School budget is $24 million

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

The Clarkston school board approved a $24.6 million budget for the 1990-91 school year beginning July 1.

The board is required to set the budget by law; the document may be amended, however, to better reflect the needs of the district as the year unfolds.

The 1990-91 budget compares to a $22.1 million budget set the previous year.

While $24.6 million is expected in expenditures, the district expects to receive $24.69 in total revenues.

Revenues have increased 12.1 percent over the past year, according to Business Services Director Bill Jackson. Expenditures have increased 11.2 percent.

Revenue for the district includes $22.5 million in local income, $878,000 from the state, $612,000 federal income and $602,000 from incoming transfers and other transactions.

Expenditures are broken down into five categories:

■ Instruction: basic programs ($12.2 million), added needs ($2.1 million), and adult and continuing education ($342,000).

■ Support Services: pupil ($1.3 million), instruction staff ($1.3 million), general administration ($351,000), school administration ($1.5 million), business administration ($446,000), operation and maintenance ($2.29 million), transportation services ($1.3 million), and central services ($585,000).

■ Community Services: ($1,500)

■ Outgoing transfers and other transactions: ($657,000).

The 1990-91 budget is available to the public. For more information, call the business office at 625-4402.

Millage rate set

The Clarkston Board of Education has set the operational millage rate at 38.83 for 1990.

The rate was determined after voters approved a 5.6371 mill increase last February.

One mill is $1 for every $1,000 assessed property valuation.

The February millage vote actually would have allowed the district to levy a maximum of 39.5076 mills. However, the board agreed to stick to the rate it promoted during the millage campaign.

The board determined the 38.83 mill level by considering the state equalized value of property within the school district, which is used to determine how much money in taxes the district would collect.

The board of education levied 34.9461 mills for the 1989-90 school year.

New ZIP Codes take effect July 1

Don't forget — as of July 1, residents in most of north Oakland County will have a new ZIP Code.

The United States Postal Service initiated the changes because mail volume has grown in Livingston, Macomb and Oakland counties in Michigan.

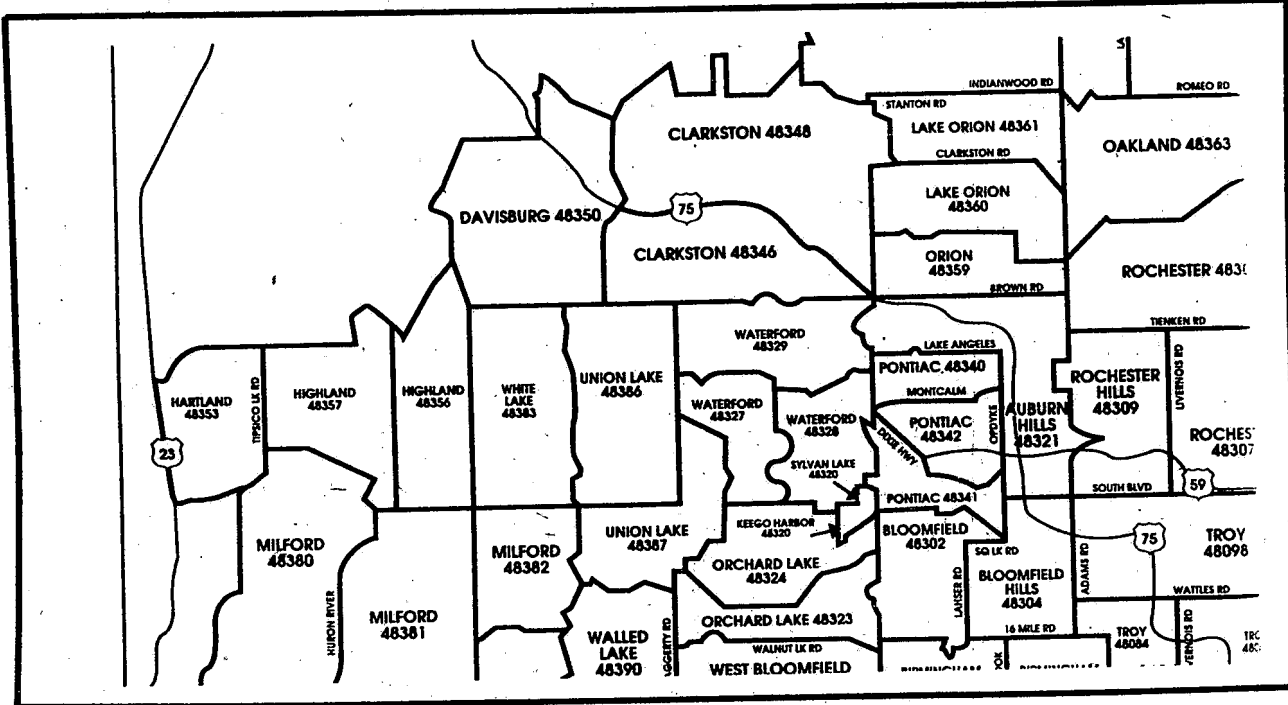

There will be no interruption in service as a result of the change. For a smooth transition, follow the guidelines below:

1. Use your new five-digit ZIP Code on the return address portion of your mail as soon as possible.

2. When you are informed of new ZIP Code assignments from your correspondents, begin to use them immediately.

3. Please use postage-paid preprinted notification forms to notify your correspondents. You may continue to use your preprinted existing stationery, but when you reorder, include your new ZIP Code-Postal mailing address.

For more information, call 1-800-654-2633.

INDEPENDENCE Township residents will now have Clarkston mailing addresses, with a 48348 ZIP Code if they live north of I-75 and a 48346 ZIP Code if they live south of I-75. In the past, Independence residents have had residents are use a 48350 Davisburg ZIP Code or one of the new Clarkston ZIP Codes.

ZIP Codes in Waterford, Drayton Plains, Pontiac or Clarkston. Springfield Township

Correction

A story about manufactured homes in last week's Clarkston News should have said that the Independence Township Board voted 6-1 to accept a settlement with developer Gregory Christopher regarding the project on Mann Road near Clintonville Road and I-75.

Trustee Frank Millard cast the lone dissenting vote. Voting yes were Supervisor Frank Ronk, Treasurer John Lutz, Clerk Joan McCrary and trustees Daniel Travis, Mel Vaara and William Vandermark.

One resident circulates petition for recall of Independence Township supervisor

Township, residents at odds in Thendara Park

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The progress of the Thendara Park road-paving project has some of its residents fuming

But Independence Township officials and the engineering firm in charge of the $2.5-million paving project insist that construction is ahead of schedule.

Thendara Park residents have endured a 16-year wait for the paving of their road, but many feel it's progressing too slow as well as irresponsibly.

"I think we're being taken," Thendara resident Rick Fields said. "The township has assessed the residents for a job far from completion. We should have been assessed after the work was finished."

Fellow resident Ray Waananen revealed similar sentiments concerning the project.

"It's going pretty slow. They've (township) dished out about a million dollars so far, and they haven't done nothing," Waananen said.

The township's 1989 financial report shows $969,000

"It's going pretty slow. They've (township) dished out about a million dollars so far, and they haven't done nothing."

Ray Waananen

allocated for construction in Thendara Park.

According to Fields, he and the 200 other park residents are paying $100 a month, over the next 15 years, for tax assessments related to construction.

Fields has sustained roadway and property damage from the park's construction crews. He had three trees, two oaks and one dogwood, mistakenly removed from the front of his property.

When he contacted the consulting engineer, Jim Nelson of Hubbell, Roth and Clark, Fields said Nelson admitted that a mistake had been made and Fields would be reimbursed for the trees.

Fields also cited "washout" damage to roads, inappropriate equipment storage, unsightly construction debris, dust, workcrew members' discarded trash and tree damage to his long list of complaints about the construction project.

To combat the problem of dust, the township has chlorided the worst parts of the park and watered down the remaining roadways with water dispensing trucks.

Fields' dismay for construction's progress can only be matched by the anger he feels toward the township, especially toward Supervisor Frank Ronk.

"Mr. Ronk is the most arrogant man that I've ever met," Fields said. "When I was calling him in regards to the progress, he told me to call the contractor, South Hill Construction, and not to bother him."

"In that same conversation, he told me that 'Independence Township has bigger concerns to deal with than Thendara park.' I think that Mr. Ronk is a very bad apple in the township, and he needs to be ousted from his position," added Fields.

Because he feels Ronk isn't serving the residents' best interests, Fields is heading a recall petition for Ronk's removal from office.

However, Ronk stated that a recall petition wouldn't concern him.

"A recall is a recall, and politically you have to live with these types of things," Ronk said. "If this is what the people of this township want, then fine."

Ronk went on to say that, despite popular belief, construction is ahead of schedule in the park.

"Construction is about four months ahead of schedule compared to last year. It's coming along as anticipated," he said.

"The construction crews got off to a good start last fall, but they had another assignment that had to be done. Their leaving left a lot of the residents wondering why they didn't just finish,"

Ronk further explained.

Tom Biehl, project engineer at Hubbell, Roth and Clark, said he understands the concerns of the residents but assures them that the project will be finished soon. In a corporate flier sent to each residence last week, the engineering firm stated the project's accomplishments and estimations on completion.

The flier said that as of Friday, June 8, 100 percent of the storm sewers, 95 percent of the retaining walls,

"A recall is a recall, and politically you have to live with these types of things. If this is what the people of this township want, then fine."

Supervisor Frank Ronk

about 50 percent of the curb and 25 percent of the base asphalt had been completed. The flier also assured the residents that all paving, curbing and landscaping will be done by Aug. 15, and all cleanup will be completed by Oct. 1.

South Hill Construction's Mike McCutcheon, estimator and operations manager, isn't sure about his company running ahead of schedule, but he did say the job should be done by the deadline.

"I don't necessarily think that we're ahead of schedule, but we should be done by Aug. 15," McCutcheon said.

In a recent area newspaper article concerning construction in Thendara Park, township Clerk Joan McCrary was quoted as saying that 21 contractors and subcontractors are working daily to get the project done.

According to township Deputy Clerk Cathy Der-

SOME Thendara Park residents are upset over the progress of a $2.5 million paving and curbing project. A few residents say construction is lagging behind schedule, while the township insists that it's ahead of deadline. The long-term storage of equipment, shown in this photo of Tiohero, has added fuel to any already controversial fire between the residents and the township. However, the contractor assures residents that the project will be completed by the end of summer.

Property owner angered over tabled site plan

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A disgruntled property owner declared war on the Independence Township Planning Commission after his project was tabled June 14.

The planning commission voted unanimously to table Mark Eller's conceptual site plan for a 15-acre "freeway service development" on the southwest side of Dixie Highway, between Foster Road and I-75.

Eller was not happy with the decision. "All I can say is if you guys want war, ... you got one!" Eller yelled, storming out of the board room. The plan, proposed by developer, B.E.G. Enterprises, called for four 96,000-square-foot buildings and

"I'm appalled that the developer has disregarded so many white oaks in his plans," she said. "Let's try to develop a 'pocket' in this area, which is aesthetically beautiful for the buildings. These plans make this project look like just another strip center."

Joseph Figa added that he didn't think the area was ready for this type of development because of the four shopping centers in the area at present.

Chairperson Brent Bair also suggested the developer use a PUD for the project, stating that it had come up at a previous sub-committee meeting between planning members and the interested developers.

After the planning commission concluded its comments, one member motioned to table the project so the developer could explore its options concerning the trees and the PUD. Prior to the vote, Eller protested loudly.

"Why should this be tabled when we kept up with all of the township's ordinances?" he demanded. "This project should be approved for its concept, ... and when did it become a zoning discussion anyway?"

Fussman informed Eller that there were more concerns about the project than just the zoning, such as the trees. The planning commission quickly followed with a unanimous vote to table the request, and Eller stormed out of the room.

"All I can say is if you guys want war, ... you got one!"

Mark Eller

was tabled contingent upon grading the area differently to save a stand of white oaks and red cherry trees near the proposed entrance. Commission members also asked that the developer request a rezoning to a planned unit development (PUD).

A PUD is a rezoning tied to a specific site plan and requires planning commission and township board approval.

The land is unique because it's currently carrying three zoning designations within its boundaries: multiple family residential, local commercial and freeway commercial. The land also has an unusual topography because it served as a gravel pit several years ago.

During the meeting, commission member Bruce Mercado said he felt uncomfortable with the proposal due to the complexity of dealing with three separate zoning designations.

Other members' concerns remained with the stand of trees, which the developer proposed uprooting and transporting to another location.

"I like the initial concept of this project, but we should put our efforts into saving those trees," said Steve Secatch.

Jo Fussman was more vocal in her support of the trees.

Thendara work done by August

ousha, McCrary said 21 employees are working in Thendara between the main contractor, South Hill Construction, and the other three subcontractors.

"We've had a lot of the Thendara residents calling the township office and the newspapers complaining about the lack of working being done in the park," Derousha said. "The people are only taking the actual paving into consideration and not the steps preceding it."

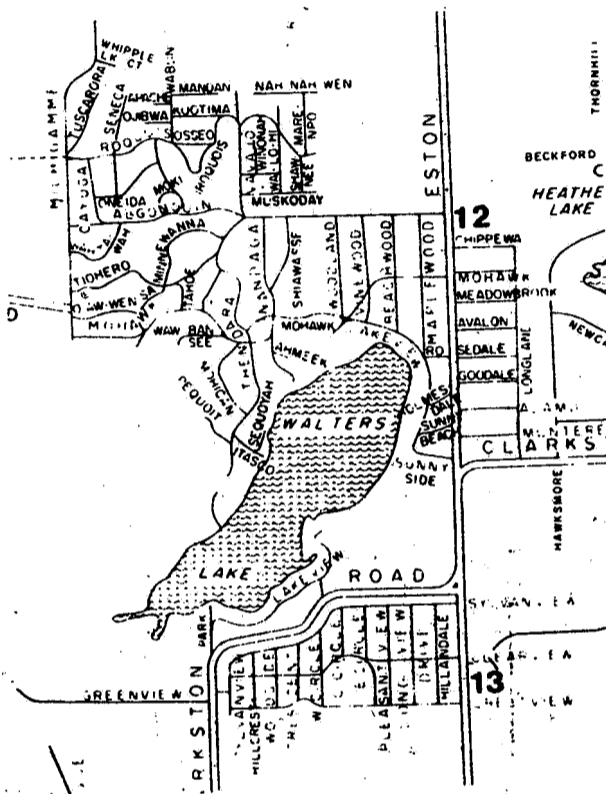

"The residents are angry because they aren't seeing any work being done in front of their homes, but hopefully the information pamphlet sent out by South Hill will alleviate some of their concerns," she said.

Other Thendara residents expressed mixed views on the construction situation.

"I've been pleased for the most part with the construction," said resident John Feeley. "Everybody wants to this job to get done quicker, but you have to appreciate the complexity of the project."

Resident Pam Dehring was surprised that the construction crews didn't return to work earlier in the spring but is looking forward to its completion.

"I'm shocked that the construction crews weren't back a little sooner this spring, considering the pleasant weather," she said. "I just can't wait till this project is finally done."

THENDARA Park is north of Clarkston Road in the northeast quadrant of Independence Township.

School information services position is created

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

After some discussion, the Clarkston Board of Education approved the hiring of Paul Witek as director of information systems for the district.

The new administrative position was recommended by Superintendent Gary Haner, in conjunction with the district's purchase last year of a new computer system.

When the system was approved last year, the board agreed to employ an additional person in the 1990-91 school year, according to Haner.

The position is part of the 1990-91 budget. Witek will be placed on Step IV of the entry level administrative salary schedule.

Witek has been working for the district as a computer coordinator and has installed the new system, Haner told the board.

Bill Jackson, the district's former business manager, told the board that Witek is the only person in the district besides himself who fully understands how the computer system operates.

Initially, Haner had recommended that Witek's position cover information services as well as some instructional service duties.

