Business as usual

BUSINESS was brisk at Kroger's grocery store after striking workers returned to work Saturday. Shopper Bill Bryan (left) of Almond Lane, Independence Township, said he was happy to shop at Kroger's again, but he supported those who walked the picket line. In fact, he even joined them. "I'm glad that it's over," said Bryan. "I'm sorry that it had to come to a strike. I think people have to stand up and tell a company when enough is enough." Clerk-cashier Pat Vanderkolk

(right) of Andersonville Road, Springfield Township, said business was incredible the first weekend back on the job. "People came back all at once," she said. "The store's been cleaned out." She weathered the strike OK, she said. "We're all glad to be back to work. We wish we got a better deal, but we felt we'd do it this time," she said. She added that it was good to see the customers again. "They have been wonderful. They all said, 'Welcome back.'"

Pay-to-play possible

Parents, kids ask board to reinstate some sports

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Students in Clarkston schools may have to pay to participate in athletics next year.

Or sports may remain as planned: sports as usual for high school athletes, but no interscholastic sports for grades 7-9, a change that was approved by the board as part of $1.2 million in budget cuts.

Because time is running out to hold tryouts, conditioning and training, about 30 parents of athletes urged the board to make a decision quickly.

After about an hour-long discussion June 22, the Clarkston Board of Education said it would consider the costs and merits of a pay-to-play system for the entire district and would likely make a decision in July. The board took no formal action.

Athletic budget cut across board

During the meeting, athletic director Paul Tungate said that $80,000 total was cut from the athletic budget, leaving less than $400,000 for grades 7-12. Of the cuts,

"There's an exaggerated emphasis on the athletic issue over the academic issue. I'm not saying that's right or wrong. That's America."

Superintendent Gary Haner

Hot issues to spark two meetings

You may want to mark your calendar for July. Two upcoming meetings provide the ideal opportunity for area residents to affect local government.

Joint meeting

The first — at 7:30 p.m. Monday, July 6 — is a rare joint meeting between the Clarkston Board of Education and the Independence Township Board. It takes place at the township library meeting room on Clarkston Road.

At issue is tax money that the school district agreed to let the township Downtown Development Authority (DDA) use for improvements for 10 years. (See related stories on Page 3.)

Four years remain in that agreement, but the school district wants its money back due to budget cuts.

To agree July 6, local officials from both boards will have to weigh the immediate needs of the school district against the long-term benefits of greater tax revenues four years from now for both governmental units.

The joint meeting follows the regular school board meeting at the board office, which was moved up to 6 p.m.

School facilities

The second meeting — at 7 p.m. Wednesday, July 8, in the school board meeting room on Clarkston Road — is a study session for Clarkston board members on moving the district's ninth-graders to the high school and on new construction in the district.

In recent years, voters have turned down bond issues to build a new high school and elementary school, so those pro and con on this issue would be wise to attend this meeting.

During it, board members will start anew to tackle space problems in the district. They said June 22 that residents' comments will influence their decisions.

$20,000 came from high school athletics in the form of equipment and supplies. Plus, $30,000 was cut from ninth-grade sports and another $30,000 from seventh- and eighth-grade sports. Those cuts eliminated middle school interscholastic sports.

However, because sports scheduling takes place so far in advance, a fall schedule already exists for interscholastic junior high sports, Tungate said. He has not yet canceled the junior high events.

Pay-to-play option

To run a pay-to-participate program for junior high pupils, it would cost $125-$150 per person per sport for grades 7-8 and $200-$225 per person per sport for grade 9, he said.

Estimating, Tungate said about 1,000 pupils participate. (See PARENTS, next page)

Parents ask for pay-to-play sports

pate in sports in grades 7-12, including about 515 at the junior high level.

After hearing the figures, most of the parents who spoke favored a pay-to-participate program for the entire district so junior high sports could be reinstated at a lesser fee per person.

During the evening, parents — and two students — made an emotional plea to reinstate junior high sports, particularly for ninth-graders.

Nancy Walters read a letter to the board on behalf of parents.

Athletics important, say parents

The athletic program is an integral part of every middle school, she said, explaining that the mascot and school colors become important in sporting events.

In addition, sports give a feeling of pride and self-esteem to athletes and non-athletes, she said. The middle school level allows developing teens to try a variety of sports.

Plus, recent research shows that extra-curricular activities are a better indicator of later success than academic performance in the classroom, she said, adding that other statistics show that the more activities a school offers, the fewer disciplinary problems there are.

"We ask you to reinstate middle school sports," she concluded and was greeted by a round of applause.

Teacher Mary Tippen noted that only intramural basketball and volleyball are offered to middle school students. That means pupils can't participate in such standbys as cheerleading, football and wrestling, she said.

"There really isn't that much outside of the athletic programs" for kids to do, she said. "What do kids do to be a part of the school?"

Teens address issue

Teen-ager Jill Cascone, who will be a freshman next year, said sports are important to students, especially ninth-graders.

"I think it's unfair that you would just cut sports out," she said. "Ever since sixth grade, I've always been looking forward to my freshman year. ... It's unfair."

The audience applauded her.
Another teen-ager, Stacey Tippen, said sports teaches children. As a basketball player last year, she made different friends, which prepared her for ninth grade as well as high school, she said.

"It's really important to kids," said Stacey Tippen, adding that many of her friends were looking forward to cheerleading, "which is hard to do without sports."

She, too, was applauded.

Piecemeal voter approval

Long-time resident Al Cooper had another idea altogether. The board, he said, had the wrong approach entirely. Before the June 8 election asking voters to approve two mills, the board listed 8-10 areas that would suffer budget cuts. (Two mills is $2 for every $1,000 in assessed property valuation.)

Instead, said Cooper, the board should have separated each item and asked voters to approve or disapprove each program and its cost, whether it be 1/4 mill or 1/8 mill or some other figure for each.

The way the board operates now, he said, "you have to buy it all or reject it all."

Since the millage request failed, it would look bad if the board were to reinstate sports and cut something else from the budget, he said.

"I grew up in this town, and I had the opportunity to play sports at all levels," said Cooper. Now, he said, "it looks like all you want to do is cover your rear-end."

Board members responded to the comments.

Intramural vs. interscholastic sports

Janet Thomas said the board approved the athletic cuts as part of the many cuts from the entire school budget. But the athletic budget cuts were to be offset by a plan to "beef up" the middle school intramural program, she said, adding that she didn't know whether the intramural schedule had been expanded.

"I feel as frustrated as the parents," she said. "If we're going to cut, we should cut across the board."

Credibility question

Sheila Hughes said the credibility of the school board was on the line. It's inconsistent to reinstate junior high sports after stating they would be cut if the millage failed, she said.

"I would have no problem supporting a full pay-to-play program," she said, adding that she needed the exact costs before making a decision.

Paul Van Klaveren said, "I'd much rather have pay-to-play than nothing."

However, he said, "some people think it could lead the whole school to pay-to-play," where residents would "vote on every little bitty thing."

"The board has been chastised for its lack of consistency," he said, adding that he's not sure which way he would vote if presented with other options.

Parent Walters spoke again. "Many of us understand the credibility issue you're dealing with, and it's a real one," she said. "I would urge you not to reinstate from your budget but go with pay to play."

Parental pressure

Another parent, Dale Ryan, brought up another option.

The school district has asked for a rebate of money from the Independence Township Downtown Development Authority (DDA).

If the board receives that money, it could help pay for sports, he said.

Superintendent Gary Haner pointed out that even if the school district did receive some money from the DDA, it wouldn't necessarily be spent on sports.

In addition, the $60,000 cut from middle school athletics were not the only sports-related cuts. The district also laid off custodial and clerical workers plus reduced other related costs.

Haner said that the schools' budget cuts were approved after 20-25 hours of meetings with 20 people to decide where in the budget to cut $1.2 million. Athletics was only a part of that.

"There's an exaggerated emphasis on the athletic issue over the academic issue," he said. "I'm not saying that's right or wrong. That's America."

In last week's The Clarkston News, a story on the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) should have said that 72 percent, or $912,000, of the DDA's captured tax money comes from entities within the Clarkston school district.

A story about turkey hunting in last week's Clarkston News should have said that Bruce Sawyer's turkey weighed 18 pounds.

