Talking turkey

TOM, a bronze broad-breasted turkey dressed in a holiday Santa hat, doesn't seem to mind the attention from the Gentges family. From left are Phillip, 20 months; mom, Sue; and Andrew, who will be 5 on Nov. 30. Youngsters at North Sashabaw Elementary School met the turkey when Margaret Schmidt of Novi's Maplewoods Homestead visited. More photos appear throughout the paper.

City status

Court will not consider request to halt process

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

The Michigan Court of Appeals dealt another blow to Independence Township's attempt to halt Clarkston's cityhood proceedings.

On Monday, Nov. 18, township officials learned that the "stay of proceedings," which they filed in mid-September, was not being recognized by the court of appeals. The injunction would have halted Clarkston's cityhood proceedings until the court of appeals renders a decision on an appeal filed by the township in April.

The initial appeal was filed after Oakland County Circuit Court Judge John O'Brien ruled in favor of the State Boundary Commission's right to grant cityhood to Clarkston. In the lawsuit, the township had charged that the Boundary Commission had no legal right to grant permission.

Caroling, tree-lighting begin holidays

Caroling, hot cider, egg nog, Mr. and Mrs. Claus and a special tree-lighting ceremony mark the official beginning of the holidays in downtown Clarkston this weekend.

In addition, area residents are asked to bring donations of canned goods, winter clothing or cash donations for Lighthouse North when they participate in the activities.

The "Clarkston Christmas Walk" is Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 29, 30 and Dec. 1.

The entire weekend, merchants along Main Street (including Independence Pointe and Clarkston Crossing) are offering special events and sales, as well as extra personal attention to shoppers.

Friday night other special events are planned. At 7 p.m., the Christmas tree on the corner of Main and Washington streets will be illuminated, and Mr. and Mrs. Claus are to arrive by horse and carriage.

The Clarkston High School Madrigal Singers are to lead a sing-a-long, and many retail stores will be open late and will offer special sales. Luminaries along the sidewalk will light the path of walkers.

Plus, participants are asked to bring canned goods or warm mittens, socks, scarves and blankets to Clarkston, where they will be collected and donated to Lighthouse North. Lighthouse North feeds and clothes the needy in the north Oakland County area.

In addition, Rudy's Market and the Clarkston Cafe are offering hot cider and coffee & danish (respectively) in exchange for a donation of winter clothing, canned goods or money for Lighthouse North.

Free parking is provided, but on Friday night, the parking lot at Main and Washington streets near the Christmas tree will be blocked off to give room to Mr. and Mrs. Claus and their horses and carriage.

The Clarkston Rotary Club provided the Christmas tree lights, and the Campfire Boys and Girls decorated the tree.

BILL Mackson said his greatest successes aren't just with "A" and "B" students. The 30-year science teacher said he also values the times some of his students "bring up" their grades to a "C" or "D." (Photo by James Gibowski)

Questions add muscle to human anatomy class

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Bill Mackson lives for questions.

Last Thursday's fifth-hour human anatomy class was a typical 50-minute period for teacher Mackson and his 25 students.

With the words "Depolarization Theory Electrochemical Impulse" (in other words, nerve impulses) written on the chalkboard, Mackson began to do what he's been doing for the past 30 years at Clarkston High School, teach.

And when Mackson teaches, there are about as many questions and answers as a game of "Jeopardy." Sometimes he asks the questions and sometimes his students do.

"In sudden infant death syndrome, the brain forgets to breath. What should you do if that happens?" asks Mackson.

"Wake them up," answers a student correctly.

Mackson later describes how cases have been known where a child's heart beats 300 times per minute and the heartbeats can be seen through the child's T-shirt.

"Wooooah!" exclaims one student.

Those Wooooahs are music to the ears of any teacher.

"What's the affect of alcohol on blood cells?" asks junior Heather Steinhelper.

"Dehydration. That's why people wake up in the morning thirsty," answers Mackson. "And alcohol kills brain cells and liver cells. We already have all the brain cells we will ever get. The average brain has 100 billion cells."

"How many do you need?" asks a student.

"You need them all. If you lost them in the wrong place, you could lose your motor skills, for example," answers Mackson, who then incorporates his teacher acting skills to get the left side of his face to look as if he had just suffered a stroke.

Mackson not only has to perform a few dramatics, he also has to be as quick with his humor as a stand-up comedian.

"What happens if I take a step like this," said Mackson, slowly taking a step to make a point about how the brain talks to the body.

"That's what my grandpa does," observes a student.

"You making fun of your grandpa?" asks Mackson.

"No, I'm telling you the truth," answers the student, with a smile.

> "Kids are more open today than they were even 10 years ago. They'll ask anything at anytime."
> Bill Mackson

Mackson is a firm believer of there is no such thing as a stupid question. He makes sure that his students know he may be laughing at the subject matter matter but never at his students.

Steinhelper asks, "When you sneeze real hard and hold it all in, can you lose brain cells?"

"No," answers Mackson, who thin grins. "I'm not laughting at you, Heather. I'm laughing at those things out there that are fabricated."

Mackson and his students know the thin line between humor for the sake of learning and humor for the sake of humor.

"Do you have a point to make, Max?" asks a more serious Mackson, as a comment by Max Westphal teeters close to that fine line.

Interspersed with the questions and answers, Mackson uses the teacher catchphrases which help keep the students on task. "Everybody look at me," "Shhhhh!" "Don't you guys forget, if I'm going too fast, stop me."

At the end of the class, Mackson reminds students about a future essay test.

When the last student files out of class, Mackson is ready to answer questions about teaching as enthusiastically as he did about nerve impulses.

Mackson, a 1957 Clarkston High School graduate, didn't always teach five sections of human anatomy a day (Ed York also teaches two additional sections). The number of classes increased over the years because of their popularity, a popularity with both the college and non-college-bound students.

"It's something all kids can identify with," said Mackson about the course's subject matter. "I hope they get a greater appreciation of the machine we know as the human body and learn more about how it works."

Mackson, whose class is about 60 percent lecture-class discussion and 40 percent lab, has a simple philosophy about the abundance of questions and answers in his class.

"If the question is important enough to be asked, then it is important enough to be answered," said the teacher.

His philosophy about classroom discipline is also simple.

"I tell my students I have one rule in class. I treat you the way you treat me," said Mackson, who also makes sure his students know, "I am available any time they want help."

The teacher said he is well aware of how society has changed over the past 30 years and how it has affected the students.

"Teen-agers today have more problems, more decisions. In a class of 28 kids, 14 probably come from divorced homes, 14 will be going through major crisises in their lives," said Mackson.

He notes another change.

"Kids are more open today than they were even 10 years ago. They'll ask anything at anytime," said Mackson.

Mackson is aware of the today's criticisms of the educational system, but he said his students are learning of materials at "a higher level" today than 30 years ago.

"There's hardly a comparison," said Mackson, pointing out the dramatic changes of new medical discoveries over the years. "The subject matter is more complex. So my expectations have increased. I've found out if you expect more, you get more."

Mackson said he relies much on magazine and newspaper articles to keep up with the almost day-to-day medical findings about the human body.

"If you don't keep up, the kids will pass you by," said Mackson.

Mackson, who also has a snow-plowing business during the winter and does carpentry in the summer, said he never had any ambitions to become a school administrator.

He never wants to be away from the times the whole class is clicking. The buzz of learning.

"It's awesome. It happens a lot," said Mackson. "That's why I'm still a classroom teacher. I never had a desire to do anything else. It's too much of a kick."

Board OK's condo development, angers residents

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Grumbles from the audience met the Independence Township Board's decision to approve a controversial condominium development on Maybee Road.

Shirking the recommendations of its planning commission and several residents, the boarfd agreed to give the housing project another chance.

On Nov. 19, the township board granted conceptual approval to the rezoning of a 33-acre parcel near the intersection of Maybee Road and Dixie Highway from single family residential (R1A) to a planned unit development (PUD). It also voted to send the project back to the planning commission, which has denied it twice, for further negotiations.

The board voted 5-2 in favor of these motions, with trustees Mel Vaara and Daniel Travis casting no votes. Voting yes were Supervisor Frank Ronk, Clerk Joan McCrary, Treasurer John Lutz and trustees Jean Saile and Bruce Mercado.

The petitioners, headed by the Wineman and Komer Building Co. in Southfield, are seeking to develop the property into a 93-unit condominium project, dubbed the "Pines of Clarkston." In early April, the petitioners tried to sell the the planning commission on a 105-unit project and were unanimously shunned.

On July 25, they came back to the commission with another plan, which would trim the $150,000 units by 12. Again, they were turned away 5-1. However, the township board's recent decision has given this PUD proposal new life.

A PUD is the rezoning of a parcel of land in accordance with a specific site plan. It allows different uses on one site and requires approvals from planning commission and township board.

At the Nov. 19 meeting, Bob Layton, an environmentalist for the project, told the board that this type of cluster housing was the only way to properly develop the land. He said a subdivision under the present R1A zoning would only result in 53 lots and the removal of several trees.

He also stated that there would be less traffic generation from the Pines of Clarkston than from a subdivision, due to the lifestyles of the condominiums' inhabitants.

"Odds are, this type of development will have less negative impact on the community than any single-family development in the township," Layton said.

Through statistical data, Layton also surmised that the condo project would produce only 15 school-age children, compared to 59 from a 53-lot subdivision. He said this would benefit the school district by providing more tax money and fewer students.

Township planning consultant Richard Carlisle told the board that he favored of the project, even though the planning commission didn't. He said this project represented the only way the land could be properly and effectively developed.

"Odds are, this type of development will have less negative impact on the community than any single-family development in the township."

Environmentalist Bob Layton

"Part of the beauty of living in Clarkston is not having a strip mall or a condo development on each corner."

Sally Seaman

However, several residents in attendance made it clear that they didn't agree with the project.

"Part of the beauty of living in Clarkston is not having a strip mall or a condo development on each corner," said Sally Seaman of Kingfisher Lane. "The traffic on Maybee Road is unbearable, and I find it very said that we have to consider any developmental options. It's sad to have to find a reason to put something on a piece of land as beautiful as this one."

Maybee Road resident Sherril Bailey agreed. She's one of three homes on the fringe of this property, and she doesn't want to see a condo development in her back yard, she said.

Bailey said that the land is unbuildable and that there are too many vacant condominium developments already in the township. She also fears that the development would lower her property's value.

While many of the trustees praised the project, Travis and Vaara vehemently sided with the residents. Vaara said he didn't want to see Maybee Road's zoning changed in any way.

"For the past 20 years, this land has been zoned R1A. Anyone buying it should have been aware of the zoning," Vaara said. "This request doesn't follow our master plan, and I want it to remain R1A."

Supervisor Ronk asked Gerald Fisher, township attorney, what options the board had on this request.

Fisher said that because it had been turned down twice by the planning commission, the board could do one of four things. They included: granting conceptual zoning approval and returning it to the commission, denying the proposal and killing it altogether, sending it back to the commission for additional changes or tabling the item.

Vaara immediately motioned to deny the project, but it was defeated 2-5, with Travis casting the other supportive vote.

Shortly after, the board voted in favor of conceptual approval, with the request being sent back to the planning commission for negotiations. The vote was met with groans and murmurs of frustration from the audience.

Ronk tried to reassure the crowd by telling them approval was granted so the board could investigate all sides further.

