Thumbs up for Springfield library tax

BY TRACY KING

The old cliché "three's a charm" proved true at the polls in Springfield Township Nov. 6, as residents approved an operating tax for the library.

Voters renew police millage

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Citizens of Independence Township voted overwhelmingly Tuesday to continue a one-mill tax to finance police services over a three-year period.

Final vote totals in Independence Township were released about 12:15 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 7, showing that the police millage renewal was approved with 2,898 yes votes and 1,459 no votes. The approval means that a three-year millage will be continued after the current millage is up in 1991.

That means that residents will continue to pay $1 for every $1,000 in assessed property valuation. For example, the owner of a $100,000 home assessed at half the market value ($50,000) will continue to pay $50 per year for three years for police coverage.

The money helps pay for the Oakland County Sheriff's Department personnel, who cover Independence Township and the Village of Clarkston.

The election results are unofficial until certified by the Oakland County Board of Canvassers.

The issue had been before voters two other times and had failed both times.

A total of 917 yes votes were tallied in favor of the library issue; 849 residents voted no. The votes are unofficial until certified by the Oakland County Board of Canvassers.

The vote was especially close because of the large number of resident who didn't vote on the issue, township officials said, as results rolled in about 10:15 p.m. Tuesday.

"One-thousand people didn't vote either way," said township Clerk Cal Walters, adding that the third attempt worked.

"It took 'em long enough," Walters quipped. "They decided to keep trying until they get it."

Beginning in 1991, about $87,000 will be collected each year to operate the Springfield Township Library on Andersonville Road.

The one-half mill will pay for things such as building maintenance and other day-to-day operating expenses.

A homeowner with a $50,000 home would be assessed at half the market value ($25,000). Since one-half mill is 50 cents for every $1,000 assessed property valuation, that homeowner will pay $12.50 per year for the library. The millage is non-renewable and will automatically take effect each year.

43, 45 percent turn out in townships

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Republican Party appeared to be the party of choice in Springfield and Independence townships in the Nov. 6 general election.

By nearly two-to-one margins, both townships chose Republican John Engler over Democratic incumbent James J. Blanchard in the gubernatorial race. Statewide results were not available at press time.

In Independence Township, 8,334 of 18,400 registered voters visited the polls. Forty-three percent of all registered voters in Springfield Township turned out for the vote, prompting a mixed reaction from township officials.

"I had hoped for more," said Springfield Township Clerk Cal Walters. "But it's not bad."

A total of 2,771 Springfield residents cast ballots, primarily along Republican party lines.

Kathy DeRousha, deputy clerk of Independence Township, was pleased with her township's turnout.

"It was a better turnout than we had for the primary election," she remarked. "We figure about 45 percent of the township's registered voters participated in the election."

Springfield Township results are as follows:

In the race for governor, Republican John Engler earned 1,866 votes compared with James J. Blanchard's 813.

Secretary of state incumbent Richard H. Austin garnered 1,252 votes, with Republican Judy Miller earning 1,326.

Democrat Frank J. Kelley got 1,336 votes compared with 1,207 for Republican Clifford W. Taylor in the race for attorney general.

Leaf vandals anger resident

An 80-year-old Clarkston resident is angry that her hard work has gone to waste.

Rita Chisholm of Miller Road spent all day Saturday raking leaves around her home. Through her sole efforts, Chisholm accumulated 17 bags of leaves, which came close to matching the 22 bags she had raked the week before.

However, vandals got to the 17 bags before the local trash collectors did, and the contents were strewn all over the yard once more. Needless to say, Chisholm is a little upset.

"How can someone do something like this?" she asked. "I'm an old woman, and it took the entire day raking those leaves by myself."

"Now, it's raining and I've got a bigger mess than before," she added. "I'm almost to the point of saying I'll never pick up another leaf again."

Beauty road nixed by commission

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A request to designate Deer Lake Road as a natural beauty road was denied by the Road Commission of Oakland County last week.

According to John Joy, public information officer with the Road Commission, the denial was rendered because of the depleted vegetation along the Independence Township roadway.

"There was an insufficient amount of vegetation in the roadway to comply under the state statute," Joy said. "Too much of the natural vegetation along the roadway had been interfered with by humans."

Joy listed the high number of yards on Deer Lake Road as one of these unnatural infringements. Despite the fact that Deer Lake Road is aesthetically appealing, Joy said its appearance had no bearing on the decision.

"The designation in question has nothing to do with beauty," Joy said. "It hinges on two important factors — the amount of vegetation in the roadway and the uniqueness of that vegetation to Oakland County."

Joy said there isn't a formal appeal process, but a request can be re-submitted if a botanical error of some significance has been made in the investigator's evaluation.

This request has been controversial for some time, due in part to the sewer line system scheduled along Deer Lake Road. At first, some residents thought a beauty road designation would prevent the sewer construction.

"The designation in question has nothing to do with beauty. It hinges on two important factors — the amount of vegetation in the roadway and the uniqueness of that vegetation to Oakland County."

John Joy

However, that rumor was dispelled at a Sept. 19 public hearing when Road Commission officials assured residents that a beauty road designation would not hamper the sewer project.

The news of the denial pleased Bob Lalone, a Dixie Highway resident.

"I think it's great," Lalone said. "My honest opinion is that this whole episode was used as a little tool to stop the sewers. The beauty road issue may be over, but I don't think we've heard the last of it concerning the sewers."

Deer Lake Road resident Bruce Knight, a proponent to the beauty road, was not angry at the decision.

"The Road Commission said we were too developed for a beauty road, but they have a set group of standards they have to follow," Knight said. "In all fairness, the whole world now knows of our concerns regarding Deer Lake Road and our attempts at trying to preserve it."

"Our Portraits Last A Lifetime"

As minister, Vietnam veteran saves souls instead of lives

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

War changes the face of history — and the lives of those involved.

John Burnell, an Army veteran, saw proof of this after his own experience in the Vietnam War. Once an agnostic, he is now a minister and counselor.

An agnostic believes it's impossible to know whether there is a God, but Burnell's experiences in Vietnam helped him realize that maybe there was something more to life, he says.

A Springfield Township resident, Burnell lives on West Ellis Road with his wife, Catherine. The couple have a son John, 23, and one grandchild.

Burnell, 42, enlisted in the Army as soon as he graduated from Clarkston High School in 1966.

"I was attracted to the military and thought about making it a career," he says.

When he enlisted he wanted to be in the center of the action in Vietnam.

"I pulled every string to get there," Burnell says.

He did, indeed, end up in the center of action and received a Bronze Star on Jan. 9, 1969, for his heroics in saving a fellow serviceman who had been shot. As the enemy surrounded Burnell and the wounded driver of a truck, Burnell carried the wounded soldier to safety and returned to open fire on the enemy. The truck had come to rest on a gas pipeline that had been riddled with gunshot.

"Gas was raining like a thunderstorm, and there was fire burning underneath the truck," Burnell says.

Other soldiers told Burnell that a fire was burning under the truck, but it was as though someone blew out the flame, he says.

It was that very incident that started Burnell on his search for an answer about someone, possibly God, watching out for him.

Burnell says he experienced bitterness and anger in his life — turning to alcohol before becoming a minister

About Veteran's Day

Veteran's Day is observed on Monday, Nov. 12, this year -- though officially the holiday falls on Sunday, Nov. 11.

The holiday formerly was observed in the United States as Armistice Day in commemoration of the signing of the Armistice, which ended World War I. Nov. 11 officially became Veteran's Day on May 24, 1954, by act of Congress.

The day is set aside in honor of all those who have fought in defense of the United States.

long time ago, but I was too hard headed — I couldn't picture me in that position," he says.

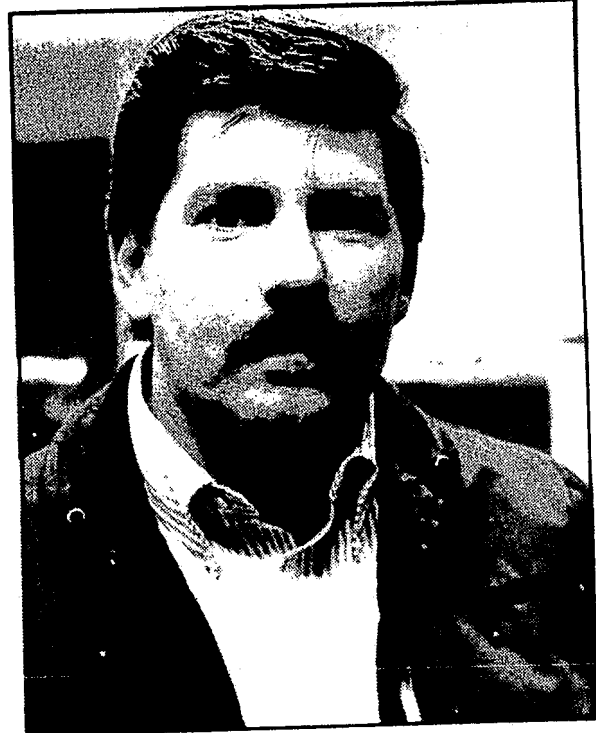

For now, ministering is a part-time occupation for Burnell, who is a licensed pastor with the Assemblies of God. He works full time for the Oakland County Drain Commission but may eventually minister full time, he says.

Burnell attended classes at Burean College in Springfield, Miss., for three years before becoming a licensed minister.

Ministering has also led him to counseling. In 1988 he became part of Point Man Ministries, which offers counseling services to former veterans of war and their families.

Burnell says he prefers to work one-on-one with the veterans, helping them come to grips with their lives after war.

"No parades for me, I'd rather get behind and help someone out," he says.

BURNELL still is saving his fellow soldiers — only now he counsels them.

Vietnam. War memories have sent John in a new direction. He now is a minister and counsels former veterans of war.

School facilities plan draws big, supportive crowd

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

An $85 million plan to renovate and construct new school facilities appeared to have the full support of those attending a crowded public hearing Oct. 30.

Though the need for the structures was never questioned by the estimated 150 people in the Clarkston Junior High School Auditorium, the audience inquired after the mechanics of the program and offered several suggestions to make it more attractive.

In case there were doubts about need, those in attendance were treated to highly orchestrated presentations from each building administrator on deficiencies in each building.

In keeping with the positive atmosphere, the crowd broke into laughter several times as administrators were chastised by their colleagues for exceeding time limits set.

The crowd also heard enrollment projections, a call for maintaining accreditation standards, a description of new facilities, and an explanation of the bonding process.

The Clarkston Board of Education is expected to set the language of the bond proposal at its regular November

Planning presentation

If you've been wondering about the growth in the Clarkston area and about the quandary of Clarkston schools, you may want to show up at a special presentation Thursday night.

Community planning and growth is the topic of a special program presented by Frank Ronk, Independence Township Supervisor.

Set for 7 p.m., the program is planned for Thursday, Nov. 8, at the Clarkston Board of Education Office, 6389 Clarkston Road, Independence Township.

Ronk is to detail information on the Downtown Development Authority, projected changes along the Sashabaw Road corridor, hospital plans, hotels, supermarkets and shopping centers and new single-and-multiple-family developments.

Sponsored by the Blue Ribbon Kids Committee, the program is the second in a series designed to make citizens aware of community issues and the impact on schools and school funding.

The Blue Ribbon Kids Committee is a group of parents and citizens of the Clarkston Community School District whose purpose is to serve as advocates of the Clarkston Schools by communicating and supporting issues that affect public education at local, county and state levels.

meeting.

The administration has recommended that three options be put before voters in February, including an elementary package, a middle school/high school package and a swimming pool package.

The total program is estimated to cost $85 million, or an additional 4 mills for 30 years. One mill is $1 for every $1,000 of assessed property valuation.

The facilities package would be financed with zero coupon bonds, which are spread out over the life of the program.

A similar facilities package was voted down two years ago, but President John Needham stressed that the need has not gone away.

"We are totally, completely out of room in the elementary schools," Needham said. "We are not going to be competitive and turn out the type of graduates we want as facilitators and parents."

"We have come to an unwavering need to do something bold," he added. "We need to do something decisive."

The 20 or so questions to the board included whether a site had been chosen for an elementary school (no was the answer); how long it would take to build an elementary school (18 months, and three years for a high school); and what was planned for the current Clarkston Junior High building (it could potentially be used for community education).

Several residents suggested that instead of offering three separate packages on the ballot, the elementary and high school packages should be combined, leaving the pool option to stand alone.

"We all have an obligation to meet these needs," argued one woman. "The community might satisfy their conscience by addressing only one and putting the high school off until tomorrow. Both of these are absolutely critical."

Superintendent Gary Haner cautioned the audience that lumping things together would mean getting all or nothing, a big risk.

A straw poll of hands showed only a handful of people in favor of splitting up the package for voters, though Haner reminded the audience they were a biased sampling of people.

"What are you going to do differently to sell this?" questioned another audience member.

Haner answered that the different financing method would be key, as well as offering voters the three alternatives.

"We're now experiencing what we predicted two years ago, and families are beginning to see that," Haner added.

In illustrating that need, administrators at the various buildings offered the following highlights:

■ At Andersonville Elementary School, one classroom is used for music, computers, school work and storage.

■ Bailey Lake, the newest elementary school was built 26 years ago.

■ Clarkston Elementary School utilizes one bathroom for 47 staff members and hundreds of volunteers each day.

■ At North Sashabaw Elementary, sick children are required to lay on cots in the hallway.

■ The entire square footage of Clarkston Junior High is 17,500 square feet.

■ Athletic teams have increased from nine to 40 in nine years. Visiting and home teams must use the same lockers.

Duane Lewis, director of personnel services, presented enrollment figures utilizing the number live births and housing starts in the area.

By 1995-96, grades K-5 can expect to house 2,970 students and will need 151 classrooms. The district has only 106 elementary classrooms now.

Grades 6-8 will see an increase of 211 students in five years, while grades 9-12 will grow by 272 students, predictions show.

In describing potential facilities, Haner explained all current elementary schools would be brought up to standards of a new school.

Each elementary would have separate rooms for: science, computers, music, art, and gifted and talented classes. Small rooms would also facilitate reading, speech, remedial reading, occupational and physical therapy and the SPICE program.

In addition, all schools would have an adequate gymnasium, library, cafeteria, satellite kitchen and space for offices, counseling, and health areas.

Educating the computer

Julie Campe

The spellcheck on my computer doesn't recognize such modern words as "wetlands," "groundwater" and "landfill."

This is, after all, a new generation — one whose vocabulary changes as quickly as computers themselves.

My computer is pretty hip, and I try to keep it up to date without bogging it down. Sometimes I'll add new words to its memory, so it won't commit any faux pas when a visitor observes it.

I touch a key on my computer to tell it to begin CorrectStar, the spell-checking program; and the computer chortles happily, winking and blinking its lights the whole time.

The spell-checker glides over such words as "the" and "computer" but abruptly stops and highlights the word "wetlands."

