O'Neill wins Library millages pass; police increase vetoed

Megan O'Neill will get a second chance to go up against Congressman Dale Kildee in November.

O'Neill beat Republican challenger and fellow Clarkston resident Kerry Kammer solidly Tuesday in Oakland, Lapeer and Genesee counties for the nomination for the 9th Congressional District.

Reached Tuesday night, O'Neill said it will be a lot easier the second time around.

"There were a lot of factors in the last election. Having the president at the top of the ticket was a factor in my race. I had to prove myself the first time."

Kammer could not be reached for comment, but O'Neill said she believed the true conservatives in the district may have been troubled by Kammer's party switch. Kammer formerly served in the state legislature as a Democrat.

"I think you get more real conservatives in a primary," O'Neill said. "In the northern part of the district they're concerned about the party switching. They had that with Riegler."

O'Neill said her campaign is still picking up supporters and will be stronger than last time in the general election campaign.

"We really had a grass-roots campaign. When I was in Rochester today five people gave me their cards and said they want to work for me. One lady gave me a check . . . It's easier the second time around."

Playground officially open

A RIBBON-CUTTING CEREMONY officially opened the Depot Park playground Saturday during a volunteer appreciation reception. Here, Clarkston City Clerk and playground committee chair Jeanne Selander Miller is flanked by several area children. Volunteer Mary Beth Warner said the playground project "brought the kid out in all of us."

Treasurer defends investments

Michigan Township Association says one type is illegal, but Lutz says board gave him power

BY LEE DRYDEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Independence Township finances are in good shape and residents shouldn't be concerned about the current questions surrounding some township investments, according to treasurer John Lutz.

However, board members are concerned enough about the issue that it will be addressed at tonight's meeting of the board of trustees. And the township's attorney has asked the board to find someone else to deal with the problem, citing a possible conflict of interest.

The investments in question total about $612,000 of the township's portfolio invested in Collateralized Mortgage Obligations (CMOs) in 1990, according to Lutz. CMOs are a security backed by groups of home mortgages.

According to a source at the Michigan Township Association, CMOs are illegal for investing township funds according to Public Act 239 of 1988.

Lutz disagrees that he did anything illegal, reasoning that the Independence Township Board of Trustees gave the treasurer full authority to invest public funds by a resolution passed in December 1984.

"I feel that I acted within my rights," Lutz said.

It is now being reported that the value of two of the investments has dropped due to falling interest rates.

"The falling rates has made this job difficult over the last few years," said Lutz.

Although the total value of the investments has fallen, Lutz said they are still gaining interest. Because of this, he feels it would be a poor idea to end the investment at this time.

"If we were to sell now, we would lose money. There's no point in doing that because we are still earning interest and the rates could improve," he said.

The CMOs in question were originally purchased from Westcap Securities, Inc.. The Westcap salesman Lutz dealt with have since been fired, prompting him to transfer the CMOs to another firm.

"I didn't feel comfortable with new salesman"

The news in brief

Don't park here

Parking at Bailey Lake Elementary School may seem like a good idea to some people attending concerts at Pine Knob. However, three times last week, cars left at the school were targeted by thieves.

On July 25, a man left his 1991 Chevy pickup parked there. It was locked but the keys, along with a wheelchair, golf clubs, a table and four chairs were in the back. The truck was stolen but turned up the next day at Sashabaw Middle School, minus the stereo, steering wheel and chairs. It was impounded to look for finger prints.

Then on July 26, a 1984 parked at the school had a window smashed and a radio and purse stolen. Someone left a note on the car with a license-plate number off a car that had been seen around the scene of the break in.

Then on Saturday, a third vehicle was broken into. Again the window was smashed. The owner reported that a gold ring, a watch and a camera were taken.

Neighbors complain about Lollapalooza

Over a three-day period, residents on Eston Rd., Dubuque, Sun Valley and Pine Valley complained to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department about noise from Pine Knob, including profanities over the public address system. One resident who lives two miles from the concert park said he heard the music coming from the Lollapalooza concert all day.

Man to stand trial in break-ins

Scott Edward Stafford, 29, of Pontiac, was ordered to stand trial Thursday in 52-2 District Court. He is charged with one count of breaking and entering in Independence Township and is a suspect in other break-ins in Independence, Orion and Waterford townships. His bond of $25,000 cash was continued and he will face arraignment in Circuit Court before Judge David Breck Aug. 11.

Deadheads return

The Grateful Dead didn't play Pine Knob this year, but you wouldn't have known that Sunday. Oakland County Sheriff's deputies cited a Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada man after he was seen urinating near the Park and Ride lot on Sashabaw Rd. Deputies evicted he and some other "Deadheads", sending them on their way to The Palace, where the Dead were playing Sunday night. See related story on 8B.

Drug judge to be appointed

Oakland County Circuit Court has been awarded a $130,000 grant to pay for a visiting judge to hear felony drug cases. The federal grant will help bring cases to trial more quickly and will pay for an investigator to evaluate defendants and make recommendations for drug treatment.

Fifteen percent of all felony cases filed are drug cases.

New academy gives students options

Students, teachers prepare for start of 'awesome-tech'

By ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

One hopes to be a business owner, another a veterinarian, yet another an automotive engineer.

And though as freshmen they're perhaps a bit young to be worrying about careers, four Clarkston students will be among the first class of the new North Oakland Science Math Academy (NOSMtech, for short) opening this fall.

The academy will be housed at the Oakland Technical Center Northwest and will draw students from Clarkston, Brandon, Waterford, Pontiac, Holly, Lake Orion and Oxford schools, with the blessing of those school districts. The districts will split the cost of the academy and provide transportation for students.

Two teachers have been hired and the incoming freshmen have been notified they've been accepted.

Mike Olsen of Ortonville will teach science. He just graduated from Oakland University's five-year teaching program with a BS in biology and chemistry, but had an earlier career as a plant superintendent at Assured Manufacturing in Fenton.

"I was very fortunate to land this position," Olsen said. "I'm very excited about it."

Kyle Hughes, of Clarkston, has been hired to teach math. A graduate of Michigan Technological University with a BS in applied math, she received her teaching certification from Central Michigan University in math and computer science. She taught for two-and-a-half years at Henry Ford High School in Detroit, and worked as a computer programmer for two years.

'This should eliminate the goof offs, the people that don't do their work.'

Student Kyle Banas

The fact that both teachers have practical experience outside of teaching is no accident, said OTCNW principal Daniel Manthei.

"This is going to be applications based, not pure theory," he said. "You don't learn math for math's sake."

The teachers were chosen by a committee formed by the superintendents of the seven districts involved, in cooperation with the Oakland Intermediate School District, which owns the tech center. Another committee handled student selection, another curriculum.

"So it was truly a cooperative effort between the seven districts," Manthei said.

Students will spend half-days at the academy, the other half at their home high schools. The students were chosen through a screening process which included writing answers to essay questions and getting recommendations from teachers.

Kyle Banas, a former Clarkston Middle School student, said he thinks the rigorous admissions process is good.

Kyle Hughes (left) and Mike Olsen in the computer lab at the Oakland Technical Center Northwest, where they'll teach freshmen this fall in the new math/science academy.

"I think it's going to eliminate the goof offs, the people that don't do their work," he said. He decided he wanted to attend the academy "because I felt it could offer me a challenge from the regular school curriculum. I also felt it would look good on a college resume." Kyle took honors science and pre-algebra as an eighth-grader.

Christopher O'Conner has a different idea, though. "I heard it was supposed to help you," he said. "It wasn't designed for people outstanding in those subjects."

He admits he has some trouble with math, especially algebra, and thinks the small group (49 students) will be good for him.

"It should be a lot more comfortable than high school," he said.

Emily Barrett was the only girl from Clarkston selected. She'd like to be a veterinarian some day and enjoys working on computers.

"I figured it (the academy) would be a lot more hands-on," she said. "I'm into math and science and it would help me. In math I'm OK but I'm real good in science."

She also is attracted to small classes. "I was in an English class last year that only had 10 people in it and I got to do a lot more," she said.

Don Gerard also likes the hands-on approach. He thinks it will provide him, overall, with a better education.

"I thought that going to this class gave me a better chance later on," he said. He said he's serious about school, "but I like to have fun with it too. It's a lot of fun."

That's surely the attitude educators hope will emerge from NOSMtech. Their mission is to "increase the number of students committed to and successful in programs in science, mathematics and technology." If they have fun along the way, that's OK too.

Apartment fire ruled accidental

Fire investigators from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department are now certain a fire that swept through a 36-unit apartment building in Greens Lake Apartments started accidentally in a closet in a third-floor apartment.

The scene was investigated by the OCSD as well as the apartment complex's insurance company, said Independence Township Fire Chief Gar Wilson. Both investigators agree with the conclusion.

"Based upon the scene examination, witnesses statements and the electrical engineer... we are not able to eliminate the possibility of a small child playing with fire," Wilson said, reading a statement prepared by fire investigator Det. Dave Row.

"Due to the elimination of other heat sources, the fire was probably accidental in nature."

Wilson said the investigators were able to eliminate other heat sources, such as electrical wiring, as the source of the fire. The residents of the apartment, a six-year-old boy, an infant and their parents, were interviewed and were cooperative, Wilson said. The six-year-old said he did not remember starting the fire. Though it will never be proven whether he did or not, Wilson said, "You're in a closet; how many other heat sources do you have?"

However, he agrees that the fire was accidental. "It wasn't arson," he said.

Neglected child gets help from authorities

Store employees alert police to plight of 2-year-old girl

In the words of one sheriff's deputy, "I would be appalled if one of my children were in that condition."

Sgt. Joe Duke was talking about a two-year-old girl taken into protective custody in Independence Township July 26 after some employees at Food Town brought her to the attention of the sheriff's department.

An employee of the store reported finding the child outside, alone, crying in a stroller about 8:30 a.m. Two males he described as intoxicated walked up to him and said they were with the baby and took her away.

