Springfield files suit over horse ranch

BY DENNIS V. CARTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A lawsuit filed last week in Oakland County Circuit Court could determine whether 17 horses may remain on a Springfield Township parcel.

However, one of the owners of the parcel claims the motive behind the lawsuit is not over the number of horses but rather over the race of the children who ride the horses.

On behalf of Springfield Township, attorney Gregory K. Need filed the suit Aug. 6 over the number of horses at Double O Ranch at 7555 Ormond Road.

According to the lawsuit, which was filed against former Pontiac schools Superintendent Odell Nails and five others, the number of horses on the ranch violates the township's zoning ordinance.

Nails owns the property with Christine Gary, Elizabeth A. Rogala, Dan Grôleau, Ernest Fournier and Angeline Fournier, who also were named in the lawsuit.

The suit charges that up to 17 horses are on the property and that the ranch is being used as a riding or boarding stable.

Nails denied this and said that he has leased an additional 11 acres.

"We obtained the 10 acres in January; then we leased another 11," Nails said. "I'm now trying to obtain another section of land so I will have 33 acres."

According to Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls, he noticed the large number of horses back in May. "I was driving by the land and counted the amount of horses," he said. "There have also been complaints to township from some of the residents."

Walls said the property is zoned for single-family residential use.

Dugan Fife selects Michigan

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Dugan Fife has heard plenty of University of Michigan stories from his father, Dan.

But on Tuesday afternoon, the Clarkston High School senior began the first chapter of his Wolverine story. At a press conference in the school's library, Dugan announced he had given a verbal commitment to accept a scholarship to play basketball for Michigan.

The actual signing of the letter of intent will take place in November.

Colleges from around the country showed an interest in Fife for both football and basketball. He narrowed his choices to Michigan, Michigan State, Rice and Stanford, after narrowing the sport to basketball.

"As the recruiting progressed, I saw that basketball was going to be my sport," said Fife, who averaged 28 points last season while earning a spot on the Class A all-state team.

Fife, who begins his fourth season as Clarkston's quarterback Sept. 6 when the Wolves host Troy, was recently selected as one of the nation's "seniors to watch" in football by Street & Smith magazine. Fife will also be a four-year starter in basketball and he has played two years of varsity baseball.

He said the first college to ever contact him was the University of Notre Dame during his freshman season.

Fife, who will major in business or law, said he chose Michigan because he liked the coach (Steve Fisher) and the opportunity of playing close to home.

Fife had already taken plenty of dribbles on the Michigan hardwood years ago, while his father was a additional animal. With 10 acres, that would allow for seven horses," Walls said.

Field days for inner-city children are held at the ranch for a fee of $5 per child, according to Nails.

"We bring the inner-city black children out to the ranch for a full day," said Nails. "They receive pony rides, hay rides and attend a one-hour class on black history and the black cowboy."

"I feel this is the real reason that they are filing suit, but I'm glad they are — this will definitely go to court," he said.

The suit also states that the property includes a tent with tables and chairs, two motor homes, two portable toilets, four or more horse trailers, a Western-type building used to store materials and a horse barn.

"The use of this property is not what would be normal for a single-family zoned residence," Walls said. "We don't want anyone to go to jail; we just want them to comply with the ordinance."

According to Nails, the issue is not the number of horses but rather the bus loads of the black children brought to the ranch.

"I have found out that many of the horse stables in Springfield Township are leased, but when I told them about the extra 10 acres I had leased, they said leased land did not count. I'm going to see to it that every horse on other property in the township is also counted," Nails said.

Walls said that racism has nothing to do with the lawsuit.

"When I first spoke with Mr. Nails' attorney, he said that there would be no more tours. But the tours have continued, and the horses are still there. We had no other option but to file the suit," Walls said.

More bad wells found in village

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Water contamination has spread to more houses on North Main Street in Clarkston and the source of the problem is getting closer to being named.

Previously, two houses had been confirmed.

But at Monday night's Clarkston Village Council meeting, Dave Love of Hubbell, Roth and Clark, Inc., consulting engineers for the village, said houses at 122, 154, 155 and 165 N. Main have all tested positive for well contamination.

In addition, Love said a house on 26 Clarkston Road and a residence on Wompolo have been confirmed of contaminated wells.

Gary Tressel of HRC told the council that the Michigan Department of Public Health is close to naming the source of the contamination.

"They're pretty comfortable where they think it's coming from, but they don't want to go on record until they finish testing," said Tressel. Tressel said Lois Graham, environmental sanitarian for the department of public health, will soon be conducting more tests in the affected area.

A letter written by Tressel to the council stated, "As I am sure you are aware, a number of sites have been found to contain detectable parts of solvents used in lead combustion products and gasoline which do not normally occur in natural ground water."

Speculation on the source of the problem has centered on the closed Powell landfill on Clarkston Road and buried gasoline tanks at Village Muffler and Brake Specialist on the corner of Main Street and Clarkston Road.

Under state law, the houses with confirmed contamination will receive bottled water from the state for cooking and drinking purposes.

In a 5-0 vote, the council authorized HRC to contact Independence Township and ask them to construct, maintain and operate a water supply system for the affected Clarkston residents.

Tressel estimated the cost of the construction to be $340,000. He said the state would pay for the costs and then "go after the polluters" for repayment.

Lang named principal at Sashabaw Junior High

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Jean Lang, the acting assistant principal at Sashabaw Junior High School, has been named the middle school's new principal.

She will be replacing David Reschke, who accepted the position of director of curriculum and staff development for the Clarkston school district last June. He'd been the principal at SJHS since 1987.

Lang was chosen over 60 other applicants. She was unanimously approved by the Clarkston Board of Education at the Aug. 12 board meeting.

Lang owns a variety of college degrees. They include: a master's of arts in counseling and teaching from Oakland University, a master's of fine arts from Southern Illinois University, a bachelor's of arts from Olivet College and a doctorate in philosophy from Wayne State University.

Lang has been involved in the education field since 1972, when she served as an instructor and a teaching consultant for the Bloomfield Hills school district. Since then, she has been employed as an adjunct teacher at Wayne State University, a counselor and supervisor in Bloomfield Hills and most recently the assistant principal at SJHS.

Lang was hired at Sashabaw just last year.

She is admittedly excited about the challenges that lie ahead as principal.

"Being a principal is something I've wanted to do for some time," Lang said. "Here, at Sashabaw, we have the people-resources to do some exciting and progressive things with our kids."

Lang said she hasn't got any major changes planned for the middle school, only steady improvement.

"I plan to continue with many of the plans and programs set by Dave Reschke," she said. "He's left a very fine legacy; however, we need to grow and improve and not remain stagnant."

She's sees additional support from the parents and the community as two keys toward this steady progression.

"I want to increase communication with community and get more parents into the school," she said. "The more parents and the public know about this school the better, because they'll know what we're facing on a daily basis."

She also intends to make the transition from grade to grade easier for the students. For example, Lang has helped set up a "blocked" schedule for sixth and seventh graders. This schedule allows the sixth-graders, who've come from a one-teacher system at the elementary level, to ease into the middle school with just a couple of teachers.

On the other hand, the eighth and ninth graders are exposed to more teachers, so to prepare them for the multiple teachers and courses they'll face at Clarkston High School.

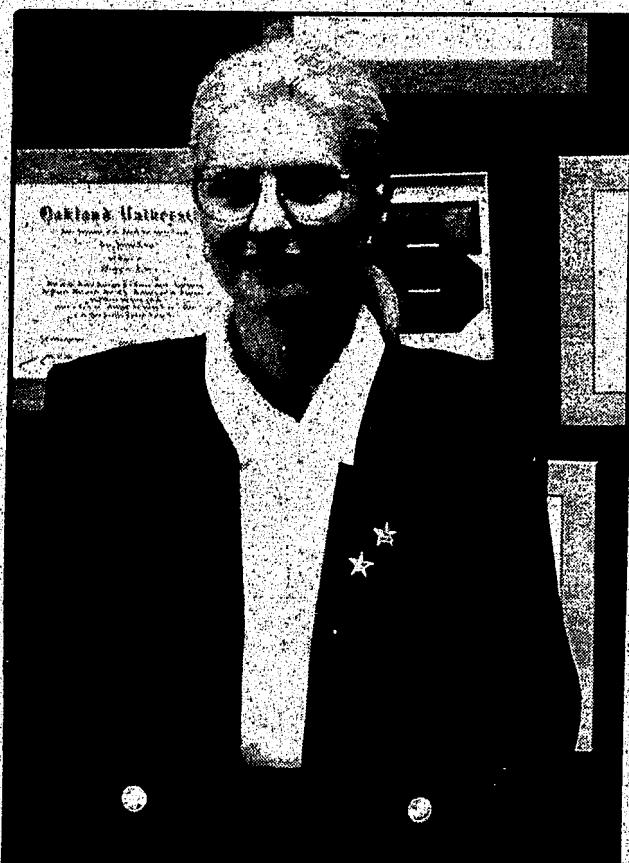

Lang is married John Humble of Rochester and she has one daughter, Barbara, a graduate student at Loyola University, Chicago.

With the start of school creeping closer, Lang finds herself eagerly awaiting the upcoming year.

"I couldn't be happier than where I am now," Lang said. "I've got a motivated staff and fresh, eager students to work with."

"We intend to remain progressive and give these students the opportunity to be their very best," she added.

JEAN LANG Is looking forward to a fruitful future as Sashabaw Junior High's new principal.

Burek reflects on five years at Clarkston High

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

In the past five years, a lot of changes have occurred at Clarkston High School, but outgoing Principal Robert Burek isn't about to take all the credit.

Burek, who is leaving to become superintendent of Fenton schools, said the collaborated efforts of the community, faculty and student body were responsible for Clarkston High's ascent to excellence.

However, things weren't so rosy at CHS when he arrived in 1986.

