Chaustowich not running

Monday, April 9, deadline to run for school board

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Four Clarkston-area residents have indicated their intentions to run for two available school board seats in the June 11 election.

The four picked up election petitions from the school administration office, which must be returned as a requirement for running.

Because the deadline for returning the petitions is April 9, the list of school board candidates is not yet final. One Clarkston resident picked up a petition but has decided not to run.

Among those interested in the seats are:

■ Don Brockman, 47, an engineer living on Meyers, Independence Township. Brockman is seeking the four-year seat.

■ Durham Downs, 43, an Allen Road, Independence Township, resident and a supervisor with the General Motors Truck and Bus Group. Downs is seeking the one-year seat and is running on a ticket with Sheila Goins Hughes, who seeks the four-year seat.

■ Sheila Goins Hughes, 37, lives on Parview Drive, Independence Township, and works part time as a bookkeeper.

■ Robert Wyatt, 38, of Deerwood Road, Independ-

Delay in mailing census forms

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Barb Kennedy of Thendara, Independence Township, has been paying attention to the U.S. Census Bureau advertisements warning residents to fill out their forms by April 1.

So she was dismayed when she didn't receive a form as of Monday, April 2. After a little checking, she found that several of her neighbors had not received forms either.

A phone call to the Davison branch of the U.S. Census Bureau let her know that there's been a delay of some sort and that she should call back if she does not receive a form within two weeks.

The delay is due to a series of problems, said Bill Crystler, district office manager in the U.S. Census Bureau office in Rochester Hills, which handles two-thirds of Oakland County — 300,000 questionnaires.

"We're still in the process of mailing out questionnaires," he said. "People should not be concerned until after this week."

The problems occurred when there was a minor mix-up with ZIP codes and when the center received information on addresses they didn't have, he said.

So the bureau crew had to verify the addresses as legitimate, which takes some time, said Crystler.

ence Township, is a supervising plant engineer at G-M Truck and Bus. He seeks the four-year seat.

The one-year seat was created with the resignation of Trustee Elaine Shultz, who had one year remaining in her four-year term.

The four-year seat results from the expiration of Secretary Mary Jane Chaustowich's current four-year term.

Chaustowich has decided not to seek re-election, a decision she says she made long ago.

"I had decided four years ago that this would be my last term," Chaustowich said. "Twelve years is the right length of time to (serve)."

She added that although the past 12 years have required a lot of hard work, the experience has been rewarding.

"I've been involved in education for my entire adult life," she said. "I've enjoyed serving on the board; it gave me a different perspective on education."

Chaustowich commented that it disturbed her to see increasing pressure put on the board.

"I am absolutely appalled with the pressures that are being put to bear on the board by pressure groups."

"The elected board is supposed to serve the people as elected," she said. "It's not duly elected people running the district."

Chaustowich does not endorse any of the candidates running for the school board "at this time."

State election law requires each candidate to obtain a minimum of 20 signatures on an election petition before their candidacy is official.

The candidate must also provide a notarized affidavit of identity, which includes the candidate's full name as it will appear on the ballot, residency and age.

The petitions and affidavit of identity must be returned to the school administration office no later than 4 p.m. on Monday, April 9.

"I am absolutely appalled with the pressures that are being put to bear on the board by pressure groups."

Man in good condition

Following a serious accident Sunday, March 25, in which one person was killed, James Wilson, 21, of Minewana, Independence Township, is in good condition at Pontiac General Hospital.

"He's doing better now," said his father, Charles, a few days after the accident. "He's still having some problems. He's not able to walk yet."

Wilson suffered spinal injuries in the crash in Pontiac, in which his friend James Turner, 20, a passenger in the car, was killed. Turner was a Whipple Lake Road, Independence Township, resident.

Wilson is in therapy and has feelings in his limbs, said his father, adding that he may be able to walk soon.

The accident, in which Darrell Hart, 20, of Pontiac was also injured, was a tragedy, Charles Wilson said.

The accident is currently under investigation by the Pontiac Police Department.

Corrections

In last week's Clarkston News, a story about a fatal accident should have said that James Turner of Whipple Lake Road was pronounced dead at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital March 25. James Wilson is in stable condition at Pontiac General Hospital.

In the March 28 edition of The Clarkston News concerning the story about three young Clarkston athletes who figure skate or play hockey, two of the three names were printed incorrectly. Their names should have read Derek Hool and Sarah Hool.

THE INDEPENDENCE Township Hall became a collection point for recyclable goods in the area, and volunteers turned out in all kinds of weather to help do the work, said Carolyn

Bottles bring bucks to township's Bay Court Park

BY JEAN SAILE
Special to The Clarkston News

When the new Independence Township Community Center opens its doors in 1993, don't be surprised if old-timers call it the House of Glass.

For it was bottles, the recycled kind, that provided seed money which local officials hope will launch the restoration of the lodge at Bay Court Park on Andersonville Road.

The 50-acre property, which was purchased in July, 1988, was paid for by a Department of Natural Resources grant in the amount of $375,000, with another $125,000 put up by the township.

Now there are hopes that the Bottles for Building fund, put into time certificates with the National Bank of Detroit beginning January, 1991, will pave the way for another grant of $1 million from the Michigan Recreational Bond Program.

That original money, always earmarked for a community center, has doubled over the years to $60,000 — enough, they feel, to convince the state of the township's solid commitment toward its new recreational facility.

There are no plans for a millage vote, says Carolyn Place, who noted one such plea was turned down by voters in November, 1988. She headed the original Bottles for Building drive back before the state passed its bottle return bill in June, 1978.

She speaks of the momentum and neater community. "Twenty-two different organizations helped, and people sometimes worked as long as 15 hours a day. There were churches, PTAs, women's groups, civic and service groups, fraternal organizations, government units and youth groups that all took part. Worker meals were donated by cooks using the township facilities."

Though the township will be required to come up with $250,000, or a quarter of the total, to make the dream come true, Place feels strongly there are enough people here willing to make it happen.

"Much of the local share can be handled by in-kind services — office space, workers, etc. — but we are also thinking of a catalog from which groups and individuals can purchase needed items," she explains.

While the intention is to seek the grant this year, (See RECYCLING, next page) improvements at the 10,000-square-foot, two-story brick lodge are going to have to wait for a second phase.

The first money will be spent to close off the existing park entrance, move it to a desirable place, develop gravel roadways and a parking area, develop the beach front on the property, put up a concession house with a patio and prepare picnic areas. That is to be completed by summer of 1991 if things go according to scheduled, says Ann Conklin, township recreation director.

The lodge itself, once the home of scouting groups and later welfare mothers and their children, will be completed along with a garden plaza, and though the price tag is $2.6 million, Place anticipates that it could be done much more economically.

"It's a beautiful place," says Conklin. "The lodge itself is two-story with a beautiful bell tower. Some of the buildings date back to 1917. Two of the outlying buildings will be put together in phase three for aerobic dance and pre-school activities by 1994. The property itself fronts on Greens Lake, and some of the trees ... are over 100 feet tall," she reports.

It was under the direction of Lew Wint, long-time chairman of the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Board, that the money from 4.5 million bottles and jars, laboriously gathered, sorted, and shipped, grew to its present important role in the attraction of grants.

Place recalls that the first pick-up of bottles was curbside in 10 high density areas and nine central locations. Volunteers, using their own trucks, hauled the material to a railroad siding on Dixie Highway near Hatchery Road, separated it by color and loaded it in hopper-cars.

Next the township hall became a central location spot where the glass was sorted and taken to Hatchery Road. Pump houses around the township and finally the parking lot at the shopping center on M-15 and Dixie Highway came next.

"Buddy Atchoo was the owner of the property, and he allowed us to use it providing we kept it clean. We arranged for inmates from the Oakland County Trusty Camp to haul the glass to a county recycling center on Telegraph Road, and that went on until the bottle bill was passed and the county abandoned its recycling center," she recalls.

It was a time when recycling was just becoming recognized as necessary, and Clarkston's Bottles for Building group was the pattern for others throughout the state.

"We had inquiries from all over, about starting such groups, and eventually there were five other groups covering eight townships.

"Our first month we shipped 14 1/4 tons at $10 a ton," Place said. "Once Mort Neff came out to see us, and we were on his television show 'Michigan Outdoors.' As a result of that exposure I've still got a whole file of letters from all over the state. People really wanted to get involved."

Eventually the local group collected 1,500 tons, which Place worked out to be 4.5 million bottles and a bank account of about $30,000. The money has since doubled due to interest it has earned.

Over the years since, there have been various suggestions for a community center, but according to Place, none of them were as ideal as Bay Court.

Board OKs renovations to three township parks

Recycling money to be used for one park's renovation costs

BY RENEE GLOVINSKY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Plans are in place to renovate three Independence Township parks over three years, at an estimated cost of $1.4 million. Two projects are contingent upon the receipt of state grants.

The township board unanimously approved the development plan March 20, following three public hearings in which three residents spoke in favor of the plan.

Two of those residents were Carolyn Place and Lew Wint, both who played a major part in the Bottles for Building Drive, a local organization that earned and donated $60,000 to the Bay Court Park fund (see related story).

Ann Conklin, director of the township parks and recreation department, presented the renovation proposals March 20.

At Sashabaw Plains Park on Maybee Road, the current softball field is to be converted to a regulation baseball diamond; a new baseball field is to be added to the other field, and the parking area will be expanded. The changes are estimated to cost $14,665, and the money is to come from this year's park improvement fund.

Over the past few years, the park has been plagued with vandalism — possibly due to the limited use by the public, said Conklin. Vandalism should decrease if there's more people around.

At Clintonwood Park on Clarkston Road, about $400,000 is needed to add four baseball fields, used primarily for little league ball; expand parking; revise the concessions, storage and restrooms; and improve bleachers, pathways, landscaping and the sprinkler system.

The township applied to the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) for a $400,000 grant from recreation bond money approved by voters in 1988. If approved, the state would provide $300,000, and the township would be responsible for $100,000. For its portion, the township would use $75,000 from the 1991 capital improvement budget and $25,000 that's expected to be budgeted in the regular parks and recreation budget.

Bay Court Park on Andersonville Road is the largest of the park proposals. Phase One, at a cost of about $1 million, calls for restoration of Greens Lake Beach front and construction of a concession, restroom and bathroom facility, an entrance/exit, roadway and parking lot, and various utilities.

According to Conklin, the department is now in the waiting stage. They've applied for a $1 million DNR recreation bond money grant, which takes about six months to get a response.

If approved, the township would be responsible for 25 percent of the cost, or $250,000. Already, the township received a $60,000 donation from the Bottles for Building fund, so it only needs $190,000 more, said Conklin.

She expects half of that to come from the regular parks and recreation budget that includes wages and equipment. Another $90,000 is needed — hopefully from donations and possibly from Community Block Grant funds, she said.

In 1988, voters turned down a millage request to pay for Bay Court improvements.

Closing the distance

Julie Campe

At times it seems that the past and the future meet up in the present. Of course, they immediately become the past when that happens. But still ...

In Shakespeare's version of the events surrounding Julius Caesar's death, Caesar is kind of superstitious.

