BARRY Burgess of Young's Environmental Cleanup, Inc. operates the excavator while picking up what used to be a burled gasoline tank at the Village Muffler and Brake Specialist on Main Street, Clarkston. On Dec. 13, the owners of the muffler business were notified by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) that a gasoline spillage was confirmed on the property. DNR officials said they don't have enough information yet to say whether the gasoline leak is the source of tainted water along Main Street.

DNR unsure if gas leak caused tainted water along Main Street, Clarkston

Two buried gasoline tanks were removed from the corner of Clarkston Road and Main Street Jan. 7 after a soil sample showed a gasoline leak in the area.

Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) employees discovered the leak in December when they took a routine soil sample as part of the preparations to widen that corner in Clarkston.

On Dec. 13, the owners of the muffler business were notified by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) that a gasoline spillage was confirmed on the property. The DNR made the owners file an "initial abatement report" within 20 days of Dec. 13. They complied. The owners must also file a report within 45 days stating their plan of action for the cleanup.

For about a year, the site -- home to the Village Muffler and Brake Specialists -- has been suspected as a source of contaminated water wells in the downtown Clarkston area.

When tainted water was found in Clarkston in spring 1991, Clarkston Village Council members voiced concerns about the property to the Michigan State Department of Public Health, the DNR, the state fire marshall office and the Independence Township fire marshall.

of the tainted water.

Water wells on Northview Drive, Independence Township -- off Main Street, just north of Clarkston Road -- were connected with a municipal water supply a few years ago after pollutants tainted the drinking water. The suspected but still unconfirmed source for that contamination is the abandoned Powell landfill on Clarkston Road near Perry Lake Road, behind the Church of the Resurrection.

The DNR still is conducting water tests in the peripheral area to determine which direction the pollutants are heading.

AN unidentified Clarkston woman inspects Main Street after her stationwagon struck Clarkston resident Lanny Green at 1:45 p.m. Jan. 6. According to officials at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, the 39-yearold man was hit after giving instructions to a motorist in a van stopped on Main Street.

After helping out, police said Green passed in front of the vehicle, to cross the road, and was struck by the stationwagon, which was passing the van on the right side of the street. Green was taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac, for treatment and left the same day.

Information at fingertips of Bailey Lake pupils

BY JULIE CAMPE Clarkston News Editor

With help from the "cutting edge" in computer technology, four Bailey Lake Elementary pupils quickly completed a report on the Civil War -- and were enthused enough afterward to look up more information just for fun.

The new Compact Disk Read Only Memory (CD ROM) was paid for with $1,500 donated by the Parent Teacher Association, according to media specialist Bob Devereaux

And it has already made a difference. The boys' conversation is proof.

After they had already completed their report for "This is much easier than going to grab a book."

John Villella, fifth-grader

Howard Wright's fifth-grade class, they agreed to fore-sake recess to demonstrate the computer for a reporter.

"This is much easier than going to grab a book," said John Villella, 11, who took his place near the computer in the school's media center. Jeremy Parrott, 11, agreed. "You can just punch it in, and it shows up on the screen. It helps if you have a big project. You don't have to write everything down and then go look it up."

The two, along with Eric Hill and Scott Krull, both 10, learned all about Gettysburg, causes of the war and other fascinating details, they said.

"We learned about the short battles, where 100 people died in 20 minutes," said Jeremy.

"Whole cities were destroyed in a single battle," said John.

"There were more deaths than in any other war," said Eric.

Scott interjected: "620,000 were killed in the war." "We found the causes," said Jeremy, pausing to remember them all. "Slavery ..."

"There were others ...," said John, pausing, too, to recall a few.

"I've got it in my notebook in my room; do you want me to go get it?" he said.

But Jeremy simply called it up on the computer -- in seconds. First, he told the computer the topic was the Civil War. When it gave an index, he highlighted "causes."

John rattled off a few more causes from the screen: "Differences in economy, ideals and ways of life; ...

disputes between the federal government and the states."

Jeremy shared a few more insights from the top of his head. The computer, he said, told about "all the main guys in the confederacy and the union."

The main guys?

"Yeah, the generals."

John filled in. "Ulysses S. Grant fought in the most battles -- nine."

Soon, the boys became involved in other topics on the computer screen, and the media specialist filled in the details about the school's latest computer addition.

The CD ROM contains a compact disk that holds the entire 1991 edition of World Book Encylopedias -- plus a dictionary.

Parents had saved Kroger receipts to earn the computer and printer, and another program paid for the encyclopedias. The latest donation of the actual CD-ROM, however, has made all the difference, said Devereaux

The CD looks just like the sort of compact disk found in record and tape stores, and it works the same way. Only instead of music, it holds text. Its capacity is much greater than that of a regular floppy disk for a computer. And it allows the computer to act quickly, said Devereaux.

The CD-ROM has room for five more CDs, he said. The next addition likely will be an almanac and a dictionary on a CD.

The new program is geared to fourth- and fifthgraders at the school, Devereaux said, adding that other elementary schools in the district probably will get the system, too.

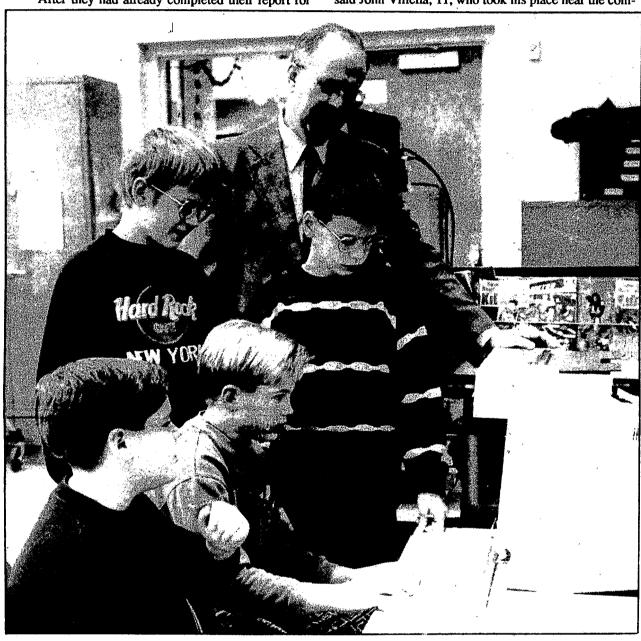

The new technology -- unusual at the elementary level -- prepares the students for the advanced information-gathering techniques at the junior high, high school and more advanced levels of education, he said.

