We can't wait! Area youngsters already know what to do with those monster truck and tractor tires donated for the new Bay Court

Park playscape. Building begins next Wednesday.

It's been a long time coming

Kids, community ready to build playscape

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Those who remember the barn-raising scene in the motion picture "Witness" might be able to capture that same spirit and camaraderie through their own experience next week.

On Wednesday, June 15, volunteers will begin to build the Bay Court Park playscape and continue through Sunday, June 19. That's the day the park officially opens with a celebration and ribbon-cutting that evening.

An added treat for hard and hungry workers is a pig roast following the build.

"We have everybody from pre-schoolers through seniors - isn't this great?" Sheila Ritter, president of the Clarkston Area Optimists Club and volunteer coordinator on the build, said. She added that volunteers would be cleaning the site that afternoon "while we finish our building."

"Then Bay Court Park will be open on a daily basis with regular park hours," she said.

Those hours will begin on Monday, June 20. From then on the park will be open from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m., seven days a week with no park entry fee.

Volunteers will do everything during the playscape's construction - saw, hammer, shovel, sand and dig - in three, four-hour shifts from 8 a.m. to closing time each day. Child care will be provided but older children will be able to work with adults.

Under the building guidelines, a 10-year-old can work alongside a parent and a 14-year-old can work alongside a guardian or unrelated adult.

Little ones can perform simple but necessary tasks like sealing wood, soaping screws and washing the huge truck and tractor tires that will be part of the playground.

And why not? The $24,000 worth of lumber that was delivered over the past two weeks will build the 10,200 sq. ft. playscape that was designed by and for kids.

"Besides pennies, the children collected bottles and cans. We even had a separate children's committee where posters designed by kids helped to get volunteers."

18-mill school vote is Monday

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

Since the passage of Proposal A on March 15, Michigan voters have been very consistent.

In school districts where they have been asked to approve millages already covered by Proposal A, they have done so. But in districts where additional millages have been requested, they have been refused.

Clarkston on Monday will learn whether the pattern will hold as voters decide the fate of a ballot question requesting 18 mills on non-homestead property.

Polls will be open 7 a.m.-8 p.m. The election is run by Independence Township and absentee ballot applications may be picked up at the township clerk's office.

"We feel positive," said Steven Lenar, deputy superintendent for business operations. "The citizens have always been supportive of renewal issues. I realize this is not a typical renewal; it's just sort of replacing what we have with a new structure."

The 18-mill vote is worth $1,839,326 to the school district out of an approximately $32 million budget. The ballot question will have no effect on homeowners, whose school taxes were fixed at six mills by Proposal A. Those six mills are considered state taxes and not subject to local vote.

However all non-homestead property (including business and industrial) is charged at a higher rate. The maximum is 24 mills. If the 18 mills is not approved locally, non-homestead levies would drop to the six-mill state levy.

Lenra said that after the passage of Proposal A, he received a lot of phone calls from people unsure of what would happen next. Since March, those calls have fallen off, perhaps indicating that people now understand the new system.

"The homeowner is not affected but has to vote on it," Lenar said. But "since it's not a big money issue any more" under Proposal A, voter turnout is expected to be light.

According to a recent statement by state treasurer Doug Roberts, all school districts must levy the 18 mills on non-homestead property in order to receive their full state guaranteed foundation grant.

The foundation grant is equal to revenue in the 1993-94 school year, plus an inflationary cost of at least $160 per student. For Clarkston the actual increase will be $211 per student, bringing total

This nest of robin's eggs is being carefully overseen by one mother robin and the family of Robert Beattie on Misty Hill. The robin crafted her tiny nest inside a large grapevine wreath on Beattie's front door. So for the last few weeks everyone has been asked not to use that door. The mother bird flew off when she saw the photographer and would not return, keeping watch from a nearby tree. Beattie said it's not his family's first close encounter with nature. They previously befriended a fawn and a squirrel.

WHY SHE'S RUNNING: "In the last year our board has worked very hard at becoming a team and I want to continue on that team. I made the commitment four years ago to serving two terms and to move our district ahead. We're just starting to see that happen. It will be a beginning of a new era in school funding and we must continue to make every dollar count for our children's education. I want to make that happen in Clarkston."

4 vie for 2 school board seats

Experience versus fresh faces: that is the choice facing voters in the race for two seats on the Clarkston Board of Education.

Incumbent Sheila Hughes is being challenged by Lee Rogers, who ran once before and lost. They will vie for a four-year seat. In the race to fill the remaining two years on the seat being vacated by Dr. Joe Helpert, former board member Karen Foyteck is running as a write-in against newcomer Barry Bomier. Foyteck was forced to run as a write-in when her petitions were found to be short on valid signatures on a technicality.

The Clarkston News put a list of questions to the four candidates, and what is published here is their written response to those questions. In some cases the answers have been edited for length.

PUBLIC OFFICES HELD: precinct delegate
EDUCATION: Northern Michigan University, General Motors Institute, University of Wisconsin.
ACTIVITIES: school strategy committee on communication.

WHY HE'S RUNNING: "I believe that we can build a school system here which dramatically exceeds the minimum standards for public schools. Acceptance of mediocrity does our students no favors. The workplace is cruel and terribly unforgiving of those who cannot perform to required standards. Demonstrated ability must precede receipt of any diploma. I believe that we already have the necessary resources to dramatically improve the level of education that our students receive."

WHY SHE'S RUNNING: "Budget priorities, staffing and curriculum implementation are among the important issues that are currently being addressed by our school board. I believe that the candidate that wins the two-year seat must be experienced and knowledgeable in order to deal effectively with the issues that will require immediate attention. I gained valuable experience during the four years I served on the Clarkston Board of Education."

THE BIGGEST PROBLEM FACING THE DISTRICT: "I believe that our most important concern is to budget funds to meet classroom needs. Our students are our first and most important concern. The passage of Proposal A mandates prioritization of needs so that budgets are used effectively to provide quality education within our means. Continued evaluation of current programs and assessing the implementation of future needs must be our first priority."

MEA chief tells workers to dump Engler

Middleton, Dunaskiss, Honigman on hit list

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

"Inspirational," was the way Clarkston teacher Sally Lindeman described the speech June 1 of Julius Maddox, president of the Michigan Teachers Association, held at Clarkston High School.

Maddox captivated his audience of about 100 school employees who attended what had been billed as a dump-Engler rally. And he delivered on that promise.

After a brief history of the MEA's involvement in supporting Proposal A with no thanks from the governor, Maddox warned his fellow members: "We are at risk in this state, those of us in public education."

The source of that danger is HB 5128, which amended the state's public employee act. It calls for mandatory fines if teachers strike, and exempts many things from the bargaining process which had previously been bargained.

"This bill is a horrendous piece of legislation," Maddox said. "It only takes the changing of a couple of words to apply to all public employees, and a few phrases to change it to a Right to Work state... Right to Work means anti-union."

Maddox asked union members to support, both financially and with their labor, candidates supported by the MEA, including Larry Owen for governor.

He said the union selected Owen as its candidate because the leadership feels he has the best chance of winning the primary and then beating Engler in November.

"The only ones who can make a difference in the outcome are the ones who are in the arena playing," Maddox said.

Specifically, he asked all school employees to make sure they are registered to vote, to contribute $25 to any MEA endorsed candidate, and to volunteer at least eight hours over the summer for a candidate of their choice. He hopes that with a new governor, HB 5128 can be overturned.

"We can if each of us does those three things," he said.

Maddox singled out Rep. Tom Middleton (R., Ortonville), Sen. Mat Dunaskiss (R., Lake Orion) and Sen. David Honigman (R., West Bloomfield) for supporting HB 5128. He said none of them deserves to be re-elected.

That was a surprise to Middleton—"A little bit, because we've done a lot of good things in education," he said, when contacted later.

"We toned the bill down so it was more acceptable and we get no credit for that at all. The way it came out of committee--that was a tough bill...

"This bill just levels the playing field. Education employees had exemptions that were kind of just for education... I don't see where this is a threat to all unions."

After Maddox's speech, which lasted nearly an hour, teachers were emotionally high.

"Loved it," said Danielle Blanchard, a Clarkston teacher. She said she had already decided to work on the election this summer.

"It just charges it up a little more," said teacher Jerry Ostrom.

"Bay Court is truly their park," Ritter said. The idea for the playscape began 18 months ago when Ritter, Independence Township Parks and Recreation Director Ann Conklin and other area residents formed a committee to look at playground concepts. They wanted something appropriate for the 50-acre park which was purchased by the township in 1988 through a grant from the Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund.

They were most impressed by the unique playscape designs of Robert Leathers & Associates, an architectural firm based in Ithaca, New York that builds playscapes nationwide. The Leathers firm has built approximately 750 playscapes across the U.S., including several in Michigan. The closest construction is at State Road Elementary School in Fenton and there is also one at Burton Elementary School in Huntington Woods.

Ritter, Conklin and the others were also impressed by the concept -- the construction of a $200,000 playscape for $65,000, designed from the ideas of children and built entirely by community volunteers.

"We ran a design day where adults went into the schools, K-5, and asked the kids, 'if you could design a dream playground, what would you have in it?'"

The Clarkston News

In Focus

by Annette Kingsbury

Say amen somebody

I had never seen or heard Michigan Education Association President Julius Maddox before last week's rally at Clarkston High School.

Of course, everyone knows the MEA is at all-out war with Governor John Engler. It's been simmering since Engler was elected, but now it's at a full rolling boil with the passage of the recent HB 5128, which calls for fines for teacher strikes, exempts several high-profile items from the bargaining process, and allows a school board to dump a contract settlement in place of its "last best offer."

So approaching last week's rally to dump Engler, I figured I'd be in for some entertainment. I wasn't disappointed.

Maddox is one inspirational speaker. You could have heard a pin drop in the warm, muggy auditorium as the membership took in every word he said.

He's a good man with a story or joke too, and you can bet Republicans are at the butt of some of them. One went something like this:

"I'm not saying there are no good Republicans, but it's for sure none of them are serving in Lansing."

Maddox spoke after the membership had watched an anti-Engler video in which MEA members were shouting "He's gone to far," the "he," of course, being Engler. In a speech in the tape, Maddox said Engler was "reckless," "union-busting" and "hurt children."

And no matter where you stand on recent changes in the rules affecting teachers, Maddox made some good points. Pointing out that HB 5128 is seen as anti-teacher-strike legislation, he pointed out that of all the districts in the state, there were only two strikes last year.

Referring to the bill's so-called "cost containment" language, he pointed out that there is no specific cost cutting in it.

Perhaps he did go a bit far when he compared the state legislature to the KKK (a reference to late-night actions to ramrod bills through).

