Minor damage

GUSTS OF WIND up to 50 mph toppled a tree at 112 N. Holcomb Rd., Clarkston, Sunday,

June 3, about 12:30 p.m. The tree caused some minor damage to a car parked in the driveway and to the gutters of a house owned by Larry and Pat Shepanek.

Don't forget to vote Monday

The annual election of the school district is set for Monday, June 11.

Results will determine two candidates for the Clarkston Board of Education. One seat, vacated with the resignation of Trustee Elaine Shultz, is a one-year term. The other, which will fill a position vacated by Secretary Mary Jane Chaustowich, is a four year position.

Candidates for the one-year term include Durham Downs, Kurt Karlstrom and Dennis Walters.
Candidates for the four-year term include Donald Brockman, Sheila Goins Hughes, Charles L. Weber and Robert Wyatt.

Early indications are that voter turnout will be low at the polls.

Only 13 absentee ballots had been picked up from Independence Township Hall by Monday, June

4. By comparison, about 500 had been picked up by this time for the February millage election, according to Election Supervisor Rosemary Howey.

"I can't remember back when we've had this few (absentee ballots) picked up," Howey said. "You can pretty well gauge the interest level from the absentee ballots. There has been very slow interest shown."

Polls at the township's 12 precinct locations will open at 7 a.m. and will close at 8 p.m.

Once the polls close, precinct chairpeople will gather the ballots and deliver them to township hall; township officials then transport the ballots to the school board for tabulation.

Water tower

Summer construction slated

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A new water tower is in the final stages of design for the intersection of Dixie Highway and White Lake Road, Independence Township.

Its installment will be one of the main components to a townshipwide municipal water system.

According to George Anderson, director of the township department of public works (DPW), the tower's construction should begin in about one month. It is to have a "spheroid" shape much like that of a golf ball.

Its main purpose is to serve as a reserve in the event of countywide pump failure. At a cost of $650,000 to the township's Downtown Development Authority, the tower will have the capability of holding 500,000 gallons of Village council considers millage rate decrease

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Village of Clarkston taxpayers may get a decrease in millage rate levied, but no action was taken at the May 28 village council meeting.

After discussing the possible decrease in the millage rate from 6.5 mills to 5.9 mills, the council tabled the agenda item until June 11. One mill is $1 for every $1,000 assessed property valuation.

The sewer debt retirement fund is also slated to be reduced from one mill to one-half mill.

Trustee William Basinger said the village will collect about $1,000 more than last year because of the condominium property under construction on White Lake Road near Deer Lake.

Trustees Douglas Roeser and Dom Mauti said they would like more time to look at the budget before voting on the decrease.

"I hope we're not going to be short," Mauti said.

"We need to look at the budget anew every year and not tack on four or five percent because of inflation," Basinger said.

President Sharon Catallo has prepared an informational letter to send to village residents if the council passes the decrease.

water.

Anderson said the design is nearly complete, and a verbal agreement has been reached with the owner of the property, Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, on the eventual purchase of land. A duplicate tower is also being planned for the land owned by the DPW on Flemings Lake Road near I-75.

Inevitably, Anderson said, the two towers are going to be major components in a large municipal water system, which will loop in and around the township.

The municipal water system has existed in the township for a few years, and its main purpose is to provide residential areas, such as subdivisions, with additional water sources for fire protection. The availability of "portable water" provides an additional benefit to the system.

In terms of additional subdivisions cropping up throughout the township, Anderson said growth would have no negative bearings on the water system.

"We can handle the growth because developers are putting additional wells in their subs, which adds to the capacity of the water system," he said. "At the DPW, our intentions are to put the costs to the land developers and not the homeowners."

"We need to look at the budget anew every year and not tack on four or five percent because of inflation."

Six school retirees honored for service

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Memories were shared, jokes were told and thanks were given to six Clarkston school employees retiring after years of loyal service.

The occasion was the seventh annual school retirement dinner, which drew a packed audience to the Deer Lake Racquet Club May 30.

The six retirees — three food service employees, a secretary, a media paraprofessional and a teacher — received plaques for their years of service. Five other retiring school employees were unable to attend.

Before each recipient was called to the podium, the crowd heard of their achievements from a presenter. Below are highlights from the presentations and the employees' careers with Clarkston schools.

Norma Bigger

As second cook at Sashabaw Junior High, Norma Bigger did a terrific job, except for that one time, said Presenter Mel Vaara.

While busy making gravy, Norma accidentally added the wrong food coloring to the mixture turning it bright red.

"She still gets teased about it," Vaara revealed.

He commended Norma for her excellent organization and hard work.

"It's uncanny how she always gets the count for the lunch correct," Vaara said. "She was so accurate."

Norma began work with the Clarkston schools 12 years ago as the first crossing guard, a position Vaara describes as an "awful job."

She became a cafeteria worker at Clarkston Junior High in 1978. In 1979 she became second cook at SJH.

Norma said she looks forward to spending time with her six children and settling into a new home near Grand Rapids.

Ora Diericks

As a cafeteria worker at Bailey Lake Elementary School, Ora has never been late to work, recalled Presenter Mel Vaara, except maybe once.

Vaara relayed a morning when Ora got to school at 5 a.m., wondering where everyone was. She finally realized she was two hours early and snuck back home, hoping her neighbors wouldn't see her.

Vaara commended Ora for her wonderful baking, especially the home-baked rolls, he recalled.

He also noted Ora's strength and courage in the face of adversity and commended her for receiving the Silver Spoon, awarded for 150 hours of class time in School Food Service.

Ora began her work in Clarkston schools in the 1940s. She worked in the cafeteria for three years and in 1963 moved to Armada for a brief time. After two years, she and her husband returned to the area. In 1974, Ora went back to work for Clarkston schools at Bailey Lake.

Ora plans to spend her winters in Florida and enjoying her family.

Audrey Keyser

Audrey was always considered a superior worker as a media paraprofessional, explained her boss, Michael Donovan. Until her evaluation.

The two were working on inventory one day when Donovan realized he had not given Audrey an evaluation. He quickly completed the document and handed it to her.

She glanced at it, placed it on the shelf and went back to work, Donovan recalled.

A few days later, Audrey's husband, Bud, came to her and said, "Audrey, you're not doing so well at work."

He pointed to her evaluation which was marked unsatisfactory in every single column. Donovan had marked the wrong category all the way down, he said.

Donovan jokingly commended Audrey for her ability to decipher the circulation cards. He thanked her for her work as "de-facto-potty-patrolman," as the bathroom is located across from the media center.

He commended her great work ethic and said she was a great listener.

Audrey began work in Clarkston schools in 1967 as a building aide at Clarkston Elementary School. She later began as a media paraprofessional.

She plans to spend time with her family, traveling, dancing and playing golf.

Bonnie Locklar

Bonnie was recognized for having worked in every school building except for Bailey Lake Elementary during her 32 year food service career in Clarkston.

Her supervisor, Mary Claya described Bonnie as a dedicated employee, part of a "district team that has gone to battle for the school lunch program."

Bonnie is a true leader, Claya said, and one who led, not managed.

In accepting her plaque Bonnie drew chuckles from the audience when she said "I'm finally getting out of school."

Bonnie started in Clarkston's food service department in 1958 and has seen many changes.

She loves crafts and looks forward to traveling, working with Eastern Star, bowling and taking up golf.

Joy McCurdy

Joy McCurdy has been teaching Clarkston students since 1953, recalled Presenter George White, a former student of Mrs. McCurdy's sixth-grade class.

White recounted Joy's reaction to her first class list, which totaled 48 students.

"It was 52," corrected Joy, for the audience's benefit.

"Well, what's one or two more?" White countered.

"It was four more," Joy answered, to the laughter of the audience.

White held up a wood-covered book known as a "Michigan book" a class project many students remember about Joy's class. The wood cover is prepared by students and holds their lessons in Michigan history.

White told of parent letters, begging him to put their sons and daughters in Mrs. McCurdy's class.

He commended Joy on her efforts and cross-cultural education and told her she would be missed at Pine Knob.

In accepting the plaque, Joy told some of her favorite student stories, including one in which a young boy wanted to buy her a Christmas tree.

As the teacher and student drove to get the tree, the boy called for her to stop the car and he ran out. After awhile a policeman stopped to wait with Mrs. McCurdy and finally the boy emerged.

As the police officer commended the boy on his fine selection from the nearby tree farm, the boy said "Oh no. They weren't pretty enough. I went to the Dominican Sisters and chopped it down."

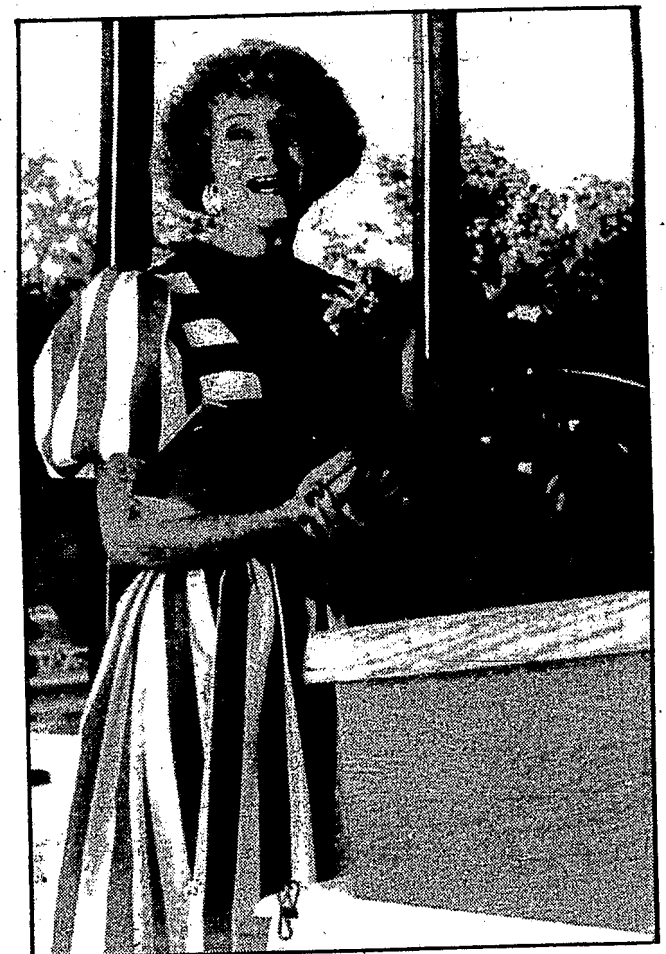

Joy told the group that leaving teaching was difficult.

She has taught fourth, fifth and sixth grades over the years in Clarkston.

She and her husband, Gene, plan to travel, spend time with their grandson, work in her flower garden and collect porcelain dolls and Christmas decorations.

Dolores Smart

Dolores Smart has worked for Clarkston schools since 1972 as a bookkeeper and secretary.

AUDREY KEYSER is retiring after 23 years as a media paraprofessional.

Presenter Louise Dube described Dolores as a dedicated, valuable secretary.

She listed five words beginning with "C" that described Dolores's special abilities: confidential, competence, creativity, cooperation and caring.

When asked what she wanted said about her that evening, Dolores replied, "I like serving people; it's easy for me."

Dolores began as a bookkeeper at the Oakland Technical Center-Northwest Campus in 1972. She has since worked as a secretary for Director Daniel Manthei.

She now plans to spend winters in Florida, summers in Michigan and will travel in-between.

Lawsuits SLAPing down local public activism

Clarkston News Staff Writer

A new type of lawsuit is growing in frequency within the American legal system.

Its acronym is SLAPP, which stands for Strategic Lawsuit Against Public Participation, and its making people reconsider their First Amendment rights.

The term SLAPP was coined by two professors at the University of Denver, Denver, Colo., who have been monitoring the alarming trend of "intimidation by lawsuit."

The whole premise behind this type of action is to stifle political opposition by filing civil lawsuits, according to the two professors in a recent issue of the Detroit Free Press.

In a majority of SLAPP-related cases, a person is on the receiving end of a suit because he or she exercised First Amendment privileges.

Activities that have been the focuses of suits include: speaking out at a public meeting, petitioning, boycotting and campaigning on issues or reporting violations of the law. Due to these activities' legality, people are being sued on the premise of defamation or conspiracy.

Large companies and corporations, however, are not the initiators of SLAPPs. In most cases, politicians and small, local businesses are taking such action, and the defendants are countersuing in response.

According to the Free Press article, most SLAPP lawsuits are thrown out before going to trial because they fall under First Amendment rights, but the emotional duress and monetary inconvenience causes those concerned to become "gun shy" of further pursuits.

But not all SLAPP cases have fallen by the wayside. In Howell, Michigan, a woman lost her life savings from a SLAPP lawsuit. She was the president of the Humane Society in her area and was active in writing on and speaking out against the use of animals for medical research.

She named a specific business in her area that was engaged in selling stray animals for this purpose and was immediately sued for her comments by that business. The business won a judgment of $525,000.

Her defense was that she was protesting the "issue" of using animals in this manner, not the conduct of the may not be any skin of some company's nose, but court fees can be costly."

But friends convinced Carlson that dropping the column wasn't the answer.

"A lot of people talked to me and persuaded me to keep writing the column," he said. "We discussed it at the last COG meeting, and I'm no longer going to name a specific party in my column or say that our organization is going to fight this or that."

"From now on, the column will be written informatively to better benefit the readers and protect myself from this type of legal action," Carlson added.

School board hires business manager

The Clarkston school board has approved the hiring of Steven A. Lenar as business manager.

Lenar, 37, replaces Bill Jackson, who resigned to accept a position in the Chicago area.

Superintendent Gary Haner told the board that of the 26 people who applied for the business manager position, Lenar was the most experienced.

Lenar's 14 years of work in school administration includes positions such as athletic director, business manager and assistant superintendent for business, a position Lenar currently holds in Battle Creek's Harper Creek Community School District.

Lenar holds a bachelor's degree in business administration from Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, and is currently working on a master's degree in management from Nazareth College in Kalamazoo. His wife, Barb, is a school teacher.

School administrators interviewed six candidates for the business manager position.

Lenar begins his new job July 1.

people engaged in the business. The case went all the way to the Supreme Court, but the verdict was upheld. Her homeowner's policy paid $400,000 of the judgment, but the remaining $125,000 wiped out her life savings.

In Independence Township, Doug Carlson, chairman of Citizens for Orderly Growth (COG) and columnist for The Clarkston News, has studied SLAPP cases, and he admits that they're a little frightening.

"For a while there I really considered dropping the column in fear of a lawsuit," Carlson said, after having a run-in with a disgruntled developer.

New trustee on village council

The Clarkston Village Council will have a new member, Robert Whitmer, at the June 11 meeting to fill the seat vacated by Gary Symons.

Symons officially resigned in February because he moved from the area. Whitmer was appointed at the May 29 meeting, and will serve out the term until March of 1991.

Thomas Goldner of Church Street, who is a member of the planning commission, preferred someone else.

"You (the council) need a voice from the south end of the village," Goldner said.

President Sharron Catallo said two south-village residents who had expressed interest in serving on the council couldn't serve at this time.

Whitmer, an attorney, has lived on Wampole — at the north end of the village — for about three years and has been active in the pro-cityhood cause.

Woman helps children see world of the sightless

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Students at Clarkston Elementary didn't think much of Margaret Walters' story. They laughed a little and listened a lot.

Though blind, the West Bloomfield resident smiled and related well to students in Sharon Wenger, Rosemary Lewis, Doris Bonnell, Greg Seaman and Denise Bouchard's classrooms June 1.

The students have been studying about blind and "My mother and father never said 'no.' I could do as many things as I could to help fit into the world."

Margaret Walters

deaf people, and Margaret's experiences helped them understand that life can be almost normal while living with blindness.

Margaret has been blind since birth and has never seen colors, but that doesn't stop her from being concerned about what color dress she wears.

One student asked, "How can you see what the color of your clothes are?"

"I make sure I know what color they are when I buy them," Margaret said. "I remember where I hang them."

Margaret was raised on Orchard Lake, and her mother took her for swimming lessons when she was four years old. It's a sport she can enjoy, and it's good exercise, she said.

She went for her first swim of the 1990 summer season on May 31.

"It was cold, about 64 degrees, but once I start I swim everyday," Margaret said.

Another student asked her if she ever got frustrated.

"No, because I keep on trying," she said. "I learned to water ski at age 30."

She also taught her four children to water ski.

without sight, while teacher Sharon Wenger gives her a hand.

Margaret continued telling the students of things she has done to fit into the world of people who can see.

She then read to the students from a braille book and explained that she learned to read in the first grade just as other students do.

"My mother and father never said 'no,'" Margaret said. "I could do as many things as I could to help fit into the world."

She took horseback-riding lessons as a youngster and later went horseback riding with her own children.

Margaret once took a horse-pack trip in Colorado with her 13-year-old daughter.

Blindness hasn't kept Margaret from living a full and active life.

"I'm lucky my life has been so convenient," Margaret said.

For the last 20 years she has been running a South Carolina company that supplies parts to automotive companies. She travels there once a month, she said.

"I can't wait to get up in the morning and find out what I'll do that day," Margaret said.

Living by the beep

Julie Campe

One step inside the office door, and I can tell whether it's going to be one of those days. One of them occurred recently.

