GOVERNOR ENGLER shakes hands on the steps of Ortonville's Town Hall last Thursday. Standing next to him (center) is DDA president Ed Thompson. A packed house peppered the gov with questions near and dear to their hearts.

Engler charms Ortonville

'I was born in a small town,' he tells packed town hall

BY EILEEN OXLEY

Ted Baker leaned out of his truck, killing time in a parking lot until Governor John Engler's entrance into Ortonville last Thursday afternoon. His friend John Hay stood next to him, watching people, young and old, file down the village's sidewalks to the Town Hall where the good gov was slated to appear at 1:30.

"I like him because he's done everything in office he said he's gonna do — lower taxes and probably a lot of other stuff I don't even know about," Baker, an Ortonville resident and village DPW supervisor, said. "Now I can afford to stay in my house."

Hay, an Ortonville resident and retiree from General Motors, has lived in the village for 22 years. He nodded in agreement. "It makes a lot of difference; they (property taxes) were probably cut close to 60 percent. I used to pay $1,200, now it's a little over $500 [annually]."

If you didn't know where the Hall was, you'd have no trouble finding it that day. Small American flags had been poked into the grassy curbs, lining the way to the entrance where red, white and blue bunting billowed above a long yellow computer printout that read: "Ortonville welcomes Governor Engler."

The Governor, who is about to be the new father of triplets due in December, made stops in the 9th District August 11. After a luncheon buffet with a Q & A session in Oxford, he visited Ortonville, staying for nearly an hour. Afterwards he'd make his final landing in Leonard and be presented with three custom-made cradles for his and wife Michelle's upcoming new arrivals.

On the Hall's porch, 9th District Republican nominee Megan O'Neill, clad in a bright-red blazer, waited with her brother and cousin. Inside, more people than the 75 chairs could hold spilled in while Sue Bess, village president, poured coffee and iced tea in a corner.

"This is the first time, as far as I know, that a governor has visited Ortonville — I checked with all the seniors.

"We borrowed the podium from Ortonville Baptist Church, the veggie trays came from Bueche's grocery store and Sunburst Florist let me borrow the plants. We even painted the [Hall's] doors so it looks cheery," Bess said.

"Nobody knows really what to do," said Ed Thompson, president of Ortonville's DDA and owner of Featherston Hardware.

When Engler finally arrived at 1:45, he was warm, friendly and — somewhat nervous. After all, this was Republican country and he wanted to make

City sued:

Fate of 'historic' stone building in question

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Southfield attorney David Gorcyca has lots of questions about an old stone carriage house located in the Clarkston Village West Condominiums off Holcomb Road. It may soon be destroyed but the city wants to save it, arguing that it's one of few such historic buildings left in the area.

"You can barely see it from the [Deer] Lake. If you build on it you won't be able to enjoy it from the road. Who's going to see it? Is it really worth it to preserve this structure? The bottom line is why do they want it so much?" Gorcyca asked, speaking from his law office on August 10.

"It's costing my clients time and money."

The clients Gorcyca spoke of are Ray and Mary Jo Reinbolt of Redford, who recently filed a suit against the City of the Village of Clarkston. The Reinbolts want to tear down the old stone structure, built in 1929, that stands on the property they purchased in 1992.

Originally they wanted to incorporate the carriage house into a new home — until they found out it would cost over $40,000 to do the work and a mortgage rate two percent above that which they originally acquired on $210,000 over a 30-year period. Adding the three-sided stone structure would cost them an additional $144,000 in interest payments.

Though the Reinbolts were unavailable for comment, their attorney spoke for them.

"At first they were willing to abide by the terms of preserving the existing three stone walls. But the architectural plan called for an additional $40,000 to build," Gorcyca said. "Who would have anticipated this cost when they bought it?"

Gorcyca was referring to an apparent agreement made with Clarkston's city council back in March of '93 that said the three stone walls would have to remain, though the Reinbolts could tear down the rest.

"We didn't agree on anything — we were told," said Mary Jo, during a recent interview.

City attorney Tom Ryan, who is representing Clarkston, says the Reinbolts should have known about the costs. And he feels the city will win.

"Because our regulations are reasonable governmental regulations. They (the Reinbolts) are the ones that have changed, not us," Ryan said.

But Gorcyca disagrees. The complaint states that because the stone structure "has not been cited or approved as a historic building," the city has no power against property owners' rights.

The complaint also says the structure "has no

After the trial

Doctor tries to make sense of son's murder

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

Nedra Downing hands a thick scrapbook to a visitor.

Inside are newspaper clippings and photographs detailing the murder of her son, Tom Hollar, his funeral and the subsequent trial of his young killers.

Downing, a Clarkston physician, was awaiting the sentencing of the two gang members who shot her son outside his apartment in Denver's Capitol Hill neighborhood. The two men, ages 21 and 22, were scheduled to be sentenced August 8 to mandatory life in prison without parole.

"I guess the most you could hope for is it be a lesson," Downing said. "We're not going to put up with this. You will be put away for life."

As she talked quietly about the ordeal of sitting through the trial, hearing the details of her son's last moments, Downing occasionally wiped her eyes. But she said it felt good to talk.

"It helps me actually to talk about it. It helps me get the anger off my chest. I know I'm very angry underneath."

On July 23, 1993, Tom Hollar, 30 and his bride of one year, Christina, 27, were returning home after attending a basketball game. Two men, who witnesses said had been hanging around the area before the Hollars arrived, attacked them and demanded their money and Christina. Tom was willing to give up his money but not his wife and was shot twice. Christina was abducted and beaten severely. She was found a short time later in the couple's car, and required five surgeries to put her face back together. The killers were arrested a few days later, while Downing was in Denver arranging for her son's funeral.

"It was extremely vicious and cold-blooded," Downing said. "One of the Denver police officers said he had never seen anybody beaten so bad who was not dead." Christina, who weighs about 90 pounds, now has a plastic prosthesis holding her eyeball in place. "It's a miracle she survived," Downing added.

The trial lasted a month, and Downing was there the whole time. The two men were convicted June 10.

"It represented tremendous expense... loss of income, tremendous stress," she said. "It was far more tiring than it is to work. So we all feel burned out."

The killers are members of a California gang called the Crips. Christina was able to identify her attackers, and her testimony was instrumental in convicting them, along with other witnesses who were in the area at the time of the attack.

"She got a clear and good look at their faces and she was sure they were the ones," Downing said.

Even so, gang members tried to intimidate Christina and the other witnesses during the trial. "There were gang members in the courtroom," Downing

Memorial fund established

Tom Hollar was born in Flushing, Michigan November 6, 1962. He was a 1981 graduate of Flushing High School. After attending college and spending some time out West working on a ranch, he moved to Denver, Colorado, where he opened a popular store for college students and promoted local bands.

He married Christina about one year before he was murdered. Christina had lived in Denver for a number of years, and that is where she chose to bury Tom. She continues to operate their store.

"They had just come back from a beautiful two-week trip," said Tom's mother, Nedra Downing. "They had been looking at houses. They were going to start a family. They were very happy..."

"Violence is touching a lot of people. It calls more young people than ever."

A memorial fund has been started in Tom Hollar's name. Donations may be sent in care of Imi Jimi, 609 E. 13th Ave., Denver, CO. 80203.

said. "Some of them threatened some of the witnesses. They were just arrogant. I think they thought they were going to get off because traditionally some of these people have gotten off. There was a very brave young woman who said, 'No. I saw these guys.'"

The Hollars owned a trendy store called Imi Jimi's and also promoted concerts. They were well known and liked in Denver's alternative art community, according to newspaper articles from the Denver Post.

The murder, and two others occurring close together, all blamed on the Crips' desires to expand to Denver, seemed to galvanize the community. Three hundred turned out for Hollar's funeral, and memorials were left outside his home and store. A vintage Cadillac hearse he owned, which he used to drive teenagers to their proms, was covered with flowers, and a vigil was held outside his home.

'I guess there's no such thing as justice. (The life sentence) doesn't make up for the other terrible thing.'

Dr. Nedra Downing

In her scrapbook, Downing has included photographs of a bumper sticker on a car and a T-shirt someone is wearing. Both contain the same message: "Wanting the death penalty for the murderers of Tom Hollar is not revenge, it's justice."

Colorado has the death penalty. However, because it is so complicated, prosecutors chose to go with a relatively new state law which imposes mandatory life in prison with no chance of parole. Even though the sentence was mandatory, the victim's family was allowed to address the judge before sentencing.

"If I don't break down, I guess I'd like to," Downing said before her last trip back to Denver. "Tom was a man they didn't know. They are blaming others for their lot in life...

"I guess there's no such thing as justice. It (the life sentence) doesn't make up for the other terrible thing."

With the trial now behind them, the family is faced with trying to get on with their own lives without Tom. Downing is back in her office, seeing to patients who were referred elsewhere during her absence.

"My work is very therapeutic," she said. "My patients are wonderful. They've sent so many letters and gifts. It's going to be a period of growth for me. I don't know what I'd do without my patients."

Christina Hollar still owns Imi Jimi and still works there, despite death threats. She's receiving counseling for the nightmares she still suffers.

But Downing still puzzles over what it all means. Noting the teardrop tattoo under the eye of one of the killers, she said it reminded her of the white painted mask of a mime.

"I don't know what that means," she said. "Maybe it means they know better. But this certainly is a facade they hide behind."

Gypsy moth meeting

Want to learn more about the gypsy moth problem? Homeowners in Deer Lake Knolls, Deer Lake Farms and Green Acres subdivisions are invited to attend a meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 6 featuring Carol Lenchek, Oakland County's gypsy moth coordinator.

Lenchek will provide information on counting egg masses and the county aerial spraying program. Spraying is only effective for two weeks in May but residents must complete background work this year to be eligible for spraying. The cost of spraying will also be discussed.

