Low voter turnout dooms bond issue

BY CURT MCALLISTER Clarkston News Associate Editor

The bond issue for a new elementary school suffered a sound defeat April 11, as only 20 percent of the Clarkston school district's registered voters traveled to the polls.

The proposal was defeated 2,516 to 1,621. A total of 4,151 votes were cast, including 14 invalid ballots. The school district comprises nearly 21,000 registered voters.

This election marks the third straight bond issue defeat for Clarkston schools in three years. If passed, this bond issue would have called for the construction of a 70,000-square-foot elementary school at a cost of $7.95 million.

The bond issue was spurred by a group of parents last fall, who were concerned with the overcrowding of the district's five elementary schools, primarily North Sashabaw, Pine Knob and Bailey Lake elementary schools.

After the election, Superintendent Gary Haner said he was surprised by the overwhelming sentiment against the new school.

"The outcome absolutely shocked me," he said. "To have a no-tax-rate proposal for a building, where the needs are clearly evident, fail like this is truly amazing.

"What dumbfounds me is that we conducted a survey prior to the election, and nearly 80 percent of those polled said they'd support a new elementary school,"

Haner added.

Haner said he wasn't sure why the bond issue failed, except maybe it was a reflection of the hard financial woes being felt around the state. That same day, two other school bond issues, in nearby Oxford and Brandon, met similar fates at the hands of the voters.

Haner said the school district and its parents have lost a golden opportunity to alleviate overcrowding in the elementary schools.

"The bottom line is that the parents, themselves, had the numbers to pass this proposal, but they failed to do so," Haner said. "Just when we needed them the most, the parents didn't support us on this issue.

"I find this strange, especially where the public is asking for more from its schools these days but not supporting them at the polls," he said.

Haner said the district is now faced with some dire consequences in dealing with overcrowding. He listed several short-term remedies, which may include: increasing class size, reclaiming classrooms from the specialty instructional programs such as music and computers, instituting double-day sessions, buying portable classrooms and re-districting the elementary schools.

At the April 13 school board meeting, William Neff, director of administrative services, provided the board with figures that show an increasing number of new elementary students still entering the district According to Neff, 64 more elementary age students have joined the district since last September.

Twenty-eight of these children have been admitted at an already overcrowded North Sashabaw Elementary School.

Neff also said that 47 percent of the district's 36 fourth- and fifth-grade classes have at least 30 students in them. In the district's first through third grades, 12 of 51, or 24 percent, of these classes have 30 students as well, he added.

Neff said these numbers are evidence of what's going on in the district, regardless of what voters may have thought.

"I don't know where all these so-called, well-informed people got their information, thinking we don't need another elementary school, because they didn't get it from me," he said.

The Clarkston school board is scheduled to discuss the failed bond issue at 7 p.m. Monday, April 27. The board will be seeking public opinion on why the proposal failed and what could have been done differently.

Striking out against big business

NUMEROUS picketers took to the street April 13, as employees at 65 Kroger stores in southeastern Michigan called a strike over "unfair" labor practices. Here, employees of the Clarkston-based Kroger on Dixie Highway, Independence Township, picket near the store's entrances to dissuade customers and replacement workers from entering the store. According to management, the Clarkston Kroger has lost nearly all of its 200 full-time and part-time workers to the strike. (Photo by Curt McAllister)

'City' council seats up for grabs in June

There will definitely be a new look to the Clarkston City Council after the June 15 election.

At least two of the seven current village council trustees will not be running for re-election when the village becomes a city in July.

Village manager Artemus Pappas announced April 13 that trustees Dom Mauti and Eric Haven will not be filing petitions for the upcoming election. And as of April 13, Trustee Robert Whitmer still hadn't picked up a petition.

So far, Sharron Catallo has picked up a petition for mayor, and James Schultz, William Basinger and Douglas Roeser have requested petitions for council positions.

Those petitions, which must have at least 20 signatures and not more than 40, are due at 4 p.m. Thursday, April 23, and must be received by either Pappas or Clerk Jeanne Selander-Miller.

Clarkston plans to hire full-time police officer

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI Clarkston News Staff Writer

The police protection problem is beginning to be arrested by the Clarkston Village Council.

After village residents in February approved the charter that will turn the village into a city in July, Independence Township said it would no longer contract out its police services after cityhood is adopted.

Trustee William Basinger, one of four people on a committee to look into a new source of police protection, told the council April 13 that the village will be hiring at least one full-time officer certified by the Michigan Law

Wanted: Businesses to be proud of

If you know a business person who's contributed to the Springfield Township community, it's time to speak

Nominations are sought for the Springfield Pride Award to recognize a Springfield business or business person who has made exceptional contributions to the community during the preceding year.

Eligibility criteria is broad, including: support and participation in township events, financial contributions, donation of manpower and business expertise to commu-

The award will be given at a Springfield Business Association reception Tuesday, May 19, at the Davisburg Medical Center complex on Andersonville Road.

Nominations for the Springfield Pride Award should be postmarked by April 24 and sent to: Springfield Business Association, P.O. Box 38, Davisburg, MI 48350. Each nomination should include a few brief paragraphs explaining the activities and contributions of the business nominee, as well as the name and address of the individual making the nomination. For more information, call Doug Lewan at 625-4802 or 634-3111.

Enforcement Officers Training Council.

A letter the council delivered April 14 to Independence Township officials stated that the officer would handle routine ordinance and traffic enforcement.

The extent to which we expand such police force to include additional officers will depend on whether and what type of contracts we enter into with other governmental units for emergency police coverage," said the council in the letter.

"However, before beginning talks with the county of other entities, we are contacting you to determine whether the Township Board is interested in such a contract...

Basinger, who is on the police committee with President Sharron Catallo and citizen volunteers Steve Sitar (a Pontiac police officer) and Paul Ormiston (an Auburn Hills police officer), told the council that the committee has already received three resumes for the new police job, which has been advertised.

The trustee said after the new officer is hired, plans for other officers and/or contracts with other police forces

Basinger estimated that the cost for the new protection would be $80,000. In addition, he said a police car with equipment would cost $17,000 (roughly $3,000 per year if the car lasts six years).

19 receive tenure

Nineteen teachers were presented with certificates from the Clarkston Board of Education after being granted tenure within the district.

Each teacher had to complete a two-year probationary period within the school system before receiving tenure status.

The 19 teachers recognized that night included: Linda Carson, Laura Cerretani, Karen Czarnecki, Elain Foley, Elizabeth Gifford, Anita Gillam, Lisa Graziano, Stacey Hoglund, Rhonda Irish, Lisa Jacobs, Becky Linder, Elizabeth Mestre, Jeffrey Peariso, Laura Phou, Paula Regep, Deanna Taylor, Linda Trzaskoma, Patti Young and Deborah Zonca.

