Clarkston in formula once again

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

State aid legislation expected to be signed by Gov. Blanchard this week could result in another "in formula" year for Clarkston.

The legislation transfers about $50 million in state money usually granted to richer districts and redistributes it to poor districts.

The move ensures $90 per local mill of a district's operating millage — plus up to $335 per pupil. One mill is $1 for every $1,000 assessed property valuation.

In Clarkston's case, that means an additional $153.63 per student, or another $85,000 to $90,000, according to administration officials.

The legislation almost ensures that Clarkston will remain in formula for another year.

"I'd say there's a 99.9 percent chance that the district will stay in formula," said Business Services Director Steve Lenar.

"In formula" refers to the formula the state uses to

Free concert features banjos, popcorn, model

Back by popular demand, the Auto City Banjos are to perform in the third concert in Depot Park Friday, July 20.

The concert, at 7-9 p.m. in the park in downtown Clarkston, features old standards: early 1900s music, country-western, polkas and festival music.

All the profits from the about 20-piece band go to charities.

The July concert series is sponsored by the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce. Organizers suggest that concert-goers bring bug spray and dress for the weather.

Popcorn, at 50 cents, and pretzels, at 25 cents, are to be sold by the Clarkston Area Optimists this Friday. The Optimists will also sell pop and orange drink for 50 cents a cup.

Officials from the Independence Township Library plan to take advantage of the town gathering and display a model of the upcoming library expansion from 4,000 square feet to about 20,000 square feet. A request for 3/4 mill for operations of the expanded library is on the Aug. 7 ballot. Three-fourths mill is 75 cents for every $1,000 assessed property valuation.

The last concert in the park features the Tailgate Ramblers Friday, July 27.

Clarkston likely to stay in formula another year

determine contributions to local districts.

The state determines what districts should spend per student — this year the figure is set at $3,829. If a district is able to raise that amount or more through property taxes, the district is out-of-formula. If it cannot collect enough money on its own, it's considered in-formula.

In Clarkston, only $3,676.07 per pupil is expected to be collected in local property taxes, so it's in-formula. Therefore, the state would contribute the additional $153 per pupil.

Administration officials were not predicting this type of revenue from the state and had earlier predicted the district would move out of formula.

At one point, in an effort to ensure that the district would be out-of-formula, the district was considering transferring fiscal management of community education to another district, according to Lenar.

The district was planning a consortium with South Lyon for operation of community ed. South Lyon, an in-formula district, would operate the program and would receive state funds for Clarkston's estimated 200 community education students.

Clarkston, in turn, would access the community ed. program, but its student enrollment would not figure in the district's state aid formula.

Given the new state aid legislation, changing fiscal management of community ed. would still result in Clarkston staying in-formula.

For that reason, Lenar predicts the administration will keep community ed. under the Clarkston umbrella.

Though becoming an out-of-formula district is considered desirous, staying in-formula isn't all bad, Lenar says.

When a district has just gone out-of-formula, they're not exactly "wealthy" yet, Lenar explained.

In addition, under the new legislation, the state can now keep money it used to donate to other programs within districts, such as transportation, special education or gifted and talented programs.

By cutting funds for those programs from out-formula districts, the state has enough money to give more to in-formula districts.

Though the governor had not signed the legislation package by July 16, he is expected to do so, according to Lenar.

"It's an election year," Lenar said, simply.

Forum presents state house candidates

Candidates for state representative, 61st district, will be in the spotlight Monday, July 23, when a panel of reporters interviews them.

At the Candidate Night, residents may register to vote as well as meet the candidates.

The candidate forum is set for 7:30 p.m. at the Independence Township Annex, 90 N. Main St., Clarkston. The night is sponsored by the League of Women Voters of the Clarkston and Rochester areas.

Candidates include democrat Frederick Miller and republicans Tom Greene, Fred Hall, Thomas Middleton and Cathy Pisano. The primary election will be held Tuesday, Aug. 7.

The panel is comprised of Tracy King of The Clarkston News and two reporters from other newspapers. The event will be cablecast by United Cable of Oakland County on Independence-Clarkston Channel 65 at 6 p.m. Wednesday, July 25, and 6 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 1.

Questions will not be taken from the floor; however, residents are encouraged to submit questions by mail: LWVRA, 296 Meadowbridge Drive, Rochester Hills, MI 48063.

For more information, call 652-4352.

Correction

In the July 4 issue of The Clarkston News, a story about a proposed site condominium ordinance in Independence Township should have said that nearby land owners would have to pay for road refurbishments such as paving and resurfacing.

A story about Waldon Road safety path easements in last week's Clarkston News should have listed one Independence Township resident as "John Borsh."

Legion Post's plan to sell 34 acres upsets residents

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A warranty deed incorporated 36 years ago has put a residential association and Chief Pontiac American Legion Post 377 at odds over the Legion's attempt to sell 34 acres of heavily wooded property.

The Legion post is looking to sell 34 of 82 acres it owns east of Mary Sue Street near Lake Oakland in Independence Township. The Merrie Oaks Gardens Association is opposing such a transaction because association members want the land in question to remain undeveloped.

Legion Treasurer Charlie Yates said his organization intends to sell the property to Jim Long Real Estate once Independence Township approves of a land split.

The Merrie Oaks Gardens Association, made up of homes around the property in question, points to a warranty deed issued in 1954 that calls for the land remain in the post's possession eternally. The document indicates that an area resident, Mary E. McMahan, sold numerous acreage in that area to the Chief Pontiac Post Memorial Home for $1.

In the deed, the word "forever" is written twice and in capital letters. However, due to its confusing legal

"We have no animosity toward the Legion. We're just looking to preserve the area."

Bill Sawyer

style, it is uncertain what the "forevers" pertain to in terms of legality.

Association members believe that the document was drawn up with the intent and purpose of saving the land from development. To the association, the word "forever" was instituted as a safety factor to keep the land in the Legion's possession eternally, free from developmental progress.

Association President Caroline Carson said she's been investigating deeds around this time period as well as the deed's author.

"I've found that most deeds of this era didn't capitalize words such as 'forever'," she said. "In observing other legal works by the same author, I've found this is the only one done this way and it leads to speculation."

Carson added that the document will need an attorney's decipherization before the true intent is known for its issuance. She added that her association has been unable to get in contact with post officials to discuss the matter.

Yates shuns the validity of a warranty deed and the association's belief in it.

"They're (the association) crazy," Yates said. "We paid cold, hard cash for that property in 1954."

When asked how much the Legion paid for the land 36 years ago, Yates answered, "a lot more than a dollar."

He also said the Legion has no intention of ever speaking to the Merrie Oaks Gardens Association about the property.

Association member Bill Sawyer said his organization's concerns lies with the environment and the detrimental damage that development could have on the area.

"We all realize that progress will continue to occur in the township, but it's a pity that it should be this land," Sawyer said. "The development of 34 acres could literally destroy tens of thousands of trees."

Sawyer said the area in question is inhabited by several animal and plant species uncommon to this part of the state. He cited species such as the Box Turtle, Red Squirrels, Jack and White Pine trees, and the Scarlett Tangiers, a rare bird.

"We have no animosity toward the Legion," Sawyer added. "We're just looking to preserve the area."

New business OK'd for industrial park

Valentine Industrial Park on Andersonville Road continues to expand with new businesses.

Davisburg Sand and Gravel will occupy lots 16 and 17 at the industrial park after receiving unanimous site plan approval from the Springfield Township Board July 12.

The business was originally approved to have a stockade, or wooden-type fence, but the board voted unanimously to approve the site plan with chain-link fencing after some discussion.

Supervisor Collin Walls was in the minority after voicing concern that the chain-link fence would not provide enough screening of the trucks that will be parked outside of the 9,000-square-foot building, he said.

Grant Ward of Grant Ward Surveyors in Springfield said that the trees in the area providing screening are of the Locust and Poplar variety growing to 25 feet in height.

"They will provide good screening," Ward said. The owner doesn't want the maintenance and upkeep a stockade fence would require, Ward said.

Springfield gives $500 to Holly recycling effort

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Springfield Township Board voted unanimously to give the Village of Holly $500 to help with costs of the village's recycling effort.

Springfield residents use Holly's facility. Holly President Ardath Regan appeared before the Springfield Township Board July 12 to ask for financial support of Holly's recycling center.

"We don't expect you to be Santa Claus, but you can't expect the Village of Holly taxpayer to be either," Regan said.

In a letter to Supervisor Collin Walls, Regan said about 70 percent of the people using the recycling center come from Holly Township, Springfield Township, Groveland Township and Rose Township.

One of the largest costs of the recycling center is the transportation of newspaper to a reprocessing center.

Roll-off containers are increasing in costs. A roll-off container that costs $150 per 40 cubic yard at the beginning of 1990 now costs $200.

"We are asking for some money," Regan said. "We are bound by labor costs, and they are not static."

JIM Barnowski adds some finishing touches after he and several workers broke the record for laying bricks within an hour at the Clarkston Golf Course. The feat was videotaped and will be sent to those in charge of the Guinness Book of World Records.

Bricklayers shatter world record with 1,870 bricks

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Some Oakland County men might make it into the Guinness Book of World Records, and they won't have to run through a brick wall to do it.

Instead, they recently laid the most amount of bricks in one hour while building an addition to the Clarkston Golf Course clubhouse.

On July 10 between 2:05 p.m. and 3:05 p.m., the bricklayers laid 1,870 bricks, shattering the old record of 1,420 in Chicago earlier this year.

If the record still stands by January, it will be printed in the Guinness book. Until that time, other bricklayers may try to break the record. But if that happens, the Oakland County men say they'll be up to the task.

"I'm going to lay 2,500 bricks some day," said an optimistic Roy Rouse, a Clarkston resident who owns Design Masonry, doubling as a laborer and co-sponsor on the project.

Other sponsors were Paul and Jean Frechette (owners of the Clarkston Golf Course), Midwest General Contracting and U.S. Bricklayers of America.

As according to the rules, five workers were allowed to lay the bricks while three others helped transport the bricks, mix the mortar, etc.

Along with Roy Rouse, other men who worked on the wall were George Davis, Randy Jones and Jim Barnowski of Lake Orion, Randy Rouse of Utica, and Bruce Marsh, John Grossman and Irvin Lane of Pontiac.

The entire hour of work on the wall was videotaped for verification. The tape will be sent to Guinness.

If the local bricklayers make the record book, their feat will be available in print January of 1992. Guinness publishes its famous book every five years.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

LOCATION - FROM BUYER'S VIEW

QUESTION: How important is it to a buyer when considering a house that is priced much higher or lower than others in the same location?

ANSWER: The classic advice is to buy a modest house on a more expensive street. Such a house is easy to re-sell, and its value will hold up well. Remodeling or adding to it is possible because alterations won't push it out of the price range.

On the other hand, the most luxurious house in a rundown area probably won't ever repay the owner for the money invested. No matter how elegant it may be, it will be hard to resell. Buy with location in mind. Eventually, you'll be a seller.

LOCATION will cause a great difference in the price of identical homes. Where it is, is as important as what it is.

The getaway

Julie Campe

After a late night laying out the paper recently, I was snug in bed under two blankets, sheltered from the near-arctic wind blowing through the window for the sake of my husband, The Thinker.

I had not yet turned off my bedside lamp, when I noticed a spider in the ceiling corner on my side of the room.

As casually as possible, I asked The Thinker, "Would you mind killing that spider?"

The Thinker, who had been near sleep for a few minutes already, gave a vehement "no."

"Just go to sleep," he mumbled. "It won't hurt you."

He rolled over.

"You can't be sure," I said, giving way to my phobia. "Spiders bite — humans."

"I'd kill it myself," I lied, "but I can't reach it."

It was true that I couldn't reach it. It chose the most secluded portion of our small bedroom to build its parlor. In the same corner was a bookshelf, a filing cabinet and a pile of, er, junk. Even on a footstool I wouldn't reach that arachnid.

I began to feel tired, so I decided I'd take my chances that it wouldn't invade my territory until morning.

Just to be sure, though, I directed my lamplight at the spider to get a better look. Its shadow loomed large behind it, and suddenly it moved — toward me.

Quickly, I jumped out of bed and let loose a small shriek.

The Thinker sat up, wide-eyed.

Quietly, I fetched our kitchen step stool and a paper towel. I set the step stool in an advantageous position in the spider's corner, and I silently handed The Thinker the paper towel.

Wide awake by now, he groaned. But he accepted the paper towel and made his way toward his victim.