The meeting will be held at the Independence Township Library, 6495 Clarkston Rd., at 7 p.m.

Homearama comes to White Lake Twp.

Homearama, the 12th annual showcase of new idea homes built by members of the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan, will be located in White Lake Township this year.

The show opens Sept. 1 and runs through Sept. 18 in the Brentwood Subdivision, on Cooley Lake Rd. just west of Bogie Lake Rd. This year, 13 homes will be built, ranging in price from $239,999 to $329,000.

Porches appear to be a big feature this year. One home will feature a gazebo built into a front porch; another a triple-arched, 20-foot porch; yet another a wraparound, 34-foot porch.

As they have been in recent years, master suites will stress comfort. One will include a corner soaking tub, another a separate sitting room with a see-through fireplace.

Two homes will display the latest in natural-gas technology and energy conservation, including flexible piping and heavy gauge-steel construction.

Homearama hours are 3-10 p.m., Monday-Friday and noon-10:30 p.m. weekends and Labor Day. Admission is $6; parking is free. Discount tickets will be available at Farmer Jack stores.

Council considers senior living project

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Though almost half the members were missing, Clarkston's City Council had an interesting proposal for senior citizen housing laid at its table August 9.

City Manager Art Pappas and council members Stephen Secatch, Douglas Roeser and Karen Sanderson were absent.

Horace D'Angelo, president and developer for Continuing Care Corporation and Controller/Vice President Greg Burcz, a Clarkston resident, approached council to make an offer on the vacant property at the corner of Waldon and Main.

They feel Clarkston is the perfect community in which to build a senior housing project where senior citizens would find an assisted living situation beneficial.

"This is an ideal little place," D'Angelo said. "They can walk downtown since most would be too old to drive."

D'Angelo's philosophy is modeled after the European style which is to incorporate the elderly into the community. The American way has long been one of institutionalizing the setting like a nursing home — one that encourages dependence rather than assistance. Most senior residential living projects in this country center around shopping centers, D'Angelo said.

"It loses all its humanity. In Europe it's more like a school.

The elderly are moving into small communities and around college campuses so they can have amenities like shopping, restaurants and entertainment. Assisted living is exploding, keeping people out of nursing homes."

"Health-care reform has speeded it up," added Burcz.

D'Angelo says he enjoys "doing projects in residential settings" to provide health care for the "frail elderly" — generally seniors in their eighties who are still independent but need help with tasks like bathing and taking medication.

"I've been successful in every [assisted living] project I've done. We have de-institutionalized, as much as the law has allowed us, the care of the elderly," he said, citing one of his developments, Rochester's Peachwood Inn Borden Court, as a nearby example. Its four programs include a specialty Alzheimer's unit, an assisted living program, geriatric nursing for those with delicate health and a rehabilitation unit which is "very active.

"We send a lot of people home," he said.

The reaction of council members was mixed, although most seemed to emotionally support senior citizen housing.

Though councilman William Basinger felt positive about the idea, he was concerned about the rezoning which would be required on the property, which is composed of five residential parcels.

And he wonders if the venture is feasible. Basinger's forecast includes possible problems such as building on the property's flood plane and an undesirable increase in the city's population.

"You're talking about 50 persons (the estimated number of units proposed by D'Angelo) — that's quite a lot of people," he said. "Clarkston is only 1,000 people. In one fell swoop you're talking about increasing the population by five percent.

"We need an in-depth review to study all the impacts it might have on the community and the issues rezoning would bring up."

A motion was made by Basinger and passed by council to appoint a study committee to investigate the proposal and report back to council at the next meeting on August 22.

"When there's a full house [of council members]," he said.

Basinger, planning commission chairman Dave Huttenlocher and Clarkston City Clerk Jeanne Selander Miller will spend the next few days discussing issues like widening Waldon Road; sufficiency of the existing sewer system, topography of the land (much is unusable because of wetlands), benefits for the elderly and the impact the project might have on the city's zoning ordinance.

"A whole raft of little issues needs to be identified," Basinger said.

So far, the city and Independence Township have received three offers on the land, including this latest.

Township Treasurer John Lutz says though a state grant was denied for the Independence Land Conservancy project to buy the land, another offer from Clarkston residents Bob and Deanna Olsen is being considered.

"It's for some kind of an office building, I believe," Lutz said. He also mentioned that D'Angelo had made a "good faith offer" to the Township Board.

"Basically, he was saying, 'I'm serious about this — here's my thousand dollars,'" Lutz said, adding that he feels Clarkston's City Council needs to study the matter thoroughly.

Selander Miller agreed that a careful study of all factors needs to be made, but stated she is very empathetic with the elderly. As a former nurse and hospital administrator at Harper Hospital in Detroit who worked in the gerontology program, she says she is "well familiar with the issues of aging."

"People do better when they're closer to families — too often we ship them out when they're frail.

"And it wouldn't hurt the business community either," she said.

'Taste of Independence' Sept. 11

The Clarkston (MI) News Wed., Aug. 17, 1994 5 A

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

A new fund-raising idea will combine classical music and the best food served by Clarkston-area restaurants.

"A Classical Evening in the Park Featuring A Taste of Independence" is being planned for Sunday, Sept. 11 at 4 p.m. at Bay Court Park. Co-chairpersons are Rose Johnston and Maureen Owens. The event is a fund-raiser for Bay Court Park.

"Everybody's really excited about it," Owens said. The idea for the classical concert came from a park in Chicago, and the idea for a tasting by local restaurants has been kicking around for some time, she said. The two ideas were combined to help pay off the Bay Court Playscape.

"We still haven't raised enough funds to finish paying for the playscape," she said. The playscape was built by volunteers and purchased with money raised largely by local schoolchildren. Future plans for the park include a beach and a community center.

"We are using this initial kickoff as a fund-raiser," Owens said. Calling it the "first annual" event, she said she hoped it would catch on and remain a community event long after the park is completed.

Restaurants who have signed up to participate include the Clarkston Cafe, Mesquite Creek, Alexander's, Kenny Rogers' Roasters, Little Louie's, Greg's Catering and Myron's Catering.

"We got an exceptional response," Owens said. "Out of all the restaurants I contacted I've only had two 'no's'. Everybody's been very excited about it. I'm thrilled with the response."

Music is expected to be a combination of styles, a "collage," as Owens put it, of classical, jazz and vocal music. The event will be held in a building on the park grounds that dates from the 1920's.

"It's going to be an absolutely beautiful evening," Owens said. "There's going to be valet parking and very nice restrooms. I think everybody has put a lot of thought into every last detail."

The event begins with appetizers at 4 p.m. A rain location will be announced at a later date. Tickets are $35 per person and are tax deductible. They are available through Independence Township Parks and Recreation and participating restaurants.

Some restaurants will be offering discount tickets to their customers with the purchase of a meal, Owens said.

MDOT will install traffic light on M-15

Responding to residents' complaints that there's nothing to slow traffic on M-15 for seven miles, the Michigan Dept. of Transportation will install a traffic light at M-15 and Seymour Lake Rd. this fall.

Bill Drongowski, assistant traffic engineer for MDOT's Metro Region, said the department is pushing to get the light installed right away. Road work that had been planned to be done at the same time will now be done at a later date.

Drongowski said the hurry-up is based on complaints, traffic volume and some accidents which have occurred. He added that traffic volume already meets MDOT's standards for installing a traffic light.

Desi Stankovits, traffic and safety engineer for the Metro District, said the engineering for the light will be done later this week. "There seems to be enough pavement out there that we can work with," he said. He could not give a specific date when the light would be installed.

Perry buys out Hallman's store

Perry Drug Stores confirmed Monday what had long been rumored: that it has purchased Hallman's Apothecary, a longtime Clarkston Main Street drug store.

Perry spokesman Berl Falbaum said the store will be merged with the existing Perry Drugs at M-15 and Dixie Highway. Files will be transferred and customers will be notified, he said.

In addition, any employees who want to transfer will be offered jobs, Falbaum said. "We always transfer the employees who want to go with us. We interview them to see if we can meet their needs."

The Hallman's purchase is one of 12 Perry officially announced Tuesday. All were independent drug stores and nine were in the metro Detroit region. According to a report in Crain's Detroit Business, the 12 stores have a combined revenue of $25 million and 40 employees.

Some of the stores will be merged, some converted to Perry stores. The company plans to acquire or open 45 new stores in the next three years, according to the report. The company already owns 216 drugstores in Michigan.

Meanwhile, the building at 4 S. Main St. is still for rent. Contacted Tuesday morning, the owner said she is still looking for a tenant.

In Focus

by Annette Kingsbury

Is no-fault at fault?

A lot has been said about Woodstock lately, but Kalamazoo Republican Senator Jack Welborn has some strong words of his own to add to the discussion on the 25th anniversary of the landmark music festival.

"Self-indulgence and irresponsibility seem to be the primary values of the morality which has dominated our culture in the 25 years since Woodstock," Welborn said in a column sent to the media recently. He doesn't appear to be blaming Woodstock for changing cultural mores. Rather, he blames the introduction of no-fault divorce laws, at least in Michigan. And he gives some pretty alarming statistics that do make you wonder.

Between 1960 and 1991, violent crime increased 500 percent in the USA. In the same period, illegitimate births increased 400 percent; child abuse soared as did the number of children on welfare and teenagers attempting suicide.

"The fastest growing segment of the criminal population is our nation's children," Welborn says. Maybe not coincidentally, the percentage of households with children headed by a single parent rose from 9.1 percent to 28.6 percent during the same time period.

Welborn points out that in 1971, the Michigan legislature passed a no-fault divorce law. "If our society was in trouble in 1971, it's in the emergency room today. Our no-fault divorce law helped Michigan keep pace with the country's cultural descent, and I have requested legislation to repeal that law in cases where minor children are involved. The importance of unified families and traditional values on our cultural health is impossible to ignore.

