Food shortage at Lighthouse North

BY JULIE CAMPE Clarkston News Editor

A food shortage at Lighthouse North is nearly criti-

While area churches are donating food at the same rate as last year, the number of needy in the area has increased greatly, said Sherry Kaars, director of the nonprofit organization on Maybee Road, Independence

That means Lighthouse North may also have trouble meeting the demand for Thanksgiving food baskets.

"For the first time, we are having to actually buy food," said Kaars. "The churches are not able to keep up with the demand."

When Lighthouse North buys food, it has less money for emergency medical or housing assistance, she said.

We need the community to knew? -said Kaars. "We need as many people to bring food in who can."

"It's getting scary. What's this winter going to be like?"

Director Sherry Kaars

In 1992, the food program at Lighthouse North served 476 people per month on average. As of Sept. 30 this year, the average has been 833 people per month. Lighthouse North serves north Oakland County.

Kaars said more people need help now because more people are out of work or have had their hours of work cut. "It's getting scary," said Kaars. "What's this winter

Kaars said she hopes area residents can help by donating money or non-perishable food, particularly in light of Thanksgiving approaching. Last year, Lighthouse North served 722, said Kaars. This year, she expects to

Police search for armed robber

Police are looking for a man who robbed a Dunkin' Donuts at gunpoint.

According to Detective Joe Duke, the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD) was summoned to the business in Independence Town Square on Sashabaw Road at 8:38 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 15.

Police were told that a white male armed with a large caliber semi-automatic pistol entered the store and demanded money from the cash register. Duke would not disclose the amount of money stolen.

The man, in his early 30s, is described as 5 feet 8 inches tall, 200 pounds, with collar-length dark brown hair. He also has a mustache and a full beard. At the time of the robbery, he was wearing a black coat, black jeans and a baseball cap. No car was seen at the time.

Summer taxes now overdue

Payment of summer tax bills in the Clarkston and Davisburg areas has been past due for over a month, meaning some property owners will have to dig a little deeper into their pockets.

The 1992 summer taxes, both real and personal property, were due Sept. 14. This means an additional 1 percent interest per month (or fraction of a month) will be added to the unpaid tax balance.

Under law, failure to receive a tax bill will not waive payment of interest and penalty. After March 1, 1993, taxes must be paid to the Oakland County Treasurer.

In Independence Township, Treasurer John Lutz reported that over $12 million in taxes had already been collected, leaving just under $1.1 million unaccounted for. Lutz figures most of this money to come from large-acreage investors.

He estimates less than 10 percent of the township's property owners to be delinquent by the end of the year. Lutz considers this a promising statistic.

"Less than a 10-percent delinquency rate is considered good," he said. "We were just under this number last year, which is the first time in a few years that the rate has been this low."

This estimate is similar in the new City of Clarkston as well. City Manager Artemus Pappas said about 9 percent of all property owners have yet to pay their city taxes for the summer. He expects this trend to carry over to the winter tax season.

Springfield Township officials have yet to tabulate their percentage of overdue tax payers.

Residents with questions on their tax bills are urged to call their local municipality.

S& L Auto Body wins beautification award

BY CURT MCALLISTER Clarkston News Associate Editor

Smith purchased the building in 1985, four years after graduating from high school. As a Clarkston High School student, he gained his automotive training at the Oakland Technical Center-Northwest.

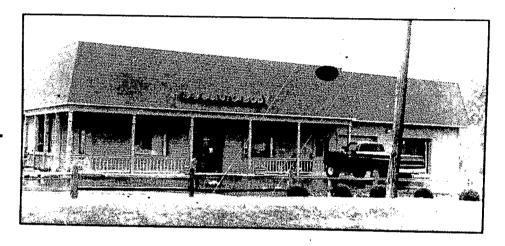

In 1983, two years after graduation, he opened a small shop in Pontiac. However, Smith soon discovered that he needed more space in order to flourish as a businessman, so he went shopping for another building.

According to Smith, the building he purchased was built in 1954 and started out as a grocery store. It was converted to an auto body repair shop four years later. Since that time, the structure has had numerous owners.

These renovations have not only made his business more attractive, but more lucrative, he said.

Smith said he was surprised to learn he had garnered the Chamber's beautification award.

"I was pleasantly surprised when the Chamber contacted me," he said. "It's taken a while for it to finally come together, but everyone seems pleased with the shop's appearance.

"When I bought it in 1985, the building looked much like it did for the past 15 to 20 yea. Smith added. "I knew it needed a facelift, but I never greamed I'd get an award for fixing it up."

National Businesswomen's Week October 14 through 21

Seventy-Five years ago, the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc. (BPW) was organized in St. Louis, Missouri. The goal then, as now, was to promote and support a high standard of achievement for women in business and in the community. BPW is the oldest and largest organization of working women in the United States. A non-profit, self-governed organization composed of approximately 165,000 members throughout the nation, it strives to achieve specific gains for women under the law; equal pay for equal work; removal of sex discrimination in education and employment; equal representation in political organizations; child care services; tax reforms equalizing treatment for women and men; and equitable treatment of women in insurance and pension plans.

As a branch of BPW, the Michigan Federation of Business and Professional Women's organization provides career information and help to women who wish to expand their talents and abilities through educational training programs. Members of the Michigan Federation of Business and Professional Women are united by the common concern that women here and throughout the world would be treated equitably in all areas of their lives.

Because we're nosey ...

Julie Campe

(This is the second of a two-part column about newspapers, in observation of National Newspaper Week.)

Just because it's interesting ...

We write a lot about high school athletic events in our paper, as well as about student achievements and other activities. Why? Because this bedroom community focuses lots of attention and energy on its children. So we write about what the community cares about.

In the second section of the paper, we include information that is helpful to know, though not absolutely necessary. In that section, a community calendar includes events open to the public. We print recipes, lists of activities for senior citizens, programs that will appear on local cable-TV, obituaries, and a word game designed by a town resident. We devote a full page each week to personal occasions - weddings, engagements, births, anniversaries, graduations, awards.

We try to tell you about people with interesting hobbies or jobs or passions. Sometimes, we let you peek into someone else's home for a glimpse at another way of living.

The above acknowledges that most of us are kind of nosey and want to know what our neighbors and schoolmates are up to. We indulge that with our second section in the hope that we may glean ideas from others.

Advertising, too ...

Of course, the paper couldn't survive without advertising, which pays the bills. You have to pay for advertising, and it appears in the form of small ads, classified into categories (classified advertising); or larger advertising displayed beneath stories (display advertising).

Display ads generally are bought by business owners and tell you what they have on sale that week or why you should shop with them. The classified ads generally are bought by residents who want to sell their snowmobiles or who are looking for a babysit-

In the classified section, we let residents have ter. space for free if they're giving away, say, free puppies. If you're giving it away for free, we'll give you the space for free.

Other information, jargon

If you're a careful reader of the newspaper, you'll notice that on Page 2A every week, our "masthead" appears. This bit of information lists our entire staff — those on the editorial, advertising and front office teams. It tells you how to subscribe to The Clarkston News and where we're located.

The "flag" on the front page of The Clarkston News tells the name, city and state of our newspaper, day of publication, number of years published and cost of the newspaper. And on each page of the paper is a "folio," which includes name, city and state of the newspaper, plus the page number and date. In back, with the classified ads, is a section that tells you how to place a classified ad.

