Cooley named to post

On Monday night, Superintendent Gary Haner told the Clarkston Board of Education that Goebel had sent him a letter asking to be re-assigned to assistant principal. Goebel's letter cited "personal reasons" as the catalyst Haner honored the request and named assistant principal Brent Cooley to fill the void as interim principal. Haner said the administration would recommend in January whether to keep Cooley as principal or seek another permanent replacement.

Free concert: Patriotic flair

Patriotic music kicks off the 14th annual Free Concerts in the Park series in Clarkston.

At 7-9 p.m. Friday, July 2. The Brass Expansion and Winds Ex Odien perform patriotic music in Clarkston's Depot Park on Depot Road.

The Brass Expansion, a band composed of brass instruments, and Winds Ex Odien, a band of saxophone players, perform some numbers separately and some together. Their repertoire includes marches, Muppet songs, sing-alongs and, especially for the Fourth of July, patriotic music.

The concerts — offered by the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce and sponsored in part by First of America Bank — take place each Friday in July in Depot Park. Community groups provide concessions during the performances.

While the concerts are free, donations are accepted. To donate, send checks to: The Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce Concert Fund, 5897 Dixie Highway, Clarkston, MI 48346. Or contribute during the concert in canisters at the park.

Other performances this season include: July 9 — The Cosmopolitan Big Band July 16 — The Balduc Mountain Ramblers

July 23 — Moose and Da Sharks ('50s band) July 30 — The Southern Nights ignited. During the ceremony, "Taps" is played. While the ceremony takes place only once a year, the Legion accepts "retired" flags all year long at the post on Edgewood,

Goebel rescinds CHS position

He becomes assistant principal; Cooley takes helm in interim

Cooley told the board that he looked forward to the challenges ahead.

'I'm very appreciative to be serving in this capacity," he said. "We've got a lot of transitional moves to make in the coming year, and we won't let anybody down.

"We've got a very special group of students here in Clarkston," Cooley added. "With this in mind, we're going to press forward and improve on the high educational standards that Clarkston High School is already known for."

For the past eight years, Cooley has served as assistant principal at CHS. His educational career began in 1973 as a high school teacher in the Owosso public

He later took a job as assistant high school principal and district curriculum coordinator at Chippewa Hills Public Schools from 1978 to 1981. From 1981 to 1985, he served as a high school principal at Kingsley Area Schools.

Cooley, 43, owns a bachelor's degree in secondary education, a master's degree in guidance/ counseling and an educational specialist degree in educational administration from Central Michigan University, Mount Pleas-

A father of two, Cooley serves as president of the Clarkston Rotary Club and is a chairman of the North Oakland County United Way Educational Unit campaign and the Independence Township Wetlands Board.

Goebel, 50, was hired by Clarkston Schools last April, after being selected from a field of nearly 80

Goebel was unavailable for comment at press time. He'll join Ginny Farmer and an unknown third person as the school's three assistant principals.

A third assistant principal position was approved by the school board this spring to handle the added work created by incoming freshman. School district administrators are interviewing nine candidates for this position.

The school district initially received 62 applications for this job. Haner said the administration would recommend a candidate by the July 12 school board meeting.

A PROFUSION of blossoms makes Cheryl Neumann's clematis a showpiece on Warbler, Independence Township. The variety, called "Henry," grows 8-12 feet high and blooms June through September. The plant is six years old, said Neumann, explaining that she and her husband, Charles, plant a flowering tree or shrub each year to mark their wedding anniversary (28 years this year). The clematis thrives with shade for its roots and a little pruning each year. "I've had people drive by and stop and knock on the door and ask what it is," said Gheryl. (Photo by Julie Campe)

Senate passes boating bill

As part of a comprehensive marine safety bill package, the state Senate recently passed a bill calling for penalties against reckless behavior on Michigan waterways.

Mat Dunaskiss (R-Lake Orion), sponsor of the legislation, said the bill provides for penaltics for those convicted of reckless operation of a boat or reckless behavior while water skiing or surf boarding.

"We've made great strides in strengthening Michigan's laws against drunken driving and boating, so it follows naturally that we include reckless operation of other forms of recreational water sports," said Dunaskiss.

"Each summer, hospital emergency rooms across the state are filled with individuals injured in boating mishaps caused by carelessness and reckless operation of recreational equipment," he said.

Those found guilty of the new law will be ordered to participate in a marine safety educational program and will be barred from boating activities for up to two years.

"Water sports and other activities are so popular in Michigan because we're blessed with an abundance of lakes and rivers on which to pursue these activities," said Dunaskiss. "For the safety and comfort of all Michigan citizens, this legislaton will tighten up compliance to safety standards on our waterways."

Dunaskiss said that the bill also includes provisions to keep the noise level on boats at a level not to exceed 90 decibels and to establish fines for those who fail to comply with underwater exhaust system requirements.

Hearing on Holcomb Road rezoning request

Residents along Holcomb Road may want to attend the July 8 planning commission meeting.

At 7:30 p.m. Thursday, the Independence Township Planning Commission is to hear comments about a rezoning request.

Dr. James A. O'Neill asks that 166.3 acres be rezoned from rural residential (three-acre minimum lot sizes) to suburban farm residential (1 1/2-acre minimum lot sizes).

The meeting takes place at the township annex, 90 N. Main St., Clarkston.

Dangerous buildings outlawed in Springfield

An ordinance to "promote the health, safety and welfare" of the citizen of Springfield Township was approved June 10.

