Crash kills 1-year-old boy

An early morning crash on M-15 at Oak Hill took the life of an 11-month-old Clarkston boy Monday.

Matthew Stanley, who was secured in a child seat in the van his father, also named Matthew, was driving, was killed after the van rear-ended another car in the northbound lane, then continued into the southbound lane and into the path of an oncoming moving van. The truck driver was helpless to avoid the collision, police said.

According to a report from the Oakland County Sheriff's Brandon Township substation, the elder Matthew Stanley, 25, of Clarkston, was northbound at 6:40 a.m. Monday in his 1994 GMC van. He rear-ended a 1984 Ford driven by Marlene Welch-Schaffer, also of Clarkston, who was waiting to turn left onto Oak Hill. Both the Ford and the van went into the southbound lane of M-15, but Welch-Schaffer was uninjured. The van was hit head-on by the oncoming truck.

Stanley and his daughter Amanda, 2, were taken by ambulance to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital. Amanda was later airlifted to the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor, where she was listed in critical condition Tuesday. Her father was in serious condition with multiple trauma Tuesday. The moving van driver was uninjured.

Visitation will be at Lewis E. Wint & Son Trust 100 Funeral Home Thursday, 7-9 p.m. A graveside funeral service will be held Friday at 9 a.m. at Ortonville Cemetery.

Memorials may be made to Matthew's family to assist with medical expenses for his father and sister.

Birdland students will walk after all

After a lengthy discussion, the Clarkston Board of Education decided to stick to its own transportation policy and have elementary school students in the Birdland subdivision walk to school this fall.

The board voted 4-3 at its meeting Monday night. Earlier, Birdland parents had asked the board to reconsider the move, which came about because of redistricting which takes effect this fall. Birdland children used to be bussed to North Sashabaw Elementary; this fall they'll walk to Clarkston Elementary.

Parents have safety concerns because the students will have to cross a woods and walk along a pond and across the high-school parking lot. The board promised that kindergarten students walking to or from school at noon will be bused one way.

However it was clear from the discussion that the board may be interested in looking into expanding its bus fleet.

Teamsters strike Clawson Tank

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

Pickets went up Friday outside Clawson Tank on White Lake Rd. in Independence Township as members of Teamsters Local 614 went on strike over health insurance and working conditions.

Workers manning the picket line said their contract expired June 10 and Clawson tank has canceled their former health insurance policy and instituted a new one, without bargaining the issue. The company was demanding that employees pay for increases in insurance costs but was not offering an hourly wage increase.

"We'll take their insurance but we have to have them cover the increases," said one picketer, who wouldn't give his name but said he's worked for the company for eight years. "They've already switched and canceled our old policy, so we're all standing out

The news in brief

School board appoints officers

All four officers on the Clarkston Board of Education were re-elected to their positions Monday night. In a split decision, Tom Howard was returned as president, Sheila Hughes as secretary and Bill McGregor as treasurer. Bill Craig was the only candidate for vice president. The board designated regular meetings for the second Monday of each month at 7 p.m., with the fourth Monday reserved in case a second meeting is needed.

Depot Park playground in final stages

A volunteer committee composed of 10-12 Clarkston residents worked all day July 9 to repair and put together the free-standing equipment for Depot Park's playground area.

"All that's left is the bay (frame) for the air swing," Jeanne Selander Miller, volunteer coordinator, said.

This Saturday at 9 a.m., additional people will be needed to help move that equipment plus hold it in place while the DPW cements it. Next week, from July 18-22, volunteers will work on painting the installed equipment. Finally, on Saturday, July 23, "400 yds. of wood chips" and gravel will be laid around the playscape's base, Councilman Steve Arkwright said. Volunteers are asked to bring shovels, rakes and wheelbarrows to complete the project which is expected to be finished by the end of the day. To volunteer assistance, call 620-2753.

Results of city water survey received

Clarkston City Manager Art Pappas says he has gotten 168 replies so far from the 350 surveys the city sent out, asking about a city water system. The letters, mailed at the beginning of May, asked residents if they were interested in a community water system and urged them to express their opinions. Pappas said Councilwoman Karen Sanderson will tabulate the surveys "to see if there's a message to them."

New plans for memorial tree planting

Clarkston City Councilman Doug Roeser has worked on new regulations as well as a map for the planting of memorial trees in Depot Park. So far Roeser has written an outline which includes what kind of trees may be used, how to install them and what type of metal marker is required. Residents must pay for delivery and installation.

Councilman Stephen Secatch said the scattered trees that are planted in the park have made it "hard for children to play" because of a lack of open space. Roeser said that is why he is making a map — "so it shows where they can and can't [plant]." In addition, Roeser has designed a permit which will require residents to check with the city before they install anything. City Attorney Tom Ryan, who was present at the meeting, said it would be wise to treat Roeser's plan as a policy. Council tabled the subject until the next meeting on July 25.

This old ^{carriage} house

Buyers to battle city over demolition

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

You can see it from the road. A charming two-story stone building that catches the eye.

As you turn into the drive and get closer you see the old house is built into a myrtle-covered hill, surrounded by wildflowers and across from a quiet tree-lined pond.

You also see pieces of broken glass, rotted wiring hanging from all outside walls and, in the back, caved-in roofing where young saplings and moss have taken over, making their stand in strong-rooted grasps. Inside, graffiti and more ruin confirm its demise.

But it wasn't always that way.

Historic district commission chair Sue Basinger remembers when Clarkston music professor Ivan Rouse took care of it for "the folks that lived there years ago." There were lively parties, she said, recalling one where lit candles paved the walkway up to the house.

And longtime Clarkston resident and retired township supervisor Frank ("Tink") Ronk says he remembers it always being there since he was a young lad in the '30s.

Basinger feels the structure was built around 1910 and was "a craftsman-style cottage built from fieldstone" which was the result of a movement in architecture in the art world around 1900 (the arts and crafts era). The movement produced bungalows and cottages such as this one.

But back records checked at both the township assessor's office and Oakland County Equalization, which assesses Clarkston, came up empty, showing only vacant property there.

"Unfortunately, the way records were kept back then, they really don't nail down where places were," David Petrak, Appraiser II for Independence Township, said.

But that history, which is murky, isn't what concerns Redford residents Ray and Mary Jo Reinbolt who purchased the lot that contains the building two years ago. They don't want to spend the $40,000 their builder, Forest Milzow, told them they'd have to fork out for its repair.

Originally the Reinbolts wanted to retain the structure, even incorporate it into their plan for building a new residence. When they bought the property, part of a site condominium development called Clarkston West owned by Vintage Construction of Auburn Hills, the Reinbolts say there was no description of any structure in their master deed, let alone it's being an historic building.

Before they could make any plans at all, Mary Jo said she and her husband found the lot had been surveyed wrong. Part of Lot 2 showed up. That led them to the city council, which they had to approach for variance permission.

"We had to go and change the lot line — it was wrong. It took all this time (six months) for the engineers to draw everything again," Mary Jo said.

At council, Mary Jo and her husband were shocked when the city "told" them that house would have to stay, or at least part of it. Mary Jo said they made no agreement or compromise to retain the outer walls that would be part of the street facade.

Now she and her husband plan to start a suit against the city.

"The city council has city rights but property owners have rights that are the core of civil rights and that's in the Constitution," Mary Jo said. "That's the strongest thing we have against oppression."

"We didn't agree on anything — we were told."

Not so, says councilman Bill Basinger, who was there at that March 1993 council meeting when the Reinbolts came for their variance.

Basinger said when the site condo development plan was drawn up the city council had to approve it, as they do with any site plan. He also said a deal was made with the developers to retain the carriage house. There was even talk of turning it into some sort of club or community house for condo owners.

"I thought we had directed them (Vintage Construction) to put it in the deed — but that's irrelevant," Basinger said.

Basinger said he thought the Reinbolts knew about the house — and that it would have to stay. He said an agreement was made with them to modify the site plan.

"[Council said] 'You don't have to keep it all.' We and they (the Reinbolts) agreed to do a certain thing."

"We said we'll meet you half way. We said they could retain the side walls and specified the exact dimensions. We approved it — I know, because I did it," he said.

"We gave quite a bit. Originally the original structure would have to be retained. All we're asking them to do is to live up to their part of the trade. They want the whole ball of wax."

The disagreement is over this agreement, said Basinger, although he admits he shares many residents' feelings about preserving Clarkston's historic buildings. The city is one of the very few communities in Michigan to do so.

"We did not force them to buy the property. If we were to allow people to go around town, sooner or later you'd have nothing left — like Rochester," he said.

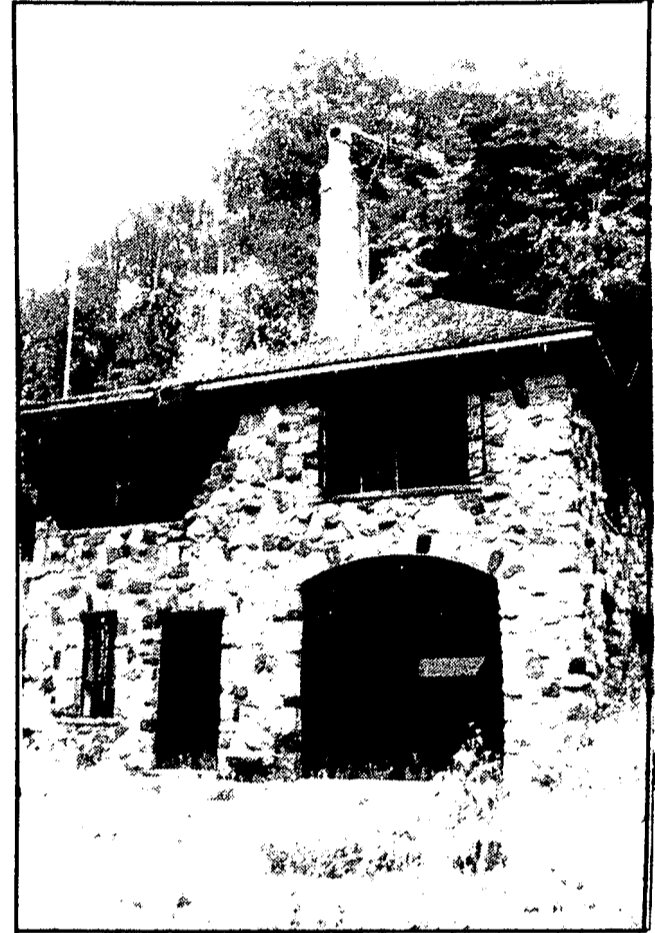

Mayor Sharron Catalo agrees.

