Portables approved for Clarkston High

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

To make room for the freshman at Clarkston High School next fall, the school district will buy four portable classrooms.

The Clarkston Board of Education approved the purchase April 26. The vote was 6-1, with Treasurer Kurt Karlstrom voting against the motion.

The administration recommended the portables because CHS won't be able to properly facilitate the 500 new students anticipated next fall. More efficient use of existing space and the building renovations covered under the $16.1 million bond issue will reclaim 18 rooms, administrators say, but 22 will be needed.

These four classrooms are expected cost around $160,000. However, it's uncertain if the board will approve four separate units or one four-section trailer. Competitive bids are expected by the May 4 board meeting.

Michael LaBay, deputy superintendent of instruction, said the portables are a "must."

"No one wants to spend this money," he said. "We've walked the building numerous times, trying to find other alternatives. There's no doubt that we need these portables."

Steve Lenar, deputy superintendent of business and operations, said the money for these portables would probably come from the budget's building and site fund. This fund acts as a "rainy day" fund for maintenance improvements, he said.

Lenar emphasized that the money for these portables wouldn't come from the recently passed bond issue.

Paul Van Klaveren, school board vice president, said he anticipated an increase in portables.

"Prior to the election, I considered the addition of just one portable to the high school as optimistic," he said. "I had a feeling we'd need more."

Karlstrom, who voted against the portables, said

Three sent to hospital in bus crash

A school bus carrying 40 elementary students was involved in an accident at the corner of Dixie Highway and M-15 Tuesday afternoon.

According to Kevin Bickerstaff, director of transportation for Clarkston Schools, the bus was struck about 4:15 p.m. He said the bus was proceeding north on Dixie Highway, when a southbound car turned out in front of it attempting to make a left hand turn onto M-15.

The bus had the right of way, while the car reportedly had a flashing red light in his left hand turn lane.

Three Pine Knob Elementary students were transported to Pontiac General Hospital after complaining of stiff necks, Bickerstaff said. The driver of the bus and the car were not hospitalized.

Bickerstaff said the bus suffered minimal damage to the front bumper and headlight. The car, however, was reportedly totalled.

Search for fire hall re-ignites in Independence

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

After a five-month layoff, an Independence Township-based search committee will again take up the task of trying to find a site for a new fire station.

Members of the Independence Township Board urged the search committee to reconvene at its April 20 meeting. It's been nearly a year since fire station No. 1 in Clarkston was sold to Dick and John Morgan in downtown Clarkston.

Next month, the township must start paying rent to the Morgans because their stay has exceeded a year. Under an agreement, the fire department will have to pay $2,000 a month plus taxes to stay in the building.

Early last year, the township had planned to build the new station near the intersection of M-15 and Dixie Highway. However, property owner Dr. James O'Neill withdrew his offer to donate the land because of public division over construction of a new station.

Many residents felt the township had no right to build such a building, when two prior bond issues had died at the polls.

Chief Gar Wilson said the search committee is primarily focusing on land along the M-15 corridor. He said said the proximity to such an important thoroughfare is vital.

"We want to try to stay under four minutes per response, and being located along M-15 would allow us to do so," he said. "Any other location could put this time in jeopardy."

However, Wilson said he'll look into a couple of leads regarding property near the intersection of White Lake Road and Dixie Highway, as well as Amy Drive. He said Dr. O'Neill is also willing to talk about land options again.

Township Trustee Jeffrey McGee asked why the fire department didn't consider a piece of land it owns at the corner of M-15 and Waldon. Wilson said this land lies with City of Clarkston's boundaries and that it wouldn't be viable to have the township's fire department in another municipality.

Wilson added that a two-story station would be necessary for this location, considering the land's topography. He said city officials are opposed to this site because they fear such a location would force M-15 to be widened to four lanes.

Wilson said the committee would attempt to meet as soon as possible. The group consists of township officials Mel Vaara, John Lutz, Joan McCrary, and Wilson and residents Dale Ryan and George White.

better planning by the district could have alleviated this problem.

"I don't like the fact that we've reverted back to portables to take care of our class needs, when we just passed a bond issue for that very reason," he said. "Our district should have seen this coming and planned for it ahead of time."

"I can think of a lot of areas in the district where we could better spend this money," Karlstrom added.

Karlstrom also faults the district's architectural consultant, Greiner, Inc., for not being able to complete scheduled renovations to CHS' media center, which would have freed up space and additional construction time in the school.

He expects the media center to be completed by the start of the 1994-95 school year, whereas it was supposed to be done by this fall.

Board haggles over trash-toting Clarkstonites

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

The Independence Township Board has agreed to let city residents participate in the upcoming Spring Cleanup Days, but not without reservations.

On April 20, the board voted 5-2 to let Clarkstonites enjoy the same privileges as township residents regarding this annual event.

Supervisor Dale Stuart and trustees Bruce Mercado, Jeffrey McGee, Daniel Travis and Mel Vaara voted in

"The people of Clarkston voted to become a city, so they should be responsible for their own services."

Clerk Joan McCrary

favor of the motion. Clerk Joan McCrary and Treasurer John Lutz voted against it.

The Clarkston City Council approved the measure unanimously April 26.

Spring Cleanup Days are slated for Saturdays, May 15 and 22, at the Independence Department of Public Works on Flemings Lake Road.

McCrary said city residents should either be charged a non-resident fee or not participate at all. She said equal participation wouldn't be fair to township residents.

"They're no different than someone coming in from Brandon or Rochester," she said. "The people of Clarkston voted to become a city, so they should be responsible for their own services."

Travis said this event originated in the hopes of cleaning up some of the dump sites found in the rural parts of the township. He said the village doesn't appear to have a problem with abandoned junk.

Stuart was in favor of equal treatment because he thought it'd be a good gesture to the fledgling city. Mercado agreed, even though he thought the move to be unjust.

"I'm going to vote yes on this because it will serve as a good gesture," he said, "but I still think it's unfair to township residents for outsiders to participate in this event."

Board approves teacher layoffs

At the end of this school year, seven teachers will lose their jobs.

On April 26, the Clarkston Board of Education unanimously voted to lay off these instructors. According to the administration, this personnel reduction was made for four reasons.

They include: the overall financial posture of the district, the uncertainty of the level of funding of education by the State of Michigan for the 1993-94 school year, the return from leave of four staff members and the anticipated decline in enrollment at Oakland Technical Center-Northwest Campus.

The teachers to be released include: Mary Reed, elementary music; Lynda Faught, kindergarten teacher at North Sashabaw Elementary; Heather Smith, fourth-grade teacher at Pine Knob Elementary; Esther Andrews, dental assisting teacher at OTC-N; Art Kuney, diesel engine repair teacher at OTC-N; Michelle Kusnier, floral design and greenhouse teacher at OTC-N; and Hanan Spencer, sixth-grade teacher at Clarkston Junior High.

$1,600 in sod OK'd

To sod or not to sod? That was the question at the April 26th Clarkston City Council meeting.

In a 5-1 vote with Steven Secatch abstaining, the council decided to pay the $1,600 place sod on M-15, where the road had been widened. The state contractor will do the work, and the city will pay the state for the service.

Karen Sanderson cast the lone no vote. Secatch abstained because he lives near the area in question.

Impromptu performance

CALLED from their seats in the audience, the Clarkston High School Barbershop Ensemble gives an unexpected performance. The group, which practices for 45 minutes a week as an extra-curricular activity, competes at the state level this week, earning that right after winning top ratings from judges at district levels. They performed before their peers last Friday when the scheduled entertainment, the Friars from the University of Michigan Men's Glee Club, arrived late. Directing the group is Grayce Warren. (Photo by Julie Campe)

CHS is accredited for school year

Clarkston High School has a long tradition of accreditation, and this year won't be any different.

CHS Principal Jim Goebel announced last week that the school's North Central Association accreditation has been extended through the remainder of the 1992-93 school year. This action was taken at the NCA's annual meeting in Chicago on April 7.

"Along with hosting periodic on-site evaluations by a visiting team of educators, each NCA school is accredited on the basis of an annual report on conditions in the school and on such supplementary information as the Commission on schools requests," Goebel explained. "The continued accreditation means that the conditions for effective education exist in the school."

The North Central Association is the largest of the country's regional accrediting agencies. It's a voluntary coalition of over 7,000 schools and over 1,000 colleges and universities in the 19-state region of the central U.S. The association works with schools to improve the quality of education through a continuous process of accreditation and evaluation.

$15,000 goes to library

The Indence Township Library has been given a $15,000 grant to help beef up its children's reference section.

