Population, housing up

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Preliminary U.S. Census figures show that population and housing units are up in Independence and Springfield townships, as well as in the Village of Clarkston.

Independence showed a 13.5 percent gain in population, while Springfield jumped by 19.3 percent. The Village of Clarkston showed a 3.2 percent increase.

Each municipality has 15 working days to review the figures and challenge them, if necessary, according to Bill Crystler, office manager for the North Oakland District.

The review process is to be completed by mid-October, and the entire census for the 10-year period is (See CENSUS, next page)

Labor Day events for whole family

Labor Day is filled with events for the whole family on Monday, Sept. 3.

A hearty breakfast starts the day, followed by clowns, bands and floats in the parade. Afterward, an affordable lunch or dinner can be consumed at the annual corn roast.

Below is a list of events:

Pancake Breakfast: Sponsored by the Independence Township Firefighters Association, the breakfast will be served 7-10 a.m. Monday at fire station No. 1, 3 E. Church St., Clarkston.

Cost is $3 for adults, $2 for children, and includes pancakes, sausage links, applesauce, juice and coffee.

Proceeds will be donated to the Muscular Dystrophy Association and the Burn Center in Ann Arbor. For more information, call 625-1924.

Labor Day Parade: Sponsored by the Clarkston Rotary Club, the parade begins at 10 a.m. in the Clarkston Junior High School parking lot.

It travels west on Church Street and north on Main Street, where it turns west on Miller Road. For more information, call Leonard Gorz at 858-0708 or Marc Cooper at 673-1020.

Corn Roast: Sponsored by the American Legion Post 63, meals will be served 11:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. at the hall at 8041 Ortonville Rd., Independence Township.

The affordable items available are hot dogs, sloppy joes, barbecued chicken, beer, wine, pop, baked goods and lots of corn.

Games for children also will take place during the corn roast. For more information, call 625-9912.

Census shows higher population, more housing

due Dec. 31 on the president's desk, said Crystler.
Since each municipality receives about $190 per person per year in state and federal aid, the accuracy of the census is important, said Crystler, also noting that population determines the number of representatives sent to state and federal legislatures.

In Independence Township, population jumped from 21,537 in 1980 to 24,447 in 1990, with housing units at 8,667 for 1990.

Township Clerk Joan McCrary was surprised by the preliminary count.

"We think we've increased more than 3,000 in 10 years," she said.

To verify the numbers, the assessing department is making sure that census-takers adhered to township boundaries, and the building department is checking the number of housing permits issued in the last 10 years.

The township had its share of mix-ups during the census, said McCrary, explaining that Independence Greens apartments and the Clintonville Road mobile home park originally were not included within Independence's boundaries on the census map. However, census-takers quickly corrected that.

In Springfield Township, population rose from 8,295 in 1980 to 9,895 in 1990, with 3,457 housing units in 1990.

Township Supervisor Collin Walls said the Springfield review wasn't finished yet, but he, too, was surprised with the results.

"I'm far enough along to know that we have nothing to argue with," he said. "I expected the population figure to be a little higher."

He planned to check the township's records on the number of housing units added since 1980 to compare with the census numbers.

"I can't argue population," he said. "I have no way to do that."

If the census figures are correct, that means the township has fewer people per household than expected. According to the figures, there's an average of 2.87 people per dwelling.

Township officials probably will look differently at long-range planning and land use as a result of the census, said Walls.

"Dwelling units affect what happens to the open countryside," he said, mentioning that roads, police and fire services also are related to the number of dwelling units.

He is not surprised that so many people have moved to Springfield in the last 10 years, he said.

"It's a great place to live," he said. "I can't think of a better explanation. We happen to be blessed, or cursed, to be located in line along the historical pattern of development with the expressway. ... The main thing is we're next."

The Village of Clarkston showed an increase from 968 people in 1980 to 999 in 1990, with 447 dwelling units.

Manager Artemus Pappas said the village's review isn't finished yet.

Holiday deadlines

Early deadlines are in place this week due to the Labor Day holiday.

The Clarkston News office will be closed Monday, Sept. 3, so the deadline for display advertising is 5 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 30.

The deadline for classified advertising and letters to the editor is noon Friday, Aug. 31.

Correction

In last week's Clarkston News, the caption beneath photos of children playing in a cardboard castle should have said the action took place at Children's Tree Day Care and Learning Center, Dixie Highway, Springfield Township.

"The count itself is probably all right," he said. However, the census showed 19 vacant housing units within the village, which doesn't make sense, said Pappas.

He plans to compare that number to village records, he said.

Anyone who did not fill out a census form should call 1-800-999-1990, or call Crystler at 853-8200.

Expansion request denied for second time

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Owners of the Goyette Funeral Home will have to cope with status quo in their Main Street, Clarkston, business.

The Clarkston Village Council unanimously voted against a new ordinance Aug. 27 that would have allowed an addition to the building and an expansion to the parking lot.

The decision followed a 1 1/2-hour discussion before about 45 people.

After the meeting, owner Harold Goyette said he would contact his attorney before determining the next course of action.

Goyette first appeared before the council in January to request a rezoning from residential to funeral home.

His intent was to add 15 feet to the west of funeral home structure and expand the parking area by 15,500 square feet behind his residence next to the funeral home.

In April, the council voted against the rezoning.

Goyette and his attorney, Gerald Fisher, returned to

"It was a difficult decision, not easily arrived upon."

President Sharron Catallo

the council in July with a new request. Their proposal would have allowed the funeral home changes under a Zoning Enabling Act if the council approved a series of ordinance amendments.

The council referred the request to the planning commission, which voted 4-3 on Aug. 6 to approve the 15-foot addition but not parking. The proposal still required the council's approval.

At the Monday, Aug. 27, council meeting, Goyette said he didn't want the addition to the building without the additional parking.

Trustee William Basinger produced a 1973 document from the zoning board of appeals (ZBA), which allowed Goyette to add to his building at that time with the condition that he would not return with a request to add to the westerly portion of the building.

Fisher said Goyette's request would be allowable under the Zoning Enabling Act, which would allow the village to adopt specific land development regulations that would address Goyette's specific funeral home and not other possible future funeral homes in the village.

Council members did not agree with Fisher's point. Trustee Robert Whitmer said the council should uphold the village's 1973 zoning ordinance, and the rezoning request would be spot zoning.

Village attorney Thomas Gruich said, if approved, the proposal would affect ordinances for years to come. He added that he would defend whatever the council decided.

"We've heard a lot about what nice people the Goyettes are, but that is not the issue," Gruich said. "You will be dealing with a succession of funeral home owners for years to come."

Goyette voiced disapproval over the council's reasoning.

"You are forcing me into a situation where you are forcing me out of business," Goyette said. "I'm losing business because I can't handle the amount of business."

Goyette said the parking problems on M-15 contributed to his loss.

Village President Sharron Catallo said she had no problem with the cars parking on Main Street, and she had not noticed the funeral processions agitating others.

Goyette accused the council of favoritism, alleging that most council members had been allowed to receive zoning variances -- with the exception of trustees Dom Mauti and Robert Whitmer.

When asked, he displayed a 1971 paper that showed that Schultz had appeared before the ZBA.

After the meeting, Schultz said he had appeared before the ZBA for clarification of laws, not for a variance to the ordinance.

After the meeting, Catallo also commented on the funeral home issue.

"Many years have passed since the zoning ordinance was enacted in 1973, and I find it difficult to believe problems such as theirs were not addressed at that time."

The zoning ordinance was written to protect the residential area. Occasionally, the ordinance is amended -- usually to address a situation that didn't exist in 1973, such as site condominiums, she said.

Catallo didn't like Goyette's charges that the council cost him business.

"Pointing fingers bothers me," Catallo said. "My mother taught me not to point fingers."

She said she was concerned over what was best for the village and all its residents.

"I hope that Mr. Goyette will in time realize the amount of time and consideration given this proposal," Catallo said. "It was a difficult decision, not easily arrived upon."

Medical sign approved

A medical directory sign, slated for Independence Pointe on M-15, was approved by the Independence Township Planning Commission Aug. 23.

The medical directory sign will be six feet long and four feet high, acceptable under the township's sign ordinance. The sign, planned to face the courtyard and parking lot, will only list the names of physicians on the premises.

School bus driver talks to continue

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Clarkston school bus drivers will continue to transport students this week, though their current contract expired June 30.

The Clarkston Bus Driver Association, a union affiliated with the Michigan Education Association, agreed to extend the contract until Sept. 3.

Though Clarkston is on the Michigan Education Association's "critical list" of districts that could face employee strikes this year, school officials say a settlement likely will be reached in time.

"There are some tough issues, (but) we're optimistic that we'll reach a settlement before the deadline," said Duane Lewis, director of personnel services.

Negotiators have been meeting steadily this week in talks that are "making progress," according to Lewis.

Key issues in the contract this year include salary, benefits and guaranteed driving time for the bus drivers.

Lewis added that buses would continue to operate even if an agreement is not reached before the deadline expires.

"It is our intention that, if we would not be able to settle, we would have another plan," Lewis said. Lewis declined to say what that plan might be.

The Clarkston Bus Driver Association includes about 30 bus drivers.

Bus delays expected

Road construction on Andersonville Road, Independence Township, will delay some Clarkston school buses for another three weeks.

Eight bus runs will be rerouted around the construction area until work is completed, says Assistant Superintendent Mel Vaara.

"There are delays which will handicap families," Vaara admits. "It puts a strain on us, but we have to work around it."

Work to repair two bridges on Andersonville Road began last May, prompting school officials to reroute the buses. The work was scheduled to be completed before school started Aug. 28, but highway officials have notified the school that the completion will be delayed by three weeks.

Vaara adds that while the Andersonville Road delays are inconvenient, this is a better year for bus drivers now that Sashabaw Road and Dixie Highway work has been completed.

Holcomb Road repairs slated for Sept. 10

Driving on North Holcomb Road between Washington Street and Miller Road soon will be a bit smoother.

The Clarkston Village Council voted 6-0 Aug. 13 to approve the bid of $63,271.80 from Asphalt Specialists, Inc., of Pontiac.

Asphalt Specialists, one of eight bidders, is to begin resurfacing the road Sept. 10. The work should be completed in seven working days, said village Manager Artemus Pappas.

Reporter's Notebook

Clarkston Elementary fourth grader Dan Regiani was not square with a Clarkston reporter recently when discussing square roots.

In the Aug. 15 Photo Inquiry, the youngster was asked "What one new thing do you want to learn this year in school?"

Dan replied, "Square roots. My older brother (Tom) knows them, so I want to know them."

After the comment was published, his mother told The Clarkston News that her son really doesn't have an older brother but wished he had one. He does have a friend named Tom, though. Apparently, Dan was testing his powers of wishful thinking.

Items for Reporter's Notebook are compiled by Clarkston News staff members.

Thendara road-paving project nears completion

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

With the help of good weather, the Thendara Park road-paving project should be completed by Sept. 20 if a lawsuit doesn't interfere.

Tom Biehl, of Independence Township's consulting engineering firm Hubble, Roth, and Clark, told the township board Aug. 21 that the project was almost finished.

All curbing, storm sewers, retaining walls and base asphalt are in place, he said. Biehl also noted that 60 percent of the topsoil and 20 percent of the hydroseed had been placed in the subdivision, which lies in the northeast quadrant of Independence Township.

However, the township is still in deliberation with Sylvan Realty, which owns 24 building sites in Thendara Park. The real estate company and the township have been at odds because several Sylvan building sites don't conform with the township's zoning ordinance.

Sylvan officials charge that the township is denying them the right to develop the sites.

According to township attorney Gerald Fisher, the company filed a complaint with the Oakland County Circuit Court a few months ago, but it was later dismissed. Currently, there is nothing pending in the courts.

Fisher added that the township needs easements on five of the Sylvan-owned sites to meet county roadway specifications.

In the meantime, the township is negotiating with the real estate company to allow the company to develop those sites, providing they adhere to township specifications.

The township board has given Fisher until Aug. 29 to settle the matter of obtaining the easements.

"Because we need those easements for county approval, we've been negotiating with them," he said. "However, if we can't work something out in negotiations we'll have to obtain those easements in some other fashion."

The township may file a lawsuit to obtain the easements, said Fisher.

The remarkable thing about Janet (not her real name) was her smile. It was kind of crooked, and she had a dimple. It was beautiful.

As an eighth-grader at Clarkston Elementary School, she was older than most in our class, and she had a few hours a day where she could get extra help in her studies. That's where I met her. I was an aide in one of her classes, and my job was to listen to her read or help out with writing and spelling.

Janet didn't have the furrowed-brow concentration that some did in the class. Nor did she put her best effort toward the avoidance of learning. She wasn't like some of the smart students, whomerely had to be talked into trying again or who had to catch up in a certain area. And she wasn't like certain others, whose attention jumped from the spider across the room to the eraser at the end of their pencils to the shoes on the feet next to them — anything but their studies.

Janet was steady, day in and day out. She read what she was told to read and tried to write what she was told to write.

And she was polite. She didn't interrupt, and she always said please and thank you.

In the crowded halls between classes, I would spot Janet among the throngs, and instantly, she would flash her beautiful, crooked smile.

Back in the classroom, though, Chris, an older girl, occasionally would tease Janet and call her profane names.

Janet instantly angered and spat the names back at Chris, who sat at a table across the room. It sounded funny for polite Janet to say such words, and even when she did, she didn't raise her voice.

Chris would laugh at Janet's reaction.

This would only make Janet angrier, and then she couldn't concentrate on her work. For some reason, she couldn't ignore Chris.

Sometimes, later in the day, I would see Janet, and she would be looking at the ground, bumping into people as she went down the hall, still scowling over Chris' comments.

Later, in chorus, I sat near Janet in the alto section. She was tone deaf, and she couldn't pronounce all of the words in the songs. Sometimes, she fell a few bars behind, but she didn't notice.

Not many teased her in chorus, and usually her scowl would disappear by the end of the class.

Funny thing was, throughout her day, Janet's eyes didn't change. They always seemed dull, as if they weren't even focused. They looked the same whether she smiled or angrily swore at Chris. It made you wonder if she had any real fun, if she every got really excited.

Once after school, a few friends and I were practicing basketball in the gym. Janet was cutting through on her way home, and someone threw her a ball. She was about half-court, and she turned toward the basket and shot. It swished.

Janet smiled. The gym grew silent, and we began feeding Janet the ball. She moved around the court, and she looked comfortable.

She wasn't quick in her movements, but she made most of her shots, and her form was better than most of ours.

"How did you learn to shoot like that?" I asked her, astounded.

"My dad," she said. "We play in the driveway." Her eyes were still dull, but her face was flushed. She said she had to go.

She turned and smiled at the edge of the court, and then the door swung softly closed behind her.

Letter to Editor

Incinerator a waste

Our Oakland County Commissioners, with Roy Rewold as chairperson, have proposed a $5 million solid waste plan that centers around a waste to energy incinerator.

The proposed incinerator, to be located in Auburn Hills, will burn 2,000 tons of trash a day, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

We cannot afford this incinerator because of its potential grave risks to our financial, physical and environmental health.

Incinerators are not a proven technology. Thus far, incinerators have been miserable failures all over the country.

Operations failures, fires, explosions, cost overruns, revenue deficiencies, employee injury, toxic emissions, and contamination of food, soil and water have all been documented in multiple news stories within the past two years.

Incinerators are very expensive. The large-scale Oakland County incinerator has a price tag of $170 million. The Oakland County Commissioners voted to proceed with the sale of bonds for this plan without requesting voter approval.

This is the most expensive project Oakland County has ever undertaken and will be paid for by Oakland County taxpayers.

Incinerators are not profitable — they are capital intensive and money losers.

The term "waste-to-energy incinerator" is misleading in that it leads one to believe that wastes are being converted into something good: energy, which can be sold for profit. This is false.

The only people who profit from an incinerator are the contractors, consultants, developers, investors and lawyers. When they are paid and gone, Oakland County residents will be left with a huge debt.

Your municipality will be asked to sign a contract for garbage at a certain fee called a tipping fee. Tipping fees are passed on to residents in terms of a tax, special assessment or curbside fee.

If contracted steam production quotas are not met for whatever reason (insufficient garbage, incinerator malfunction, incinerator shut-down) tipping fees are increased, costing you as a taxpayer even more.

Detroit Edison has canceled its contract with Detroit because its incinerator was unable to meet contract steam production quotas. This will cost Detroit taxpayers $6 million a year.

Incinerators are not safe. A safe incinerator has not yet been built. Even with state of the art pollution control equipment, incinerators spew toxic emissions into the air: toxic heavy metals (lead, mercury, cadmium) and known cancer-causing compounds.

Some of the most toxic compounds known to man do not exist in the raw garbage but rather are formed by the burning of garbage. For every three tons of garbage burned, about one ton of ash remains in the incinerator itself.

