

That's Progress

The Clarkston News' 21st annual Progress edition this week includes profiles of more than 40 businesses in the area. This section gives advertisers a chance to tell customers about their beginnings, development, new products and services, and general information. Most business owners were proud to have survived the slower economy — some even increased sales in 1991. And all predicted an even better year for 1992.

Still growing Springfield, Independence permits down only slightly

BY DENNIS V. CARTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The economic outlook looks steady for the Clarkston area in 1992 — and it wasn't too bad of a year in 1991, if building permits are any indication.

Springfield and Independence townships were down slightly in permit requests in 1991, but Independence showed a 4 percent overall increase when all types of permits were taken into account.

For single-family residential, Springfield issued 85 permits in 1990 vs. slightly lower permit requests of 80 in '91.

In Independence, the numbers also were close, with 152 permit requests for single-family residential in 1990 to 137 for '91.

Springfield had five commercial permit requests in '90 and three in '91, while Independence showed seven for '90 and six for '91.

Springfield issued 10 industrial permits in '90, with only four in '91; and there were two condominium permit requests in '90 with '91 doubling to four.

Apartment permits in Independence Township went from 121 in '90 to 88 in '91, but the 88 reflected the second phase of a project that started with the 121.

According to Beverly McElmeel, director of Building and Planning for Independence Township, expectations for 1992 are good.

"Most everyone I've spoken to feels that this is going to be a really good year," she said. "I guess that could mean something different to each of them, but I do feel we will have a steady year."

In fact, the figures for January already show an improvement.

"Traditionally, January is slow with one, two or

'Lucky' boys safe after plunge in icy Lake Oakland

BY DENNIS V. CARTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Three Independence Township boys escaped with their lives after two fell through the ice on Lake Oakland Feb. 22.

Saturday night, the three boys, ages 7-12, were headed toward their home on Pinedale and crossed Lake Oakland on Sashabaw Road.

First, the 7-year-old fell through the ice, and one of the other boys entered the water to help. Once the 7-year-old was out, the two boys pulled the third to safety.

According to Capt. Steve Ronk of the Independence Township Fire Department, the boys were lucky.

"It was dark out, and no one knew they were on the ice," he said. "They were lucky they were able to extricate themselves because it would have been hard for anyone to have heard them yelling for help."

Once out of the water, the three boys went to the nearby American Legion Hall, Chief Pontiac Post No. 377, where a wedding party was underway. According to the fire department, the trio was taken to the North Oakland Medical Center, which had no record of their treatment.

Ronk said that often people can be fooled by ice on lakes because in the middle it may be a foot thick, but close to edge near the shore it can become very thin.

"We recommend at least four inches of ice to be safe," he said. "It has been unseasonably warm this winter, and since the water is shallow near the shore, the water heats up faster and causes the ice to melt. There is also the concern of undercurrents, which erode the ice."

According to Ronk, common sense is the best gauge to use when deciding if the ice is safe.

"It is best to be smart about going out on the ice," he said. "You need to keep checking it at all times. What is safe where you are may be unsafe just a few feet away, especially near the shore."

maybe three new housing requests. But this January, we had 13, which would say this year is starting on a positive note," she said.

"Most everyone I've spoken to feels that this is going to be a really good year."

Beverly McElmeel

Also for '91, Independence Township had 217 pre-manufactured home units started, compared to no permits for this type of construction in '90.

Looking toward the rest of 1992, several projects will be getting underway.

Greenery Health Care Center on Clintonville Road is to add about 19,000 square feet.

In new site condominium projects (which look like subdivisions, except the land between houses is owned by the condo association), the Timber of Lake Oakland will have 15 "building envelopes." Sixteen sites are planned for South Village Park at the end of Paula Street.

Also, permits are soon to be issued on Oakhill Corners project, where Oakhill intersects M-15. The project is set for office buildings and some retail.

"We have several projects which will soon start, which should help the economy in this area," McElmeel said. "I have a feeling that the people in this area will help to bring us back to a strong economy."

Grand opening

THE revamped Independence Township Library will be having its grand opening March 13-15. On Friday, the staff will be conducting an "Appreciation Night" for employees and contributors. On Saturday, from 10 a.m. to noon, local kids are invited to a "Children's Only" open house. On Sunday, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m., the public is invited to attend the ribbon-cutting ceremony. The 20,000-square-foot library was made possible by area residents who passed a bond issue in 1989 and an operating millage a year later. The $2 million addition will enable the township to keep up with the growing needs of area residents.

Rezoning fee increase to cover township costs

BY DENNIS V. CARTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

To cover administrative costs of rezoning requests, the Springfield Township Board approved the first reading of a new fee schedule.

The board voted 6-1 to OK Consolidated Fee Ordinance No. 51 Feb. 12. A second reading and adoption is necessary before the ordinance takes effect. The proposed ordinance is set to come before the board again March 11.

According to Supervisor Collin Walls, the purpose of the ordinance is to help recoup the cost to the township for requests for reviews, approvals, permits, certificates, inspections, meetings, licenses, ordinances amendments and such other requests requiring action by the board.

"I put together figures on what it costs to handle these types of request," he said. "This is what I came up with, and this is as close to the actual cost as I could come."

The ordinance would change the cost for rezoning fees from the current level of $750 to $1,900, depending on the number of acres, to a proposed flat rate of $1,200 plus $10 per acre.

Trustee Nancy Strole said that the proposed rate was the best option.

"If we are really going to try and cover the cost, then let's do it," she said. "These figures are what Collin has come up with, so if this is what it takes, then let's do what we can to recoup the cost to the township. These requests are most often for projects which stand to make a great

Fire station starting to take shape

The first-phase of a new public service center could begin within the next couple of weeks.

On Feb. 18, the Independence Township Board approved the imminent purchase of the former First Federal Bank property on Ortonville Road. Presently, the township is negotiating with the federal government, which still owns the structure.

The motion was approved, contingent on the purchase of a neighboring parcel to the south and the passage of environmental testing. The nearby parcel is about 3,000 square feet and was originally part of the 5-Star Investment Company. This land is needed, so an addition can be made to the existing bank structure for the new Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD) offices.

The existing OCSD substation is located next to the township offices on Ortonville Road, Clarkston.

Fire Chief Gar Wilson expects all contracts to be hammered out within the week.

Once completed, this upgraded, 3,000-square-foot office building will facilitate the needs of both the fire department and the OCSD.

At a cost of $33,200, Brandon builder Harley W. Thomas is scheduled to come in and renovate the interior and exterior of the existing structure, which will house the fire department's offices.

Wilson said the township will be seeking bids next month for construction of the OCSD's addition and the building of a 10,000-square-foot fire station, which will be located in the rear of the property. This station will take the place of fire station No. 1, which is located in downtown Clarkston.

That facility is scheduled to be sold to local businessman John Morgan.

The total project gained final site plan approval from the Independence Township Planning Commission Feb. 13. It's projected to cost about $1.2 million in renovation and building costs.

Presently, the township's Downtown Development Authority (DDA) is considering a proposal where it would pay for the continuation of Citation Drive across M-15 to the new center. However, the DDA has yet to make its decision.

"These requests are most often for projects which stand to make a great deal of money, so why should the township absorb the cost for the request?"

Trustee Nancy Strole

Holly-area woman faces manslaughter charges

BY DENNIS V. CARTER
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A Holly-area woman was bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court for trial on charges of manslaughter with a motor vehicle and failing to stop at the scene of serious accident.

Angie L. Cox, 24, was bound over to circuit court by 52nd District Court Judge Gerald McNally after a Feb. 19 preliminary examination in Independence Township.

Cox is set to appear before circuit court Judge Fred M. Mester March 9 at 1:30 p.m. after being released on $5,000 bond.

If convicted, Cox could receive up to a 15-year felony sentence.

Charges stem from an incident that occurred in fall 1991 in Springfield Township.

According to court records, witness Linda Mize said she was on her way home the night of Nov. 16 when she saw a man walking along the shoulder of Dixie Highway.

Moments later, Mize said she looked in her rear-view mirror and saw a car with its head lights off jerking wildly across the road.

Mize, who called 9-1-1 as soon she got home, said the car spun around. According to her testimony, she said the car did a complete turnaround in the middle of Dixie Highway, so when she returned home she called the police because she was worried the driver or someone else would be hurt.

The next day, Mize, a hospital financial consultant, learned a body had been found along Dixie Highway in Springfield Township.

Oakland County Sheriff's authorities allege Cox was driving north in her black Geo when she struck Scott McRae, 21, of Davisburg at 6 p.m. His body was found some 16 hours later, 100 feet from the site where the force of impact knocked him out of his shoes.

According to the authorities, Cox didn't stop until she went into a ditch near Nanjo's restaurant about a half-mile from the scene of incident.

A waitress at the restaurant, Julie Kibler, testified that Cox came into the restaurant to use the telephone. At that time, according to Kibler, Cox was hysterical and worried about if her insurance would cover the damage to her vehicle.

Kibler, who was being questioned by Assistant Prosecutor Gregory Townsend, said she tried to comfort Cox until she smelled alcohol on Cox's breath.

In other recorded testimony, Carolyn Ebert said Cox originally told people at the restaurant that she hit "something."

Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy John Kress testified that he found McRae's shoes, his button, a small piece of plastic car molding, car paint chips and tire tracks on the shoulder of Dixie Highway.

Kress also said hair, blood and fabric samples taken from the crushed windshield of the Geo matched those taken from McRae.

Thomas Waun, Cox's attorney, challenged whether the debris might have blown out of the road in the 16 hours before McRae's body was found.

When addressing Judge McNally, Waun said this was "at best" a simple negligence case and added that prosecutors couldn't prove Cox was speeding or had been drinking.

Basketball referee, 24, dies during Sunday game

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

A 24-year-old Independence Township man collapsed and died Sunday afternoon, while officiating a pony league basketball game at Sashabaw Junior High School.

Gary Kubani, a 1985 graduate of Clarkston High School, was pronounced dead at 4:11 p.m. at North Oakland Medical Center-Pontiac General Hospital.

According to Ann Conklin, director of the Independence Parks and Recreation Department, Kubani collapsed around 3:15 p.m. A couple of basketball players and officials applied cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) until fire department personnel arrived a few minutes later.

As of Monday afternoon, the cause of Kubani's death was unknown. Relatives and authorities are awaiting the autopsy report. According to his older brother, Ray, Gary was in good shape with no history of health problems.

Conklin said the tragedy has had a somber affect on a lot of people.

"It's devastating for everyone," she said. "Gary was a terrific person, from a wonderful family. Our hearts and prayers go out to them."

Conklin's department also set up a grief consultation meeting the night of Kubani's death. In all, about 25 players, referees and guests who saw Kubani's collapse attended the hour-long session.

Jim Butzine, a social worker at Clarkston High School, and a few members of the Independence Township Fire Department were on hand to help these people cope with Kubani's death.

Bridgette Slade, a parent of one of the basketball players, said the incident has had a lasting affect on her teen-age son, Jim.

"My son's a senior in high school, but it was still very upsetting to him," she said. "It's tragic for someone so young to die like that."

Slade added that her son's team plans on putting Kubani's initials on their basketball jerseys in honor of the fallen referee.

Ray Kubani said his brother was a sportsman and a professional. An alumnus of Oakland Community College, Gary was employed as a computer aid designer (CAD) for General Motors Corp. His hobbies included: fishing, hunting, golfing and riding his motorcycle.

Ray said Gary fulfilled a life-long dream last year, when he and few buddies went on a fishing trip in Ontario, Canada.

To Ray, Gary's greatest attribute was his mild-mannered attitude toward life.

"Gary was one of those guys everybody liked," he said. "He was very sentimental and even tempered."

"Gary was a terrific person, from a wonderful family. Our hearts and prayers go out to them."

The funeral is scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 27 at 11 a.m. in the Waterford Our Lady of Lakes Catholic Church, Waterford. Kubani will be buried at the Lakeview Cemetery, Independence Township.

Boy, 11, dies in choking accident

An 11-year-old Independence Township boy apparently accidentally choked himself to death Feb. 21.

According to Lt. Joe Quisenberry of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, police investigated the accident last Friday and found no evidence of suicide.

"There was no sign of a struggle, nor was there any suicide note," he said. "It would be hard to say that an 11-year-old would be able to comprehend the finality of suicide, and based on the evidence, it appears to have been an accident."

Jason Lee Wright, whose family recently moved to the area, attended North Sashabaw Elementary School on Maybee Road.

According to school officials, the boy was a happy child who had related well with the other students during his short time at the school.

Wright's mother — Kathy Wright of Stevens Street, who moved to the area from Mount Morris about two weeks ago — found her son's body.

Deadline nears for school election

Area residents have less than three weeks left to register if they want to vote in the April 11 school election.

The final deadline is 5 p.m., Thursday, March 12.

This bond issue calls for the construction of a 70,000-square-foot elementary school at a cost of $7.95 million. The proposed building will be financed by selling current interest and capital depreciation bonds.

By using this route, school officials say that the debt millage won't increase and will instead only extend current debt millage, resulting in no increase in property taxes.

Just my

Julie Campe

It was a Friday night, and we were on our way to Andrew the Not So Horrible and his lovely wife Michele's home in South Lyon.

But my mood was bleak. After a week of unrelenting nights, a bout with the flu, long days working on a special advertising section called Progress (included in this week's Clarkston News) and days filled with countless mini-deadlines and constant interruptions by phone calls and visitors, I was, well, pooped.

I sometimes like being tired at the end of a good day, but in no way could these days be classified as "good."

During the drive to South Lyon, The Thinker did not know what to think.

I tried to explain it, but I couldn't.

It wasn't that I didn't want to see The Not So Horrible and Michele. It was just that I felt ... numb ... after such a day and week. It was as if I needed time in an isolation chamber to thaw out.

But there was nothing else I'd rather be doing — not even my favorite in rejuvenation options: curling up with a good book.

We were a silent pair, The Thinker and I, for he, too, was feeling a little "blah."

We stopped for soft drinks (with caffeine) in hopes that they would give us enough of a lift that we could manufacture smiles once we reached South Lyon.

While The Thinker paid for the items, I flipped through the radio channels, rain softly splattering the windshield. Nothing sounded appealing — only irritating.

Then I reached 105.1 — and a smile arose without my control. It was Beethoven's fifth symphony — the third movement. And its effect was instant.

The Thinker was now back, and as soon as he opened the door, he, too, broke into a grin.

Now smiling and sipping our soft drinks, we made our way toward South Lyon, still silent, he and I. But this silence was buoyant instead of blah.

And we laughed aloud at the end of the fourth movement, when Beethoven takes the symphony to its utmost heights and then takes it higher — and higher. And even higher.

Both of us had the same thought. Who would have such gall and humor and self-confidence to create such a piece?

I imagined the lovable arrogance such a composer and conductor would have to possess. And who came to mind? Andrew. The Thinker and I agreed, even though he has no musical inclinations that we know of. (He has plenty of the arrogance and gall and humor, though.)

My imagination kicked in, and I pictured The Not So Horrible cooking omelets with a touch of Beethoven's style. And in my mind I saw him making little charts and plans and schedules for himself, with such precision and detail and perfection as Beethoven no doubt demanded of himself.

I felt so much better that I paused a moment to figure it out. Yes, Beethoven's music touches people directly, bypassing their intellect — and that had probably started my ascent back into the real world.

But there was something more — perhaps his music triggers the imaginative side of the brain directly. For that's exactly what I needed, I realized — a dose of the not-so-real world.

I was in luck. Any visit with Andrew provides enough unreality to last a month, at least. And so it was with a spontaneous (and not manufactured) smile that we greeted Andrew and Michele when we finally reached our destination.

And would you believe it? It was Michele who filled the evening with bursts of humor and turns of phrases that kept our minds leaping. And Andrew was not so horrible.

Jim's Jottings

Make up your own 'I like' list

Jim Sherman

Naturally I don't know about you, but I seldom make an actual list of things I like.

I'm quick to complain about things ... it's easy to dislike political seasons, ear-ninged football players and cooked pears, for instance, but I'm slow to show appreciation for my television zapper button, Hazel's baked beans and cardinals at our bird feeder.

Thus, we have the makings of another column. This one devoted to things I like. I like question (?) and exclamation (!) marks. I have some 3-inch wooden ones in front of me now.

I like unexpected favors, like Glenn Dill bringing me a cassette he made of folk-cowboy songs, including Marty Robbins' "El Paso."

I like most things I shouldn't eat: grilled steaks with a fat rind, cheese, duck (especially duck), buttered popcorn, bacon and sausage. I don't miss the eggs.

I like my roll-top desk, beveled mirrors, recliner chair, kingsize bed and clothes.

I like the color of sumac in the fall, smell of grass in the spring, new-mown hay in the summer and snowmobiling through big snowflakes in winter.

Flower beds, tomatoes, wooden printer's type and copperplate engravings, a good golf shot, a patriotic story and song and a good human-interest story are also favorites.

I love waterfalls!

I like a Hudson and Landry tape, David Brinkley, Len Gane-way's column in the Lapeer County Press, splitting wood, using a chain saw, hoeing weeds and a smooth drink with a good friend.

I like hugs from the grandkids, a nice swim, hot shower, all neckties, a clean car, new pavement, blooming crabapple trees and fish biting my bait.

I love shopping for Christmas gifts!

I like ducks!

Of course, I like profit. There's nothing like making a business profitable.

I like segua-ro cactus, chicken noodle soup, a job well done and the person who does that job.

I like a murder mystery ... on the tube, in a book or on the screen.

I like Joe Falls' mis-mash column he often writes in the Sunday News-Prep, most of Jim Fitzgerald's columns and Dave Barry's humorous articles.

I like watching professionals do anything from fixing to performing to working, but not wrestling.

I love peace, whether it be with our country, neighborhood, community or on a golf course.

I hope I touched some of your 'like' buttons and gave you just a tinge of good feeling.

Letter policy

Letters to the editor must arrive at The Clarkston News office by noon Monday to be considered for publication in Wednesday's paper. We reserve the right to edit all letters for brevity and clarity and to limit the number of letters from any one individual or on any one topic. Letters are limited to 315 words. We discourage copies of letters sent elsewhere and require that all letters be signed and include an address and phone number. We may withhold names on request but will not publish unsigned letters. Address all letters to: Letters To The Editor, The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main St., Clarkston, MI 48346.

Letters to the Editor

Good loan policy

I would like to thank the six school board members who voted to loan the Athletic Booster Club the money to build a locker room.

When completed, this $55,000 building will be donated to the school district.

Contrary to Mr. Jacques' comments in the Feb. 19 edition of The Clarkston News, this loan will not set a new policy.

Several years ago, this district loaned money to the boosters club to build the present concession stand building. This building was also given to the district.

Some may question why the school district would loan money interest free to the Athletic Booster Club. I think the reasons speak for themselves.

Over the past years, the club has donated over $100,000 to the Clarkston school district. Mostly recently we gave the district $7,000 to replace a 30-year-old scoreboard, $3,000 to build a new showcase and $6,000 to replace a worn out wrestling mat.

We have also saved the district hundreds of dollars by volunteering our time to help maintain the athletic field and its buildings.

While the district may be out a few thousand dollars in interest in the short run, in the long run, the booster's club will continue to donate thousands of dollars to help run an excellent sports program in our community.

I would also like to thank the businesses and citizens of our community who have supported the boosters club over the past 25 years.

Steve Secatch

School asset

I, for one, am tired of people airing their opinions, in the public forum, without verifying the facts, therefore misinforming the public in general.

I am referring to Jim Jacques' letter of Feb. 19. First of all, the loan we received from the school board was not for showers on the football field. It is for a team building where both our team and visiting teams can go for chalk talk and to escape inclement weather — and it will have bathroom facilities. It also will contain a ticket booth. Although we will be receiving an interest-free loan to fund a portion of the building, the school district will be receiving an asset (this building will be school district property) worth more than the estimated cost of $55,000 dollars because some of the materials and labor are being donated by area businessmen. Therefore, I would like to congratulate the six board members who made a very wise business decision that will also benefit many children in our community in the coming years.

I would also like to take this time to recognize my fellow booster members for the wonderful contributions they have made to our community and also for the gracious people of Clarkston who have donated so generously to this project in the amount of $13,530. We still are in need of funds and have more fund-raisers in the works.

I would also like to extend an invitation to Mr. Jacques to tell him of the contributions that Clarkston Athletic Boosters have made in the past years, thus saving thousands of dollars for the community, not only in sports equipment, but in many services areas.

Karen Tinkis, Treasurer
Clarkston Athletic Boosters

Town hall meeting

Who sees information on students?

Editor's note: Last summer, the Clarkston Board of Education conducted a town hall meeting, during which area residents asked questions for about three hours. Following are the school board's responses to some of the questions. More responses will appear in the following weeks. For a complete listing, contact the school board office at 625-4402.

Student-teacher-parent responsibilities and relationships (Part I)

1. Do teachers pass along information on students from year to year?

The student's cumulative record is passed from classroom to classroom and school to school until the child graduates.

2. What is the procedure for a parent wanting to review his or her child's records?

Procedure CA-60 provides for the review of a child's records as follows:

1. A parent must call the school office and schedule an appointment with the building principal in elementary schools and the building principal, assistant principal or counselor in secondary schools.

2. During the appointment, the following rules would apply:

- a. The parent may examine all items in the student's records.
- b. The building administrator or counselor will be present to answer any questions that arise from the parent and explain the contents of the record.
- c. The parent may not remove the record or any of the student's records.
- d. The parent may request a copy of the contents of the student's record.
- e. The parent may be charged a reasonable fee for the copying of the records.
- f. The parent will sign a form indicating the date of the review and the sections of the records that were copied. This form will remain in the student's records.

3. What goes into personnel files? Can letters from parents go into this file?

All official information pertaining to an employee is kept in his or her personnel file. It is school board policy that only administrators and the board of education may place information in these files.

Coach a blessing to community

We have decided to address what seems to be a very controversial issue in the Clarkston community.