DDA says schools should get the money

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

The Clarkston school district appears to have gained an ally in its attempt to collect a rebate from the Downtown Development Authority (DDA).

On June 16, the DDA board recommended that Independence Township cease all future revitalization projects and rebate DDA entities with money left over from 1992 contractual obligations.

These suggestions are two of the DDA's three formal recommendations made to the township board. The township board has the final say in all DDA matters and can accept, deny or modify suggestions.

The township board and school board are to meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday, July 6, to discuss the issue.

The DDA was created six years ago to improve landscaping, lighting, water and sewer along parts of Dixie Highway, M-15 and White Lake Road. Funding for the DDA comes from tax increment financing, which captures "excess" taxes from a base year — and returns

"I don't feel the whole program has been handled properly between the two boards."

Supervisor Frank Ronk

the money for use with DDA boundaries only.

The excess money comes from property valuation increases or new development after the base year. The 10-year DDA project is scheduled to end in 1996.

The DDA board's initial recommendation last week called for the township to cease the expansion of the DDA. This measure passed 4-2, with township Supervisor Frank Ronk and Denise Schons voting no. Del Lohff, Dick Ayres, Forrest Milzow and Superintendent of Clarkston Schools Gary Haner favored the recommendation.

The second recommendation asked the township to postpone 1) the construction of safety paths on Dixie and White Lake roads, 2) the erection of supplemental pedestrian lighting on M-15 and 3) the streetscape on Dixie Highway, M-15 and White Lake Road. This motion passed 5-1, with Ronk casting the lone dissenting vote.

The final suggestion is that the township rebate all respective sources with money left over from the fulfillment of all 1992 contractual agreements. This measure passed 5-1. Again, Ronk voted no.

Taxed sources within the DDA include: the Clarkston school district, the Waterford school district, Oakland Intermediate Schools, Independence Township, Oakland County and Oakland Community College.

The Clarkston school district provides about 72 percent, or $912,000, of the DDA's present $1.3 million in "captured" taxes.

The DDA board had originally approved the amendment to the DDA project plan but took a second look when school officials discovered their right to file for a rebate.

Clarkston Board of Education members formally requested a rebate from the DDA May 18, after they learned that "out of formula" school districts aren't required to refund a DDA rebate to the state — as long as it's money generated after the school district went out of the state's funding formula.

On June 2, school district officials asked the township board to suspend all DDA activities and consider issuing rebates to all DDA-taxed entities. Subsequently, the township board voted to table an amendment to the DDA development plan until they and the school board could discuss the issue at length.

This amendment would entail three projects at a cumulative cost of $400,000.

After the June 16 DDA meeting, Ronk said he voted against the recommendations to the township board for two reasons.

First, he said, any changes to DDA taxing is between the township board and the Clarkston school board — the DDA board itself has no authority. Therefore, it shouldn't have been involved.

"I don't feel the whole program has been handled properly between the two boards," he said, adding that the DDA recommendations were premature. School and township officials should have talked it over before allowing it to become a political issue.

Second, many issues must be weighed — the benefit of immediate payment of money now should the DDA projects be halted vs. the benefit of the money generated after DDA improvements have been completed four years from now.

"The township is definitely looking at long term," said Ronk, explaining that he understood the school district's money woes as a new out-of-formula district.

However, he said, "We don't want to Band-Aid the thing. We want to make it well."

Program cuts due to budget crunch

Music, gym and computer keyboarding will be cut completely or partially for elementary pupils in the 1992-93 school year. And junior high media centers will be open only part time.

The cuts are part of $1.2 million budget slashes in Clarkston schools due to the state's tax base sharing plan, which takes money from "out of formula" school districts and gives it to poorer districts in the state. The state's property tax freeze also stopped taxes from increasing at the rate of inflation, lessening the school district's revenues.

Voters turned down a June 8 request for 2 mills to offset the loss, so the following cuts and deductions are in place for the upcoming school year. Two mills is $2 for every $1,000 assessed property valuation.

- The elimination of the Elementary World Language program, $12,500.

- A reduction of 50 percent in the Elementary Gifted Support program, $25,500.

- The elimination of the Clarkston High School SEARCH program, $25,000.

- Elimination of one full-time, elementary media specialist from three in district, $25,000.

- A 50 percent cut in the elementary music program and elimination of the remaining kindergarten music program, $25,000.

- For K-5 students, a cut in physical education from 50 minutes per week to 35 minutes per week, $25,000.

- Elimination of local funding for Computer Assistance, PA 25 Assistance, Jazz Band, District Wellness Coordinator and Summer School, $32,500.

- Elimination of Elementary Keyboarding, $5,000.

LSD conspiracy pre-exam Friday

BY CATHERINE PASSMORE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Drugs usually break families apart, but for the Clarkston-based "Family," drugs, specifically LSD, apparently brought them together.

Stanley Adams Watkins, 17, of Clarkston allegedly organized a group of nine other youths into a drug operation where he and the others sold LSD to Clarkston High School students, said Detective Doug Edgar of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD).

Watkins and "The Family" allegedly had lofty goals of branching out their business to Waterford and other school districts and then to the entire county. However, after three months of OCSD investigation, Watkins and four other members of The Family were arrested June 16.

Watkins; Jason Smith, 18, of Clarkston; Bryce Kidder,

17, of Clarkston; Mark Bierman, 20, of Troy; and Phil Laycock, 18, of East Lansing were charged with one count each of conspiracy to deliver LSD. This is a felony and carries a maximum sentence of seven years in prison.

The preliminary examinations for the five are set for 11 a.m. Friday, June 26, before Judge Gerald McNally in 52nd District Court, Independence Township.

"This (the gang) was unique — it was really well organized," said Edgar. "If it wasn't for their ages, it could have been like Young Boys, Incorporated," said Edgar. In The Family, there was a leader, co-leaders, salesmen and spies, he said.

Some youths in the area said that Watkins considered himself a vampire.

Edgar said, "The vampire thing was rumored in the prior gang he (Watkins) was involved in; it didn't happen with this group."

Being, or claiming to be, a vampire is not against the law, said Edgar.

"It's just as legal as being Catholic," he said.

Edgar said that Watkins used the rumor of vampirism to get people to do what he wanted.

"The kids at the school weren't surprised by the rumors (about the LSD and the vampires), but there is a

Parents called to joint board meeting

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

Parents of children in Clarkston schools are likely to turn out in high numbers at a joint meeting between the Clarkston Board of Education and the Independence Township Board.

The meeting, set for 7:30 p.m. Monday, July 6, at the township library meeting room on Clarkston Road, is to focus on a request for money from the schools.

The school district asks that the township return some or all of the $912,000 generated by the township's Downtown Development Authority (DDA). (See related story.)

At a June 22 school board meeting, parents protested budget cuts made by school board members. The cuts included eliminating interscholastic sports in grades 7-9 and called for busing 25 fifth-graders (who normally walk to North Sashabaw Elementary) to Pine Knob Elementary.

tary. Elementary enrollment is up in the North Sashabaw area, but the school district doesn't have enough money to buy a portable classroom for that school.

Parents concerned about one or both of those issues asked the school board to get the DDA rebate and use it to correct those problems.

Dale Ryan told the parents at the June 22 school board meeting to show up at the July 6 joint meeting.

"We need this type of a turnout at the DDA meeting to tell them we want our money back," he said. "We need every one of you parents at that meeting. ... We have to be in on the early discussions, not the tail end."

The money in question is planned for DDA projects. One example is the landscaping plan for the White Lake Road-Dixie Highway area, he said.

"We don't need that kind of beautification," Ryan said. "We need kids in sports and school activities."

code of silence there. The parents had no clue.

Parents angry over busing out of fifth-graders

School district officials promise to examine all options at North Sashabaw

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Crowded conditions or not, parents at North Sashabaw Elementary don't want to see fifth-graders bused to Pine Knob Elementary School next fall.

About 30 parents turned up at the June 22 Clarkston Board of Education meeting to ask for an alternative.

"We do not want our children bused," said spokesperson Marsha Green, after reading a letter from North Sashabaw parents.

The board took no action but asked that the administration look into all options and report back to the board

"We do not want our children bused."

Marsha Green

at the Monday, July 20, meeting.

