Three seats attract six

BY TRACY KING Clarkston News Associate Editor

Clarkston-area voters will choose from among six candidates for three school board positions in the June 10 annual school election.

Two of the positions are for four-year terms; the third position is a one-year term.

Candidates for the four-year position include: Durham M. Downs of Allen Road, Independence Township; Kurt G. Karlstrom of Tappon Court, Independence Township; David E. O'Ryan of Edgar, Springfield Township; and Janet R. Thomas of Warbler, Independence Township.

Candidates for the one-year position include: Carol D. Balzarini of Reese Road, Independence Township; and Joseph A. Helpern of Waldon Road, Clarkston.

Those interested in the position were required to turn in petitions with at least 20 signatures and affidavits of identity.

The one-year position was made available with the resignation of board President John Needham, who had one year remaining in his four-year term.

One four-year position resulted from the expiration of Janet Thomas's position; the other is currently held by Downs, who was elected last year to complete the four-year term previously held by another resigning member.

Dropped wallet leads to thieves

BY CURT MCALLISTER Clarkston News Staff Writer

Two men admitted to stealing nearly 30 shrubs after one of them lost his wallet at the scene of the crime.

The pair confessed to stealing over $600 worth of shrubbery from three Independence Township sites on April 4.

These thefts included: 17 shrubs planted by K & Hill Construction on Steeple Hill Drive, three small trees near the entrance of Deer Lake Farms on Holcomb Road and 10 shrubs from the Church of the Resurrection on Clarkston Road.

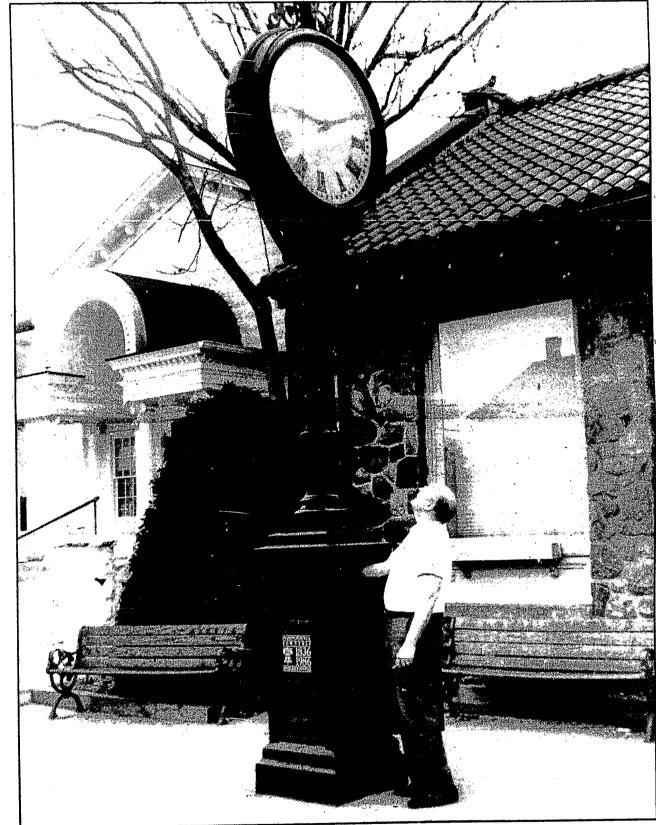

One of the two 20-year-old suspects was tracked down the next day, after K & Hill landscapers found his wallet near the Steeple Hill Drive site.

Oakland County Sheriff's Detective Dave Scott called the wallet owner's residence and left a message for him to contact the police substation for questioning.

That same day, the man drove to the substation, with (See SUSPECT, next page)

TO CHANGE the time in downtown Clarkston, Cliff Hammond moves the gears in the box in the base of the 1909 Seth Thomas clock.

Time changes in Clarkston

BY JULIE CAMPE Clarkston News Editor

Time changed in downtown Clarkston this week — with a little help from Cliff Hammond.

Hammond, owner of It's About Time clock store in Independence Township, winds the clock on Main Street each week, oils the machinery once a year, and changes the time twice a year for daylight savings time.

Though precise in his work, Hammond did not change the time exactly at 2 a.m. Sunday, April 7 — the official moment that time springs forward by an hour each spring

Instead, Hammond changed the time at about 9:15 a.m. Monday, April 8, while cars streamed past and pigeons watched from nearby perches, as did a few patrons of the Village Bakeshop.

Most people don't notice when time changes in Clarkston — and that's OK with Hammond.

Shotgun-toting driver assaults 18-year-old man

An 18-year-old Auburn Hills man was attacked in Independence Township by a man wielding a shotgun. And the owner of the gun tried to reclaim his weapon the next day:

According to a report at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD), John W. Metzelburg III was attacked near Kingfisher and Center streets. The incident occurred at 12:30 a.m., Saturday, April 6.

However, the attacker didn't run. He pulled out a shotgun instead. Metzelburg successfully knocked the gun out of the attacker's hands before the attacker could unsheathe it from its protective wrap.

In warm weather, the pendulum is longer. In cold weather, the pendulum is shorter, he explained.

Some people think of Clarkston as a village where time stands still, but with Hammond around, time is guaranteed to change twice a year.

Jury hears tales of reason and woe in school trial

BY TRACY KING Clarkston News Associate Editor

Defending a decision to fire its former architect, Clarkston schools Superintendent Gary Haner testified in Oakland County Circuit Court April 8 that the district had made mistakes in retaining the firm.

The six-member, two-alternate jury also heard from architect Charles W. Sherman, who said the resulting loss of business prompted him to close his doors forever.

"I felt I had a very good career," Sherman said. "My career was completely destroyed by these people."

Sherman is suing the school district for $2 million after his five-year contract with the district as canceled in November 1988.

The case, which had so far consisted of testimony from six witnesses including Haner and Sherman, was still being heard in Judge David Breck's courtroom April Haner told the court he had maintained reservations about the firm's ability to complete substantial projects from his first day on the job in July 1988.

"I believe the former superintendent erred in his failure to recommend to the board — and the board itself erred — in not actively interviewing other firms.

"This is routine — and in my standard — normal practice for a project," Haner added.

Haner said he understood penalties would be paid for terminating a five-year contract with Sherman, something he first calculated to be around $80,000.

He also said the amount was adjusted downward when it was thought that the Sherman firm had overcharged the district.

"The work Sherman billed the district for included future construction on an anticipated high school," Haner testified. "When we actually got the documents and reviewed the amount of work accomplished, it was our opinion that Sherman billed us for more work than what was done."

Haner was asked about a letter that each board member later received from Sherman that asking to be reinstated as the district's architect.

The letter appealed for a right to continue, citing references and qualifications.

Haner said the letter was "significant" in his recommending that the board later reinstate Sherman for work remaining on a $5.2 million bond issue.

When asked why the board, one month later, again completely terminated the Sherman contract, Haner

"I have worked in this field for 40 years. I feel they not only terminated my business but terminated me."

Architect Charles W. Sherman

explained that relations had deteriorated.

'The Sherman firm continued to take an all-ornothing position," Haner said. "They insisted that all communications be done through attorneys.

"They had written a letter to other firms threatening to sue (if they did work for the district)," Haner added. "All of this accumulated — and under legal review we canceled the contract," Haner said. The board vote was unanimous, he added, and the district continued looking for another architect.

Under cross-examination, Haner admitted that the board eventually paid Sherman some $200,000 in past due billings and had first terminated Sherman's contract without any prior notification to the firm.

When Sherman took the stand, he told the court that he was 68 years old and had discontinued his engineering studies at the University of Michigan to raise money to get

He related his work experience and how he eventually started his own firm, which employed his son, Gary, and two other certified architects.

Sherman's attorney, Richard Condit, outlined a chronology of Sherman's increasing business with Clarkston schools.

After voters approved a $5.2 million bond issue, and the board began contemplating a bond issue for a new high school, Sherman said he "made a decision that this is going to take a maximum effort of our organization."

The firm eventually depended on the district for 93 percent of its total billings.

When asked to describe the firm's relations with Clarkston schools, Sherman described it as "enthusiastic" and "good," stating "we liked working with them."

Sherman testified that after Haner took office, the firm had difficulty getting answers necessary to conduct regular business.

He told the jury that the school's business manager, Bill Jackson, was directed to tell him the district wanted to terminate his contract.

After the board voted to do so. Sherman related a conversation with Jackson, in which Sherman asked for a recommendation from the district.

Jackson said yes at first, Sherman said; he'then told Sherman that employees had been advised by legal council to say only "no comment" if anyone asked about the

'He said 'Of course if there's no lawsuit, there wouldn't be any problem," Sherman testified. "I reacted to it by saying 'That's blackmail," he added. "I guess then I just said, 'Thank you,' and walked out.'

Sherman testified that without a recommendation, the firm was "dead in the water" and was forced to close

He described the experience as "very deflating."

"I have worked in this field for 40 years," Sherman stated. "I feel they not only terminated my business but terminated me.

"I had greater expectations in life," he added.

The jury is expected to begin deliberations on the case sometime this week.

Village council officially kills B & B plan

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston Village Council members April 8 clarified their reasons for not amending ordinances to allow bed and breakfasts facilities.

The council had already decided Feb. 25 not to adopt an ordinance. During that meeting, no action was taken by any of the council members, so no formal motion was required.

Some people in the community felt the issue continued to be alive because they thought the council had merely tabled the issue Feb. 25.

Within the past several weeks, letters to editor in favor of the bed and breakfast issue were continuing to be published in The Clarkston News. Editorial cartoons were also submitted to the newspaper.

Because of this, the council April 8 passed a resolution on a 6-0 vote (trustee James Schultz was absent) not to amend village ordinances to allow bed and breakfast

Trustee William Basinger said, "This resolution doesn't change anything we've already done. It just explains why we did it.'

The resolution includes 13 points.

Several of the points refer to a strict village zoning plan that has been adhered to for about 20 years and does not allow commercial business in residential areas.

One point states that the village attorney has advised the council that under current case law, bed and breakfast places are considered as "commercial" use of property.

Another point said the council has consistently "disallowed expansion of other non-conforming business uses in residential areas," and allowing bed and breakfast facilities would change that consistency.

The proposal points out that there was "no widespread support" of the issue, saying that "very few village residents attended meetings in support of the proposal." In addition, it states bed and breakfast proponents publicly asked residents to call council members to indicate their support, but "no calls were received by any member of the council."

