DURING physical science, pupils at Clarkston High School get physical proof that their teacher, Holly Rupprecht, may not be of this world. Her Halloween vampire costume did not stop her from imparting morsels of wisdom during class Oct. 31.

Waste plan passes here

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Independence and Springfield township residents voted in favor of a countywide bond proposition by nearly a two-to-one margin Nov. 5.

Results from the two townships were in at 9 p.m. and 10 p.m., respectively. The vote counts aren't official until certified by the Oakland County Board of Canvassers.

If ultimately approved by Oakland County voters, Oakland County government would be allowed to sell up to $500 million in bonds to begin a solid waste managment system throughout the county. Oakland County would not increase taxes to repay the debt but would generate revenue be selling electricity created by a waste-to-energy incinerator to be built and by charging fees to waste haulers.

The plan calls for building and equipping solid waste processing and disposal facilities, including a household hazardous waste program. It also would include one or more recycling facilities, one or more composting facilities, a sanitary landfill and an incinerator.

In Independence Township, 3,286 voters turned out at the polls. Of these residents, 2,151 voted in favor of the proposal, while 1,069 voted no. The final total represented 18 percent of the township's 17,886 registered voters.

Independence Township Deputy Clerk Kathy Derousha said the election went carefree.

"This election was unique for us because it's only the second time we've used the punch card system," she said. "We're still working a few bugs out of the system, but this election went pretty smooth."

In Springfield Township, 998 voters cast ballots. Of these citizens, 635 voted yes and 363 voted against the proposal. According to Springfield Township Clerk J. Calvin Walters, the total turnout represented 15 percent of Springfield's 6,800 registered voters.

Preliminary vote counts in Oakland County showed the yes votes outnumbering the no votes by a slim margin.

Parents demand elementary school

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Frustrated with the huge number of new elementary pupils in Clarkston this year and expected next year, angry mothers and fathers implored the school board Nov. 4 to build a new elementary building.

The group asked the board to place a bond issue on the ballot in February.

On Nov. 4, the school board held a special meeting to gauge public sentiment about a possible bond proposal in three months. The meeting was spurred by a resolution presented by North Sashabaw PTO President Emmy Martello Oct. 28.

Martello's resolution asked that the school district approve a no-tax increase bond proposal for a new elementary school next February. When the school board neglected to discuss the matter after her proposal, angry parents and PTO members brought the matter to suprintendent Gary Haner.

At the Nov. 4 meeting, Haner told the people that a February bond proposal was possible but only if the board approves it by Nov. 11. He said the state's deadline for a February ballot proposal is next week.

"I've heard people complain that last year's bond issue was at a bad time, but there's never a good time to do this."

President Thomas Howard

If the board doesn't approve it by next Monday, Haner added, it wouldn't come before the public until April.

During the meeting, the board presented two speakers to address a possible new elementary school and its cost.

Tom Chen, the school district's architect with Greiner, Inc., of Grand Rapids, said a new, three-section school would cost about $8 million to build. He estimated the school would also need about $900,000 in furnishings and equipment.

Chen said a 68,000-square-foot building, similar to the one proposed in the 1991 bond issue that failed, would be similar in size to Bailey Lake Elementary School on Pine Knob Road.

Chen said a school of this magnitude could be completed by August 1993 if passed in February. However, if it's passed in April, he said it might take an additional year to finish because of construction scheduling.

Steve Lenar, the district's director of business services, explained what it would cost to operate such a building.

When dealing with a new 300-student school, Lenar estimated that it would cost more than $1 million per year to operate and maintain. If it opened in 1993, as surmised by Chen, total costs would be around $1.1 million.

Using that figure, Lenar said the district would need to raise an additional 1.5 mills for the school to function to 1995.

Expecting at least 300 more students in the district in the next five years, the school board liked the idea of a new school but wanted to accommodate other schools as well.

"I agree that we have to support a new elementary school, but we have to look at the big picture," Joseph Helpern said. "A new school will help the elementary-age kids for a while, but we owe it to help all the students in the district."

Members Paul Van Klaveren and Sheila Hughes echoed Helpern's sentiments.

When discussing the appropriate time to put the bond issue on the ballot, Janet Thomas and Karen Foyteck warned that good planning should be considered over haste.

"We cannot afford another no vote from this community because a third strike could be fatal," Foyteck said. "My timeline is success and not when we break ground."

Thomas agreed.

"We have to go about this in a well planned out and professional manner," Thomas said. "I feel that if we can get a 'yes' on this building, we'll be able to turn around some of the public's attitude toward the schools."

Siding with many of the parents on hand, board President Thomas Howard said he is ready to press forward immediately.

"I've heard people complain that last year's bond issue was at a bad time, but there's never a good time to do this," Howard said. "But frankly, as a board, I feel we should move forward with this bond issue now.

"If we don't, we're in essence telling this community that we don't have a problem ... and we do," he said.

The decision on when to hold the bond proposal is to be decided at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Nov. 11.

DAR award-winner works, plays hard

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Wendy McFalda's values of hard work and independent thinking are apparent when she talks about her family and her school work.

Last week, the Clarkston High School senior was named Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) Good Citizen of the Year — the first senior award given at CHS.

McFalda was selected by faculty and staff at the high school, said assistant principal, Ginny Farmer.

"She's a wonderful role model for female students at Clarkston High School," said Farmer. "She's looked up to by her peers and her teachers. ... She just strives for excellence in everything she does.

"She's got a great sense of humor, and she's fun," added Farmer.

According to DAR criteria, McFalda was selected because of her truthfulness, loyalty, punctuality, cooperation, courtesy, consideration of others, personality, self control, ability to assume responsibility, unselfish interest in family, school, community and nation — to an outstanding degree.

Now McFalda is to write an essay, which will be judged at the state level. State winners receive $100 and advance to division competition. Those winners receive $250. The national winner receives a $1,000 scholarship.

McFalda, 17, said she did not expect the award. In fact, when she was called to the assistant principal's office and told the news, she said, "Great! What is it?"

A drum major in the marching band, McFalda plays the flute in the concert band. She is also a member of such groups as the Blue and Gold Club, the principal's leadership group and Interact.

Plus, she's trained as a "peer listener," which means she'll listen to any student who would like to talk about something to a peer.

"We don't offer advice," McFalda said. "We're just there for them when they need a friend."

McFalda isn't worried about the upcoming essay — her favorite class at CHS is English.

"Mrs. (Linda) Denstaedt is just a really good teacher," she said about the instructor. "I like the way she's trying to teach us to be independent thinkers. She knows how we think. She knows that a lot of us are over-achievers, and she gives us a lot of chances to take risks without having to worry about grades."

Outside of school, McFalda works as a lifeguard at Deer Lake Beach during the summer and during the school year works part time at the Balloon Fairy, where she inflates balloons and helps customers.

She also is participating in the Junior Miss Young Woman of the Year contest, which is planned for Nov. 9.

In addition, McFalda's marching band season just ended, with a second-place finish in the state for the band.

"Being a drum major is definitely a big, big challenge," said McFalda. "There's 120 people on the field, and you've got to conduct and keep time.

"It was really rewarding. At the championships, the undergraduates were all crying, and some of them came up to me and thanked me. ... I thought they'd hate me," she said, explaining that she and her co-drum major had to be very tough.

"My dad is just a really hard worker, and I want to be the same."

Wendy McFalda

A member of the National Honor Society and a swimmer and snow skier, McFalda carries a 3.95 grade point average.

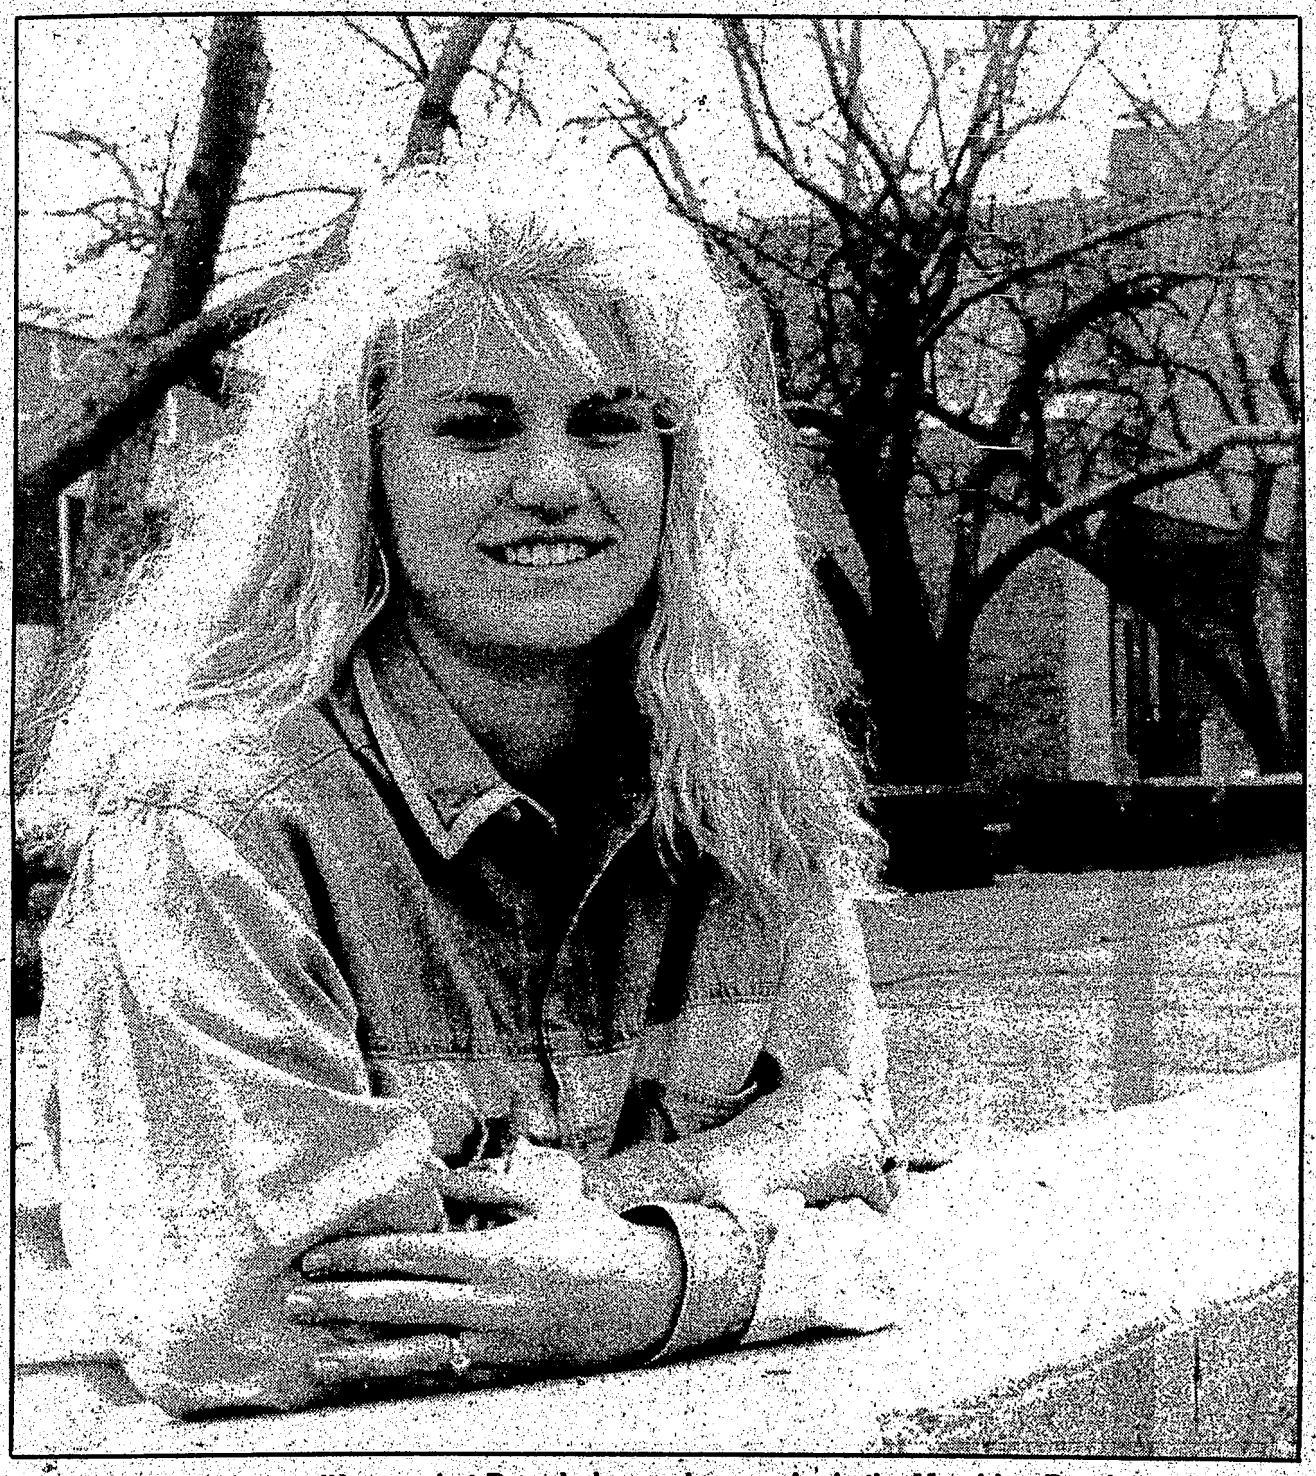

She receives her inspiration from her parents, Patrick and Virginia McFalda of Fireside Court, Independence Township, she said.

