Mystery solved

Clarkston-area actress plays part in cracking case

BY TRACY KING
 Clarkston News Associate Editor

An excited J.J. Allen telephoned The Clarkston News offices Thursday, March 21.

At first, the excitement seemed the normal reaction of an actress who had just appeared on national network television.

Allen, in fact, had appeared the night before on NBC's "Unsolved Mysteries." The Independence Township actress had been featured in The News last January, after she was chosen to portray a Coldwater, Mich., woman allegedly murdered by her husband last Easter Sunday.

Allen was excited, certainly. But the real reason for her flush went much further.

"After the show, the police recognized the van," Allen said, hurriedly. "He saw police and fled."

"He shot himself somewhere near the Mississippi border," Allen continued. "I just thought you'd want to know."

The "he" Allen referred to was Dennis Du Pue, last seen on the outskirts of Coldwater, changing the license plates on his van, hours after his wife, Marilyn, had been killed.

A few hours after "Unsolved Mysteries" aired March 20, police engaged Du Pue in a chase in Mississippi. Du Pue shot at two pursuing officers. He then reportedly turned the gun on himself.

"We knew he had fled the state," said Sgt. Patrick Loss, the Branch County Sheriff's detective investigating the murder. "I had read about the speed with which "I had hoped it would help the case. I never dreamed it would be like this."

Sgt. Patrick Loss

(NBC's Unsolved Mysteries) worked to catch criminals.

"I had hoped it would help the case," he added. "I never dreamed it would be like this."

The Du Pues were in the process of a divorce, and had been arguing about child visitation. After Marilyn Du Pue fell down the stairs during the argument, Dennis told the children he was taking her to the hospital.

Her bloodied body was later found in a ditch.

Dennis Du Pue was seen changing his license plates on the outskirts of the county hours later.

Coldwater police had received information about Du Pue twice since the murder, Loss said.

About a week after Marilyn's body was found, Du Pue had written letters to family and friends, explaining why he had done what he had done. In July, he did the same thing.

"We knew the postmarks of the first letters were in the Virginia area," Loss explained. "The ones sent in July were from Oklahoma and Iowa."

"The problem was, they were postmarked and dated on the same afternoon, so we didn't know which direction he was heading," he said.

"I thought Florida," Loss added. "He particularly liked tropical climates. After that, we heard nothing."

That is, until "Unsolved Mysteries" aired. After the program was seen, the Branch County Sheriff's Department received dozens of calls.

Easter egg hunt

Children have a chance to meet the Easter Chicken as well as hunt for eggs this weekend.

The annual Easter egg hunt at Sashabaw Presbyterian Church is set for 11 a.m. Saturday, March 30. The church is at 5300 Maybee Road, next to North Sashabaw Elementary School, Independence Township.

The hunt is for children pre-school age through sixth grade.

For more information, call 673-3101.

A rare breed

THIS CAT'S meow is not as startling as its appearance. Carrie, 5, a rare "Rex" variety, attracted attention at the Michigan Humane Society last week. For adoption information (and a look at it in a milder mood), see Page 39. (Photo by Curt McAllister)

Where's Peter Cottontail?

ARMED with an Easter bonnet and basket, Katie Peabody, 3 1/2, doesn't mind posing for a photo for her dad, Paul of Kingfisher, Independence Township. The two had heard that the Easter Bunny would be in action at Clintonwood Park on March 23, and they tried their luck at finding eggs. More photos are throughout the paper and on the back page. Company chosen for library addition

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A St. Clair Shores company has been selected by the Independence Township Board to construct the library's new addition.

On March 19, the John M. Olson Co. was unanimously selected by the board. The builder offered a bid of $1,324,700, which is 19 percent lower than the township's set estimated budget. According to officials at TMP Associates, the library's architectural firm, John M. Olson's offer was $15,300 less than the second lowest bidder, Usztan Construction, Inc., of Auburn Hills.

Seventeen companies bid on the library addition.

The John M. Olson Co. has been in business more than 20 years contracting commercial and institutional buildings. It's responsible for facilities such as the $5 million Washtenaw County recreation center and the Dearborn Inn.

The 16,000-square-foot library addition will include a 200-person meeting room and five other rooms ranging from local history to audio-visual. The addition will be paid for with a $2 million bond issued approved by voters Nov. 8, 1988.

Donald Lerch, the project manager with John M. Olson Co., said the addition will begin with an April 12 ground breaking ceremony. He estimates that it should be completed sometime in the fall.

Show helps solve murder case

One call was particularly important.

"The operator asked me to take over the call," Loss explained. "That original phone call was the best lead. I was 99.9 percent sure that this was our guy."

The woman caller was able to identify several of Du Pue's characteristics — which had purposefully kept from the public — such as his love of college basketball and his Michigan State University alma mater.

Police were able to put out an all-points bulletin in the vicinity where Du Pue was last seen.

Officers in the area recognized the van in question and found the vehicle to have stolen license plates from Texas.

A chase ensued; Du Pue fired two shots at officers and apparently then turned the gun on himself. Police found Du Pue in the van with a gunshot wound to the head.

Loss said though the end of the case comes as a relief, he has mixed feelings about how it came about.

He was surprised at Du Pue's violence towards police, he said.

"I'm glad we are able to put it to rest," he explained. "But there are always questions unanswered."

"When you take a bit of yourself and put in a year on a case, there are things you just don't forget," he added. "I would've liked to have put him through a trial," Ross concluded.

Corrections

A story about a student conflict at the Pontiac Sliverdome in last week's Clarkston News should have said that Clarkston Junior High School won't take part in the annual Say-No-To-Drug Jamboree in the future.

The Clarkston Junior High School honor roll in last week's Clarkston News should have included eighth-grader Timothy Szykula on the "All A's" list.

Thou shalt not trespass

If you're on another's property in Springfield without written permission, you may get ticketed.

On March 13, the Springfield Township Board unanimously adopted trespass Ordinance 60 that reads, "A person shall not enter in or remain upon the lands of another except where authorized by state law without having in their possession the written consent of the owner, his lessee, or agent."

Township looks to renovate, rejuvenate Baycourt

A parks and recreation operating millage could be on the horizon

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Despite three years of vacancy, Independence Township officials haven't given up on Baycourt Park.

Purchased for $500,000 in 1988, the 50-acre park in the southwest portion of the township has remained relatively unused, except for the occasional report of trespassers or vandals.

It was pegged to be the third recreational park in the township, but voters nixed an operating millage in fall 1988. Since that time, the former summer camp has stood empty.

However, the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department has started planning for its resurgence.

On March 19, the township board unanimously approved a master plan that calls for the refurbishment of Baycourt. According to Ann Conklin, director of the parks and recreation department, the entire task would cost about $5 million.

Conklin said her department has big plans for the park. These proposed changes include:

- At a cost of $2.7 million, converting the 10,000-square-foot lodge into a community center.

- Renovating a 1,200-square-foot cabin for a children's center.

- Merging two existing cabins to create a 2,000-square-foot multiple-use building.

- Setting aside a 1,500-square-foot cabin for a teen center.

- Restoring four cabins, circa 1917, with one being transported near the Andersonville Road entrance.

- Creating a 150-person amphitheater for community programs.

- Expanding the existing beach area on Greens Lake and building a beach house.

- Clearing and creating nearly a mile's worth of nature trails for walkers and joggers.

Conklin said the proposed plan would call for the elimination of nearly half the existing cabins to accommodate the patrons. With nearly 200 spaces allotted for parking, she foresees Baycourt handling 1,500 visitors a day.

Despite the passage of Baycourt's master plan, Conklin said it will be difficult to raise the needed revenue. She is presently submitting two grant applications to the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

These two grants would help pay for the development of the park's infrastructure and beach area. Both

BAYCOURT Park could be revitalized under a master plan approved by the Independence Township Board. The parks and recreation department is proposing $5 million in renovations to the former summer camp, but raising the revenue will be a challenge.

grants could bring in $1 million to the project, with the township's general fund being responsible for $250,000 of the total.

However, Conklin said the remaining $4 million could be difficult to raise. She is hoping that the money will come from alternative resources such as donations and financing.

Conklin will also be devising a proposal for the next board meeting, when she will ask the trustees to put an operating millage on the August ballot. The proposal will probably ask for one mill over five years. She said it would average out to about $55 a residence per year.

Conklin said the parks and recreation department has grown to the point where it needs additional funding.

"We're growing so quickly that the township's general fund can't keep up with our needs," she said.

"This millage will help us provide better services to the community and keep up with its growing demands. If it doesn't pass, we'll be able to maintain but not expand to our public's needs.

"We're presently 'maxed' out," she added.

Statistically, Conklin said resident participation has more than doubled in the past three years. Her records show that 16,598 people participated in recreation-sponsored activities in 1987. In 1990, this number rose to 34,791.

Senior citizen participation has also risen in three years. It has gone from 21,000 in 1987 to 28,000 last year.

Conklin sees no letdown over the next 10 years either.

"Over the next decade, I see us playing a vital role in the township," she said. "We try to keep a finger on the pulse of the community and listen to its needs. We're hoping the public remembers this if the millage reaches the polls."

The parks and recreation department also operates Clintonwood Park on Clarkston Road and Sashabaw Plains Park on Maybee Road.

District explores laws for handicapped children

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

When Laverna Brown was told that two physically impaired students would be joining her sixth-grade Sashabaw Junior High School classroom, she was fearful, she admits.

"It's not my expertise," Brown remembers thinking. "I teach sixth grade."

As part of the district's "Least Restrictive Environment" (LRE) policy, Brown attended a series of transition meetings to understand and prepare for her special students.

The information provided "a wealth of knowledge," she says, and it contributed to a positive experience overall.

"We've had some good experiences," Brown says. "I have seen great strides made with them."

As more and more impaired students are schooled within general education classrooms in Clarkston, stories such as Brown's are repeated.

Clarkston board of education members heard some of those stories and details of the district's emerging LRE policy at a special meeting March 14.

Handicapped children are entitled to a "least restrictive" education by federal and state laws, explained Special Services Director Robert Brumback.

Generally, that means handicapped children must be educated with nonhandicapped children to the maximum extent appropriate.

To this end, 11 impaired students are schooled in general classrooms in Clarkston. Four of these students spend half the day in Clarkston, and half the day in "center programs" throughout the county, which educate only impaired youngsters.

"There is still a lot of fear and unanswered questions."

Patricia Brumback

About 65 impaired students are transported from the Clarkston district and are schooled entirely in center programs.

The LRE clause became part of federal law in 1975. In the early '80s "hardly anyone paid attention" to it, according to Brumback.

Though the law is now being utilized, parts of it are open to interpretation, Brumback says.

One thing is clear, however. The law stresses that whenever possible, a child should be schooled in his home district.

"(Impaired students) are there unless it doesn't work any more," Brumback says.

The decision to stay within the district is an option open to any student.

"We put it on the table (for discussion)," Brumback says. "It doesn't mean we choose it, but we put it on the table."

The contact between families with impaired children and the Special Services Department begins as early as possible, often when the child is still a baby.

As the child nears school age, a committee of parents, teachers, administrators and professionals meets extensively to evaluate options the child's education. A 13-step process is used to assist in the process.

One important function of this process is determining what the child needs to help him or her learn. This might include an aide, therapists, special equipment and more.

"If there is any way to help that youngster be successful in a regular environment, the law says you have to do it," Brumback explains.

Patricia Brumback, another member of the special service staff, told the board that the process was still evolving.

"Is this easy? Not necessarily," Brumback advised the board. "There is still a lot of fear and unanswered questions."

"But so far it's working and it's very exciting."

The board heard from three parents who attested to that fact.

Ty Fouchey, father of a Sashabaw Junior High School student with Downs Syndrome, related how his daughter was, at first, mainstreamed into gym, art and music classes.

"As Beth got older, mainstreaming was not enough," Fouchey says. "As she moved to the junior high we were really not satisfied with the options."

Eventually, Beth was schooled entirely in general education classrooms, an option that has had a pronounced effect, Fouchey says.

"A lot of planning comes in and it requires extra resources," Fouchey says. "But it is absolutely the right way to go."

"She is always smiling and has really advanced, particularly socially," he adds.

"We appreciate the support of Clarkston schools' flexibility," he adds.

School is good but can get better, say auditors

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

The Clarkston school district generally doesn't know how good it is, according to a team of professionals surveying the high school.

Twenty-eight education professionals spent three days studying the district as part of the North Central Accreditation process.

Their general observations were unveiled in a presentation March 14. A complete report, compiled from the visit and an intensive self-study done by high school administrators, will be delivered this spring.

The team was spearheaded by Robert Maxfield, superintendent of the Berkley School District.

"Your kids can't say enough good things about you," Maxfield said. "They have an undying spirit — they're high on teachers, high on the administration — they feel good about being a student in Clarkston High School.

"An over-riding theme, however, is we don't believe you know how good you are," he added. "You're as good as your kids say you are — not that there aren't things to work on."

The "things to work on" were listed from among several major areas of study, such as philosophy, curriculum, community relations, guidance, media services and facilities.

In almost every category, Maxfield stressed that the school had "a good start" but that there was "more to do."

In the area of philosophy, for instance, Maxfield pointed to a strong philosophy posted throughout the building but said it isn't necessarily carried over into curriculum.