For instance, when he returns to adoring crowds in Rome after conquering Pompey, he actually stops in the middle of the procession to listen to a soothsayer in the crowd, who tells him to "beware the ides of March."

Caesar pulls him from the crowd and asks him to repeat the message, which he does.

After listening, Caesar shrugs off the message, saying, "He is a dreamer."

It's interesting that such a powerful leader would stop to hear that particular message, when all around him people in the crowd are shouting to him — especially when such minds as Cicero were about.

Cicero discounts such superstitions by saying: "Men may construe things after their fashion, Clean from the purpose of the things themselves."

But, according to Shakespeare, such heeds are the sort of thing Caesar paid attention to.

Later, on the morning of that fateful ide of March, his wife, Calphurnia, begs him to stay home and not to venture to the senate-house.

She apparently dreamed that Caesar's statue ran "pure blood ... like a fountain with a hundred spouts."

Caesar listens to all she says but then boastfully says her prediction of harm doesn't apply to him — until the priests, too, tell him he shouldn't leave the house that day.

So he agrees to stay home — until a senator, Decius Brutus, convinces him otherwise, by pointing out how Caesar may be mocked and may be perceived as being afraid:

"Break up the senate till another time, When Caesar's wife shall meet with better dreams," Decius tells him the other senators might say.

In the end, Caesar goes to the senate — and meets his death at the hands of eight senators.

Parts of this tale eventually meet up the future, which already is the past.

Didn't Nancy Reagan pay close attention to her astrologer and fear for her husband? Of course, Ronald is alive — but maybe that's because of modern medical methods that saved him from the assassination attempt that Nancy probably foretold. Or maybe he simply listened to his wife on even more dangerous occasions.

Another, more recent, work of art also closes the distances between the spheres of time. Remember the movie "Soylent Green" with Charlton Heston?

In the film that depicts a possible future outcome of Earth, the overcrowded population can go to a special place to die, where they can view artificial scenes of landscapes at different times of day. In the movie, the scenes are photographs of the Earth's beautiful past — before problems turned it into a garbage dump.

Today, such artificial scenes are used at the Stanford University Medical Center's cardiac intensive-care unit, though to a different purpose.

Instead of helping people die, the scenes are meant to help them get well. The computerized "window" is a blowup of a 35-mm slide that imitates daily light changes — from sunrise to sunset.

This, according to modern theories, simulates the passage of time and is useful in hospital rooms without windows. (Federal law now requires that all inpatient hospital rooms constructed or remodeled after 1977 include a window or skylight — otherwise patients may become mentally confused, disoriented and develop symptoms of psychosis.)

At the present time, technological improvement, perhaps another version of the future, will be needed in about 25 years of the movie "Soylent Green" version of the future and the actual future (or present, as it may be).

OFF TRACK

...AND, SUDDENLY, REALIZATION SET IN: FRANK WAS REALLY BORED.

Jim Sherman

Jim's Jottings

I filled out our 1990 census form prior to deadline and have been thinking about it a lot since then.

The current reasoning for the 10-year count seems to have wandered from the original purpose ... to count people in the United States.

The emphasis is still to count people, but what those numbers are used for prompted most of the urging to fill out the census form.

Think back to the press releases, the editorial writers' directions and the politicians' appeals. As I recall they were all aimed at getting people counted so "your city (county, state, community) can get its fair share of funding."

To quote the 1990 census folder, "You help make sure your community gets its fair share of federal and state funding."

Another: "Census numbers are a basic tool government ... needs to develop public services."

I really have no quarrel with a census. Count us. I like to know the figures on an area's growth. I keep the population of Oxford and Leonard for 1900 on my desk ... Oxford, 1172; Leonard, 335. Oakland county had 44,792 people in 1900. See, I like resident counts.

What I don't like is counting us so government can decide how much of our taxes to send back to us. Not only is that decision made by the count, but the figures are also used to give the government ammunition for starting another dole (public service) program.

Census counts are also used to decide how many members of Congress our state sends to Washington and to determine state and county representations. That's probably good, you know; one man, one vote.

But that reason for filing the census form is down the list from "funding" reasons.

Two other points about the 1990 census. Like so many government forms, a law requires you to "complete the form to the best of your knowledge." Federal law, Title 13 of the U. S. Code. Thankfully, there is no penalty of $500 fine and/or 90 days in jail.

Secondly, great todo is made of the secrecy of the census answers. Only census bureau employees see your answers and they can "be sent to jail for releasing your answers to anyone else."

Do you think no census bureau employee ever gave out answers? Did you ever hear of any of them going to jail?

On the other hand, I don't really care if everyone knows I'm 63, live with my wife in a too-big-without-kids 9-room home (don't count the barns) and we own it.

And, I don't need funding.

During Clarkston's recent successful millage campaign, the Blue Ribbon Kids Committee heard from many citizens who were frustrated by rising taxes, poor funding of K-12 education and the huge income disparities among school districts.

We asked members of our community to tell our leaders in Lansing to stop the shift of K-12 funding from state funding to local property taxes.

Since 1971, K-12 education has declined from nearly 30 percent to roughly seven percent of the state's annual general fund expenditures.

The Homestead Property Tax credit limit has not been raised from $1,200 since 1975, forcing us to repeatedly raise local property taxes to meet operational funding needs without any relief for senior citizens and others with limited or fixed incomes.

The failure of state funding to at least keep pace with inflation has resulted in program sacrifices despite these local property tax increases.

We need relief from the Headlee Amendment hidden side effect that reduces state K-12 education funding.

For the 1990-91 school year, the state currently plans to shift the burden of the employer's portion of social security taxes to our local school district without a corresponding shift of funding.

Our Letters to Lansing Campaign hand delivered more than 40 individual letters to Gov. Jim Blanchard on Thursday, March 29.

Additional letters are being mailed directly to Blanchard, state Sen. Richard Fessler, state Rep. Mat Dunsen and state Rep. Claude Trim.

It is not too late to join us in this effort.

Please put your concerns in writing and demand restoration of the funding support K-12 education has lost since 1971.

Letters can be addressed to: Governor Blanchard, P.O. Box 30013, Lansing, MI 48909, The Honorable (Fill in), State Senator, State Capital, Lansing, MI, 48913, and the Honorable (Fill in), State Representative, State Capital, Lansing, MI, 48913.

We urge you to write a letter expressing your views and concerns.

If you want a response, be sure to enclose your address.

Please help us identify school funding as an issue requiring immediate attention for our elected officials.

Tax frustrations

On March 16, I appealed my Independence Township assessment on my 880-square-foot house before the citizens board and assessor.

The board was made up of two real estate agents and a banker. My first thought is these people have a vested interest in keeping property values high.

With more taxes, the assessor can obtain a $3,000-plus raise next year and expanded benefits.

Part of my appeal was based on the fact my home is on a truck route and is being compared against houses not on a truck route.

However, the assessor did not know my house was on a truck route. Another part was the fact that my property backs up to commercial parking, and again the assessor was not aware of this fact.

So I was never able to determine what he used to assess my house.

Another part of my appeal is the fact my house is two bedrooms, no basement, compared to three-plus bedrooms with basements. The assessor has compared my $60,000 home, against a $168,000 home (as assessed), my truck route property to waterfront.

My assessment went from $22,000 in 1988 to $26,200 in 1989 for market adjustment of $4,200 increase. The houses that sold on the market in the past two years could have been used in last year's and again in this year's $3,800 market adjustment.

A house that is for sale at less per square foot than mine, and has not sold in almost a year, should indicate the market value is not what you are claiming it is.

Mr. Assessor, why am I paying more per square-foot for truck-route property than non-truck-route with waterfront?

Why is there a house assessed at $23.12 per square-foot, and I am paying $34.09 in the same selling area?

For the $20.20 per hour, plus benefits, you are making, I believe we deserve a more accurate assessment.

Fellow taxpayers, the next election you only have one thing to remember — vote against all "incumbents".

Is incumbent becoming synonymous with incompetent?

'If it Fitz ...'

No end to surprises

Jim Fitzgerald

On a recent morning, as I was leaving home for work, my wife stopped me. "Wait, I have a letter for you to mail, and it has to go out today," she said. That usually means she hasn't begun writing the letter yet, but is reaching for the stationery, and while waiting I can go back to bed.

But not this time. She quickly handed me an envelope that subsequently, because of its odd shape, caused me to reflect that you can be married to a woman for 36 years and still not know everything about her. It's the frequent little surprises that make you realize she is truly strange.

I asked what was in the unusual envelope. She said it was a valentine for a niece in Ohio. I said it was Feb. 2 and Valentine's Day wasn't until Feb. 14, so what was the hurry?

"You don't wait until the day before Christmas to mail Christmas cards, do you?" she asked.

Of course not. The postal department urges that Christmas cards be mailed weeks early, to spread out the load for mail carriers. But I've never seen a post office sign saying valentines should be mailed early. I always thought it was standard procedure to receive valentines on Valentine's Day, or maybe the day before.

"It has nothing to do with mail carriers," she said. "It is the thought that counts, and an early valentine is appreciated as much as an early Christmas card."

I was fascinated. How about birthday, anniversary and other greeting cards?

"It's perfectly OK to send them early, too. The important thing is that they're sent, not when they're sent. People appreciate being remembered at any time it doesn't have to be on some exact date."

Certainly. You could send get well and condolence cards saying the recipient may not be sick right now, or no family member may have died lately, but the future is uncertain, and you're sorry in advance for whatever tragedy might occur.

She didn't want to talk about it anymore. She accused me of implying she was using phony excuses to cover up the fact that she'd looked at the calendar without her bifocals on and thought it was Feb. 12, not Feb. 2. Or that she sent valentines early to allow plenty of time for recipients to reciprocate, which would be recalcitrant, but alliterative.

Not me. As the married years go by, and the little surprises continue, I acknowledge she is truly strange, but not a prevaricator. And she is strangest when it comes to sentimentality, which can be expressed in more ways than on greeting cards. For instance:

As of last month we are once again a two-car family, following a two-year gap caused by the theft of our second car, age 12. There was no trade-in, meaning our former first car, age 6, is our new second car. By virtue of its youth, the new first car, a 1989 model, gets the choice indoor parking space in our building basement. The former first car is now banished to the outdoor lot, to suffer Michigan weather and the increased risk of theft.

The new car has an intellectual show-off dashboard that intimidates me. On our first long drive, it suddenly began flashing "2.00" on and off, on and off. I didn't know what it meant, and was alarmed. Would I run out of gas in two miles, or two hours? Consulting the owner's manual, my wife said it meant we'd been driving for two hours and should stop and rest right now.

Feeling as though I'd been reprimanded by my mother, I pulled into the next rest stop. I was afraid turn-signal lever would spank me.

But that isn't the sentimental stuff I wanted to tell you about my wife and the new car. This is: Although she is the one who most wanted a new car, she has been seen walking bent-over through a snowstorm to the outdoor lot, to drive the old car. Why?

"Because I feel sorry for it," she said. She really said that.

Happy Thanksgiving Day.

From This Perspective

As the season turns

Tracy King

Michiganders like their state for a variety of reasons, but their dislike seems to stem from one source — the winters.