Our family has heard many comments, both good and bad, since our move here four years ago regarding Dan Fife, the Clarkston High varsity basketball coach.

It seems every sports season there is some issue to keep this family in the limelight of this community. We have noticed the negative comments seem to be the ONLY ones being heard throughout this community.

We would like to address this. The sports our children have decided to play in this community have not only been positively influenced by Mr. Fife, they almost would not have taken place in Clarkston without his dedication and expertise.

The commitment he has displayed, along with knowledge and care in each and every case, has been lasting. What my children have learned from Mr. Fife cannot be replaced and will remain with them the rest of their lives. Athletics are a training basis for the real world, and what we learn as children helps to form us as adults.

Mr. Dan Fife was almost singleheartedly responsible for the junior high basketball programs, in addition to the McGrath Basketball League.

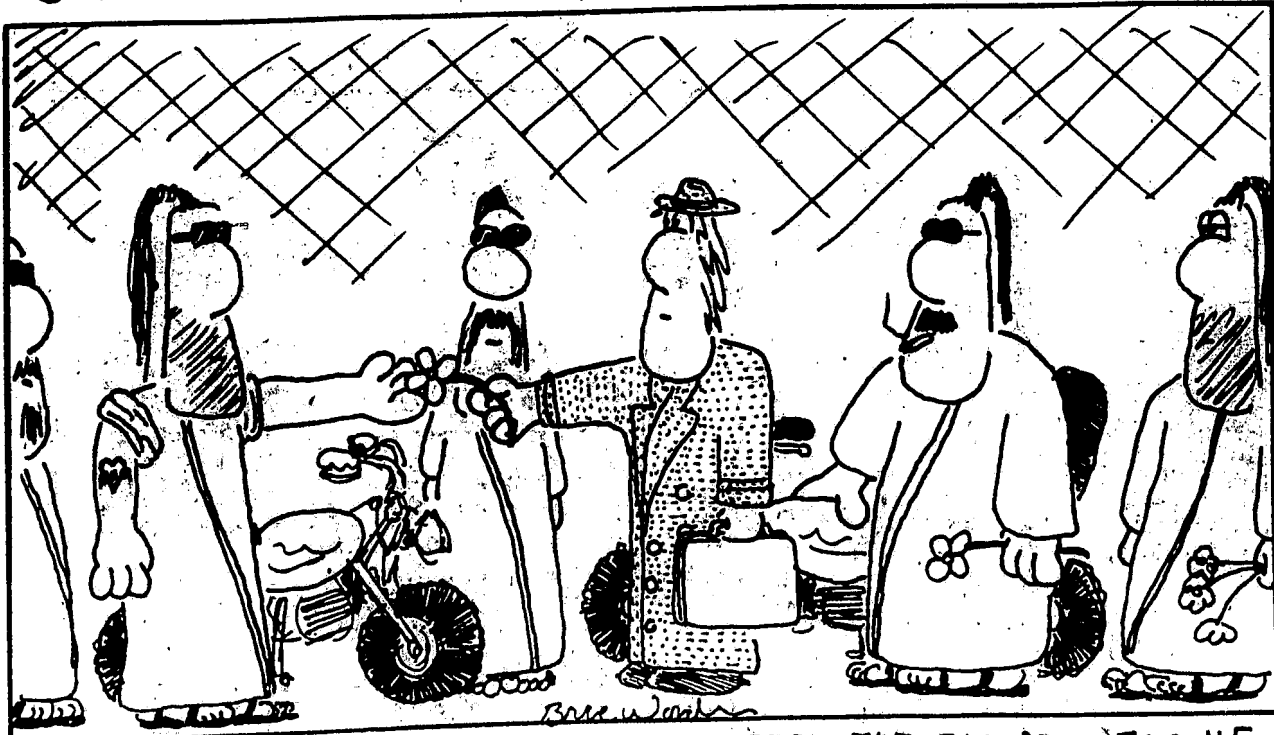

His time is given unselfishly every Saturday throughout the winter months. We also forget his dedication to the youth baseball programs, along with the number of kids he has helped throughout the years by offering jobs at his business or help in obtaining positions elsewhere.

He has also put in many hours of work in the youth football program in this community. These are not paid positions, and many of us forget the dedication and commitment this must demand. Working with children is not always immediately gratifying, but results are seen many years later when these children become adults.

Clarkston basketball has a positive reputation throughout the State of Michigan, and many basketball communities would give their "eye teeth" for a coach of Mr. Fife's caliber and integrity. We should count our blessings in the positive things this man has brought our community.

From Our Perspective

Doug Carlson

The following is the first in a series. The remaining articles will appear in following weeks.

A recent issue of Fortune magazine contained an interesting article entitled "What Our Kids Must Learn."

I found it so intriguing that I gave a copy of it to Dave Reschke, curriculum director for Clarkston schools.

I thought you might enjoy it also, so the next several columns will be a slightly condensed version of that article. Following is Part One.

Lord knows we love our kids and would do anything to smooth their way in life. But almost without realizing it, we may be denying them what they will need most to thrive in the competitive, multi-lateral world they will inherit: a good education.

While much concern has properly focused on upgrading poor inner-city schools, the nasty little secret is that many schools in more affluent areas are not doing the job either.

Chester E. Finn Jr., a prominent Vanderbilt University education expert, estimates that only 7 percent of U.S. high school seniors — about the percentage exposed to advanced-placement courses — are receiving a high-quality education.

A lot of other kids capable of learning much more are just gliding along unchallenged. We are talking here about smart children, high-achieving children — very possibly your own children.

Says Gregory Anrig, president of Educational Testing Service, which devises the SAT exams: "Our bright kids don't know enough and don't understand enough. We are expecting too little from them, and they are living up to that expectation."

Even worse, these children, presumably the future leaders of the nation, are lagging further and further behind their contemporaries abroad.

The Educational Testing Service recently published a report rating the math and science performance of American 13-year-olds against Korean, Canadian and European kids the same age. The Americans finished at the bottom in every test, and in some cases the contest was not at all close.

About 78 percent of Korean kids were able to use intermediate math skills to solve complex problems, vs. just 40 percent of the Americans. More than 70 percent of students from Korea and Canada could properly analyze scientific data; only 35-40 percent of American kids managed the task.

Clearly, we need to ask more of our schools. We must ask that they meet carefully defined national educational standards.

After talking with experts in the field, Fortune has assembled a list of 10 rudiments of a quality education. To prosper in the years ahead, students should, at a minimum, have the following upon graduation from a secondary school:

1. An ability to communicate effectively, orally and in writing.

This will be vital in just about any career. The manager able to express ideas clearly is already in an enviable position, and this talent will only become more important as business decisions grow more complex.

How can children be taught to communicate better? Not by spending their days in passive subjection to a teacher lecturing from the front of the room.

A recent report from the Harvard University Graduate School of Education says teachers should establish small study groups within each class and require periodic team reports.

Teachers should base class discussion on papers submitted by the students and encourage cooperative learning rather than grade competition in science and math classes.

In addition to teaching communication skills, these methods serve to prepare students for a world where the ability to work with all kinds of people, especially in teams, has assumed greater importance.

2. A thorough grounding in literature and the social sciences, especially history and geography.

No one disputes that quality education required a knowledge of these disciplines. But there is a raging debate about what constitutes the proper curriculum.

On one side are traditionalists who believe in holding to the Eurocentric view of history and literature — or concentrating on the time-tested classics, as they might put it. On the other side are critics who say the traditional curriculum excludes the contributions of minority cultures.

Though grossly overstated in some cases, the critics have a point. Textbooks often present distorted historical views, leaving out the contributions of women, for instance. And literature courses often ignore distinguished black, Asian and Latin American authors.

The solution is not to throw out all the traditional material; Shakespeare, Homer and Longfellow still have their place in a quality education.

But students should be exposed to a wide range of the most thoughtful literature and social science commentary, no matter what its cultural origins. They should know about Pearl Harbor — and about the internment camps for Japanese-Americans. They should read Jonathan Swift — and Gabriel Garcia Marquez.

Boys 1st, girls 2nd at regionals

2 Clarkston teams reach state ski finals

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Only 10 boys' and girls' teams qualify for the state finals.

Clarkston will be sending both of its teams to the March 2 Class A finals at Sugar Loaf Resort in Cedar (near Traverse City), with skiing beginning at 9 a.m.

The boys earned the trip up north by finishing first with 103 1/2 points in the 16-team regionals Feb. 20 at Mt. Holly (Second-place finisher Flint Powers, with 143 points, also qualified).

The Wolf girls qualified by placing second (142 points) at the regionals in Mt. Holly behind Bloomfield Hills Andover (97 points).

Both squads have been bolstered by their team-depth throughout the season.

This is the first time in four years both Clarkston teams qualified. Last season the girls finished eighth in the state.

The boys did not qualify.

Before the season began, Carrie Roeser (1991 Clarkston graduate and all-state skier) good-naturedly told Clarkston coach Judy Roeser that if the boys don't qualify for state, her mother should quit coaching.

"You get to keep the job," Clarkston senior Bryson Menke reminds his coach.

Coach Roeser expected the boys to be strong this season and the Wolves came through.

On the other hand, the coach was more pleasantly surprised about the girls qualifying this season. Several key skiers graduated last year and the young Wolves relied on two seniors, two juniors and two sophomores in the starting lineup.

Coach Roeser said she expects Traverse City and Gaylord to be the teams to beat in the boys' state finals and Traverse City and Petoskey to be tough in girls' competition.

In regional competition with nearly 100 boys' skiers competing, senior Justin Whittaker paced the Wolves by tying for second in the slalom (two combined runs at 46.47 seconds) and placing sixth in the giant slalom (two runs at 43.35).

"He took the pressure off," said Menke about teammate Whittaker.

Menke did quite well himself, finishing eighth in the G.S. (44.01) and 12th in the slalom (49.05).

Junior Scout Trim and senior Dave Studt also had strong performances (the top four places of six skiers count in overall team standings). Trim finished 17th in the slalom (49.6) and 18th in the G.S. (44.69). Studt was 17th in the giant slalom (44.68) and 23rd in slalom (50.58).

Sophomore Mike Kozlowski was a strong 25th in the slalom (50.71) and 42nd in the G.S. (46.08). Sophomore Dave Hartke finished 48th in the slalom (54.53) and 66th in the giant slalom (48.27).

Bloomfield Hills Lahser skier Brandon Vogt finished first individually in the slalom at 46.38 and Fenton's Brent Geyer was first in the giant slalom (42.66).

While brother Justin was flying down the slopes for the boys, sister Courtney Whittaker blazed the trail for the Wolf girls. Whittaker, a junior, finished eighth in the giant slalom (46.55) and 14th in the slalom (56.67).

In other Clarkston giant slalom finishes, Becky Rumph placed 12th (46.96), Kim Carpentier was 13th (47.01) and Carrie Millen 30th (48.96). Jenny Curd also placed 31st (49.21) and Kristi Stuetzer was 42nd (51.33).

Carpentier was also strong in the slalom, placing 17th (57.16). Curd finished 20th (57.56) and steady Millen was 28th (59.94). Rumph took 33rd (60.48) and Lisonn Hutchinson was 47th (65.44).

Rochester Adams' Robin Garrard was the top individual skier in both the slalom (52.53) and G.S. 43.58).

Dragons end hope of Wolf state repeat

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Weight was an important factor as Lake Orion edged Clarkston, 27-24, in team district action to end the Wolves' chances for a state championship repeat.

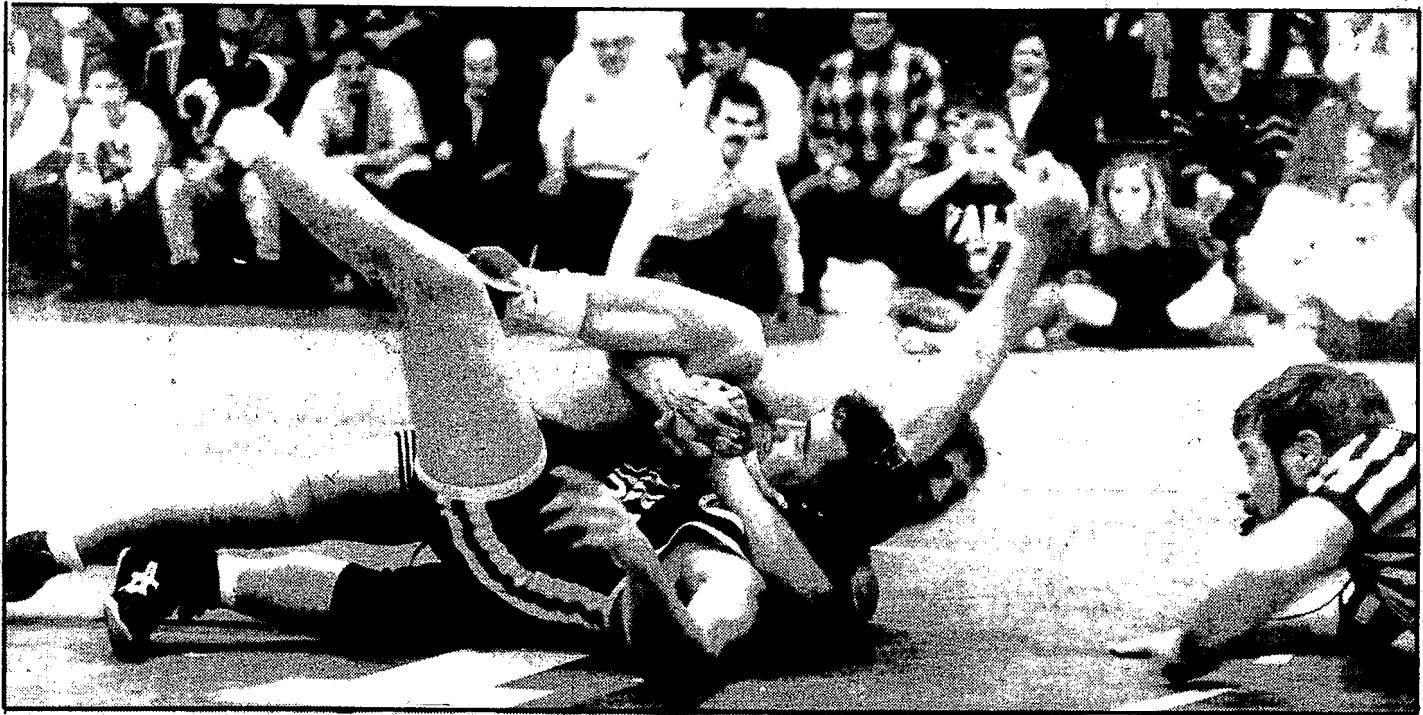

The Feb. 19 match at Linden High School was the post-season opener for the Wolves. (Lake Orion later crushed Swartz Creek, 54-13, in the district finals, earning a trip to the regionals).

The contest between the two Greater Oakland Activities League rivals was not settled until the final match. Exemplifying that closeness were the four draws which led up to the finale.

The match became tied at 24-24 when Wolf 189-pounder Brian Davis won a dramatic 7-3 decision over Dragon veteran Jim Frye.

That set the stage for the final match, pitting Clarkston heavyweight Steve Hunkele against Dragon Rob Chaney. Chaney picked up two points in the first period and held on for a 2-0 decision.

"I thought I could beat him," said a disappointed Hunkele, who had never wrestled Chaney before. Hunkele, who usually wrestles at 189-pounds, weighs 48 pounds lighter than Chaney. Hunkele had recently replaced Jon Roy in the starting rotation because Roy has been ill.

Lake Orion coach Tim Fagan enjoyed the drama of the winner-take-all final match.

"It's what it's all about. This is why kids compete," said Fagan.

Fagan admitted he didn't expect to begin the night with an early lead.

Clarkston 103-pounder Corey Grant was expected to lead off the Wolf attack with a victory, but Grant failed to make weight. The Wolves voided that match and the Dragons led 6-0.

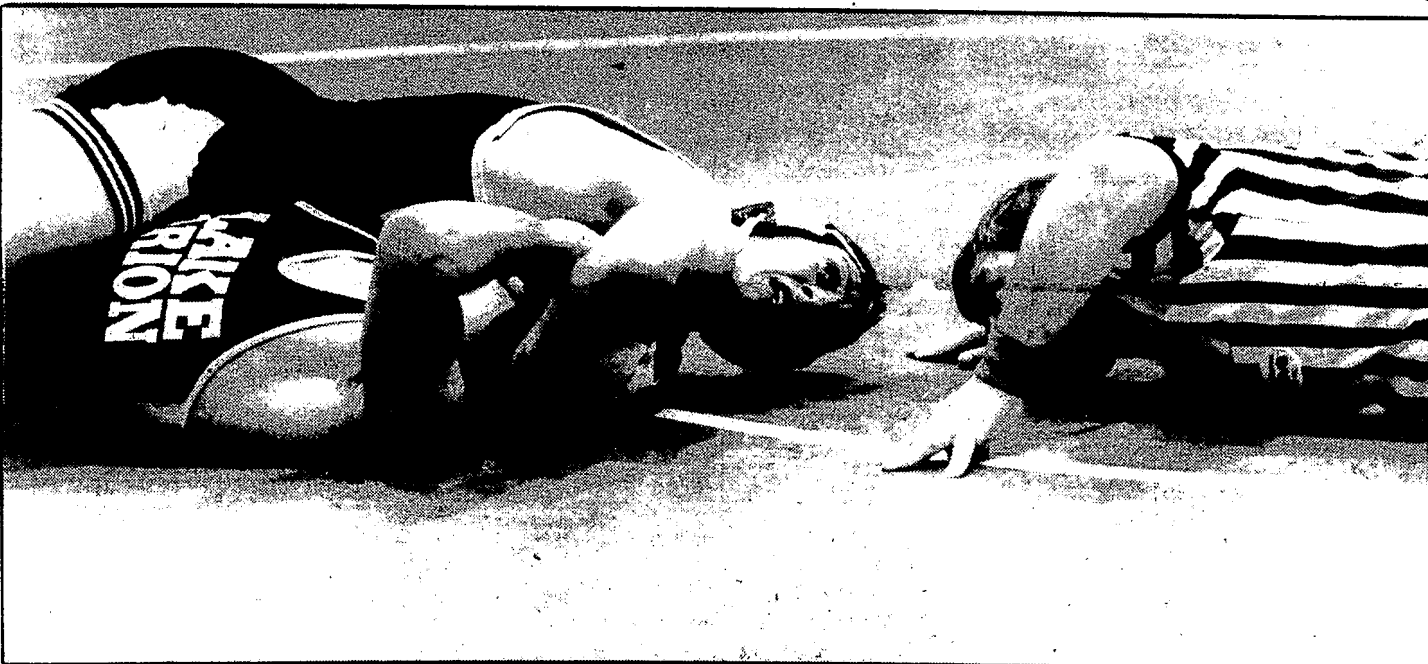

"That killed them," said Fagan.

Clarkston coach Scott Strickler noted, "You win as a team, you lose as a team."

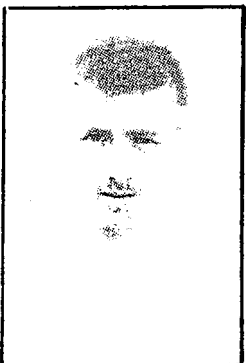

Fagan then bumped up his 103-pounder (Rob Majcher) to the 112-pound match. Majcher and Wolf Brett Walter battled to a 4-4 draw and Lake Orion led 8-2.

The Dragons then increased their lead to 15-2 when Mark Steffens (119) topped Jesse Laycock, 12-6, and Bryan Busha (125) defeated Armin Michelsen, 13-4.

Clarkston's Jerry Anderson (130) pulled the Wolves to within 15-6 when he JASON Roughton is only a few seconds away from pinning Lake Orion's John Sutton.

4 advance to individual regionals

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Four Clarkston wrestlers have advanced to Saturday's individual regionals at Bay City Western High School.

The Wolves earned the spots because of their performances at the Feb. 22 Class A districts at Swartz Creek. The top four wrestlers in each weight division advanced to the regionals.

Junior Jerry Anderson (130 pounds), junior Jason Roughton (140) and senior Nathan Smith (171) all placed first and senior Brian Davis (189) captured third.

Anderson, 33-2, pinned Lakeland's Brian Velzy at 1:08 in the finals; Roughton, 31-2, edged Lakeland's Joe Christopher, 5-4; Smith, 29-5-1, won by default over Lake Orion's Dusty Miller. Davis, 22-8, took third-place with a 5-0 decision over Rochester Adams' Andy Smetana.

The top four finishers at the regionals will advance to the individual state finals in Battle Creek.

Clarkston coach Scott Strickler said all four of his wrestlers have a great shot at advancing to state.

"You win as a team, you lose as a team."

Coach Scott Strickler

won a 14-3 major decision over Brian McGee.

Wolf Charlie Liggett (125) and Tony Lanford ended with a 5-5 draw, as did Clarkston's Jake Briggs (145) and Brian McCall. Sandwiched in between those two draws was Wolf Jason Roughton's (140) pin of John Sutton at 5:15.

Mike Cain's (152) 6-4 victory over Jason Griffin tied the match at 19-19.

Lake Orion got the lead back when Jamie Gazell (160) stopped Steve Co-hoon, 5-2.

Wolf Nathan Smith (171) trailed 5-7 with nine seconds left but still managed to finish with a 7-7 draw against Dusty Miller.

Big 2nd half helps cagers

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI

Flushing gave the Clarkston boys' basketball team a first-half scare, but the Wolves "woke up" for a 73-51 non-league victory.

Flushing held a slim 33-32 lead at the half, but the Wolves outscored the visitors 22-12 in the third quarter and 19-8 in the final frame.

"In the first half, we were a little flat, out of rhythm. We weren't as ready as we should have been. They woke us up," said Clarkston coach Dan Fife. "We executed better in the second half. We played liked we're capable of playing."

The Wolves, 14-2, helped themselves with some accurate free-throw shooting, sinking 21-of-26 (81 percent).