"We said, 'Okay, you can take off the back part and do that.' If they were the least bit inventive, [people] could use that ... It makes it more unique, it makes it worth a lot more. It's not like throwing money away," she said.

Though no one can verify when the stone house was built, or even what kind of architectural design it is, Sue Basinger says it is "very definitely a historic structure."

"It is an amenity you can't get anymore. There is nothing like it around."

"It's a clue to the past of this area and it's one of the few remaining clues ... This is a little cottage when a cottage on the lake was the thing to do 90

Though the structure does not fall within the boundaries of the Clarkston Historic District Ordinance, City Attorney Tom Ryan says the city council "can deem anything historic."

"They (council) can make it a condition [to keep the house or facade standing]. It's still a legitimate condition for a city government to enforce. In my opinion, they have the authority. That's what we have city ordinances for — reasonable regulations for property rights society imposes."

Technically, anything over 50 years old is historic, according to section 3 of the ordinance.

Ray Reinbolt doesn't want the "headache" of that building — historic or not.

"We want to tear that building down. They (the city) are claiming it's attractive to this area. There's no zoning that says there's a reason to keep something because it's attractive."

And then there's the expense to tear it down, which he says cannot be done cheaply.

"If those walls have to stay, there's no way a demolition crew could do it. If a crew came in they would have to be very careful. And what's the sense of building a $200,000 building on a wall," he said.

"I think the main thing is what rights do the property owners have compared to the municipality."

Ray and his wife say they have nothing against the city. They will move to Clarkston and they hope to be welcomed as any new residents are.

Mary Jo says they "don't want to deface its aesthetics." And Ray belongs to Greenfield Village in Dearborn and is a Civil War buff and member of the National Association of the Civil War.

"But there's a point where you can only go so far," he said. It's just not feasible. By itself it would

Kammer-O'Neill race heating up

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

Megan O'Neill has never held a paying job, according to Kerry Kammer. Kammer gets state-paid health insurance for his entire family, even though he left public service years ago, O'Neill says.

As the primary election draws nearer, the two Clarkston Republican candidates for Congress are slugging it out in a battle which will decide who will go up against incumbent Democrat Dale Kildee (D., Flint) in November.

In a press release last week written by campaign spokesman Brian Whiston, Kammer charged that O'Neill has never worked for a living, lives at her parents home and is therefore not a taxpayer. He included as proof her personal financial disclosure statement, which is required to be filed when a candidate files to run for office.

In the form, dated May, 1992, O'Neill lists her only earned income as $10,716 from Clarkston Medical Group. O'Neill said she was a member of the advance team for President Bush during that time as one of three full-time advance people. She was paid a per diem which is not required to be declared on the campaign form. She considered the job public service, she said.

"It was really an honor," she said. "There's a real misconception about what happens. You're responsible for everything that happens during those events ...

"It's really a lot of work; it was a lot of stress but it's very, very rewarding and a tremendous opportunity," she said. "I was in the room when they signed the START agreement."

After obtaining a BS in biology at the University of Detroit, O'Neill said she also worked for three months as a researcher at UD, for six months as a researcher at Ford Hospital, and for two years for Hospital Marketing Resource, a health-care marketing firm. She also worked for a company doing marketing studies on sleep disorders, and obtained a real estate license so she could market her parents property.

"I've worked all my life since I was a kid," she said. "I'm a little bit amused at the comparison of our experience. I'm 32; I'll be 33 when I'm elected. Kerry Kammer has lived his entire career off the public dole ... We need young, aggressive people who aren't part of the system."

Kammer began his political career at the age of 24 when he became Pontiac City Clerk. At 26 he was elected to the state senate. At 33, he ran for governor and lost.

After leaving the state legislature, he went to work as a lobbyist as well as in the insurance business. He's also served on the Michigan Natural Resources Commission.

His personal financial disclosure statement, dated May 1, 1994, shows earned income from three sources: Kammer Michigan Consultants, Michigan Educators Insurance Agency and Beck Building Co. It shows unearned income and assets from 19 sources, including investments, IRAs and a pension from the state. It lists positions Kammer held at the date of the filing, including president of Kammer/Michigan Consultants, Inc., director of Michigan Educators Insurance Agency, presidency in two other companies, six partnerships and three consultant positions.

The disclosure reports that Kammer did legislative consulting for the Pontiac, Waterford, Ferndale and Clarkston school districts and Oakland Community College, as well as several other companies.

In response to O'Neill's charges, Kammer has said that his family does receive health insurance coverage from the state based on his time as a legislator.

"A lot of his clients are the people he lobbies for," O'Neill said. "He's a multi-millionaire and we are still paying for his health care."

While Kammer is bashing her lack of work experience, O'Neill keeps reminding voters that Kammer was once a Democrat.

"I've been a conservative forever and have worked for the Republican philosophy. He's been a Democrat. The other big difference (between them) is the lobbying. Special interests have too much clout ... We've had enough of the good-old boys, the career politicians."

As the August 2 primary nears, Kammer's attack shows no signs of letting up. On June 21 he filed a complaint with the Federal Elections Commission saying O'Neill has failed to file mandatory reports about campaign expenditures.

"She may be a nice person but she simply is not qualified and does not deserve to be our representative in Washington," Whiston said.

"I'm trying to run a positive campaign, just focusing on who Megan O'Neill is," O'Neill said. "It (the attack) is really a diversion from the issues that are really important. When candidates start doing that, they're in real trouble."

Technology approved

Work paid for by Clarkston schools bond issue continues. The board of education approved $1.1 million in technology Monday night, including software, hardware, cabling and telephones. Some of it goes into the new Springfield Plains Elementary School, some goes to upgrade and network existing computer labs.

Problems beset township recycling center

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

The hours could become shorter at Independence Township's free recycling center if the rules are not obeyed.

The free service to township residents is paid for with township tax dollars, according to Linda Richardson, assistant DPW director. Last week she had a whole pick-up load full of materials that had been dropped off which cannot be recycled, such as antifreeze, gasoline, oil cans and paint. The township now must take them to a toxic waste site, which will cost money which was not budgeted.

"Things that people don't know what to do with they dump it on us," Richardson said. "There are recycling centers that are closing up because of this same thing. If it's not manned 24 hours a day, it fills up."

The recycling drop-off center has been open for three years, Richardson said. It allows residents to bring in tin cans, certain types of plastic (#2 only), used motor oil, dead batteries, newspapers, cardboard and glass for free. The township has contracts with Clarkston Disposal to take most of the items; Battery Solutions reclaims household and automotive batteries and Central Oil takes the used oil. Tires may also be recycled but there is a $2 charge per tire. It's a service which supplements the curbside recycling that is mandatory in the township. "It's a very good service and I would hate to see it closed because of a few people," Richardson said. The township also offers a spring cleanup each May, during which larger items of roadside and household trash are accepted. Beyond that, residents are referred to Eagle Valley Landfill in Orion Township.

There are also problems at the recycling center with incorrect separation of recyclables. If broken green glass, for example, is mixed in with brown glass, it means the whole 20-yard container load will not be recycled.

Recycling do's and don'ts

● Cardboard: Corrugated and flattened only. Brown paper bags may be dropped off with cardboard.

● Glass: Clear white, green or brown. Remove all labels and rinse containers clean.

● Cans: Tin or aluminum only, labels removed and cans rinsed clean.

● Plastic: Number 2 bottles only. No motor oil containers. Remove labels, rinse and flatten.

● Batteries: Household, car, marine, lawn, etc.

● Used motor oil: Do not mix with anything else, such as antifreeze. Do not leave the containers, which cannot be recycled.

A wide range of recyclables are accepted for free at the Independence Township drop-off center at 6050 Flemings Lake Rd, just east of Clarkston Rd. Hours are 8 a.m.-5 p.m., Monday-Friday and 8-noon Saturday.

You must be a township resident. Anyone requiring assistance should call 391-0306 in advance. Since not everything is recyclable, there are rules. And recycling means separation, so there are separate containers for each type of recyclable:

● Brush: must be small enough to be put through a shredder. Stop at the DPW office before dropping it off.

● Newspapers: Loose, dry newspapers are preferred—no shiny inserts or brown paper bags.

The Clarkston News

In Focus

by Annette Kingsbury

Toxic waste is here today, here tomorrow

Two stories about trash just happened to converge in this week's Clarkston News, and together they provide a valuable environmental lesson.

The folks in Springfield Township, after waiting for decades, have finally gotten the Environmental Protection Agency to start clean up of a toxic site. It was an emotional moment when the switch was thrown last week on a groundwater purifying system that will, hopefully, prevent residential wells from being contaminated with cancer-causing elements.

