I sat in position, careful not to rearrange the strategic placement of my sofa pillows, re-evaluating every ornament I had collected over the past five years.

They finally arrived. In keeping with her manners, my mother put on her happiest face and said, "Oh, Oh, Tracy, this is lovely."

I was relieved, of course, but did she really mean it?

It helped, I think, that she had never been to Detroit as an adult and therefore suspected that I lived in an apartment above a laundromat, with bars on the windows.

Our home isn't the Ford Mansion, but it survives without the bars, thank goodness.

There were a few shaky moments in the visit, like when my husband looked at me, panic in his voice, saying "Where are all of our blankets?"

"They're on our bed. It's winter," was all I could answer. We turned up the heat.

My mother offered no suggestions on redecorating and only once found an area that needed cleaning - the glass panels on a lamp above the dining room table.

She complimented me on how healthy my plants looked and, when the weekend concluded, whispered that she had decided to present Pat with new glassware for his birthday next month.

I stood observing the place after they left. "Not bad," I decided.

The bright white candles added a nice touch.

Council truthful on cityhood

I am under the impression that a few residents of the Village of Clarkston would like a guarantee from the village council that cityhood will not increase their taxes. How can anyone expect a governing body to make such a bold statement?

Certainly, Independence Township officials would not make such a promise.

Over the years, Clarkston governments have been very prudent in their spending and taxing practices. As an example, the village council was able to rework their '89-'90 budget so village taxes would not have to be increased to cover even the rate of inflation.

Council members have put great effort and countless hours into making certain that cityhood facts and costs are fairly represented and presented to the voters. They have nothing to gain by painting a "rosy picture" of cityhood for Clarkston; facts are facts.

Keep in mind that, as village residents, council members would be living under this form of government as well.

Why would they put so much effort into a cause if it would create a financial burden for their families and friends?

Granted, the cost of cityhood is an issue that should not be overlooked. As a 25-year-old owner of a 150-year-old house, I can least afford an unjust increase in taxes.

However, the council has produced documentation that shows that cityhood can be achieved without an appreciable increase in taxes.

That being the case, we should not let the cost issue of cityhood cloud its ultimate goal.

Cityhood will keep control of Clarkston in the hands of the 1,100 village residents; those of us who have chosen to live in a small, historic town and who are directly affected both financially and socially by what happens to it.

As the township continues to grow around us, cityhood will enable us to remain a small, serene village.

The village council was elected to represent the 1,100 residents of the village. In doing so, they must take into consideration, not only the present condition of the village, but its future as well.

In researching and compiling the facts regarding cityhood they have done just that.

They are not trying to sabotage Clarkston; they are trying to preserve it.

I applaud their efforts.

Bill Basinger Jr.

Expensive to check facts

I have recently requested information on the use of automobiles leased or owned by Independence Township under the Freedom of Information Act.

I contacted the township office and was told to contact the department of public works.

I was told that if I called back in a week I would have the information I requested. In a day or two the clerk called and stated someone requested I submit this in writing.

Upon pressing her "who" requested this, she finally said (Supervisor Frank) Ronk.

I stopped by The Clarkston News and asked if they had ever been required to submit any questions in writing, and the reply was negative.

Upon asking Ronk why I was required to submit in writing, he replied that he wanted to make sure I would follow through. On March 8 I made my request in writing.

In response, dated 3-14, I have received a bill for $50 if I want the information requested. Now I have recently paid a raise of almost $5,000 to the head of DPW for this information, along with a similar raise to Mr. Ronk and the other elected officials.

I cannot believe that any research need to be done at $9.98 per hour that has not been done prior to the leasing of the 10 vehicles. If so, the $5,000 raise to Ronk and other elected officials, along with the raise to the department head of the DPW, was a complete waste of my tax dollars.

I may be wrong, but I believe you are prohibited by law to try and prevent me from obtaining information by requiring me to pay this fee. If this is proper, is it an attempt to deny the voters access to see how taxpayers' money is being spent?

Now I would like to know the number of times in the past year you have made an individual citizen pay for "our" information.

I loved Tink Ronk's letter to the editor in the March 15 edition of The Clarkston News, "Check facts before writing letter." He forgot to tell them it costs $50 to check the facts.

Smart voters will reject him

So it's true, Tom Greene, the ex-TV newsman, has decided to be our state representative. On the radio, he said if he won, he would actually move here from his home near Lansing.

Unfortunately, Rudy Lozano was wrong. There is no policy or regulation that prohibits state capitol hangers-on from sitting up in Lansing and picking out "open" seats for a job. But I suspect the good sense of the voters will reject this blatant effort to capitalize on a well-publicized name.

Undoubtedly, Mr. Greene will put on an expensive campaign fueled with money from Lansing PACs and lobbyists. But what the voters here want is someone who knows them and their problems and concerns because he has lived with them. ... someone who is truly representative of them.

Pupils skip class, cause no harm

BY RENEE GLOVINSKY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

About 20 students from Clarkston and Sashabaw junior high schools were found congregating at a classmate's house during a scheduled school day last week.

But rumors proved to be more serious than the actual incident, said Detective Steven Parker of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD).

On Wednesday, March 21, someone told the OCSD that students had broken into a home on Paramus, Independence Township, were nude, were using drugs and alcohol, and had destroyed a hot tub.

None of the reports were true, said OCSD Sgt. Joe Quisenberry, who fielded calls about the incident from area radio and television stations and lots of newspapers.

A few kids were found in a home belonging to a friend who was not with them, but all pupils were fully

"The kids were very apologetic and have been asked to apologize to the family and to the police."

Principal David Reschke clothed, he said.

"There was no evidence of narcotics or alcohol or any wild sex orgy," he said, adding that each student's parents were notified, as were the respective schools.

SJHS Principal David Reschke had also heard the rumors but discounted them.

"This was no big deal," he said. "I don't think that this was a school issue except for the fact that the kids were skipping. They will be disciplined according to school policy for skipping class."

"The kids were very apologetic and have been asked to apologize to the family and to the police," said Reschke.

William Neff, director of administrative services for Clarkston schools, had also answered questions about the wild tales. There were no signs of nudity, sex or drugs, he said.

"Students have either received detentions or suspensions for their actions," he said.

"I hope students realize that when they don't appear in school, their parents will be notified immediately," added Neff.

No charges were filed in the incident, said Quisenberry.

Developer lawsuit on township agenda

A controversial 76-acre manufactured home proposal is on the agenda of the Independence Township Board Tuesday, April 3.

The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. at the township annex, 90 N. Main St., Clarkston.

The board voted against the proposal last year, and developer Gregory Christopher filed a lawsuit in June 1989, stating that the township discriminated by not allowing the creation of affordable housing for residents.

At the meeting, board members are to decide whether to enter into a compromise settlement and allow the manufactured home community to be developed.

The development was proposed for a parcel on Mann and Clintonville roads near I-75.

Scouting service

Mother Nature interfered with the plans of Boy Scout Troop 189 of Clarkston March 19.

Thirteen boys had planned to pick up trash for three hours from the fields on Sashabaw Road, Independence Township, but a sudden snowfall hid the trash from their view.

They ended up filling 20 bags with garbage in one hour and finished up the evening with a meal — on the house — at McDonald's Restaurant on Sashabaw Road.

"Except for the sudden snowfall, it went really good," said Assistant Scoutmaster Mark Gillette. "We had bigger plans, which Mother Nature didn't let us do."

For their efforts, the scouts can chalk up another hour of service toward a rank badge, said Gillette.

Helping were the following scouts, ages 11-15: Brian Bas, Jason Cain, Jeff Deevey, Josh Gillette, Joe Mansfield, Peter Miller, Bryce Nelson, Kevin Nyberg, Frank Scheiderer, Rich Warchuck, Brandon Williams, Steven Zerba and Brent Zorka.

Also present was Advancement Chairman Johnnie Williams.

Fire department puts two parcels up for sale

BY RENEE GLOVINSKY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Property owned by the Independence Township Fire Department is for sale for about $241,000, which will be used to help pay for a new fire station, according to Chief Gar Wilson.

One of the sites, on Rattalee Lake Road along M-15, is 1.58 acres and has been appraised at $31,000.

"Several years ago the department had purchased this land to use it as a future station site," said Wilson. "But because this is more than a 40-acre parcel, there just isn't enough population in that area. I really don't think that area will be developed anymore than it already has been."

The second site for sale is at M-15 and Waldon roads in the Village of Clarkston. The site, consisting of five lots, was also purchased as a possible station site and is valued at $210,000.

"We've got a pretty good system, but it's hard to operate on a shoestring budget."

Chief Gar Wilson

All the money received for the property sites will be put towards a new or a leased station, said Wilson.

"We've got a pretty good system, but it's hard to operate on a shoestring budget," he said.

The possibility of cityhood for the Village of Clarkston played an important factor in the decision to sell the Waldon Road site, said Wilson, explaining that the village would automatically become a joint owner of the property if cityhood goes into effect.

"The Village of Clarkston (council members) are against us building a new fire station in that location," said Wilson. "Some of their concerns were over a larger lane highway needed and whether or not it would be safe."

According to village President Sharron Catallo, a few council members were against the fire station being built on that site.

"I think it would be great to have a fire station in town," said Catallo. "This was never a major issue with the village. Only a few members had said they were against the idea."

75-acre rezoning garners first OK

BY RENEE GLOVINSKY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Density, drainage, traffic and lake pollution were the concerns of a few residents who attended a public hearing March 6 about the rezoning of 75 acres on Michigamme, Independence Township.

