

Toe-tapping music free this week

Music ranging from Dizzie Gillespie to Herbie Hancock can be heard in the third free concert in Clarkston's Depot Park on Friday, July 12.

The Russ Simonson Jazz Quintet is scheduled to play 7-9 p.m. Friday in the park on Depot Road, west off Main Street, between Washington Street and Waldon Road. Afterward, concert-goers may want to stroll through downtown Clarkston, where Midnight Madness means businesses will be open until midnight.

The jazz quartet plays toe-tapping music, says organizer Don Brose of the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce, which sponsors the concerts with First of America Bank.

Manning concession stands this Friday will be the Clarkston Area Optimist Club, but many concert-goers prefer to bring picnic dinners to the concerts in the park.

Remaining free concerts include: July 19, Auto City Banjos and July 26, Metropolitan Jazz Orchestra.

To send donations to the concert program, send checks or money orders to Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce, Concert Fund, 5897 Dixie Highway, Clarkston, MI 48346. For more information, call Brose at 623-7900 or Cathy S. Scott at 625-4111.

Storm slashes trees, wires, homes

BY DENNIS V. CARTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

High winds and rain battered Independence and Springfield townships Sunday night, leaving toppled trees, fires and damage of all types in their wake.

The Independence Township Fire Department re-

"We fought the flames for about 30 minutes, but the home was a total loss."

Chief Marlan Hillman

sponded to 80-100 calls during the course of the July 7 storm.

"We went from location to location throughout the night," said Capt. Steve Ronk of the Independence Township Fire Department. "We were trying to keep everything under control so no one was killed or seriously injured."

Trees were ripped out of the ground by their roots, while telephones and wire crashed to ground. Traffic lights were rendered useless, which resulted in accidents.

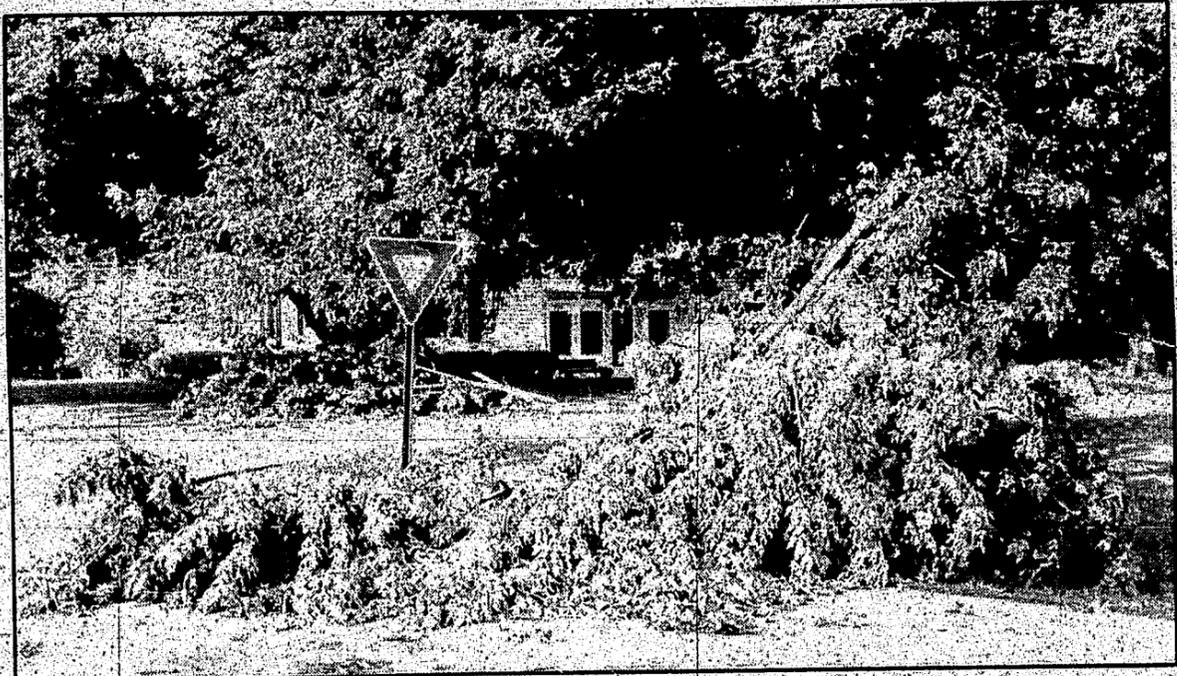

"We had damage townshipwide—I would say at least three-fourths of the township is without power," Ronk said. "There were wires down on I-75 along with many other area roads. The fire station's tower, which is 120 feet high, was also blown down."

According to Chief Gar Wilson, Detroit Edison officials said this storm caused the most serious damage ever in such a short period of time.

"Wires were down throughout the township along with telephone poles and large trees," said Wilson. "There is at least 70 percent of the township out of power. We had so many calls that we had to respond to the high priority calls first. Downed wires were called in a lot, but we had to respond to accident and injury-type calls first."

The damage was widespread.

"This storm did some serious damage," Wilson said. "Trees fell on houses. Lines were down everywhere. Right now we are setting up facilities at Sashabaw Junior (See STORM, next page)

Five wells contaminated

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Recent water tests mean bottled water for a few Clarkston residents.

Residents in five Clarkston homes have been notified that their water is contaminated, and village manager Art Pappas has been frustrated in tracking down the source of the problem.

Pappas said since May 13, at least five residents near the intersection of M-15 and Clarkston Road have received letters from the Michigan State Department of Public Health stating that their water is contaminated.

About one of every three houses in that area were tested. Traces of toluene, chloroform and a type of dichloroethane were found.

Under Michigan state law, those residents are currently supplied with free bottled water for drinking and cooking until the situation is corrected.

Pappas discussed the problem at the Clarkston Village Council meeting July 8.

Some council members speculated that the source of the contamination could be from the buried gasoline tanks located the corner of M-15 and Clarkston Road or from the closed Powell landfill further east on Clarkston Road. Clerk Norma Goyette even suggested that the source might be from chemicals that were added to the Mill Pond to kill algae.

Pappas told the council that the gasoline tanks have been a source of frustration long before the recent findings by the public health department.

The station stopped pumping gas in the spring of 1990. Village Muffler and Brake Specialist now occupy the location, but the tanks still have not been removed. Pappas recently was told by Jennifer Beam of the Oakland County Tank Testing Office that tanks should be removed at least six months after no longer being in use, he said.

Pappas said he called the Michigan State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) at least nine months ago to voice his concern about the tanks.

The DNR told him to contact the state fire marshal. The state fire marshal called and said the tanks were "in compliance." Pappas asked for a report in writing, but the report he received was from 1986.

So Pappas continued his quest to find out whether the tanks were inspected and if there was any leakage from the tanks.

He again contacted the state fire marshal who replied in April that there was "no report of leakage at this address." The state office also told Pappas that any further questions should be taken up with the local fire and Clintonville roads. Sashabaw Junior High School is on Maybee Road, between Sashabaw and Clintonville roads.

In Springfield Township, firefighters were called to a storage barn fire at 1:30 a.m. Monday, July 8, on Scott Road. The source of the fire was a generator in use due to power outages, said Chief Marlan Hillman, adding that the structure was a total loss, about $5,000 damage.

"The building was pretty much gone by the time we got there," he said. "It took only 10 minutes to finish putting out the fire."

At 4 a.m. Monday, Springfield firefighters were called to a mobile home fire at the Chateau Trailer Park on Dixie Highway.

According to Hillman, candles being used for light in the trailer were the cause of fire, which demolished the $25,000 mobile home.

