Burro owner found guilty of cruelty

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The case of "Milton the burro" neared conclusion Monday, Oct. 15, as the burro's owner, Ronald Keen, was found guilty of animal cruelty.

The 48-year-old Springfield Township man was charged with a misdemeanor of cruelty to animals but escaped the felony charge of malicious destruction of property over $100.

The misdemeanor carries up to 90 days in jail plus any fines rendered by Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Fred Ziem.

The case stems from February 1989 when the 18-year-old American burro, Lucky Star, was confiscated from Keen's farm on Andersonville Road. Investigators with the Michigan Humane Society went to the farm after receiving a tip from neighbors.

The investigators found the burro malnourished and standing two feet deep in his own manure. His hooves were in such poor condition that the burro had trouble walking.

At the humane society, workers tried to nurse the ailing burro back to health. It was here that the burro acquired the nickname "Milton." Despite the efforts of the workers and an Auburn Hills veterinarian, the animal died five days later.

The trial lasted six days, with the jury taking an additional day to render its decision. The jury could agree collectively only on the misdemeanor, but not the felony charge.

During the trial, testimonies were heard from a variety of people. This list included veterinary specialists, government employees, the defendant and several of Keen's friends.

On the fifth day of the trial, Oct. 10, a specialist of veterinary pathology testified that it was anti-freeze poisoning that killed the animal, not malnutrition.

"I believe strongly that this animal died of anti-freeze poisoning," said Dr. Paul C. Stromberg, a professor at Ohio State University. "It could have been picked up from a dirty pail, off the ground or from something it ate."

Stromberg went on to say that the burro was making manure until its confiscation, indicating that malnutrition wasn't a factor in its death.

This refuted the diagnosis made by a Michigan State University veterinarian, just days before, who concluded that the burro had died of starvation.

Keen and his wife, Mary, testified to keeping the burro away from people because of its wild nature. The Keens also denied the charge of ever mistreating the burro.

After the decision, the Keens could not be reached for comment.

Ronald Keen is to be sentenced by Judge Ziem on Oct. 31.

Floats, music and a hearty pancake breakfast are some of the events planned for Homecoming weekend at Clarkston High School.

The remaining events take place the next day, Saturday, Oct. 20:

Parade: 10 a.m.; begins at Clarkston Junior High School and travels Church Street to Main Street to Miller Road.

Game: 1 p.m. at the high school football field; CHS varsity football vs. Garden City.

Dance: 7 p.m.; for students and their dates.

Motorcyclist OK after Dixie crash

A 22-year-old motorcyclist was injured Oct. 11 when a car turned in front of him on Dixie Highway, Independence Township, causing a collision.

Kevin Sean Daniels of Pine Knob Lane, Independence Township, driver of the Harley-Davidson, was admitted to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital and was released the next day.

Daniels was driving northbound on Dixie Highway about 1:30 p.m. last Thursday when a car in the southbound left-turn lane pulled in front of him near Alexander's Restaurant, according to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD) report.

The driver of 1989 Pontiac Sunbird, Medreania Gay Johnson, 30, of Waterford Township, received a ticket for failing to yield. Johnson, who was wearing a seat belt, was not injured.

According to the OCSD report, Daniels attempted to stop but could not before hitting Johnson's vehicle. Skid marks from Daniels' motorcycle were about 57 feet long.

Enrollment, classroom needs presented to district

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Clarkston school board members got some cold, hard facts about district enrollment and classroom needs in a two-hour presentation Oct. 8.

The information was built into a computer-gener-

"What does this report mean? It means Clarkston is growing. If you think (schools) are crowded now, you ain't seen nothin' yet."

Architect Tom Chen

ated report prepared by school architect Tom Chen of Greiner, Inc., Farmington Hills.

Board members agreed to obtain public comment on the facilities package report in a public hearing set for Tuesday, Oct. 30, at 7:30 p.m. Call the board office at 625-4402 for the location.

At the meeting, Superintendent Gary Haner explained that data had been obtained partly through Chen's countless hours with computers and administrators in school buildings.

The report, a thick packet of number-covered pages, culminated in "a facilities improvement program."

Program recommendations include a new high school, elementary school and swimming pool, along with improvements to existing buildings, at a total estimated cost of $82.6 million.

"What does this report mean?" Chen conjectured. "It means Clarkston is growing."

"If you think (schools) are crowded now, you ain't seen nothin' yet," he added.

The projections, which utilized actual live births and expected housing starts, estimated 3,015 students will attend elementary school in five years; 1,515 will attend grades 6-8; and 1,942 students will attend grades 9-12.

An additional 43 classrooms will be needed over the next five years in elementary schools alone, Chen explained.

"If you start the elementary plan today, in five years from now it will be full," Chen said.

Though board members did not dispute enrollment projections or classroom needs, some questioned the size and cost of the facilities package.

"My concern overall is that it's an awful lot of money to lay on the community at the funding level we're at," said board President John Needham.

New school update

"We can see we're absolutely going to need an elementary and high school," he added. "(But) program updates cost so much they scare people."

Needham questioned whether the district would still have a good, quality school if, for example, 10 percent were cut from the proposed new high school.

Chen answered that essentially he could cut anything, but quality would suffer the deeper the cuts go.

Members also asked how the cost of the plan differed from the one that was voted down by residents two years ago.

According to Chen, the cost has risen five percent each year, or a total of 10 percent owing to inflation.

The board also discussed the savings that would be realized through the development of a joint campus with Oakland Community College on the proposed sight of the new high school.

Though the Clarkston district and OCC have yet to approve the joint venture, it's estimated the move would save the Clarkston district about $10 million, Chen said.

Obscene caller posing as gynecologist

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Women in the Clarkston area should be on the alert for an obscene caller posing as a gynecologist.

A man called two Independence Township women Oct. 10, claiming to be a Dr. James Smith of West Bloomfield, head of gynecology in Oakland County.

The man said he was conducting a survey and asked the women increasingly personal questions, such as how often they visited a gynecologist and how often they conducted self-breast exams.

The women said the man knew their first names and telephone numbers and may have gotten the information from a classified ad the women placed together in The Clarkston News and Penny Stretcher.

One of the women was awakened by the call about 10:15 p.m. last Wednesday. The man mentioned her friend's name before he began asking questions, said the woman.

"He sounded very educated," she said. "He was a very well-spoken man. He threw me off."

When she began to question him, he hung up.

She said the call served as a reminder that people shouldn't give information over the phone to people they don't know.

No obscene calls have been reported recently to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, according to Sgt. Joe Quisenberry.

Correction

The caption beneath photos of teen-agers making clay molds in last week's Clarkston News should have said that the students were in Betsy Travis's art class at STRIVE, a high school at Clarkston Community Education, Maybee Road, Independence Township. The week-long project was taught by guest art instructor, Linda Walsh Lapinski.

Police join school staff in preventing delinquency

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

The boys in blue have become a regular part of life in Clarkston schools.

Clarkston school board members unanimously accepted an offer by Independence Township to underwrite a police liaison program.

Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy Joe Lambourn, described by school officials as "active" in the district, has been assigned the job of police liaison officer.

Though he will serve grades K-12, the bulk of his time will be spent at the high school.

His responsibilities, as outlined by Clarkston High School Principal Robert Burek, include the following:

- Make police department aware of volatile situations involving the students at school.

- Forward police complaints involving Clarkston students.

- Follow up all child abuse, neglect, attempted suicides, runaway or missing person reports.

- Follow up problems at the bus stop or while students are being transported.

- Investigate complaints of suspected law violations related to student activity.

- Serve as a member of deviant-behavior counseling team.

- Help school personnel identify pre-delinquent behavior patterns.

- Make appropriate referrals to specialized programs.

- Be a classroom resource speaker.

- Attend school functions as directed.

- Guide parents, counselors and teachers in understanding delinquent behavior.

- Assist delinquent or pre-delinquent students toward a better home, school and community adjustment.

The goal of the program, according to Burek, is to create a closer tie between the schools, community and police, which will result in earlier identification of problems, counseling and support for students and families.

Though involvement of police may be unwelcome to some students, the program serves a purpose, explained Assistant Principal Brent Cooley.

"A confrontation is sometimes not perceived as a good experience, but the bottom line is he's here for the kids," Cooley said. "We see it as another vehicle to assist the kids."

The liaison officer is part of the regular police staff in Independence Township. The township contracts with the county for officers using money from voter-approved millages.

The nationwide program had its start in suburban communities in the 1960s, Burek noted. Clarkston used a similar program in the '70s.

Auto, cycle thieves hit Clarkston, Independence

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Two vehicles were stolen from Main Street, Clarkston, and another from Lancaster Lakes, Independence Township, last week.

The incidents probably are not related, according to police.

On Monday, Oct. 8, a van was stolen from 114 N. Main St. between 8 p.m. and 8 a.m. the next day.

There are no suspects in the case yet, according to an Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD) deputy. The deputy, a part of the sheriff's Auto Theft Squad, asked that his name be withheld because it may endanger his undercover investigations.

A 1971 Harley-Davidson Super Glide motorcycle was stolen sometime between 8 p.m. Oct. 8 and Oct. 10 from a home at the corner of Main Street and Miller Road.

The motorcycle owner, John Bickford, is offering a $500 reward for the return of the motorcycle or for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the thief.

"If it was somebody from around here, maybe somebody saw something," said Bickford.

The black and chrome motorcycle was large and heavy and may have been rolled away by someone locally, he said, adding that he was surprised by the theft.

"I felt like Clarkston was not really a place I had to worry if it would be there when I came home," he said.

The auto theft investigator said motorcycles usually are stolen by someone in the local area. The last motorcycle theft reported in Independence Township was Sept. 27, when a dirt bike was taken from a residence off Sashabaw Road, he said.

The van, however, probably was stolen by professionals, said the investigator.

"It's been my experience that people who steal vans are not the same type of person who steals a (motorcycle)," he said.

A van usually is stolen for the van itself, for its interior or for parts, said the investigator, who covers the north end of Oakland County as well as Rochester Hills.

It's not surprising that the van was stolen from the highly populated Main Street, said the investigator.

"People who have an order for a vehicle go up main roads and shop for the vehicle they need," he said.

Typically, professional thieves take 90 seconds to start a van and drive it away, he said.

Another vehicle was stolen Oct. 9 from Lancaster Lakes and was recovered the next day in Detroit, said the deputy.

It was a Suzuki Samurai, a four-wheel drive convertible, said the investigator. That vehicle apparently was stolen for a specific purpose — a trip to Detroit — probably by younger people.

Anyone with information on the crimes should call the sheriff's department at 858-4911. Or call Help Eliminate Auto Thefts (HEAT) at 1-800-242-4328 with information about thefts or "chop shops."

"Auto theft is a major crime in the tri-county area," said the deputy. "Twenty-five cents of every dollar of insurance costs is due to theft."

239 turn out for village election

And the winners are: Johnston, Sanderson, Robertson, Secatch, Byers, Hunter, Hitchcock, Arkwright and Smith

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

About 48 percent of Clarkston's 497 registered voters cast ballots for Clarkston Charter Commission members Tuesday, Oct. 16. In the May 21 election for cityhood, 385 turned out, setting a village voter turnout record.

Officials spent about 2 1/2 hours counting the votes from 239 people. The counting took longer than ever before because more candidates were on the ballot than ever before, said Clerk Norma Goyette.

Of the 14 Charter Commission candidates, nine were chosen. They are: Richard C. Johnston of Middle Lake Road, 200 votes; Karen L. Sanderson of East Church Street, 160; Charles Gray Robertson of Robertson Court, 146; Steve Secatch of South Main Street, 140; Jackson G. Byers of Middle Lake Road, 129; Thomas E. Hunter of Middle Lake Road, 129; James C. Hitchcock of North Main Street, 127; Stephen D. Arkwright of South Holcomb Road, 120; and James B. Smith of North Main Street, 120.

Other candidates finished as follows: Mary Elizabeth Warner of West Washington Street, 111; Paige Visser Mack of North Main Street, 110; Grady Parker of South Holcomb Road, 100; Christopher L. Erskine of South Holcomb Road, 84; and Charles L. Weber of South Holcomb Road, 75.

The election results are unofficial until certified by the Oakland County Board of Canvassers, which usually takes about a week, said Goyette.

After village residents approved cityhood in May, the next step was to select the commission that would write the charter for cityhood. After the charter is completed, village voters will be asked to approve it. At that time the fate of cityhood will be decided.

Goyette said 31 voted by absentee ballot — more than she can remember counting since she was elected 12 years ago.

Old signs would have to go under new ordinance

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A sign ordinance proposed by the Independence Township Planning Commission has come under fire from the township board and the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce.

