BY CURT MCALLISTER Clarkston News Associate Editor

The Independence Township Board has approved an amendment to its drunken driving ordinance, which will put the township in line with some new statewide guidelines that take effect Jan. 1, 1992.

On Dec. 17, the board voted 6-0 in favor of the legislative changes. The ordinance amendment received immediate, emergency adoption that evening, to beat the New Year's deadline. Trustee Daniel Travis was absent from the meeting.

According to Sgt. Joe Quisenberry of the Oakland

County Sheriff's Department, the new measures will mean tougher sentences and hasten the state's prosecution process.

A person found guilty of driving with a blood alcohol content of .10 could soon face a variety of punishments. Presently, a person found guilty of operating a vchicle under the influence of liquor (OUIL) for the first time could face one or more of the following:

Community service work not to exceed 45 days.

Timprisonment not to exceed 90 days.

A fine of not less than $100 or more than $500.

Loss or restriction of driving privileges between 6 months and 2 years.

If a person is found guilty of OUIL for a second time, within seven years, the penalties are considerably stiffer. They could include:

A fine between $200 and $500.

Community service work not less than 10 days or more than 90 days.

Imprisonment not less than 48 consecutive hours or more than 90 days.

Loss or restriction of driving privileges between 6 months and 2 years.

In both cases, the judge will probably order the guilty party to pay for court costs and attend alcohol (See DRINK, next page)

As the number of OUIL offenses rises, so do the penalties. Drivers racking up three or more offenses, within 10 years, could be looking at considerable prisontime and an indefinite revokation of all driving privileges. Under the laws, refusal to take a breath test will be as equally stringent. They include suspension of his or her operator's license and an automatic six points to the person's driving record.

Other items added under the township-amended ordinance include:

A minimum 30-day suspension of even a first conviction of OUIL, unlawful blood alcohol level (UBAL), or operating under the influence of drugs.

A new, 15-year felony for people who are OUIL or under the influence of drugs and cause the death of another individual.

A new, 5-year felony for people who are OUIL or under the influence of drugs and cause the incapacitating injury of another individual.

Adds two points to the driving record of someone found with open intoxicants in his or her motor vehicle.

■ Allows juries to be informed of a refusal of a chemical test.

Courts must judge drunken driving cases within a set time period and impose a licensing sanction at the time of a plea of nolo contendere or guilty is accepted or a verdict of guilty is rendered.

■ Orders that police confiscate a person's driver's license upon refusing to submit to a chemical test that determines alcohol content.

Copies of this amended ordinance can be obtained by contacting the township offices at 625-5111.

Weeds spur citizens to seek help

BY DENNIS V. CARTER Clarkston News Staff Writer

Weed control in Susin Lake has prompted lakefront residents to ask the Springfield Township Board for help. On Dec. 13, residents and the president of the Susin

Lake Association asked the board to set up a lake association under township board control.

The board, however, took no action but instead asked township attorney Gregory Need to analyze two public acts that govern lake associations.

Susin Lake Association President Edward Turner suggested using Michigan's 1986 Public Act 180, which would put control of the lake under the Springfield Township Board.

Township Supervisor Collin Walls, however, suggested that the association set up a lake board under the Michigan 1966 Public Act 345, which some of the other lakes in the area use.

Turner, however, said the 180 act was more timely, and he feared that the residents of the lake would lose local control of their lake with Act 345.

"We would trust the fate of the lake in the hands of the township more than we would in the hands of the Department of Natural Resources," said Turner.

Turner also said that Act 345 required an engineer's study and the association just didn't have the money for it.

According to Turner, the main reason for the request is to get help with weeds as well as help collecting money from residents to pay for dredging or chemicals.

Another reason Turner doesn't like the 345 plan is the interpretation of dredging.

Trustee Dennis Vallad, who lives on the lake, said an engineer's report would be helpful.

"Until we can see what would be best for the lake, it seems it would be good idea to have a engineer's report," said Vallad.

Vallad also asked about how the two acts would affect back lots and other area that have accesses to the lake, aside from lakefront lots.

That, however, will be determined after the attorney gives the board an analysis of the acts.

The board also said the association should circulate a petition with two-thirds of the lakefront owners' signatures required. The petition is to be worded in way that either of acts selected will cover the lake.

walls said the item probably will appear on the township's agenda in February, unless the petition drive is completed in time for the January meeting.

New judge seat nears at 52nd District Court

BY JULIE CAMPE Clarkston News Editor

By Jan. 1, 1993, Judge Gerald McNally may have help in hearing cases at 52nd District Court, Independence Township.

The Oakland County Board of Commissioners recently approved money for the $93,812 judge's seat. The county is responsible for about $5,900 of that salary, including benefits, and the state is responsible for the rest. The Michigan Legislature must approve the seat before it becomes official. Other costs associated with the new judge's seat include the salary for an additional court reporter plus rent for more space.

Those who intend to run for election for the seat must file an affidavit with Oakland

Judge Gerald McNally

County by May 12, according to Jill Palulian, court administrator at 52-2 District Court.

McNally, who has heard cases for 22 1/2 years at 52-2, said the new seat in his district is necessary because of gradual growth in Holly, Groveland, Brandon, Springfield and Independence townships.

"Our statistics prove an obvious need," said Mc-Nally, mentioning that traffic has increased by about 5-8 percent per year, which means more traffic violations.

"It's a gradual process," he said. "It doesn't impact you all at once. It's like gaining weight: you don't gain 10 pounds all at once."

Statewide, 12,000 cases are heard per district per year. At 52-2, the annual caseload is 20,000, he said.

In addition, new drunken driving laws will cause more paperwork and more deadlines -- more work, he said.

He also noted that Interstate 75 and Dixie Highway traverse this district, which means that many cases his his court involve people who are passing through.

"Many district courts are divided up by population, but more than half of our work comes from non-residents," he said.

The court has become busier and busier, and it could reach the point of inefficiency, he said.

"The secret is to do your case once. You don't want to have to adjourn because you're too busy, then reschedule everything.'

"Many district counts are divided up by population, but more than half of our work comes from non-residents."

Judge Gerald McNally

McNally said the district court level is significant.

"You can't underestimate the importance of a district court," he said. "Every crime committed in Michigan comes through the district court. The people contact is incredibly high."

District judges may sentence up to one year and may charge up to $1,000 fines.

"Every case is unique or different. "Many times people are not represented by a lawyer. ... If you're publicly paid, you're in a helping profession. We are helping people solve their problems."

