Growth up in Independence

394 permits issued in 1990, only 215 in first half of 1989

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Progress is alive and well in Independence Township.

According to a report conducted by the building department, the township has granted 179 more building permits for the first six months of 1990 than allowed in the first half of 1989.

Building department records show that 394 permits,

"Independence is still in its infancy in terms of development."

Beverly McElmeel

of all varieties, were approved during the first half of this year compared to 215 in the first half of 1989.

Township building Director Beverly McElmeel attributed the escalating number of total permits to the rise in apartment and condominium developments in the area.

New Orleans style featured in park

The final Friday free concert in the park July 27 features the Tailgate Ramblers, a Dixieland band.

Sponsored by the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce, the concert in Depot Park, Clarkston, runs 7-9 p.m., with refreshments sold by the Clarkston Area Jaycees.

One of the oldest Dixieland bands in the area, the Tailgate Ramblers began in 1956 and in 1959 was the first local group to play at Bakers Keyboard Lounge.

The group plays "good dancing and listening music," according to its card, which also boasts of providing New Orleans-style Dixieland band music.

Concert-goers should bring blankets or lawn chairs — plus bug spray.

Newsletter focuses on village historic district

The first of a twice-annual publication was recently mailed to Village of Clarkston residents.

Published by the Clarkston Historic District Commission, the newsletter — called HomeWork — is to be used to exchange ideas and information.

Residents with questions about home repairs, Clarkston history, architecture or other areas may write for the answers, which will appear in future newsletters.

Also, if residents have do-it-yourself tips, photos, history or product information to share with others, the newsletter is a good opportunity.

Forward questions or answers to HomeWork, Clarkston Village Hall, 375 Depot Rd., Clarkston, MI 48346.

Extra copies of the newsletters are available at the Independence Township Library, Clarkston Road, Independence Township.

The first newsletter included information on local history — in this case, Robertson Court; an explanation and map of Clarkston's historic district boundaries; tips and drawings on identifying American architecture; plus lots of other information about historical structures and laws protecting historical structures.

Two grocery stores to open by fall, one next spring

BY LISA NIXON
Clarkston News Special Writer

Three new grocery stores will be opening in Independence Township, and all will offer more than groceries.

Two of the three stores are to open in the fall, and one of those two has already changed hands.

Ed Boutrous, developer of Clarkston Oaks on Dixie Highway across from Maybee Road, said the lease with Great Scott was canceled July 16, and a lease with Kroger was signed at the same time.

"We want to open as soon as possible," Boutrous said, adding that early November was the target opening date.

"This store will have all the new bells and whistles," Boutrous added.

The store is to include a pharmacy and a floral shop, he said.

Dave Prueter, KMA Real Estate manager for Michigan Division of Kroger, said Great Scott was having financial problems and is in the process of selling stores to Kroger.

"Great Scott was not able to finance that store," Prueter said. "We were fortunate to get them to cancel the lease and for us to sign the lease."

Prueter said Kroger officials are finalizing the store's interior plans, which include a larger deli plus bakery and cheese departments.

The other store set for a fall opening is the new A&P off Dixie Highway and White Lake Road in the new White Lake Commons center, where the historic Boothby house once stood.

Kathy Woods, employee of current A&P at the M-15-Dixie Highway intersection, said the new store should open Aug. 13 and will remain an A&P despite A & P's recent purchase of Farmer Jack.

"It's beautiful," Woods said about the new store. "It's three times the size of this one."

The store, too, is to contain a floral shop and larger, more specialized departments.

Woods said the store is open for construction workers and A&P staff but is not yet open for business.

A third grocery store is to open in spring 1991. March or April is the proposed opening date for a new Food Town, said Ed Adler, vice president of Food Town supermarkets.

Food Town is to move from its current location at the northwest corner of Sashabaw and Maybee roads to Independence Towne Square, a shopping center in the works at the southwest corner of Sashabaw and Waldon roads.

"We're hoping that we can open it by the first of March 1991, by the absolute latest," Adler said.

Construction on the site was begun last week, Adler added.

Arkan Jonna, president of Jonna properties and developer of Independence Towne Square, said earth moving has been underway for a few weeks.

Jonna said workers spent weeks making a nursery to hold existing trees for later transplanting, but it didn't work.

"That was a couple of weeks and time for nothing. We tried to save the trees," Jonna said.

Jonna added that he sees no problems ahead.

"Everything is a go," he said.

Adler said Food Town needs the new building to expand its departments.

"The building will be more efficiently laid out," Adler said.

The new Food Town will hold larger bakery and deli departments. Plus, a larger selection of products will be displayed, Adler said.

the main contributors to this categorical boom. Only four permits were granted for apartment and condo projects in the first half of 1989, compared to 121 for 1990.

However, the total number of permits granted for single-family homes dropped from 94 in the first six months of 1989 to 84 in the first half of 1990.

According to McElmeel, April and May are traditionally the busiest times of the year for construction. She cites these months as being popular because they occur around the time of the "spring thaw." October has also proven to be big for construction because most developers want to beat the winter frost.

McElmeel believes the township's desirability lies in its location and diversity.

"Independence Township offers the best of both worlds," McElmeel said. "It has a distinct rural character complemented by a good school system. Our location is also attractive because we lie in between Flint and Detroit with the malls only a half an hour away.

"Independence is still in its infancy in terms of development," she added. "And I feel our officials have got a good grasp on the progress at hand."

Costs of library operation for voters to decide

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Library Director James Hibler gave the Independence Township Board an overview of what the township can expect in the upcoming library expansion.

On July 17, Hibler supplied the board with a view of the future. He presented a scale model of the proposed 20,000-square-foot building and an oral report of what it will entail. Construction is to begin at the end of this year, with a target completion date of fall 1991.

The expansion of the 4,000-square-foot Clarkston Road building is to be paid for with a $2 million bond issue approved by voters Nov. 8, 1988. The Clarkston Community Historical Society is also contributing about $50,000 to furnish the local history room.

Voters will also be asked to approve three-fourths mill for operating expenses of the expansion. That request will appear on the Aug. 7 primary ballot and will cover utilities, maintenance, staffing, services and materials.

Three-fourths mill is 75 cents for every $1,000 assessed property valuation. For example, the owner of a $100,000 home assessed at half its market value ($50,000) would pay $37.50 per year for library operating expenses. The current library is operated with money from the

"We want this library to be ready to accommodate the needs of our entire community in the future."

James Hibler

township's general fund.

According to Hibler, the expanded library will be composed of different sections to suit the needs of its patrons. Though the building will be free of internal barriers, sections such as a children's collection, adult collection, and a reference area will be accessible to all who frequent the library.

The library will also be equipped with six enclosed rooms ranging from local history to audio visual. The largest of the rooms will be a 175-person meeting room open to all community organizations.

THE LIBRARY is to be expanded to about 20,000 square feet — five times its current size. Pictured is the floor plan of the expansion on Clarkston Road. If plans go smoothly, the expansion library could be open to the public by the fall of 1991.

In terms of personnel, the library is currently operating with seven full-time members and six part-time assistants. Hibler foresees a day when the library will be functioning with nearly 25 full-time staff members.

"We want this library to be ready to accommodate the needs of our entire community in the future," Hibler said about the upcoming improvements.

In terms of books, Hibler said the expansion will make way for nearly triple the number of volumes in the current 27,000-volume library. About 50,000 more books will be added over a 20-year period.

Township Clerk Joan McCrary emphasized that the expansion will not interrupt the library's normal activities. According to McCrary, the present children's area will be partitioned off so it won't be disturbed by construction.

New board members

Two new faces characterized the Clarkston school board at its regular meeting July 9.

Durham Downs and Sheila Hughes took their seats after being elected to the board in the June election.

The oath of office was administered to Hughes July 9; Downs was sworn in during a special meeting last month.

The oath commits a member to support the Constitution of the United States and of Michigan and to discharge the duties of the office of School Elections Administrator for Clarkston to the best of his or her ability.

The salary for board members continues to be $30 per meeting, not to exceed 52 meetings a year.

NANCY ROBERTSON delivers mail to a ship, address where baby starlings, along with their mother, make their home.

Postal carrier becomes friends with nesting bird

Neither snow nor sleet nor a nesting bird can keep Nancy Robertson from delivering the mail.

Nancy, a mail carrier for the Clarkston area, has had to do some adjusting on her route along Perry Lake Road, Independence Township. A mother starling has taken up residence in a mailbox where Nancy delivers the mail.

"I never dreamed she would build a nest," Nancy said.

Whenever other birds have put nesting material in mailboxes, Nancy just removes it, but this time it was different.

"She was determined," Nancy said of the mother starling.

The bird would put the straw-like materials back into the mailbox after Nancy removed them.

One day when the starling was first sitting on her eggs, she flew out and pecked Nancy on the hand.

Each day, Nancy gently opens the mailbox door and slowly places the mail inside, she said.

The starling knows when Nancy is approaching the mailbox.

The bird flies away as Nancy pulls up to the stop prior to the Anderson address where the bird nests, and then returns to the nest after the mail is delivered.

Board buys fire department land

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A request to sell two fire department lots on Maybee Road found a quick buyer in the Independence Township Board.

On July 17, the board voted 6-0 to purchase the land from the fire department after the land is appraised. Trustee John Lutz was absent from the meeting.

Fire Chief Gar Wilson asked the board for permission to sell two lots at 5242 Maybee Road, adjacent to fire station number three. The property, 20,000 square feet per lot, had received approval from the township's split parcel committee on July 12.

Wilson told the board he would like to sell the land for about $30,000 per lot. He said the revenue would be deposited directly into the fire department's building fund.

Township Clerk Joan McCrary said she'd like to see the township retain the land for "open space" purposes.

"I'd hate to see us sell off all our property," McCrary said. "Let's just think about this before acting."

McCrary suggested the township take money from its funds to pay off the fire department.

"Nothing against Gar (Wilson)," McCrary added. "But this split will only account for $50,000, and that's only a drop in the bucket for a $2.5 million fire station."

A $2 million bond issue for a public safety complex was defeated by twice by voters in 1989, and Wilson has since been trying to find other means of paying for a complex.

At the meeting, Trustee Frank Millard said the property could be used as a neighborhood park, if purchased by the township.

Early morning

Julie
Campe

It was 7 a.m. — early by my standards, and I had just furnished myself with a large iced tea and a biscuit from a fast food restaurant.

So there I sat in heavy Baldwin Road traffic, waiting to make a left turn onto I-75. I discovered the fast food workers had not given me a straw.

I sighed.

Toward me roared car after car of work-bound people. All but a few vehicles carried a single occupant. Most were men; and few were women; and a very few had children with them.

A man in a blue pick-up truck with dark hair on the long side and a mustache whizzed by. He was wearing a T-shirt and was smoking, eyes half open.

Factory worker, I decided. But he must be late.

I sometimes get caught in factory traffic about 3 p.m. if I'm at the wrong place at the wrong time. And many of those drivers are T-shirt clad men driving pick-up trucks, racing to leave their workplace. I figured their shifts must begin at 7 a.m.

Another pick-up truck was on the way — a red one. I waited to see if it could be another factory worker.

Not likely. He sported ear-length hair and wore a suit — plus he talked on a car phone.

So early? I wondered. What business was open so early? Construction, of course. That is, unless he was simply saying goodbye to his wife.

The next vehicle carried an older man with a steaming cup of coffee — not from a fast food place — in his hand. By the time he reached work, he'd be ready to go, I figured.

And following him was a woman with wet curly hair who dexterously applied mascara while driving in the bumper-to-bumper traffic. Good use of time, as long as no accidents occurred, I thought, though I would not want to be driving near her for very long.

Following her was a woman in a van, already tired-looking. Beside her a tiny outstretched hand was visible above the dashboard.

Next, a young suited man in a small car looked bright-eyed and ready for the day.

And next, another young man — also bright-eyed — was actually singing.

A business-suited woman followed, not tired-looking but not exactly bright-eyed. Perhaps she had already had her coffee before leaving the house.

After her, a man gulped down toast and then swigged (coffee?) from a plastic foam cup.

At last — a pick-up with construction supplies in the back pulled out of the restaurant further up the road, blocking enough traffic so three cars could make their left turns onto I-75. Fortunately, I drove one of them.

I merged and was immediately swallowed up by the speeding traffic — 65 mph in the slow lane.

Faster drivers this early, I noted.

And lots of trucks — including a few bright red diesel trucks without trailers, speeding along with the other traffic.

In almost no time I had reached M-15, where I lined up at the light to turn left.

A flood of southbound M-15 traffic reluctantly halted at the light.

I turned and dutifully slowed as I reached the village limits. The drivers behind me did not like this and stayed as close to my back bumper as possible.

I parked and made my way to the office. The bake shop was streaming with bustling business people and early-morning walkers. The smell of bacon from the Grill wafted onto the streets. Birds hopped out of my path.

Nothing like a morning in Clarkston.

Guest Column

Would you like to be a detective?

BY DON WOODWARD

"Just tell us the facts, ma'am."

Sergeant Joe Friday's classic words now fit a new committee formed by the Independence Township Groundwater Leadership Team.

