Bus drivers file charge of unfair labor practice

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

An unfair labor practice charge has been filed against the Clarkston school district by the union representing bus drivers, alleging the district is not bargaining in good faith on a new contract. It also alleges that school superintendent Gary Haner threatened the drivers with privatization because they publicly protested a cut in their hours and fringe benefits.

The charge was filed with the Michigan Department of Labor Sept. 6 and is scheduled for a hearing before Judge Roy Roulhac on Nov. 20. It was filed by the Michigan Education Association on behalf of CLASP, the Clarkston Association of Support Personnel, which represents bus drivers, custodians, secretaries and paraprofessionals in the district.

The charge alleges that in a meeting between Haner and the bus drivers on March 25, Haner said he was pursuing full-service privatization because the drivers had engaged in a campaign against two-tier busing, which reduces their working hours and benefits.

"Respondent (the district) has sought to discourage bargaining unit members from the exercise of their rights . . . and has discriminated and retaliated against transportation employees with subcontracting and actively pursuing a 'full service contract' which will eliminate their jobs," the charge reads, in part.

The charge also alleges that the district "has revealed its total lack of interest in bargaining in good faith by engaging in surface bargaining by offering unrealistic proposals."

At the center of the dispute is the change from three-tier to two-tier busing, which took effect this fall. The new system cut drivers' hours, benefits and retirement credit time in order to allow all elementary schools to begin and end at the same time, as well as the two middle schools. Such a move was requested by the district's teachers to allow them to schedule common planning time.

Lewis said the district's position is that it can drop from three-tier to two-tier busing under the language of the old contract, a claim which CLASP disputes. The contract states "A six hour per day guarantee will remain in effect only as long as we have three tiers of busing, consisting of the high school, middle school, and elementary."

The charge alleges that the district has suspended the six-hour guarantee "without bargaining to impasse as required by law."

Second arbitration case could be settled

Township seeking $3.5 million from Westcap

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

While Independence Township and Westcap Securities negotiate a possible settlement, a Sept. 26 arbitration hearing is still on schedule in Detroit.

The arbitration hearing, to be held at a hotel conference room, could determine who is responsible for four township investments losing over $3 million in value.

Three impartial arbitrators will hear the case pitting Independence Township against Westcap Securities, based in Houston, Texas, and brokers Jeffrey D. Oetting and Craig L. Leibold.

The claim, filed with the National Association of Securities Dealers in November 1994, says Westcap and Leibold and Oetting misled township treasurer John Lutz with bad investment advice related to four securities he purchased between September 1993 and March 1994. The township seeks $3.5 million in damages.

Attorneys for Westcap and Leibold and Oetting say Lutz already knew investing in those four securities was risky, and that their relationship was simply broker and customer, not investment advisor with a "fiduciary duty."

But it could all be a moot point if a settlement is reached before Sept. 26. Both township officials and Westcap attorney John Carter confirmed settlement resolutions have been floating back and forth, but nothing has been finalized.

"Westcap's first preference is to not have a dispute with any customer," said Carter. "If it can be worked out beforehand, Westcap is willing to cooperate, as long as it could be settled on a reasonable basis."

Last month, the township settled a similar arbi-

The news in brief

Two arrested in check scam

Thanks to an alert teller, two men were arrested at a local bank Sept. 14 after trying to cash a check on a closed account from another institution.

A 27-year-old Oxford man was arrested inside Oxford Bank after a teller recognized his name as a person who had cashed bad checks before. He was attempting to cash a $700 check drawn on a long-closed account at T & C Federal Credit Union. The owner of that account, a 39-year-old Waterford man, was arrested in a car outside the bank. Each man blamed the other; the investigation continues.

MDOT plans M-15 work

The Michigan Department of Transportation has announced plans to resurface M-15 from Seymour Lake Rd. to Glass Rd. in Brandon Township next year.

The resurfacing is budgeted at $1.25 million and is part of a massive, three-year State Transportation Improvement Plan for existing roads and bridges.

Flu shots begin

Though the weather is still reminiscent of summer it's time to start thinking about flu shots.

RN Home Health Care will offer the first shots of the season, Sept. 20, at the CAI Building, 5640 Williams Lake Rd. in Waterford, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Cost is $10 unless you are a Medicare recipient, in which case the shots are free. Shots will also be available at the same location on Nov. 15. For more information call (313) 467-8209.

Mom arrested

The homeless mother who made headlines last summer for staying with her infant daughter in an abandoned house in Clarkston is back in jail.

Pamela Williamson was arrested at her job in Sylvan Lake September 19 because she had never showed up to serve her sentence for child neglect. At the time she had been sentenced to 10 days in jail and probation.

After her arrest last week, Williamson was sentenced to 80 days in the Oakland County Jail. Her daughter was taken away from her last year by a Probate Court judge.

Public Service Commission to hold hearing in Detroit

The Michigan Public Service Commission will hold a consumer forum on Tuesday, Oct. 10 at 6:30 p.m. at the Michigan State Fairgrounds.

The purpose of the forum is to answer questions on electric, natural gas or telephone rates or services, power outages, energy and utility policies and competition. Both residential and business users are invited to attend.

"The MPSC makes decisions on utility services and costs that impact the lives of every Michigan resident and business owner," said Chairman John Strand. "My colleagues and I welcome the opportunity to meet informally with area residents to hear about their experiences, questions and concerns regarding electric, natural gas, telephone and trucking services and costs."

Use the Woodward entrance, Gate 5 to reach the Community Arts Building. The forum will be held in the auditorium. For more information call (517) 334-6983.

New assistant pastor joins Calvary Lutheran

27-year-old hopes to bridge generation gap

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Make a joyful noise unto the Lord ...

--The Holy Bible, Psalm 100:1

Todd von Gunten is animated as he works with a group of middle-school-aged boys to recreate the story of Daniel and the Lion's Den.

He dances, gestures, using body and hand movements and makes the tale come alive, much to the delight of the young men who could have been the Biblical character's own age.

The only hint of clergy is the black shirt with white collar. The rest is his own creation — jeans, black tweed blazer, a pair of tennis shoes and a 500-watt smile that deepens his boyish dimples. Not the kind of minister who's unapproachable and melancholy, but one who speaks to them in their own language.

"I believe God has a sense of humor," says von Gunten, 27, the new assistant pastor at Calvary Evangelical Lutheran Church in Clarkston. "Religion is a serious matter, but serious doesn't always mean somber."

A look at his office bears witness to this interpretation. On the desk sit a purple stuffed animal, a Disney-cartooned clock and a cheery clay replica of Noah's Ark, given to him by a friend. He also owns an "Animaniacs" mug. All are examples of the magical child-like quality he never outgrew.

Von Gunten walks out to Calvary's entrance, points to a picture of Christ and chuckles. He first saw the picture when he was at another church.

"I said, He-e-e-y ... Bob Marley! My friend said, 'That's not Bob Marley, that's 'Laughing Jesus.' The sketch of a joyful Christ is now his favorite representation.

'I believe God has a sense of humor.'

Todd von Gunten

When he was a youngster, von Gunten found himself firmly placed on the straight-and-narrow. After "church-hopping" with his parents for several years, he finally found his niche at a Lutheran church he attended with a friend.

"What attracted (my parents) was the singing. I had a positive experience at age seven. I actually remember my baptism."

That impression remained with him throughout his school years where von Gunten found positive role models in church people. "It was really something, I said, 'Heck, I'm a pre-teen and I'm hanging around with these pastors. I didn't even know I was on the path at that time.'"

Von Gunten found himself exposed and attracted, not to dogged material, but to "different backgrounds and styles in parts of theology." His pastor friends, he said, "journeyed with me, they investigated it (religion and the ministry) with me. At the end of high school I was considering it was a possible life choice, a calling."

He eventually wound up at the Lutheran School of Theology in Chicago which included an exchange year in Germany — a good choice, he says, for many reasons, including accessible knowledge of Reformation history. "If you have to do history, it's nice to have a field trip kind of active learning." He also had an internship at Rocky Mountain Synod in Colorado, not a bad place to reflect on where he wanted to focus.

"There's a sense of discernment where you have the chance to find out if you are for or not for parish ministry." Von Gunten graduated from LSTC with a master of divinity, a title he describes as "kind of high-falutin'. I didn't feel any more divine than anybody else. I mean, my feet are on the ground."

The pastor whom von Gunten was close to in both high school and college became the bishop who submitted his name to Calvary. Von Gunten met with the church's call committee and had a chance to assist in worship this summer so the congregation could get to know him. Calvary voted to call him and he was ordained Aug. 26 in Grosse Pointe.

As the church's new assistant pastor, von Gunten says his calendar is already filling up. His background in drama and creative writing will help him in his ministry — and preaching, he says.

"I don't say that in terms that my sermons are showy, but they lend themselves to creativity... Maybe, for example, I will speak from the perspective of a Biblical character, do liturgical re-enactments."

The Bible's messages are never old, but he will tell them in new ways that are uplifting and refreshing.

"Our generation can look back to the stories and enactments and say God is with us now. It's kind of a "Circle of Life," if you want to put an Elton John thing on it."

He hopes to bridge any generation gaps that might exist as well. "You can have a teenager, middle-ager, senior — when they are together, they communicate together ... That builds community." Von Gunten wants to extend that sense of community and congregation beyond Calvary's doors.

"You may be a circle of life, but it's not closed." Part of that circle of life is "celebrating life, grieving death — and celebrating life again," he says.

And listen to those stories — and enact their messages, whether it be at the pulpit or on the streets of Clarkston, serving and building the community.

"Hear the stories," von Gunten says with a deeply dimpled smile. "That's where the flower blooms — from the soil of those stories."

Juvenile justice facing major changes

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

Major reorganization of Michigan's courts could change the way juveniles in trouble are handled, according to one Oakland County Probate Judge.

Judge Joan Young spoke to the annual meeting of Clarkston Area Youth Assistance Monday at Clarkston United Methodist Church. She said that Governor Engler, the legislature and probate judges themselves all have ideas about reforming the state's courts. The state supreme court has even made its own presentation, which would combine the circuit and probate courts. Currently, probate court handles juvenile and commitment proceedings, while circuit court handles adult criminal and small-claims cases.

"We're concerned about that (proposal) although there are some good reasons to have that," Young said. "I would encourage you to go ahead and write letters ... We'd like to hear from you."

