Founder of Rudy's Market dies at 83

BY JULIE CAMPE Clarkston News Editor

A Clarkston legend died March 31, but his legacy remains.

Rudolph F. Schwarze, 83, who opened Rudy's Market in downtown Clarkston in 1933, died early Tuesday, apparently of a stroke, according to his daughter-in-law, Doreen Sch-

He had been ill for about two years, she said.

He and his family operated his grocery store on Main Street until 1990, and during that time, he built a reputation as a man who loved children, pigeons and dogs.

"He was a very well-liked man," said Doreen, who worked in the family business. "Everybody in the community loved Rudy. He was always there to help someone

"I couldn't ask for a better father-in-law. He was like a father to me," she said.

"He loved children. He always gave them candy," said Doreen.

Rudy also fed the pigeons and saved bones for dogs. In 1976, he was named citizen of the year during the Health-o-rama on April 7 is a good way to receive inexpensive health care, according to Mary Jane Chaustowich, chairwoman of the Clarkston site of Health-o-

Sponsored by the Clarkston Community Women's Club, Health-o-rama takes place 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday at the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection on Clarkston Road, Independence Township -- across from the library.

Tests and services offered include: height, weight, vision, blood pressure, glaucoma, health hazard appraisal, counseling and referral, blood panel - $11; prostate specific blood test — $25; and colorectal cancer-screening kits — $4.

"It's a very low-cost way of finding something before it becomes a problem," said Chaustowich.

Normally, the Clarkston site serves 200-300 people, said Chaustowich, who noted that this year's date is earlier due to Easter vacation. The site is open an hour later than normal, however, to give area residents and employees more time to take advantage of the service.

The only requirement: participants must be 18

After moving to the United States from Germany, Rudy played soccer, according to his wife, Elsa, who added that Rudy loved to travel.

Though the Schwarze family no longer owns Rudy's Market, the new owner of the Main Street business retained the name of the business.

Rudy's name lives on in another way, too. Rudy's son, Frederick, named his daughter "Rudi" in honor of his Rudy is survived by his wife, Elsa of Clarkston; children, Robert and his wife Pam of Arizona and formerly of Clarkston, and Frederick and his wife Doreen of Clarkston; grandchildren, Erika, Rudi and Casey; motherin-law, Katherine Hagele of Clarkston; and sister-in-law Rose and her husband Rex Fenstemaker of Clarkston.

Visiting hours are 3-5 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. Thursday, April 2, at the Lewis E. Wint and Son TRUST 100 Funeral Home, Clarkston.

The funeral is 11 a.m. Friday, April 3, at the Lewis E. Wint and Son TRUST 100 Funeral Home, with the Rev. Douglas R. Trebilcock officiating. Burial is to follow at Lakeview Cemetery, Independence Township. Memorial tributes may be made to the Clarkston Area Youth Assistance.

Cultivating young minds

CELEBRITY reader L. Brooks Patterson reads aloud from a Beverly Cleary book to third-graders in Betty Kozma's Room 11 at Clarkston Elementary School. The former Oakland County Prosecutor started off his visit by telling the youngsters about a Jeopardy game show winner who learned all that he did by reading a lot. The man now intends to seek a U.S. Congressional seat, said Patterson, who detailed the background of the fellow. Noticing the blank looks from his audience, Patterson laughed and said, "Enough politics," and began to read. More photos of the districtwide reading day appear on Pages 2B and 3B. # Board asks public to nix 'schools of choice'

BY CURT MCALLISTER Clarkston News Associate Editor

The Clarkston Board of Education wants to retain its own "schools of choice" program rather than implementing one proposed by the state Legislature.

House Bill 4572, the School State Aid Act, allows parents to vote to send their children to any school in their district. In Clarkston, this would mean that children at the elementary and junior high levels could attend the school of their choice.

This proposal wouldn't pertain to high school students, however, because the school district has only one

This state program also mandates that the school district provide transportation. This particular item is where the Legislature and the school district part com-

On the recommendations of the district's own Schools of Choice Committee, the Clarkston school board will be asking voters to exempt the district from this state program at the June 8 election. The board unanimously voted for exemption status March 23.

The committee and school board point out that the district already has its own "schools of choice" program. It allows kids to attend their desired school, as long as parents provide transportation and the new student's presence doesn't exceed the class size stipulation in the existing teachers' contract.

The committee supports the state's "schools of choice" program to an extent. They like the concept of pushing for inter-district equality among schools but abhor the thought of picking up the bill for transportation.

"We'd fully support the state's program if they guaranteed to fund 100 percent of the transportation costs for the life of the program," said Bill Neff, director of administrative services and member of the 11-person committee. "The school district would have to make substantial cuts to supplement this program's annual transportation costs if it passed here in Clarkston.'

Using the 50 students who are presently involved in the district's own program, the committee built three separate scenarios in computing probable costs.

In Option No. 1, the committee estimated that it would cost $253,630 per year for the door-to-door pickup and delivery of 50 students.

Option No. 2 showed that the district would have to pay about $206,481 for the door-to-door pickup and delivery of students by using shorter routes. These shortcuts would take the buses over gravel roads and through subdivisions.

With Option No. 3, the committee figured that a shuttle busing system would cost the district about $138,171. This option would call for the students to be transferred from one bus to another, which would then take them to their school of choice.

The committee said this last option would make for very long bus rides, the likelihood of being late for class, and no individual building flexibility for release of stu-

Each scenario showed that the district would have to pay at least $78,700 for two additional 19-passenger buses and two drivers.

Neff said the costs for these three options are just estimates. In actuality, he said, they're low because the committee didn't include afternoon kindergarten runs.

Kindergarten pupils do figure into the state's program, but Neff said very few are presently involved in the district's own program. He said parents usually consider a possible school change after their child has completed

Corrections

A front-page story in last week's Clarkston News should have said that Gary Kubani, 24, collapsed and died kindergarten.

A March 25 story about state Geography Bee finalists should have said that Clarkston Junior High School student Colin McIntyre was among those who qualified as a finalist to compete at Ferris State University.

Neff said the committee, which is heavily comprised of parents, hopes the board's decision sends a message to Lansing.

"Regardless, if the Legislature eventually decides to pay the total transportation costs for this program, the committee feels the state could be spending its money on more important things," Neff said. "I think the committee made a wise decision and I hope the voters make as wise a decision when they go to the polls in June."

Crossing guard hired

The Clarkston school district has hired an additional crossing guard to work the cross walk between Clarkston High School and Clarkston Junior High.

William Neff, director of administrative services, said the extra guard was essential because that stretch of Waldon Road had become very dangerous of late. For the past month, he said, cars were "brushing" crossing guards on an average of one per week, Neff said the added crossing guard will adequately stop traffic in both lanes, where many motorists were ignoring the single guard in the past. He said one mishap and several potential accidents have occurred because impatient motorists were driving through once the children had crossed through their lane.

On Jan. 31, a seventh grader was injured in a hit and run accident, while crossing Waldon Road. A car illegally passed around a stopped vehicle and struck the girl. The car fled the scene. Luckily, the youngster only suffered minor injuries.

Neff said these impatient drivers are mostly adults, who've been seen driving over nearby curbs to avoid stopping for the crossing guards.

From now on, Neff said, two crossing guards will be stationed at this cross walk both morning and afternoon, so to cut down on the possibility of future accidents.

Department (OCSD) was named commander of the Springfield Township substation.

Sgt. Doug Hummel, who started in the new position Jan. 1, was named sergeant in 1978 and has worked in alcohol enforcement. From 1983 to 1991, he worked in the OCSD investigation unit.

As commander of the substation in the Colombiere Center, Big Lake Road, Hummel oversees three full-time contract deputies and two contract reinforcement team deputies (CRT), who help when other deputies have days off or are on vacation.

He also is responsible for all follow-up investigations in the township, he said.

About 10,000 people live in the 36-square-mile Springfield Township. Hummel said two or three more CRTs may be added in the future.

The substation helps with police service in the area, he said.

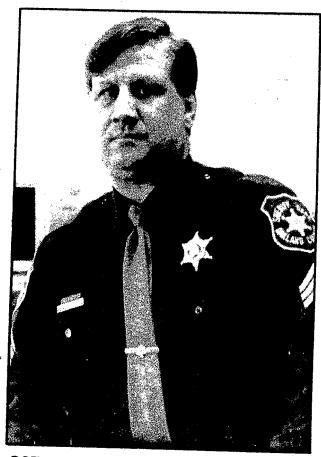

"By covering the area from a substation, response time is much faster than having to send a deputy from Pontiac," said Hummel.

He also said the police coverage, for which the township pays OCSD, is a good buy.

"By contracting through OCSD, the residents and businesses in Springfield Township have the resources of some 800 people in sheriff's department," he said. "For the money, there is no better way they could receive this type of coverage."

So far, according to Hummel, things have been running smoothly.