The $80,000 is more than the current $61,693 paid for the contract with the township, but Basinger said the amounts of revenue the city's own officer would generate from issuing traffic tickets would most likely offset that additional cost, which would mean no extra cost to the taxpayers. The city would keep one-third of ticket reve-

Basinger said the new police setup would help in traffic control.

Builder gets chance at public safety complex

Residents accuse township of railroading public, thwarting bid process

BY CURT MCALLISTER Clarkston News Associate Editor

A local developer has persuaded the Independence Township Board to reconsider his plans for a new public safety complex.

This opportunity was awarded after a few area residents accused the township of deceiving the public April 7

That evening, the board was scheduled to vote on a final land purchase agreement and seek bids for three related items but ended up tabling the issues. The items included: the construction of a fire station, extension of Citation Drive and the building of a 3,000-square-foot substation for the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD).

These agenda items revolved around the township's impending purchase of the former First Federal Bank building near the intersection of M-15 and Dixie Highway. This building is scheduled to serve as a dual administration facility for the Independence Township Fire Department and the OCSD substation.

A 10,000-square-foot fire station has been proposed for the rear of the bank building, with land donated from pediatrician James O'Neilland orthodontist Chuck Munk. This new station will replace station No. 1, in Clarkston, which was sold to John Morgan three weeks ago.

Richard Ayres, Downtown Development Authority chairman and a Clarkston-area builder, accuses the township of operating under its own agenda.

At the meeting, he claimed the board — especially Supervisor Frank Ronk — was purposely bypassing alternative site plans for the public safety complex.

"I guarantee the township can do this project in a couple of different spots and save the township a whole lot of money," Ayres said. "When all is said and done, it's going to take a lot more money to build on this particular site. And there's a lot of people in this community who

"I don't know where you people come up with accusing this board of doing underhanded things. That's just not the case."

Supervisor Frank Ronk

know this "

Ayres said he submitted conceptual drawings for a new complex to a few of the board members but claimed the plans were ignored. Ayres' proposal would have the site located next to the 52nd District Courthouse. In addition to Ayres, Kieft Engineering and township resident Carol Rademacher claim stake to this property.

Ronk said said he received the drawings, but they were mere sketches. Trustee Jean Saile said she never saw the plans and blasted Ayres for not submitting them in a professional manner.

"If you're going to seriously bid this project, you'll have to bring some serious plans," she told Ayres at the meeting. "To come to us now is poor timing."

Despite Saile's and Ronk's remarks, the board voted 6-1 to table the matter and give Ayres and his partners a chance to submit a formal plan for the complex. Ronk voted against tabling the issue.

Citizens also questioned the board on rumors that the township intends to pay for the complex with money from the township's sewer fund. Ronk denied the rumor, saying the project would be paid for from the fire department's budget — via a 15-year installment purchase plan through a bank.

Township residents Neil Wallace and Rudy Lozano disagreed with this budgetary plan because they felt the township was side-stepping the public, which has already nixed two proposals for a new fire station.

"If the people vote no, they mean no," Lozano said.
"It's immaterial if this project falls under the constraints of the budget. You're going to obligate the taxpayers to the future costs of something they've already denied."

In response to these accusations, Ronk fired back in support of the township.

"I don't know where you people come up with accusing this board of doing underhanded things," Ronk said. "That's just not the case."

According to Treasurer John Lutz, the township will probably spend around $1.2 million on the new complex. Part of this total cost will include purchasing the bank building for $269,000.

Township Clerk Joan McCrary said the township will borrow the money from a bank to purchase the existing structure. This money will come out of the fire department's budget as well, she added.

Township officials hope to have the complex built within the year because of the fire department's one-year lease with John Morgan, who now owns station No. 1 on Church Street, Clarkston. However, Fire Chief Gar Wilson said Morgan has no problem with the fire department staying a little longer, if construction should linger.

PUD wins final OK; hotel complex coming

A new hotel is in the work. Independence Township, but residents will have to wait six or seven years for it to open.

On April 9, the Independence Township Planning Commission granted final site plan approval, paving the way for an inn that won't be built for at least six years.

The commission unanimously granted site plan approval for a planned unit development (PUD) on the north side of Andersonville Road, east of White Lake Road

A PUD is a rezoning tied to a specific site plan. It allows the township to restrict and closely supervise a single development with several types of land uses on the same parcel. This site is primarily zoned single family residential, except for a small section of the southwest corner, which is zoned light industrial.

The developer, Drew Peslar, intends to construct the $3.5 million Chanticleer Inn, which will include: a 60-seat dining area, several conference rooms and between 15 and 25 rooms for overnight accommodations. Four smaller cottages are also scheduled to be built on the 26-acre parcel, as well as tennis and croquet courts.

Encompassing a small a lake and extensive wetlands, the property is owned by Andersonville Road resident Dan Proctor, who intends to take his time developing the land.

Reporter's Notebook

A Clarkston-area resident has begun taking an interest in her "little piggy's" socialization skills.

Jodi Miller, 25, and her pet, P.J., are the newest additions to the dog obedience class at the Waterford CAI Building. This might not be so unusual if not for the fact that P.J. is an 8-month-old Vietnamese Potbellied Pig.

Miller, a pre-nursing student at Oakland University, Rochester, is trying to get P.J. to heed commands like her canine counterparts.

Who knows, maybe with a little practice, P.J. might eventually understand the true meaning of a "dog's life."

Items for Reporter's Notebook are compiled by Clarkston News staff members.

The first round of athletic-related letters appear this week — after much debate and soul searching on the part of Clarkston News staffers.

Sure, we've printed letters similar to these about various topics over the years. We handled them on a case-by-case basis. That meant we were sometimes inconsistent, depending on who edited the letters.

This last round of letters made us examine our decision-making, and we now have a policy that should help us be consistent whether the letters are about high school athletics or wetland ordinances.

Some have questioned why we should print certain opinions at all. But newspapers — though privately owned — are part of the community. Readers determine the tone of the opinions pages and, indeed, the types of stories we write.

The opinions pages are a sort of public forum and a way to exchange ideas. So we print all sorts of opinions - sometimes we agree with them, and sometimes we don't.

But for this recent round of letters, our concern centered mainly on two areas: 1) letters referring to stories that appeared in other newspapers and 2) letters mentioning names of children, who we define as those under age 18.

initially, our response to letters referring to stories in other newspapers was: "Send the letter to that newspaper." And that's as it should be.

However, sometimes a countywide or statewide topic is covered by a bigger paper, and a letter-writer lets us know how it will affect the Clarkston area. Or the writer will simply voice an opinion on that bigger

So we did not succumb to the impulse to automatically reject such letters. Instead, we'll evaluate each and accept general comments but not those that refer to specific points or allegations made in another newspaper.

As for the names of children, we'll be glad to print letters of praise about those under age 18. But negative letters will be edited to leave out the children's names and to make the reference generic enough that the identity won't be apparent.

We do this because we've heard — after the fact - how a public debate over abilities, skills, personalities and such has negatively affected a child.