These were to include working with curriculum committees to better integrate technology into the district, to coordinate hardware and software purchases and to assist in writing grants, among other things.

Trustee Paul Van Klaveren questioned whether Witek should do both, adding that information services should be a priority.

Trustee Karen Foyteck questioned whether the position had been posted for other eligible candidates.

Haner answered that although the position was not posted, he felt Witek was the best choice for the job because he had worked with the system since its inception.

As information services director, Witek supervises all information services staff, operates the computer system and its applications and targets computer use to the district's needs.

Reporter's Notebook

At the June 14 meeting of the Springfield Township Board, Supervisor Collin Walls made certain that board members and the audience knew about the ordinance report submitted by Ordinance Officer Robert Bloom.

"For those of you who are wondering what our ordinance officer is doing, we have a 3 3/4-page report here compared to the one- or half-page report we usually get," Walls said. "If he hasn't visited you yet, congratulations."

It seems meetings can be run quickly and efficiently. The Springfield Township Board meeting was over at 8:45 p.m. on Thursday, June 14, which was the same evening as the Pistons played Portland for the NBA World Championship.

Supervisor Collin Walls said the meeting was quick for those who wanted to get home early.

Office administrators get raises

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Clarkston school central office administrators will receive raises in line with those granted to teachers and the superintendent for the next two school years.

The school board unanimously voted June 11 to approve raises for central office administrators of 6.25 percent the first year and 6.5 percent the following year.

A change in the district's insurance policy will also affect central office administrators.

Employees will change from MESSA Supercare II to Supercare I insurance, and will consequently have to pay a deductible for claims.

Central office administrators receiving raises include the assistant superintendent, director of personnel services, director of administrative services, director of business services and director of curriculum.

Negotiations for other administrative staff salaries will be negotiated separately.

Salaries for central office positions are determined using grade levels. The assistant superintendent position is a grade level 11, and the others are grade level 10.

Within each grade level are five steps with a corresponding salary figure for each.

For 1990-91, steps for grade level 10 vary from $58,816 to $67,909. The following year the steps vary from $62,639 to $72,323.

For 1990-91, steps for grade level 11 vary from $60,574 to $69,938. The following year the steps vary from $64,511 to $74,484.

Absent but still horrible

Julie
Campe

It was pleasant at my cousin Nancy's family gathering Sunday on Clarkston Road, Independence Township.

Great-aunt Ethel was up from Florida, as was Aunt Geneva. Lots of first-, second-, third-, and fourth-cousins joined for food and laughs and to mark the occasion of the Floridians' visit.

Markedly absent was Andrew the Horrible, which guaranteed a pleasant day. Even so, people could not help asking about him.

"Where's Andy today?" asked Cousin Cathy, innocently.

I groaned.

"I don't know," someone said.

"Let's just enjoy the day without him," I said, and those who really knew Andy laughed.

It is funny, though, that Andy demands attention even when he isn't present.

If he had been there, he would have teased our mother about her Dick Tracy hat and would have made fun of Cousin Gail for some reason or other. He probably would have tried to steal her socks, had she been wearing them. He's that sort of person.

But instead, we talked about him, which he probably designed. Being the youngest in my family, he is used to being the center of attention, and if he isn't at some point, he subtly changes the course of the conversation to himself.

So he probably calculated that it wouldn't hurt him to miss this gathering in favor of his fiance's family gathering. In fact, if he had come, he would have endangered himself by overexposure.

If he shows up at family gatherings only once in a while, people kind of miss him. When you're not around much, people tend to forget the bad and manufacture, I mean remember, the good.

So on Sunday, without Andrew, we sat at the picnic tables beneath Nancy's shade tree and drank lemonade, recovering from a full meal of marinated chicken and chicken and dumplings. We talked about the log house Cousin Don is building and about how funny Niece Colleen would look wearing no clothes at Cedar Point.

A teen-ager, Colleen complained about how mean her mother was for not taking her shopping before her trip to Cedar Point.

"I don't have any clothes," said Colleen, clearly in anguish.

"I'm hot," she continued in the same sad voice.

"Move into the shade," her mother said, showing no sympathy at all — clearly the neglectful mother Colleen claimed her to be.

But Colleen preferred to complain, which reminded Aunt Leone of her teen-ager Nicole, who was not present either.

Unlike Colleen, Cousin Nicole did get to go shopping that weekend — Leone gave her money to buy cards and presents for her father and sister. Instead, Nicole came home with an outfit for herself and no presents.

Aunt Leone was getting riled up just thinking about it — good thing Nicole wasn't there.

Which brought us back to the subject of Andrew, and how glad my mother was that he was not a teen-ager anymore, and how glad we all were that he was not there that day.

Yes, it was a pleasant day at my Cousin Nancy's.

Groundwater facts may surprise

BY DON WOODWARD

Ask questions about the contamination of our drinking water, and hard answers are likely to come back.

"Get rid of septic tanks."

"Keep landfills out."

"When you dump a chemical product, make sure it's running away from your well."

"Stop professional lawn spraying, and your water problems will be solved."

These were some of the comments in response to a telephone survey on the subject of groundwater.

The survey, designed by the Independence Township Groundwater Leadership Team, was conducted by team members and volunteers from the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club and the League of Women Voters of the Clarkston area.

In general the survey reveals that people are concerned about the quality of groundwater and that they are not very well-informed about the subject. Not yet anyway.

Only one-third (32 percent) said that hazardous household wastes can get into wells through trash pickup/public dumps or landfills.

One-third (33 percent) were not familiar with the term groundwater.

Try it yourself. In your opinion, which of these household products can be hazardous to groundwater? Household cleaning products? Insecticides? Weed killers? Oil-base paint? Motor oil?

Not even half of the respondents thought any of these products could be hazardous when the interviewer mentioned them — except motor oil, which had a score of 67 percent.

Nevertheless, the people in the survey recognize the problem of groundwater/drinking water contamination. And 58 percent said they want to know more.

That's where the Groundwater Leadership Team comes in. We are a resource for information about groundwater.

If you want the facts or have other questions or want to join us in the effort to protect the source of our drinking water, please call East Michigan Environmental Action Council.

They will relay your message to us, and we'll do what we can to respond.

The number to call is 258-5188.

Don Woodward is a member of the Independence Township Groundwater Leadership Team, which is a project of the East Michigan Environmental Action Council.

Jim's Jottings

Remember - when you see a used car advertised as "one owner," that one owner may have been Checker Cab Co.

The song that goes . . . "Touch my hair as you pass my chair, Little Things Mean a Lot," must have been written in the pre-hair-spray days. Today a person could get their finger cut or break the hair.

At first I thought a tough job would be working for Budweiser (Marlboro, etc.) finding new ways to get the company name mentioned or read. They've used bottoms of swimming pools, desert scenes, cars, boats, etc. Recently there was a Michigan Budweiser shuffleboard tournament. Now I've concluded the job would be easy. Just write down every activity, non-academic, and Bud'll go for it.

The mosquitos are bigger and nastier this year than any time in history. Yes, we said the same thing last year, and the year before, etc.

I prepared an area in our backyard for flowers and grass. In less than a week I found a small woodchuck buried in the flower bed and saw a turtle laying eggs in the proposed lawn area.

I find Detroit Edison people the easiest to deal with of all the utilities who serve us.

People are sure hard up for lovin' when they resort to hugging a stadium (Tiger).

I've complained loud and long about fish shunning my lures. My feelings were made worse this week when my brother Dair, who often fishes alone, trolling with two poles, told me he had two northern pike on at the same time and landed them both. I don't believe the guy who says he had a hole-in-one while playing alone on the golf course either.

What ever happened to: Noriega, Castro, Gov Milliken, Kirk Gibson, Adrian Dantley, Tom Barrow, Burma Shave signs and R. G. Dunn cigars?

There's a computer program available (my nephew sells 'em) that could reduce the planning to production time on cars to 6 months. It's 6 or 7 years now. If companies go to this schedule, will it still take 3-4 months to get a Suburban like it does now?

There are more road repairs and detours this year than ever before in history. Yes, I said the same thing last year, and the year before, etc.

Helpful support

I would like to thank all those people who supported me during the recent school board election, particularly those who made a donation, displayed my yard sign, and/or whose names appeared in my ads.

Special thanks go to Doug Carlson whose help was truly invaluable!

From This Perspective

You win some, and you lose some

Tracy King

I've put my dad through his hoops during his 27-year career as a father.

Because he was completely inexperienced when I was born, I gave him a break for about the first 10 years.

He didn't get his first real taste of parenthood until I was in junior high, when he was called before a table full of teachers to explain why his otherwise perfect daughter was passing notes with drawings in them. (I still protest that I could never draw that well, even if I wanted to. I was just looking.)

By high school, he had found his stride.

He designed elaborate schemes to motivate us, such as: "The family is going to Hawaii... one 'C' and you stay home."

This was an early experiment and didn't work too well. Not only did I still get the "C," but the whole failed mess showed up in the newspaper years later.

He had better success with dating.

A few months shy of college and true freedom, I began to date THAT BOY.

He wasn't a boy, he was a musician, I argued night after night. He had to pick me up at 11 p.m. so that we could be downtown by midnight, for his performance.

A former jazz singer himself, my father chose a powerful weapon. Every time I dated this particular person, I would owe my dad $50.

This was too much. I was an adult, about to enter college, and would not succumb to this ridiculous monitoring.

We passed the last few weeks of my childhood in uneasy silence, until finally, I arrived at college feeling the victor. I had worked all summer to earn almost $2,000 in spending money and was at the threshold of higher education.

The gatekeepers of this great educational experience—the clerks in the Bursar's office—delivered the chilling news: Registration canceled for lack of payment.

"What is this?" I wailed to my father, long distance.

"From my calculations, you owe me well over $500," he said, simply.

I had created a monster.

He had won, I decided, dejectedly. I paid the tuition bill and painfully decided I would approach the pillars of higher learning without parents.

Over time, I began to regard his clever scheme with some respect. How cunning, how deadly.

Eventually, by-gones became by-gones.

Being my father's daughter, however, I plan to have the final say.

Just as he's all settled and comfortable reminiscing about the joys of parenthood, I'll spring it on him: Grandfathering!

Gotcha there, dad.

'If it Fitz...'

Abortion, childbearing can both be tragedies

Jim Fitzgerald

I delight in bragging that my youngest grandchild attended a Detroit-Chicago playoff game and reacted with wild physical enthusiasm to the tremendous crowd noise.

My youngest grandchild isn't due to be born until September. He or she (his parents opted not to know which until birth) did a Pistons victory dance inside his mother's womb.

When I give a boring account of my potential grandson being a Pistons fan, my pro-life friends have a sharp question: If I can regard an unborn child as already part of my family, how can I possibly support the right of a pregnant woman to choose an abortion?

I give my anti-abortion friends added ammunition. I tell them I know of an unmarried teenage couple who, when they discovered she was pregnant, chose an abortion for the most common reasons - they were immature and, financially and emotionally, unprepared to raise a child. But they chose too late; the doctor said the baby was too far along to be aborted.

So an adoption was arranged through Dearborn attorney Noel Keane, much better known for arranging surrogate births. A marvelous couple took the infant boy home two days after his birth and he is prospering. The biological parents don't know the full name or hometown of the adoptive parents, but they have met, and letters and snapshots are exchanged through a third party.

For everyone involved, the adoption has been a great success, certainly much happier than an abortion.

So what I'm saying, my pro-life friends wonder. Have I abandoned my pro-choice stance? The question was particularly relevant a few weeks ago when my daughter, the expectant mother, had some trouble, and a miscarriage was feared. When I heard the alarming news, I had to take several deep breaths to keep the sobs down. I hated the idea of losing that unborn child; I remembered how lousy we felt the times my wife miscarried.

That's why I was particularly elated to hear about my youngest grandchild's performance at the Pistons game. Everything seems fine now and, along with many people I love, I'm very grateful.

But I'm not very anti-abortion, any more than I'm very pro-abortion.

Mostly, I'm very reluctant to even write about the subject. It's none of my business what women do or don't do with their bodies. That's personal, between a woman and her conscience and her doctor and anyone else - husband, priest, lawmaker, cop - she might invite to join the discussion. I see no invitation for me.

I certainly don't want to add to the unthinking stridency that mars both sides of the argument: It's unfair to charge that pro-lifers care only about unborn life. Plenty of them also work to improve the welfare of children born unwanted and neglected. It's also unfair to use religious beliefs to justify a "murderer" charge against women who have abortions. The highest court in the land says abortions are legal.

Birth control is the best answer. Abstinence is unrealistic. But Pope John Paul II recently went to Mexico and preached strongly against artificial contraception. Predominantly Roman Catholic Mexico is struggling to slow the explosive population growth that strains its aching economy. Similarly miserable stories are true in other countries where spiraling birthrates cause famines and other suffering.

I have no patience for pro-lifers who don't - for religious or any other reason - encourage birth control education, including the availability of contraceptive devices. Most U.S. Catholics have figured out how to get around the Pope's teachings on birth control, and it's only a matter of time before the rest of the Catholic world catches up. But during that time, a lot of unwanted children will be born to be abused.

So I'll continue to worry about how close an early abortion comes to killing a human being who might have enjoyed a basketball game. But I'll also worry about how much of a woman is killed when the government uses her body to have a baby she doesn't want.

Show merchants our appreciation

We have just worked on our third Clarkston High School post-graduation party, and each year the party seems to have gotten bigger and better.

Over 80 percent of the graduating class attended this year's all-night party. We think this is certainly a better way for our young people to celebrate on their graduation night.

This party comes about through the leadership of the high school administration and the efforts of a group of interested parents.

What really makes the party a tremendous success is the outpouring of generosity and support by the business and professional people of our community.

These people expect and get little from their contributions other than the satisfaction of contributing to a function to help our young people safely celebrate an important occasion in their lives.

Elsewhere in this newspaper there is a list of all these supporters. We ask that you take note of these people and let them know that you appreciate their generosity.

Steve and Karen Werner

Mann Road sub not beneficial

The Independence Township Board of Trustees has done it again to the people of the southeast corner of the township.

On June 2, they approved the mobile home park for Mann Road.

The developer, Gregory Christopher, had sued the township for being exclusionary when it denied rezoning for the 76-acre, 305-unit mobile home park.

The attorneys for the case were in court April 12. They were real chummy and talked to the judge for five minutes and then said they were going to file new motions, and it would probably be sometime in July before anything else would be done.

Then on June 7 we read in the paper that the board of trustees had approved it.

Mr. Christopher said in his suit that the township was denying low-income housing to residents. Double-wide trailers are not cheap; when added to more than $300 in parking it is not low rent.

With the trailer park and the proposed golf course and condominiums, they will increase the traffic in this area more than 50 percent.

Traffic in the area of Maybee Road and Sashabaw Road is already so bad that you can hardly get through there at peak hours.

There should be an injunction or something keeping them from building massive projects in this area until something is done about the traffic.

If they can't accommodate this area with adequate roads, then don't approve them. As the old saying goes, money talks, and you can't fight city hall. I guess it will take a tragedy before they realize there is a problem.

Another thing that the officials of the township did was to send trees home with our children for Earth Day.

They make a big deal about planting trees to save the earth, and then they turn around and approve a development that can destroy thousands of small and big trees. To me this makes them hypocrites.

This developer will have to destroy 1,500 to 2,000 trees along Mann Road for this project.

When it comes time for a new board, I hope the people of the township realize what is happening and vote for someone that will try to understand and work for the people and not developers.

The developers come in, rape the area, collect their money and live somewhere else. They don't have to worry about traffic problem assessments of lower property values or overcrowding of our schools.

If the small homeowner wants to do anything to his property, the township fights them all the way.

If Mr. Christopher can have his land rezoned, I hope if and when we want ours rezoned for commercial to build party stores and other businesses to accommodate all the people that these projects will bring in, the board will be as considerate.