At an Oct. 2 joint meeting between the board and planning commission, township trustees and area business people expressed disapproval with some portions of the proposed ordinance.

The trustees questioned an amortization clause, which would mandate that all businesses replace non-conforming signs.

The amortization clause states that signs are to be replaced after 20 years, but business owners have the opportunity to appeal to the township. The appeal would be based on the physical condition of the sign.

The principles behind the proposed ordinance are safety, health and community enhancement. The statute would regulate existing and incoming signs.

Each sign will be given measurement limitations, based on the zoning district of the business. Ground and wall signs are covered in this fashion.

Chamber member Dick Ayers said most of the township's existing signs don't comply with the measurement standards of the proposal.

"If you take a sample of all the signs in the township, I bet only about 10 percent of them comply," Ayers said. Planning commission member Richard Oppmann

The amortization clause states that signs are to be replaced after 20 years; but business owners have the opportunity to appeal to the township.

Woman charged in son's murder

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A woman, whose family used to reside in Independence Township, was charged with the murder of her son who died nearly eight years ago.

Former Ortonville resident Diane Freitag, 31, allegedly admitted to detectives that she was responsible for the death of her 5-year-old son in 1982. Freitag was indicted by a citizens grand jury on Oct. 9.

She was arraigned by Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Steven N. Andrews the next day.

Her son, Bobby Ogg Jr., died from strangulation and cerebral trauma on Oct. 23, 1982. He was reported abducted on the way to the bus stop the morning before his death.

His near lifeless body was found by a patrolling officer around noon that day. The boy had been beaten severely and strangled with his own belt. He died at Children's Hospital the following day.

Ironically, the boy's death occurred on the day his dead sister, Jennifer, would have turned three. She died at 9 months old in 1980. According to her mother, Jennifer choked to death on a piece of hotdog.

A not-guilty plea was issued at the arraignment. Judge Anderson ordered that she be held without bond until her Oct. 19 preliminary exam in 52nd District Court, Independence Township.

said most of the signs erected in the past three to four years do comply with the proposed ordinance.

Ayers asked that the Chamber of Commerce be consulted on this issue, as well as on other business-related topics in the future.

The township board gave the Chamber members a copy of the proposed ordinance, so they could study its contents. The Chamber will have an opportunity to express its stand at the Nov. 8 planning commission meeting.

Dream on

Julie
Campe

Sometimes I catch myself thinking that there are no serious problems with women's position in American society today.

After all, women right here in the Clarkston area own businesses, run banks and real estate offices, run their own service businesses and hold elected government positions.

My erroneous attitude that everything's OK goes way back.

Growing up in Clarkston, I was aware of all sorts of minor injustices (there were no junior high volleyball or softball teams then — though there were wrestling and baseball for boys), but I pretty much assumed that a female could perform any job on earth. Examples of hardworking women surrounded me. Even the editor of The Clarkston News — Kathy Greenfield — was a woman.

My younger years, though, were influenced by female restrictions that I knew without being aware that I knew.

For instance, in fourth grade, whenever anyone asked what I wanted to be when I grew up, I answered, "A nurse or a writer."

Besides teaching, those were the only occupations I knew that females held. (Motherhood didn't count as a job back then.) I knew there were writers because I read lots of books by females — Susan Hayward and Judy Blume, for example.

And nurses I knew about because they appeared on such television shows as "Emergency" and "Marcus Welby, M.D."

Then, one day, my dad heard me tell someone that I might become a nurse. Later, he asked if I'm interested in medicine why didn't I become a doctor. "You have the brains for it," said my dad, a physician himself.

The idea had never occurred to me, and that my dad suggested it shocked me. If you knew him, you would not mistake him for a liberal and may justifiably consider him a tad chauvanistic.

However, as a parent, he expected the same in yardwork and in homework from his daughters as his sons. And when it came right down to occupations, his sense of justice for his children overcame the social restrictions in which he, too, had been raised.

As it turned out, though I've always loved science, words thrilled me more than bodily functions (blood makes me queasy).

Since I've returned to Clarkston as an adult, I've found that the junior high schools offer lots of sports for girls and that young women are entering all sorts of occupational fields.

It seemed OK. Society was on the road to equal opportunity among all humans, I thought, and in fact, a female might actually get elected president in a few terms.

So I was shocked to hear that the Business and Professional Women organization newsletter showed that 80 percent of 16-year-old girls nationwide believe that by age 30, they will be married with children, will own their own home, and will not have to work outside the home.

In reality, 16-year-old girls today can expect to work 30 years outside the home, according to the newsletter.

It's shocking because it means that girls may not be preparing themselves for careers that will keep them afloat economically. And it means that when they do get married and have children but can't afford to buy a house or quit their jobs, they will consider themselves failures. And what will their own daughters glean from this?

I hope that girls will dream — not about a house with a picket fence, two cats and a dog — but about which occupations they would like to hold for 30 years.

Seniors need affordable housing

Seniors, are you going to take it any more? Taxes raised (another millage for schools); valuations raised (taxing you right out of your homes)? No affordable senior housing is available.

The township powers that be don't give a hoot. We are not affluent enough to suit.

Our space is coveted by those who want to ease us out and take over. Of course they make it look like it was our decision to sell out and go.

Go where? Are we supposed to crawl in a hole and die? We are on fixed incomes.

In the years when the concept of retirement incomes were promulgated, no one in their right minds had an inkling of what would happen to get our homes away from us.

Jim's Jottings

We voters have a little over three weeks to make our choice.

Do we go to the polls and vote to throw the rascals out, or do we stay away with our 'what's the use' attitude?

I know we've been this way before. Frequently we've pulled the lever for the lesser of two evils.

There are, of course, exceptions. Once in a while a genuinely fine person seeks public office. When that happens the breath of fresh air is usually sent to Washington or Lansing . . . less often to Washington.

The current and ongoing responsibility-lacking in Washington is stirring the populace. Probably not enough to convince a majority of voters to get rid of them. We seem to fear the unknown more than we detest what we see as incompetency.

I said we've been this way before, but not exactly the same way with the budget. We didn't have the threat of a tax-reducing law (Gramm-Rudman) hanging over the heads of politicians in the past.

That law, which I believe should have been allowed to kick in, would have given across-the-board reductions in federal spending. What's wrong with that, this citizen asks?

What's wrong is that favorite projects, those that keep the politician in office by home-state voters, would be slashed. No, Washington can't have that.

Washington has to pry more money from taxpayer pockets rather than cut spending.

You know right now, absolutely without ques-

We paid for our places and paid our taxes yearly only to be unable to pay these property taxes on schools.

New math raised its ugly head! In multiplication it's valuation times the rate of millage figured out to the amount of tax to be paid.

The millage rate has increased so badly and the valuation has varoomed to a monstrous load as to break the seniors' backs right down to the ground.

Affordable, sensible senior housing is a must, built without all those luxurious extras (swimming pools, tennis courts, game rooms, etc.) pricing us into oblivion.

Let these so-called public servants know what you want — loud and clear.

Maybe they will act on pressure from enough of us.

Bench-sitting always a problem

The letter titled "All JV players should play ball" brought back many bad memories. Back in the late '50s and early '60s, we had boys in sports, always faithful to practice. They also warmed the bench, hoping against hope to be called into a game.

I agree whole-heartedly that coaches need to re-evaluate the purpose of sports. Is it just to cater to the few super athletes, or is it to teach all who wish to participate good sportsmanship, team work and cooperation rather than competition? Are not our priorities mixed up when winning becomes our God?

Please do not print my name either for my sons would still be embarrassed.

tion the senate, house and president are going for higher taxes.

The non-responsible electeds are going to have a committee make the decision, thus saving them from being pinpointed if house and senate votes were counted.

Ain't that a fine way to run a government?

Note: Cuts in spending are being given little consideration. Certainly there is no voice, even one weak one, for cutting pay raises the Washington reps gave themselves. You haven't read of their bringing up a cut in franking privileges.

No, no. You do not see congressmen and the president leading the nation in sacrifices. Speaking of such, did you see where Mr. Bush rode in a station wagon instead of a limousine when he returned to the White House after his regular weekend at Camp David?

That was his sacrifice! Wow, spare me, Mr. President.

I have to acknowledge, however, that even that token, small as it was, is more than I've read of Broomfield, Kildee, Levin, what's-his-name from Flint and the like on Capitol Hill.

It is so frustrating, so maddening, to have the people we elect to make hard decisions (note the campaigners using that - 'I can make (have made) those hard decisions' - fail to face their responsibility.

It would be too bad if they made an unpopular, but right, decision. They might have to go to work for a living.

You bet, I'm upset!

Detroit-basher a bit off,
but facts weren't so nice

Jim Fitzgerald

There are a couple of things you should know ...

Talk about Detroit bashing. In the Oct. 3 issue of The Lapeer County Press, columnist Len Ganeway wrote: "Pat Brown of Lapeer County Bank went to a meeting at RenCen in Detroit recently. His car was gone when he went out to the parking lot. The attendant told him a man had come to him and said he had lost his keys. The attendant gave him permission to hot-wire the car."

"Brown called Detroit police and was told, in effect, they didn't have time to mess with stolen cars. A week later his car was found, minus about everything that could be stripped from it, including the steering column."

"I haven't been in Detroit in five years, and wouldn't consider going there unless Iraq was my only other choice," Ganeway concluded.

Aw, c'mon. The parking attendant allowed the thief to hot-wire the car? Without demanding proof of ownership? I couldn't believe that. It sounded like the sort of unfair Detroit-bashing that scares tourists away and makes Mayor Coleman Young so mad at the bleep-bleeping news media. No Detroit parking attendant could be that dumb.

Columnist Ganeway is getting on in years (he's my age) and sometimes gets his facts third-hand and mixed up. As a dedicated Detroit booster, I did Mayor Young a favor and phoned Pat Brown, senior vice president of Lapeer County Bank. Sure enough, Ganeway got it wrong. A little.

There was no evidence that the attendant, in the parking garage just west of the RenCen, OK'd any hot-wiring, according to Brown. But the attendant did allow the crook to take the car without showing the appropriate parking receipt. All the thief had to do was say he'd lost the receipt - it happens - fill out the proper form and leave behind a photostat of his driver's license.

Two police detectives assured Brown that "we don't investigate car thefts," he said. But what about that driver's license? The attendant said he allowed the thief to take the car because his face matched the license photo. Couldn't the address on the license possibly lead to an arrest?

"One detective said the thief had a record, with multiple convictions for auto theft, but that wasn't enough," Brown said. They needed a witness. "They wanted to know if I saw the thief."

Brown was in the Westin Hotel during the theft. He didn't know he was supposed to stand car guard in the garage. But what about the attendant? He saw the thief.

The detective said the attendant refused to cooperate, Brown said. Case closed. The car was found a week later, so completely stripped that the insurance company declared it a total loss.

Incidentally, Brown was in Detroit to attend the Republican State Convention. Mayor Young should do something about that. Detroit wouldn't have been bashed in The Lapeer County Press if the dumb Republicans had convened in Grand Rapids.

According to People magazine, Queen Elizabeth of Britain travels with her own toilet seat. From what I've seen of the queen walking away, her toilet seat probably won't fit in her purse. I wondered how she carries it.

"She wears it around her neck inside a lace slipcover," my friend Ralph said. "It is called the royal collar. This style was created by the palace seamstress hundreds of years ago, when Bette Davis was queen of England. The toilet-seat neckline was the first to be called plunging, a description applied to it by a handmaiden's son who was a plumber's helper."

Ralph further noted that the queen always travels with a large entourage, including a Scotland Yard detective. "Local police take care of the queen's security when she's traveling. The Scotland Yard detective's job has more to do with protocol. At parties, he keeps people from speaking to her before she speaks to them. He makes sure people don't bore Queen Elizabeth, and he watches her closely for clues that she wants to go."

Clues?

"Yes. Like when she starts to loosen her collar."

ZAP!!! JUST KIDDIN', MERV.

From This Perspective

In the dog house

Tracy
King

The minute I said "maybe" I knew I had lost. We had been deciding whether to get a dog. Or rather, Pat had decided we were getting a dog, and I was deciding when I would give in.

I liked cats, the type you could leave alone for days. Cats slink. Dogs bound.

Being that we lived close to water, Pat had concluded, a dog would make a perfect addition.

He pushed this point all throughout the long months of July, August and September as I, discreet and sweating, kept comments on the dog days of summer to myself.

I had uttered "maybe" as a stall technique. Yet, within minutes, Pat was on the telephone, want-ads spread before him.

Buckled into the front seat, I wondered how I could've agreed to "just look." How can one "just look" at puppies?