Whenever I hear the typical attack on Michigan winters I nod and smile, though I'm really thinking — what a dummy.

Here's a guy who doesn't like winter, but he's living in a state where the season is underway for almost half a year.

My relatives recently moved to sunny Florida, where the seasons don't change much.

"Isn't this glorious," they chortle, throwing back the tops of their convertible cars in late February.

The thermometer has just hit 70 for the third week in a row and the sun is getting a great work-out, bouncing off of buildings and dancing on the very blue sea.

Sounds good, you say?

That's because you live in Michigan, where weather is appreciated.

Floridians exist in one big blur of sunshine, which usually isn't worth more than a blasé comment like "nice day."

We have stories to tell, here in Michigan.

There's the one about autumn the first year I lived in Michigan, where it rained for something like 44 days straight. Or the winter when Michiganders walked around all smug because it had been sunny every day for months.

There's something satisfying about getting phone calls from Florida, and mentioning, nonchalantly, "Yes, it's snowing here. (yawn) Something like 8-9 inches so far I'd guess."

Without winter, spring wouldn't have much of an effect.

There's nothing like that first warm day when spring, well, scents itself.

Birds, as if they had been cued, sing outside bedroom windows in concert with the dripping gutters.

Tiny crocuses burst forward in defiance of the frozen ground, and sheer strangers smile at one another, asking "Isn't it a great day?"

The mere fact that the seasons change at all lends itself to growth and renewal.

Fall, with its urgent reminder to hurry, finish, take cover — winter is coming, offers a certain motivation after summer's carefree pose.

And then winter, even with all of the effort it requires, offers a certain something.

There's satisfaction in the industry and bustle we display in plowing forward despite the elements.

And few things can compare to that steaming bowl of soup, comforting hot chocolate or three-alarm chili on a cold day.

Is Florida tempting in February? Sure it is, but I'll take Michigan any day. Even the winter ones.

Seniors upset

Independence Township Supervisor Frank Ronk said in the Oakland Press (March 19) that the township was not involved in the transfer of funds (meaning the money the township employees collected for a cruise that the Independence Parks and Recreation Department was offering.)

Township attorney Tom McKenney said in the Oakland Press that the township has no control over their moneys (I believe he was referring to moneys that senior paid to Independence Township employees for a cruise that the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department was offering) or anything.

The seniors paid all moneys for the cruise (one price covered round trip air and cruise costs) directly to Independence Township employees. Independence Township employees paid the travel agent that the Independence Township Parks and Recreation had secured, Meredith Travel, to make the cruise arrangements.

An Independence Township employee told the seniors that this employee had transferred the cruise moneys (without asking the seniors) from Meredith Travel to another travel agent because the employee had heard that Meredith Travel was going into bankruptcy.

The seniors were also told that an additional $279.90 per couple was now needed to obtain the round trip air to and from the ship docks.

The only transaction that the senior citizens made was giving Independence Township employees the balance due for the full cruise cost.

Each senior couple paid their original cruise cost of between $1,398 and $1,898 (this cost varied with room location on the ship) plus the additional $279.90 for the second air fare to Independence Township employees, and now must pay federal court half of each couple's original cruise cost plus pay attorney fees of $1,476 — all because of business transactions that Independence Township employees took upon themselves to transact.

Family as friends

BY MICHELLE SHERWOOD

Family members can make the best friends.

My mother and oldest sister are proof of that fact.

At first I felt naturally jealous, but I've learned to accept them the way that they are going to be.

They always seem to be together — sports events with the grandchildren or simple things, such as grocery shopping.

Like that old saying says, "If you can't beat them, join them!"

They are a team, and I can deny myself the pleasure of their company or invite myself along. It's not as though they treat me as non-existent when I include myself.

They don't make me feel as though I'm intruding. I am very grateful that I have a family that is loving and sincere.

Through my experience of being in a car accident this past year, it has become more apparent.

My entire family has been with me every, seemingly small, step of the way to recovery.

If I need anything at all, my entire family becomes available — all I need to do is call.

I know that I am fortunate. When we grew up and moved away from our nest, communication and caring did not fade away.

If you don't consider your family your friends, only you can change it.

It is very important to have a long-term best friendship with someone who can be a friend unconditionally.

Board alters superintendent evaluation process

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

The Clarkston school board has adopted a new method of evaluating the school superintendent.

Members determined the criteria and procedure for the superintendent evaluation in a four-hour special meeting March 31.

The new evaluation, which will be conducted annually starting in 1991, was created from a version used by Genesee Intermediate School District.

The new procedure replaces an evaluation process that some feel gives inadequate direction to the superintendent.

"We want this to be a developmental process, rather than an antagonistic process," said board President Janet Thomas.

Currently, the board evaluates the superintendent with a form outlining roughly 50 job functions. Each function is rated on a scale of one to five, so when the superintendent receives the evaluation, he sees where the seven hash marks have rated him.

Under the new process, the board develops a consensus

"We want this to be a developmental process, rather than an antagonistic process."

President Janet Thomas

sus opinion on the superintendent's performance in 12 broad areas.

Here's how it works:

Each member individually ranks the 12 areas with the one-to-five scale. More detailed elements are listed within the 12 categories, which members may mark with a plus or minus as he or she sees fit.

The board then meets to create a consensus on the superintendent's evaluation; that composite evaluation is used to identify areas of improvement and to determine how those improvements might be made.

The superintendent and some board members disagreed on whether the individual rankings should be kept anonymous.

"This is the first time in my career that an evaluation consisted of unsigned documents," Haner told the board.

Some members argued that revealing individual rankings could color the marks a member might give.

They also argued that an evaluation should be a product of a cohesive board, not of seven individual members.

Haner argued that it was important to see who felt he was deficient, and why.

Trustee Tom Howard agreed.

"We should be above hiding behind unsigned documents," Howard stated.

Board members and the superintendent did agree that the anonymity issue would greatly depend on whether the full board could legally discuss the evaluation without the superintendent present, which would be determined later.

The board considered an evaluation process identical to one used in Genesee Intermediate Schools.

Under that method, board members ranked about 75 areas using a four-point scale. The ranking was done by a computer that graphed comparisons between the board and the superintendent's evaluation of himself, as well as evaluations from year to year.

Members agreed that the computer system was too complicated.

"It's so detailed; I wonder whether we would get anything out of it," said John Needham. "It's hard to get at the individual's role (that way). We would just be hiding behind a lot of numbers."

Board members agreed to begin the new evaluation process with a preview meeting to discuss what each area was asking, and to hear from the superintendent on how he had performed in each category.

June was established as a target date for completing the evaluation process.

Driving classes offered

Thursday, April 12, is the deadline to apply for driver education classes. The instruction is free to residents of the Clarkston school district who are at least age 15 but are under age 18.

Students attend four hours each day for 15 days. The tentative dates are June 18 through July 7 (excluding July 4) and July 9 through July 27.

Applications and additional information can be picked up at the main offices of Clarkston Junior High School, Clarkston Senior High School and the Clarkston Community Education Center on Maybee Road, Independence Township.

Questions regarding driver education should be directed to Ron Santavicca at CHS at 625-0900.

WHICH CLOSING COSTS DEDUCTIBLE?

QUESTION: I signed a lot of checks during the closing of the purchase of our home. Can you tell me which closing costs are deductible from my income tax?

ANSWER: Property taxes are usually pro-rated so that both the buyer and seller each pay the taxes for the portion of the year that each owns the property. Each may deduct this amount — and only this amount. Another deductible item that appears in closing costs is interest charged to the seller on the mortgage up to the date of closing. Also deductible as interest is the amount charged as points.

Non-deductible closing expenses are fire insurance, FIA mortgage insurance, and charges for rent for occupancy before closing.

MANY CLOSING COSTS ARE DEDUCTIBLE. Keep good records of the transaction so as not to lose any.

Board of Review reduces half residential appeals

BY RENEE GLOVINSKY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Out of 435 residential assessment appeals heard during the 1990 Independence Township Board of Review, 218 were reduced, while 217 were held, said

"There has been a dramatic change for taxpayers this year because of the millage passing, as well as the assessments going up."

Assessor David Kramer

township Assessor David Kramer.

The Board of Review, comprised of three township residents appointed by the township board, reviewed 524 appeals presented to them over a two-week period that ended March 23. Various categories included residential, commercial, and residential, along with utility and personal property.

Assessments are important because they're used to determine property taxes.

The majority of appeals came from residential owners. Of those, 61 were hardship cases — taxpayers who didn't have the ability to pay their taxes this year, Kramer said. Of the hardship cases, 33 were granted.

Four apartment complex owners appealed but received no reductions, he added.

In the commercial category, two were reduced, while 18 were held. In the industrial category, one was reduced, while one was held.

Kramer explained that each assessment is based on a property value that is determined on tax day, Dec. 31, of the previous year.

To determine property taxes, a property is assessed at half its market value (State Equalized Value), and that number is multiplied by the millage rate and divided by 1,000.

For example, to figure taxes on a $100,000 home, use half its market value ($50,000), and multiply that by the millage rate — about 58.1437 mills — divided by 1,000. Taxes would equal $2,907.19. One mill is $1 for every $1,000 property valuation.

"There has been a dramatic change for taxpayers this year because of the millage passing, as well as the assessments going up," said Kramer.

If a person is dissatisfied with the Board of Review decision and believes his or her assessment value is inaccurate, he or she can make a further appeal to the Michigan Tax Tribunal, Lansing," said Kramer.

"At that point the petitioner has to prove his position of value, and the respondent-assessor has to validate his or her position on the value," said Kramer.

Great season

Congratulations to Coach Dan Fife, Coach Tim Kaul and the Clarkston High School basketball team for an outstanding season.

They went as far as their talent could take them. They were the best that they could possibly be.

I have been impressed all year with the discipline, dedication and character of all Clarkston's athletic teams and support groups.

I would like to thank Dr. Burek and all teachers and coaches who have contributed to my son's (Kevin) education and extra-curricular experiences the past several years. It has been a rewarding period of time in his life that he will always cherish.

Thank you, Clarkston voters, for realizing the importance of a quality school system by providing the opportunity for other kids to share Kevin's experiences.

The future looks bright.

Census forms to arrive late

(CENSUS, from Page 1)
Still, anyone who hasn't received a form should call 1-800-999-1990 for questionnaire assistance. The census bureau will then check the name with its list of forms yet to be sent out.

The census bureau should have all remaining forms in the mail by Friday, April 6, said Crystler, adding that residents should call again if they don't receive a form after that mailing.

For anyone who receives a form late, the information should pertain to where the recipient lived as of Sunday, April 1, he said.

Overall, the census is going well.
"It's going very good," Crystler said. "We're at peak operations. ... We get truckloads (of forms) daily back in our office."

The bureau is still hiring and particularly needs workers in Independence and Springfield townships, as well as other rural areas of the county, he said. Interested people should call 853-8200.

All information on individuals is to remain confidential for 72 years, he said, adding that the IRS and FBI do not see the information on individuals.