Being a tidy person, he did not want to smash the spider against the wall, as I usually do with unwanted bugs. Instead, he slowly moved in and surrounded it, then attacked. The spider, however, had different ideas. It dropped to The Thinker's arm and scrambled for its life.

The Thinker jerked his arm.

The lamp on the bookshelf wobbled, as did the entire bookshelf.

The spider jumped onto some books. The Thinker went after it, but it scrunched into a binding.

The bookshelf continued vibrating until a photograph fell from it to the floor, shattering glass in the corner.

The spider, recognizing an opportunity, made its getaway behind the bookshelf.

The Thinker was left standing barefoot on the footstool, in his skivvies, surrounded by shattered glass.

He glared at me, shook his head and finally muttered a few carefully chosen words.

I did not respond, and I politely did not point out that the spider was still alive. Instead, I took the paper towel from him to keep it near in case the spider had any ideas that night.

In a few minutes, we had settled down for sleep. I quickly succumbed. The Thinker, though, did not, he told me the next morning.

The next morning, I was up early, much earlier than The Thinker. There was no sign of the spider.

During my shower, though, with my eyes squinting against shampoo, I spotted a gigantic earwig between the two shower curtains. I attempted to execute it but to no avail. It clung way up high. I did not awaken The Thinker about it but instead considered saving the information for him when he awakened.

He did not thank me.

expansion. Nor apparently did other Main Street residents except for Shirley Bickford, who stood alone in opposition. I, too, oppose the expansion as detrimental to residential values and the historic district.

As it was, supporters' statements, cited by The Clarkston News, have no bearing on the purpose of the zoning ordinance which designates the area as residential.

Of two supporters, neither of whom lives in the village, one noted the Goyettes' thoughtful treatment of death. This is not in question. The other stated that ordinances made by humans can be changed by humans — and invitation to spot zoning, or no zoning at all.

It was also noted that "we all need to bend the rules." The fact is the rules have been bent considerably. The purpose of the ordinance was to ensure the preservation and advancement of residential values. Fencing to screen a business activity, a brightly lighted parking area and the noise and fumes of incoming and outgoing traffic do no do this.

Further, granting an exception to the ordinance now would open the door to other businesses, specifically the gas station across the street.

As enacted in 1973, the zoning ordinance accepted the continuance of then existing businesses. It did not, however, allow them to expand physically. It did provide time, in this case 17 years, to plan expansion by an orderly move to a designated commercial area. The Goyettes chose to stay at their present location, and by doing so elected to continue with the existing space and structure.

Jim's Jottings

Jim Sherman

Retailing, operating small stores, came up in a conversation this week with a former small-town retailer.

He said, "I feel sorry for the small retailer these days."

Speaking was Neil Coulter. Neil and his partner, Fred Conley, opened Coulter and Conley, a men's clothing store in downtown Oxford after World War II. They ran it for 30 years, until 1978. They also bought a hardware. They went out of that business in 1972 and turned it into a paint store, which they closed in 1981.

The two devoted a lot of time to business, and did quite well, thank you. But, we're talking pre-Lake Orion K mart, pre-I-75, pre-megamall, and in fact, pre-strip mall.

Today the small retailer, often an owner-operator, competes against the 24-hour Meijer, etc. No way can the owner of a small retail store work those hours.

Of course, hours are only part of it. Parking, pricing and product choice come into play along with comparative convenience.

The small-store owner has some advantages with individual attention (dealing direct where the buck stops), knowing customers names, having product knowledge rather than self-serve, no-help-in-sight, giant stores and perhaps being able to 'deal.'

When K mart came to Lake Orion, the term used today for such an invasion would have applied. They're called "Killer Stores."

The scenario of today's Killer Stores is a little different, but the resulting vacancy signs they cause are the same.

I'll get out of town for my example. Smith's, a supermarket chain out of Salt Lake City, now has four stores in the Phoenix, AZ area. They are planning several more by November.

The store vacancy rate in Phoenix has risen to 14 percent from 21.6 percent at the end of 1988. The warehouse stores, K mart's Sports Authority stores, Toys R Us, etc. are taking over market areas and killing the big and small retailers they compete with.

Back to Michigan. Whether it be the discount malls in Birch Run or the one planned in Auburn Hills, or Walmart, or Meijer there is nothing but trouble for the small retailer. Neil Coulter says if he had to do it over again, he'd go into auctioneering full time, which he's doing part time now.

So what's to happen to the small-town, downtown stores? I was on the Oxford Planning Commission for 10 years in 1960-70. Profession planners told us then, and it's true today, town storefronts would be specialty stores or service and office spaces.

And, that 20-ft. specialty storefront owner/operator better work hard, have a great personality, know business, hate sleep, not want to die rich, be alert to trends and products and have a very loving family which also has all the above.

Owning your own store is still an American dream for many and some will make it, but 80 percent don't. The Killer Stores are one reason.

Library needs 3/4 operating mill

As a lifetime member and frequent patron of the Independence Township Library, I would like to urge all registered voters of Independence Township to support the operating millage request on the ballot of the upcoming primary election to be held Aug. 7.

The Independence Township Library is currently undergoing an exciting expansion process that is being financed through the voter's support of the bond issue request on the ballot of November 1988.

This project will enlarge the library from its existing 4,000-square-foot building to a 20,000-square-foot building that will enable the librarian and staff to accommodate virtually every patron's need.

That bond issue, however, will only finance the expansion process: in order to operate the expanded library facility, the operating millage needs to be approved.

I strongly urge all registered voters of Independence Township to go to their polls Aug. 7 to show their support for this important millage request.

'If it Fitz ...'

Emily displays a telling sign

Jim Fitzgerald

Out of the mouth of a babe came a great sign to hang on a doorknob.

Well, Emily isn't really a baby anymore. She's finished the second grade and can read, write and regroup a little. There was some regrouping involved in the note Emily read and tore up while sputtering, "Grandpa, that's not the truth and you shouldn't put it in the newspaper."

I regularly jot cryptic column ideas on a pad beside my chair at home. I'm still not used to Emily being able to read them. When she read "Emily's fault Tigers lost," she denied the charge. You be the judge.

We were at a souvenir booth in Tiger Stadium during a game with the California Angels. In spoiling my youngest grandchildren, I've switched from food to toy-type items because of a recent con job I experienced in a grocery store. When I asked Emily if her mother would be mad if I bought candy bars for her and 4-year-old Tricia, Emily said: "No, of course not." A few minutes later, after the bars were consumed, Emily added, "Of course, Mom will be real mad that you let us eat them."

But back to the souvenir booth. Tricia had just chosen a diminutive $15 stuffed tiger that was easily worth $1.98. When Emily decided on a miniature bat autographed by a Tiger, I was in the mood for a bargain.

The bats in the display case cost $6, but there was a bowl of bats on the counter marked $3.50. I mentally subtracted $3.50 from $6.00, being careful to regroup a 1 from the 6 to the inside upper zero, making it a 10, and came up with $2.50 savings.

When I was young, I would have borrowed the 1 from the 6 and loaned it to the inside upper zero, making it a 10, but I recently helped Emily with her homework and she pointedly informed me that modern mathematics don't borrow, they regroup. I think the change has something to do with making the current national deficit more palatable for the millions of babes who will have to pay it when they grow up: "Your parents and grandparents regrouped too much money."

Anyway, the $3.50 bats were cheaper because they were autographed by Lance Parrish before he quit being a Tiger and subsequently became an Angel. Hoping that a sudden attack of nostalgia would overcome Detroit fans' natural reluctance to buy Tiger bats endorsed by an enemy, the wily souvenir sellers were trying to unload a hard-to-move product while Parrish was in town.

Emily didn't know all that inside stuff. Basketball is her game (she asked how many points the Tigers scored, for lord's sake) and for all she knew, Parrish was still a Tiger, the greatest one of all. So I saved $2.50 and we returned to our seats.

It was the first of the fifth inning, California had the bases loaded, and the man at bat immediately hit a home run. Lance Parrish, of course.

No normally superstitious baseball fan would deny it was Emily's fault the Tigers lost by four points.

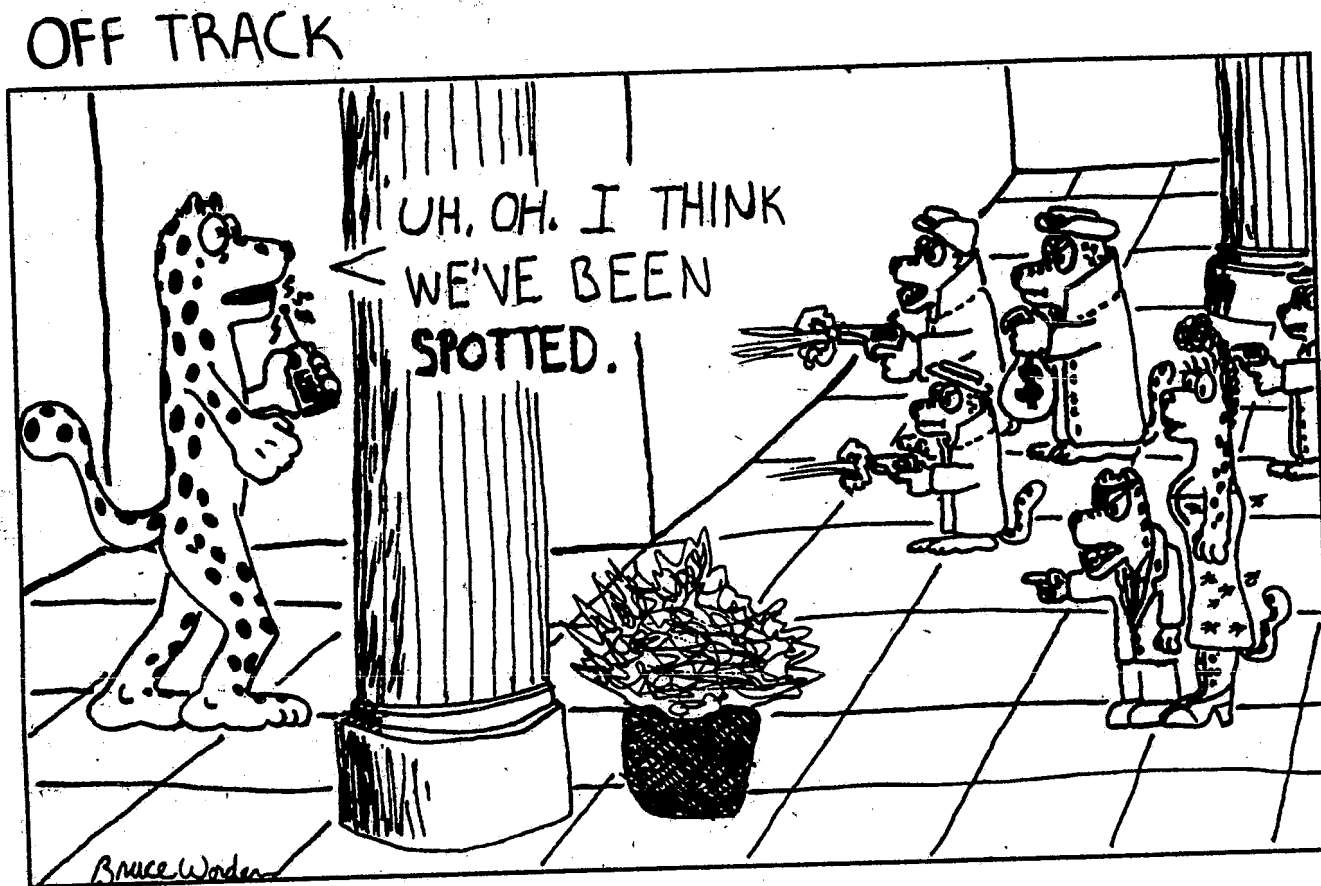

But I forgave her that evening when she went into my home office to play with her imagination, and shut the door behind her. Emily is a frequent traveler, familiar with motels and Do Not Disturb signs. She made her own sign and hung it on the outside doorknob.

I now have Emily's sign on my desk, and I may keep it there always to remind me of what an 8-year-old child learns from the violent world she was born into, and what she really wants from that world. The sign says:

Knock please!
It is just me!
If you are going to kill me, go away!
If you are going to kiss me, come in please!

Steaming mad?

LEOPARD SPIES

From This Perspective

Critics and we don't even know it

Tracy King

When we're not talking about schools, townships, sports or deadlines, The Clarkston News staff is usually talking about movies.