Probably the same way one couldn't "just look" at puppies without first stopping at a pet supply store. Pat explained, swinging into the parking lot.

Sixty-two dollars later, I really knew I'd lost. I could hear it coming — "We have to get this dog. What would we do with the supplies?"

We arrived and, there in the basement, were nine lab puppies.

The mother, father and every relative since the dawn of time were pedigreed. They were all black, five were female, and they were absolutely ready to be taken home at that very moment.

Everything happened according to plan. The puppies wiggled. I swooned; we took one home.

With the puppy strategically situated in my lap for the ride home, I began to think about life with this new creature.

We didn't know the first thing about dogs, I thought, in a silent rebuke for my weakness.

What about our cat, who had been top dog up until then?

She wasn't about to suffer from any puppy weakness, she immediately told me with a loud hiss, her fur upright.

She looked at me, her betrayer.

"But she's a nice puppy," I heard myself imploring. Still the stare.

Panicked, I turned to Pat.

He was smiling.

Every dog has his day.

Voters: consider waste on Nov. 6

If our Oakland County Commissioners are so confident and willing to spend $500 million of Oakland County taxpayer money on their solid waste plan, a plan which includes a massive incinerator, why weren't they confident and willing to provide a representative to debate the incinerator issue Oct. 8 at the people's request?

Concerned Citizens invited a nationally known waste management expert, Paul Connett, and the county commissioners to debate the incinerator issue and the alternatives.

The citizens attended hoping to hear both sides of the issue.

The commissioners chose not to represent themselves in the debate. Why?

If they really believe that the incinerator was a good plan for Oakland County, I would think they would jump at the chance to defend their position and inform the people.

Very few commissioners even attended Dr. Connett's presentation.

Don't they want to know the other side of the story? Don't they care?

Roy Rewold, chairperson of the commissioners, did not even attend. What type of leadership do we have in Oakland County?

Who stands to benefit from this incinerator? I know who will be paying for it! If the incinerator is built, taxpayers will be committed to repaying the bond issue for the next 20 years.

Dr. Connett stated in no uncertain terms that there are much safer, less expensive alternatives to incineration.

A change in leadership may be our first alternative. Carefully consider your vote for county commissioner Nov. 6.

Call 858-0100 to speak with your commissioner about his/her views relative to the incinerator and the $500 million bond issue.

The future of Oakland County depends on it!

Soccer coaching needs improvement

I am writing this as a concerned parent who, I hope, reflects the views of many parents of players on the Clarkston varsity and JV soccer team.

In the past several years, Clarkston, like other communities in Oakland County, has embraced the game of soccer as a sport that provides an exciting alternative to the traditional fall sport of American football. Our sons and daughters have come a long way toward mastering this typically European and Latin American sport.

What concerns me is that as the players and parents have grown in this sport, the level of coaching at the high school level has not. Our varsity team plays in the Greater Oakland Activities League (GOAL), which consists of Waterford Mott, Kettering, Brandon and Lake Orion. In the past several years, one can count the Clarkston victories against these teams on the fingers of one hand. Why is this? Can our players at Clarkston High be that poor? What is the difference between Clarkston and these other schools?

The coach presently in charge of the varsity team was the only Clarkston teacher who wanted the job when soccer first started as a varsity sport. That may have been fine then, but now the players entering the high school program are getting better every year. But Clarkston's record at the end of every season is still the same: last place in GOAL.

This year the JV team is undefeated and the varsity's wins can be counted on the fingers of one hand (minus one finger). My fear is that this great group of kids will be promoted to the varsity next year to be transformed into another last-place team by less than effective coaching.

Isn't it time for a change? Don't we owe our players the chance to excel in soccer and take their place with level of excellence demonstrated by the other sports at Clarkston High?

$1.45 million budget passed by Springfield board

With no discussion from residents Oct. 11, the Springfield Township Board unanimously approved the 1991 budget for $1.45 million, not including the parks and recreation portion of the general fund.

The 1990 budget was $1.38 million.

Sherry Swindell, director of the parks and recreation department, requested $93,000 for the year, but the board proposed $80,000.

Roger Bower, chairman of the Parks and Recreation Commission, protested the $80,000 proposal.

"It's hard to estimate what happens in a park, and with consideration to vandalism — it's probably not adequate," Bower said.

Supervisor Collin Walls said the budget for the parks and recreation would need to be approved before Jan. 1. The board is to adopt that portion of the budget later.

Adopted were budgets for the following: general fund, $890,900; fire fund, $162,100; police fund, $290,100, and Shiawassee fund, $5107,650.

Shiawassee Basin is a 400-acre park north of Davisburg Road, west of downtown Davisburg.

The general fund pays for such things as salaries, supplies, maintenance, parks and recreation and roads.

The undesignated reserves fund is $25,000. Clerk Calvin Walters said $15,000 has been set aside for equipment replacement, and the remaining $10,000 is reserved in the event something needs to be fixed.

Vote them out

The announced changes in implementing the county's 641 solid waste disposal plan have many people confused. The steps in carrying out the plan have changed, but the plan remains the same.

The county's plan consists of two parts, phase one and two. Phase one includes a household hazardous waste collection program, composting sites, recycling facilities and a sanitary landfill.

Phase two includes an incinerator.

If a community signs the agreement for phase one, they are automatically committed to phase two — an incinerator.

The incinerator industry advocates have created an image of themselves which differs from reality.

In "A Rush to Burn, America's Garbage Gamble," Long Island Newsday reprint states, "The incinerators are expensive and often unreliable. They are being subsidized by utility ratepayers whose garbage may never go to the plant. They contribute to air pollution and create huge quantities of toxic ash without eliminating the need for landfills. They undermine such cleaner and cheaper approaches as recycling."

This is the reality our county commissioners are offering us.

Reality to Oakland County residents is loss of their right to vote on the county's 641 solid waste disposal plan.

Residents will have an opportunity to vote for their county commissioner in the next election.

Pro-incineration candidates should be voted out of office because they are ignoring reality and putting our health and financial well-being in jeopardy.

Help Protect the Environment (H.O.P.E.)

Elect a proven tax-fighter

Are some of us doomed to repeat the mistakes of history of the recent past?

In 1982, we elected a Democratic governor and blessed him with a democratically controlled state house and state senate.

Gov. Jim Blanchard perceived this power bestowed on him as license to impose his infamous 38 percent income tax increase.

The public outrage that followed resulted in the successful recall of State Sen. Philip Mastin of the 8th State Senatorial District.

The group C.A.U.S.E. (Citizens Against Unnecessary State Expenditures) who engineered this unprecedented accomplishment was comprised of concerned residents of this district who toiled for months on end to achieve their objective.

The result of their effort, along with the Scrotkin recall, tilted control of the state senate from democratic to republican with a 20-18 edge.

The prize was the eventual wipe out of the 38 percent increase and restored to its original 4.6 percent state income tax rate.

Now along comes a maverick group (probably Democrats masquerading as Republicans) who name themselves "Republicans for Peters" who want to undo all the hard fought victories of C.A.U.S.E.

Are they content to become a captive group of the tax, tax, tax, spend, spend, spend interests?

The 8th state senatorial district is a key pivotal district.

Residents of this area must not allow it to fall under democratic control with their socialistic agenda.

Keep your well-earned gains in Republican hands. Elect a proven tax fighter, Mat Dunaskiss, on Nov. 6.

PURPOSE OF EMBALMING

Embalming is only required by law in cases where the deceased had one of a few specific contagious diseases or if the body is to be transported a great distance. However, embalming is almost always routinely done as soon as possible after the death.

There are various reasons for this. The primary purpose of embalming is to preserve the body for the week or so of the visitation and funeral. If the family wishes to have the body present at the funeral, embalming would be necessary. At the same time, restoration procedures would be followed. This involves shaping and cosmetology work to make the deceased appear as life-like as possible.

Unless you specifically request that it not be done, the funeral director will probably assume the family wants the body to be embalmed. If embalming were not performed, you see, the body would have to be immediately disposed of either by cremation or burial.

Shiawassee Park plans to be presented Oct. 23

A final draft of development plans for Shiawassee Basin Preserve Park is the topic of a meeting Tuesday, Oct. 23.

The meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. at the Springfield Township Hall, 650 Broadway.

Representatives of Carlisle and Associates, a planning and consulting firm hired by Springfield Township to develop the park plan, will conduct the public presentation.

The parks and recreation commission meeting is an ideal time for people to give their opinions on the park plans, according to Sherry Swindell, director of the township parks and recreation department.

Shiawassee Basin Park is a 400 acre park located north of Davisburg Road and west of downtown Davisburg.

Portable classroom to ease latchkey overcrowding

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Overcrowding in the Clarkston Community Learning Center Kids Connection program may be relieved with the purchase of a portable classroom.

Clarkston school board members approved the lease/purchase of the portable classroom Oct. 8. The $28,260 reusable portable will be purchased from the R. J. Taylor Co. with use, in part, of a three-year grant from Oakland Family Services.

Kids Connection is an after-school latchkey program offered through Clarkston Community Education on a first-come, first-serve basis.

The portable classroom will be located on the Community Learning Center property at 5275 Maybee Road, Independence Township.

In the morning, the portable classroom will be used to teach at-risk four-year-olds, children who normally would attend the afternoon Kids Connection at Pine Knob Elementary School will be bused to the classroom in the afternoon.

In September, overcrowding at Pine Knob Elementary School forced school officials to transform the usual Kids Connection space into a regular classroom.

Kids Connection students currently are being bused to the Clarkston Learning Center. Though the classroom will likely create a few open-

The refurbished portable classroom is expected to be in place by Oct. 19, Allyn said.

Political club forming

A Republican Party club for the Clarkston area is in the works, and anyone interested in joining should call John Lutz in the evenings at 394-0277.

The club could be useful for those who would like to help the Republican Party but who aren't necessarily interested in running for an office.

The group could help disperse information about candidates for judgeships or university boards — areas that people normally don't know much about, said Lutz.

Office site plan tabled

An office building, proposed for the intersection of M-15 and Oakhill Road, was tabled in the conceptual site plan phase of development.

On Oct. 11, the Independence Township Planning Commission voted unanimously to table the complex, Oakhill Corners. On a suggestion from the commission, the petitioner Robert Shell is presently looking into developing the three-acre site as a planned unit development (PUD).

A PUD is a rezoning of a parcel of land in accordance with a specific site plan. It allows different uses on one site and requires approvals from the planning commission and township board.

According to the commission, Shell didn't have enough parking allowed for a local commercial district. A subcommittee was assigned to assist Shell in creating a PUD.

Shell intends to build two office buildings on the land. They're both slated for 7,200 square feet.

Woodlands ordinance delayed by township board

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The need for a woodlands ordinance was questioned at a recent meeting between the Independence Township Board and planning commission.

The ordinance, proposed by the planning commission, would give the commission greater control over the species and the number of trees removed in a development.

In the proposed ordinance, a petitioner will be required to indicate his plans for all the trees on a site. The petitioner will also have to adhere to a tree survey, which limits the percentage of trees removed from the parcel. Each tree will be evaluated by its type and size.

The tree survey, of general and detailed varieties, would be carried out by a Michigan registered forester.

A permit will be granted to the petitioner if township officials agree with his site plan pertaining to tree preservation.

Township Clerk Joan McCrary told the planning commission that the proposal would be to burdensome to implement.

"I think the administering of this ordinance would be a terrible burden on the building department," she said.

"I think the administering of this ordinance would be a terrible burden on the building department. I just don't think we have a problem. ... This is over-regulation."

Clerk Joan McCrary

"I just don't think we have a problem. ... This is over-regulation."

Trustee Frank Millard asked what initiated the proposal.

Commissioner Richard Oppmann said the Weatherford-Walker Shopping Center spurred the commission into developing the proposal.

The shopping center, at White Lake Road and Dixie Highway, set off a heated controversy about one year ago. According to Chairperson Brent Bair, the shopping center's developer reneged on a tree-preserving agreement with the commission and clearcut the site.

Bair also noted other clearcutting incidents along Sashabaw Road.

After further discussion, Supervisor Frank Ronk said the township board need time to rehash the proposed ordinance before getting back to the planning commission.

Planners recommend Sashabaw rezoning

A request to rezone a two-acre parcel from single family residential to an office designation was recommended by the Independence Township planning commission Oct. 11.

The parcel, east of Sashabaw Road and south of Maybee Road, is owned by Forward Building Co. The land also has a 145-foot frontage facing Sashabaw Road.

The rezoning was unanimously recommended by the commission and must go before the township board for final approval. The site could support an office building of about 16,000 square feet if approved.

Absentee ballot option for general election

Area residents have until Saturday, Nov. 3, to mail in absentee ballots for the Nov. 6 general election.