This is also very toxic, is considered hazardous waste, and must be landfilled. Our skin, lungs, land, water, food chain and offspring will be endangered.

We will continue to have a landfill problem, and we will also have an air pollution problem if we allow our air ways to become sewers.

What can you do to stop the incinerator?

■ Act fast. The Oakland County Commissioners have distributed the solid waste agreements to all county municipalities for approval in the next one to two months.

■ Contact your city, township or village officials and urge them to say no to the incinerator.

■ Consider the position of your Oakland County Commissioner on the incinerators in Michigan until recycling and composting programs are fully operational. Express your disapproval for his lack of leadership in protecting Michigan's environment.

■ Tell everyone you know about this, and encourage them to act too.

Jim's Jottings

I never wanted to be President of the United States. And, as far as I can remember my mother never wanted it for me either. Dad certainly didn't.

As I think back on it, I think the first thing that turned me away from presidential politics is the kissing.

We were never a kissing family and I'm not a kissing person. Some families hug and kiss inherently. They greet each other like long-lost relatives when they come back from the bathroom.

I've never run across kissing-habited women, but I know some men who'll kiss a gal, any gal, at the first hello. They may get slapped, but that doesn't deter them.

New Year's Eve is about the only time I extend the lips beyond my household. Even then I'm a pecker. You know, pursed lips, bent far over from the waist and no touching. Just a quick peck, and back away. I don't want anyone else's spouse aroused and certainly not my own.

Granddaughter Karen, 2, has been taught kissing and hugging. She'll do it at the slightest suggestion. But, like me, it's quick and back to the game. I also know that in just a few years mom and dad will break her neck if she continues kissing on request.

Of course, it wasn't just lips and baby-kissing that helped turn me away from seeking the highest office in the land. The below-the-waist kissing really turned me off.

Our current president's lips have been in the news and cartoons for a couple years now. His "no new taxes" and then "I'd go for new taxes" statements have made his lips newsworthy as he kissed both the conservatives and liberals.

Another negative about the presidency is eating out. We eat out at least twice a week. The president eats out about once a month. When he goes so does his own bottled water, salt, pepper and sugar to prevent a poisoning plot.

To further protect our leader, tasters sample all that's put before him. Too, when Mr. Bush dines out hordes of people gather to watch him avoid spotting his tie.

That'd be too hard for me to get used to. I'd really rather no one watched me eat. It's not a pretty sight, especially when I eat corn on the cob. Spaghetti slurping would be out, and I wouldn't dare eat spinach for fear of being unable to smile at the voters before I kissed them.

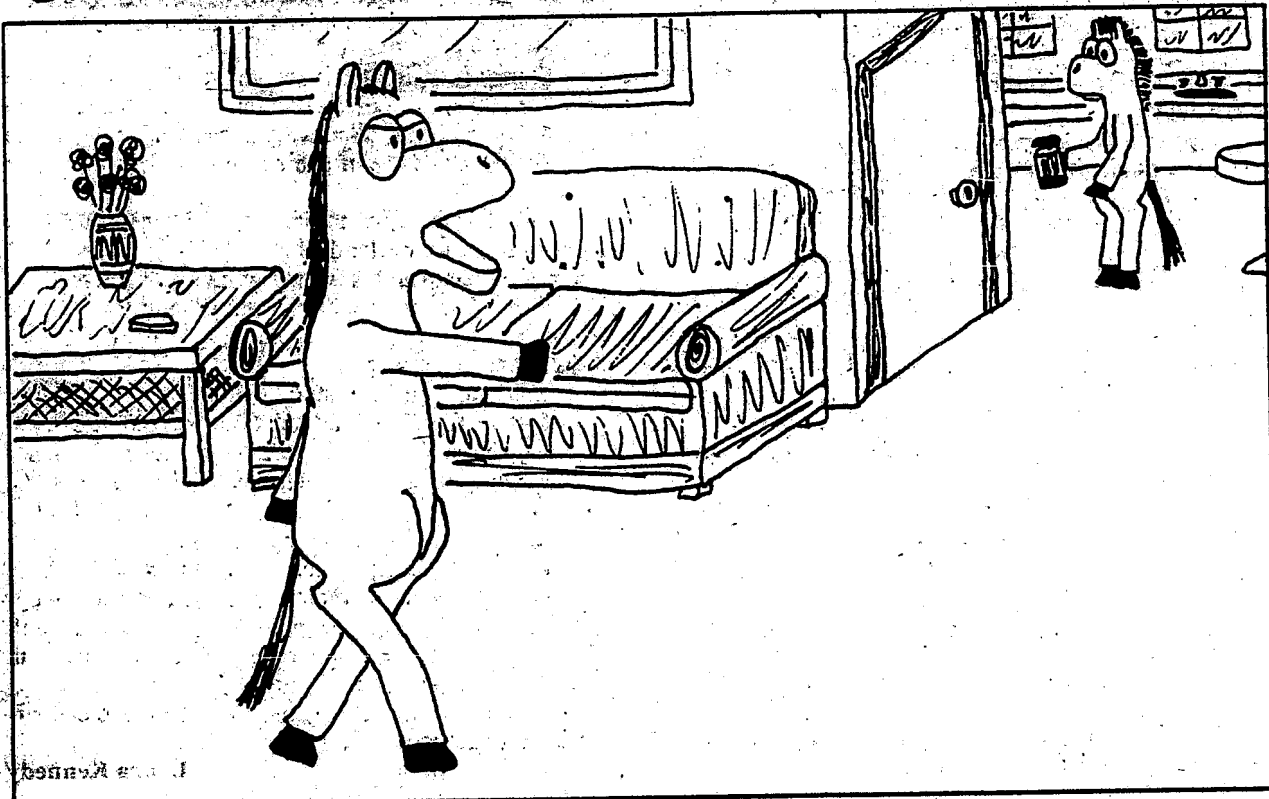

Then there's all those helicopter rides, having to get out of Washington every weekend for Camp David or Kennebunkport, posing for pictures with heads of government whose sole purpose for shaking hands in our country is to shake some money loose and kissing Congressional opposition.

Seriously, how would you react if you were President, greeting Yassar Arafat for the first time and he reached up to kiss you?

I'll tell you what, if I were president under that circumstance I'd surely call for a taster.

Having cake and eating it too

Tracy

I've reached the age when birthdays take on new meaning.

Gone are days of anticipation, when cake, ice cream and turning older were cause for celebration.

Now, cake is only to be eaten only under extreme conditions. And, as 30 fast approaches, years are to be marked with alarm.

"I cried when I turned 30," my mother offers. Of course she was well into motherhood at that age, so life must have seemed, essentially, over.

For my dad, true old age is marked by grandfathering.

On the rare occasion when my bearing children is discussed, a look of pure, ashen fear crosses his face.

"You can't do that to me," he whispers. "I'm not ready for that."

Before now, I always liked getting older.

I remember dancing in circles on the driveway the day I turned 10 (double digits at last!). Turning 13 seemed the start of something big. I recall, and, of course, turning 21 couldn't come fast enough.

Birthday trepidation probably started at age 27, when I was introduced to birthdays of The Clarkston News type.

Clarkston News birthday celebrants are treated to a special afternoon of gag gifts.

I had always like surprises before this custom was enforced. Now, ever fearful of what idiosyncrasies could be exposed, I brace myself for the shower of office jokes.

(OK, I did like taking the redhead quiz. You never know, I just might go through with it. But reading that soap opera scenario aloud was painful—too close to reality.)

Apart from the gag gifts, age hasn't caused me any problems up to now.

Oh sure, I have to wear sunscreen once in awhile; and I do feel a little sheepish as I'm waved through at the liquor counter—my outstretched driver's license never getting so much as a glance—but these are minor inconveniences.

Once the 30-year hurdle is crossed, I know a whole new set of problems will emerge.

Creaking bones, wrinkles and babies will become reality.

Birthday parties will become somber. Icing will get thicker as, each year, the weight of the candles grows heavier.

Laughter at gag gifts will hit a hysterical pitch. A birthday can become a terrible thing.

Celibates miss other stuff, too

From Henry Linkowski of Bay City came two photos clipped from the Free Press, one of Archbishop Adam Maida and the other of me, with the suggestion that we are look-alikes. I asked a coworker about the possibility of my having the holy countenance of a priest.

"If you were a Catholic priest, you'd be hot after Vicki Long," he answered.

Based on beauty, a guy could do a lot worse. According to TV news footage, Long is an absolute knockout. When it comes to tempted clergy, Jim Bakker should have had it so good. Long makes Jessica Hahn look as sexy as a stop sign.

According to news reports, Vicki Long has strained the Roman Catholic celibacy of one archbishop, two priests and one nun. Long is described as "a lay minister." I wouldn't touch that line with a shepherd's 10-foot staff.

It must be stressed that Adam Maida, new leader of the Detroit Archdiocese, isn't the archbishop who allegedly strayed toward wet panty hose hung over the bathtub. That was Eugene Marino, bishop of Atlanta until recently resigning because of his relationship with Long. Too bad.

Mandatory celibacy is unfortunate for several reasons. The big one, certainly, is that it contributes greatly to the ever-growing priest shortage that soon may force ushers to day mass. Another reason is that celibacy denies priests the cherished opportunity to experience the varied joys of married life, such as going to bed with a spouse to talk baseball.

That evening there'd been two triple plays in one game, and I couldn't help exclaiming about it: "Usually you don't see two in a season!"

"How many were out when they happened?" my wife asked.

A few days later, on the bedroom TV, a baserunner was hit by a ball thrown by the shortstop. "He's out," she said.

I explained that if baseball worked that way, players would continually throw the ball at each other. "Well, that's what they do," she said.

It should be noted that, in 35 years of marriage, I've taken her to about 350 baseball games. Only a saint could forgive her for not paying that much attention, but a priest might come close.

It should also be noted that celibates ordinarily don't have grandchildren, which means further loss of meaningful domestic conversation. There was a nipple baby bottle of milk in our refrigerator, but we don't have a baby. My wife said it was for visiting 8-year-old Emily's doll, and the milk was simulated. It was really a white sock. Honest to God.

I handed the bottle to Emily and said: "Don't spill your sock."

Celibates miss out on great talks like that. There's also domestic sign language. Emily held up two fingers in a V shape and stuck them in my face. Recognizing the sign, I said, "Peace."

"That doesn't mean peace," my wife explained, "it means you've had two vodka tonics and that's enough."

Emily learned to count drinks from her mother who learned from her mother. Celibate priests are denied generational nagging, and it's not fair. The mandate should be reversed. Before priests are allowed to preach, they should be forced to live.

Changes to township's land use plan reasonable

Doug Carlson

Thursday, Aug. 23, the Independence Township Planning Commission held a public hearing to discuss changes they were proposing to the Independence Township Land Use Plan.

The Land Use Plan is a policy "guide," a tool to make future decisions regarding zoning. It is not what property is zoned now, nor what it may be zoned later. It does, however, reflect the thinking of the members of the planning commission and provides a vision of how they believe the township should be developed in the future.

The plan previously had been updated in 1984 and 1987. The 1987 changes primarily dealt with M-15 north of I-75 and the Sashabaw corridor.

I am pleased to report that, generally speaking, the changes recommended last Thursday evening, if adopted, would result in a reduction in density in many areas of the township.

If the notes I took were correct, five of the six areas having to do with housing would result in larger lot sizes (less density) than the plan now calls for.

The sixth area would result in smaller lots but brings the property in question into line with adjacent properties, which certainly makes sense.

One of the five changes involved a zoning change from Planned Research Office to Single Family Residential (15,000-square-foot lots).

After some discussion, this was changed to Suburban Residential (33,000-square-foot lots). This is the property on Dixie Highway between White Lake and Foster roads.

Again, if approved, this means a subdivision would be developed around the planned hospital as opposed to a hospital and office buildings.

Two of the proposed changes would result in property being rezoned from Multiple Family Residential to Planned Research Office, and one of the five changes mentioned above would involve a rezoning from Multiple to Single Family Residential.

Another change involved a change from General Industrial to Limited Industrial.

The remaining changes simply reflect boundaries changed previously, current boundaries, or properties deeded to the Land Conservancy. It is also worth noting that the planning commission has put a great deal of thought into providing "buffers" between industrial and residential areas and between commercial and residential areas.

About 10 COG members attended Thursday's meeting, in addition to another eight or 10 interested residents.

Each of the members of the commission commented on the number of people in attendance and how gratifying it is to them to have residents take an interest in meetings of this type.

Apparently, in prior years, such discussions have taken place before a handful of people.

The COG members spoke out in unanimous support of the proposed changes. We believe they would be a very positive step in maintaining the rural atmosphere we now all enjoy, and we commend the commission on their vision and foresight.

Not everyone agrees with their proposals, however. Several residents in attendance made impassioned and articulate statements against the changes, stating that larger lots would price many people out of the market, etc.

They also feel that we need more shopping areas, and one lady felt that we need another movie theater.

To my way of thinking, there are several theater complexes within a 20-minute drive, and that doesn't seem unreasonable to me.

The point is, however, that these individuals feel as strongly about their views as we do about ours, and this is what it's all about.

Those who were not in attendance Thursday evening missed a good meeting. Those who were are to be commended.

The next step, I believe, is to secure the approval of the township board. That public hearing should really be interesting.

Armed robbers steal $200 from gas station

Two men robbed a clerk at gunpoint at the Dandy Oil/Gas Station shortly after 1 a.m. Aug. 23 and got away with $200 in cash.

According to police reports, two white males, between the ages of 17 and 25, walked into the Sashabaw Road establishment early last Thursday. They ordered the clerk to empty the register and lie face-down on the floor until they left.

The clerk told police the two men fled on foot, but he was uncertain of the direction. He told police that one of the men put a case of beer on the counter and acted as if he was going to purchase it. Meanwhile, the other man pulled a small, blue handgun and carried out the crime.

The case is under investigation by the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Enjoyable season

The Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department received excellent support from the sponsors, coaches, parents and players throughout the 1990 Jr. Baseball/Youth Softball season.

Several changes were implemented into the program, and everyone rolled with the punches and made the summer very enjoyable.

First, the sponsor, with their donations, made it possible for every team to have quality uniforms and a rewarding season.

Secondly, the volunteer coaches put in many hours to make sure that every child was given the opportunity to enjoy and learn the game of baseball and softball.

Thirdly, the parents took time to make sure their children were at the games and also lent enthusiastic support to the children.

Finally, and most importantly, are the young athletes, whom this program is all about. Their attitude, enthusiasm, dedication and perseverance allows us to run an excellent program year after year.

CHS alumnus still thriving despite kidney disease

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Medicine can change over the course of 12 years, and for Judy McLaughlin, the changes in kidney dialysis have helped her to live a near-normal life.

New medical advances helped Judy cut down on the time spent at the kidney dialysis machine. Computerization has been instrumental in some of the improvements, she says.

Judy, a 1978 Clarkston High School graduate, now lives in Orange, Calif., and brings information to the public about kidney transplants. She recently was featured in a California medical publication about living with kidney disease.

Clarkston-area residents who helped her as a teenager may be interested to know that she's doing well, says the former CHS cheerleader and band member.

Her kidney problems began with a strep infection in 1976. About the time she was planning to graduate from high school two years later, her health began to deteriorate, and she sought medical treatment.

Although a strep infection is treated successfully, it can still cause kidney damage, says Judy.

Her kidneys took almost two years to show the symptoms of the strep infection. Problems associated with the disease — weight gain from bloating and chronic fatigue — started to show up slowly in the spring of 1978.

But the problems escalated a week before graduation. Judy experienced flu-like symptoms, she says.

She visited Clarkston pediatrician James O'Neill, who promptly sent her to a nephrologist.

Nephrologist Gregorio Ferrer of Pontiac put Judy on dialysis until she could receive a kidney transplant from her mother, Wanda Scharf, in November 1978.

Wanda's kidney only survived inside Judy about nine months. The rejected kidney was surgically removed, leaving Judy to live with her own two diseased kidneys. Much to Judy's disappointment, she returned to dialysis.

"We thought this (the kidney transplant) was the cure," says Judy. "Everybody in my family is healthy."

Meanwhile, Judy was pursuing a college career at Oakland Community College, and the dialysis was time-consuming.

With the help of her mother and married sister, Denise Aldred, they set up the dialysis operation at their home on Oak Park, Independence Township; and Judy received her dialysis at home instead of traveling to a medical facility. To use dialysis at home, the three trained to be certified in hemodialysis. Supplies for the dialysis operation were stored in a shed in the backyard.

Denise, who later became a registered nurse, was happy to learn the medical process, Judy says.

Dialysis is performed while the patient sits in a Lazy Boy type chair, says Judy, adding that she used the time to read stories to Denise's young son, Michael.

"It was like family time to Mikie," Judy says.

However, her mother moved to Houston, Texas, and Judy followed soon after, along with her younger sister, Marilyn.