Other store employees reported having seen the child before, always looking dirty and in a dirty stroller, accompanied by a woman and a man. Employees said the three made repeated visits to the store to cash in cans and purchase alcohol.

Deputies at the Independence substation of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department were put on alert to look for the child and later that day she was spotted with her mother, who was walking along Sashabaw Rd. near I-75. She was detained and the Independence Township Fire Department and paramedics were called to examine the child.

At that time deputies learned that the family had been living in a tent on vacant land near Pine Knob. Paramedics said they thought the child showed signs of malnutrition and fetal alcohol syndrome, as well as many insect bites. A Protective Services worker was called in. She took custody of the child, who was then taken to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

"There was no physical abuse that was evident, therefore we're not going to pursue a criminal complaint," Duke said. The case is now in the hands of

Protective Services.

The child's grandparents live in Waterford. As to how long the mother and baby were living in the tent, Duke said, "We're certain of four or five days. Anything beyond that would be speculation on my part."

Neither the grandparents nor the Protective Services worker could be reached for comment as of presstime. Duke said Monday he believed PS would be interviewing the grandparents as a possible temporary custody arrangement.

Development concerns residents

BY LEE DRYDEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

While board members recommended approval of the rezoning of a new development, local residents are having reservations about another new subdivision being constructed in their area.

The proposed 80 acre development, which was recommended for approval at a recent Independence Township planning commission meeting, is located at the southeast corner of Indianwood and Eston roads.

The proposed development would back up to the Hillview Estates subdivision and would also be very close to the Heather Lakes Estates. Residents are concerned about increased traffic and overcrowding of schools.

"Development is happening too fast in our area. The schools and the police force aren't going to be able to keep up with the numbers. We don't want a lot of traffic with the number of young children we have," said a concerned Hillview resident.

While the contractor involved, J.A.C. Construction, has no plans to connect the development to Hillview, residents are worried the township will force a connection for convenience purposes and emergency exit requirements.

"It's not necessary to connect; there are plenty of exits. If the township tries to force the issue, they will have a big fight on their hands," said the resident who asked not to be identified.

Although the resident does understand that development is inevitable, she would like to see it wait at least until a proper number of schools are built.

"There needs to be controls in place before too many subdivisions are built. We don't want our kids in an overcrowded environment. There are a lot of people who are very concerned about this."

In other planning commission action from July 14:

● The Stulberg Northwestern Communities rezoning, located on the east side of Sashabaw Road, north of Clarkston Road, was not recommended for approval yet to give officials a chance to study the master plan.

● A request for approval of a landscape plan for the Bridge Valley subdivision was postponed until the August 11 meeting because Bridge Valley officials were unable to attend due to schedule conflicts.

● A site plan for the dental office of Dr. Randall Baetz, located on the north side of Dixie Hwy at Deer Lake Road, was conceptually approved.

Goin' for a ride

6-year-old has not-so-excellent adventure in his mother's car

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

The Beatles were probably thinking of something else when they said, "Baby you can drive my car."

Six-year-old Benjamin Chaloner, of Clarkston, took his mother's 1985 Honda for a short ride on Circle Drive July 25. He managed to hop out before the car dove into the new neighbor's house and escaped unharmed, but he may have scared himself just a bit.

As his mother, Shawne LaBonte tells it, Benjamin somehow managed to get into her car and shift it out of gear. As it began rolling down the driveway, he jumped out, unharmed, and tried to get back into the house.

"He was so shook up he couldn't get the door open," she said. So he stood their banging on it. She arrived in time to see the car heading for the neighbor's house, but too late to do anything about it. The neighbors were in their yard at the time.

"This kid constantly gets into one thing or another," LaBonte said. "He's just a real active kid. He's never gotten into anything like that before."

Fortunately, insurance will cover the damage to the neighbor's house. "They had just moved in two weeks before," LaBonte said. "They were going to redo the house anyway. We just gave them a head start. They're real nice people."

That's the good news. LaBonte's car is not covered by insurance, since the mother of five, who attends Pontiac Business Institute in Oxford, was not carrying collision coverage.

LaBonte said that her son's escape was just the latest in a series of events that have made her decide to take a term off school. Four of her five children, ages 20, 17, 12, 10 and 6, live at home, and Benjamin was just in the hospital recently from an injury unrelated to the crash.

"My other son is just as bad," the stressed-out but philosophical mom said. "When he was a kid he was falling out of trees."

Of her youngest, LaBonte said she tries to take extra precautions to help him avoid trouble, but he appears to be just plain lucky.

"He's got an angel sitting on his shoulder constantly," she said.

Father to stand trial in beating of son, 8

A 38-year-old Clarkston man has been ordered to stand trial on a charge of third-degree child abuse for allegedly beating his 8-year-old son with a board.

According to a report filed with the Oakland County Sheriff's Independence Township substation, the mother of the 8-year-old returned from work July 20 and found her son with bruises, so she took him to the doctor. It was the doctor who reported the suspected abuse.

The boy told police his father became angry with him for using profanity and put soap on his toothbrush to wash his mouth out. When the boy spit out the soap, he was allegedly beaten with the board.

On Friday, 52-2 District Court Judge Gerald McNally bound the father over to Circuit Court to stand trial. He is free on $500 personal bond awaiting arraignment Aug 23 before Judge Steven Andrews.

Treasurer defends investment policy

TREASURER, from 1A

who I have never dealt with so I switched the CMOs to another firm where I could deal with people I am familiar with," he said.

Lutz, who talked openly in an interview and appeared confident in his statements, even though they appear to contradict state law, stressed that the township funds are in good hands and a couple of questionable investments should not be singled out.

"I have made hundreds of investments over the years that have been profitable for Independence Township. The ones in question are just two of those. We should be looking at the big picture and it shows that the community is doing fine," he said.

The subject of a possible special meeting about the issue will be discussed at tonight's board meeting. Board members will be able to tell more this month when a final audit comes out.

"I have been very up front with (supervisor) Mr. Stuart, (clerk) Mrs. McCrary, and board members. I have tried to answer their questions," said Lutz.

Township attorney Gerald Fisher, who handles most township financial matters, has recommended that the board find another expert to handle this situation because of his close ties with the board.

"Since I work so closely with the treasurer and board members, there could be a conflict of interest. I have removed myself from involvement," said Fisher.

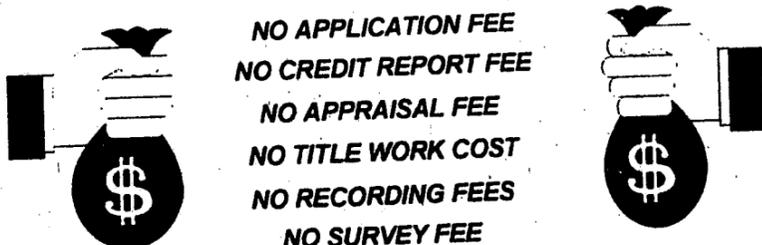

Although it is possible the township could end up taking action against the brokers who sold Lutz the CMOs, nothing is definite until the final audit comes in.

"No action can be taken until the audit comes in and board members discuss the situation. But, I don't feel anything major will come out of this.

"Ultimately, everything will work out."

Befuddled

In the category of "What is this country coming to:"

A Michigan judge took custody of a preschool girl away from her mother and transferred it to her father, saying the girl would be better off being babysat by her grandmother than in day care.

The baby's parents were both teenagers when she was born. Somehow the mother managed to finish high school and be accepted into the University of Michigan, where she is now a student.

While I'm sure there's a lot we still don't know about this case, it's troubling that the judge chose to focus on the day-care arrangements in making his ruling, going against the advice of two agencies which generally make custody recommendations. Does he have any idea what message his decision sends?

It says to me that you're better off going on welfare so you can stay home and raise the child. I wonder—does the judge have any idea just how many ADC cases are composed of young mothers and their children? Does he know what the odds are such a woman can get a job that will pay enough money to pay for babysitters and health insurance?

The right to life movement should be troubled about this decision too. Why have the child at all if someone's just going to take it away from you later, just because the child's in day care?

And speaking of the pro-life movement, I don't understand people who say unborn babies and terminally ill adults don't have the right to die, but it's OK to murder a doctor performing legal abortions.

If you believe in maintaining life, no matter what it's quality, doesn't that extend to everyone? Why is it wrong for Jack Kevorkian to end someone's suffering humanely, like most of us would a beloved cat or dog, but OK to murder someone you disagree with, someone who isn't doing anything illegal?

Continuing on this "I just don't get it" jag, what's with Lisa Marie Presley and Michael Jackson? It appears now the marriage rumors are true. It can't be for money, so just what's the attraction? I just truly don't get this one.

But enough ranting. Here's some raving.

Rave #1: If you haven't seen "Forrest Gump," rush right out to your favorite theater this weekend and see it. Another stellar performance by Tom Hanks graces a truly original story which is also a chronicle of the Baby Boomer generation. You'll laugh; you'll cry. At the end you'll wait for the credits to roll so you can identify the great supporting actor, Gary Sinese.

Rave #2: If you like the Blues, downtown Pontiac is the place to be this weekend. For the el-cheapo price of $5 you can hear blues all day Saturday and Sunday, plus Friday night.

Last weekend The Dennis and I got to hear The Chisel Brothers featuring Thometta Davis, as well as the Motor City Blues Project. Both were great and both will be appearing in Phoenix Plaza this weekend.

School board should act

To the Editor:

What a great opportunity! The school board has faced increasing criticism in past months on issues of concern to various parent groups. The Birdland parents are disappointed in the board's decision to allow children to walk to school through an area of disputed safety (June 13th meeting). The PTA Council expressed its concern May 9th concerning the handling of the "Focus on the Future" Community Forum and its results. Another parent group has requested that the board address the issue of class size increases throughout the district. (All classes will be larger this fall.)