"My dad is just a really hard worker, and I want to be the same," she explained. "In elementary school, after dinner, they would always say, 'Is your homework done?' And I would do it before I went to bed. I still do that. It just stuck."

She has two sisters, Heidi, 15, a CHS sophomore, and Cindy, 13, a Sashabaw Junior High School eighth-grader.

McFalda has been accepted at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, and plans to study medicine.

"I want to be a doctor," she said. "I've always liked working with people, and I like science."

WENDY McFalda is a lifeguard at Deer Lake Beach in the summer. The CHS senior, a drum major in the Marching Band, was named winner of the DAR leadership award.

Three honored as good citizens

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

When Wendy McFalda received the Daughters of the Revolution Good Citizen Award, three other Clarkston High School seniors were honored, too.

Buffy Deuel was named first runner-up, while Erin McMullen and Carrie McKee tied for third runner-up for the award, which recognizes leadership in high school seniors.

Deuel, 17, is the daughter of David W. and Romagene Deuel of Sun Valley Court, Independence Township.

She plays third doubles (usually) on the varsity tennis team and is co-chairwoman of the Blue and Gold Club. She is also a member of Just Say No, the principal's leadership group, Spanish Club, Students Against Driving Drunk and Drama Club.

Deuel plans to study finance and accounting at either the University of Michigan or Michigan State University.

McMullen, 17, is the daughter of Mary Ellen Darge of Ute Pointe, Springfield Township, and Terrence McMullen of Fowlerville.

Captain of the Pom Pon squad and a member of the principal's leadership group, she is thinking about studying elementary education at Central Michigan University.

McKee, 17, is the daughter of Marla and Charles McKee of Ridgewood, Springfield Township.

She is secretary of the Drama Club and a member of National Honor Society and the Madrigal Singers. She is considering studying music at Adrian.

Group calls for school improvements, not building

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

A group of concerned residents have provided the Clarkston School Board with a list of alternatives to building a new high school in Clarkston.

On Oct. 28, Gary Jackson, a member of Citizens for Fiscal Responsibility in the Clarkston School System, presented the proposal to the school board.

The "Citizens" organization isn't new. It's comprised of many of the people who were dubbed the "Red Ribbon Committee," which surfaced during the ill-fated, $85 million tri-bond election last winter. Their name has been changed because Jackson said it holds a negative connotation with many people in the community.

As he explained it, the proposal provides the school board with a plethora of alternatives for renovating the about 30-year-old school, instead of building a new one.

"They can use this as a punch list of possibilities," said Jackson, an area architect. "Hopefully, the board will look at this because a lot of thought went into these renovations."

The two-page list is made up of five areas of improvement, with several variables under each point. The five-point plan suggests; updating equipment and expanding the size of the science department, utilizing the entire industrial arts area, making cosmetic changes to the school for aesthetic reasons, addressing existing safety problems and a list of miscellaneous items for consideration.

"It's going to be hard to get taxpayers in Clarkston to fund all our facility needs. So we've taken the initiative to start looking for solutions now that deal with present buildings and not what might never come."

Architect Gary Jackson

Under the point of renovating the school for aesthetic reasons, the group lists six suggestions. They include; painting interior and exterior of the building, upgrading the lighting system, replacing sidewalks and the tennis courts, enlarging counseling areas, and replacing existing lockers and adding new ones when enrollment increases.

Under safety considerations, the proposal lists the following alternatives; discontinue the practice of having the "overhead gate" down and locked during school hours, no longer chain and lock doors during school hours, provide emergency light system, bring the storage of chemicals up to government standards, install hand rails and remove all glass at public corridors in case of a tornado.

Under miscellaneous items, the suggestions entail; enlarging an auditorium to hold 600 students, improve and enlarge kitchen facilities, expand library into courtyard, reconfigure computer rooms, install adequate air circulation for ventilation, update furniture, fixtures and equipment in lecture rooms, relocate the football field and track stadium to a better location on site to provide additional parking, and construct a field house with basketball and possible swimming facilities south of the existing lockerrooms.

Jackson said his group is looking for viable alternatives for the school district because they care about the future of the children.

"According to national statistics, our kids are falling behind the rest of the country, and inappropriate facilities can be one of the reasons," Jackson said. "We need to update our schools as a whole to take away this negative factor.

"It's going to be hard to get taxpayers in Clarkston to fund all our facility needs," he added. "So we've taken the initiative to start looking for solutions now that deal with present buildings and not what might never come."

Library closed Nov. 11-17

It's time to move into the new portion of the Independence Township Library.

While moving takes place, the library on Clarkston Road will be closed Monday, Nov. 11, through Sunday, Nov. 17, according to Director Mollie Lynch.

That means that videos checked out on Saturday, Nov. 9, won't be due until Monday, Nov. 18. And overdue books won't be charged a fine during that period, though library users may still return their materials through the book-return at the new entrance.

The move from the "old" building is necessary so workers may complete renovations. After the renovations are finished, the children's portion of the library will return to the old building.

Two hurt in M-15 crash

Two drivers were injured in a two-car accident on Halloween.

About 5:19 p.m. Oct. 31, Blain Carl Kerton, 26, of Waterford was driving north on M-15 near Cranberry Lake Road, when he suddenly turned left in front of a southbound vehicle driven by Kenneth James Spina, 32, of Ortonville, according to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department report.

The drivers were transported to Pontiac General Hospital, according to the police report, but information on their injuries was not available.

Kerton was cited on the scene for failing to yield.

Both drivers, according to the report, were driving without seat belts.

Essay contest for grades 10-12

High school pupils have a chance to earn scholarship money by entering an essay contest sponsored by the Clarkston Area Optimist Club.

The subject of the 400- to 500-word essay this year is: The Challenge of a Free Society.

A copy of the rules is available from Ginny Farmer at Clarkston High School (625-0900), from dentist Bruce Mercado (625-5000), from Christine Lannom (394-1701), and The Clarkston News (625-3370).

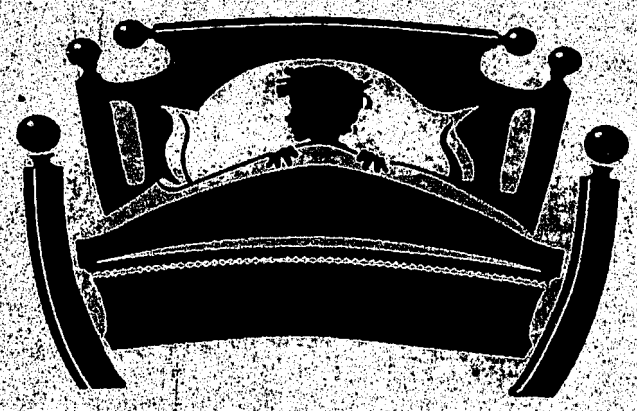

The contest deadline is 5 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 10. The first-, second- and third-place winners will receive medals and will be honored at an awards breakfast with their parents on Wednesday, Dec. 18.

The first-place winner will also receive a $200 U.S. Savings Bond and will advance to district competition. District winners advance to an international competition. International winners receive $2,000-$5,000 scholarships.

Resident awaits word on his noise ordinance

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

It's been nearly two months since the last act performed at the Pine Knob Music Theater, but the memories of the past season still haunt some neighboring residents.

Jim Brennan of Clarkston Road, Independence Township, is one of these citizens.

On numerous occasions during the past summer, he called the police, Pine Knob authorities and Independence Township officials to complain about the noise that was bombarding his home from the 16,000-seat amphitheater. Living about 3/4 mile from Pine Knob, Brennan told members of the township board that he could hardly hear himself think in his own home.

Brennan complained that the amphitheater's new high-tech sound system was keeping his family up at night and exposing them to foul-mouthed comedians such as Andrew Dice Clay and Eddie Murphy.

Brennan said the Palace sent out personnel three times to gauge the sound at his residence. After doing so, Palace officials claimed that the decibel levels weren't excessive, but Brennan disagrees.

"The highest reading they said they got was 68 decibels around Pine Knob Road," Brennan said. "According to them, a 68 is the equivalent of a conversation. How can that be, when the sound is entering an enclosed home?"

"According to them, a 68 is the equivalent of a conversation. How can that be, when the sound is entering an enclosed home?"

Jim Brennan

On about five occasions during the 1991 concert season, Brennan continued to implore the board to help him and his neighbors.

Fed up, Brennan approached the board a few months ago with his own noise ordinance.

Under his proposal, Brennan mandated:

- No performer using abusive language or profanity shall be allowed to perform outdoors.
- The noise ordinance shall not exceed 60 decibels at the outer perimeter of the theater or 50 decibels at surrounding residential property lines.
- During the week, all performances end by 10:30 p.m. and 11 p.m. on the weekend.

Under Brennan's plan, which first must be approved by the township trustees, a first offense would cost Pine Knob $5,000; the second would be $10,000, and the third and subsequent violations would result in fines of $20,000 a piece.

Since the proposal was presented, the board has yet to act on it. Instead, they've tried to negotiate with officials at the Palace of Auburn Hills, which owns and operates the amphitheater.

Brennan said it doesn't appear that the board is going to consider his ordinance, even though it could give them an upper hand in negotiations.

"The board has told me that they're continuing dialogue with people at the Palace. They've told me they're working on the matter but I don't think my ordinance is an option," said Brennan, an administrator for the Oakland County Board of Commissioners.

"I was hoping they could at least approve a first reading on the ordinance. They wouldn't have to necessarily pass a second reading, but it could provide them with some negotiating power," he said.

Supervisor Frank Ronk said he has an appointment with Palace officials later this month to discuss the problem.

"We are in ongoing dialogue with Palace officials, and hopefully we'll come out of this with a promise to decrease Pine Knob's amplification," Ronk said. "They've got a tough job, though, because they'll have to work it out contractually with future performers."

Ronk also said that Brennan's ordinance is presently not an alternative.

"We won't deal with it unless we have to," Ronk added. "If we have to press forward with an ordinance, we'll have one drawn up by our township attorney."

Eagles' benefit to help cancer patient

A 51-year-old Independence Township man is getting a little help from his fellow Eagles club members as well as from community members.

Donald W. Rush of Clarkston Road was treated for cancer of the head and neck earlier this year, and his fellow members of the Clarkston Fraternal Order of the Eagles are holding a benefit gala to help pay his medical expences.

The benefit is planned for 8 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 9, at the Eagles Club on Maybee Road. The highlights of the evening include dinner, a live band, raffles and an aution. A cash bar is available. Admission is free.

For more information, call 625-9838.

YMCA forum set for Thursday

Citizens with an opinion on a YMCA in the Clarkston area are encouraged to attend the public forum this week.

On Thursday, Nov. 7, representatives from the YMCA and area organizers will be conducting an open meeting to gauge public sentiment about a YMCA in Clarkston. The proposal is presently in its infant stages, so community input is vital.

The public forum is set for 7:30 p.m. at Calvary Evangelical Lutheran Church, 6805 Bluegrass Drive, Independence Township.

Matinee mama

Julie Campe

It's difficult to admit, but I will miss going to the movies with my mother now that she is moving to Florida.

With her white hair muted by auburn hair coloring, she almost looks younger than in our movie-going days of the past. But a few tell-tale signs show that things have changed.

Oh, she still likes a movie bargain when she sees one and can often be seen at matinees — alone, even.

But now that she's a senior citizen, she gets a discount on most movie tickets and goes whenever she gets the inclination. It has returned her to her activities of younger years, when she and her cousin Betty would go to the movies every Saturday in downtown Pontiac.

In fact, Betty — now retired, too — still accompanies my mother at times.

The cheaper tickets are almost enough of a consolation to entering the more mature stage of life, it seems.

My attitude has changed, as well. I am no longer embarrassed by my mother. Of course, she no longer does such extreme things as she did in her youth.

For instance, the warm, darkened theater provides a good opportunity for her to catch a quick nap. When this phenomenon first began a few years ago, I would snicker to see her head droop and then jerk up a few minutes later, refreshed.

