Final free concert

The season's final free concert in Clarkston's Depot Park takes place 7-9 p.m. Friday, July 26.

The Metropolitan Jazz Orchestra includes 17-18 of the Detroit area's finest musicians. The group plays big band standards and contemporary jazz from Glen Miller, Count Basie, Frank Sinatra, Maynard Ferguson and Spiro Gyra.

Selling snacks at this week's concert is Light-house North, a non-profit organization on Maybee Road, Independence Township, which helps feed and clothe the needy in the north Oakland County area.

This and the previous four free concerts were sponsored by the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce and First of America Bank; however, donations still are accepted to help pay the expenses. Send donations to: Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce, Concert Fund, 5897 Dixie Highway, Clarkston, MI 48346.

Absentee ballots available

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

If you can't make it to the polls for the Aug. 6 parks and recreation millage election, there's still time to fill out an absentee ballot.

The Independence Township Clerk's office is presently distributing absentee ballots to all registered voters.

At the election, voters will be asked to approve one mill for five years to pay for the maintenance of Clintonwood Park and its senior center on Clarkston Road; Sashabaw Plains Park on Maybee Road; and Deer Lake Beach on White Lake Road.

The operating millage would allow township general fund money normally set aside for the parks to be allocated toward the restoration of Baycourt Park on Andersonville Road.

If a one-mill request is approved by voters, residents would be required to pay the township $1 for every $1,000 in assessed property valuation each year.

That means a homeowner with a $100,000 home assessed at half its market value ($50,000) would pay $50 a year to the township for parks and recreation operations.

The deadline for absentee ballots to be mailed is Saturday, Aug. 3, at 2 p.m. However, those qualified to vote absentee may vote in the clerk's office until 4 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 5.

In order to vote absentee, you must qualify under one of the following conditions.

■ A person expects to be absent from the community in which he or she is registered for the entire time the polls are open on election day.

■ An individual is physically unable to attend the polls without the assistance of another.

■ A person cannot attend the polls because of the tenets of his religion.

■ An individual has been appointed an election precinct inspector in a precinct other than where he resides.

■ The individual is 60 years of age or older.

■ The person cannot attend the polls because he is incarcerated in jail.

For more information on absentee ballots, call the clerk's office at 625-5111.

Village opposes House bill controlling wetlands

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Wetlands, so far, fall under the jurisdiction of local government.

And the Clarkston Village Council wants to keep it that way.

This desire for continued local control prompted the council to vote 6-0 on a resolution opposing a Michigan House bill that would amend the existing Goemaere-Anderson Wetland Protection Act.

The resolution will be mailed to Gov. John Engler, state Rep. David Honigman (R-West Bloomfield), all state senators and some other municipal officials.

The proposed House Bill No. 6208, introduced on Nov. 8, 1990, by Rep. Michael Griffen (D-Jackson), would prohibit local units of government from passing regulatory ordinances specifically related to the protection of wetlands, giving that power solely to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

Members of the council voiced their concern about the DNR's ability to regulate wetlands, citing recent budget cuts in the DNR and its heavy bureaucracy.

That concern is listed in the council's resolution (with that part of the resolution even printed in bold face type), stating, "WHEREAS, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources has recently experienced severe budget reductions and does not contain the resources necessary to assure the protection of the Village's lakes, streams, floodplains, floodways and wetlands."

The resolution states that wetlands throughout the country are "disappearing at a rapid rate as a result of development."

And it adds, "The President of the United States has pledged there shall be no net loss in the amount of wetlands, and continued and increased local control of wetland regulation will be important to ensure that the President's pledge is a reality."

The council isn't the only local government body in Michigan to be concerned about Griffen's bill. On June 12, the Wetland Review Board of the Charter Township of West Bloomfield also passed a resolution opposing the proposed amendment.

In fact, the Clarkston Village Council copied West Bloomfield's resolution nearly word-for-word.

Hunting recommendations expected soon

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Orion and Independence townships are going to have to wait about two more weeks before they get to review recommendations from a Hunting Area Control Committee (HACC) on hunting conditions around Heather Lake.

According to Sgt. Larry Sargent of the Department of Natural Resources (DNR), the HACC has yet to conduct a field investigation, which is vital in the evaluation process. He said the members of the HACC haven't been able to schedule an investigation because a few of the members have been on vacation.

Sargent said, however, that the townships should be receiving a copy of the HACC's recommendations in two to three weeks.

Once the townships receive the recommendations, it will be up to their executive boards to accept or reject the HACC's solutions.

The controversy around Heather Lake stems from the shooting of geese on the lake last fall. The property is off Clarkston Road and lies in Independence and Orion townships.

Several residents contend that the continuance of hunting endangers homeowners around the lake. Hunting advocates, on the other hand, say the abundance of geese is causing the bacteria levels in the lake to reach hazardous proportions.

A public hearing was held on the issue June 11.

Future plans

THE TOWER has long been the park's predominant feature. Independence Township officials are hoping it will be the symbol of the park's re-emergence.

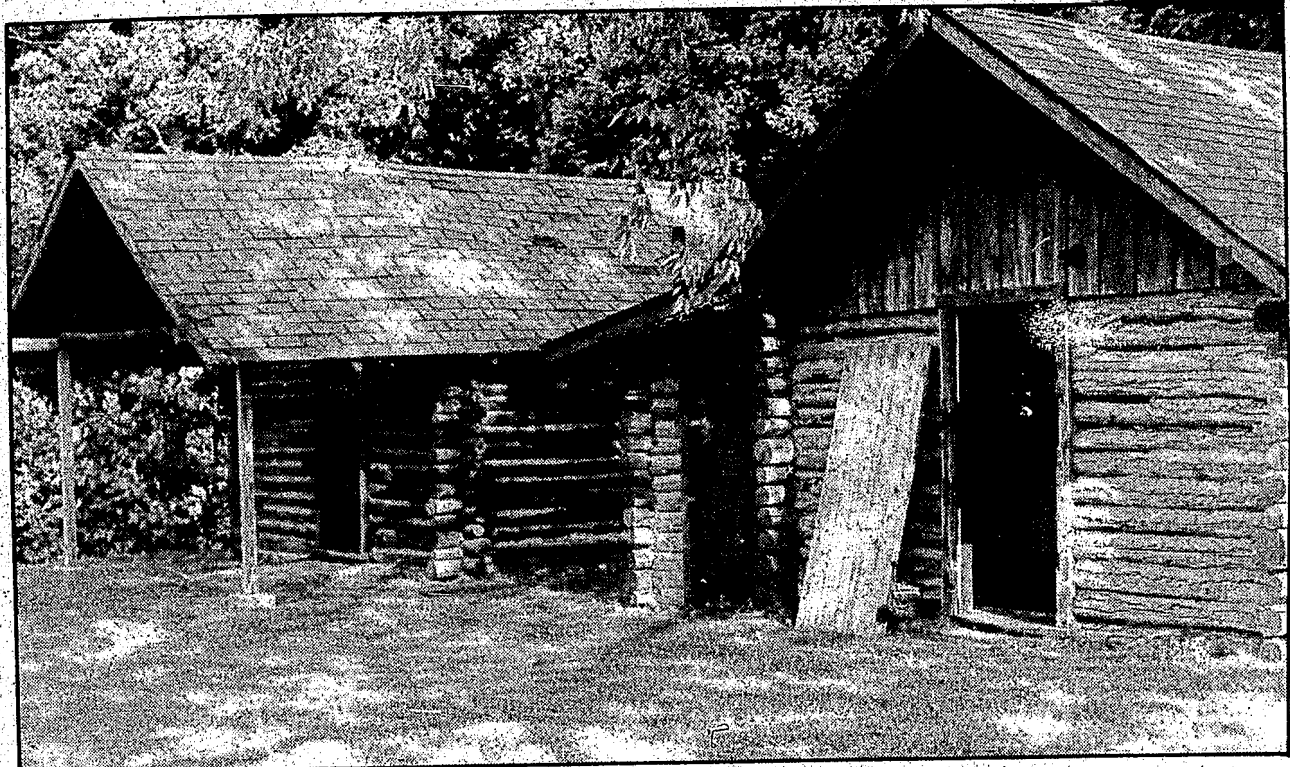

A BEACH has been proposed for Baycourt's waterfront on Greens Lake. The development of the park depends heavily on an Aug. 6 parks and recreation operating millage, which will free up money in the township's future budgets for the renovation of Baycourt.

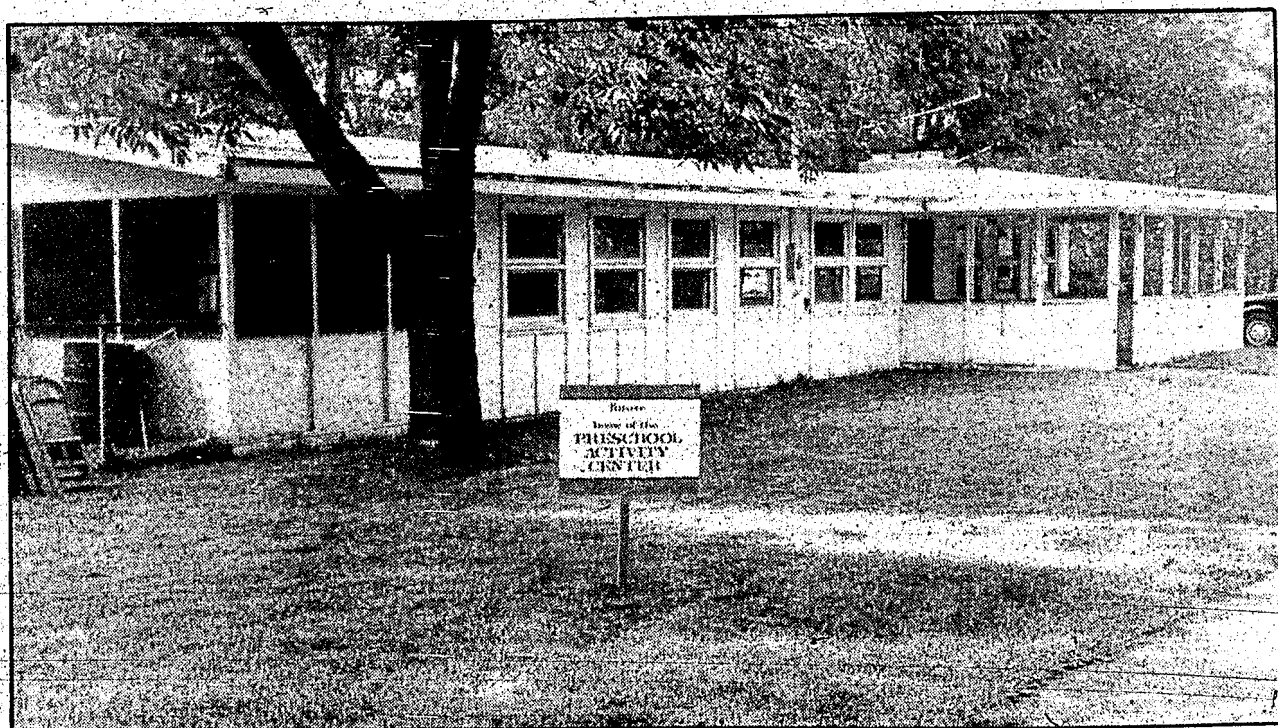

THIS BUILDING has been slated as the new teen center. It will provide the township's teens with a place to hang out and engage in several indoor activities.

THESE cabins haven't been given a defined use yet, but they will be preserved for their historical appeal. When Baycourt was in its heyday, they housed young campers.

THIS VACANT building, near the Andersonville Road entrance, is scheduled to be refurbished as a preschool activity center.

It's one of many buildings at Baycourt to be renovated for a variety of community-related uses.

Party in the park

DANIEL TRAVIS, a member of the Independence Township Board and Planning Commission, was on hand July 17 for an open house at Baycourt Park. The event provided guests with a meal, tours of the park and explanations on what the township intends to do in terms of renovation and refurbishment.