The Dangerous Building Ordinance, or Ordinance No. 62, takes effect immediately upon publication. The board voted 7-0 to approve the second reading and adoption

The ordinance prohibits the keeping and maintaining of dangerous buildings as defined in the ordinance; gives procedures for the elimination or improvement of the dangerous buildings; provides orders for the demolition, maintenance or making safe of dangerous buildings; provides for the enforcement of the orders and reimbursement to the township for costs they incur in the demolition, maintenance or making safe of the building.

The ordinance includes 10 definitions of dangerous buildings, such as having a door, aisle, passageway, stairway or other means of exit which doesn't conform to approved fire code. Another definition: a building or structure that is vacant, dilapidated and open, leaving the interior of the building exposed to the elements or accessible to entrance by trespassers.

Tornadoes — a violent history

Julie Campe

With annual tornado watches, modern alert systems and instant communication, it's easy to ignore tornado warnings.

But a March 20, 1925, St. Louis-Globe Democrat (Mo.) newspaper shows how devastating the violent twisters can be.

Stu McTeer loaned the brittle, yellowing newspaper to me.

The top headline — in all capital letters and in huge sizes, considering the time period — shouts: SOUTHERN ILLINOIS LIKE BATTLEFIELD AFTER WORST DISASTER IN ITS HISTORY: ST. LOUIS GIVES THOUSANDS TO AFFLICTED.

The paper includes a photograph of someone bundled up in warm clothing, sitting in a pile of rubble, "testing what was once a first-class phonograph."

The picture, too, is huge, considering the difficulty of printing photographs back then.

Smaller headlines and articles spell out the grim

DEAD INCLUDE OVER 100 BABIES AND CHIL-DREN: 848 Killed and 2909 Injured, According to Latest Reports, with List Increasing Hour by Hour.

CRUDE MORGUES FILLED TO DOORS: Columns of Survivors Blocks Long Wait to Identify Victims

Lying in Churches, Clubs and Public Places.
Survivors Shuffle Through Morgues in Endless
Streams: 'Not Disaster; It Was Crucifixion,' Sobs Woman

Then come the stories themselves:

"Thirty of Murphysboro's 153 known dead were buried without ceremony this afternoon, due to crowded condition of the morgues. The bodies were distributed among various cemeteries. One hundred and twenty bodies remain in the morgue. The latest figure places the dead at Murphysboro at 175. ..."

"After the light of a full day had cast its searching rays into the debris left by Wednesday's tornado, and relief work had been organized to gather the dead, heal the hurt and aid the homeless, the toll of destruction to life and property tonight still remained the greatest ever recorded in similar catastrophes, with 848 reported killed and 2909 injured in the five states affected. ...

"After a night of terror, dawn revealed that some towns had been virtually obliterated while whole blocks of larger places had been leveled and fire had added to the horrors brought by the wind.

"The fires for the most part were kept from buildings that escaped the fury of the twister, but the rescuers were not able to dig out the dead from the wreckage or give as much attention to the homeless and maimed as they might have devoted otherwise."

And a tiny story at the bottom of the front page reads: Baby Boy, Injured by Tornado, Lies Unclaimed in Hospital:

"In the temporary hospital at the City Hall (West Frankfort, III.) tonight is a 3-year-old boy, his arm broken and in a sling, who has not yet been claimed by any of the refugees from yesterday's tornado. He was found on the outskirts of the devastated area this morning.

"Attendants are unable to understand the lad when he tries to tell them his name, but he is sure his parents will call for him. Nurses have not told him that there are several 'unknowns' in the adult section of the local

The stories of these people make me appreciate even more the modern alert system in Oakland County that sounds when a twister has been sighted.

Just as a review: A "tornado watch" means conditions are right for a tornado to form. A "tornado warning" means a twister has been sighted (whether or not it has touched the ground) and people should take cover immediately (this is when the tornado warning blasts in our county). There's no "all-clear" signal, so residents must rely on the radio for that information.

Maybe this system explains why there hasn't been a repeat of the tornado disaster that took place more than 60 years ago in southern Illinois.

THE "MAGICAL Mystery Tour" theme is apparent in the decorated "hippy" van at the entrance of the all-night post-graduation

Pride shows in graduation party

Kudos to the parents, Clarkston High School staff and area merchants who made the post-graduation party a reality for this year's senior class.

The all-night party followed the June 16 graduation ceremony at Pine Knob Music Theatre and offered the graduates the full use of the Deer Lake Racquet Club. Plus, they could choose from all sorts of other entertainment — and food and non-alcoholic beverages were abundant.

The "Magical Mystery Tour" theme was apparent from the '60s-style decorations, particularly the "hippy" van at the entrance of the club.

The party, attended by nearly all of the graduates and a few chaperones, accomplished many objectives.

1) It kept the teens safe and off the roads (and off cohol)

2) It gave them another way to mark the ending of an era and a way to form yet another memory of their senior year.

3) It allowed parents, high school staff, area merchants and residents to show the grads how proud they are of them and how much they care for the students' safety.

Linda Ryan and Becky McChesney did an outstanding job organizing this year's party, following in the tradition of excellence set by the organizers before them.

The whole community has reason to be proud.

Jim's Jottings

Maize and blue at MSU

Jim Sherman

There is only one way Bill Patterson can give or get a blood transfusion. Any blood he becomes associated with has a certain university hue.

He can supply blood only to a fellow University of Michigan graduate who is totally dedicated to every facet of "M" existance.

His system can only accept blood under the same circumstances. Otherwise Bill would have to be given maize-colored blood in one arm and bluetinted blood in the other simultaneously.

His commitment to the U of M is so strong I've often wondered which comes first: his wife, any of his four daughters and one son or his beloved insititution in Ann Arbor.

This Oxford pharmacist has the block "M" on his undershorts. Don't ask how I know. He shows more feeling for the Michigan fight song, "The Victors," than for the flag pledge, wedding vows and pharmacy oath combined.