Library Director Mollie Lynch said the federal grant money was made possible by the Library Services Construction Act. She said the $15,000 will be used to buy about 790 books for the children's section.

Science and history books and biographies will be the top priority items, Lynch said. Some audio-visual equipment will also be purchased with the federal funds.

Lynch will begin ordering these materials in May, when the money is made available.

Plat given first OK

A 33-acre subdivision has received its first approval at the township level.

On April 20, the Independence Township Board unanimously granted tentative preliminary plat approval to the "Strawberry Hills" development. This 10-lot subdivision is proposed for the west side of M-15, south of Rattalee Lake Road.

Located in a pasture-like setting, this subdivision would be served by well and septic systems. Acceleration, deceleration and passing lanes are proposed for the development's M-15 entrance.

This site plan must gain two more approvals from the township board before construction can begin.

Letter to the editor

Outstanding post

Dear Knights of Columbus, Clarkston Post:

I am writing on behalf of the parent group from Montgomery Developmental Training Center.

Montgomery is a center program that covers Clarkston, Holly, Brandon, Waterford, Ortonville, Highland and Huron school districts.

It is a center for children who need special training and require special equipment for everyday tasks that we all take for granted.

I can't tell you how grateful we are for your recent and past donations to our group. You are truly an organization that gives full circle back to its community. Your group works hard on its fund-raisers and not only gives to our group but many other groups that service the disabled in and around our community.

We have always supported your Tootsie Roll sale because we know first-hand that all the money you make goes back to a lot of worthwhile groups.

I am truly sorry about the mix-up regarding the night of the presentation but am most grateful that we were considered for the donation.

Your donations have made teachers and aides at the center very happy. It is very difficult to work with these children, and it takes a lot of adaptive equipment for their training.

I'm listing a few of the things that were so badly needed and because of your donation we were able to purchase them: clocks, adaptive puzzles, play money, sequence cards, portable speech mirrors, alphabet Bingo, listening discrimination blocks, activity books, educational games, toys to help stimulate learning, bean bags to make it easy for them to sit, a TV set, activity and talking books and much more.

The parent group and the staff and most of all the children and young adults at Montgomery thank you for the bottom of their hearts. It is groups like yours that make life and living a little more simple for our special kids.

Opinions

Editorial

Pets part of some families, too

In the Clarkston community and perhaps in others, pets are almost as much a part of the family as children.

This week, we recognize the role that pets play in our lives by showing a few area residents and their pets and by inviting advertisers to devote space just to pets.

Whether they're dogs, cats, birds or horses, it seems that pets are a positive part of peoples' lives.

For instance, they're good company — for the elderly, for the young and for those in their middle years. They don't demand a lot of attention — just daily meals, a pat now and then, and routine trips to the veterinarian. And they're just plain nice to have around.

As one person said this week, they accept you even on a bad day.

So take a moment this week to consciously appreciate your pet or your relatives' pets or your neighbors' pets. A little extra attention goes a long way in a pet's life.

About staff editorials

We at The Clarkston News realize that an important duty of a newspaper is to provide more than just the facts found in news stories.

Since we're out there uncovering the news, we get an inside look at the issues. In our staff editorials, we will give our opinions on those issues, just as other writing on this page — letters and columns — also offers opinions.

We leave the editorials unsigned because we've written them as a staff. Every week, we talk about the issues and take notes on everyone's opinions. Then one of us writes it and the rest of us change it until we're all satisfied.

While our opinions aren't always unanimous, our editorials reflect the majority views of the staff. If the staff splits evenly on an issue, we'll write two editorials on the subject.

We welcome your response to our views.

Julie Campe's column will return next week.

Jim's Jottings

More on Arizona

Jim Sherman

There is no practical, back-roads way to go from Tucson, Arizona to Yuma, AZ. It's expressway or horseback once you get to the Ajo/Gila Bend road.

Between the Mexican border and I-8 and 115 miles west to east the land is all Luke Air Force Range. Fact is, a whole bunch of Arizona is devoted to the Air Force and Army.

Ex-Senator Goldwater did a good job getting money for his state in Washington for land that's absolutely useless and, except for our government, worthless. One big range has his name on it.

The only reason I wanted to go to Yuma is because I wanted to visit what is usually the hottest spot in Arizona. Also, the Gila River meets the Colorado river north of Yuma and I wanted to see the flooded, ruined lettuce crop the winter rains supposedly caused.

I did see some flooding, but no spoiled lettuce. Yuma may get hot, but it has thousands of acres of irrigated farm land. It looks prosperous.

So, up highway 95 to Quartzsite, Parker, Lake Havasu and Bullhead City.

Several miles south of Quartzsite, Hazel and I wondered to each other what all the motor and mobile homes were doing scattered around the desert. There were hundreds of them. They were in no pattern.

I thought Yuma was the land of RV's until I saw Quartzsite. We were told people can park their RV's in the desert all season for $50.

Quartzsite is at the I-10 and US-95 junction. It's a flea market-convenience store settlement. After a hot dog in an off-track betting saloon-country-western dance hall (lost $2 on No. 6) we scooted north 35 miles to Parker for the night.

Parker is known for its dam. It's the deepest dam in the U.S. You can't tell by looking at it. The depth comes from its over-200 feet of footings below ground (water).

It's a nice, scenic area with numerous camp sites on the Colorado River where it runs through the Buckskin Mountains.

I remember reading ads in Parade magazine over 20 years ago urging us to buy lots in Lake Havasu, Arizona. I don't remember the price. However, prices didn't change much from the time chain saw maker Robert McCulloch started developing it until three years ago.

That's when Californians started fearing earthquakes and came over, causing prices to triple. McCulloch bought Britain's London Bridge in 1968 and rebuilt it at Lake Havasu, and this $8 million investment helped him make over $100 million on the project.

The down side is McCulloch started it at age 60 and died at age 68. His name is very prominent there, as it should be.

Sixty-two miles further north is Bullhead City, which is more often referred to as being across the river from a gamblers' haven, Laughlin, Nevada.

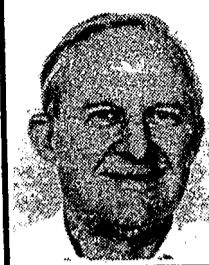

Few should want to live in Bullhead City, but it's growing fast. Zoning and planning for B-City is missing. It's a hodge-podge of car part-repair shops, convenience stores, gaud and clutter stretching a few miles on US-95.

No, we didn't look at housing.

Stretching the year

This innovation, No. 9, concludes our series on "The Perfect School." Our group would like to thank Jamie Wittenberg, owner of Clarkston Tutorial Services, for bringing this interesting article to our attention.

Stretching the year

The Japanese Ministry of Education had the nation in an uproar last year. It declared that public school students had to attend school three rather than four Saturdays a month, cutting Japan's school year from 240 to 228 days. Opponents took to the airwaves and editorial pages to proclaim the ruination of Japanese education.

The brouhaha in Japan no doubt seems curious to U.S. students, who attend school an average of 180 days a year. Only 11 schools in the entire country — five public and six private — are in session more than 210 days a year. On average, as a result, Japanese students attending 12 years of school received the equivalent of 16 years of schooling in America. Comparisons with other advanced nations are only slightly less troubling. "The length of the school year is the most impregnable bastion in American education," says Milton Goldberg, head of a national commission that is studying issues of time in U.S. education.

There is a strong case to be made for extending the nation's school year. In a 1991 review of 100 research projects, Herbert Walberg of the University of Illinois at Chicago found that in nine out of 10 instances student achievement rises with the amount of time in class. A 1989 study of students taking an international math test found that Japanese students had studied 98 percent of the precalculus and calculus topics on the test, while their U.S. counterparts had been taught only 50 percent. Half of the Japanese performed as well as the top 5 percent of Americans.

A longer school year also allows students to take more courses. To Greg Cash, a junior at Parry McCluer High School in Buena Vista, Va., where a 218-day school year is broken into four quarters, a longer school calendar means being able to enroll in a college-level biology course this winter. He took a required prerequisite in chemistry during the last summer quarter, where courses run four hours in length. Though summer quarter is voluntary, 60 percent of the school's 400 students enroll.

Backsliding. Research reveals that kids lose a lot of ground educationally while letting their minds lie fallow during the summer. The New York Board of Regents has found, for example, that teachers spend on average the first month of the fall semester reteaching material forgotten over the summer. The problem is particularly acute for students from impoverished families because they often have fewer opportunities to learn during summer vacations. The New York study found that affluent students gain an average of one month of knowledge during the summer; disadvantaged students lose three to four months.