New standards set

Farmers and other large-parcel land owners will have a few extra steps to go through when selling off some of their property in Springfield Township.

The township board voted unanimously July 10 to approve a new ordinance that sets standards and regulations for the division of property.

The "acreage division ordinance," No. 61, sets the standards for division of acreage parcels, which is any parcel of land in Springfield Township that is not located in or part of a recorded plat (subdivision), or a condominium development approved by the township.

Applications will be reviewed and compared to maps and other information available to the township relating to topography, natural resource features, soil suitability for a septic system, soil system, soil surveys, slopes and other factors relevant to the regulations and standards found in the ordinance.

New canvasser named

Cecelia Yarber has been named the newest addition to the Independence Township Board of Canvassers.

On July 2, the township board voted 6-0 to have Yarber replace Ann Conklin, a township department head, on the board of canvassers. Trustee Mel Vaara was absent from the meeting.

A person on the board of canvassers tabulates vote totals in all elections.

Township Clerk Joan McCrary said Yarber is replacing Conklin so the township can have someone outside its offices help tabulate the votes. She said the change was in no way disciplinary.

Since Yarber is taking over Conklin's position, her term will expire on Dec. 31, 1993. Other members of this board include Jeanette Banks, Chris Shull and Nancy Woodruff.

Planners give OK

A 14-lot site condominium project has been given the green light from the Independence Township Planning Commission.

On July 11, the planning commission granted final site plan approval for the South Village Park development. The vote was 4-0, with Harry Mosher, Steven Secatch and Richard Oppmann absent from the meeting.

The 26-acre development will be located north of Andersonville Road, between Clement and Hillcrest roads. The property is multiply zoned with eight acres designated single-family residential and the remaining 18 acres zoned suburban residential.

A site condominium resembles a subdivision, except the homeowners own their own homes and the "building envelope." All the property between the buildings is owned by the condominium association, which is comprised of the homeowners.

Some of the wetlands on the site reportedly contain trash, which will be removed by the developer, Clarkston Land Corp.

The existing wetlands, which make up 60 percent of the western boundary, will be maintained in the future by the condominium association.

DDA expansion covers White Lake Road

The Downtown Development Authority (DDA) has officially added White Lake Road to its boundaries. On July 16, the Independence Township Board voted 6-0 to approve the amended plan. Trustee Jean Saile was absent from the meeting.

The amendment states that the 1 1/2-mile stretch along White Lake Road from Dixie Highway to Andersonville Road be added to the DDA's jurisdiction. The area is primarily industrial in nature.

The DDA was created about five years ago to improve landscaping, lighting, water and sewer along parts of Dixie Highway and M-15.

Funding for the DDA comes from tax increment financing, which captures "excess" taxes from a base year and returns them for use within DDA boundaries.

That money — from within the DDA boundaries only — is used for improvements with the DDA only.

According to township officials, the construction of a 500,000-gallon water tower at the corner of White Lake Road and Dixie Highway will be the first phase of revitalization.

The "spheroid" shaped tower will cost $45,000, which is to be paid from the DDA's budget. It's expected to be completed sometime next spring.

On the breeze

Julie Campe

My first ride in a hot air balloon was highlighted by Ronda Cheever's jump from about 4,000 feet.

By the time we could reach the edge of the basket to take a look, she was already a tiny dot. Minutes seemed to pass. Suddenly, her parachute appeared, and we watched her float gently to the earth.

The sunset jump marked Ronda's 843rd sky-dive, and the Tecumseh resident has over 9 hours of freefall time to her credit.

I'll admit, after her jump, the rest of the balloon ride was anti-climatic, though still wonderful.

With the ascent in Capt. Stan Tokarski's blue and gold Entre Computer Center balloon on Saturday, July 20, we left behind the sweltering above-90 temperatures. The temperature cools about 3 degrees per thousand feet, said Capt. Stan.

A Kalamazoo resident, Stan — a part-owner of an Entre Computer Center — has been ballooning for three years.

It all began at age 14 when he helped tether balloons and at the end of the day got to ride, he said.

He then moved to fixed wing aircraft, building an Ultra Light in his mother's garage. Eventually, ballooning called him, he said.

"They each have their different aspects. This way, you can go low and slow like a bird," he said.

Cost is a problem, he admitted, explaining that his ballooning equipment and trailer cost more than $35,000. Plus, the 18-20 gallons of liquid propane per flight costs about 62 cents per gallon. Then there's the insurance and the $250-$275 annual inspection, not to mention a truck to haul all the equipment.

And the crew! Fortunately, his wife, Sandy, and their friends Carla and Scott Richards follow him around on the ground during balloon flights — in exchange for dinner now and then.

As we rode silently with the wind, we felt no breeze — we were the breeze. Below us, Springfield Township was lost in haze. We spotted I-75 and then Dixie Highway at Davisburg Road. Eventually, we could see Independence Oaks County Park and the Brandon Township trailer park northeast of it.

We flew low and slow above the tree tops, causing dogs to bark and run crazily about. Capt. Stan explained that when he shoots propane into the balloon, a sound is emitted that is out of humans' hearing range but is very loud to dogs.

Horses, too looked up from their grazing, as did children and adults.

Children in a backyard swimming pool squealed, "Over here, over here!" and then waved wildly.

Residents looked up from their gardening and watering and smiled and waved. Some even conversed: "How's the weather up there?" or "Hello! How are you?"

The balloon basket touched the tops of some towering oak trees, giving us an idea of what birds must see before they land. What a view!

Eventually, we spotted a large open area in which to land — turned out to be Eileen D'Anna's home on Perry Lake Road. We soon met Eileen's family as well as neighbors Will and Shelia Rymer and Nina Flanigan and Joe Cook.

Capt. Stan tethered the balloon and took them all up for short up & down rides and then shared the sparkling grape juice with the group.

"It's people like you who make ballooning possible," he said, toasting them after saying the balloonists' prayer.

After that, the crew quickly gathered the equipment, and we returned — by roads this time — to Springfield Oaks County Park.

Letters to the Editor

Independence time

This letter is a response to township attorney Mr. Gerald Fisher.

It seems that Mr. Fisher is disappointed in the village's request for cityhood.

He states that, "We have to ask ourselves if we're going to allow charter townships to gradually grow and mature as integrated units or have them segmented along the way."

I'm sorry to say, sir, that your interpretation of "gradual" growth is quite distorted. I have been a witness to a significant increase in traffic past my house on Holcomb Street as a result of the many new shopping malls in the area.

I have watched my taxes increase 121 percent in the past five years even though these big malls have added to our tax base.

So you see, sir, my analysis of this situation is quite simple. The Township of Independence has already turned this village into a city.

Now the Village of Clarkston wants its own independence.

John Rogers

Downtown tainted

My wife and I looked forward to the concert in Depot Park and Midnight Madness.

We arrived early so we could stroll main street, shop and enjoy the festive mood.

The last stop on our stroll was a Main Street store, where in the last year my family has spent somewhere around $800 on everything from socks to a Clarkston High School varsity Jacket, most of which was for my teen-age student daughters.

While browsing in the store, I noticed a sign that could only be described as a very bitter warning. It read: "No Students allowed in this part of the Store! Those who do will be permanently banned from the store! This will be police enforced!"

As I read the sign the owner of store came up behind me and patted me on the shoulder and said, "Don't worry, you can go in there."

I asked him if my student daughters were welcome in there, and he told me that he would take down the sign when they stopped stealing from him!

Who? My daughters? Other students? If he knows who is stealing from him, he should be able to easily prevent its recurring. On the other hand, maybe it's not the students. Maybe it's his own employees or maybe some sweet looking old lady, or anybody.

At any rate I'm proud to say my daughters, as are an overwhelming majority of Clarkston kids, honest and trustworthy.

They are offended as am I by the blanket prejudice at this store.

Unfortunately, it's somewhat tainted downtown for us, and we'll probably tend to stay away. I wonder if other people will or have reacted like myself.

I hope it doesn't hurt the special merchants such as the book store and many more.

One thing for sure: if I were a Clarkston student, I would find another place where I was welcome to supply my needs.

Scouting: Sweaty boys, backpacks

On July 16 our Boy Scout Troop 189 of Clarkston left for Philmont Scout Ranch. Philmont is located in the Sangre de Cristo (Blood of Christ) range in the Rocky Mountains of northeastern New Mexico.

With the itinerary we have planned, we will be covering a rugged 53 miles. This will give us 12 days on the trail. Just a bunch of sweaty boys and their backpacks. Maybe a burro, I don't know.

During this time, we are going to be peaking out at about 12,000 feet, and our lowest hike will take us down to about 6,000 feet. All this time we will be in the "thin air," adding extra work to our trek.

During some of the stops we have planned, we will try our hands at rock climbing, fly fishing and panning for gold, just to name a few.

Philmont is also known for its natural beauty and abundant wildlife, such as deer, elk, mountain lion, coyote, antelope, buffalo and beaver.

Our troop has been looking forward to Philmont for a long time, and whenever I ask someone about it, they won't shut up. Philmont will definitely be a rewarding and memorable experience for years to come.

Jim's Jottings

Just jotting

Hope you can't remember our writing this one in 1973. I haven't gone far, and not for very long.

One of the copouts in the rearing of children has traditionally been the "if . . . then" technique of simple logic.

Every mother used it many times and for different reasons but it was over-simplification. Some of Mother's "if . . . then" uses went like this:

"If you can play all afternoon, then you can find strength enough to take the trash out tonight."

"If you can find time to read that comic book, then you can find time to do your homework."

"If you can eat 3 candy bars in the afternoon, then you can certainly clean up that spinach on your plate now."

And so it went in the if-then world of the child.

But then came the realization finally that the if-then technique wasn't so much logic as it was a subterfuge for getting a child to do something desired by Mother.

Unfortunately this over-simplified logic still exists. How many times have you heard these statements?

"If we can put a man on the moon, then (choose from any number of the following) a. wipe out poverty, b. wipe out war, c. wipe out smog, d. wipe out Democrats, e. do away with all road accidents."

Or there is the atom bomb if-then. If we can build an atom bomb then we can wipe out cancer. If we can build a hydrogen bomb then we can wipe out urban blight.

These are ridiculous conclusions. The if part of the statement hasn't got a blasted thing to do with the then part of the phrase.

Much of today's radio, TV and magazine advertising is based on the same erroneous logic.

If some Cro Magnon throwback who has made it big in crunching quarterbacks or ping pong balls for pay steps in front of the camera or microphone then he is an authority on what kind of tooth paste we should use or what kind of car we should drive, or what kind and where we should apply deodorant.

We are going these days with another if-then combination. If an ex-astronaut says that railroads are doing a great job or the El Buro gasoline is the best buy, then it follows that he knows everything there is to know about railroads and gasoline.

There is a big demand for if-then logic when it comes to fund raising. If you can buy a pack of cigarettes, then you can give to the consolidated gyp fund. If you can afford a bottle of Heartburn beer then you can give to the fund to buy your pastor an erector set.

Frankly, such logic is full of prunes. In fact the if-then theory is what some logicians call an invalid conditional syllogism.

If you understand the last sentence THEN You have got a lot more smarts than I have.

Storm July 7

As you know, on a quiet Sunday evening, about 8 p.m., all hell broke loose in and around Independence Township. It was a most trying time for most of the residents in this area.

Even though emotions ran high, as always, the people in this area set aside their own feelings and made it through this most uncomfortable time, which lasted from one to four days, without electricity. I would like to thank all the residents in understanding our problems as well as theirs.

As we are giving thanks, we have a couple of "big ones" that must be mentioned.

Regarding the Detroit Edison Co., I have heard a lot of negatives from the news media and from people on the street. However, Detroit Edison did a whale of a job in getting the electricity restored as quickly as possible.

They brought in crews from out of state as well as out-of-state companies. We in this area are very fortunate to have a supervisor (Mike Darby) who will work as a team with our department to speed up any repairs to be made. A very special thanks to Mike Darby and Detroit Edison Co.