I walked inside the door, expecting to say hello and share the previous day's news before going upstairs to my office.

But everyone was busy. In front, Grace and Mary Jo were bent over their desks, ears to the phones, writing furiously. They were taking classified ads, apparently.

No one even looked up. I looked at Mary Jo, who is consistently pleasant and polite.

I could see, though, that whoever was on the phone with her was presenting a challenge even to her professional manner.

"Excuse me, Sir. Are you using a speaker phone? ... Could you move closer to it, please, or pick up the receiver?" she tried again.

"Sir, I still can't hear your ad. Could you move closer to the phone?" The strain was starting to show in her face.

"Sir? It's still not working," she said. Suddenly, he either moved closer to the phone or picked it up. Then, he began to slowly spell out his ad — one slow letter at a time — to Mary Jo, who sat waiting a full second between each letter, tapping her pencil in between letters.

I glanced at my mail. One piece of junk mail was addressed to Ms. Penny Stretcher. The Penny Stretcher (which contains all the ads contained in The Clarkston News but without news or photos) shares the same address as The Clarkston News but is not a person.

Silently, I gathered my messages and mail and walked upstairs.

Just as I opened the door, I heard my phone across the room beep, and someone said, "Julie, are you there?" Quickly, I walked to my desk, just as whoever was trying to reach me by the intercom hung up.

Someone else beeped and said, "Can you take line 1?"

I picked up the phone, and a woman began to talk — I could tell from her tone that she was not happy.

Just then, all the phones in the building went dead with a loud click. An instant passed, and they came back.

The phones immediately began ringing again, and, again, I was beeped.

"Line 1, please, Julie."

It was the same woman, who spoke as if her mouth were held tightly in control.

She wondered if we would like to take pictures of her son's art class because they did some wonderful things at his elementary school. She said it as if it were a challenge.

"Sounds good," I said. "When will they be working on their next project?"

"They've just finished their last one," said the woman. The artwork was in the display cases in the school, and wouldn't we love to take pictures of it, she asked.

I told her that we didn't take posed photographs, but we'd be happy to take pictures of the children when they're actually making something.

"Couldn't you take pictures of the kids standing by the display case?" she asked.

"Sorry," I said and began a too-lengthy explanation of the purpose of photojournalism.

"Well!" she said, afterward. "You always take pictures of Pine Knob and Clarkston-EI."

And she hung up.

Another beep immediately followed, and the person on line 1 this time was from Rochester and wanted to know if we could run stories on her event that was taking place there.

"Sorry," I said, explaining that as a small community newspaper, our focus was limited to the community itself. The best we could do was list it in our "out of town" column, which we ran if we had room.

She, apparently offended, said the event deserved a feature story. By not doing one, we were doing a great disservice to our readers, and her husband is in business and, while he didn't advertise now in The Clarkston News, he wouldn't want to in the future if we don't cover Rochester events.

I suggested she call our sister paper, The Auburn Argus. After all, Auburn Hills is closer to Rochester than Clarkston. But she said we'd be sorry and hung up.

I took off my jacket and set down my briefcase. The phone beeped again.

Wonderful staff

As our family prepares to leave North Sashabaw Elementary, we wish to express sincere thanks to its wonderful staff.

They have provided a very positive and nurturing environment for both of our sons from kindergarten to their current grades. The North Sashabaw faculty has never hesitated to go that "extra step" for their students.

A special thanks to Mr. Jack Hayden, the principal, who always makes himself available when needed. Also Mrs. Williams and her excellent latchkey crew, who have made our sons feel at home and welcome during extended hours.

Finally, our deepest gratitude to Mrs. Norma Stations, who exemplifies what it really means to be an educator — instruction with love, care and always a sense of humor.

Thank you, North Sashabaw Elementary staff, for all you have given our sons. You will remain in our hearts always.

Thanks for the memories

Over the past 22 years, I have had the pleasure of working with some very special, talented young people. Over Memorial Day weekend, I had the pleasure of working with 70 of those same young people again, only this time, they were all in one show recreating their roles. "Memories: A Stage of Remembrance" was a dream come true for me, as I have been looking forward to this weekend for over two years. When the idea of a reunion and this type of production first came into being, two extremely talented, committed gentlemen dedicated themselves and their time to this undertaking along with 14 other alumni who met with me once a month for two years to bring to life this idea.

Shawn Smith and Dean Vanderkolk created a moving production through their extraordinary writing and producing abilities. Along with them, Steve Murphy added his musical know-how and musicianship to the production.

Those who witnessed the final result were treated to lasting memories just like I have carried in my heart for the past 22 years. I commend all who participated in this complex endeavor, who traveled many miles, renewed old friendships, and made many new ones, and thank each and every person involved. I salute all of you and say "Thanks, thanks, for the memories."

"Ma"

Mrs. Barbara Gibson

We'll miss you

I'm often asked, "Aren't you happy to be moving?" I have very mixed feelings about it because I will miss Clarkston very much. I strongly believe that there's no finer place to raise a family.

Being an outsider to Michigan, I feel that I've been able to appreciate many fine aspects of life here that people take for granted — from things as simple as watching swans grow and live to many unique experiences that Clarkston has to offer.

I would especially like to mention and thank some aspects of life in Clarkston that have meant a lot to myself and my family: Fun Daze, the staff at the Independence Township Library, the wonderful neighbors in Woodglen Estates, Clarkston Preschool, the Village Book Store, concerts in our park, Cook's Farm Dairy, Clarkston Elementary School, Deer Lake Beach and its staff, Downey's Potato Chips, Empire Szechuan Garden, Country Cords and the Clarkston Cafe.

And mostly we'll miss the nicest and most wonderful people and friends here, who have filled our lives with special experiences and memories.

Thank you, Clarkston. We'll miss you!

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

Into my tape recorder I said: "It's Friday, May 19th. The temperature is 48 degrees, it's misting and winds are gusting to 25 mph. ... and we're going to Lakewood Shores in Oscoda to play golf for three days. If the ancient Chinese had known about golfing in this kind of weather they would have substituted that torture for burning bamboo splinters under fingernails."

Which brings us to the subject of this week's column, golf. In particular, the imaginative copy writers for anything associated with the game and its equipment. These writers never run out of ways to boast of the longest ball, straightening slices, and gripping for accuracy.

The copy on a box of Slazenger golf balls is a good example of fanciful writing about a round ball with dents. Get a load of this: "The Slazenger 480-interlock golf ball features a series of triangles locked together within a network of various dimple sizes. The pattern has exceptional geometric integrity and the different dimple sizes create a marriage of aerodynamic characteristics so maximum distance is achieved without any sacrifice in control.

"Large dimples promote raw distance. Small dimples promote flight stability. 144 large dimples remove air build-up from the front to the rear of the ball in flight. 72 small dimples keep the flight under control. In between there are two additional dimple sizes, which "bridge" the aerodynamic properties of the large and small dimples."

The copy ends with "Made in Japan." So, where do I find the Slazenger ball? In the rough where they have been hit aerodynamically for "raw distance" and "flight stability."

Fran no-nonsense-on-the-golf-course Bertram says the Slazenger was designed by a man who had something to do with engineering the space shuttle. Wonder if he tried putting dimples on it?

Slazenger isn't the only ball maker with good writers. Titleist has a 384 with icosahedron dimple pattern and dual dimple configuration.

Top Flight has a ball that "hangs high over the target and drops at a very steep arc. Another with low trajectory for windy conditions, and one with high trajectory to get the ball up in the air.

Maxfli's ball has "perfect geometric design (called the dodecahedron) based on 12 identical pentagon shapes.

Interesting, the ladies' golf balls, Golden Girl, Flying Lady and Butterfly, have no boastful copy-writing on the 3-ball box.

There was something else I wanted to tell you about golf this week. What was it? Maybe it was the hole-in-one I got Monday. Well, if it was I don't have any space left this week, so another time perhaps if I don't forget it.

$4,921 raise angers resident

As a concerned parent, wanting to secure and strengthen my children's education, I went to the polls and voted yes on the recent millage.

I realize and fully understand why some people felt they had to vote no. Our ever-increasing taxes have made living in the Clarkston district a hardship.

However, I am angered by the recent 6.25-percent pay increase for Superintendent Gary Haner. I realize the position of superintendent requires a highly-educated person who should be compensated with substantial pay, but I consider his current salary of $78,740 reasonable.

The people of Clarkston have given their support through increased taxes, money that should be used to directly influence the quality of education through teacher recalls and educational supplies, not a $4,921 salary increase for the superintendent.

Stumbling into Detroit's secrets

Jim
Fitzgerald

Minneapolis Mayor Don Fraser's car was stolen from the driveway at his home last month. Doug Grow, a columnist for the Minneapolis Star Tribune, wondered if such a nervy violation of a mayor's security had ever occurred in a city more noted for crime, such as Detroit, so he called Mayor Coleman Young's office.

Ken Weiner answered the phone.

Just kidding. Actually, Grow was connected with a member of Young's security staff. Previously, Grow had talked with security representatives of three other cities with high crime statistics - Chicago, Newark and Atlanta. They reported no thefts of the mayor's car and, according to Grow, there was some good-natured snickering over the incongruity of such a "high-quality-of-life" city as Minneapolis leading the nation in the crimes-against-the-mayor category.

But there was no snickering on the phone line from Detroit. After learning that Young's car had never been swiped, Grow asked what sort of car Young drove. According to Grow's April 29 column, the answer was: "I can't tell you that."

Next question: What color is Young's car?

Answer: "You're asking privileged information."

Has anybody ever committed a crime against Mayor Young? The Detroit security man refused to answer, telling Grow "How do I know you're who you say you are?" and then snapping "Let's end this."

Grow concluded: "A lesson here might be that there are worse things than living in a city where the mayor's car can be stolen right out of his driveway."

Gee, there goes another stain on Detroit's image. Readers of the Minneapolis Star Tribune must think Mayor Young's security officers are a surly, suspicious bunch. Who wants to visit a city so paranoid that the color of the mayor's car is a classified secret? When Young drives down the street, are all citizens required to close their eyes, no fair peeking?

Too bad. I wish Grow had phoned me. I would have politely explained that Mayor Young needs two armored chauffeurs limousines at his disposal so, in case Ken Weiner steals one of them, Young won't have to take the bus to work.

It isn't believed Weiner could manage to steal both limos at the same time, because he's in the tight custody of hundreds of armed federal law officers who might possibly become suspicious if Weiner awakened one of them and asked for help driving two limos to the Big Boy for lunch.

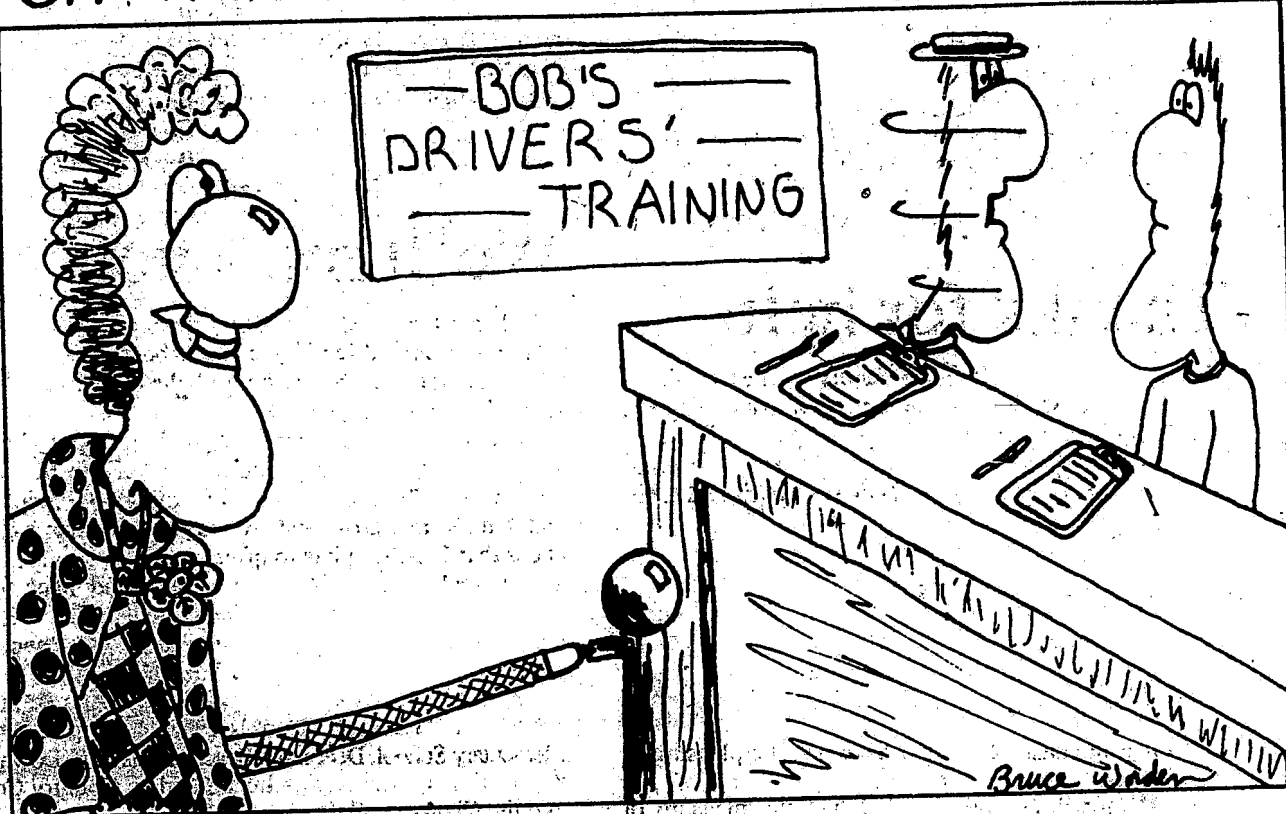

I'd have told Grow that if the make and color of Mayor Young's limos were published in the Minneapolis Star Tribune, a reader might recall seeing one of the limos being driven by a Groucho Marx look-alike who identified himself as a South African Krugerrand salesman employed by a business owned by the mayor of Detroit.

I'd have explained to Grow that if Minnesota residents got the impression that the mayor of a huge city like Detroit had to moonlight to augment his city salary, they'd never want to visit such a cheap city.

Also, there was the possibility that Grow, once he uncovered the truth about the mayor's wheels, might also discover that Weiner, a former Detroit deputy police chief and alleged brain surgeon, was accused by Police Chief William Hart of stealing big money from the Police Department and paying the chief's daughter's rent, and that the FBI wired Weiner to record conversations with Mayor Young but now the feds may no longer employ Weiner's services because they're miffed at him for escaping from them after the feds were compelled to leave Weiner alone to go into another room where the radio was playing "Send in the Clowns."

If Grow dug up all that information, and put it in the Minneapolis newspaper, nobody from Minnesota would ever visit Detroit for fear of being trapped in the middle of a Marx Brothers movie.

Teaching is a mixed bag of agonies and delights. My own recollection of teachers is one of happy people in charge of such things as construction paper, paints and workbooks.

Throughout events of the past week, however, I've gotten a closer look at the profession.

Clarkston teachers recently got word of a pay raise. They'll get six and a quarter percent more money next year, which probably seems pretty good to people in other occupations.

Talk to a teacher ombudsman, though, and he'll point out that teacher salaries are traditionally low to start with. Compare paychecks between holders of master's degrees in education and master's degrees in business and you get the picture.

Adding injury to insult, he'll point out, Clarkston ranks around 23 for lowest-paid teachers in a county of 28 districts.

So if it isn't pay that keeps teachers at the blackboard, it must be the schedule.

Summers off? Sure it sounds good. Just don't try to take any vacation days during the school year.

The Clarkston school board this week stuck firm to a policy that reads no vacations during the school year. The move prompted a respected math teacher to resign.

The teacher's prior experience as a technical computer engineer should help her find a job, but it's sad that business wins over education in attracting quality employees.

Thankfully, there are teachers who love their jobs so much they would never trade them for anything.

One of these was honored at this year's annual school retirement banquet.

Joy McCurdy, retiring from Clarkston schools after 24 years of teaching, told the crowd that leaving teaching was hard.

She shared her favorite examples of why this was so.

A group of her students was listening to State Representative Mat Dunaskiss talk about the census. When he asked whether anyone knew what the census was, one little girl raised her hand and answered, "Yes; smell, touch, taste, hearing and seeing."

Dunaskiss, a former teacher, smiled at Joy in understanding, she recalls.

A few years ago, Joy continued, she got a telephone call from a former student.

It seems that he and his colleagues at General Motors had agreed to contact the one person who had made the biggest difference in their lives.

As a student he had had trouble reading, so Joy tutored him every night, in her home. Twenty years later — Joy McCurdy got the phone call, telling her that she had made a difference in his life.

Hard to beat that in the business field.

Abortion kills more than CF

Regarding the article on cystic fibrosis (CF) in the May 23 issue of The Clarkston News, I have a correction. CF is the United States' second, not number one, killer of children.

Abortion kills far more, over 1.5 million per year, or 50 times the number of children who currently have CF.

This is not to diminish our concern for those children with CF, but it does say something about our society. It, too, is sick and awaits with those who suffer from CF, a cure.