I barely notice now.

At one time, anything she did in a theater would have embarrassed me. But this nodding off is a welcome change compared to her antics of a decade or two ago.

Back then, as a teen-ager, I would not have sat within three rows of her. I admit, my friends were puzzled if I led them far from her seat. But, as a reserved child of an unreserved parent, I had learned my lesson.

For instance, there was the time when I naively sat next to her during a Peter Sellers movie. At the first line of the pre-movie credits, she tilted her head back and roared with laughter.

I sunk down in my seat and elbowed her.

"What's so funny?" I whispered, glowering at the same time.

That was a mistake. She tried to explain but only laughed more.

And more.

Tears streamed down her cheeks, and the movie had not yet begun. I only hoped she had used the restroom before we left home.

I dared not look around, but I could feel the silent stares of scores of eyes, all focused on my hooting mother and on me beside her, though I tried my best to hide.

One time, at another movie — this time, a frightening one — my mother shrieked at a suspenseful moment and grabbed those of us sitting next to her. The only trouble: she grabbed the arm of a complete stranger who was sitting on one side of her, and if the marks in my brother's arm were any indication, that stranger probably did not forget her too soon.

Once, she and her cousin Betty went to a matinee, and my mother tried to give her ticket to first one security guard and then another, becoming frustrated that neither would take it. When she finally realized her mistake, she bellowed with laughter right there in the lobby, and Betty was barely able to lead her to the right movie theater.

I accompanied her and her sister Leone to "Dick Tracy," during which my mother both napped and cackled.

Now that she's going, I am saddened, and the same question keeps nagging my subconscious.

Will my mother take her plastic yellow Dick Tracy hat with her?

Wanna hear a nice story?

Two employees at the executive offices of Guest House, Joslyn Road, Lake Orion, gave the Reverend Father Ed Maher five $1.00 Easy Pick tickets for his birthday recently.

Pat Sinagoga and Lee Ann Hiatt urged the Father to be sure and watch the Lotto drawing on that particular night.

As each numbered ball rolled to a stop, he said something like, "I've got that one!" He did that for the first five numbers. He missed the sixth number by one.

Then he excitedly called each of the women, offering (urging) them to share his good fortune.

Very nice!

● Several men's clothing stores put 'big & tall' with their names. Kosins Big & Tall, Harry's Big & Tall, Shifman's Big & Tall, Binder's Big & Tall, etc.

How come we don't see big & tall stores for women? We never see Shirley's Big & Tall. We see women's stores say they have "large sizes." And, we're just supposed to know that stores like Lane Bryant carry sizes above size 9, or whatever.

Really, what's degrading or distasteful about using the words big & tall for women?

● Several months ago I wrote of seeing Red Skelton at Pine Knob, and repeated some of his jokes.

A kind reader sent an advertisement telling where I could buy Red's tapes for $19.95 plus $3.50 postage.

My thoughtful, always-husband-pleasing wife, Hazel, read the same column. She stopped by a music store and bought the same tape for $9.95, no postage necessary.

● Our state representative Tom Middleton sent us a questionaire last week. Six questions were on taxes. I voted "Yes, I support permanent property tax relief that would include an increase in the state sales tax."

I realize the state needs money, and I want property tax relieved so people like us don't have to leave our homesteads when we get old(er).

Many states I've visited have sales taxes higher than ours.

At least I thought that was true until we read the back of a parking lot ticket we got near Metro Airport.

How many of you travelers know you pay 30 PERCENT . . . THIRTY PERCENT sales tax for parking within five miles of Metro?

30 PERCENT! I still can't believe it.

● Mickey Hiatt says "Sitting Bull" could be the definition of a politician after a long speech.

● John Patrell says one sure way to beat the heat is to get home on time.

● John also said Vermont's state capitol building has a gold dome. One of those wouldn't last very long in Washington.

Music in the air

"Somewhere There's a Song" was a selection by the Varsity Concert Choir on Oct. 30, and I was so glad that the somewhere I was happened to be in the auditorium at CHS.

What a special evening of entertainment by five very talented singing groups under the direction of Miss Grayce Warren.

Such energy! Such voices! Such expression! Such joy of music they brought to those in the audience!

However, I do have two regrets. The first is that there weren't more in attendance. "The earth" ... does have ... "music for those who listen," but one does have to take time to hear. If you weren't there, you missed a great concert.

My second regret is that The Clarkston News doesn't have as much coverage of the music department as it has of the sports program at CHS. The young people who performed around 25 numbers in a little over an hour deserve many pages in the newspaper, too.

My compliments to Miss Warren and her students. Bouquets! Applause! Standing ovation!

ZBA not rational in B&B decision

The Oct. 8 vote by the Clarkston Zoning Board of Appeals to deny a change in use from a mortuary to a bed and breakfast at 155 N. Main St. was a shameful display of cowardice.

It appears that the ZBA would rather see the courts make a decision on this matter rather than risk the possible consequences of standing up to a special interest group within the Village of Clarkston.

What other reason could be given for the board to ignore the remainder of its constituency and disregard the following facts:

1) a non-conforming commercial zoning already exists for the property, and the board was not meeting to determine a zoning change but rather a change in use,

2) the change in use proposed is an admitted upgrade as required by village zoning law;

3) purchase of the property by Mr. and Mrs. Kopietz was made subsequent to and based on the ZBA's preliminary consent last month to approve their appeal pending submission and approval of interior renovation plans.

There has been a great deal of support expressed for a bed and breakfast in Clarkston by members of the Clarkston residential and business community.

Did the zoning board take their interests into consideration? Regardless of what some may think, there are a lot of community members who respect and wish to preserve the historical integrity of Clarkston; however, not everyone can live on Main Street. Where was their representation at that meeting?

And finally, the feign concerns as quoted by Mr. Wilford and Mr. Smith in an Oct. 10 daily paper are not only ridiculous but irrelevant.

Regardless of Mr. and Mrs. Kopietz's desires for a successful business venture, to think that a five-bedroom bed and breakfast would give MDOT the green light to blast a highway down Main Street is not rational thinking.

And, unless there are plans underway to control the size of families living on Main Street, "seven bedrooms and four or five bathrooms" might work very nicely for a family in the future.

Since "what if" games seem to be relevant to the zoning board's decision-making policy, "what if the ZBA started representing the interests of the community as a whole," and "what if Clarkston had a bed and breakfast that exemplified the historical character of a village we all care about," and "what if visitors came to love the things about Clarkston that we fight so hard to preserve?

Christie Harrison

Holiday spoiled

At 28 and 30 years old, my husband and I look forward to Halloween almost as much as small children do.

Each year we spend quality time together choosing and carving our pumpkins, designing a costume for the few trick-or-treaters we do get and, of course, passing out candy.

As a life-long resident of Clarkston, I was truly appalled with the lack of manners and disrespect exhibited by the 15 trick-or-treaters who came to our door (we live in an apartment complex).

We heard two small children say, "Trick or treat," and the same two also said thank you. Other than that, the kids pounded on the door, grabbed candy out of the bowl and walked over our flowers to go next door.

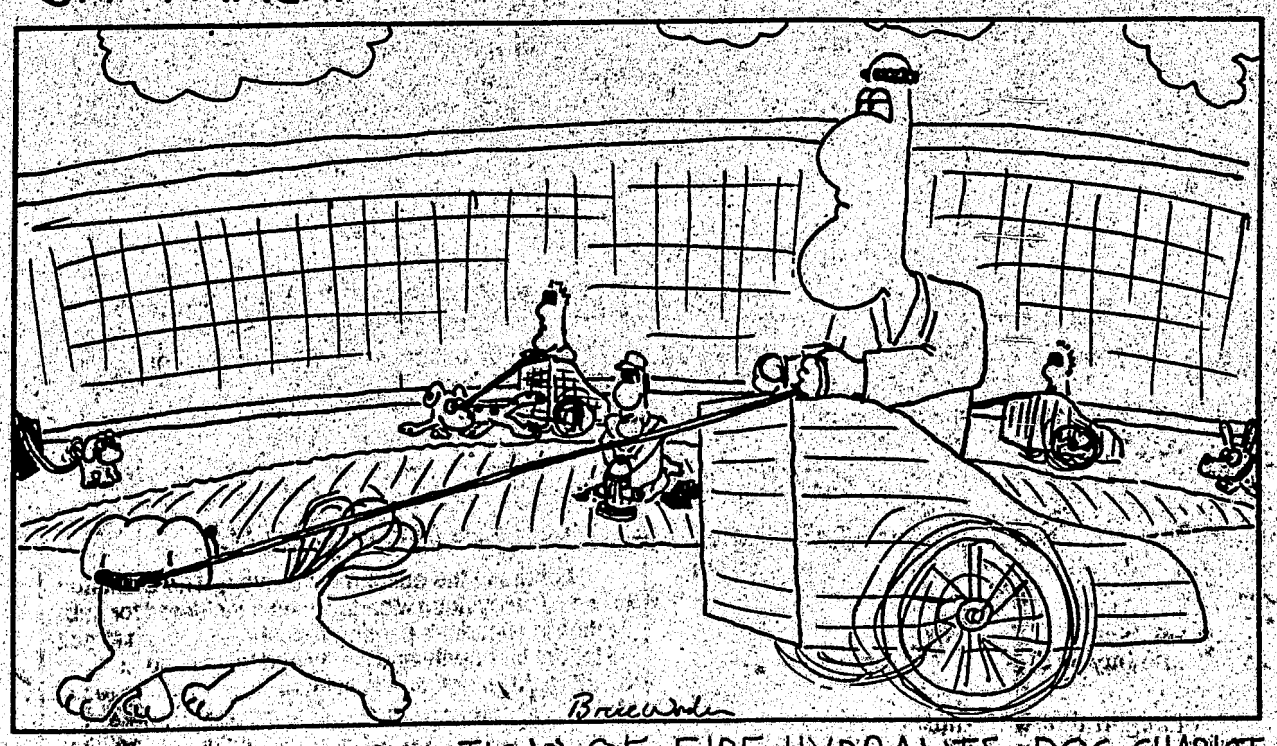

At 8:15 p.m., we thought we heard a knock on our neighbor's door and later found it must have been ours. Since trick-or-treating ended at 7 p.m., we did not think to answer our door with candy.

We later found our carefully carved pumpkins stomped on and spit on our walkway. We were vandalized and felt somewhat robbed of our Halloween spirit.

Parents, please pay attention to what your children are doing and where they are going. Who knows what they did when they left our home. Hopefully, they did not exhibit their anger elsewhere to a larger extent. Maybe next year they will, if not taught now.

Sharing outrage over Engler's sick plan

Jim Fitzgerald

It isn't misery that loves company; so does outrage.

When I abruptly explode over something that strikes me as grossly wrongheaded and-or hard-hearted, I immediately wonder if anyone else gives a damn. Such was the case with a breakfast-ruining item in last Saturday's newspaper. It concerned Gov. John Engler's shrugging disregard for the rights of indigent sick people.

Engler is worried that Medicaid patients might sue doctors for malpractice. Mind you, he isn't concerned that the patients might occasionally be the victims of sloppy medical care. The governor is fretting over the frightful possibility that some ragged welfare mother might have the gall to do what a wealthy woman would do if her leg were cut off by mistake - sue the careless doctor for damages.

"Engler told a gathering of Michigan newspaper editors and reporters that indigent people with state-paid health coverage do not deserve the same legal rights as those with insurance paid by themselves or employers," the newspaper said.

Engler proposed that doctors and other health care workers be granted governmental immunity from being sued by people too poor to pay their own medical bills. And what if that's a problem for Medicaid patients who think they should have the legal right to protect their leg from inadvertent chopping?

They should "seek out and prepare to go to work for an employer who's got the full kind of coverage with a full set of legal rights," Engler said.

He really said that. If you are one of the thousands of people who don't have employer-funded medical insurance, and can't afford to buy your own, get off your lazy duff. Go get a job offering full benefits, the governor says. Right now. Hurry up.

What are you waiting for?

After spending much of the weekend sputtering about Engler's incredible insensitivity, it was satisfying to go to work Monday and discover I wasn't his only outraged constituent. There was a letter from Rita M. Houlehan of Royal Oak, who said it better than I could. Listen:

"My morning paper reduced me to tears of rage, fear and frustration with a brief page two article on John Engler, tucked under Michigan Dateline. I still haven't collected myself . . .

"When the Governor of the State of Michigan stands in front of a flock of journalists, tells them the poor should be deprived of the same equal treatment under the law that is afforded the affluent, and that comment gets stuffed into a short blurb on page two, something is terribly wrong.

"It's one thing to tell people to get off their rear and get a job. It's a whole other thing altogether to start tinkering with the constitutional rights of any individuals simply because they are poor, and then cloak oppression under the guise of balancing the budget. But the fact that, in a room full of reporters, not one person realized that remark belonged in headlines on page one is what really terrifies me.