It has no alternate suggestion. Because it is purely a spell-checker, it does not know that "swamp" would serve as well. CorrectStar, helpful as it is, draws the line at giving synonyms.

The computer asks (in clearly typed language on the screen) if I would like to enter a correction. I tell it (by touching the "I" key) to ignore the unfamiliar word, and the computer once again mumbles as it begins its check.

At "groundwater," it stops again and again has no suggestion. That's probably because environmental groups have connected the two words, "ground" and "water," when conventional usage requires them to be used separately, as in: "The ground water was not affected by the chemical spill."

In news stories, we, too, separate "ground" and "water," unless the two words are part of a formal name of a group, which spells them as one word.

Once again, I tell the spell-checker to ignore "groundwater" throughout the entire story. It chortles, blinks and quickly stops at "landfill."

This time, it effortlessly tosses up a suggestion: "landfall." I ask for another suggestion, but it has none. Once again, it doesn't know synonyms, so it doesn't realize that "dump" would work equally well.

I don't know what "landfall" means. CorrectStar can't tell me. I turn to the dictionary — the old fashioned kind with pages.

Landfall, it reads, is a noun that is a sighting or making of land after a voyage or flight. It also can be the land first sighted on a voyage or flight.

Nope — that word is not a good substitute for "landfill."

Out of curiosity, I flip through the pages of my book dictionary. It says "landfill" originated in 1952 and is "a system of trash and garbage disposal in which the waste is buried between layers of earth to build up low-lying land" and is also called a "sanitary landfill." The word also can refer to an area built up by landfill.

I flip a few more pages. Under "wetland," the dictionary says the word is a noun, usually used in plural form (wetlands), and means: "land or areas (as tidal flats or swamps) containing much soil moisture."

It is not to be confused with "wet-nurse," "wet nurse" and "wetsuit," which are listed near "wetland" in the dictionary.

Eventually, it is time to check the spelling of each word within this column.

Uh, oh, the spellcheck does not recognize "faux pas." What a social blunder! (To be fair, CorrectStar recognized "faux" (French for "false") but not "pas" (French for step).

Letters to the Editor

Service people appreciate letters

In September, I talked to you on the phone mentioning how many members in the U.S. armed forces in Saudi Arabia didn't get a lot of mail, which can be depressing.

I asked you to put an item in your paper addressing "Any Service Member," requesting residents from this area write our men in Operation: Desert Shield.

You were nice enough to put the article "Call For Desert Letters" in your Sept. 26 edition.

Well, I came across an article in a daily newspaper, stating how much the troops appreciate the letters from school children, churches and others who write encouraging notes addressed to any soldier.

I thought you would be happy to see how printing your article and encouraging residents from this area to write really makes a difference. The letters heighten the morale of troops when they realize they have our support.

I have received several replies from Saudi Arabia in response to my letter, "Any Service Members," and they usually all end their letters saying the same words "please write again."

Seniors need low-cost housing, not higher taxes

Two years ago when the school wanted and received money, local officials said they were going to do something about senior housing.

This promise was soon forgotten as a new library and parks were proposed. Now, a new high school seems to be in the works.

We've heard promises at every election for years, if not from the schools then from someone in the township looking to be elected.

Don't thank us for the schools we helped build with our tax dollars or the support we've given Clarkston for years. But now, we're criticized because we're living on fixed incomes and can no longer keep up.

Independence Commons has always had a long waiting list, and it's apparent that the complex needs more apartments.

No further studies need to be taken. We want affordable housing listed at under $500 a month. We don't want to pay for club houses, pools, tennis courts, etc.

We think it's time for promises to be carried out. It's time to make senior housing top priority.

People talk about the rate of growth in children over the next five years, but they ignore the rate of growth among seniors.

We don't need studies by the young with big incomes. We need studies with seniors on fixed incomes. We don't need any more luxury apartments because we can't afford them.

Also, during those 15 years there were 15 Homecomings.

Hazel and I were not invited to any of them either.

Neither Jim nor Luan or Susan made any excuses. They'd chuckle when we brought it up. They didn't apologize for the oversight. They didn't say the events were cancelled. They obviously just didn't want us on campus for Parents Day or Homecoming.

I think I now understand why the Homecoming celebration invitation was never sent.

We were guests of our MSU daughter and son-in-law, Luan and Bob Offer, at Michigan State University's Homecoming last Saturday.

Generally that's a big day for them. They meet "house buddies," affectionately called "Keg Rats," and recall old days at old surroundings with old libations.

This was an off-year for the reunion, thus tickets were available for us.

Well, after MSU soundly defeated Purdue on the gridiron, we headed toward so Bob could see if just maybe a Keg Rat or two might be frequenting an old haunt. Some were.

Hazel and I were ancients in this lower level emporium of blue jeans and noise, but not too ancient to partake of a youthful Watermelon Shooter, the ingredients of which are unknown to our hosts.

Realizing that ignorance and putting it together with what we saw later helped me conclude why invitations weren't forthcoming in our kids' collegiate careers.

Had we gotten to the campuses back then we might have been exposed to the fact that they were drinking concoctions which they couldn't describe. They'd tell us of "garbage can" parties, but we thought they were finally becoming interested in protecting the environment.

Out of college the three have explained that a garbage can party meant attendees would dump all types of beverages into a 30-gallon can with the contents being shared by all.

After leaving the underground Rick's, Luan took us down an alley behind the Michigan Avenue stores. There were so many college-age drinkers in two of the bars we saw, P. T. O'Malley's and Dooley's, the owners put up snow fencing outdoors to hold the crowds. Obviously, inside was packed, too.

My comment was a parent's comment. "Now I know why we weren't invited to you kids' colleges. You didn't want us to see where your book money was spent."

Naturally I concluded the worst. It's a parent's right.

Volunteer helpers invaluable again

I would like to thank all the volunteer workers who covered our fall athletic program. This includes the Oakland County Sheriff's Department and Reserves, the Independence Township Fire Department's Emergency Medical Service unit, the Clarkston Athletic Booster Club, the Clarkston Band Booster Club and the school staff members.

Few realize the number of people needed as workers for athletic events. For example, football needs a minimum of 38 workers for each home game.

We are very fortunate in this community to have this kind of cooperation. It has been a very successful fall season, thanks to the above volunteers.

'If it Fitz . . .'

Welcome: your share is $12,000

Jim Fitzgerald

Because of his name, when I first met Adam Smith, I told him that, according to published reports, his share of the over $3-trillion national debt was $12,000, not counting $2,500 for the S&L scandal. I thought he'd be interested because another Adam Smith, in Scotland in the 1700s, was a famous economist whose arithmetic is still studied today.

Today's Adam Smith wasn't interested. He gave me a groggy look and a burp, indicating he shares my interest in economics, which is dormant on either side of the decimal point. I decided that eventually I would call Adam by his middle name, which is Fitzgerald, but not right away. The old grandpoop could at least wait until Adam got out of the hospital before messing with the name chosen by his parents.

When first we talked, last Friday, Adam was 90 minutes old, 9 pounds, 7 ounces and 21 inches. His gender had just been officially verified by his 4-year-old sister, Tricia, who pecked under Adam's blanket and reported with a knowing grin: "Yup, he's a boy."

Adam's other big sister, Emily, was also on the scene. In honor of Adam Smith the economist, it's dismaying to note that when Emily was born in 1981, her immediate share of the national debt was $4,694. It took only 9 years for we wise adults to increase our children's individual debt at birth by almost $10,000.

But don't worry. After a tremendously heroic struggle to stay on the government payroll, Congress just came up with a deficit-reduction plan that guarantees my new grandson won't be thrown into debtor's prison by the IRS until he's at least 10.

All progress isn't backward, however. When my mother was in the hospital delivering my younger sisters, the closest I got to them was to stand outside on the hospital lawn. When my wife had our children, I had to look at them through a maternity ward window. But before he was 2 hours old, while several cameras clicked and whirred up his defenseless nose, Adam Fitz Smith had been smuggled by seven coo-cooing relatives crammed into the hospital recovery room.

Less than an hour later, we watched the happy scene over and over again on videotape. And Emily used her parents' computer to make a 10-foot banner with a picture of two open hands and "Welcome Home Adam and Mom" printed on it. Please don't ask me how she did it. I'm sick of admitting I'm dumber than a little kid.

I now have two grandsons - the day before Adam's birth, the other one, 16-year-old John Wescott, scored a touchdown for the Frankenmuth junior varsity team. I have 4 granddaughters, not 5, no matter what you might have heard. A coworker recently returned from a downtown luncheon function and said he'd sat next to my granddaughter and she said to say hello. That's ridiculous. None of my grandchildren are old enough for stuffy luncheons.

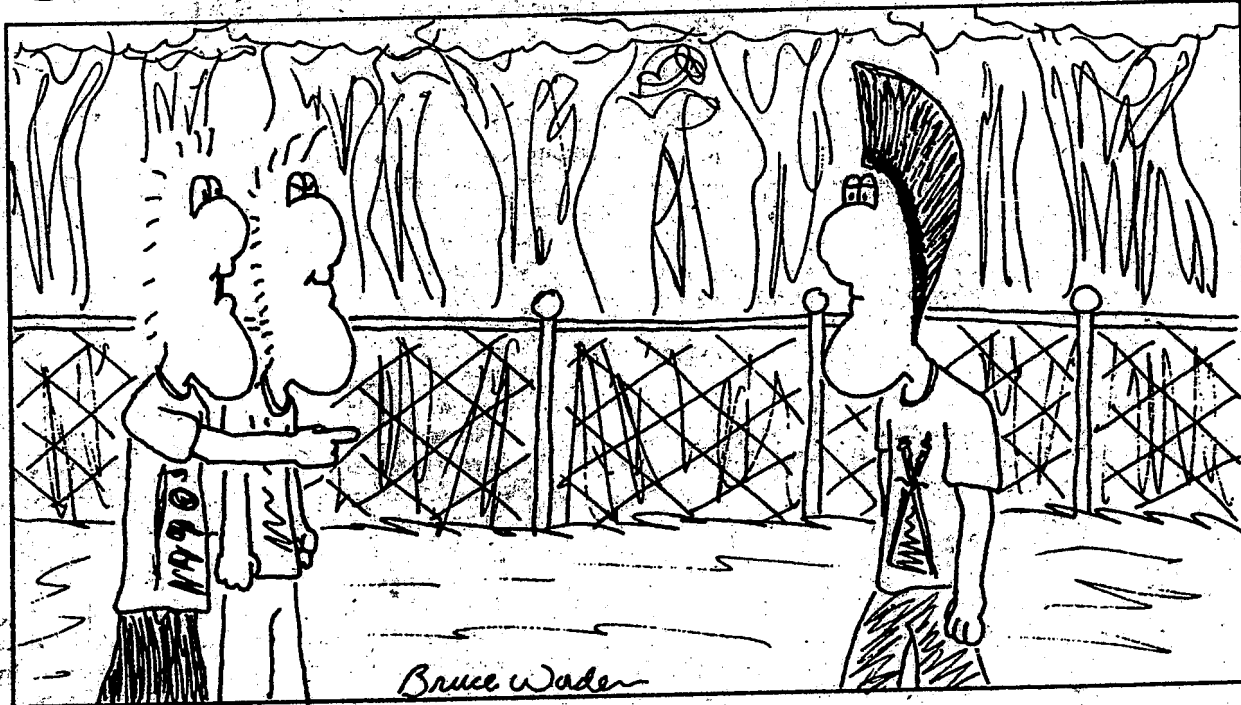

Without asking, I knew he'd sat next to my niece, Sheila Fitzgerald, a veteran employee of Michigan Bell. Sheila is the daughter of Terrible Jean, my much older sister, whose childbearing years ended during the Lincoln administration. Don't tell me that medical science has discovered a way for old women to have babies. Terrible Jean had her babies before the discovery of medical science.

To kiss up to her mother and ensure a top spot in the parental will, Sheila likes to tell people I'm old enough to be her mother's father. All I can say is Sheila's a chunk off the old old old blockhead. I'm sorry I can't say anything more clever than that, but I've been busy becoming a grandparent, which Terrible Jean isn't, so she can hug mine for $5 a hug.

Finally, after visiting her mother and brother, Emily was sobered to see a woman sobbing as she talked on a phone in the hospital lobby. Emily was reminded that maternity wards are generally the only always-happy spots in hospitals, and she and her family are very fortunate.

Nuts to the national treasury. With the addition of healthy Adam Fitz Smith, our family treasury is bursting with joy, and we are very grateful.

OFF TRACK

WHOA! HOW MANY VOLTS DOES IT TAKE TO DO YOUR HAIR IN THE MORNING?

From This Perspective

Up close and personal

Tracy King

I gleaned my true appreciation for national politicians in the infancy of my reporting career.

President Ronald Reagan was to do a farm bill stopover in Decatur, Ill., and to any local television station within 300 miles, this was big.

Feeling national and important in my presidential attire (Ron called on red-draped reporters first, I'd heard), I traveled with my photographer in a small plane to get the goods on the visit.

Gallantly, we strode through secret service checkpoints and into the designated banquet room, only slightly dampened by the tiny platform set up in back for "local" press people.

Pretending that we too knew how the big empty space up in front was to be used, we couldn't help but gape as a huge gaggle of national reporters swept in and pushed into the area.

The platform people jostled one another for another inch.

Moments later, Ron stepped to the microphone and, looking alert (it was early in his career), began to read.

I looked down at the packet handed to me at the door. Why he's reading word for word, I realized with a start.

Mentally rehearsing the questions I might ask, I gaped as he called on two of the front row reporters and then left.

"We could have gotten this stuff in the mail!" I wailed, seeing my moment of glory pass unglori-ously.

I had my next chance with Vice President George Bush, who would be stopping about an hour away for an elementary school rally.

Veteran that I was, I dressed in peach this time and arrived early. The national press people always get the front space, I confided to our platform neighbors.

George brought the school crowd to its feet a couple of times; he hadn't yet perfected his hand gestures, but if I recall, he had already begun his habit of speaking in sentence fragments.

No questions were taken this time, but we consoled ourselves with shots of a lot of flag waving and handshaking with children.

Yet another presidential press opportunity arose with the visit of Barbara. She had agreed to interviews on our home turf and, better yet, they were to be one-on-one.

Barbara answered my questions beautifully, as if she had never heard them before. Encouraged, I decided to befriend her while waiting for my photographer to put away his gear.

"Gee, Mrs. Bush, I started in my most confidential tone. "You must be exhausted. Doesn't this campaign stuff get to you after awhile?"

"Oh no," she replied, in her most presidential tone. "I love every minute of it."

Finally, a personalized reaction. Politician-style.

Eagles addition receives final site approval

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A request to build a 2,000-square-foot addition to the Clarkston Eagles facility received final site plan approval from the Independence Township Planning Commission.

On Oct. 25, the commission voted 6-0 to approve the plan for the Maybee Road building. Daniel Travis was absent from the meeting.

