Enrollment in Clarkston schools continues to jump

This year's enrollment numbers for Clarkston High School have already surpassed what was expected to be the highest possible enrollment just a few years ago.

This year's official head count done by the district for the state shows CHS with a student population of 1,728, up 43 from a year ago. Back in February, 1993, when the district prepared an information packet for a bond issue, the "most likely" enrollment for this year was expected to be 1,697. The Fire station plans on hold

Board majority wants site moved over

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News-Staff Writer

Another snag has been put in the plans to build a new fire station/sheriff's substation in Independence Township.

The Independence Township Board of Trustees voted to have Supervisor Dale Stuart investigate the possibility of purchasing another section of property next to the proposed parcels. Stuart and Treasurer John Lutz cast the lone no votes.

"Certainly we can explore different areas but as we explore those properties we basically have to start from scratch again," Stuart said, referring to the preliminary plans presented by architect Dennis Dundon.

The property is located on Citation Drive near M-15.

Also at the Oct. 18 meeting, board members raised concerns about the building's cost of over $2.3 million, higher than originally expected. Some board members said the substation would have to be added on at a later date.

Dundon said if the board plans to begin construction by March of 1995, then a direction must be given to him within the next few weeks. He presented the board with two options. The first set of plans includes a building with the fire station and substation. The second includes plans for just a fire station.

Although board members had some concerns about delaying the project again, they want to cut costs while including both the fire station and substation. One of those major costs is a $114,000 retaining wall, which surrounds the 30-space parking lot needed for the substation.

Because the parking lot currently sits below ground level of the building, a retaining wall is required. Dundon said if the site could be moved farther up, a retaining wall would not be needed.

But even if the wall is not needed, the substation

"high" enrollment was estimated at 1,721. The school's capacity, according to a facilities review prepared in January 1989, is 1,200.

Enrollments are also up this year at the middle and elementary levels. Total elementary (grades K-5) enrollment is up 140, while total middle school (grades 6-8) is up 29 students.

The increasing number of students has caused the district to add teachers this fall. And though the district opened a new elementary school this year, some space that had been reserved for other uses is now being used for classrooms.

The head count is important because under the new formula for state funding implemented under Proposal A, the district once again receives state money based upon the number of students enrolled.

Deer crashes pile up

Nine car/deer accidents were reported on Independence Township roadways last week. Of those, four were in the area of Sashabaw and Clarkston roads; two were on M-15 near I-75. The other crashes occurred on southbound I-75, on Maybee near Dixie and on White Lake Rd. near Dixie.

According to AAA Michigan, this is the most dangerous time of year for car/deer accidents. The insurer recommends not swerving to try to avoid the deer, saying that can be more dangerous to the driver.

The news in brief

Begging hours scheduled

Trick-or-treating will take place in Clarkston and Independence Township from 6-7 p.m. Oct. 31. Candy may be checked at either Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, 50 N. Perry, or Community Health Care Center, 385 Lapeer, in Oxford. At POH use the emergency entrance on Lawrence Street and at CHCC use the main entrance on Lapeer.

Vote counters needed for election

Clarkston city clerk Jeanne Selander Miller says extra people are needed to count votes in the city office for the Nov. 8 election. Pay is $5 per hour. Call the city office at 625-1559 for more information.

Joint meeting of the boards scheduled

A joint meeting of the boards of Independence Township, City of the Village of Clarkston, Springfield Township and Clarkston Community Schools will be held Wednesday, Nov. 2 at the Oakland Technical Center-Northwest in Auburn Hills. A social hour and dinner will precede speaker Dick Carlisle, a planner for both Independence and Springfield Townships, who will provide an update on projected growth and development in the school district. Reservations for Board members must be made by Tuesday, Oct. 25.

Meeting date changed

The Clarkston Board of Education has rescheduled its regular November meeting. The meeting will take place Monday, Nov. 7 at 7 p.m. at the administration building, not on Nov. 14 as had been planned earlier.

Teen recovering in hospital

An 18-year-old Holly man was in good condition Monday at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac after being found dazed and bloody on the railroad tracks on White Lake Rd. in Independence Township.

The man, a student at Holly High School, said he didn't know how he got there. Witnesses reported seeing him, with his face and head already bloodied, stumble and fall on the railroad tracks. They covered him with coats and called police. Police were able to determine that he had started out his day at HHS, then left after getting into an argument. He was called down to the office but never arrived there. He was found at the railroad crossing shortly after 11 a.m.

Face-lift begins for Clarkston Cafe

If you notice unattractive plywood covering the Clarkston Cafe, don't worry — it's only temporary. Cafe co-owner Randy Lincoln says a new front is in order for the restaurant — part of the improvement plan to revamp the popular cafe which was recently purchased by Sign of the Beefcarver Inc. Construction began Tuesday on an improved street facade featuring new windows, awnings for first and second stories and doors. The front face-lift will resemble the cafe in its early days. "It'll look like it did back in the '30s," Lincoln said Tuesday.

Northwest Inn opens for the fall

Students do it all at tech center's restaurant

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

"Is the salmon fresh or frozen?" the patron at the Northwest Inn wanted to know.

The student waiter paused a moment, realized he wasn't sure, then turned and asked his teacher, Deb Trudeau. Frozen, she said with authority. Frozen, he confidently told his customer.

That incident illustrates the kind of training going on at the Northwest Inn, a student-run restaurant inside the Oakland Technical Center Northwest. Here students learn not only the "front of the house," but baking, pantry and hot and cold foods as well.

As Trudeau, a certified culinary educator, explained, students are offered a two-year program with training in four specialties. By the end of the first year students have had training in each area. In the second year, they go on to more advanced training. About 60-80 students enroll each year from six school districts, including Clarkston. Some high-school graduates are also enrolled.

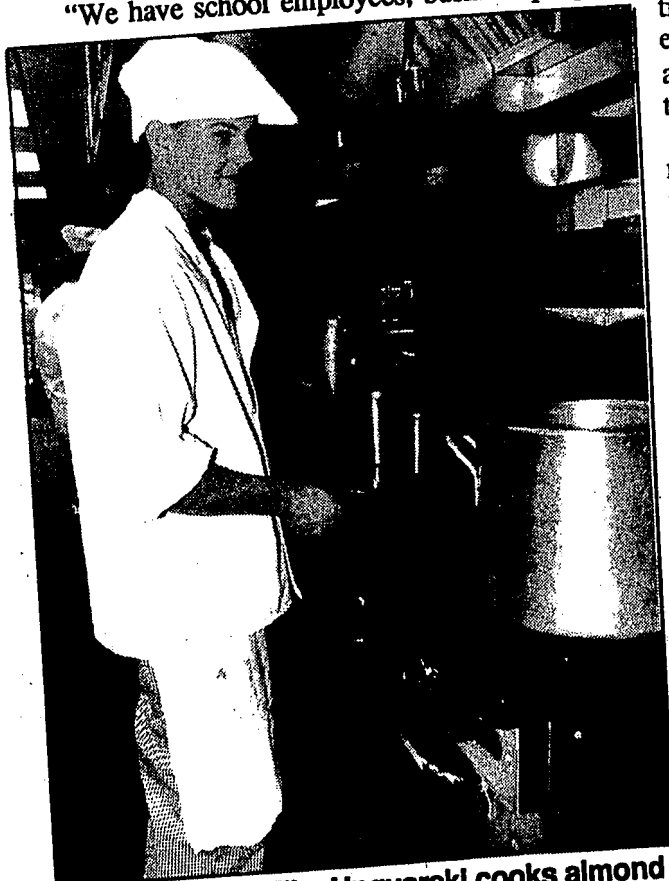

The Inn is divided into two rooms, one for sit-down service, the other for cafeteria style. The menu changes about every three weeks, Trudeau said, with desserts and soups changing daily.

The inn recently reopened for the fall semester. On the menu last week were a wide variety of selections, including two soups, a vegetarian sandwich, salads, entrees including chicken, fish and beef, and three dessert selections.

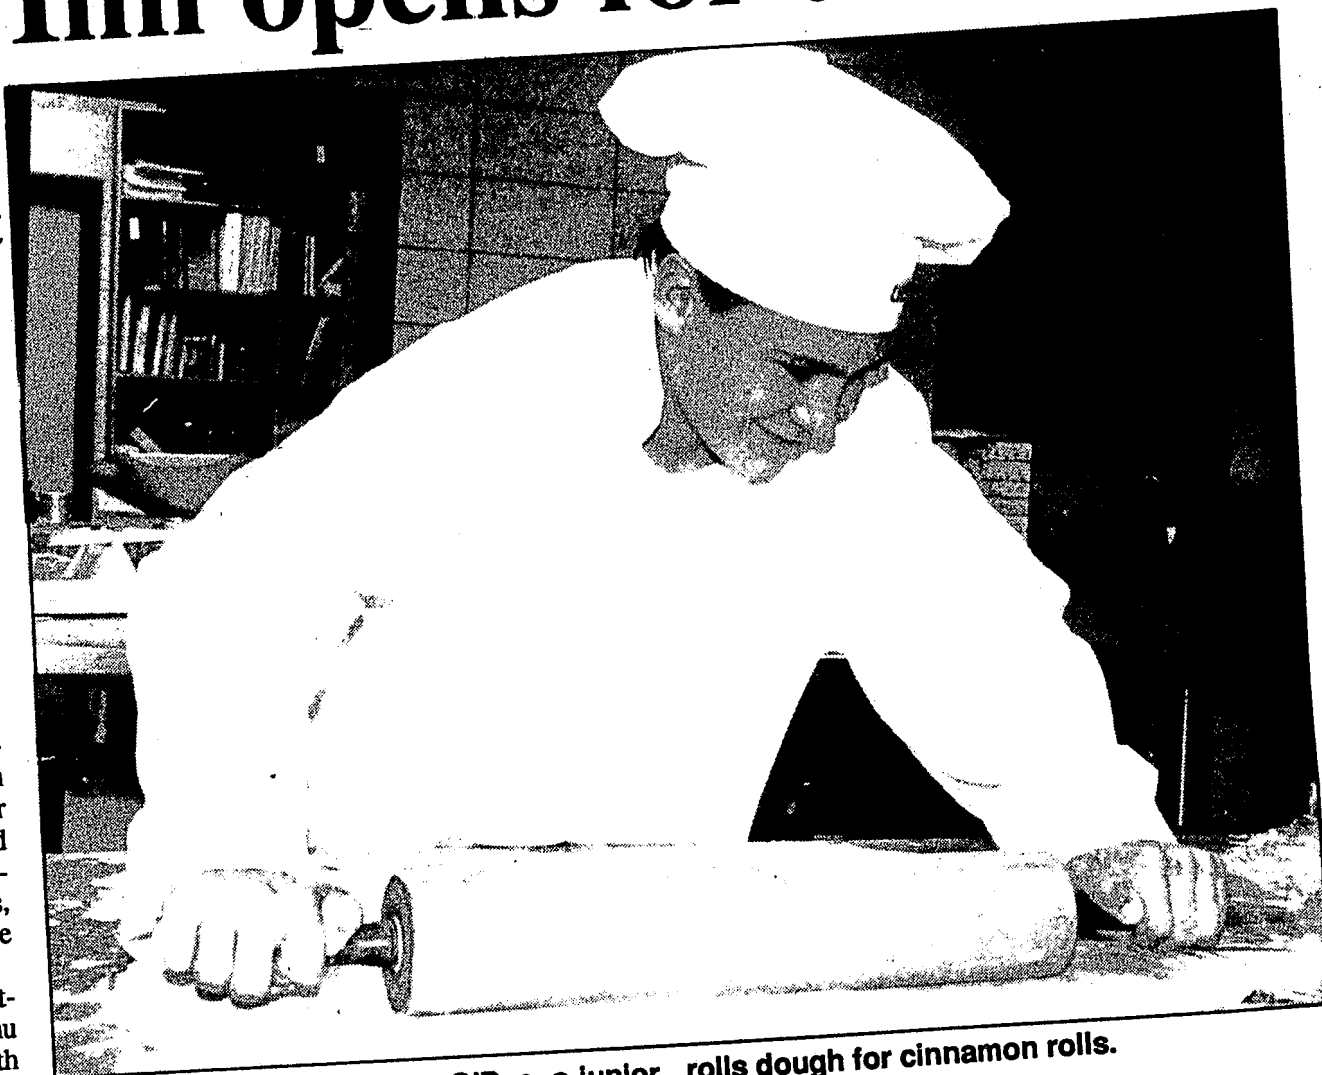

The prices were a revelation.

"Our menu is low priced for the quality of food," Trudeau said, estimating it at about 50 percent below market. And just who takes advantage of the Inn?

"We have school employees, business people from the community, senior citizens are all part of our customers," Trudeau said. "And we have, from time to time, post-graduates come back and say hi. It's nothing to have three grads a week."

Trudeau stressed that the culinary program is designed to turn out students who are well trained for a future profession.

"We're trying to do the school-to-work transition. Last year we had students in over 50 different establishments . . . our primary focus is to focus this as a profession. It is a growing industry. I consider this a college prep course in the hospitality industry."

"We try to tell students even though this might not be their lifelong goal, everyone has to eat. Anywhere they go they can find a job."

In addition to learning all the fine points of cooking and serving, students must be on time and show up every day, just like at a job.

"For some it's a hard transition," Trudeau said. "They need a lot of supervision. We do a lot of one on one."

During the course of the year, students will usually work at a couple of major banquets, so they get experience in handling large volumes of food. They develop social skills working with customers, as well as honing math and science in the kitchen. By the time they leave, they'll have put together a portfolio showing their accomplishments.

As part of that portfolio, Trudeau expects her students to work on community service projects. Two that are currently being worked on are spook houses made out of graham crackers, which will be donated to local charities, and pumpkin carving, which will be on display at Canterbury Village in Orion Township this weekend during a Pumpkin Fest. Proceeds there will also be donated to charity.

One day last week, Esther Hutchings, a retired

Engler meets, greets on Main Street

Campaigns for O'Neill, learns about parenting multiples

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

One of the first people to greet Governor John Engler as he arrived in downtown Clarkston Saturday morning was Nancy Swanson, the mother of young twins.

Though Engler was in town to campaign for Megan O'Neill, Clarkston native and Republican candidate for Congress, Swanson, pushing a tandem stroller, was there to talk to him about being the parent of multiples.

As most of the state knows by know, Engler and his wife Michelle are expecting triplets. Swanson wanted to talk about breast feeding, which kind of stroller to buy, and to pass on a little advice: "It's always more difficult" with multiples, she said.

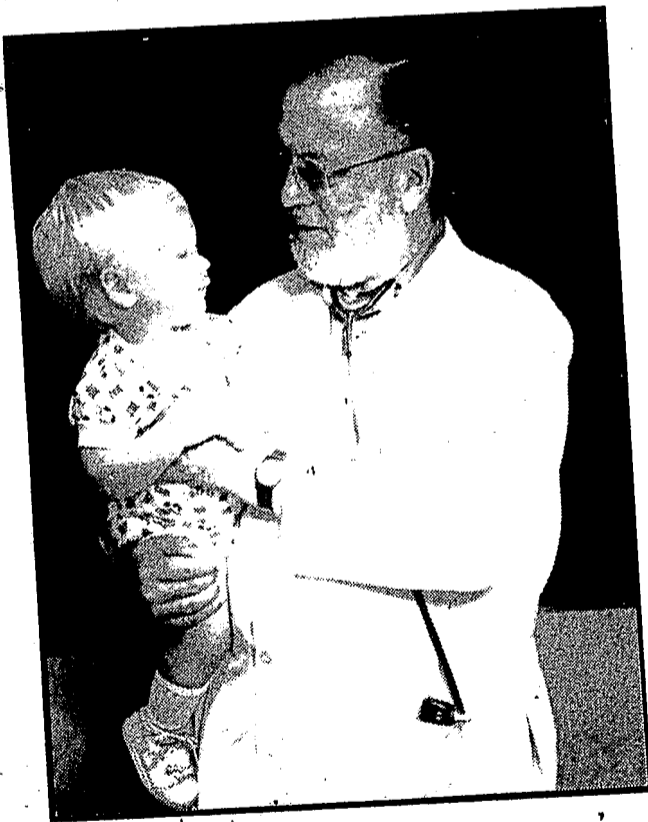

Engler spent about an hour walking up one side of Main Street and down the other, chatting with shopkeepers and residents who waited patiently to meet him in the morning sun. He posed for pictures and seemed to take special delight in talking to small children he met along the way.