"Knock on wood, but so far things, as far as crime goes, have been slow," he said. "I believe that having a high visibility in the area leads to a lower crime rate. We want people to know we are in the area."

SGT. Doug Hummel began duties as Springfield substation commander Jan. 1.

BARBARA Gibson (right) directs the faculty play "Par for the Corpse" at Clarkston High School. Marilyn Kettler (center) and another actress work well together as they prepare for opening night. For nearly 40 years, Gibson has directed students (as well as faculty) in musicals, dramas, comedies and children's theater.

Barbara Gibson has been teaching for 39 years.

Why did you choose to teach theater? "I grew up around theater. My mother was a drama teacher."

What was your original intent with theater (i.e. Broadway production, teaching)? "I always wanted to be a teacher."

What was your favorite musical production in Clarkston? "Each one has its own distinct flavor to it. 'West Side Story' and 'Fiddler on the Roof' would have to be the hardest two."

What was the first musical that you directed here? How did it turn out? The first one was 'The Boyfriend.' It turned out very well. Being the first one here, I wanted it to turn out very good."

Advice to students: "Theater is a very tough business. In order to pursue it, you have to be completely dedicated to your craft."

One thing you've learned from your students: "It doesn't matter how talented you are; there will always be a job to do in theater."

One thing that you've thought you've taught them: "To love theater."

- Students rehearse 45 minutes to a 1 1/2 hours a day, according to senior Greg Treder.
- Senior Carrie McKee says her favorite performance is "the opening night of every year."

Rose is queen on this April Fool's Day

ROSE Kaltz turned 90 April 1. "You can see a lot in 90 years," says the 26-year Independence Township resident. She remembers that when her husband worked as a Detroit police officer, cows grazed in fields in and near the city. Rose, who watches Lawrence Welk's TV show each Saturday, appreciates her neighbors. "They are so caring," she says.

ose Kaltz is no fool, but she's had her share of fun on April Fool's Day.

The 90-year-old, who was born the second of 12 children in Detroit on April 1, 1902, is used to receiving "foolish" gifts.

"In my younger years, I was fooled a lot, with things wrapped up beautifully, with things silly inside," she says.

In those days, she attended a lot of parties and danced quite a bit. But a few surgeries have slowed her down over the years.

"I love music and dancing," says Rose, a Princess Lane, Independence Township, resident. "I danced an awful lot."

Now, she uses a walker to get around, which means

"I don't know how to act old."

she can't make it to St. Daniel Catholic Church, Clarkston, as often as she would like. She misses the conversation, she says.

"I love people. I love to be among people," she says. Most who meet her comment on her liveliness.

"Dr. (James) O'Neill always tells me that I have all my marbles and extra ones," says Rose.

She muses about the possibility that she feels so young because she has a pediatrician (O'Neill) for a doctor.

But she decides that it's just in her nature to enjoy all

"I was always the active type. ... I have a lot of spunk and fight in me."

that life offers.

"I'm just made this way," she says. "I was always the active type. ... I have a lot of spunk and fight in me. I always come out on top."

Raised in Royal Oak, she worked at Studebaker during World War I in the gun carrier's department. Next, she worked nine years in the office until she married Clarence Kaltz. Later, after her children, Marion Stevenson of Fenton and Norbert Kaltz of Royal Oak, were grown, she went to work cooking for Detroit schools.

Her husband, who was a Detroit police officer for 25 1/2 years, passed away in 1987. Rose, despite her disabilities, still lives alone, with help from "Meals on Wheels," two evening nurses, friends and her children. She takes pride in her nine grandchildren and four great-grandchildren (with one more on the way).

Rose struggles to pinpoint her secret to longevity.

"I have a lot of faith," she begins.

She smiles, then admits that she tells her daughter that Oil of Olay is the secret to her youthful look.

But the bottom line, she says, is the fact that "I don't know how to act old."

"You've got to like people and be with them," she says. "They always tell me, 'Do you ever stop smiling?' I hope not. Because once you lose that, people think you're a crab."

Fool's day

Julie Campe

It was a Tuesday, and I was looking for my scissors, as usual.

Each Tuesday, The Clarkston News editorial staff lays out the paper in our Oxford printing plant. It is the one day of the week when we meet our peers from the other newspapers in Sherman Publications, Inc., and reporters and editors banter back and forth between tasks.

On this day, my absentmindedness had become annoying. I had already lost and found my scissors once. And now they were missing again. Sometimes, someone "borrows" them the moment I turn my back. But I had already accused the entire paste-up room with no results.

Sigh.

I looked by the light table and behind the laser printers and on the floor beneath the layout tables, even. But my scissors were nowhere to be found.

Snickers from across the room distracted me from my quest.

Curt McAllister, one of The News' best pranksters, was imagining an April Fool's Day edition of The Clarkston News, since this edition would appear on April 1.

He volunteered to dress as a sea serpent and swim in the Mill Pond, where James Gibowski could photograph him. Dennis Carter, of course, would call the emergency officials about the serpent sighting and would write the story.

One idea led to another, and soon we had enough ideas to fill an entire edition of The Clarkston News with April Fool's Day stories.

The lead story, of course, would be the news that the Village of Clarkston had dropped all ideas of becoming a city because it did not want to lose the relationship it had with the benevolent Independence Township.

This had come about because the township—in secrecy—had managed to reroute M-15 around the village and had also managed to turn about 90 percent of village property into a "scenic easement." In other words, the quaintness of the village would be preserved forever for all to enjoy because owners of about 90 percent of the property legally agreed to preserve it—historical houses and weeping willows and all.

When the news finally broke — in the April 1 edition — township officials proclaimed that these aims were of themselves "the good," regardless of the political and geographical boundaries of the village. They admitted that the biggest difficulty was keeping the transactions quiet. If word had gotten out, their motives may have been questioned.

Dennis Carter's "Not!" brought us swiftly back to reality.

But other April Fool's Day ideas were considered, and headlines were spewed forth:

"Village endorses bed and breakfast"

"School administrators ask for pay cuts; unions bargain for pay freezes: Facilities 'more important,' they say"

"Lottery winner pays for new school and development of Baycourt Park"

"High school kids give one Saturday a month to maintain facilities"

Davisburg files to become a city"

"Clarkston inventor creates method to detoxify incinerator ash"

Of course, these stories would be continued on another page, where the reader would find: "April Fool!"

We decided against an entire April Fool's edition because too much real news needed to be presented.

But we had one last idea:

"Editor finds scissors"

My dad was known to frequent a tavem or two. He was at his sharp-tongued best when leaning on the mahogany or sliding the puck on the shuffleboard.

His most often repeated remark was . . . when someone announced they had to leave . . . "Don't think you're going to be missed!"

I've used that comment a few times myself. When I do I think of the poem, "A Sobering Thought." Long-time Jottings readers may recall I first printed it in my column April 3, 1975.

"Sometimes, when you're feeling important, Sometimes, when your ego's in bloom, Sometimes, when you take it for granted You're the best qualified in the room.

"Sometimes, when you feel that your going Would leave an unfilled hole Just follow this simple instruction And see how it humbles your soul:

"Take a bucket and fill it with water, Put your hand in it, up to the wrist, Pull it out, and the hole that's remaining Is a measure of how you'll be missed.

"You may splash all you please when you enter, You can stir up the water galore, But stop, and you'll find in a minute That it looks quite the same as before.

Truthful, gutsy

The article "Parental Concern Advised?" by James Gibowski was one of the most truthful and gutsy articles I've ever read in The Clarkston News.

I, too, am tired of hearing the "whining" by parents that's been going on in Clarkston sports for too long now. A lot of it centers around the Fife family. A simple word that's been around since Cain and Able fits certain parents' viewpoints of this athletic family — jealousy!

Having been a little league coach and a parent of student athletes, I've seen both sides of the emotional issues involved in student athletes.

As a parent, I admit we all want our kid to be "the star athlete," but realistically I know it's a very small percentage that fulfills this dream. As a coach, I've experienced the dilemma of trying to please everyone — parents, players, friends — and still trying to win. If you think coaching is an easy job, why don't you give it a try?

I agree with Him when he points out that little league is much different from high school athletics. Right or wrong, we live in a highly competitive society, and somewhere along life's road, our children must become acclimated to this fact.

Let's let our kids enjoy sports for all it has to offer them — self-esteem, teamwork, sportsmanship, and the ability to try their best, whether that be star quarterback, first man off the bench, or team manager.

Parents, quit trying to live your lives through your children - let them find their own way.

Wetlands need local control

Last fall, many citizens from this community wrote their state representative and state senator regarding Senate Bill No. 522 that proposed to take away from local communities the right to regulate the modification and destruction of wetlands. That proposal lapsed in committee last year, quite possibly to avoid the attention and public furor that was occurring.

However, that proposal is now active again in a slightly modified form.

It is no secret that in Clarkston, Independence and Springfield, the function of wetlands is essential to our way of life and safe drinking water. So it is imperative that those of you who wrote last fall write again, voicing your opposition. It is also important that those who didn't write take time and send a note to your state representative, state senator and state Rep.