The proposal also said the planning commission drafted an ordinance approving bed and breakfast places for multiple residential and business districts "since that wouldn't endanger single-family residential zoning," but bed and breakfast proponents "indicated they didn't want any ordinance if it did not include single-family residential areas."

uppy looking for a good home

One tough puppy was pulled from a storm sewer last week and now is awaiting a good home.

"Donatello," a mixed Labrador, is about 10 weeks old. The energetic pup was found in a culvert under a driveway on Norman Road, Springfield Township, by Patty Wayne.

"I don't know if somebody dumped him or what," said Wane.

She had noticed the dog a few days earlier on the freezing March 30 and had assumed that it lived in the

But when she saw it again on April 1, she noted that it was very thin and "pretty scraggly."

"I asked around, but he didn't belong to anyone," she said.

So she and a neighbor tried to lure him out of the storm sewer - to no avail. They ended up prodding the little dog out.

"It took us four hours to get him out of the culvert," she said. "He had built a nest out of leaves."

Under a veterinarian's instructions, she now is feeding the dog three times a day.

"He was all skin and bones," she said. "He's a baby. All he wants is to be loved. He keeps kissing me on the

The dog is affectionate and playful, though fearful of sudden movements, Wayne said, adding that she is attempting to paper-train the puppy.

She also is trying to find the dog a home.

"I have an AKC lab already that we're trying to breed, plus a collie mix, two cats and a bunny rabbit.

"We just can't take another dog right now, or I'd keep him. He's such a baby. It's going to break my heart as it is," she said.

Safety path controversy goes to the people

BY CURT MCALLISTER Clarkston News Staff Writer

Walkers, joggers and bikers may want to speak up about safety paths in the area.

The Independence Township Board decided April 2 to ask for public opinion to help decide if the township's safety paths are for year-round or seasonal usage.

Originally, the trustees considered a maintenance service for the safety paths during winter. However, the township's safety path advisory committee recommended "not to provide any winter maintenance on the safety paths due to the liability involved.'

Trustee Mel Vaara, the main proponent of the maintenance proposal, said the board shouldn't give up on the Josephine Doolittle died April 6 after being shot in the head. She was pronounced dead at 1:40 a.m. at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

According to OCSD Detective Steve Parker, the woman was mortally wounded at her boyfriend's home on the 5900 block of Clintonville Road, Independence Township. Parker said the couple apparently had been drinking that evening and an argument had ensued.

Shortly after, Doolittle was shot. She was hit by a bullet from a small caliber handgun, which was registered under the boyfriend's name.

Parker said the case is currently being investigated as a self-inflicted gunshot.

"After reviewing the evidence at hand, we're investigating this incident as (self-inflicted)," he said.

Funeral services were held April 9 at the Pixley Funeral Home in Rochester. Doolittle was buried at the VanHoosen Jones-Stoney Creek Cemetery, Rochester.

"I, for one, would like the township to get involved
"I don't know why they in this ball game," Vaara said. "I don't know why they (safety path committee) always stick their hand on the liability aspect. I feel if we don't act, this township could have a liability problem."

Attorney Gerald Fisher told Vaara that year-round safety paths could open the township to a variety of slip and fall accidents.

Vaara countered by saying that he sees many people walking alongside the road during the winter because the safety paths are choked with snow. He asked Fisher if the township could be held liable if a person were struck alongside the road.

Fisher said the township wouldn't be held accountable if such an accident occurred.

The trustees agreed that they should seek the public's opinion on the matter before tossing it out altogether. They were interested to see if the public perceives the safety paths as fair-weather or year-round walkways.

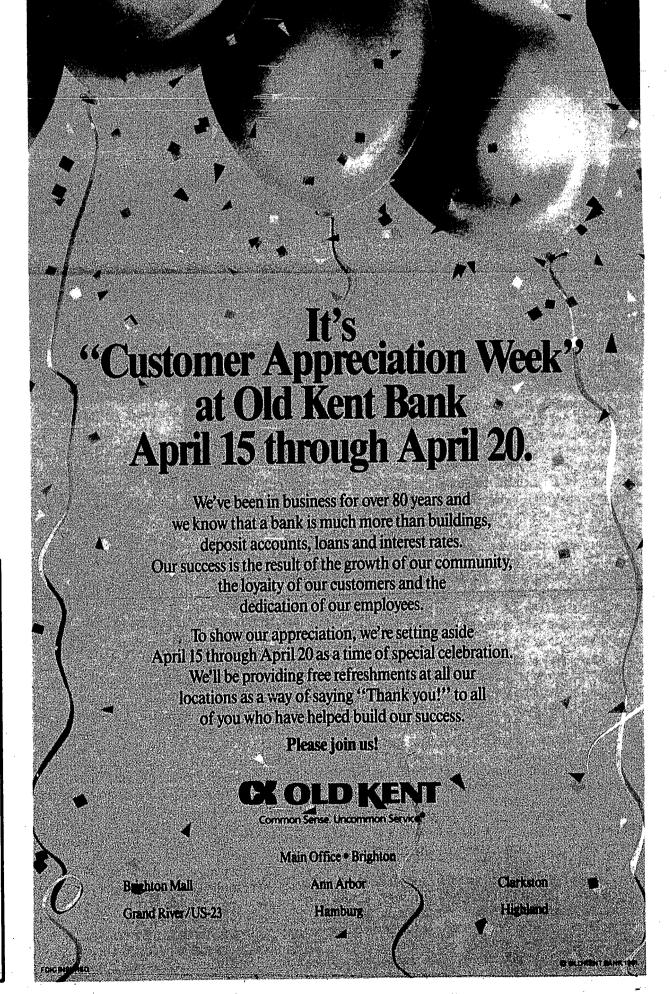

The board agreed that a safety path questionnaire should be included in the upcoming township newsletter, which reaches 17,000 homes. Opinions can also be called into the township offices at 625-5111.

Township buys truck

The Independence Township Board approved the purchase of a 3/4-ton pickup for the parks and recreation department.

On April 2, the trustees voted 6-0 to buy the $11,921 vehicle. The truck will be bought through the Oakland County Cooperative Purchase Agreement, which submitted the lowest bid.

The vehicle's purchase was covered under the township's 1991 fiscal budget.

Evidence

Julie Campe

All sorts of evidence may be found during simple walk through the woods.

Recently, I spotted a long, pink-painted fingernail, partially hidden among pine needles. Someone with stronger curiosity than I could have examined it more closely to see if the nail were real or fake.

But I merely continued my walk, though somewhat startled by that unnatural finding in the shaded forest.

Next on the trail was a pile of scattered feathers white, gray, brown, and white with brown stripes. The feathers were small, none longer than four inches. And there were no other bird clues that I could find.

The feathered creature must have been easy prey to some beast, for there was no evidence of a struggle. Of course, the animal may have carried its meal off the trail to consume it, merely leaving its packaging on the trail.

By this time, my curiosity was piqued, and I stared intently at the feathery clues, looking all around for any other sign, when, suddenly, someone yelled from afar, "What is it?"

I looked up, and there, through the trees, in a field, four teen-age boys had stopped their frisbee game to inquire after my finding.

"Oh — just a dead bird," I yelled back to them and then hurried away, lest they invade my peaceful search.

I continued walking, going deeper into the woods, lost in a now-forgotten thought. It was warm yet comfortable in the shaded hillside. Thoughts could wander as they would until interrupted by more evidence.

I rounded a bend and was amazed at the sight before me — clear evidence of violent devastation.

Towering pine trees had cracked in half and toppled to the ground, bending and breaking everything in their paths.

Tears of sap seeped from the naked whiteness of the wood that glared harshly from spotlights penetrating the muted forest.

Apparently, the raging storm in the prior week had delighted in turning the trees into splinters. Sunshine now poured through gaping holes in the forest ceiling.

In a glance, one could re-enact the destruction. I looked up. On this mild day, the pines swayed three feet back and forth in the whispering breeze. It was easy to imagine how much they swayed in the 70mph gales that visited the area during the storm. The trees probably bent back and forth, back and forth, until they snapped.

One mammoth tree apparently had hit the ground at a fairly perpendicular angle and then bounced up to rest on its side. The splintered base of the fallen giant was covered in gray earth, and it rested just above a four-foot-wide hole.

On its way to the ground, the tree had pinned a sapling in an arch shape. Another tree had been uprooted by the fall. Other trees, still towering in their full height, had been skinned during the descent of their brother. Their branches all were broken on one side, and bits of broken pine branches hung in surrounding trees.

Across the hill, four huge trees had snapped, as had smaller trees in the way.

This was more evidence than I had seen in a long while. I made my way to the top of the hill, stepping over the debris and accidentally gathering invisible webs of spiders, who had taken advantage of the treefalls and made new homes.

At the hill's top, I sat and watched while black, black crows glided on the wind, seemingly a mile away. They flew in threes and fours, and I did not see them flap their wings once — they only adjusted the tips now and then.

From all evidence, it was a fine spring day.

I, too, thought these practices, hypnosis, psychics and palm readers were just fun and games until several years ago when the Lord opened my eyes to the truth and to the dangers of the so-called fun things we are doing The Lord is strongly against them and says so in the Bible, Dueteronomy 18:9-12, warning us against these heathen practices and telling us that they are an abomination unto the Lord and we should not have anything to do

The Lord didn't put this warning in the Bible to spoil our fun, kids, but to protect us because He loves us enough

We, the grandchildren, visited him earlier this Establishment in the

In honor of our visit, Grandma prepared homemade strawberry shortcake with real whipped cream, a recipe she got from Pop-Pop's mother

1 never get strawberry shortcake, Pop-Pop said, when the beautiful dessert was served "Of course my wife cheats and uses Bisquick instead of making it from scratch with flour.!

"That's what Bisquick is;" grandma said hotly from the kitchen. "Flour and baking powder."

Pop-Pop is equally cantankerous about cars. As a General Motors executive for some 30 years, he demanded allegiance from his family

The fact that his daughter, and now his oldest grandchild, owned imported cars was best not discussed.

Still, we showed proper respect for Pop-Pop's three Cadillacs, one of which was a rare convertible Eldorado.

"Go ahead, you can drive it," Pop-Pop said to us after lunch.