"These aren't wearing sheets; they're wearing three-piece suits. But they come in the night to do their damage," Maddox, an African American, said. The all-white crowd loved it, bursting into applause.

So if you're expecting to be bored silly by this summer's primary race, keep your eye on Maddox. While some might say Engler appears to have a solid and ever-growing stranglehold on the governor's office, Maddox doesn't think so. And he's bound to make it interesting.

He didn't guarantee victory. But he did guarantee not to go quietly:

"We may die but we will stand up like men and women, not lie down like sheep."

Steaming mad?

Editorial

Yes is the only vote

If you voted yes on Proposal A, you should vote yes in Monday's Clarkston schools millage election.

Back in March, about 75 percent of Independence voters said they wanted to lower property taxes in exchange for raising the sales tax to help pay for schools.

But it wasn't perhaps very clear at the time that voters would still have to approve school millages. Under the formula established by the state, that portion of taxes levied on just non-homestead property (18 mills) is considered local revenue and must be reapproved whenever it expires. That is what is happening now in Clarkston.

Don't be misled by the wording on the ballot. It states that the 18 mills is an increase. That is technically true because all the schools' millage had expired. But the amount being requested is exactly the amount specified under Proposal A.

Will it be enough? Will the board come back and ask for an enhancement millage? Is it fair for residents to vote to levy taxes on other people's business property? None of that matters at this time. This millage must be approved, or a substantial amount of operating revenue will be lost.

Vote yes. AK

Letter to the editor

Stop it

I just got a letter from Dale Kildee which didn't have a stamp on it. It just had his signature, a sure sign that tax dollars were used to send me this little pamphlet. It informed me that my Congressman would just love to get together with me and hear my thoughts and opinions.

Rather than try to get ahold of him, I'll save time and give him my opinion right here: Stop wasting my tax dollars on mailings whose only purpose is to boost your re-election campaign.

Jim's Jottings

Acquaintances and friends

The owners of Boyne Highlands named a golf tournament for Bucky Brower last week.

My, my! When we came to Oxford in 1955 Bucky (his given name is Robert) owned Brower's Dept Store. His father, Wesley, and a friend, Fred Streit started Brower and Streit Dept Store 50 years ago.

Being the same age and fellow businesspeople in a small town we saw quite a bit of each other.

But, Bucky saw some other opportunities. He was strong in skiing and took to selling skis and hockey sticks. The company in Minnesota, Northland Mfg Co., made him sales manager.

Skiing brought him in touch with northern Michigan, where he made the acquaintance of Everett Kircher, who was developing Boyne Mountain as a ski resort. One season of sport wasn't enough for Kircher, and he began developing golf resorts.

I needn't expand on that too much, except to say Boyne Country is now in Montana and Utah as well as covering several thousand acres in Michigan.

Bucky was so involved in the Kircher ventures he could have been part of the family. For 25 years he bought and sold real estate at Boyne, helped in designing and building hotels, condos and residences, worked on golf and ski promotions and became synonymous with Boyne.

The most recent Boyne Highlands development is the Country Club of Boyne. Two big tournaments are held there, Memorial Day and Labor Day. The first is the Memorial Tournament, the second the Kircher Cup.

As of Memorial weekend, 1994, the new name of the spring tourney is The Brower Cup.

Hazel and I, along with some other Oxford area long-time friends, had to be there. The cup was to commemorate Bucky for his years of dedication to Boyne USA and his love of the game of golf.

The Friday night party was full of fun, food, drink, sentiment and a little heart wrenching.

Bucky learned he had a very severe cancer last fall. He's had surgery that wasn't totally successful, and he's undergoing chemotherapy.

Fortunately, the party was far enough from his most recent session that he was able to attend the party and have dinner with us three nights.

Bucky can use a walker, but a wheelchair is more convenient.

It is a fine thing for the people of Boyne USA to do, naming a golf tournament for Bucky. It was a surprise to him Friday, and so very pleasing and humbling.

Bucky has met a lot of people at Boyne, many famous. But he said something we've heard before, and should all remember . . . he said to us, "You know, there are acquaintances and there are friends. I really appreciate you friends being here."

Indeed, it was good to be there to see a friend.

A look back

15 YEARS AGO (1979)

A $7.5-million junior high school is on the list of items in a $9.1-million bond issue proposal. Also featured in the proposal are a $1.3-million library addition and high school safety improvements.

Three juveniles attempt to create the perfect crime but fail. The trio take the license plate from an old car at the Firestone lot on Dixie Highway and put it on a new one from Rademacher's Chevrolet. After siphoning the gas from the old car into the new one's fuel tank, they speed away but are later apprehended by police. The three are charged with possession of stolen property worth over $100.

Fireworks will flare at Pine Knob Music Theater June 10, 11 and 12 with the J. Geils rock band performing each night.

25 YEARS AGO (1969)

The Wolves finish out their baseball season with a 6-8 record in the Wayne-Oakland league. An award dinner will take place at Clarkston High School Wednesday night.

Two Clarkston High School graduates are named top scholars with the highest grade point averages.

They are Mark Cowan and Michael Yarbrough, both of Clarkston.

50 YEARS AGO (1944)

With the announcement Tuesday of D-Day, church bells and air raid sirens resound throughout Clarkston and residents stay close to their radios. The churches open their doors to all who wish to gather in prayers for strength and victory.

Michigan Bell Telephone Company places an ad asking consumers to be understanding during the wartime telephone shortage. Because of the land, air and sea forces who use great quantities of communications equipment, it has become increasingly difficult to fill telephone service requests at home.

The Clarkston Community Chorus gives its first musicale in the high school auditorium.

Little Jerry Turner has fully recovered from scarlet fever and has returned to his home.

A mother-daughter banquet and program will be held next Thursday evening at the Clarkston M.E. Church for all mothers and daughters in the vicinity.

Don't Rush Me

By Don Rush

After the fact, I thought . . .

Went home early for lunch on Monday so I could watch the D-Day ceremony at Norman American Cemetery in Normandy. I couldn't help but scribble down a few words while watching.

Words like courage and bravery, ultimate sacrifice and the "Great Crusade" were used then, as they have been used over the past few weeks. Everyone has been saying them, from the president to TV news folks and everybody in between.

"With courage and bravery, the men of the invasion of the Normandy beach gave the ultimate sacrifice to make the Great Crusade the turning point of the war that ravaged Europe . . ."

Joe Dawson, then captain of the Big Red 1, which hit the beach and found a path through the bullets, grenades and land mines, used the words courage and bravery, too. Thirty of his men perished when they landed on the beach at 0700 hours.

Courage and bravery. I wondered in the time of home computer games do we in this country have that kind of stuff? Would we, as Americans, sacrifice so much? Could we as a nation pull together now as the country did then for a greater cause?

President Clinton said Hitler was sure that the trained, disciplined troops from Germany would wipe out the men of luxury and liberty. Of course those men were ours. He was wrong then; would he be today?

What does liberty breed? I know I'm soft in the middle, but am I soft inside? Do I have what it takes, the moral fortitude to lay it on the line?

I can only hope so.

As humans born unto this planet we have certain rights, not anything guaranteed by written words. We have the right to personal freedom, the pursuit of liberty and happiness. The Constitution of the United States and the Bill of Rights don't guarantee these . . . they don't grant them to us. We're born with them.

When I read history, or watch the history of our country, I always seem to zero in on what people have said of their actions. So, when we celebrated the 50th anniversary of D-Day I listened to the men and women from that time and tried to put it together with the present time.

What do they think now? What do they see when they look at their grandchildren? Do they see the rights that they fought to protect slowly slipping away? Individual rights seemed to have been a bigger part of life for the generation of World War 2.

The generation of World War 2 not only fought that war, they also fought the Great Depression, where a third of our nation's work force was without work. How did they make it? How did they keep their families together? Individually, what did they do?

Why weren't there all the muggings, and killings — violence — then? How come that overwhelming poverty didn't bring this nation down, like poverty seems to be doing to us now?

We have something like a six or seven percent unemployment rate today and we have children killing children, adults, anyone standing in their way of whatever they want at that time. What kind of cruel trick has time played on us?

Why is it so?

How is the stuff we're made of today any different than it was 50 or 60 years ago?

As you can see, whenever I think of heroic deeds of the past, I can't help but put myself in a quandary with a million questions I don't have the answers for. Our government today takes "care" of us a hundred times more than it did then, and yet we as a nation seem to be worse off.

Have we lost the zeal, the American rugged individualism, that brought us to this point? Are we a nation of beggars and whiners instead of doers?

I'm brought back to my original question pertaining to courage and bravery. Could we do it now . . . better yet, would we do it now?

Letter to the editor

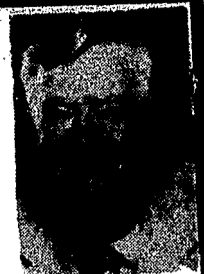

The recent passage of the gun bill in the United States Congress should fill every law-abiding American with disgust. Why a group that is incapable of keeping their checkbooks balanced should think themselves qualified to decide which guns honest Americans can be trusted with is beyond me.

What is even more shocking is that our own Congressman, Dale Kildee, voted for this massive infringement of our rights, after repeatedly claiming to be a strong supporter of the Second Amendment. Actually, this shouldn't surprise us since Kildee has voted for every bill restricting gun ownership. And he can't write a check that doesn't bounce, either!

By Jim Fitzgerald

Waking up to naked truth can be trip, spoil bliss

I was naked and poised to attack. I leaped toward the also-nude intruder in my dark bedroom, but he suddenly disappeared. I tripped over a chair and fell on the wooden stand over which a useless blanket is forever folded at the foot of our bed. One leg broke cleanly off the stand as I sprawled on the floor.

My wife rushed to my sprawled topside. Tenderly stroking the blanket stand, she said, "You are ruining the furniture; I don't think I can glue that leg back on," and added, "You really should wear pajamas."

This is a true story of domestic bliss. It is not a bunch of lies written by my lawyer in honor of Roseanne Arnold.

Struggling to my feet, I turned on a light and, naturally, said, "Talk about ruining furniture, our entire home could break into little pieces" as I showed her a frightening item clipped from the current Leaders magazine. It said:

"A condo near Kitchener, Ontario, collapsed after a second-story floor gave way because of 800,000 super-market coupons stored in Esther Deligio's bedroom. She had clipped and kept them for over 20 years but never redeemed them. They weighed almost two-and-a-half tons."

That is another true story of domestic bliss, otherwise it couldn't be printed in a magazine, right? I certainly believe it. In my home we have the same problem as in the Deligio home. My wife clips every coupon printed, just in case she might someday need it. But whenever such an unlikely day comes, she invariably looks sadly at the person behind the cash register and says: "Damn, I forgot my coupon."