"We're trying to get them acquainted with this from the ground up," he said. "It broadens the way you research things. It gets you to the technological edge."

The "book" encyclopedias still have their place, however, he said. For instance, they're portable, while the computers are too bulky to transport easily at present.

However, the computer is faster and allows a user to print the information needed or to go directly to the correct page of the actual book on the library shelf, said Devereaux.

"I'm really excited about it," said Devereaux.

AS A TEAM, four fifth-graders in Howard Wright's class wrote a report on the Civil War, with help from media specialist Bob Devereaux—and new computer technology. When a photographer visits, the boys agree to look up different topics on the new system at Bailey Lake Elementary School and soon

Wanted: Recipe for love that lasts

If you or someone you know has figured out the secret to longevity in a relationship, we want to hear from

The producer of cable-TV show, Michigan Spotlight, is planning a Valentine's week feature, "The Secret Recipe for Love that Lasts," about couples in the Clarkston-Waterford area who have been married 25 years or longer.

Likewise, The Clarkston News is planning a special feature on couples in the Clarkston-Davisburg area who have been together as long.

We want as many names as possible of couples who have been married 25 years or longer. A phone number and photograph may also be included (along with the number of years the couple has been married).

So if you have been married for 25 years or longer or know of a couple married that long, call or write to: Valentine issue, The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main St., Clarkston, MI 48346 (625-3370). Or write or call: Michael Kupelian, % Michigan Spotlight with Michael Kupelian, Comcast Cablevision, 1300 Crescent Lake Road, Waterford, MI 48327 (674-3622).

Deadline for consideration is Friday, Jan. 31.

Kupelian, producer and writer of the cable-TV program, says people don't seem to stay in love forever anymore, as evident from the ever-growing diverse rate.

anymore, as evident from the ever-growing divorce rate.

"This is an epidemic, a national tragedy and a disgrace," says Kupelian.

He says the problem can be corrected with attention to "proper social orientation and education."

His program, to air at 5:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 10, on cable-TV Channel 44 in Waterford, salutes the "marital heroes who should be applauded for their loving longevity," he says.

Kupelian also would like to list the names of such long-lived couples on a sort of "honor roll" on cable-TV. Features on long-lived couples are to appear in The Clarkston News on Wednesday, Feb. 12. For more information, call 625-3370.

Psychic makes county predictions for 1992

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY

Psychic Terri Shannon of Davison has been called crazy by police. But she takes credit for locating the place where a murdered woman was buried, and for predicting the crash of Flight 255.

Shannon said she's known "since I was a little kid" that she has a gift. The hard part has been living with that gift and using it to bring people good news, not bad.

"When I was in my early 20s I decided I wanted to learn more about it," she said. That was after she correctly felt when both of her grandmothers had died. "It was kind of negative," she said.

The power to receive insights seems to run in the family. "My dad's mother used to interpret dreams," she said. A couple of aunts on her father's side also had the

But at first Shannon was put off by forseeing the death of someone she knew. "It was hard coping with it," she said. "I started reading everything I could."

Now after 20 years, she's making a living at it, doing business as "Readings by Terri." Most of her clients want to know if they'll be successful in business or in love, or how their children will do. They also ask about the stock know how to connect it."

For example, in the murder case mentioned above, she saw a woman being buried by her son on a farm. She saw him plant a tree in the ground over the grave.

Police refused to take her seriously because they had already searched the son's farm with a tracking dog. What Shannon failed to pick up on was that he had wrapped the body in plastic, so the dog wouldn't smell it. He eventually confessed and led police to the spot. Under a tree.

"I like to go back and become the person," Shannon said. "It's kind of creepy . . . I have to turn it on. You have to quiet yourself."

Shannon said her gift can interfere in her life if she lets it. Single, she said some men can accept what she does for a living, some can't.

"I try to live as much of a normal life as I can," she

The Leader invited Shannon to Oxford to answer some questions about what she sees for 1992. Below are

Will the Lions go to the Super Bowl? "I want them to so bad; I think they're going."

Will President Bush be re-elected? Shannon said yes, and she sees a Democrat from the South running against him. She also sees a "huge funeral" in Washington, D.C., in 1992 or '93 but doesn't see who it is. Will the winter of 1992 be mild or severe? Mild. Will the economy rebound soon? "It'll start getting a little better in the next five months, gradually grow the next couple of years, then be a lot better.' Will General Motors close the Orion plant? "Part of it, not the whole thing."

Will Oakland County build its incinerator on Brown Road in Auburn Hills? "They might not get it. It will move further out from here (Oxford). It's not in your town (Oxford).'

General forecast: Shannon sees an assassination attempt against Saddam Hussein. She sees him being shot in the chest, but doesn't know if he lives or dies. She fears there may be another war, but sees it as "over and done quick."

WATER WHITE LAKE COMMONS - CLARKSTON

Trying Tuesday

Julie Campe

It is layout day for The Clarkston News, which means it's time to paste all of our stories and photos and ads on the pages to be printed

Usually, this is a harried, hectic day, with phone calls, last-minute changes in the number of pages devoted to news and minor problems to be solved in our Oxford paste-up shop and printing plant.

It is an intense day, as evident by the concentration and the focus shown on the faces around me -- not unlike the expressions during other episodes of intense concentration, such as athletes immersed in their sport or artists intent on their vision.

This is the day we spend all week preparing for. I admit I am normally stressed out -- though it's not the work so much as the interruptions.

Instead of looking forever forward to the next task, the next story, the next week, I decide to simply think about each moment here. Tonight's headline writing will still be there tonight, as will tomorrow's story tomorrow.

I wax the sheets of paper containing stories for this week and listen to the terse conversation around me. Not much time for idle chatter today, just a word exchanged here and there as people rush from computer to printer to paste-up table.

Kathy and Susan, foreheads creased in concentration, work on pasting classified advertisements into the proper categories. Yes, each phone call asking us to tell people about a car or refrigerator or cat for sale eventually ends up in these hands.

Kathy snips away and pastes, her hands an extension of her thought. Susan begins with auto ads in the middle of the classified section.

A few more minutes and the verdict is: the classified section is two pages longer than predicted. (Wow -- must have been a lot of phone calls on Monday. Maybe people are cleaning out their clutter after the holidays?)

Since there's not much space in the back section anyway, there's no room to maneuver. That means only one thing — we must add four pages (The Clarkston News is printed in increments of four pages, as dictated by our printing press).