"That's OK, Pop-Pop," Pat said. "You drive." Cruising through the coastal Florida town, Pop-Pop proudly pointed out his favorite landmarks.

The Eldorado's back seat was plush and spacious; and I told him so.

"I can help you get one," Pop-Pop offered generously:

Embarrassed, I tried to explain that it was better off as just a dream for now.

We came to a stop at an auto parts store owned by Pop-Pop and his son Steve, Hullo, fellas!":Pop-Rop whooped upon entering, Proudly, he walked us through the shelves of spark plugs, air conditioning systems and fan belts.

"Come on, Dolly," he'd say affectionately, as I stopped to inspect one part or another.

Dolly-was a new name for me and took some getting used to.

There's Pop Pop and Dolly, I could imagine store customers saying.

Somehow it just felt right.

Jim

It was interesting to be driving from Michigan to Florida during the final few days of the Persian Gulf War. As I cruise-controlled down I: 75, getting my news from unfamiliar radio stations and newspapers, and talking to strangers searching for ice, I was able to compare the macho jungoistic jerks from other states with the ones back

Fitzerald

Ice searches occur everyday between 4 and 7 p.m. in motels all over the nation. That's when weary, glazed-eyed men in rumpled clothing, having secured beds for the night, often with AARP discounts, take empty plastic buckets and search for machines that will spit out the ice cubes required to cool the libations that will help them and their wives relax and forget the many times their defense-less cars were abruptly cut off by lane-switching 100 wheeler tractor-trailers driven by king-of-the-freeway bullies. Most of these ice-questers look like they were drawn by Richard Guindon.

Years of experience have taught me to ignore confusing signs and use my ears to find ice. A series of "ICE" signs with arrows can lead you to machines offering nothing more than a scrawled "Out-of-Order" message. I listen for the familiar humming sound of an operating machine and walk in the direction that increases the volume of that heavenly sound.

Anyway, around the ice machines during last month's trip, also in Bob Evans restaurants and at public rest stops, I often overheard extremely/patriotic Americans celebrating their marvelous conquest of "them Arabs." The plain consensus, in Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia and Florida, was that our side damn well showed that Saddam guy who's boss.

Our side accomplished that mighty deed by killing perhaps as many as 150,000 human beings living in a dinky nation that had as much chance against the U.S. coalition as a compact car has against a 100-wheeler tractor-trailer. Our biggest worry was that friendly fire from smart bombs might cause dining Pentagon generals to choke on giant shrimp.

As I headed southward, I got the same hurah-forkilling message from radio call-in shows and newspaper reports. It was generally agreed that if Saddam Hussein didn't care if his citizens were slaughtered, it was our duty to slaughter them.

And, echôing such national media idols as Dan Rather, the local press along 1-75 eloquently said we should be damn proud of our ability to kill so efficiently.

However, at the risk of sounding parochial, I was ready to rank all those non-Michigan news outlets as alsorans and award the Detroit News the top prize for macho media breast-beating and super subjective insensitivity. The News apparently earned this honor by celebrating an allied victory with a huge front-page headline blaring

"GOTCHA!"
But a dim memory was triggered. Had I seen that GOTCHA! before? Yes, In my files I found a 1982 column that began: "After Britain sank an Argentine ship, a huge headline across the top of the front page of a London newspaper blared gleefully: "GOTCHA!"

So the Detroit News deserves no first prize in a contest to determine the most joyful, jingoistic, biased report of an inherently tragic event. It was a neat headline, sure, but originality counts, too.

That 1982 column went on to discuss video war games and the Pentagonese term "clinical bombing" with the appropriate dictionary definition of clinical being "highly objective; uninfluenced by emotion or personal prejudice:"The conclusion was that "GOTCHA!" is what a-pretend combatant exclaims after blasting a pretend enemy off a video screen. A real combatant, operating clinically, can say the same thing after destroying a real ship containing real people.

And a real newspaper, reporting clinically, can headline "GOTCHA!" when real people, with real families, are killed by unfriendly fire. Real readers can rejoice at the bloody good news.

Non-clincally speaking, it is truly a dismaying world. Sometimes I'm tempted to drop out and spend the rest of my years listening for ice machines.

Chance to meet school candidates

Because the June 10 school board election is so important to the Clarkston community, the League of Women Voters will invite the candidates seeking election to participate in a candidates' forum.

On Monday, May 20, at 7:30 p.m. at the Independence Township Annex, citizens will have a chance to ask questions after candidates have presented their views of issues affecting our schools.

The league sponsors "Meet the Candidates" to encourage informed and active participation of citizens in their community.

Ask yourself: "Do I know what each candidate would support or oppose?"

Plan to meet the candidates on May 20. The great interest shown in the schools should fill the annex.

If you are not registered to vote, you may register until May 13 at the township office or secretary of state office.

Plan to attend this important event May 20.

Senior party critic on right track

Trudy Locher, let me put your mind at ease. Had you completed your homework, you would be honoring this person who sought to make changes in the hypnotism and gambling entertainment chosen for the Clarkston High School graduation "lock-in" party.

REALTORS

27 S. Main

Clarkston

This person (my friend) is someone who should be admired and held as an example for the senior class and the entire community. She saw something she disagreed with and set out to change it by working within the system.

She volunteered to chair the entertainment committee herself. She not only was willing to offer her time and energy to the committee with other parents, but she spent several extra hours researching an alternative and presenting it at a much lower cost. For example, a comedian juggling act would cost $200, as opposed to the $500 for the hypnotist.

Entering the room for the second committee meeting, before the meeting even started, another parent — who is also a school board member — informed her she was removed from her post as chairperson because of her stand on the gambling and hypnotist.

The high school principal was in agreement with her removal, according to the volunteer parent/ school board member. At this point, my friend left the meeting. Is this the democratic process you are so proud of?

She was not against the party; she thought it was a wonderful idea and a wonderful opportunity for seniors to make a memory. Her main concern was that the condoning of gambling and hypnotism for our high school grad party would not accurately reflect the Clarkston community standard.

Here is the message we would be sending to our kids: We are locking you in because we don't want you to drink, but here is gambling and hypnotism for your enjoyment — a very inconsistent signal.

As loving parents, what message do we really want to send to our kids?

Remember when the community standard was concerned with things like boys buckling their knickerbockers below their knees? Yesterday's taboos are today's hohums. What will the "ho-hums" be when our seniors plan their children's graduation party?

Keep in mind the example my friend was trying to set in her proper efforts to make changes. Hopefully they won't be struggling to maintain the democratic process. These mature seniors, speaking so highly of their ability to make adult decisions, might ask themselves why must a "lock-in" party be planned in the first place? Do they realize what "lock-in" implies?

Disappointed in war protesters

I am writing to say how disappointed I am in all of the people who didn't fully support the men and women serving in the Middle East.

Instead of marching in support of the troops, these people were rallying against the war. This wasn't patriotism. These protesters may have been advocating peace, but will there be peace as long as we sit back and allow Saddam Hussein to be in command of Iraq?

I am also disappointed in the people who enlisted in the armed forces or were in the Reserves before the war started, who wouldn't go to fight in the Persian Gulf.

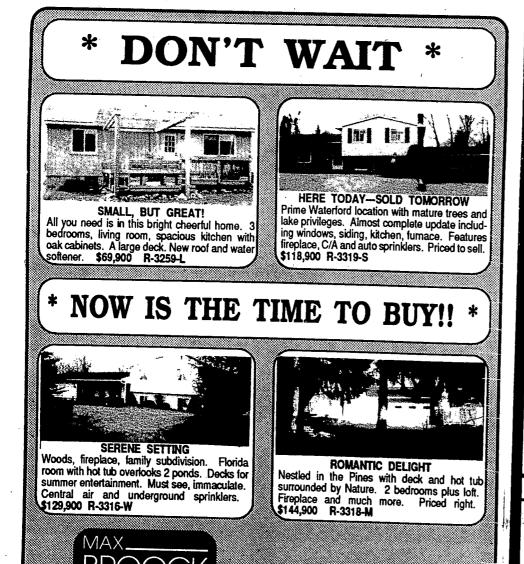

These people weren't drafted; they volunteered! As far as I am concerned, if you enlist in the armed forces, you should be willing to go and fight for our country if the need arises.

After the taxpayers have spent the money to train a person for the military, he or she should be willing to go to battle. In other words, a person should not expect to be trained at the taxpayers' expense and then back out when the time comes to use their training.

I am glad that most of our citizens were supportive and appreciative toward the brave men and women who willingly fought on our behalf.

Finally, I want to thank all those who supported the troops with letters, care packages, yellow ribbons and prayers.

Vote yes for schools next time

I don't believe that the people of Clarkston voted down the proposal for a new high school. Our schools are not only small, but they are falling apart. They have holes and leaks in the roof, and some rooms even have bugs.

Our gyms are about half the size of other schools' gyms, and our teams are twice as good. For those people, who say education first and sports second, they should come take a look at our educational facilities.

It is impossible for science teachers to conduct a lab because of few or no sinks in the classroom. Other teachers have to look all over the building to find supplies.

Also remember that if people don't want to move into Clarkston because of the school system, then your property values will drop.

All I'm saying is if you get another chance to vote for a new high school, please vote yes. I'm saying this because I have seen elementaries bigger than our junior highs and junior highs bigger than our high school.

Community finds shared values

On behalf of the Independence Pastors Association, the Rev. David New, the Rev. Kurt Gebhard, and the Rev. Bill Schram met on Friday, March 22, with Principal Robert Burek to discuss the post-graduation party and the controversy concerning two parts of the overall plans for the evening — the use of a hypnotist and casino gambling using play money.

The first point we stressed with Dr. Burek and wish to say to the community is that all of us are in support of the post-graduation party. We feel that it is good for a community to come together and show its pride in its high school graduates. We feel that the post-graduation party is a much safer and an alcohol-free environment in which our graduates can celebrate.

Second, we do not want the overall concept and success of the post-graduation party to be undermined by the manner in which decisions are made as to what constitutes appropriate activities for the evening.

Third, we encourage communication rather than confrontation among all those who hold varying opinions about the wisdom of a hypnotist and the casino gambling.

We regret that people on all sides of the discussion have had feelings hurt. We are willing to work for healing and openness of communication in this community.

Even among the Pastors Association members, there is a range of opinions about the use of a hypnotist and the casino gambling.

We are able to respect each other's opinions because underneath the opinions lies a common concern for doing what is beneficial for people.

