Car crash kills teen

Four others hurt

BY CATHERINE PASSMORE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A 13-year-old girl died Jan. 2 from injuries she suffered in a two-car accident that sent four others to the hospital.

Rebecca Ann Masiak of Groveland Township was a passenger in a car that was struck broadside at 9:10 p.m. Jan. 1, said Deputy Thomas Poulin of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department. The accident closed down Dixie Highway from I-75 to Davisburg Road, Springfield Township.

Rebecca's sister, Nicole Masiak, 16 — also a passenger in the car — was listed in serious condition at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital Jan. 4.

A third passenger in the car, Alexandria Darus, 13, of Springfield Township was also listed in serious condition at POH Monday.

The driver of the car carrying the three girls, a 17-year-old Grand Blanc boy, was listed in stable condition at POH on Monday.

The driver of the second car, Albert Batt, 49, of Independence Township, was taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac, where he was released late Friday.

Poulin said the car carrying the teens was traveling north on Dixie Highway when it pulled into a party store, possibly to make a U-turn. Batt's car was traveling behind the teens and hit them broadside on the driver's side after they pulled around onto Dixie Highway. Poulin said the road was dry at the time of the accident.

The identity of the 17-year-old driver is being withheld by the OCS D pending the outcome of its investigation.

Rebecca, a student at Flint Valley School, played the violin, according to a Flint Journal report, which also said the teens were headed home after seeing "Home Alone II" at the Clarkston Cinema, when the accident occurred.

BUSHES and trees gracing the entrances of the Bitterbush subdivision were damaged by an unknown driver over the holiday weekend. Police are offering a $100 reward for information about the incident. (Photo by Catherine Passmore)

Reward: Neighbors want tree vandals caught

Tree vandals are wanted, and homeowners are willing to pay money to catch them.

The Oakland County Sheriff's Department — with help from the Bitterbush Homeowners Association — offers a $100 reward for information on trees damaged Jan. 2.

The Bitter Bush Homeowners Association contacted the police after someone damaged trees in the two entrance islands in the subdivision off Reese Road, Independence Township.

According to the police report, someone drove over six small pine trees, six small maple trees and six small berry trees.

To report information about the incident, call Detective Doug Edgar at 620-2473.

Man recovering from Christmas Eve crash

A Christmas Eve accident on Dixie Highway, Independence Township, seriously injured one.

According to Deputy Thomas Poulin of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, Ronald Turcsak, 42, of Clarkston was traveling north on Dixie Highway at 2 a.m. when he crossed the double-yellow line near M-15 and hit another car head on.

Poulin said the road was wet, possibly icy, but the night was clear with a light snow.

The driver of the other car, Robyn Scott-Boykins, 36, of Pontiac was treated and released from North Oakland Medical Center, Pontiac.

Turcsak was taken to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital and was then transferred to the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor, where he was listed in good condition Monday.

The OCS D is still investigating the accident.

One injured in New Year's Eve accident

A 23-year-old man was seriously injured Dec. 31 in a two-car accident on Ormond Road, south of Scott Road, Springfield Township.

Daniel Luetzow was a passenger in a 1977 Pontiac driven by a 23-year-old Waterford Township resident. He was treated and later released from Huron Valley Hospital.

The driver of the second car, Catherine Head of Holly, was treated and released from Huron Valley Hospital.

According to Deputy Thomas Poulin of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, about 10:45 p.m. last Thursday, Head's car was traveling north when she noticed a car facing her in her lane. She went to the center line to avoid it, the other car started to go back to its lane and hit Head's car. The roads at the time of the accident were icy and snowy.

Poulin said alcohol is a factor, and the accident is still under investigation.

Elvis visits post office

Philatelists who like Elvis are in for a special treat Friday in the Clarkston area.

At noon Jan. 8, the U.S. Postal Service Elvis stamps go on sale at the Clarkston Post Office, M-15, Independence Township.

At the same time, an Elvis impersonator will talk with stamp collectors and other post office visitors in the lobby.

Maybe he'll even sing, "Return to Sender."

Sheriff's Log

Go figure

That's thanks for you.

A Sassafras, Independence Township, family trying to help out some friends were allegedly robbed by those same friends.

According to a Jan. 1 report at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, the family had allowed some friend stay with them during troubled times and then, after a time, asked them to move out.

When the "friends" moved out, the family found that six baby bottles, an Army jacket, miscellaneous toys and home decorations, and a hanging light had moved out, too.

Monday, Dec. 28, debris was dumped on Rattalee Lake Road, Independence Township.

A mailbox on Ellis Road, Independence Township, was run over.

A Fairfield Circle, Springfield Township, resident reported that someone had driven over his lawn.

A car parked on Sherwood, Springfield Township, was egged.

Police responded to an open door alarm on Clark Road, Springfield Township. The scene was undisturbed.

Four teens were found on Cameo, Independence Township, in possession of marijuana.

Tuesday, Dec. 29, police assisted in a medical emergency on Phelan, Independence Township.

The rear window was broken out of a vehicle parked on Tindall Road, Springfield Township.

Wednesday, Dec. 30, a gas station on Dixie Highway, Independence Township, reported that someone had failed to pay $5.

A 19-year-old man was stopped three times in six days for driving with a suspended license in Springfield Township.

A dual cassette player, a small speaker and compact disk player were stolen from a business on White Lake Road, Independence Township.

Thursday, Dec. 31, a large assortment of tools were stolen from the back of a truck at a Cecilia Ann, Independence Township, residence.

A vehicle parked on Lancaster Hill, Independence Township, was egged.

Police assisted in a medical emergency on Hillcrest, Independence Township.

A woman died of natural circumstances on Klais Drive, Independence Township.

An open door alarm on Dixie Highway, Independence Township, was investigated by the police. Nothing out of the ordinary was found.

Friday, Jan. 1, police stopped two men on Hubbard Road, Independence Township, who were breaking rocks on private property.

A Semindale, Springfield Township, resident reported a barking dog at a neighbor's house.

A Hunter's Lane, Independence Township, man reported possible child abuse when he found a red mark on his 3-year-old child's stomach, and was told "Mommy hurt me." The report said, "It was obvious the mark was caused by removing a Band-Aid." The child said the mother was putting a Band-Aid on her leg and the child wanted one, too. "The child spoke relatively freely and (the officer) was not led to believe that (the child) is subject to abuse or neglect. The mother was not contacted by the police."

Saturday, Jan. 2, a man who lives on Clarkston Road, Independence Township, got drunk and hit his male roommate.

Some Christmas decorations on Chapelview, Independence Township, were damaged.

A Transparent, Independence Township, resident complained to police about loud music a neighbor was playing.

Sunday, Jan. 3, a Lingor, Independence Township, woman reported receiving threatening phone calls from an acquaintance.

Police assisted in a medical emergency on Deepwood, Independence Township.

The rear window of a vehicle parked on Thendara, Independence Township, was shattered.

Police investigated an open door alarm on Clintonville Road, Independence Township. Nothing out of the ordinary was found.

The above information was compiled from reports at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Council takes over for ZBA on special uses

The Clarkston City Council is now in charge of special use approval in zoning after an ordinance was passed at the council's Nov. 9 meeting.

Before the ordinance took effect, the Zoning Board of Appeals decided on special use approvals.

An example of a special use approval would be changing the zoning of residential property to allow for the building of a school or hospital.

City manager Art Pappas said "most" local governments in the state have their councils decide on the special use approvals instead of their zoning boards.

Pappas also pointed out that members of zoning boards are appointed, and members of councils are elected. Voters in Clarkston who disapprove of the results of special use approvals will now have the opportunity to vote for or against city council members making those decisions.

First alarm

Ice safety rules depend on situation

This article focuses on a hazard that some of us will encounter one time or another.

If you're a winter outdoor enthusiast, frozen water could be your niche. Whether it will be ice skating, ice fishing, cross country skiing or snowmobiling, all of these are done on the ice. The question is: How safe is the ice?

Winters such as this year are particularly unsafe for ice ventures. The ice may look safe one day, but the next day may be a whole different story.

The only way the ice may be safe is with a period of at least five days of temperatures 25 degrees or less. And even with that rule of thumb, cutting a hole through the ice is the best way to tell the thickness of the ice.

Ice thickness of four inches is safe for walking or fishing, five inches for snowmobiling; and under no circumstances should a car or truck be taken out onto the ice.

These factors are just guidelines; the ice condition also determines its safety. Clear black ice is the safest. Slushy or honeycombed ice is not safe, no matter the thickness.

You also have to remember just because the ice is thick enough in one spot does not mean it's safe in another spot. Moving water under the ice may keep the water from freezing to a safe thickness. Also, the ice is thinner around docks or other obstacles through the ice.

If you decide to venture onto the ice, never do it alone; and always tell someone else where you will be. If by some misfortune you should fall through the ice, here are some tips that could save your life:

■ Someone call 911 immediately. Time is the most important factor. Only a few minutes in ice water will incapacitate a person's ability to hang onto the ice or anything else. It is almost impossible to get back out of the water yourself.

■ If another person is around, he or she should throw you something for you to hang onto, preferably some sort of flotation device. Never have them come out to you, or both of you may be in the water before you know it. But remember, you may not be able to hang onto anything after a few minutes.

■ If you're on the ice and you start to hear the ice crack or you see the ice cracking around you, you should lay down on your stomach, spread out your arms and legs, and try to belly crawl to the shore.

Remember this information provides guidelines only. Ice safety can be determined by many factors, and every situation has to be considered individually.