Tom Alley to voice your opposition. Your state senator, David Honnigman, and your state representative, Tom Middleton, can be addressed simply at the State Capitol, Lansing, MI. They are both particularly crucial to this proposal. So it's important to let them know our opposition.

Even if you have never written to Lansing before, I urge you to take the time to write on this issue.

Is it just 'A matter of time?'

My family and I will be relocating to the Clarkston area this summer as a result of a job transfer.

An article in the March 25 issue titled "Could clock be leaving village?" didn't ring true to me. Obviously, I don't have all the facts, but based on what was in the article, it wasn't clear to me that the township actually "paid" for the timepiece.

The article said the funds were collected "... through local donations, contributions and the sale of souvenir items.

Does this make it "township property?" Even if it does, why wouldn't it make sense for it to be located in the city? Isn't the city still located in Independence Town-

If, by raising this "issue," this is an example of the thought processes entertained by township Supervisor Frank Ronk, then in my opinion, "the clock is really

Fly flags freely

I am writing this in response to the March 11 article about a recent Springfield Township Board meeting controversy. The board allowed a U.S. flag to be placed at the Saturn North dealership by I-75.

Board member Nancy Strole disapproved of the idea. She remarked, "This flag is being used as a sign. ... I don't feel patriotism is measured by the square footage of a flag."This same person also said the flag is being used as a "marketing tool." She said it will be lit up at night, seen from I-75, noisy and flappy.

Maybe it should be folded, put in a box and buried? Why fly them if they're not to be seen? Get real.

I lived outside the United States for one month. I know that's not very long, but it was long enough to understand how great we have it here. I love this country.

I don't feel patriotism is measured by the square footage of a flag either. I also don't feel they should only be allowed to fly on Memorial Day or Fourth of July.

I know of a restaurant that has one of the biggest flags I've ever seen flying beside it. What kind of a marketing tool is this? Hot dogs and apple pie? Michele M. Barks

In the newspaper it said the Detroit Housing Department, in a typically wise expenditure of public money, will hire a consultant to persuade federal officials that the Wolverine Hotel should be torn down. My first reaction was emotional:

What about Rubinoff and his violin door?

The Wolverine is a 17-story, 235-unit abandoned hotel on East Elizabeth Street in downtown Detroit, a few steps from the Fox Theatre. Because it was cheap and handy to theaters and Tiger Stadium, my family stayed there several times around 1960. One time we were lodged on the 11th floor, where my kids were awed by the door on Rubinoff's suite.

They had no idea who David Rubinoff was, and you disgustingly young readers probably don't know, either. Rubinoff was sort of the Liberace of the 1930s. Playing semiclassical music with a grand flourish, Rubinoff gave violin concerts all over the world, made movies and appeared regularly on the widely popular Eddie Cantor radio show. If you never heard of Cantor, you should keep reading anyway, because you have heard of how the Coleman Young administration wastes our tax money.

Rubinoff's fame had ebbed by 1957, the year he made the Wolverine his permanent home, to be near Detroit relatives. But he still lived in a colorful, show-biz style, as reflected by his front door. Hand-carved for him by inmates of Jackson state prison, the door was inlaid with a large golden violin.

In the 1970s, the Wolverine was converted into federally subsidized housing. There is still a plaque on a lobby wall proclaiming the Wolverine 1979's "most improved building." But the ever-destructive city closed it in 1985, evicting hundreds of elderly residents. Ever since, with typical bureaucratic speed, the city Housing Department has been trying to get the hotel razed, probably to prevent some pushy homeless person from seeking shelter there.

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, which calls Detroit's public housing program the nation's worst, has accused the city of exaggerating the cost of renovating the Wolverine and 737 Parkside Homes units to make demolition and new construction look more reasonable. For instance, HUD gasped when the city estimated it would cost $1.5 million to get rid of 1,250 trash

Henry Hagood, director of the city's Community and Economic Development Department, recently told the City Council the trash bin figure was a typographical error. And, apparently to prevent further errors, Hagood said a consultant would be hired to convince HUD that razing and rebuilding would be more feasible than renovating. It's interesting that, in the six years since the Wolverine was shuttered, as the number of Detroit homeless has continued to escalate, no one in the city Housing Department could find time to add up the cost of tearing it do It will also be interesting to learn the cost of the consultant's arithmetic. But what the heck, it's only tax money.

Just as it was only tax money - $120,000 - that the city paid to a woman whose lawsuit claimed her civil rights were violated when, during a drug raid on the wrong house, police handcuffed her for two hours and ordered pizza. What I want to know for my tax money is what brand of pizza is favored by meat-head cops? Maybe Chief Stanley Knox could hire a consultant to find out.

Anyway, I can quit worrying about the city destroying the historic door that dazzled my children 30 years ago. Free Press files revealed that in 1965, Rubinoff and the Wolverine exchanged lawsuits charging and denying that management underheated his room and wouldn't let him practice on his $100,000 Stradivarius. Rubinoff left in a huff and took his grand door with him.

Rubinoff died in 1986 at the age of 90. I don't know what happened to the hand-carved door. If I worked for the city, I'd hire a consultant to track down the driver of the huff and locate the door. The city needs it to slam on the

As a concerned parent in the Clarkston school district, I am writing to you. I would like to request that fair communication be printed in regards to the upcoming bond issue.

Our schools are desperately overcrowded, causing shortcomings in the kind of education our children are receiving. These children need and deserve something better. This is a fact, pure and simple.

Again, please share both sides of the story.

New school would help education

My wife and I are committed to having children receive a good education. For that reason, we urge our neighbors to vote in favor of the bond proposal for the new elementary school.

Based on past letters to your newspaper, some people apparently are opposed to this bond proposal because Clarkston schools today are not as overcrowded as they were in 1975. Even if true, the competitive environment for jobs in the future mandates that we commit ourselves to provide the best possible educational opportunities for our children, including having adequate

New facilities alone are not going to result in a vast improvement in the school system, but they are one of several critical steps. Once we taxpayers have incurred the expense of improving the schools, then we have the right to demand that these facilities be used to produce the next generation of leaders and workers who can truly compete in a global economy.

For the sake of the kids, please support the proposal for the new elementary school.

Voting no again

I am about to be worn out by this school issue, but I will reach down deep inside and go vote "no" again.

After that I will wait for Gary Haner to regroup his forces with my tax dollars and mail me a slick newspaper prepared by my $15-an-hour-or-so public relations employee. This paper will contain all sorts of facts and figures, but only the ones that are to his advantage to meet his ultimate need.

Haner will ignore the facts and figures published from school records showing a decrease from 1975-76 enrollment of 1,319.

I could go into more detail, but I am worn out from a year ago and when this is defeated I will get a chance

It is a time for cuts in administrative costs: wages ---Haner's $100,000 salary, $40,000 secretary; benefits — Vaara and Haner's cars with telephones.

I could go on and on, but maybe by the vote next year I will be rested up, or maybe Haner will let me use the school's resources to oppose this. I could use a professional public relations specialist to help me out.

Voters, go vote and remember in all elections to vote against all incumbents.

There is hope. Remember, Ross Perot for president: 1-800-685-7777.

Case clear for new elementary

I read with great interest the guest column in your March 25 edition. On one hand, I share the writer's concern that by themselves, new buildings will not improve the quality of education. As I see it, the fundamental answer to improving our schools lies in increasing expectations of all members of the school community (students, faculty and parents).

. We must demand more time and effort from each. Everyone involved in the schools needs a mindset of continuous improvement and a desire to go beyond minimum standards.

Nonetheless, the case for a new elementary building is clear. Clarkston is a growing area with plenty of vacant lots left to build. The district will sooner or later need to add facilities, as well as upgrade older buildings, to accommodate the growing population and changing educational needs.

Failure to build now will result in Band-Aid solutions (such as portables or overcrowded classrooms) and merely postpone the inevitable need to build.

Hence, I support the district's plan to build a new elementary school. At the same time, I look forward to hearing more from the district about other efforts to reform and improve the quality of the school district.

From Our Perspective

Consider bond issue carefully

Doug Carlson

Let's take a good hard look at this bond issue that will be on the April 11 ballot.

The issue, pure and simple, is overcrowding at the clementary school level. The solution, as decided by the Clarkston Board of Education, is to build a new elementary school. Let's see how it all shakes out.

For a long time now, our group has questioned the overcrowding issue. We kept coming back to the fact that there are 848 fewer students in the elementary schools today than there were in the '75-'76 school year. That's enough to nearly fill two elementary schools.

However, as the administration points out (in the November issue of the Clarkston Connection and in meetings with our group), the elementary schools are more crowded today than they were in '75-76 because:

- there was been a tremendous expansion at the special education curriculum since '75-'76. elementary school classes today have an average
- of 28.5 students vs. 35-38 students in '75-'76.
- support programs are available to students today that were not available in the past in reading, math, gifted,
- we now have a physical education curriculum that we didn't have in '75-'76 — 10 classes per day at Bailey Lake, for example.
- today's schools contain media centers and computer labs, which didn't exist in '75-'76.