The land and water were contaminated by illegal dumping of drums of toxic waste belonging to, among others, Ford, Chrysler and GM. Back then, we didn't have the regulations we have now. According to local lore, back in the mid '60s an independent hauler paid the landowner $30 a month to dump on his property—no questions asked.

It was while I was working on that story that I got a call from Linda Richardson at Independence Township DPW. She was concerned because some people are abusing the township's free drop-off recycling center, and she hoped some publicity would help.

See, today we've come full circle. Dumping anything considered "toxic"—which includes paint, motor oil, batteries, etc.—has become so tightly regulated that you now must find a special dump site to get rid of such items. And you have to pay for the privilege.

Since the township has a drop-off site for recyclables and uses the honor system, people have been leaving all kinds of things. DPW now has a full pick-up truck full of stuff that has to be hauled to a toxic dump. Taxpayer dollars will pay for it, just as they are paying for the Springfield Township cleanup, until and unless the responsible parties can be made to pay.

The Springfield case is perhaps the extreme example of what can happen when people dump illegally. You'd think we'd know better by now, but it's still happening every day; just drive along any rural road and you'll see it. The Dennis and I recently looked at acreage in Brandon Township, and it was littered with old cars and everything else under the sun. It would have cost a huge sum to get rid of it all.

So it remains as litter, along roadsides, the shores of lakes—anywhere people feel they can dump for free and not get caught. The sad thing is that a pile of trash attracts more piles of trash, as if people think they're less guilty if they're not the first ones to dump.

The long-term extension of such thoughtlessness is a multi-million dollar cleanup, like the one in Springfield. Let it be a lesson to all of us.

We can pay for the proper disposal of toxics now, by taking them where they belong, or we can pay for it later in the form of tax dollars. Pour oil down the drain? You might as well pour dollars down too.

Do you have a story idea?

Give us a call at

Dear Editor:

Of all the "things" to do this summer, remember to vote YES for our upcoming Independence Township Library millage on August 2.

There will be two proposals on the ballot. The first will ask to continue the 0.7199 operating mills. The second will ask for the 0.0301 mills that the automatic Headlee override took away from what we the people authorized four years ago. (Now the law requires asking for these separately, even though one without the other won't work.)

Your YES vote is needed to fund 85 percent of our library's budget. Should we even need any discussion on the value of a library to a community? (Like many of you, I, too, wish we were expanding hours and services. Current law now dictates that we cannot even ask for that at this time.) So let's do what we can and vote YES on both proposals to at least keep our library open for us all!

Sincerely,

Sherry Regiani, Clarkston.

Concerned with development

Dear editor,

Our names are Richard and Joyce Kulig. We have lived in Orion Township on Morgan Lake for 17 years. We are writing this letter to express our concerns with the Morgan Lake Golf Classic Development. We are not opposed to the development, if it is done in cooperation with Rohr Rd. residents' approval. Listed below are some of our concerns:

- Keeping heavy construction equipment vehicles off Rohr Rd.

- We are opposed to the northerly proposed road off of Rohr Rd. because it will encourage short-cut taking to the clubhouse and golf course, bringing unwanted high traffic to Rohr Rd.

- We are opposed to the controversy surrounding a conflict of interest involving the chairperson on the Road Commission.

- Orion Township will be getting most of the traffic for an Independence Township project. We feel joint planning between the two townships is required.

- The development will have a negative impact on the lake and wetlands, also wells and septic systems with the use of 12-inch wells on the golf course as well as chemicals used on the golf greens

- Who better than the developer should be responsible for the clean-up of the lake? Who will benefit more than the developer?

Sincerely,

Richard and Joyce Kulig

Thanks helpers

Dear Editor:

A big thank you to Pastor Coursen and the members at First Baptist Church of Clarkston! These people prepared a wonderfully delicious chicken dinner for our homebound meals-on-wheels seniors on the July 4th holiday here in Independence. James Staley volunteered to deliver the meals to each of the seniors' doors.

These are the kinds of acts that bring our community closer together. Thank you, everyone.

Jim's Jottings

By Jim Sherman

Tom Kite's advice, or I'm playing alone

I learned golf at age 12 by caddying at Owosso Country Club. I've been in a summer golf league every year since 1952.

I've read the golf books. I read golf articles. I watch golf on TV. I stay up on new materials and manufacturers. I know the difference between bent grass, Fescue and poa annua (annual blue grass).

I know most of the rules of golf and even observe many of them. I know golfing terms, though some are not for family newspapers. And, I know none of the above helps my game one bit.

I know that because I just read an article where professional golfer Tom Kite is quoted as saying to play good golf you have to have total commitment.

He says, "Whether you're on the PGA Tour or trying to break 100, true commitment requires: concentration, composure, patience and persistence."

Then he elaborates. "Concentration: Stay focused, don't let your mind wander, waver or worry."

Oh, yeah! Right! The trying-to-break-100 guy or gal isn't to worry. This person is required by law and God to worry. All the time.

He, she, we have money, marital and ministerial problems that won't go away. It is also necessary that while standing over the ball we waver over our grip, our attire, our feet, our bets and our waggle.

"Composure: Make your emotions work for you - control potential negative thoughts."

You've arrived 2 minutes to tee time, at a strange course and there's water on the right, sand traps on the left, the green is 440 yards away and it's a par 4. Show me a golfer who doesn't have negative thoughts and I'll show you an idiot.

"Patience: Play one shot at a time - stick to your game plan through thick and thin."

Right, coach. Just like the other person, we put our pants on one leg at a time. Or, right, coach, but I was planning on hitting my 3-wood and 9-iron at the same time. That's my game plan. The group behind you have hit into you 3 times, but be patient.

"Persistence: Find a way to win instead of a reason to lose."

Easy for you to say. My playing partners are either laughing at my grip, talking while I'm swinging or moving when I'm putting. But, I should find a way to win.

I'll start with ear plugs and blinders. If that doesn't work I'll find new playing partners. Failing that I'll play a one-some. That's one sure way to improve my score without concern for concentration, composure, patience or persistence.

A look back

15 YEARS AGO (1979)

Teacher wage talks move slowly as negotiators for the Clarkston Community School District and its instructors only reach tentative agreement on one item — a calendar for the 1979-80 school year. This year's calendar has one major change—"For the first time in several years we will be starting after Labor Day," Conrad Bruce, chief negotiator for the school board said.

An Independence Township commuter parking lot will open at the southwest corner of I-75 and M-15 in July 1980. It is expected to provide 23-28 parking spaces.

Don't Rush Me

By Don Rush

Thomas takes the bull by the horns

I had become drunk with anger. I had become addicted to being a victim of oppression; and I was angry that whites controlled the fate of blacks. I was out of control with hostility. I was going to destroy either myself or someone else. Something had to change and change soon . . . I was angry for all oppression and injustice not mine personally.

Obviously, I, Don Rush, did not write those words. They're from United States Supreme Court Associate Justice, Clarence Thomas. He addressed the students of Hillsdale College, Hillsdale, Michigan. I was able to read his address because of the newsletter from that college, Imprimis (im-pry-miss).

His advice to students: education is the road to freedom and independence. He briefly went over his history, of his living with his grandparents, of going to and leaving the seminary. He wrote of his anger while in college and his subsequent turn in life, when he learned to "grow beyond one's present condition" versus "simply shoveling the responsibility on others."

This all made sense to me. Long ago a wise man once said, "The world does not owe you anything and it isn't fair. If you want something you have to work real hard for it."

In other words, nothing is for free so stop whining and get your butt in gear and study.

Of course, that was what Pops Rush told me long ago and reading Thomas' words again reminded me of them.

Here's what Thomas wrote about his grandparents:

"Suddenly, education was paramount. Because they did not have the benefit of education or freedom, my grandparents treasured them both. Freedom they felt would come, so we had to be prepared to take advantage of it . . . under no circumstances were we to miss a day of school. Thus, we were required to eat properly, get plenty of sleep and take regular doses of castor and cod liver oils to avoid any illnesses that could potentially lead to absences . . ."

About the 1960s, Thomas wrote, "Distractions flourished. There were world problems about which to complain; governmental policies to protest; college rules to challenge; and so much capitalist greed and corruption to condemn. We were without sin, so we could righteously cast stones as we saw fit -- with impunity."

He called himself a captive of the oppressive society--all those who disagreed were either racist or Uncle Toms. Education, however, was his salvation.

"Education most certainly gives us the means by which to earn a living, but it also provides the means to learn how to live."

Blaming others for one's self, "accomplishes no good and certainly leads to no growth. And it leads to the chain reaction of more anger on the part of the putative victims; resentment on the part of the alleged oppressor; suspicion on the part of both; and horror and incredulity on the part of those who watch this spectacle."

He ended his address hoping Americans would not focus "so passionately on the differences among us," but at the common culture we have. "We have a culture and a country that has borrowed much from other cultures, including those from which our respective ancestors came. I would celebrate and learn more about what we have in common as a starting point to understanding other cultures and to appreciating our differences."

Then he left students with these questions: "Am I prepared to think through my problems and assume my responsibilities as a citizen, or am I content to agitate? Do I know more about the culture in which I live and its underlying principles and philosophy, or am I content to cast stones at its imperfections? Am I prepared to lead if called upon, or am I content to complain and brawl?"

What are your answers?

If it Fitz

By Jim Fitzgerald

In a world of small talk, a defense for the silent

Along with a fine haircut, my new barber, Joan Parks of Lapeer, also gave me deja vu, which is not a cologne.

