City-township talks begin

Police coverage not discussed

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Independence Township and Clarkston Village officials broke the ice at a special meeting May 13, but some items remain to be thawed out.

The township refused to negotiate an extended police contract, but fire protection, library services, Deer Lake Beach use and building permit fees were discussed.

Fire protection was to be discussed again at a special 5 p.m. Tuesday, May 19, meeting at the village hall.

The village and township have been at odds with each other ever since the village decided to put the issue of cityhood on the ballot. Village voters passed that measure, and cityhood will begin July 1 but the township still has a pending court case against the change.

"I think it's probably a good idea that these two bodies meet," said township Supervisor Frank Ronk, opening the meeting at the township office.

Village President Sharron Catallo said the village

Ceremony marks Memorial Day

Memorial Day will be marked in Clarkston by a short parade through the streets in Lakeview Cemetery. The parade will include the Clarkston High School marching band, the Clarkston Fire Department, the Clarkston Police Department, the Clarkston American Legion Post No. 63 and Chief Pontiac Post No. 577. Residents in Independence Township, invite all community residents to join in honoring those veterans who gave their lives in service to their country.

Post Commander Milburn Brown requests that no horses, autos or decorated bikes enter the parade because of the solemn purpose of the day.

The program at the cemetery includes the "National Anthem," the Clarkston High School Marching Band, Invocation, "America the Beautiful," Roll Call of the Deceased Veterans, "Battle Hymn of the Republic," Gettysburg Address, "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," Presentation of Memorial Wreath, Rifle Volley, Taps, Benediction.

Members of the Campbell-Richmond Post No. 63, American Legion, are to post flags on the graves of veterans at Lakeview Cemetery on May 24.

A special day to honor those who died in defense of their country was first established in 1868 and was called Decoration Day.

In 1968, Congress and President Johnson changed it to the last Monday in May to make a weekend holiday now called Memorial Day.

Status quo for Deer Lake, unknown for fire

requested the meeting to maintain an open dialogue with the township, dispel rumors and make proposals for continuation of contracts.

Catallo began by dismissing two rumors. "We have no intention of annexation," said Catallo. The subject of annexation was again brought up later in the meeting, and village Trustee William Basinger restated the village's position.

"The bottom line is we don't want any more territory. It's antithetical to what we're doing," said Basinger. Catallo said the second rumor she wanted to clear up was the village taking up to $500,000 of the township's assets as a result of the change to cityhood. Catallo said that figure would be closer to $100,000.

"If we win (the pending lawsuit), we want minimum of change. And we want to cooperate in the future," said Catallo.

The first contract extension item the village began to discuss with the township was police protection.

While Catallo and Basinger tried to clear up an exact monetary figure for such services, it was cut short by township Clerk Joan McCrary, who said, "At the last board meeting, we agreed to not discuss contracted police protection."

"That was the majority opinion," added township Trustee Daniel Travis.

The township, however, was willing to discuss the village's request for extended fire protection.

Basinger said the village wants that protection but questioned why its current $61,928 charge would rise to a projected $98,378, which was quoted previously by township fire Chief Gar Wilson.

Township members said the cost is based on per capita spread and the number of fire calls.

Basinger questioned the village paying $1,041 per fire call, especially with about half of those runs being "lockouts," when people lock their keys in their cars.

Basinger asked the township officials if the village/city could contract for full fire services without the lockout service, thus lowering the per call/cost ratio.

"This (township fire department) is one of the few places that do lockouts," said Catallo.

"What we're discussing here (is) what is the real cost?" asked Basinger.

Township trustee Bruce Mercado said fire Chief Wilson has to look at the big picture.

"Gar said, 'This is what it costs me to provide the protection,'" said Mercado.

Travis said much will depend on Wilson. "If he's rigid, he's rigid. He is the contractor," said Travis.

Both sides agreed that the matter needs more discussion and set up a May 19 meeting. In attendance at that meeting will be Wilson and the township's Travis, Mercado and Jean Saité and the village's Catallo, Basinger and Doug Roëser.

Two other contract extensions that will be addressed at a future meeting (possibly June 15 at the township) will be for the library and building fees.

Basinger questioned why the current 1.0088 mills for library services has been projected to increase to 1.5 mills. One-and-a-half mills is $1.50 for every $1,000 assessed property valuation. For instance, the owner of a $100,000 home assessed at half the market value ($50,000) would pay $75 per year for library services.

"A 50 percent increase seems excessive," said Basinger.

"I think it's for the debt for the new library," said township Treasurer John Lutz.

Basinger said the new city should "pay more" than township residents for contracted services because of an additional administrative cost but said the 50 percent increase is unreasonable.

Basinger also said he thought the village has been overpaying for building permit fees. He said the village pays over $300 per permit.

Catallo pointed out that the village rarely has any new houses built and most permits are used for smaller additions, such as porches.

McCrary said, "Everything's the same, whether it's the porch or something else."

The contract for parks and recreation was barely discussed, but it was determined that the township's contract with Deer Lake Beach continues until Oct. 1, 1993.

"We will honor that contract," said Ronk.

A story in last week's Clarkston News should have said that if voters OK a three-mill fire renewal, the owner of a $100,000 home would continue to pay $150 a year for fire protection.

THE VERGINS' 125 acres of dairy farm land includes a pond, trees and gentle swells of land on Scott Road, Springfield Township. Lloyd Vergin's great-grandfather, John Vergin, first began farming in the Davisburg area in 1856.

Once-thriving dairy farm headed for subdivision

BY CATHERINE PASSMORE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In 1856, John Vergin moved to the Davisburg area, built a small log cabin and began farming.

Following the tradition of previous generations, the farm was passed on to his son and his son's son ... until now.

Lloyd Vergin, John's great-grandson, must face the economic changes taking place throughout the nation and must divide this once-thriving 125-acre dairy farm into plots for residential developing.

Lloyd and Helen Vergin had lived on and farmed the Scott Road, Springfield Township, parcel all of the 37 years that they have been married.

They had their own home built next to the 130-year-old farm-house when they were first married, and moved into the family home in 1978 after Lloyd's mother, Clara, died.

Helen said that it was simply a matter of what was easier: the farm house was close to the barn, and Lloyd still had to milk the cows.

During the peak of their careers as farmers, the Vergins owned 70 head of cattle, 40 of which were milking cows and could produce enough milk to fill eight 324-gallon tanks. This milk was sold to Michigan Milk. The summers were filled with the planting of crops on their 125 acres off of Scott Road and on the 175 acres that they rented. The crops of hay and corn were used to feed the cattle.

In 1990 the historic 1910 barn plus two silos were destroyed by a fire. Firefighters worked to control the blaze for eight hours, but they couldn't contain it. Neighbors saved the 30 young cattle in the barn at the time by setting them out to pasture.

The loss of the barn was set at $170,000, and there was not enough insurance to pay for rebuilding. The Vergins were already semi-retired, raising young cattle to use up the feed on hand.

To quote an old saying, "Farmers are the biggest gamblers there are. They gamble on the weather; they gamble on what they will get for crops and milk."

Sometimes the gamble doesn't pay off.

The Vergins are in the process of dividing their farm up for sale. They do not want it to be a liability for their two daughters, Tammy Vergin and Cindy Rodriguez, and grandson, William Rodriguez. According to Helen Vergin, the subdivision in the works will contain lots of 1.5 acres and up, with each home being different from all of the others — they don't want it to look too conformed.

On May 13, the township board voted 5-2 to approve a tentative plat for the subdivision.

There is still a long way to go before the ground breaking of Fieldstone Heights Subdivision. Maybe there is enough time to pass on the history of the Vergin farm and the love of the land to their little grandson.

Then the farm will continue to stay in the family, if only in his memory.

LLOYD and Helen Vergin of Springfield Township have farmed their 125 acres on Scott Road all of the 37 years they have been married.

Fieldstone Heights wins first OK

BY CATHERINE PASSMORE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A new subdivision is in the planning stages on a former Davisburg-area dairy farm.

Engineer Ed Salter presented plans for "Fieldstone Heights" on land belonging to Lloyd and Helen Vergin to the Springfield Township Board May 13.

The township board voted 5-2 to approve the tentative preliminary plat, with a few conditions. Voting yes were Clerk J. Calvin Walters and trustees Margaret Bloom, Charles Oaks, Nancy Strole and Dennis Vallad. Voting no were Supervisor Collin Walls and Treasurer Lois Stiles.

The board expressed approval of the first five of the six proposed phases. Walls had suggested that the board approve only phases 1-5 and send the sixth back to the planning commission.

The board, however, OK'd the entire project, subject to a few suggestions and also waiving some requirements of the township's subdivision ordinance.

Salter proposed that the 123 acres be divided into 1.5-acre lots with access at two points along Scott Road.

Salter asked the board to waive two subdivision ordinances, one requiring sidewalks and the other requiring the dedication of park areas in the subdivision. Salter stated that the subdivision was near a 300-acre park, and that would be enough of a park to serve the people.

The board asked that a shed and garage be moved from the original home, the rear line of one of the lots be moved 20 feet, the debris from an old barn be relocated, and one of the roads be moved to save a large walnut tree on the property.

One problem that the board discussed dealt with Phase 6. The engineer said that extensive grading in the area of this phase is necessary to obtain sufficient fill sand for other areas on the site.

Planning consultant Carlisle Associates, Inc., stated in its analysis, "We do not believe that the need to borrow fill from one portion of the site is ample justification for such extensive grading."

Clarkston's junior high athletics could get ax

Survival of interscholastic sports at grades 7,8 and 9 depend on passage of additional millage

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

This year could mark the end of interscholastic sports at the junior high level if an additional two-mill package is nixed by voters June 8.

On May 18, the Clarkston Board of Education unanimously voted to cut $80,000 from the athletic budget if the two-mill measure fails. These cutbacks would eliminate all sports in grades 7-9, and cause equipment and weekend trip reductions for all remaining sports.

These cuts are among $1.1 million worth of programs, personnel and services scheduled to be cut if the additional millage fails. The two mills are needed to offset a projected loss of $1.2 million to the school district next year.

The $80,000 represents about 20 percent of the athletic department's total budget. A large portion of these cuts will come from the elimination of junior high coaches' salaries, Athletic Director Paul Tungate said.

Tungate said these cuts would likely affect 300-400

Tungate said he and administrative officials thought long and hard over what programs to cut back on. He said the junior varsity and varsity programs were left alone because Clarkston has an obligation to the Greater Oakland Activities League (GOAL) to field a full regiment of athletic teams.

"Believe me, I didn't want to see any of this," the athletic director lamented. "It wasn't easy to cut any of our programs, but this is really the only way we can go."

Despite the sombering possibility of losing junior high sports, Tungate said the kids won't lose athletics altogether.

"We still have some very good intramural programs in the schools, so the kids won't be totally out in the cold," he said. "We'll try to bolster them, in order to facilitate everyone."

Tungate didn't rule out that some of the intramural squads from the two schools could possibly play against each other and perhaps Lake Orion middle schools.

As for the ninth-graders, Tungate said they'll also be allowed to try out for all of CHS' junior varsity sports. He said the impending move to the high school would make it more natural for this eventual type of try out.

Tungate said he's not considering "pay-to-play" as an option. He said it wouldn't be fair for the junior high kids to pay, while the upperclassmen played for free.

Dave Reschke, director of staff development and curriculum, agreed with Tungate's stance on "pay for play." He said such action is probably illegal anyway.

Prior to the board's vote, Trustee Sheila Hughes admitted she was saddened by the task at hand.

"Excluding the decision to cut some of our curricular programs, I think this is one of the most painful decisions I've had to make as a member of the board," Hughes said. "A lot of the schools' spirit is tied around these sports programs."

"However, they can be saved if the additional two mills are passed," she added.

Two mills is $2 for every $1,000 in assessed property valuation. For example, the owner of a $100,000 home assessed at half the market ($50,000) would pay an extra $100 per year in school taxes if voters approve the two mills.

3 students expelled

Three students were permanently expelled from Clarkston schools for committing crimes on area campuses.

The Clarkston Board of Education unanimously approved the trio's expulsion May 11.

The three students included two boys from Clarkston High School and a girl from outside the district, who attended the Oakland Technical Center-Northwest (OTC-N). Their names won't be printed because they're minors.

According to Superintendent Gary Haner, the two boys — a junior and a senior — were expelled for selling controlled substances in a school setting.

The girl was expelled from OTC-N for theft, Haner said.

Life skills

Julie Campe

I was eating some melon and reading about how the Heimlich maneuver can save lives by clearing the airways of any obstructions, when I burst out laughing (which is not a good thing to do if you happen to be eating — you might need the Heimlich maneuver).

I simply can't hear anything about the Heimlich maneuver without thinking of my brother, Andrew the Horrible.

No one disputes that The Horrible is bright. In fact, Mrs. Rasmussen of North Sashabaw Elementary School said just last week that she remembered him as a good pupil 15-20 years ago (she even said this without flinching — amazing resilience those elementary teachers have).

So it's no surprise that as a Kettering High School sophomore he remembered all about the Heimlich maneuver that he learned that day in science class. It would come in handy later.

On this day, The Horrible went to his new girlfriend's house after school to study. For the poor girl's sake, I'll protect her identity by calling her Miranda.

As The Horrible tells it, they were in the kitchen when Miranda offered to make them both a quick hot dog in the microwave. The Horrible then suggested a competition: "Let's see who can eat their hot dog the fastest!"