"We want the people to know that they haven't been sold out," Ronk said. "We only want more information from the petitioners and you, the public, before a final decision is made."

"We want the people to know that they haven't been sold out."

Supervisor Frank Ronk

You can make life for mail carriers easier

BY DENNIS V. CARTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Many people may look forward to the snow that is sure to come, but for mail carriers, it can pose hazards when making deliveries.

According Clarkston Postmaster Mickey Gonzalez, it is important that people realize the danger that snow poses for mail carriers.

Two areas, in particular, are hazardous.

"One is sidewalks and porches, and the other is the area around the mailbox for curb deliveries," Gonzalez said.

He said that postal customers should clean off their sidewalks and porches. Also, those who receive their mail by curb delivery should clear the access path to and from the mailbox.

"It is generally believed that the mail carriers must deliver the mail, regardless, on a daily basis," said Gonzalez. "But mail carriers are not required to do anything that will be hazardous to health or safety."

According to Gonzalez, residents shouldn't use newspaper delivery as a criteria judge how well they have cleared a way for mail carrier by if the paperperson can make a delivery or if the trash gets picked up.

"Safety of employees comes first," he said. "We ask no more for the post office, than they would for their own safety and welfare. If a mail carrier can't get to box, and tries to climb over a mountain of snow, falls and breaks a leg, then they are out of work for several weeks. Those kinds of situation don't benefit anyone.

Other hazard which the mail carriers face each day and year round are animals.

"At all times, animals owned by the residents should be restrained," he said. "A mail carrier is not required to deliver at a residence where an animal is running free. We often hear people say their dog won't bite. Any dog with teeth can bite, and we are going to put our carriers in a position to be bitten.

According to Gonzalez, mail delivery should be much smoother this year because a lot of bulk mail will not sent out until after Christmas.

"We pretty much have the holiday delivering down to science," he said. "This year, most of the major bulk mail won't be sent after Christmas."

Gonzalez said that it is the resident's responsibility to provide a safe area for mail carriers to deliver at.

"It's just like anything else," he said. "Homeowners are responsible for accidents which occurs on their property. We just want our carriers to be safe."

Holiday party planned

Children ages 3-8 have a chance at early holiday fun coming up.

A special free party offered by the Independence Township Library is planned for 2-3:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 7, at the Church of the Resurrection, across from the library on Clarkston Road.

Each child will receive a gift and refreshments, and Music Lady Rita Kirsch will entertain with songs and stories. Plus, children may have their photo taken with Santa for $1.

While tickets are free, they must be picked up in advance from the library. Due to space and safety limitations, tickets go fast.

The party is offered free with the help from the Clarkston Area Optimists, Clarkston Jaycees, Clarkston Rotary Club and Friends of the Library.

Poinsettias produce holiday cheer

The Clarkston Community Women's Club poinsettia sale is in full swing.

For the third year, the club is selling the plants to raise money for various charitable organizations in the Clarkston area. For instance, last year, the club gave a $500 scholarship with the proceeds from the sale.

The plants come in red, white or pink and cost $10 for a 6-inch pot, $15 for a 6 1/2-inch pot, and $20 for a 7-inch pot (with 18-24 blooms).

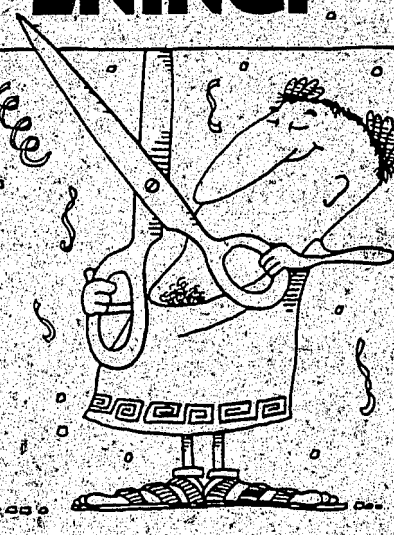

To purchase one or more plants, contact any club member, or call Diana Gahrs (625-3769) or Barbara Richards (625-3177). The club will even deliver the plants to your home or office on Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 7 and 8.

Appreciation day

Julie Campe

Thanksgiving serves as a reminder to reflect on those things for which we are grateful.

I was happy to find that my list is long, even though times are kind of bleak.

I am thankful for ...

... Independence Oaks County Park. I love the wooded trails and the entire design of the park in general. For solitude, head to the woods. For companionship, sign up for one of the many nature-related programs. For recreation, rent a rowboat or canoe or paddleboat, or play sand volleyball or softball, or swim, or run, or have a picnic or ... The possibilities are endless.

... Warm sweaters. With Michigan's winters the way they are, my appreciation grows daily for heat-insulating sweaters.

... Raspberries. I love the Clarkston Cafe's raspberry pie and Linda Walsh's raspberry-white chocolate mousse and Andrew the Horrible's raspberry jam (which isn't horrible at all).

... The Clarkston News staff. Curt McAllister, for his helpful style, his "let's dig in" attitude, and his willingness to offer a hand with anything; Dennis V. Carter, for his efficiency, punctuality and ability to get things done; James Gibowski, for his humor, his intellect and his consideration for others; and the entire staff on the first floor for putting up with us on tense deadline days.

... Clarkston-area people. They keep us supplied with ideas for photo opportunities and for stories on interesting people and on issues of concern. (We sure couldn't do it without them. In fact, we can't even keep up with all of their ideas -- but we'll get to them one of these days.)

... Tillie Olsen. For writing such moving stories that offer insight and enjoyment with each reading.

... My wrist watch. I notice it now that the battery has died and I can't tell if I'm late or early for an interview.

... Photographs by Eudora Welty. Though my husband, The Thinker, is the official owner of the book, I love to look through photos. They capture the faces of people from all walks of life, mainly poorer walks of life. They're close to journalistic style at times, but they're not harsh. Nor do they glorify. They simply offer a glimpse into times past and make a person curious about the subject of the photo.

... Newsweek. Even though my issue more often than not arrives 2-3 days late, I still enjoy the reporting and interpreting in the weekly news magazine.

... Oreo cookies. No comment necessary. (But they're great when eaten with ice cream or dunked in milk!)

... Pizza. I like the oily, garlicky, heavy-on-the-cheese type, loaded with vegetables.

... Pasta. OK, we're supposed to be watching our fat intake nowadays. Pasta is filling and can be low in fat and still taste great. Those Italians -- what an invention!

... My family. My husband, especially at this time of year when he makes every day a holiday (sorry, didn't mean to gush); my mother, who has moved to the warmer wonderland of Florida but who has left a legacy of laughter; my father, who spends half the year in warmer climes but who still inspires us with his willingness to learn and to work hard; and my brothers and sisters, who provide a sort of support group with whom to discuss the latest escapades of my mother or Andrew the Horrible (yes, he, too, likes to discuss himself).

Comparing 'tax cut' plans

Two "tax-cut" proposals are being touted in Michigan. One is from the Democrats, the other from the GOP.

We put "tax cut" in quotes to be cynical. In the past taxes have been raised in the name of tax cut-proposals.

The Dem plan would decrease property taxes, but not the cost of government. It would mean a decrease in taxes of $750,000.

To keep spending up, a portion of the Single Business Tax law, that part allowing for a capital acquisition exemption, would be taken away from small businesses.

Since businesses have to make money to stay in business, they would have to increase prices to pay for the losses imposed by the Dem bill.

And as usual, business customers, most of us, will pay more for the product, thus we will have no decrease in taxes.

The Republican bill would decrease property tax where it applies to schools, about 20 percent of your SEV.

Again, that amounts to $750,000.

The GOP would continue to give schools the three-quarter million, paying for it through growth of government.

Gov Engler expects the state to grow (tax income) four or five percent a year. He would keep government the same size and give the added revenue to schools.

We all know much is going to be written and said about these two plans before they go on the ballot.

It appears to us the Dem plan "tax cut" will come circuitously from taxpayers.

It appears the GOP plan hopes for growth. If we were not in a recession, growth of more than five percent could be expected.

Maybe by voting day, if the proposals make the ballot, both plans will look good. Right now, however, we'll go for the "hope for growth" plan. JAS

Jim's Jottings

Elizabeth's always in camp

Jim Sherman

Excuse me while I write a personal letter.

Dear Irene,

Past experience with chili "made-from-Irene's" recipe has proven to be most pleasant. Thusly, when Elizabeth offered to make "your" chili for this year's deer camp, cook-out lunches, we were enthusiastic in expressing encouragment.

Perhaps I wasn't sufficiently cognizant of all your chili's ingredients at previous lunches. Perhaps the thrill of the hunt made me less aware of what I was eating.

Perhaps Pansy in heating and stirring the chili was too hungry, too hasty, too oblivious to notice everything that was in the pot. Perhaps he forgot who he was married to.

What I'm getting at, Irene, is if you are called upon again to share your recipe for chili, as you did with Elizabeth, may I suggest you leave off the topping . . . the piece de resistance . . . the large, black, ugly, wiggly, White Eyed, Tentacle legged, Plastic, T-A-R-A-N-T-U-L-A!

Your friend, Jim

That's right, folks. Elizabeth Baldwin, wife of my hunting, fishing, golfing partner, Pansy, put this scary thing on top of her gallon of chili. We can be thankful we didn't decide to have it for a late-night snack. That could have really been scary.

Of course, Elizabeth didn't stop there. She never stops at one trick. She also put a 15-inch wiggly, plastic snake in the leg of her husband's long johns.

Obviously, Elizabeth is concerned that her husband might forget her in the few days he's out of her reach or the sound of her voice.

This is not the first time Pansy's wife has tweeked his memory with planted items. The previous two years she has sewn Jube Jels into the pockets of his hunting pants and elsewhere in his clothing in some very unlikely (uncomfortable) places.

Elizabeth has also tampered with his beverages. She has drained the ingredients from his Canadian Club bottle and replaced it with pebbles one time and peas another.

One year she just removed it from his luggage. Let me tell you, Pansy was one violent man over that one . . . but he was 330 miles from reach and voice.

There was a series of years when Elizabeth would sneak a picture of herself into his duffle bag. One year the picture even made it to the dresser. I think that one was a picture of her as a little girl, coming from an outhouse pulling up her drawers.

Elizabeth is not forgotten in camp. She's not exactly revered either. Why in the world would she think a deer camp needs parsley garnish? Did she think kraut juice she sent this year was an aphrodisiac for bucks?

And, we're regular guys, we don't need prunes with every meal.

Goodfellows to sell newspapers again

The Holiday season is upon us again.

As in the past, the Independence Township Fire Department will work in conjunction with the Clarkston Rotary Club in the sale of Goodfellow Papers on Friday and Saturday, Dec. 6-7, from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day.

This is the 51st year for the Goodfellows' Paper Sale, with the proceeds used to purchase shoes, warm clothing and food for residents of our community who have a need due to some unfortunate circumstance.

Referrals for those in need are given to area churches, schools, fire department or any other community group.

The Goodfellows will be out in force at many locations.

Thank you in advance for your support of this worthwhile project.

Have a safe and happy holiday season.

The Goodfellows

Pride of CHS

Recently, the Clarkston High School Marching Band placed second in the state marching band finals.

All year, the band scratched and clawed to win, having lost a fourth of the 1990 band to graduation. This year, more than half the band were freshmen and sophomores, semi-experienced musicians with little or no marching experience.