After his tour of Main Street, he, O'Neill and their supporters attended a rally in the Clarkston Mills Mall. Then he was off to other campaign stops in the area.

THIS BIG: Governor Engler seems to be gesturing about the size of someone's stomach (perhaps wife Michelle, who is expecting triplets) as he walks down Main Street with Megan O'Neill and Nancy Swanson, pushing the stroller carrying her twins.

Want city water? Fork over $6,000

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

To connect or not to connect — that is the question the city now faces if it decides to join Independence Township's water supply system.

If Clarkston decides to implement city water it should do so soon before costs rise, say engineers from Hubbell, Roth & Clark who addressed council at its Monday night meeting.

After a careful estimate engineers determined it would cost the city $2,550,000 to do the complete project (about $6,000 per property owner) which would include "water mains on every street, hydrants for fire protection and water services for every resident from the street to property lines," Tom Biehl, vice-president of the firm said.

Current prices are estimated for the next six months.

When presented with that figure, council members expressed concern about financing the project and discussed alternatives.

Councilman Bill Basinger said that if costs for tap-ins were removed, with businesses and residents hooking up as they wished, it would save the city about $500,000.

"We could take $127,000 off the total (for businesses) and special assess that," Basinger said.

Council discussed two financing alternatives, collecting the money from a special assessment or presenting the cost to residents and businesses as a general obligation bond.

"That would be tax deductible," Biehl said.

Biehl also presented information about Farm

Home Administration, saying it might be possible to get funds from them.

"It's like a grant because the interest is low," he said.

He added that small community loans or grants might also be available. Council agreed to have engineers investigate financial resources and report back at the city's next meeting Nov. 7.

A complete project would include water mains on every street, fire hydrants and water hookup for each resident.

Although council discussed the possibility of holding a special advisory election after the holidays at its Oct. 10 meeting, City Manager Art Pappas said more information is needed before a decision can be made.

In other council action:

● Clarkston police chief Robert DeVore addressed council about several city parking spaces that violate state vehicle law. DeVore said Traffic Improvement Association of Oakland County evaluated parking as well as other traffic problems in the city and found several spots on Main and Depot that don't conform with business property lines.

"State law says that vehicles can't be parked within 15 feet of property lines," DeVore said. He will have TIA engineering director Bob DeCorte attend the next council meeting on Nov. 7 to clarify the problem.

● Problems concerning Clarkston school buses were brought up by Councilwoman Karen Sanderson and resident Tom Goldner. Sanderson says she estimates there are 10-12 school buses leaving the bus garage before 6:30 every weekday morning and Goldner says he has counted as many as 23 traveling down Church Street where he lives. Sanderson and Goldner argued that buses could take Waldon road as an alternative to using Church, Buffalo and Washington, the present route that causes traffic congestion. They also feel Waldon is wider and more accommodating to bus weight and cited the problem as contributing to "tearing up the streets." City manager Art Pappas will write a letter to Clarkston schools superintendent Gary Haner about the problem.

● A new tree policy for the planting of memorials in Depot Park has been completed by Councilman Doug Roeser. Rules and a map are available at the city office on Depot and residents must obtain permits if they wish to donate trees.

● Council appointed Don Wayne to a seat on the historic district commission.

● A purchasing ordinance creating the office of procurement administrator to "direct the central purchasing system of the city" will be sent to Clarkston city attorney Tom Ryan for revision. Council members expressed dissatisfaction with some of the ordinance's wording.

European hierarchy

The late eccentric Ivan Rouse apparently felt Independence Township Treasurer John Lutz had a hint of British in him.

Rouse, founder of the Clarkston Conservatory of Music, died Oct. 2. Besides being devoted to classical music and the community, his "Ivanisms" were also legend, as witnessed by Lutz.

At the Oct. 4 township board meeting Lutz paid his respects to Rouse's unique use of language. "I'll always remember seeing Ivan on the street or anywhere else, and he would always say to me, 'How's the chancellor today?' I'll miss that."

According to Webster's Dictionary, chancellor means, among other definitions, "secretary of a nobleman, prince or king; a Roman Catholic priest heading the office in which diocesan business is transacted or recorded."

In Britain, Lutz' official title would be "Chancellor of the Exchequer," according to Webster's, meaning "a member of the British cabinet in charge of the public income and expenditure."

The first teacher?

Independence Supervisor Dale Stuart felt a little older last week.

During a township hall tour a group of young students naturally figured the supervisor had been there since Clarkston's early beginnings.

"One of the kids asked if I was a teacher at one of the earliest schools," said Stuart, laughing. "I guess it must have been the gray hair."

But, before we age Stuart past his prime, he has served as supervisor since 1992.

Is good news contagious?

A special Clarkston board of education meeting was called recently to talk about a proposal for a new high school on the same night as votes were being counted in Lake Orion for the very same thing.

Late in the evening, superintendent Gary Haner revealed that he had his office door open so he could hear the phone ring. He was waiting for a call from Orion on how the election turned out.

"Is one ring a yes?" one wag asked, and the room erupted in laughter.

More to the point, is one "yes" contagious? Lake Orion passed the request and will now build a new high school and elementary school.

It's all in the spin

Clarkston congressional candidate Megan O'Neill was in Washington recently to sign the Contract With America, the Republican Party's agenda for the 104th Congress. O'Neill pledged that if elected, she would vote for the "Taking back our Streets Act," described as a crime-fighting bill.

"The American dream cannot survive without safety and security for individual Americans," O'Neill said, speaking on the steps of the Capitol and live over C-SPAN.

The Democratic spin on the event is, not surprisingly, totally different. According to a FAX from Oakland County Democratic Chairman Don Tucker, the pledge is nothing more than a blind loyalty oath to Newt Gingrich and the radical right. "Megan is going to Washington in order to simply cash in on special interest money that has been promised her for signing a contract she has never seen and has never read," Tucker said.

The Insider is a staff-written, sometimes humorous inside look at the news.

Letters to the editor

One for O'Neill

Dear Editor:

Mr. Kildee's 32 years in government have not been without good intentions and some accomplishments in spite of a very liberal tax-and-spend agenda. Sadly, for many professionals it takes their loyal fans to tell them when it's time to go.

The spectacular, wide and growing support for Megan O'Neill from business, labor, the great, the small, young, old, the forgotten and the hopeful is a respectful, but firm, curtain call for Mr. Kildee to step aside for a well-deserved rest and let a vigorous, talented and determined Megan O'Neill lead us and our country in a safe and fiscally-sound direction that will save the American Dream for our children and grandchildren.

It's not too late. On November 8, save the American Dream -- vote to send Megan O'Neill to Congress.

Billie Crowley, Clarkston

Story brings back happy memories

Dear Editor:

Your recent story covering the Clarkston Marching Band Invitational brought many happy memories of our days as Band Boosters in Clarkston.

Vi and I were active in the Band Boosters when our son Paul was a member of the Marching Band, 1977 through 1980, when Cliff Chapman had just come to Clarkston High School.

Cliff brought many great ideas at a time when the Boosters were at a low ebb. It was a genuine privilege to work with Cliff when I became President of the Boosters and we were able to promote several events, such as the Invitational, Band Day and the citrus sale.

This was also made possible with the untiring help of such people as the Mandilks, the Freels, the Patersons and many others too numerous to mention here.

This is to congratulate and commend the efforts and results of the folks who are currently involved in the Band Boosters and who have kept this tradition alive and well!

Why no answers?

Dear Editor:

The Michigan Family Forum has published a non-partisan voters' guide. Their questions primarily focus on issues which impact the family, such as education, social and civil rights, budget, taxes, parental involvement, government growth, and crime. Candidates basically responded to 8 to 12 questions on a scale of 1 to 5 (strongly agree to strongly disagree) . . . certainly not the most time-consuming task.

It is interesting to note that Bob Carr (U.S. Senate candidate), Howard Wolpe (gubernatorial candidate), Dale Kildee (U.S. House of Representatives candidate), Steve Allen (Michigan House of Representatives candidate) and Conrad Mallett Jr. (Michigan Supreme Court candidate) all failed to respond.

Is it because they want to keep us in the dark? Is it because they know that if they gave us honest responses we might realize that they don't represent our beliefs and views? Would it take too much time to respond? Highly unlikely, since in all of these cases the individuals they are running against were able to respond.

This tells me something. What does it tell you?

Jim's Jottings

By Jim Sherman

Dressing isn't just for turkeys

Recently I was interested in an article on the sports pages that discussed the articulate preparation for dressing for a game by Jerry Rice. He's the record-breaking receiver for the San Francisco 49ers professional football team.

The story read, ". . . then there's the duty of just putting on a uniform before games. Rice's preparation can take two hours and has become legendary with the 49ers. He polishes his helmet. He accepts only snow-white socks from equipment managers and wears only new shoes in games. He constantly adjusts socks, pants, wristbands and the jersey--in search of the perfect fit."

Rice was quoted as saying, "I believe you play the way you look. If you go out slouchy and don't look good, that's the way you're going to play. I think I got that from my parents. Going to high school, I really didn't have much. Maybe four or five pair of jeans. But you can believe those jeans were starched, clean and very neat."

I think the philosophy applies that if you feel good about yourself and you feel good about how you dress, then you are going to do better in whatever the task . . . work, sports or classroom.

Many newspaper reporters seem to go out of their way to dress poorly, particularly men, which gives the first impression of one who cares little about himself and less about how others view them.

The should-be role models of educators has both extremes. There's the coffee-cup stroller in the classroom and the ill-kept. Hopefully, your child gets the upbeat, neat and extra attentive teacher.

I wonder if those who habitually dress and look sloppy ever wonder why lawyers, executives, sales people, politicians and others most often wear clothes, hair and make-up that's acceptable anywhere?

Nah! They may have a very low opinion of themselves and others, or think slob is cool, or are trying to make some kind of point or something.

Of course, we're from the old school. We think editors, teachers, bankers, professionals and all those who are in, or perceived to be in, a leadership position should be dressed to make the best possible first and lasting impression.

Dressing isn't just for turkeys.

A look back

15 YEARS AGO (1979)

A public hearing to consider elimination of hunting in one-third of Independence Township is scheduled for Wednesday, Oct. 31. On the docket are a four-square-mile area north of Waldon Road and east of M-15 and all areas south of I-75 with the exception of waterfowl hunting on Greens lake.

Clarkston defensive end Ron Feneley is the Wolves' player of the week. The six-foot, 195-pound player has been a standout for the Wolves' defense, game in and game out, as well as handling place kicking duties with exceptional skill.

"Dracula" by Tim Kelly opens the Clarkston High School Drama Department's 1979-80 season next week with performances on Nov. 1, 2 and 8 in the CHS Little Theatre. Featured are John Slavo, Debbie Foote and Don Sylvester in starring roles.

25 YEARS AGO (1969)

Two new basketball coaches, B.J. Hanson and Doug Pierson, have been named for Clarkston Schools. Hanson will coach the varsity team at Clarkston High and Pierson will take his place with the junior varsity squad.

Ratification is expected soon between the Clarkston Board of Education and the Clarkston Education Association on the 1969-70 contract. The agreement is expected to reach teachers by Wednesday, Oct. 22.

Clarkston's cross country team comes in third out of 24 schools in the regional meet held at Oakland University Saturday, Oct. 25. Only the top two teams, Pontiac Northern and Brother Rice High School of Birmingham, are eligible to compete in the state finals next Saturday in Ypsilanti. But two team runners, Fred Seyler and Dan Dankert, will take part in individual competition.

50 YEARS AGO (1944)

A big Halloween party will be held this night in Clarkston. It begins with a Snake Dance headed by the King and Queen of Halloween as it makes its way along Main Street to music by the Clarkston School Band. Following will be costumes with prizes, a bonfire, group singing, comic sound pictures, cider and doughnuts and a dance held in the school gym. Everyone is invited.

The Clarkston football team plays a brilliant game with Holly Friday night which results in a scoreless tie. Next Friday's home game is with Linden at 3 p.m. It's the last game, so come!

The Drayton Theatre features "Double Indemnity" with Fred McMurray and Barbara Stanwyck and "The Uninvited" with Ray Milland, Ruth Hussey and Donald Crisp is playing at the Holly.

60 YEARS AGO (1934)

Several young folks enjoy a Halloween party at the home of Miss Betty Jane Russell. Children are delighted to make their appearances costumed amid festive house decorations where games are played and refreshments served.

A Democratic rally is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 27 in Ortonville where James H. Lynch and other candidates will speak. On Oct. 30 Judge Arthur J. Lacy will address the public at Pontiac's Orpheum Theatre where his speech expects to clarify the uncertainty of the public school situation.

Within two weeks Lever Brothers Co., the world's largest soap manufacturers, will conduct a house-to-house coupon campaign to save housewives money. Lux Toilet Soap, Lux, Rinso and Lifebuoy coupons may be redeemed at several area stores.

If it Fitz

By Jim Fitzgerald

There are human beings behind the cold numbers

Numbers are cold, and don't usually make you swallow quick to keep from sobbing. For instance, a recent newspaper article about our return to the Persian Gulf reported:

"There are now 18,957 U.S. military personnel in the theater of operations, Gen. Shalikashvili said. Of those, only 3,638 are ground forces in place. An additional 44,570 personnel are in some stage of deployment, including 36,145 ground troops. Another 155,000 troops are on alert."

That's pretty cold stuff to read. Would I be less worried if only 44,569 personnel were in some stage of deployment, instead of 44,570, or more worried if the number were 44,571?

C'mon, be serious. What's the difference? But what if the article reported that one of the 44,570 personnel in some stage of deployment is my 21-year-old granddaughter, Airman Melissa?

Stationed at Moody Air Force Base in Georgia, Melissa has been packed and ready to go for several days. She says they've been told to be prepared for living in a tent in the desert for at least six months and taking a shower only every three days.

I take a deep breath and say, don't worry, it will be a great adventure that someday she can tell her children about.

Melissa says she's been instructed to make out her will.

And I say I don't want to play this war game anymore. I wanted to quit a long time ago. I wonder if there will ever be a time when we can quit killing and keep talking.

I know it's selfish to resent the government-ordered risk to my granddaughter's young life any more than the risk to thousands of other young lives. But I also know that only a little while ago, baby Melissa sat on my lap and tore my newspaper and grabbed my eyeglasses, exactly the way her cousin Elaine did just yesterday.

Fortunately, it was relatively peaceful in the international arena when my children were of war-fodder age, so I was able to skip a generation before getting a close feel of what my parents felt when, at age 18, I was shipped off to Europe during World War II.

The idea was we'd fight that noble battle and fix things so war would never happen again. Although I'm sure my father recalled ruefully that he'd served in World War I, the war to end all wars.

Now, all these years later, I can look at 5-month-old Elaine's incredible smile and be glad she isn't old enough to understand that, because adults still think they have to make war before they can make peace, her cousin Melissa is poised to go to war, just like Grandpa and Great-Grandpa.

During the last Desert Storm, which seems like just the other day, I recalled a 1966 column in which I wondered who would be the first from my home county to be killed in the Vietnam war. The answer came a few months later, when the first victim's father walked into my office to talk about his loss.

The father was limping from a World War II wound. Obviously, it's easy to believe the time will never come when there'll be no more fathers of first children killed in the latest war.

But, if only for the sake of sanity, we must keep trying -- talking -- so maybe someday all the baby Elaines everywhere can grow up and keep smiling.

