Devil's Night to be OK

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

With Devil's Night edging closer, area officials foresee no problems like those facing large metropolitan areas.

For the past few years, Detroit's Devil's Night festivities have been making national news. On Oct. 30, the city is besieged by vandals who take pride in causing havoc, especially in the arson department. Last year, more than 400 fires were reportedly set in the city.

However, the Clarkston area is a far-cry from Motown, and local fire officials don't expect trouble.

"I don't see any problems this year," said Springfield Township Fire Chief Marlan Hillman. "We've really never had any problems, and we're not taking any special precautions this year."

Gar Wilson, Independence Township's fire chief, echoes the sentiment.

"We're expecting a quiet one this year," he said. "We won't be making any different plans this Devil's Night."

Wilson said that there have been a few incidents over the past 10 years, but none of any significance. This includes the dummies hung from neighborhood trees and small fires set in the middle of deserted roadways, such as the intersection of Clintonville and Waldon roads.

Oakland County Sheriff's Detective Dave Scott said the police officers will be on the lookout for hooliganism, but he doesn't expect any dangerous high jinks. He added that the police patrols will remain the same size, despite the reputation of the evening.

New schools, pool subject of hearing

A Clarkston school district plan to construct a new elementary school, high school, swimming pool and improve existing facilities will be discussed at a public hearing Tuesday, Oct. 30.

The hearing is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the Clarkston Junior High Auditorium, not the high school auditorium as reported earlier.

School officials plan to set a special bond election on the $82 million project for February. Voters will be asked to consider three separate "packages," including an elementary option, a high school option and a swimming pool option.

Construction and improvements would be financed through the issuance of zero coupon bonds.

For more information, contact the administrative office at 625-4402.

Time to change clocks

We gain an hour this weekend due to Daylight Savings Time, so don't forget to set your clocks back by one hour before you go to sleep Saturday, Oct. 27.

The official change takes place at 3 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 28. By setting the clock back, it will be lighter when you wake up in the mornings and darker when you go home at night.

To remember which way to turn your clocks each spring and fall, this memory aid might be helpful: "Spring forward, fall back."

Reason to blow their own horns ended with the annual homecoming dance. Other festivities during homecoming week included field day events at the high school, a bonfire and the annual seniors vs. Juniors Powderpuff football game. (Photo by James Gibowski)

Front setback hearing

The distance between a building and the road is the topic of a public hearing Thursday, Nov. 8.

An amendment to Independence Township's Zoning Ordinance #83 is to be discussed at 7:30 p.m. before the township board at 90 N. Main Street, Clarkston.

If approved, the amendment would require the measurement of front building setback from the future right-of-way in accordance with the Oakland County right-of-way plan. A right-of-way is property near roads that is used for such things as signs, shoulders and ditches.

BPW names Roth employer of year

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Margaret Roth, part owner of the Food Town grocery store chain, has been named "Employer of the Year" by an area chapter of the Business and Professional Women's Organization (BPW).

The Independence Township resident was shocked when she was named the recipient of the award.

"I didn't expect the award," said Roth, a fellow

"Margaret's a lady who has been in business a long time and worked very hard at her trade. She treats her workers with compassion and is an asset to the community."

BPW President Joan Kopietz

BPW member. "I had no idea of what was going on until the presenter started telling my life story. It was such a nice surprise I couldn't help but break down."

BPW President Joan Kopietz said Roth epitomizes everything the award represents in the ways of benefiting

"I really believe that honesty and hard work are the most important traits in business."

Margaret Roth

the community and employee consideration.

"Margaret's a lady who has been in business a long time and worked very hard at her trade," Kopietz said. "She treats her workers with compassion and is an asset to the community."

MARGARET Roth, founder and co-owner of Food Town, was recently named Employer of the Year by the BPW. She has been in the grocery business for almost fifty years and she attributes her success to loyal customers and employees.

Roth founded Food Town in 1944. The chain was incorporated from the small, Adler Grocery store she owned near Columbia and Baldwin Roads, Pontiac.

Since that time, Food Town has expanded to four 30,000-square-foot facilities. This includes the Independence Township store at Sashabaw and Maybee roads. A new building is set for the corner of Waldon and Sashabaw roads and should open by April 1991.

Roth attributes much of her company's success to her family, who also shares the ownership responsibilities. Margaret is joined by her husband, Daniel Roth, and sons, Bob Roth and Ed Adler, in operating the franchise.

"For the past 27 years, my husband (Daniel) has been instrumental in running the company. He's been a wonderful spouse and father," she said. "We both feel thankful to have had such honorable sons. Both men have grown up in the business and helped it prosper over the years."

Roth also passed on praise to her employees and customers.

"We feel humbled toward our employees and customers," she said. "If it wasn't for them, we wouldn't exist."

Roth added that several of her employees have been with the company for 25 years, and their loyalty indicates the cohesiveness that exists within the "Food Town family."

Roth believes that honesty and perseverance are the main contributors to her success. She believes that still stands true today.

"Our motto is a pound for a pound and a dollar for a dollar. This means you should be honest with everyone about everything," Roth said. "I really believe that honesty and hard work are the most important traits in business. That hasn't changed in over 40 years, and I don't see it ever changing."

Call for improvement sounds throughout district

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Consultant Larry Lezotte spent the entire day in Clarkston spreading dissatisfaction about its schools.

He spoke to principals and administrators; he spoke to teachers released by the half day scheduled for the purpose; and finally, he spoke to parents.

The dissatisfaction was purposeful, Lezotte explained to the those gathered in Clarkston High School's Kirchgesner Auditorium for the evening session: Dissatisfaction is the first step towards creating improvement.

Lezotte, a former college professor, is an independent consultant with Effective Schools Products, hired by the district.

A crowd of about 20 sat in awe as Lezotte described schools in which teachers were 100 percent computer literate.

The principal had fought to allow teachers to take school computers home over the summer, Lezotte explained.

The call for school improvement is being heard across the state, mainly due to Public Act 25, passed last year by the state legislature, Lezotte explained.

The law will require schools to comply with the following:

- A core curriculum must be submitted, which describes what the school will do to produce an expected outcome.

- A school report card must be publicized, reveal-

"There is great skepticism whether this energy can be fueled by the state House."

Larry Lezotte

ing data such as test scores, attendance and drop-out rates.

- A school improvement plan must be completed by 1992.

- And, every school — not just high school — must go through an accreditation process.

Though Public Act 25 could spark improvement, the action doesn't have to stop there, Lezotte says.

"New energy will flow in the district, but time will tell whether it's good energy or not," he explains. "There is great skepticism whether this energy can be fueled by the state House."

Michigan is currently somewhere in the middle for affecting change in schools, Lezotte says.

"Soft data collected over the past six years shows Michigan in the middle; it's neither a leader nor a way-trailer for school improvement," Lezotte said.

Twenty years ago Michigan was at the top for education leadership, he added, but throughout the past 10 years it has slipped.

Lezotte advocated running the school more like a private-sector business. He discussed ideas such as treating staff more like volunteers and dedicating more resources to improvement.

Corporations often spend up to 10 percent on improvement, he explained. Schools would be "courageous" if they supported one percent.

Lezotte compared the school improvement process to redecorating a home.

Dissatisfaction with the status quo is what spurs the improvement, he explains. The next step is to create a vision of what could be.

The plan must then be communicated to everyone who will be involved. Existing elements must be abandoned to accommodate the new arrangements; progress must be monitored; and positive results must be celebrated, he adds.

Lezotte described one district that sent huge sheet cakes to a school that had improved test scores.

"Did that help? You bet it did," he exclaimed.

Members of the audience questioned why finances were not included in the example.

Lezotte again used the home improvement example, asking whether home remodeling ever waited until a homeowner had enough to pay for the work.

The improvement can't wait, he added.

Fired up for field day

GRAPEFRUIT proves a challenge for Dan Griffiths, who is among the contestants in the field day event that requires the fruit to be passed from neck to neck (no hands).

SOME received flowers at school Friday and still had them with them during the annual field day events for Clarkston High School's homecoming.

THE FINAL score is added up by two student government volunteers. The seniors won the field day contest, in which the classes competed at such telltale events as a sleeping bag race, egg toss, noise and grapefruit pass. (Photos by James Gibowski)

Township applies for library room grant

Local history could get a boost if luck goes the way of Independence Township next year.

Township officials are to apply for a state grant, which will go toward construction of the historical room in the upcoming library expansion on Clarkston Road.

Township Clerk Joan McCrary spoke of the grant at the Oct. 16 board meeting. The trustees supported the endeavor.

The grant is being offered by a state-based equity program, overseen by the Department of Commerce. The program has a total budget of $2.1 million, and no one grant can exceed $100,000.

The township will be applying for a grant in the field of regional and cultural enrichment.

The application is to be sent in this week. Grant recipients will be notified by February of 1991.

Trick-or-Treaters Safety Tips

- ☺ Trick-or-treat while it is still light outside.
- ☺ Wear bright costumes with reflective paint or tape and short enough to prevent tripping.
- ☺ Wear face make-up instead of a mask.
- ☺ Only visit homes with porch lights on. Never enter a stranger's home.
- ☺ Carry a flashlight to light the way and to alert motorists.
- ☺ Cross streets at corners and look all ways before stepping off a curb. Do not cross between parked cars or in the middle of the block.
- ☺ If there is no sidewalk, walk facing traffic, well off the road.
- ☺ Adults should chaperone young children on their Halloween rounds and inspect candy before it is eaten.

HAVE A SAFE AND HAPPY HALLOWEEN!

Self-conscious Romans

Julie Campe

Shortly after Iraq invaded Kuwait, I saw Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar" on stage for the first time.

After reading Alexander Leggatt's introduction, "Rome in Crisis," in the Stratford Festival program, I was struck by the parallels of human behavior as depicted by Shakespeare and by modern news reports.

Leggatt talks about the self-consciousness of the public figures in Rome. That self-consciousness is similar to the "imaging" performed by today's politicians.

For instance, despite his wife's entreaties to stay home from the Senate on the Ides of March, Caesar ignored her and attended anyway — mainly because he was worried about what the senators would think of the mighty Caesar staying home because his wife dreamed he would die.

That day, he was stabbed to death in front of a full Senate.

The eight senators responsible for his death, too, were concerned about appearances. They wanted the murder to seem a sacrifice rather than a butchery.

After the assassination, Brutus suggested that he and his fellow senators "bathe our hands in Caesar's blood. Up to the elbows, and besmear our swords: Then walk we forth, even to the market-place, And, waving our read weapons o'er our heads, Let's all cry Peace, freedom and liberty!"

They wanted to present an image of senators who performed their actions as a duty, and they were not hiding from the public eye.

After Brutus' suggestion, Cassius agreed, saying, "Stoop, then and wash. How many ages hence Shall this our lofty scene be acted over In states unborn and accents yet unknown!"

Much later on the eve of battle, Cassius and Brutus discussed whether they will see each other again or not.

"If we do not meet again, why we shall smile; If not, why then, this parting was well made," says Brutus.

Brutus and Cassius were alone, yet even they wanted to be sure their goodbye was "well made."