But all of them had one quality: the desire to win, the hunger to avenge the injustice done to the band the last two seasons.

The entire band had an insurmountable task before them. Yet through hard work, dedication and practice day in and day out, they fought their way to the state finals. Their season culminated with them finishing second to Lakeland.

I was at the state finals to witness Lakeland's victory, yet it was not the win that impressed me most. I had been keeping tabs on the CHS band all year (having been a former member), and one thought stuck in my mind.

All year it seemed as though the band was riding on the coattails of last year's band, believing that they were destined to be in the finals, and they would improve simply because they did last year.

I came to realize just how wrong I was when Kristi Bailey, a senior trumpet player, said three simple words after the announcement of Lakeland's victory: "There's no way ..."

I realized then what I failed to see all year. It was I who was passive and unsure of Clarkston's chances. All year, they had worked harder than any band, and they knew it. They knew in their hearts that they had played the best that they could through those adverse conditions, and it hurt them to lose.

I would like to say congratulations to the 1991 CHS Marching Band. This year's band is truly worthy of praise.

I would also like to say how appalled I am over the lack of support and coverage of the band by the local newspapers and by the high school itself. Every year, an entire section is dedicated to sports in the Clarkston area. Whether the teams do good or bad, fans come out to see them and the newspapers report them.

But when a team (the band), places second in the state, what do they receive? A second section, Page 5 article and one letter from a member's parents. It is disgusting to think that an entire front page is dedicated to a certain athlete who has decided to attend a certain college.

Some would argue that the band doesn't work as hard as sports teams. I would just like to see any one of those people carry around a set of quads. or a bass drum for three hours a night.

Others may say that less talent and skill is needed to join the band. Again, I address these people by asking if they could play any instrument while marching and at the same time marching in the correct formations.

As for competitiveness, the band faces nearly twice as many opponents during its season and comes out the victor nearly 90 percent of the time.

At every home football game you can see them sitting at the far end of the stands, acting in a manner that some would call obnoxious yet doing what they're supposed to do. At every opportunity, they play the fight song, "Go Blue," and many other songs to lift the spirits of the fans, as well as the players.

At pep assemblies, they are there with the same enthusiasm, pumping up the student body, without fanfare or bragging. They have a job to do, and they finish that job better than anyone.

Throughout all the lack of support and recognition, they have a pride that is unmatched in Clarkston. You can see that pride in many places, such as the eyes of a baton twirler or cymbal player as she learns of the disappointing loss. You can feel the emotion through the entire band. Some get angry and defensive; others bow their heads in sorrow.

I have but one thing to say to them: Hold your heads high -- you are truly the pride of Clarkston.

Successful school Science Day

We would like to express our thanks to all the parents, PTO staff and parent volunteers who helped to make Pine Knob's Science Day on Nov. 20 a great success.

Special thanks to Linda Reabe, Sue Medonis, Phyllis Ness and Marilyn Bidinger for all the time and effort they put forth to make this day a memorable one for the kids.

A final note of thanks to Mr. George White for his constant concern for what's best for kids during his years at Pine Knob. We'll miss him!

Penance loses privacy when it's on front page

Jim Fitzgerald

When I sat down to breakfast, I was wearing a dull white shirt and plain tie so no one would pay any attention to me. My wife said: "You forgot to put your pants on."

Tom Monaghan and I have similar problems. He told a Detroit News reporter he wore a white shirt and plain tie to draw less attention to himself. And she reported his shyness on Sunday's front page, along with his photo. Monaghan also said he avoids sin by not allowing himself to be alone with a woman behind closed doors, except for his wife, daughters and female doctors. And that bashful news also was reported in the interview, which carried over onto Monday's front page.

For a guy trying to escape attention, front-page Monaghan might as well have forgotten to wear pants.

No matter how hard Monaghan tries to hide his light under a glass basket, most people pay attention to him because he's the billionaire owner of Domino's Pizza and the Detroit Tigers. Not me. Monaghan attracts my attention because he and his wife have much in common with me and my wife. When the Monaghans married about 30 years ago, he was a Catholic and she was a Protestant. It was the same for the Fitzgeralds, about 36 years ago.

"I never would have married her if I had known she wasn't going to convert" to Catholicism, Monaghan told the reporter while attempting to avoid attention. And Monaghan added that when he was younger, he "couldn't make any sense out of the Protestant religions. It seemed like every single one of them had a pretty flimsy foundation, and they still do."

My wife also didn't convert. I asked her if she'd be angry if I told the world I wouldn't have married her if I'd known she was going to stick to her flimsy Protestant faith. She didn't pay any attention to me because I'd put my pants on.

But then she noticed the blood dripping from my chin where I'd cut myself shaving, while attempting to remain unnoticed. Monaghan told the reporter he says the rosary while shaving. Actually, he says his fingers. For the benefit of flimsy non-Catholics, it perhaps should be explained that a rosary is a string of beads that Catholics use to keep track of the 50-plus prayers required to "say the rosary." But Monaghan said he keeps track on his fingers while also wielding a razor. He also said he gives free rosaries to people with Irish and Polish names. I don't know what he gives to people with non-Catholic names. Perhaps a finger.

Anyway, seeking to emulate holy Monaghan, I tried saying my fingers while shaving and ran out of fingers before blood.

To make up for my holy failure, all I can say is if I'm ever alone in a motel room with a woman other than my wife and daughters, I swear to God she will be wearing nothing except a stethoscope.

Monaghan confessed an ardent fondness for Debbie Reynolds. He said he and his wife, Margie, had lunch with Reynolds and her third husband, and when the conversation got around to Reynolds' celebrated divorce from Eddie Fisher, Monaghan told her: "Well, I tell you one thing - you could have had me on a silver platter.

"I said that right in front of my wife," Monaghan told the reporter.

There was no luncheon report on who threw up first, Margie or Debbie.

But seriously, here's the heaviest statement publicity-shy Monaghan made in his two-day interview:

"I've been criticized because I don't give money to charities like hospitals and cancer research and things like that. But what have I accomplished if someone lives three more years? To me, I figure it just gives him three more years to sin. I'm more interested in his soul. That's for eternity."

Of course. Tear down all hospitals; stop all research into the causes of diseases. Shoot all doctors and healthy people. Do this, there will be no more sin on Earth.

Bless you, Tom Monaghan. As I've said before, you are a great encouragement to poor dumb people who worry that a person has to be smart to become wealthy.

More letters

More dialogue

This is beginning to feel like the Carlson/ Emick debate, and we are very uncomfortable with that. However, there is another point of information that must be made to inform the community.

Thank you for your answers to the question we posed in our letter. As you implied, "dialogue" is very important and necessary for this community to solve its school dilemma.

The statistics you obtained from Brent Cooley regarding class size were informative. More useful might be a chart showing the class sizes in regards to the subjects being taught. We still maintain that most of the small classes (24 students and less) are geared to students with special needs -- i.e. learning disabilities, advanced placement, etc.

You said that the time of your visit was 1:30 in the afternoon. This is during the sixth hour of the day. By the second semester of the senior year, most seniors have more than the necessary credit hours required for graduation.

They then the opportunity to apply for early dismissal. In simple terms, they may leave school at about 1:20 p.m. Perhaps this is the reason why it is not unusual to schedule 11 empty classrooms during the last hour of the high school day.

How could you possibly fill up all the classrooms if 25 percent of the student body is legitimately excused from the building?

We still maintain that the building is not empty the other five hours of the school day, and through your own admission, you did not see the school during those times. Perhaps another visit would be wise between 7:30 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Education not rewarded locally

After reading your article in The Clarkston News on the Junior Miss, I decided to watch this program on the Clarkston Cable station.

I was upset that my hard-earned dollars went to beauty contest. We read in the papers and see on the news daily how our government supports education.

Locally we don't. Four out of five top winners danced their way to thousands of dollars. These four are cheerleaders or pom pon girls; they should be good dancers. Are they in the National Honor Society or leadership programs? Were the judges into modeling or education?

A young lady earning 30 percent in a good judges' interview gets $100. Another young lady winning the top talent award and scholastic achievement award earns 40 percent and $300.

This seems off balance; dancing was the top award.

I learned too late that my cheerleading skills would not carry me past high school. Thanks to a supportive family I succeeded, but the road was rough.

As a community, let's back the professionals and support leaders and academics.

40,000 moved

Hats off to the wonderful volunteers who helped us move the entire library collection of more than 40,000 books, magazines, records, videos, files and more!

On Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 12-13, about 30 volunteers -- men and women, teen-agers and senior citizens -- worked tirelessly loading and unloading books, assembling shelves, moving furniture and pitching in on all the dirty work involved in a major move.

We couldn't have done it without you!

We also appreciate the good nature of our library patrons who have been enduring various inconveniences during the construction process.

Change is a daily event now as the "old library" is renovated, and new furnishings and equipment continue to arrive.

We're not done yet, but we're on the way. Renovation of the "old library" should be completed by the first of the year.

To all the community, when you come down Clarkston Road, turn in at the new driveway entrance, come around back and enter your new library. We're looking forward to seeing you.

Suggestions on crutches and clothes

If you or a friend or family member has the misfortune to be on crutches this winter, a few clothing suggestions may help make life a little more comfortable.

These hints are being provided courtesy of the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service of Oakland County. They include the following.

- Underarm seams can be temporarily lined with cotton flannel to cushion the area and prevent stress on the fabric.
- Choosing textured or bulky knit sweaters, shirts or tops, may help prevent crutches from slipping.
- Action pleats in the back or shoulders of a jacket will increase freedom of movement of your arms.
- For women, two-piece outfits with long tops over pants or skirts will provide more comfort and ease of movement than a one-piece dress.

Know anyone who's an oustanding volunteer? Give us a call at The Clarkston News at 625-3370. We'd like to profile him or her in "Friendly Faces."

New IGA poised to open doors in mid-December

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

A new combatant has entered Clarkston's "grocery store war."

IGA has thrown its hat in the ring with a revamped, 30,000-square-foot store, scheduled to open sometime before Christmas. This new store will be located in the same building that once housed the Food Town grocery store on Sashabaw Road at Maybee Road, Independence Township. Food Town has moved to a new store on Sashabaw Road at Waldon Road.

The Clarkston facility will be the third link in this IGA's chain of stores in Oakland County. Two other stores presently operate in Pontiac and Bloomfield Hills.

Jerry Yurgo, a co-owner in the IGA chain, said he chose Clarkston as a site because of the area's growth potential and the existence of a vacant grocery store. He added that his store should be able to compete in this market, despite being surrounded by several voluminous, high-tech. supermarkets.

"Because of our size, we'll be a little more service oriented than the area's larger grocery stores," he said. "We have many of the items you'll find at a full-fledged supermarket, but it's our friendliness and home-town appeal that will bring customers back."

And that home-town flavor should be apparent as soon as patrons enter the new IGA because Yurgo said a majority of the store's employees will be from the Clarkston area.

"Besides some key personnel, most of our 75 employees will be from the Clarkston area," he said. "We've already received applications from about 50 high school students, and we'll probably hire about 20 of them."

Upon completion, the new store will offer a bevy of departments such as: a bakery, a floral area, a meat counter, a fresh seafood area and a salad bar.

When asked what goals he's set for the store in its inaugural year, Yurgo was blunt and to the point.

"We want to get it open and keep it open," the co-owner said, smiling.

AS this sign indicates, a new IGA grocery store is coming to the corner of Sashabaw and Maybee roads, Independence Township.

