Parents, school schedule upset after malfunction

BY TRACY KING
 Clarkston News Associate Editor

A sudden loss of water pressure in three Clarkston schools shortened the school day for several students Friday, Sept. 7.

School schedules weren't the only things upset by the malfunction — some parents complained they were not notified that their children would be sent home.

The water pressure dropped at Clarkston Junior High School and Bailey Lake Elementary School about 11:30 a.m., followed by a loss of pressure at Clarkston Elementary school about 12:15 p.m., according to Assistant Superintendent Mel Vaara.

Because state health department regulations require schools to maintain electricity and water for classes, the district was forced to call off school, Vaara said.

Clarkston Junior High and Clarkston Elementary students were sent home. Bailey Lake afternoon kindergarten students were not picked up; however, a return of water pressure kept regular afternoon classes at Bailey Lake intact.

Whenever school is let out unexpectedly, the district utilizes a "fan-out" system in grades K-five to notify parents.

At least one Clarkston parent said he was not notified through a fan-out system.

"Our child came home in the morning unannounced to my wife and myself," said an Independence Township man who asked that his name be withheld because he feared retribution against his 6-year-old daughter who attends Clarkston Elementary.

"Luckily my neighbor was home," McGinn added. "Fortunately she's safe and sound, but I don't know about the others."

Vaara admitted the fan-out system "wasn't up to speed" at Clarkston El. when school was let out.

"That happened," Vaara said. "It was a major headache for us and made for a very stressful day."

Vaara blamed the malfunctioning wells on recent storms and Detroit Edison's efforts to contain their damage.

"Many homes in the Clarkston area didn't have power," Vaara said. "I believe Detroit Edison attempted to fix them by reducing power in other areas."

LIGHTNING is being blamed for the destruction of this $725,000 home on Deer Lake Court, Independence Township. The residence burst into flame after a bolt of lightning hit its roof about 12:35 a.m. Aug. 7. The family escaped unharmed.

Crafts and cider festival this weekend

Clarkston's Depot Park will be filled with fall delights Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 15 and 16, for this year's Clarkston Community Historical Society Crafts and Cider Festival.

The 17th annual festival features more than 70 vendors selling paintings, drawings, photographs, sketches, stained and beveled glass, basketry, furniture, folk art, toys and more.

Several of Clarkston's historic landmarks have been captured on memorial mugs and sweatshirts in honor of the event.

The mugs are the fourth in a series and feature drawings by Independence Township artist Donella Reese Vogel.

The sweatshirts, a new item this year, include drawings by Vogel and area artist James Russell.

Other Clarkston scenes have been printed on stationery and posters and will also be available at the festival.

Several community groups will be selling snacks and refreshments at the festival, and a variety of entertainment will be offered throughout the two-day event.

The festival begins at 10 a.m. and runs through 6 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. Admission is free.

Lightning blamed for house fire

BY CURT MCALLISTER
 Clarkston News Staff Writer

The fierce storm that rocked most of southeastern Michigan on Thursday, Sept. 6, is being blamed for a house fire in Independence Township.

Independence Township Fire Chief Gar Wilson said a Deer Lake Court residence, owned by Walter Cole Jr., was struck by lightning about 12:35 a.m. Friday, Sept. 7. The residents were sleeping at the time of the strike and did not investigate their home until their smoke alarms sounded minutes later. They quickly evacuated the home with no reported injuries.

According to Wilson, the strike knocked out the home's phones, and the residents were forced to drive to a fire station to get assistance.

By the time the fire trucks arrived, the blaze was in full force. Trucks from Independence, Springfield and Brandon townships assisted in combating the fire. No firefighters were injured while battling the blaze.

According to Wilson, the blaze destroyed between half and 75 percent of the 3,000-square-foot home. A neighboring home sustained heat damage to the residence and a house trailer.

Cole's residence was valued at $725,000. Wilson said he didn't know the total cost of the damages caused by the fire.

Officials call for new high school, elementary

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Five-year enrollment predictions have prompted Clarkston school administrators to call for construction of new facilities.

In a special meeting Sept. 6, Superintendent Gary Haner offered the board a package of recommendations, including the construction of a new high school and elementary school, and the improvements of several existing schools.

The superintendent recommended that a February bond election date be set and that the improvements be financed through the use of zero-coupon bonds spread over 30 years.

Zero coupon bond payments are spread equally over the life of the issue, as opposed to traditional bonds

"We need an elementary school as soon as we can get it, and we need a high school as soon as we can build it."

Superintendent Gary Haner

that use a large initial repayment and graduate to smaller payments over time.

The cost breakdown of the facilities package was not presented. The board took no action on the superintendent's recommendations, but unanimously agreed to move the matter forward.

If the board decides to call a February bond election, members must draft language 90 days before the election date.

The board reviewed an enrollment report prepared by school administrators, with help from the board's facilities committee.

The report used population projections by StanFred Consultants and growth predictions from the Independence Township Planning Commission.

By the 1994-95 school year, the district can expect an additional 400 students according to StanFred, the report showed.

The number of students gained through new construction in the district is estimated at about 1,000, according to township predictions. Although the Sept. 6 report failed to show the cumulative effect of the student influx on enrollment, Superintendent Gary Haner told the board that overcrowding was a certainty.

"In a broad sense we're looking at overcrowded classrooms," Haner said. "We'll work on the cumulative numbers, but the recommendation is that we need an elementary school as soon as we can get it, and we need a high school as soon as we can build it."

Haner suggested that the movement of the ninth grades to the high school be delayed until the 1992-93 school year instead of in the planned 1991-92 school year.

Though both principals say it will be difficult to house the ninth-graders for the two years, Haner recommends keeping them there "as there is a great deal of cost that the district will incur with this transformation."

In making his recommendations, Haner offered the board four alternatives to new construction.

Portable classrooms could be used at a cost of $33,200 apiece, which doesn't include electrical or sewer installation. These facilities are unsightly, expensive and are often used far longer than intended, Haner said.

The district could use "year-round" schools, which would serve to disrupt family schedules and increase operating costs and wear and tear on facilities, Haner said.

Double-day sessions could be instituted, which, while solving short-term space needs, destructs the high school program and thus should not be a long-term solution, Haner said.

Extended-day classes could be added to increase the enrollment capability of a building, but because the middle hours would house the entire student body, the option would not meet the district's need for space, Haner outlined.

In June 1988, Clarkston voters turned down a $68.8 million bond issue for construction and improvements of Clarkston schools.

The package to be put to voters in February will "collectively include all ingredients from the last election," according to Haner.

"All the needs from two years ago are still there today," Haner added.

Firefighters gear up for hazardous waste response

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

After the state made townships responsible for hazardous waste cleanups, Independence Township fire officials conducted an experiment.

They set up camp at the I-75 weigh station to get a rough idea of what type — and how much — hazardous waste was transported through township boundaries.

They were astonished at what they found.

"There were 50 to 60 placard trucks carrying hazardous materials in a couple hours' time," says Capt. Mike Fahrner, the township firefighter overseeing hazardous response procedures.

"It's unbelievable what goes by," Fahrner adds, shaking his head.

Throughout the past year, the fire department has responded to about 10 serious hazardous waste spills.

The worst spill in recent memory occurred June 11, 1988, when a tanker carrying jet fuel oil went off the side of the road while navigating construction on southbound I-75.

The truck overturned with an estimated 9,000 gal-

"We have no control over whatever accident could happen."

Capt. Mike Fahrner

lons of jet fuel on board.

The Independence Township Fire Department was called to identify the substance, evacuate the area, stop the flow of fuel from the tanker and contain the spill itself.

Firefighters limited the leak of the highly flammable liquid to just 200 gallons.

The tanker incident illustrates the township's difficulty in dealing with hazardous wastes.

Not only must the department be aware of the material and its hazards, it must know how to stop a leak in some cases and dispose of the material.

Hazardous waste includes any substance released in the atmosphere that can possibly harm life, property or environment.

Responsibility for hazardous waste emergencies was officially transferred to local fire departments through state legislation in 1986.

The law made township fire departments first in charge for any spill within its boundaries.

"That meant we now had responsibility for I-75, Dixie and the train-rail lines," Fahrner said. "We have no control over whatever accident could happen."

"A lot of times we have no information or idea of what's being transported," he adds.

The 1986 law also required township fire depart-

"Every place had to list every chemical. Things were going wild."

Capt. Neil Ashley

ments to file a list of all hazardous materials within each of its businesses.

The law was first interpreted to include each and every chemical. This required several businesses, such as schools, to compile huge volumes of information.

"It was confusing," admits Fire Marshall Neil Ashley, who oversees the materials list. "Every place had to list every chemical. Things were going wild."

The state later revised the requirements to include only the more hazardous chemicals and only when they existed in larger quantities.

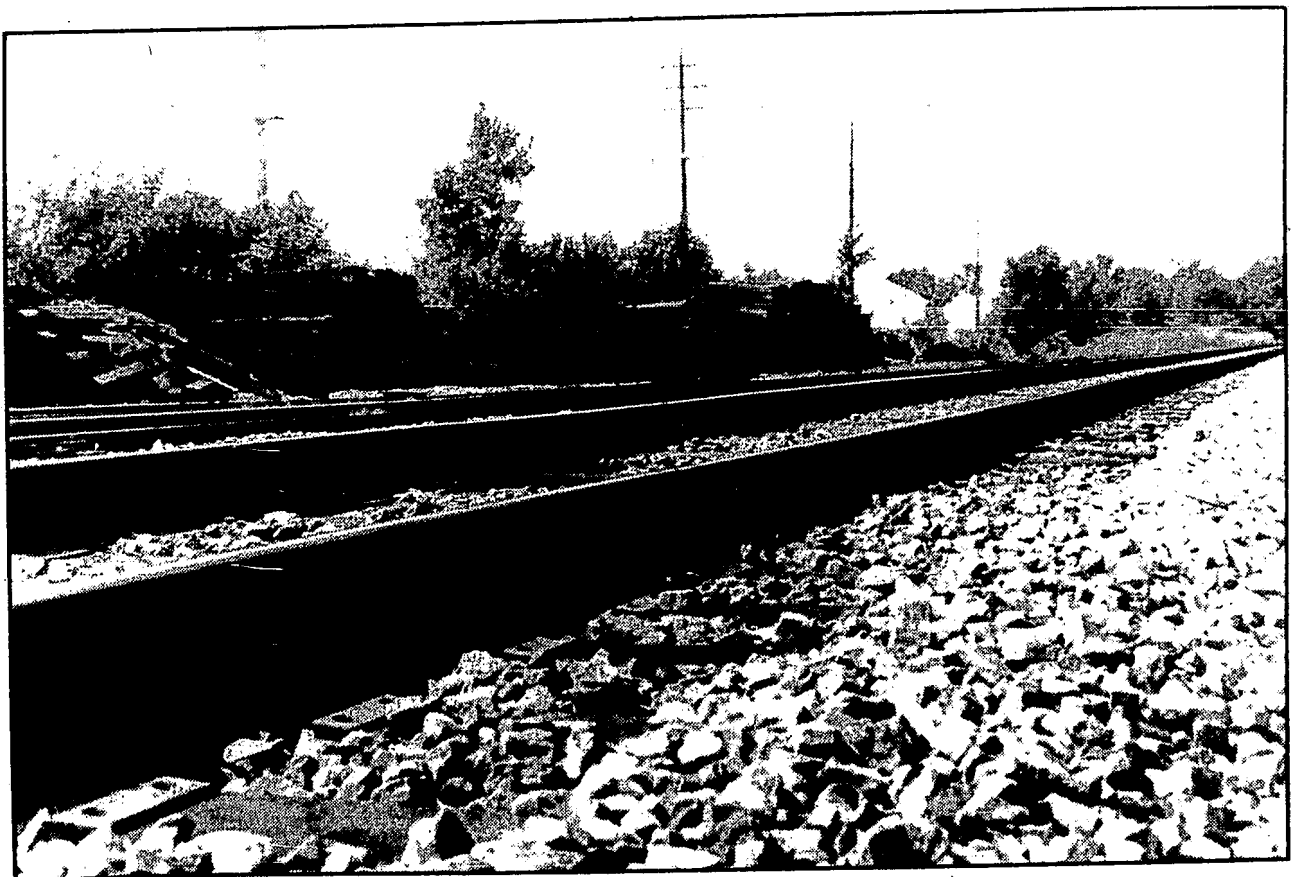

Though the new law is costly and time consuming, it does have some merit, according to Fire Chief Gar Wilson.

the suits used in hazardous emergencies. The suits cost $2,000.

HAZARDOUS WASTE spills are most likely to occur on township highways and rail lines. The amount of material transported in those methods is "unbelievable" according to Independence Township Fire Department officials.

Firefighters prepare for the worst

"It's good that we know (what materials exist) when our guys walk in," Wilson says. "If they go in there without being prepared properly it could be deadly."

