Police get help nabbing credit card thieves

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

Three Pontiac residents have been arraigned in 52-2 District Court in a crowbar attack on an Independence Township senior citizen March 7.

David Hudson, 29, Edith Turner, 33 and Scott Watson, 25, have been charged with conspiracy to commit armed robbery, a felony with a maximum penalty of life in prison. Turner and Hudson are also charged with armed robbery in the attack.

According to Det. Dirk Feneley of the Oakland County Sheriff's Independence substation, the victim was out walking his dog around midnight when he was struck from behind with a crowbar. He was knocked down and during a struggle, Turner held the man down while Hudson stole his wallet. Watson waited in a car.

The three then allegedly went on a shopping spree using the victim's credit cards. They first went to the Meijer's store in Waterford, where they attempted to charge $1,500 worth of jewelry.

"The store clerk became suspicious and would not accept the card," said Sgt. Joe Duke of the sheriff's Rochester Hills substation. The trio left the store while Meijer, through its internal loss-prevention system, alerted other stores in the area to be on the lookout for them.

The robbers then allegedly used the stolen credit cards to purchase cigarettes and food at a Mobil gas station on Elizabeth Lake Rd. and pornographic videos at the Front Page Book Store on Joslyn in Pontiac. Then they went to the Meijer's store in Rochester Hills, which had been alerted. The sheriff's department was called, the thieves arrested, and the stolen credit cards and most of the merchandise recovered.

The three have since confessed to being involved in a string of other crimes, Feneley said. Included are at least three other robberies and some break-ins. The Oakland County Fugitive Apprehension Team is coordinating the investigation, which may involve up to eight jurisdictions.

"They go out and drive around and do crimes," Feneley said. They have confessed to an attempted breaking and entering in Highland less than one-half hour before the Independence Township man was robbed.

Both Feneley and Duke praised Meijer for its help in apprehending the robbers. "The security system at Meijer is the best I've ever seen," Feneley said. "We have them (the robbers) on film that's unbelievable."

'Bye Bye Birdie' opens March 30

John Dugan knocks 'em dead as Conrad Birdie in the CHS production of "Bye Bye Birdie." Here he shows up in Sweet Apple, Ohio to accept a key to the city from the mayor. As he sings, his fans swoon at his feet.

CHS readies musical

The musical inspired by the story of Elvis Presley's induction into the Army will be presented by a veritable army of students at Clarkston High School March 30-31 and April 1-2.

"Bye Bye Birdie," the Broadway musical made into a 1963 movie starring Ann-Margret, Dick Van Dyke and Paul Lynde, will utilize the talents of about 45 actors, 14 crewmembers and a pit orchestra, all CHS students. The play is directed by theater teacher Jeffrey Tice. Director of choirs Grayce Warren is the musical director; of bands Clifford Chapman will be conductor; and Marilyn Kettler is the choreographer.

John Dugan stars as Conrad Birdie, the stuck-up rock-and-roll star whose name alone brings fits of screaming and fainting from his adoring female fans. Bobbie Vance plays Albert, the hapless songwriter; Maria Fifelski plays Rosie, Albert's longsuffering girlfriend. Sarah McNew is Kim, who is selected to give Birdie his "One Last Kiss" live on the Ed Sullivan Show. Ryan Seaman is her father, Harry McAfee; Christina Williams plays her mother.

Some of the memorable songs from the play include "One Last Kiss," "Put on a Happy Face," "Kids" and "I've Got a Lot of Living to Do."

Tickets for "Bye Bye Birdie" are $4.50 for adults, $4 for students and senior citizens. All tickets for the April 2 matinee at 2 p.m. are $4. Showtime on March 30, 31 and April 1 is 7:30 p.m. at Kirchgessner Theatre at CHS. Tickets go on sale March 20 at the CHS box office.

The news in brief

Shanks to head bond committee

Kurt Shanks will head the citizens committee to pass the June 13 millage for a new high school. Shanks, a former Rochester School Board trustee, volunteered for the job. "We just got started and it's going to be a long, hard process to education people," he said at the board of education meeting Monday night.

A parent attending the meeting said she was concerned the effort has not gotten rolling sooner, but school superintendent Gary Haner said it's dangerous to get the information out so early that people forget.

"From previous experience we've learned that you can't send out the information more than four to six weeks before the election or it's forgotten," Haner said.

Some 300-400 people are expected to be needed to work on the bond campaign, Haner added.

Suffragists sought

The Oakland County Chapter of the National Organization for Women plans to celebrate the 75th anniversary of the passage of the 18th amendment to the Constitution, which gave women the right to vote, by honoring Oakland County suffragists.

Anyone with information about the suffrage movement in Oakland County is asked to call NOW at (810) 398-8740 or write Oakland County NOW, P.O. Box 1381, Royal Oak, MI 48068.

Two seats up on school board

Two seats on the Clarkston Board of Education will be up for grabs June 12. The terms of Janet Thomas and Kurt Karlstrom will expire, Thomas said Monday night. However neither she nor Karlstrom mentioned whether or not they would file for re-election.

Petitions must be filed by April 10, Thomas said. And she reminded possible candidates that they must pull separate petitions for the townships of Springfield and Independence and the City of Clarkston. Last year one candidate was disqualified because she did not pull a separate petition for the city.

OLHSA facing food cutoff

The Oakland Livingston Human Services Agency, which distributes free food to low-income Oakland County residents, including those in Clarkston, says it has been notified that there will be no food products available for distribution after May.

Funding for the food was reduced by Congress in the 1995 federal budget by 69 percent from the amount appropriated in 1994, according to OLHSA's Michelle Spielman. The agency expects to find out soon of funding will be eliminated permanently under HR 4, the Personal Responsibility Act. Recently introduced in the House, HR 4 would eliminate all food distribution programs, including the Emergency Food Assistance Program.

Meanwhile, food distribution dates have been announced for April. Call 858-5139 for more information.

Blanchard is middle-school teacher of year

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

The song was called "Raise Your Voice in Joyful Song" and that's just exactly what the seventh-graders in Danielle Blanchard's choir class were doing.

The youngsters were singing in three-part harmony, cajoled along by their teacher, who slipped in and out of a Brooklyn accent, an operatic voice and her normal tone to get the students to open up and sing. It was clear the students enjoyed every minute of it.

"That was almost awesome," Blanchard said at the end of one phrase, and the kids burst into quiet giggles. She used words like "dynamite," "cooler," "neato," "diggin' it" and "check it out"—all of them within one hour's session.

She sings, she dances, she cajoles her students to have "attitude"—all of it while managing to sound sincere and keep the class moving.

"She cares about the kids," said student Brenda Shea after class. "She doesn't just teach 'Sing the notes.'"

Perhaps that's why Blanchard, 34, was selected the middle school teacher of the year by Post-Newsweek for Oakland County. She will be honored at an awards banquet in May at the Roostertail in Detroit along with winners from Wayne and Macomb Counties. She'll also receive a $2,000 prize.

"It's extremely exciting," Blanchard said. "It's just been kind of a roller coaster ride..."

"When things like this happen it makes you think about what you do for a living. Education can sometimes be a very political/financial thing... (But) it's all for the kids."

Blanchard has taught music and drama at Clarkston Middle School since 1988 and is the second CMS teacher in three years to win the Post-Newsweek

While accompanying the choir on piano, Blanchard doesn't sit still. She's singing, she's conducting, she even slips off the stool for the occasional dance step.

award. (Steve Himburg won the same award in 1993.)

She earned her bachelor's degree in music from Oakland University and a master's in music from Vandercook College of Music in Chicago. She has cut over 1000 songs and commercials and has been involved in several recordings nominated for Grammy awards.

You might have heard her voice on the radio at Christmas singing the Morley Candy jingle. She also does a lot of commercials for car dealers and sings with a jazz band, including a spot in the 1989 Detroit Montreux Jazz Festival. She's also taught at Oakland University and works as a consultant to a handful of school districts.

"It's been fun and I enjoy doing everything I do, and it's neat to share it with the kids," she said. "Instead of being torn, I use it in my teaching..."

"To be a teacher of the arts and to only have the time to practice it in your classroom... that would be awful for me."

Blanchard feels her wide-ranging career shows students that it is possible to make a living in music, even if it's only part of what you do. She even throws in the occasional math lesson, when students ask how much she makes on royalties.

"I can give them a realistic, factual thing because I've been there," she said. "We don't expect everybody to be a musician but just the discipline is a good brainstretch."

Blanchard said she will accept the award on behalf of good teachers everywhere.

"I feel like I'm representing a lot of really great teachers in Michigan, not just in this district. I'm the one who got invited to the party. It's just a chance to celebrate."

"I also feel somewhat awkward because I am real young. I'm sure somewhere in my speech I'll have to defer to all the master teachers who've influenced me."

Danielle Blanchard demonstrates a little dance step the students are working on for a concert.

License lines

By Jim Sherman, Sr

We asked for license plate slogans and we got 'em.

Big Time.

Response was overwhelming. Reader imaginations brought 116 lines for Michigan auto license plates.

Originally we planned to be out of town, leaving it to Don Rush to do the judging. However, I'm glad I came back to the task. I like slogans. I liked "Water Wonderland" that was on our plates.

And, "water" was the dominant reference on these entries. Next was "seasons." The first time I saw "Smitten in Michigan" I loved it. However, in the final countdown I felt residents in the U.P. wouldn't be thrilled with that on their back bumper.

For an obvious reason I ruled out "Buy your car from us" and "Go Blue." Warren Peace, a pseudonym, did a take-off on David Letterman's top ten. He suggested "We don't need no stinking groundhog." "Michigan-The mosquito capital" and "Sure it's flat, but it's home," to name three.

There was a latin entry, "Si Quaeris Peninsulam," (A Pleasant Peninsula); a slam, "Michigan-#1 in pot holes;" one for trees, "Spruce up in Michigan;" and one for fish, "Perch your tail in Michigan."

And the winners are (actually, the three winners, one from each of our weekly newspapers):

■ The Clarkston News: Shellie Kent for "All 4 Seasons." She and her family receive free dinner at The Clarkston Cafe.

■ The Lake Orion Review: Carol Davis for "Peninsula Paradise." She and her family receive dinner at Haymakers.

■ The Oxford Leader: Shirley J. Watson for "Bridge Connection." She and her family receive dinner at the Long Branch Saloon.

Thanks to all who entered our Michigan License Plate Slogan Contest.

Township investment policy sets limits

It includes a plan to get rid of controversial derivatives

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Over a five-year period Independence Township officials hope to divest the township of almost $6 million in derivative securities.

Under two new policies adopted by the township board of trustees March 7, township treasurer John Lutz will follow clearly set investment objectives and, whenever possible, slowly get rid of the derivative securities, which, as of last year, were worth a total of about $2.3 million, about a 60 percent decrease in value.

The derivatives divestiture plan is to sell off about 20 percent of the securities each year for five years. That percent could increase or decrease each year depending on the "market."

"When there is no loss or what we would consider an acceptable loss," is when the securities will be let go, according to township supervisor Dale Stuart. He said an acceptable loss will be determined based on the advice of investment experts.

Ken Carroll, the investment expert hired by the township to draft the two policies, said at the March 7 meeting that "If the market permits we'll move on selling these but if it doesn't we won't. The whole purpose is to mitigate some of the damages that have occurred."

The divestiture plan will also be sent to the state treasurer's office to show the township has a plan of action to get rid of what the state has called "illegal" investments.

At a 20 percent rate for five years, that means the township will attempt to sell about $1 million in derivatives each year.

The new investment policy sets very specific guidelines and objectives for the township. Although some board members said the policy may take away some of Lutz's duties, Carroll disagreed.

"From an investment perspective I don't think we are," he said. "Now it's just that a lot of the policies already practiced are on paper. From a legal standpoint I can't say, but from an investment perspective I don't believe there is any conflict."

Township attorney Gerald Fisher said the policy does not violate state laws which grant specific powers to a treasurer, including investing.

"The board is authorized to set specific policies where investments are concerned. In this policy the day-to-day investments are still done with the treasurer," Fisher said.

The new investment policy is a five-page document which describes the types of investment securities that can be made by the treasurer.

If there are plans to invest in securities not included in the policy, the township board must give approval.