Our debate on this included such points as: 1) If people are talking about a topic, the child will hear it regardless of whether it appears in the newspaper or not. 2) Criticism is part of growing up. 3) If you're criticizing only the adults who made the decisions about the children, it's OK to mention the kids' names. 4) People will figure out who the children are anyway, so why bother editing out names? 5) If we're not going to print all the facts, why bother at all? Our job, afterall, is to print facts, regardless of whether they reflect negatively or positively or neutrally.

Our answer to this question boiled down to Publisher Jim Sherman's more than 30 years in journalism. His philosophy: Children and their well being are more important than trivial facts and should be protected.

That's why we don't print the names of child molesters if they share the same name as the child victim. And that's why we leave out the names of juvenile criminals, except in extreme cases.

We would hope that adults would edit themselves — but time proves that isn't the case. So we'll do it for them.

Dispelling fire station myths

Editor's note: This is the first letter of a two-part

BY CHIEF GAR WILSON

As chief of your fire department, I am responsible for the safety and operations of this department. Yes, I do answer to the township board as a department head.

However, it is not these people trying to build a new fire complex — it is I. They are supporting me, for which I am most grateful. In my opinion, they have not made any bad or hasty decisions on this most important project, as I feel you will agree as you read on.

We have reports on file from the Community Planning and Management (1980), Public Administrative Service (1984), and McClurg and Associates (1980) regarding the condition, needs, locations, etc., for the Independence fire station, as well as municipal offices.

Improvements needed

These reports stated that the present conditions within the existing fire station No. 1 were in much need of correction. The list is as follows:

1. Truck exhaust. This exhaust travels through the entire building. To inhale hydrocarbon is unhealthy, not to mention unpleasant.

2. Poor heating and cooling conditions for offices and living quarters.

3. Overcrowded conditions in office areas, living quarters and apparatus bay. We should be able to house at least three additional pieces of apparatus due to station No. 1 being the busiest station by twice as much as the other two stations.

4. Washing of dishes and kitchen utensils in the

5. Parking facilities only allow seven vehicles on entire site.

6. Office space allows no privacy. Additional problems result with not being able to hear on the phone.

The township board or myself has not tried to hide anything. I have presented several sites and options to the board over the past three years, all to no avail.

This is normally handled in closed session until something becomes definite, due to negotiations for property. There have been problems with past sites along M-15 for one reason or another; so unbeknownst to all, the township board has scrutinized many sites before this selection.

Voters say no

The township board encouraged the residents to vote March 28, 1989, to approve a $1.5 million bond issue (which failed) to purchase and renovate an existing building on M-15 near I-75.

On Nov. 7, 1989, we went back to the voters for a $2 million bond issue (which also failed) to build a new station from scratch. This bond issue went up $500,000 because of the purchase of the land.

For whatever reason these issues failed, it did not change the fact that we still needed a new fire headquarters. It did tell us during these difficult times the majority of the voters did not want more taxes. This meant we had to pursue other avenues to achieve our goals.

Search for location

M-15 is an important key road that will give us a quick response to the areas to which station No. 1 responds. As everyone is aware, there isn't much available property along the M-15 corridor. The search continued with the people or properties listed below:

Property along M-15: A search for property along M-15, roughly from Cranberry Lake Road south to Dixie Highway. Meetings with Rudy Lozano and Vintage Construction, Forrest Milzow, Kieft Engineering, Dr. James O'Neill and the Rademacher Group for a build, lease-back situation failed due to financing and lack of

M-15 and Waldon Road: Could not gain support from the Village of Clarkston for a fire station on this site.

Former Pontiac dealership (M-15 near I-75): This building was planned to house the fire department, county sheriff department and Michigan State Police. Final plans and financing could not be obtained.

Former Country Value Hardware: The site of Country Value Hardware (M-15, just north of village) and the house directly behind it, along with the vacant land just south of Beverly's Florist. All procedures stopped due to costs.

Former First Federal Bank: Our last pursuit was the vacant building where the First Federal Bank was formerly located (in the New York Carpet World shopping center, M-15 and Dixie). The site is very narrow, and there was concern with fitting our buildings in. I then contacted Dr. O'Neill and questioned purchasing some of his property. He advised that a group of doctors would build our buildings and lease them back to us.

We proceeded with our township engineers to establish the property needs and the location of our building. The township board advised that we should obtain the necessary properties and build our own buildings, as well as obtain our own financing.

Gar Wilson is chief of the Independence Township Fire Department.

Athlete speaks up

While the Dugan Fife era at Clarkston was coming to an end, I found myself reading about events that happened to him two years ago, and I became very upset.

Why did the QB controversy have to be brought up again? In my frustration, I find myself writing now on behalf of other athletes in Clarkston.

Many times I had wanted to speak out about Clarkston politics and how it felt to be pulled as quarterback. However, I did not want to get involved. Nonetheless, I feel I'm involved now.

I did not understand, nor could I find any tangible evidence of any inability on my part to have continued to be QB of the team. I only wanted to play football, whatever position.

It really concerns me to hear of another similar situation involving a player on the basketball team.

My family and friends stood by me during this turbulent time, contrary to remarks quoting Dan Fife, stating the players were in his son's corner. Getting the opinion of one individual does not negate a fair assessment of the team as a whole.

My first concern is for future athletes of Clarkston and the battle they face with the politics, still continuing in Clarkston. Even a truly exceptional player will have a hard time competing. Parents of this community who vote for millages and bond issues should join and act together in a common purpose for the good of future athletes in Clarkston.

Secondly, comments revolving around the QB controversy in various newspapers should never have been mentioned. The content should have revolved around Dugan playing basketball, not football. However, I do not see the necessity or purpose of rehashing old controversies, opening old wounds and outstanding athletes being unrecognized, purely for the sake of glorifying the reign of the Fifes.

Dane E. Davis Central Michigan University student and Clarkston resident

Look at record

I agree with the sentiments expressed by the Combs family regarding coach Dan Fife. I have watched his progress through high school and college and was always impressed by his work ethic, the same work ethic he instills in his young players.

Apparently, it has paid off as you look at the GOAL basketball banner hanging in the gym. Many of these teams did not have skilled players, but they had players who played to the utmost of their ability. As the late Al Smith would say, "Let's look at the record."

Many lower-grade children are playing basketball, and if they work hard enough they could be fortunate enough to be coached by Dan Fife.

Stanley W. White

Pillar of strength

I wish people would first have an understanding of what they were talking about before being so judgmental.

Dan Fife is not only the best coach in Michigan, he is a great human being.

Being the parent of a graduated Clarkston basketball player (an undefeated GOAL year), I will admit I would have liked to have seen my son play more; however, Dan wants our young adults to be successful in everything they do. So he considers academic achievements and attitude along with ability when selecting whom will play.

All high school sports and music are not just for fun. They are a step into the future for many and a way of life for others.

Dan is not just a coach to his players. He is a friend, a counselor, a pillar of strength, as well as being very understanding and available whenever his players need him — and not just for basketball.