"We fought the flames for about 30 minutes, but the home was a total loss," Hillman said.

"It was difficult to respond to calls with the communication problems we had because of the storm," he said. "With everything going on, it just made things a lot harder. We had several other calls, but most of the other calls were for fallen trees and downed wires. The residents in the township are still out of power. There is a lot of wind damage in the area."

Area residents also reported damage to their property.

According to Millie Mierkiewicz of the Bavaria Condominiums, Dixie Highway, Springfield Township, "A huge tree was blown over at the lake property. It's the worst I've ever seen uprooted."

Ginny Farmer, assistant principal at Clarkston High School, lives on Huntoon Lake, Waterford. She found that the storm caused a lot of damage, such as trees falling onto houses and into the lake.

Farmer believes that damage was caused by a tornado, not just high winds, she said.

"We watched a cloud forming into a funnel, and about 30 seconds later, it just all ripped up," she said, adding that Huntoon Lake looked like an ocean.

"This is just a small lake, and there were white caps," Farmer said.

Assessment of the total damage will take some time, but for local residents, it will be a night to remember—and a night to forget.

A story in last week's Clarkston News about year-round preschool offered through Clarkston Community Education should have said that the program was contingent upon an agreement between community education and Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church, where the program may be held.

Township asks court to stop cityhood proceedings

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

If township officials have their way, cityhood proceedings will stop in the Village of Clarkston until a judge renders a decision on a related lawsuit.

Independence Township filed a "stay of proceedings" July 10 in Oakland County Circuit Court, asking Judge John O'Brien to stop Clarkston from incorporating as a city until an appeals court judge issues a judgment on the township's lawsuit against.

The township earlier filed a lawsuit against the State Boundary Commission, charging that the commission illegally granted cityhood to Clarkston. The court ruled in favor of the boundary commission, and the township appealed the decision.

While awaiting the judge's decision on the appeal, the village should not be allowed to incorporate as a city because of the many problems that would occur should the appeals judge rule in the township's favor, according to township attorney Gerald Fisher.

In a June 24 special meeting, the township board voted 5-1 to press forward with the request to stop cityhood proceedings until the township's lawsuit is settled. Trustee Daniel Travis voted against the endeavor, and Trustee Bruce Mercado was absent from the special meeting.

The injunction, if granted by Judge O'Brien, would preserve the current municipality boundaries and not allow incorporation to occur until after the Michigan Court of Appeals has rendered its decision.

Fisher said the injunction is for the good of the participants involved in the year-long lawsuit.

"The purpose of this injunction is to preserve the status quo, so there won't be any injury to the parties involved," Fisher said.

According to Fisher, the "injuries" could be turned out to be costly in the long run.

He estimates that the Michigan Court of Appeals won't render a decision in this case until 1993, due to its heavy case load. Fisher said the city charter probably would come before the voters this fall, meaning that cityhood could be achieved by the spring of 1992.

That means there will be at least a year between incorporation and the court's judicial determination.

That could mean big trouble if village voters approve cityhood, but the appeals court rules in the township's favor.

Under that scenario, the township gives six reasons to stop incorporation:

■ Township voters living in the village would find that they had no part in township elections held after incorporation takes place.

■ Village residents would find that they had no say in the possible passage of a millage, voted on after incorporation.

■ Village residents who hold positions in the township would be removed from their jobs upon incorporation. Supervisor Frank Ronk falls under this category, and he couldn't be restored even if the township wins its appeal.

■ Upon incorporation, taxes collected by the township wouldn't include money from village residents. However, the city probably would collect taxes. In that case, would village residents be taxed retroactively by the township, in effect taxing them twice? And what becomes of the money spent by the city?

■ In the time that the village is a city, the township will lose state revenue sharing money, due to the loss of the village's state equalized value (SEV). This revenue cannot be obtained at a future date.

■ The city would have to pay for its own special services such as fire, police, parks and recreation and library. If the decision is overturned, and contracts have been written, where does the liability for those contracts fall?

Fisher said he asked village officials to grant the township this "stay," and they refused.

According to Fisher, village officials said the incorporation deadlines were too near, and they feared that if they didn't secure a charter within two years the deadline would erase all past efforts.

Village officials could not be reached for comment.

However, Fisher said the village could proceed with everything except one step -- filing its voting results with the county. By holding its election within the deadlines, the village would still fall within the law.

Under state law, a city can't be incorporated until a charter has been approved by its populous and duplicated copies filed by the county clerk and sent to the secretary of state, said Fisher.

Fisher estimates that the township's request for the stay of proceedings will be heard in O'Brien's court within the next two to three weeks.

Fisher considers this cityhood case monumental for charter townships throughout the state.

"This is a top-priority case because it impacts Independence Township immediately and other charter townships around the state," he said. "This case has to do with the general development of communities. We have to ask ourselves if we're going to allow charter townships to gradually grow and mature as integrated units or have them segmented along the way."

"You can't have long-term planning if these townships are continually carved up," he added.

Pappas said the last he heard from Wilson was that "they were working on it."

Pappas then found out about the public health department's letters that were sent coincidentally to residents who lived near the tanks.

He then contacted the public health department, which told him that houses in the area will continue to be checked for contamination.

Laundry link

Julie Campe

The laundry room was dark and warm Sunday night, the six others in the room merely silhouette with voices.

Most of us had met in passing — a hello in the parking lot, pleasant exchanges of weather forecasts.

It took the violent winds and the crack of broken trees to tear us out of our apartments and down to the quasi-safety of our building's laundry room, where we sat on heavy-duty dryers and leaned on washing machines, flashlights in hand.

And we peered out of the only window instead of taking secure cover in the back storage room, away from all windows, as suggested by emergency officials.

True, it was more comfortable than sitting in our bathrooms on the third floor, but were we really safer facing the laundry room window?

Probably not, but from that vantage, we could see trees bend at near 90-degree angles from the wind and could watch the green haze drip across the sky. When a car alarm burst into its song, we knew it was because a maple branch had fallen on it.

And we could watch a toad hop occasionally in the woodchips outside the window, which put us at eye-level with the ground outside.

Above the quiet drone of a battery-operated radio turned up occasionally when weather reports interrupted the music, we learned that the silhouette with long hair and two full laundry baskets had only moments earlier retrieved her belongings from a washing machine. Still wet, the clothing sunk into the baskets as she waited for electricity to power up the drier.

The tall silhouette closest to the window was a musician and joked about having to turn to acoustical instruments if the electricity didn't return soon.

Sirens burst suddenly into hearing range, then seeing range. We watched as ambulances and fire trucks sped down the slick road, then slowed and maneuvered around an unknown object in their paths — branches, we conjectured.

The toad hopped again outside the window. Time for trivia. Frogs have teeth — toads don't, we were told.

We watched as worms drowned in the pavement puddles, and we talked about the difficulty of walking through them.

We noticed that the sky had turned to fire. It was too beautiful to take in.

Lightning still danced across the sky, followed by rumbles still close enough to feel in our bellies. Rain slashed across our view, yet the sky shone magnificently.

A few ventured out to peek at the flaming atmosphere. In the west, it was clear. A hole appeared in the fabric of the sky, and the sun poured forth, turning eastern, northern and southern clouds into glowing waves.

A radio announcer told us that the tornado warning would be over at 9:15 p.m., while a watch would continue until 11 p.m.

Just then, another person joined us in the shelter. Two minutes later, it was 9:15 p.m., and we abandoned her.

Outside, more apartment dwellers stood up and down the stairs and sidewalks, basking in the fiery sky. A tornado had been sighted in Drayton Plains, said one, who was a grandmother, she told us, adding that she did not talk long when she received the report over the phone in the middle of the storm.

