Woman survives collision with train

BY DENNIS V. CARTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

An Independence Township woman was thrown from her vehicle and into a metal electrical box after the pickup truck she was driving collided with a train.

Kimberly L. England, 26, was driving south on White Lake Road, Independence Township, when the truck she was driving collided with the train about 1:50 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 3.

According to Deputy Barry Dodson, an Oakland County Sheriff's accident investigator, witnesses said they saw England taking a drink from a beer bottle just before the accident occurred.

"It is believed that alcohol may be a factor in the accident," Dodson said. "It is still under investigation, but there will probably be enforcement action taken in the future. It appears she just wasn't paying attention and drove out in front of the train."

The eastbound Grand Trunk Western train slammed into England's 1987 Toyota pickup on the passenger side and pushed the vehicle down the tracks.

Dodson said that the pickup then left the tracks and spun around, according to witnesses. As the vehicle spun around, England was thrown out through the passenger-side window and struck a metal electrical box.

On the scene, members of the emergency rescue team of the Independence Fire Department treated England.

"She was outside of the pickup truck some 50 to 60 feet from the impact area when we got there," said Capt. Steve Ronk of the Independence Township Fire Department.

"She had received some head injuries," Ronk said. "We are not sure if the injuries came from being thrown through the glass window on the passenger side or from hitting the metal box she was laying next to. We packed her up and treated her at the scene and she regained consciousness. She was able to tell us her name and where she lived."

According to Ronk, it was a good that England regained consciousness, but it did not indicate the extent or severity of her injuries.

"It is always a good sign when someone regains consciousness. It shows the brain is improving," he said. "But you never know what has happened to brain. There could be some swelling which could cause problems later. She was extremely lucky. When a train and car get together, a person is usually a lot more busted up."

Deputy Dodson said that witnesses at the scene reported that the lights at the crossing were working and the bells were ringing. He also stated that England was not wearing a seat belt.

England was taken by Fleet Ambulance to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, where she was listed in stable condition on Monday, Dec. 9.

The crossing is north of Andersonville Road in the southwest corner of the township. According to investigators, the pickup truck was a total loss, while the train sustained only minor damage. Dodson didn't know Tuesday the speed of the train and truck but estimated the train speed at 45-50 mph and estimated that the truck was not traveling above the 45 mph speed limit.

Good fellows, good cause

JEFF Lichty of the Clarkston Rotary Club takes his turn hawking Goodfellow newspapers Friday, Dec. 6, at the intersection of Main and Washington streets, Clarkston. The Rotary Club and Independence Township firefighters raised more than $3,700 through the sale this year and paid for about 150 pairs of shoes for the needy in the Clarkston area. The remainder of the money is to be donated to Lighthouse North. Last year, the Goodfellow sale raised about $3,500. (Photo by Julie Campe)

Board to discuss goals

So far, three items have been slated for the Monday, Dec. 16, Clarkston Board of Education meeting. They include: a district report on "applied technology," the approval of new school bus bids, and an update on Superintendent Gary Haner's goals for the upcoming year.

The 7:30 p.m. meeting takes place in the administration building on 6839 Clarkston Road, Independence Township. For more information, call 625-4402.

School board to finalize bond issue next Monday

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

After countless hours of research and haggling, the Clarkston Board of Education is less than one week away from finalizing a bond issue for the April 13 election.

But the trustees still have a way to go on a couple of pending issues before the proposal is signed and sealed. Time is of the essence, however, as the Jan. 10 state election deadline draws near.

The board must vote on the proposal by next Monday's meeting, so an ad-hoc committee has time to properly draw up the bond issue.

So far, the trustees have generally agreed on the inclusion of two items on the bond issue. They are the construction of a new 70,000-square-foot elementary school and renovation work to the existing five elementary and two junior high schools.

However, the board is split on how they intend to help a soon-to-be overburdened high school.

The trustees and administration favor ultimately moving the district's ninth-graders to Clarkston High School, but they can't agree on buying five portable classrooms or building a five-room addition.

According to administrative statistics, a ninth-grade move, using portables, would cost around $600,000. Besides the portable units, this sum would also cover the ninth-graders' curriculum conversion, a new computer room and additional staffing.

"This is a stop-gap measure to double-day sessions,"

"This is a stop-gap measure to double-day sessions."

Superintendent Gary Haner

said Superintendent Gary Haner.

On the other hand, district architect Tom Chen of Greiner, Inc., said five general purpose rooms onto the school would be similar in cost. He added that a large science room option could eventually cost around $1 million.

Trustees Kurt Karlstrom, Janet Thomas and Karen Foyteck admittedly liked the idea of an additional wing to CHS. However, Haner warned that such a move could "predestine" CHS as always remaining a high school.

Board member Sheila Hughes agreed, saying the board should look to the future.

"If we put a high school addition onto the bond issue, then we'll be giving the voters the impression that Clarkston High will always remain a high school," she said. "We can't expect the kids to stay in there another three years without major renovations.

"We have to remember that our long-range goal is to build a new high school within the next three years and convert the present high school into a middle school," Hughes added.

Treasurer Paul Van Klaveren said the portables option would convey a message of fiscal responsibility to the voters and aid in the passage of the bond issue. Joseph Helpem concurred.

"If we want to look frugal to the public, temporary, portable classrooms might be the answer," Helpem said.