I mean, the constant keening sound emanating from our home is my wife mourning coupons that expired. I mean, her constant coupon-clipping has no redeeming value. I mean, what else can I say without apologizing to Bob Hope?

As for my sleeping in the nude, pajamas are the clothes that bind, and so does underwear. My favorite newspaper, in an inspired burst of investigative journalism, recently devoted around two pages to the important question of whether President Bill Clinton and other men wear boxer shorts or briefs. My answer is if you're asleep, it doesn't make any difference. When you roll over, either boxers or briefs will awaken you while catching up to the roll.

Besides, speaking of divine inspiration, Pope John Paul II would undoubtedly approve of my sleeping non-apparel. According to my favorite newspaper, a recent restoration of Michelangelo's Sistine Chapel painting eliminated 17 loincloths added by prudish 18th-Century clerics. And the pope explained: "The human body can remain nude and uncovered and preserve intact its splendor and its beauty."

When, in all my splendor and beauty, I told my wife what the pope said, she dug up the news article and pointed out that he also said such pro-nudity reasoning isn't valid if the divine dimension is "detached" from the body.

I wouldn't touch a straight line like that with a 10-foot pruning pole, or bobbing.

Finally, you'll be overjoyed to learn the naked intruder in my bedroom was actually part of a nightmare. Honest. My wife said the bad dream was probably brought on by the suppressed guilt I'd felt earlier that day when our vacation snapshots came back from the developers. One taken at Weeki Wachee Spring revealed that, for the third straight year, I'd befouled a picture of granddaughters posing with a nude statue of a mermaid by cupping my hand over a mermaid breast.

Onward and Upward. Even though I may be younger, I'm as funny as Bob Hope.

Annual school election offers opportunities

On June 13, Clarkston Schools will hold its annual school election - an important event in the life of any school district. Did you know that our community has a strong record of voter turnout, even in so-called "off years?" I hope you'll vote and help us continue Clarkston's proud tradition.

There are several issues that demand your attention. One of them is the school board election which will seat two board members, one for a four-year term and one for a two-year term. These are important seats because they contribute true local input to the running of our schools. Please familiarize yourself with the candidates and help us choose our two board members.

Another important issue is the ballot proposal which will renew the property tax on non-homestead property within Clarkston's district. Last week a flyer was mailed to every postal patron in the district, briefly explaining this issue. If you did not receive the flyer or wish more information, feel free to call us at 625-4402. The following are some highlights of the ballot proposal:

- It will not affect the 6-mill property tax rate established for homesteads by Proposal A. If the ballot proposal passes, homestead rates will remain the same.
- It will permit the school district to levy 18 local mills on non-homestead property within the district. This includes commercial real estate and second homes.
- The 18 local mills on non-homesteads will be combined with 6 mills levied by the state for a total of 24 mills on non-homestead property. This is a reduction from 1993 of 14.83 mills.

● Permission to levy the 18 non-homestead mills will guarantee Clarkston schools a "foundation grant" of about $5,400 per student. This financial level will maintain our school programs at about the same level that we have this year.

● If the ballot issue fails, our operating dollars for next year will not include monies that would have been generated by the 18 local mills on non-homestead property. Anticipated 1994-95 revenues would be reduced by about $1.8 million.

The third issue in this school election is your choice of two trustees for Oakland Community College.

Please exercise your right to vote on June 13.

CLARKSTON HIGH SCHOOL

This is it! What we have all worked so hard for. Thinking back, I can't recall where all the time went. It all went by so fast and now it's over. Everybody is going away to college and some have plans to even get married. We are grown up and going our separate ways.

It feels refreshing to be able to start over and begin a new life. On the other hand, it's a very empty feeling knowing that the friends you have made since your junior high won't be there any more.

The next couple weeks will be filled with nothing but good times. It's kind of a way to ease the pain of saying goodbye. The senior dinner and the post-graduation party will be great. All the money and time donated by parents and local businesses really shows us seniors that we accomplished something. All that hard work was recognized. Clarkston's Class of '94 thanks those people.

No matter how we all want to graduate there is a part of me that will miss CHS. The good memories and good times, some not so good. High school is a growing-up experience. I wish the Class of '95 all the fun and positive experiences we had.

We at Clarkston thank everybody involved in making the end of our high-school career successful and very memorable. I personally would like to thank The Clarkston News for letting me write about the important events to seniors and underclassmen. And thank you for letting us give a special thank-you for all Clarkston has done for the Class of '94.

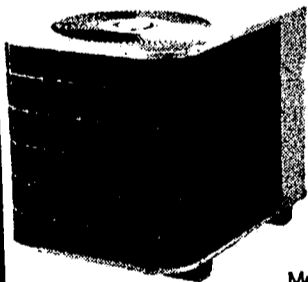

Good luck everybody and we will be together once again in five years at the reunion.
Renee Kolenda is a member of the CHS Class of 1994.

Agreements aid Oakland University/OCC transfers

The first formal articulation agreements between Oakland University and Oakland Community College are making it easier for OCC graduates in many disciplines to complete their baccalaureate degrees at the university.

Ceremonies May 25 at Meadow Brook Hall marked the signing by Dr. Sandra Packard, president, Oakland University, and Dr. Patsy Fulton, chancellor, Oakland Community College. Academic and admissions officers from both institutions attended the ceremony.

President Packard and Chancellor Fulton cited a 1992 study by the Michigan Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers that reported that OCC sent more graduates on to colleges and universities than any other community college in Michigan. They also noted that the preferred university of choice for students was Oakland University. Some 399 OCC grads transferred to OU in fall of 1993, up from 326 in 1992 and 262 students in 1991. That same 1992 study also showed that Oakland Community College sends more transfers to Oakland University each fall than any other community college.

Oakland University has long collaborated with community colleges in providing course selection advice, but the formal articulation agreements with OCC now provide a specified program of study to assure OCC students with associate degrees that their transfer into OU as juniors will be automatic.

Articulation agreements cover students in the following disciplines: Bachelor of General Studies Degree; Bachelor of Science Degree in Elementary Education; Bachelor of Science Degree with a major in Industrial Health and Safety; Bachelor of Science Degrees with majors in Accounting, Economics, Finance, General Management, Human Resources Management, Management Information Systems, Marketing; and Bachelor of Science Degrees with majors in Computer Science, Engineering Physics, Engineering Chemistry, Computer Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Mechanical Engineering, Systems Engineering.

Letters to the editor

A dream comes true

Dear Editor,

Soon the Clarkston community will be sharing a very unique and exciting experience . . . making a dream come true . . . the Playscape at Bay Court Park. This Playscape was designed by the children of our community. The planner actually used the children's ideas and drawings . . . the Playscape is our children.

The Playscape will be built by a "volunteer workforce" (adults and children) changing the children's ideas/dreams into realities. Imagine overhearing an excited child saying, "That's my bridge!" as you are doing the finishing touches to that same bridge. The feelings and experiences that will occur during this Playscape "raising" usually don't come around twice.

There are only a few days left to the build (June 15 through June 19) and volunteers, tools and food are still needed. Child care and food will be provided at the park. Please help the children realize that their ideas can become reality; contact Parks and Rec at 625-8223 or Sheila Ritter, the volunteer coordinator, at 625-4434.

Help make dreams come true.

Supports Rogers

After corresponding with State Sen. Jack Welborn this spring regarding various educational issues, Senator Welborn offered the following unsolicited endorsement of Lee Rogers for the position of trustee, Clarkston Community Schools. Senator Welborn is a long-time advocate of quality education and served on the Gull Lake School Board (Kalamazoo County) in the late 1960s.

Senator Jack Welborn, 13th District, stated: "I admire your spirit and willingness to run for the school board. You have my support. Just be prepared to ask questions until you get full, honest answers. If I lived in the Clarkston Community Schools District, you would have my vote. It is obvious that you have done your homework, and are ready to serve the taxpayers, parents and students in the district."

I, too, urge the voters of this district to vote for Lee Rogers. He has shown during the past few years that he has a true understanding of the needs and problems of our school system. He has spent a great deal of time researching educational and related issues and has not hesitated to spend many hundreds of dollars of personal funds in the pursuit of information and accountability.

Support Hughes, Foyteck

Dear Editor,

I would like to express my sincere support for Sheila Hughes and Karen Foyteck for election to the Clarkston Board of Education on Monday, June 13.

During my terms as President and Trustee of the School Board, I have had the opportunity to work closely with both of these candidates.

Sheila Hughes, currently the secretary of the board, is seeking a second term. For the past four years, she has worked diligently to ensure that the children of Clarkston receive the highest level of education this community can provide.

Karen Foyteck, who is running as a write-in candidate to complete my term, has previously served on the board. She is a dedicated advocate of education and, given the opportunity, will continue to serve this community admirably.

Joseph A. Helpert, Ph.D.

Support Hughes

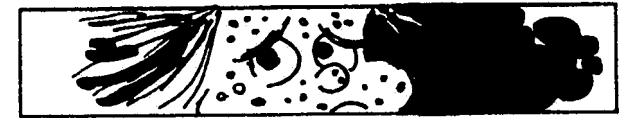

The school board election on June 13 is a time to decide whether to continue practices of thoughtful consideration of issues based upon the interests of the students, the parents, the community, the teachers and staff, the administration, and the taxpayers; or to pursue reactionary decision-making disregarding the interests of many of those affected, especially the students.

Sheila Goins Hughes has served on the Clarkston Community School Board for four years. During that time the district has made great strides in academic program improvement. The inventory of textbooks has been upgraded. School facilities have been refurbished and expanded. Community involvement in the schools has been encouraged. And employee contracts have been brought under control with the teachers and many support staff members accepting a pay freeze for the next school year.

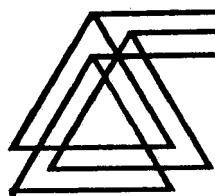

All of these were achieved through the diligent effort of Sheila Goins Hughes. She has worked hard to bring many viewpoints together and to find the best solution for all. She has steadfastly resisted taking sides in discussions of the many issues faced by the school board. She calls upon her fellow board members to remember that all sides must be represented.

Sheila Goins Hughes should be reelected to the Clarkston Community School Board.

Afraid of home canning? Help is here

"If you've always wanted to learn how to home can foods, but have been afraid of doing it wrong, help is here," says Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Michigan State University Extension-Oakland County.

"Canning can be fun and easy and safe - yet some people are really afraid of home canning because they do not understand how to do it safely or who they can call on for safe information," adds Treitman, who directs the Food and Nutrition Hotline.