Bill will tell you Ohio State's Buckeyes are a bunch of nuts, Sparty is a laxative, the Iowa Hawkeyes have bird brains and Badgers make good roadkill.

When his daughter, Jean, was interviewing for a job in Petoskey several years ago, her potential boss called Bill to ask about her. Without greeting or hesitation he said, "You mean my retarded daughter who went to Michigan State?"

By now I hope you have enough background on Bill Patterson so I can complete this story. Recently, Barbara, the last of Ruth and Bill's daughters to marry, chose a church in East Lansing to exchange her vows.

Barb was graduated from MSU this spring and married a fellow she met while playing in State's marching band.

Bill, too, is a musician, having played the trumpet for years, including as a member of the Dixie Katz band in Oxford.

Well, during the reception, while the hired band took a break, Bill lifted his trumpet and played the MSU fight song.

The audience was first stunned . . . then mixed laughter with applause as he continued flawlessly to the end. Barbara nearly had tears. Some non-drinking friends started.

Bill's brother, Bob, said, "Worst of all, he had to practice it!"

Best of all, he showed his ultimate love for his daughter and new son-in-law.

Oh, yes, the feeling lasts, but the "M" feeling returned as before the night ended Bill played a chorus of "The Victors."

About staff editorials

We at The Clarkston News realize that an important duty of a newspaper is to provide more than just the facts found in news stories.

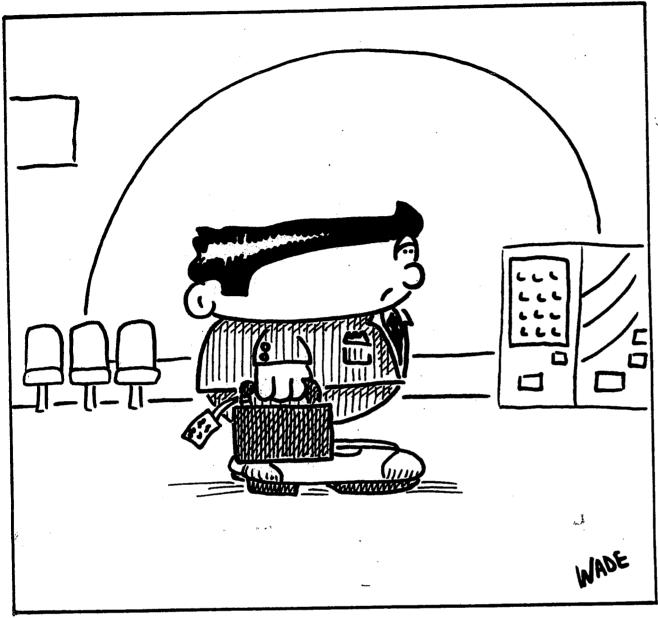

Since we're out there uncovering the news, we get an inside look at the issues. In our staff editorials, we will give our opinions on those issues, just as other writing on this page — letters and columns — also offers opinions.

We leave the editorials unsigned because we've written them as a staff. Every week, we talk about the issues and take notes on everyone's opinions. Then one of us writes it and the rest of us change it until we're all satisfied.

While our opinions aren't always unanimous, our editorials reflect the majority views of the staff. If the staff splits evenly on an issue, we'll write two editorials on the subject.

We welcome your response to our views.

'If it Fitz

The meaning behind sit-down discoveries

Jim Fitzgerald

"Appearing to do nothing is a participation sport." That's what it says in a full-page New Yorker magazine ad a friend sent me with this note: "I thought that this headline was appropriate for you and your world-class sitting-down achievements."

It's a fashion ad featuring a lovely woman wearing a white, two-piece sleeveless outfit. She has her hands on her hips and is looking up. In a two-tier signature across the bottom of the ad the name Linda Allard is printed above the name Ellen Tracy.

Those two names undoubtedly mean something, probably crucial, to knowledgeable, sophisticated people. Perhaps Linda Allard is the name of the dress designer. Is Ellen Tracy the name of the store where the dress can be purchased? And what do Linda and Ellen mean by saying that doing nothing (only in a white dress?) requires active participation?

I have no idea, I'm frequently embarrassed, even ashamed, to admit I don't know stuff that obviously I should know -- otherwise there would be further explanation. I mean, businesses certainly aren't going to pay for a magazine ad that most readers are too dumb to understand. That's no way to sell merchandise. So there's no question my dumbness is unusual, perhaps even unique.

It isn't just advertisements. A recent news article, for instance, said a North Carolina woman impregnated herself with the aid of "a $2.95 baster."

At the time, I didn't know what a baster was. I wasn't even sure how to pronounce it; was the first syllable bah or bay? The article offered no details concerning the intended purpose of a baster. Obviously, it isn't ordinarily used for procreation, otherwise there would have been no news story. But, just as obviously, the newspaper took it for granted that any person intelligent enough to read was also intelligent enough to know what a baster was, so no details were necessary.

The only elaboration came late in the article when the baster was further described as a "turkey baster." I interpreted that as a disparaging comment, as in "turkey columnist." But what was there about the baster that made it a turkey?

It was humiliating, but I finally asked my wife for guidance. She quickly explained that I didn't know what a baster was because all my life I have contributed absolutely nothing to the preparation of the thousands of meals I've stuffed into my fat face. She added that the cliche is "he doesn't know how to boil water" but in my case it can be extended to "he doesn't know how to turn the tap."

Well. So now I know that to baste is to drip gravy or some other liquid on meat while it's cooking. And if you don't want to cup the gravy in your hands, you use a baster, which is sort of a squirt gun. The North Carolina woman stood on her head while basting herself with semen bottled by her sister's husband and nine months later became a mother and an aunt simultaneously.

