Morgan Lake vote ties

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

A tie vote isn't often considered a win. But that's what the developer of the proposed Morgan Lake golf development is calling a 2-2 vote on the project at the Independence Township Planning Commission last week.

With two absentees and one vacancy on the commission, the vote, though technically a denial, forces the township board of trustees to make the decision on Morgan Lake, a 285-acre golf and residential development slated for Maybee Rd. north of I-75 and east of Clintonville.

The developers are asking for a planned residential development, a type of zoning which requires an amendment to the township's zoning ordinance. If approved, it will contain 18 holes of golf, a club house and both attached and detached condominiums.

"We looked at it as quite a victory," said Michael Clark, one of the developers of Morgan Lake. "This has been stagnated at the planning commission quite a long time. We said, look; we'll live or die at the township board. We know we've done our homework."

Clark blamed the delay on Orion Township residents, who began protesting when the plans were rearranged to provide two entrances to the development off of Rohr Rd. He said no one from Independence Township complained in the year and a half the plan was before the commission.

"It only stalled when Orion Township residents came in," he said.

Planning commission chairman Richard Oppmann accused the developers of playing politics by hiring Rudy Lozano, a member of the Road Commission for Oakland County and a former planning commissioner and township trustee, to get the plan by the planning commission.

"I think he wants to place it with elected officials," Oppmann said. "They've been working the political angle." He said that has not been business as usual in Independence Township—until now.

"All of a sudden we got to the road and we didn't know who was speaking for who," Oppmann said. "The only purpose of him getting involved in this project was to get it to the township board."

Lozano says that's true. "My specific job was to assist them in doing the things that needed to be done to get township approval," he said. "They just appeared to have run into a bottleneck."

Neither he nor Brent Bair, deputy managing director for the Road Commission, characterized

Surprise state money gives school board new choices

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

A 'gift' of over $265,000 in state revenue that was unexpected as recently as two weeks ago means the Clarkston schools budget will have a little more "wiggle room" than anticipated.

That was the good news Monday night as the board of education held the required public hearing on its proposed 1994-95 budget. Once they'd learned the good news, the subject turned to what to do with the unexpected windfall.

Trustee Kurt Karlstrom suggested the district eliminate Pay to Participate, the plan whereby students must pay $580 to participate in a sport. It generates about $80,000 for the district to help offset the cost of athletics.

"I don't like to see Pay to Participate as a given," Karlstrom said. "I think the administration has always seen Pay to Participate as a given."

However other trustees argued in favor of improvements in class sizes and curriculum, as well as putting the money toward the fund equity, which isn't where the board would like it to be.

The new money is the result of two changes in state funding which only recently became known, according to Steven Lenar, deputy superintendent of business and operations.

About $250,000 comes from a refund of previous years' recapture (the so-called Robin Hood law) that will be now included in the new state foundation grant. The remaining money comes from new funding for districts which operated deficit budgets last year. That is, they spent more than they took in, drawing from their fund balances to make up the difference.

Because of changes in the way some students will now be funded, such as adult high school, the district will also bring its own students, age 16-20, back from a consortium with Brandon Schools. The new per-pupil allotment is $5,445, up from the $5,414 which had been anticipated.

"Those are major changes," Lenar said. "Bringing back $600,000 to $700,000 in three weeks is a major curve... I feel pretty comfortable right now we have a solid budget in place."

Lozano's consulting a conflict of interest. Bair said the RCOC has no policy regarding outside work commissioners may take on.

"I don't know that anything like this has come up before so I can't comment," Bair said.

Lozano, who said appointed officials such as planning commissioners can be "timid" and "nervous," said his experience was sought because he knows the people and the processes involved.

"I don't think it's any mystery things have gotten a lot more complicated," he said. "Developers are finding it much more difficult to get a project through... The only people who come to a (planning commission) meeting are people who are unhappy."

Township supervisor Dale Stuart said that while there's no guarantee the township board will approve the plan, he sees it as a plus for the township.

"They're paving Maybee Road, which has been a real bad section of road for us. They're extending water and sewer lines. That's a better protection for the wetlands than wells and septic..."

"I don't think there's any reason we should not see this as a positive."

Stuart said that though the rezoning must go to the county planning division, it could be on the board of trustees' agenda by July 19, the board's next regular meeting.

In other action at the planning commission June 23:

● The request by Steeple Ridge Condominiums for an amendment to their PUD site plan was recommended to the township board. The amendments include changes to landscaping and garages. The development is located on Clarkston Rd. near Perry Lake Rd.

● A tentative preliminary approval for the Mellema Subdivision on Stowe Trail was recommended for approval to the township board. The 1.24-acre development is located off Caberfae Trail.

● A request for approval of a conceptual site plan for Home Furnishings of Clarkston was referred to a subcommittee for more work. The planned new store on Dixie Highway north of Clarkston is zoned commercial and covers 3.4 acres.

● The preliminary plan review for Lake Waldon Village III off Waldon Rd. west of Sashabaw was approved.

BUDGET, continued from 1A

The board decided to ask administration to provide a list of priority items which have been cut from the budget in recent years for consideration of restoration. That list is expected to be presented at the board's July 18 meeting.

"I think we do need direction from the board in terms of where we're going to go," Lenar said. "Maybe we do need to review the whole list of cuts."

Lenar's budget shows the district ending the 1994-95 school year with a fund balance of $1,215,419, well more than originally anticipated but still only 3.44 percent of expenditures. He cautioned that though the budget looks good, he's unsure about the years ahead and asked that the board consider long-range financial planning.

"As we go forward I think we need to start making some projections," he said. "I'm not ready to do that tonight but I think we need to start looking ahead."

Library millage is for all the marbles

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

When the Independence Township Library asks for a tax renewal and Headlee override on the August 2 ballot, fully 85 percent of its operating budget will be on the line.

Though library usage has grown tremendously since the move to a new building, library director Mollie Lynch said the tax proposal is nothing more than "status quo." The library's biggest problems—irregular hours and a small collection—will not improve if the voters say "Yes." However a "no" vote means it can only get worse.

"I hear every day, every hour: Your hours are terrible and you don't have any books," Lynch said.

The library's annual budget is about $501,000. The Headlee override will generate another $18,000, Lynch said. The increased cost should the override be approved is three cents per every $1,000 of assessed property value. For a house assessed at $50,000 (worth $100,000 on the market) the total library tax would be $37.50; of that the Headlee override would be $1.50.

The history of the library is not a long one in Independence Township. It was begun by a local women's club in the 1950s, and given to the township in the 1960s. It has been dependent on the township board for appropriations from its general fund and until a couple of years ago was housed in a 4,000-square-foot building.

But when the recession hit right after a new, 20,000-square-foot library was built (thanks to a $2 million bond issue), the township instituted a 20 percent cut, right at a time when usage was up 50 percent.

A separate operating millage was approved for the first time in 1990, but an increase that would have helped buy books and more hours for the new building was defeated.

"We cut the book budget, we cut the staff, we cut the hours," said Lynch, a Clarkston native who has been library director for three years. "We didn't cut the hours because the millage failed . . . I knew because of the economy cuts had to be made."

Though the local economy has been strong, with Independence Township growing every year, taxes generated by new construction account for less than one percent of the library's budget. Today the collection remains at about 1.1 books per capita, with usage being slowed by the poor state of the collection.

Library volunteer Lori Masserang handles audio/video repairs and books that need rebinding for the Independence Township Library.

"Many of the new people coming in are from communities where they have well-established libraries," Lynch said. "People would come in, look around and leave."

The law under which the library was originally formed is no longer in effect, so Lynch and the township are considering the options of forming a separate library board with its own taxing authority,

'It's a million dollars to an average collection.'

Mollie Lynch

or of forming a district library with the City of Clarkston, whose residents still use their former township library. There's no other way to get an increase in the operating budget, Lynch said.

"At this point it's wait and see. Under the former supervisor we attempted a district library with the city but we couldn't come to an agreement. So we went for a one-mill increase under Act 164 and that's what failed." The current township board has said it will study the issue.

Meanwhile, Lynch is trying to make the best of her resources by bringing in on-line services which allow library users to link up with computers all over the world. A computerized card catalogue will be installed in July. A fund-raising drive is under way to bring in an automated circulation system that will allow renewals, holds and other services over the phone.

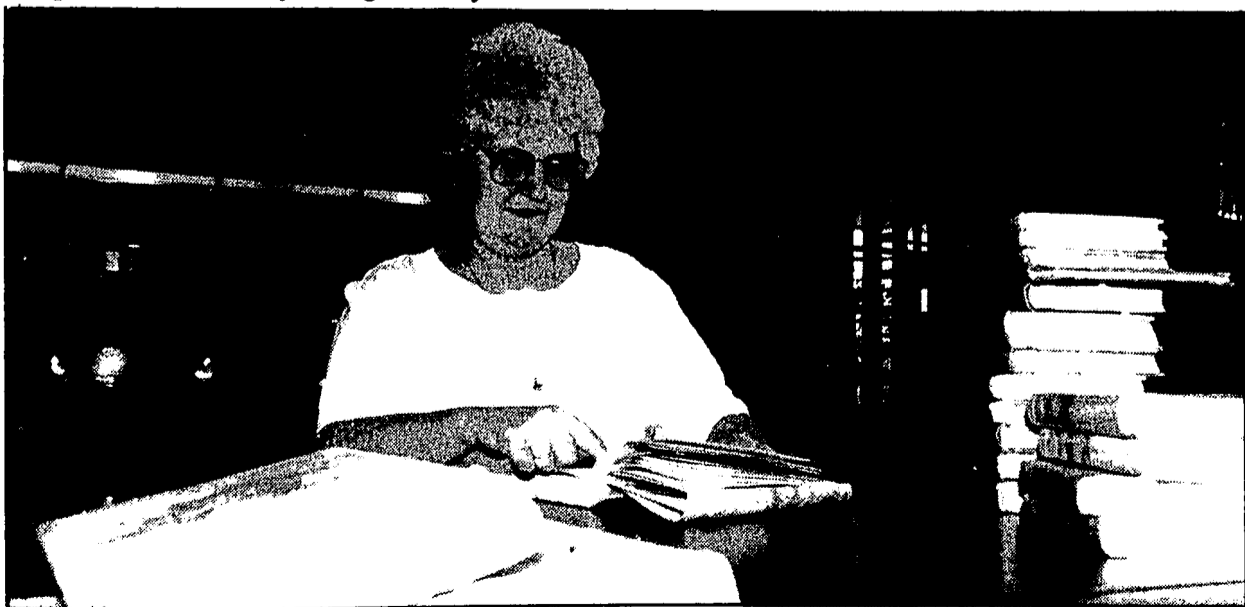

The library will also join a service called Metro Net, along with six other libraries in the Detroit area. "Our patrons will actually be able to go anywhere in the world," Lynch said. It's hoped these new data bases will help compensate for books not available on site.

"We're trying to balance between traditional library services, collection development, resource sharing and the new technology," Lynch said. "If we only focused on books we'd never make it. Without a huge infusion of cash we're never going to have an average collection. It's a million dollars to an average collection . . . Even if you bought 5,000 to 10,000 books a year, it would still take us years."

Lynch is philosophical about the library's shortcomings. She realizes that all the new technology doesn't address the desires of a resident who just wants to come in and browse for a good book to read. But she says if you're really motivated, she can get just about anything for you.

"They can inter-library loan from all over the U.S. and other countries," she said. "But it takes time

... "For many people this collection is fine. We have people who waited a year to read 'Scarlet' . . . So it's a question of what does the majority want."

Barbara Eschker says she's the library's "stripper." She installs the security strips.

Underage drinking just got tougher

BY LEE DRYDEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Underage drinkers beware: Governor Engler and the state legislature have just taken a strong stand against minors drinking and driving. According to the new law, minors who have just one drink at a party and decide to drive home are risking serious consequences.

Beginning November 1, it will be illegal for someone under 21 to operate a motor vehicle if they have a blood alcohol content (BAC) of .02 or above. The bill has been discussed by the state government for two years with Gov. Engler signing the final bill last week.

Previously, the BAC limit without penalty was .08 for drivers both over and under 21. Michigan is the 20th state to adopt separate BAC standards for minors.

"We were sending the wrong message before. With minors having the same standards as everyone else, we were giving them a loophole to drink. This new law emphasizes that if you are under 21, you shouldn't be drinking," said State Rep. Tom Middleton (R.-Ortonville).

One reason this law was passed was the increasingly disproportionate number of alcohol related accidents that minors in Michigan get involved in. Reasons for this include less driving experience and a lower alcohol tolerance.