I had made an assessment after taking with my people that approximately 75 percent of our township was going to be without power for three to seven days.

At this time, I contacted superintendent of Clarkston schools, Gary Haner, and his assistant, Mel Vaara, to open up Sashabaw Jr. High School as a center for bathroom facilities, including showers, and kitchen facilities for the American Red Cross to serve lunches and dinners.

We also used this facility as a pickup for dry ice and drinking water. Mr. Haner and Mr. Vaara were fully receptive in my request, not only for the use of building but also for the much appreciated help of the custodians.

I did not have time to work closely with the American Red Cross, but, as usual, when needed they moved in and did a fine job. Thank you, American Red Cross.

I want to apologize to the SCAMP organization for interrupting its daily routine at Sashabaw Jr. High School. They knew the need for us to be there and worked around us, thanks to Becky Craig.

The Independence substation of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department also deserves thanks for its cooperation and assistance with streets that were closed and wires that were down.

I would also like to thank the Independence Township Board for its support in any needs I might have called on. It's gratifying knowing we have their support.

Lastly, I would like to thank the employees of this fine fire department for their outstanding job that had to be done. Also, thanks to their wives and families for understanding that the fire department employees must leave them to go help others in need.

What a great place to live!

We write this with great appreciation to the members of the Independence Township Fire Department for all of their hard work and inspiration for participating in the Fourth of July parade.

The businesses looked great. The houses in the village that decorated went all out.

Activities in the park were lots of fun. The downtown restaurants and the farm dairy made lunch festive. What a great place to live!

'If it Fitz . . .'

The jeweler trumps
with his tacky reply

Jim
Fitzgerald

Not modestly, I consider myself a keen, knowing observer of the notable personages and events that impact most importantly on the lives of the type of sophisticated people who use nouns for verbs.

I pay special attention to the wit, wisdom and wanderings of the people most often mentioned prominently in newspapers and on television and radio. As a responsible journalist, I realize the media give the public the news it wants to talk about around water coolers, rather than the news it needs to understand why, many years ago, water coolers were replaced by water fountains.

It isn't always easy keeping important news straight. For instance, I'm embarrassed to admit that for several days I thought Julia Roberts had broken her engagement to The Donald Trump. And that The Marla Maples was a Canadian hockey team.

Fortunately in a checkout line at a boxed-cereal museum, I overheard an intellectual discussion between two homemakers who are employed outside their homes, as porch stoops. They made it clear to me that Julia Roberts decided not to marry The Son of Donald Sutherland, and The Marla Trump, except they've now made up and intend to get married on whatever date is most convenient to The People Magazine.

To seal the deal, Trump gave Maples "an 8-carat emerald-cut diamond set among a row of diamonds," according to the Reuters news service. Which brings me to another embarrassment. Naturally, there has been informed, intellectual, published speculation concerning the price of this multi-diamond ring. And, no matter how long I stand in checkout lines, I can't understand the opinion offered by Ronald Winston, the jeweler who sold the ring to Trump.

In a front page - naturally - article, Ronald Winston was described as "head of Harry Winston Inc., jewelers to the rich and famous." Ronald Winston refused to reveal how many dollars Maples is wearing on her newly engaged finger.

"For her to know this type of information would be like landing on a thumbtack," Winston said.

Why? What does Winston mean? I blush at my ignorance. To save my life, I can't figure out why it would be like landing on a thumbtack for Maples to know the cash value of her ring. My only excuse is I fell behind on my important reading while I was on vacation and didn't get a haircut.

I think of signs warning against wet paint. Some people sit on it anyway, to see if it's really wet, and they're often sorry. Would Maples be sorry to learn that the diamonds were fake and Trump was a big phony, leaving her - and the rest of us - with nothing real to believe in except Michael Jackson?

But why a dinky little thumbtack, which would give Maples only a little scratch? Why not a nail, or spike, and a big scratch? By minimizing the size of the scratcher, was jeweler Winston saying something about the extent of Maples's disappointment, or elation, if she learned the price of the ring?

It perhaps should be noted that Winston didn't say "sitting" on a thumbtack, he said "landing." Generally speaking, beautiful models don't land, airplanes do. A little prick of a thumbtack would hardly cause an airplane tire to deflate. But, on the other hand, models perform on runways.

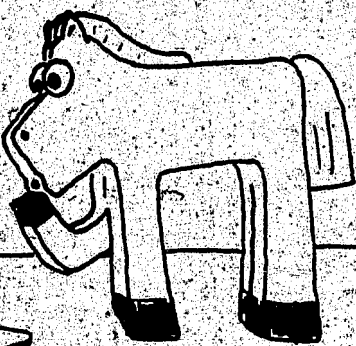

It is a puzzlement. When people, including models, fall, it is said that when they stop falling, they land! They sit on a bench, but they land on a sidewalk. Speaking sophisticatedly, was Winston implying that Maples' fall put her more in danger of landing on a noun than a verb?

I don't know. It makes me feel like a rube boob who never read a front page, but I have to admit I simply don't know why, if Maples knew what The Donald paid for her ring, she would feel like she landed on a thumbtack.

The only good thing I can say about such dumbness is The Detroit Red Wings could maybe beat The Marla Maples.

Alma St. Croix to receive bone marrow transplant from 6-year-old daughter

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

For Alma St. Croix, it's now or never. The former Independence Township resident and mother of three suffers from myelodysplastic syndrome, a leukemic blood disorder.

She has been awaiting a bone marrow transplant, but her condition has worsened so quickly in recent weeks that doctors have decided to attempt a transplant with her 6-year-old daughter, Krisie's, bone marrow, though it is not a perfect match.

The problem, according to Alma's mother-in-law, Tillie, who was appointed family spokesperson, is that Alma's platelets have dropped dangerously low. Without a transplant, doctors predict that Alma will have only three months to live.

So Alma, 32, a Pontiac resident, will be admitted to Harper Hospital on Aug. 5 in preparation for the operation. Her daughter will be admitted Aug. 15 to Children's Hospital. The marrow is to be harvested that day and given to Alma on Aug. 16, if everything goes well.

That's a very big "if," said Tillie.

"They were very blunt with her. They told her she could die on the table," Tillie said.

If everything runs smoothly, Alma will be in the hospital for 100 days. She can wear her own clothing and may watch television and the video cassette recorder. She may also receive mail.

"I sure would like to encourage people to send her cards," said Tillie.

However, Alma can't come in contact with live plants or any type of planter that is likely to have living organisms — such as moss or bark — on it, she said.

Assigned one nurse, Alma must remain free of disease since her body will be void of its own immune system while it's trying to accept Krisie's marrow.

Alma's health insurance company will pay much of the more than $208,000 hospital bill that will be incurred if there are no complications. She and her husband, Jon, will be responsible for $68,000 of that amount, as well as 100 percent of Krisie's bill.

To help defray the cost, Alma's family is raising money to be donated in Alma's name to My Friends Care Leukemia Fund. Money not used to pay Alma's medical expenses will remain with the fund to help other with cancer patients' medical expenses.

So far, the fund-raising is going well, said Tillie. A Fourth of July yard sale up north raised about $2,015, and a yard sale this weekend in Independence Township netted $765.

In addition, a bowlathon has been set for noon to 6 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 3, at Lakewood Lanes on West Huron near Elizabeth Lake Road in Waterford Township. The owner donated all 14 lanes for the fund-raiser, and "They were very blunt with her. They told her she could die on the table."

Bone marrow testing set for Aug. 7

A bone marrow donor drive has been set for Wednesday, Aug. 7, at the Chrysler Training Center at I-696 and Van Dyke in Centerline.

My Friends Care Leukemia Fund is paying for the about $50 blood tests, the results of which will be added to the National Bone Marrow Register, according to Tillie St. Croix of Independence Township, whose daughter-in-law, Alma, is undergoing a bone marrow transplant in August.

Including registration, the test takes about 15 minutes, said Tillie, explaining that a small amount of blood will be drawn and sent to a laboratory, where it will be tested.

"They just want people on the registry," said Tillie, explaining that these tests won't help her daughter-in-law but will help those who need bone marrow transplants in the future.

other businesses in the area donated all sorts of prizes, said Tillie.

Plus, Pine Knob and the Palace have allowed Alma's fund-raising group to run concession stands at the theater and stadium, allowing them to keep 10 percent after taxes.

"It has been amazing what's going on," said Tillie. "It's unbelievable. Everyone is pitching in to do what they can do. ... There's a lot of good people out there."

Woodhull plat OK'd

A one-acre development slated for Woodhull Road received preliminary plat approval from the Independence Township Board.

On July 16, the board voted 6-0 in favor of the proposed Woodhull Lake Meadows. Trustee Jean Saile was absent from the meeting.

The site is zoned single-family residential. The developer, Rick Robinson, intends to subdivide the parcel into four residential lots. The development would be located just south of the Pelton Heights subdivision.

The lots will be 15,000 square feet in size and be serviced by individual water wells.

Final plat approval will come before the board at its next scheduled meeting.

Heavy trucks to be blocked by township ordinance

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

The Independence Township Board hopes an over-weight vehicle ordinance can clear back roads of trucking violators.

On July 16, township trustees voted 6-0 to approve the first reading of an ordinance that could help combat the problem of overloaded trucks bypassing weigh stations on I-75. Trustee Jean Saile was absent.

The board is to consider approving the second reading and adopting the ordinance on Aug. 20.

According to Sgt. Joe Quisenberry of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, a lot of truck drivers traveling with too much weight have been avoiding the township's weigh stations, which are located on I-75. He said these trucks usually take gravel roads, causing potential traffic hazards due to the trucks' size.

The proposed ordinance calls for an Oakland County deputy, with training in weight regulations and scales, to tour secondary roads in search of "backroad runners."

The deputy, who must be in a marked vehicle, has the option of weighing the vehicle with a portable scale or using a stationary scale at the nearest weigh station.

If a vehicle is found to be too heavy, by standards set by the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation, the driver will be issued an appearance ticket. The driver must also make arrangements to lighten the load before he can proceed.

All unloaded materials are the sole responsibility of the owner or driver.

If a vehicle is found to be carrying more than 1,000 pounds over its limit, the company will be fined 3 cents for each pound over the standard. For each additional 1,000 pounds the truck is overweight, the fee per pound is raised by an additional three cents.

The only exception to this rule is when the load is more than 10,000 pounds overweight. Then the owner is fined 20 cents per pound over the limit.

However, the judge at 52nd District Court, Independence Township, will have the final say in the total cost of the fine when the violating company appears in court.

Supervisor Frank Ronk said this ordinance will be an effective way of dealing with violators.

"Once we get a few of these trucks on the side roads, it should stop," Ronk said. "Word of mouth in the trucking industry is quicker than telecommunications."

Heart attack kills teen at Pine Knob

A teen-ager from Milford suffered a heart attack and died at the Pine Knob Music Theater July 15.

Jeffrey Treadway, 19, was pronounced dead at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital after collapsing on the ski hill.

Oakland County Sheriff's Department Sgt. Joe Quisenberry said the teen was apparently walking up the ski hill, directly behind the stage, trying to get a glimpse of the performers near the loading area.

David Lee Roth was the feature attraction that evening.

Treadway reportedly had a history of heart problems and was rushed to POH after suffering a cardiac arrest. He was pronounced dead around 10:30 p.m.

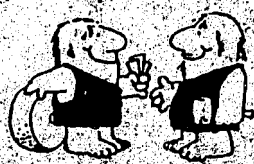

Juveniles arrested in auto crime spree

Three Waterford youths were arrested in connection with auto-break-ins committed Tuesday, July 16.

The three youths were ages 14, 15 and 16; and a warrant was also issued for a 17-year-old Waterford man in connection with the break-ins.

The three youths have been turned over to Oakland County Probate Court with charges pending. They were arrested on Church Street, Independence Township.

According Oakland County Sheriff's Department officials, the youths were linked with at least three crimes in the Clarkston area. But police officials said that if anyone had an auto break-in around the July 16, they should contact the Independence Township substation at 625-8391.