The township board voted 4-1 March 6 to approve the first reading of the rezoning from rural residential to suburban farm residential.

Voting yes were Supervisor Frank Ronk, Treasurer John Lutz and trustees Daniel Travis and Mel Leroy Vaara. Clerk Joan McCrary voted no. Trustees Frank Millard and William Vandermark were absent. A second reading and adoption is necessary before the rezoning takes place.

After the meeting, McCrary explained why she voted against the rezoning.

"This is our one chance to keep density down," she said. "The topography doesn't lend itself to smaller lots."

P.E.G. Construction of Rochester requested the rezoning from rural residential, which requires a three-acre minimum lot size, to suburban farm residential, which requires a one-and-a-half-acre minimum lot size.

The company is to create a subdivision at the south end of Michigamme Road, northwest of Walters Lake and south of Thendara Park subdivision.

The board is to consider adopting the second reading and adoption at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 3, at the township annex, 90 N. Main St., Clarkston.

Village manager's revenge sends teacher to jail

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Teacher Marv Hess didn't have much trouble getting bailed out of jail March 22, but he had a lot of explaining to do to his students.

He was picked up about 1 p.m. during a break from his marketing class at the Oakland Technical Center-Northwest Campus, but his students showed up in time to wave to him as he walked, handcuffed, to the police car.

With a few well-placed phone calls, Hess quickly raised the $300 bond and was out of jail by 3:30 p.m.

"It worked out really well," he said a day later. "It was kind of fun."

As it turns out, his jail term was all in fun, though he deserved the sentence.

His former co-worker, Artemus Pappas, arranged the whole incident through the American Cancer Society's Great American Lock-Up.

Pappas, with revenge in mind, paid $25 to the cancer society to have Hess locked up at a "jail" at the Summit Place Mall, Waterford Township. Hess, in turn, appeared before a judge, who set bail at $300.

"Different people had different amounts," said Hess, who considers himself lucky that school was in session, so he could appeal to his fellow teachers for the money.

Pappas was delighted at the chance for revenge against Hess, a well-known prankster.

A few months ago, Pappas answered his phone at

"I waited a long time, but I think we're even."

Tri-star contest brings out best

BY JULIE CAMPE

Some swished nearly all their shots, and some just made a few; but all the children who participated in the Optimist Tri Star Basketball Contest gave their best effort March 24.

More than 70 kids participated in the fifth annual event at Clarkston Junior High School, and even some parents spent Saturday morning in the gym, watching all the action.

In one corner, students shot free throws and then moved in a few steps and shot again. Their results were recorded, and they were cheered on to the next station in the middle of the gym, where boys and girls were measured on the accuracy of two passes.

On nearly the length of one side of the gym, the young athletes dribbled as fast as they could in an obstacle course made of bright orange cones.

Eventually, the times were in, and the winners were known. Pat Jones, who finished first in the 10-11 age category, also finished top overall, with 159 points. Tim O'Rourke, also in the 10-11 category, finished second overall with 147 points.

Following are the results of the contest, sponsored by the Clarkston Area Optimists. All the winners received plaques.

home, and an irate voice accused him of being disrespectful toward the American flag. It seems that Pappas' flag weathered a rain storm at his residence.

Pappas, accustomed to fielding such calls from area veterans who occasionally complain about the village flag, said he did, indeed, respect the flag and had served his country in Korea, though he did not see combat.

Then, the caller, who claimed to be a World War II veteran, made a snide remark: "Oh. That little police action."

Pappas fumed.

"That really set me on fire, and I hung up on him," said Pappas.

Immediately, the phone rang again, and when Pappas answered it, all he heard was Hess' laughter.

The jail-term pay-back was well deserved, Pappas said. "I waited a long time, but I think we're even."

Tax laws can help offset cost of child care

Americans spend about $14 billion annually on child care. In more down-to-earth terms, that figure breaks down to about $42.50 per week, or $170 per month, for one family.

You don't have to be a mathematician to figure out that child-care costs can easily throw a family's budget off course. But, according to the Michigan Association of CPAs, a number of tax breaks are available to help you get back on track.

Dependent care tax credit

For example, if you pay a babysitter or nanny to care for your children while you and your spouse work, you may be entitled to a dependent-care tax credit. To qualify for the credit, you and your spouse must be gainfully employed, unless one of you is physically or mentally disabled or is enrolled as a full-time student.

In addition, the child-care expenses must be for a dependent under age 13. You should also note that you may have to file IRS form 2441, which asks you to supply the name, address and social security number of any person providing child care services.

How much is the credit worth? Depending on your adjusted gross income (AGI), the credit equals 20 to 30 percent of your qualified child care expenses. However, the amount of allowable expenses is capped at $2,400 for one dependent and at $4,800 for two or more dependents. You should also note that the allowable expenses cannot exceed the earned income of the lower-paid spouse.

Calculating the credit amount is really not as complicated as you may think. To summarize, if your combined AGI is under $10,000, the credit maximum is $720 for one child and $1,440 for more than one.

If your AGI is more than $28,000, the credit maximum is $480 for one dependent and $960 for two or more dependents. If your AGI falls between those two figures, you determine your credit percentage by reducing the 30 percent rate by one percentage point for each $2,000 of

You don't have to be a mathematician to figure out that child-care costs can easily throw a family's budget off course.

AGI above the $10,000 floor.

Let's look at an example. Ann and Todd have an AGI of $24,000. They must therefore reduce the 30 percent credit rate by seven points, making their maximum credit $552 (23 percent of $2,400) for one dependent at $1,104 (23 percent of $4,800) for two or more dependents.

Keep in mind, too, that if you regularly pay a babysitter to care for your children in your home, you must withhold the appropriate social security taxes. If you don't, the IRS may hold you liable not only for the unpaid tax but also for any penalties and interest due.

Employer-sponsored dependent care assistance

You may be able to pay for child care with tax-free dollars if your employer offers a dependent care assistance plan. How do these plans work? First, you provide your employer with an estimate of your annual child-care costs, up to a maximum of $5,000 if you file a joint return.

Your employer will then withhold this amount from your paycheck in equal portions over the year. (Keep in mind that if actual child-care expenses are less than the employee's original estimate, many employer-sponsored assistance plans will not refund the difference to the participants.)

The money that the company sets aside is excluded from federal income tax. If this process sounds familiar, it should. The automatic deduction of pre-tax dollars is basically the same procedure as the one normally used in the company 401 (k) plans.

At regular intervals, you will have to inform your employer of your actual child care costs as well as the name and the social security number of the person of the organization providing the service. The company will then reimburse you from the untaxed money it has deducted from your regular pay.

Be aware that, in most cases, you can no longer take advantage of both the dependent care tax credit and the employer-sponsored assistance plan if your child care expenses exceed $5,000. Generally, you must now choose between the two tax breaks.

As a general rule, married couples with lower incomes (a combined AGI of $29,750 or less) and child care expenses under $3,200 will probably do better with the dependent care credit. On the other hand, higher paid employees may find company assistance plans more beneficial.

For instance, Mary is near the top of the 28 percent tax bracket and pays 7.51 percent in social security payroll tax. She pays $5,000 a year out of her own pocket to a day care center for her five-year-old daughter.

If she had the $5,000 covered by an employer-sponsored assistance plan, she could save as much as $1,776 in tax (35.51 percent of $5,000). If she applies the same $5,000 to the dependent care tax credit instead, the most she can save in taxes is $480.

Dependent exemptions

Bear in mind too, that as a parent you can generally claim an additional exemption for each of your dependent children, as long as you supply more than one half of their annual support. Each exemption is $2,000 for 1989. Translated into dollars and cents, claiming two additional exemptions can save someone in the 28 percent tax bracket as much as $1,120 in federal taxes.

Just remember that you are not entitled to the exemption if your child has personal gross income of more than $2,000, unless he or she is under age 19, or under age 24 and a full-time student.

Tax rules can take some of the bite out of your child care bills, but make sure you have all the facts. For further information on the tax breaks discussed in this article, you should consult your own CPA.

The above information has been prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.

Weight lifters raise nearly $7,000 for school

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

About 60 kids raised nearly $7,000 for the Clarkston High School weight room and football program March 24.

The annual lift-a-thon, started by former football coach Walt Wyniemko around 1980, required lifters to collect pledges for the amount of weight each could lift. "It was good," said football coach Kurt Richardson.

Reporter's Notebook

Lucky Fletcher visited The Clarkston News on the eve of St. Patrick's Day to point out what our colleagues in Ireland were doing.

He had obtained a newspaper from Ireland, dated that very day.

The newspaper had been used to wrap flowers, he finally explained. The flowers were sent by overnight delivery, and Lucky bought them for his wife.

One University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, student got more than he bargained for March 22, when his friends pulled a prank and handcuffed him.

To get loose, he had to call the police — from the Marathon gas station on M-15 at I-75, Independence Township.

Deputies from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department released the sacred student, who did not press charges against his friends.

Items for Reporter's Notebook are compiled by Clarkston News staff members.

"We were happy with what we came up with."

Last year, the athletes raised about $7,000, too, but rather than use the money to improve the weight room, the coaches let the kids use it to pay their $164 pay-to-play fee when the school district cut the budget.

This year, the money is to be spent on new weights and a new weight machine, said Richardson.

Awards were given to top lifters in each weight category and to the person who raised the most money in each weight category.

Following are the winners and the amount each lifted:

Tornado siren to sound April 4

Tornado warning sirens are to sound at 10 a.m. Wednesday, April 4, throughout Oakland County as part of Oakland County Tornado Safety Week.