The Food Hotline is the place to call for safe U.S.D.A. approved methods and information on home food preservation. Summer hours are 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday. Call 858-0904 for all your food preservation and food safety questions.

One way to rid your fear of home canning is to take a class by a trained home economist. Food preservation classes are offered by Michigan State University Extension-Oakland County.

If you enjoy a hands-on experience, a mini-food preservation canning and freezing class will take place on Saturday, July 30 at the North Office Building. The $7.50 charge covers all handouts and samples. Bring an apron and learn the latest USDA methods.

If you prefer to work at home at your own pace - a 7 week home food preservation correspondence class is available for $15 to cover postage and printed materials. It covers freezing, drying, canning, and food safety.

Wolves lose in district final match

BY LEE DRYDEN
Special to The Clarkston News

The 1994 Clarkston varsity baseball season ended on Saturday but the Wolves did not go out quietly.

Clarkston's season ended in the district final where they lost to Walled Lake Central 9-5. They advanced to the final by defeating West Bloomfield earlier in the day 5-2. Both games were at Clintonwood Park.

The Wolves jumped out to an early lead in the first game scoring four runs in the second inning with RBI singles from Jamie Churchill and Sean Craven. Brent Bundridge chalked up an RBI with a sacrifice fly and Blake Farah scored on a West Bloomfield throwing error.

West Bloomfield came back to score two runs in the bottom of the second but that was their only scoring of the day. Clarkston added its final run in the fifth when Kevin Covert singled in Matt Stutzman.

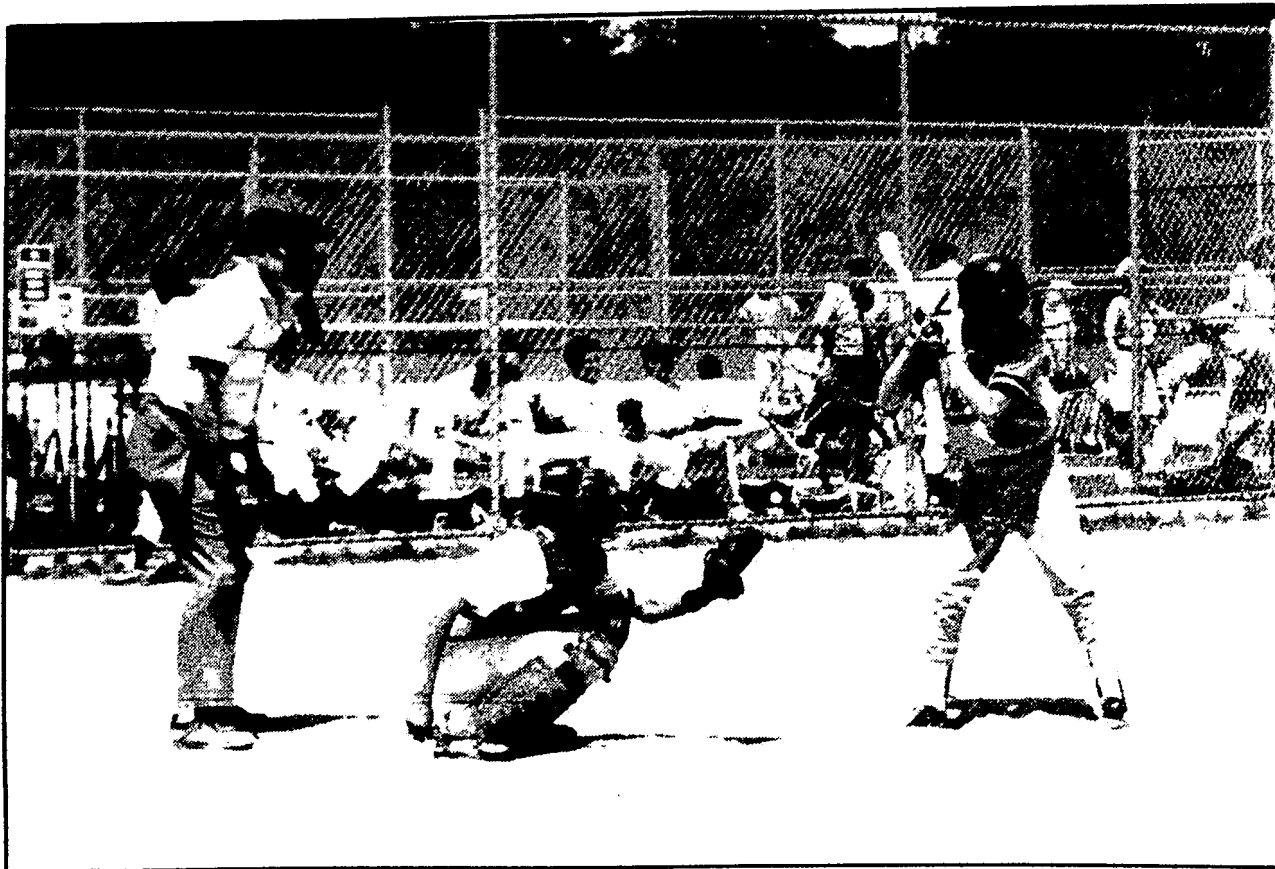

Jeff Mull pitched a complete game victory for the Wolves. The offensive attack was led by Kevin Covert who had two hits and reached base four times. Matt Stutzman added two hits and two stolen bases.

In the district final, the Wolves again got off to a fast start. They answered a first inning Central run with five runs in the second.

The Wolves received RBI singles in the inning from Mike Turk, Kevin Covert, Sean Craven, and Brent Bundridge. Two Central errors and a balk call contributed to the Clarkston rally.

Yet, the lead did not stand up. Central scored five runs in the bottom of the second, knocking out starting pitcher Covert who was replaced by Turk.

Central added runs in the fourth and sixth innings and starting pitcher Scott Theriault kept the Wolves scoreless the remainder of the game.

The Wolves loaded the bases in the bottom of the seventh but could not get the big hit to keep their season alive.

Clarkston's offense did not register a hit after the second inning, although Brent Bundridge and Jeff Golec reached base twice each. Turk pitched the remainder of the game for the Wolves.

The Wolves final record was 15-14.

May 31: In the opening district game on May 31, the Wolves defeated Waterford Kettering 11-2.

Kevin Covert pitched six innings for the victory with Mike Turk finishing for the save.

Brent Bundridge went three for four, Jeff Golec went three for three, and Jeff Mull went one for two for Clarkston.

McCormick dares kids to excel

BY LEE DRYDEN
Special to The Clarkston News

While many professional athletes are portrayed as greedy and egotistical, a Clarkston native NBA player has proven to be a valuable member of the community.

Tim McCormick, who has played in the NBA for over ten years, attended Clarkston High and the University of Michigan and still lives in the area. He plays for the New York Knicks but missed the current season with a knee injury.

McCormick spoke at the 5th-grade DARE graduation June 1 at Clarkston Elementary. DARE is drug abuse assistance education, a 17 week drug education program that the students have recently completed.

McCormick encouraged the students to "not settle for an average life." He stressed the importance of working hard and steering clear of drugs and alcohol as they entered high school.

"It takes a strong, positive, and confident individual to say 'no' to drugs. Everyone has this ability to say no," said McCormick.

While not playing this season, McCormick spent time working with the NBA players association. He went around the league giving similar anti-drug talks to NBA players.

"NBA players face the same pressures these kids do. They need to be educated as well," he said.

McCormick has worked with numerous local charities including DARE, Special Olympics, and SCAMP. He feels that, in his position, he can convey a positive message to children.

"Since I am from the community, I can show kids that you can be successful in life by staying on a path that is clear of drugs and alcohol," he said.

While McCormick stresses the importance of drug education, he feels there is a more basic message that kids should learn.

"The most important device that can be given to kids is establishing a strong relationship with their families. Kids with a strong sense of family and themselves are unlikely to become involved in drugs and alcohol," he said.

McCormick also added that he would be more than willing to help out in any upcoming area charity events.

"Any way I can help with charities, I enjoy doing so," he said.

As in previous summers, McCormick is running basketball camps for area youth. A regular basketball camp will be held July 18-22 and a father/son/daughter camp will be held July 29-31. For information or to register, call 682-8131.

JV baseball ties record for wins in a season

When it comes to high school sports in Clarkston, the varsity teams receive the majority of the attention. Therefore, it may not be known that Clarkston had a record-setting team this season.

The Wolves' JV baseball team finished 23-6 this season and was the GOAL champion with a 14-1 conference record. They also tied a school record for victories.

"It was a great season. The players had great attitudes and worked extremely hard," said Phil Price, JV head coach.

The Wolves co-MVPs were Scott Hill and Jeff Lund. Hill threw two no-hitters this season. Nathan Manual won an award for outstanding defense and Jeff Bemis led the squad in hitting with a .456 average. Justin Morgan was a top pitcher for the JV Wolves along with Hill.

"This entire team was very committed. In fact, almost all of them are playing summer baseball to prepare for next season," said Price.

With the team being made up of mostly sophomores, many will be moving to the varsity squad as juniors next season.

"These players are ready for the next level. They will be a huge help to the varsity squad next season," said Price.

Bauer sets school record

Clarkston Middle School's Jennifer Bauer set a new school record when she crossed the finish line in the 800-meter run in 2:32.02.

In the first-place finish, Bauer helped the Clarkston Middle School girls track team take an eighth in the 1994 Track and Field Final May 31.

The Sashabaw Middle School girls track team came in seventh overall in the meet, which drew 24 schools from the county.

Michelle Wilson and Erica Holman, each from SMS, tied for fourth in the high jump at 4'2". SMS's Jennifer Kerney sailed 13'8" for a fourth-place finish in the long jump.

SMS's 800-meter relay team of Katy Piechura, Michelle Erickson, Jennie Kerney and Erica Holman ran to a fourth with a time of 1:58.61.

Elizabeth Cook, SMS, took a fifth with her 6:04.05 run in the 1600-meter run.

Georgia Senkyr, CMS, ran to a third-place finish in the 400-meter dash with a time of 1:07.05. Gretchen Pitser, SMS, took sixth with a time of 1:09.31.

In the 70-meter dash, Hope Manuel, CMS, ran a 10:13 for a sixth-place finish.

CMS runners Alexis Williams, Emily Hogan, Nora Kammer and Jenny Bauer clocked a 4:47.38 for a fourth in the 1600-meter relay. Amanda Yarber, Melissa Wells, Hope Manuel and Adrienne Brown finished second in the 400-meter relay with a time of 56.47

U.S. Women's Open defending champion Lauri Merten shows her winning form on media day at Indianwood.