And on the Opinions pages is a box about letters to the editor. It tells you to keep your letters short and where to send them.

And I invite you here in this space to tell us what you think, what you really like or what you really don't like. Send your opinions to: The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main St., Clarkston, MI 48348.

School board now productive

With mounting problems facing Clarkston Community Schools, the Clarkston Board of Education is on the right track. While decisions on such tempestuous topics as administrative salaries must be made this fall, other upcoming decisions could be critical to the future of Clarkston schools.

And the board is doing its best to prepare for those decisions. The members have become more productive and have stopped fighting among themselves. They come from diverse backgrounds with varying visions of the future, so this hasn't been easy.

Led by President Joseph Helpern, they've spent dozens of extra hours hashing out differences and are talking earnestly. They've returned to their common goal of educating children in Clarkston, keeping quality and frugality at the top of their minds.

And they've agreed on the most pressing problems facing Clarkston schools, which may have been the most difficult step for them.

Solutions, too, will be difficult. But since they've already established this strong working relationship, we're confident they'll choose the best solutions and the solutions most palatable to the community.

That point — weighing the ideal vs. what voters will likely pay for — has been a main point of contention and may remain contentious, even if board members agree.

They'll have to spell out their goals and directives clearly to administrators and consultants, whose job is to come up with facts and costs and recommendations.

And they'll have to continue to listen to voters and talk to voters. No matter which solutions they choose, they must focus on changing the mood of those who cast ballots.

The board has rightly judged voters as being fed up with requests for more money. And they have correctly stated that whenever the board has demonstrated a real need — for operating millages, for instance — the community has never let the school district down. So, regardless of how productive and strong this board has become, it will be for naught unless it can convince voters of the school district's plight.

That remains to be seen. Staff

About staff editorials

We at The Clarkston News realize that an important duty of a newspaper is to provide more than just the facts found in news stories.

Since we're out there uncovering the news, we get an inside look at the issues. In our staff editorials, we will give our opinions on those issues, just as other writing on this page — letters and columns — also offers opinions. We leave the editorials unsigned because we've written them as a staff. Every week, we talk about the issues and take notes on everyone's opinions. Then one of us writes it and the rest of us change it until we're all satisfied.

While our opinions aren't always unanimous, our editorials reflect the majority views of the staff. If the staff splits evenly on an issue, we'll write two editorials on the subject.

We welcome your response to our views.

Now I know why I bought the book

"Oh, My Aching Back" is the name of a paperback reviewed by Bob Myers when he published The Lapeer County Press.

Seems Bob had chronic back problems. He'd read all the books, been stretched and medicined by numerous doctors and tried several home remedies. Then Dr. Leon Root and Thomas Kiernan wrote their book. Bob agreed with it so much he wrote about it. This impressed me enough to buy a copy, even though I'd never had a backache. The copyright is 1973.

Considering where I left the bookmark, I must have read just far enough to get to the exercises.

I guess I should have started doing them, cause a couple weeks ago I tried to get out of bed and couldn't. Well, I did, but the pain was severe.

I have always sympathized with people with back aches. They say it's the worst kind of hurt and I never doubted the sufferer's word.

No long description here about my troubles, just some thoughts and observations. First, I've repeated several times the ancient Persian saying, "I wept because I had no shoes, until I saw a man who had no feet."

The help is minimal.

Second, the number of things I drop on the floor rises in direct proportion to the pain at the time. And, the more the hurt the thinner the item on the floor. Like, you don't drop a basket, you drop a paperclip.

Third, the number of cures and relief offered by experienced back sufferers are many, diversified and sincere, but not guaranteed.

Fourth, the sympathy I extended to others is returned in complete understanding. Back sufferers obviously feel for each other.

and the second of the second o

Fifth, thoughts of cholesterol intake and consideration of increases in weight drop far down the list of priorities. I mean, when I know I'm going to die from this backache, having clogged arteries as an alternative for death is welcome.

Sixth, if there is one incentive that will drive me to get better fast it's the experience of having my wife pull my socks on. That roll-em-first and slipem-on the toe, then pull-em-over the heel may work for nylons, but not for men's stretch socks.

Oh, haven't I told you about having protruding veins...please, no book recommendations, no healing suggestions and don't tell me your experiences. I'm sorry I brought it up.

A little girl asked her mother if all fairy tales begin with "Once upon a time." The mother said, "No, dear. These days most of them begin with 'If I'm elected . . . " -- American Legion magazine.

I'm not going to check my Webster's, but I always thought the word "exclusive" meant one. In our business an "exclusive" story is one only we

But, I must be wrong. I've heard radio stations WJR and WXYT both say they have the "exclusive 3-day weather forecast." And, it's the same 3-day forecast we get by calling the National Weather Bureau. Oh, my aching back.

'C' best option

Our representatives in Lansing have made promises about property tax relief for years. That's all they've done — promise. We raised taxes $1; they spend $1.80. It's time to say this is where it stops.

Proposal C is not perfect, but it is a beginning. It's a Constitutional amendment, so it cannot be tampered with like the Lotto money was. The schools will not be affected whether they are in or out of formula. They will get their money directly from the state budget regardless.

The best part is that assessments will be capped. Even though I'm a real estate broker and my job is to sell property, I feel saddened that people, especially seniors who have raised their children in their home, are forced to sell because of these climbing assessments.

The freeze is definitely coming off this January. We must put in effect Proposal C. Our high taxes in Michigan are driving people, jobs, business and retirees right out of the state.

Please join me and vote yes on Proposal C.

Kildee support

Today, breaking with long-standing policy, I am putting up a political sign on our front lawn. It supports Dale Kildee for re-election to the Congress.

Yes, I am a registered Democrat but also a ticketsplitter. In past elections, I voted for Congressman Broomfield and for Gov. Milliken. Each time, the candidate's record and objectives guided by decision.

While I applaud Megan O'Neill's desire to be of public service, I am critical of her decision to start at the top. With very limited work experience and no elected service at township, county or state levels, she handicaps herself and us as voters. We have little to go on.

Dale Kildee, on the other hand, began public service as a school teacher and continued as a state representative and senator. Since those years, he has developed a strong record of service in the Congress, affecting education, child care and Michigan's environment. More recent efforts to place domestic makers of light vans and trucks on equal footing with importers have been stymied by the Bush Administration.

Dale Kildee is also thrifty in his use of public funds. Each year, he returns substantial sums from the allocation for office expenditures. It now totals more than $500,000. Additionally, he returns postage grants otherwise spent on campaign "newsletters."

Family background? Both Kildee and Ms. O'Neill were instilled with the "work ethic." Both were well educated, Kildee continuing his to earn a master's degree in history and political science. An essential difference is in public service, in the visible record to the electorate.

How to keep friends while on vacation

Catherine Passmore

My friend Jolene just got married in South Carolina. Like a good friend, I had been planning since February how to afford the trip for this once-in-a-lifetime experience. It seemed the best bet would be to share expenses with my college roommate.

I adore and love all of my friends, but vacationing with friends takes a special talent. There are some very important things I have learned while vacationing with friends that I would like to share with you so that you can keep your friends.