Senior Dugan Fife scored a bundle from the charity line, making 14-of-16. The guard also nailed six 3-pointers and three field goals for 38 points.

Derek Wiley pumped in 12 points; Sean Halleran and Luke Fedio each scored six, Nick Shires four, Jeremy Fife three, Jon Winiemko and Jeremy Burke each had two.

Flushing dropped to 8-8 after the loss.

Netters top Dragons, get set for districts

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston's volleyball team is out of the race but it still is going after Greater Oakland Activities League opponents.

The Wolves, who lost to eventual GOAL champion Brandon a week earlier, downed Lake Orion 15-9, 15-11, February 19 on the Clarkston court. The win improved Clarkston's GOAL mark to 6-2 and overall record to 18-13-6.

Coach Gordie Richardson played his seniors the first game and juniors the second. Both the seniors and juniors were too much for the Dragons.

Richardson said playing the two sets of upperclassmen help build "confidence and team togetherness," which is what will again be needed when the Wolves go after a district title Feb. 29 at Lakeland High School.

Clarkston will be joined in the district by Pontiac Northern, Pontiac Central, Waterford Kettering, Waterford Mott and host Lakeland.

In the win against Lake Orion, Heather Steinhilber was 17-of-19 in attacks with 12 kills. Steinhilber also served 8-of-8.

Laura Garlitz pounded 16-of-18 attacks, finishing with five kills. Jenny Oliver was 6-of-8 with three kills.

Setter Heather Austin had 12 assists. Stacey Tinkis served 10-of-10 and Tracey Ortwine served 8-of-8.

Defensively, Ortwine had 12 digs and Tinkis had nine. Garlitz blocked four shots. Deanna Lisle was 7-of-7 in serve receptions, Jenna Lopucki 5-of-5 and Ortwine 4-of-4.

B-ball skills contest Saturday

Passing, dribbling and shooting skills will be rewarded Saturday, February 29, for girls and boys ages 8 through 13.

The Sashabaw Junior High School gym will be the site of a Basketball Skill Contest, which is sponsored by The Clarkston Area Optimist Club.

Registration for the free contest begins at 9:30 a.m., with competition starting at 10 a.m.

Awards will be given to the top two finishers in each age group. Participants must wear gym shoes and parents must accompany their child to registration to sign the consent form.

For more information, call Ann Conklin at 625-8223 or Marilyn Allyn at 674-0993.

BASEBALL CAMP INFORMATION

The junior varsity baseball coaching staff, along with other baseball personalities, will be offering a baseball camp for those boys and girls between the ages of 7 and 15.

The camp is designed to enhance and improve overall baseball skills and sportsmanship. Controlled scrimmages will also be incorporated during the five-day camp.

The camp begins Tuesday, June 16, and runs through Saturday, June 20. Tuesday through Friday the camp meets from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., and Saturday it meets from 9 a.m. to noon.

Participants will be allowed 45 minutes each day for lunch. Beverage will be provided.

Each participant will receive a Baseball Camp T-Shirt (the camp will not conflict with the youth baseball/softball program).

The location will be announced at a later date.

SOCCER REFEREE CLINIC

A soccer referee clinic will be held this winter to train interested candidates. Youth leagues in Independence Township, Waterford, Oxford, Brandon and Lake Orion need more referees for spring, summer and fall leagues.

The clinic begins 7 p.m. Friday, March 13, and continues March 14 and 15 at Clintonwood Park.

Candidates must be 14 years old by April 1, 1992. The clinic and registration fee with USSF is $45, which includes a rule book and course materials.

The course includes 18 hours of instruction by certified USSF instructors with a written test at completion.

BALLROOM DANCE APPETIZER

This one-day class is a great opportunity to see if you like ballroom dancing. No lengthy commitments, no need to drop out.

The adult dancing class is 1-3 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 29, at the Carriage House (Clintonwood Park). Cost is $5 per person.

BOATER SAFETY

A free educational class on boater safety is available through the Oakland County Marine Division. Anyone over age 12 can receive a certificate. Classes begin in early May.

OPEN VOLLEYBALL NIGHT AT SASHABAW JUNIOR HIGH

Co-rec "drop-in" volleyball takes place 8-10 p.m. Wednesdays at Sashabaw Junior High. Teams are invited but must mix to play. Cost is $1 for residents and $2 for non-residents.

UNDER-14 SOCCER LEAGUE

A new Under-14 Soccer League is being formed by the rec. department. League play begins in April.

OPEN GYM

Open-gym basketball for adults is offered 7-10 p.m. Wednesdays at Clarkston High School. Cost is $1 at the door.

Players are asked to carry in their playing shoes (no black soles, please).

NOTE: No open gym on Feb. 26.

FOR MORE INFORMATION

Call 625-8223 or stop by the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department, 90 N. Main St., Clarkston. The office is open 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Plenty of superstars ready for Special Olympic event

More than 40 celebrities will be "team captains" at the 15th Annual Oakland County Special Olympics Super Stars Competition.

The event, which raises money for Oakland County Special Olympics, takes place Sunday, March 1 from 3 to 5 p.m. at the Lepley Sports Center on the campus of Oakland University in Rochester. Admission is only $1.

Some of the superstar celebrities on hand that will be team captains include Detroit Lion Lomas Brown, Detroit Piston Isiah Thomas, Detroit Red Wing Paul Ysebaert, former Detroit Tiger Hal Newhouser and University of Michigan football coach Gary Moeller.

Thirty-five teams will compete in a variety of events. The teams comprise one superstar celebrity, at least two team sponsors who have donated $1,000 each, two Oakland County Special Olympians and a non-participating coach to direct and supervise the athletes.

Prizes including ribbons, plaques and the 1992 Super Stars Overall Championship Award will be distributed.

Local driver 12th at Daytona

Dave Simko, an Independence Township resident, recently finished 12th at the Daytona ARCA 200.

Forty-two cars competed at the 29th annual race in Daytona Beach, Fla.

Simko, who drives an Oldsmobile and is sponsored by Mound Steel, completed the entire 80 laps.

A crowd of 50,000 watched the race, which was also televised on ESPN.

New Jersey driver Jimmy Horton won the event by .16 seconds over Ohio's Bobby Bowsher. Horton averaged 119.940 mph on the course.

The next event for the ARCA series is the Southern 300 March 7-8 at the Five Flags Speedway in Pensacola, Fla.

There will be a limit of 25 teams. For more information, call Jeanne Molzon at 674-3141.

Register now for summer ball

The last open registration for softball and hardball spring leagues, sponsored by the Davisburg Youth Athletic Association, is set for 7-9 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 26.

Anyone interested in playing may register at the Davisburg Elementary School, 12003 Davisburg Road, Springfield Township. For more information, contact Cheryl Smith at 634-4156.

The DYAA is also in need of reliable individuals for umpire duty, which can be a good part-time job for youths. Umpires must be 15 years old or older. For more information, contact Jean Vallad at 625-4695.

Council OKs M-15, Clarkston Road traffic light

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A stoplight is in the works for the corner of M-15 and Clarkston Road, Clarkston.

The Clarkston Village Council voted 5-1 Feb. 25 to approve the new traffic light, in addition to some changes in road geometrics.

The vote was passed on the condition that the Michigan Department of Transportation discuss the matter with village resident Jane Attaman. Attaman's Main Street residence on the southeast side of the intersection will be affected by the widening of Clarkston Road.

The council, which has been trying to get a stoplight at the increasingly busy intersection for the past few years, didn't want to delay action because they feared road changes would be put on the back burner for years by the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) if the measure wasn't approved.

Trustee Douglas Roeser cast the only dissenting vote. Roeser agreed that the light is necessary but felt MDOT could have done more about widening the intersection on the northeast side, which is commercial property, instead of the residential southeast side.

"Has anybody talked to the homeowner?" asked Roeser. Roeser's concern was one of the reasons why the stipulation that the owner be contacted was added on to the final vote.

Trustee Rob Whitmer said M-DOT avoided widening the road on the northeast side because it didn't want to get involved with environmental concerns about the property, which houses the Village Muffler and Brake Specialists. Soil contamination has recently been found on the premise.

Trustee Roeser also pointed out that there will be no crosswalk signals at the intersection and a new sidewalk will not completely be built because of the touchy northeast side situation.

But other trustees were most concerned about first getting the stoplight installed.

"We're never going to get perfection," said Trustee Rob Whitmer, who pointed out that the addition of the stoplight was the first priority.

President Sharron Catallo appreciated the work of MDOT.

"They've given us a lot of time and made quite an effort," said Catallo.

A 28-inch maple tree is to be removed from the Attaman residence because of the road widening. MDOT is to replace the tree with three smaller ones.

Widening planned for Maybee, Sashabaw

The busy intersection of Sashabaw and Maybee roads will be receiving a make-over soon.

On Feb. 18, the Independence Township Board voted to allocate $20,700 toward the reconstruction of this Independence Township intersection. The vote was 6-0, with John Lutz absent from the meeting.

Considered a top-priority project, the intersection will have left- and right-hand-turn lanes added in all four directions. This widening will help alleviate traffic congestion on Sashabaw Road, which is one of the county's busiest thoroughfares.

The total project will cost about $414,000, with 90 percent of the money coming from federal Hazard Elimination-Safety funds. The non-federal share of the costs will be $41,400, but the Road Commission for Oakland County requested that the township pay only about half this sum.

The Road Commission will now move forward with the bid process. Construction is expected to start sometime this spring.

American History Month

Ellis Island will be celebrating its centennial in 1992. The island, from the early days of the 1600s, underwent many changes — not only in name but in size.

Growth on land and sea had caused the island to go through countless name changes: Kioshk, Gull Island, Oyster, Dyre, Bucking, Gibbet, Anderson and Ellis — from 3.3 acres to 27 acres today.

Leap year: one little day, so much hype

BY DON RUSH

February 29. Every four years we have this day added to our calendars. Ever wondered why?

I did and decided to look into it. Once you do this, you're really in trouble — you get sucked right into it. You find out making up this one little day every so often because the calendar is messed up has tested great brains for centuries.

The study of this day gets complicated. You start reading about Pope Gregory XIII, his Gregorian Calendar (what we use now), which replaced the Julian Calendar, commissioned by Julius Caesar. You get into Lunar vs. Solar calendars, and then there's the Lunisolar calendar thrown at you for fun.

You'll find out about how all these calendars are off, but some more than others, so those giant minds who devised the calendars needed to add extra days every so often to make things right.

Where were we? Leap Year. That's the year we add a day to the calendar to make up for subtracting a quarter of the day each of the three years prior to Leap Year. Got that? Now starts the fun.

They kept track by moon

Lunar Calendars seem to be the oldest kind of calendars formally used. These are based on the cycles of the moon. To simplify things: using this system, the first day of the new month was the first day of the new moon.

The ancients found out that with this type of calendar, they were off each month by about .0306 of a day — or about .3672 days a year. So they plopped a day — or that is intercalated a day — into the calendar every three years. They had some alternative ways to compensate for the missing days in their calendars: some said don't do it ever three years; add three days ever eight years. Then someone said, what about adding seven days in 19 years or 11 days ever 30 years?

Thank goodness, someone finally said, let's change the system.

Enter the Lunisolar Calendar. This concept combined lunar months with solar years ... the problem being the lunar year was about 11 days shorter than the solar year. No problem. One solution was to add a month to the year every three years. The Greeks liked the Lunisolar calendar, and to make the days right, they added seven months to 19 lunar years. (They didn't change their ways until the 1920s.)

The kept track by sun

The Solar Calendar came up because folks were getting downright confused. This calendar has 365.2422 days a year. The problem with the solar calendar (has been worked into the Gregorian Calendar) is that darned 0.2422 of a day. Well, since .02422 is so close to 0.25 (a quarter of a day), they plop (intercalate) a day in the calendar every fourth year.

By the way, back in early Roman times, there were only 10-month years. It wasn't until about 700 B.C. that January and February existed. You can thank the Emperor Numa Pompilius for these months.

The Julian Calendar was introduced about 46 B.C. because emperors had a bad habit of interfering with the calendar. They'd make a month longer or shorter to mess up their political opponents. Needless to say, the tabulations of days in Rome reached a state of extraordinary disorder. The Julian Calendar standardized how long months were.

Julius Caesar's Julian Calendar had 365.25 days in a year. The Romans, too, decided to make their official calendar 365 days a year. And to make up the difference, they added a day in their calendar every fourth year, not at the end of February but sometime after Feb. 24. Life was good under the Julian Calendar — for about 400 years.

Then came the Christians

This calendar was OK until after Christians braved being fed to the lions long enough to gain control of the known world. They figured out that as we already noted, 365.25 days a year is longer than the solar calendar by 0.0078 days per year, or about three days every four centuries. And when the good folks in charge of the world at the time (those in power of the Catholic Church) started to work their holiday schedules, they found that with all the adding and subtracting, Easter would eventually end up being celebrated in the middle of summer.

Can you imagine celebrating Easter and the Fourth of July at the same time?

This led to about the year 1582, and it was then that Pope Gregory XIII took matters into his hands. One of the things he did was to subtract 10 days from that year, so that Easter would again fall on March 21. Later on, he decreed that three days would be dropped from the calendar every 400 years to correct the discrepancy between the Julian calendar and the solar year.

He also made it clear to his calendar makers that years with a date ending in two zeros would not be leap years, except when the first two digits could be divided by four. So 1700, 1800 and 1900 couldn't be leap years (darn), but 1600 could and 2000 will be.

What did he care ... he wouldn't be around to deal with it.

By now, just about everybody uses the Gregorian Calendar for civil usage. But it wasn't always so. Because this calendar was made by Catholics, Protestants had big problems with it — and it wasn't until 1752 that England (Protestant) and the American colonies accepted this calendar.

As a side note, it wasn't until the reign of Britain's King Henry VIII that law was passed about birthdays on Feb. 29 — the day that eventually turned out to be Leap Year Day. Prior to then, if you were born on Feb. 29, you only had a birthday every four years. Good King Henry passed a law that said you could have your birthday — legally — on Feb. 28. What a guy.

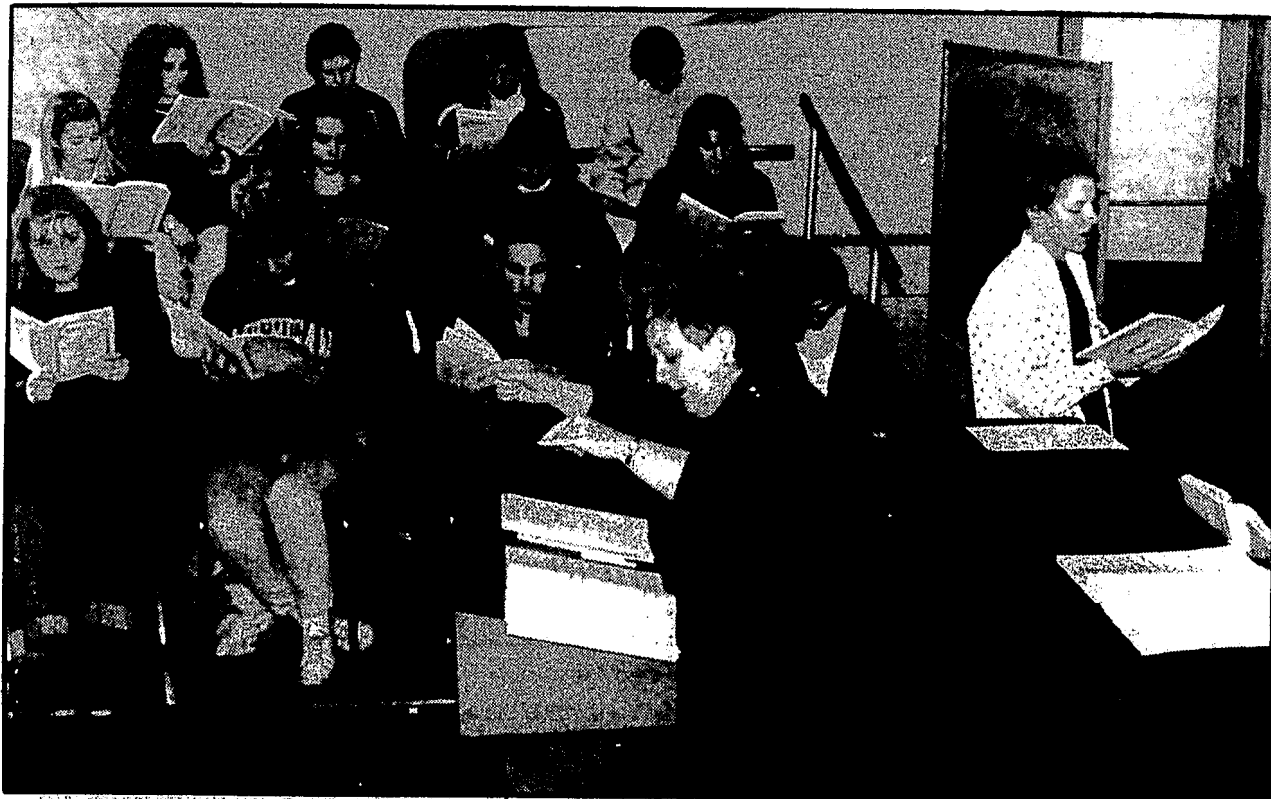

And, just when you thought everything was OK in the world of calendars, get this. Some folks are looking for further reforms. There's this idea called the Perpetual Calendar, which would have each date fall on the same day of the week.

Can't wait.

Students prepare Fat Tuesday meal

In preparation for Lent, culinary arts staff and students are preparing a filling New Orleans-style meal at the Oakland Technical Center-Northwest Campus (OTC-N).

In many parts of the country and the world, it's customary to have one last party before beginning Lent. This is known as "Mardi Gras" or "Fat Tuesday," which is traditionally the day before Ash Wednesday, the first day of Lent.

In keeping with this tradition, Mardi Gras cuisine is featured during a special five-course meal on Tuesday, March 3.

Primary planner of the meal is Tony Sleva, a senior at OTC-N.

The courses include: soup, Seafood Gumbo; appetizer, Seafood Etoufee in Barquette; salad, Tossed Greens - Pecan Vinaigrette; entree, Breast of Chicken - Maque Choux; dessert, Sweet Potato Tart.

Cost is $7.95; seating is limited. For reservations, call 625-5363. The school is at 8211 Big Lake Road (near Dixie Highway and I-75), Springfield Township.

"Let's discuss your Career in Real Estate Sales"

QUESTION: What is the best way to make home improvements with the thought of getting a better price when you sell?

ANSWER: It's what a buyer SEES that makes the difference. Which would add more to the visual value of a home - new insulation or a new kitchen? Unless the insulation is really on its last legs, a new kitchen is a better investment. A buyer can SEE a new kitchen or remodeled bathroom, or an exterior paint job, but will he SEE the insulation behind the walls?

It's always nice to do both, but if you have a choice, spend your money where it will be seen the most. It will make your house more attractive and more salable.

Help keep our groundwater clean

Some people feel there's not much they can do to affect or preserve groundwater quality.

But anyone who spreads fertilizer on a lawn or changes the oil in a car has potential to help preserve or threaten groundwater.

Groundwater is fresh water stored in the soil, according to Larry Olsen, Michigan State University Extension pesticide education coordinator.

The composition of the soil in an area — clay, sand or rock — generally determines how much groundwater is present, the depth at which it is found and how vulnerable it is to contamination.

"Carelessness and lack of understanding of groundwater often lead to contamination by pesticides, fertilizers, motor oil, gasoline, human and animal wastes and other materials," Olsen says.

"Because groundwater moves slowly and isn't subject to the cleansing action of air, sunlight and microorganisms — which break down contaminants in surface water — contaminated groundwater tends to stay contaminated for a long time. Once contaminated, it may be difficult or impossible to clean up," he says.

More than 40 percent of Michigan's residents depend on groundwater for their drinking water. Other uses range from irrigation of lawns and cropland to food processing and manufacturing. So everyone has a vested interest in keeping contaminants out of groundwater.

Homeowners can help preserve the quality of groundwater in a number of ways:

■ Never dump, spill or permit contaminants to leak on the ground. Take used oil to the nearest collection center so it can be recycled.

■ When using pesticides, follow directions for quantities needed and mix only as much spray as you need. This eliminates any need to dispose of leftovers.

■ Fertilize lawns, gardens and landscape plants according to a soil test to avoid applying nutrients you don't need. Avoid spreading dry fertilizer on driveways, sidewalks and road surfaces — it will go from there into the storm sewer or run off into local creeks or streams and may end up in groundwater.

■ Properly dispose of household hazardous wastes and their containers. Support collection days and facilities in your community.

■ If you have a well and septic tank, have the well water checked for contaminants regularly, and keep the septic tank in good operating condition.

Information on septic tank maintenance, pesticide use, soil testing, oil recycling, hazardous household waste and a host of related subjects is available from the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service office at 858-0080.

The above information is provided by Michigan State University Outreach Communications. For more information, call Larry Olsen at 517-355-0177.

The Auxiliary Juniors, Legionnaires and Sons of the Legion of Chief Pontiac No. 377 American Legion were busy over the holidays.

They hosted parties at the Greenery Nursing Home in Clarkston and the Lake Orion Nursing Home; they traveled to Battle Creek to pass out gifts to 800 veterans; they worked at the Grand Rapids VA facility during gift shop days, helped at the annual Christmas party at the Legion Villa in Battle Creek, took gifts to the Penrickton School for Blind Children, made food baskets for the needy, helped Santa at the senior citizen center and hosted a Christmas party for the children of veterans.

Junior Miss Poppy Tara Chapple presented residents of the nursing homes with poppy "Christmas" corsages and slippers filled with candy.

The Inde-Spring Charter Chapter of the American Business Women's Association (ABWA) is one of five host clubs for the 1992 Great Lakes Spring Conference in Dearborn May 15-17.

The annual spring conference takes place in each of the 12 regions of ABWA and gives members a chance to attend seminar, network and enjoy the weekend.

