3 suspects in CHS fire

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

By the end of the day Wednesday, May 2, Clarkston High School officials and the Oakland County arson squad should be ready to divulge the identity of the person responsible for the April 23 fire at the high school.

As of Monday, April 30, CHS Principal Robert Burek reported that the list of suspects had been narrowed down to three. Interviewing sessions with suspects have been conducted since Friday, April 27.

The fire, which began in a boys' restroom in the south end of the school, caused extensive smoke damage to the bathroom and several classrooms. According to school and fire department officials, the fire was started in a paper towel dispenser at about 9:30 a.m. just before the sounding of the second-period horn. The fire resulted in the dismissal of classes for the rest of that day.

Once sought out, the culprit will face multiple charges from both the school system and the county.

Three CHS seniors injured in spring break crash

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

On Sunday, April 22, three Clarkston High School seniors were hospitalized after their car crashed on their way home from a spring break excursion.

Todd Bennett, Guy Kennedy and Mark Powers, all 18, were returning home from a vacation at Myrtle Beach, S.C. when the accident occurred. According to Sue Bennett, Todd's mother, the three teens were traveling northbound on U.S. 23 in Ohio when an elderly couple pulled out onto the highway in front of them.

The teens' automobile, a Chevrolet Celebrity Eurosport driven by Kennedy, struck the couple's vehicle broadside. The force of the crash blew out the driver-side window of the teens' car and set the engine compartment ablaze. The car's crushed frame wedged both of the Eurosport's doors, and Kennedy and Bennett were forced crawl out the shattered driver-side window.

Powers, who was sitting in the back of the car, had suffered a shattered femur and was unable to crawl out of the vehicle to safety. While the three teens screamed for assistance, onlookers at the scene only stared in wonderment.

With flames creeping further up the engine, Bennett crawled back into the car to rescue his injured friend. According to Todd Bennett, the concern for his friend's safety sent him back into the wreck.

"I was concerned for Mark (Powers) in the back seat," he said. "At the time of the accident, we couldn't see him because he was wedged down under the seat. Nobody would help us, and he couldn't move in the back because of his leg, so I went in and got him out."

The vehicle was scorched from the engine to the trunk by the time the fire department arrived and extinguished the flames.

Bennett, who was the only passenger wearing his seat belt correctly, escaped with only cuts and bruises. Kennedy, who was wearing a seat belt with the shoulder strap tucked behind him, suffered a crushed left foot, broken ribs and scratches on his face. The man in the other vehicle escaped unharmed, but his wife sustained two broken legs in the crash.

The victims were rushed to a nearby hospital for treatment. Powers was later flown from the facility to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac, where he was to undergo surgery on Tuesday, May 1. His mother, Mrs. Michael Powers, said he could be home as soon as Saturday. She declined to comment further on the circumstances surrounding the accident.

Sue Bennett said it was miraculous that no one was killed in the crash.

"Somebody was definitely looking out for them. ... If you saw the car you'd never believe that anybody survived it," she said.

Todd Bennett, a player on the varsity baseball team, is more worried about the condition of his friends than his return to action.

"I just want Mark and Guy to get better," Bennett said. "I want them to be able to go the prom and make their senior years complete."

School day added

June 12 is not quite the last day of school as scheduled. The school calendar for Clarkston Community Schools has been changed, adding another day for one lost due to bad weather.

The final day for students will be Wednesday, June 13. Classes will be in session all day June 12 and a half-day June 13.

Two school administrators announce resignations

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Two Clarkston school administrative positions have opened with the recent resignations of the director of business services the director of personnel.

Business Services Director Bill Jackson has accepted another job in Lake Forest, Ill. and Personnel Services Director Conrad Bruce is retiring from the school system.

The two positions have been posted, and an executive recruiting process has begun, said Superintendent Gary Haner.

In presenting Jackson's resignation to the school board, Superintendent Gary Haner stated that replacing him will be difficult.

"While we'll miss an extremely qualified member of our staff, it's also the toughest position to find qualified people to fill.

"We've posted the job and have begun a qualified search," Haner added.

The board voted unanimously to grant that approval in a special meeting April 30, but not without teasing the outgoing administrator.

After they were asked to vote on releasing Jackson from contract, Secretary Mary Jane Chaustowich joked, "So we do have a choice."

Several members added that they voted yes reluctantly.

"I'm a big fan of Bill Jackson," said Trustee John Needham. "We are exceptionally lucky to have someone of that quality."

Trustee Paul Van Klaveren questioned whether a contract signed between an administrator and the district would bind an individual to employment with the schools.

In answering, President Janet Thomas answered, "We're not excited that Bill is leaving Clarkston schools, but it's not our procedure to hold someone back if they have an opportunity to move on."

Haner added, "The contract is legally binding, but it's functionally operational with regard to both sides."

Jackson has accepted the position of business manager within the Lake Forest Community High School District #115.

In explaining his reasons for leaving, Jackson said, "For one thing it's a prestigious school system on the North Shore of Chicago."

"It's a promotion, with a salary increase," he added. "And the resources are greater there."

Conrad Bruce, who has worked as director of personnel services for 14 years and within the Clarkston school system for 26 years, is retiring to work in private business.

He plans to work with his wife, Sandy, in a new Stride-Rite shoe store that will also offer children's clothing.

"We've been working on it for awhile," Bruce said. The store will officially open July 2 in Ritter's Country Square, Dixie Highway, Independence Township, the current location of his wife's Country Cords children's clothing store.

Correction

The caption beneath a photo in last week's Clarkston News should have said that cheesecake maker Ellen DeFay resides in Springfield Township and that her items will soon be available at Clarkston Farm Market.

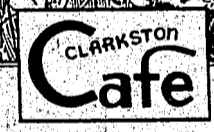

In last week's Clarkston News, a story about the Goyette Funeral Home should have said that the Goyettes requested an addition of a "funeral home" zoning category to the Village of Clarkston zoning ordinance.

If village officials had created that category, the Goyettes would have requested a rezoning on their property from residential to funeral home.

However, the village council voted 6-0 to deny rezoning from residential to commercial.

The Earth is safe in their hands

Teens find they can make a difference in battle to protect the environment

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Imagine — your 15-year-old daughter volunteers to do all the dishes in the house every day, with only one small condition: the family must stop using paper plates.

Or how about this: Your son, a high school senior, gets after his older brother to turn the lights off in his bedroom when he leaves the room and also makes sure his big brother turns off the water while brushing his teeth. Shouting matches sometimes occur, but the electric bills and water bills are lower.

Such are the actions of a few Clarkston High School students, who have shattered the stereotypes of the '80s — those images of self-centered teens typical of the "throw-away society."

These are the '90s, and a few teens have found something larger than themselves to work for and to believe in: Earth.

It all began when juniors Holly Walker and Camille D'Anna talked one day last year.

"We've been friends for a long time," says D'Anna, explaining that they talk about everything, but on that day couldn't get off the subject of the earth and pollution.

"Holly said, 'Wouldn't it be really neat if we started an environmental group at school?'" remembers D'Anna.

So they talked it over with a few teachers: Bill Genshaw, a media and history teacher, and Mary Fowler, a science teacher. And a few weeks later, the group was born — 32 students showed up for the first meeting.

Though it's not an "official" school club, a core of group members have already done a lot. They've: picked up litter from a few roads, joined a groundwater leadership team in the community (that's mostly comprised of adults), given Earth Day presentations to elementary schools in the area, and begun a recycling program for office-quality paper in nearly every classroom at Clarkston High School.

"This has come such a long way, more than I ever thought it would," says Walker, one day after school last week, when she and others agreed to meet to talk about their motivations.

Their environmental concern is not just a phase that will pass as they grow older, they say.

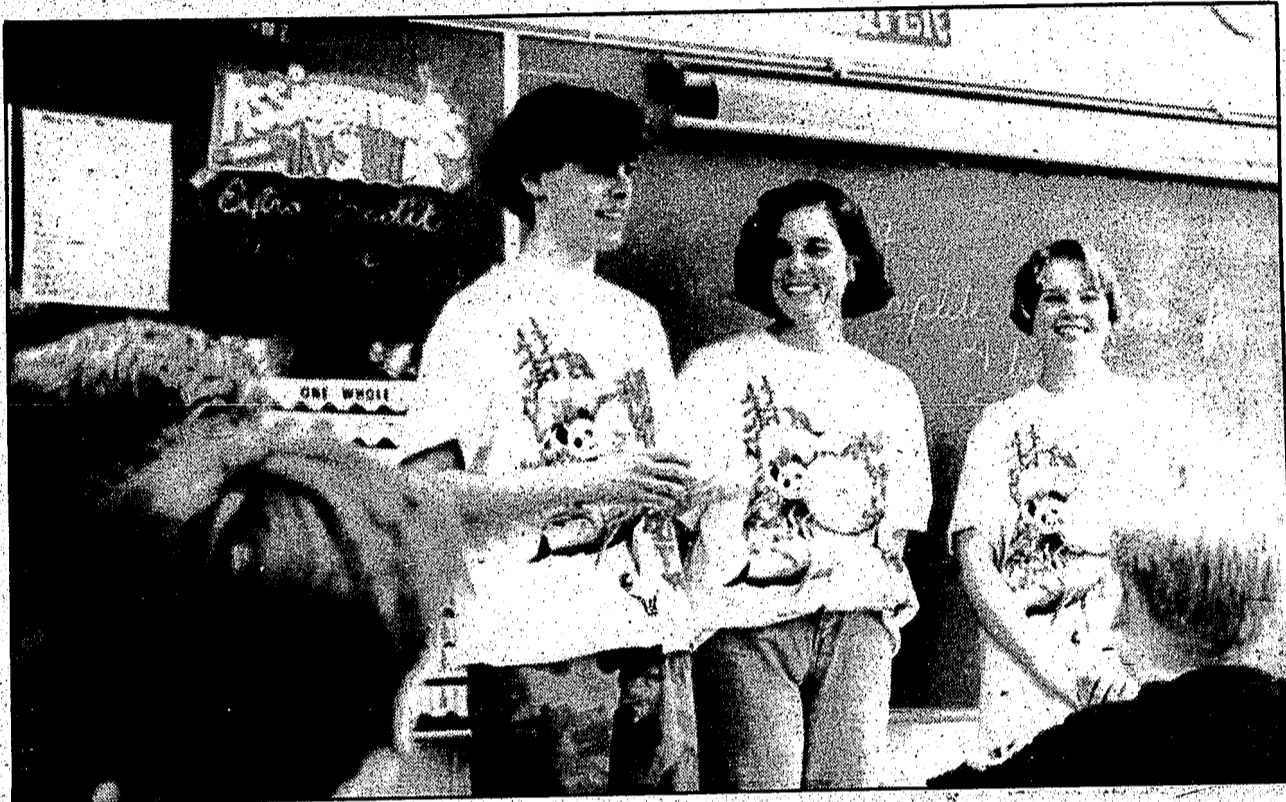

"This has had just an incredible impact on my life," says Walker, who has stopped eating fast food that comes packaged in plastic foam cartons, which won't decompose in landfills.

At college, she plans to study to become an environmentalist, so she can make money doing what she really cares about, she says.

Walker, who is sometimes called "The Paper Person" at school, has taken her concerns home with her, telling her parents they can no longer buy paper plates and paper towels.

"My mother said, 'I'm really proud of you, but why can't we use paper plates?'" says Walker, laughing.

Emily Plec, a sophomore, has done the same. As an Teacher Mary Fowler volunteered to help Clarkston High School students with a new environmental group, but even she did not expect the response.

"I have never seen such interest," said Fowler.

"I've really been pleased with the enthusiasm the students have and the responsibility they've shown," she said.

With all the trouble over sewers, landfills, acid rain and global warming, the environment is in the news a lot, she said.

"People, in general, out of necessity are becoming more aware," she said, adding that it's only natural that high school students would be exposed to the concerns.

"I'd like to give the students ... the feeling that they can actually do something locally to help instead of just talking about the problems," she said.

And so far, the students have done a lot.

With the cooperation of teachers at the high school, a recycling box was placed in nearly every classroom for "office-quality" paper — white notebook paper or typing paper.

All the students have to do is drop their paper in the box without crumpling it. The students in the environmental group collect the boxes periodically and remove the staples. An area garbage hauler picks it up when needed.

Last fall, the group waged a litter war in fields on Sashabaw Road near Food Town, where paper and fast food containers pile up quickly. They held a pickup day and filled bag after bag of trash.

A few of the members joined a groundwater leadership team in Independence Township, sponsored by East Michigan Environmental Action Council. The students are to demonstrate groundwater and soil experiments to incentive, she offered to do all the dishes if her family stopped using paper plates, a deal they quickly accepted. "They still spray the lawn, though, and that really bugs me," says Plec, a member of Greenpeace and Amnesty International.

Plec, who plans to join the Peace Corps after she earns a college degree in English, says the environmental group is perfect for students.

"The things I've been able to do — write letters — have been so distant. I wanted to do something more direct," she says.

D'Anna, who plans to become an anthropologist, archaeologist or elementary school Spanish teacher, also took her message home.

"My mom thinks it's great that we're doing this," says D'Anna. "I'm trying to persuade her to stop eating at McDonald's. She's coming along."

Senior Tom Hackbardt says the worst offender in his household is his older brother, whom Hackbardt — with pleasure — must always remind to turn off the lights and turn off the water.

"He's getting better, though," says Hackbardt, who hopes to someday play professional baseball.

"Holly can be an environmentalist if she wants, but I don't think we all have to be one," he says, explaining that people in other professions can help in other ways.

"As I get older, I'm able to do more to help," he says. At first, Hackbardt's parents weren't overly enthused about his ideas, but they did get recycling bins for the garage, he says.

In the beginning, his dad didn't say much about the household changes, but now, says Hackbardt, if paper ends up in the bin for tin cans, it's his father who points it out.

J.G. Kudla is a newcomer to the group but says better late than never. He watched television shows about Earth Day, he says.

"That really affected why I joined," says Kudla. "I wanted to get involved."

About 25 members regularly help with projects in the group, says Walker, who figures their biggest goal is simply spreading information to children, peers and adults.

"Earth Day came and went, but the problem is still there," she says.

elementary school children in the Clarkston school district.

Next, with the help of naturalists from Independence Oaks County Park, they learned all about the Earth and fanned out to elementary schools in the Clarkston school district to give Earth Day presentations, which included giving a pine seedling to each student, complete with instructions for planting.

