O'Neill loses close race

It was too close to call for most of the night, but in the end, Clarkston's Megan O'Neill was defeated in her second attempt to unseat incumbent Democratic Congressman Dale Kildee of Flint.

The unofficial tally Wednesday morning, with all the votes counted, was 97,024 for Kildee, 89,091 for O'Neill. O'Neill carried Oakland and Lapeer counties, but the heavily populated Genesee County, along with a considerable number of Democratic voters in Oakland County, returned Kildee to Washington.

Police millage passes

In local races, a police millage increase for Independence Township passed, 5,203-4,707. The increase should preserve the DARE anti-drug program for the rest of the school year, as well as bringing back one deputy cut when the same proposal failed in August.

In the City of the Village of Clarkston, incumbent mayor Sharron Catallo and council members Karen Sanderson, Steve Secatch and Doug Roeser were returned to office. None had any Democratic opponents on the ballot.

It was a long night for vote counters in both the city and the township. The city has no voting machines, so all counting is done by hand from paper ballots. Because of the size of the election, each voter had three paper ballots, according to city manager Art Pappas.

Independence Township, which has the latest in voting machines, ran out of ballots at some precincts, according to township treasurer John Lutz. With an over 50 percent voter turnout, paper ballots had to be used, delaying the counting well into the night.

In all, local voters went with the majorities around the state. In the city and township, proposals B and P passed, while A and C failed, Local voters also supported incumbents in races for county commission, state representative and state senator.

Incumbent state senator Mat Dunaskiss won 7,431 votes in Independence, compared with 2,386 for challenger Kevin Kelly. Rep. Tom Middleton won 7,669 votes in the township, compared with 2,488 for challenger Steve Allen.

Resident shoots intruder

A Virginia man was in serious but stable condition Monday at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital after he was allegedly shot by an Independence Township

Corey Jon Wright, 24, of Mechanicsville, VA. was arraigned in his hospital bed Monday on one count of malicious destruction of a building over $100. The investigation into the shooting continues and the Oakland County Sheriff's Dept. declined to release the name of the resident who pulled the trigger.

According to police reports from the OCSD and Clarkston Police, who also responded to the scene, Wright was in Clarkston to look at a car on Wellesley Terrace. He, the car owner and another man allegedly left the scene in a limo and returned intoxicated. The car owner went into his home and to bed; Wright was left outside. A few minutes later, shots were heard from a neighboring house.

Wright was found in the back yard of the neighboring house suffering from a gun-shot wound. The resident of the home reported hearing breaking glass and thought someone was trying to break in. Wright was then rushed to POH. It's unknown at this time who the third man was or where he went.

Bond for Wright was set at $2,000 cash; he waived his right to a preliminary exam within 14 days. If convicted of the felony he could be punished by up to four years in prison.

Court is back n session

One week after a disastrous fire burned its home to the ground, 52-2 District Court was up and running in a new location in Pontiac Monday.

Reporters got a tour of the new digs, located in the former Oakland County Prosecutor's office at 230 Elizabeth Lake Rd., and were told emphatically that court is back in session.

"The amazing part of the story to me is that one week after the fire this court is up and running," said Dennis Drury, Chief Judge of 52 District Court. "When I say we lost everything, I mean everything-

The news in brief

Election pushed back

A March millage election scheduled by Oakland Community College has forced the Clarkston Board of Education to move its own bond election back.

The board had originally hoped to present a proposal for a new high school and possible other renovations in March. However, superintendent Gary Haner said at Monday's board meeting he's concerned OCC's request for money could hurt Clarkston's chance. He suggested the bond election be set back to either May or June. The board concurred.

Special meeting to discuss bussing

The Clarkston Board of Education has scheduled a special meeting for Nov. 21 at 7 p.m. to discuss the costs of going to a two-tiered bussing system, rather than the present three-tiered system.

As outlined at Monday night's regular meeting, the district expects to need about 15 more busses to make the transition, which would allow for more uniform starting and ending times for school buildings. According to assistant superintendent David Reschke, the switch would make it possible for the district to accomplish some of its academic goals.

The special meeting will be held at the administration building, 6389 Clarkston Rd.

Students like O'Neill

Students at North Sashabaw Elementary School held a mock election Monday and voted overwhelmingly for Megan O'Neill for Congress. O'Neill took 231 votes to incumbent Dale Kildee's 60. In other races, the students preferred Governor John Engler to challenger Howard Wolpe, 169-129, and senatorial challenger Spencer Abraham to Bob Carr, 169-129.

Parking problems on city's agenda for Nov. 28 meeting

Though the next Clarkston city council meeting is scheduled for Nov. 14, it will not be until the following meeting on Nov. 28, that the city's parking problems will be addressed. Clarkston police chief Robert De Vore said Monday that Bob De Corte, engineering director of Transportation Improvement Association of Oakland County, will clarify the issue at that meeting.

At last month's city meeting held Oct. 24, council voted 5-2 to strike two spots on either side of Depot off Main Street for violation of the state vehicle code. Other parking spaces around Clarkston that are within 15 feet of property lines are in violation as well. DeCorte also recommended that all angle parking on Depot be removed within a traffic conditions report made Oct. 11 which cited the parking violations.

Drama students find paying jobs in street theater

> BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY Clarkston News Editor

Their accents are English, though they're mostly from Clarkston. Their costumes are Olde World, though they've been culled from old ballgowns and former curtains, a la Scarlett O'Hara.

They're the Royal Canterbury Players, a group of young people interested in the theater who are getting some experience in a unique setting.

As Peggy Bruscha, Canterbury Village's publicity person and a Clarkston resident, tells it, the idea came together rather quickly.

Her boss, Stan Aldridge, was looking for something new and different to add to his one-year-old enterprise, a sort of English village of shopping on Joslyn Rd. in Orion Township.

"When Mr. Aldridge challenged me to get some people out here he said, "You've got a lot of leeway," Bruscha said. Her daughter, Roxanne, had been active in theater and choir at Clarkston High School, as had a number of her friends. Mother and daughter soon hit upon the idea of forming the players group.

"We were just talking about how it would be kind of neat," Roxanne said. "She came to me and said, 'Could you get a group of people together in one week?" The rest, as they say, is history.

In all, six CHS students or alumni are now members of the players—Heidi Green, Jeff Jones, Carolyn Stickney, Heather Cox, Roxanne Bruscha and John Dugan. They've recently been joined by Rick Perazzo, of Oxford.

The players greet customers as they arrive at Canterbury Village; give information and directions and otherwise chat up the visitors. They also perform short plays, many based upon familiar fairy tales, but with their own fractured way of telling them. The CHS students were all active in marching band, choir, drama club and Clarkston Village Players. Their CHS drama coach, Jeffrey Tice, remembers them well.

"They were very strong in drama, all of them were," Tice said. "It's great to see that they're using their talents. They've used the drama club as a base."

Their work with the drama club gave them valuable experience. Students in the club take part in all phases of production, from costumes to scenery to tickets, as well as acting. They mount five productions each year, including musicals.

All that experience will be put to good use by the Royal Canterbury Players. They put together their own costumes, write their own scripts, and improvise

The players will also be singing madrigals during the Christmas season, a form they know well from their days in the CHS choirs.

As Stickney said, "We did everything. The performing arts department was us."

On a recent Saturday, the players performed a sort of "Fractured Fairy Tales" version of Little Red Riding Hood in the outdoor square at the village. As children and adults stood and sat around them, the players acted out a short version of the well-known story. At one point the Big Bad Wolf, trying to hurry Grandmother out of her bed, said, "Come on, Grandmother, you know the story." The crowd loved it.

The performances take place all day on weekends; the schedule is expected to expand to weekdays as the holidays draw nearer.

"Everybody loves it and Mr. Aldridge is so impressed," Peggy Bruscha said.

While most of the players are still in school and some have other jobs, they say they enjoy putting their talents to use.

"It's the best work I've ever done," Roxanne Bruscha said, keeping her English accent firmly in place. "It beats waitressing. We want to do some Shakespeare, no matter what."

No surprise: Land boom continues

BY EILEEN OXLEY Clarkston News Staff Writer

For Clarkston schools, growth means more kids. For the city, it means more traffic. For everyone, it means more demands for services.

Last Wednesday's joint boards get-together was like a meeting of the minds between members from Independence and Springfield townships, the city of Clarkston and Clarkston schools. You could almost hear the cogs turn as guests listened to Dick Carlisle, planner for both Independence and Springfield townships, speak on projected growth and development in the area.

"We have two townships, a village and a school and there hasn't been a fight all night long," quipped Independence Township Supervisor Dale Stuart, who introduced Carlisle after guests enjoyed a dinner served by students at Oakland Technical Center's Northwest Inn.

Carlisle's presentation began with an overview of population expectations in the two townships over the next 16 years.