1. If you have to go to the bathroom, make sure you stop in a "safe" place.

When I was a sophomore in college, two of my friends and I decided that we would go to Kansas City and see our school's basketball team play in a national tournament.

By the time we arrived in St. Louis from Chicago, I had to use the restroom so badly I thought I was going to die. I finally begged enough that when I spotted a gas station the driver pulled in.

We were approached by a woman with purple hair and gold teeth. This and that was said, and she ended up stealing all of our gas and food money. My friend, Nancy, ran after her screaming — to no avail.

Of course, I was blamed because I needed to use the restroom, and I had picked the station. Remember to go potty in a safe neighborhood.

2. Realize that although you like each other, there comes a time after spending 24 hours a day with one another you'll begin to hate even your best friend.

My senior year, five of us rented a condo in Florida. We had a wonderful time! However, at the end of the week we had to spend two nights in a motel

We all hated one another at the end of those two days. Five women in a small motel room at the end of a vacation just didn't cut it.

I would get so tired of them that I would leave the room and just sit outside of the door. Next time, we'll plan ahead and know our toleration level of one another.

3. Most important thing on a trip is to map out where you are going.

When my friend Steven got married we were all invited. He didn't give us directions to the church in a small town in Indiana, so I was the designated map reader. I did protest that I couldn't do it well — but I had been drafted.

I was not a popular person when we discovered that two towns were close to together on the map and I had been giving directions to the wrong town.

Now, my friends believe me when I say that I can't read maps well.

The trip to South Carolina was unusually nice. I had AAA map the route. We looked for well lit areas to use the restrooms. We were only gone for five days and didn't have time to get tired of each other. Another vacation, and I still have my friends.

'If it Fitz ...'

In sports, bizarre behavior regularly passes for normal

Jim Fitzgerald

Last week the Detroit Pistons signed Terry Mills, a comparatively so-so professional basketball player, to a contract worth nearly $10 million. And, speaking of absurdly warped values, I was reminded of my favorite Michigan example of a so-called civilized society gone bonkers over children's games.

Picture this 1985 scene in the Pontiac Silverdome: Bill Frieder, then the University of Michigan basketball coach, sat on the floor next to the high school student of his dreams - Terry Mills - but didn't talk to him. Not one word in more than an hour.

Frieder desperately wanted Mills to further his education at U-M but couldn't tell him that. Beyond a simple hello Frieder couldn't speak directly to Mills without breaking recruiting regulations of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

But Frieder sat in the aisle near Mills' seat anyway, for half a Pistons game, because Mills was accompanied by his Romulus High School coach, Al Wilkerson, and there was no rule against Frieder talking to Wilkerson.

What do you suppose they talked about? It's not likely their conversation was over Mills' head; he's 6-foot-10. Frieder probably told Wilkerson that U-M had a law curriculum especially suited for students who can touch courtroom ceilings without a ladder.

As far as I know, there is no rule against a college coach being overheard by a high school student while the coach just happens to be sitting near the student at a basketball game, talking to the student's coach through the student's ears.

So it's not surprising that one day while walking to the library, Mills paused at Crisler Arena long enough to help U-M win a lot of basketball games.

Mills, 17 at the time, earlier had called a news conference to announce his decision to attend U-M. It reminded me of that memorable day I decided to study journalism at Michigan State University. The first person I told was Edward R. Murrow, and Walter Cronkite has been mad at me ever since.

In a Free Press article describing his Silverdome conversation with Frieder, Wilkerson said he later told Frieder: "I thought you'd have a lot more dignity than to sit in the aisle on your ass for some high school kid."

Frieder said he didn't know whether it was undignified, but: "What the heck. You run into that situation, you have to take the time."

Certainly. Frieder was only one of hundreds of college recruiters who bombarded Mills with thousands of letters, phone calls and visits. Frieder even arranged for former President Gerald Ford to write Mills a recruiting Bizarre? Not really. One definition of bizarre is "strikingly out of the ordinary." Frieder's conduct wasn't out of the ordinary for a big-time university coach. It was just part of his job requirement to outslick the opposition, sell game tickets and keep the alumni proud.

Mills' $10-million contract with the Pistons isn't bizarre, either. Big-league team owners regularly compete to see who can pay young men the most mind-boggling salaries for having long legs.

This is a nation that regularly shortchanges its youngsters on education while paying top dollar for stadium seats. While Detroit classrooms were closed by a teachers strike, the school football teams continued to practice and play every scheduled game.

But it isn't accurate to blame this toy-department tragedy on people like Frieder and Mills. They're only grabbing what most of us would also grab, if we could. The blame belongs to the people who buy the tickets - and beer, hot dogs and souvenirs - that allow the team owners and universities to put all that money and jockstrap glory

The fannies seated in the stadium and in front of the TV sets belong to many of the same people who vote no on local school tax millage. As most always, we get what we earn, and that includes our absurdly warped value system.

Adult new reader books at library

One of the articles on literacy in the Oct. 7th issue stated that "Adult New Reader" books were not to be found in the Clarkston-Waterford area. I would like to point out that the Springfield Township Library does have a small collection of "Adult New Readers."

The collection includes books on money management, classic stories, mysteries, horror stories and westerns. Several literacy tutors in the area have used the books with their students. If anyone would like further information please call the library at 625-0595.

Superior choice

This long-time liberal incumbent Democrat from Flint now wants to be our Congressman.

He is fortunate that reapportionment shifted his district to Oakland County where he is not known. Doesn't he realize that we heard that he bounced more than 100 checks on the congressional bank? Does Mr. Kildee really believe that it is a good excuse to say these problems were due to his own carelessness and then blame it on the "poor record keeping" of the House Bank?

Among those who know him best in Genesee County, he would have been turned out of office. In fact, at the time of reapportionment in April, respected Grand Blanc attorney Chuck Forrest said of Kildee, "He's an incumbent, and he's an incumbent who has done nothing for the

We don't need this kind of person as our representative in Congress. We need someone of genuine integrity who will fight for government programs and policies that will help the people of this district and the country. Not someone like Mr. Kildee who has voted for four major tax increases in just the last three years and would happily vote from more tax increases.

Fortunately, Megan O'Neill has pledged to fight for a mandatory balanced budget without raising taxes. She favors the line item veto to reduce wasteful government spending and the reforms which would cut the amount of money that Congress spends on itself for perks, pensions and its wasteful operating budget.

From what I have seen and heard of Megan O'Neill's campaign, I believe she is clearly the superior choice for our representative in Congress.

Good deed helped

While driving on Andersonville Road last Wednesday night, two deer suddenly bounded over a knoll and right into the front of my van.

I hit both deer and instantly there was total darkness as I coasted to the side of the road.

I sat there in the darkness and quietness of the night, not sure what to do next --- whether to look for the deer and their condition, to start walking to a phone or just sit

I didn't have long to think about it when a vehicle pulled up behind me. A man got out and asked if I was OK. He said he had seen me hit the deer as he was traveling home in the opposite direction and had turned around to see if I needed help. I was OK but feeling somewhat stranded and and helpless.