In Houston Judy became a spokesperson for the National Kidney Foundation by appearing in two TV commercials. She even planned to open her own dialysis center but dropped the idea when practicing physicians entered the free market with such centers. That would have been tough competition, she says.

"I was only 26 years old, and I'm not a physician," Judy says.

JUDY MCLAUGHLIN now lives a healthy life despite a failed kidney transplant. Three times a week she uses dialysis. (Photo courtesy of Saint Joseph Hospital, Orange, Calif.)

When the dialysis center didn't work out, Judy sold BMWs for a living, but she continued to be an advocate for kidney information. She founded the Texas chapter for the National American Association of Kidney Patients.

Eventually, Wanda moved to California, and her

"I would like people to know my life is not tragic. I swim 15 laps three times a week, and I take good care of myself."

Judy McLaughlin

daughters followed her again.

Judy says, "I thought it would be a fresh start."

The move in August 1988 gave Judy a break from the world of nephrology, she says.

But not for long — she now is considering making more commercials for organ donations. She also serves as a patient representative at St. Joseph's Renal Center in Orange.

Life for Judy these days is as normal as it can be.

"I would like people to know my life is not tragic," Judy says. "I swim 15 laps three times a week, and I take good care of myself."

Judy is a vegetarian, and she likes to waterski.

"There is no reason not to lead a normal life," Judy says. "I'm totally healthy."

Not even traveling interferes with her life. When she visits her father, Martin McLaughlin, in Florida, she uses a renal center one mile from his home.

When she visits family members in the Clarkston area, Judy visits the center at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac, that Ferrer, her original doctor, was instrumental in starting.

She has adjusted to spending about seven and a half hours a week taking care of her health, using that period as "sitting down" time, says Judy.

"I read or balance my checkbook," Judy says.

Judy is glad she can take care of herself.

"I've done so well on dialysis; I use my own needles, and I'm totally in control," Judy says. "That's the way it should be."

Judy encourages people who must use dialysis to ask questions of their doctors.

"They should be in partnership with their physicians," she says.

New residential ordinance gets first approval

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The "first reading" of a proposed planned residential development ordinance (PRD) passed muster with the Independence Township Board Aug. 21.

The township board voted 6-0 to approve the first reading. Township Treasurer John Lutz was absent. A second reading and adoption — planned for Sept. 4 — is necessary before the ordinance takes effect.

The PRD would pertain to proposed developments larger than 160 acres.

The ordinance would mandate that at least 20 percent of the land in question remain "open space," with a limit of about one single-family residential unit per gross acre.

The idea of a PRD resulted from the proposed 820-acre golf course-residential development at Clintonville and Waldon roads in Independence and Orion townships.

Township attorney Gerald Fisher introduced the ordinance at the Aug. 7 township board meeting. He pointed out that the golf course would be constructed in numerous phases, and its enormity would require each phase to be approved separately. A PRD would be helpful in that case, he said.

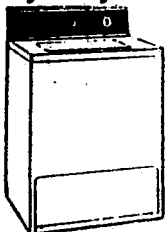

A development of this magnitude would usually be approved under the township's planned unit development zoning.

First step in anti-demolition ordinance

Independence to catalog 105 historical structures

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The buildings of the past may be preserved for the generations of the future, if the Independence Township Board is successful.

The board voted 6-0 Aug. 21 to accept a firm's bid to catalog 105 long-standing structures in the township. It's the first step toward establishing a township ordinance that would prohibit the demolition of historical structures.

The firm, Preservation Planning, Inc., of Franklin was selected from a field of five applicants.

The company also developed urban-design guidelines for the Clarkston Village Center in 1981.

Township Clerk Joan McCrary said the cataloging of township structures will act as a reference guide.

"This is just a plan for the township to follow in terms of historical preservation," McCrary said.

The idea of bringing in an outside firm came from the Historical Structures Subcommittee, formed by the planning commission earlier in the year. The members include Daniel Travis, Joseph Figa, Steven Secatch and Jennifer Radcliff.

One of the long-term goals of the subcommittee is the development and acceptance of an anti-demolition ordinance.

Travis said the purpose of the subcommittee and the newly-hired firm is to preserve the township's heritage.

"The whole idea behind this plan is to keep our historical structures from vanishing," he said. "We're looking to preserve the buildings' architectural integrity."

Preservation Planning has created an outline for the eventual protection of about 90 farm residences and 15

Independence may get help from Michigan Township Association in lawsuit over cityhood

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Independence Township may have landed an important ally in its legal battle against the State Boundary Commission.

On Aug. 21, township attorney Gerald Fisher told the township board that Jack Bauckham, legal counsel for the Michigan Township Association (MTA), offered help in the township's lawsuit against the Boundary Commission.

"He (Bauckham) told me if this case came before the MTA that the organization would probably lend support to the township," Fisher said.

On July 30, the township filed a lawsuit in Oakland County Circuit Court, challenging the Boundary Commission's decision to allow the Village of Clarkston to become a city. The suit charges that incorporation as a city violates the Michigan Charter Township Act.

After the meeting, Bauckham said the township's lawsuit is a unique case, and he would advise the MTA to support of Independence.

"I feel this is a very interesting case because it's a precedent-setting suit with statewide implications," he said. "If Independence sends a letter seeking assistance, I'll advise the board to support its endeavors."

Bauckham suggested the township send a letter soon if officials want their case discussed at the MTA's October meeting. However, the only suit-related letters to leave the township offices so far are those seeking moral support from charter townships around the state. Township Supervisor Frank Ronk said about 110 letters had been sent.

free-standing "outbuildings," such as barns and silos. The firm's three-phase cataloging service will cost the township $8,775 plus reimbursable expenses related to research.

The three phases consist of background information, project scope and research. The firm will begin work in two weeks. Company officials estimate that its duties can be completed in five weeks.

McCrary said the company probably will call on the owners of the historical residences to gather extra information on the structures. She emphasized that the questioning will be conducted to assist, not to probe.

"The township isn't trying to inhibit any of the homeowners," she said. "We're only trying to assist them in preserving these historic structures."

CHS baritone player helps All-State Band take top honors

BY LISA NIXON
Clarkston News Special Writer

This is the third time in four years that the Michigan Lions All State Band placed first in the International All State Band Contest.

It's the second time Joel Mellen has helped the band

"It's hard. You practice for two straight days on the weekends. You could blow your lips off."

win the title.

Joel Mellen, a Clarkston High School senior baritone player, participated in the Michigan Lions All State Band when it took first place at the Lions Clubs International Convention in St. Louis, Mo., July 11.

The All State Band is a youth project of the Lions and Lioness Clubs of Michigan and has a membership of 168 ninth- through 12th-graders from 81 Michigan cities.

Mellen, band member since sixth grade, has played in this band for the past three years. His first and third years, the band took first place at the convention.

The students must audition in the late fall, and practices begin in December.

Mellen said the band practices one weekend a month until July. Then they rehearse for a full week in July and travel to perform for the next two weeks.

"It's hard," Mellen said. "You practice for two straight days on the weekends. You could blow your lips off."

But Mellen enjoys it.

"It's real fun," Mellen said, adding that he most likes meeting people from all over the state.

The band played its last performance at the Mint Festival Aug. 11 in St. John's, where the band rehearses all year.

"It's sort of a thank you to the town," Mellen said.

It is not a mandatory performance, but hardly anyone misses it, Mellen added.

This year the band also performed in the Fourth of July parade in Wyandotte where they were awarded best of show in a parade of 175 units.

That same day, they performed in Battle Creek for the dedication of C.O. Brown Baseball Stadium. Also, on July 13, the band performed at the Queen's Coronation Ball and were featured in the Cherry Festival in Traverse City.

In the past years, Mellen said he got to see Denver, Colo., and Miami, Fla. He also plans to audition next year — his last chance — when the band is to visit Australia.

Mother Nature gets a hand with tiny animals

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

For the past eight years, Independence Township resident Sue Brown has been assisting Mother Nature.

She doesn't have control over the elements, but she does serve as a makeshift "foster parent" when it comes to raising wild animals.

Since 1982, Brown has had a hand in raising or rehabilitating nearly a dozen types of wildlife species.

"I've always loved animals, and this seemed like a natural way to get closer to them."

Sue Brown

She is the only person in Independence Township who owns a "wildlife animal rehabilitation permit."

A wildlife animal rehabilitation permit is granted by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources. It gives an individual the right to rehabilitate various species of wildlife that may have been injured or abandoned.

Brown's patient list has included raccoons, owls, foxes, rabbits and a hawk. She said her lifelong passion for animals got her interested in seeking a rehabilitation permit.

"I've always loved animals, and this seemed like a natural way to get closer to them," she said.

Brown has had plenty of practice when it comes to raising animals. She and husband, Ron, are retired, but their livelihood includes breeding Labradors and boarding horses.

Her family, which consists of three grown children, often teases her about her love for animals.

"My children used to kid me that I reminded them of Ellie Mae on the 'Beverly Hillbillies' because I took in every animal under the sun," she laughed.

Brown may have inherited her avocation, however.

"My relatives tell me that my love for animals comes from my grandfather. About 70 years ago, he was contracted to build dens in zoos throughout the country," she said. "I'm told he would often bring home sick bear

"My children used to kid me that I reminded them of Ellie Mae on the 'Beverly Hillbillies' because I took in every animal under the sun."

Sue Brown

INDEPENDENCE Township resident Sue Brown is one of only three people permitted to rehabilitate wild animals in northern Oakland County. Here, she entertains two female raccoons, who were sent to her after their mother was killed on a roadway.

and wolf cubs and nurse them in his basement. He even brought home an anaconda snake once, and it took nearly three men to feed it."

In rehabilitating the wildlife, Brown said she concentrates on caring for them in the most natural methods.

"I try to keep my animals as natural as possible, so it's easy for them to return to their old instincts once they are let back into the wild," she said. "The idea here is not to turn them into pets."

Her "natural" practices include feeding the animals what they would eat and how they would eat it in the wild. After an animal is healthy or mature enough to take care of itself in the wild, Brown releases it in a secluded, 80-acre area in northern Michigan.

After caring for a particular animal for several months, Brown does admit that sometimes it's hard to see it leave. She currently is raising two three-month old raccoons, and Brown said their departure probably will be the toughest to handle.

"Those two raccoons are so frisky and friendly that I'll probably be sorry to see them go, but it's part of the job," she said.

Rehabilitating wild animals may sound appealing, but Brown warns that it's not for everyone.

"It's like raising children," she said. "As cute as this job seems, it isn't for everyone. There is a lot to be learned about each animal, and they have to be constantly supervised."

As far as Brown knows, she is only one of three people licensed to rehabilitate wildlife in northern Oakland County. She wishes more people would get involved in wildlife rehabilitation, but the lack of monetary support isn't available.

"I know there are interested people out there, but the DNR doesn't offer any type of funding for those with permits," Brown said. "I have to pay for all of the animals' expenses. The DNR should sink more support into this program."

However, Brown still enjoys her role of "provider" and takes care of each animal as if it were her own.

"I can't think of anything else that I'd rather do right now than care for these animals," she said.

"I try to keep my animals as natural as possible, so it's easy for them to return to their old instincts once they are let back into the wild."

Wolf kickers plan to move up with experience

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Many that are first shall be last; and the last first. (Mark 10:31)

Going from last to first is not easy for any team, but Clarkston varsity soccer coach Neil Granlund thinks his Wolves can do it this fall.

Granlund thinks his Wolves have a "realistic" chance to jump from last to first in the Greater Oakland Activities League.

"We have a balanced team with strength in every position. These are the best ballhandlers we've ever had," said Granlund, who has been Clarkston's only boys varsity soccer coach since the program started eight years ago.

Another big plus for the Wolves is experience. Eleven of the 18 players are returning lettermen, including seniors Andy

MEMBERS of the Clarkston varsity soccer team have been practicing against each other, but the real action in regular season begins with an away match Sept. 4 against Springfield Christian Academy.

"We have a balanced team with strength in every position."

Coach Neil Granlund

Deloney and goalkeeper Joel Mellen who already have earned two varsity letters.

Junior Scott Strawsburg will share duties with Mellen, giving the Wolves and experienced duo in the nets.

One new addition to the team is senior Paul Hurren, a transfer from Dayton, Ohio. Granlund calls Hurren "an excellent

Local woman 3rd in triathlon

Darlene Smith of Clarkston finished third in the women's 45-49 age division at the Metro Beach Triathlon.

Smith, 46, placed 173rd overall with her time of 85:20. The tri-athletes swam 1 kilometer, biked 16 kilometers and ran 4 kilometers.

There were 189 athletes who finished the annual event. Dan Malen, 21, from Lathrup Village was the overall winner (52:58) and Laura Sophia, 35, of Pleasant Ridge was the top female (60:59).

shooter who fits right into the team."

Granlund said one team weakness is its lack of "no true wingers," which will affect play along the sidelines of the field.

Offensively, the Wolves will start play in front of their own goal, with the goalkeeper making a short pass to a nearby teammate instead of kicking long downfield.

"We'll use short, quick thorough passes and open up the field," said Granlund.

Defensively, the Wolves will use a four-man defense with a sweeper.

In tackling situations, Granlund said his squad won't just "try to win at all costs" but rather get a clean win and control the ball.

The two biggest roadblocks of the Wolves' goal to win the GOAL will be last year's champ Brandon and the always-physical Lake Orion Dragons.

Even if Clarkston doesn't win the GOAL, it is guaranteed to look like a new team this season. The Wolves will be outfitted in new uniforms.

Clarkston invades GOAL with air attack

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The San Diego Chargers had "Air Coryell."

The Seattle Seahawks have "Ground Chuck."

Could "Air Richardson" be next?

Kurt Richardson, Clarkston's varsity football head coach, has an even better idea to describe his team's offense this season, "Air Wolf."

"We'll be throwing the ball quite a bit this season," said Richardson. "We think we can protect our quarterback."

Clarkston returns from a 6-3 season and second-place finish in the Greater Oakland Activities League. In each of their three losses, the Wolves lost by only a touchdown or less.

Members of an 8-1 JV team will also bolster the 1990 varsity Wolves.

The pilot of Air Wolf will be third-year starting quarterback Dugan Fife, a strong-armed accurate passer and honorable mention GOAL selection.

Richardson has praise for more than just his junior quarterback's throwing ability, saying, "He's like having a coach on the field."

If a recent scrimmage against three other teams (Warren, L'Anse Creuse and St. Clair Shores South Lake) is any indication, Fife will have plenty of co-pilots to throw to, receivers who hang on to the ball in traffic.

Fall sports preview

One receiver Richardson has especially been impressed with so far has been junior Jon Wyniemo.

But in order for the offense to run smoothly, pilots need the proper protection and direction from the navigating crew.

Navigators for Air Wolf are experienced senior offensive linemen, including all-GOAL center Joe Webb, Damon Michelsen, Kurt Golarz, Tony Miller and Greg Heaton.

Of course, good running can make a passing attack even more successful by keeping an opponent's defense guessing.

Richardson said junior halfback Dan Griffiths may spark that all-important ground crew, which will usually run from I-formation.

The coach liked what he saw in the speedy runner during a recent scrimmage, calling him one of the pleasant "surprises" so far this season.

"If he runs like that all year, he will be a force," said Richardson.

The coach also calls senior offensive tackles Miller and Ryan Roberts welcomed "surprises" after coming back from injury-plagued seasons.

Defensively, Richardson said his team still needs to work on its performance but at least doesn't have any "glaring weaknesses."

The Wolves will use a 5-2 defense and will often blitz.

He is counting on senior linebacker

"We'll be throwing the ball quite a bit this season."

Coach Kurt Richardson

Damon Michelsen and GOAL honorable mention defensive tackle senior Kurt Golarz.

Richardson also noted that the secondary has been "playing well."

The kicking game is sound, with all-GOAL kicker senior Dave Marks returning.

Richardson, starting his fourth year as head coach and 14th year with Clarkston football, expects defending champion Lake Orion (9-0 in 1989 regular-season play) to be tough. But he expects the Wolves to contend with the Dragons, Pontiac Northern and Waterford Kettering for the league title.

Clarkston has some tough non-conference match-ups, opening the season at Troy, hosting Novi in the second game and finishing with Brighton at home. Garden City will be the Wolves' homecoming opponent in a Saturday afternoon game Oct. 20.

Richardson said because of the Wolves fervent fans, "Clarkston isn't always the easiest place to coach," but he admires the strong support of the fans.

And that strong support isn't just present at home games.

"Our fans sometimes outnumber the home team (opponent's) fans," said Richardson.

The coach likes how the state-wide divisions have doubled this season for football play-offs (from four to eight).

"I think it's great. It allows more teams to get in," said Richardson.

If Clarkston makes the play-offs, it will get in by flying.

Air Wolf's ultimate landing would be in the endzone at the Pontiac Silverdome.

Driver gets back in seat of midget car

JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Classic cars are usually pampered, hidden away in some garage only to be let out occasionally for a show or for a rare leisurely drive.