We listen to and learn from each other. We are able to avoid labeling each other as "rigid fundamentalists" on the one side or as "morally careless" on the other. We are sure that this community can do the same, as it discusses and tries to form a consensus on what are the shared community values.

Shared values have already led this community so support the post-graduation party. It would be tragic if the manner of discussion about other values undermined the post-graduation party.

SJHS recycles its, lunch trays

I'm writing this in regard to a letter in the April 3 edition of The Clarkston News.

The letter said that the Clarkston school district is using non-degradable trays for lunch. This is true, but recently Sashabaw Junior High School has begun to recycle these lunch trays.

I don't know about the other schools, but if they all were recycling lunch trays, too, there would be no need to switch to plastic, re-usable trays.

Twenty years ago, plastic trays were used, washed and re-used. I don't know why, but we switched. Now, we've switched again and are helping to save our planet.

Communication possible without same language

BY KRISTIN WHISNER

Hello from the beautiful land of Germany! We have just left Scandinavia, and we are beginning a 14-week tour through Deutschland and the Netherlands.

Europe has been so exciting! I'm tasting many new foods, hearing many different languages, and learning a lot about other cultures.

Instead of trying to tell you everything, I thought I'd focus on one aspect of Up With People, as I did in my last newsletter.

As many of you already know, community service is a very important part of our year. For about every twohour show, we participate in about four hours of community service.

For those of us English speakers, going out into the communities of Europe becomes a special challenge.

On my tour this year, we have done everything from working in food kitchens and picking up garbage to visiting nursing homes and homeless shelters.

For those of us English speakers, going out into the communities of Europe becomes a special challenge. Imagine spending two hours with a 75-year-old woman who is physically disabled and speaks only Danish, or trying to communicate with a 5-year-old Norwegian child. Experiences such as these show us that there are many ways to express ourselves.

In Denmark, one of my favorite involvement experiences was in a sports center for the handicapped. We spent a day there, playing various sports with them. The people there had handicaps such as blindness, paralysis and Downs Syndrome.

They all had a strong motivation to live an active life, and they came regularly to the center to play sports with other people. Often the better players formed teams that competed against teams from similar sports centers, and some had even participated in the Special Olympics.

During our visit, we had the opportunity to play several games. We started with Gold Ball, which is similar to playing handball with blindfolds on. Rope was taped to the floor so we could feel the boundaries with our feet and hands, and the object of the game was to keep the other team from scoring a goal.

The ball (similar to a soccer ball) had a bell in it, and, as we heard it coming, we had to stretch out on the floor to block the ball. Then we would throw it back and try to make a goal. At first, I was so disoriented that I couldn't tell which direction the ball was coming from. I kept losing my position and wandering around the court, trying to find my rope. We played against three blind men, and — of course — they won easily.

Then we played wheelchair basketball, which was my favorite of them all. Learning to propel the wheelchair was hard enough, much less trying to play basketball in it! They turned circles around us, and we all kept tipping over and crashing because we couldn't steer. I don't think I made a single basket, and my arms were sore for days afterwards.

Later, I played ping pong with a wheelchair ping pong champion — this is very hard because you cannot move around easily. Watching me, you would have thought I had never played ping pong in my life.

We had a chance to talk more to our new teammates over coffee and rolls afterwards. At first, I was unsure of what to say, but I soon discovered how open everyone was, and, through a mixture of English and French, we were able to communicate.

Claus, one of the blind men we met, was studying political science at the University in Archus. He had also studied for a year at a school for the blind in Philadelphia, and it was interesting to hear about his experiences there and about the way handicapped people were treated in the United States and Denmark.

We met several people who had become paralyzed from the waist down in accidents. They were all in their 20s and 30s, and they all were very enthusiastic. They shared their stories with us and told how they had overcome their initial bitterness when they had first understood their injuries.

We left at the end of the day with some new friends and a new understanding. It will probably be one of my most memorable experiences of the year. We encounter many opportunities along the way to share ourselves with other people. Gradually, we learn to step past our initial inhibitions and take the risk to reach out to someone else and—unexpectedly—we find that in giving, we receive.

Kristin Whisner of Independence Township is in her second year of traveling and performing around the world with Up With People.

A 22-year-old man has been charged with felonious assault for allegedly stabbing his mother in the stomach

Robert Salvino was arraigned in 52nd District Court, Independence Township, later that day. With the charge, he could serve up to four years in prison.

According to a report at the Oakland County Sher-iff's Department, Maria Deneen, 46, was stabbed in her Circle Drive, Independence Township, residence. She was taken to Pontiac General Hospital and released later

Apparently, the woman was injured by her son, who had returned home after six months of drifting from town

Dencen told police that she had an argument with her son shortly after midnight. He was about to leave the home when she told him that it was too dangerous to be out at such a late hour. Deneen noticed that he was carrying a knife, and when she asked him to give it up he stabbed her in the abdomen.

Her screaming woke up the rest of the family and caused the son to flee. On the way out, however, he grabbed his mother's purse. According to the report, the son has had a history of drug and alcohol abuse.

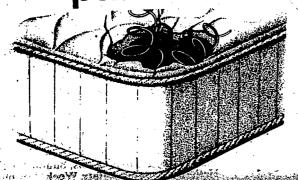

The man was apprehended about four hours later when a night attendant at the Amoco Gas Station on Sashabaw Road reported him loitering near the restrooms. He was arrested by deputies but the purse was nowhere to

The suspect is presently being held in the Oakland County Jail on a $2,500 bond.

Pine Knob looking to recapture past glory

BY CURT MCALLISTER Clarkston News Staff Writer

The owners of the New Pine Knob Music Theater are determined that 1991 will be the year of resurrection for the 20-year-old amphitheater.

During the past year, Arena Associates, Inc., which owns The Palace of Auburn Hills, has dumped nearly $6 million into renovating the facility. The structural improvements will be giving way to an upcoming schedule that could reach as many as 90 acts by year's end.

These acts include entertainers from the fields of comedy, pop, classical, rock, country, Christian and jazz. Several family-oriented acts such as magician Harry Blackstone Jr. and the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles have been added to satisfy patrons of all ages.

Tom Wilson, president of the Palace and the New Pine Knob, said his company has tried to improve every unpopular facet connected with the Pine Knobs of the past

"Our goal is to see if we can't solve all the problems of the past and turn the public's perception of this theater completely around," he said. "We want to put Pine Knob back on top like it was in the 1970s and early 1980s."

Many of the highlighted improvements include:

Equipping the pavilion area with a state-of-the art speaker system to provide all patrons with better sound quality

■ Installation of two large video screens on both sides of the stage.

Removing 2,000 "lawn seats" to cut down on overcrowding. This will put Pine Knob's maximum capacity around 14,600.

■ The number of ticket sales windows expanded from six to 14.

■ A new entrance off of Sashabaw Road with additional ticket points at existing Sashabaw Road and Pine Knob Road entrances.

The number of total restrooms expanded from 57 to 102 and spread throughout the grounds.

■ The number of concession counters increased from 22 to 58.

■ A VIP lounge added to the east side of the stage.
■ $400,000 in landscaping improvements around the facility.

Wilson said the increased schedule will make Pine Knob the most active amphitheater in the country. He added that ticket prices will also rise slightly to remain competitive with the area's other three amphitheaters.

With the season-opening performance almost a month away, Wilson said he is eager to see how the public reacts

"We're confident that we've made the appropriate changes to the amphitheater. We're only hoping that our patrons agree."

"We're confident that we've made the appropriate changes to the amphitheater," he said. "We're only hoping that our patrons agree. We want them to leave Pine Knob with a new and positive perspective."

The U.S. packaging industry spends $28 billion a year to bring everything from televisions to toasters into our homes. Consumers spend another $3 billion a year to collect and dispose of these items.

Cosby starts summer lineup

If you want variety, the Pine Knob Music Theater could be your ticket this summer.

Under new ownership, the revamped amphitheater will be offering 56 scheduled events with many more to be added at later dates.

More cities restricting development

Doug Carlson

Liz Brater recently scored an upset victory over incumbent Ann Arbor Mayor Jerry Jernigan.

Brater, who will become Ann Arbor's first female mayor, captured 54 percent of the vote in beating Jernigan by 1,899 votes. This represents the widest margin of victory in that city in the past 10 years.

What I found particularly interesting was her vow to "step up enforcement of ordinances governing environmental protection, historic preservation and commercial development."

At almost the same time, the City of Sterling Heights recently enacted a moratorium of up to nine months on construction of new retail commercial buildings (strip malls and convenience stores). The city wants the time to decide whether land reserved for commercial development should be rezoned to prevent a shopping center glut.

Sterling Heights Mayor Jean Gush said the city's action was prompted by a study of 70 shopping centers that showed an average of more than two vacancies each. Gush said the study found more than 500,000 square feet of vacant retail space in the city north of Detroit.

She said city officials were concerned that more development would increase the vacancy rate and accelerate the pace of decay.

"I think we'd be remiss if we just allowed anything and everything to go in there with no forethought of what it may look like 10 years from now," Gush said.

Similar concerns prompted Novi six years ago to eliminate the zoning category that allowed the construction of strip malls. Novi's zoning now encourages stand-alone commercial buildings.

"We were concerned with not becoming the typical suburb with strip malls up and down every mile road," said City Manager Ed Kriewall. "There's virtually no zoning left in town for strip malls."

Westland's planning director, George Wilhelmi, said his city has adopted strict guidelines for rezoning requests. The guidelines require strip mall developers to show demand for more retail space, either through a marketing study or signed leases for 50 percent of the space in the proposed development.

John Gallagher, who writes on the subject of development for the Detroit Free Press, recently commented on the above-mentioned "restrictions" being placed on developers. He said, "An infringement of the free market? Not really. Developers don't really respond to market demand anyway. They build as long as money is available for construction loans. In the '80s, bankers were flush with cash, so we saw our suburbs absurdly overbuilt. We're paying the penalty now."

And, finally, I see where Western Development Corp. is having a very difficult time trying to acquire financing for its proposed Auburn Mills Mall. In fact, the company recently filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy as a ploy to buy more time.

Boy, isn't that a doggone shame?

Library director to be chosen soon

For the past five months the Independence Township Library has been without a director, but that's going to change soon.