Young said that whatever shape court reform takes, it will likely allow the counties some flexibility "because the needs in Oakland County are not the same as in Ontonagon."

Another idea under consideration, Young said, is turning over some functions of the Department of Social Services to the probate court. Currently, DSS handles placements of juveniles after adjudication by the court.

"Often the department and probate court are kind of pitted against each other," Young said. "Dr. Miller (DSS head) has now said how about if we give you all the money and you do it. We're a little suspicious of that but we're thinking about how could we manage that."

1995 annual report

After a record number of referrals in 1994, the total caseload for CAYA was about the same in 1995, according to the annual report.

Total referrals dropped from 117 to 88, although consultative cases were up, from 51 last year to 78 this year. Referrals may come to caseworker Teresa Blundell-Zucker from the police, schools, parents or other sources.

Referrals for alcohol and drug-related cases was down, from 14 last year to only three this year. Only preventive referrals were up, from 23 last year to 35 this year.

Blundell-Zucker may use counseling, restitution or community service, as well as education, in dealing with her young charges, or may refer them to other sources when necessary.

Young said the state's probate judges would like to have more flexibility in sentencing juvenile offenders and have proposed their own plan, based upon a Minnesota model. It would allow them more options in sentencing young offenders, including treatment and adult jail sentences as they see fit.

"It certainly is of concern to me that circuit court and district court judges can both place a 17-year-old in a county jail, but I can't," she said. "We should focus treatment on those who can be treated, rehabilitation on those who can be rehabilitated. There are some cases where nothing much can be done."

Young stressed that prevention of child abuse and neglect can go a long way toward keeping children out of the criminal courts later in life, and praised

Youth Assistance, which is a branch of the probate court in Oakland County, for its mission of intervention before serious legal problems occur.

Minutes change violated rules of order

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

For future reference, Independence Township Clerk Joan McCrary wants all board members to know the proper way to change meeting minutes.

According to her research, the condensed version of minutes from a July 25 special meeting, approved 5-2 by the board at its Aug. 25 meeting, should not have been allowed. Roberts Rules of Order, which are the meeting guidelines adopted by the board, state any objection to something read into the record must be done at that time.

McCrary said she included the information she found in the board members' meeting packets because "I just wanted them all to know."

She also said, "I didn't do this to cause a debate but they all should know this for future use."

The debate was already carried out at the Aug. 25 meeting when supervisor Dale Stuart made a motion to "summarize" McCrary's written statement on why she voted against hiring an investment manager.

McCrary was the lone dissenter among board members in voting to hire an investment manager at the July 25 meeting. She handed out a half-page memo to board members and asked it be "entered into the record."

On Aug. 25 Stuart said he thought the verbatim record was too lengthy when compared to the amount of space given to other comments during the four-hour meeting. McCrary at the time objected, along with trustee Mel Vaara, because she requested her full statement be part of the record.

McCrary contacted two experts in parliamentary procedure and both said the removal of any "paper read for the record" must be disputed at the time it is read, and that the action to condense was "out of order."

Courthouse move delayed

The return of 52-2 District Court to Clarkston, scheduled for the weekend of Oct. 1, has been delayed.

Court administrator Jill Palulian issued a statement Tuesday saying, "Due to unforeseen construction delays, the office of the 52-2 District Court will not be relocating back to Clarkston on September 29, 1995 as originally announced. We will confirm a new date as soon as possible."

Last week, Palulian said the move couldn't come "fast enough" for employees, who have been working in temporary quarters in Pontiac for nearly a year. The former courthouse, located off Citation Drive near M-15, burned last Devils' Night.

One mother remembers

Having been the right age during the latter years of the Vietnam conflict, I sometimes wonder how I escaped having someone I knew and cared about killed in the war.

Certainly I had classmates who were seriously affected by the war. But no one in my family or circle of friends was killed, and for that I am still amazed, and grateful.

Of course, many thousands of families were not so lucky. The names of their loved ones are engraved on a long monument in Washington, D.C., row upon row. Still others, including one Clarkston family, remain in limbo after all these years because someone they loved is missing in action and presumed dead.

For one former Clarkston resident whose son was killed September 15, 1970 at the age of 20, each year brings another anniversary to remember her loss. Martha MacDonald still mourns for her son Lee and occasionally writes a poem about him. She wrote me a letter last week.

In it she talked about how he was just an average student, except for his musical talent, but had been accepted to college. He was a good kid who would probably have turned out a lot like his buddies who have turned into good middle-aged men.

Martha writes, "He was with the helicopter unit in Vietnam and was Spc. 4 at the time of his injury in Chu Li, Vietnam. Two weeks later in Zama Hospital, Zama, Japan, his dear life was over . . .

"I just had to write this: I never hear his name. No one talks about him. He was a young man with such promise and he is always on my mind."

Accompanying the letter was the following poem:

One day we are busy and content, our loved ones are here and our problems are met.

Then when the days grow grey and cold, our loved one, he is called to the fold.

We can't understand,

we cry and we plead,

but finally realize

there is a need

from God's standpoint anyway,

he wanted our loved one with him to stay.

We shared him proudly,

we loved him and then,

like a whisk of the wind,

he was gone away.

A 1968 Clarkston High School graduate, Lee would have been just about my age. He's been gone now for 25 years, longer than he was even alive.

Twenty-five years is a long time, time enough for memories to fade, for a new generation to come along which knows nothing about this shared past. Another 25, and the Vietnam generation will be mostly gone, just as is happening with World War II vets now.

Somehow I don't think we'll be celebrating any great anniversaries of the Vietnam war. Maybe by then we'll have passed the time when celebrating

Jim's Jottings

By Jim Sherman

My buddy Pansy died Wednesday

Many thoughts came to mind as I wrote that headline. Like the line in the old song, "... Buddies never make you blue."

Like my dad's recalling his "buddies" in World War I.

Like the depths of a relationship two people have for each other . . . the strength it brings, the warmth, the comfort.

Though Francis Alex (Pansy) Baldwin was 82, I'm tempted to write 1955-1995. I was invited to have dinner with friends of friends the week before Hazel and I bought The Oxford Leader May 15, 1955.

Fred and Doris Hayes asked me to join them and Pansy and Elizabeth Baldwin. From that meeting a friendship grew, gaining strength year after year.

That 1955-1995 does not mean we didn't have lives prior to our meeting, it's just that my life was fuller and more enriched having a buddy to exchange thoughts with, to play, party and share with.

Those who are reading about "Pansy" for the first time must wonder how he got that nickname. Well, it's like calling a 300 pounder "Tiny."

Pansy was a strong man. In Oxford high school he set a record by scoring six touchdowns in a football game and only played little more than a half.

Born the son of a farmer, Pansy wanted no part of that when his dad bought another team of horses when Pansy thought he should have bought a tractor. He got a job in a machine shop and learned that trade.

After serving in the Navy in WW II, mostly in Guam, Pansy came back to his home town and, with a partner, started Production Gear and Mfg Company.

He sold it to his partner, Howard Brown, in 1956 and became head of Oxford's DPW. In 1958 Pansy and Elizabeth bought a party store in Oxford, renaming it Baldwin's Party Store. After they sold it in 1973 Pansy went back to his machinist trade.

He never wavered in his love of his home town. He invested in it when he could, he served on a variety of committees and was a volunteer firefighter for more than 20 years.

All this time our friendship became closer. When he joined the Hiawatha Sportsmans Club, I joined. We opened deer hunting season there for over 35 years. He never shot a deer during those years, but wow, did we prepare for 'the hunt,' always arriving at least three days early to "open camp."

We fished with the same intensity, and often with the same results, from Lake Erie to Oba Lake in Canada, but mostly at the Hiawatha Sportsmans Club in Engadine. We opened trout season together more than a quarter century. Three years ago he got his limit for the only time.

We've sometimes taken a dozen hours to get to the UP. Acquaintances had to be renewed in places like Standish, Rose City, Mio, Luzerne, Lewiston, Naubinway and Newberry.

We have been golf partners for over 30 years, playing more than 20 times a year, usually with a pre-game refreshment and a post-game dinner together.

We were buddies in the best ways. Neither of us shared all our thoughts, but when you consider how often we played chess, euchre, cribbage, snowmobile and field hunted you know we had a lot of conversation.

That was another great thing about our relationship. We could drive for long periods of time without thinking we had to fill the void with talk. The silence was never awkward.

Arriving at any of our destinations was always interesting. Pansy's wife Elizabeth made it so. She almost always sneaked a picture of their wedding in his duffle. She has also sewed soft candies into his hunting pants pockets, sewed his pajama and long john legs together and stole his Canadian Club.

That was the worst trick. She replaced the whiskey with stones and Pansy was one mad man. His "Goddamn that woman," mellowed when his fifth was brought up later by a friend.

However, though he may have sworn at Elizabeth that time, there should never be any doubt he truly loved her.

I mentioned early in this article how strong Pansy was. During the time I've known him he has been scalded over the top half of his body, losing most of the skin; he had a heart attack years ago; part of a lung was removed when cancer was found; he's had eye operations; he's fallen down a flight of stairs.

In the end the doctors said he, at 82; had outlived his body.

Pansy was a man's man . . . strong, honest, always willing to help, always wanting to share.

He was just as well accepted and admired by women, to some extent because he treated them with respect, but primarily because he was a good person.

Pansy and Elizabeth didn't have children, and this is the end of this Baldwin lineage. But, though they had none of their own, there are many "kids," including our children and grandchildren, who call them Uncle Pansy and Aunt Liz.

Everyone should have a buddy. I just feel so fortunate to have had Pansy for a buddy for over 40 years.

A show cause hearing in Oakland County Circuit Court is scheduled to resume after five residents are selected for the adult foster care home proposed for an address on Timber Ridge Trail.

Superintendent of Clarkston Schools Dr. Leslie Greene reports an enrollment count of 6,674 students for the 1970-71 school year. "This is not an official count," he points out. Last year's enrollment was 6,485 and the projected enrollment for this year is 6,600. Greene says, "The slight increase may indicate that our need for more building will be eliminated in the next few years. Our kindergarten enrollment this year is the smallest since 1961. This downward trend began in 1966. We are watching it closely."

The Clarkston Jaycees plan their annual chicken barbecue for Sunday, Sept. 20. "The air will be filled with the aroma of chicken being barbecued over a hickory fire," announces chairman Terry Lopucki. "The demand for our chicken seems limitless. Last year we doubled the number of chickens that we cooked over the previous year's quantity. This year, by popular demand, we are again increasing the amount." The menu will also include baked beans, potato salad, rolls and dessert.