"It's consistent with where Clarkston is today," he explained. "But what about 20 years from now?"

"Inclusion — that kind of stuff — didn't find its way into the philosophy," he added.

On the topic of community relations, Maxfield

"You're as good as your kids say you are — not that there aren't things to work on."

Robert Maxfield

identified Clarkston as an area in transition.

"It's easy to see positives," he began. "People are beginning to see that they are becoming a moving-up-school in a suburban area.

"The normal tensions exist," he added. "There is lots of parent support, volunteers and school programs. But there are concerns.

"You have some serious financial issues that have to be dealt with," he concluded. "There is a serious financial gap between what is available and (what are) the aspirations of the community."

Relations within the school, which Maxfield described as "terribly important," were "better than you think," he said.

Data tracing student progress wasn't clear, he said, warning that the information was important in determining trouble spots.

The school's curriculum has enormous strengths, Maxfield said, and is successful in large part due to teacher enthusiasm.

"You have enthusiastic, gung-ho teachers," he commented. "Conditions are overcrowded, and they may sometimes be unfocused, but teachers are trying like mad."

The district is "ahead of the game" in special education initiatives, according to Maxfield.

"There is an acceptance of the special ed. staff," he said. "The district is beginning inclusion efforts, and generally kids are pretty well served."

Maxfield pointed to the loss of a seven-period day as a concern and said class size and disparity was also a problem.

The school's guidance department was a strength, he said, though he warned that "we're not sure that you're sure what the role of guidance is."

In studying facilities, Maxfield said "team members had a field day."

"There are strengths," Maxfield said. "There seems to be a general 'Yeah, people are unhappy, but people continue to make do.'"

He described the current high school as "well-cared for."

"Certainly at one time this was a serviceable building," Maxfield said. "But things have changed. It's certainly not OK for what you want to do in the future."

On the topic of staff and administration, Maxfield pointed to a universal acceptance of individuals.

"People feel the job is getting done," he said. "They feel administrators have improved, and issues and business have been taken care of."

He also pointed to concerns surrounding staff and administrators.

"You're carrying a couple of burdens," he stated. "Whether it's a principal that tragically died or that someone had to leave three years ago — these are ghosts that ought to be expelled."

Staff involvement was a real plus at Clarkston High

"You have some serious financial issues that have to be dealt with."

Clarkston's sidewalks to be replaced -- again

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Sidewalks on Main Street weren't a side issue but rather the main issue at the last two Clarkston Village Council meetings.

On March 11, village council members agreed with some residents that the new sidewalks installed because of construction in the Michigan Bell Conduit Project weren't as good as the old sidewalks.

So a few days later, representatives from the council and Michigan Bell took a closer look at the sidewalks. Their findings were presented at the March 25 meeting, where it was decided that many of the sidewalks will again be dug up at the expense of Michigan Bell.

Gary Tressel, the village's consulting engineer from Hubble, Roth and Clark (HRC), was one of those who took a second look. He wasn't impressed at the work done by Seibert Construction, which was hired by Michigan Bell.

"While the structural integrity is adequate, the aesthetic quality leaves something to be desired," said Tressel.

Cheryl Mathews, an engineer and construction supervisor for Michigan Bell, said her company will make any needed changes.

"We can make sure the problems are resolved," said Mathews.

Council President Sharron Catallo said she will only be happy when the sidewalks look like they used to look.

"We promised everyone it would be the same way it was before," said Catallo.

Council member William Basinger agreed with Catallo, even "if that means tearing up 75 percent of the sidewalks."

Basinger added, "This is a walking town."

HRC now is to determine which of the replaced sidewalks need another replacing.

The work began last fall, but the winter thaw is now giving residents a better look.

Two village residents who didn't like the new look voiced their opinions at the March 11 council meeting.

"We want it back the way it was before the digging was taken out," said James Hitchcock of 62 N. Main in Clarkston.

Hitchcock's neighbor, James Smith of 58 N. Main, said the holes left by some of the construction were dangerous.

"Children in the neighborhood could have been killed; it was that deep," said Smith, who was especially concerned around Halloween.

Smith also was upset while the construction was in progress.

"The windows rattled; the dishes rattled. It was monstrous," said Smith.

Smith also said he did not receive a notice about when the work would start.

"If that was the case, then it was our fault," said Richard Duden, a general contractor for Seibert. Duden said he thought Clarkston residents had been contacted before construction.

Mathews said Seibert also battled Mother Nature during construction.

"In the process to beat the rush of winter weather, things didn't work out exactly," said Mathews.

The project is supposed to be completed by June.

Reporter's Notebook

The staff at Le Mead's restaurant is not celebrating yet. Chief Warrant Officer Lynn Mead, general manager and head chef of the Independence Township restaurant, may be in Fort Benning, Ga., for another six to eight months. He helps run the food service at the base.

An Oakland County Sheriff's deputy received a shock two weeks ago when he picked up what he thought was a stranded female motorist.

About 1 a.m., the officer spotted a lone, mini-skirted figure walking along Sashabaw Road near Maybee Road, Independence Township.

Assuming the woman was a broken down motorist, he stopped to assist. To the officer's surprise, the woman wasn't stranded. And she wasn't a woman.

The embarrassed 19-year-old admitted to the officer that he enjoyed putting on women's clothing and walking around in the dark.

At the Clarkston Area Optimist Dinner Dance and auction March 16, Independence Township's attorney, Gerald Fisher, outbid all others to win an official township flag (donated by Clerk Joan McCrary) and a U.S. flag from the state senate building (donated by Sen. Dave Honigman).

At the same fund-raising event, Clarkston schools Superintendent Gary Haner ended up with the winning raffle ticket for a mountain bike.

The bike will come in handy for the superintendent if the financial shape of the school district gets any worse and he has to give up his car, quipped master of ceremonies Jim Evans.

Spring blows in with marshmallows

Julie Campe

The parking lot at Clintonwood Park was filled to capacity for the annual Easter egg hunt and marshmallow drop.

Though it had stormed the evening before (leaving a parking lot of mud), this day was sunny and bright — and windy.

After I parked, I scouted the area for the best photo opportunity. Throngs of children and parents were everywhere — on a softball diamond, near the soccer fields.

My goal was to capture the Easter egg hunt on film. I quickly decided that I'd better find the youngest group — the 0- to 4-year-olds. They would not rush, being less experienced egg gatherers, and I would have time to get a few pictures.

I took my spot in the middle of left field on one of the softball diamonds. Around the perimeter, parents and their children lined up, waiting for the Easter Bunny's signal to begin the egg search.

The wind, gusting suddenly and unexpectedly, blew one boy's bag across the field. Joyously, he chased it and caught it.

One youngster, oblivious to the Easter Bunny's pending signal, toddled out to grab one of the bright plastic eggs. She did not understand why her mother scooped her up and carried her back to the line.

At last, the Easter Bunny looked ready. On one knee, I steadied my camera and prepared for the photos.

The Easter Bunny gave the signal, and WOOSH! I had time for three photos before the kids (and parents) vacuumed the field of all eggs. These kids were more experienced than I had expected.

What's more, some parents got into the act as well. I witnessed one mother grab an egg out of the clumsy grasp of a toddler, who didn't even know how his egg disappeared.

Meanwhile, some parents who had remained behind at the line, vocally encouraged their children to search for the eggs themselves. Some of those children, not having mastered coordination skills yet, ended up with no eggs. They did not seem to mind much, however, as the excitement of the hunt was invigorating in itself.

I will not forget the look of delight on one boy's face. He had found only one egg, but he beamed about his treasure, turning it over and over, clasping it proudly.

Soon it was time for the marshmallows to fall from the sky. For the little ones, marshmallows were dropped by the garbage bagful from a "cherry picker."

For the older ones, a helicopter did the trick, dropping marshmallows on each of its three passes over the crowded soccer field.

That was a sight to see! Thousands of swarming people ran and darted hundreds of yards to find those marshmallows (which they later turned in for prizes).

Children and adults together laughed with delight at the sight of so many bodies going almost as fast as the spring wind, which carried the tiny white globs through the sky.

Afterward, fighting the wind on my way back to the car, I noticed a lone marshmallow tucked between a stone and a stick in the parking lot. I bent for a closer look and saw tiny teeth marks in the marshmallow.

Trees and Me

by Lelane McCarty

When I was growing up
I spent a lot of time in trees
I remember climbing up
our neighbor's apple tree
To the very top
I loved the feel of the bark against my skin
Warm and rough
The sunshine dappling the ground with leaf shadows
I loved sitting in the crook of a large maple tree
With a book
A faint breeze rustling the leaves
Bringing the scent of lilac on a warm spring day
Sliding into summer

Sneaking into Mrs. McNaught's yard
Swiftly climbing up into her forbidden pear tree
For crispy, juicy and delicious green pears and a stomach ache
Sometimes I would shelter at the base of an old oak tree
during a warm summer rain
Listening to the raindrops making that silky sound as they slide down the leaves
Everyone wondered why I never played much with other kids
My friends were the trees
I love them still
For shelter
For shade
For the very air we breathe
And for a good book on a sunny afternoon

Jim's Jottings

Heady stuff in D.C.

Each March a few hundred newspaper people, mostly weekly-paper publishers, meet in Washington, D.C.

This month we attended the 30th Government Affairs Conference of the National Newspaper Association.

Three senators, four cabinet members, a couple Washington newspaper people, a president's assistant and General Colin Powell, chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, spoke to us.

It was a heady couple of days. It was also political. Three speakers in a row Thursday morning, Sen. Sasser (D-TN), Sen. Kerrey, (D-NE) and Secretary of Health and Human Services Sullivan, pitched for national health insurance . . . primarily for prenatal and very young children.

None mentioned cost.

Every speaker had at least one quote about newspapers. Only Gen Powell's was favorable. One said General Sherman said, "Even if I kill all the journalists there would still be news from Hell before breakfast."

Gen Schwartzkopf was quoted as saying he "endured the press." The military, we were told, blames the press for lack of public support in Vietnam.

What a terrible business we're in.

Hopefully, Jim's Jottings is more for entertaining than threatening, so my notes are light.

Gen Powell was asked if he was concerned that the Iraqi army might run right through Kuwait into Saudi Arabia. That was a big concern, he said.

Powell said to head off such a drive, "We got enough force in there to let Hussein know he was pulling on Superman's cape, and he better stop."

We, Hazel and I, visited the Spanish embassy and heard nearly three hours of talk. They have much to say, especially about 1992.

In that year we and they will celebrate the quincentennial of the discovery of America. In 1992 Spain will host the Summer Olympics, the World's Fair (April to October), and Madrid is the European cultural capital designate.

The Tall Ships will start a tour there in 1992, there will be an America's Cup Challenge and the three Caravelles, the Nina, Pinta and Santa Maria have been constructed and will retrace Columbus's first route to the New World.

The Ambassador told us, "In 1993 we die." Attorney General Dick Thornburgh reminded us that 5 of 6 guns used in murders are bought on the black market; don't look for gun-control laws.

I was told Gen Swartzkopf was asked what he thought of the retired generals interpreting the gulf war on TV, and Stormin' Norman was not complimentary. That question was put to Gen Powell. He said, "Some were good, some weren't so good, others were OK."

Which general do you think might run for public office?

Washington is under construction. Construction is everywhere, even though the economy is rotten there. Fewer people were at our conference, fewer were in the hotel, fewer in the malls and wet weather was not the only reason.

Former Oxford Leader editor Clem Cleveland recommended we eat at Hogates on the Potomac. We recommend it as highly as Clem. Great seafood menu and Rum Buns.

Unsung hero

As a parent who has had boys involved in Clarkston schools athletics, I would like to say thank you to one of the unsung heroes, Gayle Cooper, the athletic trainer at Clarkston High School.

Gayle has helped all three of my boys with minor injuries and has shown concern and dedication to her job. She takes time to care and checks on their conditions after she has sent them to the doctor.

You're truly a special person, and the Locher family appreciates everything that you do and the advice you give.

'If it Fitz ...'

Grandpoop's fond tales are a reminder of true love

Jim Fitzgerald

It was three months ago that I first learned what happened to little Alexander Bohn at preschool in South Lyon. I wasn't going to tell you about it.

The abuse suffered by Richard Ashburn of Dearborn Heights was brought to my attention in January. I didn't intend to write about that, either.

I wasn't going to say anything about the unusual experience Carol Augustin had at a Burger King in Lake Orion earlier this month, even though I was involved in it.

But I changed my mind on all three counts. I'll tell why later.

Augustin recognized the old poop at the next table and asked for my autograph. I eagerly complied, admitting it isn't often I'm treated like a celebrity. Augustin said it isn't often she asks for an autograph. In fact, she said, her only other request was made to Harold Stassen.

Stassen is famous for being a consistent loser. Augustin denied there is a pattern to her autograph hunt, but I suspect she's now tracking the Chicago Cubs.

I was having lunch with Tricia, my 5-year-old granddaughter. At least, I was trying to have lunch, which was a vanilla milk shake. Why do all fast-food restaurants make shakes thick enough to walk on? A normal person can't suck them through a straw, and if you try to drink directly from the container, the top part of the shake breaks loose and falls on your nose like a brick.