Joan also tends the heads of my wife, youngest daughter and various grandchildren and other relatives. During a hairy conversation with my wife, Joan politely mentioned in passing that when I'm in the barber's chair, I don't talk as much as the rest of my family. Subsequently, my wife relayed this comment to me in her usual fashion, which is to imply that I'm a rude boob.

That's when the deja vu went vu.

When I was a young boy, around 55 years ago, my barber was continually asking me what I learned in school that day. Because I spent most of my class time hiding behind larger students so the teacher couldn't see me and ask me to talk, I couldn't think of an intelligent answer. Besides, I didn't think the barber was really interested in my schooling.

So I limited my answers to one syllable, mumbled. Or sometimes I pretended I didn't hear him.

My father went to the same barber. One day they talked about me, and Dad came home to say: "The barber says you are a remarkable boy. He says he cut your hair three times before he realized you were a deaf mute."

My father was a garrulous man. He was forever giving after-dinner speeches and toastmastering various functions. If he were alive today, he would surely agree when my wife says my quiet demeanor could easily be mistaken for boobish rudeness.

Ever since that boyhood barbering, I've used magazines to defend myself against barbers, who usually won't interrupt your reading with conversation. In recent years, I've continued to put People or Life in my lap, even though the words are only a blur and I get agitated trying to see if I'm looking at a picture of Bill or Hillary Clinton. The worst thing about a haircut is you can't wear glasses hooked to your ears while getting one.

I'd use those fancy glasses that hook to your nose, or on the end of a stick, except people would ask my why and then I'd have to talk.

Some people are expert at small talk, and some aren't. To each his own. My wife couldn't possibly stand in a crowded elevator without speaking to the first stranger who didn't avoid her gaze. On the other hand, I stood in line for two years in the Army and never talked to the guy in front of me. I don't know if there was a guy behind me because I never turned around. I was afraid he might be a barber.

I think a man with nothing to say shouldn't say it. I think I'm doing a man a favor if I don't ask him if he's had enough rain. I think it's friendly not to disturb a man who is obviously thinking about something that puts a contented look on his face.

The man alone at the end of the bar is not necessarily a lonely soul who would love to hear why the Tigers won't win the pennant. He may be seeing splendid reflections of his childhood in his beer.

My wife says I'm "just not friendly." Measured by the most popular yardstick, maybe not. But there should be another measuring stick for the quiet types. After all, I'm willing to share great gobs of my silence with perfect strangers, free. Any stranger who says that isn't friendly, isn't perfect.

I don't tell the windy man to shut up. He shouldn't tell me to speak up. That's simple courtesy, isn't it? Nowhere is it etched in stone that it's a sin to enjoy silence. No law says a nightdream is more important than a daydream. No person should be awakened from either except for good reason.

Hotels supply "Do Not Disturb" signs. Maybe I could wear a sign saying yes, it's hot enough, or cold enough, for me.

Onward and Upward. But if it's anything important, just knock on my nose.

Township buys more land for fire station

BY LEE DRYDEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Independence Township board members have voted to purchase more land for the building of a new fire station after architects decided the original lot wasn't large enough.

The new complex, to be located on Citation Drive, will include a fire station, administrative offices, and a separate building for offices of sheriff's deputies.

Board members were forced to consider the second lot after architects decided it would be unwise to squeeze the project on the original lot only. The township purchased the second lot for $107,000.

"This is a very fair price," said Dale Stuart, township supervisor.

Approval of the purchase was important because the architects were put on hold until the issue was decided, according to Stuart. Ground breaking for the project is expected to begin early next year.

The township has also received a right of first refusal option on an adjacent lot if it is needed.

Township officials approved the purchase by a 4-0 vote with treasurer John Lutz and trustees Bruce Mercado and Daniel Travis absent.

In other township action:

● the board voted to approve Oakland County's revised solid waste plan.

According to a court-ordered deadline, the plan needs approval in 41 of 61 communities by July 31 or state officials can take over the county's plan. Sixteen communities, including Independence Township, have approved it so far, including the City of the Village of Clarkston, which approved it Monday night.

Under the revised plan, incinerators will no longer be used in Oakland County and studies will be conducted to see how the county will handle the garbage it will generate in years to come.

"The Solid Waste Planning Committee worked diligently over the last year and came up with a good plan that should be supported," said Stuart.

The board approved the revised plan by a 4-0 vote.

● Township board members also approved the purchase of three new defibrillators for the Independence Fire Department.

A defibrillator is a computerized device used to restart a heart in an emergency situation.

The machines that will be purchased were only used in demonstration at the World Cup soccer games at the Pontiac Silverdome. Yet, the township will receive a discount since they are not brand new.

Fire department officials have found buyers for the old machines and have deleted other items off of their original 1994 budget to allow sufficient funds for the new machines.

Stuart stressed that there was absolutely nothing wrong with the old equipment, but the fire department is taking the opportunity to buy more advanced equipment at a reasonable price.

"I am supporting this purchase because it is possible it will save lives," said Mel Vaara, trustee.

The township approved the purchase by a 4-0 vote.

Urges 'no' vote on Morgan Lake

Dear editor,

The issue concerning the Morgan Lake Golf Course soon will be acted upon by the Independence Township Board.

For the last two years, I have been attending regular meetings and public hearings concerning the Morgan Lake Golf Classic. This is a border project in Independence Township that will cause a traffic nightmare in Orion Township. Two new roads are proposed off Rohr Road, even though local residents of both Orion and Independence were assessed for the paving of Rohr Road three years ago. One of the new roads is a shortcut to the clubhouse and public golf course. Local residents are also concerned about alcohol consumption used at the clubhouse with drinking-impaired drivers on our roads.

Residents of both Independence and Orion Townships have grave concerns about this project. More than 75 residents directly impacted by this development attended a public meeting this year. The public hearing held last year also was well attended. Both township residents would like to see joint planning by Orion and Independence Township officials.

These concerns were reflected in a "no" vote last month for the development by the Independence Township Planning Commission, which did not see the need for a second entrance off Rohr Road. They also disliked the political aspects because the developer hired as a consultant Rudy Lozano, a former planning commissioner and township trustee and who is currently the chairperson of the Oakland County Road Commission. At a recent planning commission meeting, Mr. Lozano gave comments concerning the road commission's stance on the second road. If this is not a blatant conflict of interest then nothing is.

While the developers have blamed the planning commission for delays in the project the real truth is the delays have been caused by the developers themselves. They did not own all the necessary land, have been involved in a lawsuit by one of the land owners, and have not filed all the necessary reports on a timely basis. Basic requirements such as the narrative to the project have not been supplied on a timely basis to the planning commission.

Other major concerns by both Independence and Orion Township residents:

- The developer reneged on a promise made to Rohr Road residents at the planning commission public hearing last year concerning the location of the golf course.
 - The developer reneged on a promise made to Rohr Road residents at the planning commission public hearing this year concerning keeping heavy construction equipment vehicles off Rohr Road.
 - The environmental impact to wetlands, Morgan Lake, our wells and septic system. There will be chemicals used throughout the golf course, as well as 12-inch wells. How will all of this impact the area?
 - There is some concern about whose responsibility it is to clean up Morgan Lake -- the developer, neighbors, or both? There is no doubt that the developer is capitalizing on the lake by using it in its promotion -- the Morgan Lake Golf Classic.
- I urge the Independence Township board to investigate the conflict of interest by Rudy Lozano,

The Clarkston (MI) News Wed., July 13, 1994 9 A as well as to look seriously into the concerns of both Independence and Orion Township residents. Until all these issues are resolved, I urge the board to not vote in favor of the Morgan Lake Golf Classic.

What's new in business

● Harmony House expects to open a store in Independence Township in about two weeks.

Chuck Papke, vice president for operations, said the new store, located on Dixie Highway next to the Main Street Deli, will not be a full-size store "but it will have a good selection of music" as well as a Ticketmaster outlet.

Papke said the company is looking for four to five employees for the new store and will have a grand opening in a few weeks. He said Clarkston was chosen because "that area could use a record store. It's a beautiful area."

● OpaConey Island expects to open a new restaurant on M-15 near Dixie Highway in August. The company has a restaurant in Lake Orion, and manager Kevin Douglas said the menu will be similar in Clarkston, featuring Greek food, breakfasts and traditional coney island fare.

● A sign on the door of Hallman's Apothecary indicates the space is for lease. While the store owner won't comment, building owner Maggie McKinny confirmed that she is looking for a new tenant. Anyone interested should call 814-0890.

These natural areas are preserved forever

BY LEE DRYDEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

With the acquisition of three new properties, the Independence Land Conservancy has again assured that a piece of nature will be forever preserved.

The conservancy, which acquires land in the township in order to keep it permanently free from development, has now preserved almost 300 acres since 1972.

"With a conscious effort, we can retain the natural beauty of this area," said Tom Stone, president of the I.L.C.

The first new property, donated to the conservancy by Dr. John Ylvisaker, is located in the north part of the township in the Independence Valley Subdivision near Round Lake.

The Round Lake property is a little over one acre and was donated as a "scenic easement." In a scenic easement agreement, the owner may retain rights to the land, but the agreement with the conservancy means it can never be developed.

Located in the Heather Lakes subdivision off of Clarkston Road, the second property was acquired by the township for the conservancy. The lot was available after the taxes on it went unpaid.

The Heather Lakes property is nearly two acres and is unique in that it includes many stands of trees and then drops in elevation to flowers, bushes, and animal life.

Independence Land Conservancy President Tom Stone stands before a preserved site.

"It is really a lovely site," said Stone. The third and most recent acquisition is located at the corner of Maybee and Clintonville Roads. This property was granted to the conservancy as a result of a circuit court consent judgement.

