Cityhood wins Supreme Court battle

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Independence Township came up empty in a last-ditch chance to stop Clarkston cityhood.

The Michigan Supreme Court has upheld an earlier ruling by the State Boundary Commission.

The June 10 decision ended a two-year court battle between the township and boundary commission, which approved the concept of Clarkston vying for cityhood in January 1990.

The verdict came after numerous appearances in the Oakland County Circuit Court and the Michigan Court of Appeals. Each time, the court decided in favor of the boundary commission.

The finality of this case now provides the village with a barrier-free course with destiny — attaining cityhood status July 1.

According to Independence Township attorney Gerald Fisher, the seven-judge Supreme Court refused to hear the

Catallo elected first city mayor

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Sharron Catallo was elected as Clarkston's first mayor by a slim 22 votes Monday, June 15.

Catallo, the current village council president, edged Charles Weber, 106-84.

Six city council candidates also ran for six positions. Weber, who thought the race would be close, was happy despite the loss.

"I'm pleased by all of the support," said Weber, a retired office manager for a Secretary of State branch office and former state police trooper.

Weber favors as little government as possible. He said the close vote was a message to the council.

"They do not have the whole approval of everybody there," said Weber.

Weber thinks the village's transition to a city in July will increase the cost of government. Catallo and the village council insist that hardly any change in costs will occur.

Catallo was not available for comment.

City council members and their recorded votes were: Stephen Secatch (144), Karen Sanderson (135), Douglas Roeser (132), Stephen Arkwright (127), William Basinger (124) and James Schultz (119). Roeser, Basinger and Schultz are incumbents.

ship to appeal the ruling, putting a close to the matter. Despite the ruling, Fisher still believes there's some unfinished business at the state level in regards to the incorporation of a city within a charter township.

"By the Supreme Court not acting on the case, this is still an undecided issue," Fisher said. "My opinion is that there's a need to clarify this issue in the Michigan Legislature."

When asked his feelings on the verdict, township supervisor Frank Ronk responded curtly.

"It's over," he said. "We'll continue working with the city. Our problem was never with them, it was with the boundary commission."

Ronk said he's presently looking for a temporary apartment in the township, so he can take up residency by July 1. Ronk currently lives within village limits and he wouldn't be able to legally act as township supervisor while living within another municipality.

He's the only elected township official facing the residential dilemma.

According to township Clerk Joan McCrary, the township has spent $16,560 in attorney's fees during the two-year battle. This sum represents total costs up to April 1992, with May and June fees still pending.

Extra sign OK'd

An extra sign at an area drug store received special permission from the Independence Township Planning Commission June 11.

MBC Signs requested that they be allowed to place a "Lotto/Liquor" sign on the wall of M & R Drugs in Independence Town Square Shopping Center at Sashabaw and Waldon roads.

Township ordinances allow only two signs per business unless the commission gives special permission.

Since the third sign would not exceed the maximum square footage given to stores for signage, the commission decided to allow it.

The village has spent around $12,000 in attorney's fees in support of the boundary commission, village manager Artemus Pappas reported.

McCrary said the township will continue to work with the village to make their transformation to cityhood a little easier. She said the township is presently changing voting precincts, so the city can be ready to conduct its own elections.

Village President and newly elected city mayor Sharron Catallo said she expected the decision all along but was saddened by the length of the battle.

"We're pleased with the decision, but sorry it went this far in the courts," she said.

Despite the lawsuit's outcome, Catallo said the new city and township should continue to have a good rapport in the future.

"I think we'll continue to get along. We've always had good relations, even though some people in this community might think otherwise," she said. "Our two boards are really quite similar in that we agree on most issues involving our respective areas."

Susin Lake hearing

Weeds in Susin Lake are the topic of a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, July 1, at the Springfield Township Hall.

The hearing focuses on the Susin Lake Improvement Plan, which is designed to maintain and improve the recreational quality of Susin Lake by chemically treating and/or harvesting weeds in selective locations as needed.

The two-year project includes 1992 and 1993 treatment.

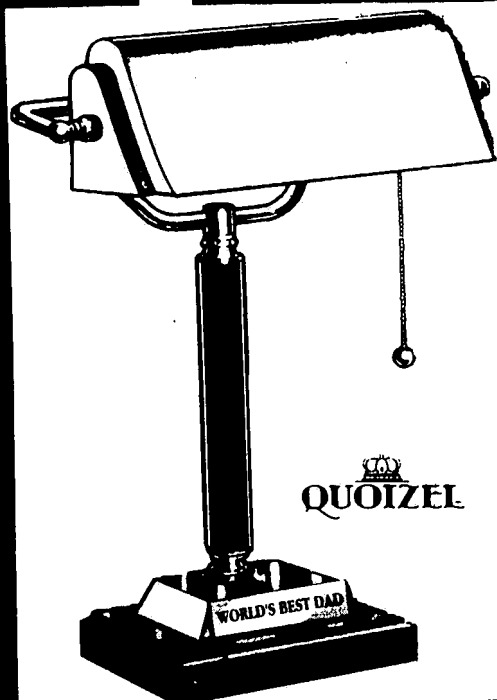

A lake study is to be conducted by an outside consultant to determine the condition of the lake and the success of the treatment, and to recommend short- and long-range treatment measures.

The estimated $32,000 cost of the improvement is to be spread over two years and paid for by residents of the lake, which is northeast of Dixie Highway.

Springfield clerk to retire after 20 years

BY CATHERINE PASSMORE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

More houses, more people and more cars have changed Springfield Township over the years, but some things have remained the same.

Grave-digging, for instance. That falls under the responsibility of township Clerk J. Calvin Walters, and occasionally, he finds himself digging a grave by hand if he can't find anyone else to do it.

But he won't have to worry about that much longer. He opted not to run for re-election and instead plans to move to Florida.

"It's been 20 years — (it's time to) let someone young hold my position," he said about his retirement.

Walters, 57, was appointed to the clerk vacancy in 1972. He had never held a political position before, but his mother had been the township treasurer, and people knew he had an interest in the community.

As clerk of Springfield Township, Walters has been responsible for all township records and legal publications, accounting and payroll, and elections — plus, he's responsible for the township cemeteries, which is where the grave digging came in.

"I found it easier to do it myself sometimes," he said. He is quick to point out that digging graves isn't something that every clerk will have to do.

Walters said the next clerk should "always try and be friendly, be opened minded, listen to the constituents, and work to control development in the area as much as possible."

He endorses Jim Ashley as his successor. "He's a family man who has lived in the community for a while. He has the personality that would let him be a good clerk, and he'd do a good job."

In his 20 years as clerk, Walters said that community's greatest changes have been the tremendous growth in population, single-family homes and multiple-family dwelling. His advice: "You can't stop the growth, but you have to control it."

Walters said that after he and his wife, Carole, move to Florida, he still plans to work. He's held a real estate license for more than 25 years, so he might continue in that area in his new home state, he said.

Overall, Walters said his tenure in Springfield Township government has been satisfying.

"It's been a pleasure working with the residents of the township for the past 20 years," he said.

New path

A SAFETY path will soon be constructed along the east side of White Lake Road (from Holcomb Road to Dixie Highway). The path will also extend over a new bridge located across from Deer Lake Beach. Independence Township has agreed to pay for the operation, with the village-city of Clarkston reimbursing the township about $5,000 annually for the next 10 years. (Photo by James Gibowski)

Clarkston-Independence contracts OK'd Monday

Township to provide fire protection, library services for city; police service unresolved

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

With cityhood less than three weeks away, Independence Township and Clarkston village officials have agreed on some service-related issues.

The two boards met June 15 to discuss a variety of topics. These issues included: safety path compensation, fire protection services, police service, a districtwide library and building department services.

In the joint meeting, both boards agreed on a fire service contract. Under the agreement, Clarkston will pay the township 3 mills a year, plus a 10 percent administrative fee for protection. Three mills is $3 for every $1,000 assessed property valuation.

This contract coincides with the township's millage renewal for four years, starting Jan. 1, and will be adjusted each year to the city's current state equalized value. The city is to make bi-annual payments to the township.

Until Jan. 1, the city will be covered under the existing contract.

Village officials also agreed to repay the township money it loaned for construction of a safety path on White Lake Road. Both boards agreed that the village would pay around $5,000 per year, not to exceed 10 years, for the safety path.

This safety path will eventually run along White Lake Road from Holcomb Road to Dixie Highway, Independence Township.

The government officials didn't come to any type of compromise on police protection. However, township officials said they would ask substation commander Lt. Joe Quisenberry of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department if a mini-contract could be devised to allow deputies in the city the day of the Fourth of July Parade.

Supervisor Frank Ronk also informed the village that this could be the last parade downtown Clarkston could see for a while because of the unavailability of police protection, alternative sites, such as Sashabaw Road and Dixie Highway, are being considered for subsequent parade routes.

The ultimate decision of parade routes is up to the Independence Township Fire Department, which conducts the Fourth of July parade.

For building department services, Clarkston has turned down the township's offer of a $9,000 annual contract and instead will contract with an outside agency.

Both boards also agreed on becoming equal partners in a new districtwide library, which is presently the township library. Responsibility for the library would be up to a new library committee, with the township and city sharing in operational costs. These costs would be proportionate to the municipalities' populations.

According to township Clerk Joan McCrary, the new districtwide library could be in effect by Aug. 1. Until this time, city residents will enjoy all the privileges that they are regularly accustomed to at the library on Clarkston Road.

Teachers, board tentatively agree on calendar

For parents who like to plan in advance for vacations and personal time, it's now safe to schedule events.

A tentative school calendar for the 1992-93 Clarkston school year has been released.

The Clarkston Education Association and Clarkston Board of Education agreed on the schedule, but it won't be official until the entire teachers' contract is finalized, said Duane Lewis, director of personnel services.

"They're moving along well at present," he said.

Police shut down high school LSD syndicate

A gang's dream of creating a Clarkston-based LSD syndicate has been snuffed by the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Police look for grenade owner

Investigators with the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSA) are searching for the person who left a "live" hand grenade along the 6000 block of Paramus, Independence Township.

According to Detective Joe Duke, the grenade was found by a 9-year-old child around 8 p.m. Friday, June 12. The Oakland County Bomb Squad was called to the residence, where a specialist disabled the explosive device within 15 minutes.

Duke said the bomb was originally a "dummy grenade," like one available at an Army surplus store. However, someone implemented a fuse and numerous explosive materials in its inner core to make it lethal.

"The bomb specialist on the scene said it would have made a real nasty bang had it went off," Duke said. "Undoubtedly, anyone in the proximity would have been injured severely had it detonated."

Duke said the grenade, which was a smooth, post-Korean War model, was probably modified by a teen. He said the person or persons responsible probably has experience or knows someone who re-loads shotgun shells.

The OCSA is offering a $100 reward to anyone who can provide information leading to the owner of the grenade. Information can be forwarded to Duke at 620-0202.

five young men who were the mainstays of a gang called "The Family." According to Detective Doug Edgar, the 10-member group allegedly had ambitions of creating an LSD network at Clarkston High School and eventually branching countywide.

However, three months of investigation and surveillance on the part of the OCSA has led to the impending arrests of five members. They include: Stanley Watkins, 17, Clarkston; Jason Smith, 18, Clarkston; Bryce Kidder, 17, Clarkston; Mark Bierman, 20, Troy; and Phil Laycock, 18, East Lansing.

Each man is being charged with a count of conspiracy to deliver LSD. This felony carries a maximum sentence of seven years imprisonment.

LSD, or lysergic acid diethylamide, is an organic compound that induces psychotic symptoms similar to those of schizophrenia.

Edgar said the police nabbed the gang in the early developmental stages of its network. Operating out of Clarkston High School and parts of Waterford, Royal Oak and Troy, "The Family" allegedly had lofty goals. These aspirations included the eventual infiltration of both of

Industrial site inspected; no changes recommended

Neighbors of the Valentine Industrial Park won't notice any big changes after complaining to the Springfield Township Board last month.

The board took no action June 11 after investigating area residents' complaints of noise and pollution near the site.

Township Clerk J. Calvin Walters said some suggestions were made to the manager of the Valentine Industrial Park about keeping the yard clean and quiet.

But nothing else will be changed, he said.

Jack Cash, senior public health sanitarian for Oakland County, stated in a letter to the board, "The inspection was made due to a complaint about the condition of the yard and some practices which were a nuisance and a potential health hazard for some close neighbors."

"At the time of our inspection no major problems were observed," said Cash.

Clarkston's junior high schools and all of Oakland County, Edgar learned through confessions.

Edgar said arrest warrants were issued after a few people came forward and enough surveillance-based information was collected "to put the finger on the gang." He added that the drugs were transported to Clarkston from Lansing and Troy.

Considered a drug of the 1960s and 1970s, LSD is apparently making its way back into mainstream America.

"LSD is definitely making a comeback," Edgar said. "It's cheap, affordable and easy to conceal. And at five dollars a hit, everyone can afford it."

Edgar said the five men are expected to be arraigned in 52nd District Court, Independence Township, this week.

Julie

With bright summer sunshine beckoning from without, it's difficult not to respond.

Since I can't bodily go into the sunshine (due to such work duties as writing this column), I'll let it infiltrate my state of mind.

It's time to appreciate some things that so often go unnoticed. Here's my list.

■ Grocery carts that are quiet and roll smoothly and straight.

■ Diet Mountain Dew, which definitely wakes me up in the afternoon.

■ Roses.

■ Smiles.

■ My dad's hamburgers on the grill.

■ My husband's breakfasts in bed.

■ My father-in-law's chicken on the grill.

■ Strawberry shortcake.

■ Fruit of any kind. (Has anyone ever tasted a disagreeable fruit?)

■ Good books. (It's comforting to know that we'll never run out of good books to read.)

■ Good movies. (These are more difficult to come by.)

■ Enjoyable co-workers.

■ Helpful school staff members. (I have yet to meet a school secretary who is not very helpful and pleasant.)

■ Cute kids.

■ Good friends.

■ Funny family members.

■ Humor in general. (Especially that found in "The Far Side," "Calvin and Hobbes" and our own "Off Track" by Bruce Worden.)

■ Friendly store owners, such as Leta Calcote, Carol and Don Borgmesser and Buck and Joan Kopietz.

■ Manners. (As former News reporter Sandra Conlen used to say, you don't notice them until they're missing.)

■ Good storytellers (especially Bill Morse — he has a way with words that I'll never forget).

■ Smooth roads.

■ Motorists who use their blinkers (at the right time and place).

■ People who give time and money to improve the community. (I love the flowers planted by the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club, and the library is a tribute to the many groups that contributed to its existence, and a few area families have food and clothing thanks to those who contribute to Light-house North — and the list could fill up an entire column on its own.)

Letter to the Editor

Peach queen recalls town

I am writing to see if any of your readers remember my mother, Helen Cheeseman Corless, whose family lived in the Clarkston community during the '20s and '30s. Perhaps they would be interested in knowing of her whereabouts and something of the following about her.

