Waldon-Main rezoning tabled by city planning commission

Neighbors oppose proposed office building

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The first concrete proposal to rezone five residential lots at Main and Waldon has been tabled to the next Clarkston Planning Commission meeting June 5.

Because of the large number of residents who attended a public hearing Monday night at City Hall and expressed their concern, the commission felt it was not able to make a decision that night.

"We're pretty evenly balanced — for and against," said Planning Commission president Daye Huttenlocher.

Bob and Deanna Olsen, Clarkston business owners and residents for over 20 years, requested rezoning the property from residential (R-1) to business (B-1) zoning. The Olsens presented elaborate plans and introduced people they have hired to do the work, including an architect who has been remodeling Mackinac Island's Grand Hotel for the past 23 years.

The Olsens previously signed a purchase agreement with Independence Township and have "a certain amount of time with which to analyze it before they close on it," said Dale Stuart, township supervisor. The one-year option to buy could be extended to two years, said Deanna Olsen Tuesday morning.

The land, owned by the township but within the city, has been for sale for almost six years with a $130,000 price tag. The township has agreed not to sell the lots separately, but as a five-parcel chunk. Several sources say four of the lots are unbuildable because of wetlands, currently protected by the state's Department of Natural Resources. The Olsens plan to sink another $50,000 into their project to fill the land and make it level for building.

Bomb calls plague tech high school

Three calls in two days

There were some anxious moments at the Oakland Technical Center Northwest last week as bomb threats were received at the school two days in a row.

The first call came on Thursday and led to school being dismissed early. The building was searched by a Michigan State Police dog but no bomb was found.

On Friday two more calls were received (one was also received at Waterford Kettering High School) but this time the school was not evacuated.

"We determined after a thorough search of the building (Friday) that it was probably a bogus call and did not evacuate the building," said deputy superintendent of Clarkston Schools Mike LaBay.

Friday's calls came in during lunch time and the sound of basketballs could be heard in the background, reinforcing the conclusion that they were prank calls. Different secretaries took the two calls on Friday, and LaBay would not say if investigators believe they were from the same person or not. The Oakland County Sheriff's Springfield Township substation is investigating.

OTCNW principal Dan Manthei said that after the first incident was reported in the media, he wasn't surprised to get more calls.

"You knew we would have the copycats," he said.

But even if the calls are from pranksters trying to get school dismissed early, each one must be taken at face value.

"Every case we consider seriously," LaBay said. "We have to do the best we can to identify who is calling and assess the danger. It's one of the hardest decisions an administrator has to make."

V-E Day memories

The 50th anniversary of the end of World War II in Europe occurs this week on May 7. For a whole generation of Americans, the memories are still vivid today.

The Clarkston News talked with three veterans who were each serving in a different part of the world when the German surrender was announced. Their memories appear on page 3A, along with the news story which covered the event in The Clarkston News 50 years ago this week.

The news in brief

Man charged with sex crime

A Clarkston man has been charged with second-degree criminal sexual conduct on a 10-year-old boy. Raymond Fannin, 29, was arraigned Friday in 52-2 District Court and was held in lieu of $50,000 bond. Oakland County Sheriff's Detective Chuck Young said Fannin and the victim knew each other and the alleged crime took place in the Mann Rd. home where Fannin was living back on April 14 or 15. A preliminary exam was set for May 5.

More charges in bomb case

Three more Clarkston teenagers were arraigned last week in connection with the making of homemade bombs. Jessie Laycock, Eric Endreszl and Armin Michelsen were all arraigned in 52-2 District Court after returning home from a spring break vacation. They will face a preliminary hearing on May 12 at 1 p.m. along with Jason Buckmann and Brian Trollman, who were arraigned earlier. The charges are felonies punishable by up to four years in prison.

Township recycling halts temporarily

The free recycling drop-off center at the Independence Township DPW will shut down temporarily due to construction at the facility on Flemings Lake Rd.

DPW assistant director Linda Richardson said that because of remodeling and the upcoming spring clean-up being offered by the township, the recycling center will shut down effective May 8. It will reopen June 5.

Warning for senior citizens

Independence Township senior citizens began calling the township Tuesday reporting some vague solicitation phone calls they had been receiving.

Lanette Amon, senior center programmer, said she had received four or five calls from seniors who were contacted by a caller offering a discount on senior center membership. The solicitor asked for an appointment to come to the senior citizens' homes.

Amon said the township senior center charges no membership, and wants residents to know that the callers do not represent the township.

Adoption service needs urgent help

The Department of Social Services and Kinship, a non-profit coalition of 28 local adoption agencies, have joined forces to connect waiting children with loving families by facilitating the adoption process.

Many children are currently waiting to be placed in permanent homes. Some have special needs, but many are handicapped simply by having been in the foster-care system for so long they have never known a permanent family.

Many prospective parents may be unaware they can adopt a child, even though they may be single, older or on a restricted income. Adoptive parents need not be wealthy or homeowners, only responsible and stable with lots of love to give.

Children of all ages are available. For more information call Kinship at (810) 443-0306.

Old soldiers remember

V-E Day refocused attention on Japan, vets say

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

For recent generations of Americans, the end of World War II is most vividly remembered by a famous photograph. In it, a sailor kisses a nurse in the middle of the street in New York City. The overwhelming joy of the moment when the news of peace reached the home shores is forever remembered in a split second preserved on film.

But for the generation that served there are other memories.

Stewart McTeer was in Yorkshire with the Canadian Air Force. Stanley White was in Germany at the U.S. First Army Headquarters. Franklin Willard was in the South Pacific with the Air Transport Command.

These three men, who were all serving their countries during the war and who now all call Clarkston home, have vastly differing but equally clear memories of the end of the war in Europe--V-E Day, May 7, 1945. Each remembers the suffering of the war and the relief of the victory--50 years ago this week--like it was yesterday.

"We were on war crimes work," White, 77 and a frequent visitor these days to the Village Bakeshop, recalled. He was there for the liberation of the Nazi death camp at Buchenwald. It's a memory so painful his wife doesn't like to make him talk about it.

He remembers the smell. He remembers finally feeling, with the announcement that Germany had surrendered, that he was probably going to make it home.

"It was very disagreeable work," he said, without embellishment. With the surrender, "Everybody was so happy. We came to the realization we were going to survive."

It's that juxtaposition of life and death that makes the memory so vivid for him, even today. "It's a nice feeling to know you're young and you're going to survive. You don't forget that," he said.

Shortly after the surrender, "They put us in trucks and we rode for four days to LeHavre, then went on to Southampton. We were sent home right away."

The joy was tempered by the realization--indeed the fear--that he would be sent on to the Pacific, where the Japanese were still fighting Allied troops. The Japanese would not surrender until August 14, eight days after the atomic bomb was dropped on Hiroshima.

Luckily, White had enough "points" to avoid being sent to the Pacific. Within a few weeks he was back home in New York.

McTeer describes his stay in Wales as a relatively comfortable assignment, but there are some things he won't talk about. What he will say is that like White, his joy in the Allied victory was dulled by the fear he would be sent to the Pacific. At the time he was a 19-year-old flight sergeant who called Detroit home.

At the time of V-E Day he had been in England for two years working as an aircraft engineer. He said his base had been expecting the German surrender for several days before the news finally came.

"They had good intelligence," he said. "Few planes went out."

At about the same time, the first films became available of the liberation of Nazi concentration camps. (The first one, at Ohrdruf, was liberated April 4.)

"There was a horror. Nobody could believe what they had done. They kept it pretty well hidden," he recalled.

After the Germans surrendered, McTeer was granted leave time and took a train down to London. Savagely pounded by the German blitz, Londoners were overjoyed by the peace. Suddenly they didn't have to darken windows every night for fear of bombs. Soon, the days of subsisting on fish and chips and not much else would be over.

"They took the town apart," McTeer said, recalling huge bonfires and free-flowing wine. "I understand they fired off just about every piece of pyrotechnics they had."

He then traveled to Scotland, land of his ancestors, and witnessed a parade of Highland troops in

V-E Day Celebrants Quiet in Clarkston

(From The Clarkston News, May, 1945)

To the people of Clarkston and vicinity V-E Day meant a day of thanksgiving and a day when most folks here concentrated on what the days ahead might bring. Those who had sons, husbands or daughters in Europe started at once to wonder what the next move would be. Would their loved ones be sent home or would they be moved to the war in the Pacific? Tuesday was a day of rejoicing in a very quiet way. Clarkston stores closed for the day. The Bank, Post Office and Cafe remained open and the schools held their regular sessions. Somehow folks just could not celebrate in a hilarious manner because they felt that Victory was only partly won and there was much to be done in the far east.

Now that the war in the West is over our major concern is to crush Japan. To do this will cost money and plenty of it. That is the reason that the quota for the 7th War Loan, starting Monday, is so big. Millions of fighting men, freshly outfitted and equipped, will have to be moved from Europe halfway around the globe; and supplied by hundreds of new ships. More of everything will be needed--more B-29's--more tanks, half-tracks, jeeps and trucks--more rockets, mortars and airborne radar. The people of America must see that our fighting men get the equipment that is needed. To raise the vast sum needed every American will have to dig deeper into current income--dig deeper into cash reserves.

their traditional plaids. Returning to his base, he prepared for what he thought was a trip to Japan. But again, "points" bailed him out and he was sent home.

"Mixed in with the joy was a lot of sadness too," he said. "A lot of people weren't coming home."

While McTeer and White were on their way home, Willard was fresh off one of the large battles of the Pacific, the Battle of Tarawa. The war wouldn't end for him until after Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Willard was stationed on the Island of Betio in the Gilbert Islands, a strategic refueling and stopping-off point for Allied planes between the U.S. and Japan. A British possession at the time, the islands are located on the Equator.

"I was there until the end--V-J Day," Willard, 81, recalled over lunch at the Independence Township Senior Center. Though he wasn't in the thick of battle in his job supporting aircraft, he remembers with horror the loss of 5,000 men in the Battle of Tarawa; men, he said, who didn't have to die.

"We lost 5,000 men needlessly," he said, due to faulty intelligence. "The Marines have a saying, 'Never retreat.'" He no longer agrees with that sentiment, he said.

After the horrible losses, word of V-E Day brought delirious joy.

"I couldn't get my men to work for two days," he said. "They got drunk and refused to work. I called headquarters and they said, 'Don't worry about it.'"

As did McTeer and White, Willard was expecting European troops to begin showing up after the German surrender. "But they didn't," he said. Though he hoped to be able to take part in the occupation of Japan, his "point" total got him sent home after V-J Day.

"I was the last one to leave the island because I had to stay and close up," he said. At home he had a wife waiting, whom he had married in 1942 when,

HUG gets down to business

Group supporting high-school millage seeks volunteers, money

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

The atmosphere was reminiscent of a pep rally when HUG—Help Us Grow—held its first public meeting Monday night at Clarkston High School.

HUG is the organization formed to promote the June 12 bond issue for a new high school. After a student brass quintet played the Star Spangled Banner, enthusiastic HUG chairman Kurt Shanks took the occasion to rally the troops for a one-on-one, neighbor-to-neighbor type of campaign. He asked volunteers to host coffee meetings, speak before church groups, register people to vote and canvas their neighbors.

"It's time; it's overdue. We've tried two times before to get a new high school and have failed," he said. "The population is getting bigger, the conditions at this building and at Clarkston Middle School are getting worse . . .

"Six weeks from tonight we want to be able to say we did it; let's get on with life and the business of teaching."

Clarkston schools' assistant superintendent Dave Reschke spoke about some of what the proposed new high school will offer and some of the shortcomings of the current building, most due to the fact that it is well over capacity.

"I don't think we're at a point of crisis but I think we can rally around an opportunity," he said. "There is a long-range plan. It's a five-year plan that has taken us six years so far. But we're going to stick to it."

Reschke said the current CHS, built in the 1950s, was designed with core facilities (lunchroom, auditorium, gym, etc) for 900 students. The building now holds 1,700.

"Come to this high school during the day when kids are in the halls," he said. "It is not the kind of environment you would want to work in as an adult . . . Our kids treat each other well. I don't think adults would treat each other as well."

He said more space is needed for counseling and parking as well as more classrooms, and mentioned that the recent student musical was sold out for every performance because of the size of the theater.

"I'm not going to denigrate this building," he said. "It's just not appropriate for the future. But it can still be a good place to educate some children." The plan calls for moving Clarkston Middle School to the building if a new high school is approved.

For the rally HUG brought in former state school superintendent Phil Runkle, who is now a consultant. He praised the bond proposal document, which Shanks called the "contract with the community," saying it is "honest and forthright and you should use it."

Runkle said he had visited around the building during the day Monday and noted large class sizes and the overcrowded cafeteria.

"You are growing by about 100 students per year," he said. "You're headed for split sessions."

The bond proposal will ask voters to approve $52 million for a new high school on Flemings Lake Rd. The proposal is expected to cost property owners 3.94 mills the first year. For a property with a market value of 150,000, that's about $295 per year. (A mill is one dollar for every $1,000 in taxable property value.) Future years' levys may vary based upon growth in the district's property values.

Parent Ruth Wheeler said she came to the meeting "just to give my support." She said she's seen beautiful new high schools in several Upper Peninsula towns she has visited—towns much less affluent than Clarkston.

"If those places can afford to build beautiful high schools, I think we can too," she said. "It's not going to cost that much. Most of us spend what it's going to cost in a year on recreational activities like bowling and going out to dinner."

HUG will soon have a hotline and is currently seeking donations to help pay for signs and other costs of the campaign. Checks payable to HUG can be sent to P.O. Box 763, Clarkston, MI 48347. For more information call Shanks at 620-3787.

Corrections

In an April 12 article chronicling the history of the township's investment debacle, a line in the second column near the bottom of the page was not attributed. The sentence said "In late December, the township filed another claim against brokers (Craig) Liebold and (Jeffrey) Oetting who misled them with bad investment advice." The "misled" accusation should have been attributed to the township's claim.

Brokers say Lutz knew risks

Arbitration claim: 'Mr. Lutz . . . sophisticated and skilled financial manager'

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

As Independence Township Treasurer John Lutz prepared to invest over $5 million in four securities, he already knew interest rates were increasing, putting the investments in danger.

That's part of the defense brokers Craig L. Leibold and Jeffrey D. Oetting are using in an arbitration claim responding to the township's claim they "knowingly misled" Lutz concerning six separate securities.

Leibold and Oetting claim Lutz was well aware of the dangers of all six of the securities that he invested in. All six were dependent on interest rates and when rates began to rise the original investments decreased in value, a risk Lutz knew was possible, according to the claim.

On behalf of Leibold and Oetting, the Houston-based law firm of Clements, O'Neill, Pierce & Nickens filed two separate arbitration claims in response to the township's two claims, which were filed in November 1994 and January 1995.

