CHS homecoming parade entries wanted

It's not too late to sign up to be in Clarkston's Homecoming Parade Saturday, Oct. 2.

The parade begins at 10 a.m. at Clarkston Middle School. It follows Church Street west to Main Street north to Miller Road west.

The theme is "Faces in the Night," with instrumental music from Kenny G called "Silhouette."

Organizer Kate Yarber said children with decorated bikes, community groups, clubs, clowns, businesses, senior citizens and others are invited to participate. To register, call Cheryl Miller at 674-1581 or Clarkston High School at 625-0900. Parade entrants are to meet at Clarkston Middle School at 9 a.m.

School board meeting at high school Sept. 27

The Clarkston Board of Education has scheduled its Sept. 27 meeting for Clarkston High School and not the administrative building.

That day, the trustees will tour many of the district's buildings, with CHS being their last stop. The board will discuss what they've seen on the tour as part of the regular meeting.

The discussion and possible action on further budget cuts is also listed as an agenda item. The meeting begins at 7 p.m. in the media center.

For more information, call the administrative office at 625-4402.

Bye-bye, bottled water

Township may extend water to tainted Clarkston wells

> BY DEBORAH DZIEWIT Clarkston News Special Writer

Bottled water soon could be a nuisance of the past for a few Clarkston city residents.

If all goes well, most Clarkston residents with tainted water could drink from their own taps in a few months, thanks to a state grant.

Two homes with contaminated water don't qualify for a water main hookup, however.

The grant actually belongs to Independence Township, which received $215,000 from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources to provide 26 homes on Main Street with township water, according to George Anderson, the township's director of public works.

City of Clarkston officials heard of the award Sept. 13, when Anderson presented them with an informal proposal to hook up the 26 homes to the Independence

Man kills rattler with pickup truck

When Independence Township resident Larry Harris saw a peculiar looking snake sitting along Allen Road, he thought it deserved a second look.

Little did he know that double-take would reveal a Massasauga rattler, Michigan's only poisonous snake.

"When I passed it alongside the road, I knew it wasn't a garter snake, so I drove back to see if it was still there," the Allen Road resident said. "The first thing I heard was the rattle, so I knew it was a Massasauga. Right then, I decided I had to kill it."

Putting his truck into gear, Harris ran over the snake, crushing the life from it. Using a stick, he tossed the 18-inch reptile into the back of his truck and drove directly to The Clarkston News office.

"The first thing that popped into my mind when I saw it was all the kids that live along Allen Road," he said. "Supposedly, their venom isn't lethal enough to kill an adult, but it can be life-threatening to a child. Hopefully, the people around Allen Road will read this and warn their children to stay away from all snakes.'

For some reason, this summer has seen a rise in Massasauga-related incidents in the Clarkston area.

In May, a 6-year-old Springfield Township girl was bitten by a rattler at Indian Springs Metropark. And in July, a 12-year-old Waterford boy was nipped at Independence Oaks County Park. Both children recovered from their bites after hospital treatment.

When asked what he'd do with the carcass, Harris said he'd take it to work to show his buddies at General Motors Truck and Bus, Pontiac. After that, he'll bury it for good.

Grant will cut bottled water

Township community well. The city council is to receive a formal agreement from the township's attorney before the city's Sept. 27 meeting, Anderson said.

The intergovernmental agreement will include the township's authority to sell water to city residents, the township's responsibility for repairs, easements needed by the township to put in the pipe, and placement for fire

Anderson said he hopes the details of the agreement can be worked out at the meeting, so the township can solicit bids by early October. If that's the case, work can begin by late October.

The grant will pay to extend the township's water main along Main Street, from Northview Drive to one

City manager Art Pappas

house south of the Independence Township Hall on Main

In 1987, 19 wells on the township's Northview Drive were found contaminated with cancer-causing benzene, ethyl ether and freon-type compounds. Residents there used bottled water for more than a year until a water main was extended beneath I-75 to give water service to the neighborhood.

The state grant means the water line will be extended again, this time to serve city residents.

Each well will also be capped as part of the program, though not all 26 wells show evidence of contamination.

When they do it, the wells will be out of commission," said Art Pappas, city manager. "The residents cannot use the well again. They cannot even use it to water

According to Lois Elliott Grahm, an environmental sanitarian for the Michigan State Health Department, six residences and one business have tested positive for some gasoline compounds on Main Street.

If the grant does not pay what is needed to provide the residents with township water, then Grahm will apply for additional funds, she said. However, not all those residences with traces of contamination qualify for township water.

One home on Wompole and another on Robertson Court have tested positive and will not be hooked up to the township well, according to Grahm.

These are too far apart, and the DNR denied the money to fund the hookup," Grahm said."For now, they will continue to receive bottled water for drinking and cooking."

Grahm said she believes the contamination can be traced from the now-closed Powell Landfill on Clarkston Road, across from the township library, or from a gas station at 148 N. Main St., at the corner of Clarkston Road.

Grahm said it's difficult to track the direction and speed of the spreading contamination without the use of monitoring wells. The Health Department does not provide money to place wells that could better check the direction and speed of the plume; however, water testing will be continued at least once a year.

The grant, which covers the cost for bottled water, testing, and the installation of the water main, comes from the 1988 Quality of Life Bond, which is part of the Environment Protection Bond Implementation Act, Act 328, Public Act 1988.

Horse facilities need special approval

A request for special land use for horse facilities appears during a public hearing this month.

The Independence Township Planning Commission invites area residents to speak up on the matter at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 23, at the township annex, 90 N. Main St., Clarkston.

The horse facilities are planned for a 30-acre site on the southeast corner of Oakhill and Reese roads. The site is zoned rural residential, which calls for 3-acre minimum

Depot Park improvements include upgrades

BY DEBORAH DZIEWIT Clarkston News Special Writer

Children should have a safe place to play. Whether it's a backyard swingset or a town playground, the equipment and grounds should be free from danger.

Depot Park was recently found to be not such an ideal place for children to play. Located near the heart of the downtown, the city park was found to be in "bad shape" by the village's insurance representative, according to Jeanne Selander Miller, village clerk.

However, a committee, formed six weeks ago, hopes to make the park not only safer but also more age appropriate for the children who use it, said Selander

Post office offers 'stamps by fax'

Residents and merchants who have entered the electronic age of facsimile machines and phone service now can receive such service from the U.S. Post Office.

Stamps by "fax" are offered at the Clarkston Post Office at 5886 Ortonville Road, Independence Township. The fax number is 625-1084. Fax forms may be picked up at the post office.

Customers may pay for stamps by fax in two ways. Option No. 1, the No-Fee Trust Account: Deposit a $50 minimum check or cash to open a personal no-fee account and prepay for stamps. A trust account number will be sent to you for use on all fax orders. Send check (payable to postmaster) to: Lorraine Craft, Window Service Technician, U.S. Post Office, 5886 Ortonville Road, Clarkston, MI 48347-9998.

Option No. 2, Cash on Delivery: Pay by cash or check (made out to postmaster) when the carrier arrives with your stamps.

Postal officials said if they receive fax orders by 9 a.m., they can deliver it the same day. Orders received after 9 a.m. are delivered the next day.

Miller, spokesperson The Depot Park Playground Committee.

The committee invited Paul Miller, a safety specialist from Michigan Municipal Liability and Property Pool, to walk through the playground.

"He said, 'This has got to go; some of this needs to be changed, or this should be taken down,'" Selander Miller said.

In her report to the village council, Selander Miller said the railroad ties, duck, yellow gate and teeter-totter need to be removed as soon as possible.

It was also recommended that the clearance of the tire swing be changed so that it's the recommended 30 inches from the structure. The swing also should be replaced with a lighter tire.

Other recommendations included that the structure that connects the tire swing and the slide be separated; that the slide rungs be replaced with rope netting; and that the merry-go-round, while not recommended, should at least be leveled and better maintained.

In addition, all heights of structures used for climbing should be changed from 8 feet to 7 feet high.

In response to the highest priority deemed by five of six council members, the village's department of public works has since removed the ties and the broken duck and removed most of the cement under the slide and placed a layer of sand over the area.

But Depot Park needs more.

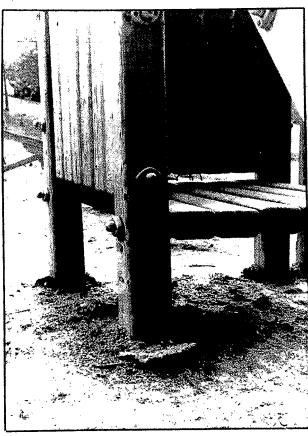

Selander Miller said the committee will continue to raise money for new equipment while it researches the residents' ideas for a playground and, more importantly, finds out what it can afford.

During the Clarkston Community Historical Society's Crafts and Cider Festival, the committee raised $1,400 from direct donations and a crepe sale to put toward the purchase of equipment.

But it also raised much more than that.

"We had people who donated something other than money," Selander-Miller said. "We had people who said they would donate their time to fund raise and to help build."

It will take community support to get the project off the ground, since the village does not have the money for the project, nor should tax dollars always be used for everything, she said.

PLAYGROUND safety improvements are top priority for the Clarkston City Council and the Playground improvement Committee these days. Changes include fixing exposed concrete, replacing worn parts and bringing in more sand.

The committee intends to focus on direct solicitation from businesses and community organizations for donations and to begin a neighbor-to-neighbor campaign.

"Our goal is to have success. id-raising through the winter and have new equipment in the spring," she said.

Food Network begins with volunteer training

BY JULIE CAMPE Clarkston News Editor

Area residents and merchants have a chance to help the hungry in the area — and receive some help in doing it

A Lighthouse North Food Network Volunteer Training seminar is planned for Thursday, Sept. 30. Participants may choose the 10 a.m. session or the 3 p.m. session. Both take place at Lighthouse North, 5331 Maybee Road, Independence Township. Call 673-4949 to reserve a spot.

The Food Network — modeled after a national food distribution program — collects unsalable fruits, vegetables and baked goods from area grocery stores and distributes them to the needy in north Oakland County.

Volunteers are needed pick up the food and take it to the distribution centers in eight northwestern townships in the county. They will be reimbursed for mileage.

The program began on a small scale this summer, when volunteers picked up "leftovers" from farmers at the Oakland County Farmers Market, said Sherry Kaars, director of Lighthouse North. The food was taken to senior centers and emergency food centers in the area, she said.

In the Clarkston area, Springfield and Independence senior centers — as well as Lighthouse North — serve as

"Tie us all together and we can really do something."

Director Sherry Kaars

emergency food centers.

Kaars said the food network fills a gap in the food supply for the area needy.

"We never have enough of fresh produce and fruits," she said. "The Food Network will be able to pick up the produce — nine grocers have agreed to help and are waiting pickups

"Grocers a lot of time feel bad about having to throw things out," said Kaars. "They try not to get to that point. But when they do, they can donate things from the bakery or damaged boxes that they're unable to sell."

