2 charged in explosives case

Two Clarkston teens were arraigned and warrants were issued for three more Monday in relation to homemade explosive devices found in several locations around Independence Township last week.

Jason Buckmann, 18 was charged Monday in 52-2 District Court with one count of conspiracy to manufacture an explosive device and three counts of possession of a pipe bomb.

Brian Trollman, 18, was charged with one count each of conspiracy and possession. Warrants were issued for Eric Endreszl, 17, Jessie Laycock, 17 and Armin Michelsen, 17. All five attend Clarkston High School. Endreszl, Laycock and Michelsen are thought to have left the state for spring break, according to Det. Chuck Young of the Oakland County Sheriff's Independence sub-station.

Buckmann was released by Judge Gerald McNally on $1,000 personal bond. Trollman was released on $1,000 bond (cash 10 percent). Preliminary exams for the two are scheduled for May 12 at 1 p.m.

The charges are all felonies punishable by up to four years in prison.

Township bond rating lowered

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Despite protests, Independence Township's bond rating has been downgraded because of questionable investments.

According to a March 28 letter from Standard & Poor, a municipal bond rating company based in New York, the township's ratings were downgraded from A to A- for limited tax general obligation bonds and from A+ to A for unlimited tax general obligation bonds.

Township clerk Joan McCrary and supervisor Dale Stuart said they don't agree with the downgrade but there isn't much that can be done to change it, except prove to Standard & Poor the township has secure finances.

McCrary said she tried to prove that the township had "strong cash prospects to 1998, showing that we could pay all our bills regardless of what happened."

"They did come up with some reasons but we believe they came up with them on an inaccurate

Parking just got worse

Court decision eliminates spots on Depot

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

As if downtown parking wasn't already bad enough, almost a dozen spots on Depot will be eliminated in the wake of a court decision.

After a closed session following Monday's meeting, council was informed by city attorney Tom Ryan that a lawsuit involving a slip-and-fall on Depot several months ago had been settled.

A Circuit Court mediator awarded cash to the female pedestrian who was injured as the result of a fall in front of Max Broock Realtors when she was an employee there.

As a result a motion was passed 6-0 by council to get rid of all the parking on the hill on Depot.

Several months ago council passed a motion to strike the first two parking spaces on Depot because they were in violation of state vehicle code. Clarkston's Department of Public Works placed traffic cones in those spaces until they could remark them in the spring, but someone removed them, DPW Supervisor Bob Pursley said.

Mayor Sharron Catallo said Tuesday morning that she wanted to talk to businesses affected by the action, including Max Broock and Dunlap Realtors, located on Main and Depot's east and west corners.

Top readers

The top reader in each class was honored Thursday at Bailey Lake Elementary School. Students were challenged to read (collectively) at least 4,500 hours and when the numbers were all tallied they had read 6,177 hours. Parents helped keep track of the progress and principal Chris Turner gave the top readers certificates last week. Pictured they are (front

The news in brief

B & B will go to state court

After a closed session Monday night, Clarkston's city council voted 5-1 to take the bed and breakfast issue to the Michigan Court of Appeals. Councilman Steve Secatch was the opposing vote with councilman James Schultz absent.

Buck and Joan Kopietz, who own the N. Main building proposed for the inn, have spent over $25,000 so far in attorney fees. The city has spent $10,000.

Buck Kopietz feels confident about winning. "It's only a matter of time before we get the B & B," he said Tuesday.

Marshmallow drop rescheduled

The marshmallow drop scheduled for last Saturday has been rescheduled due to the inclement weather.

Independence Township Parks and Recreation will hold the event next Saturday, April 15, at 11 a.m. at Clintonwood Park. For more information call 625-8223.

Weather claims cars

Three one-car accidents were reported in Independence Township Sunday which are blamed on unspringlike weather.

A Pontiac woman was taken to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital after she lost control of her car on Maybee Rd. near Clintonville and ended up in a swamp. Two other drivers were more fortunate, escaping injury when their cars skidded off wet roads, one on Sashabaw, one on White Lake Rd., and hit trees.

Township clean-up dates announced

The Independence Township Annual Spring Clean-Up Days will be held May 13 and 20.

Township residents may bring their trash to the Department of Public Works building for disposal from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. on those days. The DPW building is located at 6050 Flemings Lake Road.

Proof of residency will be required before dumping will be allowed.

Residents will be charged a fee for the dumping because of the tremendous cost of disposal, according to DPW director George Anderson.

Costs per loaded vehicle is as follows:

Automobiles — $5 per load.

Autos w/ single axle trailer — $10 per load.

Pickup truck or van — $10.

Pickup truck w/ single axle trailer — $25.

Flatbed single axle truck — $25.

Dual axle trailer — $25.

Five-yard dump truck — $25.

Tires (limit of 10) — $1 for car and truck tires/ $5 for large truck or tractor tires.

Refrigerators and air conditioners will be allowed at an extra charge and no commercial vehicles will be allowed to dump.

The following material cannot be dumped: Fuel oil drums, barrels, propane cylinders, storage tanks, automobiles or vehicles of any kind, chemicals of any kind, and railroad ties with tar sealers.

Tickets for dumping may be obtained at the township treasurer's office, located at the township hall, 90 N. Main Street. Tickets will also be on sale at the dump site the days of the clean-up.

Call the DPW office at 625-8222 for more information.

The history of the township investment case

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Recent media reports on Independence Township's investment problems have caused quite a stir among some citizens and public officials.

The scrutiny has been so strong that township supervisor Dale Stuart was forced to hold a press conference in Detroit to address the concerns and set the record straight.

In all, The Clarkston News has written about 15 articles on the controversial investments since the news broke last July. The topics covered include analysis on what the investments are, what experts think, state laws regarding what townships can invest in, the township's lawsuit against brokerage companies, special attorney costs for the investment investigation and the development of a new investment policy.

Here is a chronological list of events:

- In August, 1994 the township announced several investments had decreased in value. At the time, the township said just over $600,000 in collateralized mortgage obligations had lost almost $500,000 in value.

The Michigan Township Association confirmed that such investments are illegal. At that time the township really did not know what the scope of the investment problems would be.

The township first learned of the investment problems from its auditors, Plante & Moran, in May 1994.

- Soon after, in mid-August, the township board of trustees approved the hiring of expert attorney Roger Timm of Dykema, Gossett to investigate and study the investment debacle. Timm predicted the work would take between 10 and 20 hours to complete. He charges $220 per hour and the board placed a ceiling of $5,000 on the amount to be paid to the firm.

- In October, Richard Baldermann the state's administrator of the Local Government Audit Division, said the township's investment into CMOs is illegal and must be withdrawn. Township treasurer John Lutz and township auditors say the state law is out of date and doesn't keep up with current investment changes.

The prestigious Detroit accounting firm Coopers & Lybrand agrees that state laws are unclear and vague.

- In late November, the township filed a 13-page $3.5 million arbitration claim against Westcap Securities and salesman Craig Leibold and Jeffrey Oetting.

The claim says treasurer Lutz was lied to by the salesman concerning four separate derivative investments that were purchased between September 1993 and March 1994 at about $5.9 million. As of May, 1994 those investments were valued at only $2.25 million.

Township officials strongly reiterate the township is in no financial danger, taxes will not be raised and services will not be cut.

Leibold and Oetting were fired from Westcap in March.

- In early December the Municipal Treasurer's Association confirms that derivative investments have caused trouble for other public bodies throughout the nation, including Orange County in California.

The township's specific derivatives were betting on interest rates not rising. When rates did rise the Township responds to flurry of coverage

Supervisor Dale Stuart said recent media coverage about the township's investment debacle has caused a stir in township offices.

"The recent coverage compelled us to respond," he said. "People are so concerned because some of the things said are so wrong. We could never lose $6 million. When the news prints inaccuracies it can do real harm to us."

"We are not in trouble of losing our financial base. We are not in jeopardy."

Stuart said two articles in The Detroit News and follow-up TV coverage were inaccurate and caused many people concerns.

The Clarkston News, which has been covering the investment debacle from the beginning, has previously reported the township is not in danger of going bankrupt or defaulting on bonds. The original value of the questionable investments was $5.9 million. Now those investments are worth about $2.25 million but that loss won't be felt unless the township decides to cash the investments in, which it would only do over a period of time, negating a major loss.

Stuart held a March 28 press conference in Detroit to clarify the township's position, and again briefly addressed the issue at the township board's April 4 meeting.

Because he said The Detroit News "misstated the facts" there has been much confusion among residents of the township. The following is a list of facts Stuart wants everyone to know:

- There is no danger whatsoever that the township will not be able to meet all of its existing and anticipated expenses, including all of its bond payment obligations.

- There is no possibility that the township will declare bankruptcy, "as some news reports have erroneously stated."

- There will be no need for any tax increase due to investment losses; nor will the investment losses cause any reduction in the services that the township has been providing.

- The township's investments currently have a market value of over $11 million, even considering the losses on the six investments that are in question.

- The township has no knowledge of any criminal investigation or of any other action by any part of the state government, as some news reports have stated. The only action by the state treasury has been the notification that the six investments are illegal.

Stuart said the township has not been "hurt" by the new reports, but said that could happen.

"I don't think it has hurt the township yet, but it certainly has the potential to," he said.

township's investments decreased in value.

In fact, township financial experts said there is no need to invest in such risky securities, and the two salesmen named in the claim should have known that.

Lutz said the investments were not in the best interests of the township but overall township investments are in the positives.

- In mid-December, the township board agreed to take more precautions in the contract agreement with auditors Plante & Moran because of the recent investment problems.

The yearly contract will now include a "cancellation clause" that would allow the township to change auditors if it wants.

Michigan Department of Treasury officials have said the auditors should have picked up on the fact the township invested in risky and questionable investments sooner than May, 1994. Plante & Moran, the township's auditors for eight years, said they followed all state accounting and auditing regulations.

- In late December, specially-hired attorney Ken Carroll — who costs $125 per hour — discussed the process of recommending a detailed investment policy for the township.

The policy which would include an investment manager and strict guidelines came under some board scrutiny regarding the role Lutz would play in it.

Some trustees said a new policy must be careful not to infringe on the powers of Lutz, who was elected by the people. Roger Timm, the other expert attorney hired by the township, said the board has the power to set up such a policy and it is not a violation of state law.

He said Lutz will have the same powers he did before and will still be in control of the investments.

- In late December, the township filed another claim against brokers Leibold and Oetting who misled them with bad investment advice.

This second round of the township's investment investigation ended with the claim being filed against the two and brokerage company PaineWebber.

The claim asks for $650,000 based on two derivative investments, based in CMOs, made in 1990 while Leibold and Oetting were at PaineWebber. The original $618,000 investment was valued at $62,000 as of April 1994.

Leibold and Oetting left PaineWebber in 1992 and were hired by Westcap Securities.

- In early January 1995, the board expressed some concerns over Timm's charges to the township for his investigation in the investment debacle.

His over 40 hours of special services cost about $10,000 since his hiring in August, twice the estimate he originally gave. Clerk Joan McCrary voted against the payment to Timm because it exceeded approved costs.

Supervisor Stuart said Timm actually reduced his bill by $3,000.

- In late January state treasury officials sent a letter to the township stating they must present a plan to divest themselves of the "illegal" investments.

They said a plan must be presented to the state showing how the township will divest of the investments or it could be difficult for the township to receive state approval for future bonded projects.

- In mid-March, the township board adopted a new investment policy, and a plan to divest the township of the "illegal" derivatives securities, now valued at $2.25 million.

The divestiture plan would sell off about 20 percent of the securities — now valued at about $2.25 million — each year for five years. That percent could increase or decrease depending on market conditions.

That plan was sent to the state treasurer's office.

The new investment policy describes the types of investment securities that can be made by the treasurer. Under this policy an investment manager oversees the process and the township board must approve anything that deviates from the policy.

Township protests lowered rating

basis," said Stuart. "We have a firm tax base that is expanding and we are in no danger."

Jeffrey Panger, a director at Standard & Poor, said the risky derivative investments have forced a "negative outlook" for the township's bond ratings, rather than the previous "stable outlook."

The main reason for the downgrade is because the township is still in possession of derivative investments, Panger said.

The township invested in $5.9 million in risky derivatives, which are now worth $2.25 million. He said he realizes the township would not want to sell the investments because then a real loss would occur. On the other hand, he said, continuing to hold the investments puts the township at more of a risk than normal.