Power company nets OK for Springfield site plan

BY DENNIS V. CARTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It was close, but Consumers Power Co. squeaked by with a site plan approval from the Springfield Township Board.

That means Consumers Power can go ahead with plans to build a 12-foot by 22-foot shelter, a generator, liquid petroleum gas tank and a security fence.

The board voted 4-3 July 10 to approve the project, with a few conditions. Voting yes were: Clerk J. Calvin Walters and trustees Nancy Strole, Margaret Bloom and Dennis Vallad. Voting no were: Supervisor Collin Walls, Treasurer Lois Stiles and Trustee Charles Oaks.

According to Walls, the shelter is to be used to house Consumers Power's radio equipment.

"They need to hook into the radio tower there so they can maintain radio contact with their service people in the field," he said.

The tower, north of Rattalee Lake Road and east of Gibbs Road, is a 280-foot structure owned by Radio Towers, Inc. Consumers Power leases the land from Radio Towers, Inc. The tower is on a hill — one of the highest points in Springfield Township.

According to Joe Smyk, a representative of Consumers Power, all maintenance and problem-solving for the site will be handled by Consumers Power.

After Smyk's presentation, a few residents voiced concern about TV and radio interference — caused by the tower, they said — in addition to microwaves allegedly emitted by equipment on the tower.

But Walls explained that the residents' problems had nothing to do with the site plan for Consumers Power.

"These are problems which occur now and have been occurring in the past. It is an issue to be addressed, but this site plan will not make the problems any better or any worse. They are not an issue as far as what Consumers Power has planned. The tower is owned by another party," Walls said.

Trustee Bloom asked if the site needed a backup generator.

"If there is no backup generator, and we have power outage like we now have, how are planes suppose to see the tower when it doesn't have lights?" she asked.

Smyk, who said Consumers Power does not control the tower but only leases it, said most towers don't have backup generators. However, the Federal Aviation Administration requires all power outages to be reported, so officials know the tower is without lighting. However, the generator to be used by Consumers Power will benefit the tower, he said.

Bloom later asked Smyk if Consumers Power would be willing to chloridate a section of Rattalee Lake Road in front of the site plan area to help control dust on the gravel road.

Smyk said that it was probably illegal for Consumers Power to do anything to a public road but that he would check with the owners of the tower.

After the presentation and discussion, Trustee Strole made a motion to approve the site plan with a few conditions.

The conditions included: installing an alarm recycling system that would stop emitting a sound after a certain amount of time so it would not keep sounding for several days; changing the landscaping plans to show plants 8 feet apart instead of 15 feet apart; and submitting a copy of the 24-hour Consumers Power emergency phone numbers in Jackson to the Springfield Township Fire Department and the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

After the meeting, the dissenting voters explained why they voted against the site plan.

According to Walls, the site plan was the poorest prepared he had ever seen.

"Many of the aspects of the site plan which were asked for were not on the plan. I just didn't feel it met with township requirements," he said.

Stiles also said the plan was poorly prepared.

"I didn't feel it met the basic requirements. I feel we should treat everyone the same, and this plan had inadequacies in the landscaping and just didn't meet requirements the board expects to see from anyone else," she said.

Oaks, who voiced concerns about the exhaust system, also said the plans were poorly prepared.

"I feel they could have used someone local to prepare the plan and had it prepared correctly," he said. "They (Consumers Power) tried to sidestep the board and get approval without presenting the site plan to board. The plan didn't show where the door was going to be, what wattage of the lights were going to be. So I didn't feel the board had the needed information to go by."

Springfield asks for primary election money

The Presidential Preference Primary Election set for March 17, 1992, didn't get any support from the Springfield Township Board.

On July 10, the board unanimously approved a resolution to ask the state Legislature to eliminate the election or to pay the township in advance for its election expenses.

The township asked for $1,000 for each of its four precincts if the Legislature wished to still hold the election. The money would be placed in escrow, with any remaining funds being returned to the state.

The Presidential Preference Primary is to be held for Republican and Democratic party presidential candidates.

The election will determine Michigan's preference for presidential candidates in each party. The election obligates Michigan delegates to support the winning candidates at each political party's national convention held in summer 1992.

Shiawassee project nets $129,000 grant

Families soon will be able to enjoy Shiawassee Basin park in Springfield Township.

The township board unanimously approved a state resolution July 10 that provides a $129,000 state grant for park improvements as long as the township provides $43,000 of that money.

The money will be set aside for engineering and construction of two ball parks and one soccer field and for two parking areas, a large one near the fields and a small one near Eaton Road.

In additions to the fields and parking areas, the 300-acre preserve will sport three trail loops — more than three miles of natural walk paths.

An entrance and picnic area with shelters and comfort stations will also be constructed.

Construction of the project could begin as early as this fall.

ADS AND DISCLOSURE RULE

QUESTION: I understand the truth-in-lending law requires lenders to give customers a plain statement of credit charges involved in any transaction. Does this also apply to real estate advertising?

ANSWER: Yes it does! It has helped clear up many previous misunderstandings when advertisers would mention some, but not all of the financial costs of a property for sale. Remember when ads used to read like this: "FOR SALE-3-bedroom home, only $60,000 with $6,000 down."

Now, if you advertise down payment, you must also state the monthly payment and the interest rate. Tell all or tell nothing!

TRUTH-IN-LENDING law requires specific dollar information when advertising property.

Lion with a message

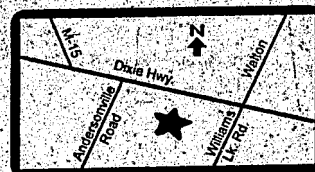

ROB RUBICK, a former tight end with the Detroit Lions, visits Clintonwood Park July 8 to talk with about 20 youngsters. He discussed his days with the Lions, saying no to drugs and the importance of good physical fitness. Since retiring from football, Rubick has turned his attention toward finding a job as an elementary school physical education teacher. Their work full of fun, games — as in video

BY DENNIS V. CARTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

When it comes to video games, you may want help from the master, the Video Game Master, that is.

June 21 marked the opening of a new video game business on Dixie Highway, Waterford Township, for Terri and Jay Taber and Nancy Galbraith.

"It took six months of hard work to get this place off the ground, but so far business has been great," said Terri. "In fact, sometimes it gets really crazy around here."

The store features video games of all types, including Nintendo and Genesis. ourselves and really had a finger in everything that went on," she said.

The store sports graphics of Mario Brothers game characters, and the front desk looks like a Nintendo system.

"This is for the kids," said Terri. "It takes a lot of research to just keep up with these kids. They know what they are talking about, and you need to know what is going on as far as what is popular with kids and how the games are played."

Mitch helps his folks out with this part of the business.

"Mitch is very good at these games. He actually shows some of the other kids how to play the games. We have him try out the games to see if he likes them," said Jay.

The Tabers have been in business before, so they were prepared for the rigors of business ownership.

"We owned a health food store before, so we have idea what being in business is like," said Jay, who holds a full-time job in addition to his duties at the store.

"It can be tough with setbacks, but the rewards are there also," he said.

Video Game Master has one employee, with family members running the store.

"We are basically a family business," said Jay. "The kids are involved as well as my wife, her mother and her sister. We are all still in a learning process, which probably will never end. So far it has been a lot of work, but it has also been a lot of fun."

Which describes some of the video games — a lot of work but a lot of fun.

What's new in business

ing Nintendo and Genesis.

"We have some 400 games now and are adding more almost every day. We also rent out systems to play the games on and sell used game cartridges," she said.

After three months of research, they began the dubious chore of preparing the store for business.

"I have to admit that the actual idea for the store came from our son, Mitch, who is five," she said. "He's been playing video game for about three years, and we found ourselves constantly running to the video store for games."

"One day he suggested that we open our own video game store, so I started to research the idea. I called all the game distributors and they were very helpful in getting us started."

After researching, the trio decided to go for it.

"We hired a designer and decided to locate in the Waterfall Plaza because it has good access, and the people in this area are real nice. We did a lot of the labor on store

Volleyball gold medalist one bad girl

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Phyllis Bradford took a little time off from sports.

"I never touched my shoes for 30 years," said Bradford, who played basketball in her youth. "They were all flaking."

But five years ago at age 63, Bradford laced them up and began competing again, this time in senior sports.

And on July 2, Bradford and her Michigan Bad Girls 65-and-over volleyball teammates won the gold medal at the third U.S. National Senior Sports Classic in Syracuse, N.Y.

Bradford, who is the deputy treasurer of Springfield Township, also plays co-rec softball in Waterford and in 1988 she won the Michigan Senior Olympics free-throw championship by sinking 18 shots in two minutes.

The Michigan women's volleyball team won both games (including a 16-14 second game) against Louisiana in the finals to win the gold (some highlights of the senior sports classic will be aired Aug. 3 at noon on ESPN).

The event, formerly called the Senior Olympics, drew 5,000 competitors

"I never touched

Phyllis Bradford

Two other Clarkston area residents, Leona Reboldt and Betty Wright, also competed.

Another Michigan athlete was Jack McCloskey, the general manager of the Detroit Pistons. He played tennis and was part of a winning 65-and-over basketball team.

"I saw Jack McCloskey," said Bradford, "and he said 'Give my regards to the Bad Girls.'"

McCloskey already knew about Bad Boys, but now he and Michigan's three opponents in the nationals, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Louisiana know about the Bad Girls.

Michigan opened against Ohio on June 29. The Bad Girls were down 14-8 in the first game, but scored eight unanswered points for a 16-14 win. After that, Bradford said the second game "was easy."

Michigan's next opponent, Pennsylvania, had plenty of pre-game publicity, but the Bad Girls crushed the East Coast team on the court.

That pre-game publicity centered on Pennsylvania's 70-year-old triplets, who were featured on Late Night with David Letterman.

"They never returned the ball," said Bradford about the triplets.

Michigan then faced a tough Louisiana squad, dropping both games. But the Bad Girls' overall 4-2 record in games earned them a place in the finals, where they came back and won it all in a rematch against Louisiana.

"I knew we were gonna win," said Bradford, whose team was missing a few key athletes (they were competing in other sports) the first time around against Louisiana.

Bradford said every person on her team got the chance to play, which means a little time was spent on the sidelines.

She said, "It's OK to be on the bench," but added, "I like to play."

Bradford had played bounce volleyball for about five years, but then became interested in the regular-style of volleyball last fall.