She said such a coordinated effort will make a big difference and noted that many people are willing to help.

"Tie us all together and we can really do something," she said.

If the program goes well, it may be expanded throughout the county. Organizers also may share their expertise with those in Genesee and Lapeer counties, she said.

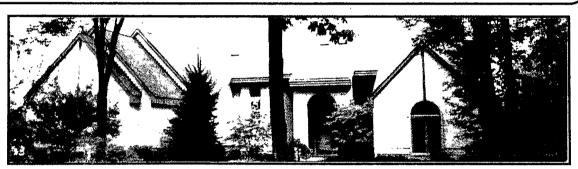

In the north Oakland County area, the program idea came from Clarkston Rotary members Drew Creamer, Lu Hewko, Mike Spillum, Marc Cooper and Brent Cooley. They recruited other area Rotary clubs to come up with the money to begin the program. The money pays for mileage for volunteers.

Kaars said next on her list is the donation of a vehicle from an individual or car dealership, so volunteers wouldn't have to use their own cars to deliver donated items. Call 673-4949 to help.

Zooming in

Through the lens

Julie Campe

My column now has a name: Zooming in. Newspaper columns are supposed to have names, according to the experts, though I'm very late in obliging.

My excuse is that no name seemed just right. "Zooming in" is close — half my job requires photography, especially using a zoom lens.

And it's a fitting metaphor for our job as reporters. A zoom lens on a camera allows us to photograph an event from such a distance that we're not too noticeable. We can get close to our subjects through the iens, without physically moving closer to them.

Without a zoom lens, we sometimes get too close and actually disrupt the action or influence it in some way -- people begin to pose for the camera instead of behaving as they would if no one were

Newspapers are supposed to reflect real life, and pictures are supposed to show a slice of time. That's why the pictures aren't always perfect. Sometimes the action takes place with a confusing background, for instance. But since that's "real," it stays. For comparison, consider an art photographer. He or she would move the action to a suitable background — or simply change the background after the photo is developed.

Not so in the newspaper.

Like photography, newswriting is similar. Our goal is to get close enough to the subject to portray it accurately in writing but not so close that we influence it or disrupt it.

It means listening instead of talking, watching instead of participating, and asking lots of questions instead of giving lots of opinions. It means getting close to our sources, but not too close.

That's why the stories we write aren't always perfect. Sometimes there are loose ends. And that's because there really are loose ends. In comparison, a fiction writer might change the events of his or her story to prevent such unraveling. Or he or she might tie them all together at the end.

Not so in the newspaper.

So we continue to zoom in on some issues, zooming out again for a wider perspective, and zooming in again on others. I can only hope we select our "zooming in" subjects as most of our readers would.

Sorry we were late

Letter to Our Loyal Readers and Advertisers, Last week's The Clarkston News was late getting to the newsstand and maybe to some of your mailboxes.

For that we apologize.

The reason for your inconvenience was the plates used on our printing press that make the printing onto your newspaper were faulty, making the newspaper nearly impossible to read.

To correct this, we sent Don Rush to a print shop in Caro for the plates needed to put out a clean newspaper.

Again, we apologize for any inconvenience.

Cooperation persists, despite cityhood

City-township relations seem to be operating smoothly, despite a "divorce" more than a year ago.

Clarkston — a half-square-mile that lies within Independence Township boundaries — became a city in July 1992, so it could control its own destiny and not be subject to township taxes.

It hasn't been easy in fact, it has cost more than expected. Whether it saves city residents money in the long run has yet to be seen.

But the bickering between the township and city has slowed a little — and cooperation is showing itself here and there.

One example — a grant to extend a township water line to city residents with tainted water wells.

Yep! The township has the resources, the city has the need, and the state has the money — so the project looks as if it will take place.

It means that construction will likely begin on Main Street, and 26 residences will be served with township water — for which they will pay at the same rate as township residents. While we're sure the same agreement would have taken place had Clarkston still been a part of the township, this cooperation still is good to see. And perhaps it can serve as a symbol of goodwill between

We hope that their cooperation to solve a problem serves as an example for the state agencies responsible for water testing and cleanup in the area. Maybe then, we'll see real cooperation — and safe well water.

About staff editorials

We at The Clarkston News realize that an important duty of a newspaper is to provide more than just the facts found in news stories.

Since we're out there uncovering the news, we get an inside look at the issues. In our staff editorials, we will give our opinions on those issues, just as other writing on this page — letters and columns — also offers opinions. We leave the editorials unsigned because we've written them as a staff. Every week, we talk about the issues and take notes on everyone's opinions. Then one of us writes it and the rest of us change it until we're all satisfied.

While our opinions aren't always unanimous, our editorials reflect the majority views of the staff. If the staff splits evenly on an issue, we'll write two editorials on the subject.

We welcome your response to our views.

Jim's Jottings Self questioning

Our president seems to like, or allow, programs in bunches. Like now he's pushing health care, NAFTA and re-inventing government. Why do you suppose that is? Several possible answers come to mind. Maybe he's young, full of vigor and thinks he's capable of handling many things at the same time.

Maybe he thinks if legislators' time and energy is spread around enough there won't be enough organized resistance to any one issue and they'll all

Maybe they're all trial balloons like we often hear floated in Washington, and what Bill Clinton is really after is something yet to be suggested that will continue him in office in perpetuity.

Maybe he doesn't know any better.

Well, what do you think of a national health care program, North American Free Trade Agreement and re-inventing government?

We already have the best health care of any nation in the world. No way can we trust Washington to improve it.

NAFTA will benefit us. The union/Perot argument that jobs will go south is nuts. They've gone south. More can go anytime. What we need is free trade to allow more exporting. We need easier access to customers for our products.

"Re-invent government" is what Al Gore hopes will become a popular catch phrase that will keep him on the Clinton ticket in perpetuity. Government has grown each of the eleven times "re-invention" has been promoted by a president in the past. It will continue to grow.

I see you've received the 1994 Old Farmer's Almanac. What's hot and what's not?

Right, I just received it. I've read only the cover letter, and sex is apparently hot. It says, 'Did you know that women rather than men initiate most romantic liaisons?'

'And that their most effective pick-up line is simply "Hi?" It works almost 100 percent of the time.' "Solving the Mysteries of Love and Sex" is the title. Somthing there on hair. 'Permed hair, you know, is 30 percent weaker than untreated hair. Hair does not grow after you are dead.'

How about this? Certain 1894 dimes are worth more than $100,000. Bathing suits with skirts are coming back. Those are girls' bathing suits, I think. It doesn't say in the letter.

I'm sure you'll write more later. In the meantime, heard any useable jokes?

A guy offered me a Bill Clinton golf ball. He said I'd only need one because it always had a perfect lie.

Like The News, disliked column

Over the past few years, I have enjoyed the articles in The Clarkston News.

Every week I've been able to keep up with my classmates' accomplishments and what is going on in the town that I love.

Imagine my dismay as I was reading to find my sister and her family described as the "teary-eyed Lawrences." This whole situation has been tear-filled and painful for my family and many friends. Not a day goes by that I don't thank God for the miracle of Allison's second chance.

The shows were chosen to try to help others be more aware. Never in my life would I wish upon someone else the ordeal that my family has been through.

Allison is progressing wonderfully, and the sound of her laughter is an incredible experience. Thank you to all the people who've given their support during this period.

To Mr. McAllister, I do not understand the motives for your attack on my family. I only hope that the next time you are searching for something to write about, you'll consider the feelings of the people who are affected. After all the emotions we've already been through, we did not appreciate your cold-heartedness.

Fight apathy in Constitution Week

Patriotism was never stronger in recent history than during Desert Storm.

Desert Storm is behind us, but our service people are still in many areas throughout the world in an attempt to foster world peace. However, our sense of patriotism seems to be ebbing away. We must not allow our pride of country to return to apathy.

We have a great country based on a great constitution, and we will be celebrating Constitution Week Sept. 17-23 to commemorate the signing of this great document on Sept. 17, 1787.

Perhaps we all need to be reminded that it was the Constitution that set our government in motion by creating our Congress, the Judiciary branch, and the manner in which we elect our leaders. It is not a perfect document by any means, but it has continued longer than any other written form of government.

Our Declaration of Independence expressed people's yearning to be free. The constitution gave us the framework to help "form a more perfect union." Let us not forget its importance.

Perhaps this would be an opportune time for all of us to take a moment and reflect on where we would be without it!

Two proposals reform school in different ways

School reform is a hot topic and a national issue now. Two proposals coming up in Congress deal with reform this month (House Bill 1804 and the Armey substitute).

A six-page fax from Washington, D.C., lists the differences and similarities between President Clinton's Goals 2000: Educate America Act and the Parent and Student Empowerment Act, which has been offered as a substitute by Congressman Dick Armey of Texas.

Both Goals 2000 and the Armey substitute provide $400 million in federal matching grants for school reform. Goals 2000 focuses on how much states spend and is a top-down reform. Armey's proposal wants a bottomup reforms led by parents and tailored to local school Goals 2000 was approved in the House Education and Labor Committee in June, and it and the substitute are tentatively scheduled to be voted on this month.

Since this is my column, I can be biased — and I will tell all of you that I will be calling Congressman Kildee to advise him I would like him to vote for the substitute and reject Goals 2000.

Goals 2000 is opposed by the chairman of the National Governors Association (a Democrat). It has been criticized by the American Federation of Teachers and by the National PTA. It is an open-ended program of federal school reform matching grants to states, initially $400 million a year. The Armey substitute is a five-year program, initially $400 million a year, and will be phased out by year five. It is supported by Lamar Alexander (the Secretary of Education under President Bush), Citizens for Educational Excellence, Concerned Women for America and

Goals 2000 expands federal control over local eduothers. cation and potentially over private, religious and home schools. It allows federal funding for school-based clinics, which include physical and psychological services for students. Section 213 and 403 illustrate how Goals 2000 paves the way for "race norming" educational and employment tests, which may change standardized tests for each race. There are no parent opt-out rights nor parental privacy provisions.

The substitute will strengthen local and parent control over education and states: "Nothing in this act shall be construed to authorize or encourage Federal control over, involvement in, or regulation of private or religious schools or home-based education."

It bars federal money from supported school clinics. A fax from Congressman Armey's office stated, "A school's mission is to teach, not to solve extraneous social, family and health problems. ... Non-educational problems should be addressed by the existing social service network and by private charity. The school should stick to teaching."