New teachers to the Clarkston School system this year include industrial arts instructor David King, Spanish language teacher Ann Tucker, music teacher Pat Race and band instructor Keith Sipos.

Since mentioning flower gardens in last week's paper, a visit has been made to the dahlia gardens at the home of George D. Walter on Perry Lake Road. There are to be found dahlias of all colors and many varieties. Some of the blooms are ten and twelve inches in diameter ... If you happen to drive out Andersonville Road through Waterford, you want to be sure to see the display of large, colorful gladioli at the Henri Buck home ... Before too long the children in the subdivision south of town, and the grown-ups too, will be able to walk to town with some degree of safety. A sidewalk is to be laid on the west side of M-15 as far as the village limits ... Some of the Clarkston businessmen are beginning to visualize some of their post-war plans. Garald O'Dell has been having a ripping time this week — ripping out counters, shelves, soda fountain equipment and well, just about everything has been piled on the street in front of the drugstore. But what a surprise is in store for everyone. We understand that the place is going to be "the last word."

Shopping for men and Barbie is tricky

The thirtysomething woman, heading into the crowded building, said she wanted to look around and "check out the men."

The next day, the woman's husband, in the same crowded building, gave the same explanation. He was there to "check out the men."

Later, comparing men-checking results, the couple agreed that, if overheard by a stranger, they would have been scored promiscuous 2, gay 1.

I hope I wasn't overheard in that same crowded building on the afternoon I was engaged in an intense argument concerning whether or not Barbie's bed was long enough to accommodate Barbie's body. A stranger would surely have labeled me as some unfortunate old grandpoop who forgot to take his medication.

Speaking of which, following a recent church service, I was approached by Sunday school teacher Pam Putnam, who smiled and said her puppies read my favorite newspaper and she thought I'd like to know that the column photo of a grandpoop had been grandly pooped upon.

There are critics everywhere, and I know how to bring out the worst in them.

But back to the crowded building, which is a Kmart, and the fear of eavesdroppers, which is caused by children.

Adam, my 3-year-old grandson, thinks no one he knows even slightly should go shopping without bringing him home "men" or at least "a man." That's what he calls Power Ranger, Batman and other macho dolls that are manufactured in various sizes and increasingly countless guises.

Adam frequently barges into our home to search the closets for men that his grandparents may have squirreled away to give him on special occasions, such as weekdays. It is not surprising that Adam refers to this large family of disparate dolls in such non-specific language. He still calls both my wife and me Grandpa, adding when necessary that he means "the boy one" or "the girl one."

When it comes to men, Adam disdains duplicates. If he already has one certain man, he doesn't want two. That's why his parents, whenever shopping, always check out the men, to see if their zillionaire manufacturers have somehow come up with a man that Adam doesn't already have.

As for my embarrassing Kmart conversation, I'd taken 8-year-old granddaughter Tricia shopping on the strict stipulation that she was limited to one item. As usual, she chose it by filling a shopping basket with a dozen possibilities and then slowly, slowly eliminating all but one.

Noticing Tricia's contemplation of a box that popped open to reveal a cardboard bedroom for Barbie, I said the bed wasn't long enough for any Barbie I ever saw. Tricia said it was too. I took a Barbie off a shelf and demonstrated that her feet hung over the end of the bed. Tricia said that was only because the Barbie was still in her box.

We couldn't open the typically fail-safe box without buying Barbie, and she wasn't Tricia's choice, so there was an extended argument, including dueling measurements, concerning how much longer Barbie's box was than Barbie herself.

It was getting dark outside, so I finally ended the debate by ruling that I had to be right because I'm a grown-up with a college degree and Tricia isn't, so there, too.

Finally, a handsomely kilted bagpiper, beautifully playing "Amazing Grace," marched slowly along the little street beside my grandchildren's home. Three of them rushed out of the house to the curb to applaud joyously. One of them, Adam, was naked except for red boots like some of his men wear.

The bagpiper was leading a funeral procession.

This column was written to cheer up those grandparents who complain to me that I'm luckier than they are because they almost never see their grandchildren.

If it's a fire or a hole-in-one,
we want to hear about it.

The queen of our Homecoming dreams

Who would have ever thought that my sister, Laura Witkowski, would ever be a Homecoming Queen contender? Not that I'm being critical of her, but she doesn't exactly scream Homecoming Queen when you compare her to the queens and princesses of years past.

Well, to answer my own question, I thought it and apparently a whole lot of other people did, too! It all started with Laura making a mock gasp of excitement when it was announced that the voting would be the following day. I, myself, really hadn't thought much about who I was going to vote for and probably wouldn't have voted had my brilliant idea not struck me.

The way I see it, the majority of the school doesn't bother voting because they don't feel they're represented. Let's face it; the majority of Clarkston High School is not made up of cheerleaders and athletes who, year after year, are the majority of the people who get on the Homecoming Court (not that I have anything against them, but it just happens to be true). I didn't vote last year for this very reason. I knew that the people who won were going to be the people everyone had thought would win since as early as junior high. There simply aren't enough surprises when it comes to the whole tapping assembly game.

My brilliant idea? Get as many people as possible to vote for Laura by spreading the word that she "best represented our class" (the criteria students were instructed to base their choice on). The response to this idea was astounding. So many people were into it and genuinely excited about the idea. By the end of the day people I didn't even know were coming up to me and saying, "Hey, I'm voting for your sister!"

Finally, a possible candidate that actually does represent a large majority of the school — and I mean that, too. Not only is Laura drama club vice president, cymbal section leader in marching band, a fine oboe player, an alto in madrigals, music reviewer for the school newspaper Echoes, a past participant in Girl's State, lead singer for the band My Sister David (of which I am the guitar player and you should come see us play at the Homecoming tail-gate party Sept. 29), and a good student: She's nice. Being nice sure does go a long way and, in the long run as well as in the short, it really does count. It pays to keep an open mind and accept everyone's differences, which Laura does with no problem.

Laura does best represent our class as far as I see it and if I seem like I am overdoing it on the praise here, then maybe I am. But, hey, give me a break, she's my sister and I'm proud of her. I even cried when she got tapped! OK, I admit, I didn't cry because I was happy for her, I cried because I was insanely jealous . . . OK, so that's a lie.

I'm proud of myself, too, come to think of it, because if it had not been for my brilliant idea then none of this would've ever happened. No one would've seen that you can break the mold and override the stereotype. People didn't vote for Laura because she's a joke, they voted for her because she's a good kid and an individual, and even if she doesn't become queen she is still on the court, which is reason enough to belt out Aretha Franklin's "Respect."

In the words of Doug Floyd, "You don't get harmony when everybody sings the same note." And this is one of the best tunes I've heard in a long time.

Ei-liners by Eileen Oxley

The garage sale

After the last garage sale I had, I said "Never again." But that was two years ago. Time has a way of padding memory.

This year it was going to be different. I was going to be organized.

I was going to have ALL my items marked by 9 a.m. for the early-risers (why anyone would want to get up at that hour on a Saturday morning for junk is beyond me).

It was only a garage sale, for goodness sake, so why be stressed? I would have all that time to relax. sit at the card table, make easy-going bargains, maybe read a book or two ...

Who was I kidding? With a shock, I looked at the clock Friday night and realized it was 12:45 a.m. Where had the time gone? I had been magic-markering and tearing off strips of masking tape for nearly five hours.

I went to bed — and when the bugles blew at 7 a.m. (my alarm clock) — I dutifully rose, dressed hurriedly and drove to seven locations to post my signs at dew-drenched posts around Lake Orion. Neither the masking nor electrical tape stuck very well despite my efforts to pre-wipe the poles.

I couldn't believe it. There was already a woman sitting in my driveway — looking like a hungry barracuda — when I returned at 7:30. She thought my sale began at eight. No, I explained, though I had been explicit about directions in the newspaper ad, I had neglected to mention the hours. "You're right," she drawled, in a Southern accent, after squinting at her 'Advertiser' — "that's another sale."

Turns out that my first customers, a few know-it-alls about garage sale-ing who also worked the flea-market circuit, knew the lady. "Does she drive a beat-up silver car? Does she have a Southern accent? Was she sitting in your driveway at the crack of dawn?"

"Hah! That's so-and-so. She goes to every garage sale from here to kingdom come," snorted a crusty seniorette who hunched over, carried a cane and wore dangling, dime-store earrings. She shuffled around, fairly sniffing the glassware like fine wine and claimed to know everything about it (I was charging too much).

After that incident I stood my ground. I wouldn't listen to those garage-sale-know-it-alls who tried to talk down my prices.

I would not break up the four-piece cherry wood bedroom set because someone wanted just the dresser.

I would not sell the mower that worked like new for a measly 25 bucks.

I would not sell the six-year-old Pee Wee Herman doll (who had scared the bejeebers out of my kids) for $2 just because when you now pulled the ring his voice was a little garbled.

And, Ebenezer Scrooge-ess that I was, I would not even sell a stuffed Bugs Bunny to a winsome 5-year-old for half its marked price. I was going to make money, money, money.

I did, however, finally break down for a brown-eyed youngster who, I sensed, wanted his own big-boy boom box.

"Are you selling the radio that's holding up the stuffed animals?" he inquired like a little wheeler-dealer.

Yes, I slowly answered, making a quick, but difficult decision (it's a piece of junk that works and has sentimental value).

"How much?" he asked, in a high-pitched voice.

"How much ya got?"

"$1.50." Sold, to the pip squeak for a dollar fifty. He was a dime short and I made him run across the street to get the rest. Teach the boy a little responsibility, I said. Nothing comes easy in life ...

One of my neighbors came over and gushed about the little pink-and-white china plate she had bought at my last sale. She had it in her living room and it was definitely a conversation piece. She purchased four cut-glass items, some old Beverly Cleary books and a Batman cape.

"Did you know your big garage sale sign is lying on the ground at Miller and Orion roads?" she asked. I looked around.

The rack holding bargain coats had blown down and leveled the petunias.

Items with sentimental value had been retrieved throughout the sale, including a stuffed animal that had collected dust under the bed for two years (Suddenly it was special).

I still couldn't get the stereo I was selling to work with the speakers.

I had brewed three pots of coffee.