Every Monday morning, as the talk casually comes to what we did over the weekend, we usually end up scrutinizing the latest on the silver screen.

At least half of us have seen a movie of some type over the last two days; the other half has at least read a review of these movies, and the discussion goes from there.

Probably the biggest movie buff in the office is Jim Gibowski. Not only does he see a lot of movies, he's also the most critical.

Take "Blue Steel" for instance. "Was it a parody or was it straight on?" he's been heard demanding in his most exasperated voice. "It had so many holes!" he insists. "I don't even want to remember it."

I didn't see "Blue Steel," so I couldn't comment. Had I seen it, however, I would've taken my usual position.

Arguably the least critical of the bunch, I like everything I see. The only exception was one movie several years back about gangsters in the 1920s. The film featured a couple popular actors and a lot of violence, which is all I can remember. I can't even recall the title.

Julie Campe can't recall any movies she's disliked either, though I don't think it's because she doesn't have a critical eye.

She likes the more serious movies, of the type seen at avant-garde cinemas like the Maple.

These movies out of the mainstream generate most of the comments and contradictions among us.

"Sex, Lies and Videotapes" was dissected over a period of weeks, and prompted a "favorite movie" status from me and a "least favorite" movie status from Curt McAllister.

"Do the Right Thing" provoked the same response. I liked it. Curt didn't.

Movies that appeal to the children in us also garnish a lot of newsroom comment.

Curt liked "The Little Mermaid" best, and Sandy Conlen chooses "Batman" as her favorite this year.

Sandy didn't like "Dick Tracy," however. After seeing "Batman," "Dick Tracy" just didn't stack up to the original, she says.

"He's too round. Dick Tracy had square angles," she adds.

When we discuss news and sports, we're, of course, nothing but objective.

Come Monday mornings, however, we shout "childish!" and "round!" to our heart's content.

Letters to Editor

Sensible person

I am supporting Tom Middleton for state representative from the 61st district. Tom has demonstrated his concern for the quality of community life in many ways, but especially through his involvement and leadership for eight years on the Oxford Schools Board of Education.

As a staff member of Oxford schools, I found him a good listener, able to carefully analyze issues and reach sensible decisions.

Tom Middleton understands the needs of the 61st district citizens. He is a businessman, land owner, community leader and parent of school-age children. I urge you to learn more about Tom Middleton and support him in the August primary.

Karen Eckert

Educational responsibilities

Problems:

1. Taxpayers say property taxes are too high.
2. Students are not properly educated for today's job market or college admission.
3. Educators say they do not have adequate funds to properly educate the students.

Solutions:

1. Taxpayers agree to change the state constitution to increase the sales tax from four percent to five percent.
2. Taxpayers agree to change the state constitution to allow another income bracket. All AGI up to $30,000 be taxed at the current rate of 4.6 percent. All AGI over $30,000 be taxed at the rate of 4.8 percent.
3. Property taxes be capped at 30 percent of market value with increases limited to the rate of inflation.
4. Results of the above changes would be deposited in the Education Fund. A mandatory 32 percent of state revenue would go to the Education Fund.

Considerations:

1. School district boundaries would be redrawn. There would be a total of 12 to 15 school districts in the state. The superintendent and board would be held accountable for the education of the students and the administration of the funds for their district. Failure would result in immediate release with no severance pay, regardless of contract.
2. Budgets would be established, limiting the percent of total revenue that could be spent on administration, including all fringe benefits, and instruction, including all fringe benefits.

3. All districts must offer quality instruction in computers, science and foreign language starting in elementary education.

4. No state funds may be spent on debt payments or capital improvements.

5. Taxpayers would be charged with their full support of the educational system. They must assist students with homework. They must teach and assist students in the proper use of libraries and other instructional aids. Failure would result in no recourse if a student is not promoted or is expelled for failure to complete an assignment.

6. Establish CORE, Coalition Of Responsible Education. CORE would be the citizens watchdog to see that the programs were properly carried out.

7. The top five CPA firms in the state would audit the financial records of the state annually, on a rotating basis, as a public service to the taxpayers of Michigan. They would report to CORE.

Loyal customers

We want to thank the A&P customers of Clarkston who helped the A&P employees get the new store at the corner of White Lake and Dixie turned into an A&P instead of a Farmer Jack.

After A&P bought Farmer Jack, some stores changed names. The new Independence Township A&P was designated as a Farmer Jack, which would have meant the loss of jobs for many Clarkston A&P employees.

But customers wrote 300 or more letters to the Detroit office, as well as to the headquarters in New Jersey. Now, when we move from M-15 to the new location in a month or two, it will remain an A&P.

Our customers have helped us immensely. We are thankful.

Kathy Woods
and other A&P employees

Best qualifier

The Aug. 7 primary election is fast approaching. Kathy and I are deeply concerned that we elect a person who best represents our environmental and educational concerns and the concerns of our senior citizens.

We both feel that Tom Middleton best qualifies for the office of State Representative for the 61st District.

Tom is a farmer by occupation, and a concerned environmentalist. He has served faithfully on the Oxford Board of Education and has been active on agricultural committees, boards and state advisory commissions. He is vitally interested in our senior citizens and their efforts to secure adequate and affordable housing.

We urge you to vote for Tom in the Aug. 7 primary.

Library millage helps operations

I am writing in regard to the library millage proposal on the Aug. 7 ballot.

As an 18-year resident of Clarkston, I have seen steady growth in our community. It is evident that the Clarkston area has many attractions for businesses, professionals and families.

One very important service the community provides to its residents is the public library. It serves all ages of people as a provider of cultural, educational and recreational information and activities.

Library services at the Independence Township Library have improved consistently over the years. My husband and I have borrowed many books, magazines and tapes. Our grandchildren have enjoyed storytimes and summer reading programs.

However, it is obvious now that our library has grown to the point where it is overcrowded. I have seen some of the newly expanded libraries in surrounding communities, such as Orion Township, and think that it would be wonderful to have a larger, more modern library in Independence Township.

The plan for the new library developed by the library director and the architects is beautiful and is a very efficient, practical use of space. I feel that it would be a great enhancement to our community.

We have shown our approval for the new library by passing the bond proposal in 1988. Let's continue our support for the new library's operation by voting yes for the millage proposal in August.

Jane Lamb

One of our own

I'd like to share with you and your readers my reasons for endorsing Tom Middleton in his bid for the 61st District State Representative seat being vacated by Mat Dunaskiss.

First of all, Tom is not your ordinary politician. Tom Middleton is a truly sincere and genuine man. He's lived in the district all his life, and he plans on staying here. Above all, Tom cares about people. He's always been willing to get involved and eager to help.

I've come to know Tom as an active parent and school board member, and I'm continually impressed by his desire to get involved. In the true spirit of volunteerism, Tom Middleton wants to help — not because he stands to gain from it, but simply for the good of the community. He seems to have a boundless enthusiasm for people.

Some people may argue that a farmer wouldn't know much about politics, but Tom does know politics.

Among many other things, he's been an advisor to U.S. Representative Kildee, and he's an eight-year member of Oxford's school board. That means he's seen politics and policymaking from both state and local points of view. Most important of all, Tom is one of our own, and he will represent us.

Tom Middleton is the kind of man we need in Lansing. Please remember that when you pull the lever Aug. 7.

Timely signs

As a candidate for Oakland County Commissioner in District 3, I wanted the Independence, Springfield community to know that I will be responsible in my signage.

As the primary draws closer, more and more political signs are going to be visible in the community. My signs will go up and down in a timely manner.

School district zips to change students' addresses

BY LISA NIXON
Clarkston News Special Writer

The new ZIP code change has everyone on the run, especially school district employees.

The schools must change all students' addresses before the fourth Friday in September. This is when the official student count must be sent to the state, and it's the number that student aid is based on, said William Neff, director of administrative services for Clarkston Community Schools.

"We have to get addresses and change all students' records, report cards, handbooks, etc.," he said.

Neff said school employees would probably work into September on the student record changes.

"We have to download addresses onto lists and send them to the post office," Neff said.

The postal department will go through the list and change any inaccuracies, he said.

The postal department also will give the correct five-digit ZIP code plus add the new last four digits, Neff said.

But now there's a new problem, said Neff.

Springfield Township is changing the name of Big Lake Road. This also must be changed on records, Neff said. The name change will affect parts of Andersonville Elementary, Clarkston Junior High and Clarkston High, Neff said.

Students were sent letters with their report cards asking them to call or write to give their new ZIP code or street name, Neff said.

"We figure if we have 25 to 50 percent returned this summer we would be fortunate," Neff said.

"At this point it has not cost us a lot of money," he said. "But it could in the fall."

Neff said there may be a need to hire someone to work full time on address changes in the fall.

Overall, it will be busy, he said.

"That will take a lot of time and doing," Neff said.

The next step

Independence Township Library has shown continual, if unsteady, growth since its founding as an all-volunteer operation housed in the small building south of the township hall.

During the past 10 years under the present director this growth has been a barely controlled explosion with increases in the professional staff, the support staff, the programs and the collection.

A quantum leap forward was made in the fall of 1988 when plans were made and funded by a bond issue to increase the physical plant to approximately five times its present size.

The next step is to provide a dependable, predictable source of revenue to operate the new library. The library will not have to compete with other worthwhile programs for township funds. The director will know that his budget is and will be in the future and can confidently make trade-offs within the library disciplines.

The thrust of this letter is to ask voters to take the next logical step and establish an operating millage for the library.

Herb Rose

Earned respect

As long-time friends of Tom Middleton and his family, we are proud to extend our endorsement of Tom as a Republican candidate for state representative for our 61st District.

Tom has earned the respect of all who know him by his honesty, hard work and a real desire to help others. Tom is the type of person we need in Lansing. He's a family man with solid values, and he cares about our community.

Tom's presence in Lansing as our state representative is assurance that we have entrusted our future with the best person possible.

We encourage you to support Tom Middleton in the Aug. 7 primary election.

Tim and Sue Kernohan

Aware of land

I hope for the sake of the 61st district that Tom Middleton is elected for state representative.

I've known Tom for 24 years, and he has always been honest, caring and trustworthy. It seems society is becoming aware of its land and environment. Who could care more for the land but a man who made his living from it? Please vote for Tom Middleton on the Aug. 7 primary election.

Cynthia A. Austin

Reasonable quest

What's a new library without books to read, without electricity to provide warmth, cooling and light, without a librarian? My goodness! You don't just want a beautiful but empty building, do you?

Did you know that for many residents, the value of 3/4 mill will be about the same as the cost of one good reference book? Voting yes for the library operating millage will provide you, me and our entire community with not only books but services, programs, references, adventures, peace and quiet areas and all the wonderful things a library should be.

Voting yes will cover the cost of utilities, maintenance and personnel, as well.

Your library, our library, should and can be one place where young and old and everyone in between can come together for different reasons and all go home smiling.

Wont' you help support the library operating millage by voting yes?

Sherry Regiani

Benefit concert begins with Brahams

Music lovers have a rare treat Sunday, July 22, to hear a concert by the Clarkston Quartet — musicians affiliated with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

The concert — a benefit for the Clarkston Conservatory of Music — takes place at 7 p.m. at the garden of John Bisha of Hillside Drive, Independence Township. Tickets, at $25, include the concert and refreshments and may be purchased at the door or in advance by calling 625-3640.

Because parking is limited at the Bisha residence, a bus will shuttle concert-goers from the Clarkston Village parking lot to the Deer Lake home beginning at 6 p.m.

A Steinway piano will be placed on a deck at the house, and the audience will be seated on the lawn.

The Clarkston Quartet is comprised of Beth Bower, flute; James Greer, viola; Nadine DeLeury, cello; and Fontaine Laing, piano. Some of the musicians teach at the Conservatory.

The program consists of selections by Brahms, Mozart, Beethoven and Muczynski.

The concert should be enjoyable, said Bisha.

"I think that, culturally, Ivan and his Conservatory have added a great deal to the community," he said. "He needs a little help, and this is a way to contribute and enjoy the music."

Nutritious, delicious
yet inexpensive

Are the kids eating you out of house and home?
Free nutrition classes offered through Lighthouse North include healthy but inexpensive recipes, plus demonstrations and tastes of the foods.

Provided by the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service, "Eating Right Is Basic" is geared toward low-income families with children, said Sherry Kaars, director of Lighthouse North, 5731 Maybee Rd., Independence Township.

Lighthouse North serves communities in North Oakland County.
The eight-week class runs 3-5 p.m. Thursdays at the Lighthouse and begins July 19. Pre-registration is required.