"Part of it is they are captive to interest rates," said Panger, in reference to the derivatives, which fell in value because of rising interest rates. "Additional increases in interest rates could lead to additional unrealized losses, while continuation of current interest rates necessitates the holding of investments that yield little or prolong the currently weak liquidity levels. The outlook means that given past trends, and if the that continues, there is potential for further downgrade."

Panger said the downgrade doesn't mean the township is in trouble. He "wants it made clear" the township's bond rating is still about average.

"We are not saying 'A' and 'A-' is bad, we believe that is average. We are not saying the township's bonds are in default."

Municipal bond ratings range from DDD- to AAA+. The A and A- puts the township almost in the middle, he said.

The township's new investment policy has more restrictive investment guidelines, but Panger said it falls short because it still allows limited investments in certain risky or speculative derivatives.

"Derivatives, if used properly, are legitimate, but other types are susceptible and opens up the possibility of loss," Panger said.

The policy does prohibit investments in the risky derivatives, which are based only on market interest rates. But the policy also says, "Where in the best interest of the township, investment managers may deviate from these policy provisions with prior written approval from the township board."

That option is a problem, Panger said. "On one hand they are saying they can't invest in them, but on the other hand, with board approval, they can."

Panger said normally municipal bond ratings are reviewed every three years but the township's rating will be reviewed in one year. "If something material comes to light we would look at it, but I don't know if it's a matter of what the township can do."

"It might help if interest rates improved and they sold the investments without a loss."

While the reduced rating won't have any effects on current township bonds such as the library bond, special assessment districts, etc., McCrary said it would increase interest rates for future bonds, such as financing for the new fire station.

"We wished we could have stayed at A+ but we were also relieved our rating didn't go any lower," she said. "Most communities would love to have this rating."

Procrastinators can get more time to file

Need more time to file your federal income tax return? Request an extension, the IRS says.

By filing Form 4868, Application for Extension of Time to File, taxpayers can have until August 15 to complete tax returns.

"Taxpayers must estimate their total tax liability when requesting an extension, and, if possible, pay it with the Form 4868," said Arlene Kay, IRS district director. "If they are unable to pay the full amount, they can still get the extension."

Interest will be charged on any tax not paid by April 17, and there could be a penalty if the payment is less than 90 percent of the total tax due.

"If you have completed your tax return but cannot pay the full amount owed, you can ask for an installment plan when you file," Kay said. "Complete Form 9465 and attach it to the front of the tax return. We will let you know within 30 days if the proposed plan is acceptable."

Maybe Road work continues

One serious and one fatal accident at the same spot on Maybee Rd. have residents worried that their road will never be the same after work to install sewers last year.

However a spokesman for the Road Commission for Oakland County said work is not yet completed on Maybee Rd. between Waterford Rd. and Sashabaw.

"We want to have it put back exactly like it was," said Tom Blust, a permit engineer for the county. He said the road would be re-surveyed before restoration is completed.

"They're not completely finished," he said. "They've still got restoration to do, yards and side roads."

On January 8 a Clarkston man was killed after the car in which he was a passenger crossed the center line on Maybee near Waterford Rd. and hit an oncoming car. Alcohol was thought to be a factor in that crash. More recently, a serious injury accident was reported in nearly the same spot. Investigators said when they cleaned up the scene of the second crash they found marks they'd made investigating the previous crash. In neither incident were road conditions blamed for the accidents.

The road is rough and bumpy but signs are posted warning of the conditions. Last week surveyors were in the area.

They're going to have to do some more work on that stretch of road," Blust said.

Slippery business

Cafe calls sewer billing unfair

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The City of Clarkston may not get "grease relief" from reimbursements sought from its latest sewer bill.

Randy Lincoln, district manager for Beefcarver, Inc. which bought the Clarkston Cafe last July, appeared before council Monday night to protest a bill which charged the cafe for sewer cleaning during the past year.

"All of a sudden you get hit with a large bill," Lincoln said. "This all came to a complete shock."

Amounts above and beyond the normal maintenance bill for sewer cleaning service from Independence Township showed excessive buildup behind the Cafe's block that the city feels it should not pay for. Therefore, it's asking for reimbursement from three Main Street food businesses: the cafe, Carol's Village Grill and the Village Bake Shop.

Separate charges for each business were based on the number of sewer units per business. The Clarkston Cafe has many more than the other two. But Lincoln calls the charge unfair — citing the fact that the Cafe has grease pickup, as did the previous owners.

"They picked up 4,000 pounds (last year) — we have documentation," he said. "I get the biggest bill because I use the biggest water. That makes a lot of sense."

Mayor Sharron Catalo sympathized with Lincoln, saying "We want to solve the problem so you don't have the problem and we don't have the problem."

Lincoln suggested that the city "go in and find out what the other establishments are doing." Council agreed.

City attorney Tom Ryan said Tuesday morning that Carol's Village Grill and the Village Bake Shop will be invited to the next council meeting April 24.

Questioned about whether the city's plumbing inspector had evaluated the three businesses before bills were sent, as discussed at a previous meeting, Ryan answered, "I don't think he has yet."

Councilman Bill Basinger suggested an alternative.

"Is there a reasonable way to stop it and is there a way to portion it? If not, we have to raise sewer rates for everybody," he said.

In other council action:

● A second reading of the new fire prevention ordinance was approved.

● Discussion about the police chief search continued as Councilman Steve Arkwright reported that former target dates set for back-to-back interviews proved to be "too aggressive." The police search committee will narrow a list of 37 applicants down to 16 and interview them April 18, 20 and 26. Three or more will be selected and ready for interviews by council May 8.

Arkwright hopes to have a new chief hired by the first part of June. Psychological exams will be included in the evaluations. "This person's going to control half the city's budget. I think that's important," he said.

● Ryan had a report about the asset settlement, saying he had discussed the city's concerns with Independence Township attorney Gerald Fisher. Although Ryan noted "some areas of disagreement" he said, "I hope by the end of the month we can put it to rest."

● A motion was passed 6-0 to appoint Tim Vanderkerckhove to a seat on Clarkston's zoning board of appeals.

● A resolution was passed 6-0 to close White Lake Road May 20 for the run during Fun Daze and May 29 for the Memorial Day Parade.

Singers, dancers sought

Singers and dancers can get their foot in the stage door by auditioning for the Oakland County Parks Traveling Music Show. The revue performs for corporate functions, promotional events, festivals, block parties and more. Shows slated for 1995 include "Be-Bop She-Bop" and "A Yankee Doodle Medley."

Auditions are scheduled for Tuesday, April 25 and Thursday, April 27 from 4 to 6 p.m. at the Lookout Lodge in Waterford Oaks County Park, 2800 Watkins Lake Rd. Callbacks are set for Friday, April 28, 4-6 p.m. at the Activity Center at the park.

You must perform an up-tempo, 16-bar song and provide a photograph, resume, summer vacation plans and back-to-school dates. Rehearsals start in mid-May, performances June 20-Aug. 13.

The Clarkston News

In Focus

by Annette Kingsbury

Tough time to be a parent

"Rolling bomb factory," the newsreader said, amazement dripping from his voice. "Ten Clarkston High School students," the story began.

That Saturday night as the 11 o'clock news began, I couldn't believe my ears. Then, as a kind of afterthought, the story ended with the information that they were talking about the kind of bomb used to blow up mailboxes. "Oh, that," I thought. Big deal.

I imagine the 10 CHS students must have wondered what the fuss was all about too. It's not unusual in these parts to see police reports of mailboxes being blown up, run over, battered with baseball bats, etc. I don't see what the fun is in such activity, but it's not a major crime and I guess I've grown blasé about it.

But perhaps the biggest crime those students committed was placing themselves in so much danger. I didn't realize that until I talked to police. I'm guessing the kids didn't realize it either.

Sheriff's lieutenant Doug Hummel remembered investigating a case where two men putting together a similar bomb had it blow up in their hands, severely injuring both of them. One man still walks with a limp, he said.

The thing is, teenagers for the most part think they're immortal. Of course, that's the way it should be, or youth would be no better than old age, when everyone has finally figured out that life has a finite, measurable duration.

But kids are blissfully ignorant of that fact. That doesn't make them bad; it just makes them young.

Recently it seems Clarkston has had a string of headlines. Just the week before the bus incident, three boys skipped school one day, broke into two houses, stole some guns and decided to shoot up a building. Again, fortunately, no one got hurt. But adults have to shake their heads and wonder, how dumb can you get to commit the crimes, then draw loud, blatant attention to yourself?

Not long before that, there was an incident of an unsupervised drinking party at a student's house. According to the report, cars were parked every which way on the street, drawing neighbors' and police attention. Again you wonder: What were they thinking?

Maybe it's spring fever. Maybe it's the approach of the Easter break and the end of the school year, which can't get here fast enough. Whatever it is, we must resist the temptation to begin to categorize everyone into the "good kid, bad kid" mold, as easy as that would be to do.

The students who've been caught up in these events in the past few weeks haven't necessarily had police records. Some are excellent athletes. Some were trusted by their parents. Some have good grades and are planning to go to college.

Unfortunately, even good kids make bad judgments, placing themselves and others at risk. All the lectures in the world, apparently, won't change that.

What's a parent to do? It's times like these I'm glad I don't have to answer that question.

Editorial

Where have we read that before

We should be diplomatic here, in an editorial. But once in a while the rules can be bent.

It begins with the township's investment debacle turning into a media circus the past three weeks, none of it caused by The Clarkston News.

For those of you reading this, you probably already realize your "hometown" weekly has covered these investment problems from the start--July 27. But three weeks ago "The Detroit News" decided to write a story about this dated topic and put it on the front page. The next day they followed up with a similar story.

Then, because of that, the wire service picked up the story as well as TV stations.

All of a sudden this months-old story becomes earth-shattering news. Citizens are up in arms and wanting answers, worried their township is broke and going bankrupt.

That's the farthest thing from the truth. And, if those same people would have read The Clarkston News' continuous coverage of the many facets of the investment scandal over the past seven months, they would have received the real story.

What the Detroit News reported was between one and three months old. There was nothing new there that we at The Clarkston News didn't report on extensively already.

We are THE community newspaper. The Detroit News is not our competition because we report on what is happening in the Clarkston/Independence area. It remains frustrating that people do not realize the best place to find the facts about their community is with US.

Sure, we make our mistakes but we also work hard to do the best for you, the reader.

To the people who saw The Detroit News article and said "How come I didn't read about this before," we say, because you didn't read The Clarkston News.

Do yourself a favor, become informed, subscribe now if you don't already. DWC

Don't Rush Me

Sign of the apocalypse

Sports Illustrated has a feature called "This Week's Sign That the Apocalypse Is Upon Us," where they print a paragraph about some folly in the sports world. It shows some of the insanities that pervades our society.

There is no better barometer to the world of the U.S.'s decline than the O.J. Simpson trial.

We Yanks are insane.

I have admitted I watched the hours upon slow hours of the infamous white Bronco chase. I even admit I listen to reports of what's up with the case nowadays. But, I still cannot believe what I'm hearing and seeing.

What has happened to us?

It's like we have been hexed by this trial. What would make one of our lawmakers idiotically make fun of a judge? What would make a burly man dress like a woman, go to court and start a shoving match with the person sitting next to him, her, whatever?

Where are we heading?

Late-night talk show host Jay Leno once quipped that he wished Judge Ito would censure him from trial. I second that motion. Please, Lord, let me hear no more of this farce.

End this mockery of U.S. law and justice.

If it is not yet clear to the viewers/listeners/and readers of this trial, O.J. Simpson will be a free man within 12 months. And, it will have nothing to do with his innocence or guilt. It'll come down as a mistrial.

It'll come down as there is not a juror who hasn't a preconceived notion about O.J. Simpson. How many jurors have already been bounced out of court for breaking the rules, taking notes, making bets on the outcome, for sleeping and fighting among themselves. Have I missed anything?

It seems the jurors cannot put aside their own beliefs and listen to the facts put before them. Our once held belief that men and women can come to a court of law and do what is right seems to be fading fast. Do we of this country not believe the system works any more?

Once Judge Ito goes through his original cast of jurors and uses up the alternates, it is over.

There is not a court in the country where we can find 12 honest people to come together for months, and months, and months to impartially decide the fate of this man.