A few weeks ago, the Clarkston News contained an article concerning the school budget and how additional funds had become available that were not anticipated by the board. This is a golden opportunity to show the community that the board is listening to parents' concerns and have the students' best interest at heart.

A small portion of these funds could be used to enhance the transportation budget and provide a bus for the Birdland children. The remainder could be used to address the "Focus" issues. Although the first and second items on the prioritized list are not attainable with the limited funds that have become available (additional facilities), the third and fourth issues are certainly within the scope of the additional funds -- hire teachers to reduce the number of children per classroom!

The PTA Council might be pleased to see positive results come from the "Forum" meetings, the Birdland parents would feel that the board has concern for the safety of their children, and concerned parents across the district would applaud the hiring of new teachers for this September.

All this goodwill could come of wisely allocating money that is not currently promised to any other budget considerations!

Community members should contact the school board members now. Let them know that you would like to see the board take this opportunity to restore the confidence of the community.

Attention, seniors

I am a widow. After my husband died, my daughter took me to live with her. She is a wonderful daughter. She was working and did not like me being home alone.

She called Clarkston Community Services, and found this wonderful place to go to. It's called Clarkston Senior Center. I was reluctant at first, but it was a wonderful place to go to! The people in charge, Sarah and Ralph, are beyond words, so caring and thoughtful!

We have lunch, and the young ladies who prepare the meals are just terrific! Occasionally we

We haven't lost our appetite for gore

As a break from my writings this week, I'm turning this space over to John Haire, publisher of The Cass City Chronicle.

For 75 years or more a printer could walk into any print shop and the machines in use would be familiar, regardless of whether it printed the New York Times or The Cass City Chronicle.

Naturally, a big paper had bigger, faster presses and more gadgets on the typesetters of the time, but basically the process was the same as when my grandfather ran the Boyne Citizen in Boyne City.

About 30 years ago that changed as the process called offset started filtering into print shops. It trickled into the business and now is a computer-aided flood that changes almost monthly.

We have obsolete typesetting machines that become that way in less than 10 years. Before the revolution, typesetters were used for 40 years or more because the technology never varied.

Experts in the field are making widely different predictions on what's ahead in the business. No one knows except that the changes will be significant and perhaps as revolutionary as the one generated when computers became industry workhorses.

We should live longer and more comfortably with the advances in science that have become commonplace.

All these advances flashed by as I read a metro paper last week. Two stories that captured my attention made me think of the arenas I visited in Rome where the Christians were slaughtered by the lions and the gladiators battled to the death.

The stories concerned the request of Donald Evans, sentenced to death for murdering and raping a 10-year-old girl, and a suspect in 60 other murders, who was willing to plead guilty if his execution could appear on television.

The second concerned papers that indicated the United States Energy Department has experimented with radiation on 1,200 persons without their knowledge or consent.

You could say that Evans was a kook and his antics are not indicative of where we are today.

That may be true, too. What is also true is that if Evans succeeded in getting on the Phil Donahue show, his TV ratings would sky-rocket to an all time high.

We don't know if the viewers would stand up and cheer like the spectators did when the lions chewed the Christians, but there would be thousands who would be glued to the TV and later announce with satisfaction that the rapist-murderer got exactly what he deserved.

That's different than what happened in the arenas 2,000 years ago, but it's only a matter of degree. It still shows that we have not lost our voracious appetite for watching gory spectacles, and basically people haven't changed much since the dawn of Christianity.

At a glance

15 YEARS AGO (1979)

The proposed 22-story Pine Knob Hotel goes to the Independence Township board at its August 7 meeting. The Board will consider the proposed recreation zoning amendment which has been recommended unanimously by the Oakland County Zoning Coordinating Committee. However, a group called The Committee Against High Rise Zoning has gathered over 2,800 signatures from residents who oppose the skyscraper.

A four-month search for a new Independence Township librarian has ended with the selection of Plymouth resident James Hibler. But he will not officially be hired until the township board votes its approval Aug. 7. Hibler is presently head librarian at the John F. Kennedy Library in Dearborn Heights.

Grid season conditioning begins for boys in grades 8-12 who plan to play fall football. Clarkston Wolves Varsity Head Coach Walt Wyniemo will head the program which continues through August 10 for "any young man who's interested in playing football."

25 YEARS AGO (1969)

Clarkston resident Specialist 4 Michael Shagena is awarded the Bronze Star Medal with "V" Device for heroism. On a convoy to Quan Loi, Shagena maneuvered his trail party jeep into the kill zone to rescue two drivers from a disabled vehicle. Though his vehicle's position was threatened by an advancing force of approximately 100 North Vietnamese Army and Viet Kong soldiers, SP/4 Shagena maintained it. He brought fire on the enemy and was able to get both drivers to his vehicle and into the safety zone. SP/4 Shagena is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shagena of Clarkston.

Deadlines are nearing for competition entries for the 120th Michigan State Fair from August 22-September 1. Deadline dates are August 1, 8 and 15 for various participants in selected areas.

Clarkston Varsity Cheerleaders place second in the International Cheerleading Foundation cheerleading clinic at Eastern Michigan University. While competing with 50 other cheerleading squads, Clarkston scored only one point behind the Grand Champs.

50 YEARS AGO (1944)

Quotas have been enlarged for enlistment of 17-year-olds in the U.S. Navy. Men of that age desiring to volunteer should go to their nearest navy recruiting station. The closest station for Clarkstonites is in Pontiac.

"Lost Angel," with Margaret O'Brien and James Craig is at the Drayton Theatre and "And the Angels Sing," starring Fred MacMurray, Dorothy Lamour and Betty Hutton, is at the Holly Theatre.

60 YEARS AGO (1934)

Clarkston's Homecoming is held Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Events include a pet parade, both a fat men's and fat women's races, an Old Fiddler's Contest, a political rally and a tug of war.

A full-course chicken dinner for 50 cents is offered by the Polly Inn. The restaurant also serves roast pork, roast beef, baked ham, steaks and short orders, home-baked pies, cakes, bread and cookies.

Don't Rush Me

By Don Rush

Fan of the month club

In this world there is a place for cats (not in my house, for I have lived with one and wrote about him in the past and they're not for me. They're cute, cuddly and can even fetch like the cat we had. Big deal, I'm just not into cats on the kitchen table).

But cat-lovers, that's another story. Here's a letter from one.

Mr. Rush,

The questions of what makes dogs so lovable should be what makes pets so lovable? All pets -- dogs, cats, horses, ponies, birds, lizards, fish or whatever creature may be, engender these feelings from those who love them. If you could get past your odd hatred of cats maybe you could see this.

What makes pets so lovable is that they love us unconditionally. They don't judge, criticize or lie to us. They fill a need in us that isn't always satisfied by other relationships.

What is special about the person-pet relationship is that they accept you for what you are as you accept them. You know your best animal buddy is going to be there no matter what the rest of the world thinks.

Our pets like us because we care for them, keep them safe and love them. We try to make their world like we would choose ours to be.

I think everyone has cried over the death of a pet. I have personally cried over every cat, dog, horse and pony that I've lost. Usually when you lose a pet it's sudden and tragic or a lingering illness that you have to make the ultimate decision to end for them. You have to deal with that decision and the fact that your animal buddy is gone. You are painfully aware of every time you were cross or too busy for your pet even if it wasn't really that way. You see all their favorite places and know they're not going to be there anymore. You'll miss their friendship. However, no matter how much it hurts when they're gone, you are forever richer for all that you shared with your pet.

The pain you feel when you lose a pet is very real and is not over in a day. Imagine if you will, Mr. Rush, how someone who has lost their pet cat must have felt upon reading your column of Wednesday, April 13, 1994. In case you don't remember that one it was all about your hatred of cats and even had a few false statements about health risks.

(Note from Don: that column told of the Associated Press report that, "cats that roam newly suburbanized areas in the Southwest are a growing source of human plague." A.P. got its story from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. Now, back to the show.)

Fortunately, Dr. Theisen, DVM cleared up your inaccuracies in her letter to the editor in rebuttal of that column.

People who love cats feel the same way about their cats that you feel about your Mickey (another note from Don: Mickey's a mutt). How would you feel if you lost Mickey then were treated to a hateful, untrue and vindictive column written by someone who obviously hated dogs? (yet another note from Don: that's their opinion, then so be it, there are over 4 billion of them on this planet, what's mine, or anybody's really worth?) I guess it would make a painful time even worse. (Sort of like what parents who lost a son in Vietnam felt when they watched the evening news and saw protesters spitting on the GIs coming home?)

Nobody expects you to like cats. You certainly also have a right to express your opinion -- just consider in what way you do so. Is it an opinion or just vindictiveness that causes a lot of aggravation on the part of people who love cats? You obviously love your dog, good for you (yes, I, Don, love all critters -- cats, too -- and people, like the man upstairs says too). I loved my dog of 15 years greatly. I, like many others, also love cats. So why not let us enjoy our relationships with our cats without intolerant articles that cause bad feelings.

No matter what animal shares your life it is a unique and loving experience that should never be missed or negated by anyone.

Sincerely,
Gail K

Regardless of intentions, horse racing imposes pain.

I don't mean to be rude, honest, but I have neither the time nor desire to accept the several kind and not-so-kind invitations I've lately received to visit horses at racetracks and farms.

My would-be hosts want to convince me there's no cruelty to animals involved in horse racing.

They're responding to my recent column saying I preferred casino betting to horse betting because "you can play a slot machine without getting blood on your hands." I quoted a jockey's complaints about bloody injuries suffered by horses raced in winter weather.

The most eloquent letter came from Lori Reynolds, a groom at the Detroit Race Course:

"Thoroughbreds have been created to race and do it willingly, eagerly, innately. Certainly there are unscrupulous persons involved in the sport who are ignorant, abusive, neglective, cruel. They are the minority and usually not long in business.

"Most of us work at the racetrack because we love horses, as evidenced by our long hours seven days a week caring for our 'kids' for low pay, no respect, no recognition, no benefits. We know our horses run because we care for them, usually better than ourselves, and train and develop them as the true athletes they are.