Village shirking flag-flying duty

As a street dummy, walking the streets of Clarkston, I would appreciate knowing why the Clarkston Homosapiens and other animals that wander around Clarkston have absolutely no respect for the dead.

seem to refuse the duty and obligation.

Doesn't the village have some kind of chore boy or manager who is responsible? If these individuals have an I.Q. of 1.5, that ought to be enough intelligence to fly the flag half-mast for one-half day. It may be possible, but I can't believe it. He has not been in this country long enough to understand how flags are flown in this country.

The township government has an excellent record with respect to flying the American flag.

I hope you as editor can find me an answer that is not contaminated with asinine answers from those trying to avoid facts.

Honored property not beautiful

I was stunned to read in the May 16 edition of The Clarkston News that Lehman Investment Co., Ed Adler, won an award for "property beautification."

Perhaps the award can be justified if it is solely for the Clarkston Crossing project, which is not yet complete. But to state that "Lehman Investments also maintains its property well — on M-15, as well as its office building at 39 S. Main St., Clarkston, and the Clarkston Mills at 20 W. Washington St." is stretching the truth too far.

The day after reading about the award, I drove past the 39 S. Main building and noted that the front lawn was a sea of dandelions badly in need of mowing. The Clarkston Mills is badly in need of painting, has many broken or missing tiles, which are a safety hazard as well as an

This building is anything but well maintained and should not be held up as a standard for our community or honored by an award.

Shame on the person or persons responsible for this award. They obviously didn't do their "homework." Or is it as someone suggested — the award is based on money and power? How sad.

Headline wrong

I would like to make a correction in an article that appeared in the May 24 issue of The Clarkston News. The headline, which appeared as "Orthodontist honored," is incorrect. An orthodontist — university trained for two years, resulting in a specialty degree — only straightens teeth.

I am a general dentist who has taken an interest in orthodontics. I have provided orthodontic care for 12 years to my patients, in addition to routine dental procedures, such as bonding, crowns, root canals, etc.

The American Association for Functional Orthodontics is comprised of 2,400 member dentists, both orthodontists and general dentists. I am very proud to be honored as a founding member of this respected organization.

Greene can make difference

Who is Tom Greene? Tom Greene is a former television newscaster who reported on what was going on in the halls of Lansing government.

He let us know what legislation was pending and also let us in on the shenanigans going on at the expense of taxpayers. He knows Lansing and Michigan government inside and out, as well as the crooks and crannies to look into, so that he can find what is going on for and against our benefit.

Tom is now a candidate for the 61st District, currently held by Rep. Matt Dunaskiss. When you vote in the primaries I would like to see the voters in the 61st District pull the lever for Tom Greene.

Why? Because Tom is a man of integrity, ethics and honesty, who believes in protecting our individual, constitutional rights. He will work toward cutting and reforming the means our public servants have used to tax us out of our honest earnings and homes. These means have been increases in spending, bureaucracy and pork-barreling.

We can make a difference by choosing the right people to represent us. Don't choose the career incumbents who have been busy protecting their collective offices instead of protecting their constituents' rights, or we will wind up with more of the same.

Instead, choose a person like Tom Greene who is from the grassroots and knows all too well how the career politicians have created a burden for Michigan residents and business owners, as well as how they have been a detriment to property rights, individual rights and the scams they have worked on us to undercut and undermine our educational system through hidden legislation.

Tom not only wants to work to change the system but to also correct the wrongs that have been created.

If you want to start making a difference then vote for Tom Greene in the upcoming primaries. Your vote can make the difference.

Two capable

With the upcoming school board election, I urge your support for the team of Durham Downs and Sheila Hughes. Both of these individuals have been very active supporters of our school system and have volunteered uncountable number of hours. Durham and his wife were recently honored as Clarkston Citizens of the Year.

Both Durham and Sheila have children in Clarkston Schools are very aware of the needs and issues that concern our children and the quality of education they deserve.

They have been regular in attendance at school board meetings and, I feel, very capable of filling the upcoming vacancies. Exercise your right to vote. A vote for Hughes/Downs is a vote for leadership and quality in education.

Excellent skills

On Monday, June 11, the voters in the Clarkston Community School District have the chance to make a significant impact on the educational opportunities offered to our children by voting for two candidates for the board of education.

Being a member of the board of education is a difficult and time-consuming position. We are fortunate to have highly qualified people willing to take on this responsibility.

Durham Downs and Sheila Hughes have exhibited a high level of community involvement. Their dedication to work toward providing a quality education to the students in Clarkston has made them excellent candidates.

I am confident that both Sheila and Durham will be great assets to the board. They possess excellent communication skills so necessary to people in this position. Their positive attitude and open-minded approach in dealing with problems has been seen many times during their years of service.

I would like to encourage voters to cast their votes for Durham Downs and Sheila Hughes.

Pam Bills

Good for schools

I would like to take this opportunity to express my support for Dennis Walters as a candidate for the Clarkston Board of Education.

Dennis, who is running for the one-year term, is a former teacher and a graduate of Central Michigan University. Having two children in the Clarkston school system, Dennis is vitally interested in the quality of education being provided by our schools, and he has a wide variety of ideas on how we can maintain that quality without having to resort to continual increases in millage.

For the past 16 years, Dennis has been involved in counseling individuals and businesses in financial planning. He is a partner in the Davey and Walters Financial Group, and he is a Chartered Financial Consultant.

Considering the ongoing financial problems associated with our school system (as with many school systems), I believe Dennis' expertise in this area would be invaluable to our board of education.

I feel we are fortunate to have someone of Dennis' caliber willing to become involved in helping run our schools, and I urge you to vote for him on Monday, June 11.

Take heed now, or lose land later

Beware, Oakland County landowners. Never let a Road Commission for Oakland County vehicle use your driveway as a turnaround for their convenience.

If you do, you may lose your land to them without just compensation, and you will still pay taxes on that land. Your property rights under the Fifth Amendment will be violated. There is no guarantee against unlawful seizure of land in Oakland County.

This is just what recently happened to us in Rose Township. One-third of our parcel #06-22-328-007, 130 Holly (about one-third acre) was taken unlawfully by the Road Commission for Oakland County on the basis of an obscure record of unverified maintenance of our driveway for more than 10 years.

We have never been allowed to see this record — even if we had, paper records can be kept of maintenance never done.

We know that no maintenance has been done on our 141-foot driveway since July 1983, when we bought this property. We have proof that we bought road gravel for the drive in November 1986. If our driveway had been maintained and if we know that this driveway was considered a road by the Road Commission, why would we go to this expense? Taxes have been paid on this land since 1932 — there is no mention of a road easement on our legal description.

No one is immune from this injustice. No survey or title insurance can protect you — we had both.

The Road Commission for Oakland County and its legal representative, Nancy Slutsky, hold the winning hand. If they want your land so their vehicles do not have to back up when servicing a 160-foot road that happens to dead-end on our driveway, they grab it.

This dead-end street has all of three houses on it. It doesn't even matter that the same vehicles are already backing up 560 feet on the adjoining Clinton Street when they grade or snowplow Clinton Street.

It would really raise a stink to unlawfully take the property of 14 legal owners of houses on Clinton Street, so the Road Commission for Oakland County vehicles wouldn't have to back up.

So take care. Keep the Road Commission for Oakland County equipment off your land, or you'll lose it and still pay taxes on property you don't own.

Goyette's should get designation

Open letter to the Clarkston Village Council:

Our family has really enjoyed in this beautiful Clarkston area for the past 34 years.

We have always felt that we had the best of everything here. Friends, neighbors, schools, shops, doctors and, though the list is endless, I must add one more plus: good funeral directors for that final time.

But we are seeing something kind of ugly going on now, and it is something that should never have happened. We are referring to the controversy over Goyette's recent request for the right to enlarge their funeral home and parking lot.

It was not an unreasonable request in sense of the word, and the expansion is, actually, long overdue.

Since it only concerns their own property and their neighbors are all agreeable to the change, it's hard to understand how there could be a valid reason to vote against this request.

If, as stated, there was a genuine fear that the property might be converted into something undesirable at some future date, it would have been more than simple to grant the request with the added stipulation that it would have to remain a funeral home forever or revert back to a home with an upstairs apartment. What could be easier?

Or is there another reason? I'm afraid that our family is among the ever-growing number of people who feel that our businessmen (and women) do not get much help and encouragement here.

There is a lot of concern that the day is fast approaching when Main Street will be lined with offices only. A pretty but uninteresting place. A "pass-through" town. A town that people pass through on their way to stop and shop somewhere else. How can you dream of becoming a city when there might not be anything left to be a city of?

A favorable business climate should not be sacrificed for the sake of preserving the looks of the town because it has been successfully proven over the years that it is altogether possible to preserve both beauty and business.

Clarkston has always been a community proud of its integrity, its good honest business people and its beautiful homes; and it's always kept everything in very good condition long before the historical society was formed to tell us how to do it.

And don't forget, everything was carefully maintained through the years by people who generally had less money to spend on such things as people do now.

Goyette's Funeral Home has certainly been well kept up. It's had a lot of TLC and is an equal to any of the other lovely homes in the village. No need to fear that Harold and Norma will ever do anything to destroy the image of our town.

I sincerely doubt if you could convince very many people that Goyette's ever wanted or expected preferential treatment. Preferential treatment is what they've always given to this community, making things better for everyone and never asking anything for themselves.

I'm sure that if everyone, living and dead, could come forward now and tell us about the kindness and concern they've experienced at their time of need, it would make a great crowd, and they certainly would vote yes for Goyette's right to expand their business and to be designated as a funeral home.

But the real issue here is not what Goyette's have done for others, but the unfairness that has been done to them.

I know I'm among many, many, many who would like to see this unfair situation turned around and to see the beautiful spirit of right action take place, not begrudgingly but because we are a community that truly cares for one another and can see and do what's right.

Candid approach

The upcoming election for the two open school board seats is as critical to the future of Clarkston schools as any millage or bond issue we have faced.

The future of Clarkston schools most certainly is influenced by the type of leadership we get from our board of education.

While, the composition of the board has changed radically in the past couple years, the two positions that have been recently vacated require filling by the best people available.

Bob Wyatt, a candidate for the four-year position, has the experience and the decisiveness with which to meet the challenges that face our schools, and he has the concern for our Clarkston students to make sure that his actions are in the best interest of all our students both now and in the years to come.

As an active leader in the study to improve and expand our schools recently, Bob spent many long hours providing vital information to the board and the community and helped design a plan on which the requirements for the bond issue was based.

Even though the program was denied, the district will soon need the dollars to build a much needed new high school and elementary school.

The pressure of increasing development and the growing number of students that development promises, has not subsided. Our school board needs people who understand and will continue to address the issue of our inadequate and aging facilities.

As the father of two children in the Clarkston schools, Bob has a strong parental concern for all our students.

He knows the difficulty of having students in classrooms that are not equipped with the items that are needed for the effective hands-on education that our children need to prepare them for the high-tech. future.

He also knows of the costs that these types of programs mean to the taxpayers and will fight to bring Clarkston these improvements as cost-effectively as possible.

Fiscal accountability is something with which Bob deals on a day-to-day basis in his role as a facilities manager. His work in the recent letter-writing campaign proves his effort to make Lansing aware of our difficulties so that our legislators can better appreciate and act to help ease plight of Clarkston and communities like us.

His candid approach to problems and his effort to get them solved along with his willingness to listen to and work with all the people of the district make him the logical choice on Monday.

Join me and concerned others. Vote Monday, June 11. Vote Bob Wyatt to your Clarkston Board of Education.

Clif Higdon

Effective voice

I am writing to encourage the citizens of Clarkston to vote for Bob Wyatt for the four-year term for school board. The children in Clarkston need someone of Bob's skills and leadership to be an effective voice for them on the school board.

Bob is acutely aware of the facilities needs of this district, since he served as co-chair of the Facilities Review Committee. His professional expertise as a licensed, professional engineer will enable him to save the Clarkston school district time, energy and money when it finally faces up to the fact that it has to do something about outdated, undermaintained and severely overcrowded facilities.

Bob's efforts on behalf of his church during their recent building addition were invaluable for us in getting the most value for our money. Don't we want this for Clarkston?

Bob is a proven leader who is not afraid to speak out and let the community know what is going on in the school system.

He was able to effectively lead a group of people who opposed the building of a hazardous waste facility less than 5 miles from Clarkston and convinced the State of Michigan to deny a permit for its development.

He is willing and able to apply what he learned from that experience to put pressure on the state to make K-12 education a priority.

Join me in voting for a man who will make his voice heard on many levels — for our kids, for the parents and for the taxpayers.

Vote for Bob Wyatt for school board on June 11.

CHS seniors suspects in May 18 I-75 rock-throwing incident

Two Clarkston High School seniors, on the verge of graduation, are in hot water due to an alleged rock-throwing spree on May 18.

Richard S. Treckman, 18, is facing multiple charges for allegedly damaging three vehicles during a rock-throwing spree on I-75, just south of M-15. He was arraigned May 29 in Independence Township's 52nd District Court and charged with three counts of conspiracy and malicious destruction of personal property over $100. He is scheduled to undergo a preliminary exam on Friday, June 8.

The identity of the other suspect, an 18-year-old student, is being withheld until his arraignment on Thursday, June 7.

According to Detective Steve Parker of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, both men admitted to drinking alcohol, prior to the rock-throwing incident, at a nearby party.

Police reports indicate that one of the three vehicles damaged by rocks was driven by Oakland County Prosecutor Richard Thompson, who resides in Independence Township.

Food preservation questions answered

You say your jam won't jell? Or the canning jars you just finished after hours of work, failed to seal? You're upset, confused and don't know what to do?

Worry no more about those perplexing food preservation questions. Ask an expert by calling the Oakland County Food and Nutrition Hotline, or better yet bring your questions with you when you shop at either of the two Oakland Farmers' Markets this summer. The Royal Oak Market is at 316 E. 11 Mile Road, Royal Oak, and the Pontiac Market is on Pontiac Lake Road, west of Telegraph, Waterford Township.

Sylvia Treiman, home economist in charge of the Food Hotline, will be visiting the Oakland Farmers' Markets this summer. She will be on hand to answer special food preservation inquiries and provide up-to-date canning information as specified by the United States Department of Agriculture.

In case you miss Sylvia at the market, don't forget you can still have your questions answered easily by just calling the Food and Nutrition Hotline, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., 858-0904. A trained intern will also be on hand all summer.

Take caution with summer sandwiches

Sandwiches that sit in a warm locker or on the seat of a warm car for hours are a possible breeding ground for food poisoning, says S. Treiman, home economist of the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service.

No food should be left out unrefrigerated for more than four hours, and even two hours in a warm spot may be too long for some sandwich fillings.

Fillings especially vulnerable to producing food poisoning include dense, moist, protein-rich foods such as tuna salad, chicken salad or egg salad.

Contrary to popular opinion, it isn't the mayonnaise that is the villain. It is the combination of protein-rich foods that is the problem.

Following are suggestions for safe summer sandwiches:

- Pre-freeze sandwiches ahead of time with fillings of cooked meat or poultry. Put in lunch solidly frozen; they will be ready to eat by lunch time.

- Pre-freeze packaged boxed lunch drinks, and pack close to sandwiches to keep them fresh. They will be slushy and cold in time for lunch.

- Avoid sandwich fillings using eggs and mayonnaise or salad dressings.

- Do not freeze sandwiches with mayonnaise: they will separate and become mushy and oily.

- Use an insulated lunch box whenever possible rather than brown bags.

- Provide an ice gel package (purchased or home-made) whenever possible.

- Freeze anything that is freezable to use as a cold source, even paper containers of milk, yogurt or pudding.

For more information on food and nutrition, food safety or other information, call the Food and Nutrition Hotline at 858-0904, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

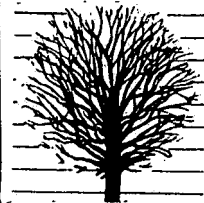

Fighting trash

In an attempt to "help put litter in its place," the Clarkston Village Council voted 5-0 to buy three more trash cans for use on Main Street. Trustee Eric Haven was absent for the May 29 meeting.

The receptacles will take about four to six weeks before they'll be in place on the streets, said village Manager Artemus Pappas.

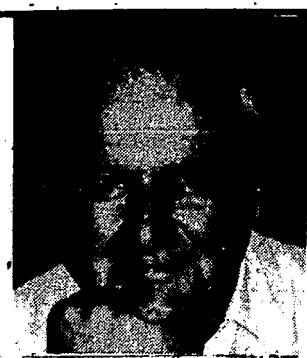

Orders for the trash can are placed through Jennings, Inc., Lake Orion, at a cost of $600 a piece.

Citizens for Orderly Growth

Politics of growth heating up

Doug Carlson

The Detroit Free Press has a writer by the name of John Gallagher who writes on the subject of development.

In the April 23 edition of that paper, he wrote an article entitled: "Strip Malls and Gridlock Making Monomorphic Messes of Suburbs."

In that column, Mr. Gallagher said that one of Detroit's prominent architects said privately something that people in less sensitive jobs have said publicly. The two of them were discussing urban sprawl, and one might have expected the architect to show sympathy for the sprawlers, since his firm makes a lot of money from suburban growth.

Instead, he said that "Developers are destroying the suburbs."

In fact, the town where he lives in Oakland County was once a distinct community. People there knew each other, and the pace of life was more tranquil.