"Over time, underage drivers account for just 7 percent of the driving population in Michigan, yet, they are involved in 13 percent of alcohol related accidents. The law is a strategy to take much needed action," said Gary Bubar, community safety consultant at AAA-Michigan.

Opponents of the new law raised the point that the .02 BAC could be detected from the amount of alcohol used in medicines such as Nyquil or in religious ceremonies such as communion. Medical officials and state police have disagreed with this point.

"Most people don't drink enough over-the-counter medicines to get that high of a BAC. If they do, then they are abusing the medicine," said a nurse at the North Oakland Medical Center in Pontiac, who asked not to be identified.

The point has also been raised that police could use the new law to harass minors by pulling over drivers who show no signs of impaired driving ability and testing them to see if they register at .02.

"That is not the case. Police still have to have reasonable suspicion to pull someone over and administer a preliminary breath test," said Bubar.

AAA studies show that the average BAC of a drunk driver in Michigan is .16, so "anyone who is showing impaired driving ability and is pulled over probably has a much higher BAC than .02," said Bubar.

"The law is geared as a deterrent to curtail underage drinking. Hopefully, minors won't take any chances with the penalties now possible," he said.

Under the new law, penalties for minors charged with their first offense of drunk driving include: losing their license for 30-90 days, being sentenced to community service, and a $250 fine.

Local police and area groups such as Mothers Against Drunk Driving agree that the new law is fair and that it will help to keep minors from drinking and driving.

"Any law that helps prevent drinking and driving is a step ahead," said John LeRoy, chief of police in Oxford.

"We're very pleased with the new law. Kids are involved in the greater number of accidents and it is illegal for them to be drinking at all," said Nina Shaouni, administrative assistant at the MADD office in Oakland County.

While reaction among the public seems overwhelmingly in favor of the new law, reaction among some young Clarkston drivers is mixed.

"The new law is fair. You shouldn't be drinking if you are under 21," said Matt Manser, 18.

Pete Kamego, 17, disagreed. "If you drink one drink, you are not really drunk. It wouldn't be fair if someone who went to a party and had one beer just to be social ended up getting in trouble for it," he said.

While many opponents argue that point, LeRoy reminds them that it is not acceptable or legal for minors to be drinking, even in moderation.

"Whether driving is involved or not, any alcohol at all in a minor's system should be a punishable offense. This new law will help to accomplish that," he said.

Campaign watch

A look at happenings in this primary election season.

Megan O'Neill is rounding up the heavy hitters in her bid to win the Republican nomination for the 9th U.S. Congressional District.

Clarkston Mayor Sharron Catalo will host a brunch for O'Neill featuring California Congressman Duncan Hunter on Sunday, July 3. The brunch will be held at the home of Catalo and her husband Clarence. Tickets are $10 per person; brunch begins at 11 a.m.

Both O'Neill and her primary opponent, Kerry Kammer, have been rounding up endorsements. Kammer has a huge billboard on M-24 in Oxford announcing that he has the endorsement of former Michigan Congressman Bill Broomfield. Apparently it's a race to see who can get the party's "official" blessing before the primary.

City holds Truth in Taxation hearing

Council to make final budget decision tonight

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston city council members appeared to be more in agreement about levying 12.3 mills on the city's 1994-95 budget during a Truth in Taxation hearing Wednesday night.

The hearing was posted as a public notice to Clarkston residents after council had discussed both the millage and property tax increase at its budget hearing July 8. Council will vote, making the final decision on its budget, at its next meeting June 29 at 7:30 p.m.

"Last year we levied 12.3 mills. If a city collects more money on the same property it must publish a notice saying it's raising taxes," William Basinger, councilman and budget committee chair said. "It could be a dime and we would still have to have a hearing."

A mill is equal to $1 for every $1,000 in assessed property value (SEV).

City Manager Art Pappas said half, or 6.15 mills, would be collected in July and the other half in December.

The $5,000 increase in property tax that would result from the 12.3 mills would only effect people whose SEV was changed.

"Most of the increase in SEV this year was the result of new construction," Councilman Steve Arkwright said.

There has also been discussion about a lower millage rate of 12.1180 mills rather than the 12.3 mills — but that would mean more taxes would have to be collected down the road.

"I thought we could have lowered it (the millage) a bit but I thought it was unrealistic," Mayor Sharron Catallo said. "I would like to see the $5,000 put in reserves or used rather than having to collect it later."

The 20-minute meeting recapped briefly, from the July 8 meeting, a discussion of how funds might be used for areas such as street repairs and a new police car.

"I would like something earmarked for the streets and if it falls into the general fund I'd like that," Councilwoman Karen Sanderson said.

Stonehedge gets board approval

Another golf course and subdivision development will come to the Clarkston area after gaining approval at an Independence Township board meeting last week.

Stonehedge, a 625 acre development, will be located at the northeast corner of Clintonville and Waldon roads with around 445 acres in Independence Township and the remainder located in Orion Township.

The proposed development will include 495 single-family detached and attached dwelling units with internal lots no less than 12,000 square feet in area and perimeter lots no less than 15,000 square feet.

The original plan included two golf courses in the development. That has since been changed to one course which developers determined to be a more realistic goal according to the number of lots expected to be sold.

Over 60 percent of the total site will be used for either the golf course or for open space. Other Arkwright felt he could work out buying a new police car from the current budget instead of the $5,000 and existing cash reserves.

"I think we should keep (the $5,000) in reserves. We might be able to budget $11,000-$13,000 over the next two years for a new car," he said.

Clarkston resident Buck Kopietz, who owns Tierra Fine Jewelers, was the lone resident who showed up for the hearing. The change in property tax will personally affect him.

"I just came to find out what's going on. "We had an increased assessment on our house, so we'll have to pay more — but that's not a problem," he said.

recreational activities planned for residents include swimming pools, tennis courts, and walking trails.

Related area improvements as a result of the development include paving nearly two and a half miles of Clintonville and Waldon roads and a safety path along Clintonville Road.

Water will be extended to the site from the intersection of Sashabaw and Waldon roads. Sewer service will be extended from the Clinton-Oakland intersection south of the site.

Developers are prepared for a minimum of a seven year project with construction possibly starting late this year. Although plans are set at the moment, township officials anticipate future amendments to the proposal.

"There's no guarantee the developers won't come back and ask for changes in the future," said Dale Stuart, township supervisor.

Stonehedge was approved by the board by a 5-0 vote with trustees Daniel Travis and Jeffrey McGee absent.

In Focus

by Annette Kingsbury

*My hero,
Jimmy Carter*

There's been a lot of talk in this country in the past week or two about heroes.

Meanwhile, half a world away, without pay and on his own, former president Jimmy Carter was in North Korea, quietly trying to bring our two countries back from the brink of possible war.

Carter went to North Korea to try to head off U.N. sanctions which the Koreans said they would take as an act of war. The whole thing started over U.N. inspections of nuclear facilities, which the Koreans would not allow.

While this may sound too remote to worry about, consider this: The U.S. reportedly was afraid the North Koreans would sell nuclear bombs to some of our worst enemies: Iraq, Iran, etc. Now that's scary.

So Carter, acting on his own as a statesman and man of peace, went to see if he could do anything. And guess what? The Koreans blinked. Carter came back with an offer to talk. That's a whole lot more than we had before he went.

President Bill Clinton, who had not publicly acknowledged that he was in support of the trip, thanked Carter on TV last week and said how happy he was about the outcome. ABC's Britt Hume pointed out that the trip was a no-lose proposition for Clinton, who could embrace it in success and disavow it in failure. Therefore, the risk was all Carter's.

See, that's what I like about the guy. There's no glory in doing the things he does—build homes for the homeless, try to solve thorny issues of world peace. But he does them anyway.

I've heard it said that he's a better ex-president than he was a president. While I don't agree, it can surely be said that he has made the most of his retirement. Build monuments to his own past? Not his style. Make the world a better place? Bingo.

Many people vilified Carter as a president who couldn't get it done inside the Capital Beltway, the consummate outsider who was rejected by the Washington power structure. For this he should be put down?

Think of that in relation to the O.J. Simpson mess. Here's a guy that because he was a great athlete, handsome and very personable, many held as a personal hero. Why does running fast make one a god?

On the other hand, here is Carter. He doesn't hog the spotlight. He's not glamorous. Heck, he's unemployed. But he's criticized for trying to make the world a better place. I don't get it.

Last week, my colleague on these pages, Clarkstonite Don Rush, slammed Carter for, in his words, "making a mess of foreign policy by himself, private citizen." I wonder if Rush feels any differently now. And I wonder what his heroes were doing while we almost went to war.

Letters to the editor

Renew library millage

Dear Editor,

I strongly urge Independence Township residents to renew the library's millage in the August 2 election. This .75 millage will continue to cost the average household about $45. In addition voters will be asked to roll back the Headlee Override Amendment.

The renewal is merely a request to keep the library at status quo. The library hours and the number of books will not change because this millage is not an increase. Should voters not approve the renewal, the library will be forced to cut back even further.

The citizens of Clarkston village will not be able to vote in this election. When the library millage rate becomes set by township vote, the city will contribute its share from its general fund.

I urge Clarkston village residents to petition their city council and township officials to allow the library to become a district library. As a district library, village residents would be able to vote on library issues. Such an arrangement would bring the library up-to-date. Modern Michigan law no longer exists to support the library as a township department. The current situation exists because of grandfather law. To escape such an antiquated situation, however, it is necessary for the township supervisor to be willing to let the library stand separate from the township. I hope every Clarkston village resident will fight for our right to vote on library issues.

Sincerely,
Anne Knight Weber

Student writes of end of the year

It's time to play, it's time to say I'm out of school, so let's go play.

Let's go swim or throw a ball or let's do it all.

We have time to spare.

We even have time to do our hair. So come on and play, there's no time to lose.

But, wait a minute, there's still one more day of school!

Jim's Jottings

Another's dream

But first, a thought from "Current Comedy:" "My mother is such an alarmist!" complained the teen-ager. "One cough, and she thinks I have bronchitis. A headache, and she's sure it's a brain tumor. One little lie, and she thinks I'm destined for Congress."

I don't know if Ben Holden was the first with this story, "One Night I Had A Dream," but he's the one I copied. Hope you enjoy the message.

"I dreamed I was walking along the beach with the Lord, and across the sky flashed scenes from my life.

"For each scene I noticed two sets of footprints in the sand; one belonged to me, the other to the Lord. When the last scene of my life flashed before us I looked back at the footprints in the sand.

"I noticed that many times along the path of my life, there was only one set of footprints. I also noticed that it happened at the very lowest and saddest times in my life.

I questioned the Lord about it. "Lord, you said that once I decided to follow You, You would walk with me all the way. But I have noticed that during the most troublesome times in my life, there is only one set of footprints. I don't understand why in times when I needed You most, You would leave."

The Lord replied, "My precious child, I would never leave you during your times of trial and suffering. When you see only one set of footprints, it was then that I carried you."

Ben Holden also said, "Collecting Indian arrowheads is a satisfying and useful hobby. They won't be any good as weapons in the next war -- but they'll be just right for the one after that."

In the history of road travel we've gone from rutted trails to super highways. It's the same in medicine, marketing and information.

One of Charles Mouser's newsletters this month had this to say about information growth:

■ Information doubles every 19 months nowadays.

■ 75 percent of today's information did not exist in 1974.

■ 50 percent of what we learn today will be unusable in 10 years.

■ 90 percent of kindergarteners will work at jobs that do not exist at the present time.

A look back

15 YEARS AGO (1979)

A national work halt by independent truckers affects the prices of fresh produce. Thomas Ritter of Ritter's Market in Independence Township says, "The tighter the supply gets, the more the demand will grow and the higher the prices."

Reese W. Jones, a substance abuse expert at Colombiere Center's Insight program, says the new drinking age of 21 may lead to more marijuana smoking by Clarkston young people.

Timothy Doyle, Independence Township's parks and recreation director, says the township could have a bicycle moto-cross (BMX) race track before summer's end. The township board approved to proceed with track plans but told Doyle he would have to stay within his budget.

25 YEARS AGO (1969)

Clarkston's 4th of July parade starts at 10 a.m. The fireworks display is under the supervision of the Clarkston Jaycees and assisted by the Rotary Club. Fireworks will last about 30 minutes, starting at dusk, and will be fired from the top of Pine Knob.

Dom (Dominic) Mauti accepts a position as assistant principal of Adams High School in Rochester after 17 years in the Clarkston school system.

Spring Lake Golf Club holds its 2nd Annual National Junior Golf Invitational on June 30, July 1 and 2.