Defending LPG Champ visits Indianwood

With the U.S. Women's Open coming to Indianwood next month, preparations have already begun and the defending champion has visited Lake Orion.

Lauri Merten was the champion of the 1993 U.S. Women's Open which was held in Carmel, Ind. She visited Indianwood on June 6 for the media day of the upcoming tournament.

"I have never played Indianwood but I have been told that it is a beautiful course that I will enjoy," said Merten.

Indianwood was the site of the 1989 U.S. Women's Open which drew over 80,000 spectators. This year's tournament is expected to draw just as many, with all profits going to St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

"Our goal is to make this tournament as successful as it was here in 1989," said Dick Light, general co-chairman of the U.S. Women's Open.

While dozens of the best female golfers in the world will visit Lake Orion for the tournament, the main attraction for fans and the national television audience may be the course itself.

"Indianwood is a beautiful golf course in great condition. This may be the first time a golf course has starred in a U.S. Women's Open," said Light.

While 1993 champion Merten called last year's victory a "dream come true," she is still looking for continuing success at Indianwood this year.

"I'm going to try really hard at Indianwood. I want to defend my title in a successful way whether it is by winning or just competing very well," said Merten.

The 1994 U.S. Women's Open will be held July 21-24.

Wolves place in county meets

Angie Brown took a fourth in the 400-meter run with a 59.6 finish at the 1994 Oakland County Track and Field Championship May 30. Kristen Stanton placed third with her 5 foot leap over the bar in the high jump. The girls 1600 relay team placed second with a 4:08.1 finish. In the 800 meter relay, the girls finished fifth. Overall, the girls placed 14th in a field of 27 schools.

Freshman Kammy Powell took a fifth in the discus at the 1994 Oakland County Freshman Meet May 28.

Letters to the editor

Stop the nonsense

The recent school board meeting of May 24 ended with a brief discussion between board members and Lee Rogers about the negotiation of a new contract for the superintendent. Rogers inquired about the legality of rewriting the contract in closed session and the prospect of public discussion about that contract before its approval by the school board.

Both the board president and the superintendent refused to allow public scrutiny of the new contract before board approval. The president stated that the new contract was developed during closed session and went on to say in response to Mr Rogers' request for more information that he could provide that information, but would not.

As has happened all too often, the public was advised that the contract would not be completed until just before the board meeting on June 13 -- after the upcoming school board election. In fact, the superintendent refused to allow a delay of action on the contract in spite of the fact that most board members are not likely to see the contract before the board meeting.

Why the secrecy? Why the manipulation? Last year, the superintendent's contract extension was pulled from the agenda twice. Hindsight says that the superintendent and friendly board members pulled that agenda item knowing that approval was more likely after election of one more sympathetic trustee. Shortly after the new members were installed, the contract extension again appeared on the agenda and passed only with the help of new board members whose campaigns were supported by the administration and the board president.

I hope others in this community have had enough of this nonsense. Lee Rogers raised good points about the contract extension last year and about the forthcoming new contract. His queries and comments were met both times with arrogance and contempt. I think it's about time that we elect someone to our school board who will insist on conducting business in the interest of those of us who pay the bills. Lee Rogers will demand that our students get what we are paying for and that accountability to the community is maintained.

Don McArthur
Clarkston

Supports Foyteck, Rogers

Two seats on the Clarkston school board will be filled by the June election. I hope voters choose to fill those vacancies with people who will be "active" participants.

The incumbent Sheila Hughes has been a passive member of the board, "rubber stamping" everything from uncalled-for spending to "pay-to-play" sports and cuts in educational projects of every description.

Karen Foyteck and Lee Rogers deserve our votes in June. Foyteck has shown, during her previous term on the board, that she won't simply "go along" when the subject calls for discussion and further consideration. Rogers has spoken out at board meetings and in the press on behalf of more responsible fiscal management and quality education for our children. Both are active players... neither is satisfied to sit on the sideline afraid to offend the sensitivities of the administration when students are expected to suffer the consequences of poor management.

Quite an irony

Dear Editor,

I've just read that President and Hillary Clinton's new health-care proposal will cost $3.6 trillion between 1996 and 2004, when the plan will be fully implemented.

It seems to me quite an irony that the Clinton Administration claims to have undertaken health reform largely because the nation could not afford increasing health care spending! Where exactly is the big savings in this new plan?

Add this huge cost to the problems of more government bureaucracy and the possibility of losing more than 900,000 American jobs (source: DRI/McGraw-Hill), and I'm not sure we need health care reform as much as the Clintons think.

It's true there is no such thing as a free lunch. But the Clinton price tag seems well out of the range of most American taxpayers. I'd rather see various market reforms (like capping malpractice suit amounts and allowing people to start medical savings accounts) tried before risking our entire economy on this radical plan of Bill and Hillary Clinton.

Sincerely,
John A Naragon

Out with Kildee

As a newly registered voter, I was shocked to learn that my Congressman has been in office almost as long as I have been alive.

Dale Kildee has been in office so long he has lost touch with his constituents. Eighteen years is too long to hold office. No wonder term limits are so popular.

It's time we threw him out of office and put someone new in.

BOARD MEETINGS ATTENDED IN THE PAST YEAR: Eleven. "Cable broadcasting of the meetings has allowed me to watch the few meetings I was not able to personally attend."

TOP PRIORITY: "To maximize dollars we spend on classroom activities to deliver curriculum and services to students. We have a tradition of quality education in Clarkston, and it is my goal to continue that tradition. Fiscal responsibility means more than a balanced budget; it requires setting budget priorities to achieve the most educational gain for our dollars."

THE ROLE OF PARENTS IN THE SCHOOLS: "I believe that parents have a vital role in the education of their children and the well-being of our schools. I have always supported parent participation in every aspect of our school life. The education of a child requires a strong partnership between parent-school-community. Clarkston parents have enriched and enhanced the quality of education in Clarkston."

THE EFFECT OF PROPOSAL A ON CLARKSTON: "Proposal A has stabilized school funding, and school boards no longer have to spend quality time in millage elections for school operations. I believe that it is time to refocus our energy on our primary responsibility—providing the best possible educational opportunities for our children within our new budget. Classroom opportunities must be our first priority."

SHOULD THE DISTRICT SEEK AN ENHANCEMENT MILLAGE: "In light of the short time period this millage is available, I believe our efforts should be spent on prioritizing our needs and resources in order to best meet the needs of our students. If an enhancement millage were approved by the community, three years from now we would have to discontinue the staff, services and curriculum funded by that millage.

The Community Forum began the gathering of information, and we need to continue the dialogue with a broader base of participants. Our best efforts should be focused on evaluation and prioritization of current program and needs."

VOTE ON THE 18-MILL TAX PROPOSAL: Yes.

Hughes

population—at all levels. Clarkston is a growing community with aging facilities, so we cannot overlook this issue any longer."

THE ROLE OF PARENTS IN THE SCHOOL: "Parents need to show support for their children's education. They need to give input to the board, serve on district committees . . . they need to keep informed on educational issues through the PTA's and PTO's. The parents have elected a board to serve as their representative—they must trust that the board will serve all the students, not just a few."

THE EFFECT OF PROPOSAL A ON CLARKSTON SCHOOLS: "We will have a very small increase in our budget this year. What we will be getting from the state will be going back to Lansing to cover the cost of retirement and Social Security benefits for our employees, which was previously covered by the state. We will also have to pay interest to the state for borrowing our own money until they send us the money for operating our schools, which is something we have not done in 10 years (borrow)."

IN LIGHT OF THE LIST PREPARED THROUGH THE COMMUNITY FORUM, SHOULD CLARKSTON SEEK AN ENHANCE-

MENT MILLAGE? "We would need to study it and if the community would be in support of it and felt it important, we (the board) should consider the millage. However if the millage were approved for things such as art, music, more physical education at the elementary levels, teachers to lower overall class size, we would only have those dollars for three years and then it would be gone. Once programs are put in it is very hard for the community to understand why they can no longer continue, when the dollars have been eliminated."

VOTE ON THE 18-MILL TAX PROPOSAL: Yes.

Bomier

WHY HE'S RUNNING: "I want to help Clarkston confront the issues and problems facing our public education system. With my background, I believe that I can be a positive force in changing the thinking that created some of those problems."

THE BIGGEST PROBLEM FACING THE DISTRICT TODAY: "The inability to communicate effectively . . . How we keep the community up to date with the new changes in education made by the Michigan Legislature, and how it relates to the funding and quality issues, is something the board needs to fix immediately."

"Our educational system and our community are in a true state of change. As the decisions are made at the state level or national level, I will seek to understand each one and communicate its impact on our community. At the same time, I will seek to communicate the consensus needs of a changing community like Clarkston to the decision-makers in Lansing."

HOW MANY SCHOOL BOARD MEETINGS ATTENDED IN THE PAST YEAR: "Most. I've been a regular attendee."

No taxes under lemon law

Governor John Engler has signed a bill into law which allows a sales-tax refund on automobiles returned under the state's lemon law. The legislation was sponsored by Sen. Mat Dunaskiss (R., Lake Orion). Under the previous law, most motorists were not eligible for a sales-tax refund.

"This bill fixes a hole in the law that penalized innocent car buyers," Dunaskiss said. He added the problem was originally brought to light by a constituent.

Bay Court countdown

Ritter said. "They thought of everything from soccer fields, swimming pools, totem poles and arcades. We took things that were the most conceptual in shape—a princess tower, an amphitheater, a pirate ship, a puppet stage."

Some of the ideas were incorporated and OK'd through the Parks and Recreation Department, and Conklin put them all together.

It took awhile to get a response from the Leathers firm.

"We were on the fast track," Ritter said. "We wanted it to be available this summer."

They finally got the commitment from Leathers in January.

"That was the green light," Susan Yuille from Waterford said. Yuille's two children, Brandon and Lauren, collected the most pennies in a "Pennies from Heaven" drive, where Clarkston and Waterford elementary school children raised $10,800 from penny donations.

Other fund-raising activities and donations from area businesses and clubs helped to get the project on the ground, so to speak.

Now, members of those organizations as well as volunteers from churches, parents' groups, builders and other organizations will also share in the actual building.

Ritter feels that sense of community participation in the Bay Court playscape is weaving common threads of caring for area children together.

"Isn't it wonderful for a small community to get together and do something for kids."

"A lot of people embrace the concept that parenting never ends. If you take care of children and community everything else follows -- even if that child is not your own," she said.

Lend a helping hand for hospitalized children

Area parents can play an important role in helping thousands of children in need of medical care at William Beaumont Hospital.