"Somewhere between D-Day and Woodstock, America lost its sense of direction. Rescinding the no-fault divorce law is not a 'giant leap' that will save us by itself. However, it is one of many small steps that we had better start taking in the right direction if our children and grandchildren are to have any cause for celebration 25 and 50 years down the road."

What do you think? Would making divorce tougher actually make for healthier, saner kids? Or would staying together 'for the sake of the children' only make things worse?

It's an interesting notion, one I would never have thought of. Here's my two cents worth.

In the olden days, people used to stage public events to qualify for the specific grounds under which divorce was allowed. One party had to be the bad guy just so two people who didn't want to live together could go their separate ways. I don't think Americans want to go back to that.

Perhaps if there was greater enforcement of child support, we wouldn't have so many children living on welfare, in poverty and in despair.

If our state went after these absent parents every possible way (and with the computers we have today, you know it's possible) many of today's kids would get the start in life they deserve and not end up a statistic on a well-meaning senator's list.

Stan Garwood, MA, MSW

Dear Mr. Garwood:

Could you please discuss depression and the elderly? An acquaintance lives alone. Though she still has a driver's license and an alert, inquisitive mind, she has begun to rely on friends more and more and drive less and less, and is depressed about it.

Is there any reason she shouldn't get some medical help, say antidepressants, to make her more comfortable?

Feeling Sorry

Dear Feeling Sorry:

What you describe as "depression" may in fact be an adjustment reaction to the normal aging process or a grief reaction to losses associated with declining mobility, death of loved ones, health issues, etc.

The definition of Adjustment Reaction is "a maladaptive reaction to an identifiable psychosocial stressor, that occurs within three months of the onset of the stressor."

The maladaptive nature of the reaction is indicated by either of the following: (1) Impairment in social or occupational functioning; (2) Symptoms that are in excess of a normal and expectable reaction to the stressor with mixed emotional features. Predominant manifestation involves various combinations of depression and anxiety or other emotions.

If in fact your acquaintance has experienced a common, daily living stressor such as an auto accident or a near-miss, we could surmise as to her reluctance to drive. Perhaps other stresses are causing her concentration difficulties and a temporary short-term memory problem.

Depression in the aged is a fairly common condition. As I mentioned earlier, it is usually a reaction to loss. In addition to loss of health, career, family and social relationships, older persons also experience a loss of social and economic status. The weight of these losses often induces a reactive depression. This may take the shape of untidiness, fatigue, less attention to detail, irritability and troubled sleep.

My advice to you in helping your acquaintance is the following: (1) Identify the problems by exploring all of the possible causes. (2) Refrain from usurping the person's authority and autonomy. They usually can and should be encouraged to do as much for themselves as possible. (3) Clarify and define the problems coming up with practical, workable solutions. (4) Provide opportunities for socialization and emotional support. Everyone needs a confidant, everyone needs a feeling of belonging, a group identity. (5) Refer him or her for counseling. When the person's problems exceed your expertise in mental health, send them to a professional. (6) If after you have attempted the forementioned strategies and the aged person has not responded sufficiently, an antidepressant could be helpful.

I hope this provides you some direction. Good luck.

Something bothering you? Address letters to Stan Garwood, 5854 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48346.

Mishmash

A whiff of skunk odor is refreshing. Anything more than a whiff is nauseous.

All three of our kids have dogs. We did, but don't. A couple of our children's dogs have chewed and/or clawed furniture in our house. Had one of "my" dogs clawed and/or chewed furniture in "Hazel's" house the animals (dog and me) would be pound bound. After the kids' dogs' marks were made, Hazel said, "Oh, look, the dogs have added distress marks to the furniture."

I swear everyone running for political office says they will be tough on crime and stop big government spending. And we all know both go up every year. However, since they all promise the same thing we have no choice on whom to not vote for.

Speaking of Congress, I'm on a committee with Don Armstrong, a retired engineer from General Motors. Recently we were discussing safety features in cars and some early trials. He said Nash had seatbelts in the 1950's, but dealers tucked them under seats because they turned off potential buyers. He also said that sometime prior to the 1974 model year, Congress forced car makers to connect the seatbelts to the ignition so cars couldn't be started until seatbelts were fastened. People objected so strongly that Congress changed the law after only a few months. Perry Hayden, a Quaker miller from Tecumseh, Michigan, set out in 1940 to illustrate the 6th verse of the 3rd chapter of St. Paul's epistle to the Corinthians.

He started with a cubic inch of wheat seed, planted a plot 4 by 8. A year later he harvested the wheat, deducting 10% of the wheat as a tithe to the church. He then planted the balance in the following year.

The 2nd, 3rd and 4th years he deducted the tithe and replanted the balance of each crop. Last year's crop, which was the 5th, had grown from the original cubic inch to 230 acres and netted 5,555 bushels.

The 6th and final year of the demonstration required 2,320 acres of land. "If continued for 9 years," Mr Hayden said, "it would require all the land in West Virginia and in 10 years it would cover the United States."

It is estimated that the 13th year would cover the whole globe; all starting with a cubic inch of wheat, a little faith, and God's promise of increase.

This "wheat" story is from "Guidewords, an anthology of inspiration and humor."

Without talk radio, Geraldo, National Inquirer, a TV in their bedrooms, faxes, beepers and cellular phones, how did the millions of Rwandans know it was time to leave their country?

A look back

15 YEARS AGO (1979)

New Independence Township librarian James Hibler starts his job August 13. His hiring ends a three-month period of a library without a librarian. Hibler hopes to listen to residents' requests which include more information on local history. He will also work closely with the township and Clarkston schools.

A stop-the-gravel-pit movement grows to prohibit a gravel mining operation proposed by the Edward C. Levy Co. of Detroit on 487 township acres. State Sen. Kerry Kammer (D-Pontiac) says he's gathering governmental and environmental support and organizing citizens against the project.

A tax rate one-half mill lower than last year's levy has been set for the Clarkston School District. District property owners will pay $31.16 per $1,000 of assessed valuation for their 1979 school taxes.

25 YEARS AGO (1969)

Terry's Market, a meat and grocery store on Main in Clarkston, closes its doors after 30 years. Township clerk Howard Altman, who has owned the store with his wife Shirley since 1967, made the announcement and says he will lease or sell the building.

Richard Schadel, newly appointed director for the Clarkston High School Band, asks that all varsity band members report for their first practice at 10 a.m. on Monday, August 18. Schadel, who comes to Clarkston from Onstead, taught music there for four-and-a-half years. He, his wife and three daughters have recently purchased a home in Independence Township.

Clarkston residents are included in a nationwide survey on employment and unemployment by the Census Bureau. The survey determines the number of persons with jobs, the number looking for jobs and the monthly unemployment rate.

50 YEARS AGO (1944)

New school superintendent Carl Brablec is honored at a get-acquainted party for members of the school board and their wives and husbands. The gathering is held at the Woolfenden home and includes a lovely meal, an evening of visiting and some group singing.

Nine grass fires have been reported in Clarkston so far this summer. The village is suffering a hot, dry period and lawns are exceptionally dry.

"Buffalo Bill," starring Margaret O'Brien and Joel McCrea, is featured at the Drayton Theatre and "Ladies Courageous" with Loretta Young and Geraldine Fitzgerald is playing at the Holly Theatre.

60 YEARS AGO (1934)

Extensive damage wrought by a storm on August 9 places Clarkston in darkness for several hours. The electric and wind storm cripples telephone and power lines, blows down trees and fences and rips the roofs off several area barns. Oil and gasoline lamps are brought out of residents' attics and others rely on candlelight until Detroit Edison restores power.

The enlarged Spanish Tavern in Drayton Plains has a grand opening on Friday and Saturday and features a dance orchestra. Customers can order beer for 10 cents, sandwiches for 10-15 cents and dinner for 50 cents. There are free souvenirs and no other charges of any kind.

Former State Rep. A. B. Hubbard, born in White Lake Township, is laid to rest Tuesday. Those who worked with him in Lansing remember Mr. Hubbard's warmth, frankness and determination. Though he was a Republican, he was known to have many Democratic friends.

Heritage Hunt II

By Virginia Block

Sister Sharon Schmitz, R.S.M. Mercy Center, 2039 N. Geyer Rd, St. Louis, Mo. 63131-3399, sends a pedigree chart for the Nienstead (Nienstedt) family, her mother's maiden name.

Her maternal grandfather, Henry John Nienstead, was born Feb. 26, 1882, in Ohlman, Ill., and great-grandfather, John Robert Nienstedt, was born July 1844 in Prussia.

With the aid of the phone registry on C.D. Rom, one of our friends has located several folks in the local area with the original spelling of the surname.

The letter states that the change in the spelling was never made legally, thus the "phone" list of over 75 names spelled NIENSTEDT are the ones we will choose to try.

Lapeer, Davison, Sterling Heights, Lake Orion, Clarkston and others are areas we hope will provide some help to our researcher.

Announcement is made of the upcoming 20th Mid-Michigan Antiquarian Book and Paper Show in Lansing. The event will be held Oct. 9, 1994 in the new Lansing Center, 333 E. Michigan Avenue (a different location than where we attended a few years ago), with admission now $4.00. Friend Jim Lalone is co-sponsor of this event and we know his interest in French-Canadian research will offer much to those looking for new ways to locate those difficult Canadian family ties.

It can become exceedingly hard to explain to a person new to the experience, if one is not of the Joy Reisinger era of "Lost in Canada." We have learned via the computer of a new group forming for researching families of the "Kings Daughters."

If you'd like more information on this latest venture into Canadian/American research, give us a note, and we'll look into it further.