Clarkston has been blessed with some of the best coaches, instructors and teachers in the state. Let's not drive them away. We are proud of being No. 1, and it takes people like these to make us that way. I thank them all.

Beverly J. Lund

Discrimination apparent at CHS

It is with disappointment and concern that I heard about another controversy brewing in Clarkston this year involving an athlete of the basketball team.

Again, another athlete has proven himself and should have been given an equal opportunity to participate, but received unfair treatment. Two years ago, my son was involved in a similar situation.

Some players with great athletic ability are being discriminated against for the notoriety of an individual. We, as parents, should address our dissatisfaction with the coaching practices to the Clarkston Board of Education.

Coaches should display good sportsmanship, honesty and fair play. At this point, I am very displeased with the coaching process as witness at CHS for the past three years. The evident lack of positive encouragement and support of these young men, under the influence of coaches Mr. Fife and Mr. Richardson, is obvious.

The efforts of these young men are completely unrecognized, and I was extremely displeased with the experience my son had at the hands of Kurt Richardson with Dan Fife's persuasion.

Mrs. Georgia J. Miller

Flag issue not over patriotism

The recent debate over the approval of a 600-square-foot (20 feet by 30 feet) American flag at the Saturn North dealership at Dixie Highway and Lavon Drive has unfortunately mushroomed into an issue over patriotism.

This is an issue over maintaining the balance of residential and commercial property in the area and was not meant to question the patriotism of anyone.

Al Serra, owner of Saturn North, has earned the reputation as one of the area's most outstanding citizens. Nancy Strole, Collin Walls and all other officials of Springfield Township should also be commended as they serve this country at its most local level of government.

Even the citizens who wrote or called in their comments show the high level of patriotism in our community. The common theme that everyone has agreed to is that "Patriotism is not measured by the square footage of a flag."

Can this country's fundamental principle of compromise be used here by reducing the size of the flag to a still easily visible 300 square feet?

This may seem trivial to passing motorists. However, this would lessen the impact of all-night spotlights to the surrounding residents of Lavon, who in April 1990 made a far greater compromise when this property—then zoned residential—was rezoned to enable the construction of this dealership.

Since that time, Saturn North has proven to be a very responsible neighbor and will no doubt continue.

Regardless of the outcome of this issue, we must remember that the American flag symbolizes patriotism, and patriotism is an emotion felt by all. This is an issue over compromising, not a debate over patriotism.

Lifetime of freeloading

Jim Fitzgerald

One memorable day during my vacation I drove to Marco Island to see southwest Florida's most impressive 1992 tourist attraction. It was Terrible Jean, my much older sister, proudly perched high atop the summit of her long career as the world's most accomplished freeloader.

It previously has been recorded here why Terrible Jean never met a person she didn't regard as her lifelong best friend. This is because Terrible Jean never knows when she might require the bed-and-board hospitality of a best friend as she travels around the world, never sleeping at home, and never meeting a room clerk.

Whenever and wherever sundown approaches, and Terrible Jean needs a cocktail, food and bed, there is always a designated best friend handy and careless enough to open the front door without first peeking through the window curtains. Terrible Jean has been the guest of people she met in checkout lines, on elevators and at stoplights.

Usually her host's accommodations rank anywhere between bare and beautiful. Terrible Jean never complains about a lumpy mattress because she realizes and accepts the risks inherent in being a tourist on the blind dole. Her only tactic aimed toward assuring an indoor toilet is she never exchanges addresses with panhandlers and bag ladies. Unless, of course, the bag lady and Terrible Jean attended college together, during the Lincoln administration.

This winter, on the second of three visits to Florida, Terrible Jean hit the mother of all mother lodes. An old best friend and her husband recently purchased a multimillion-dollar home on the Gulf of Mexico on Marco Island. The husband is a Detroit area lawyer whose name and famous clients you would undoubtedly recognize if I printed them. But I won't, because Terrible Jean promised to tear off my head if I did.

It should be noted that Terrible Jean has a commanding presence. To stay in her good graces, not to mention upright, everybody tends to follow her suggestions. Recently, for example, after dinner in a fancy restaurant, the valet parker delivered our car to the entrance and Terrible Jean commanded: "We'll sit three in front and three in back."

Under her supervision, we all began shuffling around, attempting to do as ordered. But it turned into an awkward situation because there were only five people in our party

To avoid crossing Terrible Jean, the valet parker volunteered to go home with us.

So that's how the Freedom of the Press crumbles. The identity of the owner of Terrible Jean's freeloading summit is withheld, cowardly. I will only say that when the lawyer opens the medicine chest in his private bathroom, he sees a TV set, so he won't get-bored shaving.

Also, for avoiding the few steps between the home's several levels, there's a private elevator. And telephones in the auditorium-sized clothes closets, huge movie screens dropping out of the ceiling, countless porches, balconies, bathrooms, indoor forests, pools and so on. I wanted to congratulate the owners on providing the zenith of Terrible Jean's sleep overs, but she said they weren't home.

Six other residents also weren't home during our tour. Only Terrible Jean - our exuberant guide - was present. It seemed strange. I kept expecting to stumble upon a secret cellar full of people bound and gagged by Terrible Jean for threatening to introduce her to a room clerk.

Onward and Upward, and never forget to peek through the window curtains.

Unfair coaches

In 1988, it was one family, in 1989, another, and in 1992, yet another family is unhappy with the coaching practices of Dan Fife. In 1989 and 1989, Kurt Richardson was involved with the unfair treatment of two players on his football team.

Parents of Clarkston athletes and future athletes need to implore to the Clarkston Board of Education their concerns. Again, another player receives unfair treatment by a coach.

Favoritism and preferential treatment of some players over others should be investigated. This situation in Clarkston should not be allowed to continue. It's time Clarkston parents ask for a re-evaluation of Dan Fife as Kurt Richardson, the football coach, should also be re-evaluated. I agree with Mr. Griffiths' article in a previous edition of The Clarkston News regarding Kurt Richardson. He can't be compared to other football coaches within the GOAL. Coach Jon Brown at Pontiac Northern personally drives his players to various colleges, out of state. He does whatever is necessary to help his players earn scholarships. So many of our fine athletes aren't getting the recognition they deserve.

Voters deserve voice in fire hall

The reality of the township's recent maneuvering is even more incredible than the shenanigans outlined here

The Downtown Development Authority of Indedence Township (DDA) has voted to use its fund to install a public road (with sewers and water) all the way from M-15 through to Dixie Highway behind the shopping center. The announced purpose is to access the planned new fire hall, which has not been approved by the public and for which there is no funding.

Yet the money the DDA will use is tax dollars diverted from our schools with the avowed purpose of restoring our "Downtown" (Dixie Highway?) and foster tax-paying business, thus creating more revenue in the

It isn't difficult to see this scheme can't work where the road, etc., is to serve a public building that will never be on the tax rolls. And if this fire hall isn't built, there is only one private property owner who is benefited.

