Roommate charged in shotgun death

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A 33-year-old Independence Township man was killed by a shotgun blast in Lake County, and his roommate is being held in connection with his death.

Gary J. Herron, 33, of Pine Knob Lane died Nov. 4 from a single shotgun blast to his chest in rural Newkirk Township. His roommate, Everett Howell, 53, notified local authorities about the incident.

At first, Howell told police that Herron accidentally shot himself in a home on Nelson Road. However, Howell later admitted to shooting his friend after further questioning.

"We discovered the truth through a combination of facts," said Detective Sgt. George Pratt of the Reed City Post of the Michigan State Police. "His admittance came shortly after we'd concluded that the wound was not self-inflicted."

On Tuesday, Nov. 12, Howell appeared in a preliminary examination at the 78th District Court in Lake County. He was ordered to the 51st Circuit Court in Baldwin to face charges of second-degree murder and a firearm felony.

Second-degree murder carries a maximum penalty of life imprisonment. A firearm felony conviction carries a maximum sentence of two years imprisonment.

He is currently being held on $300,000 bond at the Lake County Jail. He was to be arraigned on Monday before Lake County Circuit Court Judge Richard Cooper.

Herron was buried Nov. 9 in the Hillsdale Memorial Gardens Cemetery in Springfield Township. Herron, who was divorced, is survived by his children, Richard, 7, and Alecia, 5; his father, Carl E. Herron; three brothers, Carl Herron, James Herron and Gregory Herron; and a sister, Glea Cornelius.

ACCIDENT investigators inspect Deputy Ernie Ott's squad car shortly after the crash on Waldon Road. Ott, a Pontiac resident, was on his way to an injury accident on Dixie Highway, when he passed someone and then swerved to avoid oncoming traffic.

Board ups support for youth assistance

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Clarkston Area Youth Assistance will receive an increase in funds from the Clarkston school board after an appeal by current and former board members Nov. 12.

The board unanimously voted to grant Youth Assistance $2,000 for 1990, an increase of $500 over last year.

"We have maintained the same level for over five or six years," stated board Vice President Tom Howard. "Somewhere in our budget we can find $500. Frankly, next year, we should consider a considerable increase."

In a formal request to address the board, Elaine Shultz, a former school board member and vice chair for youth assistance, echoed Howard's thoughts.

"It's very worthwhile," Shultz said. "We don't have a whole lot of sponsors; they're each being asked to increase their contribution if they can."

"I'm happy to hear this discussion," she said.

Clarkston Area Youth Assistance was formed to prevent delinquency, abuse and neglect of young people in the Clarkston area. It survives on fund raising, and the contributions of sponsors, organizations and individuals.

In a memo to the board, youth assistance organizers outlined a list of 1990-91 expenditures of $31,200. Proposed revenues for the same period added up to only $25,100.

Squad car rolls on Waldon Road

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

A deputy was injured Nov. 14 when he swerved to avoid an oncoming car and flipped his squad car on Waldon Road, Clarkston.

Deputy Ernie Ott, a six-year veteran of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, was treated and released from Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

About 6:30 p.m. last Wednesday, Ott was driving west on Waldon Road on his way to a Dixie Highway injury accident.

With his siren and flashing lights on, he passed a vehicle near the Clarkston High School football field, according to Deputy John Kress, accident investigator.

Ott then swerved to avoid an oncoming car, which had been hidden from his view due to a hill.

According to a Waldon Road witness, Ott's car became airborne and then rolled over, landing in a ditch on the south side of Waldon Road.

Ott was unconscious when Independence Township firefighters arrived on the scene but had regained consciousness by the time Fleet Ambulance arrived about 10-15 minutes later.

Ott was wearing his seat belt.

"That's what saved him," said Kress.

Lt. John Taylor, who arrived on the scene Nov. 14, said accidents involving squad cars sometimes occur in a force of 500 officers.

"It happens," said Taylor. "It's the nature of the job."

Due to a mistake in the basketball program, a photo in the Oct. 31 issue of The Clarkston News incorrectly identified a JV basketball player as Cassandra Friedl. The player was actually Lisa Goforth.

Area Chamber blasts proposed sign ordinance

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Amortization, height and setback requirements are the three major concerns of the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce over a proposed sign ordinance.

On Nov. 15, the Chamber members voiced their opinions at the Independence Township Planning Commission. The Chamber's comments were a result of a month-long study into the contents of the proposed ordinance.

Dick Ayers, speaking on behalf of the Chamber, provided the planning commission with a slide show

"A business will maintain its signs like it does its buildings. Many of these older signs are attractive and have a lot of life left in them."

Dick Ayers

depicting his personal findings. Ayers also relayed statistical data concerning conforming and non-conforming signs within the township.

"You'd (the planning commission) originally told us that there weren't many signs in the township not in conformance with the proposed ordinance," Ayers said. "But we've found out differently. Of the 124 signs researched on Dixie Highway, M-15 and Sashabaw Road, we've found that 104 of those signs are non-conforming in height alone."

Using a slide projector, Ayers pointed out several signs along the three roadways not within the six-foot height limitation. One of the examples included a medical sign on Dixie Highway designating commission member Bruce Mercado's dental practice.

Ayers said a height limitation would cause many aesthetically appealing signs, such as the $10,000 Deer Lake Racquet Club sign, to be torn down. He also pointed out that a 6-foot limit would cause many owners to omit landscaping, due to the available space near the sign.

In terms of the 20-year amortization clause, which would mean removing a sign after two decades, he pointed out that several signs around the township are older than 20 years but remain in good shape.

"A business will maintain its signs like it does its buildings," Ayers said. "Many of these older signs are attractive and have a lot of life left in them."

Ayers also disputed a clause calling for a 15-foot setback from the roads for all signage.

"Why should we have to pay $75 for a variance just to move a perfectly good sign?" he asked the planning commission.

Despite the Chamber's reservations, Ayers expressed his hope for cooperation between his organization and the planning commission.

Bed and breakfast hearing Nov. 26

A zoning ordinance that would require licensing of bed and breakfast facilities in the Village of Clarkston is the topic of an upcoming public hearing.

The hearing is set for 7:30 p.m. Monday, Nov. 26, at the village hall, Depot Road.

The village council set the hearing Nov. 12 after former council President Carol Eberhardt proposed a zoning amendment that would require annual licenses for bed and breakfast facilities — therefore allowing such businesses.

Council members listened to Eberhardt's proposal but decided to hold a public hearing before making a decision.

A bed and breakfast facility is defined as overnight accommodations in a single family dwelling with a continental breakfast served to the guests in return for payment.

While some of the planning commission members agreed that the ordinance needs additional work, Richard Oppmann remained steadfast on the suggested height of six feet.

"The 6-foot requirement is a very reasonable and prudent height," he said. "We've researched a lot of communities and it's the most applicable height for our aesthetic standards."

Steve Secatch agreed with Oppmann.

Chairman Brent Bair said the township attorney is still working on the ordinance and that the amortization clause is one of the aspects under investigation.

PORK, pornography and political material are not allowed in Saudi Arabia, so Val Henderson (left) and Linda Lewis are careful when they pack donated goodies for Bailey Lake-related soldiers. They're hoping that their beef salami sticks make it through, and they snuck in a few issues of The Clarkston News in hopes that the Saudis wouldn't think Clarkston's happenings are too political, said

Linda, laughing. The goods were headed to Tom Bills, an Airforce Reserve and former PTA member and school board member (whose daughter, Katie, attends Bailey Lake); and sailors Joe Essex and Tom Ratliff, whose sisters, Jennifer and Leah, attend Bailey Lake. Students donated such items as Mickey Mouse bandages, frisbees, puzzles, toilet paper, gum and Kool Aid.

Mothers push for increased mail

Their mothers thought that some of their friends or potential pen pals may want to write them letters.

Marianne Richards of Misty Hill Lane, Independence Township, said her son, David, was in Marine security aboard a Naval battleship.

His job is to board enemy vessels by helicopter and search for contraband, said Marianne.

David, a lance corporal, is a 1989 Clarkston High School graduate and has a brother, Bruce Jr., at Michigan State University and a sister, Rachel, at Clarkston High School.

Marianne said David is anxious to hear from home, and a lot of his friends inquire about him.

For their benefit, or anyone else who would like to write, letters may be sent to: Linc Cpl David Richards, 348649183, Marine Detachment USS Missouri BB63

David will be in the Gulf at least until summer, said Marianne.

"It's a difficult time, but we trust our president," she said. "David is very patriotic. He was born to protect."

She and her husband, Bruce, will be thinking of him, though, she said.

"We're going to be flying our flag every day with the yellow ribbons," she said.

Bertie Lou Gentile said she and her husband, Donald, also wanted to share their son's address for potential letter-writers.

First Lt. James Gentile may be reached at: Operation Dessert Shield, 376522416, 4/2 A.C.R., APO 0902 NY, NY.

Sportsmen's Club-township tax dispute heats up

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A Rochester Hills-based appraiser has been hired by Independence Township to assist in a tax dispute with the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club.

Michael Ellis, a professional appraiser at Value Trends, Inc., was hired Nov. 8 to appraise the 200-acre facility, which is protesting its current tax assessment. Ellis's appraisal is part of the legal process in a formal protest before the Michigan Tax Tribunal.

The township board voted 6-0 to approve Ellis's employment, with Trustee Daniel Travis abstaining because of his membership ties to the club. Ellis will be paid $15,000 for his services.

New petition deadline

Tuesday, Nov. 27, is the new deadline to submit petitions for three open seats on the Clarkston Village Council.

Petitions may be picked up 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the village hall, 375 Depot Road, Clarkston. They must be returned by 4 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 27.

