Stolen dog returned to rightful owner

A 14-month-old Labrador retriever reported stolen from its home on Sashabaw Road, Waterford Township, last week, has come home.

Owner Brian Ladd said his dog, Bear, was returned to him late Monday, Sept. 9, two days after he was allegedly stolen by a burly man in a faded blue pickup. A neighbor had witnessed the abduction but was unable to make out the vehicle's license plate.

Ladd said Bear was returned by an area man who reportedly found him wandering near Pelton Road with no collar. The man declined to take the reward money offered for the dog's return.

Ladd remains puzzled by the abduction but is happy to have Bear back.

"I wasn't sure if I'd ever see him again," Ladd said. "When I got him back, he appeared tired but no worse the wear. He'll be OK."

Judge won't hear case

Cityhood full steam ahead

BY CURT MCALLISTER
 Clarkston News Associate Editor

It took Oakland County Circuit Court Judge John O'Brien about a minute to render his decision on a stay of proceedings filed by Independence Township.

On Sept. 11, O'Brien told Independence attorney Gerald Fisher that he wasn't going to consider the township's proposed injunction.

Two months ago when he ruled in favor of the State Boundary Commission's right to grant cityhood to the Village of Clarkston.

Last year, the State Boundary Commission granted village citizens the right to vote on cityhood for themselves. The township immediately filed a lawsuit, charging that the Boundary Commission did not have a legal right to allow the village to become a city.

On March 24, O'Brien ruled in favor of the State Boundary Commission's right to grant cityhood. This prompted the township board to vote to appeal the judge's decision in the Michigan Court of Appeals.

However, there is nearly a two-year wait until a

Merchants join crafts and cider festivities

This year's Crafts and Cider Festival is filled with more events than ever. Plus, parking could be a little easier, thanks to area merchants.

Sponsored by the Clarkston Community Historical Society, the festival takes place 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 20 and 21, in Clarkston's Depot Park.

A free shuttle bus runs between free parking at Independence Pointe (M-15 at I-75) and the festival in downtown Clarkston.

All sorts of crafts and fine art will be on display in the juried show in the park. Selections include basketry, fabric, woodwork, jewelry, painting and photography. Plus, the historical society will again sell cider and doughnuts.

In addition, the retail section of M-15 will have sidewalk sales with outside table displays, if the weather permits.

The businesses plan special events, ranging from free face painting and a petting zoo to caramel apples to a special author signing and a "how-to" craft session.

In addition, Springfield Township recording artist Paul Lee Marr is to perform both days under a gazebo in Independence Pointe, where visitors may meander before or after taking the free shuttle bus to the festival.

Township stymied in court court of appeals judge hears the case.

With this in mind, the township filed a stay of proceedings with the Oakland County Circuit Court. Township officials said that if they win the appeals court decision, and if the village becomes a city, it would be costly and confusing to reverse the cityhood process that would have been in place for a year.

Even though he didn't side with the township, O'Brien suggested that the township file the injunction with the Michigan Court of Appeals.

Fisher said he was disappointed in the judge's quick decision but will take his recommendation to the township board for approval.

"Basically, he didn't make his ruling on the merits of our injunction, so we'll have to consider taking our case to the Michigan Court of Appeals," the attorney said.

The Independence Township Board didn't discuss

"We'll have to consider taking our case to the Michigan Court of Appeals."

Attorney Gerald Fisher

the matter at the Sept. 17 meeting but is expected to do so soon. A majority vote from the seven-person board will be required before a legal brief is filed with the court of appeals.

Unlike the appealed lawsuit, Fisher said this brief would be viewed as a separate matter. It could reach an appeals court judge within three to four months, he said.

As for the village, the task of drawing up a city charter continues. It's presently in the final stages, but an election date has yet to be set for its possible passage. Village President Sharron Catalo said she was pleased by the judge's decision not to let the cityhood proceed ings. "Obviously, we thought this would be the ruling all along," she said. "There's been no indicators of why it should be the contrary."

Catalo said she wished the matter had been put to a close because the legal costs are beginning to mount.

"I think this is a waste of money, not only in the township and village, but across the state," she said. "It just doesn't seem like the Boundary Commission would make such a drastic mistake without correcting it right away."

"We'll just have to sit and see what the township does next," Catalo added.

Booster banner stolen from CHS

If parents in the area notice a white canvas banner in their yard, they should take notice.

It likely belongs to the Clarkston Athletic Booster Club.

The white canvas sign with red and black lettering advertising a pancake breakfast was stolen from the Clarkston High School football field, where it was visible from Waldon Road, said Chuck Steinhelper, a member of the athletic boosters.

The banner was about 4 feet by 6 feet and was put in place last week. It was reported missing early Monday, Sept. 16, said Steinhelper.

"I spent two days making it; it makes me mad," he said.

He added that he hopes a parent or student notices somewhere and returns it to the boosters, who can be found most evenings at the booster booth during athletic events at Clarkston High School.

Or they may call Steinhelper directly at 625-3690.

Corrections

In the Sept. 11 issue of The Clarkston News, a story about cancer patient Holli Schilling should have said that 42 insurance companies will pay for bone marrow transplants.

In last week's Clarkston News, a story about Principal Robert Burek's last day at Clarkston High School should have said that the idea for the special assembly in his honor came from the Blue and Gold Club, which presented Burek with a $50 gift certificate to the Clarkston Cafe.

Poor economy means more turn to Lighthouse

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

A woman with three children peeks into Lighthouse North on Maybee Road, Independence Township, and is welcomed.

She explains that she needs a little food to get by this month.

Volunteers show her the options from donated food items. The woman hesitates, then explains that she doesn't have a way to bake.

They find items that don't need to be heated in an oven. Then she asks, tentatively, if any warm blankets have been donated.

It turns out, said Lighthouse North Director Sherri Kaars, that the woman and her children have been living in a north Oakland County campground for the summer. They are not alone, she said.

"This is a serious situation," said Kaars. "This area is not what people think it is."

According to the Michigan Department of Social Services, 600 people in Independence Township alone receive Aid for Dependent Children (ADC). In addition, Lighthouse North sees more people from the Clarkston area than from any other location.

"Some of these statistics really scare me — I don't know what the answer is," said Kaars.

When Lighthouse North — a branch of the Pontiac-based Lighthouse — opened officially in 1990, planners predicted it would serve 500 in the north Oakland County area. Instead, it served 4,322 the first year.

As of Aug. 31, 1991, Lighthouse North has served 10,497 people in the townships of: Oxford, Orion, Brandon, Groveland, Springfield, Rose, Independence and Holly.

"The increase and demand for our services is just overwhelming for us," said Kaars, who is only one of two paid staff people at Lighthouse North.

"We're trying to keep up, but we're looking at a budget and a year plan for about 4,000 people," she said.

With the income projected for the year, it looks as if Lighthouse North will have a deficit of about $20,000 this year, despite the fund-raising efforts of lots of people, said Kaars, adding that only 10 percent of the budget is used

Full homecoming day

Clarkston High School's homecoming weekend is shaping up with a day full of events.

To begin the day on Saturday, Sept. 28, the Clarkston Athletic Boosters are sponsoring a pancake breakfast at the Clarkston Elementary gym.

Prices for the all-you-can-eat breakfast are $4 for adults, $3 for children ages 5-12, and free for children under age 5.

The homecoming parade in downtown Clarkston is set for 10 a.m. and will be filled with Clarkston floats and teams.

Then, the CHS varsity football team will battle the Waterford Mott Corsairs at 1 p.m. at the high school football field.

And finally, the Athletic Boosters are sponsoring an event for adults to cap off the evening.

While the students are at their own Homecoming dance, a '50s and '60s Hop for Mom and Pop is planned for 7:30 p.m. at the American Legion Hall, Post No. 63, 8047 Ortonville Road, Independence Township.

Tickets are $15, which covers munchies and an open bar. Prizes will be given for best outfits. Tickets are available at the concession games of all home games. Proceeds will help pay for a new athletic building at the athletic field.

for operating expenses.

"I don't know what will happen at the end of the year when we have to assess from the main Lighthouse," she said, noting that state budget cuts and a higher number of clients at the main Lighthouse means not much money is available.

"I don't think anyone anticipated the economic crisis. A lot of people are laid off."

In the service area of Lighthouse North, eight of the nine townships have unemployment rates higher than the countywide employment rate of 7.3 percent, as of the end of July.

About half of the clients at Lighthouse North are traditional families; another portion are single women with children, said Kaars, adding that some clients are single working people who have come to a crisis in their lives.

Perhaps they've been laid off or have had their hours cut or have been hospitalized.

Some simply can't pay the electricity bill in a month or can't afford prescriptions. Or they have to move to a lower-rent apartment and can't afford the security deposit. Or if they pay all of those bills, they can't afford food. Sometimes, one spouse has been laid off, and the cost of living in the north Oakland County area is just too high.

"They do everything they can to keep themselves in this area," said Kaars. "They don't want to move down the poverty ladder. ... It's just devastating."

Lighthouse North saw 20 domestic violence cases in 1990 and already has 83 on the books to date in 1991, said Kaars.

"It could be that people didn't know we were here, and now they do," said Kaars, trying to explain the increase. "But national statistics show that in economic crisis, there's an increase in domestic violence and child abuse."

It's a similar story with substance abuse cases. In 1990, three clients were seen for that problem, and 73 have already been seen in 1991.

"Those are the statistics that really concern me," said Kaars.

With the sheer volume at Lighthouse North, an

Mostly, though, they need cash, though more has been available this year than last year.

This year, Lighthouse North became a facilitator for a federal program that helps with rent and mortgage money for low-income residents. It also runs a state program in the area that provides money for medical emergencies and prescriptions.

Plus, it has a "layette" program for low-income pregnant women, who can receive a layette kit for their newborns.