Aside from the odd notion that Dixie Highway is somehow a "downtown," enhanced by the added clutter of even more light poles, etc., ... and, aside from the advisability of a scheme that diverts much-needed funds from our schools, this expenditure of tax dollars cannot reap near enough benefits from a tax-exempt use or the development of a sole property owner to justify its approval.

In a time when the public demands increasingly tight budgets at every level of government, the "powers that be" in this community are turning the need for a fire hall into an extravagance. There are certainly alternatives to spending this much money from these sources. Somehow pressure must be brought to demand prudence.

At an absolute minimum, the people should have a direct voice in such an important matter. Instead, they are faced with these schemes to avoid a taxpayer's fundamental right to participate in significant decisions. If the public is not to have a direct voice, then it must demand accountability from elected officials who act as though they are immune from public sentiment. We cannot take this out on the schools, because the school board has gotten the message and scaled down their millage request to match the genuine need. That school millage deserves our support.

Rather, it is time the citizens of this community realize that we all have a vested interest in everything that happens in our local government, not just what happens in our neighborhood. We cannot wait for 500-acre gravel pits or any two-story hotels to pay attention to what's going on at township hall ... and only then do something about it.

It is not too late, if we do something now.

Warm thanks

On behalf of the students at Clarkston Elementary School, we would like to warmly thank all the volunteers who put so much time and effort into our Festival of Science on April 3.

As the organizers of the day, we've received quite a number of thank-yous. But without the help of the community, this day would not nor could not have happened. Many area business people took the day off from their jobs, without any compensation from us, and donated their time in over 21 hands-on science workshops.

Our students took part in activities beyond textbooks. They explored the stars, did a kidney transplant, took impressions of their teeth, learned about recycling, photography, exotic animals, how crystals are formed and so much more.

Costs for materials and assemblies came from the generous support of our Parent Teacher Organization and the Clarkston Foundation.

Our thank-yous to everyone who helped sound so small by comparison. We want this community to know how great we can be when we all work together.

Softball team battles two of state's best

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI Clarkston News Staff Writer

A young Clarkston varsity softball team led the defending Class A state champs for two innings, but the Waterford Kettering Captains

Waterford Kettering isn't ready to give up its Class A state championship, let alone a loss to a young Clarkston squad.

The defending state champion Captains trailed the Wolves 3-2 after two innings but stormed back for a 13-4 win.

The loss dropped Clarkston's overall record to 2-3 and evened its Greater Oakland Activities League mark to 2-2. Kettering improved to 3-1 overall and 1-1 in the league.

Kettering only outhit the Wolves 8-6, but three Clarkston errors in the fourth inning opened the floodgates for four Captain runs in the fourth inning and a bundle of walks in the sixth inning brought five more Captains home,

Clarkston manager Al Land, whose daughter played for the Kettering state champs last season, said "mental mistakes" were the Wolves' downfall.

But Land is optimistic about the future of his young team, which comprise two seniors, eight juniors and six sophomores.

"They're coming along," said Land, who said his team will give the Captain plenty of problems in the future. Of course, he hopes that future begins on May 7, the next time the Wolves face Kettering.

Sophomore Shanna Greene paced the Wolves with two singles, one RBI and three stolen bases.

Alyson McChesney, Heather Austin, Kristi Bailey and Laura Seitz each singled. McChesney, Bailey and Anne Brueck each drove in a run.

Austin (2-3) took the loss, allowing eight hits and eight runs in five innings. Reliever Erin Patterson gave up five runs and four walks in two innings of work.

CLARKSTON 12, Pontiac Northern 0 (April 9 at Pontiac - 2nd game)

Heather Austin and Erin Patterson combined for a perfect game and the Wolves took advantage of 11 walks as Clarkston mercied Pontiac Northern, 12-0, in five innings.

Austin (2-2) struck out four Huskies in three innings and Patterson whiffed five in two innings.

"There were a lot of walks and timely hitting," said Clarkston manager Al Land.

The Wolves sandwiched those 11 walks with five hits. Alyson McChesney smacked two singles and drove in three teammates. Annie MacDonald had one single and two RBI. Austin tripled and Lisa Goforth singled.

Clarkston also gave Northern headaches on the basepaths with some headfirst sliding. Shanna Greene stole three bases and Laura Seitz stole two.

CLARKSTON 16, Pontiac Northern 1 (April 9 at Pontiac - 1st game)

Annie MacDonald's grand slam and six RBI helped Clarkston crush Pontiac Northern, 16-1, in the opener of a double-header.

MacDonald, a senior outfielder, also had a single and scored three runs.

The big inning for Clarkston in the mercy-shortened five-inning game came in the third when the Wolves touched home plate 10 times.

Northern pitchers walked 17 Wolves. The Huskies could only manage two hits off starter and winner Heather Austin (1-2). Austin pitched the first five innings, allowed one run and struck out seven. Erin Patterson hurled in the last inning, walking one and striking out two.

In addition to MacDonald's hitting, Shanna Greene stroked a single and had two RBI and Alyson McChesney singled with one RBI. Austin had a triple and Lisa Rotundo singled.

Missy Phillips had three RBI without getting a hit. She walked with the bases loaded three times.

Brandon 12, CLARKSTON 0 (April 6 at Clarkston)

Clarkston held one of the state's top Class B teams scoreless for four innings, but the Brandon Blackhawks burst for 12 runs in the last three innings in a 12-0 shutout of the Wolves.

"The score wasn't indicative of how close the game was. We were playing an excellent game," said Clarkston manager Al Land about his team's efforts the first four innings. "We were playing like I think we're capable of playing."

The Wolves faced some tough pitching. Singles by Shanna Greene and Heather Austin were Clarkston's only two hits.

Austin (0-2) suffered the loss, allowing six hits and six runs in six innings. She didn't walk a batter and struck out three Blackhawks. Sophomore Erin Patterson, who has much speed but is working on her control, pitched for the first time in varsity action. She gave up six runs in one inning, walking four and striking out one.

Lakeland 9, CLARKSTON 3 (April 3 at Lakeland)

Host Lakeland scored five runs in the first inning and the Wolves never caught up, in Clarkston's season opener.

The Wolves helped Lakeland with the quick five runs via two errors and a walk.

"It was the first game. They were a bundle of nerves," said Clarkston manager Al Land.

Clarkston trimmed Lakeland's lead to 5-2 in the top of the fourth but the hosts scored twice in the bottom of the fourth and then two more times in the sixth.

Kristi Bailey's double and Annie MacDonald's single were the only two hits for Clarkston.

Heather Austin (0-1) pitched all six innings, giving up six hits while walking and striking out one.

Ex-Wolves help OCC hoops

Two Clarkston High School graduates recently completed a season of basketball action as starters for the Oakland Community College Raiders.

Darin Brandt, a 5-10 guard, finished his second year at OCC leading the Raiders in assists (5.37 per game). Brandt also scored 101 points (4.7 ppg) and led the team in free throw percentage (78.3 %).