But Ray Harris treats his 1941 Hillegass the way it was meant to be treated, racing 90-plus mph around a dirt track.

Harris, a Brandon Township resident, was looking for a sprint race car about nine years before he bought the Hillegass a year ago. The full-size midget race car, worth about $12,000, originally came from Allentown, Penn., and is similar to the types of cars he raced in his youth.

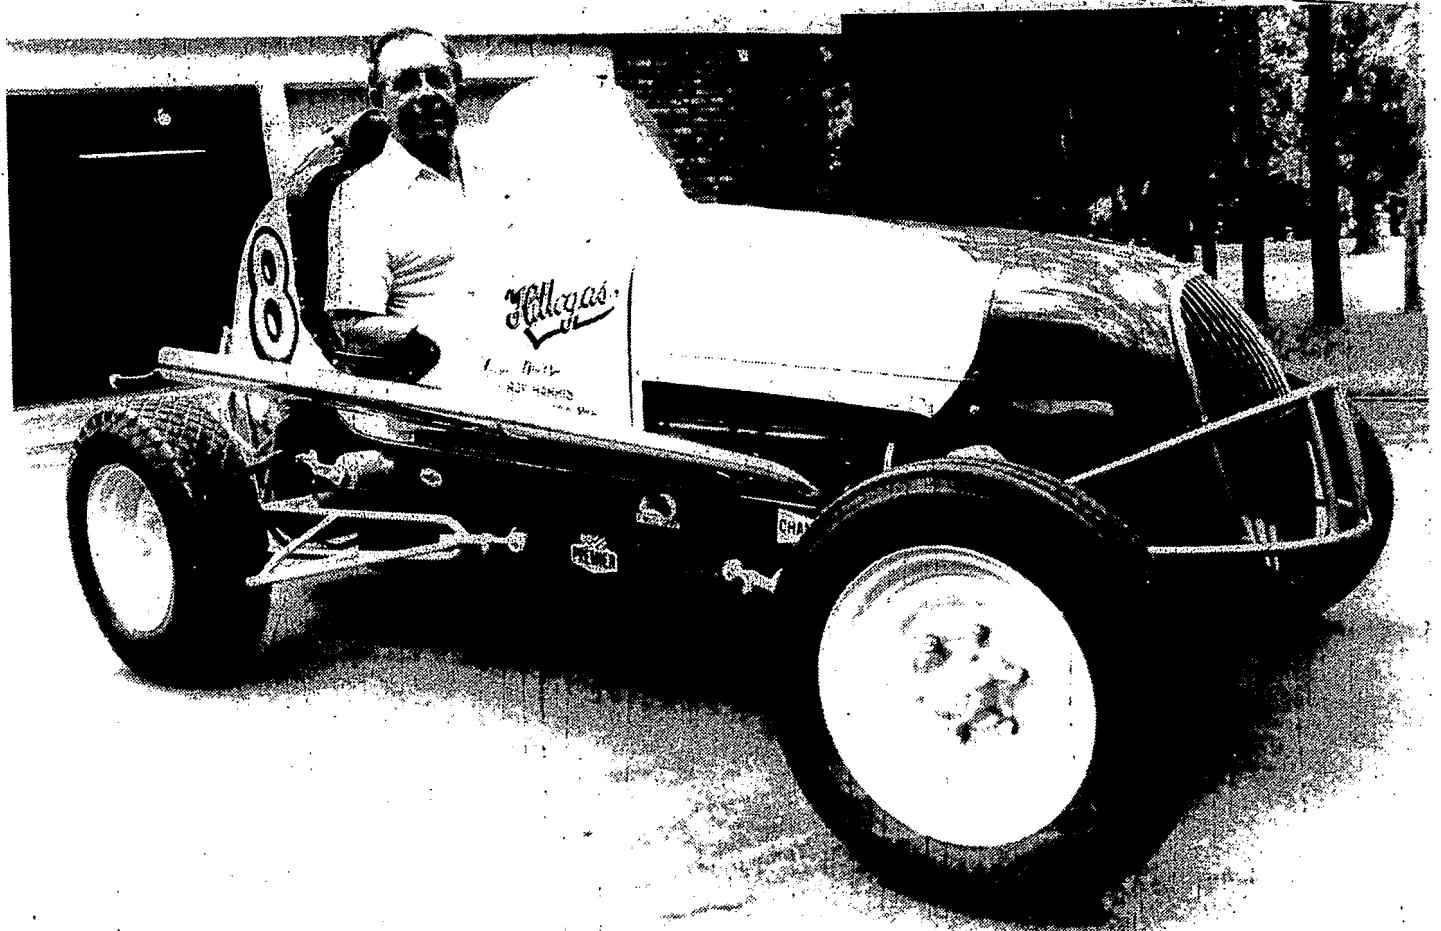

When he bought the car, his wife, Dolores "Trudy" said, "Here's a 64-year-old man going back to his childhood."

The car, which can reach speeds up to 115 mph, needed some cosmetic work and Harris was meticulous about reconditioning it as close as possible to its original shape. Even the misspelled "Hillegass" remains painted on the car.

Harris was born with racing in his blood. His father, Rondie, raced from 1920 to 1968. His father was posthumously inducted into the Michigan Motor Sports Hall of Fame in 1989.

Harris' twin brother, Ron, doesn't own a car, but he still races and some of those races are against his brother.

Harris said sometimes race officials are hesitant to have the twins race against

RAY HARRIS isn't the only person who likes to get behind the wheel of this 1941 Hillegass. When he takes the race car to shows, plenty of other people ask for the chance to get in the driver's seat. Harris is a member of the Antique Auto Racing Association and is the director of the Michigan Motor Sports Hall of Fame.

"Here's a 64-year-old man going back to his childhood."

each other because of their long rivalry in racing.

Would Harris still race hard against his brother at 64 years of age?

"Probably would," said Harris, with a grin as quick as his car. "I hate like the devil to be second."

When Harris isn't racing, he sometimes shows his car. He entered his car in three shows and won two first-place awards (the third show did not give out awards). His Hillegass took first in the special interest category at the Davison Area Chamber of Commerce Antique Car Show and later won at the Concours in Depot Park in Clarkston.

Harris not only likes to see the reactions to his car from onlookers at the shows, he also enjoys reactions at other times. He said while he hauls his Hillegass on the highway to races, "old guys" passing by will give him a "thumbs up."

But the gawking isn't limited to "old guys." Harris said one time his car needed some work done on the rear axle. When he drove his car up to the garage at the Oakland Technical Center in Independence Township, he said four or five teen-agers enthusiastically volunteered to work on the car.

Harris said racing the 8-cylinder, 145 horsepower is "like riding a snowmobile, gliding, moving."

He points out that even though the drivers don't drive their cars quite as hard as they once did, "You still have to know what you're doing."

The cars race only a few feet apart, close enough to cause an occasional accident. In the past year, Harris has raced at dirt tracks in Marion, Ohio; Wausein, Ohio; and this past weekend at Washington Court House, Ohio. About 6,000 people watched the race in Wausein.

Harris said the racers have to compete with horse races when it comes to use of dirt tracks.

Two advantages cars like Harris' Hillegass have over race horses are they have more horsepower and they last much longer.

In the case of the Hillegass, 49 years ... and counting.

James Gibowski

Swinging from the heels

There's no place like home(s)

Mount Rainier is the tallest mountain (from base to height) in the continental United States. (Photos by James Gibowski)

Green Lake is one of over 11,000 lakes in Michigan. Michigan's fresh water is one of its most important resources.

In many ways, Bay City will always be my home. I was born and raised there. Now, Clarkston is my home.

And eight of the last 10 years, home was the Pacific Northwest. I love many things about the Northwest that aren't present in Michigan. On the other hand, my family, old buddies and old stomping grounds are not present in the Northwest.

I remember in junior high reading the short story, "A Man Without a Country." For punishment, a man had to spend the rest of his life at sea and never again set foot in America, his home.

Sometimes, thinking of two places as home (at least I have it narrowed down to two) can be as unsettling as that poor man adrift.

In the most recent issue of Money magazine, Seattle is ranked No. 2 (last year it was No. 1) for "livability" while Detroit is No. 92 (last year it was No. 47). In fact, three of the top five cities chosen were from the Seattle area.

With this in mind, I would like to describe the way I see the pluses (and end with a short wrap-up of minuses) about the Seattle area and Detroit-Oakland County.

Seattle area

+ Mountains: Everyone has heard of Mount St. Helens, which is about 100 miles south of Seattle. But for Seattle area residents, the mountain is Mount Rainier. I've climbed 14,000 foot mountains in Colorado, but Mount Rainier is the most awesome mountain I've ever seen.

+ Ocean: While snow in the Cascades is available about an hour east, the Pacific Ocean is about an hour away west of Seattle. The Washington Coast isn't as pretty as the Oregon Coast, but it contains the largest amount of geoducks (a weird-looking clam) in the world.

+ Downtown Seattle: Seattle has its malls. And once inside them, you may think you're at Oakland Mall or Summit Mall. But when you're in downtown Seattle, you know you're definitely not in downtown Detroit. Downtown Seattle is alive, with plenty of places to shop, eat, see a show, visit a thriving waterfront or go up on the Space Needle.

+ Summer and winter: It drizzles in Seattle throughout the winter, but the temperatures are pleasant. In the summer it's the best place in the world to live, warm during the day, cool at night.

+ Pike's Market: This farmer's market is the most famous place on the waterfront. The best place to buy geoducks, salmon, fruit or some artwork.

+ Ferries: Many people get to work by hopping on ferries. Think of Puget Sound as having several Mackinac Islands (however, cars are allowed) located near Seattle.

+ Carpool lanes: Two or more people in a car can use the far right-hand lane, which helps during rush hour.

+ Economy: The Seattle economy depends on Boeing (Mr. Boeing is originally from Detroit) much the same way Detroit depends on the auto industry. Right now, orders for jets are booming. But if that changes, the Seattle area still has Microsoft, Nintendo and some other diversified businesses.

+ Old movie houses: While Oakland County has one movie theater showing artsy movies (the Maple), Seattle has several and they are shown in old, classic theaters well-preserved inside the city.

+ Lower taxes: Washington State's sales tax is a little higher than Michigan's, but its property taxes are much lower and, get this, there's no state income tax.

+ Bicycle and jogging paths: Michigan is starting to get more of these, but Seattle has had many for years.

+ Fruits, vegetables and trees: The moist conditions make for huge apples, pears, carrots, trees, etc.

+ 'Don't walk' lights: When pedestrians see "don't walk" flashing and there aren't any cars nearby, most people in Seattle still don't walk. Unheard of back east.

- Traffic, Kingdome (for baseball), rain, lack of mass transit, the homeless, rising housing costs, robberies (more than Detroit), influx of Californians, lower pay for teachers (especially college professors), earthquakes.

Detroit - Oakland County

+ Lakes: Minnesota prides itself as the "Land of 10,000 Lakes" but Michigan has 11,000. The hot weather in the summer makes the water warm, great for swimming. The abundance of water in Michigan (along with its aquifers) will probably be a key to its future, especially with forecasts of water shortages around the country.

+ Food: Except for seafood, Detroit and Michigan have a better selection of food in their supermarkets. One reason is the wider variety of ethnic communities in Detroit. Another is Michigan's higher meat standards than most other states.

+ Bottle bill: Overall, Seattle does a better job of recycling, but Washington State does not have a bottle bill. Michigan should be proud of being the first large industrial state to pass such a bill.

+ Tiger Stadium: A great old park. After this season, it will be one of only three old parks left. If Pizza Man Monaghan acts on his ridiculous idea to move out of Tiger Stadium and the fans let him do it, maybe they could air lift the entire historic stadium to Seattle, where they have a better grasp of preservation.

+ Fall and spring: Seattle may have the better winter and summers, but a Michigan fall is more colorful and the springs more appreciated after a cold winter.

+ Christmas: OK, I said winters are better in Seattle. But it's nice to have snow and cold during the few weeks around Christmas.

+ Houses: You can find beautiful expensive homes in any city. However, Michigan has more available houses for a smarter price. And the mid-western style houses (basements are rare out West) are usually a little older and sturdier than those in the West.

+ Vernors: When I first arrived in Seattle, I went into a Dairy Queen and asked for a Boston Cooler. They had never heard of a Boston Cooler or Vernors. Vernors is expanding now throughout the West but it still is difficult to find it there.

+ Outdoor concert theaters: The warm summer nights in Michigan make it ideal weather for outdoor theaters. And a new one will open next year.

+ Henry Ford Hospital: Henry Ford Hospital? About 18 years ago, I nearly died but Dr. Lawrence Warbasse at Henry Ford Hospital probably saved my life. The rest is all gravy.

+ Red Wings: Seattle has three major sports but not NHL hockey (however, Seattle is expected to get a franchise soon in expansion).

+ Greektown: Opah. Stuffed grape leaves, moussaka, etc. 'Nuff said.

+ Farms: Michigan farms beat farms out in the Northwest, in numbers and in size. I think many Michiganders take these farms for granted. A mall's a mall, but not every part of the country has such farms.

- Humidity, snow-cold, murders, driving habits, Bill Bonds, mosquitoes, the homeless, Coleman Young (I'll take Norm Rice over him any day), five hours from Detroit to Mackinac Island, shape of roads.

Space travel is his aim

Third-grader keeps his eyes on the skies

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

At 8 1/2, Jack Thompson Jr. doesn't quite meet the height requirements of an astronaut. But he's preparing for space travel anyway.

The Pine Knob Elementary School third-grader spent a week at a space camp held by the Living Science Foundation at Oakland Community College-Highland Lakes Campus.

He went because "it sounded pretty fun."

"I'm not old enough for the real one yet, ... and I'd like to be an astronaut," he said.

The "real" space camp is for fourth-graders and older kids, he explained.

At the camp, he and others studied such essentials as birds, air pressure, planets, parachutes, the mechanics of flight, a shuttle simulator, astronomy, kite-flying, model rockets, paper airplanes, action-reaction and robotic arms.

He also met a snake named Snuggles, who was friendly, said Jack.

Each day, the children performed physical fitness routines to prepare themselves for the rigors of space.

They weren't hard, said Jack.

"All the exercises are just normal that I do anyway," he said.

The precocious youngster plans to do whatever is necessary to become a real-life astronaut, which means becoming a pilot and studying aerospace engineering, he said.

"It just sounds like a fun thing," said Jack. "I'm interested in space. I have a lot of books about it. I just got a book about stars. It tells about how stars become black holes."

His mother, Jackie — a teacher, said her son has always been interested in the skies.

Jackie and her husband, Jack, a builder, didn't do anything in particular to influence their son, she said.

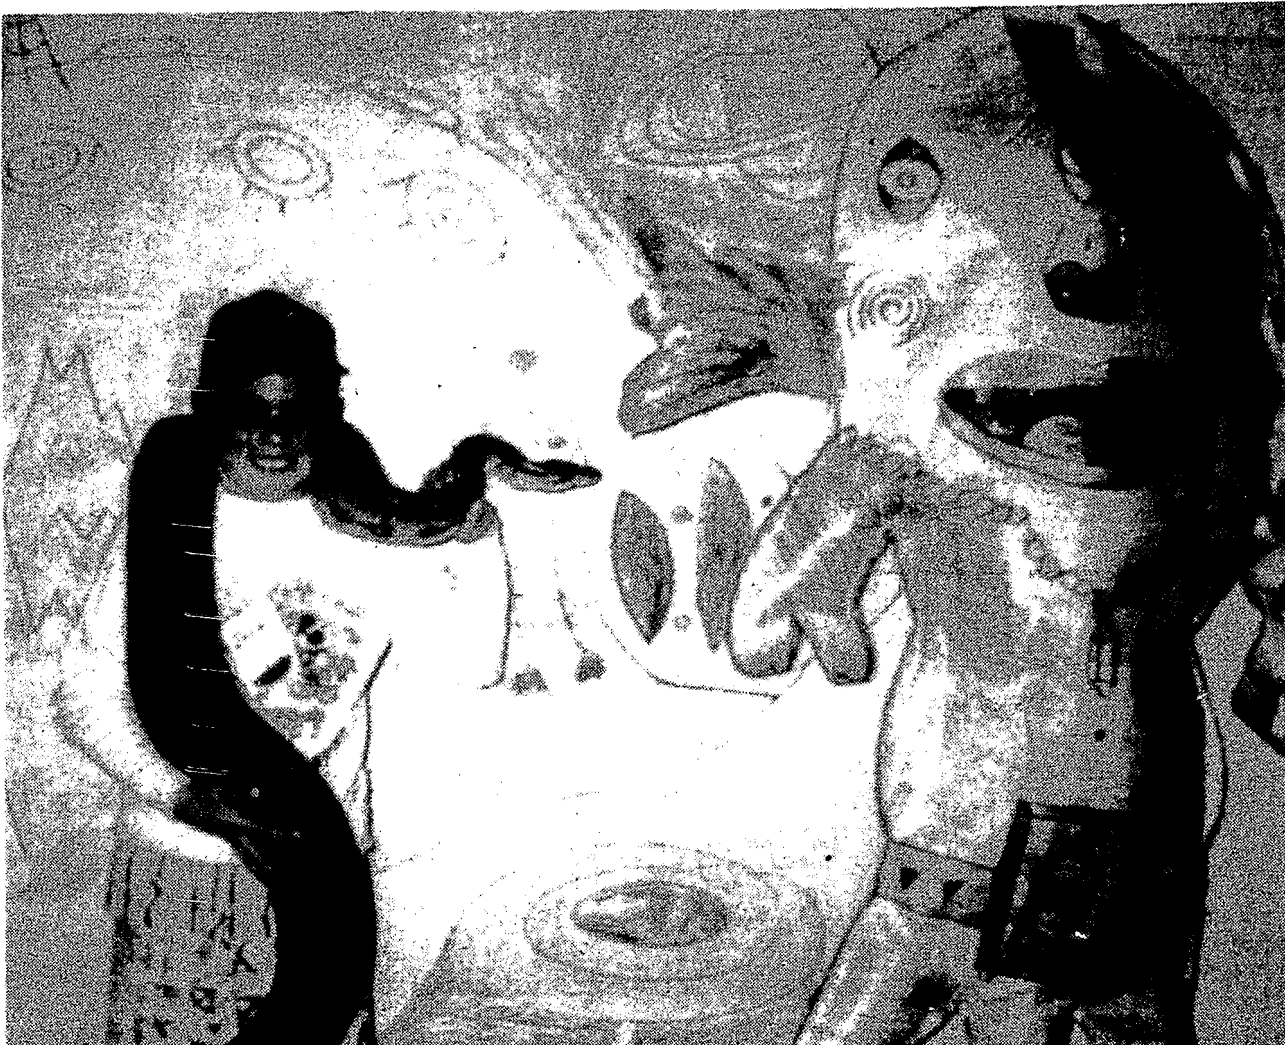

"We follow the shuttles, and we visited the Kennedy Space Center in Florida," she said, her voice trailing in puzzlement.