Janet Thomas argued that the addition of portables would only be housing the ninth-graders and would not be upgrading the present conditions at the high school. Karlstrom agreed, adding that the classrooms would be unsightly and long-term.

"Portables don't do it for me because history shows that portable classrooms are not temporary in this district," he said. "With an addition, I think we'll find the ability to fill this space as time goes on."

President Thomas Howard said he didn't necessarily like the portable units either but figures they are the best option in the short run until the board can come up with some long-range facility plans. He added that the portables could eventually be sold when the district's space problems are solved.

Howard told the audience that the board is trying to put together a bond package of around $7.8 million. This would include adjusting the cost of the package, which so far would include an estimated $8.1 million elementary school and about $3.8 million in renovations to the seven existing schools.

Some district personnel and parents urged the board not to be too restrictive, however.

"We appreciate the amount of time, you, the board, has taken into deliberating these issues, but please don't shortchange yourselves," said Karen Manville, a member of North Sashabaw Elementary's PTO. "I hope you can come up with a total cost package that can give you a little lee-way, in case of a mistake or underestimation.

"The needs of a lot of elementary school children are riding on this bond issue," she added.

Not-guilty plea entered in sexual abuse charge

Paul Matthew Salvino, 23, of Independence Township was arraigned on a sexual assault charge in Oakland County Circuit Court Dec. 4.

At the arraignment last Thursday, a not-guilty plea was entered for Salvino by Judge Edward Sosnick. Salvino is charged with fondling his then-girlfriend's younger sister.

The alleged victim, who was 12 at the time, testified at an earlier hearing that Salvino forced her to fondle him during a party.

Salvino faces a Jan. 16 pretrial.

In an unrelated case, Salvino is charged with the criminal sexual abuse of his friend's 5-year-old son in incident that occurred at Salvino's step-father's house on Circle Drive, Independence Township, in July.

Grinch foiled

Police save day for Santa, town

Apparently, the Grinch has moved from Who-ville to Clarkston. Evidence: Someone almost kept Santa and Mrs. Claus from coming to town on Nov. 29.

On that Friday evening — the day after Thanksgiving, area resident Tim Warner was to escort the Clauses downtown, but someone stole a vital component to the transportation. According to an organizer, Warner left his wagon parked west of Holcomb Road, near Washington Street, while he went home to fetch his team of horses.

While he was gone, someone stole the battery off the wagon, which operates its lighting system.

However, the Oakland County Sheriff's Department came to the rescue by providing a pair of squad cars to escort the unlit wagon on its trek downtown.

Despite the confusion, the famous couple arrived at their destination on time and met with the throng of well-wishers who had come to wish them happy holidays during Clarkston's tree-lighting ceremony.

Christmas choices obtained by the PTO. Some 500 students were allowed to shop with help from PTO and parent volunteers. Here, Cari receives help from her mom, Elaine Guttenburg. During the Dec. 4-5 event, each young shopper received free wrapping paper and a candy cane when they checked out with their items.

LINDA TRZASKOMA, media specialist for Pine Knob Elementary, shows fifth-grader Kristyn Sokolnicki, 11, how to work one of the five new computers the school recently purchased with money raised by the Parent Teacher Organization. The PTO earned some $20,000 over two months through various sales. According to PTO president Denise Spencer, $9,400 was spent on the five Panasonic computers and software. Judy Carpenter, chairwoman of the fund-raiser, said the rest of the money will be spent on other projects for the students at the school. (Photo by Dennis V. Carter)

10 file to run in village primary

Ten candidates have filed for the Feb. 17 Clarkston Village primary.

All the candidates who filed are republicans, so the Feb. 17 election will narrow the field of candidates to seven.

Incumbents President Sharron Catallo and Treasurer Art Pappas will run unopposed.

Kristine Iid, Sandra Conlen and Jeanne Selander-Miller will vie for clerk. Current Clerk Norma Goyette is not seeking re-election.

Five will be running for three trustee spots: incumbents William Basinger, Eric Haven and Dom Mauti, and newcomers Joan Kopietz and Steve Secatch.

Three trustee positions are not up for re-election, those of: Robert Whitmer, James Schultz and Douglas Roeser.

The general election is March 9.

If the proposed cityhood charter is approved on Feb. 4, all seats on the city council and the mayor (formerly called the council president) will again be up for election June 15. The city clerk would be appointed.

Holiday tree lighting in Mill Pond Park

Children and their families can get into the Christmas spirit Saturday at the Sixth Annual Community Christmas Tree Lighting Celebration in downtown Davisburg.

The event is planned for 4:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 14, at the new Springfield Community Center at the Mill Pond Park, Davisburg Road, Springfield Township.

The public is invited to join in singing Christmas carols and tree trimming.

The 10-foot-tall tree, donated by Springfield Township resident Tim Burquist, was planted Thanksgiving day. Residents are asked to bring a homemade ornament to hang on the tree. Popcorn and cranberry strings, birdseed ornaments and cookies are nice treats for the birds.

Area church choirs are invited to help sing Christmas carols. Hot cider and doughnuts will be served.

Santa Claus also is scheduled to visit and will bring small gifts for children.

The event is sponsored by the Springfield Parks and Recreation Commission and the Davisburg Rotary Club.

Village ousts counsel of 14 years, hires Ryan

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston Village Council has changed its legal counsel.