Miranda, politely nodded and watched, astounded, as The Horrible shoved the hot dog, bun and all, into his mouth.

They both were astounded when seconds later, The Horrible began to turn blue, making the universal choking sign (just as described in science class).

The Horrible later said that he couldn't make a sound and was shocked that somehow the hot dog had become lodged in his throat, amazingly similar to the example used in class that day.

Miranda yelled to her mother, while The Horrible in desperation, recalled the lessons of the day. He threw himself onto the back of the dining room chair (using the Heimlich maneuver on himself), and just as Miranda's mother walked into the room, the hot dog shot out across the table at her.

And that is how The Horrible met Miranda's mother.

(Alas, Miranda and The Horrible parted ways — much to the relief of Miranda's mother — and The Horrible married someone who doesn't regard eating as a competition.)

The Horrible, elated that he survived this brush with death, tells this story proudly. His life actually did pass before his eyes, he says.

He's glad that science class that day covered the Heimlich maneuver, and he's glad he paid attention, he says.

For this with confidence that he can now challenge others to hot dog-eating contests — he knows he can pull out a victory at the end.

Editor's note: Patrick Walsh, a 1987 graduate of Clarkston High School, was 19 when he was stabbed to death in 1989 in Grand Rapids, where he worked while studying liberal arts at Grand Valley State University, Allendale. His mother, Linda Walsh of Independence Township, wrote this during Crime Victims Rights Week.

Dear Patrick,

I am attending my third Crime Victims Rights Coalition Awareness and Recognition night, a night set aside during Crimes Victims Week to remember victims of crime and to recognize the victims and survivors who are not accepting these injustices and are demanding changes.

For three years, Patrick, I haven't heard your voice, glimpsed your smile or hugged you. ... Instead I attend these gatherings and work with others to help them understand the plight of the survivor — those truly sentenced.

I hear Gov. Engler proposing to get tougher on criminals with tougher sentences and by releasing funds to keep the war on drugs fueled. ... Sen. Van Regenmoter is again in his concerned interest, introducing a concurrent resolution commemorating April 26-May 2 as Crime Victims Rights Week. Your name is signed on this resolution, Patrick, along with numerous others murdered or victimized. (Your name should be on a college diploma, a marriage license, a car loan ... anything but on this.)

I see familiar faces, Clenora Byes, director of Lost Loved Ones, and Clementine Barfield of Save Our Sons and Daughters, who both shared with the group that they are so glad to see us all there with our support but hate the reason why each of us is there.

I watch as Levada Austin-Griese from the Greater Metro Detroit Chapter of Parents of Murdered Children and Other Survivors of Homicide Victims and Bethany Goodman from Mothers Against Drunk Drivers receive the Commitment Award from Sen. Van Regenmoter for turning their tragedies around to help others.

I spoke with Wayne County Prosecutor John O'Hair, congratulating him on toughening charges against parents who have failed in their most basic responsibility to provide the safety of their minor children.

Mr. O'Hair stated, "The law wisely makes parents responsible for the safety and welfare of their children. We want all parents to understand that when children are killed because they default on that responsibility, then we will seek to hold parents accountable under the law. The loss of a child is also society's loss, for which there must be accountability and deterrence."

Somebody somehow or some way has to invoke the basic values of love, honor, respect and responsibility back into our consciousness — instead of excuses — onward to gentler times.

I miss you, Patrick.

Love,
Mom

Jim's Jottings

The state of the earth: 1992

The above title is on an article in the Old Farmer's Almanac. It is written by Guy Murchie who wrote the book, "The Seven Mysteries of Life."

It is not light stuff. Murchie starts with the formation of the earth, then gets to, "We live today with a mind-set fit for the 18th century while playing with the dangerous toys of the 21st. And unless we can wake up and consciously evolve in step with our advanced society, we could destroy all that we have created."

"Earth's population is already increasing by 95 million people a year, 26,000 every day. And unless something drastic is done almost immediately, the annual rate will soon greatly exceed a hundred million."

"Thus the population explosion is far and away mankind's most urgent problem . . ."

"It should be obvious that increasing numbers of people or things cannot continue infinitely upon a finite planet and that our failure to realize this is already causing mounting shortages in food, water, fuel, and many things we will be needing more and more as our numbers grow."

"Unless Nature prunes the population by drastic means (such as war, starvation, or disease) mankind will sooner or later have to practice population pruning on a broad scale through such methods as birth control or licensing of births . . ."

"In practice this means that the Earth must first be federated and a world government established capable of regulating births and migrations on a global scale."

"Earth's overall pollution crisis may be called 'the three B's for birth rate, bombs and blight . . . when earthly population is finally brought down to a stable two billion or so (perhaps in the 22nd century), all three B's will have become manageable."

"Space exploration, barely begun, further promises us solutions to all three B's of pollution. It cannot be halted any more than the colonizing of America could be halted after Columbus founded the 'New World.'"

Though it doesn't seem to sound it, Murchie is upbeat on the future.

He writes, "To me, Earth is a profoundly mysterious and bountiful place, unfathomable in its glory, containing more food and drink than can be consumed, more lovable people than any man or woman may love, more beautiful music than any audience will hear, more good books than any reader can read, and more wisdom than all mortal beings anywhere will ever totally comprehend."

... "In our very act of interpreting (earth), we are creating it."

'Whipping boys' of school district

I am writing this letter in response to the letter written about the Clarkston school bus driver. I find it very hard to believe that you would even print such a character-damaging letter without checking to see if there is any truth to the story or not.

That bus driver had to deal with a sensitive situation. Here are a few things the bus driver did to correct the situation:

1. The bus driver brought the problem to the attention of her supervisors on four occasions.

2. She went to the student's school and talked to the social worker on her own time.

3. She also took the time to see to it that the assistant principal was aware of the situation.

This does not sound like a person who doesn't care about her students or would in any way say or do anything to hurt any of her students.

This bus driver is very concerned about the well being of all her students and very hurt by the letter. I wonder if that letter had been written about the teacher or the principal if it would have been sent to the paper. I doubt it.

Sometimes it seems that the bus drivers are the "whipping boys" for the entire school system.

Rosemary Grable, president
Clarkston Bus Driver Association

Good bus driver

I was disappointed to see a letter written by a student in the Clarkston school district about her bus driver, "informing the people of the problems students face almost every day on the bus."

Some of the information in this article was not true. I hope this student learns a very valuable lesson about the First Amendment. Freedom of speech and freedom of the press can be very damaging and humiliating.

When people read information in the paper, their first thoughts and impressions from opinions that are not easily erased. The damage is done.

The editor should have noticed that the student's accusing remarks were direct and that she was being specific. After all, about 60 students ride the same bus. Their parents, their teachers, the bus driver's boss and supervisors all knew who this student was referring to. This was an oversight, but think of how the driver of this bus must feel.

I personally know this bus driver. She is one of the best bus drivers in the Clarkston school district. She is an exceptionally caring person who goes out of her way for kids. She is a concerned bus driver who talks to the students and takes their interest to heart. She is an excellent bus driver who takes hundreds of students to school and home everyday. She takes pride in her superior driving record, hard work and the respect of every student on her bus. Keep up the good work, Kathy.

Cleaned roads in pouring rain

I hope that your readers have noticed that Dixie Highway, north of I-75, is a lot cleaner than it was a few weeks ago.

Special thanks are due to Grant Ward for this cleanup. Friday, April 24, Grant and his employees (on the payroll) worked in the driving rain, picking up trash on north-bound Dixie Highway. Grant's son and a friend continued the project after the weather improved a little.

If you noticed all the yellow trash bags along the road, they were the result of a very special effort by Grant Ward. If you see him or his employees, why not join me in saying thank you.

Businesses get their names on a sign along state roads to let you know who is doing the cleanup, but Grant Ward and his crew didn't wait for a sign or special recognition. He just pitched in to help make this community a little cleaner.

Thank you, Grant. As usual for you, it was a job well done, but I really didn't expect you to work in the rain.

Collin Walls, Supervisor
Springfield Township

Hurt by letter

The recent letter to the editor entitled "problems on the bus" is the focus of my comments and my concerns.

This letter was part of an English project. I really do not know what the focus of this project at school was supposed to be, but this particular project letter was very destructive. It has hurt and angered several people, but most of all it has hurt her bus driver.

This bus driver loves her job and the children. She gives respect to her kids and expects the same respect given back to her and their fellow students. I say "this" bus driver because this bus driver I know well — she is my wife.

I think that the two greatest freedoms we have are the "freedom of speech" and the "freedom of the press." I also think that it is great they are teaching our children this through various projects at school, but one additional thing needs to be taught right along with it. And that is: with freedom comes a great responsibility, and the responsibility here is the responsibility to tell the truth.

Eventually honesty
wins praise

Jim

Oh oh. The phone call was from Larry Givens, vice president of corporate relations for AAA Michigan. We'd never met. I was prepared for some sophisticated, executive-type equivocation, maybe a polite scolding. Or even worse.

A few days earlier, I'd written about Lisa Traicoff, the unusually honest woman whose car was towed for improper parking on private property. When she paid the $75 tow charge, she said, a tow company employee pointed out a blank space on her receipt and suggested if she wrote "Road Service" on it she would be reimbursed the $75 by her insurance company - AAA.

What would you do? I say the great majority of us would appreciate the suggestion and reach for the $75. But not Traicoff. She was angered by the invitation to participate in a fraud. It wasn't a road service call, it was an impoundment, and AAA shouldn't be expected to pay. After all, if it had been a service call, she would have phoned AAA, not the tow company.

Traicoff phoned AAA, several times, expecting someone at Michigan's largest auto insurer to share her anger and investigate the tow company. Instead:

"I was told an investigation wouldn't be worth it because it would only be my word against theirs," Traicoff said. "I was also told that if I waited for a few days and then submitted my claim for road service, nobody would know the difference and I'd get my $75 back."

"That makes me so mad. That forces all AAA customers to pay for a scam. I can't believe it."

So Traicoff, of Grosse Pointe Woods, got me into the dispute. AAA's initial response to my question was that the AAA employees named by Traicoff denied her version of their conversations. The tow company also denied everything. An AAA executive told Traicoff the investigation would be continued, but I didn't expect anything positive to come of that. And that's what I wrote.

I said Traicoff's honesty had cost her $75 and gained her nothing. I thought her valiant effort to prevent further similar scams was wasted. I concluded that if there were more honest citizens like Traicoff, AAA should hire them as one way of cutting auto insurance costs. I was typically cynical.

But then came the call from AAA Vice President Givens. There wasn't a hint of scolding. No equivocating. Givens thanked me for writing the column that clearly questioned the sincerity of AAA's avowed efforts to give customers a cheaper deal.

"We agree with you. We should have responded differently. We don't agree with you. We should have responded differently. We don't agree with what happened" to Traicoff, Givens said.

When reminded that some AAA employees involved had denied Traicoff's charges, Givens' response was the same as mine had been: "Of course they'd deny it. ...They could lose their jobs."

But why would Traicoff lie? Because she was just dying to pay the $75 tow charge?

Givens said all employees are explicitly being reminded of the penalty for making their jobs easier by condoning any sort of slippery insurance claim. "It's fraud. ...They would be subject to prosecution," he said. "We have a stewardship responsibility."

As for Traicoff, Givens said, "She deserves a commendation for her honesty."

When I relayed Givens' remarks to Traicoff, and she realized her aggressive honesty had paid off after all, she said: "Wow, that's great!"

Yes, it is.

Conditions exaggerated by administration, news

Editor's note: This is the first of a two-part column.

BY LARRY GILLELAND

Education is a philosophic issue. Public education is an economic issue.

In our Clarkston Community Schools we have a group of administrators who are hired to manage the business of educating our children and another group of citizens who are elected to assure that the community's direction is understood, and followed, by the administrators. After three years and three failed attempts to raise funds for a new school building, it appears that the administration and board of education are out of touch with the community.

Although we expect school administrators to present the community with future needs and suggestions for enhancements to the current system, their primary function is to provide the customer, the taxpayer, with the best education for the available funds. Any future needs or enhancements must be supported by a sound business case.

The school board's primary function is to review the business cases and approve or deny the recommendations based on the available data. Although the board must consider the data provided by the administrators, they must also consider information outside that presented by administrators.

It should now be quite evident that the taxpayers of the district aren't comfortable with the information being fed them. Still, our district education leaders continue to plunge ahead with their own agenda to build a new building. Damn the torpedoes, full steam ahead!

Reviewing three years of local news clippings and 10 years of "Summaries and Surveys" of data published by Oakland Schools, I will present some of the reasons why the community finds that business case less than believable.

1. Many comments have been made about Clarkston schools being over 30 years old. I'm sure it wouldn't be difficult to find students getting a good education in buildings over 100 years old. I grew up in a house that was over 30 years old before we installed an indoor toilet, yet I can't say that it affected by ability to see education.

Since older buildings do require more repair and maintenance than new ones, I've often wondered why, since 1982, we have had the same number of maintenance employees to care for the aging facilities.

2. School administrators and The Clarkston News reporters have consistently exaggerated the extent of enrollment increases and its consequences. In a letter to parents from Superintendent Gary Haner (Feb. 4, 1991), he encouraged people to vote for the high school/college bond issue to avoid "... overcrowded rooms, perhaps even double-day sessions ... class sizes in all grades ... will return to the high 30s and perhaps into the 40s ... loss of accreditation" That same school year had a total enrollment decrease of 104 students.