The mission of the ABWA is to bring together women of diverse backgrounds and to provide opportunities for them to help themselves and others grow personally and professionally through leadership, education, networking support and national recognition.

The Inde-Spring Charter Chapter of the American Business Women's Association (ABWA) recently presented a "basket of cheer" to Joan Elton of Waterford. Elton won the basket in a raffle the club held to raise money for scholarship-funds in five area chapters of the ABWA.

Tara Chapple, Junior Miss Poppy for Chief Pontiac No. 377 American Legion Auxiliary, recently presented the 100th lap robe to Jo-Jo Burton, recreational director at the Greenery nursing home on Clintonville Road, Independence Township. The robe was made and donated by the 18th District Auxiliary and juniors. Tara has volunteered each month at the Greenery for three years.

Cultural exchange host families sought

This summer, Oakland County will be playing host to several students visiting from Spain.

The program is one of cultural exchange where students from Europe come for four weeks during the summer to learn about life in America. Thousands of European students will be dispersed across the United States.

This project is being conducted by the International Education Forum (IEF), a licensed cultural exchange program based in New York state.

Local community coordinator Pam Hankins will be facilitating this program, which involves locating area host families and planning activities for the students while they're visiting Oakland County. Activities include cultural and historical sites, factory tours and typical summer fun activities in Michigan. This program will take place during the month of July.

The students will arrive from Spain during the time of the summer Olympic Games in Barcelona.

Host families are currently being recruited for sharing their homes for this short-term homestay program. The students will supply their own medical and liability insurance as well as their own spending money.

For more information about this program, contact Pam Hankins at 623-7742.

Class on alcoholism, highway safety

A class on alcoholism and highway safety is offered by The Consortium for Human Development, Inc., Clarkston.

The intensive psychoeducational series is designed to guide participants to personalize the information presented.

The $300 classes run for 12 weeks and include nine educational sessions of 1 1/2 hours each and three individual sessions with a therapist.

The next class series begins Wednesday, March 4, (6-7:30 p.m.) and runs through April.

Instructor Deone Lowe, who has a degree in education, has taught these classes for more than five years.

The Consortium, a non-profit corporation providing counseling and education services, is located on Sashabaw Road, Independence Township. It also has Novi and Troy locations.

For more information, call 625-9600.

Relief Society marks 150th year

Elderly in the area may receive some companionship, as well as a few extras, thanks to the efforts of a women's organization.

The Relief Society of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints in Clarkston, in celebration of its 150th anniversary, is devoting the month of February to serving some of the needs of the community through Lighthouse North Caregivers.

Each week, members of the group are collecting clothing to be donated through Lighthouse North.

And members have signed up to visit the elderly in the area — they are to take fresh fruit and vegetables, chat with and write short memory books for those visited, and do light housekeeping for those who are unable.

For more information call Sally Swayne of Lighthouse North Caregivers at 673-4949. Lighthouse North is at 5331 Maybee Road, Independence Township. The non-profit organization serves the needy in the north Oakland County area.

Pupils reach seniors with Valentines

Home-bound senior citizens in the area had a brighter Valentine's Day, thanks to some Sunday school children.

Sunday school pupils ages 3-15 from Prince of Peace Lutheran Church in Ortonville made Valentines, which were given to senior citizens by Lighthouse North Caregivers.

To get involved in a similar project, contact Sally Swayne at Lighthouse North Caregivers, 673-4949.

Showtimes Week of Feb. 28-Mar. 5

ENDS FRIDAY, 2/27

KEVIN COSTNER
An OLIVER STONE FILM
"JFK" (R)
1:00 - 4:30 - 8:00

STARTS FRI. 28th

"THE PRINCE OF TIDES" (R)
1:00 - 4:00 - 7:00 - 9:30

STARTS FRI. 28th

"The HAND THAT ROCKS THE CRADLE" (R)
1:00 - 4:00 - 7:00 - 9:15

STARTS FRIDAY, 2/28

"KUFFS" (PG-13)

KUFFS: The only thing standing between this standard San Francisco-set crime caper and the Big Yawn is the reckless, go-for-broke arrogance of its star, Christian Slater. Without this gravel-voiced Brat Packer, the film-makers would have had 100 minutes of stupid sight gags and uninspired shootouts. With Slater, whose chutzpah rivals Muhammad Ali's in his prime, the film becomes a fun exercise in "Hey, check me out!" narcissism. He pulls it off in a glib, jokey, bravura turn meant to remind you of the young Nicholson. Rated PG-13; violence, profanity.

THIS MOVIE SHOWTIME
SUBJECT TO CHANGE, call theatre. 9:00pm ONLY.

STARTS FRIDAY 2/28

Adventures of the Great Mouse Detective (G)

Sherlock Holmes a rodent? Elementary, although this diminutive detective, who lives beneath those famous Baker Street digs, is named Basil.

What isn't elementary is that this movie would be so watchable. Released before, in 1986, this Disney feature is an entertaining, fast-paced animated cartoon that, though aimed at kids, will not bore their parents to death. Rated G; nothing objectionable.

THIS MOVIE SUBJECT TO CHANGE WITHOUT NOTICE, call theatre. 1:00-2:30-4:00-5:30-7:00.

FAMILY MATINEE
SAT - SUN 1:00 - 3:00

BINGO! (PG)

Imaginatively campy and well-crafted, "Bingo" is no dog. This story of one mutt's fight to keep his boy, "Bingo" is sophisticated enough for adults, charming enough for kids and wacky enough for everyone. Even those indifferent to dogs should enjoy Bingo's antics: not only savior to canines and humans alike, he swills champagne, drive a truck, and even overcomes his puppyhood neuroses. Rated PG; strong language, some adult humor.

Women's Health Center expanding

■ They established the first women's health model of its kind in Michigan. ■ They introduced the first nurse practitioner to private practice in Oakland County. ■ They identified chlamydia infections as being more prevalent than was recognized at the time. ■ They introduced low-dose film screen mammography when most facilities in southeastern Michigan were unwilling to respond to this advance in medical diagnostic technology. ■ They educated patients in preventative medicine before insurance carriers and employers admitted to the benefits of such a pro-health approach. ■ They focused on the prevalence of heart disease in women before it became a recognized issue. ■ They were the first non-hospital facility to receive dual accreditation in mammography and laboratory service.

■ They are the staff at the Women's Health Center of Clarkston.

This facility was originally established with a specialized orientation for providing comprehensive health care to women. As the center grew, so did the women's demands for additional services. As these services were added, women began to request their family members have access to these services.

Today, the Women's Health Center of Clarkston provides medical care to over 20,000 women and family members from Clarkston and surrounding communities.

The center's clinical staff consists of two women internists, one family practitioner and one nurse practitioner. In addition, there are seven technologists, nursing and administrative staffing.

The facility offers such services as low-dose film screen mammography, ultrasound, X-ray, echocardiography, exercise stress treadmill, and on-site laboratory services. Examinations vary from complete physicals that include pelvic and pap smears to colds and flus to hormone therapy. Office visits can be arranged by future appointment or same day if urgent care is needed.

"I look back and I am amazed at what we have accomplished," states Susan E. Coleman, founder, medical director and board certified internist.

This accomplishment was recently recognized by the Waterford-Clarkston Business and Professional Women's (BPW) Club. Dr. Coleman was presented an award for her contributions to women's health issues and community service.

Future health issues indicates Michael Mosharo, administrative director.

It is these very issues and the surrounding communities' support that are influencing the center's need to expand. In May 1992, the Women's Health Center of Clarkston will be opening a new diagnostic suite. There will be additional exam rooms and an expanded nursing/administrative area.

"This is all being done to accommodate for staffing and patients," states Lynda McMillen, administrative coordinator.

"We have also factored in for physicians who will be joining this practice in the future," adds Mosharo.

The first such physician will be coming to the Women's Health Center of Clarkston in May. Sonia Ramirez, M.D., a veteran woman internist and cardiologist, is enthusiastic about her new surroundings.

"Dr. Coleman is correct on her position regarding heart disease in women," comments Dr. Ramirez. "There is a significant amount of hypertension and coronary heart disease in middle-aged women."

Based on recent statistics, it is anticipated that Dr. Ramirez will focus on addressing the cardiac needs for both men and women. She also will be providing internal medicine support. Another woman clinician will be joining the center later this year.

The center is recognized for the personalized attention it gives its patients.

"We really tune in to our patients," indicates Elaine Arthur, LPN and nursing supervisor. "We strive to listen, support and respond to their needs as much as is possible."

Laura Morencey, a patient at the center, acknowledged that support, "They truly care about how I am doing and are always checking up to see that all is well."

It is this personal commitment that seems to drive the center, its staff and its physicians. This philosophy actually extends itself out to other areas such as community service and education.

"Our staff has been wonderful in getting involved with and participating in a number of good causes and programs," states Mosharo.

Fun Daze, a Clarkston running event, has received corporate sponsorship from the Women's Health Care Center of Clarkston for three years. They will again be the sponsor for 1992.

"This is a special event in that it is an excellent run for young and old, and the monies raised help support local community projects," said Mosharo. "Fun Daze symbolizes preventative medicine and healthy lifestyles at its best."

Registration for the May 16, 1992, Fun Daze will be offered through Independence Township Department of Parks and Recreation.

Other supported causes have been the Clarkston Interact Club, comprised of community service-minded high school students; Culinary Arts Department at the Oakland Technical Center-Northeast Campus; Junior Miss Pageant; Mrs. Michigan Pageant; Labor Day Parade; Chamber of Commerce; and the Clarkston Wolverines.

In addition, it is hoped that another international drive will be made to support the Chernobyl Relief Fund this year. In the past, the Women's Health Center of Clarkston, along with Clarkston Rotary, has contributed medical equipment to aid in one of the worst nuclear accidents to occur in the Soviet Union.

"With the Soviet Union having disintegrated, health care has gone from poor to nonexistent," comments a Chernobyl spokesman from New Jersey.

In addition to community service, education plays an important role at the center. Educational presentations are made to groups upon request. In the past, this has included various schools, employers, local community and church groups.

Topics have included hormone therapy, breast cancer, osteoporosis, chlamydia, heart disease and sexually transmitted diseases. For further information on topics and speakers, please contact administrative services at 625-9260.

Some very interesting medical problems are being seen in both male and female patients.

"Typically, a woman experiencing menopause is in her late forties," states Dr. Janis Saunders, family practice and women's health specialist. "We are seeing women in their thirties that have been told that there is nothing wrong with them, that to just ignore this imagined complaint. This woman may be experiencing early menopause and can be helped with hormone precursors/hormones. This will usually result in a resolution of their symptoms."

Addressing another area, Dr. Sue Ikai, internist and rheumatologist, indicated, "We are seeing more male patients. It appears that our women patients are referring their husbands and sons to us."

Agreeing, Dr. Coleman adds, "We are definitely seeing more male patients, but I must add that they seem to be an ignored group, health care-wise."

She cites, as one example, a gentleman who was prodded by his wife to come in for a serious bout with the flu. Upon examination, it was determined that there was a heart condition requiring immediate attention.

"The men tend to push things off, which isn't always a good idea," concludes Dr. Coleman.

Nurse practitioner Patricia Strayhorn says, "Our women patients like having their needs conveniently addressed. This can be from having a pelvic included in their comprehensive exam to being able to have their mammogram while they are here for an exam."

With the increase in males visiting the center, is it possible that the women's health focus will be diminished?

"No, this medical model that we established in the beginning was unique, in that we felt caring for women and men was complementary," states Dr. Coleman. "Women have certain medical criteria that they are evaluated by, and men have their own criteria as well."

It appears that they were correct in their assumption. This same model is now being emulated in other states.

"We broke the ground initially and are happy to see that this type of health care system is being recognized elsewhere," adds Dr. Coleman.

The Women's Health Center of Clarkston continues to plan for the future. It has recently been approached to become a clinical site for a national osteoporosis project that will be coordinated through the FDA.

"Osteoporosis continues to be a major problem for women, causing countless bone fractures and physical illness," comments Janis Saunders, D.O.

"Diagnosis, treatment and management of this severe disease will be severely needed as the women population becomes older," adds Dr. Coleman.

The center will also be investigating some very new diagnostic instrumentation that will aid in the diagnosis of vascular and pelvic disease. Preventative medicine will continue to play a major role in maintaining the good health of the center's patients.

Center's breast care program accredited

The American College of Radiology, ACR, has given full accreditation to the Breast Care Program at the Women's Health Center of Clarkston.

This is a highly respected certification that signifies that the mammography services at the center have passed the highest review of the facility, personnel qualification, image quality, and dosage as set by a peer review committee of the ACR.

The Women's Health Center of Clarkston, under the direction of Susan E. Coleman, M.D., is accredited for a period of three years.

"We are very pleased to receive this recognition because it verifies that our services meet the stringent national requirements of the ACR for mammography services," says Dr. Susan Coleman.

"Not all sites who apply for this standing are approved," she adds. "The review process is very intensive. We are proud to convey this wonderful news to the surrounding communities of northern Oakland County," she says.

The American Cancer Society recommends a baseline mammogram (one that will be compared with future mammograms) during the ages of 35-40. Ages 40-49 should have a mammogram done every one to two years. From age 50 and up, a mammogram should be performed annually.

The original focus of the program had been to provide convenient breast care to the center's patients.

Patients were scheduled to see one of the doctors for a yearly exam and could obtain a mammogram when indicated.

The benefits to the patient were a sensitive and educated staff with whom to interact.

It allowed for both the educational and clinical aspects of breast care and breast cancer prevention to be utilized.

Today, that program has grown. Patients, referred by their own physicians with a prescription, are now being seen in increasing numbers.

These patients are returned to their doctors along with the resulting reports.

"We are honored to serve both the patient and their doctor," states Dr. Coleman.

The Breast Care Program at the center provides women with the following services: low-dose film-screen mammography, experienced registered mammographic technologists, and board-certified radiologist to interpret results.

Ultrasound of the breast (technology using sound waves) and examination, along with education are also available.

If a woman has no physician in the area, arrangements will be made for the patient to be seen at the center for a breast evaluation as part of her total health profile.

Cedar Crest offers quality learning for pupils

Cedar Crest Academy, quietly nestled among trees and wildlife, offers an average 15:1 pupil-to-teacher ratio with academic excellence in many areas.

Classes are offered in mathematics, science and liberal arts, as well as in humanities, French, Orff-Schulwerk music, string and winds music instruction and physical education.

The school provides afterschool classes in music, art and computers plus tutoring, which are open to community students as well. Also offered are art classes in clay, painting, drawing, mosaics, fibers and woodworking.

But perhaps most impressive is the approach to education at the school.

"We emphasize individualized learning and cognitive development," said Bette Moen, the school's curriculum director, who owns the private independent school with Dolores Imbrunone.

Therein lies the key to the school's uniqueness.

"Our society and world is a needy place for thinking, creative and ethical individuals," Moen said. "Cedar Crest cares about the individual child's need to create, express and problem-solve in his world. We believe a strong education in the humanities is a basis for strong character, empathy and thinking."

The private school provides clear educational advantages. For instance, middle school activities include a instance, it's ideal for experimentation and life studies. "We really enjoy our location here," Moen said. "It is a relaxing and restful environment among trees, water and life."

Moen loves working with children and is happy with progress at the school. They've added classes at the same grade level and have expanded class time in Orff music and French.

While the school itself is growing, it provides an opportunity for personal growth and development for Moen, who finds her work meaningful, she said.

"What I like most about being in this position is the possibility of making a difference every moment you breath, and the struggle and joy of discovering the many ways and things you and the children can learn about life," she said.

However, some aspects can be challenging, she said.

"Part of the challenge is educating families about the learning processes children need currently and in the future," Moen said.

At Cedar Crest, the staff concentrates on the challenge of "developing the whole child as his personal individuality necessitates, creating a sense of the collective and our responsibility to that whole in children and families," Moen said.

Daycare: For toddlers & afterschool students

Once inside Cedar Crest Early Childhood Center, a visitor immediately sees bright colors and small groups of busy children.

Formerly called Children's Tree Day Care and Learning Center, the early childhood center offers preschool classes in a natural setting and environment.

Geared to 2 1/2- to 5-year-olds, preschool programs are available in two-, three- and five-day schedules for toddlers and afterschool students. A summer preschool program also is offered.

According to Bette Moen, curriculum director, the school is unique in that it offers Orff-Schulwerk music for 2 1/2- to 5-year-olds, and the school has state-certified teachers in early childhood education.

"We are educators by training, philosophy and action," she said. "This is called a profession to us." That attitude pays off. Children seem happy at Cedar Crest Early Childhood Center.

Moen, who owns the childhood center with Dolores Imbrunone, enjoys the challenge of working out a curriculum and providing an environment in which children learn best.

"Helping parents provide a nurturing environment that is congruent with the beliefs of the family can be challenging," she said. "Also, dealing with the stress of families, children and adults, which is often projected out on the school system, is a challenge."

Moen finds the setting of the school to be an enhancement. It provides exactly the type of environment the school seeks for its children.

"Our location provides a natural setting, which is both relaxing and restful," she said. "With the school being set among the trees, water and nature, it's the type of environment which leads to a peaceful feeling."

Moen said there is a need in society for the types of learning programs offered at the Early Childhood Center.

"We established this school, with this type of learning curriculum, because there was a genuine need for it in the community," she said. "Our interest was generated by the research in Europe on early childhood intervention and the academic results as compared to American children."

It seems that Moen and Imbrunone have done their homework. The best part of their jobs, they say, is "playing with children all day!"

Great food, unique atmosphere at Clarkston Cafe

Bathed in the elegance of a bygone era, the Clarkston Cafe is much more than a place to get a bite to eat.

This Main Street establishment is considered by many to be the hub of the downtown district, with a tradition rich in culinary excellence. Co-owner Lee McNew said the Cafe is a popular spot for everyone, regardless of their attire.

"We consider ourselves a family restaurant who caters to folks in jeans as well as those people in tuxedos," she said.

Besides good food, McNew said the restaurant's rustic interior could be its most attractive feature.

"We consider our ambiance to be unique and authentic, not plastic," she said. "Everything is rustic, from the wooden tables, to the original sign over the fire place."

Lee's initial love for food and the joy of serving it spurred her family to buy the Cafe in 1976. Lee, along with husband Patrick and her father, Don Hayes, took up ownership of the restaurant, which had existed as a sandwich-and-beer-type establishment from the 1920s.

While the location is the same, the looks have changed. In June 1988, the Cafe expanded into the adjacent space formerly occupied by a flower store.

"The library" resulted from this construction. It's considered the focal point of the dining area, where patrons can take in both atmosphere and a good meal.

On weekends, guests are entertained by the likes of pianist Steve Schlessing, former organist for the Detroit Tigers.

The Cafe's menu consists of all varieties of dishes, including frugal feast specials which are offered at affordable prices. Offered at lunch and dinner, these specials are mostly comprised of soup and salad combinations.

The restaurant also offers two "light-side meals" per day, which are dishes for health-conscious patrons. These plates are low in calories, cholesterol and fat.

In the past year, Lee said the Cafe has also added more homemade dishes, prepared with fresh ingredients.

She is admittedly proud of her long-time staff, which is mostly comprised of Clarkston-area residents. She is also proud to be located in the Clarkston area, where many of her patrons are greeted on a first-name basis.

"I love Clarkston and the people who live here," she says. "Sometimes, when I wonder why I'm in business, I take a walk outside and look at the town — then I know why I'm here."

Solley's: 44-year tradition of top-notch service

In the appliance market, Solley's could be considered the proverbial "David" amongst an array of competing "Goliaths."

However, President Alan Solley believes that bigger isn't necessarily better.

Founded in 1948, the store has been run and operated by one family, the Solleys. Alan Solley has worked full time at the store since 1979 and has done odd jobs since age 12.

He started in the family business soon after graduating from Albion College, Albion, in 1979.

Located at M-15 in Brandon Township, Solley's offers such brand name appliances as Maytag, Amana, Zenith, Hitachi and Gibson. Besides the standard lines of refrigerators, ranges, ovens and wood burning stoves, Solley's has also added more fireplace displays to the store.

"We're in a very competitive business, and people have the idea that the larger appliance store have lower costs, and that's not true," he said. "Our prices are just as low, and we offer services above and beyond what other stores do."

"We actually take care of the customer before,

"We offer various replacement parts and have our own repair department."

during and after the sale," Solley added about his 44-year-old business. "We offer various replacement parts and have our own repair department. Buying a product and having it delivered is only half the story and, at Solley's, we're there every step of the way."

In the way of repair, Solley feels he has an ace up his sleeve with brother-in-law Tom Thurlby. Thurlby received his formal training from Alan Solley Sr., Alan's father.

Thurlby attended several training schools offered by manufacturers and now has more than 20 years of in-field experience. He also taught for two years at the Oakland Technical Center-Northwest Campus in Springfield Township.

In addition to top-notch repair work, Solley's provides its customers with "after hours" delivery service. Solley said any type of merchandise can be delivered after 4 p.m., as long as it's arranged with the store. This service is available six days a week.

Despite his store's semi-rural location, Solley is

No two landscapes the same through Lowrie's

For 13 years, Tom Lowrie has been making lasting impressions in Oakland and southern Genesee counties.

The dynamic owner of Lowrie's Landscape employs the talents of some 20 employees each season to design and install his signature landscapes. "It's a team effort to produce a landscape that not only complements the home, but reflects the individuality of the homeowner," Lowrie said.

Like most landscape contractors, Lowrie started "out of the back of my pickup," using his home in Waterford as the office. His success in the business necessitated several moves to more spacious surroundings until he settled upon his present location in Springfield Township. This location enabled him to come home, in a sense.

"This is a nice spot because it's on a major highway, and this particular corridor is starting to become a hot area in terms of residential and commercial growth," Lowrie said. "It's nice to be associated with both Clarkston and Springfield Township because of the strong sense of community. Both of my folks grew up in this area and now my home is here as well."