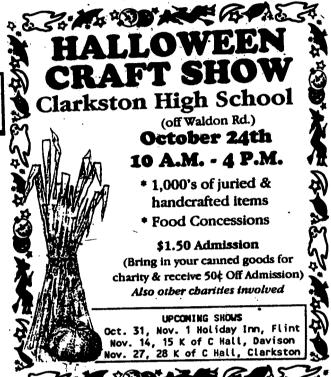

This man drove me to his home. I used his phone to report the accident to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department: He then drove me back to the place where the deer and my van were, and we waited in his vehicle and the rain for the sheriff.

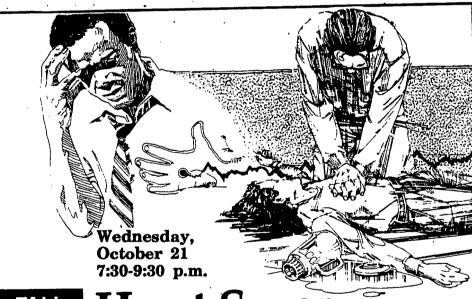

After finishing the police report, another motorist asked for and took both deer. The man then drove me home.

I would like to publicly thank David Worden for being a good Samaritan and turning around and helping me when it could have been real easy after a long day of work and an evening attending his son's performance in a high school band to just drive by and let someone else

Clarkston, not Mott, advances in district

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI Clarkston News Staff Writer

The defending Class A district soccer team defended hopes for another title with defense ... and a few timely goals.

Clarkston's varsity boys' soccer team topped Waterford Mott, 2-1, Monday night in the opening round of the Class A district at the Corsair field.

"We live to play another day," said Clarkston coach Dan Fitzgerald.

The victory for the 11-7-1 Wolves advances them to the second round on Thursday night at Milford where they will play the host school at 6:30 p.m. Clarkston defeated Milford earlier in the season 5-1.

If the Wolves get past the Redskins they will go up against the winner of the Walled Lake Central vs. Grand Blanc match 2 p.m. Saturday at Walled Lake.

The opening round victory Greater Oakland Activities League foe Mott was sweet for the Wolves and frustrating for the Corsairs. Clarkston topped Mott three times this season, all by a one-goal difference

After a 0-0 first half, Scott Rooney took a pass from Ryan Noll and scored his 22nd goal of the season 10 minutes into the second half.

Five minutes later Noll had another assist, this time Ray Torrance knocking inthe goal.

Goalkeeper Nathan Forbes and the Wolf defense shut out the Corsairs until the final minute (1:10 to be exact) of play when Mott spoiled the shutout.

But the Wolf defense didn't let the Corsairs come close to the Clarkston net in the last minute, preserving Clarkston's win and advancement.

CLARKSTON'S Ryan Noll (second from right) heads the ball during the match against Saginaw Heritage. Noll and his teammates will play in the second round of districts Thursday, Oct. 22, at Milford.

Saginaw Heritage 2, CLARKSTON 1 (Oct. 15 at Clarkston)

The Saginaw Heritage Hawks are like Burger King against Clarkston, they always have it their way against the Wolves.

Heritage, which defeated Clarkston in last year's regionals and eventually made it into the Class A state finals, edged the Wolves 2-1. It was the fifth time in two years the Hawks won, with most of those matches being close affairs.

"I think we're jinxed," said Clarkston coach Dan Fitzgerald. "We probably outshot them by 15 goals. And we hit the crossbar five times."

The visitors from Saginaw took a 2-0 lead into halftime.

Clarkston senior forward Scott Rooney scored an unassisted goal 15 minutes into the second half but the Wolves couldn't score again.

CHRIS Colburn gets ready to attempt a shot at goal against Saginaw Heritage.

JEREMY Fife catches a pass against Pontiac Northern last Friday night. Fife caught seven passes but the Huskies spoiled the Wolves' homecoming.

Northern (double) exposure

Talley, Watson end Wolves' bid for GOAL

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI Clarkston News Staff Writer

Two Pontiac Northern speed trains derailed Clarkston's varsity football team last Friday night.

Husky Charles Talley rushed for 207 yards and teammate Edwin Watson ran for 143 as Pontiac Northern defeated Clarkston 24-7, ending the Wolves' bid for a Greater Oakland Activities League title and possible post-season playoff appearance.

The Huskies dominated on the ground, rushing for 348 yards compared to 55 for the Wolves. Clarkston's 125 yards in the air (the Huskies were 0-for-9 passing) wasn't enough to the counter the Northern ground-swell

It was the first outright GOAL football championship in school history for the Huskies, who raised their record to 7-0 overall and 4-0 in the league.

Clarkston, which had a four-game winning streak entering the game, dropped to 4-3 overall and 3-1 in the GOAL.

"It feels good," said Northern head coach Jon Brown about his team's outright title (last year the Huskies were co-champs with Clarkston).

"They have two great backs, you can't key on one," said Clarkston head coach Kurt Richardson. "We know we had to play error free football."

to play error-free football."

The Wolves played error-free at the outset of the game as Clarkston's special teams blocked two straight Northern punts.

Justin Tappero blocked the first one, which was recovered by Brian Phipps. Gary Young blocked the second one and Tappero fell on it.

The second one was stopped on the Northern 11-yard line. Three plays later Clarkston's Joe Davis plunged in from three yards out with 3:48 remaining in the first quarter to give the Wolves a 7-0 lead (Phipps kicked the PAT).

But 55 seconds later, the Huskies hit paydirt after two plays. Watson scampered 41 yards and then Talley scored from 16 yards out.

The Huskies then muffed the kicking PAT. In fact, Northern failed to score on all four of its PAT attempts.

Clarkston looked as if it was going to add to its lead after a long drive gave the Wolves a first and goal. But the Huskies held held.

Northern then quickly turned the negative to a positive. With the aid of back-to-back face mask penalties by the Wolves, the Huskies drove to Clarkston territory, culminating with James Jones' 1-yard quarterback sneak touchdown with 5:33 left in the half. Steve Black intercepted Northern's PAT attempt.

Northern didn't let up in the second half. On their first possession, Watson ran 58 yards down the right sideline for a touchdown, giving the Huskies an 18-7 bulge.

"I think that put the ballgame away for us," said coach Brown.

Watson then added insurance by scoring from 1-yard out later in the third quarter, for a 24-7.

Statistically for the Wolves, Kevin Dankert completed 12-of-24 passes for 125 yards with no interceptions.

Sophomore Jeremy Fife caught seven passes for 77 yards. Rusty Mitcham grabbed three for 31 yards. Tappero caught one for 22. Davis grabbed one for a minus five yards.

In the rushing department, Eric Ryan ran 11 times for 64 yards. Davis ran seven times for 15. Tappero totaled three yards on three carries. Dankert, who was sacked a few times, ran four times for a minus 27.

Defensively, Matt May and Nick Shires each made six tackles. Chris Combs, Marc May and Fife each had five tackles.

The Wolves host Flint Central this Friday and then close out the season Oct. 30 by hosting Highland Park.

VS.

That's the day the ninth-grade football teams of Clarkston and Sashabaw junior highs will meet for the 46th (and last) time. (The kickoff is at 6 p.m. at the Clarkston High School football field).

That's the last football game where Clarkston and Sashabaw fans will sit on opposite sides of the field and color their faces either green or blue.

Clarkston athletic director Paul Tungate has stated that whether or not the ninth-graders from both schools enter the high school building next fall, there will no longer be two separate ninth-grade teams. There will be only one next season.