Our mission is to help keep local groundwater safe to drink. But which ideas are worthwhile, and which ones bomb out? It takes a little detective work to find out.

For example, a friend of one of our team members never buys furniture polish. She takes a quart of very hot water and mixes in one tablespoon of olive oil and one tablespoon of vinegar. Presto, instant furniture polish!

She rubs it on and after five minutes wipes the surface clean.

Does the idea really work? We don't know for sure, but our new alternative committee wants to get the facts.

Consider scale. It's the hard stuff that builds up in the coffee pot, tea kettle or washing machine. Is a commercial chemical the answer?

Some people use white vinegar instead, and they say it works very well. We want to check out such alternative methods, so we're setting up a citizen's panel for the purpose.

Perhaps you'd like to become a panel member. You'll try one or two ideas as part of your regular household routine.

Select ideas from a list we'll supply. Then try them out and tell us about your results.

We have another request, as well. Do you know of any ideas we can pass on to others? If so, drop us a note. We'd like to hear about it from you.

And don't forget our consumer panel. If you'd like to be a detective on this interesting project, please send your name, address and phone number.

Address it to me in care of The Clarkston News, 5 South Main Street, Clarkston, 48436.

Don Woodward is a member of the Independence Township Groundwater leadership Team, which is a project of East Michigan Environmental Action Council.

Poetry Corner

Still Thoughts

By Tom Erickson

I ran with you, in stride,
Across sidewalks, outside.
Through the morning's new,
You and I flew.
I never touched the ground,
And I never looked down.
For you installed a new meaning,
Called self pride.
Now memories seem so clear,
So very near, at your grave side.
Thoughts of you and I, still,
Go a-running, inside.

Jim's Jottings

Jim
Sherman

As Johnny Carson says, Let's see what's in the news.

Michigan is airlifting blueberries to 60 stores in Hong Kong. The Wellcome stores, one of the largest supermarket chains over there, are buying them.

Sounds good to me, as long as there are enough left for a couple pancakes. Since blueberries are unknown in Hong Kong Michigan Blueberry Growers had to send posters and pamphlets to tell them how good the berries are.

Can't help but wonder if the growers had used the same sales technique here if there'd be enough blueberries left to export.

Associated Press reports a riot of rebels in Kenya. Aren't the attackers always rebels when they want change? Kenya is a one-party state. Rebels want two parties, at least. Experience with governments with two or more parties proves that won't end rioting.

Michigan's Howard Wolpe wants the U.S. to freeze or cut off aid to Kenya to protest the crackdown on the rebels. Why were we giving them aid in the first place, Mr Wolpe?

Well, Mr Patterson and Mr. Anderson's petition drive to get property taxes cut through referendum failed to get enough signatures. Governor Blanchard doesn't want property taxes cut enough that he will push the necessary legislation.

A majority of the elected people in Lansing don't want property taxes cut, else they would cut them. And now it's proven the man on the street doesn't want property taxes cut enough to sign up for it.

It certainly is obvious we will not get our property taxes cut for the also obvious reason . . . we don't want them cut.

Congressman Bill Broomfield has made another bold and brave statement. He found out that some of our Navy ships have been scuttled to make fishing reefs with millions of dollars in salvageable equipment aboard.

Brave Bill is against it. He often takes strong stands like that. Bill Broomfield learned early in his political career to not take hard positions on controversial issues. He's like the crusading editor. They have holes in their shoes. Strong standing politicians don't get re-elected.

Soccer is the world sport and the next really big event, as Ed Sullivan used to say, is the World Cup, coming here in four years. West Germany just won the World Cup, 1-0. Soccer is played in two 75 minute halves. No time outs.

Know how beer commercials are run without time outs? They put them on during the games. Soccer is apparently so dull no one minds. Of course, they can always show a tape in the unlikely event someone would score.

Then there's the item that businessmen spend 60 hours a year on hold on the telephone. Add that onto the time they spend brushing their teeth, shaving, going to the bathroom, getting to work and back, looking for paper clips, lunching, dressing (undressing), etc and you can understand the stories of how presidents of companies work a 70-hour week.

Letters to Editor

Effective style

As a public official, I have become acquainted with many community leaders. Many of these noteworthy individuals have left positive impressions on me — one, in particular, being Tom Middleton, current republican candidate for state representative from the 61st district.

Tom's achievements speak for themselves, but beyond his involvement and leadership is a high level of honesty and integrity. Tom's effective leadership style promotes both cooperation and open communication — clearly demonstrating the values and qualities necessary to represent the 61st district in Lansing.

Having had the privilege to assess his qualifications first-hand, I enthusiastically support his candidacy for state representative. Please join me in this endorsement, casting a ballot for Tom Middleton in the primary Aug. 7.

Ruth Johnson,
County Commissioner, District 1

He's a trustworthy representative

Our state government desperately needs a change in personnel. Present elected officials have demonstrated that they place the elector's concerns second behind their own interests of political career development.

Fortunately, one very worthy candidate for state representative is available for our consideration and support.

Tom Greene has noteworthy experience as an investigative reporter who covered Lansing for PBS-TV and told it like it is. He can be trusted to faithfully represent the urgent needs of the citizens of the 61st district of Michigan. He is not burdened by political obligation.

We need better government; Tom Greene can help make it happen.

Tom and Sydney England

Fair, thoughtful

Tuesday night I attended a fund-raiser for Carol Eberhardt, a candidate for Oakland County Commissioner — District Three. I am pleased that Carol is running and would like to explain why.

It was during Carol's presidency of the Clarkston Village Council that, as chair of the planning commission, I came to respect her leadership and administrative abilities.

Occasionally, Carol and I saw issues differently, but she always gave my views thoughtful respect and consideration. Matters brought to the council were handled fairly and without delay; delivering solutions that she felt best served the interests of our community.

Courage to take a stand and make a decision has become a rare commodity. Carol Eberhardt has that courage coupled with the skills required of an effective public servant. It is clear that she plans to continue this approach at the county commissioner level if we, the voters, give her that opportunity.

I urge you to vote for Carol Eberhardt on Aug. 7.

C. John Stuetzer

Ready to tackle tough issues

Once again the political signs are popping up on lawns and street corners all over. In the confusion there is one familiar name that is worthy of your attention.

Frank Millard is ready to tackle the tough issues as our representative at the county commission. When he served on the boards of Clarkston and Independence Township, he has shown an understanding of the problems involving law enforcement and development. He is a person who is indeed responsive to the public.

These next few years can be critical for our part of the county in many ways. It is important that we have someone we trust as our voice at the county, someone with integrity that Frank Millard has demonstrated.

I urge you to vote for Frank Millard, as county commissioner, on Aug. 7.

John Klein

Library important

My husband and I would like to express our strong support for a "yes" vote on increased millage for our library. It has always been, and will continue to be, an important part of our lives, and I am delighted to see that large numbers of people use it along with us.

Increasing the services will add to the already pleasant life of township residents, and I can only feel that this type of "development" is what we need.

Thumbs down
for Barry tape

Jim
Fitzgerald

It was recently revealed that the federal government paid $999 for a pair of pliers. So what I want to know is how come the FBI couldn't get a clearer picture of Mayor Marion Barry smoking crack, if that's what he was really doing. From where I sat, he could have been taking nose drops.

It wasn't surprising that the Barry hotel-room video was so lousy — poor lighting, blurred images, muffled dialogue, unimaginative directing, tacky set, amateurish camera technique, uninspired choreography. The same thumbs-down review was earned several years ago when the FBI taped some congressmen for the ABSCAM Film Festival.

And remember the dreadful mess the government made of John DeLorean's image? DeLorean went into the project with an international reputation for being a wealthy, super-smart chief executive, always completely in charge. He came out looking like the second lead in a 1940 stag film, sitting on a cheap hotel couch, hoping humbly for a star-dope dealer to save his farm from foreclosure.

FBI videotapes are always in black and white. That makes our federal government look cheap and ridiculous. My relatives tape boring cocktail parties in full color, for Lord's sake, and no one ever wants to look at them. The Barry tapes were shown on television to intrigued viewers all over the world. Do we have to wait 30 years for Ted Turner to colorize FBI tapes before we know what shade suit the mayor of Washington, D.C., wears to trysts?

Siskel and Ebert might suggest that the hidden-camera genre needs murky black and white to provide a realistic atmosphere for tapes of mayors who sneak around on their wives. I might suggest that pompous critics who always pronounce "genre" correctly should be smart enough to realize that anyone who can't cheat realistically in living color has no business running for public office.

To me, it appears obvious that FBI videotape productions are severely underbudgeted. But why? Pratt & Whitney, the jet-engine builder that sold those $999 pliers to the Air Force, defended the price by saying, "They're multipurpose — not only do they put the clips on but they take them off." Give me a break. Is there any tax-funded product or project more multipurpose than a videotape of an elected official breaking the law?

First, there's the entertainment purpose, especially during the summer when reruns and rejected sitcom pilots put everyone to sleep. It is fascinating for Joe Doe to see his congressman take money under the same Holiday Inn table that Joe has put his feet under.

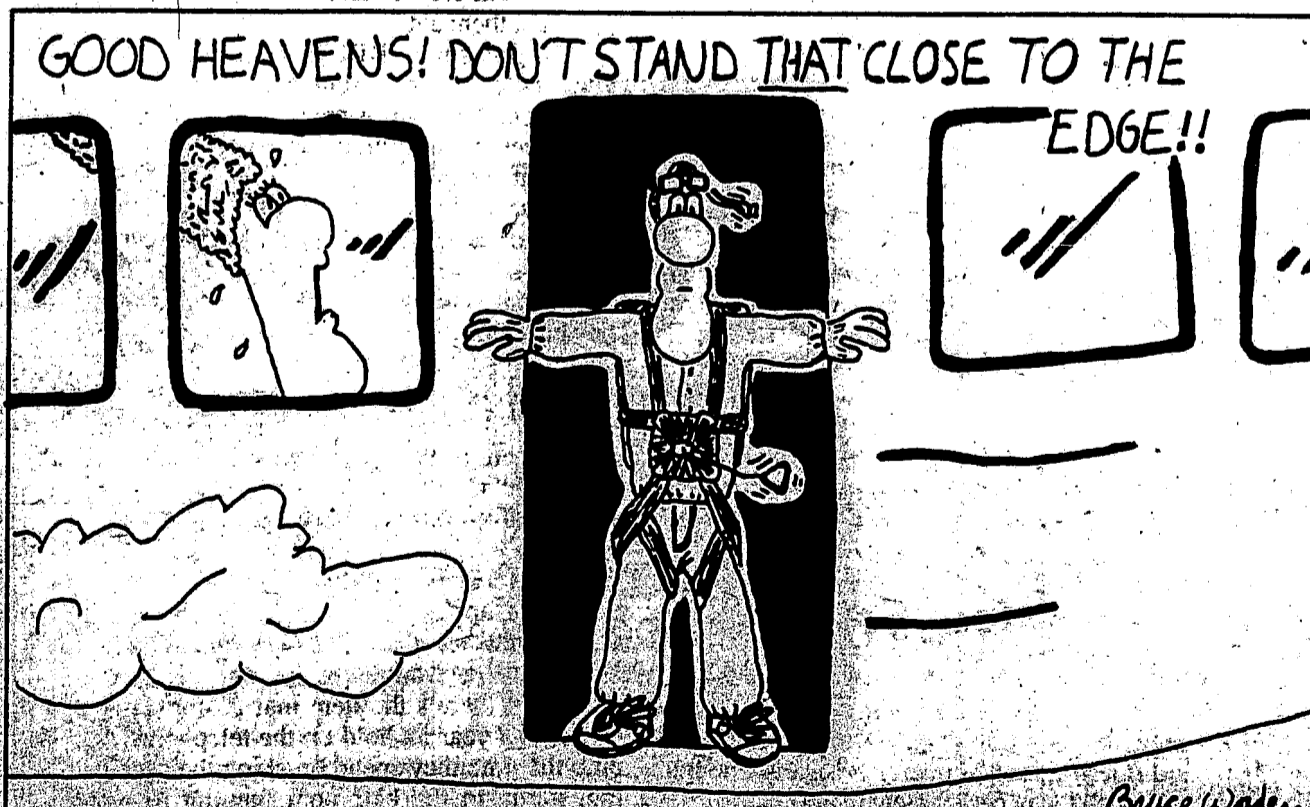

Second, there's the job purpose. Hidden cameras require holes in hotel and motel walls. Skilled American laborers must be hired to drill those holes.

Third, there's the public reassurance purpose. Ever since Richard Nixon said he wasn't a crook, many of us have had doubts about our elected officials. Well-produced videotapes can reassure us we were right in the first place.

Those are only three reasons why the FBI videotaping budget should be greatly increased. If we can afford $999 for one lousy pair of pliers, we can certainly afford Warner Brothers-type spending for the sophisticated camera equipment and experienced people needed to produce high-quality, full-color tapes of top government officials getting in trouble in hotel rooms.

One tip: Rather than teach quality filmmaking to an FBI agent, it might be easier to teach sleazy entrapment to Steven Spielberg.

Sashabaw safety path to cost extra

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A construction estimate blunder by the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) could raise the price of a safety path on Sashabaw Road over I-75 by nearly $13,500.