50 YEARS AGO (1944)

Looting takes place at several business places around Clarkston Friday night. The robberies occur at the Waterford garage, Clarkston Coal Co. and Jerry Dark's Super Service station.

"Heavenly Body" with William Powell and Hedy LaMarr playing at the Drayton Theatre, while "Jane Eyre" with Orson Welles and Joan Fontaine runs at the Holly Theatre.

Rudy's Market in Clarkston is selling paper plates for 10 cents a package, 3 lbs. of Crisco for 69 cents and giant boxes of Wheaties for 15 cents.

60 YEARS AGO (1934)

When the fishing season opens Monday, a goodly number of fishermen camp beside the lake all night. But most of the fish are caught by 5-year-old Billy Judd, whose catch furnishes the group's fish dinner. Granddad Marion Judd has no luck.

Oakland County dairymen are hit hard by a prolonged drought. Federal farm relief may be available if action is taken. Because the hay crop is imperiled, dairy farmers may be obliged to dispose of their herds unless relief is obtained.

Federal funds will support an eight-week recreational course in Clarkston Schools. The program will include classes of instruction in playground, band and orchestra, sewing for girls and pre-school.

Early deadlines

Because of the July 4 holiday, some deadlines have been moved up for the Clarkston News and Penny Stretcher. The deadline for display advertising will be Thursday at 5 p.m.; classifieds are due by Friday at 4 p.m. Editorial submissions, including letters to the editor, are due by noon on Friday. The office will be closed on Monday, July 4.

Don't Rush Me

By Don Rush

Lessons from an ordinary (?) Joe

I would assume all of us want to be remembered ... somehow, some way.

To attain this goal we work hard. We strive not to be forgotten. Last week a man passed away who didn't work at it though he will be remembered by literally thousands of people. That man was Lee Classman, a. k. a. Indian Joe.

My first recollection of Indian Joe was as a kid, in my early teens. All us kids knew of him. We saw him walking the streets. We saw him at the flea market at Dixie Highway and Telegraph roads. We saw him at the Pontiac Mall.

I remember rumors that he was a rich man who had a stash of money. The beads, the hats, the little pouch which carried his belongings and the beard were all a ruse so people wouldn't know.

That, of course, wasn't true. Indian Joe, more Irish than Indian, was just a man who got tired of society. He wandered — everywhere, from Union Lake to Oxford and everywhere in between.

In the fall of 1990 he wandered in my office. He was 65 then. And he wanted to talk — so of course I let him. I guess you could call it an interview, but I didn't get a chance to ask many questions.

For that 30 minutes he let me know what he thought. He was philosophical. And, maybe he was some sort of philosopher. Most people, he said, were friendly to him, but society itself wasn't friendly enough.

"I'm not knocking anyone's religion," he said. "I was brought up in the old Catholic way, the strict way. We helped each other. Nowadays, people are living too big. They drive their expensive cars and they're not out helping people. Well, some are. People need to be kind to one another."

It was kind of hard to hear what he said. He mumbled. So, I had to listen hard to the little old man, who was unwashed and bent. He wanted to do things in "the Indian-way."

"I do things God wants. People should remember the things God said. Don't be greedy. It's no good to be greedy."

I suspect some will say that would be easy for Joe. He didn't have anything and didn't care to work for anything. I suspect now, however, that isn't quite true. He just wasn't into the things we all want.

"I make every day count. I make the money last."

It will be different now that Joe is gone. No longer will we be able to see him shuffling up and down the road. No more, "There's Indian Joe."

I got some flack from some of his family members for writing an article on him back then. They didn't want "to encourage him." Those were their words.

How could you encourage Joe, I asked myself? He did what he wanted and, as far as I know, didn't hurt anyone, except maybe his family name.

I saw him on Telegraph Road about a week before he died. And, I guess I was surprised he lived as long as he did, the way he did.

He wasn't a hero and I don't want to make him out as one. But, I think he's a local legend and there's no embarrassment about that. I'll end this column with some of the last things he told me that day.

"Life is good. I don't think of disappointments. I think people should be happy, no matter how much money they've got.

"I think I've been chosen to tell people, big people and the children, not to fear. People fear too much. They think this is going to happen, or that is going to happen. Put fear out of your mind. Fear is not there unless you put it there."

Maybe that's how we should remember Indian Joe, Lee Classman. Not by his appearance, but those words from the fall of 1990.

If it Fitz

By Jim Fitzgerald

*Tragic fall lands
O.J. in middle of circus*

Notes scribbled while watching O.J. Simpson run through the end zone . . .

. . . What kind of people flock to an accused murderer's mansion, stand around outside and chant, "Juice, Juice, Juice"? Why aren't they home on the phone where they belong, talking to a radio sports talk show?

. . . After appearing in a series of boring movies, Simpson allegedly had to murder someone to get a role in a TV film as interesting as "The Sugarland Express." In that early Spielberg production, Goldie and her boyfriend took a cop hostage and drove for hours with dozens of police cars following close behind. Her pursuers didn't pull Goldie over for fear of endangering the life of their fellow officer. How many Heisman Trophies did he ever win?

. . . People on TV, looking seriously concerned, keep saying there's no hurry in capturing Simpson, the cops should take all the time in the world, nobody's going anywhere. They say that because it's three hours earlier on the West Coast. I want to go to bed.

. . . My wife just said I shouldn't write anything frivolous because two people were murdered and two children lost their mother. Hey, this is self-defense. If Simpson doesn't soon get out of that white Ford Bronco, "Free O.J." T-shirts will be for sale on his front lawn, and a shocked nation is going to hear Barbara Walters tell Hugh Downs to shut up and let her comment.

. . . This is great advertising for the Ford Bronco. In our future, if Simpson is proven innocent, there is surely a TV commercial of him driving a Bronco through an airport terminal wall while an unseen voice says you'll never miss your flight if you drive a Bronco and win a Heisman Trophy.

. . . Of course, it must be assumed that there's a chance Simpson is guilty, but only of two murders, rather than a more serious crime. Otherwise the L.A. police would be treating him as roughly as they treated Rodney King for drunk driving.

. . . It's a good thing for Simpson that he doesn't belong to a religious cult. Federal officers would get him out of that Bronco by blowing up the freeway along with two overpasses full of people chanting "Juice, Juice, Juice."

. . . If all police chases were run like this one, there would be a lot fewer innocent people killed in car crashes caused by cops determined to get their man before he speeds again. That's the trouble with the world today, not enough fleeing fugitives who have won a Heisman Trophy.

. . . Look at the man in the white shirt standing in Simpson's front doorway. Isn't that Joey Buttafuoco?

. . . Get a load of Police Cmdr. David Gascon's news conference. He sounds like he just won an Academy Award. He is thanking everyone who helped make Simpson's capture possible. Certainly the best-director award should go to the police executive who originated the policy of saving wear and tear on police uniforms by inviting accused murderers to come to a jail — dress informal — rather than go pick them up.

. . . A TV reporter just said that one of the cops staked out around the Simpson mansion was disguised as a bush. That should be worth the best-actor Oscar, especially if there were any dogs around.

. . . For the umpteenth time, someone on TV said this is a great story because it concerns the fall of an American hero. A few years ago, Simpson was charged with beating his wife, and he didn't deny it. Police were called to his home several times to referee domestic battles. Would you say Americans could do a better job of selecting heroes?

. . . Or would you phone a radio sports talk show and say, hey, at least Juice never hit her with his Heisman Trophy?

Focus on the family

By Dr. Charles Dobson, Ph.D., provided by First Missionary Church

Question: You have stated that a majority of children emerge from the school systems with the conviction that they are unintelligent and stupid. Would you explain why this attack on self-worth affects so many kids today?

Dr. Dobson: There are five large groups of children who consistently fail in the classroom, leading them (and their parents) to conclude that they are incapable. These broad categories are as follows:

1. The slow learner: This is the child who lacks an aptitude for academic work. He tries to do the assignments, but nothing turns out right. He has difficulty learning to read in the first grade. He doesn't understand science. He rarely receives a "happy face" for doing things properly, and never has his teacher written "nice work" on his paper. He is the only child in the room who won't get a gold star on his spelling chart. And he is probably going to be retained in the same grade at least once, which convinces him of his stupidity.

2. The semi-literate child: This is the child in whose home two languages are spoken, but he has learned neither of them very well. Thus, he is not bilingual—he is semi-literate. He may be so incapable of expressing himself that he rarely makes a sound unless compelled to talk. His progress in an English school will be an uphill struggle throughout his childhood.

3. The underachiever: This is the child who is bright but not self-disciplined and unmotivated to work. His school assignments are usually late, missing, sloppy or foolish, leading him to draw the same weary conclusion: "I'm dumb."

4. The culturally deprived child: This is a youngster from an impoverished neighborhood. He has never visited a zoo, ridden on a plane or been fishing. His daddy's identity is a mystery and his mother works long hours to support five little children. His vocabulary is minuscule, except for an astounding array of slang words, and he has no place to read or study at home. He knows he isn't going to make it in school, and this fact is already influencing his personal evaluation.

5. The late bloomer: He is the immature child (usually a boy) who starts school before he is ready and experiences early failure. Though he may catch up in maturity later, his lack of school success may handicap him throughout his school career.

It is appalling to recognize that the children in these five categories actually outnumber those students who feel successful in school!

Edison offers incentive

Detroit Edison customers who qualify for the utility's "Energy-Efficient Home Construction Program" not only pay lower annual energy bills compared with conventional homes, but also could qualify to receive up to $5,000 in incentives from the utility.

The program offers builders and homeowners incentives for installing energy-efficient wall and ceiling insulation, windows, lighting, major electric appliances and high-efficiency cooling.

For more information about the program, call Detroit Edison's Heating and Cooling Information Center at 1-800-833-2786.

New columnist will focus on family

Dr. James Dobson, Ph.D., is the newest addition to the rotation of guest columnists appearing regularly in The Clarkston News.

Dobson will focus on family issues in today's world, including issues such as marriage and divorce, school problems and suicide.

Dobson is founder and president of Focus on the Family, a non-profit organization that produces his nationally syndicated radio programs.

Dobson was an associate clinical professor of pediatrics at the University of Southern California School of Medicine for 14 years. For 17 years he was on the attending staff of Childrens Hospital of Los Angeles in the Division of Child Development and Medical Genetics. He received his PhD from the University of Southern California in 1967 in the field of child development.

He was chosen Layman of the Year by the National Association of Evangelicals in 1982, and was honored in 1987 as "The Children's Friend" by CHILDHELP, an organization devoted to the prevention of child abuse.

Dobson has written a number of books, has produced two film series and been involved in governmental activities related to the family, including the Commission on Pornography, the Panel on Teen Pregnancy Prevention and the Attorney General's Advisory Board on Missing and Exploited Children.

Dobson is the father of two grown children and lives in Colorado. His column is being made possible by First Missionary Church of Clarkston.

It will appear about once a month, in rotation with Clarkston therapist Stan Garwood, Clarkston school superintendent Gary Haner, and local financial planner James Kruzan.

Bikepaths debated as subdivision approved

BY LEE DRYDEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Although Independence Township board members approved the new Bridge Valley Subdivision last week, they disagreed on the issue of sidewalks near the proposed development.

The new subdivision will be located off of Holcomb Road near Allen Road and I-75. The 67-lot development will cross over from Independence to Springfield Township.

One of the main issues at the meeting for final approval of the development was the proposed building of a paved safety path or sidewalk off of Holcomb Road.

The main point raised was that, in order to build a sidewalk on unpaved Holcomb Road, trees would have to be cut down to make room for it.

"I don't see the point of cutting down trees to build a concrete path," said Joan McCrary, township clerk.

Trustee Mel Vaara disagreed. "There should definitely be a safety path in that area. It would be unsafe without it," he said.

To alleviate the problem, developers have offered to put the funds they would have spent on the Holcomb Road safety path into a general township safety path fund.

Independence Township will then be able to use the money to build a path anywhere else it is needed in the township or they can use it at the Holcomb Road site if it is decided a path is needed in the future.

The Bridge Valley Subdivision proposal was approved by a 4-1 vote with Vaara voting against. Trustees McGee and Travis were absent.

In other township board action:

● The Clarkston Pines development, located on Maybee Road east of Dixie Hwy, received approval to install temporary sales and construction trailers at the site.

The sales trailer will be allowed to stand until a model home is built or for one year and the construction trailer will be allowed for two years or until the last house is built. Upon violation of this agreement, the township may remove the trailers at the developer's expense. The amendment was approved by a 5-0 vote.