Ice activities can be fun but also dangerous, if not careful. It's better to be safe than sorry.

First Alarm is provided by the Independence Township Professional Firefighters Local 2629.

Reporter's Notebook

An anonymous tip came filled with holiday spirit: "You know those two-for-one offers at the grocery store when you don't know what to do with the second item? Why not donate the extra tube of toothpaste or diapers or shampoo to Lighthouse North? It's an easy way to help someone out."

Items for Reporter's Notebook are compiled by Clarkston News staff members.

How were you in '92?

(at reducing waste)

A waste reduction checklist was part of a recent newsletter from Calvary Evangelical Lutheran Church, Independence Township.

The Rev. Tom Struck asks how many items apply to readers. See how your family adds up.

I am/ we are:

Reusing grocery bags/refusing a bag/using cloth or string net bags.

Using canvas or nylon lunch bags or a lunch box and plastic food containers for a no-waste lunch.

Recycling to the extent possible through the garbage collector.

Composting vegetable scraps, lawn clippings, leaves, paper napkins, facial tissue, paper towels.

Buying items in bulk to reduce packaging.

Buying concentrated laundry detergent.

Using less toxic household cleaners (e.g. baking soda, white vinegar for cleaning).

Keeping the car tuned and tires inflated; car-pooling and combining trips when possible.

Using compact and other fluorescent lighting where appropriate.

Reducing the heat bill by improving insulation, weatherstripping, a programmable thermostat, insulating the water heater, getting the furnace tuned up.

Buying gift wrap made from recycling paper.

Buying products made with recycled materials.

Encouraging local government to provide more opportunities for recycling and municipal composting.

Supporting environmental awareness and education by lifestyle example at home/ work/ school; by contributing to an environmental group; by subscribing to an environmental magazine.

Two girls taken from 'unfit' home

Two girls were taken from their Ember Road, Springfield Township, home by the Department of Social Services Dec. 29, 1992.

According to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department report, the two sisters, ages 12 and 10, were removed from the home because there was no heat, water or electricity.

The report said, "The house was found to be not fit for human habitation. Filth, garbage, feces and urine were throughout the house." Two large dogs and numerous cats roamed through the house.

The children were taken to Children's Village. The report did not say if the parents would be charged with a crime.

Man charged with concealing

BY CATHERINE PASSMORE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A 22-year-old Springfield Township man was arraigned Jan. 4 on charges of carrying concealed weapons. Kevin William James was arrested Jan. 3, 1993, at the Oakhill, Springfield Township, home of an acquaintance.

According to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, the acquaintance's father called the police after James allegedly made a phone call to the 17-year-old girl, which was intercepted by her parents.

The father said that James made no threats toward the girl or the family on the phone, but "because of past bad behavior, such as animal torture, (allegedly) committed by James, (the father) was afraid of James."

While the police were at the Oakhill residence taking a report on the phone call James showed up. The officer on the scene reported that James seemed self-destructive and he took him away from the house.

The officer found two horn-handle knives in hip sheaths, two stainless steel daggers with four-inch blades in James' boots, and a four-and-a-half-inch brass-handled copy of a Sykes-Fairbairn Commanfro dagger in his jacket.

According to the report, James told the police he had planned to kill himself in front of the girl to make her feel guilty.

James was arraigned in front of Magistrate Dana Fortinberry at 52nd District Court, Independence Township

Bond was set at $75,000. A preliminary exam is set for Jan. 15 in front of Judge Gerald McNally.

Advice for the new year

Julie Campe

For the new year, I have resolved to listen more and to try to remember (and use) the helpful tips given to me over the years by others.

I'll share a few of the tips I can remember:

If you turn bacon frequently while frying it, it will lay flat, rather than curling up.

~Dad

Ask why.

~Kathy Greenfield, editor

Don't ask why. (Just do what I say.)

~Mom

Ask for what you want.

~Andrew the Horrible, brother

Figure out what you want, and then provide it for yourself.

~Dad

Always give your best effort.

~Dad, Mrs. Haven (fourth-grade teacher)

Refrigerate leftovers right away to avoid bacteria growth.

~Oakland County Cooperative Extension

If you don't already have one, buy a smoke detector (or more) — today.

~Steve Ronk, fire captain

Make sure your homeowners insurance policy covers the full replacement value of the home and contents.

~Lori Edens, homeowner who lost her house in a fire

When taking notes, leave out the vowels. It's faster, and you will still be able to read your notes.

~Professor Hampton, Oakland University

Always say please and thank you.

~Dad

When cooking in the kitchen, keep of sinkful of hot soapy water and clean up as you go along.

~Grandma Steward

When someone calls with a complaint, listen.

~Kathy Greenfield, editor

Laugh — a lot. It reduces tension, and it's fun.

~Becky Craig, tennis coach

Be the first to volunteer.

~Gloria Soluck, former U-M basketball coach

When you receive complimentary letters, save them in a special file. On bad days, they will come in handy.

~Kathy Greenfield

Use a lot of garlic.

~Andrew the Horrible

Ask yourself hard questions. And then ask yourself even harder questions.

~The Thinker

Forgive people.

~Mom

Call in advance if you can't make it for dinner or if you're bringing home guests.

~Peggy, my step-mother

Compliment people when you notice something that should be praised.

~The Scientist, my brother

Use an expletive now and then.

~The Scientist

When you're studying, working, reading or doing anything, do it for yourself, not for grades, for the approval of others or for status.

~Mom

Use wine when cooking.

~Don Campe, my father-in-law

Talk quietly.

~Mrs. Mack, my fifth-grade teacher

If you fall down during a tumbling routine, just get up and start again from where you left off.

~Mrs. Koslosky, Sashabaw Jr. High gym teacher

DICK Mable and his son Jonathan of Sashabaw Ridge, Independence Township, turn their Christmas tree in for recycling Saturday at Independence Oaks County Park.

Recycling trees yet another gift

Christmas tree recycling is growing in Oakland County.

We see this recycling as an after-Christmas gift that helps county parks as well as reduces the amount of waste in area landfills.

According to Dan Stencil, chief of parks for the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission, more and more people are involved in this new type of Christmas spirit.

Two years ago at Independence Oaks County Park, when and where the program first originated, Stencil said about 800 trees were recycled. He said that number increased to over a 1,000 last year and expects it to increase this year.

Last year eight other county park sites became drop-off places for the trees, and Stencil said about 6,000 trees were returned for recycling.

Wood chips are used from the trees to help with county park projects.

Oakland County residents who bring in their Christmas trees receive a pass for free entry to the April 24 Earth Fair at Independence Oaks Nature Center and also receive a coupon for a free pine seedling.

Two of the local county parks accept trees for recycling this Saturday and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. The Christmas trees can be dropped off at Independence Oaks County Park (9501 Sashabaw Road, Independence Township) and at Springfield Oaks County Park (the activities' center at 12451 Andersonville Road, Springfield Township).

Turning in a Christmas tree for recycling may not be as much fun as choosing and buying one, but it's a nice and practical way to continue that Christmas spirit after the holidays.

1993 - what'll it be

Don't you just love the end of a year and the beginning of another?

"Happy New Year," we yell or whisper, depending on our partner late Dec. 31.

Then in early January it's "Oh, my head!" "What time is the next game?" "Ah! (Oh!) It's a new year and another ———." Fill in the blank with: vacation, payment, year older, more work, new challenge, yuk!

1993 - the year to be me!

Not!

That was the previous three decades.

Anyway, closing out an old year is good in that some reflection helps us appreciate what we have.

I took the time to look through a half dozen family photo albums. They went back more than one year, of course, and as albums do, they sort of bunched some years.

Ever notice that family albums remind us of only good times? Family and friend get-togethers, vacation pictures, children, grandchildren, holidays.

This review made me feel so good I selected 58 pictures, had prints made of them in our darkroom and put together a little booklet for those pictured.

With that I closed out 1992, hoping our friends will enjoy seeing the product as much as I did putting it together.

It helped elevate my mood for another year. Actually, there have been only a few new years I've dreaded entering.

Usually I'm optimistic, and I am about 1993. I know all signs are not golden. Goals to improve education, get closer parent-child relationships, cut crime, stop discrimination, eliminate government waste, etc will likely never be met.

But, more cures for illnesses will come in 1993, employment is likely to rise, we'll have more good teachers, we'll see less violence on TV (even if we have to shut it off), our environment will be cleaner and, generally speaking, more people will be better off.

We can fear increases in taxes. We can cheer what might be done with the money.

We can worry about the unknown, but remembering what has passed should lead us to be less fearful of this unknown.

So, here's to 1993—we welcome thee.

Letters to the Editor

Too many pupils

I, along with many others, am concerned about what is happening to our school system with the excessive number of people.

I, as a student, cannot take part in the voting that effects what happens to the schools. I am writing this letter to express my point of view on the subject of student overpopulation so that more people can become aware of the fact that Clarkston schools can hardly handle the number of people.

Sizes of the classes are getting to be unreasonable, with most classes containing so many students that there are too many disruptions to get anything done.

Teachers are spending valuable time controlling noise problems when they could be teaching. Less time can be spent to help those who need extra attention.

It is more important now than it ever has been to educate this generation so they can become successful later on in life. If no action is taken on this issue, then nothing positive will come out of it.

Heather D. Smith

Distorted letter

Under "Buyer beware" in the letters to the editor section of Dec. 30, 1992, a letter appeared so full of distortion and self-interest, it has prompted me to request equal time.