In June, the Independence Township Board approved $26,000 to pay for a safety path over the Sashabaw Road viaduct. The amount was based on an MDOT estimate.

However, the Independence Township Board voted 6-0 July 17 to approve an MDOT contract for $39,500 for the safety path construction. Treasurer John Lutz was absent from the meeting. The new figure was based on an MDOT revision of cost estimates.

Upon the request of Supervisor Frank Ronk, township engineer Hubbel, Roth and Clark was asked to investigate the escalated contract. The engineering firm learned that MDOT had originally drawn up the estimate using asphalt as their construction material. However, Independence Township constructs all its safety paths using concrete. This discrepancy caused a slight shifting of the price.

"It's critical we go ahead with the safety path even though the numbers didn't fall our way."

Trustee Daniel Travis

The main brunt of the adjusted estimate comes from the fill and gravel needed to build up the shoulder of the road. This aspect wasn't considered in the original estimate.

Despite the blunder, the board deemed it necessary to carry on with the project.

"It's critical we go ahead with the safety path even though the numbers didn't fall our way," said Trustee Daniel Travis.

Township Clerk Joan McCrary said the township plans to negotiate with MDOT officials, prior to the contract's signing, to see if the price can be moderately reduced.

Help library in new building

A house is not automatically a home, and a large new building is not automatically a modern library.

Once the Independence Township Library is quadrupled in size, all the support for the building needs to be enlarged.

Most importantly, books, videotapes and magazines need to be ordered, so when the up-to-date building emerges in a year, the selection of materials also grows with the demands of the community.

Staffing will need to be expanded. Lighting and heating bills will increase. Computers, copy machines and other modern technology standard in today's library need to be bought for the public to use.

The library collection has been cramped and unable to grow due to the size of the building. Now that the building is expanding, the community is being asked for the first time in our library's history to pledge a small amount for four years to help bring our crucial community resources up to date.

Going on vacation? Put voting absentee on the "to do" list with getting a neighbor to water the plants or whatever else you need to get done before leaving.

Go to Independence Township Hall to find out about voting absentee.

Help make our expanded library fit properly into its new building.

Anne Weber

He's got a plan

I recently talked to incumbent township clerk Joan McCrary about the township cars and was informed there are about 15 of them.

She said this was part of their salary benefit, a practice done in private industry.

I argue that if private industry can't meet their expenses they raise the price of their product or go broke. If government can't meet their expenses, they raise "my" taxes.

Right after talking to the incumbent clerk, I read 17th District State Senate Candidate Hugh Brotherton's "fiscal plan."

If I were to sit down and make up a plan it would follow Brotherton's plan to the letter.

I believe if everyone read Brotherton's plan he would receive every vote cast except those of the self-serving incumbent politicians.

Brotherton's plan is very simple. It is a taxpayer's dream come true. Obtain a copy and read it before you vote Aug. 7 and you will vote Brotherton.

Briefly, the plan is:

-Part-time legislature, a savings of $40 million.

-Limiting the number of terms to be served by legislators.

-Deregulation of private industries that cut competition and cost you dollars when you purchase products or services.

-Slash pork barrel spending, pet projects incumbents trade off to one another for special interest groups.

-Privatization of government services that can be supplied by private enterprise at close to half the costs.

Through a series of initiatives, state spending can be reduced by $2.5 billion. This money can be directed to education, reducing property taxes by 35 percent.

This is the Brotherton plan. None of the other candidates or incumbents have a plan except the old incumbents tax-and-spend mentality.

Remember, when you vote, vote Brotherton for state senate.

When you vote, vote against incumbents.

They are the ones who have increased the outlay of total appropriations 59 per cent over the 1983 figures.

Has your income increased 59 percent in six years?

C.L. Weber

Money will be used wisely

Just a few lines to encourage the people of Independence Township to support the library operating millage.

I am a library user, and the facilities definitely need expanding. If you compare our facilities with others in the area such as Lake Orion, you will see that there is a need.

The library is truly a busy place and the staff there is excellent. Come in on a Tuesday morning and see how many children take advantage of the facility and are involved in the summer reading program.

Children are packed right to the door.

I know we are all concerned about being over-taxed, but there is a definite need in this area and the money will be used wisely.

The library has never asked for operating funds before, and they need our help now.

Please vote "yes" for the library millage on Aug. 7.

Connie Neff

New thinking

Frank Millard has given us common-sense leadership both in village and township government. He has often pushed and prodded our government officials into "new thinking" on difficult problems.

Many of the same issues — law enforcement, suburban sprawl and solid waste — are now being addressed at the county. Now we need Frank Millard there as our voice at the county to assure our voice will be heard.

We can trust Frank and his instincts to represent us well. Vote for Frank Millard for county commissioner on Aug. 7.

As township grows, so should library

I have read with interest the many fine letters published in The Clarkston News in support of the operating millage for the township library which will be on the Aug. 7 primary election ballot.

Over the years we have expanded our police protection, fire department services, recreational department, building department to name a few.

Now it is time to expand our library.

As an example, the National Geographic Society recently published a survey that revealed that Americans are virtually "illiterate" in knowing the locations of countries, even continents, throughout the world much less the 50 states and their capitols.

An enlarged library would provide floor space for visual aids and more reference material to assist in the awareness of our planet.

I urge all qualified voters to lend their support to this urgent need.

As the township grows, so should our library.

He's proven he can do the job

On Aug. 7 the voters will have an opportunity to send a new voice to the Oakland County Commission with the vacancy created by Richard Kuhn Jr.'s decision to run for state senator.

Mr. Kuhn's successor should be one who has the qualifications, experience and desire to truly serve the residents of the district's area.

Frank Millard is such a person. He has dedicated countless hours to serving his community, whether it be on the Clarkston Village Council, Independence Township Board, or as a volunteer in various community activities.

Frank's reasonable approach and unwillingness to merely "go along" on controversial issues is what is needed to represent us in county government. Support Frank Millard — he has proven he can do the job.

Don Brose of the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce was glad his Ninja Turtle costume was so realistic at the July 13 concert in Depot Park. But the reaction from the children was not what he expected.

A few karate-chopped him plus kicked wherever they could reach. Good thing the costume was well-padded, Brose said.

More reading material needed

As a resident and parent in Clarkston, I see a tremendous need for expanded library facilities.

My children regularly attend reading club, and during these times the present library is literally full of children leaving little to no room for other residents to use the facility.

There is a great need for additional reading material at every level by no room to put them.

Our present library is only 4,000 square feet.

The expanded library, which was approved and is to be constructed in 1991, will be five times this size and will service the community very nicely.

Please vote Aug. 7 to approve the 3/4 mill for operating this much-needed facility.

Construction cannot begin unless there is millage to operate, maintain, staff and purchase materials.

Stop by the present library if you haven't; see the need, view the future plans, talk to the librarians and vote yes on Aug. 7.

I became acquainted with Hugh Brotherton while employed by the Michigan Public Service Commission.

In working through several state motor carrier regulatory problems, it was evident to me that Mr. Brotherton is a most resourceful individual, the type of person who should be managing our affairs in the state legislature.

Wonderful kids

I want to let our communities know what a great bunch of kids Clarkston and Davisburg churches have in their youth groups.

My husband has had 14 strokes since August of last year through this June. He is confined to a wheel chair and has lost his sight.

Sally Swayne of Lighthouse North Caregivers has been trying very hard to find us a male volunteer to sit with my husband when needed, which she has just recently accomplished. He is a very nice retired gentleman by the name of Jerry Thompson.

Sally is also the one who gave our names to the church groups. These kids came here and painted the trim and washed down the siding on the house. Others washed the outside windows, while still others mowed the lawn and trimmed.

One girl pulled out some poison oak and cut the tree stump down lower that it was growing on. They also straightened up the garage. They worked so hard and yet appeared to be having fun doing it. When they finished all of this, they came in and had prayer with us.

That these kids take time out of their lives to help others in need left us with a warm and deep feeling for each one of them. Thank you so very much.

If there are any gentlemen out there who can donate any of their time please contact Sally Swayne at Lighthouse North Caregivers (673-4949). Male handicapped people sometimes would rather have another male sit with them.

17-year-old's arrest may end 14-day crime spree

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The arrest of a 17-year-old Independence Township teen may have put an end to an area crime spree that saw eight businesses fall to criminal activity within two weeks time.

Scott Haneckow of Allen Road was arrested by Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD) officers July 12 for attempting to steal an automobile from Bowman Chevrolet, at the intersection of M-15 and Dixie Highway.

The youth allegedly was in the process of driving off the lot with a $37,000 Chevrolet Corvette when he was spotted by a security guard.

According to OCSD Detective Dave Scott, the youth had gained entry to the dealership by breaking a side window. After locating the vehicle's keys, he drove it through the service area and out into the parking lot, via the service doors. While closing the doors, he was spotted by the lot's security guard.

Higher noise levels OK for historic races

The Independence Township Board has granted a noise variance for the sixth annual Meadow Brook Historic Races at Waterford Hill Race track for Aug. 3-5.

The variance will override the township's noise ordinance for the three-day event. The noise from the antique vehicles usually exceeds the decibel level mandated under the noise ordinance.

According to Supervisor Frank Ronk, the township has granted similar variances for the past five years and feels that this year should be no different. He added that the race sponsor, GP Publishing, will be distributing free passes in appreciation to residences in vicinity of the course.

At first the youth began to run but returned to the site with the alibi of being witness to a crime. After the police arrived, Haneckow's story fell apart under questioning, and he admitted to trying to steal the car.

Later at police headquarters, Detective Scott said Haneckow admitted to committing 14 break-ins and five auto thefts all within two weeks time. According to Detective Scott, the break-ins and larcenies occurred at:

- Kammer & Associates Insurance, at M-15 north of I-75, Independence Township, on June 29.
- Coldwell Banker Realty, at M-15 just north of I-75, Independence Township, on July 5.
- North End Realty Group, at M-15, on July 5.
- Randy Hosler-Pontiac dealership, at Dixie Highway near Maybee Road, Independence Township, on July 7.

Detective Scott said that Haneckow is being investigated for his alleged participation in several other area crimes.

It was also noted that the Bowman Chevrolet incident was the first crime the teen attempted at night during the spree.

According to Detective Scott, Haneckow's escapades include a police chase that resulted in the youth literally walking away from the converging officers.

On July 7, Haneckow allegedly stole a Pontiac Trans Am from the lot at Randy Hosler-Pontiac, and a high speed chase followed. The teen abandoned the vehicle alongside Dixie and fled into a wooded area, adjacent to a residential area.

Once in the woods, Haneckow removed all his clothes, except for a pair of "summer shorts," and waited around the edge of a home. When the police and tracking dogs neared the residence, Haneckow rounded the corner and inquired about the search. The officers told the youth to return to his home because his scent was throwing off the dogs. Once the police were out of sight, Haneckow grabbed his discarded clothing and escaped.

After his arrest on July 12, the police linked Haneckow to the larceny at Clarkston Motors. During the robbery, the youth lost his class ring, and it was later discovered during the police's investigation. However, it didn't serve as enough evidence for the detectives.

That evidence was secured after Haneckow's admittance to the crime, and his finger prints were matched to those found at the crime scene.

Police records indicate that Haneckow was on probation by the juvenile court for auto larceny. However, once a person reaches age 17, he is no longer considered a juvenile. Detective Scott remarked that Haneckow recorded his first break-in and entry, at Kammer and Associates on June 29, only one day after his 17th birthday.

Haneckow, held at the county jail, was arraigned on July 13 at the 52nd District Court in Independence Township and was bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court.

He was charged with five counts of breaking and entering with intent to commit larceny, three counts of unlawfully driving an automobile, and one count of failing to obey an officer's signal.

Each of the breaking and entry/larceny charges carries a maximum penalty of 10 years imprisonment. The unlawful driving of an automobile carries a five year maximum penalty, and the disobeying of an officer's signal is a misdemeanor.

Arraignment has been set for Aug. 3 before circuit court Judge Fred Mester.

Helpful for kids and their parents

If you have a small child from age 3-5 who's been sick, you probably know that most doctors don't make housecalls. But I found an agency that does — the Oakland Livingston Human Service Agency (OLHSA)!

OLHSA's Home Base Program sends a person (home visitor) to your home once a week for 1 1/2 hours. There, they teach moms and dads to be more effective parents/teachers in the home.

You are shown how the home can be a learning environment. It isn't necessary to buy expensive gadgets to interest and teach your children.

OLHSA's Home Base Program covers the same things as their Head Start Program: Education, nutrition, health and parent involvement — but with a personal touch.

Being part of the Home Base Program has been a valuable experience not only for me and my son, but for my whole family. My son and I looked forward to our weekly sessions with our Home Base Visitor. As a single, working mother, it really meant a lot to me to have an opportunity to spend some extra special time with my child. In addition, there were two group meetings a month.

I also became involved in the Head Start decision-making process through our parent group, policy council and personnel committees. I became a wiser and more confident person through this program.

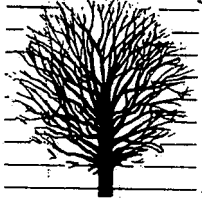

What an enriching experience!