There are other items, but these are the ones that seem to have the greatest impact on space.

After accepting the fact that the elementary schools are overcrowded, our group put together a proposal on how to solve the problem by reconfiguring and expanding the existing elementary schools rather than building an additional school. The reason we took this approach is because schools incur incremental costs such as: an additional principal, additional librarian, additional custodians, additional utility bills, etc.

Although our proposal was given adequate discussion by the board, it was ultimately dismissed in favor of building a new elementary school. This new school is what will be on the ballot on April 11.

Our concern over additional expenses is prompted by the fact that the current school budget is already strapped for funds as a result of:

■ Tax Base Sharing: where the more affluent school systems must share their commercial/industrial property income with the less affluent school systems. The Clarkston school system expects to lose about $194,000 this year due to tax base sharing.

Note: Per Clarkston Connection.

■ The Downtown Development Authority (DDA) - an area of commercial development along Dixie Highway and White Lake Road in which increased property taxes are kept by the township and are spent on roads, sewer, water and lighting improvements within the boundaries of the DDA. 1991 school taxes, which would have come from this commercial area of car district, now total about $1.158 million

Note: Per Clarkston Connecti 1.

■ The Tax Assessment Freeze neffect this year and the likelihood of smaller increases in the future than what the schools would have realized without such a freeze.

Note: Per Clarkston Connection.

■ More incoming students very simply will require more money to educate them.

Note: Per the Clarkston Board of Education.

In addition to having to find more money to operate a new school and to education additional students, the very important fund equity portion of the budget is currently near zero, and very little money is being budgeted for repairs to existing schools. We wonder, therefore, where they'll find the money to repair yet another school.

Finally, considerably more money will be required to fund the pay raises that are certain to occur following this year's negotiations.

After carefully examining all of the above data, we presented our "reconfiguration" proposal to the board of education on Monday, Dec. 2, 1991, after the board "advertised" for citizen input in The Clarkston News.

Although our proposal was given adequate discussion by the board, it was ultimately dismissed in favor of building a new elementary school. This new school is what will be on the ballot on April 11.

We believe this whole issue is of paramount importance to everyone in this community, and we strongly urge you to vote on Saturday, April 11.

Snow removal fee $25 in Thendara

From now on, homeowners in Thendara Park will be charged $25 a year for snow removal.

On March 18, the Independence Township Board voted 6-0 in favor of the annual charge. Trustee Bruce Mercado was absent from the meeting.

Last February, the board voted to create a special assessment district (SAD) for winter road maintenance in Thendara Park. Under the agreement, a contracted removal service will be hired to clear snow whenever there's at least two inches of accumulation.

The contractor will be contacted in the early morning, so Thendara's private roads are clear by the time most people head off to work.

Thendara residents are presently waiting for their roads to be deemed "public," so they can be plowed by the Road Commission for Oakland County.

Until that time, the SAD will provide them with removal services.

According to township officials, the $25 charge will not include vacant properties in the park.

The township will seek bids for a snow removal service in the near future. A SAD is a special tax on a specific area for special projects, such as road improvements, lighting and sewers.

Big business of government bugs business owner

BY DENNIS V. CARTER Clarkston News Staff Writer

Pete Gannon's stand over "common courtesy" landed him in court last week, and he could wind up there again

The owner of Pool Mart didn't remove a temporary sign on his M-15 property that violates Independence Township's ordinance because, he said, the township did not use common courtesy when informing him of the violation. In fact, said Gannon, township employees harassed him to take the sign down.

Gannon's hearing March 25 before Judge Gerald McNally in 52nd District Court, Independence Township, was postponed until May.

If Gannon's non-conforming sign is removed by the court date, the case will be dropped. If not, Gannon could be fined.

After his day in court, Gannon said he had not made up his mind about his next course of action.

"Right now I'm not sure what I will do, but probably in the end I will take it down," he said. "It's just that the government is for people, not to harass the people. I would just like to see the other non-conforming signs come down, too." Gannon, who faced off in court with the township over a water slide atop his building in 1980, said the township unfairly picked him out to "harass," while other business signs also break the ordinance but go unnoticed.

However, township officials said they treat Gannon no differently from other business owners.

That, according to Gannon, is no excuse.

The problem, he said, is that the township has become so big that it mistreats its taxpaying members. He explained the sequence of events.

First, he received a violation notice for his company car, with a "for sale" sign, parked on his property.

"They didn't even have the common courtesy to call

The township dropped the "for sale" sign issue after Gannon explained that the unmarked car belonged to his

But Gannon said officials continued in other areas. For instance, only a few days later, the fire department inspected his business.

"I sent them packing," Gannon said. "They already had the blueprints and after speaking with (fire chief) Gar (Wilson), it was ended."

But that issue, too, was dropped, said Gannon.

Soon after, he received his first violation notice about the temporary sign, which had been up for some

WILL THIS SIGN come down? A sign at the Pool Mart store on M-15 has brought owner Pete Gannon and Independence Township three years.

"To be honest, I forgot it was there," he said. "I put it up while I was having my new building built as a temporary sign and forgot all about it. The grass in the lot next to mine covered it up, and I just didn't think about it.

When I received the notice, I called the township about it, and they got smart with me," Gannon said. "All I wanted was a little common courtesy — just for them to treat me like a human being.'

Gannon received two more notices and then a ticket from township zoning ordinance officer Don Phillips. It amounts to harassment, said Gannon.

However, township officials have a different story. According to Phillips, all violation notices are issued in writing rather than by phone, so the township will have proof on file that the property owner was notified.

'As far as harassing him, that's ridiculous," said Phillips. "I sent him a couple of violation notices before together in court — for the second time. The first incident more than a decade ago centered around a water slide atop Gannon's building.

I even gave him a ticket."

Phillips, who issued the notices at the direction of his supervisor, said the fire inspections are unrelated to his office's responsibilities.

"I have nothing to do with what the fire department

Phillips disputed Gannon's charges that the township overlooks the non-conforming signs of other busi-

He said he didn't know of any other non-conforming signs near Pool Mart and explained that highway signs erected by the state highway department are out of his

For Gannon, that's beside the point. He maintains that he received the ticket because the township is harass-

"They don't like it because I won't let them push me around," he said.

Young Wolves hope to continue GOAL streak

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI Clarkston News Staff Writer

Seven years.

The Clarkston varsity girls' track team hasn't lost a Greater Oakland Activities League dual meet the past seven years.

That string was nearly broken last year as Pontiac Northern and Clarkston ended their annual key GOAL dual meet in a tie. The Wolves, however, won the GOAL league meet to end up with the overall championship.

This season, freshmen will play a big role in whether the Wolves extend that string to eight. Twenty-one of the 35 Wolves are freshmen (13 from Sashabaw and eight from Clarkston Junior Hig). In fact, there are only two seniors and five juniors.

"We are going to ask a lot from real young athletes," said Clarkston coach Gordie Richardson, who is assisted by coach Chris Krueger.

The coaches are concerned about the lack of depth in the distance events and the 300 meter low hurdles. And Richardson adds, "The high jump and long jump need improvement."

But the Wolves have plenty of strengths.

Juniors Rachel Seifferlein (a state qualifier) and Michelle Wade, both twoyear letter winners, will earn plenty of team points in the discus and shot put.

Sophomore Kristen Stanton cleared 4-10 in the high jump as a freshman. (About five freshmen will be vying for spots in the long jump).

Junior Cara Rayner and sophomores Shannon Binkley and Derenda Howard return with experience in the low hurdles.

Sophomore Angie Brown, a versatile runner who competes in cross-country in the fall, will be tough in the 100 and 200 and relay events.

Stanton and senior Missy Fletcher

Spring sports preview

will be keys in the 400, Stanton will also run the 800 and both will see action in the relays.

The Wolves are without depth in the distance events but expect big things from freshman Leah Scharl. Scharl was a state qualifier in cross country last fall and dominated her events in junior high meets. She will run both the 1600 and 3200.

Richardson said another strength of the Wolves is in their attitudes and dedication.

"It's positive. Most of them are really track kids," said Richardson.

Richardson again expects its toughest league competition to be with Pontiac Northern. He said Lake Orion is "much improved" and Brandon has "a ton" of freshmen.

Richardson is becoming an expert on tons of freshmen.

Twenty-one, in fact.

SHOT putter Rachel Seifferlein qualified for the state finals last year.

Doubles singled out as undetermined key

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI Clarkston News Staff Writer

The opening of the Clarkston varsity boys' tennis season not only will see the Wolves battling opponents but also themselves.

One singles spot and two in doubles are still undecided as the Wolves return after a 9-4 1991 season (second in the Greater Oakland Activities League with a 7-3 mark).

"Most of all the kids played all winter long but you don't know what will happen until the matches begin," said Clarkston coach Dick Swartout.

