Cityhood 'stay' hearing Sept. 11

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

The latest chapter in the Clarkston cityhood lawsuit has been scheduled for Oakland County Circuit Court Wednesday, Sept. 11.

Originally slated for Aug. 28, the case was adjourned because Judge John O'Brien failed to appear in court.

Next week, O'Brien will be considering a "stay of proceedings," requested by Independence Township in July.

If the judge approves, the injunction would stop the Village of Clarkston from incorporating as a city until a Michigan Court of Appeals judge issues a decision on the township's lawsuit against the State Boundary Commission.

Last year, the State Boundary Commission granted village citizens the right to vote on cityhood.

However, the township filed a lawsuit, charging that the Boundary Commission did not have the legal right to allow the village to become a city. The court ruled in favor of the Boundary Commission, and the township appealed the decision.

Due to a heavy caseload in the appeals court, a decision probably won't be made until 1993. If all goes as scheduled, cityhood could be achieved by the spring of 1992.

Independence officials contend that if they win the appeals court decision, and if the village becomes a city, it would be costly and confusing to reverse the cityhood process that would have been in place a year.

Pre-exam reset

A Lapeer County grandfather charged with the sexual assault of his 5-year-old grandson will have to wait a few more weeks for his preliminary exam.

Originally scheduled for Aug. 30, the grandfather's attorney requested the exam be postponed. It now is set for 9 a.m. Sept. 20 before Judge John T. Connolly in 71st District Court, Lapeer.

The 46-year-old grandfather, whose first name is Terry, resides in Deerfield Township and was charged Aug. 24 on one count of first-degree criminal sexual assault. His last name is being withheld to protect the 5-year-old, who shares the same name.

Terry is one of three people charged with criminal sexual assault against the boy. The boy's father, David Lewis Simpson III, and Simpson's friend, Paul Matthew Salvino, both 23, of Independence Township were charged with two counts of first-degree criminal sexual conduct and two counts of first-degree child abuse on July 15 in 52nd District Court, Independence Township. They have been bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court.

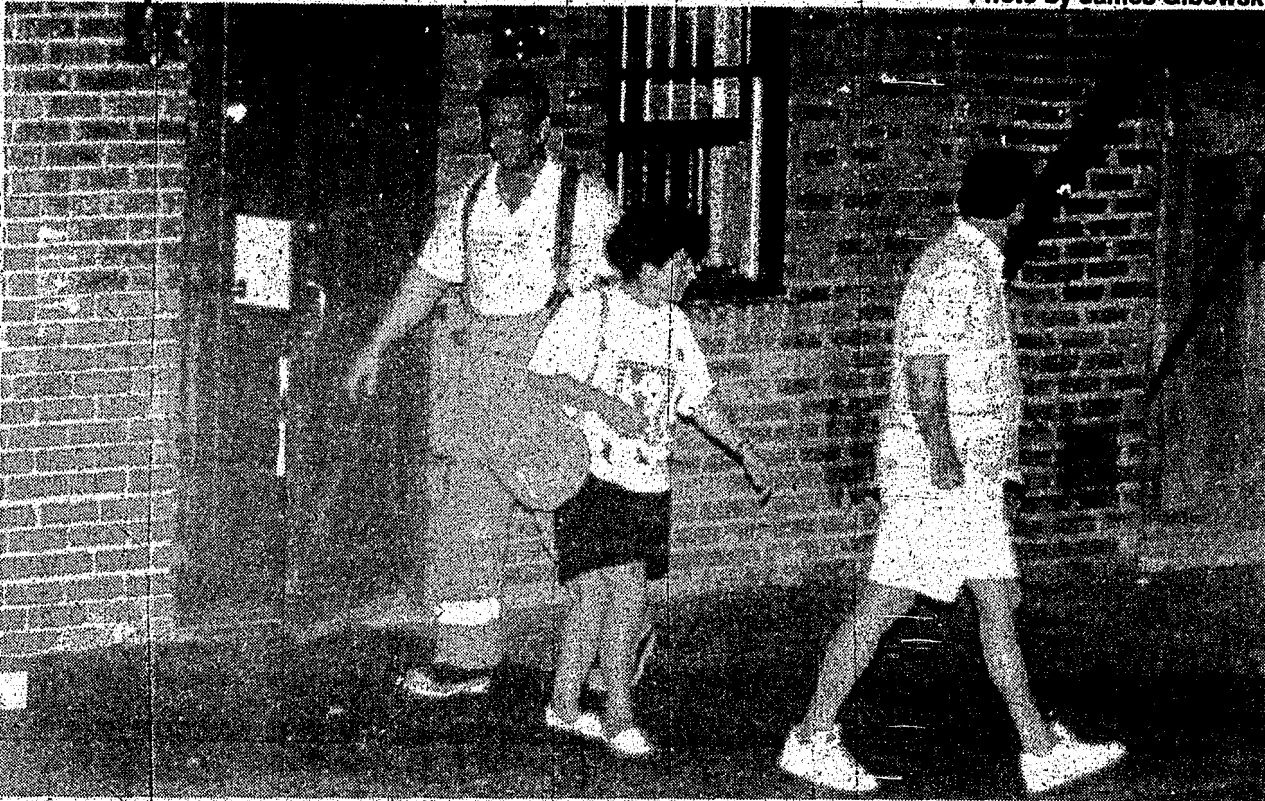

The child's mother, Carolyn Dean of Caro, and Simpson also face charges of neglect. State social workers are trying to end the couple's parental rights. The boy currently is in the custody of the state.

ABOUT 10 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 29, diners are evacuated from the Clarkston Cafe due to burning electrical wires. The fire did not cause any structural damage.

Sparks fly at Clarkston Cafe

BY DENNIS V. CARTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Lights flickered and sparks flew around 10:10 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 29, when wires leading to the Clarkston Cafe caught fire.

"The lights started flickering, so we went out back to see what was wrong," said Cafe manager John Flack. "I was glad to see that the flames were small, and once we saw what was going on, we contacted the fire department."

Once the fire department arrived, the building on Main Street, Clarkston, was cleared, and the small flames were put out.

According to Chief Gar Wilson of the Independence Township Fire Department, the flames were caused by Detroit Edison wires coming into the building. The wires were determined to be too small for the amount of service required.

Damage was minimal, and power was restored later that night after the Cafe had been closed.

On Friday, the Cafe was back to business as normal.

"We lost some business Thursday night, but everything was back to normal Friday," said Flack.

Correction

In last week's issue of The Clarkston News, a girls' basketball preview stated that Jennifer McChesney and Beth Walker were two starters from last year's team lost to graduation. Omitted was another starter who graduated, Carrie Roeser. Roeser not only started on the basketball team last year but also was an all-state skier, broke a school record in track and was selected as the school's top senior female athlete.

Teens find fun in week-long community projects

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Special Writer

A group of student volunteers brightened the homes and the hearts of several Clarkston-area residents last week.

Righteous Mission '91 brought together 28 young people from three churches and matched them with several projects coordinated by Lighthouse North Caregivers.

Among the work: constructing a ramp on Pine Knob Lane for the family of an elderly man confined to a wheelchair.

"Woody," as he is known to family and friends, lives in a nursing home and had been able to come home just three times this past year.

Even when he did visit, project coordinators say, the family was forced to gather in the garage—the only place in which the wheelchair could gain access.

Other work was done at Carmen Ormsby's trailer home, where students painted the ceiling and washed windows.

"Everything I wanted done they just did," Carmen said. "They're great kids. It was just wonderful."

The projects are overseen by adult leaders and, in some cases, craftsmen such as local residents Dick Moscovic and Steve Wyckoff.

The Kroger Co. donated food for the volunteers.

This is the third year of the Righteous Mission project, which is coordinated by Clarkston United Methodist Church, Davisburg United Methodist Church and Grace Christian Church in Warren.

Teens ranging in age from 13 to 19 were housed for the week at Christ the King camp in Oxford in exchange for scraping and painting buildings at the camp.

Teens also did odd jobs, painting, cleaning and yard work for several low income elderly residents of Clarkston, Orion and Pontiac.

After working on various projects throughout the day, the teens were treated to a special activity in the evening.

Project God, a Christian music group, performed a special concert for participants one evening; a scavenger hunt was coordinated another night.

The week is fun, the teens say, not so much for the evening activities, but to see the gratitude of those they are helping.

Area elderly get help from teens

A few elderly residents in the area received some help around the house and yard this week, thanks to about 30 industrious teen-agers.

Righteous Mission '91 Youth Work Camp participants came from the following churches.

Clarkston United Methodist: Tina Sutherland, Lorretta Gellish, Mike Herban, Sara Evilsizer, Christy Mitcham, Steve Tungate, Joel Mellen, Devin DuPree and Jeremy Deloney.

Adults: Youth Director John Leece, Brenda DuPree, Emily Sutherland and Carla Mitcham.

Davisburg United Methodist: Matt Marcell, Kevin Still, Shawn Taylor, Elizabeth Cooper, Tom Lawson, Dan Leach and Don Simota.

Adults: Youth Pastor Mark Loucks, Wayne Samuel, Diane Loucks, Stacy Banaszak, Kris Titherage and Sharon Leeper.

Grace Christian, Warren: Terri Tocco, Andrea Mroz, Susan Kamieniecki, Erin Galbraith, Melanie McMenemy, Guy Meyers, Brandon Meyers, Jason Lemmon, Eric Galbraith, Aaron Weinzierl, Joe Harm and Paul Zink.

Adults: Youth Pastor Ron Raciti, Stan Kamieniecki, Kevin Krieger and Dan Barterian.

New CHS program motivates pupils with rewards

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

If you ask high school instructors or administrators what they desire the most from their students, they'll tell you -- motivation.

At Clarkston High, administrators have implemented the "Renaissance" program, which rewards students for giving their all to the school.

This is the first year that the nationally recognized program has been offered at CHS. It is supported by the Parent Volunteer Organization (PVO) and sponsored by nearly 20 area merchants.

Renaissance is structured around academic and extra-curricular achievement. However, at this initial stage, the program focuses on improved student attendance, which is necessary for academic growth.

Under the program, high school students are asked to sign a pledge card at the beginning of the semester, saying they'll have perfect attendance throughout the school's attendance rate.

"We're presently standing at about 90 percent daily attendance with a lot of room for improvement," Cooley said. "This is a much better school when all our kids are here."

"We see the Renaissance program as a positive approach for a bunch of positive kids," added the assistant vice principal.

marking period. At the end of the semester, the students who have fulfilled their obligation will be eligible for $250 in prizes at a schoolwide raffle.

According to Assistant Vice Principal Brent Cooley, about a third of the students, or 450, have signed this perfect attendance pledge sheet. Many more are expected to sign up by the Sept. 9 deadline.

The prizes are being paid for with money donated by the Clarkston Rotary Club.

However, all students with perfect attendance will be receiving tokens of recognition. They include gift certificates for free or reduced items from many of the 20 area sponsors of the Renaissance program.

Barely two weeks into the school year, Cooley said the students have already taken to the program.

"We think we've struck a nerve with the kids," he said. "They seem to be enthusiastic about the program and the prospect of winning a few prizes."

Cooley said the program should also help raise the students who have pledged perfect attendance through the Renaissance program.

Bubbly future

My friendship with Tim and Tanya Butler of Rochester goes back a few years.

Tim and Tanya had dated in high school. My husband Chris and Tim had played sports together and later were roommates while each worked full time and attended college part time.

Meanwhile, Tanya and I were away at different colleges. Occasionally, we two couples would get together for an evening out -- or in -- and the bonds of friendship were formed.

I used to call Chris after 11 p.m. (when it was cheaper), and sometimes he would ask me to call back.

"Call me in a half hour -- Tim and I are watching the 'Three Stooges,'" he would say and then hang up. I could hear laughter before the loud "click."

I later found that Tanya had had the same experience. We did not share their admiration for the Stooges.