Qualifications for an absentee ballot include:

- being absent from the community on election day.
- being physically unable to attend the polls.
- being unable to attend the polls due to religious restrictions.

- 60 years of age or older.

- holding the position of election precinct inspector for another precinct.

- being confined to jail.

Independence Township residents who qualify and wish to vote absentee ballot should call the clerk's office at 625-5111. Springfield Township residents should call 625-4802.

Letters from the edge

LETTERS were in brimming to the top of this Clarkston Post Office mailbox on Columbus Day. Postmaster Mickey Gonzalez said the overflow problem isn't a typical occurrence on federal holidays. He said the overflow usually is caused by someone sticking a large envelope into the box's chute. Once stuck, letters pile up and prove to be a headache for the public and the post office. Hearing on community development funds

Residents in Clarkston have a chance to help decide how the Clarkston Village Council will spend about $6,600.

A public hearing on Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funds is set for 7:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 22, at the Clarkston Village Hall on Depot Road.

Clarkston is eligible for $6,600 in 1991-1992 from CDBG funds, which come from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Village council members make the final decision if a grant is awarded, but public input is important in determining where the funds are spent, said Trustee Robert Whitmer.

The CDBG money may be spent in such areas as community centers, senior centers, centers for the handicapped, recreational facilities and equipment and parking facilities.

Runners capture Gabriel Richard Invitational

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston brought home a championship and a slew of personal bests at the Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard Invitational cross-country meet Oct. 13.

Three Wolf runners earned medals to pace the boys to a championship in the 14-team event. All of the Clarkston girls had their personal best times of the season and one runner captured a medal, helping the Wolves place seventh out of 14 squads.

Jim Haviland finished third (16:55), Todd Wozniak took seventh (17:06) and Paul Brisson finished 14th (17:14). The top 15 runners received medals.

Jacob Kniss nearly earned a medal by placing 17th (17:21) and Brad Patterson added to the Wolves' team depth by arriving 28th (17:48).

Clarkston finished with 69 points, easily defeating second-place Novi (100), third-place Ontario St. Pat (109) and fourth-place Ann Arbor Pioneer (126).

Freshman Angie Brown won a medal by placing 12th (21:16). Other Wolf runners were Melissa Mutter, 23rd (22:21); Amy Rayner, 29th (22:44); Stacey Secatch, 59th (25:25); Kristie McGee, 77th (27:28).

Clarkston (girls) 26, Lakeland 31, Lakeland (boys) 17, Clarkston 41 (Oct. 11 at Lakeland)

The Clarkston girls' team finally competed against a full team in a duel meet and the boys ran up against a tough opponent.

The Wolf girls were 4-0 going into the meet, but all four victories were against teams who had less than the five runners required.

However, Lakeland did have a full team and the Wolves continued to be undefeated.

Clarkston girls took three of the first four places in the victory. Brown was the first to cross the finish line at 22:22. Mutter as second (22:31), Rayner fourth (23:36), Secatch seventh (25:14) and McGee 12th (28:42).

Lakeland boys captured the first four places and another took seventh to stop the Clarkston boys, who dropped to 3-2 overall (3-1 in the Greater Oakland Activities League). Lakeland's Dean Rugh won the meet with a 17:13 finish.

Haviland was the top Wolf finisher with a fifth (17:26), Wozniak was sixth (17:40), Brisson ninth (17:53), Patterson 11th (18:12) and Duane Poole 15th (18:59).

Other Wolf runners, their places and times were: Steve Tungate, 17th (19:23); Eric Carlson, 20th (19:39); Ryan Poquette, 23rd (20:05); Greg Treder, 24th (20:43); Vince Tortonesi, 26th (21:02); Mark Deevey, 27th (21:03); Erik Will, 28th (21:39); Gordie McGeogh, 29th (21:40).

USING A compound bow, Shawn Delasko shot this 110-pound buck on the first shot of the first day he ever hunted.

Oh, deer!

Some hunters wait years to get their first deer, some never even get one.

But Shawn Delasko of Sashabaw Road, Independence Township, bagged his first deer the first time he ever went hunting on his first shot.

At 7:30 a.m. Oct. 6 at the Ogemaw County State Forest, the 13-year-old shot the 110-pound buck from 15 yards away with a Darton compound bow.

Delasko, who had just recently completed his hunter safety course, was up in a tree while making the strike.

Delasko was hunting with his father, Ray, and brother, Ryan.

Wolf cagers continue GOAL spree

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston girls' basketball team keeps rolling, remaining undefeated in league play and setting up a crucial re-match against Waterford Kettering.

The Wolves (11-2 overall and 5-0 in the league) edged the Captains in the teams' first confrontation and they will again square off at Kettering Tuesday (Oct. 23). Barring any other upsets, the game will likely decide whether Clarkston wins the Greater Oakland Activities League title outright or share it with the Captains.

Clarkston 58, Brandon 39 (Oct. 11 at Clarkston)

Jennifer McChesney sank eight of 12 field goal attempts for 21 points to pace the Wolves to a lopsided win.

Clarkston was a little sluggish in the onset, finishing the first quarter with a 14-14 deadlock against the visiting Blackhawks.

But the Wolves' defense kept Brandon in single-digit quarters the rest of the way.

Courtney Whittaker scored 10, Heather Steinhilber nine, Alyson McChesney and Carrie Roeser each with six, Lesley Allen, Stacey Tinkis and Beth Walker all scored two. Steinhilber also pulled down nine rebounds.

Heidi Bescoe scored 13 for Brandon and Jennifer Gallagher had 10.

The Blackhawks were busier at the free throw line than the Wolves, converting on 21 of 32 free throws (66 percent) while Clarkston was 13 of 24 (54 percent). But the Wolves made 21 field goals and the Blackhawks only sank nine.

Clarkston's JV team made it a double-victory, edging the Blackhawks 46-42.

Clarkston 63, Waterford Mott 32 (Oct. 10 at Clarkston)

Three Wolves scored in double figures in a game Clarkston coach Larry Mahrle called his team's best performance of the season.

Alyson McChesney poured in 15 points, sister Jennifer McChesney scored 14 and Whittaker added 13.

But the Wolves also did the little things that turn into big victories. Roeser had five assists and blocked four shots and Walker had four assists and four steals.

Other scorers for Clarkston were Walker with eight, Roeser with six, Tinkis with four and Steinhilber with three.

Mott avoided a sweep by winning the JV game, 54-41.

Varsity kickers blanked

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Again lacking offensive punch, the Clarkston varsity boys' soccer team was shut out by Waterford Mott, 4-0, in league action Oct. 11 in Clarkston.

The loss gives the Wolves a 1-6 record in the Greater Oakland Activities League and 3-11-1 mark overall.

The Corsairs scored two goals in each of the halves.

Mott's goalkeeper made nine saves all night. Clarkston goalkeeper Scott Strawsburg stopped 10 shots in the first half and teammate Joel Mellen made six saves in the second half.

Drawings for District No. 10 have been made, and the Wolves will travel to Birmingham Seaholm Oct. 22 for post-season play. Other teams in the district are Waterford Kettering, Andover, Waterford Mott, Lahser, West Bloomfield, Birmingham Brother Rice.

Clarkston's JV team remains undefeated with a 10-0 mark.

Springfield Christian wins own tourney

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI

Springfield Christian stopped Valley of Grand Blanc in the championship game to win the annual Springfield Christian Girls' Basketball Invitational.

Springfield's Melissa Richmond, the tournament's most valuable player, scored 15 points, and teammate Becky Book totaled 14 in their team's 43-32 win over Valley School of Grand Blanc in the finals on Saturday.

Bethany Christian defeated Community Baptist of Saginaw for third place.

Springfield Christian crushed Community Baptist in Friday's opener, 78-11. Richmond scored 17, Lora Hendrix netted 15 and Dayna Cox added 14.

Valley edged Bethany Christian in first-round action, 35-33.

In addition to Richmond being named MVP, an all-tournament team was selected: Dayna Cox (Springfield Christian), Kathryn Poit (Valley), Stephanie Wascha (Valley), Heather Bonner (Community Baptist) and Becky Uti (Bethany Christian).

Captains surrender to Wolf air, ground attacks

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A balanced attack and 17 second-quarter points paved the way for a 31-7 Clarkston varsity football victory over Waterford Kettering last Friday.

The host Wolves rushed for 127 yards and threw for 174 more to dominate the Captains.

"Our passing set up the run," said Clarkston head coach Kurt Richardson. "We were throwing the ball so well, we could open up the running."

The win raised Clarkston's overall record to 5-2 and 4-1 in league, clinching a second-place finish in the Greater Oakland Activities League. The Captains dropped to 4-3 overall and 2-3 in the GOAL.

Clarkston next hosts Garden City 1 p.m. Saturday in the Wolves' homecoming before ending its regular season Oct. 26 at home against Brighton. Clarkston still has an outside chance of making the post-season tournament, depending on what it does and what the other teams vying for the top four spots do in the season's last two games.

But before worrying about computer standings, the Wolves had to think about Kettering.

The Captains opened up the scoring on the first play of the second quarter when Jamie Haverly's 56-yard run set up a 1-yard touchdown by quarterback Jay Rider. Brian Nelson kicked the PAT.

"It was a little scary," said Richardson about the Captains' early lead. But the coach and his team knew that a 7-0 deficit with three quarters left was nothing in comparison to being behind late in a game by two touchdowns (the Wolves dramatically scored twice in the last minutes Oct. 5 against Pontiac Northern).

Rider's opening score was the last time the Captains were to see pay dirt all night.

"After that one long run we stuffed them up. They were frustrated," said Richardson.

Clarkston quarterback Dugan Fife evened the score at 9:14 in the second quarter when he connected with receiver Chris Figa for a 16-yard touchdown. David Marks, who hasn't missed a PAT kick all season, struck again for a 7-7 tie.

About 3 1/2 minutes later, Marks' 20-yard field goal put the Wolves ahead to stay.

Minutes later, Fife again connected with Figa and teammate Jon Wyniemko, setting up a 1-yard touchdown by Dan Griffiths with 1:26 left in the half. Marks again found the mark for a 17-7 lead at intermission.

Wyniemko finished the night catching six passes for 86 yards and Figa caught three for 77. Fife completed 13 of 19 with no interceptions.

In the second half, Fife scored two touchdowns to turn out the lights for the Captains. He scored from one yard out in the third quarter (Marks kicked) and scored from four yards out in the final quarter (Marks kicked).

The Clarkston defense held Kettering to 10 first downs (Clarkston had 14), 86 yards rushing and 92 yards passing. Defensive backs Wyniemko and Chad Hetherington each intercepted a pass.

Linebacker Adam Kirk had three quarterback sacks totaling 28 yards in Kettering losses, and linebacker Dereck Raymond had two sacks and a blocked pass.

Brian Davis made six solo tackles, Joe Webb and Mike Moller each had five and Mike Stanton brought down four Captains.

Griffiths ran for 70 yards on 14 carries and Fife totaled 35 on four carries. Matt Howe carried twice for 21, Steve Black ran three times for five, Joel Davis ran once for seven, Brian Davis ran once for one and Kevin Juzysta carried once for a minus-one.

Along with receivers Figa and Wyniemko, Raymond, Juzysta and Jeremy Burke each caught one pass for three yards and Griffiths caught one for two.

JV bombards Captains with 400-yard arsenal

Twenty-six second-quarter points paced the Clarkston JV football team to a 46-0 blasting of Waterford Kettering Oct. 11.

"We played extremely well," said Clarkston coach John Craven of his visiting Wolves who upped their record to 4-1-1, finishing with the best record among Greater Oakland Activities League teams.

The Wolves amassed 400 total yards on offense, with 346 on the ground.

Quarterback Nick Shires threw a 27-yard touchdown pass to Matt Smith to open the scoring at 3:54 in the first quarter. Smith, who had previously connected on eight straight PATs, missed the kick.

The Wolves then scored four times in the second half.

Matt May scored from one yard out at 8:04 and Justin Tappero's 2-point conversion made it 14-0.

At 5:02, Tappero galloped 37 yards on a trap for another score.

A 42-yard interception return by Josh Watson to the Kettering 15 set up a 5-yard touchdown run by Tappero.

With 1:07 left in the half, Smith raced 51 yards on a punt return to make it 32-0.

With 17 seconds left in the third quarter, Greg Fisher hit pay dirt after running 55 yards on a sweep.

With 1:00 left in the game, Jerry Anderson scored from four yards out. Smith was ready to kick the PAT but the hike went over his head. However, the kicker retrieved the ball on the 20 yard line and ran it into the end zone for a 2-point conversion.