It is indeed marvelous that, even at my age, it's still possible for my horizons to be broadened. All I can say is it's astonishing how far modern science has progressed just to displace the stork, which might as well be basted.

As for that New Yorker ad, I understand why my friend thought of me when he read "Appearing to do nothing is a participation sport." He was referring to the many well-documented times I've bravely sat through entire marathon races, not stirring even once, no matter what the provocation, until after the last runner crossed the finishing line, even if it took all day.

And, after long pondering, I've decided that Linda Allard and Ellen Tracy are saying the lovely model is dressed to look like she is doing nothing, but she had to work at it, as in any participation sport, including marathon sitting.

Onward and Upward. The difference between a participation sport and a spectator sport is snoring. Any turkey sophisticate knows that.

Summer ideal time to plan shade tree location

Can you think of a better time to decide where to plant a shade tree than in the summer?

If you catch yourself saying, "I wish we had more shade around the house," now's the time to plan some.

Before rushing out to buy the first tree you run into or sending for a "miracle tree" ("grows 25 feet the first year") off the back of a newspaper supplement, take stock of the growing conditions in the proposed planting site, suggests Curt Peterson, Extension horticulture specialist at Michigan State University. Also take time to figure out what traits you want in a tree.

"For instance, how large a tree do you want?" Peterson asks. "Some trees never grow beyond 25 feet; others may reach 80 to 100 feet. Too large a tree may tower over your home; too small a tree will likewise be out of proportion."

Shape is another consideration. Some trees are tall and narrow; others are round or oval and spread their branches wide. You need to match up shape and size with the space available for the tree to grow in.

Susceptibility to storm damage, susceptibility to pests, the presence of flowers or fruits, leaf color, and even the texture and color of bark can enter into your

"If you want a trouble-free tree, you want to avoid trees such as willow and silver maple, which are prone to damage from wind and ice storms, and European white birch, which usually falls victim to bronze birch borers," Peterson suggests.

"Certain trees that might otherwise be welcome in the landscape are generally avoided because of their fruit. Mulberries, for instance, and the hulls of black walnuts stain everything they touch."

The soil, moisture and available sunlight also need to be taken into account. Though many plants are tolerant of a range of soil types, most prefer a well drained site. Others do best on a sandy soil, and a few prefer constantly

Some trees, such as dogwoods, are forest understory plants and do best in the shade and shelter of larger trees. Others, especially some evergreens, need shelter from prevailing winds and bright sunlight in winter to prevent damage to foliage caused by moisture loss. Still other plants do best when they are grown in full sun.

Winter hardiness is a critical factor in Michigan, Peterson points out. Plants native to milder climates may simply not survive a typical Michigan winter. Others may survive in a carefully chosen, protected site or in an unusually mild winter, but not in a location exposed to wind and normal winter weather.

"Plants grow much better and have fewer problems with insects and diseases when they're planted in sites that meet their specific needs," Peterson sums up. "Finding out what conditions prevail in the proposed planting site and selecting plants that will thrive there increases your chance of success.

Township OK's revised plat

A revised plat plan received unanimous approval from the Independence Township Board June 15.

The board approved the addition of two angled turns for the internal roads of the proposed Spring Lake North subdivision. These revisions were made to a preliminary plan approved by the township board on May 18.

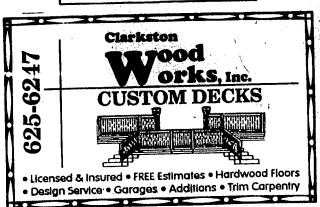

This particular 33-acre plat raised the ire of residents of the Spring Lake South subdivision because it included a connector road to the Lake Waldon Village subdivision to the north. The residents feared that this connector would increase traffic flow through their neighborhood, endangering the safety of its inhabitants.

However, the residents and their developer, The Selective Group, posed a new roadway scheme that would slow traffic, and appeal to the Road Commission For Oakland County.

These angled turns include a 45-degree turn on Golfview in the new development, and a 30-degree turn near the connecting road, leading to Lake Waldon Village.

SAGE open to new members

SAGE, the school support group, has tentatively planned next year's programs for those involved in gifted education and for others.

On the slate is a repeat of last year's Gifted Teachers Forum.

SAGE is open to new members, and those interested may write to SAGE at 18 1/2 S. Main St., Clarkston, MI 48346.

In the 1992-93 school year, SAGE offered a Civil War program for children and adults, which featured the Reactivated Second Michigan Infantry.

The next program focused on cultivating creativity in children, with Eastern Michigan University educator Lynn Proegler as guest speaker.

The year was capped off with a presentation by Jan Colbrunn, who talked about new ideas to boost children's motivation to help them succeed in school. Marilyn O'Mara also presented information in the same forum about hosting foreign exchange students.

Business Brief

Four named local heroes by Domino's Pizza

Four people with Clarkston ties were recently honored as hometown heros in Domino's Pizza's "Local Heroés — You're the Tops!" program.

Jim Evans is the founding father of the Clarkston Area Optimist Club and the reportedly the most optimistic guy in town. He helped start the Clarkston Foundation, which supports educational efforts in the science and math departments in Clarkston schools. Jim is unselfish with his personal time when it comes to education, volunteering as a speaker at school events and donating his professional services to the school.

Dwight Spiker was selected for his tireless efforts as president of the Clarkston Athletic Boosters. He cheerfully donates many long hours recruiting volunteers and operating. He has also taken on the challenge of raising funds for the new athletic team building donated to the school at no cost to the taxpayers.

