A real eye-opener

All her neighbors knew Elaine Delke was turning 40 last week, thanks to this giant gorilla her husband Tom had placed on their front lawn last week. Elaine said Tom doesn't usually do things like this. He earns high marks for effort, even if he did broadcast her age all over the neighborhood. Elaine is pictured with her son, Drew, 2.

Baby born after accident

A healthy baby boy was born to Paula and Roberto Elosegui of Clarkston on Sunday. Early that morning their lives were almost cut short by an alleged drunk driver on Baldwin Road in Orion Township.

The couple were on route to the hospital shortly before 3 a.m. They had dropped their 19-month-old daughter off at Paula's mother's home in Heather Lakes Estates just before the crash occurred.

According to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, Paula was apparently in labor when a 30-year-old Lake Orion man crossed the center line and hit them head on.

Elosegui, who was nine months pregnant, was taken to Crittenton Hospital in Rochester with four broken ribs. Roberto Elosequi was treated and released for bruises on his knees and legs.

The man, who was driving a Toyota truck, is under investigation according to Oakland County Sheriff's Lieutenant Bruce Naile.

"It's my understanding that he has had prior alcohol related incidents," Naile said. "We are now in the process of waiting for his blood tests to come back."

The man was also found to be driving on an invalid license. He suffered a fractured jaw in the accident.

Dog sought in bite on Stickney

A 16-year-old Clarkston girl will have to undergo rabies testing within days if the dog that bit her Saturday on Stickney Rd. is not found.

Kerri Allison was walking on Stickney "when this dog just ran out and bit her," said her mother, Cindy. "She saw it pretty clearly."

Kerri was bit on the leg by what she described as a brown, overweight shar pei, the Chinese dog known for its wrinkles. According to her mother, the bite has become infected and her doctor said she will have to start the series of rabies shots unless it can be determined the dog has been vaccinated. To do that, it must be found.

Heidi Hawley of Oakland County Animal Control, who took the report on the bite, said shar peis are known to be biters.

"She (Kerri) and I went to all the houses on Stickney and nobody knew where a shar pei lived," Hawley said. "She said the dog appeared to be overweight and she's sure she can identify it."

Anyone with information is asked to call Oakland County Animal Control at 391-4102; the bite number is 990.

The news in brief

Summit meeting set

At the request of the Clarkston board of education, a joint meeting will be held of Clarkston City Council, the Independence Township board of trustees and the board of education.

The meeting is set for Tuesday, Oct. 24 at 6 p.m. at the Senior Center Carriage House at Clintonwood Park on Clarkston Road. Township planner Richard Carlisle will discuss the impact of growth and the Clarkston school system.

A similar meeting was held last year. The school board requested another one for an update on building projects coming on line in the district. The school board is expected to go to the voters early next year with a bond proposal which could include a new elementary school.

Dunaskiss says no

State senator Mat Dunaskiss (R., Lake Orion) made it official Monday when he said he will not run for Congress against incumbent Democrat Dale Kildee.

"I am making this decision based on what is the best for my family and what is best for my constituents," he said.

He did not say, however, whether he would take on Oakland County Executive L. Brooks Patterson, as has been rumored for several months. Earlier he said he would make that decision by Oct. 1.

Date changes at CHS

Dates for fall parent-teacher conferences at Clarkston High School have been changed.

Conferences will be held Monday, Oct. 9, 5-8 p.m. and Wednesday, Oct. 11, 4-7 p.m. The date for the co-ed challenge and bonfire has also been changed. Those events will be held Oct. 11 at 7 p.m. at the high school.

Thief hits the jackpot

Some $60,000 worth of equipment belonging to General Motors was stolen from a locked car in a Maybee Rd. driveway Sept. 18 during one of at least four similar larcenies within two days.

Windows were smashed on cars on Eastlawn, Cornell, Eastview and Klais between Sept. 18 and 20. In the other cases, the thief took radios, a leather jacket, leather duffel bag and a shower gift found inside the cars. But on Maybee the thief got lucky, according to Oakland County Sheriff's Det. Dirk Feneley.

Stolen were a digital still video camera and related equipment which were to be used in a presentation the next day. The resident had loaded up the car Sunday night so he wouldn't have to do it in the morning.

"This is of no value to anyone," Feneley said. Anyone with information should call the OCSD at 858-4950.

Tax rollback?

Oakland County Executive L. Brooks Patterson has proposed that county taxes be rolled back one-tenth mill for 1996-97.

Patterson announced last week that he will make the proposal to the Board of Commissioners in his biennial budget. The reduction will cut property taxes nearly $3.3 million. A mill is $1 for every $1,000 in assessed property value.

Patterson said in a press release that the county can afford the cutback because it should end 1995 with a $7.7 million operating surplus, thanks in part to increased investment income.

Author shares 'her' Alaska

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The sight of polar bears at play ... Eskimos nestled snugly in igloos made of caribou hide.

The howling of sled dogs as they stop for a break.

And the pungent odor of fish heads as they boil for hard-working huskies' meal on the trail.

"I try to smell my story. I taste my story. I listen to my story. If you use your senses, your stories will be better," said Shelley Gill, author of Alaska-based books for children, who visited Clarkston elementary schools this week.

Gill wanted to encourage young writers to make their stories come alive.

"It was cold outside ... That sounds boring doesn't it? Tell me what it was like," she implored. Her example brought peals of laughter from kids at Andersonville's first Monday morning assembly.

"The musher (dog-sled driver) took a deep breath through his nose. All his nose hairs froze. It felt like he shoved a toothbrush through his nose ..."

More than a colorful book writer, Gill is an educator and one who is truly concerned about the environment and future of the state she has lived in for the past 22 years. Her stories, "Kiana's Iditarod," written about one of her sled dogs (Gill was one of the first women to compete in the famous "Iditarod," a 1,049 mile sled dog race from Anchorage to Nome) and "Swimmer," an enchanting no-frills story about the life of a salmon, are a combination of fact and fiction. They seem to thrill her young readers who care about animals, ecology and the wonder of icy, far-away lands where Christmas could be all year round.

Gill visited two Clarkston schools per day from Monday through Wednesday this week. She brought along a slide show that treated kids to both photos and pictures from her illustrator Shannon Cartwright. Children at Andersonville, who were there for the first morning assembly, oohed and ahed over the beautiful Alaskan scenes.

"It's like magic, bein' out there in the winter in Alaska," Gill told them.

Gill also brought along several artifacts, including polar bear teeth and molar and bone samples from the giant, extinct Woolly Mammoth. Her peppy spirit and humor connected instantly with the Andersonville kindergarteners and first- and second-graders.

She gave them two reasons why her town, Homer, Alaska, is famous. "One, it's the second longest land spit (where the road ends) in North America and two, it's the home of the world's ugliest fish." She showed an old, humorous slide of three men holding a giant halibut. "They can weigh as much as 200 pounds and have both eyes on one side of their head."

"Eeeauw!" was the reaction from the young crowd.

Gill, 41, also spoke of her illustrator, Cartwright, who lives nearby in the mountains. "She has a big front yard and she doesn't have to mow it. She doesn't have any running water unless she runs down the mountain to get it," she quipped.

But most of all, she thrilled them with her tales of the real, wintry place, her sled dogs and the life she leads there. Though beautiful and exciting, it's a lot of hard work, she said.

"Moose, wolves and cold weather ... It might go down to 70 degrees below zero. On the Iditarod you gotta stop about 10 times a day and cook a big ole' pot

Not fast enough: Fourth-grader Nathan Barr tried oh-so-hard not to let one of the dogs lick him in the face, as Russell had forewarned. But when he's surprised with a kiss, he doesn't mind.

A doggone experience at North Sash.

As a prelude to Alaskan author Shelley Gill's visit, students at North Sashabaw received a special treat last Wednesday.

Davisburg resident Judy Russell brought her four Siberian huskies to classrooms and shared her own dog sled stories. The children enjoyed looking at the plushly coated animals — and enjoyed petting them even more after Russell was finished.

Much of the session was a question/answer period where children wanted to know everything — Did Russell have any puppies, could the dogs do tricks, could you raise a puppy and a kitty together, had she ever been to Alaska, and how many boy and girl dogs did she have.

Russell, who raises the animals, said presently she has 40 adults, "30 girls and seven boys. Happy boys, aren't they? Think about how many girlfriends they have."

Asked if she still raced her dogs, Russell answered it had once been a family affair. "I used to when my children were younger." But now her three kids are all grown up. "When you go driving down the road with six to seven dogs pulling your rig, you need a lot of people to help you, so I don't do that anymore."

The students were also attentive when Russell acquainted them with some facts. She told them one year of a dog's life was equal to 13 of a human's, that a pure-bred husky would cost around $400 and that this particular breed of dog was bred to survive in very cold weather.

To one sensitive and concerned student who wondered if they dogs had to be confined to cages, Russell was consoling.

"They love to go in their cages and travel." At home, she added, "They have plenty of room to run around in. The yard they live in is half as big as a football field."

of fish-head stew 'cause these dogs don't eat Friskies."

Gill admitted she was influenced by author Jack London, who wrote "White Fang," and poet Robert Service. She also was struck by a photo of a "musher" driving his dog-sled team.

"It looked like fun standing on that sled," she said. She met her illustrator and said her life changed from big city (she was raised in Detroit) to icy tundra. "Together we try to tell the stories about our daily lives. I never wanted to have 'Here lies Shelley Gill. She watched a lot of TV' on my tombstone."

After the first Andersonville assembly, Gill was interviewed by big people. She told them she's "not a mall person" and finds a simple, uncluttered life in the north. As an environmentalist and writer who truly researches her material, she experiences the wonders of nature first-hand. She donned a wet suit and swam to experience the life of a salmon before she wrote "Swimmer" and kayaks in the ocean, once encountering a 40-foot humpback whale who almost overturned her boat. Gill's current ecological — and political — messages speak through her writing.

"My new book is about Tongass, the last temperate American rain forest. It's one of the last habitats on earth ... (My book) was originally going to be 'Tongass: The Last American Rain Forest' but now it's going to be 'Tongass: The DESTRUCTION of the Last American Rain Forest.'"

Gill doesn't have good things to say about the current state of politics and blasts "(Newt) Gingrich and the boys."

"They changed the Arctic National Wildlife Reserve to the Arctic National Oil Reserve," she says. She is upset with federally leased timber sales that tear down "800-year-old trees to make paper plates and toilet paper ... It's a deal where we get roads and they

Conservatory sale turns into bidding war

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston parent Carol Kerney remembers how the late Ivan Rouse cared about his students.

Although neither her son nor daughter studied with Rouse, he was present at their recitals.

"He used to cry at some point during the recitals, after they'd make it through a performance. He got very emotional ... He'd say, 'Put your patties together for the students.' The whole thing of kids and music overwhelmed him and the dedication of the teachers meant so much to him. He seemed real proud of everything, the importance of it."

Rouse died last October. But now, things are not as harmonious as the music that still drifts from the windows of the 145-year-old building at 49 S. Main Street. Though several voice and instrumental music instructors continue to operate the legacy Rouse left, the recent real-estate listing of the historic building has caused a contrapuntal rift between two of the trustees Rouse left his business to and one of the beneficiaries of his will.

Dr. James Wilhelmsen, a piano teacher who has taught at the conservatory for 19 of the 36 years Rouse operated the institution, believes Rouse intended him to carry on the work he left unfinished — to continue the conservatory in its present state and make the necessary renovations to upgrade it with the addition of a 200-seat recital hall.

He filed a petition in Oakland County Probate Court and was granted an preliminary injunction July 24, prohibiting the building's sale. The building is currently listed at $225,000 with Coldwell Banker The Michael Group, through Realtor Shirley Carpenter. At presstime, a hearing was scheduled before the court on Sept. 27 (today) at 8:30 a.m. before Judge Eugene Moore.

Wilhelmsen, who holds a doctorate in music and commutes from Ann Arbor once a week to teach piano at the conservatory, says he's willing to have restrictions put on its use as solely a school of music. He wants to buy it for around $100,000, the price he had it appraised at recently.

Mark Straetmans, Wilhelmsen's attorney, says he is convinced of his client's sincerity and doesn't feel Wilhelmsen will "buy it low and turn it around in the future to capitalize it.

"Mr. Wilhelmsen wants to buy the real estate and continue to use it as he believes Mr. Rouse wanted it used. He's been involved with the conservatory and Mr. Rouse for a long time. He wants to pay a fair price — as long as it's going to benefit the conservatory. He's willing to have a covenant that only allows him to use it for that purpose. He's willing to be restricted from virtually everything except in using it as a conservatory," Straetmans said.

However, he added, Rouse's written statements are unclear.

"If fully understood the way the language is worded, it seems to be a wish or a desire, not an order, that it remain as a conservatory. It seems to be precatory language. You're not saying that your personal representative or trustee has to do it that way. That's clearly in there."

Although he received nothing in writing from Rouse, indicating Rouse wanted him to run the conservatory, Wilhelmsen says he has roughly 20 letters from people backing him and knows many persons who would testify as to Rouse's wishes.

"He (Rouse) asked me to keep this place after he died. I intended to fix this place up with a new recital hall out back. Ivan had plans regarding that and I'm going to follow them ... It's going to be a fight, but I'm going to do it."

Before the court injunction was filed, Rouse's living trust entrusted the private estate where he lived and worked to three people: his attorney Richard White, who drew up both the will and trust, his sister Dorothy Koop and his friend, Dolores Imbrunone, who heads Clarkston's Cedar Crest Academy. Beneficiaries named in his will and their portions of the estate include Imbrunone, 25 percent, Wilhelmsen, 25 percent, friend Steven Hansen, 1 percent, and The Church of the Resurrection Episcopal, 49 percent.

Wilhelmsen is upset about the sale, initiated by White and Imbrunone.

"Rather than doing what Ivan wanted, they're using this as a bidding war, to increase the sale price," he said. Wilhelmsen asked Clarkston Police Chief Paul Ormiston to remove the for-sale sign last week, but Ormiston said he could not do so without a court order.

City manager Art Pappas said the property is commercially zoned and has an assessed value of $41,990.

Carpenter said that although a restraining order is currently in effect on selling the property, it may be shown and advertised, thus explaining the for-sale sign. No one can presently enter into a purchase agreement until the injunction is lifted. So far, Wilhelmsen is the only person who has made an offer: "$95,000, on a five-year land contract with nothing down," Carpenter said.

"In his mind, he wants it for a very low price. He thinks he's entitled to it just because he taught there," Carpenter said. Carpenter also had the property appraised — "higher than $100,000 and under $200,000 ... Most people don't realize you can steer (the price) up and steer it down."

Carpenter said it is possible to put restrictions on the sale of real estate. She was involved in a similar situation when an observatory in Lake Angeles had to be continued with certain restrictions.

White declined to comment on the situation. Koop said only, "I will say one thing. I would still like to see it go on as a conservatory."

Imbrunone — the only person named as both a trustee and beneficiary — said she wants to see the building continue as "a school of music and a place for creative endeavors." She would not comment, however, on specific questions regarding Wilhelmsen's intentions.

"We've (the three trustees) been entrusted with the responsibility of continuing the conservatory in a manner befitting Ivan Rouse. He was a very good friend of mine. We are dedicated to finding the person or persons in a style befitting the community. They must remember this: Ivan entrusted this to us. If he had meant for others to do it he would have chosen other people. I was a friend and I think he respected my integrity. And I feel he felt I would try to carry out the mission," Imbrunone said.

Countering rumours about moving the business to a new location, she added, "We're not looking to move it."

Many of Rouse's friends are shocked and saddened at the problem which has surfaced.

"Ivan had a lot of concerns. He could see there were a lot of people who were dropping by the wayside.

Road projects approved

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Helping out area residents by improving road conditions is the main focus of Independence Township's $96,000 in Tri-Party funds.

The annual allotment will tentatively be used for paving, improving a road drain and graveling roads where needed. The board of trustees voted to designate the projects at its Sept. 19 meeting, although changes could be made at a later date.

The board approved the following three projects:

- Pave the approach of Clement Road at Andersonville Road, costing about $48,000. Because of residential homes in this area, turning has become a concern, and this paving would help alleviate the problem.

- Replace a culvert and improve drainage on Sashabaw Road, between Major and Clinton, at a cost of $41,400. This problem area has caused flooding for residents and is badly needed. It is, however, contingent upon Waterford Township also approving the project because the problem continues into that community.