So Kathy immediately digs in on that task, and the rest of us pause. We can't lay out our copy on pages if we don't know how much space is "ours" to fill.

It's like a puzzle. First, the advertising is sold, then the actual ads are designed and pasted onto the pages. Then, the editorial staff members fill the remaining space with stories and photos that we've gathered in the previous week. If there's not enough room, we simply cut the story back or hold it a week -- or two or three or four, as is the case in recent weeks.

Now to decide which news goes where, which is tough on this day. Not all of the stories are in Oxford yet on this morning. One story only took place this morning -- the removal of leaking underground gas tanks at the corner of Clarkston Road and Main Street, Clarkston.

Reporter James Gibowski is writing that story now. It will be brief, he says, explaining that he will find out more when the health department and department of natural resources know more.

OK. I leave a blank space at the front of the paper and move on. I can lay out the editorial pages (Page 6A and 7A), leaving space for this column, which is in the same space every week.

Oops. Interruption time. Someone from another of Sherman Publications' newspapers needs the computer I'm using, and the darkroom technician has a question about a photo. I have a phone call. Two Clarkston News staffers have questions. And I have to use the restroom.

Nothing like a Tuesday.

Jim's Jottings

Tested your psyche lately?

Jim Sherman

One of the commandments I've come to include in my living rules is: Know thyself.

After more than 65 years I realize I still have not accomplished that goal. Thus, when I see psyche tests in various printed matter I usually take them.

Two such tests were recently handed me by employees. One is the Keirsey-Bates temperament sorter, the other tests you through your selection of characters.

The Keirsey-Bates is a shorter version of the Myers-Briggs Type Indicator, as if you or I really care. Some of the major companies, Ford and GM for two, use it as a management tool.

It supposedly focuses on normal people and is positive in nature.

So, I took the test. It showed I had either Extraverted Thinking with Sensing (ETS) or Introvened Sensing with Thinking (IST). I either act too quickly without getting the other person's point of view, or I'm thorough, painstaking and systematic.

I am either bent for business, industry and construction, or accounting, law, civil engineering and construction. Obviously, being both an ETS and IST, I should be building skyscrapers.

I should work toward showing appreciation of other people's merits and ideas, and I should fight retreating and practice making decisions about my own behavior.

Test results furnished by Keirsey-Bates only proved I've a way to go to 'know thyself.'

On to character selections. Patients are asked to select one of five characters: a triangle, circle, square, rectangle and squiggly line.

I chose the rectangle. Wow! I'm in a state of transition, exciting, searching, inquisitive, growing and courageous.

I am also confused, have low self-esteem, am inconsistent, gullible, ingenuine and unpredictable.

My shape is most open to new ideas and influences. Ain't that sumpin'?

The writers of this psyche test said, "If you chose the rectangle as your first choice shape, you already know you are undergoing some major changes within yourself.

"While the other four shapes are relatively constant predictors of human behavior, the rectangle typifies someone who is in an "unfrozen state."

Further, I'm dissatisfied with the way life is now, I'm unsure of myself at this moment and confused.

Well, readers, don't you believe it. I'm as sure of this as I am of finishing this col

Many, many thanks

My heart was very heavy on Nov. 22, 1963, when JFK was assassinated. My heart was heavy when, at the age of 17, I was pall bearer for a good friend, also 17, who had been killed after two days in Vietnam. My heart was heavy in January, 1978, when my grandfather died at 90 years of age.

None of these traumas prepared me for the devastation and helplessness I felt one year ago when I discovered that my 12-year-old daughter had an advanced case of Ewing's sarcoma, a rare form of bone cancer that afflicts children.

Cancer is one of those things that everyone thinks only affects someone else until it happens to you. There is no way to describe the pain and helplessness you feel when your perfectly happy, healthy, talented, bright child is faced with a life-threatening disease.

The following day began a whirlwind of consultations with the best experts in pediatric oncology in the world. First, there were long days at the University of Michigan medical library researching everything available, including experimental research, so that I could understand exactly what the doctors were talking about. Then, there were consultations with doctors at Children's Hospital Boston, Mayo Clinic, M.D. Anderson Hospital in Houston, Cedars Siani Hospital in Los Angeles, and thank God, Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak.

Most of the doctors agreed that Shannon should start an aggressive chemotherapy treatment immediately. The standard protocol involved four widely used chemotherapy drugs. Finally, after talking to Dr. Rosen at Cedars Siani Hospital, I asked him point blank, "If it was your daughter, what would you do?"

He said that due to the advanced stage of the tumor, he would include two additional chemo drugs that were still considered experimental. The next day, I made the decision to go with a six-drug protocol.

Just before Christmas, The Clarkston News did a very nice article on the success my daughter, Shannon Nicole Clark, has had over the past year. I would like to take this opportunity to thank some of the people responsible for Shannon's success in "getting rid of J.R."

First and foremost I want to thank God. Second, without the dozens of prayer letters and thousands of unknown people who said countless prayers on Shannon's behalf from Michigan, Florida, Colorado, California, Washington, Texas and wherever else, may God bless you

Thank you to Dr. James O'Neill for once again going above and beyond the call of duty whose opendoor, "call me day or night" policy has helped me as much as Shannon during this past year. Thanks also to Dr. Yee and Dr. Kernis and the whole staff at their Clarkston medical office.

Thank you to Dr. Charles Main, director of pediatric oncology at the Rose Center at William Beaumont Hospital. Also thanks to Dr. Jamil and the entire pediatric oncology staff at the Rose Center. A very special heartfelt thanks goes out to the entire staff on the fourth floor pediatric ward of Beaumont Hospital where Shannon has undergone her chemotherapy treatments. God bless the people who deal with making each child feel special and important day in and day out.

Thank you a thousand times over to Dr. Ronald Irwin, the finest muskeoskeletal surgeon in the world. Dr. Irwin is the man responsible for Shannon having a leg instead of a prosthesis. Shannon responded so well to the chemotherapy treatments that the softball-size tumor in her leg retreated back into the proximal tibia (shin bone) where it started, and Dr. Irwin was able to re-remove a piece of her bone and replace it with a donor bone which has grown back into her own bone. That is a MIRACLE!

Thank you to Dr. Sri Ram, plastic surgeon extraordinaire who worked with Dr. Irwin after this complicated surgery. Dr. Ram and his staff did a superb job under very difficult circumstances.