But even before that, Jack used to "sit on the floor with Legos and make space ships for hours," she said.

He particularly enjoys math, and "his eyes are on the stars every night," she said. "I have no doubt in my mind that he will be in space some day."

Meanwhile, Jack plans to concentrate on the third grade this year and prepare for a NASA space camp in Alabama or Florida next year.

The question, though, is: will NASA be ready for him?

JACK THOMPSON, 8 1/2, of Walters Road, Independence Township, holds Snuggles the python during a Living Science space campe this summer.

Police mill renewal on November ballot

Voters will be asked to renew one mill for the Independence Township police fund in November.

The township board voted 6-0 Aug. 21 to place the proposal on the ballot. Township Treasurer John Lutz was absent.

One mill is $1 for every $1,000 assessed property valuation.

The police fund pays for the services of 12 Oakland County Sheriff's deputies who are under contract to patrol the township. One-mill will raise approximately $400,000 for the fund.

Builders buy Griggs parcel from township

C.B. Custom Builders was awarded a parcel on Griggs Road by the Independence Township Board Aug. 21.

The Independence-based building company purchased a five-sided lot, less than an acre in size, for $21,100. The lot was once part of the Goodrich Farms pumphouse property.

According to Clerk Joan McCrary, a second bid was submitted but it in an improper fashion. The bid was waived by the board, and C.B. Custom builders was given the opportunity to purchase the lot.

OUTDOOR artists (from left) Russ Cobane of Independence Township and Catherine McClung of Dexter join Don Vicek for the unveiling of the Vicek Wildlife Collection in Ann Arbor. Vicek also formed Vicek Wildlife Foundation to support wildlife causes.

Ann Arbor collection includes Cobane's work

An Independence Township wildlife artist is among artists whose work belongs to the Vicek Wildlife Art Collection.

Unveiled Aug. 21 by Don Vicek, president of Domino's Pizza Distribution, the collection will be displayed at World Headquarters for the Commissary Division of Domino's Pizza, Inc., in Ann Arbor.

The Vicek Collection includes prints from the United States Federal Duck Stamp program and features rare "first of country" collection duck prints from Canada and the USSR, plus a number of "first of state" duck prints.

Work by Russ Cobane of the Clarkston area is also included in the collection.

The duck stamp and print program has existed since 1934 and has been used to preserve wetlands as wildlife habitat.

The Great Display

By Georgene Van Antwerp

We ride up the hill each evening, down at Donegal Bay.

To see the Great Display,
We sit in our car and look toward the west.

It's a quiet time of day,
We wait for the great Display of sunsets,
No two are the same.
It's a three dimensional display,
And you ooh and aah at the sight.

Donegal Bay, your sunsets it's true,
Is where God paints the skies in all colors of hue.
For there is not other can paint as you do.

So the Great Artist you are by far,
Will always be on display,
Down in the evenings at Donegal Bay.

Georgene Van Antwerp is a former Clarkston resident who now lives in St. James.

Statewide school bus and bus stop law changes in place for new school year

Legislation aimed at making Michigan's school bus stop law uniform on all roads and street across the state took effect Aug. 15.

The new statute will require motorists to be ready for the changes.

As in the past, when the flashing red lights of the school bus are on, stop and remain stopped until all students are in a safe location.

Previously the red light use was optional for cities, and this caused much confusion. Now all school buses will be operated in the same manner throughout Michigan.

The current law also requires new school buses to be equipped with two overhead flashing amber lights in addition to the two traditional flashing red lights on each end of the bus.

Motorists should proceed with caution and be prepared to stop when these new amber lights are flashing or when the hazard warning lights are blinking.

When red overhead flashing lights are on at the bus stop, all other motorists approaching the bus must stop not closer than 20 feet from the bus and remain stopped until the red signals are turned off.

The law previously required the flashing red lights be turned on as the bus was moving and approaching the stop and allowed motorists to stop 10 feet from the bus when stopped.

If the bus is now stopped off the roadway far enough so vehicles may pass with a full lane and if the yellow lights are blinking on the bus, motorists may pass the stopped bus with caution. Motorists should never pass if their car must cross the center line.

Blue Ribbon Kids group: not just for millages

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Though the school millage issue is past, area parents and volunteers are continuing efforts to support a number of school-related issues.

The Blue Ribbon Kids Committee (BRKC), a group

The Clarkston News Reflections

Wednesday, August 29, 1990 Page 1

known for volunteer efforts before elections, will regularly meet throughout the school year to monitor a variety of education issues.

The group got its roots four or five years ago and has grown in size and intent, says Dale Ryan, chairman of the BRKC.

"After the last millage election, a number of parents expressed concern about whether we would continue to exist," says Ryan.

"We don't want the group perceived as just looking for money for taxes," he adds. "We're going to continue to meet throughout the year to hammer out goals and objectives."

The group hopes to solicit new members and welcomes anyone who wishes to volunteer or to simply learn about the group's activities.

BRKC meetings are planned for 7 p.m. each Tuesday before a regularly scheduled school board meeting. The meetings are held in the board administrative office on Clarkston Road.

Areas of focus include a planning and community growth meeting, where members would gain insight into

"We're going to continue to meet throughout the year to hammer out goals and objectives."

Dale Ryan

township planning commission meetings, chamber meetings, overall growth, library expansion, school building status and school budget status.

In October, the BRKC has organized a town meeting with winners of the Aug. 7 primary to discuss relevant issues facing voters.

Other objectives of the BRKC include monitoring legislative activity, helping the district by informing others, forming committees to study district needs, and working to promote school funding proposals.

In a mission statement created this summer, the committee pledged to serve as advocates of the schools by communicating and supporting issues that affect public education at local, county and state levels.

It formulated three goals and objectives, which include: to promote community awareness and involvement in the resolution of educational issues, to work toward improvements in our school district's programs and facilities, and to continue to communicate with our legislators regarding the educational concerns of our community.

The next BRKC meeting has been scheduled for 7 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 6, in the administrative board office, 6389 Clarkston Road. For more information, call Dale Ryan at 625-5261.

Survey: Sites that accept used motor oil declining

A survey was completed recently of Oakland County sites that participate in the statewide program to recycle used motor oil.

The annual survey by the East Michigan Environmental Action Council (EMEAC) found 76 sites in Oakland County that accept used motor oil.

Under the program, people who change their own oil bring the waste oil to one of the participating collection sites so the oil can be collected and processed for re-use.

The volume of used oil brought to sites in the program has shown a steady increase over time. EMEAC's annual surveys show that about 37,000 gallons of waste oil were collected in 1987-88, while 65,000 gallons were collected in 1988-89. In 1989-90, the figure jumped to 124,000 gallons.

In Oakland County and throughout the state, Meijer, Inc., has been the most popular operator of collection sites. In past years in Oakland County, more oil was delivered to the one Meijer's site on Coolidge in Royal Oak than to all the other sites combined.

However, as of August 1990, Meijer's has stopped participation in the program. At the time of withdrawal, collections at the Royal Oak site were running about 1,200 gallons per week. Meijer's was the last retail chain to withdraw from the program.

In earlier years, Sears and K-Mart had participated for some time and then stopped collections.

The current EMEAC survey has identified 17 other sties in addition to Meijer's that have withdrawn from the program during the past year.

Major reasons for withdrawal include liability and cost. The site operator is liable for damages if the oil collected at his site is contaminated with other substances, such as gasoline or kerosene; or if there is an oil spill.

Members of the public who bring their waste oil to collection sites can contribute to the success of the program by being careful that their waste oil contains no additives of any kind and by using containers that can be sealed for transit, emptied and taken away for re-use.

During the last year, EMEAC has worked to encourage local and municipal governments to help with the collection of waste oil. Oil what is not collected is dumped — into sewers or into the land. And from their it may be carried by rainwater into aquifers where large quantities of groundwater are stored.

Groundwater provides drinking water for many Oakland County residents. One pint of used oil can create an acre-sized slick in surface water, ruining the water for use by either humans or fish.

In addition to avoiding environmental damage, the recycling of used motor oil helps to maintain the supplies of oil available within the United States.

As private operators of oil collection sites find themselves unable to continue with the program, municipalities have begun to open their own sites. This year's list of sites in Oakland County identifies six municipal sites that have opened recently or will open soon.

To get a copy of the updated list of sites in Oakland County, call EMEAC at 258-5188.

Don't forget to inform The Clarkston News about your new ZIP code. Just phone it in at 625-3370, or send it to: The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main St., Clarkston, MI 48346.

Opinion of Bill Myers

Regular IRA saving pays future reward

William A. Myers is a retired Lapeer County editor and investments manager from Boca Raton, Fla.

Advice to the youthful:

While IRA (individual retirement accounts, in case you've been out of the country several years) deductions are limited now if you are in a pension plan. Check with the bank or your tax accountant to see if you still can't make contributions.

For a married person, you can still put in $2,000 if your income is under $40,000; singles, $25,000 tops. Both phase down to zero for the next $10,000 in earnings.

If you can put money into an IRA, for heaven's sake, do so. The full amount is deductible from your income. If your tax rate is 28 percent, bang! you've saved $560, just like that.

If you're not in a pension plan, the old rules apply and there is no top limit on your income - just on the contribution, $2,000.

The $560 saving is just the beginning of the savings. The money in the account goes on earning, tax-deferred, until you take it out.

Let's say you are age 25 and have taken every course your favorite college has to offer, and the old folks at home are hinting you should get a job so they can quit working themselves, and Mother could get a new dress, and Pa could get his shoes half-soleed.

Okay. You have three ways to go.

1. You can spend every nickel you make and borrow a little from indulgent parents. This is the common way to go, and it's easy.

2. You can buy some "growth" stocks from a nice young broker you met while jogging.

3. You can sock away $2,000 a year in an IRA and let it sit there until you are 60 years old. Meanwhile, you will not pay a dime of tax on it all the time it is compounding.

You will do this come hell or high water - put in $2,000 a year.

4. By following No. 3, you have cut down your income tax by $560. Put this in zero coupon tax-free bonds, the first ones to mature when you're age 60. Next year, buy $10,000 more to mature when you're 61.

That $560 tax saving, if put in a 35-year tax-free zero, will buy you $10,000 par value of bonds, assuming an 8.5 percent rate. No tax now or when they mature.

Do this for just 20 years, from 25 until you're 45. That will give you a $10,000 piece of change every year for 20 years starting when you're 60. That takes you up to 80.

Now we get into the more important money - the $2,000 you stash away into an IRA every year. Do this for just 20 years, too - $2,000 a year into taxable zero coupon bonds to mature 35 years out, when you're 60.

Figure a shade more interest on these bonds because they're taxable (not taxable now but when you withdraw the funds a long time hence). Say 9.5 percent interest in some corporate zeros.

In 35 years at this rate, do you know what you'll get when the first ones come due, the ones you bought when you were 25? They'll be worth $52,000. Wow!

Even after, say, 28 percent tax, amounting to about $14,500, you'll still have a nice bit left over - $37,500. But you don't have to pull out the whole $52,000; in fact, you don't have to pull out any of it if you don't want to, until you're 70½ years old.

That is a lovely decision for you to make: whether to spend $62,000 (the $52,000 from the IRA plus the $10,000 from your tax-free zeros) that first year of retirement or let'er ride for a while.

Your Social Security will cut in at age 62, say $12,000 a year.

At this point, 60 may seem aged. It really isn't. You'll still have a lot of beans left in the jar. Most of the world leaders are past 60 and going strong.

You will have an after-tax income of $47,500 a year (plus Social Security) for the next 20 years, until you're 80. After that, you're on your own.

All this $47,500 per year from age 60 to age 80 comes from foregoing spending $2,000 of your income when you're 25 and doing this for 20 years of your prime time.

We'll say it again: save $2,000 a year for 20 years, put it in zero coupon bonds maturing when you're 60. Then you'll have a sweet little income of $47,500 (plus Social Security).

By that time, the mortgage ought to be paid off, the kids out of college. Just possibly, you may have saved a little more on the side and maybe inherited a little cash, too.

Take care when marinating meat

Marinating meat before cooking is an easy way to tenderize and flavor foods.

"Foods must be kept refrigerated during this time to avoid the possibility of food poisoning," says Sylvia Treitman, home economist of the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service.

For tenderizing to occur, a marinade must contain some type of acidic ingredient such as lemon juice, wine, vinegar or yogurt. The meat is then allowed to soak in the liquid for several hours or overnight. The acid penetrates meat fibers, helping to tenderize them.

Also, meat needs about six hours of marinating or longer. However, over 24 hours may cause meat to become mushy, even though the safety will not be affected as long as it was kept refrigerated.

Some tips for using marinades safely:

- Always marinate meat or poultry in refrigerator, never at room temperature.
- Never put meat or poultry back into dish containing raw marinade. Also, never reuse leftover marinade.
- Allow 1/4 to 1/2 cup marinade for each 1-2 pounds of meat.
- Use a heavy-duty plastic bag, glass or stainless steel dish, rather than aluminum or other metal as some metals may react with acid in marinade and cause a metal taste.

■ Turn meat occasionally during marinade.

For a recipe sheet on marinades, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service, 1200 N. Telegraph Rd., Pontiac, Mi 48341.

Call the Food and Nutrition Hotline 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday for information on food and nutrition.

Working adults needed to share seniors' homes

If you're a professional person looking for comfortable, affordable and safe housing, you may be interested in a new program called HomeShare.

Offered through Oakland Livingston Human Service Agency (OLHSA), the program can match you with a compatible senior citizen who needs financial help but is capable of caring for her or himself.

To apply, contact Dolores Emeny at 858-5132. You will be interviewed about your housing needs, preferences, concerns and expectations so an appropriate match can be made.

Acting Waterford chief hails from Independence

Larry Strong of Independence Township was appointed acting superintendent of the Waterford School District in August.

Strong, director of instruction and staff development, replaces Alton W. Cowan, who resigned as superintendent of the district earlier in August.

"It is with deep regret that the board accepted the resignation of Dr. Cowan," said board president William H. Thurman in a press release.

"However, we feel confident in selecting Dr. Strong to fill this spot in an acting capacity," he said.

The board decided to conduct a national search to fill the superintendent's post.

Strong was happy with his interim position, according to statements in the same press release.

"I am extremely pleased to have this opportunity to work with the board, administration, staff and community as this district moves forward to meet the challenges of the 21st century," said Strong.

Strong began his career as a teacher with the Waterford School District in 1965.

He left to become principal in the Corunna Public School District in 1968 and returned the following year to accept a principalship in Waterford.

He served as director of special projects for five years before being appointed director of instruction and staff development, the position he currently holds. Strong also supervises the compensatory education program.

Strong received his bachelor of science degree from Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, in 1965 and his master's degree from Wayne State University, Detroit, in 1968.