Extending the school year does not have to break the educational bank. Teacher salaries, air conditioning and transportation are the largest expenses. Charles Ballinger, executive director of the National Association for Year-Round Education, a California-based advocacy group, estimates it would cost $880 million a day to increase the school year nationwide, or about 20 percent less than the daily costs of the regular 180-day year. However, Beacon High School, a small private school in Oakland, Calif., is open 240 days a year and charges only $6,000 in tuition, less than the average public school spends per student. Beacon manages this by keeping a bare-bones administrative staff and paying its teachers about $32,000 for 12 months' work, less than the typical public school teachers earn under a nine-month contract.

A decade ago, the authors of "A Nation at Risk" argued that the U.S. school year should be as long as 220 days. Their recommendation is still a solid one. Of course, lengthening the academic year in schools plagued by other problems isn't likely to yield great returns in academic achievement. The best strategy? Increase the quality and the quantity of schooling in America.

*Aura of nifty eateries,
'55 nuptials continues*

Jim Fitzgerald

On Wednesday, just in time, the mail brought me a snapshot of a Walled Lake street sign. I went right out and bought my wife some flowers.

Two streets named on the sign are Indiana and Angola. If that information enables you to figure out why I bought flowers, I'm not surprised. I've been writing columns for 42 years, and I long ago stopped being surprised by anything a reader might do.

Jerry Smith of Walled Lake, for instance. He sent the picture, along with a note saying: "Since it is your 38th wedding anniversary, you might want to take your wife" back to the scene of the crime. "To save you the long drive to Indiana, bring her out to Walled Lake as there is a street sign for Angola and Indiana off of South Commerce Road just past Nifty Norman's restaurant."

I've never met Jerry Smith. It has been 13 years since, on my silver anniversary, I wrote about getting married in Angola. I'm touched that Smith somehow not only remembered the April 21, 1955, anniversary date but also acknowledged it with the gift of a color photo. I have close relatives who wouldn't give me directions, let alone a street sign.

When I take my wife to see the sign, we'll stop at Nifty Norman's. I've always fed her at nifty eateries. When we were dating, 40 years ago, I regularly took her to our town's finest restaurant where, if reservations were made far enough in advance, the management would attach trays to both sides of your car.

I eloped with a bookkeeper named Pat. She kept the books at the newspaper where I sold advertising and wrote columns. I preferred eloping to a ho-hum hometown wedding because I thought the unusual experience would furnish good column material. Pat had to go along because I owed our boss money for wrecking a company car and he had ordered her not to let me out of her sight.

In those days, Angola, Ind., was an elopement capital. You could buy a marriage license, blood test and brief ceremony all in one day if you didn't mind standing in lines. In case she needed evidence later, my bride took snapshots. One shows me standing in line reading a newspaper outside the justice of the peace's office.

Many years later, when our daughters saw that picture, they asked their mother how she could marry a clod so insensitive he read a newspaper at his own wedding. Pat said it was part of her job as company bookkeeper.

After the wedding, the romantic aura continued. We ate our marriage supper in a bowling alley in Muncie, Ind., and our first night was spent in a travel court containing five tiny units so close together they all used the same screen door.

We proceeded on to Ft. Knox, Ky., so Pat could tingle at the sight of the site from which her new husband launched the military career that ultimately meant victory for the United States in World War II. She wasn't at all surprised that I used our honeymoon to revisit scenes of my Army glory. After all, she'd just recently learned I was so military that, nine years after my honorable discharge, I still wore khaki underwear.

Thirty-eight years later, I've been overhearing conversations indicating our only son is getting married in July. There is much earnest talk about dresses for the bridesmaids, a church for the nuptials and a hall for the reception. I haven't been asked for advice.

My daughters had regular weddings. I already have one grandchild married the old-fashioned way, and the others will most likely follow suit. For some "day-to-remember-forever" reasons I've never quite understood, most people prefer all that traditional ceremony and hoopla.

Eloping is suspect because it's swift and cheap, like fast food. But it surely paid off for me, and my wedding-day memories couldn't possibly be any better even if there'd been a sit-down dinner for 500.

My wife has been the best bookkeeper a husband could ever want. If I'd known in 1955 what I know now, I'd have driven faster to Angola, even if I didn't need column material.

My dog's so misunderstood

I get a kick out of taking my dog into public because I love to gauge the reaction of passersby.

You see, I own a Chow Chow, and it seems everybody has an opinion on the breed. When seeing "Candy," people either fall in love with her teddy bear looks or rear back in fright.

Granted, Chows do have a sordid reputation. If I had a dollar for every psychotic Chow story I ever heard, well, you wouldn't be reading this column. I'd be relaxing on my own desert island in the south Pacific.

Fact is, Candy does have an attitude. But this is indicative of the breed. Chows are a lot like cats in that they're very independent and stubborn. The two of us have had more than one run-in where neither one of us will back down.

She'll growl at me, I'll growl back. They usually end with a swat in the fanny, and her being tossed into the back yard. But as feisty as she is, she's always the first one to make up. For some reason, she hates to end a fight on bad terms. She'd prefer to lick me from head to toe instead.

My wife and I picked a Chow as our first dog because of their reputed self-reliance. We both work a lot, and the long hours alone would be hard on your average dog.

I still remember the day we went to check her out. She was the runt of the litter. Barely eight weeks old, she was adorable. She looked just like a little Ewoc from the Star Wars' movies.

When it came down to choosing one, we had the selection narrowed down to her and a male called "Beaster." Well, needless to say, Beaster was a big, clumsy dog. He bumped into everything. And he was already big for his age.

His dad weighed over 100 pounds and looked like a bear. He really made an impression when he entered the room, let me tell you.

So, we picked the runt because we didn't want to scare the neighbors with "Beaster."

Well, it's been nearly 1 1/2 years, and I don't regret our choice. At 40 pounds, she's the perfect size, and her temperament is a lot better. Candy's a terrific watch dog, which is also a nice perk.

She's actually been good for us because she's given us a glimpse of what we'll be in store for as parents someday. We have to feed her, bathe her and sometimes clean up after her. We even take her to school — obedience school that is.

But once in a while, she regresses and flares that smug Chow "attitude." I guess I can't blame her. I mean she is a reporter's dog.

Much to know when searching

BY VIRGINIA BLOCK

The times they are a' changin' as the saying goes. My introduction to "doing family history" (whatever could be done with notes Mom gave me from the family bible) led me into the library in Toledo, Ohio at first.

The methods available to research were much more difficult to use, involved much travel and lots of letter writing. This past week, getting onto a genealogy "bill-board" on the computer, posting a query I'd been seeking answers for over 10 years, I had the answer later the same evening.

Our apologies to Vi in Leonard, whom we mistakenly called Velma in our reference to her in a previous column.

We are bringing out a book this week that lists the persons in 1919 that lived on rural, mail routes (R.D.'s) in 1919 in Pontiac, Birmingham, and Farmington. It would perhaps help those in this area needing info that probably is in the 1920 Federal Census. (Children are listed, too.)

The Genealogical Helper is a publication with hundreds of surnames for home searching, and armchair researchers, as well as furnishing sources for much valuable "finding" aid. The subscription is low priced considering the time and travel money saved.

As we come to the point of summer searching, we know many of you will be headed with cameras to cemetery checking, and suggest that a powder puff and a coffee can of flour carried in your car makes reading lettering on older tombstones easier. Dusting the stone with the flour does no harm while washing away with the next good rain.

We have discovered the best method for preserving or copying our treasured photos is to have them copied by a color-xerox machine (regardless of whether they are black and white), we have a perfect reproduction for album display and the original may be safely stored in archival boxes.

Your original documents (birth and death, marriage or will etc.) need the same protection and we buy archival sheet protectors for under $8 per hundred to place in a 3-ring binder notebook.

If we sound repetitive in some things mentioned, many are new to the column and we like to be sure of the help being there for newcomers.

HAPPY HUNTING.

Warrant issued in assault case

A warrant was issued for the arrest of a Springfield Township man, who is being charged with assaulting his wife.

The Oakland County Sheriff's Department was called a home on Bridge Lake Road, Springfield Township, by the victim of an assault April 24.

According to the police report, a 24-year-old woman reported that she had been attacked by her 27-year-old husband.

She told police that he had purchased cocaine at a wedding reception the night before and was to pay for it on the 24th. The report said he asked her for money and she refused because it was for groceries.

She told the police she left the home for the store and when she returned an hour and a half later he demanded money again. After she refused the second time, he allegedly began to slap her on the arms and body. She went into the children's room and crawled in the corner of the bottom bunk.