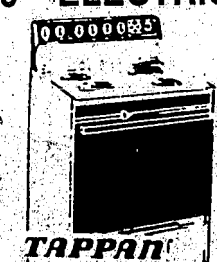

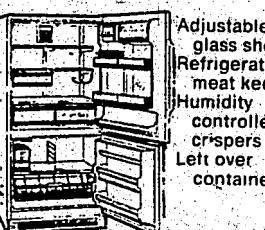

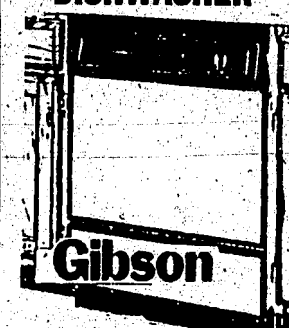

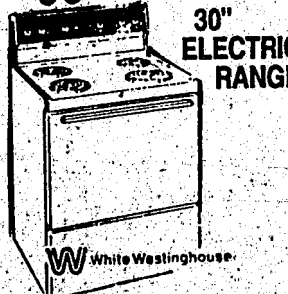

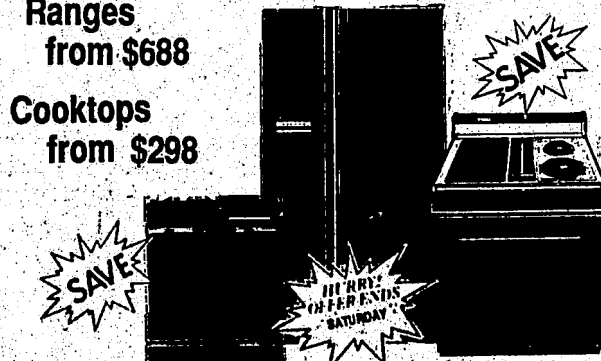

"Not even the president gets it," he said.

The collective data will be available in the summer of 1991, with more detailed information available in the summer of 1992.

If residents refuse to fill out the census or give false information, they could be prosecuted, said Crystler said.

Ma Bell publicizes list of zip code changes

New ZIP code areas have been geographically defined.

Maps were printed in the new Michigan Bell telephone books. The Royal Oak postal center had said June 1 would be a public release date for the guidelines.

The map shows Clarkston split in two by I-75 with codes 48346 south of the highway and 48348 north.

Davisburg (Springfield Township) is 48350.

Lake Orion has three ZIP codes. 48361 is in Orion Township between Clarkston and Indianwood Roads; 48360 is roughly between Waldon and Clarkston Roads, and 48359 is from Brown Road north to Waldon.

Oxford is split in two, and the 48051 number is gone. Oxford has 48370 and 48371. 48370 is bordered by Lake George Road, Indian Lake Road, Barr Road and the Lapeer County Line.

48371 covers Oxford Township and small portions of Brandon Township and Lapeer County.

The balance of Addison Township is ZIP 48367. No ZIP code is shown for Lakeville.

Ortonville (Brandon Township) is 48462. Holly and Rose Townships have 48442.

The postal service asks patrons to not use the new numbers until July 1. Users will have a year to make the changes on their stationery, etc.

What's happening in your neighborhood?

Principal talks about problems of skipping school

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Things have calmed down at Sashabaw Junior High School (SJHS) after six or seven students were caught skipping school March 21.

About 20 pupils from SJHS and Clarkston Junior High skipped that day, and all students received detention or were suspended, said David Reschke of SJHS.

However, reaction to the incident has been mixed—partly due to rumors of drugs, alcohol and nudity, none of which was connected with the case, said Reschke.

While skipping school is not as serious a crime as the rumored incidents would have been, it's still wrong, he said.

"It's one of the major infractions kids can have," he said, mentioning that SJHS' attendance record is good—about 96 percent of Sashabaw's kids are in school each day, and most absences are due to illness. The same is true throughout the school district, he said.

"It's one of the major infractions kids can have."

SJHS Principal David Reschke

"We've worked hard to keep kids from skipping," said Reschke, adding that the school gives certificates each marking period to students with perfect attendance.

Rules against skipping appear in the code of conduct for the junior high schools and high schools in Clarkston, he said. At Sashabaw, penalties include one hour of detention after school for each hour of school that was skipped.

"We never bend on it," he said. "There's no exception."

If a student chronically skips school, the pupil may be suspended—but only to get the parents into the school, said Reschke.

"We rarely have to suspend a kid for skipping," he said. "It makes no sense to throw a kid out of school for skipping school. ... Most parents take care of the problem."

If it's still a problem, they'll file a complaint with the court about juvenile truancy.

School attendance is important. "Academics suffer from skipping," he said.

In general, Sashabaw students are well-behaved, Reschke said.

"I hope all students' reputations won't suffer because of the actions of a few."

Pheasants land in area park

A new species of purebred Sichuan pheasants has been introduced in southeast Michigan.

About 100 pheasants were released at Indian Springs Metropark near Clarkston, and 50 Sichuan pheasants were released at Seven Lakes State Park, about 2 1/2 miles northwest of Holly.

These birds were the first of the nearly 3,000 scheduled for release in Oakland County.

The event began this spring's releases, which should total nearly 9,000 pheasants in eight additional counties.

The DNR first introduced the Sichuans in 1987, when 335 birds were released near Pinckney in Livingston County.

Subsequent years' releases of 1,330 birds in 1988 and 3,000 birds in 1989, combined with this year's release, bring the total number of birds released to nearly 14,000 pheasants.

The birds have demonstrated positive indications of their ability to produce a viable population in the release areas.

DNR wildlife biologists remain cautiously optimistic about the future of this program, which began in 1985 when more than 2,000 eggs were brought over from the Sichuan province in the People's Republic of China.

The ring-necked pheasant was introduced into Michigan in 1918, and the first hunting season was in 1925.

The population continued to grow into the 1940s but has decreased markedly since that time.

Visitors, as they walk through the nature trails or bike-hike through the park, should bring along binoculars or cameras as they prepare to get a glimpse of the beautiful birds.

It is hoped that the Sichuan pheasants' preference for non-farmed areas will continue to allow them to adapt well to similar habitats in Michigan.

Team gets its kicks with new coach

Spring Preview

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston girls' soccer team hopes to improve on its 5-9-1 record in 1989.

New coach Kelly Gabriele said she will rely on her team balance for that improvement.

"We have well-rounded players. I can put them in any position," said Gabriele.

Gabriele takes over the head coaching job from Hana Olsen. Gabriele previously coached at West Bloomfield High School for two years and the past two years was involved with soccer at the Waterford Township Parks and Recreation Department.

The coach said her squad hasn't particularly been hurt by the pay-to-play requirement. There are 14 players this season, up a little from last year.

"Practices are going well," said Gabriele. "I'm proud of the team."

The team does have a mixture of experienced and young players, which includes six sophomores and one freshman.

Nancy Caracella, Karen Lowe and Erin McAuliffe return with two years experience and Sue Cohoon, Amy Fouchey, Sabre Lachman, Denise Van Atta and Jennifer Vasold each have lettered one year.

Gabriele said two players have "volunteered" to become goalkeepers this year, Cohoon and Christy Mitchum.

Since Gabriele is new, she has no predictions on how her team will fare in the Greater Oakland Activities League.

But she does predict that her team will not play man-to-man defense.

"I want them to play as a team, with precise passing. I don't want them to get involved in a kick-and-run game."

Gabriele does have goals for herself and her team.

"I'd like us to have a better season than last year and enjoy soccer as much as I enjoy it."

The home season opener for the Wolves will be Friday, April 6, at 4 p.m.

Swinging from the Heels

Good morning class, welcome to your first unit of Sports 101.

Today, you'll be taking a test. I know you didn't get an opportunity to study for it, but don't worry, it's multiple choice.

When you're finished with the test, don't forget your homework assignment. You are to read the rest of the sports in The Clarkston News, read either the Detroit Free Press or Detroit News sports section, listen to an hour of Frank Beckmann on WJR and watch two hours of anything on ESPN.

Wolves hope to net 4th straight title

THE TENNIS team swings into action with its home opener Thursday.

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Three's a charm, but four is even better.

The Clarkston boys' tennis team will be going after its fourth straight Greater Oakland Activities League championship this season.

According to coach Dick Swartout, the Wolves chances for another league title are excellent, especially since most of last year's No. 1 seeded players from around the league graduated.

But Clarkston, which was 9-2 and fifth in the regional in 1989, will be returning its No. 1 seed, senior Keith Turner. Turner has been the top Clarkston singles' player for the past three years.

Senior Ian Halleran will play No. 2 singles, sophomore Jason Gross is No. 3 and junior Marc Swartout is No. 4. Halleran was the No. 3 seed last year, while Gross and Swartout played doubles.

Coach Swartout said the three doubles' teams will be up for grabs on the team which carries three seniors, four juniors, two sophomores and five freshmen.

He said the doubles' teams are not just chosen solely on talent, but also how well they get along with each other and how they communicate on the court.

The coach said everyone on the team will be see action.

"Everybody will play. I anticipate everyone will earn a varsity letter," said Swartout, who pointed out that 19 players tried out for the team, an increase in turnout from 1989.

Spring Preview

To get a varsity letter, a Wolf must play in five varsity matches or win five exhibition matches (or a combination of the two). Players who are not involved in the top four singles' and top three doubles matches play the exhibition doubles matches.

The Wolves will be busy in the coming weeks, playing 15 matches within 18 school days.

The coach said the strength of the team will especially be in its top two seeded players, while the weakness will be in doubles, where there is not much match experience.

Top-seed Turner, who plays all year long, is coming off of shoulder surgery in December but he has told his coach he is back to 100 percent form.

The five freshmen are inexperienced in league play, but coach Swartout likes what he sees.

"I'm pleased at the good strokes of the freshmen. They have had a lot of lessons, which helps," said Swartout.

Swartout said his team is "enthusiastic and anxious to play."

That enthusiasm will begin Thursday, April 5, when the Wolves host Rochester in the season opener, 3:30 p.m. at Clintonwood Park.

Fabulous Faculty Fleet Footer team member Wayne Samuel wrote and read the following poem over the public address system the morning after the game:

Ode to our Ninth Grade Basketball Players

Tired legs, aching muscles, as well as sore feet,
That's what you gave us, besides a defeat.
Congratulations 9th graders, you played a great game,
But don't get big-headed, you can't handle the fame.
As we ran up the court, together side by side,
We noticed you played with a real sense of pride.
You made a good effort, you pleased the big crowd,
Now do the same in your classes, and we'll all be so proud.
As the years go by in whatever you do,
Let the memory of that game bring a smile to you!

9th graders score high

The Clarkston Junior High School gymnasium leaked in September.

On March 15 there were just enough leaks in the Fabulous Faculty Fleet Footers' defense as the ninth grade Wolverine basketball team stopped the faculty, 85-73.

The game, which took place before a packed house of students, faculty, staff and parents, was part of the "grand re-re-opening" of the gym. Earlier this school year, the gym was closed twice. In September, roof leaks caused a cupping of parts of the gym floor, resulting in the gym being closed for a short time for partial sanding and painting of the floor.

In December, the gym was totally closed to all activities. A new roof and floor were installed.