I know of a woman who, in McDonald's, sucked so hard on her straw she popped her partial denture, which lodged in the back of her mouth. She hid her face behind one hand while trying to unplug the denture with the other hand, but couldn't reach it. Her husband finally had to yank it out. She should sue McDonald's for loss of liquid nourishment, and he should sue for the loss of mouth-to-mouth consortium.

Anyway, after thinking about it a while, Tricia decided her autograph was also desirable, so she told Augustin to resubmit her little notebook. Five minutes later, Tricia still had it. She was drawing pictures in it. Augustin was kind enough not to say I was a lot more terrible than Harold Stassen.

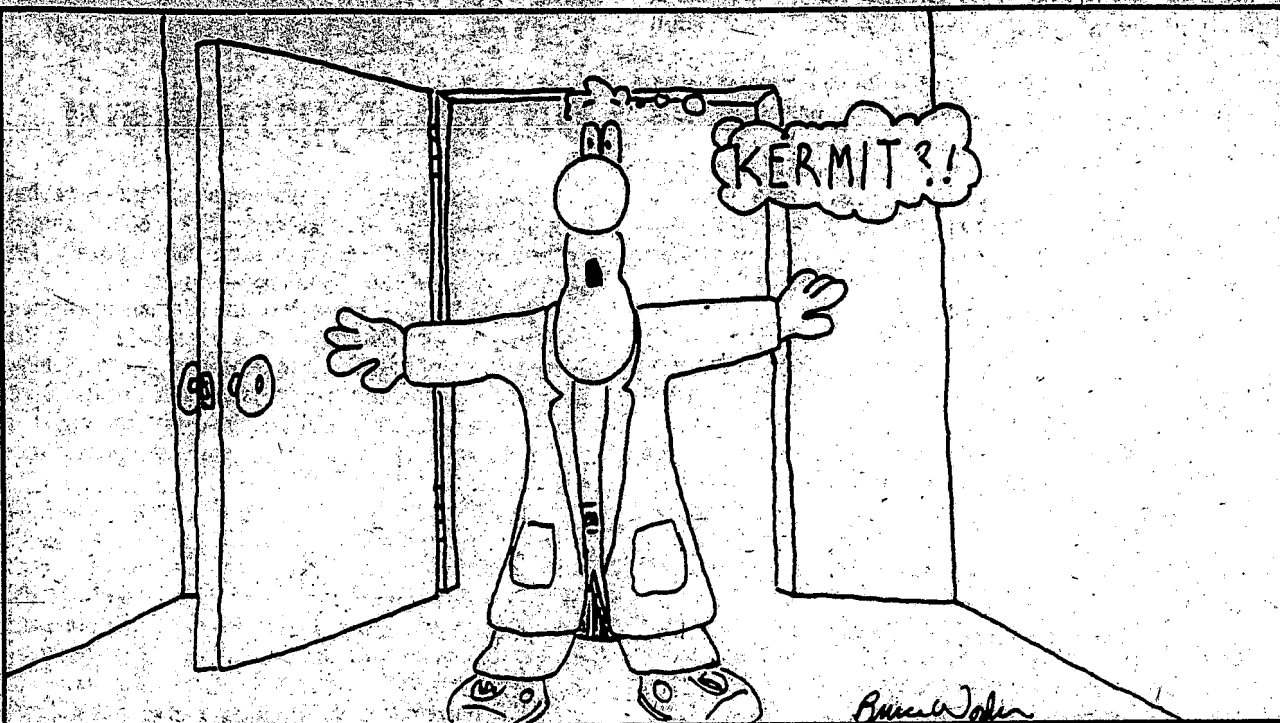

That Tricia tale is typical of what prompted Kathleen Weber of Birmingham to write me: "Newspaper moguls such as yourself get to tell the world about the smallest details of Tricia's and Emily's life, but only my family knows that last week Alexander Bohn was 'Child of the Day' at the South Lyon pre-school co-op. This means you get to tell about the weather and then place a felt cloud, sun, snowflake or raindrop on a felt board. It also means your mom brings the snack that day and helps out. ...Being 'Child of the Day' is important for the child and all the people who love him. I am for equal grandparent-bragging rights."

As for Richard Ashburn, his wife, Diane, sent photographic evidence of the abuse he suffers at the hands of grandchildren Jillian, Kate, Stephanie and Derek. The horrifying snapshots show tiny, crazed hairdressers cruelly twisting curlers into Ashburn's hair while sitting on his shoulders and smearing him with Oreo crumbs. "There are countless other tales of this type of grandpa abuse. Mall stories, movie traumas, cottage terror," Diane Ashburn wrote. "My husband says you should start a support group for grandpas. He would do it but another of those creatures is coming in February and he only has time for battle plans."

So what? So why did I decide, once again, to test your boredom threshold for grandchildren stories? Because:

In one recent newspaper there were reports of four "little children, abandoned, thrown away or on the run." A 7-year-old boy was beaten by his drunken father. A 16-year-old mother threw her 4-month-old daughter into a snowbank. A 3-year-old boy was left to starve and freeze in a house without heat. The family of another 3-year-old boy didn't care that he'd been abandoned to walk the streets.

I want to scream. I want to pound the wall. I want to remind you that most children are loved. I want to know why it isn't that way for all children.

DONALD FITZPATRICK, DETERMINED TO ANSWER THE WORLD'S MOST PUZZLING QUESTION, EXPLODES THROUGH THE DOORWAY TO FINALLY FIND OUT WHAT SPAM IS REALLY MADE FROM.

From This Perspective

From the Echo file

Tracy King

On most days, Pat volunteers to get up and let his dog out in the morning.

But Pat was out of town. And here was Echo, awakened by the first rays of sunlight, pawing on the bed.

Realizing I can put her off no longer, I stumble down the stairs to let her out the back door.

In the time it takes me to take a quick swig from the juice bottle, Echo is gone.

I struggle into old sneakers and a jacket and, shivering in my pajama bottoms, walk down the lane to retrieve her.

I don't need daylight — or even my glasses — to find her; she's no doubt playing with the spaniel that lives two houses down.

I am surprised, therefore, to see her across the street, standing quietly with the man who lives there.

I try to keep a respectful distance in my barely camouflaged pajamas and attempt to persuade her back in my most convincing voice.

"What are you doing?" I wheedle. "Come over here right now."

Several seconds pass, and I fail to produce the intended results.

I notice a quick movement out of the corner of my right eye. Echo.

Whirling back to squint at the pair I had been soliciting, I notice that man's dog is on a leash.

I have no time to cover my crimson cheeks or to faint with embarrassment, because Echo is now bounding over to meet the new black dog.

"No, Echo," I cry, too late.

All further attempts to simply call my dog fail, and I look down, wondering why I've chosen the purple floral pajamas over the more conservative stripes.

I stride purposefully across the street to the two dogs and the man who, still, has said nothing.

"She hasn't been to school yet," I say matter-of-factly, intending, now, to just get away as quickly as possible.

The man, still, is too shocked to speak.

"She's my husband's dog," I offer, now desperately locking my arms about Echo's neck and lugging her step-by-struggling step.

"They learn," the man manages to shrug, finally.

I streak into a run, the only sure way I know of to get Echo to follow.

We disappear into the lane, where I give Echo a good rebuking.

"You dog! Don't you know I'm in pajamas!"

She stops, tail wagging furiously, anxious to resume our run. She bounds to the front door, anxious for breakfast.

Sure. Now she's anxious for home.

Township should drop cityhood suit

When the Village of Clarkston was first considering cityhood, the township officials were amazingly silent. Independent Township could have pointed out that cityhood could mean higher taxes, that more formal government was unnecessary.

The township could have presented all of its concerns. The township did virtually nothing until after the people had voted.

Now, after wasting our tax dollars on a lawsuit regarding cityhood — which the township lost — we are told that our tax dollars will pursue the issue "all the way to the Supreme Court."

Enough is enough! If the village wants to be a city, let it!

The issue that the township seeks to resolve at our expense will not have any worthwhile legal precedent that Independence Township can use elsewhere.

If you agree with me that the township should drop this lawsuit, do something. Call the township offices, or better yet, write and tell the township board "No More."

Leave party as is

With regards to the parents who think it is so bad for the gambling and hypnotist to be at the supervised senior party:

This community has come together to provide these young adults with a positive place for them to enjoy each other and have a last hug before they enter the next phase in their lives.

When I graduated from Clarkston, we found an empty field, drank all night and only hoped the police would not find us. Is that what you want?

This is still America. Just keep your children home. If you have not taught them self-discipline by the age of 17 or 18, it is too late anyway.

Leave the party as it is. Hats off to all the parents who work so hard to make it a success. Thank you.

Laura M. Aulgur

On behalf of party

My name is Derek Diederich. I am a proud 1990 graduate of Clarkston High School. Also, I am one of many recipients of the hard and dedicated work of adult volunteers.

The Post-Graduation Party volunteer group is solely comprised of concerned parents who unselfishly give their time and energy.

One reason these parents work so hard on this event is to provide a practical yet fun solution to the traditional form of celebration that has plagued graduating seniors around the country. In essence, it is a fun night that provides something for everyone involved, and this accepted alternative has saved lives.

Considering the goals of the Post-Grad Party, it seems strange that it could come under criticism for such purely innocent activities as playing cards for a small prize or a volunteer hypnotic show.

Maybe such an innocent activity has come under criticism because those experts offering their opinions have not looked at the party from a primary point of view?

Knowing that the first-hand participant is the best judge, I would like to offer those concerned to get in touch with me.

Also, being a political science major at Michigan State University, East Lansing, I have learned two things that most Americans hold very dear. First, the right of the many outweighs the right of the few. Secondly, the each individual has the right to choose. This right to choose was respected at the party, where absolutely no one was coerced into doing anything that they individually did not feel was right.

Overall, the Post-Graduation Party left me with a great memory that I will never forget. I would like to personally thank all of the volunteers who ask for no compensation or notoriety for their hours of priceless work.

If anyone would like to talk to me about the party, I would be glad to address any of their concerns. My phone number at MSU is (517) 355-4835.

She survived party hypnotism

I am greatly upset by the negative letters that have been appearing in The Clarkston News concerning the hypnotism at the CHS graduation party. I am a 1990 graduate of CHS, and I attended the party.

Incidentally, I was one of the graduates who were hypnotized, and I assure you that my mind has not been opened "to very negative and debilitating paths," as was stated by a concerned reader. It has been nearly a year since I have been hypnotized at the party, and I have not suffered any "long term effects," nor has it harmed me in any way.

The hypnotism was merely a comedy routine, and nobody was hypnotized against his or her own will. This activity as well as all of the others provided for us that night were absolutely harmless. In fact, the purpose of the graduating party is to provide a night of safe fun for the seniors to prevent drinking and driving, which has been a major problem in the past on graduation nights.

The party has given students a chance to celebrate graduation safely, and it should not be criticized.

Hypnotist should appear at CHS

I am writing in defense of the hypnotist scheduled to appear at the senior party. Being a senior at Clarkston High School, I feel my voice should be heard.

A number of people have written in to object to the presence of a hypnotist at the party. Most of these people have been concerned mothers who believe the hypnotist will somehow alter our minds and start us down the road to corruption. Their only qualification for making these statements is that they looked up the word "hypnosis" in Webster's Dictionary.

The only qualified person who has written in seems to be David New. He cites "numerous individual and family cases" in which problems have been caused by hypnosis and gambling. I do not doubt him, but I don't think a few people with mental difficulties should hinder the entertainment of the seniors of Clarkston High.

My parents, whom I love and respect, are also generally against hypnosis. However, they have the wisdom to allow me to use my judgment and willpower. Many of the seniors are legally adults, and all of us are about to leave the high school and become members of society; yet, these people claim we will not be able to deal with a hypnotist. We are allowed to vote and drive, but we can't handle seeing a hypnotist? It does not make sense.

Personally, I will live if the hypnotist does not come. However, I feel it would be a crime, nothing short of censorship, if a few over-protective people stop the hypnotist from appearing.

Aaron Meyer

CHS party should not be censored

As a graduate of Clarkston High School, I feel compelled to respond to the recent concern shown for the activities of the annual post-graduation party.

The worries expressed for the "casino gambling" and hypnosis, two of the events planned, are unfounded.

I think it is important to emphasize that the gambling room at the party does not involve Las Vegas-style gambling.

There is no real money exchanged; each student is given a number of chips that are then played for raffle tickets or door prizes.

No student had the opportunity to get "hooked" on gambling because once the chips were gone, no more were made available.

As for the hypnosis that takes place at the party; it, too, is completely harmless.

Students were asked to volunteer to be hypnotized to quack like ducks and other silly things to make people laugh. No one was humiliated; no "false hopes" were raised, and everyone had a good time.

The reason for the post-graduation party is to provide a "positive alternative for entertainment." It is important to realize what the party is an alternative to.

Because of the prevalence of drinking among high school students, especially in times of celebration, the importance of the success of this event cannot be minimized.

If any events are removed from what has been a successful agenda in the past, the party will be labeled as "censored," and its success will be jeopardized.

Darren Miller,
1988 CHS graduate

Old enough to choose for selves

Back off! A lot of residents have written to The Clarkston News concerning the hypnotist and card-playing at the senior party. Why are you so concerned about this?