Tappero was the century club of rushing with 109 yards on seven carries. Fisher totaled 76 on six carries.

Matt May and Marc May each had seven tackles, Anderson had 5 1/2 and Tom Day five. Jonathon Hanson and Charlie Munk each had a quarterback sack.

Golfers 10th in regional

Clarkston golfers tied for 10th in the Class A Regionals Oct. 12 at the Pontiac Country Club.

Seventeen teams competed in the regional, with Birmingham Brother Rice placing first with a 308, Detroit Catholic Central second at 324 and Birmingham Seaholm third with a 334.

Clarkston, which tied with Southfield-Lathrup at 359, was led by Dave Studt's 85. Derek Bildstein had a 90, Jeff Coxen a 91 and Pete Luster a 93. Jason Jarvis also had a 97. All five Wolf golfers are juniors.

Contact sports require extra safety precautions

As an All-American tight end at Notre Dame and a first-round draft choice of the San Francisco '49ers, Ken MacAfee has seen his share of sports injuries caused by blows to the head, face and neck.

But unlike most other professional athletes, MacAfee now treats people who are injured during contact sports.

MacAfee, an oral and maxillofacial surgeon and spokesperson for the American Association of Oral and Maxillofacial Surgeons, is a vocal advocate of sports safety among children.

Prevention first priority

Whether on the sports field, in the backyard or on the playground, young athletes should always wear protective gear.

Mouthguards are the absolute minimum protection any child should wear. MacAfee also urges young athletes to use facemasks and helmets during football and hockey, and to use helmets with clear plastic shields when playing baseball.

"In contact sports, the face and mouth are particularly vulnerable to injuries," MacAfee says. "Hits from playing sticks, flying balls and other players can cause serious and instant damage."

First aid tips

For all injuries to the face and mouth, request an examination by an oral and maxillofacial surgeon upon arrival at an emergency care center.

Knocked out tooth: Rinse it and replace it in the socket covered with a piece of gauze. Or store in cold milk, salt water or saliva. Make sure it does not dry out.

Facial bleeding: Cover the wound with cloth and apply pressure. Do not remove the soaked cloth; add more cloths and continue to apply pressure.

Jaw fracture: Gently align jawbones. Immobilize the jaw by wrapping a bandage under the chin and tying it securely over the head. Apply ice.

Nasal fracture: Gently pack nose with gauze. Apply ice.

Head or neck injury: Do not move the victim without professional assistance. Immobilize the head by placing rolled towels on either side. Keep victim warm. If unconscious, clear out mouth and hold tongue forward to maintain open airway.

"Since young athletes are still developing, if an injury is not treated correctly, it can lead to long-term problems," MacAfee says. "Coaches and parents should always take an injured athlete to the nearest hospital emergency room as soon as possible."

Swinging from the heels

S & L's,
X's & O's

James
Gibowski

Sports is one of the greatest diversions.

It's a great way to (at least temporarily) forget about things like:

The S & L crisis, a true tale of mismanagement and greed, which all of us will be paying for the next several years.

Presidents Reagan and Bush giving us the pie-in-the-sky, high-flying, don't worry, be happy 80s, resulting in trillion dollar deficits. Add to that the wishy-washy, no-backboned Democrats who gave Teflon Reagan anything he wanted, and helped give all us what we didn't want.

A recent poll in a Business and Professional Women organizational newsletter said that 80 percent of 16-year-old girls felt that by the time they are 30, they will be married, have a house, children and not have to work. Sure, and real life is just like all of those soap operas they're watching.

Another poll that said people under-30 have less ethics than the older generation. Does this mean our future leaders will even be more unethical than all of current unethical people in power who are part of the World War II generation?

The latest news that the insurance company industry may also wind up giving all of us economic headaches from bad investments and greed.

The president and Congress can't even make the decision to eliminate two Stealth bombers (made to spy on those Evil Empire Soviets) which would save $2.7 billion. So how will they ever trim $500 billion (only $50 billion the first year) in the next five years?

Fifty Central Michigan University students get arrested in Mount Pleasant after a football victory over Western Michigan. For the first time in my life, I'm embarrassed to acknowledge that I'm a CMU alumnus.

And, of course, let's not forget about our hundreds of thousands of service men and women in the Middle East. Or have we already forgotten about them like we forget about the still-starving in Ethiopia, the still-homeless in America or whatever is hot in the news for our two-week attention span.

And finally, think about the old statement that says, we always get the government we deserve.

Sports, too, has its problems. But watching the World Series this week or a Clarkston High School athletic event often acts as a pleasant diversion, an old buddy you can count on.

No one should forget about S & L's, but it's nice to sometimes only think about X's and O's.

Merchants 2-2 in Series

The Clarkston Merchants, a 60-and-over softball team, won two of four games at the second annual Senior World Series in Scottsdale, Ariz., Sept 27-28.

The team qualified for the World Series by winning a tournament in London, Ontario.

The Merchants, who had a .500 team batting average at the tournament, defeated the Virginia Raiders, 13-8, in the opener, lost to Glen Ivey of San Diego, 12-10, lost to State Wide Laundry of Tampa, Fla., 11-10, (after carrying a 10-7 lead into the last inning with two outs), and defeated the Fountain Valley Barons of Southern California, 16-5.

Members of the Merchants, which comprise players from the Clarkston area and out-of-staters, were: Pete Iovan, Ray DeFiore (player and business manager), Bim Wilder, Ed Cable, Ed Bazzell, Ed Wayne, Bob Waddell, Manager Earl Mudge, Ed Boyd, Bill Turkington, Henry Paskiewicz, John Garrison, Don Purvis and Lawrence Anderson.

Athletes awarded for fighting, form, breaking

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Athletes from Sanders Martial Arts classes enter competition around the country in several different weight divisions, but nearly all come back as heavyweights.

They don't come back to the Clarkston area carrying extra weight on their bodies, but rather they come back carrying the weight of trophies won in karate tournaments.

The heavy facts are: in the last four years, Sanders' students have won 731 trophies while competing in 13 tournaments.

This past season in five tournaments, they (in all ages, from grade school students to adults) have brought back 153 of the gleaming reminders of first, second or third place finishes in form, fighting and breaking.

Two of those tournaments were recent, the 20th Annual U.S. Open Tae Kwon Do Karate Championships Oct. 13 in Akron, Ohio and the 15th Annual Moo Duk Kwon Tae Kwon Do Karate Championships Sept. 29 in St. Louis, Mo.

Athletes from Sanders Martial Arts, who take some of their classes at Pine Knob Elementary School through the Clarkston Community Education program, traveled to Akron and competed among 331 participants from Michigan, Tennessee, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia.

Two Sanders' athletes placed in the three disciplines: Denise Schulz took first in form, fighting and breaking; Damon Shields was first in form and fighting and second in breaking.

Others bringing back trophies were: Linda Childers (2nd form, 3rd fighting), Joe Glisson (3rd form, 2nd fighting), Erin Gochenour (2nd form, 2nd fighting), Kristen Hamilton (3rd form, 2nd fighting), Justin Viner (1st form, 1st fighting), Josephine Snyder (3rd form), Jason Viner (1st fighting), Todd Feak (1st form), Brian Weil (1st form).

"Everybody was waiting for us to get there."

Joe Sanders

During intermission at Akron, instructor Joe Sanders, who has a 5th degree black belt in Tae Kwon Do and Hapkido, gave a demonstration.

He broke six bricks with a karate chop, broke four boards with a Boaken sword (a one-inch thick round wooden sword), chopped a candle and its wick with a Boaken sword within a fraction of an inch of Shields (who was holding the candle in his mouth), chopped two suspended candles and wicks with a knife-hand strike, and broke several bricks with a side kick while balancing two pails of water. In addition to Shields, Schulz and Feak also assisted in the demonstration.

Sanders received an award from tournament director Kiel Soon Park for his exhibition.

The local athletes won their fourth straight championship in St. Louis at the Moo Duk tournament, bringing back 30 individual trophies and a 4 1/2 foot team trophy.

"Everybody was waiting for us to get there," said Sanders about the 16 teams awaiting his defending champs who spent eight weeks preparing to defend their title.

Teams from Nebraska, Illinois, Iowa, Oklahoma, Michigan, Kansas and Arkansas competed.

For the first time ever in tournament action, four athletes placed in three different events; Stan Lenk won first in form, fighting and breaking; Danny Wayne was first in fighting and third in form and breaking; Jason Viner was first in fighting and breaking and second in form; John Webb Sr. took first in fighting, second in form and third in breaking.

Those taking two places were: Robert Brinson (3rd form, 1st fighting), Feak (2nd form, 1st fighting), Noah Lenk (2nd breaking, 3rd fighting), Schulz (2nd fighting, 2nd breaking), Jeremy Moore (2nd fighting, 3rd breaking).

Placing in one event were: Rocky DeLeon (1st form), Michael Gochenour (2nd breaking), Erin Gochenour (1st breaking), Sarah Gross (1st fighting), Patty Hollis (2nd fighting), Shields (2nd fighting), Justin Viner (1st fighting), John Webb Jr. (2nd fighting).

Others who competed were Kristen Hamilton, Josephine Snyder, Ron Tolbert and Linda Webb.

Chiefs win twice against Waterford

The Clarkston Chiefs won two of three games against the Waterford Corsairs in weekend action.

The varsity Chiefs edged the Corsairs, 32-25, in a high-scoring duel. Clarkston's JV squad downed Waterford, 19-6. Waterford avoided a sweep by winning the freshman game, 22-0.

The Chiefs next play against the Lapeer Steelers at the Pontiac Silverdome, Sunday, Oct. 21. The freshmen square off against the Steelers at 4 p.m., with the JV game starting approximately at 6 p.m. and the varsity at 8 p.m.

McCormick traded to Atlanta Hawks

Tim McCormick, a Clarkston High School and University of Michigan graduate, was recently traded from the Houston Rockets to the Atlanta Hawks.

McCormick, a center, was traded with guard John Lucas to Atlanta for guards Kenny Smith and Flint Beecher. High School graduate Roy Marble, plus future considerations for both teams.

McCormick played the last two seasons for Houston, averaging 4.6 points and 2.9 rebounds in 99 games. Two knee operations last season kept him out of much action.

Before playing for Atlanta and Houston, McCormick also played for Seattle, Philadelphia and New Jersey.

Cyclist pedals 217 miles over weekend

Clarkston's Herb Rose was one of 500 bicyclists who rode in "The Columbus Fall Challenge" Sept. 29-30.

"We started in a small town near Columbus, Ohio, and rode to the West Virginia border," said the 62-year-old program coordinator for General Dynamics. "I covered 110 miles Saturday and 107 miles Sunday.

But the distance wasn't the only challenge for Rose.

"I've ridden over 6,000 miles this year and that includes 21 'centuries,' a day in which you ride over 100 miles," said Rose. "The task here was to surmount the intermediate hills. There were long, steep hills. We descended one hill where you could smell the brakes heating up in spite of a concentrated effort to keep them cool."

Rose, who has has climbed mountains in the western United States and Mexico, said the Columbus event was "two of the most demanding days I have ever put in."

Business owner helps others find right career

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

After Karen Krigbaum won a statewide competition in the Young Careerist program in 1970, she began a track of careers which helps her today as a career consultant.

Karen now runs a career consulting business part time, which allows her to spend time at home with her husband, Joe, and daughters Megan, 9, and Kate, 6. The Krigbaums live on Townview in Independence Township.

After winning the Young Careerist award sponsored by Business and Professional Women's (BPW) organization, Karen spoke to groups around the state.

Her involvement with BPW helped her realize the needs of women in employment. She remains a member of the BPW branch in the Clarkston-Waterford area.

In the early 1970's, Karen worked as coordinator at Muskegon Public Schools in the co-op program. After serving in the coordinator position for about 13 years, she taught at a business school in the Waterford area, also helping with career placement and public relations.

In 1980 she started her own business in career consulting.

When consulting with a client, Karen doesn't use tests. Instead, she likes to spend time talking with her clients to find out what they want in employment. The amount of time varies.

"A test will measure what it wants to measure," she says.

Some clients may have thought about what they

Sweet success has been William's for 42 years

MARY WILLIAMS started Ross Fine Candies in 1948, with a taffy machine in her basement. The thriving business was built on Williams's "attitude" and her idea of assisting fund-raisers.

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Mary Williams has been barging her way through the business world for 42 years.

She started with a taffy machine in her basement in 1948 and grew the business to the thriving Ross Fine Candies that exists today.

"We went to all the main fairs in a trailer," Mary recalls. "We had candy, apples, caramels..."

"We decided we needed a building, and the only one we could afford was this one, a garage," she says, gesturing around her.