"This is part of a whole line of improvement," said Independence Township Supervisor Dale Stuart.

- Gravel a miscellaneous number of roads in the township at a cost of $7,012. Stuart said he recommended this project because some roads need the service, and the small costs fit in perfectly with the money available to spend.

Tri-Party funds are restricted in use and are given to municipalities each year. Costs are split three ways between the municipality, the Road Commission for Oakland County and Oakland County.

Other board action

- Independence Township Library Director Mollie Lynch received board permission to apply for a federal community information grant.

Lynch told the board the grant is for creating a "community database." It would help fund library resources such as census reports, school information, community directories and reference sources. All the information would be on the Internet and would allow the library to become the community information center of the Clarkston area.

"Currently the information on the community is scattered," said Lynch. "This will be an opportunity for us to have someone pay for this process."

Lynch said all the improvements will cost between $35,000-$45,000, while the federal grant gives awards from $10,000-$50,000. The grant recipients will be announced in April or May of 1996.

The government may not grant the entire amount requested by the applicant and could come back with a counter proposal. Lynch said if that happens, the township board would make the decision to accept the reduced grant money or none of it.

- The board gave final approval for the rezoning of 11 acres from commercial (C-1) to planned unit development off M-15 at and around the property of Dr. James O'Neill's office.

The PUD will be developed as the Mid-Oakland Medical Office Building, a proposed 120,000-square-foot facility which will incorporate the existing offices of O'Neill and Dr. Charles Munk.

The primary use of the building, proposed to be three stories high in the back, will be medical office suites, taking up about 75 percent of the space.

- The board met in closed session to discuss pending litigation.

Conservatory

In the last few years he seemed depressed and very, very concerned about the conservatory. He always spoke of Jim Wilhelmsen because I think he was the one whom Ivan wanted to direct the conservatory," said Susan Basinger, president of the Clarkston Historic District Commission.

"He'd stop in the middle of a sentence to say, 'The Conservatory must continue.'"

Both attorney Straetmans and White's and Imbrunone's attorney Clark Davis say they are trying to arrange a meeting between the trustees and the beneficiaries.

"I understand Mr. Wilhelmsen wants to represent the estate. We have talked about finding a meeting (time) for Mr. Wilhelmsen to make a personal appeal about what he's willing to offer," Davis said. Wilhelmsen, appointed temporary representative by the court, has also asked to be the permanent representative of the estate.

"If (Wilhelmsen's offer) fails, we'll ask the court in a separate petition to set up a method of value for the property and allow my client to buy it and to have its use restricted in the deed," Straetmans said.

Currently, the case is in the hands of the court and out of the hands of the trust, which previously could have administered the private property sale.

"The court will pursue it until there's some resolution of this," said Lisa Symala, chief of estates for the Oakland County Probate Court, who is familiar with the case.

The Clarkston News

In Focus

by Annette Kingsbury

Out of the mouths of babes

Every once in a while there comes a need to explain what is opinion in a newspaper, and what is news.

Last week's column by student writer D'Anne Witkowski about her sister Laura being named to Homecoming court at Clarkston High School drew some comments, both positive and negative. But the most important issue that was raised, from my perspective as editor, is that some people don't know there is a difference between someone's opinion and a news story.

Making sure the difference is obvious is very important. That's why the word "Opinion" is written in huge letters at the beginning of the editorial comment section of this and many other newspapers.

Everyone expects—and should demand—that news stories show no trace of bias. Good reporters can write a balanced story no matter how they feel about the subject matter themselves.

But columns are a chance for writers to express themselves on the many subjects and people they come into contact with every day. Because columns are one person's opinion, they are not universally greeted with admiration. I've heard people complain about those who write about their dogs too frequently or how things were "in the good old days." We also get regular complaints when columns lean too far to one side or the other politically. A friend once told me he had to get used to the idea of me writing a column because it was so different from everything else I write. He wasn't sure at first if he liked it.

The point of the whole exercise, of course, is to hear a variety of points of view and encourage debate and serious thought. And that's exactly why we feature a student writer as often as we can.

I for one am not too interested in hearing adults say what kids are thinking. I would much rather hear it from the kids themselves. What I learn from them is that some things are the same as when I was a kid, and some things have changed—really changed. To me it is valuable, as an adult, to know what their lives are like.

Last week I wrote a news story about the Homecoming pre-tapping activities at CHS. Laura Witkowski wrote a column about the same events. The two were radically different, as well they should have been.

For I saw events from the outside, an adult reporter commenting on a wacky event during the silly season of Homecoming. D'Anne wrote from an insider's perspective in more ways than one. She's a student and her sister was just crowned Homecoming queen.

Everyone complains about political correctness these days. Well, if the day has come when children can't express their feelings for fear of offending some adult's sense of PC, then stop the world, I want to get off. Let them talk, and for heaven's sake, let us listen.

And if you don't agree with this opinion, that's fine. Write a letter to the editor. That's your space, as a reader, to tell me and the community what you think.

But please, don't tell me I don't have a right to my own opinion just because you don't happen to agree.

Letters to the editor

Preserve conservatory

To the Clarkston area community:

The Clarkston Conservatory of Music, founded and nurtured by the distinctive personality of Ivan Rouse, has been a cultural asset to the Clarkston area community for more than 30 years. Certainly the best reward for his dedication to the enrichment of our community, by bringing quality music instruction and talent to the area, would be to continue the legacy he established. Since the Conservatory is designated an historical building its preservation as a contributing place of fine art seems very appropriate.

Success in our lives is not always measured in dollars. There must be many students and parents of students of the Conservatory whose lives are richer because of their Conservatory experiences. To share a love of music and appreciate the talents of those within and without our community is a rich blessing to have right in our own front yard.

I do hope that a way will be found to continue its good work and that the community will recognize and support this glorious gem for the fine art of music that Ivan meant to leave for us.

Sincerely,
Dorothy Lowe

The results of privatizing

I am an upset parent of a SPICE student who attends Springfield Plains Elementary in Clarkston. The bus my son rides on arrives at school a half hour or more after his class already starts. The bus has too many kids being picked up covering a large area.

The information I am receiving is that there are no more available bus drivers or buses to handle the extra kids. Is this what privatization and two-tier busing is doing to our kids?

One day they had a substitute bus driver where one child was on the bus for 2-1/2 hours. These are 4-year-old children!

I believe these children have a right to be educated and to school on time. Wake up, Transportation!

Publish the good news

Dear Editor,

As a supporter of the Christian Coalition, I want you to know that I am very concerned about the relentless anti-Christian bias of the news media.

For example, Dan Rather of CBS News described conservative Christians as "hatemongers." The Washington Post, in a feature article, described us as "largely poor, uneducated and easy-to-command." And CBS News anchorman Bob Shieffer made this outrageous comment: "We've all noticed that there is a link between crime and religion." These kinds of false caricatures must stop.

Christians make up the majority of your readers. I'm writing to urge you to be fair in your coverage of Christians. Why not publish some positive articles now and then about all the good work Christian organizations are doing on our community?

Sincerely,
Terry Hunt

The Old Farmer's Almanac, 1996

Once again the publishers of The Old Farmer's Almanac have sent me a copy of their No. CCIV to review.

As you know this publication is big on planting tables, zodiac secrets and weather forecasts for the 16 regions of the United States.

I'm going to ignore the first two features and get right to the weather for ours, the 9th region "Chicago and southern great lakes."

November through March will be milder than normal with below-normal rain and snow. Expect cold and snowy weather the last half of both January and February. March will have its snows, too. April will be cold and rainy, May will be variable and June will have hot spells with temperatures near the 100s by the end of the month. All summer it will be warmer and drier than usual.

Next September the temperature will be 2 degrees above average and rainfall an inch below normal, (normal is 2.5 inches) which is odd since The Old Farmer's Almanac predicts showers and rain for all four weeks of the month.

For this year's book The Almanac asked for headache cures. Try one of these: Get 50 dandelions, put them in a blender until they're mushy paste, mash them through a sieve, add minced garlic, and make a compress; use alcohol rubs on the forehead and cold packs; Place a cat on your stomach; a whiskey sour and a plate of marinated herring; hit your finger with a hammer and your headache will stop; get a divorce.

The Old Farmer's Almanac's astrological table says the best time to begin a weight loss diet in September has already past. Try October 1 or 6. To begin a diet to gain weight try October 15 or 16. Animals should best be castrated October 20-21. I didn't need to know that.

I could find only one "joke" in The Old Farmer's Almanac. They title it "Old-Fashioned (and clean)."

Bill Jones, the local athletic "champion" was bragging about his physical prowess at the local bar. None of the regulars challenged him. But a visitor piped up, "I'll bet you $20 that I can wheel something in a wheelbarrow for one block and you can't wheel it back."

Bill looked the visitor over and decided that whatever the stranger could do, he could do better. "I'll take you on," he said.

The visitor, Bill and a number of the regulars borrowed a wheelbarrow and took it to the corner.

The challenger smiled smugly, rubbed his hands, picked up the handles and turned to Bill. "OK, get in, Bill," he said.

The Old Farmer's Almanac 1996 is available at just about any bookstore or magazine rack in the country.

A look back

15 YEARS AGO (1980)

Another court issue surfaces between Pine Knob Investment Co. and Independence Township. Pine Knob says it does not have to appear before the township's planning commission for site plan approval for a proposed ski run, and instead can immediately apply for a building permit. However, Timothy Palulian, head of the township's building department, says that while the proposed ski run is a structure, its proposed use constitutes it as a new principal use which requires planning commission review.

A Clarkston Aquarium sign—still hanging after the business left a year-and-a-half ago—is currently in limbo because of a snarled zoning ordinance and legal opinions. Claudia Jakus, owner of Clarkston Travel Bureau, one of two new businesses in the building, wants to put her own sign up but can't until a new sign ordinance is written. The sign was erected prior to the adoption of a new ordinance that prohibits overhanging signs in the village. That makes it a nonconforming sign, says village attorney Thomas L. Gruich.

A shutout victory leaves Clarkston alone atop the GOAL (Greater Oakland Activities League) as they down the previously undefeated West Bloomfield Lakers Friday night. "We just made too many mistakes against a good football team. I don't think we played very well, but that's not to take anything away from Clarkston. They deserved to win," says Lakers Coach Dominic Livedoti. But, Livedoti adds, the race for the GOAL title is far from over. "I know we'll bounce back."

25 YEARS AGO (1970)

With the deadline passed for getting propositions on the November 3 ballot, Independence voters probably won't see an election on rezoning until January. Three petitions are now before township clerk Howard Altman. The first calls for a vote to overturn a township board rezoning decision involving a 17-acre parcel on Waldon opposite Almond Lane. The second petition pertains to the rezoning of Waterford Hill Golf Course for a shopping center and multiple dwellings. The third concerns a trailer park rezoning on Clintonville Road.

A plan for a halfway house at the old Webster School on Pontiac Lake Road asks for support from four neighboring townships: Waterford, Independence, Springfield and White Lake. District Court Judge Kenneth Hempstead appears before the Independence Township Board Tuesday night, supporting a request from RAP (Residents' Awareness program, Inc.) for Independence involvement in the project. The RAP plan is to buy the building for $20,000 and spread operational fund needs among the four townships. The halfway house would be an out-patient program where drug addicts could receive help—between the two extremes of probation and jail for drug addicts who are apprehended and taken to court.

News from "By the Way": These are strange times. We are all delighted because the war is over and yet we are wondering what is going to happen right here at home. During the past several years we have heard many times that our boys were fighting for the American way of life. Just what is "the American way?" ...

Playing at the Drayton Theatre over the next few weeks are Amelita Ward in "Jungle Captive," Judy Garland and Robert Walker in "The Clock" and Van Johnson and Spencer Tracy in "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo." News, cartoons and shorts are included. Movies at the Holly Theatre include Mickey Rooney, Donald Crisp and Elizabeth Taylor in "National Velvet" and Judy Garland, Margaret O'Brien, Mary Astor and Tom Drake in "Meet Me in St. Louis." Both movies are in Technicolor.

60 YEARS AGO (1935)

There are many happy Clarkston children who win roller skates in Kroger's "Going Places" contest. They include Louise Newman, Harry Mass, Betty Jane Cole, Richard Lowrie, Betty Jean Drake, Arlene McCann, Madeline Scribner, Garth Pearsall and Fred Hemingway. The grand prize of a new bicycle is won by Irene Shortwell.

Sponsored by the merchants of Clarkston, "Happy" Van and his one-ring circus will give a free appearance on Main Street Saturday evening. The act comes from a booking at a large theatre in an Eastern city and appears next week at a Bay City theatre. References give the show a good, clean rating. It is one you will enjoy and children should not miss it.

Specials at Kroger's this week include pot roast, 15 cents a pound; fresh perch, two pounds for 29 cents; bananas, five pounds for a quarter; soap chips, a five-pound box for 29 cents; Calumet baking powder, 23 cents a pound; Eatmore oleo, 11 cents a pound; and fresh-baked cookies, a pound for a dime.

Clarkston High School principal Brent Cooley is managing his biggest enrollment ever this year and trying to make all his new students as comfortable as he can. But one student gave him a chuckle when they met for the first time.

"Do you know who I am?" Cooley said he asked the student. "I know who you are; you're Mr. Cool," the student replied.

The D'Anne & Don Review

The Shipping News

Review by D'Anne Witkowski

E. Annie Proulx's modern day Pulitzer prize-winning classic, The Shipping News, centers around the life of main character Quoye who's been dealt quite a lot of punches. Heartsick after the death of his two-three-four-timing wife Petal Bear, he leaves behind, as well as he is able, the painful memories of their unhappy life together. He packs up his things and moves with his two young daughters, Bunny and Sunshine, and his resourceful aunt Agnis to start life anew in the small town fishing harbor of Killick-Claw, Newfoundland.

Quoye and his family take up residence in the legendary Quoye family home, left vacant for 40 years. Here Quoye learns about his strangely fascinating family history. Meanwhile he takes a job at the local newspaper where he gets put in charge of shipping news and the front-page feature of a car wreck on every edition, whether there is a car wreck or not. Here, there and everywhere we learn more about Quoye's self-effacing personality and realize how much of a man is being wasted as he mourns the death of a woman who never loved him.

It is not until Quoye meets Wavey, a local woman with a mentally retarded son, that he learns there's life after Petal Bear, that not all of his love was burned up in her. His relationship with Wavey is one of subtle passion and sympathetic yearning. Quoye, after years of being a doormat, finds out how truly useful he can be.

The Shipping News should be required reading not only for those who enjoy finely styled original literature, but also for those readers who make the characters of a book their family. For those who love to live and experience lives other than their own, try living the lives of Killick-Claw, Newfoundland.

If It Fitz

by Jim Fitzgerald

Life is complex, and VCR proves it

If you think life is simple, just keep reading . . .

■ My VCR was in the repair shop for three weeks, waiting for a part. I was surprised it wasn't readily available, because the VCR is practically new. The repairman said I had it all wrong.

Because the VCR is practically new, he said, it shouldn't need a part replaced, and it doesn't make good business sense to keep a replacement part readily available if it isn't going to be needed.

If the VCR were old, it would be easier to find a part for it.

But, the repairman said, if the VCR were old, rather than fix it with a replacement part, it would probably be cheaper to buy a new VCR.

If it worked that way for people, youngsters couldn't get transplants, and olders would be Kleenex.

■ Until recently, my second car, a 10-year-old Oldsmobile, was driven only on short in-town errands, to pick up stuff at a store or children at a school. No heavy duty on the freeway. I didn't want to strain it.

The Olds has less than 80,000 miles on it, and its replacement tires, brakes, exhaust system and battery probably haven't been used more than 1,000 miles. It's in excellent shape, and I wanted to keep it that way for when I needed it.

I liked to think of me and my Olds as something like my wife and her best silverware. She uses it only once every year or so, but shines it regularly, and takes comfort in knowing it's in top shape and immediately usable if unexpected royalty drops in.

I took comfort in knowing that, if for any reason my one-year-old Lincoln weren't available when needed on I-75, I could always drive the Olds.

Except when I needed the Olds, it wouldn't start. I told a mechanic that was strange, because it had run fine a few days earlier, on a grocery trip, and hadn't been out of our garage since. I stressed that I wasn't completely mechanically impaired, and I knew that cars must be exercised regularly or they'll die parked. I said I made sure the Olds got out and around at least once a week.

