Jury favors district in lawsuit ruling

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

The Clarkston school district emerged as the clear winner when the jury returned its verdict in a $3 million lawsuit filed against the district by architect Charles W. Sherman and Associates, Inc.

Though the Oakland County Circuit Court jury determined the district should pay the firm approximately $166,000 for various expenses and services, the panel ruled in favor of the district on the "tortuous interference" claim, a key element of the suit.

On that claim, the jury found insufficient evidence that the district attempted to interfere with the architect's attempt to find new business after the district terminated its contract in November of 1988.

Sherman's attorney, Richard Condit, said he was disappointed by the jury's ruling.

"I was disappointed by the tortuous interference ruling," Condit said. "As for the contract expenses, that was a math exercise by the jury."

"I can't second guess that," he added.
Attorney for the school district, Mike Eschelbach, described his mixed reaction to the verdict.
"I have to say while (the expenses payment) was somewhat more than what the district owed the Sherman firm, it is far closer to what we thought was appropriate (compared with what Condit thought)," Eschelbach said.

"We expected to find the jury had no claim on the issue of tortuous interference," Eschelbach added. "That was just a bunch of hokey."

Added Superintendent Gary Haner, "I was disappointed to have to pay the Sherman firm more money than what we feel we owe them; however, I'm delighted that the jury's decision provided less funds to him than the earlier recommendation of the mediation panel."

Sherman filed suit against the district in December of 1989, asking for $2 million in damages incurred after the district terminated his five-year contract.

After the lawsuit was filed, a mediation panel reviewed the case and recommend Sherman receive $175,000 in "separation expenses."

Sherman turned down the offer, opting instead to take the matter to trial.

In suing the district, Sherman made two claims: first that the district owed substantial damages resulting from termination of the contract and other professional services; and secondly, that the district interfered with future business by refusing a recommendation unless the firm dropped all claim to those expenses.

After deliberating for seven hours over a two day period, the jury ruled the following: Sherman should

Trailer mishap claims a life

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A 74-year-old Independence Township man died last week after a travel trailer pinned him at his home.

Francis J. Rose, of Lakeview Drive, was pronounced dead at St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital, Pontiac, April 9.

Rose was pinned under his 16-foot trailer April 8 while changing the tires. Apparently, the jack slipped, trapping the retired Detroit police officer.

According to Lt. Robert Smith of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, the man was found around 6 p.m. by his wife. She called her neighboring son, who was able to jack up the trailer and free Rose.

Officials at the scene have no idea how long Rose might have been pinned under the trailer.

Firefighters from the Independence Township Fire Department responded and attempted to resuscitate Rose, who had stopped breathing.

Lt. Smith said the son, Thomas Rose, had helped his father earlier in the day. Before leaving for home, Thomas Rose had reportedly warned his father about the hazards of working alone underneath the trailer.

The elder Rose was listed in critical condition most of Monday night at St. Joseph's, but passed away the next day.

Rose is survived by his wife Janet; children Thomas Rose of Clarkston and Sally Durocher of Las Cruces, New Mexico; and sister Lorraine M. Carlson of Clarkston.

He was buried April 11 at the Ottawa Park Cemetery, Independence Township.

receive $42,910 for all services performed to the termination date, $28,918 for reimbursable expenses and $85,503 for termination expenses. Another $9,177 is due to account for interest.

The jury ruled in favor of defendant Clarkston schools on tortious interference charges; so no exemplary damages are due on this claim.

The jury's ruling will be entered as a written judgment and is followed by a 28-day appeal period. The money is due to Sherman at the end of that appeal period, Eschelbach said.

According to Condit, it was "premature" to determine whether his client will appeal the jury's ruling.

The district can petition the court to seek payment of the its court costs.

As for the expenses owed the Sherman firm, the district plans to use unexpended moneys from the $5.2 million bond issue, Haner said.

The seven-member, two-alternate jury began to hear the case on March 28. The panel testimony from seven witnesses in the case and delivered its verdict at 3 p.m. on April 15.

Two to receive layoff notices

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Two Clarkston teachers will be laid off at the end of the school year.

Board of education members unanimously approved the action, after hearing the recommendations of Personnel Director Duane Lewis.

The two teachers receiving layoff notices are Traci Sherman, a half-time elementary physical education teacher at Andersonville Elementary School, and Barbara Mack, a tenured teacher at the Oakland Technical Center - Northwest.

Lewis told the board that the district was actually reducing seven-and-a-half positions; but because the district was also accepting five retirements, only two layoffs were necessary.

The reductions occur in a variety of areas, Lewis explained.

Two Oakland Technical Center - Northwest programs were to be reduced due to the uncertainty of county funding. The two — principals of technology in math and science and the CPC program — employ four teachers.

A section of kindergarten at both Bailey Lake Elementary and Pine Knob Elementary schools were to be reduced due to uncertain enrollments. The move would result in the reduction of one teacher and would be reassessed in August after the district has completed in kindergarten screening, Lewis said.

Two positions were to be reduced at the high school level because of a decrease in enrollments this year.

And the district would also reduce a one-half position currently used in elementary physical education, Lewis said.

Uncertain funding for 1991 could force closure

Help needed to keep Lighthouse North operating

BY BETTY WAGNER
Clarkston News Special Writer

During its first year of operation, Lighthouse North served more than 300 families in the Clarkston area.

Now it's asking for help of its own.

Church leaders, service clubs and community leaders asked Lighthouse to come to the northwest corner of Oakland County two-and-a-half-years ago.

The new center serves eight townships — Brandon, Groveland, Holly, Independence, Orion, Oxford, Rose, and Springfield.

"Most of the families we serve out of Lighthouse North are working poor," said Sherry Kaars, director of Lighthouse North.

The agency addresses the emergency needs of clients, then helps them deal with the issues that brought them the agency. This often prevents deeper social problems.

"The food at Lighthouse can be a lure to discover areas to make major changes; and the volunteers and staff can help people learn where to get help," said Noreen Keating, director of Lighthouse.

"Often people who come for food and clothing have other underlying problems," said Kaars.

It's Kaars job to counsel clients, to discover areas where they can make major changes, and to steer them to agencies that can help solve their problems.

Kaars, who has nine years experience with United increased demands. It can't continue to funnel money to another branch."

"Many (area) churches and organizations have been trying to support us, said Kaars. "But it's not enough. Others need to get involved and on a greater scale."

Groups in Clarkston who are talking of fund-raisers to help with operating expenses are the Clarkston Rotary, Clarkston High School and Clarkston Junior High School.

"People are seeing the need," said Kaars. "Things are not OK. We don't know where funding will come from in 1991," said Kaars. "Right now program funding for emergencies comes from the Pontiac office."

"Pontiac Lighthouse doesn't seem to have a problem supporting Lighthouse North because they wanted to get services into the north end of the county," said Keating. "But because of the increased demands they can't continue to support it."

If Lighthouse North closes, federal and state monies, designated for the community, will not have qualified people to administer them. The money will return to the government and needy residents in the eight townships will lose out.

"The state and federal government needs a substantial agency that they know will track those funds and report back," said Kaars.

"About $27,000 won't go into the eight townships if we're not there," added Keating. "It will go back to the state and federal government."

The aim of Lighthouse is emergency help that prevents deeper problems. Often people feel helpless in the midst of their needy neighbors, especially the homeless. Supporting Lighthouse is one way to make a difference.

"We're real big in prevention of the homeless," said Keating.

Kaars encourages all the townships that are served by Lighthouse North to help with operational costs. Plans are being made to contact community groups and churches in the townships for funding assistance.

"The community rallied around us to get the building ready. Now we need them to rally around us to get project dollars to keep it open."

Vandalism sites rise to four

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The total number of sites allegedly vandalized by a two landscape bandits rose to four this past weekend.

The residents of the Sashabaw Creek subdivision told police April 13 that someone had stolen seven bushes from their sub's entrance. The crime apparently occurred on April 4, when three other sites were allegedly hit by the pair.

The crime was reported by the president of the homeowner's association at Sashabaw Creek. He wasn't able to report the crime sooner because he'd been out of town for a couple of weeks.

The two 20-year-old men admitted to stealing from various township locations April 5, after one of their wallets was found at a crime scene. The pair told police that they were intoxicated during the late-night larcenies.

The three other sites hit by the men included: a landscaped lot on Steeple Hill Drive, three small trees near the entrance of Deer Lake Farms on Holcomb Road and the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection on Clarkston Road.

Since the recovery of the missing shrubbery, the Oakland County Sheriff's Department has been trying to give all the plants back to their rightful owners. For example, four of the shrubs stolen from the Church of the Resurrection have been returned, but the remaining six are still located at a landscape site on Andersonville Road.

One of the suspects is a landscaper by trade and he planted a few of the stolen shrubs at one of his job sites.

OCSO Detective Dave Scott said the latest complaint helped account for all of the shrubbery.

"Their call (Sashabaw Creek subdivision) helped us with the overall count because we kept coming up with seven extra plants," he said.

Because of the latest evidence, charges have yet to be levied against the men. Their names will be withheld until officially charged.

Township aids Youth Assistance

Clarkston and Holly Youth Assistance will receive financial support from Springfield Township.

The board unanimously voted to give $2,000 to Holly and $2,300 to Clarkston.

"The funds will go to various programs and projects to help meet our philosophical goals of juvenile delinquency prevention," said Gary Pullins, caseworker with Clarkston Youth Assistance.

Dick Jacobs, chairperson of Holly Youth Assistance volunteers thanked the board for their support.

By Betty Wagner

Way's First Call for Help, also trains Lighthouse North volunteers who work with clients.

Lighthouse grant writers were successful in getting start-up money for Lighthouse North, explained Keating. But now, the grant proposals are being turned down because foundations say the community could be supporting the agency.

"The community rallied around us to get the building ready," said Kaars. "Now we need them to rally around us to get project dollars to keep it open."