Mother attended Clarkston schools, Michigan State, Albion College and Wayne State College. In 1932, at age 23, she was named the Michigan Peach Queen at Romeo and was flown to Washington to present President Hoover with a basket of Michigan peaches.

The Cheeseman family was well known for their ice cream business in Clarkston and other communities. While she was in Charleston, S.C., in 1932-33 with the family ice cream business, she met and later married my father, Birdsell Corless. They have since lived in the Charleston area, raised six children and enjoy retirement years.

My parents now live at 113 Tasker Drive, Summerville, SC 29485. For the past six years, Mother has been writing her autobiography, "Memoirs of Michigan Peach Queen," which has recently been completed (in manuscript form — 111 computer-typed pages). It includes many interesting recollections of childhood activities and events in amazing detail. We are so pleased these memories are available to us.

Mother loves to write and would love to hear from any of her classmates and/or friends from back then. Your correspondence would mean a lot to her, and I'm sure you would get an immediate reply.

In addition, if any readers would be interested in her book, the cost for copying and shipping it would be $35 and can be ordered via a letter to my mother and check (payable to her). I'm not trying to push the book, but it would certainly be interesting reading for older people who grew up in that area and/or perhaps knew my mother.

I hope this letter reaches at least someone who will drop her a line. I appreciate your newspaper passing along this information.

Helen's youngest son,
Dave Corless

I'm sure Jottings readers knew when I wrote I was going to China they would be subjected to a whole lot of Oriental-type stuff.

I'm not going to disappoint them. I'm about written out, though, so this should end it.

I'm trying not to repeat anything, trying to hold boredom to a minimum. This column will have to do with 'it's a small world' and 'things I'll remember.'

There was a geologist among the 48 Michigan State alumni on this 19-day venture. He was a tall, gangling guy who must have thought he had an obligation to the university to wear his green-and-white baseball cap with the block "S" on it.

We were standing around the waiting room at the airport in Wuhan (you do a lot of waiting in China) when a young man approached, asking who was from Michigan State.

The young man was Craig Everlove. He went to Oxford High School his junior year, 1978. He was a friend of Devona Olrich, whose parents were with us.

Now living in Troy, he was in China trying to sell machinery.

Several days later, in Hong Kong, I started talking to a guide. A man nearby heard me say 'Michigan.'

"Where you from in Michigan?" he asked. I usually answer such questions, "45 miles north of Detroit." "Where north of Detroit?" After a couple more questions I said, "Oxford."

He said, "I got two sons who live in Oxford, Maurits and Steve Lang." He's the Lang's step-father, formerly of Pontiac, now of Florida. When I

Opinions

From the superintendent ...

A loss of 32 juniors and seniors

Gary Haner

Recent comments and statistics reported by Mr. Larry Gilleland have been extremely confusing to the public. We would like to continue to clarify to following points:

■ The loss of 32 juniors and seniors mentioned by Mr. Gilleland breaks down as follows:

Dropped from CHS: 73

28 moved to other districts

20 moved to Alternative High School

3 to rehabilitation or correspondence school

22 left for other reasons

New at CHS: 41

Net loss: 32

■ The number of classroom teachers has declined since the early '80s, not remained "basically the same." In 1980, we had 308 teachers with a student/teacher ratio of 21.6:1. In 1991-92, we have had 292 teachers and a student/teacher ratio of 19.2:1.

■ The administrative staff at Clarkston schools totals 21. This includes a principal in each building (8), assistant principals in the secondary schools (4), central office administrators (5), and directors of community education, special education, athletics, and information systems. (Also serving our district and other local school districts are the principal and assistant principal at the Oakland Technical Center-Northwest.)

We have dropped one Central Office position as a result of Dr. Robert Burek's resignation and the reassignment of Mr. Vaara, and the reduction at Central Office will continue indefinitely.

■ Mr. Gilleland implies that there is a connection between teacher layoffs and the failed April bond election. There is no connection. The layoff of teachers was caused primarily by money lost to the state "tax freeze" and the state-imposed "tax base sharing."

Bond money cannot be spent on anything except buildings and equipment. By law, it cannot be used to pay teacher salaries.

■ Regarding Mr. Gilleland's dissection of our Long Range Plan, here are the facts. Six strategies were presented to the school board. They addressed the following topics: finance, professional development of employees, recruiting, monitoring and evaluating our curriculum and student and employee self-esteem.

Ten of our 21 clarifying statements deal directly with curriculum issues or would have a major impact on curriculum programs.

Thirty-four of the 96 tasks presented to the board focus on curriculum development and evaluation. Twelve deal with facilities issues.

Curriculum is our focus — it's what we do.

We welcome the opportunity to share additional information with the public and will be presenting a column at least twice a month. If you have specific questions or ideas for discussion, please call us at 625-4402.

'If it Fitz ...'

Tragic death should put helmet on kids

Jim Fitzgerald

Flowers have been placed on a fourth-grade classroom desk where a child no longer sits. Emily has begun wearing a helmet when she rides her bicycle, even though some little boys stung her by saying it made her look like "a retard."

A little girl was killed.

She was 10-year-old Lynn Bankstahl of Lapeer. I never met Lynn or her family, but I cried when I heard the tragic news. Lynn was my granddaughter Emily's classmate. She was a beautiful girl, according to her picture in the local newspaper, and an all A, perfect attendance student. Lynn was fatally injured May 27 when she pumped her bicycle out of a side street and into the side of a pickup truck at an intersection only a couple of blocks from Emily's home.

It's the intersection of a much-used crosstown street and a much-less-busy side street, in a residential neighborhood where traffic usually moves at only 15 to 30 m.p.h. But a driver's view is limited by hilly terrain. Emily and her bicycle cross there nearly every day. Her parents long ago instructed Emily to walk the bike across. But kids don't always do as they're told.

It's the same intersection where, 30 years ago, my wife's car hit a little girl on a bike. She calls it the scariest moment of her life. She was driving home from the grocery store with our 12-year-old daughter. My wife saw a bike shoot out of the side street without even slowing down. It was about half a block ahead. Not a real close call, but close enough to prompt my wife to exclaim, "Would you look at that. . ."

At that point, our daughter shouted, "Here comes another one!" Her warning may have saved a life. My wife jammed on the brakes, not quite soon enough to avoid the collision, but the impact was minimal. The girl suffered nothing worse than a skinned knee. Whew!

In those days, few bicycle riders wore protective helmets. These days, many do. Bill McGraw does. A Free Press reporter, McGraw hit a pothole while bicycling last month. He was thrown from the bike and through the window of a parked car, head first. He was banged up, but back to work in a week.

"If I hadn't been wearing a helmet, I would have been killed," McGraw said. "Everyone who rides a bike should wear a helmet."

Little Lynn Bankstahl didn't. She was thrown from her bike, and she died from massive head injuries. No one, of course, can say for sure that a helmet would have made a difference.

But it can be said that it wasn't unusual that a 10-year-old biker wasn't wearing a helmet. It seems that almost all the helmets are on adult bikers. How many helmets do you see on youngsters pedaling to school?

I certainly don't mean to suggest that Lynn's parents were irresponsible. They were typical. The parents of my little granddaughters didn't buy the helmets until after Lynn was killed two blocks away. It would never have occurred to me to write this column if Emily's classmate hadn't been killed.

I know it could have been Emily instead of Lynn. It makes me gasp to realize how grateful I am that it wasn't. And it makes me feel guilty to be so thankful that I had better luck than another grandfather who surely loved his granddaughter just as much as I love mine.

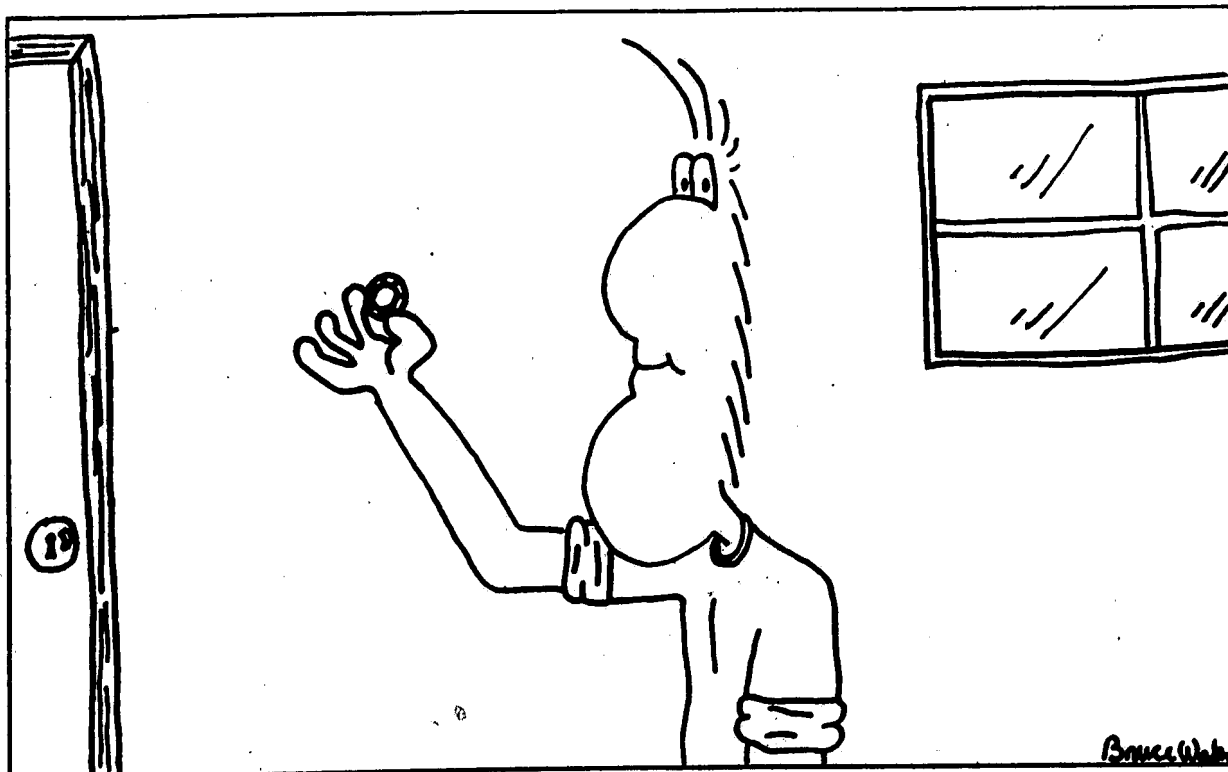

Perhaps it's the guilt that puts me on this stump. I didn't do anything 30 years ago, after the girl my wife hit was luckier than Lynn. But now I'm compelled to preach helmets, especially for young bikers who must depend on adults to know what's good for them.

Children always have and always will say thoughtlessly cruel things. It comes with the territory, so it isn't surprising that some little boys called Emily "a retard" for wearing a helmet.

But adults don't have the excuse of childishness. It's our responsibility to teach our children it isn't dumb to wear a helmet while riding a bike; it's life-saving.

And the life saved could be that of the child sitting at the next desk in a fourth-grade classroom. Or worse.

Deeply touched

Regarding the Guest Column by Jessica (Jockwig) Hirt, "My best, most favorite teacher ... for always," I just had to write a response to say how deeply touched I was, as well as shocked that she had remembered her second-grade year so vividly.

I, too, remember my first year of teaching vividly — there were 32 children in that class, and it was filled with bright-eyed, eager to learn, bouncy 7-year-olds. They were delightful and we did have a wonderful year together.

My first five years of schooling took place in a one-room rural school with a beautiful silver-haired teacher named Verona Donovan. She was a gifted teacher, and anyone who ever had her for a teacher never forget her.

She created an exciting, wonderful environment for learning, and she insisted that her students work up to their abilities. She's the reason I've always had a love affair with schools, reading and learning.

I suppose without realizing it, I've tried to create that same environment and excitement in my classroom. What an impact teachers have on children! I've always been sensitive to this, but even more so after reading Jessica's tribute. Children are so vulnerable and have to be treated with utmost respect.

I've worked with children since beginning babysitting at age 9. It's always fascinating to me that one child has never ever been remotely like another child.

I have so enjoyed my teaching career, and it is bittersweet to be retiring. The time does come, however, when you need to do different things and move into new phases of your life. That's exciting, too.

Thank you, Jessica, for the beautiful tribute, and thank you to all the children I have been privileged to teach.

Jo Vaara

One of a kind

My name is Kathi Cooper and I have an 8-year-old daughter named Maria. Maria has a serious health problem I won't mention but is chronically ill. She is in second grade this year.

I am asking you on behalf of my daughter and myself to acknowledge a one-of-a-kind teacher at Clarkston Elementary: Sherrill Bailey.

She is not your ordinary teacher, and Maria is not your ordinary child. You see, Maria misses a lot of school, 93 days last year. She had I.V. treatments through a mediport in her chest every three weeks to help keep her well at the hospital.

If the flu, etc., goes around, Maria has to stay home and isolated so she doesn't get it. No, she doesn't have AIDS! It is traumatic for Maria to miss (school) or be in the hospital or even be sick — you see, she loves school.

Sherrill Bailey not only has made school a challenge for Maria but has gone out of her way to make sure Maria doesn't fall behind.

What makes that so terrific? She is the only teacher I know who has ever cared enough to visit Maria during her infusion every time. She brings pizza, reads, plays games and has helped Maria with work, if needed. Sherrill said coming to see Maria let her understand more about Maria's life so she can have a better understanding of what she goes through.

Maria has missed a lot of days, but that's OK. We're working for 75 this year, so that Maria, too, can get an attendance award.

Sherrill Bailey has done many wonderful things to make Maria's life happier and less stressful ... even a singing telegram at a time we both really needed it at the hospital.

I hope you will acknowledge her, as in today's society she is one the few who take the time to really understand and care and encourage the education of our children, no matter what the circumstance.

Thank you.

Kathi Cooper

School district, township to discuss DDA rebate

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

A new road and lighting leading to a proposed new fire station are on hold, as are improvements to the industrial area on White Lake Road.

Such projects proposed for Downtown Development Authority (DDA) funding have been temporarily put on hold until Independence Township and Clarkston schools officials can iron out the matter of a "rebate."

The Independence Township Board unanimously voted to table an amendment to the DDA development plan June 2, after Clarkston schools Superintendent Gary Haner asked the trustees to consider dropping all or some of the district's revitalization projects and giving a portion of that money back to the schools, which are hurting financially.

In the motion to table, township board members agreed to collectively meet with the DDA board and the school board to discuss the matter of a rebate. However, as of June 15, no such meeting had been scheduled.

Clarkston Board of Education members formally requested a rebate from the DDA May 18, after they learned that "out of formula" school districts aren't required to refund a DDA rebate to the state — as long as it's money generated after the school district went out of the state's funding formula.

Clarkston schools seek a rebate of some of the estimated $1.3 million in taxes "captured" by the DDA this year. Haner said that 72 percent, or roughly $750,000, of this money comes from entities within the school district.