The mechanic asked how often I drove it 60 mph or more. I said I always drove it on streets with speed limits under 40. I said I was much more comfortable speeding in the newer Lincoln, rather than the old Olds, because odds are the Lincoln is less likely to break down on the freeway, which can be irritating.

The mechanic said such slow exercise could hurt the Olds more than help it. If I want to depend on the Olds to start for very occasional freeway speeding, when the Lincoln isn't available, I will have to speed the Olds on the freeway very often, when the Lincoln is available.

If it worked that way for the best silverware, we'd have to eat with it every day, or visiting royalty would choke on it once a year.

■ My wife's dilemma is she loves holding and petting the cat that lives next door and visits us incessantly because it's a relative by grandchildren. And she loves studying the rabbits that frequently come out of the woods and pose like statues on our lawn.

But the cat—even though declawed—regularly kills a rabbit and dumps it on the porch.

Also, my wife loves watching squirrels frisk in the trees. And she loves watching various birds eat the feed she puts in the box hanging from the porch.

But the squirrels eat all the bird feed, so the birds don't come around much.

Also, she loves laughing at a fat groundhog that often waddles through our yard. But he eats her plants, which she also loves.

I remind her that she loved the view from our former high-rise home, but hated waiting for the elevator.

As it was said in the beginning, life isn't simple.

Don't Rush Me

Ask the therapist by Stan Garwood, MA, MSW, DCSW

Dear Stan Garwood:

I know many people — friends and family — who are in bad relationships for the simple fear of being alone.

My brother, for example, has been married and divorced twice and is only 33. His last divorce was final about a year ago and now, rather than allow himself time to find out who he is, he continually seeks out dates through ads of every kind. He seems to need someone else although he needs to get his own life in order.

I also know some friends who are with people they really don't want to be with, but are afraid to be alone. For many, it seems like they are settling for second-best.

It seems to me some people need to get comfortable with themselves before they can be comfortable with another mate. Why do so many people feel they have to be attached to someone? Is it a self-confidence problem? And for those who are waiting for a relationship with the right one, is there a point where they may become too picky?

Sincerely,
Anonymous

Dear Anonymous

I would agree with you wholeheartedly, your brother "needs to get his life in order," he needs to "allow time to find out who he is."

In my practice, I have observed individuals choosing like partners following a divorce or death and some did this repeatedly.

Unless a person knows him/herself well, likes him/herself and feels secure within him or herself, a relationship is not entered into freely and independently. That is to say, when someone feels anxious about being alone, feels depressed or insecure, he or she believes their mate will complete them, thus alleviating their feelings. The affirmation they seek contributes to their wholeness and without it they may feel anxious and/or depressed.

Your brother's self-image is such that he believes he is not as socially acceptable as others, or that he is less than them, or that he cannot in some way meet their needs. For your brother, these feelings are reinforced by the fact that someone "divorced" him. In effect, his wife has told him he's no longer valued. The divorce, in conjunction with his initial low self-image, results in a period of situational depression. This is absolutely the worst time to enter a serious relationship with the prospect of subsequent marriage.

Anonymous, you are right on! Your brother needs to get his life in order. And to do this, he should wait until he is psychologically back to normal. If he doesn't like himself, doesn't feel he has much to offer a partner or that he'll be rejected, out-patient therapy with someone versed in adult developmental issues and interactional dynamics is recommended.

Therapy here would help him to understand his value as a person, realize he compares favorably to his peers and reduce any anxieties of this nature.

He then can go out and choose a new partner on his own terms and function independently enough to continue to feel good about himself and create the healthy, autonomous relationship he desires.

Yes, the right person is available and out there in society somewhere. I have worked with enough people who have returned to inform me that "Mr. or Ms. Right" does exist. They finally located him or her!

In response to your last question, "Is there a point where they may become too picky?" If your goal is to establish a lasting commitment, the answer is "no." I have personally witnessed too many dysfunctional relationships lacking in the sound foundation necessary for two people to commit to each other while working daily to build a loving and healthy life together.

This is a topic requiring further elucidation. I will address this in a later column.

Send questions to Stan Garwood, 5854 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48346.

Sports

Clarkston's varsity football team won its first home game! Good job, guys. I was in the stands with the band, as usual, and I started to regret never getting seriously involved in sports. I don't think it is physically too late or anything, I just lack time. I love to swim, but I only do so in the summer, and I have never excelled at anything like baseball because I'm sports-stupid.

I don't understand most sports. Wait — it's not that I don't understand them, I just forget the rules at critical moments during the game. I'm the person who sees the runner two thirds of the way to second base but throws the ball to first because it's closer. In basketball I can only score if I foul someone (which I think doesn't count anyway).

I don't understand why people get so worked up over things. At sporting events I tend to watch the spectators more than I watch the players. I find it amusing that people stand up in their seats in public arenas and scream their heads off and don't feel embarrassed about it. I would. That's why I don't. It reminds me of all those earthquake and Titanic movies in which people run around and scream in panic as if screaming somehow helps. What happens in the minds of the screamers? Do they actually think, "I'm going to die. Therefore, I am going to shut off my brain and make the loudest noise I possibly can?" It must be shock.

I would be willing to take up sports just to be "sporty." Sportiness is an admirable quality. I was borderline sporty while my little red stick-shift car was working. Unfortunately, I was disillusioned because I forgot that Chevettes are never sporty, even if they are little red stick shifts. I'm back to bumming rides and jogging again. Maybe when I'm 50 I'll have the self-confidence to buy one of those resilient purple jogging suits. Maybe I'll also start my quest to convince people that if everyone knows everyone picks his nose then no one will care whether one knows, so please don't insult my intelligence by trying to hide it.

I like to watch tennis on TV. That probably puts me on some nasty list, but I don't care. Tennis is my favorite sport because the action never stops and the rules are relatively simple. There is also a unique sense of sportsmanship in the game, which is nice. I've never seen Steffi Graf get ticked off and break a racket over Monica Seles' head. The best part of tennis is the post-defeat hug'n'smile. It takes a real athlete to lose the U.S. Open and still manage a hug'n'smile.

Sports are not my forte, but I have developed a huge appreciation for them. It bugs me when people say "Cheerleaders are so stoo-pid." Maybe when I'm 50 people will cut it out.

What's new in business

Auto detail center opens

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Anyone would be envious of the Mazda RX-7 parked in a bay of the Clarkston Detail Center.

A two-man team of detail technicians is busy polishing and cleaning the super black sports car until it sparkles like new.

"This makes the car shine and restores the finish," explains Aaron Gach, who's working with a power wheeler. As it hums, it's removing oxidation and tiny scratches like magic.

Cecil Reese pokes his head out of a window. He's been cleaning the upholstery inside. Reese says he's also a race car driver.

Shampoos for your fine leather interior. High-quality, commercial strength cleaning products. Buffing wheels, high-pressure sprayers and vacuums. Even Q-tips. And four to six hours of TLC to restore your baby.

They're all available at the new Clarkston Detail Center located in Clarkston Auto Wash at 6791 Dixie Highway in Clarkston.

Owner Dan Rogers opened up his detail shop after talking to auto wash owner Fred Ritter after he saw a sign advertising two bays for lease.

"I said, 'I can do that.' We talked it out, made an agreement and here I am."

Clarkston Detail Center is open six days a week, Monday through Saturday, from 8 to 6 p.m. Appointments are available.

"We like our customers to drop their cars off in the a.m. and get it done," says Rogers. He adds that they'll accommodate those who live by the clock and have too-hecktic schedules for even a drop-off. "Convenience is at the Clarkston Detail Center. They'll even pick it up if you can't drop it off yourself — No worry."

Rogers also has contracts with several car dealerships in the area, from Clarkston to Rochester, for trade-ins. It's important too, he says, to get good, thorough cleaning done before you sell your own car — or turn the leased one in.

Now is a good time to care for those four wheels you drive to work, chauffeur the kids around in and take up north, Rogers says.

"With winter approaching, people are calling to get their cars done before the snowstorms hit. It protects them from salt and rust."

Owner Dan Rogers (foreground) will see to it that your car is pampered. Aaron Gach and Cecil Reese are a two-man detail technician team who will make that happen.

Mr. and Mrs. Josh Perry

Carpenter-Perry wed in Salt Lake City

Josh and Stacey (Carpenter) Perry were married June 30, 1995 by Elder Stephen V. Featherstone at Salt Lake LDS Temple, Salt Lake City, Utah.

A reception was held July 1 for 250 guests at the groom's parents' home in Idaho Falls. Another reception was held July 29 at Springfield Plains Elementary School in Clarkston.

The bride wore a short-sleeved satin gown with beading, appliques and a two-inch lace border around the bottom. The top came to a V-shape at the waist. She carried a bouquet of white lilacs, roses, calla lilies and baby's breath, accented with greenery.

Her attendants included Heidi Mackintosh from Hiko, NV as maid of honor, and bridesmaids Kim Blake of North Glenn, CO, Lori Thompson of Denton, TX and Shayla Perry, sister of the groom, from Idaho Falls, ID. All wore black and white knee length dresses and carried lavender lilacs, greenery, baby's breath and white flowers fashioned into a white lace fan with teal ribbon.

The groom wore a black tuxedo with tails, a black vest, a black bow-tie and a white rose boutonniere. His attendants were David Perry, his brother, from Idaho Falls as best man, and groomsmen Doug Brower of Idaho Falls, Jeff Carpenter, brother of the bride, from Clarkston, and Dwight Perry, his brother, from Idaho Falls. All wore black tuxedos with teal bow-ties and cummerbunds.

Ushers were Mike Terry and Aaron Murdock, both of Idaho Falls. Piano music was provided by Linda Hamilton at the Michigan reception.

Stacey is the daughter of Dave and Judy Carpenter of Clarkston. She is currently attending Brigham Young University and works as a gardener on the Brigham Young grounds in Provo, UT.

Josh is the son of Duane and Sharon Perry of Idaho Falls. He attended Ricks College in Idaho and presently attends a police academy. He is employed as an armed guard for Wells Fargo Armored/ATM Service in Provo.

The couple spent their eight-day honeymoon in Island Park, ID. They now reside in Provo.

At school

● An item in this column last week contained some incorrect information.

Tim Szykula, Clarkston High School Class of 1995, was named an AP Scholar with Honor for earning grades of 3 or above on four or more AP exams last year. He earned grades of 4, 4, 4 and 5 on the four exams he took. The minimum requirement for the honor is a 3.25 average on at least four exams.

Forty-five years after they first saw it and each other, Tom and Denyse Singelyn enjoy the newly renovated Bay Court Park.

After 45 years, couple returns to Bay Court

BY DARREL W. COLE

Forty-five years later, they returned to the spot where they first fell in love.

In 1950, Bay Court Park was a summer camp for underprivileged children and Denyse and Tom Singelyn were counselors. They met there for the first time when she was 16 and he was 20. The chance meeting would begin a love affair that lasted that summer session and the rest of their lives as well.

"I drove out here and was given a tour of the camp," said Denyse, recalling the first time she met Tom. "We were introduced to all the counselors at each tent. And I can remember Tom kept moving to each location to meet me again."

"I thought she was really nifty," said Tom.

The Singelyn's live in Grosse Pointe but the former summer camp site holds a special place in their hearts. After they met at the camp, they continued their relationship and were married in 1956, after both finished college.

In 1996, they will celebrate their 40th wedding anniversary.

They've been able to follow the progress of Bay Court Park through Clarkston's Leonard and Cindy Matusko. The Matuskos are good friends with the couple and are patients at Tom's dental practice in Grosse Pointe.

"Years ago when Len told me they were going to make a park of the place, I ran home and told Denyse right away," said Tom. "It's such a good thing the community has done here."

"As you get older you reflect back on some things and realize that things get destroyed as time goes on. To come back to a place like this that holds so many wonderful memories and find it similar to the way it was is very rare."

On the occasion of their recent anniversary, Tom and Denyse got a tour of the new and improved Bay Court Park from Independence Township Parks and Recreation employee Carole Ann Lippincott. The Singelyns said not much has changed. Most of the old buildings are still intact, as well as their good memories of what used to be called Camp Brady.

"The counselors here all became real good friends," said Denyse. "I can remember we all used to gather in the boat house at night and dance, smooch and just have fun. Then, when the camp director was in bed we'd sneak into the food area and eat the ice cream."

"Those were such good times."

They may never again return to the site, but, like Bay Court, their memories will remain.

In service

● Army 1st Lt. Kenneth Baran participated in a joint training exercise at Fort Greely, Big Delta, Alaska dubbed "Northern Edge 95." It included more than 9,000 airmen, soldiers, sailors, Marines and guardsmen operating as a joint task force which reacted to a simulated border dispute between two fictional countries.

The three-part, 24-day exercise focused on peace enforcement and evacuation of American and foreign citizens, including patrolling a United Nations designated no-fly zone and providing support for humanitarian relief.

Baran is an executive officer at Ft. Richardson, Alaska. He is the son of Lawrence and Margaret Baran of Clarkston and a 1988 graduate of Clarkston High School. He is also a 1992 graduate of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point.

● Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class Calvin Conway, son of Joan and Debbie Flores of Clarkston, recently graduated from the Navy's Basic Nuclear Power School in Orlando, FL. Students learn the principals of science and engineering fundamental to design, construct, operate and perform maintenance on Naval nuclear propulsion plants.

Conway is a 1994 graduate of Clarkston High School. He joined the Navy in July, 1994.

Second generation exchange student stays with second generation host

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

Back in 1965, Giulio Grilli was a 16-year-old exchange student from Italy whose placement in Connecticut wasn't working out. A sympathetic teacher overheard his plight one day in the school office and decided, on the spot, to take him home rather than watch him be shipped back to Italy.

That teacher was the mother of Tom Gahan, who is now a Davisburg resident; Tom was 12 at the time. The match worked out so well that for the last 30 years the two families have stayed in touch, exchanging letters and phone calls and travelling to see each other on vacations.

"Someone would just call and say 'I was just thinking about you,'" said Sue Gahan, Tom's wife. "Mom and Giulio, they seem to have a real close relationship."

Fast forward to 1995. Tom and Sue Gahan are now hosting Giulio's daughter, Stefania, for her year in the U.S. Stefania, 16, is enrolled at Our Lady of the Lakes High School and can sometimes be found helping out Sue Gahan at Olde Apothecary Antiques on Main Street in Clarkston.

Sue Gahan had met the dark-haired, blue-eyed Stefania once before. "When we met eight years ago we said, 'Oh yeah, just think, when they're in high school . . . Last year we decided to do it.'"

'I hope not to be homesick.'

Stefania Grilli
exchange student

Though the arrangement was comfortable for the families, it was a little sticky getting Stefania permission to come to the U.S. since she wasn't utilizing an exchange organization. But in August, she arrived.

Stefania, whose English is just about flawless, speaks four languages (French, Italian, Spanish and English) and attends a bilingual international school in Paris, France, where her family has resided since she was 8. Though she had visited the U.S. before, she said she decided to spend a year here to perfect her English, a requirement for graduation from her high school back home.

Her mother is half Belgian, half Italian. Stefania lived the first half of her life in Torino, in northern Italy, before her father, an employee of the European Space Agency, moved the family to Paris. Her mother is a homemaker and volunteer translator; she has a brother, 14.

"I live just next to the Eiffel Tower," she said. "When I had to leave Italy to go to France I could understand French perfectly, but I couldn't speak it."

In Paris, Stefania's school is taught half in English, half in French. Here, though her school is much smaller. "I don't think there's a big difference," she said. "With the exception that it's all in English."

The hardest part? It may just be trying to fathom calculus in a foreign language. "It's awful," she moaned. "I had problems in math when it was in French and English. Now it has to come to my head and I have to translate it and I have to understand it."

Other than math, there have been very few times when the family has had to explain things to her, Sue Gahan said.

Meanwhile, Stefania is helping the French and Spanish teachers at Our Lady of the Lakes, where she is studying chemistry, U.S. literature and religion in addition to pre-calculus and Spanish. None of the classes she takes here will count toward graduation in Paris, where she will still have two more years of high school to go when she returns.

Stefania said she hasn't been homesick at all. She talks to her parents by telephone regularly and they will visit at Christmas.

"I hope not to be homesick," she said. "I miss my friends of course but not my family because we talk all the time."

Council works toward limiting Depot Park use

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

An appearance by Pastor James Wells of Waterford Community Church at Monday night's Clarkston City Council meeting has seemingly redeemed Depot Park from being used by anyone else other than the Clarkston community.