Clarkston holds a slight edge over Sashabaw in the arch-rivalry, which is now in its 23rd year. The Wolverines have won 24, the Cougars have won 19 and there have been two ties. Sashabaw, however, was catching up lately, winning six of the last eight contests.

I gathered my information by searching through Sashabaw and Clarkston yearbooks and also several past issues of the Clarkston News. The only year I could not find exact scores was in 1978 but John Craven (Clarkston coach at the time) was quoted as saying the teams split that year. If anybody knows those two scores, let me know.

One of the best indications of how interesting this rivalry has been is the number of times the teams have split in their annual two-game-a-year format. In the first 22 years, the teams have split 10 times. For example, how can you explain in 1981 when Sashabaw won the first game 26-6 but weeks later lost 50-12?

Clarkston won the first game earlier this season, 14-0, ending a Cougar fourgame win streak. Will the Wolverines sweep this year or will the Cougars earn a Clarkston boys' and girls' crosscountry teams finished first to finish second.

Both Wolf teams ran past Waterford Mott Oct. 13, giving them 4-1 regular season marks in the Greater Oakland Activities League. The 4-1 records earned them second-place in the final GOAL regular season, behind teams from Lake The Wolves will get one more shot at the Dragons at the GOAL meet, Oct. 27 at Independence Oaks County Park.

The host Clarkston boys' team stopped Mott, 25-34, and the girls won, 19-36. In boys' action, Corsairs took first (Jeff Ferrell at 16:48), fourth (David Webster at 17:53) and sixth, but the Wolves' depth was too much for Mott.

Derek Lachman placed second (17:43), Brad Patterson third (17:44), Steve Cohoon fifth (18:13), Eric Woodward seventh (18:55) and Eric Carlson eighth Mark Deevey finished ninth (19:14) and Greg Fisher placed 10th (19:25), to help block out Corsairs.

Other Wolves and their finishes were: Matt Warner 13th (20:12), Mike Porritt 14th (20:33), Andy Holland 15th (20:40), Tim Warner 16th (20:40) and Tim O'Rourke 18th (22:25).

Football contest winner named

Harold V. Marsh of Ortonville picked an excellent 18 of 20 games correctly (for the week of Oct. 15-18) to win $50 in The Clarkston News Football Contest.

The only error Marsh made was picking Indianapolis over San Diego (He also chose Colorado over Oklahoma but since those two teams tied, it counted as a loss).

Alan Bartley of Marconi, Independence Township, was a close second with 17 games chosen correctly. The only three wrong picks made by Bartley were Colorado over Oklahoma, Clarkston over Pontiac Northern and Washington over Philadelphia.

Guest picker and Clarkston football super fan Chris Chambers picked 13 games correctly, edging Clarkston News sports reporter James Gibowski, who had 12. Despite a record number of entries last week, The Clarkston News Football Contest willend its two-and-a-half-year (season) run due to a lack of advertising support, said Publisher Jim Sherman.

Next week's issue will contain the winner of the final contest (for games during the week of Oct. 23-25).

Missed tackles and missed blocks lose more games than missed calls.

"Let's discuss your Career in Real Estate Sales"

QUESTION: Can you explain the difference between the titles: REALTOR, broker and agent?

ANSWER: A broker is a person who is licensed to deal in real estate for pay. He or she is sometimes called a real estate salesperson or agent. Salesmen must also be licensed. The broker is usually the person who owns the business, whereas the salesperson or sales associate works for him. The term, agent, is a catch-all phrase. Anyone who represents you in financial matters is your "agent".

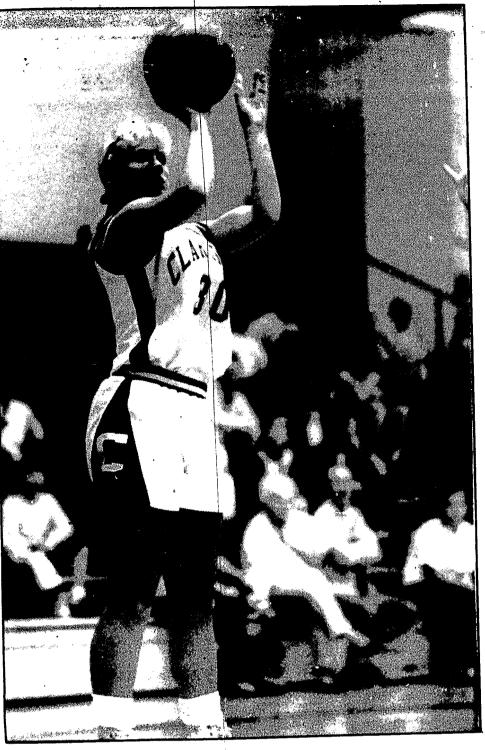

Several hundred thousand real estate professionals call themselves REALTORS. They are members of the National Association of Realtors.

THE BROKER is usually the owner of the agency. Sales Associates work for the broker.

Third-quarter surge sparks Wolf victory

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI Clarkston News Staff Writer

An 18-4 third quarter and four Wolves scoring in double figures sparked Clarkston to a 76-49 win over visiting Waterford Mott Oct. 15.

"We made adjustments at halftime," said Clarkston coach Larry Mahrle, whose team took a slim 40-34 lead into halftime. "We decided to go into a half-court, manto-man defense in the second half."

The first half was one of the closest halves in recent memory for the Wolves, who increased their overall mark to 12-1 and Greater Oakland Activities League record to 5-0.

"You're going to have some games and not have four great quarters," said Mahrle, who added, "But we had a solid second half."

Clarkston's Alyson McChesney, averaging 20 points per game this season, led all scorers with 30 points. Teammates Heather Steinhelper and Courtney Whittaker each helped the cause with 14 points.

The Big Three were also a force under the boards. Whittaker hauled down a dozen rebounds, and McChesney and Steinhelper each swept 11 boards.

Clarkston senior Heather Austin was the fourth Wolf in double figures, scoring Four other Wolves each netted two points: Amy Schroeder, Laura Seitz, Rebecca Bartlett and Shawna Greene.

Two Corsairs scored in double figures, Kelly Rose with 12 and Melanie Page with 10.

Both teams had plenty of free-throw opportunities and shot well at the charity line. Mott, which dropped to 5-7 overall and 2-3 in the GOAL, sank 17-of-20 (85 percent) and Clarkston converted on 16of-25 (64 percent).

CLARKSTON 69, Lake Orion 22 (Oct. 13 at Lake Orion)

The Wolves blasted the Dragons with three straight blowout quarters (20-4, 13-6, 20-0) en route to a 69-22 destruction of Lake Orion.

Eleven Wolves scored, highlighted by Alyson McChesney with 17, Courtney Whittaker with 16 and Laura Seitz with "Laura Seitz also played a great floor game, getting five assists and five steals," said Clarkston coach Larry Mahrle.

The eight other parts of the Clarkston scoring machine were: Heather Austin with seven; Heather Steinhelper four; Erin Patterson three; and Lesley Allen, Rebecca Bartlett, Anne Brueck, Shawna Greene and Amy Schroeder each with

The Dragons, winless in the GOAL, were led by Mandy Pogodzinski with seven points.