My 14-year-old son Tyler's friend Dylan had a "$20" piece of masking tape stuck to his forehead.

My house was a disaster area.

Tyler and Dylan were on a sugar high from an entire box of Reese's ice cream bars eaten behind my back.

The natives were definitely getting restless. I was bone tired. Tyler was drawing peace signs on the old card table we were using as a sales counter. Dylan had taped a description to a plastic key chain. It read: "This once belonged to Ringo Starr — $100."

It was time to quit.

The D'Anne & Don Review

To Wong Foo, Thanks for Everything! Julie Newmar

By Don Downey

As open-minded as I consider myself to be, I'm afraid I cannot recommend this movie. Its plot is predictable and its scenes seem to be held together with some sort of artless masking tape.

Patrick Swayze and Wesley Snipes star as Vida and Noxeema, a couple of drag queen beauty pageant winners who bring meaning into the lives of a bunch of goobers in a town of less than 100 people. Snyderville, as it is called, conveniently lacks normal people. The queens get there because they traded in their two airline tickets to Hollywood (from New York, where they won a pageant) to drive across the country in an enormous Cadillac with leopard-skin seats. The car breaks down, minutes after Vida seriously injures a county sheriff who tries to get fresh with her, consequently trapping the queens in hickland. Vida and Noxeema spend their time redecorating the town inn and beating up almost every man in sight, thus becoming heroes to the town women. John Leguizamo gives an outstanding performance as Chi Chi, the drag princess whom Vida and Noxeema have taken under their wing in hopes of making a full-scale queen.

The basic plot of To Wong Foo is entertaining enough to make its bad jokes and choppy scene-to-scene progression bearable. The attempts at humor fail 75 percent of the time; most of the punchlines come in the form of references which most people (myself included) wouldn't understand. The costumes and special guest stars (including RuPaul and Robin Williams) are the high points of this movie, which is, I believe, a mild disappointment.

anything about war is considered acceptable. Unfortunately, we haven't yet reached the time when we can celebrate anniversaries of peace—there so rarely are any.

No, the dawning of the age of Aquarius hasn't happened yet. If it's ever to come, it will be up to the mothers (and fathers) of people like Lee MacDonald to keep reminding us of the human price of war. To keep pointing out, even in times of relative peace, that when politicians get together to carve up the world, they are affecting mothers and fathers and little boys and girls too. For they are the ones who fight the battles.

We must never forget.

The "Precious Moments" Session of the Grand Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star of Michigan, will be held Oct. 10-12 at the Saginaw Civic Center. This will be Michigan's 129th Annual Session and delegates from Clarkston's Joseph C. Bird Chapter #294 will be attending, along with 3,000 delegates and members from over 280 chapters in Michigan, the U.S. and Canada.

The Order of the Eastern Star is a charitable organization which gave over $232,000 to charities through Michigan's Grand Chapter last year. The Michigan Grand Chapter is held each October in memory of members who died in the past year.

Meeting of minds on Morgan Lake addition

After a meeting of township officials and Morgan Lake Golf Classic representatives, a compromise to a 50-acre addition was reached.

Both sides agreed at a Sept. 13 meeting that the proposed 81-lot subdivision, to be included in the 286-acre planned unit development, would be reduced by two lots to relieve density concerns on the part of the township board of trustees and planning commission.

The Independence Township board denied the 81-lot rezoning addition Sept. 5, but also recommended the meeting be set up so both sides could come to some solution before the commission reviewed the rezoning again.

The board and planning commission both recommended denial because they thought the 81-lot addition, known as Stone Meadow, was too dense and wasn't consistent with the rest of the development, although it did meet ordinance requirements.

"I'm OK with this because it's already dragged on too long for both sides," Clark said. "We wouldn't have agreed to do anything like removing six or seven lots but we were agreeable to this change."

Morgan Lake representative Michael Clark also said his people also agreed to provide a bigger access on Maybee with more natural landscaping.

Even with the verbal agreement, the new proposal must still be approved by the planning commission, possibly at a Sept. 28 meeting. After the commission gives its recommendation, the township board will then make its final decision on whether to rezone the 50 acres.

Carpenter-Sunderman

Bruce and Jane Carpenter of Clarkston announce the upcoming September marriage of their daughter, Jennifer Marie, to David J. Sunderman of Waterford. The bride-to-be currently attends Oakland Community College where she is studying early childhood development. She is employed as a full-time care giver in Royal Oak. The prospective groom is the son of John and Karen Sunderman of Deshler, Ohio. He is a 1993 graduate of Georgia Tech and is employed by Andersen Consulting of Detroit.

At school

● Patrick Eschker recently received an associate's degree in respiratory therapy from Oakland Community College through William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak. He is now working in the Respiratory Therapy Department at North Oakland Medical Centers in Pontiac. Patrick is a 1989 graduate of Clarkston High School and is the son of Louis and Barbara Eschker of Independence Township.

● Six Clarkston High School students (Class of 1995) have been named AP Scholars by the College Board in recognition of their exceptional achievement on the college-level Advanced Placement Exams.

The six students are Timothy Szykula, Kristy Barefoot, Angela Elckhorst, Jenifer Myers, Christyn Oostdyk and Johnathon York. They earned the designation by completing three or more AP Exams with grades of 3 or higher (on a scale of 5).

Szykula was named an AP Scholar with Honor for earning grades of 3 or above on four or more AP Exams, with an average score of 3.25.

About 11 percent of America's graduating seniors take AP Exams; of them, about 12 percent merit such recognition. AP grades of 3 or better are usually good for college credit or placement.

Creech-Loftis wed in Flint

Ken and Carrie (Loftis) Creech were married June 3, 1995 in the Coldwater Chapel at historic Crossroads Village in Flint. The Victorian theme wedding was officiated by the Rev. Steve Andrews of Kingsington Church in Troy.

Many guests and family members were driven from the village entrance to the church in an historic horse-drawn white carriage which also took the newly married couple on a tour through the village after the wedding.

Following the ceremony, a dinner reception for 200 guests was held in the Village's Mill Street Dining Hall.

The bride wore a Victorian style satin gown with a hat and veil made by her mother, Vickie Loftis. She carried a bouquet of silk flowers which was created by her aunt Sharon Martin of Tennessee.

Nancy Ray of Michigan was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids included Kim Creech, Cindy Loftis, Julie Walker, all of Michigan, and Trina Beard of Kentucky. They wore peach tea-length crepe dresses with white calais bolero jackets. Junior bridesmaids were Heather Rowe of Michigan and Rachael Poynter of South Carolina.

The groom's attendants included Tim Giddings of Michigan as best man and groomsmen Robert Roy, Robert Loftis, Steve Butman and Eric Newkirk, all of Michigan.

Flower girl was Danielle Poynter and ring bearer was Austin Poynter, both of South Carolina. Ushers included Clifton and Brenton Poynter of South Carolina and Jason Rowe of Michigan.

Carrie is the daughter of Mack and Vickie Loftis of Hazel Park. She is a 1990 graduate of Hazel Park High School and a 1994 graduate of Wayne State University where she received a bachelor's in education. She works as a customer service manger for Somerset Collection in Troy.

Ken is the son of Chuck and Barbara Creech of Clarkston. He is a 1985 graduate of Clarkston High School and a 1989 graduate of Wayne State University where he received a bachelor's with a major in information systems. He is the open systems manager for Macro Computer Products in Rochester Hills.

The couple spent their honeymoon in St. Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Creech
They now reside in Auburn Hills.

PTA supports tobacco enforcement

Dear Editor,

The Clarkston PTA Council applauds Annette Kingsbury's column on August 16, 1995 concerning national efforts to stop teenage smoking.

For years the Michigan and National PTA have lobbied for a ban on all advertising and promotions that encourage children and youth to use tobacco in any form. We were part of the Tobacco Free Michigan Action Coalition that successfully achieved tobacco-free school environments for our children. We are also working continuously to encourage strong enforcement of existing laws regulating the sale of tobacco products to minors and penalizing merchants and other adults who violate these laws.

Education on the hazards of involuntary smoking, also known as second-hand smoke, has been part of our National PTA strategy for almost a decade.

This summer the Michigan PTA testified on behalf of children and youth before the State Department of Transportation in support of their efforts to have legislation introduced in Lansing that would prohibit alcohol and tobacco advertising on billboards.

We urge parents to step up to the responsibility of talking about tobacco with their children and making it clear that it is not OK to smoke, chew or sniff tobacco. Talking about it frankly with your children prior to any suspected involvement with tobacco can make an incredible difference in the lives of our children.

It is unfortunate to point out that that means starting with your children while they are in the third grade, but that is the crisis facing parents these days. Children are exposed much sooner to more marketing and peer pressure than we realize. We cannot put blinders on; our children are counting on us.

Sincerely,
Penny S. Shanks

Wants better notice

The Independence planning commission and the township board are letting the people of this community down by making poor decisions on the use of property in our township. Three examples come to mind immediately: the old church building on Main St. in Clarkston, the Bridgewater Apartments at Maybee and Sashabaw roads, and the conversion of the former JJ's Super Market and complex to a bar/restaurant and dance hall at the corner of Maybee and Sashabaw roads.

The conversion of the church building on Main St to house a bar was, in my opinion, a real slap in the face to every citizen of Clarkston and Independence Township. Our people, who plan and approve the use of property, didn't waste any time to turn down the renovation of a funeral home to a bed and breakfast, while approving the conversion of a church building to a bar. The bed and breakfast establishment, which has an appeal in a community, finally got approval to open with restrictions. The new owners of the church (bar) had little resistance in getting their plans approved.

In regard to the Bridgewater Apartments, this is a low-income family complex situated in the middle of what is supposed to be the hub of growth in Independence Township. If this area is to be the center of activity for the township, then why place an apartment complex in the middle of the area? Utilizing the property for business would have been more beneficial to the township. To add to the spectacle of poor planning, the planning commission and township board approved the use of the JJ Super Market building for a bar/restaurant that will include dancing and alcohol.

The establishment of a bar/restaurant at this site is uncalled for and should not be taking place. There is an elementary school and church practically across the street. Three schools and three other churches are located less than a mile from that corner. With the completion of the Bridgewater Apartments and the addition of the bar/restaurant the area will be saturated with people. Crime will surely increase. Is the township planning to add to the police force and improve the roads to carry the traffic? In addition, the bar/restaurant will cause surrounding real estate to be less valuable as an area to raise a family.