If approved by the Legislature in time for the primary election this summer, the new seat would mean 52-2 would lose its 3-day-a-week.magistrate, who hears small claims and some misdemeanors. It also would eliminate the $300-a-day visiting judge, who appears about four times a month at 52-2, said Palulian.

Officially, area residents can't begin to campaign. However, at least two Clarkston-area residents have admitted that they intend to run: attorney Frank Millard, currently on the Oakland County Board of Commissioners; and Dana Fortinberry, an assistant county prosecutor.

and down among area merchants Shoplifting up

Editor's note: This is the first of a three-part series on how the Clarkston area is affected by the recession.

BY CURT MCALLISTER Clarkston News Associate Editor

With the holiday season upon us, some shoppers have a tendency to take what they want instead of paying for it.

In the Clarkston area, shoplifting is down considerably this year, according to Sgt. Joe Quisenberry of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department. He said his substation hasn't had a report of shoplifting in quite a while.

Quisenberry said the area's type of businesses doesn't. lend itself to widespread shoplifting.

"We usually don't receive a lot of reports because the Clarkston area is made up primarily of mom and pop businesses," he said. "You usually see rampant shoplifting in areas with a K-Mart or Meijer stores.

However, some local establishments have run into some shoplifting problems this season. The Bunny Hut in Independence Pointe, for example, has been hit nine times by shoplifters.

Owner Judy Brock said she's fed up with people looking for "five-finger discounts."

"It wouldn't have been so bad if these people had stolen hats, mittens or scarves --- things they need for the winter," Brock said. "But these people are stealing col-

Despite her problems, she was able to catch one of the shoplifters red-handed. However, she decided not press charges against or file a report against the 29-yearold woman. Instead, Brock took back the items and let her

"I know the village's businesses has problems with kids, but nearly 90 percent of our hits have been adults," she said.

To combat shoplifting, Brock said she never leaves the store's floor unattended. She also keeps her eyes on people with big purses, coats and strollers and has created a word-association code with co-workers if a potential shoplifter is spotted.

Leta Calcote, owner of Calcote's Country, has suffered from shoplifting this season. So far, she's had about $400 worth of items pilfered from her Main Street store. Like Brock, she hasn't called the police.

Calcote said $300 worth of items have to be stolen at a time for insurance to cover the damage. She also fears Calcote has also had her daughter come in during busy times to help combat potential shoplifters.

Buck Kopietz, owner of Tierra's Arts and Designs on Main Street, said he's had some art supplies and jewelry stolen from his business this season. However, he added that this holiday wasn't any worse than usual.

On the other end of the spectrum, the owners of Milieu and Coach's Corner said they've had little or no trouble with theft the last couple of months.

School board holds off on buying new buses

The Clarkston school district won't be adding new buses to its fleet any time soon.

On Dec. 16, the Clarkston Board of Education unanimously voted to hold off on buying four new buses until members see how severe the district's budget cuts are next year. Board members said they would re-consider the purchases in a couple of months.

The buses under consideration include three 72passenger conventional diesel vehicles and one 35-passenger bus with a wheelchair lift. The three larger buses would replace three older buses in the fleet, which have tallied over 150,000 miles a piece.

These new buses would cost the district around $146,000.

"Everything is related," he said. "If you close the gymnasium, crime will increase. The kids will have no place to go.'

Normally, pop, cigarettes and food items are the items most often shoplifted --- usually by teen-agers, said McNally,

In times of economic downturns, however, theft of food items "seems to go up."

"It's just another ripple effect," said McNally.

However, a slow economy most affects crimes related to alcoholism, spouse abuse, evictions and theft, he said.

Gingerbread combines ages, programs in Clarkston area

BY JULIE CAMPE Clarkston News Editor

Marzipan, royal icing and a few slabs of gingerbread were transformed into tiny, intricate houses by culinary arts students recently.

The Oakland Technical Center-Northwest (OTC-N) pupils did the work on their own time and ended up winners in a statewide gingerbread house competition sponsored by Northwest Institute, Midland.

The houses were on display during the OTC-N annual holiday open house -- as was the colorful artwork of elementary students in the Clarkston district. The younger pupils were invited to enter a gingerbread coloring contest, and their work was displayed outside the Northwest Inn (the OTC-N restaurant). The coloring contest winners were treated to a miniature gingerbread house created by the older students.

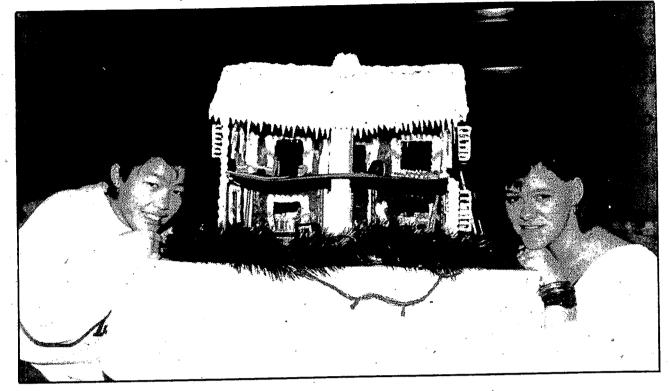

According to OTC-N instructor Debbie Trudeau, the event served as a way to introduce the younger pupils to the offerings at the technical school.

It also combined the efforts of different programs at the school, since members of the floral design class decorated the restaurant for the holidays -- which received many compliments from community members who dined at the Northwest Inn, said Trudeau.

High school pupils who won in the Dec. 4 gingerbread competition were: Peni Hubbard and Leanne Reed of Clarkston High School, first-place plaque; Heather Schwartz of Brandon High School, second-place plaque; Chris George of Brandon High School, second-place ribbon; and Paul Spicknell of Holly High School, secondplace ribbon.

In the gingerbread coloring contest, first-place winners won a small cookie house made by the OTC-N students. Second- and third-place winners won a Christmas bag of goodies.

Age 5 winners were: first place, Krystale Kelly, North Sashabaw; second place, Tori Mudge, Pine Knob;

Age 7 winners were: first place, Kelly Wiechec, Our Alicia Smith won first place as a 3-year-old, and Stephanie Wiechec, 2 1/2, won special recognition for being the youngest to enter.

2 promoted at Clarkston News

Two people were promoted at The Clarkston News, Publisher Jim Sherman announced last week.

Advertising manager Stuart McTeer was promoted to general manager for The News, and sales representative Tim Speed replaces him as sales manager.

McTeer, who holds a combined bachelor's and law degree from the University of Detroit and has taken courses on labor relations at Wayne State University, became advertising sales manager at The News in 1981. Prior to that, he was classified advertising manager for the Philadelphia Bulletin. He also was classified advertising manager and retail zone manager for the Detroit Free Press.