That time is an opportunity for all schools and businesses to test their internal tornado safety plans and educate their students and employees about tornado safety.

The week of April 1-7 was declared tornado safety week by Oakland County Executive Daniel T. Murphy in an attempt to better educate residents.

"Hopefully, we will reduce personal injuries and fatal incidents due to tornadoes," Murphy said. "Through public education, we hope to make people aware of the safeguards against the destruction of tornadoes."

Tornadoes can reach wind speeds of up to 300 miles per hour and can stay on the ground cutting a path of destruction for more than 200 miles.

Tornadoes also strike 17 times each year in Michigan.

Wolves to depend on defense, pitching

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In spring, a young man's fancy turns to love ...

... and baseball.

Sixty-six athletes tried out for about 30 open positions on the varsity and JV baseball teams.

"The pay-to-play requirement might have hurt a little, but I don't think it had any effect on anyone with game experience," said varsity coach Roy Warner about this year's turnout.

The Wolves finished second in the Greater Oakland Activities League last year and second in districts. GOAL is one of the state's toughest baseball conferences.

"Our league can put our teams up against any other teams in the county," said Warner.

The coach doesn't plan on his team slamming many round-trippers, but he expects his team to score enough runs and have a strong defense hold back the opponents.

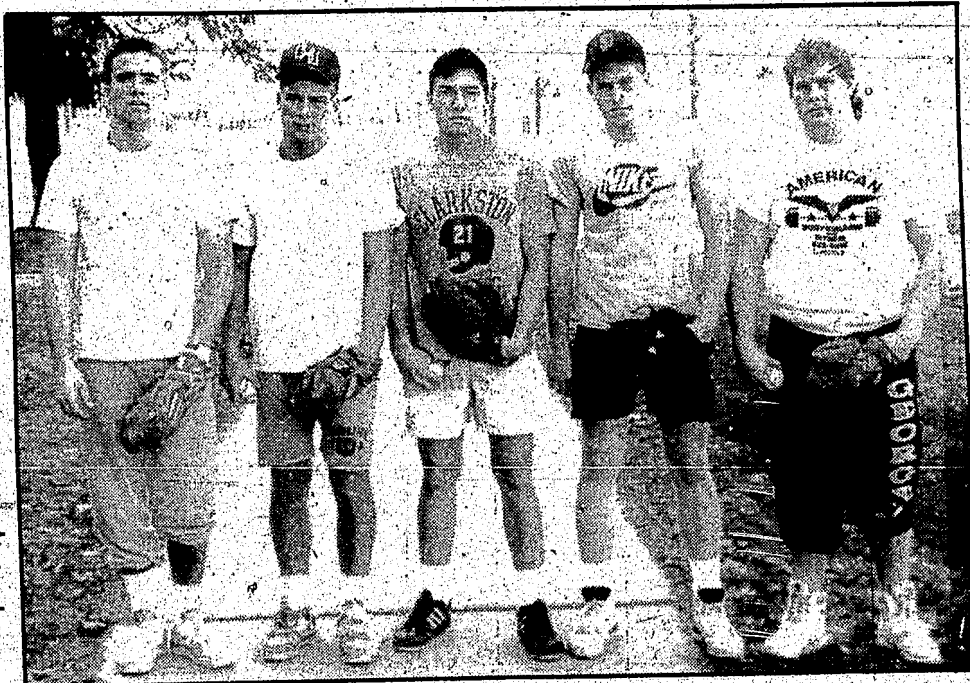

"We'll try to control the games as best we can, not make many mistakes physically or mentally," said Warner. "We'll score runs when the opportunity presents itself because we can't rely on big innings."

The varsity will feature seven seniors, seven juniors and one sophomore. Many of the positions are still up for grabs, especially with the Wolves having their entire outfield graduate last season.

Larry Liford returns after batting about .410 last season and teammate Corey Olsen hit about .380.

Catcher Chad Hetherington returns, but he is just getting his cast removed from a broken leg injury.

The Wolves will count on veteran pitchers Kevin Keilitz and Todd Bennett. Other pitching prospects are Darren Master, Chris Wasilk, Dugan Fife, Olsen, Li-ford and Hetherington.

Coach Warner expects Kettering to be tough in the GOAL.

He points out that Brandon of the GOAL will be the Wolves' foe in the season opener April 9, which will make it important for his team to get off to a fast start.

"We could be playing the league championship deciding game in the first game and should do everything to get ready," said Warner.

Warner says practices have been going well, even though his team has been mostly limited to staying inside because of the cold weather.

"We've had our typical three days of spring training," laughs the coach about the few days it has been warm enough to go outside.

Warner said it is still too early to decide who will fill most of the starting positions on the team.

It may not get too warm during the beginning of the season, but the Wolves will be playing in friendly territory. The first four games will be at home.

Ruelle places for SVSU

Clarkston's Tom Ruelle, a junior at Saginaw Valley State University, Saginaw, earned all-conference honors at the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference indoor track championships at Hillsdale College on Feb. 17.

Ruelle placed sixth in the 35-pound weight competition with a 32-1 foot toss, helping the Cardinals to a second-place finish with 143 points.

Ruelle also had a successful outdoor track season last year, earning his first letter. He placed second in the javelin competition at the NAIA District 23 meet with a 157-5 1/2 foot toss and fifth at the GLIAC championships with a 167-2 1/2-foot throw.

A three-sport athlete at SVSU, Ruelle also has earned letters in football and baseball. Also excelling in the classroom, the physical education major maintains a 3.20 grade point average and earned a spot on the deans' list with a 3.53 GPA in the fall semester.

Ruelle is the son of William and Dorothy Ruelle of Clarkston.

Young team hopes to blossom

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston's varsity softball team this season will be young (one senior) and inexperienced (four returning lettermen).

But coach Carla Teare said she hopes to see much improvement in her young Wolves as the year progresses.

"We have more ability than what you might think a young team would have," said Teare, beginning her 10th season as coach, with last season being her first one below .500.

Just after about a week of practice, the coach likes what she sees.

"They're hardworking and have a great attitude. They're a delight to coach. You never mind coaching a team that works hard, no matter what will happen during the season."

Along with the team's one senior, pitcher and third baseman Jamie Law, will be two freshmen, Heather Austin and Allyson McChesney. Austin is expected to see some action on the mound.

Teare has never had a freshman on the varsity. A lack of freshmen and sophomores trying out this year canceled the season for the junior varsity team. Teare said the pay-to-play requirement might have been one of the main reasons for the lack of younger players.

The coach said since nearly all of her players will be returning next season, the varsity program will not necessarily suffer, unless the loss of a junior varsity team continues for two years in a row.

"I think it will be encouraging to the players this season that they will be back again next year," said Teare of her 12 underclassmen.

Along with inexperience, Teare said she doesn't expect her hitters to have too much power.

But she said her squad has above-average speed, good contact hitters and good gloves.

"We will count on our defense," said Teare.

Pitching is a key to any team and the Wolves will start two hurlers with varsity experience, Law and junior Jennifer McChesney. Freshman Austin and junior Colleen Cruz will also spend some time on the mound. Cruz pitched on the JV team last year.

The Greater Oakland Activities League has been to softball over the years with often the teams in the state's top 10, including past Clarkston teams. Teare plans on the league to again be strong this year, with Kettering, Mott, Lake Orion and Brandon the teams to beat.

Teare hopes her young team will peak as the regular season ends and the district tournament begins.

Good & Bad of Finals

Swinging from the Heels

Public schools vs. private schools. Record crowds and record number of people sitting on their hands.

An old coach who is ill and a new one that wins it all.

I had many mixed feelings Saturday as I watched all four games of the boys' state championship basketball finals at the Palace.

Unfortunately, none of the games were barn burners as Detroit Southwestern stopped Saginaw, 67-54, in Class A; Detroit Country Day got past Saginaw Buena Vista, 59-53, in Class B; Saginaw Nouvel topped Ishpeming, 78-59, in Class C; and Detroit East Catholic knocked off Covert, 72-58, in Class D.

Even though most of the games were only close for three quarters, it still was a pleasure to see some of Michigan's best basketball players competing under pressure.

So why the mixed feelings?

This is why. First some of the good things I saw I felt at the finals. I'll call them my ...

High-5 Moments

* The Large Crowds. Record number of spectators filed into the Palace. In the first game, Class B, 19,000-plus people entered to make it the largest crowd ever to watch a Michigan high school sports event. A few hours later, that record was broken in the C-D games when 20,501 watched. Grand total for the whole night was 59,000-plus.

* The Right Calls. The officiating in all four games was outstanding. Also, the refs didn't allow any of the players to come close to starting any skirmishes.

* Tall, Talented, Tourney-pleaser. There is no doubt Detroit Country Day's Chris

CHRIS Webber gets interviewed on television by Greg Kelsner.

Webber is one of the most talented (if not the most talented) juniors in the country.

* Say No! The Budweiser signs on the scoreboard were covered, along with an ad for Winston cigarettes. There were often many announcements during timeouts, etc. that were anti-drug and alcohol.

* UPers. Ishpeming might have lost for the second straight year in the finals, but the loyal Hematite fans are what this tournament is supposed to be all about. They traveled about eight hours to see the game. And by far, they were the noisiest fans the whole day. It looked like the whole town was there cheering, young and old alike. I hope one sheriff stayed behind in Ishpeming to guard all that hematite.

* Making a Pass. It was appropriate that the crowd cheered some outstanding (most of them no-look) passes as loud as they cheered dunks. The Michigan high school crowds are certainly knowledgeable basketball fans.