The formal request followed a June 15 meeting with the school board and district officials during which 100 parents talked with the board for three hours.

At that meeting, school officials said they would investigate four options that could prevent the transfer of students.

The June 15 public forum resulted from the hiring of four teachers at the June 8 school board meeting. Contingent on one of these hirings was the condition that a class of 25 North Sashabaw fifth-graders would be transported by bus to Pine Knob each day.

Hired at Pine Knob, this new teacher will supposedly balance the fourth and fifth-grade class sizes at North Sashabaw, while helping the fifth-grade class sizes at Pine Knob as well.

The "latchkey" room at Pine Knob is to be eliminated to make room for the fifth-graders.

Several parents of soon-to-be fifth-graders at North Sashabaw were informed of this news through a letter from the school. In this correspondence, Principal George White explained the situation and asked for transfer volunteers.

In the letter, White said, "Tentative consideration is to identify students that walk to North Sashabaw to be the group shuttled. I am requesting volunteers to be part of the transfer. Without sufficient volunteers, a drawing will take place to select the students to move."

Parent representative Marsha Green, the mother of a fifth-grade walker, said shuttling students could be hard on the children.

"Fifth-grade is a pivotal time for these kids because they have an entire year to prime themselves for the move to junior high school," she said. "It's not fair to spring this type of transition on them two years in a row."

Green also said walking to school early just so they can board a bus their friends are getting off could be tough as well.

Airing similar concerns, the parents provided school officials with four considerations that could eliminate the shuttling concept altogether.

These options included: purchasing a portable classroom, transferring kindergartners instead of fifth-graders, relocating children to a classroom in the Clarkston Community Education building across the street, and moving all of the special education students into one divided classroom.

Superintendent Gary Haner said the district would like to buy a portable classroom, but each unit costs about $40,000, and the school district is facing a lean school year because of a $1.2 million decrease in the upcoming budget.

Parents suggested using money from a rebate that the district might receive from the Downtown Development Authority (DDA). With $912,000 in captured tax money at stake, this matter is still unresolved between Independence Township and the Clarkston school board. A joint July 6 meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Monday at the township library meeting room to discuss the issue.

Haner said a move to the Clarkston Community Education building has merit, but the district must make building code inquiries with the Intermediate School District first. While it may have served as an elementary school at one time, he said, it would be hard to find alternative sites for STRIVE, Latchkey and Funshine programs.

He said it would be especially difficult to secure sites for pre-school programs such as Funshine and Latchkey because of strict code restrictions. Haner said a church environment might be the closest thing to match the code standards of the community education building.

Haner also predicted potential problems with lumping all 25 special education students into one divided classroom. Split into cross-categorical and learning disability programs, both groups would need equal lighting, equal footage and numerous other intangibles.

In regards to transferring kindergartners instead of fifth-graders, Haner said the district would have to delve into past studies to see what emotional effect this type of move might have on such young children.

Green said some of North Sashabaw's parents have volunteered their kindergartners for such a transfer.

"Some great parents have offered to transfer their kindergartners in place of the fifth-graders," she said. "They believe, and so do we, that such a move would be easier on younger children. However, we don't want to see anyone bused out if possible."

Haner said he was pleased with the meeting and the patience of the North Sashabaw parents.

"We had a very resourceful three hours, with good statements from everyone," he said. "Now, it's up to the district to investigate these alternatives and check on their validity."

Haner said he expects to have the findings within a month and be able pass them along to parents by the end of July.

An eighth-grader from Clarkston Junior High School has been chosen to visit Sweden for a month this summer.

Katie Freeman, 13, was among 10 Michigan youths, ages 13-15, selected for the trip by Children's International Summer Villages (CISV), a cross-cultural exchange organization. She'll be visiting this Scandinavian country from June 18 to July 19.

Katie will be taken in by 13-year-old Kristina Jordo and her family, work just so she can show me the sights and be there for communication purposes.

"Kristina's mom speaks and writes English beautifully," Katie added.

Katie said the impending trip is exciting because a part of her ancestry lies in Sweden.

"My grandmother is Swedish and she's really excited for me," she said. "While I'm there, I'm going to visit some relatives in Stockholm that I've never met before."

Even though she doesn't speak the Swedish language, Katie said she isn't scared by the aspect of not knowing what other people are saying.

"Hopefully, I can pick up enough of the language while I'm there, so I can communicate with the Jordos," she said. "The object of this trip is to learn about other cultures, and that includes the language, too."

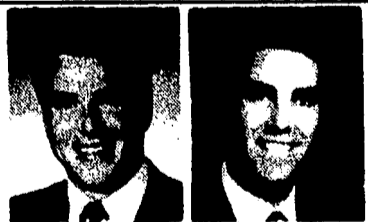

At CJHS, Katie is active in a variety of extra-curricular activities. They include junior high cheerleading, girls' track and basketball.

Despite the intrigue surrounding her upcoming trip, Katie knows it's bound to have one major drawback.

"I'm going to miss my friends," she said. "But some have promised to write me, so it won't be all that bad. Odds are, I'll probably be too busy to be homesick anyway."

Big decision

Julie Campe

Politics and emotions will likely play a part in a decision to be made by two local governmental boards.

The Independence Township Board and Clarkston Board of Education are meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday, July 6, on neutral ground — the township library meeting room on Clarkston Road.

The issue: Money.

In 1986, the two boards agreed to use extra tax dollars above the amount collected in the base 1986 year to improve the area within that boundary (the Downtown Development Authority [DDA] district). Only "extra" taxes from within that boundary would be affected.

The idea at the time was to pump money into the area along parts of Dixie Highway and M-15 to pay for a few items that would be attractive to businesses, such as sewer, water, lighting, road widening, landscaping and safety paths.

The rationale held that those improvements would entice developers to the township, thus generating tax revenue that would help the area — after the 10-year period was completed, that is.

Any extra money generated within the district would remain in the district for more improvements until 1996.

And so far, it's worked. Two new shopping centers have opened along Dixie Highway in the district, and other property has seen an increase in the state equalized value due to the improvements. And, yes, sewer, water and street lighting have been added, with more projects scheduled for the White Lake industrial area.

But the school district, which accounts for more than 70 percent of that "extra" money in the DDA, now wants its money back.

Outside forces — namely the state Legislature — have taken away money that it expected to have and may take away more.

As a result, school board members and school administrators have agonized over how to balance the budget with less money (voters turned down a plea for two extra operating mills). So far, the school board has cut $1.2 million from its budget in such areas as elementary gym and music, junior high sports, teacher aides and other support staff (not to mention teachers).

So the question the two boards have to answer:

Should the township DDA step into the school's crisis and fork over the school's money now, foregoing four more years of improvements, which could make for big money in 1996? Or should the school district hang on for four more lean years in anticipation of greater monetary returns later?

Already, the politics are in place. School officials, in a Reagan-like manner, appealed to the people before discussing the issue with the township board, which has the final say on DDA projects and expenditures.

So parents will likely attend the meeting in full force. And with good reason. Many were affected by the school cuts. For instance, some students who walk to North Sashabaw are asked to "volunteer" to walk to school next year to pick up a bus that will take them to Pine Knob Elementary. North Sashabaw is out of space, and there is no money to buy a portable classroom.

Other students have been told that there will be no interscholastic sports for grades 7-9 — there goes freshman basketball, football, volleyball, cheerleading, track, baseball, softball and wrestling — and the dreams of many teen-agers.

The July 6 decision is one of those big ones that faces a community only every once in a while, and I wish both boards luck, wisdom and understanding.

Speak now on new construction

Clarkston-area residents old and young should attend an upcoming special school board meeting.

The meeting not only could affect your pocket-book, it also could affect the education of youngsters in the community.

The 7 p.m. Wednesday, July 8, meeting is a study session on the Clarkston school district's space problems. It also will address whether to move ninth-graders to the high school as planned.

Right before each school election that has asked for bond money to build new buildings, a slew of residents have said they don't like the plans or don't agree that extra space is needed — despite the fact that the school board has held public hearings every step of the way.

But now residents can start fresh.

Here's a chance to find out all the facts for yourself. More importantly, it's a chance to voice your opinion on which alternative the school board should take — in the beginning stages.

A good sign: board members genuinely want to hear from residents. Not only is it a chance for the board to state its case and dispel rumors, it's also an opportunity to gauge public opinion.