Lowrie describes his business as a design/build landscape company.

"We offer a complete landscape package from blueprint to installation. We can even arrange an ongoing plant care service if the customer desires," he said.

In addition to plantings, Lowrie's services include landscape lighting, large tree moving, project management, commercial lawn cutting services, installation of retaining walls and the popular brick paver patios and walks.

though we are able to offer the top of the line in products and services, I will suggest more economical ways to enhance a client's home if I feel it is better suited.

"A case in point," he added, "was a client who had his heart set on an intricate brick drive and walk. However, his entire house was bricked and I convinced him that a standard cement application would be a more pleasing contrast, as well as less costly. To this day, he thanks me for that."

Lowrie believes his landscaping business is unique because of its quick on-site service. His crews are normally on the job within two weeks of a contract signing, and often are able to coordinate all details to start the job in a matter of days.

Once beginning a job, the crews are on-site first thing every morning until completion, barring weather conditions and occasional "unforeseeables." Many of Lowrie's clients, especially those who have built their own homes, are amazed by his prompt and consistent service.

"Your crews were there when you said they would be; they worked constantly even in 90-degree weather, and they were done when you said they would be done," Lowrie said a past customer exclaimed.

Lowrie stresses professionalism in his company. "Our clients are making an investment when they contract us to landscape their homes. Our employees understand this and strive to be respectful, courteous and professional at all times," Lowrie said.

He added the employee handbook states that shirts are not to be removed unless the home owner approves of it.

Lowrie truly believes that the key to his company's success lies in his competent staff.

"I'm the owner, the 'glorified problem solver,' the guy who signs the checks and keeps everyone fired up; but it's our people, our team, that makes this place happen."

"We couldn't stay alive without them," he added.

"Sure, there are days when I bang my head against the wall and my hair turns a little grayer because of them; but the times when I stand back, look at what they've created and my heart swells with pride far outweigh the day-to-day irritations."

ONE OF THE HOMES landscaped by Tom Lowrie happened to be his own — a 150-year-old farmhouse on Dixie Highway, Springfield Township.

The creations of Lowrie's team have been recognized as award-winners for the past three years by both the Michigan Nursery and Landscape Association (MNLA) and the Metropolitan Detroit Landscape Association (MDLA) in the category of "best residential landscape."

Lowrie said there is no gimmick to his business — only the promise of quality service and customer satisfaction.

Exercise essential to maintaining weight, health

Obesity rehabilitation, nutrition, exercise and preventative medicine are the forte of Gail Cookingham, M.D.

Dr. Cookingham has had a lifelong interest in medicine and human nutrition. She received her bachelor of science degree in nutrition in 1980 and her M.D. in 1985. She trained in internal medicine at William Beaumont Hospital from 1986 to 1989. Prior to entering private practice, she was on staff at William Beaumont Hospital Department of Nutritional and Preventative Medicine, Birmingham.

Patients are medically and nutritionally managed exclusively by Dr. Cookingham. Lectures and group instruction are given by Dr. Cookingham and her associate, Julie Morse.

Morse, who has a four-year bachelor of science degree in exercise physiology and a minor in psychology/behavior modification, is certified as an exercise specialist by the American College of Sports Medicine. Exercise equipment is available in the office for program patients.

Following are answers to commonly asked questions.

1. What is the single most important cause of obesity?

By far the single most important cause of obesity is physical inactivity. Without a regular exercise regime, carbohydrate craving and appetite stimulation occurs.

2. Why do some people eat more than others?

Overeaters crave carbohydrate. This craving may result in out-of-control eating or bingeing. The craving experienced by overeaters is due to the excess carbohydrate in their diet. Once carbohydrate is restricted in the meal plan, the overeater usually experiences loss of craving, and appetite suppression.

3. What is a carbohydrate?

A carbohydrate is a sugar. Complex carbohydrates are many sugar molecules attached by chemical bonds. Examples include grains, rice, corn, potato. A simple carbohydrate is also a sugar. It consists of one or a few sugar molecules. Examples include table sugar, fruit sugar and candy.

4. What should I look for in a weight-loss program?

Exercise emphasis. If a program states you don't need to exercise, that program does not have your best interest in mind. Also, ask about credentials. Some weight-loss clinics state there are trained professionals, but this may mean the employee received a training manual, which they read prior to "managing" the patient.

The diet counselor should have a minimum of a four-year bachelor of science degree in nutrition or be a registered dietitian. The behavioral counselor should have a minimum of a four-year bachelor of science in the area of psychology.

If an exercise facility is part of the program, the supervisor of exercise should have a four-year degree in exercise physiology and exercise specialist certification by the American College of Sports Medicine.

The lecturers should have formal training in the area in which they are lecturing.

6. What is your feeling about the psychology of overeating?

Overeating is a form of substance abuse. The addictive habit afflicting the tobacco user, alcoholic and gambler also afflicts the overeater.

7. How do you stop overeating?

Cookingham Clinic of Nutrition

Location: Independence Pointe, 7210 Ortonville Road (M-15), Suite 200-204, Independence Township
Phone: 620-1900

8. Do you need to exercise to lose weight?

No. Weight loss can occur by caloric reduction. However, you must exercise for weight loss maintenance.

9. What is your advice to the obese person who has repeatedly failed at weight loss or weight loss maintenance?

You must accept that the only solution is a regular exercise regimen. If your weight is ruining your life, exercise is a small price to pay for self satisfaction.

10. How do you feel about liquid protein diets?

Liquid protein diets are unrealistic for long-term use. However, there are advantages of using this type of meal plan in certain instances on a short-term basis.

11. What types of weight-losing meal plans do you provide?

I provide a full food plan, full liquid protein meal plan, and a combination of meals and liquid protein. The later meal plan is by far the most popular and effective plan. It is also associated with much less risk of medical complications as compared to the full liquid protein meal plan.

12. Do you inform your patients of the side effects of the liquid protein meal plan?

Yes. The patient receives a detailed review of all possible side effects prior to beginning this meal plan.

13. Do you recommend the liquid protein meal plan?

I provide this type of meal plan on a short-term basis to patients who do not have medical contraindications to it. However, I do not recommend its use in all patients and I do not encourage its use on a long-term basis to anyone.

Clinic treats asthma, cough, allergy and more

The three physicians at the Clarkston Allergy & Immunology Clinic in Independence Pointe are prepared to treat all kinds of problems.

They specialize in asthma and chronic cough; hay fever and perennial allergic rhinitis; allergic sinusitis and recurring ear infections; hives, eczema and atopic dermatitis; insect allergy and bee sting reactions; food and drug allergy; and anaphylaxis.

Cory E. Cookingham, M.D., is a graduate of the University of Michigan Medical School. He completed pediatric and allergy and immunology training at the University of Michigan Medical Center and is certified by the American Board of Pediatrics and the American Board of Allergy and Immunology.

He is chief of Allergy Service, Mott's Children's Health Center, and is an associate clinical professor at Michigan State University, College of Human Medicine. Dr. Cookingham is past president of the Michigan Allergy Society. His special interests are childhood asthma, food allergy and urticaria.

Joel A. Beene, M.D., is a graduate of the University of California at Berkeley and St. Louis School of Medicine. He received his internal medicine residency training at St. Louis University Medical Center and completed an allergy and immunology fellowship at Henry Ford Hospital.

His special interests include adult asthma, pulmonary function and insect allergy.

hood asthma and recurring infections.

The three specialists have provided answers to some commonly asked questions:

Q. What are the symptoms of asthma?

A. The symptoms of asthma include wheezing, coughing, shortness of breath, cough at night, difficulty breathing and exercise intolerance.

Q. What is asthma?

A. Asthma is a chronic inflammatory disease of the lung characterized by spasm of the muscle surrounding the airways. There is inflammation of the airways with excessive mucus production and swelling of the lining tissues of the airways. This results in obstruction of the airways which can be relieved with medications.

Q. What is the cause of asthma?

A. Asthma is most frequently caused by allergic reactions to inhaled substances. Such substances may include animal danders, housedust mite, pollens or mold spores. Less frequently, allergic reactions causing asthma may be precipitated by occupational exposures or foods. The symptoms of patients with allergic asthma are often aggravated by exposure to smoke, fumes, viruses, cold air and exercise.

Q. What is the treatment of asthma?

A. Because most asthma is related to allergy, identification and avoidance of allergic factors should be the primary approach. This is done through a careful and detailed medical history and environmental survey and appropriate use of skin tests. When avoidance of allergic factors is not possible, immunotherapy (allergy shots) to induce non-allergic immunity has been proven effective. Drugs such as theophylline, beta agonists, cromolyn and corticosteroids may give symptomatic relief.

Personal attention results in personalized designs

BY KIMBERLY ROGERS

The Design Workshop, Ltd., is currently located about two miles from I-75 and Baldwin Road North, near Maybee Road.

Kimberly Rogers

The hours of operation run all day and into the evening by appointment only at this time.

It's been 1 1/2 years at this location, and we are getting ready for the big move! We'll be sure to let you know where and when by mail or through the newspaper. We'll have — once again — a grand opening celebration with everybody welcome. It's real exciting. We've come a long way.

So let me tell you what we're all about, especially for those who don't know yet.

We offer a complete service in custom home decorating. We bring the service to you and make it a delightful experience right in the comfort of your own home or office. We have a professional staff to help you in every which way with your needs and wants to achieve that look you want.

Our own selection of fabrics, wallcovering, furniture, carpets, rugs, etc., brings it all together. This includes the convenience of installation, measuring, wallpapering, painting, etc. We also extend delivery free of charge and free installation of fabricated goods to senior citizens.

Location: Orion Township.
Hours: By appointment.
Phone: 391-3999

Something else we feel is very important is our own Orion Township workroom, which accommodates the simplest to the more custom designs in fabricated goods, such as window fashions, bed fashions, linens and more. So when a job is sold, we can stay right on top of it from beginning to end.

I've lived in Orion Township now for five years and plan to continue for many years to come. I just love it out here.

All businesses are successful in many different ways. We believe that our unique service is that we provide that personal touch you just can't buy. It comes with taking the time in getting to know a client and their needs.

So be sure to watch for our grand opening ad in the newspaper, but in the meantime, business is as usual at 391-3999.

Bad radiator? No problem for Clarkston Auto Body

If you're having radiator problems, you may want to turn to Clarkston Auto Body and Radiator, Inc., for help.

The Sashabaw Road, Independence Township, business has always provided complete auto body repair — with such extras as free estimates and pickup and delivery. But now, they've added radiator sales and service to their line of services.

And that means more customers can be helped, said Dale Verhey, who's been in the business for 14 years.

Dale said a big part of his satisfaction comes from working with people and from working on the more modern vehicles.

"I like dealing with the Clarkston people," he said, adding that "repairing today's high-tech. vehicles and making them look like new is rewarding."

According to Dale, his work is challenging because of the details involved.

"When it comes to attention to details, we are painstaking," Dale said. "To repair and bring today's vehicles back to their original condition and appearance is a challenge and one we take very seriously."

Even the tools used at Clarkston Auto Body are geared toward that goal.

"We have a down-draft spray booth so we can produce a perfect finish," said Verhey.

Dale takes perfection seriously. Since customer satisfaction is of utmost importance, he takes extra steps to ensure that Clarkston Auto Body employees are proficient in the technical aspects of their work, as well as in the customer relations aspect of their work.

For instance, "we mail out follow-up cards to make sure the customers are happy," he said, explaining that customers mail them back with comments.

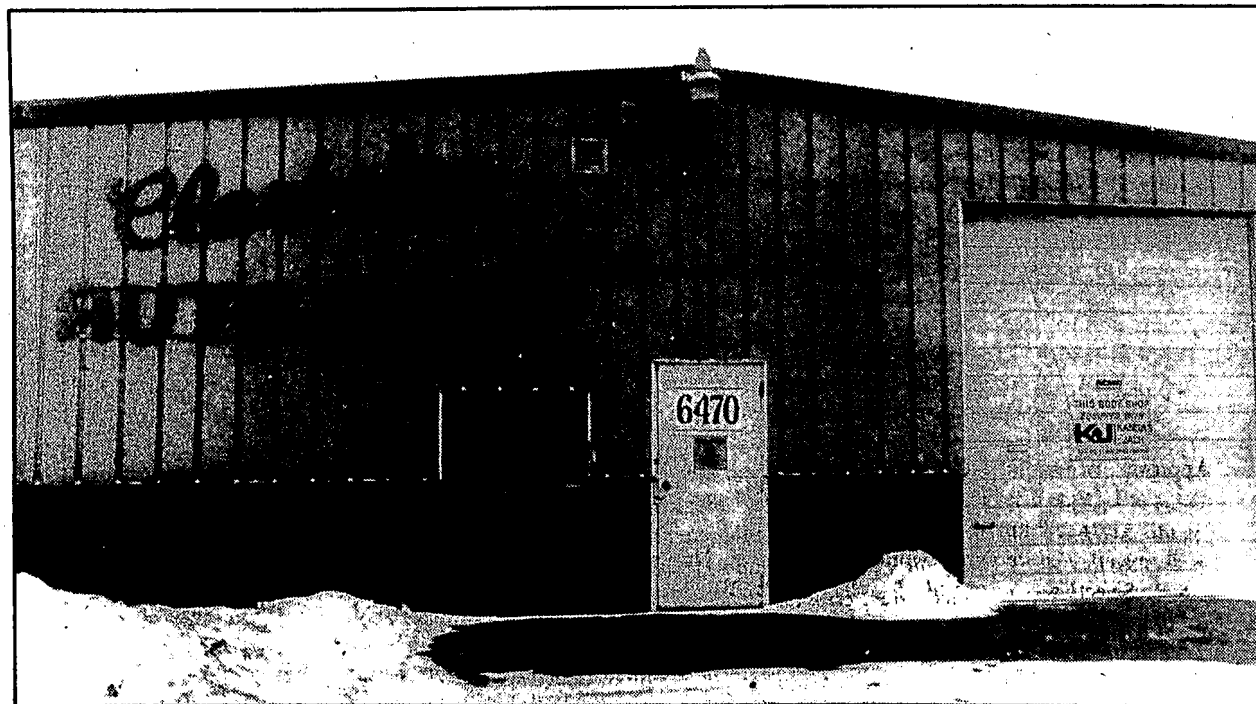

"If any problems are mentioned, I immediately call to take care of it," he said. "We follow up our jobs. We want to know what they felt was good about the service and if they have a suggestion on how we can improve."

That professionalism is apparent in each employee, said Dale.

"All of our body technicians have been through I-Car training, which is the only training for collision industry," he said. "Our painters are sent to Chicago for a week of training at the color matching school. Color matching is very important — it is always a concern of the customer."

Verhey and his staff have managed to master the technological end of auto body repair and radiator replacement. But, just as important, they have also managed to ease the way for the customers.

"We want to make this as easy and painless for the customer as possible," Verhey said. "Needing body work to their vehicle can be a painful experience in the first place, so we strive to make it as simple for them as possible. We want them to leave happy."

Medical Group gives complete primary care

Once visitors step inside The Clarkston Medical Group office, they know why the pediatric practice is renowned in the north Oakland County area.

One waiting room, designated for "sick children," is filled with child-size tables and chairs, with plenty of seats for moms and dads, too.

Another waiting room, designated for "well children" (those needing vaccinations or allergy medication, or having fractures or lacerations), likewise is suited to youngsters, with colorful health-related mobiles and magazines.

In the bustling office, service is efficient and complete.

The four physicians — Mohammad N. Amin, M.D.; Irving Kernis, D.O.; James A. O'Neill, M.D.; and Charles M. Yee, M.D. — provide complete primary medical care.

That includes comprehensive well exams; preventative programs; laceration, burn and injury care; illness treatment; and coordination of all care needed with a specialist.

The physicians are experienced — in fact, many of their patients return for medical care as adults.

The physicians stay abreast of the latest technologies and treatments available in patient care. For instance, a new improved DPT (diphtheria, pertussis and tetanus) immunization, with significant reduction in possible side effects, was approved by the Food and Drug Administration for use in 18-month and 5-year-olds.

"We will begin using this vaccine immediately," said Dr. O'Neill. "We were also the first using the Hib vaccine, which helps prevent meningitis in young children, when the vaccine for 2-month-old children became available."

DR. IRVING Kernis treats Dave McKenna of Waterford, who grew up receiving medical care from the Clarkston Medical Group. The practice, comprising four pediatricians, has served the north Oakland County area for 30 years.

Parents are reassured to know that a physician is always available, 24 hours a day, to answer phone calls.

Working parents appreciate the extended hours at the medical practice, which include all Saturdays.

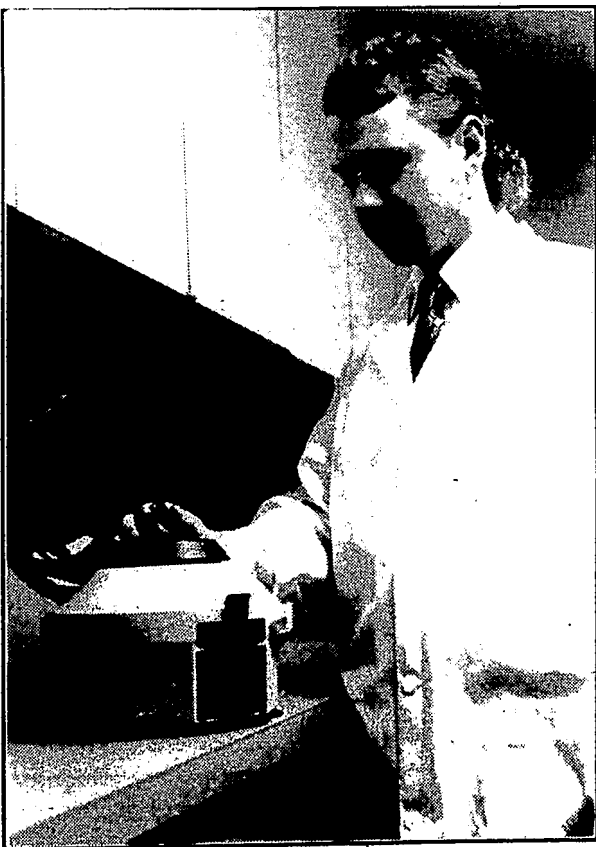

"Between our facility and the Clarkston Ambulatory Care, you have 24-hour coverage every day and night of the year," noted Dr. O'Neill.

Another benefit of the Clarkston Medical Group is that it employs only registered nurses and certified lab technicians.

In addition, the physicians make rounds at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital and the North Oakland Medical Center (formerly Pontiac General Hospital) every day of the year. Plus, they make house calls and nursing home visits.

One extra that's intangible is the attitude of the physicians — they smile a lot and seem to genuinely enjoy their work.

"Ever since I can remember, I wanted to be a physician," said Dr. O'Neill, adding that his favorite part of the job is "the privilege to serve, help and care for people."

pressive business record along with other professional accomplishments and services.

In the past 12 months, the company has grown in size from 18 to 25 sales associates.

"We have over 250 years of combined experience selling homes in the Clarkston and surrounding areas," said Sales Manager John Carpenter.

Each associate joining Clarkston Real Estate has met their high standards of ethics along with bringing a proven ability in the real estate field.

"Our concept is to provide the best quality service to our community, and we believe this is best achieved by maintaining the same high standards of professionalism among all our associates," said Carpenter.

It's true Clarkston Real Estate Services, Inc., has made a positive impact on the community as a full service real estate office, listing and selling residential and commercial properties, counseling buyers and sellers, offering notary service and serving as the official information center for the Clarkston area.

Clarkston Real Estate and its associates are very community minded and are members of the Oakland County and Clarkston Chambers of Commerce and the North Oakland County Builders Association, and serve on several citizen advisory committees.

All of the associates take pride in meeting the challenges of an ever-changing market, including current financing, the latest changes in rules and regulations on environmentally sensitive issues — while at the same time maintaining a close personal relationship with all their clients and customers.

"The reason our office is successful is because we are experienced professionals," said Carpenter. "When choosing a Realtor in today's real estate market, people expect results; and at Clarkston Real Estate Services, we deliver results."

"Some people say the market is slow right now. We disagree. Our business is up 20 percent, and we're looking forward to an excellent 1992."

Friendly service, quality jewelry at Waterfall

If you walk into Waterfall Jewelers, you'll see shiny display cases and customers milling about. And you'll also see smiling people, waiting to help you.

In the family-owned and operated business, the staff camaraderie is apparent, as is the expertise.

Let's say you're looking for something traditional for your father and something modern for your sister. No problem — they've got it.

"Our selection of jewelry is not only beautiful and extensive, but also varied — from traditional styles to the ultra modern," says owner Tom Brown.

Brown says the staff is knowledgeable and helpful.

"We are a family of eight kids," says Brown. "My father has been in the business his entire adult life. We literally grew up in this business."

They've also been a part of the community their entire lives, he said.

"We know a tremendous amount of customers personally," he said. "Being friends, they promote our family business through word of mouth."

In turn, the Brown family supports the community.

"Our family is very community oriented," he said. "We believe in giving back to our community which has made us so successful. We sponsor many youth sports teams in Clarkston and Waterfall. We also support local fund-raisers."

In fact, Brown is vice president of the Rainbow Connection, which grants wishes to terminally ill children.

But much of his schedule is filled with work-related tasks.

"Keeping up with the fluctuations in the diamond market is challenging," says Brown. "Searching for the latest and most exciting styles in the industry at the best possible price for customers is a full-time job."

Waterfall Jewelers offers in-store free jewelry cleaning, free ear piercing, custom designing, insurance replacement, and high school and college class rings.

Despite the economy, business has been good and will probably get better, he says. In the upcoming year, Brown predicts an upswing in the economy as well as an upswing in patriotism.

"In the next year, I expect the American people to be very 'American-made' conscious," Brown says. "This will lead us out of the recession, and service oriented businesses will continue to thrive."

The jewelry store location in Waterfall Plaza contributes to the business' success, he says.