Wells, who used Depot Park and its gazebo for two Sunday night concerts this summer, wanted to book the park for four concerts in 1996. He thanked council for letting his church use the park and gazebo, and said his congregation had worked hard to respect its use.

"Last time we used it we got 400 people out. You will not find a better law-abiding group of God-fearing people who pick up after themselves," he said. "We're not trying to take anything over or be other than good neighbors of the community."

But, at the last council meeting on Sept. 11, council members said more than ever a policy governing general park use needs to be established because too many organizations are asking for use of the park. So far, the city has received requests for a hair show, an antique fair and other endeavors.

The non-profit Crafts and Cider Festival and weddings are currently the only uses firmly established, say council members.

Mayor Sharron Catallo said that although she understands Wells' request and has faith in his continued good intentions, it's not a personal issue.

"We are concerned about anyone coming in and wanting (the park) that often," she said.

"Our maintenance costs are going up. We have to look at the whole picture ... I think you have to look at the impact of each event. Is it going to tear up the lawn. What's it going to do?" Councilman Steve Secatch said.

At the last council meeting Councilman Doug Roeser said he would have some information Monday night. He came prepared with the beginnings of a policy he set before council.

Roeser said the primary purpose of the park should be for Clarkston and its residents and that it should be "quiet, low-impact use."

"I think if we don't do this, we'll have it booked up. And I don't think we should encourage that."

Some of the items Roeser addressed were size and duration of the event, set up and clean up, the public benefits from a group, cost, fees and to whom the park use should be entrusted "in running the show."

Roeser also feels that extraordinary expenses should be included in the park-use policy for things such as cleanup and repair. He further feels park use should be limited as to the number of times the same organization may use it.

"I think we should have a policy in place so if (someone) comes in here we can say, 'Well, we'll allow it or not,'" Roeser said.

Several council members agreed that the park should be for Clarkston city residents only. "I just seems to me that we should have this for our citizens," Steve Secatch said.

"It's got to be for the use of the people who live here," Steve Arkwright added. "It's also good to have a quiet place where parents can take their children down here and people can picnic."

Roeser will continue to research the project.

In other council action:

● Bids are in for the new Department of Public Works truck. Council passed a motion 6-0 to approve a bid by NBD Bank at 5.15 percent for 84 months, the lowest bid offered. (Councilman Bill Basinger was absent.)

● Council discussed dropping the raise for conducting local, state and national elections that had been approved for former city clerk Jeanne Selander Miller. They agreed starting a new clerk out at Miller's initial salary might be best. The position is currently vacant.

● Forrest Milzow, owner of the apartments on Surrey Lane, was contacted regarding street repair work he has taken upon himself to do around the apartment area. City manager Art Pappas said specifications need to come from city engineers Hubbell, Roth and Clark concerning the repairs, which are not being done by the city. Milzow has also expressed a desire to let businesses do their own sidewalk repair and has suggested replacing the old downtown sidewalks with brick walkways. "He'd have to get approval from Lansing," he said, pointing out that M-15 (Main Street) is a state road.

● A motion was passed 6-0 to let former part-time secretary Lillian Bauer still take care of wedding bookings in Depot Park at a salary of $50 monthly.

● Unpleasant odors coming from the city's 25-year-old lift station in Depot Park, which holds and transports sewage out of the city, was discussed. Residents Michael and Hope Alesi, who live next door to the station, expressed a desire to be rid of the problem. Council passed a motion 5-1 to spend up to $3,000 to bolt the manhole cover down, turn off the ventilation system and damper and take other measures. Councilwoman Karen Sanderson voted no. The city could face up to $40,000 in expenses if a new station is built.

Township rolls back tax levy

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

There are two bottom lines when it comes to the financial prognosis for Independence Township.

One is that the township tax rates have been lowered, and two, because of the area's growth, the revenue from those lowered rates has increased from last year.

And while the average township homeowner (owning a home with a taxable value of about $61,000) will pay more in township taxes, much of that is due to an additional police millage approved by voters in November 1994.

The average 1994 township tax bill was $477.18, compared to 1995's average tax bill of $504.04. While there was a decrease in the library debt levy by $2.43 and a tax rate rollback of $2.68, the average home's tax bill increased by $4.90 and the new police millage cost $27.07.

The township is expected to raise over $5.5 million, based on the 1995 tax rate of 8.2369.

1995 budget adjustments

A $350,000 increase for the current 1995 budget will be offset by almost $290,000 in unexpected revenue from building permits and other charges for services.

The board approved the 1995 budget adjustment at its Sept. 15 board meeting.

In addition, the board also approved the establishment of a capital projects fund by transferring $246,000 from the fringe, capital and contingency fund. That fund will be used to purchase about $54,000 in equipment, such as a mower for the parks and recreation department. Another $206,000 will be used for "undesignated projects."

The increased expenditures came in six different categories:

Elections, $8,000. This is due to a special election that was held, but will be fully reimbursed by the state.

Attorney, $100,000. This cost is for the hiring of the law firm Dykema Gossett to investigate the township's investment arbitration cases.

Data processing, $5,000. A study was done to determine the township's data processing needs.

Recreation, $75,000. Increased participation in the township's recreation programs caused this increase.

Parks, $65,000. Increased participation in parks events and the improvement of Bay Court Park.

Seniors, $25,000. A senior center programmer was hired in January, 1995, but was not originally budgeted for.

Whoppers

Bumper crop of new students at CHS

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
Clarkston News Editor

They came in all styles and sizes: From shaved heads to pony tails; tiny to tall, freshmen to seniors. Their name tags showed the locations where they formerly went to school: Marquette, Midland, Ohio, even Germany.

They are this year's crop of new students at Clarkston High School, about 120 strong. And they're trying to find their place among 1,850 kids crowded into a building designed for much less.

To try to help them on their way, school administration held a new-student breakfast last week at the CHS cafeteria. Over rolls, juice and early-morning yawns, and with strains from band practice wafting through the air, the students met counselors and club presidents and learned what is available to them at their new school.

Sophomore Liberty Fish spent the last two years at an international school in Germany. She returned to the U.S. two months ago. Though she's used to moving around a lot, "Here it's harder to make new friends," she said.

At her old school, "Everybody's been moving in and out and so everyone is real welcoming. Everybody is looking for new friends."

Julie McCarty, a transfer from Dow High School in Midland, said she attended Clarkston in junior high so some of her old friends are still around. Her old high school was bigger, she said, "but not as confusing."

New students are not a new phenomenon at CHS. With the town's continued boom in residential housing, students transfer in by the hundreds each year at all levels. Some come because their parents have new jobs and Clarkston's proximity to I-75 makes it convenient. Others come from private schools and from changes in custodial parents, said counselor Neil Sage.

Enrollment is up from 1,769 last year. Principal Brent Cooley said his current population is, he believes, the largest that's ever been housed in the current building. By the time the new high school is opened, enrollment may already have reached the new building's classroom capacity of 2,000, he said.

"The key is for us to get them accustomed from

CHS enrollment is at 1,850 and growing, the most the old building has held, in principal Brent Cooley's memory.

day one," Cooley said of his new charges. Addressing the students, he told them of the many opportunities, both in academics and extra-curriculars, that await them, and of his expectations that they would give their best.

"You're just as important as someone who's been here four years," he said. "Each and every one of you has an important contribution to make to the community . . . We're here to help you grow; we're here to help you have positive choices when you leave CHS."

Assistant principal Melissa Kenter White said there is a student welcoming committee, comprised of members of the Blue and Gold Club, which attempts to make contact with newcomers, including freshmen, on a one-on-one basis. Co-chairs are Kristen Blue and Barb Dean.

"Whenever a new student comes in they send a letter to the student. They may try to meet with the students," she said.

There is even a support group, led by counselor Judy Medlin, which meets during the day on a rotating schedule so no one misses too much of one class.

"This is a big school, no doubt about it," Medlin said. "And how do you fit in here?"

Perhaps student council president Erica Cooper summed it up best. "Your high school years will be so much improved if you get involved. So do as much as you can."

Instant car titles just got easier

Auto owners no longer have to drive to Lansing to obtain an instant title under changes announced last week by Secretary of State Candice Miller.

Secretary of State offices in Sterling Heights, Oak Park Lansing, Flint, Grand Rapids Gaylord and Marquette will now provide instant title service for both new and used vehicles with a Michigan title, as well as watercraft. They will also provide instant duplicate titles for lost Michigan titles.

"In the past, the instant title service was offered only in Lansing as a way to discourage potential abuses," Miller said. "This limitation only served to inconvenience hard-working taxpayers who have a legitimate reason for getting an instant title."

To obtain an instant duplicate title, a customer must present the registration to the vehicle and proper identification. The fee is $11 plus a $5 instant title fee.

The Metro Detroit offices offering the service are located at 44541 Schoenherr in the Sterling Center Complex and 25952 Greenfield. The Flint office is located at 5001 Fenton Rd.

get lumber. One of the unfortunate results is that the natural habitat of many wilderness animals is destroyed.

"For every tree you cut down, an animal gives up a home," she told the children earlier.

Gill pointed to one of her most horrifying examples. "They're supposed to leave a protective fringe (around waterways) for salmon," so they can be protected. It provides shade and keeps the eggs cool. The loss of this protection is what results in death to the salmon's life cycle, she said.

In addition to her writing, Gill is presently working to establish what she calls adventure curricula for school systems. One topic is the navigation of large rivers in the U.S.

But most of her life's work centers on the northernmost state that's the focus of her writing.

"There's no reason to think Alaska's going to be treated any differently than Washington and Oregon," she said, speaking of Tongass. "My new books are going to be on fighting to save Alaska."

"I relate a lot more to the animals I live around, day in and day out. I find our own species to be revolting."

Bouncing back from a tough loss

Hoopsters beat Troy in OAA game

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The kind of loss Clarkston suffered to Bloomfield Hills Lahser could sap the energy out of many teams. But not this Wolves girls basketball team. After a heartbreaking 26-24 home loss to 7-1 Lahser Sept. 19, CHS bounced back for an inspired 41-31 victory Sept. 21 over Troy.

The win over Troy also earned Clarkston its first Oakland Activities Association Division I victory, moving the Wolves to 1-1 and 5-2 overall.

"These kids are real gamers," said coach Larry Mahrle. "I knew we'd come back strong against Troy because that's just the way they play."

The team ended the game so poorly against Lahser it might have seemed difficult to turn it around. Clarkston was down 15-14 after the half and then took a 22-20 lead after three quarters. But the Wolves would score only two more points as turnovers finally caught up.

Coach Mahrle said his team knew they should have won but they just made too many mistakes. They committed 21 turnovers and missed five free throws in the fourth quarter to seal their fate.

"Lahser plays good defense too and really extended its zone against us. For as small as we are we can't have that many turnovers, and have to control the offensive flow of the game."

Senior Nickie Winn led CHS with 12 points. Clarkston came back to beat Troy by improving on some of the areas that contributed to its two losses this season.

"After the Rochester loss we worked on taking our time on offense and not rushing," Mahrle said. "And after the tough loss Tuesday we responded real well."

The team's response was a patient and precise offensive game plan against Troy. The Wolves committed only six turnovers and several players stepped up their play in various areas.

As usual, the varsity girls' defense was a key factor in forcing Troy turnovers, but the offense also helped out for in an 11-3 first-quarter lead. Troy made a run in the second and cut Clarkston's lead to 17-15 at the half.

But Mahrle changed up Clarkston's press to begin the second half and Troy turned the ball over, beginning with junior point guard Sue Naboychik's steal, one of six she had on the night.

More baskets followed from Winn, who scored 10 points, and smooth jump-shooting junior Allison Richards, who led the team with 11 points, as Clarkston shot out to a 28-19 lead. Sophomore Tiffany Honey also hit a big three-pointer to give the Wolves breathing room.

Junior Carin Kirk had a strong game inside with six rebounds and seven points.

7 tennis players sport winning records

Wolves improve, play powers tough

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston's girls tennis team may have lost two matches last week, but they put up a fight.

The Wolves started out the week by beating Waterford-Mott 8-0 Sept. 18 but it got more difficult in 7-1 losses to tennis powers Birmingham Groves Sept. 20 and West Bloomfield Sept. 22.

But those losses aren't about to get coach Dick Swartout or his team down. They are pleased to be 6-3 overall and 2-3 in Oakland Activities Association Division II dual matches.

Swartout said the squad has worked hard this season and learned from mistakes. The progress was evident last week.

Despite the scores against Groves and West Bloomfield, Clarkston played tough. Against Groves, junior Kristy Cade won at #4 singles while the #2 doubles team of Kim Deacon and Katie Atkinson and #3 doubles team of Chris Maynard and Kristen Atkinson played tough but lost in close matches.

At West Bloomfield, the #1 doubles team of Becky Olsen and Jocelyn Stock won, 7-5, 6-4 while three other Wolves lost.

"The other coaches were highly complimentary of how the kids performed," said Swartout. "In both matches we played well and we're continuing to learn how to win the close ones."

Clarkston had no trouble against Mott, even though Swartout made a few lineup changes.

Winners were: Mary Schmidt at #1 singles, Sam Schubert at #2, Loren Bogart at #3, Kristen Atkinson at #4, Stock and Olsen at #1 doubles, Deacon and Jenna Benson at #2 doubles and Katie Atkinson and Lauren Basinger at #3 doubles.

Clarkston's division dual meets are over and the OAA tournament begins Oct. 5.

Stock and Olsen have lost only one match at #1 doubles in OAA play all season and should be the number-two seed heading into the tourney.

Individual records

So far this season, junior Kristy Cade at #4 singles, is the team's winningest player at 11-3, which includes some doubles play. She leads seven girls with winning records.

The only other player at double-figure wins is Jocelyn Stock at 10-5, mostly at #1 doubles.

Other winning individual records come from Alaina Dodds, 8-6, Loren Bogart, 9-6, Kristen Atkinson, 8-6 and Chris Maynard, 8-6.

Golfers focus on better OAA tourney

5-0 record may not win division

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

With a 5-0 overall dual meet record, the Clarkston varsity golf team is doing something right.

But after a last-place finish at the Oakland Activities Association Division I tournament Sept. 19, the Wolves will be fighting to repeat as division champions.

CHS headed into the tournament with an unblemished record. They exited that tournament shooting a respectable 317, but still wound up in last. Winning the first of two OAA tournaments was Rochester Adams with a 305. Adams was followed by Troy with a 310, Bloomfield Hills Lahser with a 312 and Rochester 315.

It was a bad finish but not a bad performance by the Wolves, according to coach Jim Chamberlain.

"We played real well but the other teams put together a better day," he said. "It put us in the hole as far as league standings."

The OAA title goes to the team with the best combined finish after two OAA tournaments and the dual meet record.

Chamberlain said his squad is now focusing in on the second OAA tourney set for Oct. 2.

In the OAA tourney, Chamberlain's squad performed well, led by Tim Klimek's 76, Jeff Cumberworth's 78, Dave Barth's 80 and Eric Rood's 83. Klimek tied for 4th overall at the meet.

There was no break for Clarkston last week as they battled Rochester Adams on Sept. 20, winning by three strokes.

Klimek was tops again with a 37, Cumberworth shot a 38, Bryan Haggard a 42 and Barth and Rood tied with 43s.

Jeff Cumberworth takes a swing in preparation for his team's win over Rochester Adams last week.

"We went from getting killed by Adams in the tournament to beating them by three strokes two days later," Chamberlain said. "It shows you how strong our division is and that we can play with anyone."

On Sept. 21, the Wolves defeated another division foe that beat them at the tourney, Bloomfield Hills Lahser. CHS came out ahead 160-169, thanks to great play from four players. Klimek, Barth, Rood and Haggard all shot 40s.

For the 10th year in a row, Chamberlain took his team to the Koresky Classic Sept. 22 at the Hartland Glen course. The Wolves came out of the 12-team classic in second place, behind winner Lakeland.

The tourney is different than most however. It's played on 27 holes and each school has three, two-man teams. The two-man teams tee off and the best score between both players is recorded at each hole.

The Wolves finished with a 326, behind Lakeland's 325 and ahead of Hartland's 327.

The teams of Barth and Rood, and Cumberworth and Haggard finished at even par, while the pair of Klimek and Mike Gray was five over par.

Gridders now 3-1

Once again, the Clarkston varsity football team proved they can play with anybody.