They want a solution to their problems, but they want a solution that voters will accept.

This board really wants to know what residents think. Residents should tell them. JLC

Jim's Jottings

Words to void, or avoid

Jim Sherman

Doctors recommend people have physical examinations at age 40 or 50 or 60. The variance probably has to do with the aging process, however it could possibly be related to the doctors' financial obligations or interests.

The point that I'm healthy as an ox, or Coleman Young, has nothing to do with it . . . the calendar does. I wonder only slightly at my physical taking a matter of a few hours and Mayor Young being hospitalized four days for his check up.

We've all been to doctors. And, we've all heard words used in their offices that, when used in a general conversation, mean something different.

It's these words that gave rise to this column. I'll try to void any errors before they reach print. Should a storm start during this writing I'll evacuate the building.

Following these two procedures should eliminate possible trouble with my readers and keep me safe from the weather.

Having had doctorial experiences, I'm sure you'll not be upset by the instructions I received for this most recent physical examination.

I was told to collect (another great word used to avoid street vernacular) a specimen for 24 hours.

The actual instruction was, "When you void yourself you should do it in this receptacle."

"Evacuate" and "eliminate" have identical meaning in medical terms. The only difference I've seen is that "evacuate" is in written instruction, whereas white-froked folks like to say "eliminate."

Personally, I prefer they not use any of these words in my presence. Then I could sleep free from the concern of hitting the container and over smearing.

However, this medical visit may have a positive side. Come mid-November, and we deer hunters are gathered around the fireplace, I can enlighten these hunting heathens with words not yet heard in our camp.

They'll all get sick enough to void their license and evacuate to the nearest saloon.

At no time have I ever thought or said, "Now I've heard everything." I haven't! For example, recently we received the following press release, in part: "Our organization purchases good quality cattle gallstones all year round. The special price offered now is $11.40 per gm for good quality, well dried whole stones."

The company is Alice Import-Export, Hong Kong. They also say, "For over 2,000 years, gallstones are used as an ingredient for producing Chinese medicine for controlling fever with similar effect of antibiotics."

If you have any cattle gallstones to sell, keep in mind, Alice etc says "Only the stones are of value and not the bladder itself."

That's a relief.

Protect animals

In response to Section C of The Clarkston News dated June 17, I cannot agree with the smiling faces and "exciting stories" of the two ~~men~~ outdoorsmen who do not go out to enjoy but to destroy our beautiful wildlife.

Today, more than ever, nature needs to be preserved, and the few remaining wild animals must be protected and their habitat restored.

Say the word and you'll be free

Bruce Worden

BY BRUCE WORDEN

Hey, here we are again. It seems like I did this last year ...

Lot of things have changed since then, though. Back then comedy was my life. I lived for humor. I don't know, maybe I'm growing up, or maybe these things just aren't funny, but I'm gonna take time out from being the cartoonist for a minute.

How come people always talk about peace and love and oneness and freedom, but no one ever really does anything about it? How come the ones who do get killed?

People say they want peace among us all ... except for him and except for her. That's not where it's at. Peace has not exceptions. Why can't they see that?

And maybe I'm sounding like a hippie of something. Heck, maybe I look like a hippie (I've been told both), but why are people so quick to judge like that? Why can't people just be people — be themselves? What's wrong with that?

People try to conform and fit in, but in the process they lose themselves. They become other people. They go off and no one ever really sees nor hears from them again. Think about it. It's sad.

Do you really want to become someone you're not?

Try for a day — for you — let it all hang out. Let it be. Let loose, and go with your own flow. See what you see. I hope you like it. I do. There are some beautiful people out there, closer than you know — and you don't know. You look at them and say, "Boy, she's kinda ugly," or "Where'd you get those clothes?" You don't see past the surface.

There are some beautiful people out there. Heck, if I can find them, you can. Just open your heart. You can even keep your eyes closed for all I care. In fact, you see better that way. Your eyes only get in the way.

But anyway, I'm not kidding here, and I'm not just trying to fill space for this column; these are the thoughts that run around in my head everyday.

These few ideals — peace, love and freedom — are what keep me going. I only hope that one day, people will realize, "Maybe there is something to this peace thing," "Maybe those longhairs weren't as dumb as we thought."

And, yeah, maybe I do belong in the '60s, but at lease in the '60s, people listened. Now I can only hope I live to see it. But somehow ... I doubt I will. Just say the word.

"The word is love."

'If it Fitz ...'

Overrated lunch should be stuffed

Jim Fitzgerald

Overrated lunch should be stuffed

My wife and I were all dressed up, on our way out to dinner. So when a large man wearing shorts and little else joined us on the apartment elevator, he apparently felt compelled to explain his skimpy attire.

"I'm going running," he said. "I have to lose weight." I graciously told him that running to lose weight made as much sense as eating chocolate cake to win a foot-race. He didn't thank me for my wisdom.

Later, my wife commented: "That man didn't think you were funny. He thought you were obnoxious."

I said that was the idea: "Now he won't ask me to lunch."

If you want to shed fat, all you have to do is quit eating lunch.

Nutritionally, lunches are overrated. People eat them out of habit, not hunger. Lunches have become rituals that must be performed before two people can talk business, or make love, or plan dinner.

A boss will take an employee to lunch to promote him, or fire him. World War III will be declared over lunch. Years later, the survivors will delay signing the peace treaty until the luncheon dishes have been cleared.

A person invited to lunch may weigh 400 pounds. He doesn't need lunch, he needs therapy. But he goes to lunch because to refuse would be rude, or poor business, or risky to a romantic liaison he's been enjoying with a 300-pound beach ball.

Lunch is traditional, something like Bob Hope. It doesn't have to be good, it has to be consumed. Just as it is unpatriotic to admit Hope hasn't been funny for 30 years, it is uncivilized to skip lunch.

Working people who can't get out to a restaurant still don't flout the tradition. They brown bag it, from home or a deli, and drip mustard all over the gross national product, which is what makes it gross. Automobiles that go through the assembly line during lunch are often recalled because of bread crumbs in the gearbox.

When I tell overweight people they should skip lunch, they get angry. They deny that they eat lunch for social or economic reasons, or simply out of habit. They say they eat lunch for their health.

One chubby friend said he gets a dull ache in his stomach when he misses lunch. He said he can't stand the pain. So, to lose weight, he runs every night until his legs throb and his lungs burn and he throws up.

Another overweight friend said her head aches if she doesn't eat at noon. Medical diagnosticians probably would say her headache is caused by worry, not hunger. She worries that, if she doesn't eat lunch with her friends, they will be free to gossip about how fat she is getting.

In 1973, I was fat. That's when I quit eating lunch. It took me four months to lose 25 pounds. Every time the scale said I'd shed five pounds, I invited friends and strangers to a candlelight ceremony in which I punched another hole in my belt.

That is the secret to keeping the fat shed.

You must brag about your new slimness and the steel willpower that made it possible. You should illustrate your incredible non-lunching success by putting your skinny body and a living room couch into your old pants.

Be an obnoxious bore. Tell the world lunch isn't necessary. Tell strangers on elevators that running is for catching buses. Not eating lunch is for getting slim.

Everyone will hate you.

Which is good.

No one will ask you to lunch.

Music theater reduces noise, pleases township

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

It's been nearly three weeks since an Independence Township resident has issued a complaint against the Pine Knob Music Theater, and township officials would like to keep it that way.

According to township Supervisor Frank Ronk, the amphitheater has been quite neighborly since the township board granted first-reading approval to a theater licensing ordinance June 2.

"We're getting good reports from residents around Pine Knob, and we've had good conversations with their managerial people," Ronk said. "They've addressed a lot of our concerns, like ending some of their most recent performances at 10:45 (p.m.) when they could have easily run 'til 11:25 (p.m.)."

Ronk said he's uncertain when the board might consider second-reading approval and adoption of the controversial licensing ordinance.

"We'll do a second-reading when we feel it's appropriate," he said. "It could happen in a month or maybe 10 years from now."

The proposed ordinance calls for the licensing and regulation of all theaters, shows and exhibitions involving more than 3,000 patrons. Among various other conditions, the ordinance would restrict all outdoor acts to the hours between 9 a.m. and 11 p.m.