In The Clarkston News (Sept. 11, 1991), Curt McAllister wrote of the last board meeting where Director William Neff "... said that there are presently 5,650 students attending school in the district ... an increase of more than 126 student at this time last year."

Public records show that there were 5,602 students attending school at that time, an increase of 76 students over the previous year.

Megan O'Neill of Independence Township is in the running for the Ninth Congressional District. The Clarkston High School alumnus — daughter of Clarkston pediatrician James O'Neill — is among four Republicans vying for a spot on the ballot to challenge Democratic incumbent Dale Kildee for a seat in the U.S. House of Representatives. The newly drawn district stretches from Flint to Rochester and includes Lapeer.

Four Republicans — all 30-ish — are in the race, including Chuck Forrest of Flint, who has already made the rounds of area newspaper offices. Forrest said the number one question he receives in Oakland County is, "How do you stand on abortion?" For the record, he is the only pro-choice candidate.

Football star Paul Jokisch is back in the news.

The former Springfield Township man and University of Michigan alumnus has signed a contract with the Detroit Drive of the Arena Football League.

Plagued by injuries most of his professional career, Jokisch has played for short stints with the 49ers, Vikings and Cowboys of the National Football League. He thought his professional career was over last year when he was cut by Raleigh-Durham, N.C., of the World League of American Football.

Now, he's got a chance to compete again. Even if it is on a 50-yard playing field.

Items for Reporter's Notebook are compiled by Clarkston News staff members.

Memorial holiday kicks off safety belt blitz

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

If you're traveling over Memorial Day weekend, make sure to wear your safety belt.

The precaution not only could save your life, but it could also save you a ticket.

As part of a nationwide effort to increase traffic safety, state and local law enforcement officials will be more aggressively monitoring seat belt usage around Memorial Day, said Trooper Dan S. Thomas of the Michigan State Police.

A nationwide Blitz is in effect, beginning this weekend.

"We will be looking for violations," said Thomas, an Independence Township resident.

In Michigan, a mandatory seat belt law went into effect in the mid-1980s. In April 1991, another safety belt law went into effect, requiring mandatory belt use in the front and back seats for those ages 4 to under 16. While a driver can't be stopped for violating that law, a ticket may be given if the driver is stopped for some other reason — speeding, for instance, said Thomas.

Longer terms given

The terms of several appointees made recently by the Clarkston Village Council will last longer than first expected.

At the April 27 meeting, the council originally thought the terms, which are all extensions, would only last from April through July because the village will become a city July 1.

However, that action was rescinded at the May 11 meeting, and all of the appointees will be given three-year terms that started in April.

Those appointees are Gordon Spelbring, David Huttenlocher and Paige Visser-Mack on the planning commission; James Schultz and David Raup on the zoning board of appeals; Cynthia Chiapetta on the historic district commission.

A nationwide Blitz is in effect, beginning this weekend.

However, drivers can be stopped for violating two parts of the safety belt law: Children under 1 year must be fastened into a child car seat in the front and back seats. And children ages 1 to under age 4 must be fastened into a child car seat when riding in the front and in a safety belt when riding in the back.

If stopped for another reason, drivers may be ticketed for violating this law: Those ages 16 and older are required to wear a safety belt when riding in the front seat but not the back seat.

Seat belts have proven to save lives and prevent injury, said Thomas.

Nationwide, someone is injured in a car crash every 11 seconds, and traffic crashes cost society over $74 billion each year, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

If 70 percent safety belt use occurred in Michigan, about 250-300 lives would be saved each year. In Michigan, 1,663 people died on roadways in 1990. Motor vehicle crashes are the leading cause of death for people ages 6-33.

Thomas has access to all sorts of statistics. But mainly, he said, it's important to realize that the safety belts really work.

After Labor Day following last year's Blitz campaign, safety belt usage was 64.24 percent, based on direct observation studies conducted by Michigan State Police.

That's up from 49.6 percent in 1990 and well above the 15 percent who buckled up in 1965, when statistics were first taken. Nationwide, the goal 70 percent usage by 1992.

An added bonus: seat belt usage also can reduce insurance costs by reducing injury, medical expenses and lawsuits. In addition, fines and court costs for tickets can cost $50 or more.

Race heats up for seats on township boards

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

The race could be heated in the Aug. 4 primary election for seats on the Independence and Springfield township boards.

In Independence, only Republicans filed petitions to place their names on the ballot. The only competition is for the supervisor's seat. Dale Stuart, a former township trustee, challenges incumbent Frank Ronk for a spot on the November ballot.

Incumbents Joan McCrary and John Lutz are unchallenged for their positions as clerk and treasurer, respectively.

Only four filed for the four open trustee seats: incumbents Mel Leroy Vaara, Bruce Mercado and Daniel Travis, and newcomer Jeffrey McGee. Incumbent Jean Saile is not seeking re-election.

In Springfield, only Republicans filed to run for the township board.

Incumbent Supervisor Collin Walls is the only

The Clarkston (Mich.) News Wed., May 20, 1992 11 A unchallenged candidate in the election.

Incumbent Lois Stiles faces Geraldine Rumph in the treasurer's race.

Four candidates vie for the clerk's position. In that race are Cynthia Ashley, James A. Ashley, current trustee Nancy Strole and Kathleen Woods. Incumbent J. Calvin Walters is not seeking re-election.

Five people are in the running for four trustee spots, including incumbents Margaret A. Bloom, Charles M. Oaks and Dennis J. Vallad, and challengers Elaine Field-Smith and Roger J. Horton.

Also on the ballot in Springfield will be contenders for the non-partisan five-member Library Board. They include incumbents: James G. Banes, Kristine L. Bower, Ruth A. Gruber, Kathleen F. Rollins and Mary J. Watson.

Two Republicans and a Democrat are in the race for five seats on the Park Commission: incumbents Robert "Bob" Clark and Helen Vergin — both Republicans — and newcomer Michael O'Hearn, a Democrat. That leaves two or more seats up for grabs through write-in votes.

Her science project is home for birds

An old science project came in handy for fourth-grader Andrea Olenski a week ago. The 10-year-old North Sashabaw Elementary pupil made a bird's nest for a school project a few months ago, and now it serves as home to some orphaned birds she saved. The Maybee Road, Independence Township, resident said she saw a cat eating the mother sparrow and noted that the nest was destroyed. Upon closer examination, she found the baby birds. So she and her mother made a home for them in Andrea's nest. "To take care of them, we have to mush up worms and take tweezers and knock on their beaks so they think it's their mother," Andrea explained. "They also eat boiled eggs if you mash them up," she said, adding that they use an eye dropper to give the birds water. "Then they go to bed," she said. But they don't sleep for long. Andrea sets her alarm for midnight to awaken for their late-night feeding; then she returns to sleep. "My mom feeds them at 5 a.m. before she goes to work," she said. Andrea admitted that it's tiring to feed them so often. "You have to do it — they're babies," she said. She and her family — parents, Tom and Laurel, and sister, Jenny — also think of the future.

ANDREA Olenski, a fourth-grader, poses for a photo with three baby sparrows in a nest she made as a science project. She brought the birds to North Sashabaw Elementary School for a day, so her classmates in Estrella Steward's room could have a look.

"We're hoping to teach them how to fly and return them to the wild," she said. "When we hold them in our hands, and they flap their wings." For practice, they drop them gently onto a sort of trampoline, she said, explaining that the birds flap their little wings on their slow descent. She's not sure if everything will turn out all right, though. "My little sister Jenny prays everyday that they will live," said Andrea, adding that, "I'm happy that I found them but sorry their mom couldn't be here. "Once we saved a rabbit in the road," she said. Andrea tries to think of everything, such as the hazards in her own home — Fritz, part dachshund, part beagle. "We feed the dog extra," she said, adding that they also keep the nest up very high. They also try not to touch the birds too often, and they keep the nest warm with a light bulb, she said. "We're thinking of names for them, but we don't know if they're boys or girls," she said.

Rolling Acre sub gets tentative OK

Another new subdivision is in the works for Independence Township. The township planning commission voted 6-0 to approve the preliminary tentative plot plans to develop 30 acres east of Sashabaw and south of Oakhill Road into Rolling Acres Subdivision. Voting yes were Chairman Brent Bair, Richard Oppmann, Joseph Figa, Daniel Travis, Steven Secatch and Rainee Stricklin. Cecilia Yaber was absent. Peter Caruso petitioned the commission to develop the land into 1.5-acre sites for single-family homes. Caruso asked the commission to save the money that would be used for safety paths until a later time because the paths would not connect to any other existing paths. Commission members, however, said the safety paths are mandatory. The proposed subdivision calls for about about 20 homes and two cul-de-sacs. Each site is to have its own sewer and well, since a community water system is not required in sites over one acre. Three ponds are planned off site to act as detention ponds in the storm drainage system. Commission members gave no negative about the planned subdivision, but they are to review the plan again with the proposed landscaping. Caruso did not give an estimated construction time. He said it depends on the approval of the landscape by the planning commission and the approval of the development by the township board.

PRICING FOR BEST PROFIT

Ron Rodda
 Sales Manager
 "Let's discuss your Career in Real Estate Sales"

QUESTION: What is the best way to arrive at the best asking price when you put your home up for sale?

ANSWER: National experience has proven conclusively that if your property is priced within 5% of fair market value, the chance of making a clean, top dollar sale during the early stages is TEN TIMES greater than otherwise. Buyers buy by comparison. Properties not competing favorably do not sell. Overpricing at inception causes properties to become shop-worn; valuable time and buyers are lost forever. Ultimately, all properties sell for their true value by comparison—or less if exposed initially at an inflated price.

It's the perfect time for a hot streak. The Clarkston varsity girls' soccer team won its fourth straight match Monday and, more importantly, won its opening round of the Class A district, as it topped Waterford Mott, 2-0.

Tonya Dylag and Carrie Millen (who also assisted on Dylag's score) knocked in the goals to up the Wolves' record to 9-5. Goalkeeper Kate Knyzewski earned the shutout.

Clarkston now advances to the second round of the district and will face host Bloomfield Hills Lahser at 4:15 p.m. Wednesday (May 20). If the Wolves win that match they will compete for the district title on Saturday.

Netters finish tied for second in GOAL

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston coach Dick Swartout felt his varsity boys' tennis team would finish second in the league but he didn't expect to be tied for second.

"I thought we'd be 8-2 instead of 7-3. I didn't think Brandon would beat us," said Swartout.

Lake Orion won the regular season Greater Oakland Activities League title with a 10-0 record, Clarkston took second at 7-3 and Brandon was third at 6-4.

But the Blackhawks edged the Wolves, 32-29, for second in the May 13 GOAL meet (Lake Orion was first with 40), putting both teams into an overall tie for second.

At that GOAL meet, No. 2 singles player Bobby Brazier was the only Wolf to capture first place.

Clarkston took second in three events: Jason Gross at No. 1 singles, the No. 2 doubles team of John Tan and Pat Wall, and the No. 3 doubles team of Jeremy Doty and Navi Lamk.

Wolves took fourth in the other three events: Craig Coxen in No. 3 singles, Mark Chamberlain in No. 4 singles, and Matt Babcock and Brendan Kelly in No. 1 doubles.

Everyone will return next season except for graduates Gross and Lamk.

Brazier, who won the recent Holly Invitational after filling in for No. 1 seed Gross, finished the season with the Wolves' best individual record at 14-2.

"Bobby improved a lot," said Swartout.

Gross finished his fourth varsity season at 9-3 in the No. 1 slot.

"Jason was consistent," said Swartout.

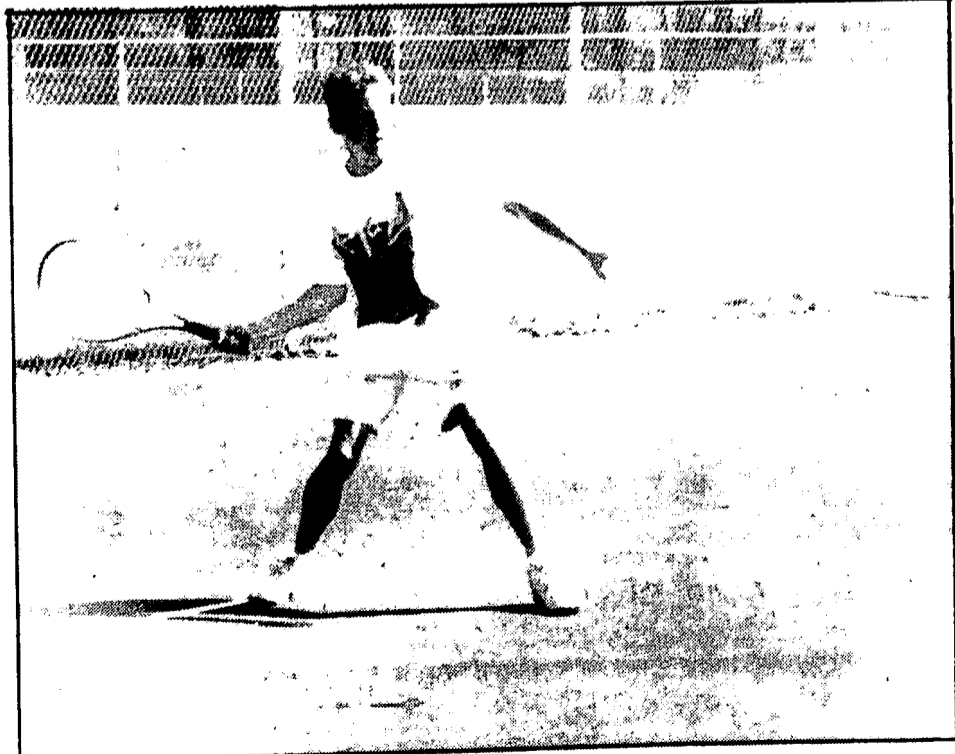

The other two singles players competed for the first time in singles at the varsity level. Coxen ended the season at 8-9 and Chamberlain was 7-7.