"We have high visibility here, along with easy access," he says. "We love this area, and the people here are really great to work with. We couldn't be happier with our location."

At Glitz, staff highly educated, professional

Offering an array of beauty services, Glitz has the facilities and the experience to help anyone achieve their own special "look."

Located in the Independence Pointe plaza, this 2-year-old salon provides patrons with the latest techniques and styles in self-improvement. Glitz is owned by the husband-and-wife team of Nigel and Cherie Barnett of Keatington.

In addition to this shop, the duo owns and operates a three-level facility in Rochester. This particular Glitz outlet offers message therapy and pedicures to its customers.

Cherie has nearly 20 years in the beauty field, and she has surrounded herself with a large staff of professionals, who are dedicated to satisfying their clientele.

"Time is spent on (styling) decisions," she explains. "Everything is taken into consideration — bone structure, lifestyle ..."

"The staff is trained to know what to do," she adds. "We can educate people about what looks good on them."

Cherie is so sure of her staff's know-how and ability that she's issued a challenge to her competition.

"My staff is constantly being brought up to date on the new styles and techniques," she said. "I'd challenge any salon to 'touch' the amount of education my staff has attained over the years."

Cherie Barnett owner and operator of GLITZ Salon.

Cherie credits her staff's ongoing education with company-sponsored field trips and visiting professionals such as Jeffrey Bruce, a nationally renowned makeup artist.

As a matter of fact, Bruce and Glitz teamed up for a before-and-after makeup segment on Channel 7's Kelly and Company Feb. 7. He is a frequent visitor to Glitz's two salons, which carry a full complement of his products.

Cherie's television exposure doesn't stop there, either. In March, she will be hosting a half-hour talk show on Independence-Clarkston cable channel 65, with the topics being makeovers and hair styles.

This year, Glitz has acquired two new lines of products for hair care — Sorbie and Graham Webb. Glitz is one of only a couple of salons in America to carry Graham Webb assortments, whose product line is manufactured in Great Britain.

"We can educate people about what looks good on them."

Cherie Barnett

Glitz provides free beauty consultations to its patrons and makeovers and hairstyles to aspiring models. These models are asked to serve as subjects during the staff's educational classes, which keep them up with the latest styles and techniques.

Glitz also offers its patrons gift certificates and a free subscription to the salon's quarterly newsletter.

But no matter what the service, one thing remains consistent among Glitz clients: the knowledge that their appearance is cared for and appreciated.

Food, shopping, banking, medical care & more at the Pointe

A new restaurant soon will arrive in Independence Pointe — a three-building retail and office center within walking distance of the Village of Clarkston.

Mesquite Creek restaurant is to open this spring, according to Stephen Proctor of Clarkston.

"We lack a restaurant of this nature in this area," said Proctor, about his and his partner's decision to do business in Independence Township.

As the name would indicate, everything in the restaurant is cooked over mesquite, giving a unique taste to the food. The $10-$15 meals range from steak, ribs and pork to seafood, lamb and Southwest fare — "recognizable foods, not gourmet," according to Proctor.

He plans to employ about 75 people from the Clarkston area, and his 7,200-square-foot facility includes banquet space.

Proctor's business will only enhance the businesses that already operate in the two-year-old center on M-15, Independence Township, according to developer John Poponea.

For instance, LB's Muffins 'N Yogurt offers muffins, non-fat frozen yogurt, salads, sandwiches, soup and chili, macaroni and cheese, plus fruit and vegetable plates in the summer.

Owners Tim and Joan Kelly of Ortonville also sell

Private practices of physicians and medical specialists are located in that building. They include: allergy and immunology, cardiology, colorectal surgery, family dentistry, gastroenterology, internal medicine, obstetrics and gynecology, general surgery, urology, neurosurgery, dermatology, ophthalmology, orthodontics, otorhinolaryngology, pediatrics and family practice.

Walk-ins as well as referrals are accepted in the outpatient laboratory facility, operated by SJMH.

Also in the medical center is an X-ray facility operated by Associated Radiologists of Oakland County, which accepts referrals from area physicians.

All ages of shoppers enjoy stopping at The Bunny Hut, according to owner Judy Brock.

Boys' and girls' clothing from preemie to size 14 are offered, as are Toddler University shoes. The store is also known for treasured gift items, such as Beatrix Potter and North American Bear. In popular demand are the Bunny Hut's Muffy Van derBear collection. For information, call 620-0160.

One of the first to move into the plaza was Glitz of Clarkston, which also has a Rochester location, according to owner Cherie Barnett.

Services offered include hair styling and cutting, coloring, highlighting, perms, waxing, makeup, makeovers and specialized nail care.

In the past year, they've added designer hair care products and have made appearances on TV shows — Kelly & Co., and Independence-Clarkston Channel 65 cable-TV.

Hamilton Propane, Inc., adds a new location

Hard work by employees and family members turned into rapid growth at Hamilton Propane, Inc.

"We have really grown over the last year, so about three months ago we moved the propane part of business out here," said Bob Kratt, president of the company, which he owns with his family, Bill and Barbara Kratt.

"We expanded from our petroleum operation in Ortonville," he explained.

Hamilton Propane sells propane wholesale and retail. It can be purchased in 5-pound tanks and up to 2,000-gallon tanks.

"We also handle all kinds of appliances," Bob said. "We have heaters, barbecues — basically anything that runs on propane."

Bob predicts the business will continue to grow. "Our new location has made room for future expansion," he said. "I anticipate unlimited expansion. When new propane products become available, we will stock them."

At present, Hamilton Propane is becoming better equipped to serve customers.

"We are in the process of going to a computer, and we do have fax available," he said. "We offer free delivery of 100-pound cylinders and appliances, and we also offer a no-interest payment plan (upon approved credit)."

An advantage to dealing with Hamilton Propane is the individualized attention.

"Most of the propane companies operating are large companies with many branches," Bob said. "This limits their potential for personalized service. Hamilton Propane is family owned and operated. Therefore, we always give personalized service along with better prices."

"We have heaters, barbecue — basically anything that runs on propane."

Of course, there are other advantages, too. Take the new location, for instance.

"We really like our new location," he said. "It has easy access and lots of room. Also being on M-15 gives us exposure. We are really looking forward to our future in the upcoming year."

Clarkston Ambulatory Care:

Because minor emergencies don't know office hours

On a recent Monday evening in January, Dr. Irving Kernis treated 46 patients between 7 p.m. and midnight with an assortment of ailments, including sore throats, vomiting and diarrhea, a sprained ankle, asthma, pneumonia and a migraine headache.

Later in the early morning hours, he saw eight patients, including a patient with an injured finger and another with a bladder infection.

It was a typical shift for the Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center (CACC) at

Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center

5905 M-15, Independence Township (1/4 mile north of Dixie Highway, across from the Dairy Queen).

In the nine years since area physicians formed CACC in 1983, the center has lived up to expectations and now attracts patients from outside the Clarkston area.

CACC was created to provide after-hour urgent care, which includes nights, weekends and holidays when a patient's doctor isn't available.

Afterward, a complete copy of the patient's visit — X-ray, labwork and other diagnostic tests — is sent to the patient's physician to ensure continuity of care. If the patient requires hospitalization, those arrangements are made in cooperation with the patient's physician.

In essence, 24-hour care is provided, since CACC shares facilities with the Clarkston Village Clinic — which has had evening and weekend hours for many years in this location.

The location was ideal, according to Beverly J. Walters, R.N., director of Nursing and Community Education at CACC.

The Clarkston Village Clinic came equipped with on-site X-ray, and many area residents were already accustomed to using the Clinic for after-hour care.

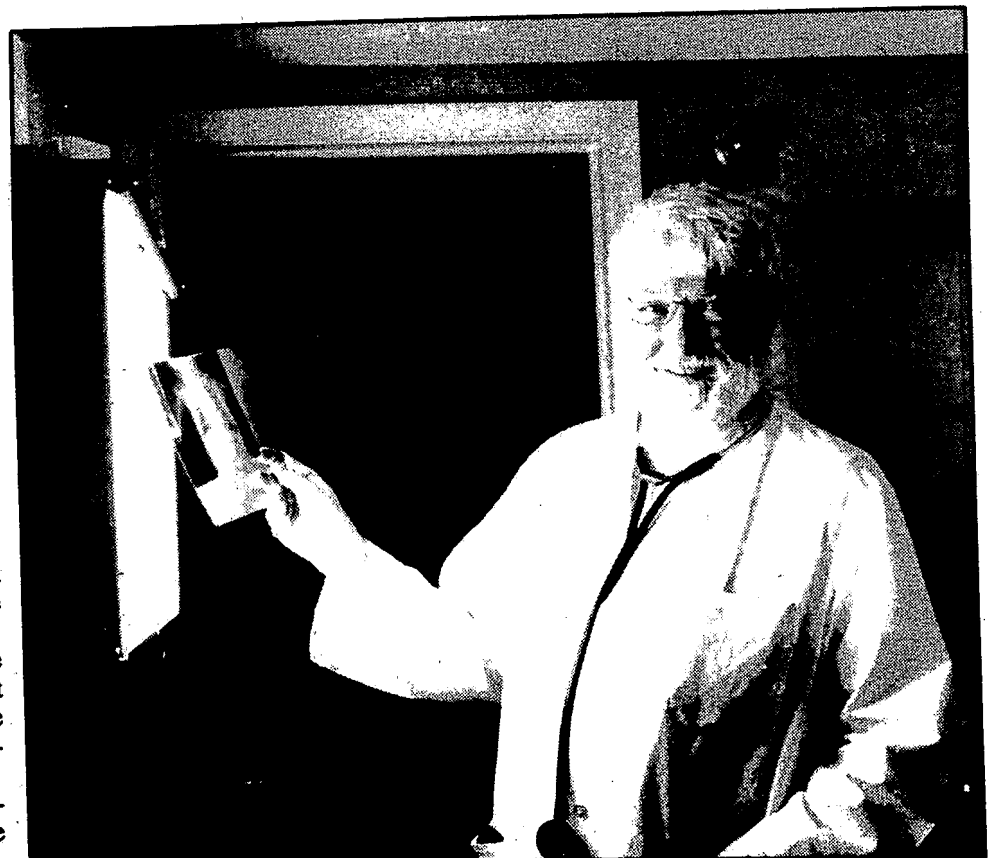

Plus, it's close to I-75 and Dixie Highway and is accessible to many areas of north Oakland County. It's also central to the Clarkston medical community, from which CACC is staffed. Some of the doctors in the Clarkston area take turns working at CACC before or after their regular office hours.

In a typical 24-hour period on the weekend, about 150 patients are treated at CACC. "We are seeing more and more serious illness and trauma," noted Walters.

"Most of our nursing staff and physicians are now Advanced Cardiac Life Support certified," she said. "It is challenging and satisfying to be able to give the type of emergency care that can save a life."

CACC has a few advantages over other health services in the Oakland County area. For instance, no appointment is necessary. Just walk in at any time. (During regular business hours at the Clarkston Village Clinic, however, patients are asked to call 625-4222 to make an appointment.)

Plus, the staff is prepared to handle most minor emergencies, ordinary illnesses or injuries — without the long wait associated with emergency rooms. And the cost is reasonable.

CACC serves the community in other ways, as well. For instance, CACC offers free blood pressure screening, and its staff is available to speak to groups and agencies on a variety of health issues.

In addition, CACC provides ongoing wellness classes in cooperation with Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital. In 19 different class offerings last year, 418 students were enrolled in such classes as Diet Workshop, Freedom From Smoking, Stress Management, Body Recall exercise program for senior citizens and a variety of CPR classes.

Indeed, the Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center lives up to its motto: "The Care Center."

More than just a furniture showroom: A design studio

Michael Foran Interiors, located where Center Road meets Saginaw Street in Old World Village in Grand Blanc, is not only a furniture showroom, but also a professional interior design studio.

The store just opened in October and is only 20 minutes from Clarkston.

Michael Foran is a professional member of the American Society of Interior Designer (ASID). Professional membership in ASID recognizes Foran as having passed rigorous national testing and having many years of experience and training in interior design.

"We describe ourselves as a design studio with a 4,000-square-foot furniture showroom," said Foran. "We have an unusually large selection of sofas and unique items for every room in the house. We blend a mixture of styles, furnishing one room with as many as 14 manufacturers. Our flexibility within a room makes it more inviting."

and taste seldom found in exclusive studios.

Michael Foran Interiors sells high quality, well-made and beautiful furniture of all styles. Some of the companies shown are Henredon, Hickory Chair, Swaim Contemporary, LaBarge, as well as numerous others.

Customers can see and feel the comfort and quality of the furniture. The leather sofas and chairs are so comfortable that people enjoy trying them out.

Michael Foran Interiors is able to give large discounts because of the low overhead at the new location. They are in a mall called Old World Village, which is conveniently located close to Clarkston — it's north on Dixie Highway, which turns into Saginaw Street in Grand Blanc.

Michael Foran Interiors has a complete design service with experienced professional designers who have decorated many model homes. They will help customers by drawing detailed floor plans, help with furniture, flooring, drapery, wallcovering and accessory selection and placement, as well as make overall color and interior recommendations and remodeling suggestions.

Michael Foran and Bettye Matherley, the designers, will also give customers long-range planning direction for furniture selections, flooring, wallcovering and window treatments.

The store displays include sophisticated country with French influence, new warm contemporary lines, traditional 18th century dining rooms, leather recliners, sofas and chairs and accessories from around the world.

Michael Foran Interiors offers a special elegance with accessories: hand-painted decorator screens, fossil stone lamps, floor model bird cages, fine Egyptian cotton bed sheets handmade in Italy, and crackle-paint finished tables.

Some of his best sellers include custom entertainment centers, of which there are seven, all unique in style.

Michael Foran Interiors has personalized service after your purchase as well as deluxe delivery and setup at your home. They also offer a new feature for customers called "Accessories to Go." It involves placing wall art, permanent botanicals, accessories and lamps in the consumer's home with little expense from the consumer.

Everything at Michael Foran Interiors is personalized. Customers are invited to come in and browse and enjoy some coffee and strudel.

HOW TO BRING a room together is demonstrated in one of many showrooms at Michael Foran Interiors. Foran Interiors — just 20 minutes north of Clarkston — not only houses a furniture showroom, but it also is a professional interior design studio.

Coach Stop:

Specialty stores with old-fashioned personal service, plentiful parking, special orders

Open since 1975, The Coach Stop in Grand Blanc makes for fun shopping.

Just minutes north on Dixie Highway (which turns into Saginaw Street in Grand Blanc), the plaza is designed so customers can park at the door of the specialty shop they wish to visit.

And the store owners pride themselves on the individual service they can give, unlike mall stores, according to Kristina Higgins, owner of the plaza.

For instance, they keep their stores clean and neat, provide special orders, will wrap gifts at no extra charge — and they're cheerful.

Of course, Higgins may be a little biased. Her own business — The Chestnut Tree children, juniors and maternity clothing store — brings much satisfaction to her.

"I love the children's business," she says. "Children are very easy because they either like it or they don't. ... It's a pleasure to see children happy when they like what they're wearing."

For girls, she offers clothing for infants to size 13 junior women. For boys, she offers infant size to size 20 (just before men's clothing).

She also has a specialized maternity department, in addition to toys and baby bedding. She has found that girls and some women shop at her store for name brand clothing in children's sizes that will fit them but is less expensive than adult clothing.

And, says Kristina, "I have always bought cotton. People have appreciated that for babies. The fabric breathes."

THE COACH Stop shopping center is just minutes north on Dixie Highway, which turns into Saginaw Street in Grand Blanc. The plaza gets its name from the former use of the site, which was a stopping point for stage coaches between Saginaw and Detroit.

For information, call 1-313-695-1450.

Once the boys grow into men's sizes, they can simply turn to Brundle's clothing for gentlemen in the same complex.

Owners Judy and Bob Brundle offer everything from socks and underwear, belts and suspenders to suits and coats.

For several years, Judy worked at the men's store previously at her store's location before opening her own business, so she's had plenty of experience.

Her store is filled with traditional styles, but she has noticed a few trends that are in style.

"Ties are wild," she says. "Even in a traditional stores like this, wild ties are popular."

In addition, colors are a little more daring than normal, with colors of mustard and purple (but not together, she quickly adds) and geometric designs becoming more and more popular. For information, call 1-313-694-4111.

Also popular are unique gift baskets, which can be found at Basket Plus. Co-owners and mother-daughter team Claudia Karas and Bonnie Mengel have been in business five years and recently moved into larger space at The Coach Stop.

Their goods include gourmet food items, toiletries, stationary, cards, accessories for the home, brass, candles, cards, pottery and unusual one-of-a-kind gifts, such as jewelry or T-shirts.

"Each gift is wrapped and ready to give when the customer leaves the store," says Claudia.

One plus: the store offers bridal registry; gift consultation for business, personal and corporate accounts; delivery; gift certificates; and phone orders. For information, call 1-313-695-3359.

The newest business in The Coach Stop is BBC Floor Coverings & Custom Interiors. Owner Suzanne K. Blake has had a store in Marine City for 25 years. She and Ethel Barrett opened the new store together, with help from manager Nancy Johnson.

They like their second location because the Coach Stop shopping center has such a rich tradition of personal service and pride in business, says Suzanne.

BBC offers all floor covering, such as carpets, wood, vinyl, ceramic. They also provide wall coverings, window treatments, decor accessories and silk flowers.

They have two licensed designers on staff. And they fully guarantee their labor and carry all American-made products. Plus, they offer upholstery service with free pickup and delivery. For information, call 1-313-695-8100.

Creativity abounds at busy Carla Edens Salon

Being the most sophisticated, unique and now one of the largest full-service salons in the area, Carla Edens Salon of Waterford is always busy.

Most of the clients are professionals or those who want only the best and receive it because the staff is always involved in constant education and extensive training in color, cutting and styling, whether it entails traveling throughout the country or hosting international consultants to set the standards for today's hair fashions.

Recently the salon had the privilege of hosting internationally known Kenny Gibson, formerly from London, now working in Dallas, Texas, for an exclusive class on hair cutting and styling. The salon will also be hosting Justin Amador for a hands-on cutting class. He is an internationally known stylist who works closely with Toni and Guys artistic director.

Problems big and small are solved at Brinker's

For the past six decades, the staff at Brinker's Plumbing and Heating have prided themselves in serving the needs of Oakland County.

The store is on Hatchery Road, Waterford Township. Prior to 1988, the business spent 45 years at a site on Dixie Highway, Waterford Township. Company President Burt Fangel said he chose the "Drayton Plains" location because it was easy to find.

Fangel has been with the company since the mid-1950s. He was hired by founder George H. Brinker, shortly after marrying his high school sweetheart, Phyllis in 1954. Up until that time, he was a member of the U.S. Air Force.

Over the years, Fangel has been joined by his wife and two children in the business. Phyllis acts as office manager, and son Kevin is employed as a master plumber and service manager. Daughter Kristi Beno operates as the retail store manager.

Burt Fangel is happy to see his family involved in the store, with retirement around the corner.

"I'm very happy that my children have taken an interest in the business," he said, smiling. "This way, in a ing a wide array of national brand merchandise.

Besides basic odds and ends, the store features operating whirlpools manufactured by the Oasis and Pearl whirlpool companies. A series of Roman tub faucets and over 30 models of humidifier pads were added to the shelves last year.

This year, Fangel said his store has increased stock in decorator-style kitchen faucets and related accessories. These units come in a variety of colors and styles.

Besides faucets, Brinker's will also offer more humidifier and forced-air furnace accessories.

To Fangel, customer satisfaction remains the most challenging part of his business.

"Our biggest challenge is to keep everyone happy and solve all the small problems that people are having with their specialty items," he said.

These specialty items include anything out of the ordinary, or no longer in stock, such as 30-year-old faucets.

Despite the challenges of business, Fangel still relishes his work.

"My job can be challenging," he said, "but it's enjoyable in the sense that you're helping people who don't necessarily like plumbing."

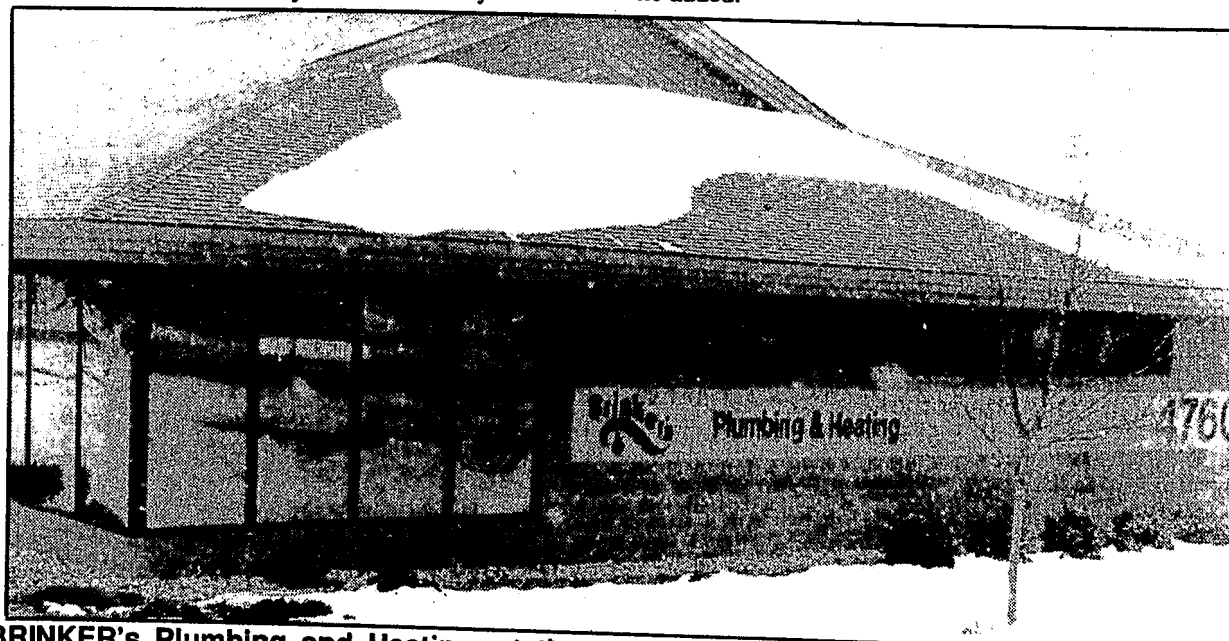

"It takes many 12- to 14-hour days to keep things running smoothly, but I wouldn't do it if I didn't like it," he added.