The writer took exception to a real estate ad for a home in Deer Lake Pines, which used a tag line of "Keep your boat on Deer Lake" and went on to make a case that this is somehow prohibited by some to this point of unidentified authority.

The fact is, as a resident of Deer Lake Pines, I am granted lake access and full use of the lake just as any other lakefront owner through the Deer Lake Pines Home Owners Association private lake front beach, as defined in the by-laws of the association.

That use is solely governed by the by-laws, which makes absolutely no mention of, nor regulation against, home owners in the Pines keeping their boats "full time on Deer Lake."

While I can assure the writer I have no intent to "display total disregard for (my) neighbors, the lake (or) township residents as a whole," I am equally intent on not allowing my ox to be gored by the self-interest of someone hiding behind the mask of community concern.

Through past painful experience, those of us who live in the Pines know full well who "Name withheld ..."

is. We know that "Name" is a lakefront resident who maintains at last count (4) boats on the lake! So much for the expressions of concern over boat traffic, ad nauseam.

We also know that "Name" has a particular ax to grind with the owner of the referenced home for sale and "Name" had to be asked to stop walking three large dogs (which tend to leave rather large deposits) on the Pines private association property adjacent to the private beach and couldn't begin to fathom the reasons why.

What this unfortunately amounts to is one person's frustration at their inability to get their own way and their attempt through distortion and outright mis-statement of fact to be heard. We hear you, "Name." Please review your real motives.

Though it truly galls me to do so, for numerous reasons I do not feel compelled to share, please also sign me:

Thanks for surprise

Many thanks to all my husband's good friends who stopped by his Davisburg Sand and Gravel Office to say hi and wish him a happy 70th birthday on Dec. 22.

And thank you all for keeping the party a secret! It really was a big surprise to him.

We all had such a nice time, and you all helped to make it a day he will always remember.

My special thanks, too, to our great office staff, Helga and Brenda, who were such a big help to us.

Mrs. Joyce Valentine

Thanks, Optimists

On behalf of the young mothers and their children from the Clarkston STRIVE program, I would like to thank the members of the Clarkston Area Optimists Club.

Your support during the Christmas season for our students makes their holiday season much brighter. Once again, thank you.

It never gets any easier

Curt
McAllister

This week, I had the opportunity to interview Clarkston native Robin (Frick) Anderson, whose 5-year-old son has a tumor connected to his brain stem.

Without surgery, the boy will probably live only another two years. But there's a chance to prolong his life another 20 years if he undergoes a difficult surgery in Baltimore later this month.

With a surgery like this one, there aren't any guarantees, but God willing, he'll pull through and provide his family with several more years of happiness.

In my two and a half years at the Clarkston News, this is my fourth story concerning a terminally ill or "high-risk" child. And they never get any easier.

We, in the media, are trained to be unbiased and unattached when reporting a story, but sometimes you can't help but get drawn in yourself. For an hour or so, these parents tell you into their confidence, open their hearts and tell you what their children mean to them.

Many times, there are tears, but it's the parents' resilience that usually carries them through. On all four occasions, a parent has told me that their child WILL pull through and beat the odds.

And, when talking to the children, you can see where their parents get such optimism. They talk of their hobbies, aspirations and dreams. Spurning their doctors' projections, they're already looking to the future.

It's these types of stories that usually bring out the best in people, too. How many times have we heard about people coming to the aid of those in need, especially children. Believe me, those are my favorite stories of all.

Every time we open a newspaper or watch the evening news, we're reminded of our own mortality. But people take special exception of stories where children are dead or dying. Perhaps it's the extinguishing of innocence or loss of potential that bothers us most.

Either way, it's hard to confront. But as long as there's resilience, there's hope. Never underestimate the power of the human spirit.

I know four families that don't.

It was around the turn of the century when the granddaughters, trying to update Grandpa's old fashioned wardrobe, gave him a sweat suit.

More precisely, it was last month, and I'm the unfashionable grandfather.

Last month? Sure. All my life, whenever I heard someone say something happened "around the turn of the century," I knew they meant roughly between 1890 and 1910. But we're turning another century in only seven years, by cracky, and the time has come to ask: "Which turn?"

Which I mention only because I don't want you to stop reading this column and start reading the calendar.

Anyway, until near the upcoming turn of the century, I never owned a sweat suit. Which made good sense, because I never sweat. I figured buying a sweat suit would be as dumb as buying a special outfit to wear to the dentist.

To me, sweat suits look like pajamas. I never wear pajamas or anything else to bed because I don't want to be caught in a bind. Unless I'm an overnight house guest, in which case my wife insists I wear pajamas so as not to damage my exalted dignified journalistic image in the eyes of our hosts. When I wake up whimpering in a guest room, and my wife asks why, I say I'm bound for glory.

My two youngest granddaughters, however, decided a sweat suit would be the appropriate up-to-date costume for my favorite pastime, which is sitting in my favorite chair. I couldn't deny that a sweat suit is more modern than the khaki pants I usually wear to match my WWII Army underwear. So I said a sincere thank-you when the girls gave me a blue two-piece JC Penney sweat suit for my birthday.

I wasn't even put off when I noticed that, to double the incongruity of me in a sweat suit, there is a "USA Olympic" insignia, including entwined ovals, on both the shirt and pants. I figured if Michael Jordan could play basketball in the Olympics without damaging the games' amateur image, the fringe involvement of a professional sitter would be acceptable.

But when JC Penney calls seeking my endorsement, I'm afraid I'll have to make a strong complaint. There are no pockets in my sweat suit.

No pockets in the shirt. Where, where am I supposed to put my Tums, urgent notes and plastic toothpick?

And no pockets in the pants. When I wear my sweat suit to the mall, or to a tavern, like all the cool young guys do, where am I supposed to carry my wallet, handkerchief and comb?

But that's not the worst. The worst is there is no fly in my sweat suit. To safely use a wall urinal, I must drop my pants below my knees. That's ridiculous, not to mention embarrassing.

I recently wrote about the unusual urinal in the Hommes room in Detroit's Tres Vite restaurant - a grated gutter in the floor. Reader response included my wife's disgust and, from Herman Koss of Warren, a postcard picturing the two-purpose mahogany bar in the M&J Saloon in Seattle, circa 1905.

Formally posed behind the long men-only bar are the bartenders and, in front, there are customers standing with one foot propped on the brass foot rail. On the floor just in front and beneath the rail is the urinal.

M&J patrons never had to worry about getting lost walking back and forth to the john.

Fortunately, the M&J Saloon did business around the last turn of the century, when customers wore traditional trousers. What if it were this turn, and cool customers wore sweat suits like mine?

With my pants down to my ankles, I wouldn't ask the bartender or anyone else for a splash.

From Our Perspective

Another plan

Doug Carlson

We concluded our last article by stating that we would follow it up with a discussion of our plan to resolve our school overcrowding situation.

We realize this is purely academic because the bond issue for February is already finalized. We're simply bringing it forward as an alternative for future consideration should the bond issue fail.

Here's what we propose:

1. Spend $5 million to remodel and/or add on to Clarkston High School.
2. Spend $1.5 million to remodel Clarkston and Sashabaw middle schools.
3. Spend $10 million to remodel Andersonville, Bailey Lake, Pine Knob, North Sashabaw and Clarkston elementary schools.

Note: All three items are to include the same amount of money for high technology (computers, etc.) that is included in the February bond issue. In addition, we would recommend that each of the three items be voted on separately, as opposed to being given an "all or nothing" ultimatum.

Now, the first thing you have to do with regard to our elementary school situation is to get over this idea that elementary schools should have no more than 500 students.

We keep hearing that this is a "state recommended standard." This is nonsense. We checked with Lansing, and there is no such standard. Secondly, we're aware of at least four elementary schools that have been constructed recently in surrounding communities for enrollments of 650 or more.

So, given the above, let's look at how our group would approach our elementary school situation:

1. Allocate to each of our five elementary schools up to $2 million to be used for remodeling, repairs and additions.

2. Let those who "live" in each school (principal, teachers, staff) determine their most pressing needs and how such money could be utilized to address these needs.

3. Should a school be able to resolve its problems on less than $2 million, allocate the remainder to the other elementary schools to help them resolve their needs.

In other words, spread the $10 million throughout the entire elementary school system to resolve as many problems as possible.

Let's look at an example:

On Dec. 2, 1991, the North Sashabaw Elementary School staff presented a lengthy and well written letter to the Clarkston Board of Education in conjunction with the bond issue that was proposed at that time.

In their letter, they stated, "An addition to our building could:

- 1) move music out of the halls and back to a classroom'
- 2) take Kid's Connection off the stage'
- 3) provide needed work areas'
- 4) make available conference space' and
- 5) allow for rooms for the social worker, psychologist and other support staff.

"A cafeterium could be utilized in a variety of ways to alleviate many problems concerning our multipurpose rooms and media center."

Under our group's plan, the North Sashabaw Elementary staff would be able to select their own solutions from a variety of options, which might look something like this:

Item	Cost
5 additional classrooms	$390,000
1 music room	129,000

1 special ed. room	39,000
1 conference room	79,000
1 health room	79,000
1 computer room	88,000
1 teacher's lounge	39,000
2 additional bathrooms	100,000
200-seat cafeteria, satellite kitchen and storage area	440,400
Upgrade carpeting and lighting	187,240
Upgrade technology	150,000
Total	$1,720,640

Plus 16 percent for architect's fees, other fees and contingencies 275,302
Grand total $1,995,942

We believe that these additions/renovations would address the issues expressed by this school's staff and allow the school to function smoothly with 650 students or more.