Don't Rush Me

By Don Rush

Happy Hauntings

Forget the X Generation, or the Baby Boomer classifications. I grew up in this area in the Sir Graves Era.

Some of you may remember Sir Graves Ghastly. He had a long running stint on Channel 2 out of Detroit. He was the guy all us kids watched nearly every Saturday afternoon.

"Pull down the shades, turn off the lights, and gather around the telly," he used to start his show. "Me-e-ahahah!"

It was great fun. I loved that show and all the old black and white B horror films he used to air. I just thought of him the other day because Halloween is almost upon us.

I learned of Frankenstein, Dracula, the Wolfman, the Mummy and The Creature from the Black Lagoon. Bela Lugosi, Lon Chaney, Jr., and Boris Karloff were my TV favorites. What ever happened to these movies? Even with the zillion and one cable stations we get to watch nowadays, these films are rarely shown.

You bet I'd watch those flicks today; that is, if they were aired again.

I knew all about Dr. Frankenstein and his monster, the Doctor's wife, the monster's mate, the blind guy that gave refuge to the Franky.

I knew and felt sorry for Carl Talbot and how he was walking in the woods one day and got bit by a werewolf. How he went to the old gypsy woman to find out what was happening to him.

I recall how the tea leaves, when brewed, could bring the Mummy out of hibernation and how he was treacherously turned into the Mummy in ancient Egyptian times.

I remember how the scientists netted the Creature from the Black Lagoon and can still see him flopping like a fish trying to get out of that net.

I felt sorry for the Creature, the Mummy, Frankenstein's monster and the Wolfman.

I didn't like Dracula. Never felt sorry for him and to this day I disdain books and movies that make vampires look good. Ram a stake through his heart and move on to the next, for goodness sake. He sucks people's blood!

I guess I didn't consider Sir Graves, who rose from his coffin in a black cape just like Dracula, to be a vampire. I used to write, send Christmas cards and drawings to Sir Graves.

When you (and all the neighbor kids) saw your drawing on television you were bestowed a certain prestige in the neighborhood. It was cool.

"Yeah man, that was my drawing you saw last Saturday. Thank you very much."

After watching all those movies I always had questions. Why don't you just shoot Frankenstein's monster with a cannon? That would kill him. Why don't you just throw the Mummy in the lake? He'd disintegrate and that would end that problem.

I once wrote Sir Graves and asked why the wolfman runs on his toes? Doesn't that hurt? Wouldn't it be easier to run like the people? He never answered that question.

I wrote Sir Graves so much, one year he sent me a postcard wishing me a Merry Christmas and happy birthday. I still have that postcard.

I wonder what ever happened to Sir Graves, if he's still alive? And, I wish they'd show some of those movies again.

Well, so much for trippin' down memory lane. Until next time, Happy Hauntings and have a fun and safe Halloween.

Me-e-ahahah!

Writer's block

CHS student life

By Amber Gebrowsky

It seems to me that there comes a time in every writer's life when a dreaded, fanged beast appears from nowhere and eagerly consumes one's creativity, ball point pen and even word processor. In a single gulp, it all disappears, without so much as a burp goodbye.

What is this beast that I so viciously speak of? Writer's Block.

Up until today, I believed that I could combat this beast. Armed with an active imagination, which seemed to be the equivalent of an economy-sized can of Raid, I eagerly produced homework assignments, poems, essays, letters to college friends and even articles without so much as the blink of an eye.

When the Bic hit the paper, something would happen, and the ink would fly. That is, until tonight.

Facing the blue glow of my computer screen, I rested my fingertips on the keyboard, eagerly anticipating writing a great article about school spirit. Slowly, my fingers pecked out one sentence, then another.

Thirty minutes later, the same two sentences were the only words I had written. Somewhere in the middle of trig homework, band practice, designing yearbook layouts and listening to my friends agonize over physics homework, I had misplaced that golden can of Raid. At 8:57 p.m., there wasn't a lot of time to find it.

Deciding that maybe a change in topic was in order, I cleared the screen of the school spirit article and started a new paragraph. For a good three sentences, I was all set to write about Mr. Erhardt's chemistry class, and the chemical demonstrations he performs. Recently, one even involved a rather exciting explosion of a test tube. However, once I got past those first few words, I was lost.

Again clearing the screen, a momentary flash of inspiration struck. For at least 30 seconds, I was prepared to write a Pulitzer-winning column about those seniors taking AP physics. They truly should be commended -- AP physics is commonly known among students as one of the hardest classes at CHS.

The homework load is immense, and listening to students talk, Mr. Burdick's tests and quizzes would scare even Einstein. Of course, then reality hit. That was about all I knew about AP physics, and 9:30 on a Sunday night was not the best time to gather quotes.

Determined to write something -- anything -- the computer screen was again cleared. I returned to the topic of school spirit, and composed a good, solid paragraph. It's amazing the amount of spirit Clarkston Wolves display. Varsity jackets are printed with everything from basketball to varsity choir. Organizations and events, from student council to the spring musical, have T-shirts and sweatshirts printed to display the pride students have in these activities. Of course, when I wanted to say something intelligent about all this, it was equally amazing how little I could actually write.

As the hands on my watch neared 10 p.m., I suddenly stumbled across not my original can of Raid, but an off-brand, half-empty can of repellent. As I picked it up, an idea slowly began to form, and finally, I was able to write. In the process, I was able to tell about not only my current personal plight, but a little about student life at good 'ol CHS as well.

Pumpkin Fest Saturday

A pumpkin festival to benefit Children's Miracle Network will be held Saturday, Oct. 29 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The festival will be held at the office of Re/Max Today, 7300 Dixie Highway just north of White Lake Rd. The public is invited to attend.

Pumpkins will be given away, as well as cider and doughnuts. There will be a donation box for Children's Miracle Network for anyone wishing to contribute.

"Those who might not otherwise have a pumpkin can get one and those who wish to contribute can help CMN," said Denise Felker of Re/Max.

Re/Max is the third-largest corporate sponsor of CMN, Felker said. The company raised $2.1 million last year for the charity through fund-raisers and employee pledges.

Locally, money raised helps fund the Center for Human Development, which helps children with learning disabilities, and the Preschool Communications Center, Michigan's only hospital-based pre-school for children with serious speech and language problems.

"Last year we graduated 71 children from the preschool," Felker said. "I believe the work we do with CMN is very gratifying because as Realtors, we make our living in the local communities and it's so important to give something back."

"Because all the money we contribute benefits local children we get the extra thrill of being able to visit Beaumont and see the difference the dollars make."

Avid runners from Deer Lake Racquet Club donated about 25 pairs of used athletic shoes to Lighthouse North last week. According to member Judy Hoddinott, the idea came from Paul Coghlin, owner of Runnin' Gear on Dixie Hwy. She and Coghlin agreed that runners need to replace shoes often because the cushioning wears out, but the shoes are still good for just about any other purpose. "They're expensive shoes; you hate to think about throwing them away," Hoddinott said. Deer Lake manager Debby Visconti said she hopes to make the project ongoing. Pictured are Lighthouse North manager Wendy Halsey (left) and Visconti.

Ask the therapist

Stan Garwood, MA, MSW

Dear Mr. Garwood,

I work for a small company -- there are only six full-time workers. Our boss has a problem with confrontations. If he has a problem with one person, he will tell everyone else in the office except that person. It causes tension in the office because we never know if he's upset with one of us or doesn't like our work -- because he's all smiles. Also, we all know everything that the others are supposedly doing wrong or if they have a problem -- we know too much. Is there a way to ease the tension and get our boss to start talking to people directly about their problems?

Signed,
Fed Up with Boss

Dear Fed Up with Boss,

Since you cannot and do not want to talk for your co-workers, set aside some time for you and your boss to discuss "your" job performance. You have a right to know and he has a duty to evaluate the merits of your work. This will solve one of the problems mentioned and direct him hopefully toward a standardized measurement of you and your fellow workers' employment performance. You may even request that he look into an objective instrument measuring performance.

Just knowing how you're doing should relieve some tension. Mention to him that you prefer not being privy to fellow staff's merits or lack thereof. He may get the hint that this is unacceptable to the whole staff as well. Your boss can hide behind the standardized evaluation (not lose face). Believing it is an objective measure, he can blame the document as the ogre in the event of a negative assessment.

Those who have "problems with confrontations" usually fear rejection or alienation. They want others to like them and typically bend over backwards to accommodate this. Many will resist placing themselves in situations of confrontation or conflict. Again, they fear alienation of friendships or loss of control of their emotions. In the latter, they are probably concerned over their own anger and its potential destructiveness.

Fed Up, I hope this helps reduce tension in your office, as well as improving morale. Your boss has much to learn regarding management and realistically, it shouldn't be your responsibility to teach him. Good luck and let me know how things turn out.

Have a thorny problem?

Welcome home, Rocket Man

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The tall, nice-looking man who stood smiling near the side of the Springfield Plains gym Friday morning didn't really need an introduction.

The students already knew him.

He was the astronaut who had greeted over 24 Clarkston elementary school students from the space shuttle Discovery as it hovered a couple hundred miles above them on Sept. 12 during a nine-day space mission. That was the day Dr. Jerry Linenger answered each and every one of their questions, breaking a world NASA record for astronaut talks.

Now he had returned — to share with all Springfield Elementary students during two morning assemblies — his photos and memories of outer space.

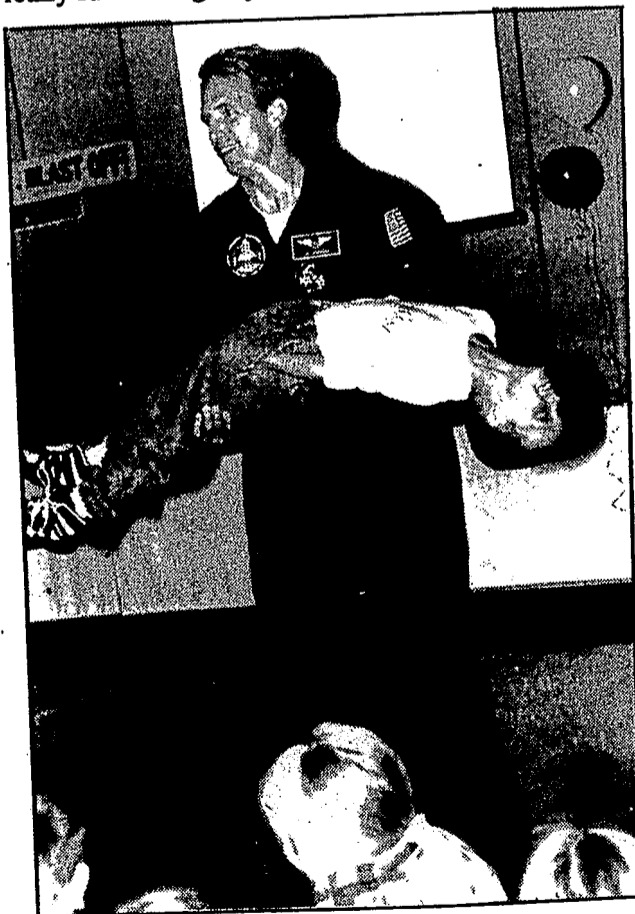

As Linenger walked over to the projector after an introduction by the school's principal Dr. Devereaux, he hummed a little into the microphone. That drew laughter from the kids. They were familiar with his sense of humor which had sparked many of the answers during their eight-minute chat Sept. 12.

"I have some pictures from space — I took them, actually. I'm going to show them to you. Is that OK?" Linenger asked, cocking his head.

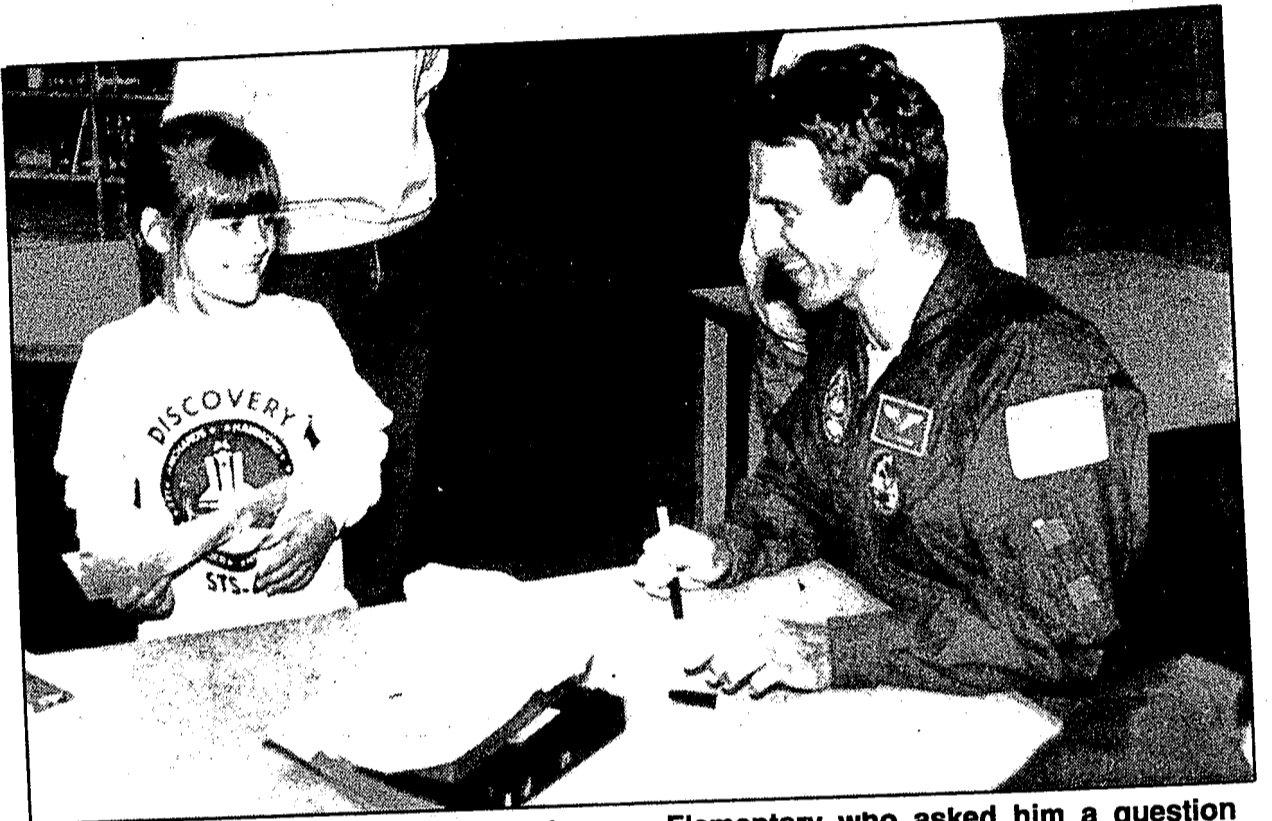

"Yeah!" yelled a myriad of young voices.

Students' faces were rapt with attention as Linenger showed slides that included a volcanic eruption from an island in the Pacific, fellow astronauts conducting space walks, the shuttle's satellite — and a picture of himself aboard Discovery during the Sept. 12 talk.

"This is when I was talkin' to you guys on the ground ... We were up there a long time — it was really fun talking to you," he said.

A SPRINGFIELD PLAINS STUDENT enjoys imagining what it must be like to float inside a space shuttle while Linenger holds him.

ASTRONAUT JERRY LINENGER signs autographs and talks with Justine Morris, a second-grader from North Sashabaw

Elementary who asked him a question during the space talk Sept. 12.

He also talked about the effect of lift-off.

"You feel the earth shake — that's how powerful it is," he said as some students whispered, "Wow!"

'It's darker than you've ever seen out there.'

astronaut Jerry Linenger

Linenger also described various space gear like the "G-suit", one of the many functional suits astronauts wear in outer space. Besides its bright-orange color that makes it highly visible, it holds "a little green apple of 100-percent oxygen." In addition, he said, "with the turn of a switch" it builds up pressure starting at the bottom of astronauts' legs.