Why do you want to take away the fun Clarkston's seniors are allowed to have? The whole idea behind graduation deals with those 17, 18 and 19 years old going into the real world, which means exposure to a wide variety of things, including gambling.

The class of '91 is now venturing into adulthood, and you the residents are, in ways, sheltering them if you continue this debate. Why not let them make their own decisions if it concerns them?

If there are seniors who are dead set against "gambling" or the hypnotist, show them they can choose to do another activity at this party. Other activities have included swimming, tennis, racquetball, volleyball, wallyball and the sampling of different cultural foods.

The senior party committee puts in a lot of hard work and free time planning this party for the students and making sure there are plenty of activities for the variety of people attending. Those people on the committee put in this time because they feel it is a worthy cause.

They want to keep the graduates from partying elsewhere where things could go wrong or there would be a bad environment. There are also a lot of parental chaperons at the party who have just as much fun as the students, who enjoy the cards and the hypnotist show.

The letter from "Concerned Residents in Clarkston" stated this: "What kind of messages do we want sent to our children? If we continue to allow hypnosis to be used on our kids as a form of entertainment, what will be next?" The hypnotist asks for volunteers.

Another wrote, "... those who speak out should have the opportunity to share" Listen to the youth of Clarkston, please. I will be graduating in two years, and I would like these events at my senior party. I think they would be a lot of fun. I have friends who graduated last year, are graduating this year, and will be graduating in years to come, and they feel as I do.

Reconsider why you, the concerned residents, feel as you do and then listen to a senior or other student with an open mind and without forcing your opinion onto them.

Stacy Carr

Keep up support

I would like to say that I am very happy with all the support for the allied troops over in the Middle East. I also want to thank everyone for their support.

Looking around school, I have seen and still see lots of red, white and blue. I have seen outfits of these colors, flag pins, buttons with supportive phrases; and I have seen T-shirts and sweatshirts with expressions like "These colors don't run" and "I'd walk 10,000 miles to smoke a camel."

During Operation Desert Storm, the troops got so many packages and letters that they had piles so big and tall that the troops were having to move them with huge fork lift trucks.

While driving down the streets, I see many, many houses, mailboxes, cars and businesses decorated with red, white and blue ribbons and yellow ribbons. The trees in people's yards have ribbons and so does the big tree in town.

I can't remember ever seeing so many American flags flying before. There are flags on houses, businesses and even on people's jeans! The flag is pictured on T-shirts and sweatshirts, too.

On the radio station 99.5 FM the other morning, the station had 79 seconds of silence for the 79 American casualties of the war at the time. Ninety-nine point five isn't a news station, either; it is a rock station that young adults listen to.

I would like to remind everyone that even though the war is over, the troops aren't home yet, so keep up the support, especially when they arrive home!

Party critics could be open

Recently I have dismayed by all of the negative letters to the editor pertaining to the entertainment at the Clarkston Senior High Post Graduation Party.

I personally have worked on this yearly event for three years. Last year I was one of the co-chairs.

Throughout all of the planning sessions prior to the event, all committee chairpeople and members have the opportunity to voice their opinions regarding various proposals.

Did any of those people who feel so strongly about the "casino gambling" and the hypnotist ever speak out at the general membership meeting?

Did they even approach the co-chairs and express their opinions and share their concerns so this could be discussed at an open meeting?

Unfortunately the answer to both questions is no. When these subjects were brought up at a meeting, they walked out. No discussion; no opinions expressed.

At the post-graduation party, students need not be involved with the casino or the hypnotist.

We are fortunate enough to have Forrest and Jackie

Milzow rent us the entire facility, this includes swimming pool, racquet ball courts and tennis courts, in addition to other activities that are planned throughout the building.

If you have taught your children right and trust them, you needn't worry about them participating in those activities that you feel strongly about.

As a parent of two children still in school, I can think of nothing more rewarding — and such a good memory — as the post-graduation party for any graduating senior.

This is a way of saying goodbye to high school, and it is done in enjoyable and harmless format so there is something for everyone to enjoy.

I look forward to working on my son's party when he graduates in two years and then my daughter's in five years.

What is happening to this community when people confront issues in the behind-the-back method? If they have a problem or concern, shouldn't this be expressed up front and face-to-face?

What is happening to discussion and compromise? It seems that this is a disappearing art in Clarkston.

The general format is if you don't like someone or something they are doing — write a letter to the editor and condemn the person or situation or hold secret meetings.

People who approach situations in ways like this lose credibility because they do not have the courage of their convictions to speak openly and up front.

Fire safety program starts to roll

Fire Chief Gar Wilson of Independence Township announced recently that the township fire department will be organizing its annual Fire and Burn Safety Program for the children of the community.

More than 2,600 youngsters ages 5-12 will receive educational fire prevention materials created and geared to each specific age level.

Assisting the Clarkston-area firefighters will be K.C. Wilkinson, area fire safety coordinator of the National Fire Safety Council, a federal tax-exempt non-profit organization.

The fire department soon will be mailing sponsor request letters, explaining the program and soliciting donations.

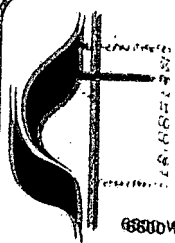

Wilson said this is the only township fire department program of this type this year. Should any other person solicit support, especially by phone or in person, and not have a letter from Chief Wilson, call the fire department immediately at 625-1924.

Woman's ride with the law ends with appreciation

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

An Independence Township woman has learned that the life of police officer isn't all black and white.

Last month, Christine Wyatt of Deerwood Road participated in a hands-on exercise about the American justice system. Conducted through the Leadership Oakland program, she was asked to ride along with an Oakland County Sheriff's deputy while he carried out a normal patrol.

Wyatt accompanied deputy Steve Pearson Feb. 13 on a shift from 6:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. During that time, the pair went on runs involving a domestic dispute and a drunken driving accident.

Wyatt said her biggest shock was the number of people who showed no regard for flashing lights.

"I was really surprised at the number of cars who didn't get off the road when we were rushing to that drunken driving accident," she said. "They had to have seen the lights, but only a few pulled off the road."

During their travels, Wyatt said Pearson was very cooperative in explaining his squad car's computerized gadgetry.

"It's really amazing how quickly they can find out a person's background by accessing their computer," she said. "I've learned that there's a lot more to a squad car than just a radar."

Wyatt was also impressed with Pearson's professionalism, especially during a routine traffic stop.

"We pulled a man over for running a red light, and officer Pearson was really amazing," she said. "It's almost like he had eyes in the back of his head because he was so alert. You could see his training kick in as soon as we pulled over."

Wyatt said her appreciation for the Oakland County Sheriff's Department has grown since her ride with Pearson.

"You can't imagine the amount of paperwork the officers have to do," she said. "But perhaps the most remarkable trait I noticed is how, in times of stress, the officers remember their procedures. They really concentrate on protecting the rights of both the victim and the suspect."

"My experience has left me with total faith in the abilities of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department," Wyatt added.

Planners face condo proposal April 11

Doug Carlson

If you drive down Dixie Highway, turn off on Maybee Road, and drive for 2/10 of a mile, you'll see a pretty wooded area on the right side of the road, just before you get to the cemetery, 36 acres in all.

An out-of-town developer (where else?) thinks this would be a great place to build some condominiums — 105 condominiums to be exact, 28 separate buildings.

The only fly in the ointment (for him) is that the property is currently zoned single family residential. Therefore, his task is to convince the Independence Township Planning Commission that building condominiums in this area would be far more preferable than building single family homes.

In order to do this, he has applied for a Planned Unit Development, which would get around his zoning problem. As of this writing, he is scheduled to appear before the planning commission on Thursday, April 11, to plead his case.

If you have any interest at all in this matter, whether you live in the immediate area or are simply interested in the future of Independence Township, you might want to attend this meeting. The planning commission has no way of knowing how you feel if you don't let them know.

It's entirely possible, of course, that you might be in favor of such a development. You should be at the meeting as well. Just because COG is not in favor of a development of this sort doesn't mean everyone feels the same way.

And, being the free society that this is, you have as much a right to your opinion as anyone else. And, again, the only way the township knows how to react to these proposals is to listen to what the people have to say, study the pluses and minuses of the situation, and vote accordingly.

My assessment of this situation goes something like this: The planning commission has worked long and hard on developing a master plan for the township that includes an appropriate amount of space for commercial development, multiples, single family residential, etc. In fact, the commission was kind enough to allow COG an hour of their time some months back to discuss what a master plan is, how it's developed, what are its limitations, etc.

Members of COG felt the meeting was very interesting and educational. It gave us a good idea of how much work is involved in something like this and what it can and can't do. More importantly, as far as we're concerned, recent changes to the plan were in the direction of lessening the density of future developments, not increasing it.

In summary, we believe the Independence Township Planning Commission is doing everything it can to control the growth that's occurring within the township.

They recognize the traffic patterns that are developing, the needs that are struggling to be met, the overcrowding that is occurring, and the feeling on the part of a lot of people that we're growing "too fast." Therefore, I have no doubt that they will deny this developer's request for a planned unit development in this area of Maybee Road for the purpose of developing condominiums.

Stay tuned.

Doug Carlson is chairman of Citizens for Orderly Growth.

Nine serve DDA council

Nine Independence Township residents have been selected to monitor the activities of the Downtown Development Authority (DDA).

On March 5, the township board approved the creation of the citizen's council, which will be asked to recommend plans and monitor all improvements initiated by the DDA. The members were chosen and approved by the board March 19.

The township is required to initiate the citizen's council because more than 100 residents now reside in the DDA's jurisdiction. The DDA was formed in 1986 to improve landscaping, lighting, sewer and water along parts of Dixie Highway, M-15 and White Lake Road.

Those residents named to the citizen's council include: Rockwood Bullard of Leeward Court, Carol Campbell of Lancaster Lake Court, S. Maria Jamrozik of Lancaster Hill Drive, Melva Kelley of White Lake Road, Aaron Weston of Leeward Court, Arnelia Burkett of White Lake Road, Pam Ford of Leeward Court, Bill Johnson of Northcrest Way and Karl Lundquist of Northcrest Way.

Their terms will last until the DDA expires in 1996.

Planning computer OK'd

Planning may become a little easier in Springfield Township, thanks to a new computer.

The Springfield Township Board voted 6-1 to approve $1,018 for a new Leading Technology computer for the planning department.

Voting yes were Supervisor Collin Walls, Clerk J. Calvin Walters, Treasurer Lois Stiles and trustees Dennis Vallad, Margaret Bloom and Nancy Strode. Casting the lone no vote was Trustee Charles Oaks.

The board decided not to buy a printer for the computer, however, because the planning department may instead insert their disks in a computer in a different department when printing time comes along.

Wolves bring experienced bats to plate

Spring sports preview

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston varsity softball team will have the same look as last year, but its coach hopes the Wolves won't exactly look the same.

Eleven of the team's 12 players played on last year's squad, which finished 15-12 and fourth in the Greater Oakland Activities League. Nine of those returners are seniors.

"The second year players have more confidence, and confidence is the key in hitting," said coach Carla Teare, who is assisted this season by former Wolf player Sheila Moore.

Teare said hitting was the team's main weakness last season, but she expects another year of experience to raise some averages.

"They know what their mistakes are from last year," added Teare.

Candy Polenz, who just finished having a strong season in volleyball, is the only player on the team without experience.

The eight veteran seniors are Jenny McChesney (last year's most valuable player), Jenny Bruce (last year's most improved player), Kim Choops, Colleen Cruz, Becky Kosek, Heidi Parrott, Pam Scrobby and Beth Walker. This will be the third spring on varsity for Kosek, Jennifer McChesney and Parrott.

Teare said if she were to now pick a clean-up hitter, based on limited observations this spring and last year's performances, she would choose among Kosek, Bruce and Alyson McChesney.

Clarkston will again rely on the pitching of Jennifer McChesney, the Wolves' fastest pitcher. Teare said second starter Cruz has "improved her speed and control." Austin will also see some action on the mound.

Defensively, Teare said she is still looking for a solid third outfielder, hopefully one with good speed. The coach believes that as much emphasis should be placed on the outfield as infield.

Teare knows she has a tough obstacle to overcome for a chance at the Greater Oakland Activities League title. That obstacle is defending league champ Waterford Kettering, which returns most of its players from a squad that was ranked as one of the top five Class A teams in the state last year.

Teare also expects Waterford Mott to be tough. She also said Brandon has some good returners and Pontiac Northern "will be much better than in the past."

Unlike last year, there is a JV squad this season. Teare enjoys this addition not only because it will help the future of the program, but this season it will give her more flexibility to call up a player in case someone from varsity gets injured.

Even though nearly all of the varsity squad will be lost to graduation after this season, the Wolves have a large turnout in upcoming squads. The junior varsity, coached by Dallas Thorn, will field 17 players. Clarkston Junior High ninth-grade coach Karen Czarnecki has 18 players and Sashabaw Junior High ninth-grade coach Lori Nelson matches that with 18 of her own.

On track for GOAL, again

Spring sports preview

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Freshmen and sophomores will play a big role in whether the Clarkston varsity girls' track team remains undefeated in league dual meets for a seventh straight year.