The township claims state that the two salesmen, while they were with PaineWebber and Westcap Securities, knowingly lied to and misled Lutz with bad investment advice, and that Lutz relied on those two for guidance.

The November claim seeks $3.5 million in damages related to four securities while Leibold and Oetting were at Westcap, and the January claim seeks $650,000 related to two securities while the salesmen were at PaineWebber.

The Michigan State Department of Treasury has since determined it is "illegal" for municipalities to invest in those six derivative-type investments because they are risky.

Leibold's and Oetting's claim states the relationship between them and the township was simply broker and customer, not investment advisors with a "fiduciary duty." They allege Lutz knew all along what the potential adverse affects from a rise in interest rates could mean.

"Mr. Lutz's expressed and implied representations concerning his purchases of securities from Westcap were credible. Not only did he converse knowledgeably with respect to the products he was purchasing, but he demonstrated repeatedly his investment acumen," the claim states.

The township's claims paint a picture of Lutz as an unsophisticated investor who relied upon advice from Leibold and Oetting in making his investment decisions. "In fact, Charter Township and its treasurer were sophisticated investors who utilized information from a variety of sources and relied upon Leibold and Oetting only to deliver the securities they desired to purchase at competitive prices," the broker's claim states.

Response to January 1995 claim

Leibold's and Oetting's response to the township's January 1995 claim states Lutz first opened an account with PaineWebber and salesmen Leibold and Oetting in April 1990. They said Lutz understood the specific interest-rate-dependent collateralized mortgage obligation investments, of which Leibold and Oetting primarily sold.

Up until Leibold and Oetting left PaineWebber in October 1992, the township purchased and sold numerous CMO securities for "substantial profits," the claim states.

The claim goes on to say that the township is ignoring the profits made from the numerous CMO securities and has selected only two that lost money.

Response to November 1994 claim

Attorneys for the salesmen say interest rates had already begun to increase at the time Lutz purchased the four securities between September 1993 and March 1994.

"The future direction of interest rates was uncertain and Mr. Lutz and Mr. Leibold and Mr. Oetting thoroughly reviewed this uncertainty and the market price consequences if interest rates continued to rise," the claim state.

"Further, as interest rates continued to increase, Leibold and Oetting discussed selling the securities with Mr. Lutz in light of increasing term (to maturity) and declining market price, and Mr. Lutz made the investment decision not to sell the securities and

Township's two arbitration claims

After several months of investigation by specially-hired attorney Roger Timm of Dykema, Gossett Independence Township filed the first of two claims against investment brokers Craig Leibold and Jeffrey Oetting in November 1994.

The 13-page claim filed against the salesmen and Westcap Securities of Houston, Texas asks for $3.5 million in damages. It says treasurer John Lutz was lied to and misled by the salesmen concerning four separate derivative investments which were purchased at $5.9 million. As of May, 1994 those investments were valued at only $2.25 million.

In January 1995 the township filed another claim, for the same reasons as the first claim, against the salesmen and PaineWebber. This second claim asks for $650,000 based on two other derivative investments. Those investments were made in 1990 and purchased at $618,000. As of May 1994 those investments were valued at $62,000.

All six of the investments have decreased in value because they are based on interest rates, which have increased since the purchases were made.

Because of normal contract agreements between the township and PaineWebber and Westcap when the accounts were opened, the township is forced to file any grievances with an arbitrator.

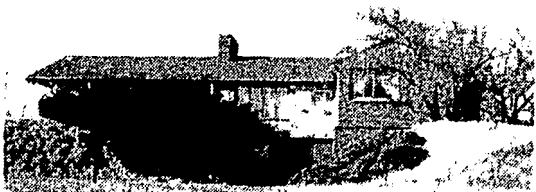

Neither claim is a lawsuit and is not filed with any court.

The first claim has been filed with an arbitrator of the National Association of Securities Dealers, of which Westcap is a member. The second claim has been filed with the American Arbitration Association in New York.

The township continues to emphasize they are in no danger of going bankrupt and the decrease in investment value will not affect the township's financial status.

Ei-liners

By Eileen Oxley

Both sides now

After reporting in your community for almost a year, I feel I'm getting familiar with the issues. But sometimes I don't know what to make of them.

One wants to preserve history. Another wants to modernize. One wants a high school pool. Another doesn't want a tax increase.

A bed and breakfast here, a Clarkston Grange there, while an old stone house fears for its life.

Walking a mile — or block — in my shoes is necessary to get the facts in downtown Clarkston.

Many times I realize there are two sides to every coin. Those times I don't, I try to stay objective in my writing.

Even here, where I have a chance to voice my opinions, I find it hard to take a side. Don't worry though. You'll hear my side of the coin soon enough when I decide to write an editorial.

For now, let me say this. Jon Abbott's recent letter, in which he educated Clarkstonites about the "A" list, was one side of that coin.

I've taken the liberty to provide those folks who don't qualify with a list that relates to the other.

Don't take it too personally or seriously. Take it with a grain of salt.

But take it from one who, as a reporter, listens to members from both sides. "A" list — here's your answer:

- Ten ways to get on the "B" list in Clarkston:
1. Paint your house any color you wish.
 2. Make a large contribution to the Historical Society. Don't change the color.
 3. If you are a cop or DPW worker, show up at council meetings and press for things like new equipment and a separate office.
 4. Feed the ducks and geese on Mill Pond.
 5. Start a business anywhere you can think of — in an old funeral home, for instance. The more blatant the better. Fight city hall all the way to the Michigan Court of Appeals. Note: Home offices don't apply because they are discreet and sometimes protected by "A" list people.
 6. Complain constantly about anyone on the "A" list. But don't take action or form a group to run against council.
 7. Find others like yourself. Hint: Look inside restaurants and coffee shops downtown. Once you have found your group, talk loudly about the injustices of the city so others may hear you and perhaps join.
 8. Park your car in back of others that stay in two-hour spaces all day. This applies to business owners.
 9. Shop in downtown Clarkston as much as possible. Buy your groceries, books, antiques, get your hair done and eat out at least twice a day. Include coffee breaks.

Letters to the editor

Speak up!

This letter is to inform Clarkston-area residents that Gary Haner and our school board have put Clarkston schools and their children up for sale to the lowest bidder! Is this the direction that our community wishes the school system to go? I don't believe it is.

I've always been proud to be from Clarkston. I was born and raised here and went through our school system myself. I now have children entering school and am concerned about the future of Clarkston schools under current administrative control.

Clarkston has always been a community-based district. Walk through the halls of any one of our schools and see familiar faces — be they teachers, aides, para-pros, secretaries, custodians, food service or bus drivers. People who truly have concern for our school children because they too have children, or grandchildren, in our district and support our schools in many ways.

Is privatization of these educational support staff the message we wish to send them as a "thank you" for a demanding job well done for so many years? Would a big-business-run school district better suit Clarkston with out-of-district employees working throughout our school system? Are our children and grandchildren's education really all about dollars? If so, this alone is a sad commentary on Clarkston Schools' future.

For example, if bus drivers are privatized and current employees not utilized, will the new transportation corporation's drivers call dispatch when it looks like Johnny's mom isn't home to verify that someone is there for Johnny? Will they know that Susie gets taken to the babysitter's at a different location if the garage door is down at her house — will they care? Will we still get that personal touch or will schedules and dollars dictate that it be run as a business?

I know a Clarkston bus driver and hear stories like these often and felt others should know what they do as well.

Don't allow Gary Haner to convince our school board to sell our schools, children and the futures of both. Fill the board office with your concern on May 8. Let our board members hear from you.

Sheri Schulte

To an unknown gentleman

We don't know your name, but we do know that you have made the walk along Cranberry Lake far more enjoyable and pleasing to the eye by picking up the litter which had accumulated over the winter (several large trash bags full), and by continuing to pick up newly dropped 'stuff' on your daily walk. All of us in the neighborhood owe you gratitude and thanks.

The only additional bright spot in this matter is that, in our experience, there is evidence that the litterers eventually will disappear. They are using alcohol, tobacco and fast foods, and best of all, not reproducing themselves.

Jim's Jottings

By Jim Sherman

Robert McNamara, my fallen hero

Robert McNamara was one of the four "Whiz Kids" hired by Ford Motor Company after World War II. Iaccoca was another. I've forgotten the other two.

They were billed as young geniuses when Henry Ford II announced their arrival. It was a bold step, bringing in men so young, to boost Ford to world motor company status. Other companies were promoting more seasoned people from within.

McNamara got the most ink, and maybe that exposure caused me to develop an admiration for him.

Of course, I never met him. It was just the kind of relationship you might have with a political figure, talented artist, educator or etc. Someone you've picked out to semi-worship.

I followed McNamara when President Johnson called him from Ford to his cabinet and the job of Secretary of Defense. Years later when he was named head of the World Bank I inwardly praised the selection.

Unlike my friend, columnist Jim Fitzgerald, I did not walk a protest line in opposition to the war in Vietnam. I believed that when our commander in chief calls us to fight for our country, we should do it.

President Johnson made the call. Robert McNamara became his pitchman. We all know that now. We didn't know it then.

Now we know Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara, at the time we were fighting and losing 58,000 American lives, did not believe the war was right, or that we could win it.

Now we know he's little more than just another pitchman. This time he's pitching a book telling us the war in Vietnam was "terribly wrong."

And, he's telling us he knew it at the time, and makes lame excuses on why he didn't resign in the early 1960s and tell the world his beliefs.

I've lost other heroes-of-my-mind, but none who affected me like McNamara's fall. The boy genius of Ford Motor Company (who I've since heard tried to make a 4-door version of the hugely popular 2-door Thunderbird), the great mind our president picked to be leader of the defense of our country... the bum.

McNamara's decline in my mind was total and final when I heard him justify his writing the book as text to teach future generations of leaders-into-war that Vietnam was worth it for the lessons it taught... lessons he put into his book for which he is just another pitchman.

Better he should have been left off network TV interviews and left to buy space on paid TV just like the Lanolin, salad shooter, exercise box, etc., pitchpersons.

15 YEARS AGO (1980)

A new Clarkston High School gets consideration during a special school board meeting Monday night. Superintendent Milford Mason is directed by the board to assess the district's needs and submit a report, outlining a plan by Oct. 1. The plan would include switching to the middle school concept and using the present Clarkston High School and Sashabaw Junior High School for sixth through eighth grades. The district's elementary buildings would house kindergarten through fifth grades, with the high school serving ninth through twelfth grades, using Mason's plan.

Five Republicans have announced they are running for positions on the Independence Township Board. Almost every seat of the seven-member board will appear on the ballot for the Aug. 5 primary election and the Nov. 4 general election.

Michigan Week events in Clarkston include Band Day with a pancake breakfast at the Masonic Temple, a tea at the township library in honor of the Elizabeth Lambert Memorial Book collection presentation, the Annual Spring Stroll in the village and a 10,000 meter run at Pine Knob sponsored by Runnin' Gear and the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department.

25 YEARS AGO (1975)

Isabel Yoh is selected as Clarkston's "Mother of the Year." She has three children and four grandchildren and grew up in Detroit, but spent summers at the family cottage on Lake Orion. Over the years Mrs. Yoh has been active and held office in clubs, church and professional organizations. One of her sons is a Muskegon minister, another son lives in Clarkston and her daughter resides in a home with property adjoining that of her parents, Isabel and husband Dr. Harry Yoh.

The Village of Clarkston holds the new fiscal year budget to a $115 tax increase. Some areas of income and expenditures vary from last year, but none are very different. The total budget calls for receiving and spending $35,444.56.

Salvatore Pomante, well-known golfer-teacher, is appointed pro at Spring Lake Golf Club. Pomante is regarded as one of the best teaching pros in the state and has also done well competitively, finishing tenth in the Michigan Open.

50 YEARS AGO (1945)

The state's Soil Conservation Committee selected two farmers from this county who will be included in a five-member board of directors. They are William Edgar of Clarkston, who will serve for two years, and Cyril Oliver of Pontiac, who will serve one year. Sponsoring the movement, which seeks to control erosion and improve crop yields, are the Land Use Planning Committee, the Oakland County Farm Bureau and the Oakland County Pomona Grange.

Mr. and Mrs. William Watson are guests of 80-year-old pianist Mrs. Charles H. Bonbright of Flint Sunday. Mrs. Bonbright, who is a great-grandmother, is soloist at the Spring Concert of the Flint Symphony Orchestra, giving an incredibly lovely performance of the Filler Fourth Piano Concerto. Following the concert, a reception is held at the home of her son where Mrs. Bonbright delights guests with her stories of Europe as it was when she studied music as a girl.

Specials at Rudy's this week include Spic & Span, a large box for 23 cents; Lifebuoy Soap, three bars for 19 cents, Hills Brothers Coffee, a pound for 34 cents; and Kellogg's Pep, two boxes for 21 cents.

60 YEARS AGO (1935)

Mr. Frank Yeager presents his grandson Frederick S. Yeager of Lapeer with a family heirloom Sunday — a pick-axe made by his grandfather Joshua Brown, a blacksmith in New York in the early days. Mr. Yeager decides Frederick would appreciate something made by his great-great-grandfather and is thrilled to pass over the heirloom. He received another thrill Tuesday when a farmer three miles north of town brought his horse to town to be shod by Mr. Yeager, who is 82 years old.

Playing at the Holly Theatre this week are Helen Hayes and Robert Montgomery in "Vanessa," Ralph Bellamy and Adrienne Ames in "Gigolette," Jean Harlow, William Powell, Franchot Tone and May Robson in "Reckless" and Rudy Vallee and Ann Dvorak in "Sweet Music."

Waterbury's Home Market features Saturday Specials: boneless beef roast, 20 cents a pound; bacon in piece, 29 cents a pound; Table Talk Coffee, two pounds for 35 cents; and pears, two cans for a quarter.

If It Fitz

by Jim Fitzgerald

Blast strikes home, seeing kids, yearbook

Like most everyone else, my first question when learning of the Oklahoma City bombing was: "How could anyone do something as terrible as that?"

A few hours later, even more unbelieving, my question was extended to: "How could anyone who went to the same school as my children be linked to something as terrible as that?"

The fanatic bombers — the totally heartless terrorists — and their buddies are supposed to live in other countries, or at least elsewhere in the United States, far removed from rational people like you and me. They aren't supposed to be pictured in your daughter's yearbook.

Brothers James and Terry Nichols, charged with conspiring to make bombs with the chief Oklahoma suspect, graduated from Lapeer High in 1972 and 1973, respectively. My daughter Ferd graduated in 1974. My son Nerd got out in 1976 and my other daughter (starts with "T" and rhymes with Ferd and Nerd) in 1967. They all knew the Nichols family, but not well.