"(But) there was no funding; it all had to come out of the fire department budget," Wilson said.

Fire officials estimate 75 percent of all township businesses have completed a listing of hazardous materials. Of that list, about 10 have chemicals in quantities the department has to "be worried about."

"We're in pretty good shape now," Ashley says. "Most businesses have complied the best they could."

The department's response to hazardous waste emergencies depends greatly on the use of a special computer.

A data base lists each business and the substances it contains and has information on a variety of other hazardous materials.

For instance, if a tanker truck overturns on the highway, a number from the side of the truck is fed into the computer.

The machine then offers information on the substance including its components, its reaction to other substances, its danger to humans and the environment and the best method of controlling the substance.

Firefighters then have three levels of response. They can learn about the material, secure the area and call a recovery company; they can learn about the material, secure the area and stop the leak themselves; or they can learn about the material, secure the area, stop the leak and clean up the spill.

A special truck has been modified for hazardous waste responses. The truck uses absorbent "booms" that hold a liquid inside its tubing; firefighters might also use a chalk-like substance to transform a liquid to a solid.

The department uses special suits for firefighters responding to hazardous waste emergencies. Some suits are made of paper with a plastic coating; the more durable suits are made from rubber and are replaced at about $2,000 apiece.

The cost of responding to hazardous waste emergencies is also incurred in training firefighters.

By law, the department must offer 24 hours of training to each firefighter every year, according to Wilson.

Though the department's responsibilities are many, some things the department will not do, Wilson stresses.

The department will not collect hazardous materials for businesses, nor will it accept any material a business might want to dispose of.

Fire officials say most companies are sufficiently careful with their hazardous materials, yet accidents can often happen when a routine sets in.

"Most are safe, but it's the type of things that are done everyday where people get careless," says Fahrner.

FIREFIGHTERS use special equipment when responding to hazardous waste emergencies. The department has modified a truck to include absorbent "booms" and material that can transform a liquid into a solid. Firefighters wear special protective clothing, as well.

Great Scott officially merges with Kroger Co.

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Kroger Co. made its takeover official Sept. 1 when it finalized the $74 million buyout of Great Scott supermarkets.

The owner of the Great Scott chain, Meadowdale Foods, Inc., signed over 33 existing stores and four under construction to Kroger. The vacant supermarket at Dixie Highway and Maybee Road, Independence Township, was one of the stores included in the buyout.

Ed Boutros, developer of the Clarkston Oaks shopping center, said the vacant grocery center will take on the identity of a Kroger grocery store, instead of a Great Scott establishment. Nearly 25 Great Scott stores statewide are scheduled for the switch in corporate logo.

Boutros also added that the opening date of the township-based supermarket is slated for early November. Contractors are currently working on the store's various interior fixtures.

According to a press release from the Kroger Co., the Waterford Township Kroger store, only three miles away, will also retain its corporate name.

Due to the buyout, Kroger has established a new advertising campaign for those customers loyal to the Great Scott product line. "The Best of Both" motto has been created to satisfy Great Scott shoppers and inform Kroger clientele about the acquisition.

Kroger officials have said that former Great Scott employees will be offered jobs within its company, despite the acquisition.

With the buyout, the Kroger Co. successfully surged past Grand Rapids-based Meijer, Inc., as the second largest grocery chain in Michigan.

Included in the contract, Foodland Distributors, Inc., a Kroger wholesale supply subsidiary in Livonia, will buy Meadowdale's Abner Wolf Distributors wholesale operation. Foodland will also purchase three Great Scott supermarkets, as part of the "three-way" compromise among grocery companies.

First-grader saves toddler from fall

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

The quick actions of 6-year-old Bobby Graham Sept. 1 saved the day — and his 16-month-old cousin, Michelle Graham.

During a family gathering Saturday, Bobby was playing with a few cousins in the backyard of his Klais Court, Independence Township, home, when his 2-year-old cousin, Jennifer Finn, accidentally pushed Michelle off the top rung of a 4-foot ladder to a slide.

Bobby, who was standing nearby, got there in time to catch Michelle before she hit the ground. The toddler was not hurt.

"It's so wonderful that he was standing there," said Jennifer's mother, Elizabeth Finn of Royal Oak. "He was waiting to go up the ladder, and it was an instant reaction."

Bobby Graham

"I'm surprised it didn't knock him over. He really is a hero," she said.

Michelle's mother agreed.

"For him to catch her is a pretty good feat," said Madeleine Graham of New Hudson. "He was quick. He's quite an athlete."

Bobby won the praise of all of his relatives, but the Lake Orion Schools Pine Tree Elementary School first-grader didn't enjoy the attention.

"He was kind of embarrassed," said Elizabeth. "He didn't want everyone to talk about it all the time. He was kind of shy."

"He'll probably be mad I'm doing this," she said, referring to her phone call to The Clarkston News.

Indeed, when Bobby was informed (after his second day of school this year) that a reporter wanted to take his picture and ask him a few questions, the reluctant hero declined comment and refused to pose for a picture.

His parents, however, produced a kindergarten photo and explained that Bobby enjoyed playing with his cousins and would do anything for them — but he simply did not like a fuss.

Aunt Leone's big day

Julie Campe

At little Niko's baby shower last Saturday, Aunt Leone did not seem to be herself.

In my family, baby showers are held after the birth of the child, so all the relatives get a chance to see the baby while he's too young to complain at all the attention.

At most baby showers, Aunt Leone is the first to reach the swaddled infant, sometimes letting loose a happy shriek when the child is first spotted in his mother's arms outside the door.

She rushes outside and happily relieves the new mom. And she smiles and coos delightedly at the newest arrival in the family, making her way to a comfortable seat, where she quietly and contentedly holds him until some of the other aunts and cousins complain.

It is a ritual that each new child — no matter how distant the relation — must go through: the bonding process with Aunt Leone.

At Niko's shower, though, Aunt Leone was different. She smiled just as much — perhaps even more than usual. And though her hands at many times reached for the child, Aunt Leone, with great effort, brought them back, clenched, to her lap.

Grandmotherhood may be difficult for Leone. It is a new stage in her development, but she politely — and with great dignity — deferred her claims on four-week-old Niko to the others, at least for that one day.

The day marked a new stage in Niko's mother's development, too. Suddenly, Danna, 24, found herself listening quietly or laughing outrageously as mothers of all ages shared war stories from the delivery room or gave breast-feeding tips or indulged in nipple humor.

She had abruptly become part of that universal group of mothers.

As for the new father, Steve handled himself well Saturday, considering that he was the only adult male in a room of about 40 females, dragged along to Cousin Nancy's house to help Danna open gifts and to carry them afterward to the car.

For much of the day, Steve sat quietly smiling, overshadowed by the rapid exchange of family news around him. He merely watched as his son was passed from person to admiring person. He did not hold Niko once that I know of.

Later, he subtly became the first to reach the table covered with dishes of Jell-O, sandwich spread, salad makings and cake — minor solace for making it through the long ordeal.

Even the new mother got to eat her entire meal uninterrupted by her infant, who soundly slept in some caring cousin's arms.

Aunt Leone was gracious in her new role, magnanimously offering to let such nieces as myself and Tina a chance at Niko toward the end of the event.

Eventually, though, guests trickled out, and Niko made his way to Leone. She quietly, contentedly held him.

Deer Lake beauty road not a good idea

There is a request to have Deer Lake Road designated a Natural Beauty Road. Don't be misled by this phony concern for your road and property.

If this request is granted, an injunction will be filed in court to stop the sewer construction; it's just another cheap trick to stop the sewer. The people requesting this Natural Beauty Road don't even live on Deer Lake Road.

If you want to see what a Natural Beauty Road looks like, drive on Gibbs Road between Rattalee Lake Road and Kier Road. It's impossible for two cars to pass each other — is this what you want?

Check with the Oakland County Road Commission and see what restrictions are placed on Natural Beauty Roads; if enforced you won't be able to cut a burr bush in front of your home or trim a tree in the roadway.

If these so-called nature lovers are so concerned with our environment, let them start with protecting Deer

Lake from seepage of their septic juice into Deer Lake. The earth can only hold so much; eventually, it will give up and start leeching into the lake as it has done in so many other Oakland County lakes. Sewers will solve this problem.

Protect your property and preserve its value. Call the Oakland County Road Commission Planning and Development at 645-2000, and voice your opinion. They need to know what you want, so that they can make their decision.

Also, read the notice of public hearing in The Clarkston News dated Aug. 29. If you let this slide, you can kiss the sewers good bye.

Deer Lake belongs to everyone in Clarkston. Help protect it. It's your road, not theirs.

Bob LaLone

Rebuttal to Deer Lake Road letter

To respond to the LaLone letter, (which was circulated at a meeting prior to publication in The Clarkston News), there are several misconceptions I would like to clear up.

The designation of Deer Lake Road as a Natural Beauty Road will not stop the sewer project. An injunction will probably be filed to stop this project regardless of the outcome of the Natural Beauty Road.

The law regarding Natural Beauty Road petitions only requires you be a resident of the township, and then a public hearing is held. One such hearing is scheduled for Sept. 19.

The road will be maintained exactly as it now is, and, certainly, two cars can pass.

There are no restrictions as to what homeowners can do with their property, even within the road easement. They may cut a burr bush, remove vegetation, trim trees and even remove them if desired.

The above information was obtained from the Road Commission for Oakland County.

As to being so-called "nature lovers," we've been called worse. But being a riparian owner on Deer Lake we are more aware and concerned with septic leakage than a bar owner on Dixie Highway, who lives in Davisburg. Our children and friends swim and boat in that lake all summer long, and if we had a problem we would be utterly foolish to ignore it.

According to Gary Frick at the Oakland County Health Department, there is absolutely no evidence of septic-pollution in Deer Lake.

As for the sewers being free, don't kid yourself. The connection fee is $960, plus trenching to your septic inlet. There is also a monthly charge to be paid. Plus your tax assessment will rise by the cost of the sewer ($15,000), and at state equalized value with about .57-mil tax rate, that will increase your taxes about $450 per year.

I am also very concerned that there will be extensive damage and death to many trees along the route, which could destroy the character of a neighborhood.

Jim's Jottings

Dave Barry seems to be able to find a way to write about everything. Barry is a syndicated columnist writing from the Miami Herald.

That means other Knight Ridder papers probably carry his column one way or another. The Detroit Free Press has it in their Sunday-now-Saturday magazine.

Barry wrote of having his annual physical checkup, which he does every six years. He described how his doctor does A Horrible Thing. I know exactly what he was writing about. Here's how he said it:

"You middle-age guys know what I mean. You're in the examination room, and the doctor is behaving in a non-threatening manner, thumping on your chest, frowning in your ears, etc., and the two of you are having a normal-guy conversation about how George Steinbrenner should get, at minimum, the electric chair, and you're almost ENJOYING your physical examination, when, without warning, the doctor reaches into a drawer and pulls out The Glove.

"Suddenly you notice that the doctor looks vaguely like Vincent Price, and the room lights are flashing, and the music system, which had been playing 'Wonderful World,' is now playing the theme from 'Jaws.' And now the doctor is holding up his hand, which has grown to the size of a mature eggplant and has sprouted eight or nine extra digits, and he's struggling to pull on The Glove, which has developed a life of its own, snarling and writhing like some kind of evil mutant albino squid. And now the doctor is turning to you, his eyes glowing like beer signs, and he's saying 'Turn around hahaha-HAHAHAHA' and you're thinking OH NO PLEASE NOOOOOOOO...

"Once I was getting examined, and when it came time for The Glove the doctor brought in, for training purposes, ANOTHER doctor, who happened to be a member of the extreme opposite sex, and the two of them were back there chatting away about various Points of Interest like a pair of guides on a glass-bottom-boat tour. When it was over all I wanted was a grocery bag to wear over my head until I could get a new identity through the federal Witness Protection Program."

Having experienced The Glove a few times I can really relate to Dave Barry's experience.

"Every cluck from the incumbent's featherbed is ballyhooed by columnists and radio personalities, sob sister style, but I get no notice," Frank Beaumont complained. He was talking about incumbent John Dingell, the Trenton Democrat who has represented the 7th Congressional District, stretching from Dearborn through Downriver, for 35 years and counting.

Beaumont is the Republican challenger for Dingell's job in the November election. You most likely didn't know that, which is Beaumont's problem. Dingell gets all sorts of favorable press - political journalists often call him "one of the most powerful men in Washington." Beaumont has never even been called the most powerful man in his block, which is in Monroe.

I'm not sure what finally prompted Beaumont to contact me. Possibly the continual praise that Dingell receives in Bob Talbert's column. Perhaps the recent guest column that Dingell's wife, Debbie, wrote for Talbert - she modestly described her husband as "this special person" - was the final plug.