For the ninth graders, it was the first time they were able to play a basketball game in their own gym and at the same time it was a "swan song" for the team.

Matt Underwood led the ninth graders with 10 points and Scott Rooney added nine. Scot Matusz, Brian Trebilcock, Steve Black and Tom Duty each scored eight, Eric Ryan, Chris Colburn, Gary Young and Jeff Galley all had seven, and Dan Eby and Justin Tappero had three.

Larry Sherrill led the Fabulous Faculty Fleet Footers with 19 and teammate Dave Jokisch netted 16. John Craven and Duane Lewis each poured in eight, Dallas Throne had seven, Jerry Ostrom five, Dave Campbell and Wayne Samuel both had four and Dennis Bronson added two.

Does someone on your team consistently hit home runs, score lots of goals or pile up lots of serving aces? We'd like to know at The Clarkston News: 625-3370

Chefs cook up a storm while winning ski races

BY RENEE GLOVINSKY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Midwest chefs offered a new flavor to the slopes at the Grand Marnier at Boyne Highlands Sunday, March 11, where two local culinary experts took the cake. Don Balzarini, chef for the Pine Knob Ski Resort in Independence Township; and assistant chef Lori Walker came in first place in their respective age categories.

Skiing well wasn't their only accomplishment, though — both had to dress accordingly. Each contestant was required to wear a chef's hat with a custom-designed apron.

The prestige of coming in first place is nice, but the grand prize of a full-paid trip to Aspen, Colo., to compete in the national competition is even better. Don and Lori will in Aspen April 4-8.

The chef's race has a 15-year history. All the proceeds for the Grand Marnier race will benefit Michigan Chefs Against Hunger, a non-profit group founded by Detroit Chefs to benefit the Capuchin Community Center Soup Kitchen.

Plus, the entire competition was fun, said both skiers.

catch the edges if you're not careful. These conditions didn't effect our time."

"Last year I really had to push," said Lori. "This year wasn't as hard."

Each also finished first last year. That means they'll be able to enter the local race in 1991 but will no longer qualify for the national competition due to the two-win maximum.

Competition in the local race included skiers from Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Canada.

Recreation Roundup

ADULT SOFTBALL REGISTRATION

Registration for the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Adult Summer Softball Leagues began March 5 for returning teams.

New teams began registering on a first come, first serve basis on March 12. There will be divisions for men's 35 and over teams, women's 30 and over teams and for men's and women's teams of all ability levels.

All games are played at Clintonwood Park, Clarkston Road. Games are scheduled to begin in mid-May, with weekday and weekend leagues available.

JR. BASEBALL/YOUTH SOFTBALL

As many area businesses already know, Independence Township Parks and Recreation has sent out forms asking for sponsors for the Jr. Baseball/Youth Softball program. We have received many positive responses so far. However, we are still short of our goal to have each team sponsored. If your business is interested in sponsoring, please notify the parks and recreation office.

MARSHMALLOW DROP AND EASTER EGG HUNT

Independence Township Parks and Recreation and the Clarkston Jaycees are co-sponsoring a Marshmallow Drop and Easter Egg Hunt on Saturday, April 7. The Easter Egg Hunt is set for 10:30 a.m. followed by the Marshmallow Drop at 11:30 a.m. at Clintonwood Park. The events are free for youngsters in sixth grade or younger.

MOTHER-DAUGHTER FASHION SHOW

Independence Township Parks and Recreation will be hosting the Second Annual Mother-Daughter Fashion Show on Saturday, May 5, at Clintonwood Park.

There will be a choreographed fashion show, a light lunch, an essay contest and an open fashion show for those who wish to come dressed in their chosen fashions. Inter-generational fashion teams are encouraged (i.e. mother, daughter and grandmother). There will also be face painting for the daughters and personal image consulting for the moms.

The time for this event is 12:30-2 p.m. at a cost of $7 per person. Those wishing to be a model in the choreographed fashion show must be registered by April 23. The 12 modeling couples will be drawn from those registered by this date. Essays written by daughters expressing what makes their mother special are due May 2. Only 125 tickets will be sold for this event, so early registration is advised.

SAFETY TOWN

Safety Town is a safety awareness program (for 4, 5 and 6 year olds) that has proven effective in reducing needless deaths and accidents among our most valuable resource — our precious children. This early childhood development program introduces all types of safety education. It is a 20-hour course (two hours per day for two weeks).

Children learn safety behavior through their own involvement. Sponsors are needed to offset the costs involved to start up this program. If you think you would like to be a sponsor, please call the rec. center, and you will be given more information on the many pluses involved in being a safety town sponsor. This program will take start the week of July 23 and will run Monday through Friday for 10 days.

FOR MORE INFORMATION

Call or stop by the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department, 90 N. Main St., Clarkston. The office is open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. (625-8223)

Keeping Clarkston Small

What is a city?

Citizens for Clarkston

Historically, cities have been medium- to large-sized communities: Grand Rapids, Dearborn and Kalamazoo come to mind; not to mention Detroit.

In recent years, however, an increasing number of small communities have opted for cityhood. A main objective has been controlling their size, staying small. Nearby examples are Lake Angelus, Linden and Orchard Lake Village.

Essentially, a city is a form of government. And, as a primary local unit, it is a complete government. A village, on the other hand, is an incomplete government. Its citizens are also township citizens. In addition to paying for certain local services, village residents also pay township taxes, helping to pay for services outside the village -- and for the costs of growth.

Where a village is stable in size and development, converting the village to cityhood usually means stability in service requirements and taxes.

Cities, unlike villages, are safe from absorption should the surrounding township become a city. And, in addition to maintaining their size, cities control their character, the quality of community life.

Converting to cityhood also adds certain responsibilities. In addition to conducting its own elections, a city conducts federal and state elections. It also takes over property assessments from the township and collects state, county and its share of school taxes.

A city's system of government is detailed in the city charter, which is like a constitution. If Clarkston residents vote in favor of cityhood later this spring, the next step will be the election of a commission to write a charter to meet Clarkston's specific needs and interests.

Next week: What a charter contains, how it is approved and amended. Following columns will talk about the experiences of other small cities, taxes and tax refunds from the state and the provision of local services.

Keeping it small

About five Village of Clarkston residents have formed Citizens for Clarkston, an "informal group of individuals in favor of cityhood," said Jerome Wilford, one of the members.

One of the goals of the group is to explain cityhood and its importance, he said.

"There are a lot of misconceptions about cityhood," he said. "It comes down to controlling the size and the quality and the character of the village."

To inform people or answer questions, the group plans to write a short column periodically for The Clarkston News, entitled "Keeping Clarkston Small." It debuts this week.

The state Boundary Commission approved cityhood for the village this year, and residents are to vote on the issue May 14.

Opinion of Bill Myers

Insurance thoughts

William A. Myers is a retired Lapeer County editor and investments manager from Boca Raton, Fla.

Along with the joys of retirement comes a cloud without a silver lining -- the fear of a long, expensive illness that will put you in a nursing home.

Medicare takes care of the early months in such a place, but if you're average, your stay will be 2½ years. So say you have 2 years to pay out of your own pocket.

Down in southeastern Florida, average daily costs are now $90 a day in a semi-private room. For 2 years, assuming no price increase, that means $65,700. That's the room charge. Medicines, doctors and other extras not covered by Medicare could easily swell this to $70,000.

People I know take one of these choices:

1. They save up money during their working years for just such a cost.

2. They buy nursing or custodial care insurance. If they are an average risk, the cost of the insurance will be more than if they had just saved money, and in effect, insured themselves.

3. When they can foresee poor health that means they'll have to have custodial care, they'll give away their savings and property to one of their kin, and intentionally bankrupt themselves. By doing this they meet state rules for government care for people without funds.

Choice No. 2 -- insurance -- is no free lunch. Insurance companies have to make money, their agents have to make money, and the companies have to build up reserves. If you linger longer than average, insurance may turn out to be cheaper than if you had paid for care out of your savings. If you linger a lesser time, then the policy was a poor buy, if you put no value on the peace of mind. A company here in Florida that peddles a lot of these nursing care policies lists some things to look for in buying a policy, and say it . . .

1. Should pay benefits big enough for all levels of care.

2. Shouldn't have 'pre-existing condition' exclusion. (Practically everyone at age 65 has a pre-existing malady of some sort.)

3. Should cover Alzheimer's disease. Some policies exclude it.

4. Should not require prior hospitalization. Some policies say you have to be in a hospital so many days before entering a nursing home. (I've known people who had to ask their doctor to put them in a hospital 'for observation' for a few days to comply. It probably cost them $1,000 to meet a rule of their policy.)

5. Premiums should be at a level rate, and waived in event of a claim.

6. Should continue benefits at home.

7. Company should rate A or A+ by the A.M. Best insurance rating company.

Maybe you can't find one company that has a policy with all these features, but shop around.

An easy way for those who can look ahead for 25 or 30 years would be to set aside some of your IRA (Individual Retirement Account) years for just this purpose.

For example: You're 40 years old. Put in the $2,000 into an IRA now. Let it ride for 25 years. Tell the bank or broker holding the IRA account to put it into zero-coupon government bonds. At this writing, $2,000 would buy some government zeros maturing in 25 years at 12 cents on the dollar. Your $2,000 will buy nearly $17,000 in bonds. Do that for 4 years in a row, and it will take care of $70,000 in nursing home care that you'll have as an average person.

You can cash in these bonds anytime as years go by if some pressing need arises. You can't do that with an insurance policy.

Reading is Fun Week

In an effort to inspire children to read and aspire through reading, April 22-28 has been designated Reading is Fun Week.

This program is sponsored by Reading Is Fundamental, Inc., (RIF) which operates through more than 100,000 volunteers in schools, libraries and daycare centers throughout the country.

As part of the week-long celebration, local RIF programs will conduct reading activities which underscore the fun of reading.

First Lady Barbara Bush, a long-time advocate of literary programs, is honorary chairman of the advisory council for RIF.

A non-profit organization founded in 1966, RIF is headquartered in Washington, D.C.

Since its inception, RIF has distributed more than 100 million books.

The organization is the nation's largest reading motivation program dedicated to preventing illiteracy.

The Talking Tree

By Peter Hogaboam

One day a boy went to an apple tree.
The boy picked the apples from the tree.
The tree spoke: Could I pick one of the hairs off your head?
The boy said, Excuse me!
The tree said, People are always one not to care
Look about and see how they share.
The boy asked this, Can this be real?
The tree replied, They take but walk by if there is need
They boy left to see if he could do a good deed.
He saw a small girl with a cut on her hand
He walked on by,
He passed a tree.
The tree said:

SEE.
Life is not a Dream.

Nature

By Anthony Millefogle

Nature is weird dude with strange happenings,
It brings winter blast into spring's air and summer during wintertime snows.
Its rain sows the spring flowers and grasses while waiting for a winter's second chance.
Nature is a weird dude with strange happenings,
but then what of human nature, a second chance?

Spring Is Here

Snow melts, Yippie! Yippie!