According to petitioner David Katz, the addition will be in the form of a full-fledged kitchen. The kitchen is the first phase of a three-phase enhancement project planned by the Eagles.

The addition would push the building's size to nearly 6,400 square feet.

Last month, Katz said the Eagles planned on selling

4.3 acres in the rear of the building. He said the land may be split and adjoined to acreage owned by neighboring landowners.

Final site plan approval was granted, subject to the following conditions:

■ all site signage be brought into conformance with the proposed sign ordinance:

- additional landscaping along front of building.
- elevation of driveway to match height of sidewalk.
- roadway to be revised to three 12-foot lanes.
- more landscaping around retention basin.

Library bond bids awarded

The National Bank of Detroit (NBD) outbid seven other applicants to finance the construction of the Independence Township Library.

On Oct. 30, the township board named NBD as the financier of the library's $2 million bond issue. The money from the bond issue will be used to pay for an addition that would quintuple the current 4,000-square-foot township library.

The bond issue was approved by voters Nov. 8, 1988. A 3/4-mill levy for operational expenses was also passed by voters during the Aug. 7 primary election.

According to Library Director James Hibler, construction could start by the end of this year, with a targeted completion date of fall 1991.

Outstanding band

We would sincerely like to thank and compliment Mr. Cliff Chapman and his staff for a wonderful season for the Clarkston High School Marching Band.

Congratulations, Clarkston High School Marching Band, for placing third in the state, flight II competition.

The dedication and support of the parents and staff is tremendous! Discipline, dedication and dignity were essential to produce this award-winning Clarkston High School Marching Band.

Congratulations, kids. We are truly proud of you.

A poem full of appreciation

Dear Mrs. Regioni and Mrs. Bell,

We think you did very well
In organizing the Arts Day
That we hope will have a yearly stay.
And now that this special day is done
We want to say we had great fun.
We loved the decorating, music and masks
Karate, fun plastic, and painting tasks.
The mime troupe, Encores, and Tuxedo Brothers and numerous 15 or 20 others.
Now you can sit a while
We hope you'll remember our smiles.
And happy, eager, awefilled faces
As we visited our assigned places.
You are both very special to us
And deserve a grade of A + + !
Thanks for the Festival of the Arts —

Balance is key

Doug Carlson

Harry Cook is a Detroit Free Press columnist who writes on a variety of subjects.

This past week, he wrote a column entitled, "Don't develop more condos; develop an ethic for our land."

He began the column by referring to recent articles in both the News and Free Press about "runaway development in Oakland County and the death throes of a once-proud Edwardian-era neighborhood near downtown Detroit."

In the first half of his article, Mr. Cook talked about Detroit, how it used to be and how it is today. He then turned his attention to Oakland County.

The remainder of his column reads as follows:

"Meanwhile, 25 to 35 miles north and west, woodlands, wetlands and wondrous open spaces are being consumed by residential and retail development.

"One of the articles pointed out that the municipal Balkanization of southeastern Michigan into scores of separate jurisdictions, each with its own planning commission and zoning ordinances (such as they might be) has made regional planning for land use and development virtually impossible.

"In fact, regional land use planning is an absolute must if this part of the Great Lakes State is not to be frittered away with a string of condos here and a strip mall there, with no coherent scheme to serve both the needs of a mobile population and the ecological integrity of the land involved.

"Our infrequent forays into western and northwestern Oakland County remind us again how gorgeous a countryside it is, especially in the spring and autumn.

"They also remind us of how fragile a fabric the land is in the face of migrating human beings. A trip through the Clarkston area two years ago was startling enough. One just six weeks ago took my breath away. Too much is happening out there.

"More than 30 years ago, I heard the late Lutheran theologian Joseph Sittler give a lecture entitled, "The Care of the Earth." Sittler said there must be an ethic that governs who will use the land and how it shall be used.

"He wasn't necessarily arguing for a narrow Christian ethic as much as he was arguing for any reasonable ethic that is tied in with a society's long-term value system.

"It seems to me that such a land ethic is what is desperately needed as central-city Detroit wastes away and as northern Oakland County staggers under an invasion of earthmovers, new subdivisions and shopping malls. An ethic and a master plan that takes into account on equal terms human need and environmental integrity.

"The key, I think, is to cause the formation of a political will to accomplish both."

As I read Mr. Cook's article, the reference to Clarkston obviously caught my attention.

What really got me thinking, however, was his concluding line which said "...what is desperately needed is an ethic that takes into account on equal terms human need and environmental integrity."

To me, this says it all. Somewhere, there's got to be a balance, a balance between human need (development) and environmental integrity (quality of life.)

Land should not be plundered simply to allow developers the opportunity to make money. Land should not be plundered simply to provide township officials with a larger domain over which to rule.

Land should not be plundered simply to bring in more tax dollars for out-of-formula school systems or more customers for local businesses.

On the other side of the coin, land should not be left vacant, simply because we like trees and wide open spaces.

We can't be, and won't be, "the last ones in."

The key word is balance, and that's what we have to find together.

INVESTING IN LAND

QUESTION: What is the key to a good land investment?

ANSWER: One of the nice things about investing in land is that it rarely presents management problems. However, since it will produce no income, it should be bought only if you are financially able to carry the debt. If you prefer to pay taxes on a long-term capital gain, rather than ordinary income, then land can be an attractive investment.

The key to a good land investment is predicting land needs of the future. Here is where the experience of a good, local Realtor comes in. He has intimate knowledge of community needs, and can forecast the best areas for growth potential.

THE KEY TO A GOOD LAND INVESTMENT is predicting the need for that land in the future.

620-acre golf course-residential hearing

Residents in the Eston, Clintonville and Waldon roads area may want to show up for a public hearing on a proposed 620-acre golf course-residential development.

Developers of The Country Club of the North will be requesting a change from rural residential zoning to planned residential development (PRD), the newest zoning category in Independence Township.

The hearing takes place at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 19, before the Independence Township Planning Commission, which meets in the township annex, 90 N. Main St., Clarkston.

Adopted in early September, the PRD pertains to proposed residential developments larger than 160 acres.

Before the PRD's adoption, a development of this magnitude usually would be approved under several phases of the township's planned unit development zoning category.

A PRD mandates that at least 20 percent of the land be "open space," with a limit of one single-family residential unit per acre.

The PRD ordinance was instituted into the township, due, in part, to this particular development.

The proposed Country Club of the North straddles the Independence-Orion Township border and would require approvals from both governmental units.

Kansas City and Independence

By Jim Sherman, publisher

When we knew we were going to Kansas City, Mo for the National Newspaper Association convention, we asked some people what to do and see.

A former Kansas Citian said we had to try the barbecue ribs at Gates and Sons and visit the Nelson-Atkins Museum. Another said we shouldn't miss Country Club Plaza, the oldest shopping center in the world.

That was about it for suggestions for a tourist in KC. Eat, look at old stuff and shop. Ah, come on! There's much more, including the home of Hallmark Cards, Inc., the Royals and Chiefs sports arenas, Swope Park, and jazz.

Too, Kansas City is said to have more fountains than Rome. I love fountains. I'll probably never compare but certainly KC has lots of them.

There is a once-a-day tour bus that leaves the Hyatt Regency, but we missed it. We prefer the 1-on-1 of a cabbie and drew Andrew Johnson.

We started the tour right after having eaten very salty barbecued ribs at one of Struttin' Gates and Sons six loud and fast restaurants. His sauce is so popular you can buy it at KC International airport.

Actually, we started our tour by taking a long connecting, overhead walk that joins the Hyatt and Westin hotels with Hallmark's Crown Center Plaza.

Hallmark's factory, where 700 artists, illustrators, designers, stylists, editors, writers and photographers work, is right there. In fact, all but the hotels have been built by Hallmark. Starting in the 1960s Hallmark began a private industry urban renewal. At least a half dozen large office buildings, 3-floors of stores, a theater and more replaced delapidated buildings.

The stores are mostly expensive (by our standards) specialty shops, plus a large department store and large Hallmark store. All together there are 84 stores, I believe.

Get this: There are 11 million Hallmark and Ambassador greeting cards and 1.5 million other products produced EACH WORKING DAY. You can watch some of it during a tour. They also have a hands-on design center for kids.

Right next to the Center is a World War II memorial and across the street is Kansas City Union Station. Cabbie Johnson said, "The Godfathers are balking on remodeling it." It was closed eight years ago. At one time it was second only to New York's Grand Central Station in train traffic.

June 17, 1933 at Union Station, bank robber Frank Nash was on his way to Leavenworth, when gangsters, reportedly lead by Pretty Boy Floyd tried to free Nash. Nash and six FBI agents were killed.

It's a great piece of architecture, but idled for now.

Just a few blocks away is the Nelson-Atkins Museums. It has several exhibit halls. I won't fool you into thinking we went inside. I read they have masterpieces by Renoir, Rembrandt, El Greco, Monet and native son Thomas Hart Benson.

Country Club Plaza is about 15 blocks south of Crown Center. It's three blocks square, nine full blocks, nearly 200 stores. The architecture is Spanish with fountains dating to 1620. The featured postal card from the area is a night photo with all the roof-lines lighted like Christmas time. The need for plastic is evident beginning with Gucci and Saks.

At Swope Park you can go to the zoo, play golf, picnic, play ball, watch a theatre production, etc.

The river front is the oldest part of town. There is still some grain shipping on the Missouri River, but mostly it just looks old, though there is renovating going on. The old downtown of red brick buildings is a little depressing, but that's the worst our cab driver showed us after we asked twice to "show us some rot."

Good looking houses not far from Country Club Plaza sell for under $100,000. Cabbie Johnson said really expensive houses are being built on the south end of KC.

We conventioned at the Hyatt for $82 a night. $124 prices are on the door. But they have weeked rates from $62.

Most often mentioned as a place to visit when in Kansas City is Independence, Missouri, 25 miles away. Besides being the gateway to the west (the Sante Fe, California and Oregon trails start here) its the home of former president Harry S. Truman. It's also the headquarters of the Morman break-away church, Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, a fellow publisher told us.

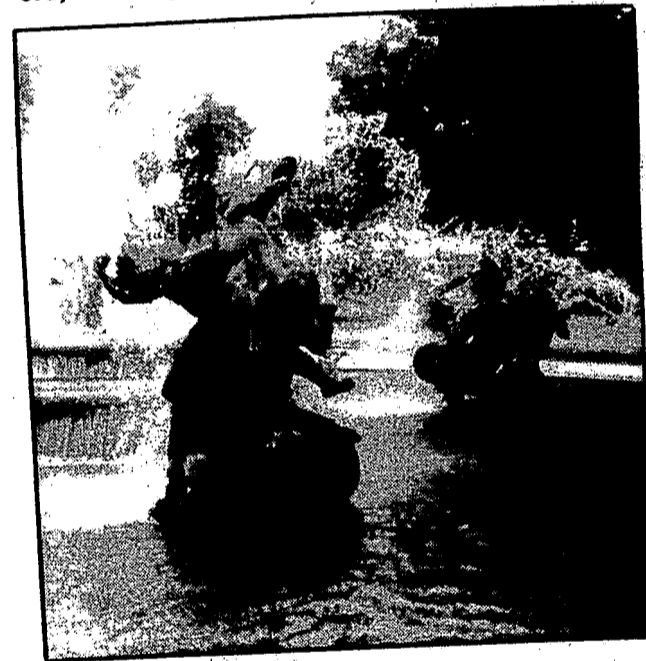

The Truman Library and Museum brought back lots of memories, but we were especially taken by his reproduction of the White House Oval Office.

I read many stories of Truman's White House years. I'd forgotten why Truman fired Gen. Douglas MacArthur, and it's difficult finding his name in Truman Museum literature that's passed out.

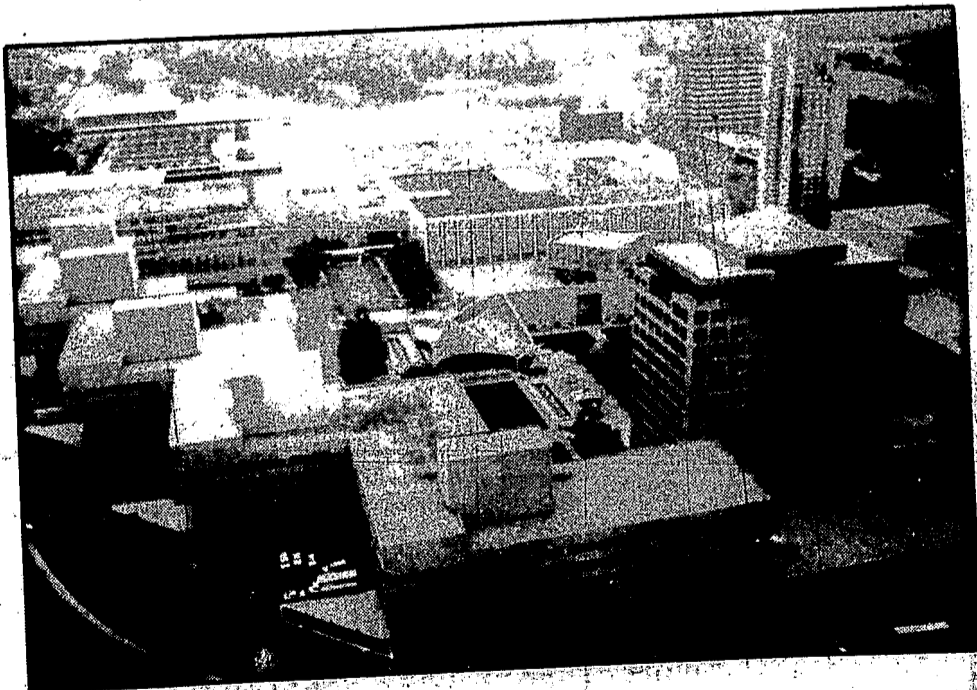

We were not allowed enough time on the Independence tour. I think it could have been more interesting than Kansas City. I liked "The Buck Stops Here" Truman.

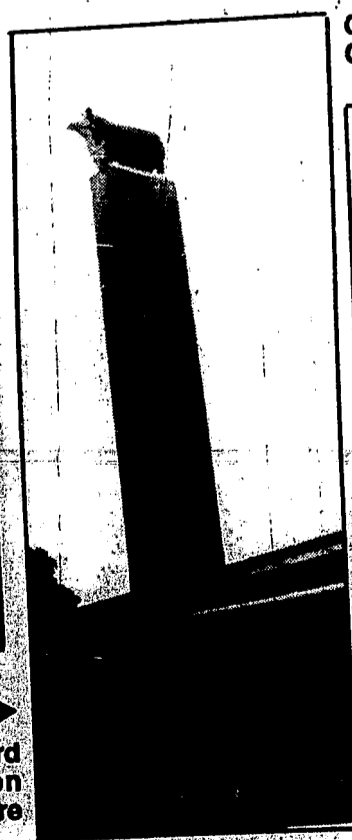

Lots of boulevards in Kansas City: wide, groomed, some with fountains and sculptures. This is Starkers, where jazz is king, in Country Club Plaza

One of hundreds of fountains, this one in a park at Country Club Plaza.