Thank you especially to Beverly McElmeel for her prayers and supports, and for introducing me to a real source of strength, "The Golden Key" by Emmet Fox.

Thanks to Scotti, Randy, and Cindy Clark of Denver for their love and support of Shannon during this difficult period. Thanks to Cindy for flying from Denver to Detroit, so that she could stay at the hospital with Shannon during her chemotherapy treatments.

Thanks to Denny and Janice and their hair studio in Waterford for Shannon's beautiful wigs. God bless you both

Thanks to Gary Stonerock, his family and staff for their prayers and support.

Thanks to the guys on the Lunghammer Chevrolet golf league, Maybee Road wine shop, and Johnnie's car wash on Dixie Highway for their prayers and support.

I would especially like to thank Pat and Jim Zeleznik for their love, understanding, prayers, support and help.

Finally, to my beautiful wife Tracey, whose strength and love have helped me immeasurably, I thank you from the bottom of my heart.

On behalf of this department, I would like to extend my appreciation to all of you who participated in our first Red Cross Blood Drive.

Blood is a precious commodity, and as the Red Cross puts it, you have given a gift of life.

There were a total of 30 people, our goal, who showed on Dec. 20. The Red Cross was able to take 23 pints.

Again, thank you for your generosity and time.

1991 tidbits say a lot about confusing times

Jim Fitzgerald

The year 1991 passes in review:

January: Downtown Detroit's venerable Monroe Block fence finally came down. For 11 years its huge sign bragged that a "Historic Restoration" of treasured old buildings was in progress behind the fence. Let history record that the restoration turned out to be a parking lot.

February: At a movie, my wife and granddaughter Emily greedily filled their bags with popcorn snatched from the bucket in my lap. I was left with the dregs, which I had to eat, in case of a dreg bust.

March: Newspapers reported that "grilled chicken with a lemon herb sauce and twice-blanched garlic" would be served at the wedding reception of Lee Iacocca and Darrien Earle. I thought Herb and Blanche sounded less likely to be listed on a menu than Darrien did. Darrien sounds like a lite dairy product, maybe twice-skimmed milk

April: In a build-us-a-new-stadium speech to the Economic Club, Tigers President Bo Schembechler said "more than half the seats at Tiger Stadium have an obstructed view." That was a surprise to thousands of fans who for years have been told by Tigers executives that there were only a few bad seats and no one should complain about paying full price to sit where they could see all the action except maybe for what happened in the batter's box and right field. Their refunds are in the mail.

May: In her book about Nancy Reagan, Kitty Kelley reported Ronald Reagan was not only cuckolded by Frank Sinatra, he was "cosseted" by Nancy. According to my dictionary, that means "to treat as a pet," in this case, obviously, a dog. Nancy trained Ronnie to fetch the nation's deficit and bury it in our children's future.

June: To help Detroit survive, Chicago offered to give us about $150,000 worth of a rat poison called "Vengeance." A reader observed: "Vengeance is wonderful. But how are we going to get Hizzoner to swallow it?"

July: In Birmingham, a white man pointed a shotgun at a black youth just for being there. Surprisingly, former Oakland County prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson didn't blame the incident on Coleman Young's racism and the dearth of cotton to pick south of 8 Mile.

August: To increase attendance at the State Fair, local celebrities like Police Chief Stanley Knox were invited to participate in fair activities. In ignoring a recent subpoena to appear at a City Council meeting, Knox had said he didn't need to be there "hee-hawing around." Because Detroiters are more used to having a police chief who is indicted for stealing $1.3 million, fair officials thought they'd flock to see a chief who only behaves like a jackass.

September: A new book revealed that, at Buckinham Palace banquets, "the steward operates a set of traffic lights behind the queen's chair to avoid collisions between butlers and footmen." Jaywalking footmen are taken away and imprisoned in a high dungeon. The idea is to prevent spilled soup, which would put Queen Elizabeth in a high dudgeon without leaving the room.

October: Detroit Councilman Jack Kelley said Mayor Young shouldn't be given "blanche carte" to do whatever he wants. No one blanched because everyone recalled that, in 1990, Kelley said: "If the shoe were reversed, do you think the banking commission would approve a deal like this?"

November: Republican State Rep. David Jaye accidentally dropped the handgun he said he carries to protect himself from violent liberals. The pistol hit the floor during a meeting in the Capitol's Republican caucus room, noted hangout for dangerous, crazed, bleeding hearts.

December: Speaking of bleeding, my Christmas Day column reported my 1-year-old grandson Adam was rushed to the hospital emergency room twice in December; the second time for four stitches in an eyebrow cut in a fall. That column was written before the third emergency trip, on Christmas Eve, for around 20 stitches in a huge forchead gash resulting from a harder fall. It took 45 minutes to sew the wound, and by the time the doctor was done. Adam was sound asleep. Scarface's parents may never sleep soundly again.

From Our Perspective

Intense suffering

The Random House Dictionary defines agony as "extreme and generally prolonged pain; intense suffering." This brings to mind what it's like to sit through a Clarkston school board meeting these days.

During the past several months, we've watched the board wrestle with the problem of what to include on the April 13 ballot.

On the one hand, they're being implored by parents to build new schools as a solution to the overcrowding situation. On the other hand, they're well aware of the two stinging defeats of the last two bond issues, and the absolute necessity of not incurring yet another rejection

At this point, I'd like to make a personal observation. After sitting through innumerable board meetings, I would have to say that our school board is comprised of seven very good people. They're intelligent, articulate. hardworking, and totally sincere in wanting to do what's best for the children in this community.

Even though they differ in approach, they seem to respect each other's opinions, and they're trying to work together to resolve this very, very difficult situation.

So far, they've agreed on two things. The first is that whatever goes on the April 13 ballot will be paid for by extending our current indebtedness rather than by asking for additional millage. This is similar to asking the bank to loan you money to fix up your home and agreeing to extend your mortgage another 10 years or so.

By using this approach, the board can obtain up to $18 million without asking for additional tax money. Unless, of course, you consider extending our indebtedness as a form of tax increase.

The second thing they've agreed on is to ask the voters for a new elementary school on April 13. A new elementary school would cost in the neighborhood of $8

Do they then demonstrate "fiscal responsibility" (their words) by letting it go at that, or do they ask for additional money to upgrade, reconfigure and/or repair the other elementary schools, the junior high schools and the high school?