The deadline originally set, incorrectly, as Dec. 17, so candidates should note the correct date.

The council election is set for March 11, 1991. A primary election will be held Feb. 18, if necessary.

The three seats up for re-election are those held by Robert Whitmer, Douglas Roeser and James Schultz. Each seat is a two-year term.

The disagreement originated in 1987, after the township assessor's office re-appraised all of the property in the area for the 1988 assessment roll. When the club was advised of its assessment, it protested to the local board of review and then the Michigan Tax Tribunal.

According to records at the township assessor's office, the township raised the club's total state equalized valuation (SEV) from $135,900 in 1987 to $231,700 in 1988. Beyond the $98,500 difference, the five-parcel facility is disputing SEVs of $132,600 in 1988 and 1989.

Property taxes are determined by the SEV of a parcel.

The club not only is contesting the assessment of 1987, but the assessment prior to that one. A 1990 SEV difference of $139,100 is also being argued by the club.

Ellis' appraisal will be countered by that of Paul Stopphert of the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers in Drayton. Both men hold the distinction of being Members of the Appraisal Institute. They have nearly 180 days to present their appraisals for their respective clients.

Both groups will wait about four months before their sides are heard by a judge at the Tribunal. If the judge rules in favor of the Club, the township would be required to pay a rebate. And if the judge finds that the club hasn't been paying enough, the facility will be forced to pay additional money.

However, township Assessor David Kramer said that both sides could come to an agreement before it reaches the courtroom. He added that the township is justified in pursuing this case.

"It's important for the taxpayers to understand that the burden of taxation is supposed to fall uniformly on all taxpayers and all classes of property."

Assessor David Kramer

"It's important for the taxpayers to understand that the burden of taxation is supposed to fall uniformly on all taxpayers and all classes of property within a taxing jurisdiction," he said. "This is a case where the township has to take measures to support and validate the assessments applied to the properties."

Art Miracle, manager of the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club, was out of town and unavailable for comment.

According to Kramer, the Sportsmen's Club will continue to be assessed at its current value and be required to pay that tax until something arises to change the present schedule.

In honor of Thanksgiving, I'm pausing to take inventory of my favorite things:

Movies that are so good I watch them again and again, such as "My Life as a Dog," "Singing in the Rain," "The Unbearable Lightness of Being," "Hannah and Her Sisters" and Pink Panther films with Peter Sellers.

The Rails to Trails program throughout the state that converts old railroad lines into walking trails. The trails in Orion Township and Rochester intertwine with the meandering Paint Creek, making a great place to spot wildlife, ride bikes, walk, sit or (God forbid) jog.

Wednesdays, the day of recovery at The Clarkston News, following hectic Tuesdays and Mondays.

Dr. Seuss and all of his wonderful books and the programs developed from his books, especially "The Grinch Who Stole Christmas."

All of the helpful school secretaries in Clarkston who patiently (and even cheerily) look up grade levels and proper spellings of students' names for us.

Dogs who are friendly and polite (not greeting visitors by jumping on them — though the enthusiasm is admirable) and energetic.

Dogs who don't immediately stick their wet noses on my camera lens (or nip my knee caps) when I'm photographing in their homes.

Cats who don't immediately dart into my apartment the instant I open the door in the mornings, causing me to drop things and knock things to the ground in pursuit. (Two cats — complete strangers to me — have done this at separate times. Have they chosen me as their caretakers? My apartment complex doesn't even allow animals! Is cat-darting a regular occurrence elsewhere?)

Mashed potatoes the way my sister, Carol, makes them (I think she has secret ingredients — sour cream, maybe?).

Potatoes the way anyone makes them.

Garlic breadsticks steaming hot and tender, such as those found at Alexander's Restaurant.

Quiet evenings with The Thinker — listening to Vince Guaraldi's Snoopy music and wrapping presents or baking cookies, or immersing ourselves in books.

A few hours in a book store, such as Georgene's friendly Village Bookstore in Clarkston or the huge Barnes and Noble store in Rochester or any of the Border's book stores.

Authors such as Tillie Olsen, John Steinbeck, Rachel Ingalls, Toni Morrison, Zora Neale Hurston, Ursula K. LeGuin and Tracy Kidder.

Plays and actors who set about to reveal an interesting aspect of life to audiences while at the same time providing an evening of enjoyment.

Days off.

Friendly phone calls from people who care about their community and want to share something wonderful or frightening or disgusting or stupid or funny. (Positive calls far outweigh negative.)

My witty family.

Clarkston Schools Today

Society, education linked in poll

BY BARBARA JOHNS

September was Education Month, with education the focus of many special television and media reports as students returned to their classrooms.

Besides a flurry of reports and statistics released by governmental sources, the 1990 Gallup Poll of the Public's Attitudes Toward Public Schools was also released.

This poll is an annual assessment of national attitudes about education, and it shows strong public support for the six national education goals for the '90s announced last February by President George Bush.

What are the six national goals?

By the year 2000, the nation should:

1. Have all children in America ready to learn (that is, in good health, having been read to and otherwise prepared by parents).

2. The high school graduation rate will increase to at least 90 percent (from the present 74 percent).

3. American students will leave grades four, eight and 12 with competency in English, math, science, history and geography. Also, every school will ensure that all students are prepared for responsible citizenship, further learning and productive employment in modern society.

4. American students will be first in the world in mathematics and science achievement.

5. Every adult American will be literate and will possess skills necessary to compete in a global economy and exercise the rights and responsibilities of citizenship.

6. Every school in America will be free of drugs and violence and will offer a disciplined environment conducive to learning.

Respondents to the Gallup Poll were asked where the blame for the problems confronting education should be placed. They blamed society and the effects of society's problems on students and schools.

Interestingly, with almost 80 percent of the adults in most communities identified as "non-parents" — those whose children are out of school, those who have no children, or those with children in private or parochial schools — information about public schools comes to them largely from the mass media.

In the weeks to come, this column will examine the six national goals for education and let you know how your Clarkston schools meet these goals on a local level. Questions or comments may be made by calling the communications department, 625-4402, or by writing: Clarkston Community Schools, 6389 Clarkston Road, Clarkston, 48346.

Barbara Johns is coordinator of communications for Clarkston Community Schools. Clarkston Schools Today, prepared by the communications department, will appear periodically in The Clarkston News. Questions or comments may be made by calling 625-4402.

From This Perspective

A teacher is a wonderful thing

Tracy
King

The Clarkston News received a stack of Thanksgiving assignments from North Sashabaw Elementary students this week.

The work was bundled according to classroom, with each teacher asking students to write on things like "What are you most thankful for," or "We are thankful for Thanksgiving for..."

A few of the fourth-grade classrooms wrote entire essays on the topic, neatly scribed in cursive handwriting.

God was mentioned often in these lists of thanks, as were Mario Brothers 3 (a Nintendo game, I'm told), and having a day off from school.

The first-graders managed one-sentence answers, which were written in thick pencil in that wide-lined paper.

Mesmerized by the difference between first and fourth grade abilities, I marched the samples around the room to each one of the reporters in The Clarkston News Office.

Jim Gibowski, a former teacher himself, noted how the first-grade teachers had thoughtfully written the intended word at the bottom of the page.

When a student wrote "I am thankful for clz," for instance, the word "clothes" would appear below as our guide.

Julie Campe, the perfect capture-er of quotes, noted that the student had followed her tips for special shorthand.

"Leave the vowels out," she had told me during my first few days at The Clarkston News. Not daring to suggest that it would take longer to think about which letter to leave out than to just write the whole word, I followed her advice and am now a pretty good quote-taker myself.

Glancing now at the first-grade work, she took note of the student's special skill at shorthand.

"Hire her," she joked.

I tried to remember bridging the gap from first to third grade. How did one learn about syntax, modifying verbs, clauses and such.

Learning was complicated business, and it happened pretty darn fast between first and fourth grade.

I try to remember this wonder in learning as I go home to greet my new puppy, Echo.

"Sit Echo," I try.

She wags and wags, running circles at my heels.

Recalling the tough job of those first-grade teachers, I patiently try again in my best first-grade teacher voice.

"Echo, sit please," I say.

Cocking her head at my new tone, she pauses and sits to listen.

"Good Dog!" I shout, renewed in my efforts.

At this rate, she'll be jumping hoops by Christmas.

Letters to the Editor

Why blame Bush?

When are we going to learn? The Democratic-controlled U.S. House and Senate put together a package of tax increases with little or no reductions, and who gets the blame—President Bush, a Republican.

President Bush could have stayed firm, let the government grind to a stop and let the deficit continue to climb. Instead, he did something courageous and non-political—he signed a bill that violated his campaign promise.

We should praise him for having the courage to make the best deal he could. It is way past time that we start demanding that the Democrats quit spending us into oblivion.

We all need to demand that politicians quit bragging about new programs and increased services and start telling us how they have cut costs and saved tax dollars.

Dale A. Stuart

The real story of Saudi Arabia

This is not a sympathy letter. I just feel that people may have the wrong impression of soldiers stationed in Saudi Arabia.

I believe the media is allowing the American public to see only what they want to see. I am an infantry man stationed in Saudi Arabia, and I have yet to see the luxuries of what the media has reported.

As of now, I am living out of my rucksack and have been for the past 30 days out in the desert. The daily schedule of an infantry man consists of an 4:30 a.m. wake-up, physical training from 5 a.m. to 6 a.m., personal hygiene and chow from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m., from 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. military training, 12:30 p.m. to 1:30 p.m. chow and weapon maintenance, from 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. personal time, 3:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. more military training.