McTeer, who resides with his wife Madeline in Independence Township, spoke 12 years for the Associated Press International at Columbia University and taught courses for International Newspaper Advertising Executives.

While at the Free Press, McTeer served on the management team during labor negotiations. A graduate of the Dale Carnegie Sales Course, he also earned a mastery in sales management.

Speed holds a bachelor of business administration with a major in marketing from Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti. Prior to joining The Clarkston News in 1989, he was an advertising sales representative with the Ypsilanti Press. Before that, he was an advertising sales representative for Associated Newspapers in Wayne County. He and his wife Susan reside in Oxford Township.

As sales manager, his responsibilities include generating new business, according to the publisher.

"He will work with Stu to continue the success The Clarkston News has experienced in the last 10 years,"

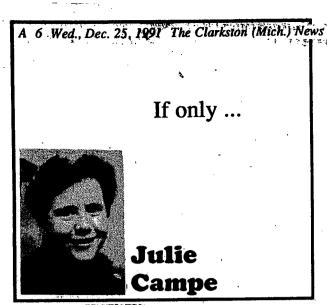

Clarkston News has experienced in the last to years, said Sherman.

Last Chance for Savings!..

For the new year, I hope for ...

... a swift resolution of Independence Township's lawsuit over the legality of cityhood for the Village of Clarkston. A lot of people are in limbo until the Michigan Court of Appeals makes its decision.

... more good books. Wouldn't it be great if the author of "Cold Sassy Tree" came out with another? And isn't it about time for a new book for Pat Conroy? Or has he been too busy writing the screenplay for his novel, "Prince of Tides?"

... a sudden agreement between Clarkston school board members on what to do about the improvement of school buildings and about the impending space crunch at the high school. Of course, the board merely reflects the community at large. What would it take to make school district residents agree on facilities (miracles not included)?

... a generous long-term benefactor for Lighthouse North. The worthy organization, still in its infancy, has discovered a reservoir of needs in the area and desperately needs a fountainhead of money. Community groups and churches contribute often, but Lighthouse North's two paid staff people never know if they'll have enough money to meet expenses.

... more good movies. I'm ready for movies similar to "My Life as a Dog," "Au Revoir les Enfants," "Hannah and her Sisters," "Man from Snowy River," "The Elephant Man," ... (I could finish this column just by listing good movies.)

... warm socks.

... warm cookies.

... hot fudge (with a little Bryer's vanilla ice cream).

... two months of 28- to 30-degree weather with fluffy snow and sunshine -- good for skiing, good for hiking, good for just looking.

... a quick transition into spring, beginning, say, on March 1.

... a generous benefactor for the development of parks in Independence and Springfield townships. Independence's Baycourt Park on Andersonville Road is a gem, complete with a building that has character, lots of trees, lake frontage and smaller out buildings. Springfield's Shiawassee Basin is acre upon acre of natural wooded land, much of which will remain the same. With a little money, parking lots could be built for both parks, which would at least allow citizens to use the property.

... more young writers such as Ashley Ball and Amber Gebrowski. They bring such a fresh perspective to the world with their observations. And Ashley's message that appears in her essay on this page is so true: we do need more kindness and less anger.

... more understanding of each other. We should ask more questions and listen more -- that includes our family members and our neighbors, as well as those we don't know as well -- people in other cities, states and countries.

The challenge of a free society

Editor's note: Ashley Ball placed first in the Clarkston Area Optimist Club's annual essay contest, and members were so impressed that they thought the Clarkston community would like to hear this teen-ager's views on "The challenge of a free society," the theme of this year's contest.

BY ASHLEY BALL

When I visited New York City with my family two years ago I saw something that burned a picture forever in my mind. A man was sitting on the sidewalk near Bloomingdale's with his little girl who was about 10. They were dirty and ragged and held a sign that said, "We are hungry, please give us money."

My little sister insisted that my parents give them money, and they did. But they were reluctant, and I understood. In New York City, food is provided in shelters for the hungry, but drugs are not. I didn't think he wanted the money for food. But whatever it was he wanted, he was helpless to get it. He was dependent on our charity for it. As we walked on, I wondered what had gone wrong with his life, his liberty and his pursuit of happiness?

This is a free country. You can drink. You can smoke. You can swear. You can openly criticize the government. You can get as many abortions as you want. You can gamble away your family's savings. There is even a permissive degree to which parents can neglect their children in the name of careers and other priorities, and then blame their children's failures on the schools and the teachers. You can hate your neighbor, and you can leave your family. You can pass up the poor in the streets. You can refuse to vote or to read the newspaper. You don't have to help anybody or care about anything or even be a good person.

These are the fringe benefits of a free society, the rights of a citizen. But for some people, such as, perhaps, the man in the picture in my mind, the pursuit of these rights has ruined their lives.

We must be kinder, more thoughtful, more generous and less angry.

A free society must be about more than rights and freedoms. It must also be about the responsibilities we have to our freedoms.

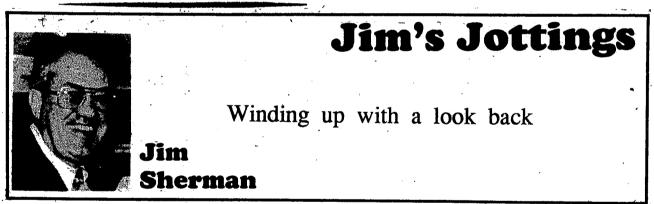

But what can one person do? Well, one person certainly can't wipe out poverty or drug addiction or pollution. One person can't solve the riddle of unemployment, homelessness and prejudice.

But there's a lot that we, as individuals, can and must do. We must be kinder, more thoughtful, more generous and less angry. We must help our families and our neighbors, and improve our lives in simple ways. We must be more patient. And we must try not to do things that will destroy ourselves.

and must do. We must be kinder, more thoughtful, more generous and less angry. We must help our Freedom should not be something that just allows us to have more — it should be something that allows us to be more and to do more.

The challenge of a free society is to not settle for just the things we're free to do — the things we can get away with doing — but to focus on the things we must do to make life better for ourselves and for those who come after us.

Ah, it's been an eventful year. Every day of 1991 Madonna made the daily papers as she wore her underwear as outerwear. What's the news value to that? Her fashion proved one thing: If Sears and Roebuck had known more about merchandising they would have had more choices for catalog covers in the good old days.

We heard more and more about the "Quarter Pounders" from the providers of fast foods. They've learned how to make four ounces sound like half a cow.