He earned his education specialist degree from Michigan State University, East Lansing, in 1974 and the following year his doctoral degree. Strong holds elementary and secondary certification.

Among his past honors, Strong was selected outstanding young educator by the Michigan Jaycees in 1973.

Strong is married to Janet, principal of Beaumont Elementary School. His son and daughter, who now attend MSU, are graduates of the Waterford School District.

In case you were confused by the Aug. 1 Microwave Plus column, here is a corrected version:

The rain caused John Bisha's benefit concert for the Clarkston Conservatory to move from his garden on Deer Lake to a lounge at Colombiere Center.

The rain didn't, however, dampen the style of the illustrious musicians or the appreciation of the audience.

After the performance by members of the Clarkston Quartet, Robert Eshaki, the new owner of Rudy's Market in Clarkston, donated an artful buffet for people attending the concert.

The refreshments included assorted cheeses and crackers; Middle Eastern appetizers of tabbouleh, spinach pie and hummus; fresh strawberries with a chocolate dipping sauce; stuffed mushrooms; and a unique Camembert with peaches and brandy prepared and served by Chef Kelly Lewton.

Eshaki served a memorable Chardonnay from his wine collection at Rudy's.

TABBOULEH

- 1 cup cracked wheat
- 5 bunches of parsley, cut very fine
- 1 green onion, cut fine
- 2 tomatoes, diced
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1/4 cup olive oil
- Mini pita bread

1. Soak the cracked wheat in cold water for 20 minutes.

2. Meanwhile, chop the parsley very fine by hand or using a food processor. Cut the green onions and dice the tomatoes.

3. Drain water from the cracked wheat; mix in parsley, onions, tomatoes, lemon juice, olive oil. Add salt and red pepper to taste. Serve with pita bread.

CHEF KELLY'S CAMEMBERT-BRIE TOLA

- 1 (3-pound) round Camembert

- 2 teaspoons brandy

- Chopped walnuts

- Fresh peaches, sliced

- Peach or apricot jelly

- Crackers, unsalted

1. Slice the cheese round through the middle in half so you have two cheese rounds.

2. Drizzle bottom round with brandy. Sprinkle with enough chopped walnuts to cover. Place fresh peach slices over walnuts.

3. Place cheese top over bottom. Glaze with peach jelly. Garnish top with walnuts and peach slices. Warm to room temperature in a chafing dish or at low power in the microwave. Serve with crackers.

- Variations: Choose any fresh fruit and jelly for filling and glazing the Camembert

Parents can help overweight children be healthy

Even in today's health-conscious society, obesity in our youth is a growing problem.

Many of the leading causes for overweight children can be genetics, family patterns of overeating, a diet high in fat and calories, too much television viewing and not getting enough physical activity. The main concern: heavy kids are less healthy.

Being a chubby child or overweight teen is no fun.

Aside from the teasing they get from their peers, these youngsters are not establishing good eating habits for a healthy lifestyle in the years to come.

With the school year about to begin, healthy eating becomes even more important. Boys and girls grow and change rapidly and need nutritious, well-balanced meals to help them perform their best at school and in sports. Eating properly can directly affect their weight, growth and energy level.

"Feeling good about yourself as you're growing up has such an effect on your self-esteem," says Florine Mark, area director of Weight Watchers.

"I was overweight as a teen-ager. The kids at school called me 'Fat Flo.' I just wish I knew then what I know now about healthy eating and how much better it makes you feel."

Below are Weight Watchers tips for parents to help their overweight child.

- Provide a variety of foods that are nutritious.
 - Build your child's self-esteem at the same time you encourage good food and exercise habits.
 - Let your children participate in menu decisions even if that requires compromises.
 - Gradually remove snacks and junk food from your kitchen.
 - Give rewards other than food for good behavior.
 - Encourage your child to exercise and help your child to have fun being active.
 - Never bribe a child with food or bribe them to eat.
 - Provide a healthy, tasty snack when your child comes home from school.
 - Pack a healthy brown bag lunch for your child to take to school.
 - Establish family meal times. Kids need the nutrition and the family interaction.
 - Restrict the amount of time you allow your child to watch television. Metabolism decreases and snacking increases in front of the television.
- Remember that positive reinforcement is important. If you show interest in your child's efforts to lose weight, they are much more likely to be successful.

Healthy eating may help teen-agers

What teens eat can make a big difference in how they look and feel, according to officials from Weight Watchers.

As teen-agers, people grow and change rapidly. Eating nutritiously can help them be the best they can be. Listed below are tips for teens from Weight Watchers.

■ Ask your parents to help you — and themselves — eat healthier by cleaning out the refrigerator and cupboards. Get rid of all the cookies, chips, munchies and tempting high-fat, high-calorie foods. Keep fresh fruit, popcorn, whole-grain crackers and frozen juice bars handy for healthy snacks.

■ Fit in some physical activity after school and on weekends. Take your dog for a daily walk, ride your bike, go swimming, skating — most of all, make your exercise activity fun. If you enjoy it, you'll stick with it.

■ Pack a healthy brown bag lunch to take to school. School cafeteria food can be high in fat, and vending machine snacks are often high in calories and low in nutrition.

■ Remember that metabolism decreases and snacking increases in front of the television. Watch TV only when your favorite shows are on. If you feel the need to munch in front of the TV, snack on unbuttered popcorn and cut-up raw vegetables with a low-calorie dip.

■ Eat a variety of foods each day, focusing on fruits, vegetables, breads and cereals (not the sugar kind).

■ Try new foods. You'll never know if you like them until you try. Start out with "just a taste" the first time.

■ Eat regularly scheduled meals when possible.

■ Rather than rewarding yourself with food, choose non-food treats you enjoy, such as clothes, jewelry, records or magazines.

■ Share with a friend. If an ice cream sundae sounds too good to pass up on a hot afternoon, share it with a friend or family member. This way you can enjoy it without being tempted to eat the whole thing.

■ Don't skip breakfast. You need to eat in the morning to supply your body with proper nutrients and energy.

■ Reach for a healthy, tasty snack when you get home from school. A healthful snack helps you to avoid overeating later.

■ Ask your parents to include you on the weekly menu planning. Cooking can be fun, too. Offer to be in charge of fixing the vegetables one night, or offer to make a healthy dessert.

■ Don't deny yourself any certain food. An occasional hot dog or ice cream cone will do no harm.

Good nutrition can improve your appearance, school and athletic performance and health. Some of the choices you make now may affect your health and weight for the rest of your life.

Does someone on your team consistently hit home runs, score lots of goals or pile up lots of serving aces? We'd like to know at The Clarkston News. 625-3370

Tips to reduce diseases in home-grown tomatoes

The first big step in avoiding tomato diseases in the home garden is purchasing disease-resistant varieties.

Don't despair if you've already planted less resistant varieties, however. You can still follow certain practices that help reduce disease problems.

Chris Stephens, extension plant pathologist at Michigan State University, offers these tips:

- Avoid overhead sprinkler irrigation, especially late in the day. Many plant diseases need the presence of moisture on plant foliage to get established. Overhead watering, especially in the evening, leaves plant foliage wet for hours. Use trickle irrigation or other surface watering methods.

- Do not handle plants when they're wet. Handling may spread disease organisms from plant to plant.

- Control weeds in and around the garden. Weeds not only compete with crop plants for water, sunlight and nutrients, but they also serve as hosts for insects and disease organisms.

- Control insects, especially aphids, that may transmit disease organisms from plant to plant.

- Do not smoke or use other tobacco products while working in the garden. Tobacco can be a source of virus diseases.

Do not smoke or use other tobacco products while working in the garden. Tobacco can be a source of virus diseases.

- Use mulches (plastic or organic) to get fruits off the ground and reduce problems with ground rot.

Mulching will also help control weeds and regulate soil moisture and help reduce problems with blossom end rot of fruits.

- Remove abnormal plants as soon as you notice them to minimize the opportunity for diseases to spread.

Wash hands and tools with a detergent after handling diseased plants.

- Apply a recommended fungicide according to label directions at the first sign of leaf spot diseases.

- In the fall, remove and destroy or till under all plant refuse. Don't attempt to dispose of diseased plant materials by composting — if the pile doesn't get hot enough to destroy the disease organisms, the compost may be a source of infection in next year's garden.

"Next year, rotate your tomato plants into an area of the garden where tomatoes haven't grown for at least two or three years," Stephens advises. "This will prevent the carryover of soil-borne disease pathogens such as Alternaria leaf and fruit rot that overwinter in the soil."

Purchase only vigorous, healthy-looking plants from a reliable supplier, and look for varieties with built-in disease resistance.

Plant them in an area that receives full sun so plants grow vigorously and dry off quickly after rain or irrigation.

These practices are no guarantee of a disease-free garden, but they will go a long way toward reducing disease problems, Stephens says.

Earth tip

Home heating is responsible for emitting 350 million tons of carbon into the atmosphere every year, which means over a billion tons of the most prevalent greenhouse gas, carbon dioxide. About 12 percent of U.S. emissions of sulfur oxide and nitrogen oxide (key causes of acid rain) come from home heating. A house heated with electricity from a coal-fired plant is responsible for the release into the air of a couple hundred pounds of nitrogen oxides and as much as 400-500 pounds of sulfur oxides each year, creating over 1,500 pounds worth of acid rain.

Clarkston's autumn splendor captured in cards

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

While growth rages all around, George Skrubbs has worked to preserve parts of Clarkston for eternity.

Skrubbs has captured images of the village in photographs and has had them printed onto high-quality greeting cards.

The scenes, five in all, are done in dramatic black and white and brilliant color.

One depicts Clarkston by air at the height of fall. Another captures the village as reflected in the Mill Pond. The rambling Main Street Antiques building is portrayed in its quaint village setting. A stark black and white photo highlights the unique architectural detail in The Clarkston News building. And a Holcomb Road home sets off a huge Maple tree at the peak of autumn.

Skrubbs, a lifelong resident of Michigan, created the cards as a tribute, on the eve of his move to New Mexico.

"I wanted to leave something that all the people in town could enjoy," Skrubbs says. "Sort of like a baby legacy."

The space inside the cards is blank, which allows a variety of uses.

"I could see them being used by an organization that can benefit from the sale of the cards," Skrubbs says. "If they can all be put on that kind of philanthropic bases, that would be ideal."

CLARKSTON photographer George Skrubbs captured five village landmarks for a series of cards depicting the area. The scenes, photographed with Skrubbs's Linhof 4x5 camera, can be purchased at Main Street Antiques, Hallman's Apothecary and Tierra Gifts, all in Clarkston.

The scenes would also bring smiles of recognition to anyone who has known Clarkston but currently lives somewhere else, Skrubbs points out.

The cards hit the store shelves for the first time Aug. 21, personally delivered by Skrubbs.

"I've never done this before — I feel like the morning milkman leaving the morning milk," he laughs.

The scenic cards may be purchased at Hallman Apothecary, Main Street Antiques and Country Store, and Tierra Arts, all in downtown Clarkston, of course.

Though he has never shown or sold his work, photography has been a lifelong hobby for Skrubbs.

"My father was interested in photography; he had an old Kodak," Skrubbs recalls. "At Christmas the powder would be ignited for the flash, and we'd all be seen standing around with eyes startled."

His father gave him the old camera, and during his teen years Skrubbs worked as a photographer for the high school newspaper and yearbook in Grosse Pointe.

Before he was sent overseas during World War II, Skrubbs bought a new camera. The proprietor told him the camera would be mailed to him, and throughout the whole war he never received it.

When he returned to the states he looked up the store owner and got his camera — a 35mm Leica, one of the best around.

Skrubbs studied architect and design, eventually obtaining his master's degree at Harvard. For years, he worked for Oakland County as its first planner.

After retiring, photography captured his interest again. He took most of the photography classes at Oakland Community College and began to build a portfolio.

Skrubbs's photographic interests are "eclectic."

From a pile of matted photographs in his Deer Ridge Drive, Independence Township, kitchen, Skrubbs displays beautiful scenes in color as well as black and white.

One is of Wells Cathedral in England, Skrubbs's favorite structure. Another shows two old gas pumps, overgrown and unused. A pile of shells is captured in both color and black and white.

Skrubbs moved to Clarkston on the advice of his good friend, Jean Saile, a former Clarkston News editor. He turned his attention to the photographic interest of the village, its places and its people.

"I began to realize that all I had were buildings," Skrubbs relates. "I made an appointment at the fire station and asked the chief if he would pose."

"I had the camera poised in the middle of the street, and he came out, going into the sunlight," Skrubbs continues. "I put up my hand, he stopped the fire truck and leaned out the door to ask what's wrong — and that's the expression I wanted."

Skrubbs took the picture at that exact moment.

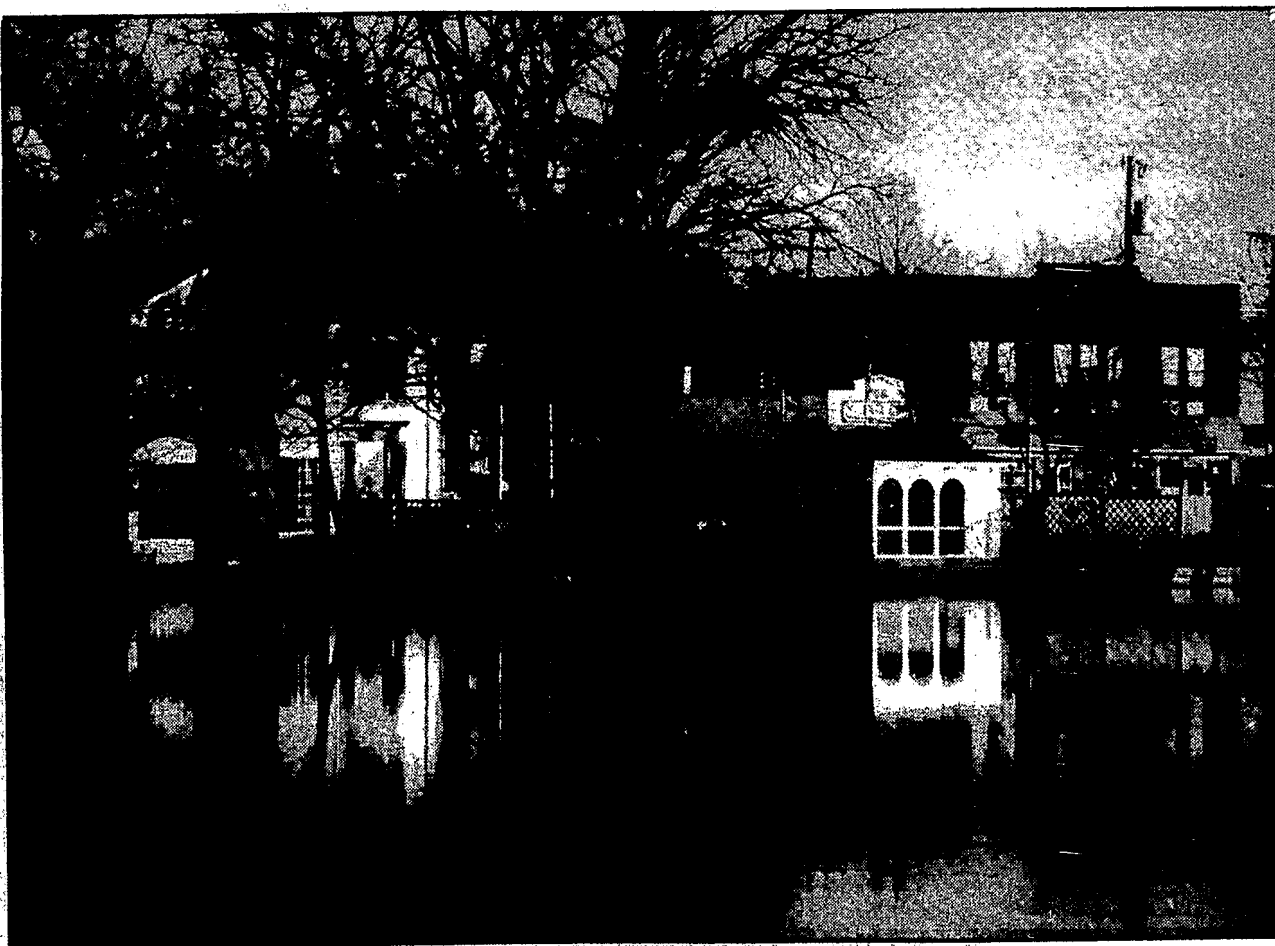

Skrubbs has been hesitant to display his work until now because he "never felt they were good enough."

The depictions of Clarkston are not only scenic, the printing is of high quality, as well. The photos were screened at 200 dots per inch (A newspaper photo, by comparison, uses about 80 dots per inch).

Skrubbs uses the highest quality paper for his cards and has chosen Strathmore Envelopes, also high quality.

The rest is Clarkston's charm and Mother Nature's talent.