It costs $350 a month to heat the former Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church that was donated for Lighthouse North to use. And foundations are not willing to donate money for operations.

Keating said, "Pontiac Lighthouse is looking at

Clarkston group welcomes returning reservists

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

The sweet sounds of "That's Entertainment," heard by Clarkston-area residents on United Cable Channel 65, were part of a welcome home ceremony for Air Force reservists returning by the Persian Gulf April 11.

The 23-member musical entourage performed at the Selfridge Air National Guard Base in Mt. Clemens by special invitation.

Though the homecoming was not open to the public, more than 12,000 family members, Governor John Engler and four musical groups including "That's Entertainment" were on hand to welcome the 200 reservists home.

The 927th TAG, as the tactical group is known, is noted for flying the first aeromedical evacuation mission of the ground war. The group airlifted wounded Marines on the first day.

The reservists were also among the first to take forward locations, boxing in the Iraqi Republican Guard.

"That's Entertainment" Producer Jon Sampson II described feelings of honor in being asked to welcome the troops home.

"It's a real honor to be able to say thank you to the men and women that served our country," Sampson said.

The welcome home celebration is the not the musical troupe's first contribution to Desert Storm troops.

Not long after the U.S. deployment to the Middle East, Sampson compiled several "That's Entertainment" recordings and sent it to the "attention of any soldier."

In February, he received a letter saying the tapes had made to the "focal hub" where soldiers go to be processed.

There, the tape was watched by some 250,000 troops, Sampson said.

While at Selfridge ANG Base April 11, the "That's Entertainment" vocalists performed "Celebration" by Kool and the Gang; a rendition of "Boogie-Woogie Bugle Boy," and a variety of solo and trio selections.

Coordinating the performance — which included transporting a sound system donated by Evola Music, lights and videocameras for later viewing on United Cable — took some work, Sampson admitted.

"I have two phones in my house and they have both been just ringing off the hook," he said.

The group practiced every day for a month after members learned they would be performing, he added.

On the day of their departure, the entourage was packed into three limousines, donated by Ultimate Limousine of Clarkston. Hair and makeup was done by Rachelle Greco.

The group departed for Selfridge on April 11 at 7:30 a.m. from their gathering point on Langle Drive, amid much laughter and excitement.

"The big payoff will be to see the smiles on all the faces of the troops," Sampson said before leaving. "That will make it all worth it."

"THAT'S ENTERTAINMENT" vocalists performed a number of patriotic songs to welcome Air Force reservists returning from the Persian Gulf April 11. The singers

Friendly ambush results in injury

A dangerous prank nearly cost a man his eye last week.

On April 8, Kevin James, 20, of Ennismore, and a 17-year-old companion, Frank Catalano, were shot at with a b.b. gun while cutting across a friend's property.

The two didn't realize James had been hit until he started feeling discomfort in his eye. Medical x-rays revealed that a b.b. had lodged behind the corner of his left eye.

Kurtis Krause, 17, of Sashabaw Road, reportedly had planned an ambush for his two friends. While the pair was crossing his lawn, Krause reportedly shot at them from a nearby tree house.

The two men heard the b.b. hit a nearby barn, but hadn't realized where the projectile had ricocheted. James has forgiven Krause and no charges have been filed. Deputies with the Oakland County Sheriff's Department confiscated the weapon later in the week.

Michigan drivers drive me crazy. And no-look highway patrol officers add to this four-wheeling insanity. Who needs Fuzz-Busters if the fuzz don't bust?

In my own unscientific survey, about 90 percent of drivers with "Great Lakes" license plates average about 70 m.p.h. on 55 m.p.h. speed limit parts of expressways in the Detroit-metro area, and about 75 percent of these same drivers average 75 m.p.h. in 65 m.p.h. speed limit areas.

How do I know this?

I drive 60 m.p.h. in the 55 m.p.h. areas and 65 m.p.h. in the 65 m.p.h. areas. I'm the guy who stays in the far right-hand lane, the guy you're always passing.

Sometimes a group of cars passing me includes a police car, going side-by-side with the others.

I'm 38-years-old, but you probably think I drive like the "Little Old Lady from Pasadena." (Actually, plenty of little old ladies do pass me).

Actually, I like it that way. I break the law by going only going 5 m.p.h. past the speed limit, so I don't worry about getting pulled over (I think they'll only stop you if you go about 90...).

I don't have to worry about going 80 m.p.h. in order to get to a traffic jam sooner.

I don't have to worry about weaving my car in and out of traffic to get ahead, tailgating, flashing lights before passing, and then giving an angry look while cutting in front of someone.

And if someone is tailgating my little '85 Sprint, I stand my ground whether it's a red Corvette or a brown semi trying to pass. I'm also above acknowledging any angry looks.

Why haven't I given in to driving like nearly everyone else.

One reason could be that I've only been back in Michigan two of the past 10 years. I lived in the Pacific Northwest for those other eight years.

This past weekend I visited a friend who was visiting her sister in Columbus, Ohio. Carrie Parks, who lives in Vancouver, Wash., noticed the extra tailgating and additional speed of Midwest drivers.

Those differences are obvious.

People are in more of a hurry here and a little more rude on the road.

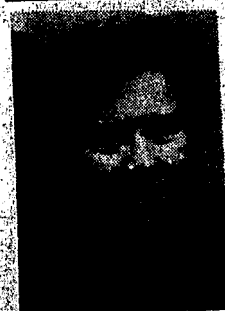

And Michigan police must use different speed guns than Washington State police.

And there are other reasons why I haven't converted into the typical Michigan driver. I think about how it's a fact that more people are killed on our highways as people drive faster and faster.

I think about how cars waste more fuel as they travel faster.

Our country used to think about things like that (that's why the speed limit was first changed from 70 to 55).

There's not too many of us left in that right lane.

Unforgettable day

The day could not have been more perfect. Blue skies, sun shining, bands playing and flags and banners waving as we gathered at Selfridge Air Force Base on Thursday, April 11 to welcome home the troops.

I cannot possibly express the breathtaking feeling of watching the planes come in, tip their wing and touch down on Michigan soil while the high school bands played the Star Spangled Banner.

The sight was majestic as the eight C 130's moved in single file to their designated area, turned in unison and faced their family and friends.

The servicemen then left their planes and were greeted by anxiously awaiting family and friends while Lee Greenwoods "Proud to Be An American" played over the loud speaker.

My two sons and I were there along with other friends and fourth graders from Mrs. Rayna Auger's Bailey Lake Elementary class to welcome home Major Tom Bills who has been in the Persian Gulf for six months.

I asked my nine-year-old son, Blake, what was the best part for him and he said "When the planes finally landed and they were really home. I just couldn't stop smiling even though Mom was crying."

My seven-year-old son, Derek, said "I am just so excited Mr. Bills is home. That's the best part."

It was certainly a very emotional experience for all of us and the thousands of others who were there as well.

We are honored and privileged to know the Bills family personally and are so gratefully to have the opportunity to share in their special day to welcome Tom home. It is certainly an experience we will never forget.

Coverage lacking

I am writing to tell you how disappointed I was of your coverage of the play "Tumbleweeds," put on by the third, fourth and fifth graders of North Sashabaw Elementary School on March 26 and 27, 1991.

The students and their teachers rehearsed for this play for four hours a week after school for more than two months and the best The Clarkston News could do was one picture in section two of your March 27, 1991 edition.

In contrast, the marshmallow drop rated ten photos including one on the front page and the entire back page (four pictures).

You even managed a marshmallow drop picture in your April 3 edition.

Even the pet of the week received better coverage than the North Sashabaw students. The pet of the week received two pictures including one on the front page.

While your coverage of Clarkston school sports always manages to attract several pages of coverage, there are many students in the Clarkston schools who for one reason or another (age, interest, etc.) do not play sports but are just as proud of their achievements and feel that they should receive better coverage in their hometown newspaper.

Collect batteries for pick-up

The Independence Township Groundwater Leadership Team is planning to start a household battery collection program in June.

We are establishing collection sites throughout the community.

Most household batteries currently in use have significant amounts of mercury which is an extremely toxic contaminant that adversely affects the groundwater we use for drinking water in this area.

Although it is difficult and uneconomical to recycle these batteries, merely throwing them in the household trash will expose them to the groundwater in time.

The Groundwater Team will be putting them in a sealed container and arranging for their disposal in an approved hazardous waste facility.

We urge everyone to begin to collect their household batteries now rather than throwing them in the trash.

Jim's Jottings

Skills of youth

Jim Sherman

I've written over 1700 'Jottings'. Whilst I'm spending some time hooking and slicing golf balls into irretrievable places, see if you recall this one from April 20, 1978.

Remember when you learned how to whistle?

Then, remember trying to teach others?

The latter was more difficult. It's almost impossible to tell someone how to curl their tongue without showing them. It's equally difficult to show them and talk.

I learned to whistle shrilly without use of my fingers. You've seen the guys and gals put a finger in each side of their mouth and blow.

That makes them obvious. Without the hand motions you can whistle at a girl and get that innocent, yet accusing look without drawing attention to yourself. Assuming, that is, that you're in a group.

Doesn't seem like I hear much whistling any more. None of our three kids can whistle a tune. I put whistling down as one more thing I wasn't able to teach them. Thrift is another.

But, I like whistling. Ted Weems' recording of "Heartaches" is my favorite whistled tune.

When I was in college in 1943 the Marines at Western Michigan University staged a variety show. The show stopper was a whistler. Wow! Could he whistle.

There's another type of whistling I learned at an early age, and still practice during the summer and fall.

This sound is made by holding a wide blade of grass between my two thumbs and blowing through the opening. Can't be too tough though. I saw some girl do it once.

Whistling is one of the things that has to be learned in childhood. It comes in handy later in life, but one hardly has time then to learn it.

Another trick you learn when young is winking. Dad or mother probably got you started. In my early teens we occasionally played a game called "Sly Winkum", where the best winkers won.

The idea is to wink quickly and with the slightest possible facial involvement.