This picture was taken from the revolving restaurant on the 42nd floor of the Hyatt. All these buildings have been built by Hallmark since the 1960s including their headquarters on the left and top-center. Another office building and parking garage are under construction.

Discipline varies, but results often the same

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Whether it's tickets, detentions, suspensions or even expulsions, what some might call a tough disciplinary policy in Clarkston schools appears to be working, administrators say.

At Pine Knob Elementary school, green tickets are issued to students who misbehave. In junior high, detentions are the likely result of bad behavior. In senior high, students can be suspended or even expelled for a variety of activities, such as fighting, repeated use of tobacco or excessive truancy.

"The pendulum has swung back," said Pine Knob Elementary Principal George White. "With good parent support we're back to desirable behavior."

Each principal or assistant principal interviewed said student behavior either stayed the same or improved in recent years.

Students actually like rules, says Brent Cooley, assistant principal at Clarkston Senior High School. If a school reacts consistently to infractions, it tells a student he is important — enough to warrant the action, he adds.

"A student can make poor choices, and if he makes it in my environment he needs to understand the consequence," Cooley says.

Disciplining a student is not particularly difficult, most administrators say, though it isn't pleasant, either.

"I just handle it when they come in," says CJH Assistant Principal Jan Gabier. "I just do it. I don't particularly like it, but it isn't any big thing."

Though Clarkston has districtwide discipline guidelines, procedures do vary.

"Incidents are handled differently at different levels," says Bill Neff, director of administrative services. "Elementary students may be counseled, a junior high student might be suspended or a senior high student thrown out altogether for the same thing."

One policy inherent to the entire district regards corporal punishment: the physical handling of bad behav-

"You never judge people; you judge behavior. You have to make that distinction,"

Brent Cooley
CHS Assistant Principal

ior.

"State law prevents corporal punishment," Neff explains. "The only way to justify physical handling of a child is for self-defense or to break up an existing situation."

Discipline at Pine Knob is modeled after a step-process developed by behaviorist Lee Cantor. About 95 percent of all disciplinary situations are solved by the teacher, White says.

A student's name is written on the board as a first warning, and it's usually enough to deter the behavior, White says. If it continues, a check mark is placed next to the name. On the third warning, a student's parent is notified, and so on.

If an infraction takes place in the lunchroom, the bus line or at recess, the green tickets come into play.

The child's name, teacher's name and reason for the ticket is written on a green piece of paper. If two tickets are accumulated, the parent is notified; three tickets warrant a parent-principal discussion, and so on.

The biggest offense: "Kids won't leave their hands to themselves," according to White.

A monthly award is given to students without tickets, White said.

Detentions are by far the most common response to bad behavior at Clarkston Junior High. Hallway shoving, tardiness and cigarette smoking are among the big offenses here, Gabier says.

"It depends on the age — there are four different grades, and there is a big expanse between sixth and ninth grade," she adds.

Clarkston Junior High School makes use of a building "team" that includes counselors, school psychologists, social workers and administrators. The team meets once a week to discuss recurring discipline problems, Gabier says.

At the senior high level efforts are made to solve disciplinary problems within the school setting, but suspensions and expulsions do occur.

Eight students have been expelled during the past six years, Cooley says.

A student can be expelled for repeated use of tobacco, repeated use of alcohol, theft, excessive truancy, selling chemical agents or controlled substances, arson, assault, battery or fighting, rioting, setting off a fire alarm and other activities.

The Clarkston Board of Education has the final say in expulsions, though a student may appeal to a district review committee.

A "considerable" number of suspensions have occurred in recent years, according to Neff. Suspensions can be awarded for gross disrespect, gambling, forgery, indecent display of affection, leaving school grounds, loitering, obscenity and other activities.

For behavior outside of these areas, students are first given a warning; a student conference is held for the second infraction; a parent conference is held for the third, and so on.

The most important thing to remember while disciplining a student is respect, says Cooley.

"Every one I do see, I can respect in spite of themselves," Cooley says. "You never judge people; you judge behavior. You have to make that distinction."

New site condominiums OK'd for Edgar Road

Edgar Road residents soon could have new neighbors.

Pine Ridge Estates, a site condominium with eight building sites, received unanimous final site plan approval from the Springfield Township Board Oct. 11.

A site condominium is like a single family neighborhood, only residents own their homes and the "building envelope" in which they rest. The land throughout the development is owned jointly by all of the homeowners.

Developer Curt Cumming's 11-acre parcel is on Edgar Road, about one-quarter mile south of Foster Road, and will have a holding area for trees. Excess trees from construction sites are placed in the holding area and will be moved to new homes built at Pine Ridge as construction is completed.

Construction is to begin in the spring. Cumming plans to live in the development, and his house is under construction.

Business Brief

New chief engineer

William K. Whitley of the Clarkston area recently was appointed chief engineer — technology centers, product and process assurance at Hydra-matic, a division of General Motors Automotive Components Group, Ypsilanti.

Whitley began his career with General Motors in 1968 as a summer intern at Pontiac Motor Division in Pontiac. In 1971 he was promoted to senior clerk; in 1973, engineer-project design; in 1974, project engineer; in 1976, senior project engineer.

He was again promoted in 1980 to supervisor, product engineering and remained in that position until 1984, when he was transferred to Chevrolet-Pontiac-Canada Group's engineering center in Warren, as an assistant staff engineer.

In 1987, he transferred to Hydra-matic Divisional Offices in Ypsilanti, as director of product assurance; and in 1989, he was assigned director, future transmissions product assurance, the position held prior to his new appointment.

Whitley earned a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, in 1972. He resides in the Clarkston area with his wife and two children.

Former farmers out of DNR program

Lloyd and Helen Vergin have passed the first hurdle in getting their farm land released from the Farmland Development Rights Agreement (FDRA).

The Springfield Township Board voted unanimously to allow the termination of the agreement between the Vergins and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

After township approval, the DNR is to decide whether to terminate the agreement.

Farmers in the FDRA program receive a credit on property taxes, said Supervisor Collin Walls.

Lloyd Vergin milked between 35-40 cows and grew crops on the 120-acre farm on Scott Road, but his health doesn't allow him to keep up with milking, said his wife. The cows were sold about one year ago, she said.

Guidance Corner

College night

All high school students and parents are invited to College Night at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 14, at Waterford Moti High School (Scott Lake Road, Waterford Township). More than 50 admissions representatives from Michigan and out-of-state colleges will be in attendance.

College-bound graduates on the rise

Graduates of Clarkston High School are attending colleges and universities in greater numbers. Each year since 1986, the number of college-bound students has increased. The class of 1990 sent about 73 percent of its graduates to two- or four-year colleges and universities. These same seniors also earned over $233,000 in scholarship and tuition grant money.

Campus visitations

Many colleges host open houses or special visitation days, especially this time of year. Here are a few:

Northwood Institute (Midland): Senior Visit Day is Saturday, Nov. 10. Call 1-800-822-6060 to make reservations.

Grand Valley State University (Allendale): Visitation Day is Friday, Nov. 16. Call 1-800-748-0246 to make reservations.

Michigan State University (East Lansing): Information about the Lyman Briggs Residential Science Program is set for Friday, Nov. 16. Call 517-353-6482 for information.

Oakland University (Rochester): School of Engineering and Computer Science Open House for high schools juniors, seniors and their parents is Sunday, Nov. 18. Call 370-3360 to make reservations.

Additional postings: See the Clarkston High School College and Scholarship Board, or contact Mr. William Hartwell, director of guidance, at 625-0904.

Search update

Parent support group meets the first and third Wednesdays of each month, so the next meeting is 7-8:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 21, in Room 232 at Clarkston High School. Open to all parents, it's a great opportunity to discuss a variety of topics, including alcohol and drugs, with people who can really understand what you're talking about. For more information, see Mari Ann Pace-Bleau at CHS.

Military recruiters

The military recruiters make monthly visits to Clarkston High School to inform students about career options in the various services. During the month of November, the following visits are scheduled:

Friday, Nov. 9: U.S. Navy, 2nd hour
Wednesday, Nov. 14: U.S. Marine Corps, 3rd hour
Thursday, Nov. 15: U.S. Air Force, 3rd hour
Tuesday, Nov. 27: U.S. Army, 4th hour

Financial aid for college

A meeting Oct. 18 gave information to seniors on financial assistance for college expenses. Information packets are available in the counselors' offices. A financial aid meeting for senior parents will be held in mid-January.

Vocational aptitude

The sign-up for the Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery begins Monday, Nov. 26. Planned for Friday, Dec. 7, the test is an excellent opportunity for juniors and seniors to test their abilities and determine career fields of interest.

Engineering scholarships

Students who have excellent grade point averages and high college entrance examination scores may want to apply for scholarships in engineering fields of study. See the counselors' offices for more information.

Leader scholarships

Seniors who have shown outstanding leadership qualities and have excelled in school and community activities have a chance at leader scholarships. Financial need is not a criterion for selection.

Applicants must be planning to continue their education in an accredited post-secondary college, university or vocational school in the United States to be eligible to apply for The Jostens Foundation Leader Scholarship Program.

Scholarships must be used for the first year of full-time study.

Business scholarships

Academic performance is the major key in determining the recipients of the Michigan Business School Association Scholarships. Extra-curricular activities are used for tie-breaker purposes.

Presidential scholarships

Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, Presidential Scholarships are valued at $27,000 for a four-year undergraduate degree. The scholarship covers tuition, fees and room and board. Five students are awarded scholarships based on a competitive examination, scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 15, at EMU. To compete, seniors must have at least a 3.50 grade point average plus a 25 ACT or 1050 SAT.

More college money

The Phi Delta Kappa scholarship is for $250. Seniors should apply before Jan. 31, 1991.

About scholarship search fees

Many private scholarship search companies offer services to parents and students — for a fee. The CHS Counseling Department suggests that only a minimal amount be spent on that service.

At $10, the Western Michigan University - CASHE computerized scholarship program is one example of an inexpensive service. Forms are available at CHS counseling offices.

Guidance Corner material is provided by the Clarkston High School Counseling Department and is to appear about six times a year. Questions may be submitted to The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main St., Clarkston, MI 48346, or to William Hartwell at Clarkston High School.

Clarkston-Kiev Rotary Club getting closer

Plans are moving along for a Rotary International Club in Kiev, Ukraine — with help from the Clarkston Rotary Club.

"We have made the contacts," said David Katz, who co-chairs the Soviet-Clarkston club connection with Lou Hewko.

"It's a very involved process," said Katz, explaining that to sponsor a new club in that part of the world, they must first get approval from Rotary International offices in Zurich, Switzerland, and Helsinki, Finland. They must then find 20 likely candidates in Kiev.

Plus the club must be monitored, directed and managed, which would require close contact between the Clarkston club and the Kiev club.

"We're in the letter-writing stage right now," said Katz, who added that a few members of the Clarkston club plan to visit Kiev next year to get things rolling.

3 runners experience running with the best

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Jim Haviland ran his best race ever at the right time, earning the title all-stater at the Class A state cross-country championships last Saturday.

"It was the best race of my life," said the senior, climaxing his third year at the varsity level for Clarkston.

Haviland completed his run at the University of Michigan Golf Course in Ann Arbor at 16:40.8. He finished 10th in the individual race and 25th overall (Ninety-seven runners ran in an individual race and another 189 runners ran in a team race). After combining the times of both the team and individual races, the top 25 finishers earned all-state status.

Clarkston senior Todd Wozniak finished a strong 32nd in the individual race with a 17:09.

Angie Brown was the only Wolf girl who qualified for state, placing 74th in the individual race at 22:27.8. Brown, however, is only a freshman and plans on being back at state for three more years.

All three Clarkston runners valued the experience at the state finals.

"It was extraordinary, a great experience," said Haviland. "I never expected to make it this far."

"It was a chance to support our school," said Wozniak.

Brown, who won the Greater Oakland Activities League meet a few weeks ago, added, "I got nervous my first mile. But it felt good running with the top people in the state. Now I know what it will be like (next time at state)."

Brown, who runs sprints during the track season, said she decided to go out for cross-country this fall to "tone my muscles for track."

Wozniak and Haviland half-kiddingly told Brown she may end up running some long distance for the Wolves this spring.

Ann Arbor Pioneer won the boys' team state championship. Three teams that Clarkston faced in its regional (there are nine regionals) finished in the top five places at state: Walled Lake Western (2nd), Milford (3rd) and Lakeland (5th).

Birmingham Brother Rice senior John Cowan finished first for the second time in his high school career, completing his run at 15:39.

Pontiac Northern's Dionne Finney

TODD Wozniak (left), Angie Brown and Jim Haviland all ran in last week's Class A state finals at Ann Arbor after qualifying in a regional. Haviland finished 25th overall to become an all-stater.

was the only other GOAL runner to make all-state besides Haviland, finishing fifth in the individual race at 16:28.7.

Holly won the girls' team state championship.

Some Wolf runners might soon be trying to qualify in some out-of-state meets. Top runners in a meet this Sunday at Ann Arbor will qualify runners from Michigan in a future Ohio meet. After Thanksgiving, top finishers in a Wisconsin meet will qualify runners for a national meet in California.

Clarkston Team Awards

Senior Paul Brisson was chosen for the Coaches' Award and received a plaque for his three years of varsity competition.

Haviland also received a three-year plaque and was named the team's most valuable player.

Seniors Steve Tungate and Wozniak received silver certificates for earning their second varsity letters.

Senior Jacob Kniss was selected as most improved player and received his first varsity letter. Junior Duane Poole and sophomore Brad Patterson also received their first varsity letters.

Earning junior varsity letters were underclassmen Bruce Avenall, Erik Carlson, Mark Deevey, Gordie McGeogh, Ryan Poquette, Vince Tortonesi, Greg Treder and Eric Will.

Brown was chosen as the most valuable player on the girls' team. Senior Amy Rayner, who spent last year in Norway as an exchange student, was selected as the most improved player.

Senior Stacey Secatch and freshmen Melissa Mutter and Kristie McGee also earned varsity letters.

Freshman Sara Klopfer, who missed most of the season because of an illness, received a certificate.

Clarkston hosts tough Lapeer East in district opener

CLASS A District Girls Basketball
(All games at Clarkston High School)

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston is thinking it drew the toughest team in the tournament, and Lapeer East might be thinking the same thing.

The Wolves, 14-4, will play Lapeer East, 17-1, 8:30 p.m. Monday, Nov. 12, in the opening round of the Class A girls district basketball tournament at the Clarkston gym. The game will follow a key match-up between Grand Blanc and Lapeer West at 7 p.m.

"You've got to play them sometime," said Clarkston coach Larry Mahrle about the tough Lapeer East squad. Last year, the Wolves were upset by Lapeer

West in the districts.