Burek was hired as principal after the untimely death of former Principal John Kirchgessner, who died in an airplane accident.

Burek came to CHS with a long list of credentials.

He was a graduate of Central Michigan University and Michigan State University, where he earned a doctorate in K-12 administration.

He'd served as a teacher, football and basketball coach, assistant principal and principal at Grand Blanc High School. Burek had also been employed as the superintendent of schools at Linden High School and high school principal at Goodrich.

In all, he brought 23 years of teaching and administrative experience to CHS.

During the first few months as principal at CHS, Burek said he researched school operations and student attitudes, so he could build a consensus.

His conclusion was that the school was undisciplined, lacked direction and spirit.

With this in mind, he devised a three-point system to improve the school. They included: setting a high level of expectations for students, faculty and community; adjusting the curriculum so it adhered to students with special, average and sub-par abilities; and creating a parent advisory council and other community-oriented groups.

Over the years, these steps have led to the creation of the Blue and Gold club, the "Wall of Fame," an annual post-graduation party, and D-BUG, made up of aspiring student leaders.

Burek said the community and its children have lived up to his expectations.

"I originally came to Clarkston because my colleagues told me that it was a tremendous community," Burek said. "And you need a great community because it gives you great kids, and you can do a lot with great kids."

He also credits the faculty for adhering to his changes.

"When I devised my plan, the teaching staff really became the catalyst in making the appropriate changes," he said. "You knew the kids would respond, and the teachers met them half way."

The principal said the achievements of everyone can be seen in the number of Clarkston graduates who are presently attending college. Burek said nearly 80 percent of all grads seek some form of higher education, which is up from 60 percent just five years ago.

"The students at CHS are very aggressive, and it shows academically and in our extra-curricular activities," Burek said. "They have high aspirations, and once those have been set, the majority becomes motivated."

Burek said this year's post-graduation party stands

"The students at CHS are very aggressive, and it shows academically and in our extra-curricular activities."

Principal Robert Burek

out in his memory of the past five years as principal.

"This year's party was the best yet, with around 90 to 95 percent attendance! When it was over, nearly every one of the graduates stayed around and shook our hands and embraced us," Burek said, smiling. "To see those kids seek us out after a beautiful commencement and party, kind of says, 'here we are as a high school...'"

Burek will be leaving after the Labor Day break but admits he's already beginning to miss Clarkston.

"It's really hard to leave this place — the best high school in Oakland County," Burek said. "It will always occupy a special place with me."

OUTGOING Principal Robert Burek credits an array of people for Clarkston High School's ascent to excellence over the past five years.

Fife to play hoop with Wolverines

Wolverine assistant coach.

"I grew up going to the (Michigan) gym with him," said Fife about his trips to Chrysler Arena.

Dan Fife, who played basketball and baseball for Michigan and eventually major league baseball, is not only his son's father but also his coach.

"For me, personally, it's a dream come true for my son to play college basketball, playing for Michigan," said the elder Fife, who was at his son's side throughout the press conference.

When Dugan was asked if he knows of any Michigan records still held by his dad, he quipped, "I think he's in the top three or four for assists in a game. I'll kick him out."

The Fifes aren't the only Clarkston athletes to have played for Michigan athletic teams. Tim McCormick (now with the Atlanta Hawks), Steve Howe (now with the New York Yankees), Rhonda Jokisch (currently on the Michigan women's basketball team), Paul Jokisch and Dan Jokisch have all worn the Maize and Blue.

Dan Fife gave credit to Dugan's teammates, who sported a 22-1 record last season.

"The team's success has helped Dugan," said Fife. "It (the scholarship) is a reflection on our team."

The coach said Michigan was interested in Dugan early last basketball season.

"Coach Fisher told me Dugan has a scholarship from the first game he saw him play," said Dan Fife. "He liked Dugan's court awareness, passing ability, knowledge of the game and the way he competed."

Fife, who has improved into an excellent passer to go along with tough defensive pressure skills, is expected to be a point guard for Michigan. He has played the wing position throughout high school.

"I don't think it will be that much of an adjustment," said Dugan Fife, who pointed out that Michigan point guard Michael Talley will be a senior during Fife's freshman year.

Fife, who is expected to be one of the top candidates for this season's Mr. Basketball title, will be joining a bumper crop of 1991-92 freshmen in Chris Webber (last season's Mr. Basketball), Juwan Howard, Jalen Rose, Jimmy King and Ray Jackson.

One of the reasons for Fife making a commitment so early is that he won't have to be concerned about the recruiting process during his final year of high school.

"With the coaches there watching, there is more pressure," said Fife.

His mother also likes the idea of her son committing early.

"Last spring it was hard for him. It was difficult for him to study," said Jan Fife, who said Dugan would sometimes be talking with coaches from the West Coast close to midnight.

She also likes the idea that Ann Arbor isn't too far away from Clarkston.

Dugan almost visited the Stanford campus in Palo Alto, Calif. but decided against it, much to the relief of his mother.

"He never went, thank God," said Jan Fife. "Somebody told me if he went there, he wouldn't come back."

But Dugan knows not all of Michigan's games will be played during a snowfall in Ann Arbor.

"One of the first games, when I'm a freshman, will be at the Maui Classic in Hawaii," said Fife, who is looking forward to the Big Ten travel schedule.

That is, as long as he isn't caught for traveling on the court.

Mel Vaara named interim principal

With Robert Burek leaving Clarkston High School after Labor Day, the Clarkston Board of Education has assigned an interim principal to take over till a new one is found.

On Aug. 12, the board unanimously approved Assistant Superintendent of Schools Mel Vaara to fill the void.

That evening, Superintendent Gary Haner said the length of Vaara's stay at CHS is uncertain. He said the district could secure a replacement by the New Year, but that person might not be able to report to work immediately.

It could be hard for the chosen person to receive permission to leave in the middle of a school year, Haner explained.

Haner explained that posting the vacancy at the beginning of the school year will benefit the district.

"We should be the first district in the state to publicize that we're looking for a replacement," Haner said the next day. "By not being in a rush, we'll be in a better position to attract top-rated candidates."

Haner said he didn't recommend an assistant vice principal for the interim position because it's uncertain if they intend to vie for Burek's position. He said he wanted to avoid a possible conflict of interests.

This interim position marks the third time Vaara has been asked to step in for a principal in his three decades with the Clarkston school district. He served a short stint as an interim principal at CHS in 1986, after Principal John Kirchgessner died in a plane crash.

Haner said most of Vaara's duties as assistant superintendent would be allocated amongst other administrators for the time being. Besides acting as principal, Vaara will still be handling transportation duties for the district.

Orientations scheduled

Sashabaw and Clarkston junior high schools will be holding orientation programs for incoming sixth graders and all new students.

Sashabaw Junior High's orientation program is scheduled for Monday, Aug. 19. Clarkston Junior High School's program will be held on Tuesday, Aug. 20.

Both programs will be held in their respective gymnasiums and will start at 7 p.m. Parents are asked to attend with their children.

Opening remarks will be made by Jean Lang, principal at SJHS, and Vince Licata, principal of CJHS. Schedules and locker combinations will be handed out at this time.

If you're planning a community event, don't forget to inform the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce. Write P.O. Box 938, Clarkston, MI 48347 or call 625-8055.

Call for volunteers

Those with a knack for tutoring, parenting and job searching may want to consider volunteering for Oakland Family Services.

The Pontiac-based organization is launching a county-wide search for such volunteers to help break the cycle of child abuse and neglect in the community.

Volunteers needed include: tutors for children or adults, co-leaders of adult therapy and parent education groups, nurturers for infants and young children, co-facilitators of parent-child interaction groups, parent aides for abusive or neglectful families, perinatal coaches for first-time parents, birth companions to coach mothers through labor and delivery, workshop leaders, facilitators of parent/infant and parent/toddler programs, employability mentors, administrative support or drivers to and from the agency.

Time commitments vary from two to six hours per week. All volunteers receive professional training and supervision. Daytime and evening training sessions are scheduled for September.

For more information, call 858-7766.

Donors needed

A shortage of blood donors has occurred again this summer, according to the American Red Cross.

To help out in the Clarkston area, a blood drive is scheduled 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 25, at St. Daniel Catholic Church on Holcomb Road at Miller Road.

Walk-ins are welcome, or you may call 625-4580 to make an appointment.

Summer blood collections are different from the rest of the year because schools and universities — where almost 20 percent of the blood in this region usually is collected — are either not in session or the summer enrollment is less than in other seasons.

Also, many regular donors schedule out-of-town vacations during summer. In addition, the demand for blood is slightly higher in the summer because many people plan elective surgery during summer when recovery is easier.

Three injured in five-car accident

Three people were injured in a five-car mishap at the intersection of Maybee Road and Dixie Highway Aug. 8.

According to a police report at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, Kenneth Erway, 28, of Montrose, slammed into the rear of a vehicle driven by James Banks, 63, of Pontiac, after Erway's car skidded on the rain-slickened pavement.

The contact pushed Banks' vehicle into a car driven by Susan Keiper, 35, of Lapeer. Keiper's vehicle was then pushed into a vehicle driven by Cindy Martinello, 34, of Sussex, WI.

In turn, Martinello's vehicle was shoved into a vehicle driven by Roger Martin, 42, of Oxford. All the vehicles were stopped at the intersection's light, when the accident occurred about 1:15 p.m.

Banks, Keiper and Martinello were all treated and released at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

Erway was ticketed for reckless driving at the scene.

Jim's Jottings

Lets see, where was I?

Jim
Sherman

Our home is on a channel leading to five lakes. We've lived there 22 years. I've fished the lakes twice... and I love fishing.

Bill Bellairs has lived on this same set of lakes for 20 years. When he retired from his auto-service business two years ago his wife, Joanne, said they planned on doing lots of fishing.

They have done almost no fishing at home.