Discretionary action would include a verbal warning the first time. However, if problems persist, the township could suspend performances at Pine Knob for a while or revoke the license.

At the June 2 board meeting, Pine Knob attorney Susan Greenfield said the amphitheater could take the township to court over the matter because she views the proposed ordinance as too harsh and detrimental to business.

Just recently, however, Pine Knob officials sent a letter to the township and explained how they've remedied 21 township concerns mentioned prior to the 1992 concert season.

Some of these concerns include: alcohol consumption on the grounds, overselling of shows, excessive number of hard rock performances, street lighting and adherence to the township's decibel level ordinance and promised event curfew.

Over the last few weeks, Pine Knob officials claim decibel levels were taken at every event. They say readings were taken at the sound mix, top of the hill, at the east box office and main gate. They say none of these levels exceeded existing ordinance guidelines.

In addition, the venue claims to have taken the following measures: Sonex baffles installed in the pavilion, re-directing lawn speaker systems downward by an additional 15 degrees, and disabling speakers facing the northeast.

Pine Knob officials also report they've moved up the start of 14 multiple-act shows from 7:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. and sent curfew notices to all artists at the time of their contract signing.

The letter went on to say that venue officials have estimated that the main thrust of audibility is concentrated in an area known as the Caberfae subdivision, which is northeast of the pavilion.

They believe that the sound is being funneled directly between the hill and concession stands-stage right, across the parking lot and deflecting off the Caberfae residences to the northeast.

Apparently, the subdivision rests on a small rise in topography and takes the brunt of the noise, Pine Knob officials ascertain. So at this time, they're considering the following alternatives.

■ Enclosing the stage-right pavilion wall to redirect the sound directly into the hillside, where it's absorbed and not a nuisance to people along Sashabaw Road.

■ Adding a series of six-inch Sonex panels to existing hard-roof baffles and forming a bass trap between the roof and baffles.

■ Increasing the number of sound baffles under the theater roof to cover two-thirds of the total roof.

Dancing like the stars

CLARKSTON Elementary students try some of the same steps done by Ginger Rogers during the school's "Reach for the Stars" event, which took place a few weeks before the end of the school year. A short biography of Rogers was read to the students and a film clip of Rogers and Fred Astaire dancing was shown. Earlier in the day, students were involved in an activity related to Helen Keller.

A tepee was set up, and the students learned about Squanto, an American Indian. Booths were also set up, and students went from station to station, where volunteer parents informed them about Jacques-Yves Cousteau, Walt Disney, Henry Ford, Rembrandt, Elizabeth Blackwell, Jennifer Capriati, Albert Einstein, Abraham Lincoln and Sally Ride. Congratulations Class Of 1992!

In the neighborhood/ Lloyd Schmaltz

Flotronics of Independence Township was named to the 1992 Michigan Private 100.

The Michigan Private 100 is an annual ranking of the state's fastest growing privately owned companies.

To qualify, companies have to be privately owned and Michigan based, with full-year fiscal 1987 net sales between $100,00 and $30 million.

Flotronics of Independence Township was ranked as the 49th fastest growing company in the state, with total net sales of $1.8 million in 1991, compared to $500,000 in 1986.

President of Flotronics: Lloyd Schmaltz of Ortonville

Age: 54

Wife: Judy Schmaltz

Children: Keith (23), Jodi (16), Michael (15), and Stephen (13)

Schooling: He received his bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering from GMI.

What is Flotronics? "Flotronics is an industrial sales company. We sell components and systems that use pneumatic (compressed air) or electrical controls."

When was it founded? In 1986.

How many employees did you have then? "Myself and one person part time."

How many do you have now? "We have 14."

Why did you begin your business in Clarkston instead of closer to Detroit? "Because I live in this area."

How did you come up with the idea for this kind of business? "I had been in the (pneumatic controls) business for 25 years. The goal had been to have my own business. The opportunity came up to do this on my own and I took advantage of it."

To whom do you sell? "Some of our big companies include GMF Robotics, VSI of Auburn Hills, Dominion Tool and Die, and GM Truck and Bus. We have about 1,000 customers along with them."

How do you feel about being ranked in the top half of the Michigan Private 100? "We were very honored by it. We'd like to thank our suppliers for their trust in us. All of our employees are local, and they are the (backbone) of the company."

What are your plans for the future of Flotronics? "We are building a new facility on Ortonville Road and Oakhill, which we will move into in August or September. We hope to continue growing at 30 percent and move into new areas such as motion systems and structural parts of machines."

~Catherine Passmore

People push for parole reform

In the wake of Leslie Allen Williams' confession that he killed four young women and attacked a fifth in Springfield Township while out on parole, a few citizens are pushing to reform the state's parole system.

After Williams was captured in the act of kidnaping a woman from a Springfield Township cemetery, he confessed to killing Michelle and Melissa Urbin, Kami Villanueva and Cynthia Jones.

As a result, a "Where Are They" Committee has formed to push for legislation that would reform the parole system.

The committee plans to meet with Gov. John Engler in July but is trying to collect signatures of support in the meantime.

To sign a support petition, stop in The Clarkston News or call Linda Walsh at 625-3370.

Police answered a 911 call to Briarwood to take someone to the detoxication unit. When the police arrived, a Fleet ambulance was driving down the road. The responding deputy wrote: "I tried to talk to a small gray dog who was standing at the front window to see what had happened and where everyone was, but he couldn't give me any information. Status: Another useless report and waste of time."

The above information was compiled from reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Illegal alien arrested

An "illegal alien" was arrested at the Secretary of State's office on Dixie Highway, Independence Township.

On June 16, Nereo Garcia Gallegos and Santiago Garcia Estrada of Pontiac requested a Michigan ID card for Estrada at the Clarkston Secretary of State branch office.

When presented with Estrada's Social Security card, a branch employee noticed the card was fraudulent and called the police.

A report from the U.S. Border Patrol listed Estrada as an illegal alien. He was arrested, and Gallegos is being held for possible federal charges.

Missing person returns

Kuraiz Sharef, 68, of Springfield Township went to the store for meat and returned two days later.

The Big Lake Road resident was reported missing by his wife, Hartama, on June 17. According to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department report, Sharef was in good health and had not had a misunderstanding of any kind with his wife.

When he returned on June 19 he was somewhat disoriented, not knowing what day it was or where he had been, according to the report.

Police said that the disappearance was not an assault; they believe it was a medical problem.

Weil's speed records roll all the way to West Coast

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Brian Weil has kicked sand all over a Californian's world records.

Weil, a Springfield Township resident, has broken two dune buggy drag racing records in the unlimited style division previously owned by Riverside, Calif. resident Steve Parker.

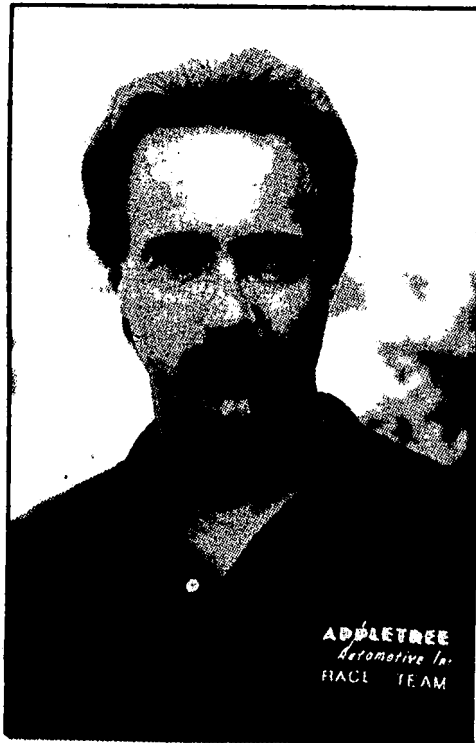

Weil, driving his custom-made aluminum buggy with a Volkswagen engine which he co-designed with Jeff Wilson, dashed across 100 yards in 3.11 seconds last November on a cold 28-degree day at the Milan International Dragway. That broke Parker's old mark of 3.15 seconds.

And then on May 21, Weil was clocked at 105.68 miles per hour at the Silver Lake Sand Dragway, smashing Parker's 103 m.p.h. record.