Today, Ross Fine Candies is still located on Elizabeth Lake Road in Waterford. The front showroom is brimming with Halloween treats, decorative objects and the famous perfectly-shaped chocolates for which the Rosses are known.

Widowed when her children were teen-agers, Mary's daughter Janet now molds the candies in the back; her son Gregory makes deliveries to the many non-profit groups that make up the bulk of the family business.

"We are the biggest business in fund raising," Mary says. "I'm in Who's Who books all over the world," she adds, with a forthrightness that likely led to her sizable success.

Mary reminisces about her work at General Motors during the war, when she was promoted from secretary to the engineering department, and how she sold more bonds than anyone in GM's Flint, Pontiac and Detroit plants.

"I knew nothing about chocolate," she says time and again.

Yet by trial and error she learned: how to keep the chocolate from turning white, how to increase sales and how to survive the competition.

"You tell (customers) what you have," she explains, adding that she never talked down the competition.

"That went on; that really hurt me," she says, shaking her head.

She doesn't recall being unduly encumbered as a business woman throughout the years and lists attitude as the key to her success.

"The key to the world, and the world over, is attitude," she says.

"I never had anything handed to me," she warns. "Everything I had was earned."

1928 start of National Business Women's Week

National Business Women's Week (NBWW) was first established in 1928 through the efforts of Business and Professional Women's organization/USA.

The theme was "Better Business Women for a Better Business World." It was intended to dramatize the role of women in the nation's business sector.

Since then, NBWW has served to dramatize the contributions of women to business and professional life in the United States.

The concept was the brainchild of Emma Dot Partridge, executive secretary of the National Federation from 1924 to 1927. The first annual observance for NBWW was April 15-22, 1928. At that time, the Federation had 50,000 members in 874 local organizations.

In 1989, BPW/USA has more than 100,000 members in 53 state federations and 3,200 organizations.

Duo realizes dream of starting private school

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Seven years ago, Dolores Imbrunone and Bette Moen had a great idea.

Why not start their own school?

Dolores, a substance abuse therapist, and Bette, operator of a private practice in educational therapy, toyed with the idea for a few months and decided to move forward.

"I always dreamed of having a private school; everybody dreams of opening their own school," Bette says. "She talked for a long time," Dolores adds. "I told her if she's really serious to let me know."

Cedar Crest Academy opened on Dixie Highway, Springfield Township, in 1985. The private school instructs about 150 average-to-above students in kindergarten through eighth grade.

The facility is exactly as the two hoped it would be, but the rise was a bumpy one.

"There were obstacles," Dolores admits. "We had to get bankers, accountants, attorneys and the planning commission to take two women seriously."

The two have survived with what they identify as passion, love of learning and commitment.

"We're the kind of people that make things happen, period," Bette says.

A great deal of their support came from their association with The Waterford-Clarkston Business and Professional Women's Organization.

They met their "mentor" Martha Wheeler, an executive with Pontiac State Bank, who offered advice and support; the two are also active on a scholarship committee within the club.

"It's great to know that support is out there," Dolores says.

"You can call a woman at a bank and ask questions and know they're going to be honest and forthright," Bette adds.

The school venture has taught the two women many things.

"I would do it again," Dolores says. "The greatest payoff for me is to be my own boss."

Bette adds, "For me it's contribution to society."

Local-area BPW hosts newcomers

"Women helping Women" is the premise of the Waterford-Clarkston Business and Professional Women's Organization (BPW), and judging from the feelings of members, the club lives up to its creed.

"Many women use the organization as a wonderful network," says Joan Kopietz, owner of Tierra Arts in Clarkston and the organization's current president. "I've made some of my best friends there," Joan adds.

"You can tell there's something special," she says. "A lot come to have fun, to enjoy themselves or to relax."

Formed nationally in 1919, the BPW concerns itself with women issues. The goal of the organization is to work towards full participation, equity and economic self-sufficiency for American's working women.

The Waterford-Clarkston BPW formed in 1952 and is described as an organization of working women from many different communities and occupations in the Waterford Clarkston area.

Meetings are held each month on the second Thursday. Dinner is served at 6:30 and is typically followed by a presentation.

Among topics heard by the organization are reproductive choices, health issues, career choices and change and child/adult dependent care.

Members are also active in monitoring and influencing legislation and in educating other women on key issues.

The sole requirement for joining the organization is that the individual must be working.

Contrary to the club's name, women aren't the only members in the many organizations across the country. Men, too, are invited to join.

Those interested in the BPW organization is invited to attend the next meeting scheduled for Thursday, Nov. 8 at the Deer Lake Racquet Club.

For more information, contact Joan Kopietz at 313-625-2511.

cratic skepticism and opened the private school in 1985.

want and arrive prepared with a list. Another may be so boggled over job hunting that it may take more time to arrive at what type of employment they are seeking, Karen says.

Karen has some helpful hints for job seeking. Continue education and interview for a job when an opportunity presents itself, she says.

"It's good practice," she says. "Women can't afford to ever stop educating themselves," she says. "Even if it means being the best homemaker she can be — take classes in something."

Experience in interviewing will help when the right job comes along.

WE HELP YOU ACHIEVE THE AMERICAN DREAM

Female owner steers mowing company to success

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Chris Shull is dressed for success in sturdy pants, a heavy sweater and work boots.

Grassbusters, her company, was started with a 21-inch lawn mower four years ago and has grown like a weed.

"It just sort of happened," Chris says of her idea for the business.

"I happened to have a little lawn mower, and I got a bigger one," she says.

Chris, of Allen Road, Independence Township, now cuts for about 70 customers. Grassbusters will mow, garden, weed and do spring and fall cleanup.

Chris does a lot of the work herself, with help from a varying number of assistants, depending on the season.

The occupation is unusual for a woman, Chris admits.

"I've lost some jobs because I was a woman, and I won some, too," she says. "A lot of people like the job women do; they're better with details."

The surprise to Chris is that more women are not in the lawn business.

"It's just as easy for a woman as a man," she says.

The machinery, though large, is self-propelling and not heavy.

Though Chris says she wishes occasionally that she were stronger, the work is not difficult once she gets into shape each spring.

Likely the biggest challenge in her business is learning the mechanics of the machinery.

"There are repairs and breakdowns," Chris explains.

"It was hard to learn some of that," she says.

The pleasures of the job are many, Chris says.

"Dealing with the people — that's been the fun part," Chris says. "I have some nice people that really stuck with me.

"(The job) gives me a lot of satisfaction when it's done," she adds.

GRASSBUSTERS operates at the able hand of owner Chris Shull. Chris started the company five years ago with a small 21-inch lawn mower and now mows for about 70 customers.

National Businesswomen's Week Oct. 14 through 21

Seventy years ago, the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc. (BPW) was organized in St. Louis, Missouri. The goal then, as now, was to promote and support a high standard of achievement for women in business and in the community.

BPW is the oldest and largest organization of working women in the United States. A non-profit, self-governed organization composed of approximately 165,000 members throughout the nation, it strives to achieve specific gains for women under the law; equal pay for equal work; removal of sex discrimination in education and employment; equal representation in political organizations; child care services; tax reforms equalizing treatment for women and men; and equitable treatment of women in insurance and pension plans.

As a branch of BPW, the Michigan Federation of Business and Professional Women's organization provides career information and help to women who wish to expand their talents and abilities through educational training programs. Members of the Michigan Federation of Business and Professional Women are united by the common concern that women here and throughout the world would be treated equitably in all areas of their lives.

Independence woman works in business of color

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Color can enhance a person's attitude, according to Mary Mark of Mary Mark Images Inc.

Try leaving the house with clothing you might be hesitant about wearing, and then leave the house with an outfit you feel good wearing because you've received compliments about it, she suggests.

"There's the difference," Mary says, with an all-knowing glint in her eye.

And she ought to know. Mary sells image-building and self-esteem to people, and she likes to do it with color.

Mary's career is built around her family: husband, Mike; daughter, Michelle, 20, who attends the University of Michigan-Flint; and son Chris, 16, who attends St. Mary's Preparatory School, Orchard Lake. The Mark family lives on Deerhill Drive in Independence Township.

As a wife, Mary gave moral support to her husband as he started his own business in the Flint area. She now has his support in her endeavor to expand her business.

Mary was analyzed in 1983 but didn't like being stuck with the few selected colors, such as those recommended by Carole Jackson, author of "Color Me Beautiful." Jackson bases her use of color on the winter, spring, summer and fall seasons.

Mary's color philosophy divides people into only two groups — warm and cool.

Mary attempts to make all of her clients more aware of what they wear and to take the "guess" out of dressing, she says.

Make-up and hair styling are two other services Mary offers to her clients. She can also create an image for clients with figure problems, she says.

Mary Mark Images, Inc., will soon take a new direction. Mary runs the business out of her home, and works part-time at the Hair Depot in Clarkston, but she wants to bring all of her services together under one roof.

She's currently looking for building of her own.

"It'll be a people-builder center," says Mary with enthusiasm.

Mary likens growth in her life to growing through people and learning from each other, and offers this advice: "We need to support one another; it's important for today's climate and survival."

MARY MARK adds just the right color to her clients lives. She advises her clients on image and whether they belong in the warm or cool color category.

Women's suffrage didn't come easily

Susan Brownell Anthony was past 50 when she broke the law with 14 other women by voting in the Nov. 5, 1872, national election.

More than 50 women registered to vote that year, but only one precinct allowed them to cast ballots.

All 15 women were arrested, and it was agreed that Anthony would speak for them all during the trial.

However, when Anthony's attorney called her to the stand, the judge ruled she was incompetent as a witness because she was a woman.

Anthony was found guilty and was ordered to pay a $100 fine, which she refused. Anthony and her attorney were prepared to take the case to the U.S. Supreme court, but the prosecution never raised the issue of Anthony's unpaid fine, and charges against the other women were dropped.

Anthony (1820-1906) died before 36 of 48 states ratified the 19th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution in 1919, which used Anthony's language to declare: "The right of citizens of the United States to vote, shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of sex."

MAX BROOCK Presents: PAM FORD

PAM FORD is a shining example of success in Real Estate. After only a few years with Max Brook Inc., she became the Salesperson of the Year in 1988 and again in 1989. Her combined sales for 1988 through 1990 exceed 17 million dollars; all primarily in the Clarkston area.

In 1985, after 13 years in finance, Pam was looking for a career which offered her the flexibility she needed to care for her two children and the maximum earning potential in which to support them. She was always interested in Real Estate and found Max Brook's 95 years of experience, professional image and reputation for successful marketing paralleled with her personal goals.

During Pam's five (5) years in the business, she has met many wonderful people and made numerous new friends. She advises anyone who is self-motivated, has high personal goals, loves people and finds 14 hour days exciting, to consider Real Estate for their future.

Pam plans to continue as a Real Estate Associate until her two girls, Emily (age 10) and Erin (age 9) graduate from college. She would then like to move to Southern California and walk the beach with that "someone special".

Female exec sees support in club

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

As a senior vice president of Charles, Free & Lawson, June Burkeen manages 17 people and a $15 million budget.

She handles all advertising for Michigan's 340 McDonald's restaurants.

The job often requires 10-12 hour days plus week-end "homework," leaving little time for socializing.

To fill that void in her life, June turned to the Waterford-Clarkston Business and Professional Women's Organization (BPW).

"I had been relatively active prior to my marriage," June explains. "But I had given it up to take care of that. 'I didn't feel I was out and about enough,'" she shrugs.

Upon joining BPW, June served as president of the club and also became secretary for the entire BPW district.

"I embraced the organization and the organization embraced me," June says.

After joining BPW, June suffered a divorce and the death of her mother, something she says she couldn't have survived without the "friendship and support of some key people" within BPW.

Admittedly a "highly organized person with refined people skills," June doesn't benefit as much from the organization's instructional opportunities, but it has helped in other ways.

When June started at BPW, for instance, her staff was made up primarily of men. After attending a seminar on women's issues, she got to thinking.

The staff now consists of 15 women and two men, though she says this is not "on purpose."

Many of the seminars and speakers simply help her to keep in touch, she adds.

JUNE BURKEEN of Cedar Cove Court, Springfield Township, oversees advertising for Michigan's McDonald's restaurants. Though she has already reached many career goals, June's association with the Waterford-Clarkston Professional Women's Association is valuable to her, she says.

Using maiden name not a new idea

Today, many women choose to use their maiden names after marriage. While the practice still is viewed as radical by some, the idea isn't new.

Lucy Stone (1818-1893), born to a poor farming family in West Brookfield, Mass., edited Woman's Journal with her husband, Henry Blackwell. The journal was the organ of the conservative American Woman Suffrage Association (in competition with the Stanton-Anthony National W.S.A.).