Dale Ryan serves as vice president of the Clarkston Athletic Boosters. He was instrumental in raising funds last summer to build a team building next to the track and football field for the students. In addition to the work he has done with the Boosters, Dale is treasurer for the Clarkston Area Optimists.

Katie MacKay of Ortonville is a special education teacher at Clarkston High School. When funds were cut for alcohol and drug education programs at Clarkston High School, Katie made it her business to continue providing those programs to students through grants and volunteers.

Katie was instrumental in initiating student recognition programs throughout the school. Katie's dedication to her students has no limit and has been recognized by the principal, James Goebel, through her nomination.

Domino's is honoring over 100 local heros in the metropolitan Detroit, Ypsilanti and Port Huron areas. Winners receive a "Local Year-You're the Tops!" award certificate and a pizza and Coca-Cola party for up to 20

"The Local Heroes program is our way at Domino's of demonstrating our commitment to the neighborhoods and communities in which we do business," said Tim Brown, owner of Metro Detroit Pizza, which has 45 Domino's stores in the Detroit area. "We feel it's important to foster the contributions that people of all ages make to the community."

Domino's also will select a "Local Hero of the Year" winner from the store-level winners. The winner will be announced in September.

20 years of donning the 'blue'

BY CURT MCALLISTER Clarkston News Associate Editor

For the past two decades, Ron Graham has been called everything in the book, and he loves it.

The 47-year-old Independence Township man just completed his twentieth season of umpiring, which has included everything from men's softball games to three stints of duty at the College World Series.

Graham started his career as an umpire by officiating softball games in a men's league, before moving up to high school baseball games and Class A contests at Jaycee Park in Pontiac.

In 1977, he was called upon to work Division II college baseball games for local schools such as Ferris State College and Wayne State University. Two years later, he agreed to officiate baseball games in the Mid-American Conference on a regular basis. Since then, he's continued to work the college scene, primarily around Michigan. During his career, he's served as an umpire at the College World Series on three occasions, including the recent final between Louisiana State and Wichita State universities.

RON GRAHAM of Independence Township has seen a lot of good ball games in his 20 years as an umpire.

During the 1993 national tournament, Graham worked 11 of 13 games, including two behind the plate. He said the World Series is always a pleasure to officiate.

"It's a big thrill," he said. "I feel fortunate to have been chosen three times."

In his 16 years as a college umpire, Graham has also made calls on numerous players who would later ascend to professional status.

"During my career, I've seen a number of future major leaguers," he said, listing star players like Barry Larkin, Jim Abbott, Ben McDonald and Alex Fernandez. "Most of the time, you can spot the players who have a shot at making the pros. And it's a thrill, years later, to watch these same guys on television doing their Graham has also had the opportunity to see ball players abroad. In 1991, he was part of an American officiating crew to work an international tournament in China.

"The Japanese and Koreans were heads and shoulders above the rest of the Oriental competition, but the other teams gave it their all," he said. "It just goes to prove that baseball is thriving in other places."

While watching great baseball is a perk for an umpire, Graham said the game has its pitfalls - primarily rabid fans.

"I've been called some of the worst things in some of the best places," he said, smiling. "It seems the fans at LSU and Wichita State actually take pride in how far they can push an umpire. They're really something else."

Despite a busy college schedule Graham said umpiring doesn't take substantial time away from his family or fulltime job.

"I'm really not on the road more than a couple hours both ways," said the General Motors employee of 27 years. "During the regular season, I usually don't travel any further than Ohio, which doesn't occur that often."

Looking back over his career, Graham estimates he officiated between 700 and 1,000 baseball games. But his "stripes" don't end there. He's also been active as a high school football official since 1981, as well as calling numerous prep basketball

Graham said he enjoys officiating, but not enough to ever aspire for professional status.

"Basically, I'm content," he said. "I never dreamed, when I got into umpiring, that I'd go this far. "There's a big difference between a college umpire and a professional one," Graham added. "Those guys do it for a living. Me, I'm happy to be working on the amateur level, so it doesn't affect my job."

Even though a professional career is out of the question, Graham does have umpiring "dream."

"I'd love to work the Olympic Games in Atlanta in 1996," he said. "The problem is so wouldeveryone else. Because of my experience, I've got a shot. I'll just have to wait and see."

The June 24 ground breaking kicked off Phase 1 of the park's revitalization plan, which includes building an internal infrastructure, a parking lot and a new entrance. Collecting toys

Early TONKA trucks higher in value

BY JIM CARLSON

The question asked in the last column was, "Who is the largest manufacturer of trucks, tractors and road equipment in the world?"

If you answered GM or John Deere, sorry!

The largest manufacturer of trucks, tractors and road equipment in the world is TONKA Manufacturing, Minnetonka, Minn.

And who hasn't given or received a TONKA toy truck or tractor for a birthday or Christmas present? (See photo, 1963 trencher.)

Originally incorporated as Mound Metal Crafts in September 1946 and later changing the firm name to TONKA, the firm initially produced a line of tie racks and

The first toys produced in 1946 were a steam shovel, crane and clam. In 1948, TONKA produced a fork lift and in 1949, dump trucks, wreckers, tractors and transport vans. Some of these early toys will fetch from $100 to $450 or more retail. (Price range differences are based on production volumes and condition).

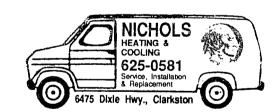

The last year solid metal vehicles were made was 1964. In 1964 military jeeps, trenchers, flat bed trucks and back hoes were produced. Again, retail prices on some of these toys range from $100 to $450, although many of the items are in the $25 to $40 range.

So dig into closets and basements to find those TONKA toys you had as a child. And don't forget the original boxes. The boxes have good value also.

See you next time.