A tree had been uprooted, said another onlooker, sadly.

Later, we found that three large trees and one smaller tree had fallen, as had numerous branches.

We paused and stared again, silently, at the red sky, then said goodbye and climbed the three flights of stairs to our dark apartment.

Two straights don't make a right

IN a photo commentary printed in the Dec. 5, 1990 Clarkston News, the Road Commission for Oakland County Public Information Director John Joy described the intersection of Clarkston Road and Sashabaw Road as "an invitation to disaster." However, nothing has changed in the past seven months. The intersection is still unmarked, with two lanes turning into one soon after the driver passes the stop light. Some drivers go straight in the left lane while others go straight in the right lane, trying to avoid each other as they quickly merge. In the photos above taken two weeks ago, the cars in both the left and right lanes end up going straight after the light turns green. The car in the left lane "beats" the car on the right to the single lane which lies ahead past the intersection. Joy's office was contacted twice by the Clarkston News the past week, but he was unavailable for comment. (Photo commentary by James Gibowski)

Jim's Jottings

Red Skelton makes me laugh

Jim Sherman

Pine Knob billed it as "An evening with Red Skelton." I call it an evening of laughter and nostalgia. It was a no-intermission, two-hour show of 95 percent jokes and five percent love-of-country remarks and skits.

He makes people laugh about every conceivable subject except politics. He said, "I don't do political jokes, after all the politicians haven't done anything."

There's no way you can read this column of Skelton material and laugh the way we did while sitting in the audience. But try to picture him saying:

"Your state bird must be the crane . . . I saw one on every road coming out here."

"I bought an Oral Roberts record, but I couldn't play it. The hole healed over before I got it home."

Still on religion . . . "The Bakkers are going to take all the 'nots' out of the Ten Commandments. Tammy Baker took all her makeup off and her dog bit her."

"This woman was so bowlegged, when she ran it looked like an egg beater."

"Nothing has happened in this world that women didn't have a part in. Webster would have never written the dictionary except for his wife always asking, 'What's that supposed to mean?'"

"As the skunk said when the wind changed; It all comes back to me now."

"One thing about my wife's cooking . . . it broke the dog from begging at the table."

"This girl was so heavy that when she ran away from home she took the truck route."

"You have a great set of highways in southeast Michigan. They should be very proud of those engineers in the asylum."

"I know a woman who had so many facelifts that when she sat down her mouth opened."

"Let me ask you this . . . how can your wife see a blonde hair on your lapel from across the room but can't see the garage door?"

"This girl was really beautiful. She had long blonde hair and short black roots."

Like I said, the jokes don't come off the same in print as they do when perhaps the world's greatest clown is delivering them live.

He's been doing these one-liners and skits for 45 years on radio and TV, and I've been a loving follower of his for 45 years.

Red Skelton has written over 4,000 short stories, nearly 5,000 musical selections (all the music at his show was written by him), 64 symphonies, 22 motion pictures and numerous children's books.

Now, nearly 78 years old, he still makes 75 appearances a year, such as the one Sunday at Pine Knob. He's slowed, and does a lot of old-man routines, but he's contemporary, too.

He says, "They may think I'm crazy, but as long as I'm making money they won't put me away." I hope he makes money many more years.

Announcement premature

On behalf of Sashabaw Presbyterian Church, I would like to make a small correction to your story, "Year-round day care available," which ran on Page 26 of the July 3 issue.

While we have been discussing use of our building by the Clarkston Community Education preschool program, as of yet, there has been no definite agreement because Clarkston Community Education has not yet presented a written proposal on which our church governing board can act. As far as we knew, we were still in the discussion stages.

Because the Clarkston preschool — our former and well-loved tenant — has brought an end to its record of fine service to the children of this community, we do have the space available for a preschool program.

The church as always felt that our building was one of our ministry resources to be made available to the community. We certainly are willing and would be happy to have our space serving the children of the community. However, we feel the announcement by Clarkston Community Education was premature. To give them their due, we are sure that this is a case where their enthusiasm for serving the needs of the community's children outstripped the process to make this possibility a reality.

Take boaters' lives seriously

At the July 1 planning commission meeting, Cindy Ashley and I voiced our interest in the Springfield Township Planning Commission forming a boat launching and dockage ordinance.

We made the request in response to the Supreme Court's recent ruling regarding boat launching and dockage on Square Lake in Bloomfield Township, which upheld that township's ordinance limiting the number of boats per lot to be docked.

We were informed that the proper forum is the township board.

We were further advised by Supervisor Collin Walls that the township is "looking into the matter," that leave was just granted on another ordinance matter concerning, I believe, West Bloomfield Township, and that this could go on for years.

This led me to believe that the township would be taking a "wait and see" attitude on this matter, dragging its feet and letting other more aggressive townships be the "doers."

This laissez-faire attitude on the part of the township frustrates me as it did last year when the township failed to enact a wetlands ordinance, though more than 400 residents of the township strongly endorsed such an ordinance.

I urge the board to address this matter at its earliest opportunity. A boat launching and dockage ordinance is one involving a genuine safety concern on the waters of Springfield Township.

As our township grows, so grows, so grows the traffic on our lakes. We are able to expand our road systems to accommodate township growth, but we cannot enlarge our lakes. Please take the lives of our boaters, swimmers, fishermen and skiers more seriously.

'If it Fitz ...'

Curbside diagnosis would ease bumps

Jim Fitzgerald

Doctors Hospital advertises on TV that there's no charge for emergency-room treatment if the patient has to wait more than 20 minutes. Finally I am persuaded to adjust my slow-crew attitude to the requirements of a fast-food culture.

Doctors Hospital is only a few blocks east of my downtown Detroit home. We drove by it last week on our way to Belle Isle, where 5-year-old Tricia and I went down the Giant Slide three times and Grandma took snapshots to use as evidence at my commitment hearing. Tricia fell down and, judging from the volume of her screaming, it appeared possible that a test of the 20-minute guarantee was imminent.

Tricia didn't fall from the Giant Slide, she fell under a much smaller slide in the adjacent playground. The initial diagnosis was based on sound rather than sight because neither Grandma nor Grandpa saw the accident happen. This particular slide is enclosed in a high-rise-cabin-type structure, and there is a brief moment when the slider, ascending the steps, can't be seen by a vigilant adult (me) at the top, or a distracted adult (Flash Grandma) at the bottom, whose view was limited by the camera permanently attached to her nose. (For the past six months, Flash has spent only every day pasting family photos in albums in chronological order, and she's already up to 1944.)

When I heard the caterwauling, I looked down and asked Flash, "Is that Tricia?" It was a dumb question, I knew it was Tricia. That kid never walks, she runs, skips, or handsprings. She actually attends a gymnastics class where, by paying close attention, she has learned how to trip over atmosphere.

Flash declared two bloody knees didn't require an emergency room, only immediate loving washing by a nonprofessional. So we canceled plans to eat dinner in a restaurant and headed home by way of a Wendy's drive-thru. After reading the billboard menu, I drove to the pick-up window.

"You didn't give them our order," Tricia gasped between sobs. Oh yeah, I forgot you're supposed to tell the billboard what you want. I had to back up 300 feet, causing considerable consternation among other drive-thru customers.

Because my visits to fast-food franchises are rare, and usually under duress, I pride myself in never remembering the proper procedure. I depend upon the kindness of strangers, or strange relatives, to guide me through the golden strictures and up to the right robot.