* Coach. I played my high school basketball at Bay City All Saints. I was hoping to see my former coach, Lefty Franz, at the tournament. Lefty, who has about 540 career wins and has won two state championships, always makes it to the tournament. This year, however, I found out the sad news that he couldn't attend because of surgery for cancer. But at least there was an All Saints connection at the tournament. Saginaw Nouvel won the Class C championship under the guidance of second-year coach Joe Ricard, an All Saints graduate. Lefty, I'm sure, was proud.

* No Longer a Bridesmaid. I think everyone, except Saginaw, was happy to see Detroit Southwestern and its coach Perry Watson win the state championship after being runner-up for seven previous years.

* Quality, Not Quantity. Covert was losing 63-54 with only 3:11 left in the game, but the whole Covert bench was clapping, trying to help their teammates come back. They, along with about five loud girls in their 20s and 30s in the stands, seemed to be the only ones cheering for Covert the whole day.

Lowlights

* I Can't Hear You. There were huge crowds watching all of the games, but not too much noise from many of the team's fans in the stands. There were always cheers for great plays, but seldom the constant, crazy, loud, spirited, creative cheers from classmates and alumni. This part of the tournament has really changed over the years and it is too bad because fan and town involvement, at least to me, is what this tournament is supposed to be all about.

* An ABC Farce. Was there any coincidence that three of the four state champs were private schools? I played basketball for a successful parochial school in the 70s, but we didn't recruit. Things have changed. Detroit Country Day, a private school, last year won the Class C title, this year it voluntarily won the Class B crown, and already the school has thoughts about going for the Class A championship next year. Country Day, Detroit East Catholic and Saginaw Nouvel can get their players from all over their cities, unlike the restrictions placed on public schools. I think it is time for the Michigan High School Athletic Association to think about five divisions in basketball, adding an Open class (they could also call it the College Minor League Class, the Transfer Class or the Instant Basketball Power Class).

* Time Out. The finals were televised, which is great for the fans at home. However, while the fans are running off to the bathroom or grabbing a ham sandwich, the players are often waiting around for the TV director to give the cue to the ref so the ref can hand them the ball. This is a good way of getting the players ready for televised college basketball games. Weren't the finals at one time televised on PBS stations without commercials? When and why did that change?

* Too Many Cooks. I am starting to notice how many schools in the finals have five or six coaches, assistants, etc. on the bench. I get suspicious when there is one coach for every three players. Is the right message being sent or is it making a high school game look too important with so many adults on the bench. Plus, it pushes the players on the bench even farther away from the head coach.

KENDRA Fantetti, Derek Holl and Sarah Holl are three Clarkston residents who spend much time on the ice practicing and performing. The trio practice at Lakeland Arena.

Three make marks on ice

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It's spring but three Pine Knob Elementary students still crave the ice.

As the temperatures start to rise outside, Kendra Fantetti, 11, and Sarah Holl, 9, get a rise out of doing sow cows and half-fips and Derek Holl, 7, gets his kicks blasting pucks past goalies.

Kendra and Sarah have been figure skating for two and a half years, usually practicing a few hours five days a week at the Lakeland Arena.

A few weeks ago Kendra captured first place in the 11-12 group in freestyle competition at Fraser and Sarah took fifth place in the 9-10 division. It was the first competition for both. The two have also skated at spring and Christmas shows at Lakeland.

Next weekend the two young skaters will compete at Skate the Zoo in Kalama-zoo.

"It's more fun in competition than at practice, but I really get nervous," said Kendra. "But if I ever fall, I just get up and keep going like nothing happened."

"I'm not nervous once I get out there," notes Sarah.

Kendra's skating repertoire includes the waltz jump, sow cow, half-flip and spiral. She is working on dance techniques.

Sarah can waltz jump, foot-spin, sow cow and half-flip. She is also working on dance.

Along with their skating, both girls have also been involved with cheerleading. Kendra cheered in fourth grade and Sarah has been the mascot for the high school.

Sarah, whose favorite skater is Canada's Elizabeth Manley, would like to become a professional skater someday.

Kendra, who enjoys watching American skater Debi Thomas, would like to become a skating coach, much like her coach at Lakeland Arena, Holly Head.

Derek, Sarah's brother, leaves his marks on the ice in a different way. The left-winger and center scored 45 goals, passed for 16 assists and had three hat tricks this winter for the Kings in the Mini-Mites division at Lakeland Arena.

In the coming weeks he will be a member of the Mite A travel team.

Derek, a left-hander, has been playing hockey since he was 3 years old. His hockey idols are Wayne Gretzky and Steve Yzerman.

Outside of hockey, Derek plays Little League baseball and has been a football mascot for the Clarkston Chiefs.

Derek, like Sarah and Kendra, also gets a little nervous sometimes on the ice.

"Sometimes I get butterflies in my stomach," said Derek.

No doubt the goalies that couldn't stop 45 of Derek's shots have also felt their share of butterflies.

Fedio helps Grand Valley

Sophomore Ali Fedio of Clarkston completed her second season with the Grand Valley State University basketball team, scoring 145 points and grabbing 87 rebounds.

The Lady Lakers finished 22-6 overall, second in the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Conference with a 13-3 record, and made the NCAA playoffs.

Fedio averaged 5.4 points per game and 3.2 rebounds. She had the second best field goal shooting percentage on the team (49 percent) and netted a career high 18 points against the University of Buffalo.

12 wrestlers place at Romulus

Twelve Clarkston wrestlers placed, with half of those taking firsts, in a tournament Sunday at Romulus High School.

Clarkston Wrestling Club members Christopher Haag, Bryan Endreszl, A.J. Grant, Franco Vega, Randy Gates and Corey Grant all took first place in their respective divisions.

Chiefs will get different look in '91

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Reporter

The Chiefs will still be the Chiefs, but they will have a different look starting in 1991.

The board of directors for the Clarkston Chiefs a few weeks ago voted to change the colors of the Chiefs from orange and black to blue and gold, beginning in the 1991 season.

The Chiefs are 8 to 13 year-old football players who play in the Suburban Youth Football Conference.

The vote was 8-6 in favor of the change of colors. At least 12 members had to be present for a quorum. There are about 36 members on the board.

"They all knew about a month before about the vote on the change," said board president Jeff Davis.

There was also discussion about possibly changing the name of the Chiefs. However, about a week later on March 19, the board in a 12-0 vote decided to keep the name of the Chiefs.

Clarkston High School Athletic Director Paul Tungate was not informed before the vote was taken on the change of colors, but he was contacted by the Chiefs' board before the vote was taken on the possible change of name.

Tungate said he thought the change of colors was a "good idea." He also said he personally had no objections if the name would have been changed from Chiefs to Wolves, but did acknowledge that there could be some pressure not to change the name.

Davis said Tungate's input on the possible name change was important because the Chiefs' football program greatly values the relationship with the high school. The Chiefs' home games are all played at the high school's field.

Board member George Mason said the changeover of colors (for uniforms, helmets, etc.) in 1991 will cost the organization from $15,000 to $20,000. He said the old orange and black uniforms will probably be used for practice.

The change also means there will be some people with orange and black Chiefs' jackets in their closets and others eventually with blue and gold jackets.

But Davis said he thinks the change will have some financial advantages, too.

"We think the blue and gold will help in our fund raising," said Davis. Fund raising is important for the Chiefs because it helps reduce the fee the players have to pay in order to play.

Mason said another reason the board wanted the change was that they had heard comments that the orange and black Chiefs "looked like pumpkins."

Orange and black were the original colors when the team first started in 1971 because a Pontiac team gave the Chiefs a good deal on their old uniforms.

In "Cinderella," the carriage was said to turn into a pumpkin at midnight. In 1991, the pumpkins will change into blue and gold.

Ladd sets school record

Lisa Ladd, a 1987 Clarkston High School graduate, helped her college track team tie for fifth place in the nation, as well as taking home personal honors.

Ladd, a junior at Hillsdale College, Hillsdale, took sixth in the long jump at the National Association of College Athletes National Track Meet in Kansas City, Mo., the first week of March.

Her indoor jump at 18 feet, 18 1/4 inches, also set a new school record. By placing sixth, Ladd earned All American status.

Ladd also placed first in her conference and has been long jump champion of the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference three consecutive years, according to her coach, Diane Philipp.

Philipp said Ladd is an "outstanding triple jumper, too."

Overall, the Ladd's team placed fifth in the nation with 27 points, just three points away from third place, said Philipp, who has coached at Hillsdale for nine years. Eight other Hillsdale track team members earned All American honors.

Does someone on your team consistently hit home runs, score lots of goals or pile up lots of serving aces? We'd like to know at The Clarkston News. 625-3370

FINANCIAL INDEPENDENCE

QUESTION: How does real estate investment fare as a method of making you financially independent in your old age?

ANSWER: Being financially independent in your later years is a feat by itself. According to a study by the U.S. Government, of all people over the age of 65, only 6% are financially independent. Also, according to this same study, all of the lucky segment became financially independent partly or wholly through ownership of real estate. No one buys their first home as a reason for financial independence at retirement but that's the way it normally works out.

1990 Short Story Contest winner

The Embarrassment

By Beverly Territo

She was going to be the next Betty Grable. She was dedicating this eighth summer of her life, 1949, to begin her training.

In secret she practiced little exercises. She would take the beautiful, white, silky pillow, imprinted with a picture of Niagara Falls, from its special place on the sofa, into her bedroom.

There, she would tip-toe-walk with it balanced on her head. Only twice had it ever slipped off, but no one saw it fall to the floor; and she quickly returned it to its place of honor, keeping secret its tumbles.