The Clarkston school district went out of the state's school funding formula this year and stopped receiving state aid dollars in the process. Prior to that, money captured by the DDA was reimbursed by the state's school funding formula.

The DDA was created six years ago to improve landscaping, lighting, water and sewer along parts of Dixie Highway, M-15, and White Lake Road. Funding for the DDA comes from tax increment financing, which captures "excess" taxes from a base year — and returns the money for use within DDA boundaries only. The excess money comes from property valuation increases or new development after the base year. The 10-year DDA project is scheduled to end in 1996.

The proposed amendment to the DDA would pay for the about $250,000 westerly extension of Citation Drive, connecting M-15 to Dixie Highway.

Other plans include extending public water to the proposed new fire station at a cost of $20,000 and installing street lights from M-15 to Dixie Highway near the proposed fire station, at a cost of about $130,000.

Alternative projects also considered include construction of a service road to connect Citation Drive and Maybee Road, and street lights on White Lake Road from Dixie Highway south to Andersonville Road and Dixie Highway north to Deer Lake Road. The estimated cost of these projects are $530,000 apiece.

The superintendent explained that the captured revenue could help the district rebound from the $1.2 million in budgetary cuts slated for the 1992-93 school year.

"This (rebate) isn't extra money for the school district but money used to preserve these projected budgetary cuts," Haner said, prior to the defeat of an extra two mills for school operations June 8.

Two mills is $2 for every $1,000 property valuation. Resident Jim Brennen said he felt sorry for the school district but believes the DDA is much too important to be hindered now.

"While I sympathize with the schools, I oppose their action," he said. I think they're beating the wrong horse here. DDAs are good vehicles for improving the infrastructure and bettering communities.

"It's the state Legislature and its disregard for educational programs that's at fault here, not the DDAs," Brennen added.

A couple of hours prior to the June 2 meeting, the DDA board voted 4-0, with one abstention from township Supervisor Frank Ronk, to hold off on recommending approval of the amendment. Four DDA members were unable to make this early afternoon session.

The DDA had originally approved the measure but took a second look when school officials discovered their right to file for a rebate. Even though they lacked the majority total of five votes to make their recommendation official, DDA President Dick Ayres relayed the feeling of the unofficial consensus.

"As Mr. Haner said, we should hold off and investigate this matter — not to just take the money away, but consider all options," Ayres said. "This rebate issue came up all of a sudden, and we need time to look at it. At this time, we can't endorse the amendment."

Township trustees all agreed to table the DDA amendment, even though they felt the schools would benefit from the DDA in the long run.

"I think the DDA will eventually help our school system if we can weather the next three to four years," said township Trustee Mel Vaara, who also is retiring assistant superintendent of Clarkston schools.

Trustee Jean Saile concurred, noting the importance of a rejuvenated White Lake Road.

"If we don't work on White Lake Road, the schools will be, in a sense, cutting their own throats," Saile said. "Eventually, a revamped White Lake Road will generate a lot of a tax money."

Haner said the school district doesn't want to stop improvements along White Lake Road but rather to re-evaluate the validity of future projects.

In summer storm season, be prepared

During summer, storms often cause power outages; and in the time your electricity is out, sometimes the food in your freezer can spoil.

That can cause spoiled food or a messy freezer.

Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service, offers these suggestions to help the next time there's a power outage.

- Keep your freezer fully packed, or at least always mound the foods together like an igloo to help them insulate one another. Fill empty containers with water and freeze to act as large ice cubes when the freezer is not full.

- Group the meat and poultry products in your freezer together on one shelf or, better yet, on a tray so that in case of power failure, the juices will not run down into the rest of the freezer and spoil them.

Wrap meat and poultry especially well in extra freezer bags to avoid leaks in case of power outage. (It is sometimes impossible to remove the odor of spoiled meat juices once they get into the freezer's insulation.)

- Keep ice cream in plastic bags.

- Keep an emergency food shelf with canned foods, drinks, can opener, candles, flashlight, matches and first aid kit in a safe spot where family members can easily find it.

- Have a plan in mind ahead of time for power outage — know of someone else's freezer you can borrow in case of a power failure.

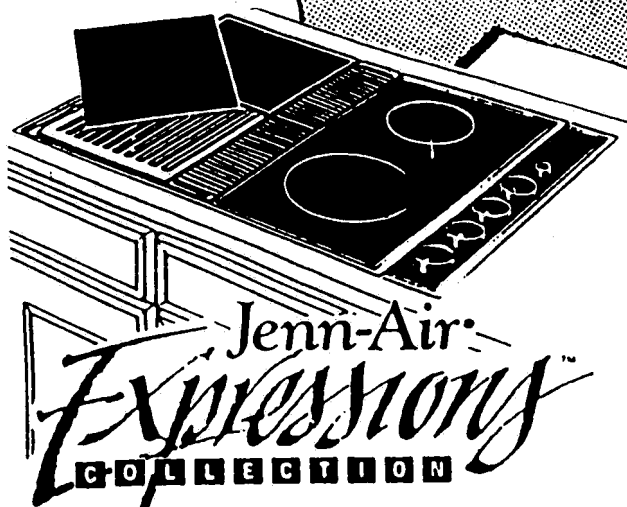

- Learn the source to purchase dry ice in case you need it and also familiarize yourself with safe handling procedures for dry ice to avoid injury for yourself or children.

For other help in case of a power failure call the Food and Nutrition Hotline, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at 858-0904.

Jon Wyniemko

Wyniemko a catch for East all-stars

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Jon Wyniemko has at least one more football game left to play.

The Clarkston graduate, a Class A all-state wide receiver, will compete for the East squad in the East-West All-Star game at Michigan State University Aug. 1.

Wyniemko, who caught 55 passes for 782 yards and nine touchdowns during his senior season, was originally chosen as a reserve for the 12th annual game. However, Freddie Scott II decided not to play and Wyniemko will replace him.

Eighty-eight of the state's best senior (graduates) players will compete. The players, who will wear all-star uniforms but will wear their own high school helmets, will practice at East Lansing for a week before the game.

The 6-foot, 175-pound Wyniemko will attend Central Michigan this fall. He said the game will be "fun" for him but doesn't expect it to springboard any last-minute recruiting for a college scholarship.

"It could happen, but it's very doubtful," said Wyniemko.

The game will only be Wyniemko's second on artificial surface. He played at the Pontiac Silverdome against Lake Orion his junior season.

The last Clarkston player to participate in the all-star game was Dan Jokisch.

Junior golfers tee off at 2 courses June 25-26

Young golfers will be shooting for prizes at the 18th Annual Oakland County Junior Golf Invitational June 25 and 26.

Boys and girls, ages 12-19, will play 18 holes at the Springfield Oaks Golf Course and 18 more at the White Lake Oaks Golf Course. Those under 11 will complete 18 total holes. There are five age categories of competition.

Trophies will be presented to the top three finishers in each division.

Entry fees are $30 for players ages 12-and-over and $20 for 11-and-under. Two practice rounds and lunch are included. Both practice rounds must be completed on weekdays prior to June 24 and must be registered with the pro shops before noon.

The registration deadline for the tournament, which is sponsored by the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission, is 3 p.m. Sunday, June 21. Rain dates are July 9 at Springfield Oaks and July 10 at White Lake Oaks.

Persons with disabilities are also urged to compete. Participants are asked to call well in advance so their needs can be accommodated.

Springfield Oaks is on Andersonville Road in Springfield Township and White Lake Oaks is on Williams Lake Road (south of M-59) near Pontiac.

For more information, call Springfield Oaks at 625-2540 or White Lake Oaks at 698-2700.

HOME SELLING QUIZ

QUESTION: I own my property fee simple and have a fully paid up loan. Could others have certain rights to it?

ANSWER: You own the land you live on, but not unconditionally. Your rights do not override certain public rights. A utility company may have rights-of-way for power lines. The telephone company may have the right to a five foot easement for poles along your backlot line. Similar easements are purchased or granted for local electric power lines, underground sewer piping, natural gas lines, and water supply piping.

You should know about all easements made on your land. This is the reason for a title search prior to purchase.

IF YOU FLUNK this quiz, you'd better see a Realtor before you sell your home.

Churches see growth, too; expansions approved

BY CATHERINE PASSMORE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Two area churches received the final OK to add onto existing buildings.

The Independence Township Planning Commission voted unanimously June 11 to approve final site plans for Maranatha Baptist Church and Mount Zion Temple.

Business Briefs

Association members

Powers/Carlson and Associates Insurance Agency of Clarkston has joined the Professional Independent Insurance Agents of Michigan (PIIAM).

PIIAM is a statewide trade association that represents 10,000 independent insurance agents and industry employees. It is the only agents association in Michigan.

Leads regional workshop

A Clarkston-area resident was among the lay leaders for the Joint Annual Meeting of Regional Assembly for the Michigan Conference United Church of Christ and the Michigan Region Christian Church May 29-31.

Barbara Malew led a workshop about the church's ministry to its unmarried members. Malew is a member of the North Oakland Christian Church, Orion.

Maranatha on Flemings Lake Road received approval subject to revisions in parking and landscaping, as well as approval from the fire inspector.

Previously, officials from Maranatha had reduced parking at the front (south) of the building and added more spaces on the west side at the request of the planning commission. The commission said those steps would reduce damage to the existing landscape.

The addition will give the church an added 7,500 square feet to the sanctuary and 400 square feet for auditorium space. Construction is scheduled to begin in the fall.

Mount Zion Temple — at the southeast corner of Maybee and Clintonville roads, adjacent to Interstate 75 — received unanimous approval with a few conditions.

First, a safety path will be built with the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) approval. The DNR's approval is needed because part of the safety path will infringe on the wetlands on the property.

Second, the church's seating capacity must remain 1,250, due to building code restrictions and traffic problems. Township officials previously set the limit at 800, but the latest inspection of the premises showed the church at 1,250.

Third, a buffer of land between the usable property and wetlands must be restored. The buffer was disturbed when the church parking lot was repaired.

The approval came after about a half-hour discussion. Commission members raised concerns about the use of the buffer as a dumping place for concrete, the growth of the church and the safety path. The concrete in the buffer zone is to be moved before construction begins. The growth of the church is something that can not be gauged at this time, according to church officials, who assured commission members that this was the last time an addition would be requested for this particular building.

This plan had been tabled in March until members of the church could be present.

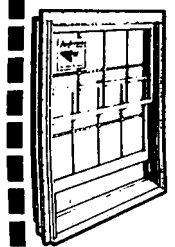

The 14,000-square-foot addition is planned for classrooms, according to the Rev. Loren Covarrubias. Construction is to begin as soon as the necessary permits are issued, possibly July, said Covarrubias.

Talking turkey pays off for this outdoorsman

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Bruce Sawyer is fluent with the box call and push-pull call, but not so with the diaphragm call.

Even so, the 38-year-old Church Street, Clarkston, resident managed to fool a "tom" into thinking he was a she.

Bruce, on the third day of his third trip turkey hunting, used his calls to pretend to be a female and lured the 2- to 3-year-old male turkey into range. He got it at 7:40 a.m. Monday, May 18, from 37 yards out, using a gun given to him by his father. The bird weighed over 8 pounds and had an 8-inch beard ("the funny growth off the front of the chest area") and a 3/4-inch spur ("the horny growth on the leg. It's not real sharp. It's used for fighting.").

From these measurements, Bruce knew this "gobbler" was a "jake." Gobblers, he explained, are male turkeys (hens are females). Jakes are young turkeys.

The turkey capped off his "perfect" hunting trip with Bill Morse, 69, of Independence Township; Dean Burnett of Warren; and Jim Curling of Rochester Hills. The group used Bill's cabin about 10 miles northwest of Atlanta as a base.

"It was very special, no doubt about it," said Bruce, describing the trip afterward. "It was almost scary because everything happened almost perfect for me."

It all began with an elk burger at Van Til's Restaurant in Atlanta. Then, five miles up the road, they saw some live elk — huge creatures, he said.

Each morning they arose early to talk turkey, grabbing some toast and coffee before heading out. After one particularly long day, they returned to find fresh strawberry shortcake, provided by Bill's wife. That, too, was perfect, said Bruce.

But the perfection continued. The turkeys in the area talked morning and evening every day, he said. The fishing was good and provided delicious meals, espe-

Parade focuses on USA

"Made In America" will be the theme of Clarkston's upcoming Fourth of July Parade.

Red Beattie, owner of Moon Valley Furniture, will serve as the event's grand marshal. The parade is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. Saturday, July 4.

The parade will feature local marching bands, antique American cars and a variety of floats. Byron McGregor and his wife Jo Jo, disc jockeys at WLLZ 98.7 FM, will serve as the masters of ceremonies.

After the parade, guests are encouraged to visit Depot Park and enjoy numerous activities. These events include: an antique fire engine display, "waterball" and "bucket brigade" contests between area fire departments, and the smashing of a foreign car.

Organizations interested in entering a float in the parade are asked to contact the Independence Township Fire Department by June 27. For more information on the entry of floats or the parade in general, call Peggy at 625-1924.

BRUCE Sawyer (right) and Bill Morse, both of the Clarkston area, pose with Bruce's first turkey ever. The turkey's feathers are brown, blue, green purple, bronze, black, white, rust and even red. "More iridescent than a peacock," says Bill. The turkey will be mounted and displayed someplace yet to be negotiated between Bruce and his wife.

cially when combined with the morel mushrooms they found in turkey territory and bear from previous hunting trips.

Bill, who recounted the story with Bruce, said, "We even saw a hawk dive and get a mouse and ferry it off across the river."

"And we saw a bald eagle," said Bruce. "It was exciting the whole time."

The turkeys, though, are a thrill to hunt, said Bruce, echoed by Bill, who brought home his own turkey, which weighed more than 15 pounds and had a 4-inch beard and 5/8-inch spur.

"Each day has been a learning experience for us," said Bruce. "Animals in general ... each bird has its own character."

Bill added, "Turkeys are like bears — they're the only two animals that will seek you out."

"They're a very intelligent bird," said Bill.

"I've gained a lot of respect for them," said Bruce. "The bird is actually beautiful. The colors, I don't think people realize that."

"More iridescent than a peacock," said Bill. "They have eyes better than an eagle."

"They have almost 280-degree peripheral vision, so you have to be careful with hand movements," said Bruce.

Bruce recounted the exact sequence of events leading up to his first turkey, then shook his head.

"This is a bonus," he said. "If we didn't shoot a bird, we wouldn't care. It really didn't mean that much to us." But he relishes the natural world, he said.

"There just aren't that many times a person can experience all that," he said.

"A lot of my enthusiasm comes from this guy," he said, pointing to Bill. "He's got me fired up about a lot of things. Not just picking up a gun and going out; it's just being out there. ... There's no generation gap."

"I love being outdoors. I love doing something I don't usually get a chance to do," he said.

Bruce, a mechanic at the General Motors Tech. Center, said he enjoys boating and canoeing and doing anything outdoors with his wife, Carole, and children, Christopher, 13, and Sarah, 11.