In a year-long effort, Heinz Baby Food and the H.J. Heinz Company Foundation will contribute up to six cents for each baby food label you send to The Beaumont Children's Center. Since 1988, more than 300,000 labels have been collected. Heinz Baby Food and the H.J. Heinz Foundation have donated $18,500 to The Beaumont Children's Center.

Heinz is a national sponsor of the Children's Miracle Network Telethon, the largest telethon in the country. William Beaumont Hospital is the local hospital affiliate for CMNT in the Detroit area. Last year the local production of the Children's Miracle Network Telethon raised over $2.3 million in donations and pledges for The Beaumont Children's Center. Since its inception in 1983, CMNT has raised more than $658 million for hospitals serving children in the US and Canada.

William Beaumont Hospital is a leader in children's health services. Infants, young children and adolescents are brought to Beaumont with medical problems ranging from nasty cuts and bruises to cancer, trauma and heart disease.

Through CMNT and the Heinz Baby Food Label Saving Program, William Beaumont Hospital has been able to purchase the most advanced technological pediatric equipment and fund vital health care programs necessary to provide Southeastern Michigan children and their families with the finest pediatric patient services.

TOP PRIORITY: "The top priority must be to establish themselves as a credible and responsible organization. To do that there are two actions fundamental to this challenge. They are: opening the communications channels in the community, and the development of programs that support community involvement. My primary objective on the school board would be focused on accomplishing those two actions . . ."

"Communications is key to managing change—for Clarkston it is critical and must become a primary object for the school board."

THE ROLE OF PARENTS IN THE SCHOOLS: "Parental involvement in the education of their children is essential. Parents must be allowed access to all aspects of the educational system and be afforded the right to ask questions. We have to change the mindset of those individuals who view parents as 'less than,' or 'just parents.' Parents are the single most essential element in any child's education."

EFFECT OF PROPOSAL A ON CLARKSTON: "The approval of Proposal A affords us the opportunity to re-evaluate how we spend our monies in educating our children. Although the funding issue is an area that demands our immediate attention, we cannot fail to maintain a focus on how we solve a wide array of other issues."

"A number of these issues are not the result of legislated changes or funding constraints, but the result of our community's growth and the thinking that created them."

SHOULD CLARKSTON SEEK AN ENHANCEMENT MILLAGE: Yes, along with a more responsible accounting of the funding we already have. There is no way to avoid the needs generated by the population growth in Clarkston . . . Unfortunately, our facilities are already impacted and unable to accommodate that projected growth. Class sizes at all levels are unacceptable . . . We must move ahead to build facilities that will provide for our 'population boom.'"

VOTE ON THE 18-MILL TAX PROPOSAL:
Yes.

Rogers

THE BIGGEST PROBLEM FACING THE DISTRICT TODAY: "A passive school board which chooses to follow rather than direct a sometimes errant administration. Thus, the focus of administrative activity remains on things other than quality education. We have paid for quality, yet, far too many students leave high school poorly prepared for their futures or for employers. Test scores confirm this annually."

HOW MANY SCHOOL BOARD MEETINGS ATTENDED IN THE PAST YEAR: "I attend on a regular basis, have addressed the board on numerous occasions and frequently express my opinions about education in local newspapers."

TOP PRIORITY: "The responsible use of existing funds to restore curriculum lost to prior budget cuts and to assure the delivery of top quality educational opportunity to students at every school in the district. Strong support of our teaching staff regarding classroom/campus discipline and demanding educational standards must be an integral part of any attempt to improve teaching and learning experiences."

THE ROLE OF PARENTS IN THE SCHOOLS: "The primary role of parents is to be certain their children are prepared to learn when they are at school. Students must come to the school system as responsible citizens. Parents must take responsibility for the performance, or lack of performance, of their children and commit themselves to assisting their children to overcome obstacles to learning."

THE EFFECT OF PROPOSAL A ON CLARKSTON: "Proposal A has benefited Clarkston schools by providing an important measure of stability which will allow for longer-range planning. Reliance on the frequent millage requests which antagonized many taxpayers will no longer be necessary to cover normal expenses."

SHOULD THE DISTRICT SEEK AN ENHANCEMENT MILLAGE: No. "The district must first demonstrate, through its routine actions, that dramatic improvements have been made in the responsible use of tax revenues. We can do more with what we already have. The school board and the administration have not shown a keen sense of financial responsibility in the last 11 months."

VOTE ON THE 18-MILL TAX PROPOSAL:
Yes. "However, I find it objectionable that some citizens will have an opportunity to vote for tax levies on the properties of other citizens while incurring no tax burden themselves."

Millage election is Monday

spending to $5,415 per student.

"If a district fails to approve the 18 mills on non-homestead property, the result will be less dollars for the school district," Roberts said.

"The Legislature is working on a bill that clearly outlines what happens if voters fail to support the 18 mills. It is expected that the school district will continue to receive the state portion of their per-pupil foundation grant, but would lose the local portion."

In addition to the tax questions, voters will elect two members of the Clarkston Board of Education and two members to the Oakland Community College Board of Trustees. Candidate profiles on the school-board race are on page 3A.

Building a better future

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

Their classroom is in a portable trailer. The conditions are often tough—cold winters, hot spring days.

But the students learning the building trades at Oakland Technical Center Northwest, who have just completed building two houses, are getting the hands-on experience employers so value. And people are lining up to buy their products.

On a tour of the two nearly completed houses last week, teacher Dick Moscovic showed off a spacious ranch with a walk-out basement, and a two-story home with a soaring living room with a wall of windows. The homes, priced in the $170s, have both been sold.

"Our major thrust is the carpentry area," Moscovic said. But on the ranch, summer-school students did the masonry for the basement. On both houses, heating and cooling students did their part of the job. In spring, landscaping students came in and laid sod and put in plants. When it's all done, building maintenance students clean up the sites.

The homes are built in partnership with local builders, one for each house. This year they were Welcome Homes and Miller Properties.

The front entrance to the ranch house is beautifully landscaped with trees, boulders, perennials and a walk.

Himself a builder, Moscovic has been teaching for 26 years, the last six at OTCNW. "We're pretty proud," he said. This is the first time two houses have been built in the same year.

He explained that the builder-partner acts as a sort of general contractor on the job and supplies a home warranty to the buyer. The builder also takes care of selling the home and hiring any subcontractors that are needed.

'We run around making sure they do it right and if it isn't we tear it out and do it again.'

Steve Wyckoff

But the end result is "a bargain," Moscovic said. Nine lots on Goldfinch were originally purchased by Clarkston schools. Five have now been built on. The Oakland Intermediate School District, which funds OTCNW, budgets $120,000 per house.

The money is repaid when the house is sold. Houses can be custom or stock, and come fully landscaped. The future owners of the ranch will soon live in a spacious 1,860 square feet. Windows are boxed in to provide deep sills (or possible window seats). The basement is full of surprises: two doorways, wood beams, a bathroom, a closet under the stairs and a fruit cellar under the front porch.

"We've already had people inquiring about next year," Moscovic said.

Students in the program may be sophomores on up. There are two years' worth of classes available.

Addie Gilman, a junior from Holly, has been the only girl in the program the last two years. She spends three hours each morning at Holly High School, then comes to the building site.

near the end of the job. "We're exhausted," Wyckoff said.

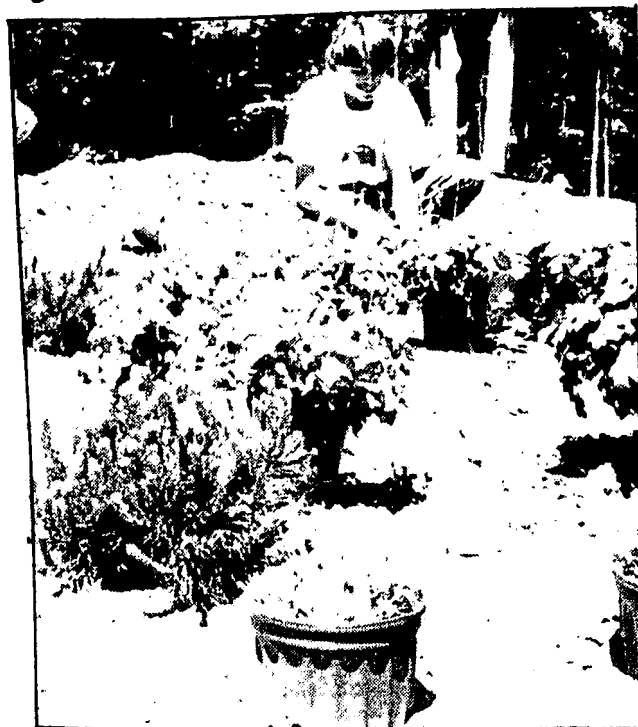

"I just wanted the experience," she said. "I don't want to be treated any differently from anybody else in here."

Dave Gray is a General Motors laid-off employee who has been working as a helper to Moscovic while getting some training himself.

"I had some skills but it refreshed my mind," he said. "I learned a lot." He hopes to eventually become a journeyman carpenter after a call-back from GM.

Teacher Steve Wyckoff was in charge of the two-story house, where students were busy installing landscaping last week.

"We do it in the same order a builder would do it," he said. "We run around making sure they're doing it right, and if it isn't, we tear it out and do it again.."

Mike Escamilla, a sophomore in the landscaping program, installs perennials.

Helpers restore zoo aviary

A dozen volunteers from the Metro Regional Office of Consumers Power Company helped landscapers and horticulturists at the Detroit Zoo plant 100 exotic plants in the 10,000 square foot Free-Flight Aviary June 2, replacing trees, vines and ground cover destroyed during last January's record subzero temperatures.

The 80- by 80-foot Aviary is a fiberglass and glass structure with a glazed aluminum frame envelope, featuring a sloping roof. It simulates a tropical environment complete with a rain forest, mountain, plain, and shore areas, for some 36 different types of birds. Walkways permit visitors to wander among the plantings. A passageway connects the Aviary to the former Bird House, the rotunda-topped building now being renovated into a Wildlife Interpretive Gallery.

"We've learned a lot from this situation," said Barry Burton, the Detroit Zoo's horticulturist. "This is the first mass planting of the Aviary since its renovation in the 1970s. We have discovered the vegetation planted then was too dense for the birds to fly freely or for the birds to be seen clearly by our visitors. Because of this, we have purposely purchased plants that will preserve the open space created by the loss of the foliage."

"The restoration program also gives us a chance to make a major enhancement to the exhibit, which we may not have been able to do if the plants had not died. We purchased four large trees to eventually give a canopy effect, and lots of ground cover. In fact, some of the plants purchased have never been kept behind glass before. The end result will be very green, very exotic, and very lush. We've purchased different looking species where possible. For example, one of the rubber trees we bought has a braided trunk."