Other times she would put spit on her fingers and draw tear lines down her freckled cheeks and say sad things into the round compact mirror her Auntie had given her.

One time she took a toothpick and scraped left-over pancake make-up from the edges of the compact and smeared it on her face for a special fantasy. She was meeting Harry James, Betty's famous trumpet-playing husband, under the dining room table.

The most energetic of her stardom preparations, however, were the operettas. They were made-up sing-song narratives, punctuated by crescendos and staccatos — nonsensical stories that rolled out of her imagination as the situations warranted. They were horrible, but they were only performed out loud when she was absolutely ALONE.

One hot, sticky August afternoon, a bath provided the perfect occasion for one of these soulful musicals. Locked in the bathroom performance hall, she was cooling off and washing out the gritty beads of dirt stuck in the fold lines of her arms and neck. Center stage, in the spotlight, before a sea of adoring fans, she scrubbed her body and crooned her story.

"Betty and June (Allison) went over to Harry's house and called him out to play hopscotch. Then they all walked down to Manzo's Market."

As she washed an old scab off her knee, she continued.

"But they all fell down on the sidewalk and skinned their knees, but they didn't cry because they cleaned them off with spit and didn't have to get the peroxide. So they went into Manzo's and bought a hundred bucks worth of root beer Popsicles and bubblegum."

Her voice had reached a shrill squeal, and her dramatic gestures caused her to bang her elbow against the tub. The discomfort interrupted her song for a moment. When she resumed the saga, it was in a low, slow, gloomy drone, as she rubbed her sore elbow.

"Then a big, black Nazi car drove down Bessemore Street and hit everyone and splashed their guts and popsicles all over Manzo's store window and Mrs. Manzo had to squirt the stuff off with the hose."

About the author

Beverly Territo
lic Church, Clarkston.

Beverly Territo, mother of six and grandmother of eight, resides on Allen Road, Independence Township, with her husband, Joseph.

In the past, she has written for school newspapers, the Pontiac Symphony and for children's programs.

"I enjoy writing," she says, adding that she usually writes for her own enjoyment.

She also enjoys painting, gardening, traveling and singing in the choir at St. Daniel Catholic Church, Clarkston.

Her head bowed in respect for the afflicted. She looked at the thin gray soapy scum floating on the water. It was time to end the bath.

She glanced at the cute clean sunsuit hanging on the doorknob. It reminded her of her after-bath playtime. Happy again, she decided to end her program with a snappy epilogue.

"They were really not dead. They got back up and blew giant bubbles with their wads of bubblegum."

She reached down to pull out the bathtub plug and then experienced the most embarrassing moments of her young life.

Outside the open bathroom window, veiled behind the louvered screen and curtains, came the clapping, hooting and laughing of the two dreadful boys next door.

In amused silence, they had crouched outside, beneath the window, listening, stealing her precious personal performance! To ensure her embarrassment, their applause was accompanied by whistles and mocking imitations of her strains of "Guts on Manzo's Window."

Her life was ruined. Her career was slipping away like the whirlpool of dirty water gurgling down the drain. She could never go outside to play again.

Those evil sneaks! They were still laughing. She was dying. Her face was on fire. She slipped into her sunsuit then draped a towel over her head. She needed a place to go, somewhere no one would ever be. She had

About the contest

Sixteen writers entered the second annual Short Story Writing Contest sponsored by the Village Bookstore.

The entries — from all ages — were well written and covered a variety of topics, said Georgene Sloan, owner of the Village Bookstore on Main Street, Clarkston.

She judged the entries with English teacher Diane Evans and Clarkston News Editor Julie Campe.

"The judging was more difficult than last year," said Sloan. "We had so many entries that had merit; it was difficult to decide which one we thought was the best."

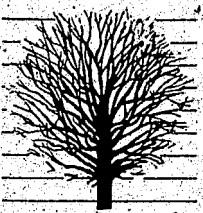

She enjoys offering the contest, she said.

"I sponsor it mainly because I know there are many people who want to become writers, and this gives them a chance to submit their work," Sloan said.

For winning this year's contest, Beverly Territo of Independence Township will dine with the judges and have her work published in The Clarkston News.

Citizens for Orderly Growth

Maintain grace and beauty of old

By Duffy Liddicoat

A Swiss city -- one old house therein -- an inscription on the house reads:

*Lasset uns am Alten,
So es gut ist, halten.*

Translation:

*Where the old is good,
Let us hold onto it.*

A late model car in the garage fails to destroy the force of the motto.

ABOUT a century later, a Marathon gas station (view from the south) takes the farm's place.

"Highway 1 -- 2,000 miles from the north of Maine to Key West -- 2,000 miles of trashy paraphernalia of American roadside development on each of its sides -- all of it alike, emphasizing by its likeness its indifference to, indeed its contempt for, the natural setting through which it runs."

The above direct and indirect quotes from a book entitled "Sketches from a Life" by George F. Kennan represent the thinking of many of us now, but during the years immediately following World War II, many of us simply took for granted our abundant open space and natural resources.

We saw them as a means to acquire income from development as well as attractive settings for homes for ourselves.

A few visionaries like Rachel Carson ("Silent Spring," 1961) tried to get through to us, but it has taken more than 30 years for the majority of us to see our environment, and its protection, as an important issue.

More than 30 years during which untold numbers of acres have been paved, whole neighborhoods of old houses razed in the name of "Urban Renewal" (see Fenton in Michigan) and many isolated incidents of desecration such as the Harrison Walter farm on M-15, just north of I-75, where a magnificent Victorian house was destroyed, and a Marathon station now stands (see illustrations).

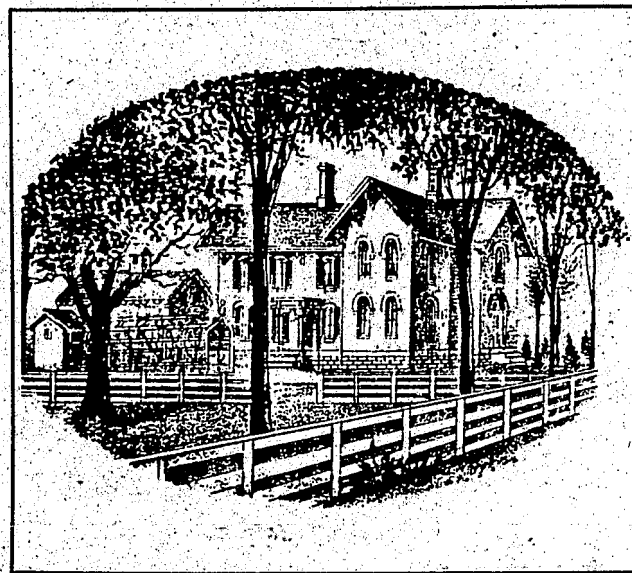

No one is to blame. We all need automobiles; we all need to support our families, but we do not need to continue as before!

Planning at the state level could provide for green belts, historic preservation and traffic control without intruding on our rights. And for the good of our country and our descendants, we must try, through groups such as COG, to get our state government and ourselves involved in and sensitive to the issue of planned growth.

None of us really wants to be told that we can't do with our property as we please, but neither do we want our great-great-grandchildren to live in a land devoid of grace and beauty.

Note: Doug Carlson, COG's chairman and regular author of this column, is wintering in warmer climes. During his absence, individual members of COG will be expressing their personal views on orderly growth.

THE HARRISON Walter farm (view from the south) was situated on M-15, near Little Walters Lake.

such a place. It was her special sacred little cloister. She went into the corner of the bathroom, behind the tub, moved the little towel chest aside, sat down on the floor and began to slide as much of herself as would fit, under the large four-legged bath tub.

She had scrunched in so far that only her shoulders and head were left out beyond the upward swing of the back of the tub. It always hurt a little getting under there, but once she was situated, it wasn't too bad.

Now she felt safe. This was the place she came to think, to hide and sometimes to punish herself for things dumb to remember her operetta without his stinking, slimy brother to remind him.

She was glad she had a spot like this, hers alone. No one else could fit here even if they tried. A quick mental image of her daddy trying to squeeze his belly under the tub made her smile briefly before she was jarred back to her dreadful situation.

Could she really eat, sleep and play under the tub all that time? What if that dumbbell next door flunked the sixth grade? She put her cheek next to the cool metal tub for comfort. Then her mother's voice broke into her frustrated thoughts.

"Honey, are you finished with your bath?"

"Uh huh."

"Then hurry out. Your sister needs to get in there, and please don't forget to clean the tub out after yourself."

"OK, Mama."

With a few grunts, she wiggled out of her seclusion. There was a black mark on her sunsuit. Her clothes always got the same black mark from these under-tub experiences. These marks were very much her own marvelous badges of honor for her private missions/accomplished.

In obedience, she reached over the tub and swished water on the soapy residue and dirt clinging to its sides, so it would be clean for her sister's bath. As the drain slurped down the dirty gray froth, her injured feelings found solace in a new, peppy and vindicating finale.

"Quicksand is hidden in the neighbor boys' bedroom, and they are sinking up to their belly buttons, and Frankenstein is dripping fuzzy black spiders on their heads, and Betty Grable is blowing bubbles with her bubble gum and saying, 'Ha, Ha, Ha.'"

Other times she would put spit on her fingers and draw tear lines down her freckled cheeks and say sad things into the round compact mirror her Auntie had given her.

she didn't want anyone to know about. This, however, was not a time for punishment but a time to plan.

She decided she would stay here through the whole second grade. After that, the oldest neighbor boy would be gone from her school, and the younger one was too

Public transportation privatizing needed in area

By DON RUSH
Assistant to The Publisher

Public transit in Oakland County won't work — won't even survive — if the system's monopolistic ways remain.