Do you add on to the high school, primarily to accommodate the ninth-graders, or do you buy portable classrooms as a temporary solution? If we add on to the high school, are we sending a message that this will be Clarkston's high school forevermore? If we buy portables, are we sending a message that this is a temporary situation because in the next few years we'll definitely nced a new high school? One board member mentioned "three years" as a probable time frame.

Given the Independence Township property tax situation, the economy in general, and General Motors' situation in particular, we view a new high school as an extremely hard sell in this community for some time to

Finally, the board has to wrestle with the problem of ultimately having to ask the community for more tax dollars simply because more and more children are entering our school system. This request soon will be necessary regardless of what the board decides on the above issues.

So the agony continues, while April 13 draws even closer. The next few weeks should prove to be extremely interesting. I'm just not sure how many more board meetings I can endure.

School board meeting to start early Jan. 13

The Jan. 13 Clarkston Board of Education meeting is scheduled to start two and a half hours early, so the trustees can discuss the district's facilities needs.

Beginning at 5 p.m., the board will discuss a variety of approaches for examining its long-term goals toward the district's facilities.

At 7:30 p.m., the board will undertake the regular agenda items which include: administrative reports, a curriculum update on foreign language, and a presentation on Clarkston Junior High's "Affective Programing"

The only action item slated for the meeting, so far, is the hiring of a first-grade elementary school teacher at Bailey Lake Elementary.

For more information on the meeting, call the administrative offices at 625-4402.

Supervisor guest on weekend radio show

Collin W. Walls, supervisor of Springfield Township, will have a chance to address a wider audience than normal when he visits a talk radio program this weekend.

Walls is scheduled to be the guest on "Globe Talk," with host Lou Farrell on Radio 1500-WLQV Talk Program. Globe Talk, which covers local, national and international matters, includes "Open Lines" for questions or comments.

Walls is to talk about Springfield Township at 11:30 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 11.

Too many children

As the mother of a first-grader at Pine Knob Elementary School, I implore all other concerned parents of school-age children in the Clarkston school district to inform your neighbors about the inadequate conditions of the particular school where your child spends most of his or her day.

I say this because I truly believe that unless the community hears our collective parental outcry, there will neither be a new elementary school, nor any real long-range improvements at the junior and senior high

Even if all of our children do not directly benefit from a new elementary building, this is a first step in the right educational direction for all of us.

While I respect the involvement of the investigative committee that has been visiting the schools, I believe that a school is a lot like someone's home.

A guest in someone's home cannot possibly judge all the problems a family may be facing, and a visitor in a school cannot accurately assess the problems that faculty, students and parents confront.

Talk to anyone who routinely volunteers time at a school, as many of us do, and you will begin to see what we see - kindergartners told six weeks into the school year that they have to move to another classroom with a different teacher, because there are just too many kids in the two existing rooms.

On the face of it, it doesn't seem like a big deal, but for a minute, try to remember what it's like to be 5 years old in "real" school for the first time. You've just gotten to the point where you adore your teacher, you can navigate your way to your new room, and you have learned the first names of a few new friends.

Now you are told to go to another room, leave your teacher, and leave the comfort of those familiar surroundings and those few friends.

Pretend you are a parent volunteer, and stand helplessly in the hallway as you watch little kindergartners wiping away tears and teachers trying to calm upset parents who can't understand why their child has to be the one to change rooms.

Take a walk down to the multipurpose room, where you will see children eating lunch wearing their winter jackets. Because of space limitations, students must go directly outside after eating. Consequently, as each student finishes eating and goes outside, the door is being opened, leaving the room uncomfortably cold for those still inside. I don't know too many adults who would put up with these conditions, so how can we continue to justify it when it affects our children? These are some of the things I want my friends and neighbors to know about before we all vote on the new elementary.

Mr. Carlson's article in The Clarkston News suggested that we should expand existing elementary schools instead of building a new school. I think this solution would be merely putting a Band-Aid on a punctured

At Pine Knob, we already have three portables that were supposed to be "temporary solutions." That was 18 years ago, and they are still being used.

Our school building doesn't need to be any bigger than it already is — we simply have too many kids.

To force us to "rise to the challenge" of massive school populations is sad. Teachers and volunteers are human beings, not miracle workers, and there comes a time when we all get tired of "putting out fires" and throw in the towel.

In these past years of stressful conditions, our teachers and parents have already gone well beyond the call of duty, and many face burnout. To ask them to do even more is an insult.

A good school is like a happy family. It houses our children during the day, gives them room to breathe, allows them to dream, helps them to see their worth as individuals, and enables them to succeed. Crowding children like cattle in deteriorating buildings and refusing to have a vision for the future sends a message of its own.

So, parents out there, please do not be silent. Tell the community what is going on in your school. Write a letter to this publication. We cannot afford to be complacent, for our children's sake.

Swinging from the heels

Present-day Lion

Ken Dallaflor

If the Detroit Lions' 13-4 season were over right now, it would still be called a success.

But it's far from over. Just ask Lion right-guard "Right now means everything. Right now we've got two more games left. We're not done. We haven't attained our goal yet," said the seventh-year NFL player, who lives in Independence Township.

As just about everyone in Michigan knows, along with millions of others around the country, the Detroit Lions will be squaring off against the Washington Redskins in the nation's capital Sunday for the NFC championship. And the winner faces either Denver or Buffalo two weeks later in the Super Bowl in Minnesota.

Early in the season (especially after a 45-0 loss to the Redskins in the opener), it seemed like the only ones who believed in the Lions ... were the Lions.

But the Lions continued to win in spite of injuries to key players.

The 6-4, 279-pound Dallafior certainly knows about injuries. He started the year with a knee injury and then ended up starting in place of Mike Utley, who was paralyzed after an injury in the Los Angeles Rams game.

The "thumbs-up" Lions have dedicated the season to Utley.

"If someone handed out wishes, I would wish Mike were playing," said Dallafior, who split duties with Utley for a guard position the past three years.

Dallafior, 32, grew up in Madison Heights where he was an all-state football player and wrestler his senior year in high school.

He played college football at the University of Minnesota (all Big Ten and UPI second-team All-American), was drafted by the Pittsburgh Steelers, later played for the USFL Michigan Panthers and still later played for the San Diego Chargers.

He was signed by the Lions as a Plan B free agent in 1989.

"I wanted to finish my career here," said Dallafior, who pointed out that he wouldn't have left the Chargers if he had thought the Lions were still playing like the old Lions. "I wanted to play for a winning team. I wanted to be a part of it."