21 years and counting in Clarkston

DAISY DOWLING of Clarkston has been the co-owner of a Main Street antique store for 21 years. She said she believed that she is fortunate to the customers that she has.

Simsack breaks stereotypes

BY CURT MCALLISTER Clarkston News Associate Editor

Upon meeting Jenni Simsack, you wouldn't picture

"When thinking of a funeral director, most people expect to see a tall, dark gentleman and not a young, pregnant female."

Jenni Simsack

her as your average funeral director.

She's young, energetic and a woman.

However, this 25-year-old Clarkstonite has gained the respect of her boss, Bill Wint, and the community

ing her four-year stint at the Lewis E. Wint & Son during her four-year stint at the Lewis E. Wint & Son Funeral Home.

Incidentally, it was Wint who talked Simsack into pursuing mortuary science in college. As a freshman, she was enrolled at Michigan State University, East Lansing, with aspirations of being a veterinarian.

Simsack changed her mind, however, while visiting Wint's funeral home the summer prior to her sophomore year.

"I'd always loved science, and Bill (Wint) took me on a tour of his facility and showed me the workings of his business," said the Ortonville native. "It immediately changed my mind. So I took up a summer job at thefuneral home, doing menial work and observing the staff."

The next fall, Simsack transferred to Wayne State University, Detroit, and enrolled in the three-year mortuary science program.

As required under the program, Simsack had to complete a one-year internship at a funeral parlor. She did her internship at Wint's funeral home and was hired immediately after graduation.

At Wint's, Simsack is responsible for making all funeral arrangements. They include everything from embalming to writing the newspaper notices to providing the funeral music to the organist.

National Business Women's Week

BY CURT MCALLISTER Clarkston News Associate Editor

For nearly two decades, the Clarkston Country Store and Main Street Antiques has established itself as one of the village's most recognized and beloved businesses.

Much of this longevity can be attributed to its coowner Daisy Dowling.

The 84-year-old Clarkstonite purchased the Main Street business 21 years ago. This circa 1863 structure is also co-owned by her daughter and son-in-law, Gini and James Schultz of Clarkston.

Dowling has been in the antique business for nearly 30 years. By becoming a business owner, Dowling said she filled a void in her life.

"About 30 years ago, my husband died, and I decided I was going to get on with my life and not just sit around. I wanted to go into something I enjoyed, so I chose the antique business," she said. "It's funny, since that time, people have continuously asked me when I intend to retire. But why should I? I still enjoy what I'm doing."

Her business offers a variety of antiques, gitts, toys and candy. Antique appraisals and the arrangement of personal sales are also available.

Dowling says her biggest challenge is trying to find antiques for her store. She travels all over in her search for merchandise, including an annual visit to the East Coast.

In terms of business, Dowling said this year's sales have already surpassed those in 1991.

"We (have) done better this year than last year," she said. "I really can't complain. Sure, there are days where things are slow, but we've done very well overall."

Dowling said customers are among the most gratifying aspects of her business.

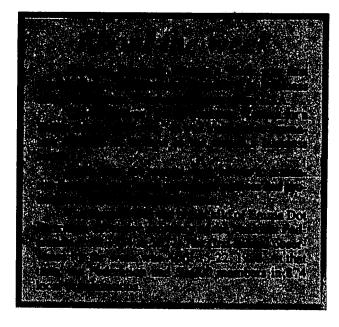

"I enjoy the people very much, especially the children," she said. "It's not unusual to have two or three different generations of one family shopping at our store.

"We've been fortunate to have had such terrific customers over the years," Dowling added.

Besides antiques, Dowling is also the originator of the Vera Bradley clothing line. Six years in existence, this line caters to women and children and is sold around the world.

In the world of business, Dowling believes there are three basic ingredients to success. They are interest in your business, good location and providing a good service.

She believes service is top priority, however. "My belief is if you give good service you'll succeed. If you don't, forget it," Dowling said.

She helps through difficult time

. She's also assists Wint with the local widow support group, which meets at the senior center in Clintonwood Park, Independence Township.

Simsack admitted that most people are a little shocked when they learn that she's a funeral director.

"When thinking of a funeral director, most people expect to see a tall, dark gentleman and not a young, pregnant female," said the expectant mother. "It kind of throws them off.'

Incidentally, Simsack said mortuary science is a growing field among women.

'The field has really blossomed the past few years," she said. "My classes at Wayne State were almost 50 percent women. I think people are starting to realize that there's a need for a woman's touch in the funeral services business.'

Despite common beliefs, Simsack said a funeral director's duties aren't solely restricted to dealing with the deceased.

"Actually, my biggest responsibility is interacting with the survivors and not just the deceased," she said. "Overall, I'd say 99.9 percent of my dealings are with the living.'

Despite her somber working environment, Simsack said she finds her job satisfying.

"It's not always downcast here. However, it can get depressing because your heart goes out to the families," she said. "But I take satisfaction in knowing that I'm helping people during a very difficult time in their lives."

With four years under her belt, Simsack admitted there are still some very trying times.

"My biggest challenge is trying to find the right words when there are none," she said. "Sometimes a hug is all you can do."

JENNI SIMSACK has served as funeral director at the Lewis E. Wint & Son Funeral Home, Independence Township, for the past four years.

She managed town's mail for 34 years

Postmaster is usually a job with male stamped all over it, but Elizabeth Ronk was in charge of Clarkston's mail for 34 years.

The 88-year-old held the postmaster position from 1936 to 1970. When Ronk began at the office on Main Street (where Clarkston Hair Design now is located), she had one office assistant. There were two rural carriers, and the post office used to pick up its mail at the railroad station. By the time she retired, there were an additional five city carriers.

Ronk, who said "everything went along very smoothly" during her tenure, said she knew all of her customers in the early years. "When I was first in there, I knew everybody's name and the names of those in their family.'

Ronk's husband, Gerald, died in an accident, forcing her to work outside the home.

'I worked because I had to work. I had two little boys (Frank and John) to support," she said.

Ronk wasn't the only woman in the area to become a postmaster. During the World War II years with a shortage of men, five female postmasters worked in Oakland County.

The former postmaster knows that much has changed over the years and said the job would be different today.

'It's more complicated now, I'm sure," said Ronk.

In 1936, Ronk never knew about ZIP Codes (or those extra four numbers now attached to them), but she knew the face behind every name on a Clarkston

From Rosie the Riveter to Elaine the Executive

BY CATHERINE PASSMORE Clarkston News Staff Writer

When Uncle Sam needed "You," men went from the factories to the trenches and the women from the kitchens to the factories.

Most Americans believe working women appeared as suddenly in this country as the Japanese bombers did over Pearl Harbor — not so. The 1940s was not the magical decade that "liberated" women from the kitchen.

Women have worked since time began. They helped their husbands and fathers in ancient time in their trading, crafts and farming. In the Bible there were women judges. In Egypt-and Sparta, women could own and inherit land.

In the 1700s during the Industrial Revolution, women went to work in textile factories because of a man shortage. These early factories gave the women long hours and low pay, but they were clean and had good working conditions.

During the 1830s thousands of people flooded the job market. Working conditions became worse and wages

Not all women worked in factories during the 1800s. In 1849 the first woman doctor graduated from medical school and began to practice medicine. In the 1850s women teachers became accepted, and in 1869 the first women graduated from law school.