The coach said his team has good ground strokes but points out those strokes have to be coupled with match toughness.

Senior Jason Gross returns as the No.

ing his fourth varsity letter, was an all-GOAL selection last season.

Sophomore Bobby Brazier will most likely be playing at the No. 2 spot. Junior Craig Coxen is expected at No. 3 but could move up to No. 2.

Junior Matt Babcock will either be the No. 4 seed or play doubles.

Senior Navi Lamk and junior Mark Chamberlain will team up at No. 1 doubles. The No. 2 and No. 3 doubles are still undecided.

Swartout said the team's strength will be in Gross' experience and that "Bobby and Craig have lots of tournament experience having played USTA in the summertime."

The coach said doubles will be a concern.

Swartout said, "I don't have anybody back that has played a lot of doubles." The coach expects defending champ

Lake Orion to be the team to beat.
"They have everybody back except their No. 2," said Swartout.

The Dragons, 10-0 in the GOAL last year, handed Clarkston two of its three league losses last year.

Brandon and Clarkston split league matches last season but Swartout expects a Wolf sweep this year.

The coach also said Pontiac Northern, Waterford Mott and Waterford Kettering will be rebuilding this season.

The Wolves, who have been practicing the last two weeks inside at the Deer Lake Racquet Club, open their season Monday, April 6, at Pontiac Northern.

NWOCS golf outing May 9

Golfers have until April 15 to register for the Northwest Oakland Community Services four-person scramble.

The 18-hole event tees off at the Heather Highlands Golf Course May 9. Registration startsat 6:30 a.m. and a shotgun start begins 7:30 a.m.

The cost is $60, which includes the golf, a gas cart, pop on the course and a steak dinner. A cash prize will also be awarded to the first-place team.

NWOCS is a non-profit organization established to provide services on a volunteer basis to residents of seven townships in northwest Oakland County. Some of the organization's current projects are a volunteer calling service for senior citizens, an adult literacy program and a teen tutoring program.

For more information on the golf outing, call Craig Aleo at 634-1542.

"Let's discuss your Career in Real Estate Sales"

QUESTION: Any suggestions on how to keep the taxable profit on the sale of a home as low as possible?

ANSWER: You add legitimate expenses to the original cost, such as: title search, title insurance, lawyer's fee, and "points". also add the cost of any capital improvements — finished attic or basement, new kicthen, added porch, patio or swimming pool.

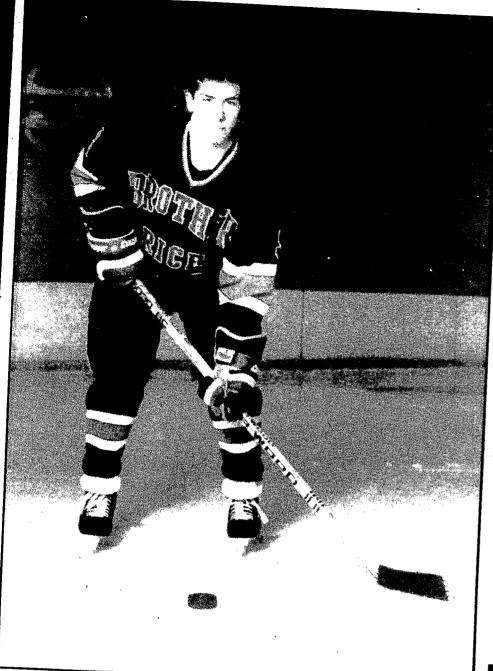

You can deduct expenses from the sales price, such as: Realtor's commission, lawyer's fees, advertising costs and fixup expenses if they were made within 90 days prior to the sale. Now, deduct the lower selling price from the higher original cost figure and you arrive at the taxable

Warrior plays key roles in ice, grid state titles

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI Clarkston News Staff Writer

Matt Allen has had a dream season in sports during his senior year at Birmingham Brother Rice.

And his junior year wasn't too bad either.

Allen, an Independence Township resident who attended Clarkston schools until his freshman year, helped the 26-2 Warriors win the Class A state hockey championship this year and finish second in the state in football. Last year, Brother Rice won the football title and placed second in hockey.

Allen's hat trick, the first one of his high school career, sparked the Warriors to a 6-1 win over Ann Arbor Pioneer in the hockey finals. No one threw any hats out onto the ice, but Allen said at least one squid hit the surface.

The 5-8, 165-pound center, who will be studying marketing and advertising and playing hockey at Saint Bonaventure University in New York next year, finished the season with 19 goals and 18 assists, which helped him earn first team all-state status.

"I have pretty good speed, good hands, a good center of gravity and I'm strong on my feet," said Allen, who laced his first pair of skates when he was 3 years old.

Allen's prep hockey achievements didn't finish with the state championship. He was one of 40 players invited to play in an all-star game recently at Michigan Tech University, with 20 of those 40 battling for a chance to be on Team Michigan. His two goals and two assists (he was also named the game's second star) impressed the coaches and Allen and his Team Michigan teammates will now compete in Chicago April 8-12.

Allen's speed also was a plus in football. The wide receiver, who caught 39 passes this fall, grabbed a touchdown pass from quarterback Steve Merchant in triple overtime in the state semifinals to launch the Warriors into the finals at the Silverdome.

The senior said the "football attitude" he learned from coach Al Fracassa helped him beyond the football field. One of those lessons from Fracassa was "don't be arrogant."

Allen was on the varsity baseball squad last spring but became ineligible this spring because of playing in postseason hockey.

The Warriors loss in centerfield will be Team Michigan's gain on center ice.

Tickets are on sale now at the rec. department. In the event of inclement weather this event will be rescheduled for Saturday, April 18, same time, same place.

BASEBALL CAMP INFORMATION

The junior varsity baseball coaching staff, along with other baseball personalities, will be offering a baseball camp for boys and girls ages 7-15.

The camp is designed to enhance and improve overall baseball skills and sportsmanship. Controlled scrimmages will also be incorporated during the five-day camp.

The camp begins Tuesday, June 16, and runs through Saturday, June 20. Tuesday through Friday the camp meets from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., and Saturday it meets from 9 a.m. to noon.

Participants will be allowed 45 minutes each day for lunch. Beverage will be provided.

Each participant will receive a Baseball Camp T-Shirt (the camp will not conflict with the youth baseball/softball program).

Location will be announced at a later date.

BALLROOM DANCE SPRING

Beginners learn the fox trot and waltz and progress to as many other dances as possible, according to the ability of the students. To enter the advanced class, students must have a fair knowledge of the fox trot and waltz because they will be learning the rumba, cha cha and tango.

The classes at Clintonwood Park in the Carriage House begin April 8 for eight weeks. Beginners meet 6 to 7 p.m. and advanced dancers 7 to 8 p.m. Cost is $29 for residents and $39 for non-residents.

ADULT SOFTBALL TEAM REGIS-TRATION

Though it may not be aware of the fact, a tiny parcel in Springfield Township has had three separate identities in a five-month span.

In October 1992, attorney Mike Odette requested that the Springfield Township Board rezone his 2.5-acre commercial lot in Cedar Valley Estates to single-family residential (R1A) zoning. R1A zoning requires a 2.5-acre minimum lot size.

The board approved the rezoning. About 30 days later, Odette requested the property on Dixie Highway be rezoned to office services, so he could place his law office there

On March 11, the board voted 4-2 to rezone the property from R1A to office services.

Trustees Nancy Stole, Charles Oaks and Margaret Bloom and Treasurer Lois Stiles voted in favor of the motion, while Supervisor Collin Walls and Trustee Dennis Vallad voted against it. Clerk Calvin Walters abstained because Odette had sued Walters in non-township-related incident.

Walls said he voted against the motion for several

"I feel the wetlands there provide a natural barrier between the commercial and residential properties," he said. "Also, I don't feel it fits into the overall master plan goals and policies. Another reason is there is no evidence to demonstrate that the land couldn't be used as residen-

Before voting for the motion, Stiles pointed to the characteristics of Dixie Highway.

"I feel the make-up of Dixie Highway has moved in the direction of commercial rather than residential," Stiles said. "I feel the residents of Cedar Valley will be happier with the property being changed to office services rather than commercial. Just because we zone it now as residential doesn't mean it will stay that way. A different board down the road could it rezone it commercial. It also doesn't mean if we change it to office service that it can't be changed later, but I feel it has a better chance at staying office services than residential."

My first impression of medicine came when my father would take me on visits to see relatives who were ill. I remember being impressed by the process of recovery. After seeing a doctor, this person who had been very sick was now talking, laughing and walking around as if nothing had ever been wrong. I wanted to be able to have that effect on people, and I decided to focus on children's health.

In addition to treating youngsters who are sick, I enjoy the special role I have in helping children become good citizens and good human beings. Support and encouragement are so important to healthy development. I also spend a lot of time talking with parents. Helping their understanding may be the most significant impact I have on the whole family. Nothing affects a child's health as much as the support and guidance that comes from a healthy family life.