Stuart said, "This policy does what we wanted them to do and that is set a guide so this won't happen again."

The township has filed two arbitration claims against the two brokers who sold Lutz the securities in question. The township's contention is that the brokers, who worked for PaineWebber and Westcap Securities, "misled" Lutz with bad investment advice.

The same derivative investments have caused financial woes for other public and private bodies throughout the nation. Orange County, California filed for bankruptcy because of losses in the derivatives market.

Township officials say the decreased value in investments will not affect the township's financial status.

Huntoon gets appointments

Oakland County Commissioner Donna R. Huntoon (R., District 2) was elected vice chair of the commission's Health and Human Services Committee which handles over one-third of the county budget.

In addition, Huntoon was named chair of the Judiciary and Public Safety Committee of the Michigan Association of Counties. She will continue to serve on the county's Finance Committee, the Community Corrections Advisory Board, seven local lake improvement boards and the MAC Mental Health Committee.

Huntoon's district includes the northern part of Independence Township and Springfield Township. She lives in White Lake.

Funeral for shooting victim undisturbed by activists

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Rumors that there might be gay and/or anti-gay activists intruding into both the funeral and burial for Orion Township shooting victim Scott Amedure proved to be unfounded.

As people lined up outside Wint's Funeral Home in Clarkston before and after the funeral Tuesday morning, the only uninvited guests were the media.

Amedure, 32, was allegedly shot by another Orion resident, John Schmitz, after Amedure admitted to having a crush on Schmitz during the taping of a "Secret Admirers" segment on the Jenny Jones TV show. Schmitz, 24, was arrested in Auburn Hills Thursday after he called 911 just minutes after the murder. A plea of not guilty was entered in his behalf in Rochester's 52-3 District Court Friday.

"There were no disturbances — only from the press," said a Wint employee, who did not wish to be named.

Media from the Detroit Free Press, People Magazine and The National Enquirer, among others, stood respectfully away from the scene at Wint's, positioning themselves near the street and across M-15.

"The owner wants people off this property," said Deputy Richard Ryan of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department Orion substation. "I'm going to start moving them."

Property owner Norb Shubert, whose lot holds three businesses, Gregg's Gourmet Cafe, Clarkston Cleaners and Paradise Island Tanning Salon, was angry.

"They're taking my customers' spots. I told Channel 7 they had to move over there," he said, pointing to a Little Caesar's nearby.

Before the funeral procession moved into Ottawa Park Cemetery in Waterford, a cemetery worker said, in reference to the activist rumors, "We haven't heard anything."

Media stood around the perimeter of both the procession of cars and the graveside. Only one guest protested, imploring, "Can't you let people rest?" as others laid red roses on the grave.

Wint Funeral Home owner Bill Wint said he was glad both the funeral service and the burial had been peaceful.

"It was beautiful," he said, adding that the press was met with "no comment" from Amedure's family and other guests.

Sgt. Michael Elliott of the OCSO Orion substation said only officers from his substation covered the situation — but heard no rumors about activists.

"We were just there to make sure everything went well, and it did," he said.

Ottawa Park Cemetery workers unload the casket that contains Scott Amedure's body.

OPINIONS

Wed., March 15, 1995 6A

The Clarkston News

In Focus

by Annette Kingsbury

Siskel and Ebert.

The names go together like a lot of other famous pairs: Laurel and Hardy, Fred and Ginger, Amos and Andy. Yet these two are not actually in show biz—they just write about it.

Nevertheless they have, through a weekly TV show, developed quite a following. So when the two Chicago film critics announced they would appear for a pre-Oscarevening at the Detroit Institute of Arts, the Dennis and I decided to attend.

Anyone who's ever seen the show knows the two are very opinionated, and they don't mind disagreeing with each other—vehemently. I've always wondered, as I'm sure millions do, whether they actually like each other or really hate each other's guts.

Judging by what we saw on stage last week, the two are actually quite friendly. Sure, they attacked each other, but in a good-natured, well-rehearsed way. Though they say they don't prepare their lines ahead of time, they seem to have developed a comfortable routine. Just like in a long-lasting marriage, they know how to argue without endangering the important friendship underlying their success.

Gene Siskel and Roger Ebert shared with us their predictions for the Oscars (it's going to be a very Gump year, they agreed), then took questions from the audience. Since the event was a benefit for the DIA auditorium which houses the Detroit Film Theatre, it was a safe bet there were a lot of film buffs there. Most of the questions had to do with the critics' opinions on specific films, not on their relationship with each other.

"Pulp Fiction" (which I haven't yet seen) generated the most controversy of the night, with people getting equally emotional saying they loved it or despised it. What was most impressive about Siskel and Ebert, though, was their respect for everyone else's opinion. They reminded the audience, which occasionally boo'd an opinion, that criticism and art are all about the right to free speech. They allowed questioners to passionately express their views, no matter how unpopular.

Perhaps that's why the dynamic duo of film critique have become such an institution. Yes, we want to know what they think of the new movies (I tend to agree more with Siskel). But we also want, I think, to see them exercise this freedom of expression. We know it won't ever get too ugly, there won't be any name calling, just a few backhanded insults. But in the name of art, it's OK.

Like that other Odd Couple of film, these two have built up huge careers nagging at each other, in an erudite sort of way. It's not the same as Archie Bunker yelling at Edith, or vice versa. It's high class. It's fun.

Now for the predictions: Siskel and Ebert made it plain these are who they think are going to win, not who they want to win. Best film: Forrest Gump; best actor, Tom Hanks; best actress, Jessica Lange; best supporting actor, Martin Landau; best supporting actress, Dianne Wiest.

Letters to the editor

OM students winners! Good sports

Dear Editor,

For the first time in more than half-a-dozen years, Clarkston students participated in a regional "Odyssey of the Mind" tournament. Leaving the awards ceremony, I heard many comments about winning and losing, so I'd like to put this in perspective.

OM founder Sam Micklus said something like this: "The winners are the ones who worked on their problems, gave it their best shot, came to the tournament and performed in front of the judges and crowd. The top-ranking champions will take home the ribbons. But the winners are all of you right here. When you go home, tell everyone you meet that you are a winner!"

In a nutshell, that's how I feel about our Clarkston kids. Ten teams from four of our schools competed in an arena unlike any they had been in before.

Winners? We have 70 of them! They attend Clarkston Elementary, Bailey Lake, Pine Knob and Sashabaw Middle School. They are team-oriented problem solvers who know they are now better equipped to deal with whatever life hands them.

Yes, Odyssey of the Mind is active in Clarkston. Many thanks to our regional director, Chris Heck, for her time and assistance. My personal thanks to the CE-PTA, sponsors Sally and Charlie Hadden, Principal Elaine Middlekauff, our teachers and custodians, and the parents who helped coach and encourage our teams. Thanks for helping our OM winners!

Sincerely,
Sherry Regiani

(PS: Interested schools can give me a call if they'd like to learn more about OM. And if you've borrowed tapes or books, please return them to me at Clarkston El. Thanks!)

Even though Michigan's weather didn't necessarily cooperate on Saturday, Feb. 25, the community did by attending the second annual Super Hooper Tournament.

This yearly basketball game puts the CHS staff against the middle school staff for one of the CHS PTSA's fund-raisers. Once again I'd like to thank those who fought the snow and ice (maybe for the last time this season?) and came to our game. A very special thanks to secret weapon #1—Tim Birtsas, and secret weapon #2—Dan Fife, who played with the middle schools, and helped 'round out' the teams.

Kudos to Solid Brass, the jazz band that provided much entertainment; consisting of Joel and Scott Sanford, Todd and Ryan Bower, Colin McIntyre, Jimmy Territo and Brandon Williams. Also a big thanks to our distinguished referees, Mel Vaara and Mark Cooper, our announcer Dave Reschke, all the parent workers and all three of the schools' staff for their continued support.

Thanks to all the good sports in Clarkston.

Tavern debate will be interesting

To the Editor,

From our perspective, it is amazing that the same administration of the City of the Village of Clarkston, who has presented every possible road block to the establishment of a Bed and Breakfast Inn on Main Street, will even consider the idea of a "tavern" in the old Church of God on Main Street.

How this request unfolds and is determined will be very interesting to watch, to say the least.

Jim's Jottings

By Jim Sherman

I WON THE LOTTO!

C'mon, admit it. You play Lotto. If you don't play it here in Michigan, you play it in one of the other 35 states where such gambling is legal.

I've played the Michigan Lotto and a few "scratch-off" games since their inception, but not regularly. I say to myself, 'I won't play the Lotto until it gets to $10 million.' Then once in a while I ignore that promise and buy some numbers at $8 million.

That's where the Florida Lotto was when we arrived there a couple weeks ago, $8 million.

I'd forgotten their Lotto starts at $8 million, while Michigan's starts at $2 million. Another difference: Florida gets to $19 million the second week when there is no winner.

In Michigan it takes 3 or 4 weeks to get that high. Anyway, on a walk through part of Lakeland a party store's Lotto sign became irresistible.

I marked my usual 8, 10, 12, 18, 25, 26 (feel free to use those numbers) and Quik Picked four more.

BINGO! I won the Florida Lotto! However, on that particular day 253,642 others also won the Florida Lotto. But, no one won the $8 million.

No matter. I've never been able to say 'I won the Lotto' in Michigan. I don't even recall winning a free ticket on a scratch-off.

The Florida Lotto pays on 3, 4, 5 and 6 winning numbers. Four of my choice of Lotto numbers matched as did three Quik Pick numbers.

Four numbers is not a major contributor to anyone's dream of a fantasy retirement.

It was worth 60 bucks. One night's lodging in an average motel.

The three numbers brought $4.50 more. Breakfast at Wendy's.

But, hey, there were millions of players who won nothing in that drawing.

$64.50 is better than a kick in the rear with a frozen boot. Better than a sharp stick in the eye. Better 'n lose'n.

Naturally, I bought five more tickets. I left my sure-$19-mil ducats with a friend in Florida for the March 11 drawing.

Hm-m-m? He should have called by now.

A look back

15 YEARS AGO (1980)

Pine Knob Investments co-owner Joseph Locricchio snatches his offer to sell Pine Knob's recreation facilities away from the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission. Eric Reicke, manager of the county parks and recreation department, says Locricchio became angry after members of the Oakland County Board of Commissioners are quoted in newspaper articles saying they want to wait to consider the purchase until after the recreation facilities are no longer under Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy code. Reicke blames newspaper editorials, saying, "they took and twisted information."

Clarkston High School's Drama Department prepares to present "Carousel." The award-winning musical begins March 21 with the March 28 date highlighted as a special dinner-theater. Leading roles are played by Sue Tezak, Don Lanpher, Ann Dutton and Leslie Wirpsa.

Higher rates for water and sewer usage are faced by Independence Township residents. The average rates increase $2.50 to $17.50 a quarter for water and $6 to $35 a quarter for sewer. DPW director George Anderson says people who feel that sounds like a lot of money should consider the fact that "it's the first increase since 1977."

25 YEARS AGO (1970)

Two new Clarkston Village Council positions are filled by Robert Jones and Ruth Basinger, winners in Monday's village primary. A third seat goes to incumbent Jack Hagen, the largest vote-getter with 128 cast in his favor. Unopposed were former Councilman Donald Cooper for president, Art Pappas for clerk, Mary Ann Pappas for treasurer and Ralph Thayer for assessor.

A student smoking room, located in one of the high school lavatories, draws resident protest. William Dennis, high school principal, says this action is an attempt to control smoking and vandalism at the school. Dennis says that in the two weeks the smoking room has existed, there has been marked improvement. Some other parents of non-smoking students agree, saying they are glad their kids can now use lavatories that are smoke-free.

The Sashabaw Cougars are downed by Clarkston Junior High at the Clarkston High School gymnasium Friday by a score of 64-51. The gym is filled for the first time this year with an estimated 1,900 fans.

50 YEARS AGO (1945)

Jean Girst, Waterford freshman at Michigan State College, will visit with seniors at Clarkston High School on March 19 who are interested in receiving information about the college. Miss Girst is one of 170 Michigan State students who have volunteered their services during spring vacation.