According to Supervisor Frank Ronk, someone should be chosen around the beginning of May. The new director will be replacing James Hibler, who resigned in mid-December.

Ronk said the township has received resumes from 19 applicants and will be interviewing a selected few this week. After narrowing the applicants to one individual, the township board must approve the person.

The new director will be in charge of a library that will eventually exceed 20,000 square feet. A 16,000-square-foot addition is scheduled to be completed sometime this fall.

Tornado siren tests set for April 17

The week of April 14-20 has been declared as Michigan Tornado Safety Week by Gov. John Engler and Oakland County Executive Daniel T. Murphy.

As part of the activities for this week, Oakland County will activate the Tornado Warning Siren System and the Tone Alert Receiver System on Wednesday, April 17, at 9 a.m.

County officials are asking residents to monitor all siren systems and check to see if they are working properly. If there is a problem with a warning siren near you, they ask that you call 858-5300 to report the malfunction.

Timely hitting crucial for Wolves

Spring sports preview

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston's varsity baseball team will be having much of its pre-season during the start of the regular season.

This delay was caused by many of its players still playing basketball when practices began, followed by many players vacactioning in Florida last week during spring break.

Of the team's first 17 practices, Clarkston coach Roy "Pops" Warner said there were only three days when the entire 16 players practiced.

That lack of practice shows when the coach says he will be looking at no less than nine different possible pitching prospects. They are seniors Darren Master, Chris Wasilk, Chad Hetherington, Mike Corcoran, Juan Chavez and juniors Matt Seitz, Kevin Mull, Dugan Fife and Derek Wiley. Wiley is the only southpaw.

"No one's locked in," said Warner about the pitching. At the start of the season, the pitchers will yanked not necessarily by their performances but rather by the number of pitches thrown.

Warner said the number of those who pitch will eventually dwindle down, but he likes the idea of having "more pitchers available when the situations arrive."

Warner said the Wolves "don't have any long-ball hitters" so they will rely on that pitching along with their defense and a little speed.

"The better your defense, the better your pitching is," said Warner.

Warner expects his team to be faster on the base paths, but "first you've got to get somebody on base before you can steal."

He said the team has good senior leadership. The coach also expects those seniors to supply a big share of the hitting, pointing out the bats of co-captain Jim Jenkinson, co-captain Hetherington, Mike Stanton, Kevin Juzysta and Wasilk.

Warner said timing of hits will be crucial. Last season his Wolves often put runners on bases after there were already two outs.

Last year Warner said Clarkston often quickly fell behind and had to play catch-up.

Strong pitching, defense and some timely hitting will determine whether or not the Wolves will again play catch-up in

Field events keep team in the running

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI Clarkston News Staff Writer

When the Clarkston boys' track team goes up against Pontiac Northern, it not only will be trying to upset the defending Greater Oakland Activities League champs but also the state champs.

"Pontiac Northern is always strong.
Last year it was our only defeat," said Clarkston coach Walt Wyniemko, who is assisted by coaches Mike Kaul and Mike Taylor.

Wyniemko said the GOAL also knows about Clarkston.

"We will be strong competition.
People in the league know that," said
Wyniemko.

Fifty-two Wolves comprise the track team, which is about the same number as year's past. However, Wyniemko said there is one difference.

"We don't have senior numbers as we did in the past," said the coach. The Wolves will field 11 seniors, 11 juniors, 20 sophomores and 10 freshmen.

Wyniemko said he stresses personal improvement for each athlete.

"I tell kids to work as hard as they can. If you improve your times and distances will get better," said Wyniemko.

Spring sports preview

Wyniemko said doing well in the field events will be crucial. He said in order to compete against Pontiac Northern and other quality teams, his Wolves must get a lead after the opening field events.

Clarkston will probably be strongest in the shot put and discus. Those most likely to see action in those two events are Paul Krause, Kyle Powell, Steve Black, Dan White, 'Gordie Garwood, Steve Hunkele, Dan Lamrouex, Tim Warner and Gary Young.

Wyniemko said his Wolves won't have blazing speed in the sprints but pointed out that the relay teams "won't hurt us."

He expects Clarkston to do quite well in the distance events. Nearly all of the distance runners competed last fall in cross-country. Among them are Todd Wozniak, Jim Haviland, Paul Brisson, Jacob Kniss, Derek Lachman and Steve Tungate

Running the hurdles will be senior veterans Chris Figa and Al Manser and sophomores Nathan Forbes and Chip Sloan.

The track team will spend most of its season on the road. The Wolves will host only two varsity dual meets (Lake Orion on April 23 and Pontiac Northern on May 7) and the Clarkston Invitational on May

Elizabeth Windram

ELIZABETH Windram (third from the left) and her precision skating teammates will be competing at the national championships April 13 in Anchorage, Alaska.

Local skater's precision earns trip to Alaska

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI Clarkston News Staff Writer

Prospectors rushed to Alaska for gold from 1897-98.

Thirteen year old Independence Township resident Elizabeth Windram and her teammates will be competing for their own gold April 13 in Anchorage, Alaska at the Precision skating national championships.

Precision skating is a relatively new sport on ice in which a large group of skaters skate simultaneously.

Mary Windram, Elizabeth's mother, explained precision skating as "the Rockettes on ice." Elizabeth, Mary, father Gary and 16-year-old Luke live on Cranberry Lake Road.

Precision skating is gaining in popularity and there is discussion of it one day becoming an Olympic sport.

The United States Figure Skating Association is interested in the sport. The organization has given every skater and chaperone going to the nationals $100 to help defray expenses.

Windram, a seventh grader at Roeper City and Country School in Bloomfield Hills, will travel to Alaska with her Team Elan novice skating team. Elan is a French word meaning spirited self-assurance. Her team practices at both the Detroit Skating Club in Bloomfield Hills and at a rink in St. Clair Shores.

Juvenile, junior and adult teams from those two rinks will join the novice team for the trip to the nationals. The novice team will be performing to winter theme music at the nationals.

All four teams qualified by high finishes at the Midwest sectionals in Fraser in February, where teams from Michigan, Wisconsin, Ohio, Illinois and Colorado competed.

Jeannine Cullen, the teams' coach, said judges "look for a well-rounded, flowing program. They also want to see tempo changed."

Cullen said about Windram, "She's a very positive influence on the team. She's a good skater who's improved a lot the last nine months. She's also well liked by the kids."

Windram has been skating for about four and a half years. At first she was a ballet and jazz dancer, but then became interested in figure skating. Her interest then evolved into precision skating in 1988. She didn't skate in 1989-90 because of an injury but picked it up again the past nine months.

Windram said there is a difference to figure and precision skating.

She said in figure skating "it's easier to practice by yourself" and said in precision skating the judges "judge by how well you do as a group."

She and her Team Elan teammates usually practice for two and a half hours, two days a week. That rate increases as the girls get closer to competition.

When Windram, an all-"A" student, isn't on the ice, she also competes on the basketball and volleyball courts and runs the mile in track.

Swinging from the Heels

No fun days before Fun Daze

James Gibowski

Why am I doing this, again? Didn't I tell my mind (and body) that I had already completed my entire life's share of distance running in the two-mile run during my sophomore and junior years in high school?

Didn't I solidify that feeling by helping form Bay City All Saints' first tennis team my senior year so I could play tennis instead of listening to longrested shot putters on the sidelines shouting, "You've got seven laps to go, so kick it in!"

Apparently I haven't listened to myself for about the last 20 years because I continue to run.

Okay, maybe I run one 10K a year for a T-shirt. But I still run.

And this year is no different. Last

Sunday I began my quest for a Clarkston Fun Daze T-shirt (the race is May 18) by running three miles around the Clarkston High School track in 27:42.

The last time I ran in a race was last year's Fun Daze 10K, so I'm right on schedule.

I guess I'm still fortunate I can stop running for six, nine or 12 months and still begir ny training by starting at three miles.

And I can honestly say, from my sophomore year in high school to the present, I have never dropped out of any race in my life. I felt like dropping out of nearly every race, but I never did.

I've got a nice collection of Tshirts. There's last year's pink shirt from Clarkston; blue, green and gray shirts from the three times I ran the Prefontaine 10K in Coos Bay, Ore.; a white one from the Run Between the States from Vancouver, Wash. to Portland, Ore., and others. And then there's always that mug in the shape of a foot after a 10K in Frankenmuth.

I wonder what color this year's Fun Daze shirt will be?

But first things first. First I've got to run around that track once or twice a week for the next five weeks to get into

My legs already feel in good shape. They could probably go the full 6.2 miles tomorrow. My breathing ... that's another story. I'll still be talking to my gut, giving it special encouragement for the next few weeks, as I run around and around the track.

But the legs and even the breathing aren't everything needed in that quest for another T-shirt. The mind also has to

There's much physical discipline in running, and even more mental discipline.

Maybe that's why I still run. Meeting the challenge of going out to run even when my mind says, "Why don't you just comfortably sit in front of the television, eat some ice cream, and watch 'Jeopardy.' You can run tomorrow.'

Physical and mental discipline, that's why ...

... What color are this year's T-

Auten finishes first at AAU state championship

Chad Auten took first and five other Clarkston Wrestling Club teammates placed at the AAU freestyle state championships.

About 505 wrestlers competed April 6-7 at the Kellogg Arena in Battle Creek.

Auten won the 95-pound Schoolboy Division. Other Clarkston wrestlers placing in that division were Corey Grant (105), second; Eric Endreszl (133), second; Joe DeGain (140), third.

Christopher Haag (55) finished second in the Bantam Division and A.J. Grant (65) was third in the Junior Division.

Qualifying wrestlers will next compete June 14-15 at the AAU Regionals in Terra Haute, Ind.

First ace recorded at Pine Knob

Christopher Magiera's hole-in-one April 7 was not only his first ace, it was the first one of the season at Pine Knob Golf

Magiera, a resident of Berkley, fired the hole-in-one on the par-3, 160-yard 15th hole.

The shot was witnessed by R.J. Magiera and Dan Lobert.

BRAD Gaulin is an alternate on OCC's golf team.

Former Wolf tees off for OCC

A former Clarkston High School golfer soon will be teeing up with the Oakland Community College-Highland Lakes Campus golf team.

Brad Gaulin, 21, of Scenic Ridge, Independence Township, was selected April 5 as one of two alternates for the fivemember team.