Dallafior, sounding much like coach Wayne Fontes, doesn't believe in looking back at all those lean years in Lion history.

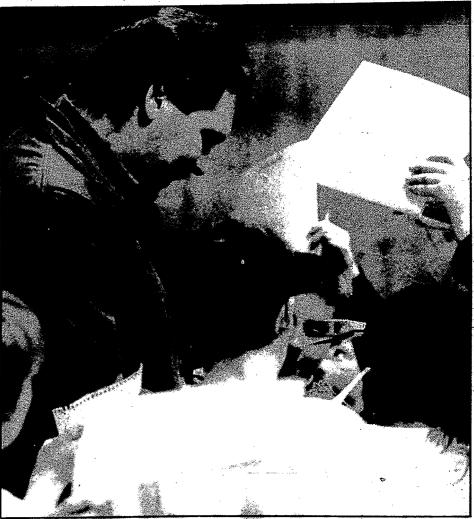

"We're not a part of that past history," he said.

The present for Dallafior is preparing for the near-future battle with ex-Lion teammate Eric Williams. Williams and other Redskins will be trying to get past Dallafior so they can get their hands on quarterback Erik Kramer or running back Barry Sanders.

The Lions' line was near-perfect in the 34-10 win over the Dallas Cowbovs. which put Detriot in the NFC finals.

Barry Sanders has been known to reward the linemen with Rolex watches or other lavish gifts for paving the way.

What about Kramer?

LAST year, Ken Dallafior had his hands full with autograph seekers at the Clarkston Chiefs football banquet. Sunday, the Detroit Lion quard will have his hands full with Washington Redskins.

Dallafior said the young quarterback isn't on the same pay-scale as Sanders, so he usually invites the linemen over to dinner if they don't allow a sack.

"It's the thought that counts," says a sincere Dallafior.

Dallafior plans on calling the Clarkston area his home after his playing days are over. He lives with his wife, Diane, daughter Jessica, 6, and son Kyle, 4. Will Kyle be a lineman or a quarterback?

Dallafior said he will be happy with whatever his son chooses.

"He might play in the band. That's all right, too," said the father. Kyle, the other family members and all Detroit fans will certainly be tooting their horns for Ken Dallafior and the rest of the Lions on Sunday.

Wolves taste victory at Toledo invite

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI Clarkston News Staff Writer

Holy Toledo!

Clarkston's varsity basketball team became 5-0 overall and 1-0 in Ohio after topping a taller Toledo St. Francis squad, 60-53, in the Toledo Blade-Mcdonald's Classic Jan. 3, an annual invitational tournament featuring top teams from the two states.

The game was played at the University of Toledo. Detroit St. Martin DePorres also squared off against Toledo Start, and Cleveland St. Joseph faced Toledo Scott.

"We played sluggish. Maybe we ate too much," said Clarkston coach Dan Fife, whose team (rated fourth in the state by the Detroit Free Press) feasted on plenty of food during pre-game and post-game meals.

The table was nearly bare after a lowscoring first quarter, with Clarkston only up 10-9. But the Wolves really bit into St. Francis in the second quarter with a 23-15 edge, taking a 33-24 lead at the half. The teams then played a quite even second half.

"Defensively we did a nice job," said Fife, especially pointing out the play of Jon Wyniemko, Jeremy Burke, Dave Smith, Nick Shires and Jeremy Fife. "Their big people couldn't keep up with us."

Two of those big people from Toledo were 6-6 Kevin Baker (20 points) and 6-8 Dan Pierce (14 points). St. Francis also had a 6-7 player on the bench.

Even with its size, St. Francis only outrebounded the Wolves, 29-28.

Dugan Fife, who sparked the Wolves in the second-quarter outburst, scored a game-high 29 points and Luke Fedio added 14. Wyniemko finished with six, Derek Wiley five, Jeremy Fife four and Burke

The Toledo team actually sank more field goals, but Clarkston more than made up for it on the charity line. Clarkston sank 18 of 28 free throws (64 percent) and St. Francis made three of eight (38 percent).

St. Francis turned the ball over 15 times while the stingy Wolves only made 12 turnovers.

"It was a great tournament for the kids. It was a first-class operation," said coach Fife. The food and a stay overnight at the Sheraton were furnished by the tournament's sponsors.

The Clarkston coach said it was a thrill for his team to play in a large arena at the university.

"Ninety percent of them may never go through that again," said Fife.

Unless, of course, the Wolves feast on their opponents during "March Madness" and wind up at The Palace.

Ex-Wolves help put MSU in motion

BY MARNI BANKER

MSU Motion has shown that it takes more than talent to keep an athletic club successful.

MSU Motion, 15 women from Michigan State University who perform at home basketball and football games, takes its name literally by moving from one place to another performing energized dance

Motion is considered a club sport, said team co-captain Kara Kurz, a 1988 Clarkston High School graduate. This means that the group isn't funded by MSU. Kurz said this has proven to be a financial strain on team members. Over the course of the year, its expenses include uniforms, camp and traveling.

Club advisor Russ Rivet said that MSU provides facilities for Motion to practice and gives guidance to them throughout the year. He said Motion began 10 years ago out of student demand.

'Motion has added to the university. It brings spirit to varsity sports. Motion does it with class and dignity. Many schools can't say that," Rivet said.

Kurz said there was one instance in which the president of a Big Ten university tried to stop the schools's dance team from performing, but so many people complained he had to bring them back.

But things are different at MSU. Motion has been receiving more support due to increased recognition, according to co-captain Kellee Duty, a 1989 Clarkston High School graduate. (Jenny Davis, a 1989 Clarkston High School graduate, is also a member of Motion and is the group's Marni Banker, a 1988 Clarkston High School graduate, is a senior at Michigan State University. At CHS, she was active in student government and was a class officer and captain of the cheerleading squad. Her parents are Larry and Barbara Banker of Barrington, Ill. (formerly of Clarkston).

Jill Slimko, a MSU student, has seen Motion perform for three years.

"I give them credit for their hard work," said Slimko. "They have gotten better and also bring added entertainment that is different from the cheerleading squad."

Kurz said this growing recognition has helped Motion to be asked to perform at numerous alumni and school functions.

It has come to the point where Motion is expected to perform at games, whereas it used to have to ask for permission.

One issue Motion has been dealing with is the notion of becoming a sport (recognized by MSU). Kurz expressed concern that if Motion became a sport, certain rules would apply that may not be in its best interests.