With an area of over eight acres, the site is the largest of the three new properties. It borders against both I-75 and a planned trailer park and will act as a buffer between the park and existing homes on Clintonville Road.

Gaining these new properties is a further example of the success of the conservancy and its potential for continued growth, according to Stone.

"We're definitely headed in the right direction. If you love the outdoors, it's hard not to get excited about what the conservancy is accomplishing," he said.

The Independence Land Conservancy is continuing to grow and is always seeking new members. Volunteers are needed for many different tasks.

"We can never have too many volunteers," said Tom Stone, president.

Volunteers are needed to: inspect existing properties on a periodic basis, help with the conservancy newsletter, contact local landowners to discuss future sites, and much more.

The conservancy is always seeking possible sites for future preservation, as well. They have received help attaining sites from the township, law firms, developers, and private citizens.

"It takes a great deal of cooperation for the conservancy to work. Without all of the outside help we have received, our success wouldn't have been possible," said Stone.

The conservancy was the first of its kind in Michigan and one of the first in the country. It currently has about 75 members.

A one year family membership to the Independence Land Conservancy costs $5 a year although donations are accepted. It is a non-profit organization. Contact Tom Stone at 625-8193 for further information.

Council seeks asset settlement

A $270,000 I.O.U. from Independence Township has been whittled away with about $9,000 left to wash out an asset settlement between the City of Clarkston and the township, Councilman William Basinger said. Most of the money was used up for fire and library services and for some payments on the White Lake Road safety path.

"According to Bill (Basinger), we owe them some money for the safety path," City Manager Art Pappas said. "Bill wants them to take off the next two annual payments for the cost of the safety path." Then the settlement should be a wash, Pappas said. Council is waiting for a confirmation letter from the township saying they will accept the city's terms.

The Clarkston News

One of Clarkston's best kept secrets

BY LEE DRYDEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Thinking about taking a summer trip to Sea World to see one of those water skiing exhibitions? That isn't necessary since one of the top water-skiing show teams in the state performs here in Clarkston.

The Spray Masters Water Ski Club and Show Team has been in existence for six years and now includes almost 50 members, 31 of which are skiers. The group includes many families with skiers ranging in age from nine to adult.

"Spray Masters is definitely a family-oriented club," said Bob Dowling, founder of the group.

The club is based on Big Lake in Clarkston where it performs for the public every Thursday night at 7 p.m. Every weekly show is choreographed and in full costume.

"The weekly shows are of the same caliber of a show you would see at Cypress Gardens or Sea World," said Dowling.

Spray Masters was formed six years ago by Dowling and current club president Skip Wendt. In the beginning, the club was just a small group of water skiers getting together for recreation.

"It's remarkable the way it has grown. What started out as just an idea has grown into a full-blown show club," said Dowling.

Although the Spray Masters will take skiers of all abilities and ages, some members have been involved in serious competition.

The club took third place overall at the Michigan State Invitational and Show Ski tournament in Kalamazoo last summer and will be competing again this year during the last week of July.

During the competition, the team is allowed one hour to perform a routine and impress the judges the best it can. Everything from skiing to music to costumes is considered.

"We try to get in as much actual skiing as possible during the hour," said Judy Hogaboam, public relations director for the Spray Masters.

The Spray Masters also put on shows intended strictly for audience enjoyment. On July 28, they will perform "Holi-Daze", a show with a theme of Santa Claus taking a summer vacation to the Caribbean.

"Holi-Daze" was written by club members Al and Cathy Haller who also picked out the music. The show will include glittering costumes and many different skiing maneuvers.

"It is a very well-written show. I am urging the authors to make the story into a children's book," said Dowling.

There are many roles in the Spray Masters other than skiing. People are needed to make costumes, drive the boats, play the music, and promote the club to the public.

"It is really a group effort," said Hogaboam.

The future's looking bright for Bundridge

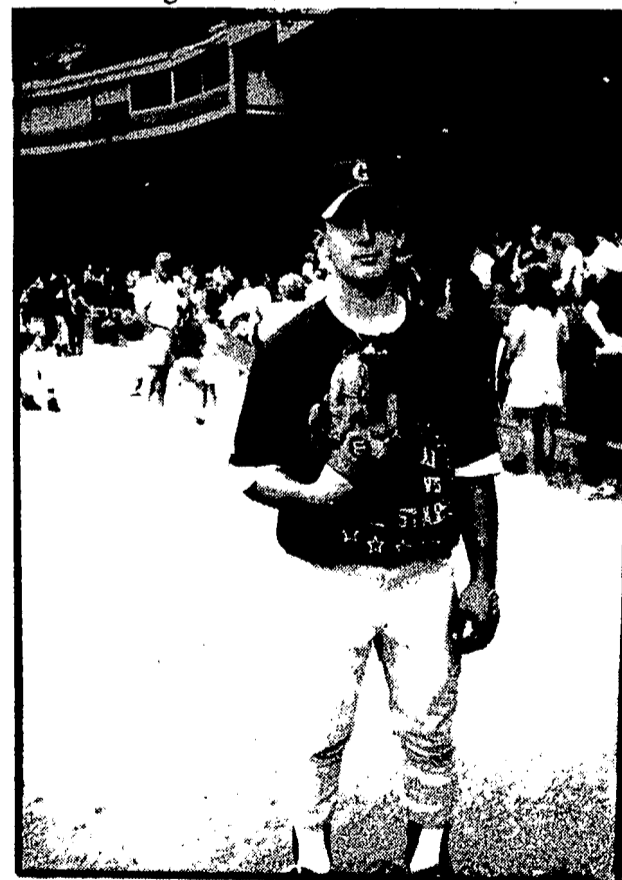

BY LEE DRYDEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

One might think that with the high school sports season over, athletes would take time to relax. That is not the case for one Clarkston athlete who happened to be one of the state's top baseball players this season.

Brent Bundridge, a 1994 graduate of Clarkston High, was the MVP of the varsity team this season and has received several baseball scholarship offers, though he has not made a decision yet.

"I'm leaning toward Northwood University, but I have also received offers from some schools in North Carolina. It's a tough decision," said Bundridge.

Bundridge has until the August 1 signing deadline. See BASEBALL, page 13A

Two sports collide--the result is roller hockey

BY LEE DRYDEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Everyone has noticed the recent popularity of Rollerblades for both adults and children. Yet, everyone may not be aware of the latest trend resulting from rollerblading: roller hockey.

Roller hockey sessions are held every Wednesday night at the Rolladium in Waterford. There are both beginner and intermediate sessions and all ages are welcome.

Bob and Irene Coryell are certified Rollerblade instructors who serve as coaches for the roller hockey sessions which have been running for over a year now.

"We really enjoy it. It's fun watching the kids have such a great time," said Irene.

The program began when last June when Burt Anselmi, the owner of Rolladium, wanted to get involved in the new sport. He asked the Coryells to run the program.

Since then over 100 kids and adults have participated. While the summer program is less organized and more geared toward recreation, there are actual leagues that run from Sept. to May at the arena.

"The adult leagues are especially exciting. The games are fast-paced and very competitive," said Irene.