● The board voted to table a proposed purchase agreement for property located at the corner of Waldon and M-15. The property contains about five lots.

The board tabled the proposal until next month in order to give their attorney a chance to evaluate the offer. The motion to table was approved 4-1 with trustee Bruce Mercado voting against.

"We can't keep stalling the sale of this property. It is potential revenue for the township," said Mercado.

● The township approved planned fireworks displays at the Lake Oakland and Pine Knob sites. Both sites were approved by 5-0 margins.

Schools opt out of breakfast program

After a brief public hearing Monday night, the Clarkston Board of Education decided not to participate in a breakfast program for students in the coming school year.

The hearing was required under a December amendment to the state school code. It allows school districts which serve less than 20 percent of their lunches free or at reduced prices to opt out of the breakfast program, but only after holding a public hearing.

Food service director Linda Nester said 6.8 percent of Clarkston students receive free or reduced-price lunches. A breakfast program is offered to preschoolers at the Community Education Center, and she felt participation at other buildings wouldn't warrant the cost of adding the new program.

"We just think it would not be best to serve the program at this time," she said.

George White, principal of North Sashabaw Elementary School, said he surveyed his students and found most could tell him what they'd had for breakfast that morning. "I found a very, very high percentage eat breakfast at home, so the need for this would be very minimal," he said.

Though the board voted not to have the breakfast program, a hearing will be required every year, Nester said.

In other action at Monday's school board meeting:

● The board received a check for $5,000 from the athletic boosters, a payment on a loan from the board.

● A bid of $109,000 from Qualified Construction Corp. was approved for improvements to the landscape, auto body and diesel technology labs at Oakland Technical Center Northwest. The money comes from Oakland Schools, which also gives Clarkston a three-percent administrative fee.

● Due to a new state law, the STRIVE (alternative high school) program was amended to allow ninth-graders to enroll. "A student must try the high school first after eighth grade," director Marilyn Allyn said. "We didn't want the program to be just an automatic; you struggled in middle school, you're going to STRIVE."

● The budget for the current school year received final amendments. It showed that the district spent about $250,000 more in the 1993-94 year than it took in. However the fund equity at the end of the year is expected to be $1,001,015.

Wetlands action is completed

At the Independence Township Board of Trustees meeting last week, action was taken on three separate issues involving wetlands.

A natural feature setback ordinance was passed involving residents who have wetlands on their property. The ordinance sets a 25-foot setback for wetlands, meaning residents cannot construct anything or plant vegetation within 25 feet of the natural site without township approval.

Also, notices will be sent to anyone living within 300 feet of any township-approved construction in the 25-foot wetland buffer zone.

The ordinance was approved by a 3-2 vote with trustee Mel Vaara and clerk Joan McCrary voting against.

The board also adopted a wetlands amendment which puts Independence Township in compliance with state wetland reforms.

According to the amendment, the local wetland board will be eliminated. All future related decisions will be handled by the planning commission.

The amendment also defines wetlands in detail and outlines public restrictions in regard to wetlands. It was approved 3-2 with McCrary and Vaara voting against.

The township also formally adopted a wetlands inventory map which shows the location of the majority of area wetlands. According to state law, each municipality having a wetland ordinance must complete an inventory map of wetlands. Notice has been previously mailed to the public and comments regarding the contents of the map have been received and responded to by the township.

The inventory map was adopted by a 5-0 vote.

Festival of Fun returns to Clarkston

Last year's Fourth of July Festival of Fun was so successful, the folks over at Independence Township Parks and Recreation have decided to do it all over again.

The festival will run July 2, 3 and 4, with most events taking place at Clintonwood Park on Clarkston Road. All events are free.

Rina Chemin, chief of recreation for the township, said it was literally "elbow to elbow" last year at the festival.

"We had 6,000 to 8,000 people; it was just packed the whole day," she said. Despite that, there was plenty of parking in the park's three lots and athletic fields.

The bulk of the activities are scheduled for Monday, July 4, kicking off with a parade sponsored by the Independence Township Fire Fighters Association. The parade begins at 10 a.m. at Church Street. It will travel to Main and down Main to Miller Rd. There is no entry fee but donations are welcome.

Lineup begins at Clarkston High School, Middle School and Elementary School around 8 a.m. Entrants are encouraged to register in advance by calling Peggy North at 625-1924. However individual children who would like to be in the parade may gather at CMS.

The parade is expected to last one to one-and-a-half hours, North said. The CHS band will participate, and there will be a flyover by members of Selfridge Air National Guard base, weather permitting.

After the parade, firefighters will participate in a waterball tournament against other fire departments at Clintonwood Park. Meanwhile, in Depot Park, members of the Clarkston Touring and Chowder Society and the Rolls Royce Owners Club will put their classic cars on display.

Owners of classic cars are invited to drive them in the parade. Afterwards, drivers may bring a picnic lunch to Depot Park. The public is invited to look at the cars.

From 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. there will be an arts and crafts show in Clintonwood Park. Chemin said last year over 100 crafters participated, when the show was held in Depot Park. This year it will be on the lawn in front of the Senior Center.

From noon to 8 p.m. the younger folks may participate in games including a cupcake walk, sack races, face painting, moon walk, dunk tank, pony rides and a petting zoo.

There will also be musical entertainment from about 2 p.m. to 8 p.m. The schedule as of presstime includes a salute to Cole Porter at 2 p.m.; magic at 3:15; Music Enjoyment at 4:30; and Steve King and the Dittilies, 6-8 p.m.

All through the day, the CHS athletic boosters will man the food concession stands.

Athletic tournaments will run all three days of the holiday weekend. Events include 3-on-3 basketball, adult volleyball, softball, youth baseball,

"Challenge the Pro" tennis and under-18 tennis. Some events require fees and pre-registration. For more information on the tournaments, see the sports page.

Letters to the editor

Backs Kammer

Dear Editor,

Let me take this opportunity to share with you my choice for the United States Congress. On Tuesday, August 2, I will vote for a gentleman who I know can meet the challenge of this most important office. He is Kerry Kammer.

I have known Kerry since he served as the Pontiac City Clerk in 1973-1974. Kerry continued with an outstanding record of service when he was elected to the Michigan State Senate.

Kerry took time out of his public service tenure to spend more time with his wife, Carol, and their three children. During the time Kerry devoted to his family he also became a successful businessman.

It is a pleasure to have such a positive choice to make. Please make Kerry Kammer your choice on August 2. I know the Kammer campaign staff will be pleased to hear from you if you have questions or if you wish to extend an offer of help.

Sincerely,
Thelma Spencer

Veterinarian with a heart

Too often people write to the newspaper only when they are disgruntled about something. We feel it necessary to express our thanks and share our story with other readers.

Any pet owner can tell you that the loss of a pet is like losing a member of your family. But with a veterinarian like Dr. Steven J. Bailey and his staff at Exclusively Cats in Waterford, the heartache is lessened by their personal dedication to not only your pet, but also to you, the family.

A job transfer brought us to Michigan in August 1992. It was at that time that we met Dr. Steven J.

Bailey. Our 16-year-old cat was very much a part of our family and we wanted nothing but the best care for her. Our cat was given "A-plus" treatment by all at Exclusively Cats.

Recently she developed some very serious problems that took her life. We are appreciative and thankful for the tender loving care they all bestowed upon our cat. They truly went above and beyond the call of duty for our pet as well as for us. They certainly made our cat as comfortable as she could be in the last days of her wonderful life.

Exclusively Cats provides the best quality care possible in a very special, caring way. We thank them very much for everything.

Praises parks and rec

Dear Editor,

I want to publicly thank all the employees of Independence Parks and Recreation for the efforts they put into the construction of the Bay Court Playscape. Independence Township is very fortunate to have such a team of people working with them.

Independence Parks and Rec plays a very important role in our community. They are the facilitators that provide the environment and situations that allow the residents of Independence Township to play together both as families and as a community. In a society where the young and old are forgotten, it is great to see how Parks & Rec helps fill this void in the area. Independence Township has one of the best programs in the area.

While society has measurement systems that determine the quality of schools and police/fire support, parks and rec has no measurement system other than the things that people say about the community. Based on that, it is one of the few departments that provide the leaders of this community a chance to give something tangible and lasting back to the people without having to worry about people saying they are spending too much.

The Clarkston (MI) News Wed., June 29, 1994 11 A

In closing, I would hope that the leaders of this community realize that the value of the parks and recreation department cannot be measured in dollars and cents any more than the smile on my children's faces can be.

Ed Johnston

Student says thanks

How do you thank family, friends and community for making a dream come true? Thoughts of all of you will be with me during my student ambassador trip to Australia in July 1994 with People to People.

My love and thanks to all. I will never forget you:

Food drive hits big

Letter carriers in nearly 4,000 cities and towns nationwide recently succeeded in collecting over 30 million pounds of food donations along their mail routes for community food banks, pantries and shelters in the second National Association of Letter Carriers Food Drive.

"The response from the public was truly amazing and shows that postal customers care deeply about those who are less fortunate," said Vernita Martin, Detroit District Manager, Customer Service and Sales.

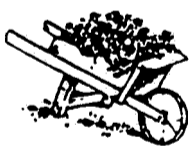

Locally, the Royal Oak district and the Detroit district joined in a cooperative effort with the local National Association of Letter Carriers (NALC), AFL-CIO, United Way, and community food banks to collect over one million pounds of food.

Summer jobs go begging

Clarkston's low unemployment rate may be the reason why

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

"Painter needs help: Must be neat in appearance, have own transportation. Non-smoker. Some experience required. 673-5112."

House painter Cooley Pope thought that ad, which has appeared in The Clarkston News, at the Michigan Unemployment Security Commission's office, and at Oakland University's job office, would have attracted someone's attention.

He's offering wages of $8-$10 per hour. He has lots of work. But so far, no takers.

"I need help because I've got work jammed up," he said last week. His company, Cooley's Painting, does interior and exterior painting, and summer is his busy season.

Pope's colorfully painted truck, which shows gallons of paint splashing around on the sides and back, also carries "help wanted" signs. He wonders what he has to do to get good help.

"I take a lot of pride in my work," he said. "I painted for Meadow Brook Hall... I just need a crew and I just can't believe it."

Pope said he doesn't feel asking an employee to look neat, not smoke in other people's homes and be able to drive to job sites is too much to ask, especially for the wage he is offering.

"I'm looking for somebody I can put on the job and say, 'Here's the job; here's the paint; see you at 5 o'clock,'" he said.

Norm Isotalo, a spokesman for MESCC, checked the unemployment figures for Independence Township and found them very low—3.4 percent in May, well below the state average of 5.2 percent.

"There are certainly a number of factors that could come into play" in finding employees, he said. In addition to the unemployment rate, there's the salary being offered, the requirements of the job and its seasonal nature.

"A student conceivably would be interested in that, but someone looking for a more permanent position... are there benefits? If there are no benefits, that's another potential reason. It's difficult to pinpoint a reason why he can't find help."

Meanwhile, Pope, who's been a painter for 20 years, can't stop worrying about unhappy customers wondering when he's going to get their job done. He knows if he doesn't respond in a timely fashion, someone else will.

Letter to the editor

Trustee responds to letter

Dear Editor,

I would like to provide a short response to the letter submitted by Lee Rogers in your June 22 publication. The total compensation increase to Mr. Haner, Clarkston Community Schools Superintendent, was 4%. This follows a one-year freeze on compensation.

Over the past three years, the compensation increases provided to the superintendent have been less than that received by both the teachers and other administrators. It is important to note that the district must manage its expenses based on total compensation if we are to stay within the increases that the recently passed Proposal A will provide.

Secondly, although Mr Rogers and I disagree in regard to the treatment of the superintendent, this district's success will not alone be determined by it. Of ultimate importance is what are we doing for the kids in the classroom. Our curriculum is changing; we have an information explosion that our graduates must face. If Mr Rogers is sincere in actually wanting to better our kids' education, I would welcome his input. Up until now he has been sadly silent.

Sincerely,
Bill Craig

Getting in some summer innings

Young Clarkston athletes got a chance to get away from the summertime blues for a week by participating in a baseball and softball camp at Clintonwood Park.

The camp, sponsored by Independence Township Parks and Recreation, included teaching by the Clarkston JV coaching staff. Players from the JV baseball team helped the kids as well.

Both baseball and softball instructors were on hand to provide specific instructions on the individual sports. The main focus of the camp was on basic skills, rules and sportsmanship.

Young golfers crowd county tournament

Young golfers wait to tee off in the junior golf tournament at Springfield Oaks.