The undefeated dual meets combined with finishing strong at the end-of-the-season league meets have earned the Wolves Greater Oakland Activities League championships five of the six past seasons.

The 1991 edition of the team is loaded with 13 sophomores and 12 freshmen to go along with six seniors and one junior.

Clarkston head coach Gordie Richardson and assistant coach Chris Krueger realize they will be doing a little more teaching than normal with the young Wolves, but Richardson said the coaches won't be the only ones conducting class on the track.

"The seniors will have to do more leading. They'll have to spend more time helping to teach," said Richardson, whose Wolves finished sixth in the county meet and at regionals last spring.

Richardson said has a good group of underclassmen to do that teaching. One of those in that group, Carrie Roeser, teaches from experience. She was part of a 4 x 800 relay team that won the state championship in 1989.

But the sophomores and even the freshmen aren't that wet behind the ears.

The sophomores, as freshmen last season, won the Pontiac Northern 9th Grade Invitational.

And some of the freshman, as eighth graders last year at Clarkston Junior High, won the county championship.

Richardson said he expects the Wolves

UPPERCLASSMEN Stacey Secatch, Tracy Chamberlain, Sharry Bronson, Amy Rayner, Sandra Linberg, Carrie Roeser and Missy Fletcher open the track season April 11 at Rochester Hills.

to have another solid team. However, he does point out, "We could use one more top-notch sprinter."

Richardson's philosophy in winning track meets is to get the most points out of a team's strengths, which overcomes any event deficiencies.

"I'd rather the team do some things very well than do a lot of things mediocre," said Richardson.

In field events, the coach expects the Wolves to do strongest in the shot put and discus. Sophomore Rachel Seifferlein was the GOAL's best shot putter last season and was fourth in the discus. Senior Stacey Secatch was second in the shot and third in the discus and sophomore Michelle Wade was sixth in the shot and fifth in the discus.

Seniors Tracy Chamberlain and Amy Rayner will be the top long jumpers.

Richardson said the Wolves "need a lot of work" in the high jump.

Chamberlain and sophomore Cara Rayner are experienced hurdlers. Chamberlain finished in the top-10 at the county meet and Rayner was sixth in the GOAL. About five others give the Wolves much depth in the event.

Freshman Angelic Brown will join Secatch in the sprint events. Brown, who won the girls' GOAL cross-country championship this fall, was the fastest eighth grader in the 100 last year at the county meet.

Freshman Kristen Stanton is expected to join Brown in the 200 and Stanton will be joined by fellow freshman Melissa Baetz.

The freshman speedster trio will branch off with veterans Roeser, Chamberlain, Secatch, Fletcher and others in the relay events. The Wolves have been quite strong in the relays the past several seasons.

Freshman Melissa Mutter and Heather Schaffer, sophomore Kim Michalak and senior Amy Rayner will the Wolves top 1600 and 3200 runners.

Richardson said his team will be defending its GOAL title against an always tough Pontiac Northern squad. He said Waterford Mott and Waterford Kettering will be getting an influx of good young runners from the junior highs, Lake Orion had a "huge freshman team two years ago" which could blossom this season and Brandon has 20-plus girls out for track.

"We'll have a chance to defend," said Richardson.

Twenty-five underclassmen and some teaching veterans help give that chance more of a chance.

Netters will not depend on automatic wins

Spring sports preview

BY BOBBY BRAZIER
Clarkston News Special Writer

The pressure is on.

No Clarkston varsity sports team lost a game in the Greater Oakland Activities League this winter.

The boys' tennis team will try to duplicate the aforementioned feat. But it will not be easy.

With the loss of Keith Turner at No. 1 singles and Ian Halleran at No. 2, the Wolves must now count on junior Jason Gross and senior Marc Swartout to handle No. 1 singles. The pair played No. 3 and No. 4 singles, respectively, last year.

This year's team is inexperienced but very consistent. Coach Dick Swartout is unsure of most of his player's positions, but has listed senior Grant Manley, Marc Swartout, freshman Bobby Brazier, Gross, senior Kevin Brown and sophomore Craig Coxen as his best six players to date.

If the competition happens to be close for low singles and high doubles, Coach Swartout's philosophy is that, all things being equal, previous experience and years of commitment will prevail.

The Wolves are extremely young, with seven sophomores and two freshmen.

Clarkston no longer can count on "automatic wins" in singles (as it did the last three seasons with Turner at No. 1), but, nonetheless, should be strong.

Other than GOAL matchups, the Wolves have Southfield (twice), Milford, Lakeland, Rochester and Lapeer West on their agenda.

It'd be safe to expect a lot from the Wolves, but no one is promising any undefeated season.

Michelsen returns to wrestling roots

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Temperance-Bedford High School found out about Clarkston wrestlers a few weeks ago when the Wolves' topped the Mules to win the Class A state team championship.

On March 24, Temperance-Bedford found out more about Clarkston wrestlers when eight of 11 Clarkston Wrestling Club members placed at an AAU freestyle meet in the Mule gym.

One of those placing was Damon Michelsen, co-captain of the state championship team. Michelsen won the 178-pound Elite Division title. Michelsen, a senior at Clarkston High School who also this season became the school's first-ever individual state wrestling champion, began his grappling career with the Clarkston Wrestling Club several years ago.

In the Midget Division, Casey Cornell (70-pounds) took first, Pat DeGain (85) was second and Nick Petrinec (55) placed third.

A.J. Grant (60), undefeated all season, finished first in Junior Division action and Franco Vega (90) was second.

In the Schoolboy Division, Corey Grant (100) captured first and Joe DeGain (148) took third.

The Clarkston Wrestling Club's next action is at Romulus High School.

30 bucks for Wrestlemania?

James Gibowski

All right class, we're long overdue for another test. You can't pass Sports 101 by just watching round-the-clock NCAA basketball tournaments.

For those of you who may have forgotten how to take the test, remember, whatever answer you choose is probably right. Hey, all of those 23-year old starters on the University of Nevada-Las Vegas basketball team could even pass this test ...

1. Now that Mr. Basketball Chris Webber has made his decision largely because of "educational" reasons, how many years will he attend the University of Michigan before becoming a pro?

- A. One
- B. Two
- C. Three
- D. Four

2. What is the biggest spring sporting event in downtown Clarkston?

- A. The Fun Daze 10 K Run.
- B. Jaywalking on Main Street while the light is green.
- C. Guessing the doughnut filling-of-the-month at the Village Bakeshop.
- D. Doing the "doggie-doo-doo shuffle" while walking to Rudy's.

3. What were the four dumbest ways to spend about $30 during the last few weeks?

- A. Spending it March 24 on the pay-per-view "Wrestlemania VII."
- B. Spending it March 18 on the pay-per-view Razor Ruddock vs. Mike Tyson fight.
- C. Spending it on a recent pay-per-view "New Kids on the Block" concert.
- D. Spending that amount on any future pay-per-view event, with the exception of the second coming of Christ.

4. Some people consider the Iditarod sled-dog race in Alaska one of the few remaining "pure" sports left because ...

- A. ... the Huskies only get paid in Alpo instead of big bucks.
- B. ... Detroit Free Press sports columnist Mitch Albom spent two weeks writing about it.
- C. ... Susan Butcher (and a few others with big sponsors) slept in plush houses along the way while others froze outside.

D. ... Susan Butcher (and a few others) safely had helicopters hovering over her from start to finish.

5. What do Pete Rose and Len Dykstra have in common?

- A. They have played for the Philadelphia Phillies.
- B. They have the same hairstyle.
- C. They slide into second with the same hustle.
- D. The odds are their favorite song is Kenny Rogers' "The Gambler."

6. "Zero" is the answer to ...

- A. ... the number of basketball players from the University of North Carolina that are actually from North Carolina.
- B. ... the number of basketball players from Duke University that are actually from North Carolina.
- C. ... the number of games Bo Jackson will play for the Kansas City Royals this season.
- D. ... what the Detroit Tigers basically got in return from the Yankees for trading Matt Nokes.

7. Which author of a book has been the biggest jinx on pro athletes the past year?

- A. George Will, who wrote about pitcher Oral Hersheiser months before the Dodger tore his shoulder.
- B. George Will, who wrote about manager Tony Larusa the season before the A's lost the World Series.
- C. George Will, who wrote about hitter Tony Gwinn (a lifetime .329 hitter) the season before the Padre hit .309 and hit an outfield wall, fracturing a finger.
- D. Dick Schaap, who wrote about Bo Jackson the season before Bo was released from the Royals because of a hip injury.

8. Why was the World League of American Football started?

- A. So Spain's sports fans can watch something while bullfighting has its off-season.
- B. It's President Bush's attempt at cutting the deficit by getting out-of-work players and coaches off welfare.
- C. So the NFL can have another minor league besides college football.
- D. So British spectators can suffocate themselves at a new type of sporting event.

Fifes get state-wide recognition from AP

COACH Dan Fife congratulates his son, Dugan, as the Wolves wrapped up a district championship against Lapeer East.

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Associated Press last week told the entire state a secret that Clarkston area sports fans knew for years ...

... Clarkston Coach Dan Fife and his son, Dugan, are among the elite in high school basketball.

The AP has named Dan Fife as the state's Class A basketball coach of the year, and the state's media members have voted Dugan Fife to their 10-man all-state team.

The coach guided his team to a 20-0 regular season and 22-1 overall record. The Greater Oakland Activities League champion Wolves, rated No. 3 in the state by the AP at the end of the regular season, won the districts before losing to Flint Northwestern in the regionals.

Fife coached his team to the 22-1 record even though the squad played with only one returning starter. Charlie Shires is the assistant coach for the Wolves and Tim Kaul coaches the JV team.

Dugan Fife is one of only two juniors to make the all-state team, with Battle Creek Central's Kenyon Murray being the other one.

Fife, a 6-foot, 3-inch guard, averaged 28 points, eight assists, six steals and five rebounds a game.

He had a nearly 50 percent field-goal percentage, sank about three quarters of his free throws and was usually deadly from the 3-point range.

The junior, who has a 3.2 grade point average, is bound to be one of the top candidate's for the state's Mr. Basketball title next season. He played in front of many scouts this season and he has already been contacted by over 50 universities.

Closed for business

THE Hop-In convenience store near the intersection of Dixie Highway and Davisburg Road, Springfield Township, was damaged by a fire March 21. Springfield Chief Marlan Hillman said the fire started in the storage area around 8 p.m. He suspects the fire was caused by electrical problems. The store sustained $15,000 in structural damage and nearly $30,000 in loss of merchandise. No one was injured in the blaze. Hop-In authorities expect the store to re-open sometime next month. (Photo by Curt McAllister)

Earth tip

If all U.S. households had the most efficient refrigerators available, the electricity savings would eliminate the need for about 12 large nuclear plants. Generally, refrigerator models that have the refrigerator and freezer side by side use 35 percent more energy than models with the freezer on top. Models with manual defrost use 50 percent less electricity than those with automatic defrost.

POSING with General Motors Chairman Robert C. Stempel (left) are Saturn award-winners (from left, next to Stempel) Larry Nitz of Troy, Rimas Milunas of Royal Oak and Clarkston-area residents James Mainquist, William Bolander and Robert Downs.

Three locals honored by auto company

Three Saturn team members from the Clarkston area were among 35 engineers and scientists honored with General Motors' prestigious "Boss" Kettering Award for patented inventions that proved to have outstanding value in 1990.

William J. Bolander is a salaried employee in training in engine controls and calibration, and Robert C. Downs is executive engineer in automatic transmission systems. James K. Mainquist is a senior project engineer in product controls.

The three were among those honored for their contributions to the development of electronic controls for Saturn's all-new four-speed automatic transmission, which gives the performance and fuel economy characteristics of many manual transmissions with the convenience of automatic shifting.

Bolander began his GM career in August 1978 and joined Saturn in May 1986. He received a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering from the General Motors Institute in 1983 and a master's degree in mechanical engineering from Purdue University in 1984.

Downs began his career at GM in February 1979 and joined Saturn in January 1986. He earned his bachelor's degree in engineering from the California Institute of Technology in 1979 and a master's degree in mechanical engineering from Massachusetts Institute of Technology the following year.

Mainquist started with GM in June 1982 and joined the Saturn Team in January 1986. He received a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Minnesota in 1983 and a master's degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Wisconsin-Madison in 1984.

GM Chairman Robert C. Stempel presented each recipient with a trophy symbolizing technical leadership and creativity, along with a monetary stipend. The award is named for the late Charles F. Kettering (1876-1957), a GM vice president who earned some 200 patents in his lifetime.

The winners were nominated by their GM units, selected by a Kettering Award committee, and approved by the GM Management Committee.

Saturn Corp., an independent subsidiary of General Motors, is based in Spring Hill, Tenn., and Troy. The company's mission is to develop, manufacture and market a family of high-quality, affordable cars to compete in the subcompact and compact segments of the market.

Haulers hail from Clarkston area

More than half of the Oakland County garbage haulers who will pick up recyclables at the curb are based in the Clarkston area.

Seven companies were listed as providing the service in the Oakland County Waste Reduction Partnership newsletter.

The haulers are: Al's Disposal in Springfield Township (625-4343), Clarkston Disposal in Independence Township (625-0909), Moore's Disposal in Independence Township (625-9422) and Smith's Disposal, Inc., of Clarkston (625-5470).