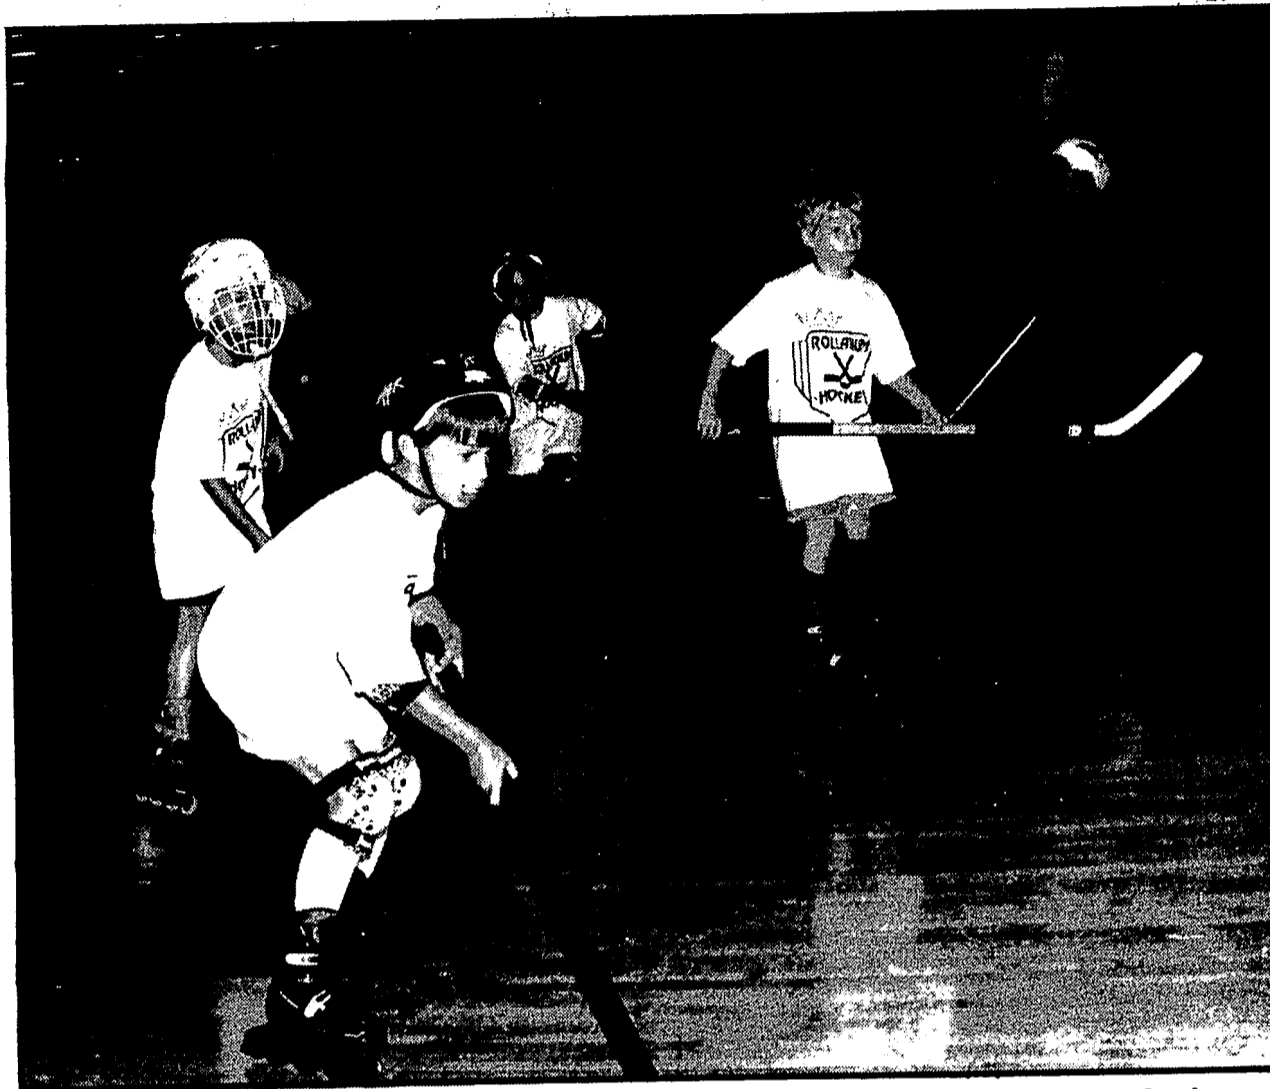

There are some differences in rules from the ice hockey fans are used to watching. The players use what is called a junior olympic stick which is shorter than a hockey stick. There is no checking, hooking, or sticks above the waist.

"It's a pretty clean game. We haven't had any players hurt," said Irene.

The players at the Rolladium use both balls and pucks and are required to wear helmets. While most players wear Rollerblades, some do wear traditional roller skates.

While roller hockey is just getting started in this area, it is much more popular in other states.

"There are many more organized teams and leagues in other parts of the country. Roller hockey isn't played much in Michigan, but it's growing," said Bob.

Youngsters enjoyed a game of roller hockey last week at the Rolladium in Waterford.

While there are roller hockey players of all ages at the Rolladium, the program is geared toward young children being able to skate in a safe environment.

"It's much safer to play in here than out in the street. We encourage children as young as three to come out and play. The little ones are so precious and they have such a good time," said Irene.

The sessions are every Wednesday night during the summer, with beginners playing from 4:30-5:30 and the intermediates running from 5:30-7:00. The cost is $7.50 per week with a beginning $30 registration fee.

The future's looking bright for Bundridge line to make his final decision. "I'll be happy and relieved when the decision is made and over with," he said.

To keep busy during the summer, Bundridge is playing for the Chief Pontiac American Legion team, which follows a rigorous schedule with games virtually every day.

Over July 4 weekend, Bundridge traveled with the squad to North Carolina for a tournament. There, he faced the pressure of playing in front of many college coaches and scouts taking a close look at him.

"It was difficult to play with the scouts watching me. They tend to scout players at American Legion games rather than high school games so I wasn't used to having them there," he said.

After successful seasons on the varsity his sophomore and junior years, Bundridge saved his best performance of all for his senior season.

"I was nervous at the start of the year because everyone expected me to play well. But, as the season went on I was more comfortable," said Bundridge.

Bundridge led the Wolves with a .449 average. He had 22 RBIs, 27 runs scored, 13 stolen bases, and struck out only three times all season.

The list of post-season honors in long and impressive. Bundridge was named to the all-GOAL, all-district, all-county, and all-region first teams. The senior outfielder was also named honorable mention all-state.

After the season, Bundridge was selected to play in the East-West All-Star Game at Tiger Stadium. The top 36 seniors in the state are selected to play. Bundridge went one for one and was a member of the winning East squad.

"It was really a neat experience to play at Tiger Stadium. It was an honor just to be selected," he said.

Bundridge credits his success in baseball to the influence of his father, John, and his 12 years of playing experience since playing tee-ball at age four.

"My father has been a big influence on me. He has pretty much been my personal coach," he said.

Bundridge's most memorable moments in baseball include winning the district as a sophomore on the varsity in 1992 and hitting his first career home run, a grand slam which won an American Legion game this summer.

Although he is excited about continuing his baseball career, Bundridge claims he will miss high school sports where he played varsity baseball, football, and basketball.

"It was sad to see my high school career end. It went by so quick," he said.

In Bundridge's three years of varsity baseball, he played for coach Roy Warner, which he describes as a great experience.

"I never had a problem with him. He is a great coach who always knew how to communicate with me."

With all of the honors and recognition Bundridge received during his senior season, it might be expected that he would get rather arrogant. That isn't the case, according to someone who knows him well.

"Brent always had confidence in himself, but he didn't change much. We are all really proud of him," said Jenny Walters, Bundridge's girlfriend, who has collected numerous clippings and articles from his career.

Although Bundridge has many goals for the future, he has no intention of forgetting his roots here in Clarkston.

"It is a dream of mine to be a major league baseball player, but I would be happy just being successful. I would like to give back something to Clarkston, whether it is as a coach, a teacher, or something else. I know I'll come back, somehow, some way," he said.

Cleanup begins at Springfield dump

In 1979 a toxic emergency was declared in Springfield Township. On July 5, 1994, cleanup began

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

It took over 25 years, countless meetings and a turf battle between state and federal agencies, but on July 5 treatment of contaminated groundwater began at an old dump in Springfield Township.

As U.S. Rep. Dale Kildee (D., Flint), state Rep. Tom Middleton (R., Ortonville) and county commissioner Ruth Johnson looked on, township supervisor Colin Walls choked up as he reflected back on the long battle to clean up the site before it could pollute residential wells.

"Although the faces have changed, the community's attitude and philosophy never have," he said. They wanted the site cleaned up to first-class conditions, and though it isn't done yet it appears that will happen.

Christopher Moore, who lives near the dump site and started a group called Springfield Site Action Committee, said, "The turning on of the switch signifies the cooperation of many groups."

"We've been living with this for so many years," said township clerk Nancy Strole. "It's been like riding a roller coaster. It's a moment we've waited for for such a long time."

The groundwater treatment plant is really only one phase of the total cleanup of the site. Contaminated soil must still be remedied. The Environmental Protection Agency has suggested incineration, but a plan to truck it to Rose Township to a mobile incinerator already operating there was vetoed by the residents of Rose. Now the township is pursuing alternative, high-tech possibilities, since the Springfield site is considered unsuitable for its own incinerator.

The site, located off Woodland Trail in the southern part of the township, was contaminated back in the mid-1960s when an independent hauler paid the landowner for permission to dump barrels on his property. The barrels are now known to have come from some industrial giants, including Ford, GM, Chrysler, TRW and Uniroyal, now known collectively as the PRPs—potentially responsible parties.

'We must make sure sites like these don't form any more. Industry must be encouraged to dispose of their waste in the proper way.'

U.S. Rep. Dale Kildee

The soil and water are contaminated with a laundry list of toxic chemicals—arsenic, lead, pesticides, PCB—even DDT, which has been banned since 1972.

After the dump site was discovered by health officials in 1968, the state appropriated money to remove 1,500 barrels and dispose of them properly. Some contaminated soil was removed and the area was fenced to keep out intruders, but more tainted soil was left behind and the pollution eventually reached the groundwater.

"No remediation has taken place since then," Strole said. "A lot has gone on . . . but until (July 5), nothing else had gone on as far as cleanup."

In 1983, the site was placed on the National Priorities List for cleanup under the federal Superfund. The state Department of Natural Resources was named the lead agency until 1988, when the EPA took over.

The EPA's proposal for cleanup included incineration of the contaminated soil, followed by vacuum extraction of the remaining volatile organic compounds. Carbon adsorption would be used to clean the water.

The current water monitoring phase of the cleanup is expected to take about five years, Strole said. If alternative technologies can be used to clean the soil, she's hopeful the whole thing can be wrapped up within that time.

"I would certainly hope we have the soil remediation under way before we complete the water project," she said. Also yet to be accomplished is a leach test to see if contaminants in the soil will leach into the water.

Considering how long the whole process has taken, Strole displayed remarkable equanimity.

"Hopefully it's a new beginning," she said. "This isn't the end but it's the start of what we hope is the final chapter to this story."

Police millage will have two questions

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

When the Hopkins house in Independence Township was broken into earlier this year, "It was very traumatic what happened to us," Karin Hopkins said.

But Oakland County Sheriff's deputies helped them cope as they catalogued their losses and contacted their insurance company. "They were thorough and caring. They reassured us that we were doing the right thing."

And then, when the thieves were apprehended and the family's belongings recovered, the deputies helped them load two cars full of belongings—a van and a station wagon—and take it all back home.

"It was covered with fingerprint dust," Hopkins said. "They helped us wipe it off and put it in the car." The department continues to stay in touch with the family so they'll be prepared when the two alleged thieves come to trial.

"I appreciate the people we have protecting us at this time and I don't want to lose them," Hopkins said.