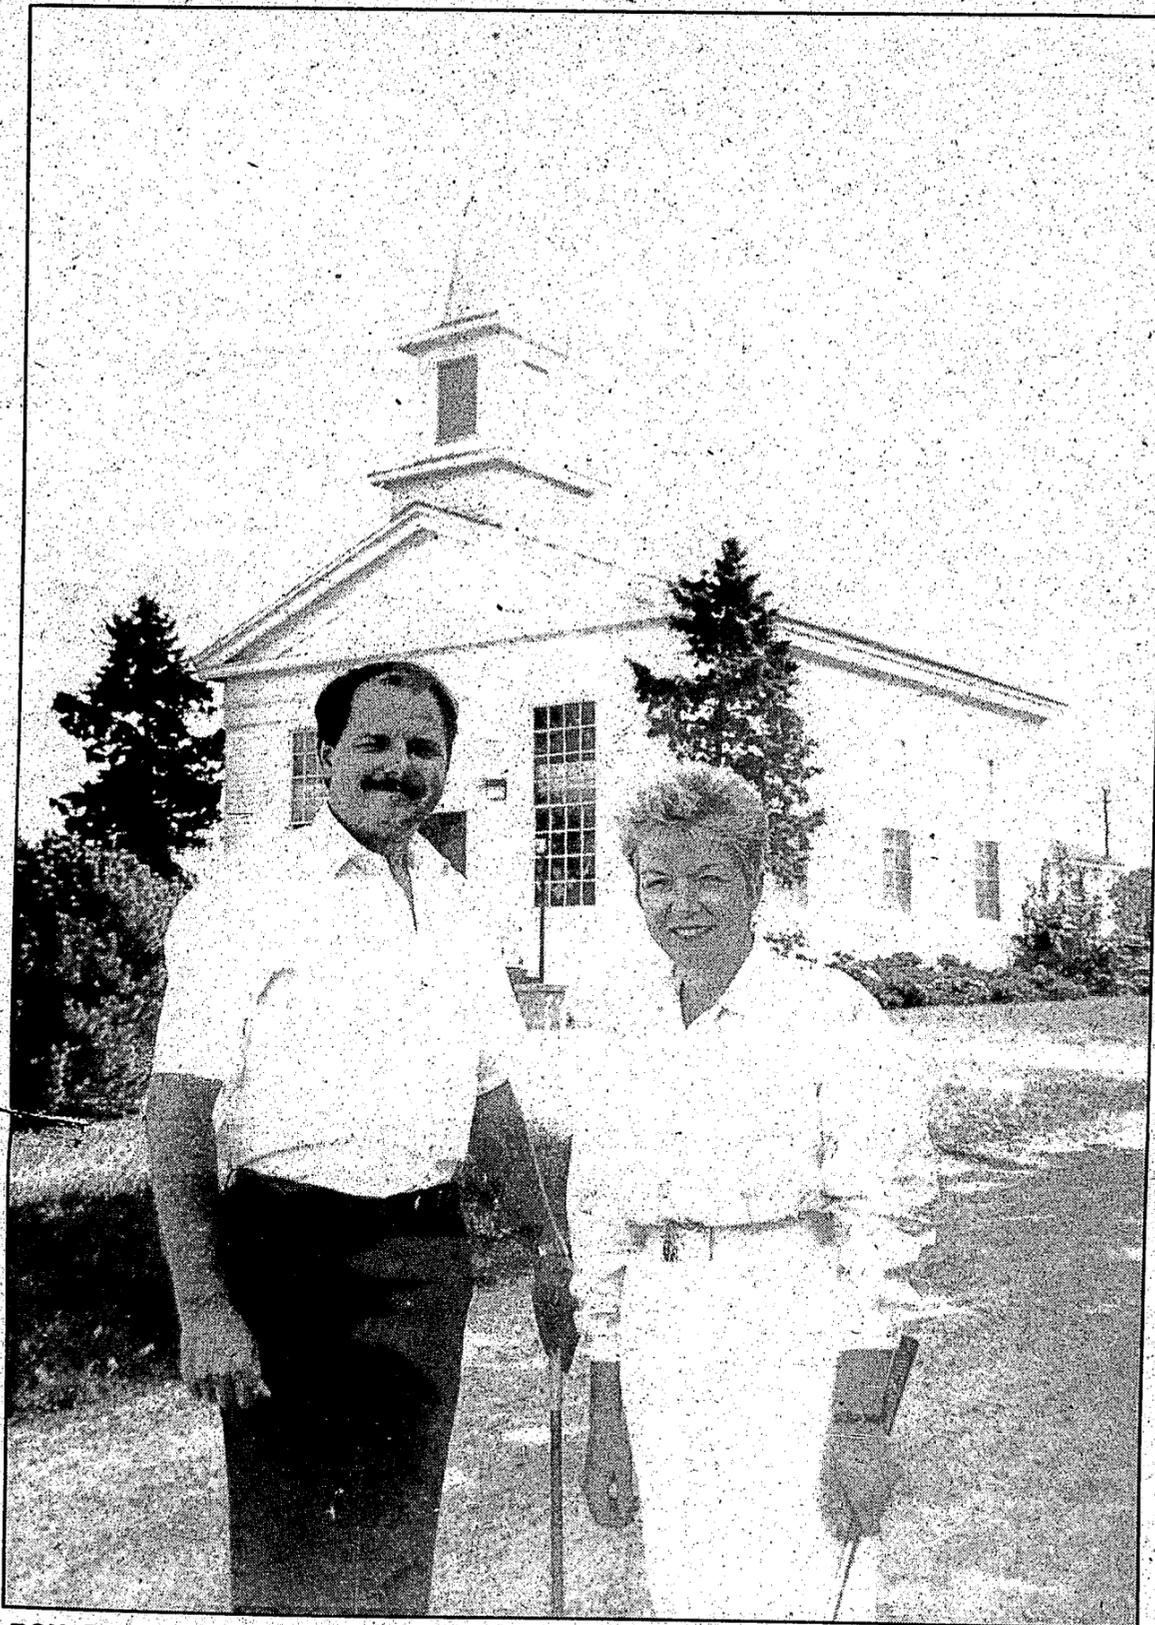

A Lighthouse North birthday project provides cake and frosting mixes, candles and gifts for qualifying children if their mothers register in advance for the program.

Another $17,000 grant helps pay for food and personal need items for clients.

And there's the ongoing clothes closet and food pantry, stocked mainly by donations from area residents and churches. And if they're in a real bind, said Kaars, they call the churches, one by one, to scrape up enough money for an emergency case, she said.

Now the challenge is to find homes for those who are living in tents in north Oakland County, she said.

Golf, fashion, cookbooks to help Lighthouse North

RON DAVIS of NBD and Mary White, a substitute teacher in Clarkston schools, agree to pose for a photo for the golf outing fundraiser they are organizing.

When more and more people turned to Lighthouse North for help this year, more and more volunteers turned up to help with time or money.

Even more money and help are needed, but the existing efforts are appreciated, said Sherri Kaars, director of Lighthouse North on Maybee Road, Independence Township.

Lighthouse North provides emergency food and clothing, landlord-tenant mediation, case management and other assistance to low-income, handicapped and senior citizens. If anyone would like to help with time or money, they are welcome, Kaars said.

"If they have a skill, we can use it," she said.

5-year school plan calls for public support

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

With a new long-range plan, the Clarkston Board of Education is braced for the future.

The plan covers five years and calls for more money, more community involvement and more techniques to boost self-esteem.

On Sept. 9, the school board unanimously approved the plan, two years in the making, which will help the school district more aptly contrive upcoming programs and needed improvements.

The plan is comprised of a mission statement, beliefs, guiding principals, goals and strategies.

According to David Reschke, Clarkston's director of curriculum and staff development, the long-range plan will act as a reference tool for the district over the next five years.

"This plan will give the district a process and a plan that will help focus everyone's efforts toward improving our schools in a consistent manner," Reschke said.

According to the plan, "the mission of Clarkston Community Schools is to ensure learning while challenging all individuals to exceed their own expectations."

This was but one part of the plan. Reschke said about 150 community members, including school employees and administrators, worked together to compile goals.

Village tackles signs

Temporary signs are the topic of a public hearing before the Village of Clarkston Planning Commission Oct. 7.

The hearing is set for 7:30 p.m. Monday at the village hall, 375 Depot Road, Clarkston.

The hearing is to consider changes to Clarkston's zoning ordinance with regards to ordinance No. 72: Limitations of 30 days for temporary signs identifying construction sites, builders, engineers, contractors, during the alterations, construction or repairs of property.

"We've always had long-range goals but this plan ties them all together."

strategies and guiding principals.

Each of these items had to be approved by a review team of 25 members, who discussed, organized and prioritized this plan. This "Team of 25" will also be responsible for assembling once a year until 1996 to evaluate the plan and gauge its progress.

Under the approved "goals" portion of the plan, the review team came up with three objectives for the next five years. They include the following:

■ By 1996, Clarkston Community Schools will achieve financial growth and stability through consistent and improved funding of programs.

■ By 1996, Clarkston Community Schools will take a lead in developing community consensus on the priority of educational needs by pursuing community ownership of the mission and goals of the district, and by increasing community involvement in the education process.

■ By 1993, Clarkston Community Schools will develop a comprehensive, decision-making process with contributions from all stakeholders.

To achieve these goals, the approved plan has listed six strategies. They include the following:

■ To develop an aggressive, long-term financial plan that incorporates funding from local, state and federal sources, in both the private and public sector to achieve the mission statement.

■ To provide a comprehensive, professional development program for all staff.

■ To enhance the system for recruiting quality staff.
■ To develop, implement and maintain a process to monitor and evaluate district programs in order to ensure continuously appropriate curriculum and instruction.

■ To provide appropriate, adaptable and multi-functional facilities that enhance the best possible learning environment.

■ To incorporate techniques that enhance positive development of self-esteem.

Now that the plan has been approved, Reschke said it's up to Supervisor Gary Haner and his management team to prioritize the listed goals. He said the district could be ready to implement some programs to tackle these goals by January.

Reschke said he is excited about the long-range plan's prospects over the next few years.

"We've always had long-range goals but this plan ties them all together," he said. "It's going to give us a corporate mission to move forward. This plan should be very solidifying to our schools and community over the next five years."

Julie Campe

As I contemplate the death of my childhood friend's father, I can't quite grasp the reality of it.

I can only smile when I think of George Gray, a long-time Clarkston resident, most recently of Florida.