Whatever. Beaumont, 60, and I are old acquaintances, stemming from his 40 years in the newspaper business, mostly Downriver. He's now a semiretired consultant, media broker and student (law and psychology) looking for a little equal time in the free campaign publicity market. OK. Beaumont used to write a fine newspaper column, and still has that old pith. One of his campaign slogans is, "Not even drunken sailors can spend money like sober congressmen."

Listen to The Unknown Candidate:

"My bumper sticker should read 'Beaumont & Co. Against Imperial Congress.' Our Congress has been allowed to be shaped into an imperial 51st state of 435 fiefdoms whose members leave only through death in office, resignations or drumming out after scandal, criminal conviction or outrageous, greed-spawned conduct.

"Incumbents are returned to their musty offices 98.6 percent of the time because of a self-perpetuating system that makes a mockery of voting by citizens. It's so rigged most people don't vote; only four of 10 cast ballots because of the 'what's-the-use' syndrome.

"One smirking GOP Milquetoast considers my candidacy 'good for a lot of laughs.' He's probably correct. The incumbent has a taxpayer-paid staff with plenty of retirement points and reelection experience poised once again for a free mailing to tens of thousands of homes 'back home' to remind us of their boss' grand accomplishments.

"Each of My Lord's constituents gets one of these mailed reports that we pay for. It costs me a stamp. Multiply that by 50,000 or 60,000 and the expense is staggering.

"This mail campaign doesn't dent the incumbent's slush fund, swollen by donations from two-faced individuals and Political Action Committees who line up to pay homage to their visiting congressman, cultivating his favor and influence at arm-twisters.

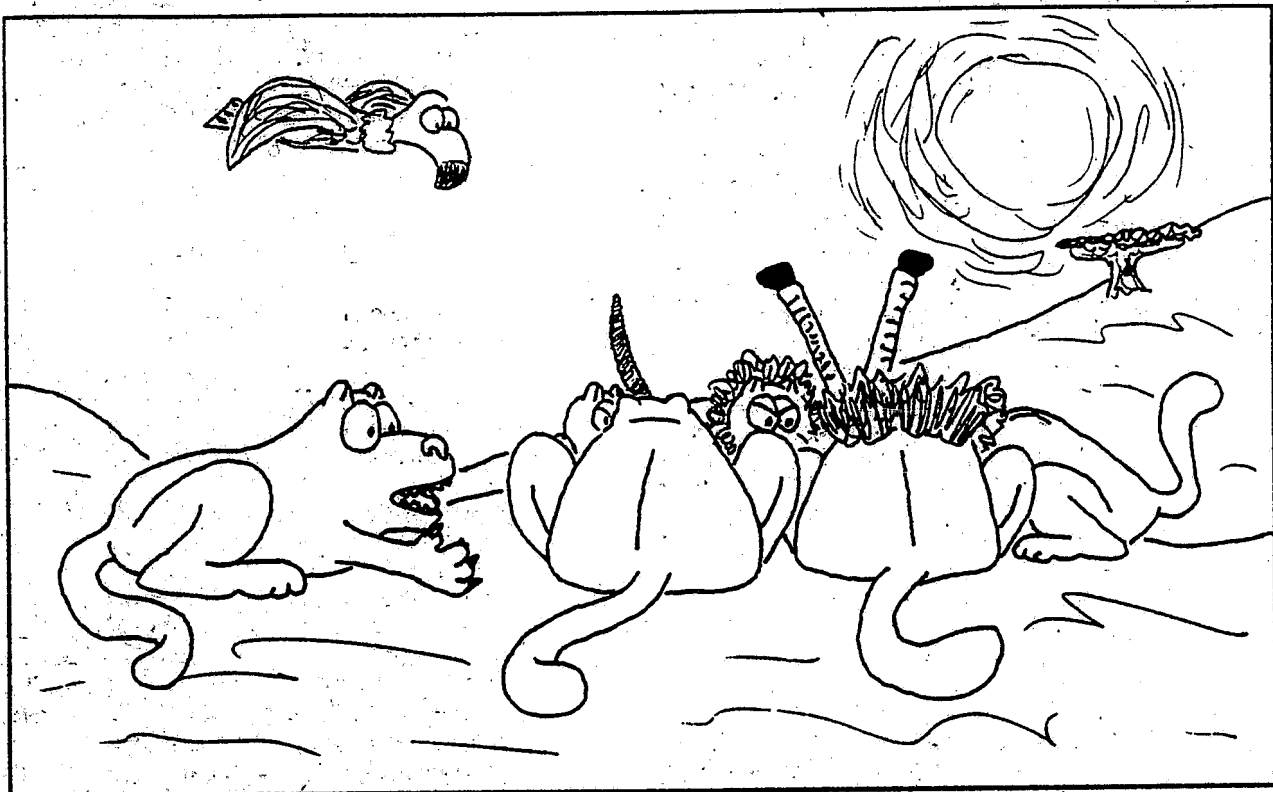

"My Democratic congressman even has Republicans in his receiving line with fat checks. They don't need a Republican congressman; they've done well by him for 35 years and don't want to trifle with Newsweek's 'most feared congressman.'

"I'm in a bad way here because I can't get the word out well enough, fast enough, even though I'm campaigning morning, noon and night - literally. Maybe folks from Washington don't know where we come from, but on my politicking meanderings out beyond 101st St. and Plowed Ground, I've found they are happy to know there's finally somebody eager to speak for them at the Greatest Show on Earth."

End of quotes from The Unknown Candidate. Beaumont is absolutely correct about the Imperial Congress, of course, but only a congressional majority can install the reforms required to stop the self-perpetuating sound-bite aristocracy. So the windmill will keep on spinning, despite the efforts of the most quixotic outsider.

Excuse my cynicism (and the inequality of this equal time), but Beaumont doesn't have a prayer of replacing Dingell. However, I won't tell him if you won't.

OFF TRACK

OH, NO! I BROKE A NAIL!

From This Perspective

School days

Tracy King

The school board room is packed, a sure sign school is back in session.

Several parents have petitioned to speak before the board about overcrowded kindergarten classes, President John Needham announces.

The board will hear the comments when it gets to enrollment on the agenda, he adds.

Board business is conducted, and parents eventually get their turn, battling the issue back and forth with administrators.

The whirl of controversy grows louder and longer, but Christine, age 6, takes little notice.

"My feet are getting hot," she urgently whispers to her guardian, seated beside her.

A pair of black sneakers come off first, followed by socks, as Christine glances slyly sideways and smiles.

We're seated in the plush, red roomy chairs somewhere in the middle. Though comfortable, these seats are lower than the rest, and provide little vantage point for six-year-olds.

The parents have started to repeat themselves, and Christine begins to fidget.

First one way. Then the other way. Finally, accepting a pen and paper, she settles in to draw.

"I wrote you my name so you know who I am," she offers easily.

"I like your lipstick, do you like my barrettes?" she asks, readjusting two pink clips holding her reddish hair in place.

By now, the parents have prompted a solution of sorts; Pine Knob Principal George White explains that some classes could be combined; some students could be reassigned.

"That's Mr. White's voice!" Christine hisses, excitedly. "There he is," she points. "You can't see him; he's in front of that lady with the long hair."

"I know Mr. White," Christine confides.

A kindergarten student at Pine Knob, Christine proudly announces her phone number and address.

She goes back to "coloring," crafting the alphabet, a mole and his house.

Graciously, she numbers the stack of drawings she has created, announcing there are 10 in all.

She turns them over triumphantly, though the turmoil in the board room shows no sign of letting up.

"My child comes home from school and when I ask him what he did that day he says 'nothing,'" one parent laments.

Another states, "My son comes home crying, saying he hasn't learned anything yet! Something has to be done."

Christine is playing with car keys now, quietly humming to herself.

She leans over once more.

"That's my teacher, in the black dress," she says proudly. "I'm in kindergarten."

Mug artist enjoys historical community project

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Artist Donella Reese Vogel was pleased to design the fourth in a series of mugs for the Clarkston Community Historical Society.

"I was delighted because I'm very proud to be in this community," said Vogel, a Fawn Valley Drive, Independence Township, resident. "It's a labor of love for me."

The mugs will be sold during the annual Clarkston Community Historical Society Crafts and Cider Festival in downtown Clarkston Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 15 and 16.

DONELLA Reese Vogel holds a bachelor of science degree in design from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. Her work has been exhibited in such areas as San Francisco, New York City, Detroit, Kalamazoo, Birmingham and Clarkston.

Vogel's work has been exhibited in areas ranging from Aura Fine Arts in Clarkston to the Detroit Institute of Arts "Art and Flowers" show.

The three drawings for the mugs were enjoyable, she said.

She was given a list of historical buildings in the Clarkston area, which she photographed. Afterward, she chose three to depict on the mug.

"The ones I picked I thought would look well together," she said.

She selected a Mid-Western adaptation of a Greek Revival-style home on North Main Street, a California bungalow on North Holcomb Road, and a Greek Revival-style home with touches of Gothic and Queen Anne on Buffalo Street.

She has drawn houses for clients on commission, said Vogel, adding that she also has drawn landscapes and, more recently, portraits.

"It gives me great pleasure to draw," she said. "Then when I'm asked to do different things, I look at it as a challenge to change my medium or subject matter."

Vogel's career allows her to "work on my own, at my own studio at my own pace," she said, explaining that she works in her basement studio.

Her schedule also means she's available for her son, Reese, 17, a senior at Brother Rice High School, and her husband, Tony.

She can also squeeze in aerobics classes at the Deer Lake Racquet Club — important because she leads a "sedentary lifestyle," she said.

In the summers, she and her husband enjoy making pilgrimages to Frank Lloyd Wright buildings. Wright is Tony's favorite architect and designer. Tony is a manufacturing feasibility engineer for Chrysler Motors and, as a hobby, likes designing and building furniture or making replicas.

"We like to make things with our hands," said Vogel, adding that she's glad her husband appreciates art.

Reporter's Notebook

The Aug. 7 primary election may be history, but some subtle reminders of its passing are scattered throughout the township.

On Sept. 4, the Independence Township Board expressed its disappointment in former candidate Tom Greene for not removing his campaign signs after the election.

Nearly a month ago, Greene was defeated by Tom Middictin in the race for the Republican candidacy for the 61st District state representative seat.

Greene's campaign signs have not yet been removed — many are still posted along Sashabaw Road.

The board instructed the building department to issue a complaint to Greene's campaign committee because the posters have surpassed the 14-day deadline for removal.

Trustee Daniel Travis was adamant in his feelings about the situation.

"Losers or winners, all candidates have to take their signage down," he said. "Not taking one's signs down makes one a bigger loser."

Items for Reporter's notebook are compiled by Clarkston News staff members.

Historical sites depicted on mugs and sweatshirts

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Six Clarkston landmarks can now be savored in commemorative mugs and sweatshirts, thanks to the Clarkston Community Historical Society.

The mugs and sweatshirts have been developed as part of the society's 17th Annual Crafts and Cider Festival, to be held Sept. 15 and 16 in Clarkston's Depot Park.

The three vintage homes on the mugs, drawn by Independence Township artist Donella Reese Vogel, include the following:

■ 58 N. Main Street: A midwestern adaptation of the Greek Revival style.

This building was built in 1852 by local merchant and pharmacist Nicholas Smith. Smith owned a drug store at the northeast corner of Main and Washington streets that is now the site of the Masonic Temple.

Talbot Hamlin, author of "Greek Revival Architecture in America," calls this structure one of the best examples of the Greek Revival style.

The building was recognized in 1936 as a National Historic Site in the first Historic American Buildings survey.

Features of the home include an interesting Greek key design under the windows on the west facade; also the butted Cas, as opposed to overlapped siding, under the storey and half section and in the pediment used to imitate marble's smooth surface.

■ 89 N. Holcomb: This home is a charming example of an adaptation of a style known as California bungalow. The structure features many interesting individual details.

■ 25 Buffalo St.: This Greek Revival style house dates back to 1860.

The gabled home is built with an interesting Gothic-style pitched dormer facing Buffalo Street over what may be a circa 1880s constructed front porch.

The popularity of the Queen Anne style inspired the addition of many front porches to houses of earlier styles. This house is, therefore, vernacular style, or a century.

DONNELLA Reese Vogel has designed this mug in commemoration of the 17th Annual Crafts and Cider Festival.

The sweatshirts include the following:

■ 43 N. Main, The Lambert-Lookadoo House: A Queen Anne style summer house that stands virtually unchanged since the turn of the century.

Among the Queen Anne details are the picturesque turret with laucet-shaped windows, the sweeping porch and fish-scale-shaped shingles.

This drawing was done by James Russell.

■ 54 S. Main, The Old First Baptist Church: This Greek Revival style house was built in 1847. The gable (pediment) end faces the street.

The Victorian tower was added in the late 19th century.

■ 58 N. Main: Midwestern adaptation of Greek Revival style that also appears on this year's mug by Donella Reese Vogel. All drawings for shirts and mugs were created by Vogel except the Lambert-Lookadoo House, which was drawn by James Russell.