"Change is always very, very difficult for us to accept ... but inevitable," he said. "We have to deal with this."

Carlisle went on to estimate that by 1995 Independence's present population of 24,000 would "progress to 25,000 ... and 30,000 by the year 2010."

In Springfield Township the rate of growth is

Carlisle said its population count was "under 10,000" in 1990, was estimated to be "over 11,000 by 1995" and would soar to "almost 17,000 by the year

His predictions are supported by the number of building permits issued for single-family homes since 1990.

Carlisle pointed out that the astronomical growth north of I-75 would have a major impact on continued commercial and industrial development also, "but the most active area has been residential development." And he added that trends follow "national phenomena.

"(People) see this as the next step in moving out ... away from the congestion of the cities," said Carlisle. Persons from highly developed communities such as West Bloomfield, Rochester and Troy would bring, along with them, he said, "high expectations."

Those people, he said, are used to amenities like "library services, hot-and-cold-running everything and parks and rec. programs that had everything for their child.

"We need to help people to understand what's realistic." Carlisle said.

Citing the average-size family as "three persons per household," Carlisle explained that household size is decreasing with smaller and more singleparent families.

"This will have an effect on gauging the types of services for various family groups," he said.

With commercial growth "economic times are catching up with available land," so land that was approved for development during the poor economic times of the '80s is reaching a building boom.

"The economy improved and —Bam! We had four shopping centers built in four years."

But, he added, there is very little commercial property left for development in Independence, though 'people are still looking for that 'hot' location on Dixie Highway" — a roadway that services up to 35,000 cars per day.

In Springfield Township there has not been much commercial growth, said Carlisle, due to Independence Township's "usurping" of development on Dixie, and lack of sewers and city water. But that will change as more people move in, he added.

As far as industrial growth, village and township residents could expect to see "a lot of activity down White Lake Road," which Carlisle says is a gold mine of vacant land.

"We must allow it to develop as an asset," he Also significant are industrial parks in Springfield Township which continue to expand.

During the remainder of his presentation, Carlisle pointed his stick at a large map of the area where bright orange stickers indicated either proposed or active development.

The number of units scheduled for subdivisions ranged from as few as 30 lots to 500 dwelling units. Development is especially high around Springfield Plains Elementary.

Carlisle explained that though Independence has favored open-spaced developments in the past, more "cluster-lotting" is planned for the future. That is the style Springfield Township has followed "with a lot of preservation of green space," he said. It is also

Audit pronounces school budget fit

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY Clarkston News Editor

Clarkston schools spent less than they expected to last year, resulting in a larger-than-anticipated fund balance at the end of the year, according to a report from auditors Plante and Moran Monday night.

However already this fall, the district has spent more than originally expected, thanks mostly to more students requiring more teachers, according to deputy superintendent Steven Lenar.

It was a sort of good-news, bad news scenario at Monday night's board of education meeting, but the good news far outweighed the bad.

Fred Hailer of Plante and Moran said the district ended the year with a $1.5 million general-fund balance, about 4.9 percent of its budget. That's better than it has been in recent years but far below the state average (excluding Detroit) of 8.7 percent, he said.

"We did find everything to be in good shape and the district's financial records continue to improve," Hailer said.

However he pointed out that recent changes in state funding, especially as they relate to retirement costs, have made planning tricky.

"It's a whole new ball game and it's going to take a few years before schools are comfortable with it," he said. "It's something that would warrant districts having as much of a fund balance as possible."

Hailer said the district's financial predicting has been extremely close to the mark. Because revenue and students arrive long after budgets must be approved (the deadline is July 1), districts must use their best educated guess in preparing a budget proposal.

Last year's proposed general-fund budget was within .04 percent of the actual, Hailer said. Proposed expenditures were within two percent of actual.

"That is just outstanding," he said.

wide on the percentage of costs spent on instruction and on overall per pupil spending.

In his report later in the evening, Lenar provided a budget update; a revision of the June budget based on current enrollment figures and staffing.

It showed that teacher hiring is up by nearly 10 this fall due to enrollment needs. Nevertheless, he said he expects the fund balance to increase $386,000 over where he thought it would be in June, in part because revenues are up slightly.

"We still have a positive budget," he said. "Usually I'm a doom-and-gloom person . . . But I do feel very comfortable and confident. I feel we're in pretty good shape." Nevertheless, Lenar asked the board to consider collecting all its taxes in the summer beginning in 1995. This year, because of the new state funding law and a decision not to collect summer taxes, the district had to borrow $3.5 million. The cost of that borrowing came to $148,000.

Moving to a 100-percent summer tax collection could eliminate or greatly reduce the need to borrow,

"Financially I believe it's the right thing to do. You have to look at other factors—politically, socially, other things locally."

In order to go to the 100-percent summer tax, the board would have to hold a public hearing before Dec. 31. Further action is expected at a special meeting called for Nov. 21 at 7 p.m. at the board office, 6389 Clarkston Rd.

Growing community, growing budget

Independence Township's 1995 approved budget increased by $459,000 and the fund balance is greater than it's ever been.

The township board of trustees approved the 1995 budget at its Nov. 1 meeting. Total expenditures and revenues are expected to be over $4.1 million, compared to 1994's predicted $3.6 million figure.

The 12.6 percent budget increase is mostly due to an increase in state-shared revenues (which includes income tax, sales tax and single-business tax from the state) which should rise to $1.7 million, up about $200,000 from 1994. State-shared revenues account for 41 percent of the township's general fund

Other major general-fund revenue sources include $707,000 in property taxes (17 percent), $547,000 in charges for services (13 percent) and $535,000 from licenses and permits (13 percent).

The township's largest expenses for 1995 are expected to come from the parks and recreation budgets, which total over $951,000. Other expenses include $587,000 in the building fund and $842,000 in fringe benefits for various departments.

Township business manager Kerry Donahoe said the biggest plus in the 1995 budget is that there will be a fund balance of over $471,000. Those funds, called carry-over funds, have increased about $370,000 since a drastically low fund balance of $99,000 in 1991.

"By the end of 1994 we expect a fund balance of $471,000 and for a township with our budget that is adequate in case an emergency arose," Donahoe said.

He said the main reasons for an ever-increasing fund balance is the township's state-equalized value growth and an increase in building.

OPINIONS

Wed., Nov. 9, 1994 6A

The Clarkston News

"Human beings are flawed individuals. The cosmic bakers took us out of the oven too early. That's the reason we're as crazy as we are."

—Jimmy Buffet, "Fruitcakes"

My nomination for funniest, tackiest commercial of the campaign season? It's got to be, hands down, the singing, dancing convicts.

You've probably seen them. It's a commercial for attorney general Frank Kelly featuring three guys in stripes singing and dancing their way through the ad. The gist of it is that if Kelly's opponent wins, they'll be happy because they'll get out of jail sooner.

I don't know if that's true or not (want to place any bets?) but I bet you're as glad as I am we won't have to be seeing any more campaign commercials for the next two years. Whoever dubbed election time the "silly season" had it exactly right, except that recently it's gone beyond silly. It's become just plain painful.

Everywhere I go, I hear people talking about it. "Aren't you just sick of it?" they say, meaning the negative, mean-spirited tone of the campaign.

It didn't start this year, of course. At least two years ago, when Bill Clinton was running for office, it became an art form. This year, smelling a lot of close races, Democrats, Republicans and even some smaller parties are engaging in low-blow advertising.

I'm not so much surprised that it's happening; it's the viciousness this year which seems to have been turned up a few notches. Even people I have respected have let me down with commercials that are so broadly worded that even a ninny can see through the rhetoric.

Another Kelly commercial comes to mind. "He was replaced as prosecutor." Well, he probably was when he left the job. But nothing is said of the circumstances. Did he quit or was he fired?

And the ads by Dale Kildee's campaign against Megan O'Neill make you wonder. I've heard both sides debate, heard O'Neill speak on more than one occasion, but I've never heard her say she was in favor of giving guns to kids.

Maybee if you really stretch it you can infer that from her pro-gun stance. But I don't think so. The sad thing is, if Kildee wins, he'll probably think the ad helped. Even sadder, he might be right.

If Americans would respect their freedom to vote, instead of taking it for granted, political commercials would be totally irrelevant. As things are now, most people know very little about their candidates. So they are vulnerable to being swayed by commercials which actually enlighten very little.

As I write this, the election hasn't happened yet. Usually, I can count on the American people to do the right thing. So I'm hoping this year I can still count on common sense to prevail.

I'm getting a little nervous, though.

Academic achievers deserve recognition

Dear Editor:

I am writing about your "Academic Achiever" column on page 13 of section "B" of Oct. 19, 1994.

I applaud you for finally recognizing students for their academic acheivements. I was beginning to think that only sports and extra-curricular activities were worth writing about.