I would highly recommend Head Start and specifically the Home Base Program. Many thanks to the Oakland Livingston Human Service Agency for providing this valuable service to my family. You've helped make such a difference in our lives.

If you are wondering if you qualify for the program, call Janice Clark at 858-5119.

The passing of an era

Doug
Carlson

Many, many years ago, my parents owned a small drugstore on the University of Michigan campus. It was a typical drugstore of that era, complete with soda fountain, juke box and a small back room containing three tables with checkered tablecloths.

We featured milkshakes, served right out of the silver can in which they were mixed, phosphates (what's a phosphate?), and luncheon "specials" prepared by my mother in her oven at home. I worked there all through high school and college.

We knew most of our customers by name, and each year we'd say goodbye to those who were graduating and hello to those who were enrolling. The work was hard, and the hours long, but the relationships were rewarding, and graduates would return years later to let us know how they were doing.

After 30-some years, my parents sold the store and retired. The new owner removed the soda fountain and completely remodeled the store's interior. The old, familiar drugstore gave way to The Village Apothecary, which exists today. It now features row upon row of gleaming shelves stocked with drugs, medications and pills of every conceivable size and shape.

All of this leads me to Jim Sherman's article in last week's Clarkston News on "Killer Stores" and how they destroy the small retailer. The so-called Killer Stores he refers to are the giant malls and large chain stores that are almost impossible to compete against.

How does a small retailer, for example, compete against a store that's open 24 hours a day, offers plenty of free parking, lower prices and a wider variety of products? As Jim points out, providing individual attention, knowing customer names, and having product knowledge (as opposed to self-serve, no help in sight) goes only so far. We see the results every day — as more and more vacancy signs appear, many within the malls themselves.

As I read Jim's article, I thought about the Village of Clarkston and how it might look 20, 10 or even five years from now. Now that the Auburn Mills megamall is a reality, what will it do to our local merchants?

And, as John Gallagher recently pointed out in the Free Press, what about all the strip malls and chain stores of all types that such megamalls attract? Because this mall intends to draw customers from a 200-mile radius, entrepreneurs of every sort will be attempting to gain a foothold as close to the mall as possible.

Because of my background, I empathize with the small shopkeeper trying to make a living in a society where bigger seems to be better. I look at downtown Clarkston, and I think of the old Carlson Drug in Ann Arbor.

I witnessed the passing of one era, and I fear I'm about to witness the passing of another. For myself, I'll continue to patronize our local merchants every chance I get. But I'm afraid the day is coming when downtown Clarkston will be primarily office buildings and the like. And to me, that will be tragic.

Impulse buying important in USSR; bring own bag

Editor's note: Following is the first of four articles about the Soviet Union. The author, Don Morrow, gathered his material over eight months while visiting his wife, Robin Bisha. Bisha is a 1979 Clarkston High School graduate who spent an academic year in the Soviet Union doing research for her doctoral degree. She's studying Russian history at Indiana University, Bloomington, Ind., and is the daughter of John Bisha of Clarkston.

BY DON MORROW

November:

I arrived in Leningrad Sept. 24 on a beautiful Russian fall day to meet my wife, Robin, who is on an educational exchange in the Soviet Union. Customs was a breeze. They only questioned my blank videocassettes and my copy of "The Ryder." Robin whisked me off to a cab. The driver asked for 13 rubles but agreed to take two packs of Marlboros instead.

Robin and I are living in an 8-by-13-foot room designed for one person on the cold side of the dormitory for foreign students from capitalist countries (and the People's Republic of China). Unmarried students are usually paired up with a Soviet roommate. Married couples get their own room usually a bigger room than ours.

The showers are on the first floor, and we live on the fourth. The door is guarded by four very old people who rotate 24-hour shifts. The university housing officials refuse to move us to a bigger room even though there are some available. As long as we stay in the small room, I am not occupying a bed that could be earning hard currency for the university.

The other option they gave us was to move to the suburb of Peterhof, which is 1 1/2 hours away from the center of town where Robin does her research. We were told by the U.S. Consulate not to allow them to move us because in the winter many times the electric train doesn't run due to snow.

Currently, the dorm is without cold water. Yes, no cold water. Here they pump the water into the buildings in separate pipes from a central water plant. The pipe carrying the cold water burst, and we have been waiting for it to be repaired. As a result, we hop from one shower to the next to use up what little cold water is left in the pipes, so we don't boil ourselves.

The American students get frustrated by the impossibility of making overseas calls from the dorm. They have to wait for their friends or parents to call, or make appointments with them to call at a certain hour.

To call the United States it is necessary to go to the post office and order a call. Currently there is a two- to three-day wait before a call will even be attempted, and of course the party you are calling may not be home. Mail can also be a problem. Some students have been here for more than five weeks and still have not received any mail.

Currently in Leningrad tea, sugar and all types of soap are rationed. We have yet to see any sugar in a store and any time there is soap on sale there are long lines, and it sells out very quickly.

Another unobtainable item is lined paper. There is talk that meat and butter and even shoes and clothes will also be rationed soon. There have been people interviewed on TV who are criticizing Gorbachev's policies and even pictures of stores with nothing to sell.

Right now there is plenty of food available, but everyone talks about shortage of everything in the middle of winter. Shopping here is very difficult. Everyone carries plastic bags at all times because you never know what may be on sale. (They do not give you bags in Soviet stores.)

Impulse buying is very important. If you don't buy something the minute you see it, you probably won't see it again for quite awhile.

To reduce shopping and cooking time, four of the American researchers and myself pool our food and share the cooking. As foreigners from a country with convertible currency, we have access to shops that operate on foreign currency only. These are the Beriozka stores which are plentifully stocked.

Soviet citizens, who are not allowed to have hard currency, are unable to shop in these stores. There are also fast food stands, which only accept hard currency, springing up all around the city. Unlike the Beriozka stores, which are fairly discrete, these stands proudly advertise what Soviets cannot buy.

Getting around the city can also be a challenge. Riding the bus is much different here than in Bloomington. When you get on the bus you have to have a ticket that is verified by punching a hole in it through a machine mounted on the wall.

They have what would amount to plain clothes policemen who occasionally check the tickets. Passengers pass their money forward to buy tickets (or we occasionally buy them from the bakery up the street).

The tickets and the change are then passed back. If someone forgets who the change belongs to, they hold the money in the air, wave it around and ask whose it is. Robin received a three-ruble fine for not having her ticket verified. Another time she accidentally hit a babushka (an old woman) in the foot with her bag. The babushka yelled at her, showed her the right way to hold her bag and then to drive the point home bashed Robin with her own bag.

As I close, I have just returned from a walk along the beach by the Baltic Sea. I strolled through a park admiring the beautiful colors of the changing leaves. Come things in October are the same no matter where you happen to be.

Builder recognized by vocational education field

BY LISA NIXON
Clarkston News Special Writer

Personal and financial commitment were the special qualities possessed by the winner of the 1990 Michigan Council on Vocational Education Business and Industry Recognition award.

Mike Hofer, president of Welcome Homes, Clarkston, was recently named the recipient of the 1990 award from a field of 12 nominees and will accept his award in Lansing at a conference scheduled later this year.

Hofer said he received the award because of his four-year sponsorship of the building trades program of the Oakland Technical Center-Northwest Campus and the Waterford school district. The program gives students a taste of 30 trades while building a home from the ground up.

Welcome Homes has participated in the building

"I went the way of vocational education personally. The construction business has been very good to me."

Mike Hofer

trades program for 11 years and has sponsored it the past four, Hofer said.

Hofer believes that kids can prepare for a secure future through vocational education and that it is vital to keep the building trades program continuous.

"I went the way of vocational education personally," Hofer said. "The construction business has been very good to me."

"Vocational education is an important and worthwhile thing to support," Hofer added.

Hofer sees vocational education as an alternative to those who do not wish to go to college.

"Vocational education took a back seat to general education. That was a mistake," Hofer said.

"There are many students that would choose vocational trades rather than college," Hofer said, adding that the building trades program "opens an avenue to them."

The program allows students an inside-look at building trades to see if they have an interest and aptitude for that business, Hofer said.

Through this program the students build a new home from scratch. Professional tradesmen are hired for the students to work hand in hand with.

At one point, the Waterford school district had to give up the program, and the Oakland Technical Center was not ready for the program yet — that's when Hofer stepped in.

Hofer supplied funding for the shortfall, materials, land and the on-site supervision.

Hofer said Welcome Homes will sponsor the program next year, but from that point the school system will pay.

Hofer, an East Detroit High School graduate and previously a carpenter contractor, is presently working within the Building Trades Advisory Committee of the Oakland Technical Center Northwest. He is also active in the North Oakland County Builders Association, the Builders Association of Southeast Michigan, the Michigan Association of Home Builders and the National Association of Home Builders.

Hofer said he spends about a month a year on construction-associated business.

MIKE HOFFER'S business is located in Independence Township.

"I made a 10-year commitment to be involved in business associations," Hofer said. "Like I said, the construction business has been very good to me, and it's a matter of giving some of it back."

Oakmere Estates approved

Oakmere Estates, a 10-acre residential development, received a final preliminary plat approval from the Springfield Township Board July 12.

A final preliminary plat shows the layout of roads, utilities and the lot sizes.

Oakmere is to consist of four 2 1/2-acre lots on Shaffer Road, west of Hillsboro, in Springfield Township.

The unanimous decision came after discussion about a drainage area on the property.

Grant Ward of Grant Ward Surveyors in Springfield

Township said a letter from the Oakland County Drain Commission wants a drainage ditch about 10 1/2 feet deep, or a storm sewer, constructed.

After the meeting, Ward said the storm sewer would be about 700 feet long.

Ward disagreed with the Oakland County Drain Commission request, noting that a 16,000-square-foot natural area on the south end of the parcel can be used for drainage.

Children's librarian receives national recognition

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Thanks to a special award, Children's Librarian Ann Rose of the Independence Township Library attended the American Library Association Conference in Chicago June 22-26.

Through the children's division of the American Library Association, Rose was one of four people in the entire nation to receive a $400 Putnam Grossett Group Award in recognition of her work in children's library services.

The award paid her way to the preconference session with David Macaulay, of "How Things Work" fame, who spoke about illustration as art in children's literature.

She and library Director James Hibler benefitted greatly from the conference as a whole, Rose said.

"This was a very dynamic, educational and also practical way to expand one's knowledge with libraries in services," said Rose.

Charter commission petitions available

Village of Clarkston residents interested in serving as a member of the Clarkston Charter Commission should pick up petition forms at the village office.

Nine charter members will be elected to write the charter before voting on the final step toward cityhood for the Village of Clarkston.

Each petitioner is required to gather signatures of 20 registered voters who live in the Village of Clarkston.

Petitions can be picked up at the Clarkston Village Office on Depot Street 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday, Wednesday or Friday, or call 625-3770.

Petitions must be signed and returned before 4 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 28.

Residents have until 5 p.m. Monday, Sept. 17, to register to vote.

"I brought back some wonderful and innovative ideas. It was very stimulating. I hope to share this with a wider world."

Ann Rose

One of the most interesting sessions was "Children's Services in the Year 2000," she said. It focused on the changing family structure and its effect on library services.

More and more, single parents are raising families, and the person who spends the most time with the child is the grandparent or day care workers.

"People who spend a great deal of time with children are often not their parents. We need to serve them, too," said Rose, adding that as a free services, libraries can do much to promote literacy and enjoyment of books.

Other sessions covered international books for children, animation plus lots of previews of books, videos and tapes for children and young adults.

In addition, at a special reception Rose met such famous authors as Virginia Hamilton and Lois Ehlert, plus Caldecott award-winner (for children's illustration) Ed Young, for "Lon Po Po," a Chinese story of Little Red Riding Hood; and Newberry award-winner (for children's literature) Lois Lo, for "Number the Stars," which depicts the experiences of a child during Nazi occupation.

"It was just overwhelming," said Rose. "And the vendors, to be able to see everything fresh and new. Everyone brought their very best."

"I brought back some wonderful and innovative ideas. It was very stimulating. I hope to share this with a wider world."

Clarkston schools get $36,000 for computers

The State Board of Education has approved $17.8 million in awards for the 1989-90 Classrooms of Tomorrow program.

A total of 8,027 individual teacher applications representing 456 school districts will be receiving computer equipment for their classrooms this fall.

Of the 48 applications within the Clarkston Community School district, 14 were recommended for approval by Oakland County, for a total of $36,299.

Teachers across the state who do not presently use technology for daily instruction were invited this spring to submit an application to receive a computer for their classroom.

The state board received 24,063 individual teacher applications from 468 local and intermediate school districts.

The total amount sought by Michigan teachers for computers was $57.1 million.

Trammell's HR falls into capable hands

Independence Township woman wins battle for game-winning ball

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Alan Trammell will never forget it and neither will Independence Township's Geraldine Feltes.

With two outs and the score tied 4-4 in the bottom of the ninth, Trammell smacked a pitch off Chicago White Sox reliever Don Pall for a game-winning solo home run July 16.