Now then, if we don't fish the lake when we're working and we don't fish it when retired, why in the world do we live on property assessed extra high because it's got a lakefront address?

I don't know, and I'm not asking Bill.

When we were out to his house last week to witness the weigh-in of the Sterling Heights Bass Anglers fishing tournament, I noticed Bill's boats looked about as used as mine... seldom.

My 15-footer hasn't even been put in the water this season. Bill's is in the water at least. But, by the looks of things neither of us live where we do for motorboat spots.

From our house we can't get the great sunset pictures because we're mostly inland. We get no lake breezes because of the trees. We don't get to hear the restful sounds of water splashing on shore. All we get to do is say, "We live on a lake," as we try to impress everyone but the assessor.

Anyway, this is about how Bill Bellairs and I get to do our fishing. We go out of town for a week. He goes to Sugar Island. I go to Naubinway. Trouble is, neither of us go often enough.

Of course, when we go, we fish, but don't necessarily catch.

If we spent that much time fishing on our own lakes we'd surely catch as many as we do up north. There's plenty of fish in our lakes, witness the success of the bassmasters. They caught 23 on a six-hour Sunday.

I know this column is fragmented, and that's because I have two things I want to say at once. I want to say we have to go away to find time to fish, and I don't know why we live on the water.

But, to continue the fragmentation, I love fishing so much I put an electric trolling motor on my Christmas wish list two years ago. Santa brought it.

We opened pike season at Naubinway that year. The motor quit in our first half hour on the lake. I'll never know if the fish were biting that day or not. We certainly didn't have our limit at the time of the motor's demise.

My mind just isn't staying on one line of thought today. Above I said if we spent as much time fishing on our lakes as we do up north we'd catch just as many fish.

Rethinking the bassmasters' efforts: 26 expert fishermen fished six hours in one day, or 156 total hours, and they caught 23 fish. That's really not very many for three 40-hour work-weeks plus 36 hours overtime.

We probably should continue going north for our fishing, and quit questioning why we live on a lake.

Integrity
By Grampa Jay

The height of integrity
Is facing up to reality
You compromise integrity
And sacrifice reality

Always mind your scruples
Like all honor roll pupils
Let no objects turn you away
From your goalward path today

In Jesus don't lose self esteem
Or the respect of your team
Face all problems squarely
And change your mind rarely

Follow God's commandments ten Always seeking His help then
And let not mediocrity
Creep into your integrity

Lake Townsend
By Grampa Jay

A bright sunny day, mid-morning in May
Wild birds singing cheering up the day
Young wild ducklings like balls of fluff
With proud parents strutting their stuff

Bright sun and rippled waters reflecting
Millions of stars, a light breeze directing
The warmth of the sun caressing one's face
Crisp clear air, a reminder of God's grace

A lone Canadian goose honking for its mate
Which it lost last year to a pellet gun fate
Returning where its mate crawled to die
Its continued calling a sad haunting cry

A beautiful white swan swims by to a feast
Coming from its mate on a nest in the east
Side of the lake where protective needs grow
Where their nest is hidden, hatching is slow

Afternoon sun high over placid mirrored lake
Reflecting created beauty stirs breath intake
All this beauty God created for man to enjoy
Keeping His commandments will not destroy

We should drink in his world of created beauty
By His Word it is clearly a good steward's duty
Taking care of the beauty He created so good
In harmony with the earth and better brotherhood

It's heartening to know that Frank Ronk, our Independence Township Supervisor, is concerned about the smaller problems.

Until he intervened on our behalf, we were stymied with a drainage problem on our property.

Thanks to Mr. Ronk and the Oakland County Road Commission, our problem has hopefully been solved.

'BOUT TIME! IT'S COLD DOWN THERE!

Think About It

Excitement for summer's end

Amanda
Peske

Like many people, once the back-to-school advertisements start flooding the Sunday newspapers, it usually means that summer is coming to a rapid close and fall is quickly approaching. Time to take the kids shopping for all the necessities: pens, pencils, and everything that anyone and everyone will probably be wearing.

It's times like these that make you wonder where all your sunny, "work outside in the yard" days have gone. For some, it's a joy to get the kids out of your hair, but for others it's a financial hazard.

For everyone, it's the re-occurring thought that they only have a few weeks of summer left.

When this thought comes to mind, they waste away the rest of the summer dwelling on the idea, instead of finding ways to enjoy the rest of the summer.

That may be your first tip to beating the summer time blues - don't dwell on only having a limited amount of time to enjoy yourself, find something to keep you occupied. According to the locusts, the long winter months are not far behind. At that point you are trapped in your residence for what seems like a prison sentence.

For someone like me, who has had no time to even think about doing something fun, it's easy to suggest what to do with those last lingering days of summer.

If you've already gone fishing, try going to the beach or the Detroit zoo. Just get out a road map and find a town on the map you never even dreamed existed. Fill up the car with a tank of gas and hit the road, Jack!

It's never too late to discover a new place. You may find a restaurant that serves excellent food and spirits. I know I always enjoy finding a different place to "hang." After 16 years, McDonald's gets kind of old.

If you're interested in art, the Detroit Museum of Art is always open to display its beautiful collection of art and sculpture.

Some other intriguing places you may want to take some of your free time to visit include: Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum, or the auto baron mansions such as, Meadowbrook Hall.

If you're not into history and culture, and want a little twist in your life, you could go to all the regular roller coaster hangouts such as, Boblo or Cedar Point in Sandusky, Ohio. Why not try parasailing, or wind surfing? You can risk your life and get a tan at the same time. Great for all you adventure some people. Just be careful.

I know deep in my heart that I'm not a morning person, or a day person, but it is more than obvious that I'm a night person. The perfect solution would be the club scene. Get a group together and go work out.

weight off by dancing to all the latest dance moves and grooves.

Just a bit of advice, if you plan to drink, designate a driver. It's better to enjoy yourself in the night life than in a hospital.

There is many things to get yourself involved in, you just have to take the initiative and stop being a couch potato. Soap operas and bonbons won't cure your blues.

As a teenager, I've realized that I don't have much quality time left to spend with my mother. I know that after I graduate, college will keep me busy so now is the perfect time to spend time together. You can't waste any time. Face it, no one is getting any younger.

If you don't do it for yourself, do it for the fact that kids grow up fast and they will be gone before you know it.

'If it Fitz . . . '

Pollution market
betrays chances

Jim
Fitzgerald

With your kind indulgence, it seems permissible to precede a serious question concerning air pollution with this frivolous rhyme recalled from my childhood:

*Beans, beans, the musical fruit,
The more you eat, the more you toot.*

The serious question is: Will people be allowed to buy and sell toots?

Lest you doubt the seriousness of the question, I hasten to say it was prompted by the Chicago Board of Trade, a very serious organization that deals with commodity investments. Last week the board voted to begin marketing government-granted rights to emit sulfur dioxide.

According to the New York Times: "Such a market was made possible by the Clean Air Act of 1990, in which Congress gave polluters the right to meet sulfur emissions standards by buying and selling allowances that the Environmental Protection Agency will allot to plants. The standards are intended to reduce acid rain."

The act limits the total amount of sulfur emitted by 110 power plants. Each plant, depending on size of operation and other criteria, is allowed X amount of pollution. But if an individual plant emits less than it is allowed, that doesn't necessarily mean the 110-total emission will be less than the mandated limit. That's because a plant not using all its pollution allowance can sell the unused portion to another plant that wants to exceed its allowance.

To make this serious subject perfectly clear, indulge me further by accepting an admittedly exaggerated analogy.

The big reason air pollution is limited by law is because it is harmful to human life. Murder is also harmful to human life, so let's say the feds limit the total number of murders that can be committed annually by 110 murderers.

Each murderer, depending on size of operation and other criteria, is allowed X amount of murders. But if an individual murderer kills even fewer people than he or she is allowed, that doesn't necessarily mean the 110-total of murders will be below the mandated limit. That's because a murderer not using all his or her murder allowance can sell the unused portion to another murderer who wants to exceed his or her allowance.

If federal and state governments give the OK, the Chicago Board of Trade intends to "let people bet investment money on a rise or fall in the value of pollution rights - as they now can on stocks and bonds," according to the Times. The board would also establish a "futures" market, permitting anyone to gamble on emissions rights up to three years in advance.

So, to mix up the analogy, in 1995 an investor could bet on how much a murderous pollution allowance would be worth in 1997.

You might ask: What next? Well, how about car emission standards? In Michigan, cars are required to pass annual $10 emission tests before their owners can buy license plates or tabs. If your car is 10 or more years old or you're on welfare, you're allowed to skip the test. But what if you don't want your car polluting the air, no matter the age of your car or the state of your finances?

Bring your car up to the required standard, pass the test and sell your allowance to a willing polluter. Although your car wouldn't violate emission limits, there would be no decrease in the total amount of exhaust fumes choking motorists to death.

As for more personal emissions, they have value. On Japanese television, as previously reported here, comedians entertain by passing gas. And in London last week, the British Broadcasting Corp. said a radio version of James Joyce's controversial novel "Ulysses" will be aired with its explicit passages intact.

The Daily Telegraph said "blasphemous language and sounds of people passing wind" would be retained because of their "musicality."

Which brings us back to the musical fruit and the possibility of selling toot allowances. Which is as far as I'm going on your world think I'm serious.

Cost of new drugs is large expense to absorb

If the cost of prescription medicines is breaking your health care budget, you are not alone. Consider the fiscal nightmare facing University of Michigan pharmacist Richard F. de Leon.

As director of Pharmacy Services for U-M Hospitals, de Leon must find a way to absorb the cost of two new prescription medications — one to stimulate the growth of bone marrow and a second to cure a potentially fatal infection. Each drug costs thousands of dollars per dose.

"While they only will be used by a few patients, these two drugs alone have the potential to double U-M Hospitals' $18 million annual expenditure for pharmaceuticals," said de Leon, associate professor in the U-M College of Pharmacy.