The money for the trees — and for the T-shirts each presenter wore — came from "Bottles for Building," a recycling program in the 1970s that kept trash off the roads and raised money, which was invested. The money — with all its earnings — was recently donated to Independence Township for the development of Bay Court Park and to the students' environmental cause, said Carolyn Place, an organizer of the program.

With help from the Clarkston Farm and Garden

Club, the students spent a day over Easter break wrapping each tree in wet newspaper. The farm and garden club took 50 trees; 10 trees were donated to each school in the district; five trees went to each student volunteer, and the rest were distributed to elementary school children, said Place.

About 65 unused seedlings were planted at Bay Court Park on Andersonville Road and will be used as a nursery, said Ann Conklin, director of the township's parks and recreation department.

Whenever trees are needed at any township park, they can be transplanted from Bay Court, she said.

The Bottles for Building money also paid for an Earth Day packet for each teacher whose class the high school environmentalists visit, and it paid for a National Wildlife Federation filmstrip about the planet, which was used by the students but will remain with each school, said Place.

Since National Teachers Day is next Tuesday, I figured it's about time to tell a few of my own teachers about the impact they've had on my life.

Linda Denstaedt: She was a tough English teacher at Clarkston High School, but she made things so clear. The rules of grammar never made sense until she told us the truth about them: "The reason you need to know grammar is to punctuate correctly," she said.

Suddenly, it all made sense. If you have two independent clauses connected by a coordinating conjunction, use a comma before the conjunction. Prior to that, I had been trying to grasp the inherent value of knowing an independent clause from a dependent clause. (Geesh!)

As a volleyball coach, she was also tough, though she probably could have been tougher. However, she taught us more than just volleyball. She taught us about the importance of a tough mental attitude and about the power of the mind.

If you set your mind to do something, you really can do it, we learned, much to our surprise.

Mrs. Mack: As my fifth-grade teacher, she made learning enjoyable. But she also wasn't afraid to give constructive criticism.

One day, near the end of the year, she told me gently that, though I was a good kid, I talked too much in class and was disruptive. So I learned to look out for that — an important lesson, which saved me much trouble in later school years.

Becky Craig: Though she wasn't my teacher, she was my tennis coach, so she still counts. Through her example, my doubles partner, Alex, and I were delighted to learn that you don't have to lose your spontaneity and joy of life when you become an adult. You could have fun and still "do the right thing."

We laughed a lot on her team but were always required to be polite and act morally correct, even in the face of some rude West Bloomfield teams.

After some incident where the other team misbehaved, Becky told us, "I'd rather see you lose than act like that."

Not to worry — we lost. (But Becky was proud of our behavior.)

Gary Warner: As my high school homeroom teacher, I saw him only a few times a year. But he always helped out if he could.

Plus, he wasn't afraid to admit that he didn't know something. He treated us as if we were full-fledged humans and not as if we were the inexperienced but energetic kids we actually were.

Grayce Warren: My first experience with Grayce was in Mixed Chorus as a sophomore. It was a huge class with all ages of students and all degrees of behavior. Somehow, she managed to turn troubled and rebellious teens into sweetly singing students — at least for a portion of the class.

Later, I was part of the Madrigal Singers, which was a different experience entirely. She demanded the best from each student and bluntly told — even the "bright" students — that they weren't doing enough, that they were procrastinating or that they (gasp) didn't know their parts.

She chided and reminded and yelled and laughed — a lot. And she was effective for all types of students, finding a place for loners, jokers, smokers, brains and more in her group.

These are just a few. But I think every teacher I've come in contact with has had an impact on my life in some way.

Letters to the Editor

Editor's note: Below are a sampling of thank-you letters from third-graders at Clarkston Elementary School, following an Earth Day tree-planting ceremony. Helping the children were Mr. Theisen, Mr. Myers and Mr. Stein, area residents in the nursery business.

Good for thinking

Dear Mr. Theisen,

Thanks for the great tree. Thank you for lowering the price on the tree, too. The tree is very good for shade. It started to bloom, too. We have lots of kids and only three trees on the playground. Every day I sit under the tree and just think. Thank you for the biggest tree you had.

Colin Wethy

Shade needed

Dear Mr. Theisen,

Thank you for giving Clarkston El. a tree half off. We really needed it because out on the playground when you run around it gets hot.

And thank you for telling the men to plant the tree for us.

Scott Krull

Beautiful tree

Dear Mr. Myers,

Thank you for sending the tree. It's a beautiful tree. Thank you for helping us bury the tree. If we didn't have the tree, we would be very hot. I would do lots of things under the tree. I love the ash tree.

Laura Jenée Murphy

Absolutely great

Dear Mr. Stein,

Thank you for coming to our school to plant the tree. It is a wonderful ash. I really appreciate it.

Now that we have the ash, we will have some shade at recess. It has been very hot lately (you know that), and we'll definitely need it. It'll be absolutely great.

On real hot days, when it's too hot to play, I'll sit under the ash. I'll sit and talk. And pull grass. I'll laugh, too.

Sarah Szurpicksi

Fresh oxygen now

Dear Mr. Myers,

Thank you for helping with the wonderful trees. Without the trees, we would be very hot and sticky. Now we have shade from the trees, and we're not hot and sticky. Now we have shade from the trees, and we're not hot and sticky. We also will have fresh oxygen.

Cheryl Bartlebaugh

Green and shady

Dear Mr. Stein,

Thank you for the tree we have planted in our playground. It makes a difference there. People will be making benches for beneath the tree. We are watering it and taking good care of it.

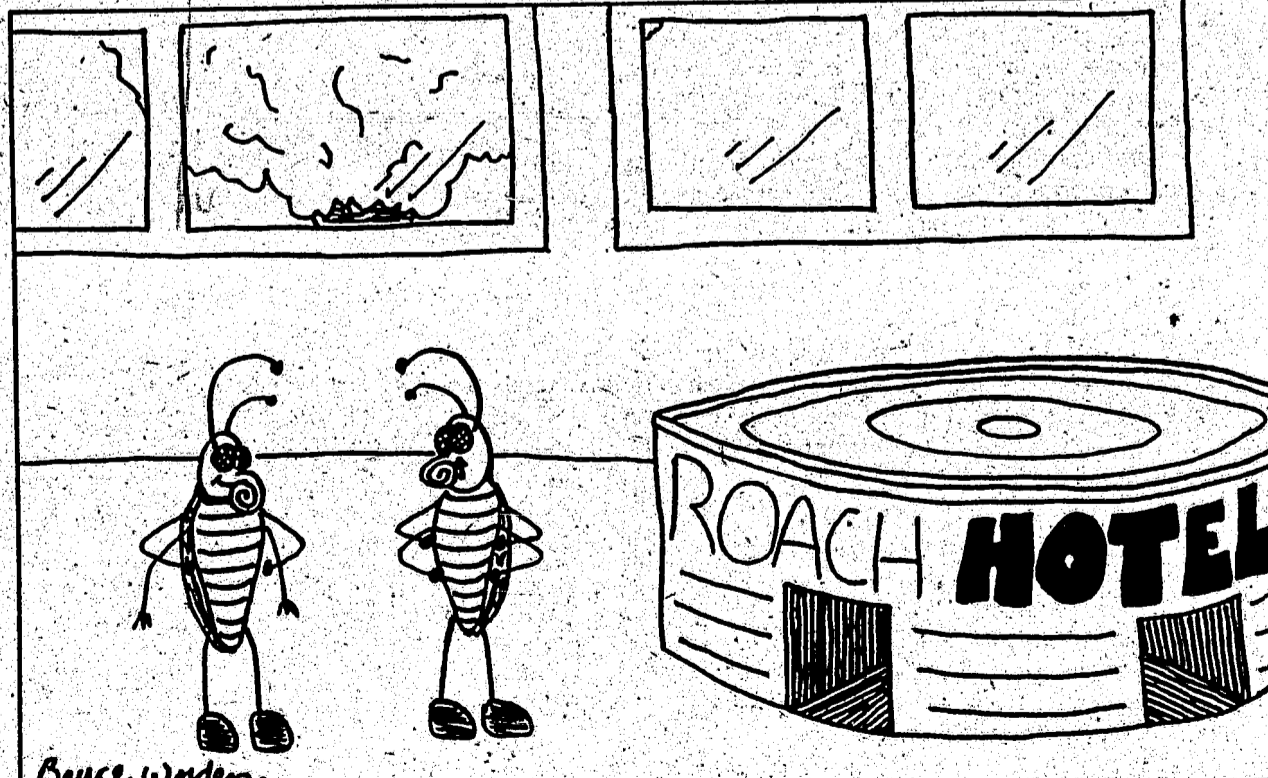

The tree has bloomed and is looking great. I can't wait until it gets bigger, and it's all green and shady. It will be a nice place to play at.

Plus, he wasn't afraid to admit that he didn't know something. He treated us as if we were full-fledged humans and not as if we were the inexperienced but energetic kids we actually were.

Grayce Warren: My first experience with Grayce was in Mixed Chorus as a sophomore. It was a huge class with all ages of students and all degrees of behavior. Somehow, she managed to turn troubled and rebellious teens into sweetly singing students — at least for a portion of the class.

Later, I was part of the Madrigal Singers, which was a different experience entirely. She demanded the best from each student and bluntly told — even the "bright" students — that they weren't doing enough, that they were procrastinating or that they (gasp) didn't know their parts.

She chided and reminded and yelled and laughed — a lot. And she was effective for all types of students, finding a place for loners, jokers, smokers, brains and more in her group.

These are just a few. But I think every teacher I've come in contact with has had an impact on my life in some way.

Letters to the Editor

Editor's note: Below are a sampling of thank-you letters from third-graders at Clarkston Elementary School, following an Earth Day tree-planting ceremony. Helping the children were Mr. Theisen, Mr. Myers and Mr. Stein, area residents in the nursery business.

Good for thinking

Dear Mr. Theisen,

Thanks for the great tree. Thank you for lowering the price on the tree, too. The tree is very good for shade. It started to bloom, too. We have lots of kids and only three trees on the playground. Every day I sit under the tree and just think. Thank you for the biggest tree you had.

Colin Wethy

Shade needed

Dear Mr. Theisen,

Thank you for giving Clarkston El. a tree half off. We really needed it because out on the playground when you run around it gets hot.

And thank you for telling the men to plant the tree for us.

Scott Krull

Beautiful tree

Dear Mr. Myers,

Thank you for sending the tree. It's a beautiful tree. Thank you for helping us bury the tree. If we didn't have the tree, we would be very hot. I would do lots of things under the tree. I love the ash tree.

Laura Jenée Murphy

Absolutely great

Dear Mr. Stein,

Thank you for coming to our school to plant the tree. It is a wonderful ash. I really appreciate it.

Now that we have the ash, we will have some shade at recess. It has been very hot lately (you know that), and we'll definitely need it. It'll be absolutely great.

On real hot days, when it's too hot to play, I'll sit under the ash. I'll sit and talk. And pull grass. I'll laugh, too.

Sarah Szurpicki

Fresh oxygen now

Dear Mr. Myers,

Thank you for helping with the wonderful trees. Without the trees, we would be very hot and sticky. Now we have shade from the trees, and we're not hot and sticky. Now we have shade from the trees, and we're not hot and sticky. We also will have fresh oxygen.

Cheryl Bartlebaugh

Green and shady

Dear Mr. Stein,

Thank you for the tree we have planted in our playground. It makes a difference there. People will be making benches for beneath the tree. We are watering it and taking good care of it.

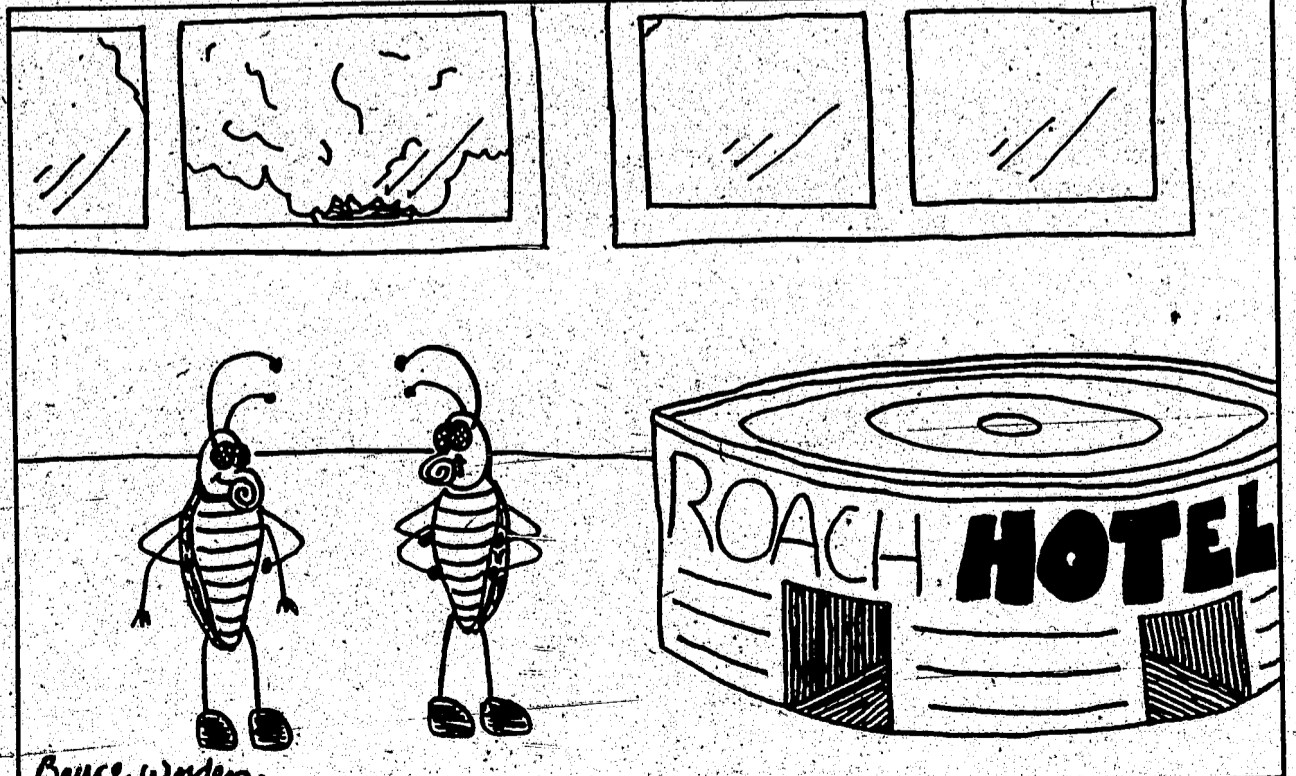

The tree has bloomed and is looking great. I can't wait until it gets bigger, and it's all green and shady. It will be a nice place to play at.