As summer is rapidly coming to a close, we continue to celebrate the International Year of the Family with turning to the Native American Heritage, with concentration on the fact that at one time over one million Native Americans were here to greet Columbus, spreading from Canada to Mexico, Maine to California.

The spiritual side of these people bears much good advice for a return to living a saner life, and the wisdom of the Elders of the tribes lives today through the stories still told, as in yesteryear.

We need to talk more to our young people, in quality time situations, to expect a return to "family." Happy Hunting.

Kindergarten information night August 18

The start of school is only a few weeks away, but inevitably some kindergarteners will show up on the first day who were not expected because their parents had not registered them.

Clarkston schools hope to minimize the surprises by offering a parent information night and kindergarten registration on Thursday, Aug. 18, 7-8 p.m. at the district's administrative office, 6369 Clarkston Rd.

At the event parents will be able to enroll children for kindergarten. Parents who have already registered their child but not attended a previous parent meeting are encouraged to attend this one.

To register a kindergartener, parents must bring the child's birth certificate, Social Security card and immunization records, along with two proofs of residency, such as mortgage receipts, utility bills, etc.

Cindy Omans, Clarkston's early childhood coordinator, will provide an overview of the kindergarten program and will answer questions. She will also show a brief video on the kindergarten curriculum.

Grandchildren spark renaissance of gratitude

We traveled back to the Renaissance period, which lasted around 3 1/2 centuries, approximately the same length of time that people have been lost in Detroit's Renaissance Center.

But seriously, the Renaissance period in Europe was the 14th Century to the 17th Century transitional movement between medieval and modern times. So it was appropriate that, while traveling back to that long-ago time, we suddenly hit a modern and evil chuckhole, uncovering 13 lost hubcaps.

It was last Sunday, and we'd been to church, where communion was served. All of us except 3-month-old Elaine, the newest grandchild, had bread and grape juice. Elaine stuck to her bottle of milk. And, in the holy silence following the ceremony, there was suddenly one of the loudest burps you ever heard.

It came from Elaine. I told my wife I was never more inheritably proud of my progeny, and the dairy industry should also be proud. She said I shouldn't say another word about it.

And I wouldn't have, except the next day, my favorite newspaper reported that a Northville church is giving a new dimension to church pews by offering a scent-free seating section. It's for people who can't stand -- and don't emit -- the smell of perfume, cologne, after-shave lotion and, I assume, more personal odors.

I think it's splendid for a church to deal so openly with a subject that many people might consider too offensive to mention. And now I feel free to brag that if you want to sit near world-class burping in church, just follow me and Elaine.

My only disappointment is that the Northville church designates the scent-free pews with signs saying "Fragrance Free Section." I would prefer the more polite, politically correct type of sign, such as used in no smoking areas: "Thank You for Not Smelling."

After church, we headed for a press review of the 15th Annual Renaissance Festival, which opened last weekend a mile north of Mt. Holly on Dixie Highway, between Pontiac and Flint. Lots of great family fun, including more than 200 food, drink and craft shops that your kids can bug you to buy from.

Because the Renaissance period is noted for artistic activity, rather than mechanical, I wasn't surprised to see the merry-go-round move only by virtue of several hard-walking artists operating a treadmill. But until Sunday I hadn't realized the Renaissance is also responsible for the Porta-John.

My favorite stage act was a pun-filled re-enactment of the slaying of Julius Caesar, featuring not only Julius and Cassius but also Nebulous, Tedious and Malodorous. I seated 3-year-old Adam in the front row, hoping that, in his usual runaway manner, he'd climb on stage, thus giving me a chance to quote Caesar as saying, "Et tu, Adamus?" But Adam remained seated; the dumb kid doesn't know Grandpa is a columnist.

As for the modern, massive chuckhole, our van hit it on westbound I-69 in Lapeer County, inside lane, between the Lake Nepessing and Elba exits. I'm being so precise just in case a repair crew needs directions. Our right front hubcap somehow flew across the outside lane and could easily have hit another car and caused an accident. And we found 12 other hubcaps in the tall grass before we found ours.

It was a June 30 two-car accident that put 8-year-old Jenny Bankstahl of Lapeer in a coma, only two years after her older sister Lynn was killed in a car-bike collision. I wrote about the double tragedy two weeks ago, and thousands of you responded thoughtfully and generously. The girls' mother, Karen Bankstahl, is so very grateful.

Jenny, still in a coma, has been transferred to C.S. Mott Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor. "Jenny's now off the critical list, and doctors are hoping for the best," her mother said last week.

Like today's column, life is not all laughs. I thought about that last Sunday, and felt very blessed as I reveled in the Renaissance with four healthy grandchildren.

Harmony House opens in Clarkston

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

As you step into Clarkston's new Harmony House, the sultry voice of Sophie B. Hawkins fills the air.

It's a little smaller than most of the company's stores. But at 2,600 sq. feet, it still offers everything from Mozart to Metallica down its spacious three aisles.

And it was definitely needed in the area, says Chuck Papke, vice president of Harmony House's retail operations in Troy, who was in the Clarkston store last Friday. Two new Harmony House's have opened — this one on August 2 and a second store in Lake Orion on August 12.

"The owner's son found this location — Bill Thom. He was driving by, looking for locations, and he thought this would be good," Papke said.

Bill Thom is the son of the late Carl Thom, founder of Harmony House in 1947, who died July 31. He started his first store in Hazel Park with $500 in his pocket.

Though the Clarkston store's size is limited, customers will now be able to order "anything they see at the Waterford store," Clarkston Harmony House manager Evelyn Haas said.

"They started us out with a Level I catalog. We've been bumped up to a Level II catalog, so if you're looking for something in Waterford we have it here too," she said.

Haas has been with the company for eight years and began as manager for the new store on its opening day. So far, she says, business has been great.

"There's so much traffic here," she said, referring to the store's convenient setting in the shopping center at the corner of White Lake Road and Dixie Highway.

Haas enjoys working for Harmony House and has a good rapport with her customers, young and old.

HARMONY HOUSE manager Evelyn Haas (left) shows Kristin Ried (right) how to use headphones in the listening station. The new store, located in the shopping center at the corner of White Lake and Dixie, opened August 2. Haas says this weekend everything will be marked down during a special sale.

Thanks to the store's large collection, Dana was able to find two of her favorite groups — the B-52's and pop/rockers Ace of Bass.

"I've been looking all over for them. This is closer than Waterford and you can get more variety here," Jeanne said. "And, if you can't find it, there are reference books you can look it up in," she said.

Right now, Haas says, the hot sellers are the "Forest Gump" movie soundtrack, Disney's "The Lion King" movie soundtrack, the Rolling Stones' "Voodoo Lounge," John Mellencamp's "Dance Naked," the "Reality Bites" soundtrack featuring up-and-coming singer Lisa Loeb and Sheryl Crow's "Tuesday Night Music Club."

"And anything by Stone Temple Pilots. Right now the "Forest Gump" soundtrack is flying right out the door with music from the '60s and '70s — Jefferson Starship, Elvis Presley, the Doors ... It's our

A day with the guy . . .

On the same day Governor Engler visited Ortonville, he also visited Leonard and Oxford, where he had lunch and received three, hand-made cradles from a local artisan.

In Oxford, over 100 people paid $10 apiece to have lunch with the governor at Oxford Hills Golf and Country Club. Engler took questions from the audience, which was described as friendly, as well as touting his record. He also received three sets of baby spoon from the Chamber of Commerce.

In Leonard, Engler received the oak cradles hand-crafted by Distinctive Designs. As has become the custom since he and his wife Michelle announced they were expecting triplets, he also met with local families with triplets, in this case the Longos of Leonard. He stayed for a chicken and ham dinner.

"They had to hold up dinner because he wouldn't sit down," said Leonard Village President Eugene Mallia. "He wanted to talk to everybody."
Oxford Leader Editor Brad Kadrach contributed to this report.

Traffic deaths increase in 1993

Michigan roadways proved to be more deadly for the state's motorists in 1993 compared to the previous year. Unfortunately, 1992 also turned out to be the first year in five years that the state did not experience a reduction in traffic fatalities.

Preliminary reports from the Michigan State Police indicate that 1,400 persons lost their lives in traffic crashes during the past year, 100 more than in 1992, an increase of 7.7%. In 1991, 1,425 were reported killed, but in 1988 there were 1,704 deaths, the worst record in more than a decade. (The highest number of fatalities in Michigan occurred in 1969 when 2,487 died).

Increases were also evident in total crashes and persons injured as well. Specifically, 359,394 crashes were reported in 1993 versus 345,525 in 1992, an increase of 4.0%. The most dramatic change occurred, however, in the category of persons injured with 131,991 injured in 1993 compared to 118,995 in the previous year.

Despite this discouraging news, the mileage death rate of 1.5 persons killed per 100 million vehicle miles in 1992, was a new all-time low and was an 11.8 percent decrease from the rate of 1.7 recorded in 1991. Mileage figures for 1993 are not yet available.

The first quarter of 1994 reveals that the number of persons killed was down from the first quarter of 1993, 252 versus 321.

In considering these recent developments, Secretary of State Richard Austin, in presenting his recent State of Traffic Safety address, stated, "The driver is and always will be the key (to improved traffic safety)." He noted the aggressive nature of many drivers and some of the distractions, such as car phones, which take away from the driver's attention to the driving task.

Quoting from the printed report: "The traffic safety community must focus on crash prevention, which begins with the novice driver. Driver improvement programs, increased parental involvement in driver education, traffic safety courses, incentives to become better drivers, as well as sanctions for underage drinking then driving, extended probationary periods and restricted licenses are issues which should be explored."

The Gus Macker phenomenon

BY LEE DRYDEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Thousands of basketball junkies will get a chance to sharpen their skills or watch others compete when the Gus Macker tournament comes to Oakland University on August 27-28.