Fishy Wishy

By Michael Eberle

Fishy wishy jump high in the sky;
Fishy wishy out of the water came.
Fishy wishy upon a hook had sunk.
Fishy wishy came toward the boat.
Kr-plunk!
Fishy wishy was at the bottom — off my hook.
Fishy wishy jumped high to the sky
Fishy wishy said GOODBYE.

Weather

By Gerald Diehl

Weather can bring warm and cold rains
Weather can bring with cold and muddy lands.
Rain, hail, lightning, snow, winds, tornadoes,
These are weather's elements. What's next?

Spring

By David Haverstick

Spring is here, so join the fun
Spring is here the best time of the year
Spring is here, so much light
Spring is here — a time to play outdoors.

Spring is here and awakening
It survives from the long winter storms
It puts us in a better frame of mood
Then begins to provide us food.

Spring is here
A delicate delight.

Seaside

By Sara McKechnie

As leaves fall and fall
By river, ocean and seas, all in all;
By seashores ships come in and by seashores people swim,
Under oceans people explore and swim
under in light and dim.
In the trees on the land squirrels crawl,
while round them sneaking for acorns.
Bunnies, deer, raccoons in woods do play
by rivers, streams and ponds.
In cities people are moving by many means:
cars, bikes, taxis, trains and others on ships and planes
What a common phenomenon — A seaside of different things

SOMETHING WE call: NATURE

Cats Playing

By Kelly Farrand

Cats in the leaves
Running all about
Cats, Cats, Cats chasing balls
Running swiftly here and there — falls
Cats playing hard — all out
Laying sleepily — laying in sun.
All tired — resting for the next bout.

A World

By Ronnie Grinold

Ah! You're so great.
I am so small.
I tremble to think of you.
A world at all — Happy and trouble all the same
I said my prayers today — a voice says I am a dot against such a large universe
But think I must:
It will be me that has to be bigger;
I think, If not
A world, an earth, and an universe may not exist.

Rain

By Brad Bailey

One by one
They all fall
First comes rain
Then comes fall
If you want to stall
and look at them all
Lightning is added
But the rain falls
The children run out
They get wet by it
Growing takes place by it
Mom calls and we go in
The rain falls
Life — Oh what a rain.

Nature

By Lynda Gronlund

Down the hill the river runs,
with sparkling blue waters,
It runs into the lakes.
The lake looks like a giant crystal, around the lake grows pretty green trees,
and in the trees live birds.
This is nature.

The Howling Dogs

By Missy Stuenkel

The howling dogs howled all night.
They won't quit until light.
Then they wag their tails, bark at passerbys
Some are considered mean, green and eating machines.
But the dog see his master approach and scratch his neck and what do have?
a tiny little pussy cat.

The Nature I like

By Jason Murphy

I like Nature because of the trees, bushes, water and the animals there.
I like to find old trees fallen down to find the aging of the tree's ring.
I find that nature is fun, nice; it is like sliding on ice.
I think nature is greatest and best when it is evening and it is time for rest.
I am like nature, moving, guiding and seeking the life for my quest.
The Nature I like is _____?

Young poets

These poems about spring and animals were contributed by Duane Proctor's fourth-grade class at Bailey Lake Elementary School.

Second- and fourth-graders in Clarkston schools have been introduced to the concept of process writing, whereby the students are encouraged to write and think and to correct or edit their own work to get a final product.

The Other Side of Things

All that glory, down the mug

Ashley Ball

Our church had a Teachers' Banquet. The committee that planned it had bought little gold apple pins and assorted carnations to present to the Sunday-school teachers. Two hours before the banquet, the committee added the finishing touches. They had slaved all day, and now they were putting out the carnations, taking pains to keep them fresh.

The beautiful tables were elaborately decorated, and it was time for the teachers to begin arriving.

My mother, who had been invited, arrived with 16 Sunbeams, a chorus of boys and girls in grades 1-5 (including my sister, Laura) who attend our church.

They meet regularly on Sunday afternoons to practice, and they mostly perform at nursing homes and the homes of older people who are sick or don't get out much. My mother likes working with the Sunbeams, helping them to do their best — and they always do.

Anyway, the Sunbeams were invited to sing for the Teachers' Banquet. My mother even scheduled an additional practice session during the week before the banquet to make sure the kids knew their lines. She was really loving this!

Well, the banquet was going wonderfully. The Sunbeams were ready to go up, excited and anxious. My mother was sitting in front of the stage, ready to help any of her little Sunbeams who might forget their lines.

Finally, the Sunbeams marched up on stage and launched into, "All God's Critters Got A Place In The Choir." They were cute!

The crowd clapped and smiled. The Sunbeams had turned out another excellent performance, and the night was definitely a success.

Suddenly, one of the Sunbeams, Mindi Thompson (a fifth-grader at Bailey Lake Elementary), produced a beautiful bouquet of daffodils and held them out toward my mother.

My mother was at first surprised, then flustered, then she sort of froze. Finally, she reached out to take the bouquet. Then she hugged Mindi. Everyone clapped again and she motioned the Sunbeams off the stage, smiling brightly.

After all the teachers had been presented with the apple pins and carnations, it was time to leave. My mother's arms were full of daffodils and carnations and Sunbeam songbooks. It had been a big night for her.

As we drove home, our spirits were high. When we walked in the door, my dad greeted us with, "How did it go?"

"Fine, great!" we replied with enthusiasm.

"Well, now ... where should I put these?" my mother asked ... she was really bubbly now. She was talking about the bouquet ... the memento of this lovely night.

Instantly, pictures of where to put this flower treasure raced through my head. What kind of vase ... smoked glass? Porcelain? Something smooth and sleek? Contemporary? Black? White? Pastel? Electric blue?

"Oh, here's something," my mother said as she took a giant red and white plastic mug from the cupboard shelf. It was imprinted with the words, "Chicago Hot Dog ... The Super Refill." Without another word she filled the mug with water, then stuck the flowers in it with one downward WHOOSH! What? My mind was boggled.

I sighed.

All that glory, down the mug.

Nowadays when every car dealer has such a wide selection of models to choose from, it is really difficult for you to decide where to go for a new car. All the companies advertise that their cars are the best, but who is to say which car really is. Obviously all the cars on the market today must have their good points or they wouldn't have survived the ups and downs of the business. We therefore can conclude that the real difference in buying a car is the dealer you buy it from.

The ideal dealer offers a fair price on the new car, as well as an honest dollar for the car you trade in. However, the most important factor is the service that you receive on your new car every year.

We would like to point out a dealer who considers that the most important part of selling a car is the quality service he can offer you after the sale. We are talking about OWEN MOTORS, INC., located at 110 Ortonville Rd. (M-15) in Ortonville, phone 627-2460. I wonder where oh where
It may end in my yard

It may end anywhere at all,
It could wind up in a bubble;

Celebration for 25th anniversary of Bailey Lake

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

The 25th Anniversary of Bailey Lake Elementary School was celebrated for a whole week by children, parents, faculty and former staff members last week.

"It was a wonderful week," said Principal Doris Mousseau.

The week began with a kick-off assembly, when each of the 25 classes contributed an item to a time capsule, said Sheri Griffith, who co-chaired the event with Ruth Wheeler.

The time capsule is to be placed in the school safe with a message that it is not to be opened for another 25 years — the year 2015.

Items in the time capsule include a Bailey Lake handbook, sample report cards, a yearbook, T-shirt, lunch menu and prices, a "Where's Waldo?" book, buttons and stickers, erasers, reading workbook, photographs of the school, staff and busses; and a class list.

The principal also contributed to the time capsule with a message that included a list of her goals for the school.

The Parent Teacher Association, too, held a special meeting with past and present Bailey Lake staff members.

Former staff members who attended were Jackie Hoisington, Shirley Wolven, Jo Vaara, Bryce Landon, Louise Mauti, Bill Rathburg, Lauri Gregory and Mary Steele, who traveled from southern Indiana for the occasaid Griffith, who added that the affair was a good experience for all involved.

"We were kind of hoping to instill a little school pride in the kids," she said. "That was our goal, to make the kids proud of their school."

Apparently, it worked.

"It was a wonderful week."

That evening, all teachers received a carnation and were treated to a presentation by Sheri Hansen of the entire year's activities.

The Garden Patch

Flowering plants are a colorful part of any season. You can keep them looking attractive longer by giving them proper care.

"The exact care requirements of flowering plants vary slightly from one plant to another," says Lee Taylor, extension horticulture specialist at Michigan State University, East Lansing.

"A few general recommendations apply to all of them, however."

Most flowering plants — including amaryllis, azalea, begonia, Christmas pepper, chrysanthemum, cyclamen, gloxinia, holiday cacti and poinsettia — do best in a spot that receives all the natural light available.

Better yet is 12 to 16 hours of bright light from fluorescent tubes.

Check plants daily, and water whenever the soil surface begins to feel dry.

If containers have drainage holes in the bottom, add water until some drains out the bottom.

Plants in containers without drainage holes are very easy to overwater, and Taylor urges watering cautiously so plants don't spend a lot of time standing in waterlogged soil.

Plant roots need air as well as water — too much water and they die and then rot.

Compared to the greenhouse where the plants were grown, most houses are extremely dry, and plants may suffer from low humidity.

Leaves may dry around the edges, and flower buds fail to open or fall prematurely.

Grouping plants on trays of moist gravel, placing them in areas of the house that are naturally more humid, such as the kitchen or bathroom, or using a room humidifier to add moisture to the air should help prolong flowering.

Keeping plants out of warm drafts and away from televisions and other appliances that give off heat will also help.

High temperatures will shorten the flowering period, as well as increase problems due to low humidity, so Taylor recommends placing plants where they'll be exposed to temperatures of 65 to 75 degrees during the daytime and 50 to 55 degrees at night.

Cyclamen and paperwhite narcissus will hold up better at 60 to 65 degrees during the day and 50 degrees at night.

Fertilizing usually isn't necessary unless the plants are going to be kept and rebloomed, Taylor says, and this is usually practical only with amaryllis and holiday cacti.

Other flowering plants require temperature and/or light conditions that are difficult to achieve in the home.

"It's a good idea to buy such plants with the idea that you'll enjoy them as they're growing well and looking good," Taylor suggests. "With proper care, they'll remain attractive for some time."

"Then you can discard them feeling that you got your money's worth from them."

Passover starts Monday

The Jewish Festival of Passover will be observed this year from sundown on Monday, April 9, through sundown on Tuesday, April 17.

Passover, or Pesach (PAY-SACH) in Hebrew, is observed for eight days each year.

During the first two days and the last two days, many children do not attend school and many adults refrain from work.

Passover commemorates the liberation of the Jewish people from Egyptian slavery, approximately 1280 B.C., and the resultant exodus of the children of Israel from Egypt.

Moses, as leader of the Jewish people in Egypt, asked Pharaoh to "let my people go."

When Pharaoh refused, a series of 10 plagues, each one worse than the one before, were brought against the people of Egypt, but each time Pharaoh refused.

The 10th plague was the death of all first-born Egyptians. The angel of death slew every first-born Egyptian male but "passed over" the homes of the Jews.

In their haste to leave Egypt, the Israelites did not have time enough to let their dough for bread-baking rise.

To this day, unleavened bread is eaten during the eight days of Passover.