Raider head coach Lynn Reed liked Brandt's ball handling.

"Darin made it difficult to press against us," said Reed about the 1989 graduate.

Knight, a 6-6 forward in his first year with the Raiders, was the team's second best rebounder (7.96 per game) and he scored 163 points (7.03 ppg).

"Bill did an excellent job for us. He's a good asset to the team," said Reed about the 1990 Clarkston graduate.

Reed said the former Wolves have good court skills.

"They both have good awareness out there," said Reed.

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI Clarkston News Staff Writer

A 4-run first inning lifted Clarkston to an 11-4 victory over Waterford Kettering April 13.

The win increased the Wolves' Greater Oakland Activities League record to 4-0 and overall mark to 5-2.

"They got in trouble right away," said Clarkston manager Roy "Pops" Warner about the Captains. "We got in trouble, too, but we got out of it."

Kettering loaded the bases in the top half of the first but failed to score.

The Captains, however, did cut their deficit to 4-3 in the top of the fourth but the Wolves countered with three in their fourth and then two more apiece in the fifth and sixth innings.

Kevin Mull (2-0) picked up the victory, allowing four hits and three runs in five innings. He struck out and walked six. Eric Ryan earned the save, giving up one hit, one run, two walks and fanning five in two innings.

Senior Mark White banged out a double, two singles and drove in a run to pace the Wolves in their 9-hit attack.

Matt Underwood had a pair of singles and two RBI. Chris Combs singled and had two RBI. Tom Doyon, Scot Matusz and Jason Jarvis each singled and had one RBI. Matt Seitz also added two RBI.

The Captains helped Clarkston by walking nine Wolves, including Brent Bundridge three times.

Warner is happy with his team's earlyseason performance.

"We're scoring runs when we have to," said Warner. "And our defense is better than I expected."

The Clarkston manager expected a strong pitching staff and it hasn't let him down.

"As time goes along, we hope it will get even better," said Warner, expecting some his pitchers to soon be throwing complete games.

Warner's 'Wolves World' pitching staff already has hurled a no-hitter, 1-hitter, 3-hitter and 4-hitter in the first seven games of the season.

Board denies rezoning of 424 acres in Springfield

BY DENNIS V. CARTER Clarkston News Staff Writer

In a battle between man and trees, trees won in Springfield Township April 8.

The township board voted 5-1 to deny the rezoning of 424 acres at the end of Woodlane Trail, east of Hillsboro. Supervisor Collin Walls abstained because his wife had real estate connections adjacent to the parcel in the southwest quadrant of the township, bordering White Lake Township.

Clerk J. Calvin Walters voted against the motion to deny approval. Voting yes were Treasurer Lois Stiles and trustees Margaret Bloom, Charles Oaks, Nancy Strole and Dennis Vallad.

Developer Del Lohff and two others requested the change from single-family residential zoning with 2.5acre-minimum lot sizes to single-family residential zoning with 1.5-acre-minimum lot sizes.

Strole explained that the County Coordinating Committee (CCC) recommended denial because: the rezoning request did not meet guidelines set by the master Walters said he favored the rezoning and noted that the master plan was only a guideline. The proposed rezoning was close enough to those guidelines, he said.

The developer said the rezoning was necessary. "It is almost impossible to sell these lots," Lohff said. "With the 2.5-acre zoning, it is close to impossible to get a return on the investment."

But according to Stole, the land is filled with wetlands, lakes and steep slopes, along with unique natural

Man critical after water tower fall

BY DENNIS V. CARTER Clarkston News Staff Writer

A construction worker is in "very critical" condition after falling some 60 feet from the top of a water tower on Dixie Highway, Independence Township, April 14.

James L. McDonnola, 42, of Livionia, Mo., fell some 60 feet inside of the new water tower near White Lake Road after he was knocked off the top of the tower. Apparently, the accident occurred when part of the boom used to position pipe collapsed.

A special high-angle rescue team extracted the fallen worker, according to Independence Township Fire Chief Gar Wilson.

"A year ago we sent six people to a special class on high-angle rescue," he said. "They first stablized him and then used a Stokes stretcher (basket) to get him out."

Witnesses said the man had been inside the tower where he had fallen for about 10 minutes before the fire department was called, said Wilson.

"We recieved the call at 12:53 p.m., and they had him out of the tower on the ground by 2:41 p.m.," Wilson said

McDonnola, an employee of Chicago Bridge and Iron Co. of Chicago, was in very critical condition Tuesday at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital with serious head wounds, contusions and abrasions.

Construction began last month on the $680,000 half-million-gallon water tower — the first in the township.

Nurse volunteers in Laos and Davisburg area

BY LISA NIXON

A recent trip to southeast Asia has an area volunteer and nurse working even harder, hoping to return.

After six weeks in Laos, Charlotte McDonald returned to her Rose Township home to continue with mission work, to raise money and to collect medicine.

McDonald spent Nov. 17 through Dec. 22, 1991, in Laos, a country the size of Oregon, found between Thailand and Vietnam, said McDonald.

'Four million people live there, in abject poverty,' said McDonald, who served as a nurse for a medical team from Point Main International Ministries for World Aid. She was the only woman to go with the group and was also the only Michigan representative.

After a 30-hour flight to Bangkok, where World Aid is based, the team spent five days traveling to their camp.

Wednesday April 15, 1992

Once there, team members spent a lot of time sorting and cataloging the 15 trunks of medicine they had brought.

The team headed for the mountains and jungle, to the villages. At each village, the medical team tried to teach doctors, nurses and medical personnel; inoculate children; treat the sick; and work on hospitals and medical facilities.

We got up about 5 a.m. and headed up to the hospital to load the trucks," McDonald said. "The villagers were expecting us, so we would hold our clinics for several hours, then head out."

The team would cover four to five villages a day, McDonald said.

"When we returned to our camp in the evening, we would restock and catalog for the next day," she said. "It got dark there early. And we only got a couple of hours of electricity for light because it is a communist country.

"Each day seems like a week; each week seems like a month there," McDonald said. "There's no niceties. It's a very hard life there. It makes you more thankful for what you have and to be an American."

The high point of the trip for McDonald was seeing all the children and being able to give them candy and balloons. "I got to see the smiles on their faces," she said. "It was easy to feel homesick and wonder why you're there. That (the smiles) helped you know the reason you were there.

Leaving without feeling finished with the job at hand was the low point of the trip, McDonald said.

"There was nothing to work with there," she said. "I felt frustrated looking at this child and not having anything to work with."

McDonald also felt frustration with the language and cultural barriers.

"I wanted to teach them, so I did a lot of pointing and gesturing," she said. "Since our goals is to teach them to do things correctly, we have to win these people over as friends before they will listen. They are very stubborn, and they don't want to change."

Currently, she's raising money to return for a three-month mission in November.