These posturings are similar to the image George Bush tried to present — with the help of media — during the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait.

For example, Bush did not interrupt his vacation for the ordeal and was filmed and photographed on the golf course, smiling and relaxed.

Apparently, he wanted to show that he wasn't afraid of little Saddam Hussein, that Hussein's invasion had such little effect that it could be handled by a mobile golf cart phone.

Hussein, for his part, eventually tried to portray a fatherly image by being video-taped, smiling, with British children.

Hussein probably was portraying that effect for the benefit of his own countrymen, so they would not think him a monster — kind of like the Roman senators.

Bush's image was for Hussein's benefit, to let the Iraqi leader know that he had better watch out.

While today's circumstances are not as dramatic as Roman politics in Julius Caesar's time, some of the same techniques are used to set the stage for political events.

If we can believe Shakespeare's version of the happenings surrounding Julius Caesar's death, it would seem that human nature has been consistent through the ages.

Editorials

Trash choices are many

Everything is opposed by someone. Abortion. Dumps. Incinerators. Free press. Fluoride. Blood transfusions. Death penalty. New roads. Old roads. Whatever.

And, experts can be found who will testify under oath that a particular whatever is the only right way.

A Florida lawyer told us once, "For the right money an expert can be found to testify to anything."

Abortion is a big issue now, but still not as popular (unpopular) as garbage disposal. What to do with our waste, that is the question. Bury it, burn it or educate its reduction seem to be the choices.

Experts will testify each is right.

We've been burying it, and much of that has been stopped as being environmentally unsafe.

Burn it is being tried, and some of the populace is up in arms about that, bringing out experts to support their position.

That leaves education. Education might work. It hasn't halted prejudices. Regular testing of Michigan students doesn't show our kids are scoring higher today than yesterday. And, education is slow.

What do we do in the meantime?

We depend on our elected officials to make the right decision, hopefully based on long study and helped by un-biased experts.

Oakland County made such a decision on disposing of solid waste. Some say it should have been put to a vote of the people.

That could have been done, and still can, but sewers would never have passed in many communities if voters could have gone to the polls. Many, when they get their quarterly bill, still believe sanitary sewers in their area are unnecessary. Government gave us sewers.

Safe incineration appears to be the more immediate answer, with the longer term answer being education and pressure on producers to make non-toxic packages. JAS

Cut spending; vote right

There are two things happening in the news today that make our stomach heave.

1. Reducing the federal budget.
2. Election advertising.

Gone is the talk of reducing spending. Why? Why, too, is there not a hue and cry by the citizenry to cut spending? Have we been propagandized into believing the Washington types who keep pushing the need for tax increases?

We don't need more money on Capitol Hill. We need less spending. We read somewhere that when Congress gets another dollar it spends $1.58. We believe it and expect it will be no different if more taxes are forced on us now.

As to our Number-2 stomach churning... it is the same people who spent more money than we had who are blaming someone else for the deficit.

And, we are the same taxpayers and voters who put them in office who are saying 'It's their fault.'

Example: John Dingell, who is not from any north Oakland district, but is a typical politician office-seeker, says in a commercial "... Return me to office and I will fight to reduce the deficit created by the big spenders of the 1980s."

He was there, for gosh sakes.

Carl Levin says about the same thing and both he and his opponent were voting increases in spending in the 1980s.

It's time to put "None of the Above" on the ballot and hope they win. JAS

Jim Sherman

Jim's Jottings

Various deliverers of goods and messages promise over-night or next-day service. I learned this week that only applies if you're home.

An important tax form was sent to me from Birmingham Oct. 10. Oct. 11 I saw a note glued to our garage door window. It asked if they could deliver the package the next day, even if there was no one home. I answered yes. I couldn't find it Oct. 12.

Oct 13 I saw the Federal Express envelope in a window of a door we haven't used in 15 years. I don't even know why I looked at the window. I do know Uncle Sam was expecting the forms quicker than I could now get them to him.

Those seeking judgeships often say they'll be "tough on crime." The people who will run against those judges in the next election will also say they'll be "tough on crime." Bet on it.

Those seeking all other public offices are saying, "I will make those tough decisions." The people who will be running against those office holders will also say, "I will make those tough decisions." Another safe bet.

Limb time. I predict Wayne Fontes will not be coaching the Detroit Lions next season. I predict George Perles will not be coaching the MSU Spartans next year. This will not be a case of Perles firing himself, which he can do as athletic director, but he's got nothing more to prove.

I just read a recently completed survey by Times Mirror Center for People & The Press. It's called "The Age of Indifference: A study of young Americans and how they view the news."

For a newspaper person it's most depressing. Generally, only 20 to 25 percent of the people in this country under 30 years of age read anything, except sports. Abortion is the only serious issue they are concerned with, 47 percent.

The young people like People magazine and A Current Affair TV show. "Lighter news—tastes good, less filling," Times Mirror says.

A poll in 1965 showed 67 percent of young adults read a newspaper yesterday. In 1990, 29 percent of the people made that claim. And, education doesn't affect the percentages. Degreed people don't read either. News magazines (and newspapers) have adopted a softer news focus to get (keep?) young readers.

A National Geographic survey in 1947 showed 45 percent of the young people could find Europe on a world map. In 1988 only 25 percent could.

The Times Mirror bottom line is: "Young voters' limited appetites and aptitude are shaping the practice of politics and the nature of our democracy."

And, it is a generation that "knows less, cares less and reads newspapers less" ... they vote less and are less critical of (their) leaders and institutions than young people in the past.

It's a sound-bite generation. Very discouraging.

Letter to the Editor

Let the village remain a village

As a 60-year resident of the Village of Clarkston and a 37-year business owner with my husband, how deceased, I do not understand the reason why the village residents can't see what is happening to us who have lived here for many years.

This village has always been well kept, with improvements when necessary.

We were a very close community with neighbors helping neighbors and business people helping and supporting each other. Now it seems just the opposite.

This has been happening over the last 10 years.

What our forefathers started, "people helping people," is changing fast.

New people have come with different ideas, and now most want to make it into a city, which is one mile long and a quarter-mile wide. Seems like a small area for a city. I personally prefer the village to be a village.

The business people are being pressured on changes they wish to make with "you can't do this or can't do that, it's against the rules."

There are some businesses that have been allowed to change. It doesn't seem right for one and not another.

I have always felt the businesses are the center of a village or town. It has come down to only one cafe, food store and drug store, and a lot of buildings are offices.

I am aware that progress makes many changes but it shouldn't be at the expense of the businesses.

What makes the Village of Clarkston? Of course, business and residential. When they are not permitted to improve business and home because someone says no, as a long-time resident, I'm concerned.

TV makes least of bizarre return

Jim Fitzgerald

The most hilarious thing I've seen on television lately was L. Brooks Patterson on the 6:30 p.m. NBC network news program conducted by Tom Brokaw on Monday. I laughed so hard I fell into my TV throw-up pot.

I used to call L. Brooks "L. Bizarre." That was when Patterson was Oakland County prosecutor, at $73,818 per year, but still found time to be a full-time radio show host and part-time stockbroker with investment advice for sale. It was sort of bizarre that the chief law enforcement officer of a large county, with plenty of crime, had time for so much moonlighting.

And Patterson insisted he didn't use his office to get his foot inside profitable doors that might be slammed on a less powerful public official. "I use my name, not my office," he told a reporter. Real bizarre.

Patterson has called me a few names, too. In an alternative newspaper interview, he said I was the opening at the lower end of the alimentary canal, or words to that effect. Ironically, he also called me "The Legend of Lapeer," referring to my tenure as editor of the Lapeer County Press.

That reference was ironic because, after Patterson - a master publicity hound - quit being prosecutor and entered private law practice two years ago, I didn't read anything interesting about him until last April when the Lapeer County Press reported Patterson had billed Metamora Village $13,800 for legal work that, according to village president Robert Klauka, was contracted to cost $2,500.

"We told him to come to us if he went over the original amount. He did not and I'm mad. I feel sorry for the people who worked so hard to collect the funds to pay that firm," Klauka said, adding that Patterson was fired for not doing what he was hired to do.

Later, the village clerk told me Patterson eventually settled for $4,000. Oh, well. The slight discrepancy between $13,800 and $2,500 was probably a bookkeeping error. Or a good try. Certainly, for goodness' sake, it was no crime as that term was used by Patterson in "Devil's Night and Other True Tales of Detroit," the much-discussed book by Ze'ev Chafets.

"I don't give a damn about Detroit... If I never crossed 8 Mile again, I wouldn't be bereft of anything... Without getting crime under control, you have no solution. All the city's problems have their origin in a lack of safety," Patterson told Chafets.

That's why I was surprised to see Patterson far beyond 8 Mile, all the way to Washington, D.C., on NBC news. What about safety? Doesn't Patterson know crime is worse in Washington than in Detroit? Bizarre.

NBC was interviewing people on the street concerning the tourist attractions shut down by the budget crisis. No one in Michigan could have been surprised that Patterson managed to get on camera. A dazzlingly accomplished self-promoter, he has clocked more local TV time than some news anchors.

And this was Patterson's chance for national television exposure, his greatest grab for glory since he was pictured in People magazine wearing an "Ollie (North) for Prez!" T-shirt. Patterson may have trampled little old ladies to talk to America, but I didn't hear a word. That's because I was laughing so loud at the graphic under Patterson's face. In his most shining moment, Michigan's best-known Republican loser and most determined political seeker of limelight was identified as:

"Brooks Peterson, tourist."
Bizarre. L. Bizarre.

OFF TRACK

From This Perspective

Looking silly, not necessarily scary

Tracy
King

There has been much tadpo about Halloween this year I've noticed.

The regular skeletons, pumpkins and things decorate the houses around town; but this year people are going a step further, using those stuffed orange plastic garbage bags with the printed jack-o-lantern faces.

Maybe this is a big tie-in with re-using plastic bags.

I, myself, have always been a big believer in Halloween. That's the only time Troy-the-Two-Ton-Terror could be trusted to understand the simple concept of sharing.

After we'd acknowledged, honestly, who had gathered more candy, we'd dump our joint killings into one big pile and divide it evenly down to the last Sweet Tart. Then we'd trade.

Once those late-night hours of Halloween togetherness dwindled into morning, of course we'd pirate, but for one day it was nice enough.

Then there were the costumes, such as the one at that Halloween party, when that mom convinced that kid he didn't need pants under his ghost costume.

As an adult, the big Halloween scare comes at the candy shelf. (Is there a sugar shortage or something? That stuff is expensive.)

Or when the doorbell rings after you've deposited the last Milky Way into the bag of some thankless Mack-the-Hacker.

The way Halloween is revered and celebrated, you'd think we'd at least get it as a real holiday, as in a day off work.

I'd gladly trade it for Columbus Day, or even President's Day.

How many people, really, need the day to sit around toasting presidents?

Perhaps the people who determine the day-off policy suspect nobody really knows why Halloween is celebrated, either.

For instance how many people know that some people on a British Island were trying to save the sun from the evils of night? Or that, spookily enough, Roman Catholics at the same time were naming the day for saints who had no other day?