"You cannot force a horse to perform successfully through cruelty or abuse. They are immensely powerful creatures capable of protecting themselves, and demand respect . . .

"We are all here to win races and not only for the money angle. It is an athletic test, a competition of horses and humans. Abuse does not create winners. It creates problems."

Lori Reynolds said she and other low-level track workers get "no respect." She has my respect. But not my total agreement.

I also heard from several racetrack employees who said they regularly see horses treated cruelly. For the obvious job-security reasons, they asked that their names be withheld.

There was an anguished call from a woman who said she had broken off a long relationship with a racetrack veterinarian because he condones "terribly cruel" treatment of horses.

So, as far as I'm concerned, there's no question that some horse people are blatantly cruel to horses. But, as Reynolds said, they are a minority.

Many of my critics claimed thoroughbred horses are bred to race and wouldn't be happy doing anything else. Bred by whom?

A depressing number of race fans said it was silly of me to worry about cruelty to a race horse because they're treated a lot better than work and riding-stable horses. Does a big cruelty make a smaller cruelty OK?

And then there were the several brilliant thinkers who said football players are injured more often than race horses, so why didn't I gripe about that, huh?

Someday I expect to meet a quarterback who quit football in favor of being whipped by a jockey. Right after I meet a horse that quit being a fullback so he'd have more time to be cinched tight and ridden hard.

The key question concerns the choice to be exploited. Prize fighting is more barbaric than bullfighting, but the boxers choose to do it for the money. Where do the bulls go to vote?

A visit to the most horse-friendly stable in the world wouldn't change my mind, because I believe the horse-racing industry is inherently cruel to horses even when it's run under the kiss kindest circumstances, in the best of weather.

Some of you probably remember the late Doc Greene, the splendid Detroit News columnist and big horsetrack fan. Greene once said that, until a horse told him so, he'd never believe horses enjoyed being saddled, ridden, whipped, kicked and jerked.

Me, neither.

Focus on the Family

James Dobson, Ph.D., presented by First Missionary Church, Clarkston

QUESTION: Would you describe the physical changes that occur with the aging process?

DR. DOBSON: The decline in old age is not just a sudden deterioration of all systems at the same level and the same time. There is an order of deterioration under normal circumstances. That is, if there is not some disease factor that changes it. This is the normal process of aging:

The first thing to diminish is the perceptual or sensory contact with the outside world. The lens of the eye loses its ability to contract and focus. So we wear bifocals to give us both distance and close vision. Cataracts further damage clarity of vision in some cases.

The conduction of sound is lessened by a wearing away of the three little bones in the ear. So we don't hear quite as well as before. Higher pitches are the first to go; then we lose perception at the lower ranges of sound. The taste buds in the mouth and tongue atrophy, so nothing tastes quite as good as it did previously. There is not the joy in eating that we once had.

The sense of smell is diminished which also makes food less tasty because much of the satisfaction in eating is derived from its pleasant odor.

There is a dryness and hardening of the skin which decreases the sense of touch. So all five senses diminish and become less capable of detecting information and relaying it to the brain.

Later, we experience a change in motor activity -- the ability to move efficiently. Lack of finetrip control is the first loss we notice, followed by less dexterity of the hand, then wrist, elbow and shoulder. The lessening of coordination moves from the extremities to the center of the body. That's why shaky writing of an older person reveals his or her age.

Next, changes take place in the cardiovascular system. The fat in and around the heart forces it to work harder to accomplish the same purpose. When a person over-exerts, it takes a longer time to return to his normal rate of circulation. A gradual stiffening of the arteries also adds to the cardiac strain. Cholesterol collects in the arteries and constricts the flow of blood which can lead to heart attacks, strokes and other cardiovascular disorders.

Furthermore, the autonomic nervous system no longer regulates the body's processes as efficiently, which exacerbates such problems as poor circulation.

Reproductive activity ceases at about 45 years of age in women and 50 or 60 years in men. Life no longer trusts us with its most precious gift of procreation.

To summarize: These are the major areas of change that occur in the process of aging. First, we experience perceptual deterioration. Second, the body undergoes a motor deterioration, that is physical changes relating to movement. If life continues beyond that point, a decline in mental alertness must occur.

Village players want you

Dear Editor,

It was with great dismay that I learned that the Clarkston Village Players did not have a float in this year's July 4th parade. I've been told that the membership in the Village Players is dwindling. There is talk of reducing their season from five plays to four. This certainly would not be due to the lack of patronage from the community, as most shows are usually sold out.

It would be a shame if the trend toward fewer members continued and the Clarkston area lost the pleasures of unique "live" theater in the charming atmosphere of the train station.

Contrary to some people's thinking, the members are not creative "crazies" and none have attended acting school. All members do not appear on stage nor are they required to do so. The majority (some are retired) have full-time jobs such as engineers, secretaries, locksmiths, teachers, hospital workers and salespeople.

Please consider helping the community to have available some fine entertainment by volunteering with the Clarkston Village Players. There is an open meeting the first Tuesday of every month at 7 p.m. at the Depot Theatre on White Lake Road, one mile west of Dixie Highway.

Ready to go with 810?

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

We all hate that shrill three-toned warning that alerts us, most unpleasantly, to the fact that we've dialed the wrong number. Many of us don't make it to the end of the equally annoying recorded announcement that follows, because — well, maybe — we've ripped the phone out of the wall.

"We're sorry. You must also include the area code when dialing this number. Please hang up and try your call again."

Phone callers, before you lose it to an inanimate object, remember, you've had almost two years to prepare for the area code change.

Dean Hovey, area code manager for Ameritech Michigan, figures Ameritech began notifying its customers of the change in July 1992. They have sent out flyers, brochures, enclosures with phone bills and advertised with the media. They have even mailed out 12 complimentary announcements to customers in order to inform their friends, families and business associates about the change.

To sum things up — again — starting with December 1993, those areas north of the Eight Mile Road border have been able to use both the old and new codes, 313 and 810, respectively.

But beginning August 10, 1994, residents in Oakland, Macomb, Lapeer, St. Clair, Genesee and Sanilac counties will have 810 before their phone numbers. Wayne, Washtenaw and Monroe counties will retain the 313 area code.

The new code is needed because of increasing demands for "technological advances such as fax machines, pagers, cellular phones and computer modems," according to a flyer from Ameritech.

"It's not because of a population increase — it's because of a technology explosion," Hovey said. "Cellular and paging companies ask for groups of at least 10,000 numbers. They gobble those up really fast. We give them a telephone prefix — for example, 625." From 625-0001 to 625-9999 — that's 10,000 telephone numbers.

"It's not so much you and me asking for more phone lines, but mostly a growth in the cellular and paging companies. They're eating it up the most. Last year the cellular phone industry grew by about 47 percent. That's a lot."

As a result of the change, three-million more phone numbers in southeast Michigan have been added and should last customers for the next 15 to 20 years, as long as they keep using those numbers at the current rate.

Michigan now has five codes: 313, 810, 616, 517 and 906 in the Upper Peninsula.

In the future, Hovey says, prefixes from existing phone exchanges will have to be used to create new area codes.

"Michigan got the second to the last code using a 0 or 1 in the middle with 810," Hovey said, adding the previous computer-styled process of using either 0 or 1 in the middle had exhausted three-digit combinations.

"Interestingly, the first of the new style area codes is Pontiac exchange 334. Alabama will get it. Presently they have only one area code," Hovey said.

Have there been complaints? Oh, yes, says

PHONEHEADS, from 10A

Ameritech operator Mary Bunnell, who fields them daily when customers call the toll-free Infoline at 1-800-831-8989.

"Mostly people call because they have to reprint their stationery for business. Although I have had some 'different' calls, like one man saying he was angry because he didn't like technology," she laughed.

Now, Bunnell says, most of the requests are for a foldout pocket brochure, free from Ameritech, that lists different exchanges and area codes in Michigan.

"You have to request them, they don't send them," she said.

Though Hovey says Ameritech is not making any money on the pocket brochures or complimentary announcements (additional ones at $8.95 a packet only cover the printer's costs), local printing companies are enjoying a nice increase in business.

"I'd say, about a month and a half ago, a lot of people began coming in at the last minute saying, 'I need these done — now!'" Kim Curtis, manager for Impact Printing in Clarkston said.

Curtis says many want all their printed literature changed from business cards, letter heads, phone numbers on envelopes to invoices. Impact Printing charges $20 for 500 business cards, but Curtis says she'll do the area code change free as long as the customer doesn't change the printing.

Impact sales representative Sharon Kervirtis says she has been trying to remind her customers to make the change.

"This guy came in and I saw he still had 313 on his cards. I told him he should change them, but he didn't," Kervirtis said. "Some of them don't want to get new cards because they don't want to spend the money. They'd rather use up the old cards first."

IMPACT PRINTING has increased its sales because of the area code change. Here, manager Kim Curtis (left) holds up a business card from a client who scratched off the old area code and wrote the new one in. Sales rep Sharon Kervirtis stands to the right. The two women are trying to remind people to make the switch, pronto.

To further drive a reminder of the area code change home, Ameritech hosted an "area code spoof" on July 27 at Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle in Royal Oak.

The "Phoneheads," a Detroit-area comedy team composed of Jim McLean, Gary George and Kevin Kramis, performed a 10-minute skit for the media as part of Ameritech's awareness campaign. Dressed as phones, the trio provided a humorous twist to the area code message. They will spend the next two weeks broadcasting over Metro Detroit airwaves and making personal appearances at malls and other high-traffic areas in southeastern Michigan.

"The Phoneheads remind us to change our dialing habits in a way that's fun and memorable," Hovey said. "They'll deliver the message up close and in person to thousands of our customers."

"They basically stress two things — that on August 10 you have to dial the correct area code and — just because you have to dial a different area code, there will be no cost change."

Now if they could just change that irritating triad at the beginning of Ameritech's recording.