From 10 p.m. to 4:30 a.m. is rest time with two hours of guard in there somewhere.

I am a former resident of Clarkston. I graduated in '88 and have been in the Army for two years.

I'm not trying to say that we are having a real hard time over here. We do get "gifts from the King," such as apples, bananas, fruit drinks, bread and pastries.

The most important time over here is when we receive mail. It really helps when you receive an "Any Soldier" letter, and it says that they are supporting us and hope we are home soon.

Again, I like to say this is not a sympathy letter. I thought it would be nice for the public to know what it is really like over here.

Many times we go a week without a shower, and all a shower is, is a 5-gallon jug turned upside down, and you wash quick because there are five other guys behind your.

Drinking water is another thing. They put chlorine in the water to kill all the bacteria, so it's like drinking pool water.

I just hope the public doesn't think that we are over here getting sun tans and playing football.

Faculty support

Being a former Clarkston High School student, I feel I was prepared to attend Central Michigan University due to the strong support I had from Clarkston High's faculty.

I was equipped with the adequate amount of knowledge to excel here at CMU.

And I would like to thank all my teachers and administrators for helping me develop my wisdom and enlightenment for my road to success.

Erich D. Becker

Great academics

I feel being a graduate of Clarkston High School has adjusted me for my studies here at CMU.

Clarkston's teachers are very easy to relate and talk to, which makes relationships with college teachers easier.

Also the great academics at Clarkston taught me that in order to do well you must have good study habits.

Overall, I think I was well-prepared for college life from attending Clarkston Senior High.

Joel Wells

Dedicated staff

The week of Nov. 15 has been designated to recognize the educational system. In view of this, I would like to take this opportunity to thank the teachers and administration at Clarkston High School.

I am currently a freshman at Kalamazoo College, and I can now appreciate the education I received at CHS. I find in my courses that as professors introduce new concepts, I often have a grasp of the fundamental theories involved.

I am able to explore ideas in further depth because I am already familiar with the given topic. The "college-prep" classes at Clarkston have prepared me well for my current courses.

The approach used at CHS taught me to be responsible for my own learning. I have found this to be invaluable. The teachers were always enthusiastic, and that enthusiasm was passed on to the student. At CHS I was taught to enjoy learning, and I always found the teachers helpful and supportive.

I would like to thank the Clarkston school system for giving me a head start. Clarkston is lucky to have a group of dedicated, enthusiastic and knowledgeable teachers, and I would like to thank them for all the help they gave me. I would like to extend a special thank you to Mrs. Linda Denstaedt, Mr. Dave Skillman, Mr. Larry Mahrle and Mr. Cliff Chapman.

Wendy Manning,
1990 CHS graduate

Important role

Upon entering college, I met many people with diverse educational backgrounds. Reflecting upon my own education brought about the realization of the important role Clarkston High School's teaching staff played in my educational career.

Without their knowledge and guidance, I would not have received the high caliber of education I did, and I would not be able to say how proud I am that my diploma reads: "Clarkston Community Schools."

To me, this is a mark of excellence and is something for which the faculty and staff should receive credit. Without their ability and dedication, there would be no Clarkston High School.

Thank you, teachers.

Handy helpers

Thank you to Bailey Lake volunteers who helped decorate 7,000 bags, cut 17,000 feet of ribbon and cut and punched 7,000 gift tags for Santa's Secret Workshop.

The volunteers gathered for five days in our computer room, working around children on computers and displacing our music teacher, Lois Richardson, who shuffles her music equipment in and out of this well-used room. We do appreciate everyone's cooperation in less than ideal conditions.

The children will be shopping the last week of November for gifts for the entire family. Many more volunteers will be involved to help the children during this time. A good time is sure to be had by all.

Taiwan gives American guest 'special' treatment

BY ANDREA ZANOTTI

Imagine. Before I left the states, that was all I could do to construct an idea of what life would be like here.

I write letters home and take pictures wherever I go, yet I have come to accept the fact that none of my family or friends will ever be able to grasp the essence of my experience here.

However, through a short series of personal narratives, I will try my best to provide some insight into life in Kaohsiung, Taiwan, Republic of China.

Perhaps the most striking aspect of Kaohsiung city is its exhilarating activity. Unlike any prominent American city, Kaohsiung has its own unique rendition of "hustle and bustle."

The sensations projected are not the endless hurry and overbearing movement typical of metropolitan America, but instead, a joyful current of vivacious energy.

Atop and alongside every building the tireless blinking of multicolored neon signs, adorned with a random mixture of English and Chinese characters, illuminate the night.

The effect is far from gaudy or harsh. Rather, experiencing Kaohsiung at night is similar to being at an American carnival after dark. It is simply enchanting. People of all ages, from the very young to the very old, are out and about.

Children spill to the street, out of evening classes from the many private English language schools, and hop onto their mother or father's awaiting scooter. Others stop at one of the ever-present sidewalk food vendors to grab some steamy, saucy concoction of noodles, meat and vegetables, all stuffed in a plastic bag and served with a despicable pair of cheap bamboo chopsticks.

Stray dogs and cats, with a mangy character all their own, roam the city just as much at home as the people.

The streets are quite a sight to behold: jam-packed with buses, taxis and scooters. The latter, a majority, at times transports an entire family of four and often a small dog or cat. (The record, noted prior to my arrival by a fellow teacher, currently stands at a baffling six people on one moped.)

Traffic laws seem virtually non-existent as motor vehicles zig-zag their way around each other in a haphazard but successful manner.

Taking a taxi in Kaohsiung is comparable to "Mr. Toad's Wild Ride" at Disney World, and riding on the back of a scooter for the first time might seem near suicidal. Yet this apparent mass of confusion is surprisingly efficient, and must at least make for better defensive driving skills.

The sights of Kaohsiung are complemented by a myriad of sounds. The spirited beep of a scooter or taxi, depended on more heavily than any road sign or traffic signal for motor safety, is roused constantly day and night.

Equally as pervasive, and most notable to a foreigner, is the lyrical sing-song of spoken Mandarin Chinese, which rambles continually from the mouths of nearly all Kaohsiung's inhabitants.

It seems, from the amount of verbal activity among Kaohsiung's people, that the Chinese speak more than Americans do.

This opinion, however, might result from the fact that I notice the spoken word more because it sounds so completely different from anything I've ever heard.

Music is also heard on a regular basis, whether emanating from the many open storefronts or even the rolled up tinted windows of a cab.

Authentic Chinese folk music is played loudly and endlessly in many shops, restaurants and taxis.

Omnipresent also is the Chinese version of "Lambada," which can be heard in Taiwan as often as Madonna is in the U.S.

Pop songs are often enhanced with a word or two in English to give a Western touch. Music starts lull tunes in Chinese, then suddenly breaks into a verse of "Baby I love you" in English.

Western music itself is popular among the Chinese youth, yet original soundtracks can be difficult to attain. Therefore it is not surprising to hear the tunes of Western artists reproduced with a certain "Chinese flair."

Needless to say, such syndicated derivations bring a chuckle to any visiting Westerner.

For instance, imagine Eric Clapton's "Wonderful Tonight" performed by a young Chinese woman with a moderate accent and a pitch equivalent to that of Debbie Gibson.

Although the sights and sounds of Kaohsiung enhance its eccentricity, the people truly create the experience for a foreigner like myself.

I often describe the feeling as that of "being on display."

Consider the fact that Kaohsiung holds over one million people. Even in a city so populated, I am distinctly noticed wherever I go. Everyone always looks twice, often turning their eyes from the road to stare as they ride past on the street.

Older people stretch their wrinkled faces into a smile and sometimes say "hello" or "how are you?" in English.

It is obvious they have memorized such salutations and could not communicate at any higher level, yet they are pleased to be able to greet a foreigner in his or her native language.

School girls are not quite so bold. Instead, they glance and giggle shyly from behind hands or books, seemingly embarrassed when caught staring point blank.

Those more daring youths will holler "Mei Gwo Ren" which means "American" in Chinese and translates literally as "beautiful land person."

Young children merely stare up at you as if you were from some strange other world. They might even begin to cry if you catch them off guard as your alien face appears suddenly in their line of vision.

Not only are foreigners noticed but also remembered with an amazing accuracy. After having bought juice at a particular store only twice, the girl at the register knew I didn't now want a plastic bag to carry my single purchase. (These bags are used incessantly here, even for the smallest of items.)

Shaking her head and motioning to the stack of bags as I paid, it was clear that she remembered my former rejection of this wasteful routine practice.

Eating at any sidewalk restaurant more than once is always good for a chorus of "hellos" and perpetual smiles from the employees if you happen to pass by their open doors.

In short, one feels like somewhat of a novelty here, and it is all quite flattering.

I have heard from others that upon returning to the states a sort of depression sets in as you realize you are no longer anyone special, but just normal like everyone else.

To an American, the Chinese seem extremely eager to get to know you, to learn about your world and also to introduce you to theirs.

They are fascinated by our openness, for their culture and society is still conservative.

In turn, show the slightest bit of interest in their culture or lifestyles, and you are immediately adopted.

The mere fact that an American has chosen to visit their country creates what we have termed here as the "perpetual guest syndrome."

The people treat you to everything, often inviting you into their homes and their lives, after knowing you but a few hours or days.

This behavior reveals itself again each day I am here and accounts for the truly special feeling Americans will experience if they choose to visit Taiwan for a length of time.

Although I have only been here a little over one month, I feel I have acquired a world of knowledge already.

There is so much to learn about the many different people and places of the world and so much to be gained from understanding a way of life that is different from our own.

I am just now beginning to comprehend some of the Chinese culture and will elaborate on my opinions at a later date.