The North Sashabaw staff concluded their presentation to the board by stating, "We thank you for your time and invite you to visit our school any time." We presume they did.

I know we did.

Still perfect in duals

Wolves fifth at Goodrich

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Coach Mike DeGain's confidence in his team is growing higher as his Wolves drop lower in the statewide coaches' poll.

Despite recently losing to three highly-ranked Class A teams (Temperance-Bedford, Bay City Western and Troy) in tournament competition, DeGain still feels confident about his Wolves if they went up against that trio of teams in team dual JASON Roughton (on top) puts pressure on Warren Lincoln's Rob Ward in a 145-pound semifinal match at the Goodrich Tournament of Champions. Roughton defeated Ward and ended up placing third in the tournament.

(head-to-head) competition.

"I feel we can beat anybody, but the proof will be in the pudding," said DeGain, whose team was ranked second in Class A by coaches before the season but now ranks eighth.

The coach said his team's depth has more of an impact in dual meets than at tournaments. The Wolves are currently 3-0 in dual meets.

A few weeks ago, Troy (No. 5 in Class A) edged out Clarkston for the Oakland County Meet championship.

Last Wednesday (Dec. 30) the Wolves finished fifth out of 16 teams at the second annual Goodrich Tournament of Champions, which was won by Temperance-Bedford (No. 2 in Class A). Bay City Western (No. 3 in Class A) placed fourth.

DeGain said he was pleased with Clarkston's finish at the Goodrich, one of the state's toughest tournaments featuring eight teams ranked in the top 10 of Classes A, B and C-D.

"I was happy with where they placed," said DeGain.

Besides Bedford and Bay City Western, the two other teams finishing ahead of Clarkston were second-place Eaton Rapids (No. 1 in Class B) and third-place New Lothrop (No. 3 in Class C-D).

Clarkston had one champion at the tournament of champions, 135-pounder Jerry Anderson. The senior, ranked No. 1 in the state, won all four of his matches, including a victory over Class A No. 2 rated Keith Villano of Bay City Western.

Two Wolves placed third, 145-pound senior Jason Roughton and 160-pound sophomore P.J. Vandermeer.

Steve Locher, a 125-pound senior who sat out all of last year because of an injury, finished fifth.

CLARKSTON 39, Detroit Catholic Central 26

(Jan. 2 at Detroit Catholic Central)

Two 18-point rallies paced Clarkston to a 39-26 win over host Detroit

Catholic Central Jan. 2.

The victory raised the Wolves dual meet record to 3-0.

After losing the first match (103-pound division) on a void, the Wolves went ahead 18-6 on three straight pins. Freshman Chad Auten (112) pinned Randy Castrol at 1:19, sophomore Corey Grant (the Wolves' 119-pounder wrestling for the first time this season after knee surgery) pinned Chris Tellnar in 56 seconds and senior Jeff Farrand (125) pinned Scott Menoch at 1:45.

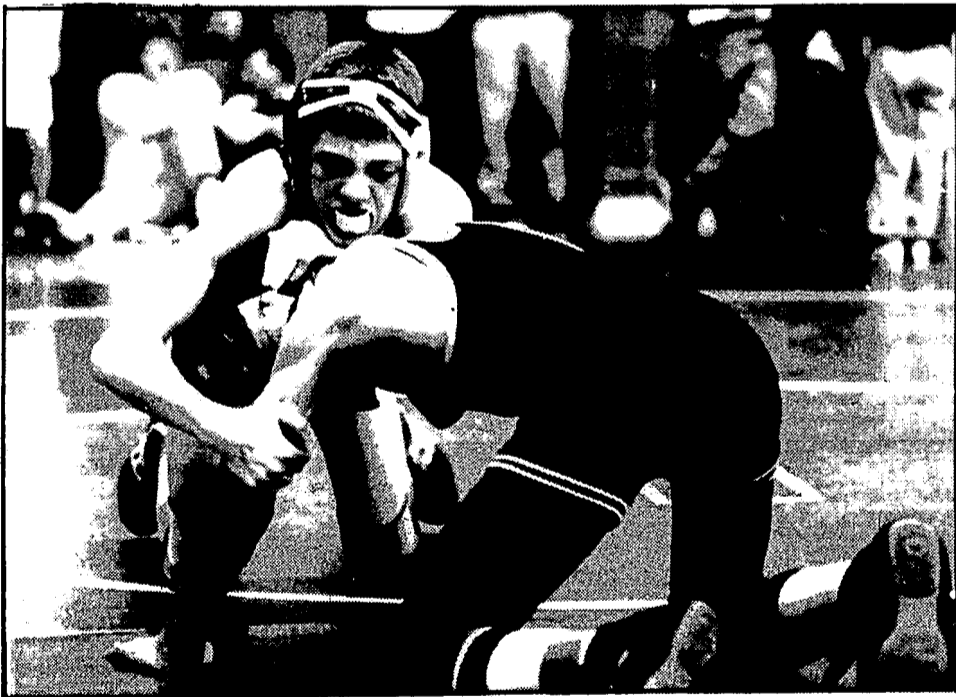

The Shamrocks, however, didn't give up, tying the match at 18-18 with two pins of their own. Shamrock Steve Bork (130) pinned Steve Locher at 1:55 and Joe Woochok (135) pinned Sean Mick at 3:22.

But the Wolves then powered themselves to a 36-18 advantage with four straight wins. Armin Michelsen (140) won on a 13-4 major decision over Mike Madden, Jake Briggs (145) topped Tom McDonald, Jason Roughton (152) won an 18-1 technical fall over Ljam O'Donohue, and P.J. Vandermeer (160) pinned Dan Krueger at 2:51.

Shamrock Jascon Krueger (171) broke the Wolves' streak by defeating Joe DeGain, followed by Catholic Central's Mark Brackan's 12-4 major decision over Brent Hummell.

Clarkston heavyweight Steve Hunkele closed out the match with a 2-0 victory over Todd Lackey.

The Wolves' next action is their home opener Thursday (Jan. 7) against Waterford Kettering and Hazel Park, starting at 5:30 p.m.

CHRISTOPHER Finazzo poses for a photo with the 470-pound bull elk he shot Dec. 9 in Pigeon River Forest, Atlanta, Mich. It took four shots with his .30-06 rifle to bring down the 3 1/2-year-old 5-by-5 elk (five points on each side of its antlers). The father of two resides on Paula, as Independence Township, and was accompanied by his wife, Kelly, as well as hunting guide George Klein during his hunting trip. Finazzo said he was surprised to be among the 170 chosen to receive elk hunting licenses, and he was thrilled with his prize. About 46,000 applied for the winter elk hunt. Finazzo also shot a doe during deer season. He and his wife plan to give some of the elk meat to a non-profit organization to help feed the needy.

Use precautions when fishing on ice

People ice fishing this winter will be aware of the sport's unique type of enjoyment, but they should also be aware of some safety precautions.

About 300,000 ice fishing enthusiasts are expected to fish on the Great Lakes and the state's 11,000 inland lakes.

After getting a required fishing license (if you're 17 or older), the first precaution should be ice thickness, says AAA Michigan Community Safety Services Manager Jerry Basch.

"In general, starting with ice thickness: four solid inches are needed for general foot traffic; six inches or more for controlled snowmobile or all-terrain vehicle use," said Basch.

Other precautions are:
 ■ Never drive a car or truck onto frozen lakes to your fishing spot because vibrations may crack the thickest ice.

■ Not all waters freeze evenly. Ice may be solid and safe in one location while a few feet away springs, currents or air bubbles may mean a dangerously thin covering. River ice is dangerous. Stay off frozen streams.

■ Clear ice generally is harder and will support more weight than milk ice filled with snow or air bubbles.

■ Beware of potential danger on ice next to piers, wharves, seawalls, pilings and floating debris (such as abandoned fishing shanties) because it usually is thinner than on the rest of the lake.

■ If using a heated shanty, make sure your heater is properly vented to avoid deadly carbon monoxide gas. Bottled gas heaters may require the crack of a window or door for ventilation, but charcoal and wood burners need a chimney of appropriate design.

■ Dressing in layers is the best approach, where outer garments can be peeled off if you get too warm. Keep warm by especially covering your head, feet, hands and ears.

■ Watch out for dehydration. Avoid alcoholic beverages because alcohol restricts blood vessels, hampering blood flow to the extremities. Frequent snacks of high energy foods (dried fruit, granola, nuts or carbohydrates) are desirable.

■ Well-prepared anglers carry at least 50 feet of synthetic rope to help others who may fall through thin ice a spud or heavy ice chisel to probe ice thickness, and two spikes (or large nails) to help yourself should you plunge into the water.

In this worst-case scenario, orient your body in a horizontal position, as if swimming. Place your hands palms down on the ice surface and attempt to do a push up, while using a swimming kick to thrust you out of the hole onto safe ice. Then roll to safety. Stand only after reaching safe ice and go immediately to shore to change clothes and warm up. The spikes or large nails, pushed into the surrounding ice, also can help pull you to safety.

Family ski tour set for Jan. 9 at Independence Oaks Park

The "Family Affair Ski Tour" will take place at Independence Oaks County Park on Sashabaw Road on Saturday, Jan. 9.

From noon to 4 p.m., there will be half-hour lessons for beginner and intermediate skiers and time for open skiing to test newly-learned skills.

Other activities include ice fishing, ice skating, snowshoe lessons and Nature Center tours. Also, demonstrations on safety precautions and proper outdoor clothing. A roaring fire at the Twin Chimneys Shelter will provide a break from the cold.