"It keeps the blood flowing up to your brain so you don't black out when you come back down to Earth," he said.

Linenger enhanced the assembly with audience participation as individual students asked him questions. Some kids were humorously positioned as "props" and used to demonstrate spaceships and astronaut positions during lift-off and travel.

He drew a lot of excitement when a slide was shown of all six astronauts having their pictures taken.

"We're all floating and looking down at the camera ... You guys'd be screaming if you were there. You'd be floating, playing you were flying like Superman and everything," he said.

The kids were also delighted with his description of eating in outer space.

"I could take an M & M and throw it at the wall and it could bounce back to Kendra (one of Linenger's nieces from Springfield Plains who stood up) — And she could eat it. I could also flip a hot dog and take bites out of it as it was flopping around."

Linenger told a student who asked him about "throwing up" that "we keep a bag on our knee just like on an airplane.

"You really don't want to miss, 'cause if you do it's a real mess," he said, deadpan, as kids laughed.

They were a little more sober when he told them that "it's darker than you've ever seen out there — I mean it's pitch black being on the dark side of the Earth. You can't see your hand in front of your face."

That's why, he added, there are "two little lights" on top of the helmets astronauts wear while conducting space walks outside the shuttle.

After the assembly Linenger met with the 24 students who had asked him questions the day of the astronaut talk. He smiled, shook hands and signed autographs as the kids clustered around him in the media center.

Even the parents were starstruck.

"It was incredibly exciting (the day of the talk). He did such a fantastic job talking to the kids at their level — and here he is again; I'm very impressed," said Sandy Morris, mother of Justine Morris, a second-grader from North Sashabaw Elementary.

'You feel the earth shake -- that's how powerful it is.'

astronaut Jerry Linenger

Mike Albarkat, owner of Kenny Rogers Roasters on Sashabaw, whose son Sharif asked Linenger about space debris, had a second reason to be excited.

"His sister-in-law (Linda Linenger, a fourth-grade teacher at Springfield Plains) picked up dinner for everybody last night. She told me Dr. Linenger said it was the best chicken he ever had," Albarkat said, beaming.

Interview with an astronaut

Dr. Jerry Linenger said orbiting around Mother Earth was every bit as exciting as he thought it would be.

The astronaut, a medical doctor who conducted sports medicine research before his NASA training, sat smiling as he talked about his space experience with Clarkston kids on Sept. 12.

"It was pretty phenomenal," said the soft-spoken Linenger who, clad in a flight suit, relaxed for a few minutes at one of the media center tables in Springfield Plains.

"Looking down at the Earth was incredible. You savor any moments you can to reflect."

During Discovery's nine-day mission Linenger conducted medical experiments to study human physiology. He and fellow astronauts also looked at the Earth's atmosphere in order to better predict weather conditions.

"We beamed a laser at the Earth. Hopefully forecasts will get better," Linenger quipped.

In addition astronauts tested jet packs, new life-support equipment installed in suits used for space walks, that's been perfected since Challenger's tragic accident.

A satellite used to study solar wind by looking at the south pole of the Sun was also an important part of Discovery's mission.

Linenger said talking to the 24 kids from Clarkston elementary schools was a welcome break amidst the rigors of space study.

"It was kind of a morale boost for the crew," he said. "On the other hand, you're really busy out there."

A small Michigan flag that traveled with him in outer space will be sent to the school along with a letter of authenticity.

The trim 39-year-old astronaut, who lives in Seabrook, Texas with his wife Kathryn, labeled many of the kids' questions "fantastic."

"One kid asked about space debris and how to avoid hitting it. And another asked which way does a compass point—that was a great question," Linenger said.

His answer?

"Most iron does point toward the north part of the globe."

Besides the Clarkston area, where his brother Ken and family live, Linenger said the six astronauts spoke to "one school a day." He personally chatted with students from California and New Zealand. After a 30-day period of debriefing following the trip, Linenger visited his old medical schools in Detroit (Wayne State) and North Carolina and gave several talks in East Germany.

'I wasn't really frightened -- I should have been.'

astronaut Jerry Linenger

Linenger said he had no queasiness — or butterflies in his stomach — during the nine-day trip. He attributed that to his previous experience traveling aboard aircraft carriers.

"I wasn't really frightened — I should have been," he laughed.

Linenger is already preparing for another mission — not light years but two years away. He began training this week.

I LOOKED LIKE THIS: During two assemblies at Springfield Plains last Friday, Dr. Jerry Linenger showed slides from his STS-64 mission aboard space shuttle Discovery. He also amused students with poses that conveyed floating and other conditions in the ship.

What did you learn from astronaut Jerry Linenger?

HALEIGH KALSO, FIFTH-GRADER FROM ANDERSONVILLE ELEMENTARY: "That if you were in space and threw up, you had to put it in a bag you hold up to your mouth. I also asked him a question about sleeping and he said you sleep in sleeping bags tied to the wall." (Note: Haleigh broke her arm recently playing on the school's monkey bars. She shows where Dr. Linenger autographed her cast.)

JERAD MORALES, FIFTH-GRADER FROM CLARKSTON ELEMENTARY: "How the new jet packs they have would work. And when you jump you would fly back and forth. And when you sleep in space you float."

BRANDON ADAMS, FIFTH-GRADER FROM CLARKSTON ELEMENTARY: "I thought (the talk) was so neat. And if you were out in space and if your cord broke you'd be in orbit for 10 years. And I also thought it was neat that if you were at zero gravity you could do all these somersaults. If you were playing basketball you could do a lot of slam dunks and hit the rim."

JUSTINE MORRIS, SECOND-GRADER FROM NORTH SASHABAW ELEMENTARY: "(At the astronaut talk) I asked him, 'What are you going to bring back from space and why?' He said whatever he brought up he brought back, including the satellite. The last time I was here I said I wouldn't like to be an astronaut — but now I do. I also thought flipping and flopping a hot dog around (inside the shuttle) and taking bites out of it would be fun."

may still cost too much to include, according to Stuart.

The combined fire station/substation 18,000-square-foot building would cost over $2.3 million. Taking the about 4,500-square-foot substation off the plans would save about $450,000, bringing the total figure to just over $1.8 million.

"At the point where we're at now we don't have the financing available for both," said Stuart. "But with the way the building is to be built we could add the substation on at a later date."

Trustee Mel Vaara said the project has always been planned to include both the fire station and sheriff's station and it shouldn't change now.

"We've been discussing this project for three or four years now and we've always said they will be together. I want them together and we must do whatever it takes to do that.

"I know what will happen if we don't do it now. Thirty-three years ago I wanted to get a swimming pool in my yard but decided to add it later ... I still don't have a pool. My point is you'll never save the money for it, so I want us to sharpen our pencils and get it done."

But Stuart and Dundon said reductions have already been made and other options have been looked into.

"We started off at a larger square foot than what we have now, so I don't know where else we can cut back," said Stuart.

Dundon added, "You can't make this any tighter than it already is. We have looked at all the alternatives."

Stuart said he will follow the wishes of the board and talk with the nearby property owners about a possible land purchase, as well as look at different building designs.

Band students sell wreaths

Members of the Clarkston High School band are selling balsam wreaths this holiday season to help pay for future band activities.

The wreaths come in a wide variety of sizes, from 12-inch candle rings up to 72-inch wreaths. Prices start at $16.

The young musicians will be taking orders through Nov. 11 for delivery the first week in December. According to band booster Kerri Perna, this is the second year the students have tried the wreath sale.

"Last year they did pretty well," she said. "It's a neat way kids can add to their student accounts for their trips coming up."

Anyone who wishes to order a wreath can call Perna at 673-5943 or Lynn Dakroub at 625-1699.

Drunk driver freed

A drunk driver who injured another driver in Independence Township while driving with a suspended license was convicted in Oakland County Circuit Court Oct. 21, but he was released on probation.

David Villereal, 37, of Waterford, was sentenced to time already served (300 days) and released with two years' probation and with his drivers license revoked for five years.

However when Villereal was arrested after leaving the scene of an accident on Dixie Highway October 22, 1993, he had already been convicted of impaired driving charges in 48th District Court, and of driving with a suspended license in 51st District Court. His license had been suspended for three or more convictions for impaired driving, according to records of the Oakland County Sheriff's Dept. Independence substation.

Villereal fled the scene of last year's accident, which he allegedly caused by tailgating a third driver. Witnesses said after the crash, Villereal tried to restart his car. When it refused, he fled on foot, bleeding profusely. He left behind a Clarkston woman with a broken kneecap and ankle, whose car just happened to cross his path.

After being caught and restrained by witnesses, Villereal was held in lieu of $75,000 cash bond on a total of four counts. On Oct. 21, 1994 he pled guilty on all four counts and was released.

What's to stop him from driving again?

According to Deputy Larry Sage, who handled the case, "Nothing; not a thing."

These EDS employees and their families spent a lovely fall morning doing volunteer work at Independence Oaks County Park as part of Make A Difference Day.

EDS employees 'make a difference'

Saturday dawned breezy and sunny, a fine day for doing yard work or taking a walk.

But for 20 employees of EDS in Auburn Hills, it was also a good day for trying to make a difference in their world, so they spent it doing maintenance work at Independence Oaks County Park.

Their labors were part of the second-annual observance of International Make A Difference Day.

"They probably did in four hours what it would take us a week to do," said park supervisor Ray Delasko. "If we had to do it with our summer help... we probably saved $500."

Angela Schertzer, an administrative assistant and volunteer coordinator for EDS, said she took a survey and found her co-workers wanted to do park cleanup.

"A lot of them live in this area," she said. Others, like herself, drove from as far away as Westland. Other EDS employees did work for the Boys and Girls Club and the Boy Scouts.

This is the first year EDS has been involved in Make a Difference Day. Schertzer said about 10,000 people participated around the world last year. This year, 40,000 were expected to take part.

At Independence Oaks, the workers landscaped around trees, cleaned up flower beds, raked leaves and cultivated soil, "so now our beds are all ready for spring," Delasko said. They also mulched and staked 21 newly planted trees, concentrating on the beach and picnic areas.

Included in the EDS delegation were several Clarkston-area residents: Kay Valley, Mary McCallum, Cynthia Furtner and Jeremy Furtner, a ninth-grader at Clarkston High School.

"One man wants to come back in the spring and plant flowers," Delasko said. "We never run out of work."

MONDAY, OCTOBER 17, boyfriend/girlfriend trouble on Sally.

Threats on Greenview.

A new Amy Dr. resident noticed that his house had been egged, then noticed that all the eggs were gone from his refrigerator. A bottle of wine had turned up missing earlier.

Both tail lights on a 1987 Honda were smashed and a footprint was left on the car while it was parked in a Dixie Hwy. parking lot. The owner, a Waterford woman, said it was the third time her car had been vandalized.

Four newly planted pine trees were pulled from the ground near a schoolbus stop on Clearview.

Larceny of a doorwall valued at $1,388 from a construction site on Pine Knob Rd.

A purple Huffy girl's bike was found in a ditch on Gulick.

A bicycle found on Sashabaw Rd. turned out to have been stolen in Waterford. It was returned to its owner.

Non-injury accident on Sashabaw.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 18, malicious destruction of property at a house under construction on Ridge Trail. A door was kicked in and $4,000 worth of damage was done, including holes in drywall, broken windows and a torn-off cabinet door. The builder said it wasn't the first time the home had been damaged.

A window was broken on a 1981 Chevy parked on Kelsey and a radio stolen.

A mirror was broken and phone wires pulled during an argument on Mann Rd.

Larceny of 12 bottles of alcohol from a delivery vehicle parked at a store on Maybee. A witness got a partial license number, which was traced to a Clarkston address. There, a teenager admitted he had been driving the car but had no idea his friend was about to commit a theft. The liquor was returned.

Larceny of a bicycle from a store on Dixie. A clerk said a man came into the store on foot, then left on his bike. The man was apprehended a short distance away. He turned out to be homeless and was driven to a shelter in Pontiac.

Non-injury accident on Sashabaw.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 19, a window was smashed on a 1993 Taurus parked on Maybee Rd. and a phone and radio taken.

A boys' BMX bike was found by a walker in a field on Sashabaw Rd.

Non-injury accident on Dixie. The driver of a car which rear-ended another car fled the scene before police arrived.

Non-injury accident on Ranch Estates.

Injury accident on M-15 near Oakhill. The driver of a Corvette was going too fast for wet road conditions and rolled the car. He fled on foot, leaving an injured passenger in the car. The passenger was later treated and released from Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital. The car, which was registered to an Ortonville man, was impounded.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 20, the son of a resident of a care facility on Clintonville Rd. reported her hearing aids, valued at $1,600, were missing.

Threats in the high-school parking lot.

Malicious destruction of outdoor lighting valued at $1,600 on Hubbard. The resident said it was the third time he had experienced such damage.

A tire on a 1990 Jeep parked in a Mary Sue driveway was punctured.

A man stopped for speeding on I-75 was found to have a traffic warrant out of Detroit, and was arrested.

A door was pried at the Legion Hall on M-15 and cash, liquor and cigarettes were stolen.

A 15-year-old Waterford girl listed as a runaway was picked up at a home on Pinedale.

Four-car accident on M-15 at Oakhill. All four drivers were injured.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 21, lost or stolen wallet in an M-15 parking lot.

Larceny from a construction site on Pine Breeze. Since June windows, a doorwall, doors and lumber have been stolen from the site.

A 1994 Ford pick up was damaged during a traffic altercation.

A driver was injured in a rear-ender on Sashabaw.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 22, family trouble on Cornell and on Sashabaw.

A driver who overturned his car in a ditch was ticketed for leaving the scene of an accident after he turned himself in.

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 23, the window of a 1986 Pontiac parked in a Dixie Hwy. parking lot was smashed but nothing was taken.

A Sterling Hts. man who came to the substation to report an accident but said he had no driver's license was arrested on two outstanding traffic warrants.

A window on a 1986 Audi was broken while it was parked on Tamarack Park Ln.

A 10-year-old Waterford boy was apprehended in a Dixie Hwy. grocery store after a witness saw him stuff four packs of cigarettes into his pants.

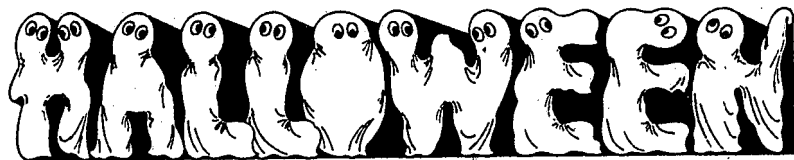

Harassing phone calls on Mustang.

Threatening phone calls on Seymour Lake Rd.

All the windows were smashed on a 1982 Volkswagon parked at the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club on Waterford Rd. and a large log was left embedded in the windshield. The car owner was able to catch one of the three teens responsible, but he got away before police arrived. The owner said all three seemed intoxicated.

The Oakland County Sheriff's Independence substation has responded to 10,204 calls this year through Oct. 23.

Members of the Clarkston Chiefs take a turn at the microphone for a little rapping.

Lauren Ritchie made a variety of faces as she tried the cow-milking game.

Cow watching was part of the entertainment.

Holy Cow!

Sunny skies didn't appear to be having much of an effect on the two cows who took center stage on the Clarkston Middle School tennis courts recently.

The cows were visiting as part of the school's outdoor fair. Students could buy a chance on where a cow pie would appear.

However most of the action seemed to be going on in the parking lot. Students could sing, dance, play games and eat. There was even one game table that mimicked milking a cow using rubber gloves and soda pop. Watching the kids faces as they tried this one was half the fun.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

CREATING REAL ESTATE WEALTH

YOU MAKE MONEY in real estate by increasing the value of your property in addition to inflation.