It undoubtedly isn't appropriate to use those silly nicknames in this tragic context. But I need to remind myself that, no matter how it sometimes seems, real life is better than the murder of dozens of people in Oklahoma, and thousands in Rwanda. There is still reason to laugh.

But damn, it's been hard to do the last few days. A big part of my problem is Ferd's kids. From where I usually sit in my home, I can swiftly shift my gaze from the TV to windows that offer a clear view of 9-year-old Tricia in her backyard, dancing to incredibly loud music with her friend Sarah. Or 4-year-old Adam and his cousin Gracie — my great granddaughter — joyously climbing a tree they're forbidden to climb while at the same time eating cheese crackers they swiped from my cupboard.

Then I can look back at the TV and see children the same age, their bodies smashed and lifeless because of a bomb exploded in front of the building where their working parents left them, so they'd be safe.

All I can think of is that those children were treasured just as much as I treasure my grandchildren. And I want to scream and throw furniture.

I have no idea if the Nichols brothers were even marginally responsible for killing all those people. Lapeer County Deputy Sheriff Dan Bybee — who only yesterday, it seems, was another neighbor child often seen through my window — said: "Terry Nichols and I graduated together. I'm real shocked. He was real quiet. He made no problems whatsoever and came from a good family... But you never know... people change."

One thing we do know, of course, is there is no justification for killing innocent children, no matter how angry you might be at their parents, no matter how righteous and God-blessed you believe your cause is. I agree with those radical groups who charge that our federal government fatally bungled the raid on the Branch Davidian compound in Waco, Texas. But I wouldn't kill anyone to make my point.

So, in the wake of the Oklahoma City bombing, all we rational citizens agreed: No matter if only old people are killed, such bloody actions are wrong. No matter if the killers are crazed terrorists or elected governments, it should never happen. We should settle our differences with words, not weapons.

And all this rational, humane reasoning is doubly true when the violence victims include children who could in no way be responsible for the grievances prompting the violence.

Yes. And in August we will celebrate the 50th anniversary of our dropping the atom bomb on two cities containing thousands of children just as innocent as Tricia, Adam, Gracie and Sarah.

Don't Rush Me

By Don Rush

Just call me Gimpy

So I'm sitting in this swanky little office, looking at the fine, high-gloss oak trim and wondering: why me?

Why did I have to bust my right ankle? It's (as the valley people out west might say) s-o-o-o stupid, I'm sure. After all these years of sports and rough-housing, why now, now that I was on the road to turning that flubber into, well, less flubber?

It's stupid.

I was having a career night at Waterford Courts Pub and Grill playing wally ball. I was moving and gro-o-ving. Diggin' and dinkin'. I was diving to the floor, keeping that ball from hitting.

I was skyin' at the net, blocking shots. I was really getting that two-and-a-half-inch vertical jump of mine humming.

We only had five minutes left to play... why did I have to fall down and go boom?

It's s-o-o stupid.

As I stared at the high-gloss oak walls, the floor and the ceiling of the doctor's office, that terrible moment of truth flooded my memory: up, block, down, twist, crash.

Ouch. Try to get up, no lie back down. Don't toss your cookies. Control your breathing, don't hyperventilate. Don't let the rest of the guys think you're a wuss.

Stand up.

No, sit down. Smile. "I'm okay. I think." (Was that a statement or a question?)

In that doctor's office I came to the realization that I suppose I should have accepted help to my car when the guys offered it. But, that wouldn't have been cool.

"No. Thanks, guys. I'll just walk up this flight of 3,000 stairs, get in my car and drive home. I'll put my ankle on ice. It'll be okay."

Desiree was out for the night with a girl friend. I had the house to myself, and the ever-excitable, always-wanting-in-and-out, wonder dog, Mickey. So, I emptied all the ice trays into a wash tub (no, I did not refill the trays with water) and hopped to the couch.

As I waited for the doctor's professional help, I told myself, "Yep, you should've listened to Des."

When she returned home that terrible, terrible night, she looked at my elephantitis-looking ankle and said, "I think it's broken. Let's go to the doctor."

I assured her that it was only a sprain, everything would be fine and suggested that I sleep on the couch that night. Of course, it was and is broken. The next morning I sucked up all the pride I could and meekly said, "Take me to the doctor."

I'm s-o-o-o-o stupid, I'm sure.

"Mr. Rush, the doctor will see you now."

CHS life by Don Downey

Classes

The first class I ever had was at a preschool in Indianapolis. At Le Petite Academy, as it was called, I was in love with a teacher named Chris. This was because she could not only draw inside the lines (at 3 I hadn't the patience for this), she could also blend shades, making a box of eight crayons produce over one hundred colors.

I was terribly shy and afraid of tomadoes when I was little, so every day I would bring a stuffed treasure from home named Barfy Bunny. Barfy (named after an unfortunate incident which left him permanently discolored) was my confidant. We would sit by ourselves under the art table and talk while Chris gathered the more active toddlers and forced them outside to the playground. I remember thinking about the future and deciding that if school was going to be this bad all through life, I just didn't want any part of it.

Now I'm at Clarkston High School, and I don't sit under the tables anymore. Actually, I don't have many complaints about CHS, we have lots of great stuff (which I'm sure you already know about so I won't go into it). There is, however, one thing which I would like to see changed: the number of periods in the school day.

Clarkston High has six classes every day and every year students and teachers alike complain that seven are needed. There just isn't enough time for people to take all of the classes they need and/or want.

This transformation of the school day could be achieved without altering its length. Each lunch and class could be shortened by five minutes and the time between classes could be shortened by one minute. It is so simple, and I have never heard an explanation why it cannot be done.

A seventh hour would allow everyone to take something they enjoy without losing any important classes. Every year when registration comes around, I suffer from virtual boo-hoo follies because there isn't room for me to take a foreign language. A girl I know who is artistically inclined cannot take art. And a guy I know who loves sports hasn't the time to take gym.

Some people may complain a seventh class will increase the homework load, then stress, and finally teen homicide. To these people, I say, "Chill, baby-baby" (not really), "If you think that is the case, then take something easy as your seventh choice."

Of course, not everyone wants a seventh hour. My friend had a hard time thinking of six to put on her registration card. And a lot of people haven't the energy to pick up their head from one desk, walk for five minutes, and plop it down a seventh time in a new classroom. Still others think six gym classes and English would be too much work in comparison to their current five gym classes and English. (In my English class we learned to use the semi-colon; it was very enlightening.)

I just want a seventh hour because I don't feel there is enough time in the school day. And Barfy agrees.

Heritage Hunt II by Virginia Block

John Francis Martin, service #314-16-99, served aboard L.S.T. #869 during WW II and we have need to try to locate him or a family member for the shipmates who are organizing a reunion.

Mr. Martin resided at 339 Oakland Avenue, Pontiac, 50 years ago, and the time to check with city directories of later dates would be difficult, as well as time consuming, but we hope that anyone belonging to local military service organizations will attempt to help find this former shipmate, if we can.

We need to all give attention to what is occurring in our midst, as so many "old-timers" are no longer involved in teaching family history in the way it was done 20 years ago. It is sad to learn that the Michigan Chapter of Palatines To America has disbanded. The same plea comes from Charles Townsend, editor and secretary of the Roto-Gene publication, for the Rotary Club International genealogy fellowship.

It is difficult to obtain the necessary support from a computer bulletin board that comes from gatherings where people socialize while sharing "family" lineage, experiences, and 1-to-1 camaraderie. Discovery is also easier to document in a library setting, citing the source, copying on the spot, and establishing a "belonging" to a group of new friends.

With the teacher, Betty Lou Morris, Carole Callard, Carole Ring, Joy Reisinger and many others who were our teachers, all having retired or at least limiting their time to present programs, the ranks have become painfully thinned.

Concentration on teaching the very young is imperative, so we are doubling our efforts to reach educators of K-5 grades. Once again, it would involve the parents, earlier in the youngster's schooling.

For those interested in continuing our classes at NOMC (Pontiac General Hospital) on Saturdays, we are planning the next one for May 20, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. For further information please call me at (810) 373-2629. Beginners are welcome, and there is no charge.

The recent workshop in Grand Blanc in April brought together new researchers, with many new "lines," and we are especially working with Jayne Lorian as she seeks information on a Dunston (Dunstan) connection with the Lorian line.

Family "health" charts turned in from the class we taught have also added many new surnames we hope to find "matches" for those anxious to consider all aspects of research. Sharing with each other is still the most gratifying way to research. It's "user friendly."

Happy Hunting.

The Insider

No parking complaints?

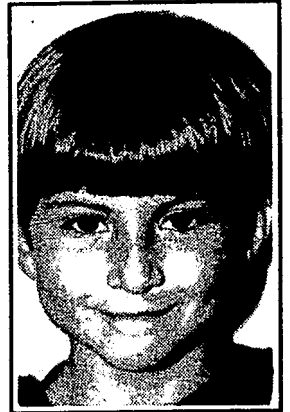

After Clarkston downtown businesses met March 14 and discussed a possible business association, they agreed one of their biggest problems was parking — and its lack of enforcement in the City of the Village of.

But earlier, when Clarkston City Manager Art Pappas was asked if the city told its police department to enforce parking violations, like parking all day in a two-hour zone, Pappas answered — in a way — that he had not received "one complaint." He continued by adding, "When the (former Clarkston Police) chief (Robert DeVore) was here, he said, 'When we get complaints, we'll enforce it.' I haven't had any complaints."

People poll

By Eileen Oxley

What did you learn during Earth Awareness Week?

CHRISTA KOCH, SECOND GRADE: I learned not to use stuff like cars as much as you do, because they pollute the air.

MARGI WARNER, SECOND GRADE: To help by picking up trash. It pollutes the Earth. And don't use chemicals to make your garden grow.

ALEX HARDY, FIRST GRADE: To help by not littering stuff. It would make the Earth smell bad.

JESSICA DEZESS, THIRD GRADE: I learned to recycle a lot. Then you don't put so much trash in the Earth.

MICHAEL THOMPSON, FIRST GRADE: Not to pollute and not to waste lots of water and gas.

Children who make a difference

Youth Assistance honors young Good Samaritans

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

We've all had it happen at one time or another. You're driving your car on an icy road and suddenly the guy in front of you dives into a ditch. Most of us don't stop, but drive on by, thinking we might face danger, lose precious time — or get cold.

That didn't matter to Joe Tersigni. Like the Good Samaritan, Joe stopped so he could help a fellow man who lost control, rolled over and landed in a ditch on White Lake Road — even though he's only a Clarkston High School senior.

"I wasn't worried. He seemed like a nice guy," Joe said modestly. Joe calmed the man and called for a tow truck, staying to help hook up the car when one arrived. The driver turned out to be the president of a communications company that had installed the PA system at CHS. He was so taken with Joe that he called Principal Brent Cooley.

Cooley nominated Joe for a volunteer award from Clarkston Area Youth Assistance. He and many other Clarkston youths were honored at a special Youth Recognition Annual Reception at Clarkston Methodist Church April 27.

After elementary to high school age volunteers feasted on fancy brownies, punch and strawberries, the ceremony began. Invited to give the invocation, Kathy Garwood, a volunteer chaplain for North Oakland Medical Center, eluded to the Oklahoma tragedy and asked for prayers for victims and their families.

"This was an act that has wounded our nation," said Garwood. "The goodness in these young people is our hope for the future."

Teresa Blundell, Youth Assistance child welfare worker and part of the Youth Recognition Committee, followed with similar remarks.

"They (the young people) have set an example for parents, peers and other members of the community — on what it takes to be a good community member."

Certificates of recognition went to 62 youths from the Clarkston community. Areas of volunteerism varied from assisting with horseback riding for the handicapped to cleaning up the environment. One boy was cited for turning in a wallet he found that contained $50.

The Scott Graham Memorial Award went to three Clarkston kids — Mindi Thompson, Adrienne Verla and Andrew Zuker. Mindi, 15, volunteered numerous weekly hours with such organizations as SADD, LIFE and Children's Theatre and visits patients in nursing homes. Adrienne, 12, volunteered hours at Independence Township Library's Summer Reading Club where she worked with first- through sixth- graders.

And Andrew, a 6-year-old kindergartener, jumped into the Clinton River last year to rescue his 4-year-old brother Patchy who fell in without a life jacket.

"I was afraid I wouldn't have Patchy for a brother anymore," he said.

In addition, Sashabaw Middle Schooler Samantha Tubbs was presented with the Al Carter Memorial Camper Award. Samantha was chosen as Camper of the Year.

The evening's honored volunteers were all nominated by someone "who though you were special and did some special things," said Paul VanKlaveren of the Youth Recognition Committee, who presented the awards.

One of the nominees was honored by her ailing mother. The young lady helped her mom with a multitude of household chores.

"She's there whenever I need her," was the tribute read by VanKlaveren.

Consultants show township its computer future

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

For 132 hours of work at a cost of $7,000, a computer consultant will develop a plan for computer operations among Independence Township departments.

Township Parks and Recreation Director Ann Conklin, who also oversees the data processing department, said the computer system needs to be updated so everyone is linked. The township board of trustees voted 5-0 April 18 to hire John Dorsey and Associates to develop the computer plan, which will show "where we are and what we need to do to get there," Conklin said.

Clerk Joan McCrary and trustee Daniel Travis were absent from the meeting.

"The township has grown in its data processing operations significantly in the past several years and there has not been a formal plan for growth," Conklin said. "The time has come for us to recognize the need to consult with an expert in the field who can give us direction and assist us in developing a 'master plan' for the data processing operations of the township."

The board agreed the township is long overdue in making the computer systems more efficient. While some board members questioned the sudden timing of the request, Conklin defended herself by saying she didn't start overseeing data processing until January of 1995. "And after looking into the system it was obvious it was needed," she said.

Conklin also said there were no competitive bids asked for because Dorsey's company is unique in that it is not associated with any computer vendor and receives no commissions from vendors. She said most consultants are associated with specific companies. "He just suggests a course of action we could take and then gives us many resources that we could explore."

In order to pay for the unbudgeted item, the board also approved paying the bill from the township's fund balance.

"This is long overdue and it's a wise use of money," said trustee Bruce Mercado.

Added trustee Jeffrey McGee, "It seems to me we need to get everyone in the township on line with each other and we need to make sure we don't get left behind."

John Dorsey & Associates specializes in public sector work and has conducted many similar projects with other municipalities and counties. Conklin contacted four references and all were very pleased with Dorsey's work.

Water tower fall brings suit

A construction worker's 45-foot fall from an Independence Township water tower could have been avoided, according to a lawsuit filed April 13.

James McDannald of Missouri filed the suit in Oakland County Circuit Court against Independence Township in care of DPW director George Anderson, township engineers Hubbell, Roth and Clark and three other private out-of-state companies.

McDannald, through his attorney George Fishback of Detroit, states in the suit that the fall occurred in April 1992 when he was working on construction of the water tower, located off I-75 on DPW property on Flemings Lake Road.