Deer Lake claim frightening

The article and letter in The Clarkston News regarding Deer Lake are very disturbing to me. I have lived on Greens Lake for 35 years, and the thought of a lawsuit involving the residents is far-reaching. Even though this claim has been dropped, it could happen again.

The article states the residents won't pay a cent — their insurance will cover it. And just who do these lawyers think pay the cost of it? The trend in our day and age is "if you feel wronged, just sue." The lawyer TV commercials tell us so. But just who was wronged in the Deer Lake situation?

The waters of our lakes are owned by the state; therefore, the ice on the lake in the winter is owned by the state.

Greens Lake is more vulnerable for the problem facing Deer Lake because we will have Bay Court township park, but we have always had our lake used by the simple access to it via a canal under Andersonville Road.

Now just follow this: Van Norman can get into Lester Lake via canal under Andersonville Road; from the public boat launch on Williams Lake Road there is Maceday Lake, which can get into Lotus Lake. With a small boat there is the tunnel and canal under the railroad tracks into Lester Lake.

Therefore, we are vulnerable to use from the public from four lakes. Then you can reverse this channel of thinking — we can also by same route get to these lakes from our lake. Hence, if the process of thinking the lawyers are using, every resident on these five lakes is responsible for everyone who ventures onto water or the ice in winter.

Or is the ice an act of God and therefore the responsibility of the residents because we do nothing to prevent the lake from freezing?

If we owned the water, why do we have to get a permit to rope off an area to protect swimmers from boats? If we owned the water then the water patrol has no right to come onto the lakes to make them safer for us. According to this Deer lake situation, the water patrol would be trespassing.

God forbid such a thing happening. We want and need the water patrol. They try to protect us from irresponsible users of the waters and from ice in the winter.

Marge Runkle

P.S. After reading the paper (I buy it faithfully on Wednesdays), I immediately called the Department of Natural Resources, and they could not believe it when I read the article to them.

They further explained property is owned to the water; the water is owned by the state, but the land under the water the width of your property extending to the center of the lake is in an imaginary pie shape is owned by property owner. This as I understood it prevents structures being built from the bottom of the lake upward.

This is frightening because if they win, some people could be ruined financially if the insurance company balks at paying — because then these fools could go after individual properties. Yes — I am a concerned senior citizen!

Letter policy

We welcome our readers' opinions. Letters to the editor must arrive at The Clarkston News office by noon Monday to be considered for publication in Wednesday's paper. We reserve the right to edit all letters for brevity and clarity and to limit the number of letters from any one individual or on any one topic. We discourage copies of letters sent elsewhere and require all letters to be signed and to include a phone number and address. We may withhold names on request, but we will not publish unsigned letters.

From This Perspective

A day in the life

Tracy King

Every now and then, students drop by The News office to complete an assignment on careers.

The student reads off a set of carefully prepared questions asking what reporters do.

Some students simply cross off the questions, log the answers and leave. Others rise to the occasion and ask spontaneous questions with real curiosity. Almost all ask how much money reporters make.

Answering these questions is a delicate undertaking because sometimes it's hard to be truthful without being discouraging.

Sure, reporting is a fascinating pastime, offering a great opportunity to learn, meet people and be active. Well, yes, the pay stinks, along with the irregular hours.

But there's more to it. (The pencil scribbles on the page. I pause, then begin.)

You will feel accomplished when a story conveys the exact mood of an event, whether it be happy, sad or controversial. You will feel satisfied when stories actually instruct, comfort or entertain.

You will also be horrified, embarrassed and remorseful.

Accidents may horrify you beyond your ability to function in your job.

Take the time I was dispatched to a serious accident that had just occurred. Instead of asking questions, I stood rooted to one spot with my hand over my mouth, trying to block the shrieks of a woman being extracted from her car.

Don't try to understand why news operations feel compelled to cover these things; remember that the general public finds them fascinating.

You'll be embarrassed when you're forced to be overly intrusive.

If you were with me when I was publicly admonished for taking photos during a spelling bee, you'd know what I mean.

You'll be embarrassed when making mistakes. Although everyone makes these, yours will glare for public consumption, especially as they occur in the corrections that we run.

Sometimes you'll be embarrassed just existing as a reporter, asking difficult questions of people in difficult positions.

That's where the remorse part comes in, too. Sometimes your job and its consequences will hurt people.

What? Why write them? Because it's news — something people have a right to know. No, that doesn't make it easier; you'll carry the weight for a long, long time.

It will be difficult to call the family of a loved one who has just died, for instance. No, there's really nothing to say except that you're sorry and that people likely knew the person and would be interested in a personal recollection.

Sometimes this is helpful because the relative has an opportunity to recount positive things about the person who died.

(I pause for a breath.)

"But, like, what classes should I take?" the student interrupts, impatiently.

Oh. (I sigh and begin again) Classes. Like, you know, journalism isn't, like, really fun all the time, you know.

'If it Fitz

Shocking no longer

Jim Fitzgerald

The radio that woke me up Thursday morning said five people had been shot dead in a house on St. Aubin Street. Through the bedroom window behind the radio, I could see St. Aubin Street.

The shooting was many blocks north, but still, its location disturbed me. I was disturbed by the realization that I wasn't frightened, horrified or even surprised by my proximity to all that bloody death. Ho hum. I live in Detroit.

I stayed in bed and thought of two other streets, Pine Grove Avenue in Port Huron, where I grew up, and Barry Drive in Lapeer, where I lived the first 20 years of my married life. What would my reaction have been if five people had been murdered one night on either of those streets?

No consolation elsewhere

I would have been shocked silly by five fistfights. It's safe to say there haven't been five shooting deaths on those two streets in their entire histories, but so what? Everyone accepts the fact that there's much more violence in big cities than in small towns.

That seemed to be the attitude of Police Chief William Hart in a TV news interview that evening. He conceded things are violent in Detroit, but pointed out that it's even worse in Los Angeles. That was a great comfort. It was the same as being told the mayor of Washington, D.C., was arrested for cocaine use, but the mayor of Detroit wasn't.

The next day, City Councilman David Eberhard accused the Free Press and Detroit News of "slanting" the news for sensation and "feeding the hysteria" that suburbanites feel about Detroit. One News headline said "Massacre On St. Aubin."

My dictionary defines a massacre as "wholesale slaughter." You get more when you buy wholesale. Maybe Eberhard thinks five murders in one gulp is retail slaughter. Perhaps the News used a quantity description that wasn't warranted, at least not until several hours after the headline was written, when a sixth victim of the St. Aubin shooting died.

The view from the suburbs

I asked a suburban friend if, in the group shooting category, his level of hysteria were higher for six murders than for five. He said the only thing that made him hysterical was the thought of having David Eberhard for a councilman.

Eberhard said representatives of the Free Press and News should appear before the council "and tell us why they're doing this to our city." I'm not sure we can do that without the permission of Mayor Coleman Young.

When I returned from vacation, a pile of newspapers was waiting to be read. One old news item said Young didn't want members of his administration to appear before council because council members would badger them. Another item said Young wants to be a Free Press columnist. If Young becomes a fellow Freepresser, he will certainly give his journalistic colleagues the same protection given his City Hall buddies — protection from revealing information concerning sensitive matters currently under city, county, state, federal and universal investigation, such as: "Did Kenneth Weiner pay your rent with cash or Krugerrands?"

No wise-guy answer to Young

The mayor's reaction to the retail slaughter on St. Aubin Street was that the ever-escalating death rate of young black males is "all of our responsibility... And it's everybody's problem, not just a police problem."

I have no wise-guy rejoinder; Young is right. In that pile of after-vacation newspapers, there were dozens of horror stories about a bleeding city. The articles that seared me most concerned a 10-year-old girl arrested for selling crack, and babies born with drug addictions.

If we allow such horrors to happen to children, is it any wonder that bullets prevent thousands of young men from becoming middle-aged?

So what is our responsibility? What are ordinary citizens supposed to do to help police solve the problem? Mayor Young didn't say, but I will: We must elect leadership that absolutely will not stand for infant drug addicts, or even below-retail slaughter on St. Aubin Street.

We sure as hell don't have it now.

M-15 service station storage tanks check out OK

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

When "closed" signs appeared at the Clarkston Shell station on M-15, Independence Township, April 26, some area residents feared the worst.

With all the talk about Earth Day, one resident thought it could mean a gas leak at the station — especially since a gas-tank-checking truck was seen on the site.

But there's a simple explanation, said Manager Marty Hicks, who fielded questions from lots of customers after the station reopened 24 hours later.

Sunoco has purchased J. Austin Oil Co. in Flint — one of many Shell companies — and offered to let independently-owned Shell stations become Sunoco stations, too, Hicks said.

As part of the J. Austin deal, Sunoco offered to pay the cost of checking underground tanks for leaks, and the deal even covered some independently-owned stations.

"Sunoco just did it to protect themselves," said Hicks. "They don't want to get stuck with leaky tanks

Federal law requires fuel tank tests

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

A federal law enacted in December 1988 affects all underground fuel storage tanks, said an official from the Michigan State Police (MSP) Department April 27.

The Environmental Protection Agency designed a national storage tank strategy, and Michigan officials helped develop the rules, said Detective Lt. David Smith, commander of the enforcement unit of the hazardous materials section of the MSP Fire Marshal Division.

Michigan was asked to help with the nationwide rules regulating storage tanks because it has had rules in place since 1942 and extensive rules since 1973, Smith said.

The federal regulations aren't much different from Michigan's regulations, he said.

"The good news was ... the federal rules mirrored ... the Michigan rules," he said.

One portion of the federal regulations required that tanks installed before 1965 or whose age is unknown be tested for leaks by Dec. 22, 1988.

Tanks installed 1965 through 1969 are required to be checked for leaks by Dec. 22, 1990. Re-checks depend on the conditions of each site, Smith said.

If there's no sign of rust, checking is required every five years. If corrosion exists, the tanks must be checked once a year, he said.

So far, no one has complained about the testing requirement, he said, explaining that the regulations are necessary because leaking storage tanks are fire hazards and adversely impact the environment.

In Michigan, the MSP Fire Marshal Division is responsible for overseeing the installation, operation, maintenance and closure of all underground tanks.

The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is responsible for the environmental impact once a release has occurred, Smith said.

"It's a problem that we all feel is easier prevented than cured," Smith said. "If we do our job, we can cut down the work for the DNR."

In addition to the federal requirements for fuel tanks, Michigan law requires the testing of all underground storage tanks.

To get a copy of the rules, call (517) 334-7079 and ask for: (1) Michigan Flammable and Combustible Liquids Rules and (2) 40 Code of Federal Regulations Parts 280 and 281.

"Everything checked out just fine. There are no leaks."

Manager Marty Hicks

CROP Walk fights hunger: here and the world

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

The annual 10-kilometer CROP Walk to fight hunger is set for Sunday, May 20 — just a day after Clarkston's annual Fun Daze.

This year, runners in Fun Daze May 19 may collect pledges for their 10-kilometer run and count it toward the CROP Walk, said the Rev. William Schram, who's in charge of publicity for the event. Pledge sheets will be available the day of the race or in advance from area churches.

"The idea behind Fun Daze is to celebrate the good life in Independence Township, and this allows them to share the good life," said Schram.

Registration for CROP Walk begins at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, and the walk begins at 2 p.m. at the Clarkston United Methodist Church, 6600 Waldon Rd., Clarkston.

The weather should be good, and the course is enjoyable, said Schram.

If residents don't plan to walk in it, they should make sure to pledge someone, he said.

The goal this year is $10,000, said Schram, adding that more than $7,000 was collected last year — down from the previous three years.

"I think $10,000 is achievable," he said.

Worldwide, the walk is sponsored by the Church World Service, the relief agency for more than 30 protestant and orthodox denominations in the United States. The organization has a good reputation, with over 80 percent of its budget going directly to people. Only 18 percent is spent on management and fund-raising and informational techniques.

Locally, the CROP Walk is sponsored by the following churches: Sashabaw Presbyterian, Clarkston United Methodist, St. Daniel Catholic, Calvary Evangelical Lutheran, North Oaks Community, Church of the Resurrection Episcopal, First Church of God, Our Lady of the Lakes Catholic, Atonement Presbyterian, and Drayton Heights Free Methodist.

From the proceeds, 25 percent fight local hunger, while 75 percent will fight world hunger, said Schram. In 1988, the last year for which figures are available, Church World Service had a $39.5 million budget worldwide.

In the Clarkston area, most of the "hungry" need only temporary help, said Schram.

"There are a few people who are just chronically low income, through no fault of their own," Schram said. "A lot of times it's just short term — illness, the loss of one job. So they have to make tough choices. Food or car payment?"

If they contact a participating church, they can get a voucher to Food Town, where they may buy food and household products such as diapers and soap. The voucher does not pay for alcohol or tobacco.

Last year, the money also paid for food baskets at Christmas and Thanksgiving.

While it's good that area residents are aware of hunger in their own community, more attention should be paid to world hunger, said Schram.

"In the township, we prevent hunger. In other parts of the world, it prevents death. So there's a big difference," he said.

Every 60 seconds, 28 people die from hunger or hunger-related disease, he said. "Picture a school bus crash every minute."

Even more alarming is the largest segment of victims.

"Children are the largest single group in poverty around the world," he said.

For more information, call CROP Walk chairpeople Steve and Kalynn Potter at 623-2673.

Helping the world

Following are some facts about the Church World Service's (CWS) CROP Walk for hunger.

In 1989, the total income for CROP in Michigan was nearly $1.7 million, with 114 community walks. With 31,791 participants, nearly $1.4 million was raised — a $47 average per walker.

In the world, CWS has sent $280,500 in disaster relief to the Caribbean in response to Hurricane Hugo; $305,000 in emergency funds to Central American partner agencies to help victims of civil strife; $35,000 to Salvadorans, who need shelter, food and medicine; $61,000 to Uganda for rehabilitation; $5,000 to the Philippines in response to killer typhoons; plus lots of grants for water resource development in Mali, Niger, Pakistan, Swaziland, Madagascar, Senegal, Peru, India, Thailand and Cambodia.