He survived three rounds of cuts to become an OCC golfer. To prepare, he took lessons at Carl's Golf Land, he said. Now that he golfs for OCC, he practices at the Pontiac Country Club.

The OCC team's first tournament is set for April 11 in Muskegon, said Gaulin, who played for CHS coach Jim Chamberlain before graduating in 1989.

Gaulin, son of Alexander and Marianne Gaulin, plans to enter a professional golf management curriculum at Ferris State University, Big Rapids.

In the meantime, he said he was happy to play for OCC.

Fourth of July banner to welcome home veterans

Clarkston News Editor

Clarkston-area patriots may want to donate money to help buy a special Fourth of July banner for downtown Clarkston.

As usual, a parade is planned for 10 a.m. Thursday, July 4. But this year, a special banner is to be flown above Main Street, welcoming home veterans of the Persian

The 25-foot-long, 3-foot-wide white banner will feature red and blue lettering and read: "Welcome Home, Desert Storm: Veterans."

The banner costs $450, said Bob Piecuch of Hillyiew Shores Estates, Independence Township, who came up with the banner idea.

The American Legion Campbell Richmond Post No. 63 agreed to handle donations for the project, said

There are so many people involved with this," he said, adding that many support the idea.

In addition to donating to pay for the banner, Piecuch said area residents also could help in President Bush's "national homecoming for soldiers" by flying the American flag on the Fourth of July.

"A yellow ribbon means we have a soldier overseas fighting; but the war is over, and they re coming home now," said Piecuch: "When you welcome home a veterah from a war, the colors should be red, white and blue."

Piecuch said he was not a war veteran but knows the importance of a proper homecoming.

"I had a lot of friends in Vietnam who came home to absolutely nothing. ... The stories I've heard - people

A 33-year-old Independence Township man was shot in Pontiac while searching for a prostitute April 5. The Pontiac Police Department refused to release

Life on a painful planet: Surviving the gray

Editor's note: Linda J. Walsh of the Clarkston area plans to present this speech as Survivor's Group moderator at a statewide Traumatic Death Conference April 24 at Michigan State University, She also authored the accompanying article.

BY LINDA WALSH

"A little while ago, I was a child who went about in a world of bright colors. Now I live in a painful planet," ... to a survivor a world of gray.

This is a quote I found written by Frida Kahlo, the Mexican artist married to Diego Rivera. She was writing to a friend explaining her outlook on life after her serious

It was like a bolt of lightning had hit me; it was as if she had read my thoughts a thousand times about living in this painful planet — broken hearts, shattered lives, guilt, fear, humiliation, anger, hostility, abandonment and pain, gray replacing the life and joy and the bright colors that

I've been asked to be the moderator of the survivor's group for this Traumatic Death Conference. I must tell you the initiation fees to be a member of this group are paid with a very high price, the death of a person or persons in your life you love.

Twice, I have been a survivor. Fifteen years ago, through the suicide death of my first husband, and on June 9, 1989, I was again to know the horror of death. My 19year-old son, Patrick, was murdered by a man the same age as Patrick.

This was not this man's first offense. No, this man was out awaiting sentencing for a previous assault on his own mother, but because of the overcrowding of the jails was allowed to be out walking the streets.

Listen to the stories of the survivors yet to speak, my own daughter, Julie, included. Commonalities flow through the stories. Many of us have had multiple experiences; my families and I are not alone.

While the colors in our palettes have changed forever, we are looking to you to lessen the gray.

Survivors mark Victim's Rights Week

BY LINDA WALSH

Violent crime does not discriminate according to race, age, sex or religion. We all can and may be touched by its vicious grip.

As the result of an assault, it may be the end for the victim, but it is only the beginning for the survivors.

Aware of the insurmountable tasks the survivors of violent crime have to face — physically, emotionally and financially — President Reagan began National Victim's Rights Week in 1981. Reagan, himself a victim of violent crime, had this to say in support of National Victim's Rights Week:

"The innocent victims of crime have frequently been overlooked by the criminal justice system. Too often their pleas have gone unheeded, their emotional wounds ... personal ... and financial ... have gone unattended. They are entitled to better treatment; it is time to do something about it." (April 1982)

This year, Victim's Rights Week is April 21-27.

On June 9, 1989, my family and I were thrown into the whirlwind of violent crime's grip. My 19-year-old son, Patrick, was murdered by a man the same age as Program have become important to me and my family. I traveled through the various roads — and hit many dead ends --- to get answers to my questions concerning Patrick's rights and any knowledge to deal with the criminal justice system we had yet to encounter.

On the way, I was fortunate to meet Judy Nichols, victim witness program director for the Michigan Sheriff's Association. One of her responsibilities is to design, develop and implement training programs throughout

Judy has learned first-hand these rights of the survivor and how to deal with grief. Her son, Michael Ray, was murdered in Colorado in 1983. Since then, Judy has

Due to the events and circumstances our lives have been thrown into, my daughter, Julie, and I have chosen to become involved with the Traumatic Death Conference on Wednesday, April 24, in conjunction with Victim's Rights Week.

The Michigan Sheriff's Association is offering a one-day conference in East Lansing at the Michigan State Union. I am to be the moderator of the Survivors Group;

Responsibilities and needs must be addressed when dealing with the victims and survivors. This conference is trying to address these responsibilities. The conference is twofold in nature: the survivors are addressing the professionals who touch their lives as survivors, and the professionals are explaining their dilemmas in the jobs they

The Traumatic Death Conference is set for Wednesday, April 24, at the Michigan State University Union, East Lansing.

Sponsored by the Michigan Sheriff's Association, the conference costs $35, which includes the conference, luncheon and materials. Call 1-800-875-5500 to reserve a spot. Reservations are required by April

Proceeds from the event go to CSC, which provides the parish with an awareness of human needs and the means to respond. Most of its money is used to help out Lighthouse North, said Arline Moore, coordinator of Projects of CSC include personal ministry, making sick calls, transporting people to doctor appointments or stores, holding clothing and food drives, preparing and serving meals once a month at the Soup Kitchen in Pontiac, matching people with good used furniture and appliances with people who need those items, holding therapeutic aerobics for the mentally disabled and holding blood drives twice a year.

The group also has an annual "giving tree" program at Christmas, when group members find out through other agencies what veterans, needy immigrants and others need in the line of baby items, furniture and more. Parishioners get a list of the items and then bring in their choices of goods, which are given to those on the list.

"We just find out what the needs are and then try to meet it," said Moore.

Recently, St. Daniel's sent about $600 for Easter to Lighthouse North plus sent over about 99 baskets filled with candy, books, games and clothing for children.

"We just find out what the needs are and then try to meet it."

Arline Moore

Lighthouse North has made the job of CSC much easier because the non-profit agency now takes care of such tasks as screening the area residents first and then determining the needs, said Moore, explaining that Lighthouse North coordinates services for the townships of Brandon, Springfield, Oxford, Independence, Orion, Holly, Groveland and Rose and the cities contained within.

Lighthouse North can then call on its volunteers and church groups to provide such services as emergency food, clothing closet, rent and mortgage assistance, medical emergency, senior outreach, transportation for seniors, landlord-tenant mediation, financial assistance - security deposits, Thanksgiving and Christmas assistance, information and referral, community planning and problem solving, volunteer opportunities and more.

Short story contest winner named

The Secret Spring By Ellen Oliver

I have been to the most serene place on earth. It is hidden away in a dense cedar swamp in the Huron National Forest. When I was married, I had a cabin nearby, and I could explore the forest anytime I desired to — or felt a compelling need to. Now that I am divorced, the cabin is gone; the private times alone in the woods are a faded memory; but the need has not left me.

I've just had a major confrontation with "The Teenage Beast," a screeching, shoulder-shoving, tear-streaked battle that, as usual, ended with no victor. She is the primary reason behind my latest need to return to the most

So here I am, heading up Interstate-75, the main jugular vein of Michigan, in search of the tranquility and solitude only the woods can provide me. My son is visiting his father for the weekend, and my 16-year-old daughter, alias The Teen-age Beast, is home alone.

I desperately need to escape the whirling dervish of terror and the turmoil by sitting amidst the silent, green giants. They don't talk back. They don't criticize. They don't give me the evil eye. They don't slam doors. They just sway in the breeze, look peacefully green, and emit pine-scented oxygen for me to breathe.

As I pull of the expressway and onto M-33, I remember the last time I sat peacefully in my green-cathedral. I was contemplating the inevitable end of a trouble-filled, loveless marriage. I recall sitting near a cool, clear brook that mesmerized me with its constant movement and never-changing rhythm. Suddenly, I felt an overwhelming urge to try and find the beginning of this pure, clear liquid.

I wandered deeper and deeper into the woods, so deep that the temperature felt 5 degrees cooler; and it was hard to tell where the wetness of the soggy ground stopped and the misty branch-laden air began.

As I ventured on, the shadows of the night began to mix with the decaying logs and rich, black earth; so I had to put a hasty end to my search for the origin of the brook.

Now, three years later, I find a pressing desire again to locate the source, the spring as it escapes its earth-crust boundary. Maybe then I'll be in a better frame of mind to cope with one of life's greatest riddles—like how to tame the dreaded Teen-age Beast.

After the long journey up the concrete arteries, I find myself turning on to the old logging trail at the edge of the forest. I park my car in a sunny meadow, punctuated by huckleberry bushes. Their hypocritical sweet-pungent odor nips at my nose as I take that first breath of "upnorth" air. Oh, if one could only bottle the smell to be released in a stuffy fluorescent-lit office around three each day, one could be the next Armand Hammer.

As I step onto the hiking trail, motherly guilt feelings creep into my head to cloud up the pleasant scents ...

"Why did we have to scream at each other?"

"Why can't we seem to get along anymore?"
"Why do we both try to hurt each other?"

— and the dreaded

"I shouldn't have left her alone."

Meadow land gives way to the mixed forest, where oaks and hickory live in harmony with pine and balsam. The path winds its way to the edge of The Big Creek, which makes its way to the AuSable River, which eventually makes its way to Lake Huron; and that ultimately makes its way to the Atlantic Ocean.

But I am not seeking the vastness of an ocean, just a tiny, hidden spring.