According to de Leon, pharmacists worry that the high cost of new drugs created with sophisticated genetic engineering technology — combined with average annual price increases of 10 to 15 percent for existing drugs — could push the United States into a system of rationed health care.

"These new drugs represent a revolution in hospital therapy, but who's going to pay for them?" said de Leon.

Although consumers will ultimately pick up the tab for spiraling prices, de Leon said they have little control over how much prescription medicines cost.

"The problem is there's no mechanism in place to regulate prices, particularly for new medications," he said. "Pharmaceutical manufacturers base their pricing on a variety of conditions, including market potential and whether there is any direct competition for the product."

Pharmaceutical manufacturers maintain it costs an average of $300 million in research and development costs to bring a new drug to market, according to de Leon.

"It certainly is true that R&D costs are rising every day, and pharmaceutical firms must include those costs in product pricing," he said.

De Leon is critical of the billions of dollars pharmaceutical manufacturers spend annually on sales representatives and promotional campaigns for specific drugs aimed at physicians and pharmacists.

"In 1986, the pharmaceutical industry spent $5 billion on advertising and marketing. Some of this marketing effort takes the form of sweepstakes, contests, frequent prescriber promotions and free samples," de Leon said.

"Physicians have no economic incentive to consider low-cost alternatives when they prescribe a medication. Indeed, many prescribers aren't aware how much patients or their insurance companies must pay for these drugs. Those that are best informed often ask that a generic equivalent be dispensed, rather than a more expensive proprietary product."

Community pharmacists are in a good position to help consumers economize as much as possible with prescription medications, said de Leon. But first, consumers must be aware of drug pricing and be willing to complain when prices go up. Here's what de Leon said consumers can do:

- If you are concerned about prescription drug prices and marketing practices, contact your state and federal legislatures.

- Let your physician and pharmacist know about your concern — whether or not you have prescription insurance coverage.

- Keep a written record of all your prescription medications and how much they cost. Take it with you to every office visit. If your physician prescribes something other than your usual medication for the same condition, ask why and ask your pharmacist to check for you.

- When you select a pharmacy, choose one that maintains a permanent record of all medicines prescribed for you and your family. Insist that the pharmacist, instead of a store clerk, give you the medication and answer questions about its use and interactions.

- Ask your pharmacist if a generic or less expensive alternative medication is available.

- Ask your doctor if you are eligible for special financial assistance programs created by some pharmaceutical manufacturers to help low-income patients afford expensive medications.

- Be aware that direct marketing to consumers through television and magazine advertisements, as in recent campaigns for allergy medicines, puts you in the position of asking your doctor to prescribe a certain product. Follow your doctor's guidance, rather than pressuring him or her for a particular medication.

"Direct advertising to consumers is one of the latest trends in pharmaceutical marketing," de Leon said. "These advertisements attract the consumer's interest without giving a balanced presentation of therapeutic benefits and adverse effects. To get all the facts, ask your physician or pharmacist."

Hot lunch prices to be raised

Hot lunches in the Clarkston school district will be hiked a few cents this year.

On Aug. 12, the Clarkston Board of Education unanimously approved raising the costs of hot lunches and cartons of milk for students.

The prices are being raised due to the inflationary costs of labor and transportation. According to statistics gathered by the administration, the new prices are comparable to surrounding school districts.

The new prices include: a five cent increase at the elementary schools to $1.15; a five cent increase at the junior high and senior high levels to $1.55 and a ten cent increase for adult education students to $2.10.

The price of milk will also be raised from 25 cents to 30 cents this year.

Loss of a Grandparent

For the majority of children, the first encounter with death in the family comes through the death of a grandparent. Grandparents have a special place in the life of their grandchildren, for they represent an unconditional love that can be treasured for a lifetime. The question for the parent is how to explain and make acceptable to the child the death of so important a person in the child's life.

It's not an easy situation. The temptation is to avoid it by telling the child a convenient story and by excluding the child from the funeral service. But this is cheating the child in a very important way. The rites and rituals that we use to mark the end of life are our way of saying a significant and appropriate goodbye. To have this opportunity taken away can leave the child with many unresolved feelings. It can also possibly damage trust between child and parent.

Cityhood debate resumes Aug. 28

Another chapter in the Clarkston cityhood suit has been scheduled for Oakland County Circuit Court Aug. 28.

On that day, Judge John O'Brien will be considering a "stay of proceedings," rendered by Independence Township in July.

The injunction would stop Clarkston from incorporating as a city until a Michigan Court of Appeals judge issues a judgment on the township's lawsuit against the State Boundary Commission.

The State Boundary Commission granted the village the right to file for cityhood last year. In turn, the township filed suit, charging it was done illegally. The court later ruled in favor of the boundary commission, and the township appealed the decision.

Due to a heavy caseload in the appeals court, a decision probably won't be made until 1993. If all goes as scheduled, cityhood could be achieved by the spring of 1992.

Independence officials contend that if they win the appeals court decision, the year of incorporation, between 1992 and 1993, would be detrimental to both the village and the township.

The township said problems would include: village voters not being part of the election process, village residents having no say in the possible passage of a millage, village residents losing governmental jobs in the township and village citizens being required to pay back-taxes to the township.

New Montessori school poised to open this fall

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

A new school for pre-school and kindergarten aged children will be coming to the Clarkston area early next month.

Based on the Montessori style of instruction, the Ivy Hall School will be opening its doors to the public around the start of September.

The school is located at 8055 Ortonville Road, Independence Township, 1/4 mile north of I-75. It is available for children ages 2 1/2 through 6.

According to program director and head teacher Scott Niederluecke, Montessori revolves around a system of education that is both a philosophy of child growth and a rationale for guiding such growth.

The school's teaching practices will be based on the philosophies of Italian Maria Montessori, a world famous doctor, scientist and educator around the turn of the 20th century.

Niederluecke, an instructor with Montessori Schools for four years, said the school is structured around the limitations of each individual student and his or her absorptive abilities.

"Studies have found that children, between the ages of 2 and 6, absorb more information in these particular years than any others," Niederluecke said. "The beauty of Montessori is that all our students are taught on a one-to-one basis and they're allowed to learn at their own pace."

"We've found that the student learns more efficiently through a progression of successes," he added. "Our teaching materials enables them to enjoy learning and become more independent."

These teaching materials vary from colored blocks of all sizes and geometric shape to globes with textured surfaces. Niederluecke said these materials help set a foundation for many of the studies the child will encounter in his educational experience.

The Ivy Hall educational program covers a variety of topics. They include: math, reading, geography, science, drug prevention, current events, art, music, gym and foreign languages.

This may seem quite a load for a child so young to handle, but Niederluecke said the children are usually up to the challenge.

"We teach most our programs by stimulating the child's five senses," he said. "At this early stage, children absorb most of their knowledge by what they see, feel and hear. Our projects allow them to gain confidence in what they're able to comprehend on their own."

"And once a child gains a little self-confidence in his or her learning ability, they yearn for more and more," he said.

Niederluecke said his students will be given a chance to learn things many of their peers don't know at their age, but he stressed that pressure is never applied in his teachings.

"We aren't here to force kids to learn," he explained.

"They're allowed to develop at their own pace. We never lose sight that they're just children," he added.

With 22 children signed up for fall classes, Niederluecke won't be the only instructor at Ivy Hall. Kristine Navin, an Oakland University grad with a degree in elementary education, will also be on hand to teach the youngsters.

The school will run five days a week with morning and afternoon sessions available to the students. The cost of the school is based on how long the student stays there during the day.

SCOTT NIEDERLUECKE of Ivy Hall is anxious for school to begin this fall. His school is located on M-15, near the I-75 off ramp, Independence Township.

On-the-spot oil changes make maintenance easy

BY DENNIS V. CARTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In today's fast-paced world there never seems to be time for everything, such as getting an oil changed.

But with a new, on-the-spot oil change system, they come to you.

Steve Seib of Independence Township and Dave Griesser of White Lake Township recently began a business that brings the convenience of an oil change to an individual or business location.

"My sister worked for a car leasing company which ran about 400 to 500 vehicles — that gave me the idea of

"We will schedule our services at times that are convenient for companies who depend on their cars, vans and light trucks being on the road," said Seib. "That means fleet use is maximized and makes sure that regular services are performed as needed."

Seib, who managed a service station for 10 years, was convinced that convenience was the key to good vehicle maintenance.

"We can go in and do about 40 vehicles in a day, which includes the oil change and a 14-point check list," Seib said.

According to Griesser, who built race car motors for four years, "We offer special discounts for fleets, such as contractors, delivery services, city or county agencies."

At this juncture of the business effort, the two men, who will have been in business for three years in November, are pleased with the way things are going.

"The first couple of years were pretty rough, but we are starting to see the light at the end of tunnel. I just hope it's not a train," Griesser said, laughing.

The duo travel all over Oakland County to perform the oil changes and other maintenance.

"The great thing about our system is that we are competitive with the quick oil-change shops in both price and quality, only we do the job on the spot. We take pride ourselves in that when we leave, we leave no mess. When we leave it is as if we were not there except that the work has been done, and done right," Seib said.

Customer response to the idea has been good.

"We haven't lost any customers who we have done work for," said Griesser. "They are pleased with the work and very happy about the convenience of us coming to their location."

What's new in business on-the-spot oil changes," said Seib.

The two men talked about starting the business — called On the Spot Oil Change — We Come to You — for some time before they decided to go for it.

"We kicked the idea around for about a year and half before we actually said it's time to get serious. Steve quit his job, so we had to do something," said Griesser.

After partners decided on a hoist system to raise the vehicles to perform the needed work, they set out to acquire the equipment they would need.

"When we planned this thing out, we figured we could get started for about five grand, but that five grand quickly turned into about $45,000," said Griesser.