I think of ... summer and playing softball in Tammy Gray's front yard on Middle Lake Road. We throw the ball back and forth, she and I, and Mr. Gray pauses as he comes out of the house. Tammy and I do our best to impress him.

"You know," he says to me after I make a perfect throw, "Tammy actually throws better than you. You throw like a girl."

"You have to have an arc in your throw," he says, demonstrating.

He looks like one of those pitchers on television. I mimic him.

"That's right," he says. "Now try it for real."

Using my new method, I throw to Tammy. It feels awkward in the elbow. We throw again, she and I, practicing our form. We notice that we have more power, but our throws are a little wild. This will take a lot of practice. But that's OK. We have all summer. Mr. Gray has gone, but we don't notice in our preoccupation with our new skill.

I can't remember a time when I didn't know Mr. Gray. I think back, trying to recall when I first met him. ...

Summer again. I am 5 and am supposed to be falling asleep in my new bedroom in my new house. For the time being, two of my brothers also share the room. There are no curtains, and I can see a UFO outside my window.

I hold my body as stiff as possible under the thin sheet that I know will protect me from anything. It is hot and muggy, but I will stay under that sheet and stare at the UFO until it goes away.

My brothers have already fallen asleep.

Outside the bedroom, I can hear the grownups laughing and shuffling. They are playing bridge, which means that they sit at groups of four around small tables and eat and drink and laugh and shuffle cards. The husbands and wives don't always play at the same table, I noticed before I went to bed.

I see the UFO move and I scream, but quietly. I stand up in bed, then dive back under the sheet. Soon Mr. Gray is pecking in our open bedroom door. He smiles and notices that I am a little frightened.

"What's the matter?" he asks. "Can't you fall asleep?"

I tell him about the UFO, which seems smaller now. He asks me to point it out to him. So we go to the window and I point right at it.

"Oh," he says. "That's not a UFO -- that's an airplane. See the blinking light? See it move? It's just an airplane."

He sounds positive, but I look a little longer at the diminishing light in the starry sky just to make sure. Yes, it blinks a slight pink color.

I go back to bed and, without trying, fall asleep.

My mother tells me that she and the Grays have known each other since long before I was born. That means Tammy and I have been friends since babyhood. That explains a lot. ...

Somehow, I know that Mr. Gray loved to read, particularly history, and particularly Civil War history.

I have a bag of petoskey stones and sandpaper that I know that Mr. Gray gave me after I accompanied the Grays on a summer trip up north. I can't remember which summer.

I know that Mr. Gray didn't like Tammy and I to walk outside barefoot, but I can't remember why.

He and his wife, Janice, used to like to watch birds outside his kitchen window, and he liked to watch the news on television at lunchtime.

He and Mrs. Gray used to like to argue about things every now and then, but they always smiled about it -- sometimes during the debate and always after. It's hard to tell who won most often.

Mrs. Gray says one of the hardest trials of returning to Florida alone will be facing all of Mr. Gray's books that he never got a chance to read. Suddenly, the reality of Mr. Gray's death sinks in.

Reviewing the '92 Old Farmer's Almanac

It's time to celebrate the 200th anniversary of "The Old Farmer's Almanac," 1992 version.

That's how long ago a Massachusetts school teacher and amateur astronomer Robert Bailey Thomas started his Almanac.

It was a hit from the start. Circulation jumped from 3,000 the first year to 9,000 the second. Now it's the oldest continuously published periodical in North America.

Among the stories in this September issue are: "How to get rich without doing any work," "How to grow a 1,000-pound pumpkin," "Facts and fiction about Death Valley," "What should we think about Christopher Columbus?" and, of course, a special bicentennial weather-forecasting quiz.

I'm sure you'd like some insight on how to get rich without working. Get this: If your eyebrows meet in the middle you are destined to be rich.

A mole on the back means money by the sack; dreaming about oysters is a sign of prosperity; if a nest filled with eggs appears in your dreams, you will die rich; if a baby's initials spell a word, he or she will become wealthy.

Or, you can marry money. "If your shoes are worn out on the sides, you will marry a rich man;" "A big wife and a big barn will never do a man any harm;" and "A girl with hairy arms and legs will marry a rich man."

Here's a couple things the Old Farmer's Almanac learned about us: You are much more likely to wash your hands after using the toilet if someone is watching.

One way to avoid family squabbles is to install a second bathroom in your house. Chatting with a friend, if you're an American, you probably touch each other twice an hour.

If you are faithful to your spouse you are a member of the 3 or 4 percent of mammal species who stay with a single mate, including coyotes, bats, wolves, beavers, muskrats and certain varieties of moles.

The Almanac also tells us the fashion waves for 1992. For women, hemlines can be either short, medium, or long, although miniskirts will be the dominant look.

For men, conservative business suits will still be the uniform of choice, but greater variety will be seen in socks, shirts and ties.

There's a good article on peanuts in this 200th anniversary issue. They are America's ninth most valuable cash crop.

Historians disagree on the peanut-butter inventor. I'll go with the one who says Dr. John Kellogg of Battle Creek filed his patent in 1895 for the "process of preparing nut meal."

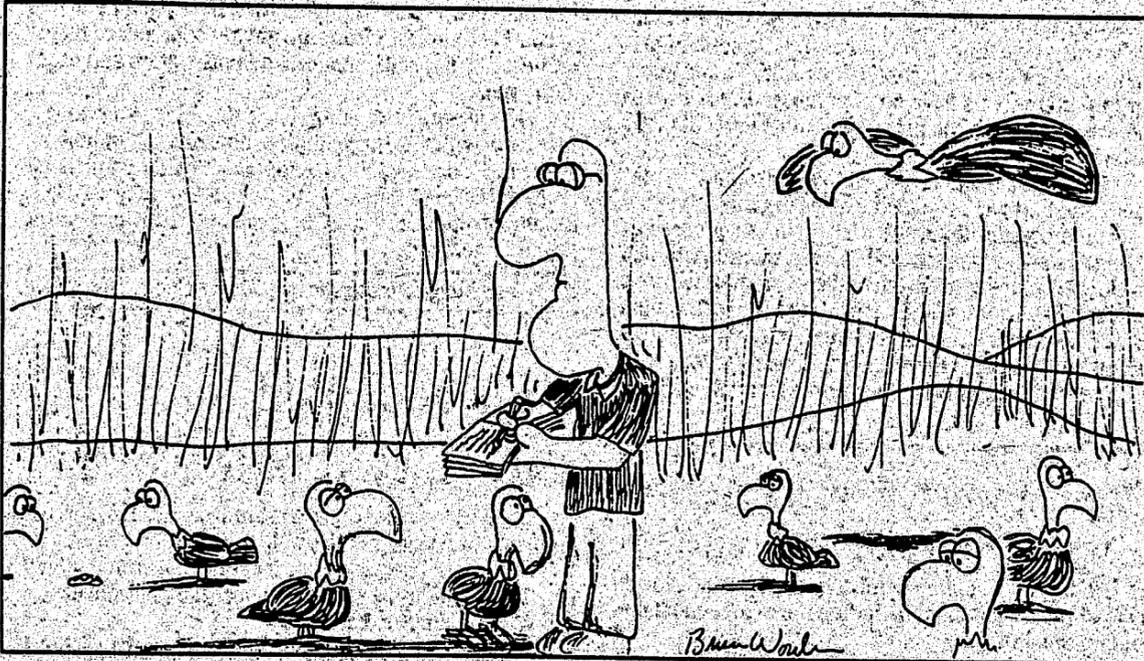

More than 85 percent of American homes stock peanut butter.

One article says weather changed the course of American history seven times. One of them was August 29, 1776. . . If it hadn't been so foggy that day George Washington and most of the Continental Army might have been annihilated at the Battle of Long Island. Washington suffered a defeat that day, but the fog allowed him to get away.

If you like weather predictions, or trying to figure out what the Almanac is predicting, pick up a bicentennial issue of The Old Farmer's Almanac.

OCT. 23, 1980 — ALTHOUGH I'M NOT QUITE SURE WHY, THE FLOCK SEEMS TO HAVE ALLOWED ME TO ROAM FREELY WITH THEM. THIS STUDY SHOULD BE A BREEZE.

Pre-wedding bliss

Curt McAllister

Well, the big day is less than two weeks away and my feet haven't turned to icicles yet.

On Sept. 28, I'll be entering the world of holy matrimony, and I have to admit that I'm starting to feel the pinch. Unfortunately, that pinch is in my wallet.

Why couldn't have I gotten married 25 years ago, when gasoline was 30 cents a gallon. The cost of a wedding then would have only covered the price of the rice today.

To put it into perspective, the overall cost of a moderate-sized wedding and reception these days could put the engaged couple in a brand new, mid-sized car. And believe me, this fact alone made us discuss elopement on more than one occasion.

Luckily, for us, we've been saving for this day for the past two and a half years. My credit card wouldn't know it, though. I swear my VISA has more stretch marks than a woman who'd just delivered triplets.

But money isn't the only hair-pulling experience involved in the preparation process. Unlike my parents, who planned their wedding in less than six months, mine took about two years.

If you want to get a decent reception hall, you've got to make reservations at least two years ahead of time. And don't take your local church for granted either. I had to book my wedding date nearly a year and half in advance.

By the time you book your church and hall, the fest is all downhill. Now, all you have to do is: get a caterer, make flower arrangements, buy a cake, choose your wedding parties, secure a large quantity of liquor, book a disc jockey or band, buy dresses for the girls, rent tuxedos for the guys, make a wedding list, buy invitations and announcements, attend wedding showers, possibly rent a limousine and try not to offend anyone along the way.

Whew, and these just cover the major tasks.

For me, the toughest job was when I had to sit down and make the wedding list cuts. You'd be surprised how quickly a guest list of 300 can fill up. Especially, when your fiance is from a divorced family.

When dealing with a "divorced marriage," the number of families involved can swell to five or six.

And if a couple of these families aren't on speaking terms then things can really get interesting. For some reason, I keep having visions of my reception turning into a large scale food fight, reminiscent of one of my favorite "Three Stooges" flicks. Just my luck I'd be playing the part of an overmatched Curly. Nyuck! Nyuck!