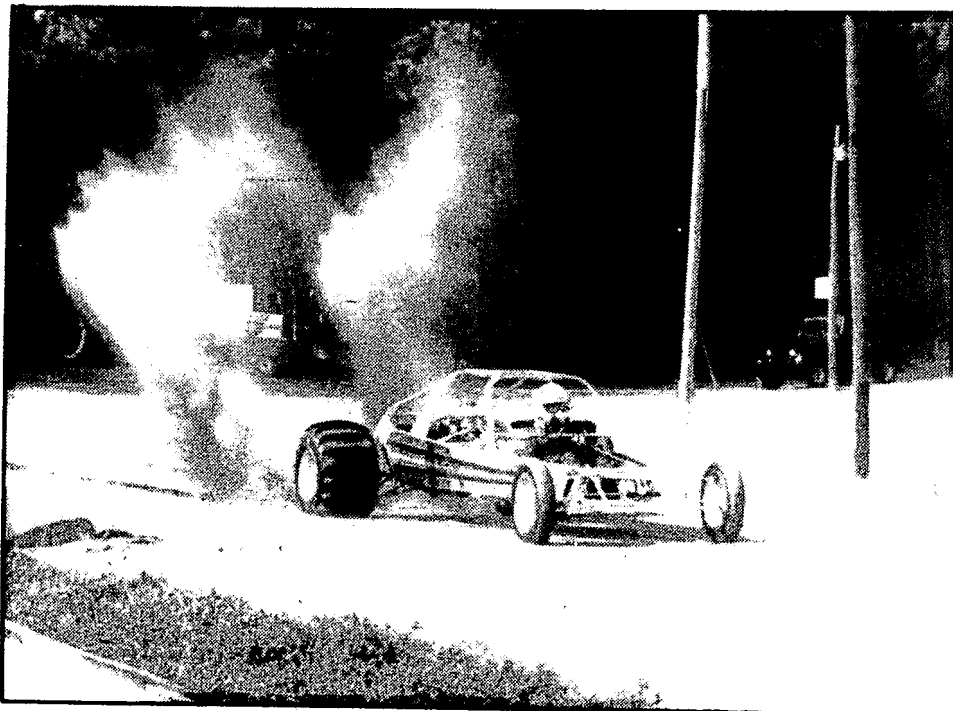

"He's not happy his record has been taken over," said Weil. Parker had held records since 1982 when the sport first blossomed.

The Michiganian and Californian are well over 2,000 miles apart so they seldom see each other. But both are aware of what the other is doing when it comes to racing times.

"I've talked to him, met him. He wasn't an easy guy to talk to," said Weil, who visited California a few years ago.

Weil hopes the two eventually will meet in opposite lanes on a dragstrip, maybe starting a home-and-away series of races.

If dune buggy racing fans across the country don't know about Weil already, they will be able to find out more about him when Hot VWs magazine features him soon. The magazine will be covering Weil at the Silver Lake dragway during the Fourth of July races.

Weil, who currently is going through a career change and has gone back to college, said he has traveled the four hours to the Silver Lake area about 190 days during the past year to work on the turbo-charged buggy, which costs about $50,000. Sponsors Mears Metal Products, Apple Tree Automotive and Snap-on Tools have helped defray some of the costs. Race winnings and cash prizes earned during Midwest car shows have also helped.

Weil's interest in racing first began about 1968 when he and his brother raced cars. But soon after that he drifted away from racing until four years ago when trips to Michigan's west coast sparked interest in buggy racing.

He originally raced uphill in sand climbing events. Now he stays on the ground but his Clarkston Junior High teacher wife, Loni, competes in hill climbing. She has added some of the trophies to the crowded Weil trophy case. Both of them feel well in control while competing in their particular sports, but they both acknowledge having a little apprehension while watching the other race.

Speed and competition are only a

"He's not happy his record has been taken over."

Brian Weil

part of the reason the Weils enjoy their involvement in the sport.

"Most important are the friends we've made," said Brian Weil about the camaraderie of racers. "They're more important than the records and the racing."

But friendships aside, there's a man in California who wants to bring some records back to the West Coast, away from the west coast of Michigan.

Former Tigers host local baseball clinics

Some former "boys of summer" will be teaching "summer school" for aspiring young baseball players.

Former Detroit Tiger stars Mickey Lolich, Jim Northrup, Jim Price, Dave Rozema, Jason Thompson, Tom Timmerman and others will instruct youths ages

8-16 in pitching, catching, infield and outfield defense and hitting. The instruction is sponsored by the Detroit Tigers Alumni Association and the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission.

One of the scheduled clinics is 7 p.m. Tuesday, June 30, at Waterford Oaks County Park in Waterford Township. Another one starts 3 p.m. Saturday, July 18, at the Hot Air Balloon Festival at the Springfield Oaks Activities Center in Springfield Township.

One hour prior to the start of the clinics will be registration, entertainment and food. Families are encouraged to enjoy a picnic and at each park. Oakland County Parks' Mobile Recreation units will also be available.

America can depend on Farmers.

THE LONG AND SHORT OF MAKING MORE ON YOUR MONEY, WHATEVER YOUR ECONOMIC OUTLOOK.

RISING RATE CD FOR THE LONG TERM.

FIRST RATE FUND FOR THE SHORT TERM.

The economy is recovering. But even the experts can't agree on what interest rates will do.

So First of America has two shrewd ways for you to invest. No matter what your strategy.

The long view.

If you think rates will drop or stay flat, you should go with a longer-term investment and get a rate guaranteed to rise every six months over the next two years. The Rising Rate CD.*

It starts at a bonus rate of 5 percent per annum. And you'll end up earning 6½ percent for the final term. You can withdraw part or all of your money in the first ten days of every six-month interval without penalty. All it takes to get started is a $1000 deposit.

The short view.

If you predict rates will keep going up beyond this election year, invest short term with the FirstRate Fund.™

You'll make a bonus return of 5¾ percent per annum from the day you sign up through July 31.

So the sooner you invest the more you'll make. After July 31, the per annum rate is based on the weekly Treasury Bill. So if the T-Bill goes up quickly, you'll continue to benefit from it.

A new deposit of $10,000* is required, and you can get your money seven days after notifying us.

It's a respectable rate of return plus liquidity in these uncertain times.

Of course, your investments are FDIC insured up to $100,000 per depositor. And bonus offers are good through July 31.

no matter what your point of view, you can't go wrong investing with us.

BURGLAR-PROOF SLIDING DOORS

RELO

Ron Rodda
Sales Manager
"Let's discuss your Career in Real Estate Sales"

QUESTION: We have a large sliding glass door to the outside. A weak Chimpanzee could snap the chintzy lock they put on these doors. How can the slider be burglar-proofed?

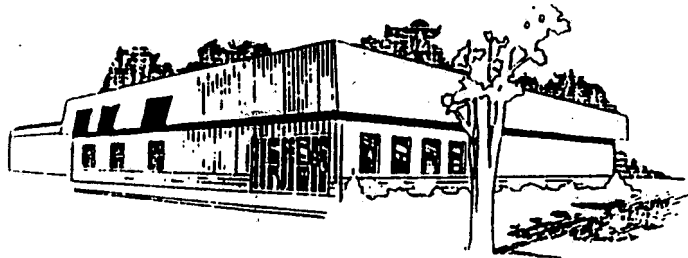

ANSWER: Cut a length of dowel (or broom handle) the right length and lay it in the track between the door and the opposite jamb. No way that sliding door can be slid without removing this wedge.

The groove at the top is twice as deep as the one on the bottom for easy removal. Foil this by cutting a piece of wood slightly less thick than the depth of the lower groove. Screw it into the upper groove over the door when it's in lock position. Now, the door can't be lifted out unless it is opened all the way.

BURGLAR-PROOFING sliding glass doors is important when leaving a home unoccupied.

Baseball instruction

NICK Petrinec (above) winds up before throwing a baseball at a target last Saturday at Clarkston High School during a baseball camp for boys and girls ages 7-15. Matt Kutchev (left) attempts to hit the ball over the fence. About 220 youths participated in the five-day camp, which was sponsored by the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department. The Clarkston junior varsity baseball coaching staff, high school baseball players and other baseball personalities instructed the youths in basic skills and sportsmanship. Reception honors 160 years of village

A reception, honoring 160 years of village government, followed the last regular Clarkston Village Council meeting June 23.