That level of service will be on the line when voters in Independence Township go to the polls August 2 to decide whether to increase the millage now being spent for police protection.

Three years ago, voters approved 2.5 mills for police protection, which has been rolled back to 2.3032 mills this year due to the Headlee Amendment to the Michigan Constitution. That millage is now expiring.

The ballot will have two questions; first, to renew 2.3032 mills for four years; second, to increase taxes .4468 for the next four years to continue the present level of staffing.

Last year the police fund went into a deficit when the township board voted 5-2 not to cut back the level of staffing though faced with a shortfall. Supervisor Dale Stuart was in favor of making the cuts, only because of the financial situation.

"We have a millage for police services. I believe the township has to know how and has to learn how to live within that budget," he said. He doesn't feel the township can afford to subsidize the police millage out of the general fund either.

"I think we have adequate coverage. I think we need the coverage we have. I think it has to be up to the people . . . There's one thing they have to understand. We can't maintain the level of coverage if both questions don't pass."

Though he feels the county is "gouging" the municipalities which contract for services, Stuart said, "The sheriff's department does a very good job for us. It is the most economical way to provide services . . . It would probably cost us one-half more to create our own police force."

The current two-year contract with the sheriff's department runs through 1995 and calls for a five-percent cost increase next year. That costs the township about $1.5 million, Stuart said. The increase will raise $286,383 more.

The Independence Township substation, located on M-15 just off Dixie, is currently staffed with 18 officers, including a lieutenant, two sergeants, two detectives and 14 patrolmen.

"I would not want to see it go below what it is," said Lt. Doug Hummel, the officer in charge. "Then we wouldn't be able to keep up this level of service."

Sgt. Joe Duke said the majority of incidents reported in Independence are crimes of property and fraud.

"We try and make sure there is a complete and thorough investigation," he said. "Just because it's not crimes of violence, if your home is broken into, that's important to you."

The staff also cites the extra burden of servicing I-75 (an average of five calls per shift) and the area surrounding Pine Knob Music Theater. Although Pine Knob pays for its own security on the grounds and immediately outside, the Independence substation is responsible for everything beyond the immediate area.

The substation's minimum staffing is two deputies at any time, Hummel said, and could be as high as four per shift. Because the township chose a "no fill" contract, when someone goes on vacation they are not replaced by the department. There is also a full-time clerical person to handle public requests for information, such as copies of police reports. Independence is one of only two substations with that service, Hummel said.

The township's population is growing rapidly, and while that places additional burdens on the police it also should help generate tax growth in the future.

"The township averages 300 new single family residential houses per year," Duke said. "We think the 2.75 (mills) is adequate to maintain the existing level of service at this point."

In order for the increase to be approved, the renewal must also be approved. Without the renewal, there's no budget for police protection.

For a property with a state equalized value of $40,000 (market value $100,000) a 'yes' vote on both police proposals will cost 34 cents per day, up from the current 31.5 cents per day. A mill is one dollar for every $1,000 in SEV. That cost is considerably less than most people pay for cable TV or garbage collection as Duke, an Independence Township resident, pointed out.

"I think we provide a high level of service and I don't want to see that change," he said.

here without insurance."

A company spokesman refused to comment on the strike.

Earl Walker, a negotiator for the local, said Teamsters struck Clawson Tank three years ago for three week when the last contract ran out. He said changes in work rules contributed to the strike, which occurred after an offer by the company was rejected by employees.

"They have insisted on harsher attendance and work rules," Walker said. "It isn't only the money, it's the work atmosphere."

Walker said the employees objected to being asked to pay for health-insurance increases when they had no part in deciding who the insurance carrier would be. Their overtime compensation will also be reduced in a system whereby they would be given a bonus, not an hourly raise, and not receive automatic overtime pay for weekend work.

"There's much more involved than just health care," Walker said. "It (insurance) is a scary thing but most people will try to live with that rather than lose

Walker said he is "not particularly optimistic or pessimistic" about achieving a settlement, now that two company offers have been turned down.

"I don't happen to think we're worlds apart," he said. "Employees don't like to strike; they want the money, they want to keep going . . ."

"I said, 'I'm available if you have any desire to talk about it.' They (Clawson) said, 'We'll get back to you.'"

New police car in sight

Clarkston Councilman Steve Arkwright says the city is in the process of negotiating for a new police vehicle. Arkwright says the city is making several bids on cars through area dealerships as well as checking out a Lansing Chevrolet dealer which supplies the state with police cars. "We will look for the best deal," Arkwright said, adding that the police can expect their new vehicle within a month.

"We're ready to battle. We feel we have the right. We paid for this property and we have the right to do it," he said.

Sue Basinger feels the problem came with the original site agreement and the developer's not taking care of the purchased building. Several phone calls made to Ron Zilka, president of Vintage Construction, have not been returned.

"The developer should have repaired it. Somebody goofed someplace — there's no doubt about it.

Inner-Seal lap siding resists splitting, warping, and waving. And it's made from small-diameter, fast-growing trees, not old-growth. Bankers hours aren't the same any more

It's not your father's Oldsmobile, and Mike Macklem is not your 'typical stuffy banker.'

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

The scenario is a common one:

You get out of work a little late on Friday night. Traffic is bad and you're watching the clock, hoping to make it to the bank before it closes. If you don't get to the bank on time, you don't have cash for the grocery store, the cleaners, the druggist, Friday night entertainment—all the stops you planned to make to start the all-important weekend.

Well, for customers of Kroger and Food Town in Independence Township, that's not a problem any more. Both stores now have bank branches located inside. They're open every day—even holidays—and into the evening, with fully trained staff to cover any banking need.

Supermarket banking is part of a rapidly growing trend of taking the bank to the customer, even if he or she is in the frozen food aisle. According to American Banker magazine, the number of supermarket bank branches grew last year by 26 percent to over 2,000 in the U.S., continuing a four-year trend of 25 percent or better growth. In Michigan, the industry expects to have 32 in-store branches by the end of the year.

'Any day the supermarket is open, we're open.'

Mike Macklem

Kroger already has 18 Comerica Bank branches inside its stores. But for State Bank of Fenton and Food Town, the new marriage inside the Sashabaw Rd. store was brokered by The Chamberlain Group, a consultant whose president is Stan Fedewa, a former executive director of the Office of the Commissioner of the Michigan Financial Institutions Bureau.

"The bank wanted to get into northern Oakland County," he said. "This is more efficient than buying land and building from scratch. But you can't go into every supermarket. It's got to be a large, modern one that attracts a lot of customers. (Food Town owner) Ed Adler's fit that."

"In the last 10 years there hasn't been a supermarket in California opened without a bank in it," said Adler from his office in downtown Clarkston. "The main reason is for the convenience of the customer." He's also put a bank branch in his brand-new store in Auburn Hills.

To make the transition at his Sashabaw Rd. store, Adler took out his liquor counter and made that item self-service. Now customers can cash a check, then reach out and pick up a carton of cigarettes on the way to the checkout.

Mike Macklem and Beth Alspaugh help staff the new State Bank of Fenton office inside the Clarkston Food Town supermarket. The office is open every day the grocery store is open.

"They do pay us some rent but not very much; it's about 10 percent of the electric bill," he said. "There's a lot of banks in Clarkston, but the people at the State Bank of Fenton feel it's been very successful."

"The banking industry is getting hip," Fedewa said. "The key for the bank is the lifestyle changes. We're trying to get in synch with them, change with them."

Besides being cheaper to start up than a conventional branch, supermarket branches see a lot of foot traffic (10,000-25,000 per week), "most of whom are not their customers now, and they get a shot at them," Fedewa said. "You compare that to a conventional bank; it's an appealing concept."

According to the Wall Street Journal, traditional banks had reached a quandary. Their customers were increasingly older. They didn't borrow money, and banks don't make much on checking and savings accounts. The popularity of ATM machines and drive-through windows meant more and more people were bypassing bank lobbies altogether, thus not being exposed to the variety of banking products.

One bank which has been in supermarkets for 10 years has seen its earnings rise over 18 percent during that time, faster than any other U.S. bank. And the in-store branch costs about $200,000 to start up, compared with about $1 million for a stand-alone bank, according to Michigan Banker.

'The banking industry is getting hip. The key for the bank is the lifestyle changes.'

Consultant Stan Fedewa

The Food Town/SBF venture has been written up in Michigan Banker, which stated in a May article that the bank is opening at least one new account per day in its 384 square-foot office. The article said Food Town generates about 15,000 customers per week.

Mike Macklem, community office manager at the Sashabaw Rd. branch, said he doesn't mind being asked where the hot dogs are if it generates more customers.

"People seem really taken with the hours," he said. "We were open Memorial Day; any day the supermarket is open we're open."

Macklem said the staff at the branch is cross-trained, so anyone can cash a check or take a loan application, for example. "Usually in your classic branches you have a teller, a loan arranger—everyone has a different department. Here everyone has the potential to do all that."

A new marketing graduate of Central Michigan University, Macklem said SBF went outside its existing banking staff for the new branches.

"They were looking for people more sales-oriented because they knew we were coming into a new market," he said. "They wanted to make a salesperson into a banker, rather than a banker into a salesperson."

One of the first sales promotions SBF conducted at Food Town was a giveaway of Barbara Streisand tickets. "We try to get out into the aisles," Macklem said. "It wasn't high-pressure sales; it was just let us introduce ourselves." They also use the store's public address system to make announcements, such as giving rates on CD's or mentioning hours.

The branch is open 10 a.m.-8 p.m., Monday through Friday, 9-6 on Saturday and 9-3 on Sunday. "If you want to close a loan on Sunday you can come right here," Macklem said. "It's not intimidating; I'm not your typical stuffy banker, the stereotype."