The Wolves beat Troy Athens 19-15 Sept. 22, thanks once again to a long drive in the fourth quarter. The win was similar to Clarkston's overtime win over Pontiac Central three weeks ago. It was in that game that coach Kurt Richardson said a win like that can turn a season around.

Whatever the Central win did, worked. Since the season-opening loss to the state's #1 ranked team Troy (they are also rated in the top 20 in the USA), Clarkston has won three straight games.

The win over Athens was a little different for the Wolves. They went into halftime with a 12-0 lead on an 11-yard touchdown run by senior fullback Joe DeGain and a 4-yard run by sophomore tailback Jeff Long.

But after the half, Athens slowly crawled back in thanks to a TD run and a 43-yard interception return for a TD. Athens also converted an extra point and a two-point conversion to take a 15-12 lead after the third period.

The Wolves, however, weren't about to quit. After a sustained drive, Long scored his second TD of the game from two yards out (senior Ryan Schapman kicked the extra point) to take a 19-15 victory.

Football

Clarkston only committed one turnover compared to six for Troy Athens, and fought through adverse weather conditions and a tough Athens team to post a 13-8 win on Sept. 21.

The game began well for the Wolves. On their opening drive, they went 65 yards on nine plays, ending on a one-yard touchdown by quarterback Kevin Mason. The drive took over eight minutes and gave Clarkston a 6-0 lead. But Athens came right back. They scored on their first drive and took an 8-6 lead.

Again, Clarkston drove down the field and scored, this time on a 30-yard pass from Mason to Mark Venegoni. Mason also added the extra point for a 13-8 lead.

In total, the Wolves rolled up 230 yards of total offense (170 rushing and 60 passing), and only turned it over once. The totals could have been higher, though, as Clarkston receivers dropped three touchdown passes.

However, it was the defense that shone again. They continued to play well, allowing only eight points, and they continued their shutout streak in the second half. They have yet to allow a point after half-time through four games. Justin Dionne, Chad Kareus, and Kurt Devos all recovered fumbles for the Wolves, and Dionne also had an interception.

"We played much better in this one," said coach Doug Colling. "Things are starting to come alive for us. It was nice to see the kids get the win."

Clarkston's record is now 2-2. This week, they play on Sept. 27, at Rochester.

Soccer

The JV soccer team struggled to win last week, but played tough.

On Sept. 19, the Wolves lost to Troy Athens 5-0. Then, on Sept. 22, the Wolves lost to Rochester 1-0 in a tight game.

"We made a definite improvement," said coach Brian Fitzgerald. "Last time we played Rochester, we lost 8-0."

This week, the Wolves play Rochester at home on Sept. 28, and play at Milford on Sept. 29.

Golf

The JV golf team has played much better than their record would indicate.

On Sept. 18, the team played West Bloomfield at Spring Lake, and lost 164-176. The Wolves played well, but West Bloomfield had one of the best scores that Coach Kaul can ever remember by a JV team. Ben Ness led Clarkston with a 41, and Matt Williams and Chris Rossco both shot a 43. Joe Hillinger rounded out the top four with a 49.

On Sept. 20, the Wolves played Troy and Troy Athens at Sylvan Glenn, and finished third. Troy Athens won with a 169, followed by Troy with a 178 and Clarkston with a 189. Williams led the Wolves with a 43, Ness shot a 45, Adam Tate shot 50 and Rossco shot a 51.

"We had one really good outing and one not-so-good this week," said Coach Kaul.

Clarkston's overall record is now 1-6. This week, the Wolves play on Sept. 29, against Bloomfield Hills Lahser and Birmingham Brother Rice.

Girls basketball

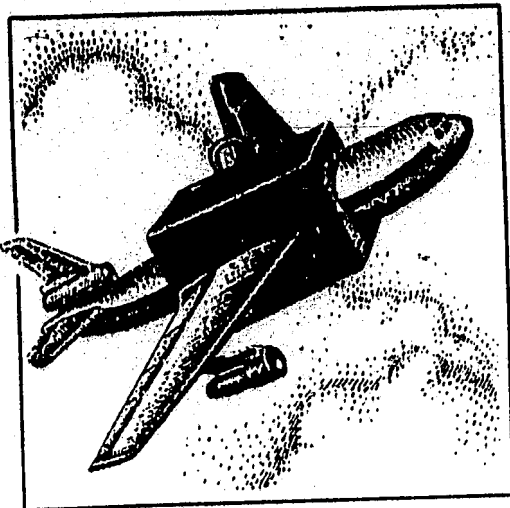

Two tough games for the JV basketball team, and two more victories. The Wolves are undefeated, standing atop the standings with an impressive 7-0 record, including 2-0 in OAA Division I play.

On Sept. 19, Clarkston won a close game with Bloomfield Hills Lahser, 36-28. The game was tied at 28 with four minutes to go, and the Wolves finished with an 8-0 run to get the win. The scoring was very balanced in this one.

On Sept. 21, Clarkston faced its chief rival in the division, Troy, and came through with a resounding 53-24 victory. After gaining a 23-17 halftime lead, the Wolves outscored the Colts 30-7 in the second half. Abbey Wiley led Clarkston with 11 points, and Aimee Giroux, Hope Manuel and Kristi Tippen all scored eight.

This week, the Wolves play at West Bloomfield on Sept. 28.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

WHY SOME HOUSES DON'T SELL

THE USUAL REASON
that a house won't sell is overpricing. But there could be other problems.

QUESTION: My
neighbor's house has been for sale, seemingly forever. Why wouldn't it sell?

ANSWER: Usually, the reason is that the house is priced higher than the fair market value will bear. However, sometimes there may be additional reasons. Perhaps the seller has a high asking price and refuses to accept any legitimate offer for even one dollar less. This can cause a psychological blow to a buyer's ego.

Maybe the husband wants to sell and the wife doesn't. Maybe the timing of the offer does not coincide with relocation plans. If the price is fair and there are no other hindrances, the house
WILL sell.

Thursday was a cold and rainy day, but it did not seem to bother Tim Loveless and the rest of the Wolves, as they cruised to a 12-0 victory.

Loveless ran for 138 yards on 24 carries, scoring a touchdown and also gaining 45 receiving yards. Clarkston also scored on a 15-yard reverse by quarterback Eric Jenks.

Defensively, the Wolves played very well, recording the shutout. Nate Jerdon, this week's honorary captain, recorded six solo tackles, two sacks and a fumble recovery.

"The defense had a couple of good stands to keep Athens out of the end zone," said Coach Dave Whitehead. "The kids were really proud of the shutout."

The Wolves record is now 3-1. This week, they play on Sept. 27, at Rochester.

Andover no match for cross-country squads

The boys and girls cross country squads swept an overmatched Bloomfield Hills Andover crew Sept. 19.

The boys and girls teams both places seven runners in the top ten. The boys won 26-33 and the girls 21-38.

Although Andover took the first two spots of the boys race, Clarkston showed its depth and swept 12 of the next 13 places to come out on top.

Chaz Claus was tops for the Wolves, taking 3rd place in 19:06.

He was followed by:

- * Jayson Scheiderer, 4th in 19:35.
- * Jon Burklow, 5th in 19:41.
- * Mike Purroll, 6th in 19:46.

- * Jeremy Davidson, 14th in 20:30.
- * David Dixon, 15th in 20:44.

* Tim O'Rourke, 18th in 21:11.

The girls squad was just as impressive in their win. Once again senior Stefanie Burklow was first in a time of 20:16, easily outdistancing Andover's top runner who came in second at 21:17.

Following Burklow was:

- * Kristen Maine, 3rd in 21:30.

True Travis Tritt fans

Tracy Shelby of Clarkston and Jennifer Pearson of Rochester Hills won front-row tickets and backstage passes for last week's Travis Tritt show at the Palace by becoming human ice-cream sundaes.

Young Country radio WYCD asked listeners what they would do for the prize package and this is what the two best friends came up with for the winning answer. Shelby said she's "country all the way" and would have done it for any country singer, not just Tritt.

For their initiative, the two, known as "Double Trouble" to their friends down at Highkickers Saloon, got to meet Tritt before the show. Shelby said he was nice enough to pose for pictures and autograph a newspaper clipping about their big adventure.

"I don't thin I could ever go to a concert (again) and not sit in the front row," Shelby said. But she added, "I can't say that I'd ever do it again because it was cold and it was nasty."

She said her husband wasn't too surprised by the prank. "He knows I'm crazy."

Tracy Shelby and Jennifer Pearson do their take on a human ice-cream sundae.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 16, kids on mopeds pulling other kids on rollerblades was reported. Clarkston Police Chief Paul Ormiston said this is illegal and dangerous.

MONDAY, SEPT. 18, an injury car accident occurred at Main and Waldon. An Ortonville woman ran into the back of a Clarkston man's car. She sustained minor injuries and was taken to St. Joe's Hospital where she was treated and released. The woman was not wearing a safety belt and was cited for failure to stop at an assured clear distance. The Clarkston man was not injured.

The June larceny of a boat motor taken from the private beach at Cemetery Lake on Pinehurst was reported.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 19, a resident reported strange noises coming from the basement window. The area was checked, nothing was found.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 22, a dispute between a mother and a daughter at a Main St. residence was resolved with police intervention.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 23, non-injury accident at Main and Washington. A Clarkston man pulled out of the city parking lot on Washington and stuck a Lake Orion man's passing car. No citations were issued.

Possible reckless driving at Main and Church streets was investigated by police after it was reported that a vehicle operated by a young Ortonville man had swerved toward some pedestrians. Police contacted and cautioned the driver who said he had temporarily taken his eyes off the road.

Police were dispatched to Deer Lake Beach for smoke investigation. They were unable to find anything.

Bouquet takes the bite out of dog attack

They knew each other and their dogs did too. But when a Buffalo resident took his dog for a walk last Thursday, the animal squirmed out of his collar and ran after another who was being led around by his master from Paramus. The freed dog bit his canine comrade who suffered minor injuries.

The owner was so overwrought that he agreed to take care of the vet-bills and said he would use a choke chain instead of a collar from now on. He even sent flowers to the bitee and his owner. And if that wasn't enough consolation, the bitee's owner agreed not to walk his dog "until all these needs were met," said Clarkston Police Chief Paul Ormiston, who took the report.

A murder has been arranged

What would you do if one of your relatives was due to inherit an astronomical amount of money and you were next in line? Would you be happy for him, write him a short note of congrats — or plan "a little accident." That's the theme patrons will have fun with when they see if "A Murder Has Been Arranged," the first offering of the Clarkston Village Players' 1995-96 season. Sir Charles Jasper is the lucky heir who stands to receive two million pounds, but the long-lost relative who shows up may foil his good fortune. Much like a Hitchcock telling, the play acquaints the audience with information early on and continues with a compelling development until the curtain falls. "A Murder Has Been Arranged" features a nine-member cast with direction by Verne Vackaro and production by Marlene Sewick, who also plays one of the characters. Performance dates are Sept 29 and 30 and Oct. 5, 6, 7, 12, 13 and 14. For more information call (810) 625-8811. Left to right: Mike Finn as Sir Charles Jasper, Chuck Diamond as Jimmy North and Gretchen Brookes as Beatrice Jasper.

Community service new focus of cheer team

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

For Jenny Walters, donating time to helping others comes natural.

As a senior co-captain on the Clarkston cheer team, Walters says first-year varsity coach Debbie Hool's commitment to the community philosophy is great for the whole team.

That commitment includes volunteer efforts at The Greenery Health Care Center twice a month, a coat drive for HAVEN, walking dogs at the Humane Society and work at Lighthouse North during the holidays, and other activities as they come up.

No longer will they restrict themselves to the sidelines of athletic events.

"I think this is great for our squad," said Walters, a member of the cheer team for four years. "It shows how much we really care and why we're on the cheer team. We're a little nervous but it makes us feel proud and makes us more well-rounded as people."

Lucky for the team they look forward to community involvement. Hool, in her first year as varsity coach, said the cheer team had never before been involved in the community.

"I feel we should be doing these things," she said. "These kids represent the school and the community, and I think they need to, and want to, uphold high standards."

Walters said the new focus has given the team a new sense of accomplishment. "We really work hard as a cheer team and work well together."

The team had its first day at The Greenery Sept.

The Clarkston varsity cheer team is ready for the challenge of community service.

14. They were scheduled to help with a Bingo game and talk with some of the patients. They are scheduled to return to the center Sept. 28.

The next event planned is an Oct. 7 coat drive in the neighborhoods of Clarkston from 10 a.m. to noon. The coats collected will all be donated to HAVEN, a home for battered women and their children.

Also in mid-October the team is planning to take some animals from the Michigan Humane Society for a walk.

In the upcoming holidays, Hool said her team will volunteer time to help work at Lighthouse North.

Queen for the week

As the candidates for Homecoming king and queen came down out of the bleachers, the crowd began to chant "Laura!" "Laura!" "Laura!"

The shouts were for Laura Witkowski, who, a few moments later, would be crowned 1995 Homecoming Queen of Clarkston High School. When it was revealed in the ritual known as "tapping," she looked like she was in shock.

Laura gets to bear the title for a week and will get to strut her stuff, along with the rest of the Homecoming court, Friday during the Queen's Assembly at CHS.

Witkowski appears shocked to have won.

Bouncing back from a tough loss

Hoopsters beat Troy in OAA game

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The kind of loss Clarkston suffered to Bloomfield Hills Lahser could sap the energy out of many teams. But not this Wolves girls basketball team. After a heartbreaking 26-24 home loss to 7-1 Lahser Sept. 19, CHS bounced back for an inspired 41-31 victory Sept. 21 over Troy.

The win over Troy also earned Clarkston its first Oakland Activities Association Division I victory, moving the Wolves to 1-1 and 5-2 overall.

"These kids are real gamers," said coach Larry Mahrle. "I knew we'd come back strong against Troy because that's just the way they play."

The team ended the game so poorly against Lahser it might have seemed difficult to turn it around. Clarkston was down 15-14 after the half and then took a 22-20 lead after three quarters. But the Wolves would score only two more points as turnovers finally caught up.

Coach Mahrle said his team knew they should have won but they just made too many mistakes. They committed 21 turnovers and missed five free throws in the fourth quarter to seal their fate.

"Lahser plays good defense too and really extended its zone against us. For as small as we are we can't have that many turnovers, and have to control the offensive flow of the game."

Senior Nickie Winn led CHS with 12 points.

Clarkston came back to beat Troy by improving on some of the areas that contributed to its two losses this season.

"After the Rochester loss we worked on taking our time on offense and not rushing," Mahrle said. "And after the tough loss Tuesday we responded real well."

The team's response was a patient and precise offensive game plan against Troy. The Wolves committed only six turnovers and several players stepped up their play in various areas.

As usual, the varsity girls' defense was a key factor in forcing Troy turnovers, but the offense also helped out for in an 11-3 first-quarter lead. Troy made a run in the second and cut Clarkston's lead to 17-15 at the half.

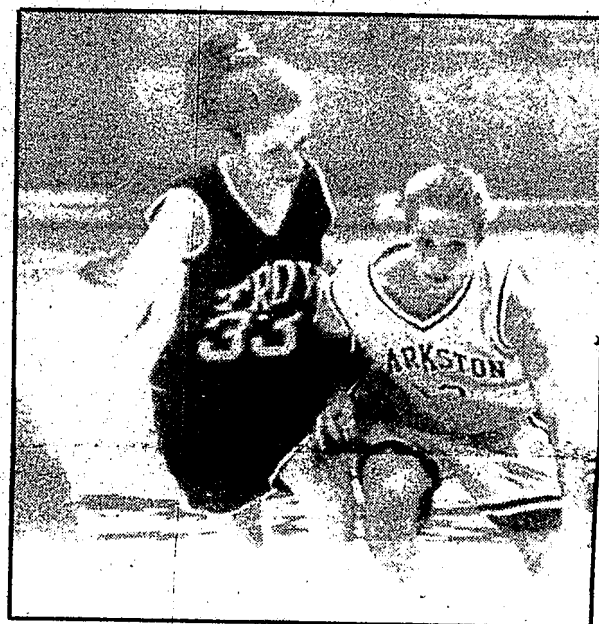

But Mahrle changed up Clarkston's press to begin the second half and Troy turned the ball over, beginning with junior point guard Sue Naboychik's steal, one of six she had on the night.

More baskets followed from Winn, who scored 10 points, and smooth jump-shooting junior Allison Richards, who led the team with 11 points, as Clarkston shot out to a 28-19 lead. Sophomore Tiffany Honey also hit a big three-pointer to give the Wolves breathing room.