"I can't tell you how many talks I've had with engineers — there is a decibel level ... I'm never quite sure if it's set right," Hovey said. "It's supposed to alert you to the fact that you've done something wrong."

He agreed that holding the phone away from your ear after dialing might be a good idea — just in case.

Phoneheads' top 10 reasons why dialing 313/810 is hip

10. Helps keep your digits thin and limber.
9. In the year 2034, you can tell your grandchildren, "I remember when there were only TWO area codes in southeastern Michigan."
8. 313 and 810 are officially recognized in Petticoat Junction.
7. Takes no more thought than making a fried baloney sandwich.
6. Helps clear up congestion on the information highway — and you don't have to wear an orange vest.
5. It's easier than dialing fractions.
4. You get 11 digits for the price of 7.
3. It's like moving to a new address — without the boxes.
2. It's still quicker than writing a letter.
1. Dial right — and we'll go away!

For maps of the new area codes, see the next page

Classic races come to Waterford Hill

BY LEE DRYDEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston residents will get a chance to see some vintage cars both on display and in action when the Meadowbrook Historic Races come to town.

Before the scheduled races on August 6 and 7, "Concours in Depot Park" will be held in downtown Clarkston on Friday, August 5 in conjunction with the Concours d'Elegance set for August 7 at Meadow Brook Hall.

"Concours in Depot Park" is free of charge and will run from 6-9 p.m.. It will feature sports cars, vintage racing vehicles, an ice cream social, a silent auction, live music, and an automotive fine art exhibition.

The races, which will be held at the Waterford Hills Raceway in Clarkston, will begin at noon on Saturday and Sunday with practice beginning at 10 a.m..

This year's event is the tenth anniversary of the TDM Meadow Brook Historic Races, which are a joint production of Championship Promotions, Inc. and Waterford Hills Road Racing, Inc. Proceeds will help benefit SCAMP.

Ford Racing Vehicles will be the featured marque coinciding with the 30th anniversary of the Mustang. A 1994 Cobra Mustang will serve as the pace car for the event.

The actual race is a competitive one with around 70 cars dating 1969 or older competing in various classes. Some of the participants will also be on display in the Concours d'Elegance.

"These races offer a unique opportunity for the whole family to see and hear vintage and classic racing vehicles," said Michael Sheridan, vice president of Championship Promotions, Inc.

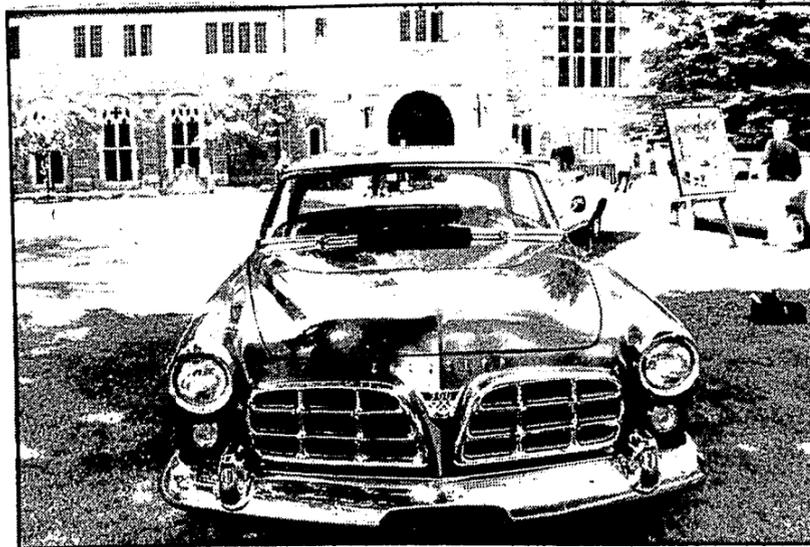

Along with its featured marque status, Ford has assembled a field of vintage Ford racing vehicles for display at the historic races.

"Our involvement with the weekend events is timely since several special exhibits there will continue to focus on our year long Mustang 30th Anniversary Celebration," said Mark Miller of Ford Motor Company.

For more information on any of these events, call (810) 373-4414.

BMX

DNR promotes life jackets

The Department of Natural Resources' Law Enforcement Division is beginning a special promotion to encourage children under the age of 12 to wear life jackets, otherwise known as personal flotation devices (PFDs).

As a part of the promotion, approximately 60 PFDs donated by the American Automobile Association of Michigan, Stearns Manufacturing and Mustang Survival will be given away in a drawing to take place in August.

Beginning this week, state conservation officers will give a postcard to each child they meet during routine patrols of popular water recreation areas. Children can enter the PFD giveaway by filling out the postcard and mailing it. Each winner will personally be presented with a PFD by a local conservation officer.

One purpose of this promotion giveaway is to call attention to Michigan's new PFD law, which went into effect April 1. The new law requires all children under the age of 6 to wear a PFD on any boat.

In addition, this promotion is an effort to encourage children of all ages to use PFDs.

"We want everyone to enjoy Michigan's water wonderland safely," said DNR Director Roland Harnes. "Statistics show that 80 percent of the water fatalities recorded in Michigan could have been prevented if the victims had been wearing personal flotation devices. We hope children will wear PFDs when boating, and remind their friends and family members to do the same."

Postcards to enter the PFD giveaway are available from any Michigan conservation officer at boating or water recreation areas. In addition, a limited number of postcards are also available by writing to the following address:

90th Birthday/Family Reunion held for Gladys Porritt

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Gladys Porritt doesn't look her age. In fact, she looks, not years, but decades younger, thanks to an abundance of energy and a positive spirit.

"I drive, I go to Big Boy every morning for breakfast just to see people ... If I can take care of myself I'm happy," said the spunky senior, who turned 90 August 1.

Gladys' six children — Bill, Mary, Elaine, Sally, Jean and Bob — who she raised in Clarkston with her husband Edward, decided to combine their mom's birthday with a family reunion which they held Saturday, July 30 in Clintonwood Park. There, Gladys was surrounded by not only her sons, daughters and 23 grandchildren, but 37 great-grandchildren in a gathering that included 90 people.

"I've never seen some of them (the great-grandchildren. They've come from all over. It's a big deal to see them," Gladys said.

Besides the family's picnic and a beautiful memory book, Gladys' kids provided everyone with a Porritt Dairy T-shirt and miniature cowbell necklace — which really rang.

"Everytime we hear the word 'Mom' we have to ring our bells," laughed Sally.

Gladys and Edward Porritt started their dairy business, Porritt Dairy, in Clarkston in 1932. They bottled milk in the family's garage and later moved it to a dairy, says Bill, the only child who was involved in the business.

"We started out with raw milk and then bought a pasteurizer," recalled Gladys.

In 1932, Bill said, Porritt Dairy was delivering 80 quarts of milk a day. Near the end of their business

GLADYS PORRITT, WHO TURNED 90 MONDAY, is honored at a birthday celebration and family reunion at Clintonville Park Saturday. Standing left to right are her six children: Bob (Joan) Porritt of Fairview, Mi., Mary (Bill) Rayode of Virginia, Sally (John) Curry of Clarkston, Elaine (Bob) Sharrock of Tennessee, Jean (Pat) Thompson and Bob (Ruth) Porritt of Hasslett, Mi.

Edward Porritt died in 1979, one year after the couple celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

Since then, Gladys has carried on independently, seldom missing her regular rituals whether it be morning-out breakfasts, crossword puzzles or counted cross-stitch, which daughter Elaine says she has done for every single kid, grandkid and great-grandkid.

"Her eyes must be super-duper. She does pictures for everyone," Elaine said.

"I can't even see that good," added Sally.

While enjoying the love and attention lavished upon her, Gladys paused to savor the surrounding crowd — but to also add a sassy quip about the cowbell ringing.

"They're making a big deal of it," she said, obviously delighted.

there were 22 trucks on the road, bringing milk to areas all over Oakland County.

In 1968 or 1969 the Porritts sold their dairy to United Dairies in Detroit, after being overtaken by bigger business and "milkmen."

'If I can take care of myself I'm happy.'

"In the 1940s there were 80 dairies in Michigan — now there are very few," Bill said.

Lighthouse North has new head

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

Business is booming at Lighthouse North. That's the bad news.

Though the economy is said to be in pretty good shape, the need continues to grow for social services in northern Oakland County. There's always a need for volunteers and money, according to Wendy Halsey, the new branch manager of Lighthouse North.

"Twelve months a year, unfortunately, it's always busy," Halsey said. "Right now what we're seeing is an increased demand for food because kids are home from school. Last month we added 25 new families. Today alone we had three new clients."

"We service the whole north Oakland County area. So it's not just Clarkston. But there is a great need in Clarkston."

Halsey takes over for former director Sherry Kaars. Though she doesn't have the same title, she has the same job.

"Corporate-wide, all through Lighthouse, they have looked at structure," Halsey, of Springfield Township, said. "A lot of titles have changed, matching titles with responsibility."

Halsey's job is to oversee everything that happens at Lighthouse North, the Maybee Rd. satellite of the Pontiac organization. That includes programing, fund raising, casework, community relations and resource development.

Halsey has a BS in elementary education from Central Michigan University and student taught in Clarkston. A native of the Upper Peninsula, she worked at a domestic violence shelter while attending Lake Superior State University for two years. She taught kindergarten part-time at Mt. Zion last year, working at Lighthouse in the afternoons. She also previously worked in advertising.

"But all you're doing is putting money in somebody's pocket," she said of that experience. "Here, you work hard but you're helping someone. You can see the benefit to society. You're not selling cars."

Halsey said the problems she saw while working in the shelter are much the same for clients of Lighthouse. "They're people who don't have resources," she said. "I certainly can relate to them and their

Halsey heads a staff of three full-timers, one part-timer and many volunteers. "The majority of our work is done by volunteers, direct client services," she said. That includes emergency services, such as food, clothing, prescriptions and utility shutoffs, and caregiver assistance for senior citizens so they can stay in their own homes.