That, in a nutshell, is what Patrick M Nowak, Deputy Oakland County Executive and chairman of the Suburban Mobility Authority for Regional Transportation told the Oxford Rotary Club, Tuesday afternoon.

About 30 people attended the luncheon meeting at Oxford Hills Golf and Country Club.

"If we don't have a public transit system, we will have a lot of people who will be prisoners in their own home. They won't be able to get to work or to the doctor," he told the audience.

"I'm not here to try and put on a good face for public transportation. It's not a really pretty picture, but it is one that needs telling. We have a long row to hoe."

According to Nowak, problems with public transportation have risen because the centers of employment have spread from central locations like Detroit or Pontiac, to the suburban areas such as Auburn Hills and Troy. As the centers of employment grew the number of bus routes dropped, leaving fewer people access to public transportation. But, as services dropped, costs kept on and keep on rising.

It's not only a problem in the metro Detroit area, but across the nation. He said in other major metropolitan areas the successful answer has been to privatize the public transit systems.

Marshmallow drop, egg hunt planned

An Easter egg hunt and marshmallow drop are set for 10:30 a.m. Saturday, April 7, at Clintonwood Park.

Sponsored by the Clarkston Area Jaycees and the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department, the Easter event includes a raffle and a visit by the Easter Bunny.

The egg hunt takes place by the tennis courts in the park on Clarkston Road, Independence Township. For more information, call 623-6328.

"The problem (with public transportation in this area) is we have a complete public monopoly. The product sells for a higher price and we get smaller output — we're paying more and getting less. Competition induces price

Descendants from the Sky

By Tom Erickson

Ribbons of colors
Descendants from the Sky,
Come here to rest in Shades of green
Now;
Seldomly seen.
A man's life
May last but only
A day,
Week,
Month
Or a year.
That's not what
Is important!
What is,
Is what he has to say.
His voice
To this world
That can be
The music
That we hear
When
It is autumn...
Music that draws
Us
Near
When
Ribbons of color
Descend from
Our sky.
(I remember an Indian who once came here, to die.)

control," he said.

He said the average SMART bus driver earns over $30,000 a year plus benefits.

"Dan Murphy and I have been working on this for years. In 1985 we received a private grant to study privatization. The study indicated we could have a 40 percent improvement for the same cost (by privatizing).

"We found that it would require new legislation. Four years of struggles and we now have that legislation.

"We went to the Bush administration and received a $12 million discretionary grant. It's the only one the area has received in 10 years — since the (Detroit) People Mover. The union wants no part of it," he said.

He blamed SMART's bus drivers union, Amalgamated Transit Union, for hampering the privatizing process.

"Right now we have two modes of public transportation, big buses and small buses. We use a 45-person bus in Pontiac that has low ridership. We want to replace that route with a small bus. The union agreement says if a route is longer than four miles, it needs a large bus — at double the cost," he said.

Agreements like that keep costs out of control which means less service to areas like Oxford, he said.

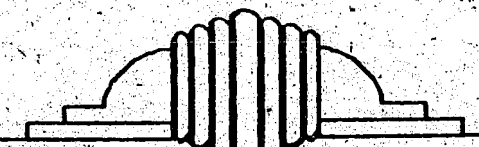

The good news, he said, was last week the United States Department of Labor removed the labor obstacle.

"In affect, what it said was the union could no longer block our decision to bid out for contract services (paid) from the grant," he said.

He then added "the bad news" — the same day word came from Washington DC, Wayne County Circuit Court ordered SMART into binding arbitration with the union.

"In appeals court I suspect it will be ruled a moot point," he said.

1990 TAX NUMBERS ADJUSTED

Though the 1990 tax rates are not scheduled to change, the tax brackets, personal exemption amounts, and standard deduction amounts have been adjusted for inflation. Be aware of these new numbers as you begin your 1990 tax planning.

| 1990 Tax Rate | Taxable Income | |
|---------------|------------------|------------------|
| | Single | Married Joint |
| 15% | $1-19,450 | $1-32,450 |
| 28% | $19,451-47,050 | $32,451-78,400 |
| 33% | $47,051-109,100 | $78,401-185,730 |
| 28% | Over $109,100 | Over $185,730 |

The tax benefit of the 15 percent tax rate and the personal exemption is phased out with a 5 percent surtax on higher incomes. That creates a 33 percent tax rate on income that falls into this higher range. The 33 percent tax rate in the table given here is based on one personal exemption for singles and two exemptions for marrieds filing jointly. For each additional exemption, the range of income to be taxed at 33 percent must be increased by $11,480.

The 1990 standard deductions are as follows:
Married filing jointly$5,450
Married filing separately.....2,725
Head of household.....4,750
Single.....3,250

Married taxpayers who are 65 or older or blind are entitled to an additional $650 of standard deduction ($1,300 if both 65 and blind). Single taxpayers who are 65 or older or blind get an additional $800 of standard deduction ($1,600 if both 65 and blind).

Each personal exemption in 1990 is worth $2,050.

Social security taxes go up in 1990. The new tax rate for employers and employees is 7.65 percent on a maximum wage base of $51,300. Self-employed taxpayers will pay social security tax at a 15.3 percent rate; but, for the first time, they'll be able to take an income tax deduction for 50 percent of the social security tax paid.

Opinion of Bill Myers

Clouds without silver linings

William A. Myers is a retired Lapeer County editor and investments manager from Boca Raton, Fla.

Along with the joys of retirement comes a cloud without a silver lining -- the fear of a long, expensive illness that will put you in a nursing home.

Medicare takes care of the early months in such a place, but if you're average, your stay will be 2 1/2 years. So say you have 2 years to pay out of your own pocket.

Down in southeastern Florida, average daily costs are now $90 a day in a semi-private room. For 2 years, assuming no price increase, that means $65,700. That's the room charge. Medicines, doctors and other extras not covered by Medicare could easily swell this to $70,000.

People I know take one of these choices:

1. They save up money during their working years for just such a cost.

2. They buy nursing or custodial care insurance. If they are an average risk, the cost of the insurance will be more than if they had just saved money, and in effect, insured themselves.

3. When they can foresee poor health that means they'll have to have custodial care, they'll give away their savings and property to one of their kin, and intentionally bankrupt themselves. By doing this they meet state rules for government care for people without funds.

Choice No. 2 -- insurance -- is no free lunch. Insurance companies have to make money, their agents have to make money, and the companies have to build up reserves. If you linger longer than average, insurance may turn out to be cheaper than if you had paid for care out of your savings. If you linger a lesser time, then the policy was a poor buy, if you put no value on the peace of mind. A company here in Florida that peddles a lot of these nursing care policies lists some things to look for in buying a policy, and say it:

1. Should pay benefits big enough for all levels of care.

2. Shouldn't have 'pre-existing condition' exclusion. (Practically everyone at age 65 has a pre-existing malady of some sort.)

3. Should cover Alzheimer's disease. Some policies exclude it.

4. Should not require prior hospitalization. Some policies say you have to be in a hospital so many days before entering a nursing home. (I've known people who had to ask their doctor to put them in a hospital 'for observation' for a few days to comply. It probably cost them $1,000 to meet a rule of their policy.)

5. Premiums should be at a level rate, and waived in event of a claim.

6. Should continue benefits at home.

7. Company should rate A or A+ by the A.M. Best insurance rating company.

Maybe you can't find one company that has a policy with all these features, but shop around.

An easy way for those who can look ahead for 25 or 30 years would be to set aside some of your IRA (Individual Retirement Account) years for just this purpose.

For example: You're 40 year old. Put in the $2,000 into an IRA now. Let it ride for 25 years. Tell the bank or broker holding the IRA account to put it into zero-coupon government bonds. At this writing, $2,000 would buy some government zeros maturing in 25 years at 12 cents on the dollar. Your $2,000 will buy nearly $17,000 in bonds. Do that for 4 years in a row, and it will take care of $70,000 in nursing home care that you'll have as an average person.

You can cash in these bonds anytime as years go by if some pressing need arises. You can't do that with an insurance policy.

This is the 1990s, and the buzz word for the decade is going to be "recycle."

Our landfill capacity is fast reaching its peak. With that in mind, we would like to know what are the uses for The Clarkston News, besides just being a source of community information.

Let us know if, after your family finishes reading the paper, you recycle it by using it again. Do you shred it up and use it for horse bedding? Do you roll it up and use it to start a fire in your fireplace? What are the paper's other uses?

Let us know by writing down the different ways you use the paper, and send your list to: 1,001 Uses of The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main St., Clarkston, MI 48016; or call them in at 625-3370.

World traveler shares piece of history

BY RENEE GLOVINSKY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Norbert Schaar, a former Clarkston High School exchange student from Germany, brought a part of history with him on a recent visit to the states — a piece of the Berlin Wall.

Norbert is presently staying with his "United States family," Edward and Betsy Gratten of Waterford, whom he met through Clarkston High School's Youth for Understanding program back in 1983. Since then he has visited them each year during his breaks at the university he attends in Germany.

"He has been a part of our family since the day we met him," said Betsy. Edward Gratten has an optometry office on West Washington Street, Clarkston.

Norbert was born in West Berlin 23 years ago and never imagined seeing the two separate worlds unite.

"I was totally shocked," said Norbert, with his hazel eyes opened wide. "I listened to the radio all night."

Norbert explained that he and his family hardly ever visited the east side because they were forced to exchange their money at a lesser value and lost several marks in the exchange. Plus they were treated rudely by the passport officers.