To find such a venue would call for us to go outside our borders and into an entirely different country. There is too much money, too much animosity, too much corruption interwoven in this trial.

It's time to drop back and punt. Let O.J. go home. Put this one behind us and let's start looking at our problems and rebuild.

It's a sad day in Mudville, folks. American justice has seemingly failed. The sign the apocalypse is upon us and it is the O.J. trial that has brought it out in the open.

Basketball banquet great

What a great basketball season this winter!

Dan Fife and Tim Kaul, with their assistance, are to be congratulated for an outstanding season. High school parents at the banquet gave the coaches and players standing ovations throughout the program. It was also nice to see many fans at the banquet who have followed Clarkston basketball through the years.

Special thanks to the Leonard Smith family for sponsoring the Steve Secatch II Memorial Scholarship and giving it to Brad Agar, this year's winner. The parents of all the players should be proud of their kids, as they are a class act on and off the court.

Shocked, saddened at church conversion

Dear Editor,

I write to you concerning one of our town's conservative landmarks — the old church on Main Street, the home of the First Baptist Church from 1847-1965, and the Church of God after that. I am shocked, saddened and angered that plans are underway to "convert" the building into an eatery holding a liquor license. How sad — that a place of such spiritual and moral value as a church be turned into a place of merchandise — and drinking.

As a pastor of First Baptist Church from 1978 to present, I speak for every one of our members — some who were at the old building dating from the 1930s — we don't want a bar on Main Street — let alone in the old church. Forty-one former deceased pastors would turn over in their graves to hear of current plans for their beloved town — the mission field for their spiritual and community endeavors.

I wonder what other residents feel about this? Clarkston has always been such a conservative, family-oriented town. What can it mean when request to turn a funeral home into a bed and breakfast on Main Street is turned down but permission is granted for a church to be turned into a bar? How can it be that only three people on the city council can vote in something like this?

No — I don't think much of the news about this "conversion." I believe our community would be better served by keeping this type of establishment out.

Sincerely,
Richard Coursen
Pastor, First Baptist Church

Councilman responds

To the editor:

A recent letter in The Clarkston News attacked zoning and planning decisions by Clarkston village government. However, it relied on numerous false "facts" about many of these issues including the bed & breakfast proposed by the Kopietzes for the former Goyette funeral home. In that regard, the letter stated that the village "decided to drag the bed & breakfast issue through the court system" and to continue "the costly bed and breakfast litigation on to the Court of Appeals," both of which are untrue.

The Zoning Board of Appeals, on 10/8/91, declined to approve the Kopietzes' request for a B&B because the village zoning ordinance did not empower it to consider a use change which included structural alterations. It was the Kopietzes who refused to accept the ZBA's decision and "dragged" the village to Circuit Court in a lawsuit filed 11/21/91.

The ZBA denied the Kopietzes' second request for a B&B (this time with no structural alterations) on 6/25/92. Again, it was the Kopietzes who took the village to court, on 10/5/92, in yet a second lawsuit because they refused to accept the ZBA's decision that there was no reason why the home could not revert to the more appropriate regular residential use as intended by the zoning ordinance.

On 8/20/93, Circuit Court Judge Edward Sosnick upheld the second ZBA decision and ruled in favor of the village on the fundamental zoning issues. However, again it was the Kopietzes who continued the "costly" litigation by taking the Circuit Court decision and the village to the Court of Appeals.

A final decision was recently issued by Circuit Court Judge Hilda Gage favoring the Kopietzes in the first lawsuit they filed. However, the village attorney advises that the decision erroneously interprets our zoning ordinance in respect to structural alterations. We are further advised that an appeal of this second Circuit Court decision is now necessary to preserve our position in the first case appealed by the Kopietzes to the Court of Appeals since a decision is now pending from that court which will determine the basic zoning issues.

The bottom line is that it is the Kopietzes who commenced the litigation to this point, not the village, and it is the Kopietzes who have caused the needless expenditure of taxpayer dollars so that they might use their new home not just as a home but also as a money-making commercial use.

What makes this so egregious is that when they bought the former funeral home, on 9/18/91, they did so with full knowledge that it had been a non-conforming use for over 18 years, so designated by a prior village council in 1973. They also bought it with full knowledge that the village council, five months earlier, had extensively reviewed the bed and breakfast issue and issued a 13-point resolution explaining why allowing them could undermine our zoning (Clarkston News, 5/22/91). Finally, and most importantly, Kopietzes chose to buy the home despite being explicitly told a day earlier, at a 9/17/91 ZBA meeting, that the ZBA could not even review their request for a B&B or determine its appropriateness until they submitted the necessary plans.

While the council did not start this litigation, it is certainly aware of the costs involved. However, if the village were to abandon defending its ordinances and ZBA decisions solely based on cost, the village would be at the mercy of any potential property owner or developer who was willing to spend enough to get their own way. Eventually, the village as we know it would disappear.

Sincerely,
William K. Basinger

Strongly urge change of plans

Dear Mayor, City Council and others,

Remodeling a church building into a home is one thing, but turning God's house into a den for public revelry is another thing entirely. Such an historical treasure as the church on Main Street should be preserved and appreciated for solemn and reverential occasions. The planned use of the church for a tavern is a travesty and an affront to our church members and the local citizenry.

Clarkston has a fine heritage to preserve and that should not be trampled upon to create a "chic" European genre of nightclub in our fair city/village.

To tack on a churchy sounding name does not lend any heavenly credence to the business — it merely mocks the name and purpose of God.

Is it really the mission of Clarkston to bring in the unsavory establishments common to the outside world? Or is it Clarkston's mission to provide a wholesome and healthy environment for our families? Do you want to change our downtown into an entertainment venue like Pontiac? Do we want the noise and traffic and clientele such a place would generate?

"Do not be deceived: God cannot be mocked. A man reaps what he sows. The one who sows to please his sinful nature, from that nature will reap destruction; the one who sows to please the Spirit, from the Spirit will reap eternal life." Galatians 6:7, 8, The Holy Bible.

We strongly urge you to reconsider your plans. An alcoholic purveyor downtown would set an awful precedent and destroy the quaint and charming character of our lovely town, not to mention the moral fiber of any young persons that might come under the influence of such a business. We beseech you to set aside any desire for personal gain at the expense of so many lives that are tragically ruined by alcohol.

A look back

15 YEARS AGO (1980)

According to Clarkston school administrators, contributing factors to students doing poorly on Michigan Assessment Program exams are apathy, noise, moving from class to class and lack of review. Assistant Superintendent of Clarkston Schools Mel Vaara says steps have been taken to assure higher scores when tenth-graders take the test in September. Scores from the recent MAP test were evaluated by principals and counselors during a recent in-service day. "Many of them were flabbergasted at the low scores of some very good students," Vaara said.

Kyle Glenn Johnson is sentenced to life imprisonment without parole for his part in the brutal murder of Monica Hockey in Independence Township Sept. 2. Johnson's attorney J. Robert Sterling says Johnson has no plans to appeal at this time. Sentencing for Jeffrey Allen Coyle, the second man found guilty of first-degree murder in the Hockey slaying, is scheduled for April 22.

Clarkston High School alumnus Steve Howe pitches for the Los Angeles Dodgers against the Houston Astros in Houston Saturday. In five innings Howe surrenders no runs, one hit, two walks and strikes out one to earn his first major league victory. Clarkston High School's athletic director and Howe's former prep coach says he always knew Howe "could make it to the majors. He just threw unusually hard for a high-schooler and had really good control as well." Howe signed with the Dodgers last year.

25 YEARS AGO (1970)

At Clarkston's Village Council meeting Monday night, resident Karl Hansen brings up the subject of village beauty. Hansen complains that there has been a lack of cleanup that has left the village parking lot full of litter as well as around the Mill Pond parking lot. Hansen has also seen overturned garbage cans. The council admits it has not been "keeping the parking lot and other areas as clean as they could be." They attribute this to lack of help and a coming sewer program that will mean disturbing a lot of land so beautification cannot presently take place.

For the fourth time in a month, vandals break in to a Clarkston school and do damage. Two portable tape recorders, 42 pounds of hamburger and a large cooking pot are taken and the principal's office is ransacked. Previous break-ins took place at North Sashabaw and Pine Knob elementary schools, the latter twice. Damage is estimated at several hundred dollars total for all four break-ins.

Eight Clarkston High students place in the Michigan Industrial Education Society regional student competition held at Central Michigan University. The annual competition is held to honor outstanding students in the field of industrial arts. Clarkston High makes the best showing of all high schools represented, with three first-place winners and one second-place winner.

The Clarkston High School seniors and the recreation committee sponsor "The Senior Rat Race" tonight at the school from 9 p.m. to midnight. They decide it is a good name for a dance held on Friday the thirteenth. Decorations will feature mice, cheese and rats and music will be provided by Walt LaPlante and his orchestra. The public is invited.

Playing at the Holly Theatre this week are "Bathing Beauty," starring Esther Williams and Red Skelton, and "Passport to Destiny," with Elsa Lanchester and Gordon Oliver.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Beardsley celebrate their silver wedding anniversary with friends and neighbors at the Beardsley home. There, 17 guests enjoy visiting, playing pedro and refreshments at the surprise party planned by the Beardsleys' daughter Phyllis.

Saturday only specials at Rudy's include oleo, two pounds for a quarter, coffee, a pound for 15 cents and salmon, a large can for a dime. Rudy's wants customers to know they can redeem their LaFrance coupons at the store.

CHS life by Don Downey

The usual blah, blah, blah

I am very excited. Spring Break is next week and summer break is just eight short weeks after.

My whole life I have considered Spring Break as a little appetizer before summer vacation. I believe that if spring break did not exist, summer would be too much freedom all at once and many teenagers would go insane with the feelings of detachment from responsibility that comes with it and explode. Either that or they would just be really, really happy.

I am more excited than usual this year because I am going to Greece as a summer exchange student.

Every time I tell someone about my trip they say two things: "Do you speak Greece?" and "There are a lot of gay men over there." To which I say, "No, I do not speak Greece. I am, however, learning Greek.." and "Thanks for the warning."

When I decided to learn Greek so I wouldn't be so obviously American this summer, I decided language tapes were the way to go.

It is much more difficult to learn a language off a tape than it is in a classroom. My first self lesson in Greek went something like this:

TAPE: Welcome to "Just Listen 'n' Learn Greek."
ME: Welcome to "Just Listen 'n' Greek." Oh, wait a minute--

T: Let's begin with the phrases for "Good morning" and "How are you?" (inaudible)

M: Blah Blah Blah.

T: You're doing great.

M: You really think so?

One of the best things about learning the language is in math when people say, "Well, it's all Greek to me" I can say, "Not me. Heh Heh Heh."

I'm trying not to get excited about my trip. I just want to wake up one morning in early summer and say, "I think I'll go to Europe today." I'm also excited that I don't have to mow the lawn.

Meanwhile, I'm trying to finish up this school year without getting too distracted by the coming events. I had to go through the standard testing ritual last week. Here's a People Poll for you: Do you think it's tacky to wear a Harvard sweatshirt to the SAT? I thought so, but a score of people in my testing room didn't. Oh well.

Heritage Hunt II by Virginia Block

By Virginia Block

A trip along the Prodigy Genealogy Bulletin Board found Myra Gormley's postings were very helpful in an unusual way.

A new reference to a geneticist in Bar Harbor, Maine, Mr. Thomas Roderick who had published an earlier article concerning "mitochondrion DNA," which he stated enabled one to trace native (American) Indian heritage, through a blood sample.

The person requesting this information was able to ask the question and have an answer of name, address and phone number of Mr. Roderick in less than a week by posting her question on the Native American B.B. notes and replies.

Intrigued with the amount of research data we could print out, we moved to the bulletin board topics of Poland, next copied Hispanic Research, and finally copied the column on Irish family research. Needless to say, with over 200 columns to be found, it is difficult to decide how to cover all areas, but we will do our best.

Myra Vanderpool Gormley is the authoress of "Is Your Family at Risk?", a book that covers the hereditary diseases one finds that provide ways to ascertain if you may be carrying into yet another generation the reason for the death of an ancestor, or even a parent.

Death records provide valuable information, although many times are incomplete. Be sure when acquiring a death record that you request a death record — not a death certificate, as the latter does not list cause of death, nor place of burial. The knowledge of medical terms of a century ago needs to be considered as it relates to today's technology and nomenclature.