RENOVATIONS are occurring at a fast and furious rate as workers try to open the new IGA store before Christmas. This 30,000-square-foot building was the previous home of Food Town. (Photos by Curt McAllister)

Planners nix Sashabaw rezoning

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

The Independence Township Planning Commission has nixed a rezoning request that could pave the way for another service station near I-75 and Sashabaw Road.

On Nov. 14, the commissioners voted 6-0 to deniy a request to rezone a small parcel just north of Sashabaw Road's public car pool parking area. The request includes rezoning the property from freeway service (C-4) to motor vehicle service station (MS). Daniel Travis was absent from the meeting.

The applicant, Auto City Service, Inc., asked to rezone only the front 62,500-square-feet of the parcel, even though company officials intended to buy all four acres.

Steve Marino, attorney for Auto City Service, told the commission that a new service station, under the MS zoning, would have less impact on the roads than any of the acceptable uses under the present zoning. The uses under a C-4 district include: motels, restaurants, and convenience markets.

Marino said traffic studies show that a service station would generate just half the total traffic congestion caused by that of a convenience store.

Township planning consultant Richard Carlisle told the commission that he didn't favor the request because there isn't sufficient existing infrastructure to accommodate another gas station in the area. He was also against rezoning such a small parcel, especially when the petitioner only intended to use half of it.

The planning commission echoed Carlisle's sentiments as it rendered its recommendation against the rezoning request. Auto City's request will now go before the township board, which has final say in all rezonings.

Scouts contributed

Cub Scouts asked, and community members gave, according to Jack McKenzie, Webelo assistant den leader of Den 8.

In all, 79 Cub Scouts collected 2,126 cans of food two weekends ago and donated all of them to Lighthouse North, which filled about 400 Thanksgiving baskets with them.

"It was great for the boys," said McKenzie, about the scout project. "They had community interaction. ... And the community participated. We were just the collection agency. It was them that made it a success."

The program for Cub Scout Pack 341 at Bailey Lake Elementary School was part of the Boy Scouts' national "Good Turn" project, said McKenzie.

The boys went door-to-door, asking for canned goods. Some stood outside grocery stores and asked for contributions.

"A lot of the parents participated, too," said McKenzie.

Lighthouse North, on Maybee Road, Independence Township, is a non-profit organization that helps the needy in north Oakland County with food, clothing and emergency money.

Small fire evacuates Clarkston Junior High

A small dust fire forced authorities at Clarkston Junior High to evacuate the school for 1 1/2 hours Tuesday, Nov. 19.

According to Steve Lenar, the district's director of business services, the fire apparently started from a disgarded cigarette tossed into a circa 1930 blower, igniting dust in the air-handling unit. Lenar said the fire was discovered about 8:30 a.m., after smoke was seen sifting from school vents.

The Independence Township Fire Department was called to the scene, even though a custodian reportedly extinguished the blaze soon after it was spotted. No one was injured in the incident.

Lenar said school authorities presently have no idea who started the fire but an investigation is pending.

Open house benefits tots

Area residents are in luck. They have a chance to take a look at the offerings of an area real estate company and help out youngsters at the same time.

A special open house is planned for 5-9 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 12, at Coldwall-Banker The Michael Group, 8062 Ortonville Road, Independence Township.

Everyone is welcome -- with one condition -- they must bring an unwrapped gift for a boy or a girl as admission. The toys may be dropped off in advance.

The toys will end up in the hands of needy children through the U.S. Marines' Toys for Tots program.

For more information, call Lynn Kacy, Judy Bossolono, Carol Brent, Jan Sutton or Lorna Martin at 625-1333.

After 30 years in the real estate business, Beverly "Bev" Franco recently reopened the Arch Real Estate, Inc., business in her home at 6365 Pine Knob Road, Independence Township.

Bev has worked for several real estate companies in the area over the last 30 years and now has two part-time salespeople working for her.

"I'm not the type to sit at home and watch TV. I need to stay active," she said. "This job helps me keep active at my own pace."

Bev handles all types of real estate through Arch from commercial to residential.

"We do it all," she said. "I've been at this for a long time and feel I can help just about anyone."

Service station owner buys fire station No. 1

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Local businessman John Morgan has received conditional approval to purchase fire station No. 1.

But he must first convince the Village of Clarkston's Zoning Board of Appeals of his intentions before it officially changes hands.

On Nov. 19, the Independence Township Board unanimously agreed to sell the Church Street fire station to Morgan, who owns an automobile service station next door on Main Street. Morgan's bid of $150,500 was selected over one submitted by Clarkston resident Clarence Catallo for $125,000.

Morgan's purchase won't be official, however, until he receives land use approval from Clarkston's zoning board of appeals. He intends to eventually convert the fire station into an extension of his existing auto service.

The township has given him 60 days to secure ZBA approval, or the agreement is nullified. At that time, the property will seek additional bids from the public.

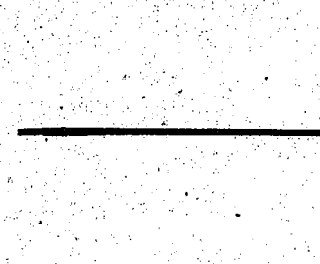

On Nov. 14, Morgan went before the village's ZBA and inquired on how to go about getting land use approval for his enterprise. The ZBA told Morgan that he must go before the village's planning commission and provide them with his proposal and, they in turn, would render a recommendation back to the ZBA.

Morgan is scheduled to present his proposal at the Dec. 2 planning commission meeting.

Regarding the new station, Independence township attorney Gerald Fisher said it could be about a week or two before the final contracts are signed, giving Independence ownership of the formal First Federal Bank building at the corner of M-15 and Dixie Highway. The building is presently under the control of the federal government.

Fisher didn't disclose any of the details of the final contract.

Township settles park lawsuit

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Independence Township is claiming victory in a lawsuit settlement involving a Thendara Park resident.

On Nov. 19, the board unanimously voted in favor of a consent judgment that will allow township resident Ruth Manning to build on her 10,800-square-foot lot at the corner of Thendara Park and Algonquin roads.

Manning decided to sue after her request to build a single family home on her property was denied twice by the township zoning board of appeals. Owning the land since the 1950s, Manning said she had the right to a variance because the land was considered "buildable" when she bought it nearly four decades ago.

At the Sept. 3 board meeting, several neighboring resident implored the township board to press forward with the lawsuit. They contended that the property is unbuildable because of the small lot size, which is made up of four parcels. They also said they didn't like the idea of a small residence sitting at the entrance of their development.

At this time, the board hinted that it was considering a consent judgment, much to the chagrin of the residents and members of the ZBA.

The approved consent judgment will give Independence Township architectural control over construction of the home and require Manning to pay her share of the assessment for road improvements made over the past year.

Township attorney Gerald Fisher said the settlement provides Independence with some advantages that it probably wouldn't have obtained in a judge's ruling.

"I feel we've done a service to the township and the neighboring residents because if we'd gone further in court, we probably wouldn't have gotten architectural control or money for road improvements," Fisher said.

Township buys chipper

In need of a brush chipper, the Independence Township Department of Public Works received one from the township board Nov. 19.

That evening, the board unanimously approved the purchase of a $13,738 unit with a $200 in-feed table. The Brush Bandit, Model 250, was selected over two other bidded models.

They included the Vermeer, Model 1250, for $17,417, and the Brush Bandit, Model 200, for $12,630.

George Anderson, director of the DPW, said the brush chipper will be used around the township when needed, especially during the area's spring cleanup.

Comments wanted on school bond issue

People interested in having some input on the upcoming elementary school bond issue are invited to attend a special meeting Monday, Dec. 2.

That evening, the Clarkston Board of Education will be discussing the details of the April 13 ballot issue. During this meeting, board members will be trying to determine what items of need should be covered under the proposal and the amount of the total cost package.

The school board will also be seeking suggestions from the public, so board members may weigh the options and consider all sides of the issues raised at the meeting.

This special meeting will be the first of several to be held prior to the spring election.

The meeting is set for 7-9 p.m. at the Clarkston board office, 6839 Clarkston Road, Independence Township. For more information, call the administrative offices at 625-4402.

Court doesn't halt proceedings

(COURT, from Page 1A)

O'Brien's decision of March 24 then prompted the board to push the matter to the Michigan Court of Appeals.

However, there is nearly a two-year wait until the Court of Appeals hears the case.

Considering this possibility, the township filed a stay of proceedings with Oakland County Circuit Court. Township officials said that if they win the appeals court decision, and if the village becomes a city, it would be costly and confusing to reverse the cityhood process that would have been in place for a year.

"We've done everything legally so far, so I expected the decision."

Village President Sharron Catallo

On Sept. 11, O'Brien refused to consider the injunction, stating that he'd made his decision in March, when he ruled in favor of the Boundary Commission. O'Brien suggested to township attorney Gerald Fisher that he take the stay to the Michigan Court of Appeals.

However, this latest denial by the three-judge panel has pushed the township back to square one. In conversations with the township board, Fisher said "they agreed that there'd be no further action on this particular injunction."

Fisher said the decision was a disappointment, but he still has faith in the initial appeal on the Court of Appeals' waiting list. In the meantime, he said he's been talking with village representatives about possibly pushing the initial appeal to the Court of Appeals as soon as possible.

Fisher is proposing to cut out both sides' initial oral arguments so a final decision can be rendered before village residents vote on a proposed city charter in February.

If voters approve this charter, the village automatically attains cityhood status.

Village President Sharron Catallo said she anticipated the Court of Appeals' decision and was pleased that the village's run for cityhood wasn't stymied.

"I still don't see anything wrong with our actions," she said. "We've done everything legally so far, so I expected the decision."

Correction

A Nov. 13 Clarkston News story about the fire department contract should have said that some Independence Township firefighters had amassed $12,000 in unused sick-leave time over the past 12 to 13 years.

CLARKSTON'S Stacey Tinkis battles Kristen McCormick of Lapeer East for a rebound, during the second round of district play Nov. 20. The Wolves lost 57-43 to the host Eagles and ended their season with a mark of 15-6. (Photos by Curt McAllister)

Wolves turn over for Eagles in districts

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The wait continues.

The Clarkston varsity girls' basketball team, which hasn't won a district championship since 1975, couldn't overtake a once-beaten Lapeer East squad Nov. 20 as the Eagles flew over the Wolves, 57-43, in Class A district action.

At one point, Clarkston only trailed by three points in the fourth quarter but the Eagles then turned it on and the Wolves turned it over.

"We hurt ourselves with too many turnovers," said Clarkston coach Larry Mahrle, whose team finished with a 15-6 record. The Wolves turned the ball over 33 times. Clarkston also missed a few layups.

Mahrle said it also hurt that his team was playing its first district game against a team that not only had already played one district game (the Eagles defeated Lapeer West while the Wolves had a bye) but was also playing on its home court.

But the coach also added, "They're (Lapeer East) very deserving of their record (21-1). They're the second best team we've faced, only a tad of a notch behind Rochester Adams."

Eagle 6-2 center Amanda Behrenbrinker hurt Clarkston by scoring 21 points, which included tossing in nine of 11 free throws.

"She was too big, getting second and third shots," said Mahrle, who also pointed out that "sometimes the ball would find her."

Behrenbrinker was the game's high scorer but Mahrle said the Eagle offense starts with gurard Kristen McCormick.