The 7-0 vote to change from the firm of Campbell, Keenan, Harry, Cooney and Karlstrom (represented by Tomi Gruich as legal representative and general counsel) to Tom Ryan, P.C., took place at a special meeting Dec. 5.

Gruich, who said his firm had been counsel for the village at least since 1977, was informed about the change over the phone by village manager Art Pappas. He also received a copy of the minutes from the meeting but said he had not been given a clear reason for the change.

The Clarkston News was not informed about the special meeting, which had been posted at the village hall for the required legal 18 hours.

However, The News questioned council members about the change after the regular council meeting Dec. 9.

"I felt it was time for a change," said council President Sharron Catalo. "There's nothing secret about it."

Catalo criticized the firm's recent performance in court.

"I felt it was time for a change. There's nothing secret about it."

President Sharron Catalo

"I'm not satisfied with their service in court," said Catalo (Gruich did counsel the village, but it was other firm attorneys who appeared in court).

Trustee William Basinger said there had been recent changes in personnel at the firm.

Trustee Robert Whitmer said switching from a firm to one attorney (Ryan) who will handle both in- and out-of-court matters has its advantages.

"A separate legal counsel is more efficient and costs less," said Whitmer.

Trustee Doug Roeser said they heard many good things about Ryan, who has been the legal counsel for the charter commission, which was set up to investigate the village's proposed change to cityhood.

"We had glowing reports about Tom Ryan from the charter commission," said Roeser.

Catalo said the change was not directly made because of the recent lawsuit filed by Joan and Buck Koptetz over a proposed bed and breakfast facility or a recent court decision that gave a village resident permission to break the village's zoning ordinance.

However, Basinger said the timing of the change was important -- it should occur before the bed and breakfast lawsuit opens in court.

"I wanted to see new legal counsel on that issue," said Basinger.

Vows, no wows

Julie Campe

I surveyed the banquet room at the El Cid restaurant in Miami.

Yes, this is the perfect setting, I thought, noting the wooden chandeliers hanging from the high ceiling. The stone walls were constructed, piece by piece, from an original stone castle in Spain, I was told.

Entire suits of armor were displayed throughout the dark building. So real were they that my 4-year-old nephew Matthew refused to touch them. He did, however, stare at them from about four feet away.

My brother, the groom, and his new wife Mayra had not yet arrived, and I eagerly anticipated the moment.

Camera ready, I was prepared for anything. Knowing my brother Ron as I have for most of his 30 years, I half expected the unpredictable, though he had matured much over the years, and I don't talk to him as often as I once did, now that he lives in Florida.

Still, I wondered. Would he — in a moment of rapturous exuberance — swing from the chandeliers by the end of the evening? Or would he climb the stone walls, perhaps aided by one of his manly buddies in attendance, emitting triumphant grunts from the ceiling beams?

I took my post near the hors d'oeuvre table, and Ron and Mayra entered the room, which immediately erupted into cheers.

Slyly, I kept the wedding couple well within the range of my lens. So far, only the normal hugs and kisses and wedding cake cutting had occurred, and I took a few obligatory pictures.

I tried to imagine what might come next.

I recalled a family canoe trip about 10 years ago, when Ron had made a big splash. We had finished our river route and were waiting on shore for our shuttle back to our cars.

Ron, with a new girlfriend (not Mayra) watching, decided he would cross the bridge over the Au Sable River monkey-bar style. That is, he climbed the slope beneath the bridge and hung from a steel girder, crossing it hand over hand until he hung from the center of the bridge, where he became tired.

With his girlfriend staring silently and his brothers and sisters jeering and his parents shouting warnings that the river was very shallow and very rocky, Ron decided he had better let go rather than risk dropping at a more shallow point.

We watched, astounded, as he fell into the 4-foot-deep water. (He was uninjured.)

This pattern of uncalled-for shows of strength began in childhood. There was the time he ventured outside barefoot — in the middle of February — and walked (not ran) around our house in knee-deep snow. And when ice fishing a few years later, he occasionally pulled off his boots and walked barefoot on the ice, much to the amazement of onlookers.

And in his college days at Michigan Tech., he sometimes spent entire days fishing and exploring, cooking up fresh trout at the river's edge minutes after catching it, eating worms and all ("more protein," he said).

He had original ideas for all sorts of problems. As a solution to pesky mosquitoes, for instance, he recommended spreading bacon grease over your skin (it had always worked for him, he said).

At that point in my reminiscences, Ron and Mayra were called to the dance floor for the first dance. They looked so elegant, Ron in his recently trimmed ponytail (and not smelling at all like bacon) and Mayra with fancily coifed hair.

I was pretty sure that Mayra would only laugh at whatever Ron would try, but I was getting a little impatient. Knowing Ron's timing, now was the moment for an outrageous act: All eyes were upon him.

Then I remembered: Ron had hurt his back just two days prior during a rough game of football on Thanksgiving day.

There would be no antics on this day — he had barely survived his bachelor's party the night before, he had said earlier.

I snapped a few more photos — normal shots, I might say. And then I put my camera down for the night, confident that I wouldn't miss any unforgettable moment. I joined the now-crowded dance floor, unencumbered by camera.

Perhaps back pain is the secret to maturity? I mused, as I whiffed something that smelled like men's cologne coming from my brother's direction.

Bush can end this recession

Mr Bush can end this recession with a few moves.

1. He can stop giving this country's (our) money away.
2. He can come out for a tax cut.
3. He can quit encouraging US industry to move to other countries.