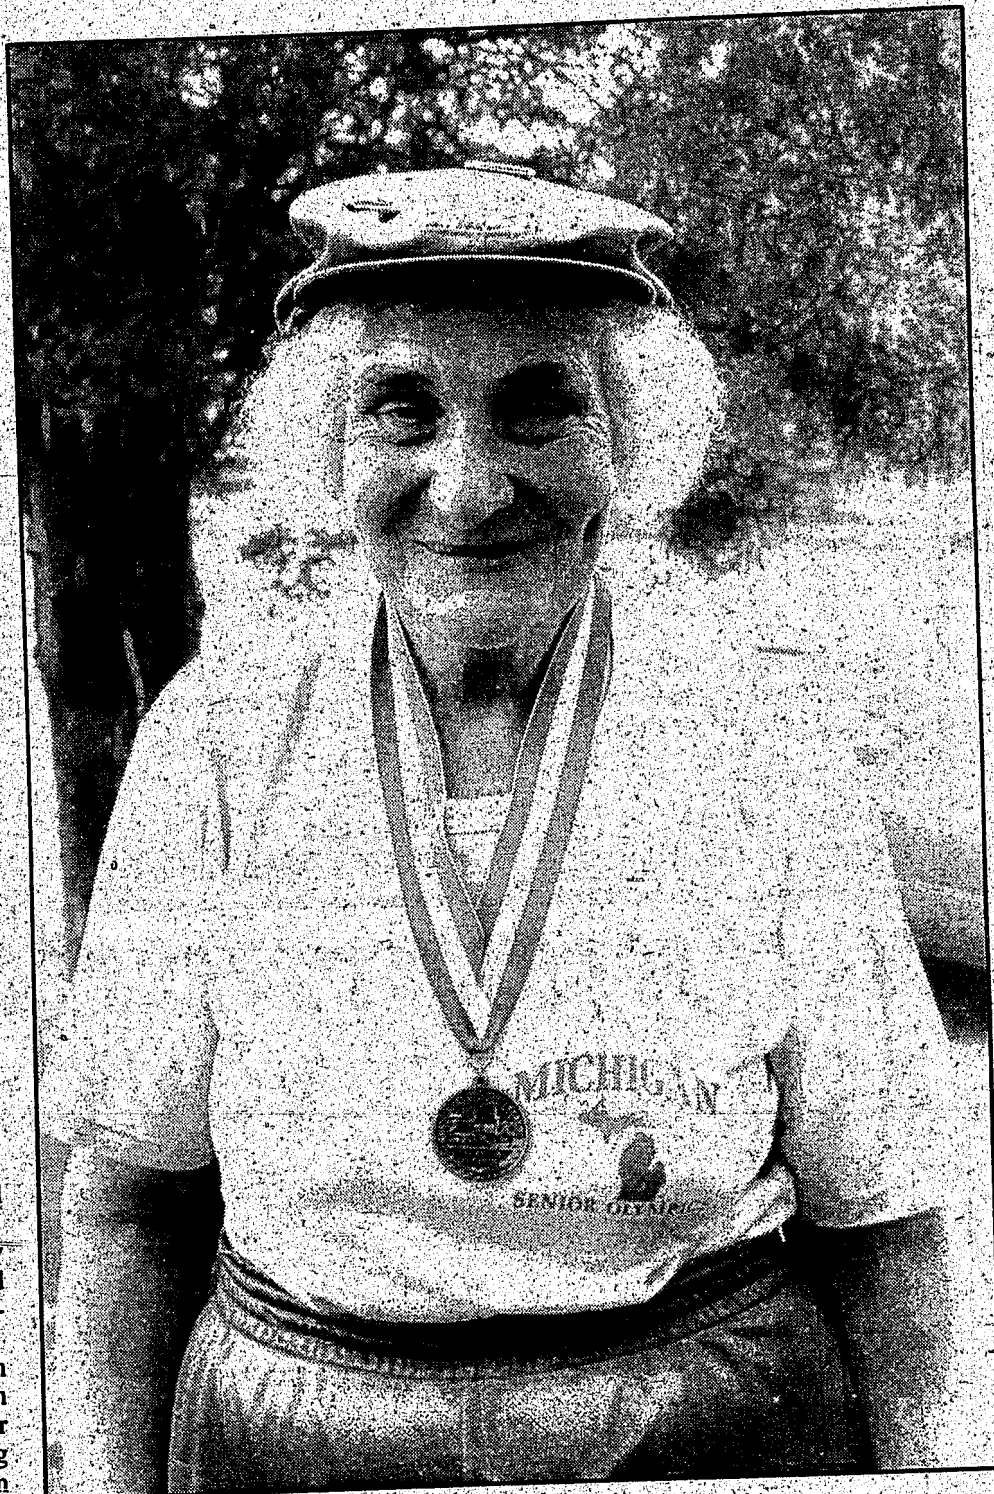

"I never bumped before," said Bradford.

She was introduced to the sport by Bad Girls' teammates Ellen Jones and Virginia Yezbick, who both live in Waterford.

Since last fall, Bradford has been traveling every Sunday to either Dearborn or Warren, where the Bad Girls meet for three-hours of practice. The team, along with a few other different age division squads, is coached by Sandy Vong, Vong, who previously coached University of Michigan men's and women's teams, is currently a technical adviser for the United States Women's Volleyball Team.

Bradford's next volleyball action will be Aug. 10-11 at the state championships.

And after that, Bradford hopes to be competing at the fourth U.S. National Senior

IN less than a year, Phyllis Bradford smoothly made the transition from "bounce volleyball" to power volleyball.

Sports Classic in 1993 at Baton Rouge, La. Bradford said the Louisiana volleyball team, which will have a home-state advantage, is already planning its revenge against Michigan.

But at least between now and the summer of '93, the Bad Girls are the ones wearing gold.

Birdies, pars, even bogies help SCAMP

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

About $6,700 was raised for SCAMP July 19 in the fourth annual SCAMP Golf Outing at Spring Lake Country Club.

The 18-hole best-ball tournament took place on a hot muggy day, with 105 golfers competing in three divisions on the par-72 course.

The foursome of Steve Zurbrick, Eddie Morrow, Tom Zuck and Bob MacMillan won the men's division by firing a 62. Betty Schuster, Connie Keating, Anne Leahy and Pat Pasterz won the women's division with an 82 (winning on a tiebreaker); and Jim Long, Joanne Long, Cathe Feneley and Dirk Feneley captured the mixed division with a 66.

All of the golfers and their team scores were:

Men's Division

(62) Steve Zurbrick, Eddie Morrow, Tom Zuck and Bob MacMillan

(63) David Thomas, John Getzen, Jim Chamberlain and Bill Hartwell

(64) Dale Stuart, John Lutz, Ozzie Jackson and Rick Mini; Dan Angeli, Robert Dedrich, Mark Brzezinski and Bret Merritt,

(65) Mark Postal, Don Frericks, Hoyt Frericks and Tom VanEvery; Chuck Schuster, John Keating, Tim Leahy and Frank Pasterz; John Radenbaugh, J. Mandeville, Steve Schwartz, Denny Evans

(66) Terry Lancaster, Gary Reichard, Mickey Plautz and Mike Leavey

(67) Jerry Savoie, Tom Piper, Tim

(70) Ken Winship and Kevin Winship; Bruce Mercado, Roger Diederich and Matt Cook; Mark Cooper, Buck Clements, Al Keebaugh and Carl Golding

Women's Division

(82) Betty Schuster, Connie Keating, Anne Leahy and Pat Pasterz (won on tiebreaker); Joyce Savoie, Mary Piper, Julie Savoie and Bonnie Lancaster

Mixed Division

(66) Jim Long, Joanne Long, Cathe Feneley and Dirk Feneley

(67) Mike Peters, Mickey Peters, Jim Colbeth and Nancy Felix

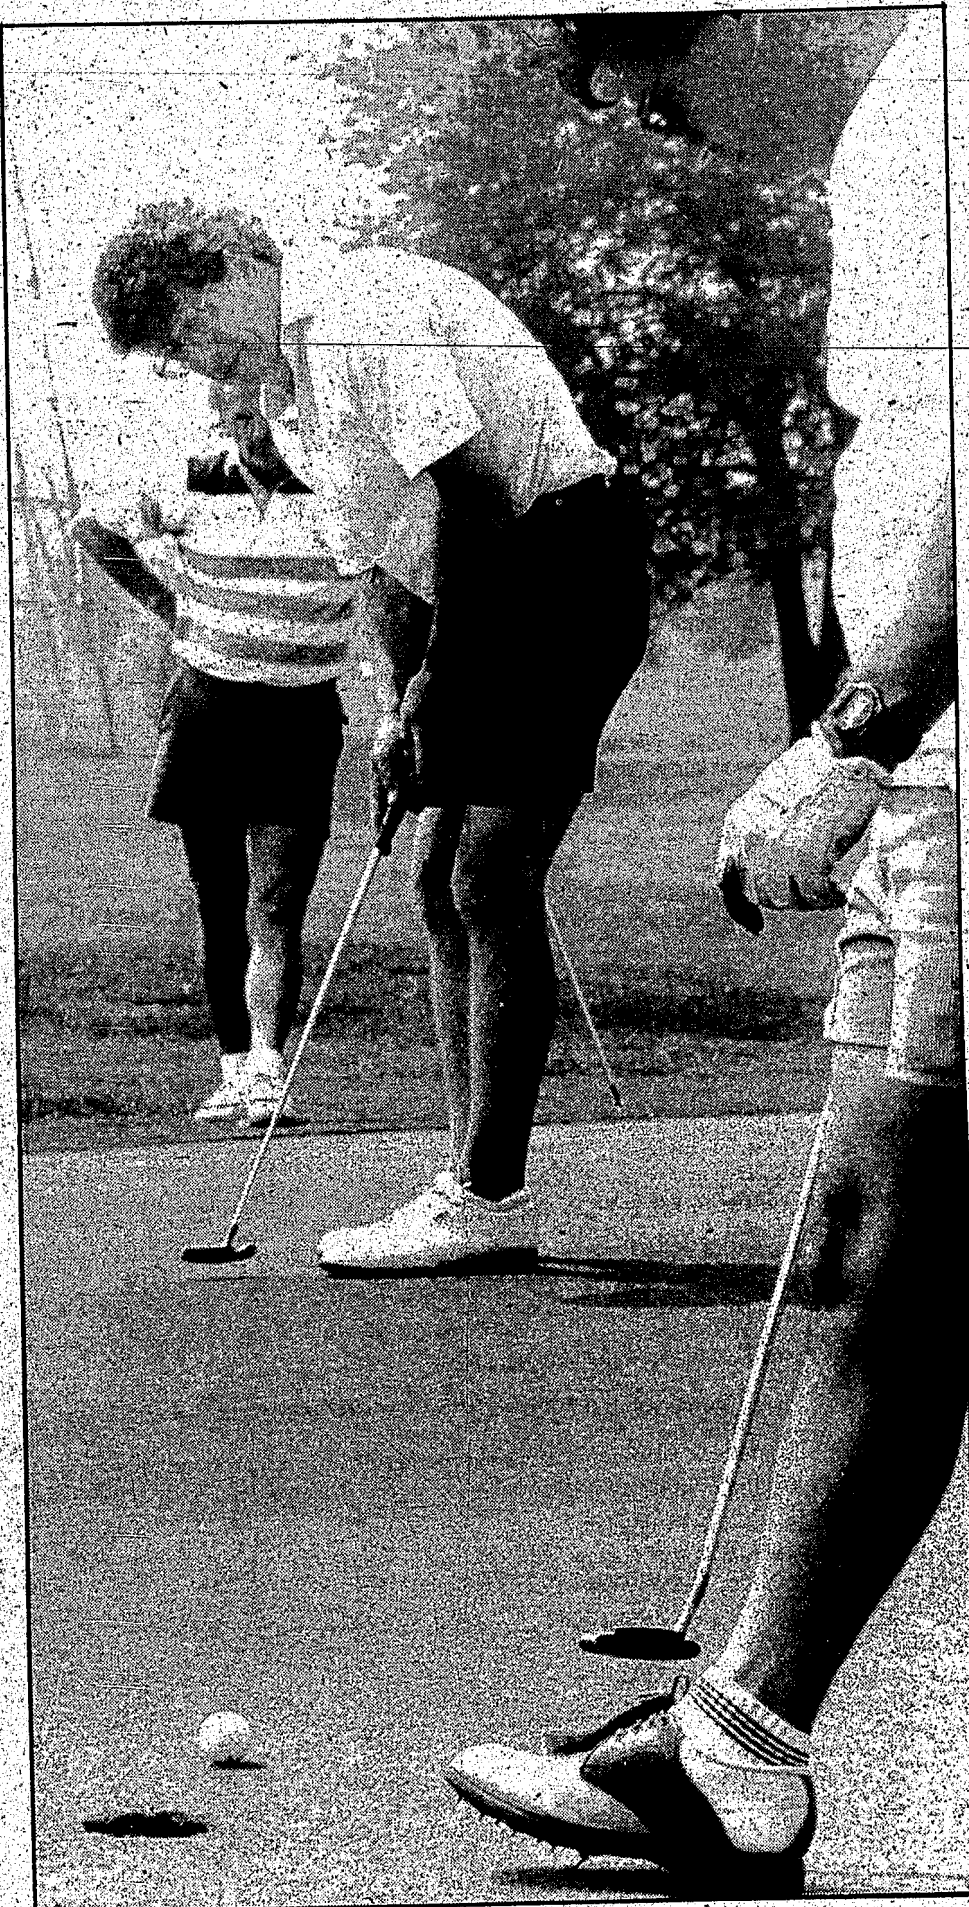

(72) Bob Brumback, Denny Wag-ester, Maureen Ziegler and Jim Tyrrell

(73) Del Lohff, Marian Lohff, William Goga and Carrie Goga

(82) Mark Calcaterra, Kathy Calcaterra, Larry Easterday and Pat Easterday; Lew Wint, Nancy Wint, Bruce Dryer and Beth Dryer

GARY Reichard tees off on a par-3, hoping to sink a hole-in-one and win a new car. None of the 105 golfers were lucky enough to ace the hole.