Not many people know these facts about Halloween. Yet they still go to a lot of trouble to make themselves look silly.

Heck, they could celebrate President's Day and achieve the same thing.

Drop Keen case

I have known the Keen family for more than seven years.

Their contributions to our community are to be commended: Boy Scouts, Boys Little League, Girls Softball League and 4H. They have positively influenced the youth of our area.

Mr. Keen's contributions to the baseball youth of our community have included teaching at-risk youth to be umpires.

I observed a young man with a history of delinquent behavior attend Mr. Keen's clinic and become a promising umpire. His appearance and attitude improved by having the opportunity to contribute in a positive way; his mentor was Ron Keen.

Mr. Keen and his wife have assisted our daughters in 4H. He sold us our first rabbits and taught our daughters how to groom and show rabbits.

Our daughters have attended many shows, and our oldest daughter now teacher an after-school enrichment class in Clarkston called "4-H Bunnies."

She would not have done this if it were not for the Keens' assistance and direction.

Our 4-H group represented Oakland County at Rabbit Expo at Michigan State University this summer, and the team was awarded first place in Michigan for Quiz Bowl. The Keens were coaches.

Numerous community service projects for Davisburg and surrounding areas were instituted by the Keens.

Cleaning up a portion of the Shiawassee River Basin, planting wildflowers, singing Christmas Carols, making Thanksgiving and Easter favors for a group home, collecting food for the needy, and buying toys for underprivileged children are just a few of the examples the Keens have supervised and facilitated.

Now Mr. Ronald Keen finds himself embroiled in a tangled lawsuit; he is charged with animal cruelty and malicious destruction of property greater than $100 in the death of burro.

Mr. Keen, no doubt, was guilty of poor judgment.

He agreed to plead no-contest to the misdemeanor, but the Humane Society wants to press for a felony conviction.

At this writing, the jury was "hung," and it will be the decision of the county prosecutor to retry Mr. Keen on the felony charge.

It is my hope that the prosecutor's office will not retry the case. The Keen family has suffered emotionally, financially and physically.

Punishment, indeed, needs to fit the crime, but I question the need to spend another $100,000 of Oakland County's taxpayer money to retry Mr. Keen.

Justice has been served.

Vandalism unfair

Why is it that people just can't leave things alone and have to vandalize when a group of youth is trying to do their part in making sure than everyone in the Clarkston area has a special Thanksgiving dinner?

I am referring to the Kids Caring/ People Sharing Food Drive for Lighthouse North.

Within three days of placing the collection boxes in local grocery stores, signs were ripped off, boxes torn up and used for garbage.

If people don't want to share, that is their choice. All we are asking is that those who do have the opportunity.

I only hope those people who did the destruction remember that a lot of people within the Clarkston area will go without a special Thanksgiving dinner if the food drive is unsuccessful.

Joyce Bleim

He opposes policy

My grandfather was a sodbuster from South Dakota with no formal education, but he was a smart and honest man with backbone.

One of his "down home" philosophies was, "If you got somethin' bad to say about someone, it's best to say it to their face, or don't say nothin' at all."

I believed what he said then, and I believe it now. Unfortunately, neither this newspaper nor a growing number of "Names withheld by request" seem to agree with my grandfather.

Once again, people's reputations are scathed and their family and friends are hurt by the acerbic "Name withheld by request."

These anonymous people usually justify their anonymity under the guise of protecting their family members.

Apparently, they seem to have little or no regard for the harm their letters cause to the people about whom they are writing.

What is the real motive of these shadowy figures who furtively drop their letters at this paper's doorstep? Is it to make change? Or is it to publicly embarrass and malign others?

There are proper steps to affect constructive change. However, I don't believe withholding names in letters to the editor is one of those steps.

Moreover, I believe this newspaper's policy of printing letters to the editor signed by "Name withheld by request" invites people to obtrude into the lives of others under the banner of "freedom of the press."

The constitution does grant freedom of the press, but it also says the accused has a right to confront his accuser.

Both "Name withheld by request" and this newspaper deny the accused this right.

I am incensed by this newspaper's policy to print anonymous letter that disparage others.

Therefore, I am canceling my subscription to The Clarkston News. I do so with regret.

However, my feelings are that "Name withheld by request" is the white hood of anonymity, and this newspaper's printing of those letters is the burning cross in the front yard.

Name published by request,
Keith A. Conklin

Sheehy for judge

The election of circuit court judges is often lost in the attention paid to the governor's race or local campaigns.

Yet, circuit judges often have a profound effect on the lives of everyone in the community, even if they never got to court.

Oakland County will elect a new circuit judge this November and we believe the most experienced candidate, Judge James Sheehy, is the best qualified.

As a district court judge for the past 10 years, Judge Sheehy has demonstrated the wisdom and common sense that is necessary to make the tough decisions faced by judges in our growing county.

When you vote this November, don't ignore the column for circuit court. Vote for Judge James Sheehy.

Let IRS know if you're a reserve

The Internal Revenue Service has begun to provide relief for U.S. citizens involved in Operation Desert Shield.

A toll-free number has been established for family members of citizens detained in Iraq and Kuwait.

"We have no way of knowing for certain the identity of hostages, but once alerted, we can take steps to provide relief," said IRS District Director John Hummel.

"The callers should be prepared to provide us with the names and social security numbers of detained citizens, along with any information they may have concerning ongoing actions with the IRS," he explained.

Examination and collection actions that can be delayed or suspended include audits of tax returns and mailing of notices or other actions involving the collection of overdue taxes.

"Reservists called to active duty and military personnel and their family members should use our regular toll-free assistance number for information they need," said Hummel.

That number is 1-800-829-1040.

Miller Road signs make way for snow plowing

Snow emergency signs are to be posted on Miller Road, Clarkston, but two-hour parking signs will not be posted.

The Clarkston Village Council held a public discussion Sept. 17 to help decide whether or not to post a two-hour parking limit on Miller Road. No action was taken at that meeting.

But the council decided Oct. 11 to erect snow emergency signs on Miller Road, though the council didn't vote on the matter.

Snow emergency is 2-6 a.m. in the village, when no parking is allowed on posted streets to allow snow to be plowed, said village Manager Artemus Pappas.

The council originally considered the two-hour parking limit to remedy a parking shortage on Main Street at the Goyette Funeral Home, Clarkston.

According to Pappas, the council decided that two-hour parking wasn't necessary at this time, but having cars off the street during the snow emergency was important.

Citizens for Orderly Growth

Renews faith

Doug Carlson

During the past year, we've watched in frustration as a very large developer ran roughshod over residents of a nearby community, the Department of Natural Resources and anyone else who got in the way.

It was all very legal, as the courts supported their position, but it gave the average citizen the feeling that little can be done once these organizations decide they want to come into your community.

In the case of this mall, the destruction of wetlands and other potential harm to the environment was overridden by the courts, among others.

It often seems that there's no chance to stop development of this type, that no one in power ever listens to the average citizen.

Then, out of nowhere, comes a story that renews your faith and recharges your batteries. This is one of those stories:

At age 13, Andrew Holleman of Chelmsford, Mass., helped galvanize his community to protect a local wetland. Last year, he received the United National Global 500 Award for success on the front lines of environmental action. This is how Andrew tells it.

"There's some land near my house. It's really beautiful, pristine land. First you see huge white pine trees, then there's a bubbling brook and swamp maples, the big areas of wetlands filled with cattails. And there are even some glacial rocks.

"I go for hikes there and fish in the little pond. Sometimes I pick up a stick and start whittling and enjoy the peace and quiet.

"One day we received a registered letter from a developer saying he wanted to build a 180-unit condominium on the land which would require building a sewage treatment plant. It invited local residents to a meeting. So I went to the library to see if I could do something.

"The town plan in the library said that eight of the 16 acres they wanted to develop were wetlands. Wetlands do a lot of things. They help prevent floods by absorbing water and releasing it slowly over time. The plants and soil purify the water that passes through. And they're really good places for animals.

"I started a petition and got 186 signatures. I don't know where I got the idea. My parents always did tell me to stand up for what I believe in. But the real reason was I knew the land and the reason it shouldn't be developed.

"The meeting started out in a small room, but then they moved us to the gymnasium, because there were about 200 people. I had never really done any public speaking, but I gave a speech about the wetlands, how the sewage would run off because of the poor soil into the brook that runs into Russell Mill Pond that leads to the watershed that feeds about five town wells. And I talked about the endangered species: the blue spotted salamander, the wood turtle, the red fox, the blue heron and various kinds of hawks.

"After the meeting a few people started a neighborhood association, which included me and my dad. We raised money, hired an environmental scientist and a lawyer and did some soil tests.

"At the zoning board of appeals meeting, we were all surprised when the developer asked to withdraw his project. The zoning board then denied his comprehensive permit to make it official that no one can build something of that magnitude there for quite a long time.

"I think there are a lot of people my age who care about the environment right now. I'm thinking about going into environmental law. I think I could make a difference."

The above article was printed in the Sept. 24 issue of U.S. News and World Report. It is part of a special environmental series sponsored by Amway Corp.

I brought the article to your attention for a variety of reasons. I hope you found it as interesting and uplifting as I did.

Doug Carlson is chairman of Citizens for Orderly Growth.

Holiday food baskets to be distributed

If you think the holidays might be skimpy for your family this year, you may want to see if you're eligible for holiday baskets from Lighthouse North.

Registration for Thanksgiving baskets takes place 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 1, at Lighthouse North, 5331 Maybee Road, between Sashabaw and Clintonville roads, Independence Township.

The non-profit agency is prepared to fill 250 baskets for families in the northern townships of Oakland County: Brandon, Springfield, Oxford, Independence, Orion, Holly, Groveland, Rose — and the cities and villages within.

To register, bring proof of income and proof of the number of people in your household. Churches and community groups also may recommend someone to receive a food basket by calling the 673-4949.

Community groups also can help in the holiday basket program by running food drives, helping with registration or packing and distributing the baskets.

At present, the youth group at Clarkston United Methodist Church is running a month-long food drive, said Lighthouse North Director Sherry Kaar. Drop-off boxes are located at Bunny Hut, Beverly Flowers and Gifts, Neen's, Clarkston Farm Market, Clarkston Glass, Clarkston United Methodist Church, A&P, Kroger's, Food Town, NBD and Kids Studio, Inc.

"When you're out shopping, please remember to drop a can or donation into the (box)," said Kaar.

For more information, call 673-4949.

Rezoning makes way for new houses

New families soon may be moving into the Waldon and Clintonville roads area.

On Oct. 16, the Independence Township Board unanimously approved the second reading and adoption of the rezoning from local commercial to single family residential.

The 40,000-square-foot parcel's physical characteristics include and gentle slopes.

Petitioner Daniel Ellsworth plans to split the property into two separate building sites for single-family dwellings.

According to a letter from Beverly McElmeel, director of the township building department, the land is listed as residential zoning on the township's master plan, which is a blueprint for land use in the township.

Board members voiced agreement with the planning commission's recommendation for approval.

Senior citizens in the north and southwest Oakland County area may be eligible for a program sponsored by the Oakland Livingston Human Service Agency (OLSHA), Chore Services for Seniors.