It is difficult to understand how the president can continue to forgive debts to other countries and just plain give money to other countries while his own is suffering.

How can he give away our money while wailing about the increased deficit and how bad it is for this country, and expect us to bless his action?

We shudder every time we hear a chief of another nation is going to visit our White House. We know he's coming for money. And we know he's going to get it.

On the same front page where this gift will be written there will be a story of not enough money for education, increased unemployment figures and business failures.

Mr President, stop it! That alone would change attitudes toward your administration. *

A monthly news note from Paine Webber says, "Normally, during the first year of a recovery, the federal government cuts taxes to increase growth, while all levels of government spend more."

Cut taxes, Mr Bush, or at least suggest it.

Ross Perot, a major mover in the world of electronics, etc, says he called several leaders of industry following our "fair trade" agreement with Mexico. He asked them how many plants they were planning to build in the United States.

He said they responded, "None, not with the new pact with Mexico where labor is cheap."

Mr President, even if you don't want to rescind the agreement with our neighbor, consider the first two: Quit giving our money away and cut taxes. JAS

Jim's Jottings

Where do my kids get their greed?

Jim Sherman

Ah, my favorite season is here again. Christmas!

The red vest is being worn nearly every day. The lights are in place around the front door. A new tree-like lighting is in the back yard (white lights on wires).

And, I'm readying our fake Christmas tree. I'm having one slight bit of trouble with it. Seems some mice built a nest in the packing box.

How could they do that? I built a special shelf five feet off the floor of our barn to store the boxed tree. Can those critters climb up the 2x4 studding?

Or, did someone put the Miceys and Minnys there as a surprise?

Anyway, mice nests are odorous. Thus, there has been a delay in illuminating and decorating our Christmas tree this year.

However, there is nothing wrong with my spirit. I started badgering the family early, and have all their "want" lists. All except "I don't want anything" Hazel. When pressured she said, "The only thing I might want is a 5-quart pan like the one I'm using that only has one handle."

With the hand-written lists in hand, I made sure I understood what they'd written (you'd think they were medical prescription writers). Then I typed them.

When I finished listing, I was awe-struck: by what appeared to be gross greed. There are 66 things wanted by the six children. That's 11 items apiece.

Who do they think we are? They can't really have a need for all that stuff, can they?

Settling back, cooling down, I tried reasoning and reviewing. If I take off the socks, shirts, sweaters and slacks, the list is down to 8 each. If I take off the jokes (Linda wants a Chauvinist Pig board game, Bob wants a Dumb Broad board game), and other list-filling stuff, the Christmas lists don't look so bad.

Then I reviewed my own list. Sixteen items. ALL NEEDED!

Bottle cork. Suspenders. Colorful shirt. Boss balm. No way can I go through another year without them. Thistle feeder, bird feed, t-shirt, vest and compass. All important.

Cutting board, paint stripper, rowing machine, gloves. Well, I could get by without the gloves. Reduce that gift list to fifteen.

Of course, this is all nonsense. We know the meaning of Christmas. It's not all gittin' and givin'. It's love and understanding. It's the baby Jesus. It's family, good wishes, friendship, patience and compassion.

I can probably get by without the paint stripper and rowing machine, too.

Clarkston program a leader in state

For the past 30 years the Clarkston Young Woman of the Year Program, formerly Junior Miss, has been one of the top programs in the state of Michigan.

This year they awarded over $5,000 in cash scholarships to their contestants.

Over the past 30 years they have raised and awarded a total of nearly $75,000 in cash scholarships, making it possible for many young women to go to college who could not have without the financial support of Clarkston Junior Miss.

Barb Hamaker as chairwoman leads a dynamic group of volunteers who donate their time willingly to insure the success of this program.

Their greatest reward for all the long hours they put into the Clarkston Junior Miss Program is knowing that they are helping the young women of Clarkston pursue their dream of a college education while giving these young women the opportunity to meet new friends and grow as individuals.

Junior Miss is positive activity for our youth. Judges look for completeness in character, intelligence, ability in human relations, creativity, physical well being and perception.

In short, they are seeking a well balanced individual who is good in all five areas of the judging.

We ask our contestants to be the best that they can be and to set their standards high.

Barb Hamaker and Clarkston Junior Miss have always set their standards high.

This is why their program is a leader among the other Michigan local programs. They should be applauded for their dedication to our youth and recognized as a fair and honest scholarship program for the young women of Clarkston.

Most everyday heroes often get overlooked

Jim Fitzgerald

Ten-year-old Emily's screams awakened me about 8 a.m. Friday. She was yelling for her mother and dad to come quick because "something terrible has happened to Adam," her 1-year-old brother.

Adam was having a seizure. His little body was stiff and quivering; his eyes were rolled back in his head, and he didn't seem to be breathing. It was terrifying.

And it was completely unexpected. Just the day before, as is my greedy column-writing custom when visiting grandchildren, I'd made a note of something Adam's pediatrician said. Based on Adam's husky frame and large head, hands and feet, the doctor predicted Adam would grow to be 6-foot-8 and 260 pounds. There never was a healthier-looking child.

Earlier that morning, when Adam crawled into bed with his parents, he felt warm. They gave him aspirin to lower his temperature and Adam eventually made his way to the family room with his grandmother and Emily. Grandma was holding him when the seizure hit.