Indescribable--that's 'Earth and the 21st'

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

"Earth and the 21st" is the enigmatic name of this week's featured performer at Clarkston's Concerts in the Park.

The name was created, according to singer Reggie Harrison, in conjunction with the Sierra Club's celebration of its 100th anniversary back in 1992. At that time the band performed a concert at Meadow Brook and put together a CD called "100 Years of Hope." The name just seemed to fit.

Harrison tried to describe the sound, calling it "contemporary folk, folk jazz . . . It's really tough to categorize," she finally admitted. The band's press release calls it "American music."

The band's members come from a wide variety of musical backgrounds, including classical, jazz, Brazilian and African. Harrison's brother Guy Sferlazza, the band's leader and guitar player, is perhaps more well-known for a children's program he performs under the name "The Chautauqua Express." As a soloist he's performed that show over 2,000 times. "It's totally different but somehow it all blends," Harrison said. "It's an interesting group because everybody is so different."

Concerts in the park

Band members include a doctor and a lawyer, a classically trained harpist, keyboards, saxophone and guitars. Some play in other bands; Sferlazza is on the road several days a week with The Chautauqua Express.

"It's a bunch of real busy people," Harrison said. "It's been a while since we've done a performance. I decided to get the band back together for a summer tour. We just kind of missed playing."

If that all doesn't sound intriguing enough, Harrison said there is one added dimension to the concert: A painter will create an original work during the performance.

Sherry Shulz of Davisburg originally got together with the group because of a song on their CD called "The Painter" and "she has been with us ever since," Harrison said. "You never know what she's going to paint."

Concerts in the Park are held at Depot Park in downtown Clarkston Fridays at 7 p.m. The events are free and sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

Honors

● Kathy Jackman, a sophomore at Oakland University this fall, was named to the academic honors list for the 1994 winter semester. A student must have a 3.6 or better grade point average to qualify. She was also named to the national dean's list. Only one half of 1 percent of the nation's college students qualify for this honor. She will be included in the annual directory. REAL ESTATE UPDATE

REPORTING INTEREST INCOME

ALL INTEREST PAID or received on a mortgage loan must be reported to the IRS.

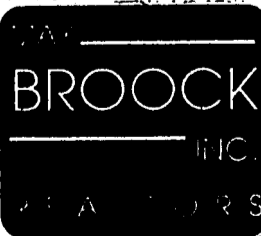

Ron Rodda
Sales Manager

Should I go into Real Estate?
"ASK RON"

QUESTION: I sold my home and helped the buyer finance it by giving him a second mortgage. The monthly payments include both principal and interest. How does this effect my income for tax purposes?

ANSWER: The repayment of principal is not income, it is the return of money loaned. However, the interest portion of the payment check IS income and must be reported as taxable income.

How does the IRS find out if you earn interest? Simple! In order to get a tax deduction, borrowers must report interest paid on all loans and identify individuals (home sellers as well as banks) who give mortgage assistance.

Swinging for scholarships

Barb Fisher announces the winners and committee members look on as the Inde-Spring Charter Chapter of American Business Women's Association holds its first "Swing for Scholarships" golf outing. The event was June 12 at Goodrich Country Club and supported the club's education fund, which has given out $100,000 since it was founded in 1979. Sixty-eight participants vied for a boat, motor and trailer or the use of a car for a year in a hole-in-one contest.

Whether it's a fire or a prestigious award, we want to hear about it. Just give us a call at The Clarkston News. 625-3370

We are not a Jack-of-all-trades. We can not guarantee you the absolute lowest price, as we will not sacrifice the quality products or workmanship that you deserve. But what we will guarantee is an honest and fair price with products and workmanship of the highest quality. We also do our own work. We don't get your job and sub-contract it out, or sell it. So if you are only looking for the cheapest way out, call someone else who claims they can beat any price. If you are looking for an honest and fair price, quality products and workmanship, dependability, and someone that will still be here after your job is completed, give us a call. Helping you make your home the one you've

Band students need summer work

For the second year in a row, students in the Clarkston High School marching band are looking for work.

Band booster Janet Colbrunn said last year, in anticipation of a trip to London, band members offered their labor to the community as a way of raising money. The program was so successful they've decided to bring it back this year.

"Some people in the community were so thrilled there was a program like that," Colbrunn said. She takes calls from people needing work done, such as yard and housework (last year they even painted a house), then tries to match the job with students. It's up to the students to negotiate a price and get to and from the job. Students work in pairs.

"For kids under 16 there are no jobs," Colbrunn said. About 30 students participated last year, and each team averaged two jobs. One of those jobs led to an outright gift to the band for the London trip.

This year, students are saving for band camp at Grand Valley State University ($125 per person) plus a trip in the spring which as yet is undecided.

"We have a lot of different programs, some benefit the whole band," Colbrunn said. The summer work program benefits the individual students who do the work.

To hire a pair of band students for a minimum of two hours work, call Colbrunn at 625-6153.

The Jimmy Buffet experience

Parrot Heads are a family affair for these Clarkston fans

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

You might say Clarkston resident and self-confessed Parrot Head Dave Compagnoni is in a tropical state of mind all year.

He owns about 25 Jimmy Buffet T-shirts and that many CDs, strings tiki-bird lights on his Christmas tree and across his van on camping trips and devours "The Coconut Telegraph," a J.B. newsletter, every two months.

He and his wife Teresa have been to every Jimmy Buffet concert since 1974 at either Pine Knob or The Palace. One year they did three shows on consecutive nights and took their children, 7-year-old Angela and 6-year-old Stephanie, who liked the experience but found the music "too loud."

"We got two generations going here," Dave said. "We go and we're crazy. But we work 10-12 hours and it's a good way to forget everyday time for awhile."

Knob notes

Dave not only drags his wife to the concerts, but his sister, Tina Cooley and married friends, Pete and Deanna and Matt and Debbi, among others. Dorothy Scully, another pal, often accompanies the happy group who like to party in true tropic style before they go to the Knob.

"We usually have 8-10 people over at Dave's. He shakes up the Margaritas and we pick up Mexican or finger foods," Scully said.

"And we have beer and pina coladas. We keep saying we should have a cheeseburger party (patterned after one of Buffet's hits, "Cheeseburger in Paradise"), Cooley said.

After some guitar-playing and singing of various Buffet tunes, it's on to the Pine Knob parking lot where the Compagnonis and friends can mingle with other Parrot Heads in tailgate-party revelry.

"We're usually the last ones to leave the parking lot (after a concert)," Scully admitted.

She describes the gaudy atmosphere of a concert and the music itself, whose colorful island beat can, she says, get you hooked.

The biggest Fruitcake of all

People may be scratching their heads, wondering why Jimmy Buffet is so popular year after year.

To be sure, none of those craniums are Parrot Heads, the name given to followers of the tropical rocker who's done 20 albums in 20 years.

These fans have taken their idol even farther than cult status, making him into something of an experience.

Take an experimental college in Gambier, Ohio, for example, that offers a course in "Margaritaville" or "How to be a Parrot Head," teaching students about Buffet's music and the state of mind of his fans.

Buffet swears he had nothing to do with the creation of his own phenomenon.

"I've never really instructed them in anything, other than giving them lyrics. Parrot Heads are very creative in their dress codes. They have taken it to the absolute limit of tastelessness," he says.

Parrot Heads, like Dead Heads, followers of the everlasting rock band The Grateful Dead, are full-fledged fans who sometimes traverse the country attending several concerts in different locations. You can identify a Buffet concert without even knowing there is one by observing Parrot Head rituals — tailgate parties, wild tropical shirts, shark outfits and lobster hats, beachballs, barbecues, burgers and beer — and, of course, Margaritas.

Buffet, who started by playing coffee houses in the early '70s, is 47 now and shows no signs of slowing down. His latest album, "Fruitcakes," is the fourth on his Margaritaville Record label and features remakes of the Kinks' "Sunny Afternoon," Patsy Cline's "She's Got You," and The Grateful Dead's "Uncle John's Band" as well as classic Buffet with its steel-drummed

Jimmy Buffet

Latin tempos.

He takes the stage with his Coral Reefer Band on Tuesday, July 19 and Wednesday, July 20, at 8 p.m. in evenings that will be, as ever, annual rites for many. Both shows are sold out.

"I'm from (New) Jersey where it's warmer weather. I grew up with Calypso music.

"It has soul, it has a heartbeat. And on the hottest days, what else can you do but kick back?"

Scully feels that singer Harry Belafonte also had a lot to do with her evolution into an island-music lover.

"He and Jimmy always urge you to find your island in the sun. They're peaceful and fun-loving," she said.

Dave is so into the Parrot-Head thing that he and his wife have decided to redo their entire basement with a Margaritaville theme. They're painting the walls pastel shades, putting in a wet bar (for beer, pina coladas and Margaritas, what else?), hanging parrots and flamingos from the ceiling — and even having a special mirror made to hang over the bar that features engraved palm trees and a lizard wearing mirrored sunglasses.

"Every time I see something with a lizard, we make sure we have it for his basement," Scully said.

Though Dave, Teresa and the kids won't be around for this year's Buffet concerts because of a family trip (to a Michigan park they've nicknamed "Daytona II" because of its white sand — Dave says it's a Florida-like replacement for Jimmy this year) Scully knows the basement will be the future scene of many happy Parrot Head parties. The little circle of fans will be as eager as ever next summer to continue their Margaritaville mania.

"It's Caribbean soul we can barely control," Scully quipped.