Specials at the Village Market this week include Quality Pancake Flour, a five-pound bag for 17 cents, Post Toasties, two packages for 15 cents, Table King Salad Dressing, a quart jar for 29 cents and Birdseye Sliced Peaches, a package for 29 cents.

Hedy Lamarr, Paul Henreid and Sydney Greenstreet star in "The Conspirators" at the Holly Theatre and Ray Milland and Maureen O'Hara are featured in "Till We Meet Again" at the Drayton.

60 YEARS AGO (1935)

A father and son banquet is planned for March 21. Dr. Stark will be the featured speaker. If you have not a son of your own you may be able to find somebody's son who would enjoy the evening. This also applies to sons.

The Holly Theatre is showing Will Rogers in "The County Chairman," Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire in "The Gay Divorcee," Claudette Colbert in "The Gilded Lily" and John Boles and Loretta Young in "The White Parade."

Rudy's specials this week are Uneeda Macaroon Chips, two pounds for 35 cents, hamburger, two pounds for 27 cents, Lux and Lifebuoy Soap, three bars for 19 cents and salmon, a tall can for a dime.

If It Fitz

by Jim Fitzgerald

Religious unity means sacrificing narrowness

The first Sunday in Lent seems an appropriate time to report that Frank Banko, a Grand Rapids businessman, recently sent me the same handsome plastic Peace Poster he sent to Jimmy Carter and Pat Robertson.

Printed on it are the religious symbols for Christianity, Hinduism, Buddhism and nine other organized religions.

Also on the poster — printed in English, Arabic, Polish and 15 other languages — is the declaration: "There will be peace on earth when there is peace among the world religions."

Former President Carter's response to Banko was: "Thank you for the Peace Poster. Your message of 'humanity united' is indeed inspiring; I appreciate your sharing it with me."

The response from well-known preacher Robertson, chairman and chief executive officer of the Christian Broadcasting Network, included this: "There can be no unity between Christianity and the other religions listed, because they do not believe that Jesus Christ is 'the truth' and the only way to be reconciled with God."

My response to the poster is yeah! My reaction to Jimmy Carter's response is total agreement.

And my reaction to Pat Robertson's response is to reach for my throw-up pot.

Frank Banko's reaction to Robertson's opinion is less vulgar than mine. Banko included his assessment of Robertson's divisively narrow bigotry in a letter written to Gov. John Engler following Engler's Robertson-like pronouncement, while declaring Christian Heritage Week in November, that "the quality of our relationships with one another depends on our morals, and our morals depend on our faith. But if we have no faith in God . . . then what will make us try to act in a decent, charitable manner?"

Banko told Engler: "I urge you to read the letter and statement to me from Pat Robertson. This is the man that wished to be the leader of 260 million free people. I also believe he had something to do with your decision. Mr. Robertson has not backed down from this ignorant position. I will let his words be a millstone around his neck."

"What do his words say to the millions of Asians who are now American that practice Confucianism, or to the Native Americans who yet resist the tyranny of the Christian takeover of their land and spiritual beliefs?"

Yeah. And how about the thousands of agnostics and atheists who somehow manage to lead good, worthwhile lives? Are we actually supposed to believe they will burn in hell forever for not believing in Pat Robertson's Jesus Christ?

Banko, a 48-year-old Vietnam veteran, is a sales representative in the plastics industry. At his own expense, he printed and distributed more than 11,000 of the 18-by-26-inch posters urging peace among religions.

"What if I believe in something greater than myself, but I wish to not be so egocentric as to try and put a label on whatever is responsible for 100 million galaxies?" Banko asked Engler.

Are we actually supposed to believe, as Engler might answer, that Banko's belief automatically makes him an immoral person?

Where's my throw-up pot?

Like me, Frank Banko was raised a Catholic, so he's familiar with the religious concept of giving up something for Lent, usually stuff that isn't good for us anyway. In this spirit, I suggest that this Lent, we should all give up believing the Robertson-Engler way is the only way to be moral and "saved."

We should give up believing we must continue to fight religious wars until only the one great always-right religion survives.

And after we give up all that insane bigotry for Lent, we should believe Lent never ends.

Don't Rush Me

By Don Rush

Musha ring dum a doo dum a da

I wanted to get myself ready for Saint Patrick's day this year. So I went out and spent some of my hard-earned money and bought the most Irish-looking compact disc I could find.

I found, "Irish Drinking Songs," put out by Columbia Records. What caught my eye was the cover photo: a bunch of blokes raising their glasses to the camera. It's a hum-dinger of a recording set.

Some of the songs included are "Whiskey In The Jar," "Beer, Beer, Beer," "Water Is Alright In Tay," "Drink It Up Men," "Maloney Wants A Drink," and "Whiskey, You're The Devil."

All in all there's about 50 minutes of drinkin', fightin', dyin' and womanizin', hooting and whistling — all in the good old Irish way.

The first couple times Des and I listened to the music, we had a hard time understanding what those Micks were singing. We finally broke down and looked at the words.

We still cannot sing some of the refrains. It seems the Irish like throwing in their songs non-sensical words.

Make sense out of this if you can:

"Musha ring dum a doo dum a da,

"Whack fol de daddy o

"Whack fol de daddy o . . . there's whiskey in the jar."

How about this:

"Hi the dithery idle loo, ditheri oodle idle loo

"Dithery oo di dithery i day . . ."

Add a "whack fol-de-day now dance," a couple of "with me tiddery idle looodle lum a da, Me right fol tooral addee os," and a few, "toor-a-loor-a-loo, toor-a-loor-a-lays," and you can get an idea where I'm coming from.

I've heard Irish songs my entire life and I still have a hard time keeping up with the lyrics. This does not mean I do not like the music. Oh, contrair my friends, I enjoy the heck out of it.

Desiree's favorite tune on the disc is "Tim Finnegan's Wake." There's a lot of hollering, whistling going on while the lead singer sings the song of poor old Tim Finnegan. So the song goes, Tim fell off the ladder and broke his skull. His friends took him home, laid him out on his bed and commenced the wake.

Well, a fight started

"But Biddy then gave her a belt on the gob, And left her sprawling on the flure. Each side in war did soon engage, Twas woman to woman and man to man, Shillelah-law was the rage, An' a row an' a ruction soon began."

At the end of the song whiskey gets spilled over poor old Tim, he rises and says, "Glory be to God, do ye think I'm dead?"

I guess you have to hear it to appreciate it.

Got a gripe?

Tots and Tongs

Sometimes I wish I was blind so my sense of hearing would be more keen. I love it when two empty coffee pots collide with a soft "toinnnggg," and I think the sound of a CD player shifting tracks between songs is often more interesting than the music.

But because of the many unpleasant sounds that would be amplified, I am grateful for my sight. I don't want to be more attuned to people snorting their snot every November.

Speaking of snot and noise, last Saturday several National Honor Society volunteers helped out at an activity day for children at the Community Education Center. Usually I'm not a big fan of little kids, but working with them Saturday changed my feelings for a few hours.

My session with the pre-schoolers began with the Hokey Pokey, which was cut short due to a lack of enthusiasm. One little girl was made because she thought she didn't get sufficient praise for knowing the words to the entire song, so she refused to dance and stood with her arms crossed giving me the evil eye. I began to think that it was going to be a long morning and I started to regret that I signed up to work a double session.

About half-way through another activity, I was distracted by a girl who was too young to be interested in anything structured. The girl (who couldn't be older than 2 1/2) was absolutely determined to paint without a smock or permission. I think she was afraid of me or something because I would ask her a question and she would grimace and shake her head "no," then I would ask her something the exact opposite and she would grimace and shake her head "no." One might think she simply didn't understand me, but I think she did because after I watched her paint quietly for a long time I asked her if she wanted to wash her hands and she did so.

This little girl was sooooo cute (and I usually don't refer to things as cute, much less sooooo cute) because she didn't just wash her hands just once, but once every three minutes over the next two hours. My friend who was volunteering in the same room said she probably had an obsessive-compulsive disorder, but I think she was just sooooo cute she couldn't help it. After a long time, the girl stopped making puke-faces and gained the confidence and trust to say two words to me in her little baby voice (I have no idea what she said, but it was still a nice moment).

By the end of my session I was very satisfied with myself as a server of the community. I owe much of the feeling to the charming little girl with whom I spent a large portion of the morning. When the children were collecting themselves in anticipation of their parents' return (from their morning off, as they probably thought of it) I realized I actually had fun with little kids. I knew I would never see them again and I wanted to show my appreciation for them. Luckily I defeated the urge to walk up to the special little girl and say something like, "Thank you for not ruining this day by having snot."

Benefit from good advice

In this time of corporate downsizing and restructuring, many people find themselves pursuing a new career with a new employer. Embarking on a new career should inspire a revision of your existing retirement plan including your future income, eventual age of retirement, and standard of living.

In addition to this revision of future retirement considerations, don't ignore your current employee benefits package. Employee benefits and "perks" can account for more than a third of the total compensation your new employer has to offer and should be an important consideration in a complete financial plan.

It's important to understand how to get the most benefit from the options available in your new position. Of course, working with the employee benefits people to gain a full grasp of all that is available is your best option.

Here are a few tips to get the most out of this relationship and maximize your benefits:

1. Coordinate health benefits with your existing health coverage. Avoid duplicating coverage or you'll end up paying for what you don't need.

2. Contribute as much as you can to your company's qualified retirement plan. If your employer offers matching funds, increase your saving enough to maximize that contribution. Tax-deferred buildup and matching contributions are two "perks" that are too good to pass up.

3. Review disability options. The chances of an employee becoming disabled for an extended period of time and prevented from working are far greater than those of dying before 65. Many benefit plans offer good coverage that is much cheaper than that available from insurance companies.

4. Determine how much life insurance you need. If you have dependents, you may need to have additional life insurance outside the coverage provided in your benefits package.

5. Consider private life and disability insurance if you change jobs often. These benefits are transferable, so your coverage will continue and you won't be exposed during career transition.

6. Find out about other benefit options your employer provides, such as child care, paid vacations and holidays, extended leave policies, education reimbursement, and employee discount packages.

7. Review your benefits regularly and adjust your participation to changes in your family and life. Be sure they still meet your long-term concerns and goals.

With the help of your financial planner, making well-thought-out choices about your employee benefits will make you enjoy your new career move and help you stay financially healthy.

Police chief interviews set by council

5 finalists will be selected from pool of 16 applicants

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

After deciding to scan as many as 16 candidates who applied for the Clarkston Police Chief position, Clarkston's City Council set dates to interview all of them before choosing the finalists.

Former Police Chief Robert DeVore left the position vacant when he resigned Dec. 3. Cpl. Scott Dickey was promoted to sergeant and placed as officer-in-charge until a new chief could be found.

Police liaison and Councilman Steve Arkwright suggested that an interview board be established to select the final candidates.

"I'd like to see us interview everybody and narrow it down to three to five people," he said.

But council didn't agree with him about who should sit on the board.

Arkwright suggested Dickey, two Clarkston residents, and Lt. Hummel of the Oakland County Independence substation.

In referring to Hummel, Arkwright said, "His input would be good. I think it's a good olive branch."

Councilman Bill Basinger didn't think either Dickey or Hummel was a good idea.

"I think maybe we could have Sgt. Dickey prepare a list of questions on it, but not sit on it ... I think we should (just) ask Hummel what he recommends as procedure," he said.

Also disagreeing with Arkwright was Councilman Steve Secatch who didn't think residents would be qualified board members.

"Normally you don't have citizens for input. Citizens don't know anything about police work. What's the purpose?" he said.

After more conversation, city attorney Tom Ryan stepped in and advised that council consider including a chief from a small neighboring police department, City Manager Art Pappas and two council members.

Council members decided that would be the best setup and selected Arkwright, Secatch, Pappas and Sgt. Steve Sitar of the Pontiac Police Department.

Arkwright said the deadline for applications is March 31. He would like to set up the interviews during the week of April 3, with the final candidates being screened by the entire council the week of April 10.

"I'd like to do it in half-hour sessions, back-to-back in one day — preferably Saturday," he said after the meeting. Arkwright also suggested the finalists be psychologically evaluated.

"I'd like to see someone in place by May 1," he said.

In other council action:

● Ryan summarized the first reading of the new fire prevention code. It will repeal an old ordinance and incorporate a new section to regulate and restrict open burning. A second reading will be given during the next council meeting March 27 before council takes action. Council passed a motion to adopt it as an emergency ordinance 6-0.