"Mother Nature has the most incredible paint brush," Skrubbs concludes.

PHOTOGRAPHER George Skrubbs has captured the essence of Clarkston in pictures and had them printed into cards. The set of five, a variety of village landmarks, can be purchased from area stores for $9 a set. Skrubbs completed the project as a tribute.

Nimble at 90

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Jewel Flinkard is no spring chicken, but the description suits this 90-year-old surprisingly well.

On an overcast August day last week, she was found jaunting down Cherrywood in Springfield Township, where she lives.

Over the protests of her son, daughter and daughter-in-law, who were visiting, she was out to get the day's mail.

This is just the sort of determination she has, the three explain.

"The other day I walked in here and found her up on the chair changing a lightbulb," exclaims son Dempsey, 59.

And that's not all. Behind the home that Jewel tends is a large garden, which she plows, weeds and harvests unaided. Her laundry hangs from outdoor clothes lines, where she has hung it to dry.

Jewel is hard of hearing, but as she moves closer to hear what is being said, her eyes are bright and alive. Her welcoming squeeze on the arm is sturdy and strong.

On this day, Jewel is full of details about her 90th birthday party, held a few days earlier in her home.

It rained, she reveals, but the 82 people who attended managed to have a good time anyway.

The party was attended by a good number of Jewel's 20 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren.

One of her younger offshoots even claimed to be her great-great-great-grandchild, which prompted Jewel to react in mock dismay.

"Who's telling him that!" she demands, feigning concern about her age.

Born in August of 1900, Jewel spent most of her life in Arkansas, fielding cotton.

"I've worked hard like a monkey all my life," Jewel reveals. "I didn't love it, but that was my life."

And a long, happy one it has become.

TURNING 90 doesn't slow down Jewel Flinkard of Springfield Township. Each year she plows the huge garden behind her home and keeps house for herself. Eighty-two of her friends and family members gathered at her house Aug. 19 to celebrate her 90 years of very active living.

Ashley
Ball

HA! HA! I'm back!

It was a great summer! I'm happy to tell you that I lived in France for six weeks, I won a Jeep in the Dr. Pepper pop top contest, and I even got to meet Tom Cruise at my aunt's ocean-side party in Malibu!

I'm happy to tell you this, even though NONE OF IT'S TRUE!

But don't think my summer was without highlights. Not for a minute! I had my share of excitement, like the day my Back-To-School issue of Seventeen magazine arrived, chock full of all the new looks — catsuits, equestrian outfits and brightly-colored, free-flowing Mexican poncho coats.

But even the fashion pages of Seventeen paled a few days later when the Back-To-School issue of The Clarkston News hit the streets, featuring, among other fast-track dressers, that fifth-grade hunk, Jon Meloche.

And I was impressed, as I am sure you were, with the upscale fashion knowledge Editor Julie Campe demonstrated in that issue. But I wasn't surprised, not for a minute.

You see, Julie and her reporters are hardly Clark Kents who go around in dowdy red capes they find in phone booths. No, sir!

They are clothes hounds — every one of them. And FASHIONABLE! Well, let me tell you, they lead the pack.

When I returned to the office last week to work on my first column for the new season, the whole staff was hard at work — and all dressed up in their new fall duds.

I noticed Julie first, draped over her chair in a slinky little leopard-print catsuit with cat-like ears on a tight-fitting hood. She later admitted that she got the idea from the queen of back-to-school fashion herself, Ms. Jan Gabier, the assistant principal of Clarkston Junior High School, who had purchased a similar outfit in gold lame to wear the first day of school.

"It just looked so hot on her," said Julie, "that I just had to get one for myself!"

Just then, a tall, lean, macho man with a mustache swaggered into the office and slapped a riding crop down sharply on the desk next to me. I turned.

"Jim!" I exclaimed, hardly recognizing sportswriter James Gibowski. After we exchanged hi's and how-are-you's, I asked him about his new "look".

"This," he explained as he carefully picked a piece of lint from his impeccably pressed jacket, "is the equestrian look."

"It's really big this fall," he said, resting the heel of his shiny leather knee-high riding boot on the edge of the desk next to the crop.

I looked his outfit over. It was certainly flashy, but I couldn't remember, during the several years I've been taking riding lessons, ever seeing anyone show up at the barn in a red blazer, yellow flowered vest, striped shirt, and white riding breeches.

But I had to admit, he did look flashy.

But the big fashion news came from reporter Curt McAllister. I should tell you, however, that Curt is the rowdy one at the office — the risk-taker. I'M NOT KIDDING. I once saw him drink milk from a carton whose expiration date was two days old. (Kids — don't ever try this at home!)

Anyway, Curt, too, was wearing tall leather riding boots, but his were paired up with a humongous oversized Navajo-ish blanket coat in huge red and green plaid.

"All the fashion magazines call this look the new American male nonchalance," Curt assured me.

Nonchalance? You've got to be kidding! It looked like CHRISTMAS!

After the usual office chit-chat, I settled into my desk and the routine of turning out my column. So they dress a little weird — so what. They're lots of fun and really nice.

It was great to be back, I thought to myself, as I adjusted my black leather Mexican bullet belt over my shredded Levi skirt. I turned up the brim of my rhinestone-studded purple silk baseball cap, and began typing in my fingerless white chantilly lace gloves with ruffles at the wrist.

It's tough, sometimes, being the only person in the office dressed in ordinary office attire.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

HOW MUCH WILL BANK LEND?

QUESTION: My family income is $30,000 a year. How much of a mortgage can I expect a bank to lend me?

ANSWER: If you go by the rule-of-thumb guidelines (25%-28% of gross income), you would normally expect to pay up to a limit of $625 per month on your mortgage. But this is a very rough rule-of thumb. You may qualify for more or less depending on other variables.

There is more than your income to consider. What is your past credit history? What amount of debt do you now owe? What is the appraised value of the property? The mortgage decision will be based on the COMBINATION.

HOW MUCH MONEY can you expect a bank to loan you if your family income is $30,000 a year?

Pet of the Week

Short but sweet

The mighty Samson awaits adoption at the Michigan Humane Society.

He's a German shepherd mix, and a shelter worker said his legs are so short that he might be part dachshund.

Samson, 6 months, likes dogs, cats and children and is already housebroken.

His $60 adoption fee includes neutering.

Samson can be adopted from the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Heights, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

—By Sandra G. Conlen

SAMSON'S legs may be short, but he's long on personality.

OFFICIAL NOTICE

Charter Township of Independence NOTICE OF PROPOSED ORDINANCE

At a regular meeting of the Township Board of the Charter Township of Independence held on August 21, 1990, the Board proposed an ordinance to be added to the Township's Zoning Ordinance #83.

The proposed ordinance pertains to Planned Residential Developments.

STATE OF MICHIGAN COUNTY OF OAKLAND CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE ORDINANCE NO.

TEXT AMENDMENT TO ZONING ORDINANCE
(Creation of New Planned Residential Development, PRD)
An Ordinance to amend Ordinance No. 83, as amended, the Charter Township of Independence Zoning Ordinance, as amended, for the purpose of creating a new Article XXVI, Planned Residential Development, and to amend other provisions in the zoning ordinance for consistency with such new Article. THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE ORDAINS AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1 of Ordinance
Article IV, Section 4.01, shall be amended by adding at the end of such section the following:

PRD Planned Residential Development

Section 2 of Ordinance
A new Article XXVI shall be added, reading as set forth on the attached sheets incorporated as part of this Ordinance by reference.

Section 3 of Ordinance
Except as expressly set forth above, the zoning ordinance shall remain in full force and effect.

Section 4 of Ordinance
The provisions of this Ordinance are hereby ordered to take effect immediately upon publication in the manner prescribed by law.

ARTICLE XXVI. PLANNED RESIDENTIAL DEVELOPMENT
The provisions of this Article provide enabling authority and standards for the submission, review and approval of an application for a Planned Residential Development which, for purposes of this Ordinance, shall be a special form of planland unit development, distinct from the PUD authorized in Article XXV. Classification of property under this Article shall require a legislative enactment to amend the zoning ordinance so as to classify particular property Planned Residential District. It is the intent of this Article to authorize the use of land, water and natural resources in a manner which encourages the reservation and preservation of large areas of open space, conserves natural resources, and promotes the development of housing enhanced by the inclusion of open space and active and/or passive recreation planned as an accessory part of the development.

Sec. 26.01. PRD Qualification.
To qualify for approval under this Article, the applicant must make a clear demonstration of all the following:

(1) The property shall be situated in a residential zoning district.

(2) The property shall be a contiguous parcel of land with a minimum of 160 acres in area.

(3) When completed, the development shall have twenty percent of the gross acreage in the development devoted to open space, which shall remain in its natural state and/or be restricted for use for active and/or passive outdoor recreational purposes harmonious with peaceful, single-family residential uses in and surrounding the development. Such open space shall not consist of yard areas adjacent to buildings.

(4) The density of residential units in the overall development shall be a maximum of one unit per gross acre.

(5) The development shall not result in an unreasonable burden upon public services and/or facilities in relation to the burden which would be imposed if the land were developed and used for a use permitted as of right in the zoning district applicable at the time of making application for rezoning to PRD District.

(6) The development shall not impose an unreasonable burden upon the subject and/or surrounding properties, taking into consideration economic, aesthetic, traffic, noise and other applicable and relevant planning and/or engineering considerations.

(7) The development shall not be likely to unreasonably impair or destroy the air, land, water or other natural resources.

(8) The development shall be consistent with the public health, safety and general welfare.

(9) The development shall not have a materially adverse impact upon the Township master land use plan, as amended, and shall be consistent with the intent and spirit of this article.

(10) The development shall be under single ownership and/or control such that there is a single person or entity having responsibility for completing the project in conformity with this article. This provision shall not prohibit a transfer of ownership and/or control upon due notice to the director of building and planning, provided, however, if such a transfer occurs prior to completion of the project, such transfer must be made to a single person or entity having responsibility for completing the project in conformity with this Article.

Sec. 26.02. Permitted Uses.

(1) The principal permitted use in this district shall be for single family residential dwellings, with a maximum density in the overall development of one unit per gross acre. Such residential dwellings shall be detached units, provided, single-family dwelling units attached by way of common wall shall be permitted, but shall constitute not more than twenty-five (25) percent of the total number of dwelling units in the project. For purposes of regulations to govern such attached units, Article XIII. of this Ordinance (Single-Family Attached) shall apply, except that the Township Board may grant deviations to such regulations in the same manner as provided in Section 26.03 of this Article.

(2) Accessory uses which are customarily associated with single-family residential uses shall be permitted, including attached garage.

(3) In addition, accessory recreational use and/or open space shall be permitted, including passive open space and recreational usage, and including active recreational usage, such as golf club use, which does not result in off-site impact of noise, traffic or other impacts materially beyond the off-site impacts customarily expected in the surrounding area, taking into consideration land usage and zoning classification in such surrounding area.

Sec. 26.03. Project Design Standards.

The Township Board shall review the proposed development, after recommendation of the Planning Commission, based upon the following design standards:

(1) All regulations applicable to lot width, setback, parking, and the like, excepting lot size, shall be as set forth in this Ordinance for the R-1R District regulations. The Township Board, in its discretion, shall resolve all ambiguities as to applicable regulations. Notwithstanding the immediately preceding provision of this paragraph, deviations with respect to such regulations may be granted as part of the overall approval of the planned residential development, provided there are features or elements deemed adequate by the Township Board designed into the project plan for the purpose of achieving the objectives intended to be accomplished with respect to each of the requirements or regulations from which a deviation is sought, i.e., where deviations in the ordinance regulations are made, there may be a resulting loss of legally required regulatory provisions designed for the promotion and/or protection of the public health, safety and welfare. In the case of each deviation, adequate alternative mechanisms designed into the project which replace or obviate the need for such legally required devices must be proposed.

(2) The development shall be designed so as to promote preservation of natural features. In the interpretation of this provision, natural resources and natural features may be impaired or destroyed only if it is in the public interest, the benefit which would be reasonably expected to accrue from the proposal shall be balanced against the reasonably foreseeable detriments of the activity, taking into consideration the local, state and national concern for the protection and preservation of natural resources and natural features, taking into account the provisions and standards of Act 127 of the Public Acts of 1970, as amended, the Michigan Environmental Protection Act.

(3) There shall be a perimeter setback and berming, as found to be necessary by the Township Board, for the purpose of buffering the development in relation to surrounding properties. The dimension of the perimeter setback shall be established in the discretion of the Township Board, taking into consideration the use or uses, and zoning classifications, in and adjacent to the development. The setback distance need not be uniform at all points on the perimeter of the development.

(4) Development design shall meet or exceed all standards for single-family residential developments in the Township.

(5) Where feasible, there shall be underground installation of utilities, including electricity and telephone.

(6) Signage, lighting, landscaping, building materials for the exterior of all structures, and other features of the project, shall be designed and completed with the objective of achieving an integrated and controlled development, consistent with the character of the community, surrounding development or developments, and the natural features of the area.

(7) Noise reduction and visual screening mechanisms, such as earthen and/or landscape berms and/or decorative walls, shall be employed where and as determined by the Township Board. The Township Board, in its discretion, shall review and approve of the design and location of such mechanisms in regard to maximizing, to a reasonable extent, the achievement of the screening objectives in those cases where the Township Board determines that such mechanisms would be appropriate in order to prevent greater impacts than would occur in connection with a use permitted as of right in the zoning district in which the property is situated prior to the reclassification under this district.

Sec. 26.04. Procedure For Review and Approval.

(1) In general.

The procedure for review and approval of a PRD shall be a two part process. The first part shall be application and approval of a Concept Development Plan, which requires a legislative enactment amending the zoning ordinance so as to classify the property to Planned Residential District. Such action, if and when approved, shall confer upon the applicant concept approval for the length of time established by the Township Board in the amendatory ordinance granting the PRD designation for the property. The duration of the effectiveness of concept approval shall be determined in relation to the size of the property and in relation to the anticipated time for development and marketing, all taking into consideration the probability of a change in law or ordinance which would bear upon approval of the Concept Development Plan. Upon application prior to the expiration of the Concept Development Plan, the Township Board may extend the effectiveness of the Concept Development Plan on a year-to-year basis. The second part of the review and approval process shall be the application for and approval of a Final Development Plan for the entire project, or for any one or more phases of the project. Final Development Plan approval requires the grant of special land use and site plan approval, to be approved by the Township Board following recommendation of the Planning Commission.

(2) Concept Development Plan Approval.

(a) Prior to submission of an application for Planned Residential Development Approval, the applicant shall meet with the Directors of the Department of Building and Planning and consultants as deemed appropriate by the Township. The applicant shall present at such conference, or conferences, at least a sketch plan of the proposed Planned Residential Development, as well as the following information: a legal description of the property in question; the total number of residential units; the known deviations from the ordinance regulations to be sought; the number of acres to be preserved as open or recreational space and intended uses of such space; and all known natural resources and natural features to be preserved.

(b) Thereafter, 13 copies of a Concept Development Plan, including site plan, conforming with the application provisions set forth below shall be submitted within 90 days of the pre-application conference required in the immediately preceding paragraph. Such submission shall be made to the Director of Planning, who shall present the same to the Planning Commission for consideration at a regular or special meeting.

(c) The Planning Commission shall review the Concept Development Plan for preliminary review, and shall be entitled to make reasonable inquiries of and receive answers from the applicant. Following review, the Planning Commission shall provide the applicant with written comments, which shall be part of the official minutes of the Planning Commission. Such action on the part of the Planning Commission shall vest no rights in the applicant inasmuch as the specific details of an ultimately approved project are at the very essence of a Planned Residential Development.

(d) Following preliminary review by the Planning Commission action referenced in the immediately preceding paragraph, the applicant shall submit to the Director of Planning 13 copies of a proposed Concept Development Commission during preliminary review, and conforming with the application provision set forth below. This Plan shall constitute an application to amend the zoning ordinance, and shall be noticed for public hearing before the Planning Commission, and otherwise acted upon by the Planning Commission, the County and the Township Board, in the manner provided by law for the amendment of the Zoning Ordinance.

(e) The application for Concept Development Plan approval shall include the following information and materials:

1) Development Concept: A Summary explanation of the development concept of the proposed planned residential development. The development concept shall describe the project and outline the basis for PRD qualification consistent with Section 26.01.

2) Density.

- i. Overall maximum.
- ii. Maximum for each proposed phase.

3) Road System.

i. General description of road system and circulation pattern.

- B. Description of each.
- C. Any proposed encroachments by roads and utilities.

iii. Woodlands: location and area of tree stands.

iv. Location and description of other natural resources.

v. Location and description of natural features.

10) Phasing information.

i. Approximate location, area and boundaries of each phase.

ii. Proposed sequence of development, including:

- A. Phasing areas.
- B. Improvements.

iii. Projected timing for commencement and completion of each phase.