(Council members will still preside over one last, special meeting about the budget on June 29 at 7 p.m.).

Village residents and past and present government officials were invited to the reception at the Village Hall. Food and beverages were paid for by donations.

A final proclamation was passed at the end of the meeting and repeated during the reception. It stated: "Be it resolved that on this date of the last regular meeting of the Clarkston Village Council, June 22, 1992, the last village council expresses its appreciation and recognition on behalf of the village and all its residents for all those council persons, board members, commissioners, employees and volunteers who, over the last 160 years, have donated their time and devoted their energy and ideas to this village and without whose contributions this village would not have survived, prospered and maintained its unique character and quality of life."

The first city council meeting is Monday, July 13.

Clarkston alumna runs for Congressional seat

BY CATHERINE PASSMORE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Margaret Thatcher once said, "In politics...if you want something done, ask a woman."

And if given the chance this fall, Megan O'Neill would like to get some things done in Congress.

O'Neill, a Republican, has resided on a farm in Independence Township all of her 30 years. She is the daughter of Clarkston pediatrician Jim and Mikel O'Neill and one of six children. O'Neill is not married.

The 1979 Clarkston High School graduate decided a year ago to run for Congress. "I think that government has lost touch with the people it's representing," she says.

After graduating in 1984 from the University of Detroit with a degree in biology, O'Neill worked in the private sector, primarily in health care. Knowing what it's like to work for a living will help her relate to those she would serve if elected, she says.

Most recently, O'Neill has worked for the advance teams of President Bush and Vice President Quayle. She traveled ahead of each on various trips to determine who they would meet and what they would do when they arrived at their destinations.

If she were elected, O'Neill would like to become a member of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, she says. She advocates fair, not free trade and would like to see the United States become competitive in the worldwide market. O'Neill also believes that the president should have line-item veto power, she said.

She is the only woman to run for this seat and points out that in the Senate only two of the 100 senators are women. "We aren't fairly represented," she says.

She said she has a good chance for winning this election. O'Neill said she feels that she is the most qualified to beat incumbent Dale Kildee, a Democrat, because she knows what it is like to work for a living, both on and off of a farm, and she has had experience with government.

With these attributes she said she can relate to the workers and farmers of the area, and she has the experience to make a good congresswoman.

She has full support of her family in this endeavor, particularly from her father.

Megan, he says, will "get common sense back into government."

Kildee of the Ninth U.S. Congressional District. The district lines have been redrawn. The Ninth District now stretches from Flint to Rochester and includes Lapeer.

$35 million school budget approved

BY JULIE CAMPE
Clarkston News Editor

After little discussion, the Clarkston Board of Education approved a $34.512 million budget for the 1992-93 school year June 22.

Budgets for six funds were approved 6-0 each. Trustee Joseph A. Helpert was absent. Voting yes were President Thomas Howard, Vice President Karen Foyteck,

Reporter's Notebook

When the Clarkston Board of Education considered an agreement between Brandon and Clarkston schools over adult education pupils, board members asked retiring administrator Bill Neff if he would like to comment on that issue in his department. "Do you want to get any parting shots?" asked President Tom Howard. "No," said Neff. "You haven't listened to me this long."

Steve Lenar, director of business services for Clarkston schools, pointed out that local school districts may have a little easier time than normal in predicting their revenue for the 1992-93 school year. Normally, school officials are at the mercy of state legislators who sometimes wait until after school starts before deciding how much money the state will contribute to local education. This year, however, is an election year, said Lenar, so legislators may live up to their promise of completing the budget before they break for summer recess.

The legislators' decision is too late for the Clarkston Board of Education, however, which adopted its 1992-93 budget June 22 with a lot of guesses in the state revenue category.

Items for Reporter's Notebook are compiled by Clarkston News staff members.

Secretary Sheila A. Hughes, Treasurer Paul Van Klaveren and trustees Kurt G. Karlstrom and Janet Thomas. The budget is for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1993.

Prior to the vote, Steve Lenar, director of business services for the school district, explained the budget was based on many assumptions in revenue — some numbers were unknown.

He also explained why local revenues had not increased much above last year. The state has frozen property taxes, so, while costs for the district increased by the rate of inflation, local revenues did not increase at that rate, he said.

New construction, however, did increase revenue for the district; however, the state's "tax-base sharing" took most of that money to use in other "poorer" school districts.

In addition, the school district doesn't know if it will receive its usual amount of money from the state to pay for FICA taxes for school employees. State legislators are considering eliminating that completely or capping it.

"We never know what they're going to do," said Lenar, adding that state law required an adopted budget by July 1, but some of the variables may not be known until fall.

One woman in ten will develop breast cancer.

That's an alarming fact... and one that

North Oakland Medical Center is out to change.

The best chance of detecting breast disease is through early diagnosis. Over 95% of all disease can be diagnosed and cured if identified in an early stage. Monthly self examinations and annual physician check-ups are important steps you can take to detect the presence of breast disease. If you are 35 or older, your best defense is a mammogram. This simple test can detect breast disease in its earliest stages...and, more importantly, it could save your life. North Oakland Medical Center's dedicated mammography machines received GRADE A upon inspection by the Michigan Department of Public Health.

North Oakland Medical Center uses state-of-the-art equipment to provide the sharpest images available for study of the inner breast structure. Call 857-7125 to receive a free Breast Self-Examination Guide.

8 named to district library committee

The first step in forming a districtwide library has been taken by the Independence Township Board and Clarkston Village Council.

On June 16, township residents Cricket Bishop, Chris Shull and Grace Gwisdalla were named to the library committee. Trustee Mel Vaara was selected to serve as the township board representative.

On June 22, Anne Weber, Roz Needham and Gini Schultz were appointed to represent the city. Council member Stephen Arkwright was also selected.

Susan Basinger originally was appointed but later declined the position. She was replaced by Schultz, an alternate selection.

These eight individuals will assist library director Mollie Lynch in drafting a districtwide agreement, which is similar to a charter. This document will outline the responsibilities, terms and appointment of the districtwide library board, which will oversee the library's operations.

Lynch said she'd like the agreement to be finished sometime in July. The document must gain the approval of the township board and city council.

The districtwide library is to be financed by the city and township. The costs are to be proportionate to the municipalities' populations.

Session leaders

Two Clarkston-area families presented a special session for children at the La Leche League of Michigan Conference on Mackinac Island in May.

Karen Stanko and Lisa Baker, accredited leaders of the Clarkston La Leche League, presented the children's program with a theme of native Americans and their history. Parent-child interaction involved crafts, music and storytelling.

La Leche League is a non-profit volunteer organization designed to offer support and information to women who want to breast feed their babies.

In Clarkston, the group meets 9:30-11:30 a.m. the first Wednesday of each month. Call 625-7181 or 625-4210 for the location.

During the meeting, participants can informally discuss and share information for breastfeeding.

The group is led by accredited leaders Stanko, Baker and Diane Knakal, plus mothers and babies from Clarkston, Waterford, Ortonville, Davisburg, Holly and other areas.

Campers sing and dance — and help each other

One hundred campers from Clarkston, Brandon and Novi converged on Camp Oakland in Oxford to "Celebrate Differences."

"Their summer theme of celebrating differences emphasized cultural and ethnic diversity at home and in other nations," said Susan Meyer, director of the Adventure Center. Meyer said such activities included Olympic events and an international fair.

Counselors from overseas contributed to the international fair with song, dance, music, art and craftwork of their nations. The Adventure Center staff included representatives of The Netherlands, Great Britain and Australia.

Campers, ages 8-13, were referred to Camp Oakland by Oakland County Youth Assistance. An arm of Probate Court, the agency makes referrals when it is believed that camping will benefit the child and family.

The children received camping scholarships that are subsidized by Camp Oakland, with help from Youth Assistance. Campers slept in cabins and ate in a dining hall. Their daily activities included swimming, boating, archery, art and crafts.

Home alone: Is your child ready?

"Latchkey" children are children who care for themselves or are cared for by another child at some time during the day.

Working parents sometimes have no choice but to leave their children home alone. Demanding work schedules and cost of child care contribute to the need to have children home alone.