"I'm white, not rich, not poor. I live in the suburbs. I have a nice little house and I have health insurance. I'm as tired as anyone else of paying outrageous taxes that could eventually drive me out of my home. I think able-bodied people should find work, even if they have to take a menial job. I had a lot of them before I got a good one, sometimes two at a time. And I know what it is to be hungry and live in a shoebox apartment.

"Now, I've never been on welfare, and I've worked my tail off for everything I have. But I am not stupid enough to believe that I couldn't just as easily lose it all overnight and become one of those people whose rights are currently being threatened.

"So could you.

"If nobody speaks for them now, who will speak for us?

"Please. Help."

End of letter from Rita Houlehan. I have nothing to add, except to thank her for sharing my outrage.

From Our Perspective

About the high school ...

Doug Carlson

Back in May of this year our group (Citizens for Fiscal Responsibility in Government) made two visits to Clarkston High School.

Our purpose was to see for ourselves the condition of the school, the overcrowding (if any), and whatever problems they were experiencing.

We received the utmost cooperation from Dr. Robert Burek and Brent Cooley and from all others who took the time to talk to us.

After summarizing what we found, we prepared a report, which was given to interim-principal Mel Vaara and to the Board of Education. Following is a brief synopsis of that report:

1. The science department has far too little space and outdated or inadequate facilities. Considering the importance of this subject in today's society, we feel this is one of the most pressing problems facing the administration of this building.

2. The industrial arts area, which is extremely large, is grossly underutilized. At one time it was staffed by nine teachers and utilized nearly all day. Today it is staffed by two teachers and uses 2 1/2 hours a day. It seems to us that this area could be converted to academic classrooms (science department?) and other alternatives sought for those students interested in industrial arts.

3. The high school gave no evidence of being overcrowded. During our tour we observed 11 classrooms totally empty and all others containing 15-20 students, at most. Overall, it appeared to us that the ninth grade could be moved into the high school without too much difficulty. There are, we're sure, a multitude of problems inherent in such a move, but from a pure space standpoint it appears to be feasible.

a. Brightening the interior with a more pleasing paint scheme, upgrading the lighting system and replacing ceiling tiles.

b. Replacing and/or repairing all sidewalks, parking lots, broken bricks, mortar, planters, etc.

c. Mowing the lawn and picking up all trash around the school on a regular basis.

d. Resurfacing or replacing the tennis courts, which are now totally unusable.

e. Replacing all existing lockers and providing additional lockers for anticipated increases in enrollment.

f. Renovating the existing counseling areas, which are presently crowded and uncomfortable.

5. Address all safety issues, with particular emphasis on the following:

a. Discontinue the practice of having the "overhead gate" down and locked during school hours. At present, this procedure could prevent exiting the building during an emergency.

b. Discontinue the practice of chaining and locking doors during school hours.

c. Install hand rails on all exterior stairs.

d. Provide at least two means of egress from all internal courtyards and hazardous areas (boiler room, etc.).

6. Other

a. Expand the library (by using underutilized courtyard space?).

b. Reconfigure and update the computer rooms. We felt this activity was second only to the science department in terms of need.

c. Enlarge the cafeteria and provide better kitchen facilities.

d. Consider relocating the bus garage (there seems to be plenty of space behind the building), and use this area for expansion possibilities.

7. Athletics: As a "thought starter," the architect in our group developed a proposal that would totally reconfigure the football-track area, field house, parking areas and locker rooms to upgrade them and provide for anticipated increases in enrollment.

The above observations and suggestions are only a sample of what we found. They are described at this time to provide residents with an idea of what our group is doing and what we're trying to accomplish. We recognize that these proposals would be costly to implement, but they would be far less costly than building and entirely new high school.

Addition OK'd for health care center

Residents at the Greenery Health Care Center can expect big changes in the following year.

On Oct. 24, the Independence Township Planning Commission voted 6-0 to approve a 17,500-square-foot addition for the convalescent home on Clintonville Road, between Maybee and Mann roads. Richard Oppmann absent from the meeting.

The new addition will allow the expansion of various therapy and support services to the existing in-patient population at the 120-bed facility. It will also provide additional space for administration and dining.

No out-patient services will be provided at the health center, which is zoned a multiple family district.

The petitioner promised to construct a safety path along the east side of Clintonville Road when constructing the addition.

Rape charges reduced

After having his preliminary examination adjourned twice, Eddy Lyle Adams, 20, of Independence Township had his day in court Nov. 1.

Charges of first-degree criminal sexual conduct (CSC) were reduced to third-degree CSC because there was no proof a weapon was used in the rape of a 15-year-old, according to Judge Gerald McNally of the 52nd District Court, Independence Township.

The girl testified that she could not be sure if there was a weapon are not.

Adams' hearing had been adjourned twice, once at his request and once at the request of the Oakland County Prosecutor's office.

According to Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy Doug Edgar, the girl was a runaway looking for a place to stay when she met Adams on Aug. 12 at a mutual friend's house. The girl intended to spend the night at Adams' home but later changed her mind, he said.

Adams is free on $5,000 bond. He is scheduled to be arraigned before Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Hilda Gage at 1:30 p.m. Nov. 19.

Cheering 'leaders

I would personally like to thank each and every member of the Clarkston Chiefs junior varsity cheerleaders for a terrific season.

They are: Mollie Anderson, Tammie Davis, Rachelle Detkowski, Tara Gagel, Erin Gochenour, Tracy Helms, Courtney Krull, Candie Lovelace, Carmen Lund, Natalie Lyons, Marla Mosher, Jessica Moore, Melissa Ogg, Molly Wade, Melissa Wills, Alexis Williams, Michelle Wilson and mascots Anita Anderson, Carrie Krull and Ashley Taylor.

They have all worked very hard and should be applauded for their accomplishments. Since August, my girls have strived to be the best they can be, and it has paid off beautifully.

They smiled and cheered every game and presented an American flag to their parents on Parent Night to show appreciation for their parents taking them to practice every day and for watching them during the games.

Super Cheer '91 was a great success. Our cheerleaders competed against six other franchises in four events and placed in the top three places in all events.

If the future of our nation rests in our children, these girls represent a bright and happy outlook for our country for all of us.

A special thank you to my assistant coach, Cheryl Winnickie and the Clarkston Chiefs Cheerleading Director Lynn Munday. Their support was greatly appreciated.

Coach Pamela H. Wilson

Salvino charged with assault of sisters

BY DENNIS V. CARTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A man charged with abusing his friend's 5-year-old son was back in court last week, this time on different charges.

Paul Matthew Salvino, 23, of Independence Township, was charged with the sexual assault of two underage girls.

His Nov. 1 preliminary examination was adjourned before Judge Gerald McNally of 52nd District Court, Independence Township, because Salvino's attorney had to attend another trial.

Salvino currently is on trial with his friend, David Lewis Simpson III, also a 23-year-old Independence Township resident, on charges the two sexually abused Simpson's 5-year-old son July 23 in Salvino's stepfather's Independence Township home.

The new charges stem from incidents that allegedly occurred in 1988, according to Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy Doug Edgar.

Police charge that Salvino had sex with his then 14-year-old girlfriend on Feb. 1 and then on Feb. 14, when the girl was 15. The girl became pregnant, and the two now have a child, according to police.

Salvino is also charged with having sex with his girlfriend's sister, who was 12 years old at the time, said Edgar.

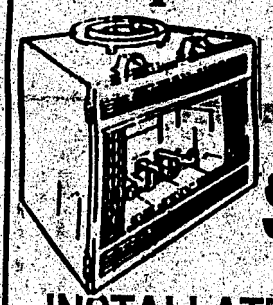

Salvino remains in the Oakland County Jail. A new pre-exam is set for 9:30 a.m. on Nov. 22.

Pure drama

A moving drama in two acts is the second play of the year at the Depot Theater.

"I Never Sang for My Father" is presented by the Clarkston Village Players Fridays and Saturdays, Nov. 8, 9, 15, 16, 22 and 23, and Thursday, Nov. 21. Curtain is 8 p.m.

Tickets — $7 Fridays and Saturdays and $6 Thursday — are available at Tierra Arts on Main Street, Clarkston, or by calling Marlene Sewick at 363-0188 after 5 p.m.

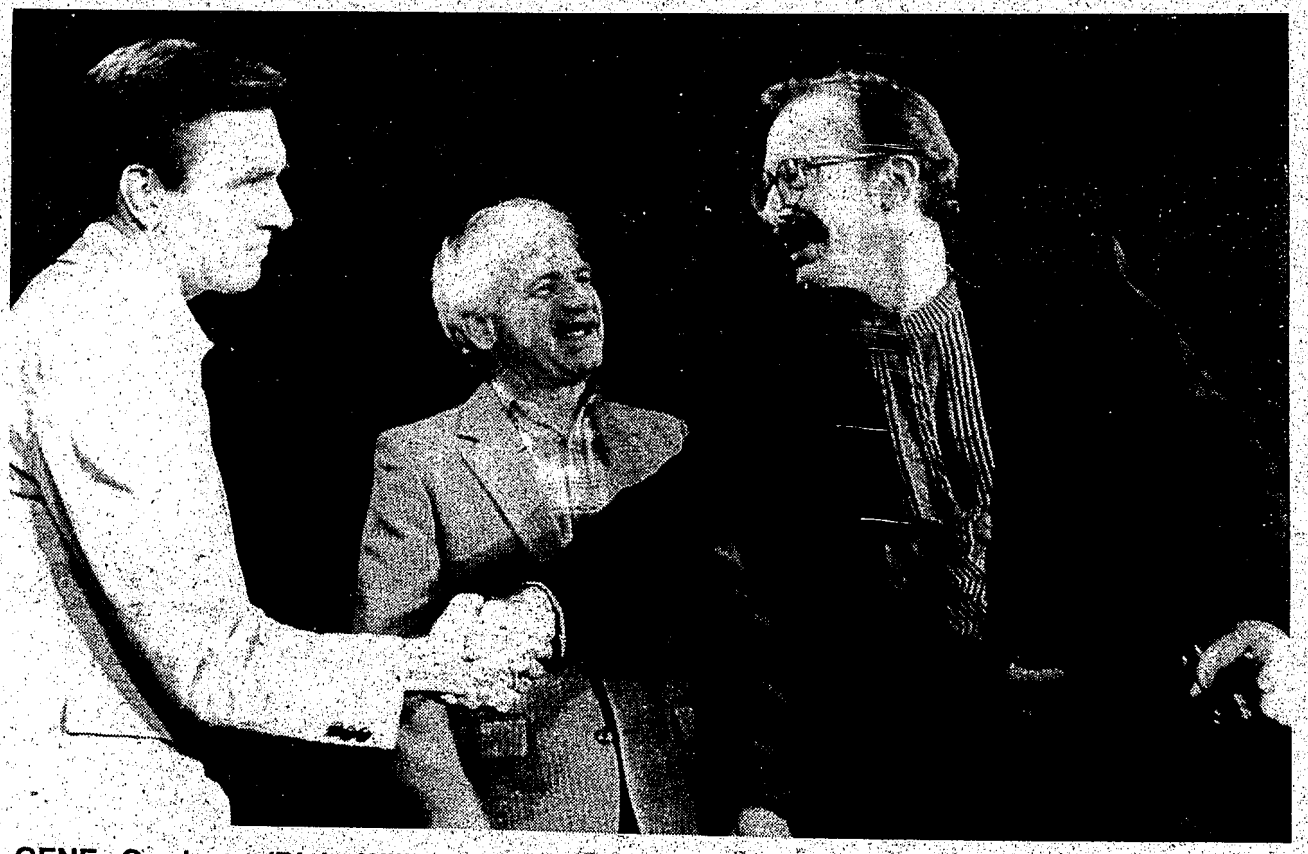

The play, directed by Helen Naum and produced by Marlene Sewick, stars Dick Williams as Gene Garrison, Don Foster as Porter and Verne Vackaro as Tom Garrison.

Other cast members include Marty Johnston, Cynthia Lohmeier, Lawrence Ballard, Drew Creamer, Larry McGee, Lee Ann Woolcox and Mel Case.

An "afterglow" follows the Friday, Nov. 8, performance.

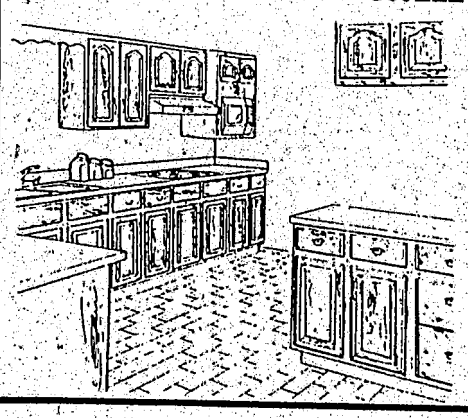

GENE Garrison (Dick Williams) reflects back on his past. The Clarkston Village Players two-act drama opens Nov. 8.