From that I went to developing a talent for raising one eyebrow at a time. Got so I was ambidextrous at it.

There are a couple childhood tricks I could never master. One was moving my scalp so the hair-line moved any appreciable distance. Another was bending my thumb back to my forearm.

When guys brought up these two acts I'd try to change the subject to tongue turning. I learned that few of them could turn their tongue over in their mouth without the aid of their fingers.

Gol-l-e-e! Those skills were important.

Hand in the Sand
By Bruce Stewart

Each tear we cry for 50 score who will die.
Threat of skin or cast of kin.
Blood flows red in the sand.
Young men die by young men's hands.
We're sensitive to dream, but shouldn't feel forward.

Mothers of sons and fathers of daughters.
Did I say we love you, did I mention we care.
I'm now only a servant of a nearsighted air.
Receive us for I say this, and confide in us forever.
We sustain your suffering and we keep you tether.

Clarkston schools Business Director Steve Lenar had prepared to talk to the school board about millage rates April 15.

But first, he said grimly, he had to give them a short lesson on school financing.

Despite all the careful calculations he had prepared over the last few months, one very uncertain variable existed: the plans and actions of state legislators.

Without much fanfare, the state senate had just unanimously passed a bill that could cost Clarkston schools about $1 million dollars next year. Lenar said uneasily.

The bill is now in the house, where members can say either yes or no to the proposal.

The bill freezes property tax for two years. In the first year, this would be accomplished by reducing millage rates. The rates could later be raised somewhat, but only by a vote of the people — sort of like the Headlee Amendment.

During the second year, the freeze would be accomplished with a freeze on assessments.

While many taxpayers might welcome the relief this bill would bring, the legislation does nothing to reimburse school districts or local municipalities for the lost revenue.

In a district like Clarkston, that is serious news, indeed.

Almost as serious, is the political dilemma the bill poses for lawmakers.

Arguably the biggest issue in the recent statewide election was reducing property taxes for residents.

This property tax cut would, in fact, save a typical homeowner with a $70,000 home about $87 this year and $204 next year.

Voting against a red hot issue such as this could be very difficult, as evidenced by the unanimous vote in the Senate.

It should also be difficult for lawmakers with good conscience to vote in favor of the bill.

The short-term, band-aid solution to rising property taxes does nothing to address what would occur after the two years passes.

It does not address the severe funding gaps that would be realized by school districts and local governments.

Short-term solutions should not replace true property tax reform in Michigan.

No matter how politically attractive they might seem.

Restaurant tiff
did not compute

Jim
Fitzgerald

It was the type of fancy restaurant where I wouldn't hesitate to order twice-blanché garlic. It was definitely not the type of restaurant where I expected to become embroiled in a heated conflict with management. The waitress blamed a computer. My friend Ben told her not to give him that crap.

It was true that no one in our three-couple party had ordered crap. Also, I didn't order twice-blanché garlic. At the time, I didn't know garlic could be blanché twice, or even once. To be honest, when I was a little boy I was taught that Blanche was the name of the woman next door. My mother's name was Gertrude and her sisters were Madeline and Florence. No one in the world was named Traci or Muffy. It never would have occurred to me to ask Gertrude if she blanché garlic.

But a few days after the dispute in the fancy restaurant, I read in the newspaper that "grilled chicken with a lemon herb sauce and twice-blanché garlic" were to be served at the wedding reception of Lee Iacocca and Darrien Earle. Naturally, I couldn't help thinking that Herb and Blanche sounded less likely to be listed on a menu than Darrien did. Darrien sounds like a lite dairy product, maybe twice-skimmed milk.

It was reported that Darrien's wedding dress cost $23,000. It also was reported that she claims to be 42 and has a 28-year-old son. It was not reported that she will appear in Chrysler TV commercials advertising backseat air bags for the protection of pregnant people not old enough to drive. It also was not reported that these bags contain air twice-bombasted by Iacocca.

But back to the fancy restaurant, in Naples, Fla., where I've been introduced to several wealthy retirees by my oldest brother-in-law, Jack, who has been retired so long no one alive remembers what he used to do for a living. Jack introduces me as his father, and no one blinks.

In Naples, wealthy retirees have cocktail parties at which they watch the sun sink into the Gulf of Mexico and insist they see ghostly green flashes just as the sun goes underwater. Occasional guests like me try hard but never see even one green flash. We don't say anything because the cocktails are free.

These wealthy retirees also gather in clumps to dine in restaurants where they ask for separate checks. It would be ostentatious for one person to pick up the entire tab and besides, if you can see the green flashes, you don't have to prove you're wealthy.

As on this evening, some Naples restaurants claim separate checks are impossible because services are computerized. Ben angrily scoffed. Management ultimately said OK, but no credit cards. Ben said he didn't carry cash, which isn't necessary if you can see the green flashes. Our side ultimately won, but only after conversations with several levels of management, plus a long, long wait for the three precious bills. At one point, I even went into the restaurant office to suggest abacus beads.

Upon returning home, I checked with Opus One, perhaps Detroit's most successful computerized restaurant. Vice president Ed Mandziara said computers easily accommodate separate checks and he wouldn't dream of telling a customer otherwise. He suggested the Naples restaurant, for its own convenience, lies to customers because many of them are tourists and won't be back anyway. If I'd known that in Naples, my indignation would have made that waitress blanch, if not Gertrude.

Onward and Upward. Do you suppose Darrien Iacocca's $23,000 wedding dress will be twice-worn? Maybe she could wear it again for her high school commencement party.

Not proud anymore

As I read the letters of the people who voted "no" on the bond issue, I was extremely disappointed in our community of Clarkston.

I have always had great pride in my hometown, and I am not so proud anymore.

I am a freshman at Clarkston Junior High, one school in most need of repair. The classes are crowded; the halls are congested between classes; the science department is under-equipped; and almost all the facilities are out-of-date.

When I've visited schools in other districts, I have seen what Clarkston schools can be. It will only change if the voters stop to care. The need for renovations and new schools is so apparent. Just look at our schools.

The growth of business and residents in Clarkston is tremendous. There have been three new condominium complexes and four new subdivisions built in the last two years.

If you need proof of increased enrollment, look at a list of students who have transferred out and students who transferred in. I'm sure the list of new students is much longer.

Let's stop worrying about money for a moment. I know that times are very financially difficult right now, but do we want our schools to lose accreditation?

Do we want, literally, hundreds of kids to be rejected from colleges because their schools were mediocre?

How do you expect schools to function without money? They need money to keep the facilities up to date and useful.

If you are fortunate enough to have the money to send your kids to private schools, have consideration for those less fortunate.

Vote yes on the next bond issue.

We are talking about the future. Put selfish feelings aside and think about the future of our world.

These schools are teaching kids how to live and are educating children, but how can they if the school in which they teach is inadequate?

Don't blame the school board; don't blame the state; just vote yes. Can't you understand that it is overcrowded? If you don't believe the school board, why not listen to a child who goes there five days a week and sees what is happening?

If you still don't believe, I have a challenge for you. Talk to the principal and arrange so that you could visit a few classes or just walk through the hall between classes. Become a student for a day; see first hand why they are asking for money.

I challenge the entire Red Ribbon Committee, a committee opposing the millage, to do this. I challenge them to talk to students, to see how they feel.

I feel ashamed that this place where I live, that I love, has an organization to harm our children.

I understand that taxes are rising every day, but this won't be much of a place to live if the future is under-educated and illiterate.

Megan Mulloy

District needs master plan

As a parent of three small children, as well as a homeowner and taxpayer, I am concerned by the apparent lack of long-term planning and financial management on the part of our school board.

In addition to their duties of directing and overseeing the operation of the school district, the job of the school board is to define the education goals of the community, to develop a plan to accomplish these goals and to carry through on the implementation of that plan.

As I see it, the educational goals of this school district are fairly straight forward: provide the best possible educational environment for our children while remaining within the financial abilities of our community.

What is missing is the development of a Master Plan by the school board.

A master plan can help any organization guide itself through challenge and adversity.

Solutions to our present financial and related physical facility problems will not come easy.

It will take hard work on the part of many and creative thinking on the part of all.

I believe that now is the time for this community to focus its attention on the problems at hand, and to unify our commitment to finding and providing the necessary tools with which to build a sound foundation for the educational environment of our children and the financial stability of our community once they are presented with a responsible long-term plan at the hands of our school board.

I believe I have the educational background and professional experience necessary to help our school board develop a master plan.

It is for these reasons that I have announced my candidacy for election to the Clarkston Board of Education.

I will work diligently toward the development of a master plan which will help ensure the long-term stability of our school district while providing the necessary conditions for a sound and stable educational environment for our children.

I invite you to join with me in accomplishing these goals.

More letters

There's more to do

It was with great satisfaction that I read several letters to the editor recently.

These letters have suggested that it is time to get rid of the "old school board" and bring in some new faces with new ideas.

This sense of satisfaction is because others are now recognizing what some of the newer board members already saw.

After sitting in the audience during two years worth of board meetings, I clearly saw there was a lack of direction coming from the board.

I could see that the role of the board needed to be agreed upon. I also saw a "shoot from the hip" management style that caused chaos and confusion.

Last year I was elected to the board to fill a resignation.

During my campaign I said that the board needed to lead district planning and operation, and that the board, the administration, the staff and the community needed to form a team.

Some of the new ideas that I brought to the board have caused positive changes. Since joining the board, some direction is being provided through the School Improvement Planning process.

There seems to be some desire to build a team to guide the school district.

And the adherence to carefully thought-out board policies is reducing our spur of the moment decision making.

But, the job is not finished. We must continue to demand that our school board provide leadership for education in Clarkston.

Also, the administration and staff must have greater confidence that they will be supported when performing within the guidelines and policies of the board.

In order to achieve what I started a year ago, I am running for the school board again this year.

I hope you will join me in my efforts to improve the schools in Clarkston and to provide our children the best opportunity for a happy and productive life.