Junior Carin Kirk had a strong game inside with six rebounds and seven points.

7 tennis players sport winning records

Wolves improve, play powers tough

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

Clarkston's girls tennis team may have lost two matches last week, but they put up a fight.

The Wolves started out the week by beating Waterford Mott 8-0 Sept. 18 but it got more difficult in 7-1 losses to tennis powers Birmingham Groves Sept. 20 and West Bloomfield Sept. 22.

But those losses aren't about to get coach Dick Swartout or his team down. They are pleased to be 6-3 overall and 2-3 in Oakland Activities Association Division II dual matches.

Swartout said the squad has worked hard this season and learned from mistakes. The progress was evident last week.

Despite the scores against Groves and West Bloomfield, Clarkston played tough. Against Groves, junior Kristy Cade won at #4 singles while the #2 doubles team of Kim Deacon and Katie Atkinson and #3 doubles team of Chris Maynard and Kristen Atkinson played tough but lost in close matches.

At West Bloomfield, the #1 doubles team of Becky Olsen and Jocelyn Stock won, 7-5, 6-4 while three other Wolves lost.

"The other coaches were highly complimentary of how the kids performed," said Swartout. "In both matches we played well and we're continuing to learn how to win the close ones."

Clarkston had no trouble against Mott, even though Swartout made a few lineup changes.

Winners were: Mary Schmidt at #1 singles, Sam Schubering at #2, Loren Bogart at #3, Kristen Atkinson at #4, Stock and Olsen at #1 doubles, Deacon and Jenna Benson at #2 doubles and Katie Atkinson and Lauren Basinger at #3 doubles.

Clarkston's division dual meets are over and the OAA tournament begins Oct. 5.

Stock and Olsen have lost only one match at #1 doubles in OAA play all season and should be the number-two seed heading into the toumey.

Individual records

So far this season, junior Kristy Cade at #4 singles, is the team's winningest player at 11-3, which includes some doubles play. She leads seven girls with winning records.

The only other player at double-figure wins is Jocelyn Stock at 10-5, mostly at #1 doubles.

Other winning individual records come from Alaina Dodds, 8-6, Loren Bogart, 9-6, Kristen Atkinson, 8-6 and Chris Maynard, 8-6.

Golfers focus on better OAA tourney

5-0 record may not win division

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

With a 5-0 overall dual meet record, the Clarkston varsity golf team is doing something right.

But after a last-place finish at the Oakland Activities Association Division I tournament Sept. 19, the Wolves will be fighting to repeat as division champions.

CHS headed into the tournament with an unblemished record. They exited that tournament shooting a respectable 317, but still wound up in last. Winning the first of two OAA tournaments was Rochester Adams with a 305. Adams was followed by Troy with a 310, Bloomfield Hills Lahser with a 312 and Rochester 315.

It was a bad finish but not a bad performance by the Wolves, according to coach Jim Chamberlain.

"We played real well but the other teams put together a better day," he said. "It put us in the hole as far as league standings."

The OAA title goes to the team with the best combined finish after two OAA tournaments and the dual meet record.

Chamberlain said his squad is now focusing in on the second OAA tourney set for Oct. 2.

In the OAA tourney, Chamberlain's squad performed well, led by Tim Klimek's 76, Jeff Cumberworth's 78, Dave Barth's 80 and Eric Rood's 83. Klimek tied for 4th overall at the meet.

There was no break for Clarkston last week as they battled Rochester Adams on Sept. 20, winning by three strokes.

Klimek was tops again with a 37, Cumberworth shot a 38, Bryan Haggard a 42 and Barth and Rood tied with 43s.

Jeff Cumberworth takes a swing in preparation for his team's win over Rochester Adams last week.

"We went from getting killed by Adams in the tournament to beating them by three strokes two days later," Chamberlain said. "It shows you how strong our division is and that we can play with anyone."

On Sept. 21, the Wolves defeated another division foe that beat them at the tourney, Bloomfield Hills Lahser. CHS came out ahead 160-169, thanks to great play from four players. Klimek, Barth, Rood and Haggard all shot 40s.

For the 10th year in a row, Chamberlain took his team to the Koresky Classic Sept. 22 at the Hartland Glen course. The Wolves came out of the 12-team classic in second place, behind winner Lakeland.

The tourney is different than most however. It's played on 27 holes and each school has three, two-man teams. The two-man teams tee off and the best score between both players is recorded at each hole.

The Wolves finished with a 326, behind Lakeland's 325 and ahead of Hartland's 327.

The teams of Barth and Rood, and Cumberworth and Haggard finished at even par, while the pair of Klimek and Mike Gray was five over par.

Gridders now 3-1

Once again, the Clarkston varsity football team proved they can play with anybody.

The Wolves beat Troy Athens 19-15 Sept. 22, thanks once again to a long drive in the fourth quarter. The win was similar to Clarkston's overtime win over Pontiac Central three weeks ago. It was in that game that coach Kurt Richardson said a win like that can turn a season around.

Whatever the Central win did, worked. Since the season-opening loss to the state's #1 ranked team Troy (they are also rated in the top 20 in the USA), Clarkston has won three straight games.

The win over Athens was a little different for the Wolves. They went into halftime with a 12-0 lead on an 11-yard touchdown run by senior fullback Joe DeGain and a 4-yard run by sophomore tailback Jeff Long.

But after the half, Athens slowly crawled back in thanks to a TD run and a 43-yard interception return for a TD. Athens also converted an extra point and a two-point conversion to take a 15-12 lead after the third period.

The Wolves, however, weren't about to quit. After a sustained drive, Long scored his second TD of the game from two yards out (senior Ryan Schapman kicked the extra point) to take a 19-15 victory.

Football

Clarkston only committed one turnover compared to six for Troy Athens, and fought through adverse weather conditions and a tough Athens team to post a 13-8 win on Sept. 21.

The game began well for the Wolves. On their opening drive, they went 65 yards on nine plays, ending on a one-yard touchdown by quarterback Kevin Mason. The drive took over eight minutes and gave Clarkston a 6-0 lead. But Athens came right back. They scored on their first drive and took an 8-6 lead.

Again, Clarkston drove down the field and scored, this time on a 30-yard pass from Mason to Mark Venegoni. Mason also added the extra point for a 13-8 lead.

In total, the Wolves rolled up 230 yards of total offense (170 rushing and 60 passing), and only turned it over once. The totals could have been higher, though, as Clarkston receivers dropped three touchdown passes.

However, it was the defense that shone again. They continued to play well, allowing only eight points, and they continued their shutout streak in the second half. They have yet to allow a point after half-time through four games. Justin Dionne, Chad Kareus, and Kurt Devos all recovered fumbles for the Wolves, and Dionne also had an interception.

"We played much better in this one," said coach Doug Colling. "Things are starting to come alive for us. It was nice to see the kids get the win."

Clarkston's record is now 2-2. This week, they play on Sept. 27, at Rochester.

Soccer

The JV soccer team struggled to win last week, but played tough.

On Sept. 19, the Wolves lost to Troy Athens 5-0. Then, on Sept. 22, the Wolves lost to Rochester 1-0 in a tight game.

"We made a definite improvement," said coach Brian Fitzgerald. "Last time we played Rochester, we lost 8-0."

This week, the Wolves play Rochester at home on Sept. 28, and play at Millford on Sept. 29.

Golf

The JV golf team has played much better than their record would indicate.

On Sept. 18, the team played West Bloomfield at Spring Lake, and lost 164-176. The Wolves played well, but West Bloomfield had one of the best scores that Coach Kaul can ever remember by a JV team. Ben Ness led Clarkston with a 41, and Matt Williams and Chris Rossco both shot a 43. Joe Hillinger rounded out the top four with a 49.

On Sept. 20, the Wolves played Troy and Troy Athens at Sylvan Glenn, and finished third. Troy Athens won with a 169, followed by Troy with a 178 and Clarkston with a 189. Williams led the Wolves with a 43, Ness shot a 45, Adam Tate shot 50 and Rossco shot a 51.

"We had one really good outing and one not-so-good this week," said Coach Kaul.

Clarkston's overall record is now 1-6. This week, the Wolves play on Sept. 29, against Bloomfield Hills Lahser and Birmingham Brother Rice.

Girls basketball

Two tough games for the JV basketball team, and two more victories. The Wolves are undefeated, standing atop the standings with an impressive 7-0 record, including 2-0 in OAA Division I play.

On Sept. 19, Clarkston won a close game with Bloomfield Hills Lahser, 36-28. The game was tied at 28 with four minutes to go, and the Wolves finished with an 8-0 run to get the win. The scoring was very balanced in this one.

On Sept. 21, Clarkston faced its chief rival in the division, Troy, and came through with a resounding 53-24 victory. After gaining a 23-17 halftime lead, the Wolves outscored the Colts 30-7 in the second half. Abbey Wiley led Clarkston with 11 points, and Aimee Giroux, Hope Manuel and Kristi Tippen all scored eight.

This week, the Wolves play at West Bloomfield on Sept. 28.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

WHY SOME HOUSES DON'T SELL

THE USUAL REASON
that a house won't sell is overpricing. But there could be other problems.

QUESTION: My
neighbor's house has been for sale, seemingly forever. Why wouldn't it sell?

ANSWER: Usually, the reason is that the house
is priced higher than the fair market value will bear. However, sometimes there may be additional reasons. Perhaps the seller has a high asking price and refuses to accept any legitimate offer for even one dollar less. This can cause a psychological blow to a buyer's ego.

Maybe the husband wants to sell and the wife doesn't. Maybe the timing of the offer does not coincide with relocation plans. If the price is fair and there are no other hindrances, the house
WILL sell.

Andover no match for cross-country squads

The boys and girls cross country squads swept an overmatched Bloomfield Hills Andover crew Sept. 19.

The boys and girls teams both places seven runners in the top ten. The boys won 26-33 and the girls 21-38.

Although Andover took the first two spots of the boys race, Clarkston showed its depth and swept 12 of the next 13 places to come out on top.

Chaz Claus was tops for the Wolves, taking 3rd place in 19:06.

He was followed by:

- * Jayson Scheiderer, 4th in 19:35.
- * Jon Burklow, 5th in 19:41.
- * Mike Puiroll, 6th in 19:46.
- * Jeff Deevey, 8th in 19:53.

- * David Dixon, 15th in 20:44.

* Tim O'Rourke, 18th in 21:11.

The girls squad was just as impressive in their win. Once again senior Stefanie Burklow was first in a time of 20:16, easily outdistancing Andover's top runner who came in second at 21:17.

Following Burklow was:

- * Kristen Maine, 3rd in 21:30.

- * Christina Geno, 24th in 26:55.
- * Heather Warner, 28th in 28:24.
- * Lisa Vallad, 29th in 29:17.

Thursday was a cold and rainy day, but it did not seem to bother Tim Loveless and the rest of the Wolves, as they cruised to a 12-0 victory.

Loveless ran for 138 yards on 24 carries, scoring a touchdown and also gaining 45 receiving yards. Clarkston also scored on a 15-yard reverse by quarterback Eric Jenks.

Defensively, the Wolves played very well, recording the shutout. Nate Jerdon, this week's honorary captain, recorded six solo tackles, two sacks and a fumble recovery.

"The defense had a couple of good stands to keep Athens out of the end zone," said Coach Dave Whitehead. "The kids were really proud of the shutout."

The Wolves record is now 3-1. This week, they play on Sept. 27, at Rochester.

True Travis Tritt fans

Tracy Shelby of Clarkston and Jennifer Pearson of Rochester Hills won front-row tickets and backstage passes for last week's Travis Tritt show at the Palace by becoming human ice-cream sundaes.

Young Country radio WYCD asked listeners what they would do for the prize package and this is what the two best friends came up with for the winning answer. Shelby said she's "country all the way" and would have done it for any country singer, not just Tritt.

For their initiative, the two, known as "Double Trouble" to their friends down at Highkickers Saloon, got to meet Tritt before the show. Shelby said he was nice enough to pose for pictures and autograph a newspaper clipping about their big adventure.

"I don't thin I could ever go to a concert (again) and not sit in the front row," Shelby said. But she added, "I can't say that I'd ever do it again because it was cold and it was nasty."

She said her husband wasn't too surprised by the prank. "He knows I'm crazy."

SATURDAY, SEPT. 16, kids on mopeds pulling other kids on rollerblades was reported. Clarkston Police Chief Paul Ormiston said this is illegal and dangerous.

MONDAY, SEPT. 18, an injury car accident occurred at Main and Waldon. An Ortonville woman ran into the back of a Clarkston man's car. She sustained minor injuries and was taken to St. Joe's Hospital where she was treated and released. The woman was not wearing a safety belt and was cited for failure to stop at an assured clear distance. The Clarkston man was not injured.

The June larceny of a boat motor taken from the private beach at Cemetery Lake on Pinehurst was reported.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 19, a resident reported strange noises coming from the basement window. The area was checked, nothing was found.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 22, a dispute between a mother and a daughter at a Main St. residence was resolved with police intervention.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 23, non-injury accident at Main and Washington. A Clarkston man pulled out of the city parking lot on Washington and stuck a Lake Orion man's passing car. No citations were issued.

Possible reckless driving at Main and Church streets was investigated by police after it was reported that a vehicle operated by a young Ortonville man had swerved toward some pedestrians. Police contacted and cautioned the driver who said he had temporarily taken his eyes off the road.

Police were dispatched to Deer Lake Beach for smoke investigation. They were unable to find anything.

Bouquet takes the bite out of dog attack

They knew each other and their dogs did too. But when a Buffalo resident took his dog for a walk last Thursday, the animal squirmed out of his collar and ran after another who was being led around by his master from Paramus. The freed dog bit his canine comrade who suffered minor injuries.

The owner was so overwrought that he agreed to take care of the vet bills and said he would use a choke chain instead of a collar from now on. He even sent flowers to the bitee and his owner. And if that wasn't enough consolation, the biter's owner agreed not to walk his dog "until all these needs were met," said Clarkston Police Chief Paul Ormiston, who took the report.

A murder has been arranged

What would you do if one of your relatives was due to inherit an astronomical amount of money and you were next in line? Would you be happy for him, write him a short note of congrats — or plan "a little accident." That's the theme patrons will have fun with when they see if "A Murder Has Been Arranged," the first offering of the Clarkston Village Players' 1995-96 season. Sir Charles Jasper is the lucky heir who stands to receive two million pounds, but the long-lost relative who shows up may foil his good fortune. Much like a Hitchcock telling, the play acquaints the audience with information early on and continues with a compelling development until the curtain falls. "A Murder Has Been Arranged" features a nine-member cast with direction by Verne Vackaro and production by Marlene Sewick, who also plays one of the characters. Performance dates are Sept 29 and 30 and Oct. 5, 6, 7, 12, 13 and 14. For more information call (810) 625-8811. Left to right: Mike Finn as Sir Charles Jasper, Chuck Diamond as Jimmy North and Gretchen Brookes as Beatrice Jasper.

Community service new focus of cheer team

BY DARREL W. COLE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

For Jenny Walters, donating time to helping others comes natural.

As a senior co-captain on the Clarkston cheer team, Walters says first-year varsity coach Debbie Hool's commitment to the community philosophy is great for the whole team.

That commitment includes volunteer efforts at The Greenery Health Care Center twice a month, a coat drive for HAVEN, walking dogs at the Humane Society and work at Lighthouse North during the holidays, and other activities as they come up.

No longer will they restrict themselves to the sidelines of athletic events.

"I think this is great for our squad," said Walters, a member of the cheer team for four years. "It shows how much we really care and why we're on the cheer team. We're a little nervous but it makes us feel proud and makes us more well-rounded as people."

Lucky for the team they look forward to community involvement. Hool, in her first year as varsity coach, said the cheer team had never before been involved in the community.

"I feel we should be doing these things," she said. "These kids represent the school and the community, and I think they need to, and want to, uphold high standards."

Walters said the new focus has given the team a new sense of accomplishment. "We really work hard as a cheer team and work well together."

The team had its first day at The Greenery Sept.

The Clarkston varsity cheer team is ready for the challenge of community service.

14. They were scheduled to help with a Bingo game and talk with some of the patients. They are scheduled to return to the center Sept. 28.

The next event planned is an Oct. 7 coat drive in the neighborhoods of Clarkston from 10 a.m. to noon. The coats collected will all be donated to HAVEN, a home for battered women and their children.