The final records of the Wolves who mainly played doubles were: Tan (10-6), Wall (10-7), Lamk (7-3), Doty (6-4), Babcock (6-8), Renny Abraham (5-1), Kelly (4-8), Chris Harkins (2-2) and Kirk Shubert (1-1).

Lake Orion 6, CLARKSTON 1 (May 12 at Clarkston)

Defending champion Lake Orion finished undefeated in the GOAL by downing Clarkston, 6-1, in the regular season league finale.

The lone win for the Wolves (7-3)

CRAIG Coxen returns a serve in No. 3 singles action at regionals.

was in No. 2 singles as Brazier came back for a 3-6, 6-3, 6-3 victory over Eric Hernandez.

The only other three-set match was in No. 2 doubles with Dragons Nathan Tison and Danny Birmingham stopping Wall and Tan 1-6, 6-3, 6-1.

In other singles action, No. 1 Jason Weidman defeated Gross 6-3, 6-1; No. 3 Matt Kern topped Coxen 6-1, 6-3; No. 4 Kevin Peacock crushed Chamberlain 6-0, 6-1.

In other doubles action, No. 1 Rob Zielinski and Dan McGettrick double-bageled Kelly and Babcock 6-0, 6-0; No. 3 Todd Szymczak and Jim Watson got past Doty and Lamk 6-3, 6-2.

CLARKSTON 4, Waterford Mott 3 (May 11 at Clarkston)

A default helped Clarkston edge Waterford Mott, 4-3, May 11 in the completion of a past rain-shortened match.

Clarkston, which had previously stomped the Corsairs 6-1, won the No. 3 singles match by default (Coxen over Trent McCarty).

The other three victors for the Wolves were No. 1 Gross topping John Suchodolski 6-4, 6-3; No. 2 Brazier crushing Alex Alcure 6-1, 6-0; No. 2 doubles Wall and Tan defeating Tim Williams and Josh Windeler 6-2, 6-1.

Winning for the Corsairs were No. 4 Martin Wilanowski over Chamberlain 7-5, 2-6, 6-4; No. 1 doubles Pat Boisvert and Chris Hesano over Kelly and Babcock 7-5, 6-2; No. 3 doubles Kyle Gaca and Jamie Hill over Harkins and Shubert 6-2, 7-5.

Brandon 4, CLARKSTON 3 (May 8 at Brandon)

Brandon got revenge by edging Clarkston 4-3 May 8.

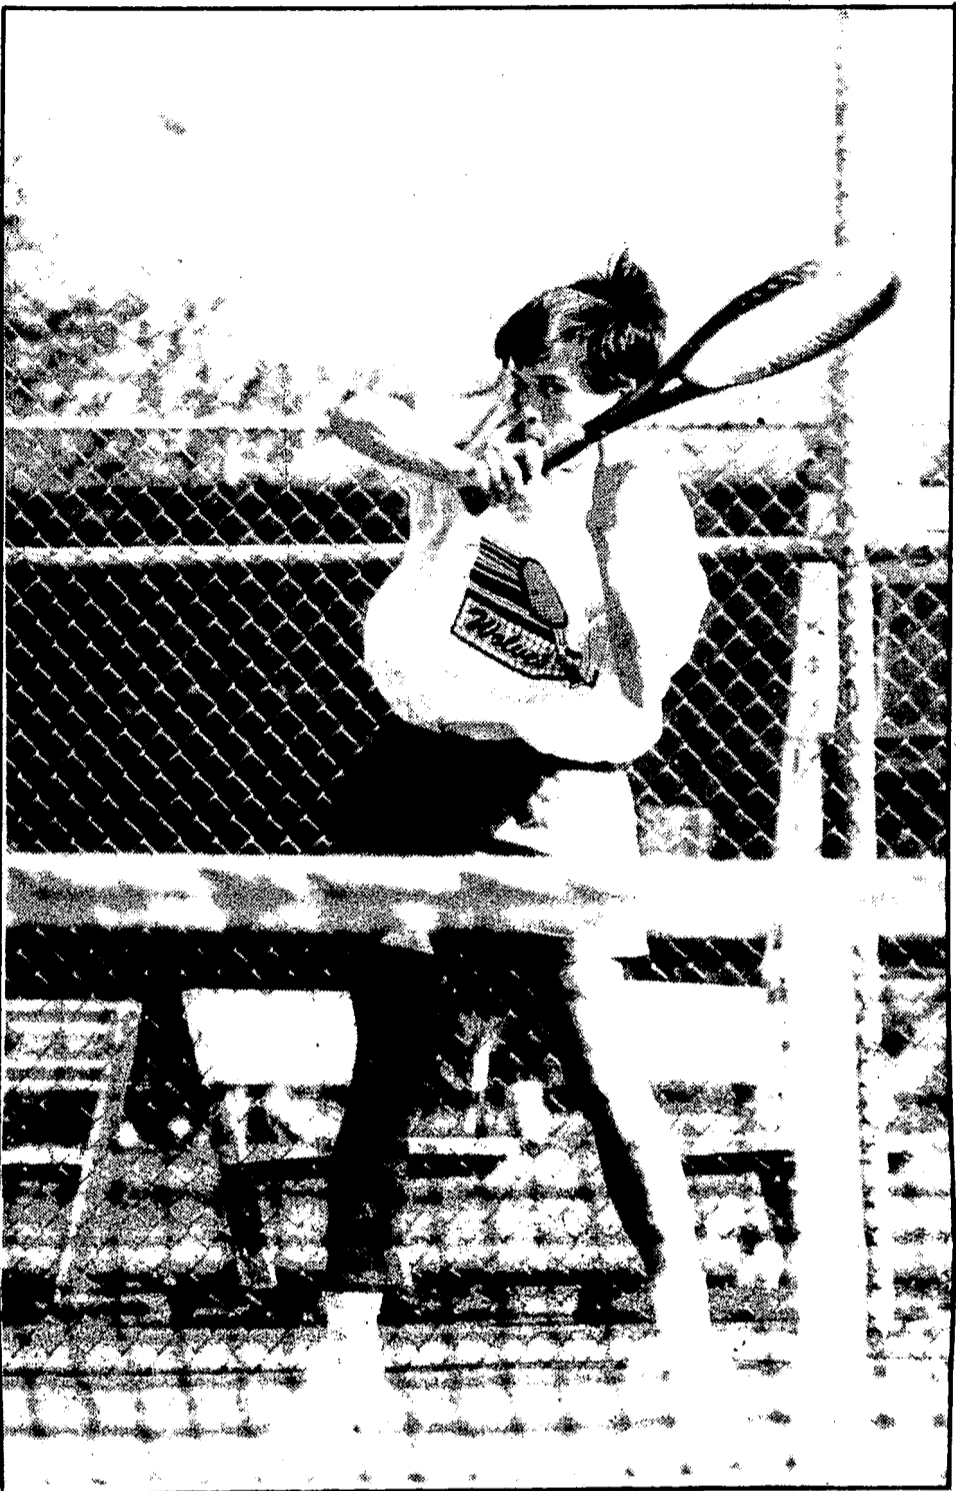

The match featured four tiebreaker sets, with the Blackhawks winning three of them.

The Wolves earlier in the season topped the Blackhawks 6-1. Last season, the two teams also split during the GOAL regular season.

The Clarkston No. 3 doubles team of Doty and Lamk won one of the afternoon's two three-set matches 6-7 (12-14), 6-3, 6-2, over Ajay Gupta and Matt Erickson.

Also in three sets, Blackhawk No. 4 singles player Mark Peterson nipped Chamberlain 6-4, 2-6, 7-6 (7-1).

Clarkston's top two singles players defeated their Brandon opponents. No. 1 Gross downed Primo Tongko 6-0, 7-6 (7-

BOBBY Brazier didn't win this match at regionals but two days earlier the sophomore won the No. 2 singles GOAL title.

1); No. 2 Brazier double-bageled Aaron Elowsky 6-0, 6-0.

Other wins for the Blackhawks were No. 3 Gary Cooper over Coxen 7-6 (7-4), 6-0; No. 1 doubles Brian Bridgeman and Scott Randall over Babcock and Kelly 6-0, 6-2; No. 2 doubles Todd Tryska and Mike Schmaltz over Wall and Tan 6-2, 6-2.

CLARKSTON 7, Pontiac Northern 0 (May 7 at Clarkston)

Clarkston crushed the Huskies 7-0 in seven straight two-set matches.

No. 1 seed Gross stopped Bouvahn Lee 6-0, 6-1; No. 2 Brazier walloped Andrew Chong 6-1, 6-1; No. 3 Coxen topped Ben Williams 6-1, 6-0; No. 4 Chamberlain double-bageled Robert Moiles 6-0, 6-0.

In doubles play, Babcock and Kelly crushed Phillip Ramos and Bruce Williams 6-0, 6-1; No. 2 Tan and Wall had no problems with Scott Allen and Daniel Heneva 6-0, 6-3; No. 3 Harkins and Lamk double-bageled Stuart Foster and Tom McKinney 6-0, 6-0.

CLARKSTON 6, Waterford Mott 1 (May 6 at Waterford Mott)

Clarkston won its third-straight 6-1 match with a victory over host Mott.

The Wolves had previously stopped Waterford Ketterin and Brandon by identical scores.

The Wolves won all four singles' matches. No. 1 Gross outlasted John Suchodolski 6-3, 7-5; No. 2 Brazier stomped Alex Alcure 6-1, 6-1; No. 3 Coxen came back to defeat Trent McCarty 4-6, 6-1, 6-3; No. 4 Chamberlain edged Martin Wilanowski 6-4, 7-6.

The Wolf No. 2 doubles duo of Wall and Tan nipped Tim Williams and Josh Windeler 6-4, 6-4; No. 3 doubles Doty and Abraham edged Kyle Gaca and Jamie Hill 6-2, 4-6, 6-4.

The Corsairs only victory was in No. 1 doubles as Pat Boisvert and Chris Hesano topped Babcock and Kelly 6-2, 7-5.

Wolves 10th at regionals

Clarkston could only manage two first-round wins at the Class A varsity tennis regionals in Waterford May 15.

The Wolves finished 10th of 13 teams.

The No. 2 doubles team of Pat Wall and John Tan won its first match before being eliminated, as did the No. 3 doubles team of Jeremy Doty and Navi Lamk.

"It was more like the Brother Rice-Groves Invitational," said Clarkston coach Dick Swartout, about the two Birmingham schools which dominated the regional action. Both of those teams qualified for the upcoming state finals.

Advance to Thursday's pre-district

Wolves score 3 TDs, 2 safeties on base paths

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It wasn't pretty, but it was enough to advance the Clarkston varsity baseball team into the pre-districts.

Clarkston edged host Hartland, 22-19, in a hitters' dual at the May 14 "qualifier."

The post-season win means the Wolves will host Waterford Mott, Thursday, May 21 at 4 p.m. in the pre-district.

"This was our first state playoff game. What a game to watch, not to coach," said Clarkston manager Roy "Pops" Warner, whose team usually wins on its strong pitching and defense. "It's been a long time since we scored three touchdowns and two safeties in a game."

Hartland led 4-1 after the first inning but the Wolves scored a touchdown (six runs) in the top of the second.

But the Eagles kept flying and led 11-7 after three and 18-13 after five. The Wolves countered with a touchdown and PAT in the sixth (seven runs) and a safety (two runs) in the seventh.

Clarkston outhit Hartland 16-13 and the Eagles made five errors while the Wolves mishandled two.

Hartland pitchers walked 15 Wolves but Clarkston pitchers weren't much better, walking 13 Eagles.

Eric Carlson (2-1) picked up the win in relief. He threw three innings and gave up four hits, five runs, three walks and struck out six. Eric Ryan started and threw 1 2/3 innings, allowing four hits, six runs, four walks and he struck out one. Derek Wiley was the first out of the bullpen, hurling 2 1/3 innings, giving up seven hits, eight runs, six walks and striking out five.

Matt Seitz, Jason Jarvis and Chris Combs sparked the Wolves' lusty hitting attack. Seitz belted two doubles and two singles and drove in six. Jarvis had three singles and one RBI. Combs had two singles and drove home seven Wolves.

Mark White, Tom Doyon and Matt Underwood each had a pair of singles. Wiley scored four runs and Scot Matusz and Underwood each touched home plate three times.

East Lansing 9, CLARKSTON 6 (May 16 at East Lansing - 2nd game)

A five-run fourth inning helped host East Lansing to a 9-6 win and sweep of a non-league doubleheader.

The loss dropped Clarkston's overall record to 16-7.

Clarkston trailed 4-3 but then the Trojans had their big fourth inning and held on for the win.

East Lansing outhit the Wolves, 13-9.

Four Wolves had hits. Matt Seitz tripled and had two singles. Matt Underwood, Scot Matusz and Chris Simko each doubled and singled. Underwood had a pair of RBI.