● Clarkston resident Curt Catallo appeared before council requesting approval for a resort liquor license he needs for the new tavern/grill on Main Street. Catallo needs the license to serve beer and wine by the glass as well as liquor. He is also asking the Michigan Liquor Control Commission to grant him permission for a coffee bar during off-liquor hours. In referring to his establishment, Catallo said, "Inside, it would just be a simple place with simple fare, nothing high-brow."

Council passed a resolution 4-0 to approve Catallo's request. Mayor Catallo abstained because she is Curt's mother and Basinger declined because he the husband of Clarkston Historic District Commission chair Sue Basinger. Last week the Commission approved Catallo's plan to make low-impact changes on the historic structure. Councilman Doug Roeser was absent.

● The asset division contracts have been given to Independence Township attorney Gerald Fisher for evaluation of council's position so both the city and township can resolve the settlement.

● A stone carriage house, whose owners have sued both the City of Clarkston and the developer of the condo site on which it rests, stands the risk of being demolished. The council unanimously voted to refer the matter to the Clarkston Historic District Commission so that it might be considered in an addition or another ordinance like the present Historic District Ordinance.

Tragedy and comedy combine in 'Rashomon'

Clarkston Village Players tackle a difficult play with gusto

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Most patrons of the Depot Theater are used to seeing the Clarkston Village Players pull off nifty melodramas and comedies.

Witness "Return Engagements," "Smoke and Mirrors" and "How the Other Half Loves," the first three plays of the season.

So it was surprising to see "Rashomon," an intense Japanese drama, on the 1994-95 playbill.

But in tackling the difficult and complex piece, the Players prove they are at the top of the list when it comes to community theater.

Mel Case, who directed the script, had some fresh ideas for its interpretation.

Review

"I tried to tone the intensity down. So it has some humor — as has life," he said, before the play opened Friday night.

A good example is the sword-fighting in one of the last scenes. Though done with real weaponry, you almost expect John Belushi to step in as "Samauri Warrior."

The result is "East meets West," as someone remarked before the show. "Rashomon" not only delivers a story that could have taken place 1,000 years ago, but comments on today's society as well.

The story unfolds outside Kyoto as a notorious bandit sees a married couple walking through the woods. Nothing, he swears later — after being arrested for the murder of the husband — would have happened if it hadn't been for "a little breeze" that lifted the woman's veil.

The bandit, a metaphor for all that is repulsive in the predatory human male, demasculinizes the husband by tying him to a tree so he can have the beautiful woman.

That's all we're really told, in the objective sense.

What follows is the meat of the play — how different interpretations by the bandit, woman, her mother, a woodcutter who witnesses the tragedy and the husband (now dead, with a medium speaking for him) challenge the viewer to sift through the stories to find the real one. In a sense, the audience is forced to become jurors.

Besides Oriental music and fans on the walls, Case has added a simple woodland setting, using a birch forest mural for the background. Combined with a few well-placed trees, leaves and bird chirps, it's very effective.

The actors balance each other nicely. Drew Creamer as the priest, Lance Baylis as a woodcutter and David Kramer as a wigmaker provide the respective wisdom, doubt and cynicism in conversations that serve as commentary.

Kramer's scruffy, scrappy character gives the heavy dialogue occasional comic relief — and he has some of the best lines.

"Everybody's always running away from the dead," he grumbles after Baylis whines about finding the corpse. "Take my advice — run from the live ones!"

Noteworthy too are Suzan Miller, the medium, and Janet Rose, the mother, in giving their testimonies. And Bill Hastie, who also serves as the play's producer, is a fitting deputy. He even LOOKS Oriental.

But it is the trio of wife, husband and bandit, played respectively by Pamela Hill, Mike Finn and Bruce Bishop who, in a multitude of various scenes, provide the double-edged swords of comedy and tragedy.

We both laugh and get our dander up when Bishop, a fearsome bandit indeed with his helter-skelter eyes, refers to women's tears as "a weapon" and scoffs at the wife.

"You can remember you were raped by the famous bandit Tajomaru," he sneers, bringing to the surface all that is loathsome in male egocentrism.

But, like all wily females, she knows how to verbally castrate him.

When he finds out the woman is "a kitchen-maid's daughter" and rebukes her, she wittily retorts, "Yes, that's what I am! But one thing you learn in the kitchen is to recognize the smell of — garbage!"

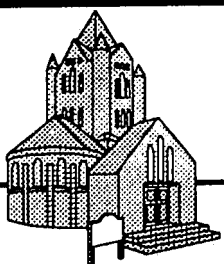

Like trials in life, in and out of the courtroom, "Rashomon" cleverly knows how to manipulate its audience into finding, losing and doubting truth.

The cast of "Rashomon" includes, left to right, Suzan Miller as a medium, Bill Hastie as a deputy and Bruce Bishop as a bandit.

As Kramer's character simply says, "It's all in the way you look at it," adding, Haiku-like, "... truth is a firefly — now you see it, now you don't."

"Rashomon" continues its run with performances March 17, 18, 23, 24 and 25 at the Depot Theatre on White Lake Road next to the railroad tracks, 1 1/4 miles southwest of Dixie Highway. A benefit performance for Lighthouse North is scheduled for March 16. For more information call 625-1826 or 625-2511.

Developer's cluster option gets OK

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In 1991 the proposed plan for a Hilltop Estates subdivision wasn't too pleasing to anyone involved.

That displeasure from citizens and Independence Township officials alike has resulted in a new plan that utilizes cluster housing on site, located west of Walters Lake on Michigamme Street. What this zoning change does is reduce the land space needed for the same number of lots, thereby preserving natural areas.

The township board of trustees granted tentative preliminary plat approval at the March 7 meeting to Hilltop Estates based on the new cluster housing option.

"Before, this development used all of the site it was on. Now the lots, because of the cluster option, can avoid going over all the areas and it keeps more of the land's natural topography," said planning consultant Richard Carlisle.

Carlisle said this option in the township's zoning ordinance will hopefully be utilized more often by developers. Board members agreed cluster housing is better all the way around.

"This is a shining example of using the cluster zoning and having less paved roads, more trees and more open space," said township clerk Joan McCrary. "I think in time cluster options will be brought to us more and more."

The township planning commission already gave its approval of the 42-lot plan during a public hearing.

Other township board action on March 7:

● Twelve property owners on Sunnyside Drive will be paying a total of $107.50 for the first year of a street lighting special assessment district.

After no objections were heard during a public hearing, the board unanimously passed the SAD.

The installation of the three street lights will cost a total of $750 for a one-time cost of $62.50 per household. Annual maintenance is estimated at about $43 per year for each homeowner. Detroit Edison will do the work.

● With some help from Clarkston Schools' Building and Trades Program, the three-home Goldfinch Woods subdivision received tentative board approval.

Final approval will allow the school building and trades program to build three homes on Goldfinch. Since 1981 the district has provided eight sites along Goldfinch for new home construction.

The residentially-zoned property will be served by individual wells, municipal sanitary sewers and enclosed storm sewers.

● A $3,250 soil investigation will be conducted on the land for the proposed fire station.

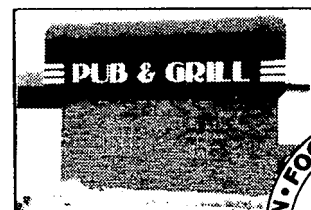

The township board accepted the lowest of two bids on the investigation. The site is located east of M-15 and north of Dixie Highway on the north side of Citation Drive, near the old district court.

The soil investigation will include laboratory tests on soil and 10 soil borings.

School board continues to restore programs

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

Like most governmental boards, the Clarkston board of education doesn't expect to be applauded for its work. But that's exactly what happened Monday night—twice.

The board unanimously approved proposals to put fine arts, more physical education and two health specialists into the elementary schools beginning in the fall. The proposals had been presented earlier, so the vote was a formality, but it brought smiles and strong applause from those in attendance.

"These are two of the best programs of their nature in Oakland County, probably in southeast Michigan," said assistant superintendent David Reschke after the vote.

The new programs will add one music and three art teachers to the K-5 staff and offer students one-half hour each of music and art each week. One physical education teacher and two health specialists will also be hired so gym can be increased from once to three times a week and health can be taught by specialists.

"I came on the board in 1988 and I immediately began hearing rumblings of this seemingly far-fetched notion of arts for elementaries," said board president Tom Howard. "It's very encouraging to be able to do this."

Those weren't the only programs added Monday night. The board also approved a new Student Assistance Program for the high school and the hiring of a coordinator for it. The SAP will focus on drug abuse issues.

Staffing levels were also approved for fall which will include the hiring of a new secondary instrumental music teacher. The move is required due to the number of students signing up for band, according to assistant superintendent Duane Lewis.

The board even began a discussion of the removal of pay to participate, which currently requires any student playing a sport to pay $80 to participate.

A report by Dan Fife and Paul Tungate of the athletic department revealed that gate receipts are about $20,000 over what was expected this year due to the success of many Clarkston teams. Some of that has been offset by increased costs of sending so many teams to the playoffs, Tungate said.

Fife said the department is receiving requests to add football and volleyball at the middle school, as well as freshman soccer and golf at the high school.

"As we go into a new league there's more and more competition," he said. "Requests come to us from coaches and parents... It's going to be more and more difficult to compete where we're at. Right now we compete near the top of the class and we want to stay there."

Superintendent Gary Haner said he would work with the athletic directors to bring a report to the board on possible changes in the athletic department.

Clarkston's reversal of fortunes can be credited to Proposal A and continued population growth. Under Proposal A, approved by the voters last year, each new child enrolled in the district means the schools receive more money. Housing construction and Clarkston's reputation as a nice place to live have brought a steady stream of new students to the district.

But it was clear the board, while happy to be adding programs after years of cutting, knows it has more work to do.

At Monday's meeting, the district's two National Merit Scholarship finalists, Timothy Szykula and Charles Graham, were introduced to the board by high-school principal Brent Cooley. The board's vice president, Bill Craig, asked the two students what more the board could do to help more students succeed.

"Keep hiring the teachers you've got; you've got good teachers right now," Szykula said. "Also offer more AP classes, such as art."

"More intensive and honors and accelerated programs," Graham said.

Student art on display at Wendy's

Corrections

● A headline on a letter to the editor was incorrectly worded last week. Instead of "Why no freshman volleyball," it should have read "Why no middle school volleyball."

Rosa Parks inspires contest winner

Marla Nini, a fourth-grader in Gloria Lacy's class at Springfield Plains Elementary School, heard the story of Rosa Parks, and was inspired by it.

"My teacher read this story to us about Rosa Parks," Marla said. "I heard she got on the bus and was told to move to the back so a white person could get on." The story moved her to create an artwork about Mrs. Parks, the civil rights leader now living in Detroit.

Marla is the winner of a contest sponsored by the Pontiac-Waterford-Clarkston branch of American Association of University Women in honor of Women's History Month. Children in fourth grade in the Clarkston, Pontiac and Waterford school districts were invited to create writing, art or music on the theme "Telling Her Story" about the contributions of a woman in Michigan history, past or present.

As the winner Marla received a $50 savings bond. She spent a week working on a diorama showing Mrs. Parks seated on a bus. She was so excited to win she returned from a trip up north to accept her prize, she said. She was honored at a reception at the Waterford Community Center March 8.

"I think Rosa Parks did what she felt was right and not what other people thought," Marla, 10, said. "I think that if I knew Rosa Parks we would be very good friends."

Police get help nabbing thieves

A Meijer spokesman was hesitant to release any details about the system, but said such an incident would have prompted phone calls between stores at the very least.

The victim, according to Feneley, is sore but recovering from his ordeal. The three robbers were arraigned Thursday in 52-2 District Court in the Independence Township charges. They were expected to be arraigned Tuesday in district courts in Rochester Hills and Waterford on several more charges.

All three are repeat offenders. Turner was on parole with the state Department of Corrections at the time of the robbery.

Brett Rebb is dejected after taking fourth in the consolation finals of the 215-pound class at the individual wrestling state finals held in Battle Creek March 10-11.