Today, like so many other communities in metro Detroit, it's nothing but bedrooms, strip malls and gridlock.

Several weeks ago, the topic was sprawl because of the far-seeing report by the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments or SEMCOG. Planners for SEMCOG released their population projections for metro Detroit. It was their forecast of where we'll be living by the year 2010. That sounds like "forever," but it's only 20 years away.

The SEMCOG report was a vision of a throwaway society. Entire communities at the core — Detroit, the Grosse Pointes, Hamtramck, Highland Park — will lose population. Communities in the far north and northwest suburbs will grow astonishingly fast. Novi will double in size, so will several of the rural townships in Livingston County.

At this point, I'd like to add that Brandon and Springfield townships were projected to grow by 75 percent or more. Independence Township did not show a projected increase in the chart I saw, but I think it's safe to say we'd be in the same category.

Meanwhile, our overall population will stay about where it is today, at just fewer than 5 million people. So the growth over the next 20 years will represent a large-scale game of musical chairs.

But as Mr. Gallagher points out, the game is costly. We, as a society, will have to spend billions of dollars to pay for roads, sewers, schools, police and fire protection for the "new communities."

And there'll be an additional toll on energy resources, as we burn fuels of all kinds building and operating these communities.

These vast expenditures will represent, in effect, a subsidy to our development and building trades.

These costs aside, says Mr. Gallagher, other questions beg for answers. He said he wouldn't attempt to equate suburban sprawl with the destruction of the rain forest, but isn't the mentality the same? Aren't we saying that we can use up and discard entire older communities?

The SEMCOG planners were far from jubilant over their own projections. Such a regional future "does not look acceptable to us," said John Amberger, SEMCOG's executive director.

Nor does this future look acceptable to the communities on the losing end — Detroit, etc. Governments hand out dollars to the biggest boomers, and Detroit and the others don't need dwindling support added to their other woes.

Such communities are likely to join with SEMCOG in arguing for tighter regional planning. Society, they'll say, ought to use the infrastructure in place rather than splurging on the new.

So at the very least, we can expect the politics of growth to heat up. Developers are a powerful, savvy group, and they have not sat idle while the slow-growth lobby coalesces. Already, bitter feuds have marked township elections in some communities.

Brace for more, says Mr. Gallagher. Between 1990 and 2010, metro Detroit will be redefining itself. Where and how and and who decides, all will be questions moving to the top of the agenda. Stay tuned.

WORLD LEADER IN RELOCATION

QUESTION: I'm house-hunting and get confused when I try to remember the details of each one. Any advice?

ANSWER: Once your Realtor takes you house-hunting, he or she will probably show you several. Therefore, it's important to take notes on what you have seen or you may forget which home is where, how big it is, what shape it's in, and how much it costs.

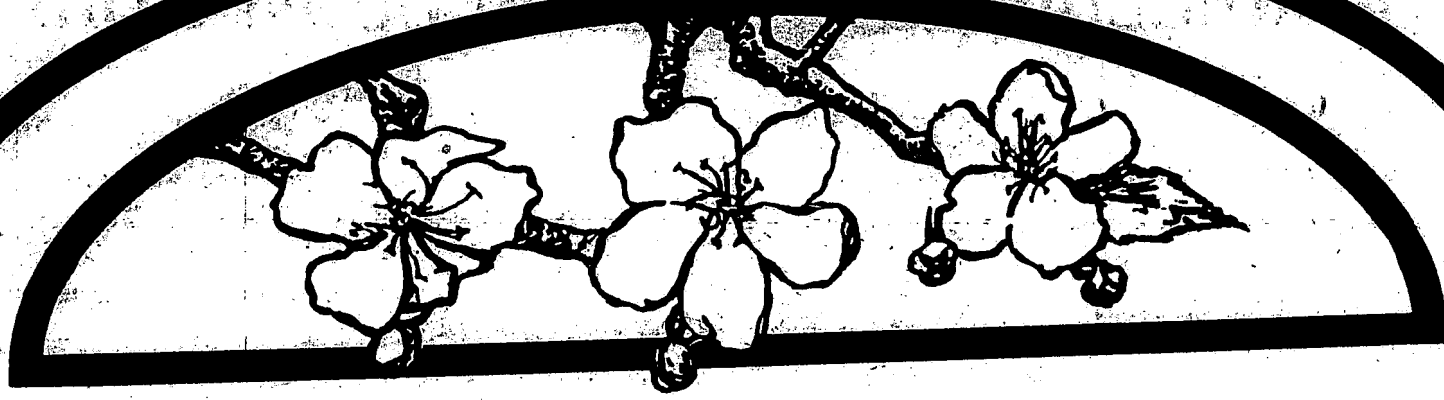

Your Realtor can provide you with a checklist to make this task easier. This way, you can instantly recall the location, price, construction, number of rooms, heat, fuel, taxes, and financial requirements. If you take a Polaroid picture of the house to go with the notes - so much the better.

IT'S IMPORTANT TO KEEP NOTES when househunting. It will save frustration when you compare one against the other.

Clarkston students get academic boost from club

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

To boost is to help one to rise in the world, according to dictionary definitions.

In schools, this concept shows up in booster clubs of all shapes and sizes, supporting students in drama, music and band.

Two years ago, a number of parents wondered whether academics could benefit in the same way.

They could, and they have, says Clarkston High School Principal Bob Burek.

"I'm amazed at how much positive feedback we've received from kids and parents," Burek says. "Parents are ecstatic that their kids are receiving academic recognition. It's had a positive impact on student achievement."

Perhaps the booster club's biggest impact on student achievement was the creation of the improvement honor roll.

Unlike most honor rolls that recognize outstanding students, this one honors improvement, Burek explains.

"Traditionally, all the kids with A's and B's make the academic honor roll, and it's listed," Burek says. "The difference is, some kids never get on the honor roll — they're just not great students."

The academic boosters feel that achievement and improvement is worth noting — perhaps even more important than recognizing top students, Burek says.

As a result, students who have improved a full grade point — whether from E's, D's or C's — are invited to a special recognition banquet with their parents.

A certificate is awarded, and students hear from specially-selected speakers.

During the last banquet, for instance, students listened to a speech from the West Bloomfield superintendent of schools.

He passed around his transcript, Burek related, and students were shocked.

"Here's a guy with his (doctorate)," Burek says, and he got C's and D's."

Another Academic Booster-sponsored activity is the annual college forum.

Former Clarkston students are invited back to CHS

"Parents are ecstatic that their kids are receiving academic recognition. It's had a positive impact on student achievement."

Territo reflects on poetry award

Jimmy Territo, a fifth-grader at Bailey Lake Elementary, received recognition at the Reflections Award Ceremony May 20 for a poem he wrote.

Jimmy received a third-place award for "Where the Sky Ends" during the 72nd Annual Parent Teacher Association Convention at the Amway Grand Hotel, Grand Rapids.

This is the third time he has been chosen as a state finalist, but this is the first year Jimmy has attended the ceremony to receive the award.

He resides with his parents, Joseph and Beverly Territo of Allen Road, Independence Township. When he's not writing poems and short stories, Jimmy likes writing letters to his Russian pen pal in Kiev and enjoys performing comedy routines in his school talent shows.

Following is his award-winning poem:

Where the Sky Ends

Jimmy Territo

The sky is endless.

Where could its boundaries be?

It's like imagination, going on infinitely and being totally free.

It's been around forever, giving breath of life and water and sunlight.

You are as close to the sky with your feet on the ground as you are when you fly in the clouds, for the sky is everywhere, always challenging man.

Its shapeless presence has a changing personality.

It can be gray and cloudy.

It can be angry, thundering and whirling.

It can be sunny, pleasant and colorful.

It can sometimes be in a real hurry and knock you off your feet.

But where could it be going?

It holds the universe.

JIMMY TERRITO is an aspiring young poet.

for a day of interaction with students, Burek explains.

"They share with students — from a student's perspective — what it's like to go to college from an academic and social perspective," he adds.

Next year, the Academic Boosters hopes to expand it's activities to create an honors assembly for underclassmen.

"We're looking for people to expand and enlarge our activities," Burek says. "We welcome any suggestions, ideas and involvement."

For more information call the high school at 625-0900.

Developers eye 300 acres for golf course

The owner of a 300-acre parcel off Holcomb Road in Springfield and Independence townships is considering developing the plot as a golf course.

Owner James O'Neill, a Clarkston pediatrician, said he's been approached by developers of several projects — but nothing definite has come from the discussions.

"Yes, I've been in contact with them (golf course developers)," O'Neill said. "We've also talked to a lot of different people concerning the property, but its future is still under consideration at this time."

Building department relocates — about 90 feet

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

If you happen to be going to the building and planning department in Independence Township anytime soon, you'll have to take a slight detour. The office has moved from the cramped quarters atop the township annex to the comfortable confines of the township hall's third floor. According to township building department Director Beverly McElmeel, the change of location resulted from cramped space.

"It was becoming an impossible situation in the annex's office. We were working two feet from one another with no room for additional filing cabinets or visitor seating," McElmeel explained. "We had to utilize every inch of available floor space."

However, space is no longer a problem for the building and planning department's personnel. At a refurbishing cost of $8,000, the two departments presently occupy an area with 1,000 more square feet than that of the previous office. The new location is equipped with a conference room, a print review room and a planning and development area.

Each employee is also situated with his or her own cubicle in which to work. McElmeel said an elevator could be installed in the building within two years — if their locale isn't affected by the proposed the Village of Clarkston's cityhood, that is.

Township offices are located within village boundaries, and if cityhood becomes a reality, township officials may want to move the office out of the village-city and into the township.

The renovation of the offices was carried out by building inspectors Mike White and Leon Genry, who decided to take the chore on themselves after the first two bids from outside contractors eclipsed the $15,000 mark.

Originally, the top floor of the township hall was used by the parks and recreation department. It has also served as temporary office space for the township auditors.

The vacated area in the annex will serve as a lunch room and additional space for the assessing department. McElmeel said she is delighted with the move, and the spaciousness of her present accommodations are a little overwhelming.

"The spaciousness gives a person a feeling of comfort and ease," McElmeel said. "It's been an adjustment for everyone going from a sardine can, so to speak, to such a large environment. We feel very fortunate being here."

Cost varies for freedom — of information, that is

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

What's the cost of freedom? When it comes to obtaining documented information through the Freedom of Information Act, the price could vary.

Clarkston resident C.L. Weber recently came to The Clarkston News office because he felt that he had been unjustly overcharged for information supplied by Independence Township. He was angered at the cost and puzzled about how the amount was deciphered.

The Freedom of Information Act regulates and sets requirements for the disclosure of public records by all "public bodies" in the state.

Under law, Michigan's Freedom of Information Act allows public bodies to charge for public records. The charges are limited to the "actual incremental cost of duplication including labor."

Copying fees must be based on the "lowest-paid, full-time permanent clerical employee" and the "most economical means" for making the copies. The act requires public bodies to "establish and publish procedures and guidelines to implement this section."

Weber, had requested that the clerk's office provide him with information regarding the 10 automobiles leased or owned by the township. According to Weber, township officials were hesitant about distributing such information. Finally, the township contacted him about obtaining documentation but informed him that the fee would be $50.

Weber felt he was overcharged.

"I'd be willing to pay for the paper that the information was printed onto, but documentation like this (concerning the autos) should be immediately available," he said. "If it takes that much digging to find this information then they probably don't have a grasp on the situation."

According to township Supervisor Frank Ronk and township Clerk Joan McCrary, Independence Township follows the act's guidelines.

"We handle each request differently," McCrary said. "Sometimes it's just a simple photo copy request, but if the request involves some searching we'll charge for the lowest-paid employee's time and the cost per duplication."

"When it comes to the distribution of information, we do exactly what the act calls for," added Ronk.

SCOUTS FROM Troop 189, Calvary Lutheran Church, are about to set off a rocket during their first annual model rocket contest on May 29. From left are Kevin Nyberg, Rich Warchuck and Anthony Bailey. Winners in the contest were judged on how close they could land to a tarpaulin, appearance of the rocket and stability of flight.

Coug's top Wolverines

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Sashabaw's ninth-grade baseball team did a complete turnaround this spring, finishing 10-4. Last year the Cougars were 4-10.

Chris Combs was selected the team's most valuable player. The catcher hit .548 with 19 RBI, four doubles, a triple and one home run.

Jeff Marshall was chosen as most improved player. In the last two weeks of the season, Marshall pitched his way to a 3-1 record, with 24 strikeouts in 20 innings.

The coaches' award was given to second baseman Matt Smith for his hustle and steady play. Smith batted .364 with 6 RBI and 10 stolen bases.

Matt Bartley finished the year batting .556 with seven doubles and 11 RBI. Craig Ginter hit at a .419 clip with 10 RBI. Others who batted .300 were Tom Doyon (.342 with 14 steals), Aaron Phillips (.333 with 10 RBI), Jerry Anderson (.333) and Brent Hummel (.333). Steve Cahoon had 17 stolen bases.

Besides Marshall, Dan Scheib was 2-0 on the mound, with 10 strikeouts and a 1.26 ERA. Mike Wood finished 2-0 with 17 strikeouts and a 6.94 ERA.

"We had so much talent on this year's team, that I felt confident using everyone (17 players)," said Sashabaw coach Dave Johnson. "Kurt Richardson's JV team should be loaded next year with the combined Sashabaw and Clarkston 10th graders."

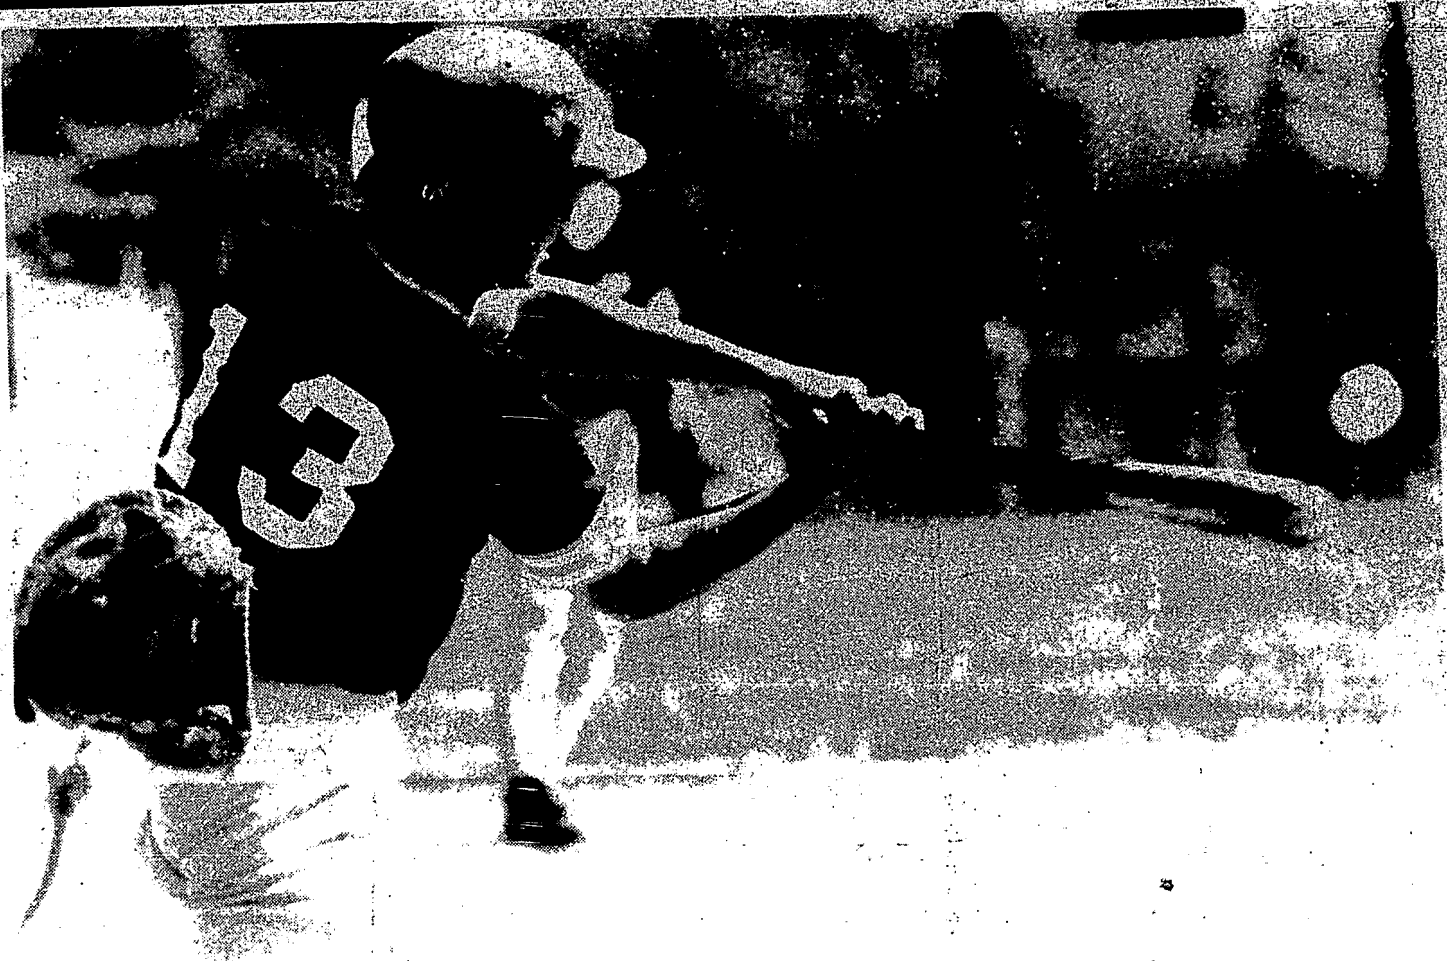

Mason 5, Sashabaw 4
(Game 1, May 31 at Mason)

The Cougars jumped ahead 4-0 in the first inning but Mason came back for a 5-4 win.