Sure, it's messy to have to retrieve my prematurely discarded paper cup from a trash barrel if I want a free Coke refill. But it's better than having anyone think I regularly frequent food outlets so barbarian that they stop serving breakfast at 11 a.m., which is when civilized breakfasting is just getting under way.

However, fast-service hospitals are something else. What if Tricia's legs had been broken? What if we'd rushed to an emergency room that listed available treatments on an outside billboard, alongside a picture of a concerned doctor. And I forgot to talk into the doctor's nose?

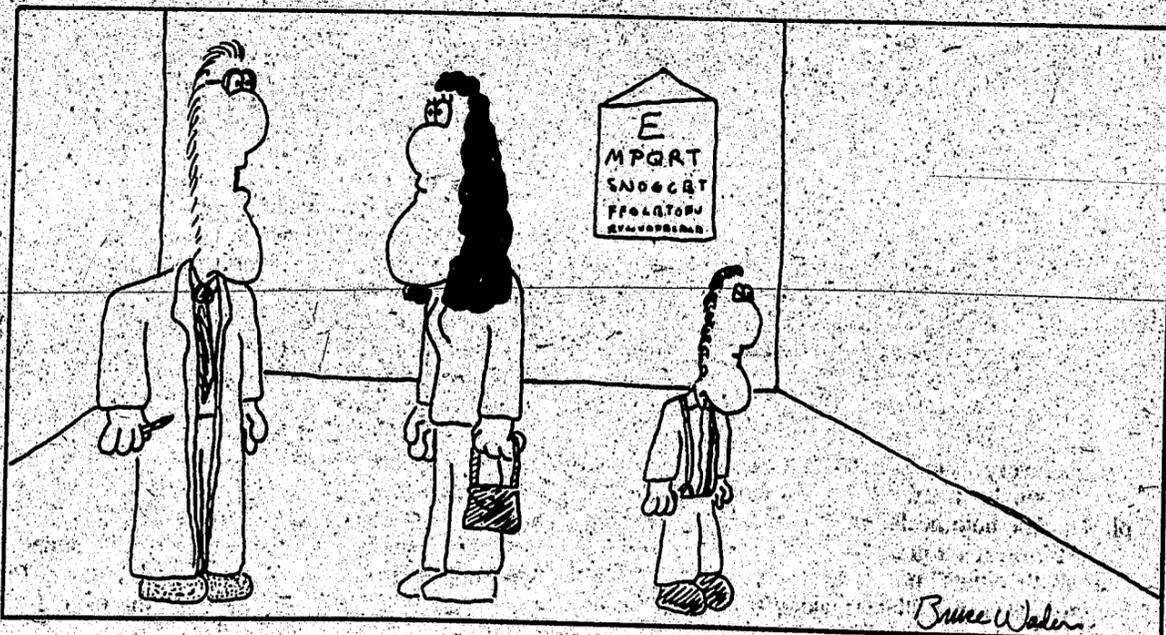

In slow-service emergency rooms, patients with minor ailments are often required to wait while doctors tend to more life-threatening cases. This isn't the case in McDonald's, where the hungriest customer may be last in line, and the fattest first.

But recently, at a drive-thru window, I was instructed to pull over and park because my order wasn't ready. A kind stranger explained this happens often because some orders take longer to prepare, and Ronald McDonald doesn't want to slow orders holding up the line of cars. An employee finally delivered my food to my car and I thanked him for the drive-thru-and-park-and-wait service.

So, in case of broken legs, I'm going to memorize the correct procedure at the fast-service hospital in my neighborhood. And I'll beware of the doctor who asks me to wait for him in my car.

Also, I intend to find out what model Lincoln Continental is driven by minimum-wage doctors.

DDA to expand to White Lake Road

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

An amended Downtown Development Authority (DDA) plan received the first of two approvals last week.

On July 2, the Independence Township Board voted 6-0 to approve the amended plan. Trustee Mel Vaara was absent from the meeting.

The amendment proposes that a 1 1/2-mile stretch along White Lake Road from Dixie Highway to Andersonville Road be added to the DDA's jurisdiction.

The DDA was created about five years ago to improve landscaping, lighting, water and sewer along parts of Dixie Highway and M-15. Funding for the DDA comes from tax increment financing, which captures "excess" taxes from a base year and returns them for use within DDA boundaries.

Supervisor Frank Ronk said the plan has met the approval of the DDA citizen's committee, made up of nine residents living in the White Lake Road area.

Ronk said this amendment will bring big improvements to an area overwhelmed by industrial sites.

"The DDA is going to do some really nice things for this district, such as cleaning up the area and making it more aesthetically pleasing," he said.

The amendment now requires only a second approval before it's formally approved. Second reading approval is to appear on the July 16 agenda.

Township blasts political declaration

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

The Independence Township Board doesn't think voters should have to declare their political party affiliation to vote in a primary election.

Last week, the board approved a resolution supporting a stand held by the Clerks in the State of Michigan, which says a declaration of party preference isn't fair to voters.

On March 17, 1992, Michigan is scheduled to have its first Presidential Preference Primary since 1980.

To vote in this election, all voters are required to declare a political party — either Republican or Democratic.

The Clerks in the State of Michigan doesn't think this is right because the process is too costly. The township estimates that $5-8 million will be spent on this election statewide.

In the resolution, Independence officials said that only 22 percent of their registered voters cast ballots in the 1980 preference primary. So, they're asking the legislature to eliminate the primary or escrow the township $1,000 per precinct to cover the cost of the election.

Independence Township Clerk Joan McCrary said this primary is also confusing the voters.

"We have people believing that by not declaring a party in this primary, that they can't vote at all," she said. "As long as they're registered, a person can vote in the general election."

"We have enough problems in this township with getting votes, and this type of primary just makes it harder," she said.

McCrary said the two largest political parties are to blame for this primary. They will be using this election to gauge their candidates' chances, she said.

At the meeting, Trustee Daniel Travis echoed the sentiments of the entire board.

"I think it's important we take this position," Travis said. "This isn't in the public's best interest. They're upset about being forced to declare. I think it's (primary) expensive and unwarranted."

Copies of this resolution have been sent to state Sen. David Honigman and state Rep. Tom Middleton.

DANCER'S CLARKSTON • WHITE LAKE COMMONS

THE CLARKSTON High School Pom Pon squad is one of several groups from CHS to participate in the Independence Day Parade in downtown Clarkston. When a radio disc jockey's father suffered a stroke early July 4, the D.J. had to cancel his appearance in Clarkston, and at the last minute, L. Brooks Patterson agreed to serve as master of ceremonies for the parade.

Patriotism wins awards in parade

Patriotic spirit won awards at the July 4 parade in downtown Clarkston.

According to Capt. Steve Ronk of the Independence Township Fire Department, which organized the parade activities, more than 100 entered the parade and decorating contests.

Three floats were cited for patriotic spirit. Taking first place-honors was the "Clarkston Critters" float, created entirely by several Clarkston-area youngsters in 4-H.

First-place float-makers included Clarkston Critter members: Amy Boose, Nick Boose, Emily Boose, Kelley Doyle, Jessica Doyle, Ashley Doyle, Ember Gilbert, Katie Colosimo, Robin Curry, Lorne Deacon, Jennifer Fogleman, Joshua Barney, Kim Deacon and Nicole Colosimo.

Their club leaders are Kim Boose and Nancy Doyle.

For taking first place, the group received a $100 check, courtesy of Dunlap Realtors.

The second-place award was given to youngsters Dave and Terry Guilde, who — with their friends — devised an American tank from a golf cart. For their endeavors, they received $50 from the Clarkston-Brandon Credit Union.

Taking the Judges' Award, for the float most adhering to the parade's theme, was Cedar Crest Academy in Springfield Township. The school received $50, courtesy of Clarkston-Real Estate.