According to the suit, McDannald was standing on a beam across the top of the 116-foot tower.

As he was helping install an access tube into the ball of the tower, the rig failed, causing the tube to drop, along with McDannald, 45 feet.

The fall caused McDannald "painful, permanent and severe injuries to his head, body and limbs with fractures, abrasions and lacerations, extreme shock to his nervous system, great pain and suffering and mental anguish and further injuries, including a fractured pelvis and sacrum (which is the part of the vertebrae that hooks to the pelvis) and multiple skeletal fractures with closed-head injuries."

McDannald is asking for damages because he was unable to work, incurred the expenses of medical treatment and mental anguish.

Class of '85 reunion planning starting

Members of the Clarkston High School Class of 1995 have been wondering all winter when their 10-year reunion would be held. Now it's beginning to come together.

Kelly Haskins-Stonerock said people are needed to plan the reunion and she is looking for volunteers. The reunion is being planned for August.

Call her at (810) 625-4890 (days) or (810) 636-3240 evenings if you'd like to help.

Teens get job help

Teenagers looking for their first summer job can get the edge they need to succeed by taking part in a workshop offered by the Independence Township Library.

"Get that First Job" will be led by Diane Morrison, a training and development specialist from the K Mart Corporation. Morrison will incorporate role playing and handouts to explain what employers are looking for, how to dress, how to fill out an application and how to sell your abilities.

The free workshop will be held Tuesday, May 9 from 7:30-9 p.m. at the library, 6495 Clarkston Rd. To register, call 625-2212.

Players feature 'Go Back for Murder'

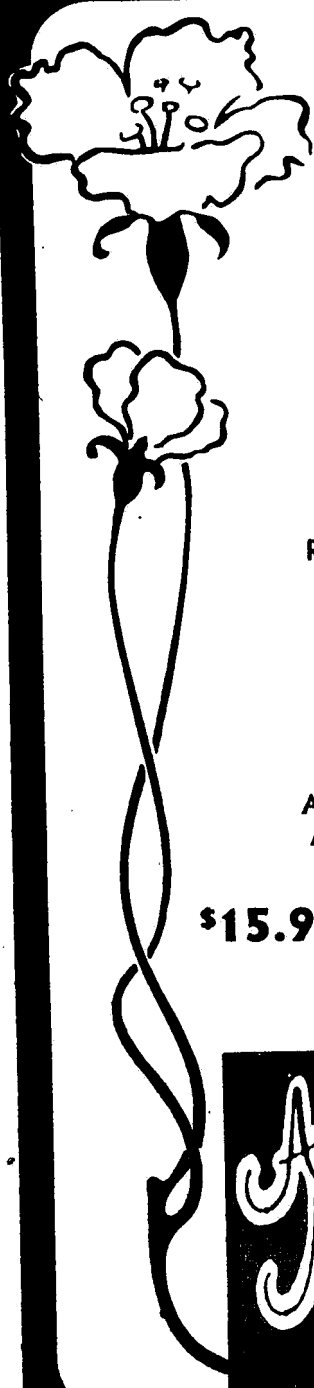

Mistress of murder Agatha Christie asks the audience to return to a case solved 15 years earlier in "Go Back for Murder," Clarkston Village Players' last play of the 1994-95 season. The plot involves a young woman who's given a letter written by her dying mother that may prove her mother innocent of murdering the young woman's father. As always, in classic Christie, audience members become amateur sleuths in helping to solve a case that has plenty of suspects and motives.

The cast includes Cynthia Lundquist, Nancy Penrose, Sandy Brider, Ruth Parent, Verne Vackaro, Bob Kamiskis, Charles Diamond, Russ Crissman and Richard Ernst. Direction is by Marlene Sewick and production is by Holly Stephens. "Go Back for Murder" runs Fridays and Saturdays from May 5 through May 20, beginning at 8 p.m., with a Thursday performance May 18 at 7:30 p.m. Depot Theater is located on White Lake Road next to the railroad tracks, 1 1/4 miles southwest of Dixie Highway. For more information call (810) 625-1826.

MacDonald-Dewey

Ian and Vicki MacDonald of White Lake announce the engagement of their daughter, Annie Laurie, to Christopher Steven Dewey, son of Dean and JoAnn Scharp of North Adams and Steven Dewey of Hillsdale. The bride-to-be is a 1992 graduate of Clarkston High School and attended Central Michigan University prior to obtaining her current position as a proposal engineer at Durr Automation, Inc. in Davisburg. The prospective groom is a 1990 graduate of North Adams High School and will graduate this May from Central Michigan University with a degree in production and operations management. A September 1995 wedding is planned. :

Bon voyage

Twenty-nine French students from Clarkston High School spent their spring break this year in France, getting a little practical experience. The students, along with five parents and five chaperones, visited Paris, Versailles, Giverny and Chartres, climbed the Eiffel Tower and took a boat ride on the Seine during their April 12-20 adventure. French teacher Freda Meyland takes a group every other year. "Everyone left saying they want to come back," she said. When asked what the highlight of the trip was, she said, "just being there and getting to use the language."

At school

● Dane Tait of Clarkston has been tentatively accepted into the auto body repair technology program at Nashville Auto-Diesel College. He is the son of Sara Granlund.

● Jennifer Fussman has been invited to join Phi Beta Kappa, the oldest national honor society in the US, at Ohio Wesleyan University. In order to be considered, students must be in the top 15 percent of their graduating class. Fussman, the daughter of Betty Jo Dyle of Port Austin, is a graduate of Clarkston High School. She is a senior majoring in zoology.

● Jason Nichols, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Nichols of Clarkston, is a BA candidate at Hope College. Commencement is May 7.

● Jennifer Baumann made the Dean's List at Kalamazoo College for the last academic quarter earning at least a 3.5 GPA. A sophomore, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Baumann and a Clarkston High School graduate.

● Michigan State University's list of spring grads includes the following local residents: from Clarkston, Christina Hofman, BA food industry management; Sarah Jacob, BS medical technology; Geoffrey Johns, BA telecommunications; Andrew Johnston, BS mechanical engineering; Sarah Lagoe, BA education; Ingrid Larson, BA interior design; Aaron Meyer, BA general business administration; Anne Moir, DVM; Daric Morell, BS engineering arts; John Terpstra, BS landscape architecture; and Daniel Williams, BS mechanical engineering. From Davisburg, Jennifer Decubber will receive a BA in interior design.

● Robert Vance III, son of Robert and Nancy Vance of Clarkston, has been awarded the Western Michigan University Medallion Scholarship, worth $25,000 over four years. He will major in choral music education.

● Angela Jawors and Douglas Miles, both of Clarkston, received degrees at Alma College's commencement ceremonies April 22. Jawors received a BA in English; Miles at BA in business administration.

Readers with a mission

From left, Katelin Greci, Danielle Gleyre, David Gerdemalik and Jordan Wyman, of Andersonville Elementary School, were among the students who raised money for the Rainbow Connection for every book they read during March. For seven years, Andersonville has devoted the month of March to promoting the joy of reading combined with the spirit of giving. This year the students were visited by former Detroit Lion Rich Strenger. "I wanted to instill that reading can be fun," Strenger said. "I let them know that it will help them in future life, and that they were providing help to those less fortunate than them." The students raised $1,200.

New arrivals

● Michael and Deborah (Volker) Conigliaro of Holly announce the birth of a baby boy, Peter William, born Feb. 8, 1995. Little Peter weighed 7 pounds 8 ounces and was 20 inches long. He has an older sister Katie who is two years old. Grandparents are Peter and Joyce Conigliaro of Davisburg, Gary and Elaine Volker of Fenton and Jan and Jerry Bauer of Fenton. Great-grandmother is Mary Conigliaro of Roseville.

Reunions

● The 100th Infantry Division Association is looking for men who served in the division from 1942 to 1946 in World War II. The 1995 reunion will be held in September in Louisville, KY. For more information call (215) 699-9498 or write William H. Young, Jr., 307 N. Main St., North Wales, PA 19454-2505.

A chip off the old (cement) block

Beaumont construction supervisor takes her daughter to work

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Maegan McKay would never mess up her immaculate coiffure with a hard hat.

After all, the Bailey Lake third-grader plans to be Hair Stylist to the Stars when she grows up.

But Maegan, 10, did enjoy accompanying her mom Kathryn to Royal Oak's Beaumont Hospital April 27 where Kathryn works as a construction cost analyst supervisor. Moms and daughters bonded that day in a national "Take your Daughters to Work Day" that included more than 250 Beaumont employees.

The annual event, sponsored by the New York-based Ms. Foundation, is in its second year at Beaumont and open to elementary through high school girls. The workday focused on mothers' everyday jobs, but also included hospital tours and hands-on experience with real medical equipment.

In addition, Maegan enjoyed using the computer and doing her homework in Kathryn's swanky office.

"We feel it's a commitment to the community to provide young women with the opportunity to see how many careers are available in a hospital environment," said Donna Duffield, spokesperson for Beaumont Hospital. "There are many — from the physician field in general to engineers, attorneys, administrators and women in financial services. More and more women are in the non-traditional jobs that would be men's."

Though Kathryn is one of Beaumont's 84-percent female population of employees, she still works in what she calls a male-dominated industry.

"I had to compete," she says, speaking of her hiring into Beaumont in '89. But the male employees welcomed her and respected her vast construction background.

"I understand the concept of construction from start to finish," Kathryn says, speaking of her job as a construction cost analyst supervisor. "I track the project budgets, costs and future forecasting ... Everybody works as a team. I'm just managing the information and sharing it with everyone else. I understand their terminology and the work process from the bottom up."

"Once you've convinced people of that, you find there are no barriers."

Currently, Beaumont is winding up a seven-year building project which has had as many as 200 constructive undertakings going at a given time — everything from a simple office room to a tower.

"Beaumont is probably one of the only places to have a group like ours where we do our own design and building. We have our own architects, engineers and construction people. We're like a small construction company," Kathryn says.

As one who has "risen through the ranks" to attain her primarily male-oriented career, Kathryn literally "dug" into construction work years ago. She started as a cement finisher two years after graduating from high school and worked for various construction companies around the area. One was Detroit-based Barton-Malow, responsible for building the Joe Louis Arena.

"I poured concrete down there," she says proudly.

Later she used her labor and clerical experience to secure a job in book-keeping, working for a Troy-based construction company while she took college classes at night. She moved to Arizona and worked for one of the largest construction companies in the U.S., among others.

Armed with a degree in business/

Bailey Laker Maegan McKay had a fine time accompanying mom Kathryn to "Take Your Daughters to Work Day" last Thursday.

accounting from the University of Arizona, Kathryn moved back to Michigan 12 years later and landed the job at the Royal Oak hospital.

Now, at Beaumont, she has no regrets, loves her work — but admits the long climb wasn't easy.

"I work very hard. It hasn't been a cakewalk," she says.

A single mother, Kathryn has a flexible work schedule and spends a lot of time with Maegan. Most days she works from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. and is there for her daughter when she comes home from school.

Maegan quickly points out her own career is becoming firmly cemented. The closest she will ever get to her mother's former work boots is roller blades. She would rather create do's for singer Janet Jackson or "Home Improvement" star Jonathon Taylor Thomas.

But, like her mom, she isn't above getting dirty.

"I love to get all muddy," she says with a mischievous grin.

NAME: Jennifer Lizabeth York
GPA: 3.814

PARENTS: Richard and Elizabeth York of Clarkston.

PLANS: "I plan to attend Michigan State University and possibly venture into accounting." Both her parents attended MSU.

EXTRA-CURRICULAR ACTIVITIES: Marching band and jazz band, where she plays cornet; National Honor Society.

HOBBIES: "Drawing, going to the gym at least three times a week and waiting for warm weather!"

HONORS, SCHOLARSHIPS, AWARDS: Who's Who Among American High School Students, chenille letter and pin.

FAVORITE TEACHER: "I have had Mr. Burdick (physics) as a teacher for two years. His class is proof that one can learn and have fun at the same time."

JOB: Works at the Village Bakeshop. "My love for coffee and the surrounding atmosphere brought me there."

FAVORITE LUNCH: "I don't like lunch."

FAVORITE MUSICAL GROUP: "That's a toss up among the Indigo Girls, Dave Matthews Band and Live."

A GOOD BOOK SHE'S READ: "My boyfriend encouraged me to read a book that he read for his sign language class called 'Listening' by Hannah Merker. It really opened my mind to everything I take for granted by being able to hear."

THE SECRET TO HER SUCCESS: "I just simply do all of my homework and study for a few hours each night. I only watch Saturday Night Live after work. One-and-a-half hours of TV a week is good enough for me!"

A GOOD FRIEND IS SOMEONE WHO: "is always up for a cup of coffee and a late-night conversation."

ONE THING SHE'D CHANGE ABOUT CLARKSTON: "The growing population. Every-

Top bag lady

Cassandra Friedl, 18, of Clarkston was crowned the best bagger around by the Associated Food Dealers at the organization's annual convention April 26.

Friedl, a three-year employee of Food Town in Independence Township, won third place in the contest last year, its first year ever. Baggers were judged on speed, distribution of weight, style and personality.

Friedl's enthusiasm no doubt helped her, but she was also the fastest and balanced her two bags within one-half pound of each other, she said.

A 1994 graduate of Clarkston High School, Friedl attends OCC and plans to transfer to Michigan State University in the fall to study mechanical engineering. She won $800 in the contest, which she plans to use for college.

"I'm paying for it myself," she said. "It's so wonderful. It was so much fun."

Friedl doesn't spend all her working hours bagging; she also runs the registers and works in the deli, bakery and floral departments. Despite her big win, she said of her bagging skills, "There's always room for improvement."

Cassandra Friedl and her trophies. She won a blue bag for finishing third last year, a gold bag for winning this year.

Pathfinders guide disabled youths

The Third Annual Banquet of the Clarkston Pathfinders to Opportunity Incorporated identified several area citizens for helping disabled youth.

The banquet was held on April 27 at Saint Daniel Catholic Church's Cushing Center with over 75 people in attendance.

Pathfinders to Opportunity is a non-profit corporation established in 1992 by parents, educators and other community supporters for the purpose of identifying and developing opportunities for young adults with disabilities in the Clarkston community.

The Pathfinders presented this year's Community Service Awards to Mary Smith, CROP Walk Chairperson, and Linda Bryan, an employee in the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department.

Pathfinders also recognized several Clarkston area businesses who have supported young adults with disabilities by providing jobs and work experiences as part of their school-to-work transition. Those businesses include Blockbuster Video, Clarkston Animal Medical Center, Clarkston Canine Coiffure, Food Town, The Greenery, Joe Rehfus, Kroger's, McDonald's Restaurant Corporation, and Sax 59.