And he remembered one more thing. On one warm day they saw a honey bee tree — a first for him.

"If you don't take the time to look, you just walk right past it," he said. "It's just another tree in the woods."

But if Bruce has anything to say about it, no tree is just another tree in the woods when he's around.

Show on the road

The Clarkston Village Players will be taking their show on the road in September.

The village players' production of "Klondike Kalamity" has been chosen as the feature production at the Community Theatre Association of Michigan convention at Boyne Highlands resort in Harbor Springs.

The association's selection committee, which decided on a melodrama theme, made its decision after attending the May 1 production of the play in Independence Township. It is the first time a Village Players' production has been selected for the honor.

Marlene Sewick, a fifth-grade teacher at North Sashabaw Elementary School, directs the play written by Gary Peterson and David Byrne. Holly Stephens, Clarkston High School teacher, is producer.

Dean Vanderkolk plays the hero, Kris Navin the heroine and Vern Vackaro the villain. The remaining cast comprises Larry McGee, Linda Pickett, Robert Schultz, Cynthia Lohmeier, Charles Haskins, Drew Creamer and Don Foster.

Cable-TV program tackles controversy

Doctor-assisted suicides and AIDS testing are some of the topics in a three-part cable-TV series.

Michigan Spotlight with Michael Kupelian airs at 7 p.m. Tuesdays and Fridays on Independence-Clarkston Channel 65, beginning June 23.

The series focuses on controversial issues such as sex education and other topics.

Results of a 10-question poll of 100 Clarkston-area residents will be disclosed by Michael Kupelian and his comical cohorts John Makowski and David Elliston, area educators who bring a light-hearted and erudite touch to otherwise serious topics.

AIDS program may be repeated

If you missed the June 16 free AIDS education program, you may have a second chance at taking part.

An incorrect date published last week may have confused people, said Sherry Kaars, director of Light-house North, which offered the free seminar.

The program, presented by Clarkston pediatrician James O'Neill, was an attempt to dispel myths surrounding Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS), a disease that attacks the immune system of a person and prevents his or her body from fighting off attacks from germs and viruses.

If enough people call, Kaars said she would reschedule another program. Call 673-4949 for more information.

Part of traveling show

Anissa Howard of the Clarkston area is part of Oakland County Parks' Traveling Music Show for the 1992 summer season.

The traveling show brings entertainment to family events, senior groups, corporate functions, block parties and Oakland County Parks special events. Performances include "A Yankee Doodle Medley" and "A Salute to Cole Porter."

The group performs at 7 p.m. Sunday, July 26, at the Cohn Amphitheater at Independence Oaks County Park, Sashabaw Road, Independence Township. Tickets are $2 per person or $8 per family.

The rose, truly queen of flowers, brings pleasure

BY VIRGINIA WALTER

The rose is truly the queen of flowers. We know that it was cultivated in China 5,000 years ago; through thousands of years it has been admired and enjoyed. It has become the flower of choice for expressing the most tender of emotions, for recognizing milestones in our lives and for celebrating special occasions.

Florists have it for sale singly, in arrangements or by the dozen. But in these summer months it comes to gorgeous flower in our own yards. One need not have an elaborate rose garden such as those we visit and admire in the gardens at our universities, museums and estates; just a few well chosen rose bushes in our own home gardens will bring us great pleasure.

Lots of varieties

There are many kinds of roses. Recently there has been a resurgence of interest in the "Heirloom" roses; these are those hardy specimens, often single in bloom, which were enjoyed in our grandparents' generations.

However the roses most commonly found in our area today are the clinging roses, which require the support of a trellis or wall; the hybrid teas, the grandifloras and the floribundas.

The large double blooms of the hybrid teas grow singly on long stems and are excellent for cutting; the taller grandifloras also have large blooms but they are apt to be in clusters; the floribundas are shorter stemmed; their blooms are smaller and are borne in massed cluster; they make a colorful display as a border, along a walk or against a wall.

Special care

All roses require care. They need a soil with a large humus content, so as you prepare their bed dig deep and incorporate a lot of organic matter such as bone meal, peat moss, well-rotted manure or compost. Plant them in an area where they will have four to six hours of sunlight.

They will need plenty of water. Water the soil and avoid wetting the foliage; water in the morning so that any moisture on the leaves will evaporate; wet foliage encourages mildew and black rot.

Spray them regularly: spray every seven to 10 day in mild weather; taper off as the weather becomes hot; and then spray after rainfall.

Established roses need to be fertilized to promote blooming. This can be done regularly about every six weeks from early spring to the middle of August. Stopping early lets the bushes harden off before the first frost. Follow carefully the directions on the commercial products that you use for spraying and fertilizing.

Winter protection

Your roses will need winter protection. Mound dirt and cover with other protective material. Watch for articles on the care and cultivation of roses in newspapers and magazines; consult some of the many excellent books on gardening in our township library, or contact your commercial grower for more help with your roses.

What roses should you choose for your garden? All roses are rated by the American Rose Society on a scale of one to ten; look for those with high ratings.

Floribunda

If you want an eye-catching display of massed blooms from June to frost, choose floribundas. The coral-pink floribunda Fashion grows on the east side of my home; I have had to replace one bush (yes, we will lose a rose from time to time), but the rest of the group are more than 20 years old. Each year I eagerly anticipate their great burst of color.

Gene Boerner, a more recent pink Floribunda is rated 8.6; the red Europeana bears a 9.0 rating. My favorite grandiflora is the pink Queen Elizabeth with a 9.2 rating.

Peace

Any grower of hybrid teas know the famous rose Peace. It has the most interesting history. It was propagated by the famed Meilland grower of France and was known only by the number 3-35-50 when they were able to make shipments of it to Germany, Italy and the United States just after World War II erupted in 1939 in Europe; the shipment to the United States came on the very last flight out of France.

All of the growers tested this rose and were delighted with it. The more they cultivated it, the more they praised it. They called a truly remarkable rose.

The German grower named it Glory to God, and the Italian called it Joy. The American, Robert Pyle, called it the rose of the century and said it should be named what mankind most desired, Peace. He decided that it would be given that name at a special ceremony when the Pacific Rose Growers Society met on Sunday, April 29, 1945. And so it was named on that very day, a truce was declared that would bring an end to the war in the European theater!

It is a pale yellow rose with a pale pink edge on its petals; it has excellent dark green foliage and is a strong plant with profuse blooms. No wonder that there are millions of it, and roses propagated from it are planted all around the world.

Other hybrid teas that you might find interesting are the red Mr. Lincoln (8.9), the white Pristine (8.7) and the pink First Prize (8.7).

When planting ...

Bare-rooted plants must be planted in early spring, but you may still plant in June those in containers if you give them very special care. Do not fertilize them as you want all their strength used in establishing their root systems.

Read the catalogues; study the pictures; visit some gardens, but do choose some plants and establish some roses in your own garden. They will give you great joy for years to come.

A bouquet of them is beautiful to see; they arrange well with other flowers; but I have found that the gift of one lovely rose to a friend and especially to a shut-in brings great pleasure to its recipient.

Learning through play cuts risk of later failure

BY CATHERINE PASSMORE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Playing a game begins the day at the Achieving Preschool Excellence (APEX) program, which is housed in the Clarkston Community Education Center.

"If I say, 'I'm going to throw it to Amanda,' who is going to catch it?" Selena Smith asks her class.

"Amanda is," answer the 18 children in her preschool class.

APEX is an early childhood development program for 4-year-old children who are "at risk" for future educational difficulties and who need extra help.

"At risk" doesn't necessarily mean that their families are low income. The children could have a language deficiency, be from a non-English speaking family, have a family history of low school achievement; or the child could have been physically or sexually abused.

The High/Scope approach to preschool education is used in the classroom. This curriculum focuses on the child's natural curiosity and uses the teacher to work through the activity.

Children learn to plan their work and then to work on their plan. The activities are designed to develop self-motivation and responsibility.

The teachers try to draw from the child's interest and initiative to capitalize on all teachable moments.

Smith's classroom is divided into sections: one to play dress-up, one for blocks, and another for crafts. The children decide between the activities. Then Smith and her aide, Gayle Mitchell, help the children and get them to learn.

Building blocks can teach shapes. Coloring or cutting paper leads to discussions on the different colors. Reading a book can help a child learn to count and recognize letters.

Children in the APEX program go to school Monday through Thursday during the regular school year. On Fridays, Smith visits her pupils' homes. Each student is visited twice during the school year.

Margie Reed, coordinator of the APEX program, said, "We're really proud of these kids. You wouldn't recognize them from the beginning of the school year."

Sixteen of the eighteen children who have been labeled "at risk" are to enter regular kindergarten this fall. The other two are to enter developmental kindergarten with excellent skills.

According to organizers, all of the children have been given added skills and are headed for a brighter future than before.

Officers honored

SGT. DOUG HUMMEL (from left), deputies Mike Elliot and Gary Alexander, and Capt. Glenn Watson of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department were honored by Clarkston D.A.R.E. (Drug Awareness Resistance Education) June 11 for their roles in the arrest and investigation of Leslie Allen Williams, who has confessed to killing four area women. He was apprehended while abducting a woman from a Springfield Township cemetery. Also honored (not pictured) for their participation in the case were deputies Charles Young and Larry Sage. All of those honored have or have had children in Clarkston schools. (Photo by Catherine Passmore)

Honored as heroes

Last week, local officials honored those involved in the capture and investigation of confessed serial killer Leslie Allen Williams.

Detective Sgt. Douglas Hummel, Deputy Gary Alexander, Carl Paulsen Jr., and his mother, Helen, were honored at the Springfield Township Board meeting June 10.

The Paulsens contacted police when they discovered Williams abducting a woman from Hillview Cemetery, Springfield Township. They directed Alexander to Williams' whereabouts.

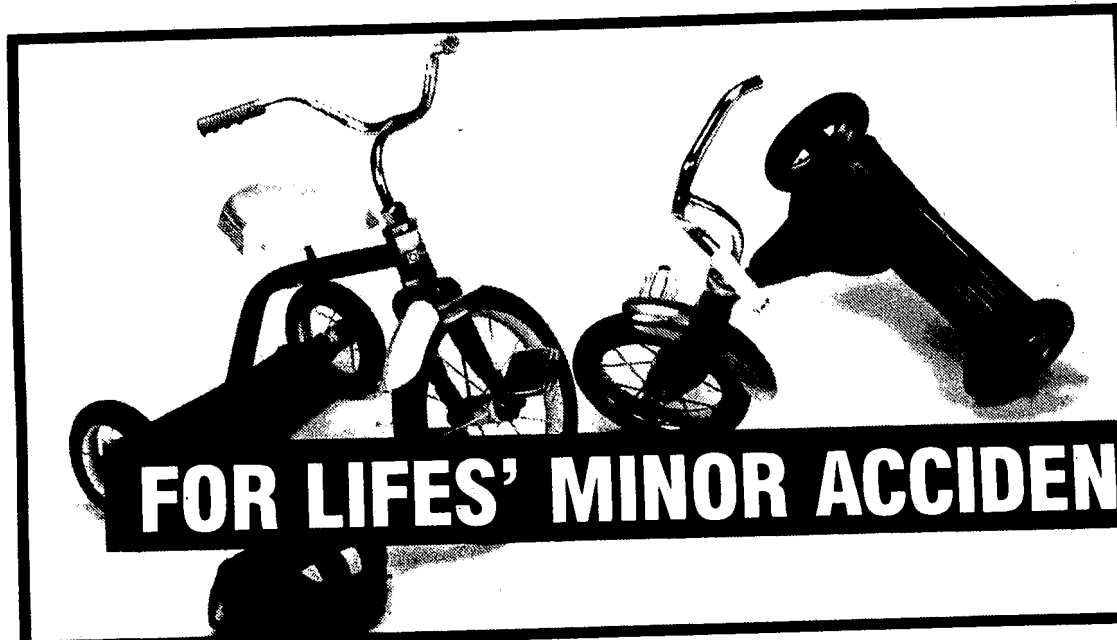

On June 11, Clarkston's DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) gave awards to Hummel, Alexander, Capt. Glenn Watson, and deputies Mike Elliot, Charles Young and Larry Sage at Clarkston Elementary School's fifth-grade graduation ceremony. These officers were involved in the investigation of William's crimes.

Williams was arrested last month in Springfield Township for the alleged kidnapping a woman from a cemetery and has since admitted to four murders and numerous rapes.

Bargain hunters find mecca in Resale Heaven

BY CATHERINE PASSMORE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

After working in a resale shop for a while, Janet Reed decided the prices were not affordable, so she opened her own store.

She and her friend Karla Gerard, store manager, found that the business not only filled a need by providing low-cost clothing, but it also is part of a shopping trend.

Gerard said customers range from those who buy used clothes because they need them to young people who shop there to find unusual clothes not available anywhere else.

"Buying clothes from a resale shop has become a fad," Reed explained.

Resale Heaven in Harvard Plaza, Dixie Highway, Waterford Township, is in a good location because it's close to many communities and lots of traffic is generated by nearby stores, said Reed.

Reed and Gerard have worked long hours to make a strong beginning for the store. They sell clothing for the entire family, plus a few household items.

"It is hard for people who need to shop this way to find the higher quality clothes at the prices they really can afford," she said.

The store gets its merchandise through consignments and wholesalers. At present, Resale Heaven has 322 consignors, who receive 50 percent of the selling price for the clothing they bring.

"We expect mutual honesty from the people that we unusual wardrobe of many teens and young people are sold in the store which is located in Harvard Plaza on Dixie Highway.

work with and for," said Reed, adding that she trusts that people bring clean, mended and somewhat stylish clothing.

Reed and Gerard want the people who shop in Resale Heaven to feel comfortable in the store. So far, their trust-filled strategy is a small attraction. Many of their customers have already made repeat trips to the store.

One woman in ten will develop breast cancer.

That's an alarming fact... and one that North Oakland Medical Center is out to change.

The best chance of detecting breast disease is through early diagnosis. Over 95% of all disease can be diagnosed and cured if identified in an early stage. Monthly self examinations and annual physician check-ups are important steps you can take to detect the presence of breast disease. If you are 35 or older, your best defense is a mammogram. This simple test can detect breast disease in its earliest stages...and, more importantly, it could save your life. North Oakland Medical Center's dedicated mammography machines received GRADE A upon inspection by the Michigan Department of Public Health.

THE LONG AND SHORT OF MAKING MORE ON YOUR MONEY, WHATEVER YOUR ECONOMIC OUTLOOK.

RISE RATE CD FOR THE LONG TERM.

FIRST RATE FUND FOR THE SHORT TERM.

The economy is recovering. But even the experts can't agree on what interest rates will do.

So First of America has two shrewd ways for you to invest. No matter what your strategy.

The long view.

If you think rates will drop or stay flat, you should go with a longer-term investment and get a rate guaranteed to rise every six months over the next two years. The Rising Rate CD.