GENE Garrison (Dick Williams), left, is greeted by undertaker Marvin Scott (Drew Creamer), right, as Tom Garrison (Verne Vackaro) looks on in a scene from "I Never Sang for My Father." The drama is based on the dysfunctional relationship between Tom Garrison and his son, Gene. (Photos by James Gibowski)

Why Ann Marie Kelley wanted more out of life.

To hear her describe it, Ann Marie had a pretty good life. She made her home in the Pacific northwest, where she'd lived and worked for 20 years. She had many friends, and her job with the State of Washington offered security and a decent salary.

Still—she knew she was capable of so much more. She felt held back. And, without a degree, her career options were limited.

After wrestling with her dilemma (Could she make it in college after so many years? Could she afford it?), Ann Marie left her job, returned to Michigan, and enrolled at UM-Flint.

"They helped me with all the mechanics—registering, transferring credits, getting financial aid, re-organizing my time," she says. "Most of all, they made me feel welcome."

Today, Ann Marie is a University of Michigan-Flint senior, majoring in communication, and looking forward to law school next year.

With so many changes behind her, we wondered if she had any regrets. Here's what Ann Marie had to say:

"Going back to college was the best thing I've ever done. The process of learning is such a joy. It opens so many doors. It shows you what you have, what you are, what you can be."

If you'd like to change your life, call the UM-Flint Admissions Office: (313) 762-3300.

Swinging from the heels

Sudden loss

James Gibowski

It was the saddest moment I've ever witnessed in my year and a half of covering Clarkston High School sports.

Head varsity football coach Kurt Richardson was helping Dan Griffiths to his feet seconds after the Wolves lost a heartbreaking season-finale game to Brighton, 24-21, a loss which put the Wolves out of the playoffs.

Griffiths (who had rushed for 113 yards) had fallen on the cold Brighton field in shock after the Wolves, who led convincingly at halftime (21-3), lost the game in the final seconds.

I know Richardson (and his assistant coaches) felt as bad as his players. In fact, in some ways it was even more disappointing for the coach because the Wolves haven't made the playoffs since 1977. Fourteen years ago, many of the current players were carefree kindergarteners, unconcerned about making the playoffs and more concerned about nap time.

So here was Richardson helping his halfback get up and the both of them getting in line for their final duty of the 1991 season, shaking the hands of the Brighton players and coaches.

The hope of making the '91 playoffs actually began when the Wolves lost a close season finale last season against the same Brighton team.

And that hope continued through weight training and camps in the summer, grueling practices during a humid August, daily practices and Friday night games, a 7-1 record going into the final game and a 21-3 lead with 24 minutes left on the clock.

Playoff talk was certainly in the air during halftime among the Clarkston spectators. I admit, I was caught up in it. Wondering about who Clarkston would play. Would it be at home? Would it be on a Friday night? Or better yet, would it be on Saturday afternoon (shooting photos of day football is much easier than night football)?

In the back of my mind, there were those old cliches: "It ain't over 'til it's over," "There are two halves in a football game," "It's not over 'til the fat lady sings."

But a 21-3 lead, and the way the Wolves dominated the first half (Griffiths seemed to be able to run through the Brighton defense at will), made me more concerned about whether I was going to get to the concession stand in time for some hot coffee than the chances of the Bulldogs coming back from the dead.

When quarterback Dugan Fife, who has had such an outstanding season, fumbled the ball in the third quarter and Brighton ran it in for a touchdown, it made me think a little more about those cliches, but still not too strongly.

But when the Bulldogs began to be the ones unstoppable on the ground and scored again to cut Clarkston's lead to 21-16, there seemed to be more than a winter chill in the air. The Brighton players were fired up and so were their fans, who were rather quiet in the first half.

Suddenly there was an eerie stillness hovering over the Clarkston fans. And there was much more clock watching (plenty of time left on the clock for someone from either side to score).

Clarkston had the ball with about four and a half minutes left. A couple first downs were just as good as a touchdown at that point. But a Fife pass hit a receiver right on the numbers, bounced up and fell into the hands of a Bulldog.

The Clarkston fans spent even more time watching the clock and then Brighton went ahead with 25 seconds left.

After two desperate plays by the Wolves, Clarkston's season was over and Griffiths (and a few other teammates) was on the ground.

Clarkston players will never forget the loss. But as bad as it was on Friday night, I'm sure it was easier to take on Sunday, and it will be easier in December and still easier in 1995.

After I interviewed Brighton coach Bill Murray after the game, I saw the dejected Richardson walking toward the team bus and told him I'd call him on Sunday for my recap story.

Sunday night Richardson told me how the game "ripped their guts out." He also told me how the game was like a nightmare and when he awoke Saturday morning after a restless Friday night, it was still hard to believe the turn of events against Brighton.

But after getting his account of the game and after combing through all the statistics,he reflected on his co-GOAL champion players, going beyond their football talents.

"I don't think we had a problem with any player all year round," said Richardson. "We had a great group of kids. And if I had my choice between a 9-0 team with jerks and this 7-2 team, I'd take this team."

When retired professional athletes are asked what they miss most about their past seasons as athletes, they usually don't say they miss the winning but rather the competition of the game itself and the camaraderie of their teammates.

I think the Clarkston players and their coaches all felt like Dan Griffiths lying on that cold turf because at least one more game was suddenly taken away from them.

At least one more game ... together.

Second-half nightmare sidelines Wolves

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It began as "Garden City II" and finished as "Nightmare on Seventh Street."

Clarkston's varsity football team dominated the first-half action on Seventh Street in Brighton Friday night, but the second half was for the 'Dogs.

Brighton fullback Kelly Shaw's plunge from the 1-foot line with 25 seconds left in the game gave the Bulldogs a 24-21 come-from behind victory.

The win knocked Clarkston, 7-2, out of the playoffs and put Brighton, 7-2, into them.

"After the game, we were as low as you can go," said a disappointed Clarkston head coach Kurt Richardson about the quiet

The loss was especially hard to swallow because Wolves seemed unstoppable at the half, taking a 21-3 lead.

But the Bulldogs capitalized on time of possession (Clarkston ran 33 plays while Brighton snapped the ball about 60 times) and some Clarkston turnovers to pull the game out.

Clarkston halfback Dan Griffiths opened the scoring on a 12-yard touchdown run at the 6:11 mark of the first quarter. Matt Smith kicked the PAT.

Brighton, eating up the clock as it did all night, culminated a drive with a 31-yard field goal by Rusty Larson four seconds into the second quarter.

"After the game, we were as low as you can go."

Coach Kurt Richardson

But at 6:48, quarterback Dugan Fife threaded the needle by hitting Luke Fedio on a 19-yard touchdown pass (Smith kicked the PAT).

Forty-five seconds later, defensive back Nick Shires scooped up a loose ball and returned the fumble 12 yards for a another touchdown. Smith's kick made it 21-3.

"They probably felt the game was over at halftime," said Brighton coach Bill Murray, who called his team's efforts the biggest comeback of his coaching career. "There was the possibility of being blown out of the game."

"We told them they still had to play," said Richardson about his halftime speech. "It was very calm."

The momentum began to switch at 9:34 in the third quarter when Fife fumbled and Brighton's Scott Sucate, a la Shires, picked up the ball and scored from 10 yards out. Larson's PAT made it 21-10.

With 1:23 left in the third quarter, Perry Smallwood scored from three yards out (the 2-point conversion failed) to cut the deficit to 21-16.

Clarkston, which only ran 13 plays in the second half with one first down, was forced to punt early in the last quarter but then stopped the Bulldogs.

The Wolves took over on about their own 35 with 4:30 left on the clock but a Fife pass bounced off the shoulder pads of Fedio and Brighton defensive back Brent Larson intercepted.

"We complete that pass, the game's over," said Richardson.

The game would soon be over, but in the Bulldog's favor, when Shaw would score with 25 seconds left (John Blake scored the 2-point conversion).

After the ensuing kickoff, Fife completed a 20-yard sideline pass to Griffiths but was intercepted on second down and time ran out.

Clarkston finished the game with eight first downs while Brighton moved the chains 11 times. Clarkston lost two fumbles and Brighton lost one. The Wolves rushed for 117 yards while the Bulldogs ran for 160. Griffiths paced the Wolves with 113 yards on 15 carries, Eric Ryan ran once for five yards, Fife carried five times for two and Brian Davis ran twice for one.

Clarkston passed for 99 yards and Brighton had 13 via the air. Fife completed seven of 10 passes with three interceptions.

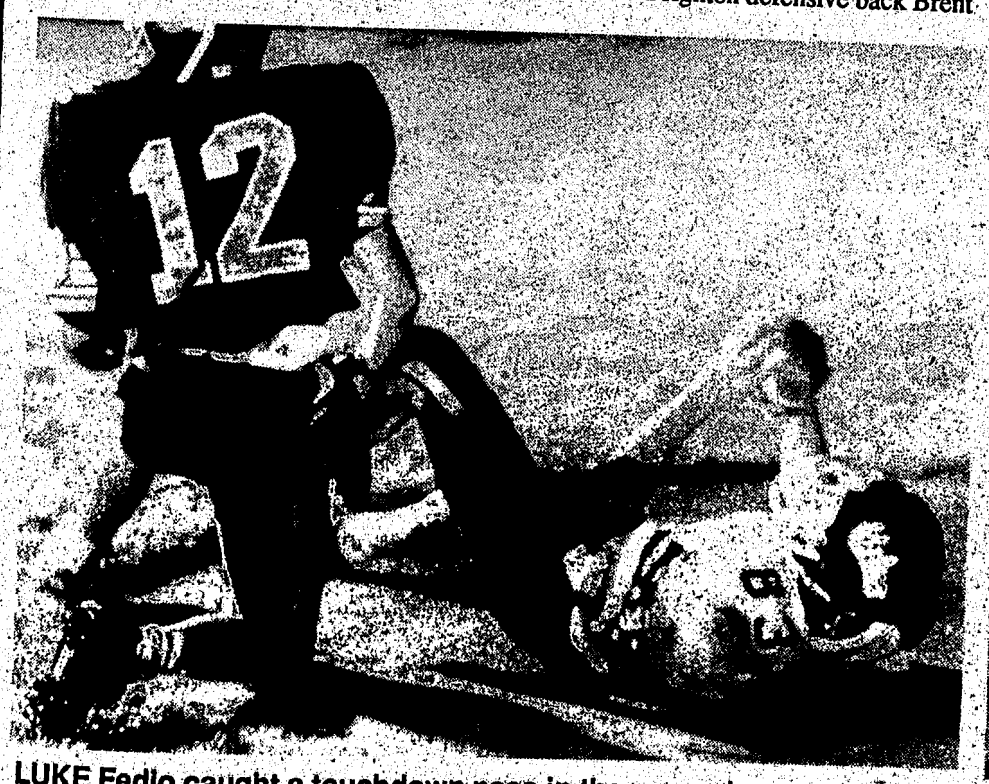

Jon Wyniemko caught four passes for 48 yards, Griffiths grabbed one for 20, Fedio caught one for 19 and Jeremy Burke caught one for 12.

Brian Davis led the Wolves' busy defense with 10 tackles and two assists, Ryan had seven tackles, Nathan Smith and Shires each had six tackles and one assist, Steve Garnett had five tackles, Chris Combs had four tackles and three assists, Adam Kirk and E.J. Stumph each had four tackles and Fife had three tackles.

Matt Smith intercepted a Bulldog pass.

QUARTERBACK Dugan Fife looks for an opening against a pack of Bulldogs (related photos on page 20).