For more information regarding Pathfinders to Opportunity call president Frank McGeough at 625-5179 or Linc Smith of Clarkston Community Schools at 625-0900.

Jim Snyder (center) holds his winning poster in the art contest. Principal Dr. Jean Lang liked it so much she may try to have it made into a T-shirt. Flanking him are second-place winner Adie Verla (left) and third-place winner Joe Baldiga.

From left, Kathy Julian, Will Freed, Patrick Heber and Michelle Cooke are the first, second, third and honorable mention winners in the literature contest. Kathy's winning poem was also decorated with original art.

Creative kids ponder a better future

Some Sashabaw Middle School students were honored last week for their writing and art work in honor of Earth Day.

Students were invited to submit original works on the theme of improving the world. Some writers chose environmental themes, but many wrote about homelessness, violence, abortion, animals and other topics.

Literature contest winner Kathy Julian, a sixth-grader, wrote a poem about animals and loss of habitat. Second-place Will Freed and third place Patrick Heber, both seventh-graders, wrote poems about the homeless. Seventh-grader Michelle Cooke took honorable mention with a poem on the environment.

In the art category, all three winning entries depicted the earth.

months the township had an account with Westcap, it recognize a loss."

Lutz opened the account with Westcap around October 1992, after Leibold and Oetting moved there from PaineWebber.

As with the first claim, Leibold and Oetting attorneys say the township is ignoring the substantial profits it made in similar securities. During the 13 purchased and sold over 30 CMO securities, according to the claim.

"Its net profits on the purchase and sale of these securities (including interest paid to) totaled well over one-half million dollars."

Attorneys for the salesmen estimate that on a cash-invested basis, the township had a return of over 20 percent on the overall investments with Westcap.

Loss = tax cut?

To the Editor,

Since the Independence Township treasurer indicated in a recent newspaper interview that despite the horrendous "derivative" loss, the township would have no difficulty paying its bills, one may logically conclude that a reduction in taxes will be forthcoming.

James E. Lekander

Conservancy thanks young adults

The Independence Land Conservancy thanks three groups of young people for their efforts to help clean up our properties in Independence Township.

Several scouts from Troop #189 under the direction of Rick Tyler helped remove 40 discarded tires from a 60-acre wooded parcel near Indianwood Rd. The tires were stacked neatly at the edge of the road. Our property inspector, Jan Martin, arranged to dispose of them.

Two young men, Peter Bertling and Brandon Williams, from the Interact Group at Clarkston High School, cleaned up the trash along the Clement Road boundary of our village park property. Four truckloads of trash included everything from garbage bags to major appliances. They not only cleaned the trash off our property but also from the rest of Clement Road west of White Lake Road, which should discourage new trash from being dumped.

And the Students for a Better World from Sashabaw Middle School have inspected our Shell Fen property near their school. They have cleaned up the litter, have photographed the property and made a video of their inspections.

We salute and thank all these groups for their help in maintaining and beautifying the properties of the Independence Land Conservancy.

The Board of Directors
Independence Land Conservancy

Letter of thanks

Our thanks go out to all the contributors to the Clarkston Elementary Raffle; the local businesses, Clarkston Elementary families and the school staff. We also need to thank the many parent volunteers and high school students who helped make the auction such a success.

All of the auction proceeds will be spent on much-needed playground equipment. The students at Clarkston Elementary are truly blessed to have such a caring community.

A final special thanks to Judy Goodman for always being there when we needed her.

Angry senior

Dear Editor,

I believe it is time to end the charade of calling the Independence Township complex on Clarkston Road the Senior Citizen Center.

The focus here is on sports, even day care for youngsters, not on seniors. Members of the Monday Bridge Group do not even feel welcome.

Today the group was moved from the Carriage House, its home of many years, and though there was advance warning, no provisions had been made for play.

A work crew composed of Oakland County Sheriff's Department Trustee Camp inmates jammed the bridge players belatedly into the billiards room. Tables were laden with packaged food and there was very little room for the players. The trustees are not unknown to us. They have been served lunch in the Carriage House frequently this spring amidst bridge play.

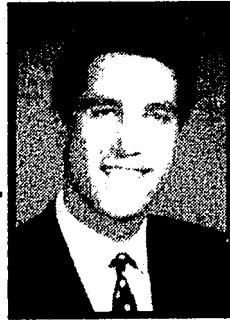

While I am happy the township can use the trustees, I question the mingling of the groups.

As a sports complex, even as a community center, the complex does well. Let's not pretend it is only for seniors. It isn't. Some of us feel like second-class citizens.

REALTOR PARTICIPATION INVITED

Sheriff's Log for Independence Township

MONDAY, APRIL 24, two Detroit men were arrested on outstanding warrants during a traffic stop on I-75. Their car was impounded after the VIN and plates came back to two different people and the driver had no proof of registration.

Child neglect was reported on Parview. The case was turned over to Protective Services.

A powerful explosion destroyed a mailbox on Hawkmore. Police said bricks and mortar were cracked in the explosion.

The owner of a 1982 Chevy van reported a stolen license plate on Fay.

A wallet containing a drivers license, military ID, a credit card and a bank card was found on Seymour Lake Rd. in Brandon Township. The owner turned out to be an Ohio woman who was working in the area for Edison.

A CD player and cassette player were taken from a car parked in a Marenpo driveway overnight. The owner reported he found both doors of the car open in the morning.

Harassing phone call on Sunnydale.

Non-injury accident on White Lake Rd.

TUESDAY, APRIL 25, the window of a 1986 Taurus parked on Waterford Rd. was broken but nothing appeared missing.

A fire in a 1983 Chevy on Clintonville Rd. was ruled accidental.

An S-10 pickup was dented on Maybee Rd. after a 20-year-old Ortonville man kicked it during an altercation.

A locked car in the Clarkston High School parking lot was broken into and $20-$30 cash stolen.

An 18-year-old Waterford man who told police he had been drinking began yelling at two pedestrians from his car at M-15 and Dixie. The two male pedestrians then came over and began beating the driver. He was later driven to a hospital by his mother.

Fraud on Sherwood. A Davisburg woman reported that a friend has been using her ATM card and a credit card without her permission.

Non-injury accidents on Indianwood and on Sashabaw.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 26, a car found parked on I-75 was impounded when the license plate was found to be registered to another car.

A purse was found in a Dumpster behind a store on Dixie Hwy. The owner said she accidentally left the purse in her shopping cart there four days earlier.

Non-injury accidents on Waldon and on Sashabaw.

THURSDAY, APRIL 27, two cars were stolen from the parking lots of Greens Lake Apartments on Parview during the night. One, a 1994 Olds Bravada, was reported missing at 7 a.m. It was found stripped in Groveland Township by 9 a.m. The other, a 1994 Chevy Blazer, was reported missing at 11 a.m. As of press time it had not yet been found.

Larceny of four windows from a construction site on Elk Run. The windows had just been delivered the day before.

Cat bite on Misty Hill. The case was referred to animal control.

FRIDAY, APRIL 28, breaking and entering of a house under construction on St. Andrew. Tools and equipment were stolen after the thief forced a doorwall off its frame.

Possible peeping tom on Clais. A resident reported a patio chair had been moved two nights in a row, and markings indicated it had been placed both times under a bedroom window.

A Marmora resident scared off two white males who entered his van parked in the driveway at 4:52 a.m.

Non-injury accident on Dixie.

SATURDAY, APRIL 29, police recovered a

1990 Chevy in a field just into Orion Township. The vehicle had been reported stolen in Waterford. It had been rolled and was damaged on all sides and the roof.

Neighbor trouble over loud parties on Maplewood.

Malicious destruction of four light poles on the Pine Knob Golf Course. A security guard got the license plate number off the car in which the responsible person fled. The 19-year-old Brandon Township man later admitted the crime under questioning, saying he had been drinking at the time.

SUNDAY, APRIL 30, harassing phone calls on Sashabaw.

A 39-year-old Clarkston woman was arrested for drunk driving and reckless driving on Maybee Rd. She refused to take a breath test and had to be forcibly removed from her car to be taken to the Oakland County Jail. "Just take me home; you know I am drunk," she told deputies.

Larceny of two wicker chairs from a porch on Thendara overnight. A cushion from one of the chairs was found nearby in the road.

Neighbor trouble related to parking on Thendara.

Attempted breaking and entering of a business on M-15. A screen was bent but it appeared nothing was missing.

The Oakland County Sheriff's Independence substation has responded to 3,455 calls this year through April 30.

For 65 years people have been doing just that in The Clarkston News

During a visit to Bailey Lake Elementary last year, illustrator Ralph Masiello showed students how easy it is to draw.

Author, illustrator to visit Clarkston

If you've never heard of the Icky Bug Man, just ask a child.

The men behind the book of that name, as well as "The Frog Alphabet Book," "the Dinosaur Alphabet Book" and many more will visit Clarkston May 8-10. Author Jerry Pallotta and illustrator Ralph Masiello will visit schools and also attend a special family night Monday, May 8 at 7:30 p.m. at Clarkston High School.

The topic for the night will be "effective reading techniques." Refreshments and booklists will be available and door prizes will be awarded. Books will be sold at a reduced rate.

The visit is sponsored by The Clarkston Foundation, the PTOs and Chapter I Program Improvement grants. The evening is sure to be an entertaining one. For more information call 625-5300 or 625-2317.

Waldon-Main rezoning is tabled

But many of the people who attended the hearing Monday night objected to their proposal. Most of them live on Laurelton Street, which backs up to the south side of the property in question, and don't want to see a parking lot or building from their back yards. All have property in the township, but a small portion at the north lot lines is in the city.

"A big reason I bought the house was the aesthetics," said Paul Roscoe, a Laurelton resident. "That parking lot is going to look like hell and I don't want to see it. It will lower my property values."

Another Laurelton resident, Richard Lamphere, agreed.

"I've always said I hope nobody builds there. I like living in the woods. I'm in the woods, but yet I'm in the village."

Others are concerned that if the Olsens pull out of the deal, anything could pop up there if the zoning changes to business, since the city has no specific zoning for "professional office."

"I think we're inviting potential problems by rezoning that area. If (the Olsens) don't end up building there, then who knows," said Ron Steen, also a Laurelton resident.

Though neutral in his position, Huttenlocher echoed Steen's statement.

"You've got to remember this will mean everything. Once you do it (rezone), you're basically leaving it open so anything can move in there," he said.

Deanna Olsen repeatedly attempted to bring people back in to focusing on what she felt was the real issue.

"The argument is really what is the best use for that property. The goal of the planning commission is to decide what is the best use," she said Tuesday morning. "It's the last piece of vacant land downtown that exists. We wanted to show we're really committed to this project."

The Olsens say they collected petitions in favor of the project from residents who live around the property, although many on Laurelton said they were not contacted.

Deanna pointed to the extra revenue that would be generated for the city.

"The township currently owns (the land). It's not on the tax rolls. It's important to know this would increase the tax base for the City of the Village."

The Olsens received positive support from several people, including township trustee Mel Vaara, a member of the Independence Land Conservancy. The Land Conservancy sought to buy the five parcels but was unable to obtain a state grant.

"We (the Land Conservancy) tried to buy this property, but we couldn't afford it," he said. Vaara voted in favor of the Olsens' purchase agreement at a township board meeting several months ago.

Vaara said the development will probably be low impact with reduced traffic.

"That's why I voted for this venture, so it might be part of the township and the city," he said.

Timothy Dirtsas, president of RBI Incorporated, a Clarkston-based business that deals with residential and commercial real estate development, was also in favor.

"Somebody is going to develop that property and it isn't going to be a house," he said.

"What's the best use of that land that's not going to hurt the community — a low-density building or a 24-hour Meijer's? Things are going to happen in this community and you're not going to be able to chose the door."

In response to residents who wished the keep the property residential, Huttenlocher said, "If that's the goal, then step up to the plate and buy it."

The decision to recommend or not recommend rezoning the property was tabled to the Planning Commission's next meeting June 5. If recommended, the next step is a vote by Clarkston's City council, who have the power to change the zoning. The Olsens' next move would be to request site plan approval.

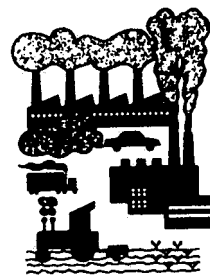

Asked Tuesday morning if he felt optimistic, Bob Olsen said he was "warned not to," — but was.

"The opposition said very clearly and loudly that they were opposed to the zoning change. If the zoning isn't changed it would be kept residential," he said. "But the (Laurelton) residents themselves agreed only a crazy person would build a house there."

"I think it's pretty clear to me as we step along with this thing, it's going to go. We're doing the right thing at the right time with the right people."

Wins tough to come by as season moves on

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston girls soccer squad didn't get many chances to score in two games last week.

And it showed in the final scores. The Wolves lost 3-0 to Lake Orion April 27 and 2-0 to Bloomfield Hills Lahser April 28. Their record falls to 1-6 overall and 0-4 in the Oakland Activities Association Division II.

"We were really just outmatched personnel-wise," said coach Dan Fitzgerald.

The coach said he feels for his team because they are real hard workers, but lack the skill needed to beat the really good teams.

"They really are doing OK. It's really hard for me to tell them the other team is just more talented, but we keep fighting and scrapping and will continue to work," said Fitzgerald.

Against Lake Orion, the Wolves were down 2-0 at the half and allowed an early goal. "They had a couple of outstanding players, although (goalie) Carin Kirk stopped a lot of chances in goal. We just didn't have many opportunities to score on goal ourselves."

The Wolves came out determined against Lahser and the game was scoreless at the half. Fitzgerald said the offense had a few more chances to score but couldn't capitalize.

He credited sophomores Kirk and Colleen Stumpf, and senior Karen Paradise with solid games. Fitzgerald plans on combating his team's scoring deficiencies with more emphasis on "being aggressive and going to get the ball."

With two more OAA Division II matches scheduled for this week against Brandon and Waterford

Lettering, the coach plans on moving a few JV players up to the varsity.

"Hopefully we'll be able to get this team some wins," he said.

Boys dominate Berkley, strong in invitational

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A 104-24 win over Berkley provided a good tune-up for the Clarkston boys track team's strong fifth-place finish at the Saginaw Valley Invitational.

The Wolves dominated every event in the April 25 Berkley dual meet and continued a strong overall performance at the April 28 invitational that featured 15 teams.

Coach Walt Wynnemko said he really didn't know what to expect from his team, especially coming off spring break. "We had seen Berkley at the Andover Relays but we never thought we'd win like that. Our times were competitive."

The 33 team points the Wolves scored at Saginaw were also a good sign for the season, which really takes off this week.

"We realize the meat of the season is coming up for us, but we still have to worry about getting our times down," Wynnemko said. "The kids know we have to continue to get better, although the weather doesn't seem to be helping any."