Once we all visited Tanya in Ann Arbor and giddily played "Garbage Can Top," a game from Chris' childhood, which required determination and quickness and no mercy if one wanted to win the game.

Tanya and I quickly dropped our shields of niceties. We found we that we liked winning as much as the two males in our midst. I was glad that Tanya exposed the more competitive side of herself. That way I wouldn't have to feel so bad should I begin to froth at the mouth in my anticipation of a victory.

That competitive spirit carried over to other activities, such as Euchre or Pictionary. Tanya and I found that we worked well as a team in Pictionary, much to the despair of Chris and Tim, whose competitive spirit knows no bounds.

It could have been embarrassing. But since each of us had revealed a side that not too many see, it wasn't. After that, there was no hiding that darker side of ourselves.

Chris and I were excited when Tim and Tanya told us they were expecting their first child. We watched as they became more and more confident as parents of Brianne, now 5, and later Alyssa, now 2.

There were evenings when they would just beam, tired yet content. Chris and I beamed at them and afterward would note the changes in them and in our relationship with them -- good changes and interesting.

When we spent five days with the Butler family on remote Beaver Island this summer, we didn't know what to expect exactly.

But it was great to get to know Brianne and Alyssa as people. In the past, we only heard stories about them or saw them only as they scampered off to bed or as we left them with babysitters on our way out the door.

Here was Brianne, the imaginative and talkative and determined one, who, like each of her parents, is a strong-willed first born. Then there is Alyssa, smiling and kind of quiet and even a bit sneaky. She is quick to grin and quick to make people laugh. She notices everything and is pure action. Already, she has a powerful and accurate overhand throw.

And then there were Tim and Tanya themselves, so relaxed yet firm with the two girls.

After a day full of sun and surf, the girls were put to bed -- with more giggles and talking than usual since they had to share a room. Then, Tim, Tanya, Chris and I sat down for a few hours of discussion under the meteor-filled sky or a competitive game of Scategories, which we quickly abandoned.

We could admit it, since we were friends. The game brought out some of the worst in us, particularly among spouses, who were much harsher judges of each other. We laughed at ourselves with embarrassment and later in the week tried the game again, with new rules that did not allow spouses to judge each other's answers. It went so smoothly!

There was also campfire at night, around which we sat and told stories and killed mosquitoes.

During the day, we would tell Brianne, "Did you know that your daddy and Chris were roommates?"

She would stare at us.

"Do you know that we saw you in the hospital when you were first born?"

She smiled politely and soon escaped to her world of play, where she pretended that she was studying "bubbles" at college and her sister was sick and had to go to bed.

Some day we will observe the day when Brianne goes off to college, and maybe there will be a "bubble" major by then.

Letter to the Editor

Time for a change

Recently the Clarkston Village Council took a pretty strong stand on protecting zoning here in the village.

The issues, both of which had overwhelming public support (the Goyette improvement project and the bed and breakfast ordinance) were turned down.

Denial on both were based, in part, on protecting the "pristine" zoning environment here. They succeeded, too, they drove Goyettes out of business, and we don't have the opportunity to have bed and breakfasts here.

However, Sharron Catallo, village council president, seems to think it perfectly acceptable to house a family member in a commercial building that she and her husband own on Main Street.

Living in a commercial building is allowed here with approval; however, that approval was not applied for or received. Sure makes one wonder how the system works here, doesn't it?

Is there an "A" or "B" list? Could it be that the village council finds it so easy to make these "tough" decisions because they know the rules don't apply to themselves?

Wake up, people. It's time for a change.

Jim's Jottings

Political answer to liquor sales

I first printed this state legislator's answer on liquor sales in August, 1968. I'd heard Harry Reasoner read it on his CBS news program.

The legislator was asked by a constituent how he stood on liquor sales.

He said, "You have asked me how I feel about whisky. All right, here is just how I stand on the question."

"If, when you say whisky, you mean the devil's brew, the poison scourge, the bloody monster that defiles innocence, yea, literally takes the bread from the mouths of little children; if you mean the evil that topples the Christian man and woman from the pinnacles of righteous, gracious living into the bottomless pit of degradation and despair, shame and helplessness and hopelessness, then certainly I am against it with all my power."

"But, if when you say whisky, you mean the oil of conversation, the philosophic wine, the stuff that is consumed when good fellows get together, that puts a song in their hearts and laughter on their lips and the warm glow of contentment in their eyes; if you mean Christmas cheer; if you mean the stimulating drink that puts the spring in the old gentleman's step on a frosty morning; if you mean the drink that enables a man to magnify his joy, and his happiness, and to forget, if only for a while, life's great tragedies and heartbreaks and sorrows; if you mean that drink, the sale of which pours into our treasuries untold millions of dollars, which are used to provide tender care for our little crippled children, our blind, our deaf, our dumb, our pitiful aged and infirm, to build highways, hospitals and schools, then certainly I am in favor of it.

"This is my stand. I will not retreat from it. I will not compromise."

When I printed the above 23 years ago we received absolutely no comment or reaction. I wonder if there will be any this time.

"The one who laughs at the middle class is the one who insists on doing his own thing at a college proved by the middle class."

"I'm sure of only this - amid all the shouting and tumult somebody still has to get the hay in the barn. And that guy should be understood if sometimes he is a bit bitter about all the people who left him in the hayfields while they were parading for a better life."

Guest column

What the students can expect

Ginny Farmer

This is the second segment to a two-part column on the new attendance policy at Clarkston High School.

What does this new attendance policy actually mean for the students?

With a 15-day cap for absences, it's essential that parents call the attendance office within a 24-hour period of the absence. For the convenience of our many working parents, a recorder is available at 625-0905.

Makeup work is only allowed for excused absences.

If a student accumulates 15 absences in any class, that individual will be assigned a one-time only option of Saturday detention in order to maintain class standing.

If a student does not attend the Saturday detention or accumulates an additional absence after having served Saturday detention, the result will be physical removal from class to a study hall and loss of credit. If this situation occurs in three classes, alternative programming for the next semester may be recommended, resulting in dismissal from CHS.

Unexcused absences will be treated the same as in the past. Teachers will lower grades after four unexcused absences and will continue to lower grades with each consecutive unexcused absence.

An important component to remember is the after-school study period assigned for the equivalent number of unexcused absences. Previously, students were suspended for unexcused days. This concept is in obvious conflict with our beliefs. Suspensions will only occur in excessive cases of absenteeism — when all of the above steps do not cause change in habits of attendance.

The policy is not, in any way, meant to be punitive. In fact, based on the research accomplished by our attendance committee, Clarkston was behind other Oakland County districts. Many other districts cap at numbers much lower than 15 absences.

Within the quadrant of Waterford, Holly, Brandon and various feeder schools of the Oakland Technical Center (OTC), Clarkston was the only school — including the OTC and our own Alternative Education (S.T.R.I.V.E. program) not capping absences.

We care about our students. We want them to be the best that they can be. We want them in school just as the private sector expects their employees to be at work on time.

The new attendance policy will be presented to students in individual class meetings, held by the administrators of CHS.

I'd like to personally thank the members of the attendance committee for the numerous hours they devoted to the research and study of this committee. They included: Katie Mackay, Carole Hicks, Ed Johnson, Ron Santavice, Yvonne Wilson, Lina Smith, Marlene Reed, Holly Rupprecht, Bill Curtis and Laura Cerretani.

Thanks also to Dr. Robert Burek, who supported the conceptually.

Ginny Farmer is the assistant vice principal at Clarkston High School.

'If it Fitz ...'

Jesus takes phone calls
but not your questions

Jim Fitzgerald

Jesus Christ spoke to me last Thursday. To contact him, I had to go higher than I'd ever gone before in the Free Press building. In the process, I was crushed to discover my employer doesn't trust me.

Jesus said: "I am the light of the world; he who follows me shall have no fear of the darkness ... I have prepared a place for you in my father's house."

I envisioned a brightly lighted guest room at the end of a gloomy hall. I wondered about the size of the bed and whether my wife was also invited. I had several questions, actually, but Jesus wasn't taking any.

He concluded our brief phone conversation by saying that, on the last day of the world, "You will be raised up without judgment." His voice was unquestionably male, with no discernable ethnic or regional accent. Jesus spoke English in a calm, reassuring tone. He sounded like the voice-over in a television commercial promising regular bowel movements.

I got Jesus Christ's number from the Christian Faith Phone Network of Arlington, Texas. After I punched it on my office phone, a voice said, "You are not authorized to dial this number."

The problem was that Jesus has one of those 900 numbers that are not toll-free and are often answered by a sexy voice offering frivolous advice on how to improve your life, if only for 5 minutes, at $1.95 per minute. My boss is obviously afraid I'll call a 900 number for some perverse carnal pleasure, rather than to obtain important information required for the writing of an acceptably prissy column.

I was hurt, and it was extremely satisfying to explain that, rather than stiff the boss for a personal call to an erotic woman, I intended to interview Jesus Christ. Overwhelmingly chastened, the operator arranged for me to leave my third-floor desk and ascend to the 12th floor — Nearer my God to Thee — where there is a special phone for 900 callers who can prove they aren't dirty old poops.

A news release from the Christian Faith network said writer Patrick Rollins saw Jesus on the banks of the Apalachicola River in northern Florida, just outside Bristol, on Dec. 8, 1990. And Rollins claimed "Jesus commanded him to record His voice and play His message to the entire world."

Rollins has written a book, "Jesus: The Most Beautiful Man I Have Ever Seen," available in bookstores in September, along with audio cassettes of everything Jesus said to him. In the meantime, you can hear excerpts by calling a $1.95-per-minute 900 number that I won't print here for fear the awesome experience of hearing Jesus speak would be too much for your health and you would sue me for damages — maybe over-exaltation or strained credulity.

It was disappointing to discover that 900 Jesus was strictly on tape and unavailable for questioning. I wanted to ask him several things concerning Christianity and its most up-front practitioners, the clergy.

For instance, what about the Council of Baptist Pastors of Detroit and Vicinities, which recently informed funeral directors that they must pay the pastors at least $100 per service to preach at their parishioners' funerals? Is that acceptable policy for Christian ministers?

A white Methodist minister in Pennsylvania banned a wedding from his church because the white bride intended to marry a man whose father — oh my God! — is clearly partly black. What does Jesus think of that bit of Christian leadership?

Or how about Grace Episcopal Church of Mt. Clemens? According to a lawsuit filed by its former Christian education director, she was forced to resign because she allegedly said one of the pastor's sons had scabies. Scabies? Does that brand of Christianity make Jesus itchy?

If Jesus on the phone hadn't been taped, it would have been interesting to hear his reaction to those questions. He probably would have thought it was a prank call and hung up.

People of Panama warm, open, friendly and fun

BY KRISTIN WHISNER

This is my final letter rapping up the end of my year with Up With People.

I would like to thank the Clarkston community for its support. Without its help, my experience this year would not have been possible.

I finished the tour in a place that I never expected to

Helpful group

We would like to thank the people of Clarkston who supported us in raising $1,700 for Lighthouse North. The concert was enjoyable for us to organize and enjoyable to entertain all who could come the evening of June 2 at the Kirchgeessner Theatre.

We would especially like to thank the Clarkston Area Optimist Club, which contributed an additional $300 earmarked for the children at Lighthouse North.

It was through the generosity of the people here in Clarkston that made the concert such a success.

Again, thank you to Paul and Jeff Hayward for the guitar rendition, Kathi Thornton for a delightful classical flute piece, Clarkston High's Nina Geren and the Lakeland Players for their many songs, Antal Lang for the superb piano concertizing, Tammy Bridger and her inspiring voice, the B to Z Band, the Academy Singers: Amy DesRochers and Erica Scrugis, Kathi Thornton, St. Daniel's Quartet, That's Entertainment, Jessica and Carl Schulte, our delightful and comical masters of ceremony: Jimmy Territo and John Stang, Scott Taylor (the sound man), John Bruggerman, Joel Burnell and the Independence-Clarkston cable co., Gene Wenson, Stan Garwood, George Krull, Scott Taylor (lights) and Jon Sampson (sound).