"A lot of things depend on the funding we have," she said. "We have goals we try to meet in Clarkston. We basically are responsible for making sure we have enough operating expenses here."

Lighthouse North receives some of its funding through the Community Development Block Grant program, a federal grant administered by local governments. Independence, Springfield, Groveland, Brandon and Holly townships and the City of the Village of Clarkston all hand over some of their block grant money to Lighthouse North. However, as with most grant money, there are strings attached.

"That's where we do a lot of home repair, and food can come from that," Halsey said. Personal care items cannot be purchased with block grant money and most other grants, making those items—such as shampoo and toothpaste—always in short supply.

About one-half the budget comes from outside fund raisers, such as a tour of Chateau du Lac in Heather Lakes and the upcoming Beacon of Hope, held at the county's only working lighthouse. "It's critical," Halsey said of the fund-raising effort. "Our calendar is full." The Chateau du Lac tour, which sold out, was the largest single fund raiser to date for Lighthouse North, she said.

Despite the continuing need for basic services, Halsey would like to see some new programs added. One such program is SHARE, open to families of any income level. Families pay $13, do two hours of community service, and receive in return $30-$35 in food. The program is not yet in place at Lighthouse North.

"I think that's a real nice program for anybody," Halsey said. "You can just stretch the food budget further. Part of the community service can be actually picking up the food and packing it. It can be completely volunteer run."

Another program Halsey is high on started last year. Called the Young Moms' Program, it brought together very young parents, most on welfare, in a kind of support group. They met once a month for seminars on going back to school, getting a job and budgeting. They also received food and personal care items as a bonus.

"They just made such a network among themselves," Halsey said. "They just got out of the house. They would have (liked to have) met every week. They were good about helping at Lighthouse." Of that original group of 15, nearly all are now in school or working, Halsey said. She plans to start the group up again in the fall, even if she can't afford the bonus gifts the first group received.

"A lot of them just gained their independence," she said. "It was neat to watch."

Lighthouse North is always looking for volunteers. Packing food, sorting clothes and interviewing clients are just some of the jobs available. Volunteers can give as little as one hour a week.

"The more volunteers we have the less staff we have to pay," Halsey said. The organization is also looking for people with particular skills, such as carpentry or computers, to do specific jobs as they become needed. Doctors and dentists are being sought to take on one or two cases a year pro bono.

"There's lots of growth here," Halsey said. "It's the first place you wish you could shut down. But it's continual need."

For more information about Lighthouse North, call 673-4949.

Fun benefits Lighthouse

Two very special fund raisers will benefit Lighthouse in August and September.

On September 24, tenor Jose Carreras' performance at the Fox Theater will benefit the charity and include a special afterglow in the Fox atrium with Carreras.

Tickets are $250 for patrons and $350 for benefactors, and 264 prime seats have been set aside. The evening was the brainchild of Lisa Ilitch Murray, daughter of Mike Ilitch, who owns the Fox.

According to Wendy Halsey of Lighthouse North, the atrium has never before been open to the public. For tickets, call Halsey at 673-4949 or Gail Good at 335-2462.

On August 14, Beacon of Hope IV will be held at Oakland County's only working lighthouse. The lighthouse is at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Anthony Dietz on Walnut Lake in West Bloomfield.

The event begins at 3 p.m. and will include a picnic style buffet, live entertainment, boat rides and auctions. Food will come from Mesquite Creek Steakhouse of Clarkston and the Fox & Hounds Pastry Den of Bloomfield Hills.

Beacon of Hope is chaired by weathermen Sonny Eliot, Chris Edwards and Gary Bazner, who guarantee a sunny day. Tiger broadcaster Emie Harwell will also attend.

Tickets are $60 and $125 per person. For reservations call Jennifer Armstrong at 335-2462.

Youngsters learn foreign language can be fun

From one room, the dulcet tones of Spanish could be heard wafting over the warm corridor. From the next room, it was Japanese.

Though school is still out, a small group of Clarkston students learned last week that foreign languages can be fun.

The students, ages 8-11, attended a three-day mini-camp called FLAG, Foreign Languages Are Great, at Clarkston Elementary School. Their days were filled with the sights and sounds, foods and customs of either Spain or Japan, depending upon which class they chose to enroll in.

On one hot, sunny afternoon, the kids huddled over craft projects. In the Spanish class, it was "el oja de dios," a Christmas ornament made of yarn which translates "God's eye." In the Japanese class, it was origami, the intricately folded paper.

The kids also had ethnic lunches each day, and at the end of the day held a brief flag ceremony.

Betsy Patterson, foreign language coordinator for Clarkston Schools, said the mini-camp was the first-ever FLAG program in the district but was modeled on a program tried elsewhere. The classes were taught by certified teachers Melissa White for Spanish and Nancy Frumkin and Kim Benbow for Japanese.

Benbow, who will teach Japanese at Troy High School this fall, lived and taught English for two years in Japan. He modeled for the students his traditional kendo costume, used for the Japanese sport of fencing of the same name.

Clarkston schools offer foreign language instruction beginning with a nine-week program in sixth grade. Even at the high school, language selections are limited. Japanese has been approved but not budgeted, Patterson said.

"This was designed to do something before (sixth grade)," she said. "This was a wonderful first year." She hopes to add more languages and more days next year.

"It's fun for us. Those of us that are teachers are thrilled to have a chance to do this and do arts and crafts."

The Japanese students show off their completed origami cranes.

Kim Benbow in his kendo armor. Kendo means "the way of the sword" and the armor is modeled after samurai armor, Benbow said, adding that kendo is a typical school sport in Japan.

Seniors memories published in book

"Times to Remember: Our Personal Collection," a collection of personal memoirs written by over 100 local senior authors and illustrators, has been published by the Older Persons Commission in Rochester.

Timed to celebrate the OPC's 10th anniversary, the book will be available beginning Aug. 31 at the OPC office, 312 Woodward St., Rochester.

The collection intends not only to peek back to the "good old days," but also to provide an enjoyable experience for the contributors. Their stories mix good times with bad and the ordinary with the unusual to provide a bridge between the past and present.

The hardcover book will sell for $14.75. For more information call the OPC at 656-1403.

Back where they started

Couple meets, then ties knot at Knob

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Although many people meet at the workplace, most don't get married in it.

It was different for Oakland County Sheriff's deputy Lee Squires, who met his blushing bride-to-be, Marsha Hayes, while both were working at Pine Knob during the 1991 summer season.

That was the first year The Palace of Auburn Hills operated its newly purchased and renovated venue in Clarkston. Marsha was working at both arenas as an employee for the volume services department.

WHERE IT ALL BEGAN: Lee and Marsha Squires stand in front of a concession stand at Pine Knob Music Theatre. The couple met while working in the cash room. Lee is an Oakland County Sheriff's deputy who works out of the Independence Township substation and Marsha has been employed by the Palace's volume services department since the arena opened in 1988.

At the Knob she was placed in the cash room, located within a concession area near the east entrance. Lee was one of the deputies who was stationed there.

It was not love at first sight.

"We're (several volume services employees) all enclosed in this room for 8-10 hours at a time and you do a lot of talking," Marsha said. "They (the deputies) escort us to the stands where you collect all the money and you tend to gab a lot."

That's how it was with the two of them, she said.

"We just talked and were friendly. We were just friends the first summer and half of the next summer."

Lee agreed.

"She's a nice lady and we talked. There was nothing special."

Things changed, however, when Lee, who had been going through a divorce, moved into an apartment in Clarkston. At that time Marsha was living in Holly.

"She helped me move and then I just said, 'Want to take in a movie?' It just progressed from there," he said.

Soon, the couple found they had much in common—they both liked to bowl, read, camp and travel—and Lee began teaching Marsha to golf.

The Clarkston News summer pages

They danced together for the first time at a retirement party for one of Lee's fellow deputies. The song playing was Michael Bolton's "When a Man Loves a Woman."

That pleased Marsha.

"My ex never liked to dance and we were married for 20 years. So it was a new experience."

Volume services employees began to realize the Hayes/Squires relationship was more than a friendship.

"It was pretty apparent," Sean Henry, general manager of Palace Volume Services said. "During the second season (1992) at Pine Knob the relationship escalated—it heated up a little."

Henry also remembers when Marsha and Lee became engaged.

"She walked in (to work) just beaming," he said.

Ironically, when the Squires were finally married on July 16, it was in the little gazebo near Pine Knob's west entrance—right before a Michael Bolton concert.

While the couple spoke their vows during a 3 p.m. ceremony, employees were already spilling into the venue's parking lots for a 4 p.m. call time. Though Henry couldn't be there himself (he was working at Meadowbrook Music Festival that evening), he said many employees came a little early so they could catch the Squires' wedding.

As Marsha stood glowing in her white-lace dress with Lee, striking in a white tux, 75 family members, friends and Pine Knob employees gathered around them. Lee's son Bill and daughter Pam and Marsha's son Bryan and daughter Josie—who are all about the same age—stood up for them.

Lee had contacted Palace Director of Facilities Hugh Lombardi, asking for permission to be married at the venue.

"I thought it would be a neat idea," he said.

Palace Chief Executive Officer Tom Wilson okayed the final arrangements.

Marsha says Lee proposed to her on Valentine's Day—unexpectedly.

"I was stunned so it took me a long time to get the words out of my mouth," she laughed.

Though Marsha responded in the affirmative, the couple admit they were a little gun shy about tying the knot. This is the third marriage for both of them.

"We say, 'Third time's the charm,'" Marsha said.

Though the two of them continue to work together at Pine Knob, they don't use their leisure time for concert-going, although they did enjoy a Neil Sedaka concert together this summer.

*'We were just friends
the first summer ...'*

Marsha Squires

The couple looks forward to the future when Lee retires. Then, Marsha says, they can jump into the motor home they've purchased and "spend a year traveling all over the U.S., coast-to-coast."