The first two nights of Passover are celebrated in Jewish homes with a feast called the Seder (SAY DUR). The word seder literally means "order" of the service.

It is a ceremonial dinner marked by the retelling of the story of the Exodus from Egypt through the use of prayers, songs, and ceremonial foods.

The man who named America

Although America was discovered by the envoy of a Spanish queen, it was named by a German cartographer for an Italian explorer.

In honor of that lesser-known mapmaker, called the "godfather of America," April 25th has been designated Martin Waldseemuller Remembrance Day.

Waldseemuller believed that Italian navigator and merchant Amerigo Vespucci had discovered the new continent.

In a 1507 book entitled "Cosmographiae Introductio," he wrote: "Inasmuch as both Europe and Asia received their names from women, I see no reason why anyone should justly object to calling this part Amerige, i.e., the land of Amerigo, or America, after Amerigo, its discoverer, a man of great ability."

He honored Vespucci by placing his name on the world map published in 1507, and the name caught on.

It was not until several years later that Waldseemuller learned of Christopher Columbus' voyage.

Show in historical chapel benefits two

A special Possum Corner Coffee House presentation this weekend will showcase performers from monthly Open Mike sessions, as well as raise money for two good causes.

Possum Corner Showcase is set for 8 p.m. Saturday, April 7, at the historical Century Chapel of Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church on Maybee Road, Independence Township.

It's the first show to be held in the Chapel, which also houses Lighthouse North, a non-profit agency that serves the needy in north Oakland County.

Proceeds from the show will be split between Possum Corner, a non-profit association, and Lighthouse North.

Lighthouse North deserves all the help it can get, according to Mike Baker, director of the Possum Corner Traditional Music Association.

"We're sharing the facility with them, and they're a really worthwhile organization," he said. "It's nice to have them in the community."

Tickets are $7 for adults, $5 for senior citizens and children age 15 and under, and free for children age 5 and under. Tickets are available at all Ticketmaster outlets and The Book Place in Lake Orion.

The special show was scheduled when musician Neil Woodward canceled, said Baker.

This musical production will allow area residents to see all the talent in the area, he said.

"They're local people that do this for the fun of it," he said, adding that the entertainment will include folk, bluegrass, country and pop music and will be presented by a variety of solo, duo and group acts.

Workshop designed to help mature driver's cope

Experienced drivers, start your engines!
If you're over 50 years of age, you're invited to participate in a workshop designed to help improve your driving skills, increase your confidence and maintain your driving independence.

You may even qualify for multi-year discounts on your automobile insurance premiums.

The Senior Driver Retraining Workshop will be held at the Independence Township Senior Citizen Center, 5980 Clarkston Rd., Independence Township, between 12:30 and 4:30 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday, April 24 and 25.

People 50 years of age or older are eligible to participate. The workshop fee is $7.

To register, send a check or money order made payable to AARP, along with your name, address and telephone number, to the Traffic Improvement Association of Oakland County, 2510 South Telegraph Road, Bloomfield Hills, Mich., 48013.

For information, call TIA at 334-4971.

The workshop is sponsored by the Traffic Improvement Safety Association under a federal grant received through the Michigan Office of Highway Safety Planning.

The workshop features 55 ALIVE/MATURE DRIVING, the first comprehensive driver refresher course geared to the specific needs of older motorists.

Developed by the American Association of Retired

Persons (AARP), the course covers the effects of aging and medications on driving, strategies for compensating, update traffic rules, defensive driving, coping with today's traffic volumes, energy saving and accident prevention measures.

Participants can measure their brake reaction time, visual acuity, peripheral vision, depth perception, ability to recover from glare for night driving, and other elements important to safe driving.

They may also take part in a driving exercise which allows them to drive their own vehicles with an instructor present.

The instructor will point out possible problem areas in driving behavior and suggest strategies for improvement.

No records of scores are maintained, and results have no bearing on a driver's license.

The goal of the workshop is simply to help older drivers continue to drive for as long and as safely as possible.

More than 700 Oakland County seniors have already participated in the workshop, which is regarded as a national pilot program.

It is the only driver retraining program for seniors in the United States that includes psycho-physical testing and actual behind-the-wheel assessment.

BRIANNE Kohs donated her winnings to her school.

Third-grader wins grocery sweepstakes, helps elementary school

The luck of Brianne Kohs has helped her school-mates at Bailey Lake Elementary School.

Kohs, the daughter of George and Sharon Kohs of Reese Road, Independence Township, recently entered a contest at the Clarkston A & P and won certificates for 50,000 Campbell soup labels. The sweepstakes were part of the Farmer Jack/A & P Kids Month event in conjunction with the Campbell's Labels for Education program.

Kohs, a student in Mel Rassier's third-grade class, said, "I never won much before this."

Principal Doris Mousseau said Kohs has given the certificates to Bailey Lake, which will allow the school to receive an Emerson color TV/video cassette player, a Tasco reflector telescope, a Zooopolis VHS tape, a dinosaur VHS tape and a book entitled "Presidents of the United States." Kohs' name will be permanently written in the book because of her donation.

Mousseau said her school has been collecting the Campbell soup labels in the past, but never has Bailey Lake received so many labels so quickly.

Sammie Jo, a female collie mix, has to find a new home because her previous owner became ill and had to give her up for adoption.

The 45-pound dog is good about everything, according to a shelter worker. At age 9 months, she's housebroken and doesn't chew or dig. Sammie Jo likes children and other animals, too.

The $75 adoption fee includes spaying.

Sammie Jo can be seen at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

A person objecting to the special assessment roll shall file the objection in writing with the Township Clerk before the close of the hearing or within such further time as the Township Board may grant.

Appearance and protest of the special assessment at the hearing is required in order to appeal the amount of the special assessment to the Michigan Tax Tribunal. An owner of or party in interest in property to be assessed, or his or her agent, may appear in person to protest the special assessment, or may protest the special assessment by letter filed with the Township Clerk at or prior to the time of the hearing, in which case appearance in person is not required. If the special assessment is protested as provided above, the owner or any party having an interest in the real property may file a written appeal of the special assessment with the Michigan Tax Tribunal or other court of competent jurisdiction within 30 days after the confirmation of the special assessment roll.

The plans and cost estimate of the improvements are on file with the Township Clerk for public inspection.

Joan E. McCrary, Township Clerk

Tips to avoid common tax return filing mistakes

If you're scampering to file your 1989 tax return by midnight April 16, stop and take a deep breath.

Keep in mind that in the frantic rush to beat the clock, you may make some careless errors. Before you mail your return, the Michigan Association of CPAs advises you to review the following list of common last-minute tax mistakes that can cost you more than you may suspect.

Failing to file for an extension

Of all last-minute mistakes, perhaps the costliest is failing to file for an extension. If you are simply unprepared to file a carefully prepared and documented tax return, don't blindly rush ahead. You can request a filing extension by submitting Form 4868 by April 16, 1990, one day later than usual.

The one-page form requires you to estimate your tax liability for 1989 and pay any tax due. By submitting the form, you push the filing deadline to Aug. 15, thus gaining an additional four months to prepare and file your tax return.

Failing to pay tax when filing for an extension

While the IRS allows an extension for filing completed tax forms at a later date, any tax due must be paid at the time you request an extension or you will face interest and possible penalty fees, including a 0.5 percent per-month penalty on the net amount of tax not paid by the due date. However, the overall penalty cannot exceed 25 percent of the tax due. In addition, the IRS will charge interest on back taxes.

Failing to report a non-deductible IRA contribution

If you made a non-deductible Individual Retirement

Account (IRA) contribution for 1989, be sure to also fill out Form 8606 and attach it to your return. If you fail to do so, you become liable for a $50 fine.

Forgetting to supply social security numbers

On your tax return, you must supply your own Social Security number and the numbers of each dependent who reached age two by Dec. 31, 1989. Some taxpayers mistakenly assume that this rule refers only to dependent children. In actuality, you must supply a Social Security number for any dependent child or adult you claim, including a spouse or parent. If you fail to do so, you will have to pay a $50 penalty.

Miscalculating Totals

Simple mathematical errors may seem relatively insignificant to you, but to the IRS they are red flags pointing the way to a carelessly prepared return. Miscalculating totals or transposing figures can draw more attention to your return than you desire. Always double check your math before signing and mailing your tax return.

Failing to deduct state and local income tax

A good number of taxpayers have the mistaken impression that state and local income taxes are no longer deductible. In states with high tax rates, this misconception may mean losing a legitimate deduction worth thousands. You can find out how much state and local income tax was withheld from your 1989 salary by checking your W-2 form.

In addition, see if you made any payments last April for the balance of your 1988 state and local tax bill. You should also take into consideration any state estimated tax payments made during the year. Those taxes are also deductible on your 1989 return.

Deducting Reimbursed Expenses

If you don't want to get into trouble with the IRS, here's one taxpayer pitfall to avoid: deducting reimbursed expenses. For example, Jim's annual medical expenses totaled $3,700. As he understood the tax law, these expenses were deductible to the extent that they exceeded 7.5 percent of his adjusted gross income (AGI), which was $36,000. Thus, on his tax return, he deducted $1,000.

What Jim failed to take into account, however, was that his insurance company had reimbursed $3,000 of his medical costs. As a result, Jim could not deduct a single penny of his unreimbursed medical expenses.

Before you drop your tax return in the mailbox, make sure you carefully review your miscellaneous, medical and casualty-loss deductions to account for any expenses reimbursed by your employer or an insurance company.

Not taking credit when credit's due

Ignorance is not bliss when it comes to tax law. If you don't know what a tax credit is, it's time to find out. A tax credit is far better than a deduction, since it allows you to subtract a specified amount directly from the income tax you would otherwise owe. Credits are available for qualified dependent-care expenses, for the elderly or permanently and totally disabled and for low-income workers who claim one or more dependents. If you suspect that you may be eligible for one of these credits, a quick phone call to a CPA may ultimately result in significant tax savings.

Easter baskets for the needy

Easter goodies and money are wanted for needy families in the north Oakland County area, and a few good volunteers would help, too.

Lighthouse North, a non-profit organization that provides assistance to the needy, is to provide Easter baskets for about 87 children and food baskets for about 37 families, said Director Sherry Kaars.

To donate, mail cash to Lighthouse-North, 5331 Maybee Rd., Clarkston, MI 48016, or drop off non-perishable goods and treats to the center on Maybee Road, Independence Township, near Sashabaw Junior High School, Monday through Wednesday, April 9, 10 and 11.

The money will be used to buy Easter hams, said Kaars, adding that the baskets will be delivered April 11 and 12.

To volunteer to pack food baskets and prepare the children's Easter baskets, call Kaars at 673-4949.

Lighthouse also provides year-round emergency assistance, including food, clothing, diapers, day care, transportation and financial help.

To donate items, volunteer time or receive help, call 673-4949.

Since Lighthouse North opened in November 1989, it has helped 124 families and 334 individuals.

Business Briefs

Three earn stars

To achieve the highest ratings of gold or silver stars, AAL branches must annually conduct at least one AAL benevolent activity, have nine to 12 branch meetings, sponsor at least one educational activity and one member awareness event, and comply with attendance, voting and reporting requirements.