The pair can change the oil in just about anything that needs it, with fleet vehicles being their specialty.

Business Briefs

Named vice president

Perry Williams III has been promoted to vice president of operations at the Consortium for Human Development.

Williams has been director of operations for the past three years. He will continue to oversee the daily management of the three site outpatient mental health and substance abuse services of the Consortium and will be the primary contact for agencies and businesses with which the Consortium is affiliated.

Perry Williams III

The Consortium for Human Development, Inc., is a non-profit outpatient mental health and substance abuse agency celebrating its 20th year of providing services to the residents of Oakland County from three locations: Clarkston, Troy and Novi.

Inventor gets help

Take Note with Heidi Graphics, Inc., is to provide print production services for Silent Call Corp., a Clarkston inventor and manufacturer of assistive devices for the hearing and visually-impaired.

Take Note will provide logo and product identification, design and packaging, along with public relations services.

Director chosen

The Oakland Shores Chorus of Sweet Adelines International recently selected Judy Mellen as director. Mellen has been a member of the Sweet Adelines for 20 years and is a charter member of the Oakland Shores Chorus, which will celebrate 15 years of harmony this fall.

Mellen has an extensive musical background, including her roots in Clarkston as organist at the Clarkston United Methodist church and director of their four handbell choirs.

While serving as associate director with Oakland Shores, Mellen stepped forward when the director retired and, in April, took them to competition where they were very successful. She also sings baritone in Animation, a registered Sweet Adeline quartet.

Oakland Shores is holding summer rehearsals at the First Church of God on Clarkston road. For information about membership or performances, call Julia at 698-9411.

Golfers chip in for chamber of commerce

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Chris Clark had a terrific day at the fourth annual Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce Golf Classic Aug. 6 at the Pine Knob Golf Course.

Clark and his foursome won the best-ball tournament with a 10-under par 59. Clark also won a putter in a closest-to-the-pin contest.

Joining Clark on the winning team were Keith Patten, Tom Patten and Jerry Wood. They finished two strokes ahead of Tom Lowrie, Mark Postal and Hoyt Frerick.

Frerick won a Langert 7-wood for winning the longest-drive competition. Nancy Scully won a 7-wood for the longest drive by a woman.

The golf outing is the main fund raiser of the year for the chamber, which services Independence Township, Springfield Township and Waterford Township.

The complete scores (some names in the foursomes were unavailable) were:

(59) Chris Clark, Keith Patten, Tom Patten and Jerry Wood

(61) Tom Lowrie, Mark Postal and Hoyt Frerick

(62) Dennis Kacy, Tom Stuart, John Cowan and Jerry Laidlaw; Dave Borys, Dick Howard, Bill Hampton and David Cooper

Major, major plans on Joslyn

Christmas, 'fun' coming to Village

By Jim Sherman, publisher

"Always Christmas" and Indianwood Village are the newest, exciting projects of Stan Aldridge.

About eight weeks ago the owner of Indianwood Golf and Country Club bought all the property at Keatington Village except Haymakers Restaurant.

And, he's started on a project that he's been thinking about for at least 10 years.

That project: Building an English tudor village with a large Christmas decoration store, restaurant, speciality shops, cider mill, etc.

He said, "I'm excited about the project. I kinda hope it works." He went on to say he'll put every effort possible into his 20-acre development to make it work.

Howard E. Scripps once owned the property. A dozen or more years ago it was developed into Anteque Village. It was home to the Orion Jaycee's Largest Doughnut Festival. The Monk Cider Mill was there, so was Uncle Bob's restaurant and wine store, antique stores and others.

Ben Hazelton built Ben's Bullpen restaurant in one of the barns. Now Haymakers, it remains in the hands of Noah Lambert. St. Marys-in-the-Hills Episcopal Church is a neighbor.

Aldridge said he became interested in the land about 10 years ago, then got busy on developments he has in the U.S. around the world.

When one of the barns burned on the property earlier this year, Realtor Carl Cyrowski contacted

'It's not like Indianwood, where we could continue to build and members could continue to play (golf). This is an all-at-once opening'

--Aldridge

Aldridge and a deal was made with owners Tony Battaglia and Ben Donaldson.

Something is planned for every building on the property, additions will go on some and a gazebo and warehouse will be built.

Always Christmas is the name of biggest barn. It's 14,600 sq. ft. will be totally decorated. There is nothing in it now except the timbers, roof and barn siding.

Incidentally, all the development is expected to open the summer of 1992. "It's not like Indianwood, where we could continue to build and members could continue to play. This is an all-at-once opening," Aldridge said.

Stan Aldridge with his "exciting" Always Christmas and Indianwood Village layout.

A castle-style addition will go on the south end of Always Christmas. It will feature parapet walls and a tower, and add 35,000 sq. ft. for holiday displays.

Two ex-Kmart employees are working on Always Christmas, Ed Scully and John Spinosi. They are developing floor plans and display areas now and will be involved in toy and holiday merchandising.

Reviewing the buildings: The northern-most building will have 10,000 sq ft added, bringing the total to 16,000. It will feature family, home-style restaurant service.

Another building will be just for dolls, another for fudge and ice cream, a clothing store will occupy one and toys and antiques another.

The foundation from the burned barn will hold a brand new facility. It will be for a Disney and Sesame Street outlet. In the yard in this area will be characters from those children's shows. A gazebo that will feature a quartet of strings playing Bach, Beethoven, etc. on Friday and Saturday evenings will also be added in this area.

Aldridge envisions families strolling, picnicking and listening... just casually enjoying themselves... in the mid-park area.

In the half-dozen houses in a row to the west will be a card shop, candle shop, potpourri, crafts or other speciality shops.

A cider mill will be built just south of Greenfield. A water retention basin will be south of the cider mill.

Aldridge said, "A lot of people have looked at this property through the years. It's a substantial gamble and I guess it takes someone nuts like me to try it.

"We will not price ourselves out. What we have will be affordable, but not discount."

Undeveloped at this time is some 50,000 sq ft on the northwest corner of the property. A berm with

'It's going to be neat.
It's going to be fun'

--Aldridge

large screening trees will border it. Aldridge hopes to build additional English-style stores in that area in the future.

Oh, yes, if he can find a person with horses, Aldridge has already purchased seven carriages, rides will be available throughout Indianwood Village.

A sidewalk will be built between the 680-car parking lot and Joslyn Road. There will be three entrances from Joslyn.

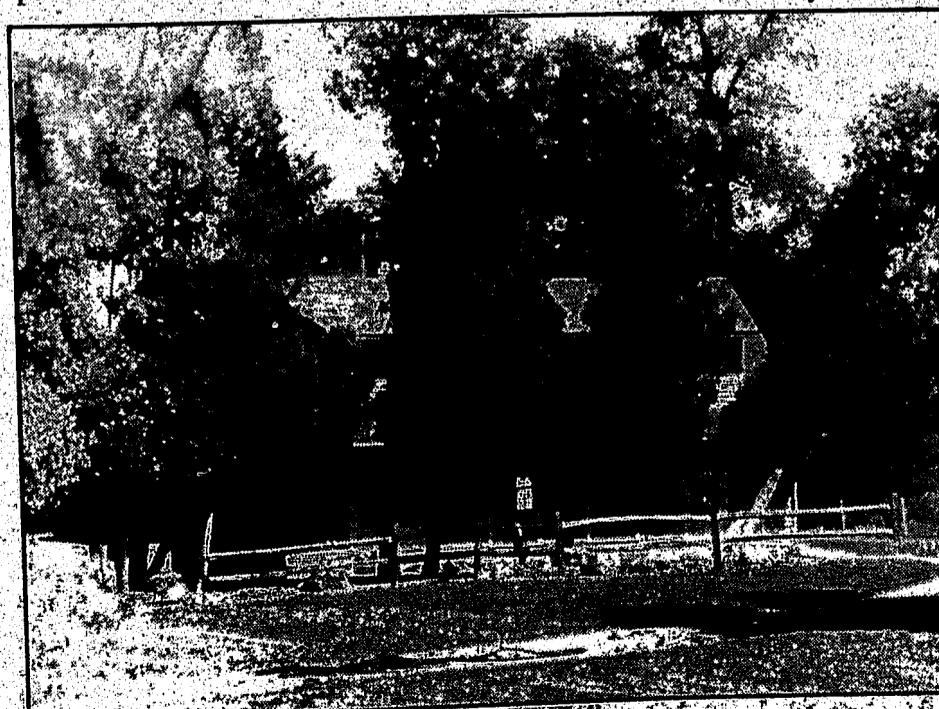

"It's going to be neat. It's going to be fun," Aldridge said. "It will be a real asset and attraction to the township. People will have a place to take their family and friends. Now they have to go to Greenfield Village or someplace. This'll be great for everybody."

Aldridge's daughter, Kelley, is construction manager at Indianwood Village. Her sister, Kimberly, a fashion designer and recently out of design school and back from designing porcelain in Hungary, will have clothing responsibilities.