It is through your generosity and concern for Lighthouse North that we were so successful.

go — Panama!

Up With People took 50 of us from the east to tour through Panama City and the interior countryside for a month. It turned out not only to be my favorite country but the best experience all year.

The Panamanian alumni took leaves of absence from their jobs to make our tour possible. The end result was an invitation to Panama from President Endara's daughter, Marcelita.

When we arrived at the airport, we stepped into a sea of reporters and TV crews. I thought they had mistaken us for New Kids on the Block. We were received by several heads of the city and a local Panamanian folk dance group.

Soon we were off to meet our first host family. It was sweltering hot, and I was dripping all over my new sun dress, hoping that the heat was temporary. Unfortunately, it wasn't.

I went down there with a jungle savage-like perception of Panama that I suspect a lot of people have. I was afraid to drink the water and to eat anything washed with it (which does not exactly leave a plethora of food to choose from), and, of course, I wanted to avoid any unnecessary bugs and criminals.

However, it didn't take long to discover that if I wanted to experience Panama, I was just going to have to go for it, bugs and all.

Panama fascinated me. It was very different from other countries I had experienced previously, and I discovered so much to love and respect about their culture. They are very warm, fun and open people. They will give and give, even when they have nothing left to give.

I stayed with a family in Chitre, Panama, who I will never forget. They did not have a whole lot to offer in the way of conveniences, but they were wonderful hosts. Although we could not communicate, it didn't take much for me to understand that they wanted to do anything to make me happy. They even took two days off from work to spend time with me (which they couldn't afford to do). It was a touching and unforgettable experience.

Panama also has very strong cultural traditions that are alive in young and old. Many young people are involved in Panamanian folk-dancing groups to a similar extent that U.S. students participate on sports teams here. The dancing is neat to watch, and a lot are harder than they look.

The Latin American merengue and salsa music can be heard everywhere. If a discotheque starts playing pop or rap, the dance floor empties. Starting at age 8 or 9, they learn to social dance, and for many it becomes a hobby.

Their celebrations prompt everyone to don their traditional costumes and participate in the traditional dances or ceremonies. I would be lying if I said the Panamanians didn't know how to party.

As in every country, Panama has its problems. In Panama City, the effects of the invasion are still evident. Bombed areas have not been restored, and the beaches where the troops landed are virtually destroyed. Since all of the promised aid money has not been received, there is still much left to be done.

Poverty is rampant in some areas, and some people literally live in holes in the wall with curtains for a door. High unemployment, rising prices and slow rebuilding are a few of the causes of increasing student riots and Endara's unpopularity.

I accidentally got caught in a student riot in Panama City. From talking to my host family afterward, I discovered that the riots are quite frequent and almost like a job: everyone goes home at 5 p.m. But they are also highly dangerous for bystanders and "gringos" like me.

Another thing that you can't help but notice are the poor sanitary systems. Garbage is all over the streets, and aluminum cans litter the water. Hopefully, the new democracy will eventually be able to effectively carry out the necessary reforms to improve these problems.

Although there is still a lot to be done, Panama is far from the savage jungle I had imagined. I enjoyed our tour there so much that I hope to go back one day.

Again, thank you so much for making all this possible.

P.S. By the way, the water and food were excellent, and I was relieved to discover that cockroaches are afraid of people.

Fruits of labor

If gardening were like mining, Alvin Caverly would have hit the mother load.

This season, the 76-year-old Independence Township resident raised three king-sized tomatoes in his Waldon Road garden. Combined, the three tomatoes weigh a little over 6 pounds, with the largest one tipping the scales at 2 1/4 pounds.

Using 10-year-old seeds and natural fertilizer, Caverly wasn't expecting such a "big" harvest.

"In all my years of gardening, I've never grown tomatoes as big these," he said. "It's funny, this was the smallest garden I've ever planted, and out of it comes my biggest tomatoes ever."

According to Caverly, he starts growing his tomato plants in his basement around March. Using "grow lights," he nurtures the plants in pots until it's warm enough to transplant them in his garden in the spring.

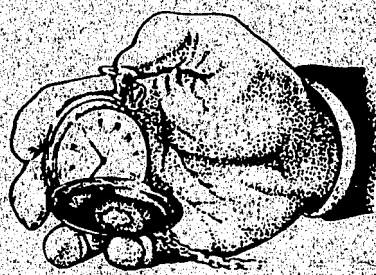

As for the three big tomatoes, Caverly's wife, Iva, has purchased a big steak, so the couple can dine on the prize-winners in style.

College pupil featured in hospital TV commercials

CARRIE MONROE, a 1990 graduate of Clarkston High School, was chosen to play a part in a series of TV commercials for St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Artist Andy Warhol said that everyone is assured of 15 minutes in the spotlight.

For Independence Township resident Carrie Monroe, her "time in the sun" will be in a series of 30-second and one-minute intervals.

Monroe, an 18-year-old Oakland University, Rochester, freshman, plays a short role in a TV advertising campaign for St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac.

The commercials air twice a day on Channel 7. Monroe said they appear just before "Good Morning America" at 8:30 a.m. and prior to the "6 O'Clock News."

In her role, she portrays a discharged patient in a wheelchair who receives a hug from a nurse. She appears in three versions of the commercial, which includes one one-minute segment and two 30-second spots. Monroe is usually on camera from two to five seconds, depending on the edited segment.

"All the different segments took about two and a half hours to film," she said. "I never realized the incredible amount of detail that goes into a television commercial like this.

"It was a lot of fun, and the members of the production crew were very nice to me," she added.

Monroe was suggested to the casting director by a few of the nurses on the east wing of the hospital's seventh floor. She has been a patient at St. Joseph, since contracting lymphatic cancer about a year and a half ago.

During the early stages of detection, she'd been receiving a variety of radiation and chemotherapy treatments. However, she said the cancer has been in remission for nearly a year, and the end of the tunnel is in sight.

"I was lucky because they caught the cancer in its very early stages," she said. "If it doesn't re-occur within the next year, I'll be considered cured."

With her health improving and college just beginning, Monroe looks forward to a future in the communications field. Monroe said she'd like to study TV broadcasting and production, noting that her commercial experience had sparked the interest.

An accomplished singer and dancer, Monroe also intends to audition for Oakland University's show choir and choral groups this fall.

Wolves' strength too much for Lakers

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Alyson McChesney highlighted a second-quarter surge in Clarkston's 55-35 victory over West Bloomfield Aug. 29.

The victory at the humid Wolf gym (the outside temperature was nearly 100-degrees) raised the Clarkston varsity girls' basketball team record to 2-0.

West Bloomfield was ahead 13-12 after the first quarter. But in the second quarter, Clarkston broke a Laker press and outscored the visitors 16-2 for a 28-15 halftime bulge. The Wolves then continued the onslaught with an 18-7 advantage in the third quarter.

McChesney, who scored a game-high 24 points, poured in half of her points in the second-quarter turnabout.

McChesney and her fellow junior back-court teammates Courtney Whittaker

(12 points) and Heather Steinhelper (seven points and eight rebounds) dominated the Lakers.

"Their height wasn't the problem, it was too much strength," said Laker coach Maria Christian about the Wolf trio who each stand about 5-10. "They're experienced ballplayers who make a difference. I think they've got some players like Flint Powers' (Powers is the state's top-rated Class B team)."

Clarkston coach Larry Mahrle responded to the reference to Flint Powers, "That's a nice compliment but we have a long way to go."

Besides their height and strength, Mahrle also pointed out the trio's mobility.

"Our big girls can run," said Mahrle.

Many of McChesney's 24 points and Whitaker's 12 points were from fast-break layups.

And Steinhelper assisted on many of the scores.

"She hit every open girl," said Mahrle about Steinhelper (six assists), who he credited for breaking the Laker press.

Steinhelper's help in breaking the press was especially crucial since Whitaker and point-guard Stacey Tinkis were on the bench at the time after each getting called for three first-quarter fouls.

West Bloomfield finished the game sinking eight-of-19 free throws (42 percent) while the Wolves made six-of-11 (55 percent).

Other Clarkston scorers were Heather Austin with five (which included one 3-pointer); Leslie Allen, Anne Brueck and Amy Schroeder each with two and Stacey Tinkis with one.

Leading scorer for West Bloomfield, 1-1, was Nicole Dardarian with nine.

Clarkston 44, Lakeland 29
(Aug. 27 at Lakeland)

Courtney Whittaker scored a game-high 17 points to pace the Wolves to a 44-29 victory over host Lakeland in the season-opener.

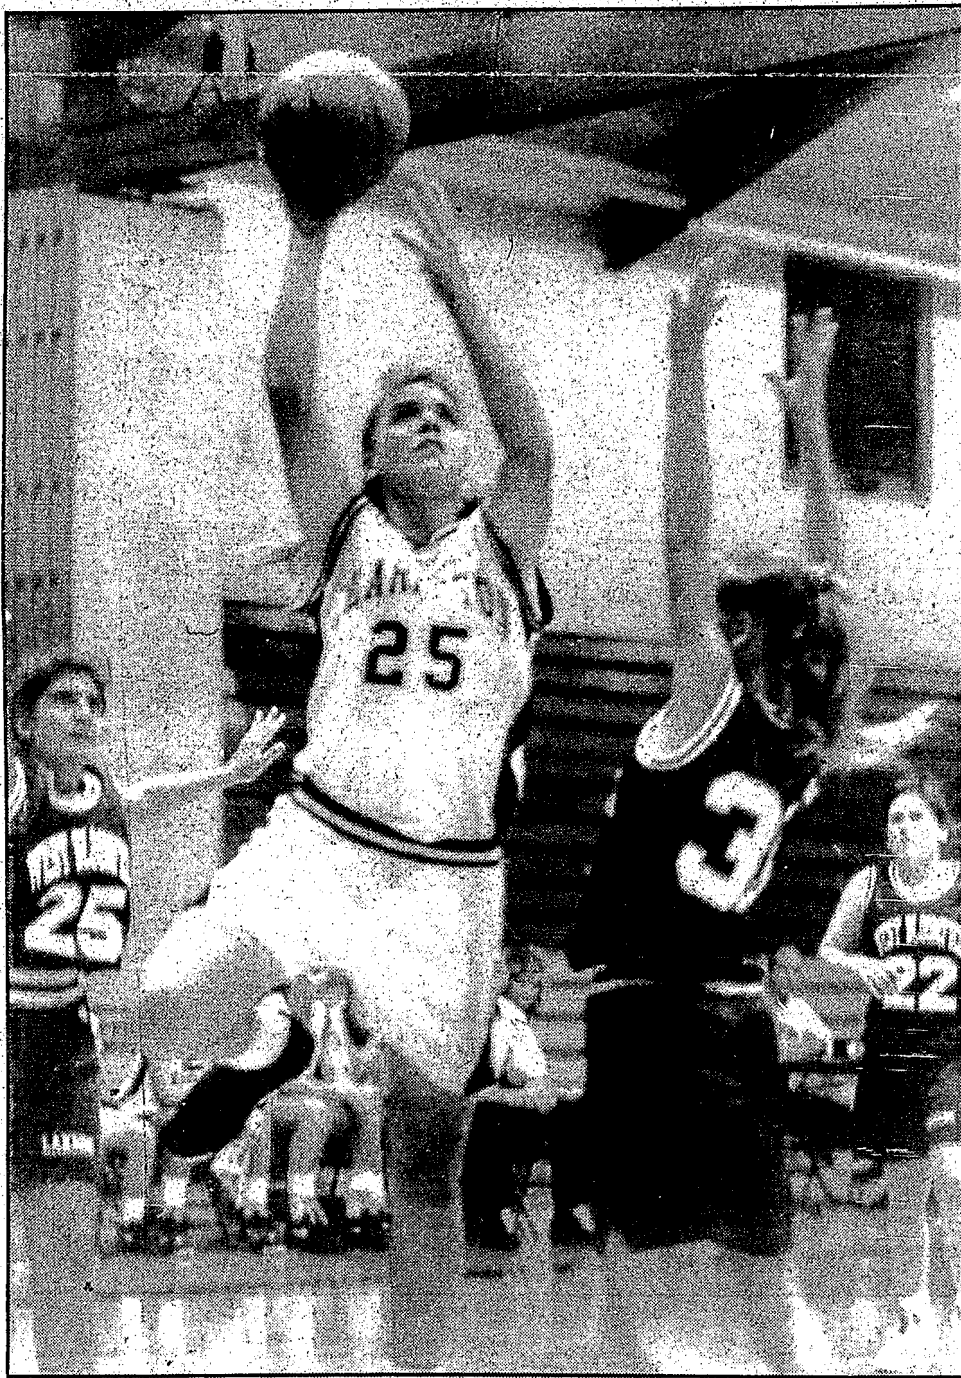

"It was a good opener. We were sloppy on offense but played great defense," said Clarkston coach Larry Mahrle.