At this time she said he tried to pull her off the bed and when he couldn't do that he lifted the top bunk up and slammed it down on her, dislocating her shoulder.

The woman took her three small children and called the police from a neighbor's phone. The warrant, issued April 27, was issued on charges of felonious assault.

Recreational pilot lived life fully, inspired others

BY JIM VICK
AND DENNIS TAMER

Jun Kojima is a name that many people in Preston, Miss., may not recognize.

Jun, a retired engineer from General Motors, lived with his wife Dee off of Highway 397. Half of the year was spent in Michigan at their other home, so many may not have had the opportunity to know them very well.

Jun was a person of many facets and talents. In many ways, he was larger than life.

A great majority of men have dreams and desires that remain in their hearts but are never realized. These men lack the ability and the drive to fulfill these dreams and to obtain their desires.

Not so with Jun. He would never settle for, "I wish I could do that."

June would say, "I can do it!" and he would then proceed.

Unlike most men, Jun had the knowledge, the skill, the ambition and the courage to succeed ... at anything. Challenges were never viewed as obstacles — they were fuel for his existence. It seemed as if he could get a handle on anything that came his way.

From the time he was a small boy, he had the passion for flying airplanes and had the guts, patience and knowhow to build his own plane. During the last year, he had successfully flown it many hours.

Jun always had a zest for living life to the fullest and had that notorious pilot's grin. His happiness was contagious; his personality was magnetic, and his attitude was uplifting.

It took years of painstaking work to build his plane, but he saw it through to the end, and I will never forget the day he took off from Key Field in Meridian and WTOK-TV provided news coverage of it. All of us in Preston who knew him shared in his triumph.

On Easter Sunday, April 11, 1993, he had a date with destiny, and it was time for him to fly off into the sunset, leaving the people and things he loved behind. Jun had prepared for his date with destiny because of the way he lived his life. He and Dee were very active in their church activities, and they felt at home doing their part to help serve others in need.

Jun exemplified the best ideals of a person. He had more guts than most of us, and he inspired some to challenge their imagination and set their goals a little higher by witnessing what he had accomplished by seeing this very difficult project through to completion.

He died pursuing his dream, but we want to thank you, Jun, for letting us share your dream to build a machine that would allow you to soar with the eagles.

We will miss you, buddy.

Jim Vick of Mississippi and Dennis Tamer of Southfield were friends of the late Jun Kojima, formerly of Clarkston, who was killed in a plane crash April 11.

Carter legacy continues to help Clarkston youth

BY DOUG CARLSON

Since 1963, the names Carter and Youth Assistance have been synonymous in the Clarkston area.

Although Al Carter donated considerable time to a variety of community service activities, his first love was summer camp. In addition to being chairman of the camp committee, he also worked tirelessly on fund-raisers and personal recruitment in order to send more kids to camp.

When Al died in 1987, the Clarkston Area Youth Assistance established the Alfred Carter Memorial Camp

Fund. Other memorial fund-raisers were held to pay tribute to Al's memory and to raise funds for summer camp.

Sylvia Carter moved to Clarkston 16 years ago when she married Al. Because of her husband's interest in others, Sylvia soon became involved in such community programs/ projects as Special Olympics and the Youth Assistance Summer Camp Program. Each year, Sylvia has selected the "Most Improved Camper" from that year's list of campers. She also organized the annual gospel concert, which provides money for each year's camp.

Youth Assistance recently asked Sylvia to jot down a few lines in remembrance of her late husband. This is what she wrote:

"Alfred Carter may have passed on to a better world, but his memory is everlasting; just as the perennial flower makes its presence known each season, the memory of al continues.

"Al's philosophy was, 'In helping others, you help yourself be a better person.' I believe that Clarkston Youth Assistance volunteers continue to keep this philosophy alive throughout the years in helping young people achieve their goals to make the world a better place by always doing their best."

Sylvia is now leaving Clarkston and relocating to Kansas City. Although she is leaving us physically, the Carter name will forever be associated with Clarkston Area Youth Assistance.

Sylvia leaves with our sincere thanks for a job well done and our best wishes in all her future endeavors. She will be missed.

Doug Carlson of Independence Township is a member of Clarkston Area Youth Assistance.

SYLVIA Carter is moving to Kansas City. She and her late husband, Al Carter, volunteered for the Clarkston Area Youth Assistance.

HEARTWORM TESTING?
Heartworm is a deadly disease transmitted to dogs via mosquito bites. It can be prevented by annual blood testing and administering preventative medicine to your pet.

There has been a noted increase in the amount of "occult" (undetectable) heartworm disease in dogs. In many cases adult worms in the heart go unnoticed because they are not producing the microfilaria (offspring) for which your pet is currently being tested. It has been discovered that the advancement of heartworm preventatives has resulted in the sterilization of adult worms in the hearts of some pets. The recommendation of the American Heartworm Society is the administration of an antigen test, recently made available to detect the existence of these adult heartworms. So make sure your dog receives this "occult" test!!

Family raises special puppy

Mike and Sheri Bond of Clarkston have extended their family to include one very active and lovable ball of fur.

Brandy, an 11-month-old golden retriever is the second dog the Bonds are raising as part of a foster puppy program through Paws with a Cause.

While raising and nurturing Brandy is a family project, the primary caretaker is the 14-year-old DJ.

"DJ always has the choice of owning his own dog or raising a Paws dog," said Sheri.

But DJ seems to like to raise the puppies that will eventually be trained as service dogs that will assist people who are physically challenged.

The responsibilities DJ has undertaken with his foster dog include teaching Brandy basic obedience and making sure the dog is socialized. Together, DJ and Brandy work at perfecting those obedience skills through the Oakland County Canine 4-H program.

Although DJ is Brandy's "handler," the other family members also help him work with the dog. Sheri said that "when working with a Paws dog, it's important that they don't bond too strongly with the person that's raising them. That could cause problems when the dog returns to school."

Family raises puppy for a cause

Bond household. He was donated to Paws when he was 9 months old.

When he is about 1 1/2 years old he will leave his foster family to "attend school" at Paws With A Cause headquarters in Byron Center. There Brandy will be taught more extensive basic obedience and advanced training, which will help prepare the youngster for the tasks he will perform as a Paws service dog.

Training includes pulling a wheelchair, opening and closing doors, fetching and retrieving fallen objects and many other tasks necessary to assist a physically challenged person.

Both Paws service and hearing dogs have legal public access throughout the nation. Because Brandy is being raised as a future Paws service dog, the Bonds usually have permission to bring him to public places. They have taken him to bowling alleys, the Renaissance Center in Detroit, Huckleberry Farms and shopping malls. This helps socialize the dog and makes it feel comfortable in public situations.

DJ, Sheri, Brandy and five other foster puppies and their families met recently at the Oakland Mall. It was a "work" and "play" outing. The dogs were observed by Lynn Hoekstra, Paws regional director, to see how they behaved in public. Brandy and his pals climbed stairs, rode elevators, and mingled with the shoppers. All the dogs were well behaved.

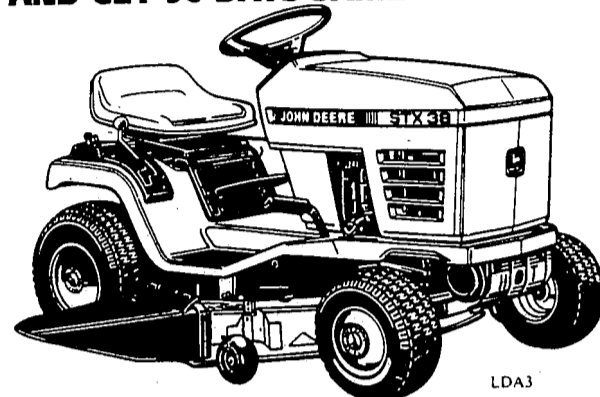

Brandy is the second foster dog that DJ and his family are raising. When it is time for him to be returned to Paws, they are getting another puppy. The new puppy will be placed in their home just before Brandy leaves. Because foster families get attached to the dogs it is sometimes hard to return them.

Sheri said, "It helps to have an overlap." That way, the families have a new dog already in the home to replace the one going off to school.

Paws With A Cause is a non-profit organization, partially funded through United Way. It raises hearing and service dogs. For more information on Paws and the foster puppy programs, call (313) 693-9789.

Business Brief

Business owner on talk radio

The owner of a Clarkston-area pool and spa business was featured on the Glen Haeg Show on AM 1270 Talk Radio in April.