Keeping up with the latest developments in research, treatment, and studies, again is possible via the "Health and Science" portion of "programs" offered daily on the news sessions on line.

Frankly, as much as we need to save more from the offerings of various bulletin boards, we can't afford the cost of being given five hours of "free" time. We appreciate the Myra Gormley columns at no extra charge, and will share with you, as sharing is what it's all about.

A reminder of the upcoming meeting of Pontiac

Area Historical and Genealogical Society on Thursday, April 13, 1995, 7:30 p.m., Lower Level of Pontiac Public Library. Speaker Joan Griffen will present a program on researching in Ontario. There is no charge and the public is welcome.

We count our blessings, among them, the opportunity to meet you each week through this means, and wish each of you a Happy and Blessed Easter.

Happy Hunting.

The Insider

Nothing personal

Silence and bewilderment quickly took hold of the Independence Township Board of Trustees and audience members at an April 4 meeting.

And it all began with a wide-ranging speech from Gary Stonerock, a former township supervisor in the 1970s. While he was at the meeting to tell the board he objects to his property being rezoned, located on M-15, north of I-75, he covered much more ground than just rezoning.

Stonerock, now an Ortonville resident, castigated past and current boards for forcing their will on citizens. He blamed them for him moving and said it's because of boards and government regulations that there are "whackos in the world."

"You set yourself up for the idiots that shoot people in McDonalds," Stonerock said to a befuddled board and audience.

In between the shocking statements, Stonerock talked about everything from politics, what government's role is, how he started a wetlands ordinance, to how "zoning is a good thing, don't make it a bad thing," and on and on.

While other board members seemed in disbelief at Stonerock's "whackos" comments, trustees Daniel Travis wasn't silent. He criticized Stonerock for "endorsing crazies shooting people" and didn't appreciate such talk to the board, saying it was inappropriate.

Celebrate Earth Day

It's been 25 years since the first Earth Day and this year's event will fall on the exact anniversary of the first event, April 22.

At Independence Oaks County Park, the annual Earth Fair returns from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Visitors can pick up environmental information from exhibitors, including The Detroit Zoo, Oakland Audubon Society and the Clinton River Watershed Council. A master gardener will give demonstrations and answer questions.

Environmental singer/songwriter Kitty Donohoe will perform and a representative of the Michigan Nature Association will be on hand to talk about preserving natural areas in Oakland County.

Children can participate in hands-on craft activities and a fossil dig. All ages can hike the park's trails with a naturalist who will identify plant and animal life. Recyclers can bring in old nature magazines for an exchange.

The fair is free except for a vehicle entry fee of $4.50 for county residents.

"Our Earth Fair is our way to help people learn to preserve the environment," said park naturalist Tim Nowicki. For more information call 625-6473 (TDD 858-1684).

Newlyweds: Mr. and Mrs. Ronald LePere

LePere-Pauley wed in Florida

Pamela Sue Pauley and Ronald Stephen LePere were united in marriage Feb. 18 at Heathcote Botanical Gardens, Ft. Pierce, Fla. She is the daughter of Mary F. Pauley of Huntington, W.V. He is the son of Dr. Ronald and Peggy LePere of Clarkston and Juanita LePere of Port Richey, Fla.

The Rev. Buddy Tipton performed the ceremony. Music was provided by the Entertainment Connection.

The bride was escorted by her uncle, Jack Woodrum.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Debbie Baskin of Vero Beach, Fla. Bridesmaids were Melanie Barr of Huntington, W.V.; Brenda Shealy of Port St. Lucie, Fla.; and Erin McKibbin of Chicago, Ill.

Best man was Jim Burns of Lakeland, Fla. Groomsmen were Chris Campe of Groveland Township, formerly of Clarkston; Steve Criger of Hollywood, Fla., formerly of Clarkston; and Scott Baskin of Vero Beach, Fla.

A reception was held in the courtyard of the gardens with Edna Woodrum, Carol Smith and Pat and Becky Thacker assisting.

The bride graduated from Vinson High School and Marshall University, Huntington, W.V., with an associate's degree in science. She is completing a bachelor of arts degree in education at Florida Atlantic University. She is the purchasing agent for Arthur Runtenberg Homes, Port St. Lucie, Fla.

The groom graduated from Clarkston High School and attended Michigan Technological University, Houghton. He is a general contractor employed with M.H. Williams.

The couple reside in Port St. Lucie, Fla.

SMART isn't wise

Township, city opt out of tax vote

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Independence Township and city of Clarkston voters will not participate in the Suburban Mobility Authority for Regional Transportation millage vote scheduled for June 6.

SMART, the regional bus service, is asking voters in Oakland County for a .33 mill property tax increase to subsidize its service. The vote is set for a county-wide election, but through a legal loophole the township and city will not participate.

The Independence Township Board voted 5-2 on April 4 to opt out of the vote. Monday, the city council voted 6-0 (councilman James Schultz was absent) to do the same.

However, if the SMART vote passes in June, the municipalities will most likely not receive the funds they had in past years from SMART.

Township Parks and Recreation Director Ann Conklin reminded the township board that the senior center uses much of the $18,000 received each year from SMART "municipal credits" for senior transportation services.

"We do use the funds for disabled services to people who can't get out, so if we are not in the program any longer, we will need to get the money from somewhere," Conklin said.

On March 30 the Oakland County Board of Commissioners voted 13-12 to put the question on the ballot, much to the opposition of local commissioners Larry Obrecht and Donna Huntoon.

"I voted no because they are asking people to take their money and invest in a company that is $22 million in debt, and that's not a good idea," said Huntoon, District #2 commissioner who represents White Lake, Springfield and Independence townships. "The largest part of the system goes to the southern area of the county and we don't get that much service up here."

Huntoon said SMART is an unstable company that can't manage its own finances, and is now asking taxpayers to bail it out once again. She said SMART presented the commission with the proposal and wanted action right away.

Obrecht, who represents District #3 including Orion, Oakland, Waterford and part of Independence, said it just doesn't make sense for this area's citizens to support SMART because the system is rarely used and its costs far exceed its usefulness.

Based on SMART's annual budget of $43 million (with funding coming from state and federal revenues, including a 5 cent per gallon of gas tax) and the number of riders SMART has, it figures out to be $12,000 per rider, according to Obrecht.

"You could give each of those people a Cadillac and supply them with a Shell gas card for that much each year," he said.

Obrecht added a clause during commission deliberations to allow municipalities to opt out of the vote.

The Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce announced its support of the tax, which will be voted on by residents in Wayne and Macomb counties on May 23.

The chamber says area malls receive millions of dollars from people who use the SMART buses, and thousands of elderly and disabled people count on SMART to get them to and from work, doctors and grocery stores.

Township supervisor Dale Stuart and trustee Jeffrey McGee said they agreed SMART should not be allowed to receive more taxes from township residents, but didn't like this proposal being dumped on them at the last minute either.

Obrecht's and Huntoon's presentation was not listed on the township's original agenda, but added right before the meeting. The commissioners said the item had to be addressed within 30 days of March 30 or the township could not opt out of the vote.

Stuart said, "I'm just uncomfortable adding this as an agenda item tonight without comment from the public. Maybe there are some people who would like to comment about SMART."

Stuart and McGee both wanted the item tabled to the April 18 agenda, which would also give the board time to vote on the opt-out clause by April 27.

The resolution adopted by the two boards allows them to withdraw from the Oakland County Public Transportation Authority which, in essence, was created to set up the tax increase vote.

Fun Daze returns

Fun Daze—Clarkston's annual celebration of the return of spring—will return Saturday, May 20 to Depot Park.

The ninth-annual run/walk will benefit Lighthouse North. Events will include a 5K walk, 5K run, 10K walk, 10K run and a one mile fun run/walk. Awards will be given in each division and there will be many door prizes from area merchants.

The walks begin at 9:30 a.m., the runs at 10, although walkers are welcome during the runs. Registering in advance will save you some money; pre-registration is $2 for the fun run, $10 for the races; race-day registration is $4 and $16, respectively.

Participants will be collecting pledges for Lighthouse North. (There is no charge to participate in the Lighthouse North hunger walk.) There are prizes for reaching certain pledge levels, and a school challenge will award a trophy to the school which raises the most money for Lighthouse North. In addition, the class in each elementary school that collects the most money over $500 will receive a pizza party.

During the run/walk, the Clarkston athletic boosters will be selling concessions in Depot Park. There will also be a petting farm, children's games and activities, moon walk, Rotary clowns and dance and gymnastic demonstrations.

Last year over 300 runners participated in the race.

"It's growing each year," said Marc Cooper, a member of the Fun Daze Committee. "It's turning into one of the premier events in the area."

To register, send your check and entry form to Independence Township Parks and Recreation, 90 N. Main St., P.O. Box 69, Clarkston, MI 48346.

Shake up continues

Second financial official gone

Clarkston schools are without their two top financial officials after the departure Friday of CPA Nancy Zobel, the Supervisor of Accounting.

Zobel's leaving comes one week after Deputy Superintendent for Business and Operations Steve Lenar left his job. Zobel could not be reached for comment.

Last week the board voted to reorganize the central administration, eliminating Zobel's position and changing the title of Lenar's old job to Director of Business Services. Under the new lineup, management of the building, grounds and maintenance functions will become the responsibility of the new Director of Auxiliary Services, Linda Nester, who is also the Supervisor of Food Services.

At Monday's board of education meeting, superintendent Gary Haner said the board's auditor, Plante and Moran, will be helping with the budget and accounting functions until a new Director of Business Services can be found.

The posting for the job lists the starting salary at $71,824-$79,920, depending upon training and experience. The qualifications include administrative certification as a Chief Business Official, a master's degree and five years experience.

Proposals go out for privatization

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

The board of education asked for a little more involvement in the drive toward privatization Monday night.

Superintendent Gary Haner presented the board with a timetable of how he expects the process of finding private companies to provide transportation and custodial services will proceed.

"We have conducted interviews with a number of firms without benefit of written applications or proposals," he said. "We have developed a draft for a request for proposal. We are calling that an informal proposal . . . It will be finalized shortly."

Haner said the RPF should be available Thursday. It will be sent to the four companies being considered—Marriott and Servicemaster for maintenance, Ryder and National for transportation.

The proposals are due back April 27. Haner said two teams have been selected to consider the proposals and bring a recommendation to the board of education, probably in late May.

Several trustees felt the board should be involved in the process at an earlier stage. "I think you're bringing the board in on the wrong end of this," said Janet Thomas. "This is a significant change of policy and this is our purview."

Trustee Barry Bomier called for complete disclosure by board members, committee members and school employees of any financial involvement with the four companies. He also suggested it was inappropriate for the committees to make trips to visit two of the companies at the companies' expense.

"I cannot agree with a visit paid for by a vendor," he said. "I think it opens up the board to a lot of valid criticism." With agreement by the board, the trips were cancelled.

By consensus, the board agreed that it wants to be involved in the process of screening the RFPs, not just voting on committee recommendations.

"By the time the RFPs come back, that's the time the board should become involved, Thomas said.

"If four board members can't get information, neither can the community," trustee Kurt Karlstrom said. "I would like to get first-hand knowledge of what these companies have to offer Clarkston."

A special meeting of the board will probably be scheduled for mid-May to go over the RFPs and here presentations from the vendors. That date has not yet been announced.

Spring field trip

A 20-acre nature sanctuary off Oak Hill Road on M-15 will be the subject of a spring field trip Saturday, April 15 at 2 p.m.

The sanctuary is owned by the Michigan Nature Association, which will lead the tour. Three-fourths mile of walking is required to explore two trails through wetlands. Boots are required.

Other field trips have been scheduled for the site on future Sundays, April 23 and 30 and May 7 and 13. The entrance is east off M-15 just north of the driveway to Solley's. For more information call (810) 324-2626.

Rezoning recommendations cause a stir

Changes made to control the future

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Future planning and current property owners' rights were discussed among Independence township trustees during a first reading of several rezoning requests.

The rezoning requests, recommended unanimously by the township planning commission, were discussed at length by the board at its April 4 meeting. Four separate areas were recommended for rezoning, located at Dixie Highway, Flemings Lake Road, Flemings Lake and Sashabaw roads, and near M-15 and Cranberry Lake Estates subdivision.