Clarkston easily outscored Lakeland in the first three quarters by margins of 13-4, 12-6 and 11-4, respectively.

"Laura (Seitz) and Stacey (Tinkis) played great defense," said Mahrle. "And Heather's (Steinhelper) 10 rebounds were the key to the fast breaks."

In addition to Whittaker's 17, Steinhelper scored 12, McChesney seven and Seitz, Cheralyn Evans, Leslie Allen and Shannon Jenks all netted two.

The Wolves shot a poor four-of-20 from the charity line (20 percent) while Lakeland wasn't much better at seven-of-24 (29 percent).

JV squad wins first two

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Erin Patterson scored 13 and Shawna Greene netted 12 to spark the Clarkston JV girls' basketball team to a 44-34 win over West Bloomfield Aug. 29.

The Wolves, 2-0, led 27-10 at the half, extended the lead to 38-18 after three quarters and then held on for the win.

Patterson also pulled down seven rebounds.

In addition, Lisa Goforth poured in eight for Clarkston, teammates Jennifer Wuotinen and Shannon Binkley each scored four, Sadie Caruso had two and Rebecca Bartlett had one.

"I've got six girls that came back from last year," said first-year coach Janet Swan about experienced sophomores Patterson, Greene, Binkley, Amy Bishop, Goforth and Bartlett.

Swan has also been impressed with her team's free-throw shooting during the season's first two games.

"They shot 12 of 19 for both games," said Swan.

Clarkston 40, Lakeland 19
(Aug. 27 at Lakeland)

The Wolves shut out host Lakeland 10-0 in the first quarter and then cruised to a 40-19 win in the season-opener.

Clarkston stretched its lead to 20-4 at the half and then continued to lead by 16 after three quarters, 31-15.

Shawna Greene paced the Wolves with 11 and Erin Patterson netted nine.

Five other Wolves each scored four: Jennifer Wuotinen, Shannon Binkley, Amy Bishop, Lisa Goforth and Rebecca Bartlett.

Kickers crush Lakers

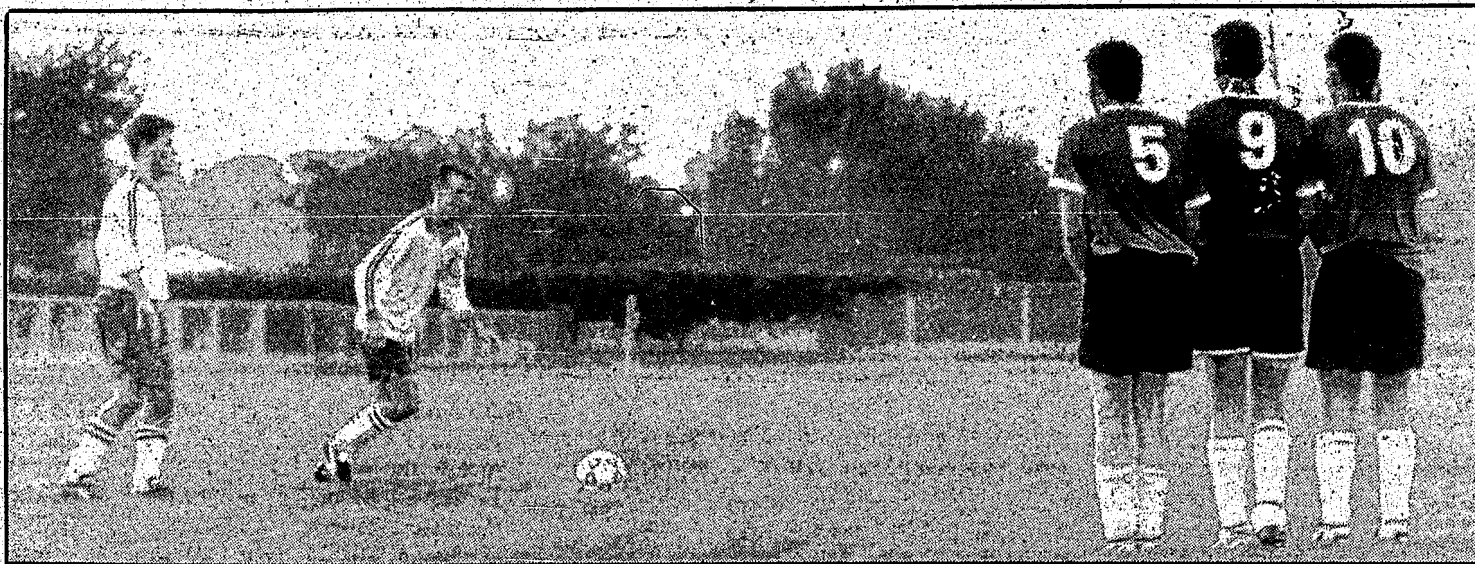

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston blasted West Bloomfield, 9-1, in the season opener Aug. 29 at Clarkston.

The Wolves jumped out to a 5-0 lead at the half, scored their sixth goal seconds into the second half and led 9-0 before the Lakers broke Clarkston goalkeeper Mike Miller's shutout with about two minutes left in the match.

First-year coach Dan Fitzgerald liked what he saw.

"We played better than I thought

SCOTT Rooney gets ready to launch a penalty shot. Rooney scored two goals in the opening win.

we'd play. They were aggressive, better in the air (heading) than I thought they'd be," said Fitzgerald, adding, "This gets us off on the right foot. I hope they won't get overconfident, but I don't see that happening."

Scott Rooney and Dave Warner each had a pair of goals for the Wolves. Rooney also had two assists and Warner had one.

Single goals were scored by Rob Sloan, Chuck Schoen, Aaron Phillips, Jim Drysdale and Chris Colburn. Phillips and Jeremy Deloney both had a pair of assists and Adam Felker and Pat Forbes had one.

The Wolf defense was stingy. Miller only had to stop about five shots on goal.

Offensively, Clarkston kept the Laker goalkeeper busy with about 25 shots on goal.

Clarkston also won the JV contest against the Lakers, 1-0.

Troy first hurdle to Wolf playoff dream

Fall sports preview

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A league title would be nice.

And the state playoffs would be even better.

Clarkston's varsity football team, filled with returners at the skilled positions, is hoping to be the first Wolf squad since 1977 to reach post-season.

"I feel this is a playoff year for us," said Clarkston head coach Kurt Richardson, who points out that "9-0 is a legitimate goal for the kids."

Richardson and his players know the Wolves will be tested early when they host Troy in the opener Sept. 6.

"It's a big game. They're ranked, but I don't think they're any better than us," said Richardson, who sees the games with the Troy, Lake Orion, Pontiac Northern and Brighton as the key contests this fall.

Richardson expects the Wolves to have a high-powered offense, splitting the time between passing and running.

"Anytime we score under 21, we'll have a bad game," said the coach.

Richardson knows where to look first for that offense.

"You've got to start with one of the top players in the country," said Richardson in describing fourth-year quarterback Dugan Fife.

The 6-foot, 3-inch, 175-pound Fife, who will be playing basketball at the University of Michigan next school year, has a strong and accurate arm and was recruited by colleges for football. In fact, Ohio State contacted Fife for football about a week after he gave a verbal commitment to play basketball for Michigan.

But Richardson said Fife's skills aren't only on offense, pointing out, "He's a great defensive back."

Fife will again be passing to one of his favorite receivers, senior Jon Wyniemko. Wyniemko also joins Fife to help bolster a strong defensive backfield.

"He's got a great pair of hands and is smart on defense," said Richardson about all-leaguer Wyniemko.

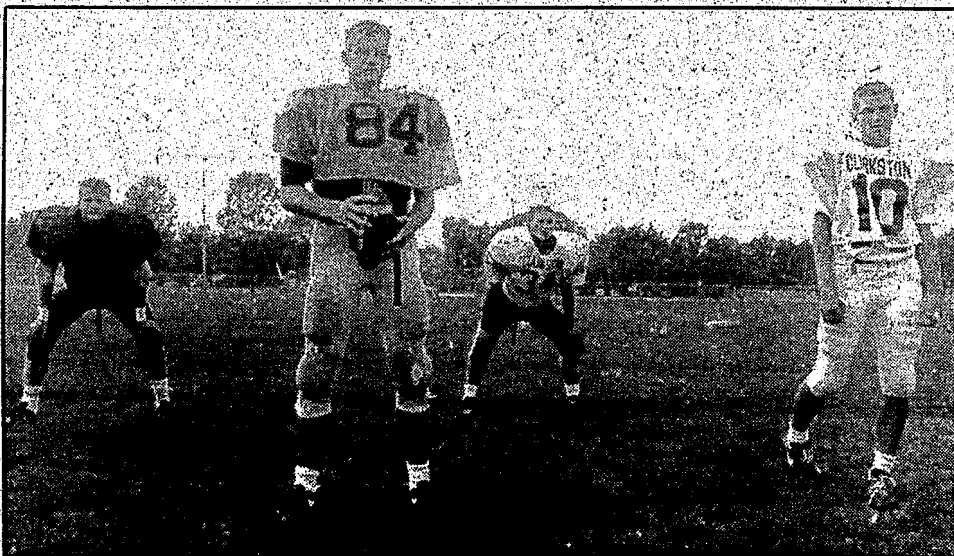

Tight end and wide out Luke Fedio will also be on the other end of some Fife passes, along with fellow seniors Dave Smith and Bryan Hambell. Richardson labels Smith as the team's best downfield blocker.

The Wolves will not just hurt their opponents in the air.

Senior halfback Dan Griffiths, a 5-10, 161-pound speedster, returns after amassing over 950 yards last season.

Senior Brian Davis will be the Wolves' starting fullback. Davis also plays outside linebacker and Richardson calls him "one of the keys on defense."

Of course, good blocking is needed in order for the passing and running to be effective. Richardson has been pleased with the progress of his offensive line.

FOUR of the key seniors will be (front row from left) quarterback Dugan Fife and wide receiver Jon Wyniemko, and (back row from left) halfback Dan Griffiths and fullback Brian Davis. The Wolves open their season 7:30 p.m. at home on Friday against Troy.

"We are better at pass blocking," said the coach. In Clarkston's last scrimmage, the Wolf offensive line didn't give up a sack.

Richardson said if there is any weakness on the team it is the inexperience of the Wolves' defensive line. But he said the defensive backfield and linebackers will be strong.

He said outside linebacker Adam Kirk is "starting to turn it on" and Nathan Smith will see much action at linebacker. Smith will also snap the ball to Fife on offense.

Junior Matt Smith will do the kicking for the Wolves and Dave Smith will hold.

Even though defending Greater Oakland Activities League champion Lake Orion lost 19 players to graduation, Richardson still expects the Dragons to be tough because they are always a well-coached team.