I'm continuously told by wedded people that these nightmarish thoughts are all part of the wedding experience. They tell me that our years of preparation will pay off and that the evening will be over before you know it.

A married buddy once told me that the wait is like the feeling you get when you're in a three-hour line for a two-minute ride at Cedar Point. Apprehension then ecstasy, he said.

I appreciated his analogy, because marriage is like a rollercoaster ride — a lot of ups and downs at breakneck speed. So gift wrap me some bar bags because I never intend to get off.

Hauling ashes hurts grammar

Jim Fitzgerald

A note from the Rev. Frederick Bodde, pastor of St. Stephen Church in Port Huron, said: "Two split infinitives in the same sentence! If those good nuns from St. Stephen's could see that sentence, they probably would say, 'Where did we go wrong?'"

Gee. It's been over 50 years since I've been scolded by a St. Stephen pastor. Bodde's most notable predecessor was the Rev. E.J. McCormick who, in the 1930s, regularly visited classrooms to hand out report cards, along with appropriate comments. To me, McCormick usually commented:

"I don't understand how you can get such terrible marks while your big sister got such splendid grades."

He was referring to my much older sister, Terrible Jean, who'd passed through St. Stephen's earlier, during the Lincoln administration. Her superior scholarship was just one element of her campaign to make me miserable. The reason she studied hard was not to learn, it was to establish a family school record I couldn't possibly live up to because I had to take out the ashes.

Our father (who are in transit) was a traveling salesman, so I was often "the man of the house." That meant my mother and four sisters depended upon me for heat. It was my duty to ceaselessly shovel coal into a small furnace and shovel ashes out. The ashes had to be hauled up the cellar stairs and out to the curb. It made no difference that I was a frail child who, until I was drafted into the Army, never weighed as much as the average two-handed steel tub of ashes.

It also made no difference that Terrible Jean was the neighborhood Tarzan of the Apes. She was big and strong enough to pick me up and throw me two blocks, as she often did. But she wouldn't carry out the ashes because it was man's work, and I was the man of the house. In that house, women's work was making sure the man did his work.

Because I couldn't lift a full tub, I had to carry the ashes out by the handful. That endless up-and-down-stairs chore filled my after-school hours, leaving no time to study. And in school, I was to weary to concentrate. I was also the only student who, when assigned to clean the blackboard erasers, got them dirtier.

So it's no wonder Pastor McCormick found my grades several lengths short of Terrible Jean's. And, 50 years later, it's likewise no surprise that Pastor Bodde discovered a single sentence in which, with two carelessly placed adverbs, I split two infinitives. All I can say is you don't have to be a Port Huron St. Stephen's priest to spot the sorry results of my ash-marred education.

E. Andrews of Royal Oak caught me, twice in one column, using "whomever" when "whoever" was correct. "In both cases you need the subjective case," instructed Andrews, who wrote me 6 months ago but I saved her letter, just in case.

Bobbie Wilhite of Southfield corrected me for writing "for we wise adults" instead of "for us wise adults." Elmer Burton of Midland said he's "been taught that written sentences should not be inordinately long," but I wrote "a 10-line, 73-word sentence. By the end of it, I had forgotten the point of it."

Some complaints come from an anonymous source. One not noted that I'd written about being "in close proximity" to someone. It was signed "From the Grammar Phantom, Dept. of Redundancy Dept." Very funny.

Onward and Upward. My critics should realize my grammar and syntax wouldn't be so awful if Terrible Jean had hauled ashes.

Club boosts athletic program with time, money

BY PAUL TUNGATE

It is my privilege to write about an organization that has done more volunteer work during the past 25 years than most people can comprehend. This group is the Clarkston Athletic Booster Club.

Much of its work has been unheralded or, in many

It is safe to assume that this organization has spent more than $100,000 in its brief history.

cases, taken for granted. Nevertheless, the success of Clarkston athletics would not be where it is today without the support of these outstanding workers.

When I came to Clarkston 25 years ago, the Booster Club was a group of five or six men who met periodically in the high school library. Their purpose was to support the athletic program by purchasing non-budget items through donations and fund-raisers.

Since that time, the club has grown to more than 150 men and women. Even today, this group supports the athletic program based upon the same principles it was founded upon.

Money is generated through concession stand revenues at all home events. As a result of this income, scoreboards, wrestling mats, warm-ups, pitching machines, video equipment, scholarships, hurdles and many other important items have been purchased. It is safe to assume that this organization has spent more than $100,000 in its brief history.

Also to its credit, soccer and seventh- and eighth-grade basketball were founded by this organization.

At the present time, the club is in the process of building a facility at the football/soccer/track site, which will allow all teams to get in out of the weather. It will also permit teams to get together at halftime for instruction. This will be a major cost to construct, but this organization will be successful in raising the funds needed.

The members of this group come from all walks of life, but their common goal is for Clarkston athletics to excel. Their tireless efforts are greatly appreciated by the entire coaching staff, athletes, administrators and especially me.

If anyone is looking for a positive way to get involved with our community, consider attending an Athletic Booster Club meeting in the Clarkston High School Media Center on the fourth Monday of each month. Meetings begin at 7:30 p.m. I hope to meet you at the next meeting!

Paul Tungate is athletic director for Clarkston schools.

Young women, volunteers wanted for fall program

High school seniors in the Clarkston area have a chance to earn scholarships and honors in a special program this fall.

The Clarkston Junior Miss Young Woman of the Year contest is planned for 7 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 9, at Clarkston High School.

Volunteers are needed to run the program. Tasks range from gathering advertising program sponsors to manning the food booth at the crafts and cider festival this weekend.

increase will be," he said.
"We have a budget workshop coming up, and then, at next month's meeting, we will discuss the budget. At that time we will be better able to decide on the increase," he told the crowd.

The amount of money to be collected will be determined by at least three factors.

■ Fire department fund. By 1993 the township will need to replace at least one truck.

■ Police department fund. A new deputy is to be hired.

■ General fund. This can cover any number of programs for which the fund is established.

A surplus is in the general fund currently, but Walls said they must plan now for any increase in the budget.

Residents' questions went unanswered at the Springfield Township Truth in Taxation hearing Sept. 11.

The board told residents that it would discuss the budget in detail at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 9, and could better answer questions then.

The Truth in Taxation hearing is required by law whenever taxing jurisdictions collect more money in property taxes than collected in the previous year.

The maximum increase allowed over last year's tax base is 12.6 percent, but township Supervisor Collin Walls said that the township won't necessarily levy the maximum amount allowed.

New church slated for Clarkston Road

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Another house of worship has been allowed to join the "church belt" on Clarkston Road.

On Sept. 12, the Independence Township Planning Commission granted final site plan approval to the First Congregational Church, with a few conditions. The vote was 6-0 in favor of the motion, with commission member Richard Oppmann absent from the meeting.

The 7,200-square-foot building is to be constructed on a 14-acre parcel at the southeast corner of Clarkston and Pine Knob roads.

The church, founded in 1831, was previously located in Pontiac. It's presently operating in a makeshift capacity on Ortonville Road, Independence Township. The Rev. James Keough said his church made the move because most of his congregation lives in the immediate area.

He said the new church will cost about $800,000 to build. The facility is to comfortably seat 240 people and will also have a nursery, a children's education room, a meeting room, a kitchen and a pastor's office.

An 87-space parking lot is also planned for members of the church.

Keough expects the church to be completed in 8 to 10 months, with construction beginning in the latter part of fall.

The church was approved subject to the following conditions:

■ Administrative landscape review by the township in the future.

■ The saving of larger trees along Clarkston Road and transplanting them somewhere on site.

■ A township engineering review of possibly adding a passing lane in front of the church at a future date.

'Preferred' plan calls for more widening, paving

BY DENNIS V. CARTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Residents spoke in favor of an additional access to Interstate 75 Sept. 11.

But consultants for the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) did not include that option when they presented a "preferred improvement plan" to the public Sept. 11.

According to David Wresinski MDOT, the plan was made up of elements of four alternative plans that were presented at last month's public meeting.

"What we are doing is a good-faith measure on our part to get the public and local officials in on the planning," he said.

Early in the day Wednesday, MDOT consultants Schimpeler Corradino Associates presented the plan to an advisory group made up of local elected officials.

"Local elected officials have been working with us in planning from the beginning," said Wresinski. "They have given us suggestions and made available their concerns. We want to get everyone's philosophy on the recommendation."

The recommendations covered local and county roads, well as state highways.

"What we have presented are just recommendations. Nothing says that all of this will be done, and nothing says that all of it won't be done."

David Wresinski

"What we have presented are just recommendations," said Wresinski. "Nothing says that all of this will be done, and nothing says that all of it won't be done. Right now the consultants are saying, 'Here are where your problems will be, and here are our recommendations for solutions.'"

About 30 citizens attended the meeting, and some said an access to I-75 was needed from Clintonville Road, Independence Township.

However, the consultants said that the idea would not solve the problems on Sashabaw Road and Walton Boulevard, and might very well create a greater problem on Clintonville Road.

The preferred improvement plan focuses on improving two-lane gravel roads north of I-75 and additional widening of Dixie Highway through Waterford and Independence townships as well as widening M-24 north to Lake Orion.

According to the consultants, the project would cost an estimated $88 million but would help economic development along Dixie Highway and provide access to high-traffic producers such as the The New Pine Knob at Sashabaw Road and I-75 and around the proposed Auburn Mills megamall at Baldwin Road and I-75.

They also estimated that these improvements would displace about 27 businesses, which would be mostly along Dixie Highway and Walton Boulevard. In addition, it would displace about 54 homes, including 12 along Clarkston Road, for curve straightening.

The preferred improvement plan, which combines of four alternative plans presented last month, includes the following details:

■ Widening the curves on Clarkston Road in Orion Township and at Eston and Clintonville roads in Independence Township.

■ Paving Waldon Road between Sashabaw and Joslyn roads in Independence and Orion townships.

■ Extending Brown Road east from M-24 to Bald Mountain Road in Orion Township and paving sections of the road between Baldwin and Joslyn roads and between Bald Mountain and Squirrel roads.

■ Paving Taylor Road in Auburn Hills to accommodate traffic to the proposed Auburn Hills megamall and other local developments.