The Armey substitute calls for no race norming. It requires participating schools to honor parents' right to opt out of programs they consider detrimental to their children's education, and it requires schools to honor the parents' right to determine who can view their children's school records, with exceptions for legitimate educational purposes. The Clinton plan will create a powerful national school board, dubbed the National Educational Standards and Improvement Council, which will develop a uniform national curriculum and testing system and will dictate how much local schools must spend for teacher salaries, computers, etc. Lastly, the power to devise state and local reform plans (that are required to receive a grant under the act) will land in the hands of the education bureaucracy.

Armey's will have no national school boards, standards or tests. It permits waivers of federal red tape for innovative programs. It also establishes a temporary state reform panel chaired by the governor (an accountable elected official) to devise a state reform plan, and a local reform panel (chaired by an accountable elected local official) to devise the local plan. These panels are required to have parent and business representation and cannot be stacked with education workers.

For a copy or more information about Armey's plan, you can call his office at 202-225-7172. To voice your opinion either way, Congressman Kildee's number is 1-800-662-2685 or 202-225-3611.

Government and the drug trade

Jim Fitzgerald

The leading mayoral candidates say if elected they'll fight Detroit's terrible drug-crime problem by putting more cops in the streets. They don't say they'll do it by putting more drugs in drugstores. Too bad.

The candidates don't say exactly where, in an already overtaxed city, with an ever-crumbling tax base, they'll find the money to increase the war against drug dealers and the addicts who murder and steal to enrich those

Maybe Sharon McPhail would earn extra money for the city by moonlighting as president of GM during mayoral lunch hours.

Maybe Arthur Blackwell II would fatten the city treasury by using his officeholder's expense fund to build a deck on the City-Council Building and charge admission for fledgling officeholders eager to consult with Blackwell on how to sell your office while still holding on to it.

But get serious. I want a mayor who'll work for the legalization, or decriminalization, of drugs.

Once every year or so I mount the legal-drug platform, duck the subsequent brickbat response, and step down to await a better idea. It never comes. So, in honor of candidates more full of hollow promises than solid solutions, let's preach it one more time.

Sure, there are valid arguments against treating all destructive, addictive drugs the same as the most damaging one of all -- booze. Sell cocaine at state liquor outlets? Why make it easier -- cheaper, safer -- for people to ruin

You may as well ask: Why allow breweries to pay sports heroes and other beautiful people to go on TV and billboards to tell youngsters that success and happiness can be found in a beer can?

Because Prohibition was a failure?

Many questions have no perfect answers, only some answers that, while flawed, aren't as bad as other answers. If the sale of cocaine were legalized and controlled by government, overnight there would be a tremendous drop in "drug-related" crime. No more crack house murders. No more innocent people killed in drug-war cross-fire. Fewer robberies by dopers financing the next

Overnight, thousands of local, state and federal cops could stop risking their lives -- and spending our money -busting users and sellers. Overnight, no cops -- or government officials, foreign and domestic -- would face the temptation of rich payoffs from drug dealers for looking the other way. Overnight there also might be an increase in drug users, thanks to legal availability and lower prices. Certainly it would be easier for people already addicted to feed their habit. That's bad.

But the flip side is these unfortunate users would mostly be ruining only their own lives, by their own choice. They wouldn't be stealing from innocent citizens, and they wouldn't be using their loot to finance organized

For whatever reasons -- economic or smelly -- law enforcement is obviously unable to stop drug abuse. Every day the "biggest drug bust in history" is made, and every day the drug-crime problem gets worse.

That's because astronomical profits are made in the illegal drug industry? That much money can buy too much protection, too many people. Take the profit out of the crime, and the biggest part of the problem is solved.

The government's profit from legal drug sales could be used to educate against drug use, cure addicts and bankrupt the illegal drug business.

Onward and Upward. Candidates could preach that no beautiful people should be allowed to go on TV or billboards and say: "This crack's for you."

Park committee needs more than just dollars

BY DEBORAH DZIEWIT Clarkston News Special Writer

Clarkston-area residents should count themselves lucky. Not every small city has the obvious advantages that this small town holds within its city limits.

It seems that at any time of the day or night, a group of friends can gather at one of the street corners to exchange greetings or news or, for that matter, gossip.

Sure, the traffic might be a little heavier than it used to be. And, yes, there is a police officer who patrols the

However, this is a place where everybody knows your name — well at least your face.

Depot Park is one of those places where children can play with friends, and parents can exchange the news of the day with other parents.

However, for those of you who are familiar with the condition of the playground equipment, you might not have allowed your children to take a ride on the duck or allowed them near the seesaw.

Some of the equipment has been declared unsafe, and it has since been removed. A committee wants a safer environment for the children. It held a fund-raiser over the weekend and it raised $1,400.

But the committee needs more than dollars. It needs community involvement. Some did offer their time. Some did offer their expertise. Some did offer to help build the

However, some is not all. Many people within the town and the village use the park and, more importantly, have valuable talents to share with the committee.

Parks and playgrounds are vital to a community.

Too often, open space is used for parking lots or commercial buildings.

Take a walk down to Depot Park. Listen to the water rush to the mill pond. Feel the wind on your face. Look around. Then volunteer -something maybe more than cash — donate your time and your spirit. Become part of Depot Park.

Nixing sound wall was good move

I would like to thank Independence Township Clerk Joan McCrary and trustees Mercado, Travis and Vaara for their opposition to the sound wall easement near the intersection of M-15 and I-75.

Every time I pass that area, I look at that stretch of forest and think of how a small group of people can attempt to hold the community hostage for their happiness. These few families and the Michigan Department of Transportation want to build a 13-foot-high concrete wall along the entrance to our community.

Trustee Jeffrey McGee feels that the wall could be aesthetically appealing. I have grave concerns that Mr. McGee and MDOT may want to foster further aesthetically appealing revisions to our community. Together, they could rip out all of those ugly old houses along Main Street and replace them with aesthetically appealing concrete.

If anyone bought a home in Old Sturbridge without noticing that there was an interstate a few yards away, traffic noise is the least of their problems. For those who did notice the freeway and bought the property anyway, how dare them whine to us and demand that we taxpayers cough up a quarter-million dollars for their home improvement and then look at the grotesque monument to their selfishness everytime we come home from work.

But then, if it happens we can always spend another quarter-million dollars to have a group of urban artists come up from Detroit and paint a modern Day-Glo fresco on the wall to make it even more aesthetically appealing to Mr. McGee.

Dance students lost a real gem

This letter is a response from parents and students who have lost a loyal and talented dance instructor, who had been with Independence Parks and Recreation for Her name is Miss Zoe Ann. Her leadership and dedication throughout those years have been known to many, and for her to have to take a pay cut and take whatever space they can find is absurd.

I hope the new director realizes what a jewel they have lost and the real gem that her new parks and recreation home will be gaining.

'Lack of facilities' disappoints kids

The Independence Township Parks and Recreation recently lost a tremendous contributor to its activities curriculum in Ms. Zoe Ann Ferguson.

She taught a large number of young ladies in the community to dance for several years, all the while boosting their self-esteem. I know several young ladies at The Clarkston (MI) News Wed., Sept. 22, 1993 9 A the middle school level alone who are very disappointed. One of the reasons for her departure was "lack of facility." My son could no longer attend his karate class. It was bounced around so much, due to "lack of facility." The community sorely lacks consistent after school activities for young children.

Who's or what's the culprit? Get rid of it. Do more establishments need to open their doors? I ask that they open them. Cut the red tape.

After all, it's for the children.

Survey shows how Haner's package stacks up

BY DOUG CARLSON

The most interesting discussion in a recent school board meeting centered around extending Superintendent Gary Haner's contract.

Trustees Kurt Karlstrom and Janet Thomas argued against an extension because they feel several of the benefits contained therein are overly generous and should be scaled back or eliminated entirely. They favor letting the contract run out in 1995 and renegotiating it in its entirety at that time.

The school board's decision of this matter prompted me to search through my records for a report that I felt might put this whole thing in perspective.

The report, published by the Michigan Association of School Boards, contains 1991-92 survey data on school administrative salaries and fringe benefits. A portion of it is entitled "1991-92 Superintendent Survey Report." I think you'll find it to be extremely interesting.

Although the survey data is two years old, the relationships between districts are interesting and worth noting. One has to assume that these relationships have not changed significantly during the past two years.

Although the survey contains data on nearly every school district in the state of Michigan, I selected only those districts that are familiar or relevant to people in this general area. The cross-section of districts selected range from those that are very small (2,000-plus students) to those that are very large (14,000-plus students). In addition, I included only those benefits that were brought into question at the last school board meeting.

As you review the survey data, keep in mind that we currently provide our superintendent with a new vehicle every two years (current value $18,000) and that we pay for his gasoline for both personal and business use.

Superintendent Haner indicated recently that "my actual vehicle expense is only about $4,000 a year when you consider that we would get some sort of trade-in for it if we were to sell it." The vehicle is destined to become a "mail vehicle" in the district next year.

Trustee Kurt Karlstrom would like to put a cap on the value of the vehicle we provide (considerably less than $18,000) and limit the gasoline allowance to business usage only.

Anyway, review the comparative survey data and judge for yourself how Clarkston compares with other school districts when it comes to benefit packages.

Note: It would appear that Holly and Brandon also offer substantial benefits, especially considering the size of their districts. However, their superintendents' salaries are substantially less than others in this list. Kalkaska also appears to be quite generous. Maybe that's why they're broke.

O'Neill to run for Congress

Megan O'Neill of Independence Township has announced her candidacy for U.S. Congress in Michigan's Ninth Congressional District in 1994.

In 1992, O'Neill won a four-candidate primary campaign, capturing nearly 40 percent of the vote, and came within 4 percentage points of defeating 16-year incumbent Democrat Dale Kildee.

O'Neill has been a life-long resident of Oakland County and has most of her experience in the health care field. She has worked in thoracic surgery research at Henry Ford Hospital, as administrative manager for the Northwest Oakland Physicians Group, and as a consultant for Sleep Disorders Centers. O'Neill also is co-founder of the Michigan Sleep Disorders Society.

O'Neill is a volunteer for the Clarkston Foundation for the Enhancement of Public Education, a member of the Oakland County Business Roundtable's Export Committee and the University of Detroit's Presidents' Cabinet, and is the activities coordinator for the World Cup Soccer Organization in Pontiac.

In addition, she worked on the White House Advance Team for President Bush and Vice-President Quayle. This included domestic and State visits, such as the START Summit in Moscow and the Far East trade delegation in 1991.

She is a member of the Oakland County Republicans Club, the Lapeer County Republican Club, Rochester Women's Republican Club, Women's Republican Club of North Oakland County, and the Young Republican Club of Oakland County.

O'Neill's platform includes stands for a balanced budget amendment and a line item veto.

Traffic tie-ups are bound to mount in Springfield Township

BY DEBORAH DZIEWIT Clarkston News Special Writer

The familiar yellow school buses will continue to be absent from some Springfield Township roads, since voters rejected a Headlee override in the Holly Area District.