In 1890, 18 percent, or 3.7 million, of the total population of women 16 and over worked out of the house. All but 1 million of these working women were single. The tradition was that once a woman got married she would quit her job and stay at home.

In the 1920s working women began to leave the home more often when the standard of living was rising. By 1930 one in nine married women, most of whom were at or below subsistence, was employed. One-third of these women's husbands made less than $600 a year.

During the 1930s, 26 states considered laws to limit married women working, and, according to a poll of that time, 82 percent of all Americans felt a married woman shouldn't work at all.

During the 1930s, 26 states considered laws to limit married women working, and, according to a poll of that time, 82 percent of all Americans felt a married woman shouldn't work at all.

One year before the United States entered World War II, 11.5 million women were working outside of their homes. The majority did so out of economic necessity.

On Columbus Day, 1942, President Roosevelt declared, "In some communities employers dislike to hire women. In others they are reluctant to hire Negroes. We can no longer afford to indulge such prejudice." With that, the war effort of drafting women into factories

At first it was already-working women who began working in the defense industry. Then new graduates and finally housewives followed. By 1944, one in three defense workers had been full-time homemakers at the beginning of the war.

Juanita Loveless, a "Rosie" at an aircraft plant in California, said, "What attracted me - it was not the money, and it wasn't the job because I didn't even know Residential Commercial CONSTRUCTION COMPANY BUILDERS Additions how much money I was going to make. But the ads - they had to be bombardments: 'Do Your Part,' 'Uncle Sam Needs You,' 'V for Victory.' I got caught up in that patriotic 'win the war,' 'help the boys.'"

As soon as peace was declared, the women weren't needed anymore. There were massive layoffs in the defense industries. The Equal Rights Amendment, which many had hoped to pass, went into obscurity, and independent women such as Katherine Hepburn and Joan Crawford were replaced on the screen by Doris Day and Donna Reed.

Women weren't really heard of in the work place again until the late 1960s and early 1970s, with the rebirth of feminism. By 1978, 50 percent of all women in America were employed outside the home.

Women have entered the work force en mass. In the 1990s women can be found in almost every profession, performing tasks that at one time had been considered

She went from selling on the street to own store

Carrol Cantor, 44, began her florist business selling flowers on the corners of Waterford.

It has now blossomed into a thriving florist shop and greenhouse on Sashabaw Road, Independence Township.

Cantor, who owns Carrol's Flowers and Gardens, began selling flowers part time on corners in Waterford during the holidays when her children were young. She also made dish gardens and fold them to florists.

CARROL CANTOR is the owner of Carrol's Flowers on Sashabaw and Maybee Roads, Independence Township. She began selling flowers on street corners in Waterford when her children were young and epened her store in 1990.

For three years, she ran an outdoor garden stand in front of Tenuta's Market on Sashabaw Road.

"I was real successful at Tenuta's. I really enjoyed working with the customers," said Cantor.

When the township changed its ordinances, she had to close that business. So she began again in her own building.

Cantor bought the property in April 1990 and opened the florist shop in December the same year.

"The community has been really supportive, and things are going good," said Cantor.

Cantor said that being a woman in the florist and gardening business has its ups and downs.

"In the beginning your credibility is hard to build, especially as being a serious buyer in the wholesale market."

Being a woman in the flower and garden industry does have its perks.

"I think being a woman in the florist business is perfect. We deal with men who need help and advice on what their ladies want."

She has advice for others who are thinking about beginning their own business. "Work in the field you want to open your business in before you jump in. Get experience. Know what you're getting into."

Owning your own business, she said, "is not for everybody. It's very rewarding, and I wouldn't do anything else. But having your own business isn't as glamorous as its made out to be."

"For the first two years it's all encompassing if you want to be successful. You've got to think big in order to compete with the large companies. You have to think two steps ahead of what your business is doing in order to grow."

For the past six years, Georgene Sloan has helped area residents attain a wide array of reading materials.

She bought the 13-year-old Village Bookstore in 1986, after resigning from her counseling post at Schoolcraft College, Livonia.

"After nine years of counseling, I was getting burned out and wanted to get into something else," she said. "This was the type of business I'd always hoped to get into because of my love for books.

This service also includes providing young mothers at the Clarkston United Methodist Church with the titles of the latest children's books.

Sloan said she enjoys the independence associated with being a business owner.

"I like being my own boss and making my own decisions," she said.

Sloan said her business provides her with countless challenges, however.

"I have to laugh at people who assume that bookstore owners just sit around and read all day. I only wish it was that easy," she said. "I have to keep up with the 4,000 new titles that come out every month and decide what to stock in my store."

to Greens Lake Kitten rescued after boat trip

BY JULIE CAMPE Clarkston News Editor

If it weren't for Terri Rivenburgh — and her neighbor Charles Butler - Tinker the cat might not have grown up.

It all began in summer when Terri's neighbor Charles bought a used boat from someone on Cass Lake, Waterford.

He brought the boat to Greens Lake in Independence Township, but due to poor summer weather, the boat remained at his dock for a few days until the sun appeared and he could work on it.

As he was clearing leaves from his boat one day, he was surprised to hear crying sounds.

After investigating, he discovered five kittens inside his fiberglass boat. He could not reach them, and they could not come out on their own. Their mother was Charles, who loves boats but not especially cats, did what anyone in the neighborhood would do. He called "the cat lady," Terri.

He also cut a hole in his boat to reach the kittens, which, according to Terri, was difficult for a man who loves boats but not cats.

Terri, armed with cat food, immediately answered Charles' distress call.

"My husband told me not to bring any home, so I brought the gray one home," she said.

The gray one, of course, was Tinker, the tiniest of the bunch.

"He wouldn't eat or drink, and I wasn't going to leave him in a box," said Terri.

The other four ate and ate, but not Tinker.

The other kittens soon found homes — one went home with "mail lady" Cheryl Schultz, one went to a neighbor's house, and two went to a farm up north.

But the one-pound Tinker, around four weeks old at the time, went home with Terri, who has a house full of cats and dogs.

"When he did start eating, he put all four paws in the dish and was growling at the other cats, food all over the Tinker soon made friends, especially with Candy the cat, also known as "Trouble." Trouble, formerly a stray, mothers Tinker when she's not knocking Pepsi bottles over.

And Tinker, who has learned manners at eats a little more neatly now, has gained weight and made himself at

She's grandma to everyone

BY CATHERINE PASSMORE Clarkston News Staff Writer

Mary Emerson, 64, has volunteered at Andersonville Elementary School for the past six years, even though her children have not attended Clarkston schools in years.

teachers at Andersonville.

"I do anything that needs to be done," said Emerson. That includes laminating, covering books, and stapling papers together.

She credits her two grandsons — Chad and R.J. Booker, who attend Andersonville — for getting her into the volunteer position.

"When my grandson started school, I had to bring him, and I thought I may as well stay," she said with a laugh.

When she first began volunteering, she helped children with their school work one on one. Now, she and her husband, Frank, go to Florida for two months each year, so she does things that someone else can pick up when she is gone.

"The schools always need volunteers," she said. "Being around kids makes you feel young. I'm grandma to everyone here."

Free Sunday seminar addresses teen sex

Statistics show that more than 50 percent of American teen-agers between 15 and 19 have had sex.