Richardson also knows Pontiac Northern will be tough in the GOAL. The two teams usually end up playing nail-biters, with the Wolves winning most of them the past several years with last-minute comebacks.

But thoughts of Dragons and Huskies will have to wait.

The Wolves are now only thinking about Colts.

Swinging from the Heels

God, Gatorade, country and Notre Dame

James Gibowski

School's back in session so it's time for another Sports 101 test. If you've forgotten how to take this type of multiple-choice test, don't worry, your answers are guaranteed to be as correct as anyone else's. In other words, you'll set the curve without having to hit a curve ball.

After you've completed the test, your homework will be to attend at least one Clarkston High School sports event within the next week. Plus, extra points will be given if you run or walk at least two miles.

1. Why did Michael Jordan suddenly change his mind after first saying he wouldn't play basketball in the 1992 Olympics?
 - A. He wants to play for God and country.
 - B. He wants to play for God, Nike and country.
 - C. He wants to play for God, Gatorade and country.
 - D. He figured out even Bill Laimbeer has a better shot at eventually making the PGA tour.
2. Choose your least favorite sports drunk driver ...
 - A. Reggie Rogers
 - B. Willie Shoemaker
 - C. Bruce Kimball
 - D. Petr Klima
3. If the Detroit Red Wings trade Steve Yzerman, it would be like ...
 - A. the Tigers trading Matt Nokes for Lance McCullers and Clyde Parker
 - B. the Tigers trading Howard Johnson for Walt Terrell
 - C. the Red Wings trading Adam Oates for whoever they got
 - D. the Pistons trading Dave DeBuschure for Walt Bellamy
4. What lasts longer than a 162-game major league baseball season?
 - A. The length of time Pine Knob continues to call itself "The New Pine Knob Music Theater"
 - B. The number of months New York Carpet World in Clarkston continues its "grand opening"
 - C. An instant replay review during an NFL game
 - D. The death of Spain's former dictator Francisco Franco

5. What would be the worst thing if the Tigers won the World Series?
 - A. Having owner Tom Monaghan, who has attended less than 10 games this season, receive the World Series trophy.
 - B. Having Monaghan use the series win to help promote season tickets for the St. Petersburg Tigers.
 - C. Having Bo Schembechler take credit for signing the players (Fielder, Phillips, Tettleton) that were actually signed by Bill LaJoie.
 - D. Having Bo Schembechler make the tough decision whether he should attend a World Series game or broadcast the Tulane vs. Mississippi State game for ABC.
6. Put yourself in the place of Tiger management, choose the best play-by-play announcer of the four listed, and then say, "You're fired."
 - A. Larry Osterman
 - B. Al Kaline
 - C. Ernie Harwell
 - D. Jim Northrup
7. Name your favorite Detroit Lions No. 1 draft choice
 - A. Reggie Rogers
 - B. Chuck Long
 - C. Andre Ware
 - D. Whoever their 1992 pick will be
8. Why won't Notre Dame coach Lou Holtz suspend or dismiss quarterback Rick Mirer and linebacker Demetrius DuBose after they were arrested at an off-campus party?
 - A. He asked Michigan State coach George Perles for advice
 - B. Because college football builds character, a heavy thirst and a million dollar television contract
 - C. He'll discipline them in another way by taking $5 off their dinner money on the next road trip
 - D. He figures rules at Notre Dame aren't any different than rules at Minnesota

Athletic boosters needed

The Clarkston Athletic Boosters are looking for new members and donors to the proposed new field house.

The boosters, through fund raisers, purchase items for Clarkston schools' sports teams. Last year, among other things, they built a trophy case for the high school, bought warm-up suits for the basketball and volleyball teams and helped provide money to send the varsity wrestling team to the state championship in Battle Creek.

The cost to join the boosters is $2. Charter memberships are also available for $25. For more information, write or call: Ellen Oliver, Membership Chairperson, 5391 Pheasant Run, Clarkston, MI 48346 (313) 623-6521.

The boosters also continue to accept contributions to the "Block Club" for the new field house near the football field, which is currently in the planning stage.

The cost per block is $10. There are several ways to be a member of the Block Club: to become a Micro-Block Builder (1-2 blocks) you donate $10-$20, Mini-Block Builder (3-5 blocks) $30-$50, Macro-Block Builder (6-9 blocks), Mega-Block Builder (10-25 blocks) $100-$250, Multi-Mega Block Builder (26-50 blocks) $260-$500, Magnificent Block Builder (100 or more blocks) $1,000 and up.

Those interested in joining the Block Club, should send a check and indicate which type of block builder they wish to be to: Clarkston Athletic Booster, 6992 Cranberry Lake Road, Clarkston, MI 48348.

Sign of the times

DRIVERS entering Independence Township from several locations now will be seeing signs commemorating Clarkston High School's 1991 Class A state championship wrestling team. The sign in the photo above is on Clarkston Road which borders Orion Township. Directly across the street from the new sign is the 1990 sign designating the Dragons' 1990 Class A state wrestling championship. (Photo by James Gibowski)

MANY runners on the Clarkston varsity girls' and boys' cross-country teams ran about 50 miles a week this summer.

Young runners hope to move up in GOAL

Fall sports preview

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston girls' and boys' cross-country teams will be depending greatly on underclassmen.

Of the 22 runners on both teams, only four of them are seniors. And of those 22, half of them are either freshmen or sophomores.

Last year, both of the Wolves' teams finished second in the Greater Oakland Activities League. Lake Orion won the girls' title and Brandon took the boys' title.

Clarkston co-coach Mike Taylor, who shares coaching duties with Mike Kaul, plans on the defending champs to again be the teams to beat.

Taylor said many of the Wolf runners began getting ready for the fall season in July. There weren't any regular practices at that time, but runners voluntarily began running about three days a week and then that extended to three to five days a week in early August. Some athletes also went to camp during the summer.

Once the official practice season began in mid-August, the Wolves were running in double sessions.

All totaled, most runners ran about 50 miles a week and from 250-300 miles before the first meet.

Girls

The Wolves will be counting on two experienced sophomores and an upcoming freshman.

Sophomore Angie Brown returns as the defending individual GOAL champion and all-leaguer. Brown qualified and ran in the state championships. She is also a sprinter on the track team in the spring.

Mutter, Mutter, a sophomore, is also one of the Wolves best distance runners on the track team.

Freshman Leah Scharl, who won many races in the Hershey-sponsored track meet program, had the best time for the Wolves in a recent scrimmage at Milford. Rounding out the team are junior Shelly Draves and Allison Picone, sopho-

The Wolves will rely on all seven girls. Seven runners compete in meets, with the top five places totaled for final team scores.

Taylor is happy with the resurgence of the girls' team.

"Lots of things are falling in place. We're rebounding back from the pay-to-play," said Taylor.

Two years ago, the last year of pay-to-play, there was only one girl on the cross-country squad.

Taylor expects next year's squad to be even larger since all seven of this year's runners are underclassmen and they will be joined by another crop of freshmen.

Boys

Some of the best competition for the Wolves will be other Wolves.

Co-coach Mike Taylor said about three of the seven slots for starting runners are filled but "a slew of guys" will com-

Taylor expects junior Brad Patterson (a two-year letterman) to be Clarkson's top runner, followed by junior Derek Lachman and senior Tony Quigley.

Taylor said, "about eight or nine" others will have a crack at the remaining spots, including senior Duane Poole (two letters), juniors Steve Cohoon and Greg Fisher, and sophomores John Gilbert and Curt Duca.

The coach expects many of the underclassmen to blossom as runners.

"It's going to be a tough year to choose the most improved runner," said Taylor. "I'm looking forward to a challenging year with the guys."

NINE DAYS FOR CHANGING WORLD HISTORY

On August 25, 1991, a message was delivered from Heaven to every individual on Earth. The message, given by the Virgin Mary, Mother of Jesus, was conveyed to a young woman in Medjugorje, Yugoslavia. Millions of people have been travelling to Medjugorje for the past ten years to experience the daily supernatural happenings from God.

Mary, who identifies herself as "Queen of Peace," asks all the world for nine days of renunciation to bring to fulfillment secrets which had begun in Fatima, Portugal when She appeared to three children in 1917. These nine days will have global consequences and its significance cannot be overestimated.

The August 25, 1991 message from the Virgin Mary:

Dear Children:

Today also I invite you to prayer, now as never before when my plan has begun to be realized. Satan is strong and wants to sweep away plans of peace and joy and make you think that my son is not strong in His decisions. Therefore, I call all of you, dear children, to pray and fast still more firmly. I invite you to renunciation for nine days so that with your help everything I wanted to realize through the secrets I began in Fatima may be fulfilled. I call you, dear children, to grasp the importance of my coming and the seriousness of the situation. I want to save all souls and present them to God. Therefore, let us pray that everything I have begun be fully realized. Thank you for having responded to my call.

Never before in history have individuals had so much ability to alter the whole world. We are asking each person, each prayer group, and each church to join in communication with others around the world in dedicating the nine days between Friday, September 13 and Saturday, September 21, 1991 to renunciation. Some people will fast on bread and water for these nine days, some will renounce (things of the world, pleasures, etc.) in other ways of their choosing, and all will fervently pray in answer to Our Lady's message. It is felt that this message is inviting us to push ourselves into renunciation for a period of nine days to change the history of the world.

For more free information on the Virgin Mary's apparitions and how they affect you, write to Caritas of Birmingham.

Golfers have plenty of striking power ...

Fall sports preview

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

If the West Bloomfield Invitational is any indication, the Clarkston varsity golf team should have a solid season.

The Wolves won the 12-team invite by nine strokes and were ahead of third-place Lake Orion by 16.

But Clarkston coach Jim Chamberlain is cautious about the defending champs of Greater Oakland Activities League.

"I'm too leery of Lake Orion to take them for granted. Their coach (Gary Newcomb) has probably already turned that margin into a plus," said Chamberlain, whose Wolves finished second in the GOAL last season and had a 10-4 overall record.

Chamberlain has a nice problem when it comes to his team. Only six can play in a match (the top four scores count in team totals) and he has eight players "that know they have the ability to play in the matches."

In most cases, the top four golfers from a previous match will automatically get to play in the next match, with the remaining two slots being contested by the rest of the team in practice.

The squad not only has many experienced seniors but also a talented freshman.

Jayson Buchmann, a ninth grader at Sashabaw Junior High School, fired a team-best 78 at the West Bloomfield Invitational. He placed third overall.

Seniors Dave Studt, Derek Bildstein and Jeff Coxen will be earning their third varsity letters this fall and seniors Mike Brown, Jason Jarvis and Pete Luster will be getting their second.

"We have the ability to strike the ball," said Chamberlain, who also points out that Buchmann, Luster, Bildstein, Jarvis and Studt are all capable of being the top golfer in the GOAL.

Because of this, Chamberlain said he and the other coaches in the league like Clarkston's chances for the GOAL.

"We've established ourselves as the team to beat," said Chamberlain.