Mary Klender

Thanks to all

We would like to thank the many workers who volunteered many hours of their time to help put on this year's post-graduation party.

Bon voyage, "Cruisin' into the '90s" turned out to be a smashing success.

A special thanks goes to Forrest and Jackie Milzow for the use of their restaurant. Without the use of their facility, our seniors would not have had such a wonderful place to have their all-night graduation party.

Ron and Sue Wagner, who chaired the decoration committee along with Sharon Steinhelper, did an outstanding job with this year's decorations. They virtually turned the place into a cruise-ship for the night.

Roz Needham and Sandy Meyer headed the food committee, fed 380-plus hungry seniors for the better part of seven hours.

Connie John and Geri Kar co-chaired the favors committee and turned every senior's picture into a passport and provided each senior who attended the party a T-shirt to remember the special event.

Dr. Steve Werner and Roger Deiderich put in countless hours of getting donations for door prizes, including a grand prize, which was a "Razz" motorbike, donated by a local dealership.

Coverage of this party was due to the excellent work of Mary Sloan and her publicity committee. Also, we had outstanding security due to the work of Dave Meyer. Ken Mitchell and his workers did a great job of keeping up with the cleanup during the night.

Jane King and the entertainment committee provided hours of top-notch activities for the large group. There was dancing to D.J. Dick Myre, a casino for gambling, hypnotist Jim Hoke, a picture button lady, euchre tournaments and also a video was made for the students to purchase for a remembrance of this special event.

We would also like to thank Principal Robert Burek for his assistance and guidance, for without his help we would not have been able to put on this exciting event for our senior class.

To the graduating class of 1990 goes the biggest class of all. These young ladies and gentlemen were such a great bunch of kids to work with. They were most gracious in their final hours at Clarkston High School.

Our community should know that there was absolutely no problems during the night. They should be very proud of themselves, as we the co-chairs of the post-graduation party are of them. All of our time and effort was well worth every minute we spent in putting the party together.

Thanks again to all the committees and the best of luck to the Class of 1990. You deserve the very best in the future.

Trudy Locher
Karen Tinkis
Linda Ryan

Perfect evening

We would like to thank Jan Ritter and her committee for putting together the Senior Dinner June 3.

The graduating seniors enjoyed an evening of memories from their high school years. There was entertainment; skits were performed, and senior-year memories were shared.

It was a perfect evening for the seniors to remember. Thanks again, Jan, for all your hard work. We all really appreciate it.

Trudy Locher
Karen Tinkis
Linda Ryan

Chairwomen make it a success

Close to 400 seniors enjoyed (in their words) the finest party of their lives at the Deer Lake Racquet Club the night of June 6, following the commencement ceremony.

More than 100 parents organized the activities, beginning last January, and they continued the monumental planning on a weekly basis for the balance of the spring to ensure the success of the activity.

Three parents, Mrs. Trudy Locher, Mrs. Karen Tinkis and Mrs. Linda Ryan, were the chairwomen for the effort and spent countless hours, many evenings and even weekends in orchestrating the party.

We wish to offer our sincere appreciation for all they did to make the party the huge success it was.

Faulty siren wakes resident

An angry Waldon Road resident called the News' office on Monday, June 18, to report the inadvertent blaring of an "emergency siren," at the corner of Sashabaw and Clarkston roads, over the weekend.

Iva Caverly of Independence Township reported that she was awakened about 2:15 a.m. Saturday to the sounds of a siren. She was uncertain what the emergency was and, in calling various township and county stations, discovered that it was a malfunction.

Leanne Robinson, emergency management coordinator at the Oakland Emergency Department, said that there was indeed a malfunction during the early hours of Saturday morning.

"We get perhaps three malfunctioning soundings a year, but we have 151 sirens in all on our emergency system," she explained. "Each siren is radio-controlled with a designated tone, but it's very unlikely that we'd get someone to intentionally activate that siren."

"We live in a very high-tech area, and an unbalanced tone from say a police radio could possibly set it off," Robinson added. "Nevertheless, we've sent people out to check on the siren itself to make sure that it doesn't have an electronic glitch."

Lighthouse North, Caregivers host open house

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

The historic chapel of Sashabaw Presbyterian Church was like a beacon of light June 15 during the open house for Lighthouse North and Caregivers North.

Residents and officials from all over north Oakland County were attracted to the building for the ceremony for the new service agency that officially opened about two months ago.

Open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, the building on Maybee Road, Independence Township, now houses the organization that provides emergency services, food, clothing, limited financial assistance, housing, advocacy and assistance, assistance to homebound elderly and handicapped, information and referral, emergency medical and prescription assistance.

Clients may walk in or call for an appointment, and services are free.

It covers the townships of Brandon, Groveland, Holly, Independence, Orion, Oxford, Rose and Springfield.

Lighthouse North Director Sherry Kaars said help for the new facility has come from the entire community.

She recognized Independence Supervisor Frank Ronk, the Revs. Bill and Jenny Schram, teacher and builder Dick Moscovic, physician and folk singer Mike Baker and his wife Connie, plus Bud Temple and lots of others, she said.

Help has come in the form of free labor, cash donations, ideas, contacts, use of facilities and tools and more.

Kaars, who has spent eight years in the non-profit arena with United Way, knew that no services housed themselves in north Oakland County—it was needed, she said.

Sally Swayne, coordinator of the Caregiver pro-

TALKING at the Lighthouse North and Caregivers North open house are Pat Alexander (left), a Brandon Township trustee, and Sherry Kaars, director of Lighthouse North. Independence Supervisor Frank Ronk said the township was glad to have the organization in the community. “We live in a pretty affluent area here in Independence Township, and we need to take a look at others in need,” he said.

gram, said rural needs are different from city needs, mainly because transportation is a problem.

“Rural communities have a way of receiving the last of whatever there is to receive because they’re so far away,” said Swayne.

The new building is perfect, she said.

“They just feel like they’re at home here.”

Summer school registration extended

Registration for summer school through Clarkston schools has been extended past the June 22 deadline.

Not many people had registered as of June 18, said Ron Santavicca, who runs the program for grades 9-12 at Clarkston High School.

Classes — offered in mornings or afternoons — range from history to government to algebra, said Santavicca.

It’s a good opportunity to catch up on missed classes, to retake classes for a better grade or to get ahead in classes, he said.

However, since not many people have registered, some classes may be canceled. He recommended that any student or parent who thinks a class might be necessary call immediately to sign up. Registration takes place at the high school. The phone number is 625-0900.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

ROLLOVER VS $125,000 EXCLUSION

QUESTION: What is the difference between a rollover and the $125,000 profit exclusion?

ANSWER: The rollover is a means of deferring payment of any capital gains tax if you sell your principal residence and buy another (within two years) for more money. There is no limit on the number of times you can use this deferral.

If you are over 55, you can exclude up to $125,000 in taxable profit from the sale of your principal residence - whether or not you buy another home. The home must have been your principal residence for at least three of these five years preceding the sale.

THERE IS NO limit to the number of rollovers. The $125,000 exclusion is a one time opportunity.

Bridge Lake Road gets yet another name change

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Another name change is in store for a section of the former Bridge Lake Road, which received a new name at the May 9, Springfield Township Board meeting.

The southern-most portion of Bridge Lake Road was changed to Locust Grove Road at the May meeting, but one month later it was renamed to Ridgewood.

A petition was received from about 65 to 75 percent of the residents objecting to the name Locust Grove, said Supervisor Collin Walls.

On Monday, June 11, about 31 people from 25 homes on the southern portion of the former Bridge Lake Road met at the township hall to vote on a different name.

The group selected South Bridge and Ridgewood. Ridgewood received a unanimous vote from the board.

Residents received a letter from Walls before the May meeting stating that suggestions for the name changes of the four sections of Bridge Lake Road "can't include the words Bridge or Bridge Lake and can not be identical to or similar to other roads within the general area."

Betty Hecker and Don Weber, Locust Grove residents, attended the June meeting as representatives for the group who met on Monday.

Hecker said she preferred a name with Bridge in it.

But Walls said that the Road Commission for Oakland County did not accept the name South Bridge because of a similar name in neighboring Waterford Township near Nelsey Road.

Tree-replacement program to protect power lines

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Trees are an important part of the environment, but they can also wreak havoc with power lines.

In an attempt to prevent power line problems, Detroit Edison is starting a tree-replacement program designed to help manage trees growing under power lines.

Independence Township and the Village of Clarkston are included in the program.

Detroit Edison has conducted a survey of trees that grow beneath its power lines. Trees that interfere with lines are to be removed and replaced with trees that won't harm the lines.

By mid-June property owners will be contacted if their trees are included in the survey.

Edison is to cut down trees less than 10 inches in diameter that are considered to be less desirable — willow, poplar, silver maple, box elder and Siberian elm. Trees larger than 10 inches in diameter are to be trimmed.

The above varieties of trees grow quickly and are brittle and frequently cause power outages during storms.

Trees that interfere with lines are to be removed and replaced with trees that won't harm the lines.

The trees are to be replaced with flowering crab and red bud trees that never need trimming, said Jack Donahue, general foreman for Detroit Edison.

The two varieties only grow to 25 feet in height, and once they're planted, the other "volunteer varieties" — willow, poplar, silver maple — won't grow around them, Donahue said.

For more information, call 645-4448.

34-lot Stone Valley off Sashabaw approved

A subdivision off Sashabaw and Stickney roads in Independence Township received tentative preliminary plat approval June 5.

The township board voted unanimously to approve Stone Valley subdivision, subject to paving the subdivision's entrance and possibly adding safety paths.

A tentative preliminary plat is composed of a detailed lot layout and requires two more board approvals before construction can begin.

Developer Arthur Jackson proposes 34 15,000-square-foot lots on the 23-acre parcel of property. Each lot will have an individual well system.

Village hearing on Truth in Taxation

A Truth in Taxation hearing is set for 7:30 p.m. Monday, June 25, before the Clarkston Village Council.

The hearing takes place at the Village Hall, 375 Depot Rd.

The council proposed a 6.15 millage rate for the general fund and one-half mill for the debt retirement fund for sewer construction, making the proposed total millage rate for 1990 6.65 mills.

A mill is $1 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation.

The village council is authorized to levy a maximum of 9.7375 mills for general fund purposes, but the council decided that 6.15 mills is enough for expenses in the 1990 budget.

Teacher recalled

A layoff notice issued to a Clarkston teacher earlier this spring will be rescinded.

The school board unanimously voted to recall Barbara Mack, a teacher at the Oakland Technical Center - Northwest campus.

Mack was laid off because school administrators expected the CPC Workplace Basics Program to be discontinued for lack of funding from General Motors.

GM now plans to continue the program, so Mack will be notified of employment for the 1990-91 school year.

The recall was approved with little discussion.

Citizens for Orderly Growth

Township officials were realistic and reasonable

Doug Carlson

In September 1988, a developer by the name of Greg Christopher approached the Independence Township Planning Commission with a proposal to build a mobile home park on Mann Road, just east of Clintonville Road.

Mr. Christopher was asking for a PUD (planned unit development) zoning on the property since the current zoning would not accommodate a development of this type.

After much discussion, the planning commission ultimately rejected the request, as did the township board at subsequent meetings.

Mr. Christopher then initiated a lawsuit against the township charging discrimination by not offering affordable housing for residents. Subsequent discussions on compromise solutions failed to resolve the impasse.

At the June 5 meeting of the township board, Mr. Christopher presented yet another compromise regarding his proposed mobile home park. The compromise included the following items:

1. All of the units in the park would be double-wide.
2. There would be only 3.9 units per acre, or 298 units on the entire parcel. This is far fewer than the number normally found in a project of this type.
3. Additional landscaping would be included.

After much questioning and a great deal of discussion, the township board accepted the compromise offered by Mr. Christopher, thus ending the litigation against the township. The board's reasoning for accepting the proposal went something like this:

1. The State of Michigan requires us to provide a certain amount of low-income housing within our township. We have very little.
2. Accepting the mobile home park could provide the township with a valid argument against having to accept more low-income housing in the future.
3. However, if we do have to accept other such parks, Mr. Christopher's development would provide a good prototype for future planning.
4. If the lawsuit went to arbitration, which it could have, we could end up with a much more detrimental development than the one that is being proposed.

5. The tax revenue generated by this project would be at least equal to what the township would receive if the property was zoned for rural residential use.

6. Mr. Christopher has a reputation as a quality builder. NOTE: Mr. Christopher came to one of our COG meetings in 1988 to give us an opportunity to see firsthand what he would be presenting to the planning commission. We were impressed with his sincerity and obvious desire to do what was right for the residents in the Mann Road-Clintonville area.

I doubt if there are many people in Independence Township, including myself, who are happy about having a mobile home park within our boundaries. And there's no question that these additional 298 housing units will add considerably to the traffic problems in the Clintonville Road area. And, finally, some beautiful trees along Mann Road probably will be lost in the construction process.

All things considered, however, I have to agree with the township board's decision to accept Mr. Christopher's recent proposal. Required or not, we have an obligation to provide adequate low-income housing for retirees, newlyweds and families with low to moderate incomes.

Secondly, we have to be realistic and reasonable about growth. We're a growing community, and it's going to get worse. All we can do is try to control it as much as possible.

And, I feel, this is what the township board did in the case of the mobile home park. They didn't "roll over and play dead" at the first proposal presented. Rather, they fought it until they reached a point where a reasonable offer could not realistically be refused.

Realistic and reasonable. That's all we can ask of our township officials, and of ourselves. Let's hope future developers will do the same.

Doug Carlson is chairman of Citizens for Orderly Growth.

Deer causes I-75 rollover near Dixie

A deer caused a rollover accident on I-75, near northbound Dixie Highway in Springfield Township, June 13, sending one woman to the hospital with injuries.

At 9:50 p.m., a car occupied by two Midland residents, Heide S. Brabaw, 16, and Barbara G. Scribner, 46, took a tumble in an attempt to avoid hitting the animal.

Brabaw, the driver, swerved to avoid a deer that was streaking across I-75, and the skidding action of the vehicle caused it to become airborne and to tumble several times across the roadway.

Brabaw, who was restrained by a seat belt, escaped uninjured, but her passenger, Scribner, who wasn't wearing a seat belt, was shaken up by the accident.

Scribner was taken to Pontiac General Hospital and was released two days later.

Two firefighters hurt in Waterford blaze

Two Independence Township firefighters were treated for heat exhaustion due to their participation in an intense blaze in Waterford Township June 13.

Cliff Wilkerson, 42, and Rita Wiley, 20, arrived with an Independence Township fire truck to assist Waterford's fire department with the inferno.

The fire originated from the explosion of an alcohol-filled truck that caught fire at a Waterford Township gas and fuel distributor, the Viking Oil Company. Damage was estimated at over $1 million for the Lessing Road company.

The firefighters were treated at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital and released the same day.

A golden oldie

Two Clarkston-area residents were among the 13 recently honored by the YMCA at the "Golden Oldies" recognition luncheon at the Rotary Club meeting in downtown Detroit.

The Golden Oldies luncheon is an annual event to honor outstanding senior citizens who are 80 years old and older who are active volunteers.

Ted Speuhler, 83, is a member of the Auxiliary at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac, and service chair for the Cardiac Care Unit. He coordinates and trains volunteers who assist patients and their families.

Speuhler, an ordained elder of the Reorganizational Church of the Latter Day Saints in Pontiac, dedicates from 10 to 40 hours per week as the director of Daytime Ministry, visiting sick members and conducting daytime worship services for seniors.

He also has completed training and begins a new volunteer role as peer counselor for Lighthouse North in Independence Township.

Plus, he pursues an active interest in golf.

Emma Roan, 86, volunteers more than 20 hours each week to the Senior Companion Program, assisting six people who have a need for her service.

As a retired licensed practical nurse, Roan goes to the homes of her clients, giving them professional care and support. She offers good cheer, empathy and courage to those struggling with illness.