Within a minute after Emily spread the alarm, Adam's parents had him in the car and on the way to the hospital, only a blessed two blocks away. It wasn't until Adam's mom reached the emergency entrance that she realized she was barefoot and wearing a nightgown.

I arrived minutes later. While standing useless in a hospital corridor, fretting about what was happening to Adam on the other side of an emergency room door, I recalled something I'd written a few weeks earlier. It was a response to a Newsweek article by a 72-year-old psychologist who insisted there was absolutely nothing advantageous about growing old.

I retorted that one good thing about being an old poop was that "I likely won't have to attend Adam's funeral . . . Many young people — children, grandchildren, great grandchildren, nieces, nephews and so on — are important to me. Someday they're all going to die, but — selfishly, cowardly — I don't want to be around when it happens."

Oh Lord. Was I going to be around when it happened to Adam? It would be such a devastating loss to all the people who love him, I was sure I couldn't handle it. I am unaccustomed to such agonized worrying. My family has been incredibly fortunate. When my kids were young, we lived near the same hospital. Several times I rushed them to emergency for stitches and such. But there was never anything close to the horrifying urgency prompted by Adam's still, stiff little body.

My doleful musing was interrupted by a baby crying lustily. It was Adam making the greatest sound I ever heard. A 105-degree temperature had triggered the seizure. "A virus" did it. A few hours later, after loudly protested shots, prickly blood tests and X-rays, Adam was back home, apparently healthy as ever. By January, his parents and grandparents may be breathing normally again.

That evening in my favorite newspaper I read about Tom and Michele Sherrill-Mix. Nine years ago their 2-month-old son died of a liver disease in Children's Hospital of Michigan in Detroit. During his illness, they stayed at the nearby Ronald McDonald House which, at a nominal cost, provides lodging for the parents of critically ill children. Twice every year since, although they really can't afford it, the Sherrill-Mixes have driven 4½ hours from their Alpena home to spend several days taking over for the McDonald House manager and comforting parents facing the same loss they suffered.

"Somehow you find the strength to get through it. People always say they won't. But you do, you really do, because you have to," Michele Sherrill-Mix said. That's what she and her husband tell the frightened parents, who need to hear it.

The news media regularly publicize lists of most-admired people, usually wealthy athletes and entertainers. There's never any mention of real heroes like Tom and Michele Sherrill-Mix. They're at the top of my list. They make Michael Jordan and Madonna look like role models for dust balls.

I'd like to think that I, hit by the worst tragedy imaginable, would be just half as strong and generous. I doubt it.

Ruling postponed in parental rights case

A ruling to end the parental rights of a Caro woman was postponed Nov. 4, pending the outcome of psychological examinations of her 6-year-old son.

Carolyn Dean — the mother of the then 5-year-old boy who was forced to smoke cigarettes and drink gin from a pop can by his father, David Lewis Simpson III of Independence Township — pleaded no contest to failing to protect her son.

Oakland County Probate Court Judge Barry M. Grant rescheduled the hearing for Jan. 7.

The boy was allegedly sexually abused by his father and his father's friend, Paul Matthew Salvino of Independence Township.

Both of the men face criminal charges in Oakland County Circuit Court, stemming from a July incident that occurred at Salvino's step-father's home on Circle Drive in Independence Township.

Student hit by car on way to bus stop

An 11-year-old pedestrian was hit by a car on the way to his school bus stop Thursday, Dec. 5.

About 7:40 a.m. last week, Brian Matthew Herzog, 11, of Independence Township, was walking down Whipple Lake Road to catch his morning school bus when he was struck by a vehicle driven by Mark Andrew Brezinski, 28.

Herzog was admitted to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac, and was released a day later.

According to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department report, Brezinski of Independence Township was traveling west on Whipple Lake Road when he drove over a crest in the road and saw three people walking in the roadway

According to witnesses, two of the people ran to the shoulder, while Herzog panicked and moved into the path of the vehicle.

Brezinski told police that as he topped the crest, he saw the three in the roadway and tried to stop but was couldn't because of the icy road conditions.

Witnesses stated that the driver of the vehicle was traveling between 15 mph and 20 mph. No tickets were issued.

Whipple Lake Road is in the northeast quadrant of Independence Township.

Wanted: Gifts, food for needy children

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

About 200 children in the area may not receive Christmas gifts, and some families may go without a holiday turkey, according to Lighthouse North Director Sherry Kaars.

Community groups, businesses, churches and families have "adopted" many children on the list of needy families in north Oakland County. But about 200 gifts still are needed, she said.

Lighthouse North — a non-profit organization that provides emergency food, clothing and financial assistance to the needy in north Oakland county — provides holiday baskets of food and gifts to needy families in the area.

People who would like to help may give gifts, money or time.

■ Those who give gifts suitable for children are asked to wrap them and attach the following to the outside of the package: 1) what the gift is, 2) what age the gift is for, and 3) what gender the gift is for. Packages may be dropped off at 5331 Maybee Road, across from North Sashabaw Elementary School.

■ Those who would like to help purchase turkeys or other food may drop off money or send it to: Lighthouse North, 5331 Maybee Road, Clarkston, MI 48346.

Most other food items for the food baskets are in abundant supply, thanks to generous donations at Thanksgiving, said Kaars.

However, the following specific foods still are needed: stuffing mix, canned sweet potatoes, pie crust mix, fruit pie filling, and breakfast cereal.