One of Lucy's radical ideas about women's rights was that marriage should not change a woman's name any more than it did a man's. A "Lucy Stoner" was a nickname given a "liberated woman" who continued after marriage to use her maiden name.

19th century female doctor from Michigan

The work of one 19th century Michigan woman is impressive even by today's standards.

Anna Howard Shaw (1847-1919) was born in England and brought to the United States as a child. Her father cleared land in Michigan's wilderness, settled his wife and children on it, and went to Massachusetts to earn money for their support.

Anna, the oldest child, took care of the younger children when their mother became an invalid, attended high school after the Civil War and was later ordained as a Methodist minister. Not satisfied with a comfortable parish on Cape Cod, she graduated from medical school in 1885 and worked in Boston slums.

The plight of women there convinced her that the only hope of bettering their lives lay in closing the saloons that drained their husbands' pockets and health, and in giving women the vote.

She served as president of the National American Woman Suffrage Association from 1904 to 1915.

Business assists elderly at home

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Shirley Mulligan understands the plight of the elderly.

SHIRLEY MULLIGAN built her business on knowledge of elderly.

After serving as a registered nurse and social worker, the 43-year-old Independence Township woman took that knowledge and incorporated it into her own business, AMS Managed Care, which has operated for nearly three years.

AMS is a customized care management program seeking to postpone admission to a nursing home while keeping seniors in a comfortable environment.

Mulligan's clients come from either relatives or trustees, such as banking institutions. Her duties include: assessment of the mental and physical status of a patient, development of a care plan and random supervisory visits.

A care plan could include hiring a part-time nurse, a housekeeper or someone to prepare the meals. After a care plan has been put into motion, Mulligan evaluates the situation by frequent visits to her clients.

She is currently in charge of 94 cases with patients living in various regions of the lower peninsula.

Mulligan's duties aren't limited to only supervisory ones. On occasion, Mulligan is forced to drive a client to a doctor's appointment or to help in grocery shopping if assistance is unavailable.

Because of the frequent trips, she has racked up nearly 25,000 miles on a car less than a year old.

Despite the burdensome load, Mulligan is happy with her role as caregiver.

"The most gratifying part of my job is knowing I've made a difference in some people's lives," Mulligan said.

"It's a good feeling knowing that your efforts have improved the quality of a person's life, especially in the latter years," she added.

Women in business is a trend Mulligan expects will continue.

"This generation of women is aggressive in the entrepreneurial sense," she said. "I see the trend continuing into the next century, especially in small business."

Mulligan is married to Van Mulligan, a Troy school teacher. She has two children; Murky, 18, and Patrick, 14. Her hobbies include traveling and golf.

Business Brief

Pool business honored nationally

Poolmart of Michigan, Ortonville Road, Independence Township, has been recognized by the National Spa and Pool Institute (NSPI) on two occasions.

First, the NSPI awarded Pool Mart owner Pete Gannon the level of NSPI Certified, the association's highest degree in its certification program.

Gannon currently is the only holder of the certificate in the Midwest. To reach that level, the applicant must show a working knowledge in all phases of the swimming pool industry, be an active member of the trade association, NSPI, and have been involved in the industry for at least 25 years.

The second recognition came when Gannon was asked by the NSPI to teach a five-hour seminar at the Sept. 17 Midwest seminar in Columbus, Ohio, on water chemistry, Gannon's area of expertise.

The Tech I session at the seminar lasted five days and covered most of the basics in all phases of pool technology. This is the first of three steps required for full industry certification.

Growing trees from seed is not exactly simple

Mighty oaks do grow from little acorns. But growing trees and shrubs from seeds is often not as simple as gathering seeds and popping them into the soil.

Curt Peterson, Extension horticulturist at Michigan State University, explains that many seeds need special treatment before they will germinate.

Acorns from red oaks, for instance, and the winged seeds of sugar maples need a cold treatment to germinate.

Gather seeds in the fall and store them in damp peat moss, sand or vermiculite in the refrigerator (40 degrees) for 90 days, Peterson suggests.

This will simulate the conditions they would undergo lying in leaf litter on the forest floor and prepare them for germination.

You can then plant them in flats or pots indoors or wait until early spring and plant them outdoors.

Other nuts — walnuts, butternuts, buckeyes and hickory nuts — and white pine seeds also need chilling.

The seeds of white oaks, on the other hand, need no cold treatment. You can plant them in the fall as soon as they fall from the trees.

Plant nuts one to three times as deep as their diameter, Peterson advises, and cover the planting area with half-inch mesh hardware cloth to protect the nuts against rodents and squirrels.

Chilling seeds to prepare them for germination is called stratification.

Another treatment, scarification, may be necessary, either alone or in combination with stratification, to weaken hard seed coats and so enable seeds to germinate.

"Scarification occurs naturally as seeds pass through animals' or birds' digestive systems," Peterson explains, "as fungi break down the hard seed coat and as seeds freeze and thaw."

Scarification may involve rubbing seeds on a file or sandpaper, or soaking them in warm water for 24 hours. (Commercial growers use sulfuric acid on some seeds, but this process isn't recommended for home use.)

"Youngsters looking for a science project might want to gather nuts or other tree seeds in the fall and try out various combinations of stratification, scarification and germination temperatures on them," Peterson suggests. "Fruits from trees and shrubs are another possibility."

One tree you definitely do not want to grow from seed is the ginkgo.

This ancient tree is monoecious — that is, individual plants are either male or female. Female trees produce fruits with an unbearable odor. In short, they stink.

Because of their noxious fruits, female trees are not considered an asset to the home landscape, Peterson observes.

If you could stand to collect the fruits and store them until they ripened so you could separate pulp from seeds, every seed you planted would have a 50 percent chance of growing into a female tree.

If you want ginkgo trees in your yard, your best bet is to buy known male trees from a reputable nursery, he suggests.

Some solutions for green tomatoes

"What can I do with all those green tomatoes still in my garden?" is becoming a common question at Oakland County Cooperative Extension Hotline, says home economist Sylvia Treiman.

Home gardeners are finding themselves knee deep in a crop of green tomatoes and unsure of what, if anything, can be done with them.

"Green tomatoes lend themselves to a variety of tasty relishes and side dishes, and they can be safely canned as long as they are not from dead or frost-killed vines," says Sylvia Treiman.

Solid unblemished tomatoes that have not been frost-bitten can be safely canned if proper processing procedures are followed. The Ball Blue Book 1990, 32nd edition, is a reliable source.

If the tomatoes are hit by a light frost, they can still ripen satisfactorily if they are wrapped in paper and kept at room temperature or a bit cooler. However tomatoes hit by a hard frost need to be used up at once. They will deteriorate rapidly and will not ripen and should not be canned.

Green tomatoes also can be served in an interesting way by slicing them and frying them. They can be frozen for frying later, too.

For questions and recipe ideas and information on using green tomatoes, call the Food and Nutrition Hotline 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday at 858-0904.

DANNY PORTER, one of about 30 Varsity Concert Choir singers, rehearses Oct. 11. "The students this year are extremely enthusiastic, very talented, anxious to learn and fun to teach," says Director Grayce Warren. "They take pride in their work."

Discipline, dedication make beautiful music

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

A quick glance around the vocal music room at Clarkston High School shows that the students in Varsity Concert Chorus are all types.

Some wear blue jeans and tennis shoes, while others sport skirts and sweaters or college sweatshirts and sweat pants. Some are quick to engage a visitor with a smile; others look away shyly.

The number of singers in the room, 27, is far short of the number to which Director Grayce Warren has become accustomed in her 26 years of teaching.

It is a result, she says, of a shortened day — students now have six hours of classes a day instead of seven. Plus they have higher graduation requirements. That leaves less time for electives. And those who do choose music generally end up in instrumental music because they've already have invested a few hundred dollars in an instrument.

That means smaller choirs during school hours but ballooning numbers in after-school groups, such as Barbershop Ensemble and Girls Select Ensemble, which meet on a voluntary basis.

On this day — six weeks into the school year and one and a half weeks before the first concert — the pupils chatter and giggle among themselves until the director takes her position behind the piano.

"Tutto Lo Do Me Dici, 'Canta,'" calls out Warren, who begins the accompaniment to the Italian piece (translation: "Day After Day They All Say, 'Sing'").

"Sit up straight," she tells them — though there is not much need for the reminder.

There are no gum-chewers in this bunch. With feet firmly planted on the floor and backs straight, the vocalists relish their sound. Their outside concerns of an upcoming Homecoming dance, a trigonometry test or an environmental group seem forgotten.

"Breathe, sopranos, breathe," shouts Warren.

The sopranos breathe, and the sound is much fuller.

"Come on, guys," Warren says to the few tenors

"I have found that if you maintain high standards for students, they will meet that challenge."

Director Grayce Warren

and basses in the room. They pick up their volume.

It is the same with "Rounds of Israel," sung in Hebrew; "Agnus Dei," sung in Latin; and "Czechoslovakian Dance Song," which is a lively song with challenging intervals and an ever-quickening tempo.

By the time a student reaches Varsity Choir, he or she is expected to read music, to learn quickly and to sing in a variety of languages.

"Varsity reflects the fine teaching of our junior high teachers," says Warren. "The students are well prepared."

Warren wouldn't have it any other way. Each of her classes sings in a variety of languages with a varying degree of difficulty.

"I have found that if you maintain high standards for students, they will meet that challenge," says Warren, who considers music an integral part of a student's education.

"A child should be well rounded in all aspects of life," she says, explaining that music helps in such areas as socialization, discipline, unity and self-confidence.

"I relate it to sports in that it's the very same concept — we just wear different uniforms," she says with a smile.

The "uniforms" consist, in part, of choir robes for Varsity Choir, tuxedos and formal gowns (sewn by Warren with help from parents) for the Madrigal Singers, and

Bruce Avenall, Jason Freeland, Brooke Manuel and Heather Coxen. Many of the CHS vocal music groups will perform for area events, clubs and meetings, but organizers should book now before the holiday rush, according to Director Grayce Warren. To keep up with such a schedule, the vocalists must be good students. "Academically good students are also fine musicians," says Warren. "They go hand in hand."

Children ask for help in filling holiday food baskets for needy

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

About 30 junior high school kids worked for a good cause and a good time Oct. 10.

The students, part of the Clarkston United Methodist Church Junior High Methodist Youth Fellowship group, kicked off a month-long food drive for Lighthouse North.

Lighthouse North, on Maybee Road, Independence Township, is a new non-profit organization that helps the needy in the north Oakland County area.

Last Wednesday, the youth group made colorful drop boxes and signs for area businesses that will accept donations of canned goods for food baskets.

Each week, the students will pick up the goods and take them to Lighthouse North.

The food will be used, in part, to fill Thanksgiving baskets, so items especially needed are gelatin, pie crust mix, canned corn, pumpkin pie mix, cranberries and all the trimmings.

Area drop-off sites through Nov. 6 are: Bunny Hut, Beverly Flowers and Gifts, Neen's, Clarkston Farm Market, Clarkston Glass, Clarkston United Methodist Church, A&P, Kroger's, Food Town, NBD and Kids Studio, Inc.

Teen-agers working on the project are Missy Corbin, Jill Wyatt, Kelly Arcello, Lisa Herron, Kristi Millard, Courtney Duby, Grace Duca, Stephanie Chapman, Brent Zorka, Jason Branson, Kristy Branson, Kim Mellen, Rich Hansen, Jeff Smith, John Wyatt, Roxanne Haight, Jill Manley, Ashley Halleran, Katie York, Amy Bryson, Angie Ruth, Jeremy Davidson, Jeff Deevey, Scott Randall, Jeff Phillips, John Wyatt, Joe Dilegghio, Kimberly Deacon, Jeremy Bleim and Steve Harlton.

Adult sponsors are Joyce Bleim, Jim Bryson, Kay Bryson and Youth Director John Leece.

MISSY Corbin, 14, of Waldon Road, Clarkston, tapes colorful paper to a box that will be used to collect food.

WHISTLING while he works is Jeff Deevey, 12, of Harbortowne Drive, Independence Township.

JOHN WYATT, 11, of Deerwood Road and Kelly Arcello, 12, of Rattalee Lake Road find that teamwork works well in creating a sign to advertise a food drive.

DON'T BUY PROPERTY - SIGHT UNSEEN

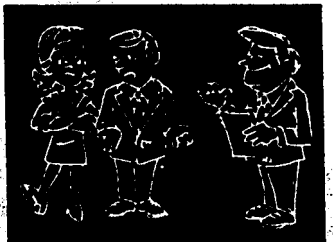

Phyllis Braun
Associate Broker

QUESTION: I just received a mail-order offer to buy vacation property. The photos look great and the price seems attractive. The developer wants me to purchase by mail because it is limited. They offer to refund my money within six months if I am not satisfied. What do you think?