On January 20, temperatures outside dipped to minus 20 degrees. The Aviary's heating system was insufficient for the subzero weather, and temperatures inside the building dropped to 28 degrees, staying there for 12 to 14 hours, killing many of the Aviary's plants, including sheffleras, umbrella trees, Queen Sago palms, shrubs, cast-iron plants and two bougainvillea vines, one 40 feet long.

LaCroix-Shiff

Rita Nance of Knoxville, Tenn. and Ken LaCroix of Clarkston announce the engagement of their daughter, Rena Mary LaCroix to Dean Joseph Shiff, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Shiff of Independence Township. The bride-to-be is a Clarkston High School graduate who studied accounting at Oakland Community College. She works as a senior accounting associate with Employers Security Co. in Knoxville. The prospective groom is a Clarkston High School graduate and a former member of the United States Army. He works as an emergency medical technician at Parkwest Hospital in Knoxville. An August wedding is being planned in Knoxville, where they both live.

At school

Marc Swartout has been awarded a 1994 Michigan Safety Conference Scholarship. A Clarkston resident, he is pursuing a degree in occupational safety and health at Oakland University.

Helping replenish plants which were destroyed at the Detroit Zoo's aviary which were destroyed in last winter's record cold is Jerry Runyan, of Clarkston. He is one of many Detroit Edison employees who helped on the project.

While the exotic birds, including Bleeding-heart doves, Magpie Gooses, and Sudan Golden Sparrows, all survived by huddling next to the heat vents near the roof of the building, the Zoo has been concerned the birds wouldn't roost this season due to the lack of foliage.

Edison offers air-conditioning incentive

Energy efficiency pays -- especially if you're a Detroit Edison residential customer installing a central air-conditioning system this year.

Qualifying customers who sign up for Detroit Edison's new Energy Efficient Home Air-Conditioning Program can receive cash incentives now and pay lower energy bills in the future.

The program is available to customers who purchase and install central, air-to-air heat pump or geothermal air-conditioning systems this year with Seasonal Energy Efficiency Ratings (SEER) of 12 or higher. Participants can earn incentives of between $50 and $150 per ton of cooling capacity, depending on the systems' SEERs.

By taking advantage of special rates, such as that for interruptible air conditioning, customers also benefit over time with lower energy bills.

"The program is designed to encourage customers to use energy more efficiently," said Jared Goetz, a Detroit Edison heating and cooling specialist.

"And since a high-efficiency air-conditioning system uses less energy to cool a home, the customers will see the savings immediately," Goetz said.

For more specific information or an application form, customers can call Detroit Edison's Heating and Cooling Information Center on 1-800-833-2786.

Business brief

Coldwell Banker The Michael Group, of Clarkston, has announced the expansion of its business by acquiring Coldwell Banker Elam in Waterford, manager Carol Eberhardt said.

"It expands our market area," she said. "This is going to give residents a higher level of service." The realty company has had an office in Clarkston since 1975.

Ray Eby will move from the Clarkston office to manage the Waterford office.

"We will now be able to service first-home buyers in a market that is a lower price range. Clarkston, quite frankly, has become quite pricy," Eberhardt said.

Call 625-1333 for more information.

The Prudential has opened a new office in Clarkston, on Ortonville Rd. just north of I-75.

Frank Desy, CLU, LUTCS, general manager for education and development, said the move is part of a consolidation of six districts the company had in the Detroit area. They have now merged into the largest region Prudential has in the U.S., called the Renaissance Agency.

In addition to offering life and property insurance, mutual funds, business insurance and the rest of Prudential's products, the new office will serve as a training ground for new agents. Up to 14 of them will spend up to three months at the new office before being reassigned.

Office hours are 8 a.m.-7 p.m. Monday, 8-5 Tuesday-Friday.

"We encourage anybody to walk in and see us," Desy said. "We have a beautiful office."

Periodontist Joan Lewis, DDS, has opened her private practice in a professional building at 5649 Sashabaw (next to McDonald's).

Lewis received her dental degree from the University of Detroit in 1986. After practicing general dentistry in Grand Blanc and Sterling Heights, she entered Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland for her periodontal specialty training. She finished in 1991.

An Orion Township resident, Lewis accepts referrals from general dentists, though they are not required. Her office is open one night a week and she's available Monday through Friday and some Saturdays.

Kids get hip to history

Students in Carla Garr's fourth-grade class at Cedar Crest Academy learned that "It's Hip to Make History" as one of six runners-up in a contest sponsored by the Detroit Historical Museum.

Fourth-graders from around the Detroit area were invited to select the most intriguing people, objects and events of the past year, and submit posters and video time capsules to illustrate their choices.

Entries were judged on creativity, originality and the significance of the nomination by a panel of historians and local business people. Prizes included a classroom computer, atlases and a tour of the museum.

The grand-prize winner was the class of Stephen Geyer at St. Stephen Lutheran, Waterford.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

NO USE WAITING

IF PRICES are too high for the home you want, waiting won't help. Buy what you CAN now.

Ron Rodda
Sales Manager
Should I go into Real Estate? "ASK RON"

QUESTION: Twenty years ago I thought home prices were too high so I waited and am still waiting. How long will I have to wait?

ANSWER: At the rate you're going, you'll probably be asking me the same question 20 years from now. The cost of homes goes up with inflation-but so does income.

The only problem is that housing usually goes up a little faster than the cost of living. If you are waiting until you can accumulate a larger down payment-this time next year, you may well be further behind your goal than you are now.

Your best bet is to buy whatever you CAN afford, as soon as you can. It's easier to move up than to START.

Heritage Hunt II

By Virginia Block

"The glory of a man is from the honour of his father," Ecclesiastes 3:11, found on the title page of "A Genealogy of the Lake Family" is the perfect lead-in for today's column.

Our topic is fathers, with due respect that soon the day will be here where the male parent gets equal time with Mother's Day celebrated in May.

Any family history will invariably turn up a Smith line, which would be complicated as to whether its spelling is Smythe, Schmidt, or any of the confusing variants.

The Lake genealogy was privately published in 1915, written by Arthur Adams and Sarah Risley. This copy of the book was from the collection of the late Lillian Drake Avery, and was given to the Pontiac Library in 1927.

Lying in storage many years, it recently was "discovered" again and the index (pages 299 through 376) contains names of collateral lines that indicate the truth that lies in the belief that in 10 generations we are all related.

While most of us search "roots," the ancestor chart for the Lake family in this book resembles a lake with all the American lines of ascendancy resembling rivers and streams that formed the "Lake" of descendants. Different, at least from the familiar tree, branches and roots, it provides us with a clear view of the Lake pedigree.

Also, new family genealogies recently added to our library (P.A.H.A.G.S.) have included a rare book on the family of Joseph Smith and Emma Hale, son and daughter-in-law of the founder of the Mormon Church. This rare family history book so far has connected several people as "cousins" by virtue of the information that provides lineage of many families with England's families back to the Mayflower, and even before.

Frances Peterson of Southfield has added much to previous knowledge found on her long list of ancestors, since she first began the history of her EBY family. Once she researched all collateral lines, hundreds of lines are among those found in Haddam, Conn., where the Smith-Hale book reveals how intermarriage in the early families started the foundation for all the interlocking lines.

Other "family" genealogy books include BULLA, FITCH, AMES, and more. They are a gold mine of help for local researching.

Have a "fruit-filled" crop for your family tree searches, and share with us your needs, for our new materials acquisitions continue to grow.

Fishing is a living for local man

BY LEE DRYDEN
Special to The Clarkston News

Michigan is well known for its abundance of lakes and its numerous opportunities for fishing. In fact, a professional walleye fisherman and expert lives here in Clarkston.

Wayne Banycky grew up in Clarkston and has been an outdoorsman all of his life. He started fishing on Whipple Lake where he lived as a child.

"When I was growing up, the other kids were always playing baseball and basketball. That wasn't for me; I loved to hunt and fish," said Banycky.

Banycky became more involved in fishing as he got older and learned to catch walleyes. In fact, he became very good at the sport and began to receive sponsorships and enter tournaments.

"Becoming a good walleye fisherman requires a lot of reading. I read everything I could get my hands on and I also went to walleye fishing seminars," he said.

Banycky is sponsored by Stren fishing line, Mercury motors, Skeeter boats, and Loranz Electric. The sponsors give Banycky their items to use and pay for him to enter tournaments in exchange for his year-round promotion of their products.

"Tournament fishing would be impossible without sponsorship; it's just too expensive to do on your own. I truly feel the brands I use are the best; I wouldn't promote a product if it wasn't good," he said.

Banycky has sponsorship responsibilities off the water, as well. He attends sport shows and gives talks on walleye fishing and tests new products for his sponsors that haven't been released yet. He has also written several articles for outdoor magazines.

Banycky attends around seven tournaments a year. He has travelled to South Dakota, Minnesota, and Wisconsin, and will be competing in Saginaw Bay in July.

"Saginaw Bay has some of the best walleye fishing in the world," he said.

The usual format at the tournaments is a pro-amateur event with Banycky in the boat with an amateur. Scores are determined by the top weights of fish caught in the three days of competition.

"After all of the work preparing and promoting products, professional fishermen look forward to tournaments so they can have some fun," said Banycky.

One of the newest electronic innovations Banycky uses in tournaments is a Global Position Satellite System, which is a computerized sensor which shows where the fish are in the water.

"Walleye fishing now includes high performance electronics. With competition I face, I need my LMS 350 sensor in the boat. I'd be lost without it," he said.

Walleye fishing is not just a serious competitive sport. It is one families can enjoy together, according to Banycky.

"It's not necessary to have thousands of dollars of equipment to enjoy fishing. All kids need is an

Students offered a slice of real working life

BY DEBORAH DZIEWIT
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Today, thinking of students as a product should be nothing new.

After all, once students complete any level of education or training, they will pound the pavement trying to sell themselves to a potential customer/employer for a job.

The Oakland Technical Center - Northwest-Campus formed a partnership with the Ford Academy of Manufacturing Sciences and will offer its two-year program to help students become the best product when looking for a job.