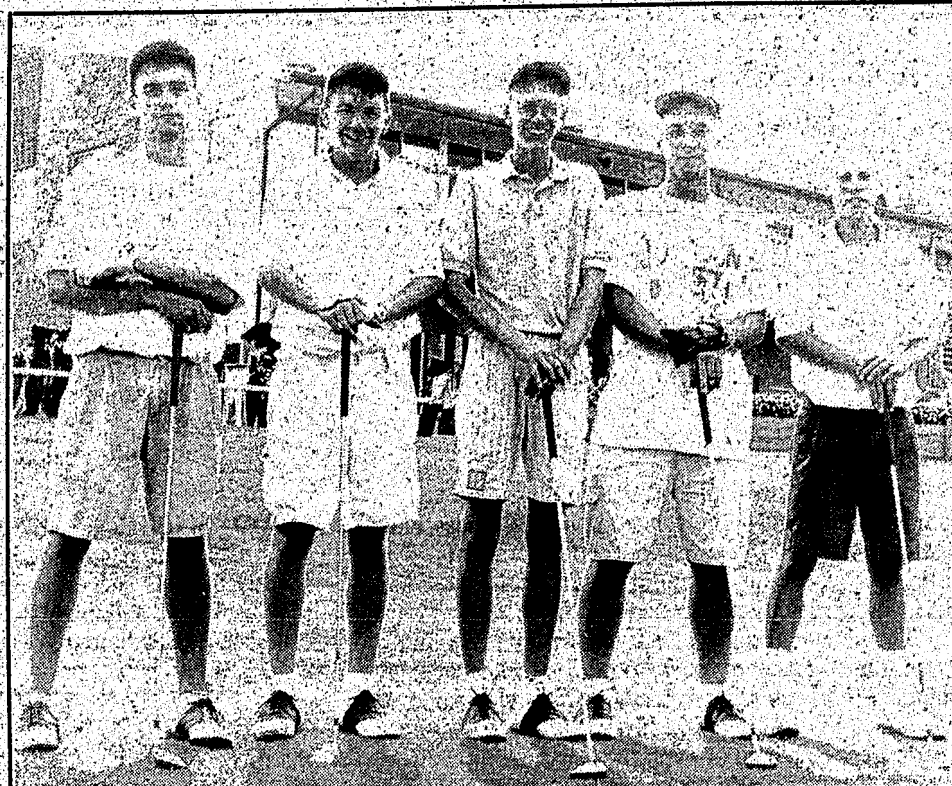

In addition to the GOAL title, the coach said the Wolves other goals are to be in the top 10 at the county championship and in the top three at regionals (which would give them a berth at the state finals).

Chamberlain said if his team has any weakness, it would be in "golf course management," which means underestimating course conditions (for example, not immediately recognizing that the greens are hard).

Chamberlain also points out the mental factor.

"Willingness to accept a bogie, because when there is unwillingness, 90 percent of the time it results in double-bogie, or more," said Chamberlain.

But before they even get into a bogie situation, the Wolves, instead, hope to be shooting pars, birdies or eagles.

... begin season with invitational win

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Four varsity Clarkston golfers were medalists as the Wolves won the 12-team West Bloomfield Invitational Aug. 27.

The action at the par-72 Pine Lake Country Club was the first of the year for Clarkston.

Freshman Jayson Buchmann shot a 78 (third-best overall), senior Pete Luster fired a 79 (fourth best), senior Derek Bildstein had an 82 (seventh best) and senior Jason Jarvis shot an 83 (10th best) for a 322, nine strokes ahead of second place Detroit Country Day.

Clarkston senior Dave Studt shot an 84 and senior Jeff Coxen had a 92 (six golfers competed from each team but only the top four scores counted in team scoring).

The top 10 golfers received medals. Farmington's Jason Buha shot the best score with a 73.

"I was surprised by the way they shot. The course was not that favorable to good golf (scoring)," said Clarkston coach Jim Chamberlain.

But he also added that his squad might have been a little more prepared than most teams.

"A lot of them played all summer. It showed that they're ready," said the coach.

Chamberlain and his players did not immediately know they had won the tournament when they were in the clubhouse.

However, Chamberlain said Wolf JV coach Tim Kaul began to tell him, "I think we're in" and pointed out that a remaining Detroit Country Day golfer on the course would have had to come in with a 75.

Lake Orion, defending champion of the Greater Oakland Activities League, finished 16 strokes behind Clarkston and tied with West Bloomfield with a 338. Birmingham Brother Rice was fifth at 339, followed by Milford 345, Farmington 349, Lakeland 352, East Grand Rapids 356, North Farmington 370, West Bloomfield 375, Farmington Harrison 426.

29

Only 29 games left (after Tuesday night's game against Seattle) for Tiger fans to listen to Paul Carey through the fourth, fifth and sixth. And only 29 games left to hear Ernie Harwell say "Looooooooong gone!" because next year Ernie most likely will be long gone to Baltimore, Atlanta or some other club.

Clarkston 1991 graduate Joel Davis (in above photo with Ernie) got the chance to meet Ernie last month in the radio broadcasting booth at Tiger Stadium. Davis worked with Ernie's granddaughter, Susan Harwell, at the Roeper Day Camp this summer and some of the workers were invited to meet Ernie.

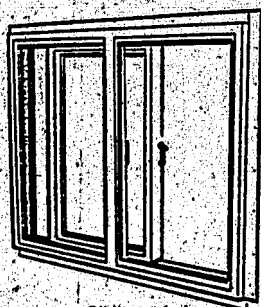

Davis, who won the match that clinched the Class A state wrestling championship for the Wolves last winter, is now looooooooong gone to Mount Pleasant this fall, enrolled at Central Michigan University.

PUBLIC NOTICE

"BECAUSE THE PEOPLE MUST KNOW"

Notice of Public Hearing on Increasing Property Taxes

The Township Board of the Charter Township of Independence will hold a public hearing on a proposed increase in the operating tax millage rate to be levied in 1991 as follows:

FUND	MILLS
General	0.1127
Fire	0.0353
Police	(0.1855)
Library	0.0375
Safety Path	0.0000
Total Increase	0.0000

The hearing will be held on Tuesday, September 17, 1991, at 7:30 p.m. at the Independence Township Hall Annex, 90 North Main Street, Clarkston, Michigan.

If adopted, the proposed additional millage will increase operating revenues from ad valorem property taxes 0.000% over such revenues generated by levies permitted without holding a hearing. Calculated as follows:

FUND
General	10.46%
Fire	1.43%
Police	(8.84%)
Library	5.40%
Safety Path	0.00%
Total Increase	0.00%

If adopted, the millage rates will increase operating revenues and millage in some funds, and decrease operating revenues and millage in the Police fund that resulting overall millage to be paid for Independence Township purposes will be the same.

The taxing unit publishing this notice, and identified below, has complete authority to establish the number of mills to be levied from within its authorized millage rate.

AT the horse ranch on Grange Hall Road where Susan Marie Snyder stables her Chestnut quarter horse, she leads him back to the stable to prepare for a couple hours of riding time. Snyder rides Barpasser every day.

She takes horsin' around seriously

SUSAN Marie Snyder, 19, of Independence Township attended the American Junior Quarter Horse World Championship Show in Tulsa, Okla. Aug. 5-10. Snyder rode her quarter horse, Barpasser, in pattern riding events while at the show.

BY DENNIS V. CARTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Blue jeans and cowboy boots are the attire of day as Susan Marie Snyder leads her chestnut gelding quarter horse out of the stable for a couple hours of riding time.

Snyder, 19, of Independence Township was a member of the Michigan team that attended the American Junior Quarter Horse World Championship Show in Tulsa, Okla., Aug. 5-10.

"It was great," said Snyder. "The competition was really strong, and I enjoyed just being able to participate in the show."

Snyder, who rides her 10-year-old horse named Barpasser, participates in the showmanship classes of both the English Equitation and the Western Pleasure.

"I prefer the Western Pleasure class," Snyder said. "But I do enjoy both types of riding."

Snyder, a 1990 graduate of Marian High School in Birmingham, explained the riding events.

"The classes I ride in are based on a pattern selected by the judge. Then you are judged on how well you follow the pattern and how well you can handle your horse," she said.

In 1984, Snyder won the state championship in her class.

"I've been riding since I was 8 years old, but winning the state in 1984 was really a big thrill for me. I really put a lot of time into my riding, but it's worth every second of it," Snyder said.

Snyder, who enjoys swimming and football, got into riding horses when her father got back into raising them. "My dad showed Arabians when he was younger and wanted to back into it, and I wanted a horse, so he let me get one," she said.

Snyder, who has had five horses, started off with a quarter horse and has stayed with them.

"My first horse was kind of a muley old quarter horse, but I just loved it. The other members of my 4-H Club couldn't understand why I wanted a quarter horse. But I just really liked the quarter horse after riding it," she said.

Riding for two to three hours everyday, Snyder said it relaxes her, and she enjoys the time she spends practicing her riding skills.

"I take my riding pretty serious. ... Riding is really something special to me. It's more than just a hobby," she said.

Snyder rides in six to eight shows a month but soon will be heading to California to attend Fullerton College. That means she must now sell Barpasser.

"It will be sad to have to sell Barpasser — he has really been a good horse — but I will be gone to college, and my dad is ready to take break from horses for while," she said.

At this point, Snyder knows she will continue to ride, but she will put it on the back burner for a while, she said.

"I have gotten some letters from some colleges about scholarships for riding and may look into it in a year or so," she said. "But right now I'm committed to going to California."

"I take my riding pretty serious."

Susan Snyder

Snyder credits her parents and trainer Wayne Davis for helping her in her hobby. She said owning the horse and riding in shows has taught her a lot.

"It's been a great experience for me," she said. "I feel it is the best experience a kid can go through. It teaches you responsibility, along with dedication and desire. Practicing and learning to ride taught me to stick with something once I started it. I also learned that taking care of the horse required time and dedication. I'm really glad I was able to have this experience."

No matter what course Snyder selects for her life down the road, you can bet she will ride that road on a horse.

Tips for selecting a nursing home

Choosing a nursing home can be difficult. Often the decision must be made during a crisis, such as when a previously independent loved one suddenly suffers a debilitating stroke.

According to Cindy Gerstenlauer, geriatric clinical nurse specialist at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, it's a good idea to give as much time and thought to the decision as you can.

One of the first things to do is to determine the level of care that is needed. Nursing homes are only one option, depending on a person's degree and type of disability. Other options include home care, retirement homes, adult foster care and boarding homes.

If you decide a nursing home is the best option, do some careful research. Be observant when you are visiting various homes. Ask for a tour of the entire home, and don't be afraid to ask questions.

Other options include home care, retirement homes, adult foster care and boarding homes.

Here is a general checklist to help you make a good nursing home selection:

- Make sure the home has a license from the State Board of Health.
- Does the home accept Medicare and Medicaid?
- Is a doctor always available for emergencies?
- Is the home reasonably close to a hospital that provides emergency services?
- Is at least one registered nurse or licensed practical nurse on duty day and night?
- Are residents allowed to select their own doctors?
- Are smoke detectors, the automatic sprinkler system and automatic emergency lighting in good operating order?
- Do bathtubs and showers have non-skid surfaces?
- Are there grab bars in the bathroom and on both sides of the hallways?
- Is there a written statement of residents' rights clearly posted?
- Are the visiting hours convenient, and is the home close to family and friends?
- Is the home attractive, clean and odor-free?
- Is it well lighted?
- Are the rooms kept at a comfortable temperature?
- Is the general atmosphere of the home warm and cheerful?
- Are kitchen facilities clean and orderly?
- Look at the meal schedule. Are residents getting proper nutrition?
- Does the food look appetizing?

- Do residents have access to transportation?
- Are staff members friendly, and do they express interest and caring toward residents?
- Can residents wear their own cloths, decorate their rooms and keep some of their prized possessions in their rooms?
- Do residents speak favorably about the home?
- Do residents appear to enjoy each other's company?
- Do residents look well cared for?

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

LOOKING FOR ADVICE

QUESTION: I've inherited some residential real estate. Would it make more sense to sell it or keep it and rent it out?

ANSWER: With such big dollars at stake, it would make sense to have a real estate professional sit down with you and put all the pros and cons down on paper.

Important questions need to be answered and you need professional input. Should you sell? What return can you expect? What will be the tax consequences? Is it the right time to sell? Would the residence be a good rental property? Would it be wiser to rent or put the profit into financial instruments? Get all the facts before you decide.

IF YOU INHERIT property, you'll need expert advice on whether to sell it or keep it and rent it out.

Mr. and Mrs. Elton Houston

50th anniversary

Elton and Dorothy Houston of Clarkston celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Aug. 4 with family and friends at the Clarkston Golf Club, Independence Township. The Houstons were married Aug. 2, 1941, in Pontiac. They have two sons and one grandson.