Excellent paving

Allied Construction Co. of Springfield Township recently was honored for excellent workmanship.

The company, based on Andersonville Road, won the 1990 Asphalt Pavers Association Quality Paving Award because it exhibited outstanding paving and quality for a job over 1,500 tons.

The award-winning project was the parking lot and driveway at Bailey Lake Elementary School on Pine Knob Road, Independence Township.

Only one award was given in this category in all of southeast Michigan, said owner John Foster, who said he received a plaque for the honor.

Foster said he felt "pretty proud" when he heard of the award.

"That's pretty hard to get, so we were pretty excited about it," he said. "It showed the school got its money's worth at a time when bond issues get knocked down."

The general contractor, O'Brien of Waterford, referred his company for the award, Foster said.

Named to committee

Beverly A. McDonald, past president of the Michigan Dental Hygienist, has been named to Gov. Engler's Michigan Nonprofit Forum Coordinating Committee on Volunteering.

McDonald is a Wellesley Terrace, Independence Township, resident.

TWO VERSIONS of "Little Miss Muffet" were acted out by Bailey Lake Elementary students Lauren White and Jared Marshall during a recent variety show entitled "In Between the Pages." The first — a traditional version — showed Miss Muffet scared away by the spider. In the second, more modern, version, a "career" Miss Muffet carrying a briefcase was not so easily spooked. In this version, in fact, it is the spider who is sent running.

Literature comes alive

The world of books literally came to life at Bailey Lake Elementary School this month, as students presented a special variety show called "In Between the Pages, A Bailey Lake Book Review."

Students in grades one through five auditioned to portray well-known book characters and other cast members, to act out several nursery rhymes, classics and well-known fantasy, animal and sports stories in several vignettes.

After months of rehearsal, the variety show was presented to parents and the community on March 13.

The complex production was coordinated by Beverly Territo.

Signs to spruce up Springfield

Motorists traveling Dixie Highway soon will be greeted by Springfield Township entry signs.

Doug Lewan, planning and development coordinator, showed artists' renderings of the proposed signs to the Springfield Township Board on March 13 for comments.

Lewan said plans call for two oval-shaped sand-blasted-painted pictures on redwood. The laminated signs are expected to last for eight years.

Plans include placing one sign at the southern end of the township near the Saturn dealership, and the other at the north end in front of Oakhill Plaza.

Students from Oakland Technical Center-Northwest Campus are to design and plant landscaping around the signs.

Some area business people and residents have donated money to pay for the sign.

The board voted unanimously to add $500 to cover additional costs.

Tax break for military

Military personnel assigned to a combat zone get a break in taxes this year.

At the federal and state levels, the April 15 income tax filing date and tax payment deadline will be delayed for 180 days after a person leaves the combat zone, which includes hospitalization outside the United States.

In Michigan, military pay is exempt from income taxes.

However, if a Michigan military family is entitled to a state income tax refund, and a power of attorney was signed by the soldier, the spouse may file a joint return at any time.

'Waldon Lake' cluster lot plan gets mixed reviews

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Mixed sentiment met a site condominium project slated to engulf Gulick Lake and Camp Oweki.

About 60 residents, in standing-room-only conditions, showed up for the March 21 Independence Township Planning Commission public hearing on the proposed Waldon Lake Estates development.

After two and a half hours of listening to comments from the public and planners, the planning commission voted 5-2 to give special land use for the project. Harry Mosher and Daniel Travis voted no. Voting yes were Chairman Brent Bair, Joseph Figa, Richard Oppmann, Steve Secatch and Cel Yarber.

The commission voted 4-3 to table the preliminary site plan. Voting no were Yarber, Bair and Mosher. The planner probably will consider the plan again in May.

The 151-acre site is on the south side of Waldon Road. It encompasses the former Camp Fire Girls' encampment and 30 acres of property belonging to Waldon Road resident John Borsh.

If plans follow through, the land probably will be sold to the developer Holtzman & Silverman of Farmington Hills. Their proposal calls for the building of 126 units, primarily around the northeastern portion of the property. The price range of these site condominium homes will be between $135,000 and $185,000. Site condominium are like subdivisions, in that homeowners own their houses as well as a "building envelope" around the structure. The land between the homes is owned by the condominium association, which is comprised of homeowners.

Two roadway accesses are slated for the project. They include an entrance at Waldon Road and a connection with the new Spring Lake subdivision to the south, which would lead to Maybee Road.

Jeffery Roberts, executive vice president of Holtzman and Silverman, said about 40 acres near the western property line would be left undeveloped. He also said

"The developer has put a lot of thought into the plan but only minimum consideration toward the wetlands."

Richard Oppmann

Gulick Lake, whose name will be changed to Waldon Lake, would be dredged so the shallow lake could support fish all year round.

At the hearing, the developer asked for special land use and preliminary site plan approvals. The special land use approval was necessary because the development was proposed for cluster lotting.

Cluster lotting is the legal reduction of lot sizes in those areas with public sewer and water services provided. The minimum lot sizes for cluster lotting is 12,000 square feet.

During the public hearing segment, the developer was pelted with a number of concerns from those in attendance. Many of the concerns involved drainage problems, wetlands and lake protection, wildlife displacement, preservation, creation of natural paths and traffic congestion.

One township resident said the privacy of neighboring subdivisions will be altered by the proposal.

"I think a lot of the people in this area are going to lose their privacy," said Bob Teading of Cramlane. "I love it here in Clarkston, but I think we need to worry about the added traffic and where all the pushed out wildlife will go."

Commission members also voiced concerns.

Figa said he was saddened by the loss of the camp, and he said the commission should make sure the project heeds to all township regulations.

"It's very disheartening to see a unique piece of property like this be developed, but it's the owner's prerogative to sell," he said. "Now, we have to do our best to make sure this is done right, with attention focused on wildlife and the wetlands."

Oppmann, who is chairman of the wetlands board, was most concerned with the developer's plans for the site's wetlands.

"The developer has put a lot of thought into the plan but only minimum consideration toward the wetlands," he said. "They plan on filling two wetlands areas, but our ordinance says there shouldn't be any harm done at all to wetlands."

The plans will go before the wetlands board, due to the high number of designated wetlands on the site.

Some of the commissioners said the number of sites were too high, and cluster lotting was out of the question. Township planning consultant Richard Carlisle disagreed.

"If this isn't a cluster plan, I don't know what is," he said. "In my opinion, the developer has gone out of his way to only develop a portion of this property. There are parts of the property that could have been planned for housing but weren't. They've indicated that they want to maintain a park-like atmosphere."

Roberts said his firm has proposed its plans in a sensitive and fair fashion.

"We've come to you with our best proposal," he said. "We didn't load the plans with units, only to negotiate down. At this point and time, I feel that cluster lotting is our best alternative."

Church rich in history

BY SANDRA G. CONLEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Frequent travelers of Davisburg Road haven't seen much change in structure of the Davisburg Methodist Church since it was built in 1866, but change is on the way.

A new addition to be completed in the summer will enlarge the building by 10,500 square feet.

The Davisburg Methodist Church is a combination of two congregations—the Methodist Episcopal Society, which later became the Methodist Episcopal Church, and the Protestant Methodist Church.

The merger was precipitated by a fire, according to records compiled by the Davisburg Methodist Church and the Springfield Township Historical Society.

Historical information was snuffed out by a fire at the Protestant Methodist Church of Davisburg on Oct. 6, 1916, leaving details of the church's beginning sketchy. After the fire, members attended the Methodist Episcopal Church, and the two were formally merged in 1939.

But accounts do exist of the Methodist Episcopal Society's early beginnings in 1843, even though the official church was formed May 11, 1846.

According to church documents from the Methodist Episcopal Society, some of the first meetings were held in a log school house on Ormond Road.

When the school was built in Davisburg in 1856, the church meetings moved to the new school.

The school served as the congregation's home until the new church was built in 1866 on Davisburg Road, just west of Andersonville Road, where it still stands today.

Since the basement was finished first, that's where church meetings were conducted until $4,000 could be raised to add the rest of the building and the steeple. The building project began in May 1886.

The original church, dedicated July 7, 1867, was 36 feet by 60 feet, and the total cost for the project was the church. Added to the church was a library, a choir room, a new chancel area, new restrooms and rooms for Sunday School classes.

Men of the congregation plugged along building the educational addition, while members of the Women's Society supplied chili and pie to fuel their efforts.

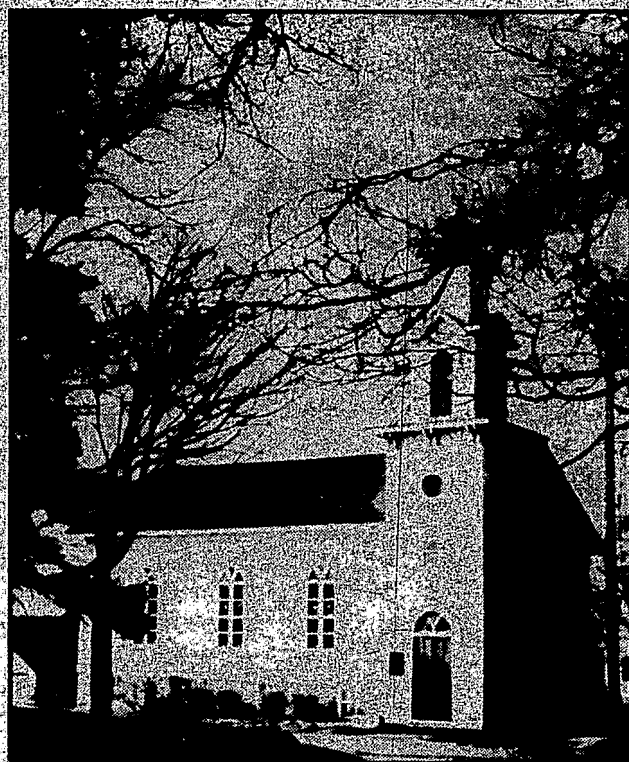

After five years of building, the project was completed, and the dedication took place in May 1963.

The church continued to function throughout the next 35 years without many physical changes, but in December 1990, a 10,500-square-foot bi-level addition was begun by Chenoweth Construction Co., Inc., of Fenton.

To serve the 190-member congregation, the addition will be used as an activity and educational center.

As time has passed and costs have risen, so has the cost of adding to the church, established over 130 years ago. The addition will cost $565,000.

The new addition also will include cathedral ceilings, classroom space for 130, and a gymnasium with a regulation-size basketball court.

LIGHTNING struck the steeple of Davisburg Methodist Church July 11, 1967, as a new minister, Henry Powell, was settling into the parsonage. As Powell greeted his parishioners on his first Sunday as minister, one member of the congregation was heard to say, "We wanted you to have a warm reception." (Photo courtesy of Lester Smith)

Not many physical changes took place in the church until 1950 when a new balcony was installed and dedicated, giving additional classrooms.

$4,862.52. Included in the cost were insurance, furnishings and grading of land.

Records show the parsonage, built in 1870, was destroyed by fire in February 1924.

During the period of 1871-1896, church repair work was performed by the Alpha Society, formed in 1888. The society raised most of the money for such items as the church organ and stained glass windows.