While The Clarkston News is now catching up to the nationwide emphasis on academics, it's unfortunate you had to relegate it to the back pages, after the sports, and just before the "classifieds." "Academic Achiever" and similar features should be given greater prominence.

There are many hard-working students at CHS whose primary focus is academic achievement. Since academics are what schools are supposed to be about, these students actually deserve more recognition than their extra-curricular counterparts.

Book counters myths around gun control

Dear Editor:

As a patriotic American and a member of the National Rifle Association, I'm extremely concerned about the way the media has blamed gun owners for the rising tide of crime in our country.

To counter the myths that have surrounded the gun control debate, the NRA's Wayne LaPierre has just written a book entitled, "Guns, Crime, and Freedom." This book is available in local bookstores right now.

More than half of your readers are gun owners. I'm writing to ask you to give them the fair and equal treatment they deserve in the pages of your newspaper. And I urge you to begin carrying out this policy immediately, by publishing a review of "Guns, Crime, and Freedom." Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely, Jack Clarno Clarkston

Don't Rush Me

By Don Rush

'When in the Course of human events . . .

I have to admit, I like the job with which I have been entrusted.

While my opinion in the scope of the world means nothing, I still like the idea that I can type my mind (which is sort of like "speak your mind," only your fingers do the walking and talking).

I like the fact folks send me letters and photocopies of articles they've read. I like it when they come in and give me the name and author of a book I should read. I don't mind when they call me up/come to the office to tell me I'm full of it.

I like this job.

So, don't be shy. If you want to express yourself, agree or disagree with me, let your thoughts be known. It'll cost you nothing except your time.

Yep, I got my red, white and blue sticker and I wore it proudly all day Tuesday. I voted. It took a while to get into the voting cubicle, but I did it.

While standing in line (45 minutes) I did what reporter-types do. Hey, I'm not proud: I eavesdropped. I turned my ear to as many conversations as I could. I didn't want to miss anything juicy.

I was surprised when a person, really disgruntled, whined about having to stand in line. For 20 minutes I heard this person grumble. "I can't believe this. We should call in our votes. We should mail in our votes. No wonder people don't vote . . . blah, blah, blah, blah,"

Granted, I'm not a line person either, but heck, I don't mind standing in line for something as important as voting. It is not a waste of my time to do so. I figure it is a small price to pay for freedom.

Political Science lesson Number 1,037: Contrary to popular belief, we don't have a pure democracy here in the land of the free and the brave. The founding fathers established a constitutionally limited republic. We vote folks into office, who in turn are supposed to run things -- make the hard decisions for the good of the people.

Talk-radio-type Mark Scott has a good analogy why we don't want a pure democracy.

He puts it something like this: "If we have 10 cannibals, nine can vote to eat one. That's a pure democracy."

Which, in short, means the individual loses his God-given right of freedom.

Interesting concept.

Here's another: our rights are not "given" to us by the U.S. Constitution. We are born free people. The U.S. Constitution recognizes our rights as unalienable -- from a higher authority -- as was stated in the Declaration of Independence.

"When in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bonds which have connected them to the opinions with another, and to assume among the powers of earth, the separate and equal situation to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness."

We should not want government to give us everything because the government that gives all can take all.

(That's Political Science lesson Number 1,038, if you're keeping count.)

15 YEARS AGO (1979)

The police protection issue is the hot topic scheduled for a special public hearing on Nov. 27. Disbanding the local department was debated for two hours at last night's Independence Township Board meeting. Township treasurer Fred Ritter says because of financial reasons, merging with the Oakland County Sheriff's Department "is the only way to go."

A building permit for the proposed 220-foot, 20story Pine Knob Hotel is denied by the Independence Township Building Department. The application is turned down because under the township's zoning ordinance a hotel use is not a permitted use in the district. The next building permit request will go to the township's zoning board of appeals.

The Authority was created to give residents of the two townships a second choice in matters related to construction of laterals in the sewer program which include supervision and maintenance of completed lines.

Problems concerning recent development of the Deerfield Farms subdivision are addressed when a preliminary plan is presented to Clarkston Village Council Monday night. Though only a small portion of the sub falls with village limits, council was concerned that one of the exits which runs into Miller at Holcomb might cause increased traffic congestion on village streets. Mary Coulson of Perry Lake Road and Robert McCarrick of Middle Lake Road are among 455 candidates for degrees from the October graduating class of Central Michigan University.

If it Fitz

By Jim Fitzgerald

Quote unto others at risk of zealotry

Recently in Illinois, the United Methodist Church adopted a rule saying it is OK for its ordained ministers to be divorced twice, but a minister getting a third divorce is automatically placed on involuntary leave of absence.

Around the same time, in Michigan, when a United Methodist Church minister told his congregation he's gay, he was allowed to keep his job just as long as he promised to be celibate.

So why not allow a minister to get married three or 10 times, just as long as he or she remains celibate after the second divorce?

And why not allow a minister who comes out of the closet to go back in twice before he or she has to be celibate?

But seriously, folks, when I ridicule the biased restrictions society erects against homosexuality, I invariably hear from a lot of Christians who insist I must realize I'm wrong becaue the Bible tells me so.

Please read I Corinthians, 6:9-10, where Paul names the sins that can keep a person from being saved. The effeminate is named right along with drunkenness," one typical letter said, adding the usual warning that God slams heaven's gates on everyone who has not seen the light of the Wednesday evening prayer meeting.

Don't misunderstand. I'm not ridiculing people who believe, literally, every word in the scriptures. To each his own. The fundamentalists don't bug me per se, not even when they write that God will get me for that. Almost without exception, they conclude their letters by wishing me love, no matter what. That's nice, and I return the wish.

However, about the Bible: I studied it for two semesters at Michigan State University. It was a literature course, not religion, which is probably where I went wrong. Also, it was an easy class -- there were three football players in it. So I surely don't claim to be a Bible scholar. Let's just say I read the book, many years ago, and it was better than the movie.

But the Bible didn't change my life. It didn't save me. And it didn't make me think any more highly of such living legends as Pat Robertson or Oral Roberts.

I'm sure a man who has never read the Bible, never been inside a church, can be "saved," whatever that may mean to him or you.

And I'm sure some of the great Bible-quoting churchgoers can be "lost," and good riddance to bad garbage, as the neighborhood kids used to chant when I had to go home.

Excuse the cliche, but it's just the old-fashioned Golden Rule. If you live by it and also read the Bible every day, you've got all bets covered, and I'm all for you. Some of the nicest people I know go to church regularly, includ-

But if organized religion simply doesn't appeal to you, or if you're an atheist, you obviously can still be a good person. And if you're broad-minded enough not to bug the Bible fans, they should return the courtesy.

Skillful people can use Bible quotes to prove most anything -- that it's sinful to dance, or see a movie, or enjoy sex with whomever.

My answer to all this "proof" has been the same since even before I studied the Bible at MSU 45 years ago: If the Bible says such dumb things, the Bible is wrong. So what? Lots of books are wrong.

The Bible is printed in ink, by men and women, and is found in almost every motel room. It is not etched into a cloud by God's lightning, to be read simply by looking at the sky.

Onward and Upward. And no matter what you're thinking right this minute, whether you're Christian or atheist or whatever, gay or straight, I wish you love.

Best years, best friends

"These are the best years of your life." Oh, really?

As a senior, I can't even begin to count the number of times an adult has wistfully uttered this phrase in my presence. Still, it's a little hard to believe Pop quizzes, ill-timed pimples, waking up at 5:30 a.m., first-hour P.E... these are the constituents of the best years of my life? If that's true, I shudder at what the future will bring.

After careful reflection, however, I realized that there is one aspect of adolescence that truly makes this time extraordinary—the close friendships one forms. At what other point in life does one have friends who know them on such a personal level? High-school friends are the ones who adom you with nicknames like "Ambdawg" and "Elfin Boy." They share your anxiety over history homework, and they are there for you, on good hair days or bad.

Some of these friends are ones known for years. They are the ones who share your passion for the music of Gustav Holst. It is they who show up at your house unannounced to present you with a plastic bag containing 11 goldfish. On dateless Friday nights, it is with them that one makes midnight runs to the grocery store for Crayolas and Snapple, the entire time wearing cardboard Burger King crowns.

Old friends are those who can finish your sen-

Others are new-found friends, individuals whom one is not quite as close to, but still have a major impact on your life. The saxophone player who applauds your efforts during Color Guard practice, the individual who flashes a smile at you every morning as you sit in the cafeteria, frantically finishing homework before first hour—without them, your day just wouldn't be complete.

More than acquaintances, less than best friends, their presence adds to your self-esteem. The group you eat lunch with on the floor outside the band room, the person who always is willing to loan you a pencil in government—you couldn't survive without them. Their actions, thoughts, compliments and conversations make even the most depressing days a little better.