It starts at a bonus rate of 5 percent per annum. And you'll end up earning 6½ percent for the final term. You can withdraw part or all of your money in the first ten days of every six-month interval without penalty. All it takes to get started is a $1000 deposit.

The short view.

If you predict rates will keep going up beyond this election year, invest short term with the First Rate Fund.

You'll make a bonus return of 5¾ percent per annum from the day you sign up through July 31.

So the sooner you invest the more you'll make. After July 31, the per annum rate is based on the weekly Treasury Bill. So if the T-Bill goes up quickly, you'll continue to benefit from it.

A new deposit of $10,000* is required, and you can get your money seven days after notifying us.

It's a respectable rate of return plus liquidity in these uncertain times.

Of course, your investments are FDIC insured up to $100,000 per depositor. And bonus offers are good through July 31.

Call or visit the office nearest you. Because no matter what your point of view, you can't go wrong investing with us.

Sign up by July 31 and get these bonus per annum rates.

Business Briefs

New pharmacy

Daniel Feber

A new pharmacy has opened in Craker-barrel IGA on Oakhill Road, on the Brandon-Independence township line.

In March 1992, Daniel Feber opened Action Pharmacy in the store. Though he has been practicing pharmacy for 25 years, this is the first time he has begun his own pharmacy.

Feber has worked for privately owned pharmacies, as well as chain pharmacies. He prefers the private sector because the customer isn't a number but a person that he can care about, he said.

"We at Action Pharmacy practice (the) basics. We recognize our patients as people with needs and feeling, and we make every effort to meet these needs and to be sensitive to those feeling," he said.

Promoted in agency

Dianne DeSmidt of Clarkston was promoted to quality control/continuity specialist at Ross Roy Communications, Bloomfield Hills.

In her new position, DeSmidt is responsible for maintaining quality and continuity of script development, including programmed checkdisc and final course beta testing. DeSmidt previously was a proofreader-copy editor.

Prior to joining Ross Roy, she was a proofreader-editor for the Illinois Institute for Continuing Legal Education.

DeSmidt has a bachelor's degree in education and English from Towson State University, Baltimore, Md., and is a member of the Lay Leaders Board and the Advisory Council of Clarkston United Methodist Church.

Receives service award

Robert A. Olsen, president of Planned Financial Services in Clarkston, was recently presented with a service award by the Oakland County Economic Development Division for having served as the most recent chairman of the Local Development Co.

Olsen also was recognized for having completed seven years of continuous service with that same organization. He also serves as vice president on the Clarkston Foundation for Education Board.

Manufacturer's rep

Dave Jokisch

Dave Jokisch of the Clarkston area has joined Wolverine Water Treatment Systems, Waterford, as a new manufacturer's representative for the company.

Jokisch, a 1984 graduate of Clarkston High School, was graduated in 1989 from Lake Superior State University, Sault Ste. Marie, where he played basketball on an athletic scholarship.

Honored for coverage

Julie Campe, editor of The Clarkston News, was recently honored by Oakland County Community and Adult Education.

Campe was given the Media Award in honor of The Clarkston News' coverage of community education in Clarkston schools.

Named 'Master Salesperson'

Emy Carry, a top producing sales associate with Jack Christenson, Inc., recently completed the Floyd Wickman Master's Sales Academy and has earned the designation of "Master Salesperson."

Carry, who began her real estate career in 1980, completed a 70-day training program to be accepted to the Master's Academy.

Hometown couple opens carry-out restaurant

The Clarkston (Mich.) News Wed., June 17, 1992 17 C

BY CATHERINE PASSMORE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Tired of fast food, but you don't want to dress up for dinner? Gregg Ryesons said he felt this way too, and he decided to do something about it.

Ryeson and his wife Michelle, both Clarkston natives, opened Gregg's Carry Out and Catering during Mother's Day weekend on M-15, Independence Township, in the store that used to be Pizza Magic.

They remodeled, turning the restaurant into a light, airy place with booths, pictures and flower arrangements on the walls, and friendly people to greet you as soon as you walk through the door. The personal touch of the Ryesons is on everything.

Gregg Ryeson, 31, does 95 percent of the cooking for the restaurant. Everything from the desserts to the salad dressing to the entrees are homemade. The Ryesons stress that they make everything fresh with natural herbs and there is no monosodium glutamate (MSG) in their food.

Ryeson, a 1979 Clarkston High School graduate, has

What's new in business

a culinary arts degree from Oakland Community College and earned a 4.0 grade point average while attending that school.

Ryeson's restaurant experience began at age 15. He was a bus boy at the Highland House, which is owned by his uncles. He worked there until he became the assistant to the head chef.

He worked for the Appiteaser for four years as the assistant executive chef. And five years ago he and his older brother became partners in E.G. Nick's restaurants in Lapeer and West Bloomfield, and he developed the catering part of the business. He likes catering because it allows for more creativity, he said.

Ryeson has catered parties for former Gov. Blanchard, Chuck Daly, Eddy Murray and Rich Fisher. He lists Polygram Records, WLLZ, the Red Wings and Electra/ Atlantic Records as current catering customers. The largest party that he has catered was for the Armenian Cultural Center, for which 1,000 people attended.

Michelle Ryeson stressed that Gregg's Carryout and Catering has something for everyone — from a heavy eater to someone who simply wants a salad.

"We took time to think about our food," she said.

One of the menu items that they are the most proud of is their Gourmet Pizza, of which there are four types:

GREGG Ryeson, shown here with his wife, Michelle, and daughter, Rachel, has opened Gregg's Carryout and Catering on M-15. The vegetarian, BBQ chicken, smoked turkey and their California Special.

"We've cornered the market on that one," Ryeson said about their pizzas.

He also emphasized that they make the dough and sauce from scratch. "You won't see a Domino's delivery truck out back with frozen dough in it," he said.

The Ryesons work in their restaurant 10 to 12 hours a day to make sure that everything goes the way that it is suppose to. If Gregg isn't cooking in the kitchen, then he has his recipe books out trying new things. Michelle trains the people who work for them. Another Ryeson that spends a lot of time at the restaurant is their 10-month old daughter, Rachel, who Gregg says walks around in her walker entertaining the people who come in to eat.

Michelle summed up their goals for the restaurant by saying, "We want the customer to come in with a smile and leave with a smile."

THE entire cast of "Steel Magnolias" from left are Annelie (Lisa Carter), M'Lynn (Linda Van Natta), Ouiser (Marlene Sewick), Clairee (Lee Woolcox), Truvy (Judy Rood) and

Shelby (Heather Brooks). Al Bartlett directs the encore performance.

'Encore, encore'

The interpersonal relationships of six women in a small Louisiana town lives again in this week's Clarkston Village Players' production of "Steel Magnolias."

Encore performances of the two-act comedy-drama, directed by Al Bartlett, take place June 17, 18, 19 and 20 at the Depot Theater, 4861 White Lake Road, Independence Township.

The play was previously presented in March 1991.

Back are cast members Truvy (Judy Rood), Annelie (Lisa Carter), Shelby (Heather Brooks), Clairee (Lee Woolcox), M'Lynn (Linda Van Natta) and Ouiser (Marlene Sewick).

Director Bartlett said the show is one of the few times a production has been sold out before it opened. The June 19 and 20 shows are sold out, and tickets are available only on a stand-by basis at 7 p.m. the night of the performance. A June 17 benefit performance for the Clarkston Area Optimists is also sold out.

Some tickets, however, are available for Thursday, June 18. Cost is $7.

Curtain time for the June 19 and 20 performances is 8 p.m. The June 18 show begins at 8:30 p.m.

For more information, call 625-1826.

WHILE Truvy (Judy Rood) styles Shelby's (Heather Brooks) hair, there is plenty of time to discuss the latest happenings in the small Louisiana town.

Faces of China.

Wednesday, June 17, 1992

The Great Wall is a great experience. We took a gondola ride part way up and climbed, steeply, further up. Originally over 5,000 kilometers long, it's been rebuilt a couple times and is now 2,700 kilometers long. At one time 20 percent of the Chinese population worked on this wall along the north border. It was to keep invaders out. It didn't work. They came in from the south. The same guy, Qin, who built the terracotta warriors and united China, connected the previously unconnected Great Walls.

But first Hong Kong

The Hong Kong image is tall buildings for banking, commerce and housing. And it's there, including the new, tallest, 78-story building on the right. However, there are also the old, decaying structures: 2.3 million live in government housing in 300 sq. ft. apartments for 2 to 5 people. A 500 sq. ft. apartment rents for US $32,000 a year, our guide said. HK has 2 percent unemployment. A work week is 48 hours.

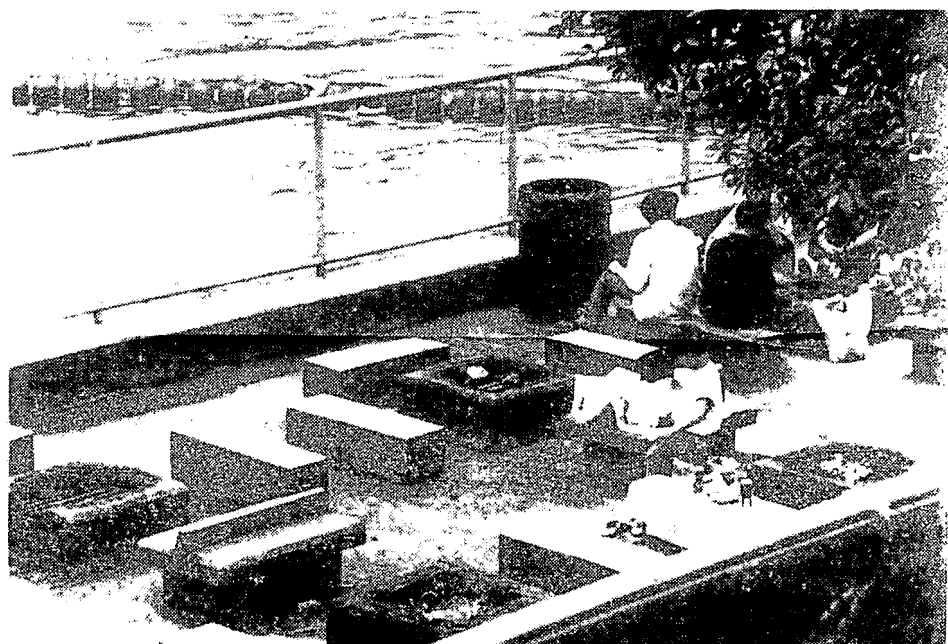

This is Stanley, on Hong Kong Island. Stanley is an open-air market for sportswear, souvenirs and lots of other non-essential stuff. Seventy-eight tiny stores compete for the dollars 3.5 million tourists bring to Hong Kong each year.

Everyone doesn't live in the government-owned high-rise housing on Hong Kong.

Tai chi is practiced in Hong Kong and all over China, particularly by older people. It's a form of exercise, like in slow motion, but with strong concentration. This lady was on a pier. Many go to parks.

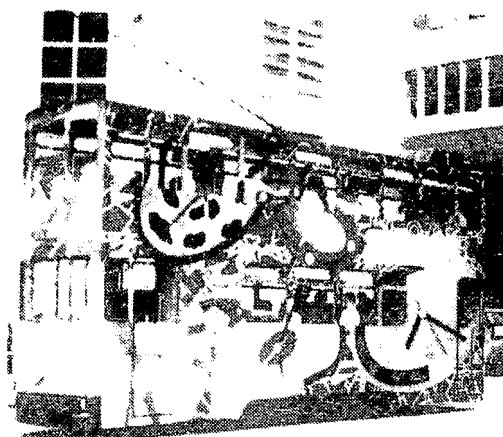

Six million people (95% Chinese—there are 10,000 Wongs in the phone book) live in less than half of Hong Kong's 663 sq. miles. With tiny apartments, they need lots of parks, which they have. This is a city-owned barbecue-picnic area at Repulse Bay.

Bargain hunters flock to the Kowloon district of Hong Kong. That's where 2,000 tailors (many from India) compete, where watches and jewelry can be bought legitimately and otherwise, where there's lots of good and bad of everything including food and lodging. We ordered a half chicken in The Flower Lounge. The half included half a beak and half a head. We had a great meal at Jimmy's Kitchen. How'd you like to be in the sign business in Kowloon? This is a Peking street. It's all neon at night.

China

Ni how (hello)

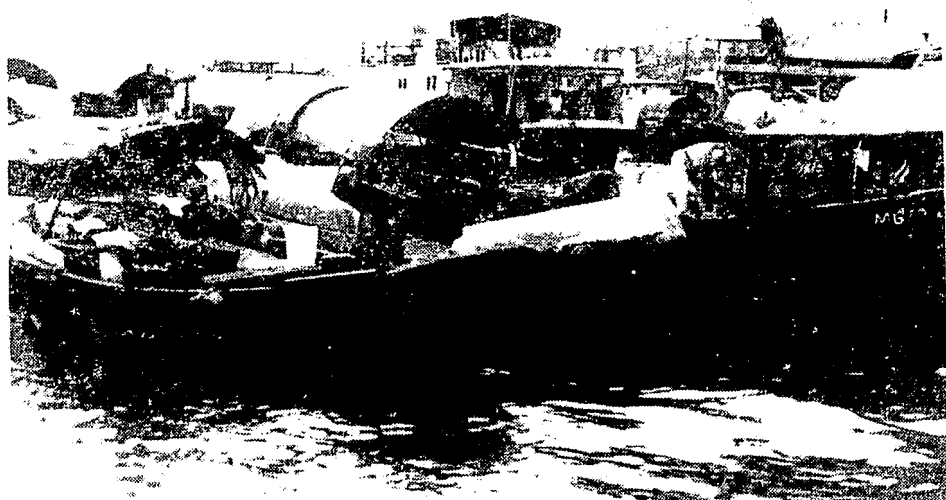

Buses in Hong Kong are billboards. In fact, just about any wall is a billboard. Bussing is the main form of transportation, though there is a subway. Air conditioned buses cost more. Because there are so many tall buildings, bus tops also have advertising.