Let's build the Clarkston School District team. I need your support and ask that you vote for me on June 10.

Spend limited dollars wisely

I read your "Twin Bills" column (April 3, Clarkston News) regarding the future of the Tiger Stadium and legislation that would prohibit municipal bonding for cities and counties hoping to construct a new professional baseball stadium. I support the bills for several reasons.

In an age of tough budget realities, spending public funds to build a new ballpark is unthinkable. Our focus should be on improving education, preserving the environment, establishing a more competitive economy and making our streets safer. We must spend our limited state dollars more wisely. Instead of taking on new obligations, the state must do a better job allocating the finite resources we already have.

Some think restoring Tiger Stadium is the answer while others contend that fixing the old ballpark is impractical. If the advocates of a new stadium prevail, let them use private dollars to fund such plans. Tigers owner Tom Monaghan should spend his own funds, or raise the private money necessary for such a project.

A good prototype is the Palace at Auburn Hills. This privately-funded structure has been a success and demonstrates what the private sector can accomplish.

Any plan to spend taxpayer dollars for a new stadium shouldn't get to first base.

April 22: Earth Day observed

Think global Act local!

When was the last time you attended your local Wetland Board meeting?

Do you know if your municipality has a Wetland Board, Woodland Board or Environmental Commission? If these boards do not exist, who make the important decisions that affect your life?

The Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service suggest you "Make it one of your Earth Day resolutions to find out."

"Make another resolution to attend one of the meetings," they suggest.

Afterward, ask yourself if you were happy with the results and then take action.

Let your board members and elected officials know your position.

If they did something you liked, tell them by phone or letter what a great job they did and to keep up the good work.

If you found areas for improvement, specifically state what actions you would like taken.

Still don't like what's happening in your community? Volunteer your time.

If you are asking for a major change, offer to help research or any other talents you might have.

If you don't have an environmental committee in your community, offer your help to start one.

If the issue is important to you, it is probably important to others in your area.

What are your Earth Day resolutions?

Every January 1 a lot of people resolve to lose weight, quit smoking, make more money, finish school, etc.

at this time of year, it is routine for us to think of ways to improve ourselves.

But what about the world we live in?

The Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service reminds us that April 22 is Earth Day.

Resolve to start recycling. Make a compost pile. Shop "green" by avoiding excess packaging and buying in packages that can be recycled. Teach your kids to help so they will become the next generation of caretakers. Attend a local government meeting that discusses environmental issues and express your opinion.

Start at a level you are comfortable with and don't try to do too much at first.

It's important to make changes that last a lifetime. If you make a change that is too radical, you may get frustrated and give up and that defeats the purpose.

Any change you can make helps. It doesn't matter where you begin.

Let your conscience be your guide

Recycling is not a new concept. Generations ago, people recycled flour sacks into shirts or dish towels, saved string and reused paper wrapping.

Since the kitchen is responsible for the bulk of the excess trash and disposables, it's time to let your conscience be your guide purchasing food and products in the supermarket.

When you purchase something, think how the package or box can be recycled.

The clear plastic or polyethylene bags with holes for ventilation that hold two to five pounds of lemons, apples or oranges can be recycled.

Store socks or children's sweaters, or use it as a car trash bag or to carry damp swimsuits.

the family "fisher person" could use it as a fish creel to hold and submerge small fish in the river or lake shore.

Expandable net or mesh bags can be used to carry snacks or lunches. Delicate laundry items could be put in mesh bags to use in the washing machine.

In the car use them to hold road maps, travel games or even a pair of shoes.

Air dry flowers, herbs or onions in these bags. A homemade pot scrubber can even be made from a mesh bag.

Large mesh bags with pull strings can be used to carry school books or library books.

Carry them to the beach or pool, with swimwear, towels or toys.

At Halloween time the kids could use them for trick or treat bags. Tennis balls, softballs, craft materials, cleaning supplies, dirty laundry, small garden tools and toys are just a few uses for the mesh citrus bags.

Recycle these and other products, no matter the use you find for them.

*Let clips fall
where they may*

Concerned about thatch? Grass clippings are made up of 90 percent water, and so do not contribute to its accumulation.

Only the "woody" portions of the grass plants add to thatch.

Clippings can be recycled in your garden. They make an excellent mulch for vegetable and flower gardens when spread over a layer of newspaper.

Unlike plastic, this mulch is biodegradable.

Composting grass clippings on the lawn recycles about 20 percent of the nitrogen it needs to maintain a healthy appearance.

So if lawn mowing is frequent or the grass grows slowly, clippings should be blown back into the lawn in small pieces.

This process can eliminate one fertilizer application

The Clarkston (Mich.) News Wed., April 17, 1991 11 per season.

Avoid mulching mowers which leave clippings in piles, which will smother the grass and make decomposition difficult.

A bag attachment to the mower will eliminate this situation.

A bag also prevents the mower from stalling when dealing with large grass and leaves.

If lawn cutting occurs infrequently or the grass grows vigorously, the clippings should be bagged and removed from the lawn.

Clippings which bury grass or do not decompose before the next mowing, damage the lawn.

Picking them up during the spring months is suggested, as grass grows rapidly at this time.

These clippings should be added to a compost pile.

Ricky Skaggs for Spectacular

Plans for the first annual Student Spectacular are gathering speed.

The event, sponsored by the non-profit educational foundations in Brandon, Clarkston, Holly, Lake Orion and Waterford, seeks to showcase students and staff in music, art, drama and technology.

The all-day event, set for May 18, 1991, at the Palace of Auburn Hills, features a concert by three-time Grammy Award winner Ricky Skaggs.

The bluegrass band Modesty Forbids will also be featured.

Throughout the day, students will perform in a schedule of drama, mime, vocal music, jazz music, singing and dancing. More than 1,000 works of art will be on display throughout the day.

Parking and admission to the showcase are free; however participants are encouraged to purchase raffle tickets, offering a chance at a variety of prizes.

First prize in the raffle is a Corvette Convertible or $25,000 in cash; second prize is a Ford Mustang or $15,000 in cash; and third place winners receive a Chrysler Le Baron Coupe Convertible or a $10,000 cash prize.

Fourth through eleventh-place winners earn cash prizes ranging from $500 to $7,500.

The Student Showcase is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Citizens for Orderly Growth

COG disbanding?

Doug Carlson

Four years ago, a group of Independence Township residents got together to discuss a mutual concern: growth. The group was concerned about the growth that was occurring within the township, and the growth that was certain to occur in the years ahead.

The meeting led to another meeting and more and more people gradually became involved. Thus Citizens for Orderly Growth, better known as COG, was born.

The group's first major project was a survey of township residents which elicited a surprisingly high response rate (48 percent).

We attended township board and planning commission meetings, and alerted residents to developments which were being proposed for their neighborhoods. And, two years ago, we began this column in The Clarkston News.

Obviously, a lot of activity has taken place in Clarkston during the past four years. And a great deal more will occur in the years ahead.

But, I'm sad to say, it appears to me that COG is no longer an active or effective organization.

I don't know if people have given up on being able to sustain growth, or if they're just too busy with their own lives to get involved in community activities.

At any rate, I've decided it's time for me to step down as chairman of COG and move on to other things.

I've notified our members of my intention and opened the door for one of them to come forward and keep the group intact.

If no one does, the money in our treasury will be donated to the Clarkston Land Conservancy, whose goals are much the same as ours, and COG will be dissolved.

In terminating this column, I'd like to relate a story that I heard recently at a school board meeting.

An older man was walking along a beach when he noticed a young man picking up starfish that had washed up on shore. He would pick them up and throw them as far out to sea as he could.

"What are you doing?" asked the older man. "I'm trying to help these starfish survive by returning them to the sea," the young man replied.

"But," the older man said, "there are thousands of starfish washed up on shore. You can't possibly make a difference."

The young man walked over; picked up a starfish and threw it out to sea.

"I made a difference to that one," he said.

Hopefully, in some small way, COG also made a difference. Time will tell.

Springfield joins sewer study

Springfield Township has been invited to join a county-wide sewer study.

The board voted unanimously to join the Clinton/Oakland Interceptor sewer study. Plans include the evaluation of current and potential sewer needs.

The opportunity may not present itself for another 20 to 25 years, said Superintendent Collin Walls.

The board set aside township general funds to cover the cost of the study.

"It's an investment that we ought to make," said Walls.

District plans community survey

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Clarkston school officials plan to survey local residents on their feelings about the school district.

Communications Coordinator Barbara Johns outlined proposed plans for the survey at the regular Board of Education meeting April 8.

The district has been soliciting the help of Oakland Schools to determine how the survey might be formulated, conducted and interpreted.

The survey would best be conducted at the beginning of the next school year, Johns said.

The district could then begin to formulate groups of questions this spring, fine-tune the survey over the summer, and train volunteers once school started.

The survey would be conducted over four days sometime early in the school year; the board would then have data sometime in September.

It has not yet been determined what questions would be included in the survey; nor how respondents might be chosen.

It's estimated the survey would cost the district about $200 for computer time.

Road improvements planned

Springfield Township residents can expect to see some road improvements in the near future.

The township board voted unanimously to spend $18,000 for graveling and upgrading the drainage on Neilson Road.

Another $36,000 was allocated for improving sections of Bridge Lake, Bigelow and Hillsboro roads.

Funds for the repaving come from the Tri-party project, in which the state, county and township share the cost of certain projects.

Clarkston facility attracts head injury patients

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Associate Editor

The population of the skilled care facility on Clintonville Road, Independence Township, has changed in recent months.

Once all nursing home residents, the facility now also houses a different sort of patient.

A great number of patients are now male; most are in their 20s; and many have suffered accidents.

Almost all are brain injured.

The health facility is now owned by Greenery Rehabilitation Group, Inc., which specializes in persons with head injuries.

The company officially began operation of the facility last October; the administration is hosting its Open House on Thursday, April 18.