ANSWER: Don't buy by mail, sight unseen. It exposes you to every possible abuse and mistake. What if you are unable to visit within six months? If you do, and are dissatisfied, will the developer still be in business? If he is, what assurance do you have that he will return your money? If you think the purchase is worthwhile - take the trip and look at the property. But don't make any advance commitment to buy.

Dapper display

The results aren't in yet for a countywide 4-H display case contest, but the members of one club agree that they had a great time participating.

"It was a really nice display," said Kim Boose, a parent who formed the Clarkston Critters general 4-H club a year ago with parent Nancy Doyle.

"We had lots of fun," Boose said.

In the display, members tried to show that 4-H is more than just raising animals. The Clarkston Critters' display included photos, rabbit T-shirts, clay projects, posters on conservation, creative stories and more.

The group removed its display from the Independence Township Library Oct. 13. Working on the project were Amy Boose, Nick Boose, Emily Boose, Kelley Doyle, Jessica Doyle, Ashley Doyle, John Wawruck, Shawn Wawruck, Sarah Szurpicki, Beth Szurpicki and Ember Gilbert.

The new group, which is planning to tackle a compost pile, arts and crafts and cake decorating in the future, is looking for new members, said Nancy Doyle.

"It's a nice family project," she said.

People who are interested may want to see the club's next display — this time, with animals — at the holiday open houses at Bordine's Better Blooms in November and December.

Homecoming court chosen

Mailing tips for Saudi Arabia assure delivery

The Postal Service has some helpful hints for Americans mailing parcels to military personnel deployed to Operation Desert Shield. Following these guidelines will help assure packages arrive promptly and efficiently.

- Use a sturdy carton, large enough to accommodate the contents.

- Use some form of cushioning to protect the articles inside. Seal the parcel securely; use pressure-sensitive tape. Avoid using brown wrapping paper, cord or string on the outside.

- Print the service member's name and address on the lower right portion of the package on one side only. Include name, rank and service number, military organization or unit and the APO/FPO address. It's important to have the current APO/FPO address, which should be available from that service member's base in the United States.

Put your return address in the upper left-hand corner of the package. Also include your return address on a piece of paper on the inside of the package.

- Remember the heat of the Saudi Arabia climate when considering what to send to the troops there. Temperatures in the desert exceed 100 degrees regularly. Items to send which are popular with the troops include audio cassette tapes, newspaper clippings, gum and hard candy.

- Make sure to attach a parcel post customs declaration form (Form 2966-A, available at local post offices) on all your packages.
- The fastest way for packages to get there is priority or first-class mail which allows for a five to 10-day delivery.

Keep cold food cold and hot food hot

Every new school year, moms are faced with the challenge of packing nutritious, tasty lunches for children that will stay safe.

"Foods can spoil quickly in warm lockers, desks and hot cars," says Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service.

She adds that the importance of keeping hot foods hot and cold foods cold cannot be underestimated when you are preparing brown bag lunches for your family. Food that is left in a warm area for more than four hours with no refrigeration may grow bacteria that can result in food poisoning.

Sylvia advises that parents do not need to panic and stop sending bag lunches. Instead, follow a few simple tips to insure a safe lunch:

- Prepare and freeze sandwiches the night before to help keep them safe and help to keep other foods cold. (Do not freeze mayonnaise, salad dressing or hard cooked eggs).

- Pre-freeze drinks in paper containers or other beverages — they will thaw by lunch and be a good cold source.

- Pre-freeze yogurts.

- Use a vacuum bottle to keep all hot foods hot, such as soups or spaghetti.

- Use a clean insulated lunch bag and use blue ice or ice gels whenever pre-freezing foods isn't appropriate.

For more information on food safety and some nutritious lunch ideas — call The Food and Nutrition Hotline 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday at 858-0904.

Recycled news receives grant

There was good news for recyclers in the recent James River Corporation announcement of increased production facilities in Kalamazoo. The plant will triple its use of old newspapers, to 104,000 tons a year, by the end of 1994. That is an increase of about 70,000 short tons from its 1990 use of old newsprint.

Only two newspapers in Michigan use more than 30,000 tons of newsprint a year (the Detroit News and the Detroit Free Press). The James River announcement means that more than 20% of all newsprint used in Michigan could be recycled by James River alone in 1994 - if the used newspapers can be collected and hauled to James River's Kalamazoo plant. The company praised the state for being supportive (James River will receive $5.4 million in state grants for encouraging recycling and for worker training) and said that collective efforts are underway to expand collection and use of Michigan-sourced paper.

The Kalamazoo plant produces folding paperboard boxes for cereal and other supermarket products. The paperboard is made from 100% recycled paper, including old newspapers and used corrugated cartons. When the $97 million expansion is completed, output of recycled paperboard from the Kalamazoo plant will total 320,000 tons per year.

Humor, wilderness in Possum Corner concert

Canadian-Born singer Eileen McGann performs Friday, Oct. 19, in the Possum Corner Coffeehouse concert series.

The 8 p.m. concert takes place at the Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church, 5331 Maybee Road, Independence Township. Tickets are $8 adults, $7 members and $6 for senior citizens and children under 15. Tickets are available at the door or in advance through Ticketmaster or The Book Place in Lake Orion.

McGann's compositions range from joyous songs celebrating the northern wilderness to tales of urban angst and political ineptitude. Songs from the female perspective are drawn from traditional sources as well as from other songwriters and her own, often humorous, outlook.

Her repertoire highlights traditional songs from Canada, Ireland and Britain as well as fermentive selection of modern music.

Upcoming concerts include the Baldock Mountain Ramblers Nov. 3, Neil Woodward Nov. 16, Robert Jones/Matt Watroba Nov. 30, and Sally Rogers and Howie Bursen Dec. 29.

For more information, call 625-1227.

Pet of the Week

BUBBLES, a German shepherd mix, is reddish brown but blue in her heart because she wants a new home.

Little Bubbles

You can bubble your troubles away — when Bubbles becomes your new pet. Loyalty is part of her nature.

Bubbles is a female German shepherd mix of medium size, and at 1 year she won't be doing much more growing.

She's housebroken and has already been spayed, which makes her adoption fee $35.

A shelter worker suggests that Bubbles live in a home with children over 8 years old. Bubbles is timid until she gets to know a person, the shelter worker says.

To see Bubbles visit the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Hills, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The Other Side of Things

Helping parents through the junior high years

Ashley Ball

Have you ever noticed how parents really get going on something trivial you've done like, maybe, leaving your room a mess or crashing the car over the weekend when you don't have your license yet — and they get so worked up that they end up saying something totally irrelevant, something worthy of a column?

Like the other night at dinner. Our family was sitting at the table, eating, Spaghetti.

My sister simply asked, "May I have more pasghetti, please? I mean spaghetti?"

When she caught her mistake, she giggled. One thing led to another, and soon she was rolling on the floor laughing.

"GIRLS!" my dad snapped loudly.

Girls? Since when was I joking about pasghetti? ... I mean spaghetti?

And what about yesterday, when I told my mom that

Keep gourds gorgeous with proper curing

The wonderful feeling of autumn can be extended by preserving colorful gourds for centerpieces or other home decorations, according to Sylvia Treitman.

Treitman, home economist for the Oakland Cooperative Extension Service, says gourds are part of the squash and pumpkin family, yet they are grown for ornamental use only. Each gourd has its own unique shape and color combinations.

To make them last longer a few simple procedures should be followed:

- Wipe surface with a cloth dampened in rubbing alcohol — dry thoroughly.

- Discard bruised or nicked gourds.

- Cure the gourds by hanging in a mesh bag in a cool well ventilated place away from sun or heat.

- Hasten drying by drilling a hole or pushing a wire through the blossom end.

- After they are dry (from one to six months) give them a coat of transparent furniture wax. The gourds are lovely in arrangements with fall leaves, Indian corn and other dried materials. These decorations are especially suitable for the upcoming Thanksgiving season.

I had been asked to take pictures of the Clarkston Junior High football game for the yearbook. She turned pale and sat down. I thought she was going to faint.

"You mean you're going into the locker room to interview the players?" she asked in horror.

"No, Mom. I mean I'm going to take pictures of the game for the yearbook. That's all."

All parents jump to irrelevant conclusions sometime ... in my parents' case, however, I've noticed it more since I've been in junior high. It probably has something to do with how junior high affects parents. However, "jumping to conclusions" may have been something they learned to do in parenting classes before we were born.

Anyway, as teen-agers, we can help our parents through these difficult junior high years if we follow this simple three-step plan.

First, it's important that we involve our parents in our favorite projects and activities. I learned early about parent involvement and in second grade asked my dad to help me make wallpaper for my entire room on my typewriter. We spent almost two weeks of his vacation that year pounding out wallpaper and he has since said, many times, how he will never forget that experience. It was a little thing for me to do, but look how much it meant to him.

Second, it is also important to involve yourself in your parents' pet projects. For instance, my mom likes to spend Saturday mornings clipping coupons from the newspaper and filing them in alphabetical categories in a little gray coupon box.

If I have nothing else (and I mean absolutely nothing else) to do, I help her. Maybe it's not as much fun as shopping at the mall ... but it's not as bad as having anorexia nervosa, either.

But I am amazed at some of the coupons I run across in her coupon box. I mean, where does she get them? Like: "Son of a Gun Vinyl Cleaner." I'M NOT KIDDING! Can you imagine asking a grocery clerk where the Son Of A Gun Vinyl Cleaner is?

And there are coupons for monster cereals with names like Fruity Yummy Mummy and Boo Berry. I'M NOT KIDDING! These are real coupons I've found in my mom's coupon box. Who buys these things, anyway?

Once I ran across a coupon for cat food.

"Mom," I asked, "why do you even have this Whiskas cat food coupon? We don't even have a cat!"

She looked at the coupon for a few long moments as if trying to remember something. Then she looked up at me, sort of surprised.

"You're right," she agreed. "We don't."

And third, take your parents' advice. After all, they are sincerely interested in helping you solve your problems.

Like the other night ... I was half-way through a really sad article in Seventeen magazine when my mom walked into my room. I looked up, tears welling in my eyes.

"What's the matter, Ashley?" my mom asked, really concerned.

I told her the article was about how sad it could be when your boyfriend goes off to college and you're still in high school.

"But, Sweetheart," she consoled me as she sat down on the bed beside me. "You don't even have a boyfriend right now. And the one you don't have certainly isn't going off to college. And, besides, technically, you're not even in high school yet."

I glanced sideways at my mom without turning my head. Somehow, the mood of the article had been broken.

"You're right, Mom," I said, squeezing out a little smile. She patted my hand and smiled, pleased with herself having solved my problem.

As much as I love my mom, she still, at times, reminds me of Super Grover.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT: Holy Spirit, You who makes me see everything and who shows me the way to reach my ideal. You who gives me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me, and You who are with me. I, in this short dialogue want to thank You for everything and to confirm that I never want to be separated from You, no matter how great material desires may be. I want to be with You and my loved ones in Your perpetual glory. Amen. Thank You for Your love towards me and my loved ones. Persons must pray this prayer three consecutive days without asking your wish. After the third day, your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then, promise to publish this dialogue as soon as your favor has been granted. Thanks to St. Jude for favors received. IIRX42-2

WHO IS ON THE LORD'S side? He that listens to lying vanities forsakes his own mercy (Job 27:8) (Job 37:24) (Psa 7:9). Christians are not sinners saved by grace but in Grace, by repentance, saved out of their sins never to willfully return to sin, by the renewing of the mind to the Word of God, to obey, Holy and unblameable before God! We are Holy, righteousness of God in Christ and called into light (truth) and have a relationship with Him, not sinning! Christians are not in sin, or have it in them, and Holy at the same time nor once saved always saved forever. Obedience to the Word of God (faith) is the key which is true faith which works by love for God and His wisdom who he says he is. Its impossible to be a Christian and still believing your in sin at the same time or have a demon as a Christian. You are in Christ filled with power and love to obey Him or a hypocrite believing the traditions of men, selfish, disobeying God from the heart having an appearance of Godliness but filled with pride deceiving men. If you say you are in sin in your thoughts, deeds, and word every day and claim you know God at the same time you are a hypocrite, deceived of men, loving to listen to lies, and have not a love for the truth to walk in it. You are lost and deceived and love to have it that way if you are not seeking to know the truth. You are in sin and an enemy of God and His Christ because you hate the truth and will not come to the light. You are too lazy and its easier to go with the flow of men's religion - The Harlot - to Hell. IILX41-2