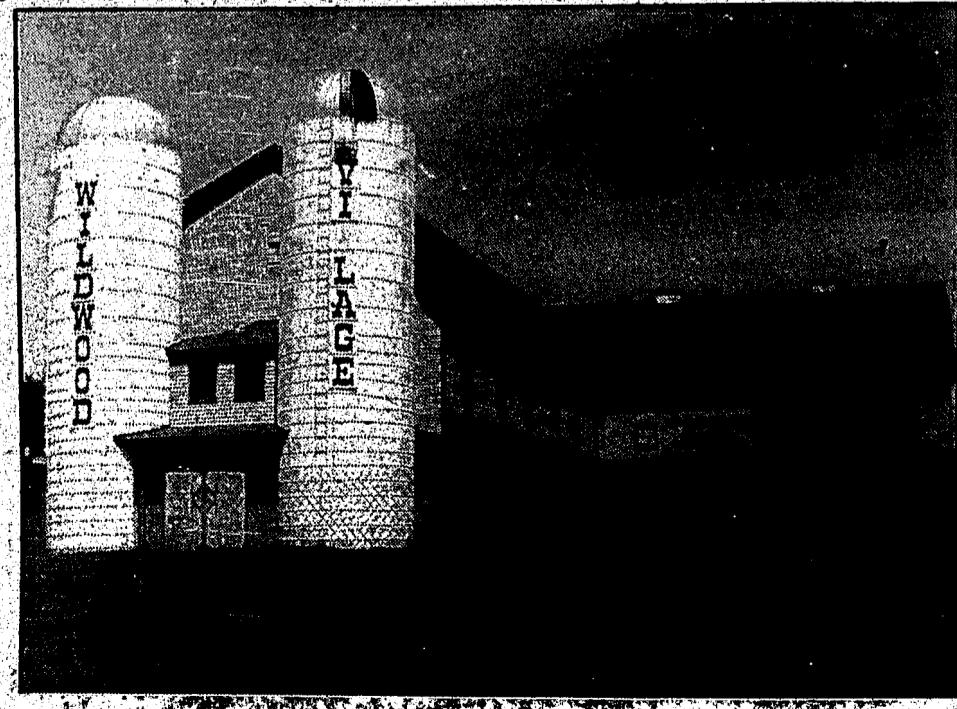

And, his younger daughter, Kattie, is making berets to sell.

Aldridge owns a glass blowing factory in Budapest and is trying to buy a bulb factory in Hungary. His son, Kirk, who runs Aldridge's office in Peking, China, will be buying Christmas related items there.

Aldridge is the second or third largest commercial employer and taxpayer in Orion Township. He expects Indianwood Village to employ 200 to 300 people.

In this setting will be an ice cream and fudge store. No trees will be removed for the new village. New walkways will connect all buildings.

Make that 'Indianwood Village'. This barn's 3 floors will display Christmas items; as will a 35,000 sq. ft. addition on the silo-end.

Tigers lose their voices

James
Gibowski

Aug. 14, 1991

Ernie Harwell and Paul Carey
Tiger Stadium
Detroit, Michigan

Dear Ernie and Paul,

I won't believe it until I can no longer listen to you.
And even then I still won't believe it.
There will be a void after the Oct. 6 Tiger game that no one will be able to fill.

OK, some radio broadcasting team will fill it, but not up to your standards or up to your thousands of loyal listeners' standards (Frank Beckmann or whoever else the Tigers and WJR in their infinite stupidity choose for next season could not even carry your mikes).

Ernie, I'm sure you would be the first person to say, "Give that new broadcasting team a chance."

I know people will continue to tune into Tiger games next season, but as Paul Simon wrote, they will be "hearing without listening."

Sure, they will be hearing the score and some stats. But most likely they will also be hearing some loud, obnoxious cheerleader-type broadcaster like George Blahah describe a Domino's-sponsored double play.

That will be a frightening difference to what they've listened to in the past few decades: enjoying one of Ernie's famous baseball anecdotes even though the Tigers are down by five runs in the seventh, or the pleasure of Paul's baritone at the start of extra-innings.

Of course, only half of this great broadcasting team wanted to leave after this season.

To Paul, I say good luck and good health in your retirement.

To Ernie, I say good luck in Baltimore, Atlanta or whichever team will appreciate your talents. (Also, thanks for your time when I interviewed you while working for the Cheboygan Daily News a few years ago. You're a terrific interviewer and interviewee. And Paul, someday I hope to interview you).

I, like thousands of Tiger fans around the country (and world), will never forgive Tom Monaghan, Bo Schembechler and WJR for firing you (sorry Joe Falls and Mitch Albom, I will never apologize to your bio-book-buddy Bo).

Ernie and Paul listeners' (un)magic number

47

(After the Aug. 14 game, only 47 games left to listen to two of baseball's sweetest-sounding radio announcers. If you must watch the Tigers on TV, try turning the volume all the way down on Al, George, Jim and Larry and tune in to Ernie and Paul — you'll "see" more baseball that way.)

Nor could I ever forgive WJR's J.P. McCarthy for saying he was surprised you were fired when Dave Diles told him it would happen months before. Nor can I ever forgive Frank Beckmann for saying you lost some of your broadcasting skill.

I predict some Detroit radio station will be carrying Baltimore Oriole games (or whatever team you team up with) next season so Tiger fans can still savor your voice. After all, your Hall of Fame announcing goes beyond any one team. It hits the spot for any baseball fan, and it hits well over .300.

To honor your remaining weeks of broadcasting for the Tigers, the sports pages of the Clarkston News will publish a countdown of games left (the "Ernie and Paul listeners un(magic) number").

It is difficult for me to separate the loss of your voices with the Tigers' "new direction" threat to destroy Tiger Stadium.

A new stadium could never replace the intimacy of Tiger Stadium, fans being so close to the action.

A new Tiger radio broadcasting team could never replace the intimacy of your voices.

I've read about, listened to or watched thousands of Tiger losses. But none of those losses (even the last game of the 1967 season) will ever compare with the loss of your voices.

Prep sports attendance passes 1 million mark

Spectator attendance at Michigan High School Athletic Association tournaments topped the one million mark during the 1990-91 school year.

With 128 teams reaching the football playoffs in eight classes, attendance was high for the first three rounds of the tournament, but did not quite double that of the marks set in previous years. However, the two-day finals attendance of 55,127 just passed the one-day final mark of 53,904 in 1986.

Attendance at girls' tournaments continued to climb, with the 1990-91 total of 219,224 topping the 1988-89 mark of 211,336. The figure does not include cross country and track, the only series in which boys and girls compete at the same site.

Of the sports setting attendance records for their respective tournament series, baseball and cross country set new marks at all levels. The final baseball attendance of 19,187 broke the 1988 record of 17,764; and cross country spectatorship enjoyed a 24 percent increase over the record-setting mark of the previous year, with 9,788.

Boys and girls soccer continued steady attendance growth, with the boys' tournament setting new records at the district, regional and finals level of that series to finish with 18,917 spectators, breaking the 1989-90 mark of 16,261. The regional attendance nearly doubled in setting a mark for the second straight year, with 7,242 in 1990-91, compared to 3,737 in 1989-90.

Girls' soccer drew 7,976 fans, breaking the old record of 5,768 set in 1989-90. Along the way, girls' soccer also broke attendance marks at the district, regional and semifinal levels.

Softball finished its series with a record 16,312 attendance, breaking the 1988 mark of 13,555, with new records also set at the district and regional levels of play. Girls' swimming hit 3,600 in 1990-91, breaking the 1989-90 mark of 2,991.

Volleyball set a final round attendance figure with 7,410 fans attending the two days of action in Kalamazoo, breaking the 1990 mark of 5,630. Also setting a new record at the district level, volleyball ended its series with 31,220, breaking the 1990 record of 29,132.

Team wrestling continued to grow in popularity, especially at the local level, where the team district tournament outdrew the district individual tournament for the second straight year. Team wrestling set attendance records at the regional and finals level in finishing with a new high of 22,894, topping the previous figure of 22,731 in 1990.

Some tournament series, such as boys' and girls' basketball, saw a slight decrease in attendance, but for the year, the total paid attendance of 1,051,772 was up seven percent from the previous year. The actual attendance figure is slightly higher, as the MHSAA does not generally charge admission for alpine skiing, golf and tennis post-season events.

The Independence Township Fire Department (ITFD) is $3,170 richer, thanks to some philanthropic efforts.

A golf outing offered by RRT Specialists, a medical supply group, raised that much money this year, and company officials decided to give it to the ITFD.

"I can use that money for whatever I wish, but they would like it to be used for medical-related reasons," said Gar Wilson, ITFD chief.

Wilson said he may use the money to buy exercise equipment to help ITFD employees stay in shape.

RRT Specialists, based in Waterford, recently opened an office in the new A&P shopping center on Dixie Highway at White Lake Road, Independence Township.

Republican speaker set

An open forum sponsored by a local Republican club will feature James Alexander, chairman of the Oakland County Republican Party and member of the State Board of Canvassers.

The forum is scheduled for 7 p.m. on Sept. 10 at the Clubhouse of Hidden Lakes Apartments, east off of Sashabaw Road, between Maybee Road and I-75.

The Independence Republicans have invited Mr. Alexander to discuss reapportionment, county Republican Party activities and his involvement in other important state issues.

Anyone with interest in these topics is welcome to attend. Please confirm at 625-1800.

New high school students should call now to register

New 10th-, 11th- and 12th-grade students in the Clarkston school district should call now to register for classes.

Principal Robert Burek said the students should make an appointment with a counselor at the school to register for fall classes.

The office is open 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. For more information, call 625-0900.

Business Brief

Area author writes on discipline

A Clarkston-area psychotherapist and graduate of Oakland University has written "Discipline: A Sourcebook of Fifty Failsafe Techniques for Parents."

James Windell's common-sense approach to discipline offers a variety of techniques to be used according to the situation and the child's age.

"Of all the things parents try, nagging is one of the most ineffective," Windell says. "Yet mothers and fathers nag constantly."

Each chapter addressed different areas of concern — correcting behavior, teaching lessons, encouraging desired behavior, etc.

Most techniques are less a matter of disciplining a particular problem than establishing communication habits.

Chapter-by-chapter summaries of the techniques make this a quick reference for parents. It does not advocate one school of discipline but encourages parents to try a variety of solutions.