"They (Lapeer East) like to press. They're small and quick, quite a bit like Rochester Adams," said Mahrle. "They have a couple of very good guards."

Those two guards the Wolves will be trying to stop are Jennifer Fox and Kristen McCormick.

The Grand Blanc-Lapeer West winner will play Holly Wednesday, Nov. 14, at 7 p.m., followed by an 8:30 p.m. game featuring the Clarkston-Lapeer East winner against Lake Orion.

The championship game will be Friday, Nov. 16, at 7 p.m.

Admission for the tournament games is $3.

Former Wolf gets lift from body building

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

John Luvera is one of those guys you wouldn't recognize at a high school reunion.

Most of the Class of '86 from Clarkston High School would probably have a difficult time figuring out Luvera because he has changed his figure.

When Luvera graduated from high school, he stood 5-feet, 8-inches tall and weighed 140 pounds. Now, he is the same height but has added muscles to muscles and weighs 215.

His new body helped him to place third in the light-heavyweight division of the Michigan Great Lakes Open Body Building Championships Sept. 29 at the Redford Theater. He competed against body builders from Ohio and California in the regional event.

Luvera's goal is to train hard for next fall, win the Great Lakes Open and enter the junior national championship.

The first time Luvera competed was in 1988 at the Mr. Detroit competition at Wayne State University. His team took third out of 14 teams.

Luvera has also recently been a guess poser at the Mr. 10 event at Central Michigan University, where he is studying sports medicine and nutrition.

Luvera said posing on stage has helped his self-confidence.

"I enjoy being up there. I can say, 'Look what I've done in a year,'" said Luvera.

And because of the hours and hours of training, Luvera says, "After I go through something like that, I feel that there's not anything I couldn't do."

Luvera said the routine of training has also helped him in the classroom.

"Weight training budgets my time, so I do better in school," said Luvera.

During weeks before an event, Luvera will spend about six hours a day in weight training. During the off-season, he spends about three hours a day.

His training isn't entirely focused on muscle building. Much of it is aerobic, riding an exercise bike or climbing a stairway.

Luvera said his biggest asset as a body builder is his symmetry.

"I don't have a bad part," said Luvera.

Body builders are judged on symmetry, size, leanness ("ripped") and posing. Luvera said he would also add "politics" when it comes to final judging.

Even with his added bulk, Luvera said he is quite flexible athletically. He runs 40 yards in 4.6 seconds and can do the spits.

Diet has been important to the development of his body. He doesn't eat red meat and his diet consists of 80 percent carbohydrates, 15 percent proteins and only five percent fat.

Luvera admitted that he has "experimented" with steroids, but says he has been "clean" for the last two years. He also points out that body builders are randomly tested during competition.

When he isn't working out at the Powerhouse gym in Mount Pleasant by himself or with his girlfriend Christine Stellon, who is also a body builder, Luvera enjoys playing intra-mural football at CMU or shooting in the mid-40's for a round of golf.

In high school, Luvera played football as a freshman and sophomore, skied as a sophomore and junior and ran track and pole vaulted for three years.

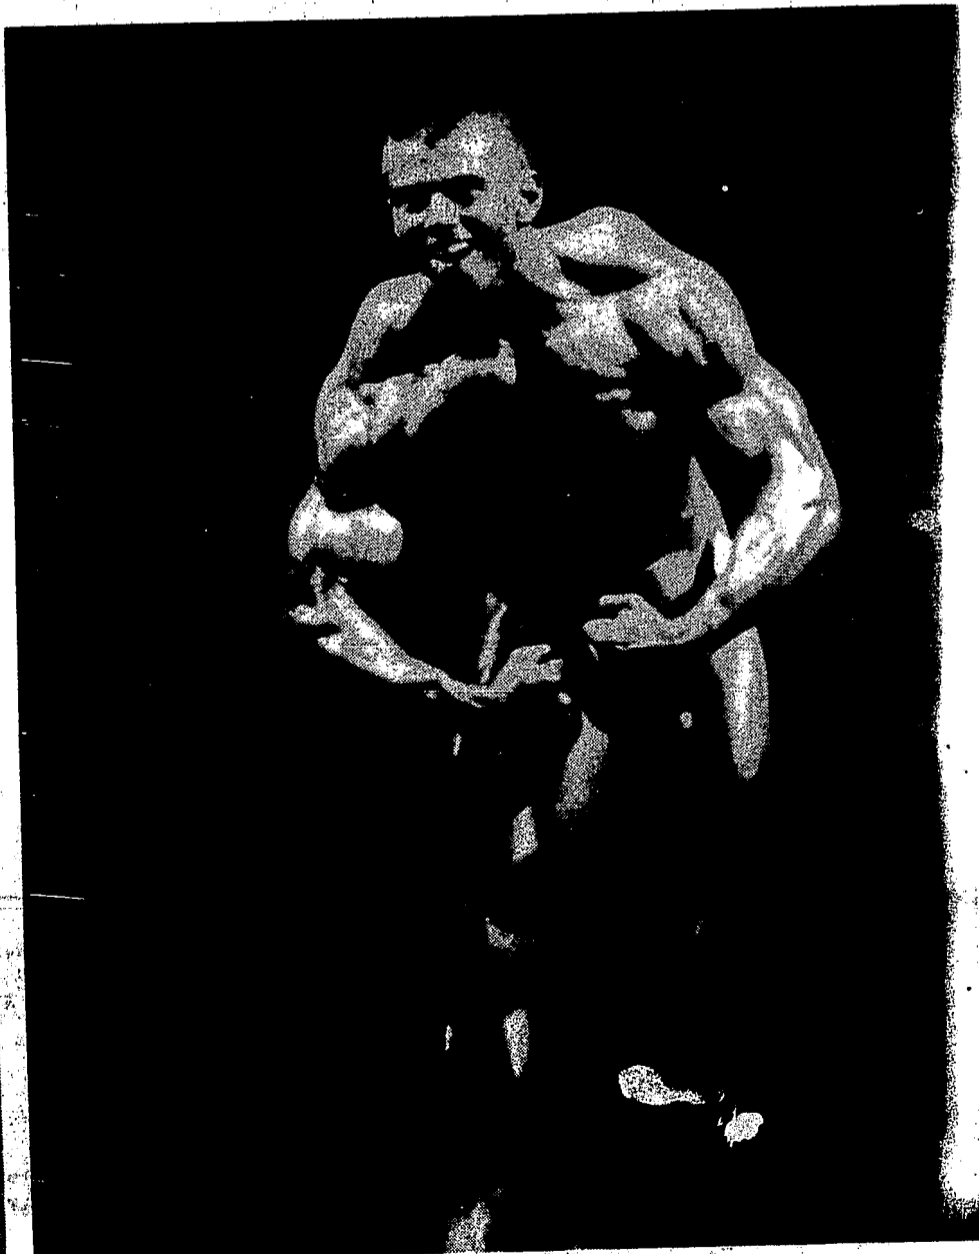

Luvera admitted that, "I'd rather lift an hour in high school than play football."

At Luvera's next high school reunion, there will be much talk about the added years since graduation. And there might be some talk about Luvera's 70 added pounds of muscle.

That's if they recognize him.

MR. OLYMPIA Lee Haney was present when John Luvera won a trophy in competition.

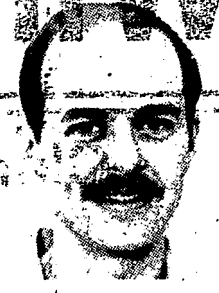

JOHN Luvera, a Clarkston graduate, flexes his muscles for judges.

PICK THE WINNING TEAM EACH WEEK

Swinging from the heels

The play's the thing

James Gibowski

All teachers aren't coaches and all coaches aren't teachers, but all teachers coach and all coaches teach.

I spent a half hour interviewing drama teacher Barb Gibson Oct. 26 because she was recently named Woman of the Year. And later that night I spent another half hour interviewing head football coach Kurt Richardson after the Wolves lost to Brighton in the season's final game.

Both Gibson and Richardson have much in common.

Besides both of them teaching at Clarkston High School, what are the similar qualities between someone in charge of students acting on stage and someone in charge of students blitzing and tackling?

Nearly everything. After all is said and done, turning a football player into a good football player and an actor into a good actor has many parallels.

Gibson's students practice their play on a stage for weeks and weeks and then perform live in front of a public audience.

Richardson's students practice their plays on a field for weeks and weeks and then perform live in front of a public audience.

Those are the obvious similarities. But much more is happening not only on Clarkston's stage and field, but in auditoriums and stadiums all over the country.

Richardson and Gibson (I could also add many other Clarkston teachers and coaches) are two examples of what's best about both education and athletics in the schools.

While interviewing them for just a half hour, it's easy to see that they not only are knowledgeable about what they are doing but also love what they are doing.

This love carries over to their students/athletes. This results in quality performances on stage and on the field. When the lights hit both the Clarkston actors and athletes, they are ready.

The wins on the field and the curtain calls on stage are the final product, but there are some other little things that are even more important, and these can be seen and heard if you look and listen a little closer.

The day I interviewed Gibson, it was her birthday. Before taking roll, students were wishing her a happy birthday. She was receiving gifts every period, including a serenade from a choral class.

Gibson has been teaching for 34 years. It's the little things that make it all worthwhile.

"The stutterm that blossoms or the shy 10th grader that goes on stage, that gives you many good feelings," said Gibson.

Gibson has been affectionately known by her Thespians since 1968 as "Ma Gibson." During some of those late hours rehearsing they probably occasionally substituted some other title for "Ma" and said it to themselves under their breath, but in the end they were ready on stage and always ready to call her "Ma."

Last spring many of her former students gathered for a reunion, an opportunity most teachers rarely get. They still called her "Ma" but they were far from being shy 10th graders.

It's easy to see that Richardson (along with his assistant coaches Tim Brennan, Don Buchanan, Steve Pearson and Gordie Richardson) feels the same way about coaching.

I went to a few practices, was on the sidelines of most games and conducted some interviews in the locker room after those games. It was easy to see that the coaches loved to coach and the players loved to play.

There was a sense of good communication between players and coaches and it resulted in a successful 6-3 season.

The last game of the season, the Wolves were eliminated from the playoffs by being edged by Brighton, 16-14. The game went down to the final seconds, making it an especially tough loss.

As I entered the locker room after the game, many of the players were crying and Richardson shared in those feelings.

The loss and not making the playoffs was tough, but the worse thing was that it was the last time that particular team would play together.

All teachers feel that way about most of their seniors during those last few days before graduation. But teachers get a chance to prepare for that loss. Coaches sometimes don't know it will happen until the last few seconds of a game.

After the loss to Brighton, Richardson said about his players in the quiet locker room, "Those kids didn't want to take their stuff off."

One last way to spend the final moments together as a team.

Richardson was talking about more than wins and losses when he looked back at the season and said, "There hasn't been a day you didn't enjoy being at practice with them."

The curtain goes down for the final time on all plays and a football season always comes to an end.

And sometimes, the only thing that is comforting about teaching and coaching is knowing that there will be a new shy 10th grade student in drama class the following year and a new linebacker coming up from the junior varsity the next fall.

The students who experienced those endings with Gibson and Richardson know they were lucky.

And Gibson and Richardson, year after year, know they are lucky to experience beginnings with new students.

How to enter:

For your chance to win $50 in The Clarkston News Football Contest, fill out your name, address and phone number. Then mark the teams you think will win found in the four advertisements on this page, along with writing in the total number of points in the tiebreaker

About the winner:

Four people picked 14 games correctly, but Robert Watson of Rataalee Lake Road, Independence Township, had the best tiebreaker answer to win $50 in The Clarkston News Football Contest for games Nov. 3-4.

Watson predicted 49 points would be scored in the Washington at Detroit game (79 points were scored), thus edging Harold Marsh of Orionville who predicted 48 total points. James Bradley of Orionville predicted 45 points scored, and Scott Smith of Independence Township guessed 34 total points.

Nine other entrants were close behind, picking 13 games correctly.

Clarkston News sportswriter James Gibowski picked 13 games correctly and guest picker, Sashabaw Junior High football coach Mike Stefanski, chose 11 games correctly.

Wolves hold Mott to eight field goals

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Waterford Mott was held to single digits every period while the Clarkston girls' varsity basketball team was scoring in double-figures each quarter in a 44-29 Wolf victory last Friday.

The win gave the second-place Wolves a 7-2 record in the Greater Oakland Activities League and a 14-4 mark overall. The final GOAL contest is this Friday when Clarkston travels to Brandon.

Host Mott fell to 4-5 in the GOAL and 7-11 overall.

"Mott wanted a slow-down game. But we'll gladly take a 15-point win," said Clarkston coach Larry Mahrle. "I thought we played great defense."

The Corsairs only managed to make eight field goals all night.

Mott's Jody Dorr led all scorers with 17 points, but Clarkston's Jennifer McChesney countered with 16 of her own, including two 3-pointers.

Wolf Heather Steinhelper also nailed two 3-pointers while totaling nine points, Beth Walker netted seven points, Carrie Roeser scored six, Alyson McChesney had four and Stacey Tinkis added two.

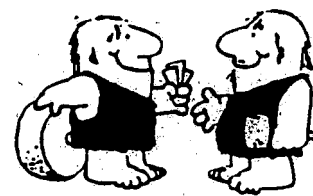

Clarkston went to the free throw line only seven times, making four. The Corsairs sank 10 of 19 attempts.

Mott edged the Wolves in the JV game, 58-53.

The battle for the Board of Regents at Wayne State University went as follows: James K. Robinson - 1,885, Brenda M. Scott - 2,017, Elizabeth Hardy - 3,934, Laura Reyes Kopack - 3,784, James Kaufman - 239, Denise Kline - 148, Maureen Vermeer - 129 and Kevin Carey - 43.

Republican Frank Millard gathered 4,867 votes in the 3rd District Oakland County Commission race. Democrat John S. Marcus received 2,065 votes.

In the race for justice of the Supreme Court, the results are as follows: Clark Durant - 2,843, Charles Hahn - 432, Judy H. Hughes - 1,270, Jerry J. Kaufman - 606, Patricia J. Boyle - 3,961 and Michael F. Cavanagh - 2,751.

Running unopposed, John H. Shepherd collected 3,970 votes in an attempt to regain his seat on the 2nd District Appeals Court.

In the non-incumbent race for 2nd District Judge for the Court of Appeals, Thomas Fitzgerald received 2,704 votes, while Linda S. Hallmark garnered 2,436 votes.

Running unopposed, Kathleen Jansen earned 4,008 votes in her attempt to fill a vacancy as judge on the 2nd District Court of Appeals.

In the race for judge of the 6th Circuit Court, the results are recorded as follows: Steven N. Andrews - 3,451, Barry L. Howard - 3,176, Fred M. Mester - 3,256, Gene Schnelz - 3,377 and Robert L. Templin - 2,537.