Is he real?

DAYDREAMER Georgina Allerton (Susan M. Berg, Ferndale) imagines that a handsome cowboy (Greg Wilson, Clarkston) has arrived in time to interrupt her marriage to Clark Redfield (David DuChene, Dearborn) in the play, "Dream Girl." Justice of the Peace Billings (Dean Acheson, Detroit) awaits her decision. The 1945 fantasy comedy is now playing at Henry Ford Museum Theater through Sept. 14 Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30 p.m. plus a Sunday matinee Sept. 8 at 4:30 p.m. For more information, call (313) 271-1620. (Photo courtesy of Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village, Dearborn)

What's new in business

Mom recycles clothing, kids' items for a profit

BY DENNIS V. CARTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Once you step through the door, you know children's items are a specialty. But it's also fun to browse through this 'n that at the store.

On April 24, Diana Boadway opened up a resale shop, appropriately named: Diana's This-n-That Resale.

The store is in the Oakhill Plaza on Dixie Highway, Springfield Township.

"I've always wanted to open a small business, and this turned out to be just the right idea for us," she said.

Diana said that having a 3-year-old daughter made the this type of business a good idea.

"I can bring my daughter here to work with me," she said. "Also the idea of getting resale clothes and other items for children was something I needed and found out that a lot of other people needed it, too."

After Diana decided on the type of business, location was foremost in her mind.

"I wanted to stay local," she said. "I live about three minutes from here, and with the trailer park so close, I get a lot business from there. I found that a people in this area needed recycled clothes for their children, especially as fast as kids grow out of their clothes."

Business at the shop has been good so far. The only problem — some people can't find her store.

"I have a lot people come in and say they have been looking for the shop for some time. Word-of-mouth has really been good for me so far. But it seems, for some reason, the shop is hard for people to find," Diana said.

After she decided on the location, it took her only two months to get the show on the road.

"We were able to get going really fast. My husband and I did most of the work to get the shop ready for business. Once we opened, the shop's inventory just started growing, and we are getting bigger everyday it seems," she said.

The shop features children's items: newborn through 14 years of age.

"We have clothes and all types of other items related to children's needs, but we do also have a lot of other items, like crafts, jewelry and women's items," she said.

This-n-That also rents out baby items, such as cribs and high chairs. It also sells items on consignment for people.

"We have found that a lot grandmothers will need baby items, cribs and high chairs while they have visitors,

DIANA Boadway, owner of Diana's This-n-That Resale shop, checks some of the inven-so we rent these items in an effort to help the people in these types of situations.

"We also sell items on consignment for people. They can bring the items in, and we process them and put them on display," she said.

In an effort to better service her customers, Diana will take down the name and phone number of a customer tory in the store, which features recycled clothing for newborns and young children.

who is looking for something special.

"If we don't have it, I look for it. When it comes in or I come across it, I call them and let them know. I haven't failed to call anyone back as soon as I've gotten the item. The people seem to really appreciate this," Diana said.

One last bite

ERIC Berysian, 3, of Independence Township takes a bite of his meal at the corn roast at the American Legion Campbell-Richmond Post No. 63.

When packing school lunches, brown bag it

The oldest form of fast food, the brown bag lunch is making a comeback. With the start of school again this fall, students will be bringing lunches from home.

Without refrigeration, lunch contents may spoil easily, according to Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service.

The warm locker, the hot seat or trunk of a car, or the coziness of a desk drawer may make matters worse.

Warmth and moisture help bacteria to multiply rapidly, and food poisoning may be the result of a lunch left out too long without refrigeration.

Sandwich fillings that are more apt to cause food poisoning include dense, moist protein-rich foods such as tuna salad, egg salad and chicken salad. Contrary to popular opinion, it isn't the mayonnaise that is the villain but the combination of protein-rich foods that is the problem.

To save the time and trouble of preparing sandwiches each day, a supply of sandwiches can be prepared ahead and safely frozen for one to two weeks.

Suggestions for safe brown-bag lunches when no refrigerator is available:

- Pre-freeze sandwiches ahead of time. Cooked meat or poultry fillings are best — put in lunch solidly frozen (they will be ready to eat by lunch time). Processed lunch meats such as salami or bologna are good brown-bag ideas.

- Avoid sandwich fillings using eggs and mayonnaise or salad dressing.

- Do not freeze sandwiches with mayonnaise: it will separate and become mushy and oily.

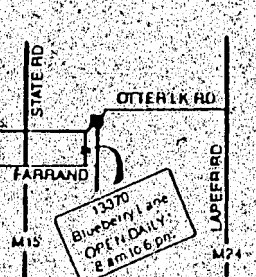

- Do not freeze fillings with hard-cooked eggs: the white becomes tough.

- Pre-freeze packaged boxed lunch drinks and pack close to sandwiches to keep them cold. The drink will be slushy and cold in time for lunch.

- Use an ice gel package — purchased or home-made — whenever possible.

For more information on brown-bag lunch ideas, call the Food and Nutrition Hotline at 858-0904.

Planning new carpet? Carpet World has it covered

BY DENNIS V. CARTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

When it comes to the various needs for floor covering, New York Carpet World has it covered.

On June 29, New York Carpet World opened the doors at its full-service floor covering operation at the intersection of M-15 and Dixie Highway, Independence Township.

"We are really excited about being here," said store manager Craig Colpean. "New York Carpet World is in an expanding mode right now. We plan to open 30 more stores this year. I'm just proud to be able to be at this location in Clarkston."

The store employs eight salespeople, eight stock personnel, three clerks and seven to eight installation crews.

Since opening in June, the store has seen a high level of business, said Colpean.

"This store has been doing very well, for sure," he said. "In fact, the company is very pleased with the results so far."

Employees at the new store have found Clarkston to have "homey" atmosphere, Colpean said.

"The people in Clarkston are very tight-knit. We like the atmosphere here. The people are just really great to work with," he said.

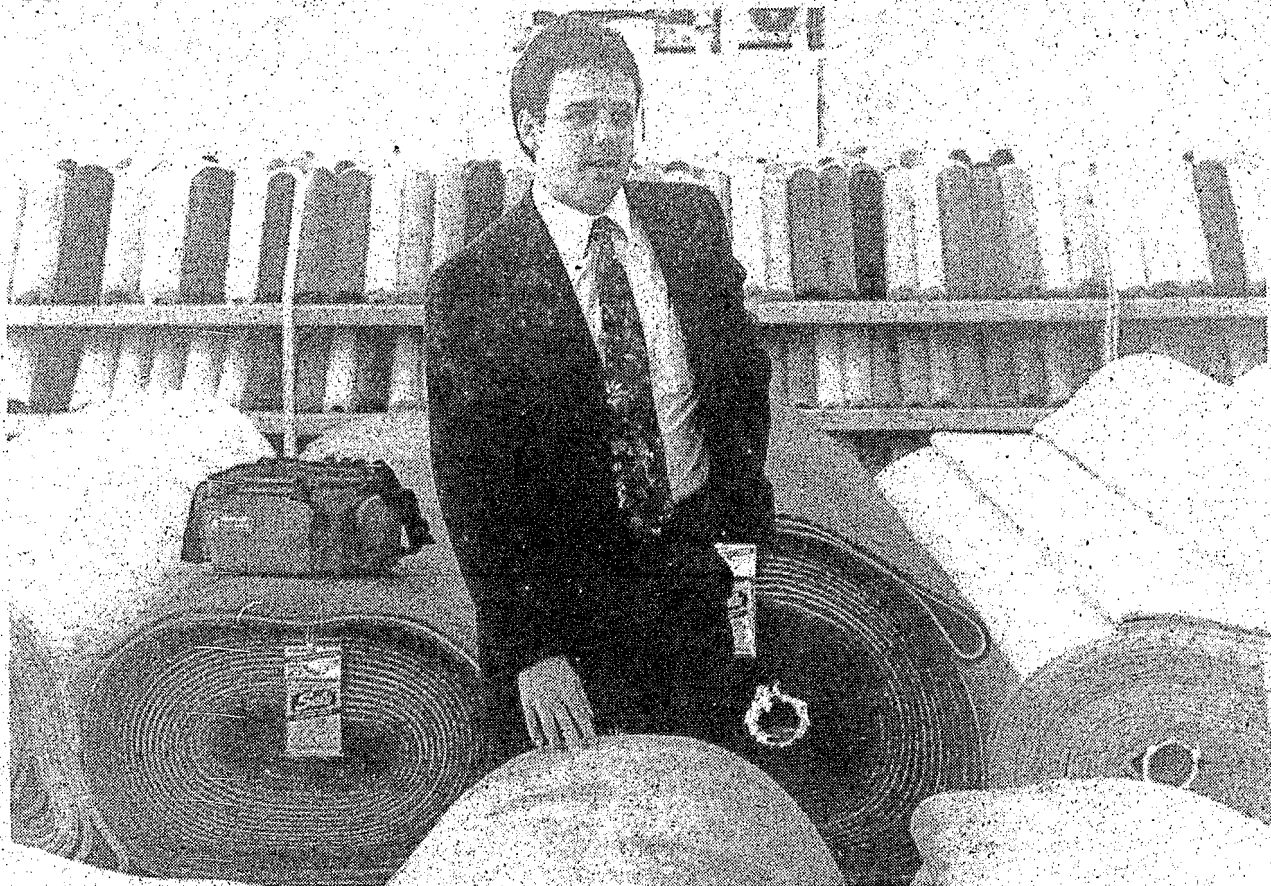

Colpean said the Clarkston area is in a mode of expansion and progress.

"This area is really growing, and we felt there was a need for our services in this area. Clarkston has shown a lot of progressive movement and yet been able to keep to its roots," Colpean said.

The store offers carpet, linoleum, tile and something new: ceramic floor covering.

Ceramic floor covering "is something that a lot of people have asked for, and we now have it," Colpean said. "We also offer installation, so that the customer doesn't have to contract out to have it put down."

New York Carpet World turned a former A&P store — which moved a mile north on Dixie Highway — into the showplace for its floor coverings.

"A lot of people are surprised at how nice the inside of store is now," Colpean said. "A lot of work went into redoing the building. We put in new windows and total changed the inside of the building as well as the outside. People are always telling me how much nicer it is now."

According to Colpean, there is always something new and exciting going on at the store.

"We are always have promotions or sales or something which will make the customer happy they chose this store to come to. We are here to see to it that the customers' needs are taken care of, and we work to put it into their budget," Colpean said.

Back in 1910, "caring" meant Pontiac residents raising $25,000 to build "Oakland County's First Hospital" in what was then a village of 5,000 people.

Five years later, caring meant the Oakland County Hospital Association donating the hospital to the thriving industrial center of Pontiac... and Oakland County Hospital became Pontiac City Hospital, which was changed to Pontiac General Hospital in 1931. Today, new communities all over Oakland County look to the same hospital for caring in the 1990's for services such as:

- Complete care for new mothers and babies, including family-centered birthing and northern Oakland County's leading intensive care unit for newborns.
- Satellite centers offering walk-in medical care and diagnostic services.
- Expanded programs in physical rehabilitation, county-wide psychiatric services and cardiac care.
- State-of-the-art laser and outpatient surgery.

With these new "caring" services and a patient base throughout Oakland County, our hospital has earned a new name.

This multi-faceted, contemporary cross represents the international symbol for compassionate, community-oriented health care. The repeating lines, which comprise the cross, signify the coordinated parts of the North Oakland Medical Center, a medical facility with many aspects, affiliates, divisions, services, and organizations all working together for the people of the North Oakland County area.

Garden Corner

What makes some peppers hotter than others?

The peak of gardening season means gardening questions galore.

Michigan State University Extension specialists answer timely questions about lawns, vegetable and flower gardens, landscape plants and related topics.