Mason tied the game in the second inning on two walks, two hits and an error. It scored the go-ahead run in the third on a double and a single.

Sashabaw almost tied the game in the last inning but Smith was cut down at the plate on a perfect throw by the Mason second baseman.

The Cougars scored their runs in the first when Cahoon made it safe on an error and then stole second. Doyon and Smith walked. Combs' fly ball to center was dropped, scoring Cahoon. Bartley's sacrifice fly scored Doyon. Ginter then singled in Smith and Steve Bennett (running for Combs).

SASHABAW leftfielder Brent Hummel connects during the Cougars' 12-1 win over arch-rival Clarkston. Sashabaw finished the year 10-4.

Smith, Ginter and Hummel each had one hit for the Cougars.

Dave Brazel, 1-1, started and took the loss. Scheib pitched the last 2 2/3 innings in relief.

Sashabaw 9, Mason 6
(Game 2, May 31 at Mason)

Sashabaw came back to earn a split in the doubleheader. The Cougars erupted for eight runs in the second and then held on for the win.

Mason scored once in the first on three singles.

Bartley started the 8-run surge with a double. Jayson Weatherington drove Bartley home with a triple and then Scheib singled in Weatherington. Chris Simko singled and Vicne Tortonesi walked to load the bases. A Bennett single drove in two runs, Marshall was safe on an error, bringing in a run and Bartley double home two more. Brazel walked and stole second and then Bartley later scored the eighth run after the Mason catcher threw to second base.

Mason closed the gap to 8-6 by scoring five runs in the third on a single and six walks.

But Mason wouldn't score again and the Cougars scored one more in the fourth when Marshall singled, reached third on two wild pitches and then scored on Bartley's sacrifice fly.

Wood picked up the win and was relieved by Phillips and Marshall. Marshall struck out the side in the last inning.

Bartley had two hits while Bennett, Combs, Weatherington, Scheib, Simko and Tortonesi each had one.

Sashabaw 12, Clarkston 1
(May 30 at Clarkston)

The Cougars bombed arch-rival Clarkston, 12-1.

Marshall pitched a 1-hitter, striking out seven and walking only one.

"Last year Clarkston completely dominated Sashabaw," said Cougar coach Johnson, whose team also stopped the Wolverines in an earlier game this season. "It goes in cycles. This time it was our turn."

For the second straight game, Sashabaw scored eight runs in the second inning.

The Cougars scored once in the first when Doyon reached first on an error, took second on another error, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on Smith's sacrifice fly.

The second inning started with Phillips reaching first on an error, Ginter and Bartley singled to load the bases. Hummel walked to force in a run and then Anderson cleared the bases with a triple. Cahoon singled home Anderson, Doyon reached first on an error, and Cahoon scored on a groundout by Combs. Ginter then made it safely on an error, which brought in two more runs.

The Cougars made it 12-0 in the third when Cahoon, Doyon and Smith all scored.

The Wolverines avoided a shutout in the fourth when Brian Gruber walked, took second on a wild pitch and then scored on a Cougar error. Gruber's single in the first inning was the lone Wolverine hit.

Bartley had two hits for the Cougars, and Cahoon, Doyon, Smith, Ginter and Anderson each had one.

Jeff Galley started and took the loss for the Wolverines. Eric Carlson pitched shutout baseball the last two innings.

School is already over for Clarkston seniors and nearly over for all K-11 classes. So, before everyone has left the classrooms for the carefree days of sun and fun, I thought it would be appropriate to have a school-year-ending test for all Sports 101 readers.

The test is written in the same fashion as the one a few months ago: a multiple choice test with no exact right or wrong answers.

Since the school year is nearly done and all of those thick Sports 101 textbooks will be turned in, there will be no homework assigned after the test (except, make sure you have a fun and safe summer).

Clarkston counts on AD, not the weather

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

When a Clarkston High School sports event is canceled because of poor weather, the competitive action may be over for the athletes, but it is just starting for Athletic Director Paul Tungate.

"Anytime a home game is canceled, I usually make about 12 phone calls," said Tungate.

Those phone calls to let others know that the game is canceled are made to coaches, officials, ground crews, school buildings, secretaries, bus garages and the media.

Tungate made plenty of phone calls this spring.

"Overall, it was the coldest and windiest of any spring," said Tungate, who has been the athletic director for the past 12 of his 24 years at the school.

Games had to be rescheduled for about six to eight playing dates. Tungate

"Overall, it was the coldest and windiest of any spring."

Paul Tungate

said the weather in spring is usually worse than the fall. And except for a few rare instances of heavy snow or ice, games are hardly ever canceled during the winter.

Along with softball and baseball fields and tennis courts being too wet to play on, temperatures also affect whether a game will be played. Tungate said baseball softball and tennis matches will be played if the temperature is above 40 degrees.

Track and soccer, however, will still compete unless it falls below 30 degrees or there is thunder and lightning.

Either Tungate or a coach will inspect a field when needed before a home game. The field conditions and weather are taken into consideration shortly before the visiting team would leave on a bus. If a game is canceled, Tungate then contacts the visitors.

Of course, weather often has its own way of changing. Sometimes a game will be canceled and then a few hours later the day turns out to be gorgeous.

"Sometimes, you just say 'oops,'" admits Tungate.

Tungate says he doesn't hear too many complaints from athletes about canceled games. If anything, he might hear some complaints about why a team is playing in cold weather.

The athletic director says Greater Oakland Activities League games "take precedence" over non-league games when it comes to trying every possible means to get a game played. Unlike the non-league games, the GOAL contests have an effect on the league standings.

Tungate listens to the weather on the radio while at school and watches it religiously at home.

"I watch the weather channel every night during the spring," said Tungate.

When summer arrives, Tungate will take pleasure in switching the channel.

SUSAN McKoin recently was declared an Academic All-Stater by the Basketball Coaches Association of Michigan. To earn the award, a player must have at least a 3.5 grade point average and be chosen on a wire service all-state team. McKoin has a 3.8 grade point average and was selected last fall as honorable mention all-state by the Associated Press. The 6-foot Clarkston senior forward was all-league and all-county the past two years. She averaged about 17 points in the fall. McKoin will attend the University of Michigan. "Susan is not only an excellent basketball player but an excellent student," said Varsity Coach Larry Mahrie. "She's truly a student-athlete and is going to be successful no matter what she decides to go into."

Kettering 13, Clarkston 8

Kettering erupted for eight runs in the sixth inning to stop the Wolves.

"We were up by three runs in the fifth, but couldn't hold on," said Clarkston Coach Roy Warner.

The Wolves scored twice in the top of the second but the Captains tied it in the bottom of the inning.

Clarkston went ahead with three in the third but Kettering again tied it in the fourth.

The Wolves scored three in the fifth for an 8-5 lead, but the 8-run sixth by the Captains put the game out of reach. The 8-run inning was highlighted by a grand slam.

Master pitched the first 5 1/3 innings and took the loss, allowing 11 hits, 11 runs, four walks and struck out four. Chris Wasilk pitched the last two-thirds of an inning, giving up one hit, two runs and one walk.

Todd McLaughlin, Jenkinson, Liford and Fife each had two hits.

Kettering 5, Clarkston 0

(Game two, May 30 at Kettering)

Corey Olsen pitched all the way and took the loss, allowing eight hits, five runs, two walks and struck out three.

Brandon 7, Clarkston 2

(May 29 at Brandon)

Clarkston led 2-0 but Brandon scored seven straight times for a 7-2 win.

The Wolves scored twice in the fourth when Jenkinson doubled, Keilitz and Bennett walked and then Fife's single drove in two.

Brandon, which out-hit Clarkston 8-5, ignited for six in its fourth and added one more in the fifth. The Wolves helped the host team by making four errors.

Fife started and pitched three innings, allowing one hit no runs, one walk and struck out three. Keilitz suffered the loss in relief, giving up seven hits, seven runs, three walks and struck out two.

Wasilk and Fife both had two hits and Chad Hetherington had one.

Lake Orion 9, Clarkston 6

(May 25 at Clarkston)

The Wolves out-hit Lake Orion 11-10, but four Clarkston errors helped the visitors to a 9-6 win.

Clarkston tied the game at 1-1 in the first when Liford drove in McLaughlin.

But the Dragons scored two in the second and three in the third for a 6-1 bulge.

Clarkston scored once in the third and then one more in the fourth when Mike Stanton singled, and Jenkinson, Liford and Master walked.

But the Dragons increased their lead to 9-3 by scoring three in the sixth. The Wolves scored once in the bottom of the sixth when Jenkinson singled and Liford tripled him home.

Clarkston closed out the scoring with two in the seventh. Mike Brueck walked, Fife doubled and Stanton doubled in both runners.

Liford had three hits and Stanton and Jenkinson both had two.

Keilitz started and took the loss, giving up six hits, six runs, one walk and striking out two in three innings of work. Master pitched three innings, allowing three hits, three runs, two walks and struck out three. Olsen hurled the last inning, giving up one hit and no runs.

JV touches all the bases to top the GOAL

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston's JV baseball team won its last three games to finish the season with a 16-4 record, tops in the Greater Oakland Activities League.

Clarkston bombed Pontiac Northern, 8-1, and 18-0, and then topped Lahser, 12-6.

Matt Seitz led all Wolf batters this season, batting .459 with 20 stolen bases. Mark White hit .448 and Matt Underwood batted .340 with 24 RBI.

In pitching, Seitz was 4-2 with an 0.81 ERA. Kevin Mull was 3-1, Craig Garnett 3-0 and Jeremy Burke 3-1.

Clarkston 8, Pontiac Northern 1 (May 21 at Pontiac Northern)

Clarkston pitcher Mike Corcoran's bid for a no-hitter and shutout ended in the last inning, but the Wolves still finished with an easy 8-1 win over Pontiac Northern.

A seventh-inning walk and double scored Pontiac's only run of the game.

In addition to his one-hit performance, Corcoran, 1-0, walked five and struck out six.

Clarkston opened the game with one run in the first when Seitz singled, stole second and third, and scored on Jeremy Burke's sacrifice fly to right.

The Wolves scored a pair in the second on singles by Jon Wyniemko, White and Dave Smith.

In the third, Underwood singled, Wyniemko was safe on an error and White singled in Underwood.

Doubles by Underwood and White brought in another run in the fifth.

Clarkston finished its scoring with three in the sixth. Burke walked, Mull singled, Underwood was safe on an error, Bryan Hambell walked and White walked.

White went 3-for-3 at the plate, driving in four runs. Underwood had two hits and Seitz had one.

Clarkston 18, Pontiac Northern 0 (May 21 at Pontiac Northern)

Craig Garnett, 3-0, pitched a 2-hitter and the Wolves cracked 11 hits to crush Pontiac Northern, 18-0.

A 10-run third inning spelled doom for the Huskies.

The Wolves scored four times in the first when Seitz walked, White singled, Burke walked, Underwood was safe on an error, scoring a run, Wyniemko walked home a run and Ryan walked home another one.

Clarkston scored once in the third when Seitz singled, White and Burke walked, and Underwood drove Seitz home on a sacrifice fly.

The big 10-run inning started when Eric Ryan reached first on an error, Garnett singled, and then Dave Hernandez singled home Ryan. Sean Halleran was safe on an error, White singled home two runs and Burke singled home another. Underwood singled, Ryan doubled in two, Garnett walked, Hernandez singled home two and Halleran and Seitz walked.

In the fifth, Garnett was safe on an error, Hernandez singled, Halleran walked, Mark Peterson singled home Garnett, Burke and Underwood walked and Hambell singled in a run.

Hernandez was 3-for-3, Underwood had one hit and five RBI and White had two hits. Seitz, Peterson, Burke, Ryan and Garnett each had one hit.

Clarkston 12, Lahser 6 (May 24 at Clarkston)

A 7-run first inning for Clarkston paved the way to a 12-6 season-ending victory over Lahser.

Lahser jumped ahead 2-0 in the top of the first after hitting four singles.

But the Wolves answered with seven. Seitz singled and stole second, Smith walked and Underwood drove both of them home. White singled, Mull, Wyniemko and Jason Jarvis walked, Nick Shires singled home two and Seitz singled in another.

Lahser trimmed the lead to 7-4 in the top of the second on a single, a Clarkston error and a fielder's choice.

But Clarkston again answered back, this time with two in the second. Smith doubled, Burke singled in Smith, Underwood singled and Burke scored on a grounder.

The Wolves scored once in the fourth when Underwood and Mull walked, Wyniemko was safe on a fielder's choice and Jarvis' single drove in the run.

Lahser made it 10-6 in the sixth on a pair of singles and walks and a Clarkston error.

Clarkston again was equal to the task, scoring two in the bottom of the inning. Hernandez was safe on an error, Peterson and Ryan walked, and Hambell was safe on an error, scoring two.

Mull, 3-1, started and picked up the victory. He went 5 2/3 innings, allowing 10 hits, six runs, three walks and struck out seven. Seitz relieved, striking out one of four batters he faced.

Hug signifies what park can be

The second hug around Tiger Stadium, sponsored by the Tiger Stadium Fan Club, will take place June 10 at noon, before the 1:35 p.m. game between the Detroit Tigers and Seattle Mariners.

"A hug signifies affection and protection," said stadium fan club co-founder Frank Rashid. "But this hug celebrates not only what the ballpark has been but what it can be, with the implementation of the Cochrane Plan."

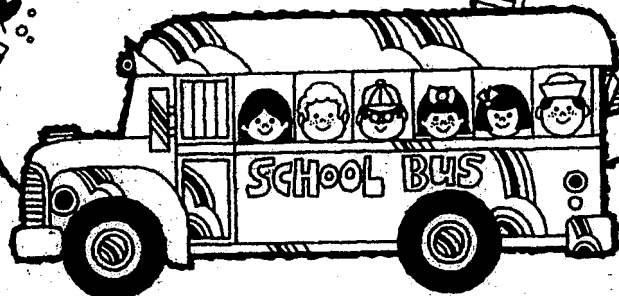

The Cochrane Plan, developed by architects John and Judy Davids, is a $26.1 million plan to renovate Tiger Stadium, enlarging concessions, rest rooms, administrative and storage areas, clubhouses and will add luxury suites while removing many of the upper-deck posts. In addition, the construction of a 400-patron restaurant and Hall of Fame museum is also part of the plan.

So far, the Detroit Tigers Baseball Club has refused to look at the Cochrane Plan and has stated it is looking for a new site to build a stadium.

Before the hug begins, entertainment will be provided by the band See Dick Run starting 11 a.m. at the St. Peter's parking lot, located directly across from Michigan and Trumbull Avenues near the stadium.

Charles L. Weber

Donald C. Brockman

Donald C. Brockman, 48, of 4174 Meyers, Independence Township, has lived in the area for 18 years. He is vice president of operations for Ellis Naeyaert Genheimer Associates (ENGA), Inc., an architectural and engineering firm.

Brockman holds a bachelor's degree in industrial engineering from the General Motors Institute, Flint.

Under background, he lists the following: he has been employed by ENGA for 21 years, the last 10 as vice president. His responsibilities include operations and financial management.

He is also active in the Engineering Society of Detroit as a member of the civic affairs, credentials (past chairman of both) construction (chairman elect) and development fund committees.

Brockman and his wife, Mary E. O'Donnell, have two children: Eric, 19, attends Oakland Community College, and Amy, 18, graduates from Clarkston High School this year and will attend Grand Valley State University, Allendale, in the fall.

Q. How do you feel about current methods of school funding, and what recommendations, if any, would you make to improve them?

"The current methods do not provide equity among the various school districts, nor are taxpayers treated equitably.

"I personally advocate an increased sales tax, reduced property taxes and a fairer apportionment of available funds.

"All lottery income should also go directly to education as was the intent when the lottery was originally conceived."

Q. What are your recommendations for the facility needs of the school district?

"I do not currently have in-depth knowledge in this area. However, as a minimum, facilities must be upgraded and modernized to today's standards.

"To evaluate the need for new or expanded facilities, I will need a much better understanding of current facility usage and projected future enrollments."

Q. What do you feel are the biggest challenges faced by the new school board?

"There are three major issues.

"First is financial responsibility. It would appear that a very large 'business' is being run by people with little business management experience. I have that experience.

"Second, curriculum must be improved. Much more emphasis must be placed on learning skills — how to learn — not just the teaching of facts and figures. Communication skills, both oral and written, must be given significantly greater attention."

"Third, the school administration must improve its performance. Administration should run the school system, not the board.

"Giving significant salary increases to average performers is contrary to good business management practice."