Clarkston sophomore Laura Seitz held McCormick to a lower-than average 12 points (two 3-pointers), but Mahrle said the Eagle guard hurt the Wolves in other ways besides scoring.

"She was the key the way she ran the floor," said Mahrle.

(A few days later, McCormick scored 21 points, including nailing five 3-pointers, as the Eagles easily topped Holly to win the district title).

Clarkston not only hurt itself with turnovers but also got burned with its season-long nemesis, free throws.

Clarkston sank seven of 19 (37 percent) while Lapeer East stepped to the line 36 times and made 20 (56 percent).

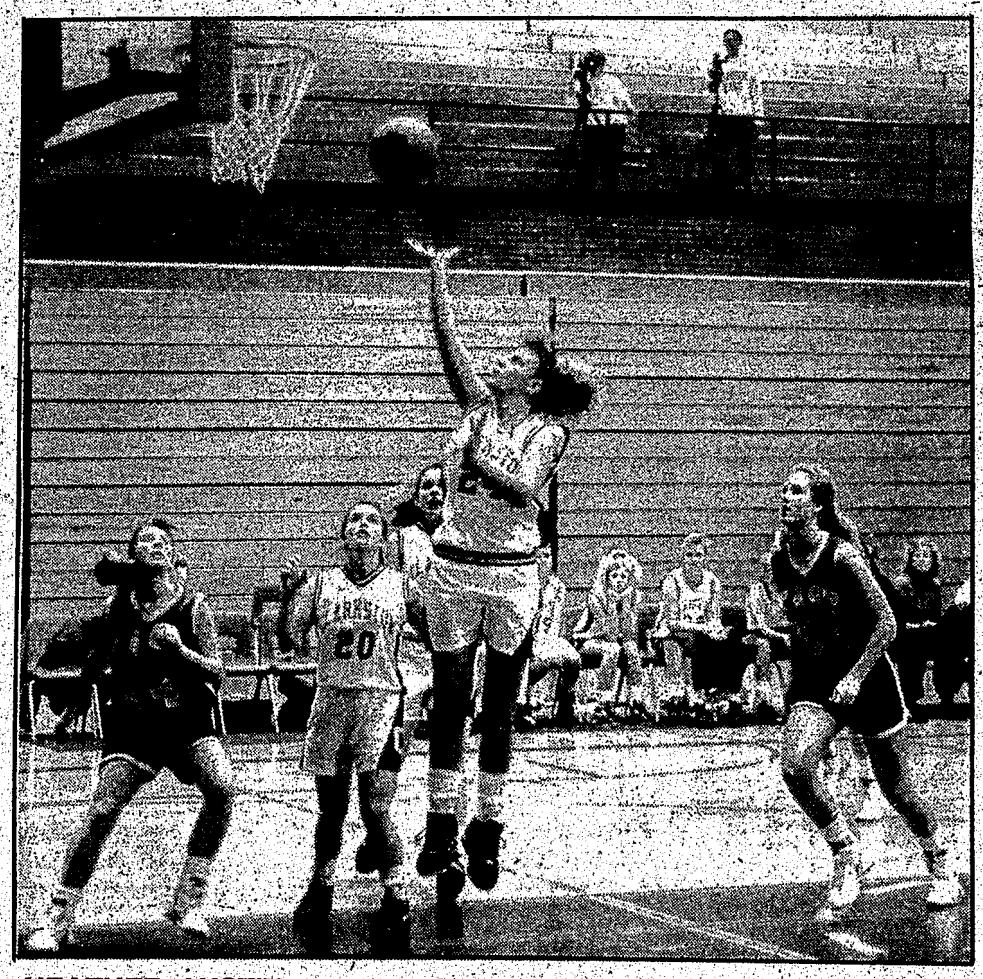

The Wolves (18 field goals) actually made more field goals than the Eagles (14 field goals and three 3-pointers).

Clarkston Heather Steinhelper was also hurt by the fouls, seeing limited playing action because of foul trouble. The junior forward only took one shot all night and fouled out with 7:53 left in the game.

Courtney Whittaker scored 17 and Alyson McChesney netted 16 to pace the Wolves. Heather Austin added eight and Laura Seitz and Stacey Tinkis each had one.

"It was a good season," said Mahrle. "We finished 15-6 with two returning starters and were second in the GOAL (Greater Oakland Activities League).

The Wolves will be losing only one starting senior to graduation, captain Stacey Tinkis.

HEATHER AUSTIN scores a fast break bucket in the second half against Lapeer East. The junior guard had eight points in Clarkston's season ending loss to the Eagles.

THE Sashabaw Junior High versus Clarkston Junior High seventh- and eighth-grade boys' basketball games were played before a packed audience Nov. 18 at the Wolverine gym.

THERE isn't much room to take the ball out-of-bounds at the Clarkston Junior High gym, but seventh grade Cougar Shane Reed manages to make a pass past Troy Armstrong. The Cougars edged the Wolverines, 37-35, in overtime.

Back in 1910, "caring" meant Pontiac residents raising $25,000 to build "Oakland County's First Hospital" in what was then a village of 5,000 people.

Five years later, caring meant the Oakland County Hospital Association donating the hospital to the thriving industrial center of Pontiac...and Oakland County Hospital became Pontiac City Hospital, which was changed to Pontiac General Hospital in 1931. Today, new communities all over Oakland County look to the same hospital for caring in the 1990's for services such as:

- Complete care for new mothers and babies, including family-centered birthing and northern Oakland County's leading intensive care unit for newborns.
- Satellite centers offering walk-in medical care and diagnostic services.
- Expanded programs in physical rehabilitation, county-wide psychiatric services and cardiac care.
- State-of-the-art laser and outpatient surgery.

With these new "caring" services and a patient base throughout Oakland County, our hospital has earned a new name.

This multi-faceted, contemporary cross represents the international symbol for compassionate, community-oriented health care.
The repeating lines, which comprise the cross, signify the diversified parts of the North Oakland Medical Center, a medical facility with many aspects, affiliates, divisions, services, and organizations all working together for the people of the North Oakland County area.

The joys of walking

GAIL Rudd (left) of Ortonville and Helen Blomberg of Springfield Township get some exercise while walking the halls of Clarkston High School. The two are just a few of the many Clarkston area people who walk the halls during after-school hours. Blomberg usually walks four to five times a week, walking about four miles in one hour. Rudd joins her Joy's Hair Studio co-worker once or twice a week. (Photo by James Gibowski)

Lions' wives will again help needy in food drive

Fans attending the Chicago Bears versus Detroit Lions football game Thanksgiving Day at the Pontiac Silverdome are asked to bring canned goods to the stadium gates prior to the game.

The Lions' Wives will collect the donations at the gates from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

The collection is part of the 13th annual "Operation Can Do," which is conducted by Elias Brothers Restaurants in association with WXYZ-TV and will benefit the Hunger Action Coalition. The coalition distributes the food to over 300 agencies to help needy families in Wayne, Macomb and Oakland Counties and the surrounding areas.

The Lions' Wives is a group of players' wives and friends who annually get involved with several community and charity activities. Co-chairpersons for the wives' efforts for Operation Can Do are Cestaine Glover (wife of Lions' center Kevin Glover) and Yvette Gray (wife of Lions' Pro Bowl receiver-return specialist Mel Gray).

Guns 'N' Poses

STEVE Upcott of Cecelia Ann in Independence Township bagged this deer about 8 a.m. Nov. 15 on a rainy day in Sanilac County. The deer, which is the sixth one Upcott has shot through the years, has 16 points and weighs 205 pounds dressed down. Its green score on the Boone and Crockett Scale is 180, close to the state record of 186.

Football picks will continue

Because of an earlier deadline for the Thanksgiving issue, the winner of the $50 Clarkston News Football Contest for games Nov. 23-24 will not be published until the next issue. Next issue will also include the contest winner of games Nov. 28-Dec. 1 along with featuring the season's final picks' contest (the college bowl games).

AGE NO BARRIER TO HOME LOAN

AGE IS NO BARRIER in getting a real estate loan. Other considerations are more important.

RELO WORLD LEADER IN RELOCATION

QUESTION: I am 65 years old, retired, have a large bank account and good equity in stocks and bonds. Would my age be a barrier to getting a home loan? To put it another way - when does a person become too old to obtain a mortgage?

ANSWER: With certain reservations - never! If the real estate equity is there and the ability to repay is established, what is the difference if a person is 30 or 70 years of age? Each case, however, must be judged on its own individual merits.

The economic age of the property, its resale value, and the borrower's ability to repay are far more important than age alone.

CHS pupils named to National Honor Society

An overflow crowd attended the induction of 66 students into Clarkston High School's National Honor Society (NHS) Nov. 21.

The ceremony for the Henry Ford Chapter of NHS was led by NHS President Sean Halleran, who was assisted by Treasurer Devin DuPree, Point Secretary Jason Gross, Vice President Renny Abraham, and Secretary Bryan Hambell.

Guest speaker L. Brooks Patterson, former Oakland County prosecuting attorney, congratulated the students on their accomplishments.

NHS is an honorary organization that recognizes students who have displayed outstanding accomplishment in scholarship, leadership, character and service.

Juniors and seniors who have a cumulative grade point average of 3.4 are invited in September to fill out a student activities form and solicit recommendations from faculty members.

A faculty council determines if applicants have met the criteria of the NHS national organization.

The Henry Ford chapter is involved in such service projects as tutoring and hospital visitation.

Faculty advisors to the organization are Holly Stephens and Mike Kaul.

How far?

Amber Gebrowsky

There are some things in life that not everyone knows about, but everyone should. Maybe they are special things, maybe they aren't, but they are always unique. In fact, if they weren't unique, the world wouldn't need to know about them.

For example, "How far?" followed by "'Bout that far." Now, you might be completely lost, just by that first sentence, so let me explain.

"How far?" followed by "'Bout that far" is really a Clarkston High School Marching Band saying. I'm not exactly sure when this started, but it's a set of words that make up a tradition that I'm sure will carry on for a long time.

"'Bout that far" is the distance your heel is to come off of the ground when marching forward, your heel when marching backward. "'Bout that far" is equal to four inches. That's just a little bit higher than your average step. However, at marching competitions, judges love those four inches, so we learn to love them, too.

Who usually starts the chorus of "How far?" None other than the band's beloved instructor, John Freel. Somehow, when he utters this mighty phrase at a band rehearsal, it's a lot more fun for the band to reply "'Bout that far" than it is to reply "four inches."

Now, this whole time, I've had you thinking that "'Bout that far" is just a vocal thing. But there is a hand motion, too. Take both hands, and with the thumb and index finger of each hand, form two letter "L's". With the two letters facing each other, slide one "L" base over the other until your index fingers are about four inches apart. There you have it! The universal symbol for " 'Bout that far."

So now you know "how far," "'Bout that far."

Amber Gebrowsky is a ninth-grader at Sashabaw Junior High School.

Springfield considers changes to sign ordinance

BY DENNIS V. CARTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Business owners in Springfield Township may want to take a look at a proposed sign ordinance amendment.

It includes changes that would affect the definition of signs, fees, setback requirements and pre-existing, non-conforming signs.

The township board voted unanimously Nov. 13 to table the ordinance amendment after discussing it for about 45 minutes. That means business owners may still have a say before the final ordinance is adopted.

After the meeting, Doug Lewan — township planning and development coordinator — explained the rationale behind the proposed changes.