During the classes, mothers will learn how to prepare delicious foods economically from scratch. Plus, they'll learn how to shop for the best grocery store buys, and at the end of the series, they'll receive a cookbook of all the recipes they covered (and tasted).

For instance, snack foods such as potato chips and cheese curls cost a lot of money. But popcorn—prepared with cheese or other flavoring—is a lot less expensive yet still delicious, said Kaars.

Planners say yes to new Clarkston Road church

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A new church may be coming to the southeastern corner of Clarkston and Pine Knob roads, Independence Township.

The First Congregation Church received special land use and conceptual site plan approval from the Independence Township Planning Commission.

The planning commission voted 6-1 July 12 to grant special land use, with Bruce Mercado voting in opposition. Mercado didn't feel comfortable with approving special land use because it was uncertain how much of the 14-acre property would be covered on the township's tax roll, he said.

Voting yes were Chairperson Brent Bair, Joseph Figa, Jo Fussman, Richard Oppmann, Steve Secatch and Daniel Travis.

Special land use permission is required for churches in Independence Township.

Later in the meeting, the commission unanimously granted conceptual site plan approval, with the following conditions: possibly shifting the location of the parking lot, increasing landscaping, reviewing site drainage and including a safety path.

The church, founded in 1831, is currently located in Pontiac. The Rev. Larry Rieck said he would like to move to Independence Township because a majority of his 350-plus congregation lives in the immediate area.

According to architectural plans, the church would be 7,200 square feet and cost $800,000 to erect. An acceleration lane will also pass in front of the building on Clarkston Road.

Two area residents voiced concerns about the project.

"I really can't express my disappointment in what's going up on this property," said Jim Brennan, whose residence will be located directly across the street from the proposed church. "We were originally supposed to have a nice site condo project on this land, but now we face a traffic problem."

"It's going to be interesting to see who is the loudest ... the church or Pine Knob," he added.

Brennan also brought up the concern of his area's poor drainage and how the church could affect it.

Resident Barbara Paci of Caberfae Trail said she and her neighbors welcome the building of a church. But she was concerned about the location of the parking lot and possible teen drinking in it, due to its proximity to the Pine Knob Music Theater.

Rieck added that security gates could be implemented to discourage concert-goers from parking in the church's lot.

Candidate announces bid for District Three

Frances C. Amos of Aquarina, Waterford Township, recently announced her candidacy for the position of Oakland County commissioner in District Three, which covers Independence and Springfield townships and a portion of Waterford Township.

Amos has worked for Michigan Bell for almost 32 years and is married with two children: Jeffrey, 25, and Stephanie, 20.

She was born and raised in Oakland County and has resided in District Three for 24 years.

Amos holds a bachelor of science degree in management from Oakland University, Rochester, and is past chairperson of the Oakland University School of Business Alumni Board.

A scholarship was named in her honor for the OU School of Business Alumni Association.

She is past president of the American Business Women's Association, Waterford Charter Chapter, and was Woman of the Year in 1987-88.

For 10 years, she was director for the Pontiac Telephone Employees Credit Union and has been treasurer from 1984 to present.

Amos won the Michigan Bell Telephone Good Citizen Award in 1986 for community service and has performed volunteer work for 20 years on the community relations team.

Fall athletes need to get physical

Fall athletes in the Clarkston school district should make appointments now for physical examinations in the next three weeks.

"Doctors are taking appointments, and if (athletes) wait until the last minute, they might miss the first practice," said Athletic Director Paul Tungate.

Fall practices begin Aug. 13, said Tungate, adding that physical forms are available in the offices of each school.

The Domino Theory of New Ballparks Doesn't Deliver (or the day Tom Monaghan finally agrees to look at the Cochrane Plan)

by James Gibowski

If Tom Monaghan suddenly ...

... wanted Tiger Stadium saved would his yes-men still want it torn down?
Or would they do an about face and agree it should stay around?

Would Kell and Kaline stick to their guns and kiss the old ballpark adieu?
Or would they admit they were never sincere always knowing old meant more than new?

Would Jim Campbell and Bill Lajoie still want Michigan and Trumbull abandoned?
Or would they continue to be baseball men and never take rich history for granted?

Would Mayor Coleman Young continue to turn a cold shoulder to a Detroit landmark?
Or would he take pride like Chicago and Boston who love Wrigley Field and Fenway Park?

Would Schembechler and his pizza men still look for a new, suburban site?
Or would Bo take a lesson from professor Ernie and learn that the move just isn't right?

Would current Tiger players still put Royal Stadium above the rest?
Or would new lockers and weight rooms with the same old grass, make home the best?

Would 95 percent of Detroit's media still not question a new stadium's flaws?
Or would they finally report that the taxpayers don't want more Pontiac Silverdome blahs?

Would some Tiger fans believe moving to Dearborn will draw more?
Or will they say winning matters most like 2-million-plus in '84?

Would people still believe, without hard proof that the stadium will soon tumble?
Or find the foundation remains strong on the corner of Michigan and Trumbull?

Would the ghosts of Cochrane, Cobb and Cash still wonder about their next dinger?
Or will they be satisfied to know memories of them
(like Tiger Stadium) still stand and linger?

MICHIGAN STATE 1990 Championships

Rollerskater wheels into national finals

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston's Stephanie Nolen will be rolling into Pensacola, Fla., next weekend at the national rollerskating championships.

The 16-year-old recently qualified for the nationals by placing third in the regional championships at Elgin, Ill.

Nolen competes in the sophomore ladies' figures, a competition similar to the compulsories in ice skating. At her current level, she is performing counters, brackets and 3-turns.

"It's just like ice skating, but with rollerskates you can do even more," said Nolen, who will be a junior this fall at Clarkston High School.

Nolen's rollerskates may look similar to a typical pair, but the pair she wears costs $600. They are stiffer and more reinforced to aid in her spins and other techniques.

Nolen, a Michigan state champion the past two years, captured first place in March against nationally-ranked rollerskaters in Enola, Pa.

After Nolen is finished in Pensacola, she will no longer be able to participate at the sophomore level of competition. She will move up to the junior level, the last level before reaching world-class status.

Nolen, who has been rollerskating for about seven years, practices six days a week year-round at the Ann Arbor Skate Company and sometimes adds a seventh day at a rink in Flint. Her coach in Ann Arbor is Petra Dayney.

She also gets sound advice from her father, John Gregory, who teaches rollerskating in Flint.

Rollerskaters are judged differently than ice skaters. Instead of receiving a series of marks like 9.0 or 7.7, rollerskaters get judged from 1-100. Nolen has been receiving marks in the high 80s.

Chances are next weekend, both Pensacola and Nolen will at least reach those high 80s.

99 17/100 % pure wrestler cleans up in AAU

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A.J. Grant is almost like Ivory soap. Ivory soap is 99 17/100 percent pure, and Grant has won 99 17/100 percent of his wrestling matches the past year.

Grant, a 55-pound 10-year-old from Bailey Lake Elementary, has wrestled his way to a 120-1 record.

Grant recently won the AAU Grand National Wrestling Championships in Indianapolis, winning a freestyle national title for a fourth straight year. He defeated Eric Woolverton of Butte, Mont., the past two years for the championship.

Grant has also won four straight Michigan AAU championships.

"A lot of guys go for me because I beat them," said Grant, who plays pee wee baseball for Machine Engineering, and

"A lot of guys go for me because I beat them."

A.J. Grant

football for the Clarkston Chiefs when not wrestling.

Grant's only loss this year occurred against New York's Judah Hein during National Federation wrestling, losing 6-5. He was in five Federation tournaments, compiling a 17-1 record. His AAU record is 87-0; he's 4-0 in Mid-Michigan wrestling, and 12-0 in collegiate-style.

One of the secrets of his success is "fighting" with his older brother, Cory. Cory, who also is a good wrestler, is 35-pounds heavier and three years older than A.J..

In addition, A.J.'s 15-year-old sister, Leslie, wrestles in Somo competition.

Grant has been changing weight divisions for the last four years. In 1987, he wrestled in the 40-pound division; in 1988, 45-pound; in 1989, 50-pound.

The well-traveled wrestler said his favorite place he has visited so far was probably Glacier National Park in Montana.

Billings, Mont., too, brings back pleasing memories for Grant. Not only did Grant win the 1989 national AAU title in Billings, he was presented with the medal by wrestler John Smith, the same John Smith who endorses the wrestling shoes Grant wears.

Fond memories for Grant, but not too fond for all of Grant's opponents.

A.J. Grant

Friday the 13th lucky day on course

The third hole at Pine Knob Golf Course recently gave two golfers quite a thrill.

The golfers sank hole-in-ones on the 165-yard hole within 10 days of each other. The Pine Knob course has been the site of eight aces already this season.

On July 3, Stan Dimu of Tecumseh, Ontario sank his first ever hole-in-one, using a 6-iron. The Canadian and 34-year golfer finished with a 79. Witnesses were George Sapardamis, Alex Sapardamis and George Sarros.

Friday the 13th was a lucky day for Steve Rhodes. The Birmingham resident used his 4-iron for his second career ace. Rhodes, who has been playing for 20 years, finished with a 101. The shot was witnessed by Bob Cummins.

Charity softball helps fight cancer

The Michigan Cancer Foundation will be the beneficiary of a charity softball game at Clarkston High School, Sunday, Aug. 5.

The game begins at 2 p.m., pitting the disc jockeys from 96.3 FM against students from Specs Howard Broadcasting School. Greg Longstaff, a 1989 Clarkston High School graduate, will be playing for Specs Howard.

The cost for admission is $5 per car.

Alumni will help celebrate Clintonwood

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Fifteen years of softball at Clintonwood Park will be celebrated with an open house and alumni softball games, Saturday, July 21.

The free festivities, which are geared for the whole family, will be begin at 10 a.m. and continue until 10 p.m.

One of the main features will be Nothdurft, a national champion men's 35-and-over softball team, competing against local All-Stars. Mike Turk, who is the Independence Township Parks Superintendent, is on the Nothdurft team and was named its most valuable player.

Children's games will continue throughout the day. Sports equipment will be available for family use: tennis, volleyball, badminton, shuffleboard, basketball and horseshoes.

Anyone wishing to get a pick-up softball game started can play on field No. 3 throughout the day.

The schedule for the day's events is:
11:30 a.m. - Beta White All-Stars vs. Beta Blue All-Stars; Sigma American All-Stars vs. Sigma National All-Stars.

Noon to 5 p.m. - A disc jockey will provide entertainment, tunes by Tunes Saloon.

1 p.m. - Women's Beta Upper All-Stars vs. Women's Beta Lower All-Stars; Men's Alumni softball game.

2:30 p.m. - Nothdurft vs. Beta Red All-Stars; Following the game, a home run derby will take place. It is open to anyone and will be divided into a major and minor division. Prizes will be given to first- and second-place finishers.

4 p.m. - Nothdurft vs. men's 35-and-over all-stars.

5:30 p.m. - Co-rec All-Star game; Gamma American All-Stars vs. Gamma National All-Stars.

5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. - Ox and corn roast, $5 per person.

6:30 p.m. - Alumni Award ceremony, which awards softball players from the past and present, along with honoring sponsors, umpires, etc.

7 p.m. - Men's alumni softball game; Women's alumni softball game.

7 p.m. to 10 p.m. - "The Family Portrait Band" will give a free concert, playing music from the '50s, '60s and current top 40.

For more information, call the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department at 625-8223.

The Garden Patch

For healthy plot, continue diligent attack on weeds

Bugs may chew on your sweet corn, make lace out of your bean leaves and drill holes in your peppers. Diseases may wilt your squash and strip the leaves from your tomatoes.

The biggest problem in home gardens, however, is neither diseases nor insects — it's weeds.

"More first-time gardeners probably give up because of weeds than for any other reason," says Lee Taylor, Extension horticulture specialist at Michigan State University, East Lansing.

The first year of a garden is usually the worst, he points out, because tilling the soil for the first time stirs up vast numbers of weed seeds that had been lying dormant until conditions were right for germination.

Bring them up close to the soil surface, water and fertilize them; and they're going to grow.

The first step in effective weed control is planting a garden in a weed-free area, Taylor says.

This means removing sod or killing grass the year before you convert a patch of lawn into garden, so the grass doesn't spend the summer trying to make a comeback.

It also means tilling the various portions of the garden just before you plant, so your crops have at least an even chance against weed seedlings.