Change in precincts for new school election

A bond proposal for a new elementary school is on tap for Clarkston area voters 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday,

The bond issue calls for the construction of a 70,000square-foot elementary school at a cost of $7.95 million. The proposed building will be financed by selling current interest and capital depreciation bonds.

By using this route, school officials say that the debt millage won't increase and will instead only extend current debt millage, resulting in no increase in property taxes. However, an operating millage will need to be approved subsequently, in order to open the building.

The school would be built on a 50-acre parcel near the corner of Bridge Lake and Holcomb roads, Independ-precincts will be asked to attend other polling stations. The third precinct voting site, usually at Clintonwood Park, will be moved to the Clarkston School Administrative Offices, 6389 Clarkston Road, Independence Township. A township-sponsored event is already scheduled for the park that day.

The seventh precinct voting station, usually located at American Legion Post 377, has been moved to the Calvary Lutheran Church, 6805 Bluegrass, Independence Township. A wedding reception at Post 377 caused this

$250,000 OK'd for new ball fields

The Independence Township Board has selected a quartet of companies to help complete four new ball fields at Clintonwood Park.

On March 18, the board voted 6-0 to accept the bids of four companies, totaling $254,053. The new complex will cost about $400,000 to complete. Trustee Bruce Mercado was absent from the meeting.

This development will be financed by a $300,000 grant from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, which requires that the township pay an additional $100,000 toward the overall project.

The township has already hired a Mount Clemens company to erect a 2,340-square-foot multi-purpose building on the site. This building will cost about $99,400 to construct.

Acting as general contractor, the township received numerous bids on the project's second phase. This phase will include the development of the four diamonds, expansion of the parking lot and landscaping.

At the meeting, the board hired the following companies for the listed jobs:

- Gerlach Landscaping (Fraser) for grading and restoration, $139,330.
- Goretski Construction (Milford) for laying concrete, $33,322.
- Stellar Building Co. (Hazel Park) for fencing,
- D&J Lawn Sprinkler (Sterling Heights) for irrigation, $18,950.

The first three jobs represent the low-bidders. The initial lowest bid for the irrigation project was rendered by a company who said this price was contingent on it receiving the grading and restoration job. When it was overpassed, the company rescinded on all its bids.

D&J Lawn Sprinkler was the second lowest bidder. Ann Conklin, director of the township parks and recreation department, said the overall project should be completed by this August. However, the four fields won't be available to teams until 1993 because the grass surfaces will need a year to settle in.

Law allows outlawing of nude entertainment

Legislation that will allow cities, villages and townships to prohibit nude entertainment was recently signed into law by the governor.

State Rep. Tom Middleton, who represents the 61st District (which includes Independence and Springfield townships) sponsored by measure because each local unit is governed by a different statue. This bill was his first piece of legislation to become law.

"Without the ability to enact ordinances, owners of nude entertainment establishments could simply locate across boundary lines," said Middleton, who serves on the House Towns and Counties Committee.

Mammography machines get passing marks at N. Oakland

North Oakland Radiology of M-15, Independence Township, received a clean bill of health for its Xerox mammography machines in March.

The Michigan Department of Public Health gave 'passing" marks to the radiology center's two machines during a March 6 inspection.

The evaluation followed a statewide scare over the health department's grading system of mammography machines early this year. After those evaluations were announced, hundreds of women in the Clarkston area and thousands in the state called their radiology centers in panic, concerned over the validity of their mammograms.

Medical professionals protested the state's testing methods, pointing out that they did not accurately reflect the performance of mammography machines.

After a hearing with medical professionals, the health department revised its evaluation system and stopped giving letter grades for mammography systems' performances.

On March 6, North Oakland Radiology's two machines were evaluated with a "phantom image," whereby the machines must detect a certain number of fibers, speck groups and masses in a fake breast.

Both of the radiology center's machines passed

BY DENNIS V. CARTER Clarkston News Staff Writer

After just one look, a visitor to William J. Chamberlin's museum is overwhelmed by the scope of the Independence Township man's 24-year project.

The Snowapple Drive resident has turned part of his traditional house into a museum of Bibles — 1,155 different English translations from throughout history, to

"I've been collecting these Bibles for a very long time," said Chamberlin. "I collect them to preserve them. Someday if we don't preserve these Bibles, they will be gone and we will not be able to replace them.'

Chamberlin said it's important to preserve the Bibles

"I've had scholars from as far away as West Germany come and use the Bibles in the museum," he said. "I've also had people from around the country make use of the collection.'

Much of his life's work has culminated in a $125 reference book, "Catalogue of English Bible Translations: A Classified Bibliography of Versions and Editions including Books, Parts, and Old and New Testament Apocrypha and Apocryphal Books." Published by Greenwood Publishing Group, Inc., in December 1991, it catalogues English Bible translations.

Chamberlin, who is studying to be a deacon in the catholic church, said he began collecting data for his reference book about a year after he began collecting

'It all started when I purchased (an) 1816 King James Bible while in Toledo," he said. "Inside there was a family tree, and I wondered how this Bible got to Toledo. So I started to research the family tree in the Chamberlin said the 960-page book will appeal to rare book collectors, as well as to libraries and colleges.

We expect to sell in the area of at least 100,000 copies of the books," he said. "The money from the sale of the books will be used to purchase more rare copies of Bibles and manuscripts.'

because of their importance to religion.

"Since this the word of God, it is important to be able check the English versions to the original texts," he said. "Since most of us can't read the original text, the more translation to English we have, the better we will be able to check them.'

Chamberlin — pastoral minister at St. Joseph Catholic Church in Lake Orion — is willing to share his work.

"Anyone can come and use the collection of Bibles I have," he said, adding that he may be reached for an appointment by calling him before noon at St. Joseph's in Lake Orion (693-0440).

Bible. Once I did that one, I started to do others."

When Chamberlin began collecting Bibles, he noticed translational differences.

"I started to wonder how each Bible differed in translation, so I started to make copies of the different translations and tape them to paper in a book I was keeping. This helped me to see which translation I already had when I was looking at Bibles in different book stores," he said. "Because after the first, I already had 90 Bibles with different translations."

His close attention to such details did not come

"It took me four years to type up the book to have it published," he said. "I would usually start about 7 p.m. and type until 3 a.m., seven days a week. My wife, Elaine, really gave me a lot support during this whole thing."

Library used book sale slated for this weekend

People hungry for books or just plain hungry can help the Independence Township Library book fund in two upcoming events.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 2, 3 and 4, are the dates for the annual Friends of the Independence 10wnship Library books sale. For the first time, the will take place at the library, 6495 Clarkston Road.

Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Thursday, 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Friday, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

Returning this year is the popular "Buck-a-Bag" time on Saturday afternoon during the final two hours of the sale — when customers can fill an entire grocery bag of books for just $1.

Book buyers can also pick up tickets for "Burgers for Books" during the book sale. Burger King of Clarkston is helping with a library fund-raiser Wednesday and Thursday, April 8 and 9. During that time, a percentage of sales from customers presenting a library ticket 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. will be donated to the library's book fund. The tickets also are available at the township parks and recreation office.

Proceeds from the book sale are donated by the Friends of the Independence Township Library to fund children's programs such as the summer reading club and to purchase books for adult and children's collections.

For more information, call 625-2212.

AUTHOR Jim DuFresne of Independence Township reads aloud from his published travel adventures to fifth-graders in Janice Walker's class at Clarkston Elementary.

n Clarkston schools March 26, pupils, staff and faculty dropped everything and read for a while. The scheduled day was part of a countywide Drop Everything And Read (DEAR)) project that featured read-ins and celebrity reader visitors.

Staff in each building designed their own reading program. Below are some of the activities in each building.

Andersonville Elementary: March is Olympic Reading Month at Andersonville. Students earn points to earn buttons, medallions, T-shirts, posters, books or Olympic Every Monday afternoon, students drop everything and read from 2:45 p.m. to 3 p.m. On the countywide DEAR day, celebrity readers visited the school.

Bailey Lake Elementary: In line with Bailey Lake's "Get Hot on Reading" DEAR theme this year, parents are tracking children's reading on large thermometers in the hallways, and the temperature is rising. Bailey Lake kicked of its reading program March 2 with celebrity readers.

Clarkston Elementary: Clarkston's "Bear" reading program is just winding down. They have dropped everything to read from 2:40 p.m. to 3 p.m. each Friday. In addition, Media Specialist Mike Donovan's "Reading

Is Write On" program for fourth- and fifth-graders invites them to write book reviews that will be placed in the books they read. Students who read seven or more books get a chance to see storyteller Barb Schultz April 14. On Thursday, celebrity readers visited the school.

Clarkston High: Some classes listed to celebrity readers who read part of a favorite book. Other staff shared readings on ecology and famous people, biographical sketches and favorite children's stories. Other classes read a book of their choice.