Village pays for fall leaf pickup

For the second year, the Clarkston Village Council will provide curbside leaf pickup for about 400 households in the village.

A ban on leaf burning in the village prompted the council to offer leaf pickup in the fall last year.

The council will again provide 10 free leaf bags to each homeowner and will pay the $800 pickup fee.

For $2 per household, Smith's Disposal is to pick up the bags of leaves on three consecutive Saturdays: Oct. 27, Nov. 3 and Nov. 10. Leaves are to be bagged and put at the curbside by 8 a.m.

Sept. 19 hearing on natural beauty road

A public hearing concerning the possible designation of Deer Lake Road as a "natural beauty road" will be discussed on Wednesday, Sept. 19.

The Road Commission for Oakland County will be conducting the public hearing to gauge public sentiment on the Deer Lake Road residents' request.

The meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. at the Independence Township Board Room, 90 North Main Street, Clarkston. For more information, call the Road Commission at 645-2000.

Boy OK after Deer Lake tubing mishap

A 12-year-old Ann Arbor boy escaped with minor injuries after his tube, which was being pulled by a motor boat, struck an offshore aluminum raft on Deer Lake, Independence Township.

On Aug. 25, Nate Adelman suffered minor cuts and bruises after the tube he was riding crashed into an aluminum raft, according to reports at the Oakland County Marine Division.

The report said the driver of the boat was attempting to drop off the boy and tube on shore by swinging the boat around in an arcing manner. However, the driver miscalculated the proximity to other tethered craft along shore, and the boy struck the raft.

The incident was considered an accident, and no citations were issued to the operator of the boat.

Seized jewelry to be auctioned

A gem and jewelry auction in Independence Township this week could be reminiscent of a segment of the popular television program, "Lifestyles of the Rich and Famous."

On Thursday, Sept. 13, Sadows Auction Gallery, Inc., of Clarkston will auction more than $5 million worth of gems and jewelry confiscated in drug raids in Detroit, New Orleans, Houston and Miami.

The auction will begin at 10 a.m. at the Deer Lake Racquet Club, 6167 White Lake Rd., Independence Township. The public is invited to attend at no charge.

The main attraction of the auction will be $2.2 million worth of Columbian emeralds. The most lavish of the emeralds to be auctioned is an 86.5-carat heart-shaped gem valued at $500,000.

Other items to be auctioned off include 30 Rolex watches and 40 individually-cut diamonds, larger than one carat in size.

All proceeds from the auction will be deposited into the National Forfeiture Fund, which is operated by the Department of Justice.

According to Paul Sadows, owner of Sadows Auction Galleries, prominent gem and jewelry representatives from Houston, Miami, New Orleans and Detroit will be attending the auction. Sadows said the auction will be a unique one for this part of the state.

"Usually, you hear about auctions of this magnitude in cities like New York and Los Angeles," Sadows said. "It's absolutely amazing that an auction of this variety will be held in our backyard. It's a real coup for Clarkston."

Thanks for help

Clarkston Community Education would like to say a special thank you to Greg Zemsta and his tractor sales business in Dearborn for the use of his trailer to make our float for the Labor Day Parade. Greg went out of his way to be helpful; and his assistance really demonstrates the type of service one would expect of his company.

We'd also like to thank a Springfield Township garden store for the mum plants that were used on the float. The garden store has always been very helpful to our department, and we appreciate them.

Also a big thanks to the Clarkston Rotary Club for giving our float the "President's Award." The many participants from our department enjoyed the parade and were pleased to help promote the "Preserve the Earth" theme. Through education at all levels we can have a better future.

Marilyn Allyn

Student gets an inside look at bilingual education

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston resident Margie Moyet Deschaine was one of 10 student representatives from the University of Michigan-Flint to participate in an educational program in Mexico.

The 29-year-old bilingual education major spent two weeks in Mexico in the Mexican Immersion Program, a series of seminars focusing on cross-cultural education.

The U-M students accounted for a small portion of the 40 Americans who made the journey. A majority of the travelers were college professors from the Los Angeles and Chicago areas.

The various seminars included Mexican politics, history, geography, mythology, folklore and education.

Moyet Deschaine concentrated on the children's literature segment of the program. She attended classes for five hours a day, where the instructors spoke entirely in Spanish. Despite the long hours, she still got to see the sights of Tlaxcala, Mexico.

Courtesy of the Mexican Ministry of Education, the American entourage also visited Mexico City and the Aztec pyramids. However, she said her favorite part of the trip was meeting the people of Mexico.

"Despite the overwhelming poverty in Mexico, the people have incredible strength," she said. "They are very polite and gracious to visitors. The entire time we were there, I never encountered any anti-American sentiment."

Moyet Deschaine, a junior, said the trip to Mexico has influenced her to work harder in her studies, especially Spanish. She mentioned that she'd like to return to Mexico again to encounter more of its people and learn further of its history.

Margie is a full-time employee at the Oakland County Health Division, Waterford Township, and attends college classes in the evening. She is married to Marty Deschaine, a reporter with a Milford-based newspaper.

Young careerists can benefit from club

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Young careerists have a chance to help themselves and help the community at the same time.

The Waterford Clarkston Business and Professional Women's (BPW) Organization is looking for males and females under age 35 who excel in their professions and who care about their community.

The BPW's 1990 Young Careerist Program is designed to recognize outstanding young careerists and help them out along the way.

Interested people should fill out a biographical information sheet and call Sue Kiser at 625-1521 or Joan Kopietz at 625-2511.

By recognizing top careerists, the program can benefit the individuals, the company for which they work and the community as a whole, said Kiser, chairwoman of Young Careerists.

Plus, the BPW is beneficial to younger people in their careers, she said.

"The people with whom you work and know really present opportunities for you in a professional or business nature," said Kiser. "It also provides socialization and friendship."

"There's a growth element involved," she said.

"You become aware of what you can contribute to the organization, and ... you can go beyond the scope of whatever job you have."

The program is open to women and men, Kiser stressed.

"It's probably more important for women because there are fewer opportunities for women to get involved," she said.

Conditions of the program require that a careerist have been employed in his or her career area for one year or have outstanding scholastic, community service or charity work.

The candidate must live, work, train or attend school in the area to be represented and must support goals and objectives of the National Foundation of Business and Professional Women's Association.

Candidates will be judged on biographical information and may be judged on such criteria as personal accomplishments, a speech presentation, group interaction or personal interview.

Candidates advance from local to regional and state levels, so the young career person's accomplishments can reflect on the community, said Kiser, adding that the program is also good for the BPW.

"Young people bring new ideas," she said.

MARGIE Moyet Deschaine of North Holcomb, Clarkston, ventured to Mexico as part of a cross-cultural education program.

Program for grieving children, teenagers

A peer support group for children and teens will be offered this fall. Registration deadline is Wednesday, Sept. 26.

Rainbows for All God's Children is a support group for children who have experienced loss through death, divorce, separation, abandonment, adjusting to a step-parent and more — changes that can be dramatic to a child.

In the program, children can verbalize their emotions and work out the sometimes overwhelming feelings that occur.

A trained adult is facilitator of the program in which children meet in small groups of not more than six children of their own age level for six one-hour meetings and one wrap-up day in the fall. Plus, they have six more one-hour meetings and another wrap-up day in the winter.

Small-group meetings begin Sunday, Oct. 7, at St. Daniel Cushing Center, 7010 Valley Park Drive, Clarkston.

The program is open to all children in the area and is sponsored by St. Anne Church, Ortonville, and St. Daniel Church, Clarkston.

For more information, call Laone Trese at 628-1770, Arline Moore at 625-4583 or 625-3254, or Bernie and Norma Braun at 627-3965.

Scholarship program in need of participants

Young women in the Clarkston area may be interested in a scholarship program this year, and area residents may want to help raise money for the scholarship program.

Organizers of the Clarkston Junior Miss program are looking for interested girls to participate in the Young Woman of the Year program.

The next meeting is planned for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 20, at the Clarkston High School Kirchgessner Theater.

To help with the cost of the scholarships awarded each year, pizza and caramel apples will be sold at the Clarkston Community Historical Society Crafts and Cider Festival Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 15 and 16, in Clarkston's Depot Park. Helpers are welcome.

For more information, call Barb Hamaker at 625-4041.

Honors for employers

Are you progressive and supportive in policies for women employees? If so, you may be eligible for the annual Employer of the Year Award.

The Waterford-Clarkston Business and Professional Women's (BPW) Club is seeking applications for the award. Any employer operating in the Waterford-Clarkston community is eligible to apply. Employees may enter their bosses.

Applications will be accepted until Tuesday, Sept. 25. Return applications to Susan West, 7820 Deerhill Dr., Clarkston, MI 48346.

The winner of the Employer of the Year Award will be honored at BPW's dinner meeting at the Deer Lake Racquet Club Thursday, Oct. 11.

Applications are available at Tierra Arts and Design, Main Street, Clarkston, or by calling Susan West at 362-4466 or 625-2092.

Festival helpers needed

Volunteers are needed to work at a beverage booth at the Renaissance Festival Sept. 15 and 16.

Beverages will be dispensed by the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club, which needs a few more helpers. Workers must be age 21 or older and are needed Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 15 and 16.

For more information, call Gini Schultz at 625-3062 or 625-3122.

Ceremonial dedication

BISHOP Dale Melczek helps place a cornerstone in his Sept. 9 dedication of the Cushing Center at St. Daniel Catholic Church, Valley Park Drive, Independence Township.

The center is named for the Rev. Charles Cushing who died in December 1989. Cushing served as the parish priest for St. Daniel's from April 1977 until his death.

Classical quartet appears in final taping

"That's Entertainment," a live show aired on Independence-Clarkston Channel 65, will tape its last show on Thursday, Sept. 13.

Jon Sampson, a 1988 graduate of Clarkston High School, has produced and directed the show for about 18 months, but his plans to move to Florida means the show will be canceled.

Jon is following his parents to Florida. His father, Jack Sampson of Paramus, Independence Township, is retiring from General Motors Corp.

Jon is a graduate of Specs Howard School of Broadcasting and currently is a student in the broadcasting program at Oakland Community College, Auburn Hills Campus. He plans to continue his education in Florida.

Jon says he's enjoyed doing the local show, even to the point of putting his father to work. Jack has served as host of the show.

Jon chides, "This is the only time I get to tell him what to do."

The show has used local musicians from all over southeastern Michigan, he says.

For the final Thursday night taping, Doree, a classical string quartet is to perform. Everyone is welcome to attend the taping session, Jon says.

The taping begins at 7 p.m., and audience members must be in the United Cable public access building on Waldon Road next to Clarkston Junior High School, by 6:30 p.m., Jon says.

Board adopts new PRD ordinance

A planned residential development ordinance (PRD) was adopted by the Independence Township Board Sept. 4.

After the board conducted a second reading of the ordinance, the board unanimously adopted the ordinance. The PRD would pertain to proposed residential developments larger than 160 acres.

The ordinance would mandate that at least 20 percent of the land in question be "open space," with a limit of one single-family residential unit per gross acre.

Originally, the idea of a PRD resulted from the proposed 820-acre golf course-residential development at Clintonville and Waldon roads in Independence and Orion townships.

A development of this magnitude usually would be approved under several phases of the township's planned unit development zoning.

New SJHS assistant principal has sights on future

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

As the new assistant principal of Sashabaw Junior High School, Dr. Jean Lang's list of duties totals about three pages.

Primarily she is required to support the principal, she says.

Lang will fill in when the principal is absent, share responsibility for teacher evaluations, discipline students

"I see myself hopefully having impact on instruction and on the tone and climate of the school. I'd like to affect where we're headed, as a leader."

and coordinate school events — the "nitty gritty" aspects of running a junior high school, she says.

The responsibilities are not new to Lang, who worked previously as counselor/supervisor in Bloomfield Hills.

The administrative position provided her with experience in many of the areas she works in now.

An extensive and diversified education also lists among Lang's qualifications. She holds a master's degree in fine arts for painting, a master's degree in counseling and a master's degree in teaching. Her doctorate was obtained in the special education field.

Part of Lang's enthusiasm for the assistant principal position was gleaned during the actual interview, she says.

"I was very impressed with the interview committee," she says. "They were honest and straightforward. They seemed to have an enlightened view of education."

"We seemed to share interests and common goals," Lang adds.

One of Lang's broad goals is to guide the school's general direction.

"I see myself hopefully having impact on instruction and on the tone and climate of the school," she says. "I'd like to affect where we're headed, as a leader."

Likely the biggest challenge facing Lang is evaluating the needs of the school and district, she admits. She's focusing on getting to know the staff and administrators during her daily rounds.

"Conceptually, I like to think on larger terms," Lang says. "I'd like to be an asset, to help push into the future."

Dr. Lang lives with her husband, John, in Rochester Hills. She has one daughter and enjoys golf, writing, music and bike touring.

Springfield tourney crowns 3 winners

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Close but no cigars.