MIKE Leavey, the last one to putt on this hole, knocks in a birdie as teammate Terry Lancaster anticipates getting the ball out of the hole. This foursome shot a 6-under par 66. The money raised in the tournament will help SCAMP, a five-week summer program for north Oakland County youth with special needs.

Chamber hosts Golf Classic

The Clarkston Chamber of Commerce will be hosting its annual Golf Classic at Pine Knob Golf Course, Tuesday, Aug. 6.

The cost is $125 ($35 for lunch only), with all proceeds of the event applied to chamber-sponsored projects.

Four-player scrambles will play 18 holes (with a cart). There will be two flights and a limit of 36 teams (144 players).

The shotgun start begins 8 a.m.

L. Brooks Patterson will emcee the awards presentation, which follows the lunch and cocktails.

In addition, there will be a continental breakfast from 6:30 a.m. to 7:45 a.m. and beverage carts available on the course.

Players can win a new 1991 car with a hole-in-one. There will also be contests for the closest to the pin and longest drives for men and women.

For more information, call 625-8055.

Swinging from the Heels

Where have you gone Mickey Mantle?

James
Gibowski

*Where have you gone, Joe DiMaggio?
A nation turns its lonely eyes to you,
Wo wo woo,
What's that you say, Mrs. Robinson?
'Joltin' Joe' has left and gone away,
Hey hey hey, hey hey hey.*

Song lyrics are usually about won or lost love but not usually about won or lost sporting events or even love in tennis.

However, there are some songs about sports or sports personalities, including the one above, Paul Simon's "Mrs. Robinson" (which won a Grammy for Song of the Year).

Simon said in a recent interview on "60 Minutes" that when DiMaggio first heard the song, he was a little upset. Simon said the Yankee Clipper said something like, "What do you mean I've gone away? I'm Mr. Coffee, I'm still here ..."

The great DiMaggio knew how to hit in 56 straight games but apparently he doesn't know anything about metaphors.

And besides, Simon, a die-hard Yankee fan, once said that he originally intended to feature Mickey Mantle in the song but "Where have you gone Mic-key Man-tle?" didn't fit the rhyme scheme as well as Joe Di-Mag-gi-o.

Simon wrote a famous song about another sport called "The Boxer."

*In the clearing stands a boxer,
And a fighter by his trade,
And he carries the reminders
Of every glove that laid him down
Or cut him till he cried out
In his anger and his shame
'I am leaving, I am leaving.'
But the fighter still remains.*

Bob Dylan wrote a song about boxing entitled, "Who Killed Davey Moore?"

*Who killed Davey Moore,
Why an' what's the reason for?
'Not I,' says the referee,
'Don't point your finger at me,
I could've stopped it in the eighth
An' maybe kept him from his fate,
But the crowd would've booed, I'm sure,
At not gettin' their money's worth.
It's too bad he had to go,
But there was a pressure on me too, you know.
It wasn't me that made him fall.
No, you can't blame me at all.'*

Billy Joel's song "You're Only Human (Second Wind)" is a statement against suicide and he uses boxing as a simile.

*Just like a boxer in a title fight
You've got to walk in that ring all alone...
...don't forget your second wind.*

OK, some might think Dylan, Simon and Joel are about as old as whoever wrote

Take me out to the ball game, take me out to the crowd

or, You've got to be a football hero, to get along with the beautiful girls

You think only singers from the (Rolling) Stone Age of rock and roll wrote about sports?

Then how about the Pajama Slave Dancers?

*I wanna be a golf pro,
mess with girls,
and make big dough.*

And then there's Run DMC's

*Everywhere I go,
it's Adidas on my feet,
high-top or low.*

Horse racing has made its way into songs. Peter, Paul and Mary sang:

Old Stewball was a race horse.

Dan Fogelberg's Kentucky Derby song "Run for the Roses" was even more popular.

*All the long, lazy mornings in pastures of green,
The sun on your withers, the wind in your mane,
Could never prepare you, for what lay ahead,
The Run for the Roses ...*

The Beach Boys, of course, sang about a water sport, "Surfin' USA":

*Let's go surfin' now,
everybody's learnin' now ...*

Cheech and Chong made sure there was a hoop song, singing "Basketball Jones."

*I sleep with my basketball under my pillow
Maybe that's why I can't sleep at night.*

And how about a little C & W. Who can forget Bobby Bare's song:

Drop kick me Jesus through the goalpost of life

There are two songs written about death, the death of a Cubs' fan and the death of a ballpark.

The last verse in Steve Goodman's "A Dying Cub Fan's Last Request" states:

*Then build a fire with Danley Lumber and Louisville Sluggers and toss my coffin in.
And let the ashes blow in a beautiful snow
from a 30-mile-an-hour southwest wind.
And as my last remains go flying over the left field wall,
I'll bid the Bleacher Bums adieu.
And come to my final resting place out on Waveland Avenue.*

Ol' Blue Eyes, Frank Sinatra, sang the song "There Used to Be a Ballpark," which I think is an ode to New York's old Polo Grounds (Are you listening Tom Monaghan and Bo?):

*Now the children try to find it
And they can't believe their eyes
'cause the old team just isn't playing
And the new team hardly tries
And the sky has got so cloudy
When it used to be so clear
And the summer went so quickly this year
Yes, there used to be a ballpark, right here.*

Detroit Tiger (and soon-to-be Atlanta or Baltimore?) radio broadcaster Ernie Harwell co-wrote a song about 31-game winner Denny McLain in 1968:

*Yes, the fans of Detroit really love him.
Now they never complain.
All of the jeers have turned into cheers
For the Maestro, Denny McLain.*

There's a tradition in basketball about "making one to leave on." Here's one more song to leave on, Billy Joel's "Pressure":

*But here you are, in the ninth,
two men out and three men on,
nowhere to look, but inside,
where we all respond to pressure.*

Runners pass through Clarkston en route to Mackinaw City

Several Clarkston area athletes will be running through their hometown during a three-day, 333-mile relay race to Mackinaw City.

Twenty-seven teams (10 runners per team) will begin running from Novi at 5 a.m. July 26, with the fastest runners expected to enter an exchange point at Depot Park in Clarkston (near the intersection of Depot Road and Main Street) around 7:30 a.m.

Teams are expected from Michigan, Wisconsin, Ohio and Windsor, Ont.

Dr. Michael Hennessy, a Clarkston dentist, will head one of the Michigan teams. Other local runners on that team are Jim Lawson, Paul Van Klaveren and Bill Dickie of the Clarkston area, Steve Mills of Springfield Township, and former Clarkston area resident Ryan Robinson. Others on the team are Steve Elliott of Union Lake, Joe Kalina of Lake Orion, Karry Barnett of Ypsilanti and Jerry Loviska of Flint.

The runners will proceed north after passing through Clarkston and expect to camp near Bay City on Friday night. On Saturday, they expect to run as far as Mio, where they will camp, and then reach Mackinaw City on Sunday afternoon.

Much of the run will through state land and national forests.

4 ball fields coming to Clintonwood Park

If all goes well, Clintonwood Park should have four new ball fields by next spring.

On July 16, the Independence Township Board voted 6-0 to pay $100,000 to improve facilities at the Clarkston Road park. Trustee Jean Saile was absent from the meeting.

The $100,000 represents one-fourth of the total cost of the project. The township recently received a $300,000 grant from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR), which required that the township pay 25 percent of the project cost.

A portion of the township's share was allocated this fiscal year, and the remainder is scheduled to be budgeted next year.

The project will include: the construction of four ball fields for junior baseball and softball; the expansion of the parking lot; and the creation of a building with storage, bathroom and concession facilities.

According to Ann Conklin, director of the parks and recreation department, the township must now seek bids for construction. She estimates the project to be completed by next spring.

Sweet shot

Robert Kloor, who lives on Cameo in Independence Township, sank a hole-in-one May 4 at Atlas Valley Country Club in Grand Blanc.

Kloor fired the ace on the 203-yard eighth hole. The shot entitled Kloor to enter the Drambuie Rusty Nail Hole-in-One Sweepstakes, making him eligible to win the grand prize of a trip to Scotland or numerous second- and third-place prizes.

Back in 1910, "caring" meant Pontiac residents raising $25,000 to build "Oakland County's First Hospital" in what was then a village of 5,000 people.

Five years later, caring meant the Oakland County Hospital Association donating the hospital to the thriving industrial center of Pontiac...and Oakland County Hospital became Pontiac City Hospital, which was changed to Pontiac General Hospital in 1931. Today, new communities all over Oakland County look to the same hospital for caring in the 1990's for services such as:

- Complete care for new mothers and babies, including family-centered birthing and northern Oakland County's leading intensive care unit for newborns.
- Satellite centers offering walk-in medical care and diagnostic services.
- Expanded programs in physical rehabilitation, county-wide psychiatric services and cardiac care.
- State-of-the-art laser and outpatient surgery.

With these new "caring" services and a patient base throughout Oakland County, our hospital has earned a new name.

This multi-faceted, contemporary cross represents the international symbol for compassionate, community-oriented health care. The repeating lines which comprise the cross signify the diversified parts of the North Oakland Medical Center's medical facility with many aspects: affiliates, divisions, services, and organizations all working together for the people of the North Oakland County area.

War not 'fun and games,' says flight nurse

Children could relate when First Lt. Therese Goebel told them she had eaten green eggs for breakfast in the Persian Gulf.

It wasn't exactly the breakfast fare of Dr. Seuss' tale, but pupils at Cedar Crest Academy laughed when they imagined the scene.

Goebel, of Pine Knob Road, Independence Township, was a member of the 45th Aeromedical Evacuation Squadron in the U.S. Air Force Reserves stationed in the United Arab Emirates (UAE) during the Persian Gulf War

"We, the U.S. troops and allied forces, were there to support other less fortunate people."

First LT. Therese Goebel

Desert Storm.

When she returned home to her 1-year-old son, Sean, and husband, Paul, she agreed to go to Show and Tell with Monica Foster, 6, a friend of the family.

So Goebel, with her combat gear and chemical warfare protection gear, spoke to Diane Graves' kindergarten class at Cedar Crest, a private school on Dixie Highway, Springfield Township.

Goebel told the class that she was stationed in UAE for three months. As a tactical (combat) flight nurse, her job was to fly into Saudi Arabia — on C-130 aircraft — to transport patients away from the combat zone.

The pupils' questions ranged from what Goebel ate for breakfast to where she lived.

After answering, Goebel asked the children a few questions, including, "What is war?"

After listening to their definitions, she told them that war is not fun and games but rather the last resort to solving a serious conflict, in this case, in the Middle East.

"We, the U.S. troops and allied forces, were there to support other less fortunate people, the Kuwaitis, and to help prevent further oppression and destruction in Saudi Arabia," she said.

Coping with an economic slump means defense

In tough economic times, financial survival often depends on making the right decisions and avoiding panic responses.

For this reason, the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants recommends that you take defensive measures before you are faced with a financial crisis.

Reduce expenses

Review your expenses to determine where you can cut back. If you have already lost a job, the cuts may have to be deep. But if you are just building a financial cushion, you may be able to make fewer sacrifices. Here are some specific suggestions on how to reduce expenses.

If you and your spouse have separate employer-provided health insurance plans, try eliminating unnecessary duplication in insurance coverage.

You can also save money by increasing the deductible amount on a homeowner's or auto insurance policy.

Next, review your monthly bills for services you do not use—including telephone calling plans or extra cable channels.