CWS also sent $1,000 to assist migrant workers in northern San Diego County who needed help after a fire that recently swept 4,000 acres. Earthquake victims have also been provided $53,000.

For CWS updates, call 1-800-456-1310.

Man arrested in animal shooting

Prosecutors are deliberating over whether to charge a Springfield Township man accused in the fatal shooting of a dog and parrot at his Tyndall Road home.

Witnesses told police the man shot the animals in a family argument April 21.

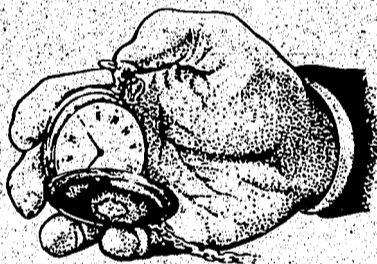

"At the time, the situation gave us reason to arrest him," said Detective Sgt. Anthony Velat of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department. "There was alcohol involved, and there were guns in the house."

"Prosecutors are looking at different things," he added. "It was sort of a family fight."

Among the potential charges are cruelty to animals, discharging a firearm while intoxicated and the reckless discharge of a firearm. All are high misdemeanors.

The man's name is being withheld pending the issuance of the warrants.

National pro-life rally draws crowd from area

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

A pro-life rally in Washington, D.C., April 28 drew hundreds of thousands of people from all over the country, and Clarkston was no exception.

About a half dozen Clarkston-area residents spent more than $60 apiece and two full nights sleeping on buses to join the throng at the Washington Monument in support of the pro-life cause.

"Something in my heart said to me that this would be good, that it would be good to be counted," explained Elaine Gebhard, who attended the rally with her husband Kurt. Kurt is pastor of the North Oaks Community Church, which currently meets in Independence Township.

According to the Gebhards and other area residents attending the rally, media estimations of the crowd were way off.

"A mass of people covered the whole lawn from the monument to the reflecting pond," recalled Kurt. "It was a sea of people."

"I've been to University of Michigan football games, and the stadium holds about 100,000," he added. "The reports were way short; there were four to five times what

"There's a real grass-roots effort supporting the life of the unborn child. We're seeing that support across the nation."

Kurt Gebhard

you'd see at a Michigan game."

Michelle Steele, a Cedar Grove, Independence Township, resident attending the rally, also objected to media accounts of the rally's purpose.

"They suggested that the only reason for doing it was to try to make a comeback politically," Michelle said. "(With those numbers) I don't think we're doing badly politically."

Three buses, coordinated by the North Oakland Right to Life organization, collected the group about 8 p.m. at the Five Points Community Church in Auburn Hills.

After a 12-hour ride, the buses arrived at the National Shrine Catholic Church in Washington, D.C., about 8 a.m.

A cafeteria-style breakfast was served to the group, and from there, the buses stopped at the Smithsonian Institute.

"We went right over to the rally," Elaine Gebhard said. "It started at 9 a.m. with entertainers and different people speaking."

By 2 p.m. the crowd was solid; huge speakers were used to broadcast the events to those gathered.

The day was filled with speeches from political leaders including Vice President Dan Quayle and words from President George Bush. A petition to Congress was unveiled, and attendees heard songs and speeches from a variety of guests.

Those attending the rally called it a huge success.

"At one point they called off the states," Michelle recalled. "Although Alaska and Hawaii weren't that well represented, there were people calling out from every single one."

"It was encouraging to all of us," Elaine added. "I think one of the main purposes was to show legislators where we stand. We wanted legislators to see that a good number of people across the nation are pro-life — that's what provoked me to go."

"There's a real grass-roots effort supporting the life of the unborn child," Kurt emphasized. "We're seeing that support across the nation."

Green Acres sewer assessment OK'd

Only three residents spoke in an April 17 public hearing, after which the Independence Township Board unanimously approved a resolution confirming an assessment roll for sewer installation in the Green Acres subdivision.

At a cost of $166,915, the 15-year project calls for sanitary sewers to be installed at Langle Drive, Church Street and Townview Street.

The Pontiac-based AVS Construction Specialists have been contracted by the township to lay the sewer lines.

The residents of the subdivision will pay for the work, with an average cost of $5,961.25 each. The owners of the 28 parcels have an option to spread the cost over 15 years.

If a resident decides to forsake its septic tank for the sewer system, there will be an additional fee of $960 for hookup privileges.

Hearing on two bridges

Two bridges on Andersonville Road are slated for replacement, but officials want to hear from local residents first.

A public hearing is set for 3:30-6:30 p.m. Thursday, May 10, at the Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main St., Clarkston.

A staff member of the Road Commission for Oakland County will be on hand to discuss the project and to answer questions.

The proposal calls for bridges at Greens Lake and at Van Norman Lake between Clement and Airport roads to be replaced.

The meeting is informal, and residents may stop by any time during the scheduled time.

Federal bottle bill could let states bar garbage

Michigan would be able to bar garbage from states that don't have beverage container deposit laws under legislation introduced recently by U.S. Rep. Bob Carr.

More than 10 million tons of solid waste is exported by six states and the District of Columbia, often due to a lack of proper disposal sites within their own borders.

"Before states can send their trash somewhere else, they should make a commitment to reducing their trash problem by recycling," Carr said.

"This bill would enable Michigan to block trash imports from neighboring states which have not made an equal commitment to recycling."

Carr said he was concerned that urbanized areas of other states — that haven't committed to recycling and that have access to economical transportation along the Great Lakes — might try to export their garbage problems to states like Michigan.

Currently, all states that export solid waste have container recycling laws in place.

"My concern is the potential for explosive growth in shipment of garbage from one state to another," Carr explained.

"As landfills fill up or are closed to meet federal regulations, cities and states will be scrambling to find a place to put their trash.

"My intent is to see that proper recycling programs are a part of any local government's plan to deal with trash they cannot dispose of themselves."

Safety paths to the village

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Preliminary plans for two new sections of safety paths were approved April 23 by the Clarkston Village Council.

The council voted 4-0 to approve the preliminary plans, after receiving a request from Independence Township officials to extend safety paths on Holcomb Road and Main Street.

Voting yes were trustees Eric Haven, Dom Mauti, Douglas Roeser and James Schultz. President Sharron Catalo and Trustee William Basinger were absent.

If final plans are approved, the paths will be built along the east side of Holcomb Road from Miller Road north to Buttercup, and on the east side of Main Street from Clarkston Road north to Northview Drive.

Estimated cost for the two paths are $20,000.

"It could be less if we get good prices," said Dave Lakin, the village's engineering consultant of Hubble, Roth and Clark.

Schultz said the budget has not been finalized yet, and making a decision to spend the money would not be appropriate.

Independence Township is also building, but its safety paths will be eight feet wide. The village is to build a path four feet wide.

Lakin said some ramps for handicapped people may also be needed.

"Some landscaping will need to be reworked," Lakin said.

Mauti voiced approval of the project.

"This is right downtown, and it should be done right away," Mauti said, referring to the stretch along Main Street. "I walked along there with my grandchildren, and it's dangerous."

Earth tip

Americans use about a billion gallons of motor oil every year, and 350 million gallons of it end up in the environment. It is estimated that 40 percent of the pollution in American waterways is from used crankcase oil—about 2.1 million tons of it finds its way into our rivers and streams every year.

$22 million school budget OK'd

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

An amended budget for the current 1989-90 school year was approved with little discussion by school board members in a special meeting April 30.

By law, the board was required to appropriate money in a tentative budget last June; the amended budget better reflects actual figures, according to school officials.

In presenting the amended budget, Director of Business Services Bill Jackson showed that revenues had increased 2.84 percent over the previous year, while expenditures had increased 3.6 percent.

The increased expenditures were attributed to the expansion of federal programs and the community education program. The higher revenues were attributed to an increase in federal funding to pay for those programs.

In total, revenues for the 1989-90 school year, which include property taxes, state and federal funding and other transactions, were set at $22,037,440.

Expenditures for the 1989-90 school year, including instruction costs, support services, community services, capital outlay and other transactions were set at $22,131,716.

The difference between revenues and expenditures — a deficit of about $84,000 — is the result of unforeseen costs of installing the district's computer system and employee overtime costs, according to Jackson.

When the fiscal year for 1990-91 ends on June 30, the balance in the general fund is projected to be about $871,000. The fund balance incorporates resources carried over from one year to the next, which enables the district to meet future education expenditures.

The amended budget was further broken down into the following categories:

- Vocational fund: total revenues are set at $2.63 million; expenditures are set at $2.63 million.

- Debt retirement fund: total revenues are set at $1.33 million; expenditures are set at $1.32 million.

- Building and site fund: total revenues are set at $332,000; expenditures are set at $3.03 million. (Proceeds from the $5.2 million bond issue of 1988 went into this fund, so when the fiscal year ends, the fund balance is projected at $1.93 for this budget.)

- Schools food service fund: total revenues are set at $1.30 million; expenditures are set at $1.34 million.

- Schools athletic fund: total revenues are set at $382,000; total expenditures are set at $382,000.

The 1989-90 amended detailed budget is available to the public. For more information, call the business office at 625-4402.

Meeting day changed

The May Springfield Township Board meeting has been changed to 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, May 9. Supervisor Collin Walls requested the change because he is unable to attend.

Board meetings for Springfield are normally held the second Thursday of each month at the township hall, 650 Broadway, Springfield Township.

Bye, bye, stumps

Stumps left behind when trees were removed in the Village of Clarkston will be removed by B & T Tree Care, Inc., of Waterford.

The Clarkston Village Council voted 4-0 April 23 to pay $625 for the removal of 13 stumps in the village.

Voting yes were trustees Eric Haven, Dom Mauti, Douglas Roeser and James Schultz. President Sharron Catalo and Trustee William Basinger were absent.

The council also received an estimate for the removal of seven stumps in Depot Park, but the members decided to act only on the stumps in the remainder of the village.

Roeser said the stumps will be ground to about four to six inches below ground level.

Rezoning fails

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A request to rezone 11 acres near the intersection of Clarkston and Sashabaw roads was recommended for denial by the Independence Township Planning Commission April 26.

During a public hearing, Timothy Warner asked the commission to recommend rezoning his property from rural residential (R1R) to suburban farm residential.

The commission voted 6-0 to recommend denial to the township board, which has the final say in rezoning requests. Joseph Fica abstained from voting.

Warner said he planned to build a site condominium development on five or six lots.

About 10 residents expressed disapproval of the proposal.

Mason Ashby, whose property would abut a 100-foot easement proposed for the land, was troubled that he found out about the public hearing through a third source. He also voiced concern for the 100-foot "right of way" of

"I oppose this plan because we have many areas like this that could be split up for site condominiums."

Richard Oppmann

the road, which would be required if the condo project became a reality. The road would run alongside Ashby's property.

Ron Reamon of Clarkston Road was angry that the township even considered rezoning the area after he'd been told that it would never happen.

"I did everything I had to a few years ago to build a house in R1R," Reamon said. "The township had told me that this type of rezoning would never occur, and now that I'm settled the rules might change. ... That's not fair."

Planning Chairman Brent Bair told Reamon that the proposal at hand would break small lots into smaller lots and that more intense development could occur around his area if converted to suburban farm residential. Bair also stated that site condominiums don't have the "high rise" look that some people envision of most condos.

Several commission members also voiced concern about the request.

"My concern is that this would set a precedent on hastily sandwiching circular shaped properties," said Richard Oppmann. "I oppose this plan because we have many areas like this that could be split up for site condominiums."

Daniel Travis concurred with Oppmann.

"This is a 'key holding' of land, and it doesn't compel me to support this type of endeavor," Travis said.

Wolves hope to net more GOAL wins

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

For the first time in several years, the Clarkston boys' tennis team will have an uphill battle for the Greater Oakland Activities League title.

Even if the Wolves do not win the regular season championship, they could later get a share of the overall title by winning the post-season league tournament.

After Monday's league victory over Pontiac Northern, the Wolves find themselves 2-2 in the GOAL and 3-4 overall.

Clarkston 5, Pontiac Northern 2 (April 30 at Clarkston)

Clarkston's Ian Halleran, playing in the No. 1 spot, upended Xang Xiong, 6-0, 6-4. No. 2 Wolf Jason Gross easily got past Joel Ewald, 6-0, 6-2 and No. 3 Marc Swartout defeated Thurman Bolden, 6-3, 6-1. No. 4 Charles Green earned a singles victory for Pontiac by edging Chris Harkins, 7-5, 6-3.

In doubles action, No. 1 Wolves Grant Manley-Craig Coxen slammed Roy Harris-Owame Thomas, 6-2, 6-2, and No. 2 Renny Abraham-Kevin Brown needed three sets to handle Pontiac's Joe Ware-Kou Yang, 6-2, 4-6, 6-4. Pontiac's James Bray-Bouvanh Lee salvaged a doubles win over Matt Babcock-Josh Surre, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3.

West Bloomfield 7, Clarkston 0 (April 27 at Clarkston)

West Bloomfield showed why it is one of the state's top-rated teams as it blanked the Wolves, 7-0.

West Bloomfield's No. 1 seed Seth Donawetz handed Clarkston's Keith Turner his first loss of the season, 7-5, 6-2.

West Bloomfield's No. 2 Chuck Selinger had a double bagel against Halleran, 6-0, 6-0, and teammate Andrew Horowitz did the same against Gross in No. 3 action. No. 4 Dan Johnson topped Swartout, 6-0, 6-1.

All three West Bloomfield doubles teams won 6-1, 6-1. No. 1 Ty Healy-Mike Lefebure defeated Manley-Coxen, No. 2 Steve Lebowitz-Tim Sintery had no problem with Abraham-Brown and No. 3 Bryce Facktor-Brian Young toppled Scott Kane-Harkins.

Clarkston 5, Lakeland 2 (April 26 at Clarkston)

The Wolves swept all three doubles matches to help defeat Lakeland, 5-2.

"Our doubles played better," said

IAN Halleran gets ready to return a shot against a Mott opponent.

Clarkston coach Dick Swartout.

No. 1 Manley-Coxen stopped Joe Antonishek-Brooks Boughton, 3-6, 6-1, 6-2, No. 2 Abraham-Brown topped Rob Hoffman-Steve Hein, 6-3, 6-3, and No. 3 Matt Babcock-Chris Harkins toppled Jordan Case-Chris Baker, 6-3, 6-2.

No. 1 singles seed Turner continued to play strong tennis in a 6-1, 6-2 win over Andrew Poxen. Lakeland's No. 2 seed, Jake Fritz, defeated Wolf Nowak, 6-0, 6-2.