Five wrestlers place in finals

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Four Clarkston seniors weren't first at the Class A Individual Wrestling Finals, but they will always be #1 in coach Mike DeGain's eyes.

Although none of Clarkston's seven state qualifiers took home a championship at the finals held March 10-11 in Battle Creek, five placed in the top five, setting a Clarkston High School record.

The Wolves's four stellar senior finalists missed the state title they wanted so badly, but they sure came close. P.J. Vandermeer (160 pounds) finished second, Corey Grant (134) and Armin Michelsen (172) were third and Brett Rebb (215) was fourth.

Junior Joe DeGain (185) was the other CHS medalist, taking fifth place.

Coach DeGain said his four medal-winning seniors epitomized what a senior should be. While they all were leaders in their own way, the example they set this season will carry on to younger wrestlers for years to come.

"I want them (underclassmen) to carry the same type of togetherness they had and respect for one another. With this team if one person got beat no one got down on them because they always did their best for each other. Those seniors set that good example," the coach said.

From the supportive fans to supportive teammates, DeGain said everyone was just like a family in this season of records and championships. In finishing his third season as CHS coach, DeGain said he's proud to say the program is strong again and the athletes know what it takes to succeed as a team.

At the jam-packed (over 5,000 capacity) tournament held in Kellogg Arena, Vandermeer and Rebb

District title only warm up Hoopsters ready for Huskies again

DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Average score in Clarkston's two district basketball games last week was 80-47.

Routine stuff for the Wolves but winning a district title is never routine.

"The kids came so focused into the games and that was the key," said coach Dan Fife. "But we've never had a district finals where it was over in the first period."

Clarkston beat Romeo, 80-54, March 8 and then crushed Holly 81-40 in the championship game March 11.

All the way around Fife said his squad played with a great intensity on offense and defense. In both games the Wolves started out fast and never let up until the final buzzer sounded.

The next step for CHS is another showdown with Pontiac Northern March 15, 7 p.m. at Lapeer East High School. The winner of that opening regional game plays the winner of Walled Lake Central/Port Huron North in the regional final game March 17.

"The kids do have their eyes on the goal and right now they are pretty focused to get it," coach Fife said.

One of the keys in Clarkston's district wins was the shooting of junior guard Tim Wasilk. He started off against Holly with two big three-point shots against a zone defense. That set the tone for the rest of the game and also got everyone else on the team ready to take control.

"Tim's been in a shooting slump but he looks to be out of it now. When he started hitting those shots it raised his game but it also had a lot to do with bringing everyone else up too," the coach said.

Fife said he received the same strong performances from the entire team last week, including Jeremy Fife (13 and 11 assists in each game), Dane Fife for scoring, Pat Mulligan on defense and Ryan Schapman on offense.

"To be honest, though, everyone played well."

Fife said his team is ready for the Huskies once again. In two match-ups during the regular season, Northern won one game in overtime at Clarkston and the Wolves blew out the Huskies at Pontiac in the OAA

Senior Pat Mulligan works for two in the district finals against Holly March 11.

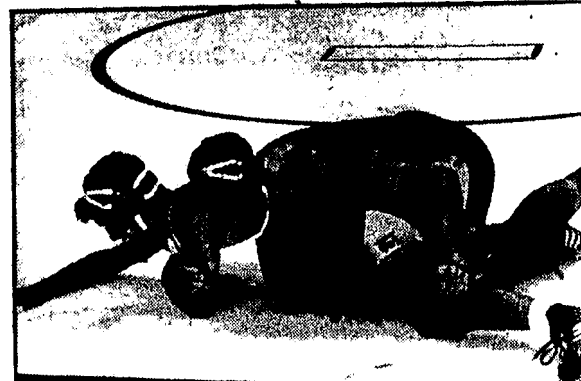

Division I title-clincher.

Fife said he expects this game to be another intense battle in the rivalry.

"As always it's nice to have it come down to this because we've done this for so long," said Fife, whose team was ousted from regionals last season by Northern.

Corey Grant finished third in the state, ending his high school career.

Final thoughts on wrestling finals

For two weekends, Kellogg Arena in Battle Creek hosted the best-kept secret in high school sports.

And the Clarkston Wolves wrestling team was a part of that. On March 3 and 4 the Wolves team finished as runners-up in Class A and on March 10-11 seven wrestlers competed in the individual finals, with five placing in the top five.

Both weekends were a success for Clarkston wrestlers and here are a few final thoughts on the two weekends Wolves wrestling fans will never forget.

● The fans during the individual finals were packed in Kellogg Arena's 5,000-seat stadium and their enthusiasm was a sight to see. During intermission just before the medal-deciding matches the crowd began a "wave." It had to be the best small-crowd wave ever as fans cheered, clapped and shouted as if they were at their first rock concert.

● Again, fans were impressive. It seems everyone in the stands knew entire histories of several wrestlers, and cheered or booed accordingly. Although the finals could have done without the booing, the standing ovation for East Kentwood's Joe Warren was neat.

In Warren's match against Flint Northern's Stephen Lymon, who is well-known for his hot-tempered ways, the crowd cheered for every point Warren earned. Some say the cheering was more for Warren, who owns the national record for most takedowns in a career, than against Lymon, but I beg to differ.

● But enough about other teams and fans. Clarkston's strong contingent of fans, parents, relatives, teammates and friends was as loud and numerous as any other school. Coach Mike DeGain said he has the best fans and followers in the state.

● The best individual finals match was at 142 with 3-time state champion Gyhandi Hill of Flint Northern vs Bay City Western's Mike Weyrowske, the only wrestler to beat Hill this season. It was an epic battle but Hill prevailed in overtime 7-5.

● Among Clarkston wrestlers, I think P.J. Vandermeer's 9-8 second-round win over Brighton's Larz Olson, who had lost only one match all season, was the most exciting. P.J. lost to Olson earlier this season 12-5 and was looking forward to the rematch. No doubt P.J. was nervous but he came out focused and ready. It was 3-2 after the first period, 6-6 after the second.

The third is when both wrestlers let it all out. Olson earned one point but with 1:11 seconds left P.J. got one point for an escape and a 7-7 tie. Both wrestlers then battled hard until, with 40 seconds to go, P.J. earned two points for a takedown. From there he held on for the win.

● I think everyone close to the program wanted senior co-captains Corey Grant and Armin Michelsen to get a title, not just because they had stellar careers, but because they are great kids. Their disappointed faces after losing will remain with many for a long time.

● Junior Joe DeGain took 5th but we all know he's hurting because he expects so much from himself. The best advice I can give is relax, grab a hunk of mellow and don't let it eat away at you. Come back next year — refreshed from a good football season — and enjoy yourself because you know you've trained as hard as you can.

● Speaking of DeGain, his father/coach Mike had to be the best-dressed coach at the team finals. He sported a suit for the final match while the other fashion-less coaches wore sweatsuits. Although coach joked it's probably the only time he "out-dressed" anybody, he opted for a more casual look at the individual finals, sporting a Clarkston wrestling sweatsuit.

● You just had to love Brett Rebb's run to 4th place. He was outweighed in almost every match by 40 pounds but his determination and the "cradle-robber" carried him further than anyone expected.

Tough, determined and a fierce competitor best describe this senior.

● Lake Orion's Mike Calcaterra, a junior, was the biggest surprise of the individual finals, winning the 185-pound class in decisive fashion.

Calcaterra, who is good friends and trains with our own Joe DeGain, was intense the entire tournament, earning the title in a wide-open field.

● Hopefully fans and participants realize the money and backing put into the finals by Kellogg's company of Battle Creek. The cereal makers are strong supporters of wrestling.

● Call me a bad sport, but I couldn't help but root against every Flint Northern wrestler (nine total) at the tournament. Hey, I apologize, I don't forget that easily.

● The worst feeling of the entire tournament was when a referee decided two champions on a lousy stalling point. In two separate weight classes, matches went into overtime, where a single point either way determines a champion. Both times the ref awarded a point after he "determined" the other guy was stalling.

In both cases it was not an obvious call and a state title should never be given away based on that. It's a disservice to the kids who worked their entire lives to get to that point.

Mogul ski racers

Two Clarkston High School seniors are among the elite in mogul ski racing.

P.J. Saddows and Ryan Krull both excelled in state and region mogul racing last month.

Saddows was first in the state in the 17-18 year old division, third in the Central Division region, which encompasses 11 states, and seventh among ages 12-24 in the Central Division.

Krull was 2nd in the state meet, seventh in the Central Division for ages 17-18 and 11th in the Central for ages 12-24.

The Central Division Championships were held at Rib Mountain in Wausau, Wisconsin. All divisional racers' scores were compiled from points racked up during season meets and the scores from the divisional. Each counts for half of the total. Saddows had a score of 91.83 and Krull had 85.89.

Both seniors belong to the Midwest Freestyle Association, which is part of the United States Ski Association.

FSU career ends

Senior forward-center Bill Knight of Clarkston turned in a productive season for the Ferris State University Bulldogs during the 1994-95 season. He averaged 6.2 points and 4.8 rebounds, both career-bests. A starter in 16 of 24 games played in, Knight connected on 48.7 percent from the floor, 40.0 percent from three-point range and 71.4 percent from the free-throw line. He totalled seven blocked shots and 18 steals. He reached double figures in scoring six times, including a career-high 22 points against Michigan-Dearborn in the semifinals of the Mercyhurst Tournament at Erie, PA. He gained team-high rebounding honors four times and game-best laurels twice. The Bulldogs had a 16-9 overall record this season, 13-5 in the league, and won the Great Lakes intercollegiate Athletic Conference regular season championship.

Sports shorts

● Two members of the Clarkston Wrestling Club placed at the state finals March 12 at Oxford High School.

In the 8 and under category, Tony Lajole (64 pounds) placed second. In the 9-10 age group, Chris Webb (85 pounds) placed third.

● Luke Fedio of Davisburg had a strong junior season playing basketball for Grand Valley State. Fedio, a guard from Clarkston High School, won a starting spot for the Lakers until the flu sidelined him late in the season. He scored 142 points and averaged 5.3 points per game and 2.8 rebounds. His team finished the season with a 12-14 record overall, 8-10 in the Great Lakes Conference.

Vandermeer high medalist with 2nd place

may have surprised most people with their performances, except, of course themselves.

Vandermeer, 50-5, lost in the finals to defending state champion Greg DeGrand of Saline 10-4, but in the second round had his most emotional match of the season and beat Brighton's Larz Olson 9-8. He had lost to Olsen early this season and was focused for the rematch.

"He proved a lot of people wrong this season and after the match I told him he wrestled fantastic," coach DeGain said.

Olson went on to take third.

Vandermeer pinned his first opponent and beat his semi-finals opponent 4-2.

Rebb (43-12 overall) weighed in for the tournament at 177 pounds, which could have been a problem considering he wrestles in the 215-pound class. But that weight disadvantage hasn't hurt him all season and in his first match Rebb used his trademark "cradle-robber" move and pinned Mt. Clemens Chippewa Valley's Chris Wilson, who was 42-2 and rated 5th in the state.

The "cradle-robber" is what Rebb does to an opponent who puts him in a cradle. He has a way of turning that hold around and positions himself for a pin. But after that first-round pin, word of Rebb's move spread and his opponents stayed clear of putting him in a cradle for the rest of the tournament.

Rebb then lost 11-3 to Scott Niles of Brighton, the eventual runner-up, before winning three more matches — two by pins — to advance to the consolation finals where he lost to Saginaw's Lonnie Hill, 7-5.

"He didn't wrestle any differently in the states than he did during the season," coach DeGain said. "He's always been in matches to the bitter end and probably has more pins on the team than anyone this season."

The real finals for Michelsen and Grant came in the semi-finals, where they both lost to the eventual state champions in their weight class.

Grant, 55-1, breezed to two straight wins on his way to the semi-final match-up against Brandon Chesher of Adrian. He gave the champion his toughest match of the tournament but still lost 9-4, not being able to overcome a 5-0 deficit early on.

After that loss, Grant moved into the consolation bracket and beat R.D. Dias of Brighton 5-3 and then defeated Mike Milunovich of Warren 5-1 for third place.