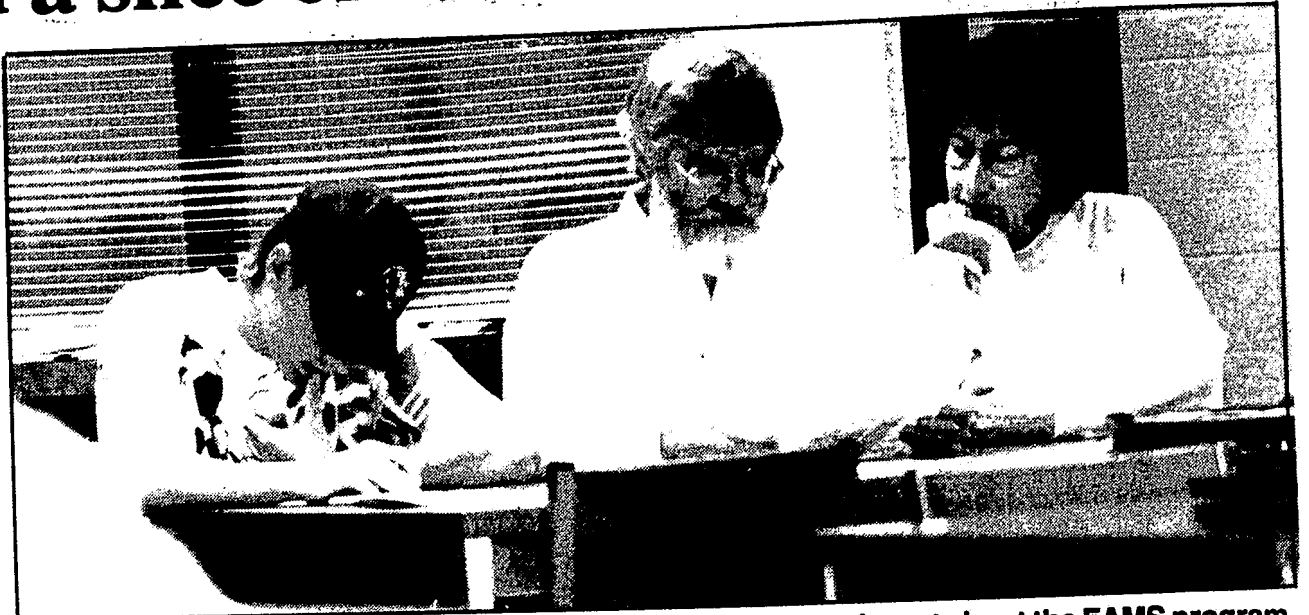

Students enrolled in the FAMS program will not only take classes but will be expected to hold a summer internship.

By doing so, "They will receive a slice of the world," Larry Bruno, program manager for the Ford Academy of Manufacturing Sciences, said of students who enroll in the program.

Students, parents, area educators and business persons met June 1 at the center to find out more about the FAMS program that could be offered to a maximum of 20 area students.

Ford Motor Company created the program in response to what business needs in its employees. The curriculum was designed to meet the needs of potential employees coming out of secondary schools, whether they go on to higher education or not.

"FAMS is a school-business partnership and getting our work force prepared," Bruno said. "Our job is increase career awareness in manufacturing and to put math, science, technology and communication skills in a real life context."

A father, mother and son check out the literature that was provided by the Oakland Tech

Center -- Northwest about the FAMS program.

The program is one way that students' educational needs can meet today's and tomorrow's workforce needs.

"Education has not kept up with business and what it needs," Daniel Manthei, principal of OTC, which is located on Big Lake Road, said.

FAMS can be considered a national model and is quickly being replicated across the country. Currently there are 27 FAMS sites in nine states — Clarkston OTC would make the tenth site in Michigan.

"This program is Ford's response to what the Federal legislation is just now encouraging or mandating for schools," Manthei said.

Students can get on the "cutting edge of education" program next fall, which will allow them to learn skills needed to succeed at manufacturing jobs.

Cindy Karr, a Clarkston resident, attended the meeting along with her son. She was interested in the program and came prepared with questions.

"I have more checking to do, but it seems like an excellent program and offers practical experience," she said. "In math, not only will you get the facts, you will know how to apply what you learned... that is very valuable."

Son Chris, a sophomore at Clarkston High School, said he is not sure if he will enroll in the program and intends to investigate FAMS more before he makes a decision.

The FAMS curriculum will cover manufacturing systems and organizations, quality improvement through the application of basic statistical methods, the use of electronics and technology in the work place and problem solving in a manufacturing organization.

Classes will be taught by teachers certified by North Central Accreditation Association. OTC has candidates for the math portion of the program; however, it is seeking a qualified applicant who has a degree in business or economics who can teach the first semester.

"We have candidates for the math; but we do need someone who is willing to work part-time and teach the first semester class," Manthei said.

Clarkston High School students enrolled in the program could receive academic credit. A proposal will go before the school board in the fall.

"We will give the credit proposal to the school board," said David Reschke, assistant superintendent in charge of curriculum and staff development.

If approved, which Reschke said should not be a problem, students could receive academic credits in social studies, physics, science and math.

"They could receive one and a half to two academic credits and one elective when they complete the course," Manthei said.

Between students' junior and senior years, they will be required to find paid summer internships working 40-hour weeks, five days a week.

Students will not be handed a job. They will prepare resumes and are guaranteed an interview but not a job.

"They will see what the real world is like," Bruno said.

William Kurolevch, Chrysler's senior technical educator who specializes in product training services, sees first-hand what is needed in the workplace.

"Critical thinking, problem-solving techniques, good communication and knowing how to work with a team are the good basic skills that we look for and need," Kurolevch said.

In a U.S. Dept. of Labor report titled "What Work Requires of Schools" 12 months of interviews were compiled with many associated with the business world. The report found those skills to be critical toward meeting the needs of the year 2000.

Businessman Roger Diederich knows first-hand what is needed in the workplace today and in the future.

"If we can educate and move the training back within the schools, and students receive the correct preparation, businesses can save millions of dollars.

"Marketability is important. When a resume is received by manufactures and if all caveats of skills are enhanced, it increases one's employment potential. Everything is scrutinized very thoroughly," Diederich, a Clarkston resident and owner of R & D Automation in Royal Oak, said.

Employers will look at school attendance, grades, classes and what extra activities the applicant has done.

"This will win the individual that job out over all others," Diederich said.

Students enrolled in FAMS could enhance their job potential by gaining knowledge, skills and job experience.

"FAMS is different from conventional high school," Manthei said. "Students are products. And the first rule of TQM (Time Quality Management) is, know who the customer is and second, know what is needed. FAMS is a focus of those needs."

inexpensive fishing pole and they can have a great time," he said.

Banycky also made the point that introducing kids to outdoor activities could stop many of the problems of today's youth.

"Outdoor activities could give kids a positive outlet for their energies. I think if more kids had the opportunities to hunt or fish, they would enjoy it. It would get them away from in front of the television," he said.

Banycky expressed concern about the way fishing is handled by the DNR in Michigan, the only state without a fish and game department.

"The DNR has very little interest in the sportsman. With all of the revenue coming in from fishing licenses, the DNR should be prepared to promote the sport and provide for the future," he said.

While he disagrees with some state policies, Banycky is still glad to be a professional fisherman living in Michigan.

"Michigan has some of the best fishing and hunting in the world and its where I'm going to stay. It's a sportsman's paradise," he said.

Scott Hill

Hill wins HOBY

Though just completing his sophomore year, Scott Hill got to spend last weekend on a college campus.

Hill was selected to attend this year's Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation Michigan-East Leadership Seminar as the representative of Clarkston High School. According to CHS assistant principal Ginny Farmer, he was selected by a vote of school staff after being presented by a committee. He was selected based on leadership ability, grades and citizenship, she said.

Hill, who said he spends basically all his time on "homework and sports," said the HOBY experience is an opportunity to meet with leaders in business, education, government and the professions.

"I've always been focused on business and law," he said. "I felt it (would be) a good learning experience."

About 180 other high-school sophomores were expected to attend the three-day event at Eastern Michigan University June 3-5. All of their expenses were paid for by sponsors, who come from business, foundations and service organizations within the state.

During the weekend, the students heard about our changing world and the challenges they, as future leaders, could expect to face as adults. The discussion was to be non-partisan and non-sectarian.

At the end, two participants, one boy and one girl, were selected to be sent to the world congress in Phoenix, Ariz., July 22-30.

Hill has been active in junior varsity cross-country, basketball and baseball at CHS. He is the son of William and Sharyn Hill.

New boating law for kids under 6

Children under six years old must wear personal flotation devices on any boat—from canoes to sailboats to giant cruisers—this year under a little publicized Michigan law that kicked in April 1.

Violation of the law could bring a fine up to $100 against a parent or guardian accompanying a child under six in any open deck area on board. In the absence of a relative, the operator of the boat would be held responsible.

The law specifies that the child must wear a Type I or Type II life jacket or vest with a minimum buoyancy of 11 pounds. Such devices turn an unconscious person from a downward position to a vertical or slightly backward position.

Type III wearable and Type IV throwable flotation devices are not acceptable for a child under six.

Michigan is the boating capital of the country with more than 877,500 registered craft. The state recorded 38 fatal boating accidents in 1992, the last year for which statistics are available. Of those, drownings accounted for 33 deaths.

Jackets and vests for young children must be properly fitted. If the flotation device is too big, a child could slip from the supporting position designed to keep his head above water. Too small and they will not provide adequate buoyancy.

One goal is to get young children so accustomed to wearing life jackets while boating that they'll wear them in and around the water, in much the same manner that safety belts are "automatic" for kids in cars.

You're never too old, adult grads say

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

About 50 graduates of adult and alternative education tossed their caps into the air at the end of last week's graduation exercises at the Clarkston High School auditorium.

For each of them, that final hip-hooray must have meant something different. For these were students who had gotten their diplomas the hard way, coming back after leaving regular high school for varying reasons and lengths of time. And for their own reasons, they had decided the diploma was worth getting, no matter how difficult.

Many of the students received the new state-certified diplomas, which prove that they have achieved standards set by the state in math, science and reading. This is the first year such diplomas are available.

Six of the students received scholarships to Baker College. Eight students addressed the standing-room-only crowd which packed the auditorium. All eight praised their teachers and supportive families.

"The decision to come back to high school was not an easy one," said Judith Campbell. "I felt this longing inside me to complete this." She went on to say she hopes to become a teacher.

"If I knew then what I know now, I never would have set my education aside 17 years ago," said Denise Kring. "I was a teenager, so of course I knew everything."

"To learn you must be willing to be taught," said Chris St. Charles, saying he learned that from his teachers. And he had a special reason for being there: his mother was diagnosed with cancer in December.

"She set her goal of being here tonight. How could my goals be any less?"

His second goal, he said, was to be a Marine. Getting his diploma made that possible too.

"No one is ever too old to return to school," said Pandora Doherty. "But she has to take the first step on her own... I am living proof. If I can do it, anyone can." She received a Baker College scholarship.

Clarkston school superintendent Gary Haner congratulated the graduates on their achievement. "We're excited because you've prepared yourself to be productive in whatever organization you choose."

after the ceremonies.