Varsity soccer teams from Clarkston and Springfield Christian Academy played several close matches but both teams failed to pick up a victory during the Springfield Christian Academy Labor Day Soccer Tournament Sept 4-8.

Twenty-plus teams competed in three different divisions.

Clarkston, playing in Division 3, was edged by Washington Eisenhower, 2-1, in its opener. Ann Arbor Huron stopped the Wolves, 2-0, in the second match and Flint Powers edged Clarkston, 2-1, in the last contest.

Springfield Christian, competing in Division 1, didn't play in the opening round but lost to Oakland Christian, 5-3, in the second round. Roeper then defeated the host team, 3-1, in the last round.

Oakland Christian won Division 1 by shutting out Lansing Christian, 2-0, in the finals. Southfield Christian nipped Avondale, 1-0, to win Division 2. Saginaw Heritage dropped Washington Eisenhower, 3-0, for the Division 3 title.

CLARKSTON'S Scott Rooney applies pressure on the Ann Arbor Huron goalkeeper. The River Rats, however, edged the Wolves, 2-0, Sept. 5 during the five-day tournament at Springfield.

SPRINGFIELD Christian Academy's Aaron Lucas extends himself for a kick in action against Oakland Christian Sept. 6 during the Springfield Christian Academy Labor Day Soccer Tournament. Oakland Christian, which ended up winning Division I of the tournament, stopped Springfield Christian, 5-3.

Netters open with tough competition

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston girls' tennis team opened its season with three tough opponents, Rochester Adams, Lake Orion and the weather.

Lake Orion 7, Clarkston 0
(Sept. 7 at Lake Orion)

Two matches went three sets but Lake Orion still managed a 7-0 victory over Greater Oakland Activities League foe Clarkston.

The always-tough Dragons have won the GOAL for the past nine years.

Clarkston's Caroline Allison and Heather Shaw both had tie-breaker sets and took their opponents to three sets before losing. Kyna Getsinger topped Allison in No. 2 singles, 6-0, 6-7 (7-2), 6-3, and Dragon Holly Daily edged Heather Shaw in No. 3 singles, 2-6, 6-4, 7-6 (7-2).

Kristen Plunkett defeated Wolf Kristy Swartout, 6-1, 6-0, in No. 1 singles. In No. 4 singles action, Stacy Zoellner nipped Jessica Miller, 6-4, 7-5.

In No. 1 doubles, Dragons Jeni Zimmer-Krista Petersen topped Amanda VanKlaveren-Kate Morris 6-0, 6-1; No. 2 doubles Paula Nejta-Michelle Dendel edged Tracey Ortwine-Frauke Winkel 6-4, 7-5; No. 3 doubles Jeni Wozniak-Kim Abel defeated Becky Rumph-Kim Carpentier 6-1, 6-2.

Rochester Adams 4, Clarkston 1
(Sept. 6 at Rochester Adams)

In the season opener, rain, thunder and lightning canceled the No. 4 singles and No. 2 doubles but Rochester Adams still had enough matches won to clinch a non-league victory.

Clarkston's Shaw, playing No. 3 singles, won the lone match for the Wolves, downing Carrie Stover 6-4, 6-3.

In No. 1 singles, Adams' Ann Maibauer defeated freshman Kristy Swartout, 6-3, 6-0. Amy Walton stopped Allison 6-2, 6-3 in No. 2 singles.

In doubles action, No. 1 Angie Basch-Kate Hoagland got past Morris-VanKlaveren 6-1, 6-2 and No. 3 Cathy Maibauer-Andrea Varon topped Rumph-Carpentier 6-0, 6-3.

Swinging from One that got away the heels

James
Gibowski

Dear Adam,

There's a story behind that baseball your dad gave you. It's a story that fell right into my hands ... well, out of my hands. Your dad (Mark Mikolajczak) and I decided to go to a Detroit Tiger game Sept. 5 against the Toronto Blue Jays.

While he drove to Tiger Stadium, we couldn't help talking briefly about what is now known as "the Gates Brown Doubleheader," an August 1968 doubleheader in which The Gater dramatically won both games of a doubleheader. Your dad and I were teenagers then and it was easily the best day I've ever had at Tiger Stadium.

During that doubleheader, Don Wert fouled off a pitch which I had nearly caught (I never touched it) in the upper deck. Your dad wrote in my scorebook that the ball hit me right in the hand. I suppose his inaccurate writing of the facts is good reason why I now am a sportswriter and he is a stockbroker for A.G. Edwards.

Anyway, I survived that experience and looked forward to the game we were about to see 22 years later last Wednesday night.

Before the game, we stopped into Lindell A.C. (Detroit's most-famous sports bar). After quickly eating some steak sandwiches, we drove the short distance to the stadium.

We didn't have any tickets and your dad, who handles thousands of dollars every day over the phone, knew how to handle the money when it came to buying some tickets. Five minutes before game time, he bargained down a pair of $6 tickets to $3 each.

We entered the stadium and started to sit in the seats that were marked on our tickets, but decided to get closer to the left field fence. I suggested one area and then your dad convinced me to take a spot right next to the wire-meshed fence.

The leftfielders (Toronto's Rob Ducey and Detroit's Gary Ward) had their backs to us only about 30 feet away. We were so close we could smell the grass.

The game was tied 1-1 in the third when Toronto's Rance Mulliniks came up to bat against Detroit's Clay Parker. I was keeping score, writing something down in my scorebook when your dad got excited and told me the ball was coming our way.

I started to stand up, not seeing the ball until it was fairly close to me. I cupped my hands, palms up, raising them slightly above my head as the ball sped towards me. The ball curved a little to my right and then I felt it hit my left hand only. It bounced two seats to my right where your dad grabbed it before others began to pounce on it. (At least I didn't let the ball get behind me where all of those vultures were waiting for an easy bounce).

Some people told your dad to throw it back on the field (a la Chicago Cub fans who throw opponent's home run balls away). But your dad told them he would keep the ball for his son, you.

After your dad critiqued my fielding style, a stadium usher came up to me and asked if my hands were all right. I sheepishly told him I was okay. Nothing was broken, except a little bit of my heart.

I couldn't help think about Geraldine Feltes, the 65-year-old Clarkston woman I wrote a story about recently who caught Alan Trammell's game-winning home run in the ninth, close to where I dropped Mulliniks' home run. I called her up to tell her about my unsuccessful catch. She was comforting, but I still knew that I had blown my chance to belong to that select group of individuals who can say they caught a homerun.

It's funny. In the past two years of being a sportswriter, I have interviewed or photographed players such as Alan Trammell, Cecil Fielder, Ken Griffey Jr., George Brett and others, but there is definitely something about catching a baseball in the stands. I promised myself I will catch one sometime in the future.

Your dad and I had a closer look at the ball, and it was easy to see the part of the ball that Mulliniks smacked.

In the sixth inning, Fielder belted his 44th home run of the season over our heads into the upper deck.

About an inning later, someone from the upperdeck yelled down to me, "How are your hands?"

I thanked him for his concern, but ...

The Tigers ended up losing 7-3.

We had a typical drive back north on I-75, only this time there was a baseball safely resting in the front seat.

Your dad dropped me off to Clarkston, and it was the end of a most interesting night.

The next morning your dad and I talked on the telephone. He told me he had seen several replays (from different angles) of the Mulliniks' home run on a taped broadcast from PASS television. I had dropped the ball, over and over again.

Later in the day, I finally saw myself on television (Channel 9 in Windsor) as the highlights of the game were replayed.

I made a tape of it. Not that I needed to tape it to remember it. That night at Tiger Stadium and the time your dad and I saw the Gates Brown Doubleheader will be moments I will always remember.

It's comforting how those moments, 22 years apart, bring the past and present together.

Years from now, if someone asks you about that baseball, don't forget to mention how Parker, Mulliniks, your dad and I all had something to do with those six seconds of a baseball's life from pitch, hit to recovery.

Six seconds worth never forgetting.

Sincerely,
James Gibowski

WOLF receiver Chris Figa catches a pass from quarterback Dugan Fife and is met by a Novi tackler. Figa caught three passes during Clarkston's 24-6 victory last Friday.

Clarkston D says no way, Novi

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston and Novi offenses had more turnovers than the Village Bakeshop on Main Street, but the Wolves' defense played the sweetest football last Friday night.

Novi threw three interceptions, Clarkston had one pass picked off, and each team lost two fumbles, but the Clarkston defense constantly stopped the Wildcats from taking advantage in the Wolves' 24-6 home opener victory over Novi.

"Our offense is nowhere close to where we want it to be. Our second half was ugly," said Clarkston head coach Kurt Richardson. "But our defense, a variety of kids, played outstanding. We were in the backfield all day."

With the win, AA Clarkston evened its record to 1-1 while Novi, ranked in the state's top-10 for Class A, dropped to 1-1.

Novi coach John Osborne also complimented the Clarkston defense, which recorded tackles from 20 different players.

"They had pressure on us and took the consistency away from us," said Osborne.

But the Novi coach also recognized the Wolves' talent on offense.

"They have the ability to both run and pass. It's a nice balanced offense," said Osborne.

One Wolf on offense Osborne couldn't avoid noticing was junior halfback Dan Griffiths. Griffiths, a 1,000 yard-plus runner on the JV last season, led the Wolves with only 23 rushing yards against Troy in the season opener, but ran for 116 yards on 16 carries against the Wildcats.

Griffiths opened the scoring in the first period when he burst to a 30-yard touchdown around the left side. Sure-footed kicker David Marks made the PAT.

With 3:36 still left in the opening quarter, Dugan Fife tossed a 10-yard touchdown pass to a wide open Dereck Raymond in the endzone. Marks' kick put the Wolves up 14-0.

And in the last play of the first period, the Wolves fooled a 10-man Wildcat defensive line with a fake punt as Brian Davis raced for a 33-yard gain and a first down.

The Wolves failed to capitalize on the fake punt, but with only 11 seconds left in the half, Marks connected on a 32-yard field goal for a 17-0 bulge at intermission.

In the third quarter, Novi's Matt Kobe found the only large hole in the Wolves' defense all night as he raced down the left sideline for a 39-yard gain inside the Clarkston 10. Teammate Jason Wladishkin then scored from two yards out to cut Clarkston's lead to 17-6. The PAT failed.

The Wildcats soon were in the middle of another drive, but on the first play of the fourth quarter, Clarkston linebacker Joel Davis intercepted a Jeff Schram pass. Clarkston coach Richardson felt Davis' one-handed grab was the key play of the game.

With 3:01 left in the game, Griffiths closed out the scoring with 32-yard TD down the right sideline. Marks' PAT made it 24-6.

Clarkston, picking up 12 first downs to Novi's eight, rushed for 229 yards while the Wildcats ran for 126.

In addition to Griffiths' 116 yards and Brian Davis' 33, Fife ran for 29 on six carries, Kevin Juzysta carried three times for 25, Eric Ryan took the ball twice for 11, Matt Howe ran for nine one two carries and Jeff Newlon ran once for six.

Clarkston passed 24 times, completing 12 with one interception. Chris Figa caught three passes for 30 yards, Raymond grabbed three for 27, Griffiths caught three for 23 and Jon Winiemko grabbed two for 21.

Novi finished the game with minus-3 yards passing. Three Wolves had interceptions, Joel Davis, Fife and Winiemko.

Damon Michelsen and Ryan Roberts each recovered a Wildcat fumble.

Leading tacklers for Clarkston were Joel Davis with nine, including four for loss of yardage and Michelsen with five solos and two assists.

Kurt Golarz had two tackles, two assists and one tackle for loss of yards. Mike Moller had three solos and one for a loss of yards. Adam Kirk had two solos and two assists and Winiemko had three solos and one assist. Raymond had a solo, an assist and two for loss of yards. Greg Heaton had two solos and one tackle for loss of yards and Tom Majeske added two solos.

The Wolves play their next three games on the road before ending the season with four straight home games.

Clarkston travels to Brandon Friday for a 7 p.m. game to open its Greater Oakland Activities League season.

Turk again earns MVP status

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The third time isn't always a charm when it comes to baseball (strikes, outs) but it was for Mike Turk.

Turk, chief of parks of Independence Township Parks and Recreation, was chosen most valuable player for the third straight year as he and his Nothdurft Tool slow-pitch softball teammates won the 35-and-over Men's Master Tournament for the sixth year in a row.

Nothdurft of Mount Clemens defeated C.J. Lookers of Indianapolis, Sept. 2, in the finals for the national championship, which took place at Enid, Okla. Fifty-two teams competed.

In addition to being selected most valuable player, Turk was named first-team All-American second baseman and he also hit the most home runs (nine) during the tournament.

Dragons' breath ignited by team depth

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston's Dave Studt was a co-medalist but it wasn't enough to stop Lake Orion's varsity team depth in the Dragons 165-173 golf victory over the Wolves.