Michelsen, 56-3, suffered his third loss of the season, 4-1, to the same opponent; Hazel Park's Aaron Hilgendorf in the semi-finals. Michelsen easily won his first two matches with a 14-6 decision and a pin. After the semi-final loss he moved into the consolation bracket and breezed to two more decisions by a score of 9-5 and 8-4, for third place.

Coach DeGain said the 134 and 172 pound championships really took place in the semi-finals.

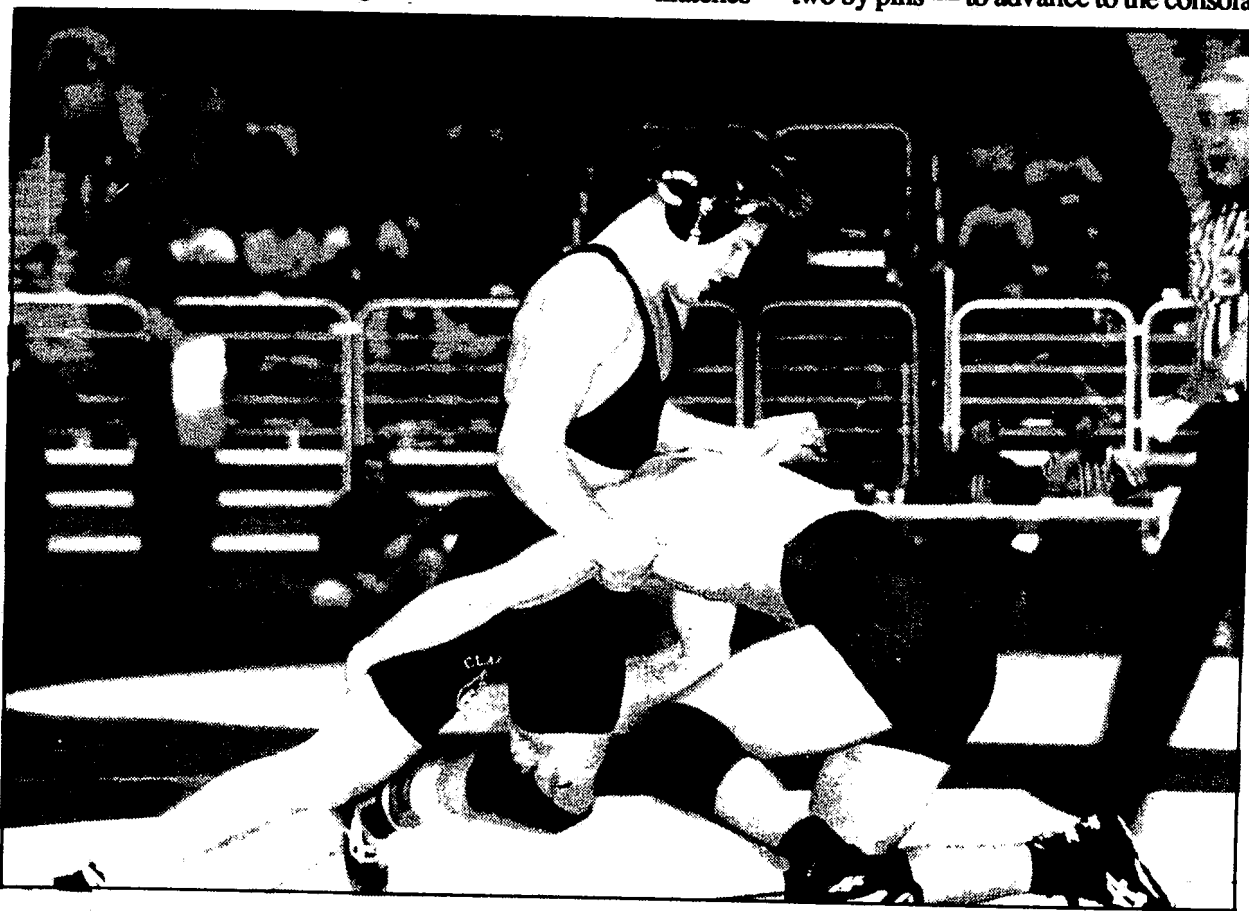

Clarkston's final medalist was Joe DeGain. Although coach/father Mike DeGain said his son wanted more than fifth place, he also has nothing to be ashamed of. "Joe did expect to do better but the fact is he's a two-time medalist (4th in 1994) and he's beaten the state champion (Lake Orion's Mike Calcaterra) before. He knows what he can do."

But like DeGain, the Wolves' other state qualifiers — sophomore Ryan Mick and junior Joe Roy — will have next year to improve their positions.

Mick lost 6-0 to 3rd-place finisher Graham Cisler of Lansing Sexton but came back in the consolation bracket and beat Aaron Kobernick of Berkley 6-0. Mick was forced out after a 9-2 loss to Jeremy Gonzalez of Traverse City.

Roy didn't fare quite so well as he lost 11-5 to Scott Goldman of Livonia Stevenson and 6-3 to Brian Kretschmer of Troy.

The team's banquet is tentatively scheduled for March 23.

Senior P.J. Vandermeer works on Port Huron Northern's Matt Ward, who he eventually pinned, in the first round of the state individual finals held March 10-11 in Battle Creek. Vandermeer eventually finished second in the 160-pound class.

Local ties lead Lakeland team

Five Clarkston school kids will help represent the Lakeland Dragons PeeWee B Hockey Team at the Michigan Amateur Hockey Assoc. State Championships March 10-12 in Houghton, Michigan.

The Dragons, comprised of players from several communities such as Commerce, West Bloomfield, Waterford and Walled Lake, entered district playoffs with a 27-3-5 record and then beat a Livonia team two games to one in the finals Feb. 9 at Grand Oaks Arena in Howell. The Dragons are the first PeeWee B team to go to the state championships from Lakeland Arena, located in Waterford, in 10 years.

The Dragons' District 4 championship trophy will be added to four other trophies the team has earned this season, including Battle Creek Cereal City Classic runners-up, Detroit Skating Club Christmas Tournament champions, Little Ceasars' Amateur Hockey League Northwest Division Two champions, and the Lakeland PeeWee B champions.

Although the freshman volleyball team did not have a very impressive record, the team still accomplished many impressive things, and they even set a few records.

They finished with their best serving percentage and ace percentage ever. Their ace match average was 47 percent, set by Georgia Senkyr and Brooke Wandschneider. Senkyr also had the best reception percentage ever, with 73 percent.

Amy Giroux led the Wolves for the most points with 61, and Amber Mitchell was second with 50. Giroux had the top serving percentage with 90 percent, and Susan Slaga followed with 84 percent. Giroux also led in attack percentage with 81 percent, and Abby Wiley was at 70 percent. In reception percentage Senkyr led with 73 percent, and Hope Manuel and Liz Harlton tied with 68 percent.

Overall, the team's record was 1-14-2. The team's total serving percentage was 78 percent. Their reception percentage was 58, spiking 70 percent.

"The whole team worked really hard and learned a lot," said coach Sue Koslosky.

Considering the huge difference in experience between Clarkston and its competition, the Wolves had an outstanding season. They have accomplished many things and have a lot to be proud of. Hopefully next year they will see more rewards for their hard work in the form of victories. (Special thanks to coach Sue Koslosky for her help throughout the season.)

Clarkston man teaching in Hawaii

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

Thousands of Michigan residents probably spent some time this winter dreaming of a sunny beach. But former resident Pat Rosenthal has made such a place his new home. He has a job teaching school on Maui.

Rosenthal, a 1989 Clarkston High School graduate, planned to get a degree in engineering, but after three years at the University of Michigan he changed his mind. He graduated in 1994 with a teaching degree in math and science.

After initially thinking about staying on for a master's degree, Rosenthal decided he needed a change of scene. He went to some job interviews and ended up getting hired to teach at the Lahaina Intermediate School.

"It was all done over the phone, interviews, everything," said his mother, Pat. "He just loves being outside so it's ideal for him."

Since moving to Hawaii the six-foot-five Rosenthal has tried hiking up a volcano, surfing, snorkeling, scuba diving and mountain biking. He even got lost once, walking for three hours alone on the jungly slope of 10,000-foot Mt. Haleakala.

Interestingly, Pat Rosenthal and her husband, Allan, went to the Philippines to teach years ago. This time, Ross was accompanied on his trip to Hawaii by his younger brother, Ryan (a senior at Clarkston High School). Together they found Ross an apartment and a car, then did some sightseeing before Ryan returned home and Ross began his career.

He is one of 10 new teachers hired from the mainland this year at his school and one of two from Michigan. The 10 strangers have become good friends, watching the sun go down at night, blowing on conch shells "to say good night to the sun," Pat Rosenthal said.

"Everything's a little more laid back. It's expensive to live there but he just loves it. He is so happy."

Basketball

While Clarkston's varsity basketball team was receiving all the attention with its outstanding season, another team in Clarkston was quietly making a name for itself. The JV basketball team finished the season with a record of 13-7.

Three months ago, the Wolves began their season with a game at home against Ann Arbor Huron and won 49-44. Then on Dec. 9, they won on the road against Flint Carmen-Ainsworth 72-51. Justin Morgan played excellent, scoring 22.

Then on Dec. 16, in their last game of 1994, they raised their record to 3-0 with a tough overtime win against Ferndale. Although they only managed 14 first-half points, they played a strong second half to pull out a 50-48 victory.

At Southfield Lathrup on Jan. 3, Clarkston played its most consistent game to date, and came up with a 61-49 win. However, on Friday of that week, they suffered their first loss, a double overtime thriller at Rochester Adams. Clarkston led by three in the first overtime but a bad call by the officials led to a second overtime and Adams prevailed, 47-42.

The Wolves got back on track the next week with two wins, 51-31 over West Bloomfield and 39-38 over Rochester. On Jan. 17, Clarkston was led by its most balanced scoring attack of the season as the team defeated Davison 62-31. On Jan. 20, they won again, this time over Troy, 43-36. Chad Bailey played his best game of the season, scoring 20 points.

On Jan. 24 the Wolves beat Berkley 57-33 but then lost a very tough game to Southfield later that week, 42-40. Then on the last day of the month, the Wolves played an excellent game against undefeated Pontiac Northern. However, Northern had too much fire power, and took over the game in the fourth to end up with a 55-46 win. Later that week, the Wolves came storming back. Rochester Adams led 25-19 midway through the third period, but then Clarkston went on a 20-0 run to end up with a 45-31 victory.

On Feb. 7, the Wolves played pretty well, but lost a tough game with Rochester, 64-53. Still, they rebounded that Friday with a 40-36 win against Troy. On Feb. 17, Flint Northern came to town. Clarkston played an outstanding game and it was tied at 44 at the end of regulation. But in overtime, Northern proved to be too much, prevailing 51-47.

On Feb. 21 Clarkston coasted to a 65-31 victory over Oak Park in the Wolves last home game of the season. But that Friday they dropped a tough game to Southfield, 64-57.

In their last week of the season, the Wolves went 1-1. On Tuesday, Clarkston played terribly, losing at Pontiac Northern 63-46. However, they closed out their season on a very positive note, a 50-43 win over Pontiac Central.

Morgan led the team in scoring, averaging 12.1 points a game. Bailey was second, averaging 10.6. Mike Maitrott was spectacular from the free-throw line, hitting 83.9 percent. Shane Butler and Bailey led the Wolves in rebounding, averaging 5.8 and 5.8 boards a game, respectively.

One interesting statistic: Clarkston went 4-6 against OAA Division I teams, but was 6-0 against those from Division II.

"I thought we played excellent defense all season long," said Coach Tim Kaul. "However, if we had shot the ball better, we could have probably won a few more games." The Wolves shot 35.5 percent from the field. "We should have been around 40 percent," Kaul said.

"The whole team played hard all year. I was pleased with their efforts, and they all have positive attitudes. Overall, I feel really good about the season."

The future of Clarkston basketball definitely looks bright, considering the fine season the JV had. The players should all be very proud of what they have accomplished. (Special thanks to Coach Tim Kaul for his help throughout the season.)

Local Irish band readies for St. Patrick's Day gig

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Maybe only one pair of Irish eyes are smiling when Modesty Forbids takes the stage, but the wearer, Michael Baker, says its members were drawn together by a mutual love.

"I'm about the only one who's Irish. Nobody else is. We all were brought together by the music," Baker said.