Voters turned down 3.245 additional mills by a margin of 86 votes in a special millage election Monday.

Residents, who have turned downed Headlee overrides in the past, did so by defeating it 2,032 to 2,118. The Headlee Amendment to the state constitution automatically rolls back property taxes whenever property values increase at a rate higher than the rate of inflation. The vote would have allowed the schools to not roll back the rate.

A mill is $1 in property tax for every $1,000 of the assessed value of a home. If the increase had been approved, a the owner of an $80,000 home assessed at half its market value ($40,000) would have paid about $130 in additional winter taxes only.

Property owners would have paid the amount only once, since a law passed in June eliminated funding for schools through property tax assessments after Dec. 31.

If it had passed, the Headlee override would have added $1.3 million — $1.14 million from taxpayers and $223,000 from the state — to the school district's budget.

Without the additional money, the Holly Board of Education won't bring back programs, teachers and transportation that were cut because of reduced money from

"We're disappointed and had hoped to restore busing," said Susan Yates, Davisburg Elementary principal. "It was also our hope to do something to reduce class

Yates said that the newly hired deputy will continue to direct traffic during the afternoon for as long as the Parent Teacher Organization could afford to pay his wages.

Middle school and high school students will continue to pay the same amount for the pay-to-play sports. If the millage had passed, students would have paid less.

The precincts voted as follows: Precinct No. 1 — Holly and Groveland Townships:

523 yes, 574 no. Precinct No. 2 — Springfield, Rose and White Lake Townships: 952 yes, 891 no.

Wolves shock Brandon in league opener

BY CURT MCALLISTER Clarkston News Associate Editor

The Clarkston varsity boys' soccer team continued its winning ways Monday night by downing defending GOAL champion Brandon, 6-5.

The Wolves (8-1) nipped the host Blackhawks in the final minutes of overtime. "This was a big road win for us," said Clarkston Coach Dan Fitzgerald. "This should act as a big confidence builder, considering they've won the league the past couple of years."

In fact, the Blackhawks had been undefeated and ranked No. 7 in the Class B state soccer poll, prior to the contest. According to Fitzgerald, it's been two years since a Clarkston squad beat Brandon.

"The most impressive thing about this win is that it was at their place," he said. "We beatthem two years ago at home, but I have no idea how long its been since a Clarkston team has knocked them off in Brandon."

Fitzgerald said the Wolves put the pressure on from the start by jumping out to a 4-2 lead. Clarkston received two goals from Nick Bielak and one each from Tony Sartor and J.R. Kirk.

However, Brandon stormed back in the second period to knot the contest at 4-4, sending the game into overtime. In the GOAL, an overtime consists of two, 10-

Within the first minute of overtime,

Brandon scored, pushing their advantage to 5-4.

"I have to admit I thought we were done when they scored so quickly in the overtime," Fitzgerald said," but our kids hung in their and showed a lot of heart."

Minutes later, CHS tied the score when Bielak scored his third goal of the game on a pass from Ryan Schilling, who had just been promoted from the JV team prior to the contest. Schilling also earned an assist on the game winner when he fed Kirk on a break-away with less than two minutes left in the second OT.

"We intend to use Ryan the rest of the season," Fitzgerald said. "He was scoring a lot at the JV level, so we can definitely use his punch."

Goalie Shane Collier turned away about 14 shots to earn the win. He was also very impressive Sept. 18 when the Wolves blanked Royal Kimball 1-0.

Despite this victory, Fitzgerald said his squad played quite sloppily.

"We were really rusty," he said. "It had been nearly a week since we'd played a game and it showed."

Kirk scored the lone goal in this game, giving him 11 on the year.

"I'm really happy with his statistics," the coach said. "Had someone told me prior to the season that J.R. would get 15 goals, I'd been estatic. It looks like he's going to get that number easily now."

The Wolves next game is Monday, Sept. 27, at Lake Orion. Fitzgerald said the Dragons should pose a challenge.

"Lake Orion, like everyone else in the league, has a winning record," he said. "So, we'll have to be ready for them."

The Clarkston varsity girls' tennis team improved its overall record to 4-2 Monday with a win over host Hartland.

The Wolves nipped their non-conference foe 4-3. Coach Becky Craig was pleased with her netters' performances.

"All the matches were really, really close," she said. "I'm very proud of the way they played.

"This is the closest match we've had so far," Craig added. "Up to this point, we've either blown out our opponents or been blown out."

The winning tennis players included: Kristy Swartout, first singles; Amanda Van Klaveren, third singles; Rene Van Klaveren, fourth singles; and the No. 1 doubles team of Kelley Wall and Jody Weather-

This was the Wolves third consecutive win of the season. On Sept. 15, they blanked Waterford Mott 7-0 to raise their league record to 2-0.

Earning singles victories were: Swartout, No. 1; Mary Schmidt, No. 2; Amanda Van Klaveren, No. 3; and Rene Van Klav-

The winning doubles teams included: Wall and Weatherington (No.1); Carly Kade and Kristy Kade (No.2); and Jocelyn Stock and Emily Portge (No.3).

During the past weekend, the tennis squad also participated in the eight-team Fenton Tournament and took third-place overall. Four Wolves earned medals in the meet, which was dominated by Carman-Ainsworth.

The medalists included: Swartout, second at No. 1 singles; Schmidt, third at No. 2 singles; and Wall and Weatherington, third at No. 1 doubles.

Coupled with some excellent shooting and a little luck, the Clarkston varsity golf team finds itself back atop the GOAL standings.

The Wolves knocked off Pontiac Northern and Waterford Kettering last week, while Waterford Mott disposed of Lake Orion for the Dragons' first loss of the

This turn of events puts Orion and Clarkston in a tie for first with identical league records of 5-1. The Wolves lost to Orion Sept. 13 by just one stroke at the Oxford Hills Golf Course.

A rematch at the Spring Lake Country Club has been set for Sept. 29.

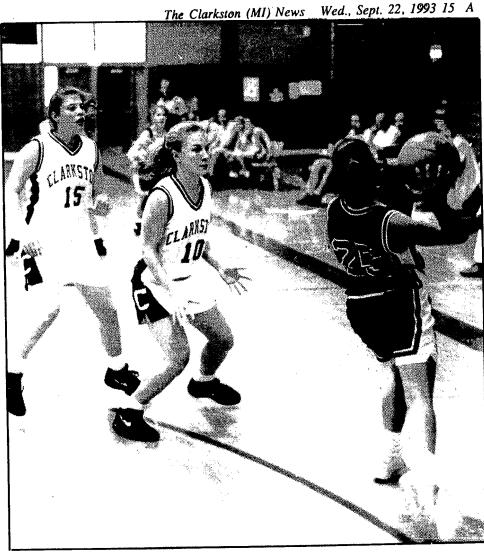

On Sept. 14, the Wolves whipped winless Pontiac Northern 151-235 at the 35-par Pontiac Municipal Golf Course. CHS was paced by Jon Dean and Jayson Buchmann with 37. Teammates Corey Bildstein, Armin Michelson and Brandon Scheib also pitched in with a39 apiece.

Northern's best player was Jeremy Drake with a 55.

Two days later, the Wolves beat Waterford Kettering 155-173 at the Pontiac Country Club.

Dean and Bildstein each shot a 37 on the Par-36 course. Ryan Karlstrom also chipped in with a 39, while teammate Jeremy Jenson rounded out the scoring with a 42.

The Wolves will host Brandon on Thursday, Sept. 23.

Double trouble

JV GUARDS Stephanie Giroux (10) and Brynn Allyn (15) use a trapping defense to pester a Troy ballhandler. Similar pressure resulted in numerous turnovers for the young Wolves Sept. 16.

Coach Gayle Conwell said her team's top finish was a big improvement over last year's performance.

Last year, we took fourth place overall, but we knew could do better," she said. "This year, we just couldn't do wrong. It was really our day."

Members of the varsity team include: Val Johnston, Jeani McNamee, Angela Schaefer, Kristen Stanton, Jenny Wisser, Robin Currie, Jennie Nelson, Kristen Peterson, Kelly Simko, Crystal Smith, Tricia Victory and Jenny Walters. Assistant coach is Pam Darrian.

The junior varsity team also fared well by grabbing a sixth-place trophy for overall performance in its division. They've impressed in a couple of tournaments already this season. In July, the junior varsity grabbed the Spirit Award at the Cheer Michigan cheerleading camp in Orton-

Wolf harriers fall to Lake Orion

Riddled by injuries, the Clarkston cross country teams fell victim to Lake Orion Sept. 14.

The boys' squad lost 15-48, while the girls' team failed to field enough runners.

Curt Duca paced the boys' team with a sixth-place finish of 19 minutes, 14 seconds at Clarkston High School. Teammates Steve Anderson and Jeremy Lafferty came in ninth and tenth places respectively with an identical time of 19:54. Matt Warner (20:08) finished 12th in the 33-man field.

The girls only fielded three runners in their run. Among the missing was all-stater Leah Scharl, who's the GOAL's two-time defending champ.

Clarkston's Anna Vandermeer earned fifth place with a time of 25 minutes, 41 seconds. Teammates Stacie Iezzi took sixth with an identical time, while Stefanie Burklow grabbed seventh in 26:05.

With the losses, both teams' records fell to 3-2 overall, 0-1 in the league. Their next meet is Saturday, Sept. 25, at the Michigan State University Invitational.

B-ball camp for girls

Young basketball players can get help on their skills during a six-week basketball camp coming up.

Winning streak hits 4

The Clarkston varsity girls' basketball team pushed its winning streak to four games last week, as they gear up for league

On Sept. 14, the Wolves traveled to Davison and topped the host Cardinals 45-

Leading 18-17 to start the second half, Clarkston exploded for 17 third-quarter points to leave their foes in the dust. CHS was led by senior Erin Patterson with 12 points.

Teammates Anne Brueck, Laura Seitz and Shawna Greene each added eight points

The Cardinals were paced by Holly Mitchelle with nine points.

Two days later, the Wolves hosted Troy and nipped the Colts 38-34. Seitz led CHS with nine points and Crystal Lemke chipped in with eight points and 10 rebounds. Brueck and Greene added six points apiece for the winning cause.

Troy was paced by Jamie Vegh, who dumped in a game-high 18 points.

The Wolves (6-1) will host Brandon on Thursday, Sept. 23.

nips CHS Kettering

The Clarkston varsity football team found a tough opponent in Waterford Kettering Friday night, as the Wolves fell 7-6 in the league opener.

The Wolves led 6-0 going into the final three minutes of play, but the Captains rallied with the help of star tailback Everett Morris and a pivotal Clarkston penalty. Morris, who'd been held in check up to that point by the Wolves, put the Captains at Clarkston's eight-yard line after jaunts of 14 and 15 yards.