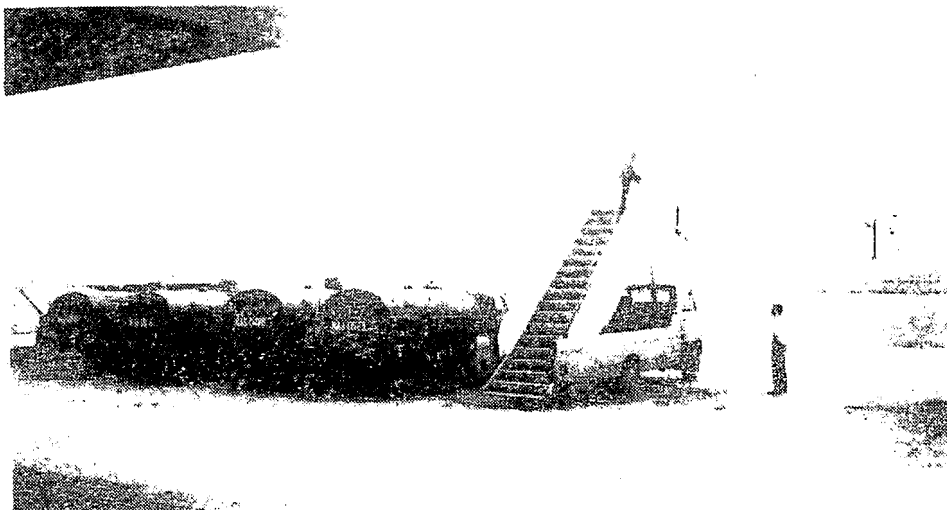

We first saw Hong Kong on a Sunday. We couldn't get over the huge number of young, black-haired women in the streets, park and public places. Our guide said they were some of the 50,000 Filipinos who come to Hong Kong for 2 or more years to do domestic work. He said on Sunday they call Hong Kong Central "Manila Kong." He also said so many Chinese are leaving Hong Kong for Canada before 1997 they call a Canadian city "Hongcouver." These girls are going through a bargain cart for $1 shirts.

In many ways Hong Kong is progressive, in some ways not. Like the markets. Wanna buy a chicken like these in a crate, or any other food-stuff? It's out there hanging in the open.

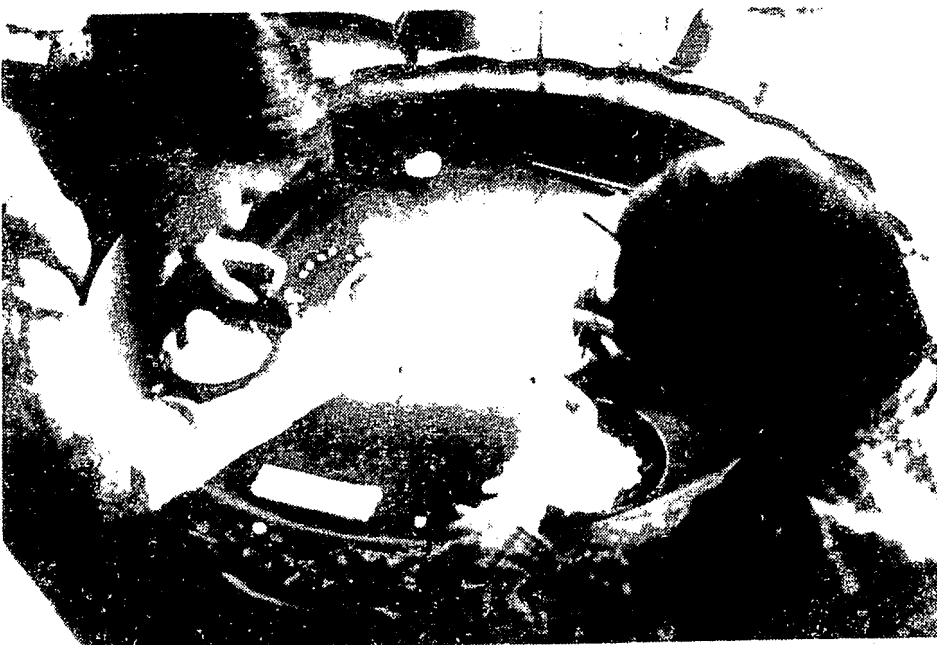

The boat dwellers-fishermen live in Aberdeen. Few of their kids go to school, there is little privacy... It's poverty conditions. Hong Kong has 90 percent humidity and 115 inches of rain a year.

The Chongqing airport is the original home of the Flying Tigers of WWII. Here are today's fuel trucks and loading ramp.

The bike-trucks carry about everything.

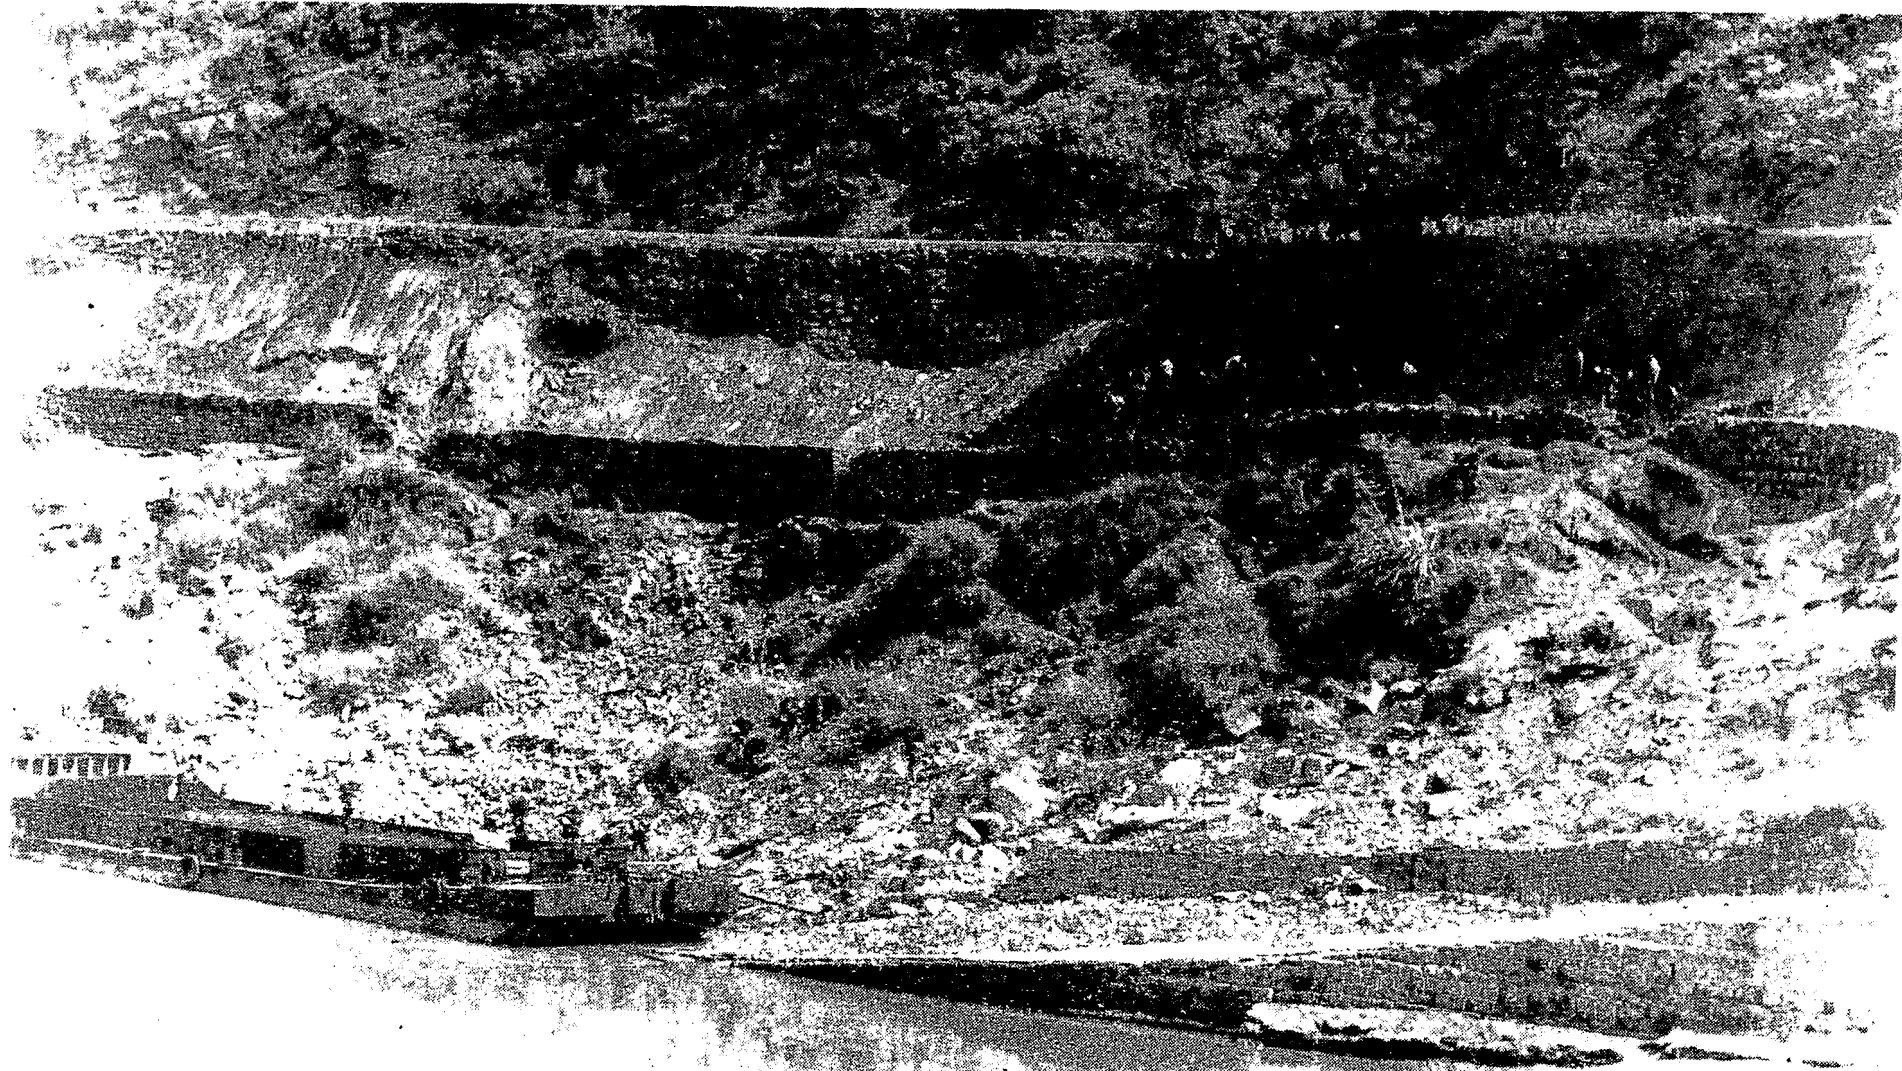

At a lacquer factory artists form pictures with tiny eggshell pieces.

Very common sight, this one in Xi'an, a town of 2.5 million.

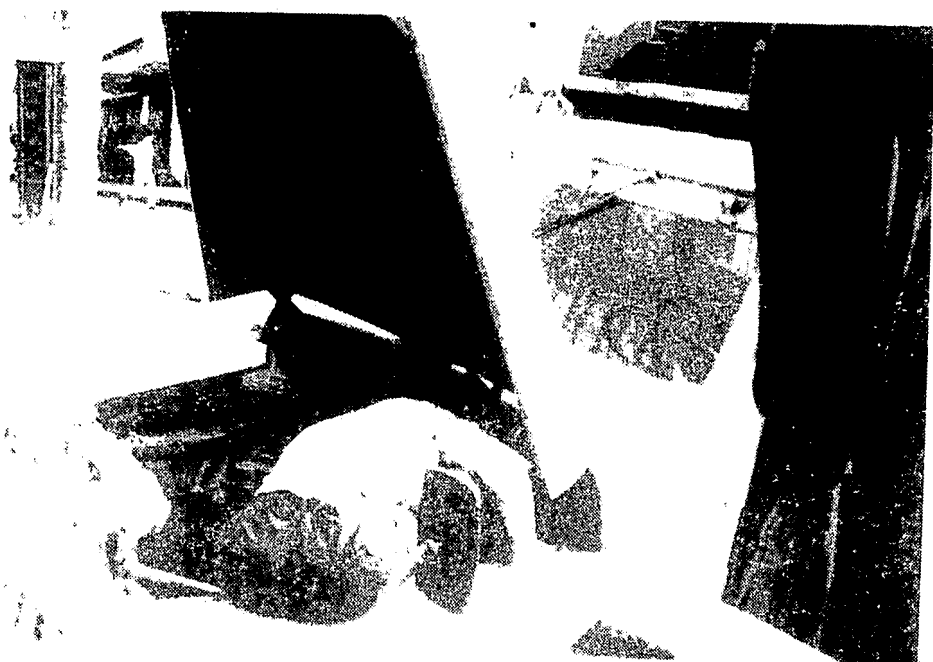

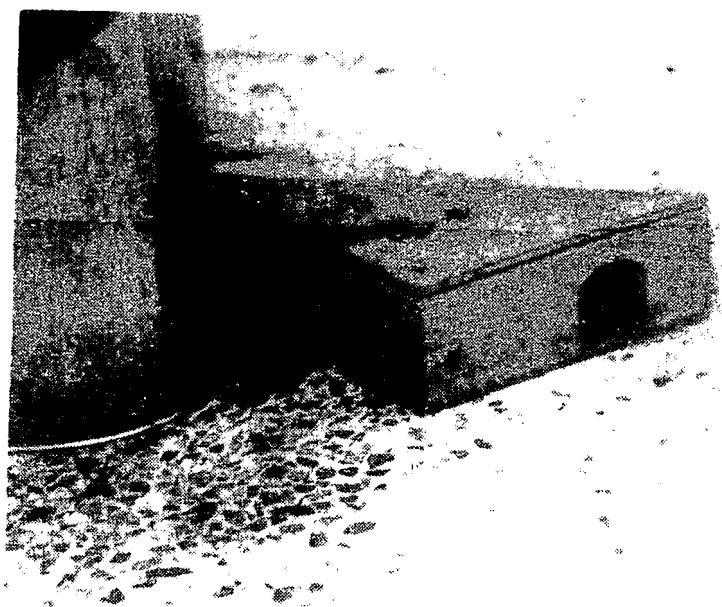

A common scene along the 5-day Yangtze River trip was the loading and unloading of barges. Coal, straw, stones and soil being moved by Chinese carrying baskets on their yokes, endlessly, diligently like ants.

THE face (symbol) of China; viewing pavilion at Tian An Men (Tiananmen), the Gate of Heavenly Peace.

A very typical site: A man working on his stalled truck.

Faces of China; a mouse house in the Xian airport. Our flight from Xian was to be at 5:00, we arrived at 4:00, we took off at 6:45.

By Jim Sherman, publisher

The title for this trip came to me about half way through our 19-day China visit. It seems we were continually commenting on, and taking pictures of, faces . . . people, landscapes, buildings. We also decided early to not make a 'story' of it, but to write points of interest, information and observation. Our guide Mayke Von Rooy of the Netherlands told us to "Let it be an experience, not an adventure." It was a great experience.

- At Narita International Airport in Tokyo two uniformed policemen got our attention. One was carrying an Uzi at the ready.
- Only the rich can buy a cemetery lot in Hong Kong. Others only rent them for 7 years. Most are cremated.
- Hong Kong is for shoppers. Stores are below ground, street level and 3 or more stories up.
- Textiles is the biggest industry in Hong Kong, fifth in Shanghai. Zoning is strict in Hong Kong.
- China cities compare to our counties. Shanghai has 13.5 million people, 9 million live in town center. Few of their buildings are lit up at night.