Starting pitcher Jason Jarvis (0-1) suffered the loss, tossing three innings while allowing 10 hits, eight runs, two walks and striking out five. Aaron Phillips threw three innings of relief, giving up three hits, one run, two walks and striking out three.

East Lansing 4, CLARKSTON 2 (May 16 at East Lansing - 1st game)

Everyone who knows baseball knows walks will kill you.

"We walked too many for such a tight ball game," said Clarkston manager Roy "Pops" Warner about his team's 4-2 loss to East Lansing in the opener of a doubleheader.

The Wolves played errorless ball and outhit the Trojans (7-4) but Clarkston pitchers were off the mark for eight bases on balls (Trojan pitching walked four Wolves).

East Lansing scored all its runs in the third inning.

Matt Underwood doubled and singled for the Wolves, Chris Combs doubled and Matt Seitz, Derek Wiley, Mark White and Aaron Phillips each singled.

Seitz (3-1) started and took the loss. He pitched two innings and allowed one hit, all four runs, five walks and struck out one. Kevin Mull threw two innings and gave up two hits and two walks. Phillips hurled two innings and allowed one hit, one walk and struck out one.

Lake Orion 11, CLARKSTON 10 (May 11 at Clarkston)

The lead changed hands five times but when it was all over, Lake Orion handed Clarkston a rare league loss, 11-10, in eight innings.

After the setback, the league-leading Wolves dropped to 11-2 in the Greater Oakland Activities League.

Clarkston led 2-1, went behind 4-2, regained the lead at 7-3, trailed 9-7, tied it at 9-9 in the bottom of the seventh, trailed 11-9 in the top of the eighth and then cut the deficit to 11-10 with the bases loaded but stranded three runners.

While Dragon pitchers only gave up two walks, wild Wolf pitchers allowed 12 walks.

"It seems strange that six pitchers couldn't throw strikes," said Clarkston manager Roy Warner.

Derek Wiley pitched the first 2 1/3 innings, allowing five hits, three runs, three walks and striking out two. Kevin Mull took over and threw 2 2/3 innings, giving up no hits, two runs, four walks and whiffing two. Jason Jarvis tossed one inning with one hit and two walks. Eric Carlson pitched one-third of an inning, allowing two runs and one walk. Eric Ryan followed with one inning of work, giving up two hits, two runs and striking out two. Aaron Phillips (1-3) suffered the loss, throwing two-thirds of an inning, giving up one hit, two runs, two walks and striking out one.

Clarkston hitters kept the Wolves in the game, banging out 17 hits. Wiley stroked two doubles and a single, scored four runs and had three RBI to pace Clarkston. Tom Doyon also had three hits, all singles.

Matt Seitz doubled and singled. Jarvis and Combs each had a pair of singles. Matt Underwood and Mark White each doubled and Brent Bundridge, Scot Matusz and Mull each singled.

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Six Wolves have qualified for the Class A state track championships May 30 at Houseman Field in Grand Rapids.

The Clarkston girls' and boys' teams competed at the regionals May 16 at Port Huron Northern, with the girls placing fourth out of 17 teams and the boys took 12th out of 18.

Athletes placing first or second individually (or those who had a significant time or distance in third, fourth, etc.) qualified for the trip west.

Wolf girls qualified in five events. Senior Missy Fletcher, sophomore Kristen Stanton, freshman Christa Hanson and sophomore Angie Brown finished second in both the 800 meter relay (1:48.00) and the 1600 relay (4:13.8).

Stanton also took first in the high jump (5-2), Fletcher was second in the 400 dash (1:01.6) and freshman Leah Scharl was second in the 3200 (12:29.45).

The lone Wolf boy who qualified was Dan Griffiths. The senior finished third in the long jump at regionals, but his leap of 21 feet earned him a trip to state.

Other girls who placed at regionals were: Brown third in the 100 dash (13.23) and fourth in the 200 (28.14), Scharl fourth in the 1600 (5:44.45), Hanson fifth in the 200 (27.58), Rachel Seifferlein sixth in the shot put (33-0), Shannon Binkley sixth in the 100 high hurdles (17.38).

Other boys who placed were Paul Krause fourth in the shot put (47-4), Steve Cohoon fifth in the 800 run (2:03.0) and Derek Lachman eighth in the 3200 run (10:42.9).

Four days before the regionals, the girls' team crushed Waterford Mott, 108-19, and the Wolf boys were also victorious, 79 1/2 - 57 1/2.

Softball team advances to pre-district

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A four-run first inning and some stingy pitching by Heather Austin helped Clarkston's varsity softball win its biggest game of the season.

The Wolves topped host Hartland, 6-4, May 14 in a "qualifier" game, eliminating the KVC league champs from further post-season action. Clarkston now advances to the pre-district May 21 when it hosts Waterford Mott at 4 p.m.

"It was a big step in our program. Winning the qualifier was important to the girls," said Clarkston manager Al Land, whose young team only fields two seniors.

Clarkston sophomore outfielder Amanda VanKlaveran paced the Wolves' 14-hit attack with three hits. Shawna Greene, Austin, Annie McDonald and Anne Brueck each had two hits. Lisa Goforth, Kristi Bailey, and Alyson McChesney both added one hit.

Bailey also had two RBI and Austin scored two runs.

Land was quite pleased with his team's aggressiveness.

"The girls are doing an excellent job of stealing bases and executing the hit-and-run," said the manager.

Land was also impressed with hurler Austin.

"Heather pitched an excellent game," said Land. "She mixed her pitches and changed speeds to keep Hartland at bay."

Waterford Kettering 7, CLARKSTON 6 (May 7 at Waterford - 2nd game)

Clarkston led 5-0 in the top of the fifth but defending Class A state champ Kettering rallied for a 7-6 extra-inning victory.

The Captains scored once in the bottom of the seventh to tie and then won it with one run in the bottom of the eighth.

"The team turned the corner and became of age. We played the No. 3 ranked team in the state to extra innings and held a 5-0 lead," said Clarkston manager Al Land of his team which outlit the Captains 9-3. "The defense has become more aggressive and assertive."

Kristi Bailey smacked a double and single, scored twice and drove in two. Anne Brueck also had a pair of hits. Shawna Greene, Alyson McChesney, Lisa Goforth and Missy Phillips each had one hit. McChesney scored two runs.

The Wolves also recorded six stolen bases.

Heather Austin only allowed three hits in the loss.

"Heather pitched an excellent game," said Lang.

Captain Tracy Lang was the winning pitcher.

Waterford Kettering 4, CLARKSTON 1 (May 7 at Waterford - 1st game)

Tracy Lang threw a 1-hitter in Kettering's 4-1 victory in the opener of a double-header.

Alyson McChesney was the lone Wolf with a hit.

The Captains could only muster three hits against Wolf pitcher Heather Austin but it was enough to win.

"Heather has kept us in all our games. Now the defense is giving her more support," said Clarkston manager Al Land.

The Wolf manager focused on the good side of the loss against the state's No. 3 rated team.

"We have a young team that's beginning to realize that their potential is unlimited," said Lang. "They will be a force in the next two years."

CLARKSTON 12, Bloomfield Hills Lahser 10 (May 5 at Lahser)

Clarkston stole a dozen bases, scored a dozen runs and pounded out a baker's dozen of hits in a 12-10 victory over host Lahser.

"We had a 10-0 lead after two innings, made some substitutions and some mistakes occurred."

The Knights tied it with five-run innings in both the fourth and fifth but the Wolves won it with two in the sixth.

Alyson McChesney went 2-for-4 and scored three runs. Shawna Greene and Laura Seitz each stole three bases.

Heather Austin pitched four shutout innings. Erin Patterson allowed 10 runs in relief.

CLARKSTON 20, Pontiac Northern 1 (May 4 at Pontiac Northern)

Clarkston blitzed the host Huskies with a 14-run first inning and then coasted for a 20-1 five-inning "mercy" win.

"Everyone hit," said Clarkston manager Al Land, who tried to hold down the score by having all of his right-handed batters bat left after the big first inning.

Heather Austin struck out six Huskies in three innings and Erin Patterson fanned four in two innings.

THE Studebaker Home once stood alone at its present site and was surrounded by orchards. A flowering pear in the backyard is reminiscent of that time.

1850 Studebaker home brims with flowers, birds

BY JEAN SAILE
Clarkston News Special Writer

The Lorraine Studebaker home harbors a tidy package of history dear to Clarkston. It was one of the six original homes documented to bring about the village's designation as a National Register Historic District.

It—and four other Clarkston-area homes—will be open to the public during the 10th annual SCAMP Home Tour June 6 and 7.

Contained on a corner lot replete with beautifully preserved outbuildings, the one-time farm house, built in 1850, now looks out to a busy street instead of the fields it once dominated.

Mrs. Studebaker and her late husband, Enoch, moved to the home 32 years ago. As a resident of Davisburg prior to that, she can recall when an old windmill still stood outside the kitchen door.

Twenty-foot timbers still support the two-story part of the home, and there is some of the old plaster, once mixed with horsehair, remaining upstairs. "This home was built when two-by-fours were still two-by-fours," she reports. "And the sheathing was laid inside the studs."

"If you want to drive a nail into a wall, you pass through plaster, lath and wood," she says. Downstairs is to the rear and create a comfortable great room, very much of the late 20th century. Like the rest of the house, it is a fitting receptacle for antiques that blend well with the rich wooden Pennville Amish-built cabinets, but something of a surprise after the traditional living room with its 9-foot ceiling.

There, in the front of the house, old portraits look out at familiar furnishings. A Hoosier kitchen cabinet with its flour and sugar bins takes up one corner in the comfortable room. Not far away is an almost finished quilt Mrs. Studebaker is crafting from a top she was given, which was made in 1932.

In what was once the front parlor and now serves as a bedroom, other old quilts are on display. One is 109 years old, made by her husband's grandmother. Another, a 1936 wedding gift to her sister, features the intricate pattern variously known as Mohawk Trail, Drunkard's (See SCAMP, next page)

There are many bird-feeders in this yard, and Mrs. Studebaker talks knowledgeably about the woodpeckers, the house finches, the pine siskins, the cardinals and jays who come to call.

an old Michigan basement with its stone walls, since added onto.

The house has changed over the years. Old pictures show a room at the rear that is no longer there. The big front porch gave way to a smaller, tidier one, but the Studebakers had nothing to do with that.

What they did was move the kitchen from the front

A WREN house graces a flowering pear in Lorraine Studebaker's backyard.

LORRAINE Studebaker spends much time in her backyard, which is abundant with bleeding heart, grape hyacinth, peonies, roses, delphiniums, columbine and larkspur. A stone building — thought to be a milk house — makes for a quaint setting for the garden, as does the large barn, which serves as a garage and as a showcase for the Studebaker bottle and rock collections.

Path and Baby Dumping.

A visitor reaches the rear of the home down a narrow hallway, past a lacquered 1923 Clarkston High School graduation program which lists all seven of that year's class. It was the gift of a former neighbor.

Back here, the great room delights her, with its well-tended wood and plants, including those that flourish atop an antique sewing machine. "I have to admit it's my favorite spot," she says.

Out the window, across the garden, is the barn and, in front of it, a small stone building about the size of an out-house. "We never really did decide what it was used for," she says. "It couldn't have been a root cellar because there are no steps going down. We think it must have been a milk house."

It has been preserved, but another holdover from bygone days had to be destroyed. "A sinkhole developed by the walk, and we discovered it was an old brick cistern with a domed top," she recalls. She still regrets having to

But the barn has become her own private museum, containing thousands of bottles retrieved from what was once a dump on the hill behind their property, blue bottles found in the woods while her husband fished, copper ore from the Keewenaw, shells from numerous beaches and even some hunting trophies and tools of years gone by.

"It used to take the two of us four days just to wash and rearrange the bottles," she reports. A hand-blown (See STUDEBAKER, next page) champagne bottle with a kick-up bottom, indented, the marks of the mold and even a bull-shot imperfection in the glass catches her eye. "Isn't it lovely?" she asks.

"Out there," pointing to the garden, "I still find square nails." There are many bird-feeders in this yard, and Mrs. Studebaker talks knowledgeably about the woodpeckers, the house finches, the pine siskins, the cardinals and jays who come to call.

In the summer, a raspberry patch, a vegetable garden and an array of blooms from peonies to poppies, delphiniums and lilies grace their meeting place.

It's difficult to remember this oasis is in the heart of town.

Jean Saile of Independence Township is a former editor of The Clarkston News.

SCAMP home tour coming June 6, 7

Almost a century and a half of living is depicted by the five Clarkston-area homes, which are part of the 10th annual Clarkston SCAMP Home Tour on Saturday and Sunday, June 6 and 7.

The homes, dating from the 1850s to the 1990s, reflect everything from farm life of the pioneering days to the luxury of today's suburbia.

One is replete with a well-kept old barn, now a museum for artifacts gathered over the years. At the other end of the spectrum, a wrap-around deck provides a view of a summertime fountain display.

Gardens, a visitor will learn, are as important to the new as the old, and a riot of blooms is expected to greet touring visitors.

Tickets are $50 for the Saturday Golden Patron Tour at 7 p.m. June 6. A champagne reception is included.

On Sunday, June 7, the $15 tickets include a complimentary reception to the Clarkston Cafe. The reception is limited to the first 400 ticketholders.