Tax filing error

Failing to attach proper documentation

Failing to attach the necessary documents to your tax return may very well invite an IRS inquiry. Enclosed with your return should be a W-2 form, which lists your annual wages as well as the amount of taxes paid during the year. In addition, you may have to attach to your tax return one or more forms, such as Form 8283 for deducting non-cash charitable contributions of more than $500.

Mailing an unsigned tax return

Even the smallest mistakes, such as forgetting to sign your tax return, can have serious consequences. CPAs warn taxpayers that the IRS may treat unsigned returns as if they had never been filed. As a result, you could be penalized five percent of the net tax due for each month the return is late, with a maximum penalty of 25 percent.

Young harpist featured in PSO concert Thursday

Harpist Kerstin Allvin is the highlight of the Pontiac-Oakland Symphony when it comes to the Clarkston area at 8 p.m. Thursday, April 5, at Sashabaw Junior High School.

A Bloomfield Hills resident, Allvin is to play the festive Spanish rhythms of Rodrigo: Concierto Serenata. Also on the program will be "The Chairman Dances" by John Adams (Fox-trot for orchestra), written in 1985 to commemorate President Richard Nixon's three-day visit to Beijing, China, in February 1972.

The program concludes with Tchaikovsky: Symphony No. 4.

Allvin began her studies at age 10 with Elyze Ilku, principal harp of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

HARPIST Kerstin Allvin of Bloomfield Hills is to tour France, Germany and Finland this year: Last year, she toured the Orient with flutist Laura Larson.

She continued her studies with Susann McDonald at Indiana University, where she received a performance certificate in addition to a bachelor of music degree. She received a master of music degree from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, studying with Lynne Aspnes.

Winner of several awards and competitions, Allvin has appeared in numerous recitals including performances in Carnegie Recital Hall, N.Y., and the Carmel Mission, Calif.

She performs with many of the orchestras in the Detroit area, including the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, Flint and Saginaw Symphonies.

In 1988, she was selected to perform "Concertino for Harp, Strings and Percussion" of Virgil Thompson with the Warren Symphony in a celebration of the composer's life and work in music. Allvin is currently on the faculty at the Flint Institute of Music.

Allvin also composes and performs in the Jazz-New Age medium. In 1989, she released a compact disc entitled "Origins" on JBX Records, which received national airplay, securing a position at number five in the Jazz-New Age category in Jazziz magazine. She has been touring with her band since spring 1989.

Symphony hits SJHS

The Pontiac-Oakland Symphony (POS) makes a trip to the Clarkston area at 8 p.m. Thursday, April 5, at Sashabaw Junior High School, Maybee Road, Independence Township.

Tickets are $8.50 for adults or $5 for seniors and students. They're available at the door or in advance by calling 334-6024.

Following the concert, which features harpist Kerstin Allvin, an afterglow will be held at Sadows Auction Gallery in Clarkston Mills, Washington Street, Clarkston. Tickets, at $5, may be purchased during intermission.

Area residents contributed $3,500 to bring the POS to the area.

All about Clarkston

A two-part program on highlights of the Clarkston community is ideal for newcomers.

Entitled "Clarkston Is a Nice Place to Live," the first session is 7-9 p.m. Tuesday, April 24, at the Clarkston Community Education Center, Maybee Road, Independence Township. The fee is $5, and pre-registration is required.

Area churches, civic groups, businesses and service organizations have contributed information, hand-out materials, discount coupons and free passes for their services.

The goal of the classes is to help newcomers and other interested individuals to get more "in touch" with what's available in the community.

For more information call 674-0993.

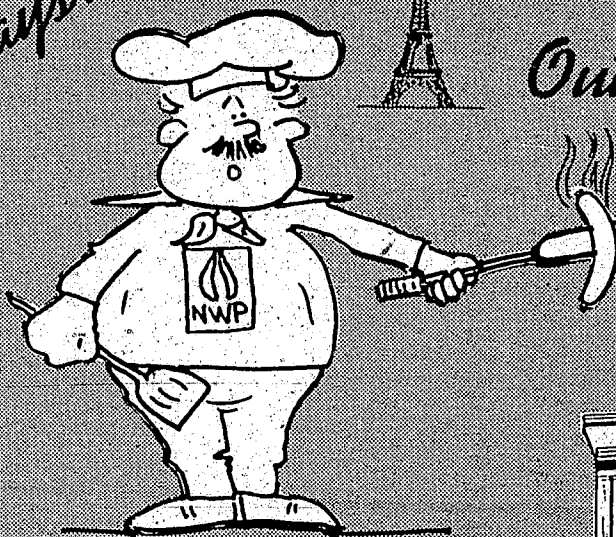

Awards breakfast set

Mark your calendars: The Michigan Week Community Awards Breakfast is set for 7:30 a.m. Wednesday, May 23, at the Spring Lake Country Club, Maybee Road, Independence Township.

Held in conjunction with Independence Township and the Village of Clarkston, the community awards program is designed to honor individuals who have given their time, energy and talents to better the community in which they live, work, worship and attend school.

Tickets — $10 each or $80 for a table of 10 — are available at the Independence Township Hall, Clarkston Village Hall and area offices of National Bank of Detroit.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY Spirit. Holy Spirit. You make me see everything and show me the way to reach my ideals. You give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrongs that are done to me and you are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with you, and my loved ones, in your perpetual glory. Amen. Persons must pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking for your wish. After the 3rd day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this dialogue as soon as your favor has been granted. Thanks St. Jude for favors received. SJ. WHO IS ON THE LORD'S side? Let him hear that hath an ear to hear the Spirit of the Lord. And Solomon said, "Lord God of Israel, there is no God like thee in heaven above, or on earth beneath, who keeps covenant and mercy with thy servants that walk before thee with all their heart." Hear this, saith the Lord, I have turned up the fire of your lust. O shepherds that have no ear to hear, that will be hot against you to bring you to nought to make manifest the intent of your heart and show your shame. Why have you failed to speak my word! Because you cannot hear. You have let the wiles of the devil scatter my truth, keeping your doctrines of vanity rather than My word. You have changed sides looking to your own, trusting in the arm of the flesh and esteeming men rather than me, saith the Lord. You are cunning workman that prepare graven images. You have idols of gold and doctrines of vanities that corrupt and turn my sheep to remaining in sin and even taking pleasure in it. I have waited for you to return unto Me, seeing your abominations. I have begun to give you over to your vanities and idols of gold that you want and have refused to turn from. HAIHA! Let them deliver you since you refuse my truth who have no ears to hear and no eyes to see. You will be in derision and who will deliver you? Call upon your gods that you have made! I called and you did not answer (even now your ears are dull) but even more made your neck stiff against my word polluting it with your vain imaginations to disobey and destroy faith in Me. There is no God beside Me! There is none other deliverer! I alone am He and there is none else! Now be it so! I have risen against your abominations. The cries have come to my ears. Walk in the light of your fire that you have kindled. AHI AHI ALASI ALASI Against whom do you sport yourselves? (ICh 16.26,27,29). IILX14-2

Andersonville pupils 'catch the spirit' of reading

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Students at Andersonville Elementary munched through hot dogs and potato chips and sipped on punch April 2 as a reward for participating in the "Catch the Spirit and Read" reading program.

March is reading month in Michigan, and this is the third year Andersonville has been involved with the reading program.

Students were encouraged to get pledges ranging from one to 10 cents for each book they read during March.

Funds raised will be used to purchase books for the classrooms at Andersonville and for the HAVEN (Help Against Violent Encounters Now) in Pontiac, which serves as a shelter for domestic violence victims, said Principal Sharon Devereaux.

Mary Beth Cannady, community education specialist at HAVEN, was presented with $500 from Andersonville Elementary at an assembly held April 2.

"We are grateful, and we appreciate the effort the children put out," Cannady said.

"We are grateful, and we appreciate the effort the children put out."

Mary Beth Cannady

Cannady visits other schools in the area during the month of March, but Andersonville does the most for the program, she said.

After the assembly, about 370 students enjoyed the late afternoon hot dog meal on April 2 served by Parent Teacher Organization (PTO) members. Local grocers supplied the food for the students, said Devereaux.

Each year a different theme is chosen, and this year a sports theme was followed, she said.

As students read and received points, chocolate candies were given as a reward for reading. The candies were covered with foil and shaped like footballs and basketballs, Devereaux said.

Triple points were given for attending a read-in at the school March 21. Students and parents brought sleeping bags and pillows and stretched out on the gym floor for about two hours of reading.

Spirit day, held every Friday, allowed the children to wear T-shirts with sports teams' name on them and baseball caps. T-shirts with "Catch the Spirit" were also sold.

Students also received certificates for participating in the program.

But one of the most interesting rewards came for the student with the most points each week.

Each teacher would take a Polaroid picture of the "All-Star Reader" for the week, and statistics were listed, she said.

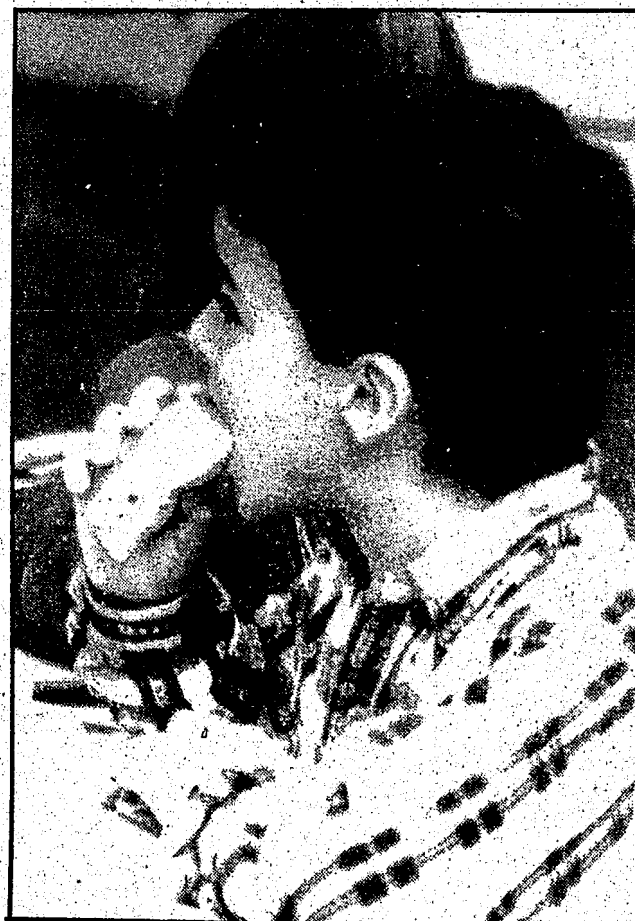

Students also got a first-hand look at a professional athlete. Ken Dallafior, lineman for the Detroit Lions, came to Andersonville Elementary on March 16 and spoke to the children about the value of reading, Devereaux said.

"The students were really excited about that," Devereaux said.

The program has was originally initiated by teacher Debbie Licata, and she serves as chairman each year, Devereaux said.

But the unified effort by the PTO, teachers and parents helps make it successful, she said.