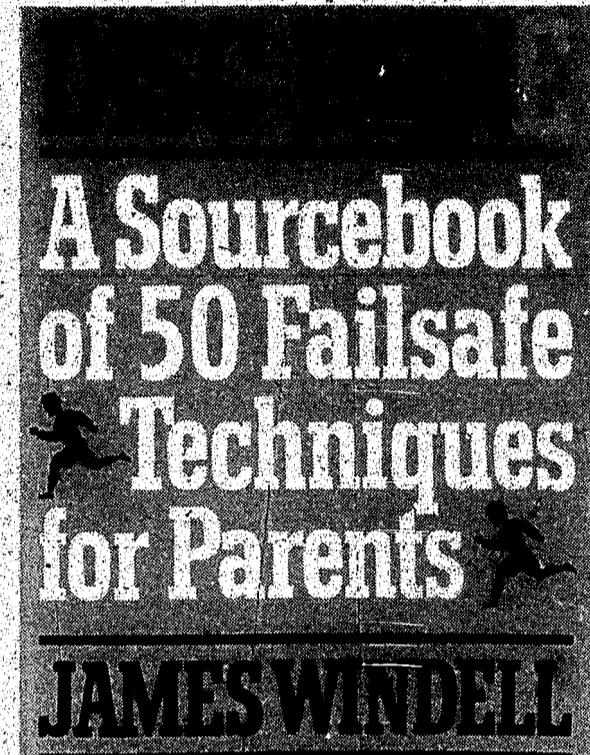

Windell specializes in childhood, adolescent and discipline problems. He is a clinical psychologist with Michigan's Oakland County Juvenile Court Psychological Clinic, where he teaches needed skills to parents of delinquents.

He has also written a weekly column, "Coping With Kids," in the Oakland Press for more than four years.

Windell earned his master's degree in clinical psychology from Oakland University, Rochester, and has been a consultant to the State of Michigan and the Department of Social Services.

Married and the father of two children, he lives in the Clarkston area.

The book, which was due in Michigan book stores on Aug. 6, may be ordered through Macmillan/ Collier Publishing by calling 1-800-323-7445.

PSYCHOTHERAPIST James Windell has published a book on discipline techniques for parents.

Model turns heads at competition

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Growing up, a lot of young girls fantasize about someday being a model.

For 24-year-old Tana Leah Lorenger of Springfield Township, this dream is very close to becoming a reality.

Lorenger, a 1985 graduate of Clarkston High School, recently participated in the Model of the Year-U.S.A. pageant in Mount Clemens, where she turned the heads of several modeling agents.

At the pageant, she competed against 180 other contestants from around the state. Lorenger didn't win the contest, but she was chosen as a calendar girl for the current issue of Model Biz Magazine.

Lorenger said modeling agents often use the magazine as a tool to finding a model with a specific "look."

At the pageant, she was also interviewed by a number of national and international companies after her performance in the preliminary competition.

Her showing in the pageant also impressed an agent with The Talent Shop in Birmingham enough to schedule her for an exclusive interview. If she's employed with this firm, Lorenger could be asked to make appearances at grand openings and car shows.

This will be the first of many interviews for the AAA insurance agent. Next month, she will be flying to Chicago with four other contestants to meet with two national modeling agencies.

The five women were chosen to make the trip by the organizers of the contest because they all had particular strengths, Lorenger said.

Lorenger said she enjoyed the contest but was nervous during the three-part preliminary competition. These segments included the swim suit competition, runway walking and fielding questions as a spokesmodel.

Tana's mother, Jan Dean of Clarkston, said she was very proud of her daughter's performances.

"Tana was terrific. Of all the girls in the competition, she received the most call-backs from agencies, with 14," Dean said. "I think she's really got an opportunity to go somewhere."

Lorenger, a registered representative on the New York Stock Exchange, has had a busy year so far.

Besides preparing for the pageant these last four months, she also had a wedding to plan. On April 20, Tana

"They considered my appearance to be on the glamorous side, like that of a soap opera actress."

Tana Lorenger

married Ken Lorenger of Springfield Township.

Tana credits Ken with pushing her into the pageant.

"He's the one who originally encouraged me to enter this contest," she said. "My whole family has been very supportive of me."

Afterward, Lorenger said, some of the pageant officials suggested that she look at acting as a possible career. "I was told that I had sort of a movie star look," she said. "They considered my appearance to be on the glamorous side, like that of a soap opera actress. I was told more than once to consider taking acting classes."

While a modeling career intrigues her, Lorenger said she's not quite ready to move yet. She'd like to get a foothold locally first.

"I'm hoping that my interview with that Birmingham company works out," she said. "I'm not officially a model until I get my first job and, hopefully, that day isn't too far away."

TANA Lorenger of Springfield Township is an aspiring model who gained a lot of attention at the Model of the Year-USA pageant July 27.

TANA is waiting for her career to take off, following a good showing in Mt. Clemens.

A little care can keep trees healthy, sturdy

Trees seem such a permanent part of the landscape that it's easy to forget that they do die, sometimes of natural causes and sometimes from abuse or neglect, by accident or even by suicide.

Natural causes include drought, insect and disease attack and lightning, according to Mel Koelling, Michigan State University Extension forestry specialist. Frequently, a tree will die as the result of a combination of

Light and tasty

Even if you're watching what you eat, you can still enjoy sweets.

Simply substitute a more healthful oil, such as olive oil, in your recipes.

Pompeian, Inc., offers the following tips about the best olive oil for your recipe:

■ Extra Virgin. The product of the first cold pressing of the olive, its flavor is smooth with a hint of fresh olives. Use it in full-flavored recipes such as carrot, fruit and spice cakes.

■ 100 Percent Pure. A balance of Extra Light and Extra Virgin olive oils, its mild, round flavor adds moisture and a moderate flavor to muffins and quick breads.

■ Extra Light. Refined and neutral in taste, it retains all the benefits of cooking with olive oil without adding flavor to the recipe. Use it in pound cake, pastry dough, yeast breads and drop cookies.

EXTRA LIGHT POUND CAKE

2 1/4 cups sifted cake flour

1 1/4 teaspoons salt

1 teaspoon baking powder

1 1/4 cups sugar

2/3 cup Extra Light olive oil

1 teaspoon grated lemon peel

1 tablespoon lemon juice

2/3 cup milk

3 whole eggs (or egg substitute)

Sift together flour, salt and baking powder. Blend olive oil and sugar on medium mixer speed for 3 minutes. Add lemon peel and juice; follow with milk, and mix well.

Add sifted ingredients to oil mixture, blending for 2 minutes at low mixer speed. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition.

Pour into oiled and floured bundt pan. Bake at 300 degrees for 1 hour, 25 minutes, or until golden brown and cake tests done. Cool slightly and turn the cake out onto a cooling rack.

causes.

"A tree weakened by drought, for instance, may then fall victim to attack by insects or diseases," he explains. "Eventually it becomes so weak that something finishes it off."

Lightning strikes are a natural hazard of trees standing taller than surrounding objects. A tree may appear undamaged but die later because of internal damage, or it may be split or have the bark blasted right off it and survive.

A heavy load of snow or ice may also cause trees to bend or break. Especially vulnerable are trees with narrow, V-shaped crotches, many branches and vines growing on them. Such crotches are weak, and vines and extra branches provide more surface to accumulate ice. Broken bark may allow fungi and other disease organisms or insects to get established in damaged trees.

Bending without breaking may disrupt the flow of water and nutrients from the roots to the branches and the movement of food from foliage to the roots. Disrupting this circulation eventually kills the plant.

It's far better to remove any encircling roots at planting time, Keoelling suggests. At the same time, remove any wire, nylon cord or other non-biodegradable materials from the rootball. These will restrict root growth and probably kill the plant in time.

Another form of neglect or abuse is to allow a twining vine to climb into a tree. Wisteria, bittersweet, grapevines and trumpet vine may twine around the main trunk or branches and gradually kill them. Grow these plants on posts; trellises or fences rather than on living supports, Koelling says.

Using trees as clothesline supports or fenceposts or tying or chaining a dog to tree can also kill the tree. Clothesline or fence wire can't stretch and expand as the tree grows and may girdle it. The tree that survives by covering the wire and healing over it will be weak at that point. A chain or nylon cord looped around the trunk may saw through the bark and girdle the tree.

"This seems like a long list of hazards, but trees actually are not very demanding," Koelling says. "With only a minimum of care to keep them healthy and prevent injuries, trees will provide beauty and shade for years."

Sales."

THE MOST COSTLY mistake a seller can make is to set the wrong selling price on his home.

MAX BROOCK INC.
REALTORS

27 S. Main, Clarkston
625-9300

QUESTION: How do I go about setting the right price to sell my house? My neighbor's and friend's suggestions vary by thousands of dollars - not even close.

ANSWER: What your house is worth is not what you think it is, or what the buyer might think it is. Its true value is determined by its location, the general economic climate, the current local real estate situation, the age of the property and the wear and tear it has seen. Call in a well-established local REALTOR for this vital determination. He or she is in constant touch with the local market and KNOWS what homes are selling at what prices.

Mitchell, Napier exchange vows

Natalie Marie Mitchell of Waterford, formerly of Clarkston, and Lee Hoyt Napier of Waterford, formerly of Durand, were united in marriage Feb. 23, 1991, before 128 guests.

The Rev. Douglas R. Trebilcock officiated at the ceremony at Clarkston United Methodist Church, which was decorated with two lighted candelabra at the altar and lighted candles in all windows. The bride's mother made the ivory pew bows with pearl strands, feathers and gold roses.

The bride, a 1982 graduate of Clarkston High School, is credit manager for The Premarc Corp. and currently attends Oakland University, Rochester. She is the daughter of Lawrence J. and Nancy L. Mitchell Jr. of Clarkston.

The bridegroom, a 1982 graduate of Durand Area High School, is human resources director for the Premarc Corp. and is to graduate from Oakland University with a bachelor's degree in human resources development in August 1991. He is the son of Marvin J. and Beverly Napier of Lennon and formerly of Durand.

The bride wore an ivory, off-the-shoulder, raw silk gown with a fitted bodice and a full, floor-length skirt. The bride's grandmother handmade the cathedral-length veil. The bride also carried a bouquet of pink roses and accent flowers.