Head injuries can result from a variety of conditions,

Beyond that, the facility also staffs psychiatrists, rehabilitation professionals, and other staff members trained at assisting a patient in long-range recovery.

Greenery begins its work not long after an accident occurs.

After a hospital completes its immediate medical treatment of a patient, a team of social workers, insurance officials and family members work to select a facility such as Greenery.

The patient is admitted, a case worker is assigned, and a variety of professionals meet to set goals for treatment.

"We're an extremely stable organization, one of the oldest in the country."

Maureen Hewitt

The condition of the patient can vary from someone who is completely unresponsive to any stimuli to someone who is alert, oriented and can recall and integrate past and recent events.

The family, Hewitt explains, is an important factor in treating a patient.

"You just don't treat the patient, you treat the family as well," she says. "If you don't treat the family, you can have a real problem."

The family is given a great deal of education in the beginning of treatment, which Hewitt says is often easier for them to digest than the emotional impact that is occurring.

Although the treatment of head injuries is a competitive field, Hewitt identifies some of Greenery's advantages.

"We're an extremely stable organization; one of the oldest in the country," Hewitt says. "We're affiliated with Wayne State University, one of the best medical schools in the state."

Greenery is about to undertake some physical changes to its sizable facility.

In August, about 17,000 square-feet will be added onto the building, increasing the number of bed-space.

Though Greenery started with 28 beds available for head-injury patients, that number will increase to 60. The remaining beds are used by nursing home residents.

The focus on rehabilitation has benefited this population, as well, Hewitt says.

"We have a good reputation as a nursing home," she says. "We didn't just come in and discharge the old people. They're also getting therapy."

Crash injures two

Two Fenton residents were hospitalized last weekend after putting their car in a ditch.

On April 14, Paul and Elena Derseweh, both 22, were transported to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital after their car hit a ditch at the intersection of Andersonville and Big Lake roads, Springfield Township.

A report at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department indicated that the car ended up in the ditch after Paul Derseweh lost control of the vehicle around 2:50 p.m.

As of Monday, the pair was in stable condition. Their passenger, Edward Wright, 30, was treated and released the day of the accident.

Know anyone who's an outstanding volunteer? Give us a call at The Clarkston News at 625-3370. We'd like to profile him or her in "Friendly Faces."

What's new in business including: coma, insulin shock, anesthesia injuries, carbon monoxide poisoning, drug overdoses and, most commonly, vehicle accidents.

To assist in stages of recovery for patients, the facility offers a wide range of services and staffs a variety of professionals.

Executive Director Maureen Hewitt calls it "a link between hospital and home."

"We're capable of doing the same thing a hospital does," Hewitt says. The facility staffs four physicians to attend to medical needs of the patients.

Youth paces girls in close win over Adams

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston won only seven of 16 events, but team depth helped the Wolves edge host Rochester Adams, 66-62, in a cold and windy girls' track season opener April 11.

The Wolves didn't clinch the win until the second from the last event (the 3200 run), when freshman Melissa Mutter took first (13:50.77) and freshman Heather Schaffer placed third (14:40).

"Our young kids ran well," said Clarkston coach Gordie Richardson, pointing out the efforts of freshmen Kristen Stanton, Angelic Brown and Mutter, among others.

Mutter not only won the 3200 run but also broke the tape in the 1600 run (6:25). Amy Rayner was third in the event (6:37).

Brown finished second in the 100 dash (14.31) and 200 dash and joined freshman Melissa Baetz and seniors Tracy Chamberlain and Stacey Secatch to win the 400 relay (54.5).

Stanton, Clarkston's Carrie Roeser and an Adams athlete finished in a three-way tie for first in the high jump.

Sophomore Cara Rayner took first in the 100 hurdles (17.69) and freshman teammate Shannon Binkley took second (18.17).

Clarkston dominated the shot put and discus. Secatch led a sweep in the discus (78-11), followed by sophomores

CLARKSTON sophomore Cara Rayner (far left) won the 100 meter hurdles against Rochester Adams and freshman teammate Shannon Binkley (second from right) finished second.

Michelle Wade (76-2) and Rachel Seifferlein (75-11).

Seifferlein won the shot put (31-1/2) and Wade took third.

Cara Rayner and Chamberlain tied for second in the long jump (13-7). Chamberlain also was second in the 300 hurdles (53.72).

Senior Sandra Linberg placed second in the 400 dash and Roeser was third. Sally Basinger finished second in the 800 run.

Clarkston runs to 4th at Andover Relays

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston boys and girls joined forces to place fourth at the Andover Relays, April 13.

Pontiac Northern won the co-ed meet.

The relays feature foursomes of two boys and girls in a variety of events. The top six finishers in each event placed.

Clarkston's best finish was in the shot put relay. The team of sophomore Rachel Seifferlein, junior Paul Krause, sophomore Michelle Wade and sophomore Kyle Powell took first.

Two Clarkston teams placed second. Kristen Stanton, Chris Figa, Angelic Brown and Al Manser were second in the 4 x 200 meter relay and Krause, Wade, Stacey Secatch and Dan White were second in the shot/discus relay run.

Clarkston teams placing third were: Stanton, Steve Tungate, Melissa Mutter and Paul Brisson in the distance medley relay; Greg Fisher, Tracy Chamberlain, Manser and Brown in the 4 x 100 relay; Missy Fletcher, Figa, Melissa Baetz and Dan Griffiths in the 4 x 400 relay.

Wolves finishing fourth were: Manser, Shannon Binkley, Figa and Cara Rayner in the shuttle hurdles; Seifferlein, Gordie Garwood, Secatch and White in the discus relay.

Sixth place finishers were: Stanton, Chip Sloan, Lisa Zumwalt and Keith Conklin in the high jump relay; Patterson, Amy Rayner, Tungate and Mutter in the 4 x 1600 relay; Cohoon, Sally Basinger, Brisson and Carrie Roeser in the 4 x 800 relay.

Soccer team lightning quick in opener

CARRIE Millen (right) battles a Milford opponent for possession during last Friday's match on the Clarkston field.

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Lightning shortened the Clarkston varsity girls' soccer opener but not before the Wolves provided their own lightning in a 4-0 victory over host Lapeer West April 9.

Clarkston scored four goals in the first half. The weather then worsened, with lightning canceling second half action.

Providing the offensive lightning for the Wolves were Sadie Caruso, who struck for two goals, and Sabre Lachman and Christy Mitcham, each with solo scores. Every goal was unassisted.

"For the first game, we played well together," said second-year coach Kelly Gabriele.

Freshman Kate Knyesewski was in goal for Clarkston, but she only had to block two shots because of strong play by the Wolf defense.

Gabriele also noted that her Wolves didn't let the sloppy, muddy conditions slow them down.

"They didn't stop at anything," said the coach. "One girl finished the game with mud from head to toe."

Grand Blanc 5, Clarkston 1
(April 10 at Clarkston)

Grand Blanc is one of the state's top-rated teams and it showed it against Clarkston, dropping the Wolves, 5-1.

"It seemed like we were in slow motion," said coach Kelly Gabriele.

The match was played under near-freezing conditions on the Clarkston field.

"It's hard to get pumped up when you're freezin' your buns off," said Gabriele. Gabriele knew Grand Blanc was just as cold, but the visitors were hot when it came to scoring, getting five goals past Wolf goalkeeper Tonya Dylag.

Forward Karan Dunham was the only Wolf who managed to score, scoring unassisted.

Milford 4, Clarkston 2
(April 12 at Clarkston)

Milford took a 3-0 lead into halftime and then held on for a 4-2 win over host Clarkston.

"We didn't look good in the first half at all," said coach Kelly Gabriele.

But the Wolves looked like a different team in the second half, applying constant pressure to the Milford goalkeeper.

Carrie Millen opened the scoring with an unassisted goal. Soon after, Millen passed to Karan Dunham who rammed in another goal to cut the deficit to 3-2.

The Wolves came close to tying the game by putting pressure within a few feet of the Milford goalkeeper.

But Milford made it 4-2 after a rebound off a blocked shot by Clarkston goalkeeper Tonya Dylag found its way in the net.

Dylag was in goal the second half and Kate Knyesewski minded the net during the first half.

Larger turnout benefits kickers

Spring sports preview

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Two's company, three's a crowd and 19 is a better soccer team.

Last season, Clarkston first-year varsity soccer coach Kelly Gabriele didn't cut any of the 14 girls that tried out. And when the season began, a few season-ending injuries made the Wolves play with only one or two available substitutes.

This spring, 32 girls tried out and Gabriele ended up suiting 19 Wolves.

Even though the squad only has three seniors, eight lettermen will return. Gabriele said about five of her players are fairly new to the sport.

The coach likes the mixture of the team and her player's intensity.

"I think we're going to go places in the league," said Gabriele, whose 1990 Wolves finished third in the Greater Oakland Activities League behind Lake Orion and champion Brandon.

Gabriele is basing her optimism on a strong defense, solid goalkeeping and team power and speed.

The coach feels very comfortable with Sabre Lachman, Rose Marie Lazzari and Amy Fouchey on defense.

"I trust them," said Gabriele.

Gabriele also has faith in two young goalkeepers. Sophomore Tonya Dylag, who started in goal last season as a freshman, and freshman Kate Knyesewski will be sharing duties in goal. The coach said Dylag's "excellent speed" makes her easily play both goalkeeper and forward positions.

Gabriele said freshman Carrie Millen has "phenomenal speed" along with sophomore Sadie Caruso.

The coach said her team nicely combines this speed with power.

Along with the power of numbers.

TRICIA Armbruster is one step ahead of her Milford opponent.

Softball squad sweeps Troy opening day

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

What a start!

Clarkston's varsity softball team, down by three going into the last inning, erupted for five runs for a 10-8 season opening victory over host Troy April 11 in the first game of a doubleheader.

Singles by Jennifer McChesney, Becky Kosek, Kim Choops and Candy Polenz provided the spark in the 5-run seventh.