Chores such as lawn-raking, snow shoveling and installing storm windows can be done. Attics and basements can be cleaned to remove fire and health hazards. Minor home repairs such as replacing fuses, light bulbs, door locks and faucet washers can also be done.

If you are at least 60 years old or the spouse of a person at least 60 years old and a resident on one of the service areas, you may be eligible for OLSHA's chore service.

One of the chore supervisors will assess your need for service. If you have any questions, call OLSHA at 333-2466.

Sandwich Day

Everybody loves sandwiches. Whether it's a mile-high "Dagwood" special or your basic peanut butter and jelly, everyone has a favorite.

But whatever tickles your taste buds, Nov. 3 is Sandwich Day, a day to honor the masterful creator of the original fast food.

John Montague, Fourth Earl of Sandwich, was born on Nov. 3, 1718, in England.

He was a gambler, and legend has it that he invented the sandwich as a time-saving nourishment while he was engaged in a 24-hour gambling session.

But sandwiches weren't his only claim to fame. Montague was Britain's first lord of the admiralty, secretary of state for the northern department, postmaster general, and the man after whom Capt. Cook named the Sandwich Islands in 1788.

He died in London in 1792, but people everywhere will be forever indebted to the Earl of Sandwich for his creation.

Soviet smokers get fix through glasnost

The Russian Republic of the Soviet Union reaped some unanticipated benefits from the recent policy of "glasnost" and the country's shift toward a free-market economy.

Embattled Russian officials, reportedly unable to quell street demonstrations and unrest caused by a massive cigarette shortage, are getting relief from the formerly inaccessible U.S. cigarette industry.

Two American cigarette manufacturers have agreed to sell billions of cigarettes to the Russian Republic, located in the world's third largest tobacco market.

Philip Morris, America's largest tobacco company, recently committed to sell 20 billion cigarettes to the Russian Republic over the next year.

Among brands expected to be shipped is Marlboro, the best-selling brand in the world and the cigarette said to be most in demand by Soviet smokers.

R. J. Reynolds, the nation's second-largest cigarette manufacturer, has agreed to sell more than 17 billion cigarettes to the Russians.

The export order is the largest in either company's history.

Arrangements were made by the Northwood Funeral Home, West Palm Beach, Fla.

Man stable at POH

An Independence Township man is listed in stable condition at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital following an Oct. 18 traffic accident.

James P. McDermott, 57, hit a utility pole last week while traveling west of Montcalm Street in Pontiac. The accident occurred shortly after 5 p.m. when McDermott reportedly veered off the road and struck the pole.

New site condominiums OK'd for Edgar Road

Edgar Road residents soon could have new neighbors.

Pine Ridge Estates, a site condominium with eight building sites, received unanimous final site plan approval from the Springfield Township Board Oct. 11.

A site condominium is like a single family neighborhood, only residents own their homes and the "building envelope" in which they rest. The land throughout the development is owned jointly by all of the homeowners.

Developer Curt Cumming's 11-acre parcel is on Edgar Road, about one-quarter mile south of Foster Road, and will have a holding area for trees. Excess trees from construction sites are placed in the holding area and will be moved to new homes built at Pine Ridge as construction is completed.

Construction is to begin in the spring. Cumming plans to live in the development, and his house is under construction.

Heavenly night set

Thursday, Nov. 1, should prove to be a "heavenly" night for fans of good ol' gospel music.

Beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the Pine Knob Elementary School Gymnasium, 6020 Sashabaw Road, Independence Township, a concert will feature the following performers: Nashville's own Big Mo & Chosen, who have attained seven top-40 hits on the Gospel charts in just five years.

The Galileans of Michigan have been together since 1966 and have built a following since then with their harmonies and country-gospel style.

Clarkston's own Joel Burnell also will perform. A soloist, songwriter and recording artist, he recently finished a tour with the legendary gospel group, The Blackwood Brothers.

Admission is $4 at the door; doors open at 7 p.m. For more information, call Burnell at 625-1182.

Panel discussion on video tape

The plea for property tax reform and increased state aid funding for schools has not gone unnoticed by local candidates for the state legislature.

The funding and tax issue dominated a town forum Oct. 21, featuring candidates for the 61st House district and 17th Senate District.

The forum, sponsored by the Clarkston Blue Ribbon Kids Committee, was videotaped by Independence-Clarkston United Cable and will be cablecast 6 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 31, and 9 p.m. Friday, Nov. 2.

The candidates included Thomas F. Middleton, a Republican seeking the 61st House seat; his opponent, Democrat Frederick J. Miller, and 17th District Senate Candidate David Honigman, a Republican. Democrat William J. Foley, also seeking the Senate seat was unable to attend.

The candidates were questioned on a variety of issues provided by the audience and a panel, which included Independence Township Clerk Joan McCrary, Clarkston Board of Education President John Needham, and Tracy King, associate editor of The Clarkston News.

Copies of the forum videotape will also be available at the Independence Township Library on Clarkston Road, and at Blockbuster Video on Dixie Highway, Independence Township.

Swinging from the heels

From spectator to sandblaster

Lonnie Weil's switch from making sandwiches to being the fastest up a sand hill is what sports is really supposed to be all about.

You may think I'm making a mountain out of a sand hill, but Weil's sudden transformation from a three-year spectator to a hill-climbing champion is one of those seemingly little stories that carries a big message.

That message (Thanks to Nike) is quite simply: Just Do it.

Weil, a petite Clarkston Junior High School teacher, did it on Sept. 9. Weil got behind the wheel of a 2-speed, shiftless dune buggy for the first time and sped uphill 100 feet in 2.8 seconds to win the B

Class race of the Mount Baldy Hill Climb at Silver Lake Sand Dunes north of Muskegon.

One of the men she beat was her husband, Brian, who finished in second, a mere .2 of a second behind.

For three years, Weil had been the crew chief, a fancy title for a job which consisted mostly of cleaning the buggy and making sandwiches for the Apple Tree Automotive team, which includes her husband, Ken Stouffer and Dan Doxey of Grand Rapids, Mike Thompson of Waterford and Randy Colosky of Pentwater.

But Sept. 9 was different. Weil had tasted victory, but even more, tasted the thrill of competition.

"It was a pleasure to get some recognition. You don't get trophies for cleaning buggies," said Weil.

Weil received a trophy for her B Class win, but she still had another race. The top two finishers in B Class, C Class and D Class qualified to compete against each other in a middle eliminator race.

This time, Weil was not only racing against her husband, but also Stouffer and Doxey from the Apple Tree Automotive team.

She beat them all in 2.94 seconds

*"They freaked out.
I think they liked me better when I was making sandwiches."*

Lonnie Weil

(Brian was a close second with a 2.96) and picked up an even bigger trophy.

"They freaked out," said Weil about the Apple Tree team. "I think they liked me better when I was making sandwiches."

The Weils also have two collegiate daughters, Amy (Michigan State University) and Tina (Arizona State).

"They were shocked," said Weil. The two girls were used to their father revving up a buggy's engine while working on it in the family's garage, but they weren't used to their mother winning a climb.

"My mother just won a dune buggy race," screamed Amy to her roommates when she heard about the news.

Weil gives much credit to her husband for being the buggy's mechanic (Her husband also is in the top 20 of 150 racers in dune buggy drag racing at Silver Lake. His wife is thinking about the possibility of trying drag racing next year.). And she also notes that she weighs 60 pounds lighter than him, which would give her a slight advantage when going uphill. But every once in a while, she has a little fun in strategically placing the two trophies where they can be seen by Brian.

Weil was one of only four women competing out of a total 120 racers. Just before Weil began to race, one woman flipped her buggy going up the hill. When Brian and other members of the Apple Tree team saw the accident, they shielded Weil from seeing the flip.

After Weil had won the race, the woman who flipped came over to her and set up a challenge by saying, "I'm gonna beat you in the spring."

But that will have to wait until spring. The sand dunes will soon be turned into snow-capped hills.

While frost is on the windows, Weil will, no doubt, occasionally give a glance toward her two trophies and think about tracks on a sand dune.

But that's only being a spectator again. Come spring, Weil will take more pleasure when she will actually Just Do it, again.

CLARKSTON Junior High School teacher Lonnie Weil was excited when she won the smaller trophy for racing up a sand hill with a dune buggy. Minutes later, she won the larger trophy on another climb.

State play-offs still possible

Wolves plow through Garden City, 45-0

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Alumni, former players, kings and queens were welcomed at Clarkston's Homecoming game, but Garden City must have felt like someone not asked to the dance which followed.

Clarkston's varsity football team crushed Garden City, 45-0, in a non-league Saturday afternoon game.

The victory gives the Wolves a 6-2 record and sets up a key game Friday night when Clarkston hosts Brighton. If Brighton wins, the Bulldogs will qualify for the state play-offs. If Clarkston wins, the Wolves will have a good shot at playing in post-season play for the first time since 1977.

Before Queen Denise Livieratos was crowned and the band took the field on a sunny Saturday, the Wolves raced to a 35-0 lead.

"We dominated them up front," said Clarkston coach Kurt Richardson.

The statistics reflect the coach's statement. Clarkston rushed for 379 yards and passed for 106 more.

"We could have thrown all day," said Richardson. Clarkston completed six of nine passes with no interceptions.

Defensively, the Wolves allowed 94 yards in the air while intercepting three passes and only gave up 60 yards on the ground.

Junior running back Dan Griffiths, who rushed for 141 yards on eight carries, opened the scoring on a 15-yard touchdown run in the first quarter. David Marks, who has been perfect all season (23-for-23) kicked the PAT.

Senior fullback Matt Howe scored from 5-yards out and Marks kicked again for a 14-0 lead after the first quarter.

Griffiths scored again on a 59-yard run, Quarterback Dugan Fife plunged in from one yard out and Fife threw to Jon Wyniemko for another score (Marks kicked all three PATs) to give the Wolves a 35-0 halftime bulge.

Junior halfback Brian Davis, who rushed for 96 yards on 13 carries, scored the Wolves last touchdown in the third quarter on a 3-yard run.

Marks finished the scoring in the last quarter by nailing a 41-yard field goal.

Nine different players rushed for Clarkston. Along with Griffiths and Brian Davis, Eric Ryan carried five times for 43 yards, Jeff Newlon ran six times for 38, Joel Davis carried four times for 19, Steve Black totaled 18 yards on four attempts, Fife carried three times for 13, Howe ran twice for nine and Jason Freeland carried once for two.

Wyniemko caught three passes for 54 yards, Chris Figa grabbed two for 24 and Kevin Juzysta caught one for 28.

Defensively, Mike Stanton led the Wolves with five tackles, Brian Davis had four, Joel Davis three and Greg Heaton, Tony Miller, Joe Webb, Dereck Raymond, Jason Lund, Alex Martin and Ted Majeske each had two.

Majeske recovered a Garden City fumble. Chad Hetherington, Wyniemko and Stanton each intercepted a pass.

6 Wolf runners earn medals at Oxford meet

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston boys' cross country team placed second and the girls finished fourth at the Oxford Invitational, with six Wolf runner earning medals.