The Wolves (1-2) held tough on the next couple of plays, until they were whistled with a facemask penalty, which gave Kettering a first down on the five. On the next play, Morris fought his way in for the score.

After adding the extra point, Kettering (3-0) was able to hold on for the win.

Clarkston's lone score came in the second quarter when wide receiver Pat Mulligan scored on a 19-yard run, following a blocked Kettering punt. However, the extra-point failed, giving the Wolves a 6-0 halftime lead.

Offensively, the Wolves were led by tailback Joe Davis who rushed for 101 yards on 23 carries. This game marked the third consecutive 100-plus rushing performance for the senior.

Quarterback Kevin Dankert completed six of 11 passes for 45 yards and one interception.

The Wolves host Ypsilanti this Friday, Sept. 24. The game begins at 7:30

Dentists warn against chew

When a young boy gazes in awe at his favorite professional baseball player, he sees more than a pitcher throwing strikes or a batter's home run—he picks up habits from his hero, including the kind that can be hazardous to his health.

Many of these athletes sport wads of chewing tobacco in their mouths, while they're out on the diamond. And many young people, in an effort to imitate those they admire, start chewing smokeless tobacco themselves.

To millions of young people, the use of smokeless tobacco products, also known as "snuff," "chew" or plug," is somehow glamorous. Unfortunately, many of these youngsters (including teen-age girls and very young children) don't know about the potentially dangerous consequences of such

The incidence of oral cancer is expected to increase five-fold over the next 30 to 40 years, largely because of the enormous increase in smokeless tobacco use among young people. An estimated 13 percent of children ages 9-14 are regular users of smokeless tobacco products.

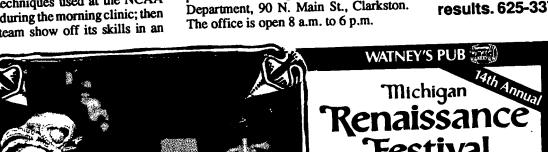

The Michigan Dental Association said youngsters should know that smokeless tobacco isn't a safe alternative to ciga-

Businesses begin M-15 promotion

Business people from several communities located along M-15 between Clarkston and Bay City are moving beyond the "talking stage" and are beginning to take action to recruit additional tourist traffic.

A Thursday, Sept. 16 meeting at the Davison Area Senior Citizens Activity Center included representatives from Davison, Goodrich, Ortonville and Vassar, among others, according to Chris Kautz, president of the Davison Area Chamber of Commerce.

Most were representing the chambers of commerce of the various communities, and were following up on Vassar businessman Dave Johnston's proposal, presented earlier this year to local chambers, to promote the M-15 corridor to travelers as a scenic alternative to I-75.

While neither the group nor the campaign have an official name, Kautz said there is a definite commitment to market the area through a brochure which will devote one or two pages to the various features and events in each community along the route. Davison will likely promote events such as the Festival of Flags and Pumpkin Festival.

So far, the effort is still a local one. Johnston's efforts to gain commitment from state tourism and transportation agencies have yet to see results. Nonetheless, with the "plan of action" being developed, Kautz said the group will meet monthly to continue implementing the plan.

"We want things rolling by December," said Kautz.

Construction & Remodeling the right to continue most of its plans for the 51-unit Ridge Run development, near the corner of Weber and Tucker roads.

The board gave Bruce Burskey, owner of Done-Rite, two choices: go back to the plan originally approved by the board Aug. 3 or submit a new proposal, which must then gain board approval.

All trustees found that some current site work completed to date would not meet township construction standards.

"Parts of the site construction deviated significantly from what we approved," said Nancy Strole, township clerk. "While board members approved minor adjustments on the approved plan, these changes would require wavers or variances of the townships construction code."

Trustees and township engineer Michael Peterson voiced most concern over the proposed driveway slopes. According to Peterson, several of the driveway grades exceeded the township's maximum driveway slope

While some townships allow a driveway grade of 10 percent, I would advise 8 percent or less," Peterson

Supervisor Collin Walls told Burskey that site work could continue only in areas that followed the original approved site plan.

Walls also warned Burskey that he could only

Workshop for historic local structures set

The Historic Study Committee of Independence Township will hold its first citizen workshop Oct. 4, when they'll discuss how to best preserve the area's historic

The workshop begins at 7 p.m. in the Independence Township Library on Clarkston Road. The purpose of the meeting is to present the current progress of a townshipwide study and to provide a forum for open discussion on preservation issues.

The township board recently formed a study committee to prepare a Historic Preservation Plan. The committee is assisted by township planning consultant Richard Carlisle.

In 1991, the township completed a historic survey of pre-1900 structures that may be considered "historic." Additional survey work is underway to identify pre-1940 structures in Independence.

The purposes of the townshipwide study include: to create an inventory of all structures between 1900 and 1940 not included in the previously completed historic survey, to explore alternative methods of preserving historic structures and promoting preservation, to conduct a citizen involvement program for historic property owners, and to prepare a plan that documents findings of the study. For more information, call the township clerk's office at 625-5111.

Once-in-a-lifetime opportunity

Amanda Van Klaveren

AT MILE High Stadium, we were all overwhelmed by our first encounter with the metal detectors. But it was worth it. At one through the scenic states of Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, and Nebraska. Our trip was non-stop, with the exception of a few food and bathroom breaks. We made relatively good time, arriving in Denver about 3 p.m. the following day.

Our first stop was Mile High Stadium, World Youth Day headquarters, where we registered and picked up our "packets." The packet included some information about the week ahead, the program for Sunday's mass, World Youth Day passes that we wore around our necks, and everybody's favorite — our McDonald's meal tickets.

We spent the next hour cruising toward our hotel, enjoying the mountain scenery. To our surprise, a rainbow stretched across the sky and seemed to welcome us.

Our final destination was Manitou Springs, the location of our hotel, where we hoped to find the showers we so desperately needed. We were all making jokes about the little dumpy motels along the side of the road, so you can imagine our surprise when we pulled into one of them. The sign proudly proclaimed, "The Cottonwood Court Motel ... we have clean rooms."

It wasn't quite the Marriott - OK, so it wasn't even close. It did have some good points, though, such as a car port for every room, a beautiful view of a swamp, and no wake-up calls (due to the lack of phones). We were, however, pleasantly surprised by the furnishings, which were actually quite nice.

That night, we just hung around the motel. We were all run-down from the trip, all of our late-night discussions and bus games. The softness of the beds compared to that of the bus floor was definitely an improvement. We point, we were within five feet of the Pope, who actually nodded at me.

all slept like babies and similarly cried when we had to rise to board the bus at 7:30 a.m. the next morning.

That day, we went to Seven Falls, a private park in the mountains. We had to climb up a billion stairs next to a rushing waterfall, but when we reached the top, we found it was well worth the hike. The view was captivat-

I guess that's when I started to think about just how small I really am in the world.

My thoughts were then interrupted by someone yelling "hello" in an effort to hear his echo respond. That sort of killed my philosophical reflection, so I resorted to

After descending from the mountains, we boarded our buses and headed toward Denver for the first appearance of the Pope.

We were one of the few lucky groups to get tickets to the Papal Welcoming ceremony at Mile High Stadium. We were all overwhelmed by our first encounter with the Secret Service and the hundreds of police, as well as having to pass through metal detectors.

We could hardly believe how fortunate we were when we discovered our seats were right on the field. Standing down on the field, looking up at all the people in the stands, I realized how much this trip really meant to me. One person had brought all these people together. It was incredible to see. I can't even begin to describe the sheer number of people who were cheering, singing and dancing, all for the same reason.

(To be continued next week.)

Editor's note: This is the first of a three-part series. A once-in-a-lifetime opportunity came to me this past year, and I took it. I ventured with my youth group from St. Daniel Catholic Church to Denver, Colo., for the celebration of World Youth Day '93. There we saw Pope John Paul II and met people from all over the world. It was an experience I will never forget.

It all began with a bus trip.

About 1 p.m. Aug. 10, I arrived at St. Dan's, my bags and all, ready for the long haul. As I walked in the building, mounds of bags were stacked along the walls. "Pilgrims" (that's what they called us) and their parents were standing around talking and holding their cameras. You could hear some parents drilling their kids, "Now, you have your toothbrush, right?"

Before departing, we had a pizza party. Little did we know this would be our last good meal.

Then we said a little prayer, where we were blessed for our journey. Some pictures were taken, and we gathered our bags and said our goodbyes.

One bus needed help starting from another bus, but finally we were on our way, with 66 young adults and chaperons from St. Daniel's and St. Anne's (of Ortonville).

The ride was a long haul indeed, 26 hours of riding in the same bus, with the same people, in the same seat, no showers, and no brushing our teeth.

Many hands of euchre were played, and someone even suggested the license plate game. But at least we vere fortunate to have had a TV and VCR. One of the mothers also donated about 20 videos to watch along the way, and for that we thank her dearly.

Ron Rodda Sales Manager Career in Real Estate? "ASK RON"

QUESTION: My builder says I will need "perc" tests on my land before building a house. What are "perc" tests?

ANSWER: They are soil tests which consist of both perc holes and bore holes. The soil testing is done to determine whether or not the site tested will meet the requirements for a domestic sewage disposal system. To obtain a permit for the conventional system, the land owner must obtain a soil test which indicates that the soil has the capacity to absorb water at a fast enough rate, and with enough soil between the proposed system and ground water table to filter the effluent completely.

MARY HIMBURG of Clarkston poses with one of her many creatins. The Holcomb road resident is the owner of Cottage Flowers, a one-year-old decorative painting business. She paints decoratve scenes on furniture and as borders for rooms and has recently begun sponge- and rag-painting walls. She has painted bathrooms, laundry rooms, bedrooms and even a cement block basement. Her favorite works are her own guest bedroom, which is painted with clouds and a picket fence, and a customer's older bedroom set that she painted all white and decorated it with flowers and vines. Himburg buys furniture at garage sales, or people can bring their furniture to her. (Photo by Cather-

Recipe Corner

In advance

If you're cooking with vegetables fresh from the garden, you may want to prepare a few foods in advance -- and then store them for winter.

To freeze, use the following techniques (then try the recipe below).

 Air is the main enemy to quality frozen food because it causes freezer burn. Food maintains its high quality freshness if your freezer for months if it's airtight.

 Foods should be frozen as soon as possible to preserve their fresh-picked quality.

• Freezer temperature is critical to maintaining the quality of frozen foods. The freezer should be kept at 0 degrees or colder.

● Ziplock freezer bags offer an easy and effective solution to maintaining frozen food quality. They're transparent, durable and may be resealed so you use only the food you need.

The following recipe can be frozen and separated into single- or family-size portions for a quick, nutritious dinner during a busy week or an elegant meal when you entertain guests.