Drawings for cross-country ski equipment and door prizes will take place. Concession food and beverages will be available.

Skiers can supply their own equipment or rent skis at the park. The event cost is $3 per person or $9 per person (with ski rental).

A park entry fee of $4.50 per vehicle for Oakland County residents and $8 per vehicle for non-residents may be charged.

The event may be cancelled if there is not a sufficient snow base. Before leaving home, call the park at 625-0877 for information.

Waitress finds success, enjoyment in running

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

Just two years ago, Pam Babcock of Independence Township began jogging for exercise.

Today, she's a successful road racer, who's placed in over 90 percent of her races.

Babcock, 31, began running with her husband, Steve, in 1990. The mother of a then 3-year-old daughter, she found less and less time to teach aerobics at the

"One of the hardest things about running is getting out and doing it when it's cold and windy."

Pam Babcock

Physical Harmony studio in Waterford Township.

So she decided to give running a shot.

"The first time I went out, I only lasted a mile," said Babcock, a waitress at the Big Boy Restaurant in Independence Township. "I found it to be a lot different than aerobics, but I stuck it out and it got easier and easier."

Six months later, she entered her first road race in Frankenmuth and failed to place, finishing fourth. After that, she put together an impressive string of wins and places in a variety of 5-kilometer and 10-kilometer races.

Since that time, she's placed in 28 of 30 races in her age division, failing only to place in the tough Bobby Crim Run in Flint.

Overall, she's captured top woman honors for all divisions at three races. Babcock has also garnered 20 first-place divisional finishes, four second-place divisional finishes and one third.

Her best times are 20:08 in the 5K and 42:30 in the 10K.

She runs 30-40 miles a week, many times with her 50-year-old mother, Roberta Herbert of Waterford. Matter of a fact, Roberta, her husband, Dave Herbert, and Pam's 12-year-old son Jason Babcock often participate in road races together.

"It makes it more enjoyable when you can run with someone else," she said. "It's getting to be a real family affair at road races these days."

Babcock participates in road races all year round, which means she has to train all year round.

"One of the hardest things about running is getting out and doing it when it's cold and windy," she said. "But it's usually not that bad after you complete the first mile. You just have to discipline yourself."

She considers the feeling of accomplishment as the most gratifying aspect of running.

"When I'm done, regardless if it's training or racing, I feel like I've accomplished something," Babcock said. "It feels good."

When asked how long she'll continue running, she responded "forever."

PAM BABCOCK has had a lot of success in the sport of road racing, even though she started running just two years ago.

Parental kidnapping reported in township

An Independence Township woman probably doesn't know who to turn to for help.

On Dec. 31, the Mohawk Road resident contacted the Oakland County Sheriff's Department about a harassing phone call from her ex-husband.

According to the police report, the couple's 13-year-old child was to visit the father in Indiana from Dec. 19 through Jan. 2. The man allegedly called and asked the mother about pushing the child against the door during the summer. The mother replied that there had been a discipline problem and that she did that to make her child listen.

The man then allegedly said that he had recorded their conversation and that he was filing abuse charges against the woman in Indiana and would keep the child until the problem was resolved.

In another report made on Jan. 3, the mother said she went to the meeting place in Indiana to pick up her child, but the father never showed up. She called the home and there was no answer.

According to the report, Indiana police stated that they could not help the woman because the custody settlement for the child was out of Texas. The OCSD report said Oakland County police can't help because the alleged parental kidnapping took place in Indiana.

Parents file report over punishment

A student at Sashabaw Junior High School complained to his parents Dec. 28 that a teacher physically disciplined him, so his parents filed a police report.

According to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department report, the student's mother told deputies that the teacher had grabbed her son by the upper arm and pulled him off his chair.

The report said the teacher later apologized to the student, mother and the class for his actions.

Jean Lang, principal of SJHS, said she this incident had been addressed by the school.

"Normally, if an incident like this occurs, we notify the parent immediately and conduct an investigation in the school. We might contact DSS (Department of Social Services)."

Unlike policies of years past, no form of corporal punishment is allowed in the schools, she said.

The parent was satisfied with the apology and will not press charges, according to the police report.

Bountiful bricks

BRICK PAVERS are put in place by employees of Country Oaks Paving Stones Co., Dixie Highway, Independence Township, Oct. 29. With about a $42,000 bid, the company won the job of placing varying colors of bricks in 15-16 small islands along Dixie Highway. The project is part of the Downtown Development Authority's plan to improve parts of Dixie Highway and M-15 in the township. While most of the area along Dixie Highway received new landscaping, some islands were paved with bricks because landscaping wasn't likely to grow amid the salt and oil from nearby roads and parking lots. About 32,000 bricks were used to complete the job, which is designed to look like "old-world English stone," said Country Oaks President Jeff Davies. The bricks are three times as strong as poured concrete and are nicer looking, Davies said, explaining that they're used widely in Europe but are only just catching on in America. One other advantage — to maintain utilities beneath the islands, bricks can easily be removed and replaced. (Photo by Julie Campe)

Bond election approval responsible first step

BY SHERRY REGIANI

We have done so much for so long with so little, we are now qualified to do anything with nothing.

~Anonymous

In my fifth year as a parent in Clarkston schools, I shouldn't be surprised anymore. Those of you new to the area used to throw me for a loop.

"Look how old this building is," you'd say.

"Not to worry," I'd respond. "Look how well our students are doing. The building doesn't matter, as long as we provide a quality education."

I can't say that anymore.

Everybody I talk to wants their children to do better than they did. I don't know anyone who thinks a career at or near the poverty level is something to strive for. And yet many of our children lack the skills necessary to find that better job, that lifelong career that will enable them to buy a car, to purchase a house, to raise a family.

I read last week's Clarkston News story on the Tech. Center with great interest. Hands-on application leads to understanding. Do we wait until our children are in high school and hope they are among the lucky ones to make it to the Tech. Center? Do we sell our homes to new buyers, saying, "Our schools don't offer much for tomorrow's job market in themselves, but maybe your child can go to the Tech. Center (that we share with several other communities)."

Our teachers are dedicated, but how long can we thin out the time they spend with each student, while cramming more bodies into already crowded classrooms?

I've heard that we used to accommodate just as many or more students per school than current enrollment. Let's take just one classroom and convert it to a computer room. Then divide those students into the remaining classrooms. Then do the same for math support, reading support and music.

When I went to school in the '50s and '60s, there were few mentally and emotionally impaired students in my Detroit Public Schools. They were tucked away, out of sight, somewhere else.

Now these students are accepted (as mandated by the state) into our public school system but cannot spend the entire day in a regular classroom. So give up another classroom or two, and give these children a room to work at their own pace with their own specially trained teachers.

Your own math skills should tell you that with high enrollment, those fewer basic classrooms are left overcrowded, with less "teacher per student" time available.

Many of our science projects, reading and comprehension groups and art activities take place sitting on the floor in hallways, if at all. (No wonder Johnny comes home with dirty clothes.)

More students mean increased operating costs in the form of textbooks, teachers and buses. Simply adding more classrooms will not solve our problems.

Right now, our elementary students at Clarkston El. alone are scheduled for lunch beginning at 11:20 and ending at 12:50. An increase in just three classrooms would mean they would need to eat lunch as early as 10:50 a.m. This added half-hour per day cuts into physical education time, also scheduled for the multi-purpose room.

Three additional classrooms would share all building facilities, meaning less time in media center, less time learning computer skills, less time for support classes.

This constant change (and growth) is here to stay. We must do the best we can with the dollars we can get by extending our current debt. Your tax assessments will change, no matter what we choose for our schools. The amount is set by the State of Michigan.

But think of our Feb. 8th bond election as a home equity loan that extends the life of your mortgage, not increasing it by one single dime.

We can building one new elementary to ease overcrowding (not a showplace, but a practical, technically adequate school).

We can make repairs in our existing school buildings, just like you maintain your own home, so our buildings can last.

We can add quality computer technology to all our current elementaries. We can ease massive crowding at the junior highs by moving the ninth grade to the high school. This is a responsible first step for our community.

Find out about the bond issue by attending a Town Hall Meeting: 7 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 12, at Clarkston El.; and 7 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 14, at Andersonville El.

An aid to locating those vital records

Vital records are just that ... vital. We need access to them for many reasons.

In this age of bureaucratic documentation, everyone has need of copies of records of birth, death, marriage or divorce. An application for benefits from the Veterans Administration or Social Security, a passport or marriage license must have the information contained in these records and sometimes copies of the records themselves.

The Consumer Education Research Center, a national non-profit consumer group, found that there was little uniformity on where the records were available and the costs. They also found many people had difficulty in locating the records they needed. In many cases it was necessary to make expensive long distance calls just to find out where to write, what information was required and how much money to send.

CERC has just issued an updated edition that contains a state-by-state listing of the addresses and telephone numbers of where each record can be found, the cost of a copy of the document and sample form letters containing all the information needed to obtain these and other vital documents.

This all-new edition has a section with a list of U.S. offices of every country with the name of the office that will help people born in foreign countries obtain documents located in the country where the event occurred.

Even U.S. citizens born overseas, on a ship or aircraft can locate the place where their birth records can be obtained as can children born overseas and adopted by parents in the U.S.

To obtain a copy of this useful book, send $6.50 to Consumer Center-Documents, 350 Scotland Road, Orange, N.J. 07050, or call 1-800-872-0121 for credit card orders.