MAX BROOCK INC.
REALTORS

27 S. Main, Clarkston

QUESTION: How does one make money in real estate?
ANSWER: Buy low and sell high. One way to do this is to increase the property's market value. A real estate wealth creator is one who improves property so that the market place will pay more for the increased value of those improvements than it costs to make them. "Improvements" mean not only new construction of existing structures or creating new uses for underutilized buildings or underused land.
The person who spends $10,000 enlarging his home may be adding $20,000 to its value if there is a local demand for larger homes.

Cross country squad earns all-league

Girls sweep OAA II

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Seven Clarkston girl cross country runners were named all-league and led their team to an easy championship.

The girls dominated the Oct. 22 Oakland Activities Association Division II meet, outdistancing second-place Birmingham Seaholm 23-62. The margin of victory wasn't surprising considering the Wolves had seven runners in the top 15 places.

The boys squad didn't fare as well in the meet, finishing fourth with 98 points, behind first-place Lake Orion (44 points), second-place Bloomfield Hills Andover (64 points) and third-place Waterford Mott (69 points).

GIRLS RUNNERS

Having seven all-league runners (the top 15 finishers were awarded all-league certificates) once again showed how deep the Wolves team is. Throughout the season, several runners have continued to get better, helping the team to an undefeated OAA and dual meet record this season.

Senior Leah Scharl got her time below 20 minutes as she ran a fast 19:53 to take first place.

But it wasn't just Scharl who dominated. Junior Stefanie Burklow (21:03) and sophomore Kristin Maine (21:31) finished in third and fourth place, respectively, while freshman Elizabeth Cook (21:52) and junior Stacie Iezzi (22:03) took seventh and eighth.

Rounding out the top seven all-league runners are junior Anna Vandermeer (22:34) in 13th place and freshman Emily Hogan (22:40) in 14th place.

Co-coach Mike Kaul said the girls squad ran even better than they had during dual meets. Rounding out the league meet finishers were Lake Orion in third place with 73 points, Bloomfield Hills Andover in fourth with 88 points and Brandon fifth with 126 points.

BOYS RUNNERS

Coach Kaul said he was pleased with the boys team performance because they finished ahead of Brandon, which had beat them in a dual meet a few weeks ago.

The Wolves were three points better than Brandon's 101 point score. Birmingham Seaholm finished sixth with 127 points.

Kaul said most of the boys ran personal-best times in the league meet, something they strive for every race. Leading that surge was senior Matt Warner who, for the first time this season, beat out teammate junior Brian Ginn for the team's top spot.

Warner took 11th overall in the race in a time of 17:39 while Ginn was 13th overall in a time of 17:41. Both runners earned all-league honors for their performances.

Senior Steve Anderson came close to all-league in 17th place in 18:01. Rounding out Clarkston's top finishers were senior Andy Holland, 27th place in 18:42, sophomore Chas Clause, 30th in 18:50, junior Tim O'Rourke, 37th in 19:19, and junior Jeremy Lafferty, 40th in 19:55.

The Wolves traveled to the Royal Oak Kimball Invitational Oct. 25 and then will run in the regionals at Holly on Oct. 29.

Districts new soccer focus

Wolves stay aggressive in win

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The fun has begun.

With districts in full swing, the Clarkston boys soccer team is aiming for a championship. They got off to a good start with a strong 3-1 win over Milford Oct. 24 and were set to play Lakeland at home in the second round Wednesday, Oct. 26.

If the Wolves win that match, they will play for the district championship against the Grand Blanc-Waterford Kettering winner on Oct. 29 at Walled Lake Central.

After a grueling regular season schedule against some of the county's and state's top teams, Wolves coach Dan Fitzgerald said his team has been focused and ready for the playoffs.

Once the team's last regular season game against Troy Athens ended in a 6-0 loss, it was time to put the past behind. Clarkston, which finished the regular season at 4-11-2, was ready for Milford.

"We've been struggling this season by losing several close games," Fitzgerald said. "We came out hard against Milford right from the beginning and were all over them during the game."

Providing the scoring for Clarkston were junior Derrick Spires with two goals and senior J.R. Kirk with one goal. Fitzgerald also credited senior goalkeeper Shane Collier with a strong game.

The start of districts provided the Wolves with a new start and a new strategy. Besides a few player position changes, Fitzgerald said his players were much more aggressive.

"During the season we were forced to play more defensive because of the strong teams we played. We usually didn't have the ball much so it was hard to be offensive-minded," he said. "But we came out against Milford more aggressive and really forced the issue."

Of the 11 losses, the Wolves lost seven matches by one goal. But even in the losses Fitzgerald said his team knew they could compete with the best.

"I think we are capable of winning the districts," he said. "The kids are confident and when you are confident in your ability you're a totally different player. They've all been able to win before and mentally they know what it takes."

Clarkston district/regional matchups

SOCCER: Districts, Oct. 24-29, with championship game held at Walled Lake Central High, Oct. 29. Other participating teams are Flint Southwestern Academy, Grand Blanc, Milford, Lakeland, Walled Lake Central, Waterford Mott and Waterford Kettering.

BASKETBALL: Districts, Nov. 14-19 at Romeo High with Holly, Lake Orion, Lapeer East, Lapeer West and Romeo. Regionals, Nov. 21-23 at Lapeer East.

BOYS & GIRLS CROSS COUNTRY: Regionals, Oct. 29, 11 a.m. (girls run first) hosted by Holly High at Swartz Creek Golf Course with Brighton, Flint Southwestern Academy, Grand Blanc, Hartland, Milford, Lakeland, Holly, Howell, Lake Orion, Owosso, Pinckney, Pontiac Northern, Romeo, St. Johns, South Lyon, Waterford Kettering and Waterford Mott.

Alpena boasts, takes 14-3 loss Defense makes big plays

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A long trip to Alpena didn't deter the Clarkston football team from its mission.

The Wolves continued their fight to make the state playoffs by defeating the Alpena Wildcats Oct. 21 14-3. The victory sets up a showdown and most likely a must-win scenario for Clarkston against Lake Orion Oct. 28 at home.

Despite the 11-point victory margin over Alpena, the game was much closer. Clarkston coach Kurt Richardson said Alpena had several chances to score but each time his players came up with the big stops.

"It was a bend but don't break attitude. The first drive they marched right down the field, but we held them to a field goal. On two other possessions they also came close to scoring but we stopped them both times," Richardson said.

Both teams had similar statistics. The Wolves rushed for 131 yards and passed for 58 more with 11

Senior tailback Jason Graves, who rushed for 103 yards, then ran in the two-point conversion to make it 8-3.

On the season, Graves has rushed for over 1,100 yards (about 145 yards per game). In addition, he also kicks the teams' extra points, has kicked three field goals and returns punts, including two for touchdowns. Graves has scored 19 touchdowns.

The third quarter remained scoreless as both teams locked up in a defensive struggle.

But entering the fourth quarter Clarkston wasn't about to give up its playoff chances. Quarterback Evans made sure of that when he ran one yard for a score to make it 14-3.

"It was a real smash-mouth type football game and the kids really came up with the big plays when they had to," said Richardson, who also noted that his team had a strong fan following.

As he has done each game this season, Richardson credits a strong senior class with keeping his team focused each week. The Alpena game was no different.

"They set the tone for us and had high goals from the beginning. They knew every game after that first one was a big game, and now the next game is the big game," he said.

THE BIG GAME

If the Wolves don't win against the Lake Orion Dragons in the season finale, Richardson said it will be tough to make the playoffs.

The game, to be played at Clarkston, at 7 p.m. Friday, pits two 7-1 teams against each other. The Dragons are rated No. 5 in Class A and won the OAA Division II. The Wolves are not rated in Class AA and finished second in the OAA Division I to Troy.

Both teams lost close games to Troy this season. Coaches for both teams say they want their players to play hard, continuing with what they have done all season.

Lake Orion coach Rich Burrell, in his third season, has an overall record of 14-11, including 3-6 and 4-5 in his first two seasons. Burrell, who has turned around the football program, said this is always a big game because of the rivalry between the two schools.

"This is a traditional rivalry for us and it could be the beginning of our playoffs," Burrell said. "Our goal is to play the best we can play and for us that means mistake-free football."

Clarkston coach Richardson said his team will have to be successful passing the ball to beat Orion.

His big concern is stopping one of the county's leading rushers in junior tailback Dennis Mahan, who has over 1,200 yards on the season with 18 touchdowns.

"Their offense is similar to ours but he's the man for them," said Richardson. "You have to stop Mahan to beat them."

Fans will be treated to a great show with Orion's Mahan and Clarkston's Graves running the ball.

The Dragons are almost assured of a Class A playoff spot, regardless of the game's outcome.

Playoff finalists announced on TV

Be the first to hear whether Clarkston qualifies for the state high school football playoffs on PASS, Pro Am Sports Network.

The Michigan High School Athletic Association will show a live broadcast of the playoff team qualifiers on PASS Oct. 30 at 10 p.m.

In addition, PASS will telecast six live championship events for the current sports season.

Televised games include the boys soccer finals Nov. 12, held at Bloomfield Hills Andover; the football playoff finals Nov. 25-26, held at the Pontiac Silverdome; the Class D and A girls basketball finals on Dec. 3, held at Kellogg Arena in Battle Creek; tape-delayed telecasts of Class C and B girls basketball title games will be announced at a later date; and, all four boys basketball finals on March 25, 1995, held at Breslin Center in East Lansing.

Other expected televised events include ice hockey finals, girls volleyball and girls soccer finals.

"This is the best overall television exposure MHSAA events have ever received," said John Johnson, communications director for the MHSAA.

first downs. The Wildcats rushed for 133 yards, passed for 38 and had 12 first downs.

But Richardson said the difference in the game was "us not letting them in the end zone when they had the chances."

Richardson also credits the Alpena players with helping his team get fired up for the game. "We were stretching on the field with about five minutes before the game when some of the Alpena kids walked by and said, 'You're not going to the playoffs.' That kind of got our kids up even more and they came out ready to play."

It was definitely the wrong thing for the 3-5 Alpena squad to boast. After they took a 3-0 lead, the Wolves came back in the second quarter when senior quarterback Toby Evans hit senior receiver Pat Mulligan with 12-yard touchdown pass.

It's all in the effort

● From start to finish, the Clarkston High golf team was the best.

This squad of talented golfers started the season at number one in the state and finished as the best as well.

The Wolves and coach Jim Chamberlain, runners up in 1993, proved their ranking was no fluke.

It wasn't always an easy season for the Wolves, however, despite winning the tough OAA Division I. Along the way there were some disappointments, including several losses to season-long rival Rochester.

But through it all, Chamberlain's crew stayed relaxed, worked hard on their games and focused on the state finals.

Their determination was evident. In fact, after one poor tournament outing, several players headed back to Spring Lake's course to practice on weaknesses after the match.

So for showing every team what it takes to win together, congratulations 1994 Class A Golf Champion Clarkston Wolves.

● For real college football excitement, the Central Michigan vs. Western Michigan football game can't be topped.

Featured in the Oct. 8 game were locals John King (Clarkston 1990), Erik Timpf (Lake Orion 1989) and Jim Vackaro (Lake Orion 1991). Between those three high school rivals, they stole the show.

Vackaro, Western's tailback, made many dazzling, determined runs, while Timpf, Central's quarterback, threw a few nice passes but used his blazing speed to gain almost 100 yards rushing.

King, Central's fullback, isn't flashy but always does everything right. He opened big holes for Timpf and the Central running game with crushing blocks.

● We all know Clarkston fans are used to and expect winning teams. But the football team deserves high regard for their character. Although winning next week's game against Lake Orion is crucial for a playoff spot, don't let that one game determine how successful the Wolves' season has been.

After a hard-fought loss to Troy in the first game of the season, Clarkston players and coaches continue to give it their all. You will never see Wolves players quit or let down. They play hard all the time. It's a tribute to them, coach Kurt Richardson and his staff.

While the team can't catch Troy and win the OAA Division I title, they will never forget the lessons they learned along the way. It takes determination, sacrifice, hard work and focus to always give your best each week, knowing one more loss takes you out of the playoff and division title picture.

Winning is great but you don't always learn the most important lessons by having an above .500 win-loss record.

● I'll have to take a bow for a big blunder made last week. In a feature story about Clarkston cross country runner Leah Scharl, I gave her the wrong last name throughout.

We all know it's not "Stahl," and I can't explain why I gave her that name in the first place. For sure, it probably won't be the last time I misspell a name, but hopefully from now on I at least misspell the correct last name.

For what it's worth now, Leah (we'll just leave your last name out this time), I apologize.

Alpena boasts, takes 14-3 loss Defense makes big plays

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A long trip to Alpena didn't deter the Clarkston football team from its mission.

The Wolves continued their fight to make the state playoffs by defeating the Alpena Wildcats Oct. 21 14-3. The victory sets up a showdown and most likely a must-win scenario for Clarkston against Lake Orion Oct. 28 at home.

Despite the 11-point victory margin over Alpena, the game was much closer. Clarkston coach Kurt Richardson said Alpena had several chances to score but each time his players came up with the big stops.

"It was a bend but don't break attitude. The first drive they marched right down the field, but we held them to a field goal. On two other possessions they also came close to scoring but we stopped them both times," Richardson said.

Both teams had similar statistics. The Wolves rushed for 131 yards and passed for 58 more with 11

Senior tailback Jason Graves, who rushed for 103 yards, then ran in the two-point conversion to make it 8-3.

On the season, Graves has rushed for over 1,100 yards (about 145 yards per game). In addition, he also kicks the teams' extra points, has kicked three field goals and returns punts, including two for touchdowns. Graves has scored 19 touchdowns.

The third quarter remained scoreless as both teams locked up in a defensive struggle.

But entering the fourth quarter Clarkston wasn't about to give up its playoff chances. Quarterback Evans made sure of that when he ran one yard for a score to make it 14-3.

"It was a real smash-mouth type football game and the kids really came up with the big plays when they had to," said Richardson, who also noted that his team had a strong fan following.

As he has done each game this season, Richardson credits a strong senior class with keeping his team focused each week. The Alpena game was no different.

"They set the tone for us and had high goals from the beginning. They knew every game after that first one was a big game, and now the next game is the big game," he said.

THE BIG GAME

If the Wolves don't win against the Lake Orion Dragons in the season finale, Richardson said it will be tough to make the playoffs.

The game, to be played at Clarkston at 7 p.m. Friday, pits two 7-1 teams against each other. The Dragons are rated No. 5 in Class A and won the OAA Division II. The Wolves are not rated in Class AA and finished second in the OAA Division I to Troy.

Both teams lost close games to Troy this season. Coaches for both teams say they want their players to play hard, continuing with what they have done all season.

Lake Orion coach Rich Burrell, in his third season, has an overall record of 14-11, including 3-6 and 4-5 in his first two seasons. Burrell, who has turned around the football program, said this is always a big game because of the rivalry between the two schools.

"This is a traditional rivalry for us and it could be the beginning of our playoffs," Burrell said. "Our goal is to play the best we can play and for us that means mistake-free football."

Clarkston coach Richardson said his team will have to be successful passing the ball to beat Orion.

His big concern is stopping one of the county's leading rushers in junior tailback Dennis Mahan, who has over 1,200 yards on the season with 18 touchdowns.

"Their offense is similar to ours but he's the man for them," said Richardson. "You have to stop Mahan to beat them."

Fans will be treated to a great show with Orion's Mahan and Clarkston's Graves running the ball.

The Dragons are almost assured of a Class A playoff spot, regardless of the game's outcome.

Playoff finalists announced on TV

Be the first to hear whether Clarkston qualifies for the state high school football playoffs on PASS, Pro Am Sports Network.

The Michigan High School Athletic Association will show a live cablecast of the playoff team qualifiers on PASS Oct. 30 at 10 p.m.

In addition, PASS will telecast six live championship events for the current sports season.

Televised games include the boys soccer finals Nov. 12, held at Bloomfield Hills Andover; the football playoff finals Nov. 25-26, held at the Pontiac Silverdome; the Class D and A girls basketball finals on Dec. 3, held at Kellogg Arena in Battle Creek; tape-delayed telecasts of Class C and B girls basketball title games will be announced at a later date; and, all four boys basketball finals on March 25, 1995, held at Breslin Center in East Lansing.