As those wistful adults happily reflect on their high-school years, they mentally gloss over those hours spent stressing over Spanish verb conjugations. They forget the disappointment of losing football games, and they discard images of unruly lockers that never wanted to open. Instead, they remember high school for what it really was and is, a time to have fun discovering oneself.

The friends made in high school are more than just people to sign your yearbook or walk to your next class with. They provide one with insight and experiences to live a lifetime of happiness. With them, we realize how special hig school, and life, really are. Without them, we'd never know the difference.

Golf development gets go-ahead

Developers must still get phase approvals

BY DARREL W. COLE Clarkston News Staff Writer

It's a done deal.

Morgan Lake Golf Classic received approval for a planned residential development on about 285 acres of land. On Nov. 1, the Independence Township Board of Trustees approved the ordinance which allows the rezoning of the land from various residential (R-1A and R-1R) to PRD.

A months-long fight from residents in Orion and Independence townships near the Maybee Road development wasn't enough to stop the plans. The Classic will consist of 112 single-family lots, 78 single-family detached units and 62 single-family attached units. In addition an 18-hole golf course and clubhouse is planned.

The overall density of the project is .88 units per

It is bordered on the north by Maybee, Rohr Road on the east and I-75 on the south and west.

Although the ordinance to allow the PRD was passed, developers must receive special approval from the planning commission and township board for each of five construction phases. In addition, they are required to follow specific plans for construction, presented in the permit conditions, agreed to by township officials, the township attorney and the developers.

Orion Township resident John Torrone and the Ad-Hoc Committee on Morgan Lake Golf Classic argued from the beginning the increased traffic on

Morgan Lake Classic Phases

The Morgan Lake Golf Classic will consist of five separately developed phases. Each must be approved by the township's planning commission and township board.

The five phases, with development characteristics are:

1 Phase I includes 19.6 acres with 45 single-family lots (2.29 units per acre density). It is located in the far northwest area of the site.

1 Phase II encompasses 184 acres and 29 detached condominium sites (.16 units per acre). The golf course must be developed before issuance of the 72nd occupancy certificate.

1 Phase III will involve the site development for three detached condominiums, 62 attached condos and 11 single-family lots on 51 acres (1.65 units per acre).

1 Phase IV consists of 56 single-family lots on 19.9 acres (2.25 units per acre).

1 Phase V consists of 49 detached condominium sites on 10.5 acres (4.65 units per acre).

Rohr and Maybee roads will be a problem for area residents. He says owner and developer Semaan Kassab needs only one entrance on Rohr and not two.

Despite those concerns about the development, Torrone said the development does a good job of preserving the natural features of the 285-acre site.

"The project shows a great use of land but we're still not in favor of a second entrance," he said.

Board trustee Daniel Travis shared Torrone's concern about two entrances. "I don't like that dual entrance either and hoped we could change that at the planning commission level, but it couldn't be done," said Travis, who is also a member of the planning commission. "Instead, I ask that we have signs to prohibit a right turn at the north entrance off Rohr and a no left turn at the south entrance."

But because Rohr is a county road, the board directed Travis to seek the county's approval for his proposal.

Township Supervisor Dale Stuart reminded residents that the developer has complied with the township's ordinances and is not required to reduce the entrances to the development off Rohr.

Since traffic congestion has been the main concern of residents, most of the development's inner roads will be constructed in the second phase of plans. The development plan doesn't require inner roads to be built until the 72nd building permit is issued.

Other points of interest in the various PRD agreements between the township and developers include:

● The development will contain about 208 acres (72 percent) of open space, outdoor recreation and roadway use. The primary use is an 18-hole golf course, driving range, parking areas, safety paths and sidewalks. A Conservation Agreement will permanently protect the wetlands and woodlands and other open spaces.

● The seven land-use categories within the Morgan Lake Golf Classic are single-family detached (66.29 acres), single-family attached (12 acres), golf course (131 acres), club facilities (2.9 acres), open space, including the 20-acre Morgan Lake (66 acres), and driving range 6 acres). The road acreage in the single family detached and attached areas is 18.9.

• The final development plan may include some plans for other club facilities, such as pro shop, swimming pools, tennis courts, dining areas, etc.

Master plan changes needed

Cost to township could be over $15,000

BY DARREL W. COLE Clarkston News Staff Writer

With a rapidly growing community, Independence Township officials want to prepare for the

To better plan for future growth, the township board of trustees has approved funding for a complete township master plan update. Since the last master plan update about 10 years ago, four updates have been added, according to township planning consultant Richard Carlisle.

"When we did this 10 years ago we were given a confined scope and limited funds," said Carlisle, who has seen many changes in the township in his 15 years as planner. "Now we need to broaden our policies and expand the document."

Part of that planning process means including other studies and plans such as historic districts, safety paths, recreations plans, road plans etc. Carlisle said the new master plan must interrelate all these studies so it provides a guide for township

At a Sept. 28 township board meeting, several residents of Bird Land Subdivision criticized the board for basing some of its decision to rezone 25 acres near them on a 10-year-old master plan. Bird Land residents said the board's decision to rezone that land, west of the subdivision and north of Maybee, is based on an out-of-date master plan. The rezoning will allow a multi-family complex with about 100 units.

More reasons to update the master plan came about when township treasurer John Lutz asked the board to support future planning for the fast-growing Sashabaw corridor. At the Oct. 4 meeting Lutz said the Sashabaw corridor could become a second downtown if planned properly.

Rather than focus only on one area of the township, the board said the entire master plan should be studied and improved.

Township Supervisor Dale Stuart said, "We need to take an active role in overall planning so we don't have to go back later and take care of any remedial work.'

Carlisle said such a revision of the master plan would cost around $15,000. At the township board meeting Nov. 1, the board approved moving unused money from previous years' Community Development Block Grant funds to help offset the costs of revision.

From 1991 CDBG funds, $1,500 was moved from recreational facilities to planning and management (to be used for the master plan study). In addition, $4,300 was transferred from the CDBG Senior Citizens Center fund to planning and manage-

The first step to updating the master plan is gathering data from the 1990 census, including housing characteristics, economic statistics, etc.

In addition, Carlisle said, interviews and suggestions from homeowners and businesspeople will be sought out.

The master plan revision could take up to a year to complete, after the planning commission, citizens and the township board have given their input.

Medics give their time, their hearts, to foreign hospital

> BY EILEEN OXLEY Clarkston News Staff Writer

The moment you step into pediatrician Dr. James Shaya's office, it's evident he loves kids.

On the wall are large cutouts of Mickey, Minnie, Donald, Pluto and Goofy and on Shaya's person today is a big gaudy Fred Flintstone tie.

But Shaya's work doesn't begin and end in Clarkston. This October he spent nine days in the Dominican Republic, located on the island of Hispaniola, off the coast of Florida, serving in a local mission hospital.

And though he and two nurses, Trisha Lynch and Carol Karlstrom from St. Joe's Hospital in Pontiac, had to endure planes and bumpy buses to get to the island just west of Puerto Rico, they say they wouldn't trade the experience for anything.

"It's an eye-opener," Lynch said, shaking her head. "It makes you realize how wonderful it is to live in the the U.S."

There were 21 medical people from Michigan who worked at the mission this fall, including Clarkston nurse anesthetist Nick Ochoa, who went with Shaya, Lynch and Karlstrom. And though Lynch said some of St. Joe's staff were sponsors, most of the

The traveling ordeal began with a plane trip from Detroit to Miami and then to San Juan, Puerto Rico. After spending the night, the trio hopped another flight to Santa Domingo, the capital of the Dominican Republic. Mountains separate the Dominican Republic from Haiti, which is also on Hispaniola.

Then it was a "brutal" four-hour bus ride, Shaya said, through the jungle until they arrived at their destination in Samana where the mission is located. "You're kind of beat up. But the next day we hit the ground running," Shaya said. Because some of the medical supplies are so delicate and expensive, they had to be carried in big kid level in Shaya's waiting room.

duffel bags along with Shaya's, Lynch's and Karlstrom's belongings. Other more hardy supplies were transported via pineapple boat to the island.

The threesome's work involved giving care to children who were treated for worms, scabies, parasites, infections, anemia, protein deficiencies and general malnourishment. Those conditions are blamed on "close living conditions and lack of medication," said Shaya.

"Once you get past parasites, scabies and anemina they're just like American kids. They have the same kinds of diagnoses — wheezing and coughs ... " But he added that many adults swarmed the mission,

Shaya himself was recruited by a family member who is a doctor and Lynch and Karlstrom found out through Shaya, who is their children's pediatri-

"We work at St. Joe's on the mother-baby unit. Dr. Shaya came in and he brought pictures (of the mission) and we said, 'We have to do this.' That started the ball rolling," Karlstrom said.