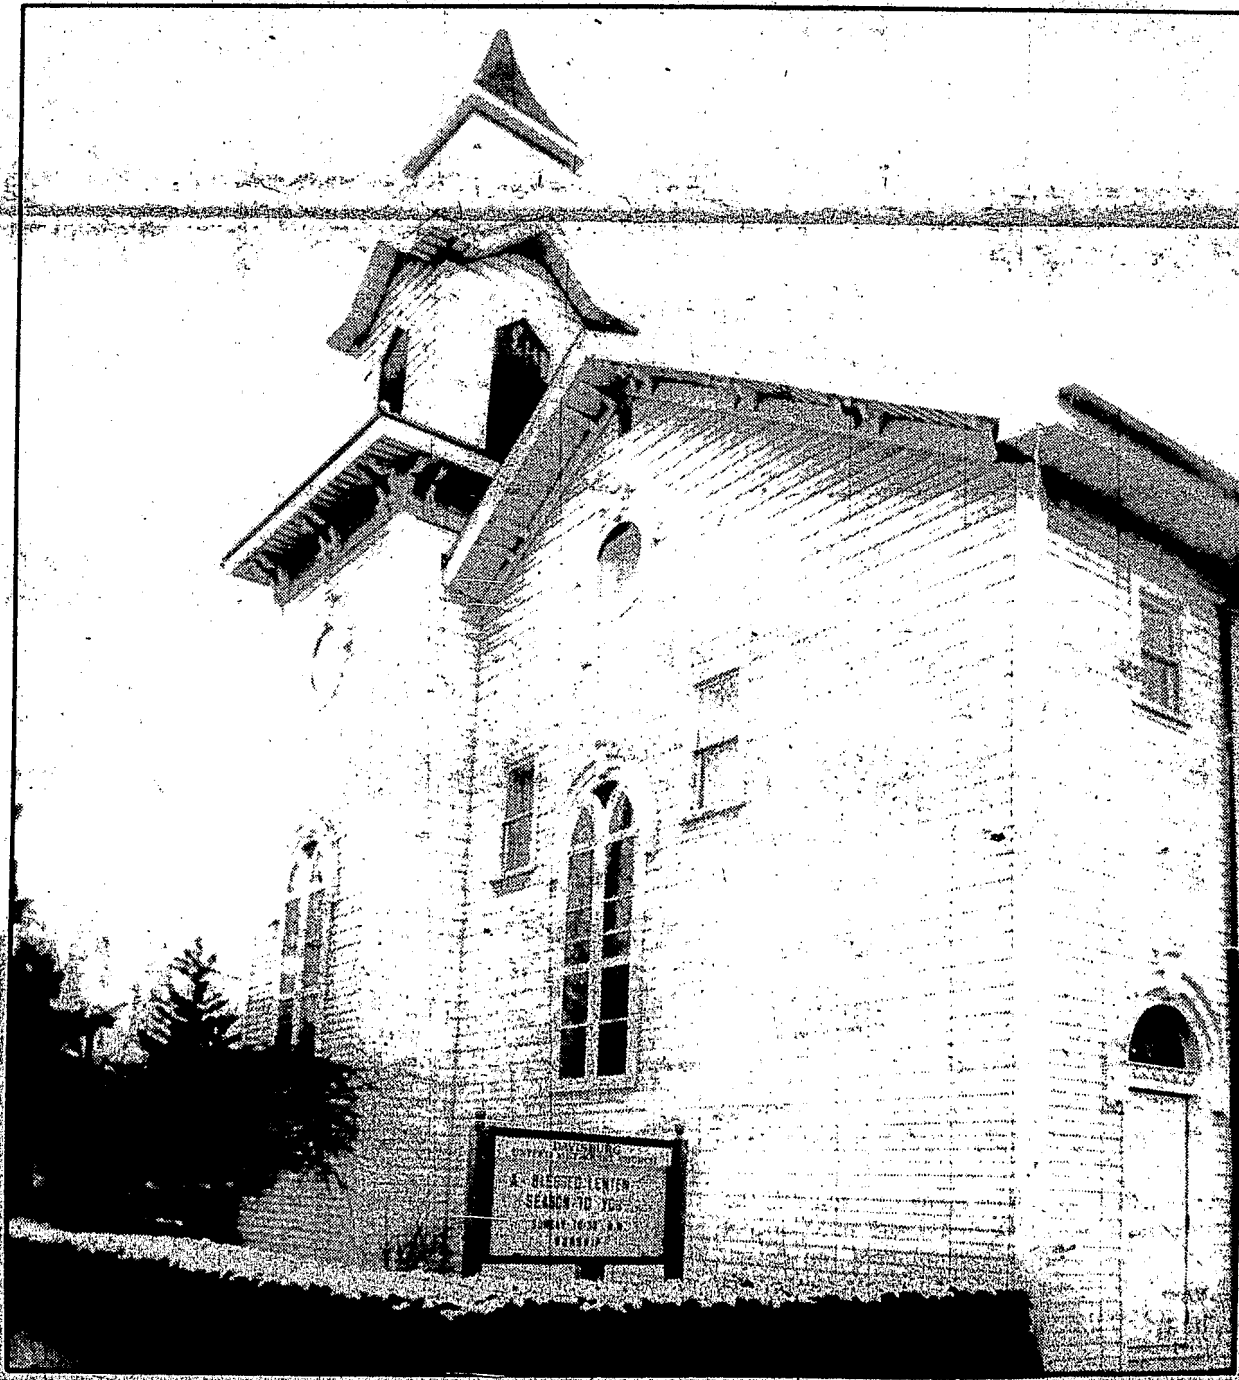

Progress helped the congregation light the way. Electric lights were installed in 1926.

Not many physical changes took place in the church until 1950 when a new balcony was installed and dedicated, giving additional classrooms.

According to historical documents, an important step of faith was made with the purchase and dedication of a new Baldwin organ in 1953, which served as the instrument for Amy Mills, the church organist.

At the time, the expense seemed impossible, but through efforts and faith, the organ was paid for in nine months.

In June 1958, ground was broken for an addition to

Eagle Scout award bestowed upon CHS alumnus

BEN O'ROURKE, 18, said he likes the discipline and team work of the Recruit Officer Training Corps, which uses many of the skills he learned in scouting.

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

When Ben O'Rourke became a Cub Scout at age 8, he didn't know that it would set the tone in his life for a decade afterward.

He joined Cub Scouts with his friends. And 10 years later, the Independence Township resident found himself honored for becoming an Eagle Scout. And he found that he still uses the skills he developed in scouting.

O'Rourke, a freshman studying international relations at Notre Dame University, Notre Dame, Ind., is also in the Navy Recruit Officer Training Corps (ROTC), training to become a U.S. Marine officer.

At Notre Dame, he is a member of the Navy ROTC Drill Team, the Sempre Fidelis Society (a marine organization at Notre Dame) and a Notre Dame Eagle Scout group, which provides such services as "safe walk" on campus, where members escort people around campus.

Before he was graduated from Clarkston High School in 1990, O'Rourke earned varsity letters in cross country and baseball (CHECK SPORT — BASEBALL OR BASKETBALL?).

Now, O'Rourke keeps in shape through his ROTC activities, where his leadership and camping skills and knot-tying ability also come in handy.

Visiting his parents, Pat and Jane O'Rourke of Townview, for St. Patrick's Day, O'Rourke said it was satisfying to receive his Eagle Scout award that he earned last summer.

"It's just been something I've been working for since I was a little scout," he said. "It's a really respected award in the community and all through life."

To achieve that level of scouting, O'Rourke earned 21 merit badges, led service projects and showed leadership.

His major project required himself and a crew of about 10 scouts, friends and family members to water-seal the docks at Independence Oaks County Park on Sashabaw Road.

It was a tough but rewarding job, said O'Rourke.

And the award ceremony, in front of all ages of scouts, brought back memories, he said.

"I remember as a Cub Scout I used to watch the older kids get their Eagle Scout award," he said, adding that he used to hope that he, too, would one day win that award.

Now that he's earned it, he no longer is a scout. But the 18-year-old will always carry with him the honor of scouting.

Driver education

Driver education classes are offered for free to all eligible residents of Clarkston Community School District who are at least age 15 but under age 18. Students attend four hours each day for 15 days.

The tentative dates are: Term I — June 17 through July 9 (excluding July 4 and 5), and Term II — July 10-30.

Applications and additional information will be available after April 9 and can be picked up at the main offices of Clarkston Junior High School, Sashabaw Junior High School, Clarkston Senior High School and Clarkston Community Education Center on Maybee Road.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

LANDSCAPING AND VALUE

QUESTION: Just how important is landscaping to the value of a home when you buy it new?

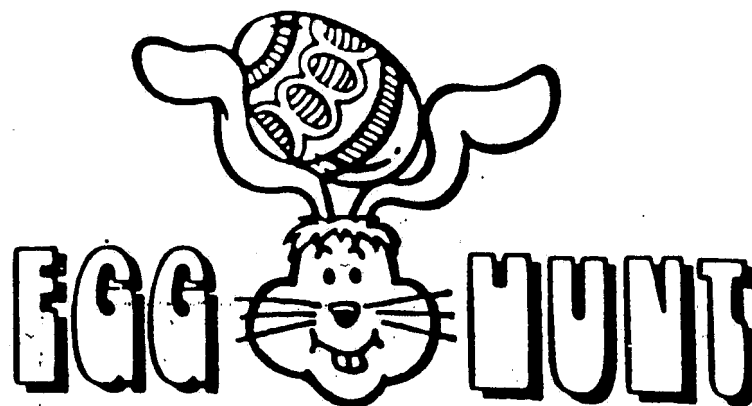

ANSWER: Good landscaping can enhance the appearance of a new house and make it look "established". It can compliment the design, provide a pleasant atmosphere, create privacy and reduce noise. It will also add to the value when selling time comes.

But good landscaping can cost a lot of money. If you want more than the minimum that builders usually provide, have it installed when you buy the house and add the cost to the selling price. This way, you pay it in the mortgage rather than up-front cash.

THERE ARE WAYS to install better landscaping without paying up-front cash.

Healthy Helpings

Snacking can help a diet

Tracy
King

If snacking is a way of life for you, don't despair. Snacking can actually help you diet, according to Weight Watchers officials.

The key to this type of sensible snacking is to make sure that the quick snack you reach for fits into your weight loss program.

Weight Watchers offers these tips:

■ Portion control is important when snacking. Remember that snacks are smaller than traditional meals.

■ Plan your snacks each day for the times between meals when you usually feel hungry or need an energy lift.

■ When planning your snacks, try to team foods together for good taste and good nutrition. For example, a low-fat, low-calorie dip teamed with raw veggies is a great snack.

■ To keep from feeling deprived, make sure your snacks include foods you really enjoy.

The following snack recipes are reprinted from Weight Watchers Magazine.

MOCHA-YOGURT SHAKE

8 ounces cold brewed coffee
Sugar substitute to equal two teaspoons sugar
3/4 cup plain nonfat yogurt
1 teaspoon chocolate extract

1/8 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/2 cup crushed ice, or three large ice cubes

Place all ingredients except ice in blender; puree until smooth. With motor running gradually add ice and blend until drink is frothy. Pour evenly into two eight-ounce glasses.

SUN-UP PARFAIT

3/4 cup plain nonfat yogurt
1/4 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/2 cup whole strawberries, sliced
1/4 cup blueberries
1/2 ounce granola
1/2 small apple, sliced

In small bowl, combine yogurt and vanilla. In a parfait glass, layer 1/4 cup of the yogurt, the strawberries, blueberries and remaining yogurt. Top with granola and apple slices.

PEANUT BUTTER AND FRUIT RICE CAKES

1/2 small pear, sliced
2 tablespoons orange juice
1 tablespoon peanut butter
2 rice cakes
2 teaspoons all-fruit orange marmalade spread

In small bowl, combine pear slices and orange juice.

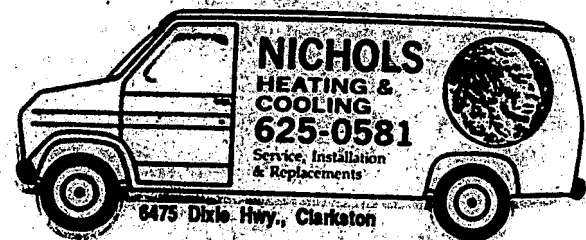

Spread peanut butter evenly on rice cakes. Arrange pear slices over peanut butter; spread with marmalade. Place rice cakes on paper towel; microwave on high for one minute.

CRANBERRY ORANGE WHIP

1 cup low-calorie cranberry juice
1/2 cup orange juice
1 tablespoon and one teaspoon nonfat dry milk powder
1/2 cup crushed ice or three large ice cubes
12 ounces diet lemon-lime soda

Combine cranberry and orange juice in blender. Sprinkle with milk powder and blend. With motor running, gradually add ice and blend until drink is frothy.

Pour juice mixture evenly into two ice-filled 12-ounce glasses; fill with equal amounts of diet soda.

GEOGRAPHY bee semi-finalists Ben DeGrow, an eighth-grader, and Faye Lloyd, a seventh-grader, were given five questions in Springfield

Christian Academy's final geography bee championship Feb. 7.

Springfield Christian cites two for geography

Students at Springfield Christian Academy put their geography knowledge to the test in February.

The preliminary rounds were open to students in grades four through eight. On Feb. 7, semi-finalists Ben DeGrow and Faye Lloyd squared off in a special assembly attended by the whole school.

The questions were sponsored by the National Geographic Society.

Ben, an eighth-grader, captured first place by correctly answering a series of five questions. Faye, a seventh-grader, took a respectable second place.

As first-place winner, Ben took a written test and subsequently qualified for the state geography bee April 5 at Central Michigan University, Mount Pleasant.

The five questions put to the two included: "What country is the number one importer of Alaskan timber?" (Japan); "The defeat of the Meech Lake Accord in 1990 has threatened the political unity of what bi-lingual country?" (Canada); and "What country is crossed by both the equator and Tropic of Capricorn?" (Brazil).

Now safely titled, both students said they didn't do any special studying for the geography bee; the material, they said, was just something they knew.

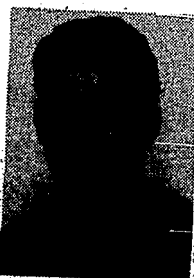

Honors

Tamara Topous, daughter of Tom and Emily Borton of Waterford and James Topous of Long Beach, Calif., was selected by her sorority for the office of sponsor chairwoman.

She is a member of Delta Delta Delta at Michigan State University, East Lansing. A junior majoring in public relations, she is a 1987 Clarkston High School graduate.

Ian Bower, a seventh-grader at Clarkston Junior High, has qualified to participate at the state level of the National Geography Bee. He will be competing against 400 other students in the National Geographic-sponsored event.

The contest is planned for April 5 at Central Michigan University, Mount Pleasant, with the winner advancing to national competition in Washington, D.C.

ROGER Vernier of Clarkston has just completed six months of intensive training at Divers Institute of Technology (DIT) in Seattle, Wash. While becoming a Commercial Diver at DIT, Roger made more than 60 working dives in open water at depths up to 200 feet. These dives were made using both surface-supplied air and mixed gas. He now has underwater construction skills in several areas: welding, cutting, salvage, dredging, oil-rig construction and photography.