The boys' team also outran Lake Orion and Troy in dual meets.

Next competition for the runners is Saturday's regionals at the Swartz Creek Golf Course near Flint.

Clarkston boys 2nd
Clarkston girls 4th
(Oxford Invitational, Oct. 22)

The Clarkston boys captured a second-place trophy at the Oxford Invitational, totaling 103 points to meet winner Lakeland (76). Host Oxford was third (134).

Five Wolf runners finished in the top 28 places to finished second in the 10-team field.

Jim Haviland topped the Wolves with an eighth-place finish (16:52), Todd Wozniak was 18th (17:13) and Paul Brisson finished 22nd (17:17). All three earned medals.

Two other Wolf runners nearly medaled, Jacob Kniss (27th, 17:36) and Brad Patterson (28th, 17:42).

Duane Poole was 60th (18:48) and Steve Tungate 70th (19:09). Some other Wolves and their times were Greg Treder (19:17), Eric Carlson (19:23), Vince Tortonesi (19:36), Ryan Poquette (19:53).

For the fourth-place girls, freshman Angie Brown had the Wolves best finish of the day by placing fourth (21:03). Melissa Mutter was a strong 11th (21:57) and Amy Rayner wasn't far behind at 14th (22:16). All three earned medals and Brown received a trophy for finishing in the top five.

Stacey Secatch placed 45th (24:59) and Kristie McGee was 63rd (28:17).

(Oct. 16 at Troy)

Haviland set the pace for all 35 runners by winning in a dual meet with Troy. Four other Wolves finished in the top six as Clarkston demolished the Colts, 19-34.

Haviland finished at 17:13 while Troy's Aleem Ali took second (17:22). Wozniak was third (17:33), Brisson fourth (17:49), Kniss fifth (17:56) and Patterson sixth (18:11).

Other Clarkston runners and their places were Poole (16th, 18:57), Carlson (23rd, 19:33), Poquette (24th, 19:33), Treder (28th, 20:30), Tortonesi (30th, 20:55), Mark Deevey (31st, 21:25), Gottie McGeogh (31st, 21:25), Bruce Avenall (23:31).

In girls' competition, Brown finished second (23:00) in a 24-36 loss. Troy's Amy Parker took first with a 21:22 run.

Rayner placed fourth (23:12), Mutter sixth (24:05), Secatch 11th (28:43) and McGee 12th (31:04).

Clarkston (boys) 21, Lake Orion 34
Lake Orion (girls) 28, Clarkston 31
(Oct. 15 at Lake Orion)

Five Clarkston boys finished in the top seven places in a 21-34 Wolf victory over Greater Oakland Activities League foe Lake Orion.

Three Wolf girls finished in the top 4, but Clarkston was edged by the Dragons, 28-31.

Dragon Tom Shank placed first (17:15) out of 25 runners, but Clarkston, 4-1 in the GOAL, took the next four places:

Haviland (2nd, 17:36), Wozniak (3rd, 17:40), Kniss (4th, 17:50), Brisson (5th, 18:03). Patterson placed 7th (18:15) to round out the Wolves' scoring.

Other Wolf finishes were: Poole (11th, 19:10), Tungate (12th, 19:42), Carlson (14th, 19:59), Poquette (15th, 20:01), Treder (16th, 21:00), Deevey (18th, 21:41), Tortonesi (19th, 21:42), McGeogh (20th, 21:45), Avenall (21st, 22:08), Erik Will (22nd, 22:10).

In girls' action, Brown (22:01) easily outdistanced second-place Dragon Danielle Bauer (22:23) but Lake Orion hung on for a 31-28 win.

Wolf Mutter was third (22:38) and teammate Rayner was fourth (22:47). Teammate Secatch finished 11th (26:30) and McGee was 12th (29:13).

Chiefs shine in Silverdome

While the Detroit Lions were resting last Sunday, the Clarkston Chiefs were burning up the carpet at the Pontiac Silverdome.

The three Clarkston Chiefs football teams, combined, outscored the Lapeer Steelers, 123-6 in action at the dome.

The freshman Chiefs shut out the Steelers, 41-0, in the opener. The JV squad put a big dent in the Steelers to win, 32-6. The varsity Chiefs crushed Lapeer in the nightcap, 50-0.

The victory by the JV Chiefs qualifies them for post-season action. They will travel to Rochester Sunday to face the Rochester Redskins in the JV Superbowl.

Huskies stop Wolves for first time in years

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Pontiac Northern varsity coach Leona Greer had a brand-new experience last Thursday in her six years of coaching the Huskies. Her team beat Clarkston.

Pontiac Northern controlled the boards as the Huskies came back from a seven-point third quarter deficit to hand the Wolves their first league defeat this season, 55-50.

"If you beat Clarkston, you know you had a good game," said Greer.

The loss dropped the Wolves to 12-3 overall and 5-1 in the Greater Oakland Activities League. The 5-1 mark ties Clarkston with Waterford Kettering and both teams will square off Oct. 23 (because of press time, results of that game will be featured in next week's Clarkston News). Pontiac Northern remains in the race with a 4-2 league record.

"We were going to the boards hard," said Greer.

One of the Huskies giving the Wolves fits under the boards was Nikkia Hannah, who pulled down 20 rebounds. She also led all scorers with 21 points.

"We got beat on the boards," said Clarkston coach Larry Mahrie. "The key moments were in the second quarter when we let them back in the ball game."

The Wolves led 14-10 after the first eight minutes, extended their lead to eight in the second quarter, but couldn't pull away as the Huskies closed the gap to 25-20 at the half.

A 3-pointer by Clarkston senior Jennifer McChesney gave the Wolves a 34-26 lead with 5:40 left in the third quarter, but the Huskies started to gain the momentum at that point, tying the game at 40-40 after three quarters.

After the game was tied 44-44, the Huskies reeled off nine unanswered points to pull ahead. Pontiac Northern was getting second shots while the Wolves' first and only shots were just barely missing their marks.

Two free throws by Beth Walker and a pair of Heather Steinhilper baskets put the Wolves within three with 1:50 remaining but two free throws by Hannah closed the scoring and the game at 55-50.

Alyson led the Wolves with 20 points, including 10 in the third quarter. Steinhilper scored 12, Jennifer McChesney eight, Walker and Courtney Whittaker each had four and Carrie Roeser had two.

Detra Coleman also scored 12 for the Huskies.

Clarkston's JV squad crushed the Huskies, 44-9.

Clarkston 57, Grand Blanc 49 (Oct. 16 at Grand Blanc)

Alyson McChesney scored a game-high 19 points and hauled down 11 rebounds as the Wolves downed Grand Blanc, 57-49, in non-league action.

Whittaker added 12 for Clarkston. Nicole Smith led the hosts with 17.

GUARD Stacey Tinkis flips a pass during action against Pontiac Northern last Thursday. The Huskies made a comeback to edge the Wolves, 55-50.

Recreation Roundup

ADULT OPEN BASKETBALL

The Open Basketball League will begin on Sunday, Dec. 2. If you are interested in acquiring information for these leagues, please call the Rec office.

Please sign up as teams. However, names will also be taken of individuals wishing to be placed on a team. Those names will given to the managers.

MOTHER-SON DANCE

Moms, bring your best guy(s), from grades K-3, out for a night of refreshments, dancing and an all-around good time.

The event will take place Tuesday, Nov. 13, at the Senior Citizen Carriage House (within Clintonwood Park), from 6:30 to 8 p.m. The cost is $5 and early reservation is advised. Tickets can be purchased at the Rec center.

HAUNTED FOREST

Those who dared tour the Trilogy of Terror at Clintonwood Park last year will be happy to know an all new "Haunted Forest" is being planned for you entertainment.

This event is sponsored by Independence Township Parks and Recreation and will take place at Clintonwood Park. Tickets must be purchased in advance at the Parks and Recreation Department, 90 N. Main St. in Clarkston, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

The Haunted Forest will be operating on Oct. 25, 26, 27, 29 and 30. Tickets will be sold on a first come, first serve basis, so early purchase of tickets is advised. They went on sale Oct. 1. For more information, call the rec. department.

ADULT CPR

Anyone interested in learning the valuable skill of cardiopulmonary resuscitation will have the opportunity to do so for free on either Nov. 7 or Nov. 19.

The classes, from 6 to 10 p.m., will take place at Fire Station #2, which is located on the corner of Sashabaw and Clarkston Roads.

No costs are involved, except for those people who may want to purchase a book at the class for $10. Registrations are limited.

ADULT OPEN GYM SCHEDULE

Mondays - Pine Knob Elementary, 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. (begins Oct. 15)
Wednesdays - Clarkston High School, 7 p.m. to 10 p.m., (begins Oct. 17) [not available on Nov. 7 and after Dec. 19]

Thursdays - North Sashabaw Elementary, 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. (begins Oct. 24) [not available Nov. 22]

There is a $1 charge collected at the door of each open gym location.

It is a good idea to call the Parks and Recreation Department the day of each open gym to confirm its availability. Occasionally the schools will call and cancel the open gym times for their own use.

There will be no open gyms over the Thanksgiving or Christmas holidays. Schools are closed.

FOR MORE INFORMATION

Call 625-8223 or stop by the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department, 90 N. Main St., Clarkston. The office is open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Ex-Wolf really digs competing for Tartars

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Missy Odell digs, bumps and kills for Wayne State University.

Odell, a 1987 Clarkston High School graduate, is a four-year starter on the Tartar volleyball team.

Head coach Mike Peck expects big things from his co-captain and only senior.

"Missy should have an All-America caliber season in 1990," said Peck. "She is one of the top returning players in the GLIAC (Great Lake Intercollegiate Athletic Conference) and in the Great Lakes region, and with a strong nucleus around her, should get the recognition she deserves."

Odell has racked up plenty of statistics to support the statements of her coach. She was an all-GLIAC First Team pick in 1989 and an AVCA Division II Great Lakes Regional all-America the last two years.

In addition, last season she finished second in the GLIAC in service aces per game (.071), fourth in attacking (.300), fourth in blocks per game (1.28) and fifth in kills per game (3.40), and overall, led Wayne State in attack percentage (.264) and total blocks (128).

The 5-foot, 11-inch middle hitter and blocker is in the middle of her last season, which started in September and continues to mid-November.

Odell hopes the season goes well beyond mid-November, as it did during her freshman year when the Tartars advanced to the regional finals, with only eight teams left in Division II.

"This year I hope to make it again," said Odell.

Some of the teams Wayne State competes against are Grand Valley State University, Saginaw Valley State University, Oakland University, Hillsdale College, Ferris State University and Northern Michigan University.

Odell is also a member of a Tartar team that won the Northern Kentucky University tournament.

Odell has a 2.8 GPA, studying secondary education with a physical education/health major. She values her college athletic career.

"It has been a great experience, a great time. It's fun. I enjoy meeting new people and the competition. And I enjoy the traveling, the hotels," said Odell.

She practices three hours a day, six days a week during the season and would also practice in the winter and spring during the off-season.

Odell said there is a difference between college and high school volleyball.

"College is more intense and quicker. The attitude is more serious," said Odell.