Until then, Zaijian! (Goodbye!)

IT'S EARLY in the a.m., but that doesn't stop Clarkston High School's Jazz Band. The dedicated students get their practice in before the official school day begins and get high school credit for all their hard work, too. (Photos by Sandra G. Conlen)

Embracing the day

It's difficult to play red hot jazz at 6:40 a.m., but 24 dedicated students at Clarkston High School find its a great way to start the day.

When classes at the high school were reduced from a seven-hour day to a six-hour day three years ago, the electives were the hardest hit, said band teacher Clifford Chapman.

Chapman found that early-morning practice before the start of school solved the problem of the six-hour day. Credit for the class remains the same as if the students attended class during the regular school hours.

The jazz band performs for festivals and in public performances for school functions as well as community activities, Chapman said.

Rising early hasn't hurt the jazz band's ability to take some top honors. For the past six years the jazz band has received all I's (the highest rating) as a first division level band at the State Jazz Festival.

Legal brief filed on village cityhood

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A brief of Independence Township's legal arguments against cityhood for Clarkston recently was submitted to the "players" in the lawsuit.

The four active participants include the township, the Village of Clarkston, the Michigan Township Association (MTA) and the Michigan Attorney General's office. The MTA has sided with the township, and the attorney general's office will be representing the Michigan Boundary Commission in the suit.

The township filed suit against the Boundary Commission last July, after village residents voted to approve cityhood. The election was possible because the Boundary Commission ruled in favor of Clarkston's cityhood.

The Village of Clarkston is about one-half square mile in the southwestern quadrant of Independence Township, which is 36 square miles.

The township's brief centers on the intent of a 1978 amendment to the Michigan Township Act, which was ratified by the state Legislature in 1947. The township's case is built around inclusion and deletion of the words "annexation" and "incorporation."

Annexation is when one community takes part of another community for itself. Incorporation is when a community or part of a township becomes a village or city, using its existing boundaries. A township charter traditionally makes way for incorporation.

In 1978, the Legislature amended a section of the act. The amendment deleted wording that allowed the incorporation and annexation of a portion of a charter township.

The amendment didn't expressly disallow incorporation and annexation, but the act it did set limits on them.

One portion expressly disallows annexation if it would mean the fragmentation of the township and a loss of township tax base.

According to the township, the effect of the village's imminent incorporation would be the same as the effects of annexation.

If the village became a city, the township would lose that portion of its tax base.

According to township attorney Gerald Fisher, the four participants have until January 1991 to file their own briefs with the Oakland County Circuit Court. The initial oral arguments will be heard by Circuit Court Judge John N. O'Brien in February.

Despite O'Brien's decision, Fisher expects the case to ascend to higher courts of law.

"After he (O'Brien) renders his decision, one of the sides will most likely push it on to the Michigan Court of Appeals and then probably the Michigan Supreme Court," Fisher said. "Most of the time, these types of cases go to the Supreme Court because of their statewide implications."

$47,000 block grant funds to park, agencies

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Community service groups and a township park are the beneficiaries of six years' worth of Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funds in Springfield Township.

Following an hour-long public hearing in which one person spoke Nov. 8, the board voted unanimously to allocate $47,000 of left-over CDBG money among four public service agencies and the township's new Shiawassee Park.

Neighbor for Neighbor in Springfield Township is to receive 50 percent of the money ($24,000); Lighthouse North in Independence Township, 25 percent ($12,000); and the remaining 25 percent ($12,000) of the funds are to be distributed between Northwest Oakland Community Services and New Horizons, both of Springfield Township.

The agencies' services range from providing food and clothing to the needy to performing home repair to assisting in referrals to other agencies.

Lighthouse North serves eight north Oakland County townships, including Springfield, Independence, Groveland, Brandon, Orion, Oxford, Rose and Holly.

The board also unanimously approved Trustee Dennis Vallad's motion to allocate $7,500 to the Shiawassee Basin Preserve — a 400-acre park being developed in Springfield Township. The amount would replace park funds used for Carlisle Associates of Ann Arbor, planning consultants for the project.

The CDBG funds, leftover from 1985 through 1991, excluding 1987, are allocated by the federal Housing and Urban Development department (HUD).

A new HUD decree requires that communities have no more than 1 1/2 times their annual allocation unspent, said Supervisor Collin Walls, after the meeting.

Walls said the funds originally were set aside for such things as a senior citizen center, landscaping along Dixie Highway from I-75 to Davisburg road, and for neighborhood improvements in low- to moderate-income areas.

The annual small amounts of money were not used, so the money accumulated.

Walls said a survey conducted over four years ago showed that the community didn't favor a senior citizen center, but rather a community center for all age groups. HUD guidelines made it too difficult to obtain the funds for a senior citizen room in the Mill Pond building.

"It would mean counting every fourth two-by-four board that was put up in the building to qualify for the loan," Walls said.

The township never applied for commercial loans for businesses to locate along the Dixie Highway corridor. And guidelines for neighborhood funds required a 98-percent participation, verified by a survey — too costly and difficult an undertaking.

Robert Harding was the only Springfield Township resident who spoke at the public meeting.

Harding said he thought all the funding should go to Neighbor for Neighbor because the other agencies would only duplicate services.

Walls noted that Lighthouse North has an active staff that works on home repairs, and Neighbor for Neighbor doesn't.

Funds of about $37,000 will be reallocated to the Minor Home Repair program that assists low- to moderate-income home owners.

Suggestions against oil contamination

The Independence Township Groundwater Leadership Team reports a number of suggestions for the used motor oil segment of its one-step-at-a-time program have been received.

The group, formed to head off threats to local drinking water from household hazardous products, has initially focused on the disposal of used motor oil.

"Oil is selected first because a small amount of it can severely contaminate a significant amount of our well water without being readily detectable," said Jim Reed, a team member.

As reported here last month, the team sought suggestions from the community for single steps everyone could take to prevent used motor oil from getting into the groundwater everyone in this area uses for drinking.

The one-step approach is used to get people to adopt one or two new changes rather than expecting them to completely change their lifestyles. Because everyone uses motor oil, we can all help by adopting one or more of these suggestions. Many of the team members are already adopting some of these suggestions themselves. The suggestions are:

1. Never pour oil or gas into drains, on the ground or road -- it ends up in the groundwater.
2. Buy recycled oil and encourage your stores to stock it.
3. Handle oil carefully -- read the warning labels.
4. Ask your car service station what they do with used oil. If they don't recycle, encourage them to do so or change stations.

5. If you change your own oil, recycle it by putting in plastic jugs and taking it to a recycling station. (There are three in Independence Township.)

6. As a result of one of the suggestions, the team is considering establishing a used oil pick-up service with neighborhood volunteers. If you have any interest in assisting in this effort, contact the team through EMEAC at 258-5188.

"In addition to these steps or any one of them, everyone should encourage anyone they know to support the recycling of used oil," said Reed.

The group intends to continue to promote the use of these suggestions while taking on other topics that can help prevent contamination to our groundwater -- one step at a time.

Secret identity revealed

THE MAID (played by Holly Rupprecht) shocks visitors at Ravenswood Manor when she reveals her true identity. The Clarkston High School faculty production of "The Butler Did It" is a mysterious comedy, in which a group of detective writers are invited to Miss Maple's residence. The writers must impersonate their fictional characters and solve a make-believe murder. But to everyone's dismay, a real murder takes place. In this scene, actors Mike Kaul (from left) Paul Sabbag, Howard Webster and Jane Miller are shocked when Holly Rupprecht's character removes her maid uniform. In back, barely visible, is actress Becky Craig, who reacts quickly to the dangerous action that follows. The performance takes place at 8 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 30, and Saturday, Dec. 1, at the Kirchgessner Theatre at Clarkston High School. Tickets are $3 for senior citizens and students and $4 for all others.

Citizens for Orderly Growth

Major, high-quality growth in township's future, but it's still growth

Doug Carlson

On Nov. 8, several COG members and I attended Independence Township Supervisor Frank Ronk's presentation on growth, which was sponsored by the Blue Ribbon Kids Committee.

A detailed report on the meeting was outlined in last week's Clarkston News.

First of all, I'd like to commend the committee for sponsoring these public forums. They're an excellent means of providing residents with information on what's going on in their community. They provide factual information on a variety of topics, help dispel rumors and are conducive to an atmosphere of teamwork and cooperation.

Secondly, I'd like to commend Frank Ronk on his presentation. It was fast-paced, informative, straightforward and interesting. Personally, I got a lot out of the meeting. Those who were unable to attend missed a good one.

I won't go into detail about what was discussed since it was outlined in last week's paper. However, I will make some personal observations on what I heard.

1. Independence Township may have a reputation among developers for being a tough place in which to build, but that's not slowing them down any. As Frank put it, "They're out here every day, sniffing around for places to build, particularly south of I-75."

2. The township is encouraging "quality" developers to come here: the Chuck Muers, the Bill Knapps, etc. Few residents would disagree with this approach, I believe.

3. The township is very much in favor of five-lane boulevards and the like to carry traffic throughout the area. They plan to embellish these "boulevards" with curved, overhanging lights, etc.

4. The township feels we need a good three-story "campus type" motel, preferable on the corner of White Lake Road and Dixie Highway, although other locations are also acceptable.

5. During the question and answer portion of the meeting, I asked Mr. Ronk if the township was addressing the issue of low-cost housing for our senior citizens. He said township officials are "hoping" to see developments aimed at senior citizens, but nothing was in the works at the present time.

In summary, I'm totally convinced that the Clarkston of the future is going to be a high-class, highly desirable place to live. We'll have fine restaurants, beautiful thoroughfares, hotels, movie theaters and God knows what else.