Proceeds from the event help fund the Clarkston SCAMP program, a five-week summer camp for about 250 children and young adults with special needs. Based at Sashabaw Junior High School, the camp encourages self-confidence and active learning.

For more information, call 625-3330.

How can I propagate my old-fashioned lilacs?

Q. How can I propagate my old-fashioned lilacs? Do I take cuttings or what?

A. New lilac plants are produced from branches bent to the ground and covered with soil, then cut off after roots form.

Start by working up the soil beneath the bush and mixing organic matter into it. Then bend the branch down and make a slanting, 2-inch cut on the upper side of the branch about a foot from the tip. Dust the cut with rooting compound. Then bend the branch down and fasten it to the ground at a point between the parent plant and the cut.

Use a wooden peg, wire wicket or stone to hold the branch in place. Bend the tip of the branch upright and twist it a half-turn to open the cut. Then place another peg or pin over the branch at the point of the cut and cover it with 3 to 4 inches of firmly packed soil. Mulch the spot with straw or leaf mulch and water often enough to keep the soil moist.

If you start this spring, you should have a rooted plant by next spring. Then you can cut the new plant free of the parent plant. Give it three or four weeks to become accustomed to being separated from the parent. Then transplant it to its new location in the landscape.

Q. I didn't have much luck growing Chinese cabbage last year. Now I read that I should have planted it in the summer for a fall crop instead of in early spring. Is this true?

In Michigan, Chinese cabbage usually does better as a fall crop. It is sensitive to cold weather in the seedling stage and will bolt if exposed to temperatures consistently below 50 degrees for 15 days. Chinese cabbage is also sensitive to high temperatures, especially when heads are forming.

If you want to plant Chinese cabbage in the spring, choose bolting-resistant varieties for spring planting and hold off planting until late May — or later — when average temperatures are above 60 degrees. If you want the best chance for a successful harvest, plant Chinese cabbage in July or August for a fall harvest.

To nail carpenter ants, look for early signs of them

Spring is often the time of year when carpenter ants choose to hammer out their nests at your expense, according to Bernard Thomas, manager of the Novi Service Center of Terminix International.

Since spring can bring damp weather, this makes ideal conditions for carpenter ants to move inside.

"Carpenter ants love damp, moist areas," says Thomas. "Rain and dampness make wood soft and moist and easier to tunnel into. Places in the home that stay moist, like kitchens and bathrooms, are especially vulnerable. Also, eaves, fascia, window sills, door facings, and porch columns are likely spots."

Although carpenter ants can cause extensive damage to wood structures as they excavate their nests, they do not actually feed on wood as termites do, according to Thomas.

"Carpenter worker ants hunt for syrup, honey, jelly, meat, fruit, grease or fat," Thomas says. "They will eat dead or living insects or other organic matter."

Different from termites

You can also distinguish carpenter ants from termites by their appearance. Carpenter ants have elbowed antennae and a pinched waist, while termites have straight antennae and a thick waist. Both may have two pairs of wings, but a carpenter ant's wings are different sizes and shapes, while a termite's wings are the same shape and size.

"You can also look at damage and tell whether it's been done by carpenter ants or termites," Thomas says. "The galleries, or tunnels, caused by carpenter ants are very smooth and clean inside, which is why they are called carpenters. Termite tunnels, on the other hand, are rough and contain dirt and excrement called mud."

Carpenter ant colonies revolve around the queen, just as other varieties of ants do.

"A mature colony can contain thousands of ants," Thomas says. "And from those colonies, satellite colonies are formed, meaning infestation can occur very quickly."

Home sweet home

Carpenter ants often migrate into homes from dead limbs or stumps on the outside. Other favorite outdoor nesting places include firewood, fence posts, landscaping railroad ties, decks and porches.

According to Thomas, carpenter ants build indoor nests in basements, attics, beams, floors, walls, doors and window frames, behind dishwashers, washing machines and bathtubs, and hollow places.

"Places that have been exposed to moisture problems or recent leaks are especially attractive to carpenter ants," Thomas says.

Discouraging them

Although a home's cleanliness doesn't deter carpenter ants, homeowners can take some measures to discourage them. Thomas suggests:

■ Store firewood away from the house. Don't bring more firewood into the house that you plan to burn immediately.

■ Seal cracks around doors, windows, vents and the foundation.

■ Fix leaks or moisture problems inside and out.

■ Trim trees and bushes so they don't come in contact with your house.

■ Remove tree stumps and dead limbs.

■ Replace rotted wood on the exterior and interior of your house.

■ Make sure outside doors fit tightly.

■ Place screens on windows and vents.

■ Store foodstuffs in sealed containers.

Early signs

Spotting carpenter ants early aids in controlling them, Thomas says. "Look for trails of worker ants in the kitchen," he suggests. "Also take note of anything that looks like sawdust kicked out during tunneling. And listen for them. They make a rustling noise when they move around in the nest. Carpenter ants are usually a quarter-inch longer than other household ants."

Treating carpenter ants is not easy, Thomas says. "First, you have to locate the nest, which may be difficult. Then, treating often requires some drilling to disperse the chemicals effectively," he explains. "And since carpenter ants form satellite colonies and migrate, more than one treatment is usually necessary. It is important to treat all vulnerable spots inside and out."

If you need professional help

If you think carpenter ants are building in your home, it may be necessary to call in a professional. If you do seek professional help, Thomas recommends that you follow these simple guidelines when choosing a pest control company.

1. Be sure the company you contact is reputable and reliable. (If you have doubts, call the Better Business Bureau.)

2. Many firms offer free inspection. Ask about this service when you call.

3. Get more than one estimate and compare services.

4. Make sure the pest control company you choose guarantees their work.

The Handyman

Building fence good handyman project

Q: I would like to install a fence around my property. Is this a job I can do myself?

A: Generally the cost for the labor is more than half of the cost of fencing, so if you don't mind a little hard work, installing your own fencing is an excellent handyman project.

First, check with local building authorities to see if a permit is required. Usually, if a new fence is to sit on your property line, the adjoining landowner will be required to sign the permit application.

Get prices from local fencing contractors to do the work. They often will be glad to sell you the materials only and can show you the variety of styles and materials available. Whether wood, metal, vinyl, split rail, stockade, picket, board-on-board or chain link, choose a fence type that meets your budget and taste.

Wood fencing is typically either pressure-treated pine or cedar. Cedar costs more but will resist insects and soil moisture longer.

You will need the following tools: a posthole digger, level, tape, hammer and circular saw or jigsaw. You will also need about one bag of ready-mix concrete and one-third bag of gravel per post.

Start by digging a hole for your first post a little deeper than required. Set each post so that about one-third is below grade. Fill the bottom of the hole with gravel to provide drainage and a firm base. Fill the area around the post with concrete, making sure to slope the top so that water will not collect against the post. While setting the concrete, use a level to ensure that the post is plumb and level. Posts are set around 8 feet on center, depending on the type fence section.

Fence sections held up by the posts are either nailed or screwed to the face of the posts, between the posts or inserted into holes in the posts. Make sure that all attachment hardware is galvanized and won't rust. Cut off the bottom of the fence if required to make sure the fence does not sit in the dirt and to adjust for any small grade changes.

Gate hardware, hinges and latches can be purchased with premade gates or, if you prefer, gates can be made from a section of fence.

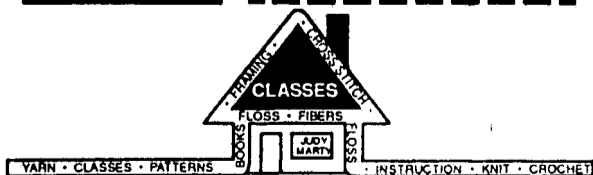

To prolong the life of your fencing, treat it with one of the many wood preservatives-waterproofing products now on the market.

Pesticides, fertilizers, dangerous to pets

Pets and wildlife are at risk when homeowners treat their lawns and shrubbery with pesticides and fertilizers.

According to the Michigan Humane Society (MHS), many chemical lawn and shrubbery care products pose danger to the health of animals.

But a few precautions can make a healthy and happy season for humans and other animals.

Diazinon and other chemicals

With the severe infestation of grubs in the area this year, many homeowners are using diazinon to eliminate the grubs and larvae from their lawns. Diazinon is a chemical that kills the grubs along with "good" insects and earthworms.

If not watered thoroughly into the ground, diazinon, other pesticides and some fertilizers can poison birds, squirrels and other wildlife that ingest the product. Domestic pets can roll or step in the chemical and become poisoned by licking themselves or absorbing it through the pads of their feet.

Organic products

MHS recommends that homeowners use safe lawn and shrub care products whenever possible. Most organic products are not harmful to humans, domestic animals or wildlife.

Both milky spore and parasitic nematodes are good organic lawn treatments specifically for grub infestations. It's important to read the precautions on all labels to determine the ingredients and instructions. A local nursery can determine the best organic products to use.

In case of contact, ...

If your pet comes in contact with a pesticide or fertilizer, be sure to wash him thoroughly with soap and water. An animal that has been poisoned by ingesting diazinon or another chemical lawn or shrub care product shows signs of illness by vomiting, uncontrollable twitching and watery diarrhea. At the first signs of illness, contact your veterinarian or animal hospital.

Plant exchange set

While you're working in the garden this month, keep in mind that the Fourth Annual Plant Exchange is set for 10 a.m. to noon Saturday, May 23, in downtown Clarkston.

Sponsored by the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club, the day is designed to give area residents a chance to share their surplus plants or to pick up a few specimens to fill an empty spot in the garden.

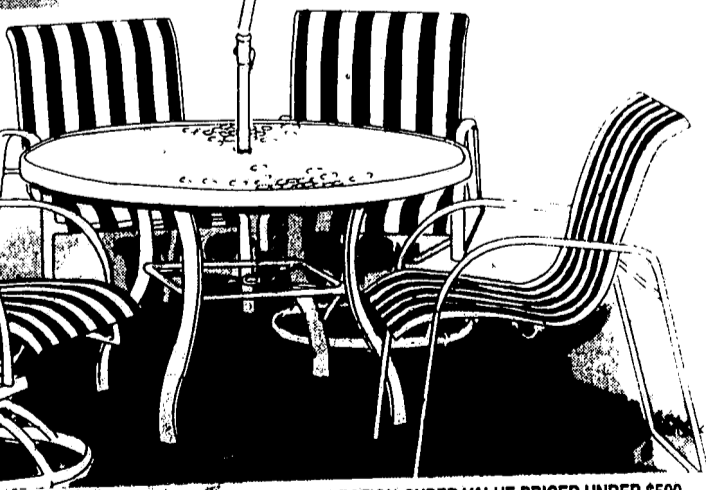

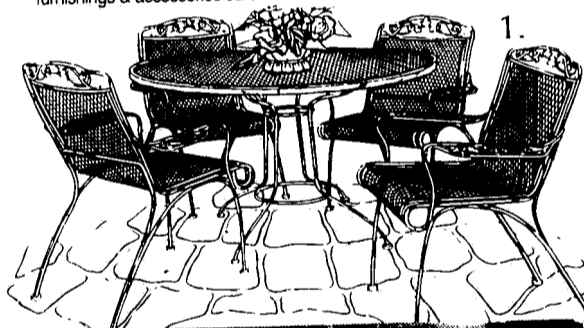

According to Gini Schultz, you need not bring plants in order to take plants.

"Last year, we had many plants to give away, mostly perennials," she said.

The exchange area is at the corner of Main and Washington streets, Clarkston. For more information, call Schultz at 625-3122.

Keep grass longer for made-in-the-shade lawn

Has your lawn looked a little ragged lately? Then give it new life by planting the seeds of success — shade-tolerant grasses. A shaded lawn competes with trees and shrubs for available sunlight, water and nutrients, so it's important to use a seed that is up to the challenge.

Fine leafed fescues and rough bluegrass are the perfect example. Developed specifically to grow well in the shade, these varieties are quick to establish. Select fine-leafed fescues for dry, shaded areas and rough blue-grasses for damp shade. Other grass types are prone to diseases and will lack the growing strength necessary to survive in these areas.

Having a great lawn is not as simple as just planting the right grass seed, however. A shade-tolerant landscape needs special care and maintenance to ensure that grass plants stay strong and healthy.

Here are five easy ways homeowners can maintain the healthy good looks of a "made in the shade" lawn, according to the experts at Lofts Seed:

■ Occasionally prune or thin trees and shrubs to increase the amount of air and light the lawn receives. Remove only the tree's inside or low-hanging branches. To protect against unnecessary tree damage, visit your local lawn and garden center and ask about appropriate pruning tools and procedures needed for the job.

■ Replace large trees and shrubs with dwarf types, which will reduce competition with grass for sunlight and space. This may seem like an expensive option, but the long-term benefits will quickly outweigh the short-term costs in labor and money.

■ Limit the amount of foot traffic on shaded lawns, which are generally thinner and more easily damaged than grass grown in full sun. Heavy wear also increases soil compaction, especially when the soil is wet, making it difficult for roots to grow in their search for food, water, and air.

■ Mow shaded lawns 3 to 4 inches high, rather than 1.5 to 2.5 inches normally recommended for sunny areas. Longer grass plants have more surface area available to catch sunlight needed for photosynthesis, which allows plants to take energy from the sun and convert it into food.

■ Water shaded lawns deeply but infrequently, as they tend to stay moist longer than those in sunny areas. Allow the area to dry before watering again.