Cutting hair is growing business for A Hair Co.

Only 1 1/2 years ago, A Hair Company and Nails opened with just four stylists. But business has been good, and the staff has now expanded to 12.

"Between the growth in this area and our location, we have been able to expand our staff," said Jeannette "Jeannie" Rudd, owner of A Hair Co. "We feel our business is unique because we are a team of hairstylists and nail techs who are very skilled and experienced — we work well together."

A Hair Co. offers hair care for everyone.

"We specialize in perms, spiral perm, cream and gel colors, along with shades EQ for color blending, glitizing, hi-lites, low-lites, foiling, dimensional coloring, hair cutting and styling, facials and body waxing," she said.

The salon's location in Waterfall plaza has been ideal, she said.

"We are located in a high-traffic area, which is easily seen and has lots of parking with easy access," said Jeannie. "Our plaza is very attractive and well maintained. We have many stores to choose from in the plaza and lots of friendly people."

Lots of friendly people can be found among Jeannie's co-workers, too.

"They make me laugh, and we have fun," she said. "I also enjoy talking and visiting with all the customers."

She enjoys her actual work, as well, and said she's been working with hair since her teens.

"It goes back to high school," she said. "I was always cutting hair in the bathrooms and cutting hair in my bedroom."

Finding and keeping good hair stylists and nail technicians is a challenge.

Members of her staff are: hairstylists — Ruth Kerwin, Julie Farrell, Renee Pepera, Tara Harris, Diann Donnelly, LuAnn Love, Patti Boyd, Dianne Highland,

And Jeannie is constantly on the alert for more ways to enhance the personnel.

"We are always looking for hairstylists and nail techs to join our staff," she said. "We also are looking for makeup artists and electrologists. We are always working to provide our customers with the best service available."

THE INFORMATIVE PAPERS - WITH SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE

Our Weekly Newspapers -

Our community newspapers bring 'people stories' to all the citizens they serve, from the very young to the very mature. Whether it's Valentine's day at an elementary school or bingo for the seniors, a church dedication or high school graduation, a charity or political speech our newspapers can be expected to be there. Too, readers will find special sections on medical, marriage, remodeling, and much more throughout the year as well as features on people, places and things. They have something for everyone in news and pictures.

Our New Sportscard Newspaper -

This week Sherman Publications acquired the Michigan Sportscard Free Press, a newspaper devoted to sports card fans. It will concentrate on Michigan athletes and be circulated primarily in southeast Michigan. Look for it your favorite sports card store and many other places.

Our Weekly Shoppers -

Chock full of advertising of local and near-by businesses. Unclassified want ads cause folks to read every page. Our shoppers are where people are buying, selling, offering goods and services to a very large audience. Again, every ad offering something for every age group.

Our Senior Magazine -

The mature American is a well read publication for those 55 and over. Covering Oakland County and filled with area Information and Services. Most stories, poetry and health information are written by local people including Doctors, Hospitals and Senior Care Centers plus financial news and advertising that offers services and products for the Mature American.

Oxford Bank

Investing in our communities . . . Our long-term investment has many happy returns

A smart investment is one you can watch as it grows. That's why the Oxford Bank has made its long-term investment in the communities of North Oakland County: An investment of time; an investment of faith; and an investment of financial and community support. With 107 years of continuous service, we're Oakland County's oldest bank.

We invest our time as part of a continuing commitment to this area, its residents and businesses. Through events like Oxford's Pioneer Days, Concerts in the Park and annual Christmas tree lighting and Romeo and Clarkston Business Expos, we've been able to join our neighbors in fun and celebration.

We invest our experience in civic, professional and cultural organizations in each community we serve--furnishing speakers for civic and social groups, sharing our expertise with small businesses, sponsoring baseball teams for area youth, supporting hospice groups for senior citizens and taking part in scores of other community events and activities.

Our staff members have invested their faith in these communities too--getting involved in a big way. Oxford Bank houses the presidents of the local Lions, Optimist and Rotary Clubs and has representatives on the Chambers of Commerce of Romeo, Orion, Oxford, Clarkston and Brandon, working to improve the local business climate.

Bank officers and board members sit on local school boards and planning commissions as well as the Oakland County Development Association (OCDA), helping to insure this area's continued growth.

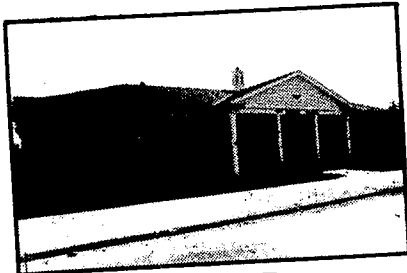

By providing economic resources for both commercial and residential development, we're investing in the future. We offer financial services designed to meet the investment and borrowing needs of our neighbors and our neighborhoods, lending support and experience to programs for people in each of our communities.

And we see a positive return on these investments.

Because the true rewards of our investments can be measured in the quality of life in North Oakland County. They can be counted in the smiles on faces of customers we see every day.

They come from knowing we're neighbors--that the Oxford Bank is still a place where you can walk in and be recognized by a teller or manager or pick up a phone and hear a friendly voice that can help you solve a problem . . . because serving you is the best investment we've ever made.

Mr. G's Hair Care Center at top

Years of experience and personal attention helps to set Mr. G's Hair Care Center apart from the rest.

"Most of our girls have been here 8 to 10 years," said Carolyn Sexton, Mr. G's manager. "Everyone works very well together to add that personal touch. Our salon was the first in the area to provide individual private styling rooms."

Mr. G's takes appointments, but walk-ins are always welcome. It is a full-service salon, specializing in precision cuts, spiral perms and corrective color. It also offers waxing, braiding, tanning, hi-lighting, skin care, makeup and hair replacement.

Plus, a nail technician can provide an extra touch for an overall look.

"We have an excellent nail tech. that specializes in gel overlay, which is a lot better for your nails rather than acrylic," said Sexton. "She also does nail art and pedicures."

Eight years ago, Mr. G's moved to its present location across from Independence Commons, where it had been located for some 12 years.

"When you have established a good business, you don't want to move too far from your original location," she said. "So we had our building built right across the street. This coming year we will be re-decorating — watch for a brand new look."

According to Sexton, Mr. G's is in a good location.

"Being right on Dixie Highway makes us easy to locate," she said. "Now, with the new lights along Dixie, it makes it a lot easier to find us at night."

Evening hours make hair care convenient for customers, as does the expertise of the staff at Mr. G's. The stylists have kept up to date with the latest techniques and trends, thanks to shows in Michigan, Chicago and Las Vegas.

The stylists also have learned how to deal with problems, such as those caused by hard water in the area. For instance, Mr. G's offers a rust-removal treatment.

"For people who have hard water, even a water softener won't take care of the orange rust buildup the water leaves on your hair," Sexton said. "With just one treatment, the results are remarkable."

That's just another way to please customers, which can be a challenge, said Sexton, adding that it customer satisfaction is the number one priority.

"That's what always comes first at our salon," she said. "If you make the client feel comfortable, spend time with them, and give them what they want — they'll be back."

Wheelock Memorial Hospital:

New technology, same friendly service, competent care

Most people know that Wheelock Memorial Hospital in Goodrich provides 24-hour emergency care without the long wait associated with most emergency room visits.

In fact, emergency room volume was up by 7 percent last year, with 8,400 patients treated.

But many don't know about some of the hospital's specialized services.

For instance, the 28-year-old facility recently added state-of-the-art laparoscopic equipment. That means some hospital procedures are a little easier on the patient.

"It's just an exciting technology because it's quick, and it reduces hospital stay significantly," said Joe Kyle, chief executive officer.

For example, a patient who qualifies for laparoscopic gall bladder surgery is subject to four tiny incisions in the abdomen — from which it's much easier to recover than from the about 4-inch-long incision required in traditional surgery. In fact, such patients often return to work in a week. Traditional methods sometimes require a month's recovery or more.

"It's good for the patient, and it's good for employers," said Kyle. "The range of benefits is much wider than you would first think."

In the past year, Wheelock has added one new operating room and has expanded its plastic surgery and reconstructive surgery capabilities. In fact, a former Clarkston physician now is on staff at Wheelock, said Kyle.

Fanny delaCruz, M.D., who specializes in plastic and reconstructive surgery and in hand surgery, finds her services in high demand in the area, said Kyle.

Other specialized care, provided more than 90 physicians on staff at the hospital, includes family practice, urology, anesthesiology, podiatry, general surgery, pathology, plastic surgery, gynecology, pediatrics, orthope-

WHELOCK Memorial Hospital, known for its friendly, individualized care of patients, also boasts technology usually associated with larger hospitals. Here, Dennis Kendel, registered physical therapist and director of Wheelock's physical therapy, demonstrates new Blodex equipment, with help from physical therapy aide Joe Krause. The machine, which works with or without a computer, can be used in rehabilitation of joints after injury. It also can be used to measure the strength, range of motion and other factors for athletes.

dics, dentistry, ophthalmology, cardiology, psychiatry, neurology, radiology, maxillo-facial, internal medicine, gastroenterology, and ear, nose and throat.

In 1992, hospital officials plan to offer more surgical procedures; expand radiology capabilities, physical therapy and outpatient surgery; and add new staff doctors.

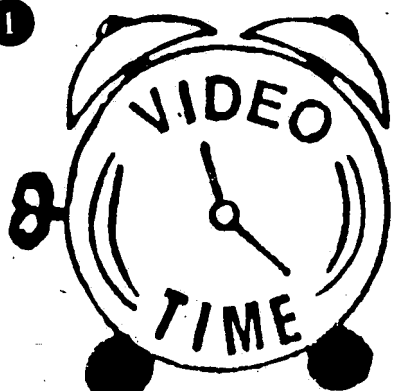

Sound like a major metropolitan hospital?

Sort of. But Wheelock can boast of something big-city hospitals definitely can't — the friendly, caring staff, who make it clear that they like the closely knit camaraderie at the hospital. That attitude carries over to their treatment of patients.

That may be the best reason of all to turn to Wheelock Memorial Hospital for medical needs.

Computer design systems featured at Oxford Lumber

Tom Offer works at the DesignCenter. By the way, Oxford Lumber was the first retail lumber yard to be computerized, over 25 years ago.

Tom Offer knows how to help you visualize exactly what you're looking for.

Just a few years ago, lumber establishments had to help customers design what they wanted based on the information they were told.

This was difficult because people's perceptions differ as to how they want their dream house, kitchen, bathroom, etc. to look.

At Oxford Lumber, that's all changed. Owner Jerry Olrich now has computer-design systems for many different aspects of a house.

"We're making a lot of progress with our computer-design systems," Olrich says. "Last year, we had computerized deck designs, which gives people the chance to sit down at a computer and design their deck. There are models and they can move around lines until they get what they like."

Now, customers can sit down with a knowledgeable salesperson and design their own perfect kitchen, bathroom, garage and even an entire house. "We have package housing in our system," Olrich says. "We have about 100 plans in our system. You sit down at the computer and answer questions."

Some of the questions posed by the computer are basic ones like, "Would you like a two-story or one-story house? How many bedrooms?" Then the computer digests all your ideas and starts showing pictures and floor plans. Then you pick out exactly what you want and the pricing is there automatically. The houses are priced at current rates, so you can be sure it's accurate.

"It's making a lot of changes for us," Olrich says. "We're able to show customers so much more accurately in a short period of time... It's so much easier to help a customer."

The reason why computer-design systems work, according to Olrich, is because they allow the customer to visualize what they are going to get and the price they will have to pay, even for something as basic as the cost of a 2 x 4. Colors can also be mixed to make the print even more realistic.

"It's like standing there looking at it," Olrich says. "The computer knows how every part of the garage and the deck is framed. You can go into the garage and under the deck and look at the detail."

There is no charge to use the computer-design systems. "We try to make it easy for the customer," Olrich says. "We don't charge for that. We enjoy giving the customer the options. The customer ends up building what they want instead of what the salesman wants them to have."

Computer-design systems have been at Oxford Lumber for the last two years and Olrich is constantly looking to update his system. For example, he will be adding computerized fence and closet-storage design sometime this spring.

For fencing, "The customer will tell the computer how much distance needs to be covered," Olrich says. "The computer will give a selection of styles, tell how much it is and how far apart the posts should be. It will also say what type of posts to put in."

As for closet storage, all that is needed for the computer to get going is how much space is available. The computer will give all the designs available to get the maximum use of the space. Open-wire racking, sliding baskets, drawers and a modular closet-storage system will be coming soon.

To make room for all these new systems, Olrich says he will be rearranging Oxford Lumber's floor space. "We will expand our kitchen display department and change our internal layout. I need my clerks in different places."

All the changes being made at Oxford Lumber are being done mainly for one reason: to serve customers better.

"I think the name of the game for independent lumber operations is service," Olrich says, adding that he talks to many other lumber dealers throughout the country to keep up with ever-changing industry. "I think the more we can do for our customers, the more successful we'll be."

Oxford Lumber has two locations—one in Oxford and the other in Ortonville (which will also be remodeled this spring). The Oxford phone number is 628-2541.

Carpet Crafters keeps you covered after the sale

When customers turn to The Carpet Crafters Shoppe, they're relieved to find out how owner Keith M. Dutcher runs the business.

First of all, Keith does all of his own labor — none of it is subcontracted. That means he has utmost control over quality.

In turn, that means the customer doesn't have to worry.

Of course, customers get an idea of that concern over quality the moment they walk in the door. Keith, who grew up on the Clarkston area, provides the personal service that's so welcome in a small town. His employees are equally friendly and helpful.

And they also carry a wide variety of products.

"We are always adding to our sample lines of carpet and vinyl," Keith said. "The newest additions include Traffic Control, Crush Resister and Luxura Stainmaster carpets."

Carpet Crafters offers retail sales of carpet, wallpaper, vinyl, hardwood and blinds. They also provide carpet and vinyl repair services.

That, too, is top-notch work because Keith is in-customers. He genuinely likes people, and he derives pleasure from doing a good job, he said.

It's clear that he takes pride in his work. He takes time with his customers.

"We feel it is important to educate our customers on their flooring purchase," he said.

For instance, he and his staff ask questions to "evaluate what type of floor would best suit the needs of the customer," he said.

"Some stores sell the floor, and the customer has no idea what they are buying — not only in terms of care of the floor, but also what guarantees come with that flooring," noted Keith.

That's not the case at Carpet Crafters.

"It is challenging to not only sell but to educate," he said.

Keith ought to know — he's had plenty of experi-

Affordable, loveable designs by Apple Decor

One of the best things about shopping at Apple Decor is the helpful staff.

Sure, they offer a wide variety of wallpaper, window treatments and bedspreads. But clients also can call on owner Marlene Jacobs' many years of interior design experience to get something unlike anything in the regular "sample" books.

For instance, window treatments can make a big difference in a design, says Marlene.

"I can come out and design something unique for them, using their ideas or my suggestions," she says. "It's a real challenge because sometimes the customers have off-the-wall suggestions for their windows."

She notes that Apple Decor places quality as a top priority.

"Almost all of our drapery work is custom because ready-made drapery is not put together well, considering its cost," says Marlene.

And the custom blinds, shades or draperies can fit anybody's budget.

"We just have to be more creative," says Marlene. "It's just as much fun to with wallpaper borders.

Similarly, Apple Decor can conjure up designs for large-budget jobs, such as restaurants, homes and Parade homes.

Many in the area rely on Apple Decor for its 750-book wallpaper book library.

"It's just as much fun to decorate on a small budget."

Marlene Jacobs

The books offer unbeatable selection, and the staff offers useful advice.

"We help pick out the style, color and texture," says Marlene. "We try to provide a paper that suits a customer's lifestyle. For example, if a customer has three children, we would persuade him or her not to hang string paper in the hallway or not to put foil paper in a steamy bathroom."

Apple Decor offers custom bedspreads; draperies and topper treatments, from rod sleeves to Poor Boy swags; all types of wallpaper; all types of vertical pleated shades, roller shades and mini-blinds.

"Apple's suppliers will stand behind the blinds," says Marlene. "If a customer has a problem with a blind, we try to make sure he or she is not without a blind for over a week."

decorate on a small budget."

She gives a few examples. For one client, her creative staff came up with the idea to drape a window with a sail cloth. In other instances, they've accented a room with colorful billows or graced rooms

That philosophy of service has helped Apple Decor to thrive since it opened in 1984.

Now is the time to build, says Futrell & Futrell

It's easy to talk to Bob Futrell about a building project.

He's just as enthused discussing an addition to an existing home or building as he is a million-dollar home. And he finds commercial and industrial projects as enjoyable as residential.

"We are versatile," he says, adding that he'll tackle any project, whether it be a renovation, an addition, or an entirely new building.

For instance, one of his current projects presents its own set of problems to tackle.

His task: to create a new building on M-15, Independence Township, that will eventually encompass two envision the concrete details of a project when it's still just an idea.

To help customers in that respect, he has added a new computer, complete with a special floor plan program. With that, a customer can see what a new room will look like, for example, with furniture inside and landscaping outside.

In fact, Futrell likes getting in on the project when it's in the design stage. That way, he can suggest ideas that will keep it affordable and make it workable.

"Whether they have a plan or not, we can work from scratch — sometimes that works better," he says.

He has advice for anyone considering a building project: Do it now, he says.

"This is probably the best time in recent history to build," he says, citing low interest rates and flexible subcontractors.

"Now is the time," he says.

businesses — 1) veterinarian Bruce Harlton's North Oaks Animal Clinic (soon to be known as Clarkston Animal Medical Center) and 2) an adjacent dog grooming business called Clarkston Canine Coiffures.

But the tricky part is that Futrell's crews must erect part of the new building behind the existing grooming building without interfering with business. Then, the clinic must move operations to the new portion, while work is done in the space the old building now takes up.

"It's like working in a bottle," says Futrell, and he smiles.

It's clear that Futrell enjoys being owner of the 28-year-old company.

"It's one of the few businesses where you can start with nothing and end up with something," he says. "There's fulfillment in that you're not just working with a little portion."

As owner, he must see the big picture. And he must Phoenix Homes makes "friends, not just customers"

To some builders, the word trust doesn't mean anything. To Phoenix Homes owner Jim Siudara, it's the foundation on which he's built his business over the last six years.

"My customers are happy," Siudara says. "I've got the trust and a great product. My reputation as a builder is solid."

"I've built homes in just about every area of Lapeer, Oakland and Macomb counties. There isn't a city in those counties where you could go three miles and not see a house I built for somebody."

"I've built 35 houses in a 10-mile radius in downtown Ortonville. The same is true for Oxford and Lapeer."

No, Siudara isn't your typical contractor who builds your house whenever the weather and materials allow it.

Siudara specializes in modular housing, or industrialized housing, if you like. It combines the proven building methods of yesteryear with the modern technologies of today.

Your house is stick built in a controlled environment from scratch at a fair-market rate. "That means I have 200 carpenters that build your home in a plant where it literally shines every day," Siudara says. "We don't have to put up with weather delays; we don't have to put up with thieves; we don't have cost overruns."

"Ten years from now I venture to say the vast majority of homes—90 percent—will be made in a plant. And when you think about it, the concept is perfect. We can custom build your house." Currently, over 30 percent of all housing permits in Oakland County were for this type of housing.

As of today, Siudara offers over 50 different models and he averages building 25 houses a year. "If I don't have a model of the exact house you're looking for, chances are I may have built that home for somebody else," he says. "If you like, we can give them a call. I think they'd be happy and proud to show you the quality and workmanship of the house they're living in."

Siudara says he can call people he's built and designed houses for because they aren't just his clients, they're his friends. "I make friends because I give them the personal touch," he says. "To do it correctly, you have to give someone 100 percent effort and attention. You are directing them in a large investment. The amount of referrals I get is a testimonial to this. Because I handle every aspect, I make no mistakes. I make people happy."

If you would like to see exactly how your house is being constructed, take a drive down to the plant in Indiana. Siudara himself has taken that drive often and returns each time even more stunned at the quality and professionalism.

"It's amazing how efficient a system runs when your workers never run out of materials or have the weather to contend with," he says.

Siudara is an easy guy to work with. He will help you right from scratch and walk you through every phase. He looks at your family, your property and then helps build a house that perfectly suits your needs. He handles the banking and all construction needs.

"I just don't sell you a product and say 'good luck and goodbye,'" he says. "I really take pride in what I do; that's why I give each house my all."

He says he is also willing to work with customers who may have a tradesman in the family or want to do some of the work themselves. "If you can save some money, I'm all for you, and I'm willing to supervise to make sure there are no mistakes," he says. "About a third of my customers have the ability to do something on their own. I'm all for that. It's a very large investment."

Siudara constructs houses with the same name-brand products as other conventional builders, whether it's carpeting, cabinetry, roofing, shingles or vinyl flooring. Here again, the customer makes the choices. The factory furnishes what you've selected. The house comes complete, from paint to carpeting.

"I deal only in Heckaman Homes because they are the Cadillac of the industry," he says, adding that he researched all the companies heavily before going with Heckaman. "If a company comes up with a better product than Heckaman, I'd definitely take a look at them."

So far, no one has even come close to touching the superior quality of Heckaman, according to Siudara. He helped expand the modular-home concept over seven years ago when he won the builder's show at Cobo Hall two years in a row.

After all your customizing has been finalized, and your home is designed, and has arrived at the designated site, you usually can move into the home in approximately 30 days, after the site work has been completed. It's a delightful experience to see your dream home happen right before your eyes.