Also in mid-October the team is planning to take some animals from the Michigan Humane Society for a walk.

In the upcoming holidays, Hool said her team will volunteer time to help work at Lighthouse North.

Queen for the week

As the candidates for Homecoming king and queen came down out of the bleachers, the crowd began to chant "Laura!" "Laura!" "Laura!"

The shouts were for Laura Witkowski, who, a few moments later, would be crowned 1995 Homecoming Queen of Clarkston High School. When it was revealed in the ritual known as "tapping," she looked like she was in shock.

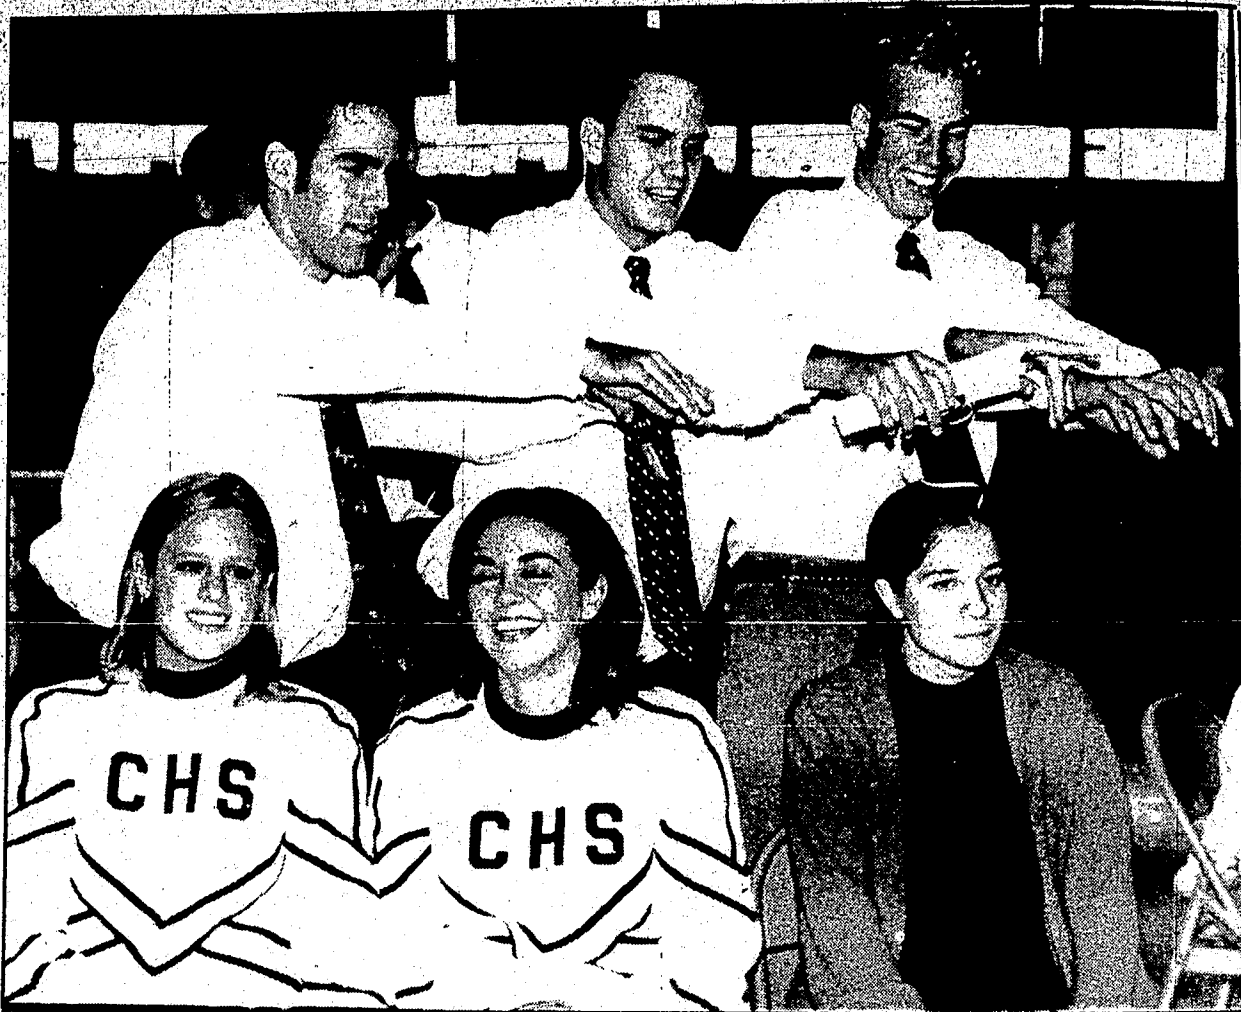

Laura gets to bear the title for a week and will get to strut her stuff, along with the rest of the Homecoming court, Friday during the Queen's Assembly at CHS.

Witkowski appears shocked to have won.

The 1995 Homecoming court includes (front row, from left) freshman maid Brittany Detkowski, junior maid Julie Marshall, princess Kelli Simko, queen Laura Witkowski, princess Harmony Hunt, senior maid Leah Howard and sophomore maid Amada Yarber. Back row: freshman escort Tim Loveless, junior escort Jason Ostrom, prince Tim Wasilk, king Bill Goforth, prince Ryan Schapman, senior escort Peter Bertling, and sophomore escort Mike Underwood.

Somewhere in 'thyme'

Fall is a busy time in this Clarkston garden

BY EILEEN OXLEY
Clarkston News Staff Writer

When you step into the 160-year-old house on E. Washington, it's not hard to guess what the owner's into.

On the walls are dried wreaths and arrangements. On the floor are bits of sage and artemisia. And in the air is the unmistakable fragrance of lavender.

But the back yard is where it all begins. A walk out there reveals a fairyland of herbs in all shapes, sizes and smells. Tall sprays of artemisia send out slim, green arms with little berries waiting to ripen. Clumps of mint — chocolate, pennyroyal, catnip — spring up behind the old shed. Along a winding, brick walkway are the parsley, sage, rosemary and thyme immortalized within "Scarborough Fair." And taking over the path that leads to the house is an herb aptly named — "creeping thyme."

"I want it to take over the path so you'll smell good when you walk over it," Judy McConnell, owner of this herb haven, says.

Herbs are what make McConnell's world go 'round. And it's not the fast-paced, modern world of today. It's more like the one several centuries ago. In fact, if you had called McConnell's home recently you would have gotten a message that went something like this:

"I'm not here right now ... Come join me in the Artemisia is a favorite. It's very prolific, seeding itself, and you must pick it at exactly the right time "or it will wilt," McConnell says.

16th century."

Currently McConnell is somewhere in thyme. And mint. She's selling her herbs, both decorative and culinary, at the Michigan Renaissance Festival as she has done for the past 13 or 14 years. Anyone who sees the familiar sign "Wenchworks" can stop and usually find McConnell there working on her creations.

"I sit on a bench all day and make stew wreaths out of culinary herbs — sage, tarragon, rosemary, parsley ..." McConnell named her business Wenchworks "because of the Renaissance Festival, of course. For those who aren't familiar, 'wench' comes from Old English and means a girl or young female servant. That seems to fit McConnell's old-world business.

Judy McConnell is surrounded by the ornamental wreaths she makes and sells at the Michigan Renaissance Festival. She grows most of the herbs in her own back yard.

"I have girls — little wenches — at the counters while I'm working," she quips.

In addition to the stew wreaths — so named because bits of herbs can be plucked off, crushed and plopped into stew pots, soups and turkey stuffing while they hang in the kitchen — McConnell's repertoire makes mouths water.

She makes Jezebel sauce, a hot, sweet sauce (hot and sweet like the legendary temptress herself, McConnell says) that tastes especially good on cream cheese and crackers. She also creates hot dill mustard, herbal vinegars and oils and mulling spices to use in cider and wine.

Her food products are exclusively sold at Rudy's. Years ago, Fred Schwarze, son of Rudy Schwarze who was Rudy's original owner, convinced her that she should sell her culinary items wholesale to gourmet food stores. She did that for awhile at places like the Merchant of Vino and on Mackinac Island. But later she decided it was too much work. After the Renaissance Festival is over, she'll take mail orders, she says.

McConnell also hopes to sell some of her food items to the Clarkston Union when it opens.

"Made in Clarkston ... That should be a selling point," she says.

But the food products are only secondary. McConnell says 80 percent of her products are decorative, even functional.

Besides using them in wreaths, the herbs she grows on her rambling property are made into pot-pourri, sachets, flea collars, lavender bags, balsam bags for sinus problems — even moth and bug repellent products.

"There are a lot of different natural bug repellents. I make a product called 'Moth Begone' out of wormwood and tansy."

Another herb, artemisia or "Sweet Annie," is a natural moth repellent which, like others, can be stuffed into little bags and hung in your closet to keep moths out of woolens. It's also very attractive in

Fall is for harvesting

If you don't grow your own herbs or everlasting plants, this is the time of year when they are plentiful at roadside stands, produce markets and at the Oakland County Farmers Market in Waterford.

But what to do with the freshly harvested, colorful but still moist bundles when you get them home?

Most plants to be used in decorations such as wreaths should be dried upside down so the ends of the stalks don't wilt and end up misshapen. Ideally this should be done in a warm, dry place so the plants don't mold.

To make decorations, separate large bundles of plant material and make smaller, shorter bundles. Tie securely with florist's wire or invisible fishing line and secure to a base of wire, twig or straw.

Many herbs, including basil, lose much of their fresh flavor when dried. Try freezing or infusing in vinegars or olive oil for a taste that is closer to the fresh herb.

However some herbs, such as sage and lavender, retain their flavor and scent admirably when dried. These can be combined into culinary wreaths, as described by McConnell, and hung in the kitchen where the cook can take a pinch and add it to stews and sauces for a touch of summer all winter long.

Michigan has its own bevy of covered bridges

State guide shows you where

You don't have to go to Madison County, Iowa to find a scenic covered bridge. There are some right here in Michigan.

According to the Michigan Travel Bureau, Michigan has four covered bridges. Their names and locations can be found in this year's fall travel guide, along with cider mills, apple orchards and fall color tours.

The book covers everything from the Upper Peninsula to the Lower, including maps of suggested fall color drives, the dates for peak color in different parts of the state and even comparisons of different types of leaves and what colors they turn.

The guide is available by calling 1-800-5432-YES. Travel advisors are also available to help plan fall vacations (8 a.m.-11 p.m., Monday-Friday, 8-5 weekends).

There is also a 24-hour fall color hotlines operating now. Call 1-800-MI-4-FALL for weekly updates on Michigan's autumn color, provided by AAA Michigan.

AAA estimates that 2.7 million Michiganiens will take a road trip to enjoy fall color this year. The color season accounts for about 15 percent of the state's $7 billion annual tourism industry.

"With 18 million acres of forest, nearly 700 golf courses, hundreds of miles of scenic byways and dozens of autumn harvest festivals, tourists have a multitude of options for enjoying one of our best seasons," said AAA Travel Agency Director Bill Best.

Michigan State University forestry professor Melvin Koelling said that despite the somewhat odd summer weather, fall color is right on target.

"Although we've had irregular precipitation and heat, there has been no adverse impact on the color so far," he said. "However, if high humidity and cloudy conditions continue into September, the color could be dulled or muted."

Keep gutters clean with new designs

Two new types of home gutters are on the market that promise to keep clogging a thing of the past.

A company out of Saginaw called LeafGuard has come out with a product it says is being greeted with enthusiasm by the public. They're so sure of it they sent out sample sections of it so editors could try it out at home. They guarantee you will never have to clean out your gutters again.

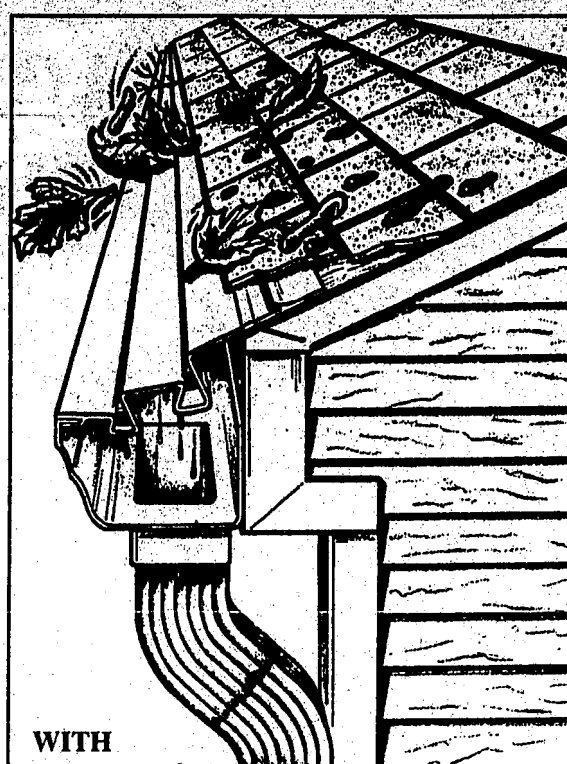

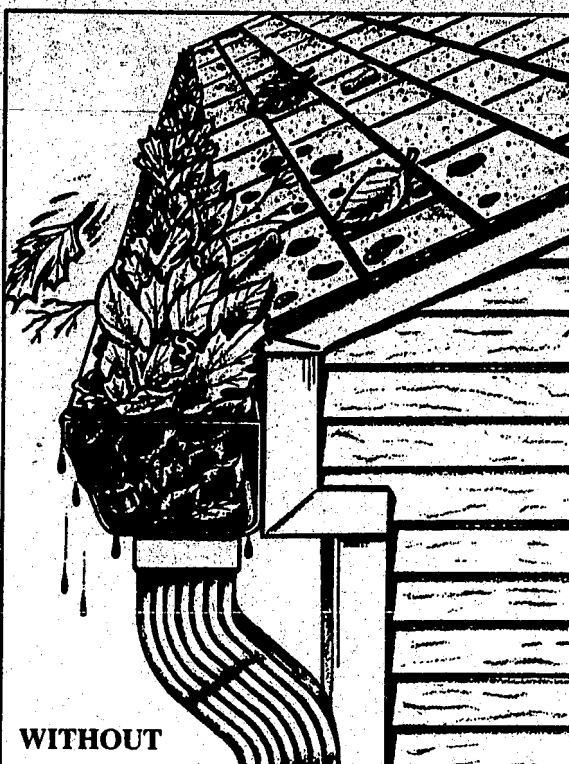

A gutter should, if it's working properly, channel rainwater runoff from the roof and direct it to downspouts and away from the house's foundation. This only works, however, if the gutters are kept free of any clogs.

Clogging from leaves and pine needles causes water to spill over or get behind the gutter, where it can damage the house itself.

With LeafGuard, surface adhesion makes water stick to the gutter and roll over the radius hood and into the gutter. At the same time, leaves and pine needles shed off and fall to the ground.

LeafGuard attaches directly to the fascia trim board of the house and won't damage roof shingles, company co-owners Cy Thomas, Wayne Patterson and Paul Zondlak say. The system is designed to be installed under a house roof's edge, ensuring it does not compromise the integrity of the roof.

Another system on the market which uses the principal of adhesion is the Gutter Guard. This is an ad-on to existing gutters that the do-it-yourselfer can install with the help of a hack saw or circular saw.

The Gutter Guard installs over the top of conventional gutters. It stops leaves and pine needles from entering but accepts rainwater via drain holes. Surface adhesion is said to force the debris from off the top of the guard. In many other systems, such as those employing screens or domes, the debris merely collects there and water can't make it into the gutter.

For more information on the plastic Gutter Guard, call 1-800-420-7246. For more information on the LeafGuard, which is made of metal with a 20-year finish warranty, call 1-800-727-2647.

Is it the flu or the flue?

Every year, winter ushers in flu season. However, the next time the flu strikes home, it may not be a virus. It could be carbon monoxide.

Carbon monoxide is called the great imitator. The symptoms of low-level exposure — headaches, dizziness and nausea — appear to be the flu. Between 3 and 5 percent of the patients who complained of flulike symptoms at the University of Illinois hospital emergency room in the winter of 1987 actually had carbon-monoxide poisoning, according to a study done there.

At high levels, carbon-monoxide poisoning can lead to brain damage, coma and death. An estimated 1,500 people die each year from carbon monoxide, while another 10,000 people seek medical attention, according to the Journal of the American Medical Association.

A number of medical studies show that patients with carbon-monoxide poisoning typically had family members at home who were suffering from similar flu-like symptoms.