Pete Gannon, owner and president of Poolmart Spas in Independence Township, is certified by the National Spa and Pool Institute and is past president of the NSPI. Gannon answered lots of questions about pool chemistry on Haeg's show.

"It was a lot of fun," said Gannon about the experience. "Glen Haeg is very professional."

And just what is the most frequently asked question this time of year?

"When can I open my pool?" quoted Gannon, who said the cooler April and May days are the ideal time to open a pool because the cooler temperatures mean fewer chemicals are needed.

And it means pool owners don't have to do a lot of cleaning to get it up and running. He said opening it now is a much better option than waiting until a very hot day when everyone wants to jump into the pool when it's not ready.

And for those who would rather only swim and not fuss with chemicals and cleaning, Gannon suggests automation.

"Pools are getting more automatic," he said. "With two parents both working, time is short. We can actually turn a pool almost totally automatic."

With automatic chlorinators, timers, filters and cleaners, a person could spend five minutes a month maximum to keep a pool in good condition.

"All you have to do is swim," Gannon said with a laugh.

Poolmart Pool and Spa is in its 14th year of business on M-15, just north of Dixie Highway.

Plant peas early for good yields

You can plant peas in the spring for an early summer harvest or in the summer for a fall harvest, but the best yields usually come from a spring crop — and the earlier you plant, the better.

Peas are one of the earliest spring vegetables, says Tom Stebbins, master gardener specialist at Michigan State University, East Lansing. They can go into the garden as soon as the soil is dry enough to work.

To test soil moisture, squeeze a handful of soil, Stebbins suggests. If it sticks together like a muddy ball when you open your hand, it's too wet. If it crumbles, it's ready to be worked.

Almost any well drained soil is suitable for peas, he notes, as long as it's not extremely acid. The other site requirements are full sun and plenty of water during dry weather, especially if pea pods are forming.

Early planting is recommended because peas don't produce well in hot weather, Stebbins explains. Summer-planted peas come into production after the worst of the summer's heat, but the spring crop is still usually the better one. Sow pea seeds 1 inch deep and 2 to 3 inches apart in rows 2 feet apart. Peas do not need much nitrogen, and contact with commercial fertilizers may injure seeds, so use a low-nitrogen fertilizer such as 5-20-20 at the rate of 4 cups per 100 square feet. Mix half in the soil about 2 weeks before planting.

Vining peas will need some sort of support to grow on. Even dwarf or compact plants will be easier to harvest if they have some support.

Be sure pea fencing is sturdy, Stebbins notes. A flimsy fence may collapse under the weight of the vines or blow down in a spring windstorm.

Harvest edible-podded peas when the peas are just beginning to form, and eat the whole thing, pod and all. You can wait until the peas are big enough to shell, but you lose a good part of your harvest that way, Stebbins notes. Harvest garden peas when pods are firm and well filled out but before they start to shrivel and change color. Old peas lose their sweetness and become starchy and tough.

For top quality and best flavor, eat or freeze peas as soon as possible after harvest, Stebbins advises.

The above information was provided by Outreach Communications, Michigan State University, East Lansing. For more information, call L. Johnson at 517-336-1555 or T. Stebbins at 517-353-3774.

AFTER-SCHOOL hours don't mean television for these youngsters. Instead, one day a week they head off to the Oakland Technical Center-Northwest Campus, where they've

Fire department to buy washers

The Independence Township Fire Department has been given the green light to buy a pair of new washer-extractors.

The purchase of these two $2,500 machines was unanimously approved by the Independence Township Board April 20. They will be used to wash the firefighters' heavy-duty suits.

Chief Gar Wilson said the uniforms are presently being washed by a conventional washer, which is "tearing them apart." He said these new machines can safely wash the suits, while adequately removing blood and smoke stains.

Wilson said the current washer will be used to wash towels and more conventional items. These new extractors will be placed at stations 2 and 3.

Springfield gets new fire truck

The Springfield Township Fire Department added another pumper to its ranks this past weekend.

On Saturday, April 17, a $125,000 fire truck was delivered to Chief Marlan Hillman and his fire fighters. The new pumper, which holds 1,000 gallons of water, was paid for with cash from the fire department's budget.

With this latest addition, Springfield now has four full-service fire trucks at its disposal. Hillman said this new pumper will replace his oldest truck, which has been demoted to reserve status.

Hillman is presently awaiting the delivery of some other equipment for the new truck. He said it should be reading for action in about three weeks.

Man indicted on income tax charges

A Clarkston-area man was indicted April 16 on charges of failing to file federal income tax returns.

Gerald R. Hickman, 46, is charged with failure to file returns on more than $136,000 in income between 1986 and 1988, according to U.S. Attorney Stephen J. Markman.

If convicted, Hickman faces penalties of up to one year imprisonment and a maximum of $100,000 in fines for each year he failed to file tax returns, in addition to whatever civil payments, penalties and interest are owed by him to the IRS.

The charges were part of an enforcement initiative targeting nonfilers. The Department of Justice and the Internal Revenue Service have made it a priority to investigate and prosecute cases against those who fail to file returns or evade taxes, said Markman.

Parade days set

Get out those lawn chairs, American flags and sun screen — parade season is quickly coming up.

The Clarkston City Council unanimously approved a resolution April 26, which will be sent to the county and Michigan Department of Transportation stating when the roads will close for parades.

To mark your calendars, here are the parade dates for 1993: The Memorial Day Parade is Monday, May 31; the Fourth of July Parade is Saturday, July 3; the Labor Day Parade is Monday, Sept. 6; and the Clarkston High School Homecoming Parade is Saturday, Oct. 2.

Flag poles part of memorial

Flag thieves may soon be thwarted.

The Clarkston City council voted unanimously April 26 to erect new flag poles — one in Depot Park and the other at the corner of Main and Washington streets.

The new flag poles come equipped with internal ropes, which should allow employees to raise and lower the flags without a ladder and should prevent theft of the flags.

The poles will come from Michigan Flag Pole Co. in Canton. Each pole costs $1,570 plus $475 to remove existing poles. The money for the poles was donated by the Ruth Basinger Memorial Fund.

Wolves win four straight to open season

BY CURT MCALLISTER
Clarkston News Associate Editor

The Clarkston varsity softball team teed off on its competition last week to push its record to 4-0.

The Wolves toppled Lapeer East 6-5 on April 19, then swept Pontiac Northern three days later.

Against host Lapeer East, Clarkston found itself down 5-1 in the fifth inning before exploding for five runs to pull out a rain-soaked victory. The hero was senior Missy Phillips who knocked in three runs in the top of the fifth inning with a bases-loaded double.

The game was called after five innings because of intense rain, but it was enough to earn the win.

Freshman Crystal Lemke recorded two hits, two walks and two stolen bases for CHS. Fellow frosh Stephanie Giroux added a hit and two stolen bases.

Pitcher Heather Austin earned the win after relieving starter Erin Patterson in the first inning.

Coach Al Land was proud of his senior's relief work as well as his team's "never say die" attitude.

"Heather did an outstanding job to keep us in the game," he said. "We showed a lot of determination to come back and score five runs, with two outs in our last at bat, to win a shortened ball game."

On April 22, the Wolves had an easier time of it as they visited Pontiac Northern.

CHS earned mercy wins in both games, 21-1 and 21-6, including a no-hitter by Patterson in the opener. Working five innings, the junior struck out 10 Huskies, while walking four and allowing one run.

Offensively, the Wolves were paced by senior Alyson McChesney who had a grand slam. Junior Laura Seitz went 3 for 4 and added two stolen bases in the victory. Junior Amy Bishop also added two RBIs for CHS.

In the nightcap, Patterson grew tired and handed the pitching chores over to Lisa Rotundo. This was the first-ever pitching performance for the senior, who kept the Huskies in check after a five-run first inning.

Despite being down 5-4 after one inning, CHS rallied in the remaining four innings to cruise to victory. McChesney had a triple and scored three runs, while juniors Rebecca Bartlett, Amanda Van-Klaveren and Shawna Greene added two hits apiece.

Clarkston hosts Lake Orion on Thursday, April 29.

Swinging away

JV CATCHER Melinda Aska takes this one deep against Pontiac Northern April 22. That day, the Wolves took two from the visiting Huskies, 24-3 and 18-0.

CHS excels at big meet

The Clarkston varsity track teams garnered impressive showings at the West Bloomfield Invitational this past weekend.

The boys' team collected 20 points to take ninth place overall in their division, while the girls' squad grabbed fifth place honors with 37 points.

About 25 schools participated in the meet.