This year's tournament, which comes to the campus for the sixth year in a row, is expected to draw over 2,000 three-on-three teams and 50,000 spectators.

"We're really excited. It's nice to see people come out to our campus," said Bob Taylor, tournament director and women's basketball coach at O.U.

Other activities during the weekend will include a slam-dunk championship, long-distance shooting contest, a celebrity game and a media game. Over 130 courts will be in use on campus grounds.

"The event is fun for all participants and brings money into the community. It also gives prospective students a chance to see how beautiful our campus is," said Taylor.

Gus Macker basketball got its start in 1974 when Scott McNeal and 18 friends played a tournament on his parents basketball court in Lowell, Michigan. McNeal was given the nickname Gus Macker by a junior-high classmate.

The tournament grew rapidly and moved to Belding, Mi. where it is still held each year. It peaked in 1991 when 300,000 spectators came to the small town. It is now played in 53 cities across the country and has received a great deal of national coverage.

"I think it is so successful because basketball is booming right now. It is a sport that people of all ages and abilities can play," said Taylor.

The Macker tournament prides itself on being a "wholesome, family event" because, although it has many sponsors in each city, it prohibits sponsorship from alcohol or tobacco products.

Macker officials have set up a computer system to ensure competitive play. Each player fills out an application before the tournament with personal data. The computer then matches up teams by age, size, and experience into nearly 100 different divisions.

A team of Clarkston kids recently took first place in an under age ten division at a Macker tournament in Lapeer. They are looking forward to playing in the Macker event next weekend.

"Gus Macker is fun because I like to play basketball with my friends. You also get to meet people," said Mike Hall, 9.

The tournament originally came to O.U. because McNeal's brother, Mitch, who was also in-involved in founding Gus Macker, is an O.U. grad. Taylor also has a connection with the brothers, having grown up in Lowell himself at about the same time.

"Mitch wanted to give something back to his school and it's been a great fit. It allows us to get our university name out and host a great family event at the same time," said Taylor.

There are still openings for late entries in the August 27-28 tournament. The cost is $90 per team and players ages 6-66 are eligible. All participants receive a T-shirt and the winning teams in each division receive a trophy. Call 370-4006 for info.

Kickers return from European tour

The Michigan Maple Leaf soccer team, including two players from Clarkston, recently returned from a successful trip to Europe where they faced competition from all over the world.

JR Kirk and Derrick Spires, of Clarkston, were selected to the team which was comprised of 16-17-year-olds from southeast Michigan.

The team compiled an overall 9-3-1 record in two tournaments. In the Gothia Cup played in Gothenberg, Sweden, the Maple Leafs defeated teams from Italy and Brazil before losing to a Swedish team.

The next stop was the Holland Cup in Amsterdam. The team played strongly, defeating teams from Germany, Holland, and Norway for a third-place finish in the tournament.

Kirk scored four goals throughout the tournaments and Spires added two goals for the Maple Leafs, who were coached by Steve Mastrogianis of Brandon High School.

The players are especially proud of their accomplishments because the teams they played had been together for years while the Maple Leafs only came together two weeks prior to the tournament.

Highlights of the trip included representing all United States teams at the opening ceremonies in Sweden and visiting the Rembrandt and VanGogh art museums.

"It was a wonderful opportunity to see and experience other cultures and mix with the youth of the world, both on and off the field," said Spires.

The Michigan Maple Leafs are just home from a European tour.

Will Lions roar?

Thousands of fans are getting a chance to see the Lions prepare for their new season at no charge. Practices have been open to the public from the beginning of training camp and run through Thursday morning.

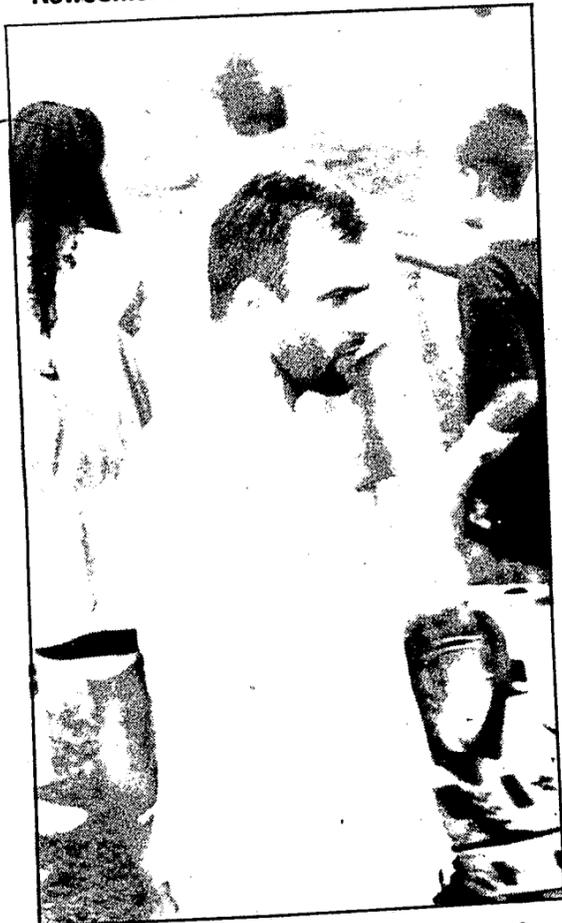

As the defending NFC Central division champions took the field, the fans' attention was focused on new quarterback Scott Mitchell.

Along with other crowd favorites Barry Sanders and Chris Spielman, the fans hope Mitchell can help bring home the Super Bowl trophy that this state has desired for so long.

Ford Crown Victoria for the Clarkston Police Department. Councilman Steve Arkwright, who was in charge of contacting area auto dealers, says the new $15,459 car will be shipped from Pittsburgh to Clarkston Chrysler. He says it will be "signed, sealed and delivered" this week. He added that the older police car would be sold or auctioned, but before it goes the light bar, prison screen and LoJack security system would be salvaged and installed in the new vehicle. The other police car, which has less mileage, will be used primarily for officers on the night shift. "It will get more rest and last longer," Arkwright said.

● Three new part-time police officers have been hired by Clarkston Police Chief Robert DeVore. They are patrol officers William Morris and Thomas Criger and former corrections officer Joshua Lewis. They replace part-time patrol officers Kelly Sexton, Scot Crandall, Michael Kent and Mitch Berlin, who have left the department.

● Council unanimously passed the renewal of a $2,500 police dispatch contract with Oakland

Country. City attorney Tom Ryan reviewed it and presented his recommendation to council to authorize the agreement. This is the second year the county will handle the city's dispatching. Ryan said there is no increase from last year's contract.

● The issue of safety for children and parents at Depot Park's new playground was raised by city clerk Jeanne Selander Miller. Selander Miller, who has small children, feels the city should post several "children at play" signs around the area. She also expressed a need for a crosswalk, striped line and/or sidewalk for parents and children walking down Depot Road. "You can't take a bike or stroller on the north and south sides of Depot from Main," she said. No action was taken.

● A city newsletter, compiled by Jennifer Arkwright, has been sent to residents with their sewer bills. It will continue to notify them of upcoming events, reminders and phone numbers. Arkwright says that in the current newsletter, the non-emergency number for the Independence Township Fire Department is incorrect. The correct number, a business line, is 625-1924.

Taco Bell coming

BY LEE DRYDEN
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Another fast food restaurant will be coming to the Clarkston area.

The conceptual site plan for a Taco Bell was approved by the Independence Township Planning Commission last week.

The proposed restaurant will be located on Dixie Hwy. south of Maybee Road using a total area of just over one acre.

A conceptual site plan approval was granted by the board subject to provisions which include the size of the sign in front of the building and the location of a dumpster on the property.

Taco Bell officials could not be reached for comment.

In other planning commission action:

● After hours of discussion, a rezoning request was recommended for approval. The request was for a 24-acre development located on Maybee Road east of Dixie Hwy to be rezoned from single family to a multi-family residential zoning.

The discussion was over neighboring residents' concerns over increased traffic and removal of trees that the rezoning may bring.

The rezoning was recommended for approval because it agrees with the master plan, according to Rich Oppmann, planning commission chairman.

● The Brookstone Site Condominiums, located at the northwest corner of Ortonville and Cranberry Lake roads, were granted a final site plan approval.

Construction of the condominiums is being slowed by the wait for a sewer to be brought across I-75 to service the new development.

● The Bridge Valley Subdivision, located at Holcomb Road and I-75, was granted a final landscape approval.

Decorating franchise comes to Clarkston

Michelle Biondo used to be a legal secretary with a passion for interior design. Now, she's gone into business for herself as a Decorating Den representative.

Decorating Den is a sort of interior design studio on wheels. Customers contact Biondo, who then sets up an appointment to visit them in her Decorating Den van with samples of all kinds of products, from window treatments to carpeting.

What's new in business

"We go to clients' homes so we can match colors, see the lighting," Biondo said. "We make it easy for them. They don't have to carry samples door to door."

Biondo is one of 1,300 franchisees in the 25-year-old company. "I really wanted to go into my own business," she said. She's been at it for two months now and though she's still learning, clients will recognize the brand names she sells, like Waverly, Hunter Douglas and JP Stevens.

"We carry quality products and we stand behind our products," she said. "I never charge for my design services. A lot of (decorators) charge by the hour—$50 or up.

big seller. We call it "The Gump," Haas said.

Though Haas expects to have "a lot of kids" visiting her store she tells parents not to worry — she and her employees will keep a sharp lookout to make sure youngsters buy age-appropriate music.

"Alternative, rap and heavy metal are good around here, but you have to be 16 or older to buy some things packaged with the parental guidance warning sticker," Haas said.

She related a typical story about a 20-year-old youth who was carded because he looked younger.

"We're sticklers around here. We don't want parents calling to say, 'My son bought this from you!'" she laughed.