The three had to deal with all sorts of discomforts — excessive heat, no air conditioning and little electricity and running water.

'You see people with naked kids and huts and a Mercedes will roll by.'

Dr. James Shaya

"There was one sink down by surgery. And sometimes the power goes out. There's a sugar-cane factory down the road and sometimes it sucks the electricity out of the whole town," Shaya said.

This is Shaya's second year serving at the mission. There is another period in the spring, but Shaya says he can't afford the cost nor the neglect to his own young patients.

But the three say because the experience was so rewarding, they will definitely be back next fall.

The Clarkston (MI) News Wed., Nov. 9, 1994 13 A

"We're going back. We want next October and we want first dibs," Lynch said, smiling.

Though they loved the islanders who they described as "sweet, loving people," all three say the gap between the two economic classes is unbeliev-

'(It's) a place of extremes. You see people with naked kids and huts and a Mercedes will roll by," Shaya said.

The poor, who cannot afford to buy medications from their own pharmacies, are tough, he adds.

"These people are Darwinian theory in practice. There's a saying among the village people that 'If you live to be 18 you live to be 80," he said.

Shaya, Lynch and Karlstrom hope to change that.

CVPs' second stop fogs and fools audience

BY EILEEN OXLEY Clarkston News Staff Writer

There's something to be said about small-town theater that brings a close-knit community of patrons together for an evening.

Saturday night's performance of "Smoke and Mirrors" continued that tradition with a full-packed house of guests that seem to faithfully follow the Clarkston Village Players, now in their 34th season.

The play, billed as a comedy/murder mystery reminiscent of Agatha Christie but with a little more humor, is perfect for the small turn-of-the-century Depot Theater. Its cast of five members is small but effective and it's easy to stage -- requiring not one set change during the three scenes that take place in a beach house living room.

The plot involves director/producer Hamilton Orr (Chuck Miller) and playwright Clark Robinson (Tom Logan) who can't stand their leading man, a dopey "Beverly Hills 90210"-like stud named Derek Coburn whose air-headed performance in their last collaboration (a supposed-to-be-serious Civil Warpicture) resulted in embarrassment.

With synthesizers and buxom slave girls, it was not "an artistic success," laments the stuffy Hamilton.

Since they can't get out of a movie deal with this dud who, off-camera, guzzles vodka like soda pop and talks of nothing but "ta-ta's (an Olivier he ain't)," Hamilton and Clark decide to kill him, faking a scene change to look like an accident.

The play twists and turns its audience playfully through a maze of investigation. Just when you think you've solved the mystery, something changes thus the play's title, "Smoke and Mirrors."

Adding to the fun is a talented cast. Miller is a properly pompous Hamilton whose restrained performance perfectly balances Logan's hyper offbeatartist Clark, whose high-pitched hysterics and anguished facial expressions provide much of the comedy.

and Logan in a trio of different personalities. She swings between annoying metaphors ("A marriage is like an oxygen tent ...") and words of wisdom where she seems to be the only sane character.

Just when you think you've solved the mystery, something changes ...

Coburn, who is seen all too briefly in keeping with the script, is a welcome bubble-brain, when he bursts in on his more-polished comrades. And doesn't his "Hey, dudes!" remind us of someone we know.

Finally, Jesse James (yes, that's his real name) Lundy, who doesn't appear until Act II, rounds out the talented cast with his charming good-ole-boy portrayal of Sheriff Leroy P. Lumpkin — which should perhaps be "Pumpkin," given Lundy's girth. His flawless comedic timing comes as no surprise — Lundy's a stand-up comic who's appeared at Mark from "Smoke and Mirrors," CVP's production now playing at the Depot Theater.

Ridley's in Royal Oak as well as other locations all the way to the West Coast. .

Don Foster and Mel Case respectively direct and produce the show. This is Foster's first attempt at directing and he does a good job, moving the production along at a well-paced clip.

Case, as always, serves as a sort of "Mel-of-alltrades," greeting guests, selling tickets, checking the lighting—even propping up an injured lady's foot on a milk crate footstool before the show.

Where, I ask, but in community theater, can you get that kind of treatment?

Plus, there's always that Grand Trunk train that rolls by at some unexpected moment, causing the actors to freeze frame. It's especially effective for "Smoke and Mirrors" where you never know what's going to happen next.

The Clarkston Village Players' production of "Smoke and Mirrors," a comedy/murder mystery by Will Osborne and Anthony Herrera, continues its run Nov. 11, 12, 17, 18 and 19. Curtain time is 8 p.m. for Friday and Saturday performances and 7:30 p.m. on Thursday. The Depot Theater is located on White Lake Road next to the railroad tracks, 1 1/4 miles west of Dixie Highway. # Edison continues tree work through fall

Autumn leaves may be falling, but line clearance crews will be working in 31 communities, including Clarkston, through December where tree branches could tangle with Detroit Edison power lines.

The company's tree-trimming program—part of a $236 million service reliability improvement plan-has helped to bring bout a sharp reduction in power outages, Edison said.

During the past year, the company reported its customers experienced 36 percent fewer outages and 73 percent less time without electricity, compared with the previous three years.

Line clearance crews trim trees to provide clearance from electric wires, helping to reduce the impact of storms on the utility's electrical system.

Trees that touch energized lines can carry electricity and pose safety hazards. In addition, interference from just one tree can cause outages that affect hundreds of customers served by the same electrical circuit.

Lights for Deerwood

Then there were lights in Deerwood.

For a minimul cost, over 190 homeowners in Deerwood II subdivision and Manors of Deerwood will receive street lighting.

On Nov. 1 the Independence Township Board of Trustees approved a lighting special assessment district for the two subdivisions. The SAD will cost the 126 Deerwood II homeowners a total of about $99 and the 71 Manor homeowners about $176.

The debt can be paid back all at once, thereby avoiding the eight percent yearly interest, or spread out on a yearly basis for 10 years. On a yearly basis, Manor residents would pay over $17 a year, and Deerwood II residents would pay about $9 each year.

The total cost of each project is $12,500. Detroit Edison is performing the street light installation.

Costs could vary each year, depending on how much maintenance must be done.

First-grader Daphne Jordan smiles as she pets Harlan.

Birds, kids get acquainted

Students at Clarkston Elementary School are learning all about birds this year through a program called Amazing Animals, sponsored by the PTA.

Recently kindergarteners and first-graders learned about birds as pets, thanks to parent Dori Edwards and Lisa Veach of Family Pets of Ortonville.

The two women brought in three unusual birds that make good pets-a Latino lovebird, a pearl cockatiel and a greater sulphur-crested cockatoo.

The cockatoo, named Harlan, was taken from the wild—in his case, the jungle—about seven years ago, Veach said. It's a practice that is now illegal in the U.S. The other two birds were bred in captivity. "He has completely transformed his way of life to adapt," Veach said of Harlan, the largest of the three birds. She explained that wild birds require a lot of care when held in captivity, since they cannot fend for themselves as in their natural habitats.

"They can't get food when they're hungry," she said. "If they're in your home you've taken them into your home they depend on you for their care."

The students giggled as Veach told them Harlan likes warm showers, loves hot dogs and even eats pizza. "The spicier it is, the more he likes it," she said.

After the discussion, the children got to step forward and pet Harlan, who, Veach said, loves the attention.

ANSWER When interest rates skyrocket, homes are harder to sell as a larger percentage of homebuyers no longer qualify for mortgages. This in turn creates a backlog of buyers.

When banks have a surplus of money to lend and interest rates drop, millions of buyers suddenly surge into the homebuying market. This creates growing demand for housing. With growing demand, follows a growing price in-

12-50 years in prison

Danny Gray will spend the next 12-50 years in prison after being sentenced as an adult in Oakland County Circuit Court Thursday.

Gray was 15 last Jan. 29 when he slashed the throat of a 3-year-old Independence Township boy he was living with and then submerged him in his own bathtub. Gray was found guilty but mentally ill by a jury in September on a charge of attempted murder.

Gray is the son of a friend of the victim's mother. His mother, who lived in St. Louis at the time of the incident, had sent her son to live with the victim's family last December.

Judge Robert Anderson had the choice of sentencing Gray as an adult or as a juvenile and chose to sentence him as an adult. If he had been sentenced as a juvenile, under Michigan law he couldn't have been held past his 21st birthday.

we had no pens, no paper, no chairs, no desks."

As if to prove the point, Paul Funk, director of the county's Department of Information, showed the charred remains of a computer which he retrieved from the wreckage of the building. Only a few bits of metal were left.

Drury said that by noon on Oct. 31, the day of the fire which destroyed the former court just off M-15 in Independence Township, county department heads were already looking at blueprints of how to remodel the vacant office space, which was already being leased by the county.