Over 200 young golfers competed in last week's Oakland County Junior Golf Tournament. The two day event included 18 holes at Springfield Oaks on Thursday and 18 holes at White Lake Oaks on Friday.

The tournament included separate divisions for boys and girls ages 11-18. The three players with the top two-day combined scores in each division received trophies.

Hunting regulations set for fall

The following 1994 hunting regulations were approved by Department of Natural Resources Director Roland Harnes at the regular June 8 monthly meeting of the Natural Resources Commission:

1994 Elk Hunting Regulations: The 1994 elk census indicated a winter population of 1,260, compared to 1,350 for the winter of 1993. In order to continue moving toward better balancing of the elk herd with available habitat, the director authorized two hunt periods, one in September and one in December. Elk license quotas will be determined by the director later this summer.

Bear Hunting Regulations: The director eliminated special rules which formerly had restricted the type of hunting arms which could be carried in an area frequented by bear during the bear hunting season. The director eliminated special dog registration requirements for Michigan's resident bear hunters.

1994 Deer Management Regulations: Upper Peninsula hunting groups had requested that the use of second buck licenses be prohibited during archery and firearm seasons. After considering recommendations from staff and receiving further public input from various hunters, the director decided to leave the current regulations in place, which permit the use of second buck licenses statewide. Harnes stated that he believes the current use of second buck licenses results in increased hours of recreational hunting, without having an adverse impact on the Upper Peninsula deer population.

The director established bucks-only deer hunting regulations for both archers and firearm hunters in several deer management units where the deer herd has failed to increase as intended, despite being closed for several years to the taking of antlerless deer during firearm season. This new regulation will help determine whether protecting antlerless deer during archery season will help the deer herd recover in a few deer management units where previous restrictions have not been sufficient.

In addition, the director approved boundary changes for several deer management units to meet future population objectives.

Furbearer Hunting and Trapping Regulations: The director approved regulations establishing a bag limit of two bobcats in the Upper Peninsula only, updating tagging and registration requirements for fur takers, and starting the fox and coyote season October 15 in Zone 3. The director also approved rules clarifying that residents may hunt coyotes with a small game or fur harvester's license.

1994 Pheasant Hunting Regulations: The director approved rules establishing an experimental pheasant hunting Dec. 1-11 in portions of the central lower peninsula. Data gathered from this season will be used to determine future pheasant hunting regulations.

Sharptail Grouse Hunting Season: Sharptail grouse numbers have steadily declined, due to natural changes in their habitat. In response to this decline, the director approved rules reducing the season length, bag limit and area open to hunting.

Ruffed Grouse Hunting Season: Ruffed grouse numbers have steadily declined since the recent peak of 1989, due to population's cyclic nature and the natural loss of habitat. In response, the director approved rules reducing the daily bag limit to three birds in Zones 1 and 3. Grouse hunting regulations in Region II will remain unchanged for one year to avoid disrupting the grouse research project underway. Changes in season dates and bag limits may be considered for 1995 based on results of the research project.

Golf outing a success

The first-ever Conrad J. Bruce Memorial Golf Classic is in the history books. Anne Brueck and Kevin Finley were recognized at the dinner following the golf outing as the 1994 recipients of the Conrad J. Bruce

He Never Turns Away

They come to him for help when they need it the most. Some numbed by their loss, some shattered, they say: "This is someone we loved. We entrust him to you." And even when he's faced with the crumpled innocence of the youngest asking, "Why?"-and he has to find childlike words to answer a question that even theologians struggle with-he never turns away. He gives them the consolation of tradition. He shows them how to accept their tragedy with dignity. He helps them cope with their grief. He guides them back to the active world of the living. He is a funeral director. He practices the most emotionally demanding and least understood of all the professions. He faces up to traumas every day that most people only have to deal with once or twice in a lifetime. He would never turn away. He has earned the deepest thanks from anyone who has ever leaned on his compassion for support. Who turned to him and found that he would never turn away.

Fireworks warnings

The United States Fireworks Safety Council announced today that families in Michigan should be cautious and aware of state laws when using fireworks for their backyard Independence Day celebrations.

A representative of the Council said today, "With so many families and friends using fireworks for their holiday celebrations in Michigan, we encourage the public to follow some simple safety instructions:

- Always read and follow label directions
- Have an adult present
- Buy from reputable retail outlets
- Always ignite fireworks outdoors
- Have water handy
- Never experiment or attempt to make your own fireworks
- Light one at a time
- Never re-ignite malfunctioning fireworks
- Never give to small children
- Store in a cool, dry place
- Dispose of properly
- Never throw fireworks at another person

In addition, families need to recognize what kinds of fireworks are legal for use in the State of Michigan. In Michigan, the consumer may purchase and use sparklers, fountains, snakes, smoke devices, and trick noise-makers such as snappers, drop pops, party poppers.

All other types of fireworks devices, such as firecrackers, bottle rockets, roman candles, aerials and spinners, are illegal in Michigan and cannot be purchased, possessed or used by the consumer. Purchasing, possessing, or using illegal fireworks in Michigan is punishable by up to a $500 fine and one year in jail. Persons seeing others using or purchasing illegal fireworks should contact their local police or fire department.

Concert features two shows in one

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

The first of Clarkston's series of concerts in Depot Park will feature a local woman in a six-person musical show.

Anissa Howard, a senior at Central Michigan University, has been singing and dancing her last four summers as part of Oakland County Parks and Recreation's Traveling Music Show.

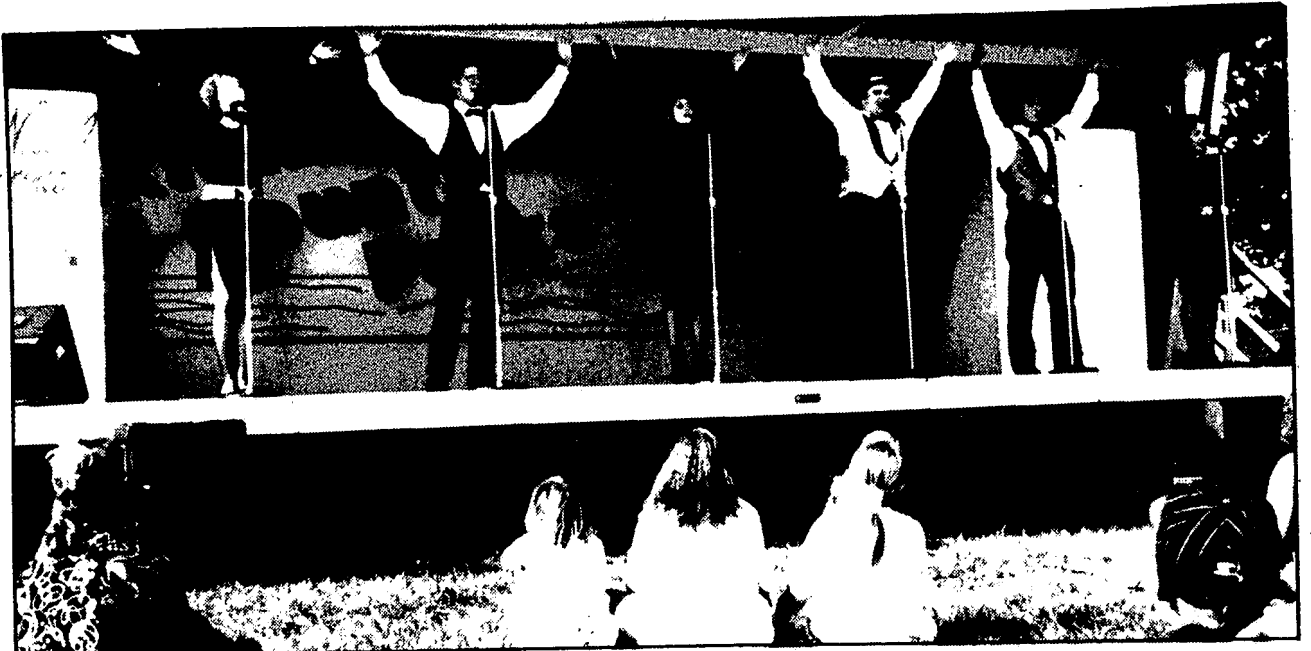

On July 1 at 7 p.m. in Depot Park, she will be part of two distinct programs. The concert, sponsored by the Clarkston Area Chamber of Commerce, is free and open to the public.

"All I need is a Hug" is aimed at children but audiences of all ages have been enjoying it in performances around the county since last summer, according to Jim Dunleavy, recreation specialist with Oakland County Parks and Rec.

"Hug" features a six-foot squirrel named Oakie who dances for the audience. The cast, all college students, dresses up like children so they can better communicate with the younger members of the audience.

"We try to play to them, not play down to them," Howard said. "It hits on problems kids might be having." Some of the songs in the half-hour show talk about wanting a puppy ("Desperate for a Dog") or being "The New Kid."

The actors play the roles of children and show how kids can interact to deal with their problems.

The 'Cole Porter' cast

The second part of the traveling show is "A Salute to Cole Porter." Howard described it as a medley of Porter tunes with some tap dancing mixed in.

Howard, 21, has auditioned each summer to get a spot in the three-woman, three-man cast. A psychology and religion major at CMU, she is active in theater but doesn't plan to make a career of it, she said.

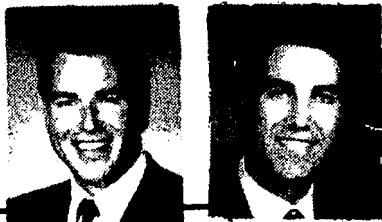

Of her summer job she said, "It's fun. We travel all around." She said she doesn't have a favorite among the various shows she's done.

"Each show is quite different," she said. "It depends on the day, how up you are... the audience."

Amy is the daughter of Tom and Connie Howard of Clarkston. Her fellow cast members are Mark Young of Pontiac, Betsy Becker and Greg Fortner, both of Novi, Allison Schubert of Beverly Hills and Scott Peerbolte, of Highland.

Dog days end happily for Clarkston boy

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It was almost right out of the classic, "Lassie Come Home."

Only, in this case, the dog's name was Dale.

While eight-year-old Jarrett Sidaway was helping his parents pull weeds at their new home in Clarkston Monday morning, he noticed his beloved Airedale terrier was missing. The Sidaways had recently moved from Wisconsin and had been at their new residence only a week.

Panicking, Jarrett and his father looked for Dale for almost an hour.

Little did they know that the city manager, a Clarkston resident and a police officer were hot on the trail as well.

Russell Rana, who lives on Holcomb and owns some cottages on Mill Pond, had noticed a "nice-looking dog" near St. Daniel's Catholic Church near Langle and his home on Holcomb that morning.

"I watched him go up the sidewalk toward St. Daniel's. Then he went on the other side of the street. It looked like he was looking for somebody," Rana said.

When Rana called to the dog, he said Dale came to him. After giving him some water and food, Rana put Dale in his fenced-in back yard. He called the Michigan Humane Society to see if a lost dog had been reported.

It hadn't. So he decided to call the city manager.

When City Manager Art Pappas received the call, he told Rana he would get in touch with the police.

Pappas got ahold of Officer Harold Rossman who went to Rana's and checked the animal's two dog tags. After making several calls to Wisconsin, where the dog tags were from, to an animal hospital in Hartland, the local police and a humane society in Wisconsin, Rossman struck out. He called the Sida-ways' former telephone number in Nashotah, a small town west of Milwaukee, only to find it had been disconnected because they had moved — to Clarkston.

Discouraged, Rossman was on his way back to the station and was trying to decide what his next move should be.

"I probably was going to have to call animal control," he said.

That's when fate stepped in.

"While I was driving east on Washington I noticed a car behind me had out-of-state license plates," Rossman said. "I let the car go by me and noticed it had Wisconsin plates. I hit my lights and pulled him (the driver) over."

The man was David Sidaway, Jarrett's father.

"I got out and he got out and we both basically said "DOG" at the same time," Rossman said.

"He (David) knew we'd called Wisconsin because authorities told him a Clarkston police officer had just gotten off the line with them."

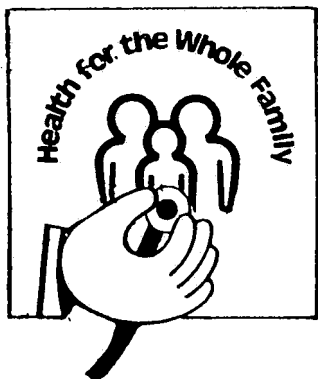

When Jarrett and Dale were reunited, Rossman said the little boy "had the biggest smile on his face — the biggest smile I haven't seen in a long while."

Jarrett said he had "felt really sad 'cause I really like my dog and I couldn't find him."