Upcoming shows: Maumee, Ohio, July 17

These grads earn diplomas by helping Clarkston's education

While some area residents were caught up in high school graduation in June, a few were involved in a graduation of a different sort.

The Clarkston Foundation — a non-profit group that pays for educational art and science programs in the Clarkston area that otherwise wouldn't take place - awarded "diplomas" and "honorary degrees" to those who donate money.

The appreciation party June 12 used the graduation theme and awarded, for instance, a "bachelor's degree" to those who contributed $250.

All in all, the Foundation has collected about $10,000 for art and science programs. The result: Students in the Clarkston area have had special programs on native American Indians and creativity. They have been visited and taught by real artists and musicians. They have had entire days devoted to science and art.

Bill Wint, one of the organizers of the "graduation" party, said the Foundation has filled a need in the Clarkston community.

"It's important that the adults within our community show their support to individual efforts in the arts and sciences," he said. "It's an opportunity to show the children in our community that we care."

For more information on the Clarkston Foundation, call 625-5231.

Woman has likeness cast in bronze

BY CURT MCALLISTER Clarkston News Associate Editor

Because of the effort involved, very few models are given the opportunity to have their likenesses immortalized by a sculptor.

Just count Renee LePage-Ylvisaker as one of those fortunate few.

The statuesque Independence Township resident modeled for a 13-foot bronze monument known as "Neptune's Fantasy." This piece was created by Snell Johnson of Scottsdale, Ariz., who's considered America's premiere sculptor of monument-size bronze art.

The monument, which depicts Neptune pursuing Aphrodite, the Greek goddess of love, stands in the Christian Memorial Cultural Center, Rochester Hills.

Renee's father, Bernard LePage, is the founder of the 30-year-old cemetery. Resembling more an art gallery than a final resting spot, the 180-acre Christian Memorial Cultural Center has been ranked the state's top pre-need cemetery for the past 29 years.

Devoid of headstones, the cemetery's plots lie flush to the ground, or in refined mausoleums. The grounds are adorned with several memorial gardens and nearly $1 million worth of bronze and marble monuments.

Six of Johnson's pieces newest pieces — valued at $750,000 — were unveiled at a recent Memorial Day Service. Among these monuments was "Neptune's Fantasy."

LePage met Johnson in his Scottsdale gallery over a year ago and fell in love with his work. Subsequently, he ordered six large-scale pieces for his cemetery.

Prior to starting "Neptune's Fantasy," Johnson decided his model lacked the physical attributes of the legendary Aphrodite, so he searched for a replacement. Sensing his dilemma, LePage suggested his daughter, Renee, who works as an estate planner at the cemetery.

Johnson agreed, and Renee flew out to Arizona for a three-day session. During this stint, she was required to stand on a table, in a bikini, with her back arched and an arm raised upward.

These daily sessions usually ran a majority of the day, Renee said.

"It was a little difficult at first, but I just learned to relax," she said. "Snell was very accommodating when it came to taking breaks."

Johnson completed "Neptune's Fantasy" six months later. Renee said she's happy with the results.

said. "I feel extremely honored to have been featured in one of Snell's works."

Eventually, this statue will be placed in the middle of cement pool, surrounded by leaping dolphins, her father said. This monument will then serve as the focal point to a mausoleum, scheduled to encompass "Neptune's Fantasy."

Renee said Johnson has discussed possibly doing some future projects with her. However, she doubts he'll recommend her modeling services to others.

"I think he wants to keep me to himself," she said, laughing.

Special day for kids staying safe

Bike safety and registration, fingerprinting, free identification kit, balloons, refreshments and McGruff will be on hand for a special Kids Staying Safe Day in Depot Park.

Offered by the Clarkston Police and Clarkston Area Optimists, the event takes place 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, July 10, in the park off Depot Road, Clarkston.

McGruff, the international crime-fighting dog, will appear to encourage safety for children. During the event, children may test their bike safety skills, have their bikes checked for safety, register their bikes, be fingerprinted and receive a free I.D. kit.

In case of rain, the event takes place in the Department of Public Works garage in the park. For more information, call 625-0088.

Use caution with insect repellents

When fighting mosquitoes this summer, take caution with repellents containing DEET.

While insect repellents with DEET work well in warding off mosquitoes and infectious ticks, those containing DEET in high concentrations can be hazardous if used improperly.

David Wade, toxicologist for the Michigan Department of Agriculture, said high levels of DEET (diethyltoluamide) can cause adverse health effects, including headaches, restlessness, crying spells, mania, staggering, abnormally rapid respiration, convulsions and coma.

More people may use repellents this summer due to an unusually large mosquito population and concern about Lyme disease, which is transmitted by infected deer ticks, he said.

Children are particularly susceptible to the dangers of DEET, said Wade.

"If you muse use repellents on children, consider purchasing those containing low levels of DEET," he said, adding that no more than 15 percent of the repellent's ingredients should be diethyltoluamide. The percentage of DEET in the product can be determined by reading the list of active ingredients on the label.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency recommends that consumers immediately stop using the product if symptoms occur. In case of internal consumption, consumers should contact a poison information center or the emergency department of a hospital.

In addition to children, the EPA advises discretion in DEET use for those with acne, psoriasis, atopic predisposition or other chronic skin conditions.

Avoid heat exhaustion

Nearly 1,000 Americans die each year from heatrelated illness — and almost all of these deaths are preventable.

How can you avoid heat stroke? Acclimating yourself to heat, drinking plenty of fluids and avoiding extreme exertion on hot and humid days are three preventative measures.

A parting gift

Imagine That

By Emily White

In today's world, people in America are dying of hunger, AIDS, cancer and many other deadly diseases. However, America seems to think of more important

What happened to that old Motown? Is it just a saying? Is it still there? What happened?