In the contest for the most patriotically decorated home along the parade route, Robert Cook of 81 N. Main St., Clarkston, took top honors. For winning, he received four complimentary tickets from the Pine Knob Music Theater and a $15 gift certificate to Alexander's restaurant.

Carol's Village Grill garnered first place in the business category with its decorated storefront. The downtown restaurant received a $50 gift certificate to Carol's Flowers in Independence Township.

Not buckling could cost $12,000 or more

Not buckling your safety belt is like throwing $12,000 in the garbage.

Think of it: if the average new car costs $16,000, then the bumpers, chassis, body panels and engine must account for at least three-quarters of that.

The car's body is carefully designed with crumple zones, which absorb the violence of an impact, keeping the force away from the passenger compartment.

Car windows are made of cube-glass, which breaks up into blunt little grounds, not into long, deadly shards. In some cars, the engine is mounted to drop out in severe collisions, acting as a brake. This is what you really pay for when you buy a car.

But all of this is meaningless without safety belts.

In a crash, the unbuckled motorist is thrown around inside the car, and all those safety systems mean nothing.

Not buckling your safety belt is like not using $12,000 worth of your car, and because of this summer's safety belt blitz, not buckling could cost $12,050 — $12,000 in unused car, $50 in fines and court costs.

Traffic crashes are the nation's number one killer, but safety belts double your chance of surviving a serious crash. Don't forget to use the best part of car — buckle up.

The above information was provided by the Office of Highway Safety and Planning, Department of State Police.

School board chooses officers for 1991-92

Thomas Howard has retained his position as president of the Clarkston Board of Education.

On July 8, the school board selected its officers for the 1991-92 school year. The officers' terms run from July 1, 1991, to June 30, 1992.

In the presidential race, Howard edged Karen Foyteck 4-3 to regain his seat. He's been serving as board president since the resignation of former president John Needham last March.

Voting for Howard were Paul Van Klavern, Sheila Hughes, Joseph Helpem and Howard.

Voting for Foyteck were Kurt Karlstrom, Janet Thomas and Foyteck.

Foyteck was later named vice-president on an unanimous vote by the board, as was Hughes as secretary and Van Klavern as treasurer.

Other board appointments included: Kurt Karlstrom as Oakland Schools designate, Joseph Helpem as Oakland County School Board's legislative committee representative, Sue Hubbard as acting secretary and Steve Lenar as school elections administrator.

CHS students to face strict attendance policy

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Skipping classes just got a little tougher at Clarkston Senior High School.

Starting this fall, CHS will be instituting a new attendance policy, which is meant to curb the number of student absences.

The policy states that any student accumulating more than 15 days of absences in a semester, excused or unexcused, will be required to attend a four-hour detention hall. The detention period for this particular punishment will be held on Saturdays, so not to overburden the detention rooms used during the regular school week.

The four-hour detention period is to operate as a "reprieve," giving students the chance to make up for their poor attendance.

However, if a student misses another day after this reprieve, he or she will face the possibility of failing all present classes.

By serving this detention, students will not be pardoned from missed school work. They must make up all missed work or face the consequences of lower grades or failed courses.

According to CHS Principal Robert Burek, special exceptions will be made for students who accumulate absences due to severe medical problems.

This policy change was unanimously approved by the Clarkston Board of Education last month. About $5,000 has been set aside in the budget for the detention program. The money will go toward the payment of those instructors chosen to oversee the weekend detention periods.

Burek said most high schools in Oakland County operate under a similar policy. Clarkston's Adult Education program and the Oakland Technical Center's Northwest campus have had such a policy for a while, he said.

Burek said the policy was drawn up because he wasn't satisfied with the senior high's daily attendance record. He said about 91 or 92 percent of the students attended classes every day last year.

Burek, however, would like a 95 or 96 percent attendance rate.

"There's no reason why we can't be up to 95 or 96 percent," he said. "This policy should help bring our numbers up and stop any potential attendance problems at the crossroads."

School board to meet twice a month

School business may be a little easier to handle beginning in August.

The Clarkston Board of Education voted unanimously July 8 to hold two regular meetings per month instead of one.

The board agreed that two meetings would lighten the load of the agenda, formerly reserved for a single monthly meeting.

The two meetings will be held on the second and fourth Mondays of each month, beginning in August. Meetings are still scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the administrative building on Clarkston Road, Independence Township.

Boy turned over to social services

A 14-year-old boy who accidentally killed a friend in his home last December has been sentenced to serve at least one year in a juvenile facility.

On July 8, Oakland County Probate Judge Eugene Moore committed the teen to the Michigan Department of Social Services. There, the judge recommended he stay for a minimum of one year.

After the year has expired, it will be up to the department of social services to determine if he is ready to be set free.

Moore suggested that the boy be admitted to one of four facilities. They include: Camp Oakland, Pontiac; Boysville, Clinton; Highfield in Onondaga or Starr Commonwealth, Adrian.

While in the facility, the Sashabaw Junior High School student is to receive remedial education. He is not to be released at any time, unless permission is obtained from the judge.

The teen was found guilty of reckless use of a firearm by a jury June 4. Charges stemmed from the accidental shooting death of Independence Township resident Carmen Blehm, 15, in the boy's Oakvista home Dec. 15, 1990.

Grand Blanc woman injured in Dixie crash

A 33-year-old Grand Blanc woman was injured Tuesday, July 2, when the car in which she was riding was struck by another car on Dixie Highway, Springfield Township.

Beverly Sizemore was treated and released from Hurley Medical Center in Flint after a car driven by Beatrice Wiand, 70, of Independence Township crossed lanes and struck a car driven by Gale Davis, 36, of Grand Blanc. Sizemore was a passenger in Davis' car.

According to a report at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, the accident occurred around 2:30 p.m. Sizemore was wearing a seat belt at the time of the accident.

Wiand was issued a ticket for hazardous driving from an officer at the scene. No one else was injured.

Clarkston will stay in GOAL

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

With apologies to Mark Twain, "Rumors of the death of the Greater Oakland Activities League are greatly exaggerated."

Clarkston and Lake Orion's applications to join the Macomb Area Conference have recently been rejected.

"I guess we're just going to stay in the GOAL," said Clarkston Athletic Director Paul Tungate, pointing out that it is safe to say the Wolves will remain in the GOAL for at least the next "two to three years."

Tungate said the MAC officials told him that their 24-team league is filled and isn't looking for additional teams. Clarkston and Lake Orion were told they could reapply in 1993.

Brandon had also thought about leaving the GOAL for a different league but Tungate said Brandon has decided to stay.

Clarkston, Lake Orion and Brandon will continue to compete for league honors with Pontiac Northern, Waterford Kettering and Waterford Mott.

AT BAT
KEVIN JUZYSTA

Juzysta a hit at Michigan 'n' Trumbull

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Last year Kevin Juzysta batted .211 and watched games at Tiger Stadium.

This year Juzysta batted a school-record .524 and played at Tiger Stadium.

Juzysta, a recent graduate at Clarkston High School, was one of the elite senior players chosen to compete July 2 in the annual East-West All-Star Game at Tiger Stadium. The game is sponsored by the Michigan High School Baseball Coach's Association.

The East squad edged the West 3-2 on a dramatic 2-out, 3-run homer in the top of the ninth off the bat of Plymouth Salem's Scott Niemiec. Juzysta contributed to the victory by going 1-for-2 and making a catch on the warning track.

Juzysta, a MHSBCA all-stater, gives the most credit for his huge increase in batting average to a new pair of glasses. Last fall the Wolf senior found out he needed glasses while being examined for his football physical.