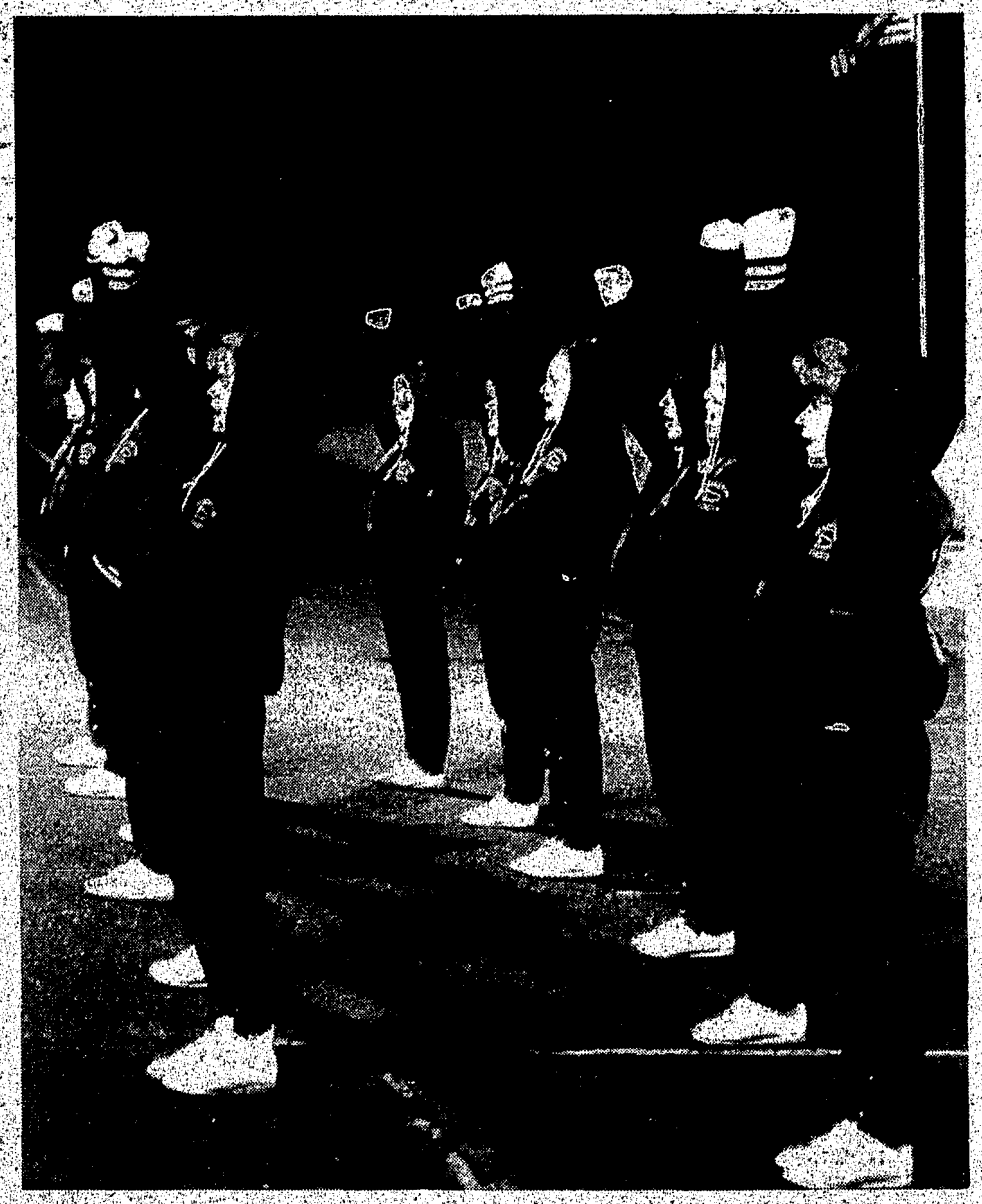

LUKE Fedio caught a touchdown pass in the second quarter deep in the end zone, with his momentum carrying him out of bounds.

CLARKSTON defenders couldn't stop the Bulldog runners in the second half.

Watching Wolves

CLARKSTON players (above) were more quiet on the sidelines during the second half than the first half in the 24-21 loss at Brighton las Friday night. The Wolf varsity cheerleaders tried to stay warm during the cold night while leading the cheers for the Clarkston faithful which traveled to Brighton. (Photos by James Gibowski)

About the winner:

M. Parker Bates Jr of Columbia in Independence Township is this season's first repeat winner.

Bates and Peggy Girling of Independence Township each picked 15 games correctly (weekend of Nov. 1-3). However, Bates' won the tiebreaker by predicting 35 points would be scored in the Detroit at Chicago game (Girling guessed 45). The Lions and Bears combined for 30 points.

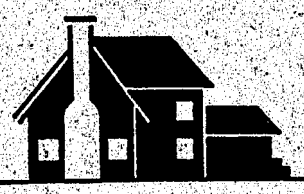

There was a traffic jam close behind with 12 people choosing 14 games correctly: Aaron Churchill, Fred Munger, Joe Jenson, Russell Biggs, M. Parker Bates III, Mike Shore, Annette Adams, Mathew Kuffa, Frank Robbins, Wally Corbett, Rodger Reed, Wade Genre.

Clarkston News sportswriter James Gibowski and guest picker Tod Hess (GOAL football information director) also picked 14 games correctly.

Heritage ends playoffs for Wolf kickers

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It took one of the best teams in the state to put an end to the Clarkston varsity boys' soccer season.

Saginaw Heritage edged the Wolves, 2-0, Oct. 30 in first-round regional action on a soggy Grand Blanc field.

"They're the best team we've played, without a doubt," said Clarkston coach Dan Fitzgerald, who certainly knows about the Saginaw team.

Heritage, which has lost once all season and will continue on to the final four in the state playoffs, handed the Wolves (14-6-1) half of their losses. Clarkston earlier lost to it 3-1 in the Springfield Christian tournament and 2-1 later in the season.

The closest the Wolves came to scoring was early in the match but after that they rarely threatened.

"In the second half, we couldn't get anything going," said Fitzgerald.

Clarkston forward usually is the spark of the Wolf offense but Heritage was all over him.

"They put their best man on him. And the wet field made it easy to use slide tackles," said the coach.

Heritage's Jason Maday scored the first goal with about five minutes left in the first half.

Teammate Chad Kingsbury then added the final goal with about four minutes left after the Clarkston defense began to move up for more offensive punch.

Clarkston goalkeeper Mike Miller was busy in the net and played a strong game.

"It was one of his better games," said Fitzgerald about the junior goalkeeper who he says has been improving throughout the season.

Despite the loss to Heritage, it can't take away Clarkston's first-ever district title.

"Hey, I think we did better than anybody thought we'd do, including myself," said Fitzgerald, who coached the Wolves for the first time this season. "The key is these guys really worked hard, not giving up a lot of stupid goals."

The Clarkston defense held opponents to only 23 goals in 21 games.

And Fitzgerald has much to look forward to in 1992.

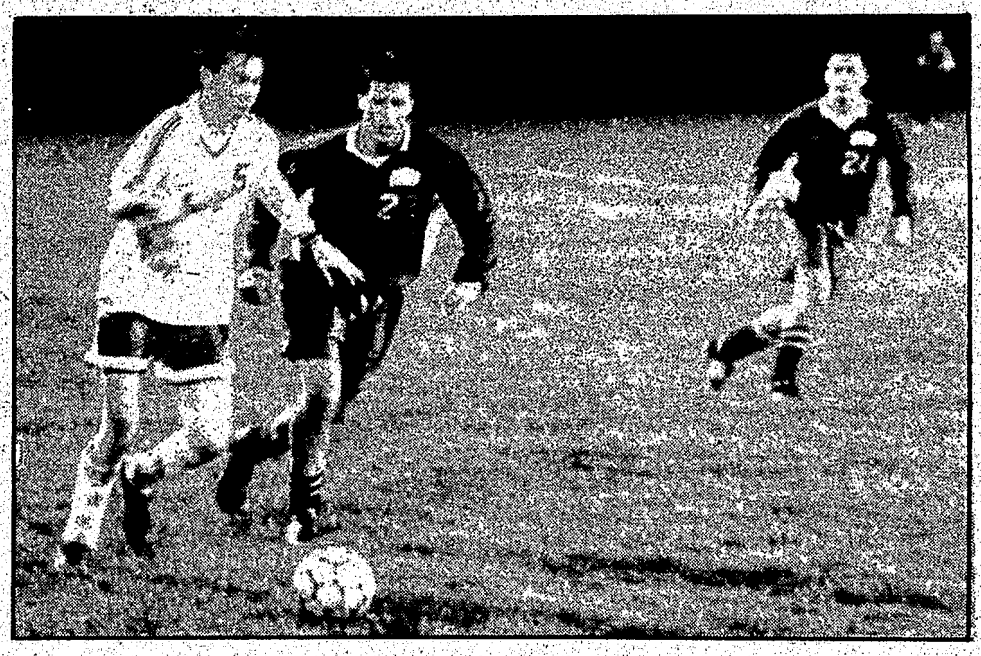

"I'm excited about next year. Half of the starters are coming back with the good experience of going through the districts," said Fitzgerald, who also pointed out that some members of a strong 11-1-1 JV team will also play varsity next season.

Fitzgerald expects defending Greater Oakland Activities League champion Brandon, which will return most of its starters, to be the team to beat next season in league play.

"It will be between us and them," said Fitzgerald.

CLARKSTON'S Rob Sloan (13) and Heritage's Jason Leslie are airborne during regional action Oct. 30 in Grand Blanc.

JEREMY Deloney (22) and Jeremy Johns (24) are in pursuit of Heritage's Jason Bowerman. (Related photos on page 26).

Freshman 28th at cross-country state finals

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Freshman Leah Scharl finished 28th at state, a few weeks after being the fastest runner in the league meet.

At the state finals Nov. 2, Scharl finished the 5 kilometer course at Nunica on a cold, windy day in 21:38.

Traverse City captured the girls' Class A crown.

Clarkston DNF
(Oct. 26 at the Class A regionals in Swartz Creek)

Leah Scharl qualified for the state finals by placing 16th at the regionals in Swartz Creek Oct. 26.

Scharl ran the course in 20:33.

(For the first time all season, the Wolves did not have enough girls -- at least five are needed -- to finish in the team standings at an event).

Wolf Angie Brown placed 37th (21:44), Stacey Patterson 62nd (23:30) and Shelly Draves finished 79th (24:23).

(Oct. 22 at Independence Oaks County Park)

Four Clarkston girls finished in the top eight spots as the Wolves placed second at the Greater Oakland Activities League meet Oct. 22.

Lake Orion won the meet with 26 points, ahead of Clarkston with 38. Pontiac Northern, Waterford Kettering and Brandon did not field enough runners to count in team standings.

Clarkston's Leah Scharl led all the runners by finishing first in 21:17, well in front of Lake Orion's Ami Grace (21:36).

Wolf sophomore Angie Brown, who won the individual GOAL title last season, finished a strong fourth (22:16).

Lisonn Hutchinson placed seventh (23:56), Stacy Patterson eighth (24:35) and Shelly Draves 18th (26:10).

In the overall GOAL standings (combining the league meet with the regular-season meets), Lake Orion (5-0 in dual meets) finished first with 12 points, Clarkston (4-1 in dual meets) was second with 10 points and Pontiac Northern (2-3 in dual meets) was third with four points.

In post-season honors, Scharl was selected as the team's most valuable player and Patterson was picked as the most improved player.

Boys 7th at regionals

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Derek Lachman, the only Wolf boy to qualify for state, finished 64th at the Class A finals.

Lachman ran the 5-kilometer course in Nunica in 18:20.

Walled Lake Western's Bill Crosby had the day's best time at 16:18.

Lakeland, which defeated Clarkston in a regular-season dual meet, won the team Class A state championship.

Clarkston 7th at the regionals
(Oct. 26 at Swartz Creek)

Derek Lachman, finishing in 16:43, placed 18th at the regionals, qualifying him for state.

Lachman's efforts helped the Wolf team to a seventh-place finish with 220 points. Lakeland won the regionals with 59 points.

Wolf Brad Patterson placed 38th (17:13) followed closely by teammate Steve Cohoon in 39th (17:15). Adam Pastor finished 61st (17:53) and Curt Duca was 64th (17:59).

Lachman, Cohoon, Pastor and Duca all set personal records in the meet.

Clarkston 3rd at the GOAL meet
(Oct. 22 at Independence Oaks)

Clarkston finished third at the Greater Oakland Activities League meet after placing third (3-2) in dual meets to solidify its overall third-place finish.

Brandon and Lake Orion each finished with 11 points overall to tie for the GOAL championship. Clarkston had eight points, followed by Waterford Mott and Waterford Kettering each with five and Pontiac Northern with one.

Steve Cohoon had the best finish individually for the Wolves, placing ninth (17:50). Brandon's Guy Whittaker was first at 16:52.

Wolf Derek Lachman was 14th (18:07), Tony Quigley 16th (18:27), Brad Patterson 19th (18:40) and Adam Pastor 20th (18:46).

Other Clarkston finishes were Curt Duca 23rd (18:56) and Duane Poole 25th (19:03).

Only the top five places counted in the overall team standings at the meet.

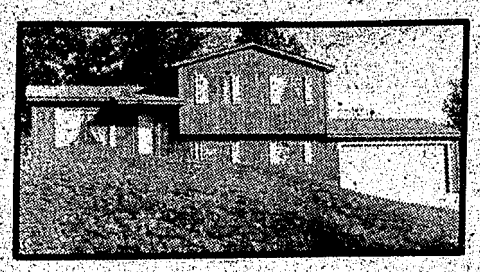

Lachman was chosen as the team's most valuable player and Cohoon was picked as the most improved player.