Durham M. Downs

Durham M. Downs, 43, of 9675 Allen Rd., Independence Township, has lived in the area for seven years. He is a senior administrator at the General Motors Truck & Bus Group.

Downs holds a bachelor's degree in industrial engineering from the General Motors Institute, Flint.

He and his wife, Janice, have four children. Steve, 20, attends Oakland Community College; Dan, 19, attends Oakland Community College; Tony, 16, attends Clarkston High School; and Tom, 14, attends Clarkston Junior High School.

Under background, he writes: "Employment-related experiences include process engineering, engineering and business planning, project planning and engineering management."

"School-related volunteer service includes Clarkston Band Boosters, Blue Ribbon Kids Committee, Facilities Review Advisory Committee, District Communication Committee and attendance at regular and special school board meetings."

Q. How do you feel about current methods of school funding, and what recommendations, if any, would you make to improve them?

"The state school funding formula and funding level have shifted too much of the burden onto the local taxpayer. The state's failure to meet its obligation to fund adequate schools must be corrected."

"The local taxpayers should tell their representative, senator and the governor that equitable school funding coupled with local property tax relief must be provided. Each candidate for public office must be made aware that school funding will be a factor in election outcomes."

"Citizen petition initiatives must be evaluated and supported by the taxpayers. These initiatives will tell the state our expectations for school funding reform."

Q. What are your recommendations for the facility needs of the school district?

"Our school district is in need of additional classroom facilities and modernization of the existing classrooms."

"Based upon student population projections and curriculum needs, specific facility requirements include a new elementary school with additional classrooms at each of the existing elementaries, a new high school, relocation of Clarkston Junior High to the old high school building following modernization, and modernization of Sashabaw Junior High.

"Construction costs should be timed to take advantage of additional tax revenues generated by new residential and commercial construction."

Q. What do you feel are the biggest challenges faced by the new school board?

"The school board must develop a positive working relationship with the administration and the district staff. Mistrust must be put aside and total attention given to the real problems of our schools."

"Our curriculum must be modernized to prepare our children for the jobs of the future. Our facilities must be upgraded to support the modernized curriculum and to house the growing student population."

"School funding reform efforts must be initiated and intensified. The board must initiate systematic efforts to involve the community in the schools and to communicate with the community about school directions and needs."

Sheila Goins Hughes

Sheila Goins Hughes, 45, of 5342 Parview, Independence Township, has lived in the area for 37 years. A 1963 Clarkston High School graduate, she is bookkeeper for the Golden Eagle restaurant in Rochester.

She and her husband, James, have two children. Scott, 12, attends Sashabaw Junior High School, and Jason, 9, attends Pine Knob Elementary School.

Under background, Hughes writes: "I grew up in Clarkston, and I am aware of the problems that our schools will be facing in the 1990s. I have been involved with the school since my oldest son started school in 1981."

Hughes has attended school board meetings since 1986 and has served on the PTO at Pine Knob Elementary as treasurer, president and vice president.

She has also served on the Facilities Review Committee, Committee of Excellence, Equal Partners for Education Committee representing Clarkston in Lansing and the Sashabaw Junior High Parent Advisory Group for two years.

Hughes is a member of the Clarkston Community

Women's Club and the Clarkston Optimist Club.

Q. How do you feel about current methods of school funding, and what recommendations, if any, would you make to improve them?

"We need to change the way our schools are funded — the local property owner pays too much."

"We need reform at our state level, so our state is paying more dollars from the general budget for education, not our local people."

"The dollars need to be more equal between the districts in the state, so all children receive an equal education and equal funding for programs."

"We need to find a plan for our senior citizens that would relieve them of the heavy property tax burden they now share for the education of our children."

Q. What are your recommendations for the facility needs of the district?

"I was a member of the Facilities Review Advisory Committee, and I feel that I have a good insight as to the needs of our school district."

"We will need a new junior high to replace the present Clarkston Junior High building. This building is too small, and due to its age cannot be turned into a proper middle school.

"We must look at our present high school and decide if it will hold the ninth graders of the future. If not, we must find a way to provide space for our students."

"With the growth now going on in Clarkston, Springfield Township and other areas covering the Clarkston school district, we must look at what our elementary schools will be able to house in the next two years. Our elementary buildings are at or near their maximum capacity now."

Q. What do you feel are the biggest challenges faced by the new school board?

"As a school board, our biggest challenge will be finding the funds to provide the proper education for the children of Clarkston. Along with finding the funds, we will have to find the facilities to house them in."

"We will need to encourage our community to become involved with our schools, set up short- and long-range planning for the district and set sound relations with our employees, while being responsible for sound and wise spending at all levels in the district."

"We must be able to work together as a team because we will be working for the children of Clarkston."

Kurt G. Karlstrom

Kurt G. Karlstrom, 36, of 6975 Tappon Ct, Independence Township, has lived in the area for one year. He is purchasing manager for Anderson-Cook, Inc.

Karlstrom holds a bachelor's degree from Youngstown State University, Youngstown, Ohio. He is a former police officer and production control coordinator and moved to the Clarkston area from the Drayton Plains area. The Karlstroms are members of the Clarkston United Methodist Church.

Kurt and his wife, Carol Galbraith, have three children. Ryan, 14, attends Sashabaw Junior High School; Kira, 5, attends Pine Knob Elementary; and Erica, one year old.

Q. How do you feel about current methods of school funding, and what recommendations, if any, would you make to improve them?

"The funding for public schools in the State of Michigan is just not working. Lansing must increase spending on public school by making education its number one issue and make cuts in state programs that don't have the long range benefits that education provides our children."

"In 1990 about 8.2 percent of the state's general fund was appropriated to the school fund. Ten years ago the comparable figure was 18 percent."

"Our legislators must correct the increasing disparity in per-pupil spending between districts."

"Clarkston taxpayers have done their fair share. Board members and citizens must work together to put pressure on the state for changes in school funding."

Q. What are your recommendations for the facility needs of the school district?

"The school district has been involved in the ongoing process of repairs and maintenance to its aged buildings with the last major building project in 1969."

"Space problems are evident in all the schools, and growth prospects indicate that student enrollment may increase."

"While new building projects may be warranted, a responsible board will maximize the use of existing facilities, study the whole situation and involve the public in its decisions. A conservative approach at looking at the total picture is what is mandated of our board members. "Too many times we tend to leap before we look at the long-range consequence."

Q. What do you feel are the biggest challenges faced by the new school board?

"Fiscal responsibility is the greatest challenge. To wait for changes in financing from Lansing is not enough."

"The board must be conservators of the taxpayers' money and make our local millages last as long as possible."

"We do not mind paying more for our education, but we must see that these dollars are used as efficiently as possible."

"Curriculum development is another challenge that must be continually addressed to upgrade the level of education in Clarkston."

"Our transference into the era of technology make curriculum development critical to our children's future."

Q. What are your recommendations for the facility needs of the district?

"First, it would be necessary to examine the need by someone who is not motivated by self-interest to determine the need for additional facilities or renovations."

"You have administrators and the professionals saying these are needed. This system then leads to self gratification."

"The hunt for an answer to any problem is stopped by the request for more money."

Q. What do you feel are the biggest challenges faced by the new school board?

"To find solutions to problems other than calling for an additional millage election."

Charles L. Weber

Charles L. Weber, 57, is a lifetime resident of Clarkston. He is retired.

Weber was graduated from Pontiac High School and attended Lansing Community College.

He and his wife, Barbara, have two children, Michael and Beth, both graduates of Clarkston High School.

Under background, he writes: "I am against government tax increases and believe that tax waste needs to be stopped at the local level."

"My main purpose for running is to give the voters a protest candidate to let all elected officials know that the taxpayers are tired of the spend/spend attitude of our incumbent officials. I have seen nothing from the incumbents that would indicate they have taken any steps to decrease spending since the last emergency millage election."

Q. How do you feel about current methods of school funding, and what recommendations, if any, would you make to improve them?

"The current school funding should be limited as in the Patterson/Anderson proposal."

"Our educational standards have declined while spending has increased 25 percent since 1981."

"The drop-out rate of Michigan, being the third worst in the nation, is an indication that spending more tax money is not the answer to our school problems."

"Giving raises to administrators and teachers before a final budget is completed sounds like the old song, 'We got ours, now vote for an additional millage to pay for it.'"

Dennis C. Walters

Dennis C. Walters, 41, of 7720 Phelan Dr., Independence Township, has lived in the area for seven years. He is a general agent with the Davey & Walters Financial Group.

Walters is a 1967 graduate of Holly High School and holds a bachelor's degree in education from Central Michigan University, Mount Pleasant. He is a chartered financial consultant.

He and his wife, Nancy, have two children, Jennifer, 11, is a student at Clarkston Junior High School, and Jeffrey, 8, attends Clarkston Elementary School.

Under background, he writes: "Math teacher and coach at Linden High School from 1971-1975. Employed in the financial services field from 1975 to the present. A member of St. Daniel Catholic Church and the Clarkston Knights of Columbus. A little league coach for Independence Township."

Q. How do you feel about current methods of school funding, and what recommendations, if any, would you make to improve them?

"The current methods of school funding have allowed the state to steadily contribute less, while the individual taxpayer contributes more."

"School districts like Clarkston, with a limited industrial tax base, must continually beg the community for increased millages in order to meet their escalating operating costs."

"The state must re-evaluate its priorities and meet its responsibility to fund our school adequately and equally."

"This would undoubtedly mean cutbacks in state spending in other areas, but I would favor a realignment of funds over a tax increase. Any increase in state funding should be tied to minimal requirements for school districts."

Q. What are your recommendations for the facility needs of the school district?

"Overcrowding exists at every level in the district and the building of a new facility is inevitable."

"The junior high is outdated and cannot accommodate the large group activities necessary for a middle school."

"A new high school, which would include the ninth grade, would allow the sixth, seventh and eighth grades to move into the present high school and adopt a true middle school concept."

"The entire community should have an opportunity to provide input for the plans of this new high school as they are the ones who will be using it and providing the necessary funds."

Q. What do you feel are the biggest challenges faced by the new school board?

"After the taxpayers demonstrated their commitment to quality education by approving the increased millage, it remains for the board to spend that money judiciously, gaining maximum benefits from each dollar."

"The board must also develop a plan for improved facilities. This must be a plan that the community can both support and afford."

"My experience in financial planning would be a strong asset to the board in meeting both these challenges."

Robert Wyatt

Robert Wyatt, 39, of 8181 Deerwood Rd., Independence Township, has lived in the area for 13 years. He is superintendent of Facilities Engineering, Maintenance and Construction at General Motors Truck and Bus - Pontiac Central Assembly Plant.

Wyatt holds a bachelor's degree in civil engineering from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. He is currently working on a master's degree in business at Oakland University, Rochester. He is a licensed engineer.

He and his wife, Christine, have two children, Jillian, 13, attends Clarkston Junior High School. John, 11, is a student at Clarkston Elementary School.

Under background, he writes: supervises 400 hourly and salaried people. Worked with local government to convince the State of Michigan to deny a hazardous waste facility at I-75 and Baldwin Road. Serves as co-chairman of the Facilities Review Advisory Committee of Clarkston Schools.

Q. How do you feel about the current methods of school funding, and what recommendations, if any, would you make to improve them?

"Current methods of funding are unacceptable. Our district has one of the lowest operating budgets per student in Oakland County, yet we won't qualify for state aid next year under the current aid formula."

"The following changes are essential:

-Increase state funding of I-12 education to 1975 levels as adjusted for inflation.

-The formula for districts must increase annually equivalent to the state funding increase. Use the voter-authorized millage rate, rather than the Headlee-reduced millage.

-The Homestead Property Tax credit limit must be increased to allow for all inflation since 1975. The limit should be eliminated for retired people."

Q. What are your recommendations for the facility needs of the school district?

"As co-chairman of the Facilities Review Advisory Committee, I am aware of the shortcomings of our facilities."

"Despite the growth of our community over the last 30 years, we haven't built or modernized one school building. We haven't kept pace with text book replacement or operation needs."

"Enrollment growth demands a new high school and a new elementary school in the early 1990s."

"The recommendations of the Facilities Review Advisory Committee must be communicated to the public and implemented."

"Moving ninth-graders to the high school is at best a short-term Band-aid to a long-term problem."

Q. What do you feel are the biggest challenges faced by the new school board?

"The new school board is faced with obsolete, over-aged textbooks, overcrowded classrooms and outdated, overcrowded facilities."

"While these are big challenges, the biggest challenge the board faces is to gather the determination to prioritize the needs and pursue solutions in a timely manner."

"The new school board must not sit back and do nothing as has been the case with previous school boards."

"These solutions must be sensitive to our community's need to halt the never-ending increases in property taxes. It is essential that this school board keep the community aware of our real needs and their solutions."

FLASHBACK TO SUMMER VOLLEYBALL TOURNAMENT

There will be an outdoor volleyball tournament June 17 in conjunction with the Flashback to Summer Picnic. The tournament is open to co-rec quad teams and will be played on the sand courts at Independence Oaks on Sashabaw Road. Participants will be treated to sandwiches, beverages T-shirts and plenty of volleyball.

The cost is $10 per player and there will be cash prizes for first and second place teams. The top two teams also earn a berth at The Michigan Sports Festival in Battle Creek, August 3-5.

The deadline to register is June 15, with a maximum of 20 teams to be accepted on a first come, first serve basis.

FLASHBACK TO SUMMER

There's something for everybody at the Flashback to Summer Picnic at Independence Oaks County Park on Sunday, June 17.

Some of the events planned are a fishing derby for all ages, co-rec volleyball tournament, trading card show (1968 World Champion Detroit Tigers Jim Northrup and Denny McLain will be present to sign autographs), live entertainment all day (The Boys Band, Mr. Simon leading "Simon Says," a barbershop quartet, Checkers the Clown, and many others), games, swimming, boating, and remote-controlled sailboat races. Plus, a lounging contest and chore relay for fathers.

The cost is $4 per resident vehicle and $6 per non-resident vehicle.

SAFETY TOWN

Parents can register their children for Safety Town, a program designed to teach safety to 4, 5, and 6 year olds. For two weeks, two hours a day, children will learn with actual practice aspects of safety...strangers, poisons, bicycles, railroad crossings, bus, playground, toys, water, traffic, child safety seats, animals and more. These important messages will be taught by teachers, police officers and fire fighters.

MINI-SPORTS FESTIVAL

Volleyball, basketball, softball, tennis and soccer tournaments will be featured at the Mini-Sports Festival June 22-24 at Clintonwood Park. Winners of many of these tournaments will win berths to the Michigan Sports Festival Aug. 3-5 in Battle Creek.

After tournament action on Saturday, June 23, players and fans are invited to stay around and enjoy entertainment provided by a disc jockey.

YOUTH SOCCER REGISTRATION

Registration for boys and girls (6-19 years old) who would like to play soccer this fall or next spring begins June 2 at the Soccerfest at Clintonwood Park. Those registering June 2 through July 13 may take advantage of a special rate. Those registering July 16 through July 31 will be charged a regular rate.

The season is tentatively scheduled to begin in late August for the under-8, under-10 and under-12 leagues. The travel league teams may begin as early as mid-

August. To receive a flyer on youth soccer, call the rec department.

UMPIRES NEEDED

There will be an umpire clinic June 9 for anyone interested in umpiring in the Jr. Baseball and Youth Softball leagues. Umpires are needed for the program. Umpires should be 14 years or older. Umpire's pay will range from $7 to $10 per game, depending on the type of baseball or softball league.

WALK MICHIGAN

Independence Township Parks and Recreation will again be offering participants a chance to take part in the Walk Michigan program.

Prizes are to be awarded by drawing at the conclusion of each walk. Names will also be entered in the season finale drawing each time a person walks. The winner of the season finale drawing receives a free weekend at Mackinac Island on Labor Day weekend. The purpose of this program is to promote good health.

The dates for the remaining walks are:

June 13 - 7 p.m. - Sashabaw Plains
June 17 - 4 p.m. - Independence Oaks

Walkers should plan to show up ready to walk at the announced date, time and location. Pre-registration is not required.

A talk with Dr. Judith Backes

She charts a curriculum course atop some stormy seas

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Dr. Judith Dorsch Backes is standing before the Clarkston Board of Education in a sharp, red suit.

Before each school board member is a one-inch-thick stack of materials outlining new textbooks, tests and a math course.

Backes is pitching the new materials in an abbreviated presentation that lasts well over an hour.

The presentation is abbreviated to accommodate more than a year's efforts by various curriculum committees. The presentation is long, because the committee reports are thorough. And important.

The proposals on the block — which the school board eventually approved — will cost the district tens of thousands of dollars. Perhaps more importantly, the materials will direct the way Clarkston children learn.

"This (curriculum) is what we're all about," Backes says later, in her comfortable, administration building office. "It's such a key part of the overall program."

As director of staff development and curriculum, Backes oversees nine subject committees, structured in areas such as science, reading, math, health and more.

Five plaques hanging prominently on her office wall outline her qualifications for the job — she holds a for the entire 1990-91 school year.

Backes says although she accepts the board's caution, curriculum is an area not always understood.

"The board tends to flex its muscle in curriculum," Backes says. In fact, two board members are former teachers.

The public, too, has a misconception about curriculum, Backes says, describing what she calls "Monday morning quarterbacking."