Warnings increased this year, particularly to health and weather. A dark cloud meant 'go immediately under your bed.' A sprinkle of rain meant 'roads are too slippery to drive on.' One snowflake brought warnings of a flu epidemic, two flakes over Lake Michigan sent road crews scurrying to fill their salt trucks and three snowflakes gave TV stations cause to break into programs with weather bulletins.

Books needed

The new portions of the Independence Township Public Library are now open for business. Many faithful patrons of the formerly cramped building and many curious newcomers have come to see the changes, which continue even as they watch.

Workmen are converting the entire former library into the children's section of the new; work also continues in and among the reading patrons in the new sections. It is too exciting to be a bother.

Even as a very small library, Independence Township could satisfy the needs of its readers through the Inter-loan Program. Once requested, books were borrowed from other libraries in the area, and, if necessary, from libraries in the far reaches of Michigan or from out of state. (A book I once requested came from Cornell University in New York!)

Although this service opens a vast world of books to readers who know just what they want and are willing to wait for it, it is of little use to the browser or to the person who needs ready information on a particular subject. The library's own collection is just not very big for the size of the township, and often information is out of date, unable to keep up with new editions and with ever-racing technology.

Another problem of a small library building is that older books must be discarded to make room for new, even if they may be of value to readers.

Now the library has more space for its programs as well as for its books, but until it has more books, it is still a small library - too cramped for the needs of the township.

Donations of books that have been gently read or new books from the list the librarians have created will be gratefully received ... and are a wonderful way to spread the gift of reading to everyone the library reaches. Barbara Deegan, member Friends of the Library

'If it Fitz

The only time my wife and I get excited about professional football is when Sunday's televised game runs long and delays the 7 p.m. start of our favorite program, "60 Minutes." On one typical Sunday, at about 7:30, Dallas was leading Green Bay, 42-14, there was one second to play, and Green Bay called time-out.

"Time-out? Time-out with one second to play?" my wife screamed. "That dumb team is 28 points behind. What can they do in one second?"

"That's why they called time-out," I explained. "They have to decide what to do. They'll probably go into their one-second drill." "Are you trying to tell me Green Bay can score 28 points in one second?"

"You can never tell what way a football will bounce," I said. "Football is a game of emotions. It doesn't matter how much time is left if momentum is on your side. During this time-out, the quarterback will call the next 47 plays. That cleverly eliminates the need for huddles. The time saved by not huddling can be used for sideline passes that stop the clock, and onside kickoffs that don't start the clock until the ball is touched by John Madden.

"In no time at all, Green Bay will be right back in the ballgame."

"That's an awful pun," she said. "If this game doesn't end one second after this time-out is over, I'm going to throw something."

The game ended 15 minutes later. She threw a fit. Green Bay didn't rally to win,

"They weren't beat, they just ran out of time," I explained. That was several years ago, when it seemed certain that football and network strategists had devised every means possible to delay "60 Minutes" until 48 hours after the blowing of the two-minute warning whistle, except on the West Coast when the game often didn't end until Thursday because Madden is afraid to fly and takes the

The purpose of the two-minute warning, of course, is bus to create a short pause during which the network can advertise 2,345 upcoming special programs. Also to inform the typical male viewer that he has time to run out for a snack in a restaurant, elope with the waitress, and return home with his firstborn cild in time to see the last four plays.

Anyway, in view of this high sophisticated and successful delay technology, my wife and I were surprised two Sundays ago to learn the TV/football marketing geniuses have somehow managed to discover a new way to get us excited about professional football.

With less than a minute to play, San Francisco scored. a touchdown, giving it a 38-14 lead (with the ex over New Orleans. "60 Minutes" would be only 15 minutes late! Except ...

Play was stopped while officials reviewed a videotaped replay of the alleged TD, to make sure it really happened. For the sake of authenticity, I think the officials went home to watch the tape on their own TV sets in their own dens. Eventually the touchdown was disallowed and the ball was put on the 1-inch line, from where San Francisco scored again; naturally...

It was finally time for "60 Minutes." Except . ...

The clock, with only a few seconds left to tick, was again stopped while officials reviewed the videotaped replay. It was another splendid opportunity to wait eagerly for news of completely no consequence. As it was our first experience with the taped replay review, I was surprised my wife wasn't yelling about it. But then I noticed she'd disappeared.

She left behind a note saying: "I'm taking the bus to the West Coast but expect to be back home in time to see '60 Minutes' in its entirely."

CHS kids to pump up for credit

BY CURT MCALLISTER Clarkston News Associate Editor

Next year, a few Clarkston High School students will be pumping iron for credit.

On Dec. 16, the Clarkston Board of Education unanimously approved a measure that will add a weight training class to the physical education program at CHS. The course will be considered an elective worth one-half of a credit toward graduation.

Offered to boys and girls, the class will be held in the school's weight room. The course will be limited to around 25 kids per class, due to the size of the weight room.

In the course, students will study muscle structure, techniques of body toning and proper weight usage.

David Reschke, director of staff development and curriculum, said the class will help teens learn proper weight training skills. He told the board that most of the district's teens work out in private facilities where there is no supervision and where there is a greater chance of students being introduced to anabolic steroids.

This way, he said, the students will learn proper workout techniques and be shown the negative effects of steroid usage.

The staffing of these courses will be filled by shifting teachers from closed sections of general PE to these course.

'Skinheads' spur dangerous weapon ordinance

BY CURT MCALLISTER Clarkston News Associate Editor

Wary of the rising number of loitering teens in Independence Township, the township board is just one approval away from passing a dangerous weapon ordinance.

On Dec. 17, the trustees voted 6-0 in favor of amending the existing loitering ordinance with an article regarding dangerous weapons. Trustee Daniel Travis was absent.

The amendment stems from the request of Sgt. Joe Quisenberry of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, who's concerned with the rising number of "imitation skinheads" in the area. Skinheads are characterized as a sub-culture gang of violent, white supremacists who follow neo-Nazi doctrines. Their moniker comes from the fact that most members shave their heads.

These "skinheads," Quisenberry said, are local teens who dress in typical skinhead fashion. This includes spiked apparel and jewelry that can double as weapons.

Quisenberry said these teens have been hanging out around area restaurants and the Cherry Hill Lanes North bowling alley intimidating the patrons.

So far, the teens haven't caused any major problems, but Quisenberry wants to curtail any potential violence before it starts. He said the weapons ordinance could be a major deterrent.

"There haven't been any major conflicts so far, but this could develop into a big problem, and we want to have something in line to combat it," he said.