"I cried a lot. I thought he might have gotten run over. I was just praying that someone would find him. I was really happy and I thanked the guy (Rana) a million times who found him."

From now on, Jarrett says, he will have strict plans to protect his pet.

"He doesn't quite know his way. We're gonna make him be on a leash now," he said.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

STOP GIVING AWAY MONEY

Ron Rodda

Should I go into Real Estate?
"ASK RON"

QUESTION: I opted to rent instead of buying a home several years ago. This was a gross financial mistake. I could have doubled my money. Are those days gone forever?

ANSWER: Not by a long shot. Many housing experts expect home prices to increase at about 6% per year during this decade. If this comes to pass and you buy a home for $160,000, it would increase by $9,600 during the first year.

Never look back and say, "Why didn't I buy a home years ago when it was cheap?"

If you now rent and have any thought about buying - don't hesitate. A home is and will be a great investment for the foreseeable future.

Can't live with it, can't live without it

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

Ozone in the upper atmosphere is necessary for sustaining life on earth as we know it. However ozone in the lower atmosphere, where humans can breathe it, is bad, as much of southeastern lower Michigan learned recently during ozone "action days."

A form of oxygen, ozone in the stratosphere provides a shield against the harmful rays of the sun. But in the troposphere (the air we breathe) it is increasingly found to be responsible for severe respiratory problems, especially for people with asthma.

As research continues, the results are so convincing that the American Lung Association has filed suit against the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, seeking to have the safe limit of ozone lowered.

In response to the mounting evidence, a voluntary program of 'ozone action days' has begun in Michigan to warn residents when the ozone level is expected to near the federal limit.

"The ozone action days is a voluntary program basically intended to assist the mandatory regulation programs already in place," said Paul Shutt, of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources Air Quality Division.

Despite the new warnings, Shutt said the ozone levels in southeastern Michigan are actually better today than they were in the mid-1980s. For that reason, the state is asking the EPA not to impose tough new measures that would cost drivers and industry more money. Those measures could include new emissions testing for cars and more expensive but cleaner gasoline.

During the recent heatwave that fell over the Detroit area, the ozone level exceeded federal standards more than once. It's that combination of heat and contaminants in the air which created the problem.

'People are winding up in hospitals for respiratory problems from exposure to ozone levels that are currently legally acceptable in the United States. It doesn't have to be this way.'

Alfred Munzer, MD
American Lung Association

Ozone is a naturally occurring form of oxygen. It is a product of the action of the sun's ultraviolet light on oxygen, and has one more atom per molecule than oxygen. Near the surface of the earth it occurs in minute amounts naturally, and in larger amounts in the stratosphere.

We've all heard a lot about holes in the ozone layer. Ironically, extra man-made ozone in the lower atmosphere does nothing to help the ozone layer, since ozone breaks down before it reaches the stratosphere. It's concentrations in the air we breathe are affected by wind and rain.

plants which generate electricity. Clearly, the health effects will continue to be felt long after Freon is banned.

Ozone is a powerful respiratory irritant. Recent studies show increased hospitalizations for patients with respiratory disease, even when ozone is below the federal limit. Asthma and bronchitis doctor visits were up in controlled testing in the U.S. and Canada. Lung function has been shown to deteriorate with repeated or chronic exposure to ozone.

The ALA of Michigan points out that though the Detroit area exceeded federal standards repeatedly during the recent heat wave, the DNR issued no warnings.

"The current U.S. standard for ozone clearly does not reflect the best available science and does not protect human health," said Alfred Munzer, M.D., past president of the American Lung Association. "People are winding up in hospitals for respiratory problems from exposure to ozone levels that are currently legally acceptable in the United States. It doesn't have to be this way."

The ALA suggests that people with respiratory disease avoid vigorous outdoor activity on days when ozone is high, particularly in the afternoon when ozone is highest. Recommendations also include putting off unnecessary driving, the use of any gaso-

Freon, a refrigerant and aerosol propellant, is one of the biggest producers of CFC's, the pollutants which combine with oxygen to form ozone. In 1990 the U.S. and 55 other countries agreed to end the production of CFC's by the year 2000.

However, 60 percent of pollution in the U.S. is blamed on motor vehicles, another 14 percent on line-powered engine, paint solvents and charcoal lighter during ozone alerts.

According to Shutt, individuals can have an impact on ozone levels. Running a lawnmower for one hour is equivalent to running a car for 10-11 hours, he said.

"New cars have more sophisticated emission controls. And the impact (of mowers) is the same in type as cars. An individual car has little impact, but when you add thousands and millions of them, it obviously adds up."

Big Cats come to Belle Isle

A new exhibit which brings the big cats to the Belle Isle Zoo is scheduled to open soon.

Rectifying the lack of cats at the downtown satellite of the Detroit Zoo, the new exhibit will include Sumatran tigers and African lions. It was made possible by a $700,000 construction project backed by the City of Detroit.

The lions and tigers will be separated by a double fence. The tigers, which unlike other cats enjoy the water, will have a large pond. The lions will have a smaller pond with a cascading stream.

The Sumatran tigers are on the endangered species list. The two being exhibited are managed by the Tier Species Survival Plan. There are only about 650 Sumatran tigers left in the wild.

Toss those paper plates —onto the compost pile

Toss on a compost pile some used paper plates; add old golf tees, leaves, newspapers and chicken litter.

What comes from this mix is fertilizer that's ideal for growing spinach, corn, peppers and oats, says Donald D. Kaufman of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. He's seen the results while working as a visiting scientist at the Rodale Institute Research Center's organic farm in Kutztown, Pa.

Kaufman says it makes sense to build compost piles rather than trash piles that keep filling landfills. He and other researchers want to be sure that what's composted will degrade and be environmentally safe.

At the Rodale farm last summer, the scientists tried composting knives, forks and spoons made from a starch-based plastic substitute. They found the utensils wouldn't decompose fast enough. "But the golf tees of a starch-based plastic disappeared completely," he said.

A few items can be recycled twice, such as newspaper used once as bedding for Rodale's dairy cows and then as compost material, said Kaufman, a microbiologist for the USDA's Agricultural Research Service.

The B-52's

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It was no surprise to B-52 fans when the zany group was selected to play Bedrock's own "rock" band — the B.C.-52's — in this summer's blockbuster, "The Flintstones."

But the party-lovin', dance-hopin' group that is almost in a category by itself is into more than absurdity these days.

They deal with social and political issues such as the environment and individuality.

"Music has the power to induce a deep shift in consciousness," explains Keith Strickland. "Instead of using our songs to endorse products, we're endorsing ideas."

"We're out there to entertain people," adds Fred Schneider, "but it's great to get people thinking and dancing at the same time."

But it hasn't been only the lyrics of their songs that have reflected concern for global issues. The group has been self-labeled activists, donating their talents to numerous benefits for AIDS organizations, environmental concerns — even animal rights.

"Music changes people and people can change the world. We want to show it can be fun to try to change the world," says Kate Pierson.

Joined by estranged member Cindy Wilson who left the band before it began songwriting for the album "Good Stuff" in 1991, the foursome — singers Wilson, Schneider and Pierson and drummer-guitarist-keyboardist Strickland — will be reunited for their '94 summer tour. Pine Knob will be their third stop in a 14-date schedule that kicks off on July 3 in New Jersey.

"Cindy never really left them," a publicist from California said on June 27. "She never took off for good. She was taking a break — she really never left the band."

This is the group's first North American tour since 1992. As a warm-up to their being on the road, the B-52's recently performed at World Cup ceremonies at Foxboro Stadium in Boston before an estimated audience of one billion television viewers.

Following its tour, the quartet will begin work on a new Reprise Records album scheduled for release in 1995.

The B-52's perform Tuesday, July 5, at 7:30 p.m. with special guests, The Goldentones. At presstime pavilion ($12.50) and lawn ($7.50) seats were still available. Tickets may be purchased at The Palace of Auburn Hills' box office or by calling Ticketmaster at (810) 645-6666.

Doctor helps singer during visit

Clarkston chiropractor Dr. John Cowan took care of singer Marie Osmond's weekly adjustments during her stay in Detroit while she was starring in "The Sound of Music." Cowan's list of patients already includes many celebrities, including members of the band Chicago and the Bee Gees. Pictured is Cowan along with Osmond.

Preschool lets the Funshine in

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Michelle Marmon enjoys bringing her Barbie lunch bag to school. Tia Hansen likes to be able to "go to the bathroom when I need to."

And Ryan VanWynsberghe races to the top of the monkey bars whenever he's outside.

But these schoolchildren are a little younger than most. Michelle, 5, Tia, 3, and Ryan, 6, all attend Funshine V, a summer program for preschoolers that functions as more than a day-care center for working parents.

Funshine's philosophy, stated in one of their flyers, is as follows:

"We believe that a child's family and a warm, nurturing, educational and developmentally appropriate environment with qualified staff provides the foundation for children to grow and develop at their own pace and to gain a positive self image through varied experiences."

"And we are not just licensed — we are a nationally accredited preschool program," Margie Ried, Funshine project coordinator, said.

Five days a week, area children up to age six come to the two portable modular classrooms in back of Clarkston's Community Education Center on Sashabaw, where Funshine is housed. There they learn socialization, creativity, speech, language, making decisions — and just plain fun — all useful skills they will need by the time they make the big leap into kindergarten.

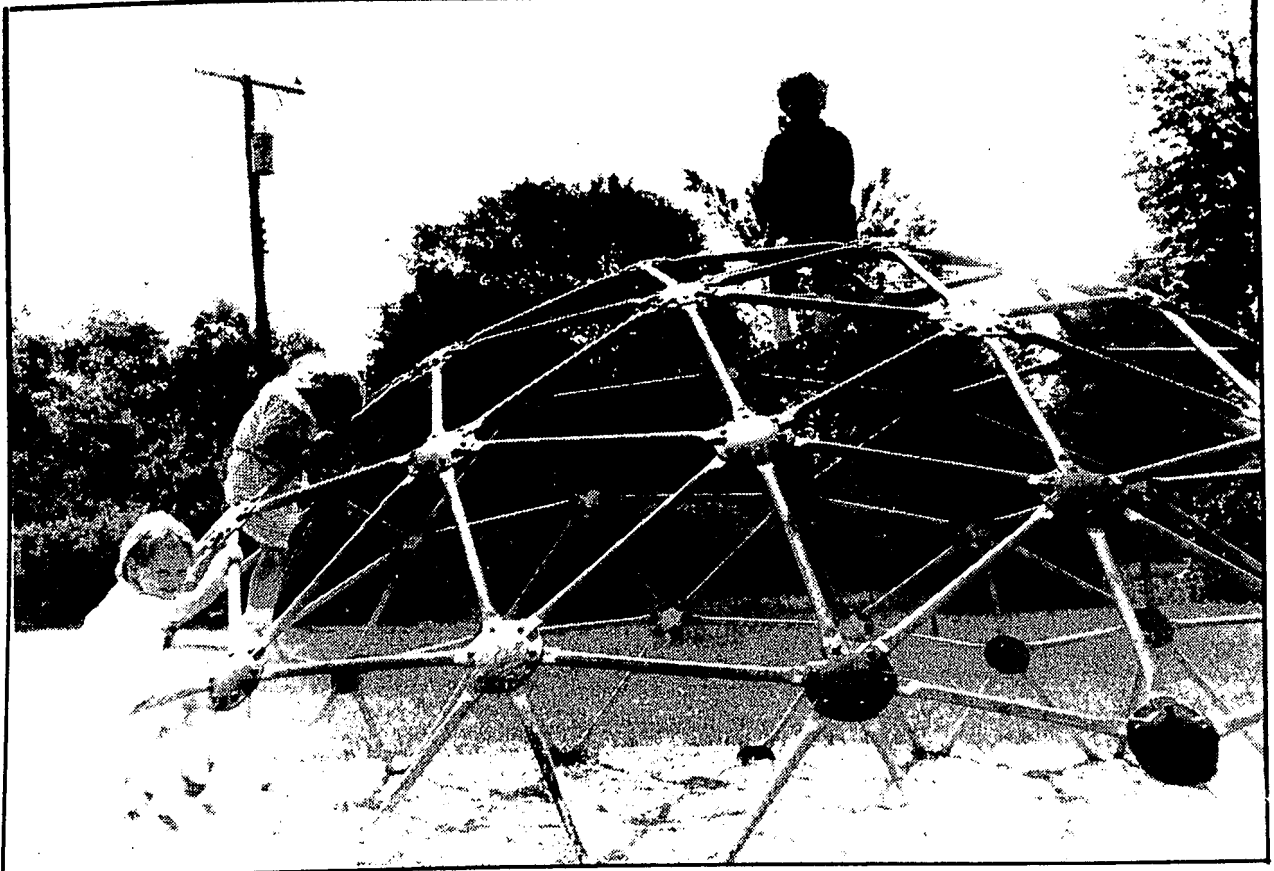

"We believe they learn from play — so we do a lot of hands-on activities," Ried said. "It is a day-care (program) but also an educational program. We stress things like how to get along, how to express yourself when you disagree, how to stand up for yourself... We spend a lot of time with socialization."