Recently, volleyball players from Clarkston High School and their coach Gordie Richardson got to see those differences first hand when they went to Oakland University to watch Odell and the visiting Tartars.

Odell, who has helped Richardson with the Wolf team the past two summers, was thrilled when she saw the Clarkston entourage at the match.

Missy Odell

"The whole team was there," said Odell.

And, no doubt, they digged every minute watching her.

Golfers end season with near-miss at GOAL

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Two strokes out of 338 may not seem like much in a golf match, but they made a big difference in the Greater Oakland Activities League meet Oct. 16 at Bald Mountain.

Lake Orion won the league meet with a 336, edging the Wolves by two strokes.

The tournament win clinched a GOAL championship for the Dragons (regular-season matches also weigh heavily), with the Wolves earning the second spot overall.

"I was happy with what they shot," said Clarkston coach Jim Chamberlain. Chamberlain is also happy that nearly all of his golfers will be returning next season. An experienced group of juniors this season and their team depth will probably make the Wolves favorites to win the GOAL next fall.

Dave Studt led the Wolves by placing fourth with an 82 on the par-71 course. Marcus Myers of Pontiac Northern won medalist honors with a 78. Waterford Moti's Matt Hemmerly was second with a 79 and Lake Orion's Terry Gromacki was third at 80.

Clarkston's Derek Bildstein tied for fifth with an 84 and teammates Jason Jarvis and Jeff Coxen tied for 10th with 86s.

Chamberlain was glad to see the Wolves finish on a strong note.

"They finished the season with an idea of what they can accomplish," said Chamberlain. "They'll be hungry for next year."

JV gridders plant themselves in Garden City end zone

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A traffic jam on Telegraph Road temporarily stopped the Clarkston JV football on its way to Garden City, but the Wolves put the pedal to the metal once the game started.

The Wolves crushed the hosts, 39-0, Thursday night, raising their record to 5-1-1. Garden City dropped to 6-2.

After Clarkston's bus made its way through the heavy traffic, the team arrived only about a half hour before game time.

When Clarkston coach John Craven got off the bus, he quickly noticed the size of the Wolves' opponents.

"Their team was huge," said Craven. But after the game, Clarkston proved the bigger they are the harder they fall, amassing 406 yards rushing. Garden City was held to only 20 yards on the ground and four yards in the air.

"It was our quickness against their size," said Craven. "Our kids were coming off the ball, offensively and defensively. That's one part of our game that has improved 100 percent."

The Wolves came off the ball early, scoring on an opening 60-yard drive in eight plays. Running back Jerry Anderson ran 35 yards to the 1-yard line before quarterback Nick Shires plunged in on a quarterback sneak. Matt Smith's kick for the PAT made it 7-0 with 9:24 left in the first quarter.

With 27 seconds left in the opening quarter, Justin Tappero scored on an 8-yard run.

The Wolves built up to a 27-0 halftime lead on a 7-yard touchdown run by Tappero (Shires passed to Adam Rice for the 2-point conversion) at the 5:35 mark and about three minutes later Anderson scored on a 5-yard run.

Tappero scored from one yard out in the third quarter following some key runs up the middle by Andy Howe.

Greg Fisher scored the last touchdown on a 70-yard sweep.

The Wolves had nearly three runners reaching the 100-yard mark. Fisher totaled 104 yards on seven carries, Anderson ran for 103 on eight runs, Tappero carried 14 times for 93 and Howe totaled 30 on six carries.

Clarkston completed two of five passes for 16 yards.

Matt May made eight tackles, Anderson and Chris Combs each had 5 1/2 and Shires five. Elbert Stumph recovered a fumble and Smith intercepted a pass.

Steve Cohoon had one solo quarterback sack and joined Combs on another. Tom Duty and Jeff Tyrrell each had one sack.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

DEPRECIATION CHANGE

QUESTION: Has the latest Tax Reform Act changed the depreciation schedule for real estate?

ANSWER: Under prior rules, both commercial and residential real estate were depreciable over a 19-year period. On top of that, real estate could be written off at an accelerated rate that produced bigger deductions in the early years of ownership than in later years.

The Tax Reform Act increases the depreciation period to 27 1/2 years for residential property and 31 1/2 years for commercial property. Accelerated depreciation has been eliminated. All types of property must now be written off using straight-line depreciation resulting in equal yearly deductions.

THE TAX REFORM ACT has both increased the depreciation period and eliminated faster writeoffs.

Seaholm stops varsity kickers at pre-districts

Host Birmingham Seaholm ended the Clarkston varsity soccer team's season by stopping the Wolves, 5-1, in pre-district action Monday.

After Wolf Ethan Lee scored a goal to tie the match at 1-1, Seaholm scored four straight times to clinch the victory.

The Wolves finished the season with a 4-14-1 record.

The Wolves split a pair of 1-0 matches to end regular-season action.

On Oct. 20 at Clarkston, Jeremy Deloney scored the lone goal late in the match for a 1-0 win over Holly.

Lee assisted on the game-winner. Goalkeepers Joel Mellen and Scott Strawsburg shared duties in the net to earn the shutout.

On Oct. 19, Oxford goalkeeper Charlie Jergler shut out the Wolves and Wildcat Andy Mathieson scored a goal for a 1-0 Oxford win.

In the second half, a brawl took place and a player from each side was ejected.

State car-deer accidents break record

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Car-deer accidents have reached their highest level ever in Michigan.

Last year, the number of such accidents climbed to 46,784. Six people were killed and 1,857 were injured.

Nearly half of last year's deer-car accidents occurred during October, November and December. Deer are especially active in autumn when they mate and migrate.

Sixty-seven percent of car-deer accidents occur at night, especially in the two hours following sunset.

Kent County once more led the state with 1,541 deer-car crashes, followed by Calhoun at 1,383 and Montcalm at 1,306. Oakland County experienced 77 total accidents involving deer; 48 people were injured in Oakland County accidents.

Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT)

officials say the increasing number of miles driven by motorists is a key factor in the growing number of car/deer accidents.

The size of Michigan's deer herd is also pertinent, according to the Department of Natural Resources. Michigan's deer herd is estimated at 1.8 million head, among the top three in the nation — so Michigan motorists are constantly exposed to the threat of deer in the roadways.

MDOT and county road agencies have installed deer crossing signs in areas where there have been accidents, but motorists need to be cautious on all rural roadways.

State officials offer the following advice:

- Wear seat belts — they save lives.
- Lower your driving speed in areas where deer are common, especially during the two hours after sunset.
- Watch for deer's eyes shining in the dark.
- When you see a deer on the road:
- If no one is driving behind you, brake hard but not hard enough to skid.

■ If you see one deer, be prepared for more. They often move in pairs or groups of three or more.

■ Try blinking your headlights or sounding your horn.

■ If you still can't avoid hitting the deer, hit it head on rather than swerving. Automotive engineers say cars are better able to take a head-on crash with a deer than with a tree or another car, which is often the outcome if the driver swerves to avoid the animal.

■ Do not approach the deer after you hit it. The animal may be only stunned and could leap up suddenly, causing injury to you. The accident should be reported to the local police department.

"There are two things every Michigan driver should know about car-deer accidents," says Lt. Dan Smith of the Michigan State Police Traffic Services Division.

"When you see a deer along the road be especially alert," he says. "First, they can occur anywhere in the state; and second, when you see one deer, be alert for all the others that are nearby but cannot be seen."

Many groups endorse certain deer alert devices as an effective means of preventing car-deer accidents.

CHS band marches to victories

KARI UPHAM leads the Clarkston High School Marching Band during a recent half-time performance.

Clarkston High School has proven itself "top brass" at two recent marching band invitational.

The CHS Marching Band captured first place in its classification Oct. 6 in the MCBDA Invitational Marching Band Competition at Novi High School.

Band members also won awards for best color guard, best percussion and best music/winds at the Novi contest.

One week later, the marching band again earned first place, this time at the Lakeview Invitational in St. Clair Shores.

Members were awarded the highest overall score of all bands competing as well as the best percussion, best color guard, best marching and best music/winds awards. Bands are classified by size or total members marching.

The CHS band competes in the intermediate classification entitled Flight II.

The 110-member Clarkston Marching Band and Color guard now advances to the State Championship Preliminary/ Finals to be held Saturday, Oct. 27, at Livonia Franklin High School.

The four highest-scoring bands from each flight will be selected to compete for the state title in the finals contest to be held that same evening at Plymouth Centennial Education Park.

The Clarkston bands will be entering the state contest with the best season-record of all bands in their classification.

—By Tracy King

"When you see one deer, be alert for all the others that are nearby but cannot be seen."

Lt. Dan Smith

The device, which is adjustable to fit most bumpers, is activated by onrushing air and emits an ultrasonic tone, inaudible to humans, that startles deer and usually stops them in their tracks before they cross roads.

The deer alert device is available at some insurance agencies.

Don't forget to bag 'em at curbside

Leaves in the Village of Clarkston will be collected on three Saturdays: Oct. 27, Nov. 3 and Nov. 10.

Residents should have leaves bagged and to the curbside by 8 a.m.

Each household in the village is entitled to 10 free bags that can be picked up from Clarkston Village Hall on Depot Road.

The leaf pickup is the result of a ban on leaf burning within the village limits.

The Other Side of Things

The Launderette Tour de Paris

Ashley Ball

As a ninth-grader, I'm taking my first year of French with Mme. Rosehart, who not only teaches us the language, but introduces us to the exciting culture of France as well. She adds interest by relating to us experiences she's had during her trip to France, and by issuing her famous Questions of the Week. She asks a question on Monday. If we know the right answer by Friday, we get 10 extra credit points. These Questions of the Week cover major aspects of the French culture, such as:

When, during the course of the meal, is salad served at a French restaurant?

Which direction is Paris from Luxembourg?

Why is the city of Rouen famous?

While looking for an answer to this last question one evening, I ran across three old Europe touring books on a bookshelf upstairs: "Europa Touring," "The Europa Camping Caravan," and the 1970-71 edition of "Europe on $5 A Day" by Aurthur Frommer.

The Frommer book, I could see right away, was not for me. At $5 a day, he had obviously cut out shopping.

The other two books were guides to camping in Europe with some general sightseeing and other information I could use to answer the Question of the Week.

"The Camping Caravan" gave details about locations and costs of camps. "Europa Touring" dealt with the more cultural aspects camping such as the importance of selecting camps that have flush toilets and launderettes.

Camps in Europe, I discovered, are not bleak KOAs located beside the freeway to Ann Arbor. They are an exciting way to tour Europe.

According to the books, most European camps are located in glamorous places ... like near the edge of a dropoff cliff overlooking Florence, Italy, and on the French Riviera near the cemetery where Mick Jagger's great uncle is buried. There is even a camp in Paris in the heart of the Bois de Boulogne (a park and woods like Central Park in New York). How romantic!

I read on ... making mental plans, now, to someday camp in the Bois de Boulogne.

Since neither book specifically mentioned whether the Bois de Boulogne camp had launderette facilities, I was thrilled to find a section on Paris that devoted a whole paragraph to Launderettes in Paris. The best one, it said, is the "Economy Laverie Pressing" at 34 Rue Delambre in Montparnasse near the Gare Quentet. Three francs for 5 kilos of laundry and 1 franc for drying.