Juzysta knew he never had a chance to play at Tiger Stadium last year, but this season was different for the bespectacled leftfielder.

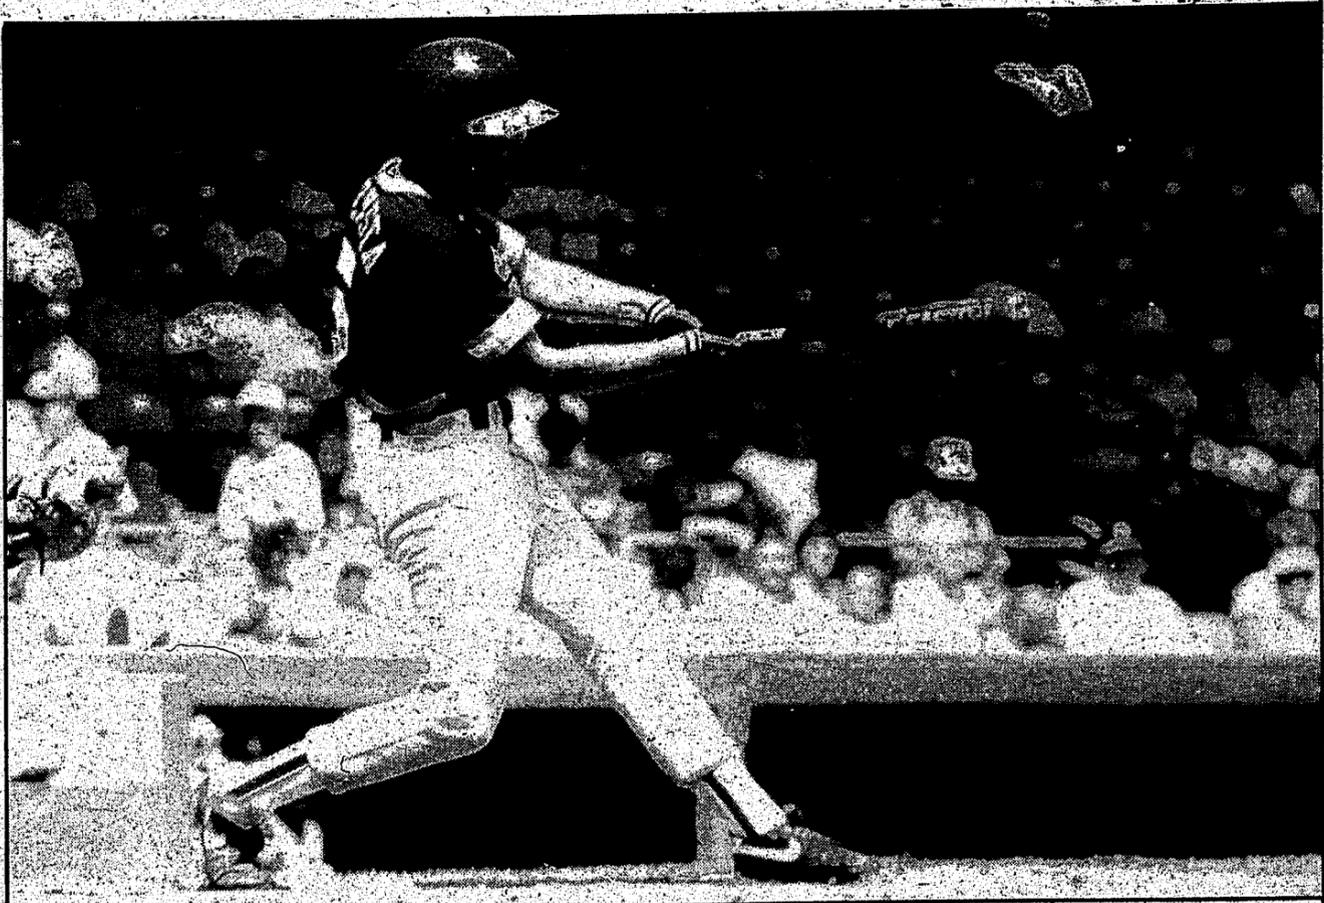

"Midway through the season I was batting .560 or .570, that's when I thought I had a chance," said Juzysta.

That chance became a reality when he received a letter informing him that he made the squad. The senior isn't the only Wolf to ever play in the game. Jeff Tunge, who broke the consecutive-game hitting streak record at Oakland University this spring, also played at Tiger Stadium a few years ago.

The night before the game, the players were treated to a dinner honoring them and coaches selected into the MHSBCA hall of fame. The players stayed overnight in a Roseville hotel. Juzysta's roommates were James Lopiccio of DeLaSalle Collegiate, Makoto Iwata (a Japanese foreign exchange student) of Lutheran Westland and Niemiec of Plymouth Salem.

The players didn't take batting practice at Tiger Stadium but did hit in cages the day before.

Juzysta said he was thrilled to play in the historic park on Michigan and Trumbull in Detroit.

After dressing in the "cramped" visitors' locker room, Juzysta said he especially enjoyed seeing how far the upper-deck overhang hung in right field and thought about how the corner in rightfield was altered to prevent Al Kaline from being injured while chasing foul balls.

Juzysta also thought about Kaline before he went up to bat.

He said to himself, "If I strike out, I'll strike out in the same place Kaline or Cecil (Fielder) have struck out."

Juzysta did strike out his second time at bat, but his first time up in the fourth was a different story. That's when he singled up the middle for the East team's first hit of the game.

"It's something I'll remember for the rest of my life," said Juzysta, who also made a nice catch in the leftfield corner later in the game. The catch and the hit were witnessed by his parents, Cindy and Raymond Juzysta, and Clarkston manager Roy "Pops" Warner.

Juzysta also will remember at least two other hits in the game.

One was a long homer by the West squad's Jason Lecronier. The Bay City Central outfielder broke a scoreless game by hitting a shot that nearly traveled over the roof in rightfield, landing in the vacant press boxes just below the roof.

The other hit was roommate Niemiec's game-winning homer. Niemiec was named the East team's MVP after the game and Lecronier received the honor for the West.

Juzysta, who had a 3.81 G.P.A. at Clarkston High School, will be studying engineering at the University of Michigan this fall.

He hopes Wolverine baseball manager Bill Freehan will take a look at him as a possible walk-on.

Whether he makes the team or not, Juzysta will always share something in common with Freehan, Kaline, Fielder, Babe Ruth, Ty Cobb and other major league greats.

They all played at Tiger Stadium.

Put me in coach, I'm ready to play ... centerfield

Dr. Bob Burek, principal of Clarkston High School, knows how Kevin Juzysta felt when the Clarkston graduate played at Tiger Stadium.

In the late '50s, Burek was an American Legion East All-Star centerfielder who played on the corner of Michigan and Trumbull in Detroit.

"It was a tremendous thrill to play there," said Burek. Tiger Stadium at that time was called Briggs Stadium.

Burek, who starred at Grand Blanc High School and later played at Central Michigan University, went 2-for-4 at the plate.

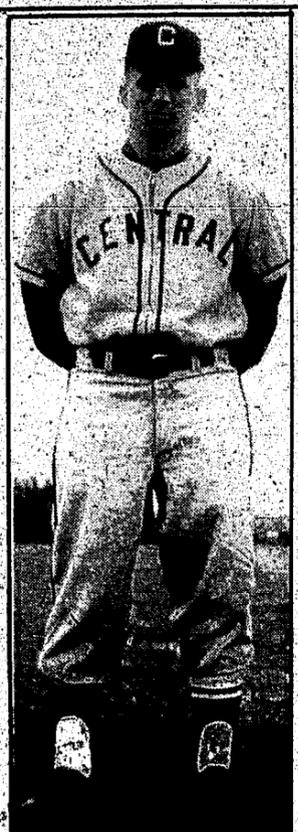

He played alongside a strong leftfielder. "At that time, I didn't know who he was. I just knew his name was Willie," said Burek.