An important strategy in weed control is eliminating weeds while they're small.

"You can very easily cut weed seedlings off with a hoe," Taylor points out. "As they get bigger, it requires more and more time and effort to control them."

Weeds often get out of hand because gardeners overestimate the amount of garden they can care for with the time, equipment and labor available.

"The larger your garden is, the greater the chance that the weeds will get ahead of you," Taylor says.

He is a strong advocate of mulching to control annual weeds, those that come up from seed, mature, produce seeds and die in one season.

Mulching with black plastic, straw, ground corncobs, several layers of newspaper or a number of other materials stops weed growth by cutting off sunlight to weed seedlings.

Perennial weeds — those that grow from underground parts each year, are a tougher problem, one that you should deal with before you start your garden.

The only long-term solution to quackgrass and other problem perennials is removing or killing the underground parts, usually with herbicides.

And that's hard to do if the weeds are mixed in with your crop plants.

Gardeners often lose their enthusiasm for weed control as the season progresses and crops are harvested.

Taylor urges continued vigilance, however.

"Every weed you let mature and go to seed means dozens or hundreds of weeds next year," he points out.

"Every weed you prevent from going to seed this year means fewer weeds to fight in next year's garden."

Planners grant Frank's final OK

Frank's Nursery, scheduled for White Lake Commons, received final site approval from the Independence Township Planning Commission July 12.

The 6,000-square-foot building, slated for the new shopping center at the southeast corner of Dixie Highway and White Lake Roads, was unanimously approved by the planning commission.

Requested by Weatherford/Walker Construction for phase two of the shopping center development, Frank's is set for the northwest corner of the 25-acre parcel.

The nursery is to have an outdoor sales area, to be located between Frank's and the rest of the center. A concrete bike path will also be built in conjunction with White Lake Road.

Food drives help fill depleted pantry at Lighthouse

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Summer usually is a difficult time for groups who try to help the needy, but a few groups are jumping in with contributions this year.

"People forget about food in the summer," said Sherry Kaars, director of the new Lighthouse North, Maybee Road, Independence Township.

"Churches are real busy with summer programs. Normally they would do food drives for us," she said, mentioning that lots of food is donated near holidays.

"Our food pantry is really very low right now," said Kaars. "If we use money to buy food, we have less to spend on utilities."

Volunteers needed at Lighthouse North

In its first half year of operations, Lighthouse North has served a lot of people — but it could use more help from volunteers.

The new facility on Maybee Road, Independence Township, was set up to provide a food pantry, clothing closet, emergency financial help and other services to residents in North Oakland County, said Director Sherry Kaars, one of two full-time staff members.

For the rest of the operations, Lighthouse North depends on volunteers, she said.

The volunteers on staff are great — but many can't work in the summers, she said, adding that she gets more requests for help than there are volunteers to help.

Plus, she needs more volunteers in the Orion-Oxford areas, she said.

Opportunities exist for all areas of expertise and for all ages. For instance, senior citizens or other ages may help simply by calling or checking up on area residents confined to their homes.

Anyone with building skills can help by construct-

"Volunteers go away feeling good. They are making a difference."

Sherry Kaars

ing wheel chair ramps or minor home repairs — either one time only or regularly, she said.

Teens may help by offering to mow lawns or to man the phones. Clerical help is needed to file, type, write letters, compile a mailing list, write a newsletter and answer phones. Plus, people are needed to keep the clothes closet organized.

Others may help by interviewing clients.

Lighthouse North offers services ranging from a food pantry and clothes closet to emergency financial help and help for the elderly and handicapped.

New this year, Lighthouse North serves the North Oakland County area and depends on donations and contributions from area residents.

The community has been receptive so far, particularly businesses and other service groups, said Kaars.

It all began when Rumph Chiropractic, Waterford, ran a food drive with an anniversary promotion.

"It was very successful," said Kaars.

Since then, others have offered help. Chiropractor Christopher Dolecki of Orion Township offered free chiropractic services last weekend to patients who donated canned goods or paper products.

Any skill may be volunteered, said Kaars.

"Volunteers go away feeling good," she said. "They are making a difference."

Lighthouse North has filled a need in the area, she said.

"It gives you a real warm feeling to know that someone has a place where they can come in and sit down and talk with someone," she said.

For more information, call 673-4949.

Through July 31, the Bunny Hut in Independence Pointe, M-15, Independence Township, is accepting non-perishable food and will offer a 20 percent discount to those who contribute.

And all summer long, the Independence Township Library is coordinating a food drive in conjunction with its summer reading club for kids — though adults are encouraged to contribute, too.

Following the reading club's theme of "Batches of Books," each week a different batch of food is collected. This week, it's lunch foods (peanut butter, jelly, soup, bread, tuna, mayonnaise); next week it's dinner foods (pasta, canned meats, soups), followed by snacks and household items (crackers, nuts, cookies, soap, cleaners, napkins).

The library is on Clarkston Road, Independence Township.

In June, Lighthouse North served 39 clients, with the greatest number coming from the Clarkston area.

"There are a lot of working poor in Clarkston that tend to get ignored," said Kaars. "There's so much affluence around us that we tend to forget about the pain."

With all of the community help, Kaars said she'd like to make July a month of remembering food — it is a month when food pantries often run short.

Food may be dropped off at any of the above collection sites or at Lighthouse North on Maybee Road, Independence Township. For more information, call 673-4949.

Independence Dozers don't like to snooze or lose

JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Independence Township Dozers don't take naps, but they do take some hefty cuts in the batter box.

The Dozers are the area's entrant in the Northwest Senior Citizens Senior Adult Co-ed Softball League.

Along with the Dozers, the Independence Township Senior Citizen Center sponsors two men's softball teams. In addition, seniors compete in volleyball during other parts of the year.

"When you're running, the bases look a mile away."

Sally Miller

The leagues were started about 11 years ago, and a few of the Dozers have been playing for that entire time span. Pitcher Ken Clair, 75, and second baseman Sally Miller, 69, are both 11-year veterans.

Baseball is timeless, but Miller said some things do change as the years go by.

"When you're running, the bases look a mile away," said Miller.

Other members of the current Dozer squad are outfielder Rose Evarts, 55; shortstop Harry Fahrner, 60; catcher Carlene Constable, third baseman Jay Bailey, 64; rover Webb Gemmel, 66; outfielder Alice Gemmel, 60; outfielder Dick Balmer, 75; utility player Fred Beedle, 66; first baseman Carol Mann, 50; outfielder Les Fant, first baseman-outfielder Larry Derycke, 70.

Mann is the youngster of the team. The minimum age requirement in the league is 50.

Tom Kage is the manager, with Cindy Assemany sometimes filling in as the interim skipper. Bob Campbell is the team's scorekeeper and base coach.

The Dozers play under Amateur Softball Association co-ed rules, with a few exceptions. There are two side-by-side first bases, one for the first baseman to make a force out and another for the batter to touch. This helps avoid entanglements on close plays.

Another feature that helps avoid injuries at home plate is a hash mark exactly between third and home. If a baserunner makes it past the hash mark before the catcher has the ball, the runner is automatically safe. On the other hand, if the catcher has the ball first and then the runner goes past the hash mark, the runner is automatically out.

Eleven players are allowed on the field defensively, with a maximum of six men and five women. Teams also have a continual batting order. If there are 14 players on the team, all 14 bat.

After the games, the home team hosts the visitors for post-game snacks and chatter. The Dozers play their games on Wednesdays, with home games at Clintonwood Park.

The Dozers, who are 3-1 in the league as of July, compete against the Waterford Jets, Pontiac Grand Slammers, Clinton Raiders and the Oak Park Ramblers. There is a year-end tournament and a game pitting the league winner against an all-star team made up of the other four teams.

The Dozers practice twice a week. Interim coach Assemany said the players run slower than their younger counterparts, and some players have some vision problems when catching long fly balls.

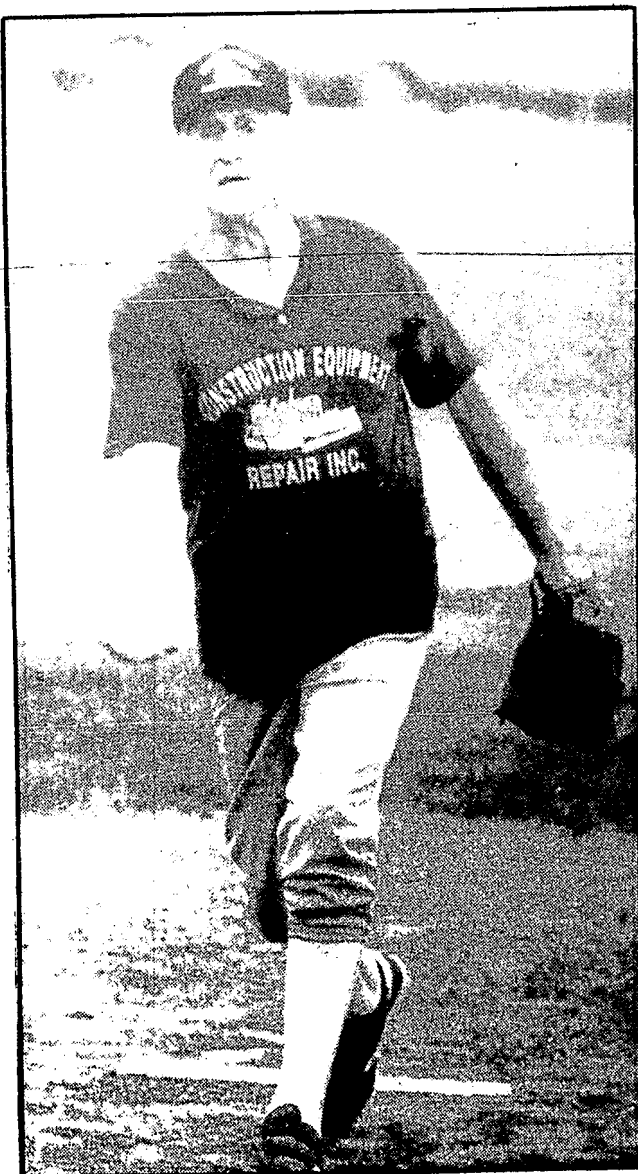

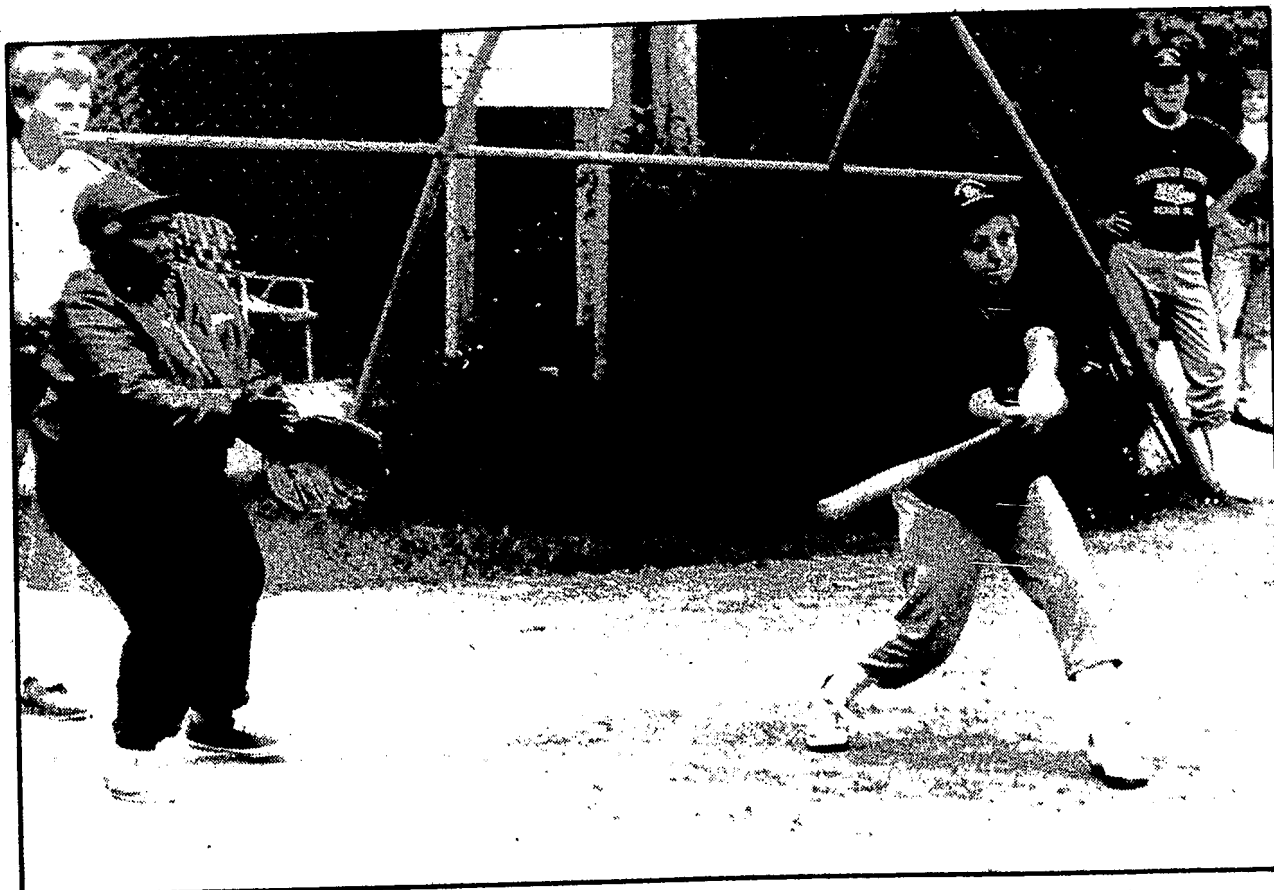

But the batters can still smack the ball, and it is more fun to win than lose.