McDonald thinks about the chance to return to Thailand or Laos and help again. "I feel a need to go over there and teach and help them," she said. "If I could be just a small part, ... I think it would be worthwhile. I feel a genuine desire to go help them."

McDonald tried to raise funds immediately after her return from her first trip. But she couldn't raise enough money by the Feb. 15 trip.

"Maybe it's not the right time to go," said McDonald. "The Lord supplies you with the money when it is the right time."

Now McDonald is trying to raise money and collect nedicine for World Aid in November — the next time medical teams will be sent and the time they will be safe from monsoon season.

McDonald is also one of three Michigan leaders for Homefront, a family outreach program of Point Man ministries. Homefront chapters are led by vet spouses, mothers or siblings, who have experienced the "war at home."

These women minister and support on a one-to-one basis and in small groups on a weekly basis. McDonald also produces a newsletter.

'A Homefront leaders is, in simplest terms, a lady with a phone who is willing to talk with a wife, sister or mother of a veteran," McDonald explained.

McDonald enjoys helping people and would like to expand her circle.

"I would like to counsel anyone for anything," McDonald said. "My goal for the future is to be in a ministry of my own and to do a little writing."

Lisa Nixon, a former Clarkston News intern, resides in Orion Township.

Groups reach out at home and away

Volunteers are welcome in the groups that missionary Charlotte McDonald belongs to.

Point Man Ministries is a non-profit, veteran-forveterans support organization dedicated to providing Christian answers to the problems endured by soldiers.

"It's a biblical counseling outfit," McDonald explained, adding that the group supports all veterans of all wars and eras.

For more information on Point Man Ministries, call or write to: Gary Drinkard, 2834 Lansdowne, Waterford, MI 48329 (666-8756).

World Aid, Inc., is a non-profit organization working in third world countries providing medical aid and assistance. It was founded two years ago by Robert Taylor, a veteran.

'He had a burden on his heart," said McDonald. For more information on World Aid, call or write to Phillip K. Israelson, P.O. Box 1175, Gig Harbor, Washington, D.C. 98335 (206/851-3043).

For more information about Homefront, call McDonald at (313) 634-3508, or write to Point Man Ministries of Holly at 4440 Cogshell, Holly, MI 48442.

As a volunteer, McDonald did not receive a salary for the trip to Laos. But to go, she raised $2,000 to $2,500, with about $1,000 coming from Faith Baptist Church of Waterford, where McDonald is a member.

"They were behind me 100 percent," said McDonald. "They were the main force behind me. I always wanted to be a missionary."

It wasn't long ago that McDonald went to her minister to discuss being a missionary. He told her to

"Two years later I went to Laos." McDonald said. McDonald also received money and help from First General Baptist Church and Point Man Ministries,

TA honors four contributors

Three Clarkston-area residents and a principal were recently honored for their contributions to youngsters.

The Clarkston Junior High School Parent Teacher Association gave the awards in April to pediatrician James O'Neill, Donald Kevern, Merelyn Mallett, and Principal Vincent Licata.

The PTA Distinguished Service Award — the highest a local PTA unit can give to a community member recognizes extraordinary contribution to children and youth in the community.

Dr. James O'Neill

O'Neill, a pediatrician in the Clarkston area for 31 years, is chief of staff of North Oakland Medical Center. He also is on the staff of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac Osteopathic and Huron Valley Hospital. In addition, he has provided medical care to the Jesuits at Columbiere Center, Springfield Township, for 30 years.

O'Neill is a member of the Michigan State Licensing Board and is on the medical boards of Oakland and Wayne counties and the State of Michigan.

Founded the Clarkston Ambulatory Care Center, he is director of the Clarkston Foundation and a long-time advocate of Clarkston children and schools. His sixth child is a senior at Clarkston High School.

O'Neill encouraged the formation of the Clarkston Junior High PTA and has supported its efforts to bring worthwhile presentations to parents and students by lending his expertise to the AIDS presentation in November 1991.

Donald Kevern

Also to receive an award was Donald Kevern, who resides in Independence Township with his wife, Chris. A lifetime resident of the Clarkston area, he and his wife have two daughters who were graduated from Clarkston schools. Kevern is on the staff of Clarkston United Methodist Church and is active with the community youth. He was honored in 1989 as outstanding educator of the year. For 22 years he was a teacher and middle school principal in the West Bloomfield school district.

Merelyn Mallett

A third award recipient was Merelyn Mallett, who is married and has three children who attended Clarkston schools. She is secretary of the Clarkston Area Youth Assistance, as well, as chairwoman of its Education Committee. Each month she hosts a luncheon in her home for representatives from all Clarkston area PTOs to share information and ideas between the organizations.

The awards are presented to these individuals because of their outstanding efforts to promote the health and welfare of Clarkston area children and youth and because of their distinguished leadership in the community and in recognition of their direct support and encouragement of the Clarkston Junior High PTA, according to PTA representatives.

Vincent Licata

A special recognition was also given to Vincent Licata, Clarkston Junior High principal. The Michigan PTA Honorary Lifetime Membership Award is the highest award a local unit can give an actual member. Licata is unceasing in his effort to support the PTA Board and its members at CJHS, according to PTA officials.

QUESTION: What is title insurance and how does it work?

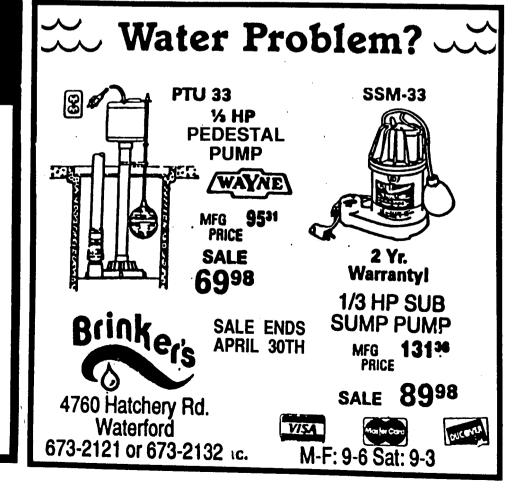

ANSWER: Title insurance spares the buyer from parting with his purchase money and THEN discovering a flaw in the title. Public title records are not always completely accurate. There may be errors or omissions in recording deeds or mortgages, assessments and judgments. Title insurance protects the buyer against "clouds" in the title to the property-but only against undisclosed defects, not those KNOWN at the time the policy is issued. There is only a one-time premium and coverage continues as long as you or your heirs hold title to the property.

TITLE INSURANCE protects you from hidden defects in the title that could affect your ownership.

This former Clarkston educator started her own tutorial service last September. She's been tutoring elementary students, unofficially, for the past four years.

Place said she decided to start her own in-home service to alleviate the strains of working two part-time jobs. As of three years ago, she was working for the Oakland Literacy Council and the Living Science Foun-

However, 50- and 60-hour weeks were taking their toll, so she fell back on her teaching roots. Place has 18 years of instructional experience in the fields of general education, adult education and special education. She was also a trustee of the Clarkston school board for 16

Place owns a master's degree in special education from Wayne State University, Detroit, and a bachelor's of science degree in elementary education from the University of New York at Potsdam.