The proposed amendment would allow police officers the right to confiscate any "weapons" that could inflict bodily harm on another individual. These weapons include: a concealed firearm, a switchblade knife or any knife with a blade that exceeds three inches, a dagger, a bowie knife, martial arts throwing stars, karate sticks, nunchakus, a billy club, a razor, a cane or stiletto.

For action to be taken under the proposed amendment, a person must be doing one of three things. They include: loitering, possessing one or more items that could cause bodily harm, or brandishing that weapon in the open.

Sgt. Joe Quisenberry

Unlike a felonious weapons charge, this crime would serve as a misdemeanor in Independence Township and be punishable up to 90 days in jail. It would be up to a judge to decide the extent of the charge and if the weapon could be returned to the owner.

Second reading approval is expected at the township board's Dec. 30 meeting.

County trophy still in Wolves' grasps

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI Clarkston News Staff Writer

Scott Strickler had to remind his wrestlers what type of animals they were.

While driving with his team to Oakland Community College (Orchard Ridge Campus) to defend its Oakland County wrestling tournament championship, the Clarkston coach pointed up to the early-morning sky and a full moon.

Strickler asked his team what Wolves do when a full moon appears.

"Wolves get restless," someone answered.

And then the Wolves acted like Wolves and began howling.

When the two-day, 43-team, 31st annual tournament was over, the Wolves were again were on top of the pack, winning their second-straight county meet.

"We earned this one," said last year's Class A Coach of the Year. "It was a dog fight from the get go with Troy, Rochester Adams and Lake Orion. There's such parity that one team could get hot and win it."

The Wolves edged Troy for the title, 211.5 to 208.5. Hazel Park was third (188.5), Rochester Adams fourth (175) and Lake Orion fifth (148). Other Greater Oakland Activities League teams and their finishes were: Pontiac Northern, eighth (135); Waterford Kettering, 17th (88); Brandon, 21st (60.5); Waterford Mott, 37th (33).

That bright full moon must have also been a crystal ball for Strickler. Before the meet began, the coach told his team in order to win Clarkston would have to get four Wolves in the finals, with two firsts and six total place finishes. That's exactly division) and junior Jerry Anderson (130) won their divisions, juniors Jeff Deroseau (112) and Jason Roughton (140) took second, senior Brian Davis (189) was fifth and senior Nathan Smith (171) took sixth... Roughton, Davis and Smith are the team's tri-captains.

Strickler praised Grant's performance.

"I thought it was inspirational, a freshman leading you off," said Strickler. Grant pinned Walled Lake Western's Rob Fritz in 2:57 to win the title. The freshman said it was his biggest win ever.

"I knew I had a chance, especially after last week at Lansing Eastern when I wrestled against a senior state qualifier (Temperance-Bedford's Mark Williamson) and pinned him."

Anderson won the finals after his opponent, Hazel Park's Kevin Dunaway, forfeited because of an injury. Anderson reached the finals after topping Lake Orion's Tony Lankford, 9-2.

Deroseau was stopped in the finals by Ferndale's David Morgan on a 8-1 decision. The Clarkston wrestler had defeated Morgan in four previous meetings. Roughton, who lost two pairs of contact lenses on the mats during the weekend, nipped Lakeland's Joe Christopher, 12-11, to reach the finals. But the Wolf fell to Troy's Kat Hara, 11-5, in the championship round.

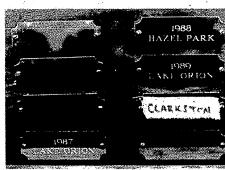

Roughton was especially glad to be wrestling because last season he was ill in bed with mononucleosis when the county meet took place.

The Clarkston junior, who came on strong late last season and became a state qualifier, said his experiences at the finals in Battle Creek have given him confidence this season when facing opponents.

"You know you're a state qualifier so you don't go around thinking that kid's awesome. You concentrate more on the wrestling," said Roughton.

Davis and Smith wrestled on adjacent mats at the same. Davis won his match for fifth by pinning Oak Park's Roger Kakos in 2:43. Smith finished sixth after being edged by Andover's Dan Heidt, 7-5.

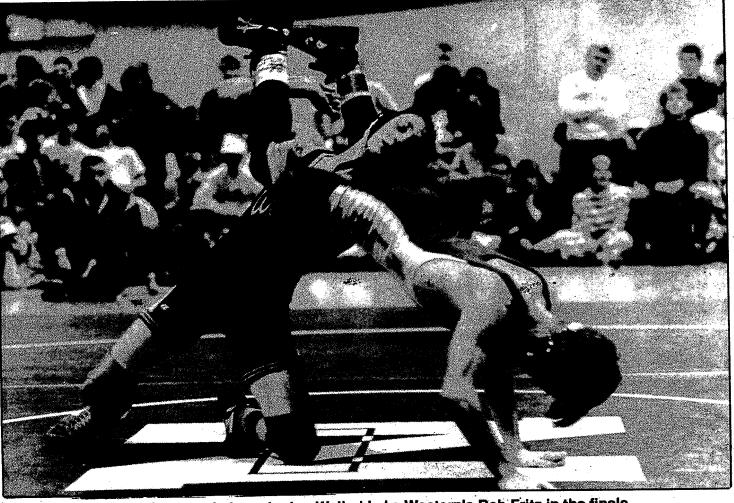

If the Wolves wouldn't have won the

Top wrestlers in state converge on Goodrich

Clarkston wrestlers will face some of the state's best teams at the Goodrich Invitational Dec. 28.

The defending Class A champion Wolves will be among nearly 20 teams at the event, including last year's Class B and C state champions, Class A runnerup Temperance-Bedford and host Goodrich.

Action begins at 10 a.m., with the finals expected to start about 6 p.m. "This is going to be tougher than the state tournament," said Goodrich coach Dennis Storrs, who organized the invitational.

Over 30 returning state qualifiers will take to the mats.

Storr said he has "mixed feelings" about the meet. He'll be pulling for his Martians but he has ties to Clarkston. He lived in the Clarkston area until seven years ago, still coaches Clarkston athletes in the off-season and is friends with some Wolf coaches.

Clarkston comeback a tournament classic

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI Clarkston News Staff Writer

With Clarkston trailing Troy 22-6, coach Dan Fife was worried but his son, Dugan, wasn't.

"Hey, dad, don't worry. They'll start falling," reassured Dugan during a timeout.

From that point on, Dugan and his teammates did more than just shoot off their mouths, they shot out the lights, as the Wolves sank four straight 3-pointers (three by Fife and one by Derek Wiley) which sparked a 27-9 run against the Colts. That run pulled Clarkston ahead at the half, 33-31.