How absolutely interesting! But, perhaps because of its address, I would be more inclined to patronize the Marche Saint-Honore Launderette at 2 Rue du l'Arc de Triomphe. All these details made Paris seem so exciting, so quaint.

Just then, my mom walked in to my room to hang clean jeans in my closet.

"Mom!" I interrupted her, excited over my touring prospects. "Can you imagine me doing my laundry in the shadow of the Arc de Triomphe in Paris?"

"Well, no," she said, absent-mindedly. Then, giving it some thought, she turned to me and said, "I can't even imagine you doing laundry in the shadow of our own laundry room."

Anyway, I did find the answer to the Question of the Week ... the city of Rouen not only was the Capital of the Celts and later Normandy, but it is presently the home of the museum of wrought iron. I'M NOT KIDDING! Wrought Iron!

But, then, I'm not surprised. After all, Mrs. Glover mentioned to my sixth-grade social studies class many times that France was, indeed, the major exporter of iron maidens during medieval days. I don't think she ever mentioned what they exported during medieval nights.

Anyway, as you can see, learning French culture is, indeed, fascinating.

Our next Question of the Week, incidentally, is: What is the Tour de France?

Whatever it is, it's going to have to be really good to beat the Launderette Tour de Paris.

Ashley Ball is a ninth-grader at Clarkston Junior High School.

Gazebo rental rates up

Rates to rent the gazebo in Depot Park, Clarkston, are going up. As of Jan. 1, 1991, the gazebo rental will be $50. The current rate is $40.

Also increased was the rental fee for using the Clarkston Village Hall restrooms. The rate was increased from $20 to $25.

The gazebo is rented year-round for weddings, said Clerk Norma Goyette, adding that wedding parties often rent the restrooms as well.

The Clarkston Village Council voted 5-0 to raise the rates. Trustee Eric Haven was absent, and Trustee Robert Whitmer left before the vote was cast. Voting yes were President Sharron Catallo and trustees Dom Mauti, James Schultz, Douglas Roeser and William Basinger.

Nuisance insects may invade your home in autumn

As the days get shorter and night temperatures cool, your home begins to look pretty good to insects looking for winter shelter.

Though anything from spiders to ladybugs may move in with you, the most common home-invading pests at this time of year are harmless.

They don't feed or breed in your home — they're just looking for a place to get in out of the weather.

Gary Dunn, extension entomologist at Michigan State University, says you're most likely to see clover mites, cluster flies, boxelder bugs, elm leaf beetles and strawberry root weevils coming indoors as summer gives way to fall.

"Clover mites are the smallest of these," he observes. "They're an eight-legged spider relative, reddish and tiny — the body is smaller than the head of a pin."

They feed on grasses, clovers and lawn weeds, and they are especially common in newly-established lawns and lush, heavily-fertilized turf."

In the spring and fall, large numbers of them crawl up the sides of buildings, often filtering in through minute cracks and openings.

Indoors, they don't damage furnishings, get into food or bite people or pets, but if crushed, they leave a reddish stain.

The earliest of these home invaders is usually the strawberry root weevil, which may start showing up indoors as early as July.

They adult is a small (1/4 inch), black or dark brown, hard-backed insect with a globular body and a pronounced snout.

The larvae are pests of strawberry roots, but the adult in the home is simply a nuisance.

Elm leaf beetles come indoors after spending the summer chewing ragged holes in elm leaves.

These beetles are about 1/4 inch long and have hard, yellow-green wing covers edged in black.

Boxelder bugs are larger and more colorful. They're usually at least 1/2 inch long, and their leathery wing covers are black and red or red-orange.

They're most abundant near female boxelder trees (female trees are the ones that bear the winged, maplelike

"A spray or swat and sweep campaign may have to run three or four weeks to get the job done."

seeds).

In the fall, they migrate from the trees in search of overwintering shelter.

They congregate on the sides of buildings, where they take advantage of any convenient opening to move inside.

Cluster flies do the same.

But unlike these other pests, which overwinter individually, cluster flies hibernate in masses that may include hundreds of thousands of individuals. Attics, sheds barns and other out-of-the-way areas may provide them winter shelter.

Cluster flies look like a slightly larger version of the housefly. As the weather cools off, they get slow and sluggish and buzz annoyingly against windows and lights.

"The first step in dealing with these and other fall invaders is to keep them outdoors," Dunn advises.

"Caulking around doors and windows, sealing cracks in the foundation and screening attic vents will reduce the number that get inside."

How you choose to deal with the insects that get indoors may depend on the scope of the problem.

"With cluster flies, one or two well-placed sprays of a pyrethrin-type flying insect spray and an application of the vacuum cleaner may take care of the entire problem," he says.

"With the others, a spray or swat and sweep campaign may have to run three or four weeks to get the job done."

In extreme cases of clover mite or boxelder bug infestation, it may be necessary to treat the house foundation and a strip of ground around the home with malathion.

"In the case of the boxelder bug, there's one other alternative, and that's to get rid of the boxelder trees," Dunn suggests.

"As landscape trees go, they're not very desirable and could easily be replaced by species that would add more to the value of your home and less to your pest problem."

Salmonella scare prompting warnings about eggs

The Oakland County Cooperative Extension Food and Nutrition Hotline has been receiving inquiries regarding salmonella and safe cooking of eggs and egg-rich dishes.

"Extra care is needed in egg cookery for everyone, especially those with weakened immune systems," says Sylvia Treitman, home economist for Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service.

According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, cooking eggs and egg-rich foods to an internal temperature of 160 degrees will destroy any salmonella bacteria that may be present.

To know if eggs are cooked sufficiently to destroy dangerous salmonella without a thermometer, cook the egg until the whites and yolks are both firm and not runny, Treitman adds.

Baked eggs and eggs used in other recipes need to be cooked to an internal temperature of 160 degrees.

Avoid using raw eggs in Caesar salad, homemade mayonnaise, uncooked hollandaise sauces, homemade ice cream or eggnog.

Also avoid eating cookie dough and cake batter containing raw egg.

Some additional tips for egg safety from the Food & Nutrition Hotline:

*Follow good hygiene by washing hands, all utensils and equipment well.

*Do not use eggs that are cracked, leaking, stuck to carton or if eggshell is dirty.

*Keep eggs refrigerated. They should not be out at room temperature more than two hours.

*Cook scrambled eggs in small batches, less than three quarts and hold at 140 degrees on steam table or other heat source. Do not add newly cooked eggs to leftover eggs which have been out.

*Do not wash eggs. Store in original carton in refrigerator to avoid over-handling and possible cracking.

For answers to your food and nutrition concerns call the Food and Nutrition Hotline Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at 858-0904.

Gallstones?

St. Joseph Mercy Hospital is participating in an investigational study using biliary lithotripsy, a method intended to break up gallstones with sound waves.

Among other criteria, eligible patients must be 18 years of age; have experienced one or more attacks of biliary pain and have one stone less than 30 mm.

If you suffer from gallstones and are interested in discovering whether this non-surgical treatment may help alleviate your pain and discomfort, you or your physician may obtain more information about participation in the investigation by calling:

1-800-52-MERCY

The advantages of this procedure include:

- no general anesthesia
- no immersion in a water bath
- non invasive
- patient resumes normal activities the same day
- average treatment time is two hours

This procedure is investigational and is administered by EDAP International under guidelines set by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA).

Investigators are: Elliott Fraiberg, M.D., Hugh Kerr, M.D., Ronald Vandermolen, M.D., and Malik McKany, M.D.

Postal service asks for help

Every address in Michigan and across the country -- more than 100 million in all -- will receive a guide on how to get the best possible service from the new automated Postal Service.

The Detroit Postmaster calls it the biggest-ever mailing by the Postal Service to inform and educate its customers.

"The address on a letter or any piece of mail, whether it needs a rural route or an apartment number to be complete, is still the best tool the customer can give us," said John M. Horne, Detroit Division postmaster.

"And a little help from customers who use a complete, correct address, including the ZIP Code, lets us take full advantage of our high-speed electronic mail processing equipment."

The pamphlet entitled "The Complete Address Guide," will be delivered the week of Oct. 22.

Horne says increased customer cooperation in addressing mail is needed because the Postal Service is changing the way it processes mail.

"Right now, 40 percent of all letter mail in the Detroit Division is processed on automated scanning equipment," Horne said. "By 1995, all that kind of mail will be sorted with automatic equipment, saving $5 billion that year alone."

The use of clear, complete and accurate addresses will cut delays that occur when a post office must make a correction, Horne said.

The Detroit Division now uses 14 optical character readers to sort mail. Nationally there are more than 400 advanced character readers in use; another 346 will go into use over the next two years, and there will be another 8,000 pieces of automated sorting equipment in use by 1995.

These optical character readers "scan" the address and spray the corresponding nine-digit bar code onto the lower right corner of the envelope. This bar code enables another piece of automated equipment to sort the mail for distribution and delivery, thus eliminating costly manual sorting.

TIP OF THE WEEK

Proper insulation reduces energy costs. Use loose-fill insulation for attic floors with irregular spaces and around pipes. Blanket rolls provide a solid barrier to heat and moisture and can be used over ceilings and inside rafters. Batts usually measure four or eight feet in length and are good to insulate walls, ceilings and roofs. And use insulation boards around foundation or under built-up roofs.

Engagement

Robert and Patricia Johnson of Clarkston announce the engagement of their daughter, Christine, to James Miller, son of Kenneth and Karen Miller of Waterford, and the late Patricia Miller. The bride-elect and the prospective bridegroom attend Oakland University, Rochester. An Oct. 27 wedding is planned.

Honors

James M. Tedder, 21, a 1987 Clarkston High School graduate, was elected homecoming king at Central Michigan University, Mount Pleasant. Homecoming was Saturday, Oct. 19.

Tedder is a senior at CMU, studying communications, broadcasting and political science.

He is also a resident advisor at Troutman Hall in The Towers at CMU and is a mentor for freshman orientation. He was a CMU cheerleader in 1989-90 and won the Mr. Ten contest at CMU in March 1990. He is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity and works as a disc jockey between all his activities.

While a CHS student, he was a varsity wrestler and a member of the Blue and Gold Club and Science Club.

He is the son of Thomas and Pauline Tedder of Davisburg Road, Springfield Township, and the brother of Stephany, 20, also a CMU student and a 1988 CHS graduate.

James M. Tedder

Engagement

Ruth and George Johnson announce the engagement of their daughter, Deanna Lynne Johnson, to Michael Frank Sera, son of Albert F. Sera and Ausunta Sera. The prospective bride, of Chestnut Hill Drive, Clarkston, is a graduate of Clarkston High School and Oakland University, Rochester. She is an advertising salesperson at The Clarkston News. The prospective bridegroom, a Bloomfield Hills resident, is a graduate of Seaholm High School, Birmingham, and is enrolled at Lawrence Institute of Technology, Southfield. He is employed at Advance Floors. A March 16, 1991, wedding is planned.