"A week ago today we had smoke in our eyes, on our clothes, in our hair and a lot of memories," said 52-2 District Judge Gerald McNally. "A week later we're not full speed ahead but we're handling cases, and we're handling tickets.

"This building is probably better than 85 percent of the court buildings in the state."

Oakland County Executive L. Brooks Patterson said most of the county's loss, about 90 percent, was insured. The loss of the building itself was estimated at $1.6 million. Costs of the remodeling for the temporary courthouse are estimated at $40,000-

"We can keep our costs down by locating in a county building and frankly there's not a lot of space available in Clarkston," he said. "It was a unanimous decision to move here.'

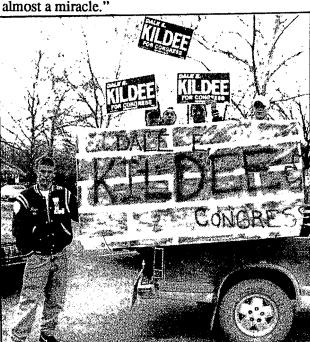

Patterson said he expects the court to be back in Clarkston in six to eight months, weather cooperating. He stressed that despite it's occurrence on Devil's Night, "This was an electrical fire. The public should be assured that this was not an arson."

As for court records, 95 percent of the files were retrieved. They were stored in mainframe computers off-site, Drury said. Only things not yet entered on computer have been lost. But no one should get their hopes up.

"There's a copy of everything somewhere," McNally said. "It's acquiring a copy. This will be an interruption for three weeks.

"It's sort of like a three-week vacation."

McNally said the court handles about 20,000 cases per year. "This has been an interruption. This is "Out of all you see, for every one there are 10 that don't get past the planner - or get dropped completely. Some may look alarming but some won't occur tomorrow either," he said.

After the meeting, Clarkston schools superintendent Gary Haner had much to reflect on. More families mean more kids — and not just a few.

"There were two bond proposals in '89 and '90," Haner said. They would have given us a new high school and added onto each elementary school and would have given us a new elementary school.

That was based on projections. And people were reluctant to believe this would occur ... Now all those kids are here.

"I think we're talking about 1,000 more kids over the next five years - 500 of them high-school students.

Haner said he felt Carlisle's realistic projections would inform and help people to support a new bond proposal intended for Spring 1995.

"I think more people will be willing to support it now. The rapid growth has occurred and continues to occur. It's now a reality," he said.

When Clarkston city manager Art Pappas, who attended the meeting, was asked what Carlisle's predictions would mean for the city, he didn't miss a beat. "More traffic," he said with a laugh.

Wolves, 7-11 and 1-7, earn first OAA victory

Winn, Richards make big plays down the stretch

BY DARREL W. COLE Clarkston News Staff Writer

Making the crucial plays propelled the Clarkston girls basketball team to its first Oakland Activities Association Division I win of the season on Nov.

And it came at the expense of Troy, one of the endless tough division foes. Troy, 12-6 overall and 4-4 in the division, seemed in control of the game from the outset, but the relentless Wolves, now 7-11 overall and 1-7 in division play, made the key shots and defensive plays at the end to come back and win, 37-30.

"We just usually don't shoot as well and in this game we finally did. The kids always play hard but we finally shot well. I think we shot around 40 percent," said coach Larry Mahrle, who noted his team is shooting about 35 percent on the year.

The young Wolves started out ready to go as soon as senior center Sarah Antonazzo hit the team's first shot. With the crowd cheering for them the entire way, Clarkston ended the first quarter in an 8-8 tie.

Troy pulled ahead in the second and went into halftime with a 17-13 lead. Mahrle's hustling team wasn't about to give up, however. They battled in the third quarter with tough defense and good shooting, and cut Troy's lead to 26-23.

The fourth quarter was all Clarkston. Their intense hustle, especially from floor-diving guards Sue Naboychik, a sophomore, and junior Leah Howard, caught Troy players off guard.

That hustle, along with some clutch shooting from sophomore forward Allison Richards (10 points) and junior forward Nickie Winn, led the Wolves to a 14-4 fourth quarter, and the win.

Towards the end, Winn, who ended up with eight rebounds, set the pace for the Wolves with several clutch plays. On one end she rose above everyone for a rebound, got back on offense and scored on a nice drive. Then she stole the ball on defense and again scored by putting back an offensive rebound off her own miss.

But the smooth-shooting Richards also hit several big shots down the stretch that kept Troy at bay. Coach Mahrle said "it was Allison's best game this season."

Also coming up big was Naboychik who, "played a real good floor game with four assists and five steals," said Mahrle.

Senior center/forward Kerry Kelly (five points) also had a strong game inside.

Winn ended up with eight points while junior Crystal Lemke added six points.

On Nov. 1 the Wolves lost 69-36 to 15-2 Rochester Adams. Clarkston couldn't escape a 33-7 first half deficit.

District playoffs are scheduled for Nov. 14-19, but Mahrle said he wants his players to concentrate on winning the final few games. Districts will be at Romeo High School with Holly, Lake Orion, Lapeer East, Lapeer West and Romeo.

"We just want to get better with the games we have left. We'll worry about districts when we get there." he said.

Gridders dominate, rematch with Troy next

BY DARREL W. COLE Clarkston News Staff Writer

Sept. 7, 1994 made the Clarkston football team's season a constant battle for survival.

It also helped make them a great team.

That Friday night the Wolves lost a 14-6 decision to Troy. Clarkston hasn't lost since that first game, dreaming, hoping and striving for another chance to redeem themselves.

On Nov. 12, 1994 the Wolves, now 9-1, get another chance. After a sound 33-19 defeat of Monroe Nov. 4 in the first round of the Class AA football playoffs, Clarkston goes to Troy to exact revenge.

The game is set for a 1:30 p.m. start at Troy High School, 4777 Northfield Parkway.

"That's what we've wanted all season. It would have been nice to play at home again but the kids and I wanted to play Troy," said coach Kurt Richardson.

To get there, the Wolves first knew they had to beat a big Monroe squad, who also went into the game at 8-1 overall. Despite being outsized at most positions, especially the offensive and defensive lines, Clarkston executed offensively and made the big stops on a grinding, yet quick Monroe offense.

The Wolves offense was led by a disciplined offensive line, clutch precision passing from senior quarterback Toby Evans (11-of-17 for 121 yards and one TD passing and running) and the explosive running of Jason Graves (222 yards on 29 carries).

In addition Wolves receivers came up with several receptions, especially senior tight end Brad Agar.

Defensively, Clarkston wouldn't let the Monroe Trojans pound out yardage on the ground. Although they did give some yards, the Wolves defenders stopped Monroe when it mattered and made several big plays.

It didn't look promising for the Wolves to start the game. After the Trojans returned the opening kickoff to the Clarkston 35, the Wolves held for three downs. On fourth-and-three Monroe ran seven yards

Clarkston once again held their ground for two plays, but on third down the Monroe quarterback threw a perfect pass into the corner of the end zone from 23 yards out. The extra point made it 7-0 with about eight minutes left in the first quarter.

But The Wolves answered that score with one of their own, led by Graves. On the kickoff a reverse to Graves moved Clarkston to the Monroe 40-yard line. Two runs by Graves and a 6-yard completion from Evans to senior receiver Jeremy Fife set up a fourthand-one on the 28.

Cheerleaders third in championships

The Clarkston varsity cheerleaders finished an impressive third place at the Michigan Cheerleading Coaches Association Fall Championships Nov. 5.

"I felt we would take third, but we were all really excited to do that well," said coach Gayle Conwell.

Conwell said her team's next competition will be in January at the Pistons Competition, held at the Palace of Auburn Hills. The winner will be allowed to cheer at a Pistons game.

While coaching at Clarkston for seven years, Conwell has been involved in cheerleading for over 12 years. "Compared to back then it's more technical and professional now. The girls are real good athletes."

Scharl, Burklow finish 5th, 31st in state meet

Senior runs second-best time in CHS history

BY DARREL W. COLE Clarkston News Staff Writer

Two years later, senior Leah Scharl is once again an All-State cross-country runner, not to mention the fastest senior runner in Clarkston history.

Scharl proved she had the will and desire to return to All-State form after sitting out last season due to a stress fracture in her leg. She took fifth place at the Nov. 5 meet in a time of 19:15. A few weeks earlier she ran an equally impressive regional race where she finished second.

"Leah has been All-State before and she knows her ability," said co-coach Mike Taylor. "She hadn't finished less than sixth in any race this season. She has given us four really good years."

In addition to the high finish, Scharl's time was seven seconds faster than the previous senior record of 19:23, set by Kate Conlen in 1987. The school record was set by Kathleen McInnis, then a sophomore, who finished 5th in 19:09 at the state meet in 1984

But Scharl wasn't the only runner to excel in the state meet. Junior Stefanie Burklow also ran her best time of the season in 20:14, good enough for 31st overall

Taylor said both athletes have shown all season they are serious about running and work hard to better themselves.