The rezonings must still come back to the board for final approval but the board still had many concerns, passing the first three requests by 6-1 votes (trustee Jeffrey McGee voting no each time), and the fourth by a 4-3 vote (trustees Mel Vaara, McGee and Bruce Mercado voting no).

(See township legal notices on page 23B for maps and descriptions of the four proposed rezonings).

The 14.9-acre Dixie rezoning would change the area from freeway commercial (C-4) and local commercial (C-1) to multi-family residential (R-2). The planning commission and planner Richard Carlisle said this area was studied before and the current zoning is inconsistent with the surrounding area.

According to the township's zoning map, most of the surrounding property — except about seven acres — is zoned some type of residential.

Two sections off Sashabaw Road and Flemings Lake Road were also recommended for rezoning to office service (OS-2) and planned commercial (C-2). While both properties are located next to one another, they were recommended for different zoning classifications.

The Flemings Lake Road rezoning includes 10.5 acres currently zoned freeway service (C-4). The Sashabaw/Flemings Lake rezoning includes 13.6 acres now zoned freeway service (C-4) and motor vehicle service (MS).

Both properties are located right next to the I-75 exit.

Carlisle said these C-4 zoned properties are highly intensive, and allow almost any type of retail/commercial establishment. He said the area has been studied by the commission and if C-4 were developed in the future it would have a great influence on the Sashabaw Corridor.

This proposed change would eliminate all C-4 zoning from the township.

A representative of one the property owners said his client has plans to develop his parcel as it is currently zoned and to arbitrarily change that zoning is not fair to the client.

After his appeal to the board, township attorney Gerald Fisher asked the representative several questions as to why his concerns weren't brought up sooner.

"Why wasn't there a site plan created for that sooner and is there a reason no development has been built in the last five years?" Fisher asked.

The representative could only say his client's company had gone through some financial difficulties, but the property is currently listed for sale as mall property, which would not be allowed under the proposed OS-2 zoning.

Township supervisor Dale Stuart said this is only the first reading and the board would welcome discussion and suggestions about the property.

Trustee Jeffrey McGee voted no to all three of the proposed rezonings because, he said, although all the properties are vacant, he can understand how a property owner would be concerned about having the zoning changed.

"This kind of action by the board troubles me," he said. "I understand the efforts we are making to update the master plan but if I was a property owner I would be concerned too and I will vote against this motion."

The fourth rezoning issue brought up for a first reading caused even more concern and controversy among board members, property owners and township planners. Several areas along the M-15 Corridor, north of I-75 and next to Cranberry Lake subdivision, are proposed to be rezoned to office service zoning, OS-1 and OS-2.

The office service zoning is less intensive and more in step with future planning than the current highway commercial (C-3) zoning along that stretch.

One 2.2-acre area, located on M-15, just off I-75, is proposed to be changed from single-family residential (R-1A) to OS-2, which would allow such developments as a hotel.

Carlisle said these changes are recommended after years of study by the planning commission, planners and the Economic Development Committee.

Community awards honor achievement

Do you know someone who has given time, energy and creativity to make Clarkston a better place to live? If so, the Chamber of Commerce would like to hear from you.

Nominations are now being accepted for the tenth annual Michigan Week Community Awards, sponsored by the Chamber and NBD Bank. Nominations are due by April 20 and winners will be announced at an awards breakfast at Spring Lake Country Club May 17 at 7:30 a.m.

This year's chairman, Marc Cooper, said his goal is to get more nominations than ever. Anyone nominated will be recognized, he said.

"There's more than one person who's done something good for the community," he said. While noting that people don't do volunteer work they love for the recognition, "It's important people know who is doing work in the community," he added.

The categories in which people may be nominated are:

CITIZEN OF THE YEAR: Someone who has given time, energy and talents to improve the community. Last year's winner was Ann Conklin, director of Independence Township Parks and Recreation.

YOUNG PERSON OF THE YEAR: Given to someone 18 or younger using the same criteria as above. Last year's winner was Robert Brazier, then a senior at Clarkston High School.

ADULT-YOUTH VOLUNTEER: given to a person who has given time and energy to helping local youth. Last year's winner was Sherry Regiani, a parent who is active in many school activities.

The Clarkston (MI) News Wed., April 12, 1995 17 A

PROPERTY BEAUTIFICATION: Given to a local business person who has made a significant improvement to the appearance of his or her property. Last year's winner was Dr. Bruce Halton of Clarkston Animal Medical Center.

COMMUNITY PRESERVATION: The name of this category used to be historic preservation but was changed, Cooper said, to reflect all kinds of preservation. Last year's winner was Tom Bullen of the Independence Land Conservancy.

It's easy to nominate someone. Forms are available at the Chamber office inside Lighthouse North, at NBD Bank, through the Optimist and Rotary Clubs, and at The Clarkston News.

For more information call the Chamber office at 625-8055.

Rezoning cause controversy

The proposed rezonings caused more concern among the board because there are businesses operating there already. In the 4-3 vote, trustees McGee, Vaara and Mercado voted no because they don't like the idea of changing zoning for people who already operate a business on the property.

Carlisle said these changes are recommended by the planning commission after years of study from many people. He said the current businesses operating along M-15 would not feel any effects of the rezonings because OS-1 fits their businesses.

But the three trustees disagreed.

"The first few cases were basically bare land, but this rezoning I will be voting no because I don't want to change anyone's zoning that has already been there for many years," said Vaara.

Mercado said, "The previous rezonings corrected obsolete zoned parcels but these are different because it's on a major state highway."

Clerk Joan McCrary said she voted yes because "Although I would hate to take away people's zoning I feel we've widened the scope. They are already office and I really don't consider it taking away."

She added that the township talks about future planning and this is one of those first steps. "The board has to consider what it wants in the future for that area. Do we want it to look like Dixie does now or do we want it as a buffer?"

Carlisle said these areas are planned for office as part of the master plan for the township. If C-3 were not changed, eventually those areas would be developed as malls, restaurants etc., he said.

"The planning commission had concerns that C-3 is the most intense commercial in the township and it allows almost any type of commercial from retail to fast food. In general these uses increase traffic. The concern is it would set a precedent."

Carlisle, the township planner for about 14 years, raised the issue that some direction must be set out now or the M-15 corridor could end up like Dixie Highway.

"We provide for future planning, and zoning is the start. Without setting direction you are clearly at the whim of what is out there. We've tried to address areas we have seen as a problem."

Parking

She expects the DPW to place no parking signs in the spots soon.

"I feel bad. I'd like to give (the businesses) at least 24 hours," Catallo said. "But the spots are dangerous."

City Manager Art Pappas said although council discussed the possibility of saving some spots further down, the plaintiff's engineers called the hill "unsafe for parking and pedestrians."

City engineer representatives from Hubbell, Roth and Clark argued before the judge that Depot is a city street, therefore not subject to state law, Pappas said.

"But they agreed it was too steep," he added.

Council decided to eliminate the spots, said Pappas, because "we better not leave ourselves open for any more problems."

Clarkston history books arrive

The local history book written by three Clarkston teachers and illustrated by a local artist is about to hit the streets.

The Clarkston Community Historical Society has announced that the book is completed and printed and will be in second-grade classrooms shortly after Easter break. The public is invited to purchase copies and have them autographed by the authors, Rosemary Lewis, Julie Matthies, Bill Genshaw and illustrator Jim Russell.

All four will appear at a book-signing party May 23 at 7 p.m. at the Independence Township Library. The authors will also be available to discuss their work.

Autographed copies may be purchased for $30, unsigned, $25. Proceeds will help offset the price of supplying the books to the Clarkston school district at printing cost. The Historical Society has picked up all the costs thus far. Proceeds will also help fund other educational programs in the community.

Books may also be purchased at the library on Monday, April 24, 7-8 p.m. and Monday, May 2, 7-8 p.m. To order copies for pick up at the library, call Kim Huttenlocker at 625-2499.

Though written for children, who study local history in second grade, the book should appeal to children and adults of all ages. Adults will find the text interesting and educational and the artwork beautiful. The book will also make a great gift for grown children who have moved away.

"We're really excited," Huttenlocker said. "This has been a really big project for us. We're happy to be able to do something that's going to make a difference."

Wolves earn third at co-ed relay meet

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A solid contingent of girls and boys tracksters led the Clarkston Wolves to a third-place finish at the Bloomfield Andover Relays April 8.

The Wolves took the high finish despite competing against 11 other teams. The relays are a yearly event that combines the boys and girls teams and allows them to compete together. In each event, two girls and two boys compete and their combined scores are added up.

Boys coach Walt Wyniemko said the relays are a fun time and gives the girls and boys a chance to compete as one, rather than separately.

"It's real fun for us because when you practice together every day and see one another every day you finally get a chance to compete together in a meet," Wyniemko said.

The Wolves took first place in the 4 x 800 with the team of John Burklow, Matt Warner, Lisa Herron and Jennifer Bauer, and with the shuttle hurdles squad of J.R. Kirk, Chris Evans, Liz Murphy and Nicole Bauer.

Taking second place in the distance medley was Rich Bevins, Jeff Dengate, Jennifer Bauer and Stefanie Burklow while the sprint medley team of Bevins, Jason Graves, Burklow and Kelly Christie also finished second.

The Wolves' third-place finishers were: High jump with Graves, Kirk, Scharl and Gretchen Pitsler; shot put crew of Jason Olafsson, Latisha Hawley, Josh Preston and Renee Staley; 4 x 400 relay of Matt Wenger, Graves, Scharl and Herron.

The long jump crew of Graves, Kirk, Elizabeth Cook, and Carey Meade finished fourth while the 4 x 3200 mile relay team of Brian Ginn, Matt Warner, Kristen Maine and Megan Plante finished sixth.

Girls coach Gordie Richardson was especially pleased at the depth his team showed, as well as the performance of several individuals. "We had a good contribution from a lot of kids. We wanted to get some kids experience in a lot of areas."

Richardson said his squad is still struggling in the sprinting events but to combat that he will try and use the team's strong middle-distance crew to shore up that area.

"We don't have one person to run all the sprints, like we did with Angie Brown last year, so we're trying to improve by using out top athletes and spreading them throughout," he said.

Matt Warner hands off the baton to Megan Plante during the 4 x 2 mile relay at the co-ed Andover Relays April 8. The Wolves relay team took 6th.

Josh Preston got a good throw of this shot put at the Andover Relays. Preston and his shot put teammates finished 3rd.

No clutch hits in opening-day loss

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

With 12 players getting on base, Clarkston baseball coach Roy Warner would expect his team to win.

But the Wolves stranded 11 of those base runners and lost to Hazel Park 2-1 April 7 in the season-opener.

"We just could never get a hit when we had guys in scoring position," the coach said. "It seemed like we always had two outs when we had chances to score. A couple of times we had bases loaded."

Warner said he isn't used to losing the first game of the season but his team did play well, despite the score. "We shut them down on defense and played real well overall but on offense we seemed to hit a lot of 'at-em' balls."

The Wolves scored their only run on a bases-loaded walk and totaled only five hits. Leading the team in hitting was Robby Hukka, 2-for-2, Bobbie Blue, 2-for-4, and Jamie Churchill, 1-for-4.

Warner said he was pleased with the pitching performance, especially from junior Jeff Mull who finished the final six innings while shutting out Hazel Park. David Barth started and went 2 1/3 innings before giving way to Scott Hill, who got out of a jam by getting out two batters.

Fife signs with Niagara

Jeremy Fife will be playing basketball at Niagara University next season.

The senior, who led the Clarkston basketball team to the Class A final eight and a 22-3 record, has been offered a full athletic scholarship from the 4-year school, located in New York. He was expected to sign the National Letter of Intent April 12, according to his coach and father Dan Fife.

Kickers solid at West Bloomfield

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It's hard to overcome two consecutive losses by a combined score of 20-0. But the Clarkston girls soccer squad did just that last week.

The Wolves rebounded from those losses to play a tough match against West Bloomfield April 6. Although they lost 3-1, coach Dan Fitzgerald said he was pleased how his team never gave up and fought right to the end.

"After they got that second goal 20 minutes into the game, I was thinking, 'Here we go again,' but the kids kept playing hard and we still had a chance to win late in the game," said the coach.

The Wolves couldn't have opened the season with any tougher teams than Royal Oak Kimball, March 30, and Brighton, April 3. They lost to both teams by 10-0 scores. Fitzgerald said he's tried to get his players to forget those losses because they are two of the state's better teams, especially Brighton, last season's Class A state runner-up.