"They learn letters and numbers in a fun way through games and songs. And we often have themes — we're doing "bugs" right now."

Although Funshine runs from 9-11:30 a.m. as a preschool during the summer months (June through August), children may arrive at 7 a.m. and stay as late as 6 p.m. until their parents can pick them up. They have a mid-morning snack break, a lunch later for kids who stay after 11:30, and are down for a nap from 12:30-2:30 p.m. Through the day there are combinations of indoor and outside play.

At 9:00 a.m., Ried and her co-workers start the day by beginning with "circle time" where children play games, do finger-plays and sing songs. During this period staff members observe and keep records of each child's development "just to see how they're doing," Karen Wooster, Funshine's head teacher, said.

Later there are different areas in which kids can experiment and be themselves — a quiet area, a block area with building blocks, a housekeeping area where kids can pretend in dress-up clothes, and an art area which is child-accessible.

Michelle, who wears hot pink sandals and has big brown eyes, says she likes the housekeeping area because "I can take care of babies, like Mom."

"In the quiet area, for example, there are computers, books, puzzles and manipulatives of all kinds. There are put-together-take-apart toys like Legos and Bristle-blocks," Ried said.

Ried, who is Funshine's founder, started the program 11 years ago as a teen-parent support program for young parents who needed a place for their babies while they finished adult education programs. Later, when those babies were a little older, they needed a preschool too.

One program evolved after another, including Funshine CHEX (Children's Educational Experience) for 3-year-olds and Funshine APEX (Achieving Preschool Excellence) for 4-year-olds, year-long federally funded programs for low-income families who qualify. Funshine V was a spin-off to those programs and Ried began it three years ago for two reasons.

"We needed the income because the state was cutting money all the time, and there was a need for quality preschool and day-care programs for working parents during the summer," she said.

Though Funshine V is tuition-based and paid for by parents, it is accessible for low-income families who qualify for day-care assistance, Ried said. Although the licensing ratio is one teacher per 10 children, Funshine's ratio is lower — one to eight.

Patti Marmon, Michelle's mother, says Funshine V has been a wonderful program for her little girl.

Preschool lets Funshine in

SCHOOL, continued from 6B

"Michelle's been going there since she was three-and-a-half. She loves going there. She'd rather be there than anywhere else. She'll miss it when she goes to school at Pine Knob Elementary this fall," Patti said.

The Marmons are originally from Florida and had Michelle enrolled in a nationally accredited pre-school-school program before moving to Clarkston. It was very important to them to find one in Michigan that would continue the excellent care their daughter needed.

Finding Funshine was a boon to Patti, who says she needs both the convenience of day care and the educational aspect of pre-school for her daughter.

And she feels very good also about the fact that she has faith in the excellent reputation of Funshine.

Funshine is one of 37 members of the NAEYC (National Association of the Education of Young Children).

"It's a national association that actually goes into the center and studies it. It gives you a sense of security. Most day-care centers are good but you worry about the bad ones. When you hear about them in the news they just spook you.

"Michelle's always been a chatterbox and told me everything," she laughed.

On this particular day at Funshine when the weekly temperatures are soaring into the nineties, her daughter is looking forward to running through the sprinkler which the teachers say they will allow after naptime.

"We're not gonna stay and nap very long. We're going to put on our bathing suits and play in the sprinkler.

"It's good to get nice and cold," Michelle said, her brown eyes widening.

Funshine V still has some openings for its summer program. Call 674-0993 for more information.

Taking the honors

Three Clarkston residents have won honors at Kingsbury School for their achievements. Megan Krigbaum (left) received the scholarship award for the seventh grade. She also took top spelling honors for her class and placed second in the American Junior High Math Exam. Ben Kosbab (center) tied for top academic honors in third grade, and Kevin Kosbab was top scholar in fifth grade. Kevin also took second place in the Michigan Math Honor Roll.

In service

Seaman Jeffrey Hynes received awards for Master at Arms and military excellence at his recent graduation from the Navy's Technical A School in Gulfport, Mississippi. A 1988 graduate of Clarkston High School, he is the son of Bruce and Karen Hynes of Davisburg.

Whether it's a fire or a prestigious award, we want to hear about it. Just give us a call at The Clarkston News. 625-3370

130-IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my wife STELLA (SAM) ROBINSON A good wife, mother, and grandmother, & my best friend June 30, 1993

God saw you were getting tired and a cure was not to be So he put his arms around you and whispered "Come with me" With tearful eyes we watched you suffer and saw you fade away Although we love you dearly we could not make you stay Your golden heart stopped beating Hard working hands laid to rest God broke our hearts to prove to us He only takes the best

Greatly missed by her husband, Delbert Robinson, children and grandchildren LX27-1

STELLA (SAM) ROBINSON LOVING MOTHER & GRANDMA June 30, 1993

Everyday that goes by we think of you We can't help but feeling blue We know that you are in a better place But now there is such an empty space We watched you suffer and in pain But never once did you complain You were the best Mother in the world And there could never be another as good as you Mother, I miss you so much I cry for you often I miss all your advice our long talks going shopping and out to lunch You will always be the best in my eyes

We miss you and love you, your daughter and grandchildren, Rhonda, Bobby, Billy, Danny & Sissy LX27-1

We are SIDING and GUTTER Specialists

We are not a Jack-of-all-trades. We can not guarantee you the absolute lowest price, as we will not sacrifice the quality products or workmanship that you deserve. But what we will guarantee is an honest and fair price with products and workmanship of the highest quality. We also do our own work. We don't get your job and sub-contract it out, or sell it. So if you are only looking for the cheapest way out, call someone else who claims they can beat any price. If you are looking for an honest and fair price, quality products and workmanship, dependability, and someone that will still be here after your job is completed, give us a call. Helping you make your home the one you've always dreamed of is what we do.

Free vision care for senior citizens

The National Eye Care Project, sponsored by the Foundation of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and state ophthalmological societies, provides medical eye care at no out-of-pocket cost to individuals who meet the following requirements:

- US citizen or legal resident
- 65 years of age or older
- No access to ophthalmologist seen in the past

Every patient receives a comprehensive medical eye examination and treatment for whatever condition or disease is diagnosed. This is not an eyeglasses program. Participating ophthalmologists bill Medicare or patients' other insurance and accept that as payment in full. For those without insurance or means to pay, services are provided at no cost.

THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE ORDAINS THE FOLLOWING:

Section 1 of Ordinance

The ordinance granting the Pines of Clarkston Planned Unit Development shall be amended by adding thereto the authorization for the placement of a temporary sales trailer and a temporary construction trailer in the locations shown on the plans submitted to the Planning Commission and Township Board, and contained in the files of the Township Department of Building and Planning, subject to the following:

a. The temporary sales trailer shall be permitted to be situated on the property for a period of one year, or until occupancy of a model residence to be used for sales purposes, whichever occurs first.

b. The temporary construction trailer shall be permitted to remain on the property for a period of two years, provided, however, on the condition that all construction and other activities on the property are in full and complete compliance with all applicable ordinances and law, the Township Board shall be permitted to extend such period by motion, without further amendment of this ordinance.

c. The trailers shall be removed from the property within 30 days of active use, or within the time frame specified above, whichever occurs first. If the respective trailer or trailers have not been removed from the property on a timely basis, the Township shall be authorized to present notice to the planned unit development grantee specifying the date and time of a Township Board meeting at which the grantee may be heard as to why the Township should not be authorized to enter upon the property and remove the trailer or trailers. Following such hearing, if the trailer or trailers have not been moved, and the Township Board determines, in its discretion, that satisfactory reason has not been given for the failure to move the trailer or trailers, the Township shall be authorized to contract for the removal and storage of such trailer or trailers, and charge all costs and expenses, plus an administrative fee in the amount of 25% of all costs and expenses, to the grantee. If such amount has not been paid within 30 days of a billing, the Township shall be authorized to place such amount on the delinquent tax roll of one or more condominium units remaining in the ownership of grantee, or in ownership of any subsidiary or company in which grantee has an interest. Alternatively, at the election of the Township, the Township may commence a civil action to recover such amounts, in which case grantee shall be obligated to pay all costs and expenses, including reasonable attorney fees, of such action.

d. There shall be landscaping on the appropriate site for Maybee Road north of the sales trailer.

e. All signs for the trailer shall be in compliance with the sign ordinance and the appropriate permits shall be obtained in advance.

f. There shall be additional landscaping around the sales trailer during its placement.

g. The sales trailer shall be accessed by a temporary gravel drive and parking lot off the main entry boulevard. The trailer shall be set back from the boulevard an additional five to ten feet, and temporary parking shall be provided directly off of the exit lane of the boulevard so that encroachment into the front yard setback of Maybee Road shall not be required.

h. The construction trailer shall be accessed from the emergency access road.

i. This ordinance shall take effect following publication and execution by the grantee of an agreement conforming to the provisions set forth above.

Section 2 of Ordinance

Amended only as specified above in this ordinance, the zoning ordinance, including the ordinance granting Pines of Clarkston Planned Unit Development, shall remain in full force and effect.

Respectfully submitted,
Joan E. McCrary

INDEPENDENCE TWP. NOTICE OF PROPOSED

ORDINANCE AMENDMENT

At a regular meeting of the Township Board held on June 21, 1994, the Board authorized a Second Reading and Adoption of an amendment to the Township's Zoning Ordinance No. 83 as follows:

SUMMARY OF AMENDMENT TO WETLANDS ORDINANCE
Following is a summary of an amendment to the Wetlands Ordinance of the Charter Township of Independence, codified as Chapter 21, Article 2 of the Charter Township of Independence Ordinance Code.

Section 21-16. Definitions.

Board shall mean the Independence Township Planning Commission, sitting as the wetlands board under this article.

Contiguous shall mean any of the following:

(1) A permanent surface water connection or other direct physical contact with an inland lake or pond, a river or stream.

(2) A seasonal or intermittent direct surface water connection to an inland lake or pond, a river or stream.

(3) A wetland is partially or entirely located within 500 feet of the ordinary high water mark of an inland lake or pond or a river or stream, unless it is determined by the Township in accordance with Rule 281.924 of the Administrative Rules adopted by the Department of Natural Resources, land and water management division, wetland protection that there is no surface or groundwater connection to these waters.

(4) Two or more areas of wetland separated only by barriers, such as dikes, roads, berms, or other similar features, but with any of the wetland areas contiguous under the criteria described in paragraphs 1, 2 or 3 of this definition.

Wetlands shall mean Land characterized by the presence of water or a frequency and duration sufficient to support and that under normal circumstances does support wetland vegetation or aquatic life and is commonly referred to as a bog, swamp or marsh. For purposes of this ordinance, a "wetland" must be two acres, or more, in size, including the area of any contiguous inland lake, pond, river or stream. If the land area is less than two acres in size, it shall nonetheless be considered a "wetland" if it is determined that the protection of the area is essential to the preservation of the natural resources of the state from pollution, impairment, or destruction and the owner of the property has been so notified.

Section 21-23. Activities not requiring a permit.

The following uses shall be allowed in a wetland without a permit subject to other applicable laws and ordinances and the owner's regulation:

(1) Fishing, trapping or hunting.

(2) Swimming or boating.

(3) Hiking.

(4) Grazing of animals.

(5) Farming, horticulture, silviculture, lumbering, and ranching activities, including plowing, irrigation, irrigation ditching, seeding, cultivating, minor drainage, harvesting for the production of food, fiber and forest products, or upland soil and water conservation practices. Wetland altered under this subsection shall not be used for a purpose other than a purpose described in this subsection without a permit from the department.

(6) Maintenance or operation of serviceable structures in existence on the effective date of this ordinance or constructed pursuant to this ordinance.

(7) Construction or maintenance of farm or stock ponds.

(8) Maintenance, operation, or improvement which includes straightening, widening, or deepening of the following which is necessary for the production or harvesting of agricultural products:

(a) An existing private agricultural drain.

(b) That portion of a drain legally established pursuant to Michigan drain law which has been constructed or improved for drainage purposes.