She was honored for her patience, motivation, sense of humor and dedicated service.

Kenyon owner sued for $35 million

By NICHOLAS BROWN
Staff Business Writer

Bankers Trust Co., the New York bank that lent money to the owner of bankrupt Kenyon Home Furnishings of Thomasville, is suing to try to get back up to $35 million. A Bankers Trust subsidiary has sued Bentley Blum, principal owner of Federal Resources Corp., the New York company that purchased Kenyon in 1988. Federal provided a $35.5 million line of credit to Kenyon.

The suit, filed in a New York state court, alleges Blum signed two guarantees on Kenyon's debts, one for $500,000 and the other making Blum liable for Kenyon's remaining outstanding debt.

In July, Kenyon filed for Chapter 7 bankruptcy liquidation, listing $51.2 million in debts, $11.4 million in assets and about 300 creditors.

That action followed a civil lawsuit filed in May by Federal Resources and Kenyon Home Furnishings, which accused four current and former Kenyon officers of fraud and said $15 to $30 million in company funds is missing. The allegations prompted an FBI investigation, which is still active, according to an FBI spokesman in Greensboro.

Bankers Trust filed a separate suit earlier this month in U.S. District Court in Greensboro, detailing the plan it said was used by former Kenyon executives to defraud the bank.

That suit charges Kenneth Korchekian, Kenyon founder and former president, and James Pearce, former chief financial officer, with misrepresenting Kenyon's financial condition by reporting inflated sales, income, accounts receivable and net worth.

Old pros and a rookie

1968 WORLD Champion Detroit Tigers Jim Northrup (signing an autograph) and Denny McLain volunteered their time to sign free autographs for charity during Sunday's Flashback to Summer Picnic at Independence Oaks County Park. Hall of Famer Lou Boudreau also joined the Tigers in the autograph session. One of an estimated 200-300 people who lined up for autographs was Jonathon Crook of Warren. Other baseball memorabilia was sold in addition to the autographs, which benefited the Independence Township Parks and Recreation program.

Wolves honor MVPs in all sports

Most Valuable Players for spring sports teams at Clarkston High School were recently added to those already chosen for the fall and winter sports seasons.

In addition, the girls' track team joined the list of Greater Oakland Activities League champions. Other Clarkston teams to win league titles this season were girls' basketball, boys' basketball, boys' cross country, boys' skiing and girls' skiing.

Wendy Manning and Brett Kinzler were selected as Clarkston's GOAL

Athletic/Academic Representatives.

MSU cheerleaders conduct camp at CHS

Several Michigan State University cheerleaders will be instructors at a June 30 cheerleading camp at Clarkston High School.

Girls and boys in grades 7-12 interested should register by June 25 with the Clarkston Community Schools office (674-3141).

One of the MSU cheerleaders will be Cheryl Molzon, a 1988 Clarkston High School graduate.

The camp will be from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and instructors will teach crowd-response techniques, stunting, dance, gymnastics and cheers.

Golf, pizza for teens July 13

School is over and there's nothing to do?

The Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department may have an answer to that question with its Teen Club.

Anyone 12-18 years old can be a member of the Teen Club.

The first event planned is a best-ball golf scramble July 13 at Spring Lake Golf Course. The cost is $12, which includes an all-you-can-eat-pizza and pop party after the golf. Participants need to bring their own clubs at the event.

Pre-registration is necessary. To register or for more information, call 625-8223.

Mini-Day Camp for 4- to 6-year-olds

Any 4-6 year olds wishing to be involved with the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department's Mini-Day Camp need to register.

The camp meets June 25, 27 and 29 from 10:30 a.m. to noon at Clintonwood Park. Campers will experience what it is like at a day camp and will be under the direction of a camp counselor.

The cost is $12 and pre-registration is necessary. For more information, call 625-8223.

Swinging from the heels

Piston fans run on different cylinders

NBA basketball, it's fanntastic! With the Detroit Pistons repeat championship last week, NBA b-ball has been especially fantastic for Piston fans.

But who are the real Piston fans? I don't think there is one kind of Piston fan. In fact, there are as many types of fans as illegal defenses.

If you think of yourself as a Piston fan, you probably fall into one of the following (or a combination):

Bad Apple Turnover Fans: These "fans" comprise less than 1 percent of all Piston fans, but, unfortunately, much of the nation will see these jerks who turn over cars, loot or even kill. They use a championship as an excuse to break the law.

Would Portland fans have reacted the same way? I doubt it. However, when the Trailblazers won the West Division and flew into a Hillsboro, Ore., airport, there were rowdies present, doing some damage.

The solution isn't not winning any more championships, but rather doing something about the day-to-day problems in the city, a task much tougher than even three-peating for an NBA championship.

Luxury Box Look Down Uponer Fans: These are the guys that know how many points the stock market was up on any given day but have no idea about how many points the Pistons are up or down.

Of course, the Piston brass loves these fans best. And so do the box holders' children, clients, girlfriends, etc.

These fans never bought season tickets, let alone saw a game, when the Pistons were losing in Cobo Arena. When the Pistons start losing in 1994, they'll start looking for another hobby.

YUPPIE Fans: It's easy to spot the YUPPIE (Young Unspontaneously Phony Piston Idolizing Elitists) fans. They're the ones who only feel comfortable at a Piston game wearing a tie or a new Hudson's dress that doesn't clash with the color of the opposing team's jerseys.

Many of these fans are season-ticket holders, receiving their tickets from their 3-piece suited fathers who own a luxury box.

They watch the scoreboard for cues when to clap as much as they watch each other.

They also leave with 3:15 left on the clock during a tie game so they can leave ASAP with their BMWs.

Have T-shirt, Will Party Fans: Most of these fans are too young to be YUPPIE fans but rich enough to spend their daily allowances on Piston T-shirts, Piston radios, Piston basketball shoes, Piston backboards, etc. Advertisers love them.

They comprised about half of the crowd at The Palace's three Palaclevision games (games 3-5). They know little about basketball and don't know if the Pistons are playing the Blazers or the Bucks, but they do know how to be noisy, cheer on cue with the scoreboard, check out the babes in the audience and how to party during championships.

Home and Away Fans: These are the Piston fans now living all over the country. They may attend Suns games in Phoenix or Spur games in San Antonio, but they still check the morning newspaper to see if they Pistons won the night before.

They've adapted to their new team, but will go out of their way to see the one game when the Pistons come into their town or make sure they watch the Pistons when they're on national TV.

They wear Piston T-shirts while shopping in a Portland, Ore., mall or on the streets of Los Angeles.

Locked-Out-But-Still-Fans Fans: Even though these are some of the best Piston fans in the state, many of these fans saw their first game at The Palace this season during one of the Palaclevision games during the finals.

These fans constantly watch the Pistons on TV or listen to them on the radio because they can't get tickets to a game or they don't know anyone who is a Luxury Box Look Down Uponer Fan.

They are the loudest fans and joined the Have T-Shirt, Will Party Fans for probably the three loudest days this season at The Palace, even though their favorite team was over 2,000 miles away.

When the Pistons eventually fall out of first place, then down to second, third, etc., more of these fans will be able to finally see a game in person (if they can afford the prices).

Cobo to the Silverdome to The Palace Fans: These are the die-hard Piston fans. They showed up to cheer when the Pistons played at Cobo Arena and had some of the sorriest teams in professional sports.

For years and years, they suffered through the Dave DeBeushere-Walt Belamy trade and the Dave Bing-Bob Lanier-and-3-whoever teams.

They were tantalized in 1987 and 1988 when the Pistons came close, but they still didn't give up hope.

And then last year and this year, again, their dreams came true.

If I were to place myself in these categories, it would have to be in the Home and Away Fans category, even though I now live in Clarkston.

I have only seen two Piston games (one at Cobo and one exhibition game at Bay City Central's gym) in Michigan.

I lived in the Northwest for eight of the last 10 years and saw about 10 Sonic games in Seattle (including one against the Pistons) and, dare I say, about four Blazer games in Portland.

My loyalties aren't as strong with the Pistons as they are with the Detroit Tigers (I will forever be a Detroit Tiger fan unless they move from Tiger Stadium), but I will always have a soft spot for any Michigan team.

I am especially happy for the Detroit Piston players themselves. They played like true champions and are a great team. And add to that list, coach Chuck Daly and Jack McCloskey.

And last but not least, I am happy for the Piston fans. At least most of them.

Coming home

SEAN Blower scores for Mr. Bigs Sports Bar & Grill in his team's 5-4 loss to the Ashley Magic Company Sunday.

No-hitter opens season

Scott Hill made a grand entrance Saturday in the season opener of the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Widget League.

Hill pitched a no-hitter as his Sharyn's Homers stopped Sander's Martial Arts, 4-1.

The 12-year-old, pitching for the third straight year in the league, struck out 15 batters in six innings of work. Hill walked in Sander's only run.

A pair...

Carl-Gunnar Karlstrom sank a hole-in-one May 19 at the Edgewood Country Club in Union Lake.

Karlstrom, who lives on Sashabaw Road in Independence Township, made the ace on the 156-yard ninth hole.

...of aces

After 40 years on the links, Arthur Harder made his first hole-in-one June 18 at the Pine Knob Golf Course.

Harder, a resident of Birmingham, used a 5-iron on the 163-yard seventh hole.

Curt Harder and Edward Kristofik were the witnesses.

The ace was the fourth one this season on the Pine Knob course. The other three golfers were Bill Nelson, Doug Walls and club pro Matt Daubner.

CLINTONWOOD PARK OPEN HOUSE AND ALUMNI SOFTBALL CELEBRATION

In celebration of 15 years of softball at Clintonwood Park, there will be an open house and Alumni Softball Celebration at the park on Saturday, July 21. There will be activities going on all day for families, all-star softball games featuring current players and special exhibition games featuring past players. A disc jockey will be present to entertain during the evening. There is no cost to attend any of these events. The Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department is looking for players who have played at the park so it can send them an invitation to the Alumni Softball Celebration.

SAFETY TOWN

Parents can register their children for Safety Town, a program designed to teach safety to 4, 5, and 6 year olds. For two weeks, two hours a day, children will learn with actual practice aspects of safety...strangers, poisons, bicycles, railroad crossings, bus, playground, toys, water, traffic, child safety seats, animals and more. These important messages will be taught by teachers, police officers and fire fighters.

MINI-SPORTS FESTIVAL

Volleyball, basketball, softball, tennis and soccer tournaments will be featured at the Mini-Sports Festival June 22-24 at Clintonwood Park. Winners of many of these tournaments will win berths to the Michigan Sports Festival Aug. 3-5 in Battle Creek.

After tournament action on Saturday, June 23, players and fans are invited to stay around and enjoy entertainment provided by a disc jockey.

YOUTH SOCCER REGISTRATION

Registration for boys and girls (6-19 years old) who would like to play soccer this fall or next spring begins June 2 at the Soccerfest at Clintonwood Park.

Those registering June 2 through July 13 may take advantage of a special rate. Those registering July 16 through July 31 will be charged a regular rate.

The season is tentatively scheduled to begin in late August for the under-8, under-10 and under-12 leagues. The travel league teams may begin as early as mid-August. To receive a flyer on youth soccer, call the rec department.

FOR MORE INFORMATION

Call 625-8223 or stop by the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department, 90 N. Main St., Clarkston. The office is open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Business Briefs

New librarian hired

A Dearborn resident is the new adult services librarian at the Independence Township Library.

On June 5, the township board unanimously approved hiring Karyn Cain on the recommendation of a selection committee, which chose Cain from a field of seven applicants.

Cain is a 1989 graduate of the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, where she received a master's degree in information and library studies. As an undergraduate, Cain worked in the campus library where she carried out various responsibilities. During her last semester in college, she collected field work experience at the Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn.

Cain is presently employed as an adult services librarian at the Bloomfield Township Library and is seeking living accommodations in northern Oakland County.

According to library Director James Hibler, Cain is a bright, eager and motivated person who will serve as a good representative for the library and the township.

She is to begin in early July.

The position was advertised as paying about $26,000 per year, but the township board is to discuss Cain's salary requirements at the next board meeting.

Regional conference

Primo V. Tongko Jr. of Clarkston recently attended The Prudential's regional business conference in Nashville, Tenn.

Tongko is an agent in the company's Highlands district office at 5215 Highland Rd., Pontiac.

Freelancer wins top photography awards

DuFresne, a freelance writer and contributor to Booth Newspapers, won the Charlie Welsh Award for Best Color Photo for "On Top of the World," a view of a hiker overlooking a valley, from his book, "Tramping in New Zealand."

DuFresne also took second in the Best Black and White Photo category for a photo of a winter steelhead angler holding a fish. It was from his book, "Michigan State Parks," released in June 1989.

Altogether, there were 49 print entries, 12 in the photo division and eight in the broadcast category. Awards were presented at Munising during MOWA's annual summer meeting June 2.

New minister joins Davisburg Baptist

A new minister joined the First Baptist Church of Davisburg, Andersonville Road, Springfield Township.

The Rev. Michael Colladay will work as senior pastor and is to begin his first Sunday in Davisburg June 24.

Colladay was born and raised in Michigan. He was graduated from William Tyndale College in Farmington Hills with a bachelor's degree in religious education.

He also has earned the following master of arts degrees: guidance and counseling, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor; biblical studies, Dallas Theological Seminary; and Christian education, Dallas Theological Seminary.

Colladay and his wife, Diana, have four children. The Colladays most recently served a pastorate in Colorado.

3 hearings before planning commission

A rezoning request, a change to the site condominium ordinance and a change to the sign ordinance are the topics of public hearings Thursday, June 28.

The Independence Township Planning Commission is to conduct the hearings at 7:30 p.m. in the township annex, 90 N. Main St., Clarkston.

Following is a summary of the topics:

■ Thomas and Judith Edwards are requesting that Lot 45 and one-half of Lot 44 in the Drayton Heights subdivision, on the west side of Sashabaw Road just south of Maybee Road, be rezoned from single family residential to an office designation.

■ Amendment of Zoning Ordinance #83 addressing Section 5.22 Site Condominium Regulations. The provisions would regulate site condominium master deed road maintenance.

■ Amending of Zoning Ordinance #83 by repealing the current Section 5.04 to be replaced with a revised Section 5.04. The proposed changes would provide comprehensive regulations for all signs permitted in the township.

Freedom Festival tickets on sale

Tickets to the July 2 1990 Freedom Festival in Detroit are on sale at the Independence Township Hall.

The $5 tickets include round-trip fare from Pontiac to Detroit. A bus will pick up all ticket-holders at the Pontiac Transportation Center, just off of Wide Track Road, at 8 p.m. Monday, July 2.

In case of rain, the Freedom Festival celebration will be slated for the following day, July 3. For more information, call the Independence Township offices at 625-5111.

Village of Clarkston
Notice of Public Hearing on Increasing Property Taxes

The Village Council of the Village of Clarkston will hold a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, June 25, 1990, in the Village Hall, 375 Depot Road, to receive testimony and discuss a proposed additional 1990 village operating millage rate.

The Village Council has determined it necessary to levy a 6.15 millage rate for General Fund purposes. Due to increased State Equalized Valuation, this is an increase of 5.05728% in revenue for the General Fund in the amount of $6,445.70.

The proposed total millage rate for 1990 Village taxes will be 6.65 mills, 6.15 mills for the General Fund and one-half mill for the debt retirement fund for sewer construction. The millage rate for the debt retirement fund for sewer construction will be reduced by one-half mill.

The Village Council is authorized a maximum millage rate of 9.7375 mills for General Fund purposes but has determined to levy only 6.15 mills.

The Village Council feels this revenue increase is necessary to offset the increase in police costs and legal services.

PLEASE NOTE: The total amount of taxes levied for 1990 will be less than 1989 because the debt retirement millage would be reduced by .50 mills while the General Fund millage would be increased by only .25 mills.