For now, they'll continue to make shorter trips when they can—when they're not working at the Knob.

And Marsha has good things to say about their workplace setting:

"I have to thank the Palace for buying Pine Knob. If they hadn't, I would have never met Lee."

Inez Robbins marks 100th year

Inez Robbins, formerly of Clarkston, will celebrate her 100th birthday with family and friends on September 10 in Winter Garden, Fla. where she now resides.

She was born Inez Townsend on her family's pioneer farm, three miles south of Davison, the first of seven sisters.

In 1904 the Townsends moved to Clarkston when Inez was in the fifth grade. Their home on N. Main included a barn for their horse and a milk cow. Mr. Thompson was a "Watkins man" (a salesman for Watkins products) and the horse provided transportation for deliveries to farm and village residents. When the business expanded, the Robbins moved to Baldwin Avenue in Pontiac. They sold the cow when milkmen began delivering dairy products.

Inez married Ward Robbins in 1913 and they moved to Clarkston where Ward opened the first auto service and repair shop in the village. It was located at Main and Church Streets in a building that had been Frank Yeager's blacksmith shop. Later, Ward worked for Detroit Edison.

During those early years in Clarkston, the Robbins lived in various homes, including the center section of the frame building between Morgan's Garage and the Clarkston Cafe. The building had been a hotel and was later converted to a three-family structure.

The Robbins had three children, two daughters; Iba Mae (Kenneth) Ricks of Bath, Mi. and the late Marjorie, formerly of Inkster, and a son, Walton of Sandy, Oregon.

During the period when Ward worked for Detroit Edison, the Robbins family left Clarkston to live in Redford and Dearborn. In later years they returned to the village to live in other homes: 27 N. Holcomb, the house immediately north and one on Clarkston Road, located on the northern shore of Parke Lake.

Mrs. Robbins has been a widow since 1970. She now lives with her sister, Fern Crosby, in Winter Garden. She enjoys life and will be happy to hear from and see Clarkston friends. Her address is 21 Surprise Drive, Winter Garden, Fla., 34787; pho-

How does Mrs. Robbins feel about her years? Last February she called her son Walton in Oregon.

"I never thought I'd be calling a son to wish him a happy 80th birthday."

No longer running on empty

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

No one would ever say singer/songwriter Jackson Browne ran on empty.

The prolific artist has rendered many thoughtful products throughout his music career. And many musicians have recorded them, including the Velvet Underground's Nico, Bonnie Raitt, The Byrds, Linda Ronstadt, the Eagles and Kathy Mattea.

Two of his album releases in the '70s, "The Pretender" and "Running on Empty," were introspective glances at his own human condition, recorded live, backstage and on the bus during his 1977 tour.

But in the late '70s Browne began to take more notice of the broader social and political issues of his generation. He was not only actively involved but felt inclined to carry the messages he found in song.

"In a way, I don't choose what I write about—my subjects kind of choose me," he says. "Sometimes [a song] answers a question, and sometimes [it] becomes useful in other ways. It's a healing thing, a way of confronting what's important in my life at the time.

"For me, the process of writing is one of self-discovery. That process is always taking place—a personal search for meaning and a description of life that I recognize."

For Browne, that recognition included an awareness of the proliferation of nuclear power. With fellow musicians, Bonnie Raitt, Graham Nash and John Hall, he co-founded Musicians United For Safe Energy (MUSE) in the late '70s, which pioneered the music industry's growing political consciousness.

In 1979 he toured California with Graham Nash as part of the Alliance For Survival to stop construction of the Diablo Canyon nuclear plant. Continuing his crusade against nuclear power plants, he helped organize the "No Nukes" concerts at Madison Square Garden which included fellow music spokespersons James Taylor, Tom Petty, Crosby, Stills and Nash and Bruce Springsteen.

Knob notes

By 1983, with the release of "Lawyers In Love," Browne was exploring social themes. In his travels to Nicaragua produced "Lives in the Balance," a collection that was hailed by "Rolling Stone" as one of the best albums of the decade.

"I felt a real need to write [that record] because nobody knew what our country was doing in Latin America," he says. "The idea was to sound the alarm, to get the information out. A song can be a rallying cry, a public service announcement. At one point, a critic referred to those songs as more like speeches—that criticism doesn't bother me, because they were speeches that needed to be made."

After more commentaries including "World In Motion" where he examined universal issues of freedom, peace and justice in the context of love and self-fulfillment, Browne returned to intensely personal material which is featured in his latest release, "I'm Alive." Contributing vocalists include old friends David Crosby, Jennifer Warnes, Don Henley and Willie Greene.

It circles back to his early career where an examination of life began within himself.

"I'm Alive" is evolutionary in the sense that

Jackson Browne

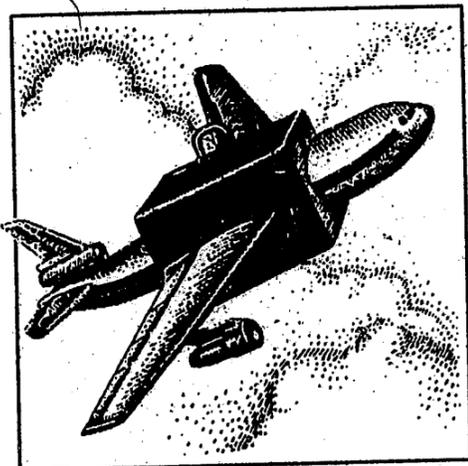

Browne has heightened his self-awareness through the years. And he has found new ways to communicate those inner visions to his audience.

"I'm always trying to find the sound and the words that connect and mean something to me that really can't be described in any other way," he says.

For him, that's a musical mission.

Jackson Browne performs with special guest John Hiatt at 7 p.m. Friday. At presstime both lawn and pavilion seats were available. Call The Palace at (810) 377-0100 for more information.

Deadheads survive two nights of camping

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

If you're on the lake in a motorboat, you want to avoid "dead heads," old logs sticking out of the water that could be harmful to your engine.

But "Deadheads" with a capital D are not harmful. In fact, nothing could be further from the truth.

Deadheads, or followers of '60s rock band the Grateful Dead, are "people with a child-like faith in the ultimate goodness of humanity," according to literature passed out from Deadhead Lance Dagys of Cleveland.

As part of a counter-culture that advocates non-violence, Deadheads exist in their own peaceable kingdom.

"Deadheads may grow old, but they never really grow up," continues the literature. "They would rather play Frisbee than the stockmarket. Happiness is a bottle of bubbles, a strip of stickers, a VW camper and tickets for the next Grateful Dead tour... Deadheads want to live in a peaceful world: A world where all men and women of all races and nationalities are one brotherhood of unique individuals living in harmony with each other."

As devoted fans, many Deadheads tour annually with their favorite band, often following the Grateful Dead from coast to coast. It's a yearly ritual for some who make sure they set aside a special time each summer for the experience.

Dagys attended both Grateful Dead shows at the Palace of Auburn Hills Sunday and Monday night with his friend Dave Yarano, also from Cleveland. A special treat was the celebration of band leader Jerry Garcia's 52nd birthday.

Dagys and Yarano camped at the Pontiac Lake Recreation Area in White Lake Township. While on the road, they frequent local grocery stores for food

to cook on their portable camp stove and grill.

The two have been all over the Midwest during the last two weeks in their bright purple Volkswagen bus/camper, the official touring vehicle of Deadheads.

They know of a VW dealer on North Opdyke who has parts in case they break down but so far Yarano, 29, says, "We haven't had to call anybody."

'Someone who cares unconditionally -- that's a Deadhead.'

Nathan Merry

The two young men have done a total of eight shows during the past week and a half — in Chicago, St. Louis, Buckeye Lake and Auburn Hills.

"But we're not tired," said Dagys. They're used to the laid-back pace and have been doing this every summer for the last 10 years.

"I've been doing this since I was a sophomore in high school," said Dagys, 29. "It's nice to meet good people who care about other people."

but we're not going there."

Dagys spent his two-week vacation traveling to concerts and meeting other Deadheads. Tuesday he and Yarano left for home and their respective jobs. Dagys works as a saute cook at a private club in downtown Cleveland and Yarano does construction.

Nathan Merry of Lake Tahoe will eventually have to transform himself back into short hair and a tie for his job as a food and beverage manager for the El Dorado Casino in Reno. Presently, he's been letting his dark curls trail down the back of his neck and enjoys the casualness of his Deadhead wardrobe: tie-dyed T-shirt, beaded necklace, shorts and sandals.

Like Dagys and Yarano, Merry has been touring, but longer because he has a leave of absence from his job. He kicked off with other Deadheads at their "national gathering" in Wyoming, headed by the well-known (to those in the Deadhead circle) "Rainbow" family. From May 30-June 12, Merry says Deadheads met to share camaraderie and to barter various items: jewelry, clothing and other paraphenalia.

"A lot of Heads go to that. It's a system of bartering — something given from your heart for something you might want that another human being has," said the mellow Merry, 27. "For example I might trade a beautiful crystal for your embroidered

CREATING REAL ESTATE WEALTH

...THEN I SPENT A FEW BUCKS FIXING UP THE ATTIC...

YOU MAKE MONEY in real estate by increasing the value of your property in addition to inflation.

Should I go into Real Estate? "ASK RON"

QUESTION: How does one make money in real estate?

ANSWER: Buy low and sell high. One way to do this is to increase the property's market value. A real estate wealth creator is one who improves property so that the marketplace will pay more for the increased value of those improvements than it costs to make them. "Improvements" mean not only new construction but also renovation of existing structures or creating new uses for under-utilized buildings or under-used land.

The person who spends $10,000 enlarging his home may be adding $20,000 to its value if there is a local demand for larger homes.

For dog lovers only

The search is on for metro Detroit's quickest coney dog connoisseurs, who will compete in devouring a 75-foot A & W coney dog at the Michigan State Fair in August. The contest honors the 75th anniversaries of A & W Restaurants and the Easter Seal Society of Southeastern Michigan.