(c) A drain constructed pursuant to other provisions of applicable law and ordinance.

(9) Construction or maintenance of farm roads, forest roads, or temporary roads for moving mining or forestry equipment, if the roads are constructed and maintained in a manner to assure that any adverse effect on the wetland will be otherwise minimized.

(10) Drainage necessary for the production and harvesting of agricultural products if the wetland is owned by a person who is engaged in commercial farming and the land is to be used for the production and harvesting of agricultural products. Except as otherwise provided in this Ordinance, wetland improved under this subsection after the effective date of this ordinance shall not be used for non-farming purposes without a permit from the Township. This subsection shall not apply to a wetland which is contiguous to a lake or stream, or to a tributary of a lake or stream, or to a wetland which the Township has determined by clear and convincing evidence to be a wetland which is necessary to be preserved for the public interest, in which case a permit shall be required.

(11) Maintenance or improvement of public streets, highways, or roads, within the right-of-way and in such a manner as to assure that any adverse effect on the wetland will be otherwise minimized. Maintenance or improvement does not include adding extra lanes; increasing the right-of-way; or deviating from the existing location of the street, highway or road.

(12) Maintenance, repair or operation of gas or oil pipelines and construction of gas or oil pipelines having a diameter of six inches or less, if the pipelines are constructed, maintained, or repaired in a manner to assure that any adverse effect on the wetland will be otherwise minimized.

(13) Maintenance, repair or operation of electric transmission and distribution power lines and construction of distribution power lines if the distribution power lines are constructed, maintained or repaired in a manner to assure that any adverse effect on the wetland will be otherwise minimized.

(14) Operation or maintenance, including reconstruction of recently damaged parts, of serviceable dikes and levees in existence on the effective date of this ordinance or constructed pursuant to this ordinance.

(15) Construction of iron and copper mining trailings, basins and water storage areas.

(16) In cases where a permit is not required under Section 6(3) of Act 203 of the Public Acts of 1979, as amended, being MCL 281.706(3), involving activities permitted under Section 404 of Title 4 of the Clean Water Act of 1977, 33 USC, Section 1344.

Section 21-24. Application for permit.

An application for a Township wetland permit must now be submitted on a form supplied by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, and applications must, unless waived by the applicant, be reviewed within 90 days after receipt.

Section 21-25. Application review.

If a project or activity is not otherwise reviewable by the Independence Township Planning Commission under any provision of the Zoning Ordinance or Ordinance Code, an application shall be reviewed by the Director of the Township Department of Building and Planning.

If a project or activity is reviewable by the Planning Commission under any provision of the Zoning Ordinance or Ordinance Code, the application for a wetland permit will be reviewed by the Planning Commission.

For those projects reviewed by the Director of the Department of Building and Planning, prior to issuance of a permit, the Director shall send by mail to the owners of property within three hundred (300) feet a notice of an interest to issue the permit.

Section 21-30. Property Tax Assessment.

If a permit is denied for a proposed wetland use, a land owner may appear at the annual Board of Review for the purpose of seeking a revaluation of the affected property for assessment purposes to determine its fair market value under the use restriction.

Section 21-32. Mitigation.

(1) Mitigation under this Article shall be permissible only in an instance where it is determined that if a permit is not issued there would be no viable use of the property. Mitigation shall not be permissible when it is feasible and prudent to avoid impacts on the wetlands and concurrently make viable use of the property.

A finding shall be made that all feasible and prudent efforts have been made to analyze a use of the property without the necessity of the issuance of a permit which would require mitigation.

(2) If mitigation is permissible, as specified under Paragraph (1), above, the Board or the Director, as the case may be, may require mitigation as a condition to the issuance of a permit, as contemplated under Section 21-25(a)(5).

(3) Mitigation shall be designed to remove an impairment to the wetland benefits, to mitigate the impact of a discharge of fill material, or otherwise improve the water quality. Mitigation may be designed for the improvement of the existing wetland resources or the creation of new wetland resources to offset wetland resources lost as a result of the proposed project.

(4) As part of the authorization or direction of the mitigation, financial assurances may be required in order to ensure that mitigation is accomplished as specified by the permit conditions, and that the mitigation remains successful for a reasonable period of time in the future.

(5) The mitigation plan shall be prepared by a qualified wetland consultant retained by the applicant and shall be reviewed by the Township's wetland consultant utilizing the monies escrowed for such purpose by the applicant.

(6) If the Board or the Director, as the case may be, determines that it is practical to replace the wetland resource values which will be unavoidably impacted, the following criteria shall be utilized when reviewing the applicant's mitigation proposal:

(a) Mitigation shall be provided on-site where practical and beneficial to the wetland resources.

(b) If on-site mitigation is not practical and beneficial to the wetland resources, mitigation shall be provided in the immediate vicinity of the permitted activity where practical and beneficial to wetland resources. When possible, this means within the Township as the location of the proposed project.

(c) Only when it has been determined that mitigation as specified in subparagraphs (a) and (b) would be inappropriate and impractical may mitigation be considered elsewhere.

(d) Any proposal shall assure that, upon completion, there will be no net loss to the wetland resources.

(e) The proposal shall give consideration to replacement of the predominant functional values lost within the impacted wetland.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED

ORDINANCE AMENDMENT

At a regular meeting of the Township Board held on June 21, 1994, the Board authorized a Second Reading and Adoption of an amendment to the Township's Zoning Ordinance No. 83 as follows:

TEXT AMENDMENT TO ZONING ORDINANCE (Natural Feature Setback)

An Ordinance to amend Ordinance No. 83, as amended, the Charter Township of Independence Zoning Ordinance ("Zoning Ordinance") for the purpose of amending Article V by adding a new Section 5.24 to provide regulations for natural feature setbacks.

THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE ORDAINS AS FOLLOWS TO AMEND THE ZONING ORDINANCE:

Section 1 of Ordinance

Article V of the Zoning Ordinance shall be amended by adding a new Section 5.24, reading as follows:

Section 5.24. Natural Feature Setback.

(1) Intent and purpose.

It is the intent of this section to require a minimum setback from natural features, and to regulate property within such setback in order to prevent physical harm, impairment and/or destruction of or to a natural feature. It has been determined that, in the absence of such a minimum setback, intrusions in or onto natural features would occur, resulting in harm, impairment and/or destruction of natural features contrary to the public health, safety and general welfare. This regulation is based on the police power, for the protection of the public health, safety and welfare, including the authority granted in the Zoning Enabling Act.

It is the purpose of this section to establish and preserve minimum setback from natural features in order to recognize and make provision for the special relationship, interrelationship and interdependency between the natural feature and the setback area in terms of: spatial relationship; interdependency in terms of physical location, plant species, animal species and an encouragement of diversity and richness of plant and animal species; over land and subsurface hydrology; water table; water quality; erosion of sediment deposition.

If a greater setback or prohibition is required by other ordinance, or other provision of this ordinance, such greater setback or prohibition shall apply.

(2) Regulation.

A natural feature setback shall be maintained in relation to all areas defined in this ordinance as being a "natural feature," unless, and to the extent, it is determined to be in the public interest not to maintain such setback.

(3) Definition of "Natural Feature."

A natural feature shall mean a wetland, as defined in the Township Wetlands Ordinance, and shall mean a watercourse, including a lake, pond, river, stream or creek.

(4) Authorization and Prohibition.

(a) The natural feature setback shall be an area or feature with boundaries and limitations determined in accordance with the standards and provisions in this section in relation to respective types of natural features.

(b) In conjunction with the review of plans submitted for authorization to develop property or otherwise undertake an operation in or on, or adjacent to, a natural feature, applicable natural feature setbacks shall be determined, and authorizations and prohibitions established, by the body of official undertaking the plan review. In the event an activity is proposed within a setback area as designated under subsection 7(a) or 7(b), below, but such activity is not proposed in conjunction with an activity within the natural feature itself, review under this section shall be conducted by the Township body or official reviewing the proposed activity, or, if no other review is required, review shall be undertaken by the Planning Department. The body or official undertaking the review shall, if determined necessary or appropriate by such body or official, utilize the services of a wetland consultant, and, in such case, the applicant shall establish an escrow and shall be responsible for the fees of such consultant.

(c) Within an established natural feature setback, unless and only to the extent determined to be in the public interest by the body undertaking plan review, there shall be no construction, removal or deposit of any structures or soils, including dredging, filling or land balancing. This prohibition shall not apply with regard to those activities exempted from this prohibition, below.

(d) In determining whether proposed construction or operations are in the public interest, the benefit which would reasonably be expected to accrue from the proposal shall be balanced against the reasonably foreseeable detriments of the construction or other operation, taking into consideration the local, state and national concern for the protection and preservation of the natural feature in question. If, as a result of such a balancing, there remains a debatable question whether the proposed project and/or operation is clearly in the public interest, authorization for the construction and/or operation within the natural feature setback shall not be granted. The following general criteria shall be applied in undertaking this balancing test:

Built in 1840, the Briars is steeped in tradition.

The Briars golf course is challenging.

Golf, fish and relax in style

(and it's only 45 minutes north of Toronto)

By Don Rush
Assistant to the Publisher

Every guest at the Briars Inn and Country Club is in for a little history and, of course, a smile from the proprietors.

Just over 45 minutes north of Toronto is Jackson's Point, Ontario, a sleepy little community steeped in tradition and history. Much of that history revolves around the clan Sibbald. The Sibbalds are the owners/operators of the 200-plus acre Briar Estate.

"We want to keep the traditions alive," president John Sibbald said. "We want to meet each and every one of our guests and personally see that they enjoy themselves — in the tradition of old country inns."

And what a tradition.

The Briars has been owned by the Sibbalds for five generations and has been a destination for tourists since the turn of the century. Under the direction of the current generations of Sibbald it has earned the AAA Four Diamond award for 18 consecutive years.

The Briars resort is built around the original Manor House, completed in 1840 by its first owner William Bouchier. Bouchier (pronounced bow-cher) was a retired British Royal Navy Captain. The property was acquired by a Scottish doctor, Frank Sibbald, in 1870.

Since then, the Sibbalds have created a peaceful getaway. They built lake cottages on Ontario's largest inland water-mass, Simcoe Lake, designed an 18-hole golf course and created a resort that can house nearly 180 guests.

There is much history, and each guest can hear it for himself with a tour of the estate by one of the Sibbalds. If you like history ask John, his wife Barbara or son Hugh for the tour.

Briars' 92 accommodation choices are varied, each offering unique features. They range from historic manor rooms with fireplaces and views of Lake Simcoe to rooms with balconies or patios overlooking Briars' English gardens. There are lakeside cottages with verandahs and lodging overlooking the resort's championship course.

The course was built in 1923 in the tradition of auld Scotland. It is characterized by bridge-crossed marshes, rolling grounds and lingering morning fog.

There is something for almost anyone. Couples can have a quiet getaway, using one of the three pools (one inside, two outdoors) or hot tubs. They can walk the picturesque grounds, play golf or tennis, even pitch horseshoes. The 26-mile wide lake is perfect for swimming or fishing.

And though Toronto's always-hopping theatre district is only a short drive away, guests can walk to Canada's oldest summer theatre, the Red Barn Theatre — also on the estate. The Red Barn has been in operation since 1947 and has showcased the talents of such known artists as William Shatner, Christopher Plummer, Lorne Greene, Wayne and Schuster and Kate Reid.

This year Jason Robards will be one of the headliners for a rotating cast of "Love Letters." These performances (July 20 - August 6) will raise funds for the theatre.

U.S. visitors at the Briars also get a break because of the currency exchange rates. A two-to-four night stay begins at $79 U.S. per person a night and includes three meals daily. On either side of lunch, there's something to sink your teeth into. In the morning you wake up to a breakfast buffet. For dinner Master Chef Paul Pennock prepares a wonderful four course meal (guys don't forget your suit and tie, gals dress accordingly).

An 18-hole round of golf is priced at $27 U.S., with golf packages beginning at $100 U.S. per person, per night and includes accommodations, three meals daily, 18 holes and golf club storage and cleaning.

For more information on summer, fall or winter lodging call 1-800-465-2376, toll free from the U.S., or write the Briars, 55 Hedge Road, R.R. 1, Jackson's Point, Ontario LOE 1LO.

To get there from Port Huron, take Highway 402 east to Highway 401, to Toronto. Once in Toronto take Highway 404 north to Davis Drive, east to Highway 48, north to Sutton, Ontario. Turn left at High Street to Dalton Street, turn right. Make another right on Hedge Street. Briars is up about a half mile on the right.

When you get a chance, go up in the tower and take a look around.