Most of the players also feel like winners by just participating. Second baseman Miller said one time when she hadn't played for awhile, her blood pressure began to rise. Her doctor didn't advise her to take it easy, but rather suggested she rejoin her teammates on the field.

"The days I don't play ball, I'm no good," said Miller.

But the days when Miller does play, she feels good, and her opponents trying to stop her are the ones having the bad days.

A ROSE is a rose is a rose, and a hit is a hit is a hit as Independence Township Dozer Rose Evarts takes a swing in a game against the Pontiac Grand Slammers last Wednesday at Clintonwood Park. (Photos by James Gibowski)

75-YEAR-OLD Ken Clair makes his pitch against the Pontiac Grand Slammers. Clair was the winning pitcher in the Dozers' 10-5 win over Pontiac.

Helping others, learning top her list of priorities

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Ann Williams has spent the 69 years of her life doing things her own way.

When war broke out in the early 1940s she joined the U.S. Army, working as a surgical technician to wring out used bandages.

"I couldn't do that now," she says. "I was young; the war didn't seem real."

When she wanted to pursue her education after the war, she divorced a husband who stood in her way — a step unheard of in her family and her community.

"I lost a lot (of family and friends)," she recalls. "I had to move to the other side of town. (But) my brain was just lying there dead."

Now, Ann Williams is knee-deep into another endeavor — helping people. And, as she has throughout her lifetime, she pursues it with a vengeance.

A servant person

Tall, dark and slender, Ann strolls through her cool, dark Independence Township living room displaying her treasures.

She stops at a wall displaying the symbol of her latest efforts — a framed certificate awarded to her after she became ordained as a deacon.

Ann's interest in the church was sharpened in 1977, the year her son died.

"My whole life stopped," she says, quietly. "I became a non-person. So I went back to church."

Ann eventually became an active member of St. John Episcopal Evangelical Church in Holly.

"I realized the calling and wanted to be ordained," Ann says. "I wanted to be a priest at first, and then I realized I wanted to be a deacon."

The Episcopal Church recognizes the Diaconate as a servant ministry requiring ordination, a three-year process.

"The Diaconate is a servant ministry," Ann explains.

"I've always been a kind of servant person."

Lighting up the Lighthouse

Likely one of Ann's biggest projects as a "servant person" has been assisting Lighthouse North Caregivers, a facility opening on Maybee Road, Independence Township, to help needy people in North Oakland County.

Ann started at Lighthouse 10 years ago, almost against her own will.

"I wanted to be a chaplain at Pontiac General," she explains. "They told me I had to be ordained, which I knew, but I thought if I pursued it ... They told me I couldn't and suggested Lighthouse."

"I was so crushed, I said no," she recalls. "I thought it was a come down."

After praying over her decision, she decided work at Lighthouse would achieve her need to serve. She joined Lighthouse as a volunteer in 1980.

Early on, Ann brought up the idea of a local Lighthouse branch, but no action was taken. Later, at an annual

"I've always been a kind of servant person."

Ann Williams

ANN WILLIAMS dedicates her time to serving. An ordained deacon of her church, she serves the Lord and others in her parish.

Williams also spends several hours each week at the new Lighthouse North Caregivers facility.

Lighthouse breakfast, she was seated next to two ladies responsible for opening the new Lighthouse North Caregivers in the Clarkston area.

When she heard the news, Ann says, she leaped up and "practically leaped down their throats, saying 'Don't you know that's my idea?'"

Today, Ann is helping to lay the foundation for the new operation. She has worked as a primary caregiver, visiting shut-ins, transporting the needy to stores or doctors and providing respite care.

The need is a great one, Ann says.

"People up here are isolated and scattered," she says. "They're very invisible, but they have dire needs in a different way."

Ann is arranging a birthday card service for Lighthouse and regularly accommodates the transportation and visitation needs of two women, one of them blind.

The work is often draining, but Ann pushes forward. "I'm a senior myself now, and sometimes I think 'I'm tired too,'" Ann admits. "But the greatest satisfaction comes from the worst moments."

"I feel happiness and joy when I'm serving Christ," she adds.

A thirst for knowledge

As she has all her life, Ann continues to increase her knowledge. At age 69, she has enrolled in the master's program at Mary Grove Seminary in Detroit to study pastoral ministry, which includes courses in ethics and theology. She already holds a master's degree in print making.

"I may be too old," she says. "I may drop dead before I'm finished. But why should I stop?"

"People ask why I'm doing this," Ann adds. "I think they think I'm going for a big position, which I'm not."

"I'm serving God in the way I think he wants me to," she says.

Elderly and handicapped who can't live completely alone yet don't want to go to an institution can receive a little help from a new program in the area.

Based in Independence Township, Lighthouse North Caregivers provides a bridge to independence for the elderly and handicapped of North Oakland County, said coordinator Sally Swayne.

"These are people who are independent but just can't quite get to the store or shovel the sidewalk or get the lawn mowed or pay the taxes," said Swayne.

Open since March on Maybee Road, Caregivers North services range from friendly visitation and companionship to transportation and light housework, said Swayne.

Caregivers volunteers have built wheel chair ramps and fixed leaky faucets. Younger volunteers have helped compile a scrapbook for an elderly resident.

Plus, Caregivers can help out financially if a person is in a bind. For instance, occasionally, a person can't pay for a prescription, said Swayne. Caregivers can arrange to pay it that one time, or if the person meets eligibility requirements, he or she can be referred to an agency that will pay it continuously.

Along the same line, sometimes a resident will need semi-skilled nursing care — for a short time or longer term. Caregivers can point a person in the right direction for help in that area, too, said Swayne.

Caregivers volunteers may also help the family of the elderly or handicapped — by providing short-term care, so the primary caregivers can get a respite.

Caregivers is beneficial to the elderly and handicapped, but the volunteers — some senior citizens themselves — also benefit, said Swayne.

For instance, a child without grandparents in the area might enjoy working on a scrapbook or genealogy project.

And an avid reader may want to provide a library service of sorts — checking out books and delivering them regularly to those confined to their homes.

Or maybe a mother and daughter — or a father and son — would like to work together on a project. A senior citizen who needs a garden planted or light chores performed would provide an ideal opportunity, said Swayne, who is brimming with ideas.

"This intergenerational thing is a touch between the generations that is important not to lose," said Swayne.

"We need volunteers who will just spend time," she said. "It sounds so simple, but it's someone they know they can depend on to do these things."

So far, the response from community members has been great, said Swayne, mentioning in particular businesses and churches. However, more volunteers are needed.

"We get more calls asking for assistance for loved ones or friends and neighbors than we have volunteers to fill their needs," she said.

For more information on Caregivers North services or to volunteer, call 673-4949.

83-year-old pushes volunteerism to new heights

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

If volunteerism were considered a precious commodity, Ted Spuehler would be worth his weight in gold. At the age of 83, the Brandon Township resident's community involvement ranges from the role of elder at his church to a member of the auxiliary at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac.

Born and raised in Chicago, Spuehler married his wife, Mildred, in 1924. He attended classes at the Northwestern School of Commerce in Chicago for three years before accepting an accounting position with International Harvester.

After seven years of working for International Harvester in Illinois, the company transferred the Spuehler family to Kentucky. It was there that Ted completed his professional career before retiring in 1968.

TED Spuehler is one of the area's most active senior citizens. Here, he displays the "Golden Oldie" medal presented to him by the Detroit Metropolitan Heritage Club.

On the urging of his daughter, Marilyn White, the Spuehlers moved to the Clarkston area after Ted's retirement and he's been here ever since.

Within the past four years, Ted Spuehler has seen his wife and daughter, Marilyn, pass away. But the support of his family members and his belief in God have seen Spuehler through the difficult times.

Spuehler decided to continue his volunteer work because he felt his wife would have wanted him to do so.

"Mildred was a beautiful person. If it wasn't for her I wouldn't have found God or become as active in the community as I am now," Spuehler said. "She'd want me to continue my work with the church and community."

Presently, Spuehler is an active elder at the Reorganized Church of the Latter Day Saints in Pontiac. He also dedicates 10-40 hours per week as the director of the Daytime Ministry, visiting sick members and conducting daytime worship service for seniors. Ted has held this position since 1970.

Besides the church, Spuehler serves as an auxiliary member and service chairperson for the cardiac care unit at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. As chairperson, Spuehler coordinates and trains volunteers who assist patients and their families.

St. Joseph Mercy Hospital thought so much of Spuehler's efforts that they nominated him for a senior citizen service award. In May, Spuehler was honored by the Detroit Metropolitan Heritage Club with a "Golden Oldie" award for his community work. He was one of 13 recipients at the awards banquet, which recognized the accomplishments of people 80 years of age and older.

Since April, Spuehler has also been working as a peer counselor with the Independence Township-based Lighthouse North. The program offers various services to people who have difficulty of obtaining the basic necessities of life such as food, clothing and shelter.

Spuehler said he enjoys his work with Lighthouse North-Caregivers because of their community compassion.

"Lighthouse North is tremendous because they offer various services to everyone in need, despite their age," he said.

When asked how he'd like to be remembered by those he touched, Spuehler listed several traits.

"I'd like to be remembered as a person who tried to be honest, fair and considerate of others," he said.

"It's funny, my wife used to kid me that I always gave people the benefit of the doubt. She warned me that some were out to take advantage," Spuehler laughed. "Well, that didn't bother me much because everyone deserves a chance, and only God has the right to judge."

Free-lance artist always makes time to help others

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

If charity begins at home, it radiates from the home of Sue Howard on Ball Street in Ortonville.

Growing up in Ohio as the oldest of five children helped her accept responsibility — and that includes a responsibility to help others in need, she said.

Sue, 59, a free-lance artist, is a member of Ortonville Community Emergency Fund (OCEF) and CROP Walk for Hunger. Plus, she works with others in need.

Sue noted that some of the funds from OCEF are donated to Lighthouse North on Maybee Road in Independence Township. Lighthouse has recently begun providing various services to North Oakland County.

Sue is also the missions chairperson at Faith Presbyterian Church in Ortonville, which helps in an overseas hunger project.

Through her church, she helped send T-shirts to a woman in Africa, who sold them for a profit to help build a used clothing store.

"Somewhere in Africa there are people running around with T-shirts that say 'Hadley Lions Club' or 'Ortonville' on them," Sue said.

In January Sue plans to travel to Mexico to check the progression of the renovations following the earthquake in the mid-1980s.

"I can tell everyone where the money went," Sue said.

Sue has also cared for others: at different times she has cared for her mother and elderly friends.

"People don't realize that a card or a phone call can brighten a day," she said. "It takes so little time to do all these little things."

One person she has enjoyed helping for three years is Bill Davis, 44, of Ortonville.

Bill is a diabetic who needs someone to care for him on a regular basis, Sue said.

She met him through a friend, and when the friend went back to work Sue took over.

Diabetes can affect many parts of the body, and Bill is no exception. He had a leg amputated and has two toes on his remaining foot. At one time, he was on kidney dialysis, but he has since had a kidney transplant.

Bill is divorced, and his family doesn't live near. So Sue helps with day-to-day things.