"They (Brighton) are definitely one of the better teams in the state and I would expect them to win the title this season," Fitzgerald said.

An April 4 match against Brandon was canceled due to weather conditions.

Fitzgerald was glad to see his team put those first two games out of their head and play a solid game against West Bloomfield.

"I think the players realize those are great teams we played, but I still felt it might bring us down."

The coach was happy his players didn't get down. Against West Bloomfield, an OAA Division II foe, they were down only 2-1 until a last-minute goal put the game out of reach.

"They are one of the better teams in the league but we defended pretty well and we never gave up. We even had some firepower and did a real nice job offensively," Fitzgerald said, noting scoring was one of his concerns entering the season.

Mary Forbes scored CHS' lone goal.

Others who had solid performances include Kelly Raup, Brynn Allen and goalie Carin Kirk.

Soccer

The JV girls soccer team played two games last week and did very well.

On Monday night, Clarkston tied West Bloomfield, 1-1. Georgia Senkyr scored the only goal for the Wolves. Then on Thursday night, the team played a tough Brighton team and came away with another 1-1 tie. Again, Senkyr scored the lone goal for the Wolves.

After three games, Clarkston's record is now 0-1-2. They were scheduled to play at Lapeer West Monday and at home against Rochester Adams Tuesday.

With spring break next week, the girls are off until April 27, when they face Lake Orion at home. Game time is 5:30 p.m.

"In the final analysis, reaching the goal or realizing the dream is not nearly as important as the person we've become along the way," Dave Johnson.

Junior wrestlers move closer to national tourney

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Three members of Clarkston High's state runner-up wrestling team took first place in a Junior National Tournament last weekend.

Seniors Armin Michelsen, Corey Grant and P.J. Vandermeer all took first place and qualified for the Michigan Junior National Team, which will compete in the Junior Nationals at Fargo, North Dakota in July.

The tournament, held at Goodrich High School April 8, featured high school wrestlers from throughout the state competing in Greco-Roman and Freestyle. The top two wrestlers in each weight class qualify for the team.

The Michigan team will consist of 36 Greco-Roman members and 36 Freestyle members.

Greco-Roman wrestling prohibits touching an opponent below the waist, using only the upper body. Freestyle is more liberal than high school wrestling because you can lock hands and have more freedom.

Michelsen, who was 3rd in Class A at 172 pounds, won both the Greco-Roman and Freestyle 178-pound weight class. He qualified for both teams, while CHS teammate Joe DeGain, who was 5th in Class A at 185 pounds, finished third in Greco-Roman and lost in an early match to Michelsen.

Grant, who took 3rd in Class A at 134 pounds, won the 143-pound weight class in Freestyle.

Vandermeer, who was 2nd in Class A at 160 pounds, was first in Freestyle at 164 pounds.

Scott Strickler, editor of the Michigan Wrestling News, who covers wrestling tournaments all over the state, said overall it was an exciting tournament because, among the 12 weight classes, six 1995 high school state champions competed.

He said Grant and Michelsen had tough divisions. On his way to the title, Grant beat Jeremy Hardman of Constantine, the Class C state champion at 142 pounds.

Besides defeating DeGain, Michelsen defeated Jason Holmes of Millington, the Class B runner-up at 151 pounds.

Other Clarkston wrestlers competing in the tour-namment were Joe Roy and Jeremy Lafferty. Strickler said wrestlers have one more chance to qualify for the Michigan team on May 19-20 at Fowlerville.

He said these tournaments are very relaxed compared to high school meets. "There's no seeding and the set-up is a little different. It's more laid back and the atmosphere is more fun for the guys. They get to really know one another."

There is a hitch to qualifying, however. In order to travel with the Michigan Junior Team there is a $550 fee, which includes a wrestling camp and the tournament, according to Strickler.

Last year, DeGain, then a sophomore at CHS, won the national Cadet Greco-Roman tournament. Cadet includes wrestlers younger than 16 years old.

CHS sports dates canceled

Clarkston varsity sports felt the effects of the bitter winds of winter snow:

Due to the snowstorm and cold temperatures that hit the area April 9, several varsity sports didn't play their April 10 game dates.

The canceled April 10 games are as follows:

Baseball — Home vs. Bloomfield Hills Lahser.

Softball — Doubleheader at Rochester Adams.

Tennis — At Lake Orion.

The above games, except for baseball, were to be the season-openers for each sport. No make-up dates have been announced as of yet.

Rising above

Jason Graves soars over the high jump at the April 8 Andover Relays. Graves and his high jump teammates finished 3rd, while both girls and boys track teams combined to finish 3rd overall among 11 teams.

Education and sports seminar

The Sports Education Society at the University of Michigan is hosting "Breaking the Mold," a symposium scheduled for April 22.

The seminar will examine career opportunities in the sports industry and focus on the interaction between education and sports.

The symposium was developed "to create a forum where high school student-athletes, college student-athletes and their parents will have an opportunity to become better informed about the student-athlete's unique position, and to become more sophisticated in managing their academic, post-graduate and post-athletic careers," says Walter J. Lanier, co-founder of the Sports

Education Society and a third-year law student at UM.

Among the issues to be examined are the role of women in the sports industry, future careers and educating student-athletes to look beyond playing pro sports.

"Professional athletics is not the only successful career path in the sports industry," Lanier said.

The symposium will feature speakers and participants from the NBA, NFL, the Atlanta Olympic Committee, Turner Broadcasting, CNN, Upper Deck, USA Basketball, Coopers & Lybrand, Smith Barney, Alexander & Assoc., NIKE and the universities of Minnesota and Virginia.

For more information and registration materials, contact Lanier at 313-913-9802.

CHS students asked to make commencement commitment

This spring students from Clarkston and other area high schools are being asked to take a pledge to celebrate graduation safely.

Students Against Drunk Driving has joined with The Lane Co. and Palm Beach Patio Furniture of Waterford to offer a free Lane keepsake chest to all CHS students who sign a pledge not to drink or ride with a drinking driver.

Each senior who signs the "commencement commitment" will receive the gift.

"Alcohol-related accidents are a major concern among parents and school authorities, especially during graduation festivities," said Douglas Lane, president of The Lane Co. "We and Palm Beach Patio Furniture are anxious to join in an effort to call attention to the problem, and, hopefully, save lives."

Seniors at Clarkston, Waterford Kettering, Our Lady of the Lakes and Lakeland high schools are invited to contact their SADD faculty advisors or senior class sponsors for details on the program.

Brown stars in track

Angelic Brown, a 1994 Clarkston High graduate and track star, helped the Central Michigan University women's 4 x 400 relay team set a school record at the Duke Invitational April 7-8.

Brown, a freshman helped her team to a 9th-place finish out of 50 teams with a record time of 3:51.05.

McCormick's hoops camp

Detroit Piston rookie sensation Grant Hill has committed to appear at Tim McCormick's Basketball Camp, scheduled for July 17-21 at Clarkston High.

McCormick, the Clarkston High and University of Michigan graduate, said more information on the camp will be forthcoming. McCormick also played for many years in the NBA and is now in broadcasting.

Fourth-grader is principal for a day

Rachael Wojciechowski, 9, tapped her pen nervously on the desk. Back and forth, end over end.

Perhaps she was nervous, perhaps she just knew she had a lot of work to do before the final bell would ring at 4 p.m. For Rachael was having no ordinary day. The fourth-grader was named principal for a day at Springfield Plains Elementary School last week.

As she sat dwarfed behind the desk normally occupied by the real principal, Dr. Sharon Devereaux, Rachael eyed her schedule. She'd already read the morning announcements over the loudspeaker ("I was pretty nervous," she admitted), opened the mail ("I got to decide what to throw away and what to keep"), read a story to a roomful of second-graders and written an article for the school newsletter.

She'd also introduced a member of the Detroit Vipers hockey team at an assembly and had her picture taken with him. In between she'd been expected to keep up on her school work, and before dismissal she would make the afternoon bus announcements.

Whew!

It wasn't all work, of course. Rachel arrived at school at 9:20 a.m. in a pretty purple print dress, carrying a purple bunny to keep her company in her office. She was greeted by Devereaux, who pinned a corsage on her.

She got to have lunch in the teacher's lounge (she had chicken nuggets and a Sprite from Burger King) and got to check on the behavior of her fellow students in the lunch room. "They were pretty talkative," she noted.

Rachael seemed most impressed with the fact that Devereaux's office has a door that leads directly into the school's front hall, in addition to the one leading into the main office. She pronounced the day fun and said she thought Devereaux's job was "pretty hard."

"Some kids get in trouble," she said. She had to administer a warning and didn't like it much. When asked what the best part of the day had been, she said, "I don't really have a best part."

Devereaux enjoyed Rachael's company for the day. "She was delightful," the real principal said.

Save the children

Rise of substance abuse predicted

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

He drew laughter and raised eyebrows from the many attending a lecture in Clarkston's Kirchgessner Auditorium April 5 with his "aw shucks" attitude and Southern drawl.

But he also drew nods of understanding and a few tears.

"Dunks do not use condoms! Dunks do not use birth control! Dunks do not have safe sex! Dunks don't use conflict resolution skills! Dunks fight!" yelled speaker Bill Oliver from the Georgia-based national organization PRIDE (Parent Resource Institute for Drug Education).

Oliver founded Parent-to-Parent, a national peer-supported parent interaction organization, in 1988. He was a welcome guest in the high school auditorium. Facilitators and members of Clarkston's Parent-to-Parent program — as well as the curious — listened intently.

Oliver spoke of not only rising alcohol use among the young, but used a chart to chronologically trace the history of strong drug usage from 1975—the beginning of "the age of pot"—to the present. He based his findings on national surveys, which showed decrease of drug use in the mid-'80s, but then a resurgence which is presently growing.

"They're numbers you can use to save a lot of kids," he said.

Calling for action to save those at risk, Oliver stated, "I see three legs that have to be engaged — school, parents and community."

Oliver has had a lot of practice. His own daughter joined the drug culture, running away from home in Nationally known speaker Bill Oliver presented "Parenting an Alcohol and Drug-Free Child in the 90's" in CHS's Kirchgessner Theater April 5. He spoke about the need for a strong parent network to combat drug and alcohol usage that places children at risk.

1978 and staying away for six months.

"I knew when she went away to college she was going to cross that line," he said. "But we (her parents) had built enough internal controls to create a discomfort zone."

When she finally returned, guilty and broken, Oliver and his family "began the long journey back from the insanity of the world of chemical dependency" and "enrolled in a drug treatment program," says literature from PRIDE.

Soon after, Oliver—educated extensively on the subject of drug prevention — "joined forces" with PRIDE and developed Parent-to-Parent.

Marsha Combs, one of 10 Parent-to-Parent facilitators in the Clarkston area, was among those who attended the lecture — and she was grateful.

"He really has kids' interests at heart. I'm glad he brought this in. It's nice because he's so down to earth," she said. Combs also connected with Oliver because she, too, understands as a parent how much adults need to be aware within their busy lives of the dangers children face.

"He didn't have a clue that his daughter was on drugs," Combs said. Combs also pointed out that Oliver is "not convinced.... that the inner-city is where all drugs are. It (often) hits more affluent people."

Combs said that Oliver just returned from the Birmingham area, where he found drug and alcohol usage "very high," having increased by 127 percent since 1990.

She added that Western Michigan University is presently doing a drug and alcohol survey within Clarkston High School. The last time students were polled was in 1992.

"It's really startling, it's not good," said Combs, speaking of the survey two years ago. "He (Oliver) feels it's going to be worse." Like Oliver's experience with his daughter, Combs feels many parents are clueless as to possible drug problems among their own children.

"Kids are not getting sick from the alcohol because the marijuana is making them so high," she said.

Combs said facilitators of the program — which she stresses is parent, not school based — received 38 responses as a result of the lecture.

Leaving the auditorium, parent Rex Armstrong said he had a change of heart after hearing Oliver. The father of two elementary-age children, Armstrong admitted — with humor — that he was "a prisoner," dragged to the lecture by his wife Debbie, who has been involved with Parent-to-Parent during the past year.

"I thought it was quite informative and an eye-opener. Statistics show that drug usage is on the rise again. It was disappointing to hear that," he said.