Money and food items are needed the week of Dec. 16-20 to help fill the holiday baskets.

■ Those who would like to donate time may help pack baskets, sort food, wrap gifts and designate gifts now through Dec. 24. Call 673-4949 for more information.

Board to re-see bids for police station

Puzzled by the cost difference of two bid submittals, the Independence Township Board has decided to reject all bids for renovations to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD) substation.

On Dec. 3, the township board approved a motion to decline the offers and re-see bids at a later date. The starting time and deadline were not disclosed at the meeting.

The bids of $14,650 and $30,800 were delivered to the township offices by the November deadline.

The proposed job entails building a 576-square-foot addition to the back of the existing OCSD substation on M-15, Clarkston. The project would also include installing additional lockers and remodeling the station's interior.

Township records indicate that only two builders, out of eight area companies contacted, cast bids. They were C.B. Custom Builders ($14,650) and Dick Moscovic ($30,800).

Project coordinator George Anderson, director of the public works department, said the low bid was fine, but the township wants to consider others. He said the disparity between the two bids raised some questions with the board.

Anderson added, however, that the addition can't go forward until the Village of Clarkston approves the plans. Because of the substation's location within Clarkston's limits, the project falls under the village's jurisdiction.

Pet of the Week

Magical Motown

Motown is looking to "get down" with a new owner. This 4-month-old labrador-retriever mix is house-broken and reportedly good with children and other dogs. His previous owners gave him up because they didn't have enough time for the playful pooch.

Motown's $60 adoption fee includes neutering.

To see Motown, visit the Michigan Humane Society, 3600 Auburn Road, Rochester Hills, 852-7420. Hours at the non-profit shelter are 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Generous support

When they were asked, the Clarkston community came through with donations of canned goods and cash — enough to fill about 400 Thanksgiving baskets for the needy.

"It was fantastic," said Sherry Kaars, director of Lighthouse North — the non-profit organization that feeds and clothes the needy in north Oakland County.

"The community really helped us," she said of the Thanksgiving food drive. "It was everyone. They all kicked in and brought things in. ... We had enough money to buy turkeys and had enough food to fill baskets."

Clothing closet closed through the holidays

Due to special projects, the clothing closet at Lighthouse North will not accept clothing donations Monday, Dec. 16, through Sunday, Jan. 5.

It will again accept contributions of clothing beginning Monday, Jan. 6, said Director Sherry Kaars.

Kaars asks those who would like to donate clothing to "hang onto the donations until then."

Volunteers at the Maybee Road facility will be working on filling holiday food and gift baskets, so there will be no room for more clothing donations temporarily.

Plus, there will be no one available to sort the clothing.

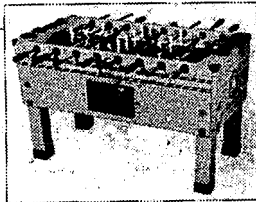

"The holidays are too busy," said Kaars, who is one of only two paid employees at Lighthouse North on Maybee Road, Independence Township.

When the clothing closet opens again in January, it will accept all sorts of clothes but particularly needs children's clothing as well as boots and coats for all ages, she said.

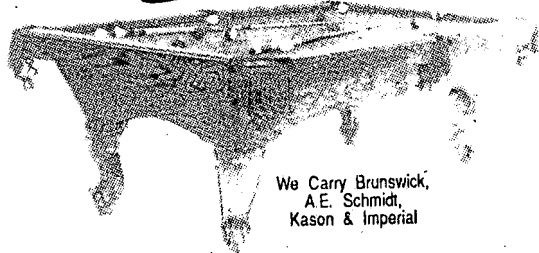

For more information, call 673-4949.

Cash sought for holiday 'shut-in' meals

A few Clarkston-area senior citizens who are confined to their homes will be alone for Christmas, according to Marilyn Lash.

Lash, an assessor for the Older Persons Commission (OPC), Rochester, said "home-bound" seniors in the area receive home-delivered meals through OPC out of the Independence Township Senior Center.

But on holidays, nobody is available to make and deliver the meals, she said.

Anyone who would like to remedy the situation may donate money to pay for the food or time to prepare or deliver the meals, she said.

"I'd like to start an ongoing fund," she said, explaining that donations year-round would help provide those special holiday meals.

To donate or volunteer, call Lash at 656-1403 or Donna Heyniger (Independence Township site hostess) at 656-1403.

Defending state champs grapple tough schedule

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

If you want to get caught up on wrestling the past two years, take a drive on Clarkston Road and read back-to-back signs.

Drive east, and you'll see one sign honoring the 1990 Class A team state champion Lake Orion Dragons. Drive west and you'll see another praising the 1991 Class A team state champion Clarkston Wolves.

It used to be you had to drive south, way south to Temperance-Bedford, to see such a sign. But the Mules' wrestling factory (Bedford coach William Regnier has the best record in state history at 416-48-3 in dual meets) was shut down by both the Dragons and Wolves in the last two state finals.

(Despite this, the Mules continue to get national respect. USA Today recently selected Bedford, which returns 11 of 13 starters, as the nation's fifth-best team in a pre-season poll).

In fact, last season Clarkston had a tougher time defeating Lake Orion and Waterford Kettering in Greater Oakland Activities League regular-season action than it did against Bedford at the finals (Clarkston topped the Mules 36-27 in Battle Creek).