Willie turned out to be Willie Horton, who would later play leftfield for the Detroit Tigers. Horton, who played at Detroit Northwestern High School, had plenty of power as a teenager.

Burek said Horton smacked a home run off the facing of the upperdeck in left centerfield during the all-star game.

Burek said he will never forget his experiences at the all-star game.

And he won't forget to give Kevin Juzysta a call and congratulate him for playing in this year's all-star game.

PRINCIPAL Bob Burek during his playing days at CMU.

TIGERS and Royals will soon be in Detroit, but leftfield, for the moment, was Kevin Juzysta's.

No standings, but plenty of action for youth teams

While most Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department softball teams and all volleyball teams have their league standings published weekly in the Clarkston News, some leagues purposely do not keep track of wins and losses. Those teams without the W's and L's, and their sponsors are:

Swinging from the Heels

One-in-a-row

James
Gibowski

Once again, Bill Holka has added some memories to my life. I hadn't seen him for over 10 years, but he sure left another impression a few days ago.

On Sunday, I witnessed my first hole-in-one as Bill, using a 9-iron, aced the par-3, ninth hole at the Bay County Golf Course in Bay City.

Bill's father, Ernie, and my brother-in-law Jerry Briggs were the other two members of our foursome. Briggs shot a 41, the two Holkas shot 43s and I (my first time out this year) shot a 47.

Bill, whose mother also once sank a hole-in-one, said he saw the ball take one bounce into the hole after teeing off. I was the first one to the green and sure enough, a Top-Flite was resting safely in the hole.

This was our most recent meeting, but Bill and I first met (it's hard to believe) 33 years ago while walking home from kindergarten. One day we figured out that since we both took the same route on 19th Street in Bay City, we might as well start walking together.

From about kindergarten through sixth grade, I considered Bill my best friend. I remember often going over to his house to play with a space station and rockets. Star Wars was still nearly 20 years away, but we had John Glenn to bolster our imagination.

I'll never forget one afternoon at Bill's house. We had a day off from school in the fifth grade. While we were playing hockey (similar to the Foose ball style game) in the basement, Bill's mother, Alice, walked downstairs and told us the president had been shot.

We didn't believe her. But when we went upstairs and watched television, we couldn't escape the truth. I still remember David Brinkley and Chet Huntley announcing that President Kennedy was dead.

That was a sad time, but it was also a happy time. Bill's dad became the coach of the fifth and sixth grade St. Stan's basketball team. Bill and I played on that team and ended up playing together all the way through our senior year in high school.

It was Bill's dad who helped teach us how to dribble with both hands by blindfolding us in drills so we couldn't look at the ball. I'd love to have a video (or an 8mm movie) of us crashing into the bleachers while groping for the ball.

Bill and I also spent much time shooting hoops at his place during the off-season. When we would have a contest on the number of straight baskets we could make, we used to think it was so funny when Bill would say he made "one-in-a-row."

Bill and I began to hang around with a different group of friends when we entered the seventh grade. One reason for this change was English Leather.

As far as I remember, Bill and his new friend, Dave Sliwinski, were the first seventh graders to wear cologne.

So while Bill started to spend more of his extra time chasing girls, I continued to spend it chasing fly balls.

We still saw each other on the court during basketball seasons from seventh through 12th grade, but it wasn't like the ol' days.

And then after graduating from Bay City All Saints, we rarely saw each other. After college, I spent much of my time teaching in the Pacific Northwest while Bill began working for Detroit Edison. We both got married. He has a wife and two children and I'm divorced.

Now, I usually see Bill only at our high school reunions.

Or on a Sunday afternoon at a golf course.

Bill, it was nice seeing you make "one-in-a-row" again.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

"Let's discuss your Career In Real Estate Sales"

WHICH IMPROVEMENTS MAKE SENSE?

QUESTION: How prudent do you think it is to make MAJOR improvements in a home that will shortly be put up for sale?

ANSWER: Seldom do such improvements bring more than fifty cents on the dollar. And all bets are off if you overvalue your house in relation to others in the neighborhood. Few buyers will spend $100,000 for a house in a $50,000 neighborhood.

Adding an extra bedroom or in-ground pool will increase the value of your home-but only at a fraction of the cost. The only money you should spend on a house to sell it at a higher price is on repairs that are OBVIOUSLY NEEDED to put your best foot forward.

OVERIMPROVING A HOME just prior to selling will lessen your profit.

THIS clown attracts a crowd of followers as she gives candy to youngsters along the parade route, enthraling them with her huge glasses and feet. By some estimates, about 10,000 spectators filled the streets of Clarkston for the annual Fourth of July parade, sponsored by the Independence Township Fire Department.

Carpenter ants can damage homes

A pile of sawdust on the basement floor or a stream of large, black ants across the kitchen are pretty good indications that you've been invaded by carpenter ants.

These ants get their name from their habit of hollowing out wood for their nests. Unlike termites, which feed on the wood, the ants just tunnel in it.

Gary Dunn, Michigan State University entomologist, says carpenter ants found foraging for food in the home may or may not be nesting in the home itself. In either case, you need to find the nest to control the ants.

"Look for a pile of sawdust to locate the nest entrance," Dunn advises. "Worker ants leave the nest to forage for food, so watching them may lead you to the nest opening. It may be indoors, in structural lumber or hollow doors, or outdoors in woodpiles, hollow trees, rotting stumps, fence posts or other wood components of the landscape."

The ants keep occupied nest galleries clean, so the entrance to a nest is usually marked by a pile of sawdust and other nest debris, such as dead ants, parts of other insects and remnants of other foods they ate.

Once you find the entrance, use a dust formulation of an insecticide containing 5 percent carbaryl (Sevin) to treat the nest. Use a hand duster or a plastic squeeze bottle to inject the dust.

Carpenter ants most often attack wood that's already weakened by rot or that's been hollowed out by termites.

If you can't find the nest entrance, spray the infested area with an insecticide labeled for ant control. This will control the foraging workers. Repeated treatments may be necessary to continue to kill the foragers so that, eventually, the whole colony dies from lack of food.

Carpenter ants most often attack wood that's already weakened by rot or that's been hollowed out by termites. They may move from decayed wood to sound lumber as they increase the size of the nest. Any leads that bring water into contact with wood create conditions attractive to carpenter ants, Dunn points out. Repairing leaking roofs, gutters and water pipes will prevent structural damage from decay and decrease the likelihood of damage by carpenter ants.

Storing firewood up off the ground at some distance from the house, storing only enough for one heating season and bringing into the house only enough wood for a few days' burning can also reduce the chances of an ant invasion.

Pet of the Week

DUFFY is a 2-year-old collie in search of a new home.

Darling Duffy

Duffy is a big bundle of energy and he's looking for a home.

This 2-year-old collie weighs 77 pounds and is reportedly housebroken. He is good with other pets but not recommended for people with small children, due to his size.

His adoption fee is $77, which includes the cost of neutering.

To see Duffy, visit the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Road, Rochester Hills, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Calling all actors

Aspiring actors and actresses have a chance at stardom — at least in the Clarkston area.

Open auditions for the Clarkston Village Players' production of the comedy "The Foreigner" by Larry Shue are set for 7:30 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, July 22 and 23.