Other expected televised events include ice hockey finals, girls volleyball and girls soccer finals.

"This is the best overall television exposure MHSAA events have ever received," said John Johnson, communications director for the MHSAA.

first downs. The Wildcats rushed for 133 yards, passed for 38 and had 12 first downs.

But Richardson said the difference in the game was "us not letting them in the end zone when they had the chances."

Richardson also credits the Alpena players with helping his team get fired up for the game. "We were stretching on the field with about five minutes before the game when some of the Alpena kids walked by and said, 'You're not going to the playoffs.' That kind of got our kids up even more and they came out ready to play."

It was definitely the wrong thing for the 3-5 Alpena squad to boast. After they took a 3-0 lead, the Wolves came back in the second quarter when senior quarterback Toby Evans hit senior receiver Pat Mulligan with 12-yard touchdown pass.

JV sports

By Michael Romein

JV Soccer

Clarkston's Boys JV soccer team played their final game of the season last Tuesday at Troy Athens. However, it was a disappointing end to the season as the Wolves were defeated 5-1. Shawn Verlinden scored the only goal for Clarkston. (Thanks to Mike and Kevin Kopec for their assistance throughout the season.)

JV Football

Clarkston's JV football team won again last Thursday, raising their season record to 5-3. This time they defeated Alpena 24-21. Brad Conley scored three touchdowns, all on passes from Dane Fife.

However, it was not an easy win for the Wolves. They trailed at halftime 15-8, but came back and took the lead. The game was close until the end, when Conley scored with 1:31 left. The Wolves' defense then held Alpena's offense and Clarkston won.

This week they'll go for their sixth victory in a row when they play Lake Orion on Thursday. It will be the final game of the Wolves' season.

JV Girls Basketball

Clarkston's JV girls' basketball team lost two close games last week. On Tuesday, they lost to Waterford Mott by the score of 32-25. Jennifer Bauer led the Wolves with six points.

On Thursday, they lost to Rochester Adams 42-38 in overtime. The high scorers were Bauer with 11 and Colleen Stumpf with 10.

This week, they play against Rochester on October 27.

Good week with bad news

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The defense has remained a constant. But in a 44-34 win over Waterford Mott Oct. 18, the Clarkston girls basketball team also found some offensive punch.

The Wolves started out fast with a 16-2 lead and never let it go. "It was a superb defensive game for us," said coach Larry Mahrie, whose team is now 6-8 overall.

Clarkston was led by sophomore point guard Elissa Shires with 13 points and five assists while junior guard Leah Howard added 10 points and junior Nickie Winn had nine rebounds.

But the bad news came when Shires, who was having a marvelous game against Mott, broke her hand falling to the floor.

Freshman sports

By Kit Gischke

I walked into Coach Ray's classroom Friday and said hi to the coach I was getting to know. He looked up with one of those deer-caught-in-the-headlights looks on his face.

"Well," I prompted, "How did we do this week?"

It ended up that the freshman girls split the two games they played, winning against Mott and losing to Rochester Adams.

On Tuesday, the girls played fairly well, and defeated the other half of Waterford's two high-school teams, 33-30. "That day we played pretty good," Coach Ray said.

But then on Thursday, the girls fell apart and lost to Adams, 39-32. "We just played horribly," the coach lamented. "It just wasn't a good week."

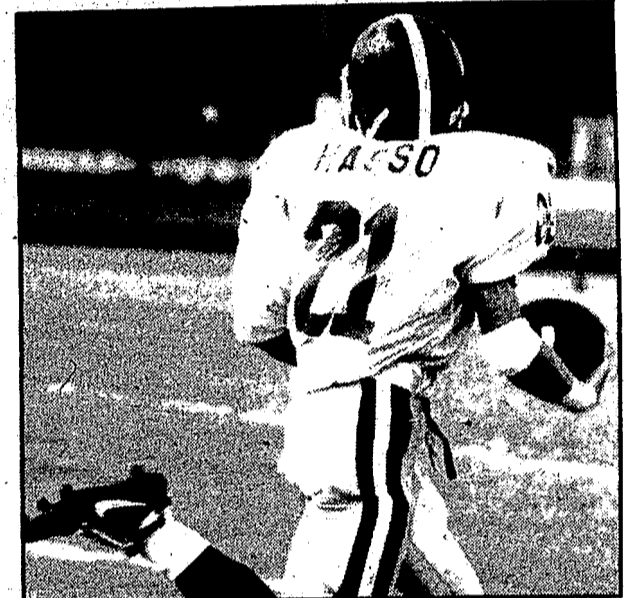

The girls' record is now 7-3. Better luck next week, girls!

Coach Mahrie said the broken hand bone could take two or three months to heal. Her loss will be felt, he said. "She was having a great season for us and when you lose your point guard it's tough."

The Wolves had to regroup and prepare to face the state's No. 2 ranked team in Rochester Adams. The Wolves ended up losing 66-38 as Adams proved why they are among the best.

The schedule doesn't get any easier this week as Clarkston plays three straight road games.

Mahrie said his young squad understands they just have to keep learning as the season progresses. "They have great attitudes and realize we are young so we have to look at the future and learn each game and in practice."

Tim Hasso of Clarkston is a senior at Our Lady of the Lakes and has started the last three years at both wide receiver and safety. Tim caught the winning touchdown from quarterback Scott Thomas in the Lakers' 7-0 win over St. Agatha. Tim also plays basketball and baseball, where he was All-Catholic as a junior.

Milestones

Marking 50 years

Richard Easton and Carolyn (Carr) Lowrie of Clarkston celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Oct. 28 at a party given by their children at Atlas Valley Country Club. The couple met when their property backed up to each other's, Carolyn's on Foster Road and Richard's on what is now Colomblere Center. They were married Oct. 30, 1944. The Lowries have five children, Kathrine I. Sebrovski of Royal Oak, Richard E. Lowrie Jr. of Rochester, Charles C. Lowrie of Royal Oak, Thomas C. Lowrie of Clarkston and Jeanne E. Mallott of Washington D.C.

Business brief

● Marty Novak has been named a Realtor Associate at Clarkston Real Estate Services, Inc.

● Patricia H. Spisak has been appointed an associate at Parry and Associates, a management consulting firm in Davisburg which specializes in assisting businesses to improve their operating performance. She will be active in the area of corporate re-engineering and cost and procurement reductions for clients.

● Audrey Grier of Clarkston has been selected a voting member of the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences, Inc.

Voting members of NARAS must have at least six recorded albums released on a national level. In addition to her studio recording work, Grier has also recorded with the Grammy-winning Norman Luboff Choir. She is presently principal choreographer for The Vocal Arts Academy, in residence at Oakland University, and executive editor for EverGreen Morning Press.

Engagement

Ulasich-Velazquez

Lorette Ulasich of Clarkston and Felipe Velazquez Jr. of Los Angeles announce their engagement.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ulasich of Clarkston. She is a 1987 graduate of Clarkston High School and is employed with Home Investment and Loans in San Diego. The prospective groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Felipe Velazquez Sr. of Temecula, CA. He is a 1987 graduate of Hoover High School in Glendale, CA and works as a self-employed plumbing contractor.

A December wedding in San Diego, where the couple will reside, is being planned.

New Arrival

● Shauneen and D.J. Campe of Fallbrook, Cal. announce the birth of a son. Christian Beckett Campe was born Sept. 17, 1994 at 2:34 p.m. He weighed 8 pounds, 10 ounces and was 19 1/2 inches long. He has a brother, Theo, 2. Grandparents are Tom and Judy O'Brien and Donald Campe, all of Clarkston, and the late Marilyn Campe.

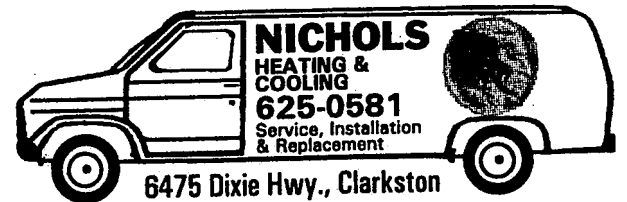

Two Clarkston teens were chosen Homecoming King and Queen at Orchard Lake St. Mary's. Chad Combs and Megan Jones were crowned during halftime festivities Oct. 8. The day began with a tailgate party for spectators, then capped off with the Homecoming Dance, held on campus.

Johnsen-Ayers

Gerald and Jane Johnsen of Lake Orion announce the engagement of their daughter, Leslie Rae, to Richard J. Ayers of Clarkston, son of George and Carol Arthur of Pontiac and Richard C. Ayers of Clarkston. The bride-to-be is a 1989 Lake Orion High School graduate and received a B.A. in psychology from Michigan State University in 1993. She currently attends the University of Detroit-Mercy full time, majoring in clinical psychology and expects to graduate in August 1995. The prospective groom is a 1987 graduate of Clarkston High School. He holds two vocational degrees, one in mechanics from Motech Education Center and another in cosmetology from Michigan College of Cosmetology. He presently works with his father in a privately-owned business in Clarkston. A December 1994 wedding is being planned.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY Spirit: Holy Spirit, You who makes me see everything and who shows me the way to reach my ideal. You who gives me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me, and You who are with me, I, in this short dialogue want to thank You for everything and to confirm that I never want to be separated from You, no matter how great material desires may be. I want to be with You and my loved ones in Your perpetual glory. Amen. Thank You for Your love towards me and my loved ones. Persons must pray this prayer three consecutive days with out asking your wish. After the third day, your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then, promise to publish this dialogue as soon as your favor has been granted. Thanks to St. Jude for favors received. (D.C.) IILX43-2

ADDITIONAL MILLAGE AUTHORIZATION FOR POLICE SERVICES:

Shall the Charter Township of Independence be authorized to levy an additional 0.4468 of 1 mill for a period of four years to partially finance police services, commencing with the December 1994 levy? Approval of this proposal would authorize a new levy of 44.68 cents (approximately 45 cents) per $1,000 of state equalized value above the total tax limitation imposed by Article IX of the Michigan Constitution. It is estimated that this levy would result in the authorization to collect approximately $286,383 per year if approved and levied.

Clarkston News Staff Writer

Every year Bob Kinney endures the untangling of five or six strands of pumpkin lights to create a Halloween fantasy.

And every year plenty of people enjoy the result. The Kinneys, Bob and his wife Kim, have spent a good decade decorating the spacious yard in front of their modest Independence Township home with ghosts, goblins, witches, tombstones — you name it. "It's definitely worth it, especially when you get the people who stop by with their kids. That tickles us," Kim said.

The Kinneys say they got the idea when they traveled up north one year and saw a truckload of pumpkins for sale.

They couldn't resist and soon bought each and every one of the roly-poly globes, using them to create their first display. That started the ball — er, pumpkin — rolling.

Soon, Bob was creating figures and trying new things with lights to boost the already spooky scenery which includes humans trapped in spider webs, heads peeking out of cornstalks and a grave marker titled, "This one is for you!"

Now, some of the figures' heads are lit up using masks stretched over plastic milk jugs with night-lights placed inside. Spotlights painted green and red create other eerie effects. And special timers turn the display on and off every night through all 31 days of October.

The Kinneys say their daughter Trisha and son Ryan save them the grueling chore of carving 20 pumpkin faces (whose candles Bob faithfully blows out each night) but it's basically Bob who does the work.

"Everything we've got my husband did. He's a big kid — yes, exactly. He enjoys getting out there and doing it," Kim said.

"A lot of people tell us it's a tradition to come to our house every year, on their way to the grocery store and all ..."

The Kinneys say some drop their thanks in the mailbox as well.

"Once there was a note in there that said one of the Detroit Lions had stopped," Bob said, modestly.

Their pumped-up holiday spirit leaves them little time to enjoy a Thanksgiving turkey with all the trimmings.

After the Halloween display comes down November 1, they have about a week before Bob digs into his Christmas stash. You see, it takes about three weeks to go through 700 strands of Yuletide lights.

"We love doing Halloween — it's Christmas that's terrible," Kim said. "You've got to go through all of those lights and detangle them, check to see how many will still work ... and once they're up you've got to constantly replace the ones that're burned out. It's just a pain in the hind end."

Not to mention the Kinneys' electric bill, which they say averages about $300 for the month of December.

But that doesn't stop them in their pursuit of bigger and better imagination. Bob's already got a new idea for this year.

"I thought about dressing up and laying down beside one of the caskets and then grabbing legs as they go by," he laughed, mischievously.

Stephen Coryell, 8, meets some of his new neighbors on a Clarkston lake. On a late fall afternoon it's a peaceful setting for a boy to contemplate nature.

Compost: Sooner or later, it will be here

By March, Michigan residents will have to find somewhere else to send their grass clippings and leaves other than the local landfill.

That's because Michigan Public Act 264 prohibits the disposal of yard waste, including grass clippings, leaves and small brush in landfills as of March. The law also prohibits the open burning of yard waste in communities with a population greater than 7,500.

So what's a person to do?

"The DNR strongly encourages residents to reduce both air pollution and fire hazards by choosing to compost or mulch leaves and yard waste instead of burning the debris," says Michigan Department of Natural Resources Director Roland Harms.

Though landfilling and burning are currently still legal, the DNR and other agencies are encouraging residents to find other alternatives now, not wait for the deadline.

"It is a matter of replacing the environmental problems of burning and landfilling with the environmentally positive choice to recycle waste into a useful product," Harms says.

The DNR suggests chopping leaves into tiny pieces with your lawnmower and leaving them on the lawn, along with grass clippings. Alternatively, you can rake the leaves and create a compost pile. The debris will decompose without needed to be watched, like a fire. The resulting mulch can be used on flower beds and shrubs or used to top-dress lawns.

The yard-waste ban was passed to help free up space in landfills for trash which cannot be composted or recycled. But a side benefit is the creation of usable organic material which can benefit landscaping.

For more information, the DNR can help. Contact the Waste Management Division for information on composting at (517) 335-4863. Or call the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service at 858-0887.

To help them recover from gypsy moth, Trees need fall care

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

Though the slimy, hairy little beasts are gone for the year, the effect of gypsy moths on trees has not disappeared for the winter.

Trees which successfully fought off the attack of the gypsy moth this summer need help this fall so they can come back strong again next year. Without proper care, the cumulative effect of years worth of damage could eventually kill the tree.

In fact, according to Greg Patchan, horticulturist with the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service, it's not gypsy moths which kill trees. Rather, the insects weaken trees, making them vulnerable to attacks of all kinds which can kill.

In a paper he wrote for the Extension Service, Patchan outlines the causes of tree stress and what residents can do to help. Most of the ideas are common sense plant care rules, the kind of care many people think mature trees don't need.

IRRIGATION: Even with their extensive roots, large trees suffer from extensive drought. This fall's mild, dry weather may contribute to your trees' need for water.

Patchan suggests one inch of water per week, which he says is equivalent to one gallon of water per square foot, applied over the tree's root area. He suggests going out beyond the drip line, since roots extend up to 50 percent further.

ROOT REGENERATION: Aeration can stimulate root growth, Patchan says, and thereby stimulate the tree. Long-standing trees can be affected by soil compaction and root restriction. To correct the problem, Patchan suggests drilling holes two feet deep near and slightly beyond the drip line. Leave small holes open; fill larger ones with peat-moss enriched top soil. Fertilizer can also be added.

MULCHING: Mulching helps conserve moisture and helps tree roots compete with grass, a tough competitor if ever there was one. Mulching also helps the roots escape lawnmower damage. Patchan suggests three inches of mulch, but warns against piling it against the trunk.

FEEDING: "Urban trees can become nutrient deficient because they have been removed from recycling of plant nutrients that occurs in a forested environment," Patchan says. Use a soil test to find out exactly what your soil needs. In most cases, a high nitrogen, low phosphorus, moderate potassium lawn fertilizer (such as 24-4-8) is a good choice, Patchan says.