We'll be the Bloomfield Hills of Oakland County. The price of homes and property will soar, and those who are able to afford it will move here in droves.

Clarkston, as we know it today, will no longer exist, and many will applaud its growth and "progress."

As for me, I won't be among them. If I wanted to live in Bloomfield Hills, I would have moved to Bloomfield Hills. And, after looking at my latest tax bill, I thought I did. But that's all grist for another column.

Doug Carlson is chairman of Citizens for Orderly Growth.

"We simply outperformed them," Sliwa replied.

Sashabaw has now won 10 consecutive games, dating back to last year, when it finished 9-0.

The Cougars' next game is against Pierce Nov. 26. Last year, Sashabaw edged them in a thriller.

CHS grad swings with MSU

GUNNAR Karlstrom, a Michigan State University golfer and Clarkston High School graduate, has completed the fall season for the Spartans, which consisted of three Invationals. Regular Big Ten action will begin next spring. Karlstrom, a senior, shot a 225 (81-73-71) at the Fall Colonel Classic at Eastern Kentucky Oct. 6-7, which helped the Spartans to a seventh-place finish in the 21-team field. He later had the fifth best total for the Spartans at the Northern Invitational in Indiana. On Nov. 2-3 at the Seascaple Collegiate Invitational in Norfolk, Va., Karlstrom fired a 152, the second best two-round total for the Spartans who finished 12th out of 18 teams. Next action for MSU will be Feb. 18-19 at the Mardi Gras Invitational in New Orleans. While at Clarkston High School, Karlstrom was an all-league and all-county performer. (Photo supplied by MSU)

How to enter:

For your chance to win $50 in The Clarkston News Football Contest, fill out your name, address and phone number. Then mark the teams you think will win found in the four advertisements on this page, along with writing in the total number of points in the tiebreaker

About the winner:

The winner of the picks for games Nov. 17-18 will not be decided until after Friday's Nebraska at Oklahoma game (which was also the tiebreaker game). Originally, the game was scheduled on Nov. 17 but was rescheduled.

Four people are still in the running for the $50 prize: Mark Warner, Alan Bartley and Suzanne Antonazzo, all of Independence Township, picked 17 of 19 games correctly and chose Nebraska to win Friday's game. Alice Churchill of Ortonville is still in the running because she picked 16 games correctly but chose Oklahoma (five other people picked 16 games correctly but all chose Nebraska, which automatically eliminated them).

Clarkston News sportswriter James Gibowski and guest picker, Clarkston JV football coach John Craven, each picked 12 games correctly along with choosing Nebraska.

Ties will be decided by whoever comes closest to the tiebreaker question.

The winner's name will be published in a future edition of The Clarkston News, with the $50 mailed to the person with the best picks.

Swinging from the heels

Advertising refs, Toilet Bowl and gutless writers

You know what bugs me? ...

■ Those people at televised major sporting events who hold up a John (3:12) sign.

It's all right if they're doing it while sitting in their own seats, but wouldn't you hate to miss a touchdown, home run or goal as someone waves it in front of your face.

■ Clarkston's varsity soccer team this season for some of its cheap shots on the field given to their opponents.

Soccer is a physical sport and there is going to be much contact as two players arrive at the same time to get control of the ball. But the shoving, elbowing and fighting after the play has finished is what makes the team and school look bad.

Clarkston isn't the only team known to play this style of soccer.

Much of the problem lies in the rules and inconsistency of the officiating. When many of these flare-ups happen in soccer, the players are merely warned. If the same type of altercation happened in football, softball, basketball, etc. the player would be gone immediately.

■ The PAT in the NFL.

Why doesn't the NFL allow the option for a 2-point conversion?

The kick for the PAT is the most boring play in football.

If they had the option, like they do in college and high school football, it would add a nice touch of strategy and make people watch instead of getting an early jump to the bathroom or refrigerator. And besides, the coaches could still decide to kick and kick and kick if they desire.

■ Letters to the editor.

Recently, two letters were written against Clarkston's JV football coach and another one was critical of the varsity soccer coach.

Both letters were printed without the author's name because they requested their names be withheld.

The Clarkston News' policy permits names to be withheld. I disagree with that policy but a sportswriter has no say as to what that policy should be.

However, I am permitted to say what I feel in this column. I do agree that the people who wrote those letters have the right to say what they feel, but by leaving their names out, they are back-stabbers and gutless for not including their names.

Did they go through the proper channels first? Did they ask their sons what they felt? Did they talk it over with the coach before writing the letter? What lessons have they taught their sons about accountability?

■ College quarterbacks who urinate in public.

I guess if you're the quarterback you can do whatever you want to do, or at least not suffer the consequences until after Jan. 1. He must have learned that from his head coach/athletic director/emperor.

When are enough Spartan alumni going to say, "But Dan and George, don't dare do it at my university."

The only bowl they should go to is the Toilet Bowl.

■ People who totally oppose deer hunting but don't flinch about eating a Big Mac or a pork chop.

I'm not a hunter. And I'm not a vegetarian. I think the only people who can have a legitimate beef about deer hunters are vegetarians.

■ A WJR disc jockey who agrees with Ron Cameron but disagrees with ABC-TV's depiction of Detroit on its Prime Time Live show.

When Cameron was a guest on Kevin Joyce's night-time segment of WJR a few weeks ago, he stated that the Detroit Tigers should move from Tiger Stadium (predicting they will move to Dearborn). He said the reason the Tigers have been losing attendance lately is because the people are afraid to come to Detroit.

Joyce went out of his way to agree with Cameron. But weeks later he was critical of the ABC report.

Joyce has me confused. If he agrees that it is so dangerous to walk around Tiger Stadium, isn't it just as dangerous just a few blocks away where he works? So why is he critical of the ABC report?

Why doesn't Joyce ask his WJR bosses if they could tear down the Fisher Building and move to Dearborn?

■ Suspended for life

If former Washington Redskin Dexter Manley was "suspended for life" because of a 3-time usage, why is there still talk about him playing again in the NFL?

I wonder if any NFL executive ever stated, "Read my lips, banned for life."

■ A bad ad-dition

Aren't you getting tired of all those advertisements at many pro stadiums that are visibly seen by television cameras?

Joe Louis Arena is a perfect example, with ads plastered all over the boards around the rink.

And worse yet, this past Saturday I noticed the referees in a NIT college basketball tournament wearing "Dodge (the tourney sponsor) NIT" patches on their chests. Those refs should be embarrassed and the NCAA should be heavily criticized for its new way of money-grabbing.

Polish Christmasses simple, modest

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Rich childhood memories and traditions of Christmas in Poland make Sophia Grajek long for the simpler celebrations of her youth.

Born and raised in Poland, Sophia settled in America about 17 years ago after marrying her husband, Richard, who is also Polish but was raised in the United States.

The Grajeks and their children, Phillip, 12, and Michelle, 10, reside in Waterford Township. Sophia attends Clarkston Community Education classes to improve her spelling of the English language.

"Christmas is my most favorite holiday of all," says Sophia. "My memories of a Polish Christmas are the most beautiful."

Sophia recounts the holidays she spent as a young girl in Poland and says she misses her three sisters and their families, who are still there.

In her recollections, her reverence for Christian

The table is always set for the number of guests, with one extra place setting, which represents a place for family members who are absent or have died. It also serves as a place for Jesus to be present at the meal.

The tablecloth is always white, and hay is placed

"We used natural candles and simple ornaments, like nuts and cookies, to decorate the tree. The simplicity and modesty (of a Polish Christmas) is so treasurable."

around the edges of the table. The hay symbolizes that Jesus was born in a stable. One candle is placed in the center of the table laden with food for the feast.

At the beginning of the meal a rectangular wafer

(oplatek) is broken and shared with family members.

"We cry and embrace and hug at this time — wishing each other health and happiness," says Sophia. "It's a very emotional time."

When the meal is served the first course is borcht, or beet soup, with dumplings (uszka), and a pastry, much like a croissant (paszteciki).

Fish dishes of all types are the main meal, served hot and cold. A vegetable salad is served, too.

A 12-fruit compote serves as a symbol of the 12 apostles. Other desserts also round out the Polish feast, but no meat is served on Christmas Eve.

Sophia recalls the long walk in the cold to midnight mass, which also was called the Shepherd Mass (Pasterka). About 95 percent of Poland is Roman Catholic.

"Mass was beautiful," Sophia says. "You can't forget the glorious moment — the church was packed, and the crowd would sway as they sang."

Christmas Day in Poland is very peaceful, she says. She contrasted the day to Christmas in the United States where the excitement starts early in the morning with a gift exchange between sleepy-eyed family members.

St. Stephen's Day on Dec. 26 in Poland starts more celebrations, as weddings and christenings take place in the Catholic church, which allows no celebrating during beliefs is evident. In Poland one of the most exciting holidays begins Dec. 6 with St. Nicholas Day, she says.

"We polished our shoes and put them near the door, and St. Nicholas would put candy or pencils in them," Sophia says.

The beginning of Advent — the four Sundays before Christmas — signaled that it was time to spiritually prepare for the birth of Jesus.

"Advent meant prayers — pray, pray, pray," Sophia says. "It was Jesus's birth, and we were preparing our souls and minds — and stomachs, too."

Christmas Eve day and night (Vigilia) bring back special memories.

Sophia lived on about 10 acres in the country, close to her grandfather who owned a couple of horses and a sleigh.

"I remember the snow and the horses pulling the sleigh with the bells ringing and riding into the forest to chop down the tree," Sophia says. "It had to be the best tree — and it smelled so fresh!"