Clarkston STRIVE program: Funshine Preschool parents participated in a "Read to Your Child" activity.

North Sashabaw Elementary: The school's monthlong reading program "Go for the Gold" encourages positive reading habits. Readers are rewarded with bookmarks, pencils and medals - and, during the special countywide reading day, ice cream.

Pine Knob Elementary: Celebrity readers such as parents, grandparents and staff members visited the school, which drops everything to read each Friday from 3:30 p.m. to 3:50 p.m.

Sashabaw Junior High: During a Thursday Read-In, teacher and students brought personal reading for a silent reading time.

Check wetness of soil before planting garden

Mid-Michigan vegetable gardeners don't have to wait until Memorial Day to plant. They can start planting peas, onions, radishes, beets, leaf lettuce and cole crop transplants weeks earlier if the soil gets dry enough to Tom Stebbins, master gardener specialist at Michigan State University, says you can check the soil by squeezing a handful of it. If it forms a wet, muddy ball that sticks together when you open your hand, it's still too wet. If the soil crumbles, it's dry enough to work.

An established garden spot that was cleaned up last fall won't take much preparation, Stebbins says. Shallow plowing, tilling or spading to work in organic matter and fertilizer and raking to smooth the soil and prepare the seedbed should be all that's necessary.

If you're enlarging your garden or breaking new

Prepare only as much seedbed as you need for your early crops. Continue to work only what you need for each planting.

ground, the first step is to remove the grass.

"It's more work to peel off the old sod than to till or plow it under," Stebbins observes, "but if you remove it, you won't spend the whole summer battling comeback grass trying to reclaim the garden spot for lawn.'

Prepare only as much seedbed as you need for your early crops, he suggests. Continue to work only what you need for each planting. This breaks the chore down into small chunks and guarantees that each seeding will have a clean, freshly prepared seedbed and at least an even

Forum covers poisons

"Poisons in our Neighborhoods" is the topic of The Community Forum April 8 at the Independence Township Annex.

Sponsored by the Eastern Michigan Environmental Action Council and the Independence Groundwater Team, the forum kicks off a community effort against the looming threats to the quality of life in northern Oakland County.

The forum is set for 7 p.m. Wednesday at the Annex, 90 N. Main St., Clarkston.

Under discussion will be such immediate threats as contaminated drinking water, solid waste, dying lakes and other problems — as well as solutions.

Residents help fight multiple sclerosis

Residents from the Clarkston area are doing their part in the fight against multiple sclerosis (MS) by participating in the Super Cities Walk April 5.

For the past four years, thousands of people from around the state have converged on six cities to engage in a nationwide walk-athon. Pledge money from this event goes toward research and helping those people afflicted with MS.

MS is a chronic, often disabling disease affecting an estimated 250,000 in the U.S. alone. The disease "short circuits" the central nervous system, affecting the brain's ability to control functions such as walking, talking, seeing, hearing, arm movements, and more.

Each week, 200 adults are diagnosed with this disease, most of whom are between the ages of 20 and 40.

This year, Sheila Cushing of Clarkston is part of a 40-family-member-team that will meet in Birmingham and walk 20 kilometers. She's walking for a brother and sister, who are both beset with MS. The supportive family has named their team "Greg and Peg's Gang," in honor of Sheila's afflicted siblings.

Other Clarkston area walkers scheduled to participate this year include: Julie O'Neil, Raymond VanderKolk. Sue Drellano, Mark Houle, Carolyn Kiser, Carrie Koop, Carla Maki, Joe Pistonetti, Jeanne Rosinski, Laurie Staundenraus, Mary Ellen Hutek, Richard and Chrissy Leatzau, Gary and Carol Kolkmeyer, James Petherbridge, Charles Tiedeman, Holly Hardy, Lee Rabideau and Sue Swenden.

Anyone interested in walking, making pledges or volunteering for the Super Cities Walk should call the Michigan Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society at 350-0020 or 1-800-247-7382.

Post-graduation party needs volunteers

Graduation is still a few months away for Clarkston High School pupils, but plans already are underway for the Sixth Annual Post-Graduation Party, with a theme of: Go for the Gold.

The senior dinner is set for Sunday, June 7. Following the graduation ceremony at Pine Knob Music Theater, the post-graduation party is planned for Wednesday, June 10, at the Deer Lake Racquet Club, White Lake Road, Independence Township.

To help, call organizers Karen Tinkis (625-6896), Sally Whittaker (625-0383) and Geri Allison (625-9542).

Bowl-a-thon helps disadvantaged youth

Kids who might not otherwise afford a week at summer camp are the beneficiaries of a bowl-a-thon this weekend.

The Clarkston Area Youth Assistance's (CAYA) Eighth Annual Bowl-a-thon is planned for Sunday, April 5, at Cherry Hill Lanes North, Dixie Highway, Independence Township. All proceeds help send disadvantaged youngsters to summer camp.

Referrals on students ages 8-13 are solicited from Clarkston school teachers who feel their students would benefit from a camping experience.

The CAYA camp committee hopes to raise enough money to send 60 campers to Camp Oakland in Oxford for eight days in June. Cost is $115 per child.

To bowl or donate, call CAYA at 625-9007.

Blood donations needed in area

If you're in good health, weigh at least 110 pounds and are 17 to 65 years old, you have a chance to help people in need.

The American Red Cross is planning a series of blood drives in the Clarkston area. To serve the southeastern Michigan region, the American Red Cross must collect 1,000 pints of blood each day.

Before donating blood, volunteers will receive a free mini-physical and medical history evaluation.

Upcoming stops for the bloodmobile in Independence Township are listed below:

Tuesday, April 7 - Clarkston High School, 6595 Middle Lake Road; 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. (Larry McGee, 334-3575).

Wednesday, April 15 - STRIVE Alternative High School, 5275 Maybee Road; 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. (John Zittle, 674-0993)

Sunday, April 26 - St. Daniel Catholic Church Activities Building, 7010 Valley Park Drive at Holcomb Road; 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. (Karen Donnellon, 625-2163; appointments: 625-4580)

She's on her own after 8 years of saving, planning

BY DENNIS V. CARTER Clarkston News Staff Writer

After years of saving every extra penny and purchasing equipment for her own place, Rebecca Rochman is now in business — the restaurant business.

'This was a dream come true for me," she said. "When we finally opened up, the feeling was so great; it was everything I expected it to be."

On Feb. 19, Rebecca opened the doors to "My Place Cafe" in Oakhill Plaza, Dixie Highway, Springfield

Last August we began working on this place, which had been a restaurant before," she said. "But there still was a lot of work to be done to get it ready for business."

According to Rebecca, friends and family often worked 20-hour days to get the building ready for busi-building for two or three days at time working on it, getting everything ready," she said.

Rebecca, who has worked at almost every aspect of the restaurant business over the years, decided eight years ago she didn't want to work for someone else but rather go into business for herself.

"I started as a dish washer and have been a kitchen manager and just about everything else in between," she said. "I decided one day about eight years ago that I would plan, save money, start preparing to achieve my goal of owning my own restaurant. I would pick up equipment wherever I could find it — going to sellouts of restaurants going out business and the like."

My Place Cafe specializes in "home cooking."

"I do the cooking myself with fresh meat and fresh vegetables. It's real home-style cooking," she said. "I've been at this for a long time, and I must say that I'm a very good cook."

So far, according to Rebecca, her customers agree. "Considering we have not put our sign up yet or done any advertising, things have really gone well," she said. "I have gotten nothing but positive feedback from our customers. I'm very pleased with the way things are going."

Yvonne Arsenault, the cafe manager, has been a friend of Rebecca's for some time and was in on the hard work paid off in February, when she opened My Place Cafe on Dixie Highway, Springfield Township.

opening of the cafe from the beginning.

"Yvonne has been here from the start," Rebecca said. "She spent her time swinging a paint brush."

According to Yvonne, she loves the restaurant. 'I look forward to coming to work—actually I don't look at it as work. I enjoy what I'm doing, meeting the people and talking with them," Yvonne said.

Rebecca, who now commutes from Oak Park, said she is planning to move to Springfield Township. We really like this area," she said. "The people are so nice, and I just love the country atmosphere."

My Place Cafe also offers catering and is open 10:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Saturday until the restaurant begins its full-time schedule in the near future.

New chiropractor

Carol Calixto rected.

Chiropractor Carol Calixto has announced the opening of her chiropractic practice at the Cowan Chiropractic Clinic, 6310 Sashabaw Road, Independence Township. Her practice will focus primarily on women, children and families.

A 1991 graduate of the Parker College of Chiropractic, Calixto was first introduced to chiropractic as a child, when a painful knee condition was cor-

"With her strong commitment and desire to help people, Dr. Calixto will bring an empathetic and caring touch to the clinic," said chiropractor John S. Cowan.

Cable rates increase

Some monthly cable subscription rates will increase 70 cents or more a month beginning in June in the Independence-Clarkston area.