For more information on Parent-to-Parent, a nationwide program that seeks to empower parents through the use of three mini-workshops presented in eight individual segments, call (810) 625-7693 or 625-1373. A new session begins April 25.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

LITTLE THINGS MEAN A LOT

ONE PERCENT Interest higher is the same as 11 points over the life of a home loan.

27 S. Main, Clarkston
625-9300

QUESTION: Some banks charge one percent interest less but one or two points more and more vice versa. Which is most important, points or interest?

ANSWER: It doesn't sound like a big difference, but a 1% lower interest rate can save you around $11,000 over a 25 year loan of $50,000.

Points are the fee charged for making the loan. This charge is in addition to the interest and other closing costs. One point equals 1% of the loan amount. On a $50,000 loan, two points would come to $1,000 over and above the interest on the loan. So, over the life of a loan, one percent higher interest will cost you eleven times the cost of the point.

OTC teams sweep electric car contest

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

You'll have to excuse principal Dan Manthei if he's walking around proud as a peacock these days.

Last week at the second Micro-Electric Vehicle Competition sponsored by the Society of Automotive Engineers, Detroit Edison and Ford Motor Co., teams from his Oakland Technical Center High School Northwest took the only two first-place prizes that were available.

The team of junior Nick Mays and senior David To of the electronics technology/principals of technology class won the race, earning $1,000 for their school and $100 savings bonds for themselves. And the freshman team from the math/science academy, comprised of Seth Johnson, Chris Syder, Dana Huff, Sommer Starck and Taressa Irwin, won the design competition, earning a trophy.

It was the first time any of the students had taken part in the competition, which was held April 3 at Groves High School in Beverly Hills. They competed against cars from 23 high schools, with 200 students divided into teams of up to five students per team.

Their challenge: to design and build a car, no bigger than five by eight by six inches, powered by one AA battery, that could race up a fixed incline while pulling a weighted trailer. It also had to have working headlights.

First, second and third place prizes were awarded in the race; only one prize was awarded for design.

The Mays/To car used a stock model car body made of plastic and won the race in seven seconds flat, according to teacher Jeff Fagan. When asked what made the car go so fast, he refused to comment, saying it was a "secret."

The academy car didn't fare very well in the race (it didn't make it up the incline) but was the only one in which the team built the body from scratch. The students first constructed a clay model, then used it to build a papier mache body. They incorporated body parts from a variety of sources, including remote control cars, paper clips, radios and airplane lights.

"We were the youngest team there," said an obviously proud Sommer Starck, of Lake Orion. "That was kind of cool to earn that award over seniors."

"A lot of cars were made of Legos," noted Chris Syder, of Holly. The team toyed with the idea of using Legos, even tried building cars out of juice boxes and pop cans, before an art teacher suggested they use modeling clay. They didn't have the car done until just hours before the race.

"We were running a little bit late," Sommer admitted. "We kept trying different things."

The whole project was extracurricular, meaning the students spent many weekend hours working on it at home. They divided into two teams, one working on design, one on the engine and spent five weeks on the project.

"It was basically a learning experience," Taressa Irwin, of Brandon Township, said. "We know for next year we have to start a lot earlier."

The race did not go off without a hitch. One of the academy car's headlights burned out at the last minute and the team didn't have a spare. The judges decided to let it compete anyway. "We thought they were going to disqualify us," Chris Syder, of Holly, said.

"The whole thing was basically trial and error," said Taressa. "We learned from our mistakes."

Some of the team members admitted they didn't know much about electricity when they began working on the car. Some didn't even know what a soldering gun was, let alone how to use one. Even making the papier mache was tricky, with a bucket of paste being spilled all over Sommer's kitchen floor.

They've come a long way and say they will be back next year with the same team. With another year of math and science under their belts, they think they can do better. "I think by the time we're seniors we'll have a first," said Taressa.

"We have a plan for a four-second car next year," said Seth Johnson, of Oxford, clearly relishing what for now is just a dream.

Their academy math teacher, Kyle Hughes, is as proud as a mother hen. "I have goosebumps right now from head to toe," she said. "This is not expected of ninth-graders. Next year we may even win the race."

Next year may also see the continuation of a friendly competition between Fagan's students and the academy team. This year, the two teams didn't share any of their work. "They refused to share their secrets," Seth said.

Fagan ribbed the academy team good-naturedly, calling their car a "Spudmobile" by comparison to his students' slick red sports car. But seriously, the competition "was a chance to apply what we do in class," he said. "It's a combination of electronics and the principles of physics that we learn."

That's exactly what the sponsors are hoping. "We hope this event will nurture high school students' interest in math and science, and also introduce them to the concept of an electric-powered vehicle—the technology of the future," said John Olsen, manager of Detroit Edison's electric vehicle program.

Your lovin' teddy bear Student sends huggables to earthquake victims

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Like millions of Americans, Cate Jantzen watched a CNN broadcast several weeks ago that profiled a California couple sending 10,000 teddy bears to kids in Kobe, Japan — victims of a recent earthquake.

And, like millions, her heart went out to them. But that was just the beginning for the sixth-grader who attends Cedar Crest Academy and lives in Clarkston. Her heart soon found work for her hands to do.

"I said, 'Oh, Mom — that'd be cool,'" Cate said, remembering the night she watched the broadcast with her mom Polly. "She said, 'Why don't you call and see if they need any bears?'"

Undaunted by her youth and lack of experience, Cate bravely got on the phone and contacted CNN, United Airlines, and finally, Dr. Bob Baker and Barbra Maron, the couple from California.

Because she had learned that United Airlines would ship the bears for free, she called them first. They told Cate that, although she had "a nice idea," they felt the quota had been reached. But that didn't stop the persistent youngster.

She called CNN in Atlanta, Georgia who hooked her up with Baker and Maron's phone number. She assembled a list of "interview questions" and left a message on the California couple's answering machine. Maron called her back later in the day and Cate was prepared. Using interview skills she had learned in school, she asked Maron a variety of questions.

And she got the answers she needed.

Maron told Cate 5,000 bears had been collected and only new ones could be sent because of diseases that might come from former little owners' hands. She also told Cate that she got the idea because "my have lived through traumas."

Maron said she and her husband had their own

Cate Jantzen, a sixth-grader at Cedar Crest Academy, is collecting teddy bears to send to kids affected by the earthquake in Kobe, Japan.

"earthquake kit" — complete with flashlights, bandages, even a teddy bear for their little boy — because they lived in Half Moon Bay, California. They thought it would be nice to put signs up around their area, asking people to donate bears to the children in Kobe.

Cate told Maron that she had been studying about "random acts of kindness" in teacher Lori Schultz's class and wanted to help. Maron encouraged her and said she would provide her teachers with additional information if needed.

Cate, a student council treasurer, then approached her fellow classmates, student council members and Schultz.

"They said, 'Oh, that's a great idea!'" Cate said.

The council members agreed to a variety show that would raise money to buy bears and also decided to offer Cedar Crest students the option to buy one for $3 through the California couple or to purchase the bears themselves.

Maron recently sent the 5,000 bears to Kobe and has set a target date for the remaining goal of 5,000 for May 1. Cate hopes to collect as many teddys as she can.

Schultz gives high marks to her student who strove hard to make her dream come true.

"She wouldn't let it go," Schultz said.

Cate's father George is amazed at her maturity.

"I was proud of her. One of the reasons why is when Cate called Barb, who wasn't at home. (When Barb called back) I took the phone. I couldn't believe this person called Cate back.

"My daughter actually made all these contacts and followed through," he said with a smile.

A variety show will be held at Cedar Crest Academy, 8970 Dixie, from 4-5:30 p.m. on Friday, April 28. Admission is 50 cents and the public is invited. Those who wish to donate a bear may do so by making out a check to Family Council of Half Moon Bay. Write "teddy bear" somewhere on the check and mail it to PO Box 576, Half Moon Bay, CA, 94019. For more information on the project call the Academy at 625-7270 and ask for Lori Schultz.

The world through adolescent glasses

Make your own choices, CHS students are told

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

Part stand-up comic, part serious thinker, Mark Scharenbroich captivated Clarkston High School for an hour March 29.

Speaking in an all-school assembly, Scharenbroich, of Minnesota, talked about making wise choices but layered his serious message between thick slices of comedy.

"When we get in high school something happens," he said. That something is major change, both emotional and physical, the leaving behind of childhood innocence and dependence on parents and suddenly caring more than we should what everyone else thinks.

"For the first time it's up to you; for the very first time how you look at the world is based upon choices you make along the way; whether you want to build up the world or trash it along the way," he said.

Though his speech was billed as motivational, Scharenbroich was quick to deny that. "If you can't motivate your self, what makes you think I can?" he asked. "Motivation is an inside choice, not an outside speaker."

Scharenbroich spent a lot of his time pointing out the differences between children of various ages. Sitting at a wooden desk, alone in the middle of the gym, he reminded the students of how eager they all were in elementary school, raising their hands at every question, whether they knew the answer or not—"every day, every question."

"By the time you get to be a springtime senior, it's 'No way am I raising my hand. I've been doing this an long time,'" he said. The students, recognizing themselves, laughed.

He also pointed out how quick babies are to accept other babies—any babies.

"They don't judge or compare or stereotype," he said. "Little babies aren't born bigots. I'm afraid we learn that along the way. They don't form gangs and fight other babies because they wore the wrong color Pampers that day." Though it was funny, everyone understood what he meant.

CHS principal Brent Cooley said Scharenbroich came to the school early that day so he could spend some time getting to know the major issues and personalize his speech. During the assembly he made mention of the CHS Jungle, the football team and the local level of affluence.

"I was impressed by that," Cooley said. "That he would take the time to make this a personal presentation... I like him as a person and a presenter."

Though his approach was very much in the comedic vein, Scharenbroich's message was very serious. He asked students to share, not compare themselves.

"We spend too much time comparing and not enough sharing," he said. "You're not your mom, you're not your dad, you're not your older brother or sister. You have a destiny that's now your very own."

"Mr. Rogers couldn't come so you're stuck with me," Mark Scharenbroich told CHS students.

Girls overcome the 'intimidation factor'

"Technology makes today's woman different from her grandmother"—Susan B. Anthony

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

"I wonder if they're going to come out and start dancing?"

That's what one male student at the Oakland Science Math Academy North (OSMTech) wondered as he and his classmates waited one morning last week.

The freshman boys were gathered in a meeting room with a curtain drawn. On the other side of the curtain, the freshman girls were preparing something, but the boys didn't know exactly what.

When the curtain was drawn back, the girls presented a series of science experiments, interspersed with a few jokes, that they called "Physics Under Pressure."

The name was a reference to the pressure many women feel about being in a field—math/science—still dominated by men. The students had attended a one-day conference at Seaholm High School called Explorathon '95 a couple of weeks earlier and had, apparently, gotten some new confidence.

"We had the opportunity to take a variety of classes about math and science work fields that were taught by women in those professions," the "ladies of OSMTech," as they called themselves, said in the flyer they handed out prior to the show.

The presentation consisted of a series of experiments and explanations about the scientific principles involved. A volcano was made in a bottle, sugar crystals were formed, and in one presentation, Erica Baker got out her "Dr. Dreadful Drink Lab," which she said was a present from her parents, and made the boys taste and drink weird looking stuff.

Talk about pay-back time. "This is hilarious," one boy was heard to observe.

The final presentation was a serious one. As each person had entered the room, each had been offered a piece of candy from a jar. The candies were of a variety of colors and were used to represent how many people in the population would be affected by various problems, such as AIDS and school violence.

"This presentation was to show you how close these statistics come to you and that you are susceptible to violence and diseases," Erika Washington said.

Kyle Hughes, one of two teachers at OSMTech, said working with the ladies had given her "a whole new insight, not just in teaching, but being a female in a non-traditional job. You guys did a good job—I mean you ladies," she said.

Sommer Starck (back) and Dana Huff get ready to launch a bottle rocket.

Teacher Mike Olson and student Jim Kirkwood don safety goggles to try an experiment at the girls' request.

'Listen to me' Kids rap about their rights in speech contest

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

One talked of how his cousin died from a gunshot wound in the classroom.

Another recalled how many of the greatest discoveries in this world were the result of mistakes.

One talked of the tragedy of anorexia and bulimia.

And yet another spoke for the very young, asking for an end to child abuse.