That happened in 1985 when the band first bonded as they sat around a kitchen table in someone's Pontiac home and began jamming. Soon, they decided to form a group and needed a name. As most folks know by now, someone suggested "... the Beatles, but, well, modesty forbids."

Today, a decade later, they needn't be so humble. Known as "north Oakland Count's premier Irish band," they have warmed up the stage for Ricky Skaggs at The Palace and Irish groups Patrick Street and Makem and Clancy.

Renowned Irish flutist James Galway has performed with one of member Glenn Schultz's hand-whittled pennywhistles.

And they just released their second recording, "Calliope," which has received airplay on Detroit's WDET and Lansing's WKAR radio stations. Both "Calliope" and "Golden Vanity," their first recording, are available at Harmony House and the Village Book Store in Clarkston.

Baker, who is "Dr. Baker," a practicing physician in Clarkston, says the group performs "more traditional Irish music as opposed to the Irish/American songs.

"We started off doing mostly instrumental music, but even the songs we do are more traditional songs," he said.

But Celtic strains are not the only kind flowing from the seven-member band. Besides instrumental pieces from famed Irish harp player O'Carolan, jigs and reels, its members immerse themselves in Cajun and American folk songs and will take on a few tunes a capella.

Of course on March 17 that changes when the band plays Irish pubs — and people expect to hear Irish songs.

Irish band readies for St. Patrick's Day gig

"Typically we don't play in bars. Most of our performances are concerts," Baker said, adding that Modesty Forbids recently played with the Oakland Youth Orchestra. "People want to hear 'Seven Old Ladies' and 'The Unicorn Song' — the corny songs we only do on St. Patrick's Day."

This year they're booked at Griff's Grill in Pontiac where they have performed for the past four years.

What's the place like on St. Patrick's Day?

"In our experience, it's been a pretty upbeat crowd," Baker said. "The place is just packed, wall-to-wall people. It's kind of got an old-time pub feel. Everybody's got goofy green things on — silly hats, ears and stuff."

Grapplers are 'state' of the art

Nine first-teamers qualified for meet

BY SPI SPORTS WRITERS

Take the individuals on the 1995 SPI Tri-District Wrestling Team to any dual meet in the state and you'd have a good shot at winning.

Nine of the 13 wrestlers who made the first team qualified for the individual state wrestling tournament. Mike Calcaterra of Lake Orion led a pack of five wrestlers who won medals. Calcaterra won the state at 185 pounds.

In addition to that, junior Joe DeGain of Clarkston was chosen for second-team honors at 185. DeGain finished fifth at the state meet.

"I'd put that lineup against anybody," said Oxford coach Paul McDevitt, the first-year coach who was an all-Mid American Conference wrestler at Eastern Michigan. "There's a lot of talent there, obviously. Any coach would love to have that."

Clarkston, which lost to Flint Northern in the team state meet, placed nine wrestlers on SPI's first team and four more on the second team.

Lake Orion had four first-teamers and five second-team selections. Oxford put four wrestlers on the second team.

100 pounds: Pat Martin, Lake Orion, freshman: An aggressive nature helped Martin excel in his first varsity season. He was a regional qualifier, but was unable to compete because he missed weight. Still,

Martin was a top-notch wrestler who usually started off Orion's matches on the right foot with a win.

"Pat is not timid, which really helps when you wrestle as a freshman," coach Doug Kline said. "He has a lot of talent, he's very quick, and he likes to work the cradle."

Accomplishments: 26-14, regional qualifier, OAA Division I champion, 2nd districts, 6th Troy Invitational.

GPA: 3.0

106 pounds: Brian Thomas, Lake Orion, sophomore: Qualifying for the state tournament in only his sophomore year tells you something about Thomas' makeup. He has a tremendous work ethic and overcame injuries during the season to post impressive numbers. He's one of the hardest-working athletes in the entire school.

"He's a very hard worker," coach Doug Kline said. "He's very strong and determined. He's got a pretty mean streak in him."

Accomplishments: 33-16, top 12 finish at state tournament, 3rd regionals, OAA Division I champion, 3rd Oakland County, 3rd Troy Invitational.

GPA: 2.9

112 pounds: Ryan Mick, Clarkston, sophomore: Mick was one important reason the Wolves were able to perform as a team as well as they did. This state qualifier, who was 34-12 as a freshman at 103 pounds, is a real competitor who always wrestled hard.

Accomplishments: 42-12, state qualifier, OAA Div. I champ, 2nd districts, 4th regionals, 1st South Lyon Invitational.

GPA: 2.3.

119 pounds: Jason Tiefenback, sophomore: Another young wrestler whose solid performance was important in Clarkston's team success. While he struggled to make weight at times, coach Mike DeGain said this sophomore always wrestled tough and, regardless of the competition, he never backed down.

Accomplishments: 24-15, 3rd OAA Div. I, 3rd districts.

GPA: 2.7.

126 pounds: Jesse Laycock, Clarkston, senior: Born with one hand, this senior was all heart on and off the mat. His greatest asset was his strength and a never-say-die attitude. He wrestled in one of the toughest weight classes in the state and, in regionals, his weight class included seven 1994 qualifiers and one returning state champion. But regardless of the competition, Laycock was a tough foe to bring down.

Accomplishments: 45-13 (over 100 career wins), Oakland County Champion and co-MVP of tourney, OAA Div. I champ, 2nd districts, 2nd Goodrich Inv., 1st Western Inv.

GPA: 2.5

134 pounds: Corey Grant, Clarkston, senior: All the way through to the state individual finals, the CHS co-captain dominated his weight class wherever he went. From tournaments to dual meets Grant never lost a match and, heading into the state finals, was Class A's only undefeated wrestler at 134 pounds. Grant, rated #3 in the state during the season by the Michigan Wrestling News, has the ability to out-quick opponents with moves or overpower them. A great leader who was 3rd in 1994 at 126 pounds.

Accomplishments: 55-1, 3rd in Class A, Oakland County Champion, OAA Div. I champ, 1st districts, 1st regionals, 1st Owosso Inv., 1st Goodrich Inv., 1st Detroit Catholic Central Inv., 1st Western Invitational.

GPA: 2.8

142 pounds: Joe Roy, Clarkston, junior: Got his chance to wrestle after county champion Chad Auten broke his hand. And he made the most of the opportunity as he qualified for the state tournament by taking third in regionals.

"He got his chance and then had a great season for us," said coach Mike DeGain. "It was looking bleak

Area cagers tough on 'D', but they can score, as well

BY SPI SPORTS STAFF

You could say the SPI Tri-District boys basketball team is defensive minded.

And looking at their season statistics that may be a logical conclusion. But don't underestimate this group of hoopsters. Although their individual offensive stats may not be overwhelming, their playmaking ability and athleticism shouldn't be overlooked.

The type of players on this Tri-District team have the ability to run, run and run. That usually means a lot of points scored, spread out amongst all five players.

All the first-team selections showed during the season they had the ability to get out on the break and score. But in addition this first team unit also has some solid defensive players.

In all, Clarkston landed the most players on the first and second team with five, followed by Lake Orion's three and Oxford's two players.

Jeremy Fife, Clarkston, Sr., point guard: No one player controlled a game like Jeremy. He dominated many games, although not with scoring. His incredible intensity, quickness, defensive pressure and ability to push the ball up the court allowed him to take over games by himself. The Wolves were as good as Jeremy was. His dad and coach, Dan Fife, says no point guard in the state had a better season.

Stats: 10.7 ppg; 11 assists; 6 steals. Grade point average: 3.8.

Brian Kibby, Lake Orion, Sr., guard: The heart and soul of the Orion team, Kibby, a three-year varsity performer, was the main reason behind Orion's success this season. A great passer with the ability to score off the dribble, Kibby was the one player opposing defenses couldn't stop. Back injuries caused him to miss seven games. The team was 12-2 with him in the lineup, 2-5 without him.

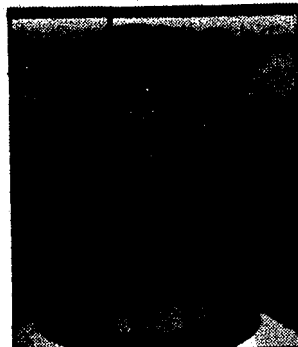

"He was a coach's luxury," coach Dave Collins said. "He's mentally tough, and most important of all, he's a quality kid. He showed tremendous leadership. To play with the pain he had, and do the things he did, is an accomplishment in itself. You don't replace a kid like that."

Stats: 14 ppg, 4.0 assists, 4.0 steals, 4.3 rebounds. GPA: 2.9

Dan Prevost, Lake Orion, Sr., center: In only his third year of basketball, Prevost developed into a fine big man with a soft shooting touch. He also was the team's top rebounder and had two games with over 15 rebounds. As for academics, Prevost improved his grades tremendously and was selected LOHS student of the month in January.

"Danny had a tremendous year for us," coach Dave Collins said. "He domi-

Athletic prowess strength of net team

Area spikers still young, could come back for more

BY SPI SPORTS STAFF

Take a look at the members of the SPI Tri-District volleyball team and you'll be overwhelmed at their athleticism.

Oxford's Julie Bongiovanni and Kristi Millard, Clarkston's Lisa Herron and Nickie Winn and Lake Orion's Katie Yamasaki and J.J. Hamilton are all-around talents who can play anywhere on the floor.

Winn, Millard and Herron are juniors and will be heard from again in the 1995-96 season. As for Bongiovanni, Yamasaki and Hamilton, they are seniors who stood out from the crowd in their final prep season.

Katie Yamasaki, Lake Orion, senior: The Orion offense was centered around Yamasaki, and she was equal to the challenge. While not a leaper, Yamasaki used her instincts to make the right plays and set the right people.

"I never had to worry about Katie," coach Natalie Koan said. "She's so dependable. She was always there. With her smarts, she always made the right decisions. It's going to be hard to fill her position."

Stats: Serving percentage 98%, 286 points scored, 807 assists, 57 aces, 44 kills.

GPA: 3.6

J.J. Hamilton, Lake Orion, senior: Opposing teams had a lot to fear in the middle of the Orion lineup, as Hamilton was a ferocious attacker on offense. The majority of Orion's side-outs and points came off kills from the middle position, and Hamilton was the main ## Sportsmanship.

Playing a game fairly, always remembering to be a gracious winner or good loser. Sportsmanship is key to any type of competition. Because no matter how important winning may seem, it's nothing if you don't achieve it fairly. Sports offer an opportunity for individuals and teams to excel.

NBD extends its congratulations to those who have proven themselves the best and to all those who try.

The right bank can make a difference.

reason why. The combination of Katie Yamasaki and Hamilton led Orion to a regional finals appearance.

"J.J. did everything I asked of her," coach Natalie Koan said. "She didn't want to settle for being a good player. She worked hard to improve in every part of the game, and made very few errors during the season."

Stats: 284 kills, 62 blocks, .318 kill per error percentage, serving percentage 87%, 32 aces, 108 points scored.

GPA: 3.7

Kristi Millard, Oxford, junior: Though she is just a junior, Millard was counted on to play all over the floor, an ability she adjusted to quickly.

Millard is an all-around athlete who can play both front and back row. She's one of the few Wildcats who stayed on the floor the entire game.

"We have a very young team," Campbell said. "If some of these younger players improve as much as Kristi did from her sophomore year to her junior year, we'll be a good team."

GPA: 3.5

Julie Bongiovanni, Oxford, senior: One of just three seniors for the Wildcats, the veteran Bongiovanni was counted on to provide leadership to a young team defending a district championship.

She did just that, providing coach Lori Campbell with excellent front-row play.

"Julie had an excellent year," Campbell said. "We were a young team and we needed her to lead us by example, and she did just that."

Bongiovanni wasn't counted on for much play from the back row, but provided it when it was necessary.

GPA: 3.8

Lisa Herron, Clarkston, junior: The Wolves hardest spiker was also the most consistent. The junior, who was selected co-team MVP and was an all-region 15 choice, led the team in kills from her outside position on the left and right side but could also play other spots on the court. She also excelled as a server, was smart and always worked hard, according to her coach, Gordie Richardson.

Stats: In 98 games — 1st with 181 kills (1.8 per game); 4th with .4 blocks per game; 2nd in serve percent at 93.2 and 52 aces (.5 per game); 2nd-leading setter; 1st with 54 defensive digs (1.5 per game); led the team in serve receiving.