United Artists Cable of Oakland County announced the increase March 30. The Basic Service rate increase of 70 cents to $15.65 is a result of rising costs for system operations, service and technical improvements, and programing fees paid to cable-TV networks, according to the company.

"We have made every effort to control costs, but we face increases in telephone service, taxes and many other operating expenses, like any other business," said David Humphrey, general manager at United Artists Cable.

Other rate adjustments include: Cable Plus (includes basic service plus TNT, ESPN, CNN, Lifetime, Comedy Central) rate; up $1 per month (from $5.30 to $6.30); Disney Channel, up $1 per month (from $7.95 to $8.95); and Encore, down $7.45 per month (to $1.50).

The cost of a standard installation will increase to $60, up from the current charge of $40.

Cable programing fees increased up to 30 percent the past four years, according to Humphrey. Programing fees alone represent up to one-third of the customer's United Artists Cable has a contract with the Independence Township Board and the Clarkston Village Council to provide cable-TV service to the area.

Members certified

A few Clarkston Board of Education members were honored April 7 for completing certification training programs through the Michigan Association of School Boards.

Janet Thomas received an advanced award of distinction for inservice, leadership experience and service. Sheila Hughes received an award of merit for in-service, leadership experience and service. Hughes, Thomas, Karen Foyteck and Paul Van-Klaveren received certified board member awards after completing formal instruction in education issues.

Clarkston developer starts Pierson project

Construction began in March on a $4.5 million development in Pierson Township, 20 miles north of Grand Rapids, according to the project's developer, Gary Mitch-

The development, called Sand Lake Estates, features about 90 two- and three-bedroom, 1 1/2-half-bath homes on 20,000-square-foot lots. The homes, which feature full basements, will cost $40,000 to $50,000 and will come with neighborhood association privileges.

Mitchell, owner of the Clarkston-based Louis Development Corp. and a third generation developer, said the Montcalm County project provides a strong community-based atmosphere at an affordable price.

"We're seeking to create a community with a strong association," said Mitchell. "We want to create a strong neighborhood bond between the residents, which will in turn make Pierson Township an attractive place to live."

Mitchell said the location of the projects is ideal for first-time home buyers or "empty-nesters."

"The project's proximity to a major metropolitan - Grand Rapids - and its location in a rural area provide homeowners with the best of both worlds," said Mitchell. "Plenty of inland waters and wooded areas make it an ideal place for outdoor activities."

Record earnings

Oxford Bank Corp., the holding company for Oxford bank, reported that its 1991 earnings set a new record for the ninth consecutive year.

Net income for the year was $1.7 million ($10.62 per common share). This was 6.2 percent more than 1990 income, which was $1.6 million ($10.01 per common share). For the fourth quarter of 1991, net income was $487,000 ($3.04 per common share), an increase of 12.2 percent over income of $434,000 ($2.71 per common share) reported for the same period of 1990.

Total assets at the end of 1991 were $148.5 million, up 9.5 percent over the total of $135.7 million one year earlier. Total deposits were $134.6 million at year-end, 9.5 percent more than at the end of the previous year, when they were $122.9 million, over the course of 1991.

Completed training

Carol Doeringer successfully completed a two-week management training course at Minneapolis-based International Dairy Queen, Inc. (IDQ), according to an announcement made by Sara Blasing, IDQ training director.

Doeringer owns and manages the Dairy Queen/

Brazier store in Independence Township.

During the course, Doeringer and 20 other store operators from the United States and Canada were instructed on all facets of operating a Dairy Queen/Brazier store. Subjects included product preparation, sanitation procedures, employee management and financial manThe Oxford Leader - The Clarkston News - The Lake Orion Review

ENDS Thurs, April 2nd "Fried Green

Tomatoes" Jessica Tandy and Kathy Bates star as an old lady and her friend who listens as Tandy relates events of half a century ago in small-town Whistle Stop. Two young women (Mary Stuart Masterson, Mary-Louise Parker) run a cafe together, and get embroiled in problems when Parker's drunken husband is presumed murdered. Good performances, and a subtle handling of the relationship between the two women. Rated PG-13.

Rush Road Reports By Don Rush

All-wheel-drive rugged, sporty quick that's the new Typhoon

The Typhoon, new from GMC Truck in 1992, blends luxury and high performance into a truck.

When you hop into the black and charcoal leather seats, you sink in, all nice and comfy. Once you're out on open road (or from a dead stand still) you step on the gas and you're squashed even further into those seats. And, if it snows, the allwheel-drive truck takes you through it -no problem. It's fun and does what most trucks are meant for, utility.

GMC's newest tough truck is powered by the 4.3-liter V6 turbo engine. True to its name Typhoon wields awesome power. Its Vortec V6 engine produces 280 horsepower at 4400 rpm and 350 ft. pounds of torque at 3600 rpm. This black on black (or for another $172, you can have a black on some other color Typhoon) storms from 0 to 60 miles per hour in less than 6.0 seconds. The engine is turbo charged and intercooled, with electronic port fuel injection and a compression ratio of 8.35: -- needless to say it requires unleaded gas with at least a 93 octane rating.

The little devil setting on my left shoulder wanted to head down to Woodward Avenue and race some kid in a built up jalopy -- the little angel on the right won out and I only juiced it on straight-a-ways when no one else was around.

Typhoon is equipped with variable ration power steering, and powerful frontdisc, rear-drum brakes with the fourwheel anti-lock system. Its suspension lets the thing hug the road.

Standard on the Typhoon are its 16 x 8 inch cast aluminum wheels and lowprofile, P245/50 VR-16 tires. According to the public relation types at GMC, these tires were specially developed for Typhoon's performance.

That means they probably cost a lot to replace.

The truck seats the up front passengers and those in the back seat comfortably (four adults using the Rush Standard -which usually means subtracting one from what the manufacturers report). The front seats even have inflatable lumbar supports.

Almost everything is standard on the Typhoon (there are only three options: 1.) CD Player, $134; 2.) Luggage Rack, $126; 3.) Lower Body Color Change, $172). Standard equipment includes air conditioning, cruise control, tilt steering column, intermittent wipers, lighted visor mirrors, remote electric mirrors, rear window defogger and wiper, remote liftgate release, power windows and door locks and keyless entry.

The rear seats fold down to provide a cargo area of 68.6 inches long by 53.4 inches wide.

The Typhoon is an aggressive looking machine, and backs up the aggressiveness with power.

STARR

STUDENTS and staff gather for a planning session at the Oakland Technical Center-

Northwest Campus. Business, industry, clubs and government combined efforts with high school students in a one-of-kind experiment, according to OTC-N Principal Daniel Manthei.

Industry, government, education join forces

There's been much talk about business and government becoming more involved in schools.

Some businesses and a state senator have gone beyond the talk and have helped 13 students at the Oakland Technical Center-Northwest Campus.

The REMS Company of Fenton, General Motors, the American Society of Quality Control and state Sen. Mat Dunaskiss have joined forces to help the school in a project where students will conduct and validate field research on the potential energy savings of three electromechanical devices currently called the "Slicer, Dicer and Homogenizer."

The dignitaries attended the technical center March 16 for the presentation of a resolution, signed by members of the staff and students, which expressed their commitment to energy conservation. Technical center Principal Daniel Manthei received a plaque from The American Society of Quality Control Executive Director Doug Berg, which recognized the school as being the first high school technical center to become a member of the national organization.

In addition to Berg (who is also a manager of advanced manufacturing processes at General Motors' Division of Hydramatic), REMS partnership coordinator William Ireland was also on hand for the presentation, as was Dunaskiss, who is chairman of the state's energy and technology committee.

Thirteen students, including five from Clarkston High School, will be collecting, analyzing and graphing data on how well the devices conserve energy.

Neil Warren, a junior from Waterford Mott High School, describes the homogenizer as a device that creates a wind tunnel that comes straight down to the floor. The air spreads out as it hits the floor and the homogenizer keeps the heat from rising to the ceiling too fast, which saves energy.

Warren said the slicer will regulate the heat in the duct, so the system can be turned off before the desired temperature is reached, thereby conserving energy.

The dicer is a power line filter that regulates the flow of electricity to act as a safety device in controlling the power flowing to electrical equipment.

A group in Orlando, Fla., at Disney World has already stated interest in the project. If the research is successful, one of the students' goals is to have some students or all 13 go to Florida Sept. 22 for the presentation.

Students working on the project are currently taking classes in climate control (taught by Jesse Riojas), electronics (taught by Donald Peters) and principals of technology/ applied math (taught by Jeff Fagan and Dave Johnson).

The five students from Clarkston High School working on the project are Ty Fleming, Nathan Carry, Arnold Dreher, Edward Ross and Tamie Dixson. Brandon High School students are Drew Okolovitch, Stephen Knox, Jeff Burdzinski and Matt Grimes. Others are Waterford Mott's Warren and Edward West, Waterford Kettering's John Brown and Holly's Steven Zimmerman. Adult electronics student Danny Collins also is working on the project.