Lake Orion, the defending Greater Oakland Activities League champ, hosted Clarkston Sept. 4 at Oxford Hills.

Studt, a junior, fired a 4-over-par 40 to share the medalist title with Dragon Todd Sherwood.

Jason Jarvis shot a 42 for the Wolves, teammate Marc Swartout had a 44 and Derek Bildstein finished with a 47 for the 173 total. Sean Halleran and Pete Luster also had 47s for the Wolves.

Adding to Sherwood's 40 were Dragons Terry Grumacki and Mark Belanger each with 41s and Matt Morris with a 43 for Lake Orion's 165 total. Jeff Kaiser shot a 44 and Pat Marcus had a 46.

"Lake Orion played well," said Clarkston coach Jim Chamberlain, also pointing out it is especially difficult to beat the defending champs with three of six Wolf golfers shooting 47s. "They were a better team than us that day."

Clarkston will later get an opportunity to face the Dragons at home (Spring Lake Country Club) Sept. 20.

Another GOAL match, Sept. 6, against

Brandon at Spring Lake began under pleasant conditions but was eventually cancelled because of rain, thunder and lightning. That match will be replayed.

Golf coach sinks ace

Clarkston varsity golf team coach Jim Chamberlain recently showed some of his players he can do more than just talk about the game of golf.

Chamberlain, the Wolves' golf coach for the past 14 years, used a 6-iron to fire his first career hole-in-one on the 180-yard, par-3 fifth hole at Spring Lake Country Club.

Not only did the coach ace the hole but the fivesome he was playing with shot a 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 on the hole.

JV player Adam Haviland birdied with a 2, John Getzan had a 3, JV coach Tim Kaul fired a 4 and JV player Joe Dakroub had a 5.

CLARKSTON'S Derek Bildstein tees off as Brandon's Andrew Okolovitch watches the flight of the ball. Even though the match between the two GOAL foes started in sunshine last Thursday at Spring Lake Country Club, thunder and lightning eventually cancelled the match. The match will be rescheduled.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

NO-NOTICE APPOINTMENTS

QUESTION: Lately my REALTOR has been making appointments to show my home with very little advance notice, stating that the prospect is from out of town with little time to look for a house. Isn't this to my disadvantage?

ANSWER: To the contrary, the busy, out-of-town prospect is your best prospect. Never get annoyed by a last-minute appointment. These out-of-town transferees don't have the luxury of time on their side. They need a house now - not in a year from now. They're more apt to make a bonafide, immediate offer than one who has all the time in the world. Don't treat it as an inconvenience, but rather as an opportunity to accomplish what you wanted in the first place - sell your home!

OUT-OF-TOWN TRANSFEREES are excellent prospects. They are anxious to move and more apt to make an immediate offer.

Wolves wear down 2 non-league hoopsters

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

One game was a blowout and another was highlighted by a fourth-quarter comeback as the Clarkston girls' basketball team raised its record to 3-1.

Clarkston 46, Rochester Adams 41 (Sept. 6 at Rochester Adams)

Clarkston outscored Rochester Adams 18-9 in the fourth quarter for the 46-41 comeback victory in non-league play.

Adams led after a low-scoring first half, 18-14. Both teams scored 14 in the third period and then the Wolves took control in the fourth.

"We wore them out. We were in better condition," said Clarkston coach Larry Mahrle about his Wolves that have been applying a full-court press all season against opponents.

Once again, the McChesney sisters led Clarkston in scoring, but the coach was quick to point out the rebounding of Heather Steinhelper (nine), and the steals by Carrie Roeser (seven) and Beth Walker (five).

Jennifer McChesney paced the Wolves with 20 points, which included a key-fourth-quarter 3-pointer, and Alyson McChesney added 11. Walker had five, Steinhelper and Courtney Whittaker each had four and Roeser one.

Kim Sebesta was the only Adams player in double-figures, scoring 10.

The Wolves sank 11 of 28 free throws

while Adams made three of seven.

Coach Mahrle said his team usually gets more attempts at the free-throw line because the pressure of the Wolves' press causes turnovers, which results in Clarkston players being fouled as they drive to the basket for layups.

And the coach added, "We have not fouled often in press situations," keeping the opponents away from the charity line.

Adams avoided a sweep by winning the JV game, 44-26.

Clarkston 61, Flint Kearsley 30 (Sept. 4 at Flint Kearsley)

Clarkston outscored Flint Kearsley in every quarter for a lopsided 61-30 non-league victory.

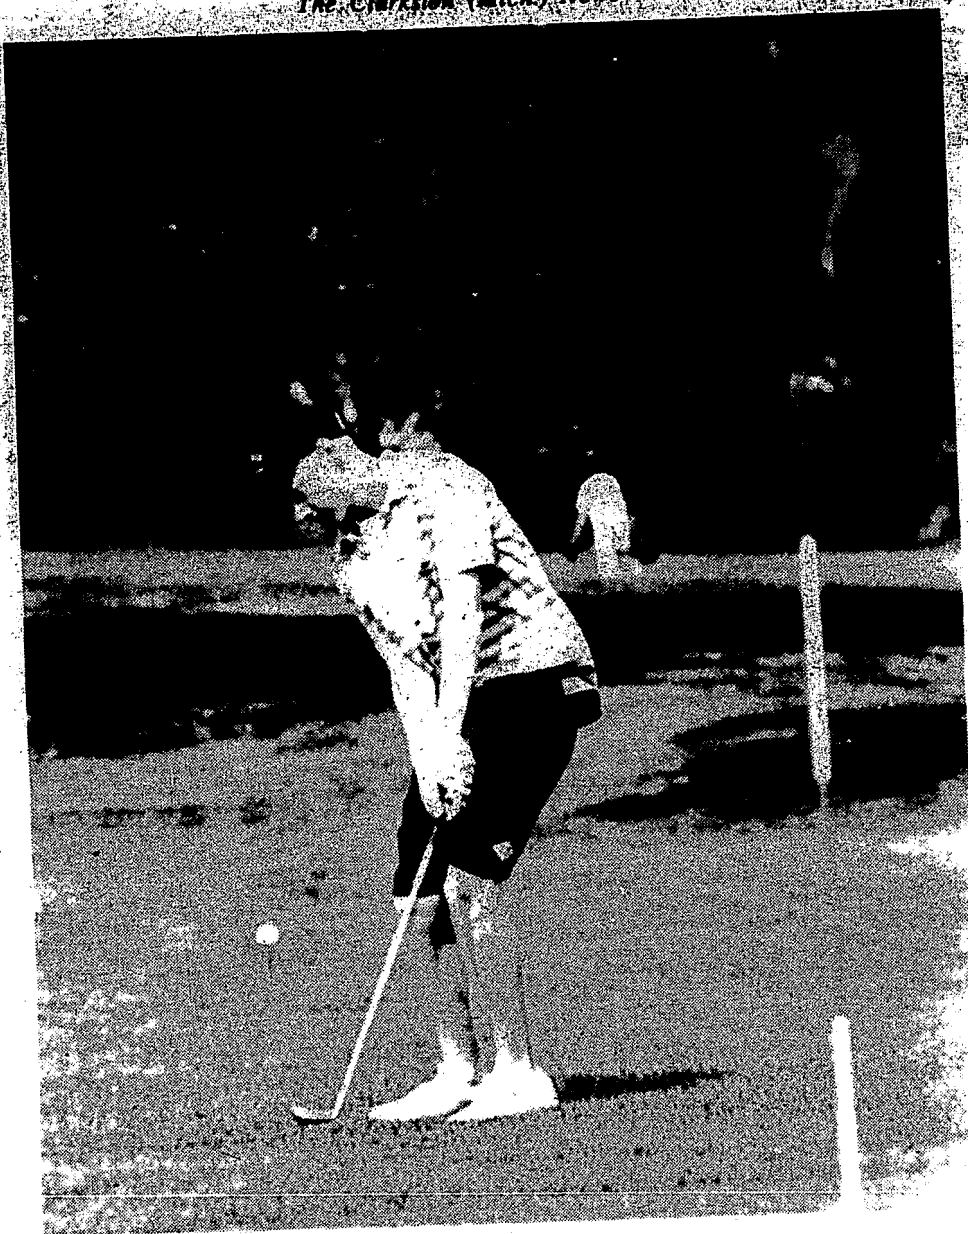

Clarkston led 9-3 after the first quarter but increased its advantage to 29-15 at intermission. A 20-point third quarter then put the game out of reach for the hosts.

Steinhelper led all scorers with 19, sinking five of six free-throws. Alyson McChesney scored 12, Whittaker and Laura Seitz both had six, Jennifer McChesney and Lesley Allen each with five, Roeser four, Stacey Tinkis and Shannon Jenks each had two.

Lori Hopkins paced Kearsley with 17.

The Wolves sank 14 of 23 free throws while Kearsley only made 10 of 27.

Clarkston made it a sweep by winning the JV game, 37-30.

FLU SHOT SEASON!

Get ready to roll up your sleeves! Many of you reading this will be receiving a flu shot this year.

The Community Health Care physicians recommend that you consider receiving a flu shot if you fall into one of the following categories:

1. Adults and children with heart or lung problems
2. Residents of nursing homes
3. Individuals of any age who have kidney disease, cystic fibrosis, diabetes, anemia, or asthma
4. Individuals on a medication which lowers their resistance to infections.
5. Healthy individuals over 65 years of age

The following people should check with our physician before having a flu vaccine:

1. If you have an allergy to eggs.
2. Women who might be pregnant
3. People who are ill and have a fever

Influenza (flu) is usually mild and most people recover fully. However, those individuals listed above need the vaccine to help provide immunity.

The viruses that cause flu frequently change, so people in the high risk groups should be vaccinated every year.

There is a $7.50 (seven dollars and fifty cents) charge for the shot and forms need to be signed at the Center. Senior Citizens are given a discount; their shots are only $3.00. No Appointment is necessary.

Planning a company's growth a necessary step

Launching or operating a business without a carefully defined business plan is as foolhardy as setting out in a foreign country without a map and clear directions.

A business plan is an objective analysis of where your company is today, where you would like it to be tomorrow and how you intend to get it there. To do this, you will have to state your objectives, evaluate your resources and clarify employees' roles.

The benefits of business plans

Whether you're an experienced business person or just starting a new venture, developing a business plan will benefit your company, ways the Michigan Association of CPAs.

By presenting an overview of your entire organization, a business plan puts you in a better position to decide which activities are likely to increase your profits. In addition, by defining roles employees will play in achieving your organization's goals, a business plan can give them a greater sense of involvement in the business' future, encourage them to meet established objectives and dates and set standards of performance for all staff levels.

With a business plan in hand, you will also be better able to direct activities that will enhance your business' profitability and position in the marketplace. And if you ever need to apply for a loan, negotiate a merger or just promote sales, a business plan will help demonstrate that your company is soundly managed and well organized.

The planning process

Although business plans vary in style and complexity, most begin with a clear statement of purpose for the company. When writing your statement of purpose, answer several key questions. Why was your company formed? What makes it unique? What are its primary objectives? Take time to develop the statement of purpose since it will guide the remainder of the planning process.

Next, define your company's goals for the next three to five years. Think about what you wish to accomplish and if such goals are feasible. Keep in mind that you may need to modify your initial goals as your business grows or market conditions change.

You will also need to determine your company's strengths and weaknesses. To do so, look specifically at three areas of your business: market, product and finances. In studying your market, focus on the size of your potential market, customer's needs, industry statistics and projections, data on market competition, sales and distribution plans and promotion and sales strategies.

When looking at your product line, pay close attention to patents, trademarks and trade secrets, manufacturing and operations requirements, and the laws and regulations affecting your business. In the area of finances, look at historical data as well as projected financial data.

Commit to a written plan

Don't underestimate the value of committing your business strategies to paper. The written business plan should summarize all your findings and outline your business' financial situation, taking into account the current economic climate. Make sure you include an analysis of your competition and a detailed list of business objectives for a specified period. The plan should also state what actions you should take and what programs you should start to achieve those objectives.

Finally, review the plan regularly. To monitor the effectiveness of the plan, compare actual results with those you hoped to achieve in your initial planning phase. For example, are you meeting your predetermined deadlines? How do your financial and operational projections compare with actual results? Are your long-range plans still on target?

Seek the advice of an expert

A comprehensive business plan requires that you step back from your business and carefully analyze its operations, finances and structure. Not every business owner is in a position to conduct a detailed analysis.

If you have neither the time nor the expertise to develop a formal business plan, you might want to consider working with a CPA. In particular, a CPA can help you review historical documentation, including your financial statements, debt and lease agreements, income tax returns, personnel files and ownership data. He or she can also help you compare your business' activity to industry norms by analyzing your business' financial ratios and comparing them to those of similar businesses.

Whether you seek professional help or develop a business plan on your own, remember that a business plan is basically just a map and a set of directions. The responsibility for ensuring that your company stays on course remains with you.