The ball sailed over the leftfield fence where 65-year-old Feltes (sitting in section 505, row L, seat 22) trapped the ball in the empty seat in front of her. For the next five minutes she desperately held onto the thought, 'This is an old lady, so we'll get the ball from her.'"*

ball lodged in the empty seat as about 10 young men jumped over seats to try and get their hands on the souvenir.

"I told myself, 'Hey, I got it first, so I'm gonna take it,'" said Feltes, who several days later still had a bruise on her hand as proof of her struggle.

"Those guys thought, 'This is an old lady, so we'll get the ball from her,'" said Feltes who never let the ball out of her grasp.

Feltes said the home run "dropped like a rock" in front of her.

"It was like a dream," said Feltes, who has attended games at Tiger Stadium about four times each of the past seven years.

Being the center of attention did have one drawback for the Tiger fan.

"That was the end of the game, so I was disappointed I couldn't stand up and cheer," said Feltes.

Feltes had plenty of witnesses while she struggled for the ball. She attended the night game with a group of 18 people from the Independence Township Senior Citizens Center.

"Marie (Aldredge) pushed a guy off the seats," said Feltes about her comrade in arms. "Cindy (Assemany), who drove one of the two vans to the game, also helped."

She said some of the young fans around her were on her side.

"Two young fellows sitting in back of us were as happy as a lark that I got it," said Feltes.

After Feltes put the ball in her purse, she headed home in one of the vans as she and her friends "talked about it halfway home."

Feltes' husband, Ray, was listening to the game but admitted to falling asleep in the eighth inning.

When she came home, she woke her husband to tell him that she caught the ball.

"I believed it," said Ray Feltes. "But I didn't think she'd go through that much bother to get a ball."

Feltes has written a letter to Trammell thanking him for hitting the homer. She said she would give the ball to the Tiger shortstop if she would get an autographed ball in return.

If that doesn't happen, a neighbor has given her a stand to hold the ball. The ball now sits on top of her television set.

Trammell will probably hit another home run while she is watching a game on television. No doubt, she will have a ball watching some other fan making a catch.

GERALDINE Feltes was the first person to touch this baseball after Alan Trammell hit it for a ninth-inning, game-winning home run.

Dogs find flyball as a catchy new sport

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Man's best friend may be a dog, and a dog's best sport may be flyball.

Flyball is a dog relay race which originated in California in 1985 and has become a sport in the Midwest.

One of those dogs competing is Brandy, owned by Barbara and John Peters of Snowapple Drive in Independence Township.

The Peters and Brandy belong to a Flyball Club called the Paw Busters, which is headquartered in Lansing.

The Paw Busters will next compete in Flint Aug. 18 and 19 at the Genesee County Fairgrounds.

In addition, people attending the Detroit Lions exhibition football game Aug. 24 at the Pontiac Silverdome will also get a chance to see the Paw Busters in action.

Flyball, which has been televised on

ESPN, is a relay race with two teams of four dogs competing against each other. One at a time, dogs from each team are released by their owners, jump four hurdles which are spaced 10 feet apart, and then press a pedal on the flyball box another 15 feet away, which releases a tennis ball.

The dog must catch the ball in its mouth, turn around, jump the four hurdles again and run back to its owner, who then releases the next dog on that team. The team whose four dogs complete the run the fastest wins the heat.

Championship teams like the Paw Busters can finish the course in 20 seconds. The speed of the dogs is estimated between 40-45 miles per hour.

Barbara Peters said it takes most dogs about six months to learn the skills needed in flyball. But some dogs may catch on in just a few weeks while others may take a whole year.

The Paw Busters compete in three different categories: championship, intermediate and novice. Any breed of dog can compete, but it helps if the dog has been through obedience training and can follow commands because the races are all run off-leash.

Hurdles measure between eight and 16 inches in height. The larger the dog, the higher the hurdles. However, if a team consists of one small dog and three larger dogs, then all four dogs would jump over 8-inch hurdles.

The Paw Busters practice once a week for competitions that take place throughout North America. The group has recently traveled to Chicago, Cleveland, Saginaw, Flint, Detroit and Toronto. In addition to flyball, some of the Paw Busters compete in a steeplechase event, which is a type of obstacle course for a dog.

The North American Flyball Association has approximately 75 teams and 552 dogs registered.

THE FLYBALL dogs press a pedal that releases a tennis ball. The dog catches the ball and then runs back through hurdles. The Paw Busters next action will be Aug. 18 and 19 in Flint at the Genesee County Fairgrounds.

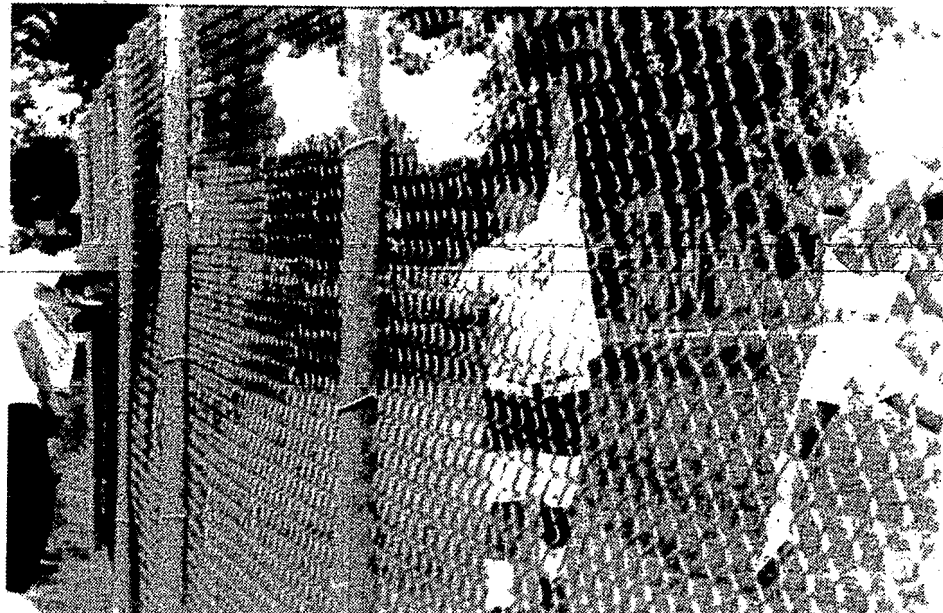

BRANDY, owned by Barbara and John Peters of Independence Township, jumps over some hurdles during practice on Sunday.

CBers reach semifinals

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston's Dan Tassen and Brandon's Brad Haase were poison for the Livonia Venom in a Great Lake's Men's Soccer League play-off game.

Tassen, Haase and their CB United Football Club teammates upset the Venom, 3-1. The CBers now advance to the league semifinals Sunday against the Corinthians at Bicentennial Park in Livonia.

The Venom tied for the regular season championship while the CBers finished sixth in the 14-team league with a 6-4-1 record.

The Venom drew first blood by opening the scoring five minutes into the match. But Tassen, with an assist from Ox-ford's Chris DeBoer, knocked in a goal to tie the contest.

Haase then found the net on a 50-yard free kick to put the CBers up 2-1 at the half.

Tassen closed out the scoring with a goal about five minutes before the final whistle. DeBoer, who finished second in the league in scoring with 13 goals, was credited with another assist on the final goal.

Clarkston goalkeeper Mark Whitcomb stopped about seven shots on goal and credited the strong defensive play of Clarkston's Lance Lewis and Haase.

Several players were carded and then ejected during the game for fighting, with the Venom playing with only seven players at the end of the match and the CBers down to 10.

Clarkston grad helps SVSU in nationals

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Tod Hess didn't hit any homers or make up a batting order but he did help Saginaw Valley State University smoothly win a national championship.

Hess, a 1983 Clarkston High School graduate, has been the student-assistant girls' softball coach for the Cardinals the past four years.

As a non-paid student-assistant coach, Hess was in charge of much paper work, scheduling, reporting scores to the media, keeping stats in the dugout and even knowing the directions to away games.

In 1989, the Cardinals won the National Athletic Intercollegiate Association championship. This past spring, Saginaw Valley moved up to NCAA-Division II where the Cardinals finished 46-11, but were not chosen as one of 16 teams to make the regionals.

"We were like family. It was hard to tell eight great players they'll never play again."

Tod Hess

Hess was upset about the selection process this year.

"We got politicked out of it," said Hess, who pointed out that two Missouri coaches on the selection panel might have killed the Cardinals' chances to make the playoffs.

But Hess was even more upset that a group of female athletes he had been close to for four years had their college softball careers suddenly come to an end by a vote rather than a loss on the field.

"We were like family," said Hess. "It was hard to tell eight great players they'll never play again."

But this spring's setback still doesn't take anything away from the NAIA championship, when the Cardinals peaked going into post-season play by winning 20 of their last 23 regular-season games en route to a 39-13 final record.

After the Cardinals downed Kearney State (Nebraska) College, 3-0, in the finals, Hess said it took awhile before it all sank in.

"I never understood until two weeks later that you're the best team in the nation at your level," said Hess.

Along with a plaque, Hess received a championship ring along with players during halftime ceremonies at a Saginaw Valley basketball game.

Hess, who needs to complete one more class before he graduates, is a communication major. This past year at Saginaw Valley he was an intramural director, for three years he was an equipment manager for the Cardinal football team (he was also a football manager for the Clarkston Wolves) and for four years he worked in the university's sports information department, along with being the sports editor of the college newspaper, the Valley Vanguard.

Hess is especially interested in sports information and hopes his college experiences on and off the field and his work this summer with the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department helps him land a sports-related job.

While at Saginaw Valley, Hess was coined with the nickname "Country" by Steve Tithof, a Cardinal football player. While Hess was playing country-western music one day in the locker room, Tithof entered and said to Hess, "Hey Country, turn that garbage off."

For the first time in several years this fall, Cardinal sports will be without Hess.

You can take Hess out of Cardinal country, but you can never take the "Country" out of Hess.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

WHEN SHOULD I LIST HOME?

QUESTION: We would like to sell our home next spring during the peak selling months. When should we list it with a Realtor?

ANSWER: Don't wait for the target months to arrive. Put your house up for sale during February or March - BEFORE the heavy selling. True, more prospects will be looking during the peak months - but, then again, more homeowners will be selling. The shrewd homeowner who wants to sell his home for a summer move, should list it before the influx of the heavy bulk of sellers.

During quieter periods, the Realtor can put more time, effort and advertising into selling your home and there will be less competition.

PUT YOUR HOUSE UP FOR SALE BEFORE the heavy selling season.

Turk wears down pitchers, home run path

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

He may no longer be a Young Turk, but he sure hits like one.

Clarkston's Mike Turk, a second baseman on the 35-and-over national champion Nothdurft slow-pitch softball team, put on a display of his power before hometown fans last Saturday at the Clintonwood Park open house celebration.

Turk smacked six of 10 balls over the fence to win the major division of a home run hitting contest and also hit two game homers as he and his Nothdurft teammates (all from the Detroit area) downed a Clarkston 35-and-over all-star team and an all-star team from the Beta Red league.

Turk, a 1971 graduate of Clarkston High School where he played football, basketball and baseball, is currently batting at a .600 clip, down from his .703 average from last season.

However, the 6-foot, 1-inch, 230-pounder has already hit 70 round trippers, equaling last year's output.

Even with all that power, Turk still takes much pride in consistently getting base hits.

"I think I'm a lot better baselighter than I used to be," said Turk, the superintendent for Independence Township Parks.

Turk was selected as his team's most valuable player last year in St. Paul, Minn. when Nothdurft won its fifth straight national championship.

Turk, who played baseball for Oakland Community College, spends many of his weekends pounding balls over fences throughout the country. He went to Las Vegas and Oklahoma this spring and will take the field in Colorado in a few weeks.

Nothdurft, which has a 42-16 record against some of the country's best teams, doesn't just play against 35-and-over teams. Turk said his team likes the competition against younger squads in open division tournaments.

Those teams may have some Young Turks, but only Nothdurft has Mike Turk.

MIKE TURK belted two homers Saturday in victories over a 35-and-over All-Star team and the Beta-Red All-Stars. The Clarkston resident also won the major division of a home run hitting contest.

Common sense steps make boating safer

Staying alert, using personal flotation devices and minding a watercraft's capabilities can head off most boating accidents, AAA Michigan reports.

Michigan leads the nation with registered boats, topping 800,000. State boating accidents claimed 32 lives, and another 238 victims were injured in 1988, the latest statistics available.

"Capsizing and falling overboard are the leading causes of boating fatalities," said Robert V. Cullen, AAA Michigan Community Safety Services manager. "Many accidents can be prevented with common sense."

Staying alert is essential to safe boating, he said. But several hours in the sun, glare, waves and wind can double an individual's reaction time. Alcohol also slows a boater's response, impairing vision and balance.

"The best way to stay alert is to avoid alcohol and take a break every couple of hours," Cullen said. "Return to shore for a swim, picnic or walk."

Personal Flotation Devices (PFD) also save lives. Michigan law requires one PFD for each person on board. But life preservers were not worn in more than 60 percent of state boat accidents in 1988.

Observing the boat's load limit and handling capabilities also lessens risks.

"Too many passengers, too much gear or too big a motor can capsize or sink even the most seaworthy craft," Cullen said.