Teen pregnancy and sexually transmitted diseases are vital concerns, with abortion or even suicide as potential consequences. Parents often feel that they are powerless to intervene, but there are ways parents can help to prevent premature sexual involvement.

'How to Help Your Child Say NO to Sexual Pressure," a free eight-session seminar for parents of teenagers and preteens, takes place at the Clarkston Free Methodist Church, 10:15-11 a.m. Sundays, Oct. 25 through Dec. 20.

The video features Josh McDowell, well-known Christian speaker to high school and college young people. Topics covered include: why young people become sexually active, how to help them stay out of potential pressure situations, building self-esteem and the ability to say no, and how to reinforce positive influences, as well as valuable information and practical help in many other

Nancy Weightman's second-grade pupils like to sing "If You're Happy and You Know It" as loud as they

And their teacher sings it just as loud and excited as her students — with good reason.

The Andersonville Elementary school teacher was named first runner-up for Teacher of the Year by the Michigan Board of Education.

Weightman, 35, has been a teacher in the Clarkston school system for 14 years. She taught special education for 10 years at Pine Knob Elementary Schooland has spent the past four years teaching second grade at Andersonville Elementary School.

The Pinewood, Independence Township, resident is married to Michael Weightman and is the mother of Adam, 3 1/2, and the late Bryan, who died of leukemia six years ago at age 2. In 1979, she earned a bachelor of science degree from Central Michigan University, Mount Pleasant, with a major in special education and a minor in psychology.

In March, the principal and the staff nominated

"I believe that all children have potential and that educators are fortunate enough to be the ones to draw that potential out."

Nancy Weightman

Weightman for the Michigan Teacher of the Year Award. She had to fill out forms and was subjected to a classroom visit where they interviewed her, the staff and former students. At the Oct. 13 State Department of Education Board meeting, Weightman was named first runner-up for the award.

"I was surprised. I felt honored. I've worked 14 years with the most fantastic, inspirational and motivat-

Eagles' drive helps hurricane victims

If you'd like to help victims of Hurricane Andrew, you have until Halloween.

Saturday, Oct. 31, is the deadline to donate nonperishable foods and other items for residents of Homestead, Fla., which was damaged by the hurricane.

Clarkston Eagles Lodge No. 3377 on Maybee Road, Independence Township, serves as a collection site for the drive, offered in conjunction with General Motors Truck and Bus Local 594 UAW.

Items needed most include baby food, diapers, paper products, personal hygiene items, towels, blankets, dog and cat food, and lots of non-perishable food for residents.

The drop-off site is open after noon at 5640 Maybee Road, between Sashabaw and Clintonville roads. For more information, call 625-9838.

Teacher named first runner-up for state award ing people in the world. To be chosen for nomination alone was an unexpected honor," said Weightman.

Principal Sharon Devereaux said in her recommendation letter, "In my 25 years in education, I have not met a more skilled or dedicated teacher than Nancy Weightman. Nancy is exceptional in every area of her profession. She possesses outstanding instructional and effective skills, a high level of professionalism, excellent leadership skills and tremendous creativity. All of these impressive qualities and talents are generously shared by Nancy for the betterment of her students, their parents, her fellow teachers and the community."

Weightman said that she has always loved children, and that's why she decided to teach. She moved to a general education class from special education for a change and a challenge.

She explained that special education teachers are advised to teach for three years and then take a year off in a regular classroom so they don't burn out. She stayed with the special education classes so long, she said, because she loved what she was doing.

She said she liked teaching because of "the kids, the parents and the staff. They make each day different and each day enjoyable.'

"I believe children represent the future. I think teaching is one of the most important occupations there is. We shape the future of America because we teach the future leaders," said Weightman. "I believe that all children have potential and that educators are fortunate enough to be the ones to draw that potential out."

NANCY Weightman puts energy into her classroom, and her students respond in kind.

Mr Origins of Halloween lore traced to Celts Mr

BY CURT MCALLISTER Clarkston News Associate Editor

For many, Halloween conjures up visions of ghosts, goblins and things that go bump in the night.

And despite what Hollywood might have you believe, Halloween didn't begin with Jason, Michael Myers or some other mamac topping ing teenagers.

Halloween was observed long before the birth of Christ. Though it wasn't called Halloween, this time of year was feared by the ancient Celts of France and the British

Offerings to save sun

The Celts feared the approach of winter because they believed the powers of darkness were coming to swallow their god, the sun. The Celts tried to save the sun by giving the evil powers "offerings."

These offerings included the burning f crops, animals and sometimes people.

All Hallows' Even

Halloween got its name from the oman Catholic Church. It was originally 10wn as All Hallows' Even because Oct. was the last day of the month preceding ovember.

For Roman Catholics, the entire month of November was set aside for all the saints who had no day of their own. Eventually, All Hallows' Even was shortened to Hal-

Worldwide celebration

Halloween is celebrated in different fashions all over the world. For instance, the people of Wales used to put their names on stones and toss them in a community bonfire. If a person found his stone missing the following morning, he knew he was destined to die within a year.

Witches, black cats ...

In Halloween legend, characters such as witches and black cats are among the . most feared.

Black cats received their evil notoriety from the ancient Celts. They believe that the "Lord of Death" held court on Halloween to decide the forms of all spirits. The Celts thought the most wicked spirits were given the embodiment of black cats.

The belief in witches came about inmedieval times. Many claimed to have seen these evil hags flying through the air on broomsticks.

This particular mode of transportation was probably chosen because brooms were often kept near the fire place, where elderly women often huddled for warmth.

Legends say that witches attended a meeting called a sabbat every Friday evening. Each witch supposedly belongs to a coven, a group consisting of 13 fellow witches or warlocks. At these meetings, the witches praised Satan and plotted out their despicable acts.

Jack-o'-lantern of Irish origin

The origin of the jack-o'-lantern in America comes from Irish immigrants of the 1840s. In Ireland, it was a custom for young children to hollow out turnips and carve faces in them. A lit candle was often put in the turnip.

Due to the number of pumpkins in America, the tradition was changed for the sake of simplicity.

There is also an Irish legend on how the jack-o'-lantern came about in Ireland. Supposedly, there was a man named Jack who was too evil for Heaven and was expelled from Hell for playing tricks on the devil.

Therefore, the devil condemned the man to walk the earth forever, carrying a hollowed out pumpkin lit with a candle. It's said that mortals can only see Jack on Halloween night.

Devil's Night

In the United States, the holiday has flourished. However, Halloween is also responsible for the creation of Devil's Night, which occurs on Oct. 30.

Devil's Night was originally known as "Cabbage Night" during the 1880s. It received this name because young pranksters often ran the streets throwing cabbages at neighbors' doors.

Devil's Night was responsible for large amounts of vandalism during the mid-20th century. The number of incidents declined over the next two decades, but a resurgence in large cities, such as Detroit, has made many dread Oct. 30.

Trick or treating

And what would Halloween be without trick or treating?

The practice came from England, where people used to go door to door yelling, "A soul cake, a soul cake! A penny or a soul cake!"

Housewives would give the people pastries called "soul cakes" and, in return, the visitors said prayers for the dead. "Trick or Treat" would later become the cry of goody-grabbing young solicitors when the holiday took on a more fun-filled connota-