Written entries to join the competition are required and will be judged on how well the entrants convince the judges they qualify as one of the state's quickest coney dog connoisseurs. From the entries, 15 contestants will be selected who will vie for first, second and third prizes based on how quickly they devour a five-foot section of the giant coney -- the equivalent of eating 10 normal-sized dogs!

To create the 75-foot coney dog masterpiece, A & W will use 15 pounds of hot dogs, 160 hot dog buns, 9.5 pounds of coney sauce, 2.4 pounds of chopped onions and 2.4 pounds of mustard.

The contest and sale of A & W coney dogs and root beer will be held at the Michigan State Fair on Friday, August 26, from 3 to 6 p.m. Metro Detroit area celebrities will be on hand to join in the fun.

The contest is open to adults, age 18 or older. To enter, print or type the following information on an 8 1/2 x 11 sheet of paper:

1. So why would you want to do this anyhow? (25 words or less)
2. How do you plan to train for the event? (25 words or less)
3. Name, address, daytime phone

Entries will be judged on clarity and originality and must be mailed to: Quickest Coney Dog Connoisseurs, A & W Restaurants, Inc., 17197 North Laurel Park Drive, Suite 500, Livonia, MI 48152. Entries must be postmarked no later than August 12, 1994.

The 15 selected entrants will receive a set of A & W 75th anniversary mugs, Easter Seals T-shirts and free admission to the Michigan State Fair.

A & W, the nation's oldest restaurant chain, was founded in 1919 in Lodi, Calif., 15 years after the first known hot dog on a bun was served in the United States. A & W began selling hot dogs in the early 1920s and coney dogs followed shortly thereafter. An estimated 15 million hot dogs are served per year through A & W's 707 locations worldwide.

The mission of the Easter Seal Society is to lead the effort to empower and enhance the ability, spirit and sense of dignity of people with disabilities. We achieve this through the progressive programming in rehabilitative services, assistive technology, advocacy and education.

Deadheads

camera strap for my guitar."

The concern for others and a non-violent attitude are at the core of Deadhead philosophy, he said. While on the road, Heads give a helping hand to any fellow fan in need.

"If you follow the tour you get to know about 2,000 people you meet time and time again," Merry said.

"Sometimes you need a ride or food ... Sometimes they need a ride or food. Someone who cares unconditionally — that's a real Deadhead."

Apparently, those aren't subjective comments. Pontiac Lake Campground's park ranger Joe Patterson agrees Deadheads are good people. And good business. All of the park's 176 campsites were filled during the days of the concerts and Patterson says he had "no problems, whatsoever."

"It was just busy, busy, busy. When you have 200-300 [people] come in at a time, it gets a little hectic. But they are always very friendly and polite," said Patterson, who has been deluged with Deadheads during his last four years as a park ranger. He said that the park enjoys Deadhead business due to flyers that advertise campground space every time there's a tour.

Surprisingly, the only trouble the park had was from two groups of outsiders who harassed Deadhead campers.

"There were two guys raising Cain because we didn't have any more campsites. And there was this religious group who spit on a statue one of the Deadhead groups had on their campsite," Patterson said.

And camp hostess Barbara Timms, who volunteers at the campground with her retired husband Ira, agreed.

"Our firewood is still here ... our chairs are still here. 'We've already asked if we could come back next year,' she laughed.

What's happening in your neighborhood?

Town Hall lecture series returns

Oscar winning actress Celeste Holm will open this year's Pontiac-Oakland Town Hall Celebrity Series October 12.

Holm is the first of four speakers in the lecture series, now over 35 years old. She starred in such films as "All About Eve," "The Tender Trap," and "High Society" and on Broadway in "Oklahoma" and "The King and I."

In her long career, Holm was knighted by King Olav of Norway, jailed by Major Koch of New York and appointed to the National Arts Council by President Reagan.

The series continues November 9 with Jackie Kallen, who will talk about making it in a man's world and how to achieve career success in middle age. Kallen began as an entertainment writer and now manages a promising boxer.

The March 8 lecture features Vladimir Sakharov, once described by the CIA as the most knowledgeable defector on record. A wryly humorous, riveting and highly motivational speaker, he will share not only his spine-tingling adventures as the Russian 007, he will also provide many provocative thoughts about numerous subjects.

The season closes April 12 with the appearance of Betty Mahmoody, a Michigan housewife who went to Iran on a two-week vacation with her family and began an 18-month tour of terror. Her story and daring escape are chronicled in her Pulitzer Prize nominated, best-selling book, "Not Without My Daughter." Since her return in 1986, she has devoted her life to helping others in similar situations.

The lectures will be held at the Pontiac-Waterford Elks Club, 2100 Scott Lake Rd., Waterford. All lectures begin at 10:30 a.m. Lunch is available by advance reservation for season ticket holders only for an additional fee.

Lecture tickets are $50 for the series and are available by sending a check to Pontiac-Oakland Town Hall, P.O. Box 431889, Pontiac, Mi. 48343. For more information call 698-2971.

The Secret Garden is a reality

Holly Garden Park opens first in a series of gardens

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

It doesn't happen very often that you get to see a dream coming true.

But that's exactly what is happening for Jim Hilty and his family in the Village of Holly. There, on 77.7 acres, Hilty is building what he calls a garden park. When it's finished, it will contain a series of separate gardens, each with its own theme.

Like an artist preparing a canvas, Hilty and his family have sculpted the former farm land to prepare it for the work to come. They've planted 10,000 trees, 3,500 lilac bushes, 250 maples, 250 dogwoods, 100 oaks and 4,500 flowering bulbs. They've also built a structure that though brand new looks old. It houses a library and anchors the Secret Garden, the first garden to be completed.

When asked what inspired him to take on such a gargantuan task, Hilty would only say, "It was something to do for my wife and I in retirement." He doesn't talk about how much it's all costing, just about how hard his family is working to make it a reality.

Hilty purchased the land in 1989, literally moments before it was to be sold to a developer by Jackson Transue, a former Congressman who got it in payment for a legal bill. The following spring, work began. Four years into the project, Hilty announced the opening of the Secret Garden this month.

"In the next couple of years you will have several gardens going," he said. They will include an Italian fantasy garden featuring "grotesques" in the classical style, a moss garden, which is already taking shape, and a maze.

The 100-by-75-foot Secret Garden is so named because it is enclosed by walls. The library is at one end, and opens onto the garden via a covered portico. The spot is expected to be used for weddings and conferences, and indeed the first group to use it recently held a medical conference using the portico as a stage and the Secret Garden as an auditorium.

The garden itself is divided into quadrants which are separated by a walk. Each quadrant contains a piece of sculpture and both flowering and foliage plants. Around the perimeter, there is more sculpture. The outside is lined with plants, some espaliered against the walls.

It's something Hilty will leave to his children someday. But in the meantime, he hopes it will be used by handicapped people as a sort of outdoor education center, and by master gardeners who will come and work.

"I'm hoping to have a program where I pair up deaf people and blind people to do a bird count," he said. "This is very untouched here. You go out in the morning and see sandhill cranes, bluebirds (etc)."

He also hopes to build a walkway out over the headlands of Rattalee Lake. It will have a railing so the blind can also use it. "They can go for a half-mile walk over wetlands and listen for birds," Hilty said.

So far, all the work has been done by Hilty's family. Son Loren is a landscaper; he and his wife Sandra are the garden's caretakers. Son Monroe and grandsons Jason and Anthony are all helping. Of wife Evelyn Raskin, Hilty says "she's my life partner."

"As of right now we've done it all," Hilty said. "We have division of labor. It's all chipping in where you have to."

Loren Hilty said his dad approached the family with the idea. "It'll be years and years before the big developments, but it'll happen fairly fast now that we've got the building," Loren said. "It's been a lot of work just to get this building in place."

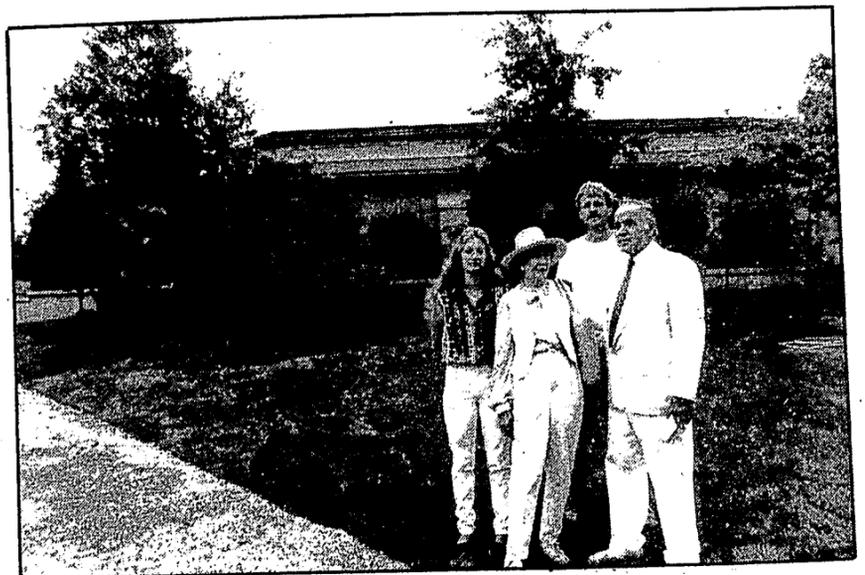

This fountain is set into the back wall of the Secret Garden. It's just one of many pieces of sculpture throughout the park, culled from throughout the world.

The Garden Park of Holly is located at 976 East Maple Rd. (also called East Holly Rd.) To get there, take I-75 to the East Holly Road exit. Go west 3.7 miles and look on the left for a small green sign. Reservations are mandatory and are now being taken for groups on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday mornings for a nominal charge. For information call 810-634-9300.

Inside the walls, the Secret Garden is divided into four quadrants, each with its own sculpture.