Older Bulldogs no problem for JV gridders

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Juniors rarely play on the junior varsity.

Brighton's football team fielded 12 juniors but Clarkston's sophomore-laden JV team still managed to top the older Bulldogs, 20-13.

"Our kids came ready to play. It was an outstanding performance," said Clarkston coach John Craven, whose team finished the season with a strong 7-1-1 record.

The game ended with a barrage of interceptions. With two and a half minutes remaining, Clarkston's Josh Watson intercepted a Bulldog pass. A minute later, Brighton intercepted a Kevin Dankert pass. And with 40 seconds left, Wolf Brent Bundridge preserved the win with still another interception.

Clarkston led 20-0 at one point and then held on.

Two minutes into the game, Joe Davis set up the Wolves' first score with a 49-yard run. Quarterback Dankert flipped a 3-yard pass to Rusty Mitcham for the TD. The PAT failed.

In the second quarter, Dankert again connected for a TD pass, this time a 13-yarder to Watson. Dankert passed to Bundridge for the 2-point conversion.

The Wolf defense then stopped the Bulldogs on the Clarkston 15-yard line and the Wolves held a 14-0 advantage at the half.

Dankert hit Bundridge for a 21-yard touchdown pass at 7:33 in the third quarter for the 20-0 bulge. The 2-point conversion failed.

The Bulldogs struck for the first time on a 20-yard touchdown pass, recovered an onside kick, and then narrowed the margin to 20-13 by scoring again with 9:00 left in the game.

One of the key plays late in the game was a third-down, 25-yard pass completion from Dankert to Bundridge.

"That was a big play. We would have been punting from deep in our territory," said Craven.

The completion gave the Wolves more breathing room and gave the Bulldogs eventual worse field position. Brighton did get the ball back again but then the trio of interceptions took place.

Coach Craven said one of the keys to the victory was the Wolf defense manhandling the Bulldog pulling guards.

"It took them out of their blocking schemes. They had to throw," said Craven.

Defensive tackle Kevin Covert paced the Wolves with 10 1/2 tackles, defensive end Mark Kulka had seven and a half, linebacker John Zamora seven, linebacker P.J. Vandermeer six and a half, defensive end Mitcham five, defensive tackle Rob Lipinski four and a half and Brian Boggs four.

Dankert completed 11 of 21 passes for 139 yards with one interception. The sophomore passed for over 1,300 yards this season along with 18 touchdown passes.

Dankert's favorite receiver, Bundridge, caught four passes for 77 yards. Bundridge finished with 544 reception yards.

Watson also caught three passes for 25 yards, Mitcham grabbed two for 30 and David Hartke caught one for seven.

Davis carried the ball eight times for 78 yards and Bundridge ran twice for 25.

Second half makes difference in JV cager loss to Kettering

Clarkston was held to a season-low 26 points as the Waterford Kettering JV girls' basketball team topped the Wolves, 46-26, Oct. 29.

"We just went cold on our shooting in the second half and it killed us," said Clarkston coach Janet Swan, who added, "Kettering played an excellent defensive game."

Visiting Kettering led 15-8 after the first quarter and continued leading by seven at the half.

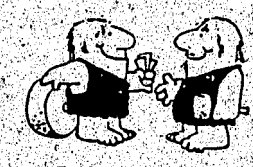

But the Captains pulled away by outscoring the Wolves 10-4 in the third quarter and 11-4 in the final quarter.

Clarkston, 12-4 overall and 5-3 in the Greater Oakland Activities League, was led by Shawna Greene's nine points, four rebounds and four steals. Shannon Binkley scored six with five rebounds, Jennifer Woutinen and Erin Patterson each netted five and Lisa Goforth added one.

Captains top cagers

Foul trouble and a pesky Waterford Kettering defense hurt Clarkston Oct. 29 as the Captains topped the Wolves, 58-42.

After the game, both teams became 11-5 overall but the Wolves dropped to 5-3 in the Greater Oakland Activities League while the defending champion Captains improved to 7-0.

Kettering took a 30-18 lead into halftime. Clarkston starters Alyson McChesney and Courtney Whittaker saw limited playing time because each was whistled for a third foul early in the second quarter.

The second half was played fairly evenly but the Wolves couldn't come back after their first-half deficit.

Clarkston committed 28 fouls while the Captains fouled 20 times. However, Clarkston only shot 15 free throws (making six) while Kettering had 36 attempts (sinking 20).

But Clarkston coach Larry Mahrle said free-throw shooting wasn't the only downfall of his Wolves. The Wolves also didn't burn the nets with their outside shooting.

"We have not shot well all year round," said Mahrle. "You can't play other good teams and shoot poorly."

Mahrle also had a compliment for the shorter but quicker Captains.

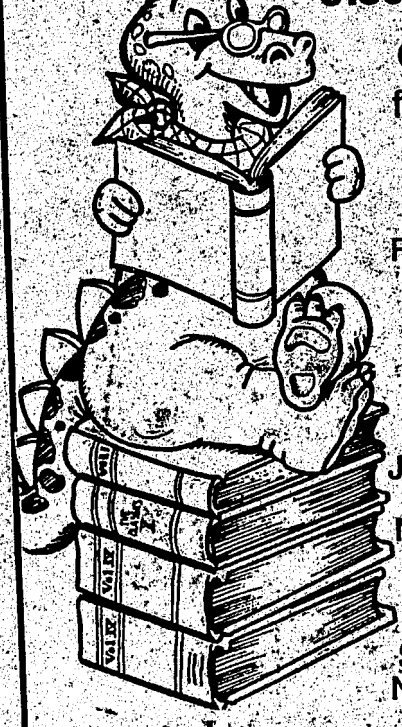

"You have to give credit to the Kettering defense," said the coach.

Kettering's Laura Rietz led all scorers with 18 points and teammate Kristen Becks added 15.

McChesney netted 10 and grabbed 15 rebounds to pace the Wolves. Whittaker scored 12, Heather Steinhelper seven, Shannon Jenks five, and Stacey Tinkis and Heather Austin each had four. Tinkis also had six assists.

INSTRUCTOR Lori Wheeler watches as a youngster prepares to drop a gummy worm into a homemade witch's brew. This exercise was used to heighten the children's sense of touch and counting ability at an Oct. 31 Halloween party in the United Methodist Church, Clarkston. This party was put on by the co-op group Clarkston Nursery Inc. for the area's three year olds. (Photos by Curt McAllister)

Monster Bash

PATTY SPIELMAN, a parent volunteer in the co-op program, instructs a little witch on how to make a decorative, cut-out ghost.

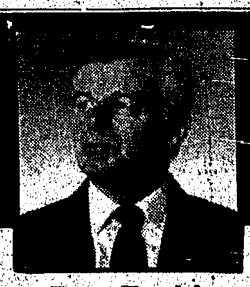

LORI RYDING shows these decked-out children the secret ingredient in her special Halloween cookies. She was one of four parent volunteers to guide the youngsters through the morning session of the Oct. 31 party.

ALTHOUGH HOME prices are higher, waiting for them to drop may be folly.

QUESTION: I had a chance to buy a home five years ago for $70,000. I passed it up because I thought the price was too high. Last month, the same house sold for $106,000. Now I want to buy a second home for an investment. Should I wait until prices drop or will I be making the same mistake?

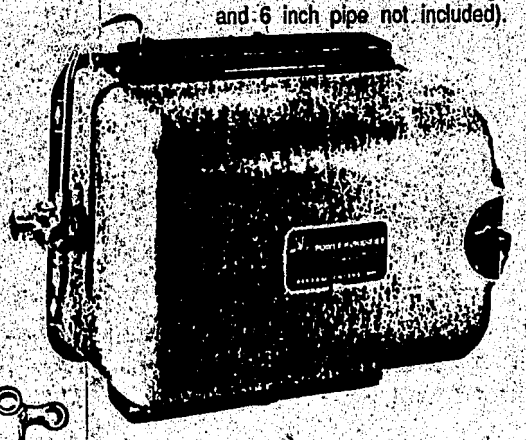

ANSWER: Although prices keep rising, I doubt if they will ever be much lower. If a $70,000 home increases in value at only 6% per year, in ten years it will be worth $125,260. In twenty years, it will cost $225,000.

Shakesperean advice applies: If to buy or not to buy is the question, t'were well if it were done now.

Grad

Kelly Ann Cruz of Reese Road, Independence Township, was one of 669 people to receive degrees from Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, at the end of the summer session of the 1990-91 school year.

Cruz earned a bachelor of business administration degree.

Honors

Jennifer Zorza of Clarkston was one of the seventh- and eighth-graders from Academy of the Sacred Heart, Bloomfield Hills, who was honored by the Center for Talent Development of Northwestern University as Midwest Talent Search honorees.

She and the other students qualified by scoring at the 95th percentile or higher on the verbal, mathematical or composite of a standardized in-grade achievement test.

Engagement

Theodore and Carolyn Leffler of Davison announce the engagement of their daughter, Liza L. Leffler of Chicago, Ill., to Larry J. Baylis, D.O., of Clarkston, son of Maria J. Baylis and the late Shelby M. Baylis, M.D. The bride elect is a 1982 graduate of Davison High School, a 1986 graduate of Michigan State University, East Lansing, with a bachelor of science degree in engineering, and a 1991 graduate of Northwestern University, with a master of business administration degree in business from the Kellogg Graduate School. She is an account manager at Honeywell, Inc., Chicago. The bridegroom-to-be is a 1980 graduate of Clarkston High School, a 1985 graduate of Oakland University, Rochester, with a bachelor of science degree in environmental health, and a 1990 graduate of the Chicago College of Osteopathic Medicine. He is a physician at the M-15 Family Medical Center, Clarkston. A Nov. 29 wedding is planned in Davison.

New arrivals

It's a boy for Rick and Allison Grimes of Naples, Fla. Allison is the former Allison Booker of Clarkston and a 1976 Clarkston High School graduate.

Randall Marc Grimes was born Oct. 21, 1991, at Naples Hospital. He weighed 9 pounds, 11 ounces, and measured 22 inches long.

His proud sister and brother are Christin, 2 1/2, and Ricky Jr., 18 months.

Grandparents are Henry and Helen Grimes of Bonita Springs, Fla., and Gordon and Thelma Booker of Naples, Fla. Great-grandmother is Edith Lewis of Sarasota, Fla.

It's a girl for Edward and Ronniedee Lumm of Vinewood, Independence Township.

Chelsea Paige Lumm was born Oct. 9, 1991, at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac. She weighed 6 pounds, 1 1/2 ounces, and measured 19 1/2 inches long.

Grandparents are Jim and Peggy Lumm of Davisburg and Ronald Barnard and Penny Wood of Clarkston.

Great-grandparents are Ruth Latointe of Davisburg and Esta Barnard of Newport Richie, Fla.

Tom and Ingrid Humphreys of Grand Rapids are the proud parents of a baby girl.

Hannah Kristine was born Oct. 17, 1991, at Metropolitan Hospital, Grand Rapids. She weighed 6 pounds, 13 ounces, and measured 19 3/4 inches long.

Grandparents are Tom and Jean Humphreys of Orion and Charles and Sonya Moore of Hillsdale. Great-grandparents are Ina Powell of Clarkston and Carrie Humphreys of Lake Orion.

German connection

WHILE in America, 12 visitors from Germany (led by the Rev. Eberhard Goehner) visited Genesis Lutheran Church in Detroit, where they joined in a potluck supper, watched choir rehearsal, then joined in. Singing together, the international group sang "Kum Ba Yah." While in the Clarkston area, the group visited such places as Greektown, Greenfield Village and Frankenmuth.

VISITORS from Boeblingen, Germany, enjoy a walk through downtown Clarkston, despite rainy weather. The 12, walking here Oct. 26 with the Rev. Robert Walters of Calvary Evangelical Lutheran Church in Clarkston, stayed at the Clarkston-area homes of congregation members. Later that evening, they took part in a "progressive dinner," where they visited a separate house for each course of their American meal. Since 1985, Walters and the Rev. Eberhard Goehner of Germany have exchanged visits every year.

Old-fashioned learning

DANIELLE Pockmaier, a Clarkston Junior High sixth grader, gets ready to knock some pins down Oct. 10 at Cherry Hill Lanes North.