And the Wolves didn't let up in the second half, defeating the Colts 64-53 in the championship game of the Clarkston-Oakland Basketball Classic Dec. 21 at Oakland University.

Clarkston earned a berth in the finals the previous night by stunning Detroit Catholic Central, 68-40. Troy made the finals by stopping Rochester Adams, 67-62.

Clarkston coach Dan Fife said his team's comeback was one of the best in his coaching career.

"No question about it, it was one of the biggest comebacks," said the coach, whose team improved to 4-0 with the win. "The kids totally believed in themselves. It's a tribute to the seniors. They've been through the wars a lot."

Coach Fife Troy "hit everything" to build up its lead, but the Wolves came back "hotter than a firecracker."

And if the players were firecrackers, their 3-point shooting was dynamite. The Wolves sank nine from long-range, Dugan Fife nailed six, Wiley two and David Smith one.

Clarkston's patented full-court press also helped to turn the tide in the second quarter.

"We wore them down," said the coach.

Dugan Fife (averaging 33 points a game this season) finished with 26 points, Luke Fedio scored a solid 18, Wiley nine, Sean Halleran five, Smith three and Jon Wyniemko one.

Halleran also had a terrific night defensively, pulling down 11 rebounds.

The Wolves sank 17 of 24 free throws (71 percent) while Troy made eight of 12 (67 percent).

Catholic Central won the consolation game, defeating Rochester Adams, 57-45.

CLARKSTON 68, Detroit Catholic Central 40

(Dec. 20 at Oakland University)

An 18-1 third-quarter blitz, added to a 31-21 half time lead, propelled Clarkston to a 68-40 rout of Detroit Catholic Central in the opener of the Clarkston-Oakland Basketball Classic.

Both teams were rated in the top 10 in state Class A polls.

"They came to go to war," said Catholic Central coach Bernie Holowicki, who noted thatClarkston's foot speed on defense was too much for the taller Shamrocks. "They outplayed us, outhustled us. Basketball is a game of feet, not inches."

And what's also impressive is the Wolves' shellacking of the Shamrocks took place on a neutral court (Oakland University).

"A neutral court should have been better to us," said Holowicki, whose team lost at home last season to the Wolves by one point.

Guard Dugan Fife knew he wasn't home.

"When we warm up at home, there's music. Over here, it was quiet," said Fife.

But Fife made plenty of noise during the night, scoring a game-high 31 points, hitting three 3-pointers, sinking 16 of 19 free throws and having five assists and five steals.

Jon Wyniemko scored eight, Luke Fedio seven, Derek Wiley six, Nick Shires five, Eric Ryan and Sean Halleran each with three, Jeremy Burke and Chris Combs both with two and David Smith one. Halleran also cleared eight boards and Fedio swept six.

Clarkston led 14-12 after the first quarter, 31-21 at the half, and then pulled away with that 18-1 third quarter bulge.

Catholic Central finished the game with only four players in the last 13 seconds because three were hurt and four others fouled out.

Clarkston coach Dan Fife said he was "nervous" even when his Wolves had a big lead, pointing out, "The game can . change so quick with the 3-point rule."

And the Wolf coach was always aware of the Shamrock tradition.

"They have beaten us the worst out of all the teams we've played over the years. The closest games were 20 points," said the Wolf coach.

But the past two seasons, it's been the Wolves making the noise.

And not even on their home court.

CLARKSTON Point-guard Derek Wiley drives in against Detroit Catholic. Wiley scored six points as the Wolves defeated the Shamrocks and then the next day topped Troy to win the Clarkston-Oakland Basketball Classic.

Netters fail in defense of tourney title

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI Clarkston News Staff Writer

Last season, the Clarkston varsity volleyball players found themselves as a team by winning the Lansing Waverly Invitational.

This season, the Wolves are still trying to find themselves after finishing 0-1-3 at the Waverly tourney Dec. 21.

Clarkston won the first game in three of four matches, only to lose the second game, which accounted for the three ties.

"I'm disappointed," said Clarkston coach Gordie Richardson about his team's season-opening action. "We had trouble finding an indentity and playing consistently. We didn't play up to our capability.'

Richardson said the team served well and its attack reception percentage was high, but the Wolves' service reception, attacks and setting were all below normal. The coach also said X's and O's weren't the only factors.

"Most of the problems were from not being mentally in the match," said Richardson. "We need more intensity."

Clarkston vs. Potterville

Clarkston opened its first match by winning the first game against Potterville 15-12 but lost the second 10-15. "We have no use for those (ties)," said Richardson. "We have to beat people." Heather Steinhelper led the Wolves in kills against Potterville with six and Laura Garlitz blasted four.

Stacey Tinkis had six setting assists. Rachel Seifferlein was 15-of-15 serving with five aces, while Garlitz served 6of-6 with two aces.

Defensively, Seifferlein was 7-of-10 in serve receptions while Garlitz and Tracey Ortwine each returned serve five of eight times.

Steinhelper had three blocks and Ortwine, Deanna Lisle and Seifferlein each had three digs.

Clarkston vs. St. John's

The Wolves had their toughest match against the Redwings, losing in both games, 8-15 and 4-15.

Offensively, Steinhelper had three kills and Tinkis had three set assists. Tinkis was 6-of-6 serving with one ace and Ortwine served 5-of-5 with one ace.

Defensively, Ortwine and Lisle were each 6-of-6 in serve receptions. Ortwine had seven digs and Steinhelper went up for two blocks.

Clarkston vs. Charlotte

Clarkston won the first game against Charlotte, 16-14, but lost the second game by the same score.

'This was our best match of the day," said Richardson, whose team was down 11-1 against Charlotte in the second game and tied it at 14-14, only to lose 14-16.

The Wolves were certainly more successful at the net in their third match of the day. Seifferlein powered five kills, Steinhelper had four, Brenda Bailey and Garlitz each smashed three and Ortwine had two.

Lisle had 10 assists to go along with 14-of-15 serves and five aces. Tinkis and Ortwine each served 9-of-9 with one ace. The Wolves only made four service errors in 57 attempts (93 percent).

Defensively, Seifferlein was 7-of-7 in serve receptions, Garlitz leaped for three blocks, Ortwine had six digs and Michelle Wade had five digs. Clarkston vs. Lansing Eastern Clarkston blasted Lansing Eastern in the first game, 15-4, but faltered in the second game, 12-15.

Steinhelper finished with two kills and Lisle had three assists.