Other points to remember:

- Fire extinguishers are required on motorboats with enclosed engines and recommended for all watercraft.
- Check the weather forecast before leaving home and monitor a marine radio frequency for warnings while underway.
- Carry basic tools and a first aid kit.
- Give a trip plan with destination and expected return time to someone reliable and notify that person of any changes.
- Follow safety procedures when fueling.

'Recreational double' trailers legal in Michigan

In Michigan, which has the highest number of boat registrations in the country, it is now legal to tow both a camping-type trailer and a boat trailer behind a pickup truck, a combination known as a recreational double.

The camping trailer must be hitched to the pickup truck with a "fifth wheel" (not a ball-hitched) coupling.

University of Michigan transportation researchers conducted a study from which the Michigan legislature formulated the new law, enacted in May.

The researchers found the doubles as stable as single trailer combinations if their total length, including the truck, does not exceed 59 feet and they are driven no faster than 55 miles per hour.

"At reasonable speeds and loading weights, the addition of a second, ball-hitched trailer behind the fifth-wheel camper does not appear to affect maneuverability to steering response," said researchers Robert D. Ervin and Charles C. MacAdam of the U-M Transportation Research Institute.

"As with any other vehicle, increasing speed causes a towed trailer to oscillate more rapidly," MacAdam said, noting that the speed and length constraints adopted for recreational doubles in Michigan are selected to keep these tendencies under control.

Under the new law, motorists pulling a double are required to pass a written and driving test to obtain an endorsement. Drivers must be at least 17 to obtain an endorsement.

Indiana, Ohio and the Province of Ontario permit recreational doubles, either by law or lack of law.

"In the past, depending on where you were driving in Michigan, you may or may not have been stopped for towing a double," Ervin said. "One sheriff would ticket; another would look the other way."

Officials in the recreation industry have protested the length limit as too short, pointing out that a limit of 62-65 feet is common in many western states.

The 10 most popular recreational trailers range in length from 17 to 33 feet, while an average boat trailer selected for the U-M study was 23 feet long.

It is estimated that 50 percent of Michigan's 8,195 registered "fifth wheel" campers will meet length restriction when coupled with an average boat trailer.

Ervin and MacAdam used computer simulation to evaluate common driving maneuvers that might lead to loss of control.

Specifically they examined the amount of oscillation or side-to-side movement of the trailers caused by right or left turns or lane changes.

Ervin noted that the most significant factor affecting safety is the length of the camper.

"In the past, depending on where you were driving in Michigan, you may or may not have been stopped for towing a double. One sheriff would ticket; another would look the other way."

Robert D. Ervin

$1,000 donated to home chore program

The Independence Township Board approved a $1,000 donation to the Oakland Livingston Human Service Agency (OLHSA) July 10.

The board voted 5-0 to contribute the money. Trustee Daniel Travis and Treasurer John Lutz were absent from the meeting.

Presently, OLHSA is the sole provider of "Home Chore" services for the township's senior residents. Home Chore services provides heavy house cleaning, minor home repairs and yard work assistance for people 60 years or older.

Supervisor Frank Ronk asked the board to consider a $1,000 donation for the organization, and Trustee Frank Millard agreed.

"Being that we haven't been involved in this program before, I think it's worthy of the contribution," Millard said.

Because the camper is typically built with a long overhang behind its axles, the vehicle combination is less stable with a long camper than with a short one.

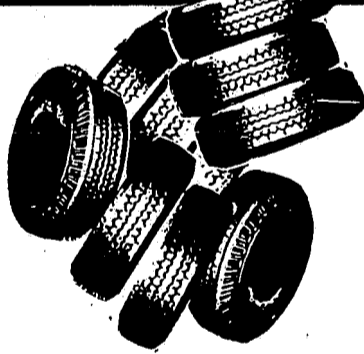

The Michigan Office of Highway Safety Planning will conduct a study for the state legislature over the next two years to determine the impact of the new law on recreational activity and accident rates.

Builders' women's council gets down to business

BY LISA NIXON
Clarkston News Special Writer

Finally there's a group for those women whose lives revolve around building and construction.

Three short years ago, a group of women created the Women's Council of the North Oakland County Builders Association (NOCBA).

Under the leadership of Charlotte Hofer, the group's first president, the council developed programs and activities for the association members and the community.

Members of the council are all women who are somehow affiliated with the building business, said Dawn Kelley, public relations chairperson for the NOCBA Women's Council.

"We consist of NOCBA association members, business owners, financial institutions, builders' wives and other associates of the business such as interior decorators," said Susan Auger, president of the Women's Council.

"We are not just a social group, and we are not just a service group," Kelley said.

Kelley said the Women's Council does a lot of work for NOCBA.

"We don't stand alone. We are part of NOCBA," Auger said. "Without them we wouldn't exist."

"We are allies in a common cause," Auger added. Auger said the Women's Council helps promote NOCBA and helps educate the public. The group tries to follow the ideals of the National Association.

"We want to promote the same higher standards of quality," Auger said.

Kelley said, "We promote professionalism in the business."

"We foster better proficiency, ethics, education and professionalism in the area of home construction for the benefit of members of NOCBA and home buyers," Auger said.

"We are professionals in our own right," she added. "We are the source for information on the building industry in Oakland County."

"We like to consider ourselves the conduit of information," Auger said. "We let people know where to turn to find reputable builders."

The Women's Council can produce a directory of NOCBA members. They also know what is new in the industry, such as new codes and new materials, Auger said.

Kelley said, "We are quite active and not just a namesake organization."

The Women's Council also is active at the state and national levels, Kelley added.

The Women's Council is involved with the building PAC at the state level. Charlotte Hofer will serve as PAC chairperson, and Susan Auger was appointed chairperson for the Professional Development Committee on the national level, Kelley said.

Locally, the Women's Council annually raffles a playhouse at the NOCBA Building Expo and sponsors a

The first year of existence the council won Auxiliary of the Year. The second year the council won largest membership increase.

"The Women's Council is growing because it was such an untapped source," Kelley said. "It grows as we become more and more recognized."

Auger believes the growth was because of excellent leadership.

"The last two presidents were wonderful leaders, bringing the group together, getting away from the tea and cookie image women's groups might have," Auger said.

The group has a day in Lansing planned and is organizing informative seminars that may be open to the public, Auger said.

Anyone interested in becoming a member or attending the regular meetings, the first Thursday of every month, may call and leave reservations at 623-7789.

The Council has given scholarships to local students going into the building business, Auger said.

Clark Road farm offers haven to visiting children

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The front gate at the Dennis Farm on Clark Road, Springfield Township, is a friendly greeting to visitors. And once inside, Bertha Dennis' easy laughter and her husband, Frank's, gentle manner provide an even stronger welcome.

The Dennises have lived on the farm for about 20 years and have chickens, sheep, horses, dogs and cats. Plus, they have lots of visiting children — some handicapped horseback riders, others 4-H members from the area.

The children often show the Dennis animals in 4-H fairs — an activity the Dennises encourage.

Bertha and Frank enjoy sharing their farm life with children who don't have space for such animals.

They know the benefits children derive from farm life — the couple grew up on neighboring farms in Maryland on the Eastern seashore.

Bertha said she grew up riding horses on her parents' farm.

"I worked on my horse six days a week, and on Sunday I played," Bertha said, as she watched a few 4-H members who had come to ride horses.

Bertha helps the 4-H'ers with riding lessons all week long in the summer.

In spring and fall handicapped people take lessons from riding instructor Julie Bates, using the Dennises' three horses.

The handicapped people ride more for therapy, Bertha said.

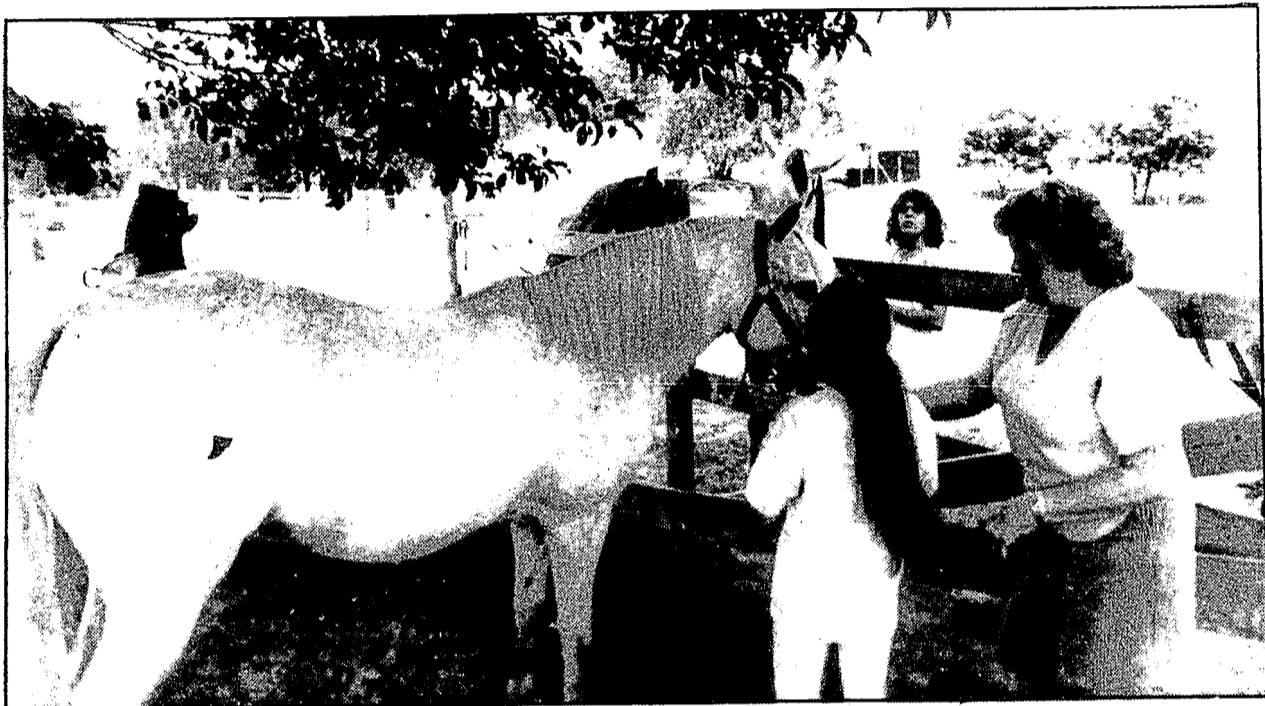

"It's fascinating to watch them grow from week to week," said Frank, explaining that horseback riding often helps them gain confidence.

Riders come in groups or individually to learn at the Dennis farm, Frank said.

"We almost pioneered handicapped riding," he said.