■ Widening Dixie Highway to seven lanes between M-15 in Independence Township and Walton Boulevard in Waterford Township to reinforce economic development.

■ Widening M-15 to five lanes from I-75 to the northern Independence Township boundary line.

■ Widening Sashabaw Road between Clarkston and Maybee roads in Independence Township.

■ Paving Pine Knob Road in Independence Township to improve capacity and reduce the impact of traffic from The New Pine Knob on area residents.

■ Paving Clintonville Road between Clarkston and Waldon roads in Independence Township.

■ Widening Baldwin Road between Clarkston and Brown roads in Orion Township.

■ Paving Giddings Road from Harmon Road in Orion Township to Walton Boulevard in Pontiac to expand the region's street network.

■ Widening M-24 to six lanes from Opdyke in Auburn Hills to Lake Orion, and widening Lake Angelus Road to five lanes between Baldwin and Joslyn roads.

According to Wresinski, around the middle of October MDOT plans to hold another public meeting. At the meeting, MDOT consultants are to present creative ways of financing the project plus recommendations on land use in the area.

Village discusses traffic woes

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The subject of traffic congested much of the Clarkston Village Council meeting Sept. 9.

On a 7-0 vote, the council passed a resolution to recommend that a no-passing, double-yellow line be painted on a stretch of White Lake Road near Deer Lake Beach.

"Maybe this committee's decision is of no legal impact on the matter, but it doesn't hurt," said Trustee Robert Whitmer.

Village manager Artemus Pappas has contacted the Road Commission for Oakland County about the matter.

The council is concerned about cars being allowed to pass in that area because there is a lot of pedestrian traffic in the summer when the beach is open. It was pointed out, during the meeting, that a lifeguard at the beach was killed in an accident on the road about five years ago.

The council also noted that drivers often aren't aware of the crosswalk there and many go faster than the posted 35 mph speed limit.

The intersection of Clarkston Road and M-15 was also criticized by the council. A stop light was supposed to be installed there last spring, but it still isn't up.

Whitmer said he knows about accidents and near-accidents at the intersection.

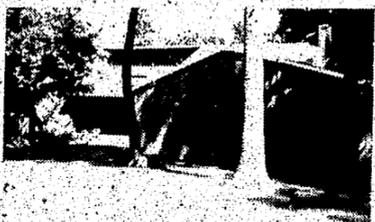

"My next door neighbor had her car towed at that intersection," said Whitmer. In addition, he witnessed another possible accident that was avoided only because of "the beautiful driving of a teen-age girl."

Village Clerk Norma Goyette said she worries about children who have to cross that intersection while going to and coming from school.

"Why do we have to lose an innocent child because of stupidity?" she asked.

The council discussed the possibility of having a crossing guard at that intersection.

Whitmer deadpanned, "You've got to have the nerves of William Tell to be one."

Crash hurts four

Four female Clarkston High School students were injured Sept. 11, when the vehicle they were in left the road and struck a tree.

According to an Oakland County Sheriff's report, the driver of the vehicle lost control while traveling on Waldon Road near M-15, Clarkston, and left the road at 7:08 a.m., striking a tree.

The driver was ticketed at the time for careless driving and for driving without an operator's licence.

According to CHS, two of the girls were treated and released from Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital. The other two were taken to Pontiac General Hospital (PGH); however, PGH could not confirm that they were treated.

According to the police report, none of the four Independence Township residents was wearing a seat belt at the time of the accident. However, in a letter from the driver's mother, the mother said that all but one of the students wore a seat belt.

According to the mother, the driver has a driving permit and thought she could drive with a licensed driver. The mother also said that her daughter was driving the vehicle without permission.

The names of the students are being withheld because they are all minors.

Charter meetings set

Residents in the Village of Clarkston are continuing to prepare to become a city.

Clarkston voters gave task of drafting a city charter to the Clarkston Charter Commission, which has been working steadily all year on the challenge.

The commission has set the following 7:30 p.m. Wednesday meetings, which are open to the public, at the village hall, 375 Depot Road, Clarkston: Sept. 25, Oct. 9 and Oct. 23.

Parks commission seeks new member

Since Tim Holmes resigned from the Springfield Township Parks Commission last week, that means there's an open seat available.

On Sept. 11, the township board decided to allow the commission to conduct interviews to fill the position for the balance of the term, which ends in November of 1992.

The board also requested that the commission advise board members when the interviews will take place so any board member could sit in on the interviews.

Golfers prove to be on the ball thus far

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Jason Head made the most out of his first chance to compete this year for the Clarkston varsity golf team.

The senior, who shot a 2-over par 38, replaced teammate Derek Bildstein (who was ill) in the lineup and not only played but became the medalist in the Wolves' 159-176 lopsided victory over Milford at Spring Lake Country Club.

The victory raised Clarkston's record to 5-0.

Two other Wolves weren't far behind. Pete Luster and Jason Jarvis each shot a 39. Jayson Buchmann and Dan Schieb both shot a 43, and Dave Studt had a 47. Only the top four scores count in the team totals.

Shaun Bitterle paced Milford with a 41. Mike Arciniago had a 43, Scott Floyd a 45 and Chad Arsich a 47.

Clarkston 155, Pontiac Northern 207 (Sept. 12 at Pontiac Municipal)

Pete Luster blistered the Pontiac Municipal course with a 36. Needless to say, the senior was the day's medalist as the Wolves crushed Pontiac Northern.

The victory gave Clarkston a 4-0 mark in the Greater Oakland Activities League.

Freshman Jayson Buchmann and Jason Jarvis each fired strong 39s and Dave Studt had a 41.

Jeff Coxen finished with a 43 and Dan Schieb had a 46.

Otis Wilson paced the Huskies with a 43. Andy Roberts had a 50, B. Lee a 52 and Ralph Baldwin a 62.

Clarkston 164, Waterford Mott 198 (Sept. 10 at Spring Lake CC)

While most Wolves were shooting in the 40s, the Corsairs were hitting the 50s.

That turned into an easy 164-198 win for Clarkston.

Dave Studt earned medalist honors, shooting a 38. Jayson Buchmann finished at 40, and Derek Bildstein and Pete Luster each had a 43.

Dan Schieb had a 46 and Jeff Coxen a 51.

Matt Hemmerly was the only Corsair to break 50, entering the clubhouse with a 43. Chris Forbes and Pat Boisvert each had a 50 and Robert Wyborsky had a 54.

Wolverines still perfect

The Clarkston Junior High football team recorded its second win of the season by downing Novi Junior High 14-7 last week.

The Wolverines baffled Novi with a strong rushing attack led by Rich Bevins with 106 yards and Jason Graves with 98 yards and one touchdown. Clarkston's other score came on a 38-yard touchdown strike from Pat Mulligan to Brad Agar. These two later hooked up on a two-point conversion.

Defensively, the Wolverines were paced by Charlie Nolan with three sacks.

The next game for the undefeated Wolverines was scheduled for Wednesday, Sept. 18, against rival Sashabaw Junior High Cougars.

JV golfers get new life with Dean's 41

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston JV golf coach Tim Kaul thought his team was going to lose against Milford.

"I figured the match was over," said Kaul on Sept. 13 as he waited at Spring Lake Country Club for his last group of golfers to finish. "We were 10 shots down. But he came in with a 41."

He was Jon Dean, and his 41 was enough to edge Milford, 189-190. The win gave the Wolves a 5-1 record.

Joining Dean in the win was Myles Mosher who shot a 48, Chris Harbert with a 49 and Corey Bildstein with a 51.

All four are freshmen. Coach Kaul is impressed with the freshmen on the JV team and with Jayson Buchmann, who is one of the top players on the varsity team this season.

"This may be the best class we've had in 20 years," said Kaul.

A strong team effort resulted in a 45-11 win over Farmington for Clarkston's junior varsity girls basketball team Sept. 12.

Clarkston led 17-0 at the first quarter, and by halftime the score was 24-2. The Wolves then boosted the score to 33-5 at the third quarter.

CC teams hit their stride

BY DENNIS V. CARTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston's cross country teams got off and running with a busy beginning schedule.

On Tuesday, Sept. 10, the boys got clobbered by Brandon 15-44. This meet was expected to be much closer, even though the Wolves were the underdogs.

According to the Wolves' coach Mike Taylor, Clarkston ran poorly while Brandon ran better than even the Brandon coach had imagined.

The result was a lopsided loss with Brad Patterson leading the team. He and Derek Lachman have alternated as the Wolves' top runners. Steve Cohoon has been the team's third man, according to Taylor. The loss puts the boys at 0-1 in the Greater Oakland Athletic League (GOAL).

On the other hand, the girls returned the favor for the Wolves as they easily defeated Brandon, 19-39.

Freshman Leah Scharl from Clarkston Junior High continues to be the Wolves' top runner, followed by Angie Brown, Lisson Hutchinson, Allison Picone, Stacey Patterson and Shelly Draves. They are now 1-0 in the GOAL.

On Saturday, Sept. 14, the girls took 18th place out of 23 teams at the Holly Invitational.

This was a disappointment and their worst performance of the year, said Taylor, adding that there were few highlights.

However, Leah Scharl did run a season best time of 21:04 and won a trophy, while Allison Picone was very competitive, said Taylor.

At the same meet, the boys placed 11th out of 22 teams.

Derek Lachman placed 25th and also won a trophy. Tony Quigley, Adam Pastor and Eric Carlson ran very good races, too, said Taylor.

GOAL rival Lake Orion took fourth place and appears to be the favored team in the league, according to Taylor.

Kickers edged

The fight for the Greater Oakland Activities League varsity boys' soccer title is expected to be close this fall.

And you couldn't get any closer than the GOAL opener for Clarkston and Waterford Kettering.

Kettering edged the Wolves 1-0. The Captains scored the lone goal in the first half when Chris Keith scored, with Ron Brown getting the assist.

The loss dropped the Wolves' overall record to 3-2. Kettering improved to 3-0.

Next home action for Clarkston is Saturday, Sept. 21, when the Wolves host Royal Oak Kimball at 1 p.m.

Wyniemko grabs 10 passes in win

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Clarkston football coach Kurt Richardson must think he's in line for a frequent flier ticket the way he's been airing it out this season.