Another face of China. Children are diapered for six months, then wear pants such as above. We were told, for sanitation reasons, they try to train children early.

Practically all business places in China had theft protection screens.

Faces of China; A uniformed woman finishes a Popsicle, then throws the stick on the ground.

Lawn weeding is done by hand.

Faces of China; a man and his bird (cage).

Enthusiastic preschooler.

Embroidery factory worker.

Sha sha (thank you)

Faces of China; enjoying a Popsicle.

- Babies are offered for pictures for money.
- "Beware of Pickpockets" signs are evident in cities.
- Chinese men cough and spit a lot.
- There are 4 million bikes and 1 million cars in Shanghai.
- Foreign tourism in China is lead by the Japanese, followed by Taiwanese, then Europeans.
- Close to 100 percent of Chinese homes have color tv.
- We saw St. Elsewhere, the Bob Newhart Show and the Tony Randall Show on BBC.

- The old city of Shanghai is called China Town.
- 70 percent of the tourists in China are Chinese.
- 70 percent of the jobs are provided by the government. They are starting to put in an incentive system.
- Brick and block layers from the US wouldn't believe what the Chinese get away with.

Faces of China.

Faces of China; a pretty garden.

A pre-school teacher. One of our guides (we usually had 4) said teachers earn less money than police, who are not well paid.

- It's easy for tv cameras to show pictures of a million people in the streets . . . that many are always there. They have to shop every day. No refrigeration.
- At the Shanghai Hilton lounge we listened to an Oriental rock group, "Suspensions" sing Amy Grant's "Baby, Baby."
- A service charge of 10 or 15 percent was on every bill.
- Tai chi is first fun, then boring to watch.
- Big, jointed buses are so needed and packed there is no charge to ride.
- Beer and orange drink was served at most lunch and dinners.

Faces of China.

Apartment faces. Dressed ducks hanging out on the first floor balcony, and laundry on up.

Faces of China; women sifting dirt.

Chongquin is trying to make a new city across the Yangtze. They've built a new bridge. At each corner of the bridge is a sculpture for the four seasons. This one is summer.

Miniskirts are popular. Our guide said the Chinese pick up styles from Taiwan, which picks up Japanese styles.

- 10 to 20 course Chinese meals were common as chop sticks, which most of us learned to use. We didn't have menus. Dishes of food were put on lazy Susan's in the middle of round table.
- Most homes have washing machines. Few have dryers.
- 95 percent of the Chinese students who get visas to study in the US, don't return home. 40,000 are here now.
- We had too many museum stops, but it was a cultural tour.
- You often eat "stuff." One food was black, cut like mushrooms, tasted like asparagus, but it was eggplant.
- Just about every time we ate or drank we thought of sickness.
- We had outstanding weather.
- A big sign - Wuhan International Airport Waiting Room.
- Having to shop for food every day, there are thousands of very small streetside markets. We saw only one supermarket. They offer deep fried doughnuts, eels, several vegetables, lots of live fish, live snakes, live chickens and ducks, eggs, lettuce, frogs and pork.
- The Yangtze River is a garbage dump. Even our boat crews threw their refuse overboard.
- Every settlement along the Yangtze has at least one brick kiln.
- We all waited to have our laundry done aboard ship. Once aboard we were told because of the muddy water supply our clothes would come back yellow.

Faces of China contrast; note the plastic pan.

Faces of China; twin girls. Families can have a second child if the first one is a girl. If the second is a girl, her life may be short. Abortions are easy and often. A family can keep twins without penalty. If you have 3 children, you lose your job.

Street side store. Many vendors sell only cigarettes.

Noodles anyone?

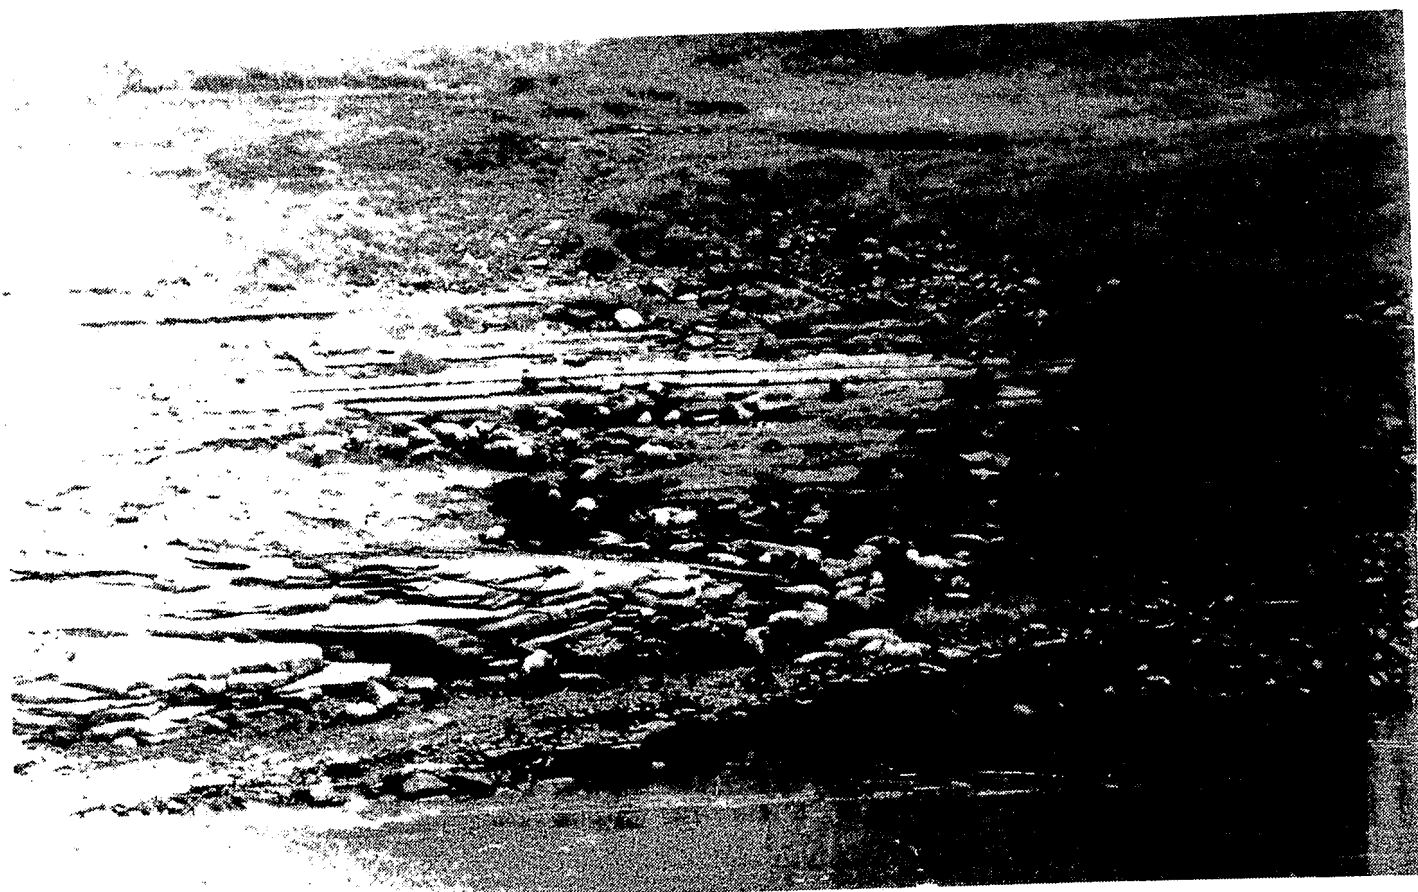

One of several natural waterfalls along the Yangtze. Some unnatural falls come from tubes in riverside cities.

The terra cotta warriors are getting to be known as another Wonder of the World. Emperor Qin Shi Huang wanted to be an emperor after death. He became emperor at age 13 and started making plans. He died at 50 in about 200 B.C. He had 6,000 warriors and many horses cast and put out to protect his tomb, which he also had built with a secret entrance. After he died his son had all the people killed who worked on the tomb so the entrance would remain a secret. It still is. A farmer discovered these warriors while digging a well in 1974. It's a major tourist and scientific attraction.

All those light colored bumps you see are pigs. They've been herded to the river bank enroute to market.

Booth saleslady and her helper. "I bought a jacket from her," Marsha Olrich said.

We saw hundreds of net-wielding fishermen. Never did we see a fish caught.

- There was always a guessing game at meals. "What's that? Is that hot?" were frequent questions. Once the food was lotus roots, a soup was duck web-feet.
- Get this! We were asked aboard ship to put our used toilet paper in a plastic bag rather than flushing because of the ship's treatment system, and "You Americans use too much."
- An average size city in China has 500,000 people.
- Pagoda type structures are common only in emperor's palaces. Most buildings are square and cement gray or brick.
- The worst thing in China is the smell.
- Tsingtao beer is most popular. It's German.
- We saw more than a few stake trucks on the streets with butchered pig halves in the back.
- When a dam above Wanzhou is finished in 1997 or so, water will be raised 175 meters (165 ft), forcing moving a million people and putting much of several towns under water. China needs power, thus more dams.
- Top soil is being moved from the river banks to places where the people will be moved.
- Someone observed, "A front-end loader would put 10,000 Chinese out of work." Another said, "Yes, and what would they do with them?"

- The Government subsidizes a 'Painters Village.' It has 17 painters.
- Listening to guides in China you get the idea they have been ordered to tell you all the Ming, Qin, etc dynasty histories, and they've memorized it to the point they can't answer a simple question, like, what kind of bird is that?

Dazu was one of the great, pleasant surprises on our trip. There are over 10,000 stone carvings in a big, U-shaped, cave area. They were carved over 800 years ago over a period of 70 years. They depict various Buddhist beliefs, particularly the horrible body treatments you'll receive if you're bad in this life. The bronze sculpture of the lady with 1,000 eyes and 1,000 arms is outstanding.

Along the Chongquin-Dazu road many wheat farmers lay their harvest in the road, letting bus traffic separate the grain.

Then farmers leave the grain in the road for drying. a rock in the road keeps buses off.

Rice paddy plowing, just like the good old days.

Men are retired in China at 60. Two chat under the laundry.

Many buses in Chongquin run on natural gas. The gas is stored in large, rubber tubes atop the bus.

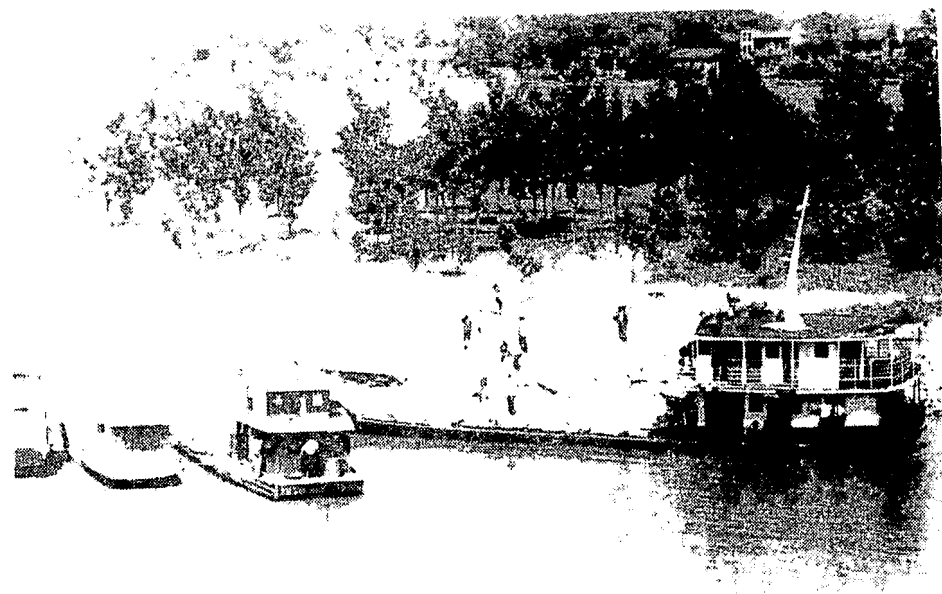

Our home for five days on the third longest river in the world was the "Yangtze Pearl." It carries 168 passengers (48 of us and 120 Taiwanese) and a crew of 124. It was only a few months old and the engines quit shortly after we were underway, during which time the captain had a cocktail party. Our guide Mayke said, "Unbelievable, these Chinese. They just pretend it isn't happening."

With bundles of straw on their backs, workers load a barge with straw. It's used for fuel in brick kilns.

A nearly loaded barge of straw-fuel.

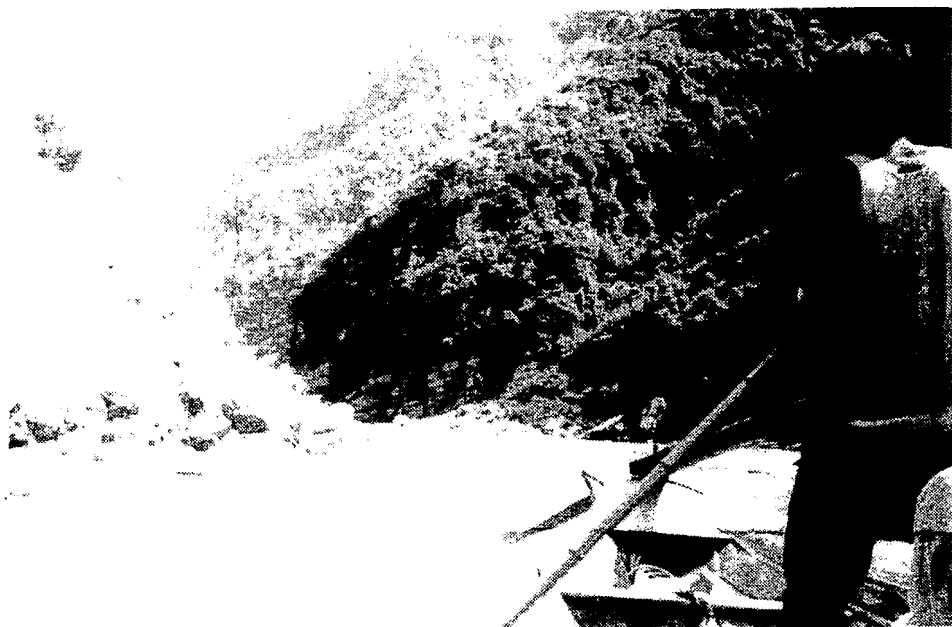

Rocks are carried between two men on and off the boats, and used for erosion prevention on the river banks.

- Many in our group had respiratory ailments. Few were really sick.
- Joint ventures with western world companies in hotels and industry are helping China a whole bunch.
- It's easy being an Archie Bunker-type in China. All this talk of, and buildings for, harmony, righteousness, family, tranquility, fidelity and ethics amidst poverty, communist rule and a history of punishments.
- At doors to communes and temples you have to step over a high threshold, put there to keep out evil spirits.
- Some concubines had a strong influence in Chinese history.