Clarkston No. 3 seed Gross took three sets in defeating Mike Kaplan, 6-4, 3-6, 6-2. Duke Carlson, Lakeland's No. 4 seed, edged Swartout, 6-3, 6-7 (7-4), 6-3.

Mott 6, Clarkston 1 (April 25 at Clarkston)

Clarkston lost four 3-set matches in Mott's 6-1 victory.

No. 1 seed Turner won the lone match for Clarkston, 6-2, 6-2, against Bob Dorr.

Mott's No. 2 seed, Jeremy Lange, topped Halleran, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1. No. 3 seed John Alt got past Clarkston's Gross, 6-0, 7-6 (7-2) and teammate Joel Smith came back to upend Swartout, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4.

In doubles, No. 1 Greg Sharp-Todd Fvekeson outlasted Manley-Nowak, 6-2, 4-6, 6-1; No. 2 Marcus Hepler-Bill Wyman came back to edge Abraham-Coxen, 5-7, 6-3, 7-5, and No. 3 Kevin Glass-Trent McCarty dropped Kane-Brown, 6-4, 6-1.

Lake Orion 5, Clarkston 2 (April 23 at Lake Orion)

Lake Orion took advantage of injured and missing Clarkston players en route to a 5-2 victory over the Wolves.

Turner, the Wolves No. 1 seed, missed the match because he didn't get back in time after spring break.

Clarkston's usual No. 2 seed, Halleran, played in the No. 1 spot but defaulted (0-6, 0-6) because of an injury.

The day's only victories for the Wolves occurred in the No. 1 and No. 3 doubles. No. 1 Nowak-Manley stopped Dragons Matt Davis-Bob Erickson, 6-2, 6-0, and No. 3 Abraham-Babcock edged Greg Servens-Ryan Harrelson, 7-5, 6-4.

Lake Orion's No. 2 seed Eric Wertheimer defeated Clarkston's Gross, 6-3, 7-6 (7-2). Dragon Kirk Swenson also won one set with a tiebreaker when he stopped Swartout, 7-6 (7-2), 6-1, in No. 3 seeded action. Lake Orion's No. 4 seed Chris Nutt dropped Harkins, 6-1, 6-2.

In No. 2 doubles, Dragons Keith Hatton-Eric Hernandez won the only three-set match of the day in a comeback against Brown-Coxen, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Except for Halleran, all of the Wolves in the match were underclassmen, including three freshmen and two sophomores.

Bleachers, B.J., Ballpark franks

Some people like the boxes, some like (and maybe only can afford) the bleachers.

Unlike any other pro sport, unlike most baseball stadiums (most modern parks do not have bleachers), a fan has to spend only $4 to sit in the bleachers at Tiger Stadium.

Movies cost $5, most sports events are in the double figures, a rock concert costs $20 and up, but you can see Alan Trammell, Wade Boggs, Ken Griffey, Jr. or Don Mattingly for only $4.

And for $4, the bleachers are one of the best ways to listen to a game. I don't mean "listen" as listening to Ernie Harwell and Paul Carey on the radio (even though some people understandably can't bear to be without those two great voices even while attending a game).

If you sit in the bleachers you might hear a few things you might not want to hear, but most of the language could pass for PG-13.

And what you mostly hear, if you listen closely, is the sound of baseball.

Not only can you hear the crack of the bat in dead center, high above the longest centerfield in baseball (440 feet), you can hear the catcher's mitt after a Jack Morris fastball.

The sound of baseball isn't just on the field, it's in the row in front of you, or two rows up. Or it might even be your own voice.

I sat in the centerfield bleachers April 27 when the Tigers blew a 5-2 lead and fell to the Milwaukee Brewers, 9-6.

It was a roller coaster-type game which meant roller coaster-type reactions from those in the bleachers.

I sat in dead center of the upper deck bleachers, about 15 rows from the front, and listened, listened to baseball.

The crowd was mostly young people in their 20s, a way of dating that has been going on for several generations in the historic ballpark. I listened to them.

There also were some families, like the father and son who sat behind me. I listened to them.

I saw the Tigers lose, 9-6, but this is what I heard:

"Ice cream, malt cups."

"C'mon Morris, get it over."

"It'll be nice when the sun goes down and they turn on the lights."

"C'mon Matt, you can do it, buddy."

"Larry, Larry."

"Hey, ice cold Cokes."

"That's a line shot, it's o'tta here."

Good night, Irene. Ya' gotta believe."

"Hey, dad, you missed Trammell's home run."

"I got in the wrong line."

"Look at Fielder run."

"Even when Lemon does something right, he does something wrong."

"Lloyd, Lloyd, Lloyd."

"Strrrrike one."

"Tracy Jones. Is that K.C. Jones' brother?"

"Hey Porter, remember when Captain Boblo used to come to the bleachers?"

"I don't know what Yount does against the rest of the league, but he must hit .400 against the Tigers. He murders them."

"A double. We're going to have a tie ballgame in a minute."

"Now we're losing."

"Take me out to the ballgame, take me out ..."

"Dad, where does the commissioner of baseball live?"

"I think New York. How am I supposed to know where?"

"Dad, what does B.J. stand for?"

"Bernie, Bennie, Bertram? I don't know?"

"How about a Ballpark frank. They plump when you cook 'em."

"I just know they're going to win it in the ninth."

"C'mon Mike, start it off."

"Cecil, Cecil, Cecil."

Where else for only $4 can you get three hours of sun, 400-foot homers and three possibilities of what B.J. (Surhoff) stands for?

DAVE SMITH is a cloud of dust as he slides in safely before the Lake Orion catcher can make the tag in the second game of a doubleheader.

JV Wolves twice douse Dragon fire

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A doubleheader sweep of Lake Orion April 26 upped the Clarkston JV baseball team's record to 5-0.

The Wolves came back from a 5-0 deficit in the opener to edge the Dragons, 6-5, and then jumped out in front 8-0 in the second game, eventually winning, 9-5.

Matt Seitz's suicide squeeze in the bottom of the seventh scored Eric Ryan for the winning run in the opener.

The Dragons scored three runs in the first inning and two more in the second for the early lead. Three walks and two Clarkston errors contributed to the five runs.

The host Wolves made it 5-1 in the third when Sean Halleran reached base on an error and then made it home on a single by Seitz.

Clarkston tied the game in the fifth with four runs. Jeremy Burke, Kevin Mull and Matt Underwood all walked. Eric Ryan's single, Mark White's sacrifice and Dave Smith's single helped bring in the runs.

Burke picked up the win by pitching two scoreless and hitless innings in relief. Ryan started and pitched the first five innings, allowing three hits and five runs, while striking out two and walking four.

Brad Barnowski suffered the loss for the Dragons.

Ryan led the Wolves' hitting attack by going 3-for-3, all singles. Seitz, Jon Wyniemko and Smith each singled, with Seitz driving in two runs.

In the second game, the Dragons outhit the Wolves, 7-4, but Clarkston quickly took advantage of some walks and errors for the 9-5 win.

Six Wolves crossed home plate in the first inning. Seitz singled, Smith walked and then Mull was safe on an error. The first run then came in when Ryan made it to first because of catcher interference (the mitt of the Dragon catcher touched Ryan's bat). Craig Garnett singled in Smith and then a walk to Wyniemko and two Dragon errors brought in more runs.

In Clarkston's second inning, Burke and Ryan walked and were driven in by a Garnett single.

Lake Orion closed the gap by scoring three in its third on a double and two Wolf errors.

The Wolves countered in their third with a run when Dave Hernandez walked and scored when Smith singled.

Lake Orion scored one run in the fourth on two singles and then closed out the scoring in the fifth with one more on a walk, a Wolf error and a single.

Seitz, 2-0, pitched all seven innings in the win, giving up seven hits, five runs, walking one and striking out four.

Ryan Bissell was the losing pitcher. Seitz helped his own cause by going 2-for-4. Garnett and Hernandez each singled.

Clarkston coach Kurt Richardson praised his team's early-season success but still sees room for improvement.

"We're off to a great start at 5-0, but we must work hard to get better," said Richardson.

Wolf defense stingy against Kettering

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A 1-0 shutout over Kettering April 30 raised the Clarkston girls' soccer team record to 3-3-1.

Clarkston 1, Kettering 0 (April 30 at Clarkston)

Clarkston scored the match's only goal with about seven minutes remaining for the GOAL victory.

The goal was set up when Karen Lowe guided a corner kick which found its way off Nancy Caracella's foot and then Jennifer Vasold nailed in the goal from close range.

Freshman goalkeeper Tonya Dylag earned the shutout, stopping 22 Kettering shots. The Wolves had 10 shots on goal.

Coach Kelly Gabriele had praises for her team, especially goalie Dylag and full-back Sabre Lachman.

Brandon 5, Clarkston 0 (April 26 at Clarkston)

Brandon took advantage of 21 shots on goal for a 5-0 victory over the host Wolves.

Clarkston only managed nine shots on goal against a stingy Blackhawk defense.

Brandon led 2-0 at the half.

"Brandon is an excellent team," said Wolf coach Gabriele. "They had the ball where it should be at the right time."

Despite the loss, Gabriele liked what she saw in her freshman goalkeeper.

"She's (Dylag) doing an excellent job in goal," said Gabriele. "She's a fighter."

CLARKSTON goalkeeper Tonya Dylag boots the ball in action against Brandon.

Clarkston 2, Oxford 2 (April 24 at Clarkston)

Clarkston and Oxford took turns scoring goals, ending up with a 2-2 tie.

Freshman Sadie Caruso scored both of Clarkston's goals. She opened the scoring when she knocked in a goal after getting an assist by Lowe. The Wildcats then scored before halftime for a 1-1 tie.

Caruso scored again in the second half for a 2-1 Clarkston advantage. Erin McAuliffe assisted on the goal.

But Oxford was equal to the task, tying the game with about 14 minutes remaining.

"It was a tough match, very closely matched," said coach Gabriele.

Clarkston had 18 shots on goal for the night and the Wildcats had 10.

Team depth lifts boys' track team

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The depth of the Clarkston boys' track team doused the Dragons April 24 as the Wolves edged Lake Orion, 77-2/3 to 64 1/3.

Lake Orion won 10 events while Clarkston only took seven. But the Wolves dominated the second and third place finishes for the victory.

Four different Wolves placed in one event, which is unique in a dual meet. Clarkston took first and second in the pole vault and two other Wolves tied with a Dragon for third.

Wolves who placed in the meet and their event and times were:

Shot put: 2. Paul Krause (42-10 1/2), 3. John King (41-0)

Discus: 1. Wally Wynnemko (117-1), 2. Gordon Garwood (110-1)

Liford's round-tripper sparks win

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Larry Liford's 2-run homer and some strong pitching by Chris Wasilk paced Clarkston to a 6-3 win over GOAL foe Mott.

The win gave the Wolves a 2-3 league record and 2-4 overall mark.

The victory over the Corsairs came after the Wolves lost a doubleheader to Lake Orion and fell to Detroit Country Day in extra innings.

Clarkston 6, Mott 3 (April 30 at Mott)

The Wolves scored early and then held on for a victory over Mott.

In the top of the first, Jim Jenkinson made it safely to first on an error and then Liford cracked his 2-run round-tripper for a 2-0 lead. Liford is batting a hefty .375 and Jenkinson is hitting at a .333 clip.

The Wolves lit up for three more in the third. Todd McLauchlin got things started when he walked. After two outs, Liford singled, Chad Hetherington walked and Wasilk's single even caused more damage when a Corsair fielder tacked on an error.

Mott finally scored in the sixth when Al Hano smacked a solo home run.

The Wolves came back to score one more in the seventh when Kevin Juzysta walked and eventually scored on a wild pitch.

Mott closed out the scoring with two in the seventh on three walks and a single.

Wasilk, 1-1, pitched a strong game for the win. He allowed one run in six innings, giving up four hits, walking one and whiffing six Corsairs.

Darren Master and Keyin Keilitz both relieved in the last inning.

"It was a good pitching performance by Chris (Wasilk), said Wolf coach Roy Warner. "And this time we didn't get behind in the game."

Lake Orion 7, Clarkston 3 (Game 1 April 26 at Lake Orion)

Lake Orion's Ron Cxyz might not have any vowels in his name but he sure has power in his bat. The Dragon sizzled two 3-run homers to help his team to a 7-3 victory over Clarkston.

Lake Orion first broke a Clarkston lead and later snapped a tie.

The Wolves scored twice in the first inning on a Jenkinson single and four walks to Liford, Corey Olsen, Dugan Fife and McLauchlin.

The Dragons answered with a walk, a single and the first of two Cxyz dingers.

The Wolves tied the game in the fifth when Jack Garnett walked, Jenkinson hit into a fielder's choice and Liford tripled.

But the Dragons struck for three in their fifth on another clout by Cxyz and then finished the scoring in the sixth on a triple and a wild pitch.

Liford's triple and singles by Jenkinson and McLauchlin were the only three hits for the Wolves!

Keilitz started and took the loss. He pitched five innings, giving up five hits and six runs (three earned), walking two and striking out six. Master mopped up in the sixth, allowing two hits and one run while striking out and walking one.

Lake Orion 10, Clarkston 7 (Game 2 April 26 at Lake Orion)

The Dragons jumped out to a 7-1 bulge and then held on for a 10-7 win, which was called after five innings because of darkness.

Clarkston grabbed a 1-0 lead in the first when Garnett came home on a wild pitch.

Lake Orion replied with four in the bottom of the first on a walk, two hit batsmen, and a 3-run homer by Mike Lamb.

The Dragons scored two more in the second on four walks and a hit batsman and one more in the third on a wild pitch for the 7-1 lead.

Clarkston did its own damage with five runs in the fourth to cut the lead to 7-6. Jenkinson, Hetherington and Mike Brueck walked and a wild pitch brought in Jenkinson. Juzysta knocked in two runs with a single and Liford also singled in two more.

But the Dragons scored twice in the fourth on a pair of singles and a double.

Clarkston made scored one more in the fifth when Hetherington was safe on an error, Brueck singled, Master sacrificed, and Juzysta and Garnett both walked.

The Dragons scored the game's last run on a single, balk and single.

Starting pitcher Fife went three innings and suffered the loss. He gave up seven runs, one hit, walked eight and struck out two. Master relieved for one inning, giving up two runs and three hits. Todd Bennett, coming back from an injury, pitched the last inning, allowing one run and three hits with one strikeout.