"It couldn't have been much worse than Nazi Germany," he said with a frown. "The passport officers didn't like young people too much."

But on November 9, 1989, things would soon be different for Norbert, his family and all the world.

Norbert waited until Nov. 10 to visit the checkpoints at the wall.

It was an emotional time, he said, describing how he climbed the once-forbidden 28.6-mile long wall and even shook hands with CBS news anchorman Dan Rather.

Thousands of people were scattered about, shouting, crying and embracing one another. According to Norbert, every East German received $50 in cash from the West German government to spend as they wished.

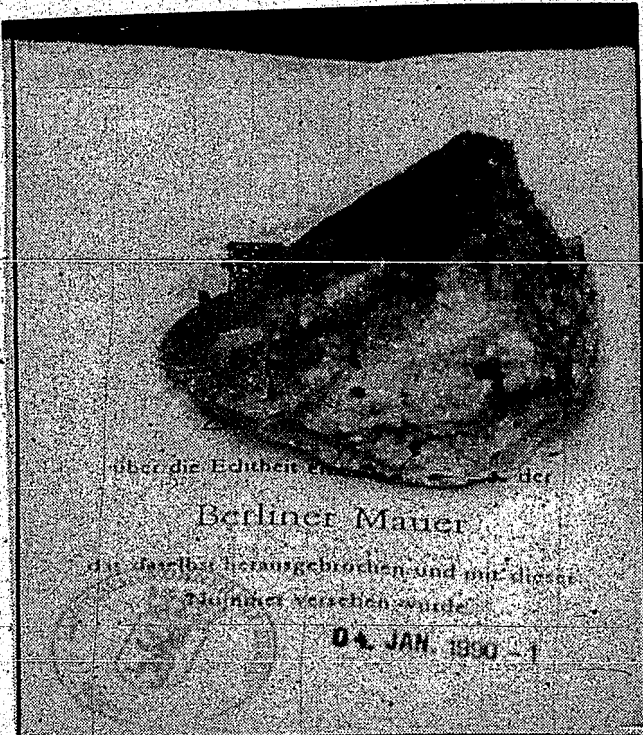

The future looks promising, he said.

Changes will not only be of the political sort for the people but will involve a new way of thinking as well. Norbert explained that West Berlin alone is 185 square miles and has a population of 2.5 million people. To get an idea of the size, Detroit is 140 square miles, he said.

"I must think in new dimensions from now on," said Norbert with a smile. "It will be nice to explore the suburbs of East Berlin."

Norbert was concerned about the reunification process of his country.

"Issues such as housing, jobs, financial aid, standard of living and currency must all be addressed," he said.

THIS PIECE of the Berlin Wall came with an official seal of authenticity.

CHIPPING his own piece of the graffiti-covered wall is Norbert Schaar, who attended Clarkston High School as an exchange student a while back.

NORBERT Schaar of West Berlin, who is staying with the Gratten family of Waterford, brought back history in his hands — pieces of the Berlin Wall.

Royal Rangers awards area teen with top honors

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

When Jonathan Brand was first invited to join the Royal Rangers, an organization offered through his church, he wasn't all that interested.

Four years later, he was ranked one of the top rangers in the area. After earning top Royal Ranger honors at his church, Souls Harbor in Waterford, Jonathan won Royal Ranger Sectional and District honors. He'll compete with rangers from five states in May.

"At first I really didn't want to join," says Jonathan, "I thought this had got to be one of the dumbest things I've ever heard of."

"As I began to get more involved, I enjoyed the challenge," he adds.

Royal Rangers is a 25-year-old adventure club offered through the Assemblies of God Church. Like scouting organizations, members earn awards by completing deeds of service or accomplishment.

In February, Jonathan was awarded the Gold Medal of Achievement Award, held by fewer than one percent of the 200,000 Royal Rangers throughout the country.

"The Rangers have helped me grow up in the Lord," Jonathan says thoughtfully. "It's taught me a lot of things I never would have learned any other way."

The Gold Medal of Achievement Award is earned by completing 19 rather difficult tasks.

One required activity is a wilderness survival test. The rangers are sent into the swampland with nothing but a small survival kit and some fishing line.

Over the next 24 hours, the rangers are expected to find food, shelter and the proper route home.

"We tried to catch fish," Jonathan recalls. "We found blueberries."

"I've never seen him dirtier," says Jonathan's mother,

Rosemary.

Among the voluntary activities Jonathan pursued for the award were foreign language studies, safety courses and swimming courses.

Dressed in his ranger's uniform with its many badges and pins, Jonathan's friendly and open personality matches his crisp appearance.

As a student of Springfield Christian Academy, Dixie Highway, Springfield Township, Jonathan has also received academic recognition.

He has been inducted into the Christian National Honor Society and has taken first place in mathematics at his school for four out of the five years that he has attended.

Jonathan is a varsity soccer player and hopes to pursue a career in mathematics.

The Royal Ranger Code requires that members be alert, clean, honest, courageous, loyal, courteous, obedient and spiritual.

Jonathan Brand is a true member of the club.

Softly
across a snow-covered field, the sun is rising

By Tom Erickson

Softly across the fields covered with the new fallen snow,
The sun came.
Just as the sun would slip across the fog of St. Cathrine's river
In the early spring.

Is is the growth of the spirit,
That rises from the dust;
To become man...
To become woman...
Rising up to become the contemporary wisdom of man.
Rising up to become the freedom's march across Europe...
To become,
To believe in;
The spirit of freedom, of man
Softly marching across the fields of Europe,
Covered in the newly fallen snow.

We can now smile wisely and know,
Freedom...

Forgive Me Father

By Eileen Gatton

He huddled in a cardboard box, but it hardly broke the wind.
His body numbed by cold, his blanket oh so thin.
I didn't see him as I climbed into my bed so toasty warm.
Forgive me, Father, for my sin.

She reached into the garbage can for something she could eat.
Anything at all for her would be just fine.
Forgive me, Father, for not sharing the food that I call mine.

His little ragged sweater with buttons missing here and there.
Frostbitten fingers so very cold and bare.
Forgive me, Father; teach me to really care.

Eileen Gatton is a Clarridge, Springfield Township, resident.

JONATHAN BRAND recently earned a Gold Medal of Achievement Award through the Royal Rangers, an adventure organization similar to scouting.

Tip Of The Week

To draw a long, straight line across a room, or wall, use a chalk line. Simply stretch the line between the two points to be measured and snap it firmly. The chalk line will mark the exact location on the surface easily, quickly and accurately. A chalk line is the perfect tool to ensure an even pattern when wallpapering or laying floor tile.

The Garden Patch

Early spring is the best time to fertilize most small fruits in Michigan.

The exception, is strawberries, which should be fertilized after harvest, says Eric Hanson, horticulture specialist with the Michigan State Cooperative Extension.

Small fruits include blueberries, blackberries, raspberries, currants, gooseberries and strawberries, Hanson explains.

If you test your soil before planting, modify the pH and add manure or fertilizer according to soil test recommendations. Yearly fertilization with nitrogen is usually all that's necessary to keep plants growing vigorously and producing well.

The best time to fertilize blueberries is in early spring, just before budbreak. How much nitrogen they need depends partly on the soil type. Plants on mineral soils need more nitrogen than those on organic soils.

Complicating blueberries' nitrogen needs is their acid soil requirement, Hanson points out.

The appropriate fertilizer for blueberries depends on the soil pH.

Hanson recommends using urea if the pH is below 5.0 and ammonium sulfate if the pH is above 5.0 (less acid).

Trailing blackberries require one-half, 1 and 2 pounds of nitrogen per 100 feet of row in their first, second and third years after planting, respectively.

For erect varieties, the rates are slightly lower: one-half, three-fourths and 1 1/2 pounds. Fertilize planting in March or early April.

For established raspberries, apply 1-2 pounds of actual nitrogen per 100 feet of row before growth starts in the spring. Hanson notes that virus-free plants grow vigorously and tend to need about one-third more fertilizer than other plants.

Currant and gooseberry plants should be sidedressed with two ounces of ammonium nitrate in an 18-inch circle around each plant three to four weeks after planting. Increase the amount of nitrogen applied each year by two ounces per plant until you are applying eight ounces per plant per year.

After the planting year, fertilize strawberries only after the harvest, Hanson advises. Early spring fertilization can cause soft berries and reduce yields by promoting vegetative growth at the expense of flowers and fruits, he explains.

His recommendation for strawberries is to apply 1 pound of a balanced fertilizer such as 12-12-12 per 100 feet of row immediately after harvest.

"Well-rotted manure is a good fertilizer and an excellent source of organic matter for small fruits," Hanson explains. "It can be worked into the soil before planting or used to fertilize established plantings."

County extension offices can recommend specific rates for the various crops. Your county extension office is listed under "County Government" in the telephone book.

Pet of the Week

NUTTER, STAR and Ragamuffin (from left) are ready to live in new surroundings. They were orphaned when their owner died in February.

What a trio

These three fellas came to the Michigan Humane Society after their owner, a breeder, died. Relatives surrendered 29 dogs to the shelter after the breeder's death in February.

The breeder lived in Auburn Hills, and about 20 of the other dogs brought in have been adopted.

Used for breeding purposes in the past, Ragamuffin and Nutter are white poodle and Maltese mixes; and Star is a black poodle. A home with older children would be best for the dogs, which are age 7 and up. The dogs weigh between five and eight pounds.

The dogs, which have been neutered, may be adopted for $35.

These gents can be adopted at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Lights, camera, action!