And last Friday was no exception as the undefeated Wolves stomped Novi 42-6 in a non-conference contest.

Clarkston racked up 366 yards of total offense, while a staunch defense drydocked the host Wildcats.

However, the story of the game seemed to be the dazzling aerial combination of quarterback Dugan Fife and wide receiver Jon Wyniemko.

The pair of seniors hooked up on 10 occasions for 136 yards and two touchdowns. Overall, Fife was 14-of-19 for 204 yards and three touchdowns.

Wyniemko's numbers also enabled him to collect honors as the GOAL's offensive player of the week. So far this season, the sticky-fingered receiver has hauled in 19 passes for 219 yards and three touchdowns.

In the game, the Wolves got out of the blocks first when Fife hit David Smith with a 35-yard touchdown strike in the first quarter. Kicker Matt Smith added the PAT for Clarkston.

The Wolves struck again in the second quarter when Fife tossed a 35-yard scoring pass to Wyniemko. Later in the stanza, the pair combined for a 10-yard touchdown. Smith added both PATs, and it appeared the Wolves were going to head into the half with a comfortable lead.

However, the Wildcats mustered a

"That defensive stance really took the wind out of their sails."

Coach Kurt Richardson

drive of their own, beginning at Novi's 28-yard line. Using smashmouth football, the Kensington Valley Conference foe used their running game to push the ball to Clarkston's five-yard line.

At that point, Clarkston's defense dug in and stopped the Wildcats on four consecutive attempts to put the ball into the endzone. Richardson was impressed by his team's goal line stance.

"That defensive stance really took the wind out of their sails," Richardson said. "Their offensive game plan was to jam the ball down our throats with some big kids that they usually didn't use in the backfield.

"But our kids rose to the challenge and shut them down," he added.

In the third quarter, it continued be all Clarkston as the Wolves scored on a 46-yard scamper by tailback Dan Griffiths. On the day, Griffiths gained 108 yards on just seven carries. So far, he has rushed for 200 yards in two games this season.

Minutes later, Fife scored on an 11-yard touchdown run of his own. Smith converted the PAT, which was his fifth of six he booted during the contest.

In the fourth quarter, Clarkston utilized their reserves, but not before runningback Brian Davis would score from two yards out.

Novi finally got on the board in the final quarter with a two-yard run by quarterback Ryan McCarthy. Clarkston blocked the ensuing PAT attempt.

Richardson said he's pleased with his team's 2-0 start, but isn't looking past this week's home game against Brandon. The contest marks the conference opener for both teams.

This season, the Blackhawks are a dismal 0-2. So far, they've only scored six points and allowed 76.

The game is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. at the Clarkston Field House.

JV gridgers pound Novi to win first game

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Not unlike their varsity counterparts, the Clarkston JV football team proved that they can shred a team with their aerial attack.

This was evident in the Wolves' 46-6 thrashing of Novi last Thursday.

During the contest, the Wolves accounted for 171 yards passing and two touchdowns against the Wildcats.

Novi actually had the lead during the game when they scored on their initial drive to take a 6-0 advantage. The Wolves struck back quickly when Jeremy Fife threw a 65-yard touchdown pass to Brent Bundridge. The PAT for the Wolves was unsuccessful.

In the second quarter, Clarkston struck again when quarterback Kevin Dankert ran in from a yard out for the score. The PAT was unsuccessful.

With only a minute and a half left in the first half, Clarkston stunned their opponent by scoring two touchdowns in 31 seconds. The first score resulted from a 27-yard strike from Dankert to Josh Watson. Dankert later scored on a two-point conversion attempt.

On the ensuing kickoff, Novi fumbled and the Wolves recovered deep in Wildcat territory. On the next play, Dankert hooked up with Bundridge on a 35-yard touchdown pass. Kicker Brian Phipps converted the extra point and the team took a 21-6 lead into the lockerroom.

In the second half, the Wolves busted the game wide open by scoring with an array of players.

After being shut down in their first possession of the second half, Novi watched Watson return a punt 65 yards for the score. Clarkston missed the PAT.

Watson was joined in scoring by teammates Kevin Covert and John Zamora who had touchdowns runs of 24 and 64 yards respectively. Phipps added another PAT to close out the scoring.

Defensively, the Wolves were led by Brian Boggs with six tackles and Rob Lipinski with five. Zamora and Pat Sorenson also recorded one fumble recovery a piece.

With the win, the Wolves' record raised to 1-1. Coach John Craven was pleased with the victory but said there is a lot of room for improvement.

"I saw a lot of improvement in this game, compared to our opening loss to Troy," Craven said. "We cut down on our penalties and mistakes but we have a long ways to go."

"Right now, I'm most concerned about getting our running game going," he added. "We want a good mixture on offense because we can definitely throw the ball."

Seniors ready for series

Some senior citizens play checkers or cards.

But several area seniors like to hit line shots, slide into home or make a shoetop catch.

Three of those seniors will be competing in the third annual Senior World Series at West Palm Beach, Fla. Sept. 25-29.

Ray DeFiore of Clarkston, Ed Cable of Waterford and Earl Mudge of West Bloomfield will play in the series for the Clinton Township team. The over-65 team qualified by winning the Mount Clemens tournament.

Cable, DeFiore and Mudge (manager) also joined several other area players on the Clarkston Reds, (see photo above) which finished 20-0 to win the Northwest League.

Another team, the Clarkston Yellows, won the second annual Senior Citizens Softball Tournament at Warren. Joining Cable and Mudge on the over-55 team were Clarkston area players: Bill Banghart, Bob Waddell, Bud Keyser, Bill Morris, manager Doug Carlson, Al Johnson and Don Röhrl.

The Clarkston Merchants, an over-60 team in the Michigan ASCOT League, finished 10-0 to win the White Division. Clarkston area athletes on that team were Banghart, Waddell, Cable, Morris, Keyser, Nick Sassie and Harry Stormer.

Lubomyr Hewko

LUBOMYR Hewko stands before a wall of family photographs in his living room. He and his wife, Natalie, have received lots of calls each day since their son John was featured on a national news program about his involvement with Ukraine's parliament.

Ukraine connection

Independence brings joy to Hewkos

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Lubomyr and Natalie Hewko have watched, awestruck, as events have unfolded in the Soviet Union.

During the coup, they received information about a half-day before it appeared on the television or radio. Their source: their son, John, 33, an attorney on leave of absence in Ukraine, who faxed them information as events occurred.

Ironically, this "information age" may have contributed to the break-up of the Soviet empire in the first place, said Lu, who was born in Ukraine, as was his wife. The two immigrated the United States — Lu at 19 and Natalie as a fourth-grader — then met each other, then married in the Detroit area.

When Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev began computerizing the country, that meant communication was instantly opened up with no practical way to censor it, said Lu. Events simply somersaulted into the present.

Lu noted that Gorbachev's motives in creating "glasnost" and "perestroika" were not necessarily pure. He was merely pragmatic in knowing he could not stop the chain of events, said Lu.

However, Lu and Natalie — of Whipple Tree Lane, Independence Township — were fearful when news of the coup came through.

"That was one of the most frightening experiences that has happened in a long time," said Natalie. "Knowing what could happen in a totalitarian society, we were very much concerned for the people, for our relatives and for our son."

Lu said, "What they miscalculated was the people. Once they've tasted freedom and democracy, they are not going to give it up. You can't make them half free. ... This time the people did not run and hide."

The Clarkston News

Watching the making of history has been a fantastic experience, he said.

"It's unbelievable. It's startling, pleasingly, how quickly the information is coming into place. That's the beauty of democracy. If the information is there, it's presented. That's very encouraging," he said.

It's especially enthralling for the Hewkos, whose oldest son, John, is playing a part in all of this. An attorney with the Washington, D.C., law firm Baker and McKenzie, John was invited to advise the Ukrainian parliament on how to become an independent nation.

John, a Harvard Law School graduate, is fluent in English, Ukrainian, Russian, Portuguese and Spanish and has been an occasional columnist for the Wall Street Journal and Christian Science Monitor.

"We thought it was a great opportunity," said Lu. "He's always been interested in politics. We were a little apprehensive because it's so unstable. But he's a seasoned traveler. He's been to 52 countries."

"We were proud that he could give of himself to other humans to become free and democratic," he said.

John — who worked out of his company's Moscow office for a year, as well as offices in Argentina and Brazil — has been interviewed by such media networks as NBC and CNN, including an NBC segment devoted entirely to him during Tom Brokaw's Nightly News.

The program even included John's visit to Zbaraz, the Ukrainian city where Lu was born, and to the village of Lubyanky, where Lu's ancestors are buried.

In such cities and villages, Ukrainian culture has thrived, despite Soviet bans of the language in printed form, said Lu.

In the Ukrainian community in the Detroit area, preserving that culture has been a goal, said Natalie.

For instance, the language alone is beautiful and should be perpetuated, she said.

"It has a pleasant sound because it has a lot of vowels," she said. "The way you twist your tongue — it's like Italian. ... It's a soft language."

The people, too, are different from other cultures, she said.

"We are sentimental people. Being an agrarian society, we have an attachment to nature. We are not always practical, perhaps," she said. "We are a song- and dance-loving people. We love to dance, and we love to sing.

"Our culture is deeply rooted in our religion," she added.
Lu also described Ukrainians as mild, religious people.

"They are not warlike," he said.
They love farming in an area that has some of the richest soil in the world, he said.

Once known as the breadbasket of Europe, Ukrainians were killed by the millions after Stalin took control of 80 percent of Ukraine (20 percent fell under Polish control) as a result of the Versailles Treaty following World War I.

In 1933, Stalin collectivized the farms and — when the people resisted — starved 7 to 10 million people in Ukraine alone, confiscating all food and even seed for the following year. Later, when Hitler and Stalin split Poland, the Soviet Union took control of the remainder of Ukraine.

Lu lived under Russian occupation for two years.
"Just like President Reagan said, it's an evil empire ... that was keeping its power by force," said Lu.

It was a horrible time from which Lu and Natalie fortunately escaped. However, many friends and relatives have told them about harrowing experiences.