"They are both self-directed. There are different philosophies that coaches and athletes take. One is you go out and try to win everything right away, but my personal belief is that most runners can't win everything. The best strategy is to try to improve yourself and set a goal to peak at one point in the season," said Taylor.

"Their training reflects that we wanted them to peak at regionals and states."

Throughout the season, Scharl and Burklow have paced the girls team.

Leah Scharl ran her last race for Clarkston.

Scharl continually improved her times as the league, regional and state meets moved closer. In those three races she ran a 19:53, 19:58 and a personal-best at the state meet. During the season, she led the team in every meet except one she didn't run because of injury. Overall she was the meet champion in eight of 13 races, including the Chesaning Invitational and the league meet.

Burklow improved her time in the state meet by almost one minute, compared to her time of 21:11 in the regionals (15th place). Burklow was a solid second runner for Clarkston, taking second overall in two meets and third place four times.

Taylor said he hopes the success and dedication shown by Scharl and Burklow help bring in more runners to next season's team. He said both the boys and girls teams didn't have enough young runners come out.

"We really need to get at least five freshmen out each season because if you don't have at least 15 kids on each team you will probably struggle," Taylor said

Evans passes for 121 yards with two TDs

Graves got the first down with a good push from the offensive line.

Then, on the 27-yard line, the left side of the offensive line opened a big hole and Graves blew into the end zone, out-running Monroe defenders. After the extra point, the game was tied at 7-7 with about five minutes left in the first quarter.

The Wolves defense held Monroe and it was Evans' turn to shine. Facing a first-and-15 (illegal motion penalty) on the 50, Evans began the confidence-building drive.

He completed an 11-yard strike to senior receiver Pat Mulligan, and, after Graves gained two yards, completed a 12-yard pass to Fife on a third-and-two

On first-and-10 from the 26, Evans turned to his favorite play, and hit the tight end, Agar, for an 11-yard strike on a slant pattern inside.

The first down set up Graves' 5-yard run, to the 10-yard line. Evans threw incomplete on the next play but, on third down, hit Agar on a crossing pattern for a 10-yard touchdown.

Graves' extra point made the score 14-7 with 41 seconds left in the first quarter. But the drive was important for the team and Evans, who struggled earlier in the year.

On the 50-yard drive Evans completed 4-of-5 passes for 44 yards. "He had a good game, and showed his maturity in that drive," Richardson said.

Clarkston again got good position in the second quarter after forcing Monroe to punt.

The Wolves drove 55 yards on their next series, thanks to a 47-yard burst up the middle on a delayed handoff to Graves, who was knocked out of bounds at about the 7. Graves was stopped for no gain on first-and-goal, but on the next play Evans faked a handoff to Graves and snuck in from the other side for a TD.

After the extra point, the Wolves went up 21-7 and were in command.

On to Troy

Football fans should head out to Troy High School for the long awaited rematch, set for Nov. 12 at 1:30 p.m.

Clarkston coach Kurf Richardson said his team has waited since their opening-game loss to the Colts for the meeting. Clarkston will rely on an explosive offense and Troy will depend on its strong defense. Something has to give.

Both teams exchanged punts before Monroe scored again on an 8-yard run with 5:15 left in the first half. Senior Joe Naboychik blocked the extra point for a 21-13 score.

The Wolves took over and used up about four minutes, before being forced to punt. Monroe got the ball back with about 50 seconds in the half.

Monroe came out with some momentum that led them to a short TD run with 7:25 left in the third quarter

With the score 21-19, the Wolves were not done scoring, however. With Monroe once again on a good drive, a fumbled snap turned the ball back over to the Wolves.

Evans again made some key passes on the 45-yard TD drive, especially an 18-yarder to Graves and a 10-yarder to Fife. But it was Graves who ran it in from a yard out, giving the Wolves a 27-19 lead, with only 46 seconds left in the third.

That was all the Wolves needed, as the defense dominated with hard hits, batted balls or intercepted passes the rest of the way.

Graves did score one more time with 6:50 left in game on a 25-yard delay up the middle.

As the last two games have demonstrated, the Wolves are a better team than played Troy in the first game.

"We watched that first game the other day," said Richardson, "and it doesn't even look like our kids out there. We've improved defensively, Evans is better, our offense is better, and we've really gotten better in every aspect."

Richardson sees a key to beating Troy is with a sound passing game and being able to handle Troy's tough defense.

Just like every game since that first one, Richardson said his players know what to expect. Every week, the Wolves have faced elimination from the playoffs with a loss, so this is nothing new.

"They are focused and are a real intelligent group. They know what they have to do to get that next step," Richardson said.

I guess the media has a lot more influence than I thought. I write the girls sometimes can't pull it together, and they have the best week of the season.

OK, so maybe I wasn't the cause. They still played well.

Tuesday, the opponent was Rochester Adams. Earlier in the season, the Wolves were beaten by this team, but they came back and beat them this time around, 25-15.

"Yeah, it was one of our best defensive games," said Coach Ray.

On Thursday Troy, probably the best team in the league, fell to the Lady Wolves in head-to-head combat, 31-27.

The girls were led by the guards, Aimee Giroux and Tiffany Honey. Extra leadership came from Kristy Tippen as well.

Clarkston Force karate champs in tournament

BY CAROLYN H. WALKER Special to The Clarkston News

For hard-driving tae kwon do Master Joe Sanders, nothing means victory like 100-percent success.

And that is exactly what his karate team, "The Clarkston Force," achieved on Oct. 15, when every one of his participating members took at least one trophy at the Park's 24th Annual U.S. Open Tae Kwon Do and Kung Fu Karate Championship in Arkon, Ohio.

Sixteen of Sanders' students, ranging in age from 7 to 30, won 39 trophies, along with a six-foottall team trophy. They competed in form (a choreographed series of karate moves), board-breaking and free-fighting categories.

During his years of teaching in the Clarkston Community Education and after-school programs, Sanders' pupils have attended 34 tournaments and won a whopping 1,251 trophies.

They have taken the Park's U.S. Open team trophy five times. "It is a good, solid tournament, one of the best and largest in Ohio," Sanders said of the event, sponsored by Grand Master Kiel Soon Park's Judo and Karate Fitness Center in Akron. Grand Master Park, who holds high-ranking black belts in four martial arts and who was Sanders' instructor, is a former Korean Olympic and World Games medalist. What made this year's tournament special for Sanders, who holds a sixth-degree black belt in tae kwon do, a sixth degree black belt in hapkido and a second degree black belt in judo, was the fact that, for the first time during his tenure in Clarkston, every member, competing in a field of-nearly 300 contestants, took at least one trophy.

"In my 10 years in teaching in this area this is the first time I've had a 100-percent success ratio,"

Deer checks at highway stations open Nov. 16-20

Three Department of Natural Resources highway deer check stations will be open Nov. 16-20 for hunters to have their deer examined by DNR staff, who will gather data for use in the management of Michigan's deer herd. Hunters who bring in their deer will be awarded a successful deer hunter patch which commemorates 1994 as Michigan's 100th licensed deer hunting season.

All three of these stations will be open 10 a.m.-6

I-75 at the Birch Run weigh station, 2.5 miles north of Birch Run.

US-27 at the rest area south of Shepherd. US-131 at the rest area south of Big Rapids.

Hunters who stop at the check stations are encouraged to have their deer in an accessible location on the vehicle so DNR staff can easily examine teeth and measure antler diameters. DNR staff will record the location where the deer was taken, the deer's age, sex, total antler points, and antler beam diameter. These data are important to help evaluate the condition of the deer herd for future management.

In addition to the highway check stations, other locations where deer may be examined include all DNR regional and district offices and some field offices. Because many field offices have restricted hours, telephone first to confirm the hours and location. To locate the nearest DNR check station (which include some state game areas, parks, and recreation areas), contact your DNR district office listed on page 26 in the 1994-95 Michigan Hunting and Trapping Guide.

Local DAR chapter marks 10 years

The Sashabaw Plains Chapter of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution recently celebrated its 10th birthday in the community. The local group held a special luncheon at The Club at Pine Knob on October 6, with members and honored guests present.

Daisy Dowling, an antique expert in Clarkston, presented a program on "tussie mussies." She explained that "tussies mussics" were floral arrangements carried by Victorian men and women to protect their delicate sensibilities from any offensive odors that they might encounter.

The flowers in the bouquet each had a special significance and were used to convey messages between sender and recipient. The floral holders were generally made of silver and could be quite elaborate in design to reflect the social standing of the carrier.