"The record labels voluntarily put those [warnings] on. If a parent comes across anything, you can return it — no problem. Anything Mom and Dad don't like, bring it on back. We'll refund it — with or without the receipt."

Harmony House is located at 7073 Dixie Highway in the shopping center at the corner of White Lake Road. Summer store hours are 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., Monday through Saturday, and 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday. Those hours will change the day after Labor Day with closing times one hour earlier on all days. Call (810) 625-0360 for more information.

Ida Williams and her computer "imaging" system.

New owner at Nan's

Ida Williams is the new owner of Nan's Hair Salon, located at 4194 Airport Rd. in Waterford.

Williams bought the salon, which has been in business for about 20 years, in April. Most of the staff of 12 stylists, four manicurists and support people stayed on board.

"Service is really our motto," Williams said. "We're really about people rather than hair."

Williams, who worked in a dental office for 20 years, got started in the hair business when she purchased a computer "imaging" system and became an entrepreneur. The system allows clients to be videotaped with any number of computerized hairstyles superimposed on their face so they can decide on a new look. Williams operated the imaging system on the road for two years before she decided to lease space and ended up buying Nan's.

"It's a real neat way to experiment with change without risk," she said. "To the best of my knowledge, we're the only salon who has this full time." About 25 customers a week use the system, she added.

At Nan's all new clients receive a complete Redken consultation. In addition to hair, the salon offers nails, facials and waxing. Hours start as early as 8 a.m. and run as late as 8 p.m. on selected days, and the salon is open six days a week.

Entries must be taken in a public park, recreation facility or at a public fair or festival. Subjects should include nature, landscapes, visual and performing arts or people enjoying recreation and the outdoors.

Entries will be judged on content, composition and technical merit. Local winners will be selected by a panel of judges from the Oakland County Parks. The entry deadline is Monday, Oct. 24.

The top three finishers in each division will be entered in statewide competition. Winning photographs will be displayed at the 1995 Michigan Recreation and Parks Association's Annual Conference in February at Detroit's Westin Hotel.

Down on the farm

Bible school offers summer fun, lessons

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Hopefully, youngsters attending Son Country Farm harvested more than fruits and vegetables this summer.

At least that's the dream teachers and parents who worked at Clarkston United Methodist Church's vacation Bible school shared.

By using the theme of a farm which grows "fruits of the spirit," children learned about qualities like love, joy, peace, patience and kindness. These are five of the "fruits" listed in Galatians 5: 22-23:

"The fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance."

As a mission project, incorporated into the Bible school, offerings were collected each morning and used for Heifer Project International which helps impoverished families in 31 countries become self-sufficient through providing them with food- and income-producing farm animals.

Children also brought in non-perishable items every day for Lighthouse North, which serves low income families in Oakland County.

The intent of Son Country Farm, "Son" referring to Christ, was to let kids experience "farm things" like real baby animals and hoedown dancing while learning valuable lessons.

Co-director Kerry Waraksa said the particular five virtues from the Galatians verse were chosen because they are the easiest for children to understand.

"They're wonderful, simple ideas kids can grasp and teachers can easily adapt them to their needs. It's an age-appropriate curriculum," she said.

'The fruit of the spirit is love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance.'

Galatians 5: 22

"We figured using a farm theme for younger children would be a good way for them to have hands-on experience and a nice diversion from classroom work."

Children from preschool through sixth grade met August 1-5, from 9:15 a.m. to 11:45 a.m. To drive the farm theme home, live animals were brought in each day. They included a bunny a goat, a lamb, chickens and a pig. Some of the animals were provided by Bellairs Farm of Clarkston.

Craft projects were barn bookends, a planter made from a tuna fish can and clothespins and corn-cob dolls.

You could even say children were country-fed with snacks like watermelon and "dirt cups" — chocolate pudding with crumbled Oreo cookies and Gummi worms crawling out of the top. They were gruesome but a great favorite.

Each day began in the church's sanctuary with a "Howdy" from Waraksa and co-director Kim Shirar who began the day's fruit-ful theme. Then children left for classes in music, arts and crafts, bible stories, games, dance, drama, chimes and the live animals.

Vacation bible school kicked-off with a real country barbecue for parents, teachers and children on Sunday, July 31, and ended with a mini-musical on Friday night that Waraksa said was "sort of a synopsis of the week's activities using skits, songs and dances based on the farm theme."

Shirar, dressed in overalls, gray wig and straw hat, played "Grammedy Gram," a wise old farm woman.

On Wednesday, for example, the fruit was patience (temperance).

Waraksa and Shirar discussed it in front of the brightly-painted backdrop of a barnyard scene.

'We figured using a farm theme for younger children would be a good way for them to have hands-on experience ...'

Kerry Waraksa

Waraksa was upset because the seeds she had planted in a flower pot were not growing fast enough. "They don't have any stems, any leaves, any flowers ...," she whined.

"We forgot that we gotta have some patience when we grow plants. When we put the seeds in and watered them, they started to grow — we just can't see them yet," Shirar said.

The children who sat in the pews held rapt expressions as Shirar and Waraksa explained that you have to "practice patience with other people too, like parents and one other person ..."

"God!" yelled a child.

"Yes, God," said Waraksa, "and yourself. We're all still growing like the seeds."

Then she asked the children for their own definitions of patience.

Seven-year-old Katie Wilmot shot up her hand immediately. She knew that answer well.

"It's where you just wait," she sighed.

CRAFT INSTRUCTORS Harriet Clark (left) and Laurie Reuter (right) put the finishing spray-paint touches on planters made from tuna fish cans and clothespins.

Engler connects with Ortonville a good impression. He shook hands, joked and smiled on his way to the podium.

"Is that the new-style haircut these days?" he asked three boys while trying to ruffle their buzz cuts. It was definitely small-town Oakland County.

As he faced the audience, which now was filled to standing-room-only capacity, Engler attempted to connect, first with humor: "I didn't know I was going to make local history by being the first governor to visit Ortonville," he said, breaking ice and drawing laughter from the crowd.

And then with political tact:

"I grew up in a small town. As a legislator it's always best to represent small towns."

Before he began fielding questions, the governor reminded village residents that he had accomplished much in Michigan.

"In Michigan, one in four parents on welfare are working. We have changed the parole system in this state. We have the strongest anti-stalking legislation in the nation and the [strongest] domestic violence package. The next area to tackle is juvenile crime. With real young offenders we're not able to impact them fast enough."

Then he spent the next hour responding to queries about everything from the usual questions about education, taxes and the environment to less typical requests.

Norman Kapson, an actor/model who works for the Screen Actors Guild, came to express his concern about hiring out-of-state actors for principal roles in Michigan.

"They fix your income. You have to have roles to get your benefits from the union," he complained.

And local pastor L.R. DeMasellis from Cornerstone Baptist Church worried about the morals and behavior of prison inmates. He wants Engler to support volunteer chaplains who would address the "full spiritual needs of those incarcerated" in state correctional facilities.

"I'll try to find out. Let me see what I can do," answered Engler to both Ortonville residents.

Villagers also grilled the governor on the matter of a seven-mile stretch on M-15 that has no traffic lights. Many feel the 55-mph speed limit encourages reckless driving from I-75 to the first light that finally appears at the entrance to Brandon High School.

The lack of traffic-light stops has long been blamed for accidents on M-15, the most recent being a collision at Oak Hill that claimed the life of a 2-year-old child.

"What about the road improvements for M-15? This has been a problem in the community for three years. We're not even on the agenda anymore," Connie Brewer, vice president of the Ortonville Chamber of Commerce, complained.

In response to a hesitant Engler, state Rep. Tom Middleton-R of Ortonville stepped in. Middleton said he was trying to encourage the Department of Transportation to get a new light installed at Seymour Lake Road and M-15.

"I'm pushing to get it in earlier [than the scheduled date]," he said.

Before he left, Engler told residents he wanted to start a state government cable-access channel to broadcast key committee meetings like those from the departments of transportation and natural resources.

He also praised Brandon Schools for starting a year-around school program at H.T. Burt Elementary which began August 8.

And he received a gift from Ortonville resident Mary Alice Seelbinder — a copy of the state's budget from 1892 which had been in her family for three generations.

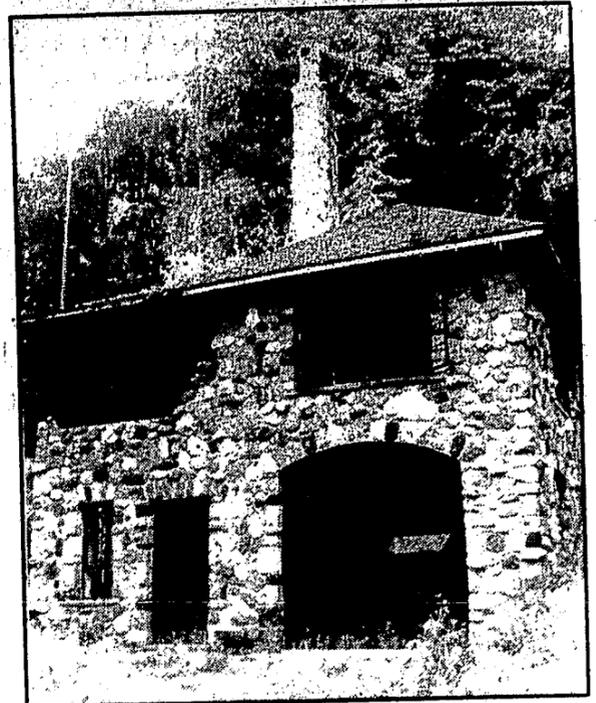

As Engler perused the budget's itemizations, he shared some of the old figures with his audience.

"Look at this — $10.60 for stationery," he chuckled.