That's what makes the pending independence of Ukraine so sweet, said Natalie.

"My only regret is that my father is not here to see this," she said. "He would have died very happily and peacefully. ... He was such a patriot, and this was his dream."

Though Ukraine was independent for only about two years in this century — during the Russian Revolution — the country has a good chance of succeeding as a self-determining nation, said Lu.

The country is rich in coal, iron ore and manganese. The people, too, are a valuable resource.

"The people there are highly educated," said Natalie. "They don't have skills or knowledge about capitalistic business and they're not up to par with technology, but they're willing to learn."

The country's biggest problem in its quest for independence: teaching people the basics of democracy, said Lu.

To become a free economy, they will have to "tear down the old system and teach the new system," said Lu. But that won't be easy. "There's almost nobody alive who remembers it," he said. "If you can imagine it, everything is like welfare."

He related an old joke about the Soviet system: "They pretend they pay us, and we pretend we work."

The people will have to "face the responsibilities a democracy places on individuals," he said.

Options, for instance.
"They're just shocked at the choices," said Lu.

Natalie agreed. "They're not accustomed to having choices," she said, explaining that they buy whatever is on the store shelf, even if it's the wrong size of clothing, for example.

"If it doesn't fit, they trade," she said.
In addition, their once-beautiful land has been mistreated almost as much as the people.

"We are very worried because they have ravaged the ecological system," said Natalie, mentioning the terrible pollution of rivers, air and land and, of course, the Chernobyl nuclear disaster.

Lu, with help from the Clarkston Rotary Club and the Women's Health Care Center of Clarkston, helped outfit a modern hospital through the Children of Chernobyl Relief Fund.

A mechanical engineer, Lu visited Ukraine and other parts of the Soviet Union last fall, when he lectured at universities and helped set up technical societies.

He was pleased by what he saw on his trip, he said. "It was very encouraging. I saw some very joyous signs, people speaking freely," he said, adding, however, that "they had no economic benefits yet."

"It will take innumerable years to cut through the unbelievable bureaucracy and bungling," she said, adding, "We're hopeful."

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

PRICING YOUR HOUSE RIGHT

RELO
RELOCATOR & RELOCATION

QUESTION: What is the best way to put the proper selling price on a home?

ANSWER: The value of your house is not what you think it is - or what the buyer thinks. It is determined chiefly by the location, the neighborhood, and the current market. An overpriced house sitting on the market for months becomes almost impossible to sell. So first, you must get in line with the market. That means a realistic appraisal.

Nobody - but nobody - is more acutely aware of the current housing market than your local Realtor. Or you can hire a qualified independent appraiser. You may be pleasantly surprised to find out that you were intending to price your house for less than its fair market value.

Author successful with second novel

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

To say that Christian fiction writer Keith Wander was inspired to write his second book, "Brothers for Life," is an understatement.

The Springfield Township resident said he was instructed to write the novel while silently praying at the Clarkston Free Methodist Church one Sunday morning.

"It just happened out of the blue," Wander said. "I was sitting in church, feeling smug about the success of my first book, when I heard a voice. On two different occasions, during our silent prayer session, I received these quiet urgings.

"The first message instructed me to keep writing," he said. "And the second one said, 'You will write for me.'"

Wander said he had no intention of writing another book at that time, but proceeded anyway. He began about as cold as a writer can, lacking characters and a concrete story line.

Despite his shortcomings, Wander found that his writing flowed more easily than in his initial novel, "Last Resort," which has sold over 11,000 copies.

"It only took me nine months to write this book,"

Novelist dedicates book to memory of brother compared to 15 months for my first one," he said, laughing. "And I had my first one all outlined out, with character traits and the whole nine yards.

"It's as if there was some spiritual guidance helping me along," he added.

"Brothers for Life" is based on the story of four fraternity brothers who are reunited 20 years after college by a wedding. In time, the typical high jinks of college buddies give way to the revelation of each one's true identity and moral fiber.

The book is patterned after his college days at Fenn College in Ohio when he was a member of the Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity. He said two of the characters are based on a couple of his fraternity pals, but he isn't characterized personally.

Released last month, the book has done remarkably well in an area as uncharted and misunderstood as Chris-life through what I've written, where I might not have time to teach a course on religion."

Wander said his books have helped his favorite charities because he donates a large percentage of his proceeds to them.

Even though he writes Christian fiction, Wander said his books don't have heavy religious overtones.

"In my books, I like to discuss some of today's dilemmas and not condemn a particular stance," he said. "I emphasize on the simpler messages taught by Christ and not those dwelled upon and made complex by many of our churches. The life of Jesus is bigger than any church, and I try to point that out in my books."

tian fiction. "Brothers for Life" has also been given the distinction of being one of 50 books showcased by B. Dalton Bookstores, a national distributor.

So far, the book has sold 3,500 copies and is on course to easily surpass the number sold by its predecessor.

Despite his writing success, it's only a part-time endeavor for Wander. An employee of General Motors for 22 years, he serves as director of organizational development for the Automotive Components Group.

He said he began writing about two years ago per request of his wife, Jan.

"A couple of years ago, my wife let me know that I was becoming a regular couch potato, and she was fearful that my life was slipping into the doldrums," he said. "She told me take up writing, which I've always wanted to do since college. Even though I had started at least 33 projects and never completed them, I decided to give it a shot."

Now, Wander finds time to write at least five days a week. He's presently working on his third book, "A Gathering of Two or Three," depicting the adventures of a pair of Cleveland-based insurance adjusters in the 1960s.

He said his writing has become therapeutic.

"Writing is more like a ministry for me than a profession," he said. "I can have an impact on someone's brother, Roger, a printer who died of cancer at age 40.

"Roger was the best. He was a blue collar guy who never lost his faith in who he was," Wander said. "While I was in college, becoming religiously cynical, Roger was at home praying for me."

"Roger wasn't educated, but he was smarter than me, because he never lost sight of his faith," he added.

Introducing A NEW NAME FOR CARING

North Oakland Medical Center
 Pontiac General Hospital
 Division
 461 West Huron
 Pontiac, Michigan 48341-1651
 (313) 857-7200

Back in 1910, "caring" meant Pontiac residents raising $25,000 to build "Oakland County's First Hospital" in what was then a village of 5,000 people.

Five years later, caring meant the Oakland County Hospital Association donating the hospital to the thriving industrial center of Pontiac...and Oakland County Hospital became Pontiac City Hospital, which was changed to Pontiac General Hospital in 1931. Today, new communities all over Oakland County look to the same hospital for caring in the 1990's for services such as:

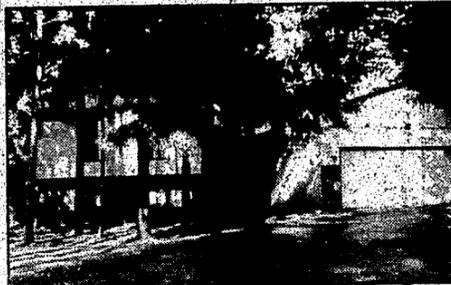

- Subsidiaries
- Seminole Ambulatory Care Center Division
- Waterford Ambulatory Care Center Division
- Pontiac Health Care Center Division

- Complete care for new mothers and babies, including family-centered birthing and northern Oakland County's leading intensive care unit for newborns.
- Satellite centers offering walk-in medical care and diagnostic services.
- Expanded programs in physical rehabilitation, county-wide psychiatric services and cardiac care.
- State-of-the-art laser and outpatient surgery.

With these new "caring" services and a patient base throughout Oakland County, our hospital has earned a new name.

This multi-faceted, contemporary cross represents the international symbol for compassionate, community-oriented health care. The repeating lines, which comprise the cross, signify the diversified parts of the North Oakland Medical Center, a medical facility with many aspects, affiliates, divisions, services, and organizations all working together for the people of the North Oakland County area.

Garden Corner

What factors influence where frost occurs?

The outdoor gardening season may be winding down, but the lawn and garden questions just keep coming. Michigan State University Extension specialists answer timely questions about vegetable gardening, lawn care, houseplants and related topics.

Q. I received an amaryllis bulb last Christmas and enjoyed its flowers immensely. I thought the foliage would fade and the plant would go dormant, but the foliage is still healthy and green. Should I keep it growing or try withholding water to make it go dormant and take a rest?

A. The easiest way to reflower your amaryllis is simply to keep it growing until it sends up another flower stalk. Keep the bulb where it will get plenty of direct sunlight and fertilize it regularly. Chances are that it will flower once or twice a year.

Q. I enjoy growing ornamental corn, often called Indian corn. Is the corn I grow the same as the crop the Indians grew?

A. Not exactly. Many of the colors now found in ornamental corn were maintained by Native Americans as distinct varieties for specific purposes. (If you've ever eaten blue corn chips, you have experienced this.) The multicolored ears represent the mixing of these independent strains.

Q. I've noticed that some areas in my rural neighborhood get frosted earlier than others and that we often have frost before my coworkers who live in town. What factors influence where frost happens?

A. Rural areas are often frosted before urban areas, where temperatures may be 5 to 15 degrees warmer, thanks to all the pavement and other masonry available to absorb solar heat and reradiate it at night.

Low-lying areas are more likely to suffer frost than higher areas because cool air drains into low spots. That's why fruit plantings, particularly, are usually planted on high ground.

Q. Why is it so important to keep raking leaves off the lawn in the fall? Why not wait until all or more have fallen and do the job once?

A. Allowing leaves to pile up on a lawn can smother the grass, especially if they get wet and form a tight mat. The best place for the fall leaf harvest is in a compost pile. Chopped or shredded and mixed with a little topsoil and nitrogen fertilizer, they will decompose rapidly into a fine source of organic matter for your garden. Whole leaves break down more slowly.

Q. Someone gave me some luffa gourd seeds, so I planted them. Now I have the gourds but don't know what to do with them. How do I get them ready to use as sponges?

A. Allow the gourds to mature on the vine or wait until vines are killed by frost. Then remove the gourds from the vines and put them in a tub of water to soak. When the outer covering and interior pith are soft, rub the gourds together or use a brush to remove the soft tissue. Wash the sponges several times in clean water and let them dry. They should then be ready for use.