Alyson McChesney finished the game with three RBI.

"This was an exciting opener," said Clarkston coach Carla Teare, whose Wolves led 5-3 after five innings, before the Colts scored five in the sixth for the temporary 8-5 lead.

The Wolves used three pitchers, with Colleen Cruz picking up the win by shutting out the Colts in one and one-third innings work. Janice Glason suffered the loss for the Colts.

"Colleen got the win with good control in a pressure situation," said Teare. Teare also said her senior-dominated team wasn't rattled.

"The team experience came through when we needed it," said Teare.

Baseball team splits opener under the lights

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston's varsity baseball team came back from a 4-0 deficit to win the first game of season-opening doubleheader at Troy April 11.

The Wolves tied the game with four runs in the fifth and went ahead with two in the sixth for a 6-5 win.

"It was a great come-from-behind win in this kind of weather," said Clarkston coach Roy Warner, whose team played under cold and windy conditions. "We had a good job from our pitchers for a first game."

Kevin Mull started the game, with Derek Wiley picking up the win in relief.

Kevin Juzysta had two singles and Chad Hetherington and Jim Jenkinson each doubled to pace the Wolves.

The Colts didn't gallop but rather walked to first to salvage a split with the Wolves.

Clarkston pitchers walked 10 Troy batters in the Colts, 12-3, victory.

Clarkston could only manage one hit while Troy wasn't much better with three in cold conditions under the lights.

"There were too many walks. The errors were very costly," said Clarkston coach Roy Warner.

Playing under the lights on opening day was not only new to the Clarkston players but also to their coach.

"In my 23 years of coaching, this was our first opening day under the lights," said Warner. "I wish the weather was better."

Warner said the Wolves were lucky to squeeze in three runs.

"This is about all the runs we can get out of one hit," said Warner.

Weather or not, Clarkston netters top Milford

BY BOBBY BRAZIER
Clarkston News Special Writer

After three postponed matches earlier in the week, the varsity boys' tennis team finally got the season underway April 12.

And it was worth the wait. Clarkston downed host Milford, 4-3, as No. 3 singles and No. 2 doubles won pressure matches near the end.

The Wolves swept the doubles. At No. 1, Grant Manley and Kevin Brown crushed Jon Lund and Travis Kopek, 6-2, 6-1. Clarkston's "European connection" (Maarten Cense of Holland and Alex Garayo of Spain) won a pressure-filled match at the end, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4. And at No. 3 doubles, sophomore Jeremy Doty and junior Renny Abraham came back for a thrilling, 1-6, 6-3, 7-5 win.

"We started out slow and couldn't find our shots, especially me," said Abraham. "I got ticked off and then we found the shots."

Freshman Bobby Brazier, the No. 3 seed, was the lone singles player to win, topping his opponent, 6-3, 7-5. Junior Jason Gross played a tough match but fell 6-1, 6-7, 6-3 at No. 1. Marc Swartout never quite found his touch, and was beaten at No. 2 by Pascal DeHesselle, 6-2, 6-0. No. 4 Craig Coxen came up just short, losing 7-5, 7-5.

When there are Greater Oakland Activities League matches this year, Manley and Brown will play singles and Coxen will team up with Brazier at No. 1 doubles.

JV squad steals win

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Eighteen stolen bases and three extra-base hits helped the Clarkston JV softball team crush Troy, 11-1, in the Wolves' season opener.

The game only lasted five innings as the Wolves "mercied" the Colts in cold weather at Clarkston April 9.

"It was a sweet win for us, a good confidence booster," said coach Dallas Thorn. "We've come a long way since the beginning of the pre-season, but we do have plenty of room to get better."

Missy Phillips had a double, a pair of singles and three stolen bases to pace the Wolves.

Shannon Jenks tripled and Lisa Goforth doubled to help provide offensive punch. Leslie Allen and Jenny Oliver each stole three bases.

Shannon Barefoot picked up the win for the Wolves, allowing only one hit while striking out 11 Colts. Stephanie Sipila suffered the loss.

Fun Daze 10K adds prizes

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Prize money has been added to the annual Clarkston Fun Daze 10K run May 18.

Overall first place finishers for men and women will each earn a $500 savings bond. Second place finishers will get a $400 bond, third $300, fourth $200 and fifth $100. Top-five finishers will also receive a trophy.

Top finishers within age groups will earn medallions. All runners will receive a neon T-shirt.

The race, which starts and finishes in downtown Clarkston, had 300 runners take part last year. Race co-director Drew Kramer expects a larger field this spring.

"I expect an increase to 400 to 600 this year," said Kramer, who runs sub-40 minute 10K's.

Fun Daze participants can also choose to run in a 5K or a one-mile fun run (or walk).

Runners can pre-register for the race by contacting Independence Township Parks and Recreation Director Ann Conklin at 625-8223.

Pre-registration for 10K or 5K runs costs $9 (day of race costs $14). Pre-registration for the one-mile is $2 ($4 day of race).

The race begins on Main Street and then continues to Middle Lake Road, Depot Park, toward St. Daniel Church, up hilly Deer Hill and then finishes at Depot Park.

The main sponsors are the Women's Health Center and the Clarkston Rotary. The Clarkston High School Interact organization will help with manpower.

Other sponsors are the Clarkston Jaycees, National Bank of Detroit - Clarkston area, First Federal, The Clarkston Allergy Clinic (Dr. Cynthia Cookingham) and Dr. Mike Hennessy. Kroger's is also expected to provide refreshments, along with Hubert Distributors.

Heartworm Disease And Responsible Pet Ownership

Is Your Dog Safe From Heartworm Disease?

Heartworm disease affects dogs in this area. Big or small, long-haired or short, house pet or kennelled outdoors your dog, no matter what breed, is susceptible to heartworm disease. And now, this potentially fatal disease has been found throughout the United States and in Canada.

Mosquitoes transmit heartworm disease so wherever mosquitoes are present dogs are at risk. It is the female mosquito that bites and hence spreads the disease. The female mosquito is very tiny and can easily slip through cracks around windows doors or screens so even dogs that stay indoors can be in danger.

This is a good time to test. The first step toward protecting your dog is to call our office and arrange for a simple heartworm blood test. Having your dog tested is important because you can't begin a preventive program until you confirm that your dog is free from heartworms. If your dog already has heartworm disease treatment can be dangerous for him and expensive for you.

Prevention is simple. If the veterinarian determines that your dog is free of heartworms, he or she will tell you how easy and convenient prevention can be. So don't delay calling our office because heartworm disease is a serious problem and every dog needs to be protected.

Pitching, speed insure JV sweep

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Matt Seitz provided the speed on the mound and his Clarkston JV teammates used it on the basepaths for a 10-2 opening day win against Troy in the first game of a doubleheader April 11.

The game was tied at 2-2 before the Wolves reeled off eight unanswered runs.

Seitz allowed only three hits, walked two and struck out eight in seven innings for the win.

Clarkston baserunners stole 14 bases to complement a 5-hit attack.

"Timely hitting and excellent base running were the key to winning our opener," said Clarkston coach Kurt Richardson.

High adventure

Betty Wagner

My fear was more about an 8-month-old hamstring tear and lack of restroom facilities than the possibility of an avalanche.

The first two I could prepare for, but the avalanche was beyond my control (sometimes referred to as an act of God).

Three of us, skiing in Banff, Alberta with the Tyrolean Ski Club out of Mount Holly, braved reports of the previous week's avalanche in the nearby Bugaboos of British Columbia and kept our reservations to heli-ski.

A 12-seat van picked us up in front of our hotel in Banff at 6:55 a.m. for a two-hour drive to the heli-plex in British Columbia.

The night before, my sleep was interrupted by wakeful periods. Adding to my normal apprehension before an adventurous new experience was the news repeated several times to us that all helicopter skiers, except three, had cancelled.

But no turning back now, I thought, as the van with six skiers (the cancellation story must have been a joke) raced through the mountains toward the heli-plex.

As I peeked out the window through droopy eyelids, I saw clouds, then mist, then dense fog. Helicopters don't fly in fog, I thought. Maybe all my preparation was for naught, all that time spent training my mind, training my body and kicking out the coward.

I began preparing for heli-skiing back in January when my husband, Ron, encouraged me to do it. The brochure stated that one need only be a strong intermediate skier, and ski in control.

Still, I checked with friends who had heli-skied in Banff. They loved it, described what to expect and told of the beauty of the helicopter flight through the mountains.

The flight alone would be worth the experience, I decided. And I'd never be a day younger for the physical test.

At the heli-plex we met our guide, Dan, and five others willing to risk avalanche.

First we rented special helicopter skis — shorter, wider, softer and equipped with trailing ribbons for locating in deep powder. Then we watched a video about avalanches and helicopter safety.

Outside, Dan gave us a lesson on the avalanche beepers we wore around our necks, how to carry our skis, and board and unboard the helicopter.

Then a photographer took our picture. The fog had lifted, but the day was overcast.

As we took off and flew through the mountains, the sun appeared. And it stayed with us, warming the slopes to 21 degrees Fahrenheit for the rest of the day.

We landed between two small orange sticks on top of a glacier in the Selkirk mountains. I wanted to capture a picture of the landing pad for Ron. But we were instructed to have all equipment secured, crouch in a huddle away from the helicopter and remain still until the craft lifted off. In the meantime Dan, who spent four years in avalanche control for the Canadian government and the last 11 years as a heli-ski guide, unloaded our skis.

Last year in Colorado I had skied powder and skied it well, I thought. But today, at the top of the world, the slope was steep and endless.

Dan said to ski at a level lower than we are used to. I quickly regressed to the wedge. In Colorado I had hopped down the hill. But if I hopped down this mountain, I thought, I may never hop again, or ski.

Balance on both skis, Dan said. It's a fallacy to sit back. Keep your weight evenly over both skis, he told us, as he glided rhythmically through the fresh powder.