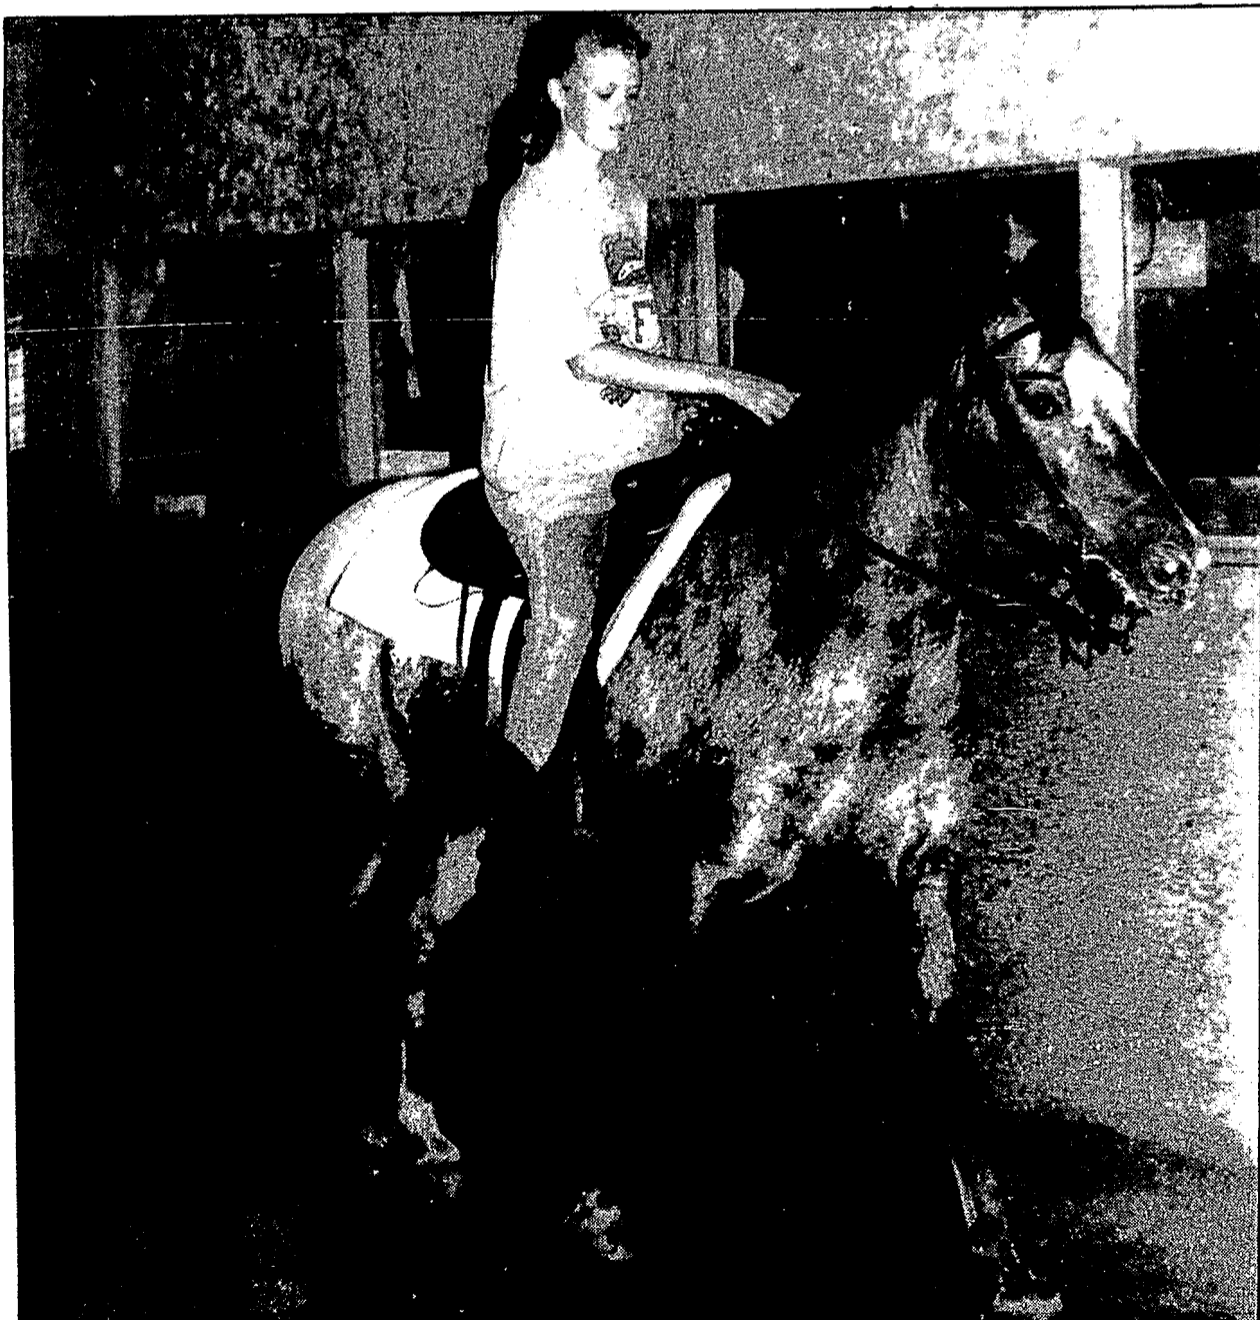

The Dennises first began teaching handicapped riders in 1978, and the farm was one of the first in Michigan and Oakland County to offer the activity for the handicapped.

Frank — a retired insurance agent, a retired Methodist minister and a retired social worker — remains active.

"Now I'm a farmer, and I'm tired," he joked.

Bertha, however, is not retired. For the last 20 years, she has delivered a daily newspaper to more than 700 homes in Springfield and Independence townships, Frank said.

And if Bertha can find a substitute for her paper route, the couple plan to travel — visiting family later this year. The Dennises have 12 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

He likes goats, rabbits, guinea pigs - and cooking

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

With the Oakland County 4-H Fair just around the corner, July 31-Aug. 4, several area youngsters find themselves preparing for the annual festivities.

One of those youngsters is Robert Keen, 12, of Andersonville Road, Springfield Township.

Keen has been an active member of 4-H since age 3. He attributes his participation in the club to his family, especially 20-year-old brother, Ronald, who has participated in 4-H for 10 years.

Robert intends to compete in many competitions at this year's fair. He plans to show his goats, Jersey Wooley rabbits, and a Cavy guinea pig in the animal exhibit. He will also be submitting projects in the judged categories of conservation, cooking, science, and leather and latchhook.

During the past two years, Robert has gathered numerous ribbons and trophies for his showings and projects. In 1988, he was named "Rabbit Prince" and "Cavy (guinea pig) Prince" at a competition sponsored by the American Rabbit Breeders' Association.

Two weeks ago, he tallied nine ribbons in nine animal and craft-related competitions at the Michigan 4-H Rabbit Expo in East Lansing.

Besides receiving several individual accolades at the Expo, Robert was an Oakland County representative on the state champion Quiz Bowl team. He served on a senior-division team comprised of four members, ages 13-19, from various counties around the state. Despite his age, Robert had to compete at a higher level because the rules dealt with divisional requirements by year of birth instead of actual age.

The competition was conducted in a game show format, with all of the questions pertaining to rabbits in one way or another. According to Robert, this was the first time an Oakland County team was named senior-division Quiz Bowl champion at the Expo.

When asked what aspect of "showing" gave him the most enjoyment, Robert jokingly said "winning."

Besides 4-H, Robert's hobbies are running, basketball and participating in Boy Scouts of America. He is close to beginning his "Life Boy Scouts" project, which serves as the first prerequisite to obtaining Eagle Scout status. His goal is to outdo his older brother, Ronald.

"My brother became an Eagle Scout when he was 14 years old, but my goal is to do it by 13," Robert said proudly.

SPRINGFIELD Township resident Robert Keen poses with one of the goats he intends to show at the upcoming Oakland County 4-H Fair July 31 through Aug. 4.

Real estate firm moves

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Originally located in the downtown district, Clarkston Real Estate Services, Inc., has recently moved its offices to the Clarkston Crossing complex.

According to President Bill Clark, his one-year-old company has relocated to 7151 Ortonville Rd., Independence Township, to better serve the community.

"We've been interested in moving into this complex since last summer, but it wasn't ready yet," Clark said. "This building provides a convenient location and pleasant atmosphere for our customers."

Clark and eight other real estate professionals breaking away from their respective companies to begin an institution of their own.

"The nine of us, who were all top producers at former companies, decided to organize our own business with the main emphasis on customer service," Clark said.

Besides the contributing partners, the company has employed 14 industrial contractors, 11 brokers, three salespeople and two secretaries. According to Clark, all of his agents are established $1 million producers with at least four years field experience apiece.

The company caters to Independence, Groveland, Brandon, Waterford, Orion and Springfield townships.

Based on current interest rates, Clark said his company is projecting $25-30 million in sales for 1990. High sales projections and the experience of his staff has enabled Clark to develop high expectations for his company.

"Our goal is to make a positive impact on the real estate market in this area," Clark said. "We don't necessarily want to be the biggest real estate office in the area, only the best."

Keeping shady lawns healthy requires extra care

The same big shade trees that cool your home in summer also make it more difficult to maintain a vigorous, healthy lawn.

Trees and shrubs compete with lawn grasses for sunlight, water and soil nutrients, explains Mike McElroy, Extension turfgrass management specialist at Michigan State University, East Lansing.

"The grass usually comes out on the short end of this competition," McElroy observes. "If you follow certain management practices, however, you can develop and maintain a healthy lawn even in the shade."

The first step is to select shade-tolerant grass varieties.

McElroy recommends a mixture of fine-leaved fescues and shade-tolerant Kentucky bluegrass varieties.

In very wet shaded areas, where these grasses grow

Avoid removing more than one-third of the green leaf tissue at any one mowing to minimize stress on grass plants.

In autumn, remove fallen leaves promptly. Leaves left to mat on the grass will eventually smother it.

Because shaded areas tend to dry more slowly than sunny ones, watering must be done with care.

McElroy advises watering shaded areas deeply but infrequently and allowing them to dry before watering again. Apply enough to supply the trees and shrubs growing there, too.

Grass in shaded areas grows less than grass in sunny spots and so needs less fertilizer.

"Don't try to provide for the needs of the grass and the trees and shrubs with surface fertilizer applications," McElroy advises. "Apply light applications of fertilizer to meet the needs of the lawn and use deep root feeding for the trees."

Heavy fertilization of grass in shade will give succulent turf growth that's susceptible to disease and traffic damage."

The best way to determine fertilizer needs is to have a soil test done, McElroy suggests. Lacking a soil test, you can usually be safe applying one pound of nitrogen per 1,000 square feet of shade-tolerant Kentucky bluegrasses in late September in southern Michigan, with a follow-up application at half that rate in mid-November.

Fine fescue in shaded areas will often thrive with no fertilizer, though newer stands or thin areas may benefit from 3/4 to one pound of nitrogen in late September.

Avoid any fertilizer to shady areas in spring or summer, McElroy says.

Sometimes the best solution to lawn problems in shade is to plant something other than grass, such as shade-tolerant ground covers. Some weed control is generally required while plants are getting established, but maintenance after that is usually low.

In high traffic areas, switching from plants to wood chips, crushed rock or other such materials may be the best choice.

"Shaded lawns need different care than sunny areas."

poorly, rough bluegrass (Poa trivialis) is about the only choice.

"Variety selection is important because sun-loving cultivars will be prone to disease or lack vigor in shaded areas," he notes.

Selective pruning of tree roots and branches can reduce competition for sunlight and water and nutrients.

Pruning the surface roots that extend into the lawn reduces the competition between the tree or shrub and the lawn beneath it.

This pruning needs to be done carefully, especially on shallow-rooted trees and shrubs such as maples, beeches and evergreens, which will not tolerate extensive root pruning.

Other more deeply rooted trees will usually adjust if root pruning is done gradually. Deeper roots will supply needed water and nutrients.

Selective pruning or thinning of trees and shrubs will increase light penetration and improve air circulation.

Careful pruning that maintains the shape and beauty of the trees while it eliminates weak or diseased branches can improve the health and vigor of the woody ornamentals even as it improves growing conditions for the grass below.

"Shaded lawns need different care than sunny areas," McElroy points out. "Grass grown in shade is normally thinner than grass grown in full sun and is more easily damaged by foot traffic."

"Traffic also increases compaction of moist soil," he adds. "For these reasons, you want to route people and vehicles around shaded areas as much as possible."

Mow grass in shaded areas three to four inches high, rather than the one-and-one-half to two-and-one-half inches usually recommended for sunny areas.

Two teens qualify for radio contest quarterfinals

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Two area teen-agers have sung themselves into the quarterfinals of the "Quest For Excellence" talent contest sponsored by WJR Radio.

Clarkston area residents Carrie Monroe, 17, and Jenny Brown, 17, have bucked the odds and qualified as one of the top 16 acts in the contest's vocal group - pop category. An estimated 100 cassette tapes were mailed to the radio station for their inclusion in the pop category.

The pair found out about the contest while working with the Academy Singers, a show choir that performs at Oakland University, Rochester.

So they took a chance and submitted a cassette tape with their renditions of Whitney Houston's "I Know Him So Well" and "Make Up My Heart" from the musical Starlight Express. They were accompanied by pianist Andy Byrne on the tape.

On July 7, the duo was contacted by mail that they had been selected to participate in the quarterfinals. Based on a 50-point scale, they received 43 points from the contest judges, with exceptional scores for rhythm, interpretation and style.

"We're definitely more excited than nervous."

Jenny Brown

The teens admitted they are more excited than nervous about the prospect of performing live in the contest.

"We're definitely more excited than nervous," said

Brown, a 1990 Clarkston High graduate. "We really weren't sure if we could qualify for the quarterfinals after finding out how many acts were trying out. Now, we can't wait."

By qualifying for the quarterfinals, the pair must now perform one of their songs before a live audience at Oakland Community College's Smith Theatre in Farmington Hills. They are slated to perform on the evening of Aug. 29.

The competition round will be taped for delayed broadcast on WJR Radio 760 AM and will probably air the Saturday evening following their performance.

If they are selected by the judges to advance to the semi-finals, an Oct. 3 performance has been scheduled at Smith Theatre. The Grand Finals will be held on Jan. 8, 1991, at the Fisher Theater in Detroit with $5,000 and a recording contract being awarded to the winners.

Win or lose, the two performers said they are looking forward to competing.

"It should be fun," said Monroe, a senior at Clarkston High School. "But even if we don't advance, something good could come of the experience in the way of public exposure."

WJR contest qualifiers Carrie Monroe (left) and Jenny Brown are to compete in the "Quest For Excellence" quarterfinals at Oakland Community College Aug. 29.

Opinion of Bill Myers

Shop life insurance

William A. Myers is a retired Lapeer County editor and investments manager from Boca Raton, Fla.

Life insurance rates are all over the place. There are big savings to be made if you shop around.

Most people don't shop for life insurance. They're tackled by a salesman. As the saying goes, life insurance is sold, not bought.

If you go shopping, be sure you're comparing apples and apples.

The simplest form of life insurance is called "term". It's straight insurance, with no "dividends" and no cash value or loan value build-up. The rate depends on your age, sex, and health history, and in some cases, if you're a non-smoker.

The rate increases each year, after you start. But it goes up very little.

A friend asked me to look over a policy he had for $100,000. He is 40 years old, doesn't smoke, and has no health problems. His policy was with an old, established mutual company you've all heard of.