Against Berkley, first place finishes went to the following athletes: Josh Preston in the shot put and discus; J.R. Kirk in the high jump and long jump; Jeff Long in the 100 dash; Jason Graves in the 400 run; Matt Wenger in the 800 run; Dan Slavin in the 200 dash; the 3200 relay team of Wenger, Matt Warner, Brian Ginn and Steve Anderson; the 1600 relay team of Graves, Wenger, Rich Bevins and J.D. Zuchelkowski; the 800 relay team of Slavin, Bevins, Graves and Shane Collier; and, the 400 relay team of Kirk, Zuchelkowski, Long and Collier.

Kirk and Graves were the big weapons for the Wolves at Saginaw, both placing in four events.

Kirk took first in the long jump, fourth in the high jump and fifth in the high hurdles. Graves was first in the 400 run, sixth in the long jump and teamed with Slavin, Bevins and Collier to take sixth in the 800 relay.

Kirk and Graves also combined with Bevins and Wenger to take fourth in the 1600 relay.

Other top individual finishers for the Wolves were Jeff Dengate, fourth in the mile run, and Wenger, sixth in the 800 run.

Frosh meet at Pontiac Northern

The Wolves freshman contingent on the varsity squad had a chance to show its skills in the Pontiac Northern Freshman Invitational April 27, finishing fourth out of 10 teams.

Taking first place for the freshmen were the 400 and 800 relay team of Jeff Long, Ron Grinold, Brenton Bergkoetter and Marc Venegoni, and John Burklow in the 400 run.

James Holst took second in the 400 run.

Third-place finishers include Grinold in the high jump, Venegoni in the long jump and 200 dash, Long in the 100 dash, and the 1600 relay team of Holst, Scott Watson, Burklow and Long.

Fourth-place finishers are the 3200 relay team of Watson, Jeff Hopcian, Neil Castle and Burklow, and Curt Brewer in the high hurdles.

Taking fifth place was Brewer in the low hurdles. Castle finished sixth in the 800 run.

3-on-3 champions

Three fifth-grade students from Andersonville Elementary School took first place in the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department's 3-on-3 tournament in late March.

The "Andersonville Eagles" squad of Dan Genre, Cass Dolbow and Bernard Johnson won the tournament, beating out six other teams. The Eagles went 7-0, with some coaching help by Wade Genre.

Delays make short tennis season

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

From top to bottom, the Clarkston tennis team showed its competitiveness in splitting two matches last week.

The Wolves easily beat Royal Oak Kimball 7-0 April 25 and then lost to a tough Birmingham Groves squad 7-0 April 28.

An April 26 match against Lapeer East was canceled because of bad weather conditions. Clarkston is 2-1 overall and 0-1 in the OAA Division II.

Coach Kevin Ortwine was equally pleased with both the win and loss last week, saying his young team could learn more from the defeat than the easy Kimball victory. His kids breezed through Kimball, but the match against Groves was much closer than the 7-0 score would indicate.

"I think we were very competitive against Groves. They didn't just walk in there and blow us out," Ortwine said. "We played good, but I really think it's better to play a team like Groves competitive and hard, than to win easily over another school.

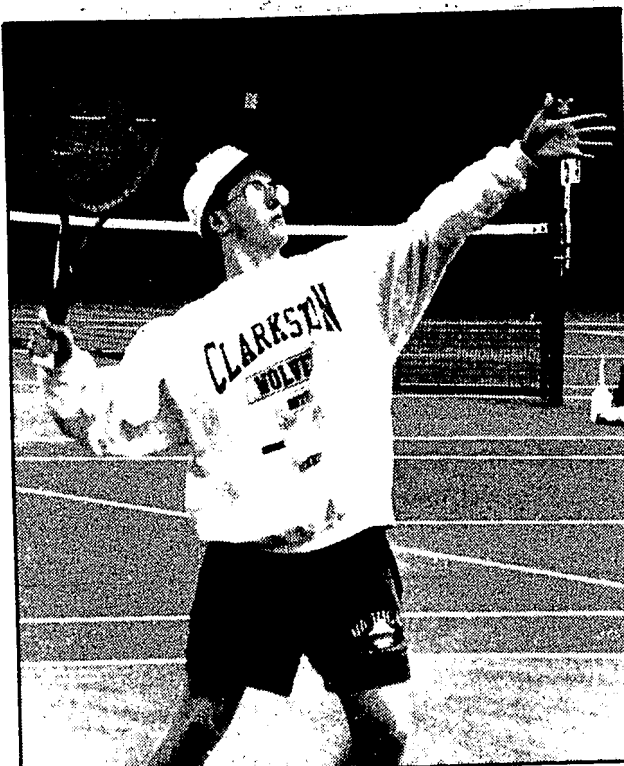

"We gave them a challenge and they knew it."

Ortwine used the same lineup in both matches and was pleased with the results.

The four singles players and three doubles teams all won against Kimball, including sophomore Mike Aulger at #1 singles, junior Mike Kopec at #2 singles, senior Rob Goeckel at #3, sophomore Kevin Kopec at #4, freshman Jim Kyle and junior Paul Wolven at #1 doubles, sophomores Charles Claus and Kyle Stout at #2 doubles, and juniors Zach Sanger and Dan Brazier at #3 doubles.

As the first four matches got underway against Groves, Ortwine saw a few opportunities for his team to come up with some wins. Aulger, whom the coach credited with staying in good shape over spring break, played his #1 singles opponent to three sets. Sanger and Brazier battled strong as well, losing in two sets 7-5, 7-5.

"If we could have got two wins of those first four you never know what would have happened from there," Ortwine said. "Those could have gone either way but it just didn't turn out."

The first-year coach noticed some similarities in Groves and his young squad. Both teams showed they have depth and the skilled players necessary to win. "They really seemed a mirror image of us, but right now they are just a touch better."

Ortwine believes that playing strong teams like Groves and Bloomfield Hills Andover (scheduled for May 1) can only make his players better. "The only way to improve is to battle teams like that. The kids were a little frustrated after Groves but they won't forget that loss either."

Besides the Andover match, Clarkston is scheduled once again to play OAA foe Kimball on May 3, and non-OAA powers West Bloomfield and Rochester on May 4 and 8. The OAA Division II tournament is scheduled for May 11 and the Holly Invitational is set for May 13. After that only regionals and districts are left.

River Dawgs ready to host tourney

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In its first season of existence, the Clarkston River Dawgs Baseball Club is starting out in grand style.

Teams from all over Michigan and Ohio will make their way to Clintonwood Park for the first-annual River Dawgs Classic Tune-up Tournament. All four River Dawgs teams will participate in the tournament. So far, according to Jack Leech, vice president of baseball, the Dawgs have drawn 17 teams for the 14-year-old age group and 12 teams for the 12-and-under age group.

The games will start at 5:30 p.m. May 5 and continue all day May 6. The championships are scheduled for May 7. All four River Dawgs teams will begin play the evening of May 5.

Though only created a few months ago, Leech said the organization, with help from the township's parks and rec department, is coming together nicely.

"The fundraising efforts are real good and we already have three of the four teams completely outfitted," Leech said. "We even purchased more equipment than we expected."

Fans can help support the River Dawgs baseball program, which was created to give the Clarkston area a baseball league of its own rather than have area kids play elsewhere, by purchasing River Dawgs T-shirts or caps at the tournament.

The Dawgs got their first taste of the baseball season last weekend in a tournament in Oregon, Ohio. The Dawgs took a 13- and 14-year-old team and a 14-and-under squad to the "Battle of the Bay" tournament, hosted by the Toledo Mud Hens, a professional minor league team.

Each division had 20 teams in it.

The River Dawgs 13 went 0-3, while the Dawgs 14 went 1-2, beating East Toledo 11-0.

"It was fun for the kids and considering it was the first tournament, we got some good things out of it," he said. "We've only had a half dozen practice days since the season began so we didn't do too bad."

JV Girls Soccer

The JV girls soccer team played two very tough games last week.

On Thursday, April 27, Clarkston played Lake Orion at home and won 3-0. Lisa Gebus scored two goals, and Courtney Garrish scored one. Erin Fomey did an excellent job in goal for the Wolves, recording the shutout.

On Friday, Clarkston played at Bloomfield Hills Lahser. The game was a defensive struggle, and Lahser came away with a 1-0 victory. "That game was really close," said JV Soccer Coach Brian Fitzgerald. "It could have gone either way."

The Wolves record is now 3-3-2. This week they were scheduled to play at home against Waterford Kettering on May 2, and they will play Brandon on May 5. Game time for both is 5:30.

JV Softball

The JV softball team at Clarkston went 2-3 in five games played last week.

On Monday, April 24, the Wolves played at Brandon and lost 18-14. They had 11 hits, led by Mary Brewer, who went 2-for-4 including a triple and scored three runs. Other contributors to the Wolves attack were Allison Prudhomme, who went 2-for-5 and scored two runs, Tracy Kretz, 2-for-3 with two doubles and two runs, and Beth Tuttle, who was also 2-for-3 and scored two runs.

On Tuesday, April 25, the Wolves played a doubleheader at Brighton, and split the two games. In the first game, Clarkston lost by the score of 22-14. Prudhomme led the Wolves, going 4-for-5 and scoring three runs. Sue Naboychik went 3-for-5, including a triple, and scored three runs. Brewer also went 3-for-5 and scored one.

In the nightcap, the Wolves won 13-11. Sam Hardenberg, a freshman who was called up to JV to pitch the second game, was the winning pitcher. Clarkston was led by another freshman, Tami Angel, who has caught every inning of every game so far. She was 2-for-2. "Everyone managed to produce in the second game," said head coach Karen Czarnicki. "There were also a lot of walks in the game."

On Thursday, April 27, Clarkston split a twin-bill with Waterford Kettering. In the first game, the Wolves won 13-5.

Prudhomme was the winning pitcher for Clarkston, striking out four. Kretz went 3-for-3 to lead the Wolves attack. Going 2-for-4 were Naboychik, Brewer and Angel. Brewer crossed the plate the most, scoring three runs.

In the second game, it was very windy and very cold. The Wolves lost a very tough battle to Kettering, 5-2. Jenny Walters and Tuttle led the Wolves, both going 1-for-1, and Beth Bills went 1-for-2.

JV Baseball

The JV baseball team won its only game of the week, a 7-2 victory over Royal Oak Kimball on Friday, April 28.

Marc Teague was the winning pitcher for the Wolves, going seven innings and only allowing one hit, while striking out seven. Chad Bailey had the key hit in the game, a two-run single in the sixth inning. Jason Ostrom was on base four times, the result of three walks, and one hit-by-pitch. Ostrom also stole three bases. Travis Pegg went one-for-one, and drove in a run.

Clarkston's record is now 4-0 overall, 1-0 in the OAA.

Young lineup showing signs of progress

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In a flurry of games last week, the Clarkston softball team moved its overall record from 1-2 to 5-8.

The week didn't start out well with a doubleheader loss to Brighton, 9-7 and 11-8 on April 25. But by the end of the 10-game week coach Al Land said his team started to come together, ending in a dominating 23-7 win against Waterford Mott May 1.

After the Brighton losses, the Wolves had an April 26 game against Rochester rained out, but started right back up again with doubleheader against Waterford Kettering April 27. The Wolves split with Kettering, winning 6-5 and losing 6-2.

Clarkston then played in the Oakland Press-North Star Classic the weekend of April 29, but didn't place in compiling a 2-3 tournament record.

Land said his team, which is 2-2 in the OAA Division I standings, has been inconsistent with pitching and defense, although the offense at times is dominating.

Towards the end of last week, however, he said it looks as if the pitching and defense are starting to be more in sync.

"We have a good defensive club," he said. "But until the pitching is more consistent it will be tough for them. We give up a few walks and then have a few errors and it really hurts. Those two things compound each other."

When it comes to offense, Land knows his team can be explosive, as evidenced by the 23 runs scored against Mott.

"We have to score runs because that is what's letting us win so far. But that has to change and I think in the last few games defensively we have looked like a different ball club. The change can be attributed to better pitching, so we are progressing."

The Wolves started off the week with a shaky defensive performance against Brighton. While Land said both teams hit the ball well, the key was his team's errors and walks given up, which led to Brighton's wins.

Junior shortstop Crystal Lemke went 8-for-9 hitting in the two games.

Clarkston played an intense first game against Kettering, thanks to a strong pitching performance by junior pitcher Alesha Ulasich. But the real dominating performance came from junior center fielder Stephanie Giroux as she scored the winning run, while wreaking havoc on offense and defense.

In the second game, the Wolves were ahead 1-0 in the fifth inning, but Kettering scored two runs in the sixth and four runs in the seventh, thanks mainly to four walks.

"When you give up a few walks and then have a few errors you're probably giving them five or six runs," said Land. "So once again it's the consistency we have to work on. One inning we can be great and then the next we give it away."

Not in time! Leah Howard, a junior, races to first base but is called out during the softball team's game against Waterford Kettering April 27.

Against Mott, the Wolves just "hit the ball real well," Land said.

Ulasich was strong on the mound for the Wolves, going five innings and giving up only one walk.

But the game's star was once again Stephanie Giroux, who went 5-for-5, including two home runs.

Land said his center fielder is the complete package. In addition to batting .565 on the season, she is 20-for-20 stealing bases and has thrown out four runners at home plate from her outfield position.

"She is outstanding and one of the best in the state," the coach said. "She has a great attitude, can really turn on a ball at the plate and is tremendously fast. When she gets on first base it's almost automatic that she will be at third very soon."

Giroux is a team tri-captain along with Lemke and senior right fielder Kiley Maitrott.

Land also credited junior catcher Amanda Jenkinson with a strong week, as well as senior Kristy Barefoot, senior Allison Vallad and freshman Tiffany Honey.

Barefoot has "started to take command at first base and has picked up her level of play," said Land.

You can tell the ideals of a nation by its advertisements.

—Norman Douglas

"She's shoring up a spot that was open to begin the season."

He said Vallad and Honey are splitting time at third base for now and both are doing a solid job.

With the season a third over, Land said he will start making permanent position decisions.

"I told the girls, because we are a young team, that I would give all of them a chance early on to play," said Land. "I've done that, and now we'll be settling into a more concrete lineup and use the other kids in spot situations."

"But the good part about this team is that my bench is incredible. They are always cheering their teammates on and that is exciting for a coach to see."

Freshman sports

By Michael Romein

Freshman softball

The freshman softball team played one game last week, winning against Waterford Mott, 25-15.

Amber Mitchell was the winning pitcher for the Wolves, and Stacy Tegler led a very balanced attack for Clarkston, going 3-for-5 with a triple. Courtney Krull went 2-for-4 and added a double. Natasha Curtis and Nichole Buck both went 2-for-4, Carmen Lund went 3-for-4 and Angie Thompson went 3-for-5.