Seeking new terms as judges of the 6th Circuit Court, the results are as follows: Thomas M. Brennan - 1,886, Rudy Nichols - 3,693, James P. Sheehy - 2,862 and Deborah Tyner - 2,537.

Running unopposed, Barry M. Grant garnered 4,110 votes for the post of judge of the Probate Court.

Gerald E. McNally received 4,875 in his attempt to regain his position as judge of the 52nd District Court.

Results of library board race were unavailable at press time.

Election results are unofficial until certified by the Oakland County Board of Canvassers.

Earth tip

Most established lawns need one inch of water a week, applied slowly to prevent runoff. Avoiding overwatering lawns can save 12 percent of a homeowner's water use during the summer, which increases as much as 30 percent, an average of over 50 gallons per week. If 100,000 lawnowners did it, five million gallons of water would be saved.

Quick carry-outs help out busy, working couples

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

With so many married couples working these days, people are looking for an alternative to late-night cooking or fast food.

The owners of Little Louie's Carry-Out had that in mind when they opened about a month ago.

Located in the White Lake Commons Center, Dixie Highway, Independence Township, Little Louie's Carry-

What's new in business

Out offers everything from salads to ribs to chicken dinners — plus quick service.

The business is co-owned and operated by Sam and Dody Savas of Independence Township. Vern and Martha Post, co-owners of Alexander's Restaurant, are also co-owners in the venture. Sam Savas and Martha Post are cousins, making this a family affair.

According to Dody Savas, the foursome were originally looking into another restaurant, but a carry-out service seemed more appealing.

"It seemed to us that carry-outs were becoming popular because it could serve people who were too busy to go home and cook, especially working women," she said. "This way, a person can call ahead and pick up a good, hot meal for himself or the family. It's a welcome change from burgers and fries."

Dody Savas said Little Louie's, named in commemoration of Martha Post's late father, has a menu unique to many carry-out establishments.

"I know there are a lot of sub and pizza shops," Dody

LITTLE Louie's, the area's newest carry-out business, is truly a family affair. It's co-owned by two families and located in the White Lake Commons Center. Pictured (from said, "but I don't know of many places, like ours, who serve pasta, ribs and spinach pies."

She added that many of the items' recipes were handed down several generations.

Her husband, Sam Savas, said the average order takes about 10 minutes to serve. Besides speedy service, quality meals are important to the couple.

"Our goal is to give people a decent meal at a fair price," said Sam.

"We've already got a lot of positive input back on our food," Dody Savas added. "One gentleman went as far as telling us that our ribs are the best he's ever had."

Little Louie's is open seven days a week. Its hours are 10:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 10:30 a.m. to 11 p.m. on Saturday and noon to 9 p.m. on Sunday.

Talented teen vocalist headed for Europe tour

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Kelly Biegan is a musician of all trades. While on a partial scholarship to study oboe at the Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp, Kelly, 13 was asked to submit a voice tape.

The voice tape was selected to qualify her for the International Exchange Choral Ensemble (IECE), a group of young musicians who will travel Europe for a month next spring.

Oboe and voice are not Kelly's only talents. The Sashabaw Junior High School honor student plays piano, acts and belongs to a mime group, as well.

In fact, the oboe was the last thing Kelly wanted to play.

"I didn't really like the oboe when I first started," Kelly explains.

The flute was her first choice, she relates, but she chose the oboe after a music teacher told her there were thousands of people who played the flute.

Kelly was awarded the partial scholarship after her mom revealed to her music teachers that she was thinking about quitting. The teachers wanted her to "learn how beautiful the oboe is," which she has done, Kelly says.

For the IECE audition tape, Kelly was required to sing "My Country 'Tis of Thee," a difficult song, according to Kelly.

"You have to get it perfect," she says. "After trying it about 15 times, I said 'OK, just make the song, and send it in.'"

Preparing for the trip may prove to be even more difficult than being selected for it.

Kelly is now attempting to raise about $3,000 to pay for expenses and is seeking private or group donations.

As for the length of the trip, Kelly says she has no reservations.

"I'm not nervous," she says. "I know I'll have fun."

TO BE CHOSEN as part of the International Exchange Choral Ensemble, Kelly Biegan was required to prove her vocal talent. She must now test her fund-raising ability by coming up with the $3,000 required to pay for expenses incurred on the one-month trip throughout Europe.

Holiday poinsettias help raise money

Place your orders now for full, colorful poinsettia plants.

Orders will be taken until Wednesday, Nov. 28, by members of the Clarkston Community Women's Club, which uses the sale as a fund-raiser.

The club annually contributes to the Independence Township Library, the Clarkston Area Youth Assistance, the Clarkston Junior Miss Young Woman of the Year contest, food for needy families and other community causes.

The red, pink and white poinsettias range in price from $10 to $20 and will be delivered Dec. 1. Orders may be placed with any club member, or place the order by calling: Diana Gahrs, 625-3769; Barb Richards, 625-3117; or Judy O'Here, 625-0837.

The club meets the third Thursday of each month at 7:30 p.m. at the Church of the Resurrection, Clarkston Road, Independence Township.

Reporter's Notebook

Oakland County Sheriff's Detective Dave Scott said that Devil's Night was pleasantly uneventful in Independence Township this year.

As far as Scott knew, the only memorable incidents included the "toiletpapering" of a couple of area officers' homes and an unlucky foursome of teens who should've looked before they leaped.

According to Scott, four teens were cruising the area looking to cause some mayhem. They were armed with a paint pellet pistol and decided to fire at the first passing car. However, their first victim happened to be a patrolling squad car.

The teens were pulled over and cited for disorderly conduct. The pellet pistol was confiscated by the officers and the teens were sent home.

Items for Reporter's Notebook are compiled by Clarkston News staff members.

Pupils wowed by laser

Children at Bailey Lake Elementary School got a treat last Friday when they saw a laser light show in their auditorium.

The Laser Dynamics show, presented by Laser Theatrics of Spokane, Wash., consisted of an explanation of lasers and then a spectacular show.

The Bailey Lake Elementary School Parent Teacher Association footed the $420 bill for the show Nov. 2.

Music scholarships available

Music scholarships are available to high school seniors who are accepted as music majors to a college. Students must currently be enrolled in college with a music major or minor and must be citizens of the United States.

Auditions will be held at Central United Methodist Church on Friday, Dec. 28.

Applications are limited to vocal and instrumental categories. Three compositions of standard repertory must be memorized to include on each from the classical, romantic and modern periods.

The age limit for applicants is 16 to 25.

Residency in the greater Pontiac area is required, which includes Waterford Township, Auburn Hills, Clarkston, Orchard Lake, Union Lake, Walled Lake and West Bloomfield.

For more information, call 673-2611 or 334-2858. Applications will not be accepted after Dec. 2.

Woman of the Year doubles as teacher of drama.

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Barb Gibson has recently been named Woman of the Year, but she is just as thrilled to get called "Ma Gibson" day after day by her students.

Gibson, a Clarkston High School drama teacher, was one of seven Clarkston/Waterford area women nominated for the award, which is given out annually by the Business and Professional Women's organization. Some of the award's criteria include leadership, the ability to get along with people and family life.

"I was very surprised and delighted to be nominated with such a wonderful group of nominees," said Gibson, who received a plaque and a pin for the honor.

Gibson has been teaching for 34 years, with the last 24 of those being at Clarkston.

Some of her drama students first began affectionately calling her "Ma Gibson" in 1968, and the title stuck.

While rehearsing for plays, Gibson is all-business and may act more like "Boss Gibson."

"You have to have leadership in order to do theater. You have to be organized," said Gibson.

But once the curtain is closed, she always has time to listen to a student as "Ma."

Seventy-five of her former students had the chance to call her "Ma" again last spring during a reunion for her and the grown-up thespians.

She has had thoughts about retiring, but they were never serious. She still enjoys her contact with students.

"I like working with students in the arts. They're very sensitive, imaginative and outgoing," said Gibson.

She grew up in a family that lived for the arts. Her mother and father established the Lansing Civic Players.

Along with education and the arts, Gibson also has a love of sports. Her three children reflect the same loves of their mother.

Her daughter Jackie, 39, works with computers and has been president of the Waterford PTA. Christine, 38, teaches pre-school. Kirk, 33, plays major league baseball for the Los Angeles Dodgers. All three of her children excelled in sports at Waterford Kettering High School.

She has eight grandchildren, including two grandsons who swim and a granddaughter who dances.

Another way she affects children is working with her favorite charity, the 65 Roses Club, which helps children with cystic fibrosis.

When her son Kirk was single and playing for the Detroit Tigers, she would join the Tigers' wives in charity projects to help fight cystic fibrosis. When Kirk went to Los Angeles to play for the Dodgers, he continued to work for the cystic fibrosis cause.

Gibson also occasionally spends time with community theater. Currently, she is working on an upcoming Christmas play with the Clarkston United Methodist Church.

Gibson's advice to others is "be yourself, find things to get involved with to help other people. What you give, you get back tenfold."

Spoken like a Woman of the Year and someone you could easily call "Ma."

BARB Gibson not only devotes her time to teaching Clarkston High School students, she also helps out in the 65 Roses campaign to find the cure for cystic fibrosis.

Young Woman of Year contest honors 17 teens

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Seventeen Independence Township high school seniors took home a portion of $4,450 and some wonderful memories after the Young Women of the Year Program at Clarkston High School Nov. 3.

The contest, formerly the Junior Miss Program, judges high school seniors in areas of youth fitness, creative and performing arts, poise, scholastic achievement and a judges' interview.

The winner of the local contest, 17-year-old Rory Roberts of Whipple Lake Road, Independence Township, now advances to the Jan. 26 state contest in Marshall.

Rory earned a total of $1,875 in the contest by winning the overall contest, the final talent award for her tap-dance rendition of Yankee Doodle Dandee, and the spirit award.

First runner-up was Robin Link, who took home $800.

The three finalists in the contest were Jennifer Graham, Christi Oppmann and Michelle Huber, each of whom earned $300. A portion of the finalist awards were donated by the Clarkston Jaycees.

Britt Ried was the scholastic achievement winner, a title earning her $150 donated by the Clarkston Rotary Club.

Sara Veltigian was chosen the winner of the poise division for $175.

The preliminary winner of the physical fitness award, sponsored by the American Legion and worth $75, was Angela Oemig. The final physical fitness award went to Tina Sutherland for $175.

Sara Veltigian won the preliminary talent category, earning $75; while Rory Roberts won the final talent contest for $175. The talent contest was funded through contributions by the Clarkston Rotary Club.

The chairman's award went to Sara Veltigian. Rory Roberts took top honors in the spirit award, donated by the Clarkston Women's Club, for $200.

The judges' award went to Nicole Jones for $50. Most of the cash awards for the contest were donated by individuals, parents and businesses in the area. A portion was also earned from ads in the contest program.

JEWELS of the Nile contestants in this year's Young Woman of the Year contest include Cheryl Stumpf, Nichole Jones, Christi Oppmann, Tina Sutherland, Heather Coxen, Jennifer Graham, Britt Ried, Rory Roberts, Robin Link, Angela Oemig, Bethany King, Michelle Huber, Carrie Monroe, Sara Veltigian, Kathleen Manser, Heidi Parrott and Kimberly Kurz.

The Other Side of Things

My mom was the 99th caller

Ashley Ball

I was sitting on my bed doing algebra homework and listening to the FOX when I heard my dad call from downstairs in a stern voice.

Flipping off the radio, I rolled off my bed into a soft pile of clothes that had accumulated over several days.

"Yes, dad!" I called back politely, hoping to soften the impact of whatever was troubling him.

Downstairs.

"Ashley," my dad began in his no-nonsense bill-paying tone. "Do you know anything about these long-distance phone calls?" he asked, running his finger down the phone bill.

I examined the numbers ... they were all the same. I hummmmmmed thoughtfully ... "298-6900. Oh ... that's the FOX's phone number ... you know, 99.5 ... the best variety ..."

"What I want to know," my dad broke in, "is why it appears 47 times for a total of $32.57."

Ski swap set

Whether you have an old pair of unused skis or are looking for a bargain, the Pine Knob Ski Swap may offer the opportunity you're looking for.

The Pine Knob Ski Patrol is coordinating a ski swap 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 10.

Ski equipment to be sold can be dropped off 4-9 p.m. Friday, Nov. 9. Equipment that is not sold can be picked up 6-9 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 10.

Participants have a chance to win season passes and money. Proceeds will be used by the ski patrol to buy first aid equipment.

For more information, call 625-0800.

"Oh, that," I stammered, examining the bill more closely now, trying to appear more worried and business-like.

"Well, let's see," I mumbled. "Some of these were request calls and, oh, yes ... this was the day I was the 97th caller ..." I explained. "Do you know what would have happened if I were the 99th caller?"

"Your phone calls might have reached an even $40?" my dad asked through pinched lips.

"No, it was the heavy metal call in," I explained. "If you're the 99th caller, and you turn on an electrical appliance over the phone, you win tickets to M C Hammer. I was going to turn on my curling iron!"

"I'd like," my dad said, "for you to write 100 times: 'I will not make long distance calls without permission.'"

"Why don't you and dad ever give me grown-up punishments?" I asked my mom the next morning at breakfast when I turned in my sentences on the kitchen cabinet and switched the kitchen radio to the FOX.

"You mean like 40 lashes?" my mom asked, switching the radio back to 93.1.

"Like ..." I explained, "some of my friends get grounded from driving the car for a week as punishment."

"But," she said, without looking up from pouring pancake batter onto the Jenn Air griddle, "you don't drive yet."

"Mom," I pleaded, "you know what I mean. You and dad started this sentence-writing stuff when I was just learning how to write sentences. I write paragraphs now ... I write a column in the newspaper ... but I still write sentences for punishment!"

The next month, my dad quizzed me about calls to the Fox totaling $4.50. Fewer calls than last month, but not an improvement he was joyous about.

I wrote another 100 sentences. The next morning at breakfast, I laid the sentences on the kitchen counter, then switched the radio to the FOX. Just as my mom reached out to switch the station back to something older and goldier, Bette Midler began singing her new song about: "God Is Watching You."

"Oh, how nice," my mother said in amazement, taking her hand away from the dial, "they're finally playing something religious on your station. I should call in and compliment them — what's that number?"

"298-6900," I answered enviously.

She dialed and waited and said "Hello," ... and then it happened. Suddenly she whispered to me to plug in the curling iron and hand it to her. "The DJ said something about a Heavy Metal Call In," she whispered with her hand over the phone. "And if I turn on a small appliance over the phone, I'll win tickets to see M C Hammer."

"You're the 99th caller!" I gasped.

Life's just not fair.

THESE animals can be adopted from the Michigan Humane Society. In Springfield Township, a homeowner needs four acres for the first animal and an additional acre for each additional animal. In Independence Township a homeowner needs three acres for the first animal and one acre for each additional animal. For more information call the Michigan Humane Society 852-7420.