BETTY Wagner recently added another adventure to her life, heli-skiing on a mountain in Canada.

Our group of three women and eight men displayed varying levels of powder skiing skills. The Germans, used to skiing in the Alps, were the best in spite of their smoking.

Sometimes I'd go too fast as we traversed across the steep. Often I fell in the deep powder and struggled to get up, especially on the first run. But it was the times I caught the rhythm of bouncing through the powder, if even for a while, that felt so good.

We made two runs before a lunch of sandwiches, fruit, juice, hot tea and candy bars served on the side of the glacier.

When I took off my skis to rest and eat, I had trouble balancing in the deep snow. Walking was more difficult than skiing, I discovered.

After lunch, we completed the 10,000 vertical feet promised us in the heli-ski brochure. Dan offered to take us again for $40 more. The Germans were ready, but I was weary. The others must have said, no, too, for the next thing I knew we returned to the heli-plex for our certificate and ski pin.

Was it worth it? Of course, I did it. Good cardiovascular conditioning scored higher points than skiing ability, unless, of course, you're used to skiing in the Alps where powder skiing is effortless.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

PRICE OR VALUE

PRICE IS NOT the over-riding consideration. Future value is important.

QUESTION: Does a low price tag on a house mean it is "automatically" a good buy?

ANSWER: Price is not the only financial consideration - it is not even the most IMPORTANT one. If property is "cheap," there must be a reason. Bargain hunters seldom do well in real estate because they dwell too much on price and not enough on VALUE.

Value is determined by construction, age, zoning, physical condition, comparable prices, income potential (for investment property) and, most importantly, location. Only after value is determined can you make an intelligent judgment as to the fairness of the price.

Michelsen competes in Pittsburgh

Clarkston's Damon Michelsen earned honorable mention All-American status at the National High School Championships in Pittsburgh last weekend.

Only state champions from around the country were invited to the double-elimination meet. Wrestlers represented 41 different states. There were 22 different wrestlers in Michelsen's 171-pound weight division.

Michelsen defeated a Connecticut opponent, 9-1, in the first round. He then pinned an Oklahoma wrestler in the second round before losing to a Pennsylvania opponent. The senior then was eliminated by losing, 6-4, to the same Connecticut foe he previously defeated.

Michelsen's 2-2 record put him in a tie for 10th overall, which made him honorable mention All-American. The top eight finishers were named All-American.

Local author, composer writes for the masses

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Playing the part of composer, writer and troubadour has provided Gene Grier with a busy but enjoyable career.

The 48-year-old Independence Township man has written several hundred pieces during his 25 years in the music field. Over his career, the number of books, sheet music and recordings sold by Grier has eclipsed the two million mark.

Grier said his love for music was inspired at a young age, by the people closest to him.

"As a child, in Camden, New Jersey, my folks taught me how to play the piano and guitar," he explained. "They were very supportive and always encouraged me when it came to music."

"Later, my high school choral instructor taught me the beauty of music and my sense of appreciation was heightened," he added.

Grier went on to earn masters degrees in music and environmental science from the State College of New Jersey. During his undergraduate years, he also participated on the varsity football and soccer teams.

Since graduation, Grier's life has been a whirlwind. He's served as a professional performer, been the

"Preserving the planet is a key factor in my life."

Gene Grier

member of a rock band, and taught music in the public school system.

In 1976, he had his first music book published while working at J.W. Pepper, the world's largest distributor of music.

Later on in his career, he was asked to instruct music industry and show chorus classes at the University of Michigan-Flint. He taught the classes with the help of his wife, Audrey, who specializes in choreography.

Today, Gene Grier is an institution in his own right. He is the president of Music Unlimited and Heritage Music Press, which offers a variety of instructional series for singers.

Music Unlimited is a national company that offers workshops in the field of sacred music, chorus and choreography. This organization also sponsors The Academy of Popular Vocal Arts, which showcases The Academy Singers.

This entourage is made up of 50 junior and senior high school students, including 12 from Clarkston area. Spanning nearly 13 years, this elite group has recorded 17 albums and participated in two Emmy Award winning shows on WXYZ-TV. Grier said there is a waiting list of over 300 students presently awaiting a chance to audition for the group.

Besides operating his own companies, Grier has a contract with the Lorenz Corporation, who is the largest publisher for choral and educational music in America. He is currently working on approximately 30 projects for Lorenz and a variety of other national publishers.

Despite his heavy workload, Grier loves his work. Especially, when he's around The Academy Singers.

"Those kids are my greatest joy," he said. "Their enthusiasm and eagerness keeps me young. I'm 48 but I feel like I'm 28 when around them."

Grier is excited with his latest releases because they revolve around the popular comic character Ziggy. In collaboration with Ziggy's creator, Tom Wilson, Grier

Grier said his message was inspired by his background in environmental science.

"Preserving the planet is a key factor in my life," he said. "When looking for someone to deliver this message, Ziggy immediately popped into my head. He's such a lovable character, and though things might not work out for him all the time, he keeps a good attitude and always tries his best."

Grier said he and Wilson have recently completed a television script, accompanied with a musical score, for a holiday program. "How Ziggy Saved Christmas" is in the process of being presented to some of the networks. A network's acceptance could result in an airing around Christmas of 1992.

During his career, Grier has been a 14-time recipient of the prestigious "Popular Songwriter's Award" from the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers (ASCAP).

He said the awards serve as incentive for him to

The groom, a 1985 Clarkston High School graduate, is now serving his second tour in the U.S. Marine Corps. He is the son of Dale and Rosemary Grable of Clarkston.

Standing as matron and maid of honor were Jodi Burkett and Lori Irwin, sisters of the bride. They wore knee-length navy blue velvet suits.

Standing for the groom as best men were Patrick Lee and Gerry Turner, both of Clarkston, who also wore navy blue tuxedos and tails.

Other attendants and groomsmen were Julie Blaylock, Stephany Tedder, Amy Rogers, Chris Cole, Peter Burkette, Doug Stover, Mike Grable and Matt Rouse, all of Clarkston.

Milk made tolerable

Tracy King

Foods from the dairy food group are generally thought to be good for you, but for some people, they also cause discomfort.

There is good news for those who are lactose intolerant: current research indicates most individuals diagnosed as lactose intolerant can still enjoy dairy products by following a few practical tips:

- Eat dairy foods in small, frequent servings.
- Pick food that are slowly digested, such as whole or chocolate milk, rather than reduced fat milk. Ice cream and ice milk are other good choices.
- Choose yogurt and frozen yogurt with active cultures (for example, yogurt that has not been pasteurized after being made, but contains pasteurized milk as an ingredient).

■ Eat and drink dairy foods along with other foods, not in isolation.

When time calls for cooking, these nutritious, good-tasting low lactose recipes are worth a try:

Salmon Cheddar Quiche

Six servings

Crust

- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 3 tablespoons lard
- 3 to 4 tablespoons lactose-reduced milk

Filling

- 1 can (15 1/2 ounce) salmon, drained, flaked
- 1 cup (4 ounce) shredded cheddar cheese
- 1/4 cup chopped green pepper
- 1/4 cup sliced green onion

- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 1 1/2 cups lactose-reduced milk
- 3 eggs, beaten

For crust, combine flour and salt. Cut in butter and lard until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Sprinkle with milk, one tablespoon at a time, mixing until flour is moistened.

Shape dough into a ball. Roll out on lightly floured surface to form one 13-inch diameter circle. Line a nine-inch pie plate with pastry; turn under edge and flute, forming a high rim. Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

For filling, combine salmon, cheese, green pepper, onion, flour, salt and pepper; toss lightly to combine. Place salmon mixture in bottom of pastry shell.

Combine milk and eggs; pour over salmon mixture. Bake 45 to 50 minutes, or until a knife inserted near center comes out clean. Let stand 10 minutes before serving.

Fluffy Cottage Cheese Pancakes

Approximately nine pancakes

- 3 eggs, separated
- 1/2 cup cottage cheese
- 1/3 cup milk (lactose-reduced)
- 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt

Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored. Add cottage cheese; beat until almost smooth. Blend in milk, flour and salt.

Beat egg whites until soft peaks form. Fold into batter. Let batter stand five minutes.

Using a 1/4 cup measure, pour batter onto hot (375 degrees) lightly buttered griddle. Turn when tops are covered with bubbles and edges looked cooked. Turn only once.

Serve with butter and jelly.

Cheese Vegetable Chowder

Yield: approximately two quarts

- 2 cups chopped cabbage
- 1 cup each: onion slices, celery slices, frozen peas, thin carrot slices
- 1/2 cup (one stick) butter
- 1 can (16 ounce) cream-style corn
- 2 1/2 cups lactose-reduced milk
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon thyme
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 2 1/2 cups (10 ounces) shredded Cheddar cheese

Saute cabbage, onion, celery, peas and carrots in butter in three-quart saucepan eight to ten minutes or until vegetables are tender, stirring frequently.

Add corn, milk and seasonings; heat over low temperature 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add cheese; stir until melted.

Village of Clarkston

Summary of Village Council
Minutes of Regular Meeting
April 8, 1991

Meeting called to order at 7:30 p.m. followed by the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

Roll Present: Basinger, Catallo, Haven, Mauti, Roeser, Whitmer.

Absent: Schultz.

Trustee Whitmer was sworn in for his new term of office as Trustee on the Village Council.

The Minutes of March 25 were approved with one correction. The agenda was approved after striking No. 6, Flag Pole, and adding B&B Resolution to Old Business. Garden Club Requests were added to new business.

Bills in the amount of $9,324.59 approved for payment. Trustee Roeser arrived and was sworn in for his new term of office.

Moved by Haven, supported by Mauti, and motion carried, "That the following resolution be made part of the minutes:

RESOLUTION RE: PROPOSED BED & BREAKFAST ORDINANCE

After extensive work by the Planning Commission and review of the issues by it and the Village Council, the Council decided, at its meeting on February 15, 1991, not to adopt any Bed & Breakfast ordinance, which decision required no formal motion since no affirmative action was taken. However, there appears to be some public misconception that the Council merely tabled further consideration of the ordinance at that meeting.