Caroline Allison was 12-of-13 serving with one ace and Lisle served 7-of-8 with four aces.

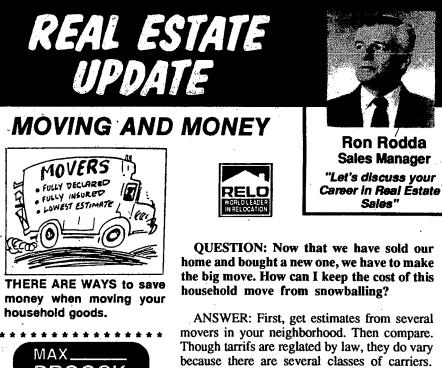

Jenna Lopucki stretched for four digs and was 4-of-4 in serve receptions.

The Wolves failed to get any blocks during the match.

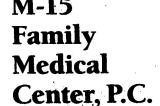

Other teams in the invitational which did not face Clarkston were Lansing Waverly, Warren Woods Tower, Webberville, Eaton Rapids and Portland. (The tournament winner was not known at press time)

Area man hopes to lure patrons with new club

BY CURT MCALLISTER Clarkston News Associate Editor

Entrepreneur Joe Puertas is looking to take a bite out Waterford's night club scene with his new business — the Shark Club.

The contemporary establishment offers numerous pool tables, restaurant seating and a bar area. Bathed in black and chrome, the 8,500-square-foot club provides its patrons with a quiet place to socialize, while engaging in a game of billiards or "electronic" darts.

The Shark Club is located on M-59, just west of Airport Road, in the new Airport Commerce Center.

Puertas, a 30-year-old Clarkston resident, is not new to the nightclub scene. His family owns and operates two businesses in Waterford Township already — Area Code 313 and Stix.

What's new in business

Puertas said the Shark Club was created to cater to the needs of his generation.

"I opened this club with the intent of attracting people in their 20s and 30s, who are sick of the typical bar scene," Puertas said. "It seems that young married couples only have two options for spending an evening out these days. But movies and restaurants can get old after a while.

"Here, we provide young couples with the chance to socialize in a quiet setting, while getting the opportunity to participate in bar activities such as pool and darts," he said.

Puertas said the stigma of the typical, smokey bar room doesn't ring true at the Shark Club. The club's high ceilings and restricted smoking areas enables the business to operate almost smoke-free.

Patrons won't have to worry about competing with a noisy band or dance floor either. The only source of music at the club is provided by a compact disk jukebox.

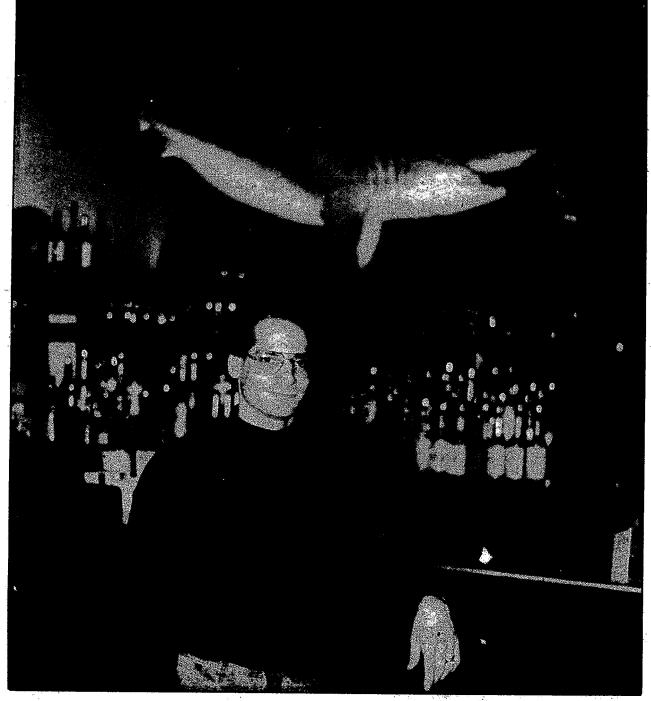

Local billiards aficionados are bound to love the club because of the quality of its equipment. The Shark Club has the distinction of being the only establishment in America equipped with black and chrome Brunswick Gold Crown 3 tables.

Totaling 24 in all, these 8- and 9-foot-long tables are considered top-of-the-line in the sport of billiards.

Instead of being coin operated, all these tables are monitored by a computer at the front desk. They keep track of the number of players and charge according to the amount of time the patrons spend at the table.

Dart enthusiasts can also take advantage of the Shark Club's six electronic dart boards toward the back of the building. According to Puertas, his business will be offering both dart and billiards leagues in coming months.

Aesthetically, the Shark Club offers some amenities

JOE Puertes, 30, of the Clarkston area, says the Shark Club is designed to offer an alternative to the "typical bar scene." Top-

the annual Clarkston High School HOBY leadership award.

CHS students honored for leadership

BY CURT MCALLISTER Clarkston News Associate Editor

Jenae Cooley's leadership skills have enabled the Clarkston High sophomore to claim the school's annual Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation (HOBY) award.

Classmate Sarah Klopfer, 16, was chosen first runner-up in a field of eight entrants.

They were chosen by answering a three-question essay on their leadership abilities and how they intend to share those abilities with others. The winners were chosen by sophomore class sponsors Holly Rupprecht and Toby Carter, both instructors.

° Reserved for high school sophomores across America, the HOBY motivates, trains and develops future leader, preparing them for positions in their schools and helping them expand the talents that will aid them in the future.

As the winner, the 15-year-old Cooley will be required to represent CHS at the statewide seminar next summer.

The seminars were created to bring together the best of two worlds: high school sophomores with demonstrated leadership qualities, tomorrow's leaders and today's leaders. Today's leaders include men and women who have distinguished themselves in business, education, government, the sciences and other professions.

Cooley is involved in several extra-curricular groups at CHS. They include: the Blue and Gold club, the Peer Counseling Team and INTERACT.

Klopfer is also heavily involved in school-related activities. She's part of INTERACT, the Blue and Gold club and CHS' Environmental Concerns group.

Parks to recycle Christmas trees

After the holidays, many face the problem of disposing of Christmas trees.

Oakland County Parks have an answer: Recycle the trees by dropping them off at any of nine locations. They/ will be chipped and used on nature trails and for mulch and compost in the parks.

Yule trees will be accepted on Saturdays and Sundays, Dec. 28 through Jan. 12. Drop-off hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. (no commercial trees accepted). No park entry fee will be charged to vehicles dropping off Christmas trees. Bordine's Better Blooms of Clarkston and Rochester is sponsoring the recycling program.