Once Bill had a cast on his leg for about three months, and Sue visited him each day to help wash and massage his foot because he had poor circulation, she said.

Despite his disabilities, Bill remains active, which is inspirational, said Sue. He serves as a library board member in Ortonville and is responsible for handicap signs in the area, she said.

"Meeting someone like Bill is worth the effort," Sue said, mentioning that he often writes to politicians on various issues.

"He even wrote to Donald Trump and sent him his extra coupons," she said, laughing.

SUE HOWARD, 59, is a free-lance artist, which allows her to manage her time so she can help others — one of the responsibilities in life, she says.

Early detection of breast cancer . . .

Guest Column

Stairs, work good for seniors; cigarettes, fat bad

Leo Wischman, 81, of Dixie Highway, Independence Township, submitted the following column because he thought it might be useful to other seniors.

BY JOE FRISINO

After interviewing Dr. Charles Wischman and getting caught up in his enthusiasm for exercise, you feel like a traitor when you drive home instead of walking.

"You have a fantastic body, a wonderful machine if you treat it nicely. But it has got to be pushed. There is no standing still; you are either going forward or backward," he said.

Wischman, who has spent 20 years with Group Health Cooperative and is chief of staff at the organization's Olive Way clinic, said his specialty is internal medicine, "but the average age of my patients is 70, so I'm a gerontologist."

"I love working with older people. They are pioneers, they are wise, and if I can sell them (an idea or proposition), I know I'm right."

He said "walking is the best" exercise, but weightlifting is great, too. Not necessarily heavy weights. A lady should be able to do this (he flexed his arm) holding a 5-pound weight, do it several times and gradually increase the number. I work with weights three times a week."

Stretching is a must, Wischman said, and doing so in a swimming pool is particularly good. He stood up, put one foot against a wall and pushed on his knee with both hands. "Do this, like you see runners do. Keep the one (the lower) leg straight."

The stretch will prevent leg cramps. He suggested that all stretching be done easily at first. He moved into a squat position and said that also is helpful. Exercise and stretch all parts of the body, he stressed.

Arthritis results from disuse, not overuse, he said.

Wischman is not very fond of the average American diet. He said this country has a surplus of corn with which to feed cattle, and we produce steaks marbled with fat.

Instead of eating that, people should eat lots of roughage lightly cooked in vegetable oil.

He said Africans eat very little meat but consume considerable roughage, "and they have three or four bowel movements a day, which is good, but no hemorrhoids or colon cancer. Move them into the big cities, and they begin to die with the same problems we have."

Wischman said he eats fish "about seven days a week" and drinks lots of water. "Cigarettes are death, and fat is death."

I told him that, like many people our age, my wife, Harriette, and I are tired of stairs and are moving into a smaller home all on one floor. I asked what he would suggest. He laughed and said, "Find some stairs to climb. Get a broom and sweep the streets — that's what older people in Europe do. Find some people who need help and help them."

He added that he urges older people to join groups that exercise together, and he would like to see them do more weightlifting. He is trying to persuade some of the downtown health clubs to let seniors use their facilities during off hours.

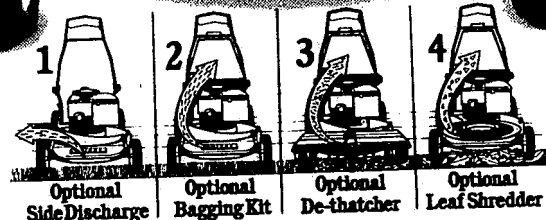

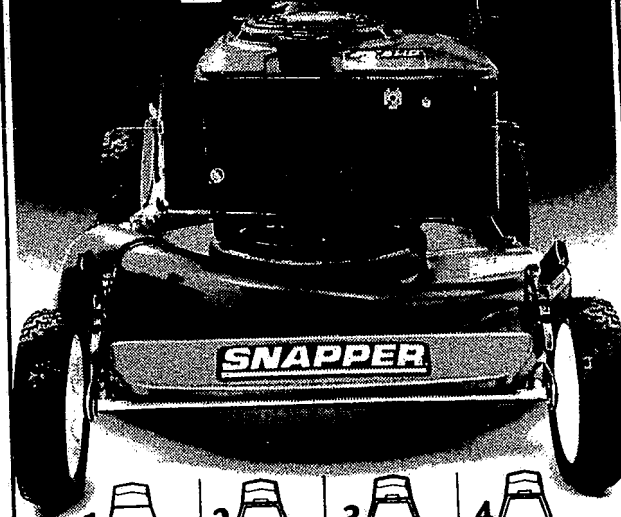

Wischman, in his early 50s, was born in Detroit, where his father, at age 80, still works in construction. The physician was reared on a farm and later was a carpenter before entering medicine. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan Medical School. He thinks education should never end, and said he would like to learn welding and take some courses in repairing small engines. He thinks closing some of Seattle's high schools was a mistake and that they could be used for educating older people.

Wischman said he recently injured his right shoulder in a skiing accident, but because he is in excellent physical shape he is rapidly recovering the movements of his arm. He said older people should get into better physical condition because if they are hurt in a fall or an automobile accident, they will recover faster.

"You have to learn to take three Seahawk hits on a Sunday and get up Monday," he said.

Joe Frisino is a columnist in Seattle, Wash. His "Senior Side" column appears weekly in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Seattle, Wash.

Are you really ready for a week full of Saturdays?

Retirement planning? What is there to plan? Instead of going to work everyday and dealing with endless, and often times needless pressures and stress, you get to sleep in and basically do what you want, when you want.

According to experts, life expectancy will continue to rise and many people will spend as many years in retirement as they did in the work force, if not more.

"From a financial perspective, as soon as an individual begins working, he or she should begin planning for retirement," says Esther, Callahan, executive director at Waterford Senior Citizens Center, a United Way agency.

"People should begin thinking seriously about other aspects of retirement, such as living arrangements, relationships and leisure activities, about 10 years before they actually retire."

Callahan says that the most difficult part of retirement is developing a strong identity apart from the workplace.

"It's not the Saturdays and Sundays that are the problem, it's the Mondays through Fridays — the days your employer owned before you retired," Callahan explains.

"Retirees need to generate a base of friends and interests in order to fill that time up with meaningful activities."

Ellen Preisman, executive director, Walter P. Reuther Senior Centers, says there are basically five area preretirees should look at: leisure time, living arrangements, health, interpersonal relationships, and financial/legal issues.

■ Before you decide how to spend your leisure time, it's important to first consider your interests. One of the activities Callahan likes to promote is volunteerism. It's a wonderful opportunity to meet new people, increase your sense of self worth, and upgrade your skills and learn new ones, not to mention making a difference in someone else's life.

■ There are a wide variety of housing options to consider before retiring — apartments, condominiums, mobile homes, and retirement communities are just a few.

Preisman warns, if you plan on moving to one of the "sunbelt" states, "look before you leap".

Visit the area for a long period of time, and really get to know the community before you move.

■ A gradual physical decline is inevitable with age. But a healthy life-style of proper diet, exercise and rest can help any person stay in good shape.

It's important to maintain a good relationship with the family physician and to follow medical advice.

Remember, minor problems ignored, may lead to major problems down the road.

■ Marriage suddenly becomes a 24 hour-a-day "job" during retirement, Preisman says. "Married couples should carefully discuss and work on their relationship, allowing for the needs and interests of both partners," Preisman explains "It's important to include time with other people, and respect each other's privacy."

■ The best time to start saving for retirement is as soon as you start working. If you are 45 years old, for example, and never thought about retirement until now, there is still time to save and invest the money you have.

"The best bet is to seek the advice of an expert," Preisman suggests.

"There are a variety of investment possibilities, with a variety of risks. So check out each one carefully."

worked their tiny characters in performances around the world. The characters' feet are operated by the hands of the three, as they lie behind the burlap barricade.

Local comedy trio performs to worldwide audience

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

The Quiddlers appear onstage in coal miner costumes — tiny jeans, plaid shirts, work boots and lighted hats.

The faces belong to Gary Lewis of Clarkston, Rick Altman of Troy and Paul Ebejer of West Bloomfield. The bodies, comically created to look like squashed midgets, wordlessly perform in skits now known to audiences worldwide.

The acts are short — about five minutes — and are completely choreographed. For all their seeming simplicity, however, the acts have created a sudden sensation.

Throughout the past year, the three young performers and their tiny characters have been invited to perform in Tokyo, Rome and Paris.

The Quiddlers have appeared on Puttin' on the Hits, a syndicated television program filmed in Los Angeles, and on the Muscular Dystrophy Telethon, seen worldwide from Las Vegas.

The trio was recently selected to perform in The Montreal Comedy Festival held this July, and, next fall, may appear in National Basketball Association game half-times.

The three performers, all graduates of Oakland University, Rochester, say the recognition was hard to believe, at first.

"When the guy called from Jerry Lewis' telethon saying they wanted us to perform, I felt like saying 'yeah

"When the guy called from Jerry Lewis' telethon saying they wanted us to perform, I felt like saying 'Yeah right.'"

Paul Ebejer

right," recalls Ebejer. "It took us over five years to figure it out — the industry needs acts like that, about three minutes long."

The young comedians began their careers in 1985, at a cable television station where Lewis was employed.

"The cable show needed material, and Paul brought his costumes out," Lewis explains. The costumes had been created by Ebejer when he was in high school.

"We brought them out of the closet and onto videotape," Lewis adds.

The trio later competed in a Detroit area contest and captured first place with the characters. Puttin' on the Hits called not long afterwards, and the performances' popularity took off from there.

The three attribute their international appeal to the

"Europe has a different type of audience. They still like to see variety-type shows."

Paul Ebejer

different television formats across the world.

"Europe has a different type of audience," Ebejer says. "They still like to see variety-type shows."

The international exposure poses a different challenge to the performers, however, as they attempt to make an act understood in a variety of cultures.

"We make it more visual," Ebejer says. "Sometimes they can't understand what we're singing about. They might laugh at the costumes, but the song will mean nothing," he adds.

Ebejer, 26, creates the costumes for the characters, which determines the acts.

"The costume is what the act is," Lewis explains.

Though he worked by hand at first, Ebejer now employs a sewing machine and makes regular trips to fabric stores for costume material. Among his creations are sailor, cowboy and the coal-miner costumes.

Altman, 27, acts as the funny man in the group, sparking new ideas with comedic faces, movements and costuming ideas. He also works as the group's main publicist.

Lewis, the youngest member of the group at 25, adds his technical expertise to the group. He works to get the new or improved acts recorded, edited and copied for the growing list of international agents.

Born in Waterford, Lewis makes his home base in Clarkston. When the group is in town, he is often seen perched on the windowsill of his Main Street, Clarkston, apartment.

"People here are so nice," he says. "When you walk down the street, people say hi."

The three have been out of town more and more frequently since December, when they dedicated themselves full time to performing.

Though they describe their success up to now as "feast or famine," the Montreal performance could launch the Quiddlers into a new arena.

The Montreal Comedy Festival, known as the "Just for Laughs" festival, is scheduled for July 19-22, and draws agents, managers and producers from all over the world.

"As far as this act goes, our goal is to be working constantly and to go all over," Ebejer says.

"Who knows what could happen next week," he adds. "The whole world is getting smaller. There is so much to see and do."

Microwave Plus

All hail to the underused vegetable, kale

Betty Wagner

Kale, the vegetable with the crinkly green and sometimes pink-tinged leaves, looks pretty in produce displays.

Food stylists use kale for garnish; many people don't know how to cook it or have even tried it, but people in the South love it. The latest news is that kale is loaded with usable calcium.

According to a study reported in the July 1990 issue of "Tufts University Diet and Nutrition Letter," women who ate cooked kale "absorbed as much calcium as they did when they were given milk, and some absorbed even more."

Spinach also contains a good amount of calcium, but the calcium in it is not efficiently absorbed by our bodies. The theory is that the oxalates in spinach bind with the calcium; kale contains no oxalates to interfere with absorption.

Ten percent of the recommended dietary allowance for calcium is contained in one cup of chopped cooked kale. This is great news for people who don't like dairy products or who suffer from lactase deficiency. Broccoli, collards, mustard and turnip greens also contain significant amounts of calcium and no oxalates to inhibit absorption. A casserole containing a medley of these vegetables would be a healthy addition to any meal.

During my childhood, our family often ate kale. I can remember it being steamed and served with vinegar. It was tart. Because my immediate family is not fond of the tartness of kale and vinegar, I've created alternate ways to serve it. If you have a favorite kale recipe, please send it to me at The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main St., Clarkston, MI 48436. I'll adapt it to the microwave and share it for the good health of our readers.