There must be some way citizens can have a voice in planning for the future of our township and community. In my opinion, our township leaders have not used good judgment in the cases I've mentioned. The township needs to communicate better with its citizens on agenda items they know will draw interest. Publishing the meeting agenda in The Clarkston News is hardly sufficient notice.

Bob Brown
Concerned Citizen

(Editor's Note: The church on Main Street is under the jurisdiction of the City of Clarkston, not Independence Township, just like the bed and breakfast.)

Thanks for generosity

Dear Editor,

On Saturday morning, Sept. 9, 46 members of the Clarkston High School Marching Band started ringing doorbells in neighborhoods throughout the Clarkston school district. They greeted homeowners with a cherry "Hello!" and then asked if they would like to contribute any empty beverage containers to their cause. Many people said, "Yes!" and by 2 o'clock that afternoon nearly 16,000 containers were being sorted in the Kroger parking lot.

Thanks to the generosity of so many local residents, almost $1,600 was added to the student accounts of the participating band members. Student accounts are used to pay for things like band camp and band trips to various cities. In the past few years the CHS band has traveled to St. Louis, Chicago, and London (England). Band camp was held in August and no trip has yet been planned for this school year, but these ambitious students have a head start on saving for future expenses.

Thank you once again to all of you who contributed to the cause and to Clarkston Kroger for processing all the bottles which were collected.

The band performs at the halftime of all home Clarkston varsity football games and all are welcome to participate in this Clarkston Friday night tradition. A special treat for lovers of marching band performances will be this Saturday night from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m. Fourteen bands will be participating in the Clarkston Invitational with our home band doing their program last (around 9 p.m.). Come see our talented young people!

Sincerely,
Bob & Mary Ann Emick

Clarkston woman vies for Ms. Senior Michigan

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Renate Lapratt hadn't touched her accordion for years.

But she dug it out of the closet when she decided to enter the "Ms. Senior America" contest. Lapratt, 68, is one of 12 finalists from Michigan who will compete for the title at the Macomb Center for the Performing Arts October 11.

Besides a talent performance, contestants will be judged on an interview, poise and their own personal philosophy of life. An excerpt from literature about the event reads: "The Ms. Senior Michigan Pageant is Michigan's first and foremost pageant to emphasize and honor women who have reached the 'Age of Elegance.' It is a search for the gracious lady who best exemplifies the dignity and inner beauty of all Michigan senior citizens."

Lapratt said she called about the pageant after finding out about it through the Clarkston Senior Center. Her first question was, "Do you have to be gorgeous?" She was relieved when she found that outer beauty was not important, although anyone would say the Clarkston resident is an elegant senior with her fluffy platinum coiff, manicured nails, bright blue eyes and dazzling smile.

She's also a sharp dresser with an eye for what looks best on her. "Come, come," she said, dashing to the room she's proudest of in the house her husband Martin designed — a large dressing area with a stunning, lighted vanity built just for her. Two of her costumes hang there: a silver gown studded with sequins for her "walk" in the poise portion, a tailored red suit dress for the interview, and her obvious favorite — a snappy military number complete with officer's hat.

She wears that when she plays her accordion for the talent portion. But the reason is not just to create an individual look. Lapratt spent much of her life in the military as a civil service secretary, first in her native Germany and then in the U.S. at Selfridge Air Force Base. She joined the German Air Force when she was only 16 years old.

According to Lapratt, everyone had to work during World War II when Hitler ruled her homeland. And, she added, you didn't object or ask questions. You simply followed orders.

Renate Lapratt

"Over there, if you said Hitler was an SOB they picked you up, they'd shoot you."

There are harrowing memories of that time. The worst is the bombing of her mother Elsie's apartment building in Dresden, where she was born. Though Lapratt was stationed in Berlin, she found out what had happened when she rushed to her injured mother's side.

"It was bombed out totally — 48 people died in the basement." The people perished, said Lapratt, when others from a neighboring building crawled through an opening, bringing flames along with them. "My mother's hands were burnt to shreds ... She ran out and put her face down in a field. The bombs fell here and there. They picked her up and put her in a truck and took her to the hospital. This was two months before the end of the war."

It has been hard, she says, to struggle with the labeling. "They would call you a dirty German ... 'schweinhund' (pig dog)."

Still, she has retained her dignity and is a living example of survival after many tragedies and hardships. Barely a teenager after the war, she worked in Germany at U.S. and British canteens, even offering to start out as a maid at the latter. But she was hired again, as a secretary, for her skill in typing.

After coming to the U.S. she met and married Martin and waited three years for U.S. citizenship. She has worked in the duty-free store at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport where she has used her interpreter skills in German and English. Now she enjoys a part-time job at the Hilton Hotel where she can meet stars like Smokey Robinson, a favorite.

She'd even like to work at Pine Knob, where she enjoyed the Legends of Motown concert this summer.

"It was beautiful — 20,000 people, black and white. They were jivin.' I went with two young girls from work. We were clapping, screaming, dancing ... I like modern music — everything but heavy metal and rap — not the polkas and waltzes so much, like they want me to play on my accordion." She wrinkles her nose.

Perhaps that lively, resilient spirit is what the judges saw in her when they named her the winner in the Waterford preliminaries this summer. "They said I was well-versed in world events."

At the start of her interview she wasn't sure what to say, so she simply walked in and announced "Hello, ladies and gentlemen. My name is Renate. How're you doin'?"

That same self-assurance comes out in her philosophy of life, gathered from her life's experiences.

"You know, a lot of people my age sit in a rocking chair. They never do nothing," she said with a smile. Lapratt then recited a portion from her speech:

"Never give up in life. Start over and over again. If you are down, pick yourself up ... Work hard, have a pleasant disposition.

"You are never too old to learn and you can be an interesting person at any age."

Honor Society kids show they care

Haner declined comment on the charge, as did Bill Craig, president of the board of education, against which the charge is filed.

Assistant superintendent for personnel Duane Lewis, the district's lead contract negotiator, said Haner's remarks at the March meeting may have been misinterpreted by the drivers.

"I was at that meeting and I feel much of it was misunderstood," Lewis said. "Some things happened in that meeting. Some things were said by some bus drivers and it got emotional."

However, CLASP president Jere Brewer said he has read a transcript of the meeting, which was tape-recorded, and what he heard was a threat to jobs.

"What we filed on is the conduct of the superintendent," Brewer said. "His conduct was out of line. He should never have threatened individuals. If he had a problem with one of our members he should have come to us, which he did but he didn't tell us what he was going to say."

According to Lewis, the district has to find ways to cut costs, and privatization is one of them. Under a state law enacted last year, school districts have the right to hire private firms without the OK of employee unions.

"They should have heard that no one will lose their jobs, but that's not what they heard," Lewis said.

Both sides agreed that they will continue to bargain, possibly through October, using what is called collaborative bargaining. During that time the unfair labor practice charge will be held in abeyance. If no contract settlement is reached, the sides will return to traditional bargaining and the charge will be pursued.

"The bottom line is they have agreed to put it in abeyance while we bargain four or five more sessions," Lewis said. "We are trying to expedite a settlement... It (the charge) needs to come completely off the table or we need to go back to traditional bargaining, and I hope we don't have to do that."

"They brought the threat of privatization to the table the first day," Brewer said. "We don't need threats at the bargaining table."

Brewer and other CLASP members have said they fear that now that the board has agreed to bring in private firms to manage transportation and custodial services, it only takes a nod from Haner to go to full service, at which time drivers and custodians will cease being public employees.

"From what we can see as employees, the school board follows the lead of Gary Haner," Brewer said. "The first year is management only; the second year could be full service. It depends on our actions..."

"The thing is we do not want to be fully privatized. We want to keep our jobs... We are not here to cause anybody trouble. We are here to survive with our families."

Township, Westcap may settle tration claim with PaineWebber. The township was seeking $650,000 in damages related to two securities purchased in 1990 by Lutz. On Aug. 1, PaineWebber agreed to pay the township $310,000 and take the two securities off the township's hands, thereby avoiding an arbitration hearing.

ing low. When interest rates rose, the township's original investment decreased in value.

Now those four securities, first purchased at about $5.3 million, have decreased in value by about $3.1 million.

The arbitration process

Because of prior contractual agreements with Westcap, the township was required to file arbitration claims, rather than have the dispute settled in court.

Arbitration has long been used in broker/dealer disputes instead of the courts because it is a prompt and inexpensive way of resolving complicated issues, according to the NASD's arbitration procedures guide.

The three arbitrators have already been selected and agreed upon by both parties in the claim. When arbitrators have reached their majority decision (within 30 days), copies will be mailed to the parties.

The final decision may be entered as a judgment in any court and a decision is not allowed to be reconsidered even if new evidence is found.

'Westcap's first preference is to not have a dispute with any customer.'

John Carter, Westcap attorney

The securities are called derivatives, described by many as too risky for municipal investors because they rely too heavily on one factor of investing. In the township's case, they relied on interest rates stay-

MONDAY, SEPT. 11, a Pontiac woman visiting in Clarkston had improper remarks made to her by a Clarkston man. The woman's mother called police and asked them to speak to the man. He was contacted and cooperated.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 12, a Waterford man was stopped at Main and Middle Lake roads for speeding. Police found his driver's license had been suspended. The man was cited for both violations.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 13, a threats complaint was filed by a Clarkston man whose business is home-based. An employee from Pontiac drove the businessman's car, got into an accident and was arrested for drunk driving. The two are involved in a civil dispute involving the cost of repairing damage to the car. The employee, who has been fired, made the threats to his former employer.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 14, an Overlook resident was approached by two white males, presumably between the ages of 45 and 50, who offered to sealcoat his driveway for $18. The resident thought that was a good deal and authorized the men to do the work. At the end of the job he found the cost was $18 per gallon of sealcoat. The men used 25 gallons, bringing the total cost to $450. The man talked the men down to $200, but stressed that other residents should be aware of a possible scam.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 15, two women were involved in a non-injury hit-and-run accident on W. Washington near Main St. The women sideswiped each other's cars while turning. One woman left the scene of the accident, with minor damage to her car. She is described by witnesses as a well-dressed white female in her 40s with a full-sized medium-brown-colored car. The other woman incurred extensive damage to her vehicle. Police are looking for the woman who left. Call the CPD at 625-0088 to provide information.