Just about everyone has been in school, which makes them experts, she says. The same is not true for fields like engineering.

"Engineers don't get people saying 'Well, yes, when I was working on the wave theory ...'" she says, wryly.

Despite the challenges of the curriculum director position, Backes says her job is important to her, second only to motherhood.

Backes gave birth to a baby girl on April 5, just hours after leaving the administration office.

"I left the office at about 5 p.m. the day I delivered," Backes relates. "I was having labor pains, and as I was leaving I said 'I guess I better start timing these.'"

On May 19, she was back at work.

"This time it was difficult," Backes says about her leave. "As a building principal there was a need to have someone there so an interim principal came in," she explains. "When I left here, there was no one doing the job."

Backes is mom to two other children besides baby Audrey. Aaron is 6, and Elliott is 2.

Backes credits a good support system with her ability to handle her job and her family together.

"This (curriculum) is what we're all about. It's such a key part of the overall program."

Dr. Judith Dorsch Backes

"It's a very difficult decision whether to be a career person or whether to stay at home," Backes muses.

"I have a great deal of respect for people who make the decision to stay home," she says. "It's a tough job to raise a child."

"I happen to feel for myself that I'm a good mom, and I enjoy doing that. But I really love my job," Backes adds.

bachelor's and master's degree in education, as well as a doctorate degree. The degrees share wall space with a "GO STATE" sticker from Backes's alma mater.

The magnitude of issues examined by the curriculum committees include rearranging the science curriculum, so teachers feel more comfortable with a hands-on learning approach.

An entirely new language arts program is in the works for students in kindergarten through eighth grade.

And the state of Michigan has defined a whole new approach to reading, to which committees will attempt to respond with new materials.

The work is heady stuff, Backes admits. "These are very big issues."

Progress in curriculum typically runs in five-year cycles and includes stages of research, approval and implementation.

The Clarkston district uses researchers within the Oakland Intermediate School District and consults with university researchers or other exemplary schools for input on their programs.

"What's typical in education and the information age is that everything comes at us so fast," Backes says. "You don't have to look for it."

Clarkston, as a whole, is behind other districts in implementing key curriculum and text materials, Backes admits.

"These are rocky times," she says. "There have been dramatic budget cuts in services, and most often it's in curriculum."

"We try to be careful with spacing it out, but it's a question of being behind and getting behind-er," she adds.

The situation is not likely to improve soon. In April, the board of education put a freeze on textbook spending

DR. JUDITH Dorsch Backes is charged with overseeing curriculum for Clarkston schools. The MSU graduate is the mother of two children.

Clarkston Rotary Club celebrates 50th birthday

The Clarkston Rotary Club recently celebrated its 50th birthday, according to President Ron Davis, who compiled a history of the club.

The club was first created in May 1940, following conversations of four area businessmen: Roy Alger, a hardware store owner; Gerald O'dell, owner of O'dell Drug Store; Bob Jones, president of Clarkston State Bank; and Bill Stamp, editor and publisher of The Clarkston News.

Among the club's first four service activities, it continues to provide two: the sale of Goodfellow papers, now a joint effort between Rotary and the Independence Township Fire Department, and the decoration of the Village of Clarkston for Christmas.

Over the years, Rotary projects have ranged from Christmas baskets to pancake suppers to art auctions to cookouts for SCAMP to shoes and boots for needy families and to scholarships.

In recent years, the club has purchased two vans for the Independence Township Senior Center, begun a clown troupe, sponsored a group of student Rotarians at Clarkston High School called the Interact Club and sponsored the first Clarkston Fun Daze.

In the beginning, club meetings were held in the Opera House above O'dell Drug Store. Since, they have been held at the Old Farm, Porter's Restaurant, Chessmen's, Boothby's, The Canteen, Rotary Room above the drug store, township hall community center, Paul's Cafeteria, Howe's Lanes, Spring Lake Country Club and the Deer Lake Racquet Club.

In 1942, the club inaugurated the Labor Day Parade, which has grown in size each year.

In 1947, the club received the district governor's citation for outstanding community service, part of which was for providing an individual Christmas gift box to every Clarkston-area man in the armed forces.

In addition, six Rotarians have perfect attendance for the following number of years: Bob Beattie, 33; Jim Smith, 29; Dick Logan, 17; Del Lohff, 15; John Priebe, 10; Les Purslow, 6.

In 1990 so far, the club has piled up the following activities:

January — $1,000 donation to the new Lighthouse-North.

April — Applied for a $25,000 humanities grant through the National Endowment for the Humanities for Clarkston schools; received permission from Kiev and Rotary International to proceed with chartering a new club in Kiev, Soviet Union, the second club ever in the Soviet Union.

May — Created the Alan Cecil Memorial Scholarship, $1,000 a year for four years for a Clarkston High School student, in honor of Rotary's president-elect who died last year; celebrated 50th birthday and dedicated a bronze plaque to Independence Township.

Finally, past club presidents are (in order): Jerry

Escape

By Stacy Carr
She whirls and whirls,
In silent fury.
She dances,
As only she knows how.
Concentrating on the steps,
To keep from thinking.
Thinking about...
What has just happened.
Dancing, whirling, jumping.
She will have to think about it.
About love, hate, life.
For she cannot dance for, Eternity.

Stacy Carr is a ninth-grade student at Clarkston Junior High School. This is a sampling of her poems that won an award of excellence in the Detroit Free Press Writing Contest.

Gifts of Love

By Stacy Carr
Their hearts come together,
To share a special joy.
They look at each other,
And smile.
Each knows what's in the other's heart
There's no need to explain.
Others give candy,
They give love to each other,
On Valentine's Day.

Fantasies

By Stacy Carr
One point in time,
Peace will come to the Earth,
Hands will join all around the globe,
And happiness will descend.
Acts of violence will cease.
There will be no need for prisons,
Or juvenile homes.

Valentine's Day,
It holds the same idea.
The idea of love not hate
Friends not enemies
Talking and listening,
Not arguing and fighting.
Valentine's Day is all these things,
And more.

TIP OF THE WEEK

Save water by choosing the right sprinkler for the coverage needed. Oscillating sprinklers provide even water coverage over square or rectangular areas.
Static sprinklers do a good job of spot watering over small areas.
Pulsating sprinklers provide jets of water over large areas in full or part circle patterns and can be programmed in a variety of patterns for precision watering.

July 4 ceremony honors soldiers

A July 4 ceremony at White Chapel Cemetery in Troy honors Michigan soldiers who died in the Korean and Vietnam Wars, including six from the Clarkston area.

The memorial event is scheduled for 2-4 p.m. Wednesday, July 4, at the cemetery. The purpose is to dedicate and unveil a granite monument to those who served in the war.

The ceremony also includes a military fly-over, color guard, speakers, government officials, military band and the burial of a time capsule containing a list of those who died in the wars, as well as a history of each war.

From the Clarkston area, those missing or captured and declared dead in the Vietnam War (1957-1989) were: Army Pfc. Robert Louis Atkinson Jr. (born July 3, 1948), March 26, 1969; hostile, died — wounds.

Army Warrant Officer James Devrin Carter (born March 13, 1947), June 13, 1968, hostile, killed.

Army Pfc. David Freeman Head (born Nov. 18, 1948), Jan. 22, 1969, hostile, killed.

Army Spc. 4 Harold Lee MacDonald (born Nov. 20, 1949), Sept. 15, 1970, hostile, died — wounds.

Army Staff Sgt. Burton Charles Montross (born July 4, 1941), Feb. 23, 1966, hostile, died — wounds.

Army Spc. 5 Richard Allen Taylor (born Nov. 3, 1951), Sept. 26, 1970, non-hostile, died — other.

Assembly-line worker finds fulfillment at school

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

If being laid off from a job is like life dealing you lemons, then Weldon Graham is making lemonade — at Clarkston Community Education's S.T.R.I.V.E. High.

S.T.R.I.V.E. is an acronym for Students Trying and Reaching Individual Victories through Education. Most of the students in the program have not had academic and social success in a traditional school setting.

Weldon landed in the middle of these students after being laid off about two months ago from General Motors Truck and Bus. When GM workers are laid off, they're put into a Jobs Bank, which allows each worker to receive full pay and benefits if he or she volunteers to perform 40 hours of service.

Weldon chose to do his volunteer work at Clarkston Community Education building on Sashabaw Road, Independence Township, where S.T.R.I.V.E. students attend.

He spends his day, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., working with students, tutoring, helping in the office and career center, being a lunchtime aide and greeting anyone he comes in contact with.

His friendliness is infectious, and it's evident in the way the students and faculty gather around to chat with him.

Some of the students have even taken to imitating his full, hardy laugh, says Betsy Travis, an art teacher.

Weldon spends two class periods helping Betsy with her students.

"He's providing the brawn," says Betsy, as Weldon puts on thimbles to protect his fingers while he threads wire through a soft drink can.

The can has been cut to form a tail for a penguin made from chicken wire. Student Melissa Hulett will eventually cover it with papier mache, but Weldon digs in to help Melissa with engineering details.

"He's getting the grade, not Melissa," Betsy jokes, as Weldon continues working.

When Weldon first asked Jeanne Molzon of community education about volunteer work, she said he would have to help out in art. But he was not too fond of that subject.

"At first I just sort of sat back, but now I dive in," Weldon says.

Weldon's voice shows the enthusiasm he brings to his volunteer job.

"I've learned so much," he says. "I like working with these kids."

Students, likewise, like having Weldon around for extra help.

"He's a big help in accounting and math," Heather Konedas says.

Weldon spends one class period helping students with accounting and two class periods with math. When he isn't in class, he can sometimes be found running off copies on the Rizzo copy machine designed to copy large numbers.

"Around here they call me the Rizzo man," he chuckles.

His new work offers more diversity than his job on the line, he says.

Weldon isn't sure when he'll be called back to work at GM Truck and Bus, but Marilyn Allyn, director of community education, has work for him if he stays laid off during the summer, he says.

He's worked on the assembly line for almost 12 years, and he's grateful that the union gave him the opportunity to earn his wages while on lay off.

"If it wasn't for them, I'd be on the streets looking for a job," Weldon says.

Weldon is affiliated with union Local 594 and went to work for GM after graduating from Clarkston High School in 1976.

He's 31, single and likes to tell about his family.

His mother, Loretta Graham, has driven a school bus for 25 years and has continued to play softball for almost 20 years.

His brother, Steve, is an umpire for local softball leagues, and he met his future wife, Elaine, during a softball game that he was umpiring. Last year they exchanged wedding vows on home plate at softball diamond number two at Clintonwood Park. Weldon also has a sister, Gale Gatten.

Weldon's plans for the future include going back to school. He has an associate's degree in business from Oakland Community College, and he's toying with the idea of possibly taking some classes in education that would allow him to teach.

Betsy says Weldon has worked one-on-one with a student in accounting class. The student is so encouraged over learning his lessons that he takes his book home every night to find information that would help him compete against Weldon.

Weldon seems to like going one-on-one with the students. He says he often tells them not to smoke or do drugs.

Another bit of advice he gives to them is: "Learn from being with other people; that's where you learn."

But most of all he simply loves being around the students, he says.

"People say how bad these kids are here," Weldon says. "But these kids are here because they've had some bad breaks."

Independence teen competes for Model of Year

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Kimberly Sowerby has the face of an angel. Or so ruled a panel of judges in a recent Model of the Year contest.

Kim, 19, of Chickadee, Independence Township, survived a cut of 40 prospective models from a list of 80 during the recent contest, held in Macomb County.

On July 27, she participates in another contest to narrow the ranks down to 15 girls. The following day, the judges choose the Model of the Year.

Kim's friendly blue eyes and wispy curls appear to be true model material. Her enthusiasm for the career provides the clincher.

"It's something I've dreamed about since I was a little girl," Kim easily admits. "My mom heard about the contest on the radio and knew how much I wanted to be a model, (so we went)."

Her dreams, however, did not prepare her for the Model of the Year contest, which she says "scared her to death."

Kim works on her career dreams in the exercise room of Vic Tanny, where she works. She is also a student at Oakland Community College, majoring in fashion design and journalism and says she would like to own a magazine someday.

The entire contest experience is a plus whether or not she is chosen to go further, Kim acknowledges.

As a result of making the cut, Kim was awarded with a professional photo shoot, which judges will use in the selection process. The photos will appear in Model of the Year magazine.

The resulting photos turned out well, Kim thought, though her father thought they were "a little sexy."

The contest is closely watched by a number of modeling agencies, who maintain a list of participants for future assignments, Kim explains.

Kim is realistic about her modeling prospects, which she says are limited by her height. At five-foot-three-inches tall, runway modeling is out, she says.

But other modeling opportunities exist, Kim says. And, after meeting her, one gets the feeling she'll succeed in them.

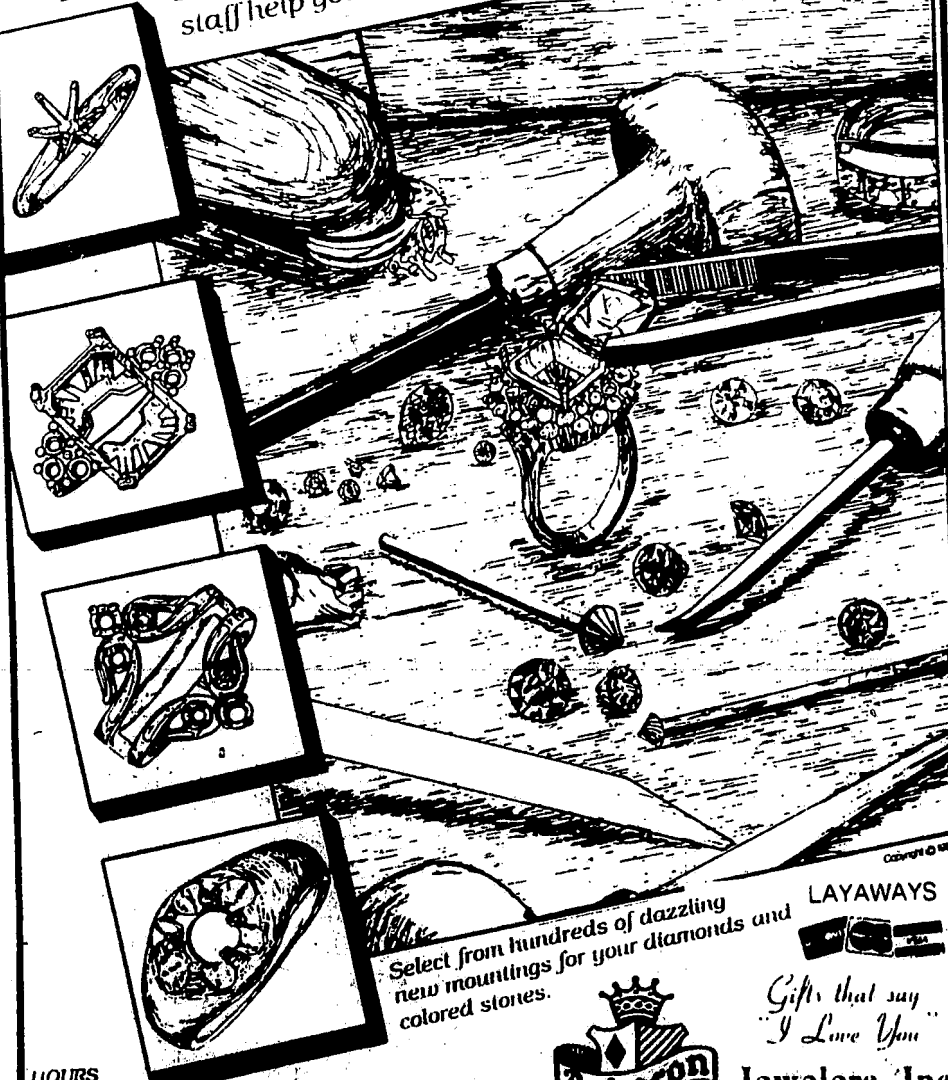

KIM SOWERBY, shown here first in The Clarkston News, will also appear in Model of the Year magazine. Last month, the Chickadee, Independence Township, resident was selected to compete in the July Model of the Year contest.

The Other Side of Things

Whack! Whack! And she destroyed the Earth

Ashley Ball

This is not another heavy essay on whether or not spray deodorant is destroying the earth — it's a simple story about a pine tree seedling named Myrtle.

It all started on the day after Earth Day, 1990. I was sitting in Mr. Keegan's seventh-hour science class, counting the squares on the ceiling, when he announced he'd be passing out pine tree seedlings. He held up a wimpy twig less than a foot in length.

"If you plant these seedlings in a well-drained location with a 50/50 mix of sunlight and shade," he continued, "they will grow to be 80-100 feet tall."

Sure, I thought, looking at the twig, but in WHOSE LIFETIME? Nevertheless, I was looking forward to owning one of the pine seedlings, to helping preserve nature and the Earth, itself. And I was already thinking of suitable names for my seedling ... Samantha? Chuck? Myrtle?

Then, Mr. Keegan explained, "But since I received only 50 seedlings this year, we'll have to draw for them. If you want a seedling, write your name on a scrap of paper, fold it, and put it in this box."

I quickly ripped a whole sheet of paper out of my notebook, wrote my name on it, folded it into a three-dimensional cube, and squeezed it through a slot in the box.