"It was a team effort," said freshman softball coach Jody Viviano. "The team is really doing well."

Freshman baseball

Clarkston's freshman baseball team is off to a great start this year at 2-0.

On Tuesday, April 11, the Wolves played Waterford Kettering, and won 10-5. Ryan Dudek and Bryant Caudill both did well on the mound, with Caudill picking up the win. Caudill also was among the team leaders in hitting with two hits and two RBIs. Charlie Myers also had two hits and two RBIs, and Mike Gochenour had two hits.

Then on Tuesday, April 25, Clarkston won 7-1 over Waterford Mott. Jared Thomas and Josh Clark were the winning pitchers, with Thomas striking out eight of the 10 batters he faced. Jason Coryell and Jeff Loveless both had two hits and two RBIs, and Mike Little and Dudek both had two hits.

BOWLING IS FUN!

Team gives effort on and off field

Freshmen win seventh Northern invitational

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Hard work carries over into more than just sports. Clarkston girls track coach Gordie Richardson firmly believes that fact.

And while his team may not be the best in the county or league, he said they always give an effort. That desire to excel is not only evident on the field but also in the classroom.

Richardson said he was looking over the grade point averages of his team last week and was amazed that only a few of the 36 athletes are below a 3.0.

"I've always said you have great kids on this team who know how to work hard. That work ethic seems to carry over and it's a great accomplishment to them," he said. Richardson also coaches the varsity volleyball team, whose overall g.p.a. last season was 3.2.

It's that hard work on and off the field that most pleases Richardson. And so far in the early season the Wolves, with only three seniors, continue to improve, despite bad weather and spring break.

"I think most of the kids have done what we have wanted, but again you have to have the athletes who want to be good."

On April 25 the Wolves crushed Berkley 112-16 and then finished a strong eight out of 20 teams at the tough West Bloomfield Invitational April 29.

"We have progressed real nice so far and most of the kids' times are still going down," the coach said. "The kids that have needed to come through for us have done that."

While the team finished strong at West Bloomfield, several individuals gave outstanding performances, including the 3200 relay team and Liz Cook's finish in the mile run.

The relay team of senior Leah Scharl, juniors Lisa Herron and Stefanie Burklow, and freshman Jennifer Bauer ran the third-fastest time in Clarkston history. Cook, a freshman, took almost 20 seconds off her time in the mile, finishing behind Scharl, who took fifth.

"We've just been talking about trying to run with Leah and see what happens," Richardson said.

Other top finishers for Clarkston were Kammy Powell, fourth in the shot put and fifth in the discus, Burklow, fifth in the 3200 run with a personal-best time, and Nicole Bauer, sixth in the 100 hurdles.

Berkley didn't prove to be the competition Richardson would have liked, but he said a good effort was put forth from the entire team.

First-place finishers include: Powell in the shot put and discus; Scharl in the high jump and 1600 run; Carrie Mead in the long jump; Nicole Bauer in the 100 hurdles; Burklow in the 3200 and 400 run; Liz Murphy in the 300 hurdles; Jennifer Bauer in the 800 run; Renee Staley in the 200 run; the 3200 relay team of Scharl, Cook, Herron and Bauer; the 1600 relay team of Cook, Gretchen Pitser, Heather Brown and Herron; the 800 relay team of Kellie Christie, Murphy, Burklow and Nicole Bauer; and, the 400 relay team of Adrienne Brown, Stephanie Dean, Christie and Staley.

Wolves dominate freshman meet

The strength of any varsity program can be measured by the success of the junior teams. If that's the case, it's no wonder varsity coach Gordie Richardson has tough teams each year.

For the seventh time in 10 years the Clarkston freshman track athletes won the Pontiac Northern Freshman Invitational, April 27. Coach Richardson said the success is a credit to the hard work of the athletes.

The meet is a way for the freshmen members of the varsity track team to shine. And that's just what they did by scoring 119.5 points, well ahead of runner-up Rochester Adams by almost 50 points.

First-place finishers: Latisha Hawley, shot put and discus; Liz Cook, 1600 run; Jennifer Bauer, 800 run; Megan Plante, 3200 run; the 3200 relay team of Cook, Plante, Emily Hogan and Bauer; and, the 1600 relay team of Cook, Gretchen Pitser, Heather Brown and Bauer.

The 800 relay team of Erica Holman, Pitser, Heather Brown and Adrienne Brown finished second.

Third-place finishers: Pitser, high jump; Plante, 1600 run; Heather Brown, 400 run; and, Hogan, 3200 run.

Fourth place: Kim Ledwell, 300 hurdles; Holman, 200 dash; and, the 400 relay team of Yanin Garcia, Holman, Stacy Fike and Adrienne Brown.

Taking fifth place was Holman in the high jump and Adrienne Brown in the 200 dash.

Sixth-place finishers were Cook in the long jump and Ledwell in the 100 hurdles.

Winless hurlers struggling on offense

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston varsity baseball coach Roy Warner can't remember the last time a team of his started off so slowly on offense.

Considering he's been a coach at CHS for 26 years, he understands that's quite a statement. But as evidenced by his team's 0-4 start (0-1 in OAA), things have to change.

"I can't determine what the problem is yet," he said. "But we'll just keep at it and work on some of it in practice."

The offense continued to struggle last week as the Wolves lost 8-2 to OAA Division I foe Royal Oak Kimball on April 28. Clarkston had only two hits but what really concerns Warner is the 14 times his players struck out.

"In the first few games we hit the ball but they were right at the players. What is not good is that we have a lot of strikeouts now and aren't even getting a hold of it," the coach said.

The Wolves played good defense, except for two errors that cost some runs, and only gave up five hits. Junior Jeff Mull started at pitcher and went five innings, giving up three earned runs, four hits and getting seven strikeouts.

He gave up all those runs on a 3-run homer in the fifth inning that put the game away for Kimball.

Juniors Scott Hill and Justin Morgan both came in to pitch two innings, holding Kimball scoreless.

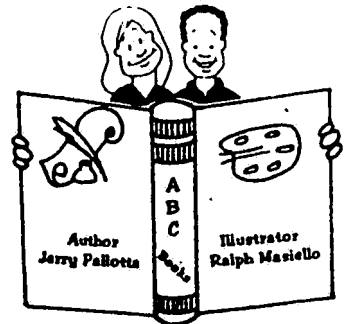

The Wolves must improve quickly because they were scheduled to play five games this week, highlighted by the Lake Orion Invitational May 6.

Upcoming OAA Division I games this week include Troy Athens at home on May 3 and Rochester at home May 5.

An April 26 game against Troy was canceled because of bad weather conditions.

Middle school teams win triangular

The girls and boys track teams for Clarkston Middle School won a triangular meet April 28 against Pierce and Cray middle schools of Waterford.

The boys team easily out-scored second-place finisher Pierce 79-55 to win, while the girls squad won a close meet, 56.5-55.5 over Pierce.

Girls finishing first for Clarkston were Michelle Wilson in the 55-meter low hurdles, high jump and the 200-meter low hurdles, Meghan Hodges in the 200 and 400 dash, Erin Przybylski in the 800 run, and Daisy Mauti in the shot put.

Taking second place were Hodges in the long jump, the 1600 relay team of Przybylski, Lauren Leigh, Jamie Reynolds and Eileen Hart, and the 800 relay team of Lissa Lukens, Amanda Allen, Sarah Szurpicki and Mauti.

Third-place finishers were Janae Fonsica in the 55 hurdles and 70-meter dash, Leigh in the 1600 run, Lukens in the 200 hurdles, and the 400 relay team of Allison Kollody, Courtney Bates, Lindsay Dees and Courtney Schubering.

Fourth-place finishers were Hart in the 800 run, Katie Baetens in the 1600 run, Mauti in the 200 hurdles, Courtni Brewer in the 70-meter dash, and Jennifer Mizusawa and Przybylski, who tied in the long jump.

Boys finishing first were David Sage in the 3200 run, Kevin Breen in the 800 run, Mitchell Grusnick in the 1600 run, Eric Jenks in the 100 dash and long jump, Mike Lenhardt in the 200 hurdles, Frank El-Chaer in the 70-meter dash, and the 3200 relay team of Ryan Thomas, Breen, Grusnick and Sage.

Second-place finishers were Lenhardt in the 55 hurdles, Thomas in the 1600 run, Jeremy Parrott in the 200 hurdles, El-Chaer in the high jump and shot put,

and the 800 relay team of Ron Wells, Jeff Walters, Marc Wisniewski and Rob Curtis

Third-place finishers were Brian Welbourn in the 100 dash, Dennis Foxx in the 400 dash, Russell Parrott in the 200 hurdles, Jeff Wrobel in the 200 dash, and the 400 relay team of Wells, Adam Watson, Walters and Bill Kalush.

Fourth-place finishers were Junhee Kwak in the 55 hurdles, Chris Weber in the 800 run, Curtis in the 400 dash, Ledwell in the 200 hurdles and Jeremy Parrott in the high jump.

● The Addison Oaks Spring Classic Mountain Bike Race returns Sunday, May 14. Early registration ($20) ends May 6 but there will be on-site registration the day of the race ($25). Kids 10 and under race free. For more information call 693-2432 or 858-0916 (TDD 858-1684).

● Soccer registration will be held by Waterford Parks and Recreation for the fall season between May 15 and June 10 for kids ages 5-18. Call 674-5441.

Flying Rhinos race returns

On Mother's Day, May 14, do something different. Sign up to participate in the Flying Rhino Cycling Club's "Back 40" Challenge.

Not only will participation provide a different way to celebrate Mother's Day, but you'll also be helping out the Clarkston School District's D.A.R.E. (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) program. A portion of the tour's registration fee will go towards the program.

The "Back 40" Challenge, also sponsored by Kinetic Systems Bicycles and John Bowman Chevrolet, is a spring tour of north Oakland County back roads. Participants in the Sunday tour can choose from three scenic routes.

Registration is being taken at Clarkston Middle School on Waldon Road. Cost to pre-register by May 8 is $10, after May 8 the cost is $12. Same day, on-site registration is also at the middle school from 7:30 a.m. to noon. The first 400 riders to register will receive a "Back 40" water bottle.

A "super-duper, short-sleeved T-shirt" will cost $10 before May 8 and $12 after May 8 and can be ordered on the same registration form.

Registration fee includes route map, sag service, rest/food stop and light refreshments at the start/finish area.

The three routes to choose from include: 17 miles of flat to rolling roads; 27 miles of rolling to hilly roads; and, 44 miles of rolling, challenging roads. Because it is not a race, riders can start as early as 7:30 a.m. (44-mile riders no later than 10 a.m.).

The ride will begin at the middle school.

The "Back 40" roads are all light in traffic and use of fat tires is highly recommended. Use of a helmet is required.

Anyone finishing after 3 p.m. will be on their own.

For more information call Kinetic Systems at 810-625-7000.

All-night party time nears for seniors

Parents work hard to make it the best ever

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

Giving seniors a safe way to celebrate graduation is what the Clarkston all-night party is all about. It takes a lot of effort and a large sum of money, but this year's three co-chairs say they'll do it again when their younger children become seniors.

Carole Webster, Sheila Hughes and Cindy Swick are all the mothers of seniors in the CHS Class of 1995. For the past year, in addition to jobs and family responsibilities, they've been in charge of making sure this year's all-night party is a hit. They hope to improve on last year's 80 percent turnout.

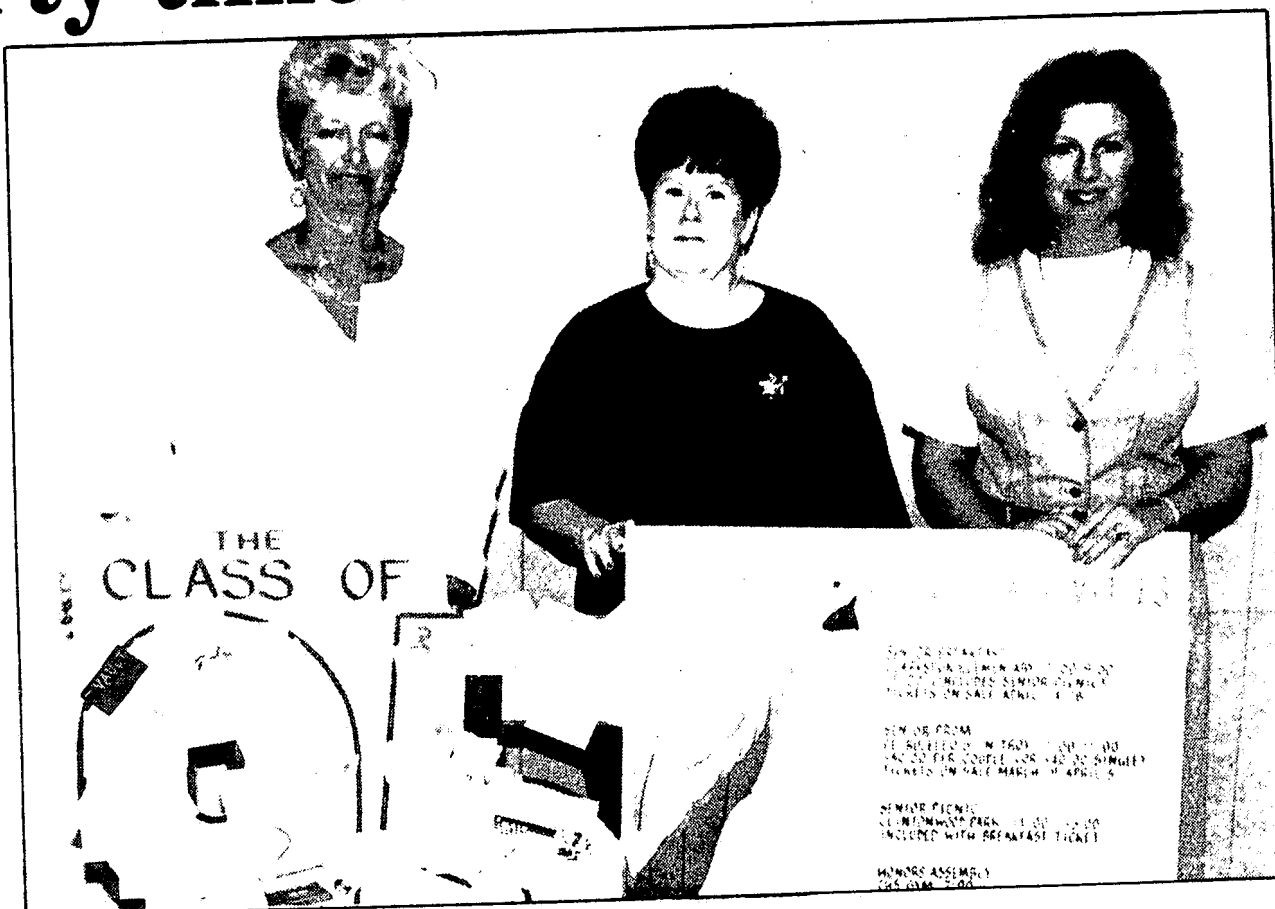

"We've been working on this, the three of us, since last June. We attended last year's party," said Webster. The three women split nine committees and about 100 volunteers among them.