Though fertilizer is usually applied in spring, stressed trees can be fertilized at other times, he adds.

PRUNING: Dead wood should be removed to avoid leading to structural weakness and empty cavities.

Funeral home's addition warm and inviting

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Now that the vestibule of the Lewis E. Wint & Son Funeral Home has been completed, its atmosphere is as warm and cheery as the owner himself.

Bill Wint, who began managing his dad Lewis' business in 1983, continued the Wints' tradition of focusing on the celebration of life. And he also realized "what a great asset my parents were to this community."

"I wanted to continue to be that force to help people," he said.

Therefore, Wint imagined an airy open place that would greet people with its brightness, have a sense of warmth and provide comfort for those facing one of life's most difficult situations.

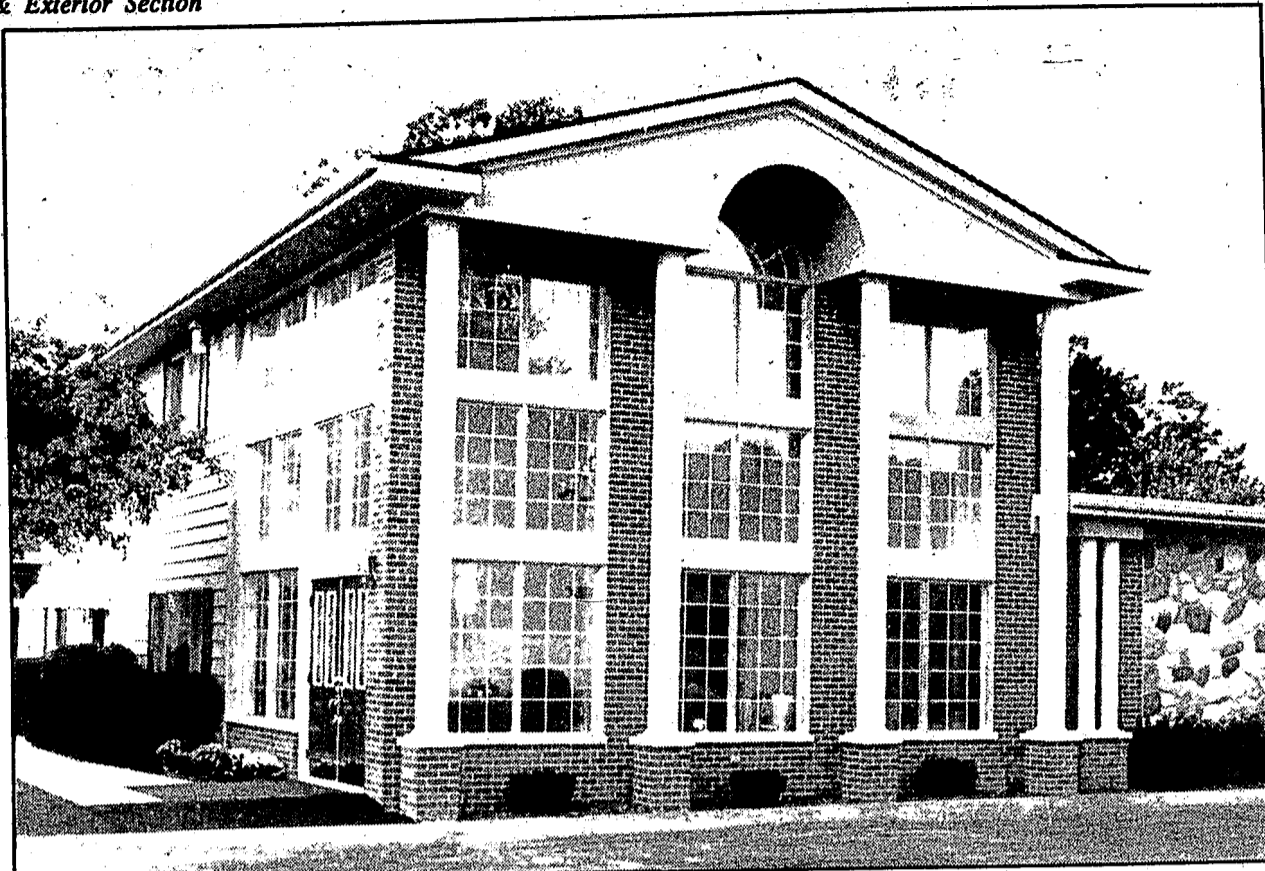

"All this," Wint gestured to the new two-storied foyer, "was created to do that."

Bob Futrell, a builder from Futrell and Futrell Builders, Inc. of Clarkston, said, "Bill came up with a basic design which he brought in. It was kind of a collaborative effort."

Jerry Carter, a designer from Custom Home Design in Clarkston, was also part of the team, Futrell said.

"Bill had a good idea; it just needed refining," Futrell said.

The project began in July and was finished in September. The result was a 740-square-foot addition with classical lines featuring three levels of muntin-barred long windows, a cathedral ceiling and

"Actually, it's kind of a blend of classic lines with contemporary," added Futrell. "The look of individual panes (in the windows) softened the look down."

The vestibule was completed with new cranberry-colored carpeting with accents of cream and green in both furniture and wallpaper, a large open coat closet at the back and a small mirror for quick grooming.

Wint said his wife also added some touches like the feminine angel portrait that hangs at the end of the foyer. And, he added affectionately, she did a good job redecorating the bathrooms.

"I'm especially proud of the way she did the men's restroom," Wint laughed, gesturing to a masculine golf collage as he swung the door open.

Futrell said the new expansion has greatly helped out Wint with his flow of customers into the

Plant now for spring color

Traditionally considered a time for raking leaves, carving pumpkins, hay rides and football games, autumn is also the best time for planting flowering bulbs. Planted during fall, in flower beds, rock gardens, along a hedge or fence, or in the lawn, bulbs are a great way to add a splash of color to any landscape.

Easy to plant and cultivate, bulb blossoms will thrive next spring if they are given a hospitable growing environment and are properly groomed this fall for winter dormancy. Bulbs should also be protected from foraging animals by soaking them in a repellent, such as Ro-Pel Bulb Protector, prior to planting.

Bulb varieties

The most difficult part of planting spring-flowering bulbs is choosing from among the hundreds of species and hybrids available. Some of the most sought after varieties include:

Tulips -- the most popular of all spring flowering bulbs, tulips offer gardeners a wide range of choices in height, color, shape and bloom time.

Narcissus -- More commonly referred to as daffodils, this winter-hardy flower comes in many shapes and colors. These bulbs develop extensive root systems in fall and provide better flowering results in colder climates.

Muscari -- Nicknamed the "Grape Hyacinth," these tiny, bright purple flowers multiply quickly and resemble bunches of upturned grapes. Flowers stay in bloom for one to three weeks and thrive in sun or shade. They are an excellent choice for borders.

Chionodoxa -- Commonly known as "Glory-of-the-Snow," this spring flower blooms in loose clusters of white, blue or pink, and can vary from three to 10 inches in height. This bulb type is an ideal plant for borders and rock gardens.

Planting Tips

Whether they are planted individually or in groups, spring-flowering bulbs will thrive and flourish if you follow these few simple planting procedures:

Prepare the Soil -- Once the planting bed has been selected, turn the soil over to a depth of about 10 inches to aerate the site and give bulb roots ample room to grow. Quick to rot if left in standing water, spring-flowering bulbs flourish best in light, well-drained soil. Where necessary, condition soil with fertilizer as required.

Plant at Proper Depth -- Using a bulb planter or trowel to dig holes, the general rule of thumb is to plant bulbs to a depth of three times their overall height. With the soil removed to the required depth, lightly press bulbs into place bottom side down (the flat side is the bottom), return the soil, and water thoroughly.

Remember, if bulbs are planted too shallow the freezing and thawing of surrounding soil may interrupt their dormant phase, permanently damaging root systems and limiting your chance of bright, healthy blossoms.

Protect Against Pests -- Bulbs are a tasty treat for many hungry creatures, such as mice, moles, squirrels and chipmunks. To keep these animals from making a restaurant out of your garden, soak each bulb for a minute, prior to planting, in Ro-Pel Bulb Protector, a safe and effective animal repellent that works on the principle of aversive taste. Non-hazardous and ecologically sound, Ro-Pel will give any bulb-feasting creature a "bitter" reminder that this property is off-limits.

To ensure that hungry animals don't return to feed, Ro-Pel is also formulated with a mild medicinal tag scent. After one or two visits to your garden, animals quickly associate the odor with the subsequent vile taste in their mouth. As a result, racoons, chipmunks, squirrels and other animals can be literally "trained" to leave your garden alone and move on to someone else's garden.

After bulbs have grown and flowered, spray the blossoms with Ro-Pel again to deter animals such as deer and rabbits from chewing on flowers and other foliage.

Groom With Caution -- If you already have blossoms, the best way to ensure that bulbs flower again next year is to "deadhead" (remove the dying blossom) from the wilting plant at season's end, but allow foliage to wither without immediate pruning. This is crucial as stems and leaves continue to create and store food for winter dormancy and eventual use next spring.

Turn in that old fridge

It's old, inefficient to operate and can be expensive to discard. Now, thanks to a Detroit Edison pilot program available to customers in Oakland County, that less efficient refrigerator or freezer can be history.

Detroit Edison customers can participate in a turn-in program, which allows for the free removal and recycling of freezers and second, working refrigerators -- the kind people typically have in their basements or garages. A Detroit Edison contractor will pick up freezers and old, second refrigerators, 10 cubic feet to 28 cubic feet in size, and recycle materials and safely dispose of their components.

Customers can save money on their electric bills by discontinuing use of old refrigerators and freezers, while avoiding the disposal costs levied for them in some communities, said Elaine Cato, coordinator of the program.

"The refrigerator turn-in program not only saves customers money, but also ensures that refrigerator and freezer components are disposed of in an environmentally safe manner," Cato said.

Detroit Edison's contractor will capture or recycle the chlorofluorocarbons (CFCs), incinerate any polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs) and recycle all metals, she said.

The program is being offered to a limited number of customers in 1994, but will be expanded next year.

Customers interested in participating can call 1-800-922-FRIG (3744) from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. weekdays, and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturdays to schedule a removal appointment. Please have your Detroit Edison account number handy when you call.

Watch out for carbon monoxide

As temperatures drift southward, Consumers Power Company is encouraging customers to guard their homes against more than the seasonal chill.

"An improperly operating furnace or bad chimney can cause a potentially lethal buildup of carbon monoxide in the home," said Jerry Richards, senior engineer for the utility's gas distribution services area. "Routine maintenance and simple precautions can help ensure the safe operation of your heating system."

Carbon monoxide -- an odorless, colorless gas -- can be produced when fuels burn without enough air. It can also be produced when ranges or grills are used for space heating and when chimneys or vents are blocked, flues are rusted and appliances are faulty or improperly installed. The presence of moisture on walls or windows may indicate a heating system problem.

Among the symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning are a stinging sensation in the eyes, dizziness, weakness and repeated nausea or headaches. High amounts of carbon monoxide can be fatal.

If the presence of carbon monoxide is suspected, call Consumers Power at 1-800-477-5050 or a licensed mechanical contractor immediately.

To ensure the safe operation of your heating system you should do the following:

- Check furnace air filter monthly and replace it when needed.
- Replace worn belts on blower and lubricate bearings or motor if required.
- Keep furnace blower door closed. Never operate furnace with door open.
- Make certain furnace vent is in good shape and connected to chimney.
- Routinely observe the condition of chimney for obstructions. After running the furnace for five minutes to heat chimney, feel close to draft hood or vent pipes for exhaust leaks. Do not operate furnace if exhaust is leaking inside.

Boost damaged trees in fall

Prepare them for next year's gypsy moth attack

PEST CONTROL: "Trees weakened by gypsy moth damage cannot afford to lose more leaf surface or vascular conductivity to attack by other insects," Patchan says. "Minor pest problems can become more severe when combined with gypsy moth damage..."

"When trees have been defoliated by gypsy moth, special attention should be given to reducing damage by other diseases and/or insects."

In fall, gypsy moth cocoons are visible in areas infected by the pests. There's a natural gut reaction by property owners to destroy the egg masses in hopes of wiping out the insects before they can hatch into leaf-chewing, sap-dripping caterpillars next year.

However Clarkston resident Peggy Dyer, whose trees this summer were crawling with the insects, says it's crucial not to destroy the egg masses if a neighborhood is being considered for aerial spraying.

Each fall, neighborhoods considering spraying must undergo an egg mass count to see if they qualify for county spraying. If there aren't enough egg masses (300 per acre), the neighborhood won't be considered. Therefore, Dyer says, residents should wait until at least January to take their revenge.

"Leave the visible egg masses," Dyer says. "If you scrape them off they'll flutter in the breeze."

New natural control coming?

The USDA's Agricultural Research Service says a fly called Blepharipa schineri may be released into American woodlands next year to help combat the gypsy moth.

The fuzzy, half-inch fly is said to be unobtrusive, living quietly sipping nectar and laying eggs. It doesn't bite or sting, doesn't have a loud buzz, but is deadly to the gypsy moth.

Tests are currently being done to make sure the fly doesn't harm any insect other than the gypsy moth. If the experiments are successful, federal approval will be sought to release the flies.

"The female B. schineri fly lays her eggs on leaves where hungry gypsy moth caterpillars are feeding," researcher Robert Pemberton of USDA says. "The caterpillar accidentally swallows the fly eggs. They hatch into maggots that feed on the pupa--the last stage before adulthood--and slowly kill the caterpillar."

Keep radon out in the cold

As you seal up your home to keep cold air out, be sure not to keep radon in, warns the American Lung Association.

Radon is a naturally occurring, radioactive gas that continues to be a deadly source of indoor air pollution. It is now considered the U.S.'s second-leading cause of lung cancer, and the leading cause among non-smokers. It is projected that 12 percent of Michigan residents have the potential for elevated radon levels.

Radon is odorless and tasteless and comes from the natural breakdown of radium, a decay product of uranium, found in soil and rock. It can enter the home through cracks in the foundation floor, walls and drains.

The ALA suggests residents test their homes for radon. For more information call the ALA at 1-800-543-LUNG.

Start with the right tree

If you're planning to plant new trees this fall and are concerned about future gypsy moth damage, Michigan State University has some advice on giving trees the best possible start.

- Plant hardy species in appropriate sites. Marginally hardy or exotic trees may survive until a crisis comes along, but it's unlikely they'll thrive. Consider drainage, sunlight, protection against winter winds, soil pH, etc.

- When planting, remove all non-biodegradable materials such as wires and plastic burlap from the roots and trunk. Redirect or remove any roots growing around the root ball.

- Water newly planted trees during dry weather for the first growing season or two to help get them established. Drought stress makes trees more susceptible to insect attack and other problems.

- Stake and guy-wire newly planted trees to prevent wind damage and help establish a sturdy root system.

- Protect plants from damage by lawnmowers, herbicides and other chemicals used on your lawn or garden. Mulching helps keep the lawnmower at a safe distance.

- Avoid using deicing salt around plants.
- Fertilize established plants regularly--every year or two--to help keep them growing vigorously.

- Avoid changes in the growing site that may damage roots or alter drainage. Adding as little as two or three inches of soil over the root zone or exposing the roots during construction can injure roots and cause the tree to decline.

- Direct heavy equipment, vehicles and foot traffic away from landscaping to prevent soil compaction in the root zone.

First icy bridges may occur any day

Brilliant fall color in Michigan is often accompanied by another phenomenon of nature—slippery bridges. The Michigan Department of Transportation says crisp fall mornings create optimum conditions for the formation of a coating of frost and ice on bridges, even when the roadway remains ice-free.

This may create quite a surprise, especially to motorists who have not modified their summer driving habits.

MDOT offers these tips:

BE PREPARED to lower your speed on bridges.

AVOID HITTING BRAKES too hard or making panic stops which may cause a car to skid. Pump brakes to reduce speed.