Pigs, bulls and more

Pet lovers can adopt all sorts of animals, even livestock, from the Michigan Humane Society, but the adopted animals must remain as pets.

Samantha Ziegenmeyer, wildlife consultant for the Michigan Humane Society, said that before the livestock are adopted, they must be sterilized.

Applicants for all adoptions are carefully screened before taking the animals home, and in the case of the livestock, shelter workers make certain the animals are adopted as pets and not slaughtered, said Ziegenmeyer.

"This might be good for someone who is looking to raise kids in a farm setting," she said.

Adoptees will need the correct amount of acreage and shelter before taking the livestock.

Recently, a pig was abandoned, and a bull was surrendered at the Canadian border because the owners were from Texas and didn't have the proper documents to take the animal into another country.

Animals may be seen at the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Road, Auburn Hills, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Three couples have golden anniversary

Two Clarkston-area cousins discovered that their parents and another couple in the family each celebrated 50th wedding anniversaries this year.

Lisa Vetraino of Sundale, Independence Township, planned a surprise anniversary party for 80 people Oct. 6 for her parents, Devere and Lorna Lawrence of Union Lake.

She had help from her husband, Ralph, and her children, Matthew, 10, and Anthony, 5.

Her parents were first married Oct. 10, 1940, at the Methodist Parsonage, Bowling Green, Ohio.

Lorna's first cousin, Ardean and his wife, Gladys Ryden of Union Lake also celebrated a 50th anniversary this year. The Rydens were married Nov. 21, 1940, in Napoleon, Ohio. Their children include Deanna of Clarkston, Vicki of Ohio, Kathy of Waterford and Chris of Texas.

The third anniversary pair, LaVon and Gunvor Ryden of Goodrich, are cousins (through LaVon) with Lorna and Ardean.

LaVon and Gunvor Ryden's children gave them a party June 24 in Warwick Hills, Grand Blanc. The Rydens were married June 22, 1940, in Pontiac.

Their children include Linda Lamphere of Laurelton, Independence Township; Alan Ryden of Goodrich, Greg Ryden of Waterford, Dennis Ryden of Arizona and Mark Ryden of Pontiac.

Linda helped organize the party for her parents, which brought guests from all over, including one of her mother's bridesmaids who came up from Florida for the occasion. Other bridesmaids present included Gunvor's sister and a cousin.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil B. Bell.

Celebrating 50 years

Cecil B. and Lois C. Bell celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Oct. 6 with 160 family and friends and a dinner dance at the Kingsley Inn, Bloomfield Hills.

The Bells, originally from Sault Ste. Marie, were married Oct. 8, 1940, at Emil Lutheran Church, Sault Ste. Marie.

Now of Clarkston, the couple enjoyed the celebration, which brought visitors from Chicago, Connecticut; Washington, D.C.; Florida; Netherlands; and all parts of Michigan.

Organizers of the celebration were the Bells' daughters: Carol (and husband, Marv) Barnhart of Clarkston, and Marilyn (and husband, David) Smith of Clarkston.

The Bells also have two granddaughters: Venessa and Leslie Smith.

Huff and Clem united in marriage

Holli H. Huff of Grand Rapids and Michael S. Clem of Kalamazoo were united in marriage July 28, 1990, at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Cheboygan. The Rev. John R. Green performed the ceremony.

The bride is a 1985 graduate of Cheboygan Area High School and a 1989 graduate of Ferris State University, Big Rapids. She is an instructor at the Allegan County Area Vocational Technical Center. She is the daughter of Lon and Beth Lee Huff of Grand Rapids.

The bridegroom is a 1983 graduate of Clarkston High School and a 1987 graduate of Ferris State University. He is an automotive planner at Nippondenso Manufacturing U.S.A., Inc. He is the son of Lawrence and Betty Clem of Clarkston.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and she wore her mother's wedding dress made of crystal white dulcette satin. It featured a dramatic off-the-shoulder neckline dropping to a deep v-shaped back. Her headpiece featured a chapel-length veil and pearls around the head, coming to a soft point at the forehead.

Maid of honor was Kristin Jasper of Traverse City. She wore a dark emerald green, off-the-shoulder gown with a high-low hemline.

Wearing the same apparel were the matron of honor, Shawna Hancock of Cheboygan, and bridesmaid, Cassandra Maxwell of Cheboygan.

Flower girl was Abbi Neelis of Cheboygan, and ring bearer was Devin Fuller of Clarkston.

Best man was Brian Clem of Clarkston, brother of the groom. Other attendants were Bradley Huff of Cheboygan, brother of the bride; and Jeffery Dean of Clarkston. Ushers were Bob Fuller of Clarkston and Andy Gilliland of Cheboygan.

Newlyweds: Mr. and Mrs. Michael S. Clem.

After the wedding, a reception for 220 guests was held at Audies in Mackinaw City.

The couple took a wedding trip to Orlando, Fla., and now reside in Kalamazoo.

New arrivals

It's a girl for David and Donna Niezgoda of Chickadee Lane, Independence Township.

Mary Elizabeth Ann Niezgoda was born Oct. 22, 1990, at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac. She weighed 7 pounds, 11 1/2 ounces, and measured 20 inches long.

She has a stepsister, Denise Niezgoda, 20, and a stepbrother, Matthew Niezgoda, 21. They live in Lockport, N.Y.

Grandparents are Charles and Elizabeth Diering of St. Louis, Mo., and Stanley Niezgoda of Lockport, N.Y.

It's a girl for Randy and Julie (Kidd) Blaylock of Westland.

Mallorie Margaret Blaylock was born Oct. 20, 1990, at the University of Michigan Hospital, Ann Arbor. She weighed 7 pounds, 2 ounces, and measured 20 inches long.

Grandparents are Keith and Irene Roettger of Waldon Road, Clarkston, and Richard and Peggy Blaylock of Canton.

Great-grandparents are Clifford and Deliah Bentley of Waterford and Mrs. Blaylock of Canton.

It's a boy for Colleen and Paul Zuker of Clinton Road, Clarkston.

Patrick Joseph Zuker was born June 21, 1990, at Crittenton, Rochester. He weighed 6 pounds, 9 ounces, and measured 20 inches long.

His proud brothers are Jason, 4, and Andrew, 2. Godparents are Andrea and Dave Hopper and Mary Jo Murphy.

Club notes

LeRoy Puckett of the Clarkston area attended the American Legion's 1990 State Fall Conference in Belaire Oct. 26-28, setting programs for the state's largest veterans organization and participating in training sessions for members holding officer positions.

Puckett, a veteran of U.S. Navy service during the Korean War, is an elected member of Michigan's American Legion State Executive Committee. As such, Puckett is responsible for the organization's 18th District, which includes all Posts in Oakland County with a total District membership near 5,000 veterans.

Puckett, a member of American Legion Post 377 in Clarkston, is a 23-year member of The American Legion, which began in Paris, France, in 1919.

Honors

Principal Robert Burek announced the students of the month at Clarkston High School at a special luncheon held recently at Alexander's Restaurant.

Included in the group were: Renny Abraham, son of Abraham and Alisyamma Abraham of Sashabaw Road, Independence Township; Stephanie Bokor, daughter of John and Dorla Bokor of Waumegah, Independence Township; Jeremy Hanson, son of Henry and Karen Hanson of Bigelow, Springfield Township; Amanda Larkin, daughter of Patricia Larkin of Snowapple, Independence Township; Sandra Lindberg, daughter of Richard and Vera Ross of Davisburg Road, Springfield Township; Tom Morris, son of Patricia and Richard Lindberg of Sashabaw Road, Independence Township; and Ryan Poquette, son of David Poquette of Clarkston Road, Independence Township.

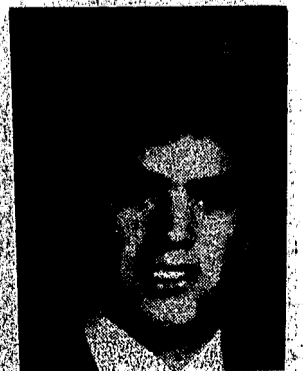

At college

Dana Litherland, an Oakland University, Rochester, communication student from the Clarkston area, is spending the fall semester as a co-op student with Blue Care Network.

Co-op is an academic program primarily for juniors and seniors in which students gain paid work experience in their major fields.

Thomas A. Carter and Renee M. Cummings of the Clarkston area are among the 26 new members admitted to Eta Xi, the University of Michigan-Flint chapter of the national accounting fraternity Beta Alpha Psi.

Keith Turner of Independence Township is one of more than 800 freshman studying at Boston University's College of Basic Studies. Turner, a 1990 graduate of Clarkston High School, is the son of Ronald and Susan Turner.

Orange, grapefruit sale

It's time to buy grapefruit and oranges from the Clarkston Band Boosters again. The 10th annual fruit sale helps raise funds for the bands in the Clarkston school district.

The sale was set for Nov. 2-16. Fruit can be purchased from any member of the band. A case of fruit costs $18, and a half case costs $11.

Karen Vasold, chairperson of the fruit sale, said the funds help defray costs from various expenses incurred by the band program. Some of the funds previously have been used to buy sheet-music, flags for the color guard, trophies presented at invitational and trips for the marching band.

Auction coming up

A fur fashion show is the new feature of the 10th Annual Holiday Auction planned for Sunday, Nov. 18.

Sponsored by the Inde-spring Charter Chapter of the American Business Women's Association, the auction is set for 2 p.m. at Heather Highlands Golf Club, 11450 E. Holly Road, Springfield Township. Items will be available for viewing 1-2 p.m.

Paul Hickmott of Hickmott Sales and Services of Oxford will be the auctioneer, while Burtrum Furs of Flint is providing the furs.

Cost is $10 which includes a soup and salad luncheon with homemade desserts.

Membership in ABWA is open to all working women. For more information contact Mary at 627-2551.

Reunion

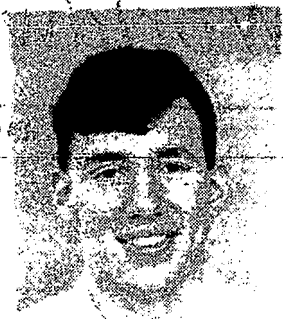

The Waterford Township High School Class of 1975 is holding a 15-year class reunion on Dec. 29 from 6 p.m. to 1 a.m. at Mitch's II, 6665 Highland Road, Waterford Township.

Tickets are $22.50 and will be sold in advance only. For more information, contact Brenda Wagner (Stark-wether) 634-0773 or Sheree McKee (Brauer) at 628-6781.

... My Way

Mini metropolis

Matthew Sailor

Hello. Please allow me to introduce myself — I'm Matthew Sailor. I'm a senior at Clarkston High School, and I've lived in the Clarkston area all my life.

It's a great place to be a kid, but at the risk of sounding prematurely old it's changed a lot since I was a little kid. In fact I hear we may be becoming a city. I don't know about you, but personally I think we'll make a really good one. The strip malls and other various overdevelopments have done a real nice job of starting to clean out that backwards country charm.

Our schools show the potential to become excellent city schools. Our debt isn't that big now, but with a little work I'm sure we can be playing with the big boys before too long.

We have to look on the bright side. We've got ourselves a healthy little drug trade, and we're reaching a respectable crime level. A gun was found at Sashabaw Junior High, and a student set fire at the high school last year — that'll put us in the running with the larger metropolises.

Walking through Depot Park yesterday I saw some publicity for the school's first gang, CVD, the Clarkston Vampire Disciples. Granted they're small and can't spell very well, but it's a step in the right direction.

You've probably noticed another one of the elements that's going to make Clarkston a great city — traffic backups. It's tons of fun driving on Sashabaw or M-15 in the afternoon when there's an almost solid line of cars. I rather enjoy the time I get for myself waiting to make turns. The instances of constant road construction at inconvenient places is showing a favorable rise, too. On a good day, I bet we could take downtown Birmingham.

One area we fall drastically short in, however, is pollution. The people who drive on Sashabaw and various other roads are making a valiant effort, but unfortunately we're still falling way short. Maybe we could have a fundraiser and buy some smog or invite some large corporation to come and poison our ground water, but as it stands now we're nothing when it comes to pollution.

After we get these major rough spots smoothed out we can work on the finishing touches. We can build some adult movie theaters, some pawn shops and some houses for loan sharks. I'm sure that if we pull together as a community we can build something as beautiful and noble as Detroit.

I'm really glad that I live near the Village of Clarkston, and I hope that people will be able to say the same thing about the City of Clarkston.

(Matthew Sailor is a senior at Clarkston High School. His column will appear twice a month.)

We can help you look good.

If you're near age 40, you may be wearing bifocals already or need some near reading vision correction.

You might think bifocals are the only answer. But they're not.

There's a natural vision lens called Varilux that has a smooth change of focus across the entire lens. The bifocal line is eliminated.

And for simply coming in for a demonstration of Varilux, we'll give you a free copy of the Eyewear Beauty Guide. It will help you choose the right frame for your face.

Varilux and the Eyewear Beauty Guide — a combination that helps you see well and look good.

Worldwide, they take a shine to jewelry shop

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Beyond a huge, 150-gallon fresh-water fish tank sit several large cases holding the creations of Walter Cole Jr.

Cole, a goldsmith, recently moved his Michigan Jewelers, Ltd., to its new location in White Lake Commons, 7095 Dixie Highway, Independence Township. The cases hold hundreds of glittering bracelets, necklaces and rings in a variety of unique stylings, but it's the sports jewelry for which Cole has become known around the globe.

Cole proudly displays the trinkets, occupying a special case all their own. The custom-made 14-karat gold pieces represent 26 sports, from billiards to bass-fishing to baseball.

Though the sports jewelry business started simply enough, it has quickly spread across the nation, Cole explains.

"It came as a result of people saying 'Walter, my hobby is golf. Can you make this for me?'" Cole says. "I was doing 'onesie' here and 'twosie' there.

"I decided to see if there really was a market for this thing," he adds. "I started four years ago, and I now have 28 sales agents across North America. I delivered my first shipment to the Orient."

Cole's customers often see his work in pro shop display cases or in various sports publications. He also crafts specific logos for clubs or companies.

An "800" telephone number has been established at the Dixie Highway store, and United Parcel stops daily to pick up the nationwide deliveries.

Cole moved his jewelry business from Pontiac because he "needed two-and-a-half times the space" and because he wanted to work closer to his Independence Township home.

WALTER Cole Jr. and his wife, Kathi, moved Michigan Jewelers, Ltd., from Pontiac to be closer to home and to accommodate the growth of their business. Cole's custom-made sports jewelry is sold around the world. The White Lake Commons business on Dixie Highway, Independence Township, is a full-service jewelry store.

What's New in Business

A former college football player for the University of Miami and a recipient of a master's degree from Harvard University, Cole formerly owned a business in Southfield.

After retiring, Cole returned to the craft he had known all his life. His father was in the jewelry business and consequently, Cole, himself, kept a foot in it, he explains. He went back to school to study diamonds and jewelry and is now an alumnus of the Gemological Institute of America.