Ashley Ball

Mr. Rathburg (that's William K.) recently asked members of his sixth-hour English to develop a project from "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer." We could work alone or in groups. Tammy Luscomb and I teamed up to do a home video. We decided to depict these three scenes:

- Tom and Huck meeting in the woods to plan their run-away,
- Tom and Huck and Joe Harper taking off for parts unknown aboard their stolen raft, and
- Tom and Huck and Joe settling into island life with their "smokes" and new freedom.

Plus, we needed a commercial to add interest.

Our task before us, we borrowed Tammy's parents' video camera, collected costumes and freckle make-up, designed our set, arranged props in my basement, memorized the scripts, and enlisted my little sister, Laura, to be Joe Harper.

The next day, after school, we began shooting the commercial. It was a preview of a movie we called "Bunny Massacre."

We set up a woodsy Beatrix Potter tea table scene for Birthday Bunny and his friends Raccoon and Skunk. We played Tchaikovsky as the little animals enjoyed birthday tea in china tea cups with little blue flowers ... all on a ruffled pink checked tablecloth. The sun was soft through the woods, the mood was sweet ... then ... suddenly ... from the shadows of the trees lurked ... NO ... a killer with a rifle.

Dum-dum! Dum-dum! the sound track from "Jaws" blared. The rifle cracked! Birthday Bunny fell dead. Crack! ... the raccoon. Crack! ... the skunk.

The hunter sneered as he blew smoke away from the end of his rifle.

"Happy Birthday, Bunny," he slurred, emphasizing the B's. He wiped chewing tobacco from his bearded chin.

Tchaikovsky's piano picked up again as the camera panned the ugly scene ... Birthday Bunny slumped in his teacup. Skunk and Raccoon sprawled on the ground.

"Bunny Massacre," the announcer (Tammy) blared, "Rated K (that's William K.). Coming soon to a theater near you."

The commercial alone had taken two afternoons and one pizza. We were exhausted ... emotionally drained. We had a Dr. Pepper and some chips and called it a day.

Refreshed, we met the following afternoon to film Tom and Huck meeting in the woods. It went smoothly ... only three takes. My mom filmed this scene. It was her first time to use a video camera, but she did a great job once we convinced her to stop talking during the filming. Next, we did the raft scene in only two takes. Things were going well. My sister knew her lines and even helped out with some of the technical details.

The final scene (Tom, Huck and Joe on the island) had to be filmed outside my house on a woodpile just past a low icy hill. As I began filming Huck, who was sitting on the woodpile, Laura was supposed to turn on the music behind me, then sneak across the icy hill to take her place beside Huck on the woodpile.

I rolled the film. The music played. I waited. Laura, hurry up! What was taking her so long? Suddenly, I heard a scraping, crunching, sliding sound on my right. Laura!

Then, across the bottom of my lens, Laura slowly, helplessly slid into view down the icy hill frantically mouthing into the camera, "I CAN'T STOP!!"

It wasn't a take.

FINALLY after four afternoons, two-and-a-half pizzas, and 12 takes ... it was a wrap. Ahhh ... all done! We were exhausted. Bone tired. Creatively dead.

A week later we presented our video in class, and it was well received by all, including Mr. Rathburg who handed us a grade sheet with an "A!" We were thrilled.

Then our eyes were drawn to a notation below the grade. Ah, we thought to ourselves, this would be the praise, the glowing remarks for our exceptional effort, the long days of work, the retakes, for braving the cold. What's this?

"Quality generally good. Sound suffers in places."

Tammy and I stared at each other. Who does he think we are, anyway ... Warner Brothers?

Microwave Plus

Michigan soup

Betty Wagner

Wanted: Your favorite soup using Michigan food products for "Souper Bowl II."

The Michigan Restaurant Association, the Greater Michigan Foundation and AAA Michigan Living Magazine are sponsoring the second "Souper Bowl II" soup competition to celebrate Michigan Week May 18-26.

To enter, you may either be a Michigan resident 16 years or older or a professional chef working in a Michigan restaurant.

A walk through the supermarket looking for only Michigan products inspired my soup offering. I selected navy beans, onions, potatoes and celery, which are all commonly known Michigan food products.

To add flavor, I selected a Michigan processed turkey ham. I prepared my soup in the microwave because that's the way I usually cook; use whatever cooking method you want.

The contest guidelines say the soup must be made entirely of Michigan food products, but the soup may be hot or cold, contain fruit, vegetables, meat or fish.

Let your imagination create your own special soup. You have nothing to lose. If you don't win, you still have had fun cooking your families' dinner.

But get busy as the deadline to enter is April 13. Mark your entry either AMATEUR or PROFESSIONAL; include your name, address, telephone, directions for four soup servings; and mail to: Souper Bowl II Contest, AAA Michigan, Public Relations Area, 1 Auto Club Drive, Dearborn, MI 48126.

MICHIGAN NAVY BEAN SOUP

1 pound Michigan navy beans
8 cups water
2 onions, coarsely chopped
1 large potato, diced
1 rib celery, thinly sliced
1 cup chopped turkey ham
6 cups water

1. Wash and sort through beans. Place in 3-quart microwavable bowl. Cover beans with 8 cups water. Cover bowl with vented plastic wrap.

2. Microwave at HIGH for 10 minutes. Let stand for one hour. Drain.

3. Place onions, potato and celery in 1-quart microwavable bowl. Cover with vented plastic wrap. Microwave at HIGH for about 2-3 minutes until vegetables are tender crisp.

4. Add cooked vegetables to beans. Cover with 6 cups water. Cover bowl with vented plastic wrap.

5. Microwave at HIGH for 40 minutes. Stir and add more water if necessary; re-cover with plastic wrap. Microwave for 30-45 more minutes or until beans are tender.

Tested in a 650-watt microwave oven.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY Spirit. Holy Spirit. You make me see everything and show me the way to reach my ideals. You give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrongs that are done to me and you are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with you, and my loved ones, in your perpetual glory. Amen. Persons must pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking for your wish. After the 3rd day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this dialogue as soon as your favor has been granted. Thanks St. Jude for favors received. SJ. For some folks, just one GEO is perfect for their needs.

The sporty Storm, the rugged Tracker, the practical Prizm or the fun Metro.

On the other hand there are those who prefer to own not only one but two or three GEO's. Even more.

But no matter how many GEOs you buy, you'll drive a car that's backed by the General Motors reputation for quality, craftsmanship value and reliability.

GEO. It's quite the collection.

Students teach students in enrichment program

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

It's 3:30 on a Thursday afternoon, and about a dozen girls have gathered excitedly in the Andersonville Elementary School gymnasium.

They race around the room whirling multi-colored ribbons on sticks, practicing moves they've learned the week before.

At the center of the activity is Monica Schramm, a student at Clarkston High School and the teacher of the ribbon and baton class.

Since 1983, Monica and other high school students have been invited to teach the after-school Enrichment Program offered through Clarkston Community Education.

"The kids relate so well to high school students," says organizer Jeanne Molzon. "These kids are just fascinated."

The baton class is beginning and, despite some initial moaning and groaning, the girls quickly gather on the floor with Monica for some warm-up exercises.

Moments later they run through the routine they'll perform for an upcoming parent-teacher luncheon.

Although they vary in ages and abilities, their presentation is surprisingly coordinated and executed with tremendous concentration.

Monica stands in front with crossed arms, watching the movements carefully, offering suggestions for improvements as the girls pass by her.

At one point, the girls loudly correct Monica about a step she had forgotten.

She laughs with them good-naturedly.

"I teach them what I was taught," Monica says during a break. "The hardest part is making them cooperate. They like to talk a lot."

Monica and the other eight student teachers in the enrichment program have developed lesson plans for their classes, according to Molzon.

"They have to think it through; they can't make it up as they go along," Molzon says.

Each of the prospective high school student teachers are interviewed and asked about prior experience with children. The students must provide references, which are checked, Molzon says.

"Disciplining and controlling the kids can be difficult," she adds. "That's what I want to make sure they can do."

At North Sashabaw Elementary, J.G. Kudla has a captivated audience of about six students in his Spanish class.

The students are creating a Spanish magazine, filled with pictures of items and their Spanish pronunciation.

As the youngsters yell out American words such as "princess" and "black", J.G. writes their Spanish translation onto a blackboard.

J.G. says teaching Spanish to the young students is a challenge.

"It's hard to find something that they all would enjoy," he says.

This is the last day of this four-week class; J.G. also

"The kids relate so well to high school students. These kids are just fascinated."

Jeanne Molzon

teaches model-building once a week at Bailey Lake Elementary School.

"They had a list of classes to sign up for," J.G. says of his decision to get involved.

J.G. says the students' enthusiasm makes his efforts worthwhile.

"It's great when they come back the next week, and they've remembered something that we learned," he says.

Many of the classes are the brainchild of the community education department, but others are the ideas of the young teachers themselves.

In some instances the classes are taught by groups, such as cheerleaders or mime club members as a fundraiser for the group.

The student teachers are paid for their work as class leaders. Most classes are held once a week and run for an average of eight weeks in winter and fall semesters.

Among the other classes offered this semester are science experiments with Bruce Worden, floor hockey with Nancy Carosella, Spanish at Pine Knob with Lori Haslock, French with Tracy Snover, boys basketball with Jay Tucker, and candy making with Nicole Vallad.

For more information about teaching an enrichment class or about the classes themselves, call community education at 674-0993.

MONICA SCHRAMM leads her baton and ribbon class in some stretching exercises. Monica, along with about 10 other high school students, is paid to teach after-school enrichment classes offered through Community Education.