New surcharge may protect wildlife

At its September meeting, the Michigan Natural Resources Commission adopted a resolution endorsing a national effort to raise $350 million annually for the management of nongame wildlife and their habitats. The Wildlife Diversity Initiative and its slogan, "Teaming with Wildlife, A Natural Investment," urge the adoption of a surcharge of up to 5 percent on the wholesale price of certain types of outdoor equipment.

In 1980, Congress passed the Wildlife Conservation Act, recognizing the importance of management of all wildlife species and establishing a funding program for nongame wildlife.

"Michigan's nongame income-tax checkoff was passed to provide state matching funds for the expected federal dollars," Department of Natural Resources Director Roland Harnes said. "Unfortunately, in the years since its passage, the Wildlife Conservation Act has never had any funding appropriated by Congress. The Wildlife Diversity Initiative is intended to resolve this oversight and provide the needed funding for nongame wildlife."

The Initiative proposes a user fee patterned after the hugely successful Pittman-Robertson and Wallop-Breaux programs, which place similar surcharges on firearms, ammunition, and fishing tackle. These two programs have raised hundreds of millions of dollars for use by the states for management of sport fisheries and game.

The national Wildlife Diversity Initiative effort is being coordinated by the International Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies. Michigan now joins a growing list of states and other coalition members supporting this initiative, including the National Audubon Society, Bat Conservation International, the American Birding Association, the National Wildlife Federation, The Wildlife Society, and the National Association of Conservation Districts.

It is estimated that the proposed surcharge would provide the state of Michigan with an additional $4 million to $12 million to support nongame wildlife projects such as school habitat site development, increased research into declining songbird populations, development of better interpretation at the state's 121 wildlife viewing sites, and assistance for private property owners to improve wildlife habitat.

A major effort is currently focused on getting constituents to show their support by writing letters to the manufacturers of outdoor equipment. For more information on how you can become involved, contact Raymond Rustem, Natural Heritage Program, Wildlife Division, Michigan Department of Natural Resources, PO Box 30180, Lansing, MI 48909.

Offensive letdown vs. Rochester

First loss won't slow down Wolves

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In its first defeat of the season, the Clarkston varsity basketball team sputtered on offense.

The girls squad came up short in a 52-45 Sept. 14 loss to division foe Rochester. A few days before, on Sept. 12, the Wolves' offense was in high gear as they beat Berkley 60-50.

Clarkston is now 4-1 overall and 0-1 in the Oakland Activities Association Division I standings.

The difference in games was offensive execution, according to coach Larry Mahrle. As usual, the Wolves' defense was intense and effective, but against Rochester the team struggled on offense.

"I thought we took some forced shots," said the coach. "I think I counted six or seven times in a row that we shot on the first or second pass and we just can't do that, especially against teams that play a zone."

Clarkston's defensive pressure helped them to a 12-5 first-quarter lead, as the Rochester players were kept off balance. Rochester opened the second quarter with six straight points, cutting the Wolves' lead to one.

But with some hot shooting from Allison Richards, the Wolves withstood a Rochester run and still led at the half, 23-19.

Starting the second half, Rochester's height advantage and good ballhandlers began to negate Clarkston's press. With about four minutes to go in the third quarter, Rochester took a 29-27 lead and never fell behind again.

Wolves sophomore Tiffany Honey hit two big three-pointers in the third, the last of which tied the score at 34-34 with two minutes left.

From there, the Wolves couldn't generate much offense and Rochester continued to get offensive rebounds and scoring inside.

"We seemed to beat their trap pretty easy but didn't have patience on offense," Mahrle said. "They also were one of the few teams we'll face this year that has four good ballhandlers."

It also didn't help the Wolves that Rochester held a 30-16 rebounding edge and a 31-18 edge in free throw attempts. In addition, senior co-captain Nickie Winn fouled out early.

CHS cruised to the win against Berkley, thanks to an offensive explosion in the first half. After the first quarter the Wolves took an 18-5 lead, and extended that to a 38-19 lead at the half.

"That was a real good game for us on the road," said Mahrle. "We had the offense going and executed well."

Senior co-captain Leah Howard led Clarkston with 23 points and junior point guard Sue Naboychik scored 14 points. Richards and Winn both added eight points and six rebounds.

Girls defend title; boys solid in quad

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Success doesn't always mean team wins. For the Clarkston girls and boys cross country teams, success comes in different forms.

The girls have high team expectations, are experienced runners and have good depth to accomplish many goals. The boys team is inexperienced and more focused on setting individual goals.

Co-coach Mike Taylor says while the girls are having more success as a team (they won the Chesaning Invitational Sept. 14), he's just as impressed with the boys because their individual times show improvement.

"The girls team has goals they've set and see themselves as one of the better teams," Taylor said.

Stefanie Burklow

Liz Cook

"The guys are concerned about just making varsity. They are inexperienced and it's the first go-round for some so they are not as focused as a team yet."

But despite the different team identities, Taylor said he's been pleased with their performances in the early season. As always, the coaches like to see the runners improve in each meet, regardless of where they finish, and both teams have been doing that.

Girls team

The girls team came up with two impressive wins, especially in defending its Chesaning Invitational title against 12 other teams.

The Wolves took first with 33 points, followed by Hartland's 71 and Flint Kearsley's 102.

But the girls were just as strong in the Sept. 12 quad meet, beating rival Rochester Adams for first, 24-38. Finishing third was Southfield with 90 points, followed by Birmingham Groves with 92.

In both races, senior Stefanie Burklow showed she will be a force to be reckoned with in every meet. She came in first both times, winning in the quad

CHS Marching Band 1995 preview

Band prepares for another strong season

Over 200 members learn more than music, marching

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Tomorrow isn't all that important. Yesterday quickly becomes faded memories. But today is what really counts.

The philosophy that Clarkston High School Band Director Cliff Chapman emphasizes is "the now." In other words, do your best now, at this moment, and everything will always fall into place.

And Chapman, director for 19 years, also realizes that having such goals would be almost impossible without the support of the district's entire performing arts staff, specifically lower-school band directors Doug Doty, Julie Mathews and Mike Lewis.

"We're driven by the same mission and we agree that the quality at any level is the most important thing we have going for us," Chapman said.

It's with that philosophy in mind that the CHS marching band begins its competitive season with the Clarkston Invitational Band Contest Sept. 23, beginning at 5:30 p.m. And in addition to halftime performances at all home football games, more competitions follow until the grand finale, the State Marching Band Contest Nov. 4.

"We ended last year on a strong note at the National Adjudicators Invitational when our two concert groups (symphonic band and symphonic wind ensemble) earned superior ratings," said Chapman.

"We have a very stable returning crew and I'd like to think we have a solid nucleus of upperclassmen. They help establish our attitudes, identity and direction."

It's that identity that Chapman believes band members will carry for the rest of their lives. Through camaraderie, discipline, artistry, self expression and compassion, these kids can always look back and be proud, he says.

"This is life-long learning," Chapman said. "Whatever we do now isn't just for today or tomorrow, it's forever. It's about the experience, the happening and the now, not the end."

"In education we try to give our students the perspective that you want to have quality nows. The worst thing is to look back and regret."

Chapman couldn't be more pleased with the band's ability to take advantage of the present. He says everyone takes pride in performing their own important role, from the flag retrievers to the drum major.

"There is no first string here and we don't cut anybody," he said. "All the kids that want to are involved. There is no one role that is more important than the next."

Besides the 200-plus members in the marching band, the high school band program has over 300 students involved, while the entire Clarkston school district has close to 600 students involved in band.

The marching band is broken up into three sections, winds and brass (the majority of students), percussion and the color guard with field commanders Sarah Treder and Kit Cishke.

During school each day, the high school offers four concert band classes and one jazz ensemble class.

The band's practice schedule during the week, in preparation for the weekend competitions, is as tough as any sports team. Once each week, each marching band section practices for almost three hours. On most Tuesdays and the Fridays of away football games, the full band has rehearsal for three hours.

The Clarkston Marching Band is in fine tune for the upcoming competitive season.

"We're proud of the efficiency of our band," Chapman said. "We have to use these kids' time wisely because they all have very busy lives outside of this. They all seem to be involved in so many other things."

The active lifestyles of most band members could be related to the active role the Band Boosters play. Chapman said not only do the boosters provide for the kids directly with food, transportation, and equipment purchases, but also in moral support.

"They are there to make the kids feel important and maybe that's the key to the program," he said.

Chapman, who is also president of the Michigan High School Band and Orchestra Association, said while he thinks the entire band plays well and works hard, over the years they have been known for "quality of sound."

He says one section of the marching band to keep an eye on is the color guard, taught by Tim Jones and Mangit Gill. "They have done an outstanding job and will be very exciting."

But for Chapman, everything about this upcoming band season is exciting. Not only because he knows his students strive for excellence, but because they will take something with them when they leave.

"There are so many positive things that happen to these kids," he said. "Not only in band but in all our performing arts programs. We think that the self-confidence gained is almost a given because you're in a situation where you have to perform a that moment. You're putting it on the line and demonstrating what you can do."

Another undefeated team falls

Discipline key to two straight

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

When you talk about the 1995 Clarkston football team, forget about rankings, returning starters and experience.

After upsetting another ranked team in Pontiac Northern, 24-6 Sept. 15, the Wolves have proved they are a team to be reckoned with. Despite losing 20 starters to graduation, the team has shown that discipline and hard work are the most important factors for success.

Clarkston's rise, which began in the fourth quarter of a Sept. 8 win over Pontiac Central, continued against Northern. But rather than having to come back from a deficit, the Wolves took an early lead against Northern, controlled the ball and played solid defense.

And while the Wolves played a strong all-around game, the key to the win and the season so far has been their ability to avoid turnovers. CHS committed only

Key to 2-1 start:

Offense has given up only two turnovers in three games.

one turnover against Northern, late in the fourth when the game was already decided.

But even more amazing, the Wolves have only two turnovers in three games. Coach Kurt Richardson said he firmly believes that the team with the least mistakes always has a chance to win.

"The kids are executing well and not making mistakes or penalties," he said. "It's something we talk about and know we have to do to be competitive."

In the team's 37-15 season-opening loss to Troy, Richardson said the one positive from the game was that they played a disciplined game. Now that positive has won them two straight games.

Two weeks ago, Central turned the ball over three times and, this week, Northern did the same.

For Clarkston, the key has been ball control, and a defense that focuses on gang tackling.