Reversing this advice, you might want to check into how certain service plans can help you trim expenses. For example, if you must make a lot of long distance calls, your phone company may be able to suggest a more cost-effective calling plan for you.

CPAs also recommend that you defer such major capital outlays as buying a new car. However, if your job requires use of a car, consider leasing—thereby avoiding the large down payment usually required when purchasing an automobile.

Boost cash reserve

Knowing you have adequate funds to carry you through hard economic times can relieve much anxiety and stress.

Normally, financial experts recommend that your emergency fund cover three to six months of living expenses. As the average length of time it takes to find a new job grows longer, six to nine months of emergency fund would be far safer.

You may be able to build up your emergency fund by stashing raises, bonuses and tax refunds into a specially reserved account.

Reduce credit obligations

You can eliminate or reduce consumer interest (which is no longer deductible) by reducing expenditures and

The general rule is that no more than 15 to 20 percent of your take-home pay should go toward paying off debts other than your mortgage.

paying off all balances monthly. By paying off your debts, you lower monthly payments and save on interest.

The lower your monthly payments, the less you have to worry about. The general rule is that no more than 15 to 20 percent of your take-home pay should go toward paying off debts other than your mortgage. In these uncertain times, less is better.

If you can't meet your monthly payment obligations, don't hide your financial condition from your creditors.

Explain your problem. Offer to make small token payments, and do so immediately to show good faith. If you are having trouble paying a mortgage, make formal arrangements with your lender to delay monthly payments.

Lenders may agree to partial payments and some offer forbearance agreements that allow you to pay nothing or interest only for a few months. When you resume your regular payments, you make up the difference.

For more information on how to cope with hard economic times, contact your CPA.

$609 gives township view of future

BY DENNIS V. CARTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Springfield Township officials are among the growing group of government representatives who are trying to look into the future.

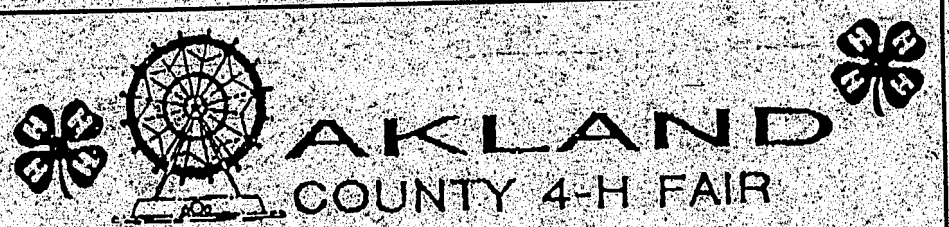

They don't exactly have a crystal ball, but township board members approved $609.62 July 10 to help their prediction process.

The money is the township's share of Oakland County's $175,000 cost for a program called "Vision 2010," designed by a countywide process planning subcommittee.

The program is designed to bolster communication and cooperation in future planning of land development throughout Oakland County, according to Collin Walls, supervisor of Springfield Township.

"The program is an effort to coordinate planning through the year 2010," said Walls. "There are some who want certain areas developed and others who don't want certain areas developed. This program will help everyone be involved in future land development planning."

The Clarkston News

This Schwartzkopf is a she with khaki as her best color

BY DENNIS V. CARTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Quack, quack, quack! General Schwartzkopf comes storming through. Well, not quite.

Actually Schwartzkopf is Brian Caudill's pet duck — one of four he raises as a 4-H project.

Caudill, 9, of Rose Township began raising ducks about two years ago.

"I needed a pet for my 4-H project, so I looked around and decided that ducks would fun," said Caudill, who will enter the fourth grade at Davisburg Elementary this fall.

According to Caudill, who is a member of the Homesteaders 4-H Club in Holly, he spends about 20 to 30 minutes a day with his ducks.

"I play with them a lot, and I also have to feed them and take care of them. Sometimes I spray them with water when it's hot," he said.

According to Jory Caudill, Brian's mother, Brian was only a beginner at last year's fair and received a participation award.

"He (Brian) learned a lot last year at the fair. The judges were very helpful. They help the kids prepare for the next time they will be showing their ducks. They showed him how to hold the duck the right way," she said.

Brian's duck-raising began on a low note when two of his three baby ducks died. Schwartzkopf was the lone survivor.

"There were three eggs. When they hatched, two of them drowned in the pool we had for them. I was really sad at the time, but I still had Schwartzkopf," Brian said.

Another learning experience for Brian was when he had to borrow a male duck to fertilize the eggs.

"We use to eat some of the eggs, but my brother Paul doesn't like them. Later we got a male duck so we could have some baby ducks," he said.

According to Jory, the Caudills have always had animals around.

"I feel it is a good learning experience for the kids," she said. "It teaches them the natural process of life. It shows them the good and bad parts of life."

Brian, who feels he will do well at this year's fair, says his ducks are very tame.

"They come right up and eat out of my hand. If I'm late with their food, they either peck on the back door or sometimes if I'm late they will peck at my feet," Brian said.

Other members of the Homesteaders 4-H Club have also been helpful in the duck-raising.

"I've learned a lot from the other members in my 4-H club. Almost everything I know about ducks has come from advice I've gotten from the other members. Some things I've learned by doing it, but I usually ask other members of club to see what they do," Brian said.

BRIAN CAUDILL, 9, shows off his Schwartzkopf, which is one of four ducks he has raised as his 4-H project.

This year will be only Brian's second shot at showing his Khaki Canvas ducks, but no matter how he places, he has learned responsibly while having a good time.

Girls show bunnies, artwork in fair

BY AMANDA PESKE
Clarkston News Special Writer

The Clarkston Critters, a 4-H club in Independence Township, isn't just for or about animals, said Nancy Doyle, one of the club's co-leaders.

Nancy and her husband, Rick Doyle of Independence Township, have three daughters: Ashley, 5, Jessie, 9, and Kelley, 10.

While the girls raise animals, they also are active in other areas of 4-H, said Nancy.

Each of the Doyle girls plan to enter pictures, poems and stories — as well as their individual rabbits — in the upcoming Oakland County 4-H fair July 29 through Aug. 3 at Springfield Oaks County Park.

Kelley Doyle, a Clarkston Elementary student, plans to enter her English Angora rabbit, Cirrus, in the fair.

Kelley has a goal for this year's fair.

"I would like to improve showmanship with him (Cirrus) and become more involved in 4-H," she said.

She already is becoming more involved by entering not only her critter but a story and a hand-drawn picture.

Kelley's sister Jessie Doyle is entering her Netherland Dwarf rabbit, Smokey, in the fair.

Jessie has been taken with artistry and also is entering one of her drawings in the fair, which should help her prepare for the future. She plans to become an artist and is taking art lessons in the fall, she said.

As for Ashley Doyle, part of the Pee-Wee group (ages 5-8), she will be entering her rabbit, Silver.

Ashley's mother said 4-H is good for all ages — even younger children.

"It gives the younger kids a chance to get to know what it's like going before a judge and explaining what they did," Nancy said.

Though most of the 12 kids in Nancy Doyle and Kim Boose's 4-H club are entering individual projects, they also are entering a group project: a quilt.

Each square on the quilt was made individually by each of the club members. The kids made the quilt squares in a manner that represented themselves in some way.

An addition to these projects, the 4-H club members bring their animals to the Springfield Township Bordine's for a petting zoo every spring Christmas. They have also made baskets for the needy and have made baked goods to sell.

With a small start in September 1989, the Clarkston Critters have become No. 1 as of July 4, when they won first place and a $100 in prize money for their float in Clarkston's Fourth of July parade.

"We didn't know they would get any money, but it's great to put with their fun," Nancy said.

By just handing out fliers to start their 4-H club, Clarkston Critters has grown and lived up to the 4-H logo: "making the best better."

Sisters to display an array of pets, crafts

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

When it comes to 4-H, a pair of Rose Township sisters have proven that they truly are Golden girls.

For the past seven years, Karen and Katy Golden have participated in many facets of the 4-H program. They are both active in their 4-H affiliated group, the Davisburg Busy Bees and Thumpers, which is operated by Mary Keen of Springfield Township.

Seven years ago, Karen and Katy's parents agreed to buy them a rabbit apiece, after the girls attended a fair and fell in love with the fuzzy mammals. Since then, Karen, 15, has obtained 18 more rabbits and Katy, 13, has upped her bunny total to four.

Karen's varieties include mini lops, Netherland dwarfs and one French lop. Katy's rabbits include two mini rex, a harlequin and one Polish, which is a very rare breed.

But rabbits aren't the only 4-H oriented entries the teens are planning for the upcoming Oakland County 4-H Fair.

Since March, the girls have been working on an array of projects in categories such as heritage, foods and nutrition, sewing, crafts and arts, mime and scrapbooks.

In all, Karen will be entering about 45 projects in the upcoming fair. Sister Katy isn't far behind with about 30 projects. Matter of a fact, Katy is most pleased with one of her scrapbooks, which includes 40 letters received from correspondence with U.S. troops during the Persian Gulf War.

The Golden girls are expecting to do well in this year's fair. And they should, considering their past performances.

Both girls' bedrooms are decked out in a collage of ribbons, certificates and trophies from past 4-H competitions. Overall, Karen has racked up more than 200 ribbons and about 25 trophies in the past seven years. Katy has collected more than 100 ribbons and 20 trophies during her 4-H career.

Even though the two are sisters, they have different opinions on the most enjoyable aspect of 4-H events.

"The most enjoyable is when you make your projects and you get to see how it paid off and how good it really is," Katy said.

"I like the competition," Karen said. "You get to see how your projects stack up against other kids your age.

You meet a lot of nice people at these events, too."

Both girls said they intend to stay in 4-H until the maximum age of 19 and be eligible for some of the college scholarships offered to long-time members.

KATY GOLDEN (left) and sister Karen show a few of the rabbits they intend to exhibit at the upcoming Oakland County 4-H Fair in the Springfield Oaks County Park. In seven years, the pair has accumulated over 300 ribbons and 45 trophies. They intend on entering nearly 75 projects between them at this year's fair.

Pierre returns to country market

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

After five years of housing another business, Pierre's Country Market really is Pierre's Country Market again.

On July 1, Jean Pierre Gourand returned to operate the business his parents founded in 1955. In 1986, he leased out the building at the intersection of Sashabaw and Clarkston roads to another family.

Five years later, that family decided not to renew their lease, so Gourand is back in business. Besides operating the market, he owns and operates the video store next door.

At one time, he owned two video stores in Independence Township. He closed the store at the intersection of Dixie Highway and M-15 when the A&P grocery store moved.

What's new in business

He said the business was hurt by the store's relocation.

Upon regaining his building, Gourand has made several improvements. These changes include air-conditioning, new coolers and a deli counter.

He said he is also providing his customers with fresh vegetables and fruit on a daily basis. The revamped store is operated by four part-time workers, including store manager Rachel Wilson.

Gourand said he enjoys having a market again.

"I love being in business again," he said. "The only problem is getting back into the habit of waking up at 2 a.m. every morning, going to the Eastern Market and working 'til we close."

Pierre's Country Market is open seven days a week 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Sunday.

Gourand said the most gratifying part about his comeback in the grocery business is the people.

"In the time I've been back, a lot of my old customers have come up and congratulated me for getting back into the market place," he said. "The people around here are terrific, and I want them to know I'm back in business and looking to serve them."

JEAN PIERRE GOURAND and store manager Rachel Wilson are looking to retain old customers and gain new ones at Pierre's Country Market.

Winning automobile

Held at the Edsel and Eleanor Ford House in Grosse Pointe Shores, the show featured 200 classic, show and prototype vehicles.

Kayko's 1972 Ferrari 365 GTB/4 Daytona Berlinetta won an award in the Sergio Pininfarina Design (Ferrari) category.