Senior Steve Locher won the pole vault competition with a vault of 13 feet. Teammate Kyle Powell took third in the shot put with a throw of 49'2 1/2". The senior also claimed fourth in the discus with a heave of 139'1".

The girls' squad won a first-place medal with the shuttle hurdle relay team of Cara Rayner, Shannon Binkley, Nikki Hard and Derenda Howard. They registered a time of 1:11.56.

Senior Rachel Seifferlein also took a second place medal in the discus with a throw of 105'1".

Both squads, who are 1-0 in the GOAL after beating Waterford Kettering last week, will travel to Pontiac Northern on Thursday, April 29.

First ace of season

Golf season has barely begun and someone has already claimed the area's first hole-in-one.

Richard Madinis of Troy got the gem April 25 at the Pine Knob Golf Course. Using a five-wood, he aced the seventh hole, which is Par 3 and 161 yards long.

JV POLE VAULTER Chris Saunders soars over the bar, but his pole eventually knocked it down. He failed to place in the meet against Grand Blanc.

Netters lose first, win next two

The Clarkston boys' tennis team kicked off their season two wins and one loss last week.

The loss was a tough one because it came at the hands of league-favorite Lake Orion.

The Wolves fell to the Dragons 4-3 on April 21.

The showdown started out well for CHS with No. 1 singles player Bobby Brazier beating his opponent 6-4, 6-3. However, Clarkston lost momentum as their No. 2-4 singles seeds bowed to their Orion opponents.

The Wolves tried to get back into it with their doubles' teams, but fell just short.

CHS' No. 1 doubles team Brendan

Kelly and Matt Babcock were victorious as was the No. 3 team of Jeremy Doty and Mike Kopec.

The next day, the Wolves traveled north to take on Lapeer West. They beat the Panthers 5-2.

Brazier won his singles match as did No. 4 seed Paul Wolven. Also winning were the doubles teams of Kelly-Babcock, Mark Chamberlain and Jon Tan, and Doty-Kopec.

On April 23, the Wolves visited league rival Waterford Mott and they sunk the Corsairs 5-2.

Earning victories in singles action were Brazier and Pat Wall at No. 3. Doubles winners included Chamberlain-Tan, Babcock-Doty and Kopec-Jeremy McMahon.

Soccer team garners win, tie

The Clarkston varsity soccer team kicked off league action last week with a win and a tie.

The Wolves tied Waterford Kettering 1-1 on April 19, and beat Lake Orion 1-0 two days later.

In both contests, the offense was dumped on the shoulders of junior Carrie Millen, who responded with a pair of goals. The all-conference center has three goals in three games for the Wolves (1-1-1) this season.

Against Kettering, CHS fought a downpour to earn the tie. Millen scored at the 75-minute mark, with an assist from

The Captains scored seven minutes later. Neither team could score in the remaining minutes or in overtime. Goalie Michelle Schroeder recorded 12 saves for the Wolves.

Versus Lake Orion, Clarkston scored early on a Millen goal. She was assisted by senior Amy Wiitala.

From then on, the defense dug in to preserve the victory. Schroeder claimed the shutout with eight saves.

The Wolves next game is April 30 when they host non-conference opponent Holly.

Legion's spaghetti dinner nets $950 for athletic boosters

Homemade spaghetti and good conversation marked last week's fund-raiser for the Clarkston Athletic Boosters.

The American Legion Campbell Richmond Post 63 contributed $950 from the April 21 event at the Legion Hall on M-15, Independence Township.

Legion members provided the hall, all of the homemade food and all of the setup, while Boosters helped by selling tickets and cleaning up.

Boosters' members appreciate the help from the Legion and from John Lynch in particular, who approached the Boosters with the idea, said Dale Ryan, a member.

"It was all because of their efforts that we raised this money," he said.

He also praised the Clarkston junior varsity baseball team, which collected tickets and bused tables.

And most of all, Ryan said, the community itself should be recognized.

"They rally around when there's something to do to help the kids," he said.

Sign up now for Fun Daze

It's not too late to begin training for the Seventh Annual Fun Daze in downtown Clarkston.

Runners are invited to compete for prizes in 5K and 10K distances (walkers are welcome, also). Some, however, may prefer the one-mile Fun Run/Walk.

The event — with entertainment and activities for the whole family — is planned for Saturday, May 22, in Clarkston's Depot Park.

The one-mile Fun Run/Walk begins at 9:30 a.m., with $2 pre-registration ($4 on race day before 8:30 a.m.). The 5K and 10K runs (or walks) begin at 10 a.m., with $9 pre-registration ($14 race-day registration, before 8:30 a.m.).

To register, stop by the Independence Township Parks and Registration office, or send your name, address, phone number, date of birth, gender, running event, and T-shirt size to Independence Parks and Rec., 90 N. Main St., P.O. Box 69, Clarkston, MI 48347. For more information, call 625-8223.

This year, participants also will have a chance to help the needy in the area by collecting pledges for the number of miles they walk or run. Money will be donated to Lighthouse North. (For information, call 673-4949.)

In addition to the races, all sorts of entertainment takes place in the park on Saturday. Included are a petting farm, kiddie games and activities, coloring contest, moon walk, Rotary clown, and exhibits of dance, gymnastics and karate.

He Never Turns Away

They come to him for help when they need it the most. Some numbed by their loss, some shattered, they say: "This is someone we loved. We entrust him to you."

And even when he's faced with the crumpled innocence of the youngest asking, "Why?"—and he has to find childlike words to answer a question that even theologians struggle with—he never turns away.

He gives them the consolation of tradition.

He shows them how to accept their tragedy with dignity.

He helps them cope with their grief.

He guides them back to the active world of the living.

He is a funeral director. He practices the most emotionally demanding and least understood of all the professions.

He faces up to traumas every day that most people only have to deal with once or twice in a lifetime.

He would never turn away.

He has earned the deepest thanks from anyone who has ever leaned on his compassion for support. Who turned to him and found that he would never turn away.

Clarkston tops Kettering

The Clarkston varsity baseball team has won two of its last three games, including the league opener against Waterford Kettering.

On April 24, the Wolves split a double-header with host Rochester High. They won the opener 12-6, behind the bat of Brent Brundridge.

The junior outfielder was 3-for-5 with three runs-batted-in for CHS. Senior Scott Matusz also chipped in with a 4-for-5 performance at the plate.

The Wolves lost the nightcap 9-7. CHS bounced back on April 26, however, when they beat Kettering in the conference opener, 15-5.

Senior Tom Doyon was 2-for-4 hitting and scored three times. Seniors Matt Underwood and Chris Combs also collected three hits in the contest.

Senior Eric Carlson pitched six strong innings to notch the victory.

Clarkston hosts Lake Orion on Thursday, April 29.

CHS cited for sportsmanship

The Clarkston High School wrestling team has been cited by the "Good Sports Are Winners" program for its outstanding sportsmanship during the 1992-93 post-season.

CHS was named a regional winner of this program, which is sponsored by True Value Hardware Stores of Michigan. The school will eventually receive a plaque on behalf of the wrestling squad.

At the conclusion of each season, True Value and the Michigan High School Athletic Association recognizes district, regional and state winners in each individual sport. Over 400 schools, in Classes A-D, were recognized for their sportsmanship this winter.

The Wolves won league and district titles this past season.

Schools donate $2,000 to CAYA

The Clarkston school district has chipped in $2,000 to help local kids stay on "the straight and narrow." On April 19, the Clarkston school board unanimously approved a $2,000 donation to Clarkston Area Youth Assistance. This 40-year-old organization develops programs aimed at the prevention of delinquency in the school district. CAYA's goal is directed toward building self-esteem in children and strengthening the family through education, healthy recreation and counseling. Some of the programs put on by CAYA include: counseling, shoplifting prevention, camping and a youth recognition banquet. The $2,000 donation was equal to the amount provided by the school district last year.

CARPETMASTER'S CARPET TIPS

Carpet Installation & Maintenance

Carpet Installation:

Proper installation is critical to beautiful appearance and carpet performance. A quality installer will follow these guidelines.

1. Measure the yardage needed for each room or area.
2. Inspect the actual carpet prior to installation for any defects.
3. For patterned carpet, consider proper matching of the design. In cut-pile carpets, make sure the pile direction is the same between the two seamed pieces.
4. Determine the position of seams and how the edges will be finished in doorways.
5. Make certain seams are strong enough to withstand stretching and traffic and yet be as inconspicuous as possible.
6. Stretch carpet properly during installation to avoid wrinkles or buckles caused by traffic, humidity, and temperature.