Maid of honor was Sherry L. Brian of Waterford, a friend of the bride. Other attendants were Penny L. Atkins of Waterford and Jaime L. Kenyon of Clarkston, both friends of the bride.

They wore iridescent eggplant off-the-shoulder taffeta dresses featuring a fitted bodice and a full, floor-length skirt. They also carried nosegay bouquets of pink roses and accent flowers.

Best man was Dwain D. Drlik of Vernon, a friend of the groom. Groomsmen were Alan C. Napier of Swartz Creek and Damon C. Napier of Durand, brothers of the groom.

Ushers included Terence M. Sedam of Pontiac and Gerald J. Sedam of Waterford, cousins of the bride, and Dwight E. Napier, brother of the groom.

Soloist was Roger D. Napier, the groom's brother.

A reception for 128 guests at the Spring Lake Country Club, Clarkston, followed the ceremony.

The newlyweds took a wedding trip to Grand Traverse Resort, Traverse City, and now make their home in Waterford.

NEWLYWEDS: Mr. and Mrs. Lee H. Napier.

40 years together

Richard and Nora Jorgensen of Clarkston celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary July 7. They were honored by their four children with a catered gourmet dinner in their home July 10. The couple plans to take a cruise vacation in February 1992.

New arrival

David and Kelly (Jett) McNeil of Lancaster Lakes, Independence Township, are the proud parents of a new baby boy.

Jake Maxwell McNeil was born July 18, 1991, at Crittenton Hospital, Rochester. He weighed 8 pounds, 1 ounce, and measured 20 1/4 inches long.

He has one brother, Kenneth David, 1 1/2.

Grandparents are Kenneth and Patricia Jett of Clarkston, Lawrence and Marge McNeil of Ortonville, Stephanie Harms of Florida and Richard Harms of Clarkston.

Great-grandparents are Madeleine Jett of Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Carol Boylan of Florida and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Passeno of Hazel Park.

Honors

John Matthew Robenault of Ellis Road was named to the dean's list for the spring term at Lake Superior State University, Sault Ste. Marie.

Robenault is a senior majoring in criminal justice and law enforcement as well as natural resources.

At Bailey Lake Elementary School on Pine Knob Road, Independence Township, three fifth-graders received special end-of-year awards.

Scott Lehmer and Kristin Morefield received the Principal's Award from Principal Doris Mousseau. Mara deWitt received the Michigan Elementary and Middle School Principal Association Award.

Audrey Sabrina Luster was among the 2,200 students from the University of Kansas Lawrence campus who were named to the honor roll for the spring semester.

Audrey, a senior in the School of Business, is the daughter of Marvin and Lesley Luster of Almond Lane, Independence Township.

Matthew Craig Barresi and Jeffery R. McNish, both of Independence Township, were named to the dean's list for the second semester of 1990-91 at Indiana University, Bloomington Campus, Ind.

Barresi resides on Ashwood Court. McNish resides on Autumnglo Drive.

Michelle A. Darby of Reese Road and Stacey L. Green of Sun Valley Drive, both of Independence Township, were among the Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, students named to the dean's list.

Following the completion of the 1991 spring semester, Todd L. Zeller of Clarkston has been awarded a diploma from Spring Arbor College, Spring Arbor.

Zeller, the son of Lawrence and Carol Zeller of Snowapple Drive, Independence Township, earned a bachelor's degree in communication.

At school

Stacy Galazin of Clarkston and Debbie Leach and Melissa Schettling of Davisburg were among the 100 high school students selected to study special topics during two weeks this summer at Hope College, Holland.

The college is hosting one of 10 Michigan Department of Education Summer Institutes for the Arts, Sciences and Technology. Coordinated through the state Board of Education, the institutes provide an opportunity for highly motivated 10th- and 11th-grade students to take part in non-traditional learning experiences. Activities range from group discussion, research, lab and field experiences to simulations, art production and performances.

Electrolysis may solve hair-raising problems

BY DENNIS V. CARTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Some events in life are referred to as "hair-raising," but a visit to the local electrolysis establishment is a hair-removing experience.

Elena Forbes of Clarkston opened the doors to the Electrolysis Clinic of Clarkston on July 25. Her new business is above the Clarkston Cafe on Main Street in downtown Clarkston.

"I felt there was a great need for it here — plain and simple," she said. "Most people experience some type hair growth that they wish they could get rid of, and that is where I come into the picture."

According to Elena, the electrolysis process destroys the hair root.

"We insert a very fine probe into the follicle and then opening her own clinic.

"I've wanted to do this for a long time, but I wanted to raise my children (three boys and a girl) first, so I just put it on the back burner," she said. "But I always knew that one day I would do it."

ELENA FORBES is the mother of three boys and one girl. She opened her new business above the Clarkston Cafe on Main Street on July 25.

It was about five years ago that Elena decided she would get serious about her idea to open a clinic.

"I knew the time was getting right," Elena said. "I just needed to find the right school to attend. About a year ago I began school right here in Clarkston at the Clarkston Electrolysis School."

After being certified and obtaining her state license, Elena was ready to go.

"It took about one month to get a place to open up in and get the needed equipment," she said.

Elena said she uses disposable probes and everything is sterilized.

"The safety and health factors are very important me," she said. "I'm a people person. Communication is very important, so I go over everything that will be done and show them that their health is important to me."

Elena said it's important that the client know he or she will feel a certain amount of discomfort.

"I give free consultations," she said. "I tell them there will be some discomfort. They will experience a slight sensation, I want them to talk to me, because this procedure is done under the skin and they have to tell me what they are feeling."

apply a slight current," Elena said. "The current from the probe comes into contact with the moisture and salt in the tissue and produces a lye, which then destroys the hair root."

Hair removal is nothing new and has been done for centuries.

"The ancient Romans and Greeks used different types of instruments to remove hair. Even in the tombs of Egyptians, they found scars on the mummies which indicated they had used something to remove unwanted hair," she explained.

According to Elena, she can remove unwanted hair from any part of the body except the inner ear and eyelids.

"In Europe it is no big thing. In Italy where I'm from, there are clinics like this all over," she said. "They have a problem, and so they just take care of it."

Survivors
By Grampa Jay

Our sons say, there are no jobs that pay enough money
I can't find a job, I want to live off of you Mommy
Son you say, you can't live on that loaf of bread they pay
But you can live on the crumbs from friends-family today

Tell me son why are there people coming in from out of state
Painting homes and doing odd jobs for a nominal rate
You say son they are wanderers and you think they are bums
No, son they're survivors working for little money that comes

Son you are a bum using people, you are the one not working
They are survivors doing jobs, guys like you are shirking
This is America the land of the free and of milk and honey
How do you expect to live without working to earn any money

Sure there are giants out there they don't pay much money
You have to put your best foot forward, work for that honey
A company ad "Help wanted" is for whoever will may come
Get off your behind GO FOR IT SON and DON'T BE A BUM

When you go for an interview, smile with your head held high
A good attitude, it shows people you can succeed if you try
Have courage when you really want that job it will show
Walk briskly, talk sharp with a bright smile they will know

You are the person they want to hire, a pleasure to be with
Not a person that is down trodden not sure he wants to live
But can be reliable to the company has something to give
Not some one who lives just for vacations and coffee

Obituaries

Richard C. Hess

Richard C. Hess, 57, of Norfolk, Conn., died Aug. 5. He was a prize-winning graphic designer, illustrator and painter who began his career by creating pictures for the paint-by-the-numbers kits in the 1950's. He designed magazine, corporate and packaging graphics for many corporations, including the American Broadcasting Company and Xerox. His illustrations appeared on the covers of Time, TV Guide, New York and Esquire Magazines. For Esquire's June 1967 issue he created a partly filled-in-paint-by-the-numbers drawing of President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Mr. Hess was class president of the 1951 January graduating class of Royal Oak High School. At 18, he was hired by the Palmer Paint Company, which specialized in children's coloring books, to work on mass producing the paint-by-the-numbers drawing kits.

Hess worked as an art director at advertising agencies including J. Walter Thompson, N.W. Ayer and Benton & Bowles. In 1965 he founded his own design studio. He made posters for the New York City Opera and the television sports series "The Way It Was." Exhibitions of his work have been held in Paris, Venice, Milan, Italy and Detroit, and his paintings are in the permanent collections of the Smithsonian Institution, the National Portrait Gallery and the Museum of Modern Art.

A founding member of the Illustrators Guild, Mr. Hess was active in many art and design professional groups. Elected to the New York Art Directors Club Hall of Fame this year, he will be inducted posthumously in the fall.

In addition to his son, Mark, of Katonah, N.Y., he is survived by another son, Adam, and a daughter, Sarah, both of Norfolk; his parents, Evelyn and Cletus Hess, of Clarkston; two sisters, Jacqueline Nowicki, of Ortonville, and Patricia Massey, of Seattle, and three grandchildren.

Reba Keneipp

Reba (Middleton) Keneipp, 71, died Aug. 3, 1991. She was born May 25, 1920, in Saline County, Ill. She was the wife of the late Charles S. Keneipp.

Mrs. Keneipp was a long-time member of the First Social Brethren Church of Pontiac.

She is survived by her children, Shirley (Ken) Woven and Sharry (Doug) Doty, and grandchildren, Paul Woven, Jessica Doty and Jeremy Doty, all of Clarkston; sisters-in-law, Martha Barger of Lake Orion and Vivian Hancock of Pontiac; and many nieces, nephews, cousins and friends.

The funeral service was Aug. 5 at the Lewis E. Wint and Son TRUST 100 Funeral Home, Clarkston, with the Rev. Edward Darnell officiating. Burial was at the Palestine Cemetery, Saline County, Ill.

Memorial tributes may be made to the First Social Brethren Church of Pontiac or the Michigan Parkinson's Foundation.