Jenkinson and McLauchlin both doubled and Liford, Hetherington and Brueck singled.

Detroit Country Day 3, Clarkston 0 (April 24 at Clarkston)

Country Day and Clarkston battled for seven scoreless innings until the Detroiters scored three times in the eighth for the win.

The visitors scored on a single, double, walk and two more singles.

Clarkston had some opportunities to score, leaving base runners in scoring position stranded in the second, third, fifth, sixth and eighth innings.

"We just came up short," said Wolf coach Warner. "We played well defensively."

Clarkston only had two hits, singles by Liford and Hetherington.

Wasilk suffered the loss despite pitching a strong game for the Wolves. In seven innings, he gave up three runs, six hits, four walks and struck out one. Master relieved Wasilk in the eighth inning.

Tracksters crush Dragons

Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston girls dominated the host Dragons, winning 13 of 16 events to post an 86-42 track victory April 24.

In addition, of the three events won by Lake Orion, a Wolf was close behind, taking second place.

Individually, senior Michelle Folwell won three events (100, 200 and 400 meter dashes) and junior Carrie Roeser took two (1600 and 800 runs).

Wolves who placed and their events and times were:

Shot put: 1. Rachel Seifferlein (31-1), 3. Stacey Secatch (28-2)

Discus: 2. Secatch (86-7)

Long jump: 2. Tracy Chamberlain (13-1 1/4), 3. Cara Rayner (13-1/2)

3200 meter relay: 1. Clarkston (11:13.63)

110 high hurdles: 2. Michelle Darby (17.53), 3. Sarah Kortge (17.73)

100 dash: 1. Michelle Folwell (12.15), 3. Jody Lopucki (12.87)

800 relay: 1. Clarkston (1:56.66)

1600 run: 1. Carrie Roeser (5:56.59), 3. Lisa Palazzola (6:23.91)

400 relay: 1. Clarkston (54.95)

400 dash: 1. Folwell (1:03.12), 2. Celeste Steinhelper (1:05.35)

800 run: 1. Roeser (2:39.79)

330 low hurdles: 1. Chamberlain (52.65), 2. Darby (52.92)

200 dash: 1. Folwell (27.92), 3. Lopucki (29.36)

3200 run: 1. Palazzola (13:44.37)

Mott gets hot to edge diamond Wolves

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A Clarkston comeback fell a little short against Mott and the Wolves split a doubleheader at Lake Orion, in recent Clarkston varsity softball action.

Mott 7, Clarkston 5 (April 30 at Mott)

Mott went into the fifth inning with a 3-0 lead, but the Wolves' softball team scored three in the top of the fifth to tie.

Jennifer Bruce walked, Jamie Law singled and Allyson McChesney was hit by a pitch. Pam Scroby was safe on an error, which brought in Clarkston's first run. Kim Choops singled in the second run and another run scored when Beth Walker was safe on an error.

But the Corsairs again took the lead with two runs in the bottom of the fifth.

The Wolves narrowed the gap to 5-4 in the sixth when Jennifer McChesney singled and eventually scored when Law made it safely to first on an error.

Mott scored two more times in the bottom of the sixth and then the Wolves closed out the scoring with one in the seventh when Heather Austin doubled, Heide Parrott grounded out, and Jennifer McChesney was safe on another Corsair error.

Jennifer McChesney, 1-4, took the loss, pitching all six innings. She gave up seven hits, walked four and struck out two.

The Clarkston pitcher also had two singles, teammate Austin had a double and Law and Choops each singled.

Clarkston 3, Lake Orion 1 (Game 1 April 26 at Lake Orion)

Law's 2-run triple in the top of the ninth broke a 1-1 tie to earn Clarkston a win in the opener.

Becky Kosek opened the ninth with a single, Scroby was safe on a fielder's choice and then Law smashed her winning triple.

The Wolves took a quick lead in the first with one run. Walker walked and stole second, Parrott sacrificed Walker to third and then Bruce's sacrifice fly brought in Walker.

The game remained 1-0 in favor of Clarkston until the Dragons scored once in the bottom of the seventh, to send the game in extra innings.

Jennifer McChesney pitched strong to pick up the victory, giving up five hits, walking only two batters and striking out seven.

Law had a single in addition to her triple, Kosek smacked two singles and Walker added a single.

Lake Orion 11, Clarkston 1 (Game 2 April 26 at Lake Orion)

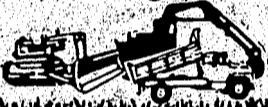

The Dragons avenged the loss in the opener by "mercying" the Wolves in five innings, 11-1.

Clarkston only managed three hits off Dragon pitching. Walker, Jennifer McChesney and Kosek all singled.

Jennifer McChesney started and took the loss, pitching three and one-third innings. She was relieved by Law and Colleen Cruz.

He cares about trees, earth

I would like to take this opportunity to talk to you about one of the hottest issues of the week. "Earth Day" is being taken very seriously, as well it should.

Some people just don't realize or plain don't care about the condition of our planet. We need to do our part, hold our own weight so to speak, and I believe there are more of us that don't than those of us that do.

The doers should get recognized, and I feel I should point out one person I personally know that helps the environment. His name is Donald Erkfritz, and every year for the past seven years, he's bought at least 100 trees to plant on his four acres of land.

Every year or so many trees are taken down, and so few are put back up. What if every year every family would put up at least one tree? That doesn't seem like such an effort, but most think it is. This man obviously doesn't think 500 trees is so much of an effort, not if he's done it for so long.

Tammy Erkfritz-Sansom

Help the planet

'Tis spring! A joyous time of year, when we celebrate new life or born-again life. With the leaves sprouting from the trees and the blossoms blooming, we are reminded of the wonderful tapestry God has created for our own benefit.

I wonder how long we'll be able to enjoy the beauty of spring? The condition our world is presently in; the time (I'm certain) is shorter than we realize. We should all do our part (no matter how small) to try and save the earth and our own dwellings.

Let's make Earth Day last for the duration of life itself. We were given this planet as a gift from God. Why should we destroy it?

Village buys $8,665 tractor

The Village of Clarkston is to gain a new tractor for heavy-duty maintenance around town.

The village council voted 5-0 April 9 to accept the $8,665 bid from Quality Lawn Equipment, Waterford Township.

The price for the John Deere tractor includes attachments such as a mower deck, front blade, wheel weights and tire chains.

The attachments on the previous tractor weren't heavy enough to perform such jobs as snow plowing correctly, said village Manager Artemus Pappas.

Independence Valley II gets another approval

A 70-acre, 31-lot subdivision proposed for the intersection of Sashabaw and Pine Knob roads received tentative preliminary plat approval April 17.

The Independence Township Board voted unanimously to approve phase two of the Independence Valley II project proposed by developer John Ylvisaker.

The tentative preliminary plat, which calls for detailed lot layout, requires township board approvals for the final preliminary plat approval and final plat before construction can begin.

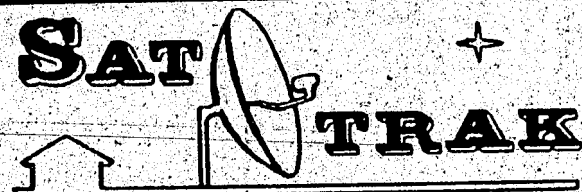

The township board was assured by Ylvisaker that the wetlands in the rear of the site would remain undisturbed. He said that the existing wetlands areas would serve as detention tracts for storm drainage.

The residential project is to extend to the shores of the sportsman-oriented Round Lake, which prohibits the usage of power boats. Once development is completed, all existing lots are to be equipped with their own individual wells.

Another survey in the works

Local representative of the U.S. Census will revisit selected area households beginning April 2 to conduct its Survey of Income and Program Participation (SIPP).

SIPP is a nationwide continuing survey introduced in the fall of 1983.

It is one of the nation's largest with about 25,000 households participating.

The Census Bureau publishes periodic reports with information from the survey. Subjects covered include the following:

- *Jobs and earnings
- *The economic effects of unemployment, disability and retirement
- *How taxes affect personal spending
- *Participation in programs such as Social Security, Medicare and Medicaid, and food stamps.

Information from SIPP helps policy makers and administrators determine how well government programs are serving the public and how changes in programs and policies will affect the public.

Here are some facts based on interviews from a mid-decade SIPP period on the number of U.S. residents moving out of or into poverty (the sample size limits accurate reporting to national figures only):

*About one of every four persons who was poor in 1984 no longer was in poverty in 1985.

*About one in 11 adults who became poor in 1985 worked year-round and full time in both years. A similar proportion of adults leaving poverty in 1985 worked year-round and full-time both years.

*Persons aged 18 to 24 were most likely to move out of poverty from 1984 to 1985, while those under 18 and 65 and older were most likely to remain poor.

*63 percent of adults leaving poverty in 1985 had worked at some time in 1984. About 25 percent increased their number of weeks worked in 1985 over 1984.

*About one out of every five poor blacks and just over one in four poor whites left poverty between 1984 and 1985.

*Although about half of poor persons who became married (spouse present) left poverty in 1985, about half of those who became poor in 1985 were in a married couple family in both years.

STUDENTS help spread dirt around a newly-planted tree in honor of Earth Day 1990. The third-grade students at Clarkston Element-

Brueck. The event took place in the morning Thursday, April 26.

Students slave in hot kitchen for some cool shade

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A bake sale, math lessons and trees summed up shade on the playground at Clarkston Elementary on April 26.

Students from Sharon Wenger, Rosemary Lewis and Doris Bonnell's third-grade classes at the elementary school raised funds from a bake sale to buy two trees, which were planted on the playground.

Doris Bonnell, who teaches the third-graders, said the bake sale was treated as a math lesson.

"The items for sale were priced higher, so that all the school (children) could feel they were part of the purchasing the trees," said Bonnell.

The students were divided into groups: some took the money, while others handed out the baked goods as part of a hygiene lesson also, she said.

Others counted money and kept a daily total. The sale took place March 28 and was extended to March 29 because the parents of the third-graders were so generous in sending in bake goods for the cause, Bonnell said.

Two ash trees were purchased with the $460 raised from the bake sale. Kankakee Nursery in Mount Morris supplied a 2 1/2 inch-diameter Summit Ash, and a Green Ash, 6 inches in diameter, was supplied by Bordine's Better Blooms, Springfield Township.

"This is instant shade for the kids to sit under," said Don Stein, maintenance supervisor for Bordine's. The students purchased the largest tree on the lot at Bordine's with the help of Robert Theisen, vice-president of Bordine's.

As a reward for helping make the earth a little greener, all of the third-graders received a pine seedling to take home on April 30.

The seedlings were paid for from a projects fund supplied by a special grant from the state, said Mickey Ginn, special projects coordinator for Clarkston schools.

U-M booklet on school financing

In 1988-89, more than $6 billion in local, state and federal funds were spent to operate Michigan's 3,274 public elementary and secondary schools.

The sources of school financing dollars, the basis on which they are distributed to schools and the problems that plague the current system are the focus of an updated publication by The University of Michigan's School of Education.

"A Primer on Michigan School Finance," written by U-M Education Prof. C. Philip Kearney, uses actual 1989-90 data from 17 selected school districts to explain in detail the state's current school financing system.

Topics addressed include the millage system of local property taxation; calculation of a school district's property tax base; funding disparities between "in-formula" and "out-of-formula" districts; and the 1973 Bursley Act, the basic legislative mechanism for distributing state school aid.

In addition, the booklet answers such questions as why Ann Arbor's property tax base produces more than three times the local tax yield per pupil of Willow Run, despite Willow Run's higher millage rate; why Dearborn enjoys a lower property tax rate than neighboring Romulus, but a much higher state equalization valuation per pupil; and why earmarking total net profits of the state lottery for schools has had little impact on school finances.

The booklet concludes with a discussion of how equity, efficiency and choice, "three competing values in American education," according to Kearney, continue to shape the school financing debate.

Copies of the primer are available for $2 by calling the Bureau of Accreditation and School Improvement Studies at the U-M School of Education, 764-8240.

ACT workshops offered

Clarkston Community Education is offering workshops to students preparing for the ACT test this June.

Students can choose from two workshops — one is six hours long, and the other is three hours long.

The six-hour workshop is presented by Profiles Corp. and is set for 6-9 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, May 7 and 8.

The three-hour session is conducted by Consultant Karen Davison and is scheduled for 6-9 p.m. Thursday, May 10.

Registration is required; deadline for registration is noon Monday, May 7. For more information, call Jeanne at 674-3141.

Clarkston Road church receives special approval

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Yet another church could be destined for Clarkston Road after the Independence Township Planning Commission granted the project special land use approval April 26.

The commission voted unanimously to grant special land use permission but also voted unanimously to table the conceptual site plan. Special land use permission is required of all churches in Independence Township because churches are only allowed in areas zoned for residential use.

The proposed Clarkston Church of God, a 92,000-square-foot facility, is planned for the northwest corner of the intersection of Clarkston and Clintonville roads.

Before the vote, township planning consultant Richard Carlisle and commission members voiced concerns with some aspects of the church's plans.

Carlisle said improvements should be made to the plans regarding the site's front-yard setback, linear angle of parking, landscaping, sign and lighting requirements. Chairperson Brent Bair reminded Carlisle that the petitioner was seeking special land use approval and nothing more.

Carlisle continued to show his disapproval with the church's blueprints.

"I just think that this whole thing should go back to the drawing board," Carlisle said.

This is the second time that the developer, Jim Bayer, has sought special land use approval. Bayer, a native of the Southwest, had the plans drawn up in Tulsa, Okla.

Commission member Joseph Figa told Bayer that a plan developed by an engineer who's not involved with the project is frowned upon in the state of Michigan.

Jo Fussman said the request and the plans seem to be reversed.

"This site seems to be developed backwards by our standards," Fussman said, indicating that too much detail was put into the proposal at hand.

Bayer said that he came prepared for conceptual site plan approval, but he would do anything necessary to get the "ball rolling."

Bruce Mercado and Steve Secatch pointed out that Bayer is facing an uphill battle in conceptual site plan approval.

"What I'm hearing is that there isn't one major problem with this plan, but several smaller ones which could jeopardize this proposal," Mercado said.

"I don't think you understand our ordinances, and you need to sit down with a subcommittee to iron these problems out," Secatch said.

Bair instructed the developer to meet with Carlisle, the township engineer, Hubble, Roth and Clark; and an organized subcommittee of the planning commission to work out the various concerns.

Bayer said he would work with everyone in conjunction with the project.