'In our minds, we are a sport. I don't particularly care if the school recognizes us as a sport, but we appreciate the support," said Kurz.

One problem that concerns Kurz and Duty is that if it becomes a sport, the school would appoint a coach for the team. It wouldn't run as it does now with the two captains in charge.

Kurz and Duty enjoy the responsi-

"Besides administrative duties, we have to be a coach, a team member and friend to every woman on the team," said

Rivet added, "The student leadership has been excellent. Because of it, Motion has grown tremendously."

Duty said a coach isn't needed as long as there is mutual respect between the captains in the team.

Team member Michelle Fairbanks commented about the captains, "Because of the captains, we get things done. We are more together."

Motion plans to submit a video tape of one of its dance routines to a nationallyheld competition. Members also plan to perform during halftime for the audience of a Piston's game.

However, Motion's main concern is clearly MSU. And at MSU, spectators can catch Motion's performances at home basketball games throughout the season.

Softwater Lake site lawsuit settled out of court

BY DENNIS V. CARTER Clarkston News Staff Writer

After six months, a lawsuit between a developer and the Springfield Township Board was settled out of court. Developer Kevin Reis and the township board agreed "in principle" to a compromise.

We filed suit after the township board rejected our site plan," said Reis of Central Land Development.

According to the lawsuit, the developer felt that the board was being unfair and discriminatory. It stated that R-3 zoning should be allowed on the 55-acre parcel, which would have allowed more than 50 homes on the

"At this point, we are going to move forward with a site plan along the lines of the compromise," said Reis, adding that he doesn't plan to build the homes but rather to sell the lots as building sites.

The project, on 55 acres off of Dixie Highway, was originally submitted in fall 1988 and includes the 20-acre

When this was originally submitted, there were different trustees on the board," said Collin Walls, township supervisor.

Walls said that if the developer had asked for Rzoning instead of R-3 zoning, the 1988 board probably would have approved the plan.

R-2 zoning (single-family detached housing) requires a one-acre minimum lot size, while R-3 zoning (also single-family detached housing) requires a onehalf-acre minimum lot size.

The new agreement allows Reis' company to submit a proposal to the planning commission under guidelines of R-2 zoning, with no more than 40 units. The original request for R-3 zoning called for about 53 units.

The developer must get approvals from the planning commission and township board before construction can

"At this point, I don't really foresee it not being approved," said Supervisor Walls, adding that the approval process probably will begin in February.

Since the new site plan has not been submitted yet, Walls said he and the board members don't know what's in the works. He surmised that it would probably include clusters of homes in one general area.

"Since we have agreed in principle on the major points, ... it should be approved this time," he said.

Over the next three months, the Rev. Edward Farrell will be offering a series of personal growth classes. These once-a-week courses run 10 weeks, from Jan. 15 to March

The classes include:

■ "I Am Seeking God" — The aim of this session is to guide people toward the interior place where God allows himself to be met. This session is open everyone (Wednesdays, 9 a.m. to noon).

■ "My Life in the World of Work" - The class aims at helping participants to analyze their lives within the work place to understand themselves better. The course also offers tips on how to live and manage one's life in the work place. (Wednesdays, 6:30-9:30 p.m.)

"Who Am I?" will help you to discover a more contemplative side of yourself and to recognize your unique gifts and qualities (Saturdays, 6:30-9:30 p.m.).

The fee for any one of these courses is $150, and payment can be negotiated with Farrell. The classes are meant for all people, not just Catholics.

Teacher of the Year leads, pushes pupils to learn

BY DENNIS V. CARTER Clarkston News Staff Writer

It may have begun with his high school English teacher. Or maybe it was earlier than that, with the values he learned as a child from his mother.

But whatever the source, Hal Farah has found a way to inspire, push, cajole and lead his pupils to higher learning.

And his work in his English classroom at Waterford Kettering has been recognized by his peers. In November, he was named 1991 Teacher of the Year by the Waterford Foundation for Education.

"I'm very happy to have received this honor," said Hal of Mockingbird Lane, Independence Township. "This is the second year they have given this award, and I'm very proud of being selected."

Hal, who grew up in Detroit, said the award will be souled between elementary teachers and secondary teaches. Subwas the first secondary teacher to receive the award.

Hal, 47, graduated from Valparaiso University, tonana. He and his wife Demaris have two children, backe and Allison, who attend Sashabaw Junior High

"Each kid is different. You have to realize that and work from there. You don't always read them right, but I've gotten pretty good at it over the years."

Hal Farah

School on Maybee Road, Independence Township.

Hal, who was Kettering's varsity baseball coach for five years, enjoys his time in class and said he's never been interested in leaving the classroom for an administrative position.

"The kids are what I got into this for in the first place," he said. "To me, there is just nothing better than being in the classroom with the kids."

Over the years, Hal said, students have changed very

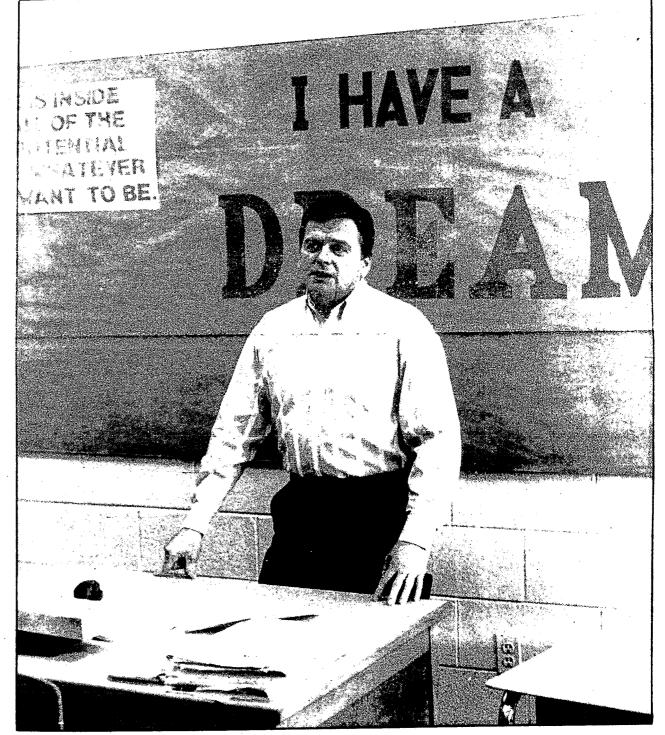

"I really only see a very small percentage of the students who attend school nationwide," he said. "But from what I've seen over the years, we still have a lot of very skilled and capable students."