Last Sunday, I spent three-and-a-half hours in a mini-van driving around Detroit.

Woodward used to be seven lanes wide. It had the biggest Hudson's. Everywhere you would walk, there would be millions and millions of people in the streets and sidewalks.

Now Woodward is only four lanes wide, a bunch of burned-down, broken-windowed graphite warehouses.

Homeless are sleeping in these warehouses, dark alleys and in the old bus station.

Is Chicago going to turn into the next Detroit that people are afraid to go into? Some say that Detroit was a Chicago a long time ago. Wake up. Start caring!

When I was in Detroit on that evening, it made me cry to think of the future.

Generation destroying our world, do you think Columbus ever thought that this is how his dream was going to turn out? My generation is already in need of help. How do you think the generations after us will be? Imagine that.

My Window View

By Kathy Kopec

As the stars shine so bright they seem to say good-night and as they sparkle and gleam in the land that they seem it is so pretty because it is as Vegas that far away city So good-night good-night Say the Vegas lights.

As the Winter Comes

By Cathy Kopec

The leaves are falling. The families are raking them up. For this will be their only day of good luck. Jack Frost nipping at their noses as they bag or burn the leaves to see only the next day a yard full of leaves, once again to rake. As the winter comes snow one foot deep. Children playing in the snow and slipping on the sleet. A blizzard of snow has canceled school, but the children don't care for Christmas time in near. Christmas lights, decorations, and the smell of Christmas cookies will soon fill the air. Soon, it will be Christmas time again.

July: Ice cream month

What do Americans do more of in June and July?

That's why the International Ice Cream Association has designated July as National Ice Cream Month.

According to the association, our favorite flavors (in descending order) are vanilla, chocolate, strawberry, butter pecan and Neapolitan. Our favorite toppings are hot fudge, chocolate fudge, butterscotch, caramel and strawberry.

Just how much do we love ice cream? Ice cream and related frozen desserts are consumed by over 98 percent of U.S. households.

Grand opening set for cosmetic studio

The independently owned Merle Norman Cosmetic Studio on Dixie Highway has been awarded Gold Medallion status by the Los Angeles-based Merle Norman Cosmetics, Inc.

A grand opening of the Gold Medallion Studio is planned for 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, July 31, at the store in White Lake Commons, Independence Township.

"We are very proud of our recent recognition, which is consistent with the reputation we have built for an unsurpassed personal service years that we have been operating here in the community," says Brenda Haines, who owns the store with her husband Dick.

Merle Norman Cosmetics created the Gold Medallion Studio Program in response to recent retailing and consumer trends that place a higher value on customer service. It identifies Studios that meet consumer expectations of personal service, knowledgeable salespeople and a pleasing atmosphere.

New coupon program offered by grocer

If you're tired of sifting through newspapers and clipping coupons, one grocery store offers an alternative.

The Kroger Co., Detroit, now offers the Checkout Coupon program in 77 of its stores in the Michigan marketing area — including the Independence Township store on Dixie Highway at Maybee Road.

The Checkout Coupon program uses supermarket checkout scanners to "read" what shoppers actually buy and prints customized coupons related to those purchases.

For example, a customer buying a jar of peanut butter may trigger a Checkout Coupon certificate for a competing brand of peanut butter, a larger size of the same brand or a jar of grape jelly.

Checkout Coupon certificates, which are handed to customers at the checkstand along with their receipts, have an average face value more than 45 percent higher than traditional mass-delivered coupons.

"We think that our customers will like the convenience of receiving a coupon right in the store that corresponds to items on their shoppings lists," says Ron Spurlock, vice president of merchandising of Kroger.

"This program saves them money on products they're likely to buy, with virtually no effort on their part," he says.

"Gourmet backpacking, Extra effort can produce an epicurean expedition," appeared in the April 18, 1992, issue of the Ann Arbor News.

OWAA conducted 17 writing, photography, art and broadcast contests during the past year. Winners were awarded plaques, certificates and cash prizes.

OWAA is an international association of outdoor communicators, including 1,950 writers, editors, photographers, artists, broadcasters, video producers and lecturers. Founded in 1927, OWAA has grown to become the top organization of outdoor writers in the world.

QUESTION: Do you have any suggestions on how to make your home look its best during show-

ANSWER: The buyer has to LIKE WHAT HE SEES. Minor signs of wear should be corrected. A few dollars spent touching up the front door or replacing worn trim or removing rust stains can add hundreds of dollars in sales appeal.

Storage space should look spacious. Toss out or sell all the paraphernalia you've been accumulating in the closets, attic, basement or garage. You'll still be left with plenty. Be sure to stack or hang them in a manner that looks like you have room to spare. Don't give prospects the idea that space is at a premium in your home.

A request from Patricia Straube for aid in proving the family lines to Capt. Joseh Bancraft, brings into focus many well known pioneer early settlers.

The wife of Capt. Bancroft was Polly Dalrymple, and their marriage produced 11 children, one being Clodus (Claudius Boughton Bancraft), Patricia's ancestor.

The property now known as Perrymount Park Cemetery is the site of the farm owned by Capt. Joseph, who received the land as bounty for services in the American Revolutionary War.

To this day, his descendants proudly display the sheepskin document given to Joseph at the time the land was to be his. Marilyn Harrington and Phyllis Fullerton are providing us with family history, photos and memorabilia to share with those of you related to the Charles Terry, Dalrymple, Donelson, Voorheis - and many other lines — that grew from their progenitors, the 10 children of Joseph and Polly.

A five-generation pedigree chart and a self-addressed stamped envelope will get you what we would gladly share from this wealth of information.