Sophia's sister helped prepare food in the kitchen, but Sophia helped decorate the tree. Her two older sisters already had moved from her parents' home.

"We used natural candles and simple ornaments, like nuts and cookies, to decorate the tree," she says. "The simplicity and modesty (of a Polish Christmas) is so treasurable."

Christmas Eve day was a day of fasting, and the table was set before the meal, which took place in the evening after dark.

"The father would check for the first star of the evening, and that's when we would begin the meal," Sophia says.

POLAND is many miles from the United States, but the Christmasses spent in that country wrought fond memories for Sophia Grajek.

Advent.

"The time before Christmas in Poland is not like the U.S. — where it's party, party," she says. "We party after Christmas."

The Polish continue to celebrate with more holidays until Feb. 2, which signals the end of the Christmas season. New Year's Day is celebrated much as it is in the United States. On Jan. 6, or the epiphany, another celebration takes place for the Three Kings, or wise men.

The Christmas season comes to a close in Poland with a special day set aside on Feb. 2 for the blessing of candles, which means a family will have blessed candles to use throughout the year.

Though a U.S. resident now, Sophia still serves a traditional meal on Christmas — but she succumbs to U.S. ways when she decorates her home long before

"Everything is glamorous and sparkling," she says. "But I'm lost during the Christmas season."

Sophia attends church daily during the Christmas season, but she admits that she shops like all the other Americans instead of thinking about the Christian values she was brought up with.

Sophia has only one Christmas wish.

"I would like to be with my family (from Poland) again at Christmas," she says. "That would be the best gift of all."

Soldier, family share holidays long-distance

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Scenes from the Middle East depict the difficult lives of American soldiers: bored, uncomfortable, tired of the long separation from their families. The burden is often shared by those left behind, especially during the holiday season. "Yes, it is," sighs Lauri Cervantez, glancing at her daughter, Kellie, born Oct. 19.

LAURI CERVANTEZ and her newborn daughter, Kellie will spend the holidays without Martin, an illustrator in the Army.

Kellie's father, Martin, is "somewhere in Saudi Arabia," according to Lauri. He left Sept. 4. Martin has met his daughter only on videotape, some of which was shot the night Lauri went to the hospital to deliver.

Martin called the day Kellie was born and spoke to Lauri for a few minutes at Pontiac General Hospital. Lauri later wrote Martin a letter telling him "all about labor and delivery."

Despite an Army mail system that is "all screwed up," Lauri has received a stack of letters from Martin; he has received only a portion of her correspondence.

"We just sent his box for Christmas," Lauri says. Martin had wanted Doritos, a Walkman to replace one ruined by sand, and a camera. He especially misses Burger King and McDonald's restaurants, according to Lauri.

Lauri and Martin met on Halloween night two years ago at Fort Bragg, a U.S. Army base in North Carolina. From the very beginning, Martin would be "out in the field" for most of the year. Last year, he was home just four months out of 12, Lauri says.

Though Martin is scheduled to complete his tour with the Army in January, his unit was recently told its work had been extended to December of 1991.

Because Martin works as an illustrator, one of only 50, hopes of rotation relief are non-existent, according to Lauri.

"He's going to be there awhile," she says, wryly. The difficulties of the separation begun almost immediately after Martin learned of his deployment.

Lauri's doctor had suggested she stay with his family in Independence Township for her delivery. As Lauri and Martin scrambled to close up their apartment and find storage, they realized hundreds of other servicemen and their families were doing the exact same thing.

"We had to go out of town to find storage," Lauri says.

These and countless other details make life with a serviceman difficult.

"Especially when you're trying to run a household," Lauri explains. "He's here for a couple weeks and then gone for months."

Or in the case of the Middle East, perhaps years.

Garden Corner

For healthy poinsettias, watch humidity, drafts

Winter may change the focus but it never stops the flow of gardening questions. Extension specialists at Michigan State University have answered the following inquiries about indoor plants, vegetable gardening and related topics.

Does it really matter what kind of container I use for my houseplants?

It matters a great deal because the type of container you choose, in combination with the way you water your plants, can be a big factor in their survival.

To choose a container, take into account the needs of the plant for dry, moist or wet soil, and your tendency to overwater or neglect plants.

If you tend to overwater plants, you'd be wise to plant them in porous clay pots with drainage holes in the bottom. Excess water can drain out the bottom and escape through the clay.

If you water sparingly — or forget to water at all, sometimes — a glass or plastic container that won't take water out of the soil might be a better choice.

It should have a drainage hole, however, so the soil doesn't remain saturated for days when you do water.

Why do poinsettias so often lose all their leaves after you buy them and take them home?

Poinsettias drop their leaves in response to becoming excessively dry or being exposed to cold drafts.

Fertilizer injury to roots can also cause leaf drop.

Buy plants with dark green, healthy-looking foliage.

Avoid plants sitting near frequently-opened doors where they probably already have been exposed to cold drafts. Wrap your plants well for the trip home.

Once there, place it in a sunny window where it won't be exposed to either hot or cold drafts.

Keep the medium in the pot moist — neither soggy nor parched — by watering when it begins to feel dry.

Fertilize according to the instructions that come with the plant.

I have a pond on my property and I'd like to lure some wood ducks to it by putting out nesting boxes. Any advice?

January and February is the time to put out nest boxes. The ducks start scouting for nesting sites as early as March.

Boxes may be fastened to trees that overhand the water or to posts.

To keep raccoons and other predators out, place a metal shield around the tree or post. It should extend at least 18 inches outward and be far enough from the ground — at least six feet — that predators can't just jump over it.

Place a similar shield above the box if predators might be able to jump or climb down to it from above.

Wood ducks don't mind nesting close to other wood ducks, so you can mount several boxes on the same post or tree.

You'll get several pairs of wood ducks nesting there, however, only if there's enough marshy habitat to support more than one pair.

The height of the box on the post doesn't seem to matter, as long as the box is high enough to discourage predators.

Could I save money buying seed in bulk and sharing it with other gardeners?

Buying seed in quantities larger than the standard packet reduces your unit cost of seed (cost per hill, per foot of row, etc.). That's the main advantage.

To get full value from the savings involved, you have to be willing to go the bother of dividing and packaging the bulk seed and to do without the instructions that appear on seed packets.

You also need to be able to use the larger quantities of seed while it's still viable or store it properly to keep it viable.

There's little to be gained in reducing your cost to plant 25 feet of parsnips, for instance, from 65 cents to 10 cents if you have to throw away 90 percent of the seed because you didn't use it and it won't be good next year.

Dieting devices for the holidays

You don't have to wait until New Year's Day to begin to eat sensibly.

Diet experts offer these suggestions:

■ Drink a large glass of water before each meal. You'll be fuller before you start your meal.

■ Use smaller plates than usual for serving. Psychologically you are full when you finish your plate.

■ Eat slowly; put your fork down every two or three bites.

■ Wrap up leftovers immediately; don't sit around the table finishing them off.

■ Try to eat your large meal in the middle of the day. This will allow you more hours to burn off the calories.

Have you been promoted at work? Give us a call at The Clarkston News, 625-3370. We'll put the news in our Business Briefs.

Let Us Give Thanks

During this holiday season, we pause to offer our sincere thanks to you, our customers. Have a Happy Thanksgiving.

REASONS FOR AUTOPSY

Unlike the impression you might have from television, most autopsies are not performed because of the suspicion of foul play. Rather, they are done primarily for purposes of medical discovery. Death may be natural, but if it is unexpected or the cause is a rare disease, doctors may request an autopsy.

In some instances, an autopsy may be of help to the deceased's descendants, as when it affords early detection of an hereditary disposition toward a certain disease. Occasionally, a family will be unsure why a patient died. They will order an autopsy to see if physician negligence had anything to do with death; or, yes if some kind of foul play was involved.

A medical examiner is charged with investigating all unnatural or otherwise questionable deaths. He may be called if a person has died an accidental, unexplained, or bizarre death; if death occurred without a doctor present; or if there is suspicion of violence or murder.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

SOME BENEFITS OF AGE

QUESTION: What are the advantages of purchasing an older home?

ANSWER: If you want more house for your dollar, you have good cause to look over older houses. For one thing, there are more old houses than new ones. For every new house that will go up this year, there are some 45 existing homes already on the market.

Many older homes offer more abundant space - a special attraction if you have a large family, but a limited budget. Most old homes are in well-established, well-developed neighborhoods. There will be no waiting for streets to be paved, sewers to be connected or schools to be built. All that is going to grace the neighborhood is already there.

IF YOU WANT MORE HOUSE for your dollar, you have good reason to consider purchasing an older home.

Healthy Helpings

Low in calories,
high in satisfaction

Tracy
King

Low-calorie desserts may seem like a contradiction in terms, but they do exist.

Certain substitutes make the biggest difference. For instance regular whipping cream, whipped and sweetened, has 28 calories per tablespoon; the same amount of topping from a mix (made with whole milk) totals just 10 calories.

The following low-calorie desserts were developed by the staff at the Better Homes and Gardens test kitchen.

CHOCOLATE ANGEL CAKE

Makes 16 servings/ 96 calories each

- 1 cup sifted cake flour
- 3/4 cup sifted powdered sugar
- 3 tablespoons unsweetened cocoa powder
- 10 egg whites
- 1 1/2 teaspoons cream of tartar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup sifted powdered sugar

Rum Royale Glaze

Sift together flour, 3/4 cup powdered sugar and cocoa powder into bowl; repeat sifting. Set aside.

In a large mixer bowl beat egg whites with cream of tartar, vanilla and salt at medium speed of electric mixer till soft peaks form (tips curl over). Gradually add the 1 cup powdered sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time, beating at high speed until stiff peaks form (tips stand straight).