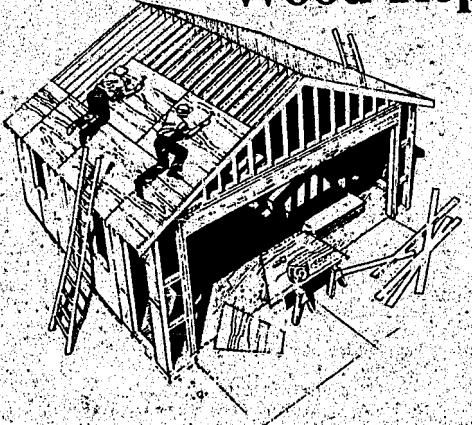

Pininfarina and the late General Motors design legend Harley Earl were honored June 29 at a black-tie awards ceremony.

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE NOTICE OF PROPOSED ORDINANCE AMENDMENT

At a regular meeting of the Township Board held on July 16, 1991, the Board proposed an amendment to the Township's Code of Ordinances, regulating overweight vehicles within the Township, as follows:

STATE OF MICHIGAN
COUNTY OF OAKLAND
CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE
ORDINANCE NO.

REGULATION OF OVERWEIGHT VEHICLE ORDINANCE

An Ordinance to amend Chapter 19 of the Charter Township of Independence Code of Ordinances to add Article VI Section 19-74-19-82 to adopt by reference and incorporate the vehicle weight limitations imposed by state statute and the Michigan State Police, Motor Carrier Division, Motor Carrier Safety Rules as part of the Code of Ordinances, and to provide for the enforcement of such regulations and penalties for the violation thereof.

THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE
ORDAINS AS FOLLOWS TO AMEND THE INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP CODE:

Section 1 of Ordinance

Chapter 19 shall be amended to read as follows:
ARTICLE VI. REGULATION OF OVERWEIGHT VEHICLES
AND ADOPTION OF MOTOR CARRIER SAFETY RULES

Section 19-74. Stopping Vehicles for Weighing

(1) A township police officer, sheriff's deputy or weighmaster of the township, having reason to believe that the weight of a vehicle and load is unlawful, may require the driver to stop and submit to a weighing of the vehicle by means of either portable or stationary scales approved and sealed by the State Department of Agriculture as a legal weighing device and may require that the vehicle be driven to the nearest weighing station of the Department of State Highways and Transportation for the purpose of allowing an officer or agent of the Department of State Highways and Transportation or County Road Commission to determine whether the conveyance is loaded in conformity with this ordinance.

(2) When the deputy, police officer or weighmaster, upon weighing a vehicle and load, determines that the weight is unlawful, the deputy, officer or weighmaster may detain the vehicle in a suitable place and remain standing until that portion of the load is shifted or removed as necessary to reduce the gross axle load weight of the vehicle to the limit permitted under this ordinance. All materials so unloaded shall be cared for by the owner or operator of the vehicle at the risk of the owner or operator.

Section 19-75. Wheel and Axle Loads, Restrictions, Violations.

The maximum axle load shall not exceed the number of pounds designated in MCL 257.722, as amended.

Section 19-76. Penalty.

An owner of a vehicle or a lessee of a vehicle of an owner/operator who causes or allows a vehicle to be loaded and driven or moved on a highway when the weight of that vehicle violates the provisions of MCLA 257.722 is responsible for a civil infraction and shall pay a civil fine in an amount equal to:

(a) Three cents ($.03) per pound for each pound of excess load over 1,000 pounds when the excess is 2,000 pounds or less;

(b) Six cents ($.06) per pound of excess load when the excess is over 2,000 pounds but not over 3,000 pounds;

(c) Nine cents ($.09) per pound for each pound of excess load when the excess is over 3,000 pounds but not over 4,000 pounds;

(d) Twelve cents ($.12) per pound for each pound of excess load when the excess is over 4,000 pounds but not over 5,000 pounds;

(e) Fifteen cents ($.15) per pound for each pound of excess load when the excess is over 5,000 pounds but not over 10,000 pounds; and

(f) Twenty cents ($.20) per pound for each pound of excess when the excess is over 10,000 pounds.

(2) The court shall have discretionary power as to the amount of the civil fine within the schedule provided by this section and may impose the civil fine provided in MCL 257.907(3) for a civil infraction where, at the time of the violation, either the motor vehicle, motor vehicle and semi trailer, or trailer did not exceed the total weight which would be lawful for each unit by a proper distribution of the load upon the various axles supporting each unit.

Section 19-77. Marked Vehicle of Weighmaster

A weighmaster, sheriff's deputy or police officer shall not stop a truck or vehicle in movement upon a road or highway in the township for any purpose, unless driving a duly marked vehicle, clearly showing the emblem, insignia or seal of the state, county or township.

Section 19-78. Failure to Stop on Request

A driver or owner of a vehicle who knowingly fails to stop and submit to the weighing of the vehicle or load when requested or ordered to do so by a deputy, police officer or weighmaster of a township is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Section 19-79. Rules Adopted.

The Motor Carrier Safety Rules, promulgated to accomplish the purpose of the Motor Carrier Safety Act, MCL 480.11 to 480.19, as amended, by authority conferred on the Department of State Police by Section 4 of MCL 480.11 to 480.19, as amended is hereby adopted by reference as in this Ordinance.

Business Brief

Debut album released

Springfield Township resident Paul Lee Marr has just released his debut album. The album entitled "Believe In You" features 11 original pop songs.

The lyrics convey positive messages about following dreams, overcoming obstacles, learning to love, expressing feelings and helping others.

Marr has been writing songs and performing around the Detroit area for more than 15 years.

"This album is a collection of the songs that best express my philosophies and observations over those years," says Marr. "I believe people should follow their dreams no matter what it takes, and that's really the theme of this album."

Marr began writing songs as early as elementary school. In high school, Marr sang in the choir and performed at school and community dances with his own bands.

He received a bachelor of arts degree in communications and journalism from Oakland University, Rochester, in 1980. Upon graduation from Oakland, Marr began a succession of jobs in the communications field.

"I began to drift further and further away from music once I started my first job," he says. "I was continually frustrated because my music took a back seat."

In 1989 Marr left his position as director of communications with a large real estate training company to pursue his music. He formed Paul Lee Marr Productions, which provides customized original music for training, conventions and promotions.

Last fall he decided he had to make a lifelong dream come true and began work on "Believe In You." It took eight months to complete.

Marr is sending the album to recording companies and major music publishers throughout the country in hopes of gaining national exposure. He also plans to promote it to radio stations and record stores.

"The most important thing to me is positively affecting people with my music. If it can also pay me a living, all the better," says Marr.

"Believe In You" is available on cassette through Marr's publishing company. Copies of the tape can be obtained by sending $10 to Botsford Lane Music, Box 432, Clarkston, MI 48347.

Pet of the Week

MORK enjoys other pets and children.

Mischievous Mork

He may not look like Robin Williams, but this Mork certainly has lovable talents.

This Siamese mix is 1 year old and he's reportedly housebroken. His front paws have also been declawed.

This feline is neutered and is good with children and other pets. His adoption fee is $25.

To see Mork, visit the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Road, Rochester Hills, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

-By Curt McAllister

Master of suspense

Members of the audience are literally on the edges of their seats.

Fists are clenched, eyes opened wide, stomachs tied in knots anticipating what will happen next.

These symptoms are all associated with Alfred Hitchcock films.

Born Aug. 13, 1899, in London, England, Hitchcock perfected the art of moving his audiences to the height of anticipation.

Cliff-hangers, suspense thrillers and murder mysteries with a splash of humor aptly describe a typical Hitchcock movie.

Known as master of thrillers, Hitchcock directed his first film in 1925 and, in 1926, directed "The Lodgers" — the first of many suspense thrillers that became synonymous with his name.

According to many American filmmakers, Hitchcock set the standard by which all other suspense films are measured.

While "Psycho" and "The Birds" are among Hitchcock's most popular films, later in his career he successfully made the transition to television with "Alfred Hitchcock Presents."

Skydiver freefalls, parachutes from hot air balloon

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Ronda Cheever loves falling. She even likes landing. But she jumps from airplanes five days a week for the falling, she said.

Last week, she relished the opportunity to try her first skydive from a hot air balloon at 4,000 feet.

As Capt. Stan Tokarski and his crew prepared the balloon for flight during the annual hot air balloon festival at Springfield Oaks County Park Saturday, July 20, Ronda jumped in with help.

The veteran of 842 skydives — tall, dark-haired and wearing a big smile — is a Tecumseh resident who teaches computer classes to eighth-graders and 12th-graders at Summerfield school in Monroe County. She began jumping five years ago at age 33.

"I used to ride my bike out and watch for two years," she said, explaining that she finally decided to sign up for lessons.

Her class was typical. With the exception of herself and one other female, it was filled with men ages 18-22 who "thought they were invincible," Ronda said.

The instructor "thought he was still in the military," she continued, explaining that he told them to practice the "football roll" to learn how to land without breaking their legs. However, she did not know what a football roll was.

Eventually, she found a different "jump master" who patiently taught her the "calf, thigh, shoulder" football roll and led her through her first successful jump.

She's been hooked ever since, jumping Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays, usually from a Cessna or Twin Otter airplane.

Later this summer she plans to jump with about 200 others from a military-type transport carrier, where the skydivers actually take a running start and jump one after another from the huge aircraft.

As a skydiver, she likes to spend as much time as possible free-falling, opening the parachute only for the last 2,500 feet of her fall to earth.

The free-fall is peaceful and quiet and beautiful, she said.

"I can't do roller coasters. Motorcycles — too close to the ground," she said, adding that in the back seat of a car she succumbs to motion sickness.

Skydiving, though, is a different story. "You don't get that heaviness in the stomach," she said.

"I can't do roller coasters. Motorcycles — too close to the ground."

Ronda Cheever

said. "It's so peaceful."

When jumping from an airplane, the thrust sends her 200 mph forward, while gravity takes her down 120 mph.

With the parachute open, divers have incredible control over speed and direction. She noted that the common "Superman" pose is incorrect.

"He can't fly like this," she said, mimicking the pose. "He would back up."

She demonstrated the proper pose — arms behind her instead of in a diving position.

That bothered her and her fellow skydivers so much that they wrote a letter to Mel Farr of "Mel Farr Superstar" automobile commercials to tell him his commercials were technically incorrect. They offered to demonstrate the correct technique.

He wrote back, telling them he's considering it for his next commercial.

However, on this day, Ronda planned to enjoy her balloon fall to the utmost. Capt. Stan took the balloon up to about 5,000 or 4,500 feet so that Ronda could jump as the balloon descended.

She perched on the side of the basket, facing the inside. At Capt. Stan's OK, she smiled, said goodbye, and fell backward, where she dropped for about 10 seconds before opening her parachute.

With that fall, she had chalked up over 9 hours of free-fall time.

RONDA Cheever of Tecumseh prepares her parachute for a sunset skydive from a hot air balloon. After donning goggles to keep her contact lenses in place, she jumped from about 4,000 feet in Springfield Township on Saturday, July 20.

Animal lovers

KAREN WENDT, an interpreter with the Living Science Foundation, receives a kiss from "Red," a South American Macaw. This bird was one of several species of animals exhibited to youngsters, ages 5 to 11, at a week-long science camp in North Sashabaw Elementary School July 15-19.

ER children wait their turn at trying to "Flo," a nurse shark. Later, the children witnessed the shark gobble up several pieces of squid in its small aquarium.

A TEENAGE ASSISTANT reaches down to scratch "Murphy," a Vietnamese potbelly pig. The tame piggy has all the mannerisms of a dog, including the ability to be potty-trained, which is why its breed is the newest fad in American house pets.

The Clarkston News

Richards, Sandy Tokarski and pilot Stan Tokarski, all of the Kalamazoo area. About 20 balloons launched from Springfield Oaks County Park on Saturday, July 19.

Sunset flight

AS THE balloon fills with hot air, it rises, taking the basket of one crew with it. Thousands attended the annual Hot Air Balloon

Festival in Springfield Township over the weekend and were treated to music and entertainment. (Photos by Julie Campe)

ON SATURDAY, the balloons ascended and flew away quickly. Here, a pilot waves to the crowd of onlookers.