It is only mid-morning; the setting sun should not interfere with my expedition this time. The path becomes a log bridge that leads to the opposite bank of the creek and the beginning of the cedar swamp. I cross over and immediately notice the unmistakable difference, It's as if an opaque veil has covered the forest. The jack, red and white pine are in the minority now. The old and wise cedar

About the author

Ellen Oliver, 36, is a single mother of two and works as school secretary for Bailey Lake Elementary School.

The Pheasant Run, Independence Township, resident enjoys writing poems as a hobby. "The Secret

BASEBALL is author Ellen Oliver's passion. This summer, she plans to attend a baseball game at Chicago's Wrigley Field and to visit the "Field of Dreams" movie baseball field in lowa. She feels strongly that Detroit's Tiger Stadium should not be torn down, she says. The Independence Township resident also has a cat named Cecil Fielder.

Spring" is her first short story.

The story — about a mother coping with raising a teen-age daughter — is loosely based on real events, said Oliver, whose daughter, Jennie, turns 16 on April 12. Her son, Jeff, is 10.

Oliver said she enjoys her relationship with her children, and her daughter really is not as bad as the character in the story.

"She's just a typical teen-ager," said Oliver. "We laugh about it because we tease her about her 'attitude.'

"She is a challenge," Oliver admitted. "Teenagers — they warn you about it, but you don't know until until it comes."

As for Jennie, "She has a lot of wonderful attributes," said Oliver. "She's a good kid. She's very thoughtful. ... We've always been able to communicate with each other."

Oliver said the story "was therapeutic to write."
But she did not expect to win the Village Bookstore Short Story Writing Contest, she said, and it was a delight

"I had two dreams when I was a kid — to be a teacher or to be a writer. But I got married too young and didn't go to college ...

"I've always written poetry."

When her children are a little older, she may pursue her teaching and writing dreams, she said.

In the meantime, she keeps busy with the daily life of raising two children by herself and working full time. She also manages to spend time with her boyfriend, Dave Whitehead, who helps coach the Sashabaw Junior High School football team.

"He keeps me lightened up," she said.

And Oliver makes time for her favorite activities: camping, hiking, coaching her son's Pee Wee baseball team, watching her daughter play volleyball and softball—and watching baseball, lots of baseball.

"I love baseball," she said. "That's my number-is king here

It is time to leave the path. I cross over the cedars' gnarled roots that create a textured tapestry when variegated with the yellow-green moss.

I hear the sound of the brook just ahead. It reminds me of the tinkling sound of the wind chime on my deck back home. I begin to wonder: maybe that's why the wind chime makes me feel so peaceful and content. It reminds me of my little piece of paradise up north. It drowns out the unearthly utterances of The Teen-age Beast.

I turn left along the wind-chime brook and start climbing higher and deeper into the woods. There are many fallen cedars now. The ground is so moist and water laden that it cannot support the tangled masses of a thousand roots from the lacy cedars. I climb over tree trunks that crisscross over the brook so frequently that I seldom need to touch my hiking boots upon the mass-covered earth; and when I do, the earth is like a sponge-filled with swamp water.

The air is heavy now, heavy with morning dew that never dries, even though the sun must be halfway toward its journey to the horizon. I must pause and rest awhile.

I lie belly down across a fallen tree that is still living in a prone position across the water. The brook's bed is silky soft with ribbons of emerald green algae. My fingertips find their way into the icy liquid. It is colder than a January snowdrift, yet it warms my body as I splash it across my cheeks.

As I look around, I see massive rotted root hollows that I know provide a welcome home to many of the forest's creatures. I'm getting a little nervous now, half expecting to see a black bear peering at me from within the hollows or a Teen-age Beast ready to jump at me and tear out my heart. Yet I am all alone. I venture on. The brook is getting smaller now, no wider than a foot.

Suddenly, about 50 feet ahead, I see a wooden sign posted upon a tree trunk. It looks so foreign, this manmade sign invading God's perfect natural place. As I approach this oddity, I notice that I have indeed found the origin of the brook. The spring laughs and giggles out of the side of the earth on its merry way to the Atlantic Ocean.

I am overcome with happiness and a deep inner peace. As I look about, I see that I am in an enclosed room with a canopy of lacy cedar fans as my roof and spongy verdant moss as my carpet. Then I remember the strange sign placed upon the tree trunk. Its inscription reads:

Drink me, and your thirst for understanding shall be quenched.

Quickly, I cup my hands beneath the spring and lift its icy sweetness to my lips. As the virgin water fills me up, my mind immediately begins to empty all its unclean thoughts, all its stored resentments, all its stockpiles of hurts filed away to be used for retaliations.

I sit awhile in the room of inner peace, content with my fresh new soul. Then, reluctantly, I know it is time to (See WINNER, Page 41)

Artist finds warm welcome in Clarkston area

BY CURT MCALLISTER Clarkston News Staff Writer

In Buffalo, Mary Owens was forced to rent office space to accommodate the throngs of aspiring artists who wanted to attend her classes.

Now, the Independence Township woman finds herself building her reputation in Oakland County.

Mary and Ralph Owens have been in the area for nearly two months. The couple left New York state after Ralph was transferred by his company, Electronic Data Systems (EDS). With their departure, Mary found herself leaving 12 years' worth of students.

Possessing a willingness to learn, she acquired her teaching skills as an apprentice under a Buffalo artist. Mary is still surprised at the number of interested artists who visited her home when she first opened classes.

"Early on, I had about 200 people who would take lessons at my home throughout a six-day week," she said. "This was kind of rough on my family, so I rented some office space and conducted my classes from there."

In 1988, Mary's life took on an added responsibility when she was hired by the Koh-I-Noor Rapidography Co. in New Jersey. Her job was to teach the many uses of the rapidographic pen, a mechanical drawing instrument that proves to be an exceptional artistic tool.

Mary is still active as a teacher-representative, and her travels have taken her all over the continental United States and parts of Canada.

Besides working for Koh-I-Noor, she is presently teaching pen and ink drawing at K.T. Crafts in Waterford Township. She said it didn't take long to organize the class or accumulate students.

"It's funny, I was talking about starting a class with the owner, Karen Tryon, and we signed up several of the customers who were milling about in the store," she said. "There really is an interest for this type of medium."

With her background in pen and ink renderings, Owens finds most of her pupils asking for this type of tutelage. She does, however, teach decorative painting, pastels and calligraphy as well.

A single, four-hour class with Owens costs the participant $15, with some materials included. Tryon thinks the classes are tremendously worthwhile.

"Mary's just the best teacher," she said. "She taught me so much in just one of her classes that it's amazing."

Mary said her own works are more for display purposes than financial gain.

"I'd rather teach someone than sell a piece of art," she said. "There's a true sense of accomplishment seeing a person finish a project because I know I had part in its

New series begin

Two new series dealing with contemporary social issues and interpersonal challenges are beginning at the First Church of God in Independence Township.

The Rev. David New, pastor and counselor at the church will be teaching.

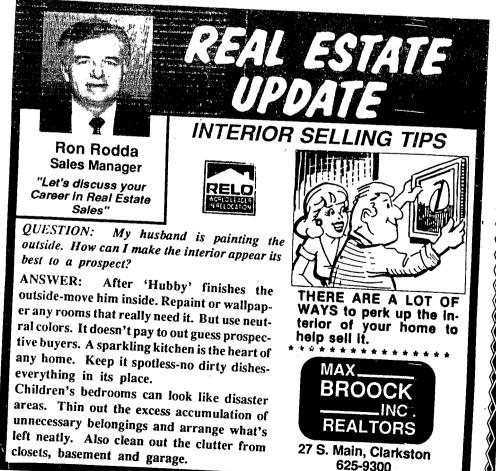

The 10:45 a.m. Sunday worship series is taken from the life of the shepherd king David and addresses such subjects as fear, anxiety, strained relationships, personal failures and recovery.

The Sunday evening seminar series begins April 8 with the subject: Understanding the Occult and Demonic Oppression. Is it really real? Similar subjects will be addressed at 6 p.m. each Sunday.

New, former research chemist and professor, has traveled extensively through the United States and many foreign countries as a lecturer and seminar leader. He has authored numerous articles, poems and plays, and has pastored churches on the West Coast and the Midwest.

With advanced training in pastoral psychology and counseling, New has served as adjunct professor at the Anderson Graduate School of Theology. He chairs his denomination's Commission of Christian Higher Education. He came to the Clarkston area in May 1990, after 11 years in Midland.

The durability of a shovel depends upon its method of construction. The best choice of shovel for around the house is a hollowback. The type of blade to choose depends on the use of the shovel. To cut Into soil easily, choose a round point shovel, but If you're digging through roots using a spade would be more appropriate and a square point shovel is the best choice for transporting work.

Honors

Seven Clarkston-area residents were among the 4,800 University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, students who were recognized at the university's annual Honors Convocation march 24.

Recognized for class honors were Joseph S. Willis of Rattalee Lake Road in the College of Engineering; Valerie E. Harrison of Thornhill Drive in the College of Literature, Science and the Arts; Wendy N. Law of Hubbard Road in the College of Literature, Science and the Arts; Ruth Lynne Webb of Amy Drive in the College of Literature, Science and the Arts; and Melissa Susan Wilkinson in the College of Literature, Science and the Arts.

Dana Marie Hocking of Tamarack Park Lane earned class honors in the College of Nursing and also was one of 736 students named a James B. Angell Scholar for maintaining an all-A record for two or more consecutive terms.

Rhonda Kay Jokisch of Ellis Road, too, earned class honors in the College of Hospital Training. She also was one of 230 freshman who received the William J. Branstrom Prize, a book of their choice and a bookmark. Branstrom Prize winners rank in the top 5 percent of their class.

Erick Phillips 989 Clarkston High School graduate, earned a $1,000 trustee scholarship to Lawrence Technological University, Southfield.

The scholarship is based on community college grades. Phillips, the son of David and Susan Phillips of Pine Knob Lane, Independence Township, attended Oakland Community College-Auburn Hills Campus.

He plans to study architectural engineering at Lawrence Tech.

Three Clarkston-area students have been named to the dean's honor roll for the winter day term program at Lawrence Technological University, Southfield.

Scott D. Harvey is studying business administration. Sherri M. Rico is studying electrical engineering. Rebecca J. Warbington is studying architecture.

Six Clarkston-area residents received academic honors for the fall 1990 semester at Oakland University, Rochester

The students are: Shelly D. Adkins, Shannon Flynn, Bill Larkin, Jan Scislowicz, Andrea M. Tassen and Thomas Zeleznik.