"They're all meeting at least once a week," Webster said.

This year for the first time the theme for the party was selected by the senior class. It's called "Fantasy Island Caribbean Getaway." It will be held at Deer Lake Racquet Club with full use of the facilities and lots of food, games, music and entertainment brought in. Students will be locked in at 11 p.m. and not let out until 5 a.m. Dinner and breakfast will be included in the $15 admission price.

The organizers didn't want to reveal too many secrets, but said word has already leaked out they'll offer sumo wrestling at this year's party. Students will put on special suits to participate in this new event.

Though enough money has been raised to rent the facilities and provide for major items, the organizers are still looking for donations so every senior can go home with some kind of a prize. Already each will receive a T-shirt. All the labor will be provided by parents.

"It's phenomenal how much this costs," Webster said. "Unless you're behind the scenes, you don't know. The manpower alone you couldn't put a price tag on."

The all-night party tradition came to Clarkston nine years ago when former CHS principal Dr. Bob Burek got it started. It's not an official school event, but rather an outside event put on strictly by parents.

"Parents and kids responded to it real positively," Hughes said. "We hope parents will encourage their students to participate. It's a fun last night with all their friends before they go all their separate ways—colleges, careers... There's less of an opportunity to go on their own if parents are supportive of what we're doing for them."

The all-night party is just one of a series of special events planned for seniors. There will also be a senior breakfast May 6, and a picnic Saturday, May 20 at Clintonwood Park. A combined price of $5 gets seniors into both events, which are also put on by parents. There is also a senior dinner at Mitch's II June 4.

All of these activities are designed not just to give the seniors more time together before they graduate, but also to instill in them a sense of their community, according to Hughes.

"It's not just a parent effort, it's a whole community effort that has done this for the last nine years. Hopefully they'll come back and give back to the community the way that's been given to them."

Any individuals, businesses or service groups who would like to make a donation to the all-night party can do so by sending a check to CHS made payable to the CHS all-night party, and as soon possible. Contributions are tax-deductible.

"We'll come to their house and pick it up," Webster said.

Tickets for the party will go on sale in the high-school commons area the week of May 24.

Orientation express

Kids preview kindergarten

Some fresh new faces are making their debut in Clarkston schools over the next few days.

Both children and their parents are attending kindergarten orientation in all six Clarkston elementary schools. The two-hour session that acquaints big and little district residents has already happened at Clarkston and North Sashabaw.

"We're doing this in every building. It gives the children a chance to meet their school and teachers. It gives parents a chance to come and ask some questions. It's a time to get acquainted," said Cindy Omans, Bailey Lake kindergarten teacher and early childhood coordinator for the district.

The goal is to introduce children who will be five years old on or before Dec. 1, 1995 with the basics. After leaving their parents in "trains," where the youngsters hold on to one another's shoulders, they find their rooms and spend about an hour in three different areas — art; stories and music; and free play.

A snack to provide quick energy for busy little bodies is included during kindergarten orientation — although the children at Clarkston Elementary's orientation May 1 didn't seem to need it. Once they heard Principal Dr. Elaine Middlekauf speak and present the three kindergarten teachers, little brows magically became unknitted and faces looked excited. Some took advantage of the wide open spaces in the school multi-purpose room to get rid of wiggles.

All aboard! A train of kids gets ready to enter another activity. "We almost derailed each other

While the children got used to their new rooms and teachers, parents watched a video overview of the school district. Concerns about school nurses and the district's latchkey program, Kids' Connection, were addressed.

Before they went to their rooms, children were asked what they thought kindergarten would be like. "I don't know yet," said 5-year-old Chris Kulcher, who looked a little worried.

But later he and other kids were busy enjoying the new experience. Surprisingly, there were no tears — although one volunteer said she expected them.

Most felt right at home, drawing, listening to stories and playing in the "dirt box," as one child last year," one volunteer quipped.

described it. And most obviously felt secure in the midst of so many caring faces — and familiar toys.

"I have those kind of Legos at home!" said Kyle Cox, his eyes widening.

QUESTION: I notice that monthly condo fees vary from one similarly priced condominium complex to another. Why should there be such a great difference?

ANSWER: There are many reasons why condo fees vary widely. Some fees include insurance and property taxes and others don't. Some fee schedules are prepared by professionals and include reserves for maintenance, improvements and replacement. Unfortunately, other fee schedules are sometimes drafted by optimistic individuals who are more interested in selling unsold inventory than in managing accurately and efficiently. Have a Realtor at your side to protect your interest.

Funeral arrangements were entrusted to the Lewis Wint & Son Trust 100 Funeral Home in Clarkston.

Memorials may be made to the Grayson Athletics Booster Club.

Helen Pettengill

Helen Florence Pettengill, 91, of Palm Harbor, FL, formerly of the Clarkston area, died April 27, 1995.

Mrs. Pettengill was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Pontiac.

She is survived by two children, D.I. Pettengill of Pompano Beach and Mary Jo Longair of Tarpon Springs, FL; a sister, Dorothy Gould of Lake Orion; three grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Thursday, May 4 at 11 a.m. at the Sparks-Griffin Funeral Home in Pontiac. Interment will be at Perry Mt. Park Cemetery. Visitation will be tonight (Wednesday) from 3 to 5 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m. at the funeral home.

Bee venom trials

The Multiple Sclerosis Association of America will become the first organization in the country to fund a clinical study of the effects of bee venom therapy on MS.

Earlier this year, the MSA awarded a $25,000 grant to manufacture bee venom extract. Once the extract is approved by the Food and Drug Administration, $40,000 will be funded to investigators at Georgetown University and Kaiser Hospital in San Diego for a six-month study on chronic progressive MS patients.

Over the past few years, reports have suggested that bee venom may be an effective treatment for MS, a crippling disorder of the central nervous system which affects over 300,000 Americans. The MSA estimates that 5-10,000 MS patients are stinging themselves with honey bees in order to test claims of relief.

To learn more on the therapy or the MSA, call 1-800-833-4672.

HEPATITIS C PATIENTS who have been treated with Interferon, have responded and then relapsed are invited to call Lisa Seibold, RN, Gastroenterology Research Nurse at Harper Hospital at (313) 745-5111, Ext. 9225.

LUNG CANCER STUDY: Harper Hospital is conducting a national study of patients with non-small cell lung cancer to improve survival rates by determining the best timing of chemotherapy and radiation. For more information call (313) 745-8878.

SUBJECTS SOUGHT FOR STUDY: St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac is looking for volunteers to participate in a research study testing a new drug for irregular heart rhythms called atrial fibrillation, atrial flutter or paroxysmal supraventricular tachycardia (PAT). To be eligible you must be in normal rhythm at the present time. Call the research office at 858-6767.

Special week targets greatest childhood risks

The number one health risk for America's kids ages 14 and under isn't violence, drugs or disease. It's illness.

Each year, approximately 7,200 children ages 14 and under are killed from unintentional injuries and 50,000 are permanently disabled.

That's why National Safe Kids Week, May 6-13, is important. More than 80 national organizations and 160 coalitions—including AAA Michigan—are taking part in the injury prevention campaign.

"Unintentional injuries cause needless tragedies," says Jerry Basch, AAA community safety services manager. "But we can help protect children with proper safety measures."

To help avoid injuries, the Auto Club recommends the following simple steps:

TRAFFIC INJURIES

Motor vehicle crashes are the leading cause of injury-related deaths for children ages 14 and under.

"When properly used, child safety seats with safety belts are 71 percent effective in preventing fatalities and 67 percent effective in preventing serious injuries," says Basch, who recommends always using child safety seats when traveling with children in a vehicle.

When children outgrow the safety seats, at about 40 pounds, use a booster seat with safety belts until the children weigh over 60 pounds or can fit properly in the belt alone, Basch says. Follow the manufacturer's instructions carefully.

If all vehicle occupants ages 4 and under were restrained, 200 lives could be saved and 20,000 injuries prevented annually, traffic safety experts say.

BICYCLE INJURY

With the exception of the automobile, bicycles are associated with more childhood injuries than any other consumer product.

Cyclists ages 14 and under are at five times higher risk for injury than older cyclists. Head injury is the leading cause of death in bicycle crashes.

"About 80 percent of bicycle deaths involve head injuries," Basch said. "Yet only 15 percent of children regularly wear helmets."

Universal use of bike helmets by children ages 4-15 would prevent 135-155 deaths annually nationwide, he says.

FIRE SAFETY

Each year, approximately 1,000 children ages 14 and under die in residential fires across the U.S. More than 60 percent of these children are ages 4 and under.

In 1993, 71 children under 10 perished in Michigan fires, more than any other age group. They represented 30.5 percent of all civilian fire deaths.

"For a few dollars and a little family planning time, a family can prepare for fire emergencies," says Basch. "Smoke detectors and home fire safety drills are keys for a quick home emergency exit. Family members may only have three minutes to get out safely before being overcome by smoke and gases."

To guard against fires, install smoke detectors in sleeping areas and on every level of the home. Replace batteries yearly. Plan and practice two fire escape routes.

The chances of dying in a residential fire are cut in half when a working smoke detector is present, Basch says. Ninety percent of child fire deaths occur in homes without working smoke detectors.

SUMMARY
MINUTES OF REGULAR MEETING
CITY COUNCIL
APRIL 24, 1995

Meeting called to order by Mayor Catalo at 7:35 p.m.
ROLL: Present: Arkwright, Catalo, Roeser, Sanderson, Schultz, Secatch.

Absent: Basinger
Minutes of the April 10, 1995 meeting were accepted as presented.

Agenda was accepted after adding Use of Park to New Business.

Sanderson reported that she had talked with the Department of Agriculture regarding the Gypsy Moth spraying. Jasso Tree Service to obtain a quote on ground spraying an infested tree on Clarkston Road.

Arkwright reported on the Police Chief interviews, insurance coverage and the quarterly newsletter.

Members of the business community were present to express their concerns regarding parking.

Buck Kopietz reported that the Business Association was working with Mr. DeCorte of the T.I.A., and it would be meeting with him.

Sanderson is to check with the Board of Education office to determine who is in charge of bus traffic.

Sue Gahan of the Old Apothecary Antique mall was present to request use of the City Park for an Antique Show in conjunction with Lighthouse North.

Roeser asked that the Council be given until the next meeting in order to study the issue and formulate policy for park use.

Don Borgessor was present to discuss the sewer line maintenance for his business, Carol's Village Grill, on Main Street.

Resolved by Roeser, supported by Arkwright, "That the City consult the City Engineer as to who can evaluate this situation (sewer maintenance) and what the cost of evaluating this problem would be." Resolution passed.

Resolved by Roeser, supported by Arkwright, "That Artemus M. Pappas, City Manager, is hereby authorized to make application to the Road Commission for Oakland County on behalf of the City of the Village of Clarkston in the County of Oakland, Michigan, for the necessary permits to close roads for parades and FUNDAZE as follows:

5/20/95: Fun Daze, Close White Lake Road from Washington to Deer Lake from 10:05 a.m. to 11 a.m.

5/29/95: Memorial Day Parade. Close White Lake Road and Washington Street from M-15 to Dixie Highway from 10 a.m. to 10:30 a.m.

And, the City of the Village of Clarkston in the County of Oakland, Michigan, will faithfully fulfill all permit requirements, and shall save harmless, indemnify, defend and represent the Board against any and all claims to bodily injury or property damage, or any other claim arising out of or related to operations authorized by such permit(s) as issued."

Resolution passed.

The Finance Committee will tentatively meet on May 2 to work on the 1995-1996 City Budget.

Pam Ford, 72 North Main Street, requested information on getting the issue of a community water system back on the ballot. She is interested in promoting a campaign promoting community water. It was suggested that Ms. Ford contact Hubbell, Roth and Clark and the State Health Department to obtain background information.

Meeting adjourned at 10 p.m.

Respectfully submitted

Bailey Lake students get down to earth

Kids spend a week learning about the environment

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Kids at Bailey Lake Elementary didn't give Mother Earth one day this year — They gave her five. Earth Awareness Week, which ran April 24-28, was organized by parent volunteer Debbie Lynch who volunteers at the school and at Independence Oaks County Park. It included a newspaper drive, a Toys From Trash contest and a bulletin board with earth-saving tips from students. Two sparkly performances by environmental folksinger Kitty Donohoe wrapped up the week Friday afternoon.

"We never really did a lot (for Earth Day) for the past few years. I complained a lot — that's what you get for complaining!" said Lynch, with a laugh. "Plus, we've been wanting to do a 'Toys From Trash' contest for so long."

During the week, students scrawled advice across a giant blue bulletin board.

"When you take a bath, don't fill up the tub a lot," cautioned one conservation-conscious child.

Displayed in the school's media center were the kids' Toys From Trash projects which made use of everything from boxes to bottle caps.

Annemarie Rozwadowski, a third-grader who won first place, included a two-page list of items used to create her elaborate dollhouse. Fourth-grader Jay Mantello incorporated corks and toilet paper rolls into his football game to win second place, while fourth-grader Jessica Glover, who won third place, imitated a favorite labyrinth game with cut-up cardboard. All amateur toymakers received passes to the Waterford Oaks Wave Pool.

After all their hard work, students deserved some fun and relaxation. Donohoe's silly, witty songs were a welcome finale.

"It's good to be back in my old stomping grounds," said Donohoe, a Clarkston High School graduate who has two children and resides in East Lansing. "But now there are houses on those stomping grounds."

She delighted them with tune after tune, often inviting laughter and clapping with songs about habitats, garbage, maple syrup and recycling. She wove in messages as well.

"The earth is yours," she implored the new generation of earth-savers. "You'll have to take care of it."

Her original tale about a king who didn't bathe was a favorite.

"Eeuuuu!" squealed the kids.

Donohoe went on with the story which involved the king finally bathing in a river and covering up the earth with a large leather mat so his feet would stay clean. When he realized he was killing the earth (an obvious analogy about litter and pollution) he cut and wrapped two pieces of leather around his feet — but didn't know what to call the resulting creations.

A fly buzzing around his legs solved the problem. The king yelled, "Shoo! shoo!"

"Now we all wear shoes," quipped Donohoe.

Note: Newspapers are still being collected at Bailey Lake Elementary, located at 8051 Pine Knob Road. Just dump them in "the big blue thing in the parking lot," says Principal Chris Turner.

Kitty Donohoe brought smiles to kids' faces with her witty songs about the environment.