Carpet Care and Maintenance:

With proper regular care, you can add years of life to your carpet and help to retain its original appearance. The most important thing you can do is to vacuum thoroughly and frequently, particularly in high traffic areas. Vacuuming helps remove dirt particles which abrade the carpet and dull the appearance. For best results, use a vacuum cleaner with beater bars and good suction. Keep bags, filters, and recovery tanks clean.

Professional Cleaning:

"Soiling" is a build-up of soil particles and oily materials that cling to the carpet fibers and dull their beauty. In time, foot traffic drives the soil particles deep into the carpet. When this condition cannot be corrected with vacuuming, it's time to have your carpet cleaned by a trained professional.

How often you'll need professional cleaning depends on soil build-up, traffic, type and color of carpeting. A good rule-of-thumb would be to professionally clean your carpet every 18 months.

A reputable professional cleaner knows the latest in-carpet construction, chemicals, and safe, effective cleaning methods to help maintain carpet beauty.

Most professionals use hot water extraction cleaning (also known as steam cleaning). Other common cleaning methods include absorbent pad or bonnet cleaning, rotary shampoo, and dry foam or powder.

A Simple Summary:

Follow these three simple rules to maintain the beauty and appearance of your carpet.

1. Prompt clean-up of spills.
2. Frequent thorough vacuuming.
3. Periodic professional cleaning.

Former stagecoach stop houses cabinet shop

BY CATHERINE PASSMORE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

If you cruise down Dixie too fast, you may miss the find of a lifetime.

Just north of I-75 in Springfield Township is a little green building, which is the show room of Larron Cabinets.

MADE by the Amish of Goshen, Ind. these cabinets are part of a line of custom cabinets made at Larron Cabinets. The showroom used to be a stagecoach stop between Pontiac and Flint.

nets. The business is owned by Larry and Joanne O'Dell, who live in a house behind the store.

The building used to be a stagecoach stop and was built in 1870. Since then, it has been a video store, a printing store, a hardware store and also Dixie Feed.

From the outside, the building looks very small, so it's a surprise to find how roomy and beautiful it is inside.

"That's their job, to make the most use of the space they have," said the O'Dells' daughter, Kim Reeves.

Larry has been making custom cabinets for over 20 years. He builds and installs the cabinets for Larron Cabinets. Joanne decorated the show room and takes care of sales and runs a computer design service. Reeves, who works part time for her parents, works in sales and promotion.

The O'Dells decided to open their show room in the building they've owned since 1970 because of all the building and changes that have happened in the area.

"Hopefully, it will fit right in," said Reeves.

The show room is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and can be reserved for builders and their customers after 5 p.m. The O'Dells provide custom cabinets for the kitchen and bathroom and reception areas — and they make cabinets that are furniture.

They make, according to Reeves, "almost everything they can design."

Stylist opens own hair spa

If you've been looking for stylist Kelley Taylor, she's opened her own salon in Waterford called Personal Touch Hair Spa.

Taylor, who used to work at Clarkston Hair Design, opened the Williams Lake Road salon on Feb. 8.

"We're full service," said Taylor. "You can get everything in one place."

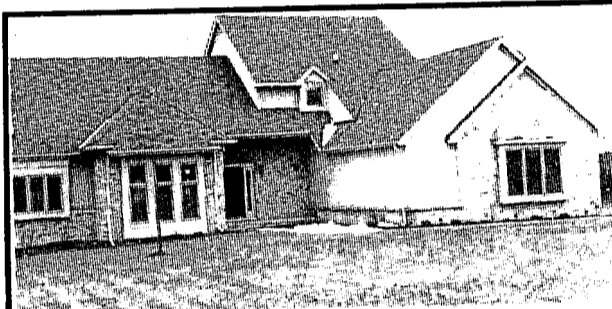

The salon is a one-stop shop. You can get your hair, nails and makeup done there, and there are also facilities to get a tan, a message and shower. Taylor explained that clients can come in for tanning or a message, shower, get their hair done and get ready to go out that evening.

Six stylists — all from the Clarkston area — work for Taylor.

Taylor said she picked her new location because it was near her former place of work, and her clients followed her.

The Personal Touch Hair Spa celebrates its grand opening on 1-10 p.m. June 10. Guests receive a free head-to-toe beauty consultation. Also planned are a fashion show, book signing, and a makeup artist. Champagne and hors d'oeuvres will be served.

To Russia, with faith

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY

Christina Sailor has always wanted to travel. Now, thanks to her church, she will.

Sailor will be off to Russia this summer as a member of the LOGOS Mission Team. Her church, Oxford United Methodist, is raising money to pay for the trip, which will cost around $3,000.

Sailor, whose grandfather was a Methodist minister, has only been a member of the Oxford church for about a year. So the invitation to take the trip at church expense really surprised her.

"It had been about a year since we'd gone to church religiously," she said. "We needed a church so we went to Oxford. We were just comfortable there."

Twenty-three youth and 14 adults will leave July 15 for a LOGOS convention in Colorado for training in Russian and in singing. They'll depart July 22 for Russia and return August 14.

"We're just basically going to spread the word of God," Sailor said. "We will be forming a choir. We'll even be taking Bibles in the Russian language."

Sailor is excited about the trip because of the return of democracy, and therefore the right to worship, in the former Soviet Union.

"Just being in a country that for 70 years couldn't mention the Christian faith," she said. "Now they can and they're so enthusiastic. I think it'll be great to experience that."

Christine Sallor

The trip will include St Petersburg, Moscow and the Russian far east, Siberia, via a 20-hour train trip. The visitors will stay in dormitories, homes and hotels.

The formal purpose of the trip is to support Russian Christians, build international relations, spread goodwill through music, and to witness to the unchurched.

Sailor, a senior at Clarkston High School, is busy learning about Russian culture. This will be her first big travel adventure.

"I even thought about being an exchange student for awhile, so when this came up I was excited," she said. She is the daughter of Phil and Marcia Sailor.

After her trip, Sailor plans to study at Eastern Kentucky University, majoring in forensic science. She hopes to some day work in a crime lab, and got her inspiration from her dad, an undercover police officer.

Oxford United Methodist Church will host an auction on Saturday, May 8 to benefit Sailor's trip. Admission is $1. The church is located at 21 East Burdick St. Call 628-1289 for more information.

Clarkston musicians excel at festivals

More than 450 talented students from Clarkston excelled this spring at district festivals.

Clarkston schools were represented by choirs and bands from the three secondary schools at the Michigan School Vocal Music Association and the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association District Festivals.

Ensembles from Sashabaw Junior High, Clarkston Junior High and Clarkston Senior High school performed a concert program and sight reading before a panel of music education professionals for evaluation and ratings based on regional and state standards of achievement.

An exceptional outcome of the festivals for the Clarkston choirs and bands was the First Division Ratings earned by each in sight reading. Sight reading requires the musicians to sing or play music correctly upon their first time seeing it.

CHS bands

The CHS Wind Ensemble and Symphonic Band, both under the direction of Cliff Chapman, earned First Division Ratings in concert and sight reading performance. The MSBOA District 4 Festival was held at the new BECKY LINDER directs the Sashabaw Singers, who earned a Second Division rating at the junior high choir festival March 19.

More than 450 students from all three Clarkston secondary schools participated and excelled at festivals around the state.

From Sashabaw, two soloists — Alesha Dowdle and Sheila Spencer — received First Division ratings in performance and sight reading. Soloist Rachel Lambourn received a First Division rating in sight reading and a Second Division in performance. A trio of Rachael Barton, Alesha Dowdle and Sheila Spencer earned a Second Division rating in both performance and sight reading.

The students were directed by Becky Linder.

From Clarkston Junior High, the Allegros Girls and Allegros Mixed ensembles, made up of Ovations Choir members, were two of only a handful of exclusively ninth-grade ensembles participating. They were adjudicated and had to sight read music at the same level as the high school ensembles of juniors and seniors in high school.

The Allegros Girls received a Second Division rating in performance and a First Division in sight reading. The Allegros Mixed received an overall Second Division rating.

Students participating in one or both of the ensembles were: Sara Chamberlain, Jon Chester, Arica Cooper, Joe Dilleghio, Kim Greenway, Marisa Jannan, Missy Newton, Stephanie Sage, Regina White, Kristen Wicklund and Christie Williams.

Chapman, the instrumental music director, said the musicians' strong showings reflected more than just hard work on their parts.

"The exceptional showing by the choirs and bands reflect upon the quality of instruction, parent and community support and commitment on the part of the students to experience excellence," he said.