Sift about 1/4 cup of the flour mixture over whites; fold in. Repeat, folding in remaining flour by fourths. Turn into an ungreased 9-inch tube pan. Bake on lower rack in a 375-degree oven for 30 to 35 minutes or until cake tests done.

Invert cake in pan; cool. Using a spatula, loosen cake from pan; remove. Drizzle Rum Royale Glaze over cake. Slice into thin wedges to serve.

Rum Royale Glaze:

In small bowl, stir together 1/2 cup sifted powdered sugar, 1/4 teaspoon rum extract, and enough milk (about 2 teaspoons) to make drizzling consistency.

STEAMED CRANBERRY PUDDING

Makes 8 servings/ 137 calories each

- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- Dash ground cloves
- 1/3 cup hot water
- 1/3 cup light molasses
- 1/4 cup packed brown sugar
- 1 cup halved fresh or frozen cranberries
- 1/2 or a 4 1/2-ounce container frozen whipped dessert topping, thawed

In a medium mixing bowl stir together all-purpose flour, baking soda, cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves. In a small mixing bowl combine hot water, light molasses and brown sugar; stir into flour mixture along with halved cranberries.

Pour batter into a greased 1-quart mold. Cover with greased foil; tie securely with string.

Place mold on rack in deep kettle; add boiling water to a depth of 1-inch to kettle.

Cover; steam for 2 1/2 hours, adding more boiling water to kettle, if necessary. Cool steamed pudding 10 minutes; unmold.

Serve warm with whipped topping.

MAPLE DESSERT CUPS

Makes 8 servings/ 66 calories each

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 2/3 cup evaporated skimmed milk
- 1/2 teaspoon maple flavoring
- 1 egg white
- 1 tablespoon brown sugar
- 1/2 of a 4 1/2-ounce container dessert topping, thawed

In saucepan combine gelatin and 2 tablespoons brown sugar; stir in 1/2 cold water. Cook and stir over medium heat until gelatin and sugar dissolve.

Remove from heat; stir in evaporated skimmed milk and maple flavoring. Pour mixture into large bowl; chill until almost set.

Beat egg white and 1 tablespoon brown sugar until stiff peaks form (tips stand straight).

Beat chilled gelatin mixture using electric mixer until light and fluffy. Fold in beaten egg white.

Spoon into 8 sherbert dishes. Chill until firm. To serve, top each serving with dessert topping.

Low holiday meal costs with gas

As the weather turns cold and Michigamians settle into November, thoughts turn to roast turkey and pumpkin pie.

Having family and friends gather for a big turkey dinner on Thanksgiving Day is part of a great American holiday tradition. It's also a good energy value for the 3.4 million people served with natural gas by Consumers Power Co.

How much of an energy value? Consider the following: the cost of the natural gas needed to cook a traditional Thanksgiving meal for 12 guests in 1990 is about 23 cents. The meal costs break down as follows:

■ The cost to roast a stuffed turkey in a gas oven for four hours: 14 cents.

■ Mashed potatoes: a large pan cooked on a gas burner for 20 minutes costs 1/2 cent.

■ Giblet gravy cooked on the stove for 10 minutes costs 1/4 cent.

■ Dinner rolls? Bake the homemade variety for 30 minutes: cost of gas is 2 cents.

■ Bake a vegetable casserole in a gas oven for 30 minutes: cost of gas is 2 cents.

■ No Thanksgiving dinner would be complete without pumpkin pie. Bake two pies for an hour in your gas oven: 4 cents.

Industrial park developers dig in Ground has been broken for a new 100-acre industrial park in Springfield Township near the intersection of Andersonville and White Lake roads.

To be called North Oaks Industrial Park because of the many oak trees on the rolling setting, the site is being developed by Harding Leasing Co.

The first two sites of five acres each will be occupied by a new 16,000-square-foot headquarters and a new 14,000-square-foot warehouse for rapidly growing Clawson Tank Co. Clawson Tank's manufacturing operations will continue in 77,000 square feet of plant adjacent to the park.

The park will center on a new road, Clawson Tank Drive, running north off Andersonville Road, just west of White Lake Road, in a wooded area that is uncongested but adjacent to a railroad and within a mile of Dixie Highway.

GROUND-BREAKING took place recently at the site of the new 100-acre North Oaks Industrial Park near the intersection of Andersonville and White Lake roads, Springfield Township.

Full service hair care at new Dixie Highway store

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Jeannie Rudd reached a goal recently when she opened the door of her hair salon, The Hair Company in Waterfall Plaza, Dixie Highway.

"I dreamed of owning a shop when I was younger, but reality set in — it's difficult to own your own shop," Jeannie says. "I went into this as a realist — knowing I wasn't going to get rich at it."

When Jeannie's daughter, Julie Farrell, 19, went to cosmetology school, Jeannie knew it was time to open her own business. Julie works at her mother's shop with six needs to be repeated monthly, and electrolysis is permanent removal.

She also carries a line of custom-designed tops and slacks, as well as hair care products.

Jeannie may offer yet another service to her customers — massage. Plans aren't complete yet, but she soon may hire a masseuse.

"We are always looking for people to join our staff," she says.

Another plan is to sell make-up products and offer facials.

"That's for the future," Jeannie says.

What's New in Business other cosmetologists: LuAnn Love, Ruth Kerwin, Diann Donnelly, Debra Marceau, Paul Boyd and Dianne Highlen.

Jeannie resides in Brandon Township with her husband, Douglas, who is also a part-owner in The Hair Company. He does much of the maintenance when he's not working full time in the quality control laboratory at General Motors Truck and Bus.

The full-service salon offers cutting, coloring, highlighting, perming, manicuring, plus hair removal by waxing and electrolysis. Waxing is a temporary removal that manicuring and hair removal — in addition to full-service hair care.

JOHN BLOSS of Ypsilanti uses a 90-inch tree space to transplant a 25-foot-tall Colorado Blue Spruce to the northwest corner of Washington and Main streets, Clarkston, on Nov. 14. The tree, which came from the front yard of Douglas and Judy Roeser's Church Street home, replaces a diseased tree removed from the Main-Washington Street corner. The tree-moving was paid for by the Clarkston Rotary Club and by Interact, the Rotary's youth organization at Clarkston High School. As in past years, the Rotary Club planned to decorate the tree. (Photo by Sandra G. Conien)

VILLAGE COUNCIL

MINUTES OF REGULAR MEETING

November 13, 1990

Meeting called to order by President Catallo at 7:35 p.m. followed by the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

Roll. Present: Basinger, Catallo, Mauti, Roeser, Schultz, Whitmer.

Absent: Haven.
Moved by Roeser and supported by Mauti, "That the minutes of the October 22, 1990, regular meeting be accepted." Motion carried.

Moved by Mauti and supported by Basinger, "That the bills in the amount of $37,125.97 be approved for payment." Roll. Yeas 6, Nays 0. Motion carried.

The Agenda was accepted after the following changes: Bill total changed to $37,125.97. MDOT Annual Permit was added as Item 6 in New Business. Item 4 of New Business (Planning Commission Recommendation - Bed and Breakfast) was transferred to Old Business. Item 3, Park Area Planter and Gate were tabled until next meeting.

Trustee Roeser asked that he be furnished with information regarding the amount of road salt requested for the 1990-91 year. Also, Trustee Roeser asked that the Village Manager contact the Village Engineer to determine if the Village wetlands were to be effected by proposed sewer lines.

Trustee Whitmer reported on home improvement loans through Community Development Block Grant funds. He explained guidelines of the program. Trustee Whitmer is to contact Oakland County to determine how long these loans will be available.

The following Charter Commission Members completed their oaths of office: Jackson Byers, James Hitchcock, Thomas Hunter, Richard Johnston, Charles Robertson, Karen Sanderson, and Stephen Secatch.

Richard Johnston announced that the first Charter Commission meeting would be held at the Village Hall on November 29, 1990, at 7:30 p.m.

Members of the Planning Commission (Tom Goldner, Bill Rausch, Barbara Thomson) were present to discuss the two Planning Commission recommendations concerning the sign ordinance and bed and breakfast ordinance.

Tom Goldner requested that consideration be given to retain the following provision in the sign ordinance under (3) Exceptions, No. 8, as follows:

Signs that are considered correct for a particular historic structure and/or the era of the building as deemed acceptable by the Village of Clarkston Council with favorable recommendation from the Historic District Commission.

After considerable discussion, the Village Attorney was instructed to determine if specific standards could be established for this provision, and this would be presented to the Planning Commission at their next meeting.

Sherry Kaars from Lighthouse North was present to request that the Village of Clarkston pledge $2,000 from the next Community Development Block Grant allocation. Ms. Kaars explained the use of these funds and the function of the Lighthouse North operation.

Trustee Whitmer suggested a ten percent donation rather than one third of the total funds.

President Catallo asked the Council to study this request and a decision as to the amount allocated for Lighthouse North would be made at the next regular meeting.

Carol Eberhardt was present to discuss the proposed Bed and Breakfast ordinance recommended by the Planning Commission. Reference was made to the packet of research information compiled by Lynn Kacy that included information from the Michigan Municipal League.

Trustee Basinger was concerned that this was a commercial use in a residential area, and that the Village of Clarkston differed from the communities with Bed and Breakfast establishments, i.e. college towns and resort areas.

The Council requested that a notice be published to inform Village residents that they could express concerns regarding Bed and Breakfast establishments at the next regular Village Council meeting on November 26. The Village Attorney will research some of the concerns expressed by the Council. The Village Manager was instructed to inform the absent council members to furnish the Village Attorney with any concerns that required research prior to the November 26 meeting.