His average annual premium for the first 10 years (age 40 to 50) was $370.

I sent in data on his case to a company whose ad I saw in the Wall Street Journal. It's Select Quote, 140 Second St., San Francisco 94105. Select Quote supplied me with figures from five established companies for similar insurance. All premiums were about half that of my friend's present policy.

For example, Bankers National Life had an average annual premium of $194. Company was started in 1927 and enjoys the top rating of A+ Excellent by A M Best & Co., insurance rating firm.

Berkshire Life, a 135-year-old Massachusetts company, also rated A+ had an average premium of $200 for the first 10 years.

Compare these two premiums, total for 10 years -- one for $1940, the other for $2,000--with my friend's present cost of $3700. What an easy way to save!

Here is a set of commandments written by the greatest American of all -- Thomas Jefferson:

Never put off until tomorrow what you can do today.

Never trouble another for what you can do yourself.

Never spend your money before you have earned it.

Never buy what you don't want because it is cheap.

Pride costs more than hunger, thirst and cold.

We seldom repent of having eaten too little. Nothing is troublesome that we do willingly. How much pain the evils cost us that never happened. Take things always by the smooth handle. When angry, count ten before you speak; if very angry, count a hundred.

Credit alert

Do you have credit problems? You've probably seen ads that promise credit approval in spite of your credit, or repair of bad credit.

Before you do business with such a company, you should know two things. First, if you have a bad credit rating, no one can fix it overnight. Such promises simply are not true.

Second, credit repair companies must now be licensed for your protection. Be sure that a company is licensed by calling Michigan Financial Institutions Bureau before you do business. The number is (517) 373-8674. Be smart -- call first.

21-year-old faces tough challenge with leukemia

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Joette Kovacik is a determined 21-year-old who has used that trait to see her through tough times. This time, though, her determination is helping her fight for her life.

Joette needs a bone marrow transplant to help combat the leukemia ravaging inside her body, and she needs financial help to see her through the costly operation. Expenses for the operation are estimated at $165,000.

Joette says she'd welcome any help the Clarkston area community could give.

Growing up on Reese Road, Independence Township, Joette lived as normal a childhood as she could after being diagnosed with chronic myelogenous leukemia at age 7, she says.

She always seemed to catch a cold in the winter, and she missed some school because of her illness, she says.

"I was never sick until February," she remembers.

Now pain has taken over her thin body, but her outlook remains positive. Joette says the pain is only temporary until she can receive a bone marrow transplant.

"I'm keeping a positive attitude," Joette says.

Others agree about Joette's upbeat attitude.

"She's like a ray of sunshine," says Betsy Travis, Joette's former teacher.

Betsy taught Joette in the Clarkston Alternative Education Program until Joette graduated in 1987. Joette was a leader in the class, Betsy recalls.

"I'm keeping a positive attitude."

Joette Kovacik

"She was the spirit of the school," Betsy says. "They were a close-knit group, and it was because of people like Joette."

Ginny Farmer, who was an administrator for Clarkston Community Education at the time Joette attended classes, agrees with Betsy's assessment.

"She was positive with the other students," Ginny says. "Joette was always thinking of others."

Ginny says Joette had a lot of obstacles to overcome, the major one being her health.

"She's just one gusty young lady," Betsy says.

Joette has never met her biological father, who lives in Kentucky, but he plans to visit her within a month, Joette says.

Her biological father underwent the testing July 17 to discover if he's a compatible match for Joette's bone marrow transplant. Test results will not be available until the end of July.

Her mother already has been tested and is not a positive match.

For each person tested as a possible donor, the cost is $500.

Joette says her savings are exhausted because of expenses, and many of the expenses she encounters from her disease Blue Cross will not cover. Joette receives $184 in disability payments every other week.

"I have five weeks of disability (pay) left, and no income," Joette said.

Joette held a job at North Oakland Community Credit Union until April when she could no longer work because of the pain.

She's moved back in with her mother and stepfather in mid-July because she cannot care for herself.

Joette's mother works during the day, but Joette's sister-in-law, Jeanie Kovacik, stops in daily to care for Joette, bringing along her 4-month-old daughter.

LIKE MOST 21-year-olds, Joette Kovacik doesn't have a lot of financial resources, but unlike others in her age group she needs

$165,000 to help save her life. Diagnosed with leukemia at age 7, Joette now needs a bone marrow transplant.

"The baby cheers her up," Jeanie says about her daily visits to Joette.

The two girls laugh as they recall that they didn't like each other before Jeanie married Joette's stepbrother, Bruce.

"She's my best friend now," Joette says.

Joette can't do much at this time, except watch television, she says, but she likes to visit with friends.

Joette will continue to need the moral support of family and friends, but she also needs financial support.

She hopes people have ideas for raising funds to help her with the financial expenses from the expected transplant. No fund-raising dates have been set yet.

"I'll take any donations or contributions and any volunteers," Joette says.

Joette tries to call organizations to find out if she qualifies for benefits, but her strength is minimal because of her disease.

She says that she is eligible for $291 a year from the Children's Leukemia Fund, and the Leukemia Society may give her $700. But those two amounts are along way from her goal.

Joette says she isn't looking for one person to come forward with a large sum to help her out.

"I know if everyone just gives a little something we can make it," Joette says.

To reach Joette write her at 2705 Costa Mesa, Waterford, 48329, or phone 674-0785.

Bone marrow transplant her best bet — if she can find a match

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

With a bone marrow transplant, Joette Kovacik, 21, has an 80 to 90 percent chance of surviving the leukemia from which she suffers.

The former Clarkston student and current Waterford Township resident has not yet found a bone marrow match, but she hopes for the best.

According to the the United States Department of Health and Human Service, less than two decades ago, bone marrow transplants were used as experimentation and not available to the general public. Today the procedure is recognized as an effective treatment for some types of cancers — such as leukemia.

Bone marrow produces blood cells and is a soft spongelike material in the cavities of bones.

In a bone marrow transplant, usually the best source for the transplant is a family member, either a sibling or parent.

Joette's mother is not a match, and her biological father was tested July 17 — those results weren't known at press time.

The success of a transplant largely depends on how close the donor's marrow matches, and matching marrow is more complicated than matching blood types.

The statistics for finding a match from a parent or sibling are only about 30 to 40 percent. Obtaining a transplant from an unrelated donor are slim.

The National Marrow Donor Program estimates that chances of receiving a compatible bone marrow from an unrelated donor are narrow, with the odds being 1 in 10,000 to 1 in 20,000.

Network of funeral homes stresses education

BY LISA NIXON
Clarkston News Special Writer

A network of family-owned funeral homes includes one funeral home from the Clarkston area.

Lewis E. Wint & Son Funeral Home, 5929 M-15, Independence Township, became a part of Trust 100 four years ago.

The Trust 100 network members commit themselves to five points of community trust: integrity, competence, fairness, professionalism and independence, said Bill Wint, owner of Lewis E. Wint & Son Funeral Home.

Trust 100 consists of the leaders in funeral service in the community. One can become a member by invitation only, Wint said.

The major goal of Trust 100 is community and public awareness, and a large part of this is education, Wint said.

"The anxiety leading up to the event is often worse than the event itself," Wint said, explaining that education can ease fears and anxieties.

One goal Wint has as funeral director is to always be available.

Another part of the community outreach program is the Aftercare program.

Before the people leave the funeral home, they are given basic information, said Jenni McGee, funeral director and head of the Aftercare program.

For instance, McGee can provide phone numbers and contact people for support groups in Oakland, Macomb and Wayne counties.

"You can call to get information on suicide support groups, children's deaths and more," McGee said.

"We get outside phone calls. We like that. It's nice to be seen as a resource," McGee said. "We also have a support group for newly widowed."

The support groups meet at 7 p.m. the first and third Thursdays of every month at the Independence Township Senior Center in Clintonwood Park. Usually, one meeting is a sharing meeting, and the other is for speakers such as lawyers and bankers, McGee said.

"It is a very important part of our community outreach program," Wint said.

"What's most important about the support group is they are the experts," he added.

Those who have experienced a loss can understand, where those that have not experienced a loss cannot, Wint said.

Another part of the Aftercare is help once the family and friends are gone. McGee sends quarterly publications on grief for about a year and a half after the death unless the person requests longer service.

"We send a special booklet for the holidays," McGee said. "It is a very important booklet because the holidays are often the hardest."

"We spend 99.9 percent of our time with the living and 100 percent of our time doing things for the living," McGee said.

Wint said not too many professions will get a thank you note when it's all over.

"We get thank you notes from families. They say they never could have gotten by without you," Wint said. "That's why we have the community outreach, for them."

What's new in business

"An important part of my life is being there," he said. "It's a privilege to be a funeral director. I try to be the best."

"We are here to serve the living," Wint said.

Wint shows this through the community outreach program and his wide variety of services.

For instance, to help educate people, the funeral home staff conducts tours of the funeral home.

Plus, the funeral home staff can help with their lending library, brochures, magazines, audio visual tapes and monthly newspaper articles and by speaking to anyone who asks.

A growing part of the business is pre-arrangement services, said Wint, adding that Trust 100 has strengthened that program.

"Many people prefer to come in and make arrangements prior to any deaths," Wint said. "It's nice because there is no grief to deal with, and the people have time."

With pre-arrangement services, education is important.

Often, people talk to the staff about Medicaid and nursing homes, rules and regulations of social services, sheltering assets for the surviving spouse and other general information they may want ahead of time.

BILL WINT and Jenni McGee, of Lewis E. Wint & Son Funeral Home, stand in front of their lending library and pamphlets, available to the public for personal use.

Vinnie's all white and just right to take home. The purebred white spitz will need the kind of home that has children over 10 because he's very frisky.

Vinnie, 2, is not neutered. His adoption fee is $65.

Shelter workers suggested that Vinnie be crated at his new home because he has been an outside dog.

Vinnie can be adopted from the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

SPECIFICATIONS

All bids shall be made and accepted pursuant to and in accordance with the following specifications.

1) All bids shall be submitted on the form provided by the Clerk of the Charter Township of Independence.

2) The bid shall set forth the full purchase price being offered for the land by the bidder.

3) The successful bidder shall covenant and agree for himself and/or herself, and for his and/or her heirs, assigns, successors and transferees, that the land shall be improved and continuously used and maintained in accordance with all applicable laws, ordinances and requirements, including, but not limited to, the Charter Township of Independence Zoning Ordinance. These provisions shall be included as covenants and restrictions in the deed given in closing.

4) The successful bidder shall be obligated to make a full and complete inspection of the land, and, presentation of a bid shall constitute a representation to the Charter Township of Independence by the bidder that the bidder has full knowledge of all facts and circumstances relating to the land which a full investigation, including survey and full environmental investigation of the land would disclose, and a further representation that neither the Township nor any of its officers, officials, consultants and/or employees have made any representations concerning the condition and/or any other aspect of the land, and that the bidder has relied upon no such representation.

5) At closing, the Township shall convey the land to the successful bidder by quit claim deed and shall furnish evidence of title by way of a standard and customary owner's policy issued by a title company licensed to do business in the State of Michigan.

It shall be conclusively presumed that a successful bidder has failed and refused to close the sale in a timely manner when the Township gives notice of the closing date, time and place to the successful bidder at the name and address set forth on the Bid and Offer to Purchase, and the successful bidder fails and refuses to appear and consummate the closing consistent with such notice, and fails to commence a lawsuit within 30 days of the designated closing date enjoining the sale by the Township to any other person.

9) The sale shall be a "cash sale," with all purchase monies payable in full at closing.

10) A bid in response to this notice shall be an acknowledgment that the land has been utilized as a water pumping station, and that some of the improvements remain in the ground.

12) At the closing, the Township shall tender the deed required in this Notice, and the successful bidder shall tender a certified or cashier's check made payable to the Charter Township of Independence for the full balance owing on the land, which shall be the difference between the purchase price and the $2,000.00 deposit.

WHO IS ON THE LORD'S Side O House of Israel? Meats for the belly and the belly for meats but God shall destroy both it and them. Now the body is not for fornication but for the Lord and the Lord for the body. If the righteous turn from his righteousness and commit sin he shall even die thereby. But if the wicked turn from his wickedness, and do that which is lawful and right, he shall live thereby. You show much love but your heart goes after your covetousness for where your treasure is these will your heart be also. I have sent my word to heal you but you refuse to come to the truth of my word and do it. I have said I will recompensed your works upon your head and so shall it be. My words have become a pleasant song to your ears as a person who plays well on an instrument for you hear these words but you do not do them. You have no love for the truth to be saved so what can I do that I have not done, O House of Israel? You have seen and do see the works of my hands and yet you want more to tempt the Lord your God continually rather than repenting of your sins so you may have a love for the truth to be saved! I have said, "Fear the Lord your God!" but you do not because you hate to do my word and come to the truth to live by faith believing Me at my word. Your words are stout against Me, sayeth the Lord, in that you do not do my word. You speak much love but your heart is far from me believing the doctrines of the pharisees and traditions of men being seduced by the wiles of the devil, ever mindful of the flesh and not the things of Jesus Christ. Repent, change your heart and mind, and come follow Me for I come quickly. IIIIX30-1*