VEGETABLE LASAGNA

2 cups ricotta cheese

2 cups part-skim mozzarella cheese

1/2 cup Parmesan cheese, grated

Basil-Tomato Sauce*

2 cups fresh spinach, chopped

1 1/2 cups mushrooms, sliced

1 cup blanched carrots, thinly sliced

1/4 cup parsley, minced

1 box (16 ounces) of lasagna noodles, cooked

2 packages (9 ounces each) refrigerated lasagna noodles. Mix cheeses. Spread 1 cup tomato sauce in the bottom of 13-X-9-inch baking pan. Layer one-third of the noodles over sauce; top with half the spinach, mushrooms, carrots and parsley. Spoon one-third of the cheese mixture over the vegetables. Repeat layers, ending with layer of noodles, sauce and cheese on top. Bake, uncovered, in preheated 350-degree oven, about 1 hour. Cut into squares. Makes 8 main dish servings.

*Basil-Tomato Sauce

1 cup onion, chopped

3 cloves garlic, minced

2 tablespoons olive or vegetable oil

2 teaspoons dried basil leaves

1 teaspoon dried oregano leaves

1/2 teaspoon dried thyme leaves

11/2 pounds ripe tomatoes, peeled, coarsely chopped

1/2 cup tomato paste

1/2 cup water

2 tablespoons parsley, minced

Pepper

Saute onion and garlic in oil in large saucepan until tender. Stir in herbs; cook 1 to 2 minutes. Stir in tomatoes, tomato paste and water; heat to boiling. Reduce heat and simmer, uncovered, until sauce is thickened. Stir in parsley, season to taste with salt and pepper. Makes 3 cups.

Community education at a glance

Fall registration

Registration for high school completion classes and adult enrichment classes continues at the Clarkston Community Education Center 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

High school completion students should call 674-0993 to make an appointment with an academic advisor. Classes began the week of Sept. 15. If you haven't received a fall 1993 Community Education brochure, call or stop by the community education center.

Country-western dance

Instructor Pauline Colbert guides students through the two-step, country waltz, and the latest line dances. Wear hard-sole shoes or boots. The six-session class begins Wednesday, Sept. 29, at Clarkston Middle School. Couples' class ($59 per couple) is 6:30-8 p.m. Singles' class ($29 per person) (line dances) takes place 8-9:30

Exploration in creative writing

This creative writing course includes exercises in generating ideas, writing, and revising, as well as lots of group discussion and support. Nine sessions takes place 6:30-8:30 p.m. Tuesdays, beginning Sept. 28, at Sashabaw Middle School. Class fee is $45.

Marketing your business and service

This class gives information on how to target business, clarify messages about your business, and use incentives and costs of marketing. It takes place 7-9 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 29, at Sashabaw Middle School. Class

Herbal elegance door swag

Create an elegant door swag, using natural textures of vine, bark and mosses combined with dried flowers in bright colors. Material and supply fee is $38. One session takes place 6:30-9:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 30, at Sashabaw Middle School. Class fee is $12.

For more information

Clarkston Community Schools Department of Community Education operates out of a building at 5275 Maybee Road, Independence Township. To register, to obtain a brochure, or for more information, call 674-0993. Visa or Mastercard may be used to pay enrichment class

STATE OF MICHIGAN COUNTY OF OAKLAND CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE BOW POINTE ROAD IMPROVEMENT

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE Date: October 5, 1993 Time: 7:30 p.m.

90 North Main Street, Clarks' n. Michigan Please take notice that on October 5, at 7:30 p.m. in the independence, 90 Township Hall (Annex) of the Charter Township North Main Street, Clarkston, Michigan, the Township Board shall meet for the purpose of hearing comments and objections to the proposal for the improvement of Bow Pointe Road and to the establishment of a Special Assessment District. The proposed improvement involves paving, widening and drainage improvements for Bow Pointe Road, including necessary easements for water and sewer facilities to serve properties adjacent to Bow Pointe Road.

The cost estimate for the improvement is in the amount of $419,052,36. The tentative Special Assessment District consists of properties described as: 08-27-251-002; 08-27-251-003; 08-27-251-005; 08-27-252-001:08-27-252-003:08-27-252-004; and 08-27-276-001. Independence Township, Oakland County, Michigan.

A copy of revised plans and a revised cost estimate for the road improvement project are on file in the offices of the Township Clerk, 90 North Main Street, Clarkston, Michigan, for public inspection during normal business hours.

Appearance and protest at the hearing is required in order to appeal the matters to be considered at the hearing to the State Tax Tribunal. An owner or party in interest or his or her agent may appear in person at the hearing to protest the special assessment, or shall be permitted to file his or her appearance or protest by letter and his or her personal appearance in such shall not be required.

Gun-manufacturing process has changed

Everyone figured out the gun pictured last time was a cap gun ... right? Some of us even went to the movies during the 1950s and '60s and could recognize the guns the good guys used. We knew the cowboys! The gun showed was a Hopalong Cassidy six-shooter.

Hoppy rode the trail with cowboys like Roy Rogers, Gene Autry and the Lone Ranger.

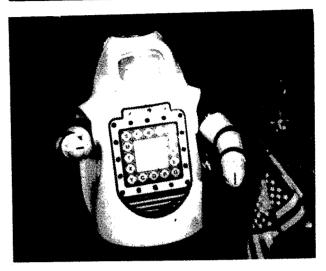

Memorabilia normally reflects the time period. Today, it's tough to determine whether movies create the memorabilia or memorabilia creates the movies. But in the era depicted by the Hoppy cap gun, movies created the memorabilia.

Cap guns first appeared about 1886. One of the early cap gun manufacturers was J.E. Stephens. The guns were percussion type and typically portrayed people, animals and events of the time. Many of these early guns were referred to as "fire cracker guns" and were cast iron.

As manufacturing process changed, a less expensive method of producing cap guns began. White metal guns were produced in the late 1920s and 1930s. The process changed again in the 1970s to present, producing plastic

Question for next time ... what in the world is this, pictured in the photograph?

Toy collector Jim Carlson of Independence Township may be contacted by writing to him in care of The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main St., Clarkston, MI 48346.

CITY COUNCIL MINUTES OF THE REGULAR MEETING

SEPTEMBER 13, 1993 The meeting was called to order by Mayor Catallo at 7:37 p.m. followed by the pledge of allegiance.

Roll: Present: Arkwright, Catallo, Roeser, Sanderson, Schultz,

Absent: Basinger

Moved by Arkwright, supported by Sanderson, "That the minutes of the meeting on August 23, 1993 be accepted as presented." Motion carried.

Moved by Schultz, supported by Secatch, "That the agenda be accepted as presented with the following additions: Depot Park Playground and School Buses." Motion carried. Moved by Roeser, supported by Sanderson, "That the bills for the month of August, totalling $51,394.05 be approved for payment."

roll: yeas-6, nays-0. Motion carried. Schultz indicated that the stop signs had been placed at Glenburnie and Miller Road. Arkwright indicated that the stop signs at this location were currently under study by the police department. Roeser indicated that he had received a guide on disposing household waste products safely. These will be available to residents at the Village Hall. Catallo indicated that the noon whistle is again operational. Tom Biehl of Hubbell, Roth and Clark and George Anderson of Independence Township met with the Council to inform them that a $215,000 grant had been received to provide the 26 homes on Main Street with contaminated well with a hook up to the Independence Township community well. These 26 homes would be connected at no cost to the residents or to the Village. The resident would have to agree to have their wells capped off so the contaminated water would no longer be accessible for any purpose. The Township would retain ownership of the water main and would sell water to village residents at the rate it is available to Township residents. An intergovernmental agreement is being drafted and will be available in two weeks. Other areas within the Village are currently under study for ground water contamination. If there is contamination Township water may also be available to them at another time. The last house is to be included at this time 80 North Main and the houses north of it.

Moved by Roeser, supported by Schultz, "That the lot split requested by Mr. Hoyt Frericks be referred to the Planning Commission." Motion carried.

Mr. Huttenlocher met with Council to discuss the need for a Master Plan and an overall review of the zoning ordinances for the city. The decision was made to appoint a commission at the next meeting on September 27, 1993. The truck ordinance will be discussed at the September 27, 1993

Resolved by Roeser, supported by Schultz, "That the following dates be set for the Board of Review: Monday, March 14, 1994, 9 a.m.noon;1-4 p.m., Monday, March 21, 1994, 1-4 p.m. 6-9 p.m., Tuesday March 22, 1994, 9 a.m.-noon; 1-4 .m." Roll: Yeas-6, Nays-0.

lution passed. Pappas indicated that he attended a preconstruction meeting for the M-15/Clarkston road project. A new contractor has the project and is ready to begin. It was estimated that it would take 20 days to

Resolved by Secatch, supported by Arkwright, "That the City of the Village of Clarkston supports in concept the MPO Regional Council voting proposal developed by Oakland County SEMCOG delegates."

Roll: yeas-6, nays-0. Resolution passed. Selander Miller informed the Council that she had met with Mr. Paul Miller, who is the Safety Specialist from the Michigan Municipal Liability and Property Pool, regarding the playground equipment at Depot Park. Mr. Miller identified many potential problems with the current playground and made recommendations to remedy the safety problems. Selander Miller reported these to the Council. Council was in agreement that the safety issues should be addressed and that maintenance of existing equipment and resurfacing of the playground were the responsibilities of the City. Selander Miller reported that the Depot Park Playground committee was fund raising for new playground equipment and that this committee would be making recommendations about what equipment should be purchased.

Moved by Arkwright, supported by Schultz, "That the following pieces of playground equipment be removed or renovated for safety reasons: remove the cement underneath the slide and refill the low area with sand, remove the duck as the spring is loose and bolts and cement are exposed, remove the swinging metal gate as children's heads can get stuck between the rungs and moving metal objects are dangerous to toddlers, replace the S-hook on the one swing, hammer in the nails that have popped out on the combination monkey bars/ climbing structure, remove the teeter totters as chidiren can be hurt if a child on the bottom gets off while a child is up in the air, remove the railroad tie perimeter as it is not secured to the ground, full of nails and has nails popping out of it, and lower the monkey bars so they are not higher than seven feet. The list is in order of priority for the DPW men." Yeas-5, Nays-1, Sanderson. Motion carried.

Sanderson will contact the Clarkston public schools to see if the school buses can use alternate routes to decrease the road damage on Church, Buffalo and Washington. Moved by Roeser, supported by Arkwright, "That the meeting be adjourned." Motion carried.

The meeting was adjourned at 9:45 p.m. Jeanne Selander Miller

A world of merchandise for shoppers

By ANNETTE KINGSBURY Oxford Leader Editor

For shoppers, Stan Aldridge is a little like Santa

Few of us can afford the luxury of flying off to Europe or Asia when we grow tired of the selection in local shops. Sure, some dichard shoppers make holiday trips to Chicago or New York, but they are few and far between.