"Our biggest strength is our schedule," said Clarkston coach Scott Strickler, whose team was 26-0 in dual meets last year.

And if a tough regular season is good preparation for post-season action, the Wolves should be even more prepared this year. In addition to the tough GOAL meets and the 30-plus team Oakland County Meet (won by Clarkston for the first time last year), Clarkston will face three of the country's best teams Jan. 11 at the St. Edwards Quadrangular (located near Cleveland): Temperance-Bedford, Welsh Jesuit of Ohio (rated third by USA today) and host St. Edwards (rated 10th by USA).

Also, Goodrich will host a top-notch invitational on Dec. 28. The Wolves and runner-up Bedford, along with the defending Class B and C teams, will join host Goodrich and 11 other quality teams.

Clarkston will meet those challenges without the services of some key wrestlers who graduated, co-captains Damon Michelsen (a 52-1 wrestler who won the individual state championship at 171 and will be wrestling at the University of North Carolina) and Joel Davis, Jason Slater, Alex Martin, Joe Webb, Tony Miller and Mike Stanton, among others.

Last year's squad was especially strong in the heavier weights but the new edition of the Wolves will be a little different.

"This team might be more balanced," said Strickler. "There will be less superstars. And it's younger. It's a very junior-oriented team."

The coach isn't too worried about the defending champs being overconfident. He said wrestling against tough competition is almost always a humbling experience.

And Strickler adds, "That feeling (winning the championship) is so inspiring, I can't think of a kid that would not want to reach that pedestal again."

Two of the key wrestlers returning are juniors Jerry Anderson and Jeff Deroseau. Anderson was 54-2 last season (a school record for victories) and placed third in the state at 125. Deroseau, 49-3, finished second in the state at 103. Anderson is expected to wrestle at 130 this season and Deroseau will move up to 112.

Much is expected out of the Wolves' three co-captains, Jason Roughton, Brian Davis and Nathan Smith. Roughton, who will be wrestling at 140, was ill at the beginning of last season because of mono but finished strong. The 29-10-1 wrestler ended up being a state qualifier and won one of the key matches in the team state finals, pinning Bedford's Dave Witfoth.

Davis and Smith are both 171-pounders but one of them will be moving up to the 189 spot. Davis (6-8-1) was injured for most of last season but came back to win a 7-0 match against Bedford's Dan Meszaros in the 160-pound division at the team state finals.

Smith had the unfortunate task last year of trying to beat out Michelsen in the 171-pound division. He'll get plenty of opportunity to show his skills this year.

Strickler said other wrestlers who will most likely start at the other weight divisions (or vie for a spot) are: 103 - Corey Grant; 119 and 125 - Sean Mick, Jeff Farrand and Jesse Laycock; 135 - Charlie Liggett; 145 - Mike Cain and Frank Lafferty; 152 - Steve Cohoon; 160 - Rick Detkowski and Mitch Peterson; 189 - Steve CO-CAPTAINS for the defending Class A state champions will be, from left, Nathan Smith, Jason Roughton and Brian Davis. The Wolves will face some state runner-up Temperance-Bedford wrestlers this Saturday at the Lansing Eastern Invitational.

The coach said it is unfair to make too many comparisons between this season's Wolves to last year state champs because each team, year after year, has its own identity.

However, Strickler did point out, "We know that everybody that wrestles us will be wrestling against the defending state champs."

And if they forget, they just have to take a drive on Clarkston Road.

Cagers leg it to win

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The fortunes of the Clarkston varsity basketball team will rest mainly on the play of four-year starter Dugan Fife.

But Wolf opponents better be concerned about the other four ... five ... eight ... 10 ... 12 players.

It's difficult to think of Clarkston as either a one-man or five-man team.

Dan Fife-coached teams rely on legs, players moving without the ball on offense or keeping one step ahead of opponents while closely-guarding on a man-to-man defense.

And those legs have to be fresh, which means getting refreshment from the bench. Last season, the Wolves went 20-0

DUGAN Fife, a top candidate for the state's Mr. Basketball title, and his Clarkston teammates looked quite strong in a Dec. 6 scrimmage against defending Class A state champion Detroit Southwestern.

during the regular season, were rated as high as third in the state, and finished 23-1 after losing to a resurgent Flint Northwestern squad in the regionals.

Starting point guard Chris Wasilk and center Mark Galbraith have been lost to graduation from that squad but plenty of experience and some new talented players return.

In comparing last season to this year, coach Dan Fife said, "We may not be as good early, but we may be better later in the season."

Fife pointed out that last season the Wolves won some close games to remain undefeated (namely two-point wins over Detroit Catholic Central and Pontiac Northern), and this year the schedule looks even tougher.

Clarkston (rated in pre-season as the state's ninth-best team by the Detroit Free Press) again faces Catholic Central (rated eighth) and Greater Oakland Activities League foe Northern (Fife said the always-tough Huskies return eight of their top 10 players). And add to that list the season-opener against Pontiac Central and a tough invitational across the border in Toledo, Ohio.

The Ohio invite fans certainly want to see University of Michigan bound Dugan Fife.

Wolf opponents will also be seeing the 6-3, 175-pounder, seeing if they can stop him.

"He'll be a marked man. He's always been a marked man," said the elder Fife about his sharp-shooting son, who averaged nearly 30 points a game last season. "He's a four-year starter and one of the premier players in the state, maybe in the country. We ask him to do a lot."