Creative kids

ARTISTIC talent shown by kindergartner John Wakefield, 6 1/2, and fourth-grader Jennifer Gifford, 10, won the two blue ribbons in a poster contest. The two created posters for North Sashabaw Elementary School's annual fair. For winning the contest, each received a blue ribbon plus 10 free tickets to the fair on March 16. The theme for this year's fair was "Peace Around the World." (Photos by Julie Campe)

DR. HARVEY L. ROSE, D.P.M.

Surveys of Podiatrists, the specialists that treat foot ailments, have shown that many painful foot afflictions with which people suffer through life are actually started in childhood. An annual foot check-up would do much to prevent serious foot disorders later in life. If you're a diabetic, regular exams by a Podiatrist are very important. Something as simple as an ingrown toenail could lead to a serious infection.

Your Podiatrist will take a thorough medical history and a podiatric exam in order to determine any foot disorders. Improper foot alignment can cause knee, hip or back pain, as well as structural deformities such as bunions, hammertoes and heel spurs.

There is no time too early to consider foot health, but there most certainly is a time too late so far as any correction without surgery is concerned.

We and DR. HARVEY L. ROSE, Podiatrist, located at 6825 Dixie Hwy. in Clarkston, are pleased to bring you this information. Phone 625-1153 for an appointment or further information.

Nowadays when every car dealer has such a wide selection of models to choose from, it is really difficult for you to decide where to go for a new car. All companies advertise that their cars are the best, but who is to say which car really is. We therefore can conclude that the real difference in buying a car is the dealer you buy from. The ideal dealer offers a fair price on the new car, as well as a honest dollar for your trade-in. However, the most important factor is the service that you receive on your new car year after year.

We would like to point out BLOOMFIELD DODGE - The Home Of The Unknown Car Dealer, located at 2125 S. Telegraph Rd. just North of Square Lake Rd. in Bloomfield Hills, phone 258-9113 (Birmingham) or 338-9033 (Pontiac). They are open Monday and Thursday from 9:00 a.m. until 9:00 p.m. and Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday from 9:00 a.m. until 6:00 p.m. Their service hours are Monday through Friday from 7:00 a.m. until Midnight. (Who else has service until Midnight?)

So, see them today for a new car or truck and you'll see why they say CUSTOMER SATISFACTION is first and foremost here.

Chocolate 'pets' better gifts than live animals

The Michigan Humane Society cautions adults not to give gifts of baby chicks, ducks or bunnies to children on Easter.

Statistics show that many such animals are not properly cared for or are hurt or accidentally killed soon after the holiday.

When the initial excitement of receiving a cute, baby animal wears off, the reality of feeding, housing and caring for it sets in.

Every year following Easter, the Michigan Humane Society receives these "unwanted gifts."

It is difficult to MHS to find suitable homes for unhousebroken chickens and ducks, even if they are named after cartoon characters.

Chocolate or stuffed, plush "pets" are suggested as a substitute for the real thing.

The MHS is a private, non-profit organization operating three full-service animal shelters.

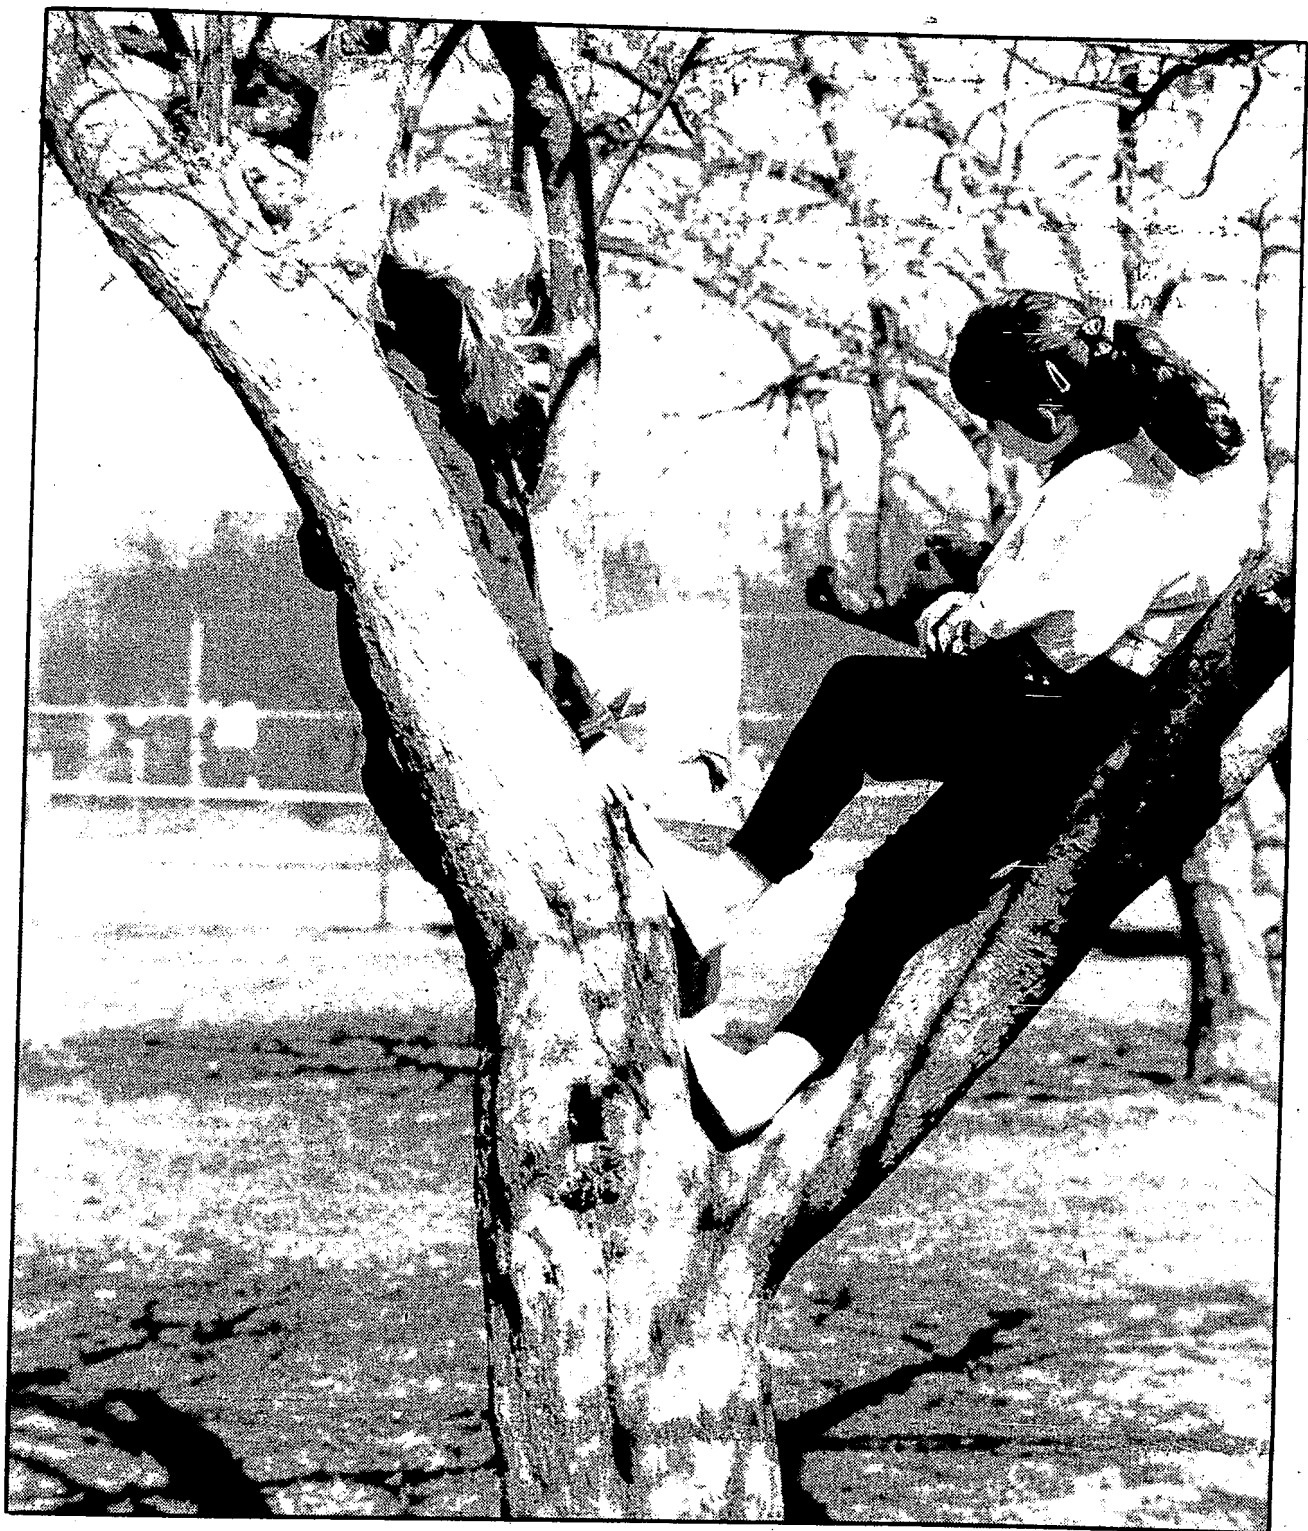

For more information, call 872-3400.

'After the Storm'

A new support group has formed to help area families cope with relatives in the Middle East.

"After the Storm," a transitional support group called the Auburn Hills/Clarkston Chapter of Michigan Military Family Support Groups, meets 7-9 p.m. Monday, March 25. The address is 1435 W. Auburn Road (between Crooks and Livernois), Rochester Hills.

For more information, call 646-6958.

Garden Corner

Are leftover seeds still good this year?

Spring may seem like no more than a distant promise, but that's enough to generate a host of gardening questions.

Michigan State University Extension specialists answer timely queries about flower gardening, vegetable gardening, insects and related topics.

I'd like to expand my mum planting by dividing the plants that have been in place for several years. When's the best time to do that?

After the danger of frost is past in your area — late May or early June. Remove the plants from the soil when new growth is four inches high. Take well-rooted shoots from the outside of each clump and plant them in a sunny, well-drained spot with the growing tip just above ground level.

Last year I tried growing flower and vegetable seedlings in my basement for the first time. They grew well at first, then some suddenly wilted, fell over and died. The stems were all black and shriveled-looking. What caused this? How can I prevent it from happening again?

The problem is damping-off, a fungal disease of seedlings caused by common soil fungi. Damping-off can also cause seeds to rot and seedlings to die even before they emerge from the soil.

To prevent it, grow seedlings in a sterile growing medium, such as a commercial peat-vermiculite mix, in sanitized containers. Water to keep the growing medium moist but not soaked.

The high humidity and warm temperatures often used to speed germination can contribute to damping off. So can deep planting, overcrowding, overwatering and overfertilizing.

Once established, damping-off can spread through seed flats very quickly. Discard affected plants at once.

Making raised beds in the flower or vegetable garden sounds like a lot of work. What makes it worthwhile?

Constructing raised beds is one way to garden in spite of poorly drained or compacted soil.

The soil in the raised bed drains faster and warms up more quickly, so you can plant earlier and have fewer problems with root rots and other diseases related to poor drainage.

Unless you build beds so wide that you can't reach the middle to plant or weed, you won't have to step in them, so soil compaction won't occur.

Use wood treated with copper naphthenate to prevent rot, and your raised beds will last for years. Fill the frames with a mixture of sand, soil and compost for good drainage and nutrient-holding capacity.

I didn't prune my roses much last fall. Should I prune this spring?

Yes. Prune in spring to remove winter-damaged canes, all weak growth (canes smaller than a diameter of a pencil) and canes that are rubbing or crossing another. Then shape the plant by cutting back remaining canes to a uniform height — 18 to 24 inches.

The exception to spring pruning is climbing roses — prune them after they bloom.

Are my leftover seeds from last year likely to be good this year? Or should I buy all new seed?

This depends on what types of seeds you saved and how you stored them. Most garden seeds will give satisfactory results the second or even the third year if they were stored in a cool, dry place, such as a dry basement, a garage or a refrigerator.

The shortest-lived seeds are those of sweet corn, okra, onion, parsley, parsnip and salsify.

Though they may germinate reasonably well after one year, they seldom do well the second year.

Somewhat longer-lived are bean, carrot, leek, English pea and southern pea seeds. They will generally germinate well for at least three years if properly stored.

Most other garden seeds will germinate well even after four to five years under adequate storage conditions.

Bombs away!

Photos by Julie Campe

AS MARSHMALLOWS rain from the sky, thousands of people rush toward the onslaught. A helicopter three times dropped the colorful payload on Saturday, March 23, at Clintonwood Park, Clarkston Road, Independence Township.

BUNNY EARS are just the thing for Amy Haglund, 1, of Waterford, who finds a comfortable perch in her Clarkston cousin Dan Ciak's arms.

RICK Kolano, video camera in hand, enjoys the Easter festivities with his son, Brad, 2 1/2

2. They live on Ridge Trail, Independence Township.