"The reason for the amendment is basically to clean up the language in the old ordinance," said Lewan.

The current ordinance doesn't cover some areas, said Lewan.

"There are several parts of the current ordinance which are difficult to interpret, and there are some situations which are not covered at all," he said.

Board members focused on the distance between a sign and the roadway and on the fee to be charged to pre-existing, non-conforming signs in the event that the sign is blown down or damaged.

In its present form, the ordinance amendment sets the distance a sign must be from the roadway at 15 feet.

According to Trustee Charles Oaks, this distance was too far from the roadway.

"If my sign was 15 feet from the roadway, it would be behind my business," Oaks said.

Lewan said the proposed ordinance will be changed to allow the board to choose a distance that members are comfortable with.

Oaks also said the amendment makes fees too expensive for business people in some situations.

For instance, if a sign blows down at a pre-existing, non-conforming business, an owner would pay $200 in fees just to put it back up.

"First you would have to pay a $75 permit fee if it is electrical, and then you would have to go before the zoning board and pay a $125 dollar fee for that," he said. "It seems to me it would penalize the business owner."

Lewan later said the board is considering waiving the ZBA fee for pre-existing, non-conforming businesses in these types of cases.

Board members also voiced concern about the sizes of signs and how they would be divided among businesses in strip malls. They also questioned the definition of signs. For example, if a resident put a family name on a large rock in his yard, would that be considered a sign?

The board is to address those questions at a future meeting.

Lewan said the ordinance amendment is not designed to be more restrictive.

"We are looking to make some changes but not in the sizes of the signs," said Lewan. "When the board meets next month, they will probably make some changes in different areas, and then the amendment will have to go back before the planning commission. It will probably be several months before an amendment will actually take effect."

Rochester Hills man killed in I-75 crash

A Rochester Hills man was killed and a Fenton man was seriously injured in an accident on I-75, Springfield Township, Nov. 19 at 6:20 a.m.

David Edward Mankowski, 29, was pronounced dead on the scene. According to the Oakland County Medical Examiner's office, the autopsy showed that Mankowski died of multiple injuries.

Apparently, Mankowski was on his way to Midland last Tuesday and was driving north on I-75 near Holly Road when he lost control of his 1990 Geo Prizm, according to Deputy Barry Dodson of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Spinning on the wet pavement, his car slid backward over the freeway median.

According to Dodson, another car -- a Dodge -- struck the rear end of the Prizm after it bounced in the southbound lanes.

It took the Jaws of Life to extract Mankowski and the driver of the other car, Timothy McKutcheon, 33, of Fenton from their vehicles.

McKutcheon was upgraded from critical to stable condition Friday, Nov. 22, at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

McKutcheon suffered two broken legs and has throat and chest injuries.

Dodson said the accident closed down traffic on two lanes of I-75.

The First Thanksgiving

The pilgrims left England and went to America. Somebody made the Mayflower. Then they got to America. The trip took a long time. When they got to America, they looked for a house. They were looking for a long time. Finally they found a house.

The First Thanksgiving

A long time ago in England, some people wanted to go to America. They did not like the king.

The journey was rough. When they got there, they landed on Plymouth Rock. The boat's name is Mayflower.

Later they went hunting. They saw some Indians, but they ran away. Later they saw another Indian. He was not afraid of them. His name was Squanto. He taught them how to fish, trap and make some plants into medicine. They became friends, and all the Indians and the pilgrims had the first Thanksgiving.

Thanksgiving Long Ago

Long ago, Indians and pilgrims lived. The pilgrims lived in England, where they had to think like the king. They moved to America. They sailed on a boat called the Mayflower.

Some went on a boat called the Speedwell. The Speedwell could not make it, so the Speedwell had to go back to the harbor and everyone got on the Mayflower. They sailed through lots of bad storms.

They met an Indian named Squanto. He taught them how to plant Indian corn and how to use plants as medicine. He showed them how to fish and trap animals. All of the Indians came and they had a big Thanksgiving party.

The First Thanksgiving

The pilgrims wanted to worship God in their own way. The king said, "No, you may not worship God in your own way."

So the pilgrims went to America. They went to America by boat. The name of the boat was the Mayflower.

After they got ashore, they saw Indians. The Indians and pilgrims had a big feast, and the feast was called the first Thanksgiving.

Winter was coming. They had to work fast before the snow came. There was little snow that winter, but it was very wet. They met some Indians. The first Indian was Squanto. He showed them how to plant, trap and fish. They had a feast. It was called the first Thanksgiving.

The First Thanksgiving

The pilgrims all divided up into two groups. Half of the people went on the Speedwell and the other half went on the Mayflower. The Speedwell had to turn around because the waters were too rough. Everyone got on the Mayflower. They had a hard journey, but they arrived in Plymouth rock.

They built their homes and loved living in America. They met some Indians. The Indians followed the pilgrims to the feast.

Squanto, an Indian, became their best friend. Bradford said that he was a special instrument sent from God for their good. Squanto stayed with the colony for the pilgrims (and showed them) how to catch fish and trap game. He taught them how to plant corn. He taught them how to hunt for food and get meat.

They stayed at Plymouth rock and had a feast and invited the Indians, too. They had a nice time at the feast.

Eliza Jane finished her list and said, "Mom, Mom."

"Coming, dear," said her mother.

"I finished my list, see?"

But said her mother, "There's only a puppy."

"I know," said Eliza Jane. "I want a puppy."

So they put up a tree and decorated it. Finally, it was Christmas Eve, and Eliza Jane went to bed earlier than she should. She went to sleep at 8 p.m.

On Christmas morning, she got up at 7 p.m. and woke her mom.

"I got a puppy."

"What did you say?"

Trim fat from your feast on Thanksgiving

It's time for the beginning the feasting season. But fortunately, the holidays — starting with Thanksgiving — don't have to be a time to gain weight if you're careful about your eating habits.

A few steps can cut down on fat and calories, according to registered dietitian Sandy Gloss, food and nutrition services clinical manager at Crittenton Hospital, Rochester.

■ Skip the high-fat crackers and cheese for appetizers. Instead, try sliced fruits and vegetables, perhaps with a dip made from low-fat or non-fat yogurt. Mexican salsa also works well with many munchies.

■ Don't eat the skin of the turkey. It has about a third of all the fat in this otherwise low-fat bird. And dark meat has much more fat and calories.

■ Make a supply of your own special defatted chicken or turkey stock a day or two before Thanksgiving. The easiest way is to chill the stock after removing all the solid material, then skim the fat off the top and throw it away. This stock can be used for soup base, for basting (better than butter), to moisten stuffing and as a base for gravy.

■ Serve your vegetables steamed and seasoned with herbs and spices instead of with butter or cream sauces.

■ Make your own cranberry sauce using whole cranberries and less sugar than the recipe calls for. Try adding chopped up oranges and raw nutmeats for extra sweetness and texture.

■ Remember that two egg whites can replace a whole egg in most recipes and low-fat and non-fat milk (skim) will usually work just as well as whole.

■ Make low-fat pie crusts out of crushed graham crackers moistened with fruit juice and then baked. But don't forget to eliminate the whipped cream on top. Try garnishing with orange slices or use your imagination to find other substitutes.

Writing thank-you notes can be pleasant, creative

One of the difficult tasks that accompanies the holidays is writing thank-you notes, or worse, standing over someone else to make them write notes.

But there is a solution. Here are a few ways to make the notes fun to write.

■ Use out-of-the-ordinary items to write on. If your friend has sent you a book on country inns across the United States, write a note on the back of a map. If a gift has come in unusually beautiful paper, make a card from the wrapping.

■ Encourage children (and adults, too) to make their own cards. Something from the heart always means a lot more than something purchased. Lots of pens and pencils in different colors makes the actual writing of a note more picturesque.

■ We all know the adage, "A picture is worth a thousand words." Why not take a Polaroid photo of the receiver of the gift modeling or using it? The note can then just be written across the bottom of the photo, popped into the mail and — voila, the thank you is completed instantly.

■ When the family receives a gift that is for everyone's enjoyment, each family member should write a few sentences. This makes short work of a task that usually falls on one person.

■ When you buy Christmas stamps, purchase some additional ones of a different design. It helps to have great looking stamps for your correspondence.

■ If you are one of those really clever and possibly visual people, a video or audio tape is certainly a different method of getting around to actually writing a thank you.

No matter how you write the note, the important thing is to write it. Just remember how great you feel when you open the mailbox to a wonderful thank you.

How to take great family photographs

At holiday time, many families wait until Christmas Eve or the first night of Hanukkah to take photos.

But experts at Eastman Kodak Co. say holiday preparations make fine photos, too. To catch all the fun, load your camera early to capture all the tree-trimming parties and gaiety that start early in December.

First, choose films that capture good indoor photos. Holiday concerts, caroling and tree-trimming parties take place inside, so try fast films such as 200 or 400 speed to take colorful flash or natural light photos.

To get the most from each photo opportunity, move in close to capture the action. For good holiday photos of children, kneel down to their height so pictures appear taken from their point of view.

Be ready for candid photos by making sure you have fresh batteries and extra film. For tree-trimming photos, use a flash to highlight tinsel and ornaments, and use 400-speed film. If there's a window behind the tree, stand at an angle to the window to prevent flash reflections in pictures.

For candle-lit scenes, turn off your flash and use an ultra-fast film. A glowing Hanukkah menorah or candles call for subdued light. Use 1600 speed film and move in close for best results.

Amid all your picture-taking, here's a final tip: in one photo, picture friends or relatives with a calendar in the background. That way, you'll have a reference date for the Christmas or Hanukkah you capture on film.

Yule log legend goes back to Bethlehem

The yule log was once an important symbol of the holiday season.

Oak logs were used in the north of England and birch in Scotland, but in Cornwall it was ash.

According to tradition, the first Christmas fire was lit in the Bethlehem stable by a shepherd boy, who, seeing that the holy family was cold, ran out and gathered ash wood — the only wood that burns freely when green — and soon made a warm, hospitable blaze.

But whatever wood was used, maids couldn't touch it with dirty hands; children couldn't sit on it; and in medieval England, such great respect was paid to it that people passing touched their hats to it.

Timely turkey tips

To ensure a safe holiday without the worry of food poisoning, a few important rules should be followed when preparing raw poultry, according to Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service.

"Mishandled raw poultry, meat and eggs often are the culprit for food poisoning incidents," said Treitman.

Absolute cleanliness and proper cooking temperatures are the two most important weapons against a problem, especially salmonella.

Safe turkey preparation tips follow:

■ Don't pre-stuff your turkey. If you want to save time, pre-chop ingredients, refrigerate, then assemble and mix stuffing immediately before stuffing.

■ Thaw turkey in refrigerator — never at room temperature. Plan ahead or use the cold water method — completely immerse wrapped turkey under cold water; change water every 30 minutes. Microwave defrosting is safe if you follow the manufacturer's directions, and cook turkey immediately after defrosting.

■ Rinse turkey cavity well and thoroughly wash cutting board, knives and all equipment used before preparing other foods.

■ Remove stuffing promptly after cooking.

■ Cook turkey well done — keep temperature 325 degrees or above. Do not partially cook. Dark meat should be 180-185 degrees; white meat, 170 degrees; stuffing, 165 degrees.