AZ's communities in contrast

By Jim Sherman, publisher
A one day diary
Tuesday, April 24, 1990
Carefree, Arizona

It's raining. The television weather persons are laughing and saying "Enjoy!", like it may never happen again.

Actually, no moisture has been felt here since hail and rain halted "The Tradition" senior golf event just outside of town.

Carefree is about 35 miles from downtown Scottsdale and Phoenix. Thousands of acres of desert lay between. At 2500 feet above sea level Carefree is 1500 feet above "the valley", and 5 to 10 degrees cooler.

It's 90 percent quieter, 95 percent less congested and 100 percent more livable. "The Valley" is often covered by a greenish smog.

Carefree is desert country. It, and its bordering town, Cave Creek, have vocal, active, environmental "save our desert" people. On Earth Day (night) numerous real estate signs in the area were spray painted "Desert Rape" . . . never mind that spray cans affect the ozone layer.

Residents, old and recent, want development of other people's land stopped whether it's commercial, residential or recreational. Sound familiar?

There are at least seven extremely private golf clubs within 10 miles of Carefree. But, there are also public TPC courses and Troon North, Eagle Creek and Tatum Ranch within 10 miles. Golf course builders are the primary targets of the save-our-deserters.

The desert isn't in full bloom today, but some of the prickly pear cactus, saguaro, barrel and hedgehog cactus are flowering. Oleander is in full color, red and white varieties. The ocotillo are magnificent with orange blossoms at the end of their long branches.

Flowering ocotillo in Carefree with boulders from the Boulders Golf Resort in the background.

For five days the temperature has hovered at 95 degrees. That probably helped the flowering. It also seemed to make the birds active. Hummingbirds sip frequently from sugar flavored feeders in our condo cluster. Their long beaks seem built for the orange flowers of the aloe plant.

One resident has a couple roadrunners begging for hamburger balls each day. They'll tape at her door to get attention - and meatballs.

The state bird, the Gambol quail is everywhere, always in pairs. Gila woodpeckers cling to the hummingbirds' plastic feeders, but sometimes have to eat upside down.

Two animals tourists like to see in the desert are the coyote and javelina. We saw only coyotes on this trip.

From what we hear the most feared thing in the desert is snakes. We see few of them, though I saw a rattler on a dirt road one day. Some worry about spiders, of course.

Carefree and Cave Creek are communities of contrast. They have similar populations, but except for sharing Black Mountain, sameness ends there.

Carefree is a planned community, started in 1956. As soon as the population reached 2500 a city was voted, about 1987.

Neighboring Cave Creek is more "old west", dating to 1873. Saloons are in Cave Creek, restaurants in Carefree. Pickup trucks are driven in Cave Creek, Mercedes in Carefree. T-shirt shops are in Cave Creek, specialty shops in Carefree.

Cave Creek is fun. Laid back. Down home. Cave Creek is blue jeans, cowboy hats, boots, beards, dust and guitars . . . steaks cooked over musquite, french fries, fried chicken, ribs and biscuits and gravy.

Cave Creek eateries have names like Crazy Ed's Satisfied Frog, Horny Toad, Mine Shaft, Buffalo Chip and Tree House. Carefree has La Marmite, Latilla's and Ianuzzi Ristorante.

Cave Creek's council has bitter elections and public fights. Carefree has a million dollars in the bank.

Arizona is a state of geographic and people variety . . . From desert to snowcapped mountains, Grand Canyon to Lake Powell, copper mining to red rock country.

However, some need look no further than the touching towns of Carefree and Cave Creek for Arizona variety.

Featuring barbecued chicken, steaks and beverages with pottery and Indian jewelry shops nearby.

Carefree has La Marmite and Mercedes.

A giant sundial is Carefree's centerpiece.

Cave Creek has pickups and the Buffalo Chip.

CHS alumnus designs fashions for Calvin Klein

DANNY GEE, 22, won the student designer of the year award for his goatskin leather jacket and lambskin jumper at the Parsons School of Design's 24th Fashion Critics Awards show in New York.

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Danny Gee

Some only dream of making it in the Big Apple, but Danny Gee, a 1986 graduate of Clarkston High School, actually did it. He is now an employee of designer Calvin Klein.

The last three months have been exciting for Danny, 22. He won the Student Designer of the Year Award in April, graduated from Parsons School of Design, N.Y., in May and started working for Calvin Klein in June.

Danny is a design assistant in Calvin Klein's Design Studio for the Collection, which makes designs specifically for women and sells in higher-priced shops.

Danny said he didn't know which Michigan stores will carry the styles he'll help design, but possibly they could be found at Saks Fifth Avenue or Lord and Taylor.

Danny likes working at Calvin Klein's because of the teamwork.

"Everybody gives input," he said, adding he plans to learn as much as he can at Klein's.

Even though Danny is working in a big city environment, he hasn't forgotten his early training at CHS.

Danny said his former CHS art teacher, Janet Miller, made a difference in his art career.

"She was encouraging," he said, adding, "I always knew I wanted to do something in art."

Danny is the son of Leo and Diane Gee of Dark Lake, Independence Township. They own Wing Lauk Restaurant on Dixie Highway in Waterford Township.

For creative kids

Children ages 9, 10 and 11 have an opportunity to challenge their creative talents this summer.

Teacher Sue Kiser and her associate Adele Powell are conducting an art class that will consist of painting, drawing and creative thinking.

The class is scheduled for 10 a.m. to noon Mondays and Wednesdays, beginning July 9, at Kiser's Waldon Road, Independence Township, home.

Kiser has a bachelor's degree in art education and a master's degree with an emphasis in gifted education.

For more information, call Kiser at 625-1521.

Songwriters forum brings folk music to the folks

SINGER and songwriter David Kurtz hopes to get others to support live music.

BY LISA NIXON
Clarkston News Special Writer

Three songwriters are creating their own opportunities to play for an audience and are heading to the Clarkston area.

They held a forum in Birmingham June 8, and another forum is planned for 7:30 p.m. Friday, June 22, at Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church, Maybee Road, Independence Township.

In the Detroit area there are not many, if any, places to play folk music, said David Kurtz, one of the featured players of the songwriters forum.

"Rather than accepting that there is not a lot of places to play, we thought we'd create our own," Kurtz said. "There is no place to play original stuff, only commercial or rock music."

Things were different in Austin, Texas, where Kurtz, a Lake Orion resident, went for the music scene.

"The music scene was so good," he said. "It still is."

While in Texas, Kurtz was a finalist in the 1989 Kerrville New Artist Folk Festival; he won a lyrical achievement award in 1987, and he was a regional finalist in the National American Music Merchants competition in 1983.

Kurtz has been seriously writing since the early '80s, he said.

"I've played a long time, but I didn't take it seriously until then," he said.

The main focus of the forum is to get the public to support live music, Kurtz said.

"It is very important for a songwriter to get feedback from an audience," he added.

The forum will consist of original music written and played by Kurtz as well as David Folks and Jerry Weber.

"We work with each other. We support each other musically," Kurtz said.

Tickets are available for $5 at the door or at Off The Record, Royal Oak.

Host families wanted

Host families are being sought for high school exchange students from around the world.

The American Intercultural Student Exchange program seeks to accommodate exchanges with countries including Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Finland, Holland, Austria, Switzerland, Germany, Spain, France, Italy, Brazil, Ecuador, New Zealand, Australia, Japan, Thailand and Yugoslavia.

The students, ages 15-17, will arrive in the United States in August 1990, will attend a high school and will return to their home countries in June 1991.

The students, all fluent in English, have been screened by their school representatives in their home countries and have spending money and medical insurance.

Host families may deduct $50 per month for income tax purposes.

For further information, call toll free: 1-800-SIBLING or contact Pat Bates at the state coordinator office at 6220 Gardenia Ave., Lansing, MI., 48911, (517-882-7310).

Midwife helps births unfold at home

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarice Winkler helps women do what they have done since the beginning of time — deliver babies at home.

A certified nurse midwife, Clarice considers midwifery her calling — almost literally, she says.

"You live with your beeper," she says.

A Main Street, Clarkston, resident, Clarice said she never takes clients — as she refers to expectant mothers — who live more than one hour from her home.

"I go as far north as Bay City and as far south as Detroit," she says.

She keeps careful watch over the expectant mothers in her care, knowing full well that if she buys tickets for concerts or make plans with friends, everything may be canceled at the last minute.

Hair appointments are the most difficult, she says.

And perming her hair, which she does once a year, means the hairdresser must be understanding, she adds.

"For the most part it works out," Clarice says.

Clarice keeps in contact with other midwives just in case assistance is needed.

But she never takes more than five clients with an expected birth time within a four-week period, she says.

Clarice accepts as clients pregnant mothers who will participate in good pre-natal care, which includes proper nutrition, pre-natal check-ups, no over-the-counter drugs and no smoking or alcohol.

She will not accept women who are at high risk during their pregnancies — such women who have diabetes, hypertension, cardiac or kidney problems.

Support from family and friends is also important for home-birth.

In a hospital, birth is treated as a medical emergency, and women can feel alone and abandoned. The presence of the husband helps, but it's not enough, Clarice says.

"Being at home in her own space, with family and friends, is important," she says. "If they are supportive of her, it makes all the difference."

For those who view the birth, their lives have changed, Clarice says.

"It's a very personal life experience," she says.

One Springfield Township couple, John and Lori Shell of Bigelow Road, recently gave birth to their first child, Dylan, under Clarice's care.

"It was the most exciting thing I've experienced,"

John says.

John says he felt apprehensive about his wife delivering outside the hospital. But once he came to know Clarice, he felt confident about their choice to deliver at home.

Lori knew she wanted to attempt a home birth after reading about it, and she, too, felt more confident after meeting Clarice, she says.

Clarice says that having a birth in the Clarkston area was like a luxury because after checking Lori at the beginning of her labor, Clarice could have dinner with friends.

She phoned to check on Lori during her dinner engagement and returned to the Shell home as the labor pains became more intense.

"It was nice for John and Lori to have their privacy (in the early stages of labor)," she says.

As the day progressed, people who wanted to be present at the birth came to wait.

Lori's mother, two sisters and sister-in-law waited for Dylan's arrival on April 1, and at 10:27 p.m. he was born.

Clarice prepares those who plan to be present during a home birth by showing videos about the birth process.

But even Clarice was surprised by one home birth, which about 30 people attended.

"I know it sounds strange, but it's wonderful," Clarice says. "They just kept coming in."

Usually, not that many people are present at a home birth, she added.

Some parents will have their children present at the birth, but Clarice insists that each child has his or her own support person. A support person could be an aunt or friend, she says.

The children are accustomed to seeing Clarice because she visits the home before the birth takes place.

"Children are there only if they chose to be there," Clarice says. "This way they can play and go check on Mom."

"Kids accept birth in the way you present it to them," she says.

After the birth, Clarice will call within the first 12 hours. If it's the mother's first birth, Clarice will return to check on the mother and child.

All mothers receive a visit from Clarice on the third day after the birth. Clarice requests that her clients have in-home care handle the everyday living chores the first three days after giving birth.

"Women who don't use drugs (for giving birth) have more energy, and I have to caution them," she says. "I want the mother to care for (only) herself and the baby."

She returns two weeks after the birth for a postpartum visit, and a final check up takes place for the mother at six weeks.

"Women come away with strong self-confidence (after giving birth without technical labor)," Clarice says.

"It's always exciting," she says. "When you see birth unfold, you're awestruck."

Most of her clients are not those who are giving birth for the first time but those who are looking for an alternative to giving birth in a hospital setting, she says.

CLARICE WINKLER, left, has delivered 10 boys since the beginning of January, but no girls have been born under her care as of

JOHN SHELL is the portrait of a proud father holding his newborn son. Dylan arrived 10:27 p.m. April 1, and when this photo was snapped he was about 30 minutes old.

Health experts offer stress management techniques

BY LISA NIXON
Clarkston News Special Writer

Stress is something everyone feels in different ways and for different reasons. This can make managing stress difficult.

"Stress is a situation where you are not able to cope with what is going on at that time," says B.G. Patel, a family practitioner on M-15, Clarkston.

Patel says stress is a mental problem that can lead to physical problems such as headaches, indigestion, poor sleep, chest pains or other body pains.

He checks each patient with suspected stress-related problems to make sure they are medically fine first.

If no physical problem exists, he will explain it may be stress, he says. Often tranquilizers or counseling is prescribed.

Massage therapy

Many doctors are prescribing treatment other than

"Stress is a situation where you are not able to cope with what is going on at that time" tranquilizers.

Dr. B.G. Patel

"Many doctors are suggesting massage therapy instead of tranquilizers," says Debby Stephens, massage therapist for More Than Hair, Dixie Highway, Independence Township.

"Massage does help in stress because it is relaxing," she says. It helps balance the body."

Massage therapy helps relieve depression, anxiety, tension and stress, Stephens says.

Massage can change the body's autonomic nervous system from a fright or flight situation to a relaxed state, she adds.

"When you are in a fright situation your whole body reacts differently," Stephens explains. "You use a lot of energy under stress."

Massage therapists try for a balance between stress and relaxation because too much of either is not healthy, she adds.

The Corporate Massage, a head, neck and shoulder massage, is commonly used for stress reduction. You are what you eat

Another family practitioner believes stress may be managed through nutrition.

Nedra Downing, family practitioner and nutritionist at the Women's Health Center of Clarkston, Dixie Highway, Independence Township, notices most people don't

"In order to deal with stress, you need the vitamins and minerals. You don't get that in junk food."

Dr. Nedra Downing

eat as well as when they are under stress.

"When people start eating a lot of junk food, it makes stress worse and the ability to deal with stress worse," Downing says.

Junk food is full of empty calories; it doesn't have much nutritional value, vitamins or minerals, Downing said.

"You have to have vitamins and minerals to burn the calories," Downing explains. "In order to deal with stress, you need the vitamins and minerals. "You don't get that in junk food," she says.

Downing recommends eating regular meals full of fresh meats and fruits. She also suggests herb teas and complex carbohydrates, such as graham crackers and whole wheats and grains to calm and relax.

"People need the B vitamins and vitamin C when under stress and you can get those in fresh foods," Downing adds.

Stress can be helpful

Stress isn't always bad, says one area psychologist. Fred Baumann, psychologist for Psychological Evaluation Services, Lorak, Clarkston, says stress is our reaction to an external event that causes an emotional and or physical disfunction.

Two types of stress exist, Baumann says: eustress and distress. Eustress gives people energy and the drive to meet expectations. This is a good type of stress.

Distress is usually bad stress. Distress is what causes people to feel overburdened, Baumann adds.

"But not everyone sees stress the same way," Baumann says.

To manage stress, Baumann gets patients to tap into their perceptions.

"If their views are overwhelming or negative they are more likely to be stressed," he says.

"It is not the things that cause stress, its the perception of those things," he adds.

Downing agrees. She says stress deals with things outside our forces that act on a person.

"We add to them by attitudes we have," she says, adding "Try to relax."

The exercise prescription

Parks and Recreation assistant director, Sheryl Stickley Schreefel, says her department can help people relax. The parks department does a lot of special events which give people time to get out and enjoy the weather and camaraderie of teams, she says. These are relaxation oriented.

Adult softball leagues, aerobics and special family oriented events are among those offered to help people relax, Schreefel says.

Can menopause be discussed?

Do women discuss their concerns about menopause with their partners?

Not according to a recent survey of 500 menopausal women on estrogen replacement therapy.

Only 22 percent of the women polled by the Consumer Data Bureau ever talk about menopause with their husbands.

According to Wulf H. Utian, director of Obstetrics and Gynecology at the Mt. Sinai medical Center in Cleveland Menopause Clinic, the effect of menopause can have a dramatic impact on women.

"One way to help alleviate this impact is to open up lines of communication," Utian says.

"If couples openly discuss and develop an understanding of menopause, its common symptoms, and if necessary, seek proper treatment, menopause can become an enjoyable phase of life," he adds.