However, one aspect has changed, perhaps as a result of changes in American society.

"I see that the kids today are lot more mediaoriented, and I feel we have to change and give the kids more meaningful and real-to-life situations in the classroom," he said. "It needs to be more than just ... a lot of facts to memorize."

Hal, an English teacher for 24 years at Waterford Kettering, said he was inspired by his own high school English teacher.

"My high school English teacher made a big impression on me," Hal said. "I feel it was his influence that made me decide on English as the subject I wanted to teach. The way he taught made the classes interesting, and I try to do the same in my classes."

HALFARAH, an English teacher at Waterford Kettering High School, received use of a 1992 Thunderbird, courtesy of Flannery Ford

Another big influence in Hal's life was his mother. "I grew up in a foster home, and I was the oldest," he said. "My mother would give me a lot responsibility, and sometimes there would be as many as 20 of us at a time. She believed in education, and I guess that really stuck with me. I found out early that I have a way with people, and that has helped in being a teacher."

Hal has studied and improved his teaching techniques over the years. For instance, he now tries to determine which students need to be led and which need to be pushed.

"Each kid is different," he said. "You have to realize that and work from there. You don't always read them right, but I've gotten pretty good at it over the years."

To be considered for the award, Farah was nomi-in Waterford, when he was named the 1991 Teacher of Year by the Waterford Foundation for Education.

nated by the school and also was recommended by a fellow teacher.

Kettering counselor Mary Aperauch nominated Farah for the award.

"Every time I would go near his room it seemed like something important was going on," she said. "It's something you didn't want to interrupt—he was so involved.

"If there were a 'Mr. Kettering,' it would be Hal,"

Aperauch said.

Farah said Ann Becks wrote the letter of recommendation.

"It was really nice to know that the other teachers felt I deserved the award," Hal said. "All I do is try to teach my students the things they will need to succeed in life."

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

WHOLESALE VS RETAIL LAND

NORMALLY, the larger the tract of land you buy, the less it will cost per acre.

27 S. Main, Clarkston / 625-9300

Ron Rodda Sales Manager

"Let's discuss your Career in Real Estate Sales"

QUESTION: I have the opportunity to purchase a large tract of land in a good location. My Realtor tells me that if I subdivide it, the total value of all the lots will be worth far more than the value of the entire tract as is. Is this true?

ANSWER: In the normal marketplace, there are two price levels - wholesale and retail. The purchase and sale of raw land is no different. A review of the sales price history of any large parcel of land will show abrupt jumps as the acreage is subdivided and sold off in smaller lots.

Therefore, consider bulk buying of land at a wholesale level a good way to buy. It costs less to buy and will sell for more at "retail".

Team proves they're masters in knowledge n Dec. 4, a 12-member team from Clarkston Junior High School met to challenge teams from across the country in the annual Knowledge Master Open competition.

The teams matched wits and knowledge, via a computer that was linked to competition headquarters. The contest covered the areas of history, government, current events, economics, geography, literature, math, English, science, health, art and music.

Clarkston's overall score ranked them 169th out of 474 teams across America. Among junior highs in Michigan, however, CJHS took second overall.

The team consisted of seventh-, eighth- and ninthgraders. The event was sponsored by faculty members Suvonne Hogan and Barbara Glover.

The team members included: Scott Sanford, Joel Sanford, Meghan Sitar, Karen Leininger, Kristy Barefoot, Clair Kammer, Katie Lockwood, Lisa Vallad, Christie Williams, Regina White, Rick Davies, Michael Gay, Jason Olstrom and team captain Timothy Szykula.

Back in 1910, "caring" meant Pontiac residents raising $25,000 to build "Oakland County's First Hospital" in what was then a village of 5,000 people.

Seminole Ambulatory Care Center

Five years later, caring meant the Oakland County Hospital Association donating the hospital to the thriving industrial center of Pontiac...and Oakland County Hospital became Pontiac City Hospital, which was changed to Pontiac General Hospital in 1931. Today, new communities all over Oakland County look to the same hospital for caring in the 1990's for services such as:

Pontiac Health Care

- Complete care for new mothers and babies, including family-centered birthing and northern Oakland County's leading intensive care unit for newborns.
- Satellite centers offering walk-in medical care and diagnostic services.
- Expanded programs in physical rehabilitation, county-wide psychiatric services and cardiac care.
- State-of-the-art laser and outpatient surgery.

With these new "caring" services and a patient base throughout Oakland County, our hospital has earned a new name.

Rush Road Reports By Don Rush

454 SS Pickup: Chevy's muscle truck

They call it Chevy's "street legal muscle-truck." In other words Chevrolet's 454 SS Pickup can pick 'em up and lay 'em down. It's a full-sized pickup with a more than full-sized engine -- the 454 cubic inch monster. (Remember when engines were still described by the cubic inch? Remember during that time the 454 was considered huge? Guess what, it still Chevy calls the 454 engine the 7.4 Liter engine (wimpy sounding), but proudly displays the 454 number on the truck's exterior. According to the folks at Chevrolet, this engine provides the highest net horsepower and torque ratings of all Chevy truck engines. It's also the largest engine available on any vehicle in America under 8,500 pounds.

This is a upscale work truck that can make the others eat your dust, and it looks good, to boot.

The interior seats are very comfortable. Notice I wrote seats, not seat. These plush seats are not your standard bench seats found in many trucks. These are bucket seats -- the type of seats every kid wanted back in the days before gas prices soared over 50 cents a gallon. The seats are comfortable. And, while you're tooling down the road, heading for your favorite fishing hole, hunting spot or to work, the AM/FM cassette stereo sounds superb (it can come with a graphic equalizer).

The truck is definitely a nice ride for the working guy (or woman). It also is good for hauling trailers. That said, there are some draw backs. The model tested was two-wheel drive. When driving this speed demon model in the winter, make darned sure you have weight in the bed, otherwise snow is not your friend. Four-wheel drive seems more logical for the Michigan driver.

Also, remember this is a big V8 engine, a throw back, and as such gas mileage is not a virtue here. We're talking 10 miles per gallon in the city and 12 on the highway, for a combined EPA rating of 11 miles per gallon. Keep that in mind.

Highlights: horsepower, style, interior

Lowilghts: gas prices, snow Base price: $20,585