■ Store leftovers in several shallow containers to cool quickly. Put all leftovers back in the refrigerator within two hours of serving. Leftover turkey keeps three to four days in the refrigerator; stuffing and gravy should be used in one or two days.

Cookies make tasty, fresh, sturdy holiday gifts

Butter cookies are easy to make, taste good and make great gifts because they're sturdy and may stay fresh at room temperature.

Rose Levy Beranbaum, author of "Rose's Christmas Cookies," provides recipes and packaging ideas for the holidays.

She suggests that only high-quality ingredients be used when giving cookies as gifts. That means bakers should use the best chocolate, pure flavor extracts, fresh eggs and real butter.

A scrumptious choice to send to family and friends are crunchy-buttery Lemon Poppyseeds, which travel well and keep at room temperature one month.

LEMON POPPYSEEDS

Makes about 3 dozen cookies

1 cup (2 sticks) butter, softened*
3/4 cup sugar
2 egg yolks
2 tablespoons grated lemon peel
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
6 tablespoons poppy seeds
1/8 teaspoon salt
1 cup finely ground blanched almonds
Confectioners sugar

Cream butter in large mixer bowl. Beat in sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in egg yolks, lemon peel and vanilla until well blended. Combine flour, poppy seeds and salt. Gradually beat in flour mixture until well blended. Wrap dough in plastic wrap and refrigerate 1 to 2 hours for ease in handling.

Preheat oven to 350. Shape tablespoons of dough into balls. Roll balls of dough in ground nuts. Place on unbuttered cookie sheets about 2 inches apart. Bake 18 to 20 minutes or until bottom of cookie is brown. Carefully remove from cookie sheets. Cool completely on wire racks. Store in airtight metal containers in a cool place up to 1 month. Freeze up to 3 months. Just before serving, sprinkle lightly with confectioners' sugar.

* For ease in creaming butter taken directly from refrigerator, cut butter into 8 to 10 pieces and proceed as directed.

Cran-Raspberry Butter Bars feature a butter-almond shortbread cookie base topped with a satiny, tart cran-raspberry layer—a unique variation on the all-time favorite lemon bars. The cran-raspberry concentrate lends a festive flavor and appearance, while the tender melt-in-your mouth cookie layer provides the perfect flavor and texture complement for the filling.

CRAN-RASPBERRY BUTTER BARS

Makes one 8-inch square pan

Crust
1/2 cup sliced blanched almonds
2 tablespoons confectioners sugar
1/2 cup (1 stick) plus 2 tablespoons butter, softened*
2 tablespoons granulated sugar
1 cup all-purpose flour
Topping
4 egg yolks
1 tablespoon sugar
1/2 cup cran-raspberry juice concentrate (thawed, if frozen)
1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter
Dash salt
10 drops red food color
Fresh raspberries, if desired
Fresh mint, if desired

Preheat oven to 325. For crust, place almonds on a cookie sheet. Toast 6 to 8 minutes or until lightly browned, stirring once. Cool completely in pan on wire rack. Place almonds and confectioners sugar in work bowl of food processor or blender; cover. Process until nuts are finely chopped; set aside. Cream butter in small mixer bowl. Add granulated sugar and mix until light and fluffy. Stir in flour and nut mixture. Line bottom and 2 sides of an 8-inch square baking pan with a strip of aluminum foil 8 x 10 inches. Pat dough evenly into prepared pan. Prick dough all over with tines of a fork. Bake 30 to 35 minutes or until edges are light brown and top is still pale. (Do not brown.)

Meanwhile, for topping, combine egg yolks and sugar in medium-size heavy saucepan. Stir in juice concentrate, butter and salt. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly with a wire whisk, 6 to 8 minutes or until thickened. (Do not boil.) A candy thermometer will register 180 degrees to 185 degrees. Remove from heat. Stir in food color. Spread mixture over crust. Return to oven. Bake 5 minutes. Remove from oven and cool completely in pan on wire rack. Loosen edges; use foil to lift from pan. Cut into bars. Store, covered, in refrigerator up to 1 week. Freeze up to 3 months. Serve garnished with fresh raspberries and mint.

The holidays wouldn't be complete without a chocolate cookie. This recipe -- Double Chocolate Glazed Wafers -- makes intensely chocolate and buttery cookies. The chocolate glaze is silky smooth under its crown of crunchy toasted walnuts.

DOUBLE CHOCOLATE GLAZED WAFERS

Makes about 3 dozen cookies.

Cookies

1 1/4 cups walnut pieces, divided
1/4 cup unsweetened cocoa
1/2 (1 stick) plus 2 tablespoons butter, softened
1/3 cup confectioners sugar
1/3 cup granulated sugar
3/4 cup all-purpose flour

Glaze

3 ounces semi-sweet chocolate
3 tablespoons butter, softened
1/2 teaspoon light corn syrup.
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Place walnuts on cookie sheet. Toast 8 to 10 minutes or until lightly browned, stirring once. Cool completely in pan on wire rack. Place 1/2 cup toasted walnuts and cocoa in a work bowl of food processor or blender; cover. Process until nuts are finely chopped; set aside. Cream butter in small mixer bowl. Gradually add sugars to butter. Beat until light and fluffy. Stir in flour and chopped nut mixture; mix well. Shape dough into 1-inch balls. Place on unbuttered cookie sheets 2 inches apart. Flatten dough to about 1 1/2-inch diameter using a flat bottom glass dipped in granulated sugar. Bake 20 to 25 minutes or until edges of cookie are firm, but center is still soft when lightly pressed. Let cool on cookie sheets a few minutes. Carefully remove cookies and cool completely on wire racks.

Meanwhile, for glaze, melt chocolate in microwave in small bowl on HIGH (100 percent) 2 to 2 1/2 minutes, stirring once every 15 seconds. Remove from microwave just before chocolate is completely melted. Stir in butter 1 tablespoon at a time until melted. Stir in corn syrup and vanilla. Coarsely chop remaining 3/4 cup walnuts; set aside. Spread small amount of glaze on each cookie. Sprinkle with nuts. Allow glaze to set at room temperature overnight or refrigerate 30 minutes. Store in airtight metal containers in cool place up to 3 weeks. Freeze up to 6 months.

50-year tradition

Want to cook a turkey par-excellence this holiday season? Try doing it the way Dorothy Wampler of Virginia's Shenandoah Valley does.

She should know how by now. She's been married to Charles Wampler for more than 50 years. His family is considered to be the "founding family" of modern turkey farming in the world. Their products are marketed under the Wampler-Longacre brand.

"I turn my birds upside down to cook," Mrs. Wampler says. "This is especially important if you don't stuff the turkey. That way, the rich juices soak down into the breast meat, and the legs and thighs — which always take longer to cook anyway — are higher in the oven."

She offers a few other tips, as well. "I always rub salt on the outside of the bird, then wrap it completely in cheesecloth that's been dipped in butter.

"I cook it on a rack in an uncovered pan in a moderate oven (325-350 degrees) according to the timing directions on the package."

How does this bird turn out?

"We've never been disappointed," she says. "And believe me, I've cooked lots of turkeys."

Creating cookie gifts

To cleverly package and present your baked gift, use imagination and creativity. Following are some ideas.

■ Cover boxes and coffee cans with decorative paper, and line the insides with foil. Children might even like to design and color their own wrapping paper.

■ Place cookies in a basket tied with a big plaid ribbon — anything from wicker to plastic can look great.

■ Shop card shops and drug stores for party bags and fancy paperboard boxes. Look for baskets, cookie tins and decorative plates in import shops and hosewares stores.

■ Present cookies in double-duty cookie "totes" to be kept long beyond the last nibble. For example, a new tool box from the hardware store can be filled with spicy, buttery gingersnaps for Uncle John, or give a youngster fish-shaped butter cookie cut-outs swimming in a fish bowl.

■ Add a special touch to packages with practical tie-ons, such as cookie cutters, wooden spoons or spatulas.

■ Give cookie gifts a theme. For example, a "Let's Go Nuts" cookie basket might include nutty cookie favorites as well as a nutcracker, an assortment of peanuts, walnuts and pecans, and a jar of gourmet peanut butter.

★ With each cookie gift you give, it's also nice to include storage instructions. A written card with freezing tips is always appreciated — as is the recipe.

Cut tree has post-holiday role

The problem: what to do with your old Christmas tree after the holiday.

The solution: look at it as a resource rather than a trash problem — recycle it.

Some years ago, the ground maintenance people at Michigan State University, East Lansing, devised a way to recycle old Christmas trees into landscape plant protectors for rhododendrons, azaleas and other plants that are susceptible to wind and sun damage in winter. You can do the same thing.

Start by stripping off the branches on the top one-half to two-thirds of the main trunk. Then sharpen the small end of the main stem, turn the tree upside-down and drive the pointed end into the ground about a foot to the windward side of the center of the plant to be shielded.

(You can also tie the upside-down tree to a wire strung between two posts. The advantage of this is that you run no risk of damaging the roots of the plant you're trying to protect.)

The large bottom branches, which are now on the top, drape down over the tender plant.

These protecting branches break up drying winds and shade the plant, explains Tom Stebbins, master gardener specialist at MSU. The upright trunk also marks the location of low-lying plants. This may prevent them from being walked on, driven over or snowplowed.

The branches removed from the tree can be placed over straw or other lightweight mulch materials on bulb or perennial beds or strawberries, Stebbins suggests. They will help anchor these materials and trap snow to help insulate the plantings.

Recycle old Christmas trees into landscape plant protectors for rhododendrons, azaleas and other plants that are susceptible to wind and sun damage in winter.

In the spring, the loose branches and the rest of the Christmas tree plant protector can be ground up or chipped and added to the compost pile.

The above information was provided by Michigan State University Outreach Communications. For more information, call Tom Stebbins at (517) 353-3774.

Like a genie in a bottle, Trish Davies can make wishes come true.

Davies, a Deerhill Drive, Independence Township, resident, grants wishes to terminally and chronically ill children through the Rainbow Connection program.

"My friend Suzanne Nini dragged me to a fund-raiser for the Rainbow Connection, and I met Suzanne Jones, the executive director of the program," Trish said. "After talking with her, I was hooked on the idea on granting the wishes."

The Rainbow Connection's Make-A-Wish program grants wishes to terminally or chronically ill children ages 3 to 18.

"We get about 80 percent of our funds from fund-raisers, and the rest comes from gifts and sponsors," she said. "Needless to say we are always looking for volunteers and sponsors."

Trish and her husband, Kevin — a contractor for General Motors Corp., moved to the United States in 1982. They are originally from England.

"We moved to Clarkston about five years ago and really like the area," Trish said.

A list of volunteer opportunities appears on pages 2C and 10C.

Trish, who has two boys, Rick, 12, and Simon, 10, said that the volunteers get as much out of the program as do the children.

"It can really put everything into perspective for you," she said. "Just seeing how these children and parents deal with this tragedy is amazing."

Once Trish became involved in the program, she wondered how people could deal with the situation they find themselves in.

"I meet the most wonderful people in the most awful circumstances," she said. "I just don't see how they do it. They are just very special people."

One case left a big impression on Trish.

"Three days after I received a wish request, I was at the store pricing the stereo the boy had wished for. I needed to ask him a question about the stereo and knew he had gone home from the hospital. I called his home, and when his mother answered the phone, I told her I needed to ask him a question about his wish. She then told me he had died that morning. ... This is how fast this can happen. I just didn't know what to say," Trish said.