The coach said relieving pressure was one reason for signing early with the Wolverines, but noted, "There's still a lot of pressure. He puts a lot of pressure on himself. Maybe that's what's made him a good player."

If Dugan Fife has been the diamond, his teammates have been jewels.

"The team has been super for Dugan's four years," said the coach, whose team has won the Class A district title the past three years. "A lot of his success is a credit to the team's success."

Seniors Derek Wiley, Luke Fedio and Jon Wyniemo return with plenty of experience. Wiley (point guard) and Fedio (underneath) are expected to help out with their scoring punch and Wyniemo (on the wing) is known for his defensive skills.

The coach points out that his players may start the flex offense at a certain position but nearly everyone will revolve into different positions, especially when the team passes three or more times. The Wolves count on their screening and picking.

Six-foot four-inch senior Jeremy Burke and 6-6 senior Sean Halleran will see much action underneath and 6-2, 190-pound junior Chris Combs looked strong under the boards in a recent scrimmage against Detroit Southwestern.

The team is loaded with talented ball handlers at guard, senior Dave Smith, junior Nick Shires (the MVP on last season's JV squad) and freshman Jeremy Fife.

the talented squad.

"Our strengths as a team are our attitude, willingness to work hard, willingness to do what's best for the team ... and we're Clarkston basketball," said coach Fife, whose team often goes 6-on-5 in practice. "Our games can't be harder than practice."

Maybe that's what Clarkston opponents need ... six starters.

Mike Shore, Scott Smith and Harold Marsh were close behind by choosing 19 games correctly. Clarkston News sports-writer James Gibowski picked 18 games right and guest picker Ron Davis (athletic programmer for the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department) guessed 15 games correctly.

Covault tied with Donna Genre and guest picker Clarkston Athletic Director Paul Tungate by picking 13 games correctly in Nov. 23-24 action. However, Covault guessed 38 points would be scored in the Harvard at Yale game, while Genre guessed 41 and Tungate 54 (36 points were actually scored). Clarkston News sports-writer James Gibowski picked 11 games correctly.

Back in 1910, "caring" meant Pontiac residents raising $25,000 to build "Oakland County's First Hospital" in what was then a village of 5,000 people.

Five years later, caring meant the Oakland County Hospital Association donating the hospital to the thriving industrial center of Pontiac...and Oakland County Hospital became Pontiac City Hospital, which was changed to Pontiac General Hospital in 1931. Today, new communities all over Oakland County look to the same hospital for caring in the 1990's for services such as:

- Complete care for new mothers and babies, including family-centered birthing and northern Oakland County's leading intensive care unit for newborns.
- Satellite centers offering walk-in medical care and diagnostic services.
- Expanded programs in physical rehabilitation, county-wide psychiatric services and cardiac care.
- State-of-the-art laser and outpatient surgery.

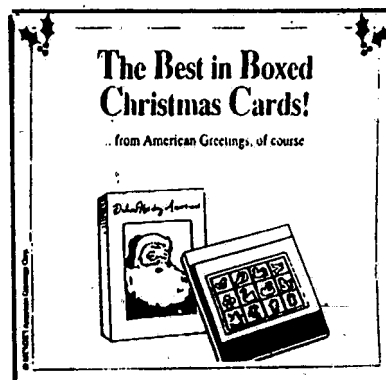

With these new "caring" services and a patient base throughout Oakland County, our hospital has earned a new name.

This multi-faceted, contemporary cross represents the international symbol for compassionate, community-oriented health care. The repeating lines, which comprise the cross, signify the diversified parts of the North Oakland Medical Center, a medical facility with many aspects, affiliates, divisions, services, and organizations all working together for the people of the North Oakland County area.

Holiday gifts accepted for senior citizens

If you've already donated a holiday gift to a needy child this year, you may consider donating a gift to a senior citizen through a similar program.

Lighthouse North Caregivers is accepting gifts to be delivered to north Oakland County "shut-ins," those who are confined to their homes due to disability, illness or age.

Gifts should be wrapped with a sticker on the outside of the package signifying whether the gift is for a male or female senior citizen.

Good ideas for gifts are those things that the seniors are not able to obtain easily for themselves, such as: Stamps, envelopes, lined stationary, ballpoint pens, light bulbs, dish cloths, kitchen towels, razors, soap, shampoo, toothpaste, scarves, blankets, books, crossword puzzles, candy, dietetic candy and Kleenex.

Gifts may be dropped off at Lighthouse North (5331 Maybee Road, Independence Township) 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, now through Friday, Dec. 20. Each gift should be designated: "Att: Sally" so it won't be confused with gifts donated for children. For more information, call 625-4947.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

PRICE MEETING

Ron Rodda Sales Manager

"Let's discuss your Career In Real Estate Sales"

THE FINAL MOMENT

QUESTION: I have looked at several homes with my Realtor. I have finally made a mental decision on the particular house I want to buy. What is the next step?

ANSWER: Let your REALTOR handle the actual price negotiations. This is always the toughest and most sensitive part of any home purchase. He's an expert in this type of negotiation. He knows both parties financial positions, and can usually come out with a better arrangement than personal confrontation between principals. One party will usually be at a disadvantage. Not all homes sell at the asking price - but don't ask him to do the impossible.

Chuck looks like he's having a great time, but this is after he tried to escape through the back door when his "little surprise" arrived, according to his friend, Charlie Ivy.

Grad