FRESH KALE IN THE MICROWAVE/

- 1 pound fresh kale
- 1/4 cup chopped fresh basil
- 1/4 cup red onion
- 1 fresh tomato, chopped
- 1/4 cup water
- 2 tablespoons red wine vinegar

1. Wash kale; shred it from the stem; cut it into pieces. Place prepared kale in a three-quart Pyrex bowl.
2. Add basil, onion, tomato and water. Cover with vented plastic wrap or a lid. Microwave at HIGH for 8 minutes. Stir after 4 minutes. Splash with red wine vinegar before serving, if desired.

KALE MANICOTTI

- 1 (15-ounce) container part-skim ricotta cheese
- 3 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley
- 1 (15-ounce) jar spaghetti sauce
- 1/4 cup water
- 6 to 8 manicotti shells
- 2 cups cooked kale
- 1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese

1. Precook chopped kale at HIGH for 5 minutes. Set aside.
2. Spread 2 to 3 tablespoons of sauce in the bottom of a 6x10-inch Pyrex baking dish.
3. Mix together cheese and parsley; stuff into shells. Place shells in a single layer in the dish. Spread cooked kale over shells.
4. Mix remaining spaghetti sauce with water; pour evenly over shells, completely covering shells with sauce. Double wrap dish with plastic wrap.
5. Microwave at 50 percent (MEDIUM) for 30 minutes. Unwrap; sprinkle cheese over top of sauce. Microwave at 50 percent (MEDIUM) for two minutes or until cheese melts.

Tip: Substitute kale for spinach in a vegetable lasagna.

Home economist Betty Wagner resides in Independence Township. Her "Microwave Plus" cable-TV program airs on Independence-Clarkston Channel 65.

Pet of the Week

Great family pet

Kidder is not kidding about needing a new home. This black and white female cat lost her home when her previous owners moved, so she moved into temporary housing at the Michigan Humane Society until she can find a new place to live.

Kidder, 1, will need to be spayed before leaving the shelter.

The $50 adoption fee includes spaying.

To see Kidder, visit the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

NEWLYWEDS: Tom and Cathy Hall

New arrivals

Tom and Colleen Hecker of Ute Pointe, Independence Township, are the proud new parents of a baby boy.

Michael Thomas Hecker was born Friday, July 13, 1990, at Pontiac General Hospital. He weighed 7 pounds, 11 ounces, and measured 20 1/8 inches long.

Grandparents are Bob and Betty Hecker of Ridgewood, Springfield Township, and Teresa and Ron Rock of Union Lake.

Great-grandparents are Gladys Hecker of Lincroft, N.J.; June Anderson of Tuscaloosa, Ala.; and Mary and Stephen Rock of Union Lake.

***

Kent and Judy Schermerhorn of Mockingbird Lane, Independence Township, are the proud parents of a baby girl.

Katelyn Nulu Schermerhorn was born at 4:47 p.m. July 5, 1990, at Crittenton Hospital, Rochester. She weighed 7 pounds, 15 ounces, and measured 20 1/2 inches long.

She was welcomed home by her brother, Brent, 8, and sister, Becky, 7.

Grandmother is Margo Schermerhorn of Grand Blanc, and great-grandmother is Lempi Ranta of Baraga.

Honors

Deborah Bellows of Heath Avenue, Independence Township, was one of 184 high school students awarded a four-year, $6,000 Regents Scholarship at Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti.

***

Five Clarkston-area residents were among the 574 students to receive $1,000 Recognition of Excellence Awards at Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti.

Derek Diederich of Sleepy Time, Ronald Gibson of Mohawk, Stacey Hovanec of Ascension, Leanne K. Stevens of Transparent and Joseph A. Yates of Ascension were the recipients.

Vicki L. VanPutten of Clarkston was among the 875 Calvin College, Grand Rapids, students eligible to attend the May 19 commencement ceremony.

***

Kristin M. Baert, James E. Ferrand, Christopher T. Houston, Ann K. McClellan, and Ann E. Vincil of the Clarkston area have been named UM-Flint scholars for the winter term at the University of Michigan-Flint in Flint.

The Rev. David Eshlemans performed the 4 p.m. ceremony, in which the bride was given away by her parents, before 150 guests. A reception followed at the Oxford American Legion.

The bride is a 1986 graduate of Siena Heights College, Adrian, and is a merchandise manager at JC Penney, Flint. She is the daughter of LeRoy and Loretta Coberley of Brooklyn.

The bridegroom is a 1988 graduate of the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, and is a senior project engineer at ITT Automotive (Teves). He is the son of Tom and Loraine Hall of Clarkston.

The bride wore a champagne sheath gown with a chapel-length train. The Queen Anne neckline, bodice and sleeves were trimmed with stimulated pearls, and the dress had a stimulated pearl cascading closure. She carried a bouquet of red and yellow roses with white tiger lilies.

Maid of honor was Susan Coberley of Brooklyn, sister of the bride, who wore a tea-length royal blue sheath gown.

Other attendants were Michelle Coberley, sister of the bride, of Brooklyn; Jenny Eshleman, friend of the couple, of Clarkston; and Lisa Cyrus, sister of the bride of Walled Lake. All gowns were of royal blue and were made by the bride's mother, Loretta Coberley.

Best man was James Hall. Other attendants were Russ Holland of Tipton, Bob Ruelle of Clarkston, Mike Throop of Waterford, Tim Dangel of Clarkston, Steve Throop of Brighton and Brian Vroom of Ann Arbor.

The couple took a week-long wedding trip to Gaylord. They reside in Clarkston.

NEWLYWEDS: Mr. and Mrs. Paul Arndt.

Couple marries

Donald J. Hoff

Donald J. Hoff

Donald J. Hoff, 65, of Clarkston died July 13, 1990. He is survived by his wife, Elizabeth Hope; daughters, Diane Elizabeth of Clarkston and Mrs. Alan P. (Kathleen Ann) Gilbertson of Richfield, Minn.; and grandchildren, Wendy Hope and Christopher William.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoff observed their 40th wedding anniversary on April 13, 1990.

Mr. Hoff, a native of Minneapolis, Minn., served in the United States Navy and received his professional degrees at the University of Minnesota. He began his teaching and coaching career at Negaunee High School in 1951 and went to Bloomfield Hills High School (now Andover) four years later.

He was the first athletic director and recreation director for the Bloomfield Schools and under his direction the program grew from only football and track to include soccer, golf, cross country, swimming, wrestling, ice hockey, baseball, tennis and basketball.

His teams held league championships in football, track and cross country, and his track teams at one time held nine league records out of the 13 events in the Wayne Oakland League.

The Bloomfield Hills City Championship Track Meet was named after Mr. Hoff, and he was recognized by the Michigan High School Athletic Association for 20 years of service as a track official as well as serving at state meets as a head timer and judge.

In 1984 the 25th Annual All Oakland County Track and Field meet was dedicated to Mr. Hoff. He was a member of a number of educational and athletic organizations.

A family funeral service was held with the Rev. Richard M. Leliaert of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital officiating. Burial will be in Marquette. Memorial tributes may be made to Clarkston SCAMP or Lighthouse North.

Arrangements were made by the Lewis E. Wint and Son TRUST 100 Funeral Home, Clarkston.

OFFICIAL NOTICE

Village of Clarkston

375 Depot Road
Clarkston, Michigan 48016
Village Council
Minutes of Regular Meeting
July 9, 1990

Meeting called to order by President Catallo at 7:37 p.m. followed by the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

Roll. Present: Catallo, Haven, Mauti, Roeser, Schultz, Whitmer.
Absent: Basinger.

Moved by Haven and supported by Mauti, "That the minutes of the June 25, 1990, regular meeting be accepted." Motion carried.

The agenda was accepted as presented.
Moved by Mauti and supported by Whitmer, "That the bills in the amount of $40,847.87 be approved for payment." Roll. Yeas 6, Nays 0. Motion carried.

President Catallo reported that committee assignments for 1990-91 would be made at the next regular meeting.

Trustee Schultz reported that the Oakland County Road Commission did not favorably receive the idea of a safety path on White Lake Road as an extension of the width of the existing road.
Trustee Schultz is to obtain engineering drawings of the proposed safety path and submit an official written request for a permit application through the Oakland County Road Commission.

Moved by Roeser and supported by Mauti, "That funds be allocated not to exceed $5,000 to complete patching repairs to Buffalo, East Church, and East Washington Streets. Roll. Yeas:
Catallo, Haven, Mauti, Roeser, Schultz. Abstained: Whitmer.
Nays: None. Motion carried.

The Village Manager was to contact the Village Engineer for approval prior to proceeding with the above repairs.

Attorney Gerald Fisher, representing Mr. and Mrs. Harold Goyette, was present to discuss his letter dated June 13, 1990, to Mr. Goyette regarding the proposed ordinance amendment to permit funeral homes in residential areas and a memorandum to the Village Council dated July 9, 1990, same subject.

Mr. Fisher referred to the memorandum and his discussions with the Village Attorney as to the feasibility of this proposal.

Village Attorney Gruich pointed out that for the protection of all parties, procedures must be precisely followed as outlined in the zoning ordinance.

Mr. Fisher agreed that this request should be referred to the Planning Commission as discussed with the Village Attorney. The memorandum submitted to the Village Council was based on discussions with the Village Attorney, and Mr. Fisher agreed that the Planning Commission should act on this memorandum first;
however, he felt it would be beneficial to discuss this issue conceptually with the Village Council. Mr. Fisher then discussed the contents of the memorandum.

Trustee Whitmer felt the discussion was premature without having the Planning Commission study this new proposal.

Trustee Haven was concerned that this would constitute spot zoning and asked how would the Council be protected against the accusation of promoting spot zoning and not maintaining the residential zoning.

Mr. Fisher was asked if there were other municipalities that had ordinances governing funeral homes in residential zoning districts. Mr. Fisher agreed to furnish the Council with existing ordinances of this nature.

Trustee Haven asked for comments from the audience.
Ralph Thayer stated that property owners of abutting property had no objections to this proposal.

Mrs. Bickford stated she was concerned with growth of the funeral home that is next door to her residence.

Dr. James O'Neill felt that this proposal should be allowed.

Mr. John Ronk stated that other communities had similar situations.

President Catallo was concerned about the spot zoning effect.

Mrs. Al Valentine stated she was in favor of this proposal.

President Catallo stated that the Village Council was attempting to uphold the Zoning Ordinance originally adopted in 1973.

Mr. John Ronk stated that there should be terminology that would give them (Goyettes) the opportunity to stay in business and let the village enforce the ordinance.

The Village Attorney explained non-conforming zoning.

Mr. John Ronk asked that the attorneys draft something that can protect the Village and the Goyettes.

Mrs. Iva Caverly suggested that the ordinance was made by humans and can be changed by people.

The Village Attorney said this was not a personal issue, the Council is trying to foretell the future and how to preserve the Village now and in the future.

There was further discussion between the Council, attorneys, and audience, and Mr. Fisher requested that the matter be referred to the Planning Commission.

The Village Manager reported that the present Community Development Block Grant funds are not able to be used on the proposed safety path on White Lake Road.

The Community Development Block Grant agreement was tabled until a trustee is appointed as the official Council representative for Community Development.

The Village Manager was instructed to contact the DNR and request that they review the change in walk by the Village West project from wood construction to Cement construction and the location change. Trustee Roeser will also review the original plans and permits.

Moved by Mauti and supported by Whitmer, "That the 1990 millage rate for Village taxes be established at 6.15 mills for General Fund and .50 mills for Sewer Construction Debt Retirement, resulting in a total of $133,899.65 for General Fund purposes and $10,493.50 for Sewer Construction Debt Retirement." Roll. Yeas
6, Nays 0. Motion carried.

Moved by Roeser and supported by Mauti, "That the meeting be adjourned." Meeting adjourned at 10:45 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,
Artemus M. Pappas
Acting Clerk

Village of Clarkston PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

A public hearing will be held jointly by the Village Council and the Village Planning Commission on August 13, 1990, in the Village Hall at 375 Depot Road to consider the following amendments to Ordinance No. 72, Village of Clarkston Zoning Ordinance.

1. Provisions covering allowable sign area, periods of display, allowable temporary and nonconforming signs, and provisions for the removal of unlawful or abandoned signs.

2. Establish new zoning classification, B-2, which would limit principal uses permitted to retail