Symptoms of menopause include hot flashes, night sweats and vaginal dryness.

Dr. Utian believes most menopausal disorders are a result of a reduced amount of estrogen in the body.

"The widely accepted form of treatment to replace this loss of estrogen is estrogen replacement therapy (ERT)," he says.

The most recent advancement in ERT, an estrogen skin patch called Estraderm, helps relieve some of the physical symptoms of menopause.

The estrogen patch is applied twice a week to the trunk of the body, preferably the abdomen. It delivers the same estrogen as that produced by the women's own ovaries, directly into the bloodstream, simulating the way nature delivers estrogen in the pre-menopausal years.

Estrogen replacement therapy may not be appropriate for all women. How a woman can best manage her menopause is a decision she and her physician should make together.

Support groups can help in a variety of situations

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

As they do every Thursday, members of T.O.P.S., (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) arrive at the Drayton Heights Free Methodist Church early.

This allows plenty of time for the mandatory "weigh-in", which members face with either anguish or delight.

One by one, the mostly female membership enters the small kitchen of the church. The others wait outside. A large scale is angled away from the door, which prevents anyone from seeing it's readings.

This privacy is important to members, many of whom are sensitive about their weight.

Results from the scale are recorded in the club's log. Later in the meeting, members must reveal to the group whether they have lost or gained, and by how much.

"Good girl," says Roberta Neal, as she weighs one member. "You've lost this week."

The encouragement has the same effect as rebukes. It makes members accountable for their weight to others — which is a key to the group's success, says long-time member Thelma Kranz.

"I couldn't do this on my own," Thelma says. "We get support from others in the group."

"It helps to know other people that understand what you're going through."

Support groups thrive on the sharing of feelings between people in similar situations. The groups can offer

"We've seen women come that are not going through with their surgery (for a biopsy)," Kathy says.

"The strength and encouragement from other women help them make that decision."

"Some strength comes from seeing those that have survived a long time," she adds.

While support groups exist for a variety of situations, they should not be considered the only source of help, says Prof. Thomas J. Powell, a professor at the University of Michigan School of Social Work.

"A combination of strategies may be best," Powell says. "In the case of mental illness, especially when compounded with a drug or alcohol abuse or other family problems, self-help programs coordinated with professional therapy may be the most effective remedy."

"It is no criticism of either self-help or professional services to say that they can do certain things well and other things not so well or not at all," he adds.

Powell criticizes self-help or support groups for several things, among them: weak organizations, ineffective programs and few resources.

One encouraging aspect of support groups, he adds, is that they may alert individuals to other professional services and encourage them to seek them out.

Support groups should strive to better reach all segments of the population, Powell says.

"It is encouraging that there are self-help organizations for nearly every conceivable personal problem or problematic life situation," Powell says.

"On the other hand, it is discouraging that most organizations, except for a few such as Alcoholics Anonymous, do not have local chapters in anything but large communities," he adds.

Though the Clarkston area is considered smaller than most larger metropolitan areas, a number of support groups exist for a variety of situations. (See related story.)

Overall, Powell encourages individuals to give support groups a try.

"The instant recognition AA receives indicates the level of acceptance it has achieved with the general public."

"It and other groups are often regarded as the most important long-term resource for recovery by professional therapists and treatment facilities."

"Some strength comes from seeing those that have survived a long time."

Kathy Sampson

comfort from individuals who understand, or who have experienced similar situations.

They also serve as sources of information, as in the case of one local support group for women with breast cancer.

The monthly support group for women with breast cancer at The Breast Center of North Oakland Radiology was patterned after a program at the American Cancer Society.

The first part of the meeting features guest speakers on such topics as hair replacement for those recovering from chemotherapy, reconstructive surgery techniques for mastectomy patients, and speakers on lingerie or nutrition.

The second half the meeting is dedicated to discussion among members, which is also valuable, according to program co-coordinator Kathy Sampson.

"I've seen some wonderful friendships form," Kathy says. "A lot of the women gain strength from that."

Members also gain information from one another, she adds.

Many groups offer local support

Cancer Answers

Cleveland Clinic Foundation Cancer Center

Q. I've read that stress can lead to cancer. Is this true?

Although the connection between stress and cancer has been published widely in popular literature, there is not enough evidence yet to establish stress as a cause of cancer.

Studies now show that certain body chemicals are affected under stress and in turn may affect the immune system (the body's defense against disease). For example, the stress hormone, cortisol, moderates immunity.

Stresses such as prolonged grief or depression may affect the body's ability to resist certain types of diseases. How such emotions may affect disease resistance is not completely understood.

Healthy stress, meaning stress over which we have control, helps motivate us to attain personal or professional goals. But unhealthy emotional or physical stress can adversely affect our health over time. For example, unhealthy stress is related to an increased risk of heart attacks.

Studies continue to search for a link between stress and cancer. Presently, no definite conclusions can be drawn.

Q. Is there a difference between "investigational" and "unproven" treatments for cancer?

Investigational treatments, or clinical trials, for cancer are administered by scientists, health professionals and health organizations such as the National Cancer Institute (NCI) under specific, strict scientific standards. Their purpose is to establish whether a specific treatment is more effective in a certain cancer than current methods.

In contrast, an unproven cancer treatment has not been shown scientifically to be effective and has not been closely monitored using scientific standards. There are usually no scientific studies done on these methods.

Some tipoffs that a cancer treatment is unproven are published claims that the method has no unpleasant side effects, use of testimonials from patients who believe they are cured, or claims by promoters that they have a "secret formula."

To get the most accurate information about unproven methods, discuss the various forms of treatment with a doctor who specializes in cancer treatment.

Q. What are the most common childhood leukemia and what are its symptoms?

Acute Lymphocytic Leukemia (ALL) is the most common type of leukemia that affects children. In this leukemia, abnormal white cells accumulate in the blood and bone marrow (the spongy tissue within the bone where blood cells are made).

Since each person is different, individual symptoms and combination of symptoms may differ.

Usually the symptoms of ALL are of sudden onset and include: bone and joint pain, paleness, tendency to bleed or bruise easily or frequent infections.

Early symptoms of ALL are similar to many of the minor childhood illnesses. Therefore a diagnosis by a physician is essential.

Questions may be directed to: Cancer Answers, Cleveland Clinic Cancer Center, One Clinic Center, 9500 Euclid Ave., Cleveland, Ohio, 44195. All questions will be answered by mail.

ISN'T IT GOOD TO KNOW...

"Wheelock Memorial Hospital was there."

On January 28th of this year, as Bob Flath headed home from a Super Bowl party, he began to have severe chest pains and knew exactly what was happening. He was having a heart attack.

Feeling that he didn't even have time to wait for an ambulance, Bob asked a friend to drive him directly to Wheelock Memorial Hospital where the staff recognized his symptoms immediately and were able to take appropriate medical action. By administering the clot dissolving drug TPA, they were able to stabilize his condition. Wheelock nurses then set up emergency transportation to take Bob on to a local cardiac unit for further treatment.

Four months later, Bob Flath is well on his way to recovery and today believes, "If it hadn't been for Wheelock and their fast action emergency care, I would not be here today. In fact, as soon as I left the hospital, my first stop was Wheelock where I gave that nurse a big hug and thanked her for saving my life. Wheelock Memorial Hospital was there for me!"

Injuries are a common element in certain sports

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It's not whether you win or lose, or how you play the game, but just whether you're able to play or not.

Not everyone would agree with the above sentiment, but many athletes out of action because of injuries feel that way.

Injuries are a part of sports and more prevalent in certain sports. Naturally, there will be more injuries in a collision sport as football compared to the leisurely-paced game of golf.

Probably no one knows those injuries better in the Clarkston school system than Gail Cooper, the district's athletic trainer.

Cooper, a Central Michigan University graduate who has earned her ATC (Athletic Trainer Certified), has been helping Clarkston athletes get back on the field or referred to a doctor for the past three years.

Schools can be bureaucracies with red tape. But Cooper sees much more white tape. In the past year, she estimates having used 20 cases of tape (100 rolls per case and each roll 15 yards long). That totals 30,000 yards or 300 football fields.

Cooper said she attended to 122 instances of serious injuries this school year (since a few resulted in multiple injuries, the actual total was 131).

"A serious injury is anything I feel needs to be written down and documented," said Cooper.

Many having these injuries would have to see a doctor while others may have had to sit out a practice or a game until recovered. She said the serious injuries caused athletes to stay out of action a total of 133 days.

But Cooper is not just busy with serious injuries. For every serious injury she sees, Cooper estimates there are "at least three or four" non-serious injuries, injuries which usually don't stop an athlete from competing.

Athletes spend more time in practice than they do in game situations and this shows up where the serious accidents occur. Of the 122 injury instances, 72 happened in practice, 28 in game situations and 22 in other situations (outside of the sport, in physical education class, etc.)

Cooper said the reasons for the serious injuries vary. A sport like wrestling has chronic injuries while a football injury happens because of one quick hit.

She said the type of position played and how hard an athlete plays often makes a difference.

In addition, Cooper says nutrition, proper amount of sleep, body structure and muscle balance make a difference.

Cooper said girls tend to have more chronic injuries than boys, while boys seem to have more surgeries than girls.

Sometimes the injuries may involve the physiological differences between male and female athletes. Cooper said she recently attended a seminar which said girls could be getting more knee injuries during their high school years (as opposed to elementary or college years) because of puberty. Girls' hips are changing in ways that tend to pull on the knees.

Cooper will tend to nearly all of the injuries, but there are a few that she doesn't get to see (for example, when an athlete goes straight to their family doctor).

A list of the serious injuries Cooper documented this year follows (Note, Cooper said most of the athletes she saw were in high school but some of the athletes were in junior high. Also, the number of athletes competing in a sport varies widely. There are many more football players compared to girls' soccer players, etc.):

Tennis, Golf, Boys' Cross Country, Skiing: none.

Cheerleaders (1): 1 knee

Baseball (2): 1 ankle, 1 rib

Softball (2): 2 ankles

Girls' Soccer (4): 2 knees, 1 ankle, 1 shin

Volleyball (5): 3 knees, 2 ankles

Girls' Track (6): 4 feet, 1 ankle, 1 elbow

Boys' Soccer (8): 4 feet, 1 ankle, 1 thigh, 1 wrist, 1 knee

Boys' Track (10): 4 ankles, 3 shins, 1 hamstring, 1

knee, 1 head

thigh, 1 head

Wrestling (12): 4 elbows, 4 ears, 1 nose, 1 thumb, 1

back, 1 ankle

Football (61): 9 knees, 7 concussions, 6 fingers, 5

ankles, 5 shoulders, 4 thighs, 3 backs, 3 thumbs, 3 elbows,

It could give you time to enjoy the important things.

A regular breast x-ray is your best defense against breast cancer. Found early enough, 9 out of 10 breast cancers can be cured.

The Breast Center of North Oakland Radiology has been designed especially for women who need a breast x-ray. With the attention of our breast care professionals, your regular breast x-ray will be private, personalized and comfortable.

Our state-of-the-art equipment produces extremely accurate images of breast tissue, using a very low dose of radiation. Our program also includes a special videotape on breast care, a review of breast self-examination methods and an opportunity to discuss your own breast care with our nurse.

Ask your doctor for a referral to see us. Or call us direct and make your own appointment. We'll forward your test results to the doctor of your choice. To make an appointment or find out more about the Breast Center, call us at 625-7750.

Having a regular breast x-ray is one of the best things you can do for yourself. Because your granddaughter wants you to be around for a long time to come.

Lyme disease on the rise

People who spend time outdoors can take some simple precautions to help protect themselves against Lyme Disease, an infection transmitted to people and animals primarily by the bite of a tick called Ixodes dammini.

Springtime is when the disease is most prevalent, but it can also be contracted in the summer and fall.

"People should wear long-sleeved shirts when walking in wooded or grassy areas," said Dr. Fred Severyn, associate medical director for Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan.

"They should take a shower once they're back indoors because showering helps wash away ticks that haven't attached to the skin and makes it easier to see if any are attached."

Tucking pants into the tops of socks, wearing light-colored clothing, walking in the center of trails, and inspecting clothing and skin frequently for ticks are also good precautions.

Tick repellants containing the ingredient DEET are helpful in keeping ticks off clothing or exposed areas of the skin.

Read the label to make sure the repellant doesn't contain the ingredient R-11, which was recently banned by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), Dr. Severyn advises.

Prompt removal of ticks may decrease chance of infection.

Some animal studies suggest the infection may not be transmitted until after the tick has been on the skin for 48 hours.

However, it is still unknown how long a tick must be attached before infection occurs in humans.

Most people don't remember the tick bite. The tick is very small, from about the size of the period in this sentence to a sesame seed.

Initial symptoms of illness are headaches, fever, nausea, rashes and fatigue. Later stages may involve the heart, joints and nervous system.

From 1985 to 1987, Michigan had eight reported cases, all from the western upper peninsula, according to the Michigan Department of Public Health.

Beginning in 1988, cases were also reported from 17 counties in mid and lower Michigan. More than 30 cases were identified in 1988.

The number of reported cases is expected to increase this year in Michigan, partly because of heightened awareness on the part of the public and physicians.

Proposed legislation would mandate that physicians report incidences of the disease to the state health department. Meanwhile, physicians have voluntarily agreed to report this information.

The disease was first recognized in children from Lyme, Connecticut in 1975. From 1980 to 1988, some 13,700 cases were reported nationwide, primarily along the east coast from Delaware to Massachusetts, Wisconsin and Minnesota, and California.

How much do you know about caring for health?

One of the most important actions you can take nutritionally is to eat a varied diet.

Your daily intake should include food from four basic groups: milk, meat, vegetables and fruit, and grain products.

We need at least 40 different nutrients from foods — including vitamins, minerals and trace elements.

That's why we require a varied diet to make sure we get everything we need — it's a team effort!

■ Ideally, 55 percent of daily calories should come from complex carbohydrates (grains fresh fruits, vegetables), 12-20 percent from protein and 30 percent from fat.

■ Water is a nutrient. 67 percent of your body is water; and every bit of it is essential to life. It's important to drink six to eight eight ounce glasses every day. Water is used for digestion, carrying wastes and regulating body temperature.

■ We love the way it tastes, but we hate what it does to our waists! — and hips and thighs and tummies. Fat (nine calories per gram) provides more than twice as many calories per gram as proteins and carbohydrates (four calories per gram).

■ Keep a "stock" of nutritious snacks and food on hand, so that less healthy choices won't be as tempting.

■ Plan your daily food intake ahead of time. Making decisions on an empty stomach can lead to unwise choices.

■ Eating too much dietary cholesterol can raise blood cholesterol levels and increase chances for heart disease. Cholesterol is found in foods of animal origin and in tropical oils. Limit intake of meat, poultry, fish, shellfish, organ meats, egg yolks, and dairy products along with palm and coconut oils which all affect cholesterol levels.

■ Fiber keeps our digestive systems working smoothly.

Good sources of fiber include whole grain breads and cereals, vegetables, fruits and nuts.

■ Reduce intake of sodium while preparing food and in prepackaged food products (especially frozen foods). Find new ways to season food. Experiment with spices, herbs, lemon juice or salt-free seasonings.

■ The more you exercise and perspire, the more potassium you body needs to help maintain fluid balance in cells. Dried fruits, bananas, oranges, meat and dark green vegetables are all excellent sources of potassium.

■ Calcium helps to build strong bones and teeth. Dairy products such as milk, cheese and yogurt are good sources of calcium. Try a glass of skim milk or other low fat milk product as a natural relaxing aid at bedtime or when you're under stress.

■ Vitamin C prevents infection and promotes healthy gums and blood vessels. The commonly known good sources of Vitamin C are citrus fruits — grapefruit, oranges, lemons and limes. Another good source is broccoli.