Mom prays that son can defy odds

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

A former Clarkston-area resident is clinging to the hope that a surgeon in Baltimore can help extend the life of her ailing child.

Robin (Frick) Anderson and her son, Matthew, 5, have gained widespread attention, since the public became aware of Matthew's life-threatening affliction this past holiday season.

Matthew suffers from a rare form of mid-brain stem gloma, where a tumor has attached itself to the boy's brain stem. Undergoing only radiation treatments, the boy would probably live another 18 months to two years.

Nearly two months ago, Robin and her husband, Alan, were told by an ophthalmologist that something was putting pressure on Matthew's right eye. Further exams indicated that a small tumor had lodged itself in Matthew's brain stem.

At the time, the Pontiac pair was told that the tumor

"We can only hope and pray."

Robin (Frick) Anderson

was inoperable because of its location behind the eye.

However, they learned of a pediatric neurosurgeon — Ben Carson — at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, who specializes in brain tumors.

Upon looking at Matthew's charts, Carson told the Andersons that he'd attempt a delicate surgery to remove the tumor, but he warned that it would be a difficult procedure.

"Dr. Carson has experience in this area, but because Matthew's tumor is unique, it's going to be a difficult surgery," said Robin Anderson, a 1984 graduate of Clarkston High School. "The important thing is that he's going to do it, so we can only hope and pray."

Robin said a successful surgery may only extend Matthew's life expectancy another two decades, but she's willing to take the risk.

"Without guaranteeing anything, Dr. Carson told us the surgery could possibly give our child an additional 20 years of life," she said. "Twenty years is a lot better than 18 months, so we're going to go for it."

Recipe for Love, Part II

Love that lasts is the topic of a special Clarkston News Valentine issue, offered in conjunction with cable-TV's "Michigan Spotlight with Michael M. Kupelian."

We received so many responses in last year's "Recipe for Love that Lasts" edition, that we decided to offer a Part II of the series.

Last year, we asked those who had been married 25 years or more to send us their photos and secrets of success. This year, we ask the same. However, we also invite people to write on behalf of others. A granddaughter might write about her grandparents' long-lasting love, for instance.

As last year, the photos and recipes will be used in The Clarkston News' Valentine issue. And they'll appear in an "honor roll" on "Michigan Spotlight," which will be cablecast by United Cable Independence-Clarkston Channel 65. Deadline to enter is Thursday, Jan. 28. That program will include a panel discussion of love that lasts.

For more information, call 625-3370.

MATTHEW Anderson, 5, is suffering from a tumor on the brain stem. His only hope for a prolonged life is a pediatric neurosurgeon in Baltimore.

"We've received a lot of donations from anonymous donors and I get calls from people, who say we're in their prayers, almost every day."

Robin (Frick) Anderson

Even though their odds have improved, the Andersons have run into further complications via their health insurance carrier, the Blue Care Network. The carrier had originally balked at paying for the costs of the exams and surgery, but media publicity and phone calls from U.S. Sen. Don Riegle caused the company to have a temporary change of heart.

"The insurance company has told us that they'll cover the costs of tests in Baltimore, but the surgery is still questionable. It's probably going to take another day or so to straighten this part out," she said. "I mean, what's the good of having an insurance company if they're only going to walk out on you when you really need them?"

Despite these insurance-related complications, the Andersons have been overwhelmed by the amount of public support they've received in the past few weeks.

"In the last couple of weeks, my husband and I have met a lot of compassionate people," she said. "We've received a lot of donations from anonymous donors and I get calls from people, who say we're in their prayers, almost every day."

The Andersons' saga has prompted WXYZ-TV Channel 7 to run a month's worth of updated stories, as well as setting up the "Matthew Anderson Benefit Fund." This fund will supplement any additional hospital or airline costs incurred by the family.

So far, the fund has resulted in numerous cash gifts as well as a pair of round-trip plane tickets to Baltimore, courtesy of a Lapeer resident.

These plane tickets were used by Matthew and his father last weekend, so they could visit Carson and undergo some pre-surgery exams by the staff at Johns Hopkins Hospital. Robin said surgery will probably occur in the next two to three weeks.

Anyone interested in donating money to the Ander-

"In the last couple of weeks, my husband and I have met a lot of compassionate people."

Robin (Frick) Anderson

sons can do so by sending their donations to Coldwell Banker, The Michael Group, 8080 Ortonville Road, Clarkston 48348, c/o the "Matthew Anderson Benefit Fund."

Unused donations will be given to the Rainbow Connection, a non-profit organization that grants wishes to terminally ill children.

What's new in business

Selling sunshine and more

BY CATHERINE PASSMORE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

On the way to Ohio this spring Carolann Paradise announced to her husband that she wanted to do something different with her life.

Now, a couple months later, she has done it — she owns a tanning salon.

Paradise, an Independence Township resident, bought Kokomos in July. The tanning salon — on the lower level of Ritter's Country Square — includes four beds and one booth and is to soon expand. Paradise said she plans to add three more beds and a massage therapist next year.

Paradise gets help in the store from her husband, Phil, and their daughters, Colleen, 17, and Karen, 15. "Phil comes in on Tuesdays and Fridays because that is my basketball night," said Paradise, a Clarkston High School basketball fan.

The salon is open weekdays from 8 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. and Saturday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The hours are soon to expand to accommodate those who would like to get a "base" tan before their winter trips south.

Customers are offered one-, two- and four-week memberships with a co-payment and monthly memberships. Walk-ins are welcomed.

There is more to Paradise's salon than tanning. Along with getting a tan, Paradise's customers are offered various lotions, bathing suits made in Michigan, shorts, tie-dyed outfits and great conversation.

"I like people, and I like kids, anything I do I do for them. I have some kids who come in here and stay for a couple hours to just visit," said Paradise.

"A lot of people will sell you anything for the money. I want to get what is best for the customers. I want the business and I want to be successful, but I want it to be personal," she said.

CAROLANN PARADISE of Independence Township bought Kokomos Tanning Salon in July 1992. The business is in the lower level of Ritter's Country Square on Dixie Highway. Besides getting a tan, customers can buy various lotions, bathing suits and shorts outfits — and starting in 1993, a massage.

Take precautions to avoid hypothermia

The chill winds of winter pose a variety of health concerns, including hypothermia.

Hypothermia occurs when a person's core body temperature falls well below normal as a result of prolonged exposure to cold, said Niru Prasad of St. Joseph mercy Hospital, Pontiac.

"Symptoms of moderate hypothermia are mental confusion, clumsiness and loss of interest in activity," said Prasad, noting that treatment should start immediately.

"Get the victim out of the cold and into a warm environment; replace wet clothes; serve warm liquids, and apply hot water bottles or heat pads.

Prasad said that in cases of severe hypothermia, loss of the shivering response (the body's way of speeding metabolism and generating heat) and loss of consciousness may result.

She cautioned against trying to warm the victim with active measures and advises that the victim be covered gently with blankets, removed from the cold environment and taken to the hospital for immediate medical attention.

To avoid hypothermia, take the following precautions:

- Eat a well balanced diet and take a high-calorie snack if you expect to be out in the cold for a long period.
- Avoid alcohol. It causes your body to lose heat faster.
- Dress in light, loose and layered clothing that will trap layers of air and provide extra insulation.
- Know the effects of any medication you are taking. Some affect the body's response to outside temperature changes.

Resolve to be debt-free in '93; here's how

January can be a tough month for those who got caught up in the holiday spirit and spent too much over the holidays.

If a pile of bills rolls in along with the New Year, make the resolution to become "debt free in '93."

Michael Kelly, senior director of information for the Michigan Credit Union League, suggests 12 New Year's resolutions that will help to reduce your debt and improve your personal finances.

Resolve to:

1. Get a handle on your finances. Don't let them become unmanageable and end up causing added stress in your life.

2. Evaluate your financial situation by developing a balance sheet. List your assets (what you own or are purchasing over time) and your liabilities (what you owe on accounts that are not yet paid in full).

3. Focus on reducing your debt load. Monthly payments to creditors ideally should take less than 20 percent of your monthly take-home pay. When you include rent or mortgage payments, the ratio should be no more than 40 percent. If you're over the 40 percent mark, you could be headed for trouble.

4. Reduce your interest expenses by paying off short-term, high-interest bills. Look into a debt consolidation loan.

5. Switch to a lower interest, low-fee credit card and try to pay the full balance owed each month. Remember, credit cards don't mean you have extra money to spend.

6. Set short-term and long-term goals for yourself and your family. A good short-term goal is to pay off your credit cards as quickly as possible and carry only one card. A long-term goal may be to save for a down payment on a home or for college tuition costs down the road.

7. Involve your spouse and children in the family financial planning to gain their cooperation and support. You don't have to discuss every detail, but teaching your children about sound money management and what it costs to run a household might be one of the best things you'll ever do for them.

8. Write down your financial goals and set up an annual budget — putting it down on paper commits you to a new plan of action for 1993.

9. Analyze your saving and spending habits. Try keeping a detailed spending record for one month. Once you see where your money is going, you can evaluate your habits and make better choices.

10. Pay yourself first. Save a certain amount or percentage of each paycheck and add it to your savings account regularly. You'll be surprised how quickly it adds up and how it creates peace of mind.

11. Shop around for a financial institution, such as a credit union, that offers lower service fees and higher returns on savings.

12. Ask your credit union or bank how you can get free financial counseling if you're swamped with debt. Or contact Credit Counseling Centers, Inc., a non-profit financial counseling service with several offices in Michigan, which offer advice to people who need help establishing a budget or paying bills. Call 1-800-388-2777.