Siudara, who has lived in the Oxford/Metamora area for the last 18 years, has experience in rehabbing and conventional stick-built construction. He points out that "industrialized housing" is all he does. It's not a sideline. It's how he makes his living. "When I say the house is going to be here, we can sit back and watch it arrive," he says.

Phoenix Homes is located in downtown Oxford (above the Village Gift Shoppe) in the Acheson Building. Phone Siudara at 628-4700 to set up an appointment.

KATHY KOEPKE, chief ultrasound technician, poses for a photo next to the new Acuson 128XP, a state-of-the-art ultrasound machine. The machine can be a lifesaver because it can help detect life-threatening problems in blood vessels.

With rapid growth in the Clarkston area during the early 1980s, radiologist Lawrence Wayburn, M.D., thought the area ideal for his office.

Wayburn opened North Oakland Radiology on M-15 in 1982. Four years ago, he expanded his practice to the upper level of the building to include a separate suite for mammography equipment. That phase of the practice is called the Breast Center of North Oakland Radiology.

In April 1990, he opened two more offices under the North Oakland Radiology Group in Pontiac and Birmingham.

Wayburn enjoys his work in radiology.

"Being in radiology gives me hands-on (experience) in all fields of medicine," Wayburn says.

Wayburn recently purchased a new ultrasound system, the Acuson 128XP Computed Sonography System. The 128XP, a state-of-the-art ultrasound machine, uses high frequency sound waves to produce real-time images of organs, fetuses, arteries and veins.

An ultrasound examination is painless and requires little or no preparation on the patient's part.

An important ultrasound application is the study of the vascular system, including the vessels of the brain, low leg venous system and abdominal and pelvic areas. The new Acuson 128XP is able to detect and present data regarding the flow of blood through the veins.

Because physicians are able to actually listen for any abnormalities in blood flow and visualize them through the use of color Doppler imaging, a modality used to detect abnormal blood flow in organs and to identify normal anatomy, they can arrive at an accurate diagnosis faster.

If a doctor is trying to determine if there are abnormalities in the blood vessels leading to a patient's brain, ultrasound has the potential to be a lifesaver. According to Wayburn, an ultrasound exam of the carotid arteries can be used for patients who are at high risk of having a stroke. If a problem is found, immediate treatment can help prevent a stroke.

In stroke patients, the 128XP can determine the amount of narrowing and plaque in the carotid arteries. This provides a doctor with a much more precise picture of a stroke patient's condition. Another area where vascular ultrasound is useful is in the study of deep veins in the legs, where deadly blood clots can develop.

Other services offered at North Oakland Radiology include X-rays, mammography, GI's, total body CAT scanning and nuclear medicine.

Family pride shines at Gott's Auto Service

Since 1963, family pride has been reflected in the way the staff at Gott's Auto Service provides service to customers.

"After graduating from high school, I was offered a job at a local auto repair shop in Detroit," said owner

Robert Gott. "Four years later the owner retired, and the business was offered to me. And I accepted it in March of '63."

About 12 years ago Gott moved his business from Detroit to its present location on Maybee Road, Independence Township.

"I was looking to relocate from Detroit and this site was available," Gott said. "I was already living in the area and because I liked it so much, I wanted to bring my business here as well."

Plus, it's easy to find, since it's near the intersection of Maybee and Sashabaw roads.

"By being on a main road, we have easy access for our customers, which I find they are happy with," he said.

brakes, tires and transmission work as well as front end work.

According to Gott, problem solving is both challenging and rewarding.

"It's always satisfying to be able to diagnose some of the more unusual or difficult problems that present themselves," he said.

Gott said enjoys the people aspect of the business.

"I enjoy the personal contact I have with all my customers," he said. "It gives me the opportunity to inform and educate them on the care and maintenance of their autos."

Customer service and satisfaction are paramount at Gott's Auto Service, so they've learned to provide a few extras to help people out. For instance, they offer a shuttle service.

"What we do is provide transportation for our customers who need a ride home or to work in the local area after leaving their car for service," said Gott.

While business is brisk, Gott said the tempo is ideal.

"We are large enough to handle all their auto repair needs yet small enough to give personal attention to all our customers," Gott said. "Since we are family owned and operated, there is a lot of family pride in all we do."

Walk-in care 24 hours a day at mini-medical mall

What do you do if it's midnight, and you're feeling sick but not sick enough to go to an emergency room?

You'd likely go to the Waterford Ambulatory Care Center (WACC) at 1305 N. Oakland Boulevard, Waterford, where there is little or no waiting.

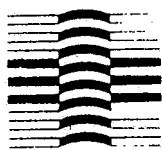

Open 24 hours, the center is centrally located in

JUST 12 minutes from downtown Clarkston, the Waterford Ambulatory Care Center at 1305 N. Oakland Blvd. is a virtual "mini-medical mall," with services ranging from walk-in urgent care to physical therapy to out-patient surgery.

Center, which also operates a 380-bed hospital in Pontiac and three other out-patient centers.

At the WACC location, a physician is on duty 24 hours, every day.

"Although we are not an emergency room, we do care for most injuries that occur in the home or workplace, as well as illnesses for which medical care is needed," said Sandra K. Parrott, manager of the Waterford Ambulatory Care Division.

In addition to urgent medical care, the center offers so many other services under one roof that it is commonly called a "mini-medical mall."

For instance, when ordered by a doctor, WACC can provide such laboratory services as tests for cholesterol and blood sugar and other services such as X-rays and mammograms, mental health counseling, physical therapy, occupational health care, out-patient surgery, pain management, and health education and screening.

Plus, it offers regular family health care by appointment Monday through Friday — just call 666-2120.

Even those in wheelchairs will find easy access to WACC. And if you require hospitalization, you're free to choose any area hospital.

Area residents may also take advantage of a variety of WACC's monthly community lectures and information series. Some topics include water safety, CPR, first aid for all ages and babysitting safety.

Free mortgage pre-approval offered by MICA

How much can you afford?

Tom Untener of MICA Mortgage Corp. in downtown Clarkston can help home buyers answer those questions, for free.

"We offer free mortgage pre-approval for clients who are shopping for a house," said Untener, whose company also has a location at 43003 Dequindre in Troy. "We also offer free counseling to help clients determine the price range of a house they should be looking for."

Untener explained the advantages of getting a mortgage through MICA instead of a bank. He said one reason is "service." The company centers on mortgages so the staff does not concern itself with car loans, boat loans or checking accounts.

"We focus on your mortgage, and that helps to get you in your new house faster," said Untener.

He said by working with as many as 21 different lending institutions in the tri-county area, these mortgage specialists offer a greater variety of programs at more

MICA Mortgage not only services people who wish to start a new mortgage but also helps current home owners refinance their homes. Untener said much of his business lately has dealt with refinancing because of the low interest rates.

Untener especially enjoys the personal contact with

Town full of spirit, pride, says Dunlap, Realtors/ERA

Concentrating on client-customer satisfaction has built the reputation for caring, efficient services at Dunlap, Realtors/ERA.

"What makes us unique is we are affiliated with Electronic Realty Associates, Inc. (ERA)," said Carol O'Neil, Dunlap's manager. "So we benefit from its resources and support system. We are one of the most established real estate companies in the community and have a proven track record."

During the last 12 months, Dunlap has added six new agents and now has a separate company, which is called Dunlap Relocation, Inc., with an additional staff of "Economic crunches, such as the one we are experiencing now, allows the cream to rise to the top. ... Those agents who are established and know their business will tough it out."

14 agents. These people specialize in company relocation of clients.

According to O'Neil, the most challenging part of real estate business is market trends.

"Economic crunches, such as the one we are experiencing now, allows the cream to rise to the top. ... Those agents who are established and know their business will tough it out," said Ron Dunlap, owner/broker. "We are happy to say Dunlap, Realtors/ERA is 30 agents strong, including the new addition, which bring enthusiasm and fresh ideas."

The Clarkston area — because it's so closely knit — is ideal for the Dunlap, Realtors/ERA style of business.

"It's full of spirit and pride," Dunlap said. "Being located in downtown makes you feel you are at the hub of the action."

As such, ERA has become involved in community activities. For instance, since 1977, ERA has raised well over $10 million for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

In addition, they have been instrumental in raising money to help Holli Schilling, an agent who was diagnosed with terminal breast cancer early last year.

"We are very proud of our staff and its efforts to raise funds for her bone marrow transplant, which is her only hope for survival," said Dunlap. "To date, we have raised over $110,000 with help and the generosity of friends and the families of our staff. Dunlap, Realtors/ERA would like to thank each and every one who has given of their time, finances and energy to Holli's cause."

In fact, ongoing fund-raisers continue to build Holli's medical expense fund. For instance, a March 22 Bowl-A-Thon is likely to be as successful as the previous Bowl-A-Thon, which raised more than $67,000 for Holli.

"It was the most successful Bowl-A-Thon yet, according to the owners of the 300 Bowl where it was held," said O'Neil.

Anyone interested in forming a team and raising support for Holli's expenses should call the Dunlap, Realtors/ERA office.

That attitude is evident even to customers of Dunlap, Realtors/ERA.

Experience, efficiency at Nichols Heating & Cooling

For the past 16 years, north Oakland County area residents have come to depend on Therm Nichols and his Nichols Heating and Cooling business.

The Independence Township resident gained experience in the gas and electricity industry while working at Consumers Powers. He even taught five years at the Oakland Technical Center-Northwest Campus and conducted his business part time.

His reputation grew, and for nine years, he has operated his business full time from his Dixie Highway, Independence Township, location.

He offers service, sales and installation of heating and cooling products for residential and commercial consumers. That includes furnaces, air conditioners, air cleaners, humidifiers — you name it.

He even provides emergency service 24 hours a day. And he conducts business in a professional manner, with quality and safety as the top concerns.

Nichols is quick to give credit to his staff: Paul Bemman Jr., Tim Blumenschein, Scott Harrison, Brent Gibson, Rick Springer, Randy Young, Ed Tokarski, Paul Tweedie, Mike White, Tom Hoffman, Shirley Anderson

(his sister), Connie Irish and Judy Nichols (his wife).

He says his mechanics are "neat, courteous, competent, caring employees." In fact, he receives compliments on his clean-cut staff.

"Most of the time, people feel comfortable with my guys," he says.

They also feel comfortable with Therm's expertise in the field. He keeps up with the constantly changing technology and industry regulations.

For instance, as of July 1, manufacturers can't make furnaces under 78 percent efficiency, according to new U.S. energy laws. A similar law becomes effective July 1 for air conditioners.

That follows a trend toward higher efficiency sought by customers, says Therm.

Another law that goes into effect July 1 will help protect the ozone — the layer of the atmosphere that protects Earth from the sun's harmful radiation.

That law requires that refrigerants — from air conditioners, for example, be recaptured instead of released into the atmosphere. That brings a slew of challenges with new equipment and technology. It also presents problems to those who must install the equipment, much of it heavy and dangerous to work with on rooftops.

"It's going to change the way we do business," Therm predicts.

But if the past year is any indication, Therm will succeed. In a competitive business with a slow economy, Therm's sales keep going up. "We continue to get calls from the community," he says.

But that's no surprise. Nichols is small enough to offer personal service but large enough to serve the needs of the Clarkston and entire north Oakland County area.

"We know our customers, and our customers know us," he says.

THERM NICHOLS is prepared to install the higher efficiency equipment sought by customers and soon to be required by law.

The Independence Township resident has provided heating and cooling service for 16 years in the community.

Fast and courteous service at Roy Brothers

Roy Brothers Standard Service is a family-owned business that has been serving customers for more than 30 years.

Station manager Edmund Grogan enjoys working at the busy location.

"I was brought up in the business. I love the auto repair and serving the people's needs," said Grogan. "I enjoy always doing something different every day."

Grogan said fixing new cars is one of his biggest challenges but said he and his staff are up to the challenge.

the year," said Grogan.

For instance, in the past year, he purchased a new European-style, state-of-the-art tire machine, which makes for damage-free tire changes.

That helps the staff live up to their motto: "We treat people like we like to be treated."

According to Grogan, that means, "we give fast, courteous service."

Roy Brothers Standard Service is open 24 hours a day and features snacks, 24-hour towing and road service. It also sells tires, batteries, water softener salt and purified water.

In addition, the station gives free estimates on repairs, has pick-up and delivery for service customers and has handicap service at the self-serve pumps.

Grogan said the station's location is ideal for drawing both regular and new customers.

"It's a great location. We're at I-75 near Pine Knob at a busy intersection. We get traffic from the Palace, Silverdome and Pine Knob events. We also have a great clientele of customers," said Grogan.

Recent additions to the station are Aldata (a computer center with service bulletins updated every three months) and a new modern tow truck. In the near future, the station hopes to add a car wash.

1992: In with the new at Smith's Disposal

New equipment, new personnel, new recycling services — and a new building — made 1991 a good year for Smith's Disposal. And 1992 looks even better.

"We moved into this building about four months ago," said Ken Smith, the facilities manager. "We wanted to have a central place to work out of, and it gives us a place so we can keep the trucks in shape and on the road."

They've also brought a full-time mechanic on board. "Now that we have a mechanic on staff, it really helps with keeping the vehicles in working condition and on the road," Smith said. "Our customers expect service, and we work to keep up our service standards."

Smith's Disposal's 16 employees provide trash removal to customers in such areas as Springfield, Independence, Brandon and Waterford townships.

In addition, two new recycling vehicles help with curbside recycling for about 6,000 addresses in the area.

"We have a lot of people recycling," Smith said. "But the market is bad, and it's hard to get rid of the stuff. Right now the only advantage is that we are keeping the stuff out of landfills, but recycling is very costly."

Smith said he hopes the recycling industry changes and becomes more cost effective.

"As it is now, we take our stuff to Clarkston Disposal," he said. "Some we sell to them, and others we just give them. A lot of stuff has to be crushed and baled, and we don't have the facilities for that."

Smith said the economy is picking up, and they have added a lot of new homes to their routes.

"So far this year, things are looking good," he said. "We've been adding customers. We have a new facility with a place inside to work, and things are really going very well."

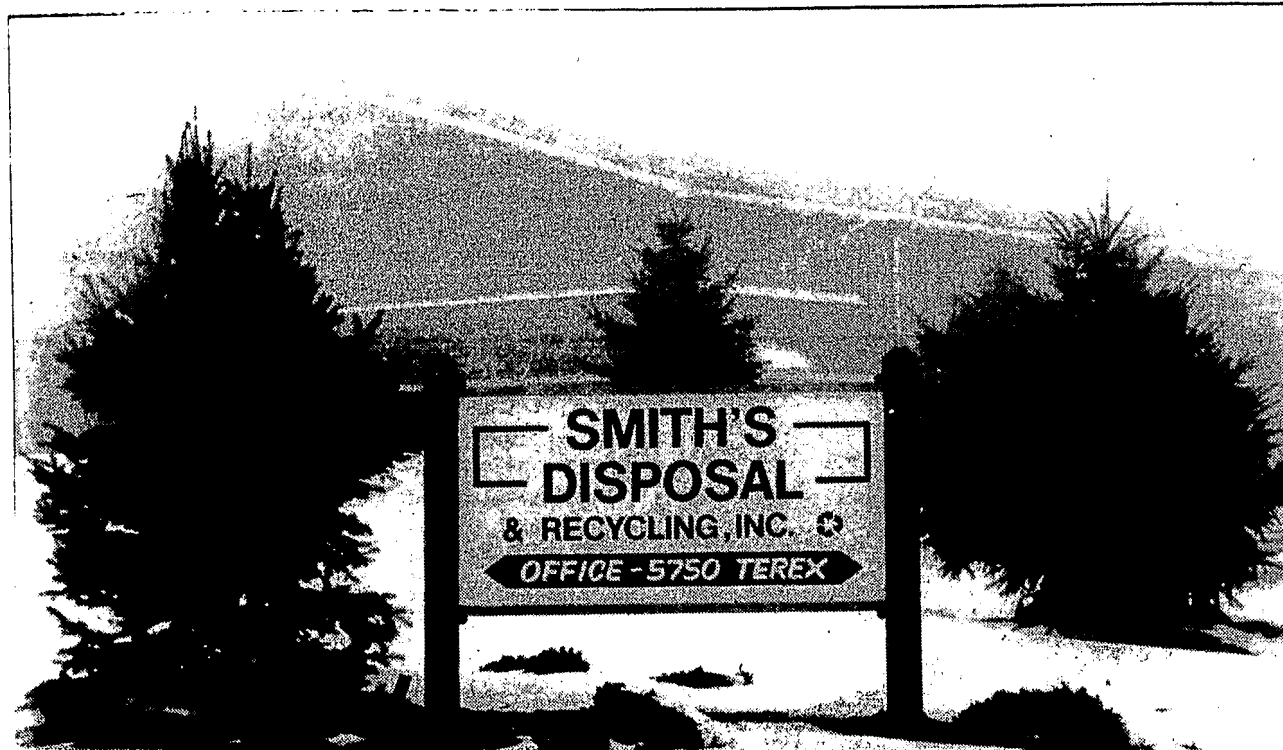

One major concern for Smith's Disposal is the fate of a few smaller disposal companies in the area.

"Some of the townships in the area have been going to the bigger companies for their services," he said. "It is a concern when you see other smaller companies have to go out of business. You hate see them pushed out by the larger companies."

But Smith said his customers are loyal. Of course, they have a reason — Smith's offers excellent service.

"The people we serve are great."

"The people we serve are great," he said. "They want and expect good service and seem to be very happy with the service we provide."

With the new facilities in Springfield Township, Smith's Disposal has integrated the latest in equipment.

"It's the equipment that all the other companies will soon have to switch to," said Smith. "It was a costly project, but we feel it will be worth it in the long run. Providing our customers with the latest and the best facilities is our aim. We just want to provide the best services possible."

Lake Orion Roofing & Remodeling offers the personal touch

Mark Southern, owner of Lake Orion Roofing & Remodeling.

Mark Southern's business, Lake Orion Roofing and Remodeling, continues to offer the personal touch to ensure customer satisfaction.

Southern began his roofing business four years ago, but in the past year he expanded to include remodeling and incorporated it into the business name.

The business, located at 435 Heights Road, employs as many as 40 people during its peak season. Southern says the centralized location of the business in the growing area of Lake Orion presents a good client base. Quality workmanship and customer satisfaction are top priorities for his staff.

Southern says the roofing jobs represent about half of their jobs. The roofing jobs provide seasonal work and are usually completed in a couple of days during warm weather.

Lake Orion Roofing and Remodeling is primarily a family run business with Mark at the helm. His father, Jack, two brothers and a sister round out the corporate structure. Jack is responsible for equipment maintenance inventory control.

Southern's brother, Brian, manages the roofing end of the business. Brian's official title is roofing sales and marketing manager.

Specialized repair crews are available to handle emergency calls.

Another brother, Ned (John), brings his 25 years of experience in construction to the staff. He oversees the remodeling end of the business as production and personnel manager.

Word of mouth referrals attest to the satisfaction with their craftsmanship and keeps them supplied with a steady stream of clients.

"We got one job in Auburn Hills and have been in the same neighborhood ever since," Southern says.

Southern's approach to business includes keeping up with new products and close attention to details.

"The relationship with customers, staying with them to the end to satisfy them sets our business apart from others," Southern says.

"We follow up after each job and do site inspections. Our employees are paid by the hour rather than per job. We never sub-contract any of our work. That makes the people that do the work responsible to my company."

Lake Orion Roofing and Remodeling offers full scale remodeling jobs and additions. A new look for the bath and kitchen are among the customers most frequent contracts. However, the company also specializes in exterior improvements such as decks and dormers.

The workmanship in Southern's new office building is a prime example of the company's craftsmanship. Southern's office displays a finely inlaid wood grain paneling and built-in bookcases.

Modernization of the office includes the addition of five computer terminals. Keeping the business running smoothly is sister, Karen Hall, who works as office manager.

Lake Orion Roofing and Remodeling gives free estimates and offers senior citizen discounts. "We give them a break wherever we can," Southern says.

A 24 hour answer service handles incoming calls after business hours. Lake Orion Roofing and Remodeling is open from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday. They may be reached at 693-0055 (Orion area) 644-1488 (Birmingham area). Their FAX number is 693-0062.

... And the tradition continues

The tradition established by Moon Valley Rustic Furniture over 60 years ago is alive and growing. With the formation of Sun Valley Casual Furniture 18 months ago as its retail outlet, a full line of casual furniture and accessories now fill the 10,000-square-foot showroom.

Sun Valley Casual Furniture affords the consumers a chance to see their favorite outdoor furniture on various cedar decks, brick patios, paving block patios and even an elevated stone and brick patio, complete with waterfall and stream!

The six different elevations in the showroom allow the customer to view the displays and make a selection more easily. This unique showroom is a combined effort on the part of Sun Valley, K & Hill Construction, Lowrie Landscape, Waterfall Construction and A World of Glass.

Six elevations in the showroom allow the customer to view the displays and make a selection more easily.

The year 1992 will see an expanded display of Moon Valley Rustic Furniture, as well as the addition of Lane Venture casual seating and dining; I.M. David oak dining tables, chairs and bar stools; Clark Casual rattan seating, dining and bar stools; Windsor teak furniture; and a full range of fireplace enclosures and accessories.

Having the largest casual furniture showroom in the area allows Sun Valley to add these new lines, as well as to continue to represent and display such fine lines as Winston, Lyon Shaw, Woodard, Tropitone, Lloyd Flanders, Grosfillex, Summer Classics, Pawleys Island and many more.

THE NEWEST addition gas grills by Broilmaster are "simply the best grill on the market," according to store managers.

Gas grills by Broilmaster will complete your packages for outdoor living and entertaining.

Owners Kim Beattie and Don Brown, along with co-managers Bob Beattie and Kay Brown, are extremely pleased with the success Sun Valley has experienced in 1991 and look forward to an even better 1992.