■ Color is a sign of nutrition in fruits and vegetables. In general, a deeper color means higher nutritional value. For instance, pink grapefruit has 30 times as much Vitamin A as white grapefruit, romaine lettuce has much more calcium, iron and Vitamins A and C than iceberg lettuce. Darker colored vegetables such as broccoli, carrots, spinach, squash, tomatoes and asparagus are among the best nutritional choices and should be regulars in your diet.

■ Best sources for Vitamin D — needed for bone growth — are milk and natural sunlight.

■ Read food labels to become an informed consumer. When reading a label on packaged food product, the ingredients are listed by weight, with the heaviest first.

Hearing loss can be addressed by professionals

How much of a problem is hearing loss in the United States today?

Hearing impairment is the nation's leading chronic disability. People with less than normal hearing now number more than 18 million — more than those with diabetes, high-blood pressure and arthritis combined.

Who are the hearing professionals, and what do they do?

Medical ear specialists are called otologists and otolaryngologists. Otolologists work only with ear problems; otolaryngologists are ear, nose and throat specialists and are often referred to as ENT doctors. Clinical audiologists generally work under the supervision of medical specialists and provide diagnostic hearing tests and speech and language therapy.

Hearing instrument specialists also test hearing, and are the traditional providers of hearing aids and services through privately-owned offices.

I know my hearing is not as good as it used to be, but how do I know if my loss can be helped with a hearing aid?

There are different types of hearing loss. Conductive loss takes place in the outer or middle ear and can be caused by a number of factors, such as injury, impacted earwax, birth defects, use of certain types of medication or hardening of tiny ear bones — otosclerosis. Many of these difficulties can be overcome through surgical or medical procedures.

A second type of hearing loss is called sensorineural. It is the most common type of loss and takes place in the inner ear.

It is estimated that nearly 95 percent of those with hearing problems have this type of "nerve loss".

Many people with "nerve loss" can be helped with hearing aids.

What is the recommended procedure for someone who has less than normal hearing?

You should consult a physician, preferably a medical ear specialist, to see if medical or surgical intervention is necessary.

If it is not, you may be a candidate for a hearing aid which can be provided by local hearing instrument specialists.

A free consumer hearing health-kit is available by calling the Hearing Aid Helpline, toll-free, 1-800-521-5247.

Time to worry about adult health is childhood

Heart disease, strokes, cancer and even physical injuries are rooted in childhood health and safety habits, according to a Michigan Department of Public Health report prepared jointly by experts from The University of Michigan, Michigan State University and the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

The report urges state policy-makers to take a broad range of actions now to improve the health of Michigan's future adults.

"Cardiovascular disease, cancer and injuries account for more than 80 percent of deaths for persons age 25 and older, and more than 60 percent of the potential life years lost in Michigan," says Lewis H. Margolis, assistant professor of public health policy and administration at the U-M School of Public Health.

"But exposure to the cause of disease and injury — alcohol, tobacco, fatty foods, lack of exercise, failure to use seat belts, use of handguns and so on,— begins in childhood and adolescence," he adds. "If we start now to control this exposure, we should have a measurable impact on the health of Michigan citizens by the year 2010," he says.

Expert findings show that state policy-makers should:

- * Enforce laws prohibiting the sale of cigarettes and alcohol to minors. "We should ban cigarette vending machines altogether and crack down on merchants who sell cigarettes and alcohol to minors," say Margolis. "In communities where this has been done, it has been very effective."

- * Raise the price of cigarettes and alcohol by increasing excise taxes. "High prices will make it harder for young people to buy," Margolis observes. "We also recommend that the extra excise taxes be earmarked for alcohol control programs."

- * Ban smoking in any public area frequented by children or adolescents. "Such a law would affect shopping malls and restaurants — fast food restaurants in particular," Margolis says.

- * Set up strict rehabilitation programs for adolescents charged with drinking and driving.

- * Require cigarette companies to manufacture cigarettes that extinguish themselves. "The technology exists to do this, and such a move would cut the number of house fires in half," Margolis says.

- * Offer special insurance benefits to low-risk individuals.

- * Offer financial incentives to school districts and fast food chains that offer low-fat, low-salt breakfast and lunches.

- * Enforce environmental regulations dealing with carcinogenic pollutants and pesticides. "Children are generally more susceptible to toxic agents than adults," Margolis notes.

- * Regulate handguns. "Handguns are creating an epidemic of deaths among young black males, in particular," Margolis says.

- * Mount health education and cardiovascular fitness campaigns in grades K-12.

According to Margolis significant percentages of the state's youth are at risk for cardiovascular disease, cancer and serious injury.

By age 18, he says, about 28 percent of the young men and 32 percent of the young women in the state smoke.

Also about 74 percent of the men and 64 percent of the women drink alcohol by age 18.

Between 10 and 20 percent of all Michigan children under age 18 are at risk for high cholesterol levels, and 10 percent of the males are at risk for high blood pressure, Margolis notes.

And studies estimate that 13 percent to 24 percent of the boys and 13 percent of the girls are obese. Also, 50 percent of both sexes between ages 16 and 29 fail to use seatbelts consistently.

"Clearly, the risk factors are pervasive," Margolis says. "However, they are amenable to change if the state and its citizens choose to act" Margolis says.

Cool strawberry delights

Betty Wagner

Strawberry-picking season has arrived in Michigan. As I was lazily sitting on the deck reading about the berry farms, my phone rang. It was Sally Shields, calling me before I could get to the phone to call her. Every year for at least the past eight, Sally and I have gone berry-picking together. I look forward to it.

As usual, Sally arrived dressed in white. When she dropped me off after an hour of picking she had nary a berry stain on her clothes. Anyone who knows Sally knows what a neat person she is — in more ways than one.

I had to remove my shoes before entering the house and headed for the laundry room to treat the red spots on my blue jeans. But, as usual, we had a great time.

Here are some berry healthy ideas for enjoying summer pickings and other fresh fruits. Fruitsicles, cold fruit soup and fruit ice (granite) are inspired by American Institute for Cancer Research newsletter, Summer 1990. FRUITSICLES Makes four

1 cup fresh strawberries or other berries, cut into small pieces
1 (6-ounce) can orange juice
4 (3-ounce) paper cups
4 Popsicle sticks

1. Cut fruit into a 1-cup Pyrex liquid measure. Pour juice over berries.

2. Place cups in small shallow dish. Pour juice and berries into cups. Place popsicle stick in center.

3. Place dish in freezer until frozen. Enjoy a healthy popsicle full of vitamin C.

COLD STRAWBERRY SOUP Serves 2 to 4

2 cups sliced fresh strawberries
3 large mint leaves, chopped
1 cup low-fat vanilla yogurt

1/2 teaspoon nutmeg

1 teaspoon fresh lime juice

1. Puree berries in a food processor or blender. Add mint leaves and continue to process.

2. Add yogurt, nutmeg and lime juice. Process until well mixed. Chill to blend flavors.

3. Garnish with a sprig of mint for serving.

STRAWBERRY GRANITE
RASPBERRY ITALIAN ICE

Adapted from Petoskey's Villa Italiana Ristorante's

2 cups water

1/2 cup granulated sugar

2 1/4 pounds sliced strawberries

4 tablespoons fresh lemon juice

1. Measure water into a 4- to 6-cup Pyrex measure. Cover. Microwave at HIGH for 5 minutes or until water is boiling. Stir in sugar.

2. Cover; microwave at HIGH for another minute.

3. Puree berries in food processor or blender. Mix in lemon juice.

4. Stir berries into sugar water. Pour into a metal pan or bowl. Freeze, stirring every hour until frozen. Or freeze in ice cube tray and process the cubes in a food processor or blender until smooth.

To draw a long, straight line across a room, or wall, use a chalk line. Simply stretch the line between the two points to be measured and snap it firmly. The chalk line will mark the exact location on the surface easily, quickly and accurately. A chalk line is the perfect tool to ensure an even pattern when wallpapering or laying floor tile.

Going buggy

THIRD-GRADE Pine Knob students went "buggy" for a performance at their school June 7. Students, dressed as bugs, performed skits about all sorts of buggy creatures. This song featured Mary Pelletier (right) and Kristyn Sokolnicki, both students in Mrs. Luczyn's classroom. The whole performance was repeated for parents later that evening.

Hair salon adds massage therapy to its services

BY LISA NIXON
Clarkston News Special Writer

One salon offers more than just haircuts and manicures. It now offers massage therapy, too.

"A massage is for relaxation, when you want to balance your body — for those days when your head isn't really with it," said massage therapist Debby Stephens. Stephens, who recently received her certificate from

DEBBY STEVENS is a massage therapist

Health Enrichment Center, Lapeer, has worked as massage therapist two or three days a week for two months at More Than Hair at the corner of M-15 and Dixie Highway in Independence Township. She is required to take 100 hours of advanced training each year.

"A massage therapist is totally different than a masseuse or masseur," Stephens said. "They are different because of the hours and training."

A massage therapist has more than 1,000 hours of training from a state-licensed school, while a masseuse has less than 100 hours of training, Stephens said.

The schools are accredited by the American Massage Therapy Association (AMTA), of which Stephens is a member, she added.

"This is important because you belong to a credible organization with ethics and high ideals," Stephens said, stressing the differences between a massage therapist and a masseuse.

"Also, a masseuse does a lot of rubbing for relaxation purposes," she said.

Massage therapists are taught to facilitate, Stephens said.

"We don't fix," she said. "We can assist and work with doctors and chiropractors. ... We help get muscles back in balance."

Massage therapists work to balance muscle tonicity and often do sports massage, she said.

"We can do certain massage strokes to prepare muscle for competition — tone it for peak performance," Stephens said.

Massage therapy has many benefits, including: reducing stress, increasing circulation, easing chronic pain and balancing muscle activity, Stephens pointed out.

Stephens works in a salon setting with 15-minute, half-hour and hour-long sessions.

The shortest session is performed over clothing. Called a "corporate massage," it includes head, neck and shoulders massage and is usually done while the client is seated in a chair. Its purpose is usually stress reduction, she added.

The half-hour session also includes reflexology on the hands and feet.

"Reflexology deals with reflex points for the entire body," Stephens said. "It does the same as full body massage."

The one-hour session is usually a full-body massage unless there is a specific problem, Stephens said.

Stephens does the basic massage strokes as well as many other types of body work such as oriental or swedish techniques.

"There are many, many forms of body work," Stephens said.

What's New in Business

Stephens first heard of reflexology when her dad had a stroke.

"The family was encouraged to do reflexology on his feet," she said.

"It made a large difference. I enjoyed foot massage. I wanted to go to school to learn the proper way to massage," she said.

"I learned that you can be taught to massage without getting tired," she added.

Stephens said she enjoys her job because she enjoys being with people.

"It is nice to be able to relax someone," she said. "I do enjoy it."

"It can be fun. Each client is different," she said. "Each client is like a set of fingerprints. No two massages are the same."

"How you come in today, you won't come in like that again. The body is always changing," Stephens said.

Physician says nutrition important to good health

BY LISA NIXON
Clarkston News Special Writer

A new physician in town thinks nutrition could be the key to good health.

Nedra Downing, a family practitioner, accepts all patients but would like to specialize in nutrition.

"What I try to do is be sure that all nutritional components are in place," said Downing, who works Fridays at the Women's Health Center of Clarkston.

What's New in Business

Dixie Highway, Independence Township.

Diet is important in good medical care and can be preventative medicine, Downing said.

Downing, a pharmacist for 30-some years, has a master's degree in human nutrition from Michigan State University, East Lansing, and a bachelor of science degree in pharmacy from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. A doctor of osteopathy and human nutrition, she presently works from her office at Family Physicians, Flint, and spends Fridays in Independence Township.

Downing started with the Women's Health Center of Clarkston in February lecturing for its Lifestyles series.

When she was a pharmacist, Downing became frustrated with patients just wanting a pill to fix everything.

"People need to take responsibility for their own health," she said, adding that people should not just depend on medication.

This is a large factor in why she went back to school, Downing said.

Many of Downing's new patients are motivated, which is a pleasant experience, she said.

Downing's best work is analyzing lifestyles and creating individual plans related to food intake.

"I like to make sure that they are not hurting themselves with what they eat," she said, "Food is medicine."

All things to do with medicine will work better if food and diet are not working against them, Downing said.

FAMILY practitioner Nedra Downing would like to specialize in nutrition.

Electric shortages may be possible in the future

BY DANIEL C. BISHOP

With hot summer weather arriving in the coming weeks, the demand for electricity will reach its zenith.

Unfortunately, the plug could get pulled in many parts of the country because supplies are simply not keeping up with the demand for power.

Since World War II ended 45 years ago, whenever the nation's economy has boomed, so has demand for electric power. That trend mirrored in Michigan as Consumers Power Company, the state's largest utility, has experienced six consecutive years of higher electric sales, setting hundreds of all-time sendout records along the way.

However, whether the nation's electric supplies can continue to keep up with economic growth is in serious doubt.

The 1989 annual report of the North American Electric Reliability Council (NERC), an independent agency, stresses that the U.S. is "at a crossroads" in terms of electric power supplies because only about one-half of the electric capacity needed to meet customer demand this decade is actually under construction.

Based on present levels of customer demand, "supply deficiencies are likely by the early 1990s in the eastern half of the United States," NERC says.

This view is supported by the U.S. Department of Energy (DOE). Recently DOE Secretary James Watkins warned of an impending electricity shortage due to the fact that only about 40 percent of the electric capacity needed to meet future demand is presently on the drawing board.

In the greater Midwest, DOE suggests that additional power supplies "would be useful, if not a requisite" for improving electric reliability prospects.

In Michigan, Consumers Power Company recently began purchasing electricity from the Midland Cogeneration Venture (MCV) and other independent power producers.

These new power sources bring the utility's reserve margin to about 21 percent, still below the 23-percent margin recommended by the Michigan Public Service Commission.

However, within several years the reserve margin will drop below 15 percent without new electric generating capacity.

As Michigan's energy requirements increase, the vital relationship between electricity and economic growth needs to be clearly understood by those committed to the state's further growth and progress.

Serious attention needs to be paid to ensuring adequate electric capacity so that Michigan and the Midwest do not suffer power shortages which are forecast for other parts of the United States.

Daniel C. Bishop is a senior public information specialist with Consumers Power.

Resolve wins a round against disease

Independence teen battles lymphatic cancer

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Cancer has few stronger opponents than Carrie Monroe.

Four months ago, doctors discovered a tumor the size of a baseball in the chest of the 16-year-old Clarkston High School senior.

Carrie was diagnosed with lymphoma, a disease with a typically gloomy prognosis.

A grueling battle was immediately waged against the cancer; doctors told Carrie that she must endure regular chemotherapy treatments for almost a year.

At that moment, Carrie began a personal resolve that would arm her physically and mentally for a successful fight against the disease.

"I was not going to go through 10 months of chemotherapy," Carrie says.

Carrie's reservations about the powerful treatments were warranted. She maintains a 21-day cycle consisting of at-home treatments for a week, a week off and four days of in-hospital treatments.

The at-home treatments are the worst, Carrie says, and require a small device to be inserted under the skin of her chest. A pump pushes fluids so strong they would disintegrate her veins if they were administered intravenously.

The treatments make her violently ill, create sores in her mouth and caused her hair to fall out after just two weeks.

Seated in her family's Maybee Road living room, the affects of the disease and its treatments are not immediately recognizable.

Carrie, a gifted singer and the youngest of three daughters, is dressed in fashionable black and white walking shorts and a blazer.

She doesn't appear ravaged by the illness, partly because one of her medications makes her ravenously hungry, and she has gained weight.

Her attractive wig is not much different from the coppery-brunette hair she had before the cancer, as she points out in a senior picture she had taken right after she was diagnosed.

Mostly, however, it's Carrie's frank approach to her experience that makes the disease seem an unlikely victor.

Early warning signs

Carrie remembers feeling tired as January drew to a close. Her back hurt, but she had a slight scoliosis, and her parents thought that was the cause.