Against Northern, the scoring began when senior Ryan Schapman returned a punt 73 yards for a touchdown and a 6-0 lead in the first quarter. In the second, sophomore Jeff Long scored on a three-yard touchdown run before Northern finally scored to make it 12-6.

But on the kickoff, it was senior receiver Tim Wasilk's turn to shine. He returned the kick 57 yards, setting up another Clarkston TD. Sophomore quarterback Dane Fife then rewarded Wasilk with a 22-yard touchdown pass to put CHS up 18-6.

The Wolves, now 2-1 overall and 1-1 in the OAA Division I, started the second half with a strong running game, controlling the ball and the clock. After a scoreless third quarter, Schapman scored again on a 3-yard run with about five minutes left in the fourth.

Richardson said he is real proud of the effort and determination his team showed against Northern.

"These kids felt right from the get-go they could win this game and they went out and executed it," the coach said.

The defense, led by senior lineman Rich Warchuck and defensive back Tim Wisser, once again played a physical game, not allowing Northern the big play. "We've tried to get more physical on defense by telling the kids that we want all 11 people to the ball," the coach said.

On offense, a balanced attack kept Northern guessing for much of the night, and the offensive line played well once again. CHS racked up over 250 yards of offense, compared to Northern's 140 yards.

Schapman and Wasilk both had great all-around games. Schapman gained 56 yards rushing, in addition to recovering two fumbles on special teams, and Wasilk once again shined as a receiver, catching seven passes for 114 yards.

Fife, with some good protection from his offensive line, was 9-of-20 passing for 119 yards.

In three games, the sophomore has thrown only one interception.

The Wolves schedule doesn't get any easier, however, as they travel to 2-1 Troy Athens Sept. 22. "We just have to go at it with the attitude of playing the same way we have."

Freshman sports

By Michael Romeln

Freshman basketball

The freshman girls basketball team got off to a good start this season.

On Sept. 12, the Wolves opened the season with a 45-28 win over Berkley. Kathy Kopec led the team with 12 points, seven rebounds and four steals. Kathleen Richards scored 10 points and grabbed eight rebounds, while Trish Bedford added 10 points and seven rebounds.

On Sept. 14, Clarkston suffered its first setback with a 41-23 loss to Rochester. Amy Vaughn scored five points and had nine rebounds. Corinne McIntyre also added five points and three steals.

"It was nice to get off to a good start by winning that first game," said head coach John Zittel.

This week, the Wolves play at Troy on Sept. 21.

Freshman football

After losing a tough opening game to Troy, the freshman football team is on a roll, winning their last two games.

Once again, Clarkston's running game was unstoppable, as the Wolves dismantled West Bloomfield 35-8. Ronnie Wells, who entered the game off the bench when Tim Loveless sprained an ankle, rushed for 96 yards, as three Clarkston runners totalled 211 yards. Wells was also named the honorary captain of the week for his performance.

Eric Jenks also had quite a day, passing for 88 yards and two touchdowns. Jenks also recovered a snap over the West Bloomfield punter's head, and returned it for the score. "The line really played well," Jenks said after the game. "And the tailbacks did a great job again."

Eric Poley and Mark Whiteman both caught touchdown passes of five and 27 yards, respectively. Steve Bradford led the team on defense, recording 7 solo tackles, and 4 assists.

This week, the Wolves go for three in a row, playing at home against Troy Athens on Sept. 21.

Good plays, good players

I've always been a fan of the underdog, someone who performs to the absolute best of their abilities.

There's nothing like watching average skill-level athletes — good players — reaching their potential. Nothing spectacular, just doing their job, playing their role, making the good plays.

In fact, most fans probably never even realize they are out there. Parents do. Coaches do if they play a lot. Teammates sometimes do, but may not give them much recognition.

Clarkston's fall varsity sports teams have a good amount of good athletes. The kind you need to build a team around, because everyone can't be a star, or be considered the best offensive player, or best defensive player, or best playmaker ... and so on.

The soccer team's Mike Kopec and basketball team's Sue Naboychik are just two athletes that come to mind.

Kopec, a senior, and Naboychik, a junior, exemplify the point being made.

Kopec, with no offense intended, does not look like a soccer player. He's thick legged, by no means the team's best athlete, and doesn't have speed. But let me tell you, the guy never fails to do his job as a back-line defender.

And his coach recognizes that effort.

"He's doing the best he can and getting through it," said soccer coach Dan Fitzgerald. "He's not super talented, but, you know, he gets it done. He's doing what he should be. If everyone played their role the way he does, things would be different."

Naboychik's job is as important as any other player on her team. She's the point guard, and while not the most skilled, a perfect fit in coach Larry Mahrie's system.

She has those intangible qualities every coach would love to have. She's a leader, is intense, and can "D" up the opposing point guard all over the court for an entire game, which usually creates confusion for the offense.

There are many more good players out there, like Kopec and Naboychik, than there are great players.

Doing the job, filling the role is not as easy as it sounds. Sometimes the extremely talented players struggle at making the sound, fundamental plays. I can recall my basketball coach at Oakland University, Greg Kampe, always saying "I don't want you to make a great pass, I want you to make a good pass."

A good player is reliable. The great players are those that have the athletic ability as well as the ability to make the good plays.

It's all about, as a friend once told me, "knowing your capabilities but working as though you have no limitations." Some athletes do that, some don't.

You can bet a good athlete knows what he or she gives to a team. They know playing a role is just as important as scoring the goals, making baskets or racking up the tackles. They are smart enough to be content in doing the best they can, whatever that may be.

Just like the team's best players know they have a role to lead in other ways, like scoring.

So during this fall season, I challenge parents, fans, athletes and coaches to look for those good players who don't stand out, but are always there, making the good plays.

Troy falls to CHS in OAA golf match Wolves now 1-0 in D. I

They're young and inexperienced. But they are also 3-0.

That's the Clarkston boys golf team, and despite returning only one regular from last season's Class A state championship team, the Wolves are performing like veterans as of late.

The latest clutch win came in a dual meet with Troy Sept. 12, held at Sylvan Glen Golf Course. Clarkston came out ahead 159-164, and earned its first win in the Oakland Activities Association Division I.

For the first time this season, someone other than returning regular Tim Klimek led the team in a match. Junior Jeff Cumberworth led everyone with a 38, followed by senior Eric Rood and Klimek, a sophomore, with 39s. Bob Schultz was next with a 43.

Refocus needed after 0-7-1 start

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It's only gotten worse for the Clarkston boys soccer team.

After starting out 0-5, coach Dan Fitzgerald said his team was still playing hard, although the breaks weren't going their way. Last week they continued the slide, losing two games and tying another.

But what's most disappointing to Fitzgerald is that his team wasn't as intense as normal, even after a Sept. 11 tie game broke the five-game losing streak.

He said the start has been difficult on him and the players, because they all expected so much more from themselves. It doesn't help much that senior Derrick Spires is not expected to be 100 percent until Sept. 22, due to a deep bone bruise near his big toe that makes movement difficult.

He suffered the injury Sept. 9 and missed two games last week.

The Wolves started off last week with a 0-0 tie game against Saginaw Heritage, a replacement for a Sept. 16 game against Holly that was canceled.

"We played decent in that game and it was better than losing," said Fitzgerald. "Defensively we played well and Rean (Turner) played strong in the net. But again we had more chances than them and didn't capitalize."

The Wolves' next opponent on Sept. 12 was state-ranked Troy, which ended in a 3-0 loss.

"We just didn't play with emotion in that game. We were real flat," the coach said.

While he said Troy was expected to win, he was disappointed in the team's effort.

On Sept. 15 Clarkston lost 4-2 to Royal Oak Kimball, a team Fitzgerald felt his team should have beaten.

For the game's first 20 minutes, the Wolves dominated but couldn't finish any scoring opportunities. Kimball scored on a couple breakaways because of careless Clarkston play and took a 2-0 halftime lead.

With Spires playing in limited action, Fitzgerald moved some of his skill players up, hoping to muster some scoring. The strategy worked as Clarkston's Phillip Ratliff scored to make it 2-1.

Kimball came back to score again on another

CHS miscue, before Ben Gabriel gave the Wolves life again with a score and a 3-2 game.

But it was over just as quickly for the Wolves as another defensive miscue led to another Kimball goal.

"That was a very frustrating loss," Fitzgerald said. "I thought we let down that game. Maybe it was due to the fact we've played a lot of games (six) in the last two weeks, but I don't like excuses."

SHADOW BOX

Information compiled by Rick Piechura

NOTE: The Clarkston Shadows girls soccer club, consisting of four age levels, is part of the Michigan Youth Soccer League, playing home games at Independence Township's Clintonwood Park. To be considered for publication in The Clarkston News, coaches need to get their information to Carol Kerney (623-1963) on Sunday nights.

Under 12

Sept. 16: The U12 Shadows moved to 1-0-1 on the young season with a 1-0 victory over the Clawson Strikers. Jen Carlson's long, high shot midway through the second half provided the winning margin. Alyssa Bergkoetter made four second-half saves to halt a late Striker rally.

Under 14

Sept. 16: With a strong defensive game, the U14 Shadows beat the Port Huron Storm 2-0. The Shadows scored first with Sarah Voss' goal in the first half. A strong defense and midfield led by Katie Trippi, Kate Kennedy, Heather Combs and Kelly Plante kept the Shadows in control most of the game, until Jesse Thomas scored late in the second half to give the U14 team another goal and the win.

Under 16

Sept. 16: After a slow start the U16 Shadows offense took off when Megen Tirey scored a spectacular goal, leading the team to a 4-0 win over the North Macomb Crusaders in Romeo.

Tirey scored again after her first goal and the Shadows took an early 2-0 lead at halftime. In the second half, Beth Whittington scored early, followed by Cara Fomey's goal (assist from Jenny Kerney).

Coach Steve Fomey said the easy victory was due to an "awesome" defensive effort put forth by Whittington, Emily Williams and Heather Warner. The defense consistently turned away the Crusaders early.

JV Golf

Although the team is young, the JV golf team continues to be impressive.

On Sept. 11, Clarkston finished in second place in a triangular meet against Troy and Troy Athens at Spring Lake Country Club. The Wolves shot a 186, compared to a 176 from Troy and a 191 from Troy Athens. Ben Ness had a great day, shooting a 41, and winning individual first-place honors. Matt Williams shot a 45, James Dennig shot a 49, and Ryan Leech shot a 51 for the Wolves.