Follow these simple instructions and your lawn will have it "made in the shade" this summer.

The above information is provided by Lofts Seed, Inc.

Simple care tips keep furniture looking new

Once you buy vinyl patio furniture, you'll want to maintain them to make sure they last long and look good.

Following are a few tips from Florida Casual Furniture based in Clearwater, Fla.:

■ Outdoor cushions are designed to be rained upon without being destroyed. But constant exposure to the weather will promote mildew and dirt build-up. If mildew does develop, you can purchase a cleaner at your pool and patio store to remove it.

■ Clean mesh fabric with a soft bristle brush, soapy water and a hose. If mildew develops, use an anti-mildew cleaner.

■ Treat acrylic fabric the same as mesh fabric.

■ Polish aluminum, steel and wrought iron frames with car polish at the beginning and end of each season.

For 'sunsational' lawn, water early and thoroughly

A lawn does for the landscape what human skin does for the body — provides shape, color and texture. But just like skin, lawns can suffer and burn from too much sun.

How can you help your lawn beat the heat this summer? Start by planting grass seed specifically suited for sunny conditions. Then, mow and water wisely throughout the growing season.

The best grass to plant for lawns in full sun is turf-type tall fescue. Its improved heat, drought and wear tolerance makes it the natural choice for many drier areas of the country. In addition, several new turf-type tall fescue varieties require minimal fertilizer and less water and have fewer disease or insect problems.

But, don't forget, even with the right grass seed, a lawn in direct sunlight still requires some tender, loving care in order to survive the dog days of summer.

■ Whether newly-seeded or well-established, every lawn needs water, especially if exposed to constant sun. That task can be tricky if you live in an area with imposed watering restrictions. Even so, there are several ways you can maximize watering efficiency.

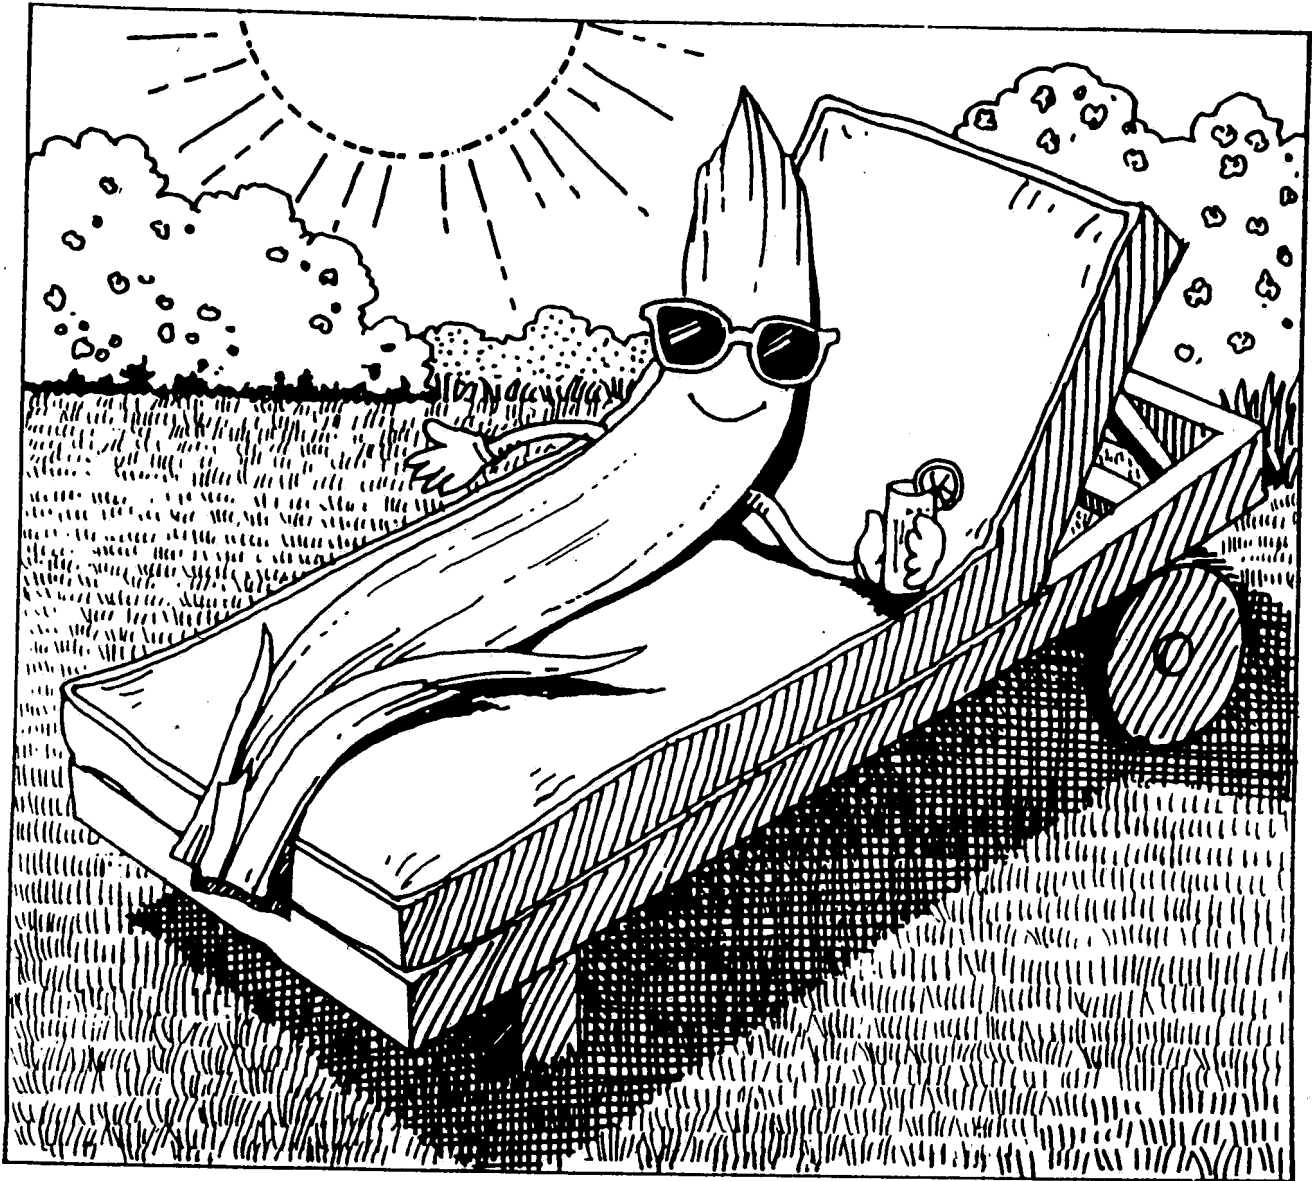

■ For example, water the lawn in early morning, between sunrise and 11 a.m., when the sun's rays are not yet at full strength. This will reduce the likelihood of water being lost to evaporation.

■ Also, try using an oscillating or impulse-type sprinkler for maximum coverage and water conservation.

Though grass growth slows dramatically in excessive heat, it's still necessary to cut the lawn periodically to keep it neat and healthy.

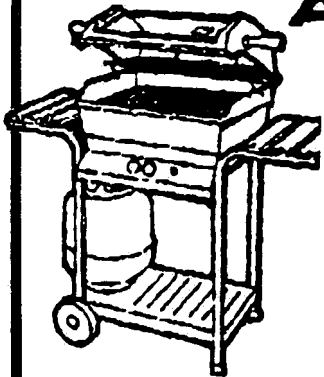

■ For best results, never cut more than one-third of the grass height or more than one inch of top growth at any one clipping.

■ And remember to keep the mower blades sharp. Dull blades damage tender grass plants, leaving ugly dead tips which eventually turn brown.

Try square-foot gardening to see produce multiply

BY TRACY KING
Clarkston News Special Writer

Don Smith is dropping tomato plants into his garden. The patch is located smack dab in the front of his house within the groomed Chestnut Hills subdivision in Independence Township, so he's trying to make it look nice.

The plot isn't all that big — just 8 feet by 8 feet — which is a good thing because weekends provide the only time Don has to keep it looking nice.

Most gardeners would pale at the thought of maintaining a front plot with mere hours each week, but not Don. Not only will he keep his garden weed-free all season, he could even grow 64 different varieties in the process.

This is not just some fancy fertilizer technique. Don practices square-foot gardening, an art he read about in a book by gardening guru Mel Bartholomew.

Following 'foot' steps

As he works, Don places his tomatoes between strings that section the plot into one-foot squares.

He could plant tomatoes in one square, radishes in another square, and so on. But even an old-square-foot-gardening-hand like Don says vegetables in that volume could be a little much.

"If you do a little calculation, that would be 64 different vegetables," he says, gazing over his plot. "That's why we put the asparagus in like we did."

Asparagus has begun to sprout in about a four-foot-square area of Don's plot. Though asparagus requires four to scape the current Independence Township home, Don planned a vegetable area.

He selected a sunny site and enclosed it with an 8-foot-by-8-foot-square frame that he made by nailing together four 2-inch-by-4-inch pieces of wood, each eight feet long.

He dug out six inches of soil from the framed area and loosened the six inches of soil beneath that. When replacing the top six inches, he added about 12 cubic feet of peat moss, four cubic feet of vermiculite, some sand and some compost. He sprinkled wood ash and a coffee can full of lime over the top.

When it comes time to plant, Don adds a natural fertilizer made of a mixture of blood meal, bone meal, wood ash and compost. He sprinkles this mixture into the garden about once a month during the growing season.

As for weeding, he picks a few squares a weekend and picks out the weeds as he waters. This rotation system keeps the garden looking neat all season.

A veritable variety

Because the square-foot method allows for such variety, Don has experimented with a lot of different vegetables in his five-year trials.

"One of Mel's rules is to plant what you like to eat," Don says. "And experiment."

Among the experiments Don would rather forget is the one involving corn.

"In a 4-foot-square area, I planted 16 stalks," he explains. "They were doing beautifully."

"Then the raccoons brought each one (See MANY, NEXT PAGE)

"We've got more than we'll ever eat here," he says, waving off protests.

Many varieties possible in small garden space up to my deck, ate the shucks and just left them here," he adds, wistfully.

Squash is another difficult vegetable to grow using the square-foot method, Don explains. If plants are large, it's best if you can grow them vertically using stakes. But the squash just didn't seem to grow well this way, he adds.

Along with sheer variety, the square foot-method allows gardeners to grow a lot more plants within a smaller space than, say, the row method.

Options for one square-foot area might include: 16 radishes, carrots or beets, or 12 onions, or six bean or pea plants, or four lettuce plants, or one of the major plants, such as broccoli, cabbage, peppers, tomatoes or cucumbers.

Don likes to rotate the location of the tomatoes, the beans and the cucumbers to prevent them from taking the same nutrients from the soil each year.

In the fall, Don adds more compost and covers the patch with plastic for the winter.