Ms. Dowling shared her own collection with those present. "Tussie mussies" are returning to popularity now and can be found in miniature versions that can be worn attached to clothing.

Those present at the birthday celebration included organizing regent Mrs. James Green, past regent Miss Charlotte Maybee and present regent Mrs. James Lowe. Mrs. Green presently resides in Tallahassee, Fla., and travelled to Clarkston for the Honored guests included Mrs. Clinton Stimson of the Ezra Parker Chapter, who was State Regent when the Chapter was organized, and Mrs. James Greene of the Ezra Parker Chapter, who served as State Registrar at that time.

Visiting guests included Mrs. John W. Hile of the Piety Hill Chapter and Miss Dorothy Lou Harrington of the Three Flags Chapter, as well as many local residents and Chapter members.

The Sashabaw Plains Chapter was organized on

Present at the 10th birthday celebration of the Sashabaw Plains Chapter NSDAR were former State Regent Mrs. Clinton F. Stimson (front right), Chapter Organizing Regent Mrs. James B. October 9, 1984 by local women who commuted to chapters in other areas and wished to focus their energies and resources in this community and honor local citizens.

All chapters are named after an historical person or place. The Sashabaw Plains Chapter honors an area of land in the southeast portion of Independence Township named after the Indian Chief Sashabaw. This land had abundant game and fish and was so highly regarded by Chief Sashabaw that he bestowed his name upon it and the small stream meandering through it.

Sashabaw's tribe shared the abundant resources of the area with early settlers who retained the name Sashabaw out of their esteem. The name is still prevalent in the township and some descendants of the early settlers have been and are DAR members.

The NSDAR was founded October 11, 1890. NSDAR members are women who can establish by genealogical records proof that they are descended from a man or woman who "with unfailing loyalty defended American independence as a sailor, a soldier, or a civil officer in one of the several colonies or states or as a recognized patriot, or rendered material aid, including farmers, etc., who offered food, housing, or medical attention to the fighting soldiers."

Its objectives are historical, educational and patriotic. More than 700,000 members have joined the NSDAR since it was founded. There are now over 210,000 members in 3,152 chapters in all 50 states and many foreign countries. The national headquarters covers a city block and is located a short distance from the White House. The headquarters is the largest building in the world owned and maintained by women.

Any woman who may be eligible for membership and would like further information should contact Chapter Regent Dorothy Lowe at 625-5239.

375 DEPOT ROAD CLARKSTON, MI 48346 CITY COUNCIL MEETING MINUTES OCTOBER 24, 1994

The meeting was called to order at 7:35 p.m. by Mayor Catal-lo, followed by the Pledge of Allegiance. Roll: Present: Arkwright, Basinger, Catallo, Roeser, Sander-

Moved by Arkwright, supported by Secatch, "That the minutes of the meeting on October 10, 1994 be accepted as submitted." Motion carried.

Moved by Sanderson, supported by Secatch, "That the agenda be approved as prepared with the following additions: Appointment to the Historic District Commission, Purchasing Ordinance, and Halloween Hours." Motion carried.

Secatch indicated that he has requested a bid for building a wheelchair ramp to the gazebo. He indicated that this was a potential project for the CDBG funds.

Sanderson indicated that there may be a need for a light near the bridge on the south side of Depot Park as the area is very dark. Pappas will check into the cost.

An engineer from Hubbell, Roth and Clark presented a revised estimate of the proposed community water system. The estimate was for complete water services to the downtown business and water service to the residential property line. The estimate was for $2,550,000. Basinger indicated that he would prepare a spread sheet giving a couple different scenarios to determine what the millage rate would need to be levied to fund the project and what the individual homeowners could expect to pay annually. The engineers indicated there may be potential funding from the Farm Home Administration (FHA). They will look into this and report back to the Council.

The owner of Rudy's Market is having his employees pick up trash that accumulates on Mill Street. There seemed to be consensus among the Council that this is helping. The owner of Rudy's Market indicated that he was having plans drawn up for a fenced area to contain trash cans on Mill Street which would not interfere with the parking. Secatch and Arkwright indicated they would like to see the plans at the next meeting. Roeser presented the new tree policy for the planting of Memorial trees. The policy also includes a map which identifies what types of trees can be planted and where.

The Council has still not received the contracts from Independence Township regarding the division of assets. Pappas indicated that he has had to file for an extension for this year's audit because the books cannot be closed without the asset division. Tom Ryan will be instructed to contact the Township to determine the status of the contracts. There will be a dinner meeting at the Vocational School on November 2, 1994. The City Council, the Clarkston Community School Board, the Board of Trustees from Independence Township and Springfield Township will attend. There was discussion on the disposition of the 1990 police vehicle. This will be readdressed at the next Council Meeting. Mayor Catallo will try to determine the value of the vehicle based

The parking problem on Depot Road was discussed. The engineer from TIA will be invited to the next Council Meeting to provide clarification and some recommendations regarding parking throughout the Village. Moved by Arkwright, supported by Secatch, "That DPW remark the parking on Depot Road and eliminate the first two parking places on both sides of the road as soon as is possible." Yeas-6, Nays-2, Roeser, Sanderson. Motion carried.

Chief Devore will inform the local businesses of the reasons

Sanderson and Tom Goldner, both of E. Church, indicated for the parking changes. that they have counted the school buses which travel down Church Street, which is approximately 150 buses each week. These buses are not picking up children in the Village. The children in the Village who attend the public schools walk to school. It was proposed that an alternate bus route be established, such as Middle Lake Road or to take Waldon Road to M-15. Pappas will send a letter to the Superintendent identifying the problem and requesting an altering ordinance was reviewed. The following revicarried. sions were discussed: The City Manager and/or the Mayor the procurement administrator, department heads may make purchases up to $100 and a receipt is necessary for reimbursement, purchases from $100-500 require prior approval of the procurement administrator, purchases from $500-1,500 require prior council approval and may or may not be bid, purchases over $1,500 require three bids and prior council approval. The purchasing ordinance will be returned to Tom Ryan for revision. Moved by Sanderson, supported by Schultz, Trick or Treating in the Village will take place from 6-7 p.m. on Monday, October 31, 1994, Halloween Night: Motion carried.

Resolved by Roeser, supported by Basinger, That the Council go into closed session to discuss employment contracts."

Roll:Yeas-7, Nays-0. Resolution passed. The Council went into closed session at 9:35 p.m. Moved by Roeser, supported by Sanderson, "That the Council go back into open session." Motion carried. The Council went back into open session at 10:15 p.m. Moved by Roeser, supported by Sanderson, "That the meeting be adjourned." Motion carried. The meeting was adjourned at 10:18 p.m. Jeanne Selander Miller

Car/deer crashes costly to drivers

To many people, Michigan means deer, the wily whitetail of legend.

To motorists, they can be a nightmare -- a sudden blur out of nowhere. And their numbers are up from about 1.5 million in 1993 to 1.75 million this year.

While the number of car/deer crashes was down slightly last year from the all-time high recorded in 1991, AAA Michigan says they remain a big-bucks expense in the state (pun intended) with more than $65 million paid out in property damage claims industry-wide in 1993.

Numbers tell the story:

 In 1993, there were 47,813 car/deer crashes in Michigan, claiming five lives and injuring 1,712 persons. In 1991, seven people lost their lives and 1,732 suffered injuries in 48,233 car/deer crashes.

The average repair bill for a car involved in a car/deer crash was $1,350 last year, with AAA Michigan paying out some $8.1 million in property year, most happen during the fall and early winter months, says AAA Michigan Community Safety Services Manager Jerry Basch.

Car/deer crashes most often occur on paved local and county roads, but freeways are not exempt.

 Use extra caution when driving in the hours before dawn and just after dusk. Those are the most likely times to find deer moving from area to area.

If you see a deer, slow down, drive cautiously and assume others are nearby.

 Should a deer dart into the road in front of you, do not take unsafe evasive action, such as swerving. It is usually safer to strike the deer than another object, such as a tree or other vehicle.

Be alert for shining eyes at night. Your headlights can "freeze" the deer. Flash your headlights on and off well in advance to encourage the deer to move from the roadway.

 Should you strike a deer, report it to local or county police and your insurance company. If you choose to keep the deer, you will need a permit from the police department or the Department of Natural Resources.

Let's Rock!

Steps were lively and hearts were light as little guys and their moms enjoyed a Mother-Son Dance sponsored by Independence Township Parks and Recreation Monday night.

Area youngsters from grades K-5 partied into bedtime hours from 6:30 to 8:30 while DJ Brian Rutledge offered music recordings — everything from "Hound Dog" and "Achy Breaky Heart" to tunes from Disney movie soundtracks and fun games like "The Limbo."

Though the floor was a little slippery inside Clintonwood Park's carriage house, the youngsters and their pretty partners didn't trip the light fantastic — well, not much.