AVOID LANE CHANGES or other abrupt steering maneuvers.

BE ESPECIALLY CAREFUL during early morning and evening hours, the time bridges tend to ice. Always wear your safety belt.

OBSERVE "bridge may be icy" signs, since they will help you identify bridge locations.

Turkey-Strawberry Salad

4 cups torn spinach
1 pint fresh strawberries
4 green onions, bias sliced
12 ounces turkey breast tenderloin steaks
2 tablespoons olive oil or salad oil
1 tablespoon red wine vinegar
1 tablespoon water
1/2 teaspoon dried minced onion
1/8 teaspoon salt
1/2 of a yellow sweet pepper, sliced into rings
1 tablespoon honey

Toss together torn, washed and drained spinach, halved strawberries, and bias-sliced green onions in a large bowl; set aside. Rinse turkey breast tenderloin steaks; pat dry. Cut turkey into bite-size strips; set aside.

For dressing, combine oil, vinegar, water, dried onion, and salt. Heat half of the dressing in a large skillet. Add the pepper rings. Stir-fry for 1 1/2 to 2 minutes or until crisp-tender. Remove pepper rings from skillet.

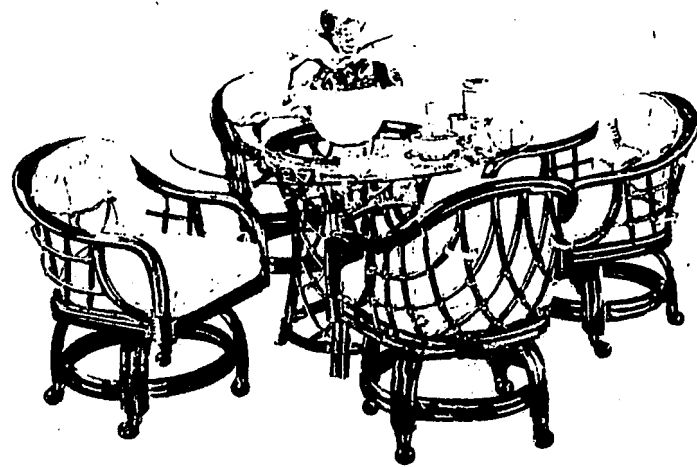

Heat the remaining dressing in the same skillet. Stir-fry the turkey strips in the hot dressing for 2 to 3 minutes or until no longer pink. Remove from heat. Stir in pepper rings and honey. Pour turkey mixture over spinach mixture. Toss well. Makes 4 servings.

Feed the birds, beautify your yard

From the simplest backyards to the most complete of gardens, any landscape setting can be made far more beautiful by the presence of singing birds. Attracting an assortment of colorful birds to your lawn is an effortless project that the entire family can enjoy. All that it involves is the hanging of a prefilled plastic bird feeder.

Prefilled feeders invite a wide variety of colorful birds to visit your yard year-round. This is because such feeders come stocked with the appropriate mixture of seeds and grains. They are refillable and recyclable and can be found in any garden center or hardware store. Such prefilled feeders are a realistic alternative to decorative, large, and often very expensive bird feeders that often adorn avid bird watchers' properties.

Let the Children be in Charge

Bird feeders make for great educational projects for children. A child who is given the responsibility of choosing the location of the bird feeder, as well as hanging it, is likely to take a real interest in the different species of birds that frequent the feeding spot. Armed with a bird guide or encyclopedia, your child will be identifying the feasting birds in your yard in no time. Your child can subsequently take credit for, as well as explain, the new bird retreat located on your property to family and friends.

Blue jays can be easily identified by their color and voice.

Bird Varieties

Being able to identify the bird at your feeder can serve as a source of pride for people of all ages and interests, not just for children. The most commonly sighted bird at a typical feeder is a robin. They are easily identified by their deep colored red breast.

What is not as widely known is that they can nest in any of the various terrains of this country. From the ocean coasts to the peaks of mountains, robins are at home.

Blue jays also seem to flock to bird feeders in great numbers, and crave sunflower seeds. Their vibrant colors and distinctive markings make them easy to spot. It is, in fact, more difficult to take your eyes off a blue jay than it is to find one. Doves, cardinals, goldfinches and brown-headed cowbirds are other types of birds that will become common sights to the owner of a simple bird feeder.

Birds Speak Too

Birds are unquestionably beautiful creatures. They also flaunt a variety of interesting and often soothing sounds. The different pitches and tones are often enjoyed by homeowners as background noise.

But, they can also be understood for what they truly are: forms of communication. For example, short fierce bursts serve to signal other birds of impending danger, whereas a strong piercing cry serves to ward off other birds and establish territory. A male bird might attempt to attract a potential mate by singing a rich, sweet song. All of these different calls are pleasant sounding, and, at the same time, they can also serve as a fascinating reference to the trained ear.

October is Michigan wine month

Did you know Michigan has four federally recognized viticultural areas: the Lake Michigan shoreline, the Fennville area, the Leelanau Peninsula, and the Old Mission Peninsula?

Many Michigan wines have received national and international awards, including reds, whites, blushes and sparkling and non-alcoholic juices. So Gov. John Engler has declared October wine month to encourage residents to visit state wineries and experience their products.

Grape growing in the southwestern part of the state began in the mid-nineteenth century, according to the Michigan Department of Agriculture. By 1880, when the first national winegrowing census was taken, Michigan had over 2,000 acres under vine and was producing more than 25,000 cases per year.

During Prohibition the vineyards continued to thrive, yielding crops for juice, jelly and table use. More recently, wine has grown in popularity and tastes have become more sophisticated. Vintners have responded by increasing variety and attaining new market standards for both quality and style.

The four federally designated areas in Michigan share a common bond; a beneficial proximity to Lake Michigan or other large bodies of water. This helps extend the grape-growing season and allows the grapes to reach their fullest potential before harvesting.

Today Michigan grape varieties include Vignoles, Seyval Blanc, Chardonnay, Chancellor, Foch, deChaunac, Riesling, Baco Noir and Charnat.

Helping your yard survive the winter

Are you one of those people who thinks that the winter is especially tough on you? Then imagine how tough it is on your plants, trees and shrubs. So, just like you might don a parka and a scarf when Old Man Winter starts to howl, you should do the same for your yard as the winter approaches.

Virtually all plant life feels the effects of dipping temperatures, but few more so than evergreens. That's because their foliage is always green, leaving it prone to damage from wind, ice and the buildup of snow on branches. Further, evergreens desiccate, or sweat moisture, all year long.

As a result, their roots must reach deep into the soil to replenish the moisture they've lost. Should the soil around the root system freeze, then there's no moisture to be absorbed. In short order, the foliage will turn brown and quite possibly die.

Luckily, not all shrubs, trees and plants are as susceptible to cold conditions as evergreens. Still, branches and leaves can be harmed by the wind and even snapped by the weight of accumulated snow or ice. And as soil freezes and "heaves," meaning that it actually shifts as it expands, roots can be snapped apart, thereby killing the plant. According to the professionals at Easy Gardener, Inc., there are a number of new products designed to protect your landscape from the wrath of Old Man Winter.

Antitranspirant Sprays

"Also known as antidessicants, antitranspirant sprays coat the stems and leaves of evergreens, shrubs and young trees with a protective film that holds in moisture, shields plants from drying winter winds and sudden drops in temperature," says Boyd Thomas of Easy Gardener. "These sprays, which are sold under such names as CloudCover and Shrub Saver, are an inexpensive and easy way to seal and preserve the foliage of the plant. They can also be used in the spring and summer to protect plants from drought and heat."

Thomas adds that a thorough application of Shrub Saver before the first frost of the fall should last for three months. Ice and snow, however, can wash away the protective emulsion coat, so be sure to re-spray plants throughout the winter. There's no need to worry about harmful environmental side effects as most antitranspirants, among them CloudCover and Shrub Saver, are non-toxic and biodegradable.

Landscape Fabrics

While antitranspirant sprays protect the foliage of plants, how does the average homeowner protect their plants' roots and soil from the ravages of winter? The answer, according to growing numbers of gardeners, is landscape fabrics. Also known as geotextiles, landscape fabrics eliminate the need for using ripped sheets of black plastic to stop weeds and help keep the soil warm.

While plastic blocks weeds, it's also impermeable, meaning that the air, moisture and vital nutrients roots need in order for plants to survive can't pass through. Further, bark or mulch laid atop black plastic tends to float away come spring and summer, as snow melts and the rains come. Even worse, water trapped beneath black plastic can't evaporate and eventually sours the soil, putting plant life at risk.

One of the landscape fabrics available at lawn and garden centers and hardware stores is WeedBlock. A strong, synthetic fabric with thousands of "micro-funnels," WeedBlock permits air and water to pass through while simultaneously blocking out the sunlight that weeds need to thrive. Landscape fabrics also reduce the amount of water lost to evaporation and help keep the soil warm, making it more difficult for the soil to freeze over.

Inexpensive and easy to use, WeedBlock can be applied quickly and simply by laying overlapping strips of fabric atop the prepared area, or, if necessary, over existing shrubs or plants. Using a pair of scissors or a knife, cut X's or holes into the material in the appropriate spots and pull it down around the plant, pushing the loose flaps of fabric back under the plant. WeedBlock will last for years, continually working to block unwanted weeds.

Once the landscape fabric is in place consider adding a two- to three-inch layer of a mulch such as pine needles, wood chips or shredded leaves around your plants. This not only gives the landscape a handsome, groomed appearance, but it extends the life of the fabric indefinitely, and will, like a blanket, serve as an extra layer keeping soil and roots moist and warm.

New treat on market

If you've ever tried to make home-made strudel, you know how finicky fillo dough is. It's paper thin and packaged in a stack of large sheets. Pulling them apart, as is required in most recipes, isn't easy. The sheets often tear, creating gaping holes where a secure package for filling is needed.

The folks at Athens Fillo Dough have come up with a solution. They are now marketing fillo cups in packages of 15 in the frozen food section of your supermarket. The new little cholesterol-free bundles can be filled with a wide variety of fillings, both sweet and savory, for easy snacking.

Some of the company's suggestions:

- guacamole baskets with a topping of sour cream.
- fruit tarts made with canned pie filling or fresh fruit with yogurt.
- whipped cream swirled with fruited yogurt or pudding.
- melted shredded cheese.

Q. I received an amaryllis for Christmas last year with a rather complicated set of instructions for making it bloom again this year. They involve withholding water and forcing the plant to go dormant and rest for some weeks, then resuming watering and starting it growing again. Is all this necessary?

A. If you don't mind surprises, the easiest way to reflower an amaryllis is to let it follow its own schedule. Place it where it will receive plenty of direct sunlight and keep watering and fertilizing it as long as it continues to grow. If the foliage dies back, cut back on watering and give it a rest. When new growth appears, start watering again. It's altogether possible that it won't go dormant before it sends up another flower stalk. And it's possible that it will produce only leaves, either with or without a dormant period. In other words, it will flower when and if it feels like it. Most people feel the dramatic blossoms are waiting for.

Q. What are those fat, stupid flies that come indoors in the fall?

A. They're cluster flies, and they overwinter in large masses in attics, sheds, barns and other out-of-the-way areas. As the weather cools off, they get sluggish and buzz annoyingly against windows and around lights at night. One or two sprays of a pyrethrin-type insect spray labeled for use indoors and an application of the vacuum cleaner may take care of the entire problem.

Q. I have a huge, old Christmas cactus that may be in need of repotting. Last year, it bloomed steadily from mid-December to the first of May. Isn't that kind of unusual? And would I be wise to leave it alone rather than try to repot it? I certainly don't have any complaints about its performance, and it's producing plenty of new growth.

A. Some plants are encouraged to flower when potbound, but the traditional Christmas cactus is not one of them. (A related plant, the orchid cactus, is. It blooms in May and June.) The time to repot is when the water rushes out because there is more root than soil in the pot. If this isn't the case, the best bit of advice may be, if it ain't broke, don't fix it!

Q. How do I know that my storage onions are ready for harvest?

A. Harvest dry onions for storage when the majority of the onion tops have fallen over and dried out. Loosen the roots with a spading fork, if necessary, before pulling the bulbs. Then spread them out in a shaded, dry, well ventilated area to cure. Onions are ready to go into storage when the tops are completely dry all the way to the bulb. Sort out any onions that have thick necks that contain moist tissue. Store those that are completely dry at the neck and use the thick-necked onions first -- they won't store as well. Store unblemished dry onions in slatted crates or mesh bags in a dark, dry, cool place -- 32 to 40 degrees F. Damaged onions will not keep as well as those free of injury.

Q. How do I know my winter squash are ready for harvest?

A. The rind will be quite hard, and in most cultivars, the area where the fruit rests on the soil changes from greenish cream to rich orange.

Q. I have some leftover pesticides and other lawn and garden chemicals to store over the winter. What's the best way to do this to preserve the effectiveness of the products?

A. Store the materials in a dry area where they will be subjected to neither very high temperatures nor freezing cold. Store pesticides in their original containers so you have all the information you need to use them safely and effectively, and protect the labels from moisture that could make them unreadable. If you can't read the label, properly discard the material. Most important, store pesticides in a locked storage area to keep children, pets, wildlife and irresponsible adults out of them. Never store pesticides with or near food, medicine, pet food, wild bird seed or cleaning supplies, or in food or beverage containers.

Q. What causes cabbage heads to split?

A. Too much water entering the head through the roots after the heads become solid will cause heads to split. As the heads near full size and become firm, try pulling the plants up enough to break some of the roots. This will reduce the amount of water the roots can take up and help prevent splitting.

Fall fun

BEAUTY AND THE BEAST will be the focus of a unique display at Hudson's Summit Place Mall store Nov 6-31 during mall hours. The magic of the 17th century fairy tale will be illustrated in an animated walk-through display featuring over 120 figures. Guests will be able to witness Beauty's dreams and watch the Beast turn to a prince before their very eyes. The exhibit is free and is in the southwest mall corridor adjacent to Hudson's.

CELEBRITIES CHOOSE THEIR FAVORITE ARTIFACTS from the Detroit Historical Museum for a special exhibit opening Nov. 3 Singer Anita Baker chose a painted frieze which adorned the Dodge home called Rose Terrace. Emie Harwell selected a white bisque china baseball vase created in 1876. L. Brooks Patterson chose law-enforcement memorabilia. Many more local celebrities participated. The exhibit runs through March. Hours are Wednesday-Friday, 9:30-5, weekends 10-5.

THE LONGWAY PLANETARIUM in Flint will rotate four different shows this fall. Two favorites—Laser Doors and The Wall—are coming back, and two new shows—Laser Floyd's The Vision Bell and Laserpalooza—will be released. The music of Pink Floyd, Pearl Jam and The Doors is featured. Information is available 24-hours a day by calling (810) 760-7511. The planetarium is located at 1310 E. Kearsley in the Flint Cultural Center.

THE DETROIT ZOO will soon host a nine-part series of videos narrated by Michigan celebrities and produced by Sue Marx. Julie Harris, James Earl Jones, Harry Blackstone, Jr. Lily Tomlin, Hugh Downs and Jeff Daniels are all scheduled to participate. The videos will be shown daily at the zoo's new Wildlife Interpretive Gallery.

funeral home.

"He had a problem when he had a large funeral — the flow of people going in and out. If he had 150 people they'd have to bunch up in their cars. It's not only aesthetically pleasing, it's practical."

The only problem Futrell had was the possible "greenhouse effect" all the glass might produce because of its atrium style. But that was solved with an adequate air-conditioning system.

He said people were very patient with the project.

"We had to show respect for families. Every time there was a funeral, we pulled everybody off the project. We worked together until it was completed," Futrell said.

He and Wint are very pleased with the final expansion and renovation.

"People think that it really has accomplished what we hoped it would," Wint said. "They say it's so open and airy and comforting to walk into."

Futrell agreed.

"It gives Bill a nice area in which to greet people. We wanted it to be inviting because nobody wants to go into a funeral home," he said.