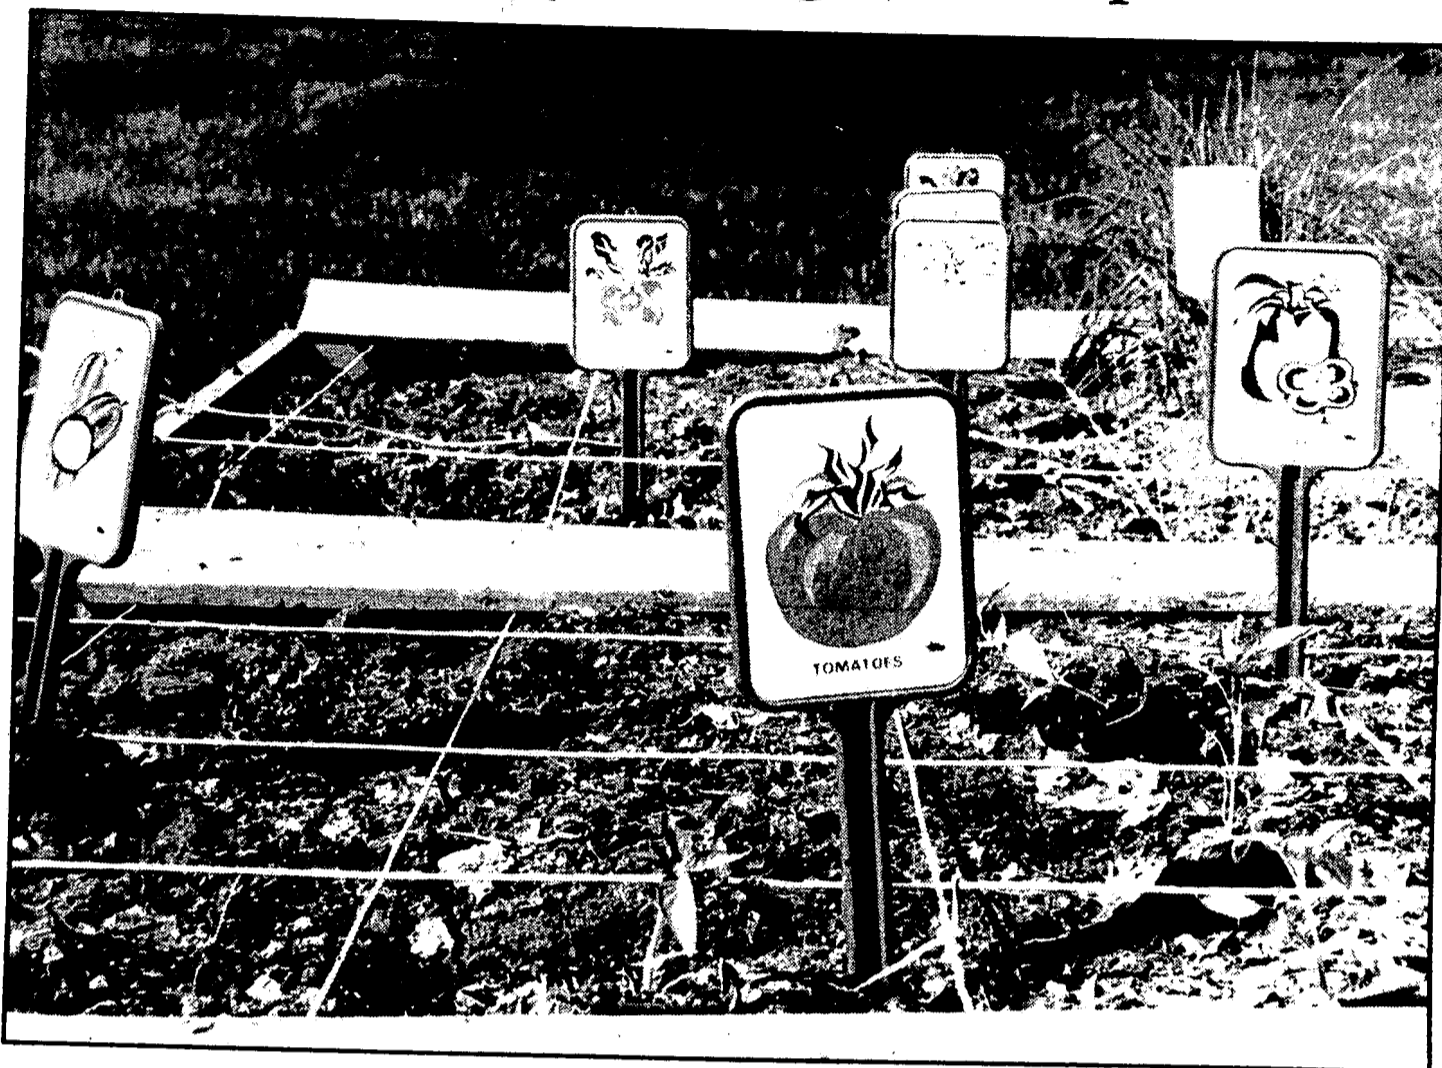

Beginning next spring, Don hopes to spread the word about the ease and pleasure of gardening the square-foot way. He is working on an idea to market single square-foot cartons complete with the proper soil and seed for growth right in the container they are shipped in.

About the only difficult task involved with square-foot gardening may be determining what to do with the large yield.

Don's solution?

"We give a lot of it away," he says.

Tracy King is a former associate editor of The Clarkston News.

DON Smith's patch was created with a simple 8-foot-by-8-foot frame, but the same techniques can be applied in a smaller garden sectioned into square-foot spaces.

The tulip tree boasts stunning flowers, leaves

BY JANET MCCORD

The Tulip Tree is the king of the Magnolia family, the tallest hardwood tree in North America.

It is a large, straight tree with tough outer bark and bitter inner bark. The flowers, which give it this name, are yellow or orange at base and a light greenish shade above.

Almost as brilliant are the leaves when they first appear, a glossy, sunshiny pale green. They deepen in tint in summer and in autumn turn a rich, rejoicing gold. Even in winter the tree is still not unadorned, for the axis of the cone remains, candelabrum fashion, erect on the bare twig when all the seeds have fallen. No wonder that in the gardens of France and England, this is one of the most popular of all American species.

This tree of stately beauty has a bewildering handful of folk names, but the foresters prefer "Tulip Tree" and with reason, since this name brings to mind the glory of this species in spring, when its flowers, erect on every bough, hold the sunshine in their cups, setting the whole giant tree alight.

The pioneer made a fine canoe of this straight-growing tree, hollowing out a single log to extreme thinness, for the wood is easy to work and one of the highest in the forest. Such a canoe 60 feet long Daniel Boone made and piled his family and his gear and sailed down the Ohio into Spanish territory from an ingrate Kentucky.

The pioneer sometimes built his home also of Tulip Tree logs and lined his well with it, since it imparts no taste to water. That same quality makes it today an appreciated crate for perishable food stuffs.

A FEW members of the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club pose in Clarkston's Depot Park near a 14-foot Tulip Tree planted in April. In front are President June Thomas (left) and Janet McCord, who planted the tree. In back

In the beginning of settlement, it went down under the ax in sheer destruction as many of our native trees, such as our oaks, are falling victims to the construction bulldozers now.

According to the Oakland County Planning Division, a recent survey of the remaining natural areas of Oakland County revealed that only one-half of 1 percent of the total acreage has any significant resemblance to its character prior to European settlement.

Oakland County was named for the abundance of mature oak forests when the first settlers arrived. Each day, more oaks fall to road widening, land clearing, etc.

This is true of other less abundant trees of the original landscape, such as the handsome "Buck" and Tulip trees. Such replanting that occurs in the landscaping of developments seldom include these original species. The replacements tend to be types that are easier to transplant. This is a reason to make a special effort to help restore some of these "original" trees.

A 14-foot Tulip Tree was planted April 8 in Clarkston's Depot Park, in recognition of the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club and its members, past and present.

Janet McCord of Independence Township is a member of the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club.

A mulching mower utilizes a multi-point multi-stage blade and a dome-like shaped deck. This unique design allows air suction to lift the grass clippings and cut and recut into fine particles. These particles are then blown back into the turf near the soil level.

Mulching returns the clippings to the soil where they decompose within 14 days. This returns the valuable nutrients to the soil giving you a healthier lawn. Mulching also reduces the evaporation of water from the soil.

Wildflowers abound in Michigan

Wildflowers can be seen in all of their splendor in Michigan woods and along its highways.

More than 200 species of wildflowers grow in the state, according to AAA Michigan. And Michigan has millions of wilderness acres, where wildflowers can be enjoyed in spring, summer and fall.

Experts recommend that beginning wildflower viewers visit a bookstore to buy a field guide that details the colors, characteristics, growing season and likely locations of the different species.

Along with the guide, pack bug spray and drinking water before beginning a search. Wear old clothes and comfortable boots or sneakers. And remember not to pick wildflowers. Many species are threatened or endangered and protected by state law.

Generally, May is a good month to view wildflowers growing in wetlands and woods. A good choice is beech and maple tree forests. Look for blue hepaticas, white trilliums, yellow trout lilies, gold marsh marigolds and yellow lady's slippers.

Viewing is best in June and later for shoreline and meadow/prairie wildflowers. Seek out the dwarf lake iris along the northern shores of Lake Michigan and Huron, pitcher's thistle and butterwort.

Meadow/prairie varieties include the black-eyed susan, Indian paintbrush, evening primrose and golden-rod.

AFTER Bob Ranta of Redford runs the 10K, he relaxes in a shady spot in Clarkston's Depot Park. Ranta's daughter, Sherry Aubuchon, lives on Pheasant Run, Independence Township; and her entire family also participated in Fun Daze May 16.

AS TERRY Holzer nears the finish line, he's greeted by his triplet daughters, Nicky, Ashley and Kelsey, 6, who run along with him. The girls and their brother, Reilly Holzer, 10, also ran in Fun Daze. Terry's wife and dog, K.C., watch from the sidelines.

Tree honors principal

Principal Bill Potvin now has a living reminder of his former post at Clarkston Elementary School. The school Parent Teacher Organization planted a tree in his honor on May 18, with help from a few students. Potvin now serves as principal of Pine Knob Elementary School.

Hands-on experience just for children

"World of Robotics" allows children to explore robotics at 7:30 p.m., May 27, at Clarkston Elementary's multi-purpose room. Support and Advocacy for Gifted Education (SAGE) is sponsoring the free program, which is presented by Mobile Ed Productions, which specializes in performances that entertain, explain and educate. The show is free to all students in grades 3-9. For more information, call Denise McIntyre at 625-7492.

Group helps those who are out of work

If you're out of work, you may be interested in attending a new support group meeting next week. A community-based support group in Springfield Township — formed to help those who have lost their jobs and are now seeking employment — is set for 10 a.m. Thursday, May 28, at the Hart Community Center in downtown Davisburg.

The meeting focuses on finances, coping with unemployment and exploring avenues for re-employment. Job training information and financial help available, and education will be discussed. Those attending the meeting should be prepared to list their individual job skills. Copies of these listings will be available to area businesses to rush the job search process.

Anyone interested in the first meeting should call Doug Lewan at the Springfield Township offices by May 26 at 625-4802 or 634-3111.

NO RESALE HASSLE.
Leasing can free you from the hassle of trying to sell a used car or truck. When it's time for a new vehicle, there's no uncertainty about your vehicle's value, no advertising or the inconvenience of talking to numerous prospective buyers.

Your leased vehicle carries the same 3 year/36,000 mile bumper-to-bumper warranty* as a financed vehicle - reducing or eliminating unexpected expenses.

Parks discount card offered to disabled

People with permanent disabilities have special reason to take advantage of Oakland County's parks.

They may be eligible for the discount card offered by the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission.

The pass for individuals with disabilities will permit free entry on weekdays for the cardholder and vehicle passengers at Addison Oaks, Groveland Oaks and Independence Oaks. The card also entitles its holder to a reduced entry fee of $3.50 at Red Oaks and Waterford Oaks waterparks, and 25 percent off camping at Addison Oaks and Groveland Oaks at all times.

To be eligible for the card, applicants must be

Oakland County residents at least 18 years of age and have a permanent disability (mental or physical). They must also receive some type of disability compensation from a recognized agency and have a signed physician's statement certifying their disability.

For more information about the Handicap Discount Card or therapeutic recreation programs offered by the Oakland County Parks, call Sandy DeVonce at 858-0913 or Tedde Schild at the Easter Seals Society at 338-3030.

Helping handicapped

Three Clarkston-area service stations are listed in a state guide to service stations in Michigan that pump gasoline for handicappers at self-service prices.

More than 1,100 service stations in Michigan, including 137 in Oakland County, provide that service, according to the "Pump Guide," published by members of the petroleum industry.

The guide lists the names, brand names, addresses and telephone numbers of stations that have volunteered to pump gasoline for handicappers. Handicappers must have a valid plate or permit and no one else who can assist.

The guide is available at Secretary of State branch offices.

In the Clarkston area, the following pump gasoline for handicapped drivers: Clarkston Shell (Pete Doneth), 7521 Ortonville Road, 625-7233; Ed Roy's Amoco, Inc. (Edward J. Roy), 6480 Sashabaw Road, 625-4722 (6 a.m. to 10 p.m.); and Hop In (76), 6550 Dixie Highway, 625-8551 (8 a.m. to 6 p.m.).

Appointed by governor

Dale Grable of Clarkston was among the seven appointments to the Athletic Board of Control named by Gov. John Engler May 13.

The board licenses and regulates professional and amateur boxing, sparring and wrestling exhibitions.

Grable, who served as captain of the Detroit Fire Department before his retirement, is secretary for the Michigan Association of Professional Boxing Officials. He is a member of the International Boxing Federation and the World Boxing Organization. Grable served as chairman of the Silver Gloves and the Michigan Amateur Boxing Federation.

He has been appointed to serve as a professional member, replacing Rosemary Grable of Clarkston for a term ending March 31, 1996.

Family wins honors

Ronald and Karen Fraley of Davisburg received 15-year awards from the Macomb-Oakland Regional Center (MORC), a state agency of the Michigan Department of Mental Health.

The Fraleys and seven other foster and adoptive families received the honor at the Foster and Adoptive Appreciation Day.

Currently, MORC serves more than 1,500 people with developmental disabilities in a variety of community settings, including 220 small group homes and 70 apartments.

Free wildlife program

Wildlife enthusiasts may be interested in a free program 1 p.m. Wednesday, June 3, at the Independence Township Library community room.

Sponsored by the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club as a gift to the community and a thank-you for the support from area residents, the wildlife encounters program, "Michigan's Valuable Wetlands," is conducted by Tim Treadway.

The biologist-lecturer has worked as a wildlife interpreter for the Living Science Foundation and has lectured at Central Michigan University's Department of Biology.

For more information, call Gini Schultz at 625-3122.

THE ONE-MILE Fun Run/ Walk attracts a few serious runners May 16 in downtown

Clarkston. Patrick Heber, 9, of Sashabaw Road finished in first place, then ran the 5K.

Paul O'Connor, 9, of Mary Sue Street finished second. Others walked the scenic course.

On your mark ...

JIM BEDOR of Woodcrest Ridge managed to run the 10K while pushing Jodie, 2 1/2, the entire distance. "In the hills, it's the pits," he said, minutes after finishing.

RUNNING is sometimes a family affair during Clarkston's Sixth Annual Fun Daze. At left, John Twedt of Reese Road, Independence Township, runs while pushing his 6-month-old son, John, along the way. About 400 participated in the event. Overall finisher in the 5K was Steve Elliott, with a time of 16.19.

Kathleen McInnis of Clarkston finished sixth overall and first of the females, with a time of 19.27. In the 10K, Mark Neal finished first overall, with a time of 33.5. For the females, Laura Murphy finished first in 37.41, good enough for 10th overall. (Photos by Julie Campe)