Aldridge is positively dedicated to bringing the best the world has to offer to Canterbury Village-glass from Germany; china from the Philippines; ornaments from Italy and China. And to keep costs competitive, he's acting as his own importer. With his keen interest in detail, he's brought in a selection that is sure to be unrivaled.

"We expect to be, on most import items, 30 percent below everybody else," he says from his second-floor office overlooking the Canterbury

The office itself is lined with merchandise. Ornaments and other items are piled along the walls and on top of furniture. Picking up a Santa ornament, Aldridge says, "If you found this at Jacobson's it would be $17 or $18. Our price will be $12.95. That's our objective."

Indeed, he seems to delight in dropping prices into the conversation, asking the reporter, on a stroll through the building, to guess prices on this or that

"We've checked the competition. We're not trying to be a cut-rate store. There will be items that are outrageous. So we are very conscious about high quality and lov

the long run.' Canterbury Village's sixteen buildings will each house a particular line of merchandise. Six leased boutiques will occupy the old foremen's houses and offer candy, tobacco, candles and potpourri, monogramming, and an art gallery.

Building seven, a former restaurant, will become a cider mill. Building eight will house "Offsprings," a children's clothing store operated by Aldridge's daughter. Building nine will offer fudge, ice cream and frozen yogurt.

On a quick-march through the warehouse, Aldridge stops to open some newly arrived cartons from all over the world.

A collector's dream: Stan Aldridge admires one of many Santas that will be on sale at Canterbury Village.

Buildings 10 and 16 will offer toys, antiques and craft stalls. Building 11, an old pony bam, will house a food court. Building 12, a large former barn which is home to Aldridge's office, will carry Christmas merchandise year-round.

Building 13, the Canterbury Store, will offer unusual glasses, dishes and vases from around the world. Building 14 is the warehouse where the overflow (and it's stacked to the ceiling) is housed. Building 15 is the future banquet "castle," which won't open until at least 1994.

It's a tall order. But with his running shoes on, his walkie-talking at his belt and a golf cart to usher him around the grounds, Aldridge is on top of it alland loving it.

"We just buy whatever we like," he says matter of factly. "And I think we've bought some very unusual items, very nice things. Some are fairly high priced, some aren't ... This is higher end (but) I don't want to be known as a high-priced store."

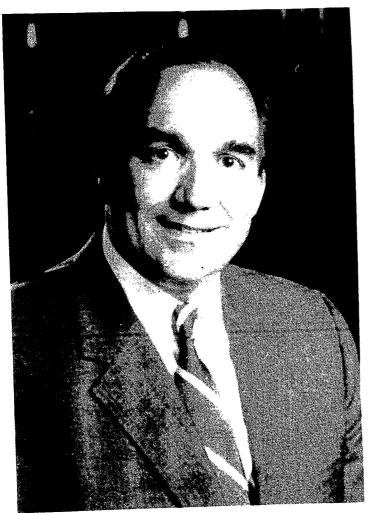

In addition to the individual store offerings, Canterbury Village will offer seasonal festivals and sales to keep bringing the customers back. The first will be a winter festival, scheduled for early February, which will feature ice carving. Easter will bring kites from China. Art fairs and an Octoberfest are expected to follow.

"We've been working on this for two years; I thought about it for a year, I drove by it for many, many years," Aldridge says. "I'm here till 10 at

Olde World Village just part of long history

BY DARREL W. COLE Lake Orion Review Staff Writer

The golf cart was parked nearby.

A few workers were scattered about, wondering just what to say to Stan Aldridge. There was no time for excuses, Aldridge just wanted the problem fixed. Assured the job would be done right, he no sooner had another problem to deal with. This time a water main broke near the ready-to-be-paved parking lot.

He hopped back on his golf cart — which he uses to drive around the immense Olde Canterbury Village grounds - asked how bad it was and how it could be stopped. As Aldridge made his way to the spot, water was everywhere as two workers tried to stop it.

The scenario is surely not what makes turning

Before the 1920s it was the site of several farm families. In late 1916 Detroit's Evening News publisher William E. Scripps began purchasing land from the several property owners . . . eventually amassing over 3,000 acres.

this history-filled estate into something for the ages. But for over two years now these are the types of obstacles Aldridge has dealt with every day. It's been a long process, but one worthwhile to the man who wanted to make sure the site, formerly known as Wildwood Farm and then Keatington's Antique Village, remains part of Orion history.

Preserving the rich history of the site was Aldridge's motivation to turn the almost-forgotten area into something people of all ages could enjoy. Plans for the enormous endeavor began in 1991, but the idea to preserve the buildings and land came way before that, Aldridge said.

The design and layout of the village are all

Aldridge's.

There really was no great vision I had. It just made sense," Aldridge said. "It was logical that this would make a neat antique village. This is part of Lake Orion history and it should be preserved that way. Every single building (13 originally) has been up-Historical value is an often-overused term but not in the case of the history of the Canterbury Village site. As told in "The Story of Wildwood Farm" by Charles Bass in 1983 and in "Wildwood Farm Historic District" (application for designation as historical site) by Robert E. Donohue, certified historian, in 1988, the estate was truly one-of-a-kind in many respects.

Before the 1920s it was the site of several farm families. In late 1916 Detroit's "Evening News" (later The Detroit News) publisher William E. Scripps began purchasing land from the several property owners. By the late 1920s he amassed over 3,000 acres of land, stretching between Clarkston Road and Waldon

In that time, Wildwood Farms was home to world-renowned, award-winning Black Angus beef cattle and Sherpshire Rams. Scripps, who was said to give generously to those in need, also was one of the first to use mechanical farm equipment.

Along with the large estate, farmhands and help, Scripps' wife threw a variety of social functions, hosting many of Detroit's notable businessmen. One time, in the 1930s, the famed woman pilot Emelia

After Scripps died at his estate in 1952 Wildwood Farms would only continue to operate until 1956. From there parts of the massive estate were leased to individual farmers while many of the farm buildings stayed vacant, until 1967.

That same year another high-powered businessman, developer Howard Keating Jr.., bought the land and promptly built Keatington subdivision and opened the former Wildwood Farm as Keatington's Antique Village. Although his ultimate plans of a 25,000 population Keatington City never materialized the old buildings were once again renovated and leased to merchants.

Stores such as flower shops, a photographer, beauty salon, general store, restaurant and a small zoo were opened.

But early in the 1980s most merchants didn't renew their leases because of tough economic times and the buildings once again were neglected.

In 1987 the property was sold to Tony Battaglia and Ben Donaldson who owned the property until 1991, when Aldridge took over, hoping to continue in the tradition of Scripps and Keating.

Aldridge admits he bought the estate because he didn't like how the buildings and other long-standing markers were being disposed of.

Now with over 200 people expected to be employed, unique merchandise and restored buildings, Aldridge hopes Canterbury Village will be a longstanding monument to Orion history.

Not to say it has been an easy process, but Aldridge said he has welcomed the challenge. "It's definitely one of the biggest underestimations of my life. My wife was the second," laughed Aldridge.

"I didn't think it would be as big as it is but the more we got into it the more we did," he said.

"As far as development and construction it's moving along as well as can be expected but most difficult is in merchandising. But that is the fun of it for me. There are challenges everyday because there is constant change."

Plans for development started out slow for Aldridge. "We kind of slow-walked it that first year because the economy was so screwy. In 1991 we thought we'd open in June '92 but it's a big commitment to make to open in one year."

Obviously, it didn't happen, mainly because Aldridge said the project kept getting bigger. So once a 1992 opening was scrapped, June '93 and then Sept. '93 dates were set as opening dates. Now Aldridge is set on the October date. He doesn't expect everything to be completed by October but in Oct. 1994 Aldridge hopes the entire village is complete.

Getting the historical site to meet his own vision has been something the two previous long-time owners had to fight for also.

Scripps started out with only the 600 acres he bought from the Haddrill family (Alfred G., Elizabeth and Stuart) in May and Sept. of 1916, including the section that is the core of what is now Canterbury

In the late 1920s Scripps joined together other farms from I.M. Benedict, W. Dickman, J. W. Newman, Lomerson, Cole and others to increase his estate size. But two holdouts denied Scripps from total takeover.

Keating's original plan was to create his own town our of practically nothing . . . plans called for a town complete with high-rise apartments, beaches, marinas and parks.

J. Gingell wouldn't sell his 89-acres on Baldwin Road and C. Cole refused to sell his 40-acres on Clarkston Road.

Keating's original plan was to create his own town out of practically nothing, according to a Detroit Free Press article on March 13, 1966. The plans called for a town complete with high-rise apartments, shopping centers, beaches, marinas and parks around the Keatington Antique Village was supposed to be just another part of that grand vision. But, in the end, the mammoth task never came to fruition, except of course for the Keatington residential development.

By the 1980s, with a struggling economy in the background, Antique Village merchants moved out, killing hopes for a Keatington City.

But through it all the original structures on the farm site remained. The 13 structures were built between 1870 (Hay House and the Chauffeur's House) and 1930 (Tool Barn) by either the original farm owners or Scripps' workers.

Spooks on Wildwood farm?

Ghosts in Moulton Manor.

According to a story related to historian Charles Bass in "The Story of Wildwood Farm" (1983), ghosts, or something of the sort, were seen by at least two workers at Howard Scripps Jr.. large estate in the mid-

According to the story, John (Jack) Coryell was a houseman for Scripps at the luxurious home Moulton Manor, then located on Scripps Road, near the Grand Trunk Railroad tracks. It was built in 1927.

Coryell started out as a gardener at the estate but was promoted to the houseman job at the mansion where Scripps' wife would throw parties for highpowered friends from Detroit.

On one occasion when the Scripps' were away Coryell tells the story of the spooked organ repair man.

According to the story related to Bass, the repair man came to the mansion to tune the organ, the very same one that the man had installed at the Scripps' home in Detroit. The organ was brought to the mansion upon completion of construction.

The man was listening attentively to the tuning, relates Coryell.

I (Coryell) was just outside the door, listening too. I saw the guy look up to the balcony. Then I saw him bow courteously. All at once he shakenly scrambled to get his tools into his kit, and with it in hand he belted lickety-split out of the house.

I caught up with him in the garden, and asked, 'What in the heck is the matter with you?' Then the tuner asked, 'Old lady Scripps, she's been dead quite a while, hasn't she?'

I said, 'Yeah, Hattie, (Mrs. James E. Scripps) left about 12 or 15 years ago.'

He said, 'Yeah, well, I used to know her down at the other end (Detroit). We used to visit quite a lot. I looked up at the balcony in there (Moulton Mansion), and there she was, leaning over the edge, just as plain as could be. That was old lady Scripps. I ain't coming back here

After that Coryell and the piano tuner went back to the balcony to check out the situation. The tuner asked if there was any other older women who stay at the house and Coryell replied there was only the Governess. After seeing the Governess, the tuner was assured the person he saw on the balcony wasn't her.