Our guide sings a Chinese love song as our canoe-like boat with 18 people and a crew of 6 take us through the rapids on a Yangtze tributary, the Shenglongxi River, through magnificent gorges.

The helmsman directs the boat through river rapids.

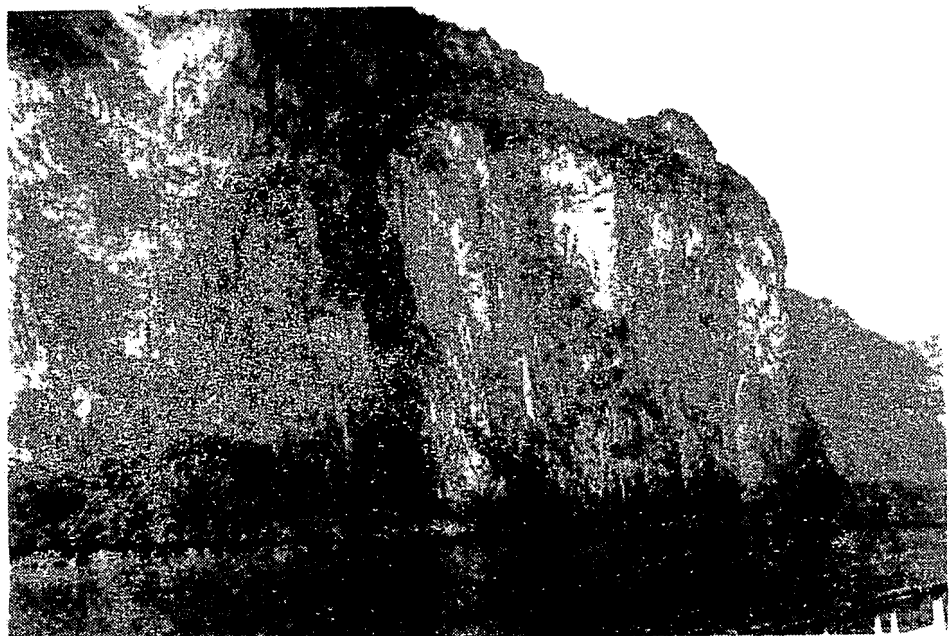

When our bus stopped a few hundred steps above the boat launch site, these men with their sedan chairages were on hand to carry you to the bottom for $6.

You have much more appreciation for China by traveling the Yangtze. Seeing the terraced mountainsides being farmed, the fishermen, the river traffic. Land is tilled by human labor with large hoes. Corn or wheat is planted wherever there is soil, including between rocks.

Further up the Yangtze you see more prosperous farms, noted by newer, white houses. The constantly asked question is: How do they get there? It's so steep and no roads in sight.

One of the steep walls of Yangtze's three gorges. New Yorker Bill Stutler, viewing the scene, remarked, "This is more grandeur than I can stand." Sailing the Yangtze.

Hazel tried to pet this water buffalo and it bolted. A guide said, "Good thing, they're loaded with fleas."

A commune farm with living quarters in the background.

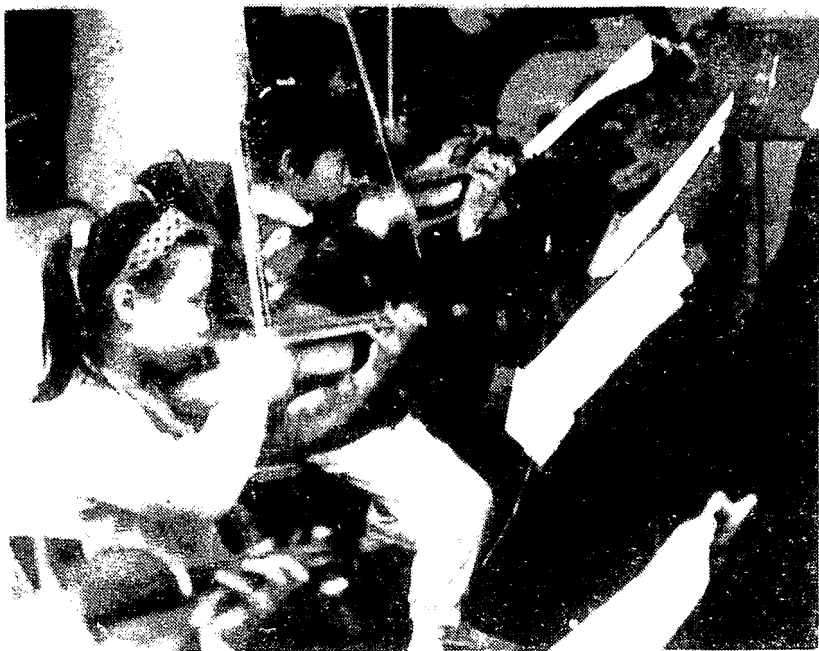

The walk-behind tractor they tried to use in rice paddies is converted for hauling.

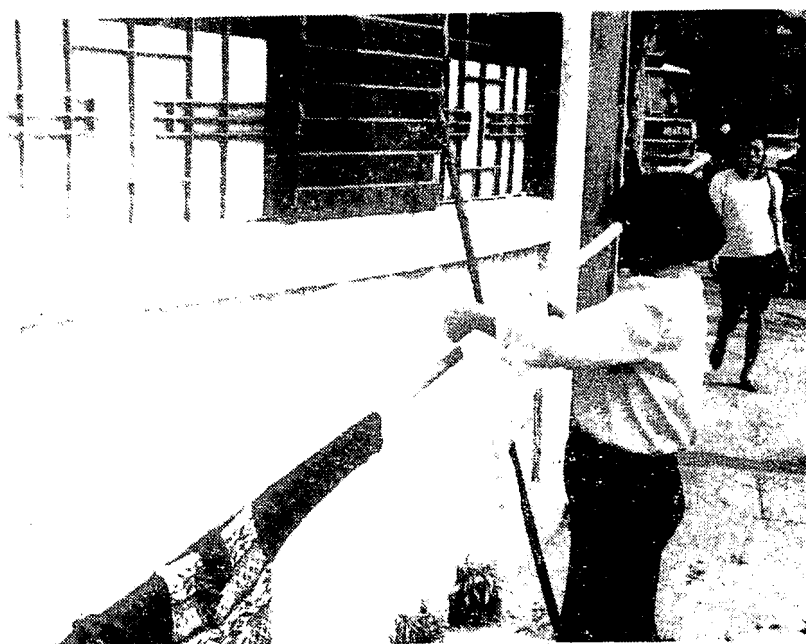

A street-side leather repair shop. This type of small business (bike repair, sewing, barbering) is very prevalent. There are 100,000 shops on Nanjing street in Shanghai.

A lady strings her wash on bamboo for drying. It's a very popular clothesline in China.

Weavers in a "tourists approved" factory in Shanghai.

It's grandmother's duty to watch her grandchild, and this one is doing her duty.

Wanna buy a boiled egg? This vendor is cooking brown eggs (they have mostly brown eggs) in a soy sauce. The look awful and smell worse to us.

All the buildings we saw being demolished were done with sledge hammers and crowbars. Old streets were being torn up the same way.

Oxford's Jerry Oirich tries playing an old, string instrument in a shop. Wherever our bus stopped, there was a shop.

Major cities have 'Friendship Stores.' They are large department stores for tourists. Locals' money isn't good in these stores. This is a porcelain display in the Shanghai Friendship Store.

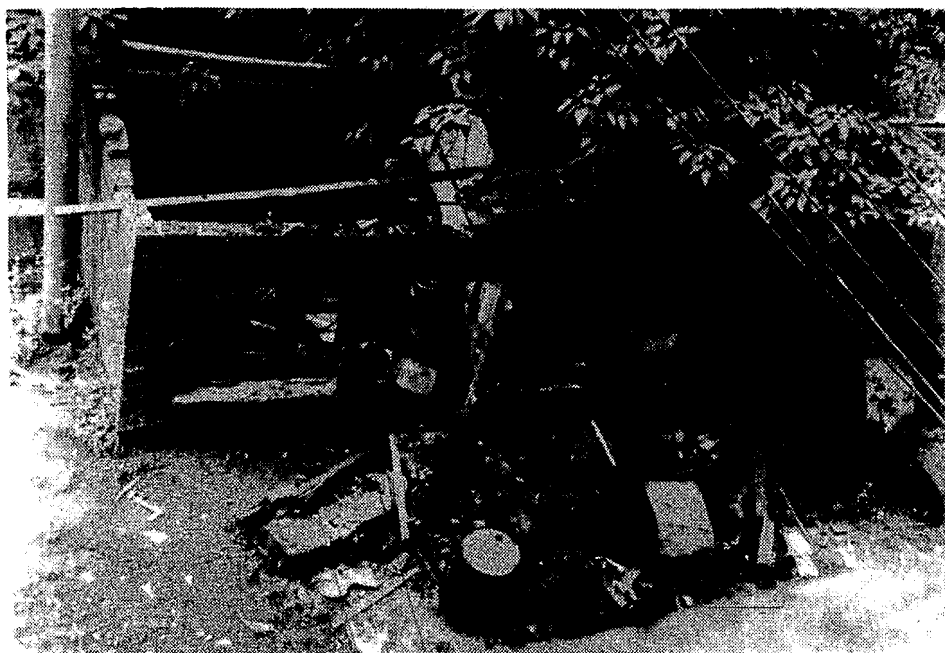

Open air butcher (pork) shop.

With families limited to one child you often see fathers transporting their child in the morning, and mothers in the afternoon. We were told many of the children are being pampered and spoiled under this population control system.

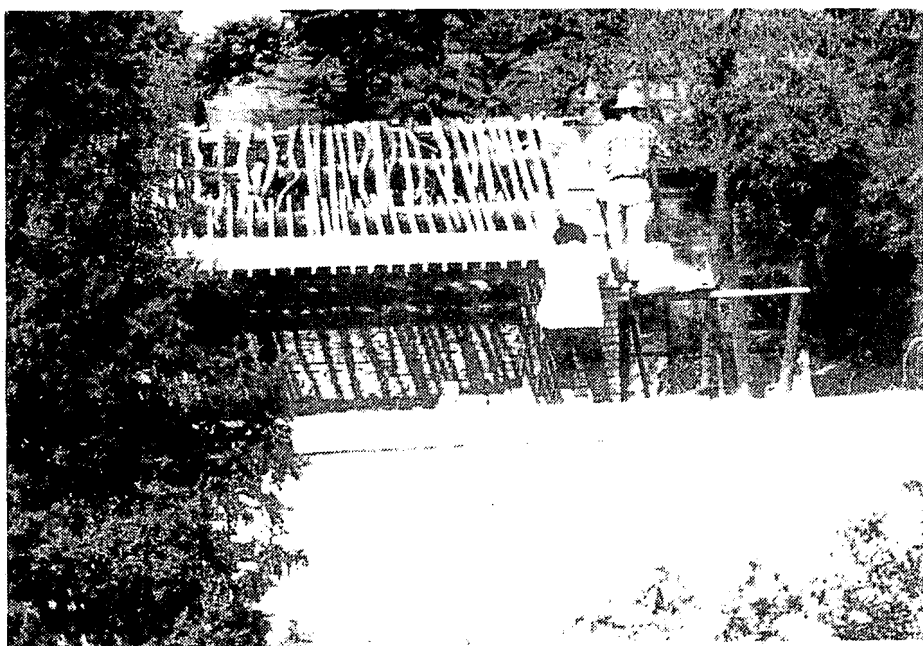

When our bus broke down on a mountain road we got to look down on rice paddies. It's one of our highlight faces we remember.

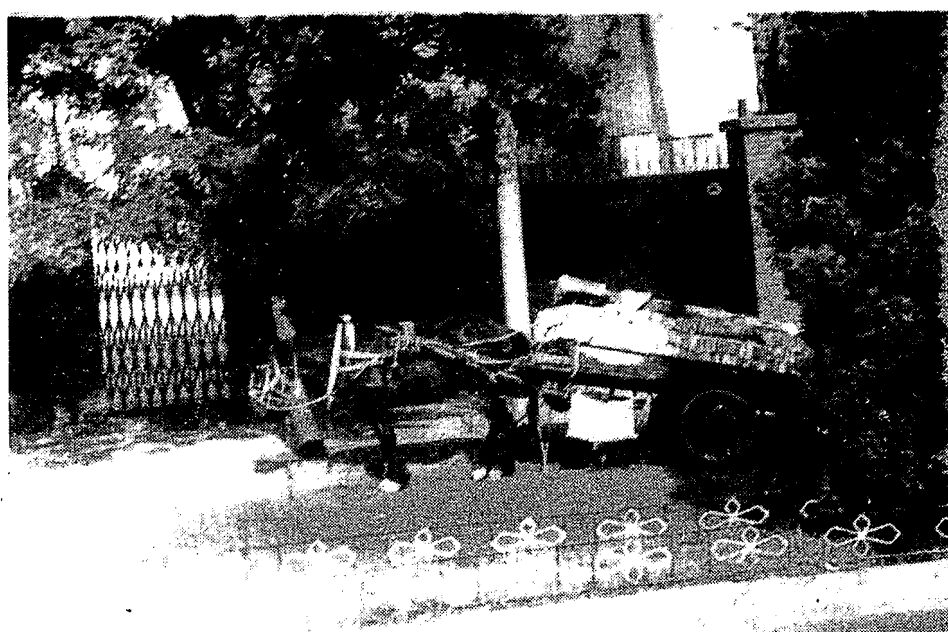

A litter-strewn alley behind an artist's factory in Chongqing. The artist's stoolless toilet was another experience.

36 animals and several statues of people line this half-mile walk south of the Summer Palace.

A building Inspector would go nuts in China. How do you like this roof construction?

This is not just a picture of a horse drawing a load of bricks. It's also shows a wrought iron, street-side fence in Beijing. There were miles of panda, deer and flower wrought iron fences.

Ornate decorations are featured on roofs of many temple-like buildings. They are ugly characters designed to ward off devil creatures and evil spirits.

Once a year the emperor of China came to this Temple of Harvest to pray two hours for a bountiful harvest.

- Nerves flared at times among our 48.
- Newspapers are owned by the party in government.
- We visited one of the 13 Ming tombs. Only one has been opened. Scientists are afraid to open more because they don't know how to preserve whatever they think they might find.
- At Peking duck dinners, only the skin is served. You dip it in plum sauce and rolled in a taco shell.
- The best airline we flew on--we flew on five--was Dragonair. Free drinks, a menu and wash cloth.

- When you go, ride the Star Ferry in HK.

Coca Cola's the popular soft drink.

Picture takers are everywhere, especially on the Great Wall.

The empress at the Summer Palace had this large, marble boat built to hold parties, we were told. We were also told it was made of marble so she wouldn't get seasick.

Confucius say: "A picture is worth a thousand words."
Yes, but being there is worth a thousand pictures.