Q. When frost threatens, which vegetable crops are most in need of protection?

A. Tomatoes, peppers, squash and snap beans are probably your most frost-sensitive crops. Protect them by covering them with old sheets or newspapers to extend the harvest season. Plants in the cabbage family—including Chinese cabbage, cabbage, broccoli, Brussels sprouts and cauliflower—tolerate frost well. Likewise, carrots, parsnips, lettuce, spinach and radishes need no protection.

Q. Is it too late to take rose cuttings for propagation?

A. Fall cuttings should be taken after the wood has grown hard and woody rather than green. Cut stems into 8- or 10-inch lengths and remove all the leaves. Then plant the cuttings in a well-protected, sunny place with only the top bud above the ground.

When freezing weather threatens, cover the cuttings with several inches of mulch to keep the soil from freezing. Uncover them in the spring when rose plants begin to grow. Climbing roses, strong growing varieties and most old-fashioned types do well from fall cuttings. Hybrid teas, hybrid perpetuals and baby rambles can be rooted from spring or summer cuttings.

Q. I planted a Chinese wisteria vine four or five years ago. It has grown quite vigorously but hasn't flowered yet. Is this typical? Is there anything I can do to encourage it to bloom?

A. If you're after instant gratification in a flowering vine, wisteria is not the plant to choose: some take as long as seven to 15 years to produce their first flowers.

Severe pruning of the new growth in late spring or early summer, root pruning in early fall (cutting some of the roots with a spade a few feet from the trunk) or applying high-phosphorus fertilizer in early spring may help induce flowering.

A sunny location; deep, rich, moist, well-drained soil high in organic matter; and a sturdy arbor or other support are the other ingredients—along with patience—for success with wisteria.

Q. Can I plant container-grown flowering vines such as clematis in the fall? Or should I wait until spring?

A. Plants grown in containers may be planted any time from early spring through fall. At planting, set the plant crown 2 inches below the soil surface. Clematis vines do not get extremely heavy, so they can be trained on arbors, light wires or delicate trellises. They can also be allowed to trail over rocks, stone walls or fences.

They do best in a light, loamy, well-drained soil with a pH between 6.5 and 7. They grow in full sun or partial shade, though they do best if the foliage is exposed to full sun and the soil is kept cool by the shade of low ground cover plants or mulch.

Clematis climb by means of twining stems. The large-flowered hybrids reach a height of 8 to 10 feet and may flower from late spring until frost. Autumn-flowering clematis, known as sweet autumn clematis, grows to 20 to 30 feet and produces masses of fragrant white flowers in late August and September.

Q. When do I mulch my strawberry patch? How does this protect them?

A. Wait until plants are completely dormant. Applying mulch while plants are still growing can cause the crowns to rot.

Don't wait too long, however—temperatures below 20 degrees can damage the flower buds that will develop into next year's fruits.

Mulching protects these buds against freezing. It also prevents the alternate freezing and thawing of the soil, which can break the roots and heave plants right up out of the ground.

Clean straw, chopped cornstalks, hay, corn cobs or bark chips are the recommended materials for mulching strawberries. Grass clippings and tree leaves are not recommended because they tend to mat and smother the plants.

A 2-inch layer, after settling, should provide adequate protection. Remove the mulch in the spring as soon as new growth begins. Raking it into the aisles between the rows will provide weed control, help maintain soil moisture and help keep the berries free of mud splatters.

Local serves as library delegate

An Independence Township resident was among the 20 Michigan delegates and alternates who attended a national conference on libraries.

Cathryn Weiss of Hadley Road represented the general public in Michigan at the White House Conference on Library and Information Services.

The conference issued a draft report with a primary recommendation that libraries expand book collections and other resources to get and keep youngsters interested in reading. That will be a key to improving literacy and lifelong learning, according to the conference delegation.

President George Bush, Education Secretary Lamar Alexander, first lady Barbara Bush and Illinois Sen. Paul Simon addressed the group.

During their week in Washington, D.C., delegates adopted 94 recommendations. A final summary report is to be made to Bush and Congress by Nov. 1. Resolutions from the conference will influence the direction for library services during the next decade.

Other major recommendations by the coalition of nearly 1,000 librarians, government officials, library trustees and friends include:

■ An immense electronic information network should be created across the nation to connect all types of libraries.

■ Libraries collectively and locally should initiate major and ongoing marketing programs to promote major programs and services.

Still raising funds

With any luck, enough money will be raised to pay for a bone marrow transplant for Holli Schilling, a former Clarkston area real estate agent.

Schilling was diagnosed with terminal breast cancer in June 1990. Her best chance of survival is a bone marrow transplant, which is not covered by her medical insurance company.

The transplant may cost $150,000 to $200,000, and Schilling's friends and co-workers have joined "That's What Friends Are For" to raise money for Schilling.

To donate or help with fund-raisers, call Dunlap, Realtors/ERA at 625-0200.

Free fresh fertilizer

If you'd like to fertilize your garden this fall, you're in luck. You can get free fertilizer in the Clarkston area fresh from the farm.

Owners of Bellairs' Hillside Farm of Clarkston are to clean their barn in October and are offering the manure free to area gardeners.

The Bellairs will load the manure for $10 per pickup truck. If you'd like a smaller quantity, just bring a container and help yourself.

The farm is near the Oakland Technical Center Northwest Campus on Big Lake Road, Springfield Township, just off Dixie Highway, near I-75. For more information, contact Gloria Bellairs at 625-2665.

Chairman addresses group

Reapportionment was the topic of the day during the Sept. 10 Independence Republicans meeting.

James Alexander, chairman of the Oakland County Republican Party, spoke about the county, state and congressional reapportionment process. He also predicted that the highly publicized effort to recall Gov. Engler will fail from a lack of sufficient number of total signatures.

Also, the governor's tax-cut petition drive was introduced by Alexander. The Independence Republicans kicked off their drive to obtain signatures in support of this tax-cut proposal.

For more information about the Independence Republicans or the tax-cut petition drive, call 525-1800.

Playing a part

A Clarkston-area resident had a part in "The Cranbrook Masque" production that took place Sept. 13 and 14. Ann Kovac, a member of St. Dunstan's Theatre Guild, played a member of the Greek Chorus. The masque was to help the Cranbrook Educational Community officially rededicate its renovated outdoor Greek Theatre. The masque was staged for the theater's original dedication in 1916 and has not been performed since. Cranbrook's founders, George and Ellen Booth, were inspired to build the Greek Theatre in 1915, combining their love of architecture and theater in one venue. The original building was designed by Detroit architect Marcus Burrowes and is one of only six theatres of its kind in the country.

Cranbrook Educational Community decided to restore the theater after removing it from the Cranbrook Gardens tour because of excessive deterioration. The effort was funded by Cranbrook, the State of Michigan and a private donor who remembered the theater in its heyday.

"The Cranbrook Masque" is a theatrical spectacle written by Sidney Coe Howard, who also wrote the screenplay for "Gone With the Wind." Like all masques, "The Cranbrook Masque" is based on a symbolic theme, the struggle between romance and materialism. The 1916 production involved more than 150 actors, musicians and dancers and 200 costume changes.

The 1991 production has been edited and updated because today's audiences are unfamiliar with masques.

Traveling vocalist

Rosemary Pursell of the Clarkston area was selected to be a part of the 130-voice choir called Spirit of America that will travel to the Soviet Union on a mission and concert tour in September.

The group was directed by Thurlow Spurr, a conductor and producer of gospel music.

Youth for Christ International, in cooperation with Evangelical Christian Publishers, International Bible Society and 20 Soviet indigenous mission agencies, joined together to distribute 4 million Russian language New Testaments throughout the Soviet Union this summer.

The four millionth New Testament was to be presented to Boris Yeltsin in an International Gospel Music Festival in the Palace of Congress in the Kremlin.

On Entering Clarkston High

Dear Son,
 Tonight we went to your high school orientation.
 We arrived together — shortly thereafter, we separated
 you to your peers
 me to their moms.
 I listened, wide-eyed, to the speakers talk of educational excellence, and commitment
 and priorities.
 You fidgeted, restless, perhaps more than a little nervous,
 seeking glances of friends,
 talking of sports,
 driving,
 and upcoming events.
 I got a lump in my throat listening to talk of first days,
 and hallowed halls,
 and homecoming floats.
 I worry about your schedule,
 the load you are carrying,
 your study habits.
 You worry about schedule changes,
 and locker partners,
 and your driver's license,
 I wonder if I've instilled all the right values, morals,
 and if you'll make right judgments.
 You wonder when we will finish school shopping.
 I listen, enthralled, to your principal, hopeful that these educators I have entrusted my child to will insure your education, reinforce our beliefs guide this fledgling young man who was once my baby, my toddler.
 You, however, have listened enough: Enough said.
 Enough heard.

You're ready to leave. Ready to begin.
 I'm not ready for you to be so ready.
 But you are.
 Not so many years ago I walked into high school orientation with my own mother.
 Not so many years ago I left her alone in the bleachers,
 too,
 while I sat with my friends.
 Left her alone to worry about all the things
 I would never know about until now,
 until this, your first year of high school.
 All of the things you will not know of until your own high school years are but a memory,
 too.
 It is only then that you will realize how very special how important these years really are.
 So as we enter high school together
 I will try not to relive those days through you.
 I will try to let you create your own memories.
 I will only wish for you that someday
 you, too, will enter a high school gymnasium with your own child and witness, as I have tonight, the awesome passage of time that turns your once small child into a high school sophomore.
 Love,
 Mom

TEACH YOUR CHILDREN SCHOOL BUS SAFETY

As the new school year gets underway, AAA Michigan urges parents to share the following school bus safety tips with their children. Over the last five years, 12 Michigan schoolchildren were killed and 655 injured in school bus related incidents.

YEARS OF SERVING MICHIGAN

Stay clear of the "Danger Zone," a ten-foot wide area around the bus that puts students at risk.

Never go under the bus for dropped objects or loose papers. Ask the bus driver for help.

Always wait for your bus at a safety spot -- a safe area well back from the road.

Children should remember that flashing red lights tell drivers to stop -- these lights do not mean it is safe to cross.

Always look in every direction before crossing in front of the bus.