Place said she enjoys tutoring elementary-age children because it allows her to mold a child's study habits.

'I get a great sense of reward working one-on-one with children," she said. "With a little reinforcement, any child has the ability to learn. It's just a matter of gauging their learning styles and tutoring accordingly."

Place said her $15-per-hour tutoring service provides students with a casual environment. All sessions take place in the office of her Chickadee Lane, Independence Township, home.

"I think the change of environment is conducive to them learning," she said. "At school, they spend all day in a classroom, and they deserve the right to unwind a bit. In my home, they can study in a chair, on a couch or on the Place presently tutors four children. Each student participates in hour-long sessions, twice a week.

Place accepted these students into her program after they took a series of diagnostic tests, which help gauge present knowledge in the areas of reading, writing and comprehension. Afterwards, Place goes over the test results with their parents and sets up individual goals and objectives for each child.

After a 10-week period, Place evaluates the child's progress. And if the parents are unhappy with the results, they are only charged for the cost of the diagnostic tests.

So far, Place said, all her students parents have been sfied with the results. Place said her tutoring practices revolve around the students' school work and a variety of learning games. She said these games help young children build self-esteem and confidence. She also gives out small rewards when a student excels during their tutoring session. These rewards are usually in the shape of a small toy or trinket.

I want the kids to feel success, especially when you' consider that they're so accustomed to failure," she said. Place said the most gratifying part of her new job is seeing her students succeed.

'It's a terrific feeling when one of my students comes to me with a paper in his or her hand saying, 'Look what I did on my spelling test, Mrs. Place," she said, smiling. "It's moments like this that make all your efforts seem worthwhile."

Cents against censorship

Bills in the Michigan Legislature have prompted booksellers to join forces against censorship.

The Village Bookstore on Main Street, Clarkston, is taking part in "Cents Against Censorship," a joint effort by booksellers statewide to raise funds to defeat censorship bills in the Legislature.

On Saturday, April 18, Village Bookstore will contribute 10 cents of every dollar in sales to the campaign and encourages its regular customers and all other citizens concerned about freedom of expression and the increasing efforts to restrict that freedom to make a special point of doing their book shopping on that day.

Also available are a petition, information on the legislation and how to contact legislators, and a statement by American Radio Theater host Garrison Keillor, who has spoken out in support of the booksellers' position.

Store owner Georgene Sloan invites patrons to check out these materials whenever they're in the store. She also points out that a "Cents Against Censorship" canister at the checkout allows individuals to contribute to the anticensorship fight any time they're in the store, whether they can come in in April 18 or not.

Sizzling!

Readers fired up for books

Given a little encouragement, Bailey Lake Elementary pupils positively sizzled during a reading program at the school.

During March, pupils participated in "Let's Get Hot on Reading," where pupils logged the number of books they read, and each class' accumulated reading time was monitored on a "thermometer."

The school goal — at 15 minutes of reading per - was 3,500 hours of reading for the month of March. But the pupils exceeded all expectations and tallied 7,059 hours and 53 minutes of reading for the

"We were real impressed," said parent Linda Mehaffey, chairwoman of the program.

In addition to the joy that comes from reading itself, pupils also were encouraged with raffle drawings for gift certificates, ice cream, books and other items — thanks to generous donations from community members, said Mehaffey.

All mail deposited before midnight into specially marked collection boxes at the Clarkston office will receive the April 15 postmark.

The office is at 5886 Ortonville Road, Independence Township.

For speediest delivery, taxpayers are advised to use the pre-printed envelopes enclosed in their tax booklets, or print or type the addresses on an envelope. For complete addresses, use capital and lower-case letters of the alphabet; and omit periods, commas and apostrophes to separate the city, state and ZIP code.

Rush Road Reports Ey Don Rush

Eldorado is stylish, responsive

a thrill to a guy whose first car was an has been improved with the addition of orange, 1972 Vega Station Wagon by Cheverolet.

Two: in 1991, when I test drove a number of Cadillacs, I wasn't overly impressed.

Three: 1992 is a different year. Already this year I've had a chance to drive two, the award winning Seville STS (written for a later date) and the 1992 Eldorado Touring Sedan. Both vehicles are as Cadillacs are supposed to be --

I took the Eldorado on a 600 mile, weekend trip, four and a half hours each way, and I'm glad I drove it. This car was meant for such cruises.

The engine is the 4.9 Liter, V8 model. Not wanting to be run off I-94, and have the task of calling up the folks at Cadillac and reporting their car was scratched or broken, I opted to keep up with traffic. The average speed was 75 miles per hour (occassionally there was a need to hit warp speeds of 80-85). Top speed for the Cadillac is 120 mph. To make sure of this, it's computer contolled.

The ride was smooth as silk. There was no shake. No wind noise -- only the distinguished, rich sounds of Francis Albert Sinatra pouring out the speakers, via compact disc. I'll admit I felt like some vuppster, big wig, tooling up and down the highway in the Eldorado.

I avearaged 22.8 miles per gallon for the trip.

Engineers have added a tubular steel transmission mount to the Eldorado to

I'll have to confess a couple of things reduce transmission shake and to reduce the amount of torque steer normally assoi-One: the chance to drive any Cadillac is cated with front-wheel-drive. Cowl shake another tubular steel bar running the width of the vehicle under the instrument panel.

The ride was enhanced by a very comfortable enterior -- leather seats (what else did you expect) with power recliners and power lumbar adjustments. Another bonus, and it's only a little one, but noticeable by the driver, is the floor shifter. Instead of the handle being square to the shifter bar, it's angled 20 degrees towards the driver. It's a more natural feel. Like I said, it's a little thing, but nice.

There's plenty of room inside for five passengers to sit in comfort. Trunk space is ample at 15.3 cubic feet.

And, how could I not mention the body styling. I like it, it's slick and it comes with chrome. Yep, something people forget now-a-days, good old chrome. There's a wide strip that runs down both sides that really adds accent to the car. Needless to say the chrome sits well with Traditionally, Cadillacs are for older folks. The Eldorado fits that bill, but this car is for younger types. If you're in the mood for a prestige ride, Eldorado's for

Highlights: chrome, and new spark plugs that only need to be replaced every 100,000 miles

STATE MOREL CROP SPROUTS 4 FESTIVALS

Michigan's crop of luscious morel mushrooms is renown. Approximately 500,000 morel lovers roam state woods and forests every May in search of the elusive mushrooms. Four statewide festivals celebrate the morel season in Michigan, MOREL HUNTING TIPS: Search at ground level beneath leaves and underbrush, near hardwood trees, old orchards and tree stumps. Cut morels at the base - never pull them out of the ground. Pick only unblemished morels and place them in a paper bag. Hunt with an experienced guide to avoid picking poisonous 'false' morels. Cook morels before eating.