For further advice on developing business plans, you can request a complimentary copy of the brochure, "Planning your Company's Growth." Send your request with a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Michigan Association of CPAs, P.O. Box 9054, Farmington Hills, MI 48333.

The above information was provided by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.

SVETLANA Timchenko is comfortable in a classroom of teen-agers. The Byelorussia native visited Jim Wenger's current events class in Room 708 at Clarkston High School

Aug. 30 and talked about the world environment, the Chernobyl accident and life in the Soviet Union compared to life in the U.S. She also talked about her American travels. In the Soviet Union, Svetlana teaches ethics and psychology of relationships to high school students, and she teaches English to adults in the evenings.

Mom, daughter stop in Clarkston on global walk

Worldwide, people must protect the earth from pollution and destruction, says Soviet citizen

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Svetlana Timchenko was surprised by the litter she found in her walking tour of the United States, but she found the people enjoyable — especially those who stage peaceful demonstration, she says.

Svetlana, 36, and her daughter, Katya, 11, are part of A Global Walk for a Livable World.

After walking through the United States for seven months, the Timchenkos of Byelorussia, Soviet Union, stayed in the Clarkston area during part of a two-week break.

"Clarkston is a wonderful and good place, compared to Detroit," Svetlana says, noting that Detroit is more polluted than Clarkston.

She and Katya are staying with Jean Moon of Church Street, Independence Township, whom they met in the Soviet Union last year. Jean visited Byelorussia when she accompanied a group of Waterford-area dancers to the Soviet Union.

The Timchenkos started their trek across the United States in February with about 135 people, but the number is now down to about 90. Three other Soviets are included in the journey, as well as citizens from Japan, the Netherlands, Spain, Canada, Germany and the U.S.

"People join us along the walk," Svetlana says, adding that some walk for a day, and others stay for several weeks.

Svetlana says her purpose on the walk is to tell others of the tragedy of Chernobyl — a nuclear accident in that city affected her native town of Minsk in Byelorussia, a republic of the Soviet Union. Minsk is about 300 miles from the Chernobyl site, but the northwesterly winds carried the radiation over the area.

"People are suffering. Many children have cancer (such as) leukemia," Svetlana says.

More than 100,000 years will pass before the Chernobyl area is safe from radiation, she says.

"I think ordinary people should spread the message and not just scientists and politicians," Svetlana says.

Safer energy sources, such as windmills and solar power, must be used instead of nuclear power, she says.

Svetlana, a high school teacher of ethics and the psychology of relationships and a college teacher of English, speaks to schools and other groups along her journey. She spoke to a few Clarkston High School students Sept. 7.

The tour began in February in Santa Monica, Calif., and is to end at the United Nations building in New York on Oct. 24.

A trip across the Atlantic Ocean begins the second phase of the walk in London and is to end about two years later in Hiroshima, Japan.

Along their walk, the daily routine begins with breakfast and a prayer about 5:30 a.m. each day, followed by the actual walk about 7 a.m.

"We make a spiritual circle and join hands to say a prayer before we walk," Svetlana says.

The group is like a traveling caravan with old school buses brightly painted to carry gear, environmental literature and restroom facilities for the walkers.

Taking a rest during the journey is not a problem. "We have a 'blister bus' we can use for a mile," Svetlana says. "Every four miles we take a break, and we stop walking at 4 p.m."

The group then camps for the night after gathering their belongings from the gear bus.

Walking through deserts and mountains, the group has already experienced different types of weather, such as heavy rains, snow and freezing temperatures, Svetlana says.

Sleeping in the desert in Arizona was more excitement than Katya and Svetlana had bargained for. Coyotes and snakes inhabit the land, and neither of them liked what they found there.

"It was terrible and rather difficult," Svetlana says. For food, the group eats three vegetarian meals a day — paid for by the sale of environmental T-shirts, buttons and other items.

Katya was not a vegetarian before the trip, and it was difficult for her at first, says Svetlana.

"I did not like peanut butter," Katya explains.

She's just learning now, after seven months, to eat it, Svetlana says.

At each town they are met by media people, students of all ages and religious groups.

The Soviets have appeared on TV talk shows, radio stations and are frequently interviewed by the press, who seem more interested in interviewing Soviet citizens than people from other countries, Svetlana notes.

Before the long line of walkers reaches a town, a few from the group travel ahead to spread the news of their arrival.

One of group's goals, once reaching a new town or group, is to inform about acting responsibly around the world, Svetlana says.

Not only does the group inform, but they pick up trash along the way. Usually the group cleans the medians

Group's tips can make environment healthier

Environmental awareness will help make the world a better place to live for generations to come, according to a group of people who have set out on a three-year journey to save the earth.

About 90 people walk from town to town, telling people of some of the everyday things they can do to save the environment.

Listed below are some of the tips to preserve the planet from A Global Walk for a Livable World: EVERY DAY CHEMICALS

■ Use baking soda or salt, or a mixture of both, for abrasive cleaning, instead of cleanser.

■ For glass and windows, use a tablespoon of white vinegar in a quart of water. For tile floors use 1/4 cup vinegar in a gallon of water.

■ To polish wood furniture, use one part lemon juice and two parts olive or vegetable oil.

■ To open a clogged drain, open drain trap (if possible) and try to remove obstruction. Then try a plunger. If still clogged, pour down 1/4 cup baking soda followed by 1/2 cup vinegar. Close drain until fizzing stops, then flush with boiling water.

■ Use borax instead of chlorine bleach. Borax (a naturally occurring form of the element boron) cleans, disinfects, deodorizes whitens and softens water yet is far gentler to the environment than bleach.

Pair walks for world

along the highways.

"That is my disappointment; America is very dirty," Svetlana says. "In America your roads are better than Russia, but they are trashed."

The group of walkers also plants trees along the roadside and plan to plant 10,000 before their journey is completed.

"Our message is to think about the other generations and what we will leave for them tomorrow," she says.

■ Recycle used motor oil at a service station. (If all the lubricating oil in the U.S. were recycled and re-refined, we could reduce oil imports by 42,000 gallons per day — enough to heat 600,000 homes annually.)

■ Recycle car batteries at stores that sell new ones. (The heavy metals in lead-acid car batteries can contaminate groundwater if disposed of improperly.)

■ Substitute herbal bug repellents for chemical ones. Eating garlic can also be an effective way to repel mosquitoes and other pests.

■ Use cedar wood balls or shavings instead of moth balls.

■ Use pure soap without detergent, scent, coloring or germ-killers. (Most deodorant soaps contain antimicrobial chemicals that kill beneficial microbes in the environment.)

ENERGY

■ Minimize your automobile use. Carpool and use mass transit whenever possible. Rediscover the bicycle and walking.

■ Weatherize your home; tighten up places where heat leaks out by caulking and weatherstripping around doors and windows.

■ For cooling: use trees, overhangs, window shades or hanging plants to provide shade from direct sunlight, preventing indoor spaces from overheating. (Planted in the proper locations, trees and shrubs could reduce U.S. air conditioning use as much as 50 percent.)

■ For water heating: insulate your hot water tank and all pipes that carry hot water. Turn down the temperature of the water heater to 120 degrees. Use low-flow showerheads and faucet aerators.

■ Replace your most-used lights with compact-fluorescent bulb. Over its lifetime, it saves enough electricity to avoid burning 400 pounds of coal.

■ Use a clothes line instead of a dryer when practical.

■ Don't put hot foods directly into refrigerator or freezer; let them cool to room temperature first. Don't open refrigerator or freezer doors more than absolutely necessary.

■ Use a solar battery charger and rechargeable batteries. In addition to using solar power, this prevents the waste of resources and toxic waste problems of disposable batteries.

RECYCLING

■ After reducing the amount of waste you created and reusing all you can, separate any remaining trash for recycling. Compost organic material such as food and plant scraps. Bring glass, aluminum, paper and other recyclables to proper drop-off sites.

■ Don't accept a bag from a store unless you really need it. Bring your own reusable cloth bags and avoid both paper and plastic bags. If you must choose, pick paper bags, and reuse them as long as they last.

■ Use cloth rags, cloth napkins and cotton handkerchiefs instead of paper towels, paper napkins and tissues.

■ Buy recycled paper and other products made from recycled materials.

■ Don't use disposable diapers! (Americans use enough disposable diapers to fill a huge garbage barge every six hours!) Cloth diapers from a diaper service are generally less expensive, better for babies and prevent the waste of resources and landfill problems caused by disposables.

■ Avoid buying items with excessive packaging. Buy items in bulk, when possible, to avoid packaging altogether. (Packaging accounts for 50 percent of the volume and 30 percent of the weight of all municipal solid waste. It accounts for 50 percent of all paper produced in the U.S., 90 percent of all glass and 11 percent of all aluminum.)

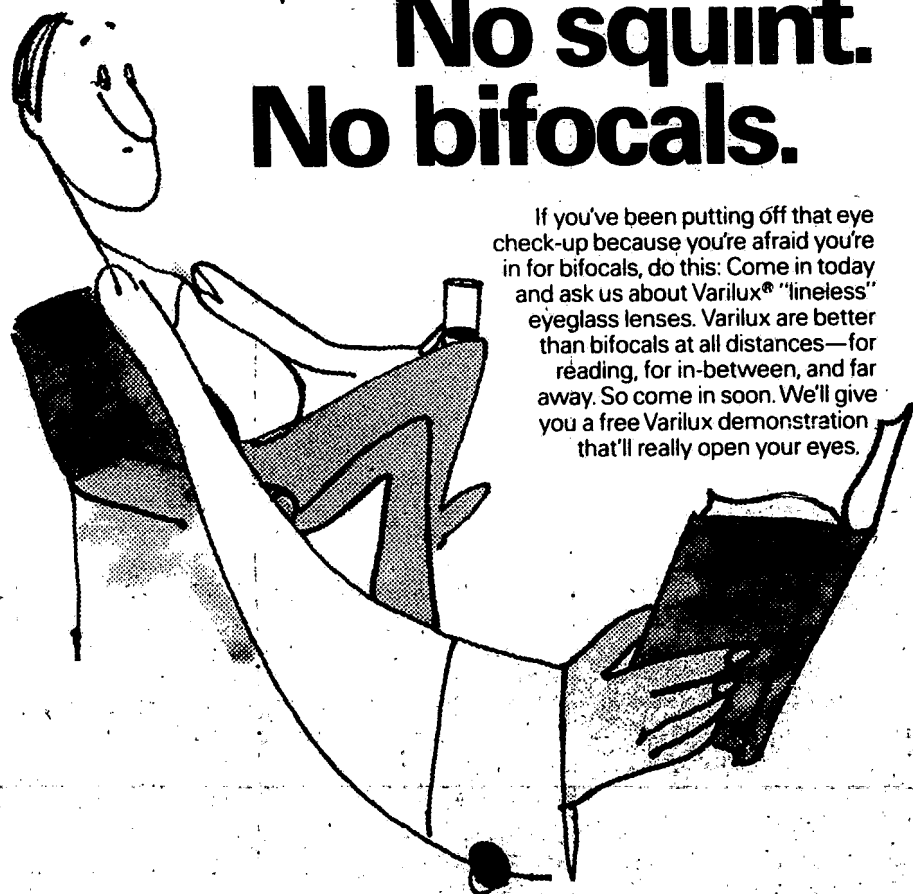

■ Choose returnable glass containers when possible. If returnables are not available, choose paper, aluminum or glass, with plastic always a last resort only.

■ Save a pile of scrap paper and staple bunches together for use as scratch pads.

■ Keep a cup at work and in your car to avoid using foam, plastic or other disposable cups.

■ Choose long-lasting, well-made products. Choose wood toys instead of plastic.

HEATING TIP

Furnaces in our homes or businesses are often forgotten or neglected. Out of sight - out of mind. "If it works, don't fix it" is the attitude of many of us. Or we mean to do something but put it off.

Furnaces need check-ups and preventive maintenance to make sure they are safe and to help prevent breakdowns.

Changing the filter, oiling the motor, and checking the belt all help to keep the furnace running. But, once a year, an experienced technician should clean, inspect and safety check your heating equipment to insure its safe, efficient operating condition.

Call now for a good professional clean; check and safety inspection of your heating system before the cold weather hits or you have a serious breakdown or operational problem.

The Other Side of Things

Driving Miss Laura

Ashley Ball

My sister Laura is 10 years old, and she's totally a sister — a great kid, fun to be around. She's hardly ever bratty, and we always have a good time together.

But she's also prone to the unusual, like when we're going somewhere in the car. She likes to wear her red dragon lady fingernails, open up a package of candy cigarettes and talk on a telephone (that's not connected to anything) in the front passenger's seat with a "cigarette" dangling from her lips as we drive down the freeway. (We don't know where she acquired her smoking habit since no one in our family smokes.) Sometimes cars almost swerve off the road when the driver looks over at this pint-size femme fatale.