Three shine in state competition

Three students from the Oakland Technical Center-Northwest Campus recently received top honors in the State of Michigan Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) competitions.

The DECA event is held each spring and tests the students in three specific areas of their education. One area includes a 100-question exam related to their competitive field. The other two parts of the competition involved "walk-through" verbal experiences where students are given a 10-minute prep time before a one-on-one discussion with the judges.

The following students were award-winners this spring:

Barbara Scott, Brandon High School; subject: finance and credit; received first-place award and finished in top 12 (out of 60) overall; rated third overall and will advance to national competition in Denver, Colo.

Scott Williamson, Clarkston High School; subject: general marketing; second-place finish on written test.

Tina Kimmins, Clarkston High School; subject: full-serve restaurant; second-place finish on written test; finished in top 12 overall.

Jordan and Hall exchange vows

Tonya L. Jordan and Gregory D. Hall were united in Christian marriage Sept. 1, 1990, at Clarkston United Methodist Church. The Rev. Douglas Trebilcock officiated.

The bride/is the daughter of Frank and Lynda Everingham, Rochester Hills, and Gary Jordan, Pontiac. The groom's parents are Donald and Julie Hall of Clarkston.

Honor attendants were Susan Nederlander, Angela Lessel and Kevin Stam, cousin of the groom. Attendants included Lauren Hall, sister of the groom; Shawna Jordan, sister of the bride; and Angela Ruth.

Ushers were Stephen Mykytyn of Clarkston and Michael Valenzuela, Steven Ponton and James Tranter, from Grand Island, N.Y.

Christopher J. Toepp, the groom's cousin from Fayetteville, N.Y., was ring bearer, and Kristi Ruth was flower girl.

Soloist was Julie Andreone of Vero Beach, Fla., aunt of the groom.

A dinner reception followed the ceremony at Rivercrest in Rochester Hills. The couple traveled to Florida for their wedding trip.

Tonya and Gregory are both 1987 graduates of Clarkston High School. They reside in East Lansing where Gregory is a senior in the School of Engineering,

Kenneth and Alice McCrum

In-home pet care service alternative to kennels

BY BETTY WAGNER Clarkston News Special Writer

Elizabeth Denboer has a new idea for pet lovers a service called Pets Are Inn.

It's the answer for owners who refuse to leave their pampered animals at a boarding kennel.

It's also the answer for pet people who don't want the full-time care and expense of owing a pet.

Denboer read about the national franchise Pets Are Inn in a Detroit newspaper. She was interested because of a bad experience she had with her own pet who returned from a kennel sick.

Denboer, of Independence Township, started her taker complied, then found herself on the floor.

Some of Denboer's caretakers used to have their own pets but now have empty nests. As pet caretakers, they can enjoy a pet on their own time schedules. Or they are like Brita Wheaton, who likes the company of a second pet without the expense.

Wheaton is one of Denboer's Independence Township caretakers. She says her own dog, Cheyanne, helps her care for the guest pet. Cheyanne knows her own boundaries so keeps the guest in line.

"Cheyanne misses the pets when they are gone and then pesters us," she says.

When guest pets are staying with the Wheatons, she says, "Cheyanne is busy with the pets and gives us some business a year ago. Now she has about 70 clients with 35 constantly repeating.

Her service includes interviewing customers, matching pets with caretakers, delivering pets to and from the owner to the caretaker and keeping in contact with the caretaker while the owner is away.

She likes to place repeating pets with the same caretaker. It's easier for the pet and the caretaker, she Caretakers are carefully screened by Denboer. Still, she says her biggest problem is customer confidence.

They don't know where their pet is going," she says. "I reassure them and give them references."

However, once clients have participated in Denboer's service they are pleased.

'I have plenty of pets who are happy to see me come because they know they are going to have fun," she says. Not only do the pets have fun, they are pampered by the caretakers.

"Some of my caretakers have them (the pets) sleep in their beds," she says. "Some dogs are very pampered, and if the caretakers don't mind, ...

Deck safety tips

. If you have a deck at your house, you may want to check its safety, not that the weather is warm.

The following tips for deck safety from the Independence Township Building Department may be of some help.

■ Most decks that are upper level cantilever out April 7-13, from the house. They are part of the interior flour joist. If the floor joists in this area are not of treated lumber, you may want to check the area where the joist penetrates the outside wall. This area is where all the rain water hits as it runs down the outside

Many people like to put indoor-outdoor carpet on. their decks. However, when it rains, the carpet decking and joist soak up the water. When the sun comes out, only the carpet is dried up, and the decking and joist remain wet. In time, this can cause deterioration.

■ Another important area to check is where the support posts penetrate the bare earth. This area is alternately wet and dry out many times through the year.

■ Handrail posts not only take abuse from the weather but also from people pushing on them constantly. This can loosen the nails or bolts, depending on how it is attached to the deck. This area should be checked periodically through the year. If you find that a post has loosened up, perhaps larger bolts will tighten them up.

To check for deterioration in the areas mentioned above, take a large nail or any like object and see how easily it penetrates the wood. If you find that it penetrates easily, perhaps some repair or replacement is in order, depending on how bad the deterioration is.

For more information, call the township building department at 625-8111.

IRS offers tax assistance

More than 1.4 million Michigan taxpayers have already filed their federal income tax returns, and nearly 700,000 have already received their refunds, according to Internal Revenue Service officials.

The state expects to receive more than 4 million federal returns from Michiganians. Taxpayers will questions about filing can call us toll free during normal business hours at 1-800-829-1040.

Tax information is also available 24 hours a day through a pre-recorded system called TELETAX.

This computer assisted program provides information on over 150 tax topics and may be reached by calling 1-800-829-4477.

Forms packages also include a list of additional forms and information booklets available from the IRS.

There is a special toll free number for ordering this free material. The number is 1-800-829-3676 and is available Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Charter Township of Independence NOTICE PROPOSED ZONING ORDINANCE TEXT AMENDMENT

At a regular meeting of the Township Board of the Charter Township of Independence held on April 2, 1991, the Board proposed a text amendment to the Township's Zoning Ordinance #83, as follows:

STATE OF MICHIGAN COUNTY OF OAKLAND CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE Ordinance No.

TEXT AMENDMENT TO ZONING ORDINANCE (Front Setback From Future Right-of-Way) An Ordinance to amend Ordinance No. 83, as amended, the Charter Township of Independence Zoning Ordinance, as amended, for the purpose of amending Article XXX, Schedule of Regulations, to amend Footnote (b) to clarify regulations relating to the measurement of front yard setback from a future right-of-way

THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE ORDAINS AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1 of Ordinance

Footnote (b) of Article XXX of the Zoning Ordinance shall be amended to read as follows in its entirety:

b. The following regulations shall apply relative to front setback lines measured from future rights-of-way and relative to setbacks from water bodies and water courses:

(1) In determining the placement of a structure on a lot, the front building set back line shall be measured from the future right-of-way line in accordance with the Road Commission for Oakland County Master Right-of-Way Plan adopted by the Independence Township Board on July 5, 1972, and as amended by the Independence Township Board from time-to-time. This provision relates solely to the measurement made for locating a structure on a lot, and is not intended to limit use of the property in other respects. Unless and until the area between the existing and future right-of-way lines is taken or dedicated for public use, such area shall, in all respects, be considered to be private property for private use. Thus, for determining density of use and other calculations relating to the layout and substantive use rights of the property, the existing right-of-way line shall be applicable. In the event that application of this provision, in combination with other dimensional requirements under this Ordinance, results in a loss of the right to construct a structure of the size which would be permitted if measurement were made from the existing right-of-way line, variance relief may be available upon application to the Zoning Board of Appeals provided that all applicable grounds for relief are demonstrated

(2) The placement of structures on lots or parcels which abut a lake, stream, pond, or river shall be regulated in order to promote: proper use and protection of land; preservation of wetlands and the adjacent upland forming an inseparable part of the wetland; protection of water and natural resources; proper onsite disposal of waste water; minimization of erosion and sedimentation into adjacent bodies of water; and protection of the economic value of adjacent land uses. In any district where lots or parcels abut a lake, stream, pond, or river, the minimum setback of any prinicipal or attached accessory structure from the ordinary high water mark shall be fifty (50) feet. The minimum distance of any septic system from the ordinary high water mark shall be one hundred (100) feet. Unless and until the ordinary high water mark has been established by law and/or by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, the Director of Building and Planning shall in the first instance determine the location of ordinary high water mark in the administration of this provision, with such decision being appealable to the Zoning Board of Appeals

Section 2 of Ordinance

All other regulations specified in the Zoning Ordinance, excepting those set forth above, shall remain in effect, amended only as provided above.

Section 3 of Ordinance

The provisions of this Ordinance are hereby ordered to take effect immediately upon publication in the manner prescribed by

This zoning ordinance text amendment will be voted upon by the Township Board at its next regular meeting, April 16, 1991, at 7:00 p.m. at the Independence Township Hall Annex 90 North Main, Clarkston, Michigan. Additional information regarding this rezoning is available in the Clerk's Office, 90 North Main. Clarkston, Michigan, Monday through Friday, 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Respectfully Submitted,

Joan E McCrary Township Clerk

HOLY SPIRIT- YOU MAKE me see everything and who show the way to reach my ideal. You who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and you who are in all my instances of my life with me. I in this short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen. Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Persons must pray this prayer for 3 consecutive days without asking for their wish. After the third day their wish will be granted no matter how HOLY SPIRIT- YOU MAKE me see when wish. After the third day their wish will be granted no matter how difficult it may be promise to publish this dialoge as soon as this favor is granted. J.F.P. IIILX15-1*

A HELICOPTER was called in from St. Louis, Mich., to help construct a personal archbridge on Hubbard Road, Independence Township. The 4-ton bridge will connect a small inland island to the rest of the Charles McMichael property.

THE CHOPPER hovers over the pond, trying to drop the bridge's side rall into position for the workers at Harley Thomas Building. Property owner Charles McMichael said the bridge will be aesthetically romantic and provide his family with their own personal "get away" on Hubbard Road, Independence

WORKERS at Harley Thomas Building diligently try to secure the bridge, while the hovering helicopter provides winds up to 80 mph. Architect David Katz of Independence Township is overseeing the bridge's construction. Lowrie's Landscape of Springfield Township has been hired to beautify the site.