ANDRES Rodarte, 17, receives a computer from the Rainbow Connection at the hands of Trish Davies. Andres suffers from cystic fibrosis.

But, according to Trish, for every bad story there can also be a good one.

"One little girl who I granted a wish for is now in remission, and it looks real good for her," she said. "When this happens, it makes you really happy, but granting the children their wish during their treatment is the key. This is when they really need it the most."

Trish said she is only a cog in the wheel of the program.

"So many people are involved in this," she said. "I'm really lucky to be able to be one of the ones who gets to actually grant the wishes. It can really remind you how lucky you are when you see people in these situations."

Wishes selected by the children range from having grandma flown in to visit, when she wouldn't otherwise be able to afford it, to a trip to Disney World.

"It is really surprising what these kids ask for," said Trish who has granted 15 wishes since February. "Some want computers, and some just want to see a a relative. But Disney World is the most requested."

According to Trish, just seeing the children's happy, smiling faces is rewarding.

"Granting these wishes really means a lot to the kids," she said. "Many times it will be one of the last memories their family will get to (create) with their child."

The Rainbow Connection began as result of a private plane crash that claimed the lives of two Clarkston children, Tim and Jennifer Dobson, and their piloting father Ron on May 9, 1980. Friends of the Dobson family began the Rainbow Connection in memory of Tim, Jennifer and Ron; and it now serves children throughout Michigan.

Sponsors and volunteers are needed at the Rainbow Connection. For more information, call 651-1261.

Woman dedicates past 30 years to helping others

JANET Stack-Miller of Rose Township, chairwoman for Northwest Oakland Community Service, has volunteered her time to different organizations for 30 years.

BY DENNIS V. CARTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Volunteering has been a big part of Janet Stack-Miller's life for the last 30 years.

"I started out volunteering at my children's school functions," said Janet, whose six children are ages 21-30. "It seems I've been at it every since."

At the present time, Janet is channeling her efforts into Northwest Community Services.

"I just got into volunteering and found it to be rewarding."

Janet Stack-Miller

Janet is chairperson and a charter member of the organization, which began in 1987.

"We got together and started brainstorming," she said. "What we do is fill in the gap for residents in the community that are not already provided for by the other existing organizations."

More than 100 people currently take advantage of the services.

Programs include tutoring students or illiterate adults and providing recreation nights and parties for those living in group homes.

"We try to encourage people in the community to volunteer and do things for other people," said Janet. "Everyone has some free time they could volunteer to help others; it just takes a small amount of time to help people who have needs."

Volunteer donates life to helping

(MILLER, from previous page)

Every second Friday of the month, the organization holds some type of activity for those who stay in group homes — usually it's a dance with a live band.

As special services director for Holly Area Schools, Janet recruits a lot of volunteers from the high school.

"They help us with the dances," she said. "They do a variety things .., to help out."

Over the years, Janet has served as a leader of such groups as Camp Fire Girls and 4-H. She has also served as regional chairperson for United Fund.

"I just got into volunteering and found it to be rewarding," said Janet. "It is really a nice feeling to help someone and see a smile come to their face. I feel that volunteering is something everyone should do. It is kind of the rent we can pay for just being here."

"I feel that volunteering is something everyone should do. It is kind of the rent we can pay for just being here."

Janet Stack-Miller

Janet said her husband, John, volunteers a lot of his time also.

"He helps out a lot with many of the projects we do," she added.

When not volunteering for some project or working, Janet likes to spend time outside.

"I enjoy hiking, biking and golf," she said. "But I also enjoying reading and playing bridge."

For more information about Northwest Oakland Community Services' volunteer opportunities or projects, call Stack-Miller at 391-1431.

Engagement

Robert and Arlene Laurie of Reese Road, Independence Township, announce the engagement of their daughter, Heather Laurie of Buffalo, N.Y., to James T. Eppink of Buffalo, N.Y. The prospective bride is a 1985 graduate of Clarkston High School and a 1989 graduate of Michigan State University, East Lansing. She is a member of Delta Gamma and Junior League of Buffalo. Her fiance is the son of Richard and Joan Eppink of Tonawanda, N.Y. He is a 1983 graduate of St. Joseph's Collegiate Institute and a 1987 graduate of Michigan State University, East Lansing. He is a member of Pi Kappa Phi. A March 28, 1992, wedding is planned.

Nelson, Richardson exchange vows

Melissa Nelson of Clarkston and Jeff Richardson of Auburn Hills were united in marriage on Aug. 31, 1991, at Calvary Lutheran Church, Clarkston.

The Rev. Robert Walters performed the 3 p.m. ceremony before 220 guests.

The bride is a 1988 graduate of Clarkston High School and a 1991 graduate of Central Michigan University, Mount Pleasant. She is the daughter of Charles and Karen Weaver of Greene Haven Drive, Clarkston, and David and Tillie Nelson of Vinsetta Boulevard, Royal Oak.

The groom is a 1985 graduate of Clarkston High School and is the son of Jim and Carol Richardson of Peach Drive, Clarkston.

The bride wore an full-length, off-the-shoulder gown of off-white silk, beaded with seed pearls. It featured a sweetheart neckline and cathedral train. Her cascade bouquet included white bridal roses, white gladiola blossoms and white freesia.

Maids of honor were Paula Tenuta of Pontiac and Tracy Shaver of Waldon Road, Clarkston, both friends of the bride. Bridesmaid Gail Evans, sister of the groom, is of Huber Heights, Ohio. They wore tea-length metallic midnight blue dresses made of taffeta.

Junior bridesmaid was Cathy Lynn Snyder of San Antonio, Texas, cousin of the bride. She also wore a tea-length midnight blue gown, but it was made of taffeta and blue velvet.

Best man was Neil Nelson, brother of the bride. Other attendants were Scott Nelson, brother of the bride; Ray Evans, brother-in-law of the groom; and Bruce Wall, friend of the groom.

Special music was provided by the Rev. Paul Irwin; the Rev. Tom Struck and his wife, Windi; and Sonia Foster.

A reception for 220 guests took place at the Davison Country Club, Davison.

The couple took a wedding trip to Aruba and now reside in Auburn Hills.

NEWLYWEDS: Jeff and Melissa Nelson

Engagements

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Imboden of Oxford announce the engagement of their daughter, Kristen Holly, to Christopher Daniel Dickerson of Clarkston. The bride-elect is a 1989 graduate of Oxford High School and is employed through Retail Ventures, Inc. Her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Dickerson of Clarkston. He is a 1986 graduate of Clarkston High School and is employed at Consultron, Inc. A February 1992 wedding is planned.

In service

Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class Shane E. Summers, son of Rodney E. and Renee M. Summers of Tahoe Court, Independence Township, recently reported for duty aboard the aircraft carrier USS Enterprise, homeported in Norfolk, Va.

The 1989 Clarkston High School graduate joined the Navy in August 1990.

Teens named advisors

Two Clarkston-area teen-agers were appointed to the Student Advisory Board Class of 1995 for Channel 56 and TV-2.

Jill Attaman and Mary Forbes were among the Oakland County teen-agers appointed to the board for 1991-92.

Among the board's first duties this year was a contribution to this season's kick-off "Class of '95" documentary, "My Dad Is a Hero," which was scheduled to air 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 20, on Channel 56 and TV-2. The program was to be followed by a live town hall forum focusing on the role of parents in education.

Now in its second year, Class of '95 is a five-year project examining the quality of education for students from eighth grade until their graduation from high school in 1996.

The specially produced programs, news reports and community outreach tracks a representative group of metropolitan Detroit-area young people by monitoring their aspirations as well as the expectations held by their parents, teachers and the community in general.

Honors

Tara Chapple of the Chief Pontiac Post No. 377 Junior Auxiliary (Independence Township) has been chosen to represent the American Legion Auxiliary as Junior Miss Poppy for 1991-92. She will be traveling around to inform the public how the poppy program benefits veterans and their families. Tara also is currently Junior Miss Poppy for the 18th District and recently traveled to the Battle Creek Veterans Hospital to assist with a Bingo party. She volunteers each month at the Greenery nursing home. She is the daughter of Jim and Eva Chapple.

Pet of the Week

PETE is a lovable, tri-colored dog who loves to run and play.

Pete's a pealer

Pete is a real live wire who's in search of a home.

This 4-year-old fox-terrier weighs 13 pounds and is considered very active, so he's not recommended for small children. Pete is reportedly housebroken but hasn't been neutered yet.

His adoption fee is $62.

To see Pete, visit the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Road, Rochester Hills, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Azalea blooms and blooms as an indoor plant

For long-lasting blooms on an indoor plant, it's hard to beat the azalea.

This woody shrub, with its exotic-looking flowers and glossy dark green leaves, is one of the longest lasting flowering potted plants available, says Tom Stebbins, master gardener specialists at Michigan State University, East Lansing. With proper care, blossoms may last for up to two months.

Bright, indirect light or 12 to 16 hours of artificial light will cause the leaves to drop, Stebbins points out.

Average to cool temperatures — with a night minimum of 50 to 60 degrees — helps extend the flowering period.

Water a potted azalea whenever the soil surface begins to feel dry. The aim is to keep the soil moist without saturating it, so check it frequently but water only as needed, and don't let the pot stand in water.

Azaleas require an acid growing medium. If the medium isn't sufficiently acid, growth will be stunted and the foliage will turn yellow. When you need to repot an azalea, use a mix of equal parts peat moss and a standard houseplant potting mix.

The azalea needs no fertilizer while it's in flower. After flowering, continue to water as before and fertilize with a liquid fertilizer every two to four weeks. Adding one-fourth teaspoon ferrous sulfate to the pot once a month will keep the soil mix acid enough to meet the plant's needs.

In the spring, after the danger of frost is past, you can set the azalea outdoors in a protected, shaded spot. Or you can go on growing it indoors. It will dry out faster outside, so be sure to check the soil and water as needed.

In the fall, bring the plant indoors before frost and place it in a cool area — about 50 degrees. After one to two months, flower buds formed in the summer and fall will start to show color. Then move the plant back into a brightly lighted spot and warmer temperatures to encourage the flower buds to open.

The above information was provided by Michigan State University Outreach Communications. For more information, call Tom Stebbins at (517) 353-3774.

The show must go on

Theater is alive and well -- and staying -- at the Clarkston High School Kirchgessner Auditorium.

On Friday, Dec. 6, the Drama Club is holding its Second Annual Theater-A-Thon -- a chance for all Drama Club members to display their talents.

The show, planned for 3 p.m. to midnight, features singing, dancing, acting and even a silent movie. Also included are some one-act plays and a performance by the Children's Theater, "A Rough Night at the North Pole."

Last year, the club raised $1,500 in donations and pledges and expects to double that amount this year.

Admission is free, and theater-goers have a chance to win a television through a raffle. Students accept pledges to raise money.

For more information, call 625-0900.

We Are SIDING And GUTTER Specialists

We are not a Jack-of-all-trades. We can not guarantee you the absolute lowest price as we will not sacrifice the quality products or workmanship that you deserve. But what we will guarantee is an honest and fair price with products and workmanship of the highest quality. We also do our own work. We don't get your job and sub-contract it out, or sell it. So if you are only looking for the cheapest way out, call someone else who claims they can beat any price. If you are looking for an honest and fair price, quality products and workmanship, dependability and someone that will still be here after your job is completed, give us a call. Helping you make your home the one you've always dreamed of is what we do.