The Michigan Credit Union League also has a free brochure and budget sheet to help you take control of your spending and saving. To receive this brochure, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Budget Blueprint, Michigan Credit Union League, Public Information, P.O. Box 5210, Detroit, MI 48235.

Honors

Jill Parmeter and Jacki Yelland, both of Davisburg Triple B's 4-H Club, were recently selected to raise their own standardbred foals.

To raise the foal, an applicant must have equestrian experience and knowledge. Only 20 foals were given throughout Michigan.

Raising the foal is a difficult chore. The teens must train, feed, wash and clean up after the horse. After the horse has matured, it will be ready to be auctioned. The trainer receives some of the profits from the sale of the foal. Other profits support the horse program.

The program is sponsored by the Michigan Horseman's Association and Michigan Standardbred Breeder's Association.

To J.D.M. ...

A Lord of a Dead Frontier

By Tom Erickson

I read your book ...
The one, for your life, you took.

I read your book ...
Hoping to look and find,
The fame not wanting to look.

Your life you took ...

in photographs, though old
Yellowed and creased with your tears
And your blood.
I gaze into your photoflood.
I stare into your eyes and years
Trying to find the mind.
The person behind the fame.
Now I can't even remember your name.

I read your book ...
Mine is not the same.
For I live.
For I have a name.

You know the dead,
Carry no name.
Carry no fame.

I read your book;
And burnt it just the same.

AIR FORCE Capt. James A. Donald (right) explains a special operations technique to a

Flight instructor plans to stay in Air Force special operations

BY MARSHALL B. WILKINS

A swoosh sound reverberates off the mountains as powerful jet aircraft blades slice through the early morning air of Albuquerque, N.M.

The sun reflects off three aircraft as they taxi down the sun-baked tarmac. Pilots wait for the signal to navigate their jets off the ground and high beyond the southwestern clouds above.

A short distance from the jets, just inside a barbed wire fence, a group of students and instructors conduct a pre-flight inspection of an aircraft.

One of them is Air Force Capt. James A. Donald, 30, son of Mary B. and stepson of Thomas W. Coe of Rattalee Lake Road, Springfield Township.

Donald teaches helicopter pilots and flight engineers a basic and mission qualification course in use of MH-53J Pave Low helicopter, a nine-month course.

"I teach both flying and academic classes required to qualify pilots and flight engineers in helicopter combat, special operations," said the special operations instructor-pilot.

Donald has been at Kirtland Air Force Base, New Mexico, since July.

"I feel that service for the country is a patriotic duty," he said. "The special operations mission is the future of the military. This job puts me on the cutting edge and allows me to do something patriotic for my country."

Known in the Air Force as the "schoolhouse," Kirtland Air Force Base is the backbone of flight training that steadily feeds the Air Force with highly trained pilots, flight engineers and mechanics. Pararescue training is also conducted at the base. Pararescuemen are highly trained medics.

The base's 542nd Operations Group conducts aircrew training in four types of helicopters and two types of cargo airplanes. About 1,100 students a year attend more than 50 courses.

With the U.S. military experiencing budget cuts and reductions in troop strength, many face decisions about their future in military or civilian life.

Donald, who received a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering in 1984 from the U.S. Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Colo., said, "I plan to continue on in special operations."

Marshall B. Wilkins of the U.S. Army and Air Force Hometown News service, provided the above story.

'Twas the day of Christmas and all the Sanderses gathered ...

BY LOU KLINE-SANDERS

Glenn W. Sanders of Groveland Road, Groveland Township, and formerly of Clarkston, was guest of honor at an unusual Christmas Day party.

It was at the sparkling home of his oldest daughter, Evelyn Maguire, a charming hostess of Northville, assisted by her husband, William.

It was Glenn's 87th Christmas. His offspring traveled by plane, van and cars from Washington, D.C.; Liberty, Mo.; Toledo, Ohio; and Michigan and assembled for this party.

It included Glenn's children, grandchildren and small great-grandchildren.

The last names of his family and friends were: Maguire, Lytle, Roper, Stockwell, McGilivray, Stites and Sanders.

There were countless appetizers, music, story telling and socializing, preceding an abundant Christmas dinner with all the trimmings. This was by the dining room fireplace at a colorful poinsettia-decorated, food-laden table.

Glenn W. Sanders

Jolly parlor games for pleasure of all followed in the ground floor recreation room and spacious indoor swimming pool.

The exchange of gifts was around a glowing Christmas tree in the living room, which overlooked a deck with a babbling brook beneath it.

Precious moments were created as adults cuddled the little ones and shared dolls, clowns, balloons and toys with the older, excited children as they romped about.

When it came to the end of the memorable day and time to part, they chanted, between hugs, "Merry Christmas! Happy New Year!"

Lou Kline-Sanders is the wife of Glenn W. Sanders, formerly of Clarkston.

Class prepares pupils for builder's license

If you'd like to earn a builder's license in Michigan, a two-day seminar may offer help.

Offered by Michigan Builders Institute and Clarkston Community Education, the 16-hour, two-day seminar takes place 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays, Jan. 30, and Feb. 6, at the community education center, 5275 Maybee Road, Independence Township.

The $150 cost includes a manual, law book and sample test questions. The course is designed for those who want to subcontract the building of their own home, people in the building trades who are now working without a license who want to work legally, and real estate investors.

Pre-registration is required by Thursday, Jan. 28, at Clarkston Community Education. Call 674-0993 to register.

Holiday blues-busting hints

Many people experience depression during the winter holidays.

Causes for this can be a change in family life, loss of a loved one, life stressors such as job loss, lack of money to do things you want to or loss of good health. Occasionally depression is caused by unfulfilled expectations of what the holidays should be like.

The professional counseling staff that the Consortium for Human Development, Inc., a non-profit, outpatient counseling agency with offices in Independence Township, Troy and Novi want to share some blues-busting hints to make your holidays more enjoyable.

■ Make your expectations reasonable. High expectations which are unmet can lead to disappointment and depression.

■ Keep your consumption of alcoholic beverages to a minimum. Alcohol is a depressant, not a mood elevator.

■ Exercise! Exercise stimulates the release of endorphins which are natural antidepressants. Even if you can't go to a health club, take time to go for a walk several times during the week.

■ Increase your social contacts, accept all invitations and be proactive. Invite people to do things with you.

■ Don't feel obligated to visit family members or friends who have been verbally or emotionally abusive to you.

■ Identify what you feel is important vs. doing what you think you should be doing.

■ Volunteer to help others by serving holiday meals at local soup kitchens or visiting hospitalized or home-bound neighbors or friends.

■ Don't sit home and isolate — seek support from friends by calling them or going out to a support group meeting or social event.

Most importantly, if you are feeling helpless, overwhelmed and depressed even if you have tried some of the above suggestions, please seek professional help. Contact your local churches, community centers or counseling agencies for the resources they can provide you.

Recipe Corner

Vegetable pizza

The following recipe may be used with the help of slicer-shredder appliances or without.

VEGETABLE PIZZA

- 1 (12-inch) Pizza Crust+
- 1 cup Pizza Sauce*
- 1 medium zucchini, sliced
- 1 medium yellow squash, sliced
- 3 ounces fontina cheese, shredded
- 1 small red onion, sliced thin
- 1 small red radicchio, sliced into thin strips
- 2 plum tomatoes, sliced thin
- 1 small head radicchio, sliced into thin strips
- 1 cup arugula, torn into small pieces

Spread the pizza sauce over the baked crust to within 1-inch of edge. Place vegetables evenly over sauce. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake at 475 degrees for 5 to 10 minutes or until the cheese melts.

*Pizza Sauce

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 jalapeno, seeded and minced
- 8 ounces tomato sauce
- 6 ounces tomato paste
- 1 cup water
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon dried basil
- 1/4 teaspoon black pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon dried thyme
- 1/8 teaspoon onion salt

1/4 pound prosciutto, cut into thin julienne strips
6 sun dried tomatoes, about 1/3 cup, cut into small pieces

Heat butter and oil in a 12-inch skillet over medium heat. Add garlic and saute until golden, about 1 minute. Add remaining ingredients, except for the prosciutto and sun-dried tomatoes. Cover and simmer about 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add the prosciutto and sun-dried tomatoes and simmer for 10 more minutes. Yields: 2 cups.

+Whole-Wheat Pizza Dough

- 1 package active dry yeast
- 1 3/4 cups warm water (105 to 115 degrees)
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup olive oil
- 2 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
- 2 cups whole wheat flour

Dissolve yeast in warm water in warmed bowl. Add salt, olive oil and flour. Mix 2 minutes. Continuing to mix, add whole wheat flour 1/2 cup at a time until the dough clings to the mixer. Knead for five minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top.

Cover; let rise in warm plate, free from draft until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Punch dough down. Let rest 10 minutes. Divide dough in half (Dough can be wrapped in plastic wrap and refrigerated overnight or frozen for later use.)

Spray a 12-inch pizza pan with non-stick cooking spray. Press dough into pan; pinch edges to form a rim. Prick surface of dough with fork. Bake at 475 degrees for 10 to 15 minutes or until golden. Yield: Two 12-inch pizza crusts.

Business Brief

Township man named director

William J. Pekar was recently appointed director of sales and marketing, North America by Batten Corp.