We are greatly honored to have received on June 10 the bronze medal for good citizenship given to us by the Sons of the American Revolution Chapter of Michigan and presented by the state president, Larry Blackett, who was born in Pontiac and represents six generations of Oakland County ancestors, all who have followed the carpenter trade.

Truly, we were surprised and humbled to have received this honor, for it is not given lightly, and we urge you menfolk to look for your own lineage to a Revolutionary patriot, for when Larry first read Heritage Hunt many years ago, he assured us he was only pursuing the Blackett family. Today, he boasts over 400 sets of "grandparents" and three lines to the Mayflower.

He acknowledged on June 10 that he was convinced finally that he had lost our disagreement on his statement that he would only research BLACKETT. It's those allied

Travel tips for people with arthritis

If you are one of the 37 million Americans with arthritis, there are many ways to make traveling more comfortable and enjoyable, according to the Arthritis Foundation.

The foundation offers the following tips for saving your joints and your energy when traveling:

Begin a trip or outing well rested, and don't let yourself become over-tired. ■ Set aside time to rest at your destination before beginning activities.

■ Prevent stiffness with simple range-of-motion exercises.

■ Accept help and special services when needed.

■ Use light-weight luggage with shoulder straps or wheels.

Travel in lowheeled shoes with good support.

For a free brochure with other travel tips, check your telephone directory for the Arthritis Foundation nearest you, or call toll-free the Arthritis Foundation Information Line at 1-800-283-7800 (9 a.m. to 7 p.m.).

WHO IS ON THE LORD'S SIDE? There arose up certain of the sect of the pharasees (Pastors, Shepherds, Saints, etc) that believed saying. "You must be circumcised and keep the law to be saved!" To whom the Holy Ghost gave no such command-Holy Ghost gave no such command-ment, nor Christl Act 15. for the keepment, nor carrist act 15, to the keeping of the law is the knowledge one is guilty of sin, not torgiven! The just shall live by faith not works of self-righteousness! The bond- woman is not suit from the free woman! if you cast out from the free woman! If you be circumcised (believing your church is Lord and not Christ that one must ion a church or thou could must join a church or they aren't saved or a rebell Matt. 18:2011) You must folin a rebell Matt. 18:2011) You have fallen from grace for by faith comes grace not by law (selfrighteous works) Christ has become of no effect unto you whosoever of you are (think) justified by the law (selfrighteous works)! You have fallen from Gracel In sin of unbelief in the revelation of Jesus Christ, God's salvation! Fighting against Christ as the Jews of old and spiritually still do! You cannot serve or mix faith then law for you either follow your righteousness or God's righteousnessill it is impossible to serve two masters!! Grace by faith or sin by the law! The law was, and is, for the law breakers and sible to serve worman and is, for the law lithe law was, and is, for the law breakers and unighteousil No grace if it works (law)!! Tithing is lawmindedness and is a means to keep the man dominated system of false religion alive and the people love it!! When you really don't want God's truth to serve him one sure can make up stories, and destroy the true revelation of Christ and faith!! This is the judgement of God whether we rightly divide the word of truth or not, according to what our heart motive is!! Hal Hal Hal God has ya!! Eternal life or eternal damnation-fellowship now or none later!! This ain't no crawnow or none later!! This ain't no craw-dadden either. I!!LX27-2c

Pupils win grown-up jobs at Clarkston Elemetary

BY JULIE CAMPE Clarkston News Editor

Being in charge of students was fun but a little nerve-wracking for Lindsey Prudhomme and Ryan Brown.

For one day, the Clarkston Elementary pupils were principal and building aide, respectively, recently - an honor they won by a schoolwide drawing.

Lindsey, a fifth-grader in Sherril Bailey's class, took Dr. Elaine Middlekauff's place during the morning, while the principal attended meetings.

"I got to eat breakfast in the teacher's lounge," said

Next, she made announcements for the week over the schoolwide intercom system. Then she sat in the principal's office and wrote notes to excuse herself and Ryan from class for the day.

She fielded one phone call — from a parent whose child would be late for school and who also had a new phone number to give to the school.

Lindsey spent much of the day cutting paper and putting names on envelopes.

She also got to hand out Popsicles to students on the honor roll and perfect attendance list. She accompanied

In the middle of the day, she and Dr. Middlekauff went out to lunch at Burger King. Then they went to the superintendent's office at the board office on Clarkston Road, which was "big and nice," said Lindsey.

There, she toured the facility and met some staff members, including the superintendent's secretary Sue Hubbard (who was "very nice"). Lindsey sat in the lobby awhile, where she noted that the phone rang constantly and the people there were very busy.

Finally, she attended a student council meeting, where kids named problems and solutions and told about good news. Then, she made more announcements before school was finished for the day.

"It was very tiring," she said. "You had to be in one place every minute, doing something new."

Lindsey expected it to be difficult, but, she said, "It

Ryan, 10, also enjoyed his day as a building aide and learned a few things in the process.

A fourth-grader in Natalie Hewko's class, Ryan started out the day by making announcements for the Most of his duties, however, took place on the playground.

"I blew my whistle when people were breaking rules," he said.

None of the kids gave him trouble when they found that he was a kid himself.

However, he said that before his experience, he had no idea about that portion of a building aide's job.

"I didn't know they did all the work before recess," he said.

Ryan, who usually plays sports of some sort during recess, said he didn't abuse his power while he had the

However, a friend who was eavesdropping on the conversation, said Ryan told him to let him pitch or "I'll throw you off the field."

Ryan laughed and said he was only joking. Ryan is the son of Pat Brown of Deerhill Drive, Independence Township, and Tom Brown of Scenic Ridge, Independence Township.