GPA: 4.0

Nickie Winn, Clarkston, junior: This exceptional athlete could do it all for the Wolves and often did just that. While setting a Clarkston record for most perfect sets in a season, she was also equally adept at other facets of the game as well.

"She was a second-year setter for us but she can also attack and block just as well, and has a good understanding of the game," said coach Richardson.

Winn was also an all-region 15 choice and co-MVP for the Wolves.

Stats: In 97 games — 1st in kill efficiency with .345; 4th with 110 kills (1.1 per game); 1st with 72 dinks (.7 per game); 4th with .4 blocks per game; Tied for 1st with .5 aces per game; 1st and a school record with 1,167 sets in a season (5.0 per game); 1.1 digs per game.

GPA: 3.8

The Process

The Sherman Publications, Inc. Tri-District wrestling, basketball and volleyball teams include athletes from Clarkston, Lake Orion and Oxford schools.

Tri-District team selections, which began this school year with fall sports (football and girls basketball), will be picked for all sports after each season, provided all three schools offer the sport.

After the spring sports season more Tri-District teams will be picked.

The three school districts are covered separately by The Clarkston News, Lake Orion Review and Oxford Leader. All three newspapers are owned by Sherman Publications.

Criteria for player selection to the Tri-District teams include on-field performance, grade-point-average, coaches' recommendations and other intangibles.

Information and stories were compiled by Darrel W. Cole, Clarkston News staff writer, Brad Kadrich, Oxford Leader editor, and Dan McCarville, Lake Orion Review staff writer.

A year of ups, downs for area teams

Here's how the various teams at Clarkston, Lake Orion and Oxford High Schools fared this year:

Clarkston Basketball

The Clarkston boys basketball team once again proved they are one of the state's best programs, compiling an 18-2 record and the Oakland Activities Association Division I title with a 9-1 record. The Wolves also won the district title.

Coach Dan Fife's (234-60 in 13 seasons) squad lost to arch-rival Pontiac Northern in overtime and to Flint Northern, Class A's #1 ranked team, by four points.

Clarkston Wrestling

The Clarkston wrestling team finished the season as Class A runners-up to Flint Northern and ended with a 24-2 record.

The team won Oakland Activities Association Division I, district and regional titles and qualified seven wrestlers (the most in school history) to the Class A individual state meet. In addition, the Wolves had five individual Oakland County champions, five district champs and three regional champs.

Coach Mike DeGain has compiled a 57-9 overall record in his three years at CHS.

The Wolves last won a state title in 1991.

Clarkston Volleyball

The Clarkston volleyball team finished its season at 18-19-8 overall in the tough Oakland Activities Association Division I.

The squad, coached by Gordie Richardson, finished third in the division, had a 12-11-1 tournament record and lost in the first round of districts. The Wolves had four players on the All-Region 15 squad.

Lake Orion Volleyball

First-year coach Natalie Koan took the Dragons to an unfamiliar place during the 1994-95 season: the regional finals.

Clarkston's PJ Vandermeer (right) finished second at the state Class A individual wrestling meet. Vandermeer, sporting the SPI Tri-District Team T-shirt he earned in football, took the podium next to state champion Greg DeGrand of Saline.

Orion finished with a mark of 35-11-3 before losing to Birmingham Marian in the regional finals. It was Orion's best season since 1988, when the team made it to the Class A semifinals.

Another highlight was winning the OAA Division II title, as well as a first place finish in the Royal Oak Shrine Invitational.

Katie Yamasaki, J.J. Hamilton and Diane Schimmel were voted to the OAA Division II first team, while Angela Sights, Hillary Moon, and Becky

Frye received honorable mentions.

Lake Orion Basketball

What began as an incredible run ended in disappointment for the Lake Orion basketball team. The Dragons opened the season with 10 straight wins, only to go 4-7 the rest of the way and drop its district opener against Holly.

The loss of senior Brian Kibby for seven games due to a back injury hurt the Dragons, as they went 2-5 in his absence. Yet several players got a chance to play while Kibby was out, and they gave coach Dave Collins a glimpse of what lies ahead for next year.

One thing that cannot be overlooked is that this year's squad put Orion back on the map as far as basketball programs. Area schools now know they're going to have to earn a win whenever they face off against Orion.

And with an abundance of underclassmen who saw substantial action this year, it looks like good things are in store for the 1995-96 team.

Lake Orion Wrestling

Wrestling in the top division of the OAA wasn't a problem for Lake Orion, as it rolled to a record of 19-5, 3-2 in the division.

Orion also produced an individual state champion for the first time in school history, 185-pound junior Mike Calcaterra. So coach Doug Kline's fears before the season started about Orion possibly being overmatched were unfounded.

In addition to Calcaterra, Orion also had two other wrestlers, Brian Thomas (106) and Dan Geppert (heavyweight) qualify for the state tournament. Jim Morris (172) and Pat Martin (100) were regional qualifiers.

Oxford Wrestling

For first year coach Paul McDevitt, it was a learning experience managing the fortunes of the Wildcat wrestling program.

McDevitt, an all-Mid American Conference wrestler at Eastern Michigan, took over the reins from longtime coach Bud Rowley before the season began. He guided the young Wildcats to four wins, and some impressive efforts in tournaments.

"It was definitely a year of growing pains," said McDevitt. "But the guys really stuck with it and they learned a lot this year. We're still young, so that experience will really come into play next year."

Ryan Curtis and Rob Misenar each qualified for regionals. Captains Jeremy Gibson and Alan Brani had solid senior seasons, and Aaron Curtis, Quinn Minard, Misenar and Adam Marsh make up a tough nucleus coming back.

Oxford Basketball

First-year coach Clark Plichta expected some bumps and bruises in taking over the helm of the Wildcat basketball program, and he got exactly that.

The Wildcats got off to a slow start, played well through the middle of their schedule, and finished the season 3-18, losing to Imlay City in the first round of the district tournament.

Hurt early by injuries to Jeff Wood and Erik Gehman, the Wildcats found a center, 6-foot-8 Brian Ghiaciuc, who played as well as anyone the last four weeks of the season.

But it is youth that will serve the Wildcats. Sophomores Matt Green (coming back from knee surgery), Lowell Boyle and Jeff Cardona give Oxford a talented group of players to start 1995 with.

Oxford Volleyball

Coach Lori Campbell knew it would be a tough season playing in the rugged Flint Metro League. And she was right.

But the Wildcats didn't let it affect their tournament play as they struggled to defend the district championship they won the year before.

Julie Bongiovanni and Kristi Millard were Oxford's top players, but a supporting cast that included youngsters Amy Heath, Kristen Lubelan, Katie Beam, Sarah Courtright and Alivia Body bodes well for the Wildcats' volleyball future.

Lake Orion's JJ Hamilton made the first team in the SPI Tri-District Volleyball selections.

nated games inside, especially rebounding. To accomplish what he has in only three years of playing is a feather in his cap. He's a real quality kid. I'm very proud of him."

Stats: 16 ppg, 10.8 rebounds

GPA: 2.6

Brad Agar, Clarkston, Sr., forward: There's something to be said for defense. While Jeremy Fife was the team's offensive spark, it was Agar's defensive prowess that allowed his team to compete against taller and stronger teams. In most games the Wolves were outsized and Agar had the most difficult job of matching up against the opponent's best big man. In every such match-up Agar used his tremendously quick feet and great positioning to neutralize his man. While the Wolves relied on pressure defense from every player, Agar's ability to play post defense was the key.

Stats: 7.5 points; 7 rebounds.

GPA: 3.1.

Dane Fife, Clarkston, Fr., forward: Despite his age, Dane is the leading scorer and rebounder on the state's seventh-ranked team. On the court Dane doesn't play like a freshman. Whether it be his silky smooth jumper, quick drives to the hoop or sweet passes to a teammate, Dane can flat out play with anybody.

Stats: 17 points; leading rebounder, 7.5.

GPA: 3.6.

about his "A" team activity until Chad got hurt, but he didn't give up and always worked hard."

When Auten came back after about a month out, Roy and him squared off in the district finals, where Auten won. But Roy qualified for the state meet at regionals while his counterpart didn't.

Accomplishments: 26-10, state qualifier, 2nd districts, 3rd regionals.

GPA: 2.5

151 pounds: Jeremy Lafferty, Clarkston, junior: This lanky wrestler's strength and quickness were deceiving to opponents. At times, Lafferty dominated his opponents with a combination of athleticism and determination. When he was at the top of his form, as he was late in the season, he could compete with anyone.

Accomplishments: 38-15, 3rd OAA Div. I, 1st districts.

GPA: 2.5

160 pounds: P.J. Vandermeer, Clarkston, senior: Most times this confident wrestler, who was 2nd in the Class A state meet, struck a twinge of fear in opponents. When Vandermeer knew his opponent was in doubt or when his competition was sub-par, he destroyed them. The senior, who was 25-5 as a junior, has an amazing combination of skills and strength. His coach, Mike DeGain said he has never been more focused than this season.

Accomplishments: 52-5, 3rd in Class A, Oakland County Champion, 1st OAA Div. I, 1st districts, 1st regionals, 1st Owosso Inv., 1st Western Inv., 1st Goodrich Inv.

GPA: 1.81

172 pounds: Armin Michelsen, Clarkston, senior: A co-captain for the Wolves, Michelsen was another of his team's dominating forces and had the record to prove it. He not only led his team with determined performances on the mat but was also a solid example off it. He was able to use his strength and solid moves to win most matches, always going for the pins. Michelsen is rated #4 in the state at his weight class and his only three losses came at the hands of Aaron Hilgendorf of Hazel Park, Class A's #1 rated wrestler, whom he also lost to in the state semi-finals.

Accomplishments: 57-3 (over 100 career wins), 3rd Class A, Oakland County Champion, 2nd OAA Div. I, 1st districts, 1st regionals, 1st Owosso Inv., 1st South Lyon Inv., 1st Detroit Catholic Central Inv., 1st Goodrich Inv.

GPA: 2.8

215 pounds: Brett Rebb, Clarkston, senior: Although always out-weighted in the 215-pound class by 30-40 pounds, Rebb was never out of a match. In fact he was normally favored to win and took 4th in the Class A tournament. In most cases Rebb was always in better shape and used his quick, yet powerful moves to gain an advantage in the final period, while his opponent tired.

"His heart made up for the 40 pounds he gave up every match," said coach Mike DeGain.

Accomplishments: 39-13, 4th in Class A, OAA Div. I champ, 2nd districts, 4th regionals, 1st Owosso Inv., 2nd Detroit Catholic Central Inv. (at 185).

GPA: 2.5

185 pounds: Mike Calcaterra, Lake Orion, junior: Calcaterra climbed to the top of the mountain this season, winning the state championship at the 185 pound level. He took something away from his eight losses on the season, as he beat seven of them in rematches. Another tireless worker, Calcaterra got on a roll toward the end of the season and never stopped.

"If you would have told me before the season started that Mike would be the state champion, I'd have thought you were crazy," coach Doug Kline said. "But he worked very hard over the course of the year. He did anything and everything possible to get in that position. He deserves all the credit."

GPA: 2.9

Accomplishments: 41-8, state champion, regional champion, 3rd OAA Division I, 3rd Oakland County, 1st Troy Invitational, 1st Goodrich Invitational, 1st Novi Invitational, 2nd Romulus Invitational.

275: Dan Geppert, Lake Orion, junior: Not even an injured right shoulder could keep Geppert from having an outstanding season. Geppert could only use his left arm all year long, but relied on smarts and strategy to defeat his opponents. A state qualifier, Geppert had the fortitude to capitalize on his opponents' mistakes.

"No one has a bigger heart, and no one has a bigger appetite for competition than Dan Geppert," coach Doug Kline said. "To qualify for the state with only one arm is as impressive a feat as Calcaterra winning the state. He was easy to coach against, because he could only use his left arm. Dan knows he's capable of taking home hardware at the state level."

GPA: 2.6

Accomplishments: 38-9, state qualifier, 3rd regionals, 3rd Oakland County, 1st Novi Invitational, 2nd Goodrich Invitational, 3rd Troy Invitational.