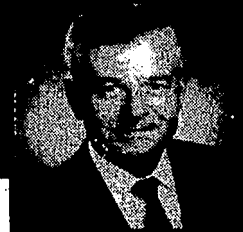

Pekar assumes responsibility for developing awareness of the technological expertise and capabilities of Batten Corp., a leader in design, engineering and manufacturing of engine and driveline components. He will work closely with the company's five divisions and its manufacturing representatives, developing strategies to supports and service Batten customers.

Drawing on 20-plus years' experience with Rockwell International and GKN Automotive in direct OEM sales, Pekar brings to Batten lots of capabilities and experience. At Rockwell, Pekar coordinated a new first just-in-time component delivery system for Mack Truck. Pekar rose to positions in sales and marketing via years in plant production and materials control.

Pekar attended Ohio State University and continued his education in management and international management at Michigan State and Cambridge University, respectively. He is a widower and the father of four children. The family resides in the Clarkston area.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

MEMORIES DON'T SELL

QUESTION: We are selling our home. It has a lot of good memories as we've lived here all our married lives. How do you keep your memories from getting in the way of the sale?

ANSWER: You are putting your house on the market and not your memories. To the critical buyer, a house for sale is not a home. After preparing your house to show to its best advantage, step into the background. Let the salesperson conduct inspection tours and answer questions objectively.

Don't let your reasons for selling overshadow the prospect's reasons for buying. Of course you'll be sad to leave your home, but try to push memories aside.

REMEMBER, when you sell your home, you are selling a house and not your memories.

Club surprises some with baskets, songs

About 15 people received a warm surprise over the holidays, thanks to one community group.

The American Business Women's Association, Inde-Spring Charter Chapter, went caroling before the holidays and visited 15 homes. For each family, the club members had a basket filled with food and gifts, donated by merchants and club members.

"We wanted to be able to help people," said Linda Sutton, a club member, who explained that Lighthouse North chose the basket recipients.

The Inde-Spring chapter of the club, named for Independence and Springfield townships where a majority of the members resided at the time, brings together women of diverse backgrounds. It provides opportunities to grow personally and professionally through leadership, education, networking support and national recognition.

Each year, the Inde-Spring chapter awards scholarship money to help women with higher education. Since the chapter was formed in 1979, more than 83,000 has been awarded in scholarship money, including $11,500 last year.

INSULATION

Some parents can't handle truth

Could parent be encouraging their teenagers to lie? Seventy-one percent of parents believe their teens lie at least on occasion, and 79 percent of teens admit they lie, according to a survey of 1,000 U.S. households conducted by IOF Foresters, a not-for-profit fraternal benefit society dedicated to helping families.

The survey asked both parents and teens how often teens lie. But experts say that even though parents invest a lot of time teaching their kids to be honest, as they grow older and the stakes of their misdoings grow higher, it is sometimes the parents' own responses to their kids' behavior that encourage teens to lie.

Parents, be honest. Do you avoid asking your kids tough questions because you're afraid to hear the truth? Do you try to force your opinions on your adolescent, making him afraid to tell you what he really thinks?

Here are some pointers for parent for how they can respond to their kids to encourage teens to open up more and tell the truth.

1. Get kids to talk by keeping your mouth closed. If your teen is telling you something, don't judge or lecture.
2. Ask for your child's opinions on the topics. A simple question like, "What do you think?" can get him talking.
3. Give separate punishments — one for the misdoing and one for lying. The way your child will experience how not telling the truth can cause him more trouble than the misbehavior itself.

4. Ask for your child's permission to give suggestions. A question like, "I'm worried about you; would you like to hear my opinions or talk about other options?" is more likely to be tolerated than launching into a lecture.

5. Ask if your child would rather talk to you with one of his friends joining in. That way he'll feel less threatened and be more open to telling the truth because he'll feel camaraderie.

6. Get involved in the nitty gritty of your teen's life. Be interested in who is dating who and what kid got in trouble at school. When you take your teens' lives seriously, they will talk more and lie less.

7. Don't make your rules so unrealistic that your child is forced to lie about his behavior.

8. Tell your teen exactly what you want in terms of knowing where he is going, the nature of the event, and when you can expect him home. That's a safety net he needs.

9. Let your child know that you and his friends' parents have open lines of communication and check in with each other.

10. Let an older sister or brother serve as confidant and barometer. Often teens will reveal a wrongdoing to an older sibling to gauge the severity of an act. Subconsciously, he may need to release guilt feelings without letting down his parents, and he may actually want word of his misdoing to get back to his parents in a round-about way so they will instill some controls.

One man's junk is another man's treasure.

More federal financial aid for college

More college-bound children of middle-income parents will be eligible for federal financial aid this year as a result of changes to financial aid rules.

As the Michigan Association of CPAs points out, that doesn't mean the process for obtaining aid is any easier or less competitive. Students should complete their financial aid applications as early in the year as possible, or risk losing the opportunity to obtain valuable aid.

Stafford Loans becomes less costly

The greatest amount of financial aid is available through Stafford Loans. Congress has made these loans more attractive by lowering the interest rate to 6.94 percent for loans taken out after Oct. 1, 1992. Every July 1, the rate will be adjusted to the Treasury Bill rate plus 3.1 percent, and is capped at 9 percent.

Congress has also made subsidized Stafford Loans more available to children of middle-income homeowners and other individuals who may not have qualified for these loans in the past.

Beginning July 1, 1993, home equity will no longer be a factor in determining a candidate's eligibility for federal financial aid. At the same time, the assets of families with adjusted gross incomes of $50,000 or less who don't itemize on their tax returns will not be considered in determining the family's financial need.

The maximum loan amounts have also increased. Qualified students may borrow up to $23,000 to finance their undergraduate educations and $65,500 to finance their graduate educations. Be aware, too, that unsubsidized Stafford Loans — those in which the government does not assume the interest charges while you are in school — are available for the first time to families who do not meet the federal financial aid requirements, as long as these families demonstrate their creditworthiness.

PLUS and SLS loans

PLUS and SLS loans are also available to anyone seeking financial assistance, regardless of their incomes. PLUS loans are for parents who want to borrow to help pay for their children's educations; Supplemental Loans for Students are for student borrowers.

Beginning July 1, 1993, parents can borrow up to the full cost of education, minus any other financial assistance they receive. Currently, they may borrow up to $4,000 a year. The amounts a student may borrow are also being increased next July from $4,000 a year to $4,000 for each of the first two years, and $5,000 per year for a student's junior and senior years. Repayments, including principal and interest, for both SLS and PLUS loans must begin within 60 days after the final loan disbursement.

Pell grants

Pell grants, available to first-time undergraduate students, do not need to be repaid. The grants are awarded purely on financial need and are available for the first time to students enrolled in college less than half-time. For the 1992-1993 academic year, the maximum grant is $2,400. The maximum grant will increase to $3,700 for the 1993-1994 year.

Campus-based programs

Additional financial assistance is usually available through programs administered by schools. These include Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants for undergraduates with exceptional financial needs; low-interest Perkins Loans, made available to both graduate and undergraduate students through a school's financial aid office; and the College Work Study Program, which provides jobs for undergraduate and graduate students who need financial aid.

How and when to apply for aid

Federal financial aid forms are available from high school guidance counselors and college financial aid offices. It takes about four weeks to process your application, and you may be contacted to confirm or correct information. Be sure you do so on a timely basis; missing a deadline may mean missing an opportunity to obtain financial aid.

The above information was provided by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.

Are your hands numb or painful?

Carpal tunnel syndrome can affect people from all walks of life who use their hands in repetitive movements. This may make it impossible to do simple tasks without pain. Other symptoms include numbness in the fingers or hands which can sometimes interfere with work, play or sleep.

Surgical treatment for this condition is done on an outpatient basis. A new surgical technique is now available to limit the surgery to two tiny incisions. After surgery, there is less pain and soreness, and a quicker return to your normal activities.

A Picture Can Be Worth A Thousand Words, That's Why We're Now Offering PHOTO ADS. Don't Just Tell Them... Show Them!

PHOTO ADS can be of autos, boats, musical instruments, antiques, pets, houses - whatever you want to sell (only one item per picture, please).

For only $20 the first week and $15 each additional week you can show and tell in a 3-1/4 inch by 2 inch high boxed ad. Take your own picture or bring the item to our office and we'll take it for you at no charge. In addition, to the picture, you can tell about your item in up to 35 words maximum.

Deadlines are 3 p.m. Friday prior to Wednesday's publication. PHOTO ADS must be paid when received at our office. If you wish to rerun your ad, bring a copy of the ad and $15. There is a $3 charge for wording changes.

Reproduction quality will depend upon sharpness of photos received with ad. "Show 'n Tell Photo Ads are for non-commercial accounts

Your Show 'n Tell Photo Ads will appear in the Oxford Leader, The Lake Orion Review and The Clarkston News reaching over 10,000 homes.

Winter day's play

KRISTINE SAWYER, 6, slides down the slide at recess at Clarkston Christian School. Since the slide had some ice on it the children said they could slide down even faster than before.

CHRIS SAJDACK, 6, a kindergarten student at Clarkston Christian School, balances himself as he crosses over a bar on the jungle gym. Sajdack and the other children from the school played in the cold weather with even colder bars, slides and swings.

Photos by Catherine Passmore

KRISTEN FAULKNER, 10, and her friend Lyndsey Plumm, 10 play hand games. The girls are fifth-grade students at Clarkston Christian School.

WILLIAM RODRIGUEZ, 7, braves the cold metal as he crosses the monkey bars at recess. William is a first-grade student at Clarkston Christian School on Clarkston Road, Independence Township.