New arrival

Rick and Carol Hinzpeter of Pine Valley Road, Independence Township, announce the birth of a new baby girl.

Melanie Marie Hinzpeter was born Oct. 19, 1990, at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac. She weighed 8 pounds, 2 ounces, and measured 19 inches long.

She has a big brother, Daniel, 2 1/2.

Grandparents are Merrill and Ruth Hinzpeter of St. Louis, Mo., and Dolores Wright of Boulder, Colo.

Homecoming weekend brings many to church

Homecoming weekend was filled with reminiscences, old-fashioned foods and the reunion of old friends at Clarkston United Methodist Church Oct. 6.

The homecoming was part of a year of sesquicentennial celebrations for the church on Waldon Road, Clarkston.

The weekend began with an invocation by the Rev. Douglas Mercer, a word of welcome by Virginia Walter and an introduction of speakers by Stanley White.

Some former ministers agreed to reminisce: Mrs. Frances Large, Walter Saxman, David Yoh, William Richards and Frank Cozadd. The Rev. James Braid also returned for a visit.

Also speaking were ministers Christopher Cowden, Martha Cargo, James Balfour, Don Pinner and Jon Clapp, as did present minister Douglas Trebilcock.

Former church members also attended a reception at the old church on Buffalo, now owned as a home by Clarence and Sharron Catallo. Visitors were treated to punch, cookies and a pianist.

Laurie Stern also opened her home — the former parsonage — to visitors.

On Sunday, Oct. 7, which was worldwide communion day, ministers Walter Saxman, William Richards, Frank Cozadd and James Balfour helped the regular staff serve communion.

Ministers Christopher Cowden and David Yoh, who grew up in the church, gave the message that day.

A special reception Sunday was held with old-fashioned sugar, oatmeal and molasses cookies, and servers dressed in old-fashioned outfits.

"It was a good attendance," said Virginia Walter. "There was a warm feeling."

Another special event is planned for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 6, when Candace Anderson presents: "A Sampler of Michigan Women — Their Lives Through Song."

She will be in period costume as she tells the lives of Madame Magdelaine La Frambois, fur trader on Mackinac Island; Pamela Thomas, school teacher and aid to fugitive slaves on the Underground Railroad; Jenny Justine Jokala, lumberjack cook in the Upper Peninsula; Sojourner Truth, well-known women's rights activist and abolitionist; Madelon Stockwell Turner, first woman to attend the University of Michigan; Anna Howard Shaw, an early woman Methodist preacher; and Viola Corrigan, mother of 13 and Candace Anderson's grandmother.

The special program is sponsored by the Michigan Council for the Arts.

THE REV. David Yoh and his sister, Mrs. Helene Russell stop for a photograph outside the former United Methodist Church on Buffalo Street. Yoh was nurtured in this church, where he attended Sunday school and worship services. He now serves as minister to the Alma United Methodist Church.

POSING for a photo outside the Catallo residence — the site of the old church — are (from left) William Mansfield, Carnew Clark Boyns, Muriel Boyns Spencer and Phyllis Boyns Mansfield. The Mansfields served in the choir at this former church; Phyllis was a soloist — William also served as Sunday school superintendent.

They came from Traverse City to attend the homecoming festivities. Their sister-in-law Carnew Clark Clark Boyns, came from Washington. She attended the United Methodist Church as a little girl. They are joined by their cousins, Doris Boyns Spencer, who also attended the old church on Buffalo.

Origins of Halloween lore

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

For many, Halloween conjures up visions of ghosts, goblins and things that go bump in the night. And despite what Hollywood might have you believe, Halloween didn't begin with Jason, Michael Myers or some other maniac lopping off the heads of unsuspecting teen-agers.

Halloween was observed long before the birth of Christ. Though it wasn't called Halloween, this time of year was feared by the ancient Celts of France and the British Isles.

The Celts feared the approach of winter because they believed the powers of darkness were coming to swallow their god, the sun. The Celts tried to save the sun by giving the evil powers "offerings."

These offerings included the burning of crops, animals and sometimes people.

Halloween got its name from the Roman Catholic Church. It was originally known as All Hallows' Even because Oct. 31 was the last day of the month preceding November.

For Roman Catholics, the entire month of November was set aside for all the saints who had no day of their own. Eventually, All Hallows' Even was shortened to Halloween.

Halloween is celebrated in different fashions all over the world. For instance, the people of Wales used to put their names on stones and toss them in a community bonfire. If a person found his stone missing the following morning, he knew he was destined to die within a year.

In Halloween legend, characters such as witches and black cats are among the most feared.

Black cats received their evil notoriety from the ancient Celts. They believed that the "Lord of Death" held court on Halloween to decide the forms of all spirits. The Celts thought the most wicked spirits were given the embodiment of black cats.

The belief in witches came about in medieval times. Many claimed to have seen these evil hags flying through the air on broomsticks.

This particular mode of transportation was probably chosen because brooms were often kept near the fireplace, where elderly women often huddled for warmth.

Legends say that witches attended a meeting called a sabbat every Friday evening. Each witch supposedly belonged to a coven, a group consisting of 13 fellow witches or warlocks. At these meetings, the witches praised Satan and plotted out their despicable acts.

The origin of the jack-o'-lantern in America comes from Irish immigrants of the 1840s. In Ireland, it was a custom for young children to hollow out turnips and carve faces in them. A lit candle was often put in the turnip.

Due to the number of pumpkins in America, the tradition was changed for the sake of simplicity.

There is also an Irish legend on how the jack-o'-lantern came about in Ireland. Supposedly, there was a man named Jack who was too evil for Heaven and was expelled from Hell for playing tricks on the devil.

Halloween got its name from the Roman Catholic Church. It was originally known as All Hallows' Even because Oct. 31 was the last day of the month preceding November.

Therefore, the devil condemned the man to walk the earth forever, carrying a hollowed out pumpkin lit with a candle. It's said that mortals can only see Jack on Halloween night.

In the United States, the holiday has flourished. However, Halloween was responsible for the creation of Devil's Night, which occurs on Oct. 30.

Devil's Night was originally known as "Cabbage Night" during the 1880s. It received this name because young pranksters often ran the streets throwing cabbages at neighbors' doors.

Devil's Night was responsible for large amounts of vandalism during the mid-20th century. The number of incidents declined over the next two decades, but a resurgence in large cities, such as Detroit, has made many dread Oct. 30.

And what would Halloween be without trick or treat?

The practice came from England, where people used to go door to door yelling, "A soul cake, a soul cake! A penny or a soul cake!"

Housewives would give the people pastries called "soul cakes" and, in return, the visitors said prayers for the dead. "Trick or Treat" later became the cry of goody-wanting, young solicitors when the holiday took on a more fun-filled connotation.

He's tickled to spook trick-or-treating neighbors

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In his neighborhood, Kevin Fangel is considered a man of many seasons.

To say this Independence Township man merely decorates his home in accordance with the holidays would be an understatement.

With Halloween looming near, Fangel is set to garnish his home in the most festive way possible. Wailing ghosts, huge spider webs and a private graveyard are just a few of the props at his disposal.

Fangel's arsenal also includes several mechanized creations guaranteed for instant shudders. For example, his makeshift graveyard will be filled with mechanical hands ready to grab the pantleg on any wandering visitor.

This will be the second year that Fangel has decided to decorate his home. His "hobby" came from his father, who used to decorate their Waterford Township home when Kevin was a child.

"For about eight years, Dad went to all lengths to create a haunted house for the neighborhood kids," said Fangel, a master plumber in Waterford Township. "He had all the high-tech props, at the time, and the house received several write-ups in the papers."

Not unlike his father, Kevin Fangel decorates his home for the youngsters.

"I decorate my home for the children because it's great to see the expressions on their faces," Fangel said. "And I think the parents really appreciate someone putting this much effort into making the holiday more fun for their kids."

However, this year, Fangel will be pulling out several new stops to frighten his young visitors. He has converted his garage into a haunted house and promises scares-galore for all who enter.

"With the props and gizmos I've gotten this year, I should be able to scare about everyone," he said. "I'll be taking special precautions with the little tots, but when the teens come through, 'they're mine.'"

According to Fangel, he and his fiancée, Mary Hill, will be dressed up as ghouls. Hill will be leading the trick or treaters through the scene, while Fangel oversees the "special effects."

One of the special effects includes a casket, recently purchased by Fangel.

"When I came home with that casket, Mary just looked at me and said 'this really doesn't surprise me, knowing the way you are about Halloween.'"

Fangel's holiday cheer doesn't stop with Halloween. He said Christmas is also big at his home, where he strings up over 10,000 exterior lights.

"One of my neighbors used to get on me about putting up an exterior Christmas tree," he said. "So, I went out and bought about $2,000 in lights to decorate my home. I later told her that I'd keep adding more lights until she said 'uncle.'"

Regarding Halloween, Fangel said his haunted house is purely for trick or treaters and that it will close down when the kids stop coming to his door that evening.

Pet of the Week

KATO'S going to make some family a loyal and loving pet.

Loyal and loving

Kato, a 2-year-old collie mix, weighs about 60 pounds. With orange and white markings, Kato looks as good as he behaves. He gets along well with other animals as well as with children. He has been neutered.

His adoption fee is $35, plus the cost of his heart worm medicine.

To see Kato, visit the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Hills, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

~By Sandra G. Conlen

HALLOWEEN spirit is running high on Dvorak Street, due in part to resident Kevin Fangel. This marks the second year that Fangel has gussied up his home for prospective trick or treaters.

WHO IS ON THE LORD'S side?
He that listens to lying vanities forsakes his own mercy (Job 27:8) (Job 37:24) (Dan 4:37)
(Psa 7:9). Christians are not sinners saved by grace but in Grace, by repentance, saved out of their sins never to willfully return to sin, by the renewing of the mind to the Word of God, to obey, Holy and unblameable before God! We are Holy, righteousness of God in Christ and called into light (truth) and have a relationship with Him, not sinning! Christians are not in sin, or have it in them, and Holy at the same time nor once saved always saved forever. Obedience to the Word of God (faith) is the key which is true faith which works by love for God and
His wisdom who he says he is.
Its impossible to be a Christian and still believing your in sin at the same time or have a demon as a Christian. You are in Christ filled with power and love to obey Him or a hypocrite believing the traditions of men, selfish, disobeying God from the heart having an appearance of Godliness but filled with pride deceiv-ing men. If you say you are in sin in your thoughts, deeds, and word every day and claim you know God at the same time you are a hypocrite, deceived of men, loving to listen to lies, and have not a love for the truth to walk in it. You are lost and deceived and love to have it that way if you are not seeking to know the truth. You are in sin and an enemy of God and His truth because you hate the truth and will not come to the light. You are too lazy and its easier to go with the flow of men's religion - The Harlot - to Hell. (1 Pet 4:18) IILX43-2

PRAYER TO THE HOLY Spirit.
Holy Spirit, you make me see everything and show me the way to reach my ideals. You give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrongs that are done to me and you are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones, in you perpetual glory. Amen, Persons must pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking for your wish. After the 3rd day, your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be.
Then promise to publish this dialogue as soon as your favor has been granted. D.C.