"The adults of today are hurting the future

Out of the mouths of babes

The following are a few excerpts from speeches given by young contestants during the Region III Oratorical Contest:

On listening —

"With two ears and one mouth, we should be listening twice as much as we are speaking."

Tara Tomlinson, White Lake

On perfectionism —

"Success is rarely granted after your first try."

Randy West, Cranbrook

On child abuse —

"The adults of today are hurting the future generations of tomorrow."

Matt Nichols, West Bloomfield

On youth and education —

"Must I literally have to fight for an education? ... The halls reek of marijuana ... Hold on to us, don't let us slip from your grasp. Don't shut your eyes, your minds and your hearts."

Chandra Thomas, Pontiac

On listening —

Listen like a teddy bear: "With your ears open, mouth shut and eyes facing straight ahead."

Ben Ness, Clarkston

On optimism —

"I don't think the grass is necessarily greener on the other side; I just think it needs to be watered once in awhile."

Susan Rolf, Clio

generations of tomorrow," said Abbott middle-schooler Matt Nichols from West Bloomfield.

All 11 to 15-year-old participants in the Region III Oratorical Contest, hosted by Clarkston's Optimist Club Saturday, were there to say "Listen to Me," the theme of this year's contest.

And they were heard, not only by their peers, but by adults who would remember these messages of youth long afterwards.

Winners from several areas in Southeast Michigan gathered at Clarkston High School to present original four-to-five-minute speeches that were open to interpretation, adhering to the "listening" theme.

Chairman Dave Reschke cautioned judges good-naturedly before the contest began.

"They're young — Our job is to convince them that public speaking is fun. Each room will have parents that are nervous and kids who are nervous. That's what makes it happen," he said.

Judges from many walks of life — psychologists, attorneys, and others — evaluated contestants on poise, content, delivery and overall effectiveness within classrooms in the morning. Eight boys and eight girls were selected to compete in the final round held within CHS's Kirchgessner Theater after a lunch served by CHS's lunch staff that included subs, chicken, a salad bar, ice cream sundaes and homemade cookies. It eased butterflies and provided energy for the grueling afternoon.

Ben Ness, who tied for third place in the boys' division, poses with his parents, Bud and Phyllis.

The young contestants appeared to be exemplary of the first sentence from the Optimist Creed:

"Promise yourself ... To be so strong that nothing can disturb your peace of mind."

During the morning and in the afternoon, teens were not distracted as they conveyed their convictions. But some cheeks were flushed from emotional deliveries, as when one contestant from Farmington Hills implored his parents not to compare him with his brothers and another — a girl — asked people to remember the 90 percent of teens who are not "bad kids."

All finished their speeches with only momentary lapses of memory among some. And all deserved the applause that was held until after the last teen delivered her oratory.

Ninth-grader Rajesh Kottamasu of Birmingham's Optimist Club, was the first to speak in the final afternoon round because he was scheduled for a flight to Palm Beach.

"You're optimistic! I want to shake your hand. You're in the right club!" Jim Evans, an Optimist Club member, quipped to Rajesh and his folks.

Waiting for the results was perhaps even harder than the endless hours of rehearsing and final presentations. Contestants stood outside the Theater with their parents as judges tabled the scores.

Tara Tomlinson of White Lake was one of the youngest. A 13-year-old seventh-grader who attends St. Patrick School in Union Lake, she was poised and smiled as she waited with her parents, who were impressed with all the kids.

"I'm kind of jealous," said Tara's mom, Denise Tomlinson, with a laugh. "A lot of these kids have a lot more composure and confidence than I had at their age."

Results were finally announced around 2:30 p.m. First-place winners will go on to compete in the Michigan District Finals in Frankenmuth on May 6.

Sashabaw middle-schooler Ben Ness, the winner of the local Oratorical Contest sponsored by Clarkston's Optimist Club, tied for third-place with Justin Ross of the Greater Flint Optimist Club.

Ben drew laughter with his often humorous speech that instructed the audience on listening skills.

The effervescent eighth-grader said he thought people should listen like teddy bears — "With your ears open, mouth shut and eyes straight ahead."

Ben says he "loves" making up speeches, but is unsure of his career path.

"It's between a politician, stand-up comedian and a deep-sea diver," he said with a mischievous smile.

Academic achiever

NAME: Matt Wenger
GPA: 4.0
PARENTS: Jim and Sharon Wenger of Independence Township.

PLANS FOR AFTER GRADUATION: To attend engineering school at the University of Michigan.

EXTRA-CURRICULAR ACTIVITIES: National Honor Society, Blue and Gold, varsity soccer and track, where he runs the 400 and 800 meter races.

HONORS, AWARDS, SCHOLARSHIPS: Principal's Award, chenille letter and two pins, Who's Who Among American High School Students, academic all-state soccer team, qualified for Part II of the Michigan Mathematics Test, nominated for WXYZ's Brightest and Best program.

FAVORITE CLASS: "My favorite class would have to be physics with Mr. Burdick because I enjoy math and science, especially if it has a purpose in the real world. Mr. Burdick's sense of humor makes the class entertaining."

HEROES: "My brother Jason (a Central Michigan University grad) is my biggest hero because he has always been an important role model for me as well as a close friend."

FAVORITE LUNCH FOOD: "Either Wendy's or a cheeseburger roll at Little Dana's."

FAVORITE MUSICAL GROUP: Beastie Boys and Pearl Jam.

A GOOD BOOK HE'S READ: "The Hobbit" by J.R.R. Tolkien.

THE SECRET TO HIS SUCCESS: "Keeping up with all of my homework but still realizing there is more to life than just studying."

A GOOD FRIEND IS SOMEONE WHO: "Appreciates who you are and not what you can do for them."

ONE THING HE'D CHANGE ABOUT CLARKSTON: "To get rid of the traffic light on M-15 at the entrance to the Deer Wood subdivision. Being

HOBBIES: "Any kind of sports: swimming, snow skiing, basketball in the summer."

CHURCH: Clarkston United Methodist.

130-IN MEMORIUM

In loving memory of John A. Salswedel Who left us April 11, 1970. I thought my life was over, I would never smile again, Never listen for a bluebird, or the patter of the rain, Never knew if it was cloudy Or the sun was shining through, Because God took you from me And I died a little, too. But the shadows have been lifted, I can smile through all my tears, And live with all my memories Of those few and happy years. Still sadly missed by his wife Florence and family LX16-1

We are SIDING and GUTTER Specialists

We are not a Jack-of-all-trades. We can not guarantee you the absolute lowest price, as we will not sacrifice
the quality products or workmanship that you deserve. But what we will guarantee is an honest and fair price with products and workmanship of the highest quality. We also do our own work. We don't get your job and sub-contract it out, or sell it. So if you are only looking for the cheapest way out, call someone else who claims they can beat any price. If you are looking for an honest and fair price,
quality products and workmanship, dependability, and someone that will still be here after your job is completed, give us a call. Helping you make your home the one you've always dreamed of is what we do.

CLARKSTON

CITY OF THE VILLAGE OF CLARKSTON

CITY COUNCIL MEETING MINUTES MARCH 27, 1995

The meeting was called to order by Mayor Catallo at 7:35 p.m. followed by the Pledge of Allegiance.

Roll: Present: Arkwright, Basinger, Catallo, Sanderson, Secatch.

Absent: Roeser, Schultz.

Moved by Arkwright, supported by Secatch, "That the minutes of the meeting held on March 13, 1995 be approved as submitted." Motion carried.

Moved by Arkwright, supported by Sanderson, "That the agenda be approved with the following deletions: Second Reading of the Fire Prevention Code, Tri-Party Funds, Asset Division, Gypsy Moth Resolution, the Historic District Commission and a Closed Session to discuss pending litigation and the following additions: Depot Park, Apartment above Brook Realty, the SMART election and a Special Meeting." Motion carried.

Secatch read a report from DPW Supervisor Bob Pursley. The dump truck needs to be replaced. The estimates for replacement are between $65-70,000. The truck would be available 8 months after it is ordered.

The slide for the Depot Park playground will be replaced by the Seavy Corporation. President Joe Seavy will contact the manufacturer to determine when the slide will be sent. The sod for the playground will be available the last week of April.

The no parking signs on Depot Road will go up soon and the no parking spots will be painted as soon as the weather permits.

Pursley is to contact Larry Bond to obtain estimates for road repair, a sidewalk through the alley and a safety path to the gazebo.

Curt Catallo met with the Council for a site plan approval for the proposed small, European style beer garden and grill at 54 S. Main.

Resolved by Sanderson, supported by Secatch, "That the site plan for 54 S. Main Street be approved and that the Clark Bar, Inc., provide some type of headlight block for the residence adjacent to the parking lot and that anchored parking blocks be provided in the parking lot." Roll: Yeas-Arkwright, Sanderson, Secatch. Nays-0. Abstain-Basinger (his wife is involved in the project), Catallo (mother of one of the principals in the project). Resolution passed.

The Liquor Control Commission has received an application from Robert Eshaki of Rudy's Market to transfer the ownership of the Liquor License from Hallman's Apothecary to Rudy's Market. The City is asked to take action if the applicant is not in compliance with local laws and ordinances. No action was taken by the Council.

Resolved by Arkwright, supported by Sanderson, "That the Michigan Municipal League membership dues be paid for $711.00 for the period from February 1, 1995 to January 31, 1996." Roll: Yeas-5, Nays-0. Resolution passed.

Poppy Days will be May 18, 19, 20, 1995.

Fun Daze will be May 20, 1995.

There was a question put to the Council whether an apartment could be established over the Brook Building on Main Street. The owner of the building must submit a letter to the Council outlining his intent. This letter will serve as an application. Then the owner of the building would need to contact the building inspector to assure that the building was in compliance with the building safety ordinances.

Commissioner Larry Crake indicated to Mr. Pappas that the Oakland County Commissioners would be having a special meeting to decide if Oakland County residents will participate in an election to determine SMART funding. If there is to be an election, it will be in late June and the election costs will be paid for by the County.

Secatch indicated that he feels there is a need for a special meeting to wrap up some unresolved issues which have been discussed but there has been no action taken on and to do some long range planning for the community.

Basinger indicated that this type of meeting should be done after the preliminary budget meetings are held so we can determine what resources are available to meet long and short term goals.

Moved by Sanderson, supported by Secatch, "That the meeting be adjourned." Motion carried.

The meeting was adjourned at 8:37 p.m.

Guys and dolls

The boys were almost as pretty as the girls at the 16th Annual Fashion show and Luncheon hosted by marketing students of Oakland Technical Center Northwest on April 7.

The program took place in the Center's Northwest Inn. While guests enjoyed an elegant meal prepared by culinary arts students that ended with a dessert of swans fashioned from puff pastry, marketing students filtered through the Center's Northwest Inn, modeling the latest in casual and prom wear.

Besides never-say-die fabrics and fashions like khaki, denim, culottes, pleats and pantsuits, everyday predictions for Spring '95 included a look back with granny dresses and ahead to new flowing, filmy fabrics and styles.

Prom wear for guys featured tuxedos that ranged from classy—purple crushed velvet—to country—a western-styled tux, complete with string tie, from a company fittingly called "Sundance." Even Michael Jordan had his name stamped on a coat-and-tails ensemble.

Young women's prom fashions were more classic with gown length varying from short to long and dark, dramatic colors favored as well as bare shoulders and backs.

Several of the models had a little experience. Brandon High School senior Jennifer Martin attended Jennifer Powers modeling school for a year and has done hair shows. Also a BHS student, Jeremy Kopariasz appeared not only comfortable, but confident, with a unique swagger that brought smiles to guests' faces.

"I did a commercial for WKBD-TV. I guess I got into the strut because I was wearing a tux—and I'm a clown," admitted the tall sophomore.

But most marketing students agreed they were there to have fun.

"It was my second fashion show," said Christy Van Wagoner of Waterford Mott. "It's fun to dress up and walk around for a day."

Spring-like floral centerpieces made by students in the floral design program were among 30 door prizes donated by the Center and area businesses. The program also featured an awards ceremony that honored several students including Marketing Student of the Year Jim Miller of Brandon High School.

The fashion show/luncheon is put on every year to raise money for DECA, an association of marketing students. The OTC marketing program is two-years' worth of classes offered to area high-schoolers.

"Students can begin (the program) in their junior year," Marie Foster, OTC marketing teacher said. "It's a wide range of curriculum. They learn everything from economics and selling to entrepreneurship and management."