Dr. Jerrold B. Leikin, the medical director of Rush Poison Control Center in Chicago, co-directed the University of Illinois study.

"Three percent to 5 percent is significant in an emergency room department. You're not only talking about the individuals who were included in the study, you're talking about the individuals at home who are only a little sick and don't seek treatment," Leikin says.

According to Leikin, carbon-monoxide poisoning presents a unique opportunity for medical treatment. When a doctor discovers carbon-monoxide poisoning in one person, that doctor can prevent illness in a whole family.

Carbon monoxide, which has no taste, odor or color, is a natural byproduct of combustion. It can accumulate in any home that has appliances powered by fossil fuels, including natural gas, oil, wood or kerosene. A car left running in an attached garage and burning charcoal are also sources of carbon monoxide.

Inadequate venting of appliances, a cracked furnace heat exchanger and even air pressure changes inside the home can cause carbon monoxide to build up. Building techniques that make homes more energy-efficient also can contribute to carbon-monoxide buildup. By eliminating the home's natural drafts to conserve energy, home builders unwittingly seal off many escape routes for accumulating carbon monoxide.

Leikin says too many people focus on the number of lives saved by carbon-monoxide detectors while overlooking the detector's other virtue — saving people from sickness.

"Lives are being saved, but more importantly, illnesses are being prevented," Leikin says. "There is quite a focus on mortality — carbon monoxide causing death. There also should be a focus on the illnesses that carbon monoxide causes and the patients who don't feel right in the winter due to carbon monoxide — the nausea, the vomiting, the flulike symptoms."

Early detection of carbon monoxide is the key to preventing illness and death. The Consumer Products Safety Commission recommends every home have at least one carbon-monoxide detector, installed near the bedrooms.

Now there is a carbon-monoxide detector from Installing a UL listed battery-operated carbon-monoxide detector can help protect against illness or death from carbon monoxide poisoning, the leading cause of poisoning deaths in America, according to the Journal of the American Medical Association. Unborn babies, infants, children, the elderly and anyone with cardiac or respiratory problems are at increased risk for this invisible, odorless killer.

First Alert, the leading manufacturer of home-safety products and the inventor of the smoke detector. It uses patented "Biomimetic" technology, which mimics the body's response to carbon monoxide. First Alert's carbon monoxide detector is the most sensitive type available and is the only battery-powered detector on the market, offering protection even during a power outage.

To help avoid potential indoor air-pollution problems, have a professional regularly check the home's flues, vents, chimneys and fuel-burning appliances to make sure they work properly. Also a battery-operated carbon-monoxide detector can help prevent the thousands of illnesses and deaths reported each year.

The science of fall

What makes leaves change color?

Weather conditions in early September largely determine the success of the fall color display. If there are bright sunny days and cool nights, a good show can be expected. Daylight length is also significant. Shorter days cause leaves to stop producing chlorophyll and lose their green color. Although rain is desirable, continuously cloudy weather is not since that would stop the sugar production that creates the brilliant red leaves.

How many species of trees are there and what colors do they turn?

In Michigan's 18 million acres of forests, there are close to 150 different species of trees. Some of the prettiest trees for color viewing are aspen, oak, maple, birch and sumac.

Greenfield Village perks up in fall

Henry Ford Museum & Greenfield Village is providing an innovative opportunity for travelers whose vacation plans may have withered with the season's record heat waves.

For those who want a relaxing getaway, the unique indoor/outdoor museum complex offers Fall Fling, a post-summer vacation filled with opportunities to celebrate the spirit of innovation in America.

Michigan's legendary fall foliage — and the chance to view it from a horse-drawn carriage or a hay wagon — is even more reason to plan an autumn excursion.

"Fall is really a magical time, especially in Greenfield Village," said Mary Lynn Heininger, head of visitor programs. "The summer crowds thin out, the light gets golden, and the leaves turn especially beautiful. There's fresh-pressed cider, and some wonderful special weekends for families to enjoy. Between the long hot summer and the bustle of the holidays it's a wonderful, refreshing time to visit."

While traversing Greenfield Village's tree-lined streets, visitors can explore the homes and workplaces of Thomas Edison, the Wright brothers, Noah Webster and Henry Ford. Everyday innovators from colonial times through the early 20th centuries also share their legacy of resourcefulness at a variety of rural and urban homes and workplaces.

The clip-clop of horses' hooves lends a nostalgic touch as carriage passengers get a narrated tour of Village highlights. Visitors can also see the sights from a steam-powered train, or enjoy the view while lounging on a bale of hay in the back of a horse-drawn wagon.

Beginning Sept. 20, it's crunch time at the historic cider mill and thousands of Michigan-grown apples have a pressing engagement with cider-making machinery. Visitors can taste the tangy results at the Village's bake shop through Oct. 15.

From Oct. 30 until Nov. 22, guided walking tours of selected homes and workplaces are offered Monday through Thursday, while all historic buildings are staffed by presenters and accessible for self-guided tours on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Indoors, Henry Ford Museum offers unparalleled views of American life with exhibits of transportation, agricultural and industrial artifacts, plus dazzling displays of silver, glassware and china.

New this year is the renowned exhibition, "The Motown Sound: The Music & The Story." Motown legends such as Smokey Robinson and Martha and the Vandellas of the 18th, 19th and early 20th centuries. Costumed presenters will be plowing fields with horses and oxen, and reaping the harvest with tools that chronicle America's agricultural history.

Eagle Tavern evening dining: This former stagecoach stop offers 1850s-style hospitality on selected evenings. Price $24.50 per person includes dinner, entertainment, tax and gratuity. For menu information and reservations, call 313-271-1620 and ask for the Reservations Center.

Greenfield Village evening hayrides: A horse-drawn wagon will transport travelers through Village streets at twilight. The journey concludes with cider and doughnuts in front of a welcoming fireplace. Friday and Saturday evenings, Sept. 15 through Oct. 14 plus Nov. 3-4. Timed departures every 30 minutes from 7 p.m. through 10 p.m.; adult tickets $10, children $7.

Fall Harvest Days — Sept. 29-Oct. 1:

Greenfield Village Fall Harvest Days will allow visitors to help bring in the crops in the style of early Americans Sept. 29-Oct. 1.

Guests can thresh wheat, plant winter crops, put up food for the winter, clear fields of rocks and hoe the soil, among other things. Power will be supplied by hands, horses, oxen and steam. In addition to showing how 19th century farmers managed a team of oxen, members of a volunteer group will discuss how they share their skills with farmers in developing countries.

Displays at various homes in the village will concentrate on different aspects of American history, including African-American farm families during the Depression and a Civil War-era plantation coping with food and labor shortages.

Members of the Greenfield Village Herb Society will be making potpourri from dried herbs grown at the village, and apples will be turned into everything from apple butter to cheese. There will also be food and many hands-on activities.

Admission to Greenfield Village is $12.50 for adults; $11.50 for senior citizens; $6.25 for kids 5-12. For more information call (313) 271-1976 (TDD 313-271-2455).

Apple cheese

1 lb. apples
1/2 pound sugar
1 egg white

Peel and core apples (or peaches, pears or damsons). Clarify the sugar by adding water and the beaten white of an egg, and stirring it and skimming it.

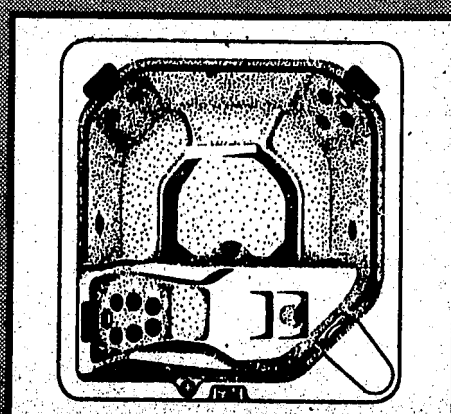

Boil the fruit in the syrup all day very slowly, mashing and stirring often till it is a thick smooth paste. If it has skins in it, it must be strained through a colander. Put it in buttered pans to cool. Then lay it in a cool, dry place. It can be cut in slices for the tea table.

Apple tea

Take good pippins (a tart, hard apple), slice them thin, pour on boiling water, and let it stand some time. Pour off the water, and sweeten and flavor it (with sugar and cinnamon).

Pot bulbs for forcing

Pots of blooming bulbs can brighten your home this winter if you plant bulbs now and give them a three-month cold treatment.

Crocus, hyacinth, tulip, daffodil and narcissus can all be grown and flowered indoors, says Mary McLellan, Master Gardener program coordinator at Michigan State University.

The requirements are minimal: a selection of high-quality bulbs, a well-drained potting medium, containers and a way to keep the bulbs cold without freezing, such as a cold frame, an unheated cellar or an old refrigerator.

Pots for forcing bulbs should be twice as deep as the bulbs to allow space for root development. Drainage holes in the bottom are a must.

Pot bulbs in a light growing medium, such as a commercially prepared peat-vermiculite mixture. Place a few pieces of broken clay pot or flat stones over the drainage holes to prevent the mixture from washing out the bottom. Then add the growing medium until the pot is about half full. To check the depth, set one of the bulbs on top of the medium — the tip of the bulb should reach the top edge of the container.

Place the bulbs in the pot and fill in around them, leaving the tips visible and adequate room for watering. Avoid pressing the bulbs into the soil — this may damage their bases and retard growth. Water thoroughly.

For a striking display, McLellan advises placing as many bulbs in the pot as the pot will hold without them touching one another or the edge of the pot. For a 6-inch pot, this generally means six tulips or daffodils, three hyacinths or about 15 crocus bulbs.

Label each pot with the type of bulb, the planting date and the projected date for bringing it out of the cold, and place the pots in cold storage (35 to 48 degrees F) for 13 to 14 weeks. During this period, the bulbs will develop extensive root systems. Keep pots covered or in complete darkness and water regularly.

At the end of that time, stems should be 2 to 3 inches tall and roots should be visible growing through the drainage holes or circling the inside of the pots. Bulbs not showing good root and shoot growth should be continued in the cold treatment for another week or two.

Transfer pots with bulbs that have developed roots and shoots to a cool, bright room (temperatures between 50 and 60 degrees F). Water regularly so the soil is moist at all times.

Flower buds will appear three to four weeks after the bulbs leave the cold-storage area. To extend the flowering period, keep the plants away from heat sources and out of hot or cold drafts, and move them into a cooler area at night.

When the bulbs bloom depends on a couple of things: whether they underwent any prechilling (cold storage before they were potted) and when you plant. County any time spent in cold storage before potting as part of the 13 weeks, McLellan notes.

Bulbs planted around Oct. 1 should flower in late January, McLellan says. Bulbs planted in mid-October should bloom in February, and those potted in mid-November should bloom in March or April. Flower buds that fail to open are usually a sign that the growing medium became too dry.

Another, easier way to force bulbs is to buy hyacinth or narcissus bulbs that have already had their cold treatment and grow them in hyacinth glasses or a bowl of pebbles. Often you can find them in kits at your local garden or hardware store or supermarket.

"This isn't much different from buying potted bulbs at the florist's shop or garden center," McLellan notes. "The novel aspect is that these bulbs grow in water."

Fall is a good time to fertilize your lawn

Cool weather and plenty of rain make fall a good time for vigorous growth by the cool-season lawn grasses used in Michigan. To provide the nutrients that growing plants need, turfgrass specialists advise homeowners to fertilize all types in the fall.

"Whether you have a minimal care lawn, a high-maintenance lawn or something in between, it will benefit from an application of nitrogen in early September," says Paul Rieke, Extension turfgrass specialist at Michigan State University.

Use a complete fertilizer such as 12-12-12 if a soil test shows your lawn needs potassium and phosphorous as well as nitrogen, Rieke advises. Use urea (45-0-0) or a complete fertilizer high in nitrogen, such as 20-5-10, if your lawn needs only nitrogen.

The higher the level of maintenance, the more fertilizer applied, Rieke notes. For minimal care lawns, he recommends 1/2-pound of actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet broadcast in early September and 1 pound per 1,000 square feet in early June. For low care lawns, increase the fall application to 1 pound. For medium care lawns, the prescription is 3/4 to 1 pound in early June, another pound in early September and another in late October or early November. For high care lawns, add 1/2 pound of actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet in July and August.

"High care lawns are irrigated regularly so they continue to grow all summer and so need nitrogen throughout the growing season," Rieke notes.

Fall fertilizing promotes good root growth and development and helps grass plants outcompete weeds such as dandelions, which germinate in the fall. In fact, keeping your lawn thick and vigorous is your best defense against weeds, Rieke says.

Sight rifles now, avoid wait at shooting range

Want to avoid waiting in a long line to sight your rifle as you prepare for deer season? Visit the shooting range at your local state recreation area now and avoid the crowds, advises Department of Natural Resources state recreation area staff.

"Typically, hunters sight their rifles in late October. This makes it an especially busy time at rifle ranges in Southeast Michigan, since nearly 20 percent of all resident hunters in the state live in this area," Mike Dashe, manager of the DNR's Pontiac Lake State Recreation Area Management Unit, said. "By coming out earlier, in late September or early October, hunters can sight their rifles and get off the ranges faster, often without having to wait in line."

There are three state recreation areas nearby that have rifle ranges to serve area hunters: Pontiac Lake, Bald Mountain and Ortonville recreation areas. A state park permit is required to enter at all locations.

Rex and Rose Fenstermaker take advantage of a beautiful late summer afternoon to prune an overgrown crab-apple tree in their Clarkston yard. The Fenstermakers have lived in the same house for 54 years. With three lots and lots of landscaping, fall is a busy time for this couple, who say they're keeping up pretty well, "for a couple of old people."

PIPELINE SAFETY:

Before you dig, find out if there's a pipeline in the vicinity. Look at your property plan or title report or call the One-Call notification center that most states have for owners and excavators to contact before they dig.

'Somewhere in thyme'

wreaths. Light, wispy and ethereal, it is similar to baby's breath. It's also McConnell's favorite herb and she grows lots of it in her back yard. You've got to know when to pick it, she says, or it will wilt.

"If you use really good soil with lots and lots of peat moss it will throw its seed and replant itself. It used to be that people never heard of it. I've told a lot of people over the years at the Renaissance Festival. It makes a great filler for a wreath or a flower arrangement. It doesn't lose its fragrance."

She thrusts an old wreath forward and, though the Sweet Annie twining through the arrangement is brown, it's aroma is still pungent.

"Smell this. See? It doesn't lose its fragrance," she says, triumphantly.

McConnell got started in her business years ago. An American Lit. teacher at Andover High School in Bloomfield Hills, she always loved gardening. But it wasn't until she was teaching some classes out at Greenfield Village that she met a woman she calls "my mentor."

"She's the one who got me started on herbs. I had always been involved in gardening so it wasn't much of a move from that into herb gardening."

Now, she claims, it's like an addiction.

"You know, it's like you get introduced to something like dill. Then you move into something else, then something else. Then you get MORE herbs..."

That's what happened when McConnell moved to Clarkston 10 years ago, after living in Birmingham, which didn't have the freedom for her somewhat bohemian spirit. Passing through frequently on her way to the Renaissance Festival, when it was located on the grounds of Columbiere College, McConnell parked and walked to the downtown bake shop one day.

"I said, 'My God, I'm home!'"

And the home she fell in love with on E. Washington was just right for a Renaissance woman. The backyard soon came alive with her fragrant friends.

McConnell chats about all the different varieties as she walks along the brick path. "It's the closest I'll ever get to a formal garden," she says, as she points to the different families. She doesn't like to grow a vast number of different herbs, but prefers to study varieties of the same plant instead.

"There's about a hundred varieties of mint. Ever have chocolate mint? Catnip is a kind of mint..." Her enthusiasm is contagious. So contagious that the listener might pick a whole bunch of the fragrant leaves and spend a day sampling homemade teas.

But that's the idea. McConnell wants to educate others about her passion. Someday, after she retires from her job at Andover, she'd like to teach the subject, perhaps within a community education program.

"Herbs. They're so wonderfully fragrant. What I want to do is teach people about fresh herbs. They buy these dumb little cans and glass bottles..." She sniffs at the half-dead substitutes in most people's cupboards.

A sundial stands at the center of her "formal" garden where the thyme patch is — a tongue-and-cheek comment about how she never has enough "thyme" or "time," as her children tell her. But apparently McConnell figures she has enough of it for her herbs.

"Herbs. That's the whole basis of me and my life."