A few minutes later I was the happy owner of a potential pine tree! I would call it Myrtle.

That afternoon, I placed Myrtle in a plastic bag, watered her with bottled water and laid her carefully on the kitchen cabinet safely out of the ant trail.

You see, every spring at our house, when the leaves come out, the ants come in — to our kitchen. They only last a few days, so I don't really mind. But my sister, who actually PLAYS with them outside, just goes crazy when they trail across our kitchen cabinet.

Anyway, for the next two days, I planned the planting of the seedling. I called Bordine's, who said it needed lots of space to grow. I talked to my dad, who said not to plant it where it would eventually cast a shade on the garden. I talked to my mom, who said not to say anything about it to Laura since she didn't have one yet.

With this expert advice in mind, I bought planting soil, peat and fertilizer. I'd plant it on a little hill in the corner of our backyard. This was exciting. After all, I wasn't just planting a seedling — I was saving the Earth!

Everything was ready. After dinner I would plant Myrtle.

Then, as Laura and I were clearing the dishes from the dinner table, the most awful thing happened.

Laura screamed and set her stack of dishes down hard on the cabinet. "Look at these ants. ... I can't stand them!"

Frustrated, she stared at the ants trailing across Myrtle. I knew Myrtle didn't mind them — she was an outdoor girl anyway.

"It's this stick!" Laura wailed, suddenly picking up my precious Myrtle. "Somebody left it on the counter yesterday, and it's causing the ants worse than ever." With that, Laura began beating the ants with Myrtle from one end of the cabinet to the other.

I stared in disbelief. My mom stood up to rescue Myrtle, but she was too late. In seconds, Laura had crushed it into toothpicks and thrown what was left of her into the trash.

Having conquered the ants, Laura marched victoriously back to the table.

My dad patted my arm. "She didn't know," he said quietly, trying to console me as I stared into space.

"So, Ashley," Laura asked cheerfully, "what are we going to do after dinner?"

"Oh ..." I shrugged, "whatever."

It was amazing, I thought, how the ants and the Earth and my evening had all been destroyed in a single tantrum.

Ashley Ball is an eighth-grade student at Clarkston Junior High.

The Fountain

By Greg Gilreath

Deep in the woods, lies a fountain.
Marble faced, aged it stands, pouring forth an endless stream of wetness it dies with erosion

The caretaker, withered with age speaks softly to the fountain, of memories.
Carnivals, parties, romance
a fountain of youth, that is growing old with age

Why is it there?
Since the beginning of time,
there has been a creation.
A creation of good things love, emotion, and intelligence these tools have created;
created beautiful things

Four fish, nature, and a god the fountain has imprisoned them in stone.

Caught forever to create;
create goodness.
All for joy
all for the caretaker

Why does it continue?
Why the erosion?
Why does it exist?
To live, to bring purpose

Today the marble cracked.
The crack went through the god.
A slow destruction
the caretaker goes to mend it, but another crack appears.
Thus both grow older until one dies
one shall mourn, for it is without the other and so goodness slowly crumbles.

Student chefs cook up bronze medals April 29

Two chefs in training at the Oakland Technical Center-Northwest Campus (OTCNC) got their first taste of culinary competition by entering the American Culinary Foundation Art Salon for the Great Lakes region.

Patrick Stamper and Bert Lawrence won awards in the culinary competition April 29 at Fairlane Manor in Dearborn.

The two are the first students from OTCNC to enter the competition.

"I was nervous," Bert said.

Competitors were required to set up their displays with no instructors in the room, and once the judges entered the display room competitors were to be nowhere in sight.

"We were running for the door," Patrick said about racing the clock while setting up their elaborate display of foods.

Patrick entered in the cold foods display category and prepared enough food to serve eight people. Bert entered a pastry display with six kinds of desserts.

The reward for their efforts was like frosting on the cake -- they both left as bronze medal winners.

Microwave Plus

Betty Wagner

Give your father a break from cooking on his special day. You can prepare part of the meal in the microwave oven while taking his place at the grill to cook fresh halibut steaks and vegetables.

Vegetables that grill well are sliced egg plant and onions, large mushroom slices and thick strips of green and red peppers.

Check your local housewares department for an enamel rack with small holes that sits on the gas or charcoal grill rack. The small holes make grilling fish and vegetables a snap -- no bits and pieces falling through the cracks.

Brush fish with olive oil and grill over hot coals until the flesh flakes -- from 2 to 5 minutes a side depending on the thickness of the steak. Brush vegetables with olive oil and grill until brown and tender crisp. Season with herbs before grilling fish and vegetables but not with salt. Add salt later.

Bake NUTMEG SHERRY CAKE earlier in the day. While the rice is cooking in the microwave, prepare the grill. Make sure to allow time for the rice to cook -- 45 minutes before beginning the fish. The rice salad can hold in the microwave at 1 percent or lowest power or even be reheated at 80 percent (REHEAT). But the fish needs to be eaten as soon as it's done.

NUTMEG SHERRY CAKE Adapted from NUTMEG SHERRY CAKE from "Thermador's Convection Micro-Thermal Cooking Guide."

Betty Crocker Micro-Rave yellow cake mix or Pillsbury Microwave Cake mix
3/4 teaspoon nutmeg

1. Prepare either cake mix according to package directions, substituting sherry for water in the recipes. Add nutmeg to cake mix before adding to liquid directions.

2. If using the Pillsbury product, line the cake pan with a microwavable paper towel or wax paper cut to fit the bottom of the cake pan.

HOT RICE SALAD Serves 6-8.

2 tablespoons butter, divided

1 cup brown long-grain rice

2 cups chicken stock

2/3 cup pine nuts

1 bunch green onions, white and green, chopped

3/4 cup fresh chopped parsley

Fresh ground pepper and salt to taste

1. Melt butter at HIGH for 45 to 60 seconds. Stir in rice. Microwave at HIGH for 1 1/2 minutes; stir. Microwave at HIGH for 1 more minute. Stir in chicken stock.

2. Microwave at HIGH for 5 minutes; reduce to 30 percent (DEFROST) for 40 to 45 minutes.

3. Melt remaining tablespoon butter at HIGH for 45 to 60 seconds. Add pine nuts. Microwave at HIGH for 2 minutes, stirring after 1 minute.

4. Add green onions and parsley; microwave for 2 more minutes, stirring after 1 minute. Stir into cooked rice. Reheat at 80 percent (REHEAT) until serving temperature.

Home-economist Betty Wagner resides in Independence Township. Her "Microwave Plus" cable-TV show airs on Independence-Clarkston Channel 65.

Boaters must obey rules

National Safety Boating Week

Jet Skis, water scooters, wet bikes and other personal watercraft are classified as powerboats in Michigan and must obey the nautical "rules of the road," according to AAA Michigan.

Carelessness and inexperience are major factors responsible in most watercraft deaths and injuries.

Five people were killed and 156 injured in personal watercraft accidents nationally in 1987. The toll rose to 20 dead and 254 injured a year later. Michigan recorded no such fatalities in 1988, but 16 suffered injuries.

To avoid accidents, personal watercraft operators must obey boating rules and regulations for vessels up to 16 feet.

For example, people ages 12-16 must be certified to operate a powerboat without adult supervision. Classes are offered by the state Department of Natural Resources and local law enforcement agencies.

In addition, AAA Michigan recommends personal watercraft operators:

- Wear a personal flotation device, eye protection and deck or tennis shoes with good traction. Gloves and a wet suit are recommended.

- Watch for nearby boat traffic and keep a proper distance. Most accidents involve collisions.

- Respect the rights of swimmers, anglers, other boaters and people on shore.

- Never exceed the craft's maximum load or carry more passengers than recommended.

- Know how to reach and use a fire extinguisher before starting out.

- Never go out in storms or threatening weather.

- Never operate the craft after dusk or before sunrise without proper lights.

- Give new riders thorough instructions before letting them borrow the craft.

Pet of the Week

TITO is looking for a home. This shaggy canine can be found residing at the Michigan Human Society shelter in Auburn Heights.

Quiet but friendly

Tito likes children and other animals, and his quiet nature would make him a great asset in his new home.

He's an 11-month-old spaniel mix weighing about 43 pounds. Tito still has some puppy habits—he likes to chew.

His coat is long and shaggy, and the shelter worker suggests that he be cut and groomed occasionally.

The $65 adoption fee includes neutering.

He can be seen at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Apple for the Teacher

By Catherine Roller

Thomas E. Smith, landscape instructor

Tom was born in Dennison, Ohio, and grew up in New Philadelphia, Ohio, in the midst of Ohio's Amish community and dairy business.

He graduated from New Philadelphia High School in 1974 and attended the Tuscarawas County Campus of Kent State University the following year. In 1975 he transferred to Ohio State University and majored in landscape architecture. Tom graduated from Ohio State in 1978 with a bachelor of science degree in landscape architecture.

In 1979, Tom moved to Michigan and started work for Bordine's as a landscape designer in their Rochester office. In May of that year, Tom was promoted to manager of the Clarkston landscape office.

Tom eventually became assistant manager of the garden store at the Clarkston location. In 1986 he was approached to teach the landscape class on a part-time basis and in 1987 became a full-time instructor at Oakland Technical Center-Northwest Campus.

The landscape technology program has changed in the past years to include plant production, computer-aided design, basic design and drafting, plant identification and more.

"I try to use cooperative learning techniques whenever possible," Tom says. "Employers in the area want to hire people who can work well together and not argue all the time."

Students must learn social skills along with the technical skills in order to become a valued employee, he says.

In 1989, Tom and his wife, Marie, became parents of a daughter by the name of Alicia. She arrived from Korea in January and has been a major part of their lives since.

"She is the light of my life," he says. "I can't imagine being without her now. She likes music of any kind. We teacher her the words to songs and then sing along with her."

Alicia is now 17 months old.

Tom and his family attend church at St. John's in Holly. Tom is a member of MVATA, MOEA, AVA and has been a Michigan Certified Nurseryman. Tom also teaches landscape design at Oakland Community College in Auburn Hills.

TOM Smith began his landscape career at Bordine's but now teaches high school and college levels of landscaping.

FFA is a new organization to the center. Some students thought it was a "Farm" club until they were shown it was an organization for building leaders for the community not just in horticulture but in marketing, business management, industrial science and more.

Apple for the Teacher is provided through a committee of the Clarkston Education Association. This week's author is Catherine Roller, a computer coordinator and learning reinforcement teacher at the Oakland Technical Center-Northwest Campus.

Open house bids farewell to two

A dessert open house to bid farewell to two Clarkston school administrators is planned for 2-5 p.m. Wednesday, June 13.

Conrad J. Bruce, director of personnel services, and William D. Jackson, director of business services, are leaving the district for retirement and a new job, respectively.

The open house takes place at the Clarkston Community Schools Administrative office, 6389 Clarkston Rd., Independence Township.

Time to register for summer school

Summer school is offered this summer for students currently in grades nine through 12 in Clarkston schools.

The program allows students to make up credits due to failure during the year and also allows them to take additional classes that they may be unable to take during the regular school year.

Offerings include U.S. history, government, social science, pre-algebra, algebra, English composition, personal typing, computer applications and environmental science.

Summer school runs June 25 through July 26. Classes will not be held July 4, 5, 6 and 20. Morning classes meet 8-11 a.m.; afternoon classes meet 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

For more information, students should contact their school counselors as soon as possible.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY Spirit. Holy Spirit, you make me see everything and show me the way to reach my ideals. You give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrongs that are done to me and you are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones, in your perpetual glory. Amen. Persons must pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking for your wish. WHO IS ON THE LORD'S Side? To the churches! He that hath an ear to hear, hear and understand. Jesus Christ is the king, the only king, the way and the truth and the life the only way. He is the light of all men who come into the world. The Kingdom of God has come and those that believe (doer of the word of God) in Jesus Christ as their King (grace and truth) worshipping God in spirit and in truth out of love for Him are the true church and the only church God recognizes. Faith in Jesus, his work at the cross, the atonement, and continuing in the word of God to be lead of His spirit. There is only a remnant that truly believe and follow Christ as Lord and are willing to give up their lives for Christ's sake (suffer persecution). Coming out from among men's religion and to be set apart unto God in the heart and God knows His sheep and they will follow His voice (the truth of God's word). We can know who is on the Lord's side by the word and the Holy Spirit teaching us of Christ to die to self, pick up our cross and following Christ. You who hunger for the truth, Jesus said you will be filled for He is the bread of life and will lead you into all truth. Wait patiently through prayer and study of the word to do it and the Father will see to your hunger of Him. Even if it seems no-one is preaching the truth other than their own. Greater is He that is in you than he (the unbelievers) that is in the world. The church is the one who does the word, loving to do it to please God and not herself (or himself). It isn't your particular brand of religion of men (flesh not spiritual). The truth of God's word will set you free from men's tradition and bondage of sin-hypocrisy and apostasy-unbelief in Christ as Lord of their heart, His atonement! Heresies have impregnated the church to the point of total apostasy and unbelief in the blood of Christ blaming everything on the devil. This has come thru colleges, seminaries, and self-proclaimed apostles, prophets, evangelists, pastors and teachers who have turned from the truth and believe a lie constantly teaching people the same, loving to do so! A disciple is a learner (one who mimics the teacher and abides in his doctrine). Churches have taken on the attitude of the children of disobedience and the worlds way of doing things to the point of indifference to the Holy Spirit and His voice of the truth of God's word. No wonder we can't overcome the drugs, disease, and death. We don't believe in God cause we don't believe His Son and walk in His truth! The church has removed itself away from Christ! In is playing the HARLOT calling to the unsuspecting, "Come here!" Even giving gifts to trap them in the lie. "I find more bitter than death the woman (adulter, whore-denominations), whose heart (will and words) is snares (deceit) and nets (lies), and her hands as bands (bondage of sin-law and works). Her house is the way of hell (unbelief in Christ's blood) going to the chambers of death. Whosoever pleaseseth God (faith) shall escape her, but the sinner (one who refuses to die to self and do God's word-suffer persecution for Christ's sake) shall be taken by her. The way of the wicked (pew sitters and seminary, college, and self proclaimed ministers, rabbis, pastors, priests, etc., that refuse, very subtly to do God's word and construing it for self excuse and personal gain) is as darkness! They know not at what they stumble for God the Father blinds them to the truth of the gospel-giving them up to what they have chosen. (ICor 4,3,4) You have made my house (the spirit, soul and body of mankind) an house of merchandise rather than a house of prayer. (living faith in God's word-Holiness)!! ILLX23-1*

THE SCAMP HOME Tour on Sunday, June 3, was very well attended, according to organizers. Attendance records from last year

students in a summer camp program designed to fit their needs.

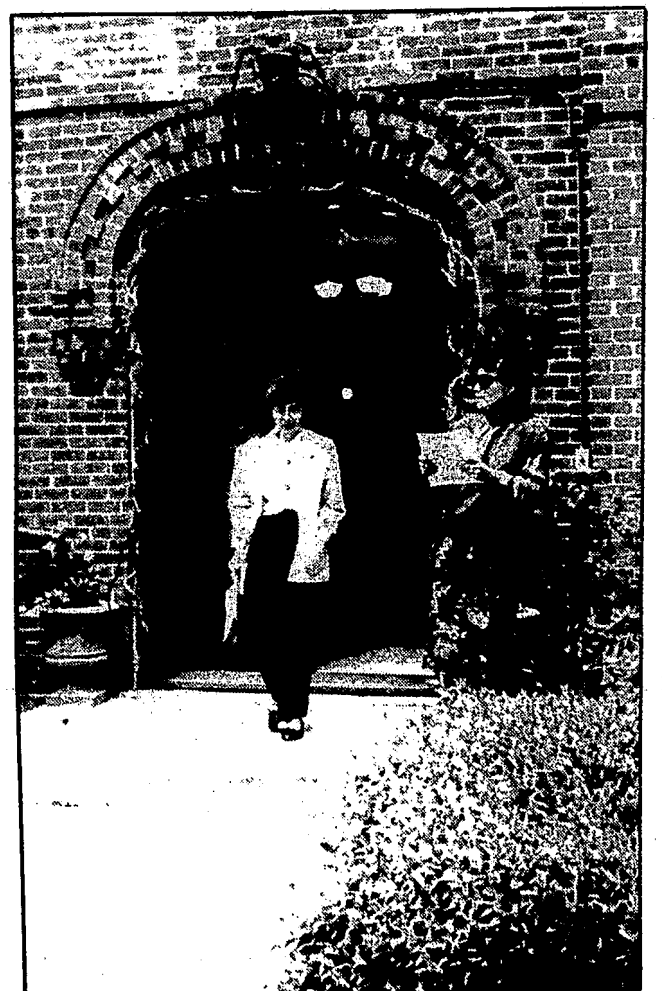

Photos by Sandra G. Conlen

PEOPLE from all around the Detroit Metro Area came to enjoy the SCAMP Home Tour on Sunday, June 3. Pictured is the Boothby home on Main Street, Clarkston. Over $15,000 was raised in the event. Bunny Newmarch, director for SCAMP, said everyone seemed to enjoy the home tour this year because it was a nice blend of old and new homes. "It was a perfect day," she added.

On the town

THE CATALLO home on Buffalo Street in Clarkston was one of the attractions of the home tour.