WRONG PRICING LOGIC

QUESTION: Why do so many homeowners go wrong when they try to set a realistic selling price on their home?

ANSWER: Most people base their price tags on the only facts known to them: original price, cost of improvements, hoped-for profit and what they think similar homes are bringing. The original price, improvements, and hoped-for profit only determine whether you gain or lose, but they have nothing to do with the right price to produce a sale. Prices of other homes? Most of the time you only hear of the asking price, not the selling price.

Consult a local Realtor whose business it is to know how much property can and will bring.

OFFICIAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF PRE-CONSTRUCTION INFORMATIONAL MEETING ROAD COMMISSION FOR OAKLAND COUNTY FOR THE REPLACEMENT OF TWO BRIDGES ON ANDERSONVILLE ROAD

Your Board of Road Commissioners for Oakland County and the Township of Independence invite your comments on the proposed project to replace two bridges on Andersonville Road. The bridges are located between Clement Road and Airport Road at Greens Lake and at Van Norman Lake.

We invite all interested citizens to attend and express their views or request information on this matter before the start of construction of these projects.

Date: Thursday, May 10, 1990. Time: 3:30-6:30 p.m. Place: Independence Township Hall, 90 North Main Street, Clarkston, Michigan.

At the meeting, staff of the Road Commission for Oakland County will be available to discuss the project and answer questions. Project drawings and detour maps will be available for your review. The meeting is informal; please stop by any time between 3:30-6:30 p.m.

Tentative project schedule is as follows: Construction to begin in mid-May, 1990 and be completed in October, 1990.

Your attendance at the meeting will give the best opportunity for presenting your views and gaining desired information. However, we welcome your written statements to us. Send your comments to: Road Commission for Oakland County, 31001 Lahser Road, Birmingham, Michigan 48010.

Keeping Clarkston Small

Michigan's small cities

Citizens for Clarkston

Try these on for size: Petersburg, Grant, Fennville, Au Gres, Scottville, Laingsburg. These are among 30 cities in Michigan that have less than 1,500 population.

Yes, they are small, and they want to stay that way. By converting to cityhood they have separated themselves from surrounding townships. They now control their growth and character — and local operating taxes. That, however, is where the similarities end. Each of these small cities is organized and operated to meet its own specific needs and interests.

How different can small cities be? Let's look at two nearby communities.

The city of Lake Angelus, six miles east of here, has no "downtown." It is a lakeside community with 143 homes. Organized as a city in 1984, its primary concerns are control of land use, and police and fire protection.

Lake Angelus obtains fire protection through agreements with Waterford and Lake Orion townships. Charges for equipment and manpower are made on a per-run basis, plus a small annual fee. In practice, the annual costs are about equal to the millage for fire protection and emergency service, which was levied by the township when the community was a village.

Police protection is another matter, however. Because of the sprawling nature of the community, with several isolated properties, Lake Angelus operates its own three-man police department around the clock — with some assistance from part-time officers.

Commenting on Clarkston's move toward cityhood and control of its future, Lake Angelus Mayor Francis McMath said, "You have one of the prettiest little towns in Michigan. Keep it that way."

Another small city is Linden in nearby Fenton Township. Attaining cityhood last year, it had concerns similar to Clarkston's. In fact, city Manager Carl Kukla points to its citizens' committee slogan, "Controlling Our Destiny."

Fenton Township, like Independence, is fast growing. And Linden, like Clarkston, is an established, stable community. Its costs of growth are in the past while the township's lie ahead. By separating itself from the township, Linden's taxes have remained the same. It is not paying the costs of township growth and development.

Linden operates its own fire department, as it has for many years. Its annual operating budget for fire protection and emergency service is close to $56,000 now levied on Clarkston through township taxes.

What about taxes overall? Next week's column will discuss changes in costs and taxes resulting from cityhood.

Citizens for Clarkston is comprised of an informal group of Clarkston residents who are in favor of cityhood. Village residents are to vote on the issue May 21.

Patches earned for helping earth

About 25 first- through third-graders celebrated Earth Day and earned "Try-it" Brownie patches at the same time April 22.

"It was a beautiful day," said Melissa Thayer, leader of Troop #51.

Thayer — as well as troops #160 and #184 led by Karen Roe and Diane Kitson, respectively — organized the day with the help of about 20 parents.

A few dads had already dug the hole for the tree at the northwest corner of the gym at North Sashabaw Elementary School, Maybee Road, Independence Township.

So with the sun shining brightly, the celebration began with a flag ceremony performed by Troop #160.

Then, the girls recited "Trees" by poet Joyce Kilmer, while standing around the newly deposited tree.

Next, each Brownie threw at least one trowelful of dirt into the tree's hole at the northwest corner of the gym, and each poured one pitcher of water afterward.

To end the day, all helped pick up litter from the grounds of elementary school on Maybee Road, Independence Township.

The day satisfied two of four requirements for a local Earth Day patch, too, said Thayer, adding that the troops worked on the other two requirements on their own.

Together, the troops came up with the $140 to pay for the tree from Bordine's Better Blooms, Springfield Township.

Principal Jack Hayden of North Sashabaw Elementary School — where the Brownies meet during the school year — advised them of the best type of tree and location for the project, said Thayer.

ABOUT 15 volunteers helped clean the Village of Clarkston Saturday, April 28. Starting in the village park on Depot Road, the crew moved toward Deer Lake, whisking up trash from the roadsides and from the safety path. Among the items found were a disposable diaper, bed springs, glass, a softball and lots of car parts. For their efforts, village officials provided soft drinks and coffee.

Two areas shine after April 28 clean-up efforts

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Two locations in the Clarkston area emerged clean and green over the weekend.

The Village of Clarkston held its first PICKUP Day on Saturday, April 28 — the same day that residents on Michigamme and Stickney roads decided to clean their roads for the 10th consecutive year.

In the village, volunteers found car parts, tires, fast food containers, cigarette butts, softballs, bed springs and glass throughout the park and next to the safety path. Susan Basinger even found a disposable diaper.

Grant Teets, 15, of Marshwood Circle, Independence Township, joined the pick-up effort with his friend, Kurt Raguso, 16, of Farmington. The boys said it was a good way to fulfill the community service requirement of their high school, Brother Rice.

Clif Higdon and his daughter, Katie, 11, of Langle Drive, Independence Township, have lived in the area three years. They helped out because of "community pride," said Clif Higdon.

Kathy Jones, of Middle Lake Road, Clarkston, said she lives in the village and walks every day on the safety paths.

"Everybody has to do what they can," she said, about contributing to the clean-up.

Two Clarkston Elementary third-graders also showed up on their bicycles, bags in hand. When asked why they came to help, the boys gave looks of incredulity at such a question.

"To clean up the earth (of course)," said Ben Brueck, 9, of Middle Lake Road, Clarkston.

"We don't want the earth to die," said Aaron Maiher, 10, Ben's neighbor.

The PICKUP Day will probably become an annual event, said village Manager Artemus Pappas.

On Stickney and Michigamme roads in the northeast quadrant of Independence Township, about 15 residents put in two hours Saturday morning.

Among their finds were two chairs, a couch, a gas tank, a box of newspapers, car parts, tires, a bicycle, television parts, a radiator, a bowling pin, the usual glass and booze bottles and fast food containers.

"We could have built a car already with the parts we've found," said Carol Sliwa, an 11-year resident of Iroquois.

The record turnout filled three pick-up trucks — significantly less than the seven pick-up loads they filled the first year.

"We could have built a car already with the parts we've found."

Carol Sliwa

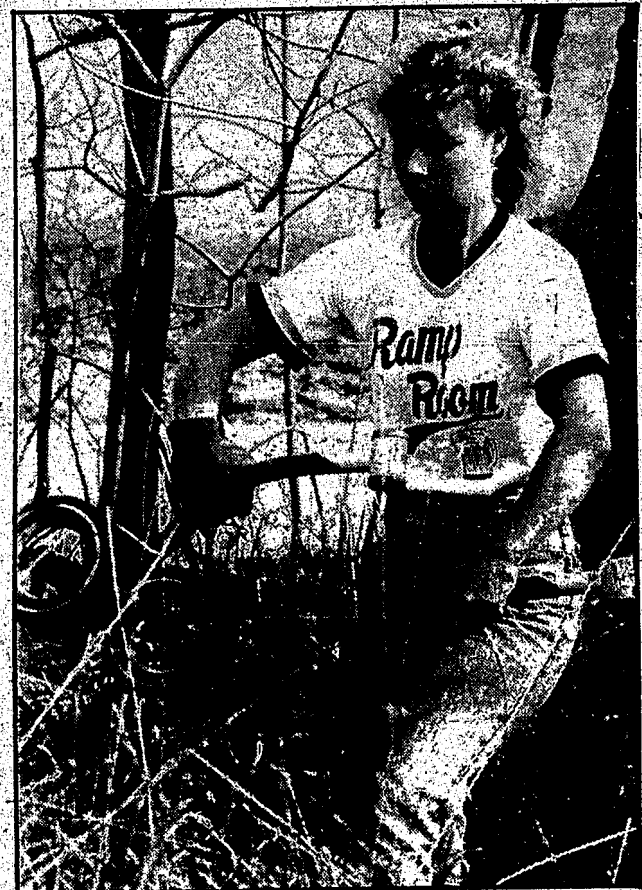

The residents who helped this year split most of the trash between them and will pay to have it hauled away. The larger items they plan to save until a cleanup day is held in Independence Township.

"Earth Day shouldn't be just a day, it should be Earth life," said Sliwa, adding that it's usually the same core of people who help out year after year.

She has nothing good to say about the people who dump on the rural roads.

"It just aggravates me," she said. "They don't come from Berkley either. ... It's probably someone you see at the (grocery store)."

HEIDI Royal of Michigamme finds a rusted bicycle off Stickney Road. Residents there also removed a sofa from some wetlands and behind it found a duck and a nest holding about eight eggs.

A carpet salesman willing to make housecalls

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

John Herron offers at-home service to his customers. He'll drive right to the customer's home with the samples, offering the buyer a chance to see carpet samples in their surroundings.

"People get a chance to look at the carpet samples in their home," John said. "They can see what it looks like

"I figured carpet installing wasn't too bad after one year (of being in sales)," he said.

John is proud of his work record in installing carpet, and his confidence helped him start his own business.

Working out of the van and just starting a business, John said he doesn't have a large selection but he can offer a savings.

"There's no overhead, and I can save customers on installation," he said.

John said he can offer quality installation to his customers.

"I've never had any repairs or calls on jobs I've done, even when I was at Advance Floors," John said with pride. "I take a little longer, but it gets done right."

Proper installation and a good grade of padding is an important part of having new carpeting installed, he said.

What's new in business with their furniture."

John started working in the carpet installation business about seven years ago, when his older brother Don asked him to help out. In January he started his own business Custom Carpets, and works out of his home and van.

Business was slow in January and February but it's picking up now, he said.

"Most of the business is word of mouth," John said. "I come from a large family, and they have a lot of contacts."

The Herron family lived in a large farm house on Maybee Road while the six children were at home. John, 25, is a 1983 graduate of Clarkston High School and a lifelong resident.

John worked in sales for one year at Advance Floors in Drayton Plains, and as an installer.

"I found out that being in sales wasn't for me," John said. "There's a lot of rejection and pressure for sales quotas.

Spelling superstars

Top spellers from five Clarkston elementary schools gathered to square off in the Elementary Spelling Contest April 25.

The school administrative board room was filled with teachers, parents and fellow students as, one-by-one, the spellers were called to tackle words chosen from the Old Detroit News spelling contest.

With about 30 students competing, media specialist judges ran through 202 words before determining a runner up and winner.

After Elissa Shires stumbled on the word "leucite," Colin McIntyre spelled it correctly, along with the next word, "mikado," to capture the title.

Elissa was given a thesaurus, and Colin received a dictionary from Bill Neff, director of administrative services, who commented he's not sure why we give you these, but ...

The contestants were determined by individual spelling bees; the five top spellers and a runner up from each school were eligible to compete in the Elementary Spelling Contest.

Pet of the Week

Prince is a king

Prince, 16 months, is a German shepherd who likes children and other dogs, though he's never been around cats. Plus, the likable dog is housebroken.

His $70 adoption fee includes neutering.

Prince can be seen at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The Other Side of Things

Lawn chair weaving and other summer fun

Ashley Ball

Yo! Heads up! It's almost summertime, and you know what that means. That's right... SUMMER ENRICHMENT! If you're still into that fun-filled summer stuff like laying around, enjoying your summer vacation and sipping lemonade on the hammock, FORGET IT! This is the age of ENRICHMENT. Especially for kids.

Any self-respecting parent already has his or her child signed up for at least 374 summer enrichment courses, classes and camps. This, of course, is in addition to the child's regular year-round enrichment schedule, which includes soccer, gymnastics, piano, swim team and slow-pitch.

Most parents have long recognized the importance of summer enrichment and are always looking for new, low points in boring summer courses for their children as well as themselves.

I'll have to admit, some of these courses can be fascinating. Browsing through a brochure of summer courses offered by the local parks and recreation department, one course, in particular, caught my eye: "Lawn Chair Weaving." I'M NOT KIDDING...LAWN CHAIR WEAVING!

To take this course, you must bring with you: several hundred yards of braided macrame cord ($35), two size K or N crochet hooks ($5), a screw driver ($3.50), plus a lawn chair frame. The course fee for 10 hours of instruction (10 HOURS!) is $15. So, for a mere $58.50 and 10 of the most frustrating hours of your life, you can have a beautifully hand-crafted lawn chair that would have cost you about $10.98 and 15 minutes at Krogers.

I'll have to admit, however, that my parents have actually been very lax in enriching our summers. We've enjoyed our summers long past the reasonable and appropriate age for enjoying leisurely summers, which is, I believe, about 17 weeks of age. However, they are trying to make up for lost time.

Recently, friends of my parents, Dale and Frankie Perry, passed along to them a brochure of summer enrichment classes that has our whole family scrambling to sign up.

The courses are listed by categories. Under the category of Self Improvement, my mother and I chose two classes we plan to take together: "Overcoming Peace of Mind" and "You and Your Birthmarks." Under this category, my sister has signed up for "Whine Your Way to Alienation."

My dad was interested in several courses listed under Business and Career: "Career Opportunities in El Salvador" and "Mortgage Reduction Through Arson." Under the Economic topics, he is also considering "Convert Your Kirby Vacuum Into A Fully Automatic Rifle." In this category, I signed up for "Cat Hair Macrame."