On Sept. 14, the Wolves played a tough Brother Rice team at Oakland Hills, and very nearly came away with a victory. Brother Rice finished on top, though, registering a 184-190 victory. Once again, Ness was the low scorer for Clarkston with a 43. Williams shot a 49, along with Chris Rosasco and Dennig.

"We are playing much better and constantly improving," said Coach Kaul.

On Sept. 21, the Wolves had a rematch against the Troy schools at Troy, and on Sept. 22 they meet Brother Rice again, this time at Spring Lake.

JV Soccer

Although the varsity is struggling, the JV Soccer team has played impressively in its last few outings.

On September 11, the Wolves beat a tough Saginaw Heritage squad 3-1. Eric Clemm had 2 goals, and Mike Lenhardt scored one.

On September 14, Clarkston could not get the ball in the net, and lost to Troy 4-0.

But the Wolves rebounded with a 4-3 victory over Royal Oak Kimball on September 15. This time, Lenhardt led the team, scoring three goals, while Eric Eaton also added one.

"So far, it has been a pretty good year," said Coach Brian Fitzgerald. The team has won three of its four games to up their record to 4-4.

This week, the Wolves play Friday at home against Rochester Adams.

JV Girl's Basketball

With two more victories this past week, the JV girls basketball team upped its record to 5-0.

On September 12, the Wolves beat Berkley, in a game which everyone contributed. Abbey Wiley led Clarkston with 16 points, Cathy Eby scored 11 and Amie Giroux added eight.

On Thursday, Sept. 14, the Wolves beat Rochester in their first league game of the year, 42-32. They avenged two defeats to Rochester last year. Giroux led the team with 13 points and Wiley had 10. Georgia Senkyr also produced a great all-around effort, with 10 assists and six rebounds.

"The whole team played great last week," said head coach Brian Ray. "This was a great league win for us."

This week, the Wolves will face their greatest challenge of the season, playing the Troy Colts Sept. 21.

JV Football

The Wolves played great defense in the second half, holding Pontiac Northern scoreless. Unfortunately for Clarkston, the first half counted too.

The defense did a poor tackling job in the first half, allowing the Huskies to jump out to a 20-0 lead.

"We played hard," said head coach Doug Colling. "But we just made too many mistakes in the first half."

Kevin Mason was a bright spot for the Wolves, playing well on both sides of the ball.

This week, the Wolves will go up against Troy Athens at home, and hopefully come away with a better result.

Pre-tapping kicks off the Homecoming season

It's called "tapping," and it's literally that: The way you find out you've made the Homecoming court at Clarkston High School is when somebody taps you on the head with a flower and says, quite literally, "you're it."

However this is accomplished in hilarious fashion. The tapper gets the name of the tappee during an assembly in the gym, then climbs into the crowded bleachers to find him or her. The tapper may gently tap the tappee's head with a flower, or he may jump on top of her amidst the crowd. There's a lot of hugging, and smiling.

That's what happened Friday at CHS during "pre-tapping" ceremonies. The court was announced—escorts, mates and king and queen candidates. The actual king and queen will be announced at the "tapping" ceremony Friday. The Homecoming game is Sept. 29; the parade Sept. 30.

Doubles teams impressive at Fenton

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

A 7-1 loss to undefeated division foe Troy Athens Sept. 14 couldn't put a dark cloud over a strong week for the girls tennis squad.

That's because the Clarkston netters came back to beat Royal Oak Kimball, another division foe, 7-1 Sept. 15 and then had four doubles teams place at the Sept. 16 Fenton Invitational.

Clarkston suffered its first dual match loss to Athens but is still 5-1 overall and 2-1 in the Oakland Activities Association Division II.

Coach Dick Swartout said he was proud of his team's effort last week because they played well on three consecutive days.

"It's real intense when you have to play so many matches in a row," he said. "It's probably more tiring mentally than physically because there's no time in between to practice."

"Last week should give them confidence."

The players feeling most confident are the four doubles teams that finished between first and third at the 8-team Fenton Invitational.

Senior Mary Schmidt and junior Kristy Cade won the title at #1 doubles. They were especially strong in the final match when they won a three-setter against Fenton.

Schmidt, who usually plays #1 singles for the team, and Cade, who usually plays #4 singles, finished second as a doubles team in last season's tournament.

The #4 doubles team combination of Amber Mitchell and Marissa Parrott, both freshmen, was just as impressive with their second-place finish. Finishing in third place was the #2 doubles team of freshmen Loren Bogart and Alaina Dodds and the #3 doubles team of Chris Maynard and Kristen Atkinson.

With the tournament lineup change, Sam Schuberger moved to #1 singles, Renee Van Klavem to #2 singles, Jocelyn Stock to #3 singles and Becky Olsen to #4 singles. All four players finished at 1-2 in the tournament.

Swartout said the effort from his doubles teams was very impressive, especially the freshmen performances. "All the coaches couldn't believe how well the freshmen did. But everyone, the freshmen especially, finally started to hit the ball hard and play aggressive.

"I thought they all did well and maybe proved to themselves they can hit the winning shots under pressure."

Against Kimball, the winners were Schuberger at #2 singles, Van Klavem at #3, Cade at #4, Stock and Olsen at #1 doubles, Kim Deacon and Katie Atkinson at #2 doubles, Maynard and Kristen Atkinson at #3 doubles and Bogart and Dodds at #4 doubles.

Against Athens, only the #1 doubles team of Stock and Olsen won. Swartout said those two have played well this season and another doubles win against West Bloomfield Sept. 20 could help them get seeded for the OAA tournament Oct. 5.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

CAN BANK SELL YOUR MORTGAGE?

CHANCES ARE that your bank has sold your mortgage in the secondary market. If so, you won't notice.

27 S. Main, Clarkston
625-9300

QUESTION: Even though you borrow the money to buy a home from your local bank, is it true that they can sell your mortgage on the open market?

ANSWER: The chances are better than 50-50 that they already HAVE sold it on the secondary mortgage market. Two of the most dominant forces in this market are Fannie Mae (Fed. Nat. Mortg. Corp.) and Freddie Mac (Fed. Home Loan Mortg. Corp.). They buy well-secured mortgages, convert them to securities and sell these stocks to investors. To the average homeowner, the shift has little impact since the local bank continues to service the mortgage.

Burklow leads girls to high team goals by 50 seconds and running a personal-best time of 19:34 at Chesaning (her previous best was 20:14 set last season at the state meet). That time also tied her for the 8th best time in CHS history, and Taylor said she can run even better.

But her CHS teammates also showed they can be a factor as well. Junior Kristin Maine took third in the quad in 22:12 and was 6th at Chesaning, sophomore Liz Cook was 4th in 22:17 in the quad and 5th at Chesaning, and senior Lisa Herron was 7th in 22:55 in the quad and 13th at Chesaning.

Other medal winners at Chesaning were Stacie Iezzi (16th) and Emily Hogan (25th). In the quad meet, Iezzi was 9th and Hogan 16th.

"We're coming together and starting to take a wider focus," he said. "Now they think we can win the OAA again and are expanding on that to bigger goals like regionals. The girls remember how close they came last year to making the state finals as a team and that's one area I know they are focused on."

One big reason for the "team" focus is Burklow's dominance, and her teammates' ability to run strong behind her.

"Cook and Maine are steady, smart and just go out and do their thing," Taylor said. "They are like coaches out there because they both know it's their job to nullify other teams' 3rd, 4th or 5th runners."

"Lisa (Herron) has run well early and seems to enjoy it for her first time out. It'll be interesting to see how her times improve as the season moves along."

But leading the pack is Burklow, who Taylor says is past the pace of top runners he's coached before. "She's still improving, is still fired up and loves the competition. Having her out there does a lot for the other girls because they know she'll do her job, so they have to do theirs as well."

Boys team

Before the boys' 10th-place finish at Chesaning, they took a strong second at the quad meet, behind Rochester Adams' 38 points. The Wolves finished with 50, Birmingham Groves had 53 and Southfield 87.

"We made sure we showed the kids the course at Independence Oaks beforehand and trained on it during the week," said Taylor. "I was real pleased about the meet because I thought the gap between us and Adams would be bigger than 12 points."

In that meet, junior Chaz Claus led the way with a 6th-place finish in 19:54, followed by senior Mike Puroll in 8th at 20:08.1, sophomore Jon Burklow 9th in 20:08.7, junior Jeff Deevey 15th in 20:48, sophomore Curt Brewer 16th in 20:51, senior Jeremy Lafferty 17th in 21:04, sophomore Aaron Sailor 19th in 21:10 and freshman Jeff Sisko 21st in 21:14.

In the Chesaning invitational, the boys continued to improve on their times.

Claus earned a medal by taking 26th in a time of 18:22, continuing a strong early-season performance for the junior. "He's been a real surprise for us," said Taylor. "He runs smart and knows where he has to be."

Federation tryouts

The Clarkston Baseball Club, in cooperation with the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department, will be holding tryouts for the 1996 RiverDawg teams.

Federation Baseball is a competitive baseball program in which teams travel to other communities for games. Selection for four teams will be made, consisting of 11-year-olds, 12-year-olds, 13-year-olds and 14-year-olds. Interested kids must attend at least one of the tryout sessions at Clintonwood Park to be considered for the teams.

There is no fee for trying out, but players selected to a team must pay a registration fee of $130, which includes a RiverDawg uniform.

Tryout dates and times (With age determined as of 8/1/1996) are Sept. 23 from 2-4:30 p.m. for 11-12 year olds and 5-7:30 p.m. for 13-14 year olds, and Sept. 30 at the same times.

The rosters will be chosen by a panel of coaches and tryout participants will be notified either way by Oct. 20. The season begins in May and runs through August.

For more information and to register, contact the parks and rec office at 625-8223.

Gus champions

Saturday, in the park

What better way to take advantage of a beautiful late-summer weekend than to spend it in the park.

Hundreds of people did just that Saturday as the Clarkston Cider Festival returned to downtown's Depot Park for the 20th year in a row.

The weather was perfect and downtown streets were crowded as browsers shopped the art stalls and feasted on all manner of goodies, including, of course, cider and doughnuts. Community groups used the occasion as a fund-raiser, and artisans came from around the state displaying their wares.

Though the festival was competing with many other events on the busy September weekend, the mixture of quality crafts and a beautiful setting had no trouble attracting a good-sized crowd.