His wife, Kathi, works with him, as do his daughter, Beth, and his wife's cousin.

Michigan Jeweler's is a full-service jewelry store, which includes repairs, insurance appraisals and regular check-ups that are part of purchasing jewelry at the store. Cole also crafts customized jewelry.

Women managers advance, earn less than men

American women are reaching for the top in many fields of endeavor. Perhaps the most striking advances have been in the managerial field.

However, while the number of women in management, executive and administrative positions has grown from 2.5 million a decade ago to 5.9 million in 1989, women still haven't gained parity with men professionally or economically, according to the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Women managers who worked full time in 1988 had average earnings of $23,356. Male managers' average earnings were $36,759.

Although women executives have nudged open the form the basis for further Women's Bureau and Labor Department action.

Women executives can be found principally in the services industries, finance, insurance and real estate, manufacturing and retail trade.

For example, 61 percent of managers in medicine and health are women.

Almost 50 percent of managers in personnel and labor relations are women, and 49 percent of managers in education are women.

The future looks bright for aspiring women executives. About three million more executive, administrative and managerial jobs will be created between 1988 and 2000.

Women are preparing themselves for these opportunities with more education — 31 percent of them earned master's degrees in business and management in 1986, up from four percent in 1971.

Secretary Dole has put her own philosophy to work. She presides over a department where women constitute 61 percent of managers in top level positions.

A fact sheet, "Women in Management," can be obtained free of charge from the Women's Bureau, U.S. Department of Labor, Box NU, Washington, DC, 20210.

Please enclose a self-addressed mailing label.

Women managers who worked full time in 1988 had average earnings of $23,356. Male managers' average earnings were $36,759.

board room doors, they have been unable to reach the top posts of chairperson, vice chairperson or president in many companies.

This phenomenon, known as "the glass ceiling," represents the limits women can reach at the present time. They can see through the glass ceiling, but cannot move past it.

Of 799 public companies on the Fortune 1000 list of America's largest industrial and service companies, only 19 women were listed among the 4,012 names of highest paid corporate officers and directors. Of the 19 women, only two were chief executive officers.

Labor Secretary Elizabeth Dole has undertaken a "glass ceiling initiative" to attack discrimination that bars women and minorities from the top levels of management.

Secretary Dole had called this issue "a top priority" and has asked the Department's Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs to investigate for possible patterns of discrimination.

In addition, the Women's Bureau has funded a study of career mobility of female executives in a variety of industrial, service and government organizations.

The study results are due at the end of 1990 and will

Fall weather draws eight-legged pests indoors

Halloween brought images of goblins, witches and cobwebs, but those cobwebs can become all too real as the weather cools off and fall gets into full swing.

Spiders become more active in the crisp fall weather as many of these arachnids move indoors searching for shelter from the cold. Though most species in the United States are not dangerously poisonous, having them in one's home can be quite a nuisance.

"An abundance of spiders in your home can mean they're breeding there," said Judy Donner, consumer specialist for Orkin Pest Control. "A single egg sac can hold hundreds of young spiders, and in no time at all they're spinning their webs throughout your house."

While the majority prefer a diet of insects such as mosquitoes and roaches, different species enjoy different types of living space. Some prefer moist areas and are attracted to water sources such as pipes, floor drains and air conditioning units. Others like it dry and move into upper corners of rooms, air vents, attics and even clothing.

Spiders spin webs to catch their prey, which becomes entangled and then consumed. The web can be spun almost anywhere and it is often so fine it's not noticed until it is abandoned and becomes covered with dust.

Though all spiders have poison glands, most are harmless and typically do not bite unless aggravated. However, homeowners should be cautious if they cannot identify the type of spiders in their home.

Two species, black widow and brown recluse, have a lot of venom in their glands. While their bite is seldom fatal, victims may experience fever and nausea as well as slight swelling in the bite area. Small children, elderly people and individuals with allergic reactions to the venom are much more vulnerable, and without proper medical attention they can become very ill or die.

According to Orkin, knocking down and vacuuming up the spider webs and egg sacs, screening windows, sealing cracks and keeping doors closed when possible are a few preventive steps to spider-proof a home.

"Our goal is to keep them outdoors in their environment and prevent them from invading yours," said Donner.

22,000 species of spiders worldwide

A few facts about spiders:
 ■ There are about 22,000 species of spiders worldwide.
 ■ Spiders may range in body length from as large as 3.5 inches to as small as 1/8 inch; but most indoor spiders are 1/4 inch long.
 ■ Depending on the species, a female spider may produce as few as two or as many as 3,000 eggs.
 ■ Nearly all spiders have venom glands, but almost all of the U.S. species have a venom so low in toxicity to humans that their bites usually are harmless.
 ■ Two common species of spiders bite and cause poisoning — the Southern Black Widow and the Brown Recluse.
 ■ The Southern Black Widow is widely distributed over the warmer portions of the U.S. The female has a shiny black abdomen and two reddish or yellowish triangles on its underside; the male is smaller and lighter-colored. It usually does not enter a residence and can be found around foundation slabs, shrubs, crawl spaces, trash piles, garages, sheds or gardens.

■ The Brown Recluse is found in the southern, western and midwestern states and is a particularly serious pest in Oklahoma, Missouri and surrounding states. It is yellow to dark brown with a distinctive darker brown violin-shaped mark on top of its body. It hides during the day in dark areas such as bathrooms, closets, garages, basements, bedding and in the arms and legs of folded clothing.

■ If there are a lot of spiders found in your house, it is likely they are breeding indoors.
 ■ Spiders eat live prey, which almost always consists of insects such as mosquitoes and grasshoppers.
 ■ Some spiders can go for weeks or months without food.

Business Briefs

Nursery aims for global releaf

Bordine's Better Blooms in Springfield Township is among the five nurseries that will run a special tree sale for Operation Releaf.

Sponsored by Global Releaf of Michigan, the program is designed to provide moderately-priced trees to encourage people to add trees to their neighborhoods.

Tree choices include Flowering Crabapple, Norway Maple, Green Ash, Thornless Honey Locust and Little Leaf Linden.

Trees, sold in bundles of five for $125, will be bare root and dormant, 2-year branched, 5 to 8 feet tall, and 3/4 to 1 inch in diameter. The plants may be picked up in early April 1991.

Orders received by Dec. 1 are guaranteed. Until March 1, 1991, orders are subject to tree availability. All orders must be pre-paid.

For more information, write Global Releaf of MI, Inc., P.O. Box 9043, Livonia, MI 48151. Or call 1-800-642-7353.

Attic board trustee

Roger F. Nelson of the Clarkston area, director of strategic planning and business development at GTE Valenite Corp., is one of six new trustees elected to the board of the Attic Theatre, Detroit.

"We are pleased to welcome these new members of the board," said Chairman Andrew J. Soffel. "They bring broad experience and skills to the Attic and to the cultural life of our community."

Now in its 15th season, the Attic is Detroit's leading resident professional non-profit theater company.

In addition to providing Southeastern Michigan with year-round theatrical productions and special guest artists in concert, the Attic also serves the community through educational and outreach programs for students, senior citizens and the deaf and hearing impaired.

Obituaries

Helen M. Bloe

Helen M. Bloe, 92, of Detroit died Oct. 31, 1990. She was a Catholic missionary.

She is survived by her nephews, Stephen R. Bloe and his wife, Kendra of Waterford; Frank T. Bloe and his wife, Kathleen of Cleveland, Ohio, and several other nephews and nieces.

The funeral was Nov. 3 at the Lewis E. Wint and Son TRUST 100 Funeral Home, Clarkston, with the Rev. Frank Zielinski officiating.

Burial was at Mount Hope Cemetery.

C. Richard Doyle

C. Richard Doyle, 60, of Lexington, Ky., and formerly of Clarkston, died Oct. 9.

Mr. Doyle was a former partner of Gess, Mattingly & Atchison and directed the firm's real estate section. He had been a member of the firm for 33 years.

He is survived by his wife, Noi Peers Doyle; children, Kevin Peers Doyle of Phoenix, Gregory Bennett Doyle of Lexington, Jess Colin Doyle of Lexington and Mary Megan Doyle of New York City; his mother, Virginia Bennett Doyle of Venice, Fla.; a brother, Robert Hugh Doyle of Carmel, Calif.; and a sister, Pat Doyle Inman of Oakton, Va.

Memorial services were held Oct. 14 at the First Presbyterian Church in Lexington.

Donations to underwrite a study of lawyers' fees and clients' interests may be made to the C. Richard Doyle Committee, c/o Walter W. May, 167 West Main Street, Suite 210, Lexington, KY 40507.

Donations are also suggested to the Student Exchange Program, c/o Lexington Rotary Club, P.O. Box 5363, Lexington, KY 40555.

Ricky Allan Roberts

Ricky Allan Roberts, 23, of Petoskey and formerly of Clarkston, died Oct. 28, 1990.

Mr. Roberts was an active member of First Church of God of Clarkston and Petoskey.

He is survived by his wife, Lisa; parents, Thomas and Kay Roberts of Metamora; parents-in-law, Donald and Ella Stratton of Clio; brothers and sisters, Thomas, Renn Ranney, Mary and Charlene; grandmother, Viola Roberts; and many nieces and nephews.

The funeral was Nov. 1, at the First Church of God in Clarkston with the Rev. David New officiating. Burial was at Flint Memorial Park Cemetery.

Arrangements were made by the Lewis E. Wint & Son TRUST 100 Funeral Home, Clarkston.

Memorial tributes may be made to the First Church of God in Petoskey.

Lloyd Bruce Easton

Lloyd Bruce Easton, 68, of Davisburg died Oct. 30, 1990.

Mr. Easton was retired from Numatics, Inc., and was a member of Austin Lodge #48 F. & A.M. Davisburg and Pontiac Commandery #2K.C.

He is survived by his wife, Margaret; children Timothy, Patricia and Kathleen Barker; four grandchildren; brother, Ray Easton of Florida; and sister, Esther Cornwall of Missouri.

The funeral was Nov. 2, at the Lewis E. Wint & Son TRUST 100 Funeral Home, Clarkston. Burial was at White Chapel Memorial Cemetery.

Engagements, weddings, honors and other community news may be submitted free to The Clarkston News.

Call It Courtesy

Pipeline right-of-ways are popular areas for motorcycles, snowmobiles, all-terrain vehicles and other off-road vehicles. They are also popular for skiing, horseback riding and other off-the-road activities.

You should know that the cleared lane over a pipeline belongs to the owner of the land.

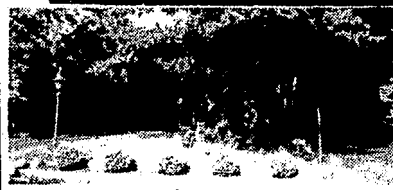

The landowner has granted an easement permitting the line to be built and maintained, but the strip remains private property. Persons wishing to use pipeline right-of-ways must first obtain the landowner's permission.

Call it courtesy,
but it is the law.

1. If you run your ad for 2 issues in The Clarkston News, Penny Stretcher, Ad-Vertiser, The Lake Orion Review and The Oxford Leader and pay within 1 week of the start date of the ad.

2. If you fail to get any inquiries within 30 days after the stop date of the ad.

3. After the 30 days, fill out one of our refund applications and mail or bring to us.

We will refund your purchase price (less $1 for postage and billing costs) within 7 days after receipt of your application.

Please remember we can guarantee only that you'll get inquiries. Since we have no control over price of value, we cannot guarantee that you'll make a deal.

You may pick up a refund application at The Clarkston News, The Oxford Leader or The Lake Orion Review or you may write for one. (Please do not phone). The guarantee applies to individual (non-business) ads. The refund must be applied for between 30 and 90 days after the start date of the ad.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY Spirit. Holy Spirit, you make me see everything and show me the way to reach my ideals. You give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrongs that are done to me and you are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones, in your perpetual glory. Amen. Persons must pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking for your wish. After the 3rd day, your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this dialogue as soon as your favor has been granted. IILX44-2

In Memory of V.I. KEY

Sweet Lil' Red
With eyes of blue;
Please, please, tell me
What to do
You're on my mind
Both day and night;
A "real good" feeling
That's hard to fight.
I miss your smile
I miss your glow
I miss the person
You can't show.
Your dark passing
Has left me blue
Because Lil' Red
You were so few.

Live! It's Thursday night!

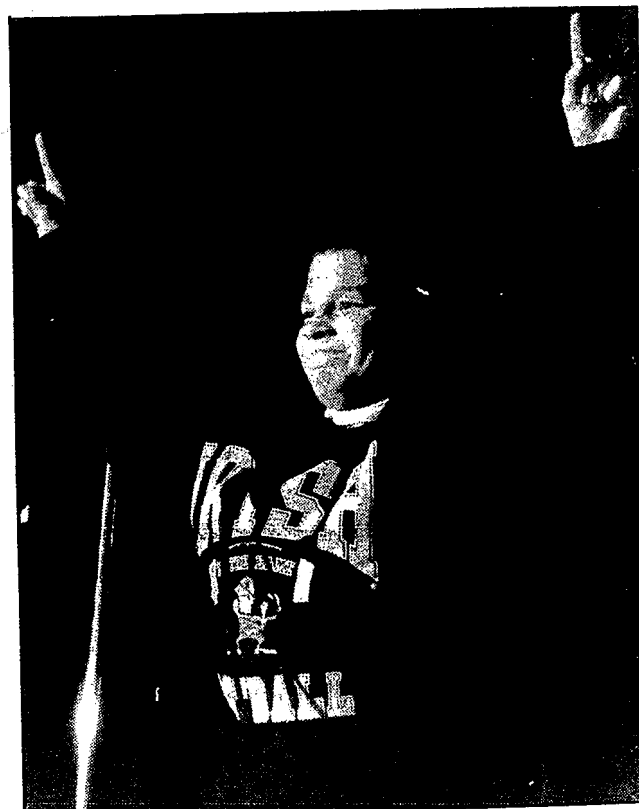

SINGING for the fun of it are Kristy Barefoot (left) and Derenda Howard, eighth- and ninth-graders, respectively. The two were part of the Nov. 1 variety show at Clarkston Junior High School, entitled "Thursday Night Live at Clarkston Junior High."

MEGHAN Schilcher, a sixth-grader, has just the right voice and gestures to play Roseanna Danna. Also appearing in her segment were newscaster Jenny Morrill and Mr. Grampus, Jimmy Territo.

HANS, the strongman, is played by Steve Anderson, an eighth-grader, who also sings in the variety show.

MARY FORBES gives her all during rehearsal for her dance to "I've Got the Power," which she performed and choreographed with friends Beth Eby and Jessica Doty.

Photos by Julie Campe

POISED, even before lots of onlookers, is Karen Leininger, a sixth-grade pianist.

FRANZ is played by John Nichol森, who refers to his script during rehearsal. The variety show captured many of Saturday Night Live's most memorable characters — in junior high fashion.