My mother wants us all to take a couple of Health and Fitness courses together: "Creative Tooth Decay" and "Dressing Right/Dressing Left: How It Can Change Your Life." My sister and I also hope to be able to squeeze in a three-session course called "Toilet Training Your White Elephant In The Privacy Of Your Own Home."

Now that our summer is scheduled right up to the first day of school next fall, I'm so excited that I can hardly go to sleep at night. Concerned, however, that I wasn't getting enough rest, I called my mom in the other night to see if there was anything I could take for my insomnia.

"Well, let's see," she said, browsing through a packet of enrichment brochures that had arrived in the mail that afternoon. "Here's something you might like to take...it's called..."

"That's OK, mom," I interrupted her. "I was thinking about an aspirin with a glass of milk."

Ashley Ball is an eighth-grade student at Clarkston Junior High School.

Two parties for CHS seniors

As the seniors at Clarkston High School near the conclusion of their high school experiences, they are looking forward to two parties.

The theme of the first, their "Senior Dinner," will be "Goodbye Yellow Brick Road."

Entertainment will center around skits by various student groups and a video of the year's activities.

Tickets for the dinner, which will be held at Mitch's II in Waterford on Sunday, June 3, are $10 and will be sold at the high school Wednesday, May 16, through Monday, May 21.

The second event will be the post-graduation party following the graduation ceremony on Wednesday, June 6.

The party, with its theme "Bon Voyage! Cruising into the '90s," will be held at the Deer Lake Racquet Club from 10 p.m. until 5 a.m.

To celebrate their accomplishment, the graduates will enjoy the use of the club's facilities as well as enjoy additional entertainment, food, prizes and activities.

Tickets for this event will also sell for $10 and will go on sale at the high school Monday, May 21.

Plant sale May 16

Geraniums, petunias and more will be for sale at the annual spring plant sale at the Oakland Technical Center-Northwest Campus Wednesday, May 16.

Grown by students on the campus, the plants will be available from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the school at 8211 Big Lake Rd., Springfield Township.

The Dawning

There comes a man,
All of but sixteen,
There comes a man,
Of lank and lean,
Ideas unfold strong,
As do the hands,
The wit of the Irish
Lies in his tongue,
There comes a man,
Light on his hair,
Named for a saint
And justice his command,
There comes but a man,
On life's horizon.

The Fish

Once there were some fish. They were happy. But one day a ship came by. It had oil. Some oil was leaking. The fish said, "Hey, stop that. You can't do that!" The fish started to float to the bottom. But before one of the fish died, it had a baby. The baby swam away. It grew up in the water. And it lived happily ever after.

Teacher's Day, May 8, is good time to say thanks

National Teachers Day Tuesday, May 8, is a time to recognize the nation's educators.

But it's a time for teachers to say thanks, too, according to Ann Moeller, a Pine Knob Elementary School teacher.

After talking it over with fellow teachers, she offered the following form of thanks to their own teachers: "We remember the encouragement our teachers gave us when everything else in our world seemed upside-down.

"We remember and appreciate teachers who had tough classroom rules, even though we grumbled when we were in their classes.

"We remember teachers who wrote upbeat notes to our parents when our grades inched up — and those who found ways to improve our essays when we thought we'd written literary masterpieces."

In honor of the day, Moeller suggests that residents write a note or place a phone call to a teacher who has had an impact on their lives.

It can make a difference in a teacher's day, said Moeller, who offered the following examples that she and other teachers have experienced.

■ Thank-you notes from children that were students years ago. For example, one person said: "I thought your class was tough, but today I realize it was a great foundation."

■ Thank-yous from parents of today's students and students from years past.

■ A visit to the classroom from a student from years ago. Occasionally, a student becomes a teacher and returns to his former elementary school classes to talk philosophy. Or maybe someone stops in to say she's graduating from an engineering school. "I feel I have had an impact" when that happens, said Moeller.

■ Sometimes, former students — now mothers — will stop a teacher in the grocery store to say, "I'm hoping my son has you for a teacher next year." "You feel honored," said Moeller.

THREE Pine Knob Elementary School instructors design a poster for National Teachers Day, which recognizes the accomplishments of our country's educators. Anne

Springfield Cleanup Day scheduled for May 5

For a small fee, Springfield Township residents and community groups have an opportunity to help clean up the environment, their yards, garages or whatever else may need a good spring cleaning on Saturday, May 5.

Springfield Township is hosting the first annual Spring Cleanup. Items can be dropped off at the Springfield Oaks Youth Activity Center from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Residents must bring proof of residency—a driver's license will do—and pay the following fees to help defray the landfill costs: $1 per car, $5 per pickup truck, and $10 for large trucks.

Township personnel will be on duty to verify residency.

All items should be bundled or brought in boxes or bags, said Robert Bloom, ordinance officer for the township. Garbage trucks will be on hand to accept the garbage.

Bloom said residents won't be allowed to shovel debris from their vehicles at the drop-off site.

"We want to get everything into the trucks as fast as possible," said Bloom.

Items not accepted because of landfill restrictions are: brush, stumps, flammable liquids, oil, paint, concrete and bricks.

The township is collecting discarded tires, and Tire Shredders of Port Huron will dispose of them.

The township will pay for the tire disposal in an effort to prevent the tires from ending up in ditches and fields. Also, neighborhood groups may want to clean up the ditches and fields near their houses.

Pupils plant tree in memory of former student

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Family, friends and former classmates of the late Jim Morris held hands last week and shared memories of the 20-year-old who was killed in a car crash Nov. 6, 1989.

Meanwhile, Jim's brothers planted a tree in his memory in the center of the circle formed by the students at the Clarkston Learning Center on Maybee Road, Independence Township.

Teacher Sue Reeves led the ceremony with a few verses from Ecclesiastes and recalled that Jim — student council president at the learning center — was one of her favorite students — he had a good sense of humor. She especially remembered his grin if he perchance found himself in trouble in her class.

Students were solemn during the memorial service; some of Jim's friends wiped away tears.

Included in the circle were Jim's mother, Dorothy Morris; brothers, Glenn Hemminger and Ron Morris; sister, Jackie Babcock; nephew, Jason Babcock, 5; niece, Lisa Kerchoff, 19 months; and his new nephew and namesake, Jimmy, 3 months.

Friends Kelly Comstock and Matt Marshall as well as his brother's fiancée, Michelle Haynes, also attended the ceremony.

Jim is also survived by his father, Ira Morris; nephew, Dillon Babcock; and nieces, Stephanie Johnstone and Carmen Babcock.

After the ceremony, Jim's mother, Dorothy, stayed at the site, while learning center students filed back into the building and while Jim's brothers finished planting the tree.

"They say it gets easier, but it doesn't," Dorothy said, crying softly into her tissue.

Jim had struggled in school but had found one subject that he enjoyed — art. He had planned to study commercial art in college in January 1990, she said.

"He was really good in art," Dorothy said.

and friend Kelly Comstock. Students at the Clarkston Learning Center also used the day to pick up litter and plant flowers.

"To everything there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven;

A time to be born, and a time to die; a time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which is planted;

A time to kill, and a time to heal; a time to break down, and a time to build up;

A time to weep, and a time to laugh; a time to mourn, and a time to dance ..."

-Ecclesiastes

FORMER classmates and teachers join members of the Jim Morris family in a memorial tree-planting service Friday, April 27. Brothers and friends of the late Jim Morris planted the tree in front of the Clarkston Learning Center, where Jim had been a student.

Modern-day macaroni

Tracy King

Cheese, delicious and fat-filled as it is, can be tempting. Several low-fat, low-salt varieties are now offered on store shelves, but true cheese lovers likely complain that they lack taste.

The following recipe offers a compromise of sorts. While the sharp cheddar remains, the rich, fattening cream in traditional macaroni and cheeses is replaced with cooking liquid and low-fat cottage cheese.

The peppers add extra flavor and may be increased or reduced to taste. For variety, blanch vegetables like tomatoes, carrots or broccoli, and add in place of the peppers.

MODERN-DAY MACARONI Two to four servings

- 1 1/2 cups dried macaroni
- 1 cup low-fat cottage cheese
- 1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
- 1/4 teaspoon hot pepper sauce
- 1/4 cup chopped green pepper

- 1/4 cup chopped red pepper
- 1 jalapeno pepper, seeded and minced
- 4 ounces sharp cheddar cheese, shredded
- 4 ounces part skim mozzarella cheese, shredded
- 2 tablespoons whole wheat breadcrumbs

Cook pasta in large saucepan of boiling salted water six minutes. Drain, reserving 1/2 cooking liquid. Return pasta to saucepan; add the three types of peppers.

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Spray 1 1/2-quart souffle dish or 4" x 6" casserole with vegetable oil cooking spray.

In processor, blend cottage cheese with reserved pasta liquid, mustard and hot pepper sauce until smooth. Stir into pasta and peppers. Mix in cheddar and mozzarella cheeses.

Transfer to prepared dish. Sprinkle with breadcrumbs. Bake until top begins to brown, about 25 minutes. Serve hot.

Brownies learn about trash disposal

The dozen or so second-year members of Brownie Troop #278 learned an important lesson about recycled garbage.

In honor of Earth Day, and in an effort to earn some environmental badges, the troop conducted a garbage experiment.

In September, they buried waste including diapers, tin cans, paper, plastic toys and other assorted items. Seven months later they planned to dig it up to see how much it had decomposed.

On a sunny day in early April, the digging began. The brownies donned rubber gloves and gathered at the spot where the garbage was buried.

They quickly uncovered the mesh potato sack containing the trash from the cold earth and removed what was inside.

The garbage was, of course, almost exactly as it had been seven months earlier — even the biodegradable garbage bag.

With some prompting from their troop leaders, the girls acknowledged that garbage lasts a long, long time before disintegrating.

The troop's other Earth Day activities included planting about 20 tiny trees.

Take precautions when burning any debris outside

Wildfire officials offer the following guidelines for open burning:

■ Before burning outdoors, contact your local fire agency for burning restrictions in your area and for a free burning permit — required by state law.

■ Open burning of yard debris, brush and trees is allowed by permit, when it is conducted farther than 1,400 feet from the boundary of an incorporated city or village.

■ State law requires burn barrels be fitted with a metal cover, with openings no larger than 3/4-inch for ventilation, for all debris burning.

■ Where local ordinances permit, ONLY one- or two-family dwelling units are permitted to burn household waste in an approved burn container (burn barrel with cover).

■ Don't burn on windy days. Burn in the evening when wind speeds are down.

■ Keep water (pail, garden hose) and hand tools (shovel, rake) nearby when burning.

■ Remove all burnable material within 10 feet of a burn site.

■ State air pollution control rules prohibit open burning of yard debris, brush and trees within designated portions of the following counties: Bay, Calhoun, Delta, Genesee, Lapeer, Macomb, Manistee, Midland, Monroe, Muskegon, Saginaw, St. Clair and Wayne.

■ State law prohibits burning items that release toxic fumes when burned, such as tires, plastics, motor oil, paint and building materials.

■ State air pollution control rules prohibit burning items that create excessive smoke or odors.

■ Beekeeping equipment and products can be burned for disease control purposes.

Harry S. Truman birth anniversary

May 8 marks the birthday of the 33rd president of the United States, Harry S. Truman. Nicknamed "Give 'em hell Harry" by admirers, Truman was born in 1884 in Lamar, Mo.

Truman began his political career as a county judge in 1922 and was elected to the U.S. Senate in 1935. He then served as vice president under Franklin D. Roosevelt and became president after Roosevelt's death in 1945. In 1948 he won re-election against his Republican opponent, Thomas Dewey. However, election-day predictions of a Dewey victory caused several newspapers to erroneously announce Truman's defeat.

While president, Truman established organizations such as the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) and the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA).

But he probably was best known for his authorization to deploy atomic bombs in Hiroshima and Nagasaki, Japan, which precipitated the end of World War II. Truman died on Dec. 26, 1972, in Kansas City, Mo.

WHO IS ON THE LORD'S side?
To the churches! Hello! First man preaches ten-percent tithing but in his heart his motive is to please God. His ear is towards the mind of the spirit of God. Second man preaches ten-percent tithing but in his heart his motive is to please his position (security), add to the building, or please the people more than God! His ear is towards the mind of men. Now the first man learns ten-percent tithing isn't really what God wants us to learn, in Jesus Christ, but rather just real giving from the heart so he changes because he wants to please God and not men or himself. The second man learns ten-percent tithing isn't what God wants, if he did happen to hear it, and refuses to change because it will change his position and he would then have to depend on God and walk by faith. So if one persists in telling and preaching the correct doctrine the second man retaliates, vehemently, against the truth, by discrediting the person or doctrine as they did with Jesus, or by confusing the word, as they tried to do with Jesus, or even setting up false witnesses, as they also did with Jesus but God was with Him because he was walking in the truth of God's word loving to do the will of God. Do you actually believe or even think God is with you when you are like the second man, hating God's truth? HAI HAI HAI! Are you deceived! You came to Jesus Christ! Fine! You have been baptized in the Holy Spirit with the evidence of speaking in tongues? Fine! You have been also water baptized? Fine! Now why, then, do you refuse to walk in God's truth and are ashamed of His words? Because you love your life in this life and surely you will lose it in the life to come!!! Jesus Christ is returning as God said so! Since you hate the truth you might as well be merry and eat and drink now for at that day, standing at the judgement seat of Christ, you will die forever! (Now go ahead, construe the word some more! You're the loser!) Pour more cement on your coffin! Increase! Increase! Increase the thickness of the lid!!! IILX17-2

A CROWD of walkers work out at 8:45 a.m. before taking off on a 15-mile hike around the Clarkston area for the March of Dimes

Walk America Sunday, April 29. Susan Hall, director of communications, said more than 600 walkers raised $60,000 in pledges. This is the second year of a Clarkston walk. "We have lots of cooperation from Clarkston in setting-up for the race," said Hall.

Marching for dimes and dollars

BRIAN SHEPANEK of North Holcomb, Clarkston, eats a doughnut with his dad, Larry Shepanek, while his mom, Pat, registers to hike around Clarkston for the March of Dimes Walk America. The event began at Clarkston Elementary School April 29.

THE WEATHER is a little chilly and damp about 8 a.m. Sunday, April 29, as Louie Alkire III, 5, of Lapeer and his sister Danielle, 8, try to keep warm before walking to raise funds to fight birth defects. (Photos by Sandra G. Conlen)