CLARKSTON Junior High sixth grader Missy Felt and her classmates kept score the old-fashioned way, without the alley's computer and with a pencil and scoresheet. It was a fun way to learn some math.(Photos by James Gibowski)

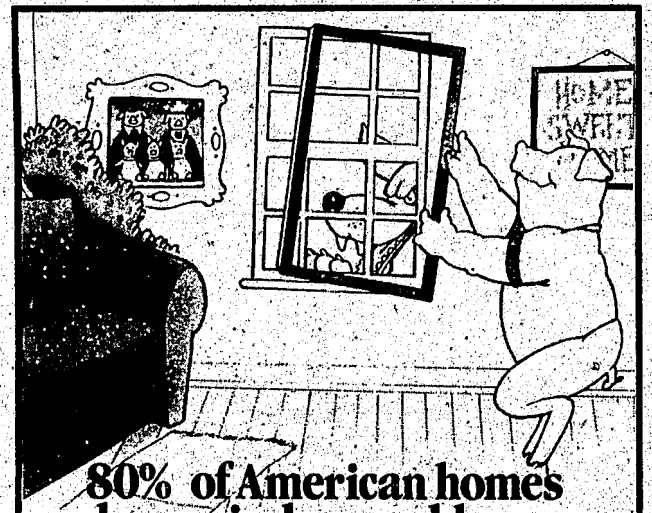

Sixth-grade teachers at Clarkston Junior High were left with a dilemma during the week of Oct. 7-11.

During that week, seventh, eighth and ninth graders were tested (Universal Testing) while the sixth graders weren't. So an enrichment program was developed for that week which related to the sixth graders' curriculum in social studies, science, math and language arts.

On Oct. 7, the sixth graders viewed a movie about Arabic culture. The next day, the students took a science field trip to see the movie, Jack London's "White Fang." On Oct. 9, they attended an assembly which featured Aida Al-Adawi, who performed Middle Eastern dances and discussed Arabic culture.

On Oct. 10-11, students either bowled at Cherry Hill Lanes North (keeping score manually to help their math skills) or wrote.

CHS Marching Band finishes second in state

The Clarkston High School Marching Band marched its way to another strong finish in a statewide competition last weekend.

The CHS Marching Band finished second in Flight II at the 1991 Michigan State Band Competition at Centennial Educational Park, Plymouth.

The competition, sponsored by the Michigan Competitive Band Directors Association, is the pinnacle of the marching band season. Forty-four bands compete in four flights.

Preliminaries took place at Livonia Franklin, and the winners advanced to the finals in Plymouth.

The bands were judged in the following categories: music effect, music field, music ensemble, percussion, visual effect, visual field, visual ensemble and color guard. A score of 100 is possible.

In Flight II, Lakeland High finished first with 86.2 points, followed by Clarkston's 78.1 points. In third was Wyoming Park High with 77.3 points. The Milford Redskins placed fourth with 71.3 points.

The band is directed by Cliff Chapman.

Following are the members of the Clarkston High School Marching Band.

Free concert

If you're interested in jazz, symphony and other types of music, you're in luck.

A free concert by Clarkston High School bands is planned for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 14, at the CHS Kirchgessner Theater.

The program includes performances by the CHS Wind Ensemble, Symphonic Band, Jazz Ensemble and Marching Band, conducted by Cliff Chapman and Jennifer Moehlman.

Selections include works by Karl King, James Curnow, Vaclav Nelhybel, Edward Elgar and John Phillip Sousa.

The Marching Band, which was named the second best band in the state in its category, is to present musical selections from its recent fall contest season, including "A Festival Prelude," "Variations on a Korean Folk Song" and "Auld Lang Syne."

Another concert by CHS bands is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 12.

Capable carvers

Jack-o-lanterns provided a fun activity for Natalie Hewko's fourth-graders and cheered up a few senior citizens in the area, too.

Room mothers arranged the pumpkin-carving activity for Halloween and also arranged for Lighthouse North Caregivers to deliver the creations to homebound residents in the area.

The organizers designed the event to encourage children to think of ways throughout the year that they can give something or some time back to their community.

Pupils in the Clarkston Elementary classroom seemed enjoy it, too, according to one room mother who interviewed a few.

"I like to do things to help people and give things to people who need them," said pupil Deanna Brown.

Michael Licata agreed. "It was fun and nice to do something for other people."

CHRISTY Schroeder (left) grimaces as she and her friend Jacqueline Giffer work on their Jack-o-lantern creation in Natalie Hewko's fourth-grade class.

Salon helps needy with four programs

The needy in the area will receive a little help from a Springfield Township hair salon and its employees.

Carla's Hair Salon on Dixie Highway at I-75 is helping Lighthouse North in four ways this holiday season.

Now through Dec. 31, the salon is serving as a collection site for canned food and dry goods. Lighthouse North on Maybee Road, Independence Township, is attempting to feed 500 needy families in the area.

On Friday, Nov. 15, the staff at Carla's will donate all of their gratuities to Lighthouse North to help pay for turkeys and dressing for Thanksgiving dinners.

On Sunday, Dec. 8, the salon is holding special hours 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. All proceeds from $10 haircuts and $10 manicures will benefit Lighthouse North. No appointments are necessary.

Throughout the holidays, the salon will have a hat and mitten/glove tree, and customers are encouraged to donate winter items for children and adults. They will help needy families in the area.

Salon owner Carla Dutcher said she has a good staff.

"Usually we draw names and exchange gifts," said Dutcher. "This year, we just thought it was time to do something for others. I'm really proud of the girls."

The staff at Carla's includes: Dutcher, Lisa Cooper, Ann Austin, Suzan Boothe, Kristine Micallef, Karen Miriani, Marie Ahonen, Kathy Echkout, Dee Mix and Joanie Bachor.

Food, clothing drive

An Independence Township resident has offered her Waterford business as a clothing and food drive site to help the area needy.

Beth Sayles Richards has offered Sayles Studio on Dixie Highway, Waterford, as a drop-off site for non-perishable food items.

As an incentive, the studio will offer a 50 percent savings off a portrait creation fee in exchange for a "bag" of food.

All donations will be distributed through Lighthouse North on Maybee Road, Independence Township.

The studio has conducted the food drive for five years and has also collected mittens and hats for the needy.

This year is no exception. To encourage people to donate winter clothing, the studio will give 8 wallet-size portraits in exchange for a child's size pair of mittens or hat.

Clothing, too, will be distributed by Lighthouse North, which serves the north Oakland County area.

Use caution in choosing long-term insurance

A few years ago, health insurance to pay for long-term care of the elderly or others disabled by illness was non-existent.

Now such insurance is available, but the patient may not always be able to collect.

A study by William Weissert, Ph.D., of the University of Michigan's School of Public Health, found that only half of the long-term care of policies he studied in many areas of the United States, including Michigan, were likely to pay benefits.

More than 1 million policies have been sold since the mid-1980s by more than 100 companies.

"The dependent elderly population is expected to double in the next 12 years, so the market is likely to increase," Weissert said. But he warns that "savvy consumers should look long and hard before they settle for a policy."

Currently, the cost of basic nursing home care averages about $25,000 a year, but in 1987, Medicare only paid 2 percent of national nursing home care costs, and private health insurance paid 1 percent. Medicaid paid about 45 percent, and patients and their families paid "at least half," Weissert said.

"The dependent elderly population is expected to double in the next 12 years."

William Weissert

More than 50 percent of the nation's elderly will enter a nursing home, and more than 50 percent of those only stay a short time before death or discharge.

Weissert suggests that people buying a long-term care policy should consider these basic issues:

- A reasonable annual premium for people age 65 and older ranges from $700 to $1,400. Since this type of insurance is to protect the estates of the elderly, Weissert feels their children should pay the premiums. "Not everyone will agree with that, of course," he said.
- Select a policly with the maximum number of benefit years you can find. Some policies only cover three or four years.
- Policies that require a prior hospitalization adversely affect the chances of payout. People with chronic conditions who have not been hospitalized will be at a disadvantage. Likewise, some home care policies require the patient to have been in a nursing home first.
- Choose a policy with as long a grace period as possible between hospital discharge and nursing home admission. A longer time allows a comprehensive search for the right nursing home.
- The best policies offer four levels of nursing care, some of which will not be appropriate for the patient. Consumers should seek policies that cover immediate and custodial care, not just skilled care. Your coverage should not require a skilled stay first.
- Look for policies that will cover Alzheimer's disease, even if they exclude other kinds of mental illness.
- It might be best to choose a policy with a higher premium and fewer deductible days because some patients will experience several short stays and may have to meet the deductible each time.
- Look for policies that will waive the premium if the patient is confined to a nursing home for longer than three to six months.

The above information is provided by the University of Michigan News and Information Services. For more information, call Deborah Gilbert at (313) 747-4411.

Back in 1910, "caring" meant Pontiac residents raising $25,000 to build "Oakland County's First Hospital" in what was then a village of 5,000 people.

Five years later, caring meant the Oakland County Hospital Association donating the hospital to the thriving industrial center of Pontiac...and Oakland County Hospital became Pontiac City Hospital, which was changed to Pontiac General Hospital in 1931. Today, new communities all over Oakland County look to the same hospital for caring in the 1990's for services such as:

- Complete care for new mothers and babies, including family-centered birthing and northern Oakland County's leading intensive care unit for newborns.
- Satellite centers offering walk-in medical care and diagnostic services.
- Expanded programs in physical rehabilitation, county-wide psychiatric services and cardiac care.
- State-of-the-art laser and outpatient surgery.

With these new "caring" services and a patient base throughout Oakland County, our hospital has earned a new name.

This multi-faceted, contemporary cross represents the international symbol for compassionate, community oriented health care. The repeating lines, which comprise the cross, signify the diversified parts of the North Oakland Medical Center, a medical facility with many aspects, affiliates, divisions, services, and organizations all working together for the people of the North Oakland County area.

Harvest popcorn before damp weather sets in

GardenCorner

There are no shortcuts to popcorn harvest.

"Popcorn must mature on the stalk," says Tom Stebbins, master gardener specialist at Michigan State University, East Lansing. "In a normal growing year, it takes about 120 days from seed to harvest."

The kernels are usually hard and ready to harvest by the time the stalks turn brown and dry. The husks will be dry, too.

Harvest before cool, damp weather settles in, Stebbins advises, to prevent the possibility of mold growth.

After picking the ears, remove the husks and cure the ears for two to three weeks. To cure them, place them in a nylon stocking or mesh bag and hang them in a warm, dry, well-ventilated place. After curing, remove the kernels by rubbing one ear against another, starting at the tip and working toward the base.

Store kernels in sealed 1-quart glass jars, filled three-fourths full, and store in the refrigerator, if possible. Properly stored popcorn should keep for three to four years before becoming stale, says Stebbins.

How popcorn pops depends on its moisture content. If many kernels remain unpopped or pop only partially, they are too dry. Try adding 1 tablespoon of water per quart jar and shaking the jar twice a day for a couple of days. If a test popping shows kernels are still too dry, repeat the process once.

If kernels are too moist, they will pop very slowly with a loud explosion, and steam may rise from the popper. To encourage moisture loss, leave the popcorn storage container unsealed until a test popping shows the kernels are properly cured.

The above information was provided by Michigan State University Outreach Communications, East Lansing. For more information, contact Tom Stebbins at 517-353-3774.

Pet of the Week

SAM is a big softie in search of a home.

Sensitive Sam

His presence may be overwhelming, but Sam is just a big softie.

This 9-month-old German shepherd mix weighs 60 pounds, but his handlers at the Michigan Humane Society say he's just a big baby. He's reportedly good with children and other animals.

Sam's also been housetrained. His adoption fee is $72, which covers a neutering charge.

To see Sam, visit the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Road, Rochester Hills, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Autumn's Song

By Leslie Ann Maas

As I sit on this beautiful fall day
The thoughts in my head make me want to say
What would I ever want this to go away

Warm, soft breezes through my hair
Watch the leaves fall here and there
To watch them fall seems not fair
To be a leaf without a care

I turn my eyes to the bright sunshine
To know the world that is all mine

I always wonder where the years have gone
To wish them back is what I long
To feel once again another autumn's song.

Leslie Ann Maas is a 14-year-old sophomore at Springfield Christian Academy. She resides on Heath Road, Independence Township.

We are not a Jack-of-all-trades. We can not guarantee you the absolute lowest price as we will not sacrifice the quality products or workmanship that you deserve. But what we will guarantee is an honest and fair price with products and workmanship of the highest quality. We also do our own work. We don't get your job and sub-contract it out, or sell it. So if you are only looking for the cheapest way out, call someone else who claims they can beat any price. If you are looking for an honest and fair price, quality products and workmanship, dependability and someone that will still be here after your job is complete, give us a call. Helping you make your home the one you've always dreamed of is what we do.

Crazy about quilting

LEIGH GURK gets a few tips from instructor Shirley Vroom on the art of crazy quilting. The idea, according to co-instructor Jenny Tyler, is to put scrap fabric together in any sort of pattern. Quilters also heard from artist and quilter Marty Lawrence during the all-day program at Sashabaw Junior High School. (Photos by Julie Campe)

LYN ALLYN of Cleveland drove all the way to the Clarkston area to take quilting classes -- and to visit her sister-in-law, Jeanne Molzon.