The two then went upstairs and the tuner showed where the ghost woman went straight through the door, and again repeated, "I ain't coming back," according to

But Coryell wasn't done there.

Old Minnie. She was a spiritualist. The watchman and I used to sit under her window and listen to her conversations. There'd be a muddle of three or four voices. Once in a while we'd catch a name, like John or Mary.

So I got a hold of her: 'What is going on around her anyway?' Minnie said, 'What do you mean?'

I said, 'The watchman and I keep hearing voices coming from your window.'

'Oh yes,' Minnie said. 'I visit with all these different people. Everybody comes around and we talk.' 'Does old lady Scripps come too?' I asked.

'Oh yeah. I talk with her almost every night. She's here most of the time.'

Well, old Minnie kept it up a little longer, but she wasn't getting much sleep on account of it all. So pretty soon, down came all her books on mysticism into the incinerator. I had talked to (Howard Scripps) about it. He said, 'Gosh, Jack, don't tell the folks about it or they'll never come up here.'

'Just do it'

The ever confident Aldrige tackles newest project_

His utter contempt for the mere idea of failure could be at the core of his success.

By BRAD KADRICH Leader Staff Writer

Don't ask Stan Aldridge what makes him tick, because he has absolutely no idea.

It's enough that he's ticking, and ticking like a Swiss watch.

The Bloomfield Hills developer is barely a week away from opening his newest challenge -- Olde World Canterbury Village, a festival village set to open Oct 1. It's got Christmas stores, it's got craft boutiques, it's got food courts, and a huge restaurant/banquet hall he's going to call King's Court Castle when it opens, probably some time next year.

But what it's got mostly is Aldridge's heart and soul, just like all his other projects.

"I was always digging, building forts when I was growing up," said Aldridge, who was raised in Detroit. "I just like building. I like to create, and that's why I'm

It's the newest challenge to Aldridge's deepseated belief that he can take on any production -- and get it done right. Canterbury Village is something that's been in the planning stages for a couple of years. It's on propenty that once was owned by publishing magnate Howard Scripps, and also housed the Keatington Anti-

He almost bought it in 1984, but the building that ownership. now houses Haymakers wasn't part of the deal, so he passed. But when he saw the continued mismanagement of the property go on, he waited no longer. He bought the property iln 1991, and now is poised on the opening of his new "baby."

"It seemed to be the right time and the right thing," he says of the purchase. "Indianwood (the Orion Township golf course he owns) was about complete. And I know I can do something about this."

And when he decided to do it, he decided to do it right. He's restoring some of the old buildings on the site, including half-a-dozen houses that used to belong to farmhands. The restoration of the site is something he's happy with.

"It's part of history, part of Lake Orion," he said, his voice climbing an octave. "It could have been halfassed and deteriorated, and we brought it back. Now it's something that's going to be here forever, I hope."

The way he made the decisions -- to buy the property, to erect the village -- provides insight into the man's character. The thought process was obvious: there was never any doubt the project would work; he doesn't fail.

"Failure isn't even in my vocabulary," he admits. "I didn't think about it, I just decided to do it. I feel I can do anything. You just do it. I'm not the smartest guy in the world; I just believe I can do these things. I don't sit around thinking about it."

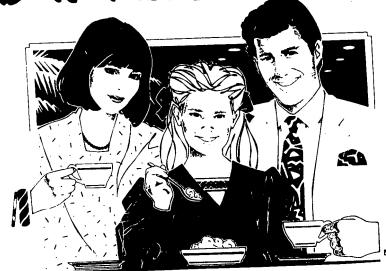

That kind of attitude makes things interesting around the Aldridge household. Wife Sue is in on the deal with Aldridge, and she knows why he's doing it.

"I think it's just the challenge that drives him," she said. "But I like the challenges, too, and I like to create things. So I guess it all works out."

He shrugs all that off as normal, just his pesonality. It's the closest he'll come to saying what makes him "tick." "I really have no idea," he says, giving it some thought. "I'll tell you what makes Stan Aldridge tick -- just do it."

Aldridge knows that philosophy doesn't mean the job gets done automatically. His typical day begins early and ends around 10 p.m., seven days a week as the opening draws near. That's part of the reason he chose Lake Orion again -- convenience.

"If this were in Lexington, Kentucky, or in Pittsburgh," he admits, with a slight smile, "I wouldn't have done it. It would be too far away.'

This has been his biggest project, he admits. That's partly because, although he's been in business of one type or another since he was 24, this is his first venture into the world of retail.

"Each time you get into a project, you think it's the biggest," Sue Aldridge said. "But this really has been the biggest challenge. Not the construction, that hasn't been that difficult.

"But it's been the other things, the buying, the setting up, the choosing which one and what color," she added. "It's something we had no idea what we were doing.'

But even that doesn't scare Aldridge off. And his utter contempt for the mere idea of failure could be at the core of his success.

"I'm not laying around at night worrying about failing," he said. "I'm thinking about ways to get everything done. I've been that way in all my

'Failure isn't even in my vocabulary . . . I feel I can do anything. You just do it. I'm not the smartest guy in the world; I just believe ! can do these things. don't sit around talking about it,' says Stan Aldridge, right, with wife Sue.

Imagine sitting on a brick patio munching a hot dog and listening to strolling musicians.

Imagine taking your whole family to eat familystyle chicken in a building that looks like a castle. Or how about sitting down to tea in an elegant tea room? A variety of dining awaits you in Olde Canterbury and easy food. Village strollers can choose from a selection of pizza, hot dogs, coney dogs, chicken sandwiches, fudge, ice cream and frozen yogurt.

For those who like to relax with friends the tea room is the place for tea, sandwiches, scones and cappuccino.

But for developer Stan Aldridge, the main focus of his village is on a new building, Kings Court Castle. This family-style restaurant is not expected to open before next summer.

But when it does, according to Aldridge, it will be a "substantial restaurant." This 1,200 seating capacity dining spot will resemble an old castle with eight

Each level has two banquet rooms and there is a kitchen on each floor.

"This is quite an elaborate project," Aldridge says. "The carved paneling is omate. The 6-feet by 11feet leaded glass windows in the entry hall were brought over from England, as were the fireplace and the doors." Aldridge is famous for bringing pieces of rooms over from Europe and incorporating them in his buildings (Indianwood Country Club is a good example). Kings Court Castle will have two such rooms, but he isn't sure where they'll go.

"This is not done scientifically. I create as I go,"

Aldridge adds.

Although the final menu has not yet been finalized, Aldridge says family-style chicken and pasta dinners will be served.

"We'll probably do some wedding receptions and lots of Christmas parties and business meetings,"

The grand opening is scheduled for Oct. 1, but Aldridge estimates it will take two to three years to put his creation all together. His first emphasis is on elaborate gardens with waterfalls and cabanas.

"I want a place where people can come in the evenings, listen to quartets and buy fruit juices and popcorn off little carts.

"This will be a unique showplace. Some of my motivation is profit, but frankly I want to give something back to the community. This place is a part of history," Aldridge says.

As he wheels the visitor around the site on his golf cart, his walkie-talkie crackles constantly. Reporters from all over metro Detroit are calling. Clearly, Stan Aldridge's latest project has a lot of people excited.

Haymakers Restaurant ready for village opening

According to Haymakers owner Noah Lambert, some people thought he was a fool to buy Ben's Bull Pen Restaurant over six years ago.

Now he's being called a genius. Haymakers is part of the Olde Canterbury Village complex developed by Indianwood Golf and Country Club's owner Stan Aldridge.

And Lambert can't wait until the Oct. 1 grand opening of the cluster of shops and restaurants.

"I'm very excited. It will create tremendous traffic. This will introduce a lot of new people to my restaurant. Once I get them, they'll come back again and again," he says.

His chef is John DiCecco, who was at the Golden Mushroom for eight years and tutored under famous Chef Milos.

"I'm training a lot of extra staff to be ready," Lambert says. "And I'm rejuvenating the menu that will stay in the same price range.

Lambert has built a new entry at the back end of the restaurant so village visitors can have easy access. The new door will have 18 panes of leaded glass.

Haymakers now will open on Saturday at 11 a.m. instead of 4 p.m. On Sunday it will open at 11 a.m. instead of 1 p.m.

Although Lambert expects an influx of new customers, he says his staff will still take good care of all his regular customers.

"It will still be the same great service, the same great food and the same great prices."

Were Proud...

to have been the major supplier of top grade building materials for the fabulous Olde World Canterbury Village in Orion.

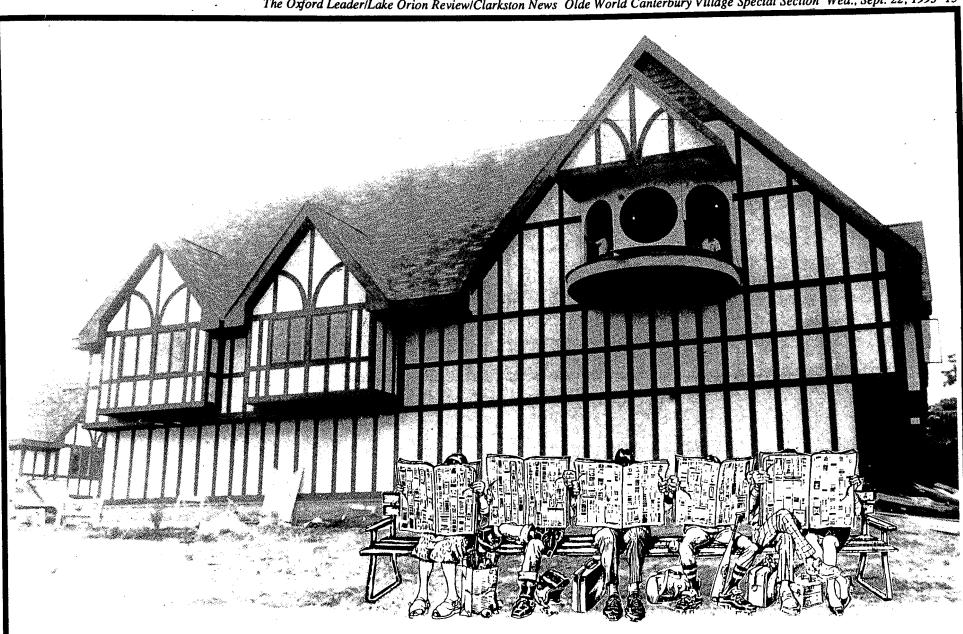

Best Wishes

to Stan Aldridge and his able staff for a very successful undertaking of such magnitude. It is a wonderful dream come true.