Recycling sites in the area include Independence Oaks on Sashabaw Road, north of Clarkston Road; Springfield Oaks on Andersonville Road near Hall Road; and Orion Oaks on Baldwin and Joslyn roads, south of Clarkston Road.

For their conservation efforts, recyclers will earn a coupon good for free vehicle entry to the April 25 Earth Fair at the Independence Oaks Nature Center. At that time, the coupon holder can pick up a free, white pine seedling.

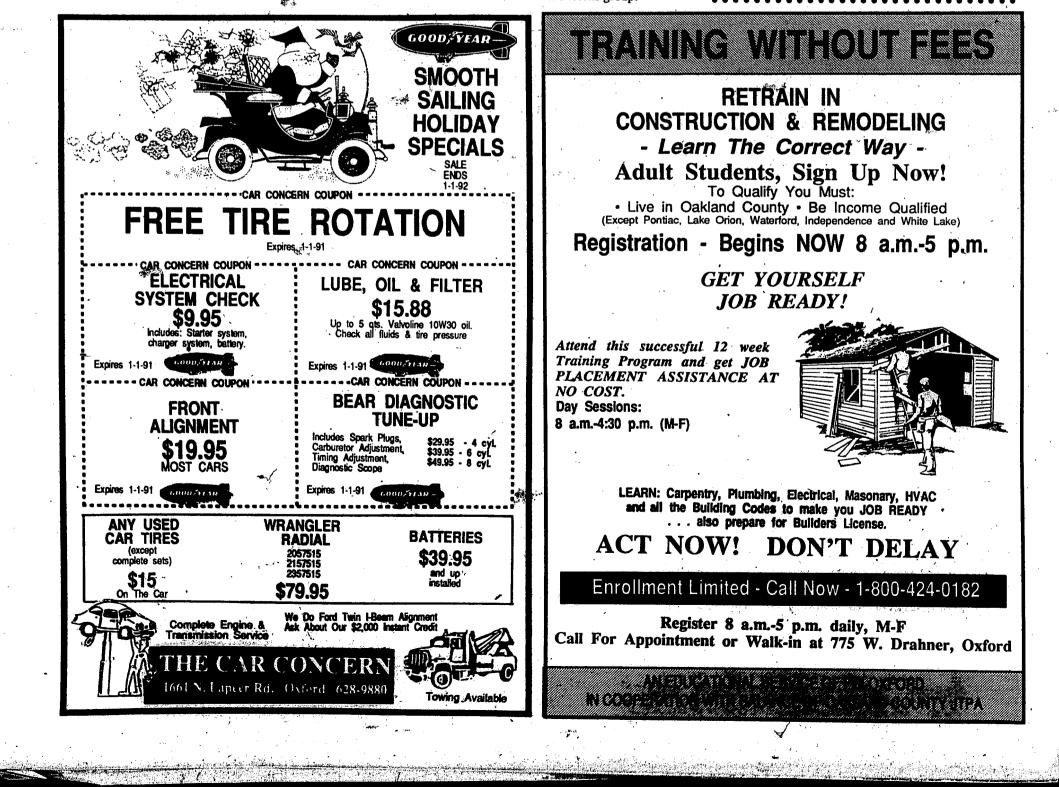

"Along with recycling trees, this is an opportunity to educate and inform the public of the impact of waste reduction," said Daniel Stencil, chief of park operations.

"People are becoming more aware of their responsibility as 'stewards' of this planet and the dramatic impact recycling can have," he said.

Last year, more than 1,800 Christmas trees were recycled. After chipping, they were reduced to 10-15 cubic yards of usable material.

$8,500 raised for cancer patient

With the help of the American Legion and many businesses, the fund-raising group, That's What-Friends Are For, had a successful '50s-'60s dance and silent auction for cancer patient Holli Schilling.

The event brought in more than $8,500 for Holli, a former real estate salesperson in the Clarkston area.

More funds are needed for Holli's anticipated bone marrow transplant and medical costs, so a raffle is being conducted now with a January drawing by the fundraising group. First prize is a trip for two to Hawaii.

Smaller events coming up are a jam session and a play by the Clarkston Village Players. For more information, call 625-0200.

St. Daniel Church dedicates Peace Pole

Members of St. Daniel Catholic Church dedicated a

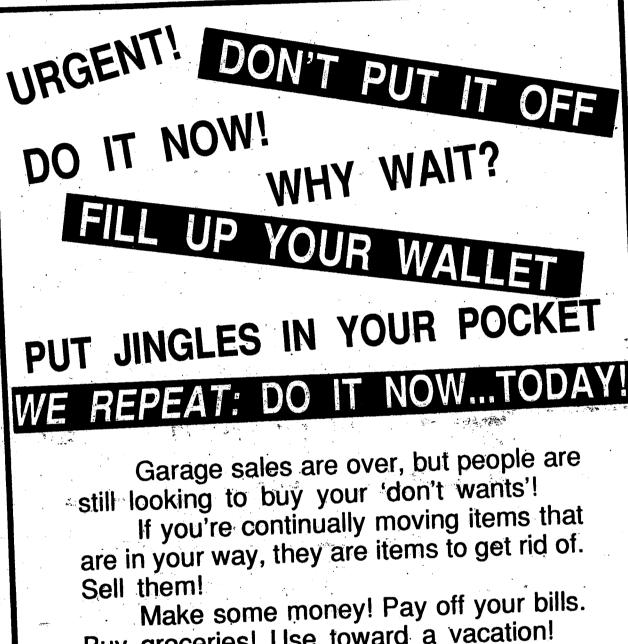

"Peace Pole" Nov. 24. The Peace Pole -- a hand-crafted obelisk with four languages touting, "May Peace Prevail on Earth" -- is an international symbol of peace.

The Peace Pole project was started in Japan by the Society of Prayer for World Peace, a non-profit, nondenominational organization founded in 1955 by Massahisa Goi. His idea is that if people have thoughts of peace, there will be peace. More than 65,000 Peace Poles have been dedicated in 84 countries around the world.

At St. Daniel, off Holcomb Road, Clarkston, the -Peace Pole includes the message of peace in English, Spanish, Swahili and Ottawa.

The English represents the peace "we need among ourselves," according to the church newsletter. The Spanish represents the Hispanic community "who are our neighbors with whom we need to reach out in justice. Swahili, an African language, represents the "brothers and sisters in true works of justice and peace." Ottawa represents the Native Americans "who lived in this area before we came here and who knew how to live in peace with the land and environment.'