Engler left the same way he arrived. More comfortable now, he greeted residents and the press, who popped their flash cameras endlessly.

After everyone was gone — back to work or home to start supper — Ed Thompson stooped to pull out the many American flags that still stood tall along the street. His eyes twinkled and in them was a glimmer of hope.

"If we ever need anything, maybe he'll remember Ortonville," he said.

The old stone structure, referred to as a carriage house, was built before 1930. Technically, anything over 50 years old is considered "historic," according to the Clarkston Historic District Ordinance. The problem is, the building is not located within the district.

City sued

monetary or market value. It is "an eyesore," "bears no tax advantages to either the plaintiffs or defendants" and has caused the Reinbolts "irreparable harm and damage."

"I beg to differ [with the city's stance]. This hinges on the Constitution. There are constitutional rights to use and possess property without governmental interference in both the U.S. and state constitutions," Gorcycya said. "The burden is going to be on the city to prove that this has got either monetary or historic value and they have legal justification to preserve it."

"But it all comes down to basic property rights." Whether or not the case will end up in court has not been determined. A hearing date with Order to Show Cause has been set for August 31 with Oakland County Circuit Court Judge John J. McDonald.

But there is also talk about moving the structure to another place within the city. The relocation would be paid for by the Reinbolts, said Ryan.

"They said they were going to try to do that. It was their suggestion. I'm waiting," he said.

Boat motors recalled

Several major boat manufacturers have announced recalls recently, according to Independence Township Fire Marshall Jay Ashley.

Among the manufacturers are Kawasaki (1989-90), Mercury Marine (1991-2), Nissan (1990-91) and Yamaha (1991) and Sea Ray (1992).

Most of the recalls have to do with defective parts and the potential for fuel-related danger. Recalls include boats, sterndrive units and inboard and outboard engines.

QUESTION: I read a few years ago that the fixed rate mortgage was just about out of existence. Is this true?

ANSWER: The pundits were wrong. Lenders are now offering fixed rate mortgages and at competitive interest rates. However, the popular, adjustable rate mortgage is still with us and probably always will be.

With the adjustable rate mortgage, the borrower shares the risk of fluctuating interest rates with the lender. In order to make this shared risk salable, lenders usually offer the borrower a premium of choosing an adjustable mortgage--somewhere between a point or two below the fixed mortgage rate.

Art and summertime go together

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

Outdoor art fairs are a popular way to spend a beautiful summer weekend. Patrons get to meet the artists as well as purchase one-of-a-kind objects for their homes.

For Clarkston resident and potter Ruth Coulson, that personal contact is the best thing about outdoor art fairs. And she has been instrumental in keeping one of them going.

When the 18th annual Art at Meadowbrook returns to Rochester this weekend, it will be because Coulson and her fellow artists at the Creative Arts Council decided they needed a place to display their work.

Coulson, a former art teacher, has been working in clay since the 1970s. Her range now extends from the functional—such as dishes and serving pieces—to the fanciful (birdhouses) to the abstract. A former president of what was then called the Creative Council, she helped organize shows so artists could sell their work.

Though the organization has changed its name and grown to over 80 members since its founding in 1965 at Oakland University, "It still has the same purpose," Coulson said. "This is the one show they have continued to support all these years." This year's show will include over 125 artisans.

Ironically, it was a student who introduced Coulson, his art teacher, to clay. She started out doing large, realistic animal sculpture, then studied at Pewabic Pottery in Detroit.

"From then on I was constantly in clay, and I started selling my work almost immediately," she said. "I do functional pieces, and frilly, fluffy things. It's like I do my serious work and my fun work."

Coulson credits the wide range of her work to her constant study and mingling with other artists at the clay studio at Oakland Community College in Royal Oak.

Ruth Coulson holds one of her bird houses. These are among the things she calls her 'fun' work.

Ruth Coulson and her creations will be featured at Art at Meadowbrook this weekend.

"If you want to stay in a medium you've got to get exposure to other people," she said. "You can stay home for awhile but you've got to get out. Maybe that's why my work is still growing."

Coulson is excited about the pottery scene surrounding OCC, which itself hosts a huge potter sale

'It's sort of like an intrigue; I start a project and I never really know where it's going to end.'

Potter Ruth Coulson

each December. "There are so many new and wonderful potters entering the field," she said. "It's very exciting. They're working in both modern and traditional."

Coulson has had a busy summer. She's already appeared at art fairs in Petosky and Charlevoix and had her van packed for another show the weekend before Meadowbrook. She said that allows her to gain customers from all over.

"My customers are all over the state and by going to different art shows they find me. It's nice."

Even though she has loyal customers of her own, Coulson is still a fan. Pointing to a tile she recently bought at the huge Ann Arbor art fair, she said it was all she could afford by the artist but she was happy to be able to meet her and talk shop.

"That's what it's all about."

The 19th Annual Art at Meadowbrook outdoor art fair will be held Aug. 20-21 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The exhibit used to be held on the grounds of Meadow Brook Hall, but has moved this year to the corner of Walton and Adams Rd. Parking and admission are free.

World War II remembered at historical museum

The Detroit Historical Museum's new exhibition, "World War II Remembered," includes accounts of many Detroiters who made a variety of contributions to the war effort.

Detroit City Council President Maryann Mahaffey, then a college student, volunteered to work at a Japanese internment camp in Poston, Ariz., as a recreation worker with children. Mahaffey's recollection of that experience, including photos and mementos, are among the many personal stories included in "World War II Remembered."

He's still the Cougar

Mellencamp's raw rockin' hurts so good

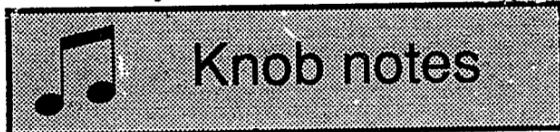

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

One thing you can say about John "The Cougar" Mellencamp is that he's never hid his earthy self from anybody.

That sexy, defiant stare dares the world to enter his, where he reigns supreme as King Cat, the slinky sensual rebel against society's hypocrites who hide their real selves in the closet.

Mellencamp brings his out — and he doesn't care if you're shocked at his brutal honesty or in-your-face attitude either.

"Come on — I dare you," he seems to hiss through a lip-curved grin.

His newest album, "Dance Naked," exposes all his raw but refreshing appreciation of life's passions. And it's danceable too.

"This is as naked a rock record as you're going to hear," offers Mellencamp. "All the vocals are first or second takes, and half the songs don't even have bass parts. Others have just one guitar, bass and drums, which I haven't done since 'Hurts So Good.'"

"Dance Naked" is true Mellencamp, with songs of unbridled lust, sibling animosity, wild abandon and simple bemusement. He's best when he's himself — a liberal-minded poet, part-angel, part-devil — rasping about life, love, pain and ecstasy.

The album's title track and opening cut is a good example of its disarming directness.

"I want you to dance naked/So I can see you/I'd like to get to know you/You don't have to act naughty," he croons to a new lover or even himself. In it he's glaringly confessional and his trademark candor lets him get away with it, unlike most other rock singers.

Two other songs are standouts. "Brothers" judges and attempts to shake up an erring sibling while a remake of Van Morrison's "Wild Night" offers a duet with bassist Mé'Shell Ndege Ocello.

Mellencamp's "Dance Naked" tour follows on the footholds of five world tours in 12 countries since 1982 when he opened for Heart while promoting "American Fool." He's sold over 30 million records worldwide and has had 40 top-40 singles in the U.S. Among his most-performed songs are "Small Town," "Jack and Diane," "Paper and Fire," "Cherry Bomb" and "R.O.C.K. In the U.S.A."

"Hurts So Good," "Pink Houses," "Rain on the Scarecrow" and "Check it Out" have received Grammys in several categories.

Mellencamp organized Farm Aids I-VI with Willie Nelson and Neil Young and played at all six events. As a concerned American about farmer's rights, he performed acoustically on the back of a flatbed truck in Chillicothe, Mo. in 1986 for the Farmers' Home Administration. He also played two benefit concerts in Indianapolis and Chicago in 1992 to help victims of the Midwest floods.

Besides his musical talents, Mellencamp, like fellow artists Jerry Garcia, Miles Davis and others, is an avid painter. He has produced over 750 oil paintings in the last decade. Ten of them will be featured in the new book, "Musicians As Artists."

John Mellencamp, with special guest Texas, will perform at Pine Knob Tuesday, August 23, at 7:30 p.m. At presstime only lawn was available. Call The Palace at 377-0100 for more information.

Obituaries

Magdalene Cuyler

Former Clarkston and Detroit resident Magdalene A. (Alger) Cuyler of Sarasota, Florida, died August 11, 1994. Her age was not disclosed.

Mrs. Cuyler was a graduate of Michigan State College and was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority and Incarnation Catholic Church.

She is survived by a godchild, Pam Hutchinson of Waterford, two nieces and a nephew.

Graveside services will be held Thursday at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, Southfield. Funeral arrangements were by Lewis E. Wint and Son Trust 100 Funeral Home.

James 'Pete' Hamilton

James C. ('Pete') Hamilton, owner of Regal Feed of Clarkston, died August 15, 1993. He was 53.

Mr. Hamilton followed his father, Charlie, into ownership of Regal Feed after working there for many years. He was born May 8, 1941 in Paragould, Ark. and served in the military during the Vietnam era. He was a serving elder at the Joslyn Ave. Presbyterian Church in Pontiac.

He was preceded in death by his father. He is survived by his mother, Glendora Boland, of Mississippi; two daughters, Mrs. Sonna (Brian) Kelly of White Lake and Alice Wharry of Pontiac; a son, James Calvin Hamilton II, of Waterford; three grandchildren; and two brothers, Ernest Junior (Paula) Hamilton of Holly and Lt. Col. Jack Ray (Constance) Hamilton of Alabama.