Each band has qualified to enter the state festival; however, instead they will perform at the International Music Festival in Chicago May 21-23.

Jazz festival

On April 2, 3 and 17, over 1,000 instrumental jazz students from 56 Michigan junior and senior high schools performed in the MSBOA Regional Jazz Festival.

The CHS Jazz Ensemble, directed by Cliff Chapman, participated in the competition at the Farmington Harrison high school, earning a First Division Rating.

SJHS host band festival

Sashabaw Junior High was the site for the Junior High MSBOA District 4 Festival on March 12 and 13. In addition to hosting the event, Doug Doty directed three bands — the Sashabaw Concert Band, Cadet Band and Symphony Band — each of which earned First Division Ratings in concert and sight reading. The Sashabaw Ninth-Grade Band, directed by Cliff Chapman, also earned a First Division Rating on the concert and sight reading.

Clarkston Junior High bands, under the direction of Julie Mathews, included the Eighth-Grade Band, earning a First Division Rating in concert and sight reading, and the Ninth-Grade Band, earning a Second Division in concert and a First Division in sight reading.

Junior and senior high choir festivals

The MSVMA District 4 Festival was held at Howell High School March 19. Choirs from all three of Clarkston's secondary schools participated in this festival.

Four choirs under the direction of Grayce Warren represented CHS. They were: the Varsity Concert Choir, Choralaires and Select Ensemble, Bel Canto Choir and the Barbershop Ensemble. The Bel Canto and Barbershop ensembles are an after-school ensemble that meets voluntarily for 45 minutes weekly.

The Barbershop Ensemble received a First Division in both the concert and sight reading. The other choirs received a Second Division in the Concert and a First Division in sight reading.

The Sashabaw Encores and the Sashabaw Singers attended the festival under the direction of Becky Linder. The Singers earned a Second Division in concert and sight reading. The Encores earned an overall First Division Rating. Piano accompanist for the choirs was Sashabaw teacher Bernard Wright.

The Clarkston Junior High Ovations, directed by Danielle Blanchard, earned a First Division Rating in concert and sight reading performance.

Both the Ovations and Encores have qualified for the State Junior High Choir Festival in Lansing on May 20.

Solo-Ensemble

On April 3, four SJHS ninth-grade students and two ensembles from CJHS sang at the MSVA State and Vocal Solo-Ensemble Festival at University of Michigan, Flint.

Musical work commissioned by Band Boosters

When young Clarkston musicians present their spring concert May 13, it will be like nothing anyone has ever heard.

That's because they'll be playing the first-ever public performance of a piece of music composed especially for them.

The Clarkston Band Boosters have commissioned composer Mack Pittard to prepare an instrumental piece specifically for the Clarkston High School Symphony Band.

About the music ...

Pittard, a regionally known composer, was selected by the boosters after Clarkston High performed Pittard's "AVATAR" at the Midwestern Conference on Vocal and Instrumental Music at the University of Michigan in January 1992.

In addition to composing a work for the band, Pittard will work with the students in the classroom to help them interpret and present this work.

The Montrose resident, a former high school instrumental music teacher, has prepared a composition entitled, "From the Halls of Westminster." The work is based on the development of a theme by Henry Purcell, organist at Westminster Cathedral during the 1600s.

Ironically, next year's band will travel to England, where it was invited to perform.

About the concert ...

The composition will be performed for the first time during the Clarkston High School Spring Band Concert at 7 p.m. Thursday, May 13, at the high school.

This work allows the band students the opportunity to follow the creation of a musical work from inception to performance, and it will enhance the community's awareness of the educational and artistic nature of the Clarkston Community Schools' Instrumental Music Program, according to band boosters.

Rare opportunity

Cliff Chapman, director of the CHS band, said nothing can replace this type of experience for a music student — and the community.

"The commissioning of a work for a high school band is a rare and unique opportunity for its community to become a part of the band's performance. It is an educational experience provided by no other activity. The composer demonstrates the creative process, the band members their talents, and the community its support for the arts."

Spaghetti dinner fund-raiser

In the boosters' campaign to raise money for this project, the Clarkston Masonic Lodge has volunteered to provide a Commissioning Project Spaghetti Dinner Benefit. Proceeds will be donated by the Masonic Lodge to the project.

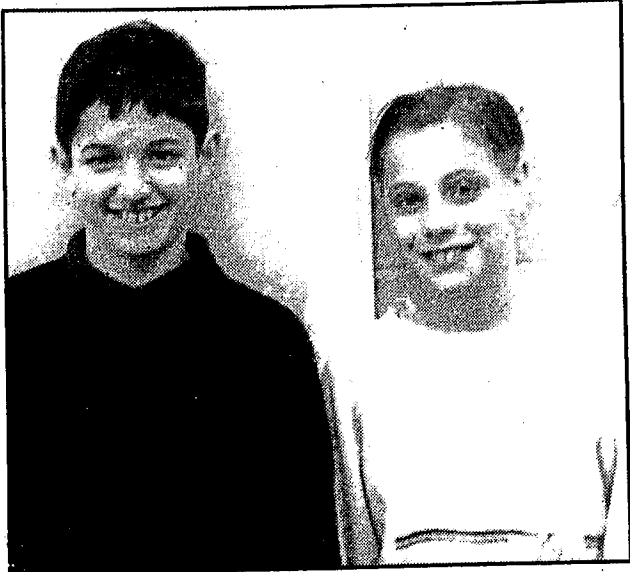

The spaghetti dinner is 6-8 p.m. Friday, May 7, at the Clarkston Masonic Temple at the corner of Main and Washington streets, Clarkston. A complete dinner will be provided for $5 per person. To make the evening run smoothly, three seatings are planned: 6 p.m., 6:45 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Tickets may be purchased from any CHS band member, a member of the Masons, or by calling Tom Brown at 625-7847. Some tickets may be available at the door.

Contributions accepted

To contribute to the Clarkston Commissioning Project, contact Tom Brown, Commissioning Project chairman, at 625-7847 or James Deevey, Clarkston Band Booster president, at 625-8053.

The boosters hope to establish an endowment fund to pay for an annual composition for the band.

QUESTION: I notice on my mortgage bill that the bank charges more than the principal and interest. It's labelled "escrow". What is it and how does it work?

ANSWER: An escrow account is money which is held by a third party to pay off a future debt. You are probably paying money into an escrow account for property taxes. In one way, the escrow account helps you out-wit human nature by a sort of forced saving.

Here's how your escrow account is set up. At the beginning of each year, your account is reviewed and your costs are estimated for the next year. The total is divided by 12 to get the monthly payment.

National Day of Prayer May 6

Area residents are invited to join the Rev. Kurt Gebhard and other area residents in a local observance of National Day of Prayer.

It takes place 12:20-12:40 p.m. Thursday, May 6, in front of the Independence Township Hall at 90 N. Main St., Clarkston. The day will mark the 41st consecutive observance of National Day of Prayer.

The first day was declared by the Continental Congress in 1775. In 1787, Ben Franklin reminded a failing and disillusioned Constitutional Convention, "In the beginning of the contest with Great Britain, when we were sensible of danger, we had daily prayers in this room for divine protection. Our prayers, sir, were heard, and they were graciously answered. ... Have we now forgotten this powerful friend? Or do we no longer need his assistance?"

"I have lived a long time, and the longer I live, the more convincing proofs I see of this truth: 'That God governs the affairs of man.' And if a sparrow cannot fall to the ground without His notice, is it probably that an empire can rise without His aid?"

National days of prayer were declared from time to time until 1952, when by joint approval, the two houses of Congress called upon the president to set aside a day each year as a National Day of Prayer.

On May 5, 1988, President Ronald Reagan signed a bill changing the National Day of Prayer from a yearly observation proclaimed by each president to an actual commemorative day on the calendar — the first Thursday of each May, said Gebhard.

THE FRIARS, from the University of Michigan Men's Glee Club in Ann Arbor, perform for Clarkston music students at Clarkston High School. Here, they assume the roles of the

Brady Bunch as they sing their "Madley of Crap," which included songs from TV shows, such as "Cheers," "Love Boat" and "The Simpsons."

Harmonizing

MUSIC students appreciate the singing ability of the Friars. They performed at Kirchgessner Theater, thanks to a grant from the Clarkston Foundation.

THE AUDIENCE laughs at the wild antics of the eight-man Friars, a barbershop ensemble from the U-M Men's Glee Club. The Friars arrived late to their performance April 23 because of final exams. Other Friars' performances at CHS also were marked by delays — one year, an ice storm slowed them down; another year, they were involved in an accident. (Photos by Julie Campe)