11) Public services and facilities.

i. Description of the anticipated demand to be generated by the development for:

- A. Public sewer.
- B. Water.
- C. Off-site roads.
- D. Schools.
- E. Solid waste disposal.
- F. Off-site drainage.
- G. Police.
- H. Fire.

ii. Description of the sufficiency of each service and facility to accommodate such demand.

iii. Anticipated means by which insufficient services and facilities shall be provided.

12) Historical structures.

- i. Location and description.
- ii. Proposed preservation plan.

13) Site topography.

i. Signage.

ii. Entrances.

iii. For road system.

iv. Other, if any.

15) Amenities.

i. Zoning classification(s) on and surrounding site.

ii. Specification of each deviation from the ordinance regulations applicable to projects in R-1R districts which will be sought to be approved, and the safeguards, features and/or planning mechanisms proposed to achieve the objectives intended to be accomplished by the regulations from which a deviation is being sought.

18) A community impact statement, which shall provide an assessment of the developmental, ecological, social, economic and physical impacts of the project on the natural environmental and physical improvements on and surrounding the development site. Information required for compliance with other ordinances shall not be required to be duplicated in the community impact statement.

19) Demonstration, including map and text, showing the off-site utilities which will provide services to the project.

(f) Effect of Approval: If the Township Board adopts an amendatory ordinance granting the Concept Development Plan, the zoning map shall be amended to designate the property Planned Residential Development. Such designation shall confer upon the applicant concept approval for the Concept Development Plan for a period to be established by the Township Board, applying the standards set forth above. Such period of time shall be specified as part of the amendatory ordinance granting the Planned Residential Development designation for the property. There shall be no use as of right in the PRD District. During the period of effectiveness of the Concept Development Plan, as established by the Township Board, the property owner shall be permitted to submit one (or more if the project is to be proposed in phases) special land use and site plan application(s), seeking Final Development Plan approval in the manner provided below. Upon application prior to the expiration of the Concept Development Plan, the Township Board may extend the effectiveness of the Concept Development Plan on a year-to-year basis. In determining whether to extend the effectiveness of the Concept Development Plan, approval may be granted if the ordinances and laws applicable to the project have not changed in a manner which would affect the project as previously approved. In the event of an expiration of the effectiveness of a Concept Development Plan, the property owner may either make application for a new Concept Development Plan or make application for some other zoning classification for the portion of the development for which a final Development Plan has not been approved.

(3) Final Development Plan Approval.

(a) Development of property classified PRD shall require the grant of special land use approval and site plan approval. Both of such approvals may be sought and obtained concurrently upon request of the property owner and approval by the Planning Commission. The grant of special land use approval and site plan approval shall be made by the Township Board, following recommendation of the Planning Commission.

(b) Special land use and site plan approval may be applied for and granted with respect to the entire development or in one or more phases. However, if the project is proposed in phases, the design shall be such that, upon completion, each phase shall be capable of standing on its own in terms of the presence of services, facilities, and open space, and shall contain the necessary components to ensure protection of natural resources and the health, safety, and welfare of the users of the Planned Residential Development and the residents of the surrounding area. In addition, where the density of a particular phase, taking into consideration all previously approved phases, has a density greater than one residential unit per gross acre, the Township Board shall require the execution and recordation of appropriate covenants, open space agreement, or the like, for the purpose of ensuring that the maximum density permitted under this Article shall not be exceeded in the event future phases are not approved and/or constructed. The Township Board shall specify the improvements required to be constructed outside of the phase or phases proposed in order to support and service such phase or phases. In addition, the Township Board may require, in addition to the documents referenced above, the recordation of permanent or temporary easements, open space agreements, and other instruments in order to ensure the use and development of the property as proposed and/or to promote and/or protect the public health, safety and welfare in a specific manner consistent with the intent and spirit of this Article.

(c) Subject to the specific provisions of this Article, special land use approval and site plan approval shall be based upon the standards and procedures set forth in Section 5.15 and 5.12 of this Ordinance, respectively. In addition to the information required in such sections, the applicant shall submit the following:

(1) A demonstration, including map and text, that the requirements of paragraph 3(b) of this Section shall be met.

(2) To the extent not provided by the information submitted in accordance with Sections 5.12 and 5.15 the following additional information, and documentation shall be submitted:

(i) Sufficient information to demonstrate compliance with the Project Design Standards in this Article.

(ii) A site plan showing the type, location and density of all structures and uses.

(iii) A plan showing all open spaces, including preserves, recreational areas, and the like, and the purpose proposed for each area.

(iv) Expert opinion of independent consultant with regard to market need for the use or uses and economic feasibility of the project.

(v) A specification of all deviations proposed from the regulations which would apply if the land were zoned and classified under the R-1A district regulations. This specification shall state the reasons and mechanisms to be utilized for the protection of the public health, safety and welfare in lieu of the regulations which would otherwise apply to a traditional development under R-1A.

(vi) Additional landscaping details required by the Planning Commission and/or Township Board in order to achieve a specific purpose consistent with the spirit of this Article.

(vii) The general improvements to constitute a part of the phase or phases proposed, including, without limitation, lighting, signage, visual and noise screening mechanisms, and utilities, and including the aesthetic qualities of the general improvements.

(d) The Planning Commission shall conduct a public hearing and otherwise proceed with the review of a Final Development Plan and Site Plan in the manner specified in Sections 5.15 and 5.12, respectively, with the authorization, if approved by the Planning Commission, for such reviews to be conducted simultaneously, provided, however, the final action to be taken by the Planning Commission shall be in the form of a recommendation to the Township Board. Such recommendation shall be with or without conditions.

(e) Upon receipt of a recommendation on a Final Development Plan from the Planning Commission, the Township Clerk shall place the matter on the agenda of the Township Board for review and action. The Township Board may adjourn the consideration from time-to-time if determined appropriate for the purpose of receiving further information or consultation on the proposed Final Development Plan.

(f) At the conclusion of the Township Board's deliberation, the Township Board shall either grant special land use and/or site plan approval, with or without conditions, or deny. If approval is denied, the minutes of the Township Board shall include the grounds for denial. If approval is granted with conditions, the minutes of the Township Board shall include a statement of the conditions.

Sec. 26.05. Performance Guarantees.

The Township Board, following recommendation from the Planning Commission, may require reasonable performance guarantees to insure completion of improvements, as authorized by law.

Sec. 26.06. Conditions.

Reasonable conditions may be required with the approval of a Planned Residential Development, to the extent authorized by law, for the purpose of insuring that public services and facilities affected by a proposed land use or activity will be capable of accommodating increased services and facility loads caused by the land use or activity, protecting the natural environment and conserving natural resources and energy, insuring compatibility with adjacent uses of land, and promoting the use of land in a socially and economically desirable manner. Conditions imposed shall be designed to protect natural resources and the public health, safety and welfare of individuals in the project and those immediately adjacent, and the community as a whole. In addition, conditions imposed shall be reasonably related to the purposes affected by the Planned Residential Development, and shall be necessary to meet the intent and purpose of this ordinance, and be related to the objective of insuring compliance with the standards of this Ordinance. All conditions imposed shall be made a part of the minutes of the Township Board.

Sec. 26.07. Commencement and Completion of Construction.

Construction shall be commenced within one year following the approval of a Final Development Plan in accordance with Section 26.04, or within one year of any other necessary governmental approval for construction of the project, whichever is later, provided all other necessary approvals have been actively pursued. If construction is not commenced within such time, any approval of a Final Development Plan shall expire and be null and void, provided, an extension for a specific period of time may be granted by the Township Board upon good cause shown if such request is made to the Township Board prior to the expiration of the Final Development Plan.

Sec. 26.08. Effect of Approval.

If and when approved, a Final Development Plan interpreted together with the Concept Development Plan, with all conditions imposed, if any, shall constitute the land use authorization for the property, and all improvement and use shall be undertaken accordingly. The applicant shall record an affidavit with the Register of Deeds of the County of Oakland containing the legal description of the entire project, specify the date of approval of the Planned Residential Development, and declaring that all future development of the property has been authorized and required to be carried out in accordance with the approved Concept Development Plan and Final Development Plan unless the final development plan expires or unless an amendment is duly adopted by the Township upon the request and/or approval of the applicant, or applicant's transferees and/or assigns.

Sec. 26.09. Fees.

There shall be an advanced payment of fees at the time of the pre-submission conference, at the time of application for Concept Development Plan Approval, and at the time of application for Final Development Plan Approval. The amount of such fees shall be established by ordinance or resolution of the Township Board.

Adoption of the ordinance will be voted upon on September 4, 1990 at 7:30 p.m. at the Independence Township Hall Annex, 90 North Main Street, Clarkston, Michigan. Further information regarding the proposed ordinance is available in the Clerk's Office, 90 North Main Street, Clarkston, Michigan, Monday through Friday from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Infinity rages against 'micro-music' trend today

Group comprised of former CHS classmates who play at area bars to earn college money

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Music from MTV greets a visitor when Jim Kiser, 22, opens the front door to his house on Waldon Road, Independence Township.

"Come on in," says Jim, motioning to the living room and the source of the music.

Inside, Jim's friend and fellow band member, Scott Orth, 21, sits on the sofa, with colorful artwork at his side.

"My mom's an art teacher," Jim explains, moving the papers across the room and lowering the volume of MTV.

Missing is Kevin Heber, 21, the third member of the music group, Infinity, which has been in existence since the men attended Clarkston High School together.

While waiting for Kevin, Jim and Scott talk about their backgrounds.

Jim, a vocalist and drummer for Infinity, recently finished his fourth year at Michigan State University, East Lansing, where he soon will earn a degree in journalism. The 1986 CHS graduate plans to use his public relations skills to enter the field of theater and music management.

Scott, a 1987 CHS graduate, plays bass guitar for the group and also sings. At the University of Miami, Fla., he studies music engineering — the technical side of making music, he says.

record, the college students don't actually rehearse in the hot tub but enjoy a dip now and then.

"People don't sit down and listen to music anymore. ... If they did, they'd see how boring it is."

Scott Orth

Kevin plays keyboards and sings for the group, as well, explain Jim and Scott. He began college at MSU but now attends the University of Miami, where he will share a room with Scott. He, too, studies music engineering.

Since the three are spread out geographically, they play together only in the summers. This summer, they played often at Daiquiri Dicks on Dixie Highway, Waterford Township. Most summers, the three also have day jobs. The income from weekend bar gigs helps a lot with college expenses, says Jim.

As if on cue, Kevin appears, and the three begin talking animatedly about their likes and dislikes in the music industry.

They end each other's sentences and prompt each other's ideas. Their conversation offers a glimpse of the interactions that must take place on stage.

After playing with other musicians at school, it's good to play with people you know so well, says Scott.

"I love it," he says. "It's great."

"We can pretty much predict what we're going to do on stage," says Kevin. "We put a lot of spontaneous creativity on stage."

Jim agrees.

"We all have different lifestyles, personalities and quirks, but we work well together as a band," he says. "We all respect each other as human beings."

And they all share the same respect for music as an art, as opposed to being merely a business.

Though resigned to the fact, the three are disappointed that they can play only popular music in area bars. Their own compositions — by Kevin and Scott — aren't "bar material," they say.

"The music business is ... a commercial thing," says Kevin. "You have to market what you're doing. There's really not much time to follow your own aspirations. You have to play whatever makes money."

"What I'm trying to do is change the trends a little bit maybe — if that's possible — because a lot of music today is garbage," he says.

Just then, Scott gestures to the television, where a Madonna video blares quietly from MTV. They laugh as he notes how well the video illustrates their point.

Scott, a top student while at CHS, continues Kevin's train of thought.

"We could have all gone into something easier — engineering or business," he says. "The reason we went into music is because it's a lot more intellectually stimulating. It's harder than the others."

Ideally, music should be put "back in the hands of people instead of computers," says Scott.

Adds Kevin, "I'd like to make it less commercial and more musical."

Scott has considered this subject often.

"I call this generation the 'micro-music generation' because they want it now, and they want it fast," says Scott. "People don't sit down and listen to music anymore. ... If they did, they'd see how boring it is."

Kevin jumps in, with contempt in his voice. "Technology has given people with no musical capability whatsoever the ability to produce music," he says, shaking his head.

Scott notes that it's cheaper to have a computer "grind out" the notes than to pay a musician. As an example, he names Paula Abdul.

"Press a button, and the music is there," he says.

Jim, however, sees a glimmer of hope that the industry won't remain micro-music. Upcoming musicians could make a difference, he says, adding that he hopes music students today continue to practice their instruments and not rely on "easy" techniques.

"I'm hopeful that there will be a new wave of something coming in," he says. "You see pockets of talent coming up, but it's all washed over by something people can digest."

Scott points out that talented groups such as U2 and Depeche Mode used to be underground music but now are commercially successful.

As for their own likes in music, they can't categorize them.

"There are few popular groups that I like today," says Kevin. "Maybe 20 years ago ... I would have fit in more."

"I like music that takes a lot of talent to perform, that has a lot of originality," he says.

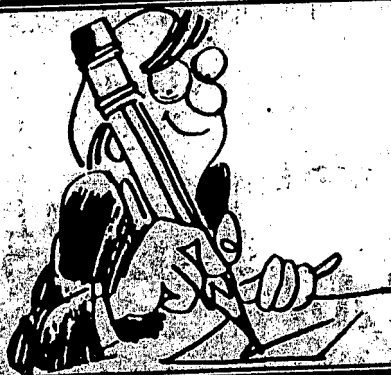

As for Scott, "I like music you have to pay attention to."

And Jim: "I like music that after I'm finished playing, I feel like I've played a tennis match. It's nice to play music where you have to think."

Jim says he hopes high school students today will stay true to themselves and to their art. Many music-related fields exist, he points out, and students should study what they're interested in.

"Do it for self-satisfaction in a world of micro-satisfaction," he says.

Mom, son win on 'Wheel of Fortune'

Also get an inside-look at game show hosts Vanna White and Pat Sajak

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A mother and her son did the Clarkston area proud as they garnered $11,200 in combined earnings on the television game show "Wheel of Fortune."

Patty and J.G. Kudla of Independence Township were selected as contestants after they auditioned at Detroit's Pontchartrain Restaurant on March 16.

J.G.'s segment of "Teen Week" will air at 7 p.m. on Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 3. Patty's segment will air at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 25.

Originally, only J.G. planned to audition — for the "Teen Week" segment of the show. But when the family learned that regular contestant spots were up for grabs, his mother, Patty, tried out, too.

According to the Kudlas, nearly 500 people auditioned for contestant spots that day. After auditioning, testing and pretending in a few game show simulations, 31 contestants were chosen. Among them were Patty and J.G.

After making the proper scheduling arrangements, the two contestants flew to California and participated on the July 30 and 31 taping segments.

On July 30, Patty, a Tupperware dealer, played the game and came away with $10,000 in cash and prizes. However, a fellow contestant collected $23,000 in cash and prizes and was named champion of the day.

According to Patty, that same contestant went on a winning frenzy and collected $149,000 in cash and prizes, the largest sum ever for a "three-day" champion on the Wheel of Fortune.

A day later, J.G., a senior at Clarkston High School, tried his luck on the game show and came away with $1,200 in cash and prizes. He said he could have done better had "Lady Luck" been on his side that day.

"I figured out all the puzzles during the course of the games, but I hit 'bankrupt' and 'lose a turn' twice," J.G. lamented.

J.G. said he wasn't nervous during the game, but his mother appeared to be sick.

Patty admitted that the interviewing segment was the toughest part of the show.

"I was scared stiff when Pat (Sajak) was asking

"WHEELIES" J.G. and Patty Kudla traveled to Hollywood, California, and participated in the popular gameshow questions of his guests," she said. "After that was over, the rest of the show was a blur."

The Kudlas said they enjoyed the experience. They also revealed some interesting tidbits behind "America's most frequently watched gameshow."

"Everyone on the show's production team was terrific except Pat Sajak and Vanna White," J.G. said vehemently. "Vanna's super-pretty in person but super-stuck up when the cameras go off."

"The friendly demeanor that Pat (Sajak) displays on television is really sarcasm," added Patty. "He acts really bored on stage."

The couple said they only saw the stars on stage. As soon as the taping was finished, White and Sajak were "Wheel of Fortune." The trip reaped big benefits for the couple as they collected $11,200 in combined winnings.

whisked from the premises.

The Kudlas said the gameshow tapes one week's worth of segments in one day, and Vanna White works only eight days per month. Patty also noted that Pat Sajak works only four days a month because he splits his host duties with ex-NFL kicker Rolf Benirschke.

J.G. said he plans to put his winnings toward his senior trip to Myrtle Beach. Patty said her prize money will be going toward trips to Disney World and Las Vegas.

"It's funny," Patty said. "As soon as I came off stage J.G. asked me what I was going to do with all that money."

"She yelled, 'I'm going to Disney World,'" chuckled J.G. "You'd (have) thought she'd just won the NBA championship."