"The biggest concern of parents is whether their child is ready for self care," says Elaine Paradis, Oakland County home economist. "There is no magic age when a child is ready for self care. It depends on the maturity level of the child."

Parents need to look at the physical, mental, social and emotional levels of maturity.

Parents should ask the following questions:
Is your child physically ready to stay alone? Is your child able to:

- lock and unlock the doors and windows of your house.
- perform everyday tasks such as fixing a sandwich, dialing the telephone and writing messages.

Is your child mentally ready to stay alone? Does your child:

- tell time.
- understand what "stranger" and "emergency" mean.
- recognize danger and know how to stay safe.
- solve small problems on his or her own, but know when to stay safe.

Does your child socially ready to stay alone? Does your child:

your child:

- solve conflicts with brothers and sisters with little help from adults.
- talk easily to you about what happens at school and about his or her feelings.
- feel confident enough to contact another adult if a problem arises.

Is your child emotionally ready to stay alone? Does your child:

- feel confident and secure when alone.
- seem willing to stay alone.
- know how to handle fear, loneliness or boredom.
- know how to handle responsibility, such as getting ready for school on time and looking out for younger brothers and sisters.

A little detective work may be needed to answer these questions. Try asking your child to open a window to make a sandwich. Ask your child, "What if the smoke alarm goes off, what do you do?" Have your child act out his or her response.

If you can answer yes to most of the above questions, your child is showing signs of the physical, mental, social and emotional maturity needed for self care.

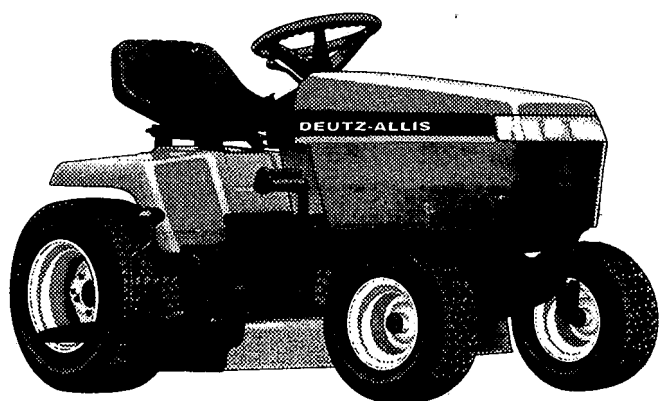

Maturity isn't the only thing to consider. Parents need to think about the safety of the home and neighborhood, the length of time the child will be alone, and the accessibility of a nearby adult.

Parents should also ask their child if he or she is ready to stay home alone. Some children will act as if they are fine but actually be quite afraid.

Many after school programs are available, such as Kids Connection through Clarkston Community Education. Parents who can't afford such a program may want to hire a neighbor, high school student or college students to care for their child.

For more information on self care, call Project Home Safe National School-Age Child Care Resource Center at 1-800-252-SAFE or Elaine Paradis at 858-0895.

3 place in baby derby

Babies competed for prizes — and provided lots of entertainment in the process — during a Baby Crawl Derby at Clarkston IGA grocery store recently.

Sponsored by Huggies, the derby featured 34 babies at the store on Sashabaw Road, Independence Township. "Everybody had such a good time," said co-manager Jan Gandy.

The babies competed by crawling from one end of a length of carpet to the other end and were coaxed along by a parent.

The babies were fun to watch, said Gandy, explaining that they began by crawling quickly but became distracted by the onlookers midway.

Winners were: Jordan Quick, 10 months, of Lake Orion (first place); Sara D'Autremont, 11 months, of Clarkston (second place); and Destiny Tippett, 11 months, of Waterford (third place).

The top three babies took home Huggies diapers for their efforts, but the other babies didn't go home empty-handed.

"Every child got a prize," said Gandy.

Business Briefs

Clarkston alumnus joins optometry center

Optometrist David Magnus, Omega center director, announces that optometrist Gregory Ellis has been named staff optometrist at Omega Albuquerque and will assume his new position Aug. 1, after he completes a year's residency at the Albuquerque facility.

Ellis is a graduate of Clarkston High School, the University of Kentucky and the optometry school at Ferris State University, Big Rapids.

The Clarkston native recently wrote a chapter for the publication, "Clinical Optometric Pharmacology and Therapeutics."

Ellis and his wife, Brenda, have been residents of Albuquerque, N.M., for the past year.

Named sales manager

Charles Fortinberry, owner of Clarkston Chrysler-Plymouth and Jeep-Eagle, has named William Kolath as the new general sales manager.

Kolath, who has 23 years of experience in the auto business, previously was general sales manager at Birmingham Chrysler-Plymouth in Troy.

He resides in Ortonville with his wife and two sons.

Book contract signed

James Windell of Clarkston recently signed a contract with Macmillan Publishing Co. of New York City for the publication of his second book.

In 1991, Macmillan Publishing Co. published Windell's first book, "Discipline: A Sourcebook of 50 Failsafe Techniques for Parents."

This book has been featured in such publications as the New York Times, Child Magazine, Working Mother Magazine, as well as other national publications.

Windell, a psychologist and psychotherapist in Bloomfield Hills, teaches parent training programs for the Oakland County Juvenile Court and Family Focus.

He was graduated from Wayne State University, Detroit, in 1962 and completed a clinical psychological degree at Oakland University, Rochester, in 1972. For the past six years, he has written a column for an area newspaper.

The as yet untitled second book, which is expected to be released nationally in spring 1993, will teach parents how to make significant changes in their children's behavior in short periods of time.

Windell is married to Ellen A. Windell, and they have two children. He is a member of the Michigan Psychological Association and the American Psychological Association.

Named manager

A Clarkston-area resident recently was named manager of the Oakland County Animal Control Division.

Sandra (Sandy) L. Gay who resides in the Clarkston area with her husband and daughter, replaced Carl Anderson, who retired May 22. Gay has been interim manager of Animal Control since Anderson retired.

She has been with the division since 1974. The past six years, as supervisor, Gay assumed responsibility for the overall operation of the division in the absence of the manager, supervised office staff and administrative procedures, coordinated arrangements for annual rabies vaccination clinics and performed necessary public relations activities.

As manager, she will oversee a staff of 27 people with a budget of $1.5 million and annual revenues of nearly $800,000.

Elected chairwoman

A Clarkston-area woman recently was elected chairwoman of the board for Christian Service Coordinators Association (CSCA).

Arline Moore, Christian Service coordinator at St. Daniel Catholic Church, Clarkston, is a volunteer coordinating chaplain at Camp Gilman women's prison camp in White Lake Township.

CSCA consists of more than 100 people in charge of outreach in their parishes or community organizations. The group hosts monthly meetings and provides ongoing education and training for its members. About one-third of all parishes in the archdiocese pays a staff person to coordinate service ministry.

For the upcoming year, CSCA members rated racism as the No. 1 topic they would like to learn more about. A Nov. 11 workshop has been scheduled to address the issue.

HOLDING the snake is a big task for the nine pre-schoolers in Clarkston Community Education's Discovery Camp last week. The children are (not in order) Justin Barget, 3; Ana Iacobelli, 4; Gabby Kleber, 4; Andrew Nance, 5; Brianna Reuter, 3; Eric Sawdon, 4;

Brian Shaw, 3; Alyssa Vermeulen, 4; and Gretchen Weiss, 4. Rhonda Yetter taught the class with help from Rachel Parkinson.

BRIANNA REUTER, 3 1/2, of Clarkston gingerly holds Larry the Legless Lizard. She enjoyed the lizards and the large python, but later in the hour she retreated to the other side of the room when Brite Eyes the tree frog came out to visit the group of pre-schoolers.

A python is loose in Clarkston, and he answers to the name of Julius Squeezer. He is part of the pre-school discovery camp offered by Living Science Foundation.

The week of June 16, nine area pre-schoolers listened to the sounds of their bodies, used their senses, and handled various animals.

Although the children didn't always want to touch Julius or even the tiny tree frog, Brite Eyes, their teacher, Rhonda Yetter of Warren said, "Children and animals are a natural combination."

In August, the Living Science Foundation takes children ages 5-11 on a "safari," including Native American, African, South American and Australian animals.

To reserve a spot in the safari camp, call Clarkston Community Education at 674-0993.