At one point she had a numbness in her hand and arm, which doctors couldn't explain. Finally, severe chest pains revealed the real problem.

"The chest pains hurt, but not real bad," Carrie relates. "I didn't go to school on Thursday, but then on Friday, I couldn't even walk down the hall."

X-rays revealed a large mass attached to Carrie's chest wall, and she was quickly admitted to the hospital. A needle biopsy was unsuccessful and surgery was scheduled.

"We thought that the tumor was Hodgkins disease," says Carrie's mother, Gari. "That's what we were hoping for; the disease is 95 percent curable."

The Monroes had a week to wait for the biopsy results. Carrie recalls the week passing quickly.

"I didn't want to know," she explains. Gari, and Carrie's father Al, were anxious for the results.

"It was hard to think that this thing was still growing while we were waiting," Al says.

On Friday, Feb. 9, doctors called with their diagnosis: Large B Cell Diffuse Lymphoma.

The family went away for the weekend with friends and returned Monday for treatment.

"It was hard to think that this thing was still growing while we were waiting."

Slow progress

Doctors encouraged Carrie's parents not to read about the disease, as it would undoubtedly frighten them. They "overwarned" the Monroes about what to expect.

But Carrie's determination was set, and she was anxious to prove the doctors wrong.

After the first round of chemotherapy was completed, doctors decided to take another X-ray for comparison.

"I told them that they would take the X-ray, and the tumor would be gone," Carrie recalls.

To the surprise of everyone but Carrie, the tumor was gone.

Carrie was not out of the woods, doctors cautioned. If just one cell is cancerous it could spread — the chemotherapy must continue.

Carrie learned to give up chocolate, bacon, pizza, bananas and anything reheated, because their chemical components disagreed with the treatment. She was banned from the sun because the chemotherapy eliminated several layers of her skin. She learned to associate the smell of hospitals with the nausea she felt each time a treatment was administered.

Other elements of her life continued as normally as tend school for a few hours in the afternoon.

Carrie continued her work at the Lerner clothes store and maintained her close relationship with a boyfriend, Steve Stepp, she had met at the mall before her illness surfaced.

Her parents describe this as a learning period for their daughter.

"She's more responsible," says Gari. "She knows what medication she's being given; she takes care of herself; she knows when she has to have treatments and accepts it; she asks the doctor questions we wouldn't have thought of..."

"She bugs him," Al laughingly interrupts. The Monroes worried about Carrie at first because she seemed to accept her illness so readily.

"She's kept it to herself and has never complained," Gari says. "We're so glad she has Steve; she can probably verbalize her feelings much easier with him."

As parents, accepting the disease was difficult. "It's the worst thing that could possibly happen," Gari says. "You know, I could deal with it if it was me."

"You always hear about it happening to someone else, like on Oprah or Phil Donahue — I denied it. Al didn't, but I did."

"You get a perspective about what's really important," Al says.

THE MONROES of Maybee Road, Independence Township, have pulled positive things from their battling against the cancer affecting Carrie (right). They value things differently, they say, and have felt the love of so many people.

Pet of the Week

Gibby's a great guy

Gibby's great with children, but he'll need to have a home where he's the only pet. He's not compatible with other animals.

He's a medium-size Chow-Chow mix who is 11 months old.

Gibby's been neutered, and the adoption fee is $35.

He can be seen at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

~By Sandra G. Conlen

GIBBY'S going to be a wonderful companion to his new owner.

The dog days of summer

In ancient times, during the hottest days of the year in the Northern Hemisphere, a brown dog was sacrificed to appease the rage of the dog star, Sirius.

It was believed that the star was the cause of the hot, blistering weather. Today we know this period — July 3 through Aug. 15 — as the "dog days."

We no longer sacrifice animals to fend off the sweltering heat. Instead, some of us flip a switch, and frosty air immediately relieves us of our misery.

CHS alumnus sings in Redford

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

A Clarkston High School alumnus is featured in a benefit concert Saturday, June 23, at Redford Bishop Borgess High School.

Scott Turnbull, a 1979 CHS graduate, teaches vocal and instrumental music at Bishop Borgess and is a member of the Ivy League quartet, which is the 1990 representative of the Pioneer District of barbershop quartets to the international competition in San Francisco in July.

The concert Saturday is to raise money for Ivy League's expenses in the competition, as well as to help the quartet, Power Play, and the chorus, Macomb County Harmony Heritage Chorus, pay for their expenses to international competitions.

Tickets are $5, and the concert begins at 8 p.m. at the school at the northeast corner of Telegraph and Plymouth, south of I-96. Tickets are available at the door. For more information, call 356-1536.

Turnbull, who graduated from Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, in 1984, credits his high school years in Clarkston for giving him a start in music.

"I have to thank (teachers) Grayce Warren, Barb

Gibson and Cliff Chapman for influencing me," said Turnbull. "The reason I went into music is because of these people."

Turnbull and other Ivy League members first sang together at EMU and then got a summer job singing at Cedar Point in Sandusky, Ohio.

Since, they've stayed together and now perform about three of every four weekends. They've even released an album, "Having a Ball."

In addition, Turnbull coaches other quartets and does musical arrangements.

Ivy League's style is a mixture of serious, comedic and entertaining music, said Turnbull, adding that they specialize in comedy.

Barbershop is fun, said Turnbull, explaining that his quartet sings all over the country for other musical groups or as entertainment for other activities.

"It's a good release," he said. "It's relaxing. It's socially satisfying. You meet so many people. It's like a fraternity. You can go somewhere and not know anybody and sing a song and have friends immediately."

Turnbull was married last December to Kimberly, a Southfield chiropractor who sings in Sweet Adelines. Turnbull also has a new stepson, Brady Sand, 4.

Area teenager battles cancer

Jokingly, he adds, "Now I play Nintendo with Carrie instead of cutting the grass."

Silver lining

The Monroes are quick to point out all the positive things that have happened as a result of Carrie's cancer.

"There are so many people praying for us," Al says. "People we don't even know."

Cooperation has come from all different sources — whether it's Carrie's doctors rearranging treatments so she could sing at graduation or attend a school dance, or it's the school, providing tools for Carrie so she can graduate on time with her class.

"Sometimes it seems if she comes out on top of it, it will all be worth it," Gari says.

The likelihood that Carrie will survive the disease is strong.

Doctors have sampled Carrie's bone marrow and discovered that the disease has not affected it — a good sign.

Experts say if patients can go for two years without further growth, they're getting better. If five years pass, they may be considered cured.

When asked how Carrie's doctor explains her amazing progress, Carrie answers, "He just said it was a miracle."

Gari adds, "he sees so many bad cases — I think this has been as uplifting for him as well."

Most encouraging for Carrie is that her chemotherapy treatments could end early — her own proclamation coming true.

"End of July," she says affirmatively.

"If the University of Michigan says so," her mother corrects, gently.

"My doctor seems pretty sure," Carrie challenges.

One can't help but believe her.

CARRIE'S positive nature has helped in the mental and physical battle against cancer. Diagnosed with the disease four months ago, the Clarkston High School student's progress has astounded everyone but herself.

Following are the new officeholders: President Donna Cole, Vice President Diana Gahrs, Recording Secretary Judy Lamb, Corresponding Secretary Grace Gwisdalla and Treasurer Sheila Hughes.

Board members are: Gail Ferguson, first year; Theresa Harp, second year.

Committee chairpeople are: programs, Elaine Schultz; library, Barbara Richards; newsletter, Lori Nadolski; publicity-historian, Margaret Sutherland; telephone, Jeanne Stoecker; youth assistance, Nancy Deloney; trips, Sandy Graham; parliamentarian, Beverly Miles.

Honors

Michael Gilbert, a sophomore at Oakland University, Rochester, was named to the winter 1990 academic honors list with a 3.7 grade point average.

A 1988 Clarkston High School graduate, Gilbert is in the pre-physical therapy program at OU. He is the son of Carreen and Jon Gilbert of Chickadee Lane, Independence Township.

***

Amy Forster, who was graduated from Oakland Christian School this year, was honored with the John Philip Sousa Band Award this year.

The national award is given to a student selected by a vote of his or her peers, teachers, principal and school board of directors.

Forster, a clarinet player, is the daughter of Jerome and Janice Forster of Allen Road, Independence Township. She plans to enter the music program at Oakland University, Rochester.

***

Catherine Passmore, a 1987 graduate of Clarkston High School, was recently inducted into the Sigma Tau Delta Chapter of the National English Honor Society at Olivet Nazarene University in Kankakee, Ill., where she will be a senior next fall.

Catherine is the daughter of Guy and Barbara Passmore of Winell Street, Independence Township.

Grads

Kristi Swanson graduated summa cum laude May 11 from Arizona State University, Tempe, Ariz., with a bachelor of arts degree in music therapy.

In the fall, Kristi is to begin an internship in music therapy in Camarillo, Calif.

She is the daughter of Bud and Gayle Swanson of Snowapple Drive, Independence Township.

Michael Walters graduated from Albion College, Albion, May 5 with a bachelor of arts degree in economics/management.

While at Albion, he was an officer in Alpha Tau Omega fraternity and a pitcher for the varsity baseball team, helping to capture MIAA championships in 1988 and 1989.

He is the son of the Rev. Robert and Beverly Walters of Independence Township.

Rebecca Miller, daughter of James and Lois Miller of Morningstar Court, Independence Township, graduated May 26 from DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind., with a bachelor of arts degree in communications.

While enrolled at DePauw, Rebecca was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, served as a freshman orientation leader and as chairwoman of the senior gift drive and spent the first semester of her senior year as a full-time admissions counselor for the university.

Beginning this fall, Rebecca will be employed in the sales division of Champion International Corp.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Sommers held a 50th wedding anniversary celebration for their parents on June 17 at Andersonville Elementary School, Andersonville Road, Springfield Township.

Andrew W. Balzarini was named to the dean's list at Arizona State University, Tempe, Ariz., for the spring term.

A 1983 graduate of Clarkston High School, Balzarini is the son of Don and Carol Balzarini of Reese Road, Independence Township.

***

Corinne Hardy, a freshman at Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, was named to the dean's list both semesters.

A 1989 Clarkston High School graduate, she is the daughter of Judith Hardy of Paramus, Independence Township, and the late Duane Hardy.

***

Darren Miller, son of James and Lois Miller of Morningstar Court, Independence Township, has been named to the dean's list for the spring semester at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md.

Darren, a biomedical engineering major, was a member of the varsity fencing team and next year will serve as treasurer of the junior class.

Teaching a pleasure for minister

BY CRISTIN CATALDO

When talking with people, Patrick McDunn's eyes show intensity and interest. The same intensity and interest is reflected in his dedication to his life, whether he's with his family and or in front of a high school class or on stage before a crowded room.

McDunn, 57, teaches sophomore, junior and senior honors English classes at Birmingham's Brother Rice Catholic High School. He said he finds teaching a rewarding experience.

"You don't teach the student as much as the student teaches himself," he said. "You just motivate him and supervise him. School is an idealistic atmosphere. You're trying to help them with their future life."

McDunn has also taught at St. Ignatius High School in Cleveland, Ohio, his hometown, and at the University of Detroit. He said he enjoys teaching high school more than college because there is more interaction between teacher and student.

"College has very little dynamic interaction between student and teacher," said McDunn. "You have to show (high school students) how to do more thinking. You make them read and write about their own lives."

McDunn earned his bachelor's degree in liberal arts at John Carroll University, Ohio. From there he went into the Jesuit order where he was ordained a Catholic priest in 1966. The order placed him as teacher first at St. Ignatius then at U of D.

In 1972, he started a band that played Irish music two nights a week at local bars. In 1978, after 23 years in the Jesuit order, he left the priesthood but continued playing in the band.

"I felt I was doing something I was programmed to do," he said. "I wasn't growing. Everything is done for you. I didn't have much feeling of being at home."

Two years later McDunn and two friends opened Four Green Fields, an Irish bar on 13 Mile and Woodward Avenue in Royal Oak. The bar had an unusual atmosphere and attracted a congenial crowd.

"(The bar) attracts not your typical bar person," he said. "We get a little bit more intelligent person coming."

McDunn said he enjoys going to his bar where his band plays music six nights a week. One night the music is strictly Irish.

Over the 18 years the band has been playing together, there have been more than 160 marriages between people who have met on nights the band played. McDunn even met his wife, Rosemary, at the bar.

"The bar has what the Irish call great 'crack,' which is camaraderie revolving around stimulating discussion," McDunn said.

"The bar has a personality in itself. It's like throwing a party (and) you don't know who is going to come."

McDunn found that his teaching carried over into his music and his reaction to the audience. Often his old students will come into the 21-and-older bar and buy him

"The kids I see the most are the ones I was hardest on," McDunn said. "My best critics are alumni that have had my class."

"He has a fantastic memory for people and names," said Barbara Cataldo, an Independence Township neighbor. "He's a tough teacher. Most of the kids are glad they get into his class because they learn a lot. He enjoys teaching."

McDunn summed up his beliefs.

"I can do what I like," he said.

Young writer wins international award

Ashley Ball, an eighth-grade student from Clarkston Junior High School, has been selected as the second-place winner in the 1990 International Scenario Writing Program.

A scenario takes the form of a short story and uses character and plot development to describe one possible future outcome of a serious problem that exists today.

Ball's scenario began as a classroom assignment given by her English teacher William Rathburg. The story dealt with the problem of shrinking rain forests and its consequences.

In the state, Ball's entry earned second place in the intermediate division of the Michigan Future Problem Solving Program.

It was then entered with the other top Michigan winners in the international competition at Washington State University, St. Louis, Mo. The competing entries came from the state and provincial winners across the United States and Canada.

ASHLEY BALL, a student columnist for The Clarkston News, wrote a story that won a second-place award in an international contest.

Fun with books

Children of all ages can have fun at the Independence Township Library this summer.

The statewide theme of summer reading program is "Batches of Books," and activities are scheduled accordingly.

As an added feature, children are to bring in "batches" of food each week in July, and it will be donated to Lighthouse North.

Children should register for the program at the library, where they will also get a library card.

The library is on Clarkston Road, Independence Township. For more information, call 625-2212.

Preschool

Preschool-age children have a choice between 10 a.m. and 11 a.m. sessions for the Summer Storytime hour on Wednesdays, which runs through Aug. 8.

The summer includes the following program:

June 27: Veterinarian Bruce Harlton visits with his dog, Chloe, to talk about pet care; no 10 a.m. meeting this day only; 11 a.m. session only.

July 4: Kids of all ages are to meet at Clarkston Junior High School at 9 a.m. to march in the Fourth of July parade; parents should pick their children up at the parade's end on Miller Road.

July 11: Batches of surprises served.

July 18: If the weather is dry, llamas are coming.

July 25: Anita Evans' young Suzuki students play their small instruments.

Aug. 1: Puppets from the Discovery Preschool do a puppet show about something good to eat.

Aug. 8: Platters of popcorn served, and a special storyteller will visit; certificates awarded to everyone registered.

Grades 1-3 and 4-6

Grades 1-3 meet 10:30 to 11:45 a.m. on Tuesdays through Aug. 7, and grades 4-6 meet 1-2:15 p.m. on Tuesdays. Following is the schedule.

June 26: Maureen and coco present batches of music, puppetry, creative movement and storytelling.

July 3: Batches of outdoor games.

July 4: Kids of all ages are to meet at Clarkston Junior High School at 9 a.m. to march in the Fourth of July parade; parents should pick their children up at the parade's end on Miller Road.

July 10: Batches of stories.

July 17: Batches of B's — bonfires, bears and birds; Margaret Schmidt's program around the bonfire based on facts about nature, Indian legends and songs.

July 24: Costume party; kids are to dress as their favorite (or least favorite) food or meal; refreshments, prizes.

July 31: Chautauqua Express, batches of musical adventure; possible through a grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts.

Aug. 4: Turn in book reports.

Aug. 7: Talent show.