Try-outs take place at the Depot Theater on White Lake Road, Independence Township.

If actors can't make the first two dates, they may try out on Thursday, July 25, instead, said director Dean Vanderkolk.

The play requires five males and two females in ages ranging from early 30s to late 50s.

For more information, call Vanderkolk at 625-4398.

Back in 1910, "caring" meant Pontiac residents raising $25,000 to build "Oakland County's First Hospital" in what was then a village of 5,000 people.

Five years later, caring meant the Oakland County Hospital Association donating the hospital to the thriving industrial center of Pontiac, and Oakland County Hospital became Pontiac City Hospital, which was changed to Pontiac General Hospital in 1931. Today, new communities all over Oakland County look to the same hospital for caring in the 1990's for services such as:

- Complete care for new mothers and babies, including family-centered birthing and northern Oakland County's leading intensive care unit for newborns.
- Satellite centers offering walk-in medical care and diagnostic services.
- Expanded programs in physical rehabilitation, county-wide psychiatric services and cardiac care.
- State-of-the-art laser and outpatient surgery.

With these new "caring" services and a patient base throughout Oakland County, our hospital has earned a new name.

It's a name...and a tradition of caring...of which we can all be proud. Come see for yourself as we celebrate at a special ceremony

St. Daniel raises $1,649 for Lighthouse North

A Spring Regatta benefit buffet dinner and concert raised $1,649.37 for Lighthouse North recently. Monsignor Robert Humitz, pastor of St. Daniel Catholic Church, Clarkston, presented the check June 28 to Sherry Kaars, director of Lighthouse North.

Organized by Gary Mitchell and lots of volunteers, the May 4 Spring Regatta at the St. Daniel Cushing Center included a concert with Fossum Corner's Modesty Forbids, which includes parishioner Michael Baker. Mitchell said he became involved in the fund-raiser after he noted "an apathetic indifference the town has to the less fortunate."

"I was surprised that there wasn't an awareness of the indigent in our own community," he said. Kaars said the donation would help offset the increasing program costs at Lighthouse North.

The economic slow-down and the state budget cuts have placed more pressure on agencies such as Lighthouse North, said Kaars.

In 1990, Lighthouse North served 4,322 clients. As of May 31, 1991, the center on Maybee Road, Independence Township, had already seen 4,898 clients.

"Because of groups like St. Daniel's, who do fund-raising projects for services at Lighthouse North, we are able to continue to feed the hungry, clothe the poor, welcome the stranger and give hope to the homeless and discouraged," said Kaars.

"We try to remain hopeful and helpful in these uncertain times," she said, adding that more money is needed to provide the services.

Lighthouse North serves north Oakland County communities.

Golf outing helps in funding SCAMP

Golfers may tee up on Friday, July 19, and help a good cause at the same time.

The fourth annual SCAMP Golf Outing is planned for 8:30 a.m. that day at Spring Lake Country Club, Maybee Road, Independence Township.

Cost for the day is $75.

The outing begins with a shotgun start and includes 18 holes of golf and cart, continental breakfast and an awards dinner with Lewis E. Wint as the master of ceremonies. In addition, Tom Piper of Carl's Golfland will give golf lessons.

Prizes and awards will be presented for lowest scores, longest drives, closest to the pin and many additional games. A hole in one in the second hole nets a 1991 Escort GT. Other prizes include two nights at Shanty Creek Vacation Resort, concert tickets at Pine Knob, tickets for a Michigan State football game and the Fox Theater, 18 holds of golf with cart, and more.

Chaired by Jerry Savoie, the event also is organized with help from committee members Terry Thomas, Dale Stuart and Buck Kopietz. The outing is sponsored by Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

The golf outing is one of three major fund-raising events that benefit Clarkston SCAMP, a five-week summer day camp for north Oakland County children and young adults with special needs. In its 16th year, SCAMP provides 300 campers with academic reinforcement and recreational activities ranging from swimming and music to arts and crafts, field trips and camping.

For more information, contact Bunny Newmarch at 625-3330 or Savoie at 673-8600.

Child care registration

Parents looking for before- and after-school care for their children this fall may want to check into Kids Connection programs.

Offered through Clarkston Community Education, registration is already taking place for the before- and after-school program for children of working parents or parents who attend school.

Community education offers child care in every elementary building in the Clarkston school district.

Also available are programs for kindergartners for the half day they are not in school.

Spaces fill up quickly, so parents are advised to register by early August. For more information, call 674-3141.

SEVEN women provide the parade with its biggest flag July 4. They are all members of the Fawcett family, who live in the Clarkston, Waterford and Birmingham areas. When comprised, they are known as "The Living Flag."

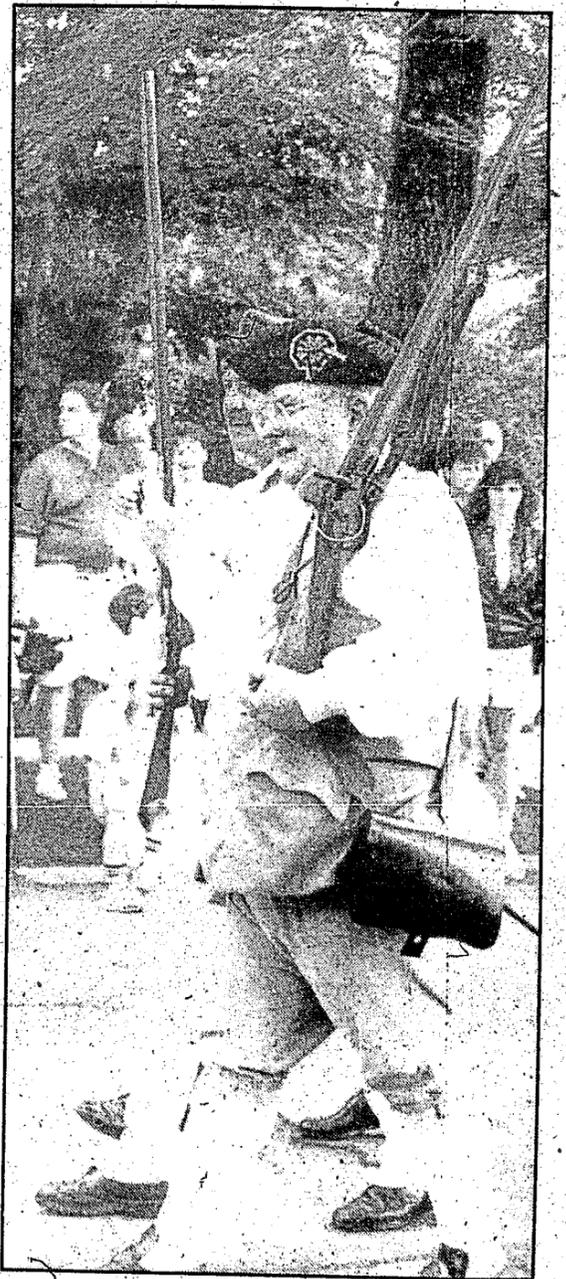

CEDAR CREST Academy provides spectators with a collage of Americana last week. The float received the Judges' Award for adhering to the parade's patriotic flavor. The private Springfield Township school received $50 as an award.

JOANKOPIETZ, owner of Tierra's, rides atop a float promoting Moonlight Madness. The event — with entertainment and activities — will be held July 12 and 13, with many of the downtown businesses staying open until midnight on Friday.

Whatta bang!

THESE two men, dressed in revolutionary garb, are part of a five-person group known as the Detroit Militia-1776. During the parade in downtown Clarkston last Thursday, they took turns firing muskets into the air.