This misconception may have arisen from the fact that deliberations concerning the proposed ordinance spanned numerous meetings and several months. The council's comments and actions from such meetings must be viewed as a whole to fully understand the Council's action.

So that the public is fully informed as the final action of the Council and the reasons for such action, the Council adopts this resolution not to amend Village ordinances to allow Bed & Breakfasts.

The numerous reasons for not adopting any ordinance change, as expressed by individual Council members during the ordinance hearing at Council meetings, can be summarized as follows:

1. Bed & Breakfasts are typically in communities where there is a great demand for lodging such as tourist destinations, college towns, etc. Clarkston is none of these. Moreover, several new hotels have been built in Auburn Hills, just fifteen minutes away, and more are apparently planned for Independence Township.

2. The Council is not opposed to Bed & Breakfasts per se, but rather is concerned about their effect on the community and the integrity of our residential zoning in particular.

3. Clarkston is unique among Michigan Villages and cities in that it has maintained the long-standing relative balance between its existing commercial and residential areas, insuring a desirable quality of life for its citizens.

4. This has been possible only through the strict adherence, by Council after Council, to the Village zoning plan which was formally adopted as an ordinance almost 20 years ago.

5. Changes in the existing zoning plan should be made only when the benefits to be derived by the Village as a whole, and its citizens, outweigh any risks which amendment might pose for the continuing integrity of our zoning ordinances.

6. Accordingly, when proposals are made to amend the ordinances, the Council cannot focus on who has requested the change and what their good intentions may be since, in time, they may no longer own the property. Rather it has to determine the relative long term benefits and detriments to the community of what is being requested. Thus, the Council has, on numerous occasions in the past, had to turn down requests by many well-respected Village residents for zoning changes or permission to expand nonconforming uses.

7. After extensive research, the Village attorney advised the Council that under current case law, Bed & Breakfasts were considered to be a "commercial" use of property. He also advised that there is no constitutionally valid way to absolutely restrict their number if they were allowed.

8. It would be unfair, having disallowed expansion of other non-conforming business uses in residential areas in the past, to allow Bed & Breakfasts which are recognized as commercial uses. Likewise, our zoning prohibits two-family dwellings in residential areas. Yet allowing Bed & Breakfasts in those same areas would create even more diverse traffic and house many more individuals totally unknown to their neighbors than would a two-family home.

9. If the Council were to set minimum requirements for floor space and the number of rooms for Bed & Breakfasts, only larger homes would immediately qualify which is unfair. Moreover, owners of smaller homes might add on just to establish Bed & Breakfasts, thus possibly making the homes too costly to own and maintain in the future unless used as B&Bs.

10. Any Bed & Breakfast ordinance would have to include a strict licensing scheme which could be difficult, if not impossible, to enforce and costly to Village taxpayers.

11. Decisions to reside in the Village should be based on a sincere desire to live in and enjoy our unique residential atmosphere. They should not be dependent on whether there is also some commercial use to which residential property can be put.

12. The proposed ordinance appeared to have no widespread support. Only a very few Village residents attended meetings in support of the proposal. Further, although B&B proponents publicly asked residents to call Council members and indicate their support, no calls were received by any member of the Council.

13. The Council said it could approve B&Bs in multiple residential and business districts since that would not endanger single-family residential zoning. In fact, the Planning Commission spent extensive time and effort drafting such an ordinance. However, B&B proponents indicated they didn't want any ordinance if it did not include single-family residential areas. Thus, the Council determined that there was no point in adopting any ordinance.

In reaching the conclusion not to adopt a Bed & Breakfast ordinance, the Village Council believes it has diligently performed its duty to act in the best interests of the Village and that its action is in accordance with the wishes of the majority of Clarkston's citizens.

Future Problem Solving Team

A team of students from Clarkston Junior High has been invited to participate in the 12th Annual Michigan Future Problem Solving Program State Bowl.

Jeremy Bassett, Claire Kammer, Katie Lockwood, Pat Wall and their coach, William Rathburg, will meet in Ann Arbor at the University of Michigan on April 20-21 to compete with 120 teams, the top 20 percent of teams from throughout Michigan.

The state bowl is the culmination of a year-long program where students are taught to creatively seek, attack and solve problems related to projections into the future.

More than 14,000 Michigan students worked on three problems during the 1990-91 school year, which included ozone depletion, transportation and high school drop-outs.

While teams know the general topic of this year's bowl — censorship — they will not know the specific nature of the problem they will attempt to solve until the bowl begins.

State champions will also be invited to represent Michigan at the 1991 International Conference in June at Washington University in St. Louis, MO.

In the past 10 years, Michigan participants have won 17 championships at the International Conference.

The MFPS is sponsored by The Bureau of Accreditation and School Improvement Studies and the School of Education at the University of Michigan.

Go fly a kite; but do it safely

The season has arrived. Tie on a string and let a kite ride the wind.

But while enjoying the tranquility of the activity, don't forget the danger of a kite coming in contact with utility poles or equipment.

Detroit Edison has a few reminders to help you enjoy this popular hobby safely:

- Select a good, level, open space. Wires, poles, trees, large stones, ruts and ditches can cause injury.
- If a kite becomes lodged in a high tree, utility pole or wires, don't try to get it down. If kites or other objects are caught on Detroit Edison poles or wires, please inform the utility of the location and circumstances.
- Don't fly kites in threatening weather. Lightning is electricity and wet string conducts electricity.
- Use light-weight wood for kite frames.
- Use strong, dry cord for kite string. Don't use kites containing wire or metal parts. Wire or metal would serve as a conductor if it came in contact with electrical equipment or wires. Nails or pins left exposed may cause injury to arms or hands.
- Handle kites alertly to prevent being thrown off-balance by a sudden gust or high wind. Beware of burns caused by the cord slipping through your hands.
- Avoid areas used by moving vehicles, such as streets, highways and railroad rights-of-way.
- Don't fly kites from rooftops or other elevated structures unless they are protected by enclosures high enough to prevent a fall.

Are you living in an historic house unknowingly?

You may be living in a historic house and not know it.

Of course, the odds that you own a dwelling important to this country's past is slim. But every community does have such gems.

A home can be historic for several reasons: architecturally, event-related or age. An ante-bellum mansion with a sweeping staircase is quite different from a 1700 New England saltbox and Philadelphia's Independence Hall. But all are important to the country's history.

If you live in a house that has a local, state or federal historic designation, you already know that you must follow certain regulations concerning alterations and improvements.

If you live in a simple old house that has not been dubbed historic, but you want it to look great while keeping the antique appearance, contact hardware stores and mail-order companies that specialize in period or hardware or recreate the old look with new products.

A good start is to subscribe to The Old House Journal (six issues per year, 435 Ninth Street, New York City, NY 11215-410). This magazine will help you with ideas to do the work yourself. It also provides the product and contractor resources.

If you want to know about your home's appearance when it was first built or during any other era, contact the Independence Township Library at 625-2212 (6495 Clarkston Road) or Springfield Township Library at 625-0595 (10900 Andersonville Road). Or contact the Clarkston Community Historical Society.

You might also try the township hall, where records detailing original design, an artist's rendition or a list of materials might be on hand.

If that fails, contact a preservation organization that may be able to provide generic information as it relates to a house of similar age, size or geographic area. Some of them can provide fix-up guidelines for your period dwelling.

These groups include Preservation Techniques (Philadelphia) and the U.S. Department of the Interior (Washington, D.C.), which publishes a series of architectural briefs.

You also might wish to join the National Trust for Historic Preservation (1785 Massachusetts Avenue NW, Washington, D.C. 20036). Each October, the Trust holds an annual national conference that addresses historic preservation issues. An important feature of the conference is Rehabitat, a "trade show" of manufacturers of restoration products and services.

Through its Center for Historic Houses, the Trust also sponsors a separate annual conference in late spring that is geared specifically to the interests of the private homeowner.

Pet of the Week

MISS PRETTY sports a clean, shiny black fur coat with brown markings. She's all ready for her new owners.

Pretty as a picture

Miss Pretty doesn't know how pretty she is or she would have posed with a wide smile for her picture.

But at three-years-old, the Rottweiler-mix knows how to behave with other dogs, cats and children.

She's healthy, obedient and calm. She has a sweet disposition and keeps her kennel clean.

To see Miss Pretty, visit the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Road, Rochester Hills, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Summer jobs available

Summer jobs are now available in the Clarkston area for 14- to 21-year-olds who meet low-income guidelines or have a disability or handicap.

Those interested in the work opportunities through the Clarkston school district and Independence Township offices should apply quickly, according to Richard Ernst, summer youth employment and training program facilitator.

The jobs pay $4.25 an hour, begin June 17, and continue for about eight weeks, for about 20 and 40 hours a week.

Positions available include clerical aides, library aides, maintenance aides and SCAMP aides.

Each candidate will be interviewed to determine if he or she is eligible for the program, Ernst said, and an effort will be made to match jobs with interests.

The program is funded through the federal Job Training and Partnership Act.

For more information or to apply, visit the Clarkston Community Education Center at 5275 Maybee Road, Independence Township, or call 674-4791, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays.

MAJOR Tom Bills shook nearly every hand of the Bailey Lake Elementary students as they left the all-school assembly April 12. His daughter, Katie, attends the school.

A major event

SEVERAL students gave speeches explaining why they're proud to be Americans. A globe was also given to the school from the school's PTA and five books were donated to the school with inscriptions honoring the five who have served in the Persian Gulf.

MAJOR Bills spoke briefly to the students. The assembly also honored four others connected with Bailey Lake who are still serving in the Persian Gulf: Sgt. Gregory DeJaynes, Sgt. Deanna Candelario, Petty Officer Joseph Essex and Petty Officer Christopher Ratliff.