Some of the Council's present concerns were: 1) Number of people allowed to stay at one time in a bed and breakfast establishment; 2) Parking and screening; 3) Minimum charges.

Moved by Mauti, supported by Schultz, "That a public hearing be held at the November 26 meeting for the purpose of discussing the Bed and Breakfast proposal." Motion carried.

President Catallo asked that more copies of the proposed ordinance be made available for the next regular meeting. Lynn Kacy agreed to furnish these.

The Village Attorney was instructed to contact Mr. Gerald Anderson regarding the lot split requested by Ruth Mast to determine if this lot split was desired prior to selling the property.

Moved by Schultz, supported by Mauti, "That the meeting of December 24 be cancelled." Motion carried.

Trustee Mauti stated that he was the Youth Assistance liaison from the Village Council and would attend meetings as requested by that organization.

The Annual Permit for Work on State Highways was tabled for review by the Village Attorney and insurance coverage could be determined.

Moved by Basinger, supported by Schultz, "That the meeting be adjourned." Motion carried. The meeting was adjourned at 9:50 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,
Artemus M. Pappas
Acting Clerk

Desert-bound packages filled with thoughts, food

A flurry of effort at Bailey Lake Elementary School last week filled boxes and boxes with letters, frisbees, hard candy, toilet paper, playing cards, cassette tapes, Kool-Aid, beef salami and more.

The boxes were bound for Saudi Arabia, in hopes of reaching the country before Christmas.

The Bailey Lake effort began when Air Force Reserve Tom Bills, a former Parent Teacher Association president and Clarkston Board of Education member, was called to action.

His daughter, Katie, is a student at Bailey Lake, and the faculty and teachers know Tom well from his school involvement. The group decided to pool their efforts and send Tom a care package.

When they discovered that students Leah Ratliff and Jennifer Essex had brothers in the Persian Gulf as well, they included them as recipients, too. Leah's brother Tom and Jennifer's brother Joe are in the U.S. Navy.

The effort was organized by PTA member Linda Lewis of Cayuga, Independence Township. Val Henderson of Clearview helped her package up the collection of goodies, some of which will go to "any soldier."

Below is a sampling of letters from the elementary pupils.

Stacy Grutza of Clarkston was a member of the choir in the Central Michigan University Theatre production of "Blues for Mister Charlie."

Grutza, a sophomore, is studying political science at CMU. She graduated from Clarkston High School and is the daughter of Cindy Grutza of Clarkston and David Grutza of St. Clair Shores.

A 1987 Clarkston High School graduate, Laura Manser, will be appearing in Eastern Michigan University's December production of "The Prince, the Wolf and the Firebird."

Pet of the Week

FANNY doesn't have a tail or ear, but she's lovable and in need of a new home.

Friendly Fanny

Fanny's tail is missing — along with one ear. But the 6-month-old cat still can hear. And despite her missing parts, she's lovable.

The short-haired cat with black and white coloring was picked up as a stray, so the history behind her missing parts remains unknown.

The $50 adoption fee includes spaying.

To see Fanny, visit the Michigan Humane Society at 3600 Auburn Rd., Auburn Hills, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Class helps kids cope with being home alone

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Some Andersonville Elementary pupils learned a few tips about being home alone a few weeks ago -- thanks to the efforts of Cheryl Apple, an on-call Springfield Township firefighter.

The Home Alone program was offered as an after-school enrichment class through Clarkston Community Education.

Apple talked to kids about such concerns as walking home from the bus stop -- it's better to travel in groups, she said.

"If you're by yourself, it's easier for something to happen," she said. "With other people, it makes it harder."

Afterward, she said she was glad to teach the class. "A lot of kids now are home alone," she said. "This

"A lot of kids now are home alone. 'This lets them know how to be prepared.'" lets them know how to be prepared. ... You never know what will happen these days. We have some strange people out there."

Cheryl Apple

Helpful hints on handling "home alone" situations are listed below:

Phone calls: Children sometimes feel better talking to someone on the phone when they're home alone. But they should talk for only a few minutes at a time, so their parents may reach them if necessary.

Leaving home: Children shouldn't leave their houses without their parents' permission. Otherwise, their parents may come home and think their children are missing.

First aid: If kids are home alone, they should ask their parents what to do in case of cuts, scrapes, insect bites and burns. If a serious injury occurs, the kids should dial 9-1-1.

Friends: Friends shouldn't come over unless both sets of parents know about it first.

After school: When arriving home after school, children should look for signs of broken windows and open doors or windows. If those signs are present, they may mean that someone tried to break into the house. Children should not enter the home but should instead go to a neighbor's house or a nearby business to phone their parents or the police.

If everything looks normal, children may go inside.

They should be sure to lock the door right away, so they don't forget to later. If possible, it's a good idea to call a parent to let him or her know you're home.

Loneliness: Sometimes kids get lonely when they're home alone. One idea is to plan something to do after school every day. First, do chores; then, work on hobbies.

If you're really lonely, maybe you can talk to a friend on the phone for a few minutes.

If you go outside, put the phone where you can hear it ring. And if you have to leave the house, call a parent to let him or her know.

Power outage: If the power goes out, call a parent and ask him or her what you should do. You should find out where a flashlight can be found. Usually, the power is only out for a few minutes.

Strangers: Never let a stranger know you're home alone, whether they come to the door or call on the phone. Either way, tell them something like, "Mom can't come to the phone right now." You don't have to tell them why. You can offer to take a message. Or tell them to call or drop by again in an hour.

The Other Side of Things

Remembering when...
with a Turkeyware party

Ashley Ball

Remember the week before Thanksgiving when you were in kindergarten ... you decorated your classroom with turkeys you'd made with your handprints? Remember how much fun you had when you coated each of your fingers, your palm, your thumb (and then your clothes) with red, orange, yellow, and brown paints ... and then splatted your hand onto a sheet of paper to make a turkey print?

Remember how your mother oooohed and ahhhed when you brought your turkey handprint home? And how you kept on making turkeys at home until, by Thanksgiving Day, the fridge was covered in turkeys? Oh, what precious memories!

If you would give your right hand to make just one more handprint turkey, then have I got a deal for you! It's called Ashley's Turkey Art ATA, a nationally acclaimed home turkey party scam ... uh ... plan ... whereby you can purchase handprint turkey kits through exciting home turkey parties. It's like a Tupperware party, except it's a Turkeyware party.

To host a Turkeyware party, just invite a few of your friends over one evening. Order a few Little Caesar's pizzas, then call me! I'll stop over, eat some pizza, then sell you a bunch of Turkeyware kits.

ATA kits were certainly designed with turkeys in mind. Each kit contains a wide assortment of paints: brown, yellow, red and orange ... and, for a large extra charge, you can also purchase a kindergarten sized hand (if yours is now too big.) And you can spend many pleasant hours printing turkey after turkey in the privacy of your own home.

So, if you regret the day you had to move on from kindergarten to the lofty learning of first grade ... if you still harbor that secret desire to make just one more hand print turkey, then call me, today, at my ATA world headquarters located in downtown Clarkston. The number is 1-800-TUR-KEYS!

I will schedule a Turkeyware party for you in your home, in the home of someone you know or, perhaps, in the home of someone none of us knows! That can make for an interesting party even if no one orders pizza.

That number, again, is 1-800-TUR-KEYS!

If, for some reason, that turns out to be a non-working number, then write to me, Ashley Ball, in care of The Clarkston News ... and complain. The 99th writer will receive his or her choice of a Veg-O-Matic, a slightly used Jinsu knife, a medic alert transmit pennant, or whatever else I can find around the office.

Anyway, about the handprint turkeys, which is, as I recall, what this column is about ... or was it about Little Caesar's pizza? Whatever.

What really matters is that the next Turkeyware party is scheduled at the home of Mr. Licata, the Clarkston Junior High School principal. I'M NOT KIDDING! The entire CJHS student body is invited. I know he's ordering pizza, but you'll have to check with him in the hallway about time.

P.S. -- And please, Mr. Licata, don't feel you have to thank me for publicizing your party. It's just my little way of saying HAPPY THANKSGIVING!

Reading adds books to Bailey Lake School

BY SUE JENEREAUX

Paper shoes circling the halls of Bailey Lake Elementary show the progress of students in the World Book Partners in Excellence Reading Program.

Sponsored by the Bailey Lake Parent Teacher Association (PTA), with Sue Wagner as chairwoman, the program requires participating students to read seven to 10 books in a seven-week period (Oct. 5-Nov. 23), with pledges from sponsors for each book read.

World Book contributes $1 for each $2 raised by the students. All pledges collected will be used to purchase World Book, Childcraft or Early World of Learning for the classrooms.

The program gives pupils a chance to sharpen their reading skills and at the same time help the PTA reach their goal of placing World Book educational products in every classroom.

Some students have read more than 50 books. Each time a student reads a book, he hands in a paper in the shape of a shoe with his name and the name of the book on it. The shoes are beginning their fourth trip around the school hallways.

Pledges are being collected Nov. 26 through Nov. 28. Corporate and individual sponsors may also may a tax-deductible contribution.

For more information, call 625-7499.

Sue Jenereaux is the mother of two Bailey Lake Elementary School students, and she's helping with the Partners in Excellence program.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY Spirit. Holy spirit you make me see everything, and show me the way to reach my ideals. You give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrongs that are done to me and you are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more, that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with you and my love ones in your perpetual glory. Amen. Persons must pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking for your wish. After the 3rd day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this dialogue as soon as your favor is granted. Nancy M. IILX46-2