Visitation will be held at Huntoon Funeral Home's Huron St. Chapel, 855 West Huron in Pontiac on Wednesday from 3-5 and 7-9 p.m. Funeral services are Thursday at Huntoon at 11 a.m. Burial will be in White Chapel Cemetery.

Melvin Helms

Melvin C. Helms, 86, of Clarkston died August 9, 1994.

Mr. Helms was retired from GM Truck and Coach and enjoyed trap-shooting, fishing and hunting.

He is survived by his wife, Madeline, a daughter, Carlene (John) Sherk of Clarkston, and friend Mildred Foster of Clarkston.

Funeral services were Friday at the Lewis E. Wint & Son Trust 100 Funeral Home with Pastor Bruce Benson officiating. Burial followed in Evergreen Cemetery.

Private family services will be held at a later date. Funeral arrangements by Lewis E. Wint & Son Trust 100 Funeral Home. Memorials may be made to the Michigan Heart Association.

The earliest photographs involved exposing a metal plate to light for about eight hours. This discouraged portraits and encouraged pictures of buildings and other immovable objects

Top sales performance honored

Ray and Lisa Smigelski of Clarkston, owners of the local Kitchen Tune-Up franchise, recently received an award at their company's convention in Dallas, Texas. They received the "Top Door Replacement Sales of the Year Award" for outstanding door replacement sales and customer service during the past year. The Smigelskis have held their franchise for three years and beat out 250 other competitors for the award. "Our success and growth can be attributed to long hours of hard work," Ray said. They are pictured with a

College scholarships available

Each year students preparing to go to college or graduate school face the dilemma of how to pay for tuition, room and board, text books, lab fees, and other expenses. That's because college costs have skyrocketed and continue to increase yearly, putting extra strain on family budgets and assets.

Yet there are over 375,000 funding sources available to assist these students. Contrary to popular belief over 80 percent of the funds available to Prepare for end of yard waste pick-up

The last phase of Michigan's new yard waste law which bans this material from incinerators and landfills takes effect next March. Many communities and residents are looking for ways to reduce the amount of yard waste put out at the curb for pickup and disposal.

To help residents with this yard waste dilemma, the Oakland and Macomb M.S.U. Extension offices have developed a "Master Composter Course." This six-week course will cover the basics of composting, current legislation and local ordinances, compost systems and equipment, compost chemistry, application to soils, uses of finished compost and reducing yard waste prior to composting.

An afternoon or evening course will be offered every Thursday, September 29 through November 10, from 1:30 to 4 p.m., or 7 to 9:30 p.m. at Freedom Hill County Park on Metro Parkway just east of Schoenherr Road in Sterling Heights.

The $30 tuition includes a resource notebook and 15 hours of instruction by regional Extension Agents, MSU specialists and other local experts.

students do not depend on family need or high grades. Many are based on factors such as the student's interests, hobbies, academic focus, age, ethnic background or parent's work or military service.

Remarkably over $6.6 billion of this funding goes uncollected each year simply because people do not ask for it, according to a report by the National Commission on Student Financial Aid. Now a new academic funding publication, updated for 1994, is available to help students through the process and to outline their options and identify sources for assistance.

For information on how to receive academic funding and scholarships send a No. 10 self-addressed, double-stamped envelope plus $1 to cover handling to the National Academic Funding Administration, 26 Coe Drive, Suite 1300, Durham, NH 03824.

WANTED: JUNK CARS and trucks. Cash paid for repairables. 628-7519. IILX31-4

We are SIDING and GUTTER Specialists

We are not a Jack-of-all-trades. We can not guarantee you the absolute lowest price, as we will not sacrifice the quality products or workmanship that you deserve. But what we will guarantee is an honest and fair price with products and workmanship of the highest quality. We also do our own work. We don't get your job and sub-contract it out, or sell it. So if you are only looking for the cheapest way out, call someone else who claims they can beat any price. If you are looking for an honest and fair price, quality products and workmanship, dependability, and someone that will still be here after your job is completed, give us a call. Helping you make your home the one you've always dreamed of is what we do.

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE

NOTICE OF PROPOSED ORDINANCE AMENDMENT

At a regular meeting of the Township Board held on August 3, 1994, the Board authorized a First Reading and Adoption of an amendment to the Township Zoning Ordinance No. 83 as follows:

TEXT AMENDMENT TO ZONING ORDINANCE
(Research-Office District)

An ordinance to amend Ordinance No. 83, as amended, the Charter Township of Independence Zoning Ordinance ("Zoning Ordinance"), for the purpose of amending Article XXIV by deleting the current language of such Article and providing replacement language, as set forth below, so as to establish a new Article consistent with the statement of intent specified in Section 24.01.

THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE
ORDAINS AS FOLLOWS TO AMEND THE ZONING ORDINANCE:

Section 1 of Ordinance

Article XXIV, in its entirety, including Sections 24.01 thru and including Section 24.05 of the Zoning Ordinance, shall be amended by deleting all of the current language of such Article and inserting the following as the new Article XXIV of the Zoning Ordinance:

ARTICLE XXIV. RESEARCH-OFFICE DISTRICT
Sec. 24.01. R-O-Research-Office District Intent.

The intent of the Research-Office District is to permit those research, office and light industrial uses which are planned and designed to compliment and be consistent with surrounding and/or adjacent land uses and to act as a buffer between more intensive land uses and the less intense residential zones. It is further intended that the Research-Office District provides locations for research, office and light industrial uses which by their nature require close proximity to major thoroughfares as well as to other, similar types of uses.

The uses permitted in this district shall be incorporated in a planned campus environment through the coordinated application of development standards such as building height, signage, landscaping, and other unifying elements.

Sec. 24.02. Permitted principal uses in accordance with and subject to Section 24.04, below.

1. Office buildings for corporate executives, administrative and professional staffs, together with their support personnel.
2. Training and/or educational centers where such centers are designed and intended to provide training at the business and/or professional level.
3. Data processing and computer centers including the servicing and maintenance of electronic data processing equipment.
4. Accessory building and uses customarily incidental to any of the permitted principal uses.

Sec. 24.03. Special land uses subject to and in accordance with Section 5.15, and subject to and in accordance with Section 24.04, below.

1. Research and design centers where said centers are intended for the development and testing of prototype, pilot or experimental products.
2. Light manufacturing, processing and assembly, of the following:

- (a) Communication, transmission and reception equipment such as coils, tubes, semi-conductors, navigation control equipment and systems guidance equipment;
- (b) Data processing equipment and systems;
- (c) Metering and testing instruments;
- (d) Optical devices, equipment and systems;
- (e) Electrical and electronic equipment and supplies;
- (f) Office, computing and accounting machines;
- (g) Automotive parts and accessories.

3. Warehousing, when associated with a permitted principal or special land use.

Sec. 24.04. Special Development Standards and Restrictions.

1. The R-O District is so structured as to permit along with any specific uses, the manufacturing, compounding, processing, packaging, assembly and/or treatment of finished or semi-finished products from previously prepared material. The processing of raw material for shipment in bulk form, to be used in an industrial operation at another location, shall not be permitted.

Taking into consideration the performance standards set forth in Section 5.18, objectionable activities such as casting, multi-station machining, stamping, wave soldering, welding, and/or etching associated with a principal permitted or special use shall not be permitted in the R-O District.

2. To the maximum extent feasible, the development shall be designed so as to preserve natural resources and natural features. In the interpretation of this provision, natural resources and natural features may be impaired or destroyed only if it is clearly in the public interest to do so. In determining whether action is in the public interest, the benefit which would reasonably be expected to accrue from the proposal shall be balanced against the reasonably foreseeable detriments of the activity. To accomplish this balancing, the following criteria shall be applied: The availability of feasible and prudent alternative methods of accomplishing the development; the extent and permanence of the beneficial or detrimental effects of the proposed activity; the size, quality and rarity of the natural resources or natural features which would be impaired or destroyed.

3. To assure a minimum of physical disruption to properties adjacent to the site plan area, a one hundred (100) foot perimeter setback area shall be maintained. If the setback area is wooded, said wooded area shall be maintained without removal of any significant material. Should the setback area not be wooded, it shall be landscaped as found necessary by the Planning Commission to maintain a natural appearing screen.

4. Loading areas may be located in side or rear yards, provided such loading areas shall be screened from view from adjacent residential area or dedicated road. Loading areas shall be designed and located to not interfere with parking and circulation, and to prevent the backing of trucks or other vehicles onto a public street or general circulation drive.

5. Outdoor storage shall not be permitted.

6. All mechanical and roof mounted equipment shall be screened in a manner to be reviewed and approved at site plan review.

7. For those properties on which hazardous and/or toxic substances and/or materials, and/or their by-products, may be present for any purpose, including, without limitation, processing, storage and/or use, all requirements of applicable law and ordinances (e.g., Section 5.18.5 of this Ordinance) shall be strictly complied with, along with any other precautions reasonably determined to be necessary by the Planning Commission in the exercise of discretion as part of special land use approval and site plan review.

8. The building design, including accessory buildings, shall be reviewed by the Planning Commission to ensure compatibility with the site and surrounding area.

9. The maximum lot coverage by all buildings shall not exceed twenty-five (25) percent of the gross site area.

Sec. 24.05. Site Plan Review.

For all uses permitted in the R-O District, there must be site plan review as required under Section 5.12.

Section 24.06. (Area, height, bulk and placement requirements.)

Area, height, bulk and placement requirements in accordance with Article XXX, Schedule of Regulations.

Section 2 of Ordinance
Amended only as specified above, the Zoning Ordinance shall remain in full force and effect.

Section 3 of Ordinance
The provisions of this Ordinance are hereby ordered to take effect immediately upon publication in the manner prescribed by law.

Respectfully submitted,

Joan E. McCrary