At least she doesn't talk on her "car" phone or "smoke" while she's driving. I'M NOT KIDDING. She drives the car! Mostly on Allen or Reese roads or in one of the new Deerwood subdivisions where there isn't much traffic. Actually, she sits on my dad's lap and steers while he controls the gas pedal.

One day, however, she talked him into letting her control the gas pedal as well as steer.

Everything was going well until she came up on a small hill. Then, as we started down the other side and began picking up considerable speed, my dad realized that with Laura on his lap and her foot on the gas pedal, he couldn't get his foot on any of the pedals.

"The brake, Laura, the brake!" he ordered in controlled panic as the car continued gaining speed down the hill.

"The brake?" she responded calmly, "What do you mean, 'the brake'? Where is it?"

But her driving and smoking habits are not nearly as terrifying to us as her gambling habit. Since she was a toddler, Laura has been addicted to vending machines. First, it was Chicklet machines, then plastic egg machines. Then she started dabbling seriously in carnival games — you know: ring toss, dime throw, guessing birthdays. She won frequently, but it was never enough. She always wanted another dime and another and another.

Now she's into really heavy stuff: THE GRABBER. No matter where we are, if we walk by a Grabber, Laura veers toward it, breaks out in a sweat and starts asking for quarters. She can never pass one up. I've even seen her, with hands shaking, slide quarters into Grabbers clearly marked, "OUT OF ORDER."

The other day, we were going to drive over to Flint to do some school shopping at Genessee Mall. She put on her long red nails, picked up a pack of candy cigarettes and the phone receiver, then put some change in her shoe.

"You never know," she confided, "I might get lost from you guys at the mall."

I was impressed at this sign of maturity.

"Good thinking, Laura," I said. "At least you'd have money to call someone for help."

"It's not for the phone," she said, clearly irritated. "It's in case I see a Grabber while I'm lost."

I can't imagine life without her. She's my friend forever. I could go on and on about her Huck Finn antics, but it's late ... time to go to sleep. Let's see, how should I end this? Oh, here she comes now ...

"Ash ...," she whispers through the darkened doorway. "I'm kinda hungry. How 'bout ..."

"Sure ... sounds great," I whisper back as I spring out of bed. I follow her down the dim hallway, tiptoeing past our parent's bedroom, and down the stairs to the kitchen

I pour the milk and she gets the cookies out of the cabinet. We leave the fridge open for light. The wood floor is cool against our bare feet, and everything seems hilariously funny. She spies Dad's car keys on the cabinet and suggests we go to Clarkston to the Village Bakeshop for doughnuts. We try to stifle our giggles. I spill the milk. Laura wipes it up with a paper towel.

The next morning at breakfast, Mom looks at the sprinkle of cookie crumbs on the table. She studies them for a few long seconds, then wipes them into her hand and dumps them into the sink.

My sister catches my eye across the table, and we smile.

Ashley Ball is a ninth-grader at Clarkston Junior High School.

BREAKTHROUGH IN GALL BLADDER SURGERY

The latest in surgical technology to treat diseases of the gall bladder was recently introduced to this area and has enabled the patient to have the benefit of modern scientific technology--reducing pain, suffering, and healing time with little or no scarring.

The procedure is called a Laser Laparoscopic Cholecystectomy. In essence it combines scope and laser technology to minimize incision and decrease bodily invasion during surgery. This will allow most patients to leave the hospital after an overnight stay. Total recovery time decreases dramatically and most patients return to normal functioning in about one week.

Local surgeon Carroll Knauss, D.O., on staff at the Community Health Care Center was specially trained to perform this precision surgical technique. The Community Health Care Center is proud to be associated with Dr. Knauss who pioneered this special technique to remove gall bladders. Dr. Knauss commented on the procedure, "Whenever you minimize the amount of external and internal incisions, you maximize that person's ability to recover."

For free consultation and more information in this subject matter, contact the Community Health Care Center, and ask for Judy Trombly.

Betty Wagner

Roadside markets are brimming with fresh Michigan vegetables; here are two recipes to enjoy, using the late summer harvest.

Vegetable Lasagna was developed by my sister, Mary Catherine Cleary, and her husband, Frank, of West Redding, Conn. Together, the Clearys develop and cook low-fat, tasty dishes because Frank needs to be on a heart-healthy diet.

Tortilla Soup was given to me by Jane Henry of Clarkston. She persuaded the chef of the Phoenix Country Club to share it for publication in The Clarkston News. Serve the soup hot on a cool late-summer evening, or serve it chilled for luncheon on a steamy afternoon.

Both recipes were written for conventional cooking, so I adapted them to microwave preparation. By combining the quick slicing of the food processor with the microwave you will save on preparation time as well as cooking time.

Use the food processor's slicing disc and follow manufacturers directions for slicing the peppers, onions, zucchini, celery and carrots for the following recipes. (Tested by Betty Wagner in a 650-watt full-size microwave oven)

VEGETABLE LASAGNA

- 1 (16-ounce) carton cottage cheese, drained
- 2 cloves garlic, minced and divided
- 1 tablespoon olive oil, divided
- 1 green pepper, thinly sliced
- 1 red pepper, thinly sliced
- 1 onion, thinly sliced
- 2 medium zucchini, halved and sliced
- 1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese, shredded
- 6 lasagna noodles, uncooked
- 3 fresh tomatoes
- 1/4 teaspoon each thyme, basil and oregano

1. Drain the cottage cheese in a strainer placed over a bowl for several hours. Place in the refrigerator to drain.

2. Boil water in a stainless steel or enamel sauce pan. Add tomatoes for 30 seconds each; plunge into cold water; core and peel. Quarter tomatoes; place in a food processor and puree. You need two cups tomato puree.

3. Combine 1/2 tablespoon olive oil, 1 garlic clove, minced, green and red pepper slices and onion slices in a Pyrex dish; cover with waxed paper; microwave at HIGH for 3 minutes, stirring after 1 1/2 minute. Set aside.

4. Combine 1/2 tablespoon olive oil, 1 clove garlic, minced, and zucchini slices; cover with waxed paper; microwave at HIGH for 3 minutes, stirring after 1 1/2 minutes. Set aside.

5. On the bottom of a 7" x 11" Pyrex baking dish, spread a thin layer of drained cottage cheese. Top with three uncooked lasagna noodles, half of the pepper-onion slices, half of the zucchini slices and 1/2 cup shredded mozzarella cheese. Repeat layers, except for mozzarella cheese.

6. Add thyme, basil and oregano to pureed tomatoes. Pour evenly over top layer. Double wrap casserole with microwavable plastic wrap. Microwave at 50 percent (MEDIUM) for 30 minutes. Remove cover; sprinkle remaining 1/2 cup shredded cheese evenly over top. Microwave at 50 percent (MEDIUM), uncovered, for 30 seconds. Let stand 10 to 15 minutes before serving.

TORTILLA SOUP

- Corn tortillas
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 4 stalks celery, sliced
- 2 carrots, sliced
- 2 onions, chopped
- 4 cups fresh, diced, unpeeled tomatoes

- 5 to 6 cups chicken broth
- 3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
- 2 drops hot sauce
- 1 teaspoon thyme
- 1 teaspoon dill weed
- 3 pinches black pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon cumin
- 2 tablespoons mild chili powder
- 2 bay leaves
- Chopped green onion
- White wine or sherry, optional

1. Cut several corn tortillas into 1" x 2" strips. Lay strips on a large microwavable plate. Microwave at HIGH for 1 to 2 minutes, rearranging after 1 minute. Set aside for garnish. Tortilla strips will crisp while standing.

2. Place olive oil, celery, carrot and onion slices in a Pyrex dish. Cover with microwavable plastic wrap. Saute at HIGH for 6 minutes, stirring after 3 minutes.

3. In a large microwavable bowl or soup tureen, combine sauteed vegetables, diced tomatoes, chicken broth, Worcestershire sauce and hot sauce. Cover. Microwave at HIGH for 10 minutes; reduce to 50 percent (MEDIUM) for 30 minutes.

4. Add thyme, dill weed, black pepper, cumin, chili powder and bay leaves. Microwave at 50 percent (MEDIUM) for 15 more minutes or until vegetables are tender crisp and soup is serving temperature.

5. Remove bay leaves from soup. Add a splash of white wine or sherry, if desired; garnish with tortilla strips and chopped green onions and serve.

The funeral was Monday, Sept. 10, at St. Patrick's Catholic Church with the Rev. Thomas Meagher officiating.

Burial is at Ottawa Park Cemetery, Independence Township.

Memorial tributes may be made to the Michigan Chapter of the National SIDS Foundation.

Arrangements were made by the Lewis E. Wint & Sons TRUST 100 Funeral Home, Clarkston.

Sean Edward Burnette

Sean Edward Burnette, an infant, died Aug. 23, 1990, at Sturgis Hospital.

He is survived by his parents, Edward and Patricia (Greig) Burnette of Sturgis; grandparents, V. Kelly and Lawrie Burnette of Clarkston and Keith and Bette Campbell of Bronson; and great-grandparents, Edward and Louise Crawford of Jackson, Tenn., and Mercy Clyngenpeel of Indianapolis, Ind.

He is also survived by his aunts and uncles, Kelly (Burnette) Sanchez of Clarkston, Pam (Greig) and Dave Kay of Pontiac, Penny Greig of Pontiac, and Jim and Ellen Loeffler of Goosecreek, S.C.; and three cousins.

Cremation took place in Sturgis.

William W. Donaldson

William W. Donaldson, 84, of Stuart, Fla., and formerly of Pontiac died Aug. 25, 1990, in Martin Memorial Hospital. He was born in Pontiac and had lived in Stuart 20 years.

His mother was the former Elizabeth Walter of Clarkston, and his parents were married in the old Methodist Church, now a private home in Clarkston.

Before retirement, Mr. Donaldson was the owner and operator of Donaldson Insurance Agency in Pontiac. He was mayor of Pontiac for 10 years and was that city's postmaster for 12 years.

Mr. Donaldson was a graduate of the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. He was a recipient of the Boys Club of America's Golden Anniversary Award and was a member of the Kiwanis Club and BPO Elks Lodge in Pontiac. He was number one in years of membership at the Presbyterian Church in Pontiac.

In Stuart, Fla., he was a 17-year member of the Martin County Artificial Reef Program and the Stuart Sailfish Club. For his efforts as one of the original 11 volunteers in the project, Martin County named one of its reefs after him.

With the help of Congressman William Broomfield of Michigan, Mr. Donaldson was successful in procuring several mothballed Navy ships to enhance the reef system. As a result of that effort, he earned the unofficial title of "Admiral of the Underwater Fleet." Mr. Donaldson also stirred up congressional concern in Washington over what happens to ships that are no longer in service and how little usable material is actually being salvaged by the military.

Mr. Donaldson also served on the Martin County Zoning Board of Adjustment.

He is survived by two daughters, Carol Balzarini of Clarkston and Nancy Scott of Stuart, Fla.; and four grandchildren, Angela Balzarini of Dallas, Andrew Balzarini of Tempe, Ariz., Shelly Covey of Port St. Lucie, Fla., and Julie Underwood of Miami, Fla.

Memorial services were Aug. 27 at the Aytock Funeral Home Chapel, Stuart, Fla., with the Rev. Stephen J. Jester officiating.

Memorial tributes may be made to the Environmental Studies Council, 2900 N.E. Indian River Drive, Jensen Beach, Fla. 34957.

SCOOBY Doo would like to scoot into your home.

Ready for a home

Scooby Doo is just scooting around as would any 7-month-old puppy. He's got lots of energy.

Scooby is a black and white cocker spaniel mix. He's a medium-sized dog weighing about 39 pounds at this time, but he still has some growing to do.

Scooby's already housebroken, but he will need to be neutered before leaving the shelter.

The adoption fee is $60 plus $12 for heartworm preventative medicine.

To see Scooby Doo, visit the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Hills, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT: Holy Spirit, You who makes me see everything and who shows me the way to reach my ideal. You who gives me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me, and You who are with me. I, in this short dialogue want to thank You for everything and to confirm that I never want to be separated from You, no matter how great material desires may be. I want to be with You and my loved ones in Your perpetual glory. Amen. Thank You for Your love towards me and my loved ones. Persons must pray this prayer three consecutive days without asking your wish. After the third day, your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then, promise to publish this dialogue as soon as your favor has been granted. J.K. ILLX6-2

DURING free play time, Anthony Vettraino puts all his energy into colorful clay and a garlic press.

COLORS are the game — and lesson — Monday in Kindergarten, and Paul McKinney shines when it's his turn to hold up a color.

JERRY recites "Little Boy Blue" before his entire developmental kindergarten class at Pine Knob Elementary School with only a little support from his teacher, Ann Moeller.

WHEN he's let loose, Joel Hudson heads for the playhouse.

RICHARD Coy plays with colored blocks and snaps during developmental kindergarten Sept. 11.

ERIN carefully feeds her "baby" during free play time Monday at Pine Knob Elementary School.