Q. How do bronze birch borers kill birch trees?

A. The larvae's feeding beneath the bark girdles branches in the top of the tree first. This kills them by preventing the movement of food and water to tissues above the attack site.

Over time, the attack moves down to the lower branches and trunk. Typically it takes three to four years to kill a tree, though trees under stress from some other cause may not survive one year of bronze birch borer attack.

Q. What makes hot peppers hotter than other peppers?

A. The hotness of peppers is caused by a group of naturally occurring chemicals called capsaicins. Different combinations of these chemicals produce the varying degrees of hotness in various pepper strains.

Peppers begin to produce capsaicins about four weeks after the fruits appear. The capsaicin content — and the hotness — increases as the fruits ripen. Hot pepper varieties may be safely planted next to milder varieties without fear of a cross between the two types.

Q. What causes scorch in landscape plants?

A. Scorch, the browning and dying of leaf margins in trees and shrubs, is a symptom that one or more adverse factors are affecting the plant.

Dry weather, especially combined with warm temperatures, is the most common cause of scorch. Other potential causes are damage to the root system that prevents roots from taking up water or accumulation of road salt in plant root zones.

Watering during long dry spells, planting in sites where soil compaction is not a problem, avoiding root damage during construction, and protecting plants from salt spray and runoff will go a long way to prevent scorch.

Q. What's a good flower for a hot, dry area that gets full sun all day?

A. Many flowering annuals are adapted to full sun. But for a desertlike problem spot, you can't beat portulaca, or moss rose. This tough plant with its roselike flowers quickly covers an area with its succulent stems. Though individual flowers are short-lived, the plants produce dozens of blossoms in a variety of colors throughout the summer.

Q. What is that black and red, half-inch insect with long feelers that spends the summer in my box elder trees and comes into my house in the fall?

A. It sounds like the box elder bug. These active insects feed by extracting plant juices from box elder trees.

They breed only on seed-bearing (female) trees, so one way to eliminate them from the landscape is to remove all female box elder trees.

If that isn't an acceptable approach, spraying infested trees to kill the immature insects will control them. Spraying foundation walls and other places the bugs congregate in the fall is another option, but it tends to take several gallons of spray.

Sealing up cracks and crevices the insects use to enter the house and using a vacuum cleaner to apprehend any that make their way inside is an inexpensive, effective approach.

Q. What's the point of mulching around trees and shrubs in the lawn?

A. There are several good reasons to mulch around landscape plants. A circle of mulch eliminates the need to mow right up to the tree trunk or shrub and so greatly reduces the chance of "lawn mower blight," mechanical damage to the bark.

Mulching with wood chips or shredded bark increases water penetration and absorption down to the roots. It also reduces evaporation and helps reduce the need for watering during drought.

Mulching is especially important for recently planted trees and shrubs, which tend to have inadequate root systems and are especially susceptible to drought.

Q. What causes trees to grow roots on the surface of the soil?

A. Roots sometimes become visible because of erosion of the surface soil. More often roots simply break through the surface of the soil as they grow. Some species of trees, such as silver maple, poplar and willow, are more prone to develop surface roots than others.

Once roots appear, almost anything you might do to remedy the situation would damage the tree. Applying an inch of topsoil and reseeding the grass will probably be only a temporary solution. (Avoid burying roots deeply — this is likely to kill them.)

A sensible alternative would be to plant the area under the tree with a ground cover plant that will not need mowing.

Q. Why do some potatoes bloom but others don't?

A. Blossom formation in potatoes varies with the weather and the cultivar. Some varieties never bloom, while others may flower prolifically one year but hardly at all the next. Potato plants do not have to flower to form tubers.

Q. I have wild turkeys in my backyard. Even the presence of my dog doesn't seem to bother him. Were they maybe raised by humans to be so unafraid?

A. Probably not. Wild turkeys that aren't hunted become very tolerant of human activity. Even hunted turkey populations learn when and where to tolerate humans and when and where to avoid them.

Q. What causes tomatoes to crack?

A. Tomatoes may develop two types of cracks. Concentric cracking may appear around the top of the tomato. Radial cracking starts at the fruit stem and cuts into the shoulders of the fruit. Concentric cracking mars the tomato's appearance but usually does little real damage to the fruit. Radial cracks, on the other hand, may become a site of mold growth, bacterial rot or insect infestation.

Cracking is generally a bigger problem in tomato plants that are staked and pruned to a single stem than in tomatoes grown on the ground or in cages.

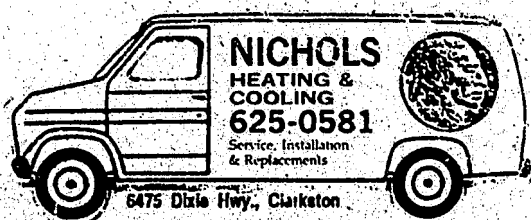

Fruits tend to become more susceptible to cracking as they mature. Cracking is most likely when a heavy rain or irrigation comes after the soil has been dry for a while. Keeping the soil uniformly moist will reduce the likelihood of fruit cracking.

Q. There's a burrow the size of a half-dollar next to my back steps. I have an indoor-outdoor cat that seems interested in the burrow, so I don't want to put out poison. What am I dealing with here? Should I be trying to get rid of it?

A. Your burrowing neighbor is probably a chipmunk or perhaps a 13-lined ground squirrel. If it's not causing any problems, take advantage of the opportunity to observe the animal, learn about it and enjoy it.

If you want to remove it, use a small box trap baited with a dab of peanut butter and sunflower seeds to catch it. Then transport it at least a mile away and release it.

The above information was provided by the Michigan State University College of Agriculture and Natural Resources Outreach Communications, East Lansing.

Eat, exercise your way to a healthier heart

An ounce of prevention is worth ... half a pound of fish in one's weekly diet, or says a University of Michigan cardiologist who stresses sensible eating for a healthy heart.

And while eating fish — which can reduce the cholesterol level in your blood and help prevent heart attacks — can do wonders for your heart, that alone won't do the trick.

Improving your overall nutrition — prevention, in other words — is often all that is needed.

"There's no magic involved," said physician Carl Orringer. "Cholesterol reduction through a modification in diet and regular, controlled exercise can reduce the onset of heart disease and significantly alter the long-term survival rate of a person with a history of cardiac problems."

Orringer and his staff at MedSport, the U-M's sports medicine and preventive cardiology clinic, specialize in teaching heart patients how to reduce the risk of recurrent cardiac illness by modifying dietary-related risk factors: high blood cholesterol, high blood pressure, diabetes mellitus and obesity. Better nutrition and exercise often can reduce all four factors, but medication may be necessary for some patients.

Orringer also emphasizes the modification of other risk factors such as smoking and stress. This is accomplished through various programs of risk factor detection, weight control and smoking cessation.

For many, dietary changes are enough to reduce the threat of cardiovascular disease.

"We often see a significant improvement in cholesterol levels within a month of putting a patient on a nutrition program," said Orringer, who co-authored a grocery shopping guide to help consumers select foods lower in dietary saturated fat and cholesterol.

For others, diet and exercise combined successfully lowers cholesterol without medication. Exercise is beneficial, Orringer said, because it increases the production of a blood protein called high-density lipoprotein, or HDL, which helps eliminate cholesterol from the bloodstream. Exercise also helps shave off excess pounds and improves the efficiency of the heart.

Health highlight

Coronary disease in the United States is largely blamed on the American diet, which is loaded with red meat, dairy products, fried and overprocessed foods. In contrast, the Japanese, who live primarily on a diet of fish, vegetables and rice, experience five times fewer heart attacks than people in Western countries, he said.

High cholesterol levels in the blood may lead to fatty deposits on the walls of coronary arteries, which increases the risk of heart attack.

What many people don't realize is that high cholesterol levels usually begin during childhood. Children of parents with high cholesterol levels have a greater chance of developing the same problem, due to dietary or genetic factors — or both, Orringer said. Children with high cholesterol at the age of 5 tend to have the same problem later.

And while some people's genes allow them to metabolize cholesterol more efficiently than others, most people can lower their cholesterol levels through diet. Reading nutrition labels is a start; cooking and eating to get the most flavor and nutrition for the least amount of cholesterol and saturated fat — which plays a major role in raising blood cholesterol — is another way.

Here are some hints that may change the way you shop, eat — and feel:

■ Buy margarines that list a liquid polyunsaturated oil as the first ingredient, and avoid those with a hydrogenated oil listed first.

■ Buy chicken, turkey and fish and veal more often than beef, lamb, pork or ham, which contain more fat and less meat per pound.

■ Avoid luncheon and variety meats such as bologna, bacon, sausage, salami, frankfurters and liverwurst, all of which are high in fat and sodium and have added chemical preservatives.

■ Buy cheeses made from skim milk, which are low in fat and high protein. These include dry curd cottage cheese and farmer's cheese and some specially processed low-fat cheeses.

■ Avoid most commercial coffee creamers — they are typically made of coconut or palm oil and are high in artery-clogging saturated fat.

■ Beware of words that mean fat, such as lard, palm oil, palm kernel oil, coconut oil, monoglyceride, diglyceride, vegetable shortening, cocoa butter and hydrogenated oil. Foods with these ingredients are high in saturated fat.

■ Buy crackers made with polyunsaturated oils. Many crackers, such as graham and soda crackers, contain lard and/or palm oil.

Business brief

Certified in finance

Artemus M. Pappas of Clarkston was among the 46 members of the Municipal Treasurer's Association of the United States and Canada who have earned the Certified Municipal Finance Administrator credential.

Official presentation ceremonies were held during the association's 26th annual conference in Knoxville, Tenn.

Promoted at college

Keith J. Petovello of the Clarkston area has been appointed as assistant director of admissions at Baker College, Flint.

Petovello joined Baker College of Flint as an admissions counselor and recruiter in April 1990. His bachelor of arts degree in psychology and communications is from Oakland University, Rochester.

Pet of the Week

Frisky Hannah

Hannah is a real live wire, and she's looking for a home.

This 1-year-old boxer is brindle colored and weighs 45 pounds. She's reportedly housebroken and very friendly.

She is good with other pets but not recommended for families with small children, due to her friskiness. Hannah has been spayed.

Her adoption fee is $35, which doesn't include the cost of heartworm medicine.

To see Hannah, visit the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Road, Rochester Hills, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

We Are SIDING And GUTTER Specialists

We are not a Jack-of-all-trades. We can not guarantee you the absolute lowest price as we will not sacrifice the quality products or workmanship that you deserve. But what we will guarantee is an honest and fair price with products and workmanship of the highest quality. We also do our own work. We don't get your job and sub-contract it out, or sell it. So if you are only looking for the cheapest way out, call someone else who claims they can beat any price. If you are looking for an honest and fair price, quality products and workmanship, dependability and someone that will still be here after your job is completed, give us a call. Helping you make your home the one you've always dreamed of is what we do.

Community education at a glance

Registration underway

Registration for fall classes for adult education as well as adult enrichment continues through Sept. 13 at the Clarkston Community Education Center.

Those who wish to complete their courses for their high school diploma should call 674-0993 for an appointment with an academic advisor.

Adult education classes begin Sept. 12. Adult enrichment classes also begin the first week in September.

Scrapbook Series

More than 150 adult enrichment classes are offered this term, including the award-winning Scrapbook Series. On Tuesday, Sept. 10, a "Walking Tour of Clarkston's Historical District" will be conducted as part of that series.

Mary Alice Cook, president of the Clarkston Community Historical Society, is tour guide, with a lunch of soup and salad following at The Clarkston Cafe—all for $8.

For more information

Clarkston Community Education Center is at 5275 Maybee Road, Independence Township. Extended hours are offered during registration: 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday, and 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday, Sept. 7. For more information, call 674-0993.

If you're planning a community event, don't forget to inform the Clarkston Chamber of Commerce. Write P. O. Box 938, Clarkston, MI 48347 or call 625-8055.
